

New Bridge Creates Problems

The bridge connecting downtown Martin with new KY 80 is the longest on the four-lane highway from Water Gap to Hazard—it spans River Road, six railroad tracks, Buck's Branch, Beaver Creek and Old Postoffice Street—and it's "nice." But for at least one family living on Postoffice Street it also presents a menace. While two-year-old Becky Bryant was playing in the yard at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Bryant, last week a bottle was tossed from a car crossing the bridge, some 60 feet above, and shattering glass struck the tot's legs.

"Early evenings and week-ends are the worst," Mr. Bryant said. A full bottle of beer that was tossed from a vehicle passed through the metal roof of a storage building onto the floor without breaking. The cleanup of litter tossed by passersby is a daily chore, the Bryants say. To avoid their damage, family autos are parked directly beneath the bridge, not in the driveway. Martin police are interested in knowing the identity of those who are creating the situation.

WHEN MARTIN FIREMEN began fighting a blaze at a Printer residence recently the owner of the single-story frame structure, "Junior" O'Bryan, reportedly asked the firefighters to, in effect, "let 'er burn." The Martin volunteers ceased their efforts and the house was quickly consumed by the fire.

Nineteen Floyd men—including a prominent Prestonsburg coal operator, contract miners working for him, and officials of the union to which they belong—were indicted by a federal grand jury in Pikeville Monday for allegedly plotting to force a rival coal firm out of business by violence and extortion.

Another man was indicted on a related charge and eight individuals were named as unindicted co-conspirators in the case, which stems from incidents which occurred between January and March last year at a minesite near McDowell.

The Ray-Mac mine, one of three strip-mines then operated in this county by the Mac Mining Company of Pikeville, was a target of picketing and violence which was attributed at the time to union attempts to organize Ray-Mac workers.

The mine is located on a ridge at the head of John Hall Branch of Mud Creek and Bill Hall Branch of Left Beaver, between Grethel and McDowell.

The 10-count indictment handed down by grand jury foreman George C. Brown to U.S. District Court Judge G. Wix Unthank Monday afternoon suggests that much more than a labor dispute lay behind the week of violence which shook the Ray-Mac operation, beginning February 15 last year.

Charged with conspiring to shut down the operation by extortion were Edgar Jones, of Prestonsburg, Jason Moore, 45, and German Stumbo, 40, of McDowell, Drexil Hall, 32, of East McDowell, Teddy Kinney, 49, McDowell, Benny Caudill, 48, Drift, Kenneth Rolland (also known as Postman), 47, McDowell, Ranny Blankenship, 33, Ligon, Eugene Tackett, 36, and Harold Moore, 25, McDowell, Hermit Newsome, 38, East McDowell, Tim Milan, 25, McDowell, Mose Mead, 26, Wayland, Donahue Halbert, 53, Langley, Austin "Bo" Moore, 25, Minnie, Pebo Gayheart, Ashtabula, Ohio, formerly of McDowell, Linville Mosley, 37, and Raymond Hall, 39, McDowell, and Morris Ray Hall, 47, Hi Hat.

New Staff Announced By Board

Three Schools Yet To Find Principals; Funding Is Reduced

In its annual June rite, the Board of Education last week hired the 900-or-so employees who will staff the school system next year.

Those hired—or, in most cases, rehired—include 430 regular teachers, 32 remedial reading teachers, and 70 certified substitute teachers.

Federal funding cuts accounted for the loss of 12 remedial reading teachers and an anticipated state revenue shortfall cost the county four classroom teachers, said Superintendent E.P. Grigsby, Jr.

Gary Frazier was named principal at McDowell High School, replacing Hugo Miller, who has retired. Taking Frazier's place as principal at Maytown Elementary will be Lorena Hall.

Vacancies still exist for principals at Wheelwright High School, where Wilbur "Shorty" Jamerson has asked to return to the ranks, and at McDowell Elementary, where Johnny Stumbo is returning to regular classroom duties.

Supt. Grigsby said he is currently interviewing applicants for the positions and expects the board to fill them within the next few weeks.

Other positions still open include those of special education teacher and football coach at Betsy Layne High School, half-time kindergarten teachers at Maytown and Wayland grade schools, assistant principal at McDowell High School, and teacher at the Dwale multi-handicapped unit.

Closing of Jail Not Planned

Fears that the Floyd county jail might be closed in an extension of the pattern being established in the state are groundless, it was said after an inspection of the jail Tuesday morning.

James W. Woodrum, jail services specialist with the state Corrections Cabinet, who made the inspection, said he found no violation "of the magnitude that would close the jail." He added that jails are closed only because of fire and health hazards.

He declined to discuss his findings. A detailed report of findings and recommendations will be sent to the jailer and the county judge-executive, and after that he will supply them with a "deficiency action" plan, he said.

No estimate of the cost of improvements that may be asked was available. "The last time I made such an estimate, it was $30,000—and the job cost $60,000," he remarked.

One report heard here was that a recreation area for prisoners will be required, but Woodrum declined to discuss it.

This Town...That World

FOR THE RECORD

Let it go into the record, even though the record has been broken: No rain fell in this county last Sunday after—I am told—12 rainy Sundays in a row.

COMPENSATION

Weeks of rain have been disastrous to both work and play—to the planting and growing of crops, for those of us who work, and to picnicking, skylarking, fishing, sports of every sort for those of you who play—but out of it all has emerged such a lush forest cover of green that somebody, revelling in the beauty of our hills, exclaimed, "Green Mansions!"

HOUND WAS NOT BEGUILDED

A camera is seldom at hand when most needed. A case in point is that of the hound and the blacksnake.

This hound-dog was lapping it all up—which is to say, he was enjoying his meal and at peace with the world—when the snake slithered up, apparently bent on joining in the repast. And what did this hound, mighty hunter that he is, do about it?

He continued eating, cornering his eyes to keep watch on the intruder, giving with deep, low growls, making no attempt to attack the snake and apparently interested only in protecting his meal.

A film strip with sound might have been a prizewinner, but I would have settled for a "still" shot with my trusty Brownie.

What would I have called the picture? Certainly not "Kentucky Hospitality."

Opinion Backs Case Dismissals

A Floyd district court action that was sharply criticized earlier this year by Wheelwright residents has been upheld in an assistant attorney general's opinion handed down this week.

The dismissal of several speeding citations from Wheelwright was reported to the state Judicial Retirement and Removal Commission, placing District Judge Harold Stumbo under fire. Stumbo said the dismissals were made on motion of County Attorney Arnold Turner, on the grounds that the citations were issued by an officer from radar readings and that the officer had never attended a school for training of radar operators.

Assistant Attorney General Charles Runyan said Monday that both Stumbo and Turner acted properly in dismissing the cases because the officer who issued the citations was not trained in the use of radar.

Runyan said the judge and county attorney knew that the officer was not trained in the use of radar, although he was depending on it as the sole basis for the speeding charges.

In another opinion Runyan said a county fiscal court has no legal authority to put rock and gravel on church parking lots.

His opinion said that "since the statutory powers of a county government, i.e., a fiscal court, do not include carrying on or promoting the work of the church or churches, we conclude at this point that a fiscal court cannot legally expend county tax money in putting rock

Mountain Christian Academy Groundbreaking

Most religious faiths in Floyd and adjoining counties joined last Sunday afternoon in the groundbreaking ceremony for the Mountain Christian Academy at its site on new KY 80, at the mouth of Stephens Branch, near Martin. The advisory board, most of whom are in photo, is composed of Nancy Howard, the Rev. Ralph Beiting, Karen Salisbury, Carl Ankrom, the Rev. Timothy Jessen, John Reed, Dr. William Cook, Mike Vallez, Ronald Jones, Randy Burchett, Ralph Hodson, the Rev. Chris Platt, David Neeley, Clyde Burchett.

Construction is expected to allow opening of the academy's first term next September. The school is expected to accommodate a student-body of 300 to 400.

Fiscal Court Adopts 'Lean' Budget for Next 12 Months

While state police continued to pore over the county's 1982 records, and officials of the state Department of Finance showed no sign of loosening their control of finances here, the Floyd fiscal court prepared last week to begin anew by approving its 1983-'84 budget.

By comparison with last year's $2.3 million budget—a sum swollen by amendments to $3 million during the year—this year's $1,899,600 budget is lean.

Most of the loss is in the coal severance fund—known more properly as the Local Government Economic Assistance Fund—which has been reduced in the wake of the coal slump from $764,218 last year to a meager $232,700 this year.

While the revenue-sharing fund is holding its own—with receipts expected to amount to $400,000—more than half the fund has been earmarked to help out the county's still-shaky solid waste system.

Moreover, three bills totalling $68,812 which have been carried over into the new budget to avert a deficit this year will further handicap an administration which is being pressed by state officials to restore order to the county's finances.

To offset the losses, the only new sources of funding anticipated in the 1983-'84 budget are $800 in package liquor license fees and $10,000 in beer license fees generated as a result of last summer's legalizing of alcohol sales here.

Beginning July 1, the county road crew—decimated by layoffs in March and May—will be restored to its normal complement of 22. Besides County Roads Foreman Sam Fitzpatrick and a mechanic, each magisterial district will be assigned a grader operator and four laborers.

Most of the recent cutbacks among park workers and the county's central office staff will be permanent, however. An administrative staff of five—the judge-executive, a deputy judge, a finance officer, a secretary, and an alcoholic beverage control administrator—will be responsible for the duties once assigned to 11 people.

ABC Administrator Denzil Allen will work for a third of the salary he has been getting—down from $1500 to $500 a month—but the judge and his deputy will both be seeing raises.

The judge-executive's salary rises from $28,387 to $30,585, representing a 3.87 percent cost-of-living adjustment. The office of deputy-judge, which last year paid $12,780, will now pay $18,000, an increase said to reflect the deputy judge's expanded responsibilities under the new administration.

Where five have been employed at the Allen park on a year-round basis, four will now be employed there for five months of the year. Where the solid waste agency formerly rented office space for $12,000 a year, it will now move into rent-free space once occupied by a flood plain administrator.

The county will no longer pay for a secretary in the county attorney's office. County Surveyor Elmer Rice and Livestock Inspector Sage Frasure will be paid, in lieu of salaries, a fee for services actually rendered.

The budget includes no increase in magistrates' salaries or expenses. They are each paid $20,843.75 annually, plus $3600 in automatic expense allowances.

A specific sum—$20,000—has been budgeted in the new year for "county officials' travel expenses." The use of credit cards to charge such expenses last year drew criticism from state finance department officials and the practice was stopped.

Some $12,000 has been set aside in the budget for the county's senior citizens' centers—$4000 each to the centers in Martin, Prestonsburg and Wheelwright. The county's 10 volunteer fire departments will get $1000 each. The budget includes $3600 for Dog Warden Paul Burke and $3000 for the Humane Society, although the animal shelter once operated by the society has reportedly been shut down since January. The $6000 budgeted for a librarian will apparently keep the Wheelwright library in

Board of Education Food Service Program Slated at 13 Centers

The Floyd County Board of Education is once again sponsoring the Summer Food Service Program for children. The program will begin June 13 and continue through July 29.

Free lunches will be available to all children 18 years of age and younger at 13 centers located at the following elementary schools: Allen, Auxier, Drift, Garrett, J.M. Stumbo, McDowell, Martin, Maytown, Melvin Osborne, Prestonsburg, Spruce Pine and Wayland.

Meals will be served from 10:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, with the stipulation that meals must be eaten at the center. All children will be served the same meal at no separate charge regardless of race, color, national origin, sex, age or handicapped, and there will be no discrimination in the course of the food service.

We're glad you asked!

SHOULD I BRING MY CHILD TO THE FUNERAL?

Just as with adults, children need to express their feelings of grief. To deny your child this emotional outlet is to handicap his natural, maturing development. Children can cope with death better than you may expect.

A child's emotional resiliency is truly remarkable and often under-rated. With adequate preparation, a child may attend the funeral and will be all the better for it. But the child must be told what to expect at the funeral. If he or she understands what is happening, there's a better feeling during and after the ceremonies.

Do not force the child to attend, though. If the youngster often tends to be hysterical, keep him home and have him join the family later. Each child may react differently, but if you anticipate any problems, feel free to discuss this fully at your convenience.

Your questions and comments on this and other subjects are welcome—in private or publicly through this column.

THE NATURAL WAY TO LOSE WEIGHT!

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NEWS

By JANE BOND
 Health Educator

Cervical cancer kills approximately 11,000 women in the United States each year, yet cervical cancer is one of the most curable of all cancers if it is detected and treatment is begun in the early stages.

The pap test is a simple painless test to determine cervical cancer, and it only takes a few moments of a woman's time. Women age 45 and over are especially urged to be screened regularly for cervical cancer since this is the high risk age for the disease.

The Floyd County Health Department is having Pap clinics on Friday, June 10, and Wednesday, June 15, from 8:30 until 11:30 and from 1 until 2. These clinics are a free service of the health department and women age 45 and over are especially urged to take advantage of this service since this is the high risk age for cervical cancer.

A nurse from the health department will be in Wayland, Monday, June 13, at the Methodist Church from 10 until 2. She will offer T.B. skin tests, urinalyses, anemia screenings, blood pressures, and immunizations. This clinic is a service of the health department and the public is welcome.

There will be no nursing services after 2 p.m., Wednesday, June 8, due to the health department staff being in a meeting.

Summer Gymnastics Camp To Open June 13

This year's summer gymnastics camp will be held in Prestonsburg at Archer Park, beginning June 13. The camp will feature instruction in gymnastics for both cheerleaders and gymnasts and will be directed by Robin Carlson, gymnastics instructor for Pikeville and Prestonsburg.

The staff will include, Sharon Talley, gymnastics coach and judge from Florida; young gymnasts from several Baton Rouge gymnastic teams who will teach class III routines on the balance beams, vaulting horse, and uneven parallel bars as well as floor routines, and Claire Olson, area dance instructor who will teach jazz and pom-pom routines for cheerleaders.

Camp sessions will be held from 8:30 to 12:30, Monday through Friday. Contact Prestonsburg Community College, Continuing Education, 886-3863, ext. 215 for information on registration.

Van B. Patton, 36, of McDowell, is listed as a defendant on a related count and he and seven others—Ed "Panhandle" Moore, Phillip Booth, Pearl Booth, Phillip Dale Moore, Jake Moore, Philman Caudill, and Basil Ray Moore—are named as unindicted co-conspirators in the case.

Edgar Jones is identified as president of the JRM Coal Company, which was under a five-year contract to supply 360,000 tons of coal a year to the South Carolina Electric and Gas Company. The other officers in the company, neither of whom was indicted, are listed as Greg Jones and Carson Akers.

In order to fill its contract with the power company, JRM is said to have contracted with various other coal companies to mine the coal it had under lease, including the Bryan Coal Co. and Calamity Coal Co., both owned by Phillip and Pearl Booth, the A and A Coal Co., owned by Earl Adkins and Phillip Adkins, and the Dye Coal Co., owned by Ricky Dye, Litton Dye and Tilton Dye.

Coal miners employed by the subcontractors—who make up the bulk of the defendants in the case—were members of UMWA Local 5967 at East McDowell. Two officers of the local—Teddy Kinney, president, and Drexil Hall, vice-president—are also listed among the defendants.

The first count of the indictments, which were presented to the grand jury by Assistant U.S. Attorney Thomas L. Self, charges the 19 alleged conspirators and their eight alleged accomplices with plotting to disrupt the Ray-Mac operation by threats and violence in order to take over the mine themselves.

The indictment lists 42 incidents—including the purchase of guns and ammunition, shooting at the Ray-Mac mine on two occasions, the dynamiting of a coal auger belonging to the company, and the burning of a tippie Ray-Mac had leased—as "overt acts...in furtherance of the conspiracy."

Counts 2 through 5 cite specific acts of violence on February 17, 18, 21 and 26, 1982, allegedly calculated to obstruct Ray-Mac's operation in order to force the company out of business.

Counts 6 through 8 allege violations of federal firearms and explosives laws, and counts 9 and 10 charge three of the defendants with making and possessing a bomb, and failing to register or pay taxes on it.

Conviction on any of the first five counts carries a penalty of not more than 20 years in prison, a $10,000 fine, or both. The other offenses each carry a maximum prison term of 10 years or a $10,000 fine or both.

Among the "overt acts" cited as part of the alleged conspiracy are:

—a January 4, 1982 meeting between Edgar Jones and Ernie Justice, president of UMW District 30, in which Jones "attempted to get District 30 to organize Ray-Mac."

—a Feb. 15 meeting in which Jones is said to have told Phillip and Pearl Booth that Ray-Mac had underbid him on a contract for the sale of coal and that miners working for JRM's contract miners would have to shut the Ray Mac operation down;

—a meeting the same day between Edgar Jones, Ricky Dye, Phillip Adkins, Earl Adkins, Phillip Booth, Carson Akers, German Stumbo and Greg Jones at which Edgar Jones "told his contract miners that a picket line was to be set up at Ray-Mac (and that they were) to allow their men to walk off their jobs to join the picket line."

On Tuesday, Feb. 16, the second day of picketing and the first to bring reports of violence, Jones is said to have furnished the pickets with a case of whiskey and to have assured them they "would get the guns and ammunition needed to stop Ray-Mac from operating."

Guns and ammunition were purchased from Donahue Halbert and were apparently paid for with union funds drawn from Local 5967, according to the indictment.

Drexil Hall is accused of firing that day on a coal truck driven by Danny Blanton, of McDowell, as it crossed the picket line. Jason Moore is said to have fired on coal trucks leaving the mine site.

The following day, Wednesday, German Stumbo and Ed "Panhandle" Moore are said to have led Jake Moore, Hermit Newsome, Austin "Bo" Moore, Teddy Kinney, Eugene Tackett, Pebo Gayheart and Harold Moore into the hills overlooking the Ray-Mac mine and to have directed them to shoot at workers and equipment there.

On Thursday, another group—including Ed Moore, Van Patton, Eugene Tackett, Benny Caudill, Ranny Blankenship, Tim Milan, German Stumbo, Pebo Gayheart, Teddy Kinney, Harold Moore and Jason Moore—is said to have also taken to the hills and to have fired on Ray-Mac employees and state police officers.

The following Sunday, German Stumbo, Ed Moore, Jake Moore, Teddy Kinney, Mose Mead, Kenneth Rolland (Postman), and Philman Caudill blew up a coal auger owned or leased by Ray-Mac and tried to blow up a bulldozer, it is alleged.

On Friday the following week, Ed Moore, Mose Mead, Philman Caudill and Basil Ray Moore, at the direction of Ed Moore, burned down a coal tippie on Stumbo Hollow which had been leased to Ray-Mac, the indictment alleges.

In an apparently unrelated development, Ed "Panhandle" Moore was shot dead by Price Hall following an argument between the two men at McDowell last June.

A civil suit filed in circuit court here in February last year by Ray-Mac owners James McGhee, Frank Justice and Raymond "Pete" Barker and truck drivers Danny Blanton, Abner Justice and Dana Spurlock named Edgar Jones, Phillip Booth, Harry Moore, Bennie Caudill, Hermit Newsome, Ricky Moore, Linville Mosley, Harlan Wallen, Milfred Gearheart, Clyde Hampton, Willie Moore, Richard "Dick" Moore, Jason Moore, Willie Gearheart and Austin "Bo" Moore as defendants.

The suit was dismissed in September by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley and the dismissal has been appealed by plaintiffs to the state appeals court.

Monday's indictments cap a lengthy investigation by the Treasury Department's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms and the Kentucky State Police.

Summonses were issued for all defendants except Gayheart, for whom a bench warrant was issued. They are scheduled to appear for arraignment in U.S. District Court in Pikeville at 9 a. m. on June 15.

(Indictments are not proof of guilt.)

According to a schedule adopted by the board, salaries for most teachers will rise by $1140 and will range from $13,840 for a beginning, fully-certified teacher to $21,715 for the most educated and experienced rank.

On the payroll are 71 custodians, 110 cooks, 58 bus drivers, 23 clerks, 17 maintenance workers, and 11 garage workers.

The central office staff will number 32, not including eight on the Chapter I (remedial reading) office staff. The Headstart program will employ 18. Six special education aides have been hired.

Among summer employees, 16 will work for a federally-funded "feeding" program, 25 will work as janitors, and 18 will staff a youth employment program.

Woodrow Burchett was retained as the school board's attorney and the Big Sandy Insurance Agency at Martin as the board's insurance agent.

The board voted to accept the resignation of its former chairman and 31-year member, John M. Stumbo, who was recently named Floyd judge-executive. A replacement for Stumbo, who represented the Betsy Layne-Harold-Mud Creek area on the board, is yet to be named.

At the request of principals of McDowell and Allen Central high schools and over the opposition of Board Member Ray "Shag" Campbell, an option given last month to the county's football-playing high schools to schedule cheerleading elections in the spring or fall was extended also to those schools.

Bids were accepted on 10 junked school buses and trucks. The vehicles were sold, again over Campbell's objection, to W. V. Elliott, David A. Layne, and Howard Hicks for prices ranging from $40 to $205.

(A complete list of those hired by the board appears elsewhere in this edition.)

or gravel upon church parking lots, meritorious as it might otherwise be in relation to spiritual and moral training."

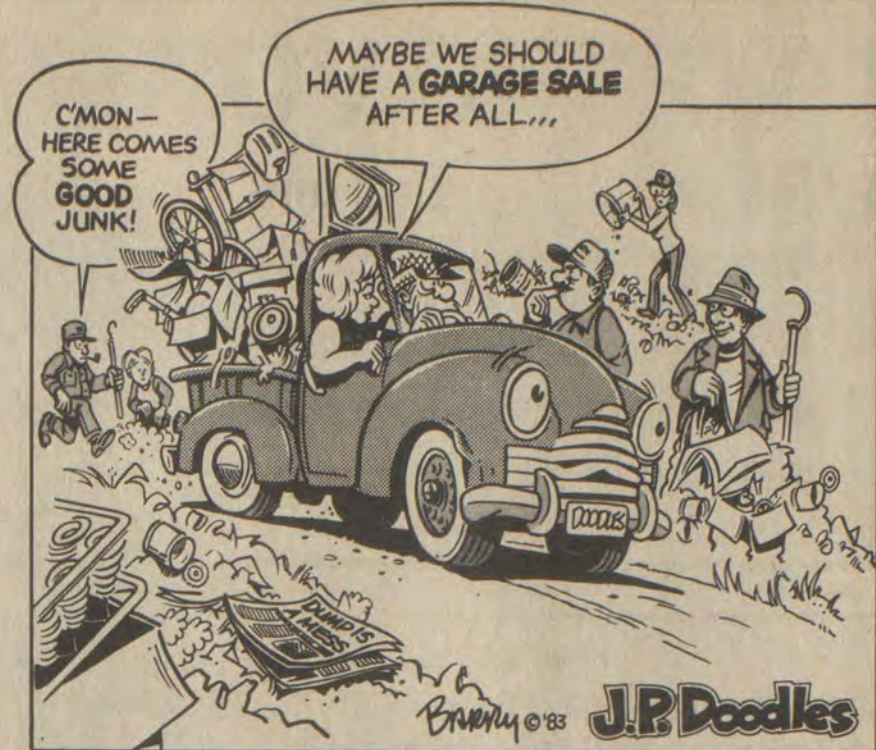

In yet another opinion Asst. Atty. Gen. Thomas R. Emerson answered a question raised by County Attorney Turner on the City of Wheelwright's benefitting from court costs. Wrote Emerson:

"...it is our opinion that in the absence of any statutory authorization to do so, a district court may not assess court costs to be paid to a city of the sixth class (Wheelwright), for citations issued by its police force and for arrests made by its police force, where those citations and arrests result in convictions in the district court. Only those costs and fees specifically authorized by statute may be recovered, and recovery is limited to the person or entity so authorized."

In no event, Emerson held, could such costs go to the arresting officer; instead, they must be paid into the city treasury.

business for another year.

Besides the $210,046 earmarked for Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc., the revenue-sharing budget will also be tapped to honor claims carried over from the current budget, including $49,000 for the Auxier park, $13,812 for the state auditor, and $6000 for the Beaver Elkhorn Water District.

Half the money the county must still pay on the Auxier park—which is the balance due on a $99,000 project—will be reimbursed by the state. The money due Beaver Elkhorn is for the extension of water lines on Left Beaver Creek; and the state auditor's claim dates to 1978, it was said.

Magistrates Kenneth Roberts, the only member of the fiscal court to vote "no" on the budget, thought the county could ill afford to support either the volunteer fire departments or the county attorney's office, criticized administrative staff cuts (of which his daughter, former Flood Plain Administrator Vicky Martin, was a victim), and was reluctant to approve a raise for the deputy judge as long as no one has been named to that position.

While no official appointment is expected until next month, it is widely assumed that Morris Isaac, chairman of the Floyd Democratic Party executive committee, will have the job.

"Is this trip necessary?" was a question that once was batted about—for what reason, I am not sure. It serves me now to raise another: "Is this column necessary?"

Frankly, I could very well get along without it. I begin to get the feeling that it has become something of a bad habit with me after all these years, and I strongly suspect that the paper and those who read it would stand a good chance of surviving without it.

There's one thing in my favor: this is a habit, if habit it is, that I can break without withdrawal pains.

For acronyms I care not at all, but I like MADD (Mothers Against Drunken Driving) in spite of all that. And now the insurance companies are joining that cause which asks the Kentucky legislature to enact laws that will put in jail—and not immediately back on the road—those who drive while drunk. With the insurance companies it may be an actuarial matter. With most of us it's a matter of life and death.

Medicare Available For Kidney Failure

Full Medicare health insurance protection is available to people in the Big Sandy Area who suffer from permanent kidney failure and who need dialysis or kidney transplant, Jim Kelly, Social Security District Director for the Big Sandy Area, said recently.

To be eligible for Medicare, a person must either be an insured worker or the spouse or child of an insured worker. To be insured, a worker must have enough credit for work covered by Social Security. In 1983, the amount of credit required ranges from 1½ to 8 years, depending on the age of the worker.

Medicare protection generally starts with the 3rd month after the month a course of maintenance dialysis treatments begin.

Protection can begin earlier if the person takes part in a self-dialysis training program in an approved facility and he or she expects to self-dialyze or if the person is admitted to an approved hospital for a kidney transplant.

Medicare protection will end 12 months after the month a person no longer requires dialysis or 36 months after a kidney transplant. It may last longer if there are complications, Kelly said.

There are two parts of Medicare, hospital insurance, which helps pay the costs of inpatient hospital care and certain kinds of followup care, and medical insurance, which helps pay the costs of doctor's services, outpatient hospital costs, and certain other medical services and supplies. Medical insurance is voluntary and the person must pay a premium to have this protection. The monthly premium is $12.20 now and will increase to $13.50 for the 12-month period starting July 1983.

More information about Medicare for people with permanent kidney failure can be obtained at the Big Sandy Area Social Security office, located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville.

Stumbo Released, Awaits New Trial

With a $1000 bond and property belonging to his mother as surety, Steve Stumbo, convicted in 1979 of murdering his brother-in-law, was released from prison Monday to await a new trial on the charge.

The Sixth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals overturned the murder conviction in April after finding that "prosecutorial misconduct" on the part of Lester H. Burns, Jr.—a private attorney hired by the victim's family to assist Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen in prosecuting the case—had denied Stumbo a fair trial.

The appeals court ordered the state to retry Stumbo within 90 days or to release him.

A pre-trial conference in the case has been scheduled in circuit court here tomorrow (Thursday) and trial is set for June 23. Gary Johnson, Stumbo's attorney, said he will seek a continuance, however, to enable expert witnesses to be retained on his client's behalf.

Stumbo was sentenced to 20 years in prison for the murder of Larry Johnson. Were he to be retried and found guilty of accidental homicide, for which the maximum sentence is 10 years, he would now be eligible for parole, his attorney pointed out.

TO THE CITIZENS OF FLOYD COUNTY:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for your support, your help and your vote that elected me as your Democratic nominee for the Clerk of Floyd County.

Your vote of confidence in me during this campaign has proven that Floyd Countians can still express their opinions without being pressured into doing what others seem to think is a right way to run an election.

This campaign involved a lot of good, honest citizens concerned in bettering our county. Without your help and most of all, your prayers, we could have never won this campaign.

Again, from the bottom of my heart, I would sincerely like to thank you for your trust and your support. For those that I missed during this primary election, I will sincerely try to meet you at your home before the general election and for those that I spoke to during this election, I plan to visit you again also.

Thank you and May God Bless You,

Carla Robinson Boyd

Lexington Meet
On Job Training
Slated June 9

People from across the state who will be charged with developing the Job Training Partnership Act in Kentucky will participate in a one-day orientation session next week in Lexington. The Cabinet for Human Resources will host the conference Thursday, June 9, at the Radisson Plaza.

Participants will include:
—Local service delivery area representatives charged with implementing this new federal job training program.

—Members of the local private industry councils, which set program policy goals and determine how funds will be spent in their respective areas, and —Members of the state Job Training Coordinating Council, which makes policy recommendations to the Governor, the Secretary for Human Resources and the Commissioner of the Department for Manpower Services.

Human Resources Secretary Buddy Adams, who will address the morning session, said JTPA "is one of the best opportunities we've had in a long time to mold and shape a program to fit the various needs of an individual state."

He said the conference "will give those who are laying the foundation for this program in Kentucky an opportunity to discuss the persons to be served by the law, employment problems and possible solutions."

JTPA focuses on partnerships between the public and private sectors in identifying job training needs. At the conference, Adams said, "we will talk about the relationship between business, economic development and job training."

Participants also will be given information to help them develop local plans and programs.

Workshops will be held to discuss training and employment needs of youth, the handicapped, dislocated workers, offenders, the elderly, displaced homemakers and other target groups.

Kentucky will receive an estimated $34.4 million for JTPA in fiscal 1984. The nine local service delivery areas will share $26.9 million. The remaining $7.5 million will be set aside for coordination and special services. These programs will be administered through the Department for Manpower Services. These special services funds will be used for state education coordination and grants, training programs for older workers and incentive grants for service delivery areas and service deliverers with exceptional performance.

Plan 104 Conventions

The Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of New York has completed plans for the 104 district conventions of Jehovah's Witnesses in the United States during June and July. Society spokesman Stanley Weigel said about 1,000,000 persons are expected to attend "Kingdom Unity" conventions in more than 60 cities.

Many members of the Beaver Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses will be at one of two such gatherings at the Huntington W. Va., Civic Center. Approximately 14,000 Witnesses from this region will attend the Huntington conventions, said local minister Burnis Jones.

BILL WOULD EXPAND USE OF IRA FUNDS

Senator Wendell Ford (D-Ky.) has cosponsored legislation that would expand the concept of the Individual Retirement Account to allow persons to accumulate tax deferred funds to be used either as a down payment on a personal residence or to prepay mortgage principal on a home loan.

This legislation, entitled The Mortgage Retirement Act of 1983, is designed to stimulate savings and make ownership more easily attainable for millions of Americans.

Under current laws, an individual may contribute up to $2000 per year to an Individual Retirement Account to be used to accumulate savings for retirement. The legislation Ford is cosponsoring would give individuals an additional option to invest the IRA money for use as a down payment for future purchase of a personal residence or as a prepayment of a mortgage on an existing personal residence. The concept of using the money to prepare for one's retirement is preserved through the personal residence investment vehicle.

Two Receive M.D. Degrees

William T. Fannin

Blake R. Burchett

Two Prestonsburg residents, William T. Fannin and Blake R. Burchett, were awarded Doctor of Medicine degrees from the College of Medicine, University of Kentucky, at special commencement ceremonies held May 8. Dr. D. Kay Clawson, dean of the College of Medicine, presided during the ceremony, which was held at the U.K. Center for the Arts.

Dr. Burchett is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde B. Burchett, of Prestonsburg, and was graduated with high honors from Transylvania University, Lexington. He and his wife, Rebecca, will be moving to Spartanburg, S.C., where he will do a three-year family practice residency at Spartanburg General Hospital.

Dr. Fannin is a son of Billy R. Fannin, of Prestonsburg, and the late Dorothy Hughes Fannin. While earning his AB degree from Pikeville College, he was a certified respiratory therapist. He is a recipient of the $500 Kentucky Medical Insurance Company Award. He, his wife, the former Deborah Belcher, and son will reside in Lexington during his three-year family practice residency at the Albert B. Chandler Medical Center.

Slone To Coach At Paul Blazer

Craynor Slone, the former Wayland High School basketball player whose successful coaching career hit the heights last season when his Carlisle County team was the sensation of the Kentucky high school tournament, will be the new coach of Paul Blazer High at Ashland, it was announced last week.

Slone, a teammate at Wayland of the legendary King Kelly Coleman, was one of 37 applicants for the Ashland coaching job. He will succeed as coach Ernie Simpson, who will be athletic director for the school.

His Carlisle County team during the past season won 40 games while losing 4, and in the state tournament lost to top-ranked Henry Clay in overtime. Slone was named Kentucky coach of the year. During his five years at Carlisle County his team won 136 games while losing only 34.

Slone's second as a coach has been a litany of triumph.

Before going to Carlisle County he coached at Henry County, where his teams were 85-50 record and gained NCKC Coach of the Year honors; Southern High in Racine, Ohio where his teams were 54-26 and a state tournament quarterfinalist; and St. Catherine High in New Haven, Ky. where he was 54-10 in two years.

Slone graduated from Morehead State University. He and his wife, Christine, have two daughters.

"That was one thing about the Ashland job," he said. "My wife and I are both from eastern Kentucky and we have family close," he said. "If I was going to leave Carlisle it had to be for a job like this."

Slone said he was leaving Carlisle County in good shape.

"They should have another good team this coming season," he said. "But this last team was something special. They just did what they had to do to win. They'd always find some way to win the game and it never mattered to them who scored the points."

Retires in Illinois

When Edward Stumbo, native Floyd countian, retired recently from the educational system of Kendall county, Illinois, where he had been a coach, teacher, principal and superintendent, a fellow teacher there wrote a tribute to him in a letter to the editor of the Kendall County Record, Excerpts from the letter follow:

"Ten years ago I met a man who greatly affected my life and my career. The man's name is Edward Stumbo, and he was my first 'classroom mate' when I started my teaching career. He became my personal survival kit and taught me more teaching skill in that first year than I learned in four years of college...Ed Stumbo represents all that education and teaching stands for. We hear and read about 'teacher burn out' these days, but I don't believe that word has ever been or ever will be part of Ed Stumbo's vocabulary. He has given 100 per cent every year...Most importantly Ed Stumbo loves people, loves life, and loves teaching—three qualities that are hard to find and will be hard to replace..."

Mr. Stumbo, who is listed in Who's Who in American Education, was active in curriculum development in the Yorkville School District No. 115 and was instrumental in bringing about innovations that developed a social studies reference book for kindergarten through the eighth grade which is currently used in the Yorkville School system.

A son of the late Joe K. and Mint Stumbo, he has three sisters, Mrs. Inzie Moore, Mrs. Violet Hall, Mrs. Melvina S. Thomson, and a brother, Jim Stumbo, all of McDowell. He and his wife reside in Plano, Illinois, and their two sons and a daughter live in towns nearby.

"My Brilliant Career"
On KET, June 22

"My Brilliant Career" portrays a young woman torn between two choices, following the social mores of the day by marrying, or pursuing her life of writing. Although set in the 1890's, "My Brilliant Career" deals with an important contemporary theme. This poignant film encores Wednesday, June 22, at 8 p.m. on KET.

Sybylla Melvin (Judy Davis) is a teenager locked into her family's struggle against poverty and drought on a 19th century Australian farm. Her maternal grandmother (Aileen Brittain) rescues her from this frustrating situation by inviting her to live in Caddaget. While there, Sybylla develops an interest in books and music. She also meets Harry Beecham (Sam Neill), the owner of a neighboring farm. "My Brilliant Career" follows Sybylla's love affair with Harry, her growing need for independence and self-fulfillment and her personal struggle with these conflicting desires.

Miles Franklin wrote My Brilliant Career at the age of 16. It was published in 1901 and is generally thought to be semi-autobiographical.

The book was adapted for film by Eleanor Witcombe, produced by Margaret Fink and directed by Gilliam Armstrong.

Investigation Made In Death of Cole

The death of a young Pike county man, who died on his way home from Marlowe's Country Palace early Saturday morning, is under investigation by Pike county officials.

Kenneth Wayne Cole, 20, died between 2:30 and 3:30 a.m. while en route to his home at Island Creek. He and Kathy Smith, also of Island Creek, had been at Marlowe's Country Palace near Pikeville most of the evening, according to Pike county Deputy Coroner Zeb Hampton, who said that after leaving there, the couple had stopped to see her grandparents, Clarence and Artie Tackett, of Toler. Later, on the way home, Miss Smith was not able to awaken Cole, and stopped at the home of a neighbor, Olivia Reverick, for help.

Deputy Coroner Hampton said that the Revricks called an ambulance, but "Cole had already died...he was pronounced dead at 4:10 a.m."

Toxicology tests have reportedly been performed, but a member of the J.W. Call & Son Funeral Home said the cause of death had not been determined Tuesday afternoon.

Cole was born November 11, 1962, the son of Jeff and Lurlie Alice Gibson Cole, of Island Creek. In addition to his parents, he is survived by a brother, Jimmy Cole, of Betsy Layne, and two sisters, Sandra Ratliff and Annette Rieh, both of Pikeville.

Funeral services were conducted at 11 a.m., Monday, at the Island Creek Regular Baptist Church by Regular Baptist ministers. Burial was made in the Robinson cemetery, there, under direction of the J.W. Call & Son Funeral Home.

AMERICAN HEART ASSOCIATION
KENTUCKY AFFILIATE, INC.

Dear Floyd County Business Person,

You can help to save lives from the number one cause of death in Kentucky. More lives are lost to heart and blood vessel diseases throughout the Commonwealth and, nationally, then from all other causes of death combined. The mission of the American Heart Association is to save lives from heart disease.

Something can be done. Since 1966, there has been 25% fewer deaths from heart disease. The Heart Association knows how to help fight the problem. We know that if we continue to promote research and community programs like training in cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) and blood pressure screenings, lives can be saved. But, if we are to continue to learn more about cardiovascular disease, we need your help.

Last year 15 eligible grant requests were refused because of insufficient funds. Please decide to make your Heart Fund gift so the Heart Association can expand the search for a better understanding of heart disease and increase life saving community services.

Sincerely,

B. H. MEADOWS KILLED IN MINE

B. H. Meadows, 35 years old, a miner, was killed in the mines at Thealka last Wednesday evening when a heavy piece of slate fell on him, while he was working. He had been with the company for about six months and was formerly employed by the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company.

HEART FAILURE CAUSE OF MRS. HATFIELD'S DEATH

Heart failure is held responsible for the death at her home in Pikeville at one o'clock Thursday morning of Mrs. Basil Hatfield, 47 years old. Mrs. Hatfield has been in apparently good health until the time of her death, which came suddenly.

Mrs. Hatfield was a sister of Mrs. W. T. Mellon, of this place, and was a highly-respected woman of Pikeville, in which town she had lived her entire life. Before her marriage she was Miss Mary Ann Parsons.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday afternoon by the Rev. Allen Cline, and burial was made in the Chloe Hill cemetery, Pikeville.

PEARL TUSSEY TAKEN RECENTLY IN ASHLAND

Pearl Tussey, of Martin, was arrested in Ashland several days ago as he alighted from a fast freight, and, haled before a special agent of Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company, confessed to numerous robberies.

Tussey confessed to robbing the store of Fred Kitchen at Hitchens recently. When captured, he had a valise full of new clothing, shoes, jewelry and cigarettes, spoils of the store robbery at Hitchens. He is said to have been wanted at various places for automobile thefts, box car robberies and breaking into express offices.

HEALTH WORKERS ASSIGNED TO EASTERN PART OF STATE

In developing the program for full-time county health departments the State Board of Health is announcing that the Public Health Training Stations at Greenville, O. and Indianola, Mississippi, have released seven physicians who have completed the training for positions as directors in county health work, and these are as follows:

From Greenville, Ohio, Dr. T. F. Long, who is assigned as the director and health officer for Magoffin county; Dr. J. S. Fitzhugh, director and health officer for McLean county; Dr. Kenneth Lockwood, director and health officer for Martin county; and Dr. E. T. Riley, director and health officer for Menifee county. From Indianola, Mississippi, Dr. J. W. Davis, Dr. Edwin Cameron and Dr. John Cox, to be assigned to units in Eastern Kentucky not yet determined. Dr. John Miller, formerly attached to the staff of the State Board of Health, is elected as director and health officer of the full time health department in Estill county. Public health nurses will be assigned to each of the units as assistant to the health officer, and to the larger units a sanitary inspector will be assigned for each.

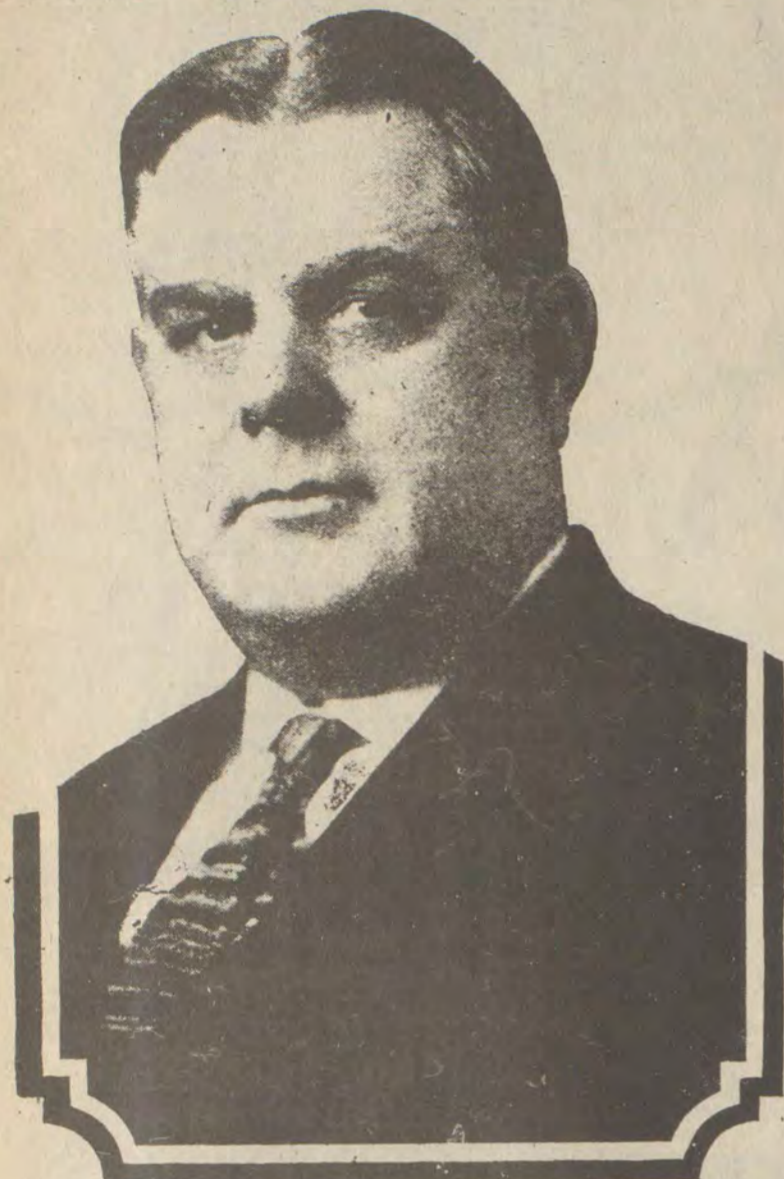

The return of these physicians to Kentucky will practically complete the program of staff organizations in the counties that were organized following the floods in Eastern and Western Kentucky, and it is anticipated that the influence from the work accomplished in these counties will spread to other counties and result in the extension of the full-time county health service.

BALLPLAYERS ENTERTAIN STRANGE SUPERSTITIONS

Hunchbacks and rubbing colored boys' heads, rabbits' feet and tomato soup, empty barrels and chewing gum—none of these is written into the records of the annual baseball guide, but they play big parts in making baseball history.

The reason for this is there is no more superstitious group of people in the world than baseball players. Each player has his own particular beliefs on the subject of attracting the coy glances of Lady Luck and he isn't backward about putting them into effect.

Old Eddie Plank had one of the queerest superstitions. He would never pitch a game unless he had a plate of tomato soup for lunch. Eddie Collins, like Plank an educated man, always carries a piece of chewing gum on the bottom of his cap.

When two strikes are called on him, or a crisis crops up, Eddie solemnly removes the gum from the button, places it in his mouth, and chews violently.

Christy Mathewson, perhaps baseball's greatest figure, always grabbed his hat from his head and spat in it when he sighted a cross-eyed man.

Because one of his pitchers won a game after passing a load of empty barrels, Manager John McGraw, of the New York Giants, some seasons past had a wagon haul empty barrels about the diamond every day.

Eddie Rommel, pitcher for the Athletics, will not autograph a baseball because he believes it brings bad luck, while other players are convinced they'll have bad luck if they allow any other player to use their bat or glove.

Bob Shawkey never did think he could win a ball game unless he wore a red flannel undershirt on the diamond, and scores of other players have adopted their pet luck hunch.

Urban Shocker, the spitball pitcher, chews slippery elm instead of tobacco and parks his glove in a certain position before the dugout when he comes off the field.

Grover Cleveland Alexander thinks he will be beaten for certain unless he has a big wad of "eatin' tobacco" bulging his cheek. In fact, almost every player has a pet superstition which he believes will aid in winning ball games.

INDEPENDENT SENSES THE LOSS TO ASHLAND

The Ashland Daily Independent, in a recent editorial, expresses a sense of keen disappointment in the loss of the Big Sandy trade to Huntington, which is connected with this section via Louisiana and the Wayne highway, whereas Ashland is comparatively isolated, with the Mayo Trail unfinished.

This editorial may tend to arouse Ashland from the position of snug security which it has held so long, and may bring its business interests to a realization of the value of Big Sandy trade.

The editorial follows:

SOME SIGNIFICANT NEWS

The following brief news story from the Big Sandy News of Louisiana should bear considerable significance to the people of Ashland and Catlettsburg:

"A good patronage has marked the first week's operation of the Louisiana-Fort Gay-Huntington bus line, George W. Chapman, manager, announced last week. The line was put in operation last week with busses leaving each terminal every two hours. Many passengers were carried daily and the service is one which has been badly needed. "A schedule of the new bus line is carried elsewhere in the News this week."

This simply means that business patronage and friendship which by almost every law of geography and economics should come to the nearest large Kentucky territory, and especially from Louisiana, into West Virginia. One law of economics alone has been violated. That is the one which causes commerce and trade to follow the highways of least resistance, other factors being equal.

The good roads of West Virginia are completed and our friends and kinsmen from Louisiana and the surrounding territory can reach Huntington much more easily than they can come to Ashland. The Mayo Trail remains with work upon it in Lawrence county at a standstill. Who can blame them for taking the busses or driving their own cars to Huntington over the better road?

The same thing that is happening to Lawrence county folks is very probably going to happen in Johnson and Magoffin counties. In other words, highways are being built, especially the Garrett Highway, started years after the Mayo Trail was begun, which will lead the stream of business and social intercourse and commerce away from Ashland and into other communities. The sole economic or geographical reason why Ashland should not be the logical outlet for this stream has been given above, that of available good roads.

It may be that the people of Ashland have done their best and that politics and trading schemers have combined to accomplish what looks very much like cheating her out of her birthright. Or it may be that most of us have not realized what was going on and have stood calmly and supinely by. In the meantime, the Mayo Trail is not being built, and economic trends, once established, are hard to change.

Job Agency Sets Open House For Area Employers

To Wed June 25

Gov. John Y. Brown, Jr., has proclaimed June 6-10 as Employment Service Awareness Week in Kentucky, and all employers in Floyd, Johnson, Martin, and Magoffin counties are invited to attend an open house observing the 50th birthday of the Employment Service of the Department of Manpower Services which will be held from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m., Thursday and Friday, at the Prestonsburg office of the Department which is located on North Lake Drive, here. Coffee and donuts will be served to visitors.

Office manager, James L. Reed, said the purpose of the open house is to allow area employers to meet the staff and acquaint them with manpower services available. They may also view the state-wide and national job bank systems used for listing hard-to-fill jobs.

Reed said that the major function of the Employment Service, created June 6, 1933 when the national unemployment rate was 23 percent, has always been the placement of individuals in jobs. Today, however, many other services are also available. These include job placement, employment counseling, testing, employability skills training, pre-screening and maintenance of applicant files for employers, labor market information, and the computerized nationwide job bank system.

With eight employees, the Prestonsburg office serves Floyd, Johnson, Martin, and Magoffin counties and is one of 24 local offices throughout the state.

In his proclamation, Gov. Brown said "During its first 50 years, the United States Employment Service, also called the Job Service, has generated 126 million job placements nationwide...I encourage all citizens of the Commonwealth to join with me in honoring the dedicated employees and employers who serve their fellow Kentuckians."

Dr. Clark is a graduate of Martin High School, of Eastern Kentucky University and of the University of Kentucky Dental School. He is now practicing dentistry in Martin.

The wedding will take place at 3:30 p.m., Saturday, June 25, at the Mt. Presbyterian Church on Iron Works Pike in Lexington, Kentucky.

John Updike Profile Scheduled on June 28

Highly-acclaimed American writer John Updike, best known for his novels about Harry "Rabbit" Angstrom, is profiled in a one-hour special to be aired Tuesday, June 28 at 10 p.m. on KET. "What Makes Rabbit Run?: A Profile of John Updike" follows the author on a 1982 publicity tour promoting the third of his "Rabbit" books, Rabbit is Rich. Celebrating the events and the man, BBC filmmaker David Cheshire and crew traveled with the author to New York, Pennsylvania and to his home north of Boston to produce the program. The rhythm of Updike's days, on the road or at the typewriter, provides the background for reflections by the writer. These reflections are enhanced in the author's voice-over readings of his poetry, in a brief interview with his oldest son, David, and in excerpts from "Too Far To Go," a much-praised film based on his stories about the Maple family.

A Rebel Veteran's Story

Most of stories told by Civil War veterans have either been forgotten with the passing of the years, or have been altered in the retelling.

Not so in the case of William Collins, Sr., of Lackey, a Confederate veteran. On Nov. 9, 1928 he had his story put into writing, and a copy of that record has been made available to The Times by Scott Collins, Prestonsburg attorney and a grandson of the veteran.

His reminiscences follow:

When the Civil war started in 1861 I was fifteen years old, I had two brothers in the service, Marshall Collins and Isaac Collins. Marshall Collins was younger than I and Isaac Collins was older. I am at present 84 years old. At the age of 16, I joined the Confederate Army under Adam Martin who was captain of my company. Also at this same date my two brothers joined. Adam Martin was a captain under Colonel Ben Caudill, of Whitesburg, Ky. Anderson Hays, of Hindman Ky., was captain of another company, mostly from this section of the country. Among other men who were in the two armies were Isom Slone, of Caney, Berry Sexton, near Whitesburg. Koon Slone, Bill Triplett, Sr., Moon Conley, all of Lackey, Nelise Chaffins, Emery Hughes, Bryce Shepherd, of Goodloe, (Middle Creek), Bice Johnson, Joab Johnson, John Johnson, Tandy Martin, Sr. and Joe Martin, of Lackey, and John Slusher.

While in the service we had to drill twice a day and we were stationed in this section of the country which extended to Whitesburg Ky., Gladesville, Va. and other points. It was our duty to protect the country from abusive treatment from Home Guards and outlaws, also to capture the Yankees wherever we could.

Ben Caudill's regiment was composed of one thousand men and the captains of his regiment captured, in all, fifty Home Guards belonging to the Yankee Army. They were all tried for crimes of one kind and another and all paroled with the exception of one man by the name of Scritch, a son in law of Old Sam Maggard, who lived above Hindman. Scritch was considered a very bad and dangerous man. It was proven by his own comrades, or Yankee Home Guards, that he had killed an old man and woman and robbed them and was found to be guilty of other willful crimes. This being the case, it was decided to courtmartial him. Col. Ben Caudill, with his other majors and other officers under his supervision, selected twenty-four men out of the various companies to perform this duty. I was selected as one of the twenty-four men but was rejected by my captain on account of my youth, and Isaac Collins, my brother, was taken in my place. Ben Smith, who used to reside on Jones Fork, and Dan Howard, who formerly lived at Lackey, were two of the men selected. Howard was selected from his own suggestion, due to the fact that a short time previous to this, Scritch had helped to kill his brother.

The law governing performances of this kind made it necessary, in order that they might not know for a certain ty who fired guns loaded, that only every other gun should be loaded with ammunition. It has always been said by those present to witness the occasion that Dan Howard's gun made a long fire and that Scritch, in giving away, one bullet grazed the top of his head and it was always thought that Dan Howard's gun missed him on this account. Apparently all the others took effect. It was always said by those present—that Scritch was one of the most daring and courageous men to ever face an ordinance like this.

Before he was courtmartialled the men were told to take aim, and Scritch patted himself on the chest and told the men he was ready.

Frankfort Hearing On Committee Action Scheduled Thursday

The appeal filed May 28 by Ann Latta, of Prestonsburg, county Democratic committee vice-chairman, challenging the committee's earlier decision to nominate John M. Stumbo, present county judge-executive, as the party's nominee for the same office at the November election, will be reviewed tomorrow (Thursday) at state Democratic headquarters in Frankfort. From nine members of the Democratic State Central Committee each side to the disputed action may "strike" two, leaving a panel of five to sit in the hearing.

Morris Isaac, Floyd Democratic chairman who presided at the Martin meeting that nominated Stumbo, has filed an answer to Mrs. Latta's appeal, it was said this week.

The committee meeting was attacked as having been held without proper notice and as controverting party rules.

The Frankfort hearing will be at 5 p.m. and will be open to the public.

After I was in the service for eighteen months as a Confederate soldier I was captured and taken prisoner. My brother Marshall Collins was also taken prisoner at the same time. My other brother, Isacc Collins, and others of our company escaped. He remained with the army for a period of one year. An incident which was always commented upon. While there was severe fighting at one time Isacc Collins was appointed to hold horses for some of the other men in his company. Among them was Joe Martin, a brother to Adam Martin, our captain. Isacc saw they were determined to capture Joe Martin. He mounted his horse and led Joe's horse to him which was being surrounded by those on the opposite side. Both rode to safety. It was always commended as being a very dangerous and daring deed.

Isacc Collins was in many battles throughout this section extending into Tennessee and Virginia. Those taken prisoner at the same time I was taken, I cannot recall all their names in this section but among them were my younger brother, Marshall Collins, Col. Ben Caudill and others previously mentioned. At the time of our capture we were at Gladeville, Va. The Yankees brought us to Pikeville, Ky. and from Pikeville to Prestonsburg by foot. At this place they kept us for three days and nights under guard. We had no shelter and were compelled to sleep on the ground without blankets. From this place we were taken on a flatboat to Catlettsburg, Ky. From this point we were taken via steamboat to Cincinnati. We were in Cincinnati when the Battle of Gettysburg was fought. We remained there for two days and nights and from this point we were taken by train to Camp Chase, Ohio and kept for four weeks. We were then taken to Camp Douglas, Ill., at Chicago. Later, Lincoln's Park was built on this site. They put us in prison and we were kept there for eighteen months. There were about ten thousand prisoners in all. On one occasion I remember while in prison, visitors were allowed to come among us. One day some visitors brought with them a shepherd dog which accompanied them in the prison. Some prisoners from the Blue Grass region of this state managed to steal and conceal the dog. After the visitors left, they missed the dog and returned to the prison in search for him but could not find him. The next day they again returned for further investigation. They found some of the dog's feet and hide. Upon inquiry why they killed the dog the answer was given:

"The dog was killed and eat for the want of meat."

This was the only answer they could get. A sharp suspicion was placed upon some of the men and it was reported that those accused were severely punished. The kind of punishment they had was placing them in a dark dungeon for certain spaces of time or sometimes placed chains around their legs and fastened a ball of iron to it weighing sixty pounds which the men had to carry with them when they moved about.

Doctors visited the prison who would inspect and treat those who were ill. I oftentimes made it a point to gain their friendship and showed myself ready to help them in any way I could. They often played checkers in the prison. I built fires for them and when I took sick in prison they gave me their special attention, especially one doctor whom I had won his confidence and friendship. This doctor treated me and encouraged me to get well. My brother Marshall Collins took sick with typhoid fever in prison with me and died of this disease. Many of the others died of this same disease. The other diseases which caused the most deaths were erysipelas, smallpox and measles.

At the time of my exchange they were dying at the rate of fifty a day.

After being in prison for eighteen months they decided to take five hundred of us and exchange us to five hundred soldiers at Richmond, Va. At this point I got a sixty days furlough home and while I was home peace was declared.

At this time all the men who were in prison with me and all the soldiers whom I was on duty with are dead and, so far as I know, I am the only survivor. I have made this statement at the request of my family who have often heard me relate some of these incidents.

Architects were using the principles of air conditioning long before the discovery of electricity. The tile domes of Moslem mosques, the June Reader's Digest reveals, are blue-green for a purpose—it's one of the least heat absorbent colors of the spectrum. The lacy screens also found in Moslem countries act on another principle: air passing through a constricted opening loses its temperature as its velocity increases.

Investigations conducted by the U.S. Labor Department's Wage and Hour Division in fiscal 1982 disclosed $49.4 million in minimum wage underpayments due 290,000 workers and $80.8 million in overtime underpayments due 288,000 employers, according to the department's annual report.

One Man's Opinion . . .

Beyond the Acid Rain Scare

By RICHARD L. TRUMKA
President, United Mine
Workers of America

Five hundred years ago everyone knew that the sun circled the earth. Galileo even faced excommunication for expressing his theory that the sun was the center of the solar system. A few years later, people began to question the fact that the earth was the hub of the universe. Then we learned the truth.

That is the nature of scientific progress—from false certainty to questioning, to new and more accurate knowledge. On the subject of acid deposition, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and a number of reputable atmospheric scientists have moved from the first stage to the second, and all of us should be grateful.

Current scientific knowledge is overwhelmingly uncertain. We do not know the cause of increasing acidity. We do not even know that acidity is increasing. We do not know what level of acidity is "normal." We do not fully understand the relative contribution of natural and man made sources of acidity. And, despite propaganda, we do not know if local or long distance sources of pollution are more important. Significantly, a study released in April by The Massachusetts Institute of Technology and one by a Washington University professor issued in May, stress the relative importance of local sources.

There are many other things that we know. We know that there is no evidence that acid rain affects human health. We know that the same New Englanders who want to tighten pollution controls in the midwest want to ease them at home. We know that American pollution controls are stricter than those in Canada. We know that the worst single polluter in North America is Canada's Sudbury smelter. And we know that the area most affected by excess acidity in North America surrounds that Sudbury installation.

And that is only part of our knowledge. We know that the level of acidity historically has varied. Ages-old icebergs reveal higher acid content than we now have. The same was true of seventeenth century Paris. We know that acid levels never have been measured consistently over a long enough period to determine if significant changes have taken place. We know that IF—a very big IF—utility emissions are a major cause of rainfall acidity, the problem is self-correcting because of provisions in the Clean Air Act. The USEPA recently reported that emissions of sulfur dioxide declined by 27 percent from 1975 to 1981. And, as new power plants—which must meet even more stringent standards—replace older ones, that process will accelerate.

Most of all, we know that acid rain controls will have severe economic and employment impacts in the Midwest and parts of Appalachia. The U.S. Department of Energy recently estimated that 50 to 75 percent of the emissions reductions mandated by the proposals would be achieved by substituting low sulfur coal for high sulfur coal. If this fuel switching occurs, 40,000-80,000 coal industry employees could lose their jobs. In addition to the direct mining job losses, many thousand more workers in related industries and in the service sector would be affected. These job losses would occur in areas of the country that already suffer from near depression-level unemployment rates.

The total economic cost to the coal mining states that would be affected would be between three and six billion dollars. The social costs would be incalculable. Moreover, the problems created would not be short term. Many mining communities would never recover; they would become ghost towns. Meanwhile, the energy independence that is within our grasp never would occur. Instead, we would continue to mortgage our future to unstable and expensive foreign sources of energy.

Finally, we know that the propaganda being issued by organizations devoted to acid rain controls has been a disservice to the people of the United States. The people and organizations that have issued this propaganda are using unjustifiable scare tactics. These are reminiscent of the claims some years ago that Lake Erie already was dead and gone, irretrievable, because of pollution. Tell that to the people enjoying Lake Erie's many beautiful beaches today.

More than enough heat has been shed. Now it's time to spread some light.

Reader's Digest Reports
West German Laws

It's against the law in the West German community of Bruhl for children to refuse to help their parents. According to the May Reader's Digest parents can have them ordered back to work by a guardianship court. Reasonable duties for a 6- to 10-year old: occasional help with washing dishes, cleaning and shopping; from 14 to 16: car washing and gardening; over 16, if both parents work, it's perfectly fair to ask the youngster to do the weekly housecleaning.

Rev. Buell Addresses
Area Crusade Rally
Held at Church Here

Approximately a dozen area churches were represented at the first rally held here recently at the First (Irene Cole Memorial) Baptist Church in preparation for the Big Sandy Area Crusade to be held July 17-30.

The Rev. Jesse Buell, of Middlesboro, who will be the Crusade evangelist, was the speaker at the rally. Special music was provided by the choir of the Fitzpatrick First Baptist Church.

Committees named to prepare for and assist with the Crusade are already at work. It was announced that at least three well-known music groups—The Cook Family, The McKays and The Cornerstones—will make Crusade appearances and that local singers will take part in the program each evening.

The Crusade, an inter-denominational effort, will be held at the mouth of Cowpen, on US 23, near the Weddington Plaza, in a tent which will seat 100.

The next rally of churches prior to the Crusade will be held June 20 at Emmanuel Baptist Church at Mullins, it is announced.

Morehead Slates Parley On Family

The fourth annual Conference on Appalachian Children and Families will be held at Morehead State University, June 23-25, in conjunction with the events and activities of the seventh annual Appalachian Celebration.

The conference stimulates research on Appalachian children and families and promotes collaboration among those who work on child development and family structure issues.

A 6 p.m. banquet on Thursday, June 23, will open the conference, featuring a keynote speech, "Feeling Valuable and Valued: Issues and Opportunities in the Study of Appalachian Children and Families," by Jim Wayne Miller, a noted Appalachian scholar, educator and poet.

Friday and Saturday sessions will include presentations of interdisciplinary studies, reports and discussions on early education; community, family and social change; emotional development; developmental and environmental psychology; parents and education; and family intervention.

Participating in the sessions will be a variety of scholars and practitioners from numerous agencies and institutions. They include Sheryl Young and David Peters, Western Carolina University; Joseph H. Stevens, Jr., Georgia State University; Barbara Clinton, Vanderbilt University; John Photiadis, West Virginia University; and John Beck, University of Michigan.

The conference is open to the public. A $10 registration fee covers the cost of the Thursday evening banquet plus refreshments during breaks throughout the conference. For further information on registration and lodging, contact Linda A. Higginbotham, MSU, Division of Planning, Morehead, Ky. 40351. The telephone number is (606) 783-2448.

Day Would Focus On Global Food Crisis

Senator Wendell Ford (D-Ky.) said today he is co-sponsoring a resolution which details the problem of world hunger and world food supply and designates October 16, 1983 as "World Food Day".

"More than 15 million people throughout the world die of starvation each year," said Ford. "In the developing world, one out of every four children under the age of five dies from hunger. The United States has the resources and the moral responsibility to lead the effort to eliminate world hunger."

A major global food supply crisis appears likely to occur within the next twenty years unless the level of world food production is distributed more efficiently, said Ford. "The world now produces enough food to provide every woman and child with a diet of about 3,000 calories per day, well above the average minimum requirements. We must distribute the world surplus, especially the one that exists here in the United States."

"It is not lost on Congress that there are immense farm surpluses and rising farm foreclosures in America despite the desperate need for food by millions around the globe," said Ford. "A legitimate effort to distribute food could provide new markets and be a boon for the American farmer."

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

Milk seems to be the all-American drink when it comes to supplying dietary calcium to young children and post-menopausal women. Unfortunately an estimated 30 million Americans cannot consume any dairy product due to an inability to digest lactose (milk sugar). They suffer from bloating cramps and diarrhea. However, now there is a new enzyme that can be added to milk that enables those with a lactose intolerance to comfortably drink milk. The enzyme splits lactose into two digestible sugars, glucose and galactose. The enzyme is sold in pharmacies and is available in some ready-to-drink milk that has already had the enzyme added.

If you're someone who has difficulty assimilating dairy products, ask us here at COOLEY APOTHECARY to suggest an enzyme that can help with this problem. We're a full-service pharmacy, and we offer the most complete and professional service in the area. If you're new to the area, come in and introduce yourself, because we like to know our customers. As your neighborhood pharmacy, your best interest is our best interest. Located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg. Mon.-Fri., 9-5:30; Sat., 9-4. 886-8106.

To Graduate with Honors

Miss Sharon Kaye Hager will receive her Bachelor of Science degree in nursing with highest honors at graduation exercises of the University of Tennessee in Knoxville, tomorrow (Thursday).

Miss Hager will receive her nursing pin at a pinning ceremony to be held today, June 8. During her four years at the University of Tennessee, she has attained the Dean's list in all quarters attended. She is a member of the Gamma Beta Phi, Golden Key, and Phi Kappa Phi Honorary Societies. She was also inducted into the Sigma Theta Tau National Nursing Honorary Society, and has served on the Dean's Advisory Council for the Nursing School. Miss Hager has accepted a position in the Coronary Care Unit at the Oak Ridge Hospital, Oak Ridge, Tennessee.

Harbor Seal Always Finds His Way Home

Star gazers may look for constellations, but along the East Coast, "Andre Watchers" look for a famous speckled seal.

For 14 years, Andre the harbor seal has been swimming his way up the coast from his winter home at a Boston aquarium to his adopted summer home in Rockport, Maine.

Andre prefers the Rockport harbor to the "wild" of the ocean, according to this month's issue of Ranger Rick, the children's publication of the National Wildlife Federation.

In Rockport, Andre spends spring and summer under the watchful eye of Harry Goodridge, who's taken care of the seal since he was a baby. But because Rockport's water is too cold for Andre in the winter, Goodridge sends him to an aquarium in Massachusetts or Connecticut in the fall.

When he's turned loose from the aquarium each spring, Andre returns to Rockport. One year, he actually swam from the tip of Cape Cod to Maine—a 200-mile trip—in less than six days.

After Andre's first summer in Rockport, Goodridge arranged to take him to an aquarium, where he'd be cared for and in the company of other harbor seals. When the next spring came, Andre was released into the ocean just north of Boston, and everyone hoped he would return to the Atlantic.

Andre did return to the Atlantic, but he swam close to shore, and in just a few days, he was back in Rockport harbor, looking for Harry Goodridge.

Andre is now a New England celebrity—beloved by all those who watch for his annual swims up the coast, and those who wait to hear that he once again has reached Rockport.

But Andre is particularly special to Harry Goodridge and his family, who have grown up with the seal. According to Ranger Rick, Andre even rides in the Goodridge car when he's on the way to visit their home!

Goodridge has also taught Andre to "fetch," which was relatively easy since harbor seals are natural retrievers. Andre actually became such an expert that he took part in Goodridge's daughter's wedding, which was held right next to the water in the harbor. At just the right moment, Andre fetched the wedding rings from the water, and took them to the bride and groom.

During his spring and summer in Rockport, Andre eats the fish Goodridge feeds him, swims in the harbor, and performs tricks for the visitors who come to see the legendary Rockport "native."

Six Jailed, Equipment Worth $250,000 Taken

Agents of the Special Investigative Unit of the state Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet last Friday raided an illegal mining operation near Hogskin Branch in Clay county, arresting six and confiscating $250,000 worth of mining equipment.

Arrested at the mining site and charged with mining without a permit were Robert C. Young, of Manchester, Dan Washburn, of Goshen, Ohio, Anthony T. Young, of Manchester, Chester Gregory, of London, Charles M. Young, of Manchester, and Russell P. Deaton, of Manchester. The men were lodged in the Clay county jail.

Confiscated at the site were two bulldozers, two coal-loaders, two pickup trucks and two end-loaders. Investigators said that approximately 337.5 tons of coal had been removed from the 1.5 acre site.

Good News Report

By THOMAS W. PAUKEN
Director of ACTION

When Gertrude Brewington was a young girl growing up in Cumberland County, N.C., there was no high school for Indian children, the nearest being 50 miles away. No matter the distance, she and her sister were determined they would attend. So their father scrimped and saved and bought a car of sorts. To help defray its cost, the parents of six other Indian families contributed a monthly fee for transportation. And so, daily, Gertie, her sister and friends made a 96-mile round trip to earn their high school diplomas.

From childhood Gertie knew she was going to be involved in helping her people, most of whom lived on the cold edge of poverty. And through her long association with the North Carolina Commission of Indian Affairs, she has done just that.

A year ago she became the director of the Young Volunteers in ACTION program in Raleigh. Today, with 481 volunteers between the ages of 14 and 22, her YVA projects serve Indian needs in 13 counties. Most of the volunteers are from Indian families, and they know better than anyone the kind of problems to be found in remote Indian villages where shanties line the dirt road, a muddy well supplies water for a half-dozen families whose children are semi-literate—far behind their class in reading and writing. Gertie had spent a great deal of time as a literacy tutor for Indian youngsters, and this was one area of volunteer training on which she concentrated. She knew it was essential to get past the obstacle of the isolated world in which so many of the children lived, not just behind the closed door of a shanty but behind the closed door of the mind. With the aid of her volunteers and their adult coordinators, she organized weekly meetings where the young people could gather to socialize, learn crafts and dances and develop a sense of pride in their heritage.

As she describes it, "Where once there were kids who would not lift their heads, they now take part." As for tutoring, just recently an Indian mother whose daughter was judged to be three years behind the class received a letter from her daughter's teacher saying, "I don't know what you're doing to improve Donna's reading and writing but her progress is remarkable."

Recently, the Cumberland County YVA held an election and Pam Brewington, Gertie's 15-year-old daughter, became president. Since the age of eight Pam has been a certified literacy tutor, the youngest in the state. Like mother, like daughter, she has dedicated her volunteer time to Indian affairs. Recently, she has been involved in the planning for the State Youth Indian Conference, held this month. At the gathering there are numerous workshops—on leadership, on state government, on the legislative process, on Indian affairs. The purpose is getting young people involved and interested in their state and encouraging them to motivate their parents to register to vote.

Gertrude Brewington, through her development of the YVA program, has brought a new and exciting dimension of voluntarism to young volunteers who are engaged, not only in Indian Affairs, but also in everything from working in the sheriff's office to assisting at the VA hospital. In so doing she has broken down old barriers and improved community relationships throughout her wide region of activity. She's one American busy proving what this country is really all about.

ASCS Urges Corn Producers To Report Acreages By July 15

Again, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service is urging corn producers to report their planted acreages. With recent changes in the farm programs, it is more important than ever for producers to certify their crop acreages. Many producers were disappointed this year when they were ineligible to participate in the Payment-In-Kind (PIK) Program, due to failure to have reported their acreages in the past.

Persons participating in the PIK must report to be eligible for benefits. Penalties will be assessed for those farmers approved for a PIK contract who do not report their acreage on time and correctly.

ASCS offers measurement service to farmers at a nominal fee to those persons uncertain as to their correct acreages.

Because of rainy weather, planting will be very late this year, but farmers will have until July 15, to certify. Failure to report could affect producers' eligibility to participate in future years and, program participants, could result in loss of benefits and liquidated damages being paid ASCS.

TAKE A KID FISHING

June 6-12 is National Fishing Week, and the theme of this year's observance is "Take a Kid Fishing."

Introducing a youngster to the sport of angling is a worthwhile endeavor any time of the year, but during National Fishing Week, why not make it a special point to take a boy or girl fishing.

The kind of fishing trip you plan for the youngster can make a big difference in how well he enjoys the outing. While a 12-year-old could probably spend all day casting for bass with you, expecting the same dedication from a six-year-old bundle of energy would be asking too much.

For the younger child, an hour or so fishing for bluegill at a nearby farm pond will generally be sufficient. Tackle should be kept simple—a cane pole or perhaps a spincast outfit, with a can of worms for bait.

It's also probably best to limit yourself to one kid at a time. Individually, kids can act reasonably civilized, but put them in groups of two or more and you're just asking for trouble.

And remember that the object of your outing isn't necessarily to catch fish. Rather, you should make it a point to see that the youngster enjoys himself—which is, after all, the point of any fishing trip.

If chasing grasshoppers or splashing stones in the pond seems to be more fun than fishing, then let the kid chase or splash. There will be plenty of time later to instruct the child in the fine points of angling techniques.

Another important thing to remember when you're on any outing with a kid is that the youngster is not only learning from what you tell him, but also from your actions and attitudes. If you're tempted to keep just one short bass, or if you carelessly toss a sandwich wrapper or an aluminum can over your shoulder, what have you taught the child about sportsmanship or outdoor ethics? A kid will encounter enough bad influences as he's growing up without your adding to his store of bad habits.

Finally, also remember that you're not just providing the kid with a pleasant afternoon's outing—you are introducing him to a pastime that will give him enjoyment and fascination for the rest of his life. There's not many gifts you could give a youngster that will give him as much pleasure as knowing how to fish.

Penny Was Path To Priesthood

Deacon Bob Damron

By Gwen Hall

Neither soup beans nor Sunday school nor teaching in a "holler" could satisfy the hunger of Bob Damron.

Damron, who will soon become a Roman Catholic priest, describes himself as a poor, but proud, Pike county hillbilly who was hungry for answers about God and eternal life.

It was in a Freewill Baptist Church he says he "first learned about God and about Jesus." He attended services with his "mamaw" and would take a penny for the collection plate.

It was another penny, however, that led him to the Catholic Church. In his early teens he saw a Knights of Columbus advertisement offering penny pamphlets about God and the church, so he sent for one. Soon he was purchasing five at a time and his hunger found some satisfaction as he digested the answers he found in the pamphlets.

He began asking questions of other area ministers. It was as an inquiring teenager he initially went to Father Jerry Stern, pastor of St. Francis, Pikeville, and had his first conversation with a Catholic. Later, he took catechism lessons from a Father Jackson at Morehead State University.

But Damron, who was not baptized in his Freewill Baptist Church because he "wanted it to be a commitment for life," did not ask for baptism in the Catholic Church in those college years either. He says he just "didn't know how his parents would take it." They were supporting him in school and he "didn't want to hurt them."

The army drafted him then and in El Paso, Texas he continued to attend Mass, read, and ask questions. He also rode his trail bike to desert places where "you could truly hear the voice of God moving within you." But worries about his family's reaction to Catholic baptism still prevented him from joining the church.

After the army, Damron went to "a very poor village in Ethiopia where even the poorest person in America would be rich" as a Peace Corps volunteer. He taught there for two years. He had a lot of time to think. In the face of a situation where he could do nothing about poverty, death and loneliness, Bob says he found a God who offered richness, life, and companionship. After a life-threatening bout with malaria, he promised the Lord he would receive baptism, a promise fulfilled on February 15, 1976.

"My dream then was to teach school, get married, have sixteen kids and live up a hollow as a Catholic Christian," says Damron. But as a teacher at Dorion High School, his dream was challenged. "Teaching did not satisfy my hunger for helping people," he said.

A student put things into perspective for him one day. "Mr. Damron, you should be a minister. You're good with people, you make God come alive, and you show that God is very near."

That comment, says Damron, sparked thinking and praying which led him to realize he could help his people by teaching them about God, "our friend, a gentle, loving Father." Bob was again knocking at Father Stern's door—this time for guidance to the priesthood.

Father Stern linked him up with St. Bernard's Abbey, Cullman, Alabama. At the end of a year as a monk, Damron felt certain of his call to priesthood and to his people. He completed his studies for the priesthood at Christ the King School of Theology in East Aurora, N.Y. and has since worked as a deacon in Catholic parishes in Floyd, Johnson, Lawrence and Martin counties.

He will be ordained June 11 at St. Michael's Church, Paintsville.

It's later than you think!

The Floyd-Johnson County Residential Bond Program is great...for the homeowner and the community. But unfortunately, the clock started to run down on the very day it became available. All funds must be committed by early 1984. There's no guarantee that there will be future bond issues, and even if there are, rates may never be this low again.

Even if you've been told by another institution that you don't qualify, come in and discuss your plans with one of our experienced professional mortgage loan officers. They'll work together with your plans to try and help you qualify. Experience counts...and during the last bond issue we helped make home ownerships a reality for more applicants than all other Floyd County lenders combined.

Miss Tackett is the 16-year-old daughter of Aaron B. and Mazie Tackett, of Honaker, and Mr. Hunt, 17, is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Virgil Hunt, of Stanville. Both plan to attend Mayo State Vocational School.

$50,000 Loot Recovered By Kentucky Officers

A joint investigation by the Kentucky Division of Water Patrol, the Kentucky State Police, the Marshall county Sheriff's office and the Kentucky Department of Parks' Rangers unit has resulted in the recovery of $50,000 of stolen boating and fishing equipment in the Gilbertsville-Kentucky Dam Village area, state officials announced.

The equipment, which included boats, motors, fishing tackle and other marine items, was recovered after several weeks of round-the-clock surveillance in the area of the Kentucky Dam Village State Park marina.

Five Gilbertsville juveniles were arrested by the investigators. The five were later released into the custody of their parents pending an upcoming trial.

Blood Is Life —Share It!

By PAT PHILLIPS

In this day of non-involvement and "hoe your own garden" philosophy, it is often difficult to experience a sense of unity with our neighbors. All of us, however, have in common the gift of life in the responsibility of respecting and preserving that gift.

You can help to sustain the life force of which you are an important part by donating blood. Blood is life and the common bond of mankind. It is a human resource which can and must be shared by one human being for the sake of another.

When you give blood you share a personal gift of your own life force with the injured victim of an accident, the patient undergoing open-heart surgery or organ transplant, a child with leukemia or hemophilia, a woman in childbirth or the newborn with a Rh factor reaction. In all these instances and more, life could be compromised without the healing properties of blood. So, when you give blood, you give life to someone else.

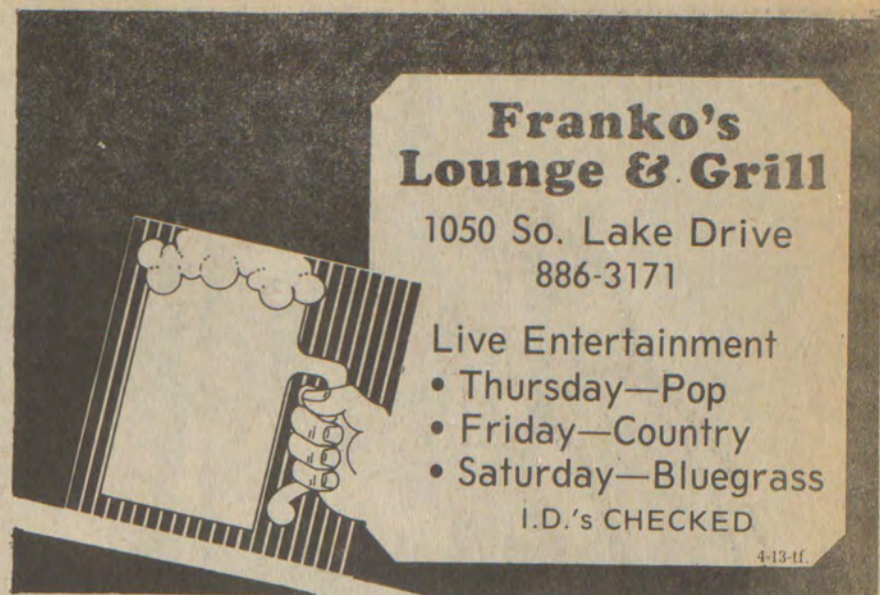

Our Lady of the Way Hospital is sponsoring a blood drive in Martin at the Mormon Church on Tuesday, June 7 from 12 noon to 5 p.m. All area residents are urged to attend. When you donate a pint of blood you help your family and your community by helping to maintain a steady blood supply for those who need it.

Black Struggle In South Africa Is Documented

"Generations of Resistance," airing on KET Wednesday, June 22 at 10 p.m., documents the black struggle against white minority rule in South Africa. The program chronicles the black resistance movement in South Africa from the Zulu Wars of 1890 to the 1977 death of Steve Biko, founder of the Black Consciousness Movement.

Producer Pete Davis combines interviews with rare historical footage in an effort to uncover the little known history of the black South Africans' continued fight for basic human and civil rights. Members of the resistance movements interviewed include one of the founders of the African National Congress, an organization which attempted to work within the system, and exiled leaders of an organized, violent resistance movement. Their stories reveal why generation after generation of blacks have resisted the white rule in South Africa.

"Generations of Resistance" is presented by the National Black Programming Consortium.

FOR A NUMBER of visitors to Jenny Wiley State Park over the Memorial Day weekend, a ride on the sky lift was high on the list of "things to do at the lake."

New Look for Tourism Promotion

The state Department of Economic Development's program to help finance local tourism promotions will have a new look this year, according to Commissioner W. Dale Smith.

The department's Office of Tourism Development has changed its focus and taken an editing pencil to its published guidelines, both in an effort to make the program more responsive to local needs, Smith said.

The matching funds program provides money to help local tourism organizations pay for brochures, advertising, travel show participation and the like, said Whitney Babcock, who heads tourism programs as deputy commissioner. The program pays up to half of a project's costs.

The money is distributed through committees set up in each of 16 districts. A district's committee reviews and acts on applications for funding. The state then checks the applications to ensure they meet state guidelines. "The emphasis is on local decision-making," Babcock said. "We don't want to be in the position of telling a region how it must spend its tourism promotion money."

For that reason, the office has dropped a requirement that each district must spend $4,000 of its allocation to print a regional brochure. Committees may now decide to spend the money for other promotional purposes.

The department also recently filled a vacancy in the tourism office by hiring a new matching funds coordinator. She is Connie Parrish, of Frankfort, a former Cabinet for Human Resources information officer. One of her first missions was to revise the program's guidelines booklet to make it more readable and concise. She is now presenting the new guidelines to district committees in a series of meetings.

The guidelines apply to the funding cycle that begins July 1, the start of the state fiscal year. A total of $359,700 is allocated for some 130 tourism promotion projects this fiscal year, according to Babcock. The same amount is allocated for next fiscal year.

In fiscal 1982, employers agreed to restore $86.9 million in back wages, according to the U.S. Department of Labor's annual report. This total represents a 4-percent increase from fiscal 1981.

New Black Lung Rules Make Qualifying Harder

Tighter eligibility rules for federal black-lung benefits are expected to disqualify all but a fraction of those applying for the special program for coal miners.

The rules, issued last week by the U.S. Department of Labor, result from changes that Congress made in the federal black-lung law in December 1981.

"Certainly our intent was to do nothing more than implement" those changes," said James DeMarce, a Labor Department official who helps administer the black-lung program.

DeMarce said the department is receiving about 1,000 black-lung applications a month. The new law and rules, he said, should reduce the approval rate to 4 percent from 12 percent to 14 percent under the department's 1980 eligibility rules.

The new rules won't affect miners and dependents already getting benefits. The principal effect is to prevent new applicants from taking advantage of three "presumptions" that helped establish eligibility in the past.

DeMarce said that some supporters of the program undoubtedly will be unhappy with the changes, but "that problem really lies with the Congress."

An aide to U.S. Rep. Carl Perkins, D-7th District, the program's best friend in Congress, said the new rules seem to follow Congress' dictates and include no added restrictions.

The United Mine Workers union, the Chief Capitol Hill lobby for a strong black-lung program, was still studying the changes and had no immediate comment, union spokesman Joe Corcoran said.

Hobart Grills a Kentucky black-lung recipient and the executive director of the the Harlan County Black Lung Association, said yesterday that he hasn't seen the new rules but doesn't expect them to be any better than the 1981 changes in the law, changes that he opposed.

Grills said in a telephone interview from Evarts that the new requirements make it all but impossible for young miners and new retirees to qualify for benefits.

The 1981 amendments were a compromise supported by the Reagan administration, the UMW and the National Coal Association.

Essentially, they combined more eligibility controls with a doubling of the black-lung tax on coal production—to $1 a ton on underground coal and to 50 cents a ton on surface production.

Revenue from those taxes go into a trust fund that pays black-lung benefits to miners who retired before 1970 as well as other miners for whom no "responsible" coal operator can be determined.

The problem in 1981 was that the trust fund was paying out far more than it was collecting. The Reagan administration, trying to cut the budget deficit, embraced doubling the tax.

That, it was estimated, would stop the flow of red ink and allow the trust fund to quit borrowing from the Treasury by the end of fiscal 1985.

The amendments and the new rules eliminate three "presumptions" that helped a miner or his survivor establish that his disease was the result of his employment.

In addition, a widow's affidavit is no longer sufficient to establish a claim. The new rules say that the department can consider only affidavits from a third party who doesn't stand to benefit.

Another change allows the department to get a second doctor's opinion on chest X-rays, something that had been prohibited.

The 1981 amendments called for the stricter requirements to take effect last year, and DeMarce said some applications have already been approved or denied under those changes.

But the final outcome in some cases depended on the exact wording of the implementing regulations, and those applications have been held in limbo, he said. He put the number at a little more than 2,000.

New applications for black-lung benefits are only a fraction of the more than 100,000 a year that the program drew at its height.

In the late 1970s, under more liberal regulations, the approval rate was about 40 percent, DeMarce said.

Due to the proposed construction of the Cliff access road, the City of Prestonsburg deems it necessary to remove and relocate an undetermined number of graves from what is thought to be an unnamed cemetery. It is located on the lands of the City of Prestonsburg across from the Cliff Bridge, on KY 1428, about .5 mile north of the city limits.

The City of Prestonsburg desires information concerning the names of anyone who might be contacted who may have knowledge of persons buried there, names and locations within the cemetery of unmarked graves, names and/or addresses of next-of-kin and any information that may be helpful in determining the number of graves in the cemetery.

Anyone having any information, please contact:

David Evans, City Administrator, P.O. Box 31, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653, or call, collect, (606) 886-2335.

Not a Stumbo Challenge

I was shocked when I read today's issue of the Floyd County Times to see my name on the front page. It would make one assume that the only purpose for forming a Fair Elections Organization was to challenge John M. Stumbo's right to run for judge-executive in November.

This is not the case. This organization was formed in March of this year, before anyone could have known that we would be having an election for county judge-executive. Our purpose is to educate ourselves and others as to the Kentucky state election laws.

My interest in the judge-executive nomination was in whether or not the meeting had been advertised, since this is one of the things our organization is interested in.

Since today's article appeared in such a conspicuous place, I would hope that this will get the same publicity. Our organization was formed in the hope that we can get fair treatment for all those involved in elections in our county.

Lauds Cleanup Work

Saturday, May 28, 1983 dawned nice and sunny as members of the Cow Creek Area Development Club came from the different creeks and hollows to meet at the club headquarters by 8 o'clock in the morning. They came by different modes of transportation but every one was well supplied with garbage bags and rubber gloves.

Yes, it was Clean-Up Time again for the Cow Creek area, and the community was well-represented with workers. Many were the same people who had worked the previous year but we also had several new people out to help and that sure made us happy.

When we had our first clean-up a year ago, we had the use of 5 or 6 large dump trucks besides the pickup trucks that were used. This year, we used one dump truck and five pickup trucks—quite a difference in the amount of trash but we are hoping by next year to have even less trash on our roads.

Another big difference was where we began our work from. Last year we met at the Free Will Baptist Church Annex, and are very grateful to the church. This year, we operated from our own headquarters building which serves as a Community Center and fire station. Around noon the workers gathered at the center and were served a hot lunch by the ladies who can cook but are physically unable to pick up trash. The group worked until late and left the highways in this area nice and clean.

It really makes a difference. When I'm driving on old U.S. 23 between the Mouth of Cow Creek and Prestonsburg or Allen it looks just like the Cow Creek road looked before our club was organized and began to take such pride in their community. We invite everyone in this area to be a part of this and to continue such good work. I'm happy and proud to be a part of such a fine organization. Keep up the good work Cow Creek area! This year's clean up program was planned and put into action under the leadership of the Beautification Committee with Gary Douglas Harris, Chairman.

Thanks from Dr. Leslie

I wanted to take this opportunity to express my sincere thanks to all of your readers who supported me in my campaign for Senator from the 25th District. The help they provided and votes they cast for me were greatly appreciated.

During the campaign I had the pleasure of meeting and making many new friends. I am looking forward to continuing those friendships in the years to come.

Campaign Comment

I would like to make a comment on the May 24 Primary, especially the County Court Clerk's race. My daughter-in-law, Carla R. Boyd, was a candidate.

Except for a couple of isolated incidents, it was one of the cleanest campaigns for any Floyd county office that comes to mind. Therefore I want to congratulate all the candidates for their clean campaigns.

Thank Rep. Stumbo

The McDowell Concerned Parents Organization would like to express our thanks to Representative Gregory Stumbo for contacting Senator Nelson Allen to get our school book problems looked into. Due to this, our problem should be solved this coming school year.

Once again, we thank you. Next year, our children should have books for each class instead of doing without as in the past.

Computer To Help

On May 25 of this year, the people of Kentucky joined with other concerned citizens around the nation in observing National Missing Children's Day.

It was my pleasure to announce in conjunction with this day the availability of a computer at the Jefferson County Exploited and Missing Child Unit to all law enforcement agencies in Kentucky and Southern Indiana. This computer will be capable of holding up to 250 separate descriptor items on any single child. It will also be able to record any child's reported movements, allowing police to identify what direction the child is moving and if he or she is staying in any single area.

The availability of the EMCU computer is significant in that for the first time there will be a direct link between other police forces in the commonwealth and Louisville. This is important because our experience has shown that Louisville attracts runaways from around the state who are lured here by the excitement of the big city. Since the Exploited and Missing Child Unit was started authorities have found children from 22 counties outside of Jefferson County. This problem is shared by large and small towns alike.

Last year over 50,000 children were reported missing in our country. A large number of these young people became victims of exploitation. Many were forced into prostitution or the illegal child pornography industry. Others became dependent on illegal drugs or were forced to steal in order to survive. Over 4,000 of these children will eventually be found dead.

National Missing Children's Day affords all of us the opportunity to focus our attention onto this problem and to reflect on what we are doing to protect our sons and daughters. But it is also important to remember that our children are in just as much danger tomorrow and the day after. This threat exists 365 days of the year. If we hope to protect our youth, we all must continue our efforts beyond this one symbolic day.

MITCH MCCONNELL
Chairman, Kentucky Task Force on Exploited and Missing Children

Illegal Mining Crackdown Draws 'Gestapo' Charge

(From the Legislative Record)
Some Eastern Kentucky legislators say a special enforcement task force to crack down on illegal mining operations has used 'Gestapo' tactics to shut down some mines.

Rep. Herbie Deskins, D-Pikeville, who co-chairs the Interim Joint Committee on Agriculture and Natural Resources, said the law may need "a little fine-tuning" because it allows state police to seize equipment at "wildcat" mines and auction it off, even if the violation is just a misdemeanor.

Sen. John Doug Hays, D-Pikeville, said the task force had overstepped its bounds when it cited operators for pollution or blasting violations.

The intent of the legislation is to prevent unsafe mining procedures in unlicensed mines and assure that all mine operators are paying their fair share of the severance tax, he said.

Rep. Elmer Patrick, R-Williamsburg, criticized the way the task force carried out its first raid.

The raid occurred at a small underground mine near Williamsburg that did not have an operating permit.

Patrick said 11 Whitley county men were charged with misdemeanors in connection with the unlicensed operation.

During the raid, Patrick said, armed members of the task force "ran down out of the woods with camouflage uniforms on. I don't think it's necessary. You're not on a marijuana raid. You're not on a moonshine raid."

State Police Lt. David Whitehouse, who heads the task force, said the military weapons and uniforms were intended to be intimidating, but that there has been no violence during any of the 11 raids the group has conducted so far. State Mines and Minerals Commission

Willard Stanley told legislators that no fatal accidents had occurred in a wildcat mine since the crackdown, compared with the previous rate of nearly one death per month.

Kentucky has had one underground mining fatality this year, which occurred in January when a roof fell at a licensed mine in Pike county. Three straight months of death-free mining since then is a record for the state, Stanley said.

While Patrick contended that most wildcat miners in his district were poor, honest people "trying to stay off food stamps," Stanley said he knew of one well-equipped mine owned by wealthy Tennessee businessmen who were having the coal trucked into Tennessee to avoid paying Kentucky taxes.

Not only are truckers and highway travelers singing Ricky Skaggs' "Highway Blues," but Skaggs himself is humming the song as he travels down the road on his current tour.

The tour began in Toronto, where last year he was awarded a gold record for "Waitin' for the Sun to Shine," his first major label effort. He'll play 23 dates in the Northeast, ranging from Long Island to Miami.

The recent National Arthritis Foundation's Telethon from the Roy Acuff Theater in Opryland netted more than $1 million.

Ray Stevens, Lee Greenwood, Lynn Anderson, Joe Stampley, Razy Bailey, Zella Lear, Jacky Ward, Gene Watson, Dick Feller and Charlie McCoy picked and sang for viewers in 35 markets nationwide.

Is Hank Williams' ghost really involved with David Allen Coe's record, "The Ride"? A set of strange coincidences seem to point to that possibility — as wild as it may seem. The song deals with the ghost of Williams picking up a hitchhiker on his way to Nashville to become a star.

The song was written by Nashville songwriters Gary Gentry and Chuck Dickson during — get this — a "seance" at which both writers felt the song wrote itself.

Gentry was performing the song on a TV taping at Opryland last year when the lights went out at the entire Opry House and Opryland complex at the point in the song where the ghost identifies himself.

The same week that Coe's recording of "The Ride" was released, Hank Williams' car, which was housed in a Nashville museum, was returned to Alabama.

Last — but certainly not least — producer Billy Sherrill claims that during the "mixdown" of Coe's recording of "The Ride," a strange "siren-like whistle" appeared on the tape immediately following "antique Cadillac" in the verse. According to Sherrill, no one in the studio did anything to cause or generate that noise. The producer says it's the strangest thing he's ever heard, but it's on the record.

Tune in next time for another exciting episode. Perhaps Hank's Cadillac will drive itself back to Nashville!

By James Smethurst

USA's Thursday Night Baseball on June 16 will feature a match-up between the Boston Red Sox and Detroit Tigers. The Red Sox have started well this year, though strangely, for the Sox, it has been their pitching that has carried them instead of their hitting.

On the other hand, the Tigers have gotten off to a lousy start. But they have too much talent in the batter's box to continue in or around last place. In fact, if they could get some pitching together, they would have a chance to win their division. Not much of a chance, but a chance.

There has been a kind of inflation of titles and divisions in professional boxing that has made for some pretty boring championship fights. There's simply not enough talent between the WBA and the WBC with their umpteen different weight classifications to guarantee a decent fight, even on the championship level. Keeping that warning in mind, on Thursday, June 16, fight fans will be able to watch the WBC Cruiserweight championship on ESPN. Cruiserweight champ S.T. Gordon defends his title.

Some bad news for cable: Black Entertainment Network (BET) and ATI, producer of USA's "Night Flight" and "Radio 1990," have scrapped their plans to develop new music programming along the lines of ATI's other offerings. Citing "irreconcilable policy differences," the companies have broken off negotiations. This ends, for the short-term anyway, the chances for new programming that would have greatly diversified the too-bland musical fare available on cable.

"Star Wars" airs on Spotlight

This week on Spotlight: "Barbarella" (June 13) — A witty sci-fi flick, both visually and verbally, by Roger Vadim. In it, Barbarella, played by a young Jane Fonda, discovers love and sex while saving the universe.

"Star Wars" (June 15) — Long ago and far, far away... what can be said that hasn't been said? An affectionate conglomeration of pop culture from Westerns to Buck Rogers, not forgetting Conan the Barbarian, Marvel Comics and Akira Kurosawa. Like much of this genre, the acting in "Star Wars" is terrible and irresistible. It revels in its corniness.

"Yankee Doodle Dandy" (June 17) — Most of this movie is only enjoyable if you like the musical extravaganzas of the 1930s, though this is a good one of its kind. This movie contains one of the great dance sequences of film in which Jimmy Cagney, yes, Jimmy Cagney, dances a number with so much energy he literally goes right up a wall.

WARGAMES, from MGM/UA Entertainment Co. Directed by John Badham, screenplay by Lawrence Lasker and Walter F. Parkes. Starring Matthew Broderick, Dabney Coleman, John Wood. Rated 'PG.' ★ ★ ★

By J.T. YURKO

Just a few years ago people were amazed at the first video game. It was called "Pong" and was a simple square dot that moved back and forth on the TV screen. Now, due to the proliferation of the microchip, video games have reached a level of graphics and complexity that are quite remarkable.

All these games are really mini-computers, but today self-programmable computers are available, cheap, and have a great appeal to kids. "WarGames" concerns a computer whiz-kid who taps into the Pentagon's program of the nuclear missile launch plan and decides to play what he thinks is a great new video game — global thermonuclear war.

"WarGames" is bound to be one of the big hits of the summer. It makes no pretense about being politically significant, playing it just for thrills. Most of the people who play video games are teen-agers, and this film seems aimed if not at them, then at their mentality.

The premise for the film is great, and screenwriters Lawrence Lasker and Walter F

Parkes have penned a superb scenario that is as thrilling as it is chilling. The viewer will have no trouble believing that this could happen, and this endows the film with inherent power.

John Badham is director here, and he does to the film what he did to "Blue Thunder." The accent is just a bit too heavy on the quick thrill and the easy jolt. Most irritating is his tendency to turn the characters in the film into caricature. For instance, the army general is a tobacco-chewing redneck, ready to blow those commies to smithereens.

Matthew Broderick (featured in the Broadway smash "Brighton Beach Memoirs") plays the kid who nearly sets off a video game Armageddon. Because the film is aimed at teen-agers, what could be a potent voice for arms control becomes a "Dr. Strangelove" for the acne set.

In spite of this, "WarGames" is exciting and diverting, and you may never look at that harmless little home computer the same way again.

Winning Anglers Cop $500 Award

Winning team of Roger Watkins and Paul Hagans split $500 cash award.

The Dewey Lake Fish & Game Club had its first annual bass fishing tournament on Dewey Lake, May 21, and, as has been the case for a dozen week-ends, the tournament began under rainy skies and with water conditions far from ideal. Level was dropping with the conditions being from murky to very muddy. But the adverse conditions could not quell the spirits of 40 brave souls who had decided to pit their skills and enter the tournament.

Roger T. Watkins, East Point, and Paul D. Hagans, Langley, finished first, with the catch of four fish weighing 41 pounds, 10 ounces, collecting the top prize of $500.00.

Second place went to B.F. Johnson and Frank Johnson, father and son team from Pikeville, and they were awarded a Sears Diehard marine battery donated by Mike Levens, of the Prestonsburg Sears Store. In addition, B.F. Johnson took top honors in weighing in the largest bass which was 2 pounds, 10 ounces. For this he won the pool which had been formed among the contestants themselves.

Third place went to Anthony Griffith and Johnny Lafferty, of Allen, who caught two fish that weighed in at 2 pounds, 2 ounces. They were awarded $45 dollars in cash.

Fourth place went to Milton Ryan, of Allen, and his grandson, Paul Gregory, of Lexington, who weighed in one fish at 1 pound, 12 ounces. They were awarded a casting reel.

Others weighing in fish at the tournament were: Ricky Robinette and Donald Elkins, 1 fish, 1 pound, 10 ounces; Michael Fannin, Prestonsburg, 1 fish, 1 pound, 3 ounces; Chalmer Howard and Roger Waugh, Auxier, 1 fish, 1 pound, 3 ounces; Doug Stratton and Gerald Clarke, Ivel, 1 fish, 15 ounces.

A total of 13 bass were caught in the tournament for a total weight of 17 pounds, 5 ounces. All fish weighed were released back into Dewey Lake in healthy condition.

Johnson, Magoffin Join District Health Group

The number of district health departments in Kentucky is growing by two with the formation of such organizations in the Big Sandy and Buffalo Trace area development districts.

Human Resources Secretary Buddy Adams last week approved a request by Johnson and Magoffin counties to form the Big Sandy District Health Department, but Floyd, Martin and Pike remain outside. The district's official starting date will be listed as April 1. Adams also approved the formation of the Buffalo Trace District Health Department to include Bracken, Mason and Robertson counties. The department will begin operations on July 1.

Both new organizations have developed plans and budgets and have received approval from their respective local boards of health. Adams will appoint district boards, which will decide the location of the district offices, establish by-laws and select chief executive officers.

As of July 1, Kentucky will have 19 district health departments, plus two urban county departments that are considered as districts. Adams called the two new districts

"transitional organizations" that will enable the joining counties to share resources. "They will provide the nucleus for the ultimate creation of district health departments that one day could include all five counties in each of the two ADDs," he said.

(Big Sandy ADD also includes Floyd, Martin and Pike counties; Buffalo Trace includes Fleming and Lewis counties.)

Adams predicted that the formation of the district health departments will lead to increased services for the people in the five member counties. "Records show that districts offer a greater number and scope of programs than single county health departments do," he said. "District health departments have access to more dollars, which means more staff, which leads to more services. The public gets the benefit."

Some federal grants are earmarked only for district or regional health organizations, he explained. He also said that more local dollars can go for services when health department administration is handled at the district level.

Richard King of the cabinet's Division of Local Health said the county officials involved in the organization of the two new district health departments have been working on the concept for some time.

"The three counties in Buffalo Trace have strongly requested that they be permitted to form a district," King said. "In Big Sandy, the two counties have virtually demanded it."

According to King, the organizers cited some of the same reasons that many others have given for forming districts.

"Many local health departments do not have the staffing, the finances or the expertise to handle fiscal administration and planning, and many feel they have to turn down the offers of funding because they can't add new programs to what they already are doing," said King. "The district concept turns administration over to the district level and allows counties to concentrate on direct service."

The new organizations will mean that 100 counties will be associated with the 19 Kentucky district health departments and two urban county departments by July 1. This does not include three counties that will withdraw from district participation, effective July 1.

"In the history of district health departments, we cannot say that every county initially electing to go into a district has stayed there," King said. "But, to date, every county that was part of a district and has withdrawn has gone back into the district."
