

WORK BEGUN TUESDAY morning on an Abbott Mountain trouble spot should mean safer travel for the numerous motorists who daily cross the mountain on Route 1428. A state highway crew will attempt to fill where a section of the road near the top of the mountain slipped a number of years ago. Steel girders will be sunk into the underlying soil, according to a highways department spokesman, and reinforced guard rails will then be attached to the girders. The collapsed area of the roadway has been the site of several accidents over the years.

Newsome Named To Fill Vacancy On School Board

The Floyd Board of Education last week named Fred Newsome, 54, of Grethel, to replace John M. Stumbo on the board as representative of Educational District No. 3.

Owner of a television antenna company, Newsome is married, with one adult son. He will face an election this fall for the remainder of Stumbo's term, which runs until the end of 1984.

Stumbo resigned from the board in May, when he became Floyd judge-executive. Succeeding him as school board chairman is Dr. J.D. Adams.

The selection of Newsome and the naming of Adams as chairman came at the special "wrap up" session the board traditionally schedules at the end of the fiscal year.

The meeting began with a brief demonstration of support for the board and Superintendent E.P. Grigsby, Jr., about 20 members of the audience joining Jimmy Dale Lawson, of Garrett, in a round of applause. The school officials were recently charged with incompetence and neglect by a citizens' group, several members of which were also in Wednesday night's audience.

"It's good to have some friends here on occasion," Grigsby said of his supporters.

The superintendent said later that school officials were preparing a formal rebuttal of the charges made by the

Court Approves Insurance Study By State Police

Even as the funeral of Glenda Sharon Marshall packed the Old Beaver Regular Baptist Church last Thursday, the search for her slayer continued.

And the investigation continues this week, with no immediate arrest in sight, according to State Police.

Mrs. Marshall's body was found Monday afternoon, June 20, on the roadway curving up Sizemore mountain, a few miles from her home at Minnie. She was inside an automobile which had careened down the mountainside.

Dr. David Wolfe, state pathologist who examined the charred remains of the victim, says Mrs. Marshall was killed by a blow to the head before the car in which she was found had left the roadway farther up the mountain.

State Detective Danny Stumbo, who is leading the investigation, is being assisted by State Detectives Roger Castle and Fred Bailey.

Stumbo said Monday the probe is not being limited to only one suspect. The motive for the crime is not clear, but Stumbo obviously was not discussing details which might impede the investigation.

The investigation of Mrs. Marshall's death turned Monday to a look at insurance carried by the victim. In a "motion for discovery" County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr., asked of District Judge Harold Stumbo an order directing the First Commonwealth Bank to produce the victim's cancelled checks for examination by Kentucky State Police. The motion specifically requested a series of checks issued to an insurance company, beginning last September, as policy premium payments. Two checks per month were issued to the company, the motion indicated.

"The aforesaid cancelled checks are important and necessary in completion of the State Police investigation of Glenda Sharon Marshall's death," the county attorney wrote.

Judge Stumbo ordered the opening of the bank records, as requested.

Turner Tells Plans For Tax Collection

They will cost the fiscal court an initial outlay of funds, but he has several measures to propose both to collect back taxes and to improve collections in the future, County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. said this week.

Turner's suggestions, which came after a meeting he had with state revenue officials Monday, include publishing the names of those owing taxes on tangible property—as the law already requires of real property tax delinquents—and the prosecution of 100 selected delinquents.

Noting that the 1981 delinquency rate was almost twice as great (18 percent) for tangible property, such as autos and boats, as it was for real property (9.87 percent), Turner surmised that publishing the names of the tangible tax delinquents "might be one of the most effective ways of improving collections."

As for recovering back real estate taxes, he would recommend selling the property of the 100 biggest delinquents with bills dating back at least to 1979, the county attorney said. Tax bills must be at least three years old before a legal move may be made against the delinquents' property, he noted.

Both measures would cost money initially and might prove politically unpopular but the fiscal court should be prepared to bear the financial and political costs, the attorney said.

Turner said he would ask the county to commit $8000 for filing fees in order to pursue the 100 persons or corporations owing the most in back taxes. The law would allow 20 percent of the proceeds to go to the county attorney's office to cover the expense of collection.

The fiscal court might also refuse to accept the sheriff's annual financial settlement unless the tax collection rate is 90 percent or higher, the county attorney suggested. The state sets 90 percent as a goal and sheriffs in many other counties reach or surpass it, he said.

But if it is to ask him to improve his collection rate, the county should stand publicly behind the sheriff and give him the financial and political backing he needs, the attorney said.

Turner also noted that the court is permitted by law to hire a collector of delinquent tangible taxes and to let the collector keep up to one-third of the proceeds. Because of the ease with which title may change hands, taxes on tangible property become increasingly difficult to collect as time passes, he observed.

How vigorously the court should pursue delinquent taxpayers depends in part on how much is due in unpaid taxes, Turner said. That figure will remain unclear until state revenue officials are able to compile the necessary data, but figures released recently by the county court clerk's office here "appear grossly inflated," he said.

The county attorney is expected to make his recommendations at the next meeting of the fiscal court, which is scheduled for July 26.

Prater Creek Water System Funding Seen

Prater Creek looks like being the next Floyd community to make the transfer from private wells to a publicly-owned water system, following the announcement Tuesday of federal funding for such a project.

Representatives of the Farmers Home Administration said they were prepared to put $1,011,000—a $688,000 grant and a $323,000 loan—toward the cost of the project, which has been estimated at $1,053,000.

The federal money is being provided under the so-called "Jobs Bill" recently enacted by Congress. The balance of the project cost—some $42,000—will need to be raised in the form of "tap on" fees from potential customers.

Ervin Akers, a Dana contractor and chairman of the Prater Creek Water District Commission, said 280 customers would be needed to make the system economically viable. Because of the rapid deterioration of private wells in

This Town...That World

You hang around a place so long that, in spite of yourself and any wits that you may have left, you get the feeling that the joint couldn't get along without you. There's a jawbreaker of a word for that wide of the mark concept—indispensability. On a recent press day two regular members of the force were 'way away on vacation, and I wound up in Lexington. And the paper "went to bed," as they say, earlier than usual. Which leaves me a bit chastened and just hoping those who did the work don't decide to dispense with the dispensable.

TALK'S CHEAP

I confess, my education in economics might be described as in the pocket-change class, but I make bold to challenge those economists who blandly assure us that inflation has been halted. Where did it stop?—at the grocer's, at the hospitals, with the utilities companies or the clothing stores? Even the cost at college, where economics is taught, is higher. Only coal and the dollar are cheaper—unless you want to count talk.

Ceiling Fall Disrupts Workday

Employees in the Bureau of Social Insurance section of the building which also houses the unemployment office here found their work day cut short last Wednesday when a 10 X 10-ft. section of ceiling tiles collapsed spreading debris and making a general mess of things in the work area. Although no one was hurt, the office was closed for the day while maintenance workers removed the remaining ceiling area to safeguard against the possibility of another "roof fall."

James Reed, of the Manpower Services staff, said the age of the ceiling (from around 1955) and the fact that remodeling work had been going on in the building may have contributed to the collapse. "The air conditioning's also been down all spring and the heat may have contributed in some way, as well," Reed said. He said a new drop-type ceiling would be installed.

Dr. Godsey Elected State Dental Prexy

Dr. Garland L. Godsey, Prestonsburg dentist, was elected president of the Kentucky State Board of Dentistry at the board's annual meeting Saturday in Louisville, it was announced Monday by Dr. Bruce Thompson, executive director of the board.

At the same time, Godsey was appointed to the executive committee of the four-state Southern Regional Test Agency. As a committee member he will represent Kentucky, which with Tennessee, Arkansas and Virginia comprise the southern region.

Dr. Godsey's one-year term as president will begin July 1. He succeeds Dr. William Worthington, of Louisville. His tenure on the testing agency committee will continue till a successor is appointed.

The new head of the State Board of Dentistry completed this month 21 years of practice here. He is a graduate of Berea College and the University of Louisville's College of Dentistry. He and his wife, the former Wonnell Bussey have three daughters.

June 30 To See End Of Meals on Wheels

Partisans on one side blame politics. Others insist it is a matter of economics. But, whatever the reason, the Meals on Wheels program is scheduled to close its doors permanently this week.

Began in 1973 by a small band of volunteers operating out of the First Presbyterian Church here, the program soon received federal dollars to expand its work of providing a daily hot meal to the elderly and homebound throughout the five-county Big Sandy Area Development District (ADD).

But changes in federal regulations, which now require that nutrition contracts be put out for competitive bids, were also the occasion of the program's demise. Meals on Wheels was roundly underbid this spring by Sandy Valley Senior Citizens, Inc., an organization that already contracts with the ADD to provide social services to the elderly.

For Phyllis Stanley, director of the ADD Agency on Aging, which exercises general oversight over publicly-funded elderly programs here, the matter was a clear-cut economic decision. Sandy Valley Senior Citizens, which will subcontract the nutrition program to a Danville-based firm called Servomation, offered to provide the service for 50 cents a meal less than Meals on Wheels could provide it, she said.

The difference in bid prices—$2.33 per meal as against $2.84—adds up to nearly $65,000 a year, Mrs. Stanley pointed out. Moreover, Sandy Valley Senior Citizens promised better service, including an innovative "emergency rations" meal, than Meals on Wheels could deliver, she said.

But for Robert and Nell Valentine, who were with Meals on Wheels when it first emerged as a volunteer project of the Presbyterian Church's Christian Service Ministry, the economic logic screens an underlying power play. "It angers us to see a respectable local human service gobbled up by a devious bureaucracy," they wrote this week in a letter to The Times.

And the same charge is made by Phillip N. Price, Meals on Wheels' current director. Bid specifications for the 1983-'84 nutrition program "appear to have been written almost to exclude Meals on Wheels as a bidder," he said.

On the other hand, the Big Sandy ADD worked closely with Sandy Valley Senior Citizens prior to the advertisement of bids, even "forcing" that agency over its director's objections to submit a bid for the nutrition program, Price said.

Harold Reynolds, who was director of Sandy Valley Senior Citizens at the time, said this week that some indirect pressure was brought on him to bid for the nutrition program although the bid was "against (his) better judgment."

"I felt it would be detrimental to the close working relationship we had had with Meals on Wheels for a long time," he said.

But Reynolds noted that his board had voted to submit a bid for the program

Social Security Delays Cost-of-Living Raise

The automatic Social Security benefit increase based on the cost of living, previously effective each July, will be delayed for six months till January 1984 because of a recent law designed to strengthen the Social Security system, Jim Kelly, Social Security district director for the Big Sandy area, said recently. The purpose of the delay is to save the system money and help it regain its financial strength, Kelly said. Largely because of economic conditions in recent years, Social Security has had an increasingly severe financial problem. That is now being corrected.

The changes in the law are designed to meet the problem both in the near-term and into the years after 2000. Other changes provide additional income to the system. They include:

—The Social Security tax rate increase scheduled under previous law for 1985 will go into effect in 1984. The new 1984 rate will be 7.0 percent each for employees and employers, up from the previous rate of 6.7 percent. But, employees will receive a tax credit against 1984 taxes of 0.3 percent, which will be given when taxes are deducted from wages. In effect, 1984 employee taxes will remain at the level set under previous law.

Also, part of the tax rate increase scheduled for 1990 will go into effect in 1988.

—Starting in 1984, the Social Security self-employment tax rate will be equal to the combined employee-employer tax on wages. This will be 14.0 percent for 1984. Previously the rate for self-employed people was about 1½ times the employee rate.

Under the new law, self-employed people will receive a self-employment tax credit of 2.7 percent of self-employment income for 1984; 2.3 percent for 1985, and 2.0 percent for 1986-89. After 1989, these credits will be replaced with deductions designed to treat the self-employed in much the same manner as employees and employers are treated for social security and income tax purposes.

A free leaflet, "Social Security Strengthened" is available at the Big Sandy Area Social Security office, located on U.S. 23, between Prestonsburg and Paintsville.

★ CANCER HOPELINE ★

Q. My six-year-old daughter has leukemia. She needs to eat to build up her strength, but she refuses most things. What can I do?

A. Certainly the parents of a child with cancer have many worries, and when lack of eating becomes one of them, the burden is even heavier. There is help available. The diet of a child who has cancer is of vital importance, for the proper nourishment will enable him to better withstand treatment, profit from it, and regain strength. Both the effects of the disease itself and the side-effects of treatment can cause the child to lose his appetite. Parents of a child with cancer want to do something to help the child toward recovery, and good meals are just such an important contribution. Not only is the child coping with the disease and side effects of treatment, he is growing too. But cancer also can prevent the body from fully using the food that is eaten, and the result can be malnutrition as the child resists eating or the body rejects some food.

Your child's physician or a dietitian will be able to tell you what foods should be eaten or avoided. Ask for assistance, and feel free to discuss any reactions your child has to certain foods or any changes in his eating habits. It may well take some time to determine what foods your child can eat. There may be a lot of trial and error. What is good today may not work tomorrow. Be patient with yourself and your child.

At the Hopeline, we have a brochure called "Diet and Nutrition: A Resource for Parents of Children with Cancer." It contains menu suggestions and good nutritional guidance for children who are sick. One section deals with special diets: clear liquids, full liquid, soft, low residue, lactose restricted, gluten restricted, and high fiber. Recipes for snacks and meals are also available.

Contact the Hopeline for information about nutrition for the leukemic child or for any other cancer information. Counselors are at the Hopeline phones from 9 to 5, Monday through Friday. The toll free number is 1-800-4-CANCER or write 915 South Limestone Street, Lexington, Ky. 40536.

July 15 Is Last Day To Certify Crops

Farmers have only a few days left to report their 1983 planted acres to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. The final certification date is July 15.

Program participants are required to report crops and acreages planted, the uses to be made of these crops and cropland acres to be devoted to conservation uses. Nonparticipants need to certify their crops for future programs.

ASCS will randomly check farms to verify that acreage reports are accurate and have aerial photographs available for farmers to identify their fields. To be sure of planted acres, farmers can request measurement service.

Crop certification is necessary before the farmer can receive price support and other program benefits.

Spring seeded crops may be certified, Monday through Friday, between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Floyd County Citizens Education Council, after which he expected state school authorities to conduct an investigation here.

"We have no qualms about an investigation. We welcome it," Grigsby said after the meeting. "For the past seven years we have been one of the most scrutinized school districts in Kentucky," he said.

He expects to present the Floyd officials' response to Raymond Barber, state superintendent of public instruction, by the end of this week or the beginning of next, Grigsby said.

The board again retained Linton and Company, Pikeville accountants, as auditors for the 1983-84 school year and named the Bank Josephine as repository of school district monies. The auditors' fee was set at $8435.

Resignations accepted:
Brenda Cain, special education teacher at Betsy Layne High School; Hugo Miller, principal at McDowell; Kim Gardner, speech therapist; Jeff Riley, teacher at McDowell Elementary; Diana B. Turner, teacher at Prestonsburg Elementary, and Judy Yunker, head teacher at Home Branch Elementary.

Sister Yunker has been named principal of the Mountain Christian Academy, a private school scheduled to open near Martin this fall.

Hired were Wilbur Jamerson as homebound teacher; Wallace Ratliff as band director at Prestonsburg High School; Bobby Phillips as football coach and teacher at Betsy Layne High School; Dennis King, teacher at Prater Elementary; and Geneva Scalf, cook at Prestonsburg Elementary.

Jo Denise Griffin was transferred from Osborne to Melvin; Billie Jo Stegall from homebound to Melvin and Osborne grade schools and McDowell High School; Shirlene Hamilton from homebound to McDowell High School and Osborne Elementary; and Jane Ann Wallace from gifted and talented program to Prestonsburg Elementary.

and that there was nothing illegal about the bidding process.

And not even Price was prepared to say that the area's senior citizens would be worse off under the new providers. In fact, the 1983-84 contract calls for the serving of 37,000 additional meals and the number of meals delivered to individual homes is to be increased from 58 to 130 per day.

Under the new contract, 559 hot meals will be served, five days a week, to five people either in their homes or in the five counties' 11 senior citizens' centers. Cost of the program, most of which is borne by the federal treasury under the 1965 Older American Act, is put at $316,351.

Her death brings the number of "unsolved" murder cases in the county to four. The others are:

—David Allen Whitten, 17, found shot to death Sept. 18, 1982 in a deserted fishing cabin in the headwaters of Dewey Lake. The cabin burned down after State Police had sealed it for further investigation.

—Charles Handshoe, 51, whose body was found last Nov. 16 in a field near Hueysville. He had been shot in the chest and his skull had been fractured.

—Zelma Anderson, 53, found at a deserted strip-mine site near McDowell, Dec. 23, after she had been missing five months. She may have been choked to death, an anthropologist who examined the skeletal remains, said.

the area, he is confident of signing up at least that number, he said.

Under a proposed agreement with Prestonsburg Utilities, Prater Creek would purchase water from the Prestonsburg system, which already has a water main extending south along U.S. 23 as far as Stanville. The Prater Creek system would connect with the Prestonsburg system at Banner.

Commissioners will present the water system proposal to residents at a public meeting scheduled at the Prater Creek school this Friday, at 7 p.m.

Plans call for a tap-on fee of $150. Proposed rates were listed as: $12 for the first 2000 gallons; $5 per thousand for the next $2000; and $4 per thousand for the next 6000. Under these rates, the monthly water bill for a family using 4000 gallons would be $22; for 5000 gallons the bill would be $26.

Leather-bound books will benefit from periodic applications of saddle soap, neat-foot oil or petroleum jelly.

Neighbors at Work

A few months ago, there was a couple of articles and letters regarding the Prettiest Spring in Daniels Creek. It took us almost until summer to accomplish our goal, but we finally did it. May 28th was the first scheduled clean-up and beautification day. About 50 people showed up in gloves, rubber boots, and comfortable old jeans and jackets, ready to begin the hard-working, fun-filled day ahead. We made about 12 trips to the landfill at Garth that day, which made a considerable improvement in the appearance of our community. Mother Nature and her liquid sunshine cut our day short, so we scheduled another for June 18th. We had another shower of the same liquid sunshine prior to our scheduled time. We hope that this is why only 30 people were eagerly awaiting the rain to stop for a few hours. We finished cleaning the creek and picked up car litter from the road and ditches. We made about six trips to the landfill.

The word, "neighbor," was in full force both days with everyone from ages 3 to 83 helping in either picking up garbage, cooking and serving lunch for the hungry mob, or becoming a member and paying membership dues of $5 per year to purchase garbage bags.

We would like to thank our magistrate, Lowell Samons, for his helping hands. He didn't just stand around; he worked just as diligently as anyone else. Our thanks go to David Cooley and his staff of Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc. They allowed us to dump debris in the landfill on a weekend when it wasn't so convenient for them. We would also like to thank the Rev. Rudolph Lewis, pastor of the Daniels Creek Baptist Fellowship Church of God, for the use of the annex building for our lunches and meetings.

Although some people are still being skeptical about our community group, they are slowly diminishing in number; and we hope to receive each one as a new member.

Just like any other laborer, we don't like to see our hard work go down the drain and be forgotten about the next day, week, or month. Therefore, we ask each resident and visitor of Daniels Creek to please, do not litter. Littering is a crime, just like speeding, so please obey this law.

Our community group doesn't just deal with garbage; we have many other projects in the process, such as cemetery care, road and safety improvement, fire protection, etc. We urge everyone affiliated with Daniels Creek to join the Citizens of Daniels Creek, Inc., and be a neighbor. Our monthly meeting is the third Tuesday of each month at 7 p.m. at the local church annex building. Please join us on July 19.

JANET LEWIS, SECRETARY
CITIZENS OF DANIELS CREEK, INC.

They saw Mr. and Mrs. Frank Adams, of Eaton Rapids, Mich., while at the Chestnut Grove cemetery and later visited with Mrs. Kilgore's sister-in-law, Mrs. Lila Ousley, on Abbott Creek, and with Mr. Kilgore's nephew, Alex Prater, and nieces, Mary and Trudy.

Supports Grigsby, Board

I am writing this letter in support of Superintendent Pete Grigsby, Jr. and the Floyd County Board of Education. I can't sit by any longer and not say anything in support of our school system while a few malcontents try to destroy the progress that has been made by our superintendent and board members over the years. Certainly these are trying times, with fund depletions, budget cuts, and many other problems to contend with. We have a good school system that has moved forward in these trying times. Floyd county schools have produced some outstanding people in every profession—teachers, lawyers, architects, doctors and many other professions.

I have had the pleasure of watching our school system progress and grow over a number of years. Superintendent Grigsby and the present board members are carrying on that tradition of a progressive school system. How many of the Concerned Citizens Group, some who are from out-of-state and have only been in Floyd county a short time, remember the one-room schools and have really seen the progress that has been made in our school system? You can read or hear every day about states having to close down completely or shorten their school year because they have no money. This has never happened in the Floyd county school system. Some of this so-called Concerned Citizens Group should go back to their home states or areas and solve their own school problems. They should get their heads out of the sand and look around at the progress that is being made in our school system under Superintendent Grigsby and the school board members.

The majority of Floyd county citizens must be satisfied with their leadership. They have re-elected every board member with overwhelming majorities in every school board election. Just recently, Dr. James D. Adams and Ray "Shag" Campbell received overwhelming mandates over candidates that were backed and supported by the Concerned Citizens Group. Is this group really concerned about our school system or just trying to seek publicity, recognition, feeding their egos, or what?

Let's get behind and support our school system. Superintendent Grigsby, and Board Members and make our schools and system even better than it is now.

MRS. EULENE HAMILTON RATLIFF
Martin, Ky.

Angered by Action

Meals On Wheels has been respected by the community for 10 years as it provided meals for thousands of senior citizens and homebound people. As former volunteers, we were delighted to see the efforts of local people grow into a five-county agency with paid staff, under the able administration of Phil Price.

Apparently, those efforts went unrecognized by Big Sandy Area Development, for due to politics, Meals On Wheels is being forced to close its kitchens, June 30. It angers us to see a respectable local human service gobbled up by devious bureaucracy.

If there are others in the community who feel as we do, please voice your opinion to Phyllis Stanley, Big Sandy ADD.

Wheels of Progress...

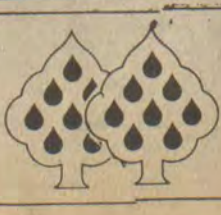

I almost wrote to "The Prestonsburg Post," as I have been a subscriber most of the time since then. I have moved around a lot but my first subscription was in 1922 or 1923, when I lived at a little place called Osborne, Ky.

I see they have built a school on my old home site. I used to pick black-eyed peas and corn right under the house where Sid and Rebecca Bailey live. Wheels of progress! Sometimes you make me sad!

I am glad you are as forgetful as I am or I probably would not be getting the Times now, as it will now, as it will soon be time for me to pay another year. Thanks a lot.

National Guard Band Concert To Open 'Robber Bridegroom'

The opening of THE ROBBER BRIDEGROOM, a concert by the 202nd Kentucky National Guard band, and the official start of the "London Trip for Two" giveaway contest are on tap Wednesday night, June 29, at the Jenny Wiley Theatre.

The evening's festivities begin at 7:30 with a concert by the 202nd Kentucky National Guard band. The concert will not begin at 4 as previously reported by the National Guard, but rather at 7:30 at the theatre. "This concert is a special bonus for our opening night audience," said John McCann, managing director of the Jenny Wiley Theatre. "We are thrilled that such a fine band will perform, and we are pleased that we can offer this pre-show concert at no charge," he added. The band will perform a wide variety of music under the baton of Bandmaster John Hoover.

THE ROBBER BRIDEGROOM is unique among popular musicals because the music is real down-home bluegrass. "ROBBER is such a perfect complement to ANNIE, our season's first show," said McCann. "While ANNIE is a big, traditional musical, with wonderful Broadway-style music, dance and plot, THE ROBBER BRIDEGROOM is a bluegrass fantasy-fairy tale. And both shows are good family fun."

"The success of ANNIE last weekend was just phenomenal," McCann reported. "Attendance was the highest it has ever been for opening weekend. We hope that all those who came to see ANNIE will come back to see THE ROBBER BRIDEGROOM and GREASE, our third show."

The official start of the Jenny Wiley Theatre-Prestonsburg Merchants "London Trip for Two" giveaway contest also takes place on Wednesday. The prize is two round-trip tickets from New York to London on Peoples Express Airlines. To enter, pick up an entry blank at the Jenny Wiley Theatre box office, fill it out, and take it to any of the 25 participating Prestonsburg area merchants for validation. No purchase is necessary. A drawing will be held on the closing night of the season, August 21.

Bishop Hughes Named In Action Filed Here To Collect Mortgage

The Roman Catholic bishop of Covington was named as defendant in a suit filed in circuit court here Friday.

Attorneys for the United Federal Savings and Loan Association claim that Most Rev. William A. Hughes—whose signature appears on a 1979 mortgage loan which the church apparently used to purchase a property in David—is in default.

On the $15,500 loaned to the diocese at 10.5 percent interest in September, 1979, some $14,370 is currently due, according to the suit, which asks for foreclosure on the David tract.

The property reportedly includes a small cottage bought by former Catholic pastor, Father William Poole, to house volunteer workers. Father Poole has since been succeeded here by Father Ralph Beiting.

The Floyd Catholic parish is within the boundaries of the Diocese of Covington. (Suits filed in court present only one side of the issues in dispute.)

Hindman School Sets 3rd Visual Arts Week

The Hindman Settlement School will be conducting its third annual Appalachian Visual Arts Week, July 10-16. The week-long workshop is designed for beginners and advanced students. Two areas of interest will be emphasized—painting and drawing. Students interested in painting can choose two of four mediums to work in oil, acrylic, pastel, and watercolor.

An outstanding staff will be providing the instruction. Doug Adams, a native of Letcher county, will be conducting the watercolor class. He is a Kentucky Heritage Artist, member of Southern Watercolor Society and is a former instructor of art at Morehead State University. Paul Brett Johnson, formerly of Mousie, Knott county, will be offering a class in acrylics. Much of his work shows the influence of this region. Tom Whitaker, of Magoffin county, will be teaching the drawing class. He is an instructor of art at Prestonsburg Community College. Ann Angel Bissell will be teaching the oil painting class. She has an Masters in Fine Art from Pennsylvania State University. She recently moved to London, Kentucky. Al Cornett lives at Slade, Ky., and is a fulltime artist. He is primarily a realistic painter, working in oils and pastels. He will conduct the pastels class. Tim Sizemore, folk artist from Prestonsburg, will be doing two sessions on folk art.

Outside of the daily classes that will be held, several evening programs are scheduled that are open free to the public. On Monday, July 11, Al Cornett will present a slide show, "Powers of Observation." Russell May, landscape artist from Prestonsburg, will do an oil painting demonstration on Tuesday, July 12. On Thursday, July 14, the Arts Trio of Morehead State University, which includes Doug Adams and two friends, will do a combination music, reading and watercolor demonstration. On Friday, July 15 there will be an exhibit of the work of the participants and staff with a reception. All of the evening activities take place in the May Stone Building at 8:00 p.m.

During the past two years this workshop has drawn a large number of local participants. There are still some openings for this summer. Local artists or would-be-artists are encouraged to attend. Everyone works at their own pace. There are some costs but they are very reasonable. For further information please write, Mike Mullins, Appalachian Visual Arts Week, Hindman Settlement School, Hindman, Ky. 41822 or call (606)-785-5475.

"Serving Eastern Kentucky"

Graduates from U. of K.
With High Distinction

Masoud Meshkat, son of Parrin Meshkat, of Kerman, Iran, and foster son of Frankie Sue Best, of Prestonsburg, completed his academic studies for a bachelor of science degree in agricultural engineering at the University of Kentucky School of Engineering, last Dec. 17. He participated in the graduation exercises with his graduating class on May 8, graduating "with high distinction".

His first two years of college were spent at Prestonsburg Community College where he maintained a grade point average of 3.79 and was on the Dean's List all four semesters. While he was there he was elected to "Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges and Universities" for his accomplishments. He also received a foreign students scholarship for merit.

During the next two years at the University of Kentucky's School of Engineering he continued to maintain his 3.79 grade point average and was elected to "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges" for the years 1981 and 1982 in recognition of outstanding merit and accomplishment. In January, 1983 he was awarded a research assistantship for the duration of his graduate program. In his first semester as a graduate student he was again on the Dean's List with a perfect 4.0 grade point average.

When Meshkat came to America in the spring of 1978 he could not speak a word of English. He chose Lexington to begin his educational program, learning English at an adult education center and Lafayette High School where he graduated in the upper 10% of his class.

He continues study in the graduate program at the U.K. School of Engineering.

Surgeon Prescribes Remedy
For the Drunk Driver

If young drivers were required to spend two weekend nights personally watching the carnage of drunken and irresponsible driving in a hospital emergency room, they'd think twice about getting behind the wheel after too many drinks, one neurosurgeon believes.

Dr. Robert J. White, director of neurological surgery at Cleveland Metropolitan General/Highland View Hospital, writes in the July Reader's Digest that the 16-to-24 age group—17 percent of our population—sustained almost one-third of total highway deaths in 1981. "Hundreds of thousands of others were terribly injured, many permanently disabled. The tragic irony of the auto accident is that usually it is preventable; it doesn't have to happen," he continues.

Thus the need to instill in driver trainees a sense of the "awesome responsibilities" that go with a license. And, since statistics show that alcohol is a major factor in auto accidents, Dr. White says, "it seems clear that teenagers should not have access to it, that the legal age for drinking should be no less than 21." Strict enforcement of raised drinking ages, license revocations and other penalties would prevent countless highway deaths and mutilations.

To people worried about the cost of sustaining and enforcing these regulations, he suggests a user fee added to the price of each drink and bottle of alcoholic beverage sold, which could also be used to defray the costs of caring for accident victims.

Dr. White supports these preventive measures because he is the doctor called to the emergency room in the middle of the night to deal with the consequences of drunk driving—and they are horrifying. "I want intoxicated drivers off the streets now," he concludes. "I don't want them to have a chance to destroy any of my friends or members of my family or me."

Tax Bill Lower, Too . . .

Per Pupil Cost Lower in Floyd

There is less spent per pupil in Floyd schools than is true of the state generally, but Floyd taxpayers also pay a much smaller share of the education bill than does the average Kentucky taxpayer.

Those familiar statistics were among 1981-'82 figures included as an addendum to the accreditation report presented by state officials to the Floyd Board of Education last week.

Expenditure per pupil here is listed as $1252, compared to a state average of $1574. On the other hand, the percentage of the school budget raised locally is only 5.1 here, compared to a statewide mean of 21.9.

Less than half the state average is spent on educational supplies and books—a mere $12.77 per Floyd student compared to $28.04 across the state. Even per-pupil transportation costs, traditionally high in the mountains, are less for Floyd students ($150.52) than for Kentucky counties generally ($177.51).

Administrative costs are $25.34 per pupil here, $47.59 across Kentucky. State and federal funds make up more of the Floyd school budget—77.4 percent comes from Frankfort and 17.5 percent from Washington—than they do the average Kentucky school district, which receives 65.1 percent of its funds from the state and 13 percent from the federal government.

But then the percentage of economically-deprived children is higher here also—43.3 percent compared to 31.6.

Fewer Floyd teachers have masters degrees (63.8 percent compared to a state average of 72.2) and their average salary is somewhat lower ($16,391 compared to $17,294).

The pupil-teacher ratio here (24.2) is higher than the state average (21.1). Average attendance is 91 percent (compared to 93.7). Only 52.34 percent of ninth graders go on to complete high school (63.1 for Kentucky). Some 41.9 percent of high school graduates enter college (42.4).

Of Floyd county's 1981-'82 graduates, 90 boys and 111 girls went to college; 49 boys and 46 girls went to vocational or special school; eight boys and one girl joined the army; 62 boys and 31 girls are listed as working, 23 boys and 19 girls as unemployed.

Board of Education Hears Report on Schools' Quality

State school officials who reported to the Floyd Board of Education last Wednesday on the quality of the county's schools were sparing in their comments, apparently preferring to let the report speak for itself.

What the 73-page document says may well be in the ear of the listener.

While Superintendent E.P. Grigsby, Jr. called it "basically a good report card for us," several members of the Floyd County Citizens Education Council (FCCEC), which recently charged the superintendent and Board of Education with incompetence and neglect, said it substantiated their claims.

Of 349 specific objectives listed by the state as measures of the district and its schools, the Floyd system was found to be out of compliance on 87 items or—as school officials here hastened to put it—in compliance on 262 items.

Russell Below, assistant head of the state Education Department's bureau of instruction and one of two state officials who delivered the accreditation report Wednesday, said some of the district's "non-compliances" were merely technical, some may have resulted from inadequate documentation, and some represent shortcomings in only a few of the district's 20 grade schools and five high schools.

No deficiencies were noted in the school district's budget or food service departments and no fault was found with its broad "statement of philosophy and objectives."

But the accreditation team listed shortcomings under the dozen other categories—conformity to law, curriculum, community relations, provision for the handicapped, vocational education, "gifted and talented" programs, staffing, pupil conduct, "co-curricular" activities, counseling, physical plant, and transportation—covered by the report.

Developed as part of a new process for accrediting school districts in Kentucky, the remarkably detailed report grew out of a self-study that got under way here under state guidance last fall and continued into April of this year. The process was tested in 15 pilot school districts last year; 33 districts, including Floyd, volunteered for the study this year, and it will be extended gradually to all of the state's 181 school districts.

Textbooks shortages cited by a McDowell parents' group and detailed in an earlier state report are confirmed by the accreditation team, which also noted shortages in seven other schools.

On other issues raised by parents—most recently by the FCCEC in its call for the ouster of the Floyd school board and superintendent—the report of the accreditation panel is mixed.

In the face of FCCEC complaints of early and unwarranted school dismissals, for example, the state report asserts simply that each Floyd school provides a minimum six hours of instruction each day, 175 days a year.

Maintenance of school buses is said to be satisfactory but numerous instances of disrepair in school buildings, another area of concern to the parent group, were cited by the accreditation team.

School administrators are credited with implementing plans to reduce the high school dropout rate and with adequately reporting to parents on their children's progress, including their performance on standardized tests. Moreover, citizen groups are given opportunities to help plan and evaluate school budgets and curricula, the report says.

However, the panel found it necessary to remind high school administrators that they should "actually schedule parent-teacher conferences some time during each school year," and ten schools, including three high schools, are faulted for having no written program of school-community relations.

Other issues of concern to the FCCEC—including internal accounting controls, hiring practices, and alleged violations of state "open meetings" law—are not addressed directly in the accreditation report.

The report suffers from lack of direct public input, said Joyce Everly, FCCEC secretary-treasurer. Below later conceded as much but said parents could influence the report through their board members.

To Mrs. Everly's charge that "we have no public forum at board meetings," Below replied that "you'll have to resort to the courts to get that public forum."

The area cited in the report for most deficiencies—a distinction it shares with physical plant and facilities—is special education.

Only nine of the county's grade schools have special classes for the learning disabled and mentally handicapped and the classes are unevenly distributed—McDowell, with 690 pupils, has one special education unit, for example, while Clark, with 600 students, has two—the panel found.

On the other hand, it was not clear to the state team why several special education students were not in regular classrooms, in line with federally-mandated policy to "mainstream" students as much as possible.

In four high schools—McDowell, Wheelwright, Allen Central and Betsy Layne—schedules for identifying and placing handicapped students were not always adhered to; the effectiveness of the special education program at Prestonsburg High School appeared doubtful; and the school district needs a third speech therapist, the accreditation team reported.

The school board has 30 days to study the report and either to accept or appeal it, in whole or part, Below said. Once the report is accepted, the board will have 45 days to submit to the state a three-year plan to remedy non-compliances, he said.

Among other deficiencies and recommendations included in the report:

Besides the textbook shortages at McDowell reported in April by John B. Shoemaker, of the state Department of Education's textbook utilization division, shortages were noted at Betsy Layne high school and elementary school, and at Prater, Home Branch, Clark, Spruce Pine and Stumbo schools.

No library services were available at Home Branch or Spruce Pine; libraries at Allen and Stumbo were available only part of the day; more library materials were needed at Garrett and Bonanza; and reference books were outdated at Drift.

Only 30 minutes were given to fine arts each week at Prestonsburg Elementary (it should be 120 minutes); science, which should receive 225 minutes of class time each week, got only 120 minutes in the seventh and eighth grades at Spruce Pine, Drift and Bonanza; art and music, for each of which 75 minutes should be set aside, were each taught for only 30 minutes at Drift and Spruce Pine and were not taught at all to 242 seventh and eighth graders at Prestonsburg Elementary.

In high school, only two levels of art were offered at McDowell and Prestonsburg (three levels should be offered) and only two levels of foreign language were offered at McDowell, Prestonsburg and Wheelwright. Industrial arts were offered only at Betsy Layne and only one level was offered there.

For some 124 individual periods—about five percent of the total taught—teachers were out of their major, minor or specific area of concentration.

Classes exceeding the maximum of 35 students included Prestonsburg 7th/8th grade (40 students); Prater 7th/8th (40) and 4th/5th (39); Clark 3rd (37); Harold 6th/7th (36); and Stumbo, two kindergartens, each with 38.

No programs existed for gifted and talented students in kindergarten through third grade or ninth through twelfth.

What is required at the end of each grade by way of reading, composition and math skills needed to be spelled out more clearly in all elementary schools.

Efforts should be made to recruit students of the other sex in "single sex" classes—shorthand at Wheelwright and Betsy Layne, adult living at Allen Central, industrial arts at Betsy Layne, and health and physical education at McDowell. The student handbook at McDowell High School was faulted for repeated use of the masculine pronoun.

There were no certified counselors for the county's seventh and eighth grade students.

Except for students in remedial reading classes, the schools provide no screening for hearing and vision problems or for scoliosis, no written health prevention program, no height or weight monitoring, and no social services.

No written plans for school-community relations were available at Allen Central, Wheelwright or Prestonsburg high schools or at Osborne, Spruce Pine, Prater, Melvin, Maytown, Drift or Stumbo grade schools.

Neither of the two science labs at McDowell High School had running water; the exhaust system was not completed in the Betsy Layne science lab; Prestonsburg, Wheelwright and McDowell high schools needed gym or physical education equipment; Prestonsburg also lacked typing and short-hand supplies; Maytown and Home Branch schools needed science equipment.

Indoor physical education facilities are inadequate at Allen, non-existent at Bonanza, Daniels Creek, Drift, Harold, Home Branch, Prater and Spruce Pine. Art facilities are inadequate at McDowell, Prestonsburg and Wheelwright high schools. Prestonsburg and Clark grade schools are overcrowded.

Older sections of Garrett, Prestonsburg, Melvin, Wayland, Allen and Betsy Layne elementary schools need renovation, as do Wheelwright and McDowell high schools, numerous areas of which are substandard.

Many deficiencies are cited in non-instructional areas such as kitchens, lunchrooms, restrooms, storage and maintenance areas, offices and lounges, not excluding the school district's central administration building, which is said to be "not conducive to good working conditions." The district's plant maintenance facilities are called inadequate.

A new middle school in the Prestonsburg area is top construction priority. Other projects, in recommended order: a six-classroom addition at Allen, with renovation of the existing building; new high school at McDowell; shop additions at Prestonsburg and Allen Central high schools; new high school at Wheelwright; four-classroom addition at Betsy Layne Elementary; and new kitchen and cafeteria at Martin.

Martin County Mother Of Four Reaches Goal

A recent Prestonsburg Community College graduate is Anna Bowen, Martin county woman, who reached her goal of becoming an RN in May.

It has not been an easy goal for Anna to achieve. She had always wanted to be a registered nurse and her first step was a year of L.P.N. training at Mayo Vocational School in 1969. The need to support four children, however, meant that she went to work for the next few years. But her goal was not forgotten and while working and raising a family she took some liberal arts courses at Sinclair College in Ohio. After returning to Eastern Kentucky in 1974, she decided to make another effort to achieve her dream and she enrolled in the R.N. Program at PCC. A combination of work, grants, loans and the Displaced Homemaker Program enabled Mrs. Bowen to finance her education.

She credits the support of her many friends, family and teachers for her success as well as her own hard work and determination.

Mrs. Bowen is currently working at the Johnson County Health Center. She is looking forward to spending more time with her family this summer.

ATTEND SMITH RITES

Dr. and Mrs. Woodford Howard and Eileen Howard, of Baltimore, Md., were in Prestonsburg recently to attend the funeral of Blaine Smith. While here they visited Judge and Mrs. Harris Howard and Mr. and Mrs. William T. Archer.

The early kings of France stuck three hairs plucked from their beards in the seal of official papers to lend them greater sanction.

New York City's massive Pennsylvania Railroad Station was originally modeled after the ancient Roman baths of Caracalla.

Wild Birds' Foods
Listed In Booklet

Sixty million Americans feed wild birds, and almost everything they need to know about what seeds birds like is in the National Wildlife Federation's new booklet, "Wild Bird Feeding Preferences."

When birds are offered a commercial seed mix, some types of seeds disappear faster than others—because different birds prefer different kinds of foods.

"Wild Bird Feeding Preferences," by Dr. Aelred Geis and Donald Hyde Jr., tells you that the purple finch's favorite seed is the oil sunflower. You will also discover that the titmouse likes peanut kernels, and the house sparrow prefers white proso millet. In all, the preferred foods of over two dozen birds—including the cardinal, chickadee and scrub jay—are listed.

It rates seeds according to their appeal to 13 wild birds, listing 16 commonly used seeds that range from black-striped sunflower and golden millet, to fine cracked corn and wheat. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service Urban Wildlife Research Program conducted the research on which this publication is based.

The booklet's cover drawing, by noted wildlife illustrator Bob Hines, shows these 13 birds in their normal feeding positions, with the American goldfinch on an elevated feeder eating sunflower seeds, and the brown-headed cowbird on a feeding table.

Dr. Geis' earlier publication, "Relative Attractiveness of Different Foods at Wild Bird Feeders," was published three years ago by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, and was the all-time most requested publication in its series.

"Wild Bird Feeding Preferences" is available in single copies or in bulk, at the following prices: single copy, $1; 2-25 copies, 60 cents a copy; 26-50 copies, 45 cents a copy; 51-999 copies, 35 cents a copy; and more than 1,000 copies, 25 cents a copy. Write to: Wild Bird Feeding Preferences, Dept. 157, National Wildlife Federation, 1412 16th St., NW, Washington, D.C. 20036.

KIWANIANNES MEET

The Prestonsburg Kiwanians held their luncheon-meeting at May Lodge, June 23. The president, Mrs. Garnett Fairchild, presided during the business session. A nominating committee to select officers for the year, 1983-'84 was appointed by the president. Members are Mrs. Carolyn Ford, Mrs. Myrtle Allen, and Mrs. Myrtle Davis. Mrs. Fairchild said that the names of the directors for the coming year will be announced at the next regular meeting, and that copies of the Kiwanian by-laws would be given members at that time.

It was decided that a card would be sent to Mrs. Lillian Rimmer, who spent some time recently in a nursing home.

The president expressed her appreciation for the article in the Floyd County Times concerning the Kentucky Health Award for 1983, which was won by the Prestonsburg Kiwanians for their help with the various clinics, and their general support of the Floyd County Health Department.

It was decided that a picnic for members, their families and guests would be held at the Dewey Dam recreation area, July 28. The next regular luncheon-meeting will be September 22.

Present at Thursday's meeting were Mesdames Garnett Fairchild, Stella Spurlock, Mary Lou Layne, Docia Woods, Virginia Shivel, Margaret Collins, Opal Dingus, Ortha Meece, Margaret Alley, Jane Wallace, Lucy Regan, and Anna May Mellon.

Kentuckians Outside Cities Are Satisfied

Despite the lack of certain services and opportunities, Kentuckians living in smaller towns and rural areas generally are content with their way of life, according to a study by two University of Kentucky Extension sociologists.

Dr. Janet L. Bokemeier and Dr. Richard C. Maurer, sociologists in the UK College of Agriculture, surveyed more than 2,800 Kentuckians living in non-metropolitan areas to examine their characteristics and the issues important to them. Included in the survey were all Kentucky counties that have no cities with populations greater than 50,000.

More than 80 percent responding said they were content with their homes, families, marriages, their community as a place to live, their standard of living, and their lives in general.

About 70 percent were happy with their jobs, their health and what they are accomplishing in life.

Most respondents said they are less satisfied with various community services, such as child care, police and fire protection and education, which are often much less available in non-metropolitan areas than in metropolitan areas.

"Residents enjoy the lifestyle in non-metropolitan areas, but they would like more of these services as well as more job opportunities," said Bokemeier.

Like most American families, non-metropolitan Kentucky families are changing, becoming less traditional.

"Clearly, the financial family role is undergoing the greatest change," said Bokemeier. "Wives are becoming more involved in family financial matters, partly because they are entering the labor force and are contributing to the family economic base."

Wives are now more likely than husbands to be in charge of family book-keeping, and more wives are doing the family income tax returns now than in the past.

"Husbands are not picking up the slack, though," said Bokemeier. "We found that very few husbands have taken on jobs traditionally performed by wives."

Kentucky wives are still in charge of housecleaning, preparing meals and grocery shopping. Husbands are more likely to be responsible for lawn care and household repairs.

Gardening is the family task most often shared equally. To many families, gardening is both a productive activity to supplement the family grocery budget and a recreational activity or hobby.

When asked if a wife and husband should share in making major decisions, more than 90 percent of the respondents said yes.

"But when asked questions about specific household decisions, such as buying a car or borrowing money, the percentage of husbands and wives equally involved in those decisions was somewhat lower than 90 percent," said Bokemeier.

In 60 percent of households replying, husbands and wives have an equal say about borrowing money, 70 percent share the decision of where to live, and 75 percent equally decide where to go to church and when to eat out.

Husbands usually decide when they should take a new job and what car to buy, and wives decide whether or not to take a job, what the weekly food budget should be and when a family member should see a doctor.

Wives also continue to have more responsibility for child care. They are more likely to shop for children's clothes and help with their homework.

"About one-half of husbands and wives replying equally share giving children permission to visit friends and setting allowances," said Bokemeier.

Children have some influence in family decisions, but parents generally make the final decision, especially in more important family matters, said Bokemeier.

Descriptive characteristics that Bokemeier and Maurer reported show that more than 80 percent of the adults are married and fewer than 5 percent are divorced. Men are more likely than women to never marry, or to be remarried, and women are more likely than men to be widowed.

Nearly one-third of the families reported a total family income of less than $10,000. Around one-fourth of the families have incomes of $25,000 or more, and the remainder are evenly distributed in the $10,000 to $25,000 range.

The average level of education is completion of high school. The survey showed that in non-metropolitan Kentucky areas, women are more likely than men to have some high school or to complete high school.

"However, men who do complete high school are more likely than women to go on to college and to finish college," said Bokemeier.

Information for the study was collected in 1981 by mailing questionnaires to households throughout the non-metropolitan counties of Kentucky. Those surveyed were randomly selected registered voters. Two questionnaires were mailed to each household, for man and the woman of the house each to complete.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Rocky Meade takes this opportunity to thank everyone for their help in the loss of our loved one: those who sent food and flowers or just spoke comforting words. We deeply appreciate you all. A special thanks to the ministers and members of the Church of Christ and the Hall Funeral Home for being so kind.

Power Firm To Offer Energy Audit in July

Approximately 124,000 residential customers of Kentucky Power Company in 20 eastern Kentucky counties will begin receiving offers in July for a $15 home energy audit that can outline to customers the nature of their homes' present energy requirements and what can be done to reduce energy consumption.

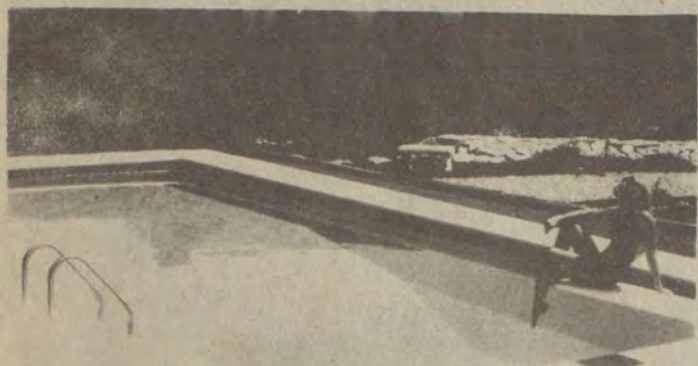

The program is being offered in cooperation with the Kentucky Public Service Commission and is known as the Residential Conservation Service (RCS).

The audit will be offered to customers on a geographical basis and will be in effect until January 1, 1985.

According to Mason Wood, the company's director of marketing & customer services, the RCS program "addresses those conservation measures in a home that can prove to be cost-effective when properly installed. Such things as additional insulation, caulking, storm windows, and the use of certain types of equipment noted for high efficiency will be explained in detail to those customers who request an audit."

Bicentennial Celebrated

Floyd County Presbyterians represented their churches at the celebration of the 200th anniversary of Kentucky Presbyterianism held on June 26 and 27th at Centre College in Danville. It was in 1783 that David Rice came from Virginia to Central Kentucky to found Presbyterian Churches, six of which survive to this day. The celebration recognized the history of all Presbyterian churches in the Commonwealth and the reunited Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) to which they now belong. The recently elected Moderator of the General Assembly, the Rev. J. Randolph Taylor, of Charlotte, North Carolina, addressed the delegates at a communion service.

Attending from Floyd County were Marvin Music, Jr., representing the First Church, Prestonsburg, which was established in 1899. Representing the Drift Church, begun in 1956, was John Reed. The Rev. Timothy Jessen, pastor of both churches, also attended. Banners from the churches and historical artifacts were also displayed.

Memorial Service Set At Brandy Keg Church

A memorial service will be held at 11 a.m., Sunday, July 10, at the Brandy Keg Free Will Baptist Church in memory of Alex and Fannie Clark, Glenn Hyden, and all who are buried on the Clark and Goble cemetery. Services will be conducted by the Revs. Henry Crider, Wavis Alley, and Burkey Lewis.

2-Acre Mine Permit Abuse Hearing Target

Hearings on suspected abuses of Kentucky's two-acre mining permit regulation are scheduled to begin this week in three counties, one of which is Floyd. Jackie Swigart, secretary of the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet, said the agency will subpoena witnesses for the hearings in Floyd, Letcher and Hopkins counties.

The suspicion persists that coal operators in some counties are using the two-acre permit to skirt costlier, more strict regulations governing larger mine sites.

Although state officials would not cite specific abuses of the two-acre permit until the hearings actually begin, they did point to an unidentified Floyd county example—one hollow that has 10 separate two-acre operations. They said that each lists a different owner but that all subcontract for the same company.

In Kentucky, which drafted its own regulations to control some damages by two-acre operations, reported abuses have increased during the past six months—along with two-acre permit applications.

Until last fall, the state Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement was receiving 10 to 15 two-acre applications a month, Deputy Commissioner Larry Grascch said. Since January, the number of applications has soared to 50 or 60 a month, he said.

Of the 416 two-acre permits issued since 1981, 203 have been processed since January and 100 more are pending, Grascch said. All but five are in Eastern Kentucky.

Grascch said the clamor for two-acre permits actually began in 1981 after the state abolished its on-site construction permit—an exemption that allowed ex-cavators to mine and sell any coal found while preparing a building site.

Mrs. Swigart abolished the on-site permit after a federal sample study revealed that 80 percent of permit holders were using it merely to evade reclamation laws while mining coal.

A similar problem now appears to exist with the two-acre permit exemption—for apparently similar reasons.

"We're the only state that's wrestling with this problem," Grascch said.

Now that the federal strip-mine act is settling into its final phase in Kentucky, opening a legitimate mining operation requires both more time and money.

The two-acre permit, on the other hand, can be obtained for much less money in about 30 days, officials said.

Grascch estimated that some two-acre sites yield as much as 6,000 tons of coal.

Because the permit application is comparatively simple—the blank form for a two-acre permit is six pages compared with 36 pages for a regular strip-mining permit—both engineering and bonding costs are minimal.

Two-acre permits contain some reclamation standards, officials say, but there are none affecting water quality and the permits do not require leveling the highwall (a thin wall left after mining), a major reclamation expense.

The state law attempts to prohibit an operator from linking a chain of two-acre mines in order to avoid the costs and reclamation standards that apply to larger sites.

The rules also specify that all affected areas of any site—including haul roads—must, when added together, amount to two acres or less.

Porter Reunion Planned

The fourth annual Porter family reunion will be held at the Dewey Dam picnic area July 9, beginning at 10 a.m. Bring food, or soft drinks. The reunion has been sponsored primarily by descendants of John W. and Minnie Wells Porter. This year, Dr. Henry Martin, of Richmond, will distribute his new book, "Pickin' Up the Porters," (440 pages, 15,000 names of descendants of Patrick Porter, 1737-1804). The book begins with the Porters at the Massachusetts Bay Colony, to the William Penn Colony, to Western Virginia. Three of Patrick's children and 30 of his grandchildren settled in Floyd, Pike and Johnson counties in the early 1800's. Listed are some exciting stories of the early pioneers. John Walker Porter, Revolutionary War veteran, is buried below Dewey Dam. John's brother Samuel was with Daniel Boone at Boonesborough, and owned 400 acres of land near the fort. Present families in Big Sandy descending from Patrick Porter are too many to enumerate.

Prisoner Makes Exit From District Court

One defendant was apparently prepared to forego his traditional "day in court" Tuesday.

Alfred Dee Music, of Martin, who had been brought by a bailiff to the Floyd district courtroom from the county jail upstairs to face a theft charge, simply walked out of the courtroom around 10 a.m.

According to the warrant for his arrest, Music is accused of stealing a $500 air conditioner from the residence of Sandy Osborne and selling it to John Allen Salisbury.

He was reportedly arrested in Johnson county Monday and lodged overnight in the county jail prior to his scheduled court appearance. He was still at large Tuesday afternoon.

KET Series To Focus On Home Landscaping

A new series will explore the design elements in home landscaping. KET will air "Landscaping Your Home" on Saturdays, at 6 p.m., beginning July 9. Tom Knight, professor of agriculture at Eastern Kentucky University, hosts the programs which examine landscape needs. He explores areas ranging from new plants available for the home, to family members' needs in the utilization of a lawn.

The eight-part series will introduce such aspects as: basic elements and styles of home landscaping; how to look at your home to decide what your needs are; what structures, materials and plants to use and how to make long-term plans on paper.

"Landscaping Your Home" is a production of Eastern Kentucky University.

U.K. Field Day To Focus on East Ky. Agriculture

Tobacco, corn, forage or sheep farmers, farm families, gardeners, ginseng growers and just about anybody interested in Eastern Kentucky agriculture all are invited to a field day Thursday, July 21, at the University of Kentucky's Robinson Substation, located in Quicksand, Ky., in Breathitt county.

The field day, which will run from 4-8 p.m. EDT, will present research findings in horticulture, forestry, animal sciences, and agronomy, plus displays and demonstrations in home economics. UK Extension specialists and researchers from both the Robinson Substation and the Lexington campus will be on hand to talk about their work at the station and answer questions.

Guests will be able to tour the station, see demonstrations, and enjoy a free supper.

The tour features stops to see work in these areas:

—Tobacco. Approximately 20 percent of the burley produced in Kentucky is grown in soils and under climatic conditions similar to those at the Robinson Substation. At this stop, farmers will be able to compare nine tobacco varieties for growth, disease tolerance, and other qualities.

—Corn. UK researchers are measuring the effect fertilizer nitrogen placement and source has on nitrogen content and yield of no-till corn. This stop also will show their work comparing lime sources, rates and method of application.

—Fescue. Farmers will see the effects of nitrogen rates, sodium rates and potassium rates on yield and mineral composition of tall fescue.

—Bermudagrass. This stop provides a look at three winter-hardy hybrids that withstand Kentucky winters and offer farmers another choice for their forage program.

—Sheep. UK sheep specialists will discuss sheep management and innovations in sheep production and marketing that should make an impact on the profit potential for sheep production in Kentucky. Farmers who raise cattle, swine or horses as well as sheep will be interested in the demonstration and displays on high tensile electric fencing to curb predator problems and improve pasture management.

—Apples. UK specialists are testing different varieties of apple trees for resistance to thread blight, a relatively new disease in Eastern Kentucky.

—Tomatoes. Several varieties are being tested for resistance to early blight, a familiar disease in Kentucky. The plants here are grown on raised beds and are mulched.

OCTOPUSSY. from MGM/UA Entertainment Co. Directed by John Glen, screenplay by George MacDonald Fraser, Richard Maibaum and Michael G. Wilson. Starring Roger Moore, Louis Jourdan, Maud Adams. Rated 'PG.' ★ ★ ★

By J.T. YURKO

After 21 years and 12 James Bond films, the filmmakers should have the recipe down to a science. With "Octopussy," the thirteenth — and certainly not the last — film in the series, the Bond sagas show no sign of stopping. Even though three actors have played Bond, the real star of these films is the formula.

"Octopussy" is no exception. In order to whip up a Bond film you need various ingredients. They include:

The Villain: Here Louis Jourdan proves to be like most of Bond's adversaries, suave but slimy. His dirty work is done by...

The Henchman: From Oddjob to Jaws, he's the guy who does the required maiming and killing. Lean and mean, he has about three words of dialogue in the whole film.

The Woman: Usually leaner, but never meaner, the girl is exotic, mysterious, but above all, beautiful.

The Women: With the accent on the plural, they are all voluptuous and scantily

PBS in the spotlight

Gordon Jackson (l.), Helen Morse and Bryan Brown are featured in "A Town Like Alice."

'Town Like Alice' airs

The six-part drama "A Town Like Alice," winner of an International Emmy and the National Board of Review's Best Drama award, encores on "Masterpiece Theatre," beginning Sunday, July 3 on PBS. (Please check local listings for time.) Starring Gordon Jackson, Helen Morse and Bryan Brown, the drama won huge audiences and rave reviews when originally aired in England and Australia and also received a British Broadcasting Critics award and another at the Banff Canadian Film Festival. Adapted by Rosemary Anne Sisson and Tom Hegarty from Nevil Shute's best-selling novel and filmed on location in Malaya, Australia and London, "A Town Like Alice" deals with the romance between Joe Harman (Brown), a brashly heroic Australian ranch-hand, and Jean Paget (Miss Morse), an Englishwoman working in Malaya in 1941 when the Japanese invaded the country. After Joe is caught stealing chickens for Jean and other British women and children forced on an aimless death march by their captors, he is tortured and left to die. An aging London solicitor (played by Jackson) is on hand, and he falls in love with Jean.

Pharmacy Footnotes
By HAROLD COOLEY

A body temperature of 98.6°F. is more of an average than an absolute. Normal temperature for the human body varies considerably with age, sex and time of day. Infants and children, for instance, run an average normal temperature of about 99°F. Most elderly people, on the other hand, run an average normal temperature of 97°F. Women vary in normal temperature according to their menstrual cycle. Right after ovulation, a woman's temperature will usually rise a degree. Also, most people wake up in the morning with a body temperature that is lower than that with which they went to bed. Monitor your own temperature to find what is the normal reading for you.

Here at COOLEY APOTHECARY you'll find a full service prescription center, home health care items and convalescent aids, such as canes, walkers and so forth. We don't play Doctor here, but we do render assistance, offer alternatives to a problem and advise when first aid is appropriate. If you haven't met us as yet, come in and say hello. We like to get to know our customers. Located at #2 Town Center Bldg., where we're open Mon.-Fri., 9-5:30; Sat., 9-4. 886-8106

HANDY HINT:
A body temperature which is taken rectally will normally be about 2 degrees lower than if it were taken orally.

MADD, a Movement Spawned by Tragedy

By CANDY LIGHTNER
(Founder of MADD, Mothers against Drunk Drivers)

I'm writing...not just to tell you what happened to me, but to tell what continues to happen to thousands of other innocent victims.

But let me start at the beginning.

On a beautiful spring afternoon in 1980, I drove home after a shopping trip and found my father and ex-husband waiting for me, their faces ashen and tears in their eyes.

Steve, my ex-husband, said, "We've lost Cari."

I patted him on the back and replied, "It's okay, we'll find her."

"You don't understand," he said. "A man came along with a car, and killed her—and left her to die."

I couldn't believe him!

Just the evening before, I had dropped Cari off at a friend's house to spend the night. We had had a minor quarrel in the car over her unannounced change of plans. But then before she got out of the car, she made one of her jokes and I replied, "I love you, you know."

Cari responded, "Oh, Mother, don't be so mushy!" It was our last conversation.

At about 1:30 the next day, Cari was walking with a friend to a church carnival when a drunk swerved off the road and hit her with such sickening force that she was hurled 120 feet through the air.

She died less than an hour later.

The drunk driver, Clarence Busch, did not even stop. In fact, he drove home, and according to his wife, "was so drunk he literally crawled into bed."

In the four years before he killed my daughter, Busch had been convicted of drunk driving three times. In all that time he spent only 48 hours in jail!

In fact, he'd been arrested for still another drunk driving hit-and-run crime just two days before he killed my daughter. Yet he was out on bail, drinking and driving with his perfectly legal driver's license in his pocket.

When Busch was finally arrested on felony hit-and-run drunk driving charges, a member of the California Highway Patrol said to me, "Chances are he won't even go to jail!"

As it turned out, he was charged with three felonies in my daughter's death, plus two more charges left over from his accident two days earlier. But, in a plea bargaining arrangement, he was allowed to plead "no contest" to a single charge of vehicular manslaughter. In doing so, all the other charges against him were dropped!

Even without knowing how lenient the law is on drunk driving, I had promised myself on the day of Cari's death that I would fight to make this needless homicide count for something positive in the years ahead.

So I quit my real estate job and founded an organization called MADD—Mothers Against Drunk Drivers.

It wasn't long before I began to get phone calls and letters from people who, like me, had had their loved ones killed by drunk drivers:

...people like Cindi Lamb, the Maryland mother whose infant daughter was paralyzed for life from the shoulders down—by a man whose traffic record had 56 separate entries, including three arrests for drunk driving.

...people like Barbara Bloomberg, whose 16-year-old son Seth and his friend David burned to death when a speeding drunk hit their disabled car parked on the shoulder of the road.

...people like Pat Owens, who lost two daughters and two nieces, with a third niece left paralyzed for life.

True, many of us are grieving mothers. But also among us are fathers, grandfathers, sisters, brothers, and just plain concerned citizens from all walks of life.

Our commitment reaches far beyond the realm of a personal vendetta:

—It is our goal to prevent this same tragedy in the lives of others.

—It is our goal to squarely face the fact that, in the last ten years, more than 250,000 people have been killed in alcohol-related crashes—more than were killed in Vietnam!

—It is our goal to acquaint America—including lawmakers and judges—with the fact that most drunk drivers drive under the influence of alcohol most of the time! Some researchers believe that only one in 2,000 drunk driving episodes is ever apprehended by the police! And the great majority of drunks who are arrested are quickly put back on the road again by lenient and incredibly forgiving judges.

—It is our goal to help change the public attitude that lets our judges label drunk driving "reckless driving" or murder as "manslaughter."

—It is our goal to warn private citizens that one in every 10 drivers on the road on any Friday or Saturday night is driving under the influence of alcohol. In fact, drunk driving manslaughter is the only socially acceptable form of homicide in our society.

In response to an avalanche of television, newspaper and magazine exposure, MADD has been able to expand nationwide in less than two years.

Some people are amazed at what we've already done. We have established a victim assistance program to help the victims affected by drunk driving accidents. We have supported legislation introduced on the federal level. We were responsible for a governor-appointed task force in California to solve the problem of drunk driving.

And our support was instrumental in legislation being passed which gives California the toughest anti-drunk-driving laws in the United States. In fact the month after these laws went into effect, drunk driving arrests and deaths fell more than 20 percent!

But so much more needs to be done! Even though we already have 133 chapters in 35 states, we want to open up new chapters in all the other states. Twice we've been to Washington, D.C. to lobby, but we need to go back. We want to get effective, hard-hitting lobbies and letter campaigns going all across America. And we want to teach other communities how to fight this problem of drunk driving.

But to do all this, we urgently need more money.

During our first year, we worked without pay. The $15,000 insurance payment from my daughter Cari's death covered most of our initial expenses. Grants from several companies and gifts from individuals have helped keep us going the last couple of years.

But the rapidly increasing public awareness of this critical problem creates more and more demand for new chapters. That's why I'm writing you this letter.

I'm asking for your help to deal with this national crime that kills and injures so many innocent victims every year. Will you stand with us?

We urgently need your gift of $20, $100, $25, $50 or whatever you can send. I need to hear you say you're behind us—that you're willing to do what you can to help change the laws of this country.

Drunk drivers kill. They maim. They seriously injure. And they get away with it. Please help us fight back!

Festival of Mountain Humor Set at Berea

Have you heard this one?

After a heavy snow in western North Carolina, Red Cross workers who went to help mountain people in that area knocked on the door of a house at the head of a high mountain cove. When an old woman answered, they said "Howdy Ma'am, we're from the Red Cross." To which she replied, "I don't believe I'm goin' be able to help you this time. It's been a right hard winter."

Just an example of Appalachian humor, the focus of a two-day festival to be held at Berea College, July 15 and 16.

According to Loyal Jones, director of the Berea College Appalachian Center and co-emcee of Berea's first Festival of Appalachian Humor, the distinguishing feature of Appalachian humor is the statement it makes about the character of Appalachian people.

The festival, sponsored by the Berea College Appalachian Center and funded in part by the Kentucky Humanities Council and the National Endowment for the Humanities, will feature a number of Appalachian entertainers and humorists.

Among those participating are Eslie Asbury, M.D., author of Horse Sense and Humor in Kentucky; Jim Constock, founder, publisher, columnist and editor of the West Virginia Hillbilly; Ernest "Doc" McConnell, medicine show entertainer from East Tennessee; Bob Terrell, writer of humorous human interest column for the Asheville Citizen-Times; Jennie Wilson, an entertainer who sings and narrates tales of West Virginia; Joe Bly, emcee of the Shindig on the Green and the Mountain Dance and Folk Festival in Asheville, N. C.; Barbara Freeman and Connie Regan, folk-tellers from Asheville; musician and storyteller David Holt, and Byron Crawford, Louisville Courier Journal columnist.

North Carolina's Billy Edd Wheeler, songwriter, performer, playwright and poet, will co-emcee the program with Loyal Jones and also will perform.

In addition to performances by these entertainers, anyone interested in Appalachian humor is invited to compete for cash prizes for the best jokes, traditional tales, true humorous stories, or humorous folk and original songs.

Festival performances begin at 7:30 p.m. July 15 and 16 with contests included in Friday's show, and contest winners Saturday night. Tickets for the evening events are $2 for adults and $1 for children 6 to 14. An all-day session Saturday at the Alumni Building will include scholarly presentations and contest and is free. Among those leading scholarly discussions on Appalachian humor Saturday will be Dr. Robert J. Higgs, professor of English, East Tennessee State University (10:30 a.m.), and Dr. W. Gordon Ross, Berea College Professor emeritus of philosophy and religion (3 p.m.).

For more information, contact the Berea College Appalachian Center, at 986-9341, ext. 453.

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NEWS

By JANE BOND
Health Educator

Glaucoma is the second leading cause of blindness in adults in the United States. This is a disease which usually strikes without warning, but if it is detected in the early stages and treatment is begun, the disease can be controlled. Persons age 40 and over are at high risk for glaucoma since the disease rarely strikes before that age. Persons this age are especially urged to be checked regularly for glaucoma.

The Floyd County Health Department is having a glaucoma clinic on Friday, July 1. This clinic is a free service of the health department and is open to persons of all ages, but those persons age 40 and over are especially urged to take advantage of this free service.

The Floyd County Health Department will be closed all day Monday in observance of the Fourth of July Holiday. The health department will reopen for services at 8 a.m. on Tuesday, July 5.

Daniel Boone Nat. Forest Acreage To Be Reevaluated

Seventeen thousand, eight hundred and thirty four acres on the Daniel Boone National Forest, studied for wilderness potential five years ago, will be reevaluated as part of the land and resource management plan now being developed on the Forest, according to Forest Supervisor Richard H. Wengert.

Areas studied during the Forest Service's nationwide Roadless Area Review and Evaluation (RARE II) are: Clifty, Stanton Ranger District; Cave Creek Cave, Somerset Ranger District; Troublesome, Stearns Ranger District.

Wengert said the reevaluation is necessary because of a recent court decision that the environmental statement (RARE II) was inadequate.

Although the decision affected only 46 roadless areas recommended for non-wilderness under RARE II in California, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture John B. Crowell, Jr., announced in February that the ruling would be applied nationwide. Crowell said the action would ensure Forest Service compliance with the Federal court decision.

Supervisor Wengert said the reevaluation will be of roadless areas designated non-wilderness, and of roadless areas recommended for wilderness. The latter are included because the recommendations for wilderness were developed using the same process found legally inadequate by the court.

The Troublesome area, recommended for further planning during RARE II, is being studied during Forest planning.

Wengert said one step of the reevaluation will be to ask the public to provide the Forest Service with information that will help planners evaluate the wilderness values of the roadless areas in the RARE II inventory and possible boundary changes as a result of non-wilderness activities.

After the public has commented on the updated inventory and the scope of the reevaluation, forest planners will incorporate the new site-specific data into the Forest plan in process.

The Forest Plan and Draft Environmental Impact Statement, scheduled to be released in September, 1984, will contain the results of the reevaluation and a comprehensive updated description of the roadless areas' resources and wilderness values.

Activities in the Cave Creek Cave area will continue under existing plans Wengert said, pending completion of the Forest Plan so as to meet program commitments and to assure that jobs dependent on those commitments will continue.

On July 1, 1983, the Daniel Boone National Forest will issue a newsletter describing the areas involved, and showing any proposed boundary changes or inventory deletions. The newsletter will be distributed to groups and individuals previously involved with RARE II and the Forest's planning process. Other persons and groups interested in the reevaluation process can obtain information by contacting Robert Strosnider at the Forest Supervisor's office at 100 Vaught Road, Winchester, Kentucky. Telephone: (606) 745-3138.

Fluidized Coal Process Hailed as Industry Boon

Fluidized bed combustion, described as the most promising way to burn coal without polluting the atmosphere, may help the coal industry and the state's limestone quarries, too.

For the use of limestone is a basic part of the process.

Industry experts say it's only a matter of time till the process is a part of coal-fired power plants. The result could be a revival of the coal industry, lower costs making coal more competitive and the lower emissions quieting the voices of environmentalists and the claims that the use of coal contributes heavily to acid rain.

A fluidized bed boiler is built along the lines of a tin can with holes in the bottom. Air is blown through the holes while a mixture of coal and limestone is added. The mixture in the "can" is lifted by the air and it stands suspended like a bubbling liquid.

Manufacturers of the system say that coal, ignited in this way, burns at a lower temperature, thus preventing polluting compounds from forming, and the limestone absorbs sulfur substances and converts them into solid matter which can't escape through smokestacks.

At least two manufacturers are producing fluidized bed combustion boilers. Four have been installed in Kentucky—two by Ashland Oil in Boyd county.

An engineer at the meeting last week of the Air Pollution Control Association in Atlanta said that among the advantages of his boilers over conventional systems include these:

—No emissions of nitrogen oxide and slag pollutants.

—Controls sulfur emissions as well as the more costly scrubbers do.

—Lower cost, particularly for small firms that can't afford expensive scrubbers.

—Less maintenance and far less technical skill to operate.

On the simplicity of operation score an engineer said, "Scrubbers are as complicated as chemical plants to run, while fluidized systems can be run by janitors."

Engineers say fluidized bed systems have worked in commercial plants ranging from food processing to sawmills, from schools to refineries. And in one test program it was found that the system can be used to produce heat from what is known as culm—a combination of coal and rock.

KET Series Examines Medical Breakthroughs

"Faces of Medicine," a new weekly series of half-hour programs examining innovative techniques in medicine, premieres Friday, July 22, at 9:30 p.m. on KET.

The series celebrates medical advances in recent years and gives viewers insight into the world of medicine and medical research. Five profiles of actual people and places serve as examples that show how medical knowledge is born, nurtured and applied to the lives of ordinary people. Dr. Timothy Johnson hosts the series.

The opening program, "Born Too Soon," takes a look at one of the nation's finest newborn intensive care units at Vanderbilt University Medical Center. It explores the thoughts and feelings of five couples whose premature babies have been beneficiaries of this new medical technology.

Subsequent programs examine the treatment of childhood leukemia, especially bone marrow transplants, at the Hutchinson Cancer Research Center, Seattle, Washington; the use of artificial skin in burn treatment cases at General Hospital, Boston; the daily rounds of a surgeon and medical professor at Boston's Beth Israel Hospital; and the design and implementation of a model heart disease prevention program at Stanford University, Palo Alto, California.

Thank You

The reasons for thanking God for his rich blessings are many, and since it was organized in 1808 the Stone Coal Regular Baptist Church at Garrett has had no greater reason for bowing our heads in humble gratitude and give God thanks for the wonderful way that the people have so generously given of their time, money and efforts toward placing brick on our church.

We, the members of the Stone Coal Church, would like to extend our heartfelt thanks to every person who in any way contributed to the "paid-in-full project" that did so much to preserve the lasting quality of our building.

The job has been accomplished, thanks to the sacrifices of many hundreds of people. Your accommodating spirit and efforts will be a memory that we will cherish within our hearts for ever.

To mention names would be impossible. Yet, the people that are non-members gave so much of their time and money, and this admixture of members and friends working side by side to complete a goal, amplifies our joy. I am sure each of you who had a part can look with humble pride and be thankful to have had an opportunity to express your love in such a lasting memorial.

During the past 15 years, the church has survived because of the confidence and the generous support by those who have long since departed, and equally important is the confidence you have placed in us demonstrated by your gifts of money, labor and good will. May God bless you for your kindness toward the Stone Coal Church. We will never forget you. We invite you to visit and share the blessing of God in our house of worship that love built.

How Do Americans Quench Their Thirst?

Most Americans have read or heard that they should drink two glasses of milk and several cups of water every day, as nutritionists recommend. But many of us just don't put that advice into practice. Figures on per person food consumption for 1981 released by the U.S. Department of Agriculture show that milk is not the nation's leading beverage. And while there are no figures for the amount of water consumed, since USDA keeps record only on food or beverages produced for consumption, nutritionists suspect it isn't at the top of the beverage list, either. "Americans are quenching their thirst with beverages that aren't the best nutritionally—soft drinks, beer and coffee," said Dr. Fudeko Maruyama, Extension foods and nutrition specialist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. "And the soft drink-beer-coffee habit is costing nearly a dollar a day."

America's leading beverage choice is soft drinks, for which per person consumption in 1981 was 38 gallons, Maruyama said. That translates into an average of 1 1/2 cups or 13 1/2 ounces—more than a 12-ounce can—of soft drinks downed each day by every man, woman, child and infant in the country.

The second most popular beverage is beer, which is guzzled at an average of 1 1/2 cups or 11 ounces per day for the drinking age population. "When consumption of wine and spirits was added to the figure for beer," said Maruyama, "the total for alcoholic beverages is almost that of soft drinks."

Milk comes in third in the beverage race with 1 1/4 cup or 10 ounces per day consumed on the average. And while more and more Americans have been reaching for the beer and soft drinks over the past several years, figures from USDA show that they are drinking less and less milk. Milk consumption has been declining steadily since 1960, especially the consumption of fluid whole milk.

Coffee drinking was fourth on the beverage list, with per capita consumption averaging just over one cup per day for every person in the nation.

Note that the two favorite beverages of Americans are also the most expensive, with soft drinks at 27 cents and beer at 30 cents for 8 ounces. They provide 100 calories in the 8-ounce serving, from the sugar in the soft drinks and alcohol and carbohydrate in beer, but few nutrients, Maruyama pointed out.

"In contrast, the cost of milk, at 12 cents a cup, is less than half that of soft drinks or beer," she added. "And milk provides several important nutrients along with the 120 calories per cup."

Coffee is relatively inexpensive, and if you like it black, it's calorie-free. But it doesn't provide any nutrients, and Maruyama advises that the potential health effects of caffeine should be kept in mind when you're reaching for something to drink.

For the "average American," who is consuming 1 1/2 cups of soft drinks, 1 1/2 cups of beer and 1 cup of coffee each day, the cost of the beverage habit comes to 88 cents a day.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Margaret Spears wish to thank all their friends and relatives for their support and comfort in the death of our mother. We wish to express our thanks to the Revs. Henry Crider and William Adkins who conducted the service. Pageant Finalist

Miss Deborah Jean Reynolds, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford E. Reynolds, of Allen, has been selected to be a state finalist in the 1983 Miss United Teenager Pageant to be held at the Executive West Hotel, Louisville, at 7:30 p.m. August 8.

The pageant is the official state-wide finals for the Miss United Teenager Pageant.

Contestants will be judged on scholastic and civic achievements, beauty, poise and personality. No swimsuit competition or talent is involved. Contestants must be between 14 and 18 years of age.

Miss Reynolds is sponsored by Reynolds Produce Market. She is a student at Betsy Layne High School, and her hobbies include swimming, singing, dancing, horseback riding, and school, band, and club activities.

Dance Series Encores on KET

Few people know and understand the dance world as well as prima ballerina Margot Fonteyn. Dame Margot guides television viewers into that world during the six-part series, "The Magic of Dance," encoring Monday, July 18, at 10 p.m. (ET), 9 p.m. (CT), on KET.

The series explores a variety of dance forms: ballet, contemporary, jazz and tap—from the classical line of Anna Pavlova, whom Fonteyn calls "the greatest ballerina of all time," to the tuxedoed ease and elegance of Fred Astaire.

Other international dance stars who can be seen during the six hours include Rudolf Nureyev, Mikhail Baryshnikov, Sammy Davis, Jr., Natalia Makarova, Roland Petit and Zizi Jeanmaire, Dance Theatre of Harlem, the Royal Ballet, the Danish Royal Ballet and many others.

Film clips provide glimpses of Isadora Duncan, Ruth St. Denis, Toulouse-Lautrec poster girl Loie Fuller and other pioneers of modern dance.

The premiere, "The Scene Changes," features Sammy Davis, Jr., Fred Astaire and Rudolf Nureyev as it traces the most spectacular development in 20th century dance, the rise of the male superstar.

"The Magic of Dance" is a BBC-TV production in association with Time-Life Television.

Euripides Play, 'Medea' To Be Presented on KET

The television play "Medea," adapted from Euripides' play, will be repeated on KET Thursday, July 21, at 9 p.m. The "Kennedy Center Tonight Encores" production presents the Greek tragedy starring Zoe Caldwell in the leading role as Medea, and Dame Judith Anderson as the Nurse.

The classic depicts a proud woman's passions that turn to rage, resulting from a tormenting man. Two children become the victims of the anger emitted by Medea. Originally, the play introduced an unconventional story—one that endures 2,000 years later—presenting sexual and moral problems.

The 90-minute presentation is directed by Robert Whitehead, who first produced Robinson Jeffers' adaptation of the play in 1947. "Kennedy Center Tonight" is a production of WQED, Pittsburgh.

REBEKAHS MEET
Miriam Rebekah Lodge No. 31 held its regular meeting, June 21, at 7:30 p.m., with the noble grand, Mrs. Alicia Adkins, presiding. During the business meeting "get-well" and "sympathy" cards were signed for those who were ill and for those who had lost loved ones. It was reported that several members had attended the funeral of Carl Thacker, a member of the order, at Justice Funeral Home, Pikeville, June 16.

Mrs. Catherine Workman, a member of the Catlettsburg Rebekah Lodge, was a visitor at the meeting. A report on the recent district meeting was given by Mrs. Mary Zemo.

A memorial ceremony for all deceased members was conducted by Mrs. Helen Ormerod, chaplain, Mrs. Virginia Goble, past noble grand, and Miss Kelly Sue Moore, vice noble grand.

Present for the meeting were members Alicia Adkins, Kelly Sue Moore, Virginia Goble, Venelia Rinehart, Helen Ormerod, Nola Stepp, Rebecca Bingham, Violetta Wright, Mabel Jean LeMaster, Hope Whitten, Mary Zemo, Orela Smiley, Blanche Kinsley, Nancy Duff, and Opal Dingus, and a guest, Catherine Workman, of Catlettsburg. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by Virginia S. Goble and Violetta Wright.

The next regular meeting will be Tuesday evening, July 5.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Short, of Miamisburg, O., announce the engagement of their daughter, Theresa Lynn, to Mark Kendal Parson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Parson, also of Miamisburg.

Miss Short will graduate from Miamisburg High School in June and Mr. Parson is a 1978 graduate of Miamisburg High School and a 1982 graduate of Miami University with a degree in business management. He is presently the manager of Radio Shack in Centerville, Ohio.

Miss Short and Mr. Parson plan a July 16 wedding in the First Baptist Church of Miamisburg.

Mr. Parson is the grandson of Mrs. Opal Martin, of Allen, and the late Harry S. Martin.

Was Also In Accident

Inadvertently omitted from a report last week of the accident which took the life of Rocky Meade, of Harold, was the name of Steven Weil, 29, of Allen. Weil was a passenger in the truck in which Meade died after it was struck by an asphalt truck at the intersection of U.S. 23 and KY 1428 at Allen, June 17. He was admitted to Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin, suffering from a broken collarbone and dislocated shoulder.

Weesner-West Vows Spoken

The marriage of Miss Susan Dorothea Weesner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murrell Weesner, Morristown, Tenn., and John Kevin West, son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. West, Hueysville, Ky., was solemnized at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, June 25, at Centenary United Methodist Church in Morristown. The Rev. Dwight Kenney and the Rev. Gregory Neuzil officiated, and the bride was given in marriage by her father.

Magnolia leaves decorated the altar rail. Two candelabras entwined with greenery and holding lighted white tapers were placed behind the altar. Each pew of the central aisle was marked with lace bows and irises.

Organ selections were played by Mrs. Margie Johnson. A special selection was played on the piano by a sister of the bride, Miss Winnie Weesner, while Miss Regina Hickman played the flute. Miss Tammy Landry of Knoxville, Tenn., sang a solo during the Ruth ceremony.

The bride wore her mother's wedding gown. The dress was of white organza with embroidered bodice and front panel of the full skirt. The skirt hung over hoops and ended with a train. Her veil fell from a cap enhanced with stepanotis to chapel length and was fashioned of illusion veiling. The bride carried an original creation of iris, stepanotis, sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Attending the bride were her sisters, Mrs. Kirk Horner, matron of honor; Mrs. Randall Moles, of Bean Station, Tenn., and Miss Winnie Weesner. Cousins attending were Miss Donna Townsend of Tampa, Florida, and Miss Mary Ann Murrell of White Hall, Michigan. Miss Leslie Tassie of Union City, Mich., was also a bridesmaid.

The maids wore matching tea length white chantilly lace and shiffie embroidery over lavender silk with Victorian collar, bishop sleeves, and a lavender sash. They carried wreaths of irises.

James C. West, father of the groom, was best man, and ushers included John Belme and Jack Belme, Dayton, Ohio; Gary Ginter, Tipp City, Ohio; Brian Cosgriff, Lexington, and Dennis Reynolds, Stamford, Kentucky.

The bride's mother chose a dress with a long pleated skirt of perriwinkle. The mother of the groom wore a dusty rose with pleated skirt of formal length. Both mothers wore cymbidium orchids.

The reception which followed the wedding was given by the parents of the bride in the church's fellowship hall with three hundred guests invited. An arrangement of irises was used on the bridal table surrounding a tiered wedding cake.

The couple will return for summer residence to Centre College of Kentucky, Danville, after a short trip through eastern Kentucky.

The bride graduated from Centre College in 1981. She has been serving as assistant intramural director in the athletic department at Centre. During July she will be assisting with Kentucky's Governor's Scholars Program. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma social sorority.

Mr. West received his AB degree at Centre College in June. He is a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon social fraternity and of Omicron Delta Kappa honorary fraternity. He will be attending law school at the University of Kentucky in August.

Guests included the following: Mr. and Mrs. Denzil Hall and Nicole, and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Joe Osborne, of Floyd county; Mr. and Mrs. Michael Tackett and Erin, of Lexington; Mr. and Mrs. Orville Lawson, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Wood and Adrienne, and Mr. and Mrs. William Lake, all of Cynthia, and Mrs. Elmer Nemet, Miss Frances Petry and Mrs. Doug Hall and Jami, all of Woodhaven, Michigan. A number of friends from Dayton and New Carlisle, O. also attended.

The groom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at the Morristown Holiday Inn.

Vocational Students To Compete

Vocational students from across the nation will be competing in Louisville later this month.

The Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) national leadership conference and the U.S. Skill Olympics (USSO) are meeting in Louisville June 28-July 1 at the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center.

"It is an incredible experience," said Patrick White, Director, Division of Postsecondary Program Management in the Kentucky Department of Education, and past president of the National VICA board of directors. "You cannot visualize the magnitude of the Skill Olympics until you have seen it."

Superintendent of Public Instruction Raymond Barber provided the initial seed money in excess of $40,000 last year to bring the Skill Olympics to Louisville for three consecutive years.

"Millions of dollars worth of machinery will be set up there and students who are state winners from all over the country will be testing their vocational skills and competing against one another," White said.

The skills competition will be held on June 30 and will be open to the public. Competitions will be held in all vocational areas from machine shop to cosmetology. Machinery for the competitions is loaned by industries in Kentucky and across the nation. The corporations move the equipment to the site and set it up. Over 800 judges will be required to handle the competitions.

Last year, more than 4500 students from all 50 states, Puerto Rico, Guam and the Virgin Islands competed in skill areas.

This year, 6,200 participants are expected to attend.

Last year, nine Kentuckians won national awards in the Skill Olympics competition. This year, 87 Kentuckians are winners of state competitions and will compete in the national Skill Olympics.

KET To Examine Jail Reform Issue

Are Kentucky jails 'up to par' with new state standards? If not, where will the money come from for needed repairs? KET examines these and other questions on "Kentucky Reports," which will be aired on Wednesday, June 29, at 7:30 p.m.

The program follows Jim Woodrum, inspector with the Corrections Cabinet, as he inspects the Owsley county jail. Host Milli Fazey interviews Howard Moore, judge-executive of Owsley county. She also interviews Representative Adrian Arnold, vice-chairman of Kentucky Jail Standards Commission and chief sponsor of jail reform legislation passed during the 1982 Legislative session.

If the county jails in Kentucky do not meet the new state standards, they may face federal lawsuits. Money is the key to needed jail reform. Many of the counties say they cannot afford the needed repairs and improvements. The counties say that if the state is going to impose these standards, the state should come up with the money. On the other hand, the state says standards are for the counties' protection. The state says that if the counties do not make the needed changes, they run the risk of losing a lawsuit in federal court.

"Kentucky Reports" is a production of KET.

Interest and Dividend Withholding Delayed

The Internal Revenue Service said this week that it is granting to all payors of interest and dividend income an automatic one-month extension of the requirement to withhold tax scheduled to begin July 1, 1983.

The action is being taken in light of the June 16, 1983, Senate action to repeal the withholding provisions which were enacted by the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982.

Pageant Runner-Up

Miss Julie Lynn Hawk, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hawk, of Sunbury, Ohio, was chosen as second runner-up from a group of 42 girls in the America's Perfect Teen Pageant which was held in Columbus, Ohio, June 19.

Miss Hawk is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Web, of Hager Hill, and niece of Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Conn, of Stanville, and Randall Webb, of Prestonsburg.

She will be a senior when school resumes and is lead female vocalist in a country/rock band "Julie Lynn and the Silver Dust Band."

Summer Camp Expenses May Be Deductible

Working parents who send their children under age 15 to summer camp may be able to gain some tax relief through the Child and Disabled Care Tax Credit, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

The credit allows qualifying persons to take a tax credit from 20% to 30% of the money spent on child care, depending on the taxpayer's adjusted gross income.

Here is how the credit works: Jane Doe, a taxpayer with an adjusted gross income of $20,000, can deduct 25% of her qualifying child care expenses.

To qualify for the credit for the summer camp expenses, you must meet all of the regular requirements for the Child and Disabled Dependent Care Credit.

—If you are married at the end of the tax year, you generally must file a joint return to claim the credit.

Louisville To Host 1988 Sheriffs Meet

The Galt House in Louisville will be the site of the 1988 National Sheriffs' Association Conference, Sheriff Jim Greene, Louisville, Jefferson County, has announced. He said Louisville was chosen over Las Vegas and Orlando, Florida.

The decision was made at the 88th National Sheriff's Association Conference held last week at the Opryland Hotel in Nashville, Tenn., where more than 1600 delegates, a record number, attended from over the country. Keynote speaker for the conference was FBI Director William Webster.

The Kentucky Sheriffs Association won the 100% Award and is one of 14 states recognized as having all counties as members of the association.

Kentucky Is Part Of Training Route For Air Command

Headquarters Strategic Air Command officials have announced added use of a low-level training route will begin soon in the Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee, and North Carolina areas in conjunction with the exercise, GLOBAL SHIELD 83.

Additional flying can be expected within the next few days, normally during daylight hours.

The B-52 Stratofortress will fly the route at subsonic speeds along a centerline of an eight mile wide corridor at varying altitudes.
