

A WORK CREW over the weekend repaired blast damage done to a railroad trestle at Blue River, just upstream from the junction of the David road and Caney Fork of Middle Creek. A dynamite blast splintered the wooden structure late Friday night.

A railroad supervisor speculated later that the blast may have been related to an industrial dispute at the Hiller Coal Co. preparation plant on Caney, where pickets are protesting the firing of a worker, whom they claim was let go on account of his efforts to unionize the plant.

Former Owners Of Floyd Mines Sue Purchasers

A deal that promised a couple of years ago to rejuvenate the coal mining industry on upper Left Beaver Creek has gone sour.

It was in January, 1981 that Bypro coal operators Vernon and Paul Bailey agreed to sell their well-known coal business to Inspiration Coal, a Knoxville-based firm, for $518,000.

Inspiration was a company on the move. At about the same time as it absorbed Bailey Mining, it bought the Sovereign-Pocahontas Coal Co., of Bluefield, West Virginia. A year later, it purchased Island Creek's Wheelwright mine and its preparation plant at Price.

The takeover by Inspiration—a subsidiary of the Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Co., of Toronto, and a firm with seemingly plentiful resources at its command—came amid talk of a rebirth of the Wheelwright-Weeksbury area as the county's premier coal mining center.

As far as the purchase of Bailey Mining is concerned, the dream has apparently faded. Vern Bailey, who continued after the takeover as president of Bailey Mining, was fired in March. Some $20,818 which the parent company agreed to give him in termination and accrued vacation pay has not been forthcoming, he says. And the company has

Squires' Powers Limited, Howell Says at Meeting

Five months after taking control of the county's finances, State Local Finance Officer Robert L. Purdom yesterday (Tuesday) loosened the purse strings a little. But many of the restrictions on county spending would be kept in place because "we don't have enough faith in you yet," said Al Howell, Purdom's field representative. And Howell delivered to the fiscal court another stern lecture on the limits on the magistrates' role.

The county may now pay its bills without his prior approval, Purdom wrote in a memo read to the court by Howell. But other curbs imposed by the state on February 28 this year will remain in effect.

This means that the county is still prohibited from borrowing money, employing any more people or raising anyone's salary without Purdom's approval.

What is more, magistrates are going to have to learn that they are powerless to act outside of fiscal court meetings, said Howell. It was the latest in several attacks made by the state adviser in the past 18 months on the time-honored tradition of magistrates more or less running their own districts.

"The fiscal court is a legislative body and it can only act as a body when it is in session," Howell read from a 1978 attorney-general's opinion. "When the meeting is adjourned and (the magistrates) begin to act as individuals outside of the meeting, they are simply out of business."

As a case in point, Howell turned to District 2 Magistrate Kenneth Roberts, whose district includes the Allen Park complex, and said, "You have been running the swimming pool. As of today, you are relieved of that duty."

Szakos Asks Review Of Coal Land Values

The assessed value of coal tracts owned by nine firms in this county is too low, a David man argued in a letter to the county court clerk last week. Joe Szakos formally requested a review of the property assessments made by Property Valuation Administrator Lovell Hall.

Szakos is a member of the Kentucky Fair Tax Coalition, an organization which has been pressing for two years for a steeper tax on unmined minerals. A similar request made by Szakos last year was turned down by the Floyd Board of Assessment Appeals and the local board's decision was later upheld by the state Board of Tax Appeals.

But Szakos said he has now remedied the "procedural deficiencies" cited last year as the reason for rejecting his request for a hearing.

The blanket assessment of $300 per acre used to fix the value of unmined coal here does not represent the coal's real worth and does not accord with the prices actually being paid in coal transactions in these parts, Szakos argued. Moreover, fixing a single figure for all coal tracts here does not meet constitutional standards for assessing mineral values, he said.

Assessments are supposed to be done on an acre-by-acre or tract-by-tract basis and should be supported by core drilling or other tests, he said. Szakos said the state Revenue Cabinet must bear responsibility for failing to provide local property valuation administrators with the technical services they need to do the job properly.

Szakos took advantage of the annual review period provided all citizens by law but his challenge differs from the norm in that he is not questioning the assessment on his own property.

The companies whose coal properties he says are assessed at less than fair cash value include Matewan Minerals (said to own 25,758 mineral acres here, with an assessed value of $7.7 million); Elkhorn Coal Corp. (25,728 acres, $7.7 million); Harkins Minerals (over 19,800 acres, $5 million); Island Creek Coal, 7447 acres, $2.2 million; CSX Minerals (6469 acres, $1.9 million); Pocahontas-Kentucky (1823 acres, $546,900); Bethlehem Mines (1610 acres, $483,000); Branham and Baker Coal (961 acres, $288,300); and Collins Mayo Collieries (875 acres, $262,500).

Tax reformers say that the effect on state revenues of artificially low assessments on coal holdings is worsening.

This Town...That World

"IT'S AN ILL WIND..."

Saturday afternoon's drouth-breaker rode in on a wind that hit close home for some of us. It wasn't any great shakes of a wind as winds go, but one minute the big weeping willow that has graced our backyard was twisting and swaying as it had in many the other storm; the next, it lay flat, uprooted. A big hole in the earth marked where it had stood.

The death of a tree is usually regretted by somebody. That feeling of loss at the passing of an old friend did not miss us. "The Drip Tree," one of the children had called it. Watching it sway in gentler winds, we sometimes thought of a hula dancer undulating to music so far away that only the tree could hear. In those days almost 30 years ago, when we first moved to the place, at a time when the lawn was mostly clay and rock, with neither grass nor flower, the big willow was just about the only redeeming feature of the landscape.

We were the losers, and we said as

Floyd Men Cited for Rescue Of Child from Flaming Car

HONORED FOR BRAVERY, the Rev. Dewey Conley, left, and Bobby Lee Hackworth flanked Deputy State Police Commissioner Morgan T. Elkins as he read the citation describing their roles in the rescue of a child from a flaming auto on Abbott Mountain last April.

The two men received the Meritorious Achievement Award, the highest civilian honor paid by the Kentucky State Police, during dedication ceremonies for the new state police barracks near Pikeville last Thursday.

Two Floyd men were cited for heroism last week, each of them receiving the Meritorious Achievement Award, the highest civilian honor paid by the Kentucky State Police. The men were recognized for their role in rescuing a child from a burning auto last April.

The Rev. Dewey Conley, 62, and Bobby Lee Hackworth, 45, received the awards during dedication ceremonies at the Pikeville state police post last Thursday. They were presented by Deputy Police Commissioner Morgan T. Elkins on behalf of General Billy G. Wellman, commissioner.

The two Abbott men, who were also named by the commissioner as honorary colonels and aides-de-camp, were each cited for "an act of selfless sacrifice and heroism, in keeping with the highest traditions of the Commonwealth of Kentucky."

The awards stemmed from an April 8 incident on Abbott Mountain, when a station wagon carrying four members of an Indiana family, struck in the rear by a bus-camper, burst into flames and toppled into a ditch. A five-year-old girl was trapped inside.

Floyd's Murder Rate Said High for State

Although the report on all counties was available to The Times this week, data included in the 1982 Uniform Crime Reports released by Kentucky state police indicates that Floyd county last year recorded the highest murder rate in the state and that Pike county may have been a close second.

Both were well above the state average for the year.

With nine murders in 1982—the same figure recorded for the preceding year—, this county approximated an average of 18 murders per 100,000 population, Pike county also had nine murders but its higher population brings its rate down to 11 per 100,000.

The state average was eight slayings per 100,000 population.

Officials here were unable to explain the high incidence of violence. Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen pointed out that prior to the 1981 upsurge in killings we went 17 months without a murder. It's hard to understand," he added.

Sheriff Henry C. Hale also admitted his inability to explain the situation. He pointed out that several recent slayings have been within families.

Officials here are concerned about the murder rate. They are also concerned about the fact that five of the slayings remain unsolved murder mysteries. The most recent death to be investigated as suspected murder is that of Mrs. Glenda Sharon Marshall, McDowell teacher, whose body was found in a burning auto that had plunged down Sizemore mountain.

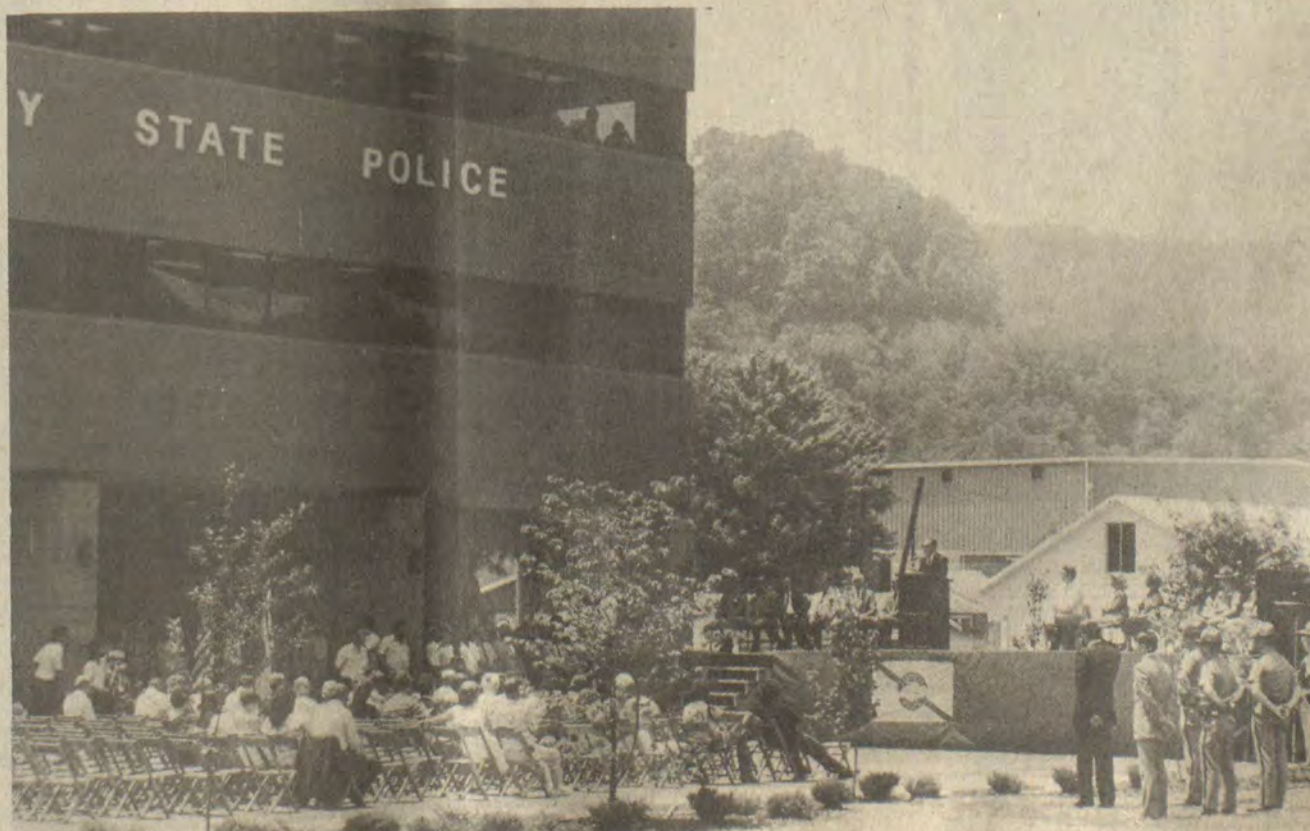

Among other counties of the Eastern Kentucky area, Carter, Elliott and Morgan reported no murders in 1982. Boyd had 1, Greenup 1, Johnson 2, Lawrence 2, Magoffin 4, Martin 2. (The report at hand does not include Letcher, Perry, Knott, Breathitt or Leslie.)

In other crimes last year, according to the report, this county did not fare so badly as in the murder classifications. Six cases of rape were reported, an increase of two over the preceding years; robbery, 12, up by 7; aggravated assault, 104, two less than in 1981; breaking and entering, 217, an increase of five; larceny, 284, down by 42; auto theft, 67, down by five from the preceding year.

By contrast, Boyd county had two rapes, 47 robberies, 136 aggravated assaults, 822 breaking and entering, 1285 larcenies and 119 auto thefts.

In the same categories Pike county had nine rape cases, 15 robberies, 81 cases of aggravated assault, 358 breaking and entering, 304 larcenies and 119 auto thefts.

THE CRAMPED QUARTERS of the old Post 9 barracks will soon be nothing but a bad memory for the 53 officers and 12 civilian workers who saw their new barracks opened and dedicated last Thursday. Many visitors clustered in shaded areas rather than sit under the scorching sun, while Deputy Police Commissioner Morgan T. Elkins, at podium, gave the keynote address.

State Police Cut Ribbon on New Barracks

In blistering heat last Thursday, several hundred people saw the new state police barracks near Pikeville officially opened and dedicated to the memory of 22 state troopers—four of them stationed at the Pikeville post—who have died in the line of duty.

Lt. Gov. Martha Layne Collins—acting governor during the illness of Gov. John Y. Brown, Jr.—cited statistics to demonstrate the efficiency of the state police force. Addressing the 53 officers and 12 civilians who staff Post 9 and who stood in formation to the side of the speakers' platform during the hour-long dedication ceremony, she said, "We're proud of you. We're proud of your service, your dedication."

State Sen. John Doug Hays, of Pikeville, describing his own role in securing the new barracks, recalled that he had successfully fended off a plan to relocate the post in Prestonsburg, which would be close to the geographical center of the five counties—Pike, Floyd, Magoffin, Johnson and Martin—served by Post 9. The existing site, Hays argued, is nearer to the area's "population center."

Others on the official platform included Morgan T. Elkins, deputy state police commissioner, his wife, Rose, and Capt. Gary W. Goins, Post 9 commander.

'Foot in Door,' Patton Terms Highway Plan

"I'm proud that at least we've got a foot in the door," said Ed Patton, manager of the Pikeville district office, state Department of Transportation, this week.

He referred to information gained from a new construction booklet issued by the department, indicating that design work on four-laning six miles of US 23 from Prestonsburg to the Floyd-Johnson line will begin in 1985.

The new information embraces a six-year highway program, which, under present law, must be approved by the Legislature.

If approved, the project could reach the construction stage by 1987 and could, conceivably, be moved up to an earlier beginning.

The project was recommended by Patton earlier this year when his office was asked to suggest a needed road improvement within a specified cost figure.

Four-lane construction from Catlettsburg to Paintsville has been completed or is under construction, and US 23 from Pikeville to Jenkins is in the same status. But until this week prospects of widening the two-lane route between Prestonsburg and Paintsville have been dim.

Heavy traffic between the two county-seats and dangerous, overhanging cliffs bordering the highway have been argued as reasons for new construction.

Estranged Pair Shot to Death

The shotgun deaths of two former Floyd countians last Friday morning near Piercetown, Ind. has been ruled murder-suicide.

Found dead in the living room of a mobile home were Jink Johnson, 41, construction worker and former coal miner, and his estranged wife, Thelma E. Yates Black, 46. Each had died of a single blast from a 20-gauge shotgun.

The Warsaw (Ind.) Times-Union quoted authorities as saying that Johnson had threatened to kill his wife if her proceedings for divorce became final. They had divorced after a marriage of 13 years.

Mrs. Black was born at Bonanza, a daughter of Eddie and Elzina Marshall Yates. She was first married to Donald M. Black. She was employed by a Warsaw rest home and was a member of the Free Will Baptist Church.

Stresses Parental Concern

By PAM EMBRY

A few years ago, a nationwide poll found out that two out of three parents believed lack of parental concern and attention are contributing factors to the decline in achievement test scores of school children.

Dr. Curits Englebright, head of Western Kentucky University's teacher education department, still agrees with the 1978 study.

"The key word is concern," he said. "I think all parents have concern for their children's achievement. It just becomes a matter of where that achievement falls on the parent's value system."

Englebright maintains a successful student is "one who has achieved at or near his potential, has a positive attitude toward learning, and is self-adjusted enough to interact with others."

To help their children achieve in school, Englebright suggests that parents:

—Accept the fact that the student is responsible for his own learning and that home and school both support his quest for knowledge and information skills.

—Regulate the child's responsibilities for learning as equally as those of his future responsibilities inherent in seeking gainful employment (such as being on time, being at attention and being prepared).

—Serve as a model in being open to new ideas and new information in his own reading, in regard for book learning and in his regard for educators and education as a whole.

—Support the school, its policies and its personnel. "Any exceptions or objections to any aspect should be handled in a professional way, preferably without involving the child directly," he said.

—See that the child goes to school each day in a healthy mental state;

—Structure after school hours so that time is allocated to homework and other school preparation; and

—Devote a portion of time each day, however small, to a discussion of the child's school experiences for that day.

Englebright says a child's need for parental concern increases as he progresses from grade school to college. "Parents tend to drop out of the area of academic decisions as the child reaches the secondary school level," he says.

"Parental concern has to begin at an early level, however; it has to be something that develops," he says.

Englebright says parental guidance in academic decisions becomes difficult at the college level because of distance, but that the "severe percentage" of college freshman drop-outs is due "partly to the lack of proper guidance parents could provide...but so often don't."

Parents readily accept the responsibility to provide for a child's physical needs, but a parent is equally responsible to provide for a child's all-important spiritual and mental needs as well, says Englebright.

ROLE OF THE CLERGY AT TIME OF DEATH.

The minister, priest, or rabbi can help greatly in properly consoling and assisting the bereaved—if he is contacted early after the death of the loved one. He can define the differences between the physical (body of the deceased) and the soul (spirit of the deceased). He can further ease the family through the first steps of the grief process.

It is far healthier, emotionally, to allow the minister to help the family work through their grief openly than to permit their sadness to be repressed or concealed.

Clergymen have been trained to assist in times of stress. Their experiences through study and from real life-and-death situations make them invaluable to you—and us. Their many sources of comfort and aid, especially in grief-counseling, can be very beneficial. They are especially anxious to serve their congregations at such times. They would also like to be contacted early so they can be of assistance as soon as it is possible for them to do so.

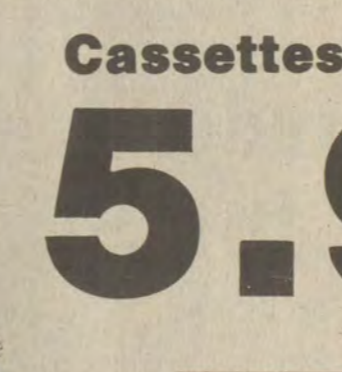

We welcome your questions—in private or publicly through this column.

Now You Can Buy Your Bell Phone

Buying a telephone isn't new. Buying your South Central Bell phone is.

The Kentucky Public Service Commission has approved a Bell proposal that home and single-line business customers have the option to buy their leased phones. Bell is offering in-place phones at reduced prices through September 27.

"We're glad this choice is now available in Kentucky," said Art Willett, manager for Bell. "Many folks have said they'd like to buy their leased phones. Now they can, if they want to."

Willett said there are two ways to buy your phone:

A toll-free call—home customers call 1-800-626-1700, from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.; business customers call 1-800-282-8883 from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

A mail-in coupon—coupons and price lists will be sent with coming phone bills.

"Buying your phone cuts your monthly bills," Willett said, "because set leasing fees no longer apply. But no one has to buy their phone—it's an option."

The Rev. Conley fought through the flames to rescue the child, who was burned over most of her body. Hackworth meanwhile played a fire extinguisher on the scene and, after Conley carried the little girl to safety, searched the blazing wreck in case anyone else was trapped. The minister himself was burned on his hands and arms.

Conley, who is pastor of the Cliff Free Will Baptist Church, teaches heavy equipment maintenance and operation at Mayo State Vocational School. He has kept in touch with the family involved in the fiery wreck—Mr. and Mrs. Birchell Hicks and daughters Angie, 13, and Nancy, 5—and his church has helped them settle here, he said.

"God forbid that I should ever boast," he said of last week's honor, "but it does give you a little boost." Hackworth is a 20-year employee of Music-Carter-Hughes auto dealership. A wrecker driver, he was recovering a vehicle which had run off the road earlier when the Hicks' wagon was struck by the camper. "I've seen plenty of wrecks," he said this week, "but never anything like that. Getting that little kid out was the only thing I thought about."

Nancy Hicks, the five-year-old who nearly perished in the wreck, spent two months in the burns unit at Kosair-Children's Hospital in Louisville, where she underwent extensive skin grafting. She must still wear special clothing designed to protect her against infection but is reported to be again able to "ride her Big Wheel."

ed by a tax rate which is so low as to make it not worth collecting. At the current rate of one-tenth of one cent per $100 valuation, the property tax bill on Matewan Minerals' 25,758 acres, at its current assessed value, is only $77.27.

The Kentucky Fair Tax Coalition has argued that minerals should be taxed at the same rate as surface property, currently 59 cents per $100 valuation in this county.

Requests by the coalition for a review of the assessment process were rejected last year in Martin county as well as Floyd. In both instances the state appeals board backed the decisions of the local board. The coalition has taken the Martin county case to Martin Circuit Court and Szakos said action on the Floyd case will be initiated soon in circuit court here.

On July 8 this year, the Letcher County Assessment and Appeals Board rejected an appeal by Herbie Smith, a member of the coalition, to increase the assessed value of surface and mineral property held in that county by the Kentucky River Coal Co.

A few days earlier, the attorney-general's office affirmed the state Revenue Cabinet's refusal to make available to the coalition records having to do with the feasibility of an unmined minerals tax. The information had been sought by Szakos, who is a staff coordinator for the organization.

Stumbo Says Loans Personal and Legal

Dr. Grady Stumbo argues that the $300,000 which he borrowed from two individuals for the financing of his gubernatorial campaign, shortly before the May primary election, was on bonafide loan, was not a gift or contribution, and that there was no violation of state election law involved.

Stumbo last week revealed the sources of that financing. He borrowed $200,000 from B.F. Reed, retired Drift coal operator, and $100,000 from Howard Norrell, Frankfort television cable service owner.

The Reed loan, he said, was secured by Stumbo's interest in Hamilton Mercantile, Inc., which is located at Mousie, in Knott county. The $100,000 from Norrell, made on two notes of $50,000 each, was secured by the candidate's interest in an office building and by shares in a trucking company.

The loans bear no interest but all three are due next month. The lenders may grant a year of grace on the notes.

But if they do not, Dr. Stumbo said, "it's clear that I will be without everything other than my 1976 Volare, my 1979 Jeep and my home." The loans cannot be forgiven, he added.

Of jeopardizing his possessions, he remarked, "That was the decision I made when the attorneys asked if I was willing to put up that collateral. There was no other legal way to do it."

But there are those who interpret state law as defining a campaign loan as a contribution and imposing a limit of $3000 on the amount an individual may give a candidate. Stumbo maintains that both his attorney and accountant advised him that the loans were legal.

He acknowledged that if his arrangement had permitted the loans to be forgiven, it would have been in violation of the law. "But I think," he said, "a privately negotiated loan that is enforced—the advice that I got was that it's legal."

He said he rejected another financing plan which would have organized a political action committee that might have poured funds into his campaign. He turned it down, he said, because he felt it "was clearly in violation of the law."

State Rep. Gregory Stumbo, attorney for Dr. Stumbo, insisted that there has been no violation of the law. "Once a candidate has established a campaign committee, he can't spend a nickel on his campaign. Everything goes through the committee. But the Registry of Election Finance has in the past permitted the candidate to handle his own private transactions, which permitted him to borrow money as a private individual and then loan it to the campaign committee to carry on the expenses of the campaign. Harvey Sloane did it in 1979. He, Brashear, Adkins, others did it this time."

"Why all the furor now about Stumbo?" he was asked.

"You tell me," he replied.

The Registry will meet today (Wednesday) on the issue.

Dr. Stumbo said his primary reason for not disclosing the source of the loans involved an agreement he made with Reed and Norrell.

"I've been quiet to this point because of both of the people's desire not to become embroiled in a public kind of thing. They've now said, 'Go ahead and say it.'"

Stumbo said his family had known the Reeds for many years. And Reed had employed Stumbo's father at the Turner-Elkhorn Mining Co.

Reed, 85, said last week that he was concerned about Stumbo's money shortage toward the end of the campaign.

"I was concerned when things sort of got down to the wire. A lack of funds is very injurious," Reed said.

"I have security for the loan...I can't see how anybody could fuss about making that loan. It's a loan between Grady and me and had nothing to do with politics. I never asked him for any favors...and I don't expect any."

Reed said he first met Stumbo about four years ago when Stumbo came to his home to treat him for an illness.

"My problems were not bad and he gave me a cure and didn't give me a bill. So I made a contribution to his clinic (East Kentucky Health Services in Hindman) about a week after that."

He said he then followed Stumbo's career and heard good reports about his performance as secretary of the Human Resources Cabinet.

That "made me feel good, because I live in East Kentucky and I like to see good results from East Kentucky."

When Stumbo decided to run for governor, Reed was among the first people contacted for financial help and he contributed $3,000.

At an early campaign meeting at Jenny Wiley State Park, Reed said he discussed "the fact that it was 25 years since we had a governor from East Kentucky. That was Bert Combs...I thought he was an excellent governor and I would like to see another governor from East Kentucky."

Reed said he had not revealed his loan to Stumbo before because he considered it a personal matter.

The Floyd County Times

Jobless Rate Edges Down, Mining Area Yet Highest

Eighty-seven Kentucky counties reported a drop in the unemployment rate from April to May as the state's jobless rate declined for the third consecutive month. The rate in 25 counties was up from April while in eight counties it was unchanged, according to figures released by the Cabinet for Human Resources.

Fifty-one of the state's 120 counties reported unemployment rates below 10.0 percent in May, compared to 36 in April. The state reported a 10.6 percent preliminary unemployment rate for May, compared to 11.1 percent for April. The national jobless rate for May was a nonseasonally adjusted 9.8 percent.

Letcher county reported the state's highest unemployment rate, 33.5 percent, which was down from a revised April rate of 34.9 percent. Woodford county's 3.9 percent unemployment rate was the lowest, down from a revised April rate of 4.5 percent. Only two other counties reported unemployment rates below 5.0 percent. They were Fayette, with 4.7 percent, and Bourbon, with 4.9 percent.

Kentucky's civilian labor force declined from 1,654,865 in April to 1,648,141 in May, a drop of 6,724. The civilian labor force includes only non-military persons currently employed and unemployed people actively seeking jobs.

The number of Kentuckians employed in May was estimated to be 1,471,725, an increase of 1,801 from April. The increase is attributed to continuing improvement in the state's overall economy.

The number of unemployed Kentuckians was estimated to be 175,416, a decrease of 8,525 from April.

The monthly sample of the district's unemployment insurance benefits recipients indicated 30 percent had worked in construction, 28.4 percent in manufacturing and 11.3 percent in services and trade.

Big Sandy District

The unemployment rate in the Big Sandy district inched downward from 17.4 percent in April to 17.3 percent in May. All five counties in the district reported a double-digit unemployment rate. Martin county had the lowest, 10.2 percent, and Pike had the highest, 19.0 percent. Floyd county's rate was 18.8; Johnson, 13.9; Magoffin, 17.5.

The monthly sample of those in the district who are receiving unemployment insurance benefits showed 65.2 percent had worked in mining, 9.2 percent in construction and 7.8 percent in trade.

The Kentucky River district's unemployment rate decreased from 20.6 percent in April to 20.0 percent in May. All eight counties reported an unemployment rate above 10.0 percent. Breathitt county reported the lowest, 11.5 percent. Letcher county had the highest in the district and the state, 33.5 percent.

The monthly sample of the district's unemployment insurance benefits recipients indicated 55.4 percent had been employed in mining, 12.3 percent in construction and 9.7 percent in services.

Brain Injuries May Go Unnoticed

By Christa U. Muckenhausen, M.D.
Adult and Child Neurologist

While a Karen Quinlan case makes people more aware of major head injuries, minor head injuries resulting from auto accidents, on-the-job accidents, or sports accidents may go unnoticed.

Just because a person suffered no skull fracture or did not lose consciousness in the accident, it does not follow that there are no problems needing professional care.

A person may notice changes in their attention span or ability to concentrate; loss of memory; trouble with calculations; difficulty in finding the right word or pronouncing it correctly; problems in judging space and distance; or difficulty in sleeping.

They may act more impulsively, get irritable more often, or have greater difficulty coping with stress.

If a child has been shaken violently by an angry adult, learning and behavioral disorders may show up later.

In all of these cases, a complete neurological examination and detailed testing should be done early. Intellectual and emotional changes, it will often be discovered, are not due to changes in intelligence or attitude but to brain injuries.

If they are not taken care of promptly, these injuries may lead to continued poor performance, loss of self-esteem, depression, anxiety and a disruption of a person's social interaction.

It is estimated that more than 700,000 persons annually suffer from these less obvious brain injuries. Few of them will be diagnosed early enough to prevent further deterioration.

Ginseng Registration Issued

Ginseng dealers who buy the wild, aromatic root in Kentucky are now receiving their registration papers for the 1983 selling season. "Each dealer must apply annually with the state Department of Agriculture for this registration," said Agriculture Commissioner Alben W. Barkley II. "Digging season for ginseng begins August 15 and runs through November 30. The roots can be bought and sold from August 15 through March of next year on this new registration." In 1982, the Kentucky General Assembly passed a law which requires all dealers to be registered with the department and to keep records of the ginseng they buy and sell. This information includes the month the root was harvested, in what county it was dug and how much the roots weighed. The law meets minimum federal requirements to help maintain control over the exploitation of American wild ginseng. This species of ginseng has been classified as potentially endangered.

The state law has established such a good program, Barkley added, that Kentucky is one of only six states in the ginseng growing area which has been granted a three-year regulation period by the federal government.

According to statistics compiled by the U.S. Department of the Interior's Fish & Wildlife Service, Kentucky is the world's largest producer of wild ginseng. Wild ginseng, highly valued in the Orient for its medicinal properties, commands a price nearly double that of ginseng which has been cultivated. In 1982, wild ginseng brought about $120 per pound.

Last year, Kentucky dealers reported buying 17,500 pounds of the wild root in 16,224 separate transactions for a total of a little more than $2.1 million.

The top three ginseng producing counties are Pike, with 1,300 pounds harvested; Bell, with 790 pounds, and Harlan, with 730 pounds. Researchers from the University of Kentucky have documented wild ginseng growth in 106 of the state's 120 counties, Barkley said.

In addition to the regulation of dealers, the recently passed Kentucky law requires harvesters to plant any seeds found on a plant within 50 feet of where the plant is dug. The harvester is to use no cultivation tools, just his or her fingers, to place the seed in the ground.

"Because of the high price these roots can bring, there is a potential problem that the plants will be used up," said Barkley. "This law helps the plants continue reproducing and keeps them from becoming extinct."

Ginseng dealers who have not registered with the state Department of Agriculture should contact the Division of Market Development, Kentucky Department of Agriculture, 7th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Jenny Wiley Theatre Expects 250,000th at Tonight's Show

A milestone in the cultural and entertainment history of Eastern Kentucky will be tonight (Wednesday) as the 250,000th person attends a production at the Jenny Wiley Theatre.

"After 19 years of continuous production, it is a great step for the theatre," said William G. Francis, president of the board of trustees of the Jenny Wiley Drama Association.

Prior to the performance, a special presentation of a lifetime pass to the theatre for the 250,000th patron and his or her immediate family will be made. In addition, a prize package of gift certificates provided by Cox's of Prestonsburg, the Francis Stores, B F Casual Shop, Castle's Jewelry, Clyde B. Burchett, Jeweler and Watchmaker, the Peggy Lou Shop of Prestonsburg; and Allen's Florist will be awarded to the lucky audience member.

"The arrival of our 250,000th patron completes the beginning of a new era at the theatre," said Managing Director John McCann. "It started with the completion of $61,000 worth of renovations to the theatre and the acquisition of the rights to ANNIE, and has continued with attendance setting a new record here, and is now complete with the 250,000th playgoer," he added.

THE ROBBER BRIDEGROOM, a fun-filled romp through a bluegrass tall tale, will be the Wednesday evening attraction. THE ROBBER BRIDEGROOM is the 51st play produced in 19 years by Eastern Kentucky's only professional repertory theatre. These 51 plays range from the 1940's show, ANYTHING GOES, to ANNIE and include such classics as SOUTH PACIFIC, THE SOUND OF MUSIC, HELLO DOLLY, OKLAHOMA!, FIDDLER ON THE ROOF, and this year's GREASE.

The current season runs each Wednesday through Sunday night until August 21 with all plays now in the repertory, including ANNIE, the award-winning family musical based on the Little Orphan Annie comic strip; GREASE, the smash about the fifties that is the

Parenthood? Issues Aired In TV Special

Parenthood is the predominant question in the minds of many couples now in their 30's. "A Baby, Maybe," airing Friday, August 19, at 9:00 p.m., focuses on two such couples, Don and Donna Lawson of Austin, Texas, and Cy and Gail Cywinski of Minneapolis, and the issues they confronted when making their decisions.

Throughout the country, married couples who have postponed having children to establish careers or to get a firm financial footing are approaching decision time. Many of the couples are part of the post World War II baby boom. For some of them the decision "to be or not to be a parent" represents the first irrevocable life choice they have had to make.

"A Baby, Maybe" is a production of KUHT-TV, Houston.

HOUSEGUESTS HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bierman and daughter Katie, of Louisville, were the houseguests here during the weekend of Mr. and Mrs. E.L. Bierman. Other Sunday dinner guests during that time were Mrs. Lois Gillispie, of Hager Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bingham and children, Aaron and Shonna, of the Auxier road, and Ceresa, Ledra and Robert Bierman, of Somerset.

New Church Dedication Slated

Interior of new church sanctuary.

Less than two years ago—on Dec. 10, 1981—the 72-year-old frame building that was the Hueysville Church of Christ burned to the ground. There was no insurance. The congregation was far from wealthy. Prospects of a new church were dim.

Last Sunday, the new church building—a 130 by 40-foot brick, with carpeting, baptistry, all modern appointments—opened for its first worship service.

Between those two dates approximately $90,000 had been spent on new construction—and the only debt remaining is $5000.

"It's the old story of people moving out on faith," commented one who saw the phoenix-like rise of the new structure. Cash contributions came in not only from the congregation but from many outside the church. Labor, led by church leaders, involved not only members but some who were without church connection. Two other churches sent groups of workmen to help.

"There were times when we were without money, but each time an unexpected $1000 would come in," one said.

The new church stands on the site of the original building. Its air-conditioned sanctuary has a capacity of about 250. It has four Sunday school rooms, a pastor's study and a large youth meeting room which can be used for two additional classrooms.

The new church will be dedicated by the pastor, Cecil Sherman, of Van Lear, and the congregation at 2 p.m. next Sunday. The public is invited to attend.

We'd better find a formula to solve this unbalanced equation, warns the August Reader's Digest. In the Soviet Union, five million high school students study calculus for two years, while only 250,000 United States students study it for one year. Japan graduates almost one third more engineers than we do, with about half our population.

Miss Hicks, Mr. Harrell Wed

The marriage of Miss Mary Beth Hicks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hicks, of Roann, Indiana, to Mr. David Allen Harrell, son of Mrs. Elizabeth A. Harrell, and Mr. Lowell K. Harrell, of Wabash, Ind., was solemnized in a double-ring ceremony at the Bachelor Creek Church of Christ in Wabash, Indiana, June 18. The candlelight ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. David Stokes.

Organist, Mrs. Robin Merrick, and vocalists, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Wertenberger, presented selections of wedding music.

The bride's gown of white knit was styled with a Queen Anne neckline edged in Venise lace and long, full sleeves with Venise lace accents at the cuffs. The A-line skirt which flowed from an empire waistline was edged in matching lace as was the cathedral-length train. Her waltz-length illusion veil was secured by a matching lace and pearl encrusted cap, and the bridal bouquet was a cascade of white silk carnations, pink miniature carnations and roses with pink Angel lace and picot ribbon streamers and white ribbon.

Maid of honor was Sandra Sturgill, of Roann, Ind., and bridesmaid was Pamela Hicks, cousin of the bride, of Wabash, Ind. Both wore gowns of white organza with pink and blue floral design and carried silk nosegays of pink miniature carnations, sweetheart roses, white carnations with pink and white picot ribbon streamers.

Kelli Goff, niece of the groom, was flower girl.

Best man was Randall Knotts, of Wabash, Ind., and Brian Harrell, of Wabash, brother of the groom, was groomsman. Ushers were Steven Hicks, brother of the bride and Terry Harrell, brother of the groom. For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hicks chose a light blue dress with matching jacket, and the groom's mother wore a light pink pin dotted dress. Both wore corsages of white carnations and pink roses.

Approximately 150 guests were received in the Church Fellowship hall following the ceremony. Assisting with the reception were Mrs. Marcia Goff, sister of the groom, Mrs. Dawn Hicks, aunt of the bride, and Cheri Hicks, the bride's cousin.

The newlyweds are both graduates of Northfield High School and earned certificates from the Upper Wabash Vocational School. The bride is employed by General Community Wabash, Division of Marion Independent Federal Credit Union, and the groom is employed by Snavely's Machine Shop in Wabash.

They are now residing in Wabash, Indiana.

The bride is the granddaughter of Norman Hicks, of Wabash, Ind., formerly of David, and of the late Sadie Hicks. Her paternal grandparents were the late Bud and Elizabeth Hicks, of Pyramid.

Women's Health Fair Slated August 1-6

There is a lot of mystery about breast cancer. While it is not the most common killer disease among women (heart disease is the No. 1 killer), it is the most common cancer killer and the leading cause of death of all women age 37 to 55.

Breast cancer is not caused by childbirth, or nursing, nor by blows, bites or bruises. It cannot be caught from another person like an infection. Then what does cause it? Scientists believe that many factors are involved—factors such as diet, lifestyle, and heredity (you are more susceptible to it if a close relative has had it); age at which a woman bears her first child seems to also be involved (the later, the higher the risk of breast cancer).

What can you do to help protect yourself against breast cancer? There are simple, practical ways that you can safeguard yourself. Regular checkups plus breast self-examination can detect cancer early, for better, more effective treatment. Over 95% of breast lumps are found by women themselves. Therefore, learning the proper technique of self-examination and practicing it monthly are crucial to detect the warning signs as early as possible.

If you would like to learn more about the warning signs of cancer, and how you can make the difference in controlling it, come to the FREE WOMEN'S HEALTH FAIR sponsored by the Appalachian Women's Health Network during the first week of August. Many local groups will be participating. Early cancer detection tests and other medical screenings will be provided free of charge.

Medical examiners from Vanderbilt University will provide thorough gynecological examinations with the assistance of local doctors and nurses. There will be the chance for you to discuss any personal health problems you may be concerned about in a confidential, relaxed setting. Free onsite daycare will be provided. Appointments are necessary. Call 378-5180 for Homeplace appointments; 398-7141 for Buckhorn appointments; and 672-2138 for Mary Breckinridge Hospital appointments.

Women's Health Fair Schedule: Monday, August 1, 9-3, Homeplace Clinic; Tuesday, Aug. 2, 9-3, Homeplace Clinic; Wednesday, Aug. 3, 12-8, Homeplace Clinic; Thursday, Aug. 4, 9-3, Homeplace Clinic; Friday, Aug. 5, 10-4, Buckhorn Church; Saturday, Aug. 6, 10-4, Mary Breckinridge Hospital.

Myers To Keynote Conservation Meet

Peter C. Myers, chief of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service, will be the keynote speaker for the 40th annual convention of the Kentucky Association of Conservation Districts, meeting in Owensboro Aug. 8-9.

Myers will speak at 11 a.m. on Monday, Aug. 8.

Myers' address to the 500 delegates expected at the convention will be followed by addresses by Eugene Stuart, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, and Senator Walter "Dee" Huddleston.

Afternoon sessions on Monday will feature discussions on financing conservation district programs and the state Water Management Task Force.

Adult women returning to the labor force have provided a large share of labor force growth and are expected to constitute an even larger share in the future, according to "Women at Work: A Chartbook," published by the U.S. Department of Labor.

STORM AFTERMATH...A weeping willow, some 60 feet in height, was one of the more dramatic casualties of a storm, Saturday afternoon, which littered yards and roadways with broken branches and small trees. The thunderstorm, accompanied by powerful wind, was one of several afternoon storms which last week had lights flickering all over the county. The uprooted willow was downed in a Prestonsburg lawn.

There's been a switch in office procedure these days at the Oak Park Mall medical clinic in Overland Park, Kansas. Instead of the doctor's wearing a beeper, it's the patient. According to the August Reader's Digest, patients can shop the mall at leisure, and when the beeper sounds, they know that the doctor will see them in ten minutes.

Hospital Staffs Recognized By Jewish Hospital SKYCARE

Highlands Regional Medical Center in Prestonsburg and Our Lady of the Hospital, Martin, were awarded Jewish Hospital SKYCARE Certificates of Merit, July 20, in recognition of outstanding service and cooperation by the staffs of the two hospitals in assisting Kentucky's first air ambulance service. "SKYCARE's success is dependent on the people who request our services," said SKYCARE Chief Flight Nurse Jan Roby. "That's why we want to recognize the individuals who care for the patient first, and call on SKYCARE for assistance."

Jewish Hospital SKYCARE celebrated its first year anniversary this month. SKYCARE carried 432 patients in its first year of service. These patients were transported to 45 hospitals in a six state area, with Jewish Hospital receiving about 40 percent of the patients. The helicopter provides rapid transportation for critically ill or injured patients within a 180-mile radius of Louisville. The area includes hospitals in six states: Kentucky, Indiana, Tennessee, West Virginia, Ohio and Illinois.

SKYCARE service is available 24 hours a day. It can be requested by personal, community and hospital physicians, state or local law enforcement agencies, ambulance and emergency medical services, industrial nurses, fire departments and other designated emergency authorities. It cannot be requested by private citizens.

The helicopter carries a crew of three: a flight nurse, paramedic and pilot, in addition to two patients.

At Jenny Wiley Theatre . . .
Special Performances, Gifts For 250,000th Playgoer Set

Two special performances of the bluegrass fantasy, THE ROBBER BRIDE-GROOM, highlight this week's offerings at the Jenny Wiley Theatre. Tonight (Wednesday) the 250,000th playgoer in the 19-year history of the theatre will pass through the gates. On Friday, July 29, a concert by Dick and Anne Albin, husband and wife music and comedy team, will precede the play performance.

The 250,000th playgoer will receive as a token of the theatre's appreciation, a lifetime pass to the theatre for his or her immediate family, one dozen roses from Allen's Florist, and a package of gift certificates from Cox's of Prestonsburg, the Francis Stores, B F Casual Shop, Castle's Jewelry, Clyde B. Burchett, Jeweler and Watchmaker and the Peggy Lou Shop of Prestonsburg. The 250,000th playgoer will be greeted as he or she enters the theatre, and will be honored in a short ceremony immediately preceding the performance.

Dick and Anne Albin will perform Friday's free concert at May Lodge, from 7 to 8 p.m. Each person attending the concert will receive a coupon good for half-price admission to THE ROBBER BRIDE-GROOM at 8:30. The Albins feature fine "oldtime" mountain music, ballads, frailer banjo tunes, stories and songs. They have represented Kentucky at the National Folk Festival, hosted their own TV show, and toured the nation.

Parents may find some material in THE ROBBER BRIDE-GROOM unsuitable for younger children. For reservations and information about group and individual tickets, call the box office at 886-9274.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Buster Jeffrey Isaac wishes to write this card of thanks hoping that we don't leave anyone unthanked; if we do, please accept our apologies.

First of all, we wish to thank the Rescue Squad from Prestonsburg for its offer to assist, the Southeast Fire Dept., The Left Beaver Ambulance, Mike Goings for giving the batteries, Beaver Johnson, the people of Golf Course Hollow, those volunteers who went to Hall Hollow, Wheelwright and Weeksbury to search for Jeffrey and Tony. Also we want to thank Lois and Evia Faye for cleaning the house before and after the funeral, Charles and Gordon for the use of their phones, all my aunts and uncles (too numerous to name) for being with us and for being so helpful; Marion Sue and Phyllis, for helping me, the rest of my cousins and friends who helped in any way and stood by us in our time of need, and sat up at the church. Those of you who sent flowers, prepared hot meals, donated money, said prayers or offered comfort were greatly appreciated.

Thanks to Clyde Isaac, Gary Isaac, Phil Mitchell, Raffee Mullins, Randy Holbrook, Jeff Derossset, Vernon Tackett, Bobby Jones, Russell-Isaac, Tivis Caudill, and Homer Johnson and Doyle Branham and all the others for finding the boys.

Special thanks to Rosemary Isaac for her choice in clothing, which meant a lot to me and which was impossible for me to do at the time.

Thanks to Jeffrey's uncle Tony for staying by his side until the boys were found. I'll always love you, Tony. To Mark Isaac for giving me personal belongings that Jeffrey had, and Ellis Holbrook for holding my hand and comforting me during the funeral, the Joppa Church and the ministers, the pallbearers, the Merion Funeral Chapel, and the Highlands Regional Medical Center (midnight, and second and third floors.

Special thanks also to the Jones family for their comforting words, even though there was a death in their own family, to Jessie who sat by me every step of the way; I couldn't have made it without you.

No one knows the heartbreak of losing a child unless they experience it themselves it's a comfort to know you have family and friends who will stand by you in your pain and sorrow. May God be with you all, and you'll always remain in my heart.

Sadly missed by his MOTHER, BRIAN, KRISTIE and KENNY JOE

SERVE CHICKEN COLD
 If you're serving chicken at a picnic, serve it cold. Bacterial action takes place rapidly when chicken is kept warm for a prolonged period of time—and this can cause food poisoning. After frying the chicken, cool it thoroughly and keep it refrigerated until just before leaving for your picnic; then wrap it with an insulated material.

Elected by Travelers

E. Edsel Moore, Dove Creek road, Frankfort, formerly of Prestonsburg, was recently elected national president of the Travelers Protection Association of America at the annual convention in Hollywood, Florida.

Mr. Moore is an active member of Post L in Frankfort, having sponsored over 500 members during his 20-year membership. The Frankfort Post has approximately 900 members.

Moore has served in various capacities at the local and state levels before serving a four-year term on the national board of directors. In June of 1982, he was elected first-vice-president of the Association.

The Travelers Protective Association is a national non-profit fraternal benefit society, with a membership of over 230,000 members in 34 states and approximately 19,000 in Kentucky.

Mr. Moore's one-year term of office began July 22 and involves administrative tasks and extensive travel in promoting the Association.

At age 49, he is the second youngest president to serve the association.

Craft Market Set For This Weekend

The public will have an opportunity to buy a wide variety of fine Kentucky handcrafts July 30-31 at a Craft Market being sponsored by the Kentucky Department of the Arts at Commonwealth Convention Center in downtown Louisville.

These public days follow the two-day wholesale market for buyers from all across the country.

The juried selection features 80 of the state's top crafters, and in addition to the craft booths there will be a rotating schedule of entertainment including a fashion show, bluegrass music and cloggers. There will also be a craft demonstration area and a special display (no sales) of "Christmas in Kentucky."

On exhibit will be one of the world's largest quilts, the Kentucky Springtime Flower Basket quilt sponsored by Baer Fabric, Inc. of Louisville and created by 200 quilters from all over the state.

Craft market hours are 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Sat., and 12 noon to 6 p.m. on Sun. There will be a $2 admission charge; those under 12 years and over 60 will be admitted free.

IN APPRECIATION

My sincere thanks to all who sent flowers and cards, for calls and visits while I was in Highlands Regional Medical Center and since I came home. Also my thanks to the nurses who took such good care of me.

GREEN TOMATOES

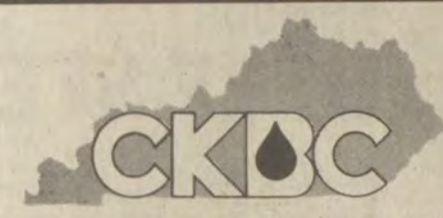

A green tomato will ripen in the kitchen window if it is in the mature green stage, but it will not have the quality and flavor of vine-ripened fruit.

It's the season for melons. Choosing a top quality watermelon is easy if you're buying a half or any piece where you can see the interior—dark, soft, watery areas indicate decay. When you buy the whole melon, look for one that's symmetrical in shape and firm to the touch.

Knott Jail Prisoner Dies Early Friday

A prisoner in the Knott county jail at Hindman died early Friday. Authorities said that results of an autopsy were not available but that foul play was not suspected.

Orville Keith Collins, of Brinkley, Knott county, was arrested late Thursday on charges of drunken driving and driving with a suspended license and was lodged in the jail, according to Kentucky State Police trooper Tommy Burris, who is investigating the case.

Burris said he was told that Collins went to sleep in his cell, and later another prisoner told authorities that Collins had stopped snoring.

Collins was pronounced dead at 1:30 a.m. Friday. He had a history of medical problems.

Collins, a former plumber, was the husband of LaDonna Collins.

State Officials Visit Theatre

"This is excellent," said Kay Lowe, Commissioner of the Kentucky Department of the Arts. "The work that Jimmy Hilburger is doing at THE LEGEND OF DANIEL BOONE, the work that's going on in Bardstown at THE STEPHEN FOSTER STORY, and what's happening here is tremendous," she added.

Ms. Lowe, accompanied by Bill Hearn, Administrator of the Outdoor Drama Grant-in-Aid program of the Kentucky Department of the Arts, attended the standing-room-only production of ANNIE on Thursday, July 21 at the Jenny Wiley Theatre near Prestonsburg, Kentucky.

"We're excited to have this visit from the Arts Commissioner, especially when we're playing to capacity crowds," said William G. Francis, President of the Jenny Wiley Drama Association Board of Trustees. "In fact, due to the incredible response to ANNIE from the public, for the first time in the history of the theatre, we have had to add a performance to accommodate our audience."

On Tuesday, August 16, at 8:30 p.m., a special benefit performance of ANNIE will be presented. All proceeds from this performance will go toward the theatre's fund-raising drive. "In order to continue to improve the theatre, we need to raise money over and above box-office income," said John McCann, Managing Director. "New lighting equipment, new sound equipment, and renovations to the dance floor are a few of the things that we need. Adding a performance of ANNIE is an ideal way to help raise funds for these improvements, for not only do we receive money to continue to better our service to our audience, but we also give people an opportunity to see ANNIE who might not have a chance to see the show otherwise," he added.

Tickets for the benefit are available for a minimum $6.00 donation per seat.

Discounts and season tickets are not applicable to the show, and all donations are tax-deductible. Reservations are now being taken at the Jenny Wiley Theatre Box Office, 886-9274.

Ms. Lowe and Mr. Hearn were at Jenny Wiley as part of a tour of outdoor theatres served by the Outdoor Drama Grant-in-Aid program. This year, the Jenny Wiley Theatre received $20,000 in funding from the Outdoor Drama Grant-in-Aid program to help support the season.

"ANNIE is selling out every performance," said Polly King, Business and House Manager for the theatre. "The other two shows this season—THE ROBBER BRIDEGROOM and GREASE—are selling more seats than their counterparts last year. Attendance overall is up almost 10% over our projections. Seats are available for all performances as of yet, but the best seats by far for ANNIE are for the benefit on August 16," she added.

Audience reaction to ANNIE has been very positive. Susan Rice, a teacher at Mullins School who resides in Pikeville, said, "I believe this the best show I've ever seen here." Lisa Anderson, from Ypsilanti, Michigan, said, "This production is just as good as the touring Broadway show of ANNIE I saw at the Fisher Theatre in Detroit." Prestonsburg merchant Huck Francis said, "I've seen ANNIE three times, and I will see it each performance the rest of the season. If you don't see this show, you'll miss the opportunity of a lifetime."

ANNIE, THE ROBBER BRIDEGROOM, and GREASE continue in repertory each Wednesday through Sunday night until August 21 at the Jenny Wiley Theatre. All performances are at 8:30. For reservations and information about the August 16 benefit and any other performance, call the box office at (606) 886-9274.

Mayo To Begin 46th Year

The Mayo Vocational-Technical School will begin its 46th year Monday, August 1, with an in-service for all teachers and support personnel.

Registration for post-secondary students will be August 2. All post-secondary applicants who have received notification letters as well as all returning students are to report to the Mayo auditorium at 9 a.m. It is extremely important for all returning students to register Tuesday due to the large number of applications received for each of Mayo's 21 programs, Jesse Conley, Mayo principal, said. He estimates this year's post-secondary enrollment to reach an all-time high.

The Garth, Belfry, Martin county, Millard and Phelps vocational education centers will begin classes when their local school schools open for the new school year.

Hereford Family Reunion

A reunion of the descendants and families of James Henry and Florence May Hereford, of Prestonsburg, will be held Sept. 3 at May Lodge at 6:30 p.m. A count of people who will attend is needed and confirmation would be appreciated. Contact Mrs. Pauline Hereford Williams, C/O Mrs. W.J. Reynolds, 331 N. Arnold, Prestonsburg, after August 15.

Future Bassin' Buddies

With today's growing popularity of video games and computers, many youngsters are deprived of basic but essential recreational activities. The Bassin' Buddies Bass Club is trying to improve these conditions by involving their kids in one of the most enjoyable and educational sports of our time—fishing.

Saturday, July 9, the Bassin' Buddies clubmembers teamed up with their children and spent the morning casting and reeling with the ultimate goal of hooking that prize fish. The tournament was held at Dewey Lake and 10 boats competed.

Larry Frisby was the lucky youngster with a total of 34 bluegill; Jeffery Bryson received the "Lunker" award for having the largest bluegill; and the "Runt" award went to Jason Blair for having the smallest fish.

Everyone was rewarded for his or her efforts, even the mothers who saved the day with a picnic lunch.

The club's next tournament will be held at Fishtrap Lake, August 20, and is expected to be one of the most challenging of the year.

(A special thanks to Gordon Moore for the use of his property for the weigh-in and picnic.)

Immunization Clinics Set For Pre-Schoolers

Kentucky law requires that a student entering school in Kentucky for the first time must be adequately immunized against the childhood diseases of measles, rubella, diphtheria, tetanus, pertussis (whooping cough) and polio. They are also required to have proof of having had a T.B. skin test. This applies to kindergarten, first graders, and transfer students.

The Floyd County Health Department will be holding pre-school immunization clinics August 1, 3, 5, 8, 10, 12. These immunizations are free of charge. T.B. skin tests are also available at the health department, and there is a $3 charge for T.B. skin tests.

Parents are urged to bring their children into the health department during this time to get their children ready for school.

Due to these immunization clinics being held, there will be no outpost clinic at Martin on the first Monday or at Wayland on the second Monday. These clinics will be held in September.

DIRT TRACK STANDOUT Paul David Harris, of Prestonsburg is congratulated by his father, Paul Harris, following three victories Friday night at Highlands Raceway Park. Bobby Caudill, of Martin looks on. Harris' white and green No. 10 won the five-lap dash for cash, the 10-lap heat and 25-lap feature for super modified cars. Other Floyd drivers competing at Highlands included Jake Miller, who drove his No. 4 Chevy to victory in street stock class feature, and Terry Hall who finished third in the modified class in his Camaro.

California Powers Brewers

For a southern California boy to pull up roots and make a journey to a small eastern Kentucky coal town to play baseball for the summer can be quite a culture shock.

But Paintsville Brewers third baseman Kerry Everett is adult enough to handle it without any problems. Of course, it helps that his bat has been picking up good vibrations every time he steps to the plate.

A native of Chula Vista, Cal., just outside San Diego, Everett has produced Triple Crown-like numbers in his first five weeks in the Appalachian League. Through games of July 20, the righthand-hitting Everett had hit eight home runs, had driven in 35 runs, and had a .323 batting average. He had played every inning of the Brewers' first 33 games and was a major factor in their ascent into first place.

Twice this season, Everett has hit two home runs in a game. His most astonishing show of power came in a June 28 game at Pulaski, when he hit a pair of three-run homers on consecutive pitches to him in the sixth and seventh innings to give Paintsville a 6-2 win.

Everett was the Milwaukee Brewers' sixth-round pick in this June's draft, after a four-year starring role at Point Loma College in San Diego. He has always been a big run producer, having set a school RBI record at Point Loma in his sophomore year, then bettering that mark each of his last two years.

Power is a big part of his game, and he knows that big home run and RBI numbers are likely to catch the eye of his bosses in Milwaukee.

"When I first got here, I wasn't sure how I would fit in at this level of competition," the mild-mannered Everett said. "Now, I feel I can hit for power with anybody. I'd also like to hit at least .300, maybe even .325."

Quiet almost to the point of being shy, Everett doesn't mind spending a summer in Paintsville, where the spotlight and the nightlife are non-existent.

"The people here have been really good to me," Everett said. "About the only thing that's been a tough adjustment is the weather. It's so much more hot and humid here than in California."

Everett's manager, Tom Gamboa, has done all he can to bring out the best in Kerry's bat. A man who excels as a hitting instructor, Gamboa has taught Everett some little things, such as how to keep the shoulders back while swinging and how to balance his weight while at the plate, that have aided the rookie a great deal.

Defense, in case you were wondering, is certainly not a drawback in Everett's case, as it is with some sluggers. He has displayed a major league arm from his third base position, and at six-foot-five, he presents a big obstacle to balls hit his way. At that height, opposing hitters are likely to start calling him "Mount Everett," since very few balls get past him.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

We hope that the following information may help you to understand why stimulant drugs are consumed more often (usually unwittingly) than any other chemicals. It may also help you curtail your own intake of stimulants. First, there is coffee which some people drink all day long. It contains the mood-altering stimulant, caffeine. Tea-drinkers not only partake of caffeine in their drink but also theophylline, another stimulant. Cocoa drinkers probably do not know that their beverage comes from seeds of theobroma cocoa which contains caffeine and still another stimulant, theobromine. Lastly, cola nuts, which are used to make cola-flavored drinks, contain caffeine as well.

If you find yourself nervous or stressed out, you may first want to look at how many stimulants you ingest during the day. If you find that you drink a lot of coffee or soft drinks with caffeine, you might want to cut down on these drinks to see if you're less nervous. But if your nervousness continues, don't hesitate to consult with a physician. Here at COOLEY APOTHECARY we care about you and your health. Located at #2 Town Center Bldg., where we're open Mon.-Fri., 9-5:30; Sat., 9-4. 886-8106.

HANDY HINT:

Ingesting caffeine reduces the size of the arteries in the brain and may relieve headaches caused by high blood pressure:

Abandoned Mine Funds Increased

Kentucky's coal counties may benefit from increased funding for abandoned mine reclamation as a result of legislative initiatives by Senator Walter (Dee) Huddleston.

Coal operators pay a fee into the Abandoned Mine Reclamation Fund and the funds can be used for no other purpose. The administration has been reluctant to expend the funds, however.

Huddleston won a conference committee vote which will add $49 million more for this year above the $119 million currently planned. And on another committee vote, Huddleston won approval for $193 million to be spent in fiscal 1984.

For 1983, the additional funds will mean about $7.5 million for reclamation of abandoned mine lands in Kentucky, bringing the total for Kentucky for this year to about $27.5 million.

Kentucky is expected to receive a large share of the 1984 funds because of an aggressive reclamation effort by the state.

Huddleston has been a persistent critic of bureaucratic maneuvers to keep from spending the trust fund money.

"It can't be spent on anything else," Huddleston said, "so they try to hold on to it to help balance their deficits. With unemployment running at record levels in the coalfields, it makes no sense to hold back funds that can be used to put people and idle machinery to productive use."

Huddleston also pointed out that coal operators have a right to see that what is in effect an earmarked tax is used for the purposes for which it was collected.

Art Exhibit In Capitol Lobby

The Kentucky Department of the Arts has mounted a corporate collection of Kentucky Art in the State Capitol Art Lobby that will remain on exhibit through the end of August.

The exhibit, selected by Jan Schmidt, vice president of the Coca Cola Bottling Plant in Elizabethtown and chairman of the Annual Coca Cola Art Shows, represents artists in all areas of the state and includes many styles and media of art.

The 27 works in the show, selected from the Coca Cola corporate collection by Kentucky artists, have been purchased by the corporation since 1976 from the annual art shows they sponsor.

Mrs. Schmidt, who said the corporation began to jury the shows in 1976, "and out of that process we began to identify some outstanding artists. We soon realized that Kentucky had a wealth of talent in the visual arts."

She said the annual juried event has a three fold purpose: support of the professional artist; encouragement of the young novice and involvement in the arts by the community. "What better way is there to help the arts while enriching the working environment?" she said.

Kentucky artists in the present exhibit: Louisville, Loraine Allen, Carol Berry, Dale Bratcher, Peggy Cox, Lou Ann Iler, Toni Jackson, Tony Oswald, Irma Pfanmoeller, Mildred Powers, Patricia F. Ritter, Sara Roush, Dennis Whitehouse and Kathryn Witte. Lexington, Robert James Foose and Gary Stutler. Three Elizabethtown artists, Roy Minagawa, Sue Morrissey and Rosemarie Rogoish. Lawrence P. Anderson, Shelbyville; Jim Cantrell, Bardstown; Don Falk, Taylorsville; Monty Helm, Owensboro; Wallace Kelly, Lebanon; Harold Riggsby, Cave City; Jerry Watson, Paducah; Betsy Kurzinger, Richmond; and Albert Wong, Bowling Green.

The next exhibit in the Capitol Art Lobby will be a Kentucky Realist exhibit curated by William J. Hennessey, director of the University of Kentucky Art Museum in Lexington. That exhibit is scheduled to open Sept. 15.

Hours at the Capitol Art Lobby: Mon.-Fri., 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Sat., 9 a.m.-4:30 p.m., and Sun., 1 p.m.-5 p.m.

We have been authorized by the Executor for the estate of Boyd P. Prater to offer for sale at Public Auction all of the properties owned by the Estate; being offered in 6 tracts.

These properties are located in Morgan County adjoining the Wolfe County line; east of the county line and overlooking the Mt. Parkway and Highway 191 and just off of Highway 191 on Lucy Branch and on Stick Branch.

Tract #1—Containing 1.308 surveyed acres and is improved with a fine brick home having a large living room with a wood-burning fireplace, 3 bedrooms with closets, wide hallway, large kitchen and dining area, kitchen has built-in cabinets, utility room, drilled well with submersible pump and a carport. This home has a well-landscaped yard. Home sits above Highway 191 with a fine view of the surrounding area and good access on to property. We invite your inspection of this fine home prior to auction time.

Tract #2—Boundary of land containing approximately 78 acres fronting on Highway 191 and both sides of Stick Branch Road. Has good bottom land and gentle rolling timber land. Also has a tobacco base, tobacco barn and several good choice building sites.

Tract #3—Contains 28 acres, more or less, lies on both sides of Lucy Branch; has a tobacco barn and is approximately 300 feet off of Highway 191. Has several good building sites and tobacco base.

Tract #4—Strip of land which is all bottom land lying between Highway 191 and the Mt. Parkway, containing 7 acres, more or less. This choice piece of bottom land has a possibility of building home sites or development property. Has some tobacco allotment.

Tract #5—Lies across Mt. Parkway from tract #4, joining the Wolfe County line. Containing 67 acres, more or less and is basically all woodland. There are indications of some coal on the property. This boundary of land could be a good investment in the future for timber and minerals.

Tract #6—Fine piece of bottom land lying between Mt. Parkway and Highway 191 across the road from tract #1 & #2; containing approximately 8 1/2 acres and would have some tobacco allotment. This piece of bottom land has several fine building sites and would be good development property. All of these properties are from 4/10 to 1 mile from the Helechawa and Lee City interchange to the Mt. Parkway, making these properties very attractive; not only for farming, but for future development. With access to the Mt. Parkway being less than 1 hour from Prestonsburg, 20 minutes to Salyersville and 1 1/2 hours to Lexington.

There is a combined total tobacco allotment for 1983 which is reserved for this year of 5160 lbs., which will be prorated by ASCS office according to crop land. So far as known all mineral rights are intact and will be conveyed. There is nearby oil production. Also selling will be some 4,500 tobacco sticks, blocks, brick and an assortment of lumber.

Terms: 20% deposit; balance on or before 45 days upon passing of deed.

Owners: Heirs to the Estate of Boyd P. Prater—David Prater, Executor.

Complete terms will be announced at Auction time and will take precedence over printed matter. Representative Joseph Dunn will be on hand Saturday, July 30th, from 9:00 a.m. to 12 noon to answer questions and point out boundary lines. Inspection of the house will be at the same above time. Attorney-General Says . . .

Even Where Intent Is Patriotic Result of Fireworks Often Injury

"Fireworks, even with their patriotic associations, present serious safety hazards. Deaths, blindings, amputations and severe burns have resulted from the misuse of fireworks," warns Attorney General Steve Beshear. "Authorities estimate that each year approximately 10,000 people are treated in hospital emergency rooms for firework related injuries."

Kentucky is one of three states that require state certification of fireworks. Before purchasing, check for the State Fire Marshall's identification marking. This consists of the three letters, SFM, followed by four numbers. Only fireworks with this marking, indicating they have been approved by the state police laboratory, may be legally sold and used in the Commonwealth. The penalty for illegal fireworks includes a fine up to $1,000 and/or up to 30 days in the county jail.

Fireworks may be classified in one of three ways. The first—common fireworks. They are suitable for use by the public and are primarily designed to produce visible effects by combustion. Common fireworks may consist of ground and handheld sparkling devices (such as dipped stick-sparklers, flitter sparklers, cylindrical and cone fountains, illuminating torches, wheels, and ground spinners), aerial devices (such as sky rockets, missile-type rockets, helicopter aerial spinners, roman candles and mines), audible ground devices (such as firecrackers and chasers), and combinations of the above.

Special On KET Explores Life of Bill Alexander

The scenery is breathtakingly beautiful: evergreen trees touched by a winter's snow, winding country roads, forests of lush green foliage, waterfalls and brooks that break the stillness with their own music. It is an artist's dream, a haven for those who sail and those who fish. It is the Powell River, British Columbia, home of Bill and Margaret Alexander.

"The Magic of Bill Alexander: An Intimate Portrait," a special on KET Thursday, August 18, at 10:00 p.m., gives viewers an inside look into the life of this 68-year-old artist/teacher who hosts the "Magic of Oil Painting" series, which has aired on KET also.

Filmed on location, the program takes us from Halifax, Nova Scotia, where Alexander arrived 30 years ago from Germany, to Powell River, where he lives today. He is seen painting in his studio, rehearsing for a show, working with iron, fishing on his boat "Magic" and walking along the beach with his dog Brandy. He shares with viewers his days and evenings—having coffee with his wife Margaret in their kitchen, while she reads a letter from a 9-year-old fan, sitting by the fire as Margaret sings a song she wrote and he, a lover of music, plays his violin.

"The Magic of Bill Alexander: An Intimate Portrait" is produced by KOCE-TV/Huntington Beach, Calif.

Fireworks may be classified as novelties and trick noise-makers. Included in this group are snakes, glow worms, smoke devices, wire sparklers, party poppers, booby traps, snappers, trick matches, cigarette loads and auto burglar alarms.

Special fireworks are large fireworks designed primarily to produce visible or audible effects, and exceed the limits for classification as common fireworks.

Supervised public displays of fireworks by municipalities, fair associations, amusement parks, and other organizations are allowed with a permit. A permit can be granted by your local fire chief, mayor or county judge. The organization must file its application for permit with the Office of the State Fire Marshall at least 15 days prior to the date of display. Each organization must post a $10,000 bond to cover any damages occurring as a result of the display.

"Fireworks should be used only with extreme caution. If used carelessly, they can cause possible painful, severe injuries. Always follow these safety recommendations," advises Attorney General Beshear.

*Do not allow young children to play with fireworks. Even the sparkler, considered by many to be the safe firework for children, burns at very high temperatures and can easily ignite clothing.

*Allow older children to use fireworks only under close adult supervision.

*Before using fireworks, read and follow all warning instructions printed on the label.

*Be sure all observers are out of range before lighting fireworks. Light fireworks outdoors in a clear area away from houses and flammable materials.

*Keep a bucket of water nearby for emergencies and for dousing fireworks that fail to go off. Do not handle or try to relight malfunctioning fireworks. Soak them with water and throw them away.

*Never ignite fireworks in a container, including glass bottles.

For further information concerning the sale or use of fireworks, contact the State Fire Marshall's Office, Division of Fire Prevention, U.S. 127, South, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Consumer problems may be directed to the Office of the Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division, 209 St. Clair Street, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, or call the toll-free Hotline number 1-800-432-9257.

Columbia Gas Gets Less Than Fourth of Rate Asked

The Public Service Commission got tough with Columbia Gas of Kentucky last week.

Columbia asked permission to raise rates to customers—111,000 of them in Eastern and Central Kentucky—by $9.6 million a year. It got only $2.1 million.

In a sharply worded order, the PSC also told Columbia that:

—Its pay raise to workers of 7.5 percent was "unreasonable," and it couldn't charge customers for more than 5 percent, to account for inflation.

—It must buy more Appalachian gas, which is cheaper than the Western gas that Columbia buys from a sister company.

George Goodykowitz, Columbia's district manager in Lexington, said the order typified the "stern consumer resistance" to gas utilities that has swept the country and impressed regulators and legislators.

PSC spokesman Ed Shelby said the commissioners, like the consumers, are worried about rising energy costs. "People are hurting. Unemployment is high. The commission thinks utilities should do everything in their power to cut as many costs as possible to limit the impact on consumers," he said.

The PSC also leaned toward consumers in rate orders to Kentucky Utilities and Louisville Gas & Electric this year.

Last year, the PSC granted Columbia $10.75 million, 91 percent of its $11.7 million request.

Columbia says it is in financial difficulty because it must pay the higher gas prices allowed by federal law—and because it has tried to ensure that its customers wouldn't run short on gas, as they did in the mid-1970s. For instance, its pipeline company signed "take or pay" contracts, requiring it to take nearly all the gas that daily spewed from the wells—or pay for it.

With improved production methods, the wells are delivering more gas each day. But fewer customers want it. Recession, conservation and good weather have cut Columbia's sales, particularly to industries. As a result, Columbia faces two problems: too much gas and too few customers.

The PSC said Columbia wasn't working hard enough at saving money. It expressed concern that Columbia Gas of Kentucky buys most of its gas from a pipeline that is a corporate sister, Columbia Transmission Co.

The Columbia pipeline buys Western gas, which is expensive to ship to Kentucky. The PSC ordered the Columbia supplier to buy more gas directly from Appalachian wells, which are cheaper. It asked for a report by October.

Goodykowitz said Columbia has always bought from Appalachian wells, but they're so small to ensure a steady supply.

The PSC chided Columbia for raising salaries by 7.5 percent a year when inflation has dropped to 5 percent. "When other companies are laying off employees and reducing or freezing wages, the commission finds it unreasonable for Columbia to ignore today's economic realities and expect its customers to bear such increases."

Goodykowitz said the 7.5-percent raise was a catch-up for past inflation.

The PSC would let Columbia pay stockholders a 15-percent return on equity, or net worth—assuming that it makes enough money.

ROCK ON

By Ethlie Ann Vare

WHO'S WHO

Alex Van Halen recently married a young lady named Valerie Kendall. His brother Eddie is, of course, married to Valerie Bertinelli. That makes two Valerie Van Halens in one family — pity the poor post-man.

Also married last month were Glenn Frey (to Janie Begg) and Deborah Iyall of Romeo Void and Paul Keister of Repeat Offenders (to each other).

Tina Turner, now signed to Capitol Records, will be releasing an album this fall, her first in top long.

You know Bernie Taupin as Elton John's songwriting partner, but soon you will know him as Martha Davis' collaborator as well. Taupin and Miss Davis have co-written many of the tunes on the upcoming Motels' LP.

Yes, UB-40 sounds like the pet name for a large robot. Actually, the reggae band got their monicker from the number on England's unemployment form.

The Rolling Stones are in Los Angeles, mixing down the tracks from their Paris recording sessions. An album can't be far off.

REVIEWS

The Belle Stars (Warner Brothers) — The Belle Stars are seven young Englishwomen who have recaptured the Motown sound better than anything since the sound of "Dreamgirls." Using a careful mix of old tunes and originals, they have put together a delightful debut full of good spirit and musical originality. "Sign of the Times" is a potato chip of a song — you can't listen to it just once.

Robert Palmer — "Pride" (Island) — Forget the dance club hit "You Are in My System." The good song on this dark and percussive LP is the gorgeous ballad "Want You More." Other than those two cuts, Palmer hasn't much to offer with his new, complex, island rhythms. But it's an interesting change from his rocker days and shows a real intelligence at work. Keep trying.

Soap Beat

ABC's new 'Loving' is a winner

By Connie Passalacqua

After a month on the air, the results are in and TV's newest soap opera — ABC's "Loving" — is a winner. It's one classy production. It's conceivable that "Loving" may one day evolve into the best soap on TV.

Daytime's foremost talents, Agnes Nixon (co-creator), Douglas Marland (co-creator and headwriter) and Joe Stuart (producer), have demonstrated again the kind of quality they have become respected for from their work on other soaps including "One Life to Live," "All My Children," "Guiding Light" and "Another World."

Almost all the elements needed to attract a large and engrossed audience are here — believable characters with well-woven relationships, a credible story and supreme production values. They all make for a marvelously produced show.

The serial, set in the fictional college town of Corinth, revolves around the doings of three families — the Vocheks (Polish-Americans), Donovans (Irish-Americans) and Aldens (WASPs). It's the first soap in many years, centering around a college campus. This story line cleverly reflects the great interest in soap operas shown by real-life college students.

While it is still too early to pass judgment on all of the show's actors, there are already some clear stand-outs. Patricia Kalember, as the beautifully understated newswoman, Merrill Vochek, is a major daytime find.

Star quality is also written all over the Brandoesque James Kiberd, who plays out-of-work policeman Mike Donovan. Patricia Blair, who plays Rita Mae Bristow, is a delight, the funniest soap opera character since Loretta Haggars in "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman."

CBN CORNER

The vanishing prairie

by Kim Cooper

On Sunday, July 31, CBN airs the documentary "Survival on the Prairie." The program, which originally aired on NBC, relates what has happened in that vast area of the United States that was once the open prairie.

The needs of man, animals and the erosive work of the environment, have changed the face of the land that was once covered by grass.

Reporter Hugh Downs probes the balance of the original animal life on the prairie. The birds left for winter while the buffalo plowed through the thick snow covering. The prairie dog lived off his fat and the coyote lived off the fat of other animals he caught and killed. These and other animals once roamed the prairie freely, but through the years the prairie has changed drastically.

Much of the grass was destroyed. Man used insecticides that killed some of the animal life.

Downs reports on how the animals depended on one another to survive. He traces the development of transportation — from buffalo trails to Conestoga wagons to the railroad — and settlement.

The small farms gave way to larger, more mechanized farms and the natural state of the land slowly deteriorated. But Downs adds that the advanced technology can also save the land and help protect it for future generations.

"Survival on the Prairie" was produced by NBC in cooperation with the National Academy of Sciences. CBN Cable offers this documentary as part of a series on the weekly Sunday night program "CBN Special of the Week."

Kim Cooper is publicity director of the CBN Cable Network.
