

Budget Cut Need Cited by Howell

A combination of reduced severance tax receipts and new bills means the county will have to trim another $95,376 from its budget over the next three months, a state Finance Cabinet official warned this week.

The new estimate, confirmed yesterday (Tuesday) by Local Government Advisor Al Howell, puts at $410,580 the funds available to the county after outstanding bills are paid. Expenses budgeted for the rest of the fiscal year amount to $505,956, however.

Since salaries make up the biggest single budget item—$228,504 is still in the budget for that purpose—that appears to be where economies will have to be made. Some $20,000 budgeted for employees' health insurance could also be cut.

Judge-Executive Jerry Lafferty, Jr. agreed that the county budget leaves little room for adjustment except for the payroll, "and there's not much room there," he added. Other major budget items include utilities and telephone, for which $45,810 is yet to be spent; road materials and supplies, $40,000; and gasoline and oil, $30,000.

Eighty-six bills totalling $301,250 are listed as outstanding. Before he recommends that state Local Finance Officer Robert L. Purdom approve them for payment, he intends to go over the claims with Lafferty and members of the fiscal court today (Wednesday), Howell said. He has also asked County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. to scrutinize the list of claims, he said.

Among the claims, some of which have been reported previously, are bills from Adams Construction for $72,507; Action Petroleum, $53,669; and Grayson Coal and Stone, $76,211. Claims by Edmond Barnett Trucking Co. and B and B Equipment, also said to be owned by Barnett, for $2200 each, and by the Martin Pipe and Drain Co., for $4400, are for "tankers" used as road culverts, Lafferty said.

Hatton-Allen Insurance Co. is owed $11,085, Hayes Leasing Co. $10,758, and Motorola Communications and Electronics $4012, the latter bill for mobile radios. Some $2386 is due to P and B Ambulance, for transporting bodies for autopsy; $9709 to Share Corporation, operated by Roy Ratliff, of Martin, and $1869 to Unijax, for cleaning supplies; $1816 to Timco Supply for tires; and $2248 to Visa. Credit cards are no longer being used for county business, Lafferty said.

Frankfort psychiatrist Dr. John Gergen submitted a $1029 bill for examining a criminal defendant here.

A claim for $648 in his own name represents past auto expenses, expenses he is no longer claiming, Lafferty said. Listed as "reimbursement and travel expenses" is $1625 claimed by Thomas Lafferty Jr.

The reimbursement owing to the younger Lafferty is for personal funds he spent on the Allen swimming pool, said Howell, who criticized the practice. "No county employee should pay (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

THE 30-YEAR-OLD BOILER at the McDowell School is "in excellent shape," although warped flue doors could have been the source of smoke which some say has bothered schoolchildren in nearby classrooms in recent years, said Aaron Miller, an inspector from the state fire marshal's office, following his inspection of the boiler last Thursday. The flue doors, to which Miller is pointing in the picture above, have been sealed pending their replacement.

Three-County Facility Nears; Pike Co. Glum

President Reagan was expected to sign the federal Jobs Bill this week, and as sure as he does the Big Sandy Regional Airport to serve Floyd, Johnson and Martin counties will be funded and on its way to construction.

Congressman Carl D. Perkins maneuvered the airport funding of almost $4 million into the jobs legislation which has been passed by both House and Senate and promised early signing by the President.

The regional airport will be located near the juncture of the three counties, adjacent to KY 3 (the Auxier-Inez road).

While Floyd-Johnson-Martin leaders were expressing pleasure at the news and lauding Congressman Perkins for his help, not everybody was happy. Pike county, which declined to join the regional airport plan but opted for its own, and is almost ready to open its own facility within a few weeks, voiced some displeasure. Webb Lail, executive director of the Pike County Chamber of Commerce, was quoted as saying, "It's a mystery to me that they'd spend that much money on an airport in Martin county when Pike county, with a population of 85,000, is where your biggest influx of business is. I don't know why Mr. Perkins would do that, but we're going to endeavor to find out."

Construction of the airport, which has been in the planning stage six years and stalled the last two years for lack of funds, is expected to begin soon. The jobs bill specified that funds made available must be used within 30 days of the date of their allocation.

The new airport will have a 5000-foot runway, with a parallel runway 40 feet (See Story No. 8, Page 4)

Closed Meeting, Conflict Cited In Zoning Suit

The battle for Arnold Avenue is not over yet.

A Feb. 28 decision by Prestonsburg City Council rezoning three tracts there should be held invalid, claim Garland and Wonnell Godsey in a suit filed in circuit court here Tuesday.

The Godseys, who live on Arnold Avenue, have been locked in a two-year struggle with the city council over the question of changing from residential to commercial the classification of three properties on which the First Commonwealth Bank hopes to build its main office.

The Prestonsburg dentist and his wife successfully blocked the city's first attempt to rezone the area when Floyd Circuit Judge Hollie Conley ruled in their favor in July, 1981.

The city council, claiming it had been reversed only on technical grounds, reenacted the zoning ordinance this year. The Godseys, who argued in 1981 that the zoning charge does violence to the city's Comprehensive Plan, say the same argument still holds true.

There are other reasons, too, why the (See Story No. 4, Page 4)

NO DIGGING, PLEASE

Word comes via Christine Spradlin that the wild phlox is a bloom on the hillside toward the north end of town. This is encouraging. Must go, see. Must also ask City Council to invest in a 12-pounder and zero it in on that spot for any person bearing hoe, pick, shovel, mattock, dutchberry, rake or other digging implement.

The Pros and the Cons . . .

McDowell School Hassle Continues

It depends on whom one listens to. One side says the others will stop at nothing—including exaggeration, "scare tactics" and the disruption of a school—to get their way. The others contend they are only reluctantly "going public" with concerns they've tried for years, but in vain, to press through "normal" channels.

Either way, a group of parents who picketed the McDowell school 10 days ago to dramatize a list of "requests" they are making of school administrators brought their protest this week to the Board of Education, about 12 parents showing up here Monday to talk to school officials or, failing that, to picket the board offices.

After meeting with board officials, including Superintendent E.P. Grigsby, Jr. and Transportation Director Wayne Ratliff, members of the group complained that little progress was made and one of them, Ann Bailey, said she regretted that the group had acceded to Grigsby's stipulation that the meeting not be recorded.

A meeting last Thursday with McDowell Principal Hugo Miller produced some results but other matters were referred by the principal to school board officials, Mrs. Bailey said.

Concerns for the safety of a boiler at the McDowell school appeared to have been allayed Thursday, in circumstances to which both school officials and protesting parents pointed to illustrate the difficulties they face.

Citing the report of an inspector from the state fire marshal's office, who checked the boiler Thursday and declared it to be "in excellent shape," Miller denounced as "scare tactics" reports he said were circulated by protesters earlier that week, indicating the boiler was "about to blow up."

The morning the boiler was inspected, first grade teacher, Mrs. Ruby Damron, reported three calls from parents concerned about a potential explosion, Miller said. The protesting parents had disrupted the school with an unfounded "fear campaign," he charged.

The principal acknowledged that smoke from the boiler sometimes spread in the building which the boiler shares with kindergarten and the first two grades, but that was remedied Thursday after the state inspector determined its source, he said.

The inspector, Aaron Miller, who is not related to the school principal, said smoke could have escaped from two flue doors, which were warped by heat from the furnace, or from the feeder bin, from which coal is drawn into the furnace by an auger.

The flue doors were temporarily sealed until they can be replaced and smoke loss from the feeder bin will be eliminated by keeping the bin well supplied with coal, said Volney Allen, maintenance supervisor for Floyd schools.

If the boiler-related problems have been resolved, that suits Mrs. Bailey fine, but the correction comes three years too late to help her son who, she says, has suffered chronic allergic reactions to smoke from the furnace during his first three years in school.

For at least those three years and for much longer, according to some reports, the problem of smoky classrooms had been brought to the attention of school administrators by parents and teachers and was a staple item on the agenda of the PTO, but nothing was ever done about it before now, Mrs. Bailey said.

"With the amount of money I've paid out in doctors' bills, I could have bought them an electric furnace" (to replace the school's coal-fired furnace)," she said.

Highway Toll Three in Wreck

Three men died last week as the result of Floyd county traffic accidents, Kentucky State Police reported.

Two of the victims, Glen Richard Harper, 23, of Harold, and 86-year-old William McKinley Smith, of Joe's Creek, Pike county, died Friday. The third, Darrell Roger Slone, 37, of Hueysville, succumbed Saturday at the UK Medical Center, Lexington, to injuries sustained March 15.

Harper was injured in a one-car wreck on KY 1428, near Allen, March 17, when he was thrown from his auto as it went over an embankment. Pinned beneath the car, the injured man was not discovered for nine hours. He died at the UK Medical Center.

Spillage of Coal Licked by Cover, Designers Say

With a patent pending and a production date near, the disposable coal car cover designed by two Prestonsburg men is in an enviable position.

Just about everybody welcomes it.

For a long while now, coal producers, railway companies and power plants have been trying to come up with some means of protecting coal shipments in rail transit. Apparently, what they devised was too complicated, too expensive or plainly impractical.

Now, says Donald L. (Dootney) Horn, the disposable coal car cover which he and Thomas Kuss have devised and are in the process of patenting, is the answer to the perplexing problem.

It's an adaptation of the same method used in covering coal trucks to prevent spillage. It is made of heavy plastic, with metal hooks, plus the use of rubber bands across the top. Each cover is made to fit a 100-ton coal gondola, the largest used by railways. Fitting this size to a smaller car is simple: simply tuck the ends in, clamp down the hooks and bind with the rubber bands.

Why is this device important? Designers of the cover say it will prevent coal from being blown from rail cars (the loss heretofore from this source has been estimated at 8 million tons of coal a year), prevents freezing and protects the coal from b.t.u. loss. Water and air pollution from coal spillage also will be eliminated, they claim.

Utility Rates At Paintsville May Rise Again

(From The Paintsville Herald)

Customers of Paintsville Utilities will see their rates for gas, water and sewage service swing upward once again if a rate structure proposed by utility consultants is accepted. A special session of city council was set for Wednesday morning to review the proposals.

The rate study was conducted by Heath and Associates at the direction of the Paintsville Utility Commission "to propose new retail rates consistent with the revenue needs of financially sound utility operation capable of rendering adequate and dependable utility services to the public."

The study points out that "the annual net income of utility operations has been in a downward trend and finally showed a loss in the 1982 audited financial statement." It includes nine recommendations, three of which are proposed rate hikes.

For gas services, minimum rates remain relatively unchanged but an increase of some 36 percent is reflected in the second rate stage and 43 percent in the third.

Inside city customers could see rates go from $7.01 to $7.04 for the first 1000 cubic feet; from $4.14 to $5.64 per 1000 cubic feet for the next 2000 cubic feet; and from $3.86 to $5.51 per 1000 cubic feet over 3000 used.

Outside city rates are proposed to increase from $8.76 to $8.80 for the first 1000 cubic feet; from $5.18 to $7.05 per 1000 cubic feet for the next 2000 cubic feet; and from $4.83 to $6.89 per 1000 cubic feet above 2000 used.

Proposed water rate increases amount to roughly 15 percent over current rates both inside and outside the city limits and an additional five percent increase is proposed for 1984. Sewage rates will amount to 70 percent of the monthly water bill.

Other recommendations in the study include:

- an annual review of utility rates,
- development of a utility statistical records system,
- preparation of monthly operating reports for utility commission review,
- a proposed study to determine sources of unaccounted water loss, and
- a recommendation that a determination be made of the existence and subsequent remedy of any free utility service being provided in violation of bond ordinance covenants.

Opinions from councilmen polled Tuesday afternoon left no clear consensus concerning the rate proposals but all agreed that "some questions need to be answered". Council was to review the rate proposals at an 8:30 a.m. meeting Wednesday.

Big Sandy Hospice Wins Board Approval

The Kentucky Certificate of Need and Licensure Board last week reviewed 25 applications affecting health care facilities and services across the state. The board also reconsidered four previously denied applications and voted on four licensing issues.

Approved was the application of Hospice of Big Sandy, Inc., Prestonsburg, for a hospice program to serve the Floyd-Johnson county area.

In a separate action, Human Resources Secretary Adams disapproved a Section 1122 proposal submitted by U.S. Health Corporation. The Florida-based company proposed to buy Jenkins Community Hospital in Letcher County for $1.6 million. Disapproval was based on the proposal's failure to demonstrate need. The proposal also was judged to be an ineffective use of available resources. The hospital, located 16 miles from Whitesburg Appalachian Regional Hospital, reported a 15 percent occupancy rate for 1982.

Named State Homecoming Queen

(Photograph by Steve Porter)

Shawn Renee Curry, a senior at Wheelwright High School, was crowned Kentucky's Homecoming Queen at the state-wide pageant held Sunday, March 20, at the Executive Inn in Louisville. Runnersup in the pageant were Molly Schrand, Boone County High School, second place; DeLisa Sage, Harlan High School, third place; Missy Chadwick Simon Kenton High School, fourth place; and Lisa Watson, Crittenden County High School, fifth place.

To capture the title, Miss Curry, the daughter of Vernon and Gail Bailey, competed with other local Homecoming Queens from across the state for two days in personal interviews, casual wear modeling, evening gown competition and on-stage questions. Each girl was also required to present a speech on her hometown or school.

In addition to a crown and trophy, Miss Curry won a modeling scholarship and an all-expense paid trip to Las Vegas, Nevada to compete in the national finals in July when America's Homecoming Queen will be chosen. As Kentucky's representative, Miss Curry will participate with high school homecoming queens from every state in the nation, each of whom has won her state title, in the national pageant to be held at the Las Vegas Riviera Hotel.

Retirees Can Avoid Estimated Payments

Since January 1, 1983, there is a requirement that income tax generally be withheld from pension and annuity payments, the Internal Revenue Service said.

The tax withheld from periodic pension or annuity payments is based on marital status and the number of withholding allowances claimed on a withholding certificate-Form W-4P or similar form provided by the payer. If a retiree does not give the payer a withholding certificate, the tax withheld will be determined by treating the retiree as a married person claiming three withholding allowances. This means that there will be no withholding on the $5,400 of a pension or annuity.

Retirees may choose to have no income tax withheld from any distribution received. The payer will tell the retirees how to make the choice. If a retiree chooses not to have income tax withheld from the pension or annuity, he or she may have to make estimated tax payments. Even if tax is withheld from the pension or annuity, estimated tax may have to be paid if enough tax is not withheld.

WHAT ABOUT OTHER FUNERAL DIRECTORS?

We wish to take this opportunity to compliment the other fine funeral directors in the community for their service to the community over the years. We've met a lot of other funeral directors and we feel our competitors certainly compare most favorably. We think our community is fortunate in having such a high and professional level of funeral service from them.

Their being here, as we are, provides members of the community with CHOICES—in service, in economy, in the many intangibles that are inherent in our competitive free enterprise system.

We hope you will consider us (as well as our professional colleagues) capable, and worthy of your trust—should the need for funeral services arise.

You will find us quick to respond to your needs and sympathetic to your wishes. We'd like to think our fine facilities and meticulous attention to the smallest details set us apart from other professionals in the community. Our main concern is your peace of mind. You may be certain that every detail will be attended to that needs being done. We know you would have it no other way.

Many Ignore Parking Rules, Council Told

Until downtown merchants are prepared to discourage their own employees from parking on the street, he will feel little enthusiasm for enforcing city parking laws, Councilman Estill Lee Carter told a meeting of Prestonsburg City Council Monday.

The councilman's comment came in response to complaints by James J. Carter, a city funeral director, that many motorists break the city's parking regulations with impunity.

While some motorists pay their parking tickets, others simply "let them pile up," noted Carter, who urged the council either to "enforce the law or take the meters out completely."

The funeral director complained also that downtown employees ignored his attempts, during funerals, to reserve some on-street parking near the First Baptist Church. Police Chief Jim Curtis said he could help secure parking space for funerals but did not have time for the record-keeping that would be necessary to enforce city parking regulations.

Developers of the Prestonsburg Inn, a motel proposed for a site on U.S. 23 at Katy Friend, were rebuffed by the council in their attempt to stay annexation of that section.

Through their attorney, Greg Stumbo, the developers—who are listed as Dr. J.D. Adams, H.D. Fitzpatrick, Jr., Jack Absher and Tom G. Dings—sought to postpone the proposed annexation until construction of the motel is completed. Incorporation in the city at this time could add as much as $60,000 to construction costs and could jeopardize the project, Stumbo said.

Questioned by council members as to how the developers arrived at that figure, however, the attorney admitted he did not know. A city building permit would cost one half of one percent of the total cost—$5000 for a million-dollar project—and inspection fees would have to be paid to the state if not to the city, the council members pointed out.

Other businesses on Katy Friend and residents and businesses elsewhere were expected to pay for the benefits of annexation and no exception should be made for the motel developers, several council members argued.

The motel developers were said to have favored annexation initially, when they were seeking council sponsorship for a $200,000 state grant application to extend city water and sewer lines as far as their building site. They changed their stance after the fiscal court agreed to sponsor the grant request, however.

In other business, the council appointed Fred Goble to the airport board to replace Don Goble, who resigned; agreed to advertise for 10 summer workers; and adopted an ordinance annexing a section on the city's southern perimeter at Lancer.

The local Easter Sunrise Service will be conducted by the Rev. Taylor Biggs, pastor of the Community Methodist Church, at the Jenny Wiley State Park Amphitheatre. The service, which will begin at 7 a.m., will feature music by the Prestonsburg High School Honor Choir, and all who attend should bring lawn chairs because no chairs are available at the amphitheatre. In case of inclement weather, the service will be moved indoors to May Lodge at the park.

Holy Week services sponsored by the Floyd County Ministerial Association continue each day throughout this week, and will be climaxed by the Community Easter Sunrise Service, Sunday, April 3rd.

Today, (Wednesday) the noonday service at the First Baptist Church will focus on the denial of Peter. The Rev. Paul Grainger, pastor of Lancer Baptist Church, will speak. Mrs. Elma Jessen, of the Presbyterian Church, will sing.

Maundy Thursday, the speaker will be the Rev. Christopher Platt, Vicar of St. James Episcopal Church. Soloist will be Mrs. Meredith Snyder, of the local Seventh Day Adventist congregation.

Good Friday, special music will be a solo by Miss Rebecca Haywood. Accompanied by David Leslie, she will sing "Take My Mother Home." The sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Timothy Jessen, pastor of First Presbyterian Church.

After each of these services, there will be a luncheon under the direction of the Local Council of Church Women. Eva Collins is chairman of the committee which arranges for worshippers to have a luncheon after the service during their lunch hour, and women from eight local churches supply the food.

U. S. Agriculture Secretary John R. Block arrived in Tunisia last week for a three-day visit, beginning a trip to the Middle East.

He said the United States wants Tunisia to benefit from American technology and plans to increase agricultural cooperation between the two nations.

America exports over 50 percent of all the soybeans grown in the country. In the balance of trade, this constitutes about $10 billion a year—enough money to buy almost 300 million barrels of oil.

I am the resurrection and the life; he who believes in me, though he die, yet shall he live, and whoever lives and believes in me shall never die. (John 11:25)

These words of the Savior have more meaning than ever at Eastertime. On Easter Sunday we rejoice in Christ's victory over the grave and the promise of our own redemption. The churches of the community invite you to join them in celebrating this great Christian holiday in the worship service of your choice.

An Open Letter

Hon. Jerry Lafferty, Jr.
Floyd County District Judge
Court House Annex
Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653

Dear Judge,

We have checked with the Perry County courthouse and were informed that they have no salaried Alcoholic Administrator. State law stipulates the judge shall be ABC Administrator, or he can appoint someone in his stead. The judge, himself, acts as ABC Administrator in Perry County. As most people know, you spend $18,000 per year, $1,500 per month, of tax money for this position, which could not require very much work now at all. This little extra work, we believe, you should be glad to undertake for your county.

In light of the financial weakness of our county, and, we trust in your desire to put our county back on solvency, we respectfully suggest that you consider dismissing your ABC Administrator. You could divide this $18,000 with your four Magistrates, money to put back in the road fund, to buy gravel, black-top and for grading our poor roads. Judge, in all due respect, it is hard for the good people to understand when they are told there is no gravel for their roads, no blacktop, no money for bridge repairs, no money for ditch work, and then they see where we have $18,000 per year going for a job called "ABC Administrator." This is a job you could do with great proficiency. We just hope the sales tax (if there is to be one) on alcoholic beverages, is used to help the people instead of big salaries to administer the tax, etc.

We are in need of help, Judge. Our cars are being torn up traveling our worn-out roads; please help us. This open letter is not written to politically hurt you in any way, but to offer another avenue whereby you can have public support in your endeavor to save your county money. You can help our county by cutting out such waste and placing the money on vital services for the people. Here is an area where you can save the taxpayers of Floyd County $18,000 per year, in addition to the cuts suggested by Al Howell, Local Government Advisor. The Perry County Judge is doing well as his own ABC Administrator. We think this cut in expenses is more reasonable or as reasonable as any expense-cutting suggestions made by Mr. Al Howell. We trust, Judge, that you will have the boldness, the courage, and the convictions to make the tough decisions that are in the best interest of our county.

Respectfully yours,
Rev. Bobby Baldrige

For Grady Stumbo

When Bert T. Combs, at that time a Prestonsburg resident, entered the race for governor more than 20 years ago, The Times editorially supported him.

It did so not only because he was an Eastern Kentuckian but also because we were convinced he possessed those qualities which would produce a great governor. His record as governor did not disappoint us.

Now, with another gubernatorial campaign under way, we endorse the candidacy of Dr. Grady Stumbo, a Floyd county native whose qualities of mind and heart are such that he is eminently qualified for the office.

The son of a coal miner, Grady Stumbo's experience touches upon every economic and social situation, beginning with his own personal economic problems as he sought an education and continuing with his contacts with individuals in every walk of life, including professional and industrial interests.

He already has the wide experience gained as secretary of Kentucky's mammoth Department for Human Resources, a position into which he stepped, stone-cold, and in which he achieved a brilliant success.

At this stage of the campaign it appears obvious that Dr. Stumbo is free of those entangling alliances with the "privileged" as opposed to the ordinary citizen. Not one of the so-called power brokers and king-makers that maneuver behind the scenes is in the Stumbo camp—they're all for somebody else.

Our faith in a talented, dedicated Eastern Kentuckian for governor has not changed since the days of Bert Combs. Win, lose or draw, we're for Grady Stumbo.

for anything out of his own pocket," he said. "All county purchases should be paid by check to the seller, not to a county employee."

Judge Lafferty said he had been told to expect no severance tax receipts from the state this quarter. Cuts in severance tax revenue, attributed to the coal slump, and debts inherited from the previous county administration have been the cause of his administration's fiscal problems, he said.

Meanwhile, State Police Lieutenant Jerry Lovitt said Tuesday that a state police investigation of Floyd finances is continuing this week. Lovitt, who is commander of a special investigations unit for the eastern part of the state, said the unit was preparing to audit the county records.

zone change should be overturned, they argue in their suit, which names as defendants the city council, the Floyd County Planning Commission, the First Commonwealth Bank and two owners of the tracts in dispute, John Allen and Stephen R. Allen. Among other things, the Godseys charge that:

—a meeting of the planning commission violated the state "open meetings" law;

—an employee of the bank which sought the zoning change participated as a member of the planning commission in discussion of the proposal;

—the commission lacked a quorum on the day it voted to recommend to the city council that the tracts be reclassified; and —the commission failed to adopt findings of fact, based on evidence, upon which to base its recommendation.

The planning commission, under the chairmanship of George Cecil Brown, held a closed, unadvertised and illegal meeting to discuss the rezoning at May Lodge on December 20, the plaintiffs charge. When he learned of the meeting he asked to be admitted but was refused, Godsey said.

Although he abstained from voting on the proposed zone change, the participation by First Commonwealth Vice-President Sam Blankenship as a commission member in arguing for the change constituted a conflict of interest and invalidates the commission's action, the Godseys contend.

Moreover, they insist, the five commission members who voted to recommend the zone change were not properly appointed and did not constitute a quorum of a body which is required to have 11 members.

wide, and in the plans has been classed as a transport facility, capable of handling large aircraft.

Final design has been completed and the project could go to bid almost immediately.

About $200,000 in state and local funds have been invested in the master plan and final engineering design.

Cost of grade and drain is projected at about $1.7 million, paving at about the same amount, and lighting at approximately $200,000.

Design includes aircraft parking, a terminal building, auto parking area, hangar space, fuel storage, perimeter fencing, visual approach slope indicators and navigational aids.

"Power plants, the railroads and the coal companies welcome it," Horn said. "And this is something environmentalists will all like."

Horn says western coal losses in transit are the heaviest in the nation as trains speed across prairie country and the wind takes its toll. Wheat fields are blackened by coal dust, ski slopes sometimes lose their shining whiteness. Coal spilled into lakes and streams add to acidity of the water.

The cost of the disposable cover? Horn says the saving in coal will be six times what the cover, plus installation, costs. He says a coal car can be covered in eight minutes. Once the train has reached its destination, the cover is removed and burned or otherwise destroyed.

A "trial run" on a coal shipment to Detroit was made recently. The cover worked to perfection, its designers say.

The Prestonsburg men worked on the device about seven months before applying for an international patent and demonstrating the cover to industry officials.

Manufacture of the cover and labor involved in attaching the cover will create 2000 new jobs across the country, the partners predict.

Horn and Kuss are pretty well established as innovators in the coal industry. Several months ago, they were involved in the Old-Style Mining Co., which proposed non-mechanized mining at Ball Alley here, with the return of ponies for use in hauling coal from inside the mine to be loaded into trucks. This venture ran into trouble with the City Council and is now a mechanized deep mining operation under other ownership. More recently, they produced a rubber-tired shuttle car for operation in low coal seams, and this is in production.

Graves County Supt. Raises KET Funds

Graves County School System, under the supervision of Superintendent Gynel E. Garnett, raised $3040 to contribute to KET during TeleFund '83. Garnett, who organized the local campaign in three days, called the TeleFund '83 phone bank Wednesday, March 16, to pledge the money.

"We wanted to participate in KET's fund-raising efforts this year because we appreciate the quality of programs KET brings to our schools," said Garnett. "We don't look at this as a contribution; we are glad to pay for an evening and weekend service that we can find nowhere else."

The school principal agreed to meet Thursday with four representatives of the protesting parents—Mrs. Bailey, Chaddie Martin, Launa Bryant and Aileen Hamilton—to discuss the group's requests. (When Miller protested his presence, a legal services attorney representing Mrs. Bryant agreed not to attend the meeting.)

In a "summary of the results" of the meeting, Mrs. Bailey wrote later that progress was made on problems of bus discipline and lunchroom cleanliness as well as the furnace problem, but noted that questions concerning bus safety, the availability of textbooks and recent curriculum changes still need to be resolved.

Miller agreed, she said, to solicit input from the parents' group in formulating a code of behavior for students on school buses and to have the lunchroom area sprayed for cockroaches.

(Dave Trimble, representing Tri-State Exterminators, of Paintsville, said Thursday his firm was spraying the lunchroom and home economics areas for vermin. The school had a "moderate infestation" of cockroaches under the lunchroom, "no better and no worse" than any other school in the area, he said.)

But the principal begged to differ with the parents on the state of the restrooms. The restroom in the high school section is in such disorder she "can't begin to describe it," Mrs. Bailey said. The restrooms "are not pretty but they work," said Miller.

And Miller deferred to school board officials on several other issues, Mrs. Bailey noted, including the parents' complaint that a recent scheduling change allots an inordinate amount of time to practical arts at the expense of reading and English classes.

On yet another issue, the availability of textbooks, the parents argued that each child should have a textbook in each subject. That is not the case at McDowell, where even the principal concedes that, while each student has "access" to the books he or she needs, the students do not have books in each subject for their exclusive use.

McDowell is meeting the standards imposed by the state Board of Education, which requires only that students have access to the books they need, said Assistant Superintendent Ronald L. Hager this week. In fact, the school has been allotted more books in the lower grades than there are students registered, but some students in higher grades must also use those books because they are incapable of using texts designed for the higher grade levels, he explained.

Some of the books might also be lying about in lockers or in students' homes, he acknowledged.

"I can't see practical arts denying any youngster the opportunity to learn basic skills," Hager said in response to parent complaints that time is being taken from reading and English classes to accommodate practical arts in the 7th and 8th grades.

All students receive the state-required hours of instruction in compulsory subjects—language arts, math, science, social studies, fine arts, health and physical education—and electives like practical arts, environmental studies, consumer courses, or drug-and-alcohol programs are intended to supplement the core curriculum, he said.

Just like us. Back there sits one of these computer adjuncts, bright and shiny, whispery quiet. And it's firmly positioned on a scarred table that was used, years ago, to receive papers as they were printed and delivered from a clanking old Babcock cylinder press. Something old, something new...that's us.

I'LL TAKE BASKETBALL

UK fan that I am, that Kentucky-Louisville game last Saturday bothered me little. I kept the old aplomb by discreetly staying out of sight and sound of the proceedings, meanwhile bracing myself for news of the final score. As either a spectator or a listener sport, basketball is not my dish. I'll take baseball, something that gives me time to take a turn around the premises while the pitcher is shaking off signs, throwing to first or hitching up his pants, without my losing a frame of the real action.

Although he conceded that some of the elective time might also be spent teaching the "basics," Hager said he thought "it would hurt students" if practical arts were dropped at McDowell.

In the 7th and 8th grades, practical arts is geared to "exploration of careers," he explained. "Practical arts should show students the reason they're learning reading, math and science—that these are the skills they'll need to get a job," he said.

In the single concession the parents' group said it was able to win in Monday's meeting with school officials here, Transportation Director Ratliff agreed to allow an independent mechanic to observe the board's mechanics service school buses.

The vexed question of bus safety was one of those referred to Ratliff by McDowell Principal Miller in his meeting with parents last Thursday. For his part, the principal said last week, he has no hesitation in ordering a driver to park a bus immediately if he has any doubts about its safety. "We're not going to put unsafe buses on the road or put kids in an unsafe situation," Miller said.

The sentiment is laudable, say the parents, but it needs to be measured against the record.

The record, they say, is that years went by before someone sealed off the smoke emanating from the McDowell school boiler, despite continuing complaints that the fumes were making some youngsters ill.

And the record, they add, also includes chronic complaints of unsafe and overcrowded buses, incompetent drivers, and undisciplined students—complaints the parents say have yet to elicit a convincing response.

State Police said Smith died of injuries received when his car, traveling on US 23 at Harold, struck the vehicle of Joe H. Conn which had pulled onto the highway from the parking lot of P & B Liquors. The Pike county car was driven by Wilma Smith. The injured man died at the Methodist Hospital, Pikeville, four days later.

Slone was injured when his car struck a patch of ice on new KY 80, near Martin, and skidded into a large rock in the ditch. He was thrown from the car.

Smith is survived by his widow, Letha Gross Smith. Burial was made in Pike county.

Survivors of Harper include his parents, William Harper, of Paintsville, and Mrs. Hester Harper Crabtree, of Columbus, O.; a sister, Mrs. Louella Bean, and one brother, Billy Ray Harper, both of Columbus, Ohio. Funeral rites were conducted Monday from the Little Mud Lick Church of God, and burial was made in Johnson Memorial Park, Pikeville.

Slone was a son of the late Garland and Helen Slone. Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Vina Marie Bailey Slone; three sons, Ishmael Thomas, Clarence Ray and Timothy Scott Slone, all of Hueysville; two sisters, Mrs. Dulcie Ann Ramey, of Hindman, and Mrs. Anna Mae Bailey, Greenwich, O.; one brother, Marvin James Slone, Mt. Pier, O., and two half-brothers, Willard Johnson, Grand Rapids, Mich., and Hobart Johnson, Leesburg, Florida.

His funeral was conducted today (Wednesday) at 10 a.m. from the Salt Lick United Baptist Church, and burial in the family cemetery was directed by the Hall Funeral Home.

Roadside Theater Sets Hindman Performance

Tuesday, April 5 at 8 p.m., Roadside Theater will perform its newest musical, "South of the Mountain," at the Hindman Settlement School. The performance by the nationally acclaimed traveling theater company is being sponsored by the Knott County Community Arts Committee.

"South of the Mountain" is the story of two generations of a family as they face the personal, dramatic changes of moving from a mountain farm to a modern, industrial way of life. Based largely on the reflections of the author's kin, the production blends their stories with a dozen original songs (accompanied by guitar, banjo, and fiddle) to portray an experience common throughout the nation. The Nashville Tennessean recently called the production "a stellar work," and added that "pride, dignity and self-appreciation mark the lives we hear about and come to see plainly."

Clean-up Is Topic of Daniel's Creek Meet

David Cooley, Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc. director (standing), addresses Daniel's Creek community meeting.

A meeting of Daniel's Creek residents and community leaders with Floyd County Solid Waste Director David Cooley and Magistrate Lowell Sammons, Friday night, served to reaffirm the community's commitment to the continuation of a long-term clean-up effort which may, if ultimately successful, prove a model for other hollows and communities.

Cooley was present to answer questions concerning garbage pickup on the creek and to discuss strategy with residents in helping with the clean-up. Although some residents voiced criticism of solid waste's pickup service, a number agreed that service had improved over the past four weeks. Cooley announced that Floyd County Solid Waste would pay $100 to anyone reporting illegal dumping if a conviction resulted. Payment would be made for up to five convictions a month, he said.

Magistrate Sammons, who also pledged continued support of the group's efforts, announced that a county-wide clean-up is planned for May and the approximately 45 persons who attended agreed that May would serve as a proper deadline for individual's to beautify their own homes and yards and to pitch in to help clean up the creek.

Daniel's Creek residents are currently in the process of forming a community development company and the procedure for such an organization was also discussed at Friday's meet.

Trial of Bevins Slated Monday

Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen said Monday that the trial of William O. (Okie) Bevins for the slaying of five men at Allen in October, 1981 appears ready to begin next Monday in the Greenup circuit court.

The empanelling of a jury to hear the capital offense case (one for which the penalty may be death) is expected to require the first two or three days of the week. The defense is not expected to deny that Bevins is guilty of the mass slaying, but it has already served notice that the plea of insanity will be offered.

The carbine-type weapon allegedly used in the shooting has never been found.

The trial of Bevins, shifted to the Greenup court on change of venue when the defense contended that Bevins could not get a fair trial in this county, is expected to attract wide attention. Bevins' attorney is the colorful Lester Burns, of Somerset, whose legal specialty is criminal trials, usually for the defense.

The Geiger Easter Seal Speech and Hearing Center at Ashland provided services to 2,191 persons in 1982.

Flu Season Said Not Yet Past

Federal health researchers say the long 1982-83 flu season is showing signs of "gradual decline."

Nevertheless, they said, Kentucky and three other states—Iowa, Nebraska and Virginia—reported "widespread activity" last week.

In its Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report, the national Centers for Disease Control said that deaths from influenza and pneumonia are above expected levels for the 10th straight week. But the center said that flu research suggests "a gradual decline in activity."

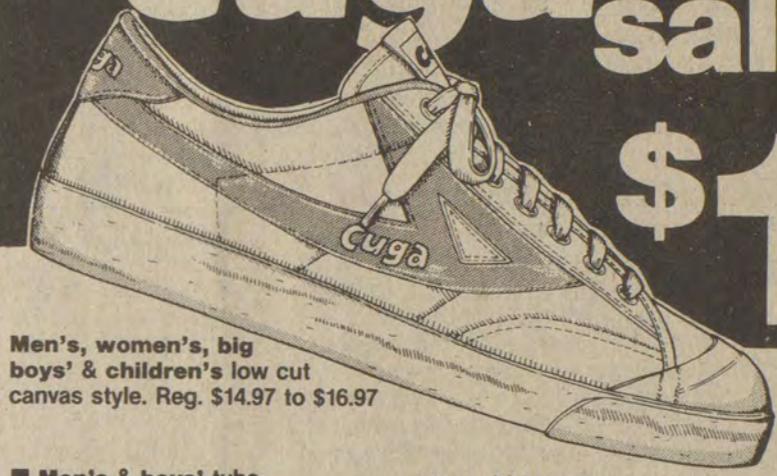

"It does look like this may be the beginning of a tailoff," said Dr. Karl Kappus, a flu researcher with the center.

More than 90 percent of the flu cases reported by the center continue to be the A strain known as H3N2, or A-Bangkok, although a continued increase in H1N1 or A-Brazil flu, has been noted, the CDC said.

Floyd Gas Firms Seeking Rate Hikes

At least two gas companies serving Floyd residents have announced this week that they are seeking rate increases. Another, which delayed for three months an increase approved by the state Public Service Commission (PSC) in January, is putting the higher rate into effect in April. And yet another, which imposed a PSC-approved surcharge this month, is facing the threat of a consumer protest.

Goble-Roberts Addition resident Ben Mullins said he and other customers of the Elzie Neeley Gas Company—which has been owned by Mike Little for nearly a decade—plan to meet at the Floyd courthouse at 7 p.m. Saturday "to see about their outrageous gas prices," including a surcharge recently imposed by the company with the consent of the PSC.

Little's 92 Goble-Roberts customers pay $8.69 for the first thousand feet of gas they use and $7.77 for every thousand after that. As the result of a recent PSC order, they will be charged, in addition, a flat $5 per month and 94 cents per thousand feet for a period of up to two years.

The surcharge is to enable Little to pay for gas he has purchased over the years from Columbia Gas. The retailer got behind on his payments to Columbia because he had not raised his own rates earlier, the PSC determined.

That argument does not impress Phyllis Mullins who said this week that Little's customers should not have to pay for his mismanagement. Ninety of her Goble-Roberts neighbors signed a petition protesting the surcharge, she said.

Little said Tuesday that the rate increase he applied for last year was the first he had asked for since he bought the Elzie Neeley Company "eight to 10 years ago."

"It's my own fault in a way," he said of his delinquent gas bills. "I have feelings for people and I hated to ask for a raise two or three years ago when prices for everything were going up. But I have to meet my own obligations."

Little is not about to make the same mistake with his other Floyd gas operation, the Mike Little Gas Company, which serves customers in Melvin and Wayland. The company announced this week it will ask the PSC to approve a 12.9 percent rate hike. If it is allowed, customers will pay $7 for their first thousand feet of gas, and $5.52 per thousand after that. The increase would add $6.48 a month to the average customer's bill, Little estimated.

At the same time, the Auxier Road Gas Company announced it would seek a 15.1 percent increase. Its customers will pay $10 for the first thousand feet and $9.05 per thousand thereafter—raising the average monthly bill by $14.38—if the PSC goes along.

Even the Inland Gas Company, which serves about 300 customers bordering its transmission lines in this county—and which has never raised until now the rate originally set 25 years ago—said it would put into effect in April a rate increase approved by the PSC in January.

Although the new rate represents a steep rise—inland customers have been accustomed to paying only 80 cents a thousand for the first two thousand feet, 60 cents a thousand for the next 28 thousand, and 40 cents after that—the flat $4 per thousand they will now be paying will still leave them the envy of their neighbors.

It is also considerably less than the company is entitled to charge under PSC guidelines, said L.M. Hopkins, Inland's operations manager. Hopkins also noted that the company delayed the rate hike until spring in order to ease the burden on its customers.

Earliest Safe Planting Dates for Area Gardeners

Even though the first few weeks in April may bring some extremely warm weather which can sometimes put the home gardener into a gardening mood, don't forget what can happen to the sudden changes in Eastern Kentucky weather. It's a good idea to follow certain early planting guidelines. Listed below are common area crops and appropriate early planting dates:

Snap beans and sweet corn, May 1; lima beans, cucumbers, muskmelon, okra, pumpkins and summer squash, May 10; tomato plants, watermelon and winter squash, May 15, and pepper plants and egg plants, May 20.

IRS Warns Older Citizens Of Bogus Representatives

If you're a senior citizen, and someone from the Internal Revenue Service pays you a visit, you'd better make sure he or she is a bonafide representative of the Service, the IRS cautions.

Unfortunately, senior citizens are prime targets of tax and tax deduction schemes, where persons impersonating IRS employees show up to "collect" additional taxes. The IRS says all of its employees are required to carry clearly recognizable identification which must be presented when they contact taxpayers. Most people who owe additional tax are contacted by mail, so make sure you don't transact business of any kind if you suspect fraud.

Also, beware of organizations claiming to have tax-exempt status who ask for donations to their cause. While there are many legitimate and praiseworthy organizations with actual tax-exempt status, there are also bogus groups posing as bonafide tax-exempt organizations.

If you have any reason to believe someone is impersonating an IRS employee, or if you suspect someone of representing a bogus tax-exempt organization, call the IRS on the tax information number listed in your local directory and ask for the Office of the Regional Inspector.

Remember, under no circumstances should you give money, checks, bank books, or any other item of value to someone you're not sure of. When it's your money, it pays to be careful.

The first legislation putting restrictions on union activity was the Sherman Antitrust Act as interpreted in the Danbury Hatters' case in 1980, according to a publication of the U.S. Department of Labor

ROTATION PRACTICES IN THE HOME GARDEN
 Rotation practices in the home garden is a profitable venture which every home gardener should follow. Vegetables should be rotated every year. No vegetable crop or member of the same vegetable family should be planted in the same area of the garden more often than every three years. A good garden rotation plan will pay off in the follow ways: bigger yields, less soil disease and fewer insects, better use of fertilizer, improved vegetable quality, fewer crop failures, reduced production cost.

The School Bus Problem

Transportation Director Wayne Ratliff stated in an article appearing in the March 16th issue of the Floyd County Times that buses are being vandalized while they are being used for extra curricular events. The article also states that: "All other repairs are done as soon as they can be scheduled, buses are inspected monthly, there is a list of 40 checks on each bus and buses are to be road tested as part of the inspection."

A member of our organization was a band booster for four years. During those years she chaperoned trips all over the Kentucky, West Virginia area. There was never any damage done by those band members on those trips. The buses used during those four years were almost always dirty and had almost always been in terrible disrepair. As a matter of fact, the buses were a whole lot cleaner after the band trips.

We have been attending school board meetings for approximately five years. During those years bus problems have been a large part of the complaints aired during those public meetings. Concerned citizens told of unsafe drivers, overcrowding, lack of repairs, dirty buses and lack of discipline.

At last we have one brave bus driver, Mr. James Clevenger, who has the courage to speak up and tell the transportation director, board members and the public that something has to be done about these ongoing problems.

Mr. Clevenger is not asking for anything more than what is stated in the laws governing the safe operation of school buses.

The question we are asking is: are these rules and regulations, mandated by the Department of Education and the State of Kentucky, being observed by our administrators in charge of transportation? As far as we can tell, by the phone conversations with parents, complaints aired at school board meetings and the article in the local paper, there is considerable doubt.

Sending a letter to principals and bus drivers, as Wayne Ratliff said he has done, is a first step toward seeing that these serious problems get resolved.

Along with that should be concerned parents and citizens attending public school board meetings, held on the first Wednesday of each month.

Unless these steps are taken and parents get involved in the monitoring of our school officials we can only expect more of the same.

Cites Damage to Signs

The Department of Transportation requests that no advertising stickers or posters be placed on highway road signs, as this is a violation of federal law.

Political stickers placed on faces of highway signs cannot be removed without causing complete damage, as the signs lose their nighttime reflectivity. Where stickers have been placed on a 10-mile section of road with 100 signs, the damage would be approximately $3,000. This cost is taken from our road program and may deprive us of operating monies.

For each sign destroyed it would cost the taxpayers of Kentucky approximately $30.

Thank you for your consideration.

Wheelwright Store Is Article Topic

The role played by Thompson's IGA at Wheelwright in the revitalization of the once-thriving coal mining center and "model mining community" was the subject of a feature in the March issue of "Progressive Grocer" magazine, the largest grocer's trade magazine in the United States.

Tracing the "boom" days of Inland Steel and the subsequent economic decline of Wheelwright, the article also profiles Paul Hunt Thompson, co-owner of the 6,500-square foot supermarket which was opened in 1980 in the former company store building.

In the article, Thompson summarized the reason for locating in Wheelwright, saying: "This is a well-planned place, a model mining community. Since HUD was investing in it, we thought a local businessman should follow their lead. Government and business working together would be best able to revitalize the town."

Although pleased that the magazine chose to feature his store, Thompson said he was a bit unhappy because of the publication's failure to include a particular statement he wanted to make. "I asked that they include a statement from me to the effect that I consider high unemployment in the area to be a result of the fact that the federal government had made a strong commitment to the coal industry causing people to invest and expect prosperity, and then backed off from that commitment causing severe problems for an economy almost totally dependent on coal."

"The magazine had told me they would, but they didn't," Thompson concluded.

The Wheelwright store was also one of 66 recipients of the magazine's '83 Honor of Outstanding Independent Grocers for the East Central region.

Honored on 100th Birthday

Among those present were five of her girlhood friends, three of her six children and eight of her 16 grandchildren. Her children are Rondal E. Hayes, Hueysville; Paul Hayes, Rio Grande, O.; Mrs. Violet Robbins, Cincinnati; Mrs. Clearence Day, Charlotte, N.C.; Mrs. Kathlee Nyman, Sacramento, Calif., and Mrs. Marietta Brown, Apple Valley, California. Distance and weather conditions prevented three of her daughters and their families from attending. A half-brother, Dewey Martin, of Minnie, and Mrs. Martin were among those present.

Solar Energy Seminar Set Apr. 14 at Hazard

Hazard Community College and the Kentucky Energy Cabinet will co-sponsor a solar energy seminar in the auditorium of the college Thursday, April 14, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. The seminar is free to the public.

Included on the discussion panel will be Joe Nolasco of Nolasco Construction Company, Hazard, Kentucky, and Glenn Franko, of Soft-Tech Energy Systems, Harold. Both have experience in solar design and construction.

The program will include discussion on the basic design options available for a solar sunspace, presentations of sunspace projects in Kentucky, and design-construction rules of thumb for proper and efficient use of solar energy. The seminar will be of particular interest to the lay person wishing to better understand the principles of solar energy use, and particularly to the homeowner thinking about adding on to a present home.

TV Nostalgia

By Marie Landiorio

One of CBS' longest-running sitcoms was the story of an Ozark hillbilly family who strikes it rich when an oil well sprouts in their front yard. When their kinfolk told them "California is the place ya oughtta be," they loaded up their truck and moved to Beverly Hills, Calif., where they became "The Beverly Hillbillies."

Veteran film star Buddy Ebsen portrayed Jed Clampett, patriarch of the Clampett clan. Jed dealt with both his scatterbrained family and his banker neighbor, Milton Drysdale. The Clampetts' slapstick encounters with politics, fashion and indoor plumbing provided material for nine years of TV comedy.

Question: Jed's family included daughter Ely May, Granny and his nephew Jethro Bodine. Can you name the actors who played these roles?

Answer: Donna Douglas, Irene Ryan, Max Baer Jr.

Meet Me Tonight at The "Dreamland"

By INK MENDELSON
Smithsonian News Service
He put his hand in hers. Together they gazed upward at the magic moonlit sky. A canopy of gauzy clouds wafted across the field of midnight blue, revealing in its wake a host of sparkling stars.

In the second row of Hoblitzelle's Houston Majestic Theater, the dreamy couple sat cozily, as stars twinkled and clouds cavorted above them. Brenkert Brenography, Jr. was at it again.

Brenography, Jr. was not the dashing heir to a Texas oil fortune but a cloud-making machine made by the Brenkert Company. From this magic lantern endlessly drifting cumulus and nimbus were projected onto the Majestic's blue plaster heavens by a strip of negatives moved across a powerful light. The electric stars shone steadily in the plaster firmament.

Designed by John Eberson in 1923, the Houston Majestic was America's first "atmospheric" movie-palace. Houstonians who went to see the latest movie romance found themselves transported to an ancient Italian garden sheltered by vine-covered travertine walls topped with cupolas, classic temples and preening peacocks.

Today, the stars no longer shine; the clouds no longer roll—losers in a thunderous clash with the wrecker's ball a number of years ago. Houston's Majestic and hundreds of movie palaces like it are gone. However, hundreds of others survive—some in decay, some in splendor and some just trying to earn a living.

Between 1915 and 1945, more than 4,000 movie palaces and thousands of smaller movie houses were built in America. Located in the downtown entertainment districts of cities, the palaces generally seated between 1,000 and 5,000 people. They had a balcony, a stage, dressing rooms and an orchestra pit—and tons of gold-leafed plaster.

The palaces were "showplaces where the place was as important as the show," historian David Naylor, author of American Picture Palaces (Van Nostrand Reinhold, 1981), observes. "No buildings in America have been, collectively, as audaciously romantic, blatantly derivative, and wonderfully original as the movie palaces."

But back in 1928 one architectural purist cried, "No more pitiful degradation of an art has ever been presented than the prostitution of architecture that goes on daily in the construction of these huge buildings..." Only in the last few years have art critics, architects, academicians and museums begun to take picture palaces seriously. Recently, an exhibition at the Smithsonian's Cooper-Hewitt Museum in New York City spotlighted the art and artifacts of these unique beauties.

The art world once may have approached the movie palace gates cautiously; the public, however, stormed them. By 1930, more than 100 million Americans were going to the movies every week—almost the entire country.

It all started innocently enough with 1903's "Great Train Robbery," the first feature-length motion picture. The movies were off and running, but they needed a home: The first was the nickelodeon—a small, family-operated business in a storefront equipped with a screen, a projector, some hard chairs and a ticket booth. "Nickel-Odeon"—you paid your nickel and you got theater (in Greek).

By 1903, Harry, Jack, Albert and Sam—the brothers Warner—had a nickelodeon. By 1909, 8,000 other people had one, too. And by 1910, people everywhere in America were saying, "Meet me tonight at the 'Dreamland.'"

The movies soon outgrew the nickelodeons and became boarders in the larger vaudeville houses as second billing to George Burns on roller skates and other popular acts of the day. But as movies got bigger and better, they got to be top banana.

The moment had come for the movie palace to make its grand entrance. The Regent Theater, built in 1913 in Manhattan—today it's a church—is considered the first deluxe theater constructed specifically for showing movies. Its architect, Thomas W. Lamb, became one of the foremost of the palace architects and its manager, Samuel L. ("Roxy") Rothapfel, one of the world's great showmen.

It was for another great showman—the "Master Showman of the Big Tops," Al Ringling—that in 1915 architects George and C.W. Rapp designed a picture palace worthy of the name. The Al Ringling Memorial Theater in Baraboo, Wis., boasts an auditorium designed after La Salle de Spectacle, the opera hall at Versailles. Still showing movies, it was the first, but not the last, Versailles mirror image on Main Street.

As the movie market grew in the '20s, theater chains were forged across America—chains that would soon link the film exhibitors and the Hollywood studios. Major film exhibitors understood the powerful lure of an exotic building standing out in a gray city-scape. "We sell tickets to theaters, not movies," Marcus Loew decreed.

The palaces were worth the price of admission—often a quarter and certainly less than a dollar. Inspired by baroque palaces, Mediterranean palazzos, Gothic cathedrals and castles in Spain, the Houdinis of the drawing boards created blueprints for escape, the most beautiful buildings may moviegoers had ever seen.

The lobbies of Loew's Ohio and State Theaters in Cleveland (now part of an arts center), designed in 1921, were inspired by the gallery of a royal 16th-century French palace at Fontainebleau. The foyer of Chicago's Tivoli (now gone), designed in 1921, was modeled after the Chapelle Royale built for Louis XIV. The San Francisco Pantages (now Orpheum), built in 1926, was based on the 15th-century cathedral of Leon in Spain and libeled by disrespectful wags as "Inquisition Spanish."

Comeback Seen for Coal

Bill Bowker, director of Coal Development for the Kentucky Department of Energy, has a positive outlook for eastern Kentucky coal. This, despite the fact that coal production is down because of depressed markets reflecting the world economy. The Department of Energy is aware of the importance of coal to the economy and well-being of Kentucky. Eastern Kentucky coal has some strong reasons to continue that importance—the world and the nation will continue to depend largely on coal, he says. Eastern Kentucky has vast reserves of clean, low-sulphur coal. "Coal production is down now simply because of the national and world economies," Bowker says. "Production in 1983 will continue fairly flat. The third and fourth quarters may be good, but I expect a three to four percent increase in the market in 1984, another in 1985."

sometimes costs more to ship the coal because of distance to ports. The Appalachian Highway System is important in moving Kentucky coal. Bowker believes the highway will eventually be finished. The Division serves as the staff of the Governor's Coal Policy Council, a group of 35 appointees, including secretary Bill Sturgill, who represent all segments of coal. The Council considers matters such as the impact of coal, the relation to transportation, education, marketing, and synfuel development. The Coal Development Division monitors legislation on reclamation and acid rain to see that Kentucky gets a fair treatment. It also maintains a Small Operators Technical Assistance Program with field offices in Pikeville, Middlesboro, Hazard and Madisonville. The Division has a program for Commercial and Industrial Boiler Coal use.

Coal production in other countries (notably Poland, South Africa, Australia) should continue to compete for their share of the market, according to Bowker. "Foreign purchases find U.S. Coal attractive because they see the necessity of maintaining secure supply sources. They recognize the stability of the U.S. government. The Asian market for coal will grow, particularly steam coal. "If OPEC loses its hold on oil prices, this will not take away the coal market. Coal is still the least costly fuel. An oil glut could make oil users hesitate to switch to coal, however." Bowker says coal production usually follows changes in the economy by about six months, as producers keep their work forces and stockpile unsold coal. "The trend in Kentucky now is toward underground coal production because of surface mining laws," Bowker explains. The adjustment to safety demands has already been made. Productivity is a key factor in producing coal profitably. Productivity in Kentucky is better than the Appalachian states as a whole, but it

FCIC Announces Closing Date Is April 15

Producers of corn, will want to check into Federal Crop Insurance before April 15, according to Sharon Conley, county executive director for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS). Federal Crop Insurance covers unavoidable loss of production from damage caused by adverse weather conditions, insects, plant disease, wildlife, earthquake or fire. The insurance coverage begins when the crop is planted. Producers may choose from three coverage levels: 50, 65, or 75 percent of the established farm yield for insurance protection. Additionally, FCIC offers three optional price elections for valuing production lost or damaged. In 1983, FCIC has initiated a new Individual Yield Coverage (IYC) plan, which allows producers of corn, grain sorghum, and soybeans to establish a production guarantee based on individual farm yield data. For more information about the IYC plan, or to sign up, producers should contact the Floyd County ASCS Office at 105 Court St., Prestonsburg. The telephone number is 886-2802.

himself, explained what the VVLP was all about: helping fellow veterans in need. McGavock, a bit overwhelmed, a bit suspicious, was willing to visit the VVLP office. He did so, and when he left he knew he was no longer alone in trying to find a way to climb out of the economic and psychological pit of unemployment. But there was more. Through a VVIP arranged food bank, he was provided with a week's supply of food to aid his family and, for himself, some badly needed clothing. Most important, he had a VVLP job-readiness interview and Sedgwick and other VVLP volunteer staffers were at work, seeking a job for him. As one observer put it, McGavock "appeared to be emotionally overwhelmed because of the assistance provided." He believed he had been abandoned by everyone. Now, suddenly, strangers were working on his behalf. Only they weren't really strangers, they were fellow veterans. Soon thereafter, Sedgwick informed McGavock that a job interview with an aeronautical company had been set up for him. The result was a blessed offer for employment in an on-the-job training program. The interviewer at Engineered Air Systems had not only been impressed with McGavock's mechanical ability but also his manner: polite; appreciative; quick-thinking; and with an easy smile. Today Ted McGavock is at work again. To bring his family back to St. Louis will take time, but in the meantime, Marge writes her wonderful letters. They have a poetic quality, Sedgwick says. To Ted they say, I believe in you. I believe in our future. Ted McGavock's story is one of help given at a difficult time: a time of need and of need fulfilled by fellow Vietnam veterans who care.

Good News Report

By THOMAS W. PAUKEN
Director of ACTION
The odds seemed stacked against combat Marine veteran, Ted McGavock. He'd been out of work for eleven months. The company he had worked for in St. Louis, Missouri, for eleven years had gone broke so there was no chance for re-employment as a machinist, and no matter how hard he looked for employment elsewhere he could not find any. His unemployment compensation had been terminated. Worse, he had lost the home he had been buying for six years and the furnishings with it. His wife, Marjorie, and their four children were now living with her parents in Donovan, two hundred miles away. A friend had loaned him a truck, and he had been trying to get work hauling anything, but there wasn't anything to haul. Ted McGavock was broke, dispirited, bewildered. He'd always prided himself on his ability to find work, even as a kid. Now he was hanging on the economic ropes, and when he walked into the VVLP office in St. Louis, the T-shirt and dungarees he wore represented his entire wardrobe. It wasn't McGavock who had heard about ACTION's Vietnam Veterans Leadership Program (VVLP) and came looking for help, but rather, ACTION volunteer Everett Sedgwick of the VVLP staff who had heard about McGavock and asked him if he could help. Sedgwick had gone looking for the former Marine, and when he found him he was startled by McGavock's size. His bulk seemed as menacing as the look on his face. Sedgwick, a Marine veteran

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

Most of us are quick to reach for an aspirin tablet at the first sign of pain. However, there are times when we should not take aspirin. We should not, for example, take aspirin one week before and one week after planned surgery. Surgery for tonsil removal as well as facial and oral surgery require aspirin-free, bleeding control. Taking aspirin for a hangover may also make an irritated stomach feel even worse. Be advised that an effervescent headache tablet contains the equivalent of one aspirin tablet. It is also advisable not to take aspirin during the last three months before childbirth. The simple drug, aspirin, has many uses, from reducing swelling to bringing down a fever. But there are some instances when aspirin should not be taken. So if you have questions, don't hesitate to ask your doctor or Pharmacist. Here at COOLEY APOTHECARY we're a full service pharmacy. We also carry convalescent aids, such as walkers, canes, crutches and more. You can find us at #2 Town Center Bldg., where we're open Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30; Sat. 9-4. 886-8106

OF THE COUNTY OF FLOYD, COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY, PROVIDING FOR THE TAXATION OF SALES OF ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES ON THE RETAIL LEVEL

WHEREAS, the citizens of the County of Floyd have enacted local option for legal alcoholic beverages sales, and

WHEREAS, this Court believes that the citizens of the county of Floyd desire a local tax, if legally permissible, now

THEREFORE, it is hereby ordained that this Ordinance be enacted effective the 14th day of March, 1983.

ARTICLE I: DEFINITIONS

For the purpose of this Ordinance, the following terms, phrases and their derivations shall have the meaning given herein, unless the context clearly indicates that another meaning is intended. When not inconsistent with the context, words used in the present tense include the future, words in the plural include the singular number, and words in the singular number include the plural number. The word "shall" is always mandatory and not merely directory.

It includes every spurious or imitation liquor sold as, or under any name commonly used for alcoholic beverages, whether containing any alcohol or not. It does not include the following products if they are unfit for use for beverage purposes: (a) medicinal preparations manufactured in accordance with formulas prescribed by the United States Pharmacopoeia National Formulary or the American Institute of Homeopathy; (b) patented, patent and proprietary medicine; (c) toilet, medicinal and antiseptic preparations and solutions; and (d) flavoring extracts and syrups.

(3) "Licensee" means any person to whom a license has been issued, pursuant to KRS 243.020 to 243.670.

(4) "Retail sale" means any sale where delivery is made in Kentucky to any person not holding a license.

(5) "Retailer" means any person who sells at retail any alcoholic beverage for the sale of which a license is required.

(6) "Sale" means any transfer, exchange or barter for consideration, and includes all sales made by any person, whether principal, proprietor, agent, servant or employee, of any alcoholic beverage.

(7) "Sell" includes solicit or receive an order for, keep or expose for sale, keep with intent to sell, and the delivery of any alcoholic beverage.

(8) "Wholesale sale" means a sale to any person for the purpose of resale.

(9) "Wholesaler" means any person who sells at wholesale any alcoholic beverage for the sale of which a license is required, except a distiller, rectifier brewer or vintner.

(10) "Person" meaning any individual, firm, copartnership, joint venture, association, social club, fraternal organization, corporation, estate, trust, business trust, receiver, trustee, syndicate, cooperative, assignee, governmental unit or agency, or any other group or combination acting as a unit.

(11) "Sales price" means the total amount for which the alcoholic beverage is sold, valued in money, whether paid in money or otherwise, without any deduction on account of any of the following:

(a) The cost of alcoholic beverage sold.

(b) The cost of transportation of the alcoholic beverage prior to its purchase.

(c) The cost of labor or service cost, interest charged, losses, or any other expenses.

"Sales price" includes any amount for which credit is given to the purchaser by the seller and does not include cash discounts allowed and taken on sales or the amount of any tax (not including, however, any manufacturer's excise or import duty) imposed by the United States upon or with respect to retail sales, whether imposed upon the retailer or the consumer.

(12) "Seller" includes every person engaged in the business of selling alcoholic beverages, the gross receipts from the retail sale of which are required to be included in the measure of the sales tax.

(13) "Taxpayer" means any person liable for tax under this Ordinance.

(14) "Gross revenues" means revenue derived directly or indirectly from the sale of alcoholic beverages by a licensee without deduction of the cost of doing business.

ARTICLE II: IMPOSITION OF SALES TAX

For the privilege of making "retail sales" of alcoholic beverages within the confines of Floyd County, Kentucky, a tax is hereby imposed upon all retailers at the rate of six per cent (6%) of the gross receipts of any retailer derived from "retail sales" made within this county on and after 1983.

ARTICLE III: RETAILER'S POWER TO COLLECT FROM CONSUMER

The taxes herein imposed may be collected by the retailer from the consumer.

ARTICLE IV: PROHIBITED ADVERTISING

It is unlawful for any retailer to advertise or hold out or state to the public or to any customer, directly or indirectly, that the tax levied by this Ordinance or any part thereof will be assumed or absorbed by the retailer or that it will not be added to the selling price of the alcoholic beverage sold or that if added it or any part thereof will be refunded. ARTICLE V: PRESUMPTION THAT ALL GROSS RECEIPTS ARE TAXABLE

For the purpose of the proper administration of this Ordinance and to prevent evasion of the sales tax it shall be presumed that all gross receipts of a retailer of alcoholic beverages are subject to the tax until the contrary is established. The burden of proving that a sale of alcoholic beverages is not a "retail sale" is upon the person who makes the sale.

ARTICLE VI: EXEMPTION

Excluded from the computation of the amount of taxes imposed by this Ordinance are the gross receipts from sales of, and the storage or use of returnable containers when sold with the contents in connection with a retail sale of contents or when resold for refilling. As used in this section the term "returnable containers" means containers of a kind customarily returned by the buyer of the contents for reuse. All other containers are nonreturnable containers.

ARTICLE VII: TAXES ARE DUE MONTHLY

The taxes imposed by this chapter are due and payable to the county monthly and shall be remitted on or before the twentieth day of the next succeeding calendar month.

ARTICLE VIII: REQUIRED MONTHLY RETURN

(1) On or before the twentieth day of the month following each calendar month, a return for the preceding month will be filed with the County Court Clerk. Said report may be a photocopy of the state sales tax return required by KRS 139.550 with such additions as are necessary to show the amount due to the Floyd County Treasurer for that month, provided said return contains the information required by Article IX.

(2) For purposes of the sales tax, a return shall be filed by every seller.

(3) Returns shall be signed by the person required to file the return or by his duly authorized agent but need not be verified by both.

ARTICLE IX: CONTENTS OF MONTHLY RETURN

(1) For the purposes of the sales tax, the return shall show the gross receipts, the total sales price of the alcoholic beverages sold by him, and the storage, use or consumption of which property became subject to the use tax during the preceding reporting period.

(2) The return shall show the amount of taxes for the period covered by the return.

ARTICLE X: THE PERSON REQUIRED TO FILE

The person required to file the return shall deliver the return together with a remittance of the amount of the tax due to the Floyd County Treasurer, said remittance to be made payable to the Floyd County Treasurer.

ARTICLE XI: PENALTY FOR LATE FILING

In every case, any tax not paid on or before the due date shall bear interest at the tax interest rate provided in KRS 131.183(i).

ARTICLE XII: PERMIT TO COLLECT TAXES

Each retailer of alcoholic beverages shall submit to the Floyd County Alcoholic Beverage Commission a statement of the following information:

- (1) Name of license holder.

WATCH THOSE EXCEPTIONS

Since Kentucky's basic fishing regulations aren't difficult, most avid anglers pretty well know them by heart. But watch out, because there are exceptions to the rules on certain lakes.

These exceptions to statewide size and creel limits originated with the need for specific management for certain problems. While a statewide regulation may work adequately for 99 percent of the commonwealth's fishing waters, a particular body of water may need special treatment.

Regulating size and creel limits is one of the most powerful tools fisheries biologists have to manipulate fish populations. Researchers with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources expect that more and more of these exceptions will crop up in the future as biologists identify specific problems at different lakes or streams.

In some cases, the exception allows a more liberal harvest than the statewide rule. At Lake Malone and at Shanty Hollow Lake, for example, the size limit on black bass has been removed completely. And at Grayson Lake in eastern Kentucky, the daily creel limits on crappie have been removed.

In these cases, this problem is too many fish. At Malone and Shanty Hollow, large populations of bass under the usual 12-inch size limit were making serious inroads on their food supplies and not growing rapidly, so the size limit on bass was removed at these lakes. And Grayson Lake is plagued by an overcrowded population of small, stunted crappie.

Elmer David Lake, in north-central Kentucky, had too many small bass and almost none over 12 inches long, so a different approach is being tried here—a "slot limit" rule which allows anglers to keep fish under 12 inches and over 16 inches long, but stipulates that any bass in the 12- to 16-inch "slot" must be returned to the water.

At Herrington Lake and its Dix River headwaters, a problem of identification has led to a new regulation. For the past few years hybrid striped bass have been stocked at Herrington. When small, these fish, which are crosses between white bass and rockfish (salt-water striped bass), resemble white bass so closely that even trained biologists sometimes have trouble distinguishing the two.

Normally, there's a 15-inch size limit and a 5-fish daily limit of rockfish and hybrids—quite a bit different from the daily limit of 60 (with no size limit) on white bass. To relieve anglers of the responsibility of having to correctly identify these confusing species, the daily limit was placed at 20 (with a possession limit of 40) for white bass.

Viewers Become Jurors In New Mystery Series

From the outset of the new "Mystery!" series on KET, viewers know "whodunit." We see Paul Presset, the sensitive, timid schoolmaster, feeding arsenic to his domineering, shrewish wife Elinor in the first part of "We, The Accused?" the five-part "Mystery!" series airing Thursdays at 9 p.m., beginning April 14.

The series, based on British writer Ernest Raymond's best-selling crime classic, asks the viewers to become the jury, determining whether a man guilty of poisoning his wife deserves their sympathy.

After the schoolmaster, played by Ian Holm, murders his wife, played by Elizabeth Spriggs, he flees with his shy, loyal mistress, acted by Angela Down, only to be tracked down by a relentless police inspector, played by Iain Cuthbertson, and returned to England for trial in a glare of publicity. The rest of the series seeks to ask the viewer whether the criminal is "as bad as he is made out."

Vincent Price is host-narrator of "Mystery!" which is presented on KET by WGBH, Boston.

COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY TRANSPORTATION CABINET DEPARTMENT OF HIGHWAYS NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed bids will be received by the Department of Highways in the Auditorium located on the 1st Floor of the State Office Building, Frankfort, Kentucky, until 10:00 A.M., Eastern Standard Time on the 15 day of April, 1983, at which time bids will be publicly opened and read for the improvement of:

SSP GR 83 0000022, FLOYD COUNTY, bituminous surface on various roads. SEE PROPOSAL FOR ADDITIONAL INFORMATION.

SSP GR 83 0000025, MAGOFFIN-FLOYD COUNTIES, bituminous surface on various roads. SEE PROPOSAL FOR ADDITIONAL INFORMATION.

Bid proposals for all projects will be available until 9:00 A.M., EASTERN STANDARD TIME, FRIDAY, APRIL 15, 1983, at the Division of Contract Procurement. Bid proposals for all projects will be available at a cost of $8 each and remittance payable to the State Treasurer of Kentucky must accompany request for proposals (NON-REFUNDABLE). BID PROPOSALS ARE ISSUED ONLY TO PRE-QUALIFIED CONTRACTORS.

Specimen proposals for all projects will be available to all interested parties at a cost of $8 each (NON-REFUNDABLE). Specimen proposals cannot be used for bidding.

and hybrids in combination—but only 5 fish in the daily creel can be over 15 inches.

Finally, two lakes have increased size limits for black bass. At Grayson Lake, a 15-inch minimum size limit should lead to larger bass and more predation on the overpopulated crappie there. And at Kentucky's newest lake, Taylorsville, a 15-inch bass limit will, biologists hope, help prevent the "boom and bust" cycle that often occurs at newly impounded lakes.

For determining legal length, measure fish from the end of the lower jaw to the longest tail fin. Undersize fish must be released immediately and in the best possible condition.

KET Airs Karate Series

Karate as an art form and a self-defense technique is the subject of KET's series, "Karate," airing Saturday, April 9 at 6 p.m. The series features martial arts skills of hosts Sin The and his brother, Hiang The.

By watching the series on a regular basis, an individual can receive instruction toward the yellow belt which is one step in a six-step process leading to the attainment of a black belt. Sin The emphasizes that one does not graduate from karate with acquisition of a black belt. According to The, "It merely signifies the beginning of a journey into the art with self discipline and control as one's guide."

KET is offering a karate manual, based on the thirteen part "Karate" series.

Needless Supplements Waste Money, Can Harm Health

A vitamin tablet a day makes good health come your way, and if one is good, then two, three, four or more are better. Right?

Not quite. "In general, if you are healthy and eat a balanced, nutritious diet, you don't need to take vitamin supplements," said Dr. Darlene Forester, Extension specialist in foods and nutrition and registered dietitian in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

"Extra vitamins are expensive at best, and at worst can be harmful to health," she said.

Many Americans are confused about what vitamins are and what amounts are needed. A 1977 study of consumers by General Mills reported that 64 percent of U.S. households use vitamin supplements. But about half of those surveyed said they believe vitamins should not be taken without a doctor's advice. About a third said the need for vitamins is overemphasized, while a fourth said vitamins aren't emphasized enough.

For the record, vitamins are one of the major classes of nutrients. They do not provide food energy as do carbohydrates, fats and proteins. Rather, they are chemical substances that aid in the metabolism of those nutrients for growth, maintenance of health, and reproduction.

Forester said most Americans do not need more vitamins than the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowances (USRDA), a standard developed by the Food and Drug Administration for measuring intake. Most nutrition information found on food labels gives the contents as a percentage of the USRDA individuals four years and older.

"The USRDA actually are higher than the amounts needed to prevent deficiency diseases, and are considered adequate to meet the known nutritional needs of most healthy people," said Forester.

Of course, individuals with special needs or inadequate diets may need supplements, Forester said. These include:

—People trying to lose weight, especially if they diet often or follow crash diets. "With good choices, a weight control diet as low as 1,200 calories a day could be nutritious and sufficient in vitamin content," said Forester. "But a diet plan that provides under 1,200 calories a day is likely to be too low in protein, vitamins and minerals. And a multivitamin supplement can't make up for all the missing nutrients."

—Pregnant women and nursing mothers have higher requirements for certain nutrients and vitamins, particularly A and C. But it's often enough to increase servings of foods providing the needed nutrients, Forester said. Pregnant and nursing women should't automatically take multivitamin supplements, without evaluating their intake and following the advice of their doctor or dietitian.

—Infants may need supplements. Generally, breast-fed babies are well-nourished if their mothers eat properly, and may need supplements of vitamin D only. Infants fed commercial formulas usually do not need supplements since the formulas provide the necessary nutrients.

—Persons with chronic diseases or

In 1937, General Motors Corp. agreed to recognize the United Automobile Workers (CIO) as the bargaining agent for its members, to drop injunction proceedings against strikers, to not discriminate against union members, and to establish grievance procedures, according to a publication of the U.S. Department of Labor.

special conditions. Diseases of the digestive tract may cause poor absorption of vitamins into the blood, infections may increase vitamin requirements, and persons undergoing surgery or with conditions such as severe burns may need to replace vitamins lost through body fluids.

—Some elderly persons may eat less since growing older slows body processes and fewer calories are needed. Chewing problems and decreased appetite also can reduce food intake and make vitamin supplements necessary.

—Vegetarians who select their diet carefully from a variety of foods may have no need for vitamin supplements, especially if they eat milk and eggs. But, said Forester, the complete vegetarian who eats no animal products may need to include supplements of vitamin B12 or fortified soy milk, another source.

Others, maybe people who always eat on the run or skimp on vegetables and fruits, may not get adequate vitamins in their diets. But don't immediately take vitamins if you miss a meal or feel rundown, advised Forester.

Evaluate your vitamin intake by keeping track of everything you eat and drink for a few days. Then figure the number of servings you had from each food group and compare to recommended daily servings: vegetables and fruits, 4; milk and cheese, 2-4; meats, poultry, fish and beans, 2; and fats, sweets and alcohol, which provide few vitamins and for which there are no recommended number of servings.

A free publication, "Vitamins in Your Diet," available at your county Cooperative Extension Service office, can help you evaluate your vitamin intake. Or consult a dietitian in a local health department, college or university home economics department, private practice, or through Dial-A-Dietitian, a free service sponsored by the Kentucky Dietetic Association (call 606-233-5326, ask your question and leave your name and telephone number for a dietitian to call you back).

Those who need vitamins also need to be careful about what they buy—for the sake of health and pocketbook. Read the ingredient label religiously. Choose a product that contains only the one or two vitamins your diet lacks, said Forester, or a multivitamin if you need several.

Don't buy a vitamin supplement with more than 100 percent of the USRDA. "Remember that you are taking the supplement in addition to foods," Forester said.

Be aware of vitamins added to food by the manufacturer. Many ready-to-eat cereals are fortified, and so are some items sold in health food stores. Read labels and avoid products with more than 100 percent of the USRDA. If you use a multivitamin cereal, don't also take a supplement, Forester added. "But you probably don't need the multivitamin cereal either and you're paying more for it."

Excess vitamins can be harmful, especially fat-soluble vitamins A and D, which are stored in the body. Large doses of vitamins A and D definitely can be toxic. Megadoses of vitamin C also can be dangerous. When a woman takes excess vitamin C while she's pregnant, her infant may develop a condition resembling scurvy, the disease resulting from vitamin C deficiency. Likewise, adults with a high intake of vitamin C may develop "rebound scurvy" when they discontinue the large dose.

Pass up the vitamin formulas labeled for stress, colds, sore throats, athletic performance or other special situations. Forester advises. "Vitamins advertised as a special stress formula may be only vitamins B and C, but in large doses and at higher prices."

Base your vitamin purchase on the contents listed on the label, and not on brand, price, or where the vitamins are sold. "If the ingredients are the same," Forester said, "then two brands of vitamins are the same no matter if you buy them at a health food store, discount pharmacy or from a vitamin company salesperson."

A month's supply of multivitamins can vary from more than $6 for products sold person-to-person through company representatives, to less than $1 for house brands sold at pharmacies, groceries or discount stores.

And if you've heard that "natural" vitamins are better (besides more expensive) than synthetic vitamins, you should know that regardless of source, vitamins that are chemically equivalent have the same effects on the body.

But make sure you need a vitamin supplement before you buy. "People wouldn't have a whole drawerful of medications that they would take indiscriminately," said Forester, "and they shouldn't take vitamins that way either."

"When have you been down home?" asked someone in a familiar brogue in a crowded area upstate. Immediately about twenty heads turned to see who had asked. Smiles spread on many faces as they shifted to see if they recognized anyone. Many answers were spoken.

This scene is often repeated in all walks of life up North. Down home refers to the South where people were born and raised; yet, to be more specific, the hills of Kentucky or surrounding states.

Most of us have migrated north to earn our bread and board at some point in life. We've made our pilgrimages to and from the various cities that beckoned us to learn a new trade, a new lifestyle. We made our pilgrimages, only to return on week-ends, holidays and even leave-of-absence from our new jobs ("Grandma is sick again and there's no one to do for her"—"They just called for me to come back."—Supervisors seem to have heard every excuse in the book!) One loyal Kentuckian said he could never figure out how anyone could go to Columbus to work awhile, buy himself an old 57 Chevy and a white shirt, then load the kids and his wife in the car, head for Kentucky where he'd stay all weekend. There he would eat the good country foods, breathe the good mountain air, visit with all the cousins and spin yarns how he "taught that Yankee a thing or two." After that, he'd load up home grown potatoes, green beans, roasting ears, and tomatoes, with boxes of Mason jars filled with more of the same. Driving back north, they'd shake their heads from side to side, and wonder just how in the world people "made it" back in those Kentucky hills!

En route to locate an old church of my childhood in Johnson county, I recently stopped to visit an old friend, Mrs. Grace Thomas. As we enjoyed coffee and good homemade cake in her lovely kitchen, we reminisced of the old days and about her late husband, Mr. Harry Thomas.

He, Henry Holbrook and Clarence Meek and others came down home to coon hunt in our beloved hills. Henry left his hounds at Uncle Billie Sparks, place, up at the head of Cam Creek, so when they arrived for the hunt the dogs were rested and ready to run. Ronald and Chester, being the younger generation, had already been busy tying a rope around some old coonskins and dragging them over the ground on the hills to entice the dogs to chase the coons. Boys learned to be hunting men and good sports while growing puppies learned to be good coon dogs. This was the system in the hills. There was no need to get a HOW TO book from the library; these youngins' just learned by doing. These were joyous times.

Grace and I shared pictures of our families. Our Cherokee ancestry showed in the faces of my mother, so lovely with the long, black braids haloing her olive complexion and high cheek bones; my oldest daughter, Luona, a beautiful replica of mother; Katrina, my granddaughter, with her Scotch ancestry showing beautifully; and my youngest daughter, dimpled Jill, a petite descendant of Welsh ancestry. For many years these four have been my world.

Mrs. Thomas' granddaughter has played a part on the TV series, "Fame," for over a year. We discussed the recent Hank Williams story that Richard Thomas, her grandson, played so realistically. Many refer to him as "John Boy" because he played on the Walton's Mountain show for so long. She confided that one gentleman had said he had mixed feelings about Richard's performance in the Hank Williams life, but we agreed that he was only an actor playing a role, and we concluded it was tastefully done. My, how the children of Richard and his beautiful Mexican wife, Alma, have grown! Richard E. is seven now and such a handsome lad. Now the triplet daughters can be described as a beautiful bouquet of spring flowers. Mima, as the grandchildren call her, told me of their wearing pierced earrings designed by a well-known New York designer, a friend of the family. Each little toddler wears her own special earrings for identification, one a sapphire, one an emerald, and one a ruby. Barbara, Gwyneth, and Pilar. I could never learn which one was which and even the family has the same problems. I enjoyed hearing from old friend, Richard Earl Thomas. I once read a book Father Mohr or Sister Rosalyn brought Jill from France, that stated Richard Earl Thomas was second only to Neyura in the field of ballet and dance.

Once again, Grace Thomas, I openly thank you for the yellow cake with chocolate icing and the good coffee. I also wish to openly thank God for the privilege of visiting with old friends DOWN HOME. See you now!

Gasoline Cost Drops

The average price per gallon for gasoline in Kentucky dropped one cent at full-service stations and two cents at self-service pumps over the last month, according to AAA's March fuel gauge report.

The average price at full-service stations now is $1.23 for regular; $1.28 for no-lead; and $1.35 for premium no-lead. The average cost for diesel fuel is $1.19.

Self-service prices range from nine to 14 cents lower and are $1.09 for regular; $1.17 for no-lead; and $1.26 for premium no-lead. Twelve percent of the stations contacted by AAA also provide a four-cent-per-gallon discount when customers pay with cash instead of credit cards.

Cancer Increase Marked in Women

The move toward equality between the sexes has included many of the risks. According to Dr. William G. Cahan, lung-cancer surgeon at Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Clinic in New York City, women are getting—and dying from—tobacco-related cancers in sharply rising rates.

Writing in the April issue of Reader's Digest, Cahan points to chilling figures: women's lung-cancer death rate is up 313 percent since 1950; a tumor registry reports an 84 percent increase in oral cancer and a 56 percent increase in the incidence rate of bladder cancer in the same period; women's pancreatic-cancer death rate is approaching that of men's.

"The climb in these grim statistics fulfills the prophecies made a generation ago after women began smoking in earnest," Cahan writes. Since it takes between 20 to 30 years for tobacco-related cancers to appear, it is likely the increase will continue. He points out that there are currently some 25 million women who smoke.

Not only are women smokers prone to the same afflictions men suffer, they have problems uniquely their own. One is the relation between smoking and pregnancy—their chances of miscarriage and infant death are greater; their babies are more prone to a low birth weight and more health problems in their first year.

There are other risks. Smoking in combination with the Pill "markedly augments a woman's chances of developing certain forms of coronary heart disease and stroke," the cancer specialist continues. There is also an increased risk of heart attack in premenopausal women who smoke.

New IRS Publications

The IRS has four new publications designed to answer taxpayers' questions, acquaint them with the law and help them prepare their 1982 returns.

The publication, which can be obtained by writing the IRS Forms Distribution Center, P.O. Box 636, Florence, Kentucky, 41042, are:

Publication 553, Highlights of 1982 Tax Changes. Information is presented on important changes to the tax rules made by new law, rulings, and administrative decisions. The publication should help taxpayers prepare their 1982 returns and aid their tax planning for 1983.

Publication 908, Bankruptcy. The federal income tax rules relating to bankruptcies and other discharges of debt were substantially affected by the Bankruptcy Tax Act of 1980.

Publication 910, Taxpayer's Guide to IRS Information and Assistance. The IRS offers the public many services to assist them in preparing their tax returns. This publication describes these services. In addition, a general description of many of the free information publications available to the public, as well as a subject matter index to these publications, is included.

Publication 911, Tax Information for Direct Sellers. This new publication discusses general tax information as it applies to taxpayers who sell consumer products to others on a person-to-person basis. The intended audience includes persons who sell door-to-door, through sales party plans, to co-workers, friends, or neighbors, or in someone else's home by appointment.

All four publications are available free of charge.

Buying Automobile Insurance

Buying insurance can be complicated. It doesn't have to be if you know your insurance needs and seek the assistance of a dependable insurance agent.

Thelma White of the Blue Grass-AAA Insurance Service suggests that you consider the following points when determining your insurance requirements:

- Make and year of the car you are insuring.
- Number of miles you will be driving daily.
- Purpose for which you will normally be using your car.
- Age and sex of each driving member of your household.
- Age and sex of each driving member of your household.

When buying a new car, it is wise to consider the make. When buying a used car, the year and make are significant. Some sports cars are more expensive to insure than other makes. Because of their weight and speed, they are statistically known to be higher accident risks, and they often cost more to replace than ordinary passenger vehicles. Also, some companies will not write collision or comprehensive policies on a car that is more than 10 years old.

If you drive to work and the distance is in excess of three miles one way, this could increase the cost of your premium. However, if you are a member of a car pool, this may lower your insurance costs even if you travel some distance to and from work.

If you use your car for work, school, shopping and other personnel activities, your liability coverage should protect individuals riding in your car provided they are not paying you for the transportation. If you are being paid, your car must be insured as a commercial vehicle.

Younger members of your household

(particularly males under the age of 25) may cost more to insure. However, there are ways to save. Some insurance companies offer lower premiums for students with a grade average of B or higher. Additionally, students who complete a driver's education course through their high school may be eligible for a lower insurance rate.

Certain violations of the law may increase the cost of your insurance coverage. If you are arrested and convicted for driving under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs, some companies may increase your premium or cancel your policy. Moving violations and felonies can also boost the cost of your insurance coverage.

For more information on purchasing insurance, contact Thelma White, Blue Grass-AAA Insurance Service, 233-1111, or 1-800-432-0996.

'Filled Milk' Not Pure Milk, Claim

Milk being offered for sale in Kentucky under the Meadow Fresh label is being sold against state regulations, and Cabinet for Human Resources officials are requesting the public's help in taking action against the seller.

Health officials report that Meadow Fresh, Inc., of Salt Lake City, Utah, has approached a number of individuals, institutions and agencies, offering to sell them "filled milk" on a contract basis. Filled milk products are those from which the milk fat has been removed and replaced with vegetable fat or oil. The resulting milk, cream, skimmed milk, ice cream mix or frozen desserts, says Leon Townsend of the cabinet's Department for Health Services, are imitations and do not meet the state's standards of identity for milk and milk products.

"According to the Louisville Dietetic Association, Meadow Fresh products contain less than half the protein and calcium than whole milk does," said Townsend. "In addition, they contain coconut oil, which is highly saturated in fat, higher in cholesterol and less desirable in the diet than some other foods."

Townsend, manager of the state's Milk Control Branch, said his office has tried to prohibit sales by the company for several months. In August 1982 the company obtained a restraining order that prevented state action against them. While the order was in effect, Meadow Fresh representatives continued to solicit sales to individuals, nursing homes, day care centers and schools. The products have not been offered for sale in retail stores.

Early this month the Franklin County Circuit Court ruled that enforcement of KRS 217 filled milk provisions could be resumed against Meadow Fresh. The company was granted 10 days to notify their clients that Meadow Fresh products would no longer be available in Kentucky.

Townsend requests that anyone approached by Meadow Fresh representatives for sales purposes contact his office by phone (502-564-3340).

Coin Phone Rules
 To Change April 1

Kentuckians who make long distance calls from coin telephones and charge them to third numbers may want to make sure they have a Bell System Calling Card by April 1.

That's when South Central Bell begins requiring approval for such calls. The operator will dial the third number before completing the call. If the third party refuses the charges, or if the number cannot be reached—for any reason—the call will not be completed. The new rules also apply when callers bill their own numbers.

"This change will protect people from being billed for calls they don't want charged to their number," said Art Willett, local manager for Bell.

Operators now complete third-number calls without approval, but are telling customers that approval will be required after April 1.

"Folks who need to make long distance calls from coin phones still have several ways to pay for them," Willett said. "You can call collect, carry enough change to pay for the calls, or—most convenient of all—charge calls to a Bell System Calling Card, a telephone credit card. "With a Calling Card, people charge long-distance calls to their home or office number," he said. "It's the cheapest way to call long distance when you can't dial direct, and the card is free, with no monthly service charge."

Willett said Calling Cards may be obtained by calling a South Central service representative. The number is in the front of the phone book, on the page titled "How to Reach Us at South Central Bell."

★ CONSUMER ALERT ★

"Almost everyone is interested in quick, easy way to make extra money. The popularity of endless chain recruiting schemes re-surfaces every few years. Some are legitimate multi-level selling companies, others are illegal pyramid schemes," warns Attorney General Steven L. Beshear.

In a pyramid scheme, new participants pay for the chance to receive profits primarily from the recruitment of other participants. Every pyramid scheme has two basic elements:

1. AN INITIAL FEE—Each person who joins a pyramid scheme must pay to get in. These initial fees are the primary (and usually the only) source of income for the pyramid scheme.

2. REWARDS BASED PRIMARILY ON RECRUITING—Each new participant must recruit others into the scheme in order to recoup his/her initial payment and make a profit. The rewards paid out come from the initial fees paid by new recruits.

Some pyramid schemes make no effort to hide the fact that there is nothing going on except recruiting. There is no manufacturing or selling of products. New participants receive nothing tangible for their initial fees. They gain the right to receive profits only if enough other people are recruited subsequently. It is the responsibility of each participant to recruit new members.

Because of law enforcement crackdowns on pyramid schemes, some promoters have attempted to make it appear that their companies are engaged in the manufacturing and selling of consumer products. They maintain that recruiting is used only to increase the sales force with increased retail sales as the ultimate goal. In actuality, disguised pyramid schemes make little or no effort to sell products except to those who are joining as participants. Generally, the "products" have very little established market value (for example, motivational tapes) or new participants are required to buy large stocks or inventory at greatly inflated prices. The company makes money primarily from loading new participants with inventory and not from sales to non-participants.

Since pyramid schemes derive income primarily from the initial fees paid by new recruits, a scheme collapses when the supply of new participants has been exhausted. When this happens, those at the bottom on the pyramid (those who have just joined) lose all of their money; the middle members may break even, and a few people at the top (the promoters and possibly a few others) make a lot of money. It does not take many levels to exhaust the people supply and the number of losers outnumber the winners by 16 to 1 or even 32 to 1.

Pyramid schemes rely on misrepresentations. Each person who joins has less chance of winning than his/her recruiter. This is because another level of participants would have to be recruited. If this fact were disclosed, very few people would join a pyramid scheme. Participants are, consciously or unconsciously, deceiving those they recruit. "Laws against pyramid schemes are designed to protect consumers from such deception," says Beshear.

Pyramid schemes which masquerade as multi-level selling companies are sometimes difficult to recognize. There are, however, significant differences. Attorney General Beshear advises that pyramids promise high potential earnings, usually with very little effort needed. Pyramid promoters use high pressure recruiting tactics in an emotional atmosphere where large amounts of money are visible.

Before committing yourself to any type of financial scheme, ask the following questions:

Am I risking financial loss by associating with this company? If so, investigate carefully.

Does my financial success depend upon the sale of products to ultimate consumers? If not, beware.

Does the company have a financial interest in my success as a seller? If not and if the company makes its money off you when you first join, stay away.

To All Water Consumers of Beaver-Elkhorn Water District:

We have found some customers permitting their "neighbor" to connect onto their line, thereby avoiding the hook-up charge and the metered water charge. This is clearly a violation, both on the part of the regular metered customer and the "neighbor" who is permitted to make this connection.

Customers permitting this, when discovered, will be "Back Charged" for minimum billing as though he had two meters, or in the event he declines to pay the back charges, he will be subject to be disconnected for violation of rules and regulations of the Beaver-Elkhorn Water District and the Energy Utility Commission of Kentucky.

Announce Engagement

The engagement was announced this week of Miss Sabrina Lynn Conley, daughter of Lavonne Lafferty, of Printer, and Carlos Conley, of Lima, Ohio, and granddaughter of Della Baldrige and the late Edgille Baldrige, of Hueysville and Mr. Christopher Dwayne Holbrook, son of Oretta Hodge, of Garrett, and grandson of Edgar and Julia Holbrook, also of Garrett.

They will be wed in an open church ceremony at Salisbury Methodist Church at Printer, April 9 at 6 p.m.

Miss Conley is a graduate of Allen Central High School and also attended Pikeville College. She is employed at the Allen branch of the Bank Josephine. Mr. Holbrook is a graduate of Allen Central High School and Mayo Vocational School and is employed at the Hager Machine Shop at Auxier. The couple will live at Allen.

Toughen Transplants Before Setting Out

One way to increase your success at establishing plants in the garden is to harden or toughen transplants before setting them in the ground, according to Dr. Jean English, University of Kentucky Extension horticulturist at Quicksand.

When plants are grown in a greenhouse or in a bright location in the home, they usually receive plenty of light, water and nutrients. "These ideal conditions cause the plants to grow rapidly," said English, "and their tissues become quite succulent." Lush growth is desirable indoors, but if tender plants suddenly are moved outdoors for prolonged periods, they are liable to suffer from drought, wind or cold stress. Also, if they have received only filtered light indoors, they may suffer from sudden over-exposure to strong outdoor light.

The process of gradually accustoming plants to outdoor conditions, or "hardening" transplants, helps the adjustment. After plants have been growing indoors for about five weeks, start reducing the amount of water and fertilizer that they receive. Water when the soil dries but before plants wilt.

About a week later move the plants to a cold frame for a week or two before setting them in the garden. The cold frame will be cooler than the house or greenhouse, yet plants can be protected from very cold weather if you cover the frames with sashes on cold nights or days, English said. Also, removing sashes on warm days will expose plants to gentle breezes which will help toughen their tissues.

If you do not have a cold frame, move the plants out to a doorstep or patio gradually. Give them an hour or so outdoors on the first day. Increase the time outdoors by an hour each day; by the end of a week they should stay outdoors all day.

Use your judgment in adjusting this schedule, advised English. "Keep the plants indoors on very cold or wet days, and leave them out overnight on fairly warm nights," she said. "By the time the plants are six to seven weeks old, they will be toughened enough to survive the environmental stresses awaiting them in the garden."

Fund To Help Pay Power Bills Grows

Nearly $20,000 has been made available to date to help needy customers with their electric bills through Kentucky Power Company's Neighbor Helping Neighbor Program.

"As of March 17, a total of 758 customers of the company have contributed $4,872.70 to the program," according to Robert E. Matthews, Kentucky Power president. "The company has matched those contributions, in addition to the $10,000 which the company contributed to begin the program."

"That brings to $19,745.40 the total amount now available to assist the elderly, handicapped, low income, and unemployed customers of Kentucky Power with their electric bill payments," he added.

He said that customers needing assistance should apply to their nearest Social Insurance office of the Kentucky Cabinet for Human Resources, which is handling applications for the Neighbor Helping Neighbor Program.

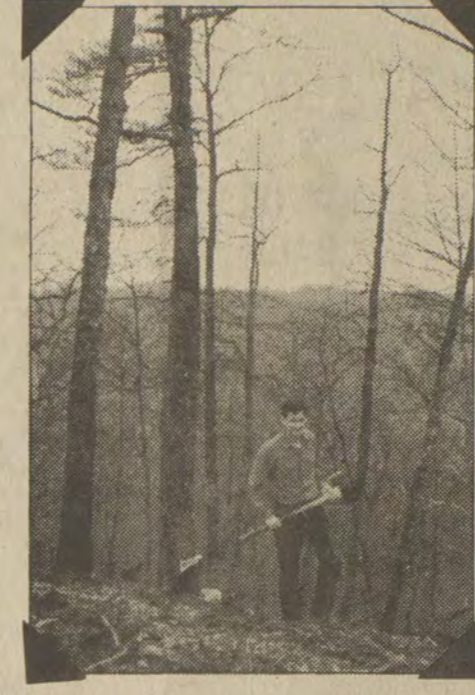

Matthews said: "We are extremely pleased, but not surprised, at the response of our customers in helping their fellow citizens. It is in the best tradition of the history of eastern Kentucky, where people have always had a deep concern for their neighbors."

The Neighbor Helping Neighbor Program was begun February 22 with the mailing of electric service bills carrying an appeal to customers for donations. In returning their payments, customers can designate an amount of contribution to the program and add that amount to their bill payment.

"It will take about 30 days for all customers of the company to receive the initial notice of the program, so we believe that contributions to the program will continue to be made. We plan to continue the appeal on bills until about mid-April," Matthews concluded.

EASTERN KENTUCKY. HARVEY SLOANE'S FIRST KENTUCKY HOME. 1964-65.

I thought you'd like to see some of my pictures from my old photo album. The snapshots could be better, but to me the memories are what count.

Eastern Kentucky Fall 1964

That's me back in 1964. (When I first started swinging that ax I darn near chopped off my foot.) Eastern Kentucky, you know, was my first Kentucky home. Those were sure good years for me—and they were the big reason I decided to make Kentucky my lifelong home.

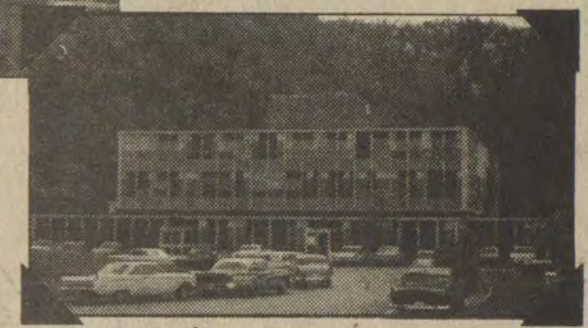

Inez, KY '64

This is where I worked in Eastern Kentucky. It's where Adeline's Clothing Store is today—right across from the courthouse in Inez. I had just become a new doctor and was in a U.S. Public Health Service program. I couldn't believe there was only one family doctor in all of Martin County!

The program I was working on was to help identify unknown diseases. Naturally, I worked with a lot of coal miners. I learned that coal means everything to Eastern Kentucky. And I'll never forget that.

Whitesburg, KY, Fall '64

I worked in 16 counties in Eastern Kentucky, and we sent many sick people right here to the Whitesburg Appalachian Regional Hospital. It was new then. What a lifesaver it's been all these years.

This church, like my memories of the church I went to, reminds me of the strong family values of your part of Kentucky. All America would be better off if they could live a little of their life with you—like I did.

Route 3, Inez, KY, Winter '65

This picture reminds me how important good roads are to Eastern Kentucky. With good roads, sick people can get to the doctor faster, coal can be moved cheaper and our children can get to school safer. The roads are better now, but not good enough yet.

I used to look at old Eastern Kentucky tombstones to find out when people were born and when they died. Today, I realize I care more than ever about the quality of those years in-between. That's why I want to be your Governor.

18 years later!

We've all come a long way since then. Here's my family now. On the left is Patrick (6), then Kathy, I'm holding Curtis (5) and Abigail (11). Eastern Kentucky has come a long way, too, from those days of one doctor per county. But there's so much more that needs doing. I'm running for Governor because I want the chance to help again.

"HEALTH CARE FOR OUR PEOPLE: A NECESSARY INGREDIENT FOR DEVELOPMENT"

STATE SENATOR BENNY RAY BAILEY

"One of the major elements of any economic development strategy must be the availability of regular and immediate access to quality medical care. East Kentucky can offer quality medical care equal to any area."
— Grady Stumbo, March, 1983

One of the first considerations of companies looking for new locations is the kind of health care system that would be available for its employees. Our area has been fortunate in developing top rate health care facilities and attracting quality health professionals and can offer an outstanding health care system to prospective industrial clients. The social infrastructure of a community goes a long way in attracting new industry to our area and all of us can be justifiably proud of our accomplishments in this area.

Senator Benny Ray Bailey has always been an advocate for our area and his actions in the state senate demonstrate his understandings of the problems. Senator Bailey worked for a new medical residency program at Highlands Regional Hospital, amended the budget to provide for scholarships for our young people to prepare them to enter health professions schools, sponsored legislation that required all insurance companies to accept identical health claim forms, and sponsored legislation that required government health payors to pay health providers in rural areas the same amounts as health providers in urban areas.

Development of our economy to provide more jobs for our people is a complicated problem that requires understanding of complex issues. Senator Bailey has demonstrated his understanding of these issues and has worked for us to improve our quality of life to make our area more attractive to industry. That's why we need to keep him on the job.

Coal Firm To Sponsor Blood Drive, April 4

By PAT PHILLIPS
Coal mining operations have been a frequent news item recently and most of it has been negative, but there is one mine in this area that will be setting upon a positive venture—a blood donor program. Monday, April 4, the Sierra Coal Company & Affiliates will sponsor a blood drive for employees and area residents through the Central Kentucky Blood Center.

The company will be making arrangements for the blood drive to be held at the Miller Brothers Warehouse from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Evanston for employees and area residents. Employees in the Floyd county area will be donating at the Donor Center in Prestonsburg in the Municipal Building on April 5, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Blood drives are the major source of blood supply to patients throughout the region serviced by the Central Kentucky Blood Center. The amount of blood available on any given day could be directly linked to the number of blood donors who participate in these community-wide drives. Employees and residents are urged to contribute their "fair share" of these needs and support this vital program. For more information, call Kathy Magruder at 276-5391.

Award-Winning Film Limns Venice Ghetto

For more than 280 years the Jews of Venice lived behind high walls on a small island called "Campo di Ghetto Nuovo." Opera star Regina Resnik traces this period of Jewish life in the special, "Geto: The Historical Ghetto of Venice." The documentary, Grand Prize winner of the 1982 International Documentary Film Festival, airs Wednesday, April 13, at 10 p.m.

In 1515 the Doge of Venice proclaimed all Jews were forbidden to live in the City of Venice. They were to transfer to the site of an ancient cannonball factory—the "gheto," since replaced with "ghetto." Jews were allowed to live and practice their religion until Napoleon ordered the Ghetto burned down.

★ CANCER HOPELINE ★

Q. My daughter's cat just died of feline leukemia. The veterinarian said we should not get another cat right away because some of the viruses may remain in the house and outside where he roamed. How can that be? Is there any danger for my family or others?

A. Feline leukemia is indeed a disease caused by a virus. Residual viruses can remain in the house and even outside for quite some time. Veterinarians recommend that owners of a cat who has had feline leukemia disinfect dishes, litter boxes, etc. thoroughly and not seek a new pet until at least six weeks have elapsed.

The National Cancer Institute has conducted exhaustive tests on laboratory samples of the blood of pet owners, veterinarians, research workers who have handled feline leukemia viruses, cancer patients, and healthy people with no connection to the disease or to cats at all. There is no evidence to indicate that feline leukemia viruses are agents of cancer in people.

The causes of human leukemia are not known. Excessive exposure to radiation and possibly certain chemicals such as benzene have been identified as possibly having some connection to leukemia.

For an informative free brochure, "Feline Leukemia Virus: Information for the Cat Owner," contact your local veterinarian or the Cancer Helpline. Call the Helpline, toll-free, at 1-800-432-9321 from 9 to 5 weekdays, or write 915 South Limestone Street, Lexington, Ky. 40536.

Q. I live in a small town that is about to begin fluoridating the water supply. I understand that this is helpful in preventing tooth decay, but what about adding yet another chemical to our polluted but chemically "purified" water supply? Was fluorine bean tested as a possibly cancer-causing agent?

A. All available evidence indicates that fluoride salts added to drinking water has no connection to cancer. Millions of Americans drink naturally or artificially fluoridated water every day. Studies indicate that the incidence of cancer is no higher among these people than among those who drink fluoride-free water.

For answers to your cancer questions, call the Cancer Helpline toll free at 1-800-432-9321 from 9-5 weekdays, or write 915 South Limestone Street, Lexington, Kentucky 40536.

★ EXTENSION NOTES ★

INSECT ACTIVITY

Insects that have passed the winter indoors or in other locations around homes are beginning to make their presence known. Some of these pests may be cause for concern while others may simply be a nuisance, according to Extension entomologists in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Clover mites often are found at window and door sills when the mercury rises this time of year. These browned, pin head sized mites with long front legs feed on clover and grasses and may be especially abundant in heavy growths of succulent, well fertilized lawns, says Dr. Lee Townsend.

"Sheer numbers plus the resulting red-brown stain when crushed make them unwelcome visitors," he said.

The red stain produced when they are crushed results from body pigment—they are not blood feeders and will not harm people or pets, according to Townsend.

Mites that have wandered indoors can be controlled using an aerosol spray containing pyrethins. Townsend says using a vacuum cleaner to remove mites from indoor surfaces will reduce the chance of crushing them and leaving a stain.

TERMITES

Another insect in evidence this time of year on warm days is the termite, the major wood destroying insect in Kentucky. Entomologist Dr. Chris Christensen notes that the first indication of termite activity in a structure often comes with the discovery of "swarmers" or winged termites emerging from inside or underneath a house.

"Correct identification of suspected termites is essential," says Christensen. "Misidentification can be a costly mistake since termite treatments are expensive."

Basic termite identification tips are available in Extension publications available at the county Extension office.

The special cautions, "If termites are in fact present, ask at least three well-respected pest control companies to inspect your property and give a written control estimate. Do not be pressed into signing a contract until you are sure of what the company is going to do, what the charge will be, what the service will provide and when they will be able to do the work."

Christensen reminds homeowners that termites are small insects that do their damage slowly. "There is time to make a sound decision about termite control," he said.

ANTS

Winged ants that swarm in or near the home often are confused with swarming termites. Specimens can be compared to illustrations available in Extension publications. Basically, check these features:

—Antennae; they are elbowed in ants but not in termites.

—Wings; termites have two pairs of wings of equal length while the winged adult ant has two pairs of wings of unequal length.

—Eyes; they are absent in termites and present in ants.

—Waist; termites have thick waists while ants have thin waists.

"All ants are social and live in nests in the soil, in structural wood, in tree cavities and in other protected places," says another UK entomologist, Dr. R.A. Scheibner.

Worker ants, which are as light colored as yellow, but usually dark colored, range from the nest in search of food. When ant colonies are full-sized, swarmer ants will be produced. The swarming season varies with the species of ants and some will swarm in homes in mid-winter, according to Scheibner.

Around the home, most ants are no more than nuisances, but carpenter ants can cause serious damage to structural wood. The entomologist says ants are best controlled with insecticides applied directly to the nest or ant hills. Nests hidden in woodwork may be hard to find, but can sometimes be located by following columns of foraging ants back to where they come out of a wall or from under a door sill.

For ants nesting near the outside of the home, treating the outside wall up to the level of first-floor window sills and along the ground around the house helps eliminate the insects.

CARPENTER BEES

Carpenter bees also are a common pest in Kentucky. "These large bees look very much like bumble bees and most people think bumble bees are boring into the wood of their home or out-buildings," says Christensen. The bees bore into soft wood, such as California redwood, white pine or poplar, or harder wood softened by age, to create tunnels in which to raise their young.

Christensen reports that damage done by one or two carpenter bees usually is slight. However, subsequent generations enlarge existing cavities and over the years, damage can become quite serious.

Carpenter bees are large bees, about one inch long, with black and yellow markings. They have a bare, shiny black abdomen, whereas, bumble bees have a hairy abdomen with at least some yellow. Although male carpenter bees are quite aggressive, they are harmless since they lack stingers. However, females can sting if molested. Males have a bright yellow spot in the middle of the head.

Male and female carpenter bees overwinter as adults within nest tunnels in wood and emerge in the spring, usually in April or early May. Mating occurs within a few weeks and the newly fertilized female either prepares a new nest or expands the existing one. Development of the adult takes 30-40 days and emergence of the newly formed adults begins in late August.

Information on the control of carpenter bees, ants and termites is available from county Extension offices. Publications also will help with identification of these insects.

Auto Owner Loses Claim of Damages By Runaway Horse

A Teaberry man is not entitled to damages as the result of a collision between his automobile and a runaway horse, because the owner of the horse took normal precautions to keep the animal corralled, Floyd Circuit Judge Hollie Conley ruled Thursday.

James Hamilton, 21, told the court that he and three co-workers were driving north on U.S. 23 about 1:30 on a Sunday morning in November, 1981, after getting off work at a Pike county restaurant.

Near Cowpen, a horse struck the car, a 1976 Toyota, causing him to lose control and run off the road, Hamilton said. Both horse and vehicle were destroyed. Hamilton alleged negligence on the part of the owner of the horse and sought $2175 to cover the loss of his car.

Zachary Hayes, 22, said he had recently bought the horse, a Tennessee Walker gelding, and kept it on a property his family leased on Cowpen. He had recently strengthened the fence on the property and installed a new gate but one of four horses penned there apparently broke the gate down, he said.

Pikeville attorney Rick Bartley, representing Hayes, said the accident happened on a straight stretch of road and that Hamilton could have swerved to avoid the horse. The accident was "unfortunate" but his client was not at fault and should not be held liable, he said.

Arnold Turner, Jr., Hamilton's lawyer, noted that one of Hayes' horses escaped once before. Although the defendant had since fortified the enclosure, it was his responsibility to see that the improvements were sufficient to keep the horses in, he argued.

Dismissing the complaint, Judge Conley said he "could not say the defendant did not do as much as an ordinary person would do under the circumstances."

The Northern Kentucky Easter Seal Center at Covington provided rehabilitation services to 888 children and adults in 1982.

When the brain says "carrot" and the fat cells say "brownie," why do the fat cells always win? Because fat cells are tenacious, says the March Reader's Digest. They're among the most active cells in the body, sniffing the blood for traces of dessert, ever ready to send a squall of protest brainward if they sense deprivation. Sad to report, although they may shrink, fat cells never really die.

POL. ADV. PD. FOR BY THE COMMITTEE TO ELECT THOMAS D. LAFFERTY, JR., FLOYD COUNTY COURT CLERK; GARY A. MAY, TREASURER, 11-PD.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE
Pursuant to Application Number 836-0044

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350, notice is hereby given that: Dan Lee Hall, Route 2, Box 110, Galveston, Ky. 41629, has filed an application for a permit for a surface coal mining and reclamation operation of approximately 1.90 acres located 0.76 miles south of Galveston in Floyd county. The proposed operation is approximately 1.04 miles south of Pigeonroost Branch junction with Branham's Creek Road and located 200 feet southeast of Branham's Creek. Latitude 37° 24' 50". Longitude 82° 36' 48". The proposed operation is located on the Pikeville USGS 7½ minute quadrangle map. The surface of the area is owned by Dan Lee Hall. A brief description of the kind of mining activity proposed is: contour mining.

The application has been filed at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement for public inspection at the Prestonsburg Regional Office, 431 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653.

Written comments, objections, and/or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601 within 30 days of the final weekly advertisement. The written comment, objection, or request for a conference must reference the above permit application number.

Notice is hereby provided pursuant to KRS 350 that the proposed post mining land use of house site constitutes a change from the forest premining land use.

This is the final advertisement of this application; all comments, objections, and/or request for a permit conference must be received within 30 days of this date.

Tax May Be Withheld On Pension Payments

Because pension income may be either fully or partially taxable income, Federal income taxes may be withheld from pension payments after January 1, 1983, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

This withholding is not compulsory, the IRS points out, and any person can apply for exemption. The payer of the pension will tell the retiree how to apply for the exemption.

However, many retirees may find the withholding a convenience that may spare them penalties when they file their federal income tax returns, the IRS notes. Without tax withholding, a taxpayer who owes $300 or more for 1983 may be liable for interest and penalties.

Withholding on periodic payments of pensions and annuities applies just as it does to wages and salaries; the amount withheld is determined by income, dependents and marital status. Certain types of non-periodic payments will be withheld at a ten percent rate.

Those who are eligible, and need the assistance of this program, should call the IRS to find out the nearest assistance center to them. You may call the IRS at 584-1361 in Louisville, 255-2333 in Lexington, 628-2333 in Lexington, 628-0055 in Covington or Toll free 1-800-424-1040 elsewhere in Kentucky.

SOIL INSECTS

If cutworms, wireworms, root mag-gots and white grubs are a problem in your garden or if you are planting a garden for the first time in an area where sod was growing, use spectracide (diazinon) as a soil treatment before planting. Be sure to check the label for directions and make sure that the chemical you use is registered for use on crops that you want to plant.

KIWANIANNES MEET

The Prestonsburg Kiwanianes met last Thursday at 12:30, at May Lodge for their monthly luncheon-meeting. In the absence of Mrs. Garnett Fairchild, president, Mrs. Vera Ford presided. The table was decorated with a bouquet of tulips, and hand-made baskets of Easter eggs. It was announced that the Heart Clinic, which the club helps to sponsor each year at the Floyd County Health Department, will be held April 26-27. Members who may wish to help with the clinic were asked to contact Mrs. Fairchild.

The group paid tribute to Mrs. Janet Cotterell, a member of the club who, with her husband, will leave soon to reside in another state, where he has accepted a position. Since Mrs. Cottrell could not be present at Thursday's meeting, a gift was later delivered to her home by the president, Mrs. Fairchild, Mrs. Vera Ford, and Mrs. Myrtle Davis.

Present at Thursday's meeting were Mesdames Stella Spurlock, Ortha Meece, Vera Ford, Lucy Regan, Myrtle Davis, Jane Wallace, and Carolyn Ford.

Many believe a daily dose of orange juice does wonders for a cold—now some doctors are prescribing papaya juice for back trouble. According to the April Reader's Digest, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration has approved chymopapain, an enzyme derived from papaya, for injection therapy to treat slipped discs.

Computerized Stamp System To Cost Less Than Expected

The contract to operate Kentucky's automated food stamp system has been awarded to Electronic Data Systems Corporation of Dallas, Texas. The firm will employ 163 Kentucky residents to staff the operation.

Under the contract the Cabinet for Human Resources will pay Electronic Data Systems $27.5 million to certify client eligibility for food stamps and issue the stamps for three years. The company will begin certifying eligibility on October 1 and issuing food stamps on December 1. Electronic Data Systems will hire 63 full-time and 100 part-time employees to implement and operate the system.

The contract will cost the state less than officials had figured. "We had estimated that a computerized food stamp system would cost $14 million a year to operate," said Human Resources Secretary Buddy Adams. "With this contract we'll be paying a little over $9 million a year."

Circuit Assembly Program Announced

Saturday afternoon's session will include talks from Leroy J. Langan, circuit supervisor, and Mr. Raptopoulos again addressing the gathering.

Other speakers include John P. Warner, from Narrows, Virginia, Stanley A. Callison and Heiko Giese from Pikeville, Kentucky, Michael Payne and Carl McClintock, from Princeton and Bluefield, Ralph T. Null, from Welch, West Virginia, and Gray Green and David Enochs, from Logan, West Virginia.

The highlight of the conference will be Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. when Mr. Raptopoulos will deliver the public address, "Is This World Doomed to Ruin?"

"A special invitation is extended to the public for this meeting", Jones concluded, "however, all sessions are open to the public and are free, no collections are ever taken".

Club's 1983 Fishing Contest Under Way

The Dewey Lake Fish & Game Club's annual fishing contest is now under way with an impressive list of prizes being offered for the lucky fishermen who register the biggest fish in eight species categories during 1983.

Club members will be eligible for prizes in the following species categories (minimum length included with fish species): largemouth bass (15 inches), tiger musky (30 inches), smallmouth bass (15 inches), white bass (12 inches), crappie (10 inches), bluegill (six inches), catfish (20 inches), and carp (30 inches).

Prizes include a Shimano Bantam 100 reel for largemouth bass, generic graphite rod for tiger musky, Mitchell 308 spinning reel for smallmouth, Stearn's fishing vest for white bass, Zebco 909 reel for crappie, Zebco 33 reel for bluegill, two-burner Coleman lantern for catfish, and a Coleman sleeping bag for carp. Fish size will be determined by length only.

Fish must be caught in Floyd county waters on hook and line and the contest runs through December 31 of this year. In case of a tie, the earliest entry will be judged the winner.

All entries must be made on a special form furnished by the club and certification must be received by one of the club officials, area Conservation Officer Dalton R. Conley, or one of the following businesses: Hall's Highland Market, Auxier Rd., Prestonsburg; Heck's of Prestonsburg; Brandy Keg Bait & Tackle Shop, Lake Rd., Prestonsburg, and B. & S. Market, Auxier Rd., Prestonsburg.

Club President Chalmer Howard commented that in some past contests, fishermen failed to participate because of the feeling that "somebody else probably has entered one bigger than mine."

"By thinking in these terms," Howard said, "a number of people have missed out on some fine prizes." Last year, a 19-inch largemouth won top prize and a 21-inch fish took the prize in the catfish category.

Controlling Weeds In The Home Garden

Weed control in the home garden can be a real problem for the home gardener. Weeds are not only an eyesore, but they compete with desirable garden plants for water, nutrients, sunlight and space needed for growth. Weeds may also harbor disease and insect pests that attack vegetable plants. The following are tips which can help avoid a weedy garden:

- Purchase high quality seeds free of weed seeds.
- Prevent weeds from going to seed.
- Keep border areas around the garden free of weeds.
- Clean equipment to prevent weed seeds or other plant parts from being transplanted into clean areas.
- Avoid using soil infested with weeds. Also, allow compost a year to degrade.
- Avoid buying transplants which are weedy.

THE BLACK STALLION RETURNS, from MGM/UA, Directed by Robert Dalva, screenplay by Richard Kletter and Jerome Kass. Starring Kelly Reno, Allen Goorwitz, Vincent Spano. Rated 'PG' ★ ★

By J.T. YURKO

When "The Black Stallion" premiered at the New York Film Festival a few years back, the film was quickly recognized as a success on many levels. The critics loved it, horse lovers loved it and kids (of all ages) loved it. Moreover, it showed that a children's film could be made with great care and intelligence and not be simple, saccharine or just plain sloppy.

The film was based on Walter Farley's novels about the Black Stallion. Since there are 16 of them, there was little doubt that a sequel was in the offing. So in this movie, the Black Stallion returns to the Sahara Desert, his original home.

The first film was lyrical, enchanting, exciting — everything a children's film should be. The first 45 minutes to an hour of the movie had virtually no dialogue, but the superb cinematography told a riveting tale of shipwreck and survival, and of the boy's love for the stallion.

"The Black Stallion Returns" wants to be what its predecessor was, but this particular horse opera falls flat.

MORE PILOTS — Paramount is being kept busy by the three major networks in the series development area. ABC has bought an unnamed pilot produced by Gary Marshall ("Happy Days") that focuses on two computer whizzes. There's also two sitcoms, "Good Girl" for ABC and "Another Ballgame." The latter will star Alex Karras and Susan Clark as foster parents to a child whose parents were killed.

Paramount is also pitching "CJ," the story of an orangutan, to ABC. CJ has been featured in Clint Eastwood's films. The most intriguing project for ABC from Paramount is "Feel the Heat," which deals with the relationship between an attractive district attorney and a gamely private eye. CBS has asked for "13 Thirteenth Avenue," a sit-com, while NBC has ordered "Little Shots," a "Little Rascals"-type comedy and "Cracker Brothers."

BLOCKBUSTERS — Sources say that next season will feature more epics for TV including "George Washington" for CBS and "Iwo Jima" for either ABC or NBC. "Iwo" would be at least 15 hours long and will be produced by Roger Corman, who wants Morgan Fairchild, Jane Seymour and Burt Lancaster to star.

Fresh from her less-than-inspiring work in "Winds of War," Ali MacGraw is starring opposite George C. Scott in CBS' "China Rose," the story of a man's search for his politically active son who disappeared in Red China during the Cultural Revolution.

NBC's sci-fi miniseries "V" featuring Faye Grant and Marc Singer will air the first week in May.

FINAL EDITION — Orion Pictures is trying to spin off series versions of its two forthcoming flicks, "Easy Money" with Rodney Dangerfield and "Lone Wolf McQuade" featuring Chuck Norris.

Winning against cancer
 by Kim Cooper

On April 4, the CBN Cable Network airs "Cancer: The Winners," a 60-minute special on how some Americans are coping with the disease.

The show is part of a nationwide effort by the National Cable Television Association (NCTA) and the American Cancer Society to show how three Americans have emerged winners after being stricken.

The show will exchange information that will benefit American families if someone they know eventually has to cope with cancer.

First Lady Nancy Reagan will appear on the show, discussing her recent bout with a cancer on her lip. American League umpire Bill Kunkel, talk-show host Rena Blumberg, and mountaineering guide Glen Exum focus on their battles with cancer and how they have led full lives since confronting their disease.

Cameras will go behind the plate with Kunkel as he calls balls and strikes just months after cancer surgery. Exum scales a mountain only a year after surgical treatment for cancer. Miss Blumberg talks about the book she authored after two years of chemotherapy and a mastectomy.

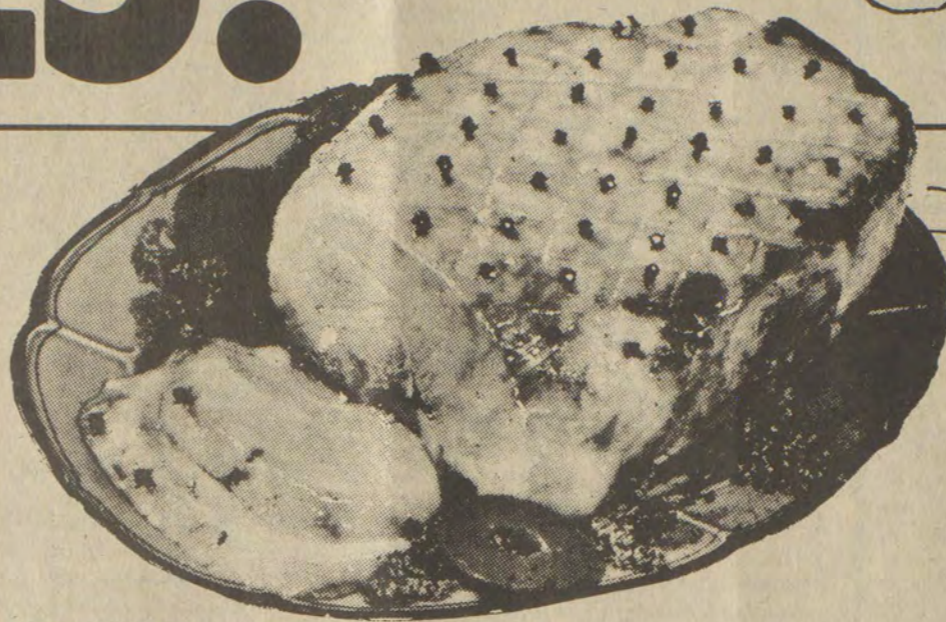

The idea for the cancer show came from Richard Loftus, a cable system operator in West Medway, Mass., who is also on the board of directors of the NCTA.

Loftus says that viewers learn that early detection and treatment save lives. The show is designed to uncover common untruths about cancer and explain how to combat the disease.

Kim Cooper is publicity director of the CBN Cable Network.

Mrs. Carrie Ryan Holcomb, 88, of Cape Coral, Fla., formerly of Prestonsburg and Pikeville, died last Thursday in a Cape Coral hospital.

A former school teacher, she was born April 16, 1894 in West Virginia, a daughter of the late Robert and Carolyn Miller Ryan. She was a member of Broadmoor Baptist Church in Baton Rouge, La. Her husband, Howard Holcomb, who died in 1972, was a drilling contractor in the gas fields of this area for many years.

Surviving are two sons, Robert Holcomb, of Cape Coral, Fla., and Eugene H. Holcomb, of Baton Rouge, La.; eight grandchildren and ten great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 p.m. Monday in the chapel of the Justice Funeral Home in Pikeville, by Bill Ford, the officiating minister and burial was made in the Johnson Memorial Park, there.

Pallbearers were James E. Holcomb, Philip Holcomb, Robby Holcomb, Scott Holcomb, Danny M. Heaqa and Gene H. Boyd.

In Memory

Danese Thornsby Shepherd

One year is past and now you're gone Far from us, we're all alone. We miss your laugh, your sparkling eyes. It's hard to break those family ties. But you've gone on, and you've found God. And to all of us that means a lot. We miss you still so very much. We miss your warm and gentle touch. Just being around you every day Blessed our lives in many ways: To call you on the telephone. To know that you were always home. But we remember the good times still. And I know we always will. We love you Danese, and don't forget. To let God know that we're here yet.

SUDDEN INFANT DEATH
SIDS or Sudden Infant Death Syndrome is not a new disease; it has been around hundreds of years, but has not received much attention until recently. SIDS is a disorder which causes from 6,000 to 7,000 infants deaths in the United States annually.

There is no way at the present time to prevent SIDS, but with more research it is hoped that more preventive measures will develop. There are certain children who are determined to be a risk for SIDS, and these children are watched closely, sometimes monitored by machines, although this is not really a preventive measure.

There will be a SIDS workshop at Prestonsburg Community College, April 6, from 8:30 until 3:30. The workshop is open to nurses, emergency room personnel, mental health counselors, funeral directors and ministers. If you have a question concerning the workshop, call the Floyd County Health Department at 886-2788.

This workshop has been planned by the Kentucky Cabinet for Human Resources, Department for Health Services, Division for Maternal and Child Health in Frankfort; the Social Services Department at Highlands Regional Medical Center and the Floyd County Health Department.

In Memory of Cildrea Wells
I loved her too! Cil is a memory, I'll never lose.
Cil was strong and always cheerful. She could find good in all people and things.
I try to think of her, not as she is now, but as she was, always a smile.
I miss her as all that knew her do. I was lucky to have the kind of friendship we shared.
There will always be a place in my heart for her.
Written by a school friend.
It has been one year 29th day of this month, Cildrea passed away. I pray she will meet me by the Pearly gates.
Written by her mother.
