

Corn Fork Water Line Is Team Effort

Corn Fork, whose residents were in the news recently for their "self help" approach to road maintenance, was the site of another cooperative effort this week as a water line was extended up that hollow from the lake road. Coal operator Wes Blackburn furnished a backhoe and Paul Hunt Thompson an operator; the fiscal court provided the pipe and the City of Prestonsburg a crew to lay it.

Kennedy Visits Mud Cr. Clinic

A clinic on Mud Creek and a couple of hollows off Little Mud are scheduled to receive a visit today (Wednesday) from Senator Edward M. Kennedy as he winds up a fact-finding tour with a swing through eastern Kentucky.

The Massachusetts lawmaker, who is conducting a number of public forums on hunger and deprivation in America, will visit Floyd and Letcher counties on the last leg of a six-day tour that included stops earlier in San Francisco, Minneapolis, Detroit and Pittsburgh.

The tour was interrupted Tuesday to allow Kennedy to attend a Mass in Washington, D.C. in observance of the 20th anniversary of President John F. Kennedy's assassination. As it resumes today, Sen. Kennedy will be following a path trod by another brother, Robert, who visited Perry, Knott and Letcher counties in 1968.

Organizers of the tour said Kennedy is scheduled to be met by Congressman Carl D. Perkins and Gov. John Y. Brown, Jr. in Jenkins, where he will inspect that town's water system, around 10 a.m. The party will then travel by the governor's helicopter to the Leonard Hall Bottom at the mouth of Little Mud, with arrival there expected around 11 a.m. After visiting several needy families in the Mud Creek and Little Mud areas, the senator is scheduled to tour the Mud Creek Clinic at Grethel around 12:30.

In the afternoon, he will conduct a three-hour forum at the Fleming-Neon Senior Citizens' Center. The forum, expected to begin at 2 p.m., will be addressed by health and community workers and their clients. It is designed to show the impact in this area of high (See Story No. 2, Page 4)

Floyd Schools Show Overall Improvement

EVERETT AKERS, of Finance Hollow, testified in favor of a tax on unmined coal at a hearing conducted Tuesday by a state panel which is studying the issue.

Closed for Holiday

The Floyd circuit court clerk's office and Prestonsburg city office and Prestonsburg city offices will be closed for Thanksgiving tomorrow (Thursday) and Friday. There will be no city garbage collection Thursday but collection will resume Friday.

County, Sheriff In Dispute Over Overtime Expense

The fiscal court will reimburse Sheriff Henry Hale for postage costs incurred in mailing out tax bills but balked at meeting his overtime costs as well.

According to a Nov. 18 Postal Service receipt, the sheriff spent $5532 to mail the bills. But in the bill he presented to the fiscal court, Hale asked for $6598, a sum that was said to include overtime incurred in getting the tax bills out.

On a recommendation of County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr., the court agreed to reimburse Hale for his postage costs only. The sheriff was not present for the discussion.

Bob McAninch, director of Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc. told the court the agency had made good on its November bond obligations and would have "ample funding" to meet the next scheduled payment in April.

McAninch, who is studying law at the University of Kentucky, also offered to answer recent charges of abuses in the operation of the solid waste agency.

In other business, the court accepted a bid by Campbell Ford on a cruiser for the sheriff's department, provided the sheriff has funds to pay for it; rehired Debbie Latta as juvenile support staff (See Story No. 4, Page 4)

3 Juveniles Ordered To Make Restitution

Three juveniles who broke into the Prestonsburg home of Mrs. Josephine Howard this summer have been ordered by District Judge Harold Stumbo to make restitution of $1000 apiece.

The case is the second in recent weeks in which the district court judge has ordered juveniles to pay for their damage. Earlier, he ordered four youths to pay $875 to the state highways department for damage done this summer to two road graders.

Is Report Made To State Board In Frankfort

Compared with the same period last year, the Floyd school district has spent only half as much this year on janitorial supplies and gasoline. Improvements made at McDowell High School are called "phenomenal." And a shakeup in the school transportation department should mean safe buses at less cost.

Those were among the findings contained in a generally positive report on Floyd schools prepared by a Kentucky Department of Education official and presented last week to the state Board of Education.

There appears to be tighter control over textbooks, fewer non-educational activities are encroaching on class time, and class sizes have been brought within legal limits, investigators say.

The report was commissioned by the state board, which adopted the recommendations of a special investigative team in September and asked the team to monitor Floyd school officials' progress in implementing them.

The investigative unit was originally sent here as a result of charges made by the Floyd County Citizens' Education Council in June. The council called for the dismissal of the Floyd Board of Education and of Superintendent E.P. Grigsby, Jr.

Of the complaints listed by the council, maintenance problems persist at some schools and one school opened this year with a major textbook shortage, according to (See Story No. 3, Page 4)

Annual Thanksgiving Service Is Scheduled

The annual community Thanksgiving service will be held on Thanksgiving eve (tonight) at 7 p.m. at the Community Methodist Church.

The Rev. Timothy Jessen, president of the Ministerial Association, has announced that the service will include singing by the Prestonsburg High School Honor Choir and a Thanksgiving message by the Rev. Paul Hoover, new pastor of the Seventh Day Adventist congregation, here.

As in the past, an offering will be taken to benefit the needs of transients.

Hepatitis Outbreak Continues in County

As Officials Seek Source Of Infection

An outbreak of hepatitis in the upper Left Beaver Creek area is causing concern among public health officials, who are monitoring the situation closely.

The number of reported cases, running at an average of three a month for the first seven months of this year, jumped to 12 in August. Fourteen cases were listed in September, 16 in October, and 14 have been reported so far this month.

Not since last December, when 16 cases were recorded, have the figures been so high. Whereas last year's cases were widely distributed, however, the 56 cases reported to health officials in the past four months have been concentrated in the upper Left Beaver area.

Hepatitis victims have been identified in Price, Ligon, Bevinville, Wheelwright, Melvin and Weeksburg, most of them grade-school-age children and many of them members of the same family.

Although there is no evidence that the schools have been implicated in the spread of the virus, health officials have been paying close attention to sanitary conditions and water quality at the W.D. Osborne and Melvin grade schools, where some of the victims are pupils.

Strict sanitary measures are in force in restroom and kitchen areas, school water supplies have been tested, and students in all grades have been instructed in personal hygiene, said Earl (See Story No. 7, Page 4)

Traffic Snarl Back To Normal

As you were. After enduring four weeks of complaints about their decision to reverse the traffic flow on Arnold Avenue, members of Prestonsburg City Council meeting in special session Tuesday rescinded that order.

Effective immediately, traffic will flow north on Arnold Avenue from Graham Street to U.S. 23—the way it did before last month's switch.

The decision to revert to the status quo was made at the request of the Prestonsburg Business Association, which had originally requested the change to give motorists easier access to downtown shopping.

The change did that all right—but created formidable problems for drivers trying to get out of town.

Boyd Enters Guilty Plea

A 67-year-old Prater Creek man, charged with the murder of his son over the July 4 weekend, pleaded guilty to a lesser charge in Floyd Circuit Court last Thursday.

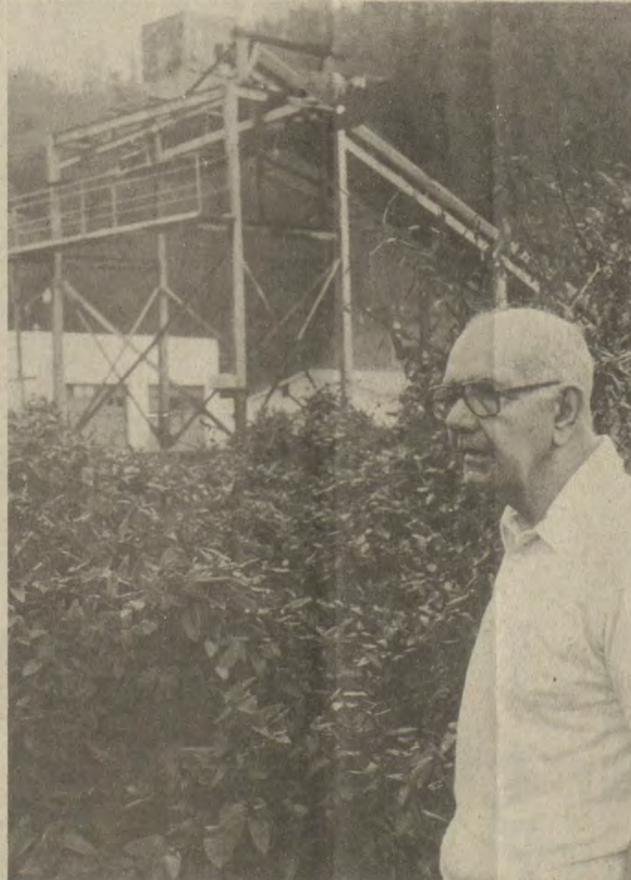

Luther Boyd, of Dana, entered a guilty plea to a charge of reckless homicide in the shooting of Jay Boyd, 32. Commonwealth's Attorney James Allen recommended a five-year sentence, to be probated on condition the defendant report to the Layne House here for alcoholic counseling. Formal sentencing was set for December 9.

The younger Boyd was visiting from Chattanooga, Tenn. when he was hit in the stomach by a shotgun blast at his father's house.

Trial of Bennie Lewis, 46, of Emma, accused of slaying his brother, Banner Lewis, Jr., 55, on July 1, was continued until December 13. The elder Lewis is said to have died during an argument between the two brothers over their mother's social security checks.

Trial was set for Dec. 28 in the cases of Alvis Randall Frasure, 38, and Linda Wilson, both of Martin. Frasure is accused (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

Awaits Court Ruling On Tipple

"When it blows, it covers me up," said William C. "Neil" Allen, of the coal dust he says is generated by the tipple near his West Prestonsburg home. Sixty-nine years old and in frail health, Allen is one of four homeowners who have taken the tipple owners and environmental officials to court over what they claim is a violation of federal law.

According to the 1977 Surface Mining and Reclamation Act, no surface mining facility may be built within 300 feet of a home without the owner's permission; his house is only about 100 feet from the tipple built by the C.J. McNally Co. and now owned by Paul Hunt Thompson, Allen says.

A federal court judge recently postponed a ruling on the suit, pending the outcome of a similar suit, filed by Dinwood residents, which was heard last week in the U.S. Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals.

Unmined Minerals Tax Views Are Heard Here

Kentucky should impose a tax on unmined minerals to fund local services, especially the schools, members of a government advisory commission were told repeatedly at a forum here yesterday (Tuesday).

But a coal company representative said the industry could not afford another tax. And the advisory panel chairman suggested revising the existing coal severance tax rather than enacting a new levy.

The Kentucky Unmined Minerals Tax Advisory Commission, appointed by Gov. John Y. Brown, Jr. in the fall to study the question of taxing unmined deposits of coal, limestone and other minerals, held hearings at Prestonsburg Community College and later at Madisonville.

If coal were taxed at the same rate as other property, the out-of-state land companies that own most of it would be forced to contribute to the support of schools here, said Bill Arms, of East Point, who was recently appointed by Floyd Schools Superintendent E.P. Grigsby, Jr. to serve on a committee studying ways of raising school revenue.

In District Court

Sentenced in district court, following guilty pleas or verdicts, were:

James Layne, Langley, drunk driving, $137.50 in fine and court costs, referred to Alcoholic Driver Education (ADE); Ralph Clark, Jr., Prestonsburg, drunk driving, improper start, $137.50, ADE; Mack V. Hagan, Langley, drunk driving, resisting arrest, improper parking, terroristic threatening, all consolidated and amended to disorderly conduct, $137.50; Tony R. Endicott, Prestonsburg, drunk, carrying concealed weapon, one month's probation, $97.50; Kelvin Sherman, Prestonsburg, carrying concealed weapon, $42.50; Eugene Tackett, Galveston, drunk driving, $137.50, ADE.

By taking away their right to tax coal in the ground, the state legislature has taken from mountain people the right to improve their plight and to prepare for the day when the coal is gone, added Inez newspaper publisher Homer Marcum.

Everett Akers, of Martin, a former state legislator, blasted coal companies which, he said, "take out all the money and leave us with bug dust, bad water and potholes." Benita Riley, an attorney with District 30, UMWA, expressed union support for an unmined minerals tax. And Grady Stumbo, Knott county physician and former Human Resources secretary, called the case in favor of such a levy "overwhelming."

"When someone pays the same tax on a pickup as others with millions in mineral wealth, then you have an inequity," said Stumbo. While the general public is ready to redress that inequity, he feared that power brokers would still have enough clout to kill an unmined minerals tax bill in the legislature, Stumbo said.

Revenue from an unmined minerals tax should not be used to fund current government operations but should be used to build up public services like water, sewage and health care and to create new jobs, Stumbo said. "We should be using coal to build a future," he said.

Many of Tuesday's speakers addressed claims that a tax on unmined coal would be unworkable because of the difficulty in assessing its value. Coal transactions already are based on estimates of the seam's worth, said Marcum. And John Rosenberg, head of a legal services agency here, pointed out that coal companies submitted detailed records of their holdings in the years before the legislature all but eliminated the tax on unmined coal.

Between making and losing money on coal there is a "very thin line," said Tom Owen, a Martiki Coal Co. representative. Enactment of an unmined (See Story No. 5, Page 4)

FFA Gives Go-Ahead To Big Sandy Airport

Federal Aviation Administration officials gave the project the green light last Friday and construction of the Big Sandy Regional Airport could begin as early as next week.

Fears were expressed early last week that a question over coal rights could stall the project, but that issue was resolved on Wednesday, said Allan "Bud" Perry, chairman of the regional airport board.

The $4 million airport, to be built on a worked-out stripmine in Martin county, could be operational by 1985, Perry said. Plans call for a 5000-foot runway, parallel taxiway, lights and navigational aids. The airport will be able to handle transport-sized aircraft.

Site of the planned airport is a 150-acre tract off KY 3, near the intersection of Floyd, Johnson and Martin county lines.

It was donated by Pocahontas-Kentucky, a subsidiary of Norfolk and Southern Railroad.

Island Creek Coal Co., a subsidiary of Occidental Petroleum, holds the lease for mineral rights to the property, however, and there was some question early last week whether Enoxy, a joint venture between Occidental and the Italian government, would agree to the project.

The question prompted a front-page story in The Martin Countian, in which Editor Homer F. Marcum charged that the airport project had been "grounded by oil barons in Italy." Martin County Judge-Executive John Callahan was "furious" at the alleged reluctance of Italian officials to sign the necessary release and raised the possibility of (See Story No. 6, Page 4)

Neiman-Marcus Store To Be Seen On KET

In his new documentary, "The Store," to be aired on KET Wednesday, December 14, at 9 p.m., acclaimed filmmaker Frederick Wiseman focuses his cameras on the management, the merchandise, the customers and the clerks of the famed Dallas emporium, Neiman-Marcus.

Wiseman's 16th documentary, "The Store", is his first color film for public television. Like each of his previous works, which he calls "reality-fictions," it is presented without narration or background music.

Filmed during November and December, 1982, at the Neiman-Marcus flagship store in Dallas—which also is the retailing chain's corporate headquarters—"The Store" includes scenes of salespeople and customers in the jewelry, couture and fur departments; executive committee meetings; an employee's birthday party; a gala banquet honoring the store's 75th anniversary; a personal shopper's telephone conversation with her customer; a discussion among trainees about the Neiman-Marcus "mystique", and other activities both on the selling floors and behind the scenes.

KINFOLK OUT OF TOWN? A GOOD REASON TO PRE-PLAN.

We have, on occasion, suggested some of the most important reasons for pre-planning a funeral:

1. To alleviate the burden which falls on your family.
2. To insure that your wishes will be followed exactly.
3. To avoid the risk of wasteful, unnecessary over-spending.

But there is another, very important reason for pre-planning a funeral—one which affects a great many persons.

Not everyone has "family" in town. We are a nation of travelers. And, although long-distance, out-of-town funeral arrangements are not uncommon, they tend to be more costly.

If you do not have "kin" close by, it may be a good idea to consider a pre-planned or pre-paid funeral now.

Many states have strict laws concerning pre-paid funeral services and burial expenses. We know what all is involved and can handle the details for you. We'd be glad to discuss them with you.

At Thanksgiving...

State Program Seeks Families For "Special Needs" Children

Many children are waiting to share their future holidays with an adoptive family. Thanksgiving Week is also National Adoption Week. Special emphasis is being placed on finding families for children during this time. Why not make one of these children part of your family affair?

Although handicapped by severe cerebral palsy twelve-year-old Roger has a ready smile and a lot of love to share with an adoptive family. Roger has worked hard to achieve his present level. He attends a school for handicapped children and enjoys it. Roger likes swimming, looking at books and listening to music. He will always need assistance with his daily living but can continue to develop, grow, and bring many special rewards to his adoptive family.

Fourteen-year-old Greg is a tall, handsome young man with a winning personality. He works hard in school and has shown real progress in his junior high special education classes. Greg makes friends easily but also enjoys having time to himself. Greg enjoys sports and would like to play basketball. He will need vocational training in the future. Greg has the potential to become a well rounded self-sufficient adult but he needs the security of his own family now, during his teenage years.

Cindy and Cynthia could double your fun. They are very outgoing seven-year-old twins. Both girls are in the first grade. Cynthia has a language delay and is in a learning disabilities program. She has quite a sense of humor and seems never at a loss for words. Her sister, Cindy, is a very coordinated little girl and is quite a performer. She enjoys roller skating, riding her bike, and jumping rope. These twins need a family to share their future.

Finding permanent, loving adoptive families for children like these is the goal of the Special Needs Adoption Program. Many children throughout Kentucky have found their families but many others still wait. If you would like to know more about the children who wait contact the Special Needs Adoption Program at 1-800-432-9346 or your local Social Services Office at 886-8192. Share your family and your traditions with a waiting child.

MSU Prexy, Coach Resign

Stating that the time had come "to move to another chapter" in the institution's history, Morehead State University President Morris L. Norfleet announced here Saturday that he would not seek another term beyond June 30, 1984.

The MSU Board of Regents immediately appointed Norfleet to a new position of "chancellor of corporate relations" effective at the end of his presidency.

Norfleet said of his decision to give up the office after nearly seven years as MSU's eighth president:

"After many months of soul searching, I have reached the decision that I do not wish to have my contract extended...This action is prompted totally by me in consultation with my family."

Board Chairman Jerry Howell, Sr., said the search for a new president would begin as soon as possible and would be national in scope.

In a prepared statement, the Regents said of Norfleet:

"The Board is deeply appreciative of President Norfleet's courage and selflessness in reaching this decision. He had made substantial contributions to the University. The Board is unanimous in its commendation of President Norfleet for his dedication and service to the University."

Norfleet said he had agreed to stay on the job until his successor is selected. The detailed job description for his new post will be developed by the Board's Executive Committee.

Norfleet assumed the MSU presidency on Jan. 1, 1977. He earlier served as the University's acting president and vice president for research and development. He joined MSU's administrative staff in 1962.

In other action, the Regents accepted the resignation of Head Football Coach Steve Loney effective at the end of the season. Board Chairman Howell later commented that no further action would be taken by the University concerning financial irregularities in the football budget during Loney's tenure.

Livestock Sales Show Has Latin Visitors

Not too far from the crowds attending the livestock shows and sales of the annual North American International Livestock Exposition (NAILE), there is a spot where expo activities are being discussed in several different languages. It's the International Room, aptly named because it's become a center of operations for many of the foreign visitors to the NAILE. "The North American is the best and largest all-breed livestock show in the world, and it's held in the finest indoor livestock facility in America," said state Agriculture Commissioner Alben W. Barkley II. "Opening the International Room to foreign visitors and making our services available to them is a natural way to promote Kentucky agriculture." Visitors stop by the room for a variety of reasons—to get information on Kentucky's livestock and crops, assistance with travel or help translating a business transaction. "Our staff is ready to help in any way," Barkley said. "We've helped arrange travel schedules, given tours of tobacco and horse farms, and given directions on how to get around in downtown Louisville. Sometimes these visitors just want to talk with someone in their own language."

Many of the international buyers and exhibitors come from English-speaking countries—England, Canada and Australia—so there is no language problem. But the department provides a translator for visitors who do not speak English.

This year, the department's international trade specialist, who speaks four languages, worked with buyers and exhibitors from Brazil, Argentina and Costa Rica. In the past, French, Italian and Japanese visitors have used the department's translation services.

The NAILE was created and initiated during 1974 under the leadership of the state Department of Agriculture. This year, more than 13,000 livestock entries competed for premiums, awards and prizes totaling more than $300,000. The exposition was held from Nov. 5 through Nov. 19 at the Fair and Exposition Center in Louisville.

The Dec. 15 meeting will be held at the Western Sizzlin' Steak House at which time, Christmas gifts will be exchanged.

The True Nature Told of The First Thanksgiving

The first Thanksgiving more than two centuries ago was actually a week-long harvest celebration with singing and dancing and not much religious activity, says Dr. Jay Anderson of Western Kentucky University's department of modern languages and intercultural studies.

Anderson, who's extensively studied the subject of Thanksgiving for about 15 years, says he finds the true story of Thanksgiving more interesting than the stereotypes many people have of the occasion.

"Many think of the Pilgrims as a solemn group of people dressed in black," he says. "They were actually medieval Englishmen dressed in very brightly colored clothes."

"The first Thanksgiving was more like a week-long picnic with singing, dancing, drinking, and sports playing," says WKU's expert who completed his doctoral dissertation on Pilgrim food at the University of Pennsylvania.

He specializes at WKU in teaching folk art and technology and other historic preservation courses.

"Thanksgiving was basically a gathering of people from different cultures and backgrounds celebrating that they were going to make it through the winter," Anderson added. "They later added the tradition of going to church and saying thanks."

Because of his vast knowledge of Thanksgiving, Anderson has been interviewed by Voice of America, a government-owned radio station that, with the exception of the United States, is transmitted all over the world.

More than 100 million people will hear Anderson's Thanksgiving Day broadcast, which was taped at WKYU-FM, Western's public radio service, in mid-November. It will be translated into other languages.

Anderson says VOA, which broadcasts U.S. news, music and features, likes to talk about culture in America, and since only the United States has a Thanksgiving celebration, "many people worldwide wonder why Americans make such a big deal out of it."

The Pilgrims who celebrated the first Thanksgiving numbered about 50, Anderson says, and were so elated about that first harvest because "had they not had a good harvest they all would have starved."

That first Thanksgiving was probably held in October, he adds, and the Pilgrims were joined by about 100 Indians.

"It was by a miracle that they made friends with the Indians," Anderson says. It seems there were two Indians who had been kidnapped and taken to England where they learned to speak English.

"They just happened to stumble into the Pilgrims' camp, said hello, and it was from them that the Pilgrims learned Indian agriculture," Anderson says.

And instead of turkey, the main menu of Americans today, the Pilgrims most likely ate goose and duck at the first Thanksgiving, Anderson says. "The guns they had couldn't kill turkeys," he adds. They may have also had venison brought by the Indians.

Considering their big crop that harvest was corn, it is safe to assume corn was included in the meal—"lots of it!" he exclaimed.

"They had corn mush and corn bread and—with the beans they got from the Indians—succotash."

There was also a barley harvest that autumn so the feast was probably washed down with beer or ale, Anderson says, and pumpkin stewed with vinegar was dessert.

Anderson says he is delighted to have been asked by VOA to be interviewed. "When you put in a lot of research like this you are naturally delighted when someone asks you to talk about it," he says. "And I have spent years researching it (Thanksgiving) as a folklorist trying to understand the Pilgrims and what they went through that first Thanksgiving."

Choosing Right Toy Is Not Child's Play

When should you buy toys for children?

When they need them! Don't save toys only for "occasions" like Christmas or birthdays, or as "rewards" for being good. Children need toys as much as they need food and love, according to Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter. Timetables don't apply.

If you spread toy purchases out, the child will be able to give each new toy undivided attention. Signs a child may be ready for something new to play with are when he masters a new skill, looks for a new challenge, or acquires a new interest.

Whether you buy or make toys, these are the main things to look for.

*A toy should be appropriate for the child's interests and abilities—not so easy as to be boring, not so hard as to be frustrating.

*A toy must be safe. No small parts to break off, no sharp corners or points, no toxic paint, no potential danger even if it is played with exactly as the manufacturer intended. A toy should not require a parent's constant supervision.

*A good toy requires a child's active participation and effort. The child must do something with the toy (and not just press a button) to get real satisfaction from play. The more the toy does (under power of battery or motor) the less there is for the child to do.

The guideline here is simple: the child should play, the toy should not. The more different things a child can do with a toy, the more fun he will have and the more he will learn.

Before you give a new toy to your child, read the instructions on the package. It is usually best simply to give the child the toy and let him figure out what to do with it. When he has exhausted his possibilities, you might then want to show him something else that he hadn't thought of. But at his level, not yours.

Or you might rather wait until another day when he could perhaps make a new discovery for himself. If a toy seems too difficult for your child, it would be better to save it until he is older than for you to do too many demonstrations with it.

Phone Pioneers Aid Statue of Liberty

The restoration of the Statue of Liberty and the historic buildings on Ellis Island in New York Harbor—slated to cost over $230 million—will receive a significant boost when local Region 13 members of the Telephone Pioneers of America kick off their part of a national fund-raising effort this week. The first phase of the three-year fund-raising effort planned by the Telephone Pioneers is a nationwide bake sale.

The bake sale kickoff coincides with the 72nd anniversary of the Pioneers, the largest voluntary association of industrial employees in the world. Providing a channel for community service for telephone company employees, the Telephone Pioneers of America is composed of employees who have 18 or more years' service with the company. Retired employees make up a vital part of its membership. Future Pioneers and Pioneer spouses also help make the Pioneers community service projects successful.

Region 13 includes Pioneers in the five states served by South Central Bell—Alabama, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee. The Region's headquarters are in Birmingham.

Small Game Hunt Opens at Dewey; First Since 1976

For the past week, it has been small game season on the Dewey Lake wildlife management area—time for hunting rabbits, squirrels and the like. But some of the week's shots were aimed at the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, which leases the area to the state Department of Fish and Wildlife.

Some would-be hunters have found the way blocked by locked gates. Some say they are confused about which areas are open to hunting and which are not. Some speak of a conspiracy to create a private hunting reserve for the benefit of a few families, their friends, or members of the Corps.

Officially, the small game season opened Tuesday, last week, and runs through Dec. 5. It is the first such season on the lake area since 1976.

One way to get to the hunting preserve is by boat; or hunters can walk in from the German Bridge area. But anyone planning to drive in is likely to find the way barred.

An access road near Dewey Dam, for example, is closed to all but Corps personnel, hunters say. Another gate blocks the road leading beyond the cottages above May Lodge. The Copperas Creek road is barred. Long Branch, likewise.

Floyd County Game Warden Dalton Conley, who is responsible for supervising the hunt, says there is no way he can do that, since he is locked out as effectively as are many of the hunters.

Corps of Engineers' Park Ranger John Nichol doesn't deny that access can be difficult unless hunters are prepared to cross the lake. But then, hunting is not meant to be Dewey Lake's primary recreational activity.

The Corps is not responsible for all the gates; and, where there are gates, there is a reason for them, Nichol insists.

The road by the dam, for example, is not a public road; nor is that area open for hunting, the park ranger pointed out this week. The gate there was erected and is maintained by gas companies for the protection of their wells; and, since the area is directly across the lake from the Girl Scout camp, it is not suitable for hunting in any event.

The area beyond the holiday cabins is leased to the state parks system and is not open for hunting; hunting in the Copperas Creek area is likewise restricted because of its proximity to the German Bridge campground and the Boy Scout camp; neither the controlled road there nor another on Long Branch are public roads but are for the use of private property owners, Nichol explained.

Suggestions that a private game preserve is being maintained are "totally false," especially in respect to Corps personnel, few of whom are hunters, the ranger said.

If there was any favoritism, he went on, it might have been expected to show up in the recent drawing for a special two-day deer season which opens at the lake Dec. 10.

Of 3000, including a number of Corps personnel, who applied to hunt, 250 were chosen by lot. Everyone whose name was drawn has been notified. No Corps member is among them, Nichol noted.

HOSA members are planning to make Christmas stockings to be filled and placed on patients' trays at McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital, and will also conduct a free blood pressure clinic. On November 22, the chapter visited the Thelma Rehabilitation Center.

Pay Now or Move Later Is Barber's Challenge

The education of children—you either pay now or much more later—was the challenge outgoing Superintendent of Public Instruction Raymond Barber left with educators Thursday in Lexington, as he was honored by superintendents and members of the Eastern Kentucky Educational Development Corporation (EKEDC) of Ashland, Ky.

According to Barber, the price of educating a child today in the Kentucky schools is $2,250, while the cost of supporting an illegitimate child and mother on welfare is $10,500 and $11,500 for support of someone in a correctional institution.

"We, as educators, have been able to accomplish many things for the children of Kentucky," Barber said of his past four years of service, "but we need to look to the future and continue to improve upon this trend."

Barber was honored by the 35-member educational consortium of EKEDC, for his service in education, which educators said "has enriched and touched the lives of many, and whose dedication to the cause has been exemplary".

He was presented with a plaque in his honor by EKEDC Board Chairman Harold Holbrook, Superintendent of Carter County Schools, who called Barber "a special person."

"While times have been hard and looked hopeless, we all realize what a good job Raymond Barber has done," Holbrook said.

"He served us well and stood up for the school children of Kentucky, getting and doing everything he could for us and them," Holbrook said, adding that other state governmental departments took far more cuts than education—all due to Barber's leadership.

Six hundred and fifty physically handicapped young people from Jefferson County participated in the Easter Seal Society's Recreation Program for the disabled in 1983.

'The Day After' Leaves Anxiety Hangover Here

Standing on a street corner in Prestonsburg the day after "The Day After"—ABC's $7 million movie about a nuclear attack on the U.S.—one thing at least became clear. A lot of people here watched the movie, as did an estimated 100 million nationwide, over half the country's adult population.

The numbers who viewed it, as well as those who consciously chose not to, appear to mark the emergence of nuclear anxiety as a prominent, permanent feature of the nation's mental landscape. Lloyd Blackburn, of Little Paint, was one of those who chose not to watch it. "We've got enough bad stuff to think about already without adding to it," he said. Glenda Stumbo, of Grethel, bowed out, too. "I figured it would be scary," she said, adding, "We know the world is going to end and there's nothing we can do to stop it."

A Pike county woman said she would like to watch the movie when she feels stronger but is caught up with "a lot of personal struggles" right now. Opal Butler, of Drift, who believes Armageddon will come as a nuclear holocaust, chose nevertheless not to see it depicted on the TV screen. "I'm a Christian and I believe the Lord will come before it happens," she explained.

Charles Brown, of Langley, worries that "if you think too much about (nuclear war), you'll go crazy." He made himself watch the program anyway and came away even more fearful that a nuclear catastrophe is in store for us.

Despite a widespread belief that "The Day After" would generate support for anti-nuclear causes, many of those interviewed here felt more strongly after the movie that a large nuclear arsenal is this nation's best deterrent against nuclear war. And, while everybody wanted to see mutual reduction in nuclear warheads, it was hard to find anyone here who favors any unilateral move by the United States toward disarmament.

Millis Hamilton, of Beaver, thought Secretary of State George P. Schultz, who was interviewed after the program, made a persuasive case for the Reagan administration's strong defense policy. John Maynard, who lives at Emma, was emphatic on the point. "Russia would not hesitate one minute to bomb us if they thought they could get away with it," he said. And Bert Johnson, of Wheelwright, was of the same opinion. "No one is going to send off those missiles as long as they know they'll get their country destroyed," he said.

But the fear that some wild-eyed demagogue heading one of the smaller nuclear powers might "push the button" weighed on many minds. And even the cooler logic of deterrence provided little reassurance to many in the face of the TV program's awesome scenes of destruction.

"I felt like I was the girl who was just about to get married," said Lolita Baldrige, of Martin, in reference to a character portrayed in the movie. "I lost a night's sleep." Nor did Janet Stumbo, an assistant county attorney here, sleep well Sunday night. "I went outside once just to make sure it was still all out there," she said.

"I found myself torn between staying in bed with the covers over my head and trying to decide what I could do about it. The movie was terribly depressing," she said.

But 16-year-old Robbie Williams, a junior at Prestonsburg High School, called it "a great movie" because it disseminated information about nuclear war and opened up discussion on the topic. And Lester Bates, who lives at Weeksbury, agreed. "It brings out a lot of stuff we should have been talking about a long time ago," he said. "Our only hope is if both (the U.S. and U.S.S.R.) sit down and realize that, regardless of who gets the first strike, there ain't nobody going to win."

Verdie Hamilton slept with her 14-year-old daughter to comfort her Sunday night. Lolita Baldrige did the same for her younger sister but worried even more for the future of her baby brother. "Thinking of him hurt me worst of anything," she said, "thinking he's not going to have a chance."

But Monday, as a bright sun warmed the crisp fall morning, Edna Mullins, of Middle Creek, found in the movie reason to hope. "Perhaps it will pull people closer together, to try to get it all stopped."

COW CREEK HOMEMAKERS

The Cow Creek Homemakers held their regular monthly meeting Tuesday, November 15, at 1 p.m., at the church annex, with Mrs. Louise Carey, president, presiding. The devotionals were given by Mrs. Virginia Goble, who based her discussion on "Thanksgiving." Members answered the roll-call by telling Thanksgiving customs observed in their homes.

Mrs. Frances Pitts made the following announcements: A ceramic Christmas ornament workshop, at 10 a.m., November 26, at the Kentucky Power Company; a Christmas wreath workshop, at 10 a.m., December 6, at this same location, and a cookie-swap, at 11:30 a.m., December 9, with the place to be announced.

For the cookie-swap, members are being asked to bring, for exchange, 3 dozen cookies, made from their favorite recipes, and wrapped so that the cookies can be seen. A door prize will be given.

Members decided to join some of the other Homemakers' Clubs in bringing gifts, such as tooth paste, talcum powders, and other useful items to the December meeting.

The lesson on "Needlepointing" was presented by Mrs. Frances Pitts, and several members displayed work they had done.

The club welcomed Jennifer Foley as a new member, and the hostess, Mrs. Louise Carey, served traditional Thanksgiving refreshments to Sally B. Goble, Mary Zemo, Frances Pitts, Virginia Goble, Jennifer Foley, Violeta Wright, and Pauline Foley.

The next meeting at which dues will be payable, will be Tuesday, December 20, with Mrs. Mary Zemo as hostess.

DISCUSS FOOD PANTRY

In their efforts to establish a food pantry here, in cooperation with the Prestonsburg Ministerial Association, the Local Church Women had as guest-speaker Tuesday, November 15, at the First United Methodist Church, Mrs. Doreen Martin, of the Christian Service Ministry, at Drift. Mrs. Martin, who is in charge of furnishing food and clothing for the needy of that area, told of her work there, and answered questions asked by those in attendance.

Mrs. Eleanor Robinson gave a summary of the work done so far by the local group and Mrs. Vera Ford, who is in charge of the proposed food pantry here, discussed several phases of this project. A refrigerator is needed for the room at the Archer Park Senior Citizens' building where the food is being stored, and it is hoped that anyone or any store having a used refrigerator to donate might call Mrs. Winston Ford, Sr., Mrs. Eva Collins, Mrs. Eleanor Robinson, or Rev. Tim Jessen.

Representing the local churches were Elma Jessen, and children, Ruthie and Paul, First Presbyterian; Eileen Burchett, St. Theodore's Catholic; Eleanor Robinson, Josephine S. Herald, Esther Ward, Judy Biggs, and the Rev. Taylor Biggs, Community United Methodist; Clara Bradbury, Elsie Mae Stephens, and Vera Ford, First United Methodist; Eva Collins, and Docia Woods, Irene Cole Memorial (First) Baptist, and the guest speaker, Doreen Martin, of the Drift Presbyterian Church.

BICARB FOR THE TEETH

Q. Is it a good idea to brush one's teeth with bicarbonate of soda?

A. It's an excellent thing to do! Bicarbonate of soda makes a fine dentifrice because, as you probably know, it's an antacid. People take it internally to relieve stomach distress by hyperacidity. Although mouth acids differ from those in the stomach, bicarb neutralizes those, too, keeping the mouth in balance chemically and preventing decay and periodontal disease. It also cleans, whitens and polishes teeth and sweetens the breath, making it an ideal toothpaste, and it's far less abrasive and less expensive than many commercial toothpastes. The only disadvantage of bicarb is that it has no fluoride, so to be totally effective, use it with a fluoride toothpaste or mouthwash. Add a few drops of water to the bicarbonate of soda, and apply with a soft-bristled brush, using recommended brushing techniques for best results. If you're on a low-sodium diet, substitute Epsom salts for similar advantages.

Fed, State puts Byte In Food Stamp Program

Human Resources Secretary Buddy Adams today announced the signing of a final agreement with the U.S. Department of Agriculture for the startup of the nation's first completely computerized food stamp program. The Kentucky Automated Certification and Issuance System (KACIS) will begin operations on Dec. 1 for the portion of the program using a statewide computer linkup to check client eligibility. The second half of the KACIS program won't be implemented until next October because of the lengthy time taken by USDA to approve the package. The second segment of KACIS involves placement of electronic devices in stores and markets dealing with food stamp clients for the purpose of on-the-spot verification of ownership of the stamps.

Secretary Adams said, "The KACIS program represents an enormous step forward in the way governments deal with the problem of getting food stamps to those who deserve the benefits and keeping the stamps out of the hands of criminals who want to defraud the system." The computer network is designed to reduce paperwork and to allow instant determination of an individual's eligibility for food stamps. Use of a magnetic I.D. card in the second half of the KACIS program will make it more difficult for thieves to use stolen food stamps. And the verification and daily examination of payments available with the statewide computer system will allow the Department for Social Insurance to reduce administrative costs, errors and overpayments.

"This program will save the taxpayers an estimated $38 million in each year of its full operation. However, because of the delays we experienced in attaining USDA approval to proceed with the project, there will be a reduction in total savings during the first year of nearly $9 million," Adams said. "Commissioner Cubine and his staff and the team from the project contractor, E.D.S. Corporation, are to be praised not only for developing the idea but also for their patience in dealing with the bureaucrats in Washington and Atlanta."

Commissioner Cubine said, "We have successfully completed the first test of the computer network in our offices and feel we will be ready to go on Dec. 1. Staff from E.D.S. have been in each of our local offices, training our KACIS staff for the smoothest possible implementation of the program. In fact, most Kentuckians receiving food stamps probably won't notice anything new until we get the final part of KACIS on line next fall. I do believe that recipients will spend less time in our local offices during their regular eligibility reviews because of the time savings built into the automated approach on forms and records keeping."

Lumber Grading Course Set Dec. 5 at MSU

The National Hardwood Lumber Association (NHLA) and Morehead State University's Appalachian Development Center will sponsor a lumber grading short course Dec. 5-9 at MSU.

The purpose of the course is to meet the needs of people presently working in the Eastern Kentucky hardwood business, according to Wilson C. Grier, the ADC's assistant director for business development.

With registration limited to the first 30 applicants, the conference will include instructions on the measurement and inspection of hardwood lumber according to NHLA rules.

The NHLA is the recognized authority for grading and handling lumber in the hardwood industry. Lumber inspector and NHLA instructor Dwight Lineberry will be the main workshop instructor.

Participants will need to bring a lumber grading stick, notebook, pen and pencil. Grading sticks are available for purchase at MSU.

Grier said the ADC expects to conduct similar workshops in the future for other Eastern Kentucky industries.

"Industries interested in sponsoring workshops may contact us at ADC if they wish our assistance with their efforts," he said.

Interested persons may contact Grier or Mark Dixon at (606) 783-2077.

HOW TO IDENTIFY THE CHURCH OF CHRIST

There are about 400 different churches in America. These churches teach some of the same things but also they differ in doctrine and practice. If we would agree to accept the Bible alone as our only guide we could all be united, God gave us a book to unite us. God is not the author of confusion (I Cor. 14:33). Christ is not divided (I Cor. 1:13). We can all speak the same thing (I Cor. 1:10) if we lay aside the doctrines of men and give up man made organizations not sanctioned by the God of heaven. (Matt. 15:9; Eph. 4:4). Jesus prayed for unity among his followers (Jn. 17:20-21). To make this prayer a reality we must follow the Apostles' doctrine in all matters (Acts 2:42; Gal. 1:8-9) for they were guided into all truth (Jn. 16:13).

What Is A Scriptural Name For The Church?

Names or designations divide us today! By Apostolic authority what is the church to be called? Christ called it: "My Church" (Matt. 16:18); "My Kingdom" (Lk. 22:30; Jn. 18:36); "The Kingdom of Heaven" (Matt. 16:19); "The Kingdom of God" (Jn. 3:5; Lk. 22:16). Apostles called it: "The Church" (Col. 1:18; Eph. 1:22; 3:10; 5:23-32); "The Church of the Lord" (Acts 20:28); "The Church of God" (I Cor. 1:2; Gal. 1:13); "Churches of Christ" (singular—"Church of Christ"—Rom. 16:16); "The house of God" (I Tim. 3:15); "The household of God" (Eph. 2:19); "The household of faith" (Gal. 6:10); "The Kingdom of God" (Acts 28:23, 31); "The Kingdom of God's dear son" (Col. 1:13); "A Kingdom which cannot be shaken" (Heb. 12:28).

Is the church of which you are a member mentioned in the inspired Word of God? Does the name of the church where you attend honor God or Man?

The church is the bride of Christ (Rom. 7:4; Eph. 5:25). Do you think that the bride should wear the name of her husband? Husbands, would you have it any other way?

In the apostolic age of the church individuals, who were saved, were given the name "Christian". This name was given of God (Isa. 62:2) and was first given in Antioch (Acts 11:26). It is used in reference to Agrippa who was almost persuaded to become a Christian (Acts 26:28) and to one who suffers (I Pet. 4:16).

As clearly seen from the Apostles doctrine, the name worn by the church should give honor to the Christ who purchased it (Acts 20:28); who built it (Matt. 16:18); who is head of it (Eph. 5:23); and who is the saviour of it (Eph. 5:23).

The name of the church is not to give honor unto men but unto the Lord. Those who are seriously seeking to restore New Testament Christianity will not name the Church after Christians but after the Christ—on this simple truth we can be united.

Scriptural Name But Unscriptural Practice

Dear reader keep in mind it is possible to be scripturally in name but teach and practice the doctrines of men. We must accept all the Apostles' doctrine not just part!

The Apostles authorized only singing in assembly worship. Vocal music is the only kind authorized in the Apostles' doctrine. Jesus sang (Matt. 26:30). Paul and Silas sang praises unto God (Acts 16:25). In the midst of the church we are to sing (Heb. 2:12). We are to sing with the spirit and understanding (I Cor. 14:15). The merry are to sing (Jas. 5:13). We are to teach and admonish one another thru singing (Col. 3:16; Eph. 5:19).

To use mechanical instruments of music in the assembly is to go beyond the things which are written. Those who are seriously seeking to restore New Testament Christianity will lay aside that which is not authorized of God (2 Jn. 9).

Friends, let's unite upon the Bible and be Christians only and continue steadfastly in the Apostles' doctrine. By the word of the Lord shall we all be judged (Jn. 12:48-49).

State Funds Program To Combat Illiteracy

The state Cabinet for Human Resources will spend $563,000 for programs to combat adult illiteracy and reduce the high-school dropout rate.

Adams, who made the announcement at an afternoon news conference, said one grant of $413,000 will be used to expand the Department of Education's Adult Basic Education program.

"The second grant of $150,000 will fund dropout prevention programs in 14 Kentucky school districts selected by a joint Education-Human Resources review committee.

An estimated 1,500 people are expected to be served by these programs, he said.

The grants are part of Human Resources' allocation under the federal Job Training Partnership Act. "These funds will help the Department of Education bring existing programs to a larger number of Kentuckians," Adams said.

Manpower Services Commissioner Robert E. Spillman, whose department administers JTPA funds, explained that some of the state's allocation must be used for coordination with education programs.

Citing 1980 census figures, which show 653,784 Kentuckians 25 years of age and older had completed no more than eight years of school, Spillman said the state ranks last in the number of adults who have completed high school.

He added, "As business and industry look at expansion or relocation, our educated workforce is of prime importance. It is imperative that the state place a high priority on programs that provide education to meet those demands."

The Department of Education, its Bureau of Vocational Education, the state's Community College System and the Kentucky Coalition for Literacy already have formed a network to respond to the state's adult literacy problem.

He said the $150,000 grant aimed at dropout prevention should help 500 students. "Some of the objectives of this program are to reduce the dropout rate by one percent over the previous year's rate, decrease the absentee rate by 20 percent over the previous year's rate, and improve grades for the target group compared to the academic performance during the previous year."

James Still Tells His Life, Home

Writing, says Kentucky author James Still, is a way of celebrating life. Still talks about his writing, his life and his home in the third program of KET's series, "At Home in Kentucky," airing Wednesday, November 30, at 7:30 p.m.

Host Lona Ingwerson and a KET film crew visit Still in his Hindman log cabin, which he found, he says, by a "lucky accident." He has stayed there for 43 years, he adds, because "it feels good here."

As low-keyed and unassuming as his habitat, Still talks about his childhood in Alabama, where his family owned only four books; his teaching days and years with the Hindman Settlement School; his travels; his writing; his friends; his home and his cats. Still also reads two of his poems.

The first representative assembly in America convened at Jamestown, Virginia, July 30, 1619.

DRIFT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH FEATURES SPECIAL MUSIC

Special music was provided recently at the worship service of the Drift Presbyterian Church by Mrs. Edith W. Hunt, a member of the staff of the Hindman Settlement School. Mrs. Hunt, daughter of President and Mrs. Willis Weatherford, of Berea College, was accompanied to the service by her husband, Meredith, and their infant daughter, Priscilla. Mrs. Hunt's songs included an Appalachian folk hymn. Other special soloists and music are planned during the remainder of the year as we observe the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays.

CARE Holiday Gift Plan Can Help Needy Overseas

"The greeting card you send this holiday season may help a needy Third World family survive and work toward self-support," says Dr. Philip Johnston, Executive Director of CARE, the international aid and development organization.

He explained that, "The CARE Holiday Gift Plan with its theme 'Send a Gift of Life,' will help us to aid the destitute in 35 developing countries in Africa, Asia, Latin America, and the Middle East. It may well be the most important holiday gift you give this season."

"The plan works this way," Dr. Johnston continued. "Simply send your holiday gift list to CARE or telephone it to the number that appears below. Special holiday greeting cards acknowledging your gift will be sent to the people you've named. A message on the card will tell the recipient that you have given a contribution to CARE in his or her name. The card serves both as a greeting and as the receipt for the gift.

"The families you helped last year with your holiday contributions to CARE are on the road to self-sufficiency," Dr. Johnston said. "Millions more want to improve their lives this year, but urgently need your help."

Dr. Johnston explained that "Last year CARE provided $9.21 worth of aid for every dollar donated. We were able to do this by combining dollars with contributions from the U.S. Government, foreign governments and private companies both here and abroad, and also by sharing the project costs with the various host governments."

To participate in the CARE Holiday Gift Plan you may mail a tax deductible check to:

CARE Holiday Gift Plan, 35 East Chestnut St., Columbus, Oh., 43215.

Credit card holders may call in donations over $25 to: 1-800-228-2060.

RETIRED TEACHERS MEET

Thursday, November 10, the Floyd County Retired Teachers held their regular luncheon-meeting at May Lodge. The meeting, which began at 10 a.m., was conducted by the president, Mrs. Norma S. Cold weather can actually affect a drugs actions upon the body. Dr. Stephen Rosen, a physicist, submits the idea that even the action of aspirin can be modified or hindered by the body's ability to maintain a constant temperature. Winter sports enthusiasts would do well to take the effects of cold weather into account if they are taking medication. Dr. Rosen suggests that your physician be consulted about decreasing the dosage if you are taking any of the following medications during the cold months: analgesics, sleeping pills, anti-depressants, painkillers, "sulfa" drugs, antibiotics or tranquilizers.

When your physician prescribes medication for you or a member of your family have him call COOLEY APOTHECARY. Our pharmacists are pledged to further and maintain the highest ethical standards of our profession and stay up to date on all the latest changes in the pharmaceutical world. The purpose of these hearings is to accept public comment on a proposal by the Tennessee Valley Authority and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to stock five pairs of red wolves at Land Between the Lakes.

At each meeting, a brief presentation on the red wolf proposal will be given, followed by a question and answer session and a public comment period. All comments will become a part of the public record and will be considered in the final decision-making process on whether to continue with the proposal.

Anyone wishing to submit written comments on this proposal may do so until Dec. 15. Such comments should be addressed to John R. MacGregor, Nongame Wildlife Biologist, Division of Wildlife, Kentucky Dept. of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

The red wolf, once native to Kentucky, is now extinct in the wild. There are currently around 75 red wolves in existence, all in captive breeding programs.

A fact sheet about the red wolf and the proposal is available by writing the address given above.

THE EXODUS OF BUSINESS

Though Floyd county citizens naturally are loyal to Floyd county and prefer to remain at home, whether at business or at play, the fact remains that much of their trade is going to other counties.

This is no fault of these people who find it more convenient to go outside the county when transacting business. They cannot force circumstances to fit. It is the fault, largely, of the business men of the county, and, more particularly, of Prestonsburg.

While the business interests of Pikeville and Paintsville wage a constant fight, catering to the trade of this county, Prestonsburg's business men are letting what they evidently think good enough alone. While they may not intend to do so, they are serving only those in the immediate vicinity of Prestonsburg and letting the business of the outlying parts of the county go elsewhere.

Only recently, citizens of the Left Beaver Creek section took steps to make road connections with the Mayo Trail in Pike county—which means, on to Pikeville. They are not to be blamed. It was the shortest way out, and the best way available at the time.

That is an instance of what has already been done. Floyd county is a county of towns; its population has leaped forward, and its business has taken a big stride forward. But something needs to be done to keep this business within its own bounds. Pikeville benefits from the payrolls of Wheelwright, Weeksbury, Betsy Layne, Justell and other up-river towns. Paintsville gets the Auxier trade.

Meanwhile Prestonsburg rests on its arms—or rests with folded arms, watching the procession go by.

It is rumored that Pikeville is working toward a revision of the railway schedule whereby the Beaver Creek train would make the run on into Pikeville. We have no quarrel to pick with Pikeville for that; it is the privilege of the wide-awake business men of that place to work for their own town and for themselves. Yet, at the same time, it gives warning to Prestonsburg of what may come to pass.

This paper is devoted not only to Prestonsburg; it stands for Floyd county, behind its people and its industries. But, to remain silent while the tide of business drifts away to Pike county or Johnson county, would be disloyalty.

Therefore, we would suggest—yes, urge—that the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs and the business men of Prestonsburg awaken to the situation and bend every effort to procure for Prestonsburg and Floyd county good roads, the great arteries of trade, and to protect themselves against the further loss of Floyd county's business—which is the county's by its own right.

As stated, aggressive fight must be made for roads. It has been made in other counties of the Big Sandy valley, and results have been obtained. Let us begin the fight and keep it up—for roads, for every improvement—to the end that Floyd county may be connected to the benefit of all.

THE CURFEW

It would appear that a curfew law, properly enforced, would have a good effect here.

The hearthstone yet remains in our homes—remains literally so—and it will regain its symbolic significance if the children will but drop in at a reasonable hour and keep the parents home.

If the 1927 model parent cannot or will not exercise the control necessary to keep the child at home during the evening, or at least under parental care, aid should be offered.

In that event, lads of ages ranging from six to sixteen will not rove the streets at night, to mingle with whatever company they may chance upon.

Nor will they offer, as was only recently the case, that most shameful of insults—loud, profane language directed at those gathered in a church to do reverence to the invisible Head of every real home.

TWO HURT IN RAILWAY CRASH

Hueysville, Ky., Oct. 25 (Spl.)—What was probably the worst railroad wreck ever known in this immediate vicinity occurred a few days ago near the home of John Hannah, who resides some half of a mile above Bosco proper.

About 11 p. m., people living near the scene of the wreck were aroused from their slumbers. A terrific grinding, roaring noise came to their ears.

Harvey Patton, a resident of Estill, who happened to be passing about the time, says a man called to him for help. He rushed to the man and found it was the conductor, who had been hurled against some object in the caboose when the train stopped suddenly. Another man is also injured considerably, it is said, but just how badly is not known. The injured men were rushed away from the scene shortly after the occurrence by another train dispatched to their aid.

Another train coming up the valley shortly after the wreck, collided with the derailed train, citizens living in the vicinity of the wreck say. Whether any one was hurt in this instance is not known. Considerable excitement reigned, according to all reports, and this probably accounts for the vague knowledge of details.

The wrecked train was going up the valley with a load of "empties" when the wreck occurred, and from the later condition of the wrecked cars, it is judged that the train was traveling at a speedy rate. Wheels and other parts of the derailed train were thrown into the county road, some 50 feet distant, it is reported. However, the road was quickly repaired, trains running on scheduled time the following day.

TO FINISH WORK THIS WEEK

The Byllesby Engineering Company, now laying a large pipe line up Salt Lick and into the head of Rock Fork, plan to finish the job this week, it is reported. No pipe line ever laid into this county, has kept such a large following. A large number of the workmen are men of this county. The others are mostly West Virginians.

TO HAVE NET TEAM

A ball has been ordered by some young men of this place, who are now making preparations for a basket ball team. Work has already been begun, and practice will begin this week. The team has secured a game with Maytown, Sunday which will surely be worth seeing. Members of the team will be Claude Huff, Bert Huff, Tolby Bailey, and some others who are not exactly decided upon yet.

STRIKE GAS ON FARW

The Distell-Martin Oil and Gas Company, now drilling a well on the property of Miss Sadie Allen, near here, have "drilled in" a gasser of about 300,000 cubic feet. However, work will be continued for some days yet, as it is hoped to get a larger volume by going to a greater depth. Mickey Johnson has charge of the work.

ROCK ON

By Ethlie Ann Vare

INTERVIEW

John Mellencamp left his boyhood home of Seymour, Ind., to become a rock 'n' roll star. Along the way, he found himself renamed John Cougar, made a few albums he's proud of and a few he's not, and established a reputation as a rebel and an outlaw.

Today, Cougar is back to using the name Mellencamp, living once more in Indiana, and making records he likes. While not exactly mellow, he has outgrown his "brat" reputation. Thing is, John Cougar was never comfortable in the role of a star.

"I don't accept compliments easily," says Cougar. "And every time you play a live show, people come backstage and tell you how good they thought the show was — even if I thought it was horrible."

Since he is not excited about going on the road, he will indulge himself and only play a short tour this year (last year he did 170 dates). Keeping the thrill alive, "your heart beating fast," as he puts it, is what life's all about to Cougar. That's what he meant by "hold onto 16 as long as you can" in the No. 1 single "Jack and Diane."

John Cougar Mellencamp

He thinks he's captured that rock 'n' roll excitement in "Uh-Huh," an album that was recorded in a 16-day marathon at a farmhouse studio. And it's what he looks for in other people's music.

"I'm always looking for someone who's doing a little bit more than I do," he says. "Just because I'm 32, I don't want to get jaded."

As "Uh-Huh" and the single "Crumblin' Down" climb the charts, Cougar is staying young in Indiana, scooting around his seven acres on his beloved dirt-bikes. As he says in "The Authority Song" on the new LP, "Growing up" leads to growing old and then to dying. And dying to me don't sound like all that much fun."

HEART LIKE A WHEEL (20th Century-Fox — PG) ★ ★ Starring Bonnie Bedelia, Beau Bridges

By J.T. YURKO

"Heart Like a Wheel" was actually completed and released this spring, but the studio didn't seem to know what to do with the film. Here's the (mostly) true story of Shirley Muldowney, a female not only working within the formerly men-only world of auto drag racing, but sitting on top of it. She is the only person — male or female — ever to win the world championship of hot-rod racing award three times.

Miss Muldowney's tale is special, certainly, but it isn't a story that begs to be told, nor does it have the sensationalist aspects that Hollywood loves to exploit. So here's what some might call a feminist film, the story of a woman proving she can be just as good as a man, but also one that centers around the world of hot rods and cool custom cars.

The studio originally pulled the film from release. But it was shown recently at the New York Film Festival, and the reaction was encouraging enough so that the film is being re-released in several "selected" theaters.

Shirley Muldowney had to face a lot of flack before she could get on the track. Most men told her "it's too dangerous for a woman" or simply "get back in the kitchen." Her persistence finally got her into some of the competitions, but it was her talent that allowed her to stay.

Bonnie Bedelia plays Miss Muldowney, and the film rests largely on her performance. She plays a working-class woman with the right amount of angst, and a racing champion who realizes the cost it took to get there. Even though the story itself lacks the high-tension drama and crowd-pleasing finale of a "Norma Rae," her performance is no less admirable.

"Heart Like a Wheel," directed by Jonathan Kaplan, hasn't the universal appeal of astronaut heroes, but Miss Muldowney shows she has as much of "The Right Stuff" as other occupants of fast-moving vehicles.

LeBlanc operates on soaps, not at med school

By Connie Passalacqua

Christian LeBlanc

"Acting is a skill you can use just about anywhere," admits 25-year-old Christian LeBlanc who plays bad boy Kirk McColl on "As the World Turns." "Just like this during an interview!" he adds with a self-effacing giggle.

"I was pre-med in college, but I did a lot of acting in school plays at Tulane University (in New Orleans, where he was raised). When it came time to apply to med school I decided instead to give myself a year in New York looking for acting jobs. If nothing came up, I could always go back to school. And I could use my acting as a doctor — it's a skill that would have come in handy dealing with patients."

But at the tail end of that year, during which he worked as a busboy at the New York's plush Helmsley Palace Hotel, Christian landed his "ATWT" role. "It was wonderful to finally have some money," he recalls, "but unlike other soap actors I know I didn't rush out and buy a co-op apartment. I've stashed a lot of money away for the future. No matter how much an acting job pays, in this field you're always one step away from the unemployment line."

LeBlanc was not always so open and communicative. "I became an actor in high school in the first place to overcome a bad case of shyness." Roles in such plays as "Fiddler on the Roof" and "West Side Story" helped overcome the problem.

Yet it was not his acting skills that led him directly to the professional acting business.

"I was swimming at the Tulane pool when a fashion photographer offered me an introduction to a local talent agency. And it all turned out to be legit."

After a role in "Cat People," he went to New York where he worked for Zoli models. His "ATWT" stint has been successful so far and it looks like LeBlanc's acting skills will be used in the future more in the field of professional acting than in medicine.

The Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club

The GFWC/Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club met recently at the home of Mrs. Hansel Bradley, of Garrett, for its second program meeting of the new club year.

Speaking on "Education", Mrs. Marie Mullins, chairman of the Education, Membership, and Scholarship Committee, and Home Ec teacher at Allen Central High School, pointed out recent changes made in the Floyd county school system.

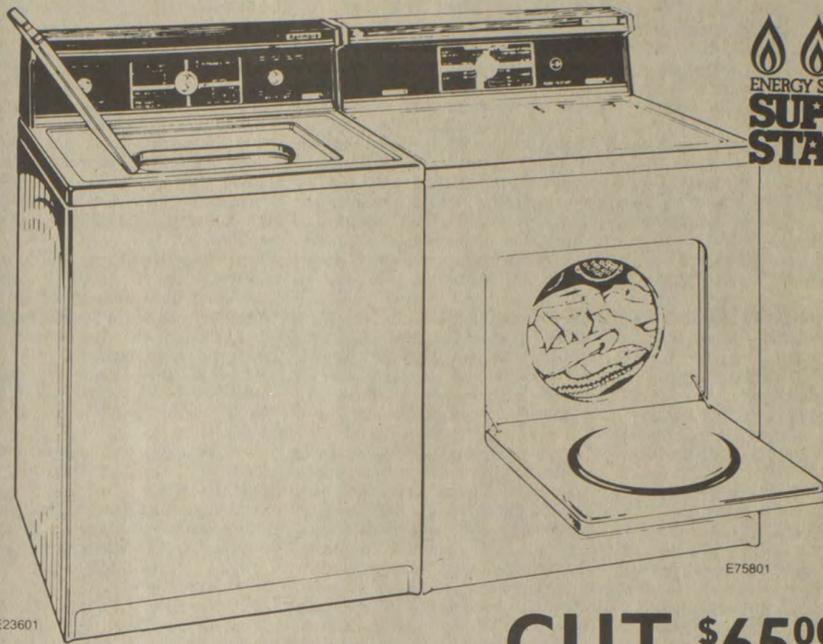

Prior to the program, Mrs. Hansel Bradley gave the devotional, followed by the Pledge to the Flag, led by Mrs. Marcellous Dunfee.

During the business session, the president, Mrs. Otto Martin, advised that the club yearbooks had been typed and copied and as soon as they are cut and assembled, she will give them out. Place mat orders were taken, the mats to be sold by the members to help raise money for the club's community needs. The club president also reported that a large box of paperback books had been sent to the Veterans' hospital from the club.

Those present were Mrs. S.M. Martin, Mrs. J.C. Wells, Mrs. Hansel Bradley, Mrs. Marcellous Dunfee, Mrs. Don Hughes, Mrs. Jack Stevens, Mrs. Felix Coburn, Mrs. Charles Collins, Mrs. Marie Mullins, and Mrs. Otto Martin.

Two Years Old

Brooke MaShay Tackett, daughter of Clyde and Gwen Tackett of Betsy Layne, celebrated her second birthday on September 26 at her home. Several of her family members were there to help celebrate the occasion.

Brooke is the granddaughter of Thelma Clark and R.B. Clark, of Harold and Gloria June Tackett and the late Clyde Tackett also of Harold. Her great-grandparents are Oma Reynolds of Goble-Roberts Addition, Prestonsburg; LuCreasie Tackett, of Grethel and Inis Little, of Flatwoods, Kentucky.

English Scholar Jobs At American Education

An English scholar on leave from Cambridge commented on the feverish attitude of American college and university alumni as adolescent in their preoccupation with athletics.

Rudyard Smithson, social-psychologist, is a visiting scholar at the Department of Education, Ottawa College this academic year. He is an outspoken critic of American education.

Smithson, recently speaking in Cincinnati, claims the American educational system cannot but court failure. It is, Smithson says, a two-headed hyena. One head say academic excellence, study, train the brain, and the other contradicts by urging the playing of children's ball games and to escape meaningful activity.

All in all, Smithson claims, the impetus for such preoccupation is America's liking for show biz. If education sold thousands of tickets, as does big time college football, the story of American's decline in quality education might be different.

Unfortunately, he said, the people on the other side of the ocean, the Japanese, are better educated, and are draining billions of dollars away from the United States.

Blood Drive Set At HRMC, Dec. 7

The next person to need blood could be you! Consider that each day 30,000 pints of blood are transfused in the United States—over 10,000,000 pints a year. The blood needs are met by about 6% of the eligible donor population in the U.S. Unless more people become donors, the supply will not keep up with the growing demand. Someday your life may depend on its availability.

Highlands Regional Medical Center is sponsoring a blood drive, Wednesday, December 7, in the In-service Classroom from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. The Ladies Auxiliary is donating a gift certificate from the H.R.M.C. Gift Shop to be awarded in a drawing at the end of the drive.

The Central Kentucky Blood Center's Prestonsburg Donor Center is open on Tuesday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Thursday, 12 noon to 8 p.m. and Saturdays, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

You cannot put a price on the life of someone you love. Money, the best medical skills and all the newest drugs are not enough to save a life without the gift of blood which can only come from another human being.

Most blood centers depend on volunteer donors to replace blood used by a relative or friend, to help with blood availability for future blood needs.

Be thankful for your good health and donate to help save lives. Bring a friend.

The phrase "the fourth estate," referring to journalists, was first used by Sir Edmund Burke during a speech made to the British Parliament, as he considered the various powers that be in the British government.

Writer Hails C.J. Series On Ky. Education Plight

By Wilmay

Week before last the COURIER JOURNAL carried a very lengthy series on the Kentucky school crisis, often more than two pages in an issue. They were by different writers, a majority by Richard Whitt and Richard Wilson. Every educator, teacher, and parent in the state should have read them. None who did will question that a crucial situation exists statewide. The authors presented all sides of the problem, quoting many persons, Superintendent Barber among them, teachers, parents, and pupils included, giving actual cases with pictures, citing shortcomings and achievements, offering solutions.

One thing made clear was that a good principal will have a good school. It's equally true that a good superintendent will provide a good school system. No organization—educational, civic, or whatever—surpasses its head. There are various kinds of leaders the same as there are types of parents and pupils. A good classroom depends more upon the teacher than upon anyone else. The individual in authority may be new on his job, may take over under bad circumstances, and in no way be to blame for the past, but he or she is largely accountable for what occurs during his or her tenure. Too often those in authority refuse to use it, lest some unpleasantness follow. Some leading magazines are pointing this out, even in the relationship of parent and child. Children who are taught early in life to obey parental authority are nearly always obedient in school. Teachers accustomed to effective, firm leadership in the school and/or system respond. Most of us have seen striking examples of this.

Perhaps the point in the articles referred to, that was stressed most of all was that a return to basics is imperative. In the articles, one after another county, city, or school—urban or rural—was cited for marks, good and bad. That's the way it should be. Things are never so bad that they could not be worse, and matters are never so good that they cannot be improved. So much depends upon the spirit in which tasks are undertaken. Children are the victims when this is overlooked. We can disagree without being disagreeable. If Americans cannot sit down together and reason things vital to the school, home, community, and nation how can we hope for world peace among myriad nationalities with traditions and customs as far apart as the poles? Those holding the "reins" of any group do well to keep in mind that effective leaders are not born. They work to achieve that goal.

Years ago almost any school race became a hot issue in Maytown, with deep divisions, even in families. Some were like the citizen who said, "If my side loses, I'm through. I don't care what happens then." That viewpoint calls to mind an aged saint, the late Aunt Suzan May, who once in a meeting of the Maytown Woman's Club during a sizzling campaign said, "I'll keep on doing my part, no matter who is in officer or who teaches"; moreover, she did just that. Early in life she was left a widow with nine small children. She had the wisdom to know children come first. Hers was a worthy example for everyone. No one ever loses anything by being a good loser. It's okay to fight long and hard but it's wrong to hold grudges, to bear malice and ill will. No mortal can be a winner every time. After all, the valleys of life teach us far more than the mountain tops do. A good loser will always be first to congratulate a winner.

The Equal Payment Plan.

A convenient way to budget for your electric bill.

Some household expenses are fairly steady throughout the year. But your electric bill varies from month to month because your electric usage fluctuates with the changing seasons. The bill is usually higher in the winter. It dips a little in the spring months, then, for most people, rises during the air conditioning season, before dropping again in the fall.

We can't do anything about the weather, but we can help you smooth out the ups and downs of your electric bill. And that's by offering you our Equal Payment Plan.

With the Equal Payment Plan, we bill you a fixed amount each month based on your average yearly usage.

Your account is reviewed every six months to see that your budget payment is still as close as possible to your average use. At the end of the twelfth month you'll receive a settle-up bill or a credit.

Many of our customers are already taking advantage of the Equal Payment Plan. If it sounds like a good idea to you, simply contact us. We'll take it from there.

We give it our best.

Karnow To Lecture At MSU, December 1

Stanley Karnow, chief correspondent for the Public Broadcasting System's television documentary on Vietnam, will discuss the Vietnam conflict during a lecture at Morehead State University on Thursday, Dec. 1.

Karnow, a syndicated columnist and internationally recognized reporter, will deliver his lecture in MSU's Button Auditorium at 10:20 a.m.

"We're trying to tell the story in a dispassionate and balanced way, and keep personal biases out of it," Karnow said in his biography.

That story debuted earlier this fall when PBS began airing "Vietnam: A Television History," the documentary for which Karnow served as chief correspondent. The 13-part series explores the French and American wars in Vietnam, as well as the roots of the two conflicts.

Karnow admits that the series is controversial, mainly because of the subject it deals with.

"We were always aware that the series would be controversial because Vietnam is an explosive subject for many people. But that's also a positive thing; it means people are re-evaluating their viewpoints and beliefs," Karnow explained in the biography.

Karnow also remembers that "In the spring of 1975, when Saigon fell, it was as if the curtain fell on a play. Everyone went home, and nobody really wanted to discuss what happened there. In recent years, however, people are examining that period."

Karnow's lecture will include topics such as "Central America—Vietnam Connection," "Rough Going in Vietnam," and "Viet Cong POW's."

He is currently a columnist and editor for the International Writers Service. His book, which accompanies the television series, is entitled "Vietnam: A History."

Karnow's lecture at MSU is free and open to the public.

Proudest Democrat at Riverview

The proudest Democrat at Riverview Manor Nursing Home is Elsie "Granny Cotton" Wheeler, 108-year-old resident, who is still bragging about her participation in the recent gubernatorial campaign for Martha Layne Collins. AAA Report Says Gas Prices Decline

The average price per gallon for gasoline along Kentucky's major highways and interstates dropped one cent at full-service stations and two cents at self-service pumps over the past month, according to AAA's November Fuel Gauge Report.

The average price at full-service stations now is $1.28 for regular; $1.34 for no-lead; and $1.41 for premium no-lead. The average cost for diesel is $1.24. Self-service prices range from nine to 13 cents lower and are $1.15 for regular; $1.23 for no-lead; and $1.32 for premium no-lead.

AAA also reports that 47 percent of the stations surveyed will be open on Thanksgiving Day. Even though gasoline will be available during the coming Holiday, AAA spokesman Bob Owen says motorists planning a long trip should take certain precautions.

"The three major problems often encountered by motorists on long trips are: running out of gas; flat tires; and engine overheating," Owen said. "All can be easily solved by advance planning."

"To avoid running out of gas, especially on Thanksgiving Day when some stations will be closed, drivers should look for a station when their fuel tank registers half-full.

"Check the tire pressure before leaving and periodically during the trip. Under-inflated tires increase rolling resistance and cut down considerably on gasoline mileage; over-inflated tires cause unnecessary wear and improper tire balance," Owen said.

"Low water and anti-freeze levels cause many cars to overheat and stall on the highways. Motorists should check coolant levels before leaving for the Holiday. Also inspect the engine oil, transmission oil and power steering fluid, as well as check all hoses and connections for leaks."

The Kentucky Easter Seal Society provides services to MAXIMIZE the independence of the disabled and MINIMIZE educational, architectural, attitudinal, and social barriers.

Diabetes Control Classes Scheduled

The Kentucky Diabetes Control Program is conducting a series of free classes to help the person with diabetes understand more about their illness and how to live a better life. The topics to be discussed include diet, exercise, and medications. The classes will be held at the Floyd County Public Library from 9:30-11:30 a.m., Dec. 2, 9, and 16, and in Martin at the Martin Senior Citizens Center from 9:30-11:30 a.m. on Nov. 30, Dec. 7, and 14.

If interested in attending, please send your name, address, and phone number to Ky. Diabetes Control Program, Big Sandy District Health Dept., P.O. Box 111, Paintsville, Ky. 41240. For more information call 789-3212.

$600,000 To Be Spent On Job Re-Training

The state Cabinet for Human Resources plans to spend about $600,000 to fund programs in three areas of Kentucky to aid workers who have lost their jobs as a result of current economic conditions. The programs will be operated by Western Kentucky University, Bowling Green, Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond, and Southeast Community College, Cumberland.

"We are able to fund these projects because Kentucky received additional money for dislocated workers under the Job Training Partnership Act. These dollars are in addition to the state's regular allocation for workers who fall into this category," Human Resources Secretary Buddy Adams said. "Initial screenings indicated these would be worthwhile pilot projects."

"The Star of Bethlehem" To Show At U of L Planetarium

It might have been a meteor, a comet, a nova or even a new planet. Some say it was nothing, just something some writer contrived to make his story more exciting, and some say it was a miracle. It is known as the star of Bethlehem.

Beginning Nov. 25, the University of Louisville's Rauch Memorial Planetarium will present "The Star of Bethlehem," a program exploring possible biblical and scientific explanations of the star which is said to have led the Wisemen to the birthplace of Jesus. Telling the traditional nativity story with both narrative and music, the presentation further discusses the three tenets of thought concerning the star of Bethlehem, that the star was a physical reality, a miracle, or a literary invention used for storytelling.

"The Star of Bethlehem" will show at the planetarium on Belknap Campus from Nov. 25 through Dec. 30. Show times are 7 p.m. on Wednesdays and Fridays and 2 and 4:30 p.m. on Sundays. A special children's version of the program will be presented at 12:30 and 2 p.m. on Saturdays, and church and group showings will be available by appointment at 8 p.m. on Tuesdays.

For more information on "The Star of Bethlehem," group rates or parking facilities, contact the planetarium offices at (502) 588-6665.

MSU Ag Research Seeks New Land Use

Morehead State University's mountaintop agricultural research venture has passed the $1 million mark in investments by its two corporate partners.

Former Kentucky Gov. Edward T. (Ned) Breathitt, Jr., vice president of Norfolk Southern Corp., announced recently that its subsidiary, Pocahontas Kentucky Corp., the newest partner in the Martin county project, has provided $582,723.07 as an equal share.

He said the same amount had been supplied by Martiki Coal Corp., a subsidiary of MAPCO, Inc., for the initial cost of the project to determine if it is economically feasible to use reclaimed mountaintop surface mined land for agricultural purposes. Martiki mines coal on land leased from Pocahontas.

MSU is providing managerial and research expertise for the project which eventually will involve a 4,000-acre plateau in the Martiki-Morehead State Mountaintop Agricultural Complex.

Announcement of the total investment to date of $1,165,446.14 was made during the recent "New Lands for the Future" conference sponsored by MSU to explore the economic development of level land created by the mountaintop or plateau mining method in Eastern Kentucky.

"These figures demonstrate that we are serious about this project and are prepared to invest additional funds as necessary," Breathitt told the conference.

David Drake, deputy secretary of the Kentucky Energy Cabinet, said of the MSU project during the conference:

"The lack of level land above the flood plain has been a major impediment to the development of industry in Eastern Kentucky. But with projects like the one in Martin County, there will be land available in the future—level land suitable for development."

Liddy Observes What's Wrong Today In U.S.

Americans lead lives of illusion, former Nixon White House counsel G. Gordon Liddy told a Western Kentucky University audience last Wednesday (Nov. 16).

Liddy, who was convicted of a number of Watergate offenses in 1973, spoke to a crowd of about 2000 as a guest of WKU's Student Center Board Series.

He said he was continuing his on-going debate "about what's so wrong in the U.S.," which "is less perceived anymore like the offensive tackle.

"The world is really a very bad neighborhood, more like the South Bronx at 2 a.m.," Liddy said. One illusion, he said, is the belief the U.S. enjoys military equivalence with the Soviet Union.

If a football player with a machinegun walks through the Bronx, he won't be bothered, even with a fat wallet everybody can see, Liddy said, but if a little old lady with a purse walks through, she'll be lucky just her purse is stolen, he said, adding the Soviet Union is like that.

"They may be Communists but they're not crazy; the Soviet Union will wait for the little old lady."

About the intelligence community in this country, Liddy said, "We are out of it, and we did it to ourselves," blaming the media and freedom of information act for spilling all of our secrets.

Liddy said the present administration is trying to repair our system of covert operations and intelligence.

"Illusion infests every segment of the fabric of this society," Liddy said.

"I was in nine prisons and I never heard one called that. They ranged from 'correctional institutions'—I never saw anyone corrected—to 'penitentiaries'—I never saw anyone penitent," he said.

"We don't have 'poor' anymore; we have 'the underprivileged,'" he said.

In his two-hour lecture, Liddy spoke about his involvement with Watergate and said he did it to further the cause of a party he agreed with.

On a question about the U.S. invasion of Grenada, Liddy said the Soviets realize now they're not dealing with Jimmy Carter.

How the U.S. will look in the year 2000, Liddy said, depends on the "leadership and perception of the American people on where we think we are."

The only thing he said he agreed with Jimmy Carter about was in the former president's belief that Americans are different.

In 1977 Carter commuted Liddy's 20-year prison sentence to eight years, and he was released after serving 52½ months in prison.

Third Birthday

Tiffany LeAnn Conn celebrated her third birthday with a party November 6, at her home. She is the daughter of Sharon Conn and the granddaughter of Roy and Geraldine Robinson, of Martin. She is the great-granddaughter of Alvana Castle, of Martin, and step great-granddaughter of Joe Robinson, also of Martin. The theme of her party was Looney tune. She was showered with many gifts and cards.

Jr. High Mathletes May Vie This Fall

Beginning this fall, students in Kentucky will be able to participate in MATHCOUNTS, the new nationwide math program for 7th and 8th grade students. The program in Kentucky is being sponsored by the Kentucky Society of Professional Engineers, with cooperation of the Kentucky Department of Education, the Kentucky School Board Association and the Kentucky Teachers of Mathematics Council. Business and industries in Kentucky may also serve as sponsors.

MATHCOUNTS is both a coaching program and a series of competitions at regional, state and national levels. Beginning in November, students will take a screening exam to alert teachers to their math strengths and weaknesses. Teachers then will begin coaching students for the upcoming oral and written competitions. Those who make the school math team will compete against other school "mathletes" in February.

There are approximately 945 schools in Kentucky with 7th and 8th grades. The National Society of Professional Engineers expects that as many as 7.4 million 7th and 8th grade students throughout the U.S. can enter the program and be coached in such accelerated math topics as linear algebra, statistics, probability and polynomials.

In Kentucky, regional competition will be conducted by the engineering society's 13 local chapters. State competition will consist of the 13 regional winners and the winning team will receive a trip to Washington, D.C. for finals in May. National winners will be flown to Cape Canaveral for a space shuttle launch.

By sponsoring the MATHCOUNTS program, the engineers hope to address the nationwide problem of declining math skills among precollege students. The engineering society will supply, free of charge, contest information and coaching materials to all participating schools. Engineers will also volunteer to assist in coaching.

National sponsors of MATHCOUNTS are the National Society of Professional Engineers (NSPE), the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), the National Science Foundation, the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics (NCTM), the National School Board Association and the CNA Insurance Companies.

Deadline for school registration to participate has been extended to November 25, 1983. For more details contact the Kentucky Society of Professional Engineers, P.O. Box 458, Frankfort, Kentucky 40602, telephone (502) 695-5680.

Community Thanksgiving Service Set Here

The annual community Thanksgiving Service will be held tonight, (Wednesday), at 7 p.m. at the Community Methodist Church. Sponsored annually by the Floyd County Ministerial Association, the service will feature singing by the Prestonsburg High School Honor Choir under the direction of Elizabeth Frazier, which is becoming a tradition for the community service. Another tradition to be continued is the invitation to a new pastor in the community to give the Thanksgiving message. This year's sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Paul Hoover, who has recently come to pastor the Seventh Day Adventist congregation.

Other participants include the Rev. Taylor Biggs, host pastor, the Rev. Timothy Jessen, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, Father Ralph Beiting, pastor of the Catholic Church, Dr. Ted Nicholas, pastor of the First Methodist Church, and the Rev. Paul Grainger, Lancer Baptist Church. The offering will benefit the needs of transients who are passing through our community without food or transportation resources.

The public is invited to share in this Thanksgiving giving eve service.

When Bad News Is Good News

Kentucky's unemployment rate rose one-tenth of a percent from September to October and that's good news, according to state labor market analyst Ed Blackwell. It's good news because the higher unemployment rate was caused almost exclusively by major increases in the number of Kentuckians working and the number of people actively searching for employment.

Figures released today by the Cabinet for Human Resources placed the October preliminary unemployment rate at 10.2 percent, up from a revised September rate of 10.1 percent. The national nonseasonally adjusted jobless rate for October was 8.4 percent, falling from 8.8 percent in September.

Blackwell explained that while the state jobless rate rose slightly and moved away from rather than below the 10.0 percent mark, all the reasons for the movement are signs of continued improvement in Kentucky's economy. "The steady upturn in the overall economy has led employers to begin hiring people again, creating several new jobs as well as opening up former positions that were closed during the height of the recession. In October there were 16,000 more people working in the state. That brought our total employment up to 1,503,500, and it's the first time since November of last year that our statewide employment had topped the 1.5 million level," he said.

Blackwell said another positive sign is the increase in the number of people looking for work. "We had noticed many more discouraged workers dropping out of the labor force this year, becoming frustrated with their inability to find employment and just deciding to stop looking. That started to turn around in September and October as more jobs opened up and more people flocked to apply for those jobs. From September to October we experienced an increase in the labor force of 20,600, including the 16,000 who found employment," said Blackwell.

Because the increase in people looking for work was more than the increase in people finding employment, Kentucky's jobless rate rose for October.

Employment gains from September to October included 2,100 in trade, 1,300 in services, 800 in education and 400 each in the manufacturing and construction areas. "There has been a noticeable increase in job openings in stores and restaurants, especially in fast food businesses, and manufacturing jobs in October surpassed the 250,000 mark for the second consecutive month," said Blackwell.

During October employment rose from 1,487,500 to 1,503,500. The unemployment number also increased, from 166,600 to 171,200. In October 1982 the unemployment rate was 10.4 percent, with a total employment of 1,529,700 and total unemployment of 177,700 people.

Kentucky's civilian labor force rose from the September estimate of 1,654,100 to 1,674,700 in October and was below the 1,707,400 figure for October 1982. The civilian labor force includes only non-military persons currently employed and those unemployed individuals who are actively seeking employment.

Blackwell noted that the unusual factors affecting the October labor market have probably knocked Kentucky out of a chance to drop below the 10.0 percent unemployment rate for this year or even before next spring. "As winter arrives in Kentucky, there are fewer jobs in the major employment areas of agriculture and construction. I don't see any signs of major unemployment increases or any negative turnaround for the state's economy. However, traditional employment patterns for Kentucky in November, December and January would indicate that we'll be looking to spring of next year before the rate will hit single digits," he said.

Toll-Free Numbers Open During 1984 General Assembly

Citizens will have two toll-free phone lines available to leave messages for their legislators and to check on the current status of bills during the 1984 General Assembly, according to Rep. Gregory Stumbo.

A message line—at 1-800-372-2985—may be used by anyone wishing to contact individual legislators.

A bill-status line—1-800-372-2993—will be available for persons wishing to check on the progress of specific pieces of legislation.

Both lines will open Jan. 3, the day the 1984 session convenes in Frankfort.

"The toll-free lines are a tremendous asset to the legislators and the general public," Rep. Stumbo said.

"Kentuckians have shown a keen interest in the work of the General Assembly and we have found the toll-free lines to be useful tools for an involved and informed citizenry," he explained. He also said his home telephone number, 886-9953, would be available for constituents as well as his law office number, 285-9228 in Martin. Stumbo said he plans to be in his office every Saturday during the session to meet with citizens.
