

Old Martin Rail Depot Fire Thought Work of Firebug

(Photo by Ken Peters)

SOME MARTIN RESIDENTS watch, as they have on a number of occasions in recent months, as fire, most likely the product of arson, consumes another piece of their community. The destruction of the Martin railroad depot building, Thursday night, was the most recent in a string of suspected arsons which have plagued the town.

The town of Martin's Thursday night firebug may have struck again last Thursday when shortly before midnight the old C. & O. Railway depot there was destroyed by fire.

Arson is suspected but the investigation by State Fire Marshal Barry McKenzie and a special C. & O. agent continued early this week. A report on their findings to date had not been made Monday.

The 250-foot-long frame structure, built in the early 1930s, was no longer used by the railway company, which had moved its offices and other facilities to a newer building, along the tracks east of the old location. It had until shortly before the fire been leased to the Wickes Lumber Company.

There was no estimate of the damage. The building formerly housed local offices of the company, freight storage space, a waiting room dating back to the time when rail passenger service was maintained, and other facilities.

Efforts of the Martin Fire Department and firemen from seven other area departments failed to save the building but they did keep the flames from a potential explosion source, a 70-gallon diesel fuel tank located near the old depot.

The blaze deepened the concern of Martin officials and residents that an arsonist is at work in the community. Twelve fires in the last year—most of them on Thursday nights—have been reported in or near Martin. Most recent outbreaks include the blaze which destroyed the Beaver Valley Lumber and Building Supply Company there at a reported loss of $100,000. After that, an attempt to burn the old Beaver Valley Hospital building was made by an unidentified person who left behind, inside the building, a flare such as those used for railroad signals, and still later a man holding such a flare was spotted in the vicinity of a restaurant there.

Police Chief Hershell Lester and the Martin Fire Department are warning residents to investigate suspicious sounds at night. "People are starting to wait and see what's going to burn down next," Assistant Fire Chief Jim Rudder said.

Firemen at Martin meet almost nightly, and Policeman Lester has enlisted the help of a deputy sheriff in patrolling the community. They hope to get the town organized to the point that whoever is responsible for the long series of fires will be caught—preferably, redhanded. "He's going to burn us down if we don't," Rudder said.

Floyd Countian In Jail Break

Johnson county authorities said this week that the whereabouts of two prisoners, one from this county, who fled the Johnson county jail the night of April 23 remain unknown and that the search for the two continues.

The fugitives are Alvin Branham, Jr., 29, of West Prestonsburg, and Kimberly Dawn Cockerall, 19, Georgetown (Ky.) Rehabilitation Center student. Branham had been in jail at Paintsville since March 10, charged with rape; Cockerall, since April 15 on a charge of trafficking in a controlled substance.

Jailer Toy Blair was quoted as saying Branham was armed and that he forced Francis McKenzie, deputy jailer, at gunpoint into a cell, then freed the woman. The two fled together.

Johnson Would Subpoena Two ABC Officials

Unless they turned up evidence of which he was unaware, he did not expect them to return indictments in connection with the awarding of liquor licenses here, Circuit Judge Hollie Conley told members of the grand jury which convened Monday.

The judge's remarks were later criticized by an attorney who represents some of the unsuccessful license applicants and who was instrumental in having the grand jury investigate the licensing procedure.

For three months state police have been investigating the issuance of licenses here. The probe was requested by the state Alcoholic Beverage Control Board in January after reports of bribery and corruption in selecting 21 for licenses out of a total of 137 applicants.

Before it took evidence, Judge Conley told the grand jury he had met with Paintsville attorney John David Preston, who has been named special prosecutor in the case, and twice with state police investigators. "The police said they were unable to find where any crime had been committed, though they found certain people had recommended that certain people get licenses," he said.

"If this is all then, as I understand it, no crime has been committed," the judge said.

"I think it improper of him to make

Retiring Chamber Prexy Takes Shot at Report

Reviewing progress made and problems faced during his two terms as president of the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce, Burl Wells Spurlock, retiring president of the Chamber, took a shot last week at the report filed by VTN, Inc., Florida-based planning firm, after its study of Prestonsburg and its potential.

The occasion was the annual banquet of the Chamber of Commerce last Thursday evening at May Lodge when Spurlock bowed out as president and was succeeded by Eric Herrin, Prestonsburg pharmacist and drugstore co-owner.

The planning firm's report was by many considered discouraging. It saw Prestonsburg growth but that mainly by annexation; was far from optimistic about its prospects; recommended only mini-industries.

"The reported results of that survey," commented Spurlock, "is reminiscent of the report issued by Spindletop, back in 1965, which predicted that by 1985 Eastern Kentucky would be dead economically."

Such reports, he added, belong with the old one of Mark Twain's death, which Twain termed "greatly exaggerated."

"Some people may think we're dead but just won't lie down," he remarked. On the positive side, Spurlock listed those assets to cancel out the "scenario" of doom and gloom that has been around, he said, a hundred years:

- Transportation by roads, rail, water and air vastly improved during the last 10 years, and more anticipated.
- Pure water more readily available than ever before.
- The capacity for sanitary sewers to serve rural areas within reach, and all the elements for growth at hand.
- In his acceptance of Chamber leadership, Mr. Herrin asked for the cooperation of all members—now 100—, to the end that the Chamber may succeed in its objective of helping existing industry and adding new.

Tom Hummer, director of the Prestonsburg Job Corps Center, reviewed the successful history of the Job Corps while it has been a part of the county and region.

Chalmer H. Frazier, executive director of the Chamber, introduced Mr. Herrin and other 1983-'84 officers, Robert Schissler, vice-president, and Joyce Ramey secretary-treasurer, and the new board of directors composed of Estill Lee Carter, Sam Blankenship, Gary McCoy, John M. Howard, Edward Nairn, John F. Brown, Roy Ramey, C. Richard Clark, Russell Dean, Burl Wells Spurlock, David B. Spradlin and Paul Day.

Bevins' Appeal Seen as Start Of Long Battle

Another step was taken last week in the long legal fight that is expected in an effort to save William "Oakie" Bevins from death by electrocution as ordered by the trial judge in the Greenup circuit court a few days earlier.

Bevins' attorney, Lester H. Burns, Jr., filed a motion in the Greenup court last Thursday, asking Judge James D. Atkinson, Jr. to grant the confessed slayer of five men at Allen 18 months ago a new trial. Because the accused man has already pleaded guilty to the slaying of the five and to wounding three others, the question of guilt or innocence did not enter into Burns' plea, but the severity of the penalty could be affected.

In the event that Judge Atkinson overrules the Burns motion, as expected, the next defense action would be an appeal to the Kentucky Court of Appeals, or to the State Supreme Court.

Judge Grants Right-of-Way Over Property

Although a price for the property has not yet been agreed on, Circuit Judge Hollie Conley gave Prestonsburg right of way Friday across the Sam George tract at Cliff. The city filed suit to condemn the property in order to build a $1.1 million road to serve Cliff residents, including tenants of the public housing facility recently constructed there, and a proposed industrial park.

The court action followed the city's depositing in an escrow account the $57,000 that court-appointed commissioners say the condemned property is worth. An attorney for members of the George family, who do not agree with the commissioners' appraisal, opposed the city's motion for right-of-way.

To be taken for the road is a half-acre tract which includes a small house and two trailer sites, said the lawyer representing the city in the case. Negotiations on a selling price are said to be continuing between the parties. If a price cannot be agreed on, the issue will have to be resolved by a circuit court jury.

The George property is one of two to be condemned for the new road. A hillside tract, containing no house, which belonged to Dr. Ballard Wright, was reckoned by a jury to be worth $52,000. Wright had appealed an earlier, lower assessment by court commissioners.

Construction of the highway, which is being funded by a state grant, is not expected to begin before the summer of 1984. The city is being represented in the condemnation suit by Will Kendrick, the Georges by Albert Burchett.

Howard Challenges Report on Utilities

Prestonsburg Utilities Superintendent Bill H. Howard took issue this week with a planner's suggestions that the city should be thinking about expanding its sewage treatment facility and should be looking for an alternate source of water.

"We're quite proud of our facilities," he said. "A whole lot of work went into getting them. We don't want people saying they're obsolete."

According to the draft of a comprehensive plan for Prestonsburg recently released by VTN, Inc., an Orlando, Fla.-based planning firm, the city's sewage treatment plant, while adequate for dry weather conditions, is operating near capacity in wet weather.

Were the system to be extended or were any large user to be added to the present system, the plant could be taxed beyond its capacity, the planners say.

Moreover, while the report credits the city water system with providing good service at minimum cost, it notes that the present source of water—the Big Sandy—is vulnerable to pollution and that no backup source is available.

But Howard questions the planners' assessment of both water and wastewater systems. "I don't know who they talked to (to gather information for the report)," he said, skeptically.

A $1.2 million renovation completed in 1979 doubled the capacity of the sewage treatment plant and added a second treatment phase, Howard said. The plant generally operates at less than half its million-gallon capacity, he said.

While the same lines serve as storm and sanitary drains in the older (downtown) section of the system, weirs built into the line divert excess water directly to the river in the event of heavy rains. The weir system ensures that the sewage treatment plant is not overtaxed even in periods of heavy rain; the overflow runoff is very dilute; and—while storm and sanitary sewers are generally kept separate in newer systems—the older arrangement is approved by state and federal agencies, the utilities chief said.

If the money were available to extend some sewer lines—along the Lancer-Watergap road, out to the Mountain Parkway, north along the Auxier road, or to Town Branch, for example—the existing plant would be able to handle the extra load, the superintendent insists.

Howard also queried the planners' suggestion that changes in federal or state regulations might require additional treatment of sewage here. Prestonsburg's secondary-treatment facility is sufficiently sophisticated to remove 85 percent of contaminants—by contrast, Paintsville is still operating only a primary-treatment facility—and, while an even more advanced tertiary-treatment process is available, few communities could afford it and regulatory agencies give no indication they are about to insist on it, he said.

After tertiary treatment, sewage f-

REPORT ON REPORT

That report on Prestonsburg's present and future that we excerpted from in last week's paper failed to bring any huzzas from officials and no dancing whatsoever in the streets by a happy populace.

Among the things it said were:

Damage Action Seeks $500,000

Hospital personnel should have followed the doctor's orders and the doctor should have seen that they did, an old man's lawyer argues in a suit filed in circuit court here Friday.

William Middleton, 83, of Wayland, was a heart patient of Dr. Ira Potter at Highlands Regional Medical Center last September when he fell twice, breaking his hip and cutting his head, according to the suit.

Although the old man was known to be confused and had fallen previously, hospital workers did not follow Potter's orders to secure him in bed and immobilize him, his attorney said.

The suit, which names as defendants Dr. Potter as well as the hospital and "several unknown employees," alleges that the physician failed to provide proper attention and supervision for his patient and did not ensure that his orders were carried out.

The suit, filed by Prestonsburg attorney John W. Mann, seeks a trial by jury and $500,000 in actual and compensatory damages.

(Suits filed in court give only one side of the issue in dispute.)

Guidelines Deal With Sediment Pond Design

Guidelines and procedures for designing sediment ponds without computer aid have been drawn up by the state Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement and will be available to the public in a publication to be distributed later this month.

The guidelines, found in the department's Sediment Pond Design Guidelines-Procedures for Hand Calculators, will supplement Sediment II which was previously recommended and has now been set aside by the department for further study.

The new guidelines will employ simple equations and graphical relationships which will enable an engineer to design a sediment pond to meet settleable solids effluent limitations with a hand calculator, surface mining officials said. Designed by the Division of Reclamation Services, the procedures also include steps for designing an emergency spillway to control storm runoff.

Worksheets covering the essential steps in this design process will be included in the publication. Also included will be examples of sediment pond designs to show the procedure involved.

The equations have been programmed for a Hewlett-Packard HP-41CU hand calculator, but can be quickly programmed for other hand calculators. The new program will provide a significant reduction in the time required to perform calculations involved in stages of sediment pond design, according to state personnel.

"Our new guidelines are the result of an intensive effort by this department to provide engineers serving the coal-mining industry with procedures for designing sediment ponds without the aid of computers," said Surface Mining Commissioner Elmore Grim.

The new guidelines and methodology should be appropriate for the majority of sediment pond situations, he said.

HOLD OPEN HOUSE

An open-house honoring Alice McDonald, Democratic candidate for superintendent of public instruction, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chalmer H. Frazier, April 24, from 1:30 to 4 p.m. Assisting the hosts were Wayne and Judy Combs and Pat Dyer. Approximately 100 teachers, retired teachers, and friends of education had the opportunity of conversing with Mrs. McDonald concerning problems in education. Refreshments were served to those in attendance.

Energy Figures Show Continued Adequacy

If its latest electric energy load forecast is correct, the American Electric Power System will not need to add new generating capacity—after its current power plant construction is completed—until after the year 2000.

The American Electric Power System is comprised of eight operating companies covering parts of seven states. Kentucky Power Company, serving all or parts of 20 eastern Kentucky counties is part of the system.

W.W. White, Jr., chairman, told the American Electric Power Company annual meeting in Roanoke, Virginia, recently that AEP is now projecting an annual growth rate of 2.9% in its winter peak and 2.3% in its kilowatt-hour sales. (By comparison, forecasts just a year ago had been 3.5% and 3.1%, respectively.)

At this rate, the 2.6-million-kilowatt Rockport Plant, now under construction in Indiana, would be the system's last new generating station until after the turn of the century.

White cautioned, however, that "there are major uncertainties and possibly invalid assumptions implicit in this statement." He pointed out that, by 2000, some AEP generating units would be 50 years old. "In addition," he continued, "there is no way of predicting the effects of further environmental legislation and regulation during this period, which could accelerate the retirement of existing power plants."

PRE-PAID PRE-PLAN OR NOT—WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE?

One's pre-planned funeral need not be paid for in advance. Funeral arrangements may be made in advance—music and scripture readings selected, funeral service details are all noted and casket chosen, price range fixed—all without spending a dime at this time.

This manner of pre-planning becomes a guide for your family to follow. It is an expression of your personal wishes. But it is a guide only, until payment is arranged. Your family can take care of pre-payment in advance or at the time of need.

If you make pre-payment arrangements in advance, you have assured yourself your wishes will be followed exactly and to the letter. You have the peace-of-mind in knowing the chore is taken care of now. It will not be thrust upon your family in their time of emotional stress.

You may stop by or call for full details.

Alice Lloyd Alumni In Annual Meeting

The annual dinner meeting of the Floyd County Chapter of the Alice Lloyd College Alumni Association was held last Friday evening at May Lodge, with the president, Mrs. Anna Sue Stumbo, presiding.

The invocation was given by Adrian Hall, and Mrs. Stumbo gave the welcome address. Alice Lloyd's president, Dr. Jerry C. Davis, spoke on "The Status of the College." Dr. Davis emphasized that the school's first year as a four-year college had been a highly successful one, and gave credit to alumni, friends, administrators, and others who had helped in bringing about this accomplishment. He heaped praise on Dr. June Buchanan, "the Grand Lady of Alice Lloyd College," who gave her cooperation and moral support in this endeavor.

Dr. Buchanan reminisced about colorful events that had taken place at the college during the time the alumni guests were students there.

Dr. Wallace Campbell, ALC dean, told of new programs at the college. Dr. Campbell said that 20 students will graduate from the four-year college during the forthcoming commencement exercises.

Adrian Hall, of the Admissions department, said that 1000 applications were expected to be received by the college for the coming year, and from this list about 500 would be accepted.

M. Fred Mullinax, director of Development, told of the progress of the building program there, and said that a swimming pool would soon be completed.

Sally D. Slone, director of Alumni Affairs, spoke briefly concerning alumni activities.

The program for the evening included music by Meredith Slone, an ALC alumnus whose father, the late Wade Slone, also attended school there. Mr. Slone, who teaches the only one-room school in Floyd county (on Daniel's Creek), sang "The Ballad of Alice Lloyd," and played "Wildwood Flower" and "Amazing Grace," on the dulcimer.

At the close of the evening, the films, "Miracle on Caney Creek," taken from the book of the same title by Dr. Jerry Davis, and "This is Your Life, June Buchanan," made by Ralph Edwards, were presented.

Officers who served during 1982 were re-elected for the ensuing year. They are: President, Mrs. Anna Sue Stumbo; vice-president, John Leake; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Alma Lowe.

Attending the dinner-meeting were: Dr. Jerry C. Davis, Dr. June Buchanan, Dr. Wallace Campbell, Charlotte and Ed Madden, M. Fred Mullinax, Mrs. Fred Mullinax, and their son Brian, and Sally D. Slone, all of Pippa Passes, and alumni and friends of the school: Anna Sue Stumbo, Alma Lowe, Arnold Lowe, Mabel Allen, Woodrow Allen, Mildred Salisbury, William Salisbury, Bessie R. Dance Recital Offered Free At Pikeville College

A Spring Dance Recital, featuring Pikeville College students enrolled in Continuing Education and college dance classes, is scheduled for Friday, May 27 at 7:30 p.m. in Faith Chapel.

Clowns, cotton candy, carousels, and strong men (ballet and jazz class members age three through adult) will introduce a carnival theme in the first act, with tap classes (six-year-olds through teenagers) closing out the second act.

MEMBERS HONORED

Women of the First United Methodist Church honored those in their church who had been members 50 years or more, Sunday afternoon with a tea: The serving table was covered with a white lace cloth, and had for its centerpiece a bouquet of mixed spring flowers, intertwined with greenery. Refreshments of cookies, punch, coffee, mints and nuts were served.

Mrs. Rosa Glenn, president of the group, welcomed the guests. Mrs. Glenn introduced Miss Linda Stephens, who was in charge of arrangements for the program. Miss Stephens presented the 50-year-and-over members, and they were awarded pins by Mrs. Glenn.

Mrs. Robert Burchett presided at the guest register.

Those who were present and so honored were Mrs. Ann Alley, Mrs. Margaret P. Alley, Clabe Bingham, Marshall Davidson, Mrs. Josephine Fields, Mrs. Kathryn Frazier, Mrs. Vivian Hale, Mrs. Carlos Haywood, Mrs. Inez R. Hereford, Mrs. H.D. Members from out-of-town honored, but unable to attend were Mrs. Lena Brown, Torrance, California; David D. May, Lexington, Mrs. Florence Oppenheimer and Misses Agatha, and Eula Oppenheimer, Dayton, Ohio, and Mrs. Carolyn P. Walden, Smithville, Tennessee.

Dr. William Pope, pastor of this church from 1967 to 1972, who was guest-minister during the morning services, gave a talk. The Rev. Pope is now minister of the Immanuel United Methodist Church, at Ft. Mitchell, Kentucky.

A tape, sent by Dr. J.M. Helm, who served as pastor of this church from 1930 to 1935, and is its oldest living pastor, was played during the program. The Rev. Helm is now retired and living in Titusville, Florida. He reminisced about his years spent here, and sent greetings from Mrs. Helm and himself. He plans to be at the First United Methodist Church for the last Sunday of its Centennial, which will be May 29. Dr. Ted Nicholas is the pastor of the local church.

Finding A Dentist

Q. I've just moved to a new area and need a dentist. How should I go about finding one?

A. If your former dentist cannot suggest someone, then ask for referrals from people whose judgment you trust—family doctor, pharmacist, or a friend with connections in your new location. Other sources of referral are local dental association, hospitals or any nearby university with a dental school.

It's advisable to talk to a number of dentists before setting on one. Find out if they take a complete medical and dental history, since all of this information will affect dental care. Determine whether they stress preventive care and educate patients accordingly. Question whether you can transfer dental X-rays from your former dentist (this should be welcome!). Ask about fees, of course. And be sure you feel comfortable with whomever you choose.

The first federal eight-hour law for all workers and mechanics employed by the U.S. and the District of Columbia governments on public works was passed in 1982.

Explanation Needed

It's a complicated matter, but it boils down to what the KENTUCKY COAL JOURNAL says in one paragraph: "A coal-fired generating plant in Indiana that has contracted to burn five million tons of Wyoming high BTU coal will be partially subsidized by consumers of electric power in 16 Eastern Kentucky counties."

This happens, it is explained, because the Kentucky Public Service Commission has consented to, or approved, the purchase by Kentucky Power Company of 15 per cent of a power plant built, or being built, by its parent company, American Electric Power, at Rockport, Indiana.

Why do we object to this state's public service commission's consent to the power company "family deal"? Because Kentucky Power is now asking a $33-million-a-year rate increase from its customers to pay off the $313 million that its share in that Indiana plant is costing.

Moreover, we are asked to divvy up more money for our electric power to pay $313 million for a plant that will not burn a lump of Kentucky coal at a time when many Kentucky mines are idle, and thousands of Kentucky miners, wanting to work but unable to find work, will be paying higher electric power bills to pay for the Indiana plant that helps keep Kentucky mines idle by buying its coal from Wyoming.

Surely, the Public Service Commission knew something that we don't know before agreeing to such a bizarre arrangement. The power company argues that buying that Wyoming coal will keep electric power rates down. Down from what?—from the higher rate planned to pay for the Indiana plant?

Somebody, please explain the esoteric reasoning behind all this before we all blow a fuse!

fluent is considered clean enough to drink, Howard said. Prestonsburg's secondary-treatment plant should be adequate for the city's needs, given normal growth, for 15-20 years, he said.

The city's water treatment plant, completed in January this year at a cost of $4.2 million, should also be adequate for 15 to 20 years, he predicted.

Flood-control reservoirs at the head of the Big Sandy—the Fishtrap, Flanagan and Pound dams—guarantee that the city will have enough water, even in dry conditions; chemical pollution is not likely to be a problem, since the city's raw water intake is near the bottom of the river; and, in any event, the city could draw water from Dewey Lake if necessary, Howard explained.

Noting that Paintsville has yet to upgrade its sewage plant and Pikeville is still trying to expand its water treatment facility, Howard said Prestonsburg is in an enviable position. "We have all this behind us," he said.

the "pocket" or "mini" brand. Nothing ambitious.

And so on. The most charitable thing I've heard said about it is, it didn't cost much, as "studies" go.

That report somehow recalls the story of the oldtimer who rode a buggy 20 miles over rough roads to see his doctor and, once there, was told, in the parlance of the day, that he was "in an awful fix."

The old coot left. Somewhat disgruntled. He crawled back in his buggy for the return 20-mile trip home and remarked, "If I'd a-knowned I was that bad off, I wouldn't 'a' been able to come here, in the first place."

Which also reminds me of the statement of the old fellow who had hit 90. "If I had known I'd live to be this old," he commented, "I would have took better care of myself."

In his motion asking that the sentence be changed Burns argued that Judge Atkinson made several errors in the sentencing phase of Bevins' trial and that the death sentence was "contrary to the law and evidence."

As he had earlier said he would do, Burns cited statements made by Atkinson after he had pronounced the death sentence on Bevins. This portion of the motion referred to a taped statement of Judge Atkinson's to the effect that before passing sentence on Bevins he checked with the state parole board and learned that if Bevins were given five life sentences he could be eligible for parole in 6½ years. The judge added that he set the sentence at death because a life term might mean parole and setting Bevins free possibly to kill again.

That, the Bevins motion said, amounted "to nothing more or less than a death sentence being rendered and ordered by an employee or member of the parole board."

Otherwise, the motion filed on Bevins' behalf alleged that Judge Atkinson erred in the sentencing phase of the trial by:

- Admitting "incompetent and highly prejudicial evidence."
- Refusing to sustain various defense objections.
- Refusing to rule on various defense motions and objections.
- Overruling objections by defense to what it termed "improper argument" by the prosecution.

that kind of comment to the grand jury," said attorney Gary Johnson later. "The whole purpose of the grand jury is to allow 12 citizens to look at the evidence and decide whether a crime has been committed."

The grand jury has investigative powers, which means it need not feel limited to the state police report and, unlike the police, it can put witnesses under oath, the lawyer noted.

Johnson, who has been subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury today (Wednesday), said he intends to ask the panel also to subpoena Distilled Spirits Administrator Michael Davidson, ABC Commissioner Edward Farris, and the county officials who reportedly approached them in behalf of certain applicants.

A report published in March citing state police officials as sources indicated Floyd Judge-Executive Jerry Laferty, Jr., Sheriff Henry Hale and Sen. Benny Ray Bailey sought to influence ABC officials responsible for awarding the licenses. All three denied trying to sway the selection process.

A recent Lexington Herald story quoted an unidentified state official as saying the state police investigation will "put the worst stink on the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board in the history of the organization."

The selection process "looks like it was all politics," the official is quoted as saying. Successful applicants were apparently "divided like Gaul, with one third going here, another third going there and another third over there."

ABC officials have strongly denied any wrongdoing on their part, the agency's general counsel Catherine Staib speculating that such allegations might themselves be prompted by political considerations.

Judge Conley likened the distribution of liquor licenses to handing out jobs. "Scarcely a day passes that some of us don't recommend someone for a job," he said.

But Johnson said he would like to see the grand jury inquire as to whether any official tried to use his position to influence the distribution of licenses. "I would like them to ask Davidson why he gave the licenses to these rather than those... what happened to the lists (allegedly submitted by Sheriff Hale and Sen. Bailey for special consideration)... and whether he communicated with or got direction from any other state officials."

"If they gave licenses to people who were recommended, what did they get in exchange?" asked Johnson, who suggested that some licenses might have been given in return for campaign contributions for a particular gubernatorial candidate.

Since state police are still conducting an audit of Floyd financial records, they might wait until a later session before considering any evidence pertaining to the county administration, Judge Conley advised the panel.

No murder cases are scheduled to come before this session of the grand jury.

The panel is not expected to make its report before the end of this week.

Book Deals With Ky. Migrants To Missouri

For Kentuckians trying to reconstruct their family trees, Dr. Stuart Sprague, professor of history at Morehead State University, may be of help in locating some Missouri branches.

A recently-published book by Dr. Sprague lists more than 4,000 nineteenth century Kentuckians who moved to Missouri during the nation's westward migration.

"In 1860, there were about 100,000 native Kentuckians living in Missouri," says Dr. Sprague, adding that most came from the Bluegrass region. Their migration "had a strong impact on Kentucky history."

Dr. Sprague, who teaches genealogy and Appalachian history, believes the book will be "extremely useful" to Kentucky genealogists. The book's listings include the migrant's name, birthdate, first county of Missouri residence, earliest known date of residence in Missouri and, if known, names of parents and their birthplaces and birthdates.

The author researched the information from about 60 Missouri county histories and mug-books, which were Missouri community collections of stories about local citizens.

Kentuckians can use the book to trace ancestors' siblings who moved to Missouri.

"By going back to the county history or mug-book," says Dr. Sprague, "a researcher may find more information about their ancestors."

For Dr. Sprague, though, this book is just the beginning of some of his own research.

Eye Safety Stressed In Lawn and Garden Work

Don't lose sight of safety when you're gardening or mowing your lawn.

Rocks, sticks or other debris thrown from mowers present a serious treat to the eye. The National Society to Prevent Blindness, now celebrating its 75th anniversary, urges wearing goggles—which are lightweight and inexpensive—when using mowers and other power tool equipment.

Power mowers also hold great attraction for youngsters. Parents should make certain that children in the vicinity of a power mower also wear eye protection.

A free pamphlet on eye safety is available by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to your State Society to Prevent Blindness or the National Society to Prevent Blindness, 79 Madison Avenue, New York, N. Y. 10016.

TIME FOR A CHANGE... GOODBYE, BROWN-BAILEY

RAY TURNER

For the last three and half years Eastern Kentucky has not only been forgotten by Gov. Brown and Benny Ray Bailey but has been sacrificed for the development of Louisville, Lexington, and Northern Kentucky.

Bailey traded Eastern Kentucky for personal gain, power, and ambition, while the people of the mountains have paid the price.

Bailey served on the powerful Senate Appropriations and Revenue Committee and the Rules Committee, and aided and supported Gov. Brown in:

1. Taking away the coal severance tax from the coal producing counties for two years and decreasing and stopping other program funding to the counties. As a result, Eastern Kentucky counties were put into financial crisis with state government taking over Perry and Floyd Counties's financial affairs, along with other Eastern Kentucky Counties.
2. What coal severance tax that now is being returned is much, much less than before; we have to share it with over 100 other counties, most of which produce no coal; and we are told that we will have to refund back to Frankfort a large part of this. As a result, almost all our coal county governments do not have money with which to provide needed human services and economic development.

3. Our coal counties have had less money spent on our education than the average spent in the seven surrounding states over the past three years.
4. There has been little to no road funds from Frankfort spent on our highways, putting them in the worst condition in our history.
5. Our utility bills have gotten so high that we cannot afford to pay them and have money to pay for food.

AREN'T YOU WORSE OFF NOW NOW than you were when Brown and Bailey took office? CAN YOU AFFORD five more years of Bailey? DO YOU WANT someone who will work for you and not themselves?

ISN'T IT TIME FOR A CHANGE?
YES!! YES!! YES!!

RAY TURNER AS YOUR DEMOCRAT STATE SENATOR, CAN AND WILL WORK WITH ANY GOVERNOR ELECTED, AND:

1. Will work to get back our fair share of the coal severance tax that Bailey gave away.
2. Will work to get back money for our county roads and highways that Bailey gave away.
3. Will work to reduce your utility bills and see that they will not increase.
4. Will work to fund our school systems above the average of the seven surrounding states, with our teachers and educators receiving an increase in pay befitting the dignity and benefit of their profession.
5. Will protect, keep, and upgrade our county health boards and programs and not try to eliminate them the way Bailey did.
6. Will work for better and improved employment opportunities with new safe jobs through a diversified economy by helping to get new and improved water systems, sewage and garbage removal systems; to get improved and better housing for all our people; to get improved and new recreation facilities; and to help improve the quality of life for our retired and disabled citizens.

7. Will work for and give maximum support to our coal industry to help find and keep profitable coal markets with consistent production in a healthy, safe natural and work environment.
8. Will work for workman's compensation for lifetime benefits, not 425 weeks, for injured workers and coal miners — the loss of a leg, arm, hand, or a back injury is for life, not 425 weeks.
9. Will fight and work against a "Right-to-Work Law."
10. Will work for improved and better health care delivery facilities with the best trained personnel available for all our people.

VA Gets $1,290,000 In New Appropriation

The two Veterans Administration medical centers in the state of Kentucky have been allocated $1,290,000 for projects under the recently enacted emergency appropriations bill.

Harry N. Walters, Administrator of Veterans Affairs, announced that the new jobs bill, signed by President Reagan last month, provides $75 million to the VA nationwide for construction jobs at its facilities.

In Kentucky, Lexington VAMC will receive $922,000, and in Louisville the VAMC will get $368,000.

The money will allow the VA to accomplish needed maintenance and repair on the medical facilities, while at the same time providing meaningful employment to thousands of people who need work. The funding will make 625 different projects at 158 medical centers possible.

Even a Little High Blood Pressure Is Too Much

Blood pressures at the low end of the high blood pressure scale are sometimes called mild. Yet lower level elevations, if untreated, can still lead to serious problems like heart disease, stroke, and kidney disease.

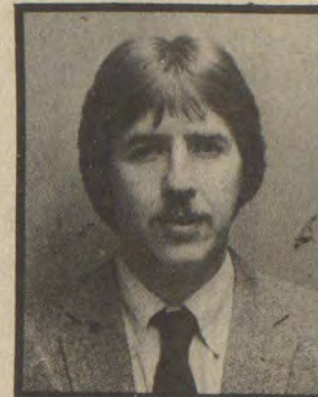

Fortunately, treatment can make a big difference in reducing potential problems for people in this group. It can also prevent mild high blood pressure from going to higher ranges where serious complications are even more likely.

Veterans Administration Questions and Answers

Q—What is the order of admission priorities in VA medical facilities for inpatient care?

A—The priority sequence for inpatient care at VA medical facilities is as follows: 1) Veterans with service-connected disabilities who need treatment for that disability; 2) Veterans with a service connected disability, but seeking care for an ailment not related to that disability; 3) Veterans without service-related disabilities who need inpatient care, but are unable to pay for such elsewhere, on a space available basis. (Veterans over age 65 have this limited eligibility without regard to their ability to pay for care elsewhere.)

Q—I recently received a letter about a VA education overpayment which dates from 1976. Am I liable?

A—Yes. The VA and other government agencies are making serious efforts to collect debts, including old education overpayments like yours. The VA is willing to accept reasonable repayment agreements or lump sum payments.

Q—Are there any exceptions to the 10-year delimiting date for education benefits?

A—Yes. First, if there was any severe medical problem which would have precluded school attendance and second, recent legislation has extended the delimiting date to Dec. 31, 1984 for veterans without a high school diploma and for those who are found to be in need of vocational or job training because they are unskilled.

Ashland Chapter Meets Here

John Daniel Preston (right) is presented The Good Citizenship medal by Col. Robert C. Jobson.

Ashland Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, met for the first time in Floyd county last Friday with a luncheon and program at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park.

Welcoming members, their wives and other guests, Mayor Harold Cooley remarked that "the meeting honored this county," and he noted that two members of the chapter—James B. and Bradis Goble, brothers—are Floyd county residents.

A former Floyd resident, John David Preston, who now is commonwealth's attorney of the Johnson-Martin-Lawrence judicial district, was awarded the chapter's Good Citizenship Medal by Col. Robert C. Jobson, Louisville, secretary-treasurer of the Kentucky Society, S.A.R., on behalf of the 50-year-old Ashland chapter. Preston is a life member of Ashland Chapter.

Mr. Preston, the principal speaker, discussed "The Causes and Origin of the American Revolution," pointing out that it was spawned in England in the 17th century with the overthrow of two English kings and citing a chain of events after the settling of America that clashed with the colonists' concept of liberty.

Eugene Rice, president of the Ashland Chapter, presided at the meeting.

Domesticated Deer Provides Business For New Zealanders

Name a domestic animal raised on 2,000 farms in the Southern hemisphere whose meat and soft hair are in great demand.

Sheep? Llamas?

Neither. The animals are red deer—the world's newest domestic stock—and raising them is a booming business in New Zealand.

The red deer, originally captured from high-country forests, are joining sheep in New Zealand pastures, according to this month's issue of International Wildlife, the bimonthly publication of the National Wildlife Federation.

All domestic animals are descendants of wild species. But what's different about New Zealand's red deer is that the domestication has taken place in a few years, rather than millennia. The first red deer farm was started in only 1970. Today, the country has a herd of more than 180,000 animals.

That growth is even more remarkable when one considers that the first deer arrived from Europe in 1851. Previously, plants and flightless birds had reigned unchallenged in New Zealand, and people had been the first mammals to arrive in about 950 A.D., according to International Wildlife.

In those New Zealand surroundings, the deer found abundant food year-round—and no competitors. Within a year, their breeding had adjusted to suit the new seasons of the Southern hemisphere; they survived winter easily, grew quickly, and bred early in life.

As its population increased rapidly, however, the deer's overgrazing denuded many slopes. After deer trampled out vegetation, soil slid into valleys, causing floods and clogging hydroelectric dam reservoirs with silt.

But what seemed like an ecological disaster was to become an economic boom as farmers realized the profit potential in domesticating deer.

Since the first deer farm was started, New Zealand's animal scientists at the Invermay Animal Research Station have uncovered some interesting facts:

—Deer produced over 40 percent more meat per acre than sheep or cattle.

—Deer raised in captivity may achieve commercial body weight within 15 months, compared with 30 months in the wild.

—Pasture that supports one dairy cow will support four deer.

New Zealand deer farmers hope that the venison industry will one day rival the country's massive wool trade, according to International Wildlife. Venison is a highly prized meat, considered a luxury item in many restaurants.

Venison is not the only product of New Zealand's deer farms. "Velvet," the soft hair that covers a stag's antlers and is shed every year, is another. One farmer claims that "velvet" from one stag is worth as much as the wool from 24 sheep.

In China, Korea and the Soviet Union, velvet is used in treatment of heart disorders and anemia. Doctors there say it dilates blood vessels and stimulates production of red blood cells.

Deer farming has also helped address New Zealand's erosion problems, according to International Wildlife. Deer populations have diminished and domestic populations have increased, improving vegetation cover on eroded slopes. Some alpine forests are regaining their original splendor. Bird habitat has improved, and spring flowers are reappearing.

Ken Miers, the director of the environmental division of the New Zealand Forest Service, says the deer are now "absolutely under control. It's the best thing that ever happened, as far as we're concerned."

Handicapped Students In Pike Co. Sue Board For Special Schooling

State and Pike county officials should be ordered to provide a suitable education for their children or pay $5 million in compensatory damages, parents of two handicapped students argue in a suit filed last week in federal court.

Denver Smith and Lonnie Stewart, both 16, are multi-handicapped children within the meaning of the federal law which guarantees them an "appropriate public education"—specifically, they need special education and speech therapy—the suit claims.

Neither student has been provided the kind of education he needs, it is alleged.

Defendants in the case, who include Kentucky and Pike county school officials, should be held in violation of the law, plaintiffs argue. The county board of education should be ordered to provide Smith and Stewart the schooling they need or, failing that, state and county officials should be made pay the parents $5 million to enable them to provide private schooling for the youngsters, it is claimed.

Prestonsburg attorney Gary E. Johnson, who filed the suit Thursday in U.S. District Court in Pikeville, said a similar suit filed on behalf of a Floyd student about two years ago led to a significant improvement in services for handicapped children in this county.

Physically handicapped youngsters from all over Kentucky have the time of their lives while attending resident camp sessions at Camp Green Shores.

TO THE CONCERNED CITIZENS OF FLOYD COUNTY:

We see what has been done to disgrace our county. It's enough to make us bow our heads in shame. I am ashamed to tell I'm from Floyd County since all this has happened. Seems like someone has been living "high on the hog." That's easy to do on someone else's money—and that's what some of our county officials apparently have done.

So let's make a change on election day. Let's get out and vote for Carla R. Boyd! Let's get some good, honest women in office. We see what a mess the men have made. If women can't pull us out—Floyd County has met her Waterloo!

'Seguin' Encores On KET

The life of the controversial soldier-politician Juan Nepomuceno Seguin is spotlighted in the powerful docudrama, "Seguin," to be presented as an encore performance on "American Playhouse" Tuesday, May 24 at 9 p.m. (ET), on KET.

Shot on location in Bracketville, Texas, "Seguin" focuses on the drama and ultimate tragedy of the young Mexican-Texan who raised an army to fight the Mexican forces of General Santa Anna in 1836, became a senator to the Texas congress and then mayor of San Antonio, only to be banished from the state.

A. Martinez stars as Juan Nepomuceno Seguin; Henry Darrow plays Don Erasmo Seguin, Juan's father and a proud descendant of the original Spanish settlers of San Antonio; Rose Portillo is seen as Maria Gertrudis Flores de Seguin, Juan's strong-willed and courageous wife who was a pillar of strength for him throughout his life.

... about your Social Security

By JIM KELLY
District Social Security Director

The exemption from the government pension offset has been modified and extended to those becoming eligible for governmental pension before July 1983.

Under the old law, a pension based on work for a Federal, State, or local government not covered by Social Security would cause a reduction in Social Security spouse's pension before December 1982. In addition, men had to be dependent upon their wives for half or more of their support to qualify for the exemption.

The new law extends the deadline for the exemption to July 1983. This means that people who become eligible for a government pension in the period December 1982 through June 1983 may receive an exemption from the pension offset, but only if they were dependent upon their spouse for half or more of their support. This half-support requirement now applies to both men and women.

Under the government pension offset, a person's Social Security benefit as a spouse or surviving spouse is reduced dollar for dollar by the amount of any pension he or she receives based on work for a State, Federal, or local government now covered by Social Security.

Any Social Security benefit a person receives based on his or her own work is not affected by the government pension offset.

More information about the government pension offset can be obtained at the Big Sandy Area Social Security of... fice, located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville.

NEW NATURAL GAS FURNACES ARE HOT ON EFFICIENCY.

They're really hot on saving you energy and money, while keeping you comfortable.

And, a natural gas furnace combined with a central air conditioning unit offers many advantages over a heat pump, which is a compromise unit that both heats and cools.

Greater comfort. A natural gas furnace doesn't compromise on comfort. During the winter months, you feel warmer, because a natural gas furnace circulates warmer air than a heat pump.

Greater efficiency. During the hot summer months, you'll benefit from the increased efficiency of a central air conditioning unit over the compromise unit.

If you're considering changing your present system, contact your local heating and cooling contractor. He'll show what you can save (and what you won't have to compromise) with the many new high efficiency natural gas furnaces and a central air conditioning unit.

Natural gas. The energy that makes your home more efficient.

MRS. CONLEY HONORED

Mrs. Nawonie Conley, who has served as secretary of the Irene Cole Memorial (First) Baptist Church for approximately 10 years, was honored with a reception at the church annex Sunday at 6 p.m. The serving table, which was covered with a white linen cloth, was decorated with a centerpiece of assorted spring flowers and greenery, with crystal candelabra holding tall candles on either side. Refreshments were served by women of the church. A silver tray and a monetary gift were presented the honoree by Gus Kalos. In charge of the planning for this event were Delmas Saunders, Mrs. Alice G. Buchanan, and Mrs. Ruby Garrett. Mrs. Conley, and her husband, Henry Conley, expect to move soon to Lexington.

KIWANIANNES MEET

The Prestonsburg Kiwanianes held their regular luncheon-meeting last Thursday, at May Lodge, with the president, Mrs. Garnett Fairchild, presiding. The president read a note of appreciation from a former member, Mrs. Janet Cottrell, who, with her husband, plans to move to another state, thanking the group for a gift recently presented to her.

A report was given on the Heart Clinic held April 24-25 at the Floyd County Health Department, for which the Kiwanianes, in cooperation with the Kiwanis Club here, and women of various churches in this area, furnished food and milk.

The speaker for the program was Earl Compton, director of the Floyd County Health Department. Mr. Compton presented to Mrs. Garnett Fairchild, a Certificate of Appreciation from the Awards committee of the Kentucky Health Department, in recognition of the work members of the Prestonsburg Kiwanianes have done to assist the Heart Clinic here, and other assistance given by them to the Floyd County Health Department during the past several years.

Mrs. Jane Bond asked that the next luncheon-meeting be held at the home of Mrs. Carolyn Ford, and that the proceeds of this meeting be used for young people of the First Presbyterian Church here to attend the General Assembly of Presbyterian Churches this summer. It was agreed that this would be done.

Those in attendance were members, Mesdames Garnett Fairchild, Vera Ford, Mary Lou Layne, Lucy Regan, Jane Bond, Opal Dingus, Thelma Music, Jane Wallace, Myrtle Davis, Docia Woods, and Margaret Alley, and a guest, Mr. Earl Compton.

The next luncheon-meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Carolyn Ford, May 28, at noon.

For Our Loved One

Dr. Roger Darrell Akers

We wish to give heartfelt thanks to:

All doctors and friends who rushed to his aid, the Left Beaver Rescue Squad, the McDowell Hospital, doctors and staff, Our Lady of the Way Hospital and staff, the Hall Funeral Home and staff, the Regular Baptist ministers—Burton Howard, Ivory Sowards and Paris Tackett—the Masonic Lodge Service, and the Gospel Singers; the pallbearers—Dr. Larry Leslie, Mac Hall, Ray Turner, Dr. Charley Hieronymus, Rudolph Howell, Sterling Tackett and Larry Hall—and all the people who sent food.

To all others who sent a lovely card, Or sat quietly near us in a chair. Perhaps you sent him a flower spray, And-if so-we saw it there. Perhaps you spoke of him with kindest words, As any friend could say. Maybe, in person, you could not be there But thought of us and said a prayer. Whatever you did to console our heart, May you be blessed, whatever your part. May God touch all your lives with Peace, Hope, Love.

GARNET FAIRCHILD provides information and support to mastectomy patients at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Most people would find it difficult talking with women who must undergo surgery to remove a breast. But Garnet Fairchild, of Prestonsburg, is not most people. She counsels many women every year who face this difficult situation.

"I try to help them accept the surgery (called a mastectomy) and talk about their fears," said Mrs. Fairchild. "I tell them they will recover and can look the same and do the same things as they did before."

Mrs. Fairchild, a member of the Highlands Regional Medical Center Women's Auxiliary, was herself a mastectomy patient eight years ago. On a recommendation by her physician, she became the Floyd County Coordinator of the "Reach to Recovery" program, sponsored by the American Cancer Society. "Our program's goal is to provide support and information for breast surgery patients," she said.

She visits patients by physician request both before and after the operation. In addition, she gives each patient a kit with a prosthesis, exercise equipment and a book, provided by the American Cancer Society.

"When I say I've lived through it and am fine, I guess it makes them a little more comfortable. I tell them to call me anytime if they feel like talking," Mrs. Fairchild explained. "Visiting with these ladies is one of the most important things I do."

The "Reach to Recovery" program is widely accepted by surgeons, nurses and hospitals not only in the United States, but in 20 foreign countries as well. It began in 1952 after a patient who had breast surgery realized that ex-patients could help new patients. It was taken over by the American Cancer Society in 1969.

A DISCLAIMER

Marie Harmon, of Bays Branch, who, from time to time, submits items of interest to the Floyd County Times, asked that it be pointed out that she did not write the article concerning the burning of a house at Bays Branch belonging to Sola Alice Burchett, which appeared in last week's issue. She did not.

Sloane Appearance Here Non-Political, College Head Says

When Dr. Harvey Sloane was invited to appear here as the speaker at Commencement exercises of Prestonsburg Community College, he was the mayor of Louisville, not a candidate for governor.

So said Dr. Henry A. Campbell, Jr., director of the college, after the political implications of Sloane's appearance in the thick of the current primary campaign and under the auspices of the college, had been questioned.

"Commencement speakers are selected by the Student Government, and Dr. Sloane was invited as long as 18 months ago when he was mayor of Louisville and not a candidate for any other office," Dr. Campbell explained.

He admitted that several individuals have "commented" on the speaker selection.

PAUL PRESTON BURCHETT

“UNITED WE STAND, DIVIDED WE FALL”

Splitting a county into two Senate Districts reduces its effectiveness. There will be no one Senator representing all of Floyd County in the 1984 General Assembly. When the bill first came up to axe Floyd County into two halves, Sen. Benny Ray Bailey did not vote. The next day — too late — he asked the Clerk of the Senate to record his vote as “no.” He was presented with a proposed amendment to change the bill, a petition from over 300 Floyd Countians and a resolution from the Prestonsburg City Council asking him to introduce the amendment. He did not do so. Bailey divided Floyd County.

PHS Tennis

The Prestonsburg High School tennis team faced its stiffest competition of the season this week—first, by playing host to a strong Russell team. Prestonsburg lost the meet by one match and hopes to be able to get revenge next week when they travel to Russell. Coach Crum says by changing a few things in the line-up she hopes to come home from Russell with a win. "They're a tough team but I feel we can beat them," said Prestonsburg Capt. Ted George. It was close—Prestonsburg 4, Russell 5.

Next the Prestonsburg team travelled to Ashland where they faced an experienced Paul Blazer team led by their veteran player, Jimmy Daniels who is the most impressive player in this region. Mrs. Crum said, she felt any one she sent in to face him would be on a "suicide mission," and this proved to be true. Although several of the matches were close, Paul Blazer came out on top, 6 to 3.

Prestonsburg did come out on top in a doubles exhibition match when Mike Ousley and Brent Music won over the team of Stravos and Doubling 8-5. This match didn't count in the score though.

However, things seemed to be going quite differently on Friday when the Paul Blazer team came to Prestonsburg. Although Jimmy Daniels had little trouble with his match, that was not the story with the others. With Prestonsburg winning 3 of 5 singles matches and ahead in another—the rains come! After waiting awhile it was decided by the coaches that further play was impossible. So, while it can't be counted as an official win, Prestonsburg was definitely on top.

Scores: P-burg 4—Russell 5.

High School Baseball Bracket

District Baseball Tourney Under Way at Allen Park

The Floyd county district high school baseball tournament began yesterday (Tuesday) at the Floyd County park stadium at Allen and will run through Friday afternoon, Denzil "Hoss" Halbert, county schools' athletic director, announced.

The regular season for county high school teams ended last week, and because of cold or rainy weather, or both, play was limited to eight games. The order of finish in the standings:

Prestonsburg, champions, 7 wins, 1 loss; Allen Central, runnerup, 6 wins, 2 defeats; Betsy Layne, third, 5 won, 3 lost; McDowell, 2 won, 6 lost; Wheelwright, won none, lost 8.

Russell Shepherd, coach of the championship Prestonsburg team, was named Coach of the Year.

MSU Chosen Youth Sports Camp Site

Morehead State University, in cooperation with the Community Services Administration and the National Collegiate Athletic Association, has been recommended as the site for the 5th Annual NCAA National Youth Sports Camp.

Free to selected participants, the 1983 day camp will open July 4 and close August 5, with sessions designed for children 10 through 16 years of age.

A free medical examination is required of all participants with examinations to be held Saturday, May 7 at 9:30 a.m. in the Laughlin Building.

As in previous years, bus service will be provided for physical examinations with routes running through strategic areas of Rowan county and to each county school beginning at 8:30 a.m. In addition, buses will run daily throughout the camp.

Included in camp activities will be instructions in football, soccer, canoeing, tennis, backpacking and other sports. Also included will be personal enrichment programs with instructions in nutrition, careers, jobs and education.

Another feature of the camp is instruction in lifetime physical fitness activities.

Additional information is available from Dr. Earl Bentley at (606) 783-2180.

Floyd Girl on Ky. All-Stars

When the girls of the Kentucky All-Stars meet Indiana next month, Floyd county will have one of its own on the roster.

Among the 12 named to the team after two days of tryouts in Louisville this weekend was Allen Central High School senior Kim Shepherd.

Miss Shepherd, 18, was one of two 15th Region players named to the prestigious All-Star squad—Lori Mills, of Sheldon Clark, also made the cut—and the first ever from Allen Central. She is the first Floyd girl to make the team since McDowell's Geri Grigsby was selected in 1977.

(None from this region was named to the boys' team, which was also selected after tryouts on the weekend.)

Shepherd, a 5-10 center and the biggest girl on the Allen Central squad this year, enjoyed a game average of 18 points and nine rebounds. She will play power forward for the All-Stars.

"She should bring good rebounding strength to the All-Stars and she'll be a strong offensive threat," said her coach, Judy Eversole. "I feel very happy for her, real proud. She had to earn her spot."

The All-Stars will be coached by Dave Weedman, Oldham County High School coach. "I think we've got a good blend of big kids and outside shooters," he said. "It was really tough making the final choices, but I think we did a good job. These girls should represent Kentucky well."

Captain of the Allen Central team, Kim Shepherd was earlier named to the All-District and All-Region squads and received All-State honorable mention. She recently accepted an athletic scholarship to attend Marshall University this fall.

Both girls' and boys' All-Star teams will convene again June 11 for a week's practice. The first game of the series is June 18 at Market Square Arena in Indianapolis. The rematch is June 25 at Rupp Arena, Lexington.

Miss Shepherd is the daughter of Oakie and Cassie Shepherd, of Langley.

CRAFT IDEAS

You can do your own flower drying with inexpensive household materials. Sprinkle a mixture of one part borax to two parts corn meal into an empty shoe box and place the flower on the mixture. Then, gently cover the entire flower with more mixture. Seal the box with tape and store at room temperature in a dry place for seven to ten days. Pour the mixture from the box, lift out the flower and clean off any clinging material with a soft artist's brush. You can also use this method to preserve bridal bouquets.

Health Plan Hearing Slated Here, May 10

In response to requests from the public, the Cabinet for Human Resources and the State Health Planning Council will conduct "satellite hearings" on the preliminary state health plan at four locations across the state. The hearings are in addition to the previously publicized hearing in Frankfort.

All five hearings will be on Thursday, May 19. Members of the council and the state staff will be available to hear comments, which will be considered in the council's deliberations on the state health plan.

Originally, only one public hearing had been scheduled. Additional sites had been requested by people who felt the plan warranted more opportunities for public comment.

The hearings in this area will be held in the auditorium of Prestonsburg Community College, beginning at 10 a.m.

Persons interested in submitting written comments must do so on or before May 17. Written comments should be directed to the Division of State Health Planning, Department for Health Services, 275 E. Main St., Frankfort, Ky. 40621.

Miss Fugate, who attends McDowell High School, was nominated for this national award by Glenda Marshall, a mathematics teacher at the school. She will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, published nationally.

Miss Fugate is the daughter of Mrs. Thelma Fugate. The grandparents are Thelma Jones, of Martin, and Willie Fugate, of Louisa.

Says Truckers Need Not Pay Special Tax

Wayne T. Rutherford, president of the Mountain Truckers Association, an association mostly of coal truckers, has advised the Association's members that coal truckers no longer need to pay the weight-distance tax.

The weight-distance tax, which is 2.85 cents per mile travelled, loaded or empty, was enacted by the 1982 Legislature. The Legislature also, however, enacted a related bill (S.B. 144), which gave "natural resource haulers" the option to pay a severance tax instead of the weight-distance tax. The Department of Transportation never implemented S.B. 144, however, and coal truckers and other haulers of natural resources have been subjected to the weight-distance tax, according to Rutherford.

Rutherford states "...the issue was clarified by action of Franklin Circuit Judge Henry Meigs on April 26. Judge Meigs put in to force an injunction which prevents the Department of Transportation from attempting to enforce in any manner the weight-distance tax."

Rutherford cautions the truckers, however, that Judge Meigs' order could later be changed. He states "we are optimistic that the Judge will permanently take the weight-distance tax off the coal truckers, as the Legislature intended, but we have no guarantee of that. All we know for sure is that, as of now, the tax is not to be enforced. We will continue to monitor the legal situation, and to work with the coal industry, local trucking associations, and others who are litigating and otherwise involved in this issue. We will keep truckers informed as to future developments."

RETURN FROM FISHING TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Garrett, James Alex and Leslie DeRossett have returned from a fishing trip at Douglas Lake, Rogersville, Tennessee. During their trip they visited the Smokey Mountains, Gatlinburg and Pigeon Forge. They also spent some time at Pusser Museum, named for Buford Pusser, on whose life the movie, "Walking Tall," was based.

★ CONSUMER ALERT ★

"Everyone is looking for inflation-fighting tips. One way to save is to shop at stores that offer discounts to cash-paying customers," says Attorney General Steven L. Beshear.

Cash discounts were authorized in the United States in 1975. The Fair Credit Billing Act allowed merchants who accepted credit cards to offer cash discounts if they complied with strict posting rules.

In 1981, Congress removed the ceiling or discounts and lessened the posting requirements. Merchants can offer any amount of discount to cash customers. Customers may be informed of this discount in any manner as long as it's displayed "clearly and conspicuously."

Cash discounts are possible because merchants pay a processing fee for each credit card sale made. Fees range from two to five percent of the sale. The amount is based on the size and sales volume of the retailer. The larger the retailer and the volume, the smaller the fee. For example, a small store will receive only $47.50 from a $50 credit card purchase, while a large store will receive $49 from the same purchase. The store must wait, usually three months, before receiving the funds.

Results of a 1982 survey for the National Credit Union Association show that an overwhelming majority of merchants, 94 percent, do not offer cash discounts and most were unaware that they could. The other six percent offered substantial discounts ranging from 10 to 20 percent.

Attorney General Beshear advises that "discounts for cash benefit both the retailer and the consumer." Retailers could advertise cash discount policies, which could result in more business. In addition, merchants would get immediate cash in return for goods and services. Cash sales would eliminate the fee that would otherwise be paid to credit card companies. The consumer would benefit directly from the cash discount rate by spending less money. This would also eliminate end of the month bills for the consumer.

It costs retailers to let customers use credit cards. This extra cost is passed along to consumers in higher prices for everyone, just like all overhead expenses. Supporters of cash discount programs contend that it's unfair for cash-paying customers to bear the extra costs for services used only by charge account customers.

Although the law permits merchants to offer discounts for cash, it does not allow them to put a surcharge on credit card sales. Retailers may post the credit card price, then deduct a discount for a cash sale. They may post both a credit card price and a cash price. If only a discounted cash price is posted, and credit card shoppers are charged a higher price, this is illegal.

"Encourage merchants to give discounts. This process is not costly or difficult, and does not require special approval from any federal agency," says Attorney General Beshear. "Cash discounts can save consumers money."

For more information or if you have a consumer question or complaint, call or write the Attorney General's Office, Consumer Protection Division 209 St. Clair Street, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40601, or call the toll free Consumer Hotline: 1-800-432-9257.

LET'S SET THE RECORD STRAIGHT!

Carla Boyd has said she was fired from her job in the County Clerk's Office when Tommy Lafferty, Jr., was appointed.

We, the undersigned, want to set the record straight. When Tommy Lafferty took over the Clerk's office, Carla Boyd or no other employee was fired. What actually happened was that Carla Boyd QUIT her job. She was asked to stay on and help with the transition, but refused to. We feel like it's time for the truth to be told.

CARLA BOYD was NOT FIRED. SHE QUIT. We are making this statement because we want to end the misrepresentations and rumors.

LOUISA

UNUSUAL FOR LAWRENCE

Old animosities, fanned into flame, resulted last Thursday in the shooting of Dora Blanton by Charles Burgess at Burgess' home about two miles below Richardson. Blanton was shot through the left chest by a bullet from a .38 caliber revolver. He will recover, his physician says.

Authentic information of the shooting is lacking. However, it is known that the affray is the outgrowth of an affair a few weeks ago when Blanton shot Burgess with a shotgun, injuring him slightly. Last Thursday Blanton was passing the Burgess home in a wagon and met Burgess while he was feeding his hogs in a hog lot near the road. The shooting followed.

Burgess claimed that as they met, Blanton made a motion as if to draw a gun and that he fired in self defense. Blanton claims that he did not make the motion and did not even have a gun.

Burgess fired only one shot. It pierced Blanton's left chest about three inches above his heart, puncturing his lung, and came out at his back. He is at his home and is getting along nicely under the care of Dr. T. D. Burgess.

Burgess came to town last week and gave up to Police Judge W. B. Clayton. He waived examining trial and was released on a $2,000 bond.

Burgess is about 30 years of age and Blanton about 43.

WELKIN MUSTA RANG!

Charley—John C. Miller, who won the prize at the fair for being the best fox hound caller, reports that on his way home he met his dog coming, running at full speed as if he had heard his master calling him. Mr. Miller further states that he has four eye witnesses to prove his statement, one being a preacher.

LOSE TO ALUMNI

Louisa High School lost its first football game of the season last Friday to the alumni team, 8 to 0.

A touchdown by Radcliffe in the second quarter, and a safety by Marcum in the last few moments of the game gave the alumni their eight points. Radcliffe ran 45 yards for the touchdown after intercepting a pass thrown by Capt. See. At no time was the high school closer than 15 yards of the alumni goal posts.

Forward passes gained many yards for the alumni, but the high school lost yardage when they resorted to aerial attacks. The alumni completed six out of ten passes, the high school four out of nine.

AGED WOMAN AUTO VICTIM

Miss Nan Miles, aged about 75, died in the Riverview hospital here Saturday night from injuries received earlier in the day when an automobile driven by Miss Eva Thompson, of near Busseyville, struck her as she was returning to the poor farm where she stayed as a county charge.

She had been in Louisa during the day and had started early in the afternoon to walk to the poor farm. Shortly meeting the Thompson car she crossed the road and into the path of the car, it is said. Miss Thompson then swerved her car to the left to miss her, and at the same time Miss Miles attempted to get out of the way and stepped again into the path of the auto and was run over. Miss Miles was brought to the hospital here where she died at 7:30 p. m., from internal injuries. The accident was purely unavoidable, it is said.

Ben Miles, of Louisa, is a brother of the deceased. Other brothers live in Ashland. Miss Miles was formerly known here where she had worked in many families.

LOUISA AVIATOR WINS IN DERBY

John P. Woods, of Louisa, came in fourth in the class A National Air Derby, flying from Long Island, New York, to Spokane, Wash., according to associated press news dispatches. Fifteen planes started in the race.

Prizes announced for the class A race are: First, $5,000; second, $3,000; third, $1,000; fourth, $500, and fifth, $250.

One plane in class A crashed, with fatal results. Three others were forced out. Three were delayed, but reported still ready to go on.

DEAN, MAKER OF VIOLINS

A violin made by Benton Dean, C. & O. carpenter on the Big Sandy, who lives on Tabor's Creek a few miles below Fort Gay, received a lot of admiration here Sunday when Mr. Dean showed it to a number of people at the depot. It was made of spruce, dogwood and maple and was of excellent workmanship. It could not be distinguished from a bought violin. Mr. Dean said he had been four months making it, working spare time. He valued it at $100.

Mr. Dean makes violins and sells them. He has made six in the last two years and has sold three of them for handsome prices. He has also made a mandolin.—News.

PIKEVILLE

PIONEER MINISTER DEAD

Rev. W. R. Collins passed away Monday morning, September 12, at his old home on Frozen Creek. He was 86 years and 8 days old. Mr. Collins was well-known through the county and was loved by all who knew him. He was born in Tazewell county, September 4, 1841, and came to Pike county when he was twelve years old. He made his home with his brother, Andy, on Johns Creek, until his marriage. He married Louisa Charles, February 25, 1866. She was born on December 8, 1839, and died February 19, 1911. They were survived by nine children, seven living and two dead: Mary E., who died March 26, 1927; John R. Collins, who died April 25, 1891; Jeff Collins, of Choe Creek; Mont Collins, of Pikeville; Mrs. Catherine Maynard, of Ohio; Green, Jack, Tom and Ep, of Raccoon. Mr. Collins has 61 grandchildren and 100 great-grandchildren.

He began preaching at the age of 43. The first introductory sermon delivered by Elder W. R. Collins was on August 31, 1884, from Eph., 2nd chapter and 8th verse, "By grace ye are saved." The burial took place Wednesday, September 14, in the Collins cemetery. There was a large crowd who attended. The preachers were W. H. Thacker and H. W. Blair.

OCTOGENARIAN SHOT

Lendo Reynolds, 80, who was shot in a dry raid near his home on Grapevine Creek, was brought to the Methodist hospital here.

Dr. M. D. Flanery, who is treating him, said he was shot through the left shoulder and that another shot entered near the center of the chest and passed out at the right side and through the right arm.

Reynolds did not present his shotgun at the officers, according to the wounded man's story, but stepped back and started to set the gun down when he was shot. The gun, he claims, was not loaded.

He had four squirrels that he had just killed.

The whisky found by the officers and which led to the shooting was in a garden belonging to Reynolds' son-in-law, according to Reynolds.

MINER DIES FROM INJURIES

Injuries received by Michael Thurmond when slate fell on him while working at the Pond Creek By-Product Collieries proved fatal Monday afternoon while the injured man was on his way to the hospital at Huntington.

Thurmond was injured while working Monday morning when slate fell on him fracturing his skull, as well as cutting him about the face and bruising him about the body. Before leaving for the hospital Dr. Conley, of Williamson, attended the injured man and held little hope for his recovery.

The body was returned to Williamson Tuesday morning and was buried in the West Williamson cemetery that afternoon.

MOVE TO ASHLAND

Captain Lindsey P. Johns and his attractive wife, left last week for Ashland where they will make their future home. Captain Johns has a distinguished war record, having met his wife, who is a Russian, while in Siberia. She was also engaged in war work, being connected with the Red Cross Society. This patriotic couple have many friends in Pikeville who deplore their going away. For several years Mr. Johns has been connected with the Pikeville Ice Company.

Captain Johns and Captain Roberts, who is also well known here, have gone into business together. Their firm will be that of Accountancy, with headquarters at Ashland.

Professor Lewis, together with sixteen members of the Pikeville Band, went to Louisa for three days last week and furnished the music for the Lawrence County Fair. This is an honor for Pikeville boys and girls to be called to go to other towns on the Big Sandy.—News.

OPTIMISM

By C. M. CHILDERS

It's a pretty good world after all, And we ought to be glad we are here; We may trip, we may stumble and fall, But there's always a message of cheer;

There's always a light in the gloom, If we look for the light, as we should, And the flowers are always in bloom, You could see them right now, if you would.

There's always a comforting thought, Though the day or the night may be drear, If you look for the best, as you ought, You'll find something good, never fear.

Make the most of the good in your way, And your troubles will soon appear small, Then you'll feel, and you'll think, and you'll say: "It's a pretty good world after all!"

DRILL GAS WELL ON ROCK FORK

Hueysville, Ky., Oct. 2 (Spl.)—Wm. Sexton, superintendent of the Hueysville field of New Domain Oil and Gas Company, reports a gas well drilled in by Ed Patton and Ira Smith, drillers for the contractors who drilled the well for his company, averaging about 382,000 cubic feet of gas per day. This is well No. 3, Esther Horton farm, Rock Fork. Drilling was finished Tuesday night, Sept. 27.

Mr. Sexton thinks another well will be drilled near the present one soon, as two well sites were surveyed before the present gasse was begun. The gas from this well will be sold to the Louisville Gas and Electric Company, whose large conveyance line runs up Rock Fork within a half mile of the present well. Connections for joining to the large line have already been made.

DROUTH HINDERS WORK

The Distell-Martin Oil and Gas Company, now drilling a well on the property of "Aunt" Polly Allen near here, had to do some extra work when Salt Lick, the creek which had heretofore been furnishing water for their boiler, became stubborn and went dry. A pump had to be set up on the property of J. W. Huff, enabling them to get water from main Beaver Creek. Oak Osborn is "running" the pump.

WORK ON PIPE LINE

Probably more workmen than this section of the county has ever before witnessed, are now to be seen going to or from the large pipe line being laid up Salt Lick. Daily some new workmen are to be seen getting off the train, inquiring about the camp. It is reported that several cooks are kept busy preparing food for the workers, and from this one may gain some idea of the size of this job's following.

CHILD DIES

Lester Sexton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sexton, of Salt Lick, and his wife, Mrs. Pearlie Sexton, mourn the loss of their year-old baby. The child died early Saturday morning, and burial was made in Hayes cemetery near Garrett. The cause of the child's death is not known, it appears. Mr. Sexton and family are citizens of Lackey.

ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the Christian Church of this county was held here Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The attendance was very large; in fact, many people say it was the largest attendance given this church in several years. Mrs. Virgie Allen and Mrs. Marie Smith, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Webb, of Knott county, both joined the church and were baptized Sunday. Several ministers were present, and nearly all of them delivered sermons. The crowd broke up Sunday evening, most of the visitors leaving on the evening train.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Damron, teachers here, visited Pikeville Saturday and Sunday, returning here Sunday.

Mrs. Dolly Huff, wife of J. W. Huff, is recovering very slowly from her recent illness.

Mrs. Cora Duncan, who recently underwent an operation at General Hospital, Ashland, has returned here and is doing much better.

Troy Reed and Everett Patton visited Lackey Theater Sunday.

T. J. Herald, of Alvin, was in Prestonsburg Saturday.

WOMAN'S CLUB TO INSTALL OFFICERS

The GFWC/Prestonsburg Woman's Club will hold its annual installation of officers tomorrow (Thursday) night, May 5, at the Arts and Crafts House.

Mrs. Guialene Smith, Governor, Seventh District, KFWC, will speak on "Federation" and will install the officers for the coming year.

CRAFT IDEAS

Candles you make yourself can add a special sparkle to your home. Whether you use a kit, a mold or hand dip them, there's a special way to treat your wicks.

Dissolve one tablespoon of table salt and three tablespoons of a product such as 20 Mule Team Borax in one cup of warm water.

When IRS Says You Owe and You Disagree

The Internal Revenue Service has just examined your Federal tax return. The examiner says you owe; you say you don't. What's your next move? Pay unquestioningly? Not at all, says IRS.

If this happens, you have several avenues of appeal. First, if the examination took place in an IRS office, ask to speak to the examiner's supervisor. You may well be able to resolve your case then and there.

But if you don't agree after talking with the supervisor, or if the examination was made in someplace other than an IRS office and there was no agreement, you will receive a transmittal letter from IRS, notifying you of your right to appeal the proposed adjustment within 30 days.

Bear in mind that interest generally accrues on the amount of the adjustment from the due date of the return to the date you pay. Some taxpayers might find paying the assessment to avoid the possibility of additional interest more to their benefit.

If after reviewing the examination report you are still not satisfied, you have the right to appeal within the Service, or the option of going directly to court.

An informal appeals conference can be arranged by sending a request to the local District Director of Service Center Director. Details are in the transmittal letter.

While this system is the responsibility of the Regional Director of Appeals—there are seven throughout the country—actual locations for appeals conferences are conveniently located. Keep in mind, though, at any time during these procedures, you have the right to take your case to court.

The free IRS Publication 556, "Examination of Returns, Appeal Rights, and Claims for Refund," has more information on your right of appeal, what to do should you decide to go to court, and your choices along the way.

Remember, even when a tax examination is not resolved the way you think it should be, there are several avenues of appeal to insure a fair resolution to your tax case.

Eyeglasses For Haiti

Persons with old, discarded eyeglasses for Haiti are asked to leave them in their church or one of the following stores: Mountain Mission, Martin; Ben Franklin, Prestonsburg; Sandy Valley Hardware, Allen; Jones' Grocery, Maytown; Conley Kentucky Food Store, Garrett.

Pastors and lay workers in churches wanting to help are reminded to call attention to a box in the vestibule, where eyeglasses should be left till June 1. Congregations should be reminded to bring them, from now till that date, then call the Rev. Bob Varney, pastor of Maytown First Baptist Church (285-5131), and some member will pick them up shortly.

Many churches have consented to cooperate in this opportunity to assist needy people of a poverty-stricken nation, at no expense. The glasses will be taken to Haiti by members of the Joe Mobley Crusade for Christ, of London, Kentucky.

Marine Wins $37,000 In Reemployment Suit

WASHINGTON—A disabled Marine veteran has been awarded more than $37,000 in back pay as a result of a suit brought at the request of the U.S. Labor Department against the city of Philadelphia for failing to reinstate the veteran in a job after he returned from military service.

Joseph F. Ryan, Jr., 33, of Philadelphia, sought help from the department's Office of Veterans' Reemployment Rights (OVR) when the city failed to reinstate him in a job with similar seniority, status, and pay to his former position as required by law. Ryan had worked as a corrections officer but, for medical reasons, was unable to continue in that job.

Ryan served in the Marine Corps in Vietnam in the late 1960s. He worked for the city of Philadelphia from 1971 until 1976, when he took a leave of absence from his job to re-enlist.

After being honorably discharged for medical reasons in 1980, Ryan applied for reemployment with the city but was not rehired. He then sought assistance from OVR.

As a result of meetings with OVR, the city conceded that Ryan was entitled to reemployment but asserted that his medical condition prevented him from resuming his former job as a corrections officer.

The city subsequently offered Ryan three positions but they were not similar in pay to his former position. After failing to work out a voluntary settlement with the city, OVR referred the case to the Justice Department which filed suit on behalf of Ryan.

Under the federal veterans' reemployment rights law, veterans are entitled to reinstatement to their preservice job or, if they are incapable of performing that job because of a service connected disability, to a job they can perform with comparable seniority, status, and pay.

Judge Clifford Scott Green of the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania therefore ordered the city of Philadelphia to pay Ryan $37,291 in back pay and interest.

Teacher-Writer Killed in Crash

Dr. Leonard W. Roberts, 71, of Stanville, Pikeville College professor, folklorist and author, was almost instantly killed last Friday morning when his auto was struck by a dump truck at the intersection of the Mare Creek road and US 23 at Stanville.

State Police said the collision occurred at 10:25 a.m. when Dr. Roberts pulled out of the Mare Creek road onto US 23 and attempted to make a left turn to drive toward Pikeville. He drove into the path of an oncoming truck driven by Charles H. Lytton, of Blacksburg, Va. No charges were filed against Lytton.

A native of the Toler Creek section of this county, he was a son of the late Louis Jackson Roberts and Rhoda Jane Osborn Roberts. He had been a professor of English literature at Pikeville College the last 15 years.

Dr. Roberts was the author of four books on folklore and numerous pamphlets and was a collector of Appalachian folk tales. His most recent book, "Handbook of American Folklore," was released only a few days prior to his death. Dr. Roberts was a regular participant in the Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival at Jenny Wiley State Park where he conducted the Story Hour for children.

He received his bachelor's degree from Berea College, the master's from Iowa State University and the Ph.D. degree from the University of Kentucky. Dr. Roberts saw Army service during the 1930s and was a member of the Presbyterian Church. He was a past president of the American Folklore Society, was a member of the Big Sandy and Pike County Historical Societies and of the Preservation Council of Pike County.

Surviving are his wife, Edith Reynolds Roberts, of Stanville; four daughters, Mrs. Sue Carolyn Atkins, Jeffersonville, Ind., Mrs. Margaret Ann Biller, Baltimore, Md., Mrs. Rita Helen Kelly and Mrs. Lynnedda Jane Denny, both of Nashville, Tenn.; six brothers, Vernon, Dale and Sam Roberts, all of Toler Creek, Virgil Roberts, Williamson, W. Va., Elmer Roberts, Taylor, Mich., and Carl Roberts, Ashland, Ky.; three sisters, Mrs. Mary B. Counts, Xenia, O., Mrs. Arminta Stephenson, Prescott, Ariz., and Mrs. Fantina Painter, Baltimore, Md., and six grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at 1 p.m. Monday in the chapel of the Justice-Baker Funeral Home, Pikeville, and burial was made in Davidson Memorial Gardens at Ivel.

For seat belts to provide maximum protection in the event of an accident they should not be twisted or turned and the lap belt must be positioned low (not pressing against the abdomen).

In memory of my mother, Helen H. Allen—Mother's Day, 1983.

There is a love I'll always cling to...one that never will grow old, a love that will mellow with the years...the sweetest story told...

A love that goes beyond the depths of the deepest sea...ever and ever faithful...heavenly to me...A love of sacrifice and tears...truly beyond compare...divinely understanding...always willing to share...A love warm as the ocean breeze—possessing magic power to put my heart at ease. My mother was my treasured love...by word and deed I'll try to show my love for her, now that we have said goodbye.

Great Chefs Series To Be Aired On KET

"Great Chefs of New Orleans" takes the drop-by-the-kitchen approach in featuring 13 of the city's best-known chefs. The series begins on KET Sunday, May 22, at 6:30 p.m.

When it came to the selection of dishes for the shows, John Beyer, WYES producer-director, decided to leave it up to each chef, taking care to avoid duplication. While visitors to New Orleans mistakenly think only French or Creole when it comes to cuisine, the "Great Chefs" series shows the cosmopolitan nature of the city: classic German, Italian and Chinese are represented here as well.

Two of the chefs featured are Chef Warren Le Ruth of "Le Ruth's," who prepares Shrimp Remoulade, Medallions of Pork, Cap Bread and Genoise with Amaretto and Chocolate, and Chef Goffredo Fraccaro of "La Rivera," who makes Fried Squid, Ravioli Stuffed with Crab, Brocciolone, Broccoli Italian Style and Custard Cups with Strega. A pleasing "side-dish" to the series is the incidental music played throughout by the Dukes of Dixieland.

Looking back at Nashville

Archie Campbell

"Yesteryear" in Nashville, a history of country music, airs daily on The Nashville Network, hosted by veteran country comedian Archie Campbell ("Hee Haw"). The show looks at a country music personality or institution, using historic film clips, audio tracks and interviews.

"Yesteryear" implies we're talking to the people who've been in the business for years and years. Not so. We talk to people who've been in country five or six years who have a great background, people who are popular today," Campbell said in a telephone interview from Tennessee.

"We have talked to some of the first people to ever appear on the Grand Ole Opry, but that doesn't mean that we don't plan to have on people like Dolly Parton and Roy Clark."

Among the personalities already interviewed on "Yesteryear" are Roy Acuff, Chet Atkins, Minnie Pearl and Kitty Wells, all members of the Country Music Hall of Fame.

"We get the inside stories from the stars themselves, and, boy do they tell some strange stories. It's something that you can sit at home and identify with."

"We keep it very simple. You can enjoy this show without thinking. We stay away from the controversial and the intellectual and stick to fun tales that people like to hear about," Campbell said.

Letters to the Editor

Says Faith Not Kept
With Vietnam Veterans

I am writing this letter because I have something on my mind that has been bothering me for the past two or three years.

The point is that the state of Kentucky and the United States have not kept the faith with our Vietnam veterans.

When I was discharged from the Army in the late 40's, we were given $300 in mustering out pay, plus the G.I. Bill of Rights which included pay for going to school, good V.A. hospitals, a loan of up to $10,000 to buy a house. This loan was backed by the government. Also, we were given $20 a week for 52 weeks or until we found a job.

In my opinion, there is not a bit of difference between the men who went into service in 1941 and the men who went to Vietnam in the 60's and 70's, except for one thing. In 1941, the United States was attacked by Japan, so the President, with the blessing of the Senate and the Congress declared war on Japan. In the case of Vietnam, the House and Senate did not declare war on anyone, but because we had some kind of treaty with these people, this gave the President the power to send thousands of troops to Vietnam. These countries did not then, nor do they now, care one thing about us except for what they can get from us. France fought these same people for about seven years before they gave up and pulled out. I do not believe we were thrashed because our troops were not as good as in other wars, but because government tried to fight and win with one hand tied behind their back.

After this action was over and we were forced to pull out, most of the prisoners we got back were air force officers. Where are all our enlisted men, the backbone of any army? When these men came home, they were not given as much as a pat on the back by our state or our Federal government, nor by very many of our citizens. Sir, how would you and I feel if we were put in that position?

I feel that the state of Kentucky and the United States as a whole should give these men and/or their survivors a bonus, of, let's say $500. I feel it is about time this injustice be corrected. It is not the amount of money we give them that is so important, as it is to show them that what they did was just as important, in principle, as what the men in World War II did.

We lost 50 to 60 thousand men in Vietnam. These men are just as dead, just as wounded, just as uncertain about their lives, and in more cases have just as many mental problems as the men in World War II.

Governor Brown is in a position to help get a bill such as this passed, but to do it in his term he would have to call a special session of the House. I do not think anyone in the state would be against it. Let Kentucky be the first state in the union to do this and I am sure the other states would follow. If the state says they do not have the money to do this, then lets slap a tax on whiskey and smokes until it is paid.

I would like to see this be an issue in the upcoming governor's race. We owe these men. If we all pull together as one party and work for this and it is passed, we can give God the honor and the glory.

Imports—
A Part of Our Lives

This could be the average American who faces each new day after sleeping on sheets and blankets (Korea), is awakened by his Timex (Hongkong), slips on his robe (Taiwan), loads his Norelco coffeemaker (Belgium) with coffee (Brazil), takes a quick shave with his Schick electric razor (Germany), eats breakfast with flatware (Korea), lights up a Camel (Turkish blend) with a butan lighter (Hongkong), dresses up in a Sears shirt (Korea), a Sears suit (Hongkong), tie (Singapore), shoes (Italy), picks up his Bulova (Switzerland), gets in his Toyota (Japan), goes to his office and uses machines (Japan), stops on his way home for gas (Saudi Arabia crude) and at home turns on the TV (Japan) or radio (same), or picks up the newspaper (Canadian newsprint) to read all about the problems of the unemployed, why so many of the highly paid American jobs have disappeared, and wonder why we can no longer afford to buy American—and then try to decide who is to blame.

This person might just be any of us.

Thanks from Sheriffs

We wish to extend our heartfelt 'thanks' to each Kentuckian who has either joined the Kentucky Sheriffs Association or contributed in some way to the Kentucky Sheriffs Boys and Girls Ranch in Gilbertsville, Ky.

We receive no federal or state funds, consequently we could not survive without the generosity of each Kentuckian helping these underprivileged nine through 13 year old boys and girls who get to attend a free week of camping.

The first week at the Sheriffs' Ranch will begin June 5th this year. We encourage all churches, civic clubs, and social organizations to contact their sheriff's office and get an application if they know of a needy child that would not otherwise get an opportunity to attend.

Each county in Kentucky has a quota to fill of both boys and girls, and we hope they can fill their quota and send their county's youngsters.

Please start thinking about helping these unfortunate children and again thanks for helping your sheriffs and deputy sheriffs help others.

Advice For Motorists

As the peak tourism months approach in central Kentucky, the construction that has reduced traffic to two lanes on I-75 at Clay's Ferry will continue to create extremely frustrating driving.

The Blue Grass Automobile Club-AAA suggests these alternate routes, which may help alleviate part of this unfortunate situation.

Heading South on I-75: Exit at 104. Follow State Route 418 to U.S. 25 South. Take Exit 95 back to I-75 South.

Heading North on I-75: Take Exit 95. Follow U.S. 25 North to State Route 418 East. Take Exit 104 to I-75 North.

Leaving Lexington: Take U.S. 27. South to U.S. 150 to Mt. Vernon, and on to I-75 South.

These alternate routes should be clearly marked. If you have any questions concerning the construction at I-75 and Clay's Ferry, contact our Automobile Travel Department in Lexington at 233-1111. Motorists outside Lexington can call toll-free at 1-800-432-0996. The major delays are reported to occur on weekends from 4-6 p.m. during the week.

Are you a daydreamer? No need to be ashamed, psychologists say. Your waking musings aren't just a waste of time. They can often work for you—to meet the stress of life and even solve problems. Nearly everybody else daydreams too! Another way to ease tension is to sit back and relax with a nice cup of hot tea. It's a pleasant accompaniment to any daydreamy afternoon.

Derby Day Breakfast Returns To Capital

The Derby Day Governor's Breakfast—returned to its rightful place in the Capital City this year—will be surrounded by one of the most extensive musical and entertainment programs ever, according to Lynda Jalbert of the Department of the Arts and Steve Wilson, of the Commerce Cabinet, who planned this year's event.

The breakfast, for which an invitation is required, runs from 8 a.m. to noon on Derby Day, May 7, but the "country fair" activities and entertainment on the grounds between the capitol and the annex will continue until 2 p.m.

Jalbert said that tickets for the Derby Breakfast accompany the invitations this year, "and the tickets will be necessary to get into the breakfast tent."

Headliners on the entertainment list at the Derby Day affair in Frankfort will be country and western stars Tom T. Hall, Merle Travis and Kenny Price; famous jazz artist Al Hirt, and popular comedienne Lilly Tomlin.

Kentucky's talented Juggernaut Jug Band out of Louisville and the Deep South Cloggers, four youngsters from Jackson, Ky., will also perform during the day-long festivities.

In addition to the musical entertainment, the grounds surrounding the breakfast tent and the Governor's Mansion will sport some 25 Kentucky Craft booths with items for sale, and a number of Kentucky visual artists with displays and sales of their work.

Also on display, in the Derby Breakfast Tent, will be Kentucky's largest handmade quilt, the 30 X 30 foot "Kentucky Flower Basket" quilt designed by Mrs. Melzie Wilson, of Louisville, and created by quilters from all over the state. It was assembled recently at Locust Grove in Louisville by Kentucky quilters, and will be used on the Derby float of Humana, Inc., of Louisville.

Festivities at the breakfast and the day-long "fair" will include clowns on stilts, with balloons and riding big-wheel bicycles and unicycles, jugglers, a magician, hot air balloons, vendors selling cotton candy, popcorn, hotdogs and soft drinks—"Really all the color and fun of a big country fair," said Jalbert.

Parking will be available in the capitol annex garage and around the capitol, but to avoid the congestion in that area, parking is also being made available and shuttle buses being run from the Human Resources parking lots, the state office building lots and from the capitol plaza tower parking facilities. Buses will begin their services at 7:30 a.m. and the last run will leave the capitol at 2:30 p.m. to return to these parking facilities.

MSHA Chief Cites Mine Fatality Drop

Mining fatalities in the first quarter of 1983 "strongly continue" last year's declining trends in mine deaths and injuries, Assistant Secretary Ford B. Ford of the Labor Department's Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA) announced.

According to preliminary MSHA figures, there were 10 coal mining fatalities in January-March of 1983, compared with 43 during the same period in 1982. In metal and nonmetal (non-coal) mining, MSHA recorded 14 fatalities in the first three months of this year. Metal and nonmetal mining operations also reported 14 fatalities in January-March of 1982, a period when many surface non-coal operations were temporarily exempted from reporting work-related fatalities to MSHA under provisions contained in stopgap funding legislation.

Ford announced the fatality statistics April 19 at a regional health and safety conference of industry, labor and government sponsored by MSHA in Dallas, Texas.

Ford noted that the decrease in mine fatalities continued a trend established last year, when coal mining deaths declined from 153 to 122, and metal and nonmetal mining fatalities decreased from 84 to a historical low of 68. The rate of total reportable injuries also declined in 1982: in coal mining, from 8.92 to 8.06 per 200,000 employee-hours, and in metal and nonmetal mining from 5.75 to 4.49.

"The mining community's efforts towards greater cooperation, I feel sure, deserve much credit for these improvements," Ford told approximately 100 representatives of the South Central U.S. mining industry, labor, government and other mining-related institutions, who met for two days of discussions on current mine safety needs and problems. "It's my hope that this meeting will help strengthen this cooperation and, in turn, help bring still greater improvements in mine safety and health."

Since June of 1982, MSHA has held 10 joint health and safety conferences to improve communications on safety and health among the various sectors of the mining community.

PEST OF ALL TIMES

Cockroaches have remained virtually unchanged from more than 300 million years ago, when they were the most prevalent creatures on earth.

The cockroach has no natural enemies, and is extremely adaptable to various environments. A healthy female can produce thousands of offspring during her lifetime. Cockroaches are even immune to levels of radiation fatal to higher life forms.

Who Will Listen to Minstrel Who Sings of Clean Streams?

If big, corporate polluters could be persuaded by folk singer Pete Seeger to clean up New York's Hudson River in the late 60s, Michael Johnathon ought to be able to persuade eastern Kentuckians to clean up the streams and byways here.

At least that's what Michael Johnathon thinks. And if someone will give him a little financial backing he can prove it, he says.

A singer and songwriter, Johnathon, 26, grew up in the Hudson Valley town of Wappingers Falls in New York's Dutchess county. For the past three years he has made his home at Mousie in Knott county.

A year ago, he cut an album called The Blast, the title song an eerie projection of the human wasteland following a nuclear explosion. But these days his repertoire runs more to songs about trash-written, he says, to help "reshape kids' attitudes to the environment."

In one song, for example, he takes a wry look at the tattered shreds of plastic diapers hanging in the branches of trees along the Big Sandy and marking to this day the apogee of the 1977 flood.

"I don't want to depress or scold the kids," he said this week. "But if they can be impressed by their mountain heritage, they're not going to want it messed up."

After trying out some of his songs at Prestonsburg Elementary this winter and then taping another performance at Martin grade school, Johnathon put to Phyllis George Brown his idea of a series of concerts to be tied in with environmental education in the schools and clean-up projects in the community.

The First Lady referred him to Natural Resources Secretary Jackie Swigart who put him in touch with the director of the Kentucky Clean Community System (CCS) Program. Under the program, state personnel come into the schools for six weeks with a slide and movie presentation—which they give themselves or train local teachers to give—designed to heighten students' awareness of the environment.

At the end of the classroom phase, Johnathon enters with banjo and guitar as a kind of environmental troubadour, putting on a concert for the whole school—"the cherry on the ice-cream," he describes it—to clinch the lesson.

The operation costs about 45 cents per student. To offer it free to students, somebody else has to pick up the tab. Chevron, the oil giant, is sponsoring a six-week program in Louisville in September, during which Johnathon will give at least 52 concerts. In Frankfort, Covington and the Knott county community of Carrs Fork, small businesses have chipped in to help defray the cost.

Maybe a national soft drink manufacturer or a big coal company will get the idea here, he hopes.

The state-coordinated CCS programs are local non-profit organizations aimed at reducing litter and promoting better solid waste management by changing people's attitudes toward littering and so changing their behavior. Widely used in "Waste in Place," a K-6 curriculum developed by Keep America Beautiful, Inc.

In addition to the classroom presentations on issues like litter reduction and recycling, Frankfort students who recently participated in the program visited the local landfill and wrote and recorded public service announcements for local radio stations.

Johnathon, who is billed as the "Appalachian Troubadour," likes to tell of returning home last summer and fishing in the Hudson, a river that, 15 years ago, was dying if not dead.

"If multi-million dollar companies like Consolidated Edison can be persuaded to clean up the environment, it can work here where people want it done," he said.

Good Health Habits Help You Beat the Odds

What do uncontrolled high blood pressure, overweight, smoking, and a high cholesterol diet have in common? They all increase your odds for getting heart disease.

How much? The answer is different for each person, depending on family history, and on how many of these "health risks" you have. Your doctor can tell you how big a chance you may be taking with your health by not controlling risks that can be modified or eliminated.

How much risk is too much? Ask yourself. Then ask your doctor for help in changing everyday habits to help you beat the odds.

Powerful Film Shows War Memorial Effect

"Welcome Home," to air on KET Monday, May 23, at 10:30 p.m. is a powerful film which follows the Minnesota veterans' delegation to the dedication of the Vietnam War Memorial in Washington, D.C.

Gary Gilson, host of a local Minnesota television series, spent three days in Washington during the November, 1982, dedication weekend interviewing Vietnam veterans and their families from Minnesota and other parts of the country. The veterans speak directly about the war, their part in it and how their experiences and injuries have affected their lives.

The veterans speak frankly about such issues as the validity of the war; the political leadership and the long-term consequences for the U.S. The film also focuses on the controversy surrounding the design of the memorial, airing an emotional dispute on the subject from within the Minnesota group.

"Welcome Home" is produced by KTCA-TV, St. Paul, Minnesota.

Good News Report

By THOMAS W. PAUKEN
Director of ACTION

Ralph Turner has always believed that everyone who can should earn their own way. Certainly he and his charming wife, Virginia, have been doing that since they met and married in journalism school at the University of Missouri more than 50 years ago. Even before he attended college, Ralph was working as a "cub" reporter. He knew exactly what he wanted to do, and so did Virginia, and they set about doing it together as reporters, feature writers, copy editors. They even tried freelancing in Paris during the height of the Depression and found that life in a garret could, indeed, play like an Italian opera.

In 1935, he joined the staff of the Schenectady Gazette in Schenectady, New York, where Ralph had grown up, and that's where he did his newspaper work for the next 42 years. Virginia left the newsroom to become a full-time mother to sons, Paul and Ralph. When Ralph Sr. retired in 1977, he was chief editorial writer and editor of the Gazette's editorial page; Paul was a professor of art and architecture at Stanford University and young Ralph was a law student, today a lawyer.

A Gazette photograph of Ralph and Virginia merrily riding their tandem bike on the first day of Spring sums up this wonderful twosome, their activities full of the zest of living and giving.

For more than 30 years Virginia has been a volunteer, a Pink Lady at Ellis Hospital in Schenectady, serving wherever she's been needed, from the emergency room to the mail room. Two years ago Ralph joined the ranks of the volunteers. He put his valuable knowledge of the English language to work and became a literacy teacher helping adults—mostly refugees from Vietnam, trying to make the difficult adjustment from the tragedy of total loss to a new beginning while learning a new, and for them, difficult language.

Today, Ralph's student is 28-year-old Qui Trinh, who escaped from Saigon with her husband and baby son. They were Boat People, risking all in their flight from Communist rule. They very nearly perished as did so many thousands of their countrymen.

In volunteering to teach Qui Trinh English, Ralph has learned about Qui and her family (her husband and three children). They are a couple earning their own way—not by handout or through welfare, but by hard work—working at jobs during the day, working at jobs together at home during the night. The language transition for Qui is difficult, but at the Turners' house she's in excellent hands, for there is an unspoken language they share that needs no translation. It's the language of determination and grit, of having faith in a way of life that makes all things possible. Ralph and Virginia have their lives as an example. And whether this proof is reflected in a photo of them riding a bicycle built for two, or their volunteer endeavors, the message comes through loud and clear: the Turners of this country are what America is all about.

Internal Parasites Can Harm Your Pets

By MAHENDRA R. VARIA, D.V.M.

Internal parasites are creatures which live at the expense of other animals. Parasites devour blood or damage the tissues of their hosts but contribute nothing in return.

Dogs and cats are exposed to and often become hosts of numerous parasites. Those in rural or suburban areas hunt and eat objects that could be sources of parasitic infections. They are exposed to many external parasites, such as fleas, ticks or mosquitoes through which internal parasites may be transmitted.

In most cases the location and activity of parasites in the dog determine the signs that the animal shows. Diarrhea is a common sign of intestinal parasitism. Anemia is a common sign of chronic parasitism. Coughing, sneezing and nasal discharges are usually observed in dogs harboring parasites in the respiratory tract. Loss of weight, dehydration and lack of appetite are the hallmarks of many chronic parasitisms.

The most common internal parasites of your pets are hookworms, roundworms, whipworms, tapeworms and heartworms.

The major signs of hookworm infection are associated with blood loss and gastrointestinal irritation—weakness, anemia, diarrhea, bloody stools and loss of appetite. Depression and death may result.

The signs associated with roundworms are related to the migration of the parasites through liver and lungs, as well as gastrointestinal irritation. Cough, nasal discharge and increased breathing rate are seen during migration through the lungs. Migration through the stomach produces distention and vomiting.

The whipworm inhabits the large bowel and cecum. Signs of whipworms depend on the number of parasites present and include intermittent diarrhea, loss of weight, anemia, abdominal pain, flatulence and "flank-sucking." Many animals with light infections may not show any signs.

As tapeworms require an intermediate host to complete their life cycle and, in this country, the vast majority of dogs and cats eat prepared food, tapeworm parasitism is not a major problem.

The females of most tapeworms produce their eggs in pouches called segments. These segments break away from the end of the worm's body and pass out in the stool from time to time. When these segments crawl from the anus of an infected animal, they may cause itching and prompt the animal to scoot on its hind end for relief. Tapeworms do not cause severe damage in animals but do cause abdominal pain and discomfort and sometimes diarrhea or constipation. The worms also rob the animal of nutrients.

Heartworms are from six to 14 inches long and 1/8 inch wide. They locate in the heart and adjacent blood vessels in infected dogs. The infection, which is transmitted by mosquitoes, is a serious problem in dogs. Severe heartworm infection can cause damage to the dog's heart and other organs before visible signs appear. The disease is in its advanced stages by the time typical symptoms—coughing, labored breathing and weakness—appear. It may lead to heart failure and death. The disease may be prevented by medication.

Diagnosis of internal parasites can be done by examination of stool, urine and blood. Some may be seen by simply looking at the stool. Tapeworm segments look like brownish rice particles; roundworms look like strings of spaghetti. Other worms are visible only under a microscope.

All worming medicines are poisonous. While the object is to poison the worm but not the dog, incorrect use can poison both. New worming medicines are continuously being developed in which toxic side effects are being reduced. At least two wormings are advised.

The keys to control and prevention of internal parasites are sanitation—stools should be removed daily; elimination of raw fish and meat from the diet; control of external parasites, such as fleas, lice, ticks and mosquitoes; worming of breeding pets before mating; good nutrition; routine examination—all very young pets should be checked when they are six weeks old or earlier if they show signs of infection and adult dogs should receive a check once a year; and isolation of an infected dog until worming is completed.

The incidence of human infection by parasites is small but there is no reason that any should occur when it is remembered that pets can be tested and, if necessary, treated for worm infections by your veterinarian.

Childbirth Regimen Available On Disc

3.7 million American women become pregnant each year—and fully half of them now choose to attend classes in prepared childbirth (childbirth educators prefer the term "prepared" childbirth, since all childbirth is natural). There was a time, not too long ago, when if a husband wanted to be with his wife during birth he would literally have had to handcuff himself to the labor room, because hospitals simply wouldn't have allowed it. But times have changed, thanks to people like Betsy Rothman, the outspoken prepared childbirth educator who has personally prepared over 500 couples for the birth of their children.

According to Rothman, founder of a Pennsylvania-based Childbirth Education Association chapter and creator of The Exercise Record for Pregnant Women, though childbirth has become more "humanized" in the last ten years, there are still many problems.

"Humans need to learn how to give birth," she says. "Just as an athlete prepared for an athletic event, a pregnant woman needs to prepare her mind and body for the birth of a baby." According to Rothman, the lingering problems facing pregnant women today include fear, the ignorance and insensitivity of doctors and nurses in the hospital towards the benefits of prepared childbirth, and an over-reliance on drugs.

The Exercise Record for Pregnant Women (CBS) is Rothman's newly-released, two-record set designed as a home study guide to exercise and health care for pregnant women taking a prepared childbirth class.

Enclosed in The Exercise Record for Pregnant Women is a booklet which includes a "Birth Plan"—a list of items to be discussed with a doctor or midwife (who to be allowed in the delivery room; whether to be restricted to bed or to get mild exercise during labor; whether or not to use high-tech devices like a fetal monitor; whether to give birth lying down, sitting, or in a variety of other unconventional but often helpful positions).

"Your doctor may not inform you of the choices available to you," says Rothman. "But it's wise to do a bit of reading. You can have your husband with you. You can be wide awake and watching when the baby first sees this world, or you can choose the comfort of anesthesia. But remember, today the only person making these decisions is not the doctor. Part of the choice is up to you."

'Mysterious Stranger' On Great Performances

What could be a better setting for a show in the middle ages than a majestic castle, high in the Austrian Alps. Mark Twain's "The Mysterious Stranger," has just such a setting. This 90-minute "Great Performances" presentation will air on KET Monday, May 23, at 9 p.m. (ET), 8 p.m. (CT).

"The Mysterious Stranger," Twain's last novel, takes a sometimes fanciful, sometimes cynical look at the passions and peevish that were threaded throughout Twain's work. This production is rich with such boyish mischief and adventure as that enjoyed by the author's two most famous creations, Huck Finn and Tom Sawyer.

The story begins in a Hannibal, Missouri, print shop in 1850. A teenaged apprentice, August Feldner (Chris Makepeace), is the brunt of the older printers' pranks. During lunch hour on a particularly trying day, young August ambles over to the banks of the Mississippi River and contemplates his cruel fate. His daydreams take him back to the 13th century to a printshop in an Austrian castle where he meets a mysterious stranger with magical powers.

"The Mysterious Stranger" is a co-production of the Nebraska ETV Network and The Great Amwell Company in association with WNET, New York.

NATIONAL FLOOD INSURANCE PROGRAM Proposed Flood Elevation Determinations

AGENCY: Federal Emergency Management Agency.

ACTION: Proposed Rule.

SUMMARY: Technical information or comments are solicited on the proposed base (100-year) flood elevations listed below for selected locations in the nation. These base (100-year) flood elevations are the basis for the flood plain management measures that the community is required to either adopt or show evidence of being already in effect in order to qualify or remain qualified for participation in the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP).

DATES: The period for comment will be ninety (90) days following the second publication of this proposed rule in a newspaper of local circulation in each community.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mr. Brian Mrazik, Ph.D. National Flood Insurance Program (202) 287-0230 Federal Emergency Management Agency Washington, D.C. 20472

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Federal Emergency Management Agency gives notice of the proposed determinations of base (100-year) flood elevations for selected locations in the nation, in accordance with Section 110 of the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 (Pub. L. 93-234), 87 Stat. 980, which added Section 1363 to the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 (Title XIII of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 (Pub. L. 90-448), 42 U.S.C. 4001-4128, and 44 CFR 67.4 (a).

These elevations, together with the flood plain management measures required by Section 60.3 of the program regulations, are the minimum that are required. They should not be construed to mean the community must change any existing ordinances that are more stringent in their flood plain management requirements. The community may at any time enact stricter requirements on its own, or pursuant to policies established by other Federal, State, or Regional entities. These proposed elevations will also be used to calculate the appropriate flood insurance premium rates for new buildings and their contents and for the second layer of insurance on existing buildings and their contents.

Pursuant to the provisions of 5 USC 605(b), the Associate Director, to whom authority has been delegated by the Director, Federal Emergency Management Agency, hereby certifies that the proposed flood elevation determinations, if promulgated, will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. A flood elevation determination under Section 1363 forms the basis for new local ordinances, which, if adopted by a local community, will govern future construction within the floodplain area. The elevation determinations, however, impose no restriction unless and until the local community voluntarily adopts floodplain ordinances in accord with these elevations. Even if ordinances are adopted in compliance with Federal standards, the elevations prescribe how high to build in the flood plain and do not proscribe development. Thus, this action only forms the basis for future local actions. It imposes no new requirement; of itself it has no economic impact.

Now Is Time To Buy a House, Is Morehead Prof.'s Advice

"Now is a great time to buy a house," advises Dr. Michael Harford, an assistant professor of real estate at Morehead State University.

"It's a buyer's market right now," he says. "The market has been so slow over the last few years that there is a good inventory of houses available, and, obviously, when buyers have a large selection to choose from, they are going to get a better price."

"Interest rates also have gone down because inflation has gone down. This makes it a good time to look for money to buy the house with."

The average price of a house in both Kentucky and the nation is $58,000, according to Dr. Harford.

Dr. Harford says a buyer, generally, can afford a house if the monthly payments and the insurance costs are not more than one-third of his take-home pay.

Buyers should search for homes that qualify for government-subsidized loans from such agencies as the FHA, FMA, VA, HUD, and the Kentucky Housing Corporation.

"These agencies may require a down payment of just three percent of the total price, while a bank may ask for as much as 20 percent."

If a buyer has an income level which is too high to qualify for government-subsidized loan, or if he just can't find one of these homes that he likes, there are other ways to help reduce the cost of a house, according to Dr. Harford.

"He can talk to bankers about houses they have foreclosed on. There is a common misconception that banks want to foreclose. When a bank forecloses, it no longer has any money coming in from that house. What makes a bank happy is getting that payment monthly, so these houses often have very favorable prices and interest rates attached to them."

Buyers may also ask the seller to finance the home.

"By doing this, the buyer should get an interest rate which is lower than one he would get from a commercial bank."

Dr. Harford believes buyers should contact their local realtors before shopping for a house.

"These people are professionals who are constantly searching for real estate values. Buyers should take advantage of their knowledge of the housing market."

Additional information on home buying is available from Dr. Harford at (606) 783-2776.

Miss Howard Among 250 Students Named Governor's Scholars

Gov. John Y. Brown, Jr. today (Wednesday) released the names of Kentucky's outstanding high school juniors chosen to attend the 1983 Governor's Scholars Program, and in the group is Miss Mina Howard, student at Prestonsburg High School.

Miss Howard is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O.R. (Pete) Howard.

The five-week special enrichment program for 250 students from public and private high schools will be held at Centre College, Danville, July 3 through August 5, and will be based on the theme, "Science, Technology and Kentucky's Future."

Students will attend free, with funds for the program provided through a partnership of government, business and education.

"I am extremely pleased by the outstanding quality and diversity of the students who will attend our first Scholars Program," Gov. Brown said. "The enthusiastic response of school officials, teachers, counselors and parents to this program shows their deep commitment to excellence in education."

Students chosen to participate come from 100 of Kentucky's 120 counties. To qualify for acceptance, students had to rank in the top 10 percent of their class and to score in the top 11 percentile in last year's statewide Comprehensive Test of Basic Skills (CTBS). Students were nominated by teachers and received high rankings on academic and intellectual achievement, as well as on such qualities as originality, creativity, independence, breadth of interest and attitudes towards other students.

Deep in a shady hollow located on the right fork of the headwaters of Newcombe Creek in Elliott county stands a marble monument to a portion of Eastern Kentucky history that few outsiders have ever seen.

Many unsung heroes have lived a lifetime here and passed on without much worldly recognition. Indeed, they would not have cared to have been called "noble" or "prestigious," as they were content to have lived a life span in the way they wanted to live it, then later placed to rest under the good earth of Kentucky Bluegrass Down Home.

The epitaph on this monument reads: "Here lays a hermit of several years of lone and solitary life, who was once bought as a slave by Raleigh Watson, and his days of flesh trod the path that led to a noble life and his remains rest on his own soil on the waters of Newcombe."

Raleigh Watson at this time was a Morgan county resident, and it was there that he purchased the young boy, Richard. Richard took the last name of his master-friend, Raleigh Watson. The Morgan section in which they lived is now called Elliott county. Dick was known to be a hard worker and not really too much was ever written about him.

Richard Watson's name appears on the headstone, and well known it was, the final resting place of the man lovingly called "Nigger Dick." The land that Richard Watson owned still carries the name of the Dick Branch. Some people still living knew Nigger Dick. The story is legend in these parts that in the mid-1800's Raleigh Watson went to a slave market in Virginia where he purchased a young mulatto woman called Mary Ann, and her daughter, Lou, along with Richard (Nigger Dick), an eight-year-old boy.

Mary Ann was said to have worked around the house with the children. Later, it was said, she became senile and wandered off, never to be found. Lou, her daughter, however, remained with the Watsons and raised their children after the death of Raleigh Watson and his wife.

Richard was still with the Watsons when Lincoln freed the slaves in 1863. It was at dinner that Raleigh told "Dick" he was a free man. He became so overjoyed and excited he turned over the table.

"Now, hold on, Dick, you are a free man but you are going to have to act like one!" exclaimed Raleigh, who was also pleased at the news. Dick lived on with the Watsons, as he had no place else to go. They allowed him a section of ground on which to raise watermelons, corn, hogs and cattle to sell. This was around 1869.

The hogs he drove to Leon, Kentucky, to sell. He was a hard worker and saved his money in an old coffee pot which he hid under a rockhouse. Once, while he lived with the Watsons, the hogs rooted out his pot of money. The Watson children found it and took it home with them. Raleigh, realizing this was Dick's life saving, gave it back to him. Later, when he had saved $270, he paid Jessie and Jane Eldridge in full for 500 acres on the headwaters of Newcombe Creek. Here Dick built his log home and lived out his life. In his smokehouse he cured meat and from a solid rock he carved a spring which still furnishes drinking water. He cooked on an open fire and his home-made bed hung from the rafters.

Being a self-sufficient pioneer, Dick also worked in timber, making stoves to be used for tubs, casks or similar vessels. This is practically a lost art. At time, the stoves were floated down Newcombe Creek which then had spillways at intervals.

Nigger Dick remained a bachelor all his life, but he did get one proposal from a Louisa lady and the letter was read aloud to him by Robert Woodridge, post master.

"What was the woman's name?" asked the curious neighbors.

"Mary Duck, no that's not her name. Mary Goose, no that's not her name, Mary, hell, I can't think of it!" He proceeded to tell them that "no nigger was going to take up with him," which let them all know he wanted no part of marriage. A lot of people knew he had a considerable sum of money and he was robbed at least twice. He was tortured once by three men in an attempt to get all his money by burning his hands and feet with hot poker irons. After forcing Dick to tell where his wealth was hidden, they robbed him and were arrested, not for stealing his money, but for stealing horses. They were hanged on a big walnut tree in the courthouse yard at Martinsburg, which is now called Sandy Hook. The names of the men hanged were Mauk and Kennel. The third man turned states evidence and was run out of the state and told never to return.

The second time he was robbed resulted in his death. It was just before a big snowstorm. Uncle Lonza Fyffe was said to have been walking past Dick's house and noticed there were no foot prints around the house, yet the door was ajar. Afraid of finding him dead, he then went to the nearest neighbor's house and told them to go with him to check on Dick. Several men returned and found him chilled and near death. By sled he was taken to a neighbor's home, Andy Adkins, where he died. The doctor who examined him said he had swallowed carbolic acid and it was thought that the persons who had robbed him had forced him to drink it. There had been a robbery because they found purse "jaws" in the fireplace where they had been burned.

Humphrey Watson, Raleigh's son, temporarily got Dick's estate. He used the money from a timber deal that Dick had made, but hadn't been paid for, to buy his marble tombstone and pay burial expenses. Later, a man named Jessie Walker appeared and swore he was Dick's brother. Attorney John Waugh helped Walker claim the estate of the deceased. It was then sold to Evans and Thompson and is now owned by M. Woodridge, of Isonville.

Cost-Of-Living Adjustment Delayed

The automatic Social Security benefit increase based on the cost of living, previously effective each July, will be delayed for 6 months, to January 1984 under a new law designed to strengthen the Social Security system.

The purpose of the delay is to save the system money and to help it regain its financial strength, Kelly said. Largely because of economic conditions in recent years, Social Security has had an increasingly severe financial problem.

The new law is designed to meet the problem both in the near-term and into the years after 2000. Other changes made by the new law provide additional income to the system. They include:

—The Social Security tax rate increase scheduled under previous law for 1985 will go into effect in 1984. The new 1984 rate will be 7 percent each for employees and employers, up from the previous rate of 6.7 percent. But, employees will receive a tax credit against 1984 taxes of .3 percent, which will be given when taxes are deducted from wages. In effect, 1984 employee taxes will remain at the level set under previous law. Also, part of the tax rate increase scheduled for 1990 will go into effect in 1988.

—Starting in 1984, the Social Security self-employment tax rate will be equal to the combined employee-employer tax on wages. This will be 14.0 percent for 1984. Previously the rate for self-employed people was about 1½ times the employee rate. Under the new law, self-employed people will receive self-employment tax credit of 2.7 percent of self-employment income for 1984; 2.3 percent for 1985, and 2.0 percent for 1986-89. After 1989, these credits will be replaced with deductions designed to treat the self-employed in much the same manner as employees and employers are treated for Social Security and income tax purposes.

A free leaflet, "Social Security Strengthened," is available at the Big Sandy Area Social Security office.

Primary Campaign Candidates Heard

KET's "Campaign '83: The Primary" begins this week with forums for candidates running in eight state elections, beginning Tuesday, May 3, and including programs with the major Democratic and Republican gubernatorial candidates. The programs will begin at 7:30 p.m. on KET.

Al Smith will moderate the series. Each night, three journalists will ask the candidates questions. Democratic and Republican candidates will appear on the programs during separate blocks of time, and the order of appearance will be determined by lot. Equal time will be allowed each candidate in the same race for answering questions, and each candidate will have one minute for a closing statement. The format for the programs with major Republican and Democratic gubernatorial candidates will differ slightly, with opening statements from the candidates and four rounds of questions from the journalists.

The gracious custom of open church will be observed when the vows are exchanged at 1 p.m., Saturday, May 21, at the Boldman Freewill Baptist Church.

A reception will be held at the church immediately following the ceremony.

Miss Gray, a graduate of Betsy Layne High School, is presently attending Mayo State Vocational-Technical School, pursuing a career in data processing.

Mr. Hall, also a graduate of Betsy Layne High School and Morehead State University, is presently employed as an X-ray technician at Pikeville Methodist Hospital.

Industry Giant Profiled On KET

A legendary Hollywood pioneer is highlighted on "Ready When You Are, Mr. DeMille," airing Wednesday, May 25 at 9 p.m. on KET.

Cecil B. DeMille has been characterized as a tryant and a "mean perfectionist." Others saw him as a father figure who revolutionized the film industry with movies like "The Ten Commandments" and "Sunset Boulevard." "Ready When You Are, Mr. DeMille" examines the movie mogul's film technique and his personal life; attitudes toward his heritage, life-long marriage and extra-marital affairs, as well as his miserly posture with money.

Charlton Heston, the late Gloria Swanson, Anthony Quinn and other notables recall what it was like working for DeMille and offer insights into one of Hollywood's greatest producer/directors.

"Ready When You Are, Mr. DeMille" is a production of Paramount Pictures Corporation.

Famous Last Words . . .

"I Don't Need Seatbelts"

You have heard it all before. Wearing seatbelts is important. They can save your life. But, it is too much trouble to buckle up. Besides, you feel uncomfortable in them. You also are afraid that you will be involved in an automobile accident where your car catches on fire or crashes into a body of water leaving you trapped inside. These are all common excuses heard by Blue Grass AAA Insurance Service.

Each year, the government and private industry perform tests on new cars to see how well seatbelts work in accident conditions: Seatbelted dummies are used in place of human occupants, and tests are usually done at speeds of 30-35 miles-per-hour. Attention is given to how much the car is damaged under certain conditions, and what injuries result to the dummies inside. Following the results, publications are sometimes available to the public free of charge.

Blue Grass Automobile Club-AAA offers these facts to consider the next time you go for a spin:

-In the course of a normal lifetime, the average American will be involved in an automobile accident with a 50% chance of sustaining a disabling injury, and one chance in 50 of becoming a traffic fatality.

-Testing has proven that using seatbelts is the single most effective measure an individual can take to help insure his protection while driving or riding in a motor vehicle. Yet, only about 15% of the driving American public today uses them.

-During a collision, an unbelted person will fly forward and hit an object with a force of one to two tons.

-Crashes in which a car either burns or sinks under water represent less than one half of one percent of all crashes. Your chances of staying conscious and not being thrown from the car are greater if you are wearing your seatbelt.

-Holding a child on your lap will not protect him if you are involved in an accident. In fact, your body could become a weapon against your child's crushing it against another object during a crash. Only you can protect yourself and your family! Using seatbelts, or approved car seats for children, will give you the safety edge if you are involved in an accident.

For more information on car seats for children, and other safety literature, contact the Blue Grass Automobile Club at 233-1111, or toll-free, 1-800-432-0996.

Becomes Certified As Childbirth Educator

Marian Yarus, assistant professor of physical education at Pikeville College, has been certified as childbirth educator by the American Society for Psychoprophylaxis in Obstetrics, Inc., (A.S.P.O.), including her among a group of 10,000 educators nationally. Mary Montgomery, a registered nurse, will be certified in June, 1983.

The thrust of the organization is consumer-related activities, including family-centered maternity care and prepared parenthood, in addition to the promotion of Lamaze prepared childbirth.

The teacher certification program is nationally standardized. The two year comprehensive program includes modules in obstetrics, community public relations, adult instruction, and the Lamaze method of prepared childbirth. The three membership coalitions include parents, physicians, and health care professionals.

For information regarding childbirth classes call Marion Yarus at 432-5183 and/or Mary Montgomery at 432-1169.

TOMMY ROSE

FOR

COUNTY COURT CLERK

NO. 1 ON THE BALLOT

Hello, Floyd County voters. I've talked with families from the Mink Branch of Mud Creek to Ford's Gap in Auxier and there's an echo in every living room I visit—"WE WANT A NEW BREED OF POLITICS IN OUR COUNTY!" Well, you can have that NEW BREED if you will just invest your vote in me. You have seen my qualifications in this ad before. I have achieved a lot of goals both personal and civic. You don't do that without hard work and honesty.

The Clerk's office mainly performs a service to the people. I trained the women who worked for me at the drug store that the customer is always No. 1. I will manage the Clerk's Office the same way.

If you truly want a NEW BREED of politics in your courthouse then let's start right now by saying to yourself I will commit my vote to Tommy Rose. I WANT A NEW BREED of politics in my courthouse.

Prestonsburg resident Paul David Harris is shown here driving his new No. 10 racer to a second place finish, April 22 at Thunder Mountain Speedway near Richlands, Va. The race was the 1983 season opener for dirt track racing in a four-state area. Winner of the event was a Richlands area racer, Danny Burke.

Harris is part-owner of the 1983 wedge-shaped Pontiac Trans-Am along with mechanic Tony Halbert and Terry Hays, both of Martin.

Team sponsors, Twin Bridge Auto Parts and Harris Trucking, Martin firms, enter their third year of racing following a successful season last year in which the team's blue No. 10 Camaro won a number of races and set one track record. Next race for the white and green Trans-Am will be the season opener at the Mountain Motor Speedway at Isom (Letcher county).

High Blood Pressure Control Is Worth Its Salt

Salt is a chemical, made up of 40 percent sodium. Although the body must have sodium, most Americans eat much more of it than they need. This can be harmful, because sodium seems to contribute to higher blood pressures in some people. Many of these who have high blood pressure can help control it by reducing the amount of sodium they eat. And a low sodium diet can help some people keep healthy blood pressure from becoming high.

What can you do to cut down on sodium? Use more fresh or frozen (un-salted) produce and meats, avoid processed foods and foods that taste salty, and don't add salt in cooking, baking, or at the table. Read the labels on all packaged foods to check for salt or sodium. And remember, a taste for salt is a habit; the less you use, the less you'll want.

Ask your doctor what role watching your sodium might play in controlling blood pressure and staying healthy.

'Incidental' Coal Removal OK'd for Pike Housing Site

A government-financed housing project in Pike county has been granted an exemption from state surface-mining regulations, officials of the state Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet announced last week.

The project, the Keyser Heights Development project, received an exemption from the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement which will allow the project to make "incidental removals" of coal during the building process without applying for a state surface-mining application.

"We have reviewed the project and found that the coal removal involved is only incidental to the development project," said Surface Mining Commissioner Elmore Grim. "This exemption has been granted because of the incidental nature of the removal and because the project has been reviewed and we have verified that it will be government financed."

In a letter to officials of the Kentucky Housing Corporation, Grim stated that "one of our inspectors will be assigned to this project with the role of keeping us advised as to how it is progressing and to call to your attention any possible problems which might be occurring in the coal extraction process."

Under state regulations the project officials must maintain information on the site, including a description of the construction project, exact locations of the construction, right-of-way and boundaries of the area affected and financial records.

The project, which will provide lots for individual housing units, will be built on land deeded by the Kentucky Department of Transportation to the Kentucky Housing Corporation.

Mountaintop-removal mining techniques will be used to contour the land for the project, state officials explained.

No Jobs In Alaska

The Alaska Department of Labor has issued a warning urging job seekers not to look to Alaska for work this summer season. Commissioner of Labor, Jim Robison, says, "There are no worker shortages in Alaska. Job seekers should be very wary of advertisements offering high paying jobs or Alaska job information for sale."

"Each year," Robison says, "many job seekers have based their decision to come north on inaccurate or incomplete information and find that no jobs are available in Alaska where their limited food and housing dollars disappear at an accelerated rate because the cost-of-living is high."

Alaska has not been immune to the economic downturn that has swept the nation. The Alaska unemployment rate for 1982 was 9.9%, remaining among the 20 states most severely afflicted by unemployment. Alaska annual unemployment rates have exceeded the national average since the mid-1970's, and are expected to stay high during 1983. Some Alaska communities routinely experience seasonal unemployment rates of more than 20%.

Commissioner Robison says, "We welcome you to come and visit, but bring enough cash or a return ticket home so you do not run the risk of getting stranded."

The Alaska Natural Gas Pipeline Project which has been under discussion for the past couple of years is indefinitely on "hold" due to the economic climate and high cost of construction.

KET Documents Air Disaster Aftermath

"After the Crash," a "Frontline" documentary hosted by Jessica Savitch, will air on KET Friday, May 6, at 9 p.m. "After the Crash" reports on the frightening aftermath of the second-worst air disaster in U.S. history—the June 9, 1982, crash of a Pan American plane in New Orleans' Moisant Field.

Within days of the accident, survivors and families of the 153 people who died were called and visited by personal injury lawyers trying to enlist them as clients—and airline insurance company representatives trying their best to keep the bereaved families from bringing suit. One of the nation's most prominent personal injury lawyers, the flamboyant Melvin Belli, is interviewed, and denies allegations that one of his employees illegally solicited clients.

"After the Crash" includes families speaking about their experience after the Pan Am crash. John and Debbie Bayes, whose six-year-old daughter was fatally burned when a neighbor's house was leveled by the plane, believed the pleas of the airline's insurance company who asked them not to retain a personal injury lawyer. But the insurance company's offer of a settlement deteriorated to the point where a company lawyer told the Bayes that "juveniles aren't worth that much," according to John Bayes.

"AN EAST KENTUCKY CANDIDATE"

"Grady Stumbo talks like an East Kentuckian." This statement was made by an elected official after meeting with Grady Stumbo—and it's true. Grady talks like an East Kentuckian because he IS an East Kentuckian.

What the people of Kentucky know, however, is that what a person talks "like" is not nearly as important as what a person talks "about."

Grady Stumbo talks about jobs for our people at decent wages, improvements in the quality of life for our people, support and compassion for our elderly and disabled. Grady Stumbo has demonstrated the unique qualities of innovative management abilities and concern for the problems of Kentuckians that make him our candidate for Governor.

Grady Stumbo grew up in the East Kentucky Mountains. After his father's death when he was eleven years old, Grady went to work to assist his mother with the rearing of his younger brother and sister. After graduation from tiny Alice Lloyd College, Grady worked his way through undergraduate and medical school at the University of Kentucky, where he received the Dean's award for Outstanding Graduate. When his education was completed, Grady returned to East Kentucky to work as a practicing physician and built a non-profit health care clinic to serve his people and he did without one cent of governmental grant assistance.

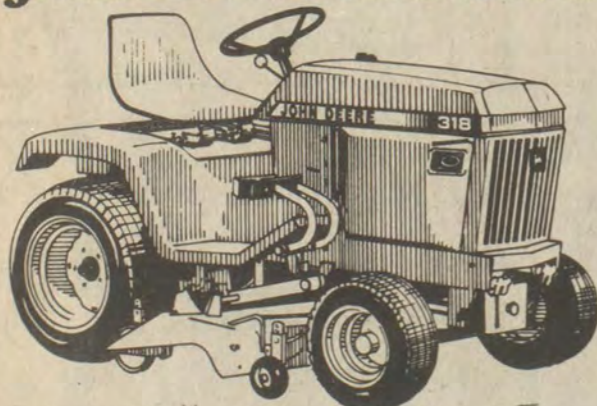

Of all the major Democratic candidates for Governor, Grady Stumbo knows hard physical work the best. That's why the working people of Kentucky support him for Governor. Grady Stumbo for Governor—the difference is, he's a lot like you.

Former Attorneys General Endorse Hindman Man

Three former attorneys general of Kentucky, all residents of Jefferson county, have endorsed the candidacy of Hindman attorney Bill Weinberg for attorney general in the May 24 Democratic primary.

Jo M. Ferguson, Robert F. Matthews and J.D. "Jiggs" Buckman, in an endorsement letter praised Weinberg, saying, "Not only is he a top-notch lawyer, but during the two terms he served in the legislature he was voted Outstanding First-Term Legislator by the state press corps. This experience will insure he will create effective legislation beneficial to law enforcement and consumer protection."

Commentary on the endorsements Weinberg said, "It is not only an honor, but it has special significance that all the past attorneys general in the state that are in a position to express their views publicly are supporting me. They know the office and they know who the candidates are."

Small Mines Get Little from Program

By LEON TAYLOR
(In The Lexington Herald)

Last summer, two East Kentuckians needed an interim environmental permit to run their small mine. The state picked an engineering firm to do their paper work.

But the firm mishandled the work, as the partners learned months later when the government told them to close the mine.

One partner lost his home, family and money. "Now the whole county thinks he's a damn thief, because he went bankrupt," says the other operator.

The state has a program to help small operators with their applications. But it's "useless," the operator said. "They haven't got anybody to help you with these bibles and bibles of regulations."

His story is complemented by a draft study from the Legislative Research Commission. It says that even after four years, the program is helping only a few small-mine operators through the labyrinth of permits.

The LRC staff, which advises lawmakers, says officials should transfer the Small Mine Operators Technical Assistance Program from the Energy Cabinet to the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet.

"That will probably make Energy a little uptight," one official conceded. A lawmakers' committee, on program review and investigations, meets at 10 a.m. today to hear what the agencies think of the study's proposals.

The matter is politically sensitive. Small operators—who account for 70 percent of all operators in Kentucky—say they must have help with environmental permits or quit the business.

Applying for a permanent permit takes up to a year. And for a small mine of 25 acres, it costs $18,000—7½ times more than the old permits of a few years ago.

In 1979, the legislature set up the program to help small operators with the technical points of applying and to speed along their permits.

But since then, SOTAP has ridden a fast shuttle between two agencies. Gov. John Y. Brown moved it from Natural Resources to Energy, then moved one-third of the money back to Natural Resources in 1980.

Strapped for money, Energy assigned only four field men to the program—hardly enough for the 1,000 operators who could qualify for it, said the LRC's study.

Of 138 operators surveyed, 85 percent said they were satisfied with the program. Even so, it suffers from its split between two agencies, and the whole thing should be moved back to Natural Resources, the study said.

It also recommended that: The program help only operators who mine less than 100,000 tons a year. Now, the limit is 200,000 tons. LRC says the change would cut out 114 operators but would bring SOTAP in line with a similar federal program.

Emergency Service Program in Effect

Our Lady of the Way Hospital of Martin has had a six-point quality assurance program for its emergency room service for some time. Medical Associates, Inc., the emergency physicians' group the hospital contracts to provide evening and weekend coverage for its emergency room, is participating in the program.

Dr. Paul T. Brizendine, director of the emergency physician service, explained the steps taken to assure high quality care in the emergency room. "We have devised a six-point program," Dr. Brizendine said. "First we carefully screen our physicians as to background and training. We recruit highly-trained, career-oriented emergency physicians. Thorough reference checks and credentials investigations are conducted. Each physician is required to be a member of the American College of Emergency Physicians (ACEP)."

As one of the requirements for membership in the ACEP, a physician must complete 150 hours of continuing medical education every three years.

Donor Center Has Best Day

By PAT PHILLIPS

Thursday, April 21, was a record-breaking day at the Central Kentucky Blood Center's Prestonsburg Donor Center when 37 people donated. The previous record was on December 21, 1982, during Donorama, when 36 donated.

There were various individuals and groups donating but much thanks belongs to the employees of the Bank Josephine who came by for Bank Josephine Donor Day. There were 23 registering and 18 donors providing blood availability for one year for all employees and their immediate families by reaching their goal. CKBC extends thanks to Priscilla Merritt, who served as group coordinator, and to the following employees: Mary Vebins, Larry Hughes, Kimberly Mosley, Earlene Lawson, Mary Hall, Clyde McGuire, Belinda Branham, Marlene Moore, Cathy Goble, John Merritt, Sandra Williams, Mitzi Hughes, Sharon Tackett, Priscilla Stewart, Gloria Martin, Melissa Childers, Virginia McGuire, Douglas Woody, David Caldwell and Tommie Branham, Kathy Castle and Vicki Hughes. Many were first-time donors.

Saturday, April 23, the Prestonsburg Job Corps students were presented three awards: a bar for another 100 pints donated, a gallon keychain for Gary Harrod, and the Ninth Concert award. They have donated 412 pints in 26 months at the donor facility, which is about 14% of the 3,100 pints since the Center opened.

The students deserve much credit for taking on an adult challenge and contributing a major share of the support to the Floyd County Blood Program.

St. Martin's Day Care Announces Openings

MARTIN—Pat Stumbo admits she was "a little leery" about enrolling her son, Kevin, in St. Martin Day Care Center here. Now, nearly two years later, she claims that enrollment "got him started out right."

Sister Margaret Regina Simon, C.D.P. and Sister Lina Wood, C.D.P., who staff the day care center, understand that mixed emotions accompany parents' decision to place their child in day care. So they deal directly with those feelings in a letter they give parents interested in their program. In it they state, "Realizing that you would prefer to care for your child in your own home, we shall try to give her or him the loving attention and training all children need in their early formative years."

The center concerns itself with spiritual development too, but not through the teaching of a particular faith or doctrine. The children sing or recite a prayer before eating and learn Bible stories through books, storytelling and filmstrips. They are also taught the "Our Father."

St. Martin's is licensed by the Department for Human Resources to care for a maximum of 12 children. Registrations for present openings and next year are being taken now. A meeting for interested parents will be held May 18 at 7 p.m. in St. Martin's Day Care Center. For more information, contact Sister Margaret Regina Simon, C.D.P. at 285-3960.

Pharmacy Footnotes
 By HAROLD COOLEY

It is well known to those in the medical establishment that ingesting aspirin substantially delays the clotting of a wound. Even a five-grain tablet can markedly lengthen bleeding time. For this reason, those who are about to undergo surgery are advised not to take aspirin several days prior to the operation. New research adds an important bit of information to this fact. It is that the consumption of alcohol, even 36 hours after ingesting aspirin, greatly enhances the bleeding effect. Taken together, alcohol and aspirin may provoke spontaneous bleeding in healthy individuals. It may even explain why some people bruise easily.

You know, even a simple medication such as aspirin has side effects. If you even have questions concerning a prescription drug or any over the counter medication, don't hesitate to ask your pharmacist. Here at COOLEY APOTHECARY, INC., we don't play doctor, but we do render assistance, offer alternatives to a problem and offer advice when appropriate. That's one of the reasons we're here. Located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg. Open Mon.-Fri., 9-5:30; Sat., 9-4. 886-8106.

Versatile Franz makes mean Alma a daytime star

By Connie Passalacqua

Elizabeth Franz

Although all regular soap opera actors and actresses are usually referred to as "stars," occasionally a secondary or non-contract player exhibits much brighter "star quality." Such a performer is Elizabeth Franz, who arrived in "Another World's" Bay City last summer as revenge-seeking Alma Rudder. Alma, a hick with more than a hint of insanity, tortured Blaine Ewing (she was convinced Blaine had a part in the murder of her brother Buzz) in what were undoubtedly daytime's most bizarre scenes. Miss Franz's crackling energy and innate humor made her characterization special. Now, after a few month's absence, Alma is back in Bay City and up to her old dirty tricks. Miss Franz is unusually articulate in explaining how she arrived at her character's motivation. "I started with the child in her. I felt her pain and helplessness in the face of her family's poverty and the weight of her responsibility of having to single-handedly raise Buzz. I explored her insanity, her fantasies and, most of all, her anger." Miss Franz, who is originally from Akron, Ohio, honed her skills as a character actress in numerous touring theatrical productions. But it was not until three years ago that she caught the attention of theater critics when she won raves and a subsequent Obie award for her lead role in off-Broadway's "Sister Mary Ignatius Explains It All for You." A casting director admired her performance in that play and Miss Franz was later cast as Kate Jerome, the mother of a large family in Neil Simon's new Broadway hit, "Brighton Beach Memoirs." She's now performing in the show at the same time as she appears on "AW." During her absence from "AW," Miss Franz was besieged by those she calls her "Alma Rudder fans." "Alma's so mean — but people love her and that's great with me!" © 1983 Compulog

By J.T. YURKO

The Man — he's a professor of English Literature (Martin Sheen) with a fine family, two daughters and a lovely wife (Blythe Danner). But Miss Danner is not the Woman.

The Woman is a seductive French doctor who treats Sheen for a minor automobile accident, but ends up servicing his libido as well. As a result of the one night of passion, the Woman gives birth to the Child.

All of this has taken place in France about 10 years ago. Sheen has been unaware of the blessed event until he gets a call from a colleague in France who tells him that the French doctor has died in an automobile accident. Thus the Man and the Child must now face the new Woman.

The formula is not terribly complicated. Thus the story is about as complex as the spartan title indicates. "Man, Woman and Child" is soap without the suds, but bring a handkerchief along with your copy of a gothic romance novel. When the film works, wipe away a tear, when it doesn't, read the novel.

Erich Segal, himself a college professor, has penned the novel and the screenplay. By now most people know what to expect from Segal. His "Love Story" is as simple a title as "Man, Woman and Child" and equally as lacking in plot twists. Segal instead concentrates on how the situation affects the characters involved.

Segal does manage to sidestep the cliches inherent in a story such as this. Much of the credit goes to the players. Sheen is "up front" about his responsibilities toward the child, playing the role of instant father with the right amount of shock and concern.

Miss Danner is always impressive. As the wife who realizes her marriage isn't quite as perfect as she thought, Miss Danner can make soap opera seem like profound family drama.

If you're a fan of such films, "Man, Woman and Child" will not disappoint. If you're not a fan and you happen to see the film, it won't make you rush out and buy up the entire series of Harlequin Romances.

Why Marvin Hagler can ignore Friday the 13th

MARVELOUS MARVIN — Will Friday the 13th be lucky for Marvin Hagler? Probably. He is good enough to make his own luck.

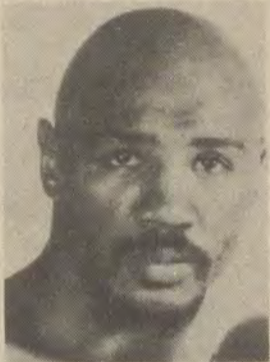

Hagler, perhaps the best fighter pound-for-pound in the world, defends his undisputed middleweight title on Friday, May 13, against Wilford Scypion at the Providence, R.I., Civic Center.

The fight will be televised nationally by Home Box Office.

Riding a 31-fight unbeaten streak dating back more than seven years, Hagler, 28, brings a career mark of 56-2-2 into the contest. The Brockton, Mass., native has 47 knock outs. Most recently Hagler knocked out England's Tony Sibson, Feb. 11, in the sixth round at the Centrum in Worcester, Mass.

Scypion, 24, a hard-puncher from Port Arthur, Texas, with a record of 26-3 (20 KOs), is coming off his most impressive career triumph, a convincing 12-round decision over Frank "The Animal" Fletcher. That victory earned Scypion both the USBA middleweight title and the No. 1 WBC ranking.

The Hagler-Scypion bout presents two fighters who rely on many of the same techniques. Both are considered boxer-punchers who can move with an opponent or take him out suddenly. Neither man has ever been knocked out or stopped.

Marvin Hagler

career losses have been to ranked contenders Mustapha Hamasho, Dwight Davison and James Green, could be the most puzzling fighter in the middleweight division. Sometimes he's awesome, sometimes awful.

Hagler, a swarming fighter who is known for his business-like attitude during a bout, uses slogans — "Destroy and destruction" or "Tear down the brick walls of resistance" — to keep his intensity.

Says Hagler: "When I'm not fighting, I try to be a good human being — instead of the terrible monster you see in the ring."

What does Hagler think of boxing as a way to make a living?

"It's like a drug to me," he says. "It's my life, my all. Today I'm everything I wanted to be someday when I was a kid."

"Of course I love boxing. It got me a nice woman and children, nice car, nice clothes, a nice place to live."

Floyd Ministerial Group Endorses Observance Of National Day of Prayer

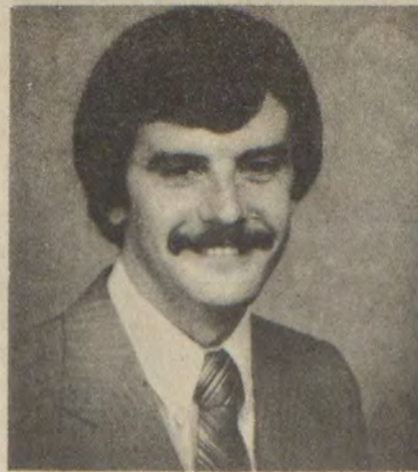

The Floyd County Ministerial Association has endorsed the local observance of the National Day of Prayer called for by President Reagan for tomorrow, (Thursday).

The President's proclamation asks people to gather together "in homes and places of worship" to pray. All churches are encouraged to be open for individual or corporate prayers on that day.

"A year before the Declaration of Independence, in 1775, the Continental Congress proclaimed the first National Day of Prayer... This occasion provides our nation with an opportunity to further recognize the source of our blessings and to seek His help for the challenges we face today and in the future," the Presidential proclamation says, in part.

The Ministerial Association also announces that the week of May 8-15 has been designated as Soil Stewardship Week, emphasizing our responsibility to protect and conserve soil, water, and other resources, "as part of our stewardship of God's creation." Materials are available from the Association for use in county churches on this subject. Contact the Rev. Timothy Jessen, president, at 886-1962.

Jehovah's Witness Meet Draws 1,642

Delegates from the Beaver Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses returned Sunday evening from their circuit assembly in Beckley, West Virginia.

According to Burnis Jones, local elder, 1,642 persons were on hand Sunday afternoon when Denis Raftopoulos, from world headquarters in Brooklyn, New York, gave the address, "Is This World Doomed to Ruin?"

The gathering concluded with encouragement to "Rest Your Hope on Jehovah's Promises".

Regular meetings will resume at the local Kingdom Hall this week.

Reducing Your Waistline And Your Blood Pressure

Overweight? You may not know it, but shedding those unwanted pounds can do more than shrink your waistline. It might also lower your blood pressure.

High blood pressure is twice as common among people who are overweight. When these patients take pounds off and keep them off, chances are they'll need less medicine (or none) to lower pressure to a healthy level. And many people with normal blood pressure can help keep it that way by watching their weight.

Ask your doctor for advice about keeping your weight and your blood pressure under control.

"JOBS FOR EAST KENTUCKY: COAL IS THE ANSWER"

STATE SENATOR BENNY RAY BAILEY

Since World War II, America has tried to formulate a "national energy policy." In times of crisis, such as the 1973 Arab oil embargo, we turn to our most plentiful fossil fuel, coal. However, in times of plentiful "cheap" energy, we seem to forget the answer to America's energy problems.

America has never had an "energy" crisis; we have had an oil crisis. America has the most plentiful supplies of coal energy in the world and Kentucky leads the nation in coal production. We can make anything from coal that we can make from oil. What we need is a program of the same magnitude that put a man on the moon to develop our coal resources to meet America's energy needs and to meet our people's needs for jobs.

We have spent millions in America trying to harness the atom for "nuclear energy," the sun for "solar energy" and building a pipeline to bring a trickle of oil from the north slopes of Alaska; and we have ignored the answer to America's energy needs. The answer is COAL.

Senator Benny Ray Bailey is a strong advocate for the responsible development of our coal resources. "While everyone knows of our needs to diversify our economy and attract other industries, we must have a strong, healthy coal industry to provide jobs for our people right now. We must provide a climate for our coal industries in which they can mine the coal, transport it to market and market it at competitive prices. Responsible development of our coal resources is in the best interest of all Kentuckians." Benny Ray Bailey works hard to assist our coal industry provide jobs for our people. That's why coal miners throughout East Kentucky are working to keep Benny Ray in the State Senate.
