

School Board Drops Plan for Top Rate

Will Seek Levy Of 4% Increase Over 1982 Rate

The Board of Education has withdrawn its plan to levy the highest permissible tax rate this year and will seek instead only a 4 percent increase over last year's tax income.

The decision to rescind its earlier proposal was made by the board at a special, unadvertised meeting Monday and reportedly came in response to complaints by county tax officials that seeking the higher rate would unduly delay the posting of tax bills.

While the decision to seek a 4 percent increase means the board must schedule a public hearing—it has been set for November 2, at 6 p.m.—it is not subject to a veto by voters. That means that tax officials may immediately enter the new school rate on tax bills.

Pushing for the higher rate would probably have meant waiting for a voter referendum on the issue. And that, tax officials argued, would hold up county revenues, shorten the collection period, and perhaps reduce the overall collection rate.

In a memorandum summoning board members to Monday's special session, Board Chairman J.D. Adams said that Property Valuation Administrator Lovell Hall and Sheriff Henry Hale felt that any attempt to seek the highest rate should be attempted no later than the summer, in order not to delay tax notices, which are ordinarily posted in October.

It was not until October 5 that the board initially voted this year to levy the highest rate, which is known as the Subsection II rate, after the section in state law that authorizes it.

Tax officials also suggested that the board might levy a different, and more promptly administered, tax, Adams told his colleagues on the board. Superintendent E.P. Grigsby, Jr. later explained that the levy of a utilities tax later in the year was discussed by some board members as a possible option.

Compared to the $1.1 million which the higher tax rate would have generated, assuming a 100 percent collection, the theoretical yield of the lower rate is $891,000.

Clerk's Estate Named in Claim On Unpaid Loans

With various creditors, including two state offices and the Floyd fiscal court, laying claim to the estate of the late County Clerk C. Ollie Robinson, the First Commonwealth Bank moved in circuit court here last week to make sure it receives its share.

According to a suit filed last Wednesday, Robinson died owing $28,205 on a $50,400 loan taken out in 1977 and the whole of a $6200 note executed in January this year, only a month before his death. In borrowing the latter sum, Robinson was listed as "doing business as Jenny Wiley Advertising."

A Mays Branch property owned by Robinson and his daughter, Sharon Robinson Spradlin, was offered as security for the 1977 loan and for any subsequent loans up to a total of $60,000, the bank claims.

Plaintiff asks the court to confirm its status as prior lienholder and to authorize foreclosure and sale of the property.

Also past due, it is claimed, are payments on two loans taken out by Robinson in his capacity as county clerk. Some $946 is still owing on a $5679 note

Property Purchases Here Hint Possible First Guaranty Branch

Prestonsburg has two banks and two branch banks, and it may have another. The recent purchase by a mining company and an individual of three properties beginning at the Lake Drive end of the US 23 and Mountain Parkway bridge here and extending north almost a block is construed as the first move in that direction.

If a branch bank is built on the property, it will be a branch of the First Guaranty Bank of Martin.

But Burlin Coleman, spokesman for the Martin bank and president of the Pikeville First National Bank & Trust Company, said any statement of this time of the bank's plans would be "premature."

No application for a new institution of the sort has been filed, he said. "I don't

Broadform Deed Bill Earns Okay

A bill designed to protect surface owners of coal lands easily cleared its first hurdle yesterday (Tuesday), when it passed out of a legislative committee on a near unanimous vote.

The bill, which would limit the mining methods that could be used by holders of mineral rights, was presented to the Interim Joint Committee on Judiciary-Civil in Frankfort by its sponsor, Rep. Gregory D. Stumbo.

The Prestonsburg legislator's so-called "broadform deed bill" says that owners of mineral rights "can only use the method or methods of mining that were known at the time" the rights were sold. Strip mining was rarely if ever practiced around the turn of the century when many landowners sold off their mineral rights under the broadform deeds.

Others from this county who spoke to the committee in favor of the bill included John Rosenberg, head of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund and an expert in broadform deed law, Everett Akers, a former state legislator and an outspoken critic of stripmining abuses, and Billy Arms, an East Point farmer whose property was torn up and then abandoned by a coal company that went broke.

All are reportedly members of the Kentucky Fair Tax Coalition, a citizens group which has lobbied extensively for a legislative curb on use of the broadform deed as well as for a tax on unmined minerals.

Kentucky courts have traditionally refused to limit the methods used by those holding deeds to mineral rights. A broadform deed bill died in committee on the last day of the 1982 Kentucky legislative session. The present bill was reported out of committee yesterday on a 12-0 vote, with one abstention.

Change of Venue In Murder Trial Still Undecided

With the return to jail here from Tennessee of the fourth man accused in the slaying of Glenda Sharon Marshall, Floyd teacher, a final decision may be reached soon on the change of venue for the case that apparently was prematurely announced recently.

Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen and defense attorneys for three of the defendants agreed on the Fayette circuit court as a trial site, but Circuit Judge Hollie Conley did not make that change official, and since that time he has disqualified as trial judge in the case and a special judge is to be designated.

Yet, if Harold Gene McGuffey, the prisoner returned here only last week, agrees to the change of venue to Lexington, whoever is appointed to preside at the trial is expected to approve the change.

Ned Pillersdorf, of the Public Defender's office, who represents Clyde Douglas Marshall, husband of the victim, has asked for a speedy trial, and Commonwealth's Attorney Allen said he expects that request to be granted.

"We are ready for trial, but changes of venue to other counties involve a lot of preparation and trouble," he added. In addition to the husband and McGuffey, two others—Harlos Ben Marshall, brother of Clyde Douglas, and Carl Harold McFarland—have been charged. It is possible that all the defendants will be on trial at the same time, although McFarland has turned state's evidence and may not be prosecuted.

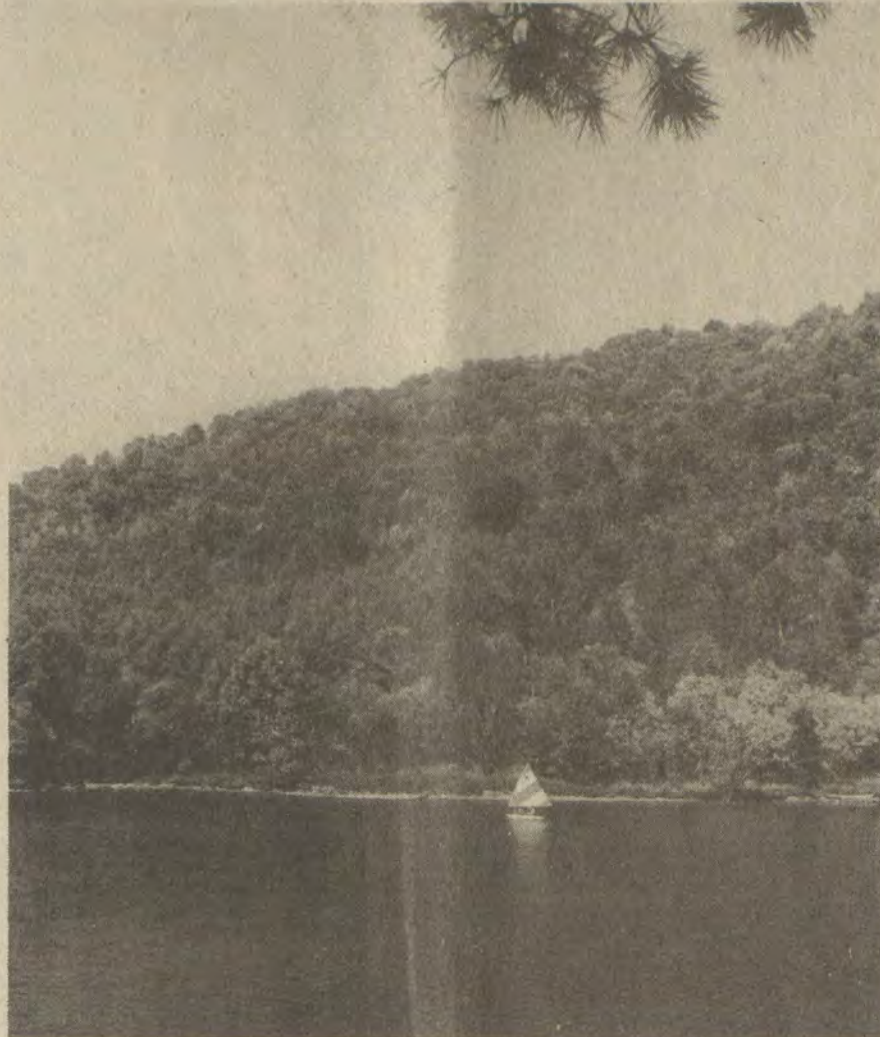

All the defendants except Harlos Ben Marshall are held without bond. He was released from jail here when $10,000 cash bond was posted by his mother.

know just yet," he added but admitted that "we are interested."

The Simp Mart Mining Co. bought from Robert and Mona Shank the former Robert Goble home, including two lots, and from Ed Music a lot facing 40 feet along Lake Drive next to the bridge entrance. Two lots and parts of two others, on which two homes are located, were bought from Mrs. Lucy Ransdell by Julius Martin, of McDowell.

According to county court records, the amount involved in the purchases is $190,000.

Stock of the First Guaranty Bank was sold last May to Pikeville private interests, but the stock transfer has not resulted in personnel changes at the bank.

A BIT OF SAILING on Dewey Lake might have meant the "deep six" a couple of months ago with power boats skittering in all directions. On the lovely fall days of late, however, it seems quite appropriate.

Flashers or Enforcement—Or Both?...

Safer Highway Intersections Being Pondered by Officials

State highway officials were studying several intersections in Floyd county this week to see if they might be made safer. However, safety stems in large part from law enforcement rather than engineering design, one official pointed out.

A report centering on the intersections of U.S. 23 with Arnold Avenue and North Lake Drive was being prepared this week, said District Engineer Kirby Ison, of the Bureau of Highways' Pikeville office. Prestonsburg city officials recently made a request of the state for a flashing light at the Arnold Avenue intersection and trucks periodically overturn while trying to negotiate the turn from U.S. 23 onto Lake Drive.

He will also investigate traffic conditions at the intersection of U.S. 23 and KY 1428 at Allen, following reports that trucks traveling on U.S. 23 are sometimes unable to stop on a red light there, the engineer said.

But a section of North Lake Drive in

No Argument, Says Minister of Meeting

The Rev. L.P. Tussey emphasized the point this week that there was no argument between Gary McCoy and himself at last week's meeting of the City Council.

"The newspaper report indicated that there was a dispute. I simply asked the Council to table Mr. McCoy's motion until I could employ a lawyer to represent me," he said. "There was no argument between us."

THE STREETS OF MARTIN were alive Saturday with the clamor and excitement of the yearly Red, White and Blue Day Parade. Blessed by perfect fall weather, the event attracted multitudes of spectators who enjoyed, among other things, marching bands such as that of Allen Central High School, pictured above.

Public Funds Investigation Not Complete

Work of a special investigations unit of the Kentucky State Police in a probe into possible abuses of public monies in this county was expected to end last week and its findings to be ready for a grand jury, but that climactic stage of the investigation now seems farther ahead.

A new development reportedly showed up, the investigation continues and it is possible that the grand jury session will not be called till after the Nov. 8 election.

Members of the unit told Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen last Thursday that their investigation is not yet complete and they could not say when it would be.

In the meantime, Allen formally requested the state attorney-general's office Monday to appoint a special prosecutor "to assist in the investigation and prosecution of these matters." The commonwealth's attorney cited a heavy backlog of other cases as the reason for his request. His office has 240 criminal trials pending, including 11 murder cases, he explained.

(Two of the murder cases are classified as capital crimes that could be punishable by the death penalty. One involves four men accused in the death of Glenda Marshall, McDowell teacher. In the other a single defendant is charged with the slayings of two.)

The question of whether the state police findings will be presented to a special session of the existing Floyd Circuit Court grand jury or a specially-appointed grand jury has not yet been decided, Allen said.

Allen declined comment on any aspect of the probe, including unconfirmed reports that police will be seeking indictments of several county officials and candidates for elective office.

The investigation initially focussed on 1982 spending practices of Floyd fiscal court under the administration of the late Judge-Executive Jerry Lafferty, Jr. It was later expanded to include a $500,000 deficit left by the late County Clerk C. Ollie Robinson.

Unpaid Bills Turn Up, Court 'Over Barrel'

County officials suddenly found themselves "over a barrel" last Thursday, when a Lexington printer threatened to withhold election ballots unless he was paid $9000 he said was owed by the late County Clerk C. Ollie Robinson.

Jay Harp, president of Harp Enterprises, reportedly told Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo that ballots for the November 8 election would not be forthcoming unless the county paid an 18-month-old bill for deed and mortgage books.

"I told Mr. Harp that if it is a just bill we would authorize payment (at the next fiscal court meeting) Friday," Stumbo said, "and I have no question but what it is (just)."

But, while the late clerk apparently never paid Harp, the county probably paid the clerk for his record books, Finance Officer Delores Dingus insisted. That would mean that, if it approves payment of the bill this week, the fiscal court will have paid twice for the same goods.

If that happens, it will not be the first time this year that the fiscal court will have apparently paid a bill twice on account of Robinson's alleged neglect. In June, the county agreed to pay Dependable Data, a London, Ky. firm, $8323 for printing tax bills, even though county officials said the late clerk had previously been reimbursed for the bill.

Asked why the outstanding bills were not charged against Robinson's estate, a fiscal court officer said Al Howell—a representative of the state Local Finance office who was closely monitoring Floyd finances at the time—had directed the court to pay the Dependable Data bill.

One reason for paying Harp Enterprises was even more compelling—Harp has the ballots and the election is less than three weeks away.

The apparent loser in all this will be the incoming county clerk, from whose office account the bill will be paid, according to fiscal court officials. Of the $11,500 budgeted for the clerk's office this year, $8153 remains. Paying the Harp bill will leave the new clerk with no money for office expenses for the next seven months.

One claim the county has no intention of honoring, said Judge Stumbo, is a bill for $2260 which Harp said is owed by the Coal Bit Company in connection with the setting up of voting machines for the May primary.

The county paid Coal Bit $7500 in May to take care of the voting machines and, if Coal Bit subcontracted the work to Harp, that is a matter between those two firms, Stumbo said.

Mrs. Ruth DeRossett, Coal Bit proprietor, said this week that, although she felt Harp had overcharged for the work, she has settled the bill with that firm.

Vows Spoken, Sept. 3rd

Miss Michele Anna Didion, daughter of Mrs. Larry Miles, of Waynesville, O., and the late Mark A. Didion, was married Sept. 3 to Ronald A. Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald L. Davis, also of Waynesville.

The bride is the daughter of Dorothy Hopkins Miles, formerly of East McDowell, and the granddaughter of Josie Hopkins and the late Rev. Ross Hopkins.

Her uncle, Carl Ray Tuttle, of East McDowell, performed an old-fashion ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

Miss Pamela Sue Hopkins, of Prestonsburg, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Bobby Davis, the groom's brother, was best man. Miss Becky Jo Hopkins, another cousin was the flower girl. Other family members present were her aunt, Donna Hopkins Tuttle; her uncles, Ronnie D. Hopkins, Paintsville, Robert A. Hopkins and wife, Janice Merrill, of Prestonsburg; cousins, David Tuttle, East McDowell, Ronnie Hopkins, Jr., Paintsville, Robert Keith Hopkins and Billy Ray Hopkins, Prestonsburg; her uncle, Robert V. Hicks and wife, Mildred June, of Shelby, Ohio.

A reception was held at the home following the ceremony. The couple reside in Lebanon, Ohio, where Mr. Davis is employed.

How Can I Help A Child After Death of A Loved One?

Reading books or pamphlets which describe how others have adjusted to death can often provide insights and understanding.

Studying these books will help you to help the child and will suggest ways to communicate with the child effectively. Some of the basic books on this subject which we recommend are:

LEARNING TO SAY GOODBYE by Eda LeShan
TELLING A CHILD ABOUT DEATH by Edgan N. Jackson
EXPLAINING DEATH TO CHILDREN by Earl A. Grollman
HELPING YOUR CHILD UNDERSTAND DEATH by Anna W. M. Wolf
DEATH, GRIEF, MOURNING, THE FUNERAL AND THE CHILD by William Lamers

Consult the local library for these. Discuss it with your clergyman. Or call us. If you have any special concerns about children and death, please do call on us so we can share our professional understanding with you.

2 In Hospital Here After One Fatally Burned in Magoffin

Two survivors of a fire which claimed the life of a Magoffin county man were being treated this week at the Highlands Medical Center.

Zachary Isaac, 28, was burned to death early Sunday in a fire which destroyed the family home at Flat Fork, about 15 miles from Salyersville.

Joe Isaac, 50, father of the victim, is being treated at the hospital here for smoke inhalation. His son, John, 17, suffered first- and second-degree burns on his face, shoulder and hand.

Mrs. Joe Isaac and a small child escaped, unharmed. The family was asleep when the fire broke out. Although the home was almost completely destroyed, the nearby Flat Fork postoffice was not damaged.

Martin Kiwanis Installs Officers

The annual installation of officers of the Martin Kiwanis Club was conducted at Frazier's Restaurant in Martin, Tuesday, Oct. 11. The following officers were installed by Lt. Governor Robert M. Duncan, of the Martin County Kiwanis Club.

President, Aaron Akers, vice president, Elbert Caudill; secretary-treasurer, Edford Clark.

Guests were Mrs. Robert M. Duncan, wives of Martin Club members, past Lt. Governor Leonard Grant and Mrs. Grant, past Governor of Kentucky-Tennessee Kiwanis District Huck Francis and Mrs. Francis.

Members of the Martin Kiwanis Club will conduct their Annual Pancake day, Nov. 5, at the Martin School lunchroom. Proceeds from pancake ticket sales will be used for the Kiwanis scholarship fund and other community projects.

 JUDGE

Leadership is the job, and John M. Stumbo has proven himself. He took the office of County Judge-Executive during a time when it was torn by controversy and lack of revenue. The monies available for his first budget was $1.2 million dollars LESS than the preceding year. Instead of double-talk and excuses, John Stumbo made the hard decisions. He recommended elimination of $285,000.00 in expenditures for salaries alone. In his own County Judge's office, six paid positions were eliminated with no cut back of services. This was done not with a desire to eliminate any individual's livelihood, but to fulfill his pledge to give the people services, not a few jobs. That's what it's all about, a County Judge-Executive who will look at a dollar and see potential services for the people, not an opportunity for his friends. These are hard times, and every dollar must be spent for the common good of our people. John Stumbo is the man who will present that view to your Magistrates and public employees. He will pursue that view in the administrations of your money. He has instituted competitive bidding on all major purchases, and has refused to honor any bill without prior approval and issuance of a purchase order from his office. This is good business and good leadership. Floyd County CANNOT afford anything LESS

TO THE VOTERS OF FLOYD COUNTY!

To those of you who do not know me, I would like to tell you who I am.

I, Evelyn Sammons Goble, am a lifelong resident of Prestonsburg, Ky. I am the daughter of Mrs. Elva Branham Sammons, of the Auxier Road, Prestonsburg, and the late Dewey Sammons. My paternal grandparents were Joe and Sarah Harrington Sammons, from Arkansas Creek in Floyd County. My maternal grandparents were John and Esther Hopson Branham, from the Auxier Road, Prestonsburg. I am now a self-supporting widow. I was married to Robert M. Goble, of Prestonsburg, who passed away in June, 1979. I have one son, Michael N. Walls, age 20, of Prestonsburg. I have one sister, Ethel N. Sammons, Auxier Road, Prestonsburg; also, three brothers, Dallas Sammons and Arliss Sammons, Auxier Road, Prestonsburg, and Denver Sammons, of Hollywood, Florida. I am widely related in Floyd County, having many relatives in different sections of the county.

I am not only running for myself for this office, but for my fellow co-workers, a group of hard-working girls who would like to keep their jobs and keep on serving you, the people of Floyd County. Get behind us and VOTE for the most qualified candidate for Floyd County Clerk on Nov. 8—

Culprits

By WILMAY

Factors and persons responsible for lowered educational standards across the nation are culprits. A primary cause of the deterioration of our public schools is seldom mentioned in publications that deplore the alarming statistics given. It is the widespread immorality. When morality declines everything else suffers. TV plays a major role in the learning process, since few parents limit the viewing hours of their offspring. Teachers often note marked improvement among pupils from a family whose TV is in repairs a long while. Another culprit is desegregation, which was long past due. Little black children were neglected so long that some find it impossible to keep pace with others, so the daily fare in the classroom is watered down.

Absence of the work ethic affects the picture. In countless homes youngsters grow up with no chores required. Fun and pleasure have precedence over duties, so the children loaf much of the time. A very potent cause of failure in many schools is that fringe curricula have priority over the basics everyone needs. There are still no substitutes for reading, writing, spelling, simple arithmetic and grammar. Last week a Prestonsburg friend remarked that my little book, A TEACHER VIEWS THE SCHOOL CRISIS, published in 1957, pointed out this and other shortcomings now highlighted by the media. What child will select spinach when ice cream is available? Which students choose difficult courses if they can get sufficient credits from easy ones? It's a blessing for our national security that countless parents, teachers and school counselors steer many of the brightest students into challenging studies, since the high technology of this age demands the best brains.

Recently a prominent Westerner lamented the fact that school sports get more attention and often larger funding than academics, that many coaches are better paid than school administrators! He named one city where every dime of local taxes for education goes to athletics. Then we wonder why some schools dismiss early for tournaments. Years ago my husband and I were in the office of our then county superintendent who said he did wish that adults cared more for academic achievement than for athletics. AMEN!

The need to fund education better is stressed, but few note that the materialism of recent decades is one element in the controversy. Years ago people came before things, hence children got more time and attention from parents and others. But the greenback is one of the foremost gods of the world today. Any people putting mammon before God will pay a heavy price. One glance at wholesale abortion, pornography, drugs, homosexuality, mounting divorces, increased single-parent families, et cetera today should show us what is wrong.

Low salaries are listed as a primary culprit. Kentucky—like West Virginia, Mississippi, and some other poorer states—should increase teacher salaries, but that alone will not solve the situation. Many excellent instructors understandably leave the profession for those that provide higher salaries and retirement. Kentucky has lost some teachers to states that pay more. But numerous splendid teachers remain, the kind who refuse to strike, the ones who light a spark in the minds of students who may come from the lowliest home, the type no youngster ever forgets. For them, teaching is not a poorly paid profession. It's a golden opportunity to serve youth, to mold young lives, to inspire them to new heights. To those great men and women teaching will always be what it should be, namely, a calling. While these flaws are not confined to Eastern Kentucky, may God give us more teachers like the ones just described.

Robinson died in February this year. Lafferty died in May.

Among the areas said to have been looked into by the state police unit are alleged use of county personnel and equipment on private projects, purchase of tires and other merchandise which was never put to public use, payments of wages to individuals who were not officially on the county payroll, and payment of other alleged phony claims.

The investigation was reportedly hampered by the unavailability of many 1982 fiscal court records—including bills and invoices—which were said to have disappeared from county offices.

Two bills which survive, however, are MasterCard and Visa bills for last October, when a number of county officials were permitted to use the charge cards to pay expenses incurred in the course of official business.

In one seven-day period, 16 bills for gas and lodgings were charged to the county. The bills were run up in four states and totalled over $500, including a $211 bill at a Jackson, Wyoming establishment.

Following an instruction of state Local Government Advisor Al Howell earlier this year, the county discontinued use of credit cards.

"There is no question in my mind it will be thorough," Commonwealth's Attorney Allen said this week of the investigation of the two county offices. "The public will be satisfied."

executed in 1980 and $5802 is due on $7460 borrowed in 1982, according to the suit.

Copiers tendered as security for the two loans should be delivered to the bank by court order, argues its attorney, Larry D. Brown.

Other claims against the late clerk's estate include $288,989 which the state Transportation Cabinet says is due in unpaid registration fees and $116,398 the Revenue Cabinet claims as delinquent taxes.

According to an audit, the county is owed $11,408 in excess fees for 1982 and 1983 and $68,442 in other taxes from 1977 through 1983. The Bank Josephine lists a $15,058 "special fund" overdraft, also.

Japanese Ceramics Admired in West

By SUSAN D. BLISS

Smithsonian News Service

Twice a year, high on a slope of western Virginia's hill country, Rob Barnard gathers a few of his fellow potters in his backyard to help him load his kiln—a low-lying, tunnel-like structure—with the plates, bowls, cups and pitchers he's made during the past six months. About 48 hours later, the nonobtrusive kiln, having been fed continuously with a couple of cords of oak logs and kindling, has been transformed into a pulsating, white-hot chamber of flame and ash.

As oxygen in the kiln is consumed by flame and the temperature rises in carefully monitored stages, the physical composition of the brittle, dried-clay vessels is transformed to durable density.

Although modern, gas-fired kilns can accomplish the same process with a lot less work, Barnard built his to approximate the kilns developed in 12th-century Japan. He is one of a number of Western potters whose admiration of Japanese ceramic achievements has grown into a full-time involvement with that country's ceramic techniques and aesthetic principles.

Barnard, who studied ceramics in Kyoto, says he is attracted to the Japanese awareness of the delicate balance between the beautiful and the ugly. Some of Japan's most revered ceramic treasures, he explains, may be irregularly shaped and flawed by cracks and surface scars, yet are considered lovely. In fact, in some cases, these imperfections are prized qualities.

"What we in the West think of as contradiction—good and bad within a single piece—is seen by the Japanese as the essence of beauty," Barnard says.

Ceremonies Honor Two Retiring from Reserves

Retirement ceremonies in honor of David W. Osborne, Prestonsburg postmaster, and Ellis Osborne, of Banner, were held Oct. 4 at American Legion Post No. 83, Pikeville, by Company D, 478th Engineers, U.S. Army Reserve.

First Sgt. Donald Osborne retired with more than 33 years' service in the U.S. Army and Army Reserve. Ellis Osborne will retire next July after 40 years as administrative supply technician and previously as first sergeant.

Donald Osborne was succeeded as first sergeant by Clifford Crum, who is a mine inspector at Pikeville. Both retirees received plaques from the officers and members of the company.

★ CANCER HOPELINE ★

The Cancer Hopeline is a toll-free consultative telephone service available to any Kentuckian who has a cancer-related problem. Qualified counselors take calls Monday-Friday from 9-5 and return recorded messages the next working day. They do not diagnose cancer, recommend treatment for individual cases, nor dispense money. Counselors do provide consultations with specialists as well as support and understanding. Because of its designation by the National Cancer Institute as Kentucky's Cancer Information Service, the Hopeline has rapid access to the latest cancer information. All matters are treated confidentially. Call the Cancer Hopeline toll free at 1-800-4-CANCER, or write us at 915 South Limestone Street, Lexington, Kentucky 40536.

Q. I will begin chemotherapy soon and expect to lose my hair. Should I buy a wig, scarves, etc. now, or should I wait? Will my hair come out gradually or all at once?

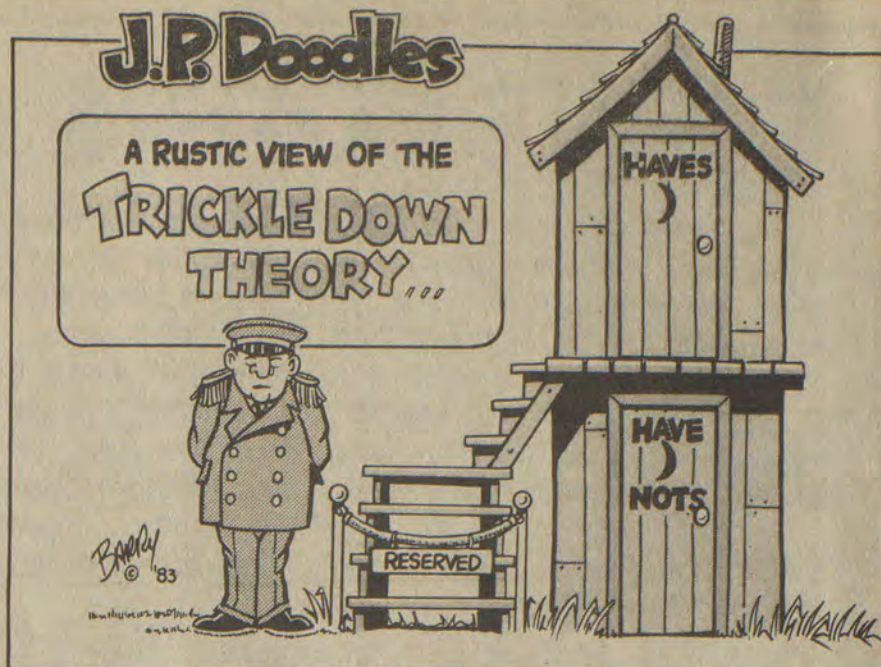

A. The loss of hair, known as alopecia, is difficult for many cancer patients to accept because it so greatly alters their appearance. One way to minimize the impact is to buy a wig before you begin treatment so you can wear it as soon as your hair thins. If you have long hair, it's a good idea to cut it short before it begins to thin. Some black patients have been able to delay hair loss by braiding their hair instead of vigorously combing it. Special scarves, turbans, and hats are also helpful and may prove cooler than wigs in hot, humid Kentucky weather. You may request information about one particularly good scarf and hat from the Hopeline.

When it comes to shopping for a wig, do it yourself so that it fits well, and you know it looks attractive on you. Get the same color as your own hair. Less expensive wigs look synthetic, but dusting them with a little talcum powder will reduce the shine. Many people buy more than one wig, especially if they tend to perspire. A good synthetic wig washes better, is less expensive to maintain, and is cooler and cheaper than a wig made from human hair.

Wigs are considered tax deductible medical expenses and also may be covered by insurance; check your policy, and discuss the matter with your agent. In addition, the American Cancer Society and some hospitals have wig banks where you can get them free.

Hair loss from chemotherapy drugs varies from patient to patient and drug to drug. The hair may come out in clumps, and your head may become quite sensitive. The scalp also has a tendency to become flakey and irritated, but a mild-shampoo and/or olive oil rubbed into the scalp may be helpful. Check with your physician if such a condition becomes severe. You may also experience body hair loss. Loss of eyebrows and lashes may be effectively concealed by glasses with large frames or frames that come just in front of the eyebrow.

To obtain information about the special hats and scarves, or for a free copy of "Chemotherapy and You: A Guide to Self-Help During Treatment," call the Cancer Hopeline toll free at 1-800-4-CANCER from 9-5 weekdays. You may write us at 915 South Limestone Street, Lexington, Ky. 40536.

Who Are The Radicals?

Let's get our heads out of the sand! The majority of parents have been quiet too long. We've sat back and kept quiet, afraid that we'd make it hard on our own children. Which is probably true. We're thankful that some parents have more courage than we do and demand what is right for our children. We all need to accept the blame for our actions and go from there.

Let's decide who the radicals are. Are the radicals the people who want the written rules followed or the people who don't? I don't feel that the concerned parents who want our schools improved are radicals. If so, then I'm ready to be called a radical. Our school system is obviously doing something terribly wrong, or we wouldn't rank 6 from the bottom out of about 180 districts. Just think—these are our leaders of tomorrow. Do we want to follow leaders who ranked at the bottom of the totem pole?

Let's get our priorities in order. First, the way our children are treated at school shouldn't depend on their athletic abilities or the wealth of their parents. The more unfortunate children are human beings also. I know that all teachers don't think like this (we do have some excellent teachers), but many of them do. Many of them resent the fact that it's now public knowledge that our school system is in such serious trouble. They could be feeling guilty, or they wouldn't be so resentful. And what kind of a teacher will pick on a child because its parents want to make sure that it's getting the education it deserves? Certainly not a teacher who is a true teacher at heart—more like one who only wants to draw a paycheck.

I realize that there are parents who aren't interested in their child's education, but just look at the ones who are. This is evident by the many parents who work so hard for the schools. Our PTA's have become money makers. Is this the sole purpose that PTA's were formed for?—I don't hardly think so. How can teachers teach and principals attend to their duties with all the selling of junk that is going on? Out of the millions of dollars allotted to the schools, can't the administration budget its money so that the teachers can get on with their teaching? I'm sick to death of all this selling business.

What brought all this on was a conversation I heard between two teachers. They were talking about the radical students and parents who wanted improvements for the schools. I don't think that the things the people are asking for are radical requests. Is it radical to want books, safe buses and clean buildings? They were discussing a petition that they had signed that said they were happy with their school, the way it was. I thought, "Heavenly days! These are the radicals. They just don't want to do their jobs or they'd want to get rid of the stigma that is attached to the Floyd County Schools."

Parents, let's unite and help our children. Let's demand the good education and safe facilities we're paying for. We've sat back long enough and let other people fight our children's battles. Praise the Lord for people who care enough to do this for OUR children, but let's give them a helping hand. They certainly deserve it. And let's be thankful for the bus driver who complained about the bad buses. Mr. Grigsby made a statement that he thought the accusations against him were wild and hilarious. Well, I don't see one funny thing about unsafe buses. There was certainly nothing funny about the bus wreck of 1958. We're still grieving for those children. I don't think that bus wreck was the result of bad maintenance or driving, but if our children are turned loose on buses that have been proven to be unsafe, just think what kind of tragedy could result in that. I just want to say thanks again to these "meddling mothers" who, Mr. Grigsby said, were meddling in his affairs. May the good Lord bless them, and I say this from the bottom of my heart.

Let's help our children to help themselves. They can do this with a good education.

Critical of Schools, Writer Asks Questions

All over Kentucky and the nation as a whole, the media is proclaiming and officials are saying that we must upgrade our schools...more time in the classroom...more discipline...more stringent requirements for the students at all grade levels...tougher requirements for graduating seniors.

When those words are read in newspapers, heard on radio and television parents say, "It's about time", "Good for them". "Maybe we can compete in the market place again!" However, when citizens and concerned parents groups said those same things at Floyd county PTA/O meetings and later at board meetings, they were ignored.

Asking for the dismissal of the Superintendent and board members was the last step in a long process (six years for myself) of trying to get changes made. When that action was taken the reaction was death threats, threats from parents at board meetings, nasty remarks by students blaming those council members and concerned parents for taking away "their privileges."

Floyd county was investigated by the State Department of Education, which found serious problems and recommended that the school administration in this school system adhere to the law.

Floyd county citizens as a whole are no better, no different, no worse than other citizens of Kentucky with regard to the law—or are we?

If you will take the time to do a little reading and research you will find that our Floyd county schools are 6th from the bottom. That fact in itself should give you an indication as to what "their privileges" have done to the educational quality of Floyd county schools.

I have been quiet for a long time and have listened to a lot of talk about what trouble-makers and radicals the citizens council and concerned parents groups are.

Is it radical to want a child in the classroom rather than on the street selling ads, during school hours, for a basketball tournament?

Is it making trouble when a child finally has a book to take home so that he/she can study and do homework?

Is it radical to want to know at what time of the day a child will be coming home from school so parents who work can arrange for their care?

Is it meddling to want a responsible approach to financial management of a $12 million dollar school system paid through tax dollars?

Is it wrong to want to be better than 6th from the bottom on C.T.B.S. test scores in the state of Kentucky?

Is it radical to want safe buses, properly maintained, serviced, and repaired, when approximately 9000 students ride those buses on curving mountain roads?

No! It is not radical, wrong, making trouble, or meddling, and it is time to stop blaming and start working to better the quality of education for our children.

After all, our children are the victims of sixth from the bottom and their future is being jeopardized because of that statistic.

Think about it!

A Great Sea Captain

A great sea captain is probably no big deal to many folks.

There is one peculiar sea captain and the events transpired as follows:

A young man assisted his father who was captain of a slave ship. The son later became captain of his own slave ship. His ship was about to sink on the high seas. He promised the Lord, if his ship survived, he would do something different.

The ship weathered the storm, and this feller quit as ship's captain. He served as a minister for 28 years.

While serving as a minister, he got the desire to write a religious song, but could not think of any words.

He remembered scripture says, "open wide your mouth and I will give you the words."

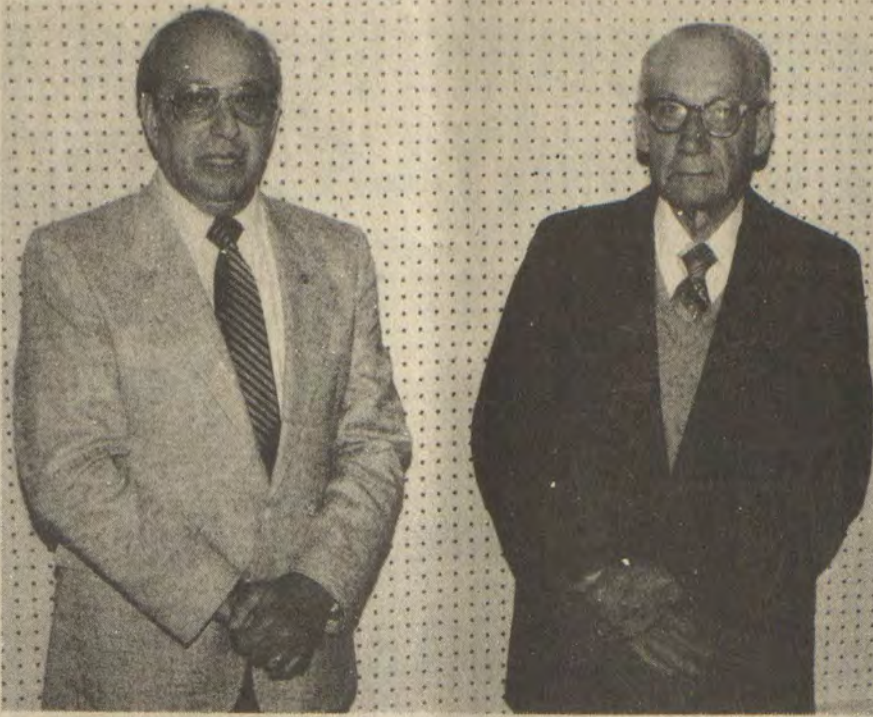

He uttered a prayer for help and picked up his pen and began to write, "Amazing Grace, how sweet the sound, That saved a Wretch like me."

It is really very simple. The Lord gives us everything to do anything He wants done.

Two Receive Kiwanis Honors

Two members of the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club received one of Kiwanis International's highest honors, that of life membership status, September 29, following the annual installation of the club's officers for the coming year.

The first, presented by Huck Francis, of the Prestonsburg Club, was awarded to Glenn Anderson, Sr., and the second went to Leonard Grant, also of the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club and was presented by Charles Patton, immediate past Lt. Governor of Division 16 who represented all nine clubs of the Division.

In the 60-year history of the club, this was only the fifth such presentation ever made.

Each year, at the request of a district, division or individual club, Kiwanis International may bestow upon a member the honor of Life Member Status. Kiwanis International's quota of life member awards for the year 1982-83 was 1,000, out of 300,000 members worldwide. In Kiwanis' 70-year history, only a bit over 5,000 Kiwanians have received the award.

Mr. Anderson, who joined the club in 1946 and with 37 years of continuous service, is the oldest living member of the club. During this time he held every office with the local club as well as Division 16 posts. Mr. Anderson retired in 1973 as manager of the Office of Economic Security here, a position which he held for 29 years. He is a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Prestonsburg.

Leonard Grant, a member of the Prestonsburg club since 1977, has served as president and vice-president of the club as well as Lt. Governor of Division 16. He was awarded the title of Distinguished President and Distinguished Lt. Governor by the KY-TENN District and is now beginning his second year as secretary-treasurer. A native of New York City, he is active in a number of civic groups and projects and is a member of the United Methodist Church here. He is presently employed as marketing representative for Electronics Business Machines, Inc., a Lexington-based company which recently has opened a branch office in Prestonsburg.

CONDUCTS SERVICES HERE

The Rt. Rev. Addison Hosea, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Lexington, celebrated Holy Communion, and Confirmation Sunday, at a joint service for St. Davids, Pikeville and St. James, Prestonsburg. The Rev. Christopher Platt, vicar, assisted in the service. Mrs. David Derossett, of Prestonsburg, was confirmed and after the service, dinner was served to 75 at the Agapi House.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Henry Pitts would express thanks to all who helped during the passing of our loved one. Thanks to all who sent food, flowers, prayers and words of comfort during this time of sorrow. Thanks to the ministers for their kind and comforting words and to the Hall Funeral Home for its kind and efficient service.

CARLA ROBINSON
BOYD

Democrat Nominee
COUNTY COURT CLERK

I believe myself to be a friend to all and an enemy of none. In the past few months I have made many new friends and supporters in my campaign. I sincerely feel that instead of the 3964 votes I received in the May election, I will, with the help of all my friends receive 75% of the total votes cast in the November General election. It is time that we, as Floyd Countians, unite as one to prove once again that we do live in a "Democracy" and that we do have a "Freedom of Choice."

I am qualified to do the job and all "Floyd Countians" will be treated with the utmost respect and courtesy when conducting business at the clerk's office. So now I am asking you to please go to the polls on November 8th and vote for me, CARLA ROBINSON BOYD, for "YOUR" County Clerk.

Thank You

Youth Is Injured In Hunting Mishap

Craig Harmon, 14-year-old son of James and Wanda Harmon, of Allen, was seriously wounded in an apparent hunting accident, Saturday near Martin.

Harmon, who was squirrel hunting with a friend, Robin Flannery, sustained a wound to the upper thigh when Flannery's 12-ga. shotgun discharged after it was dropped to the ground. After Flannery summoned help, the wounded youth was taken to Our Lady of the Way Hospital at Martin (reportedly with some difficulty since the Red, White & Blue Day parade was under way at the time.)

Later, Harmon was transported by helicopter to the University of Kentucky Medical Center, Lexington.

CONCERNED CITIZENS OF FLOYD COUNTY

November 8 is election day and you have the opportunity to rescue your county from the shameful things that have been happening to us for all too long now. Go to the polls with only one thing in mind, what is best for Floyd county and the future of our children. Don't sell your vote for a few dollars worth of gravel on your driveway or a small favor or a pat on the back just before the election. When you step inside that voting booth, only you know which lever you pull. This is your opportunity to show a small group of county politicians that they can no longer sit in a secret meeting and decide who will hold which office in your county, that they can no longer decide who they will railroad or crush and then count on you to do what you are told. This is your chance to show them that you are not always predictable and that no one has you in his pocket simply because of the party label he chooses to wear. The Democratic party is a great and honorable party, and has given to us an abundance of great men. Unfortunately, all too often, incompetent or dishonest people seek to reach great heights behind its banner. It is our responsibility to stop them before they can drag our great party through the mud. This time, Floyd County has an outstanding candidate for County Judge-Executive. No, he is not a Democrat, but he is an outstanding businessman, neighbor and citizen. He is honest, outspoken, educated and worried about the future of his home county, which he loves dearly. He shares many of your concerns and wants the opportunity to make us all proud of Floyd County again. Let's go to the polls Tuesday, November 8, and elect Ronald Frasure Floyd County Judge-Executive and show that our hearts and heads are in the right place.

The Left Beaver Rescue Squad and Volunteer Fire Department this week asked for the support of the public in contributions of any amount.

The non-profit group has served the Left Beaver area for many years responding to any kind of emergency situation and averages approximately 400 ambulance calls and 55 rescue-related calls each year.

To comply with state regulations, the squad must now update its ambulances or it will be unable to continue to provide emergency services as in the past. For this reason, money is needed.

Fund-raising activities are being planned, including a day of live music, October 30, but a response from citizens to the squad's plight will be necessary, a spokesman for the group pointed out.

Contributions may be sent to The Left Beaver Rescue Squad, Price, Ky. 41654.

A MESSAGE TO THE VOTERS OF FLOYD COUNTY...

A LIFELONG DEMOCRAT AND A FORMER EMPLOYEE IN THE COUNTY JUDGE'S OFFICE ASKS YOU, THE VOTERS IN FLOYD COUNTY, TO THINK ABOUT THE UPCOMING COUNTY JUDGE'S RACE, THIS NOV. 8. THE QUESTION IS, "WHAT KIND OF MAN DO WE WANT TO MANAGE FLOYD COUNTY?"

Our Democratic party had an excellent man, Mr. Barkley J. Sturgill, appointed as County Judge-Executive that would have represented our party well this November 8. But Mr. Morris Isaac (Our Democratic chairman) and a few others engineered the now famous, hastily-called meeting at Shag Campbell's house on May 15, 1983, four days after the appointment of Barkley J. Sturgill. They made a decision as to who would be the Democratic nominee for over 24,000 of us Democrats when they picked Mr. John M. Stumbo. I don't believe they tried to pick a candidate WE Floyd Countians can be proud of to manage our County government. Some questions relative to Mr. Stumbo's 31 years in county finances: Why won't he tell you that he was for 31 years Chairman and/or member of our Floyd County Board of Education—is he ashamed of the mess he has gotten our school system into? Although he has resigned as chairman, he was in charge when our schools were getting in this shape. A report by Raymond Barber, State Superintendent for Public Instruction, took 22 pages to tell Floyd County what a mess our schools are in. The report cited figures showing that Floyd County spends about TWICE as much per bus for FUEL, PARTS, SERVICE, and INSURANCE as do our neighboring school districts. WHY? Some of our buses were not safe to transport our students when school started. WHY? WHY? out of 180 school districts, are our children ranked 6th from the bottom on test scores. The Superintendent of the State Fire Marshall's office, Morgan Kelley, said Floyd County schools were the worst in the state: "The buildings are unsafe and an imminent threat to human life may exist."

Floyd Countians, I don't think we can stand anymore of his management in County government. As soon as he took over as County Judge-Executive, he immediately hired Morris Isaac as his right-hand man and WE taxpayers are paying him $18,000 a year while he is still managing his coal properties. WHY? He immediately hired a long-retired road foreman at over $6.00 per hour plus mileage as a county heavy equipment supervisor. WHY? Isn't the county road foreman capable of heavy equipment supervision? Can't the Judge advise the county road foreman?

It's time for US, the voters in Floyd County, to look for a man that can manage COUNTY GOVERNMENT. Finally, I urge each member of my own party to think first of Floyd County and get out and work for and elect Ronald Frasure, County Judge-Executive on November 8.

HEARING FLOYD COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION

The Floyd County Board of Education will hold a public hearing in the Floyd County Board of Education meeting room on November 2, 1983 at 6:00 p.m. for the purpose of hearing public comments on a proposed general fund tax rate of 19.0¢ and 22.2¢

The general fund tax rate levied in 1982-83 was 16.9¢ and 22.2¢ and produced a revenue of $788,797.52. The proposed general fund tax rate of 19.0¢ and 22.2¢ is expected to produce $891,049.75 for fiscal year 1983-84, none of this amount is from new property. The compensating general fund tax in 1983-84 is 18.3¢ and 22.2¢ with revenue expected to be $873,797.92.

The general areas to which revenue in excess of 1982-83 revenue is to be allocated is as follows: cost of collections, exonerations, discounts and delinquents, $10,225.23; instruction, $30,765; pupil transportation $40,900; maintenance of plant $20,362.

The general assembly has required publication of this advertisement and the information contained herein.

KSU President To Be Installed

In what is planned to be a ceremony sprinkled with traditional academic pomp and pageantry, Kentucky State University is to install Raymond M. Burse as its ninth president, October 29.

The ceremony is scheduled for 11 a.m. (EDT) in Frankfort's Capital Plaza Civic Center.

Scheduled to speak at the ceremony are Dr. Mark H. Curtis, president of the Association of American Colleges (AAC), and Gov. John Y. Brown, Jr.

Curtis' AAC is the national association for liberal learning in Washington, D.C. According to KSU's director of public information, Joseph Burgess, Curtis' participation is a result of "the new emphasis upon liberal studies at KSU, whose mission is to be Kentucky's small, liberal studies-oriented public university."

The 32-year-old Burse is to be officially installed by George W. Wilson, chairman of the KSU Board of Regents and secretary of the state Corrections Cabinet.

Burse was appointed acting president in July, 1982 and president last October after former President W.A. Butts resigned. A Hopkinsville native, Burse has a bachelor's degree from Centre College and a law degree from Harvard University. He attended Oxford University, England as a Rhodes Scholar.

The historically black university, whose student body, faculty, and administration and staff have become fully integrated over the past decade, has become a new university, according to Burse.

"The past year's change has resulted in (KSU) becoming...a new institution growing out of a proud, distinguished past and entering a prouder, more distinguished future," Burse said.

Delegates and representatives from some 90 other colleges and universities and learned societies are expected to attend the inaugural ceremony. Special greetings are to be presented by representatives of the student body, faculty, alumni, local community, and state government.

As a part of the inauguration activities, KSU has scheduled an open house of several buildings. Displays or demonstrations of KSU's academic, research, and public service activities have been scheduled for the Carroll Academic Services Building, Hathaway Hall, Blazer Library, Hunter Hall, Jackson Hall, and Bradford Hall from 9 to 10 a.m. and 2 to 4:30 p.m. (EDT) on October 29.

All Kentuckians and all KSU friends and alumni everywhere are invited to the inaugural ceremony and open house, according to Burgess.

Two Floyd Students Named Who's Who

The 1984 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges will carry the names of 15 students from Pikeville College, two of whom are from Floyd county, who have been selected as being among the country's outstanding campus leaders.

Campus nominating committees and editors of the annual directory have included the names of these students based on their academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and future potential.

Students named this year from Pikeville College are: Connie Adkins, Pikeville; Barbara Cantrell, Shelby Gap; Phyllis Coleman, Kimper; Carolyn Click, Garrett; George Diamond, Warfield; John Fox, Jr., Falls Church, Virginia; Lorinda Greer, Pikeville; Teena Hurley, Pikeville; Andrea Marcum, Crum, West Virginia; Benny May, Prestonsburg; Sherry May, Pikeville; Patricia Putty, Pikeville; Kathe Ratliff, Pikeville; Don Robin Spears, Harold; and Terry Spears, Virgie.

Nunley-Davis

Diana Nunley and Dale Davis exchanged wedding vows Sept. 2, in Wise, Va., the Rev. Edwin Troutman officiating. A wedding reception was held at Dewey Lake.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Smith of Plymouth, Michigan. The bridegroom is the son of the late Rev. Mansford and Winnie Davis, formerly of Dwale.

A reception was also held Sept. 10, at the couple's home in Ypsilanti.

Highland Ave. Church Homecoming, Nov. 6

Sunday, November 6 is homecoming and old-fashion day at the Highland Avenue Free Will Baptist Church, of Prestonsburg. Services will begin at 10:30 a.m. and continue through 3 p.m. A variety of "home fixed" foods will be served for dinner. Special singing will be presented by the Branham Brothers, of Louisa, Timesmen, of Huntington, W. Va., True Believers, of Allen, and church groups.

During morning services, the newly completed parking lot will be dedicated to the Lord's service. In addition to thanking the church members for labor and contributions toward the parking lot, we wish to recognize the following who provided services:

Hill Engineering, Inc., City of Prestonsburg, Dave Stephens, First Commonwealth Bank, Valley Pipeline Company, R. & J. Paving Company, and Meade's Landscaping.

Youth Gets Long Sentence For His Attack on Woman

(Excerpted from an Associated Press story and reprinted by request.)

While a 73-year-old woman sat in her Cape Cod home at Barnstable, Mass. two youths, one 19, the other 17, burst through the door, breaking the door-chain. As the terrified woman attempted to run, the 17-year-old seized a chair and smashed it across her back. She was knocked to the floor, her hip broken.

The 4-foot, 10-inch woman spent the next 14 weeks in the hospital, and two months after that in bed. Because she fears for her life since the assault, her name has not been made public.

The 17-year-old convicted of hitting her with the chair, Kurt Gavin Brown of Hyannis, was sentenced last week to 60 to 90 years in prison by a judge who says crimes against the elderly have got out of hand.

"As a juvenile, he has a history of violent crime that would make John Dillinger look like a wimp," said Barnstable Superior Court Judge Augustus F. Wagner Jr. as he imposed the long sentence.

He called the slightly built defendant "a monster in a choirboy's body" who had been to court as a juvenile 41 times on 71 separate charges, many of them violent crimes beginning when he was 10.

Michael Rand, a statistician for the Department of Justice in Washington, has figures to back up Brown's contention that violent crimes against the elderly are on the increase.

Rand said 139,000 violent crimes against the elderly were reported in 1979, 165,000 in 1980 and 195,000 in 1981, the last year for which figures are available.

And James Allan Fox, a criminologist at Northeastern University in Boston, said the increase runs counter to figures showing that violent crime is declining nationally.

"Prior to 1979, the figures on crimes against the elderly were relatively stable," Fox said. "Part of the increase may be because the number of elderly people is increasing."

The violent nature of the attack on the Barnstable woman May 30—as well as the severity of Wagner's sentence—shocked this vacation resort community a few minutes from Hyannis.

District Attorney Phillip Rollins recommended 45 to 70 years in prison. Brown will be eligible for parole at age 57.

"His parole officer hasn't been born yet," said Rollins.

Wagner, 42, sitting in his office one day last week, said the sentence was one of the toughest he has ever imposed, but he figures, "There has to be a message to society."

"These elderly people are being victimized," he said. "Why they're being singled out is perplexing. Elderly people are living in fear."

The victim, Wagner said, described herself as "an independent and well-adjusted old lady now reduced to a helpless cripple."

"It's too bad she didn't have a gun," the judge said. "I hate to say that, but it's true."

Local attorneys describe Wagner as a fair and thorough judge who leans toward leniency in sentencing first-time offenders and those charged with so-called "victimless crimes."

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NEWS

By JANE BOND Health Educator

As colder weather approaches, it seems that head lice are more prevalent. Head lice are the kind of lice that make their home in human hair. They grow in little round eggs (NITS) which are attached to the base of the hair shaft.

Head lice are very contagious and observe no class distinction. This is why it is very important to never share combs, hats, scarfs, or other personal items. Having lice is not a sign of being dirty, but it should be treated quickly since it is so contagious!

Although lice are difficult to see, there are several signs that accompany head lice. These are persistent itch of the scalp often with accompanying scratch marks, or on closer inspection the actual eggs may be seen. Lice tend to live mainly in the area at the back of the head although they may move to the beard or eyebrows.

It is very important to begin treatment as soon as the lice are discovered. A physician should be seen, and he/she will prescribe a special shampoo to use to eliminate the lice.

It should also be remembered that if one person in a family, camp, school or institution has head lice, there is a strong possibility that others will be infected also.

A nurse from the Health Department will be in Wheelwright on Monday October 24 from 10:00 until 2:00. She will be at the Wheelwright Library. She will offer T.B. skin tests, urinalyses, anemia screening, blood pressures, and immunizations.

There will be only limited services at the Health Department October 25-28 (Tuesday through Friday) due to staff being in Louisville for the Helen B. Fraser Conference.

SPONSORS BLOOD DRIVE

The Big Sandy Pioneer Council sponsored a blood drive in the Conference Room of the South Central Bell Telephone office on Chloe road in Pikeville, October 5. There were 26 volunteer donors.

Daniel Keely, Rita Kimbler and Eula Robinson donated at the Prestonsburg Donor Center.

CARD OF THANKS

We the family of David DeRossett would like to thank all our family and friends for the love and kindness each of you should in anyway in the passing of our beloved son and brother; for all the beautiful flowers and the food you prepared. We are especially grateful to the Rev. Dan and Sylvia Heintzelman and the Spurlock Bible Church, to the Rev. L.P. Tussey and to the Floyd Funeral Home for their services. May God bless each and everyone of you.

81st Birthday

Margaret Calhoun celebrated her 81st birthday with a dinner at her daughter's home at Cliff, Oct. 7.

Those attending were Goldie Rorrer, Donald and Charolette Branham and daughters, Melissa and Christina, Mrs. Willia Mae Branham, Lester and Pamela Calhoun and son, Steven, and Nikki.

Is It Painless?

By PAT PHILLIPS

Is it painless to donate blood? There is really very little discomfort involved, no more than the stick of the needle, and it doesn't hurt once it's in. Usually, you are not even aware it is there. Blood is drawn from a vein in the donor's arm into a specially designed plastic container. The actual blood donation will take about five minutes. The entire blood center visit, including registration, obtaining the donor's medical history, blood donation, and a rest period and refreshment, takes less than an hour.

So, if you are unsure...be honest about it. Almost everyone feels the same way until they have given for the first time. It's normal to be scared at first, but look at it this way: If you needed blood to live, would you understand if no one gave for you? Think for a moment. If you and others who qualify donate blood regularly, no one in our community will ever be without life-saving blood. That's our goal. We hope you will make it yours, too.

Why can't blood be manufactured? There is no substitute for human blood. It can only be made within your body. That is why donations of blood are so important and are saving lives that would otherwise be lost.

What is the rarest type of blood? The rarest type of blood is the one that is not available when someone needs it. It may be yours! This is the best reason we know for having willing blood donors volunteering on a regular schedule.

Central Kentucky Blood Center serves 44 counties and supplies over 40 hospitals with blood and its components. There are over 2,000 blood centers in the nation. Through its membership in the American Association of Blood Banks National Clearinghouse Lifeline Program, CKBC donors have their blood needs assured in almost any medical facility in the continental United States.

The Donor Resources Department of CKBC is responsible for maintaining a safe and adequate supply of blood for the hospitals it serves. Volunteer donors are helping meet the demand for blood through membership in over 1,000 donor group programs. These donor groups represent businesses, communities, factories, churches, schools, health facilities, community and civic organizations. Donor Resources Consultants contact the chairpersons of these groups on a continual basis and schedule blood drives in order to help maintain active memberships.

The Blood Center also has family plans which offer individuals blood assurance who may not be part of a group donor program. More than 520 mobiles are scheduled each year in order to assure the blood needs of the residents in the counties CKBC serves.

There are also three permanent Donor Centers for donors' convenience. These are located in Lexington, Prestonsburg and Somerset. There are over 50,000 residents in Floyd county and it is estimated that patients from this county will be using 2,000 to 3,000 pints of blood a year. The Prestonsburg Donor Center is required to get 1,620 pints of blood by the volunteer donors in this area. You can help by volunteering to donate for patients here.

Donald Ray Music Named Most Outstanding Recruit

For approximately 200,000 men, Donald Ray Music, formerly of Auxier, has been named Most Outstanding Recruit for the past year, according to S/Sgt. Burke, of the Pikeville recruiting station.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Music, of David, he is a 1976 graduate of Prestonsburg High School and is a member of the 478th Combat Engineers. He will be assigned to nuclear munitions training.

Announcement of the honor was made to the Pikeville Recruiting Office from the office of the Major General of the Army, and S/Sgt. Burke said it is the equivalent of a Presidential Citation, adding that Music will probably receive a letter from the President.

Acid Rain Debate Held at Morehead

Two Kentucky professors spoke out on the issue of acid rain during a recent debate at Morehead State University.

The debate, which was part of the second annual meeting of the Collegiate Association for Mining Technology (CAME), featured discussion from Dr. Ernest Yanarella and Dr. Maurice Bailey.

Dr. Yanarella, a professor of political science at the University of Kentucky, spoke on "The Politics of Acid Rain: Scientific Agnosticism versus Ecological Doom." Dr. Yanarella told the audience that "we can not separate from human beings what is happening to our ecology."

"We may not yet be in a crisis situation with acid rain," Yanarella said, "but this does not mean prudent action is not necessary."

He said reports show that "environmental consciousness in the U.S. is a catalog of lax interest on the national level."

"Acid deposits can not be separated from other pollutants in the environment," he added.

Dr. Bailey, a professor of chemical engineering at Pikeville College, delivered the opposing view, entitled "Acid Rain: A Chemists' View from Canada."

Dr. Bailey, who has spent over 30 years in chemical engineering research, presented a series of slides and charts to the audience as he explained the correlation between sulfur and acid rain.

His studies dealt with tests conducted in Sudbury, Ontario, Canada. Sudbury is a lake-resort area, and the residents of the area feel that sulfur dioxide emissions from mid-western United States power plants are damaging their region.

Dr. Bailey concluded through various tests that only five percent of the lakes in the region are acid, or have a "pH rating" of less than six. The pH scale is used to measure acidity in a liquid. A pH rating of six is considered to be "balanced," while anything under six is considered to be acid.

"I don't see the damage," Dr. Bailey told the audience. "Not in actual damage or in pH levels."

PUBLIC HEARING

The City of Prestonsburg will hold a public hearing on November 3, 1983 at 7:00 p.m., in the Council Room of City Hall. The purpose of this meeting will be to accept comments on the new Proposed Comprehensive Plan, the new Zoning Ordinance and the new Zoning Map for the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, County of Floyd. This new map and regulations will cover the entire city limits of Prestonsburg. Citizens are urged to attend this public hearing and offer their comments and suggestions. If you are unable to attend this public hearing, please mail your written comments to Harold W. Cooley, Mayor, City of Prestonsburg, P.O. Box 31, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653 or call (606) 886-8106 or write William G. Francis, Chairman, Prestonsburg Interim Planning Commission, P.O. Box 31, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653.

The new Zoning Map, Zoning Ordinance and Comprehensive Plan is on file at the Municipal Building, North Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Ky. in the City Clerk's office. Inspection will be open during normal business hours from 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. If you have specific questions, please call David Evans, City Administrator at (606) 886-2335. Senior Citizens are especially invited to this hearing and if they cannot attend their written comments will be appreciated.

Waits for None but Confuses Many

By MARY COMBS
Smithsonian News Service

Few of us would guess that just 100 years ago telling time wasn't the straight-forward matter it is today. Even fewer would suspect that we have the railroads to thank for the ease with which we tell time.

Yet, as recently as 1883, local time was precisely that—local—and usually it was sun time. Back then, when the sun reached its highest point in the sky at noon in Washington, D.C., it was 12:24 p.m. in Boston and 11:43 a.m. in Savannah, Ga. Different municipalities or businesses selected their own time. "Often competing and conflicting sources coexisted," Carlene Stephens of the Smithsonian's National Museum of American History in Washington, D.C., says. "No two public timekeepers necessarily kept the same time, even in the same community!"

Now, of course, twice a year, like clockwork, most of the nation mechanically springs ahead or—as it does on the last Sunday in October—falls back, adjusting its collective timepieces to be in sync.

To follow the train of events leading up to our standardized time, you need only visit the museum, where the permanent Timekeeping hall and a six-month exhibit on Standard Time opening Nov. 18, 1983, display the history of the perfecting of those standards and the devices which use them, from ancient sundials to the digital display of an atomic clock.

Man first kept time by natural events around him. The summer and winter solstices, the phases of the moon, the movements of stars and sunrise, noon and sunset helped record time's passage. When he divided the day into hours, and eventually into minutes and seconds, he had to deal with the fact that no natural phenomena mark these artificial divisions. So man has had to choose—and change—his standards and refine and redesign his clocks constantly through the centuries.

Beginning with the first prehistoric sundial, all timekeepers have relied on the frequency of a recurring event to perform regular movements in equal intervals of time. A timekeeper might measure the passage of the sun in the sky, dripping water, a swinging pendulum or a vibrating tuning fork, quartz crystal or atom. A timekeeper must also have a means of indicating the movements—casting a shadow, moving hands or displaying numbers.

The better the standards—and technology—for frequency and interval, the more accurate the clock. Improving standards in one area raises them in another. It wasn't worthwhile to add a minute hand to a watch until the late 17th century—mechanisms weren't accurate enough. Once able to measure minutes, people became interested in the seconds.

But it was always the scientists, the astronomers, the surveyors and especially the navigators who demanded the development of better ways of measuring time. "They had specialized needs for precise time—especially for longitude determination—well before the general population," Stephens says. Because of the devices developed for their needs, we can now read the time on our digital watches in hundredths of a second.

"Until the 20th century, however, the relative position of the Earth and the sun was the standard against which all timekeeping devices were measured," Stephens says. The second was what there were 86,400 of in a day. Since 1967, the U.S. Naval Observatory—a keeper of public time since 1865—has relied on atomic clocks, which keep track of time in terms of nanoseconds—billionths of a second. Our standard for a second is now the interval in which an atom of cesium oscillates 9,192,631,770 times.

Though clocks continued to become more accurate, no one paid much attention to standardizing time. The development of the telegraph in the early 1840s made it possible for astronomers, who kept their own clocks fine-tuned to the stars, to transmit accurate time to subscribers, creating the first regional time patterns: It was "noon" along the telegraph line, regardless of the local position of the sun—or the time in the next town.

Although the world's first public time service based on clock beats began at the Cambridge (Mass.) Observatory in 1848, Samuel P. Langley, director of the Allegheny Observatory from 1867 to 1880 (and later Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution), was, in 1870, the first to turn telegraphing the beats of an observatory clock into a profitable service. he was also one of the earliest advocates of national standard time.

It was the railroads that first established a national standard time, consisting of four one-hour zones: Eastern, Central, Mountain and Pacific. All across the nation, Nov. 18, 1883, was the "Day of Two Noons." In New York City, for example, all the churchbells tolled the regular New York noon; then, when the sun reached noon four minutes later at the longitude designated as the standard for the Eastern zone, the 75th meridian, a signal telegraphed from the U.S. Naval Observatory dropped the time ball on the Western Union building.

The U.S. Congress formally adopted the Standard Time system in 1918, but established no regulatory authority. For nearly 50 years, the zone borders were in constant flux. The border of the Eastern zone bulged westward as more and more communities matched their time to the commercial centers on the East coast.

Daylight saving, the advance of standard time for one hour during the "summer," was first tried in the United States in 1918 and 1919. Then Congress made it a matter for local choice. During World War II, national year-round "war time" was mandated to reduce peak consumption of electricity; in those pre-airconditioning days the heavy demand came in winter. Some communities in the western areas of time zones found the resulting late sunrises too much to take and shifted to other standards. Confusion mounted as local governments vacillated about which zone to belong to and whether and when to save daylight.

In 1962, the transportation industry launched a campaign to straighten out the mess, citing among many ridiculous examples a government office building in Minneapolis/St. Paul where the time was different on different floors during part of the year. Finally, in 1966, Congress put the newly created Department of Transportation in charge, and Standard Time is now mandatory. There are now specific rules for changing time zones and for using—or opting out of—daylight saving.

In ancient times, timekeepers were looked on with superstitious awe. We, on the other hand, are hardly aware of them. In the United States, the National Bureau of Standards and the U.S. Naval Observatory are responsible for keeping us on time and maintaining and disseminating the standards of frequency, interval and date. Broadly speaking, in matters of time the USNO takes care of the U.S. contribution to the astronomical part of universal coordinated time (UTC)—the number of seconds in the year; the NBS is responsible for the accuracy of the atomic standard—the length of the second.

The Bureau International de l'Heure, in Paris, averages data from 70 nations to calculate UTC. The BIH also decides when it is time for a "Leap second." The frequency of Earth time is imperfect because various factors—snowfall in the winter, for example—affect the movement of the planet. So periodic adjustments—seconds added or subtracted—must be made in those atomic clocks which show the date so they accurately reflect the position of Earth in respect to the sun, and so meet the needs of navigators and others.

Who are the standards keepers' "consumers"? Power companies rely on precise timing to deliver the constant flow of 60 hertz (60 cycles per second) of electricity that makes our technology function. Sophisticated clocks synchronize TV and radio broadcasts. NBS reports that users of its timing information include designers of biomedical electronics, automobile mechanics, camera repairers, jewelers, meteorologists, toy manufacturers—and even an astrologer and some pigeon racers.

Even today, scientists are constantly meeting the demand for better and more accessible standards. A recent breakthrough at NBS makes it possible to use the cesium atom standard for time to measure length. Using a sophisticated method, researchers have shown that it is practical to define the meter—at one time a precisely measured length of platinum-iridium and currently defined as 1,650,763.73 wavelengths of light from a krypton atom—as the distance traveled by light in a vacuum in 1/299,792,458 of a second. Some scientists now think it may be possible to replace the seven basic standards of measurement—time, distance, mass, temperature, current, voltage and resistance—with a single base standard, time. If that happens, it will be a matter of time.

To Our Next Governor of Kentucky: MARTHA LAYNE COLLINS

I am writing this in the Floyd County Times, so, please, when you've got a good working horse, keep him. Edward Patton, Jr. has done a good job in District 12 as general manager. He is out in the field working all the time. He don't stay at the office and let his men under him do his work for him. He's done it himself and he don't stay at his office. He goes out and sees the work is done and he's done a good job at it. He is a fine man for the job. So please keep him on this job. To all the people of Floyd County—go out Nov. 8 and vote straight Democrat.

MARTIN FIREFIGHTERS work in vain to save a trailer which burned Saturday afternoon on Buck's Branch, near Martin. The mobile home, which was unoccupied and without electrical service was owned by Raleigh Barnett, of Martin. The loss was estimated at $8,000.

Highlands Wins Award for Radio Ads

Russell Dean, assistant administrator, and Amy Lively, public information officer, of Highlands Regional Medical Center created and produced radio commercials that won national honors. HRMC was one of only two hospitals in the country to receive an award in the radio category.

If you liked the radio commercials about Highlands Regional Medical Center that aired last November, you are in good company. The American Society for Hospital Public Relations (ASHPR) judged them to be among the best in the nation.

The HRMC Public Relations Department, which includes Russell Dean, assistant administrator, Amy Lively, public information officer and Diana Crum, administrative secretary, received a silver "Touchstone" award in the competition open to 2100 member hospitals. Highlands was one of 52 nationwide winners announced at a brunch held in their honor during the ASHPR annual meeting in Nashville. Judges comments called the HRMC radio spots "the most inventive of the year."

The contest was named for the "Touchstone," a black stone related to flint. It was the ancient test of the purity for gold and silver. As the touchstone was a test for quality and genuineness, the "Touchstone" awards are a standard for hospital public relations professionals to measure their work against the very best.

The award winning radio commercials ran on local radio stations during the hospital's 10th anniversary celebration in November. They featured members of the hospital family and community.

Administrator Clarence Traum, and Assistant Administrator Dean, went to Nashville to accept the award.

METHODIST WOMEN MEET

The United Methodist Women of the First United Methodist Church met Monday evening, Oct. 3, with the chairman, Mrs. Rose Glenn, presiding. Mrs. Glenn gave the devotionals. Plans were made to attend the UMW Ashland district meeting in Pikeville the following Saturday, and the Kentucky Conference UMW meeting in Ashland, Nov. 5.

Mrs. May K. Roberts introduced the speaker for the program, Kentucky State Trooper Philip Tucker, who talked on the safety of area homes and highways.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Ann Alley and Mrs. Jane Wallace, to Priscilla Hager, Roslyn Burchett, Stella Spurlock, Fannie Runnels, Ellen Messer, Mary Jane Brown, Elsie Stephens, Linda Stephens, Virginia Shivel, Hope Whitten, May K. Roberts, Geneva Carter, Rose Glenn, Margaret Alley, Virginia Jeffries, Anna May Mellon, Roberta Davidson, Judy Kittle, Arnita Snavey, Elizabeth Ramey and Sally Goebel.

KIWANIANNES TO MEET

Mrs. Garnett Fairchild, president of the Prestonsburg Kiwanianes, announces that the next luncheon-meeting of this organization will be Thursday, Oct. 27, at May Lodge, beginning at 12:30 p.m. All members are urged to attend.

INJURED IN FALL

Mrs. Johnie Conley, formerly of this county, who for approximately the last 45 years has lived with other members of her family in Silver Lake, Ind., is presently suffering from a fall sustained at her home. Mrs. Conley, who is 83 years old, would also like to receive cards and letters from relatives and friends in this area. Her address is: c/o Prairie View Nursing Home, Warsaw, Indiana, 46580.

TO HONOR FIGARTS

A reception will be held at the Annex building of the Irene Cole Memorial (First) Baptist Church, next Sunday evening at 6 o'clock, honoring the Rev. Ross Figart, who for the past several weeks has been interim pastor of the church and Mrs. Figart. All members of the congregation are urged to attend.

VISIT MRS. HEWLETT

Mrs. Peg Hewlett had as her recent guests at her home here members of her family, Mr. and Mrs. Don Hewlett and Mrs. Connie Bentley and children, all of Gahanna, Ohio, and Mrs. Sandy Henderson and children, of Logan, Ohio. Mrs. Hewlett, who was a patient for several days at the Highlands Regional Medical Center, is now improving at her home.

Mrs. Elizabeth Burton, of Minnie, was here Monday, visiting friends.

VISITS RELATIVES

Mrs. Hazel Beverly, of Martin, spent last week visiting her nephew and niece Cledis and Audrey Beverly, of the Stephens Branch road.

ATTEND MEETINGS

The annual meeting of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and the 95th annual session of the Rebekah Assembly of Kentucky convened at Holiday Inn, Somerset, October 9-12. Those representing Miriam Rebekah Lodge No. 31 and the Odd Fellow Lodge here were Mrs. Sue Moore, Mrs. Paulena Owens, Mrs. Mabel Jean LeMaster, Virginia and James B. Goble, Barbara and Bill H. Howard and John N. Burchett. The session for 1984 will be held in Lexington.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Little Miss Jenna Fannin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Fannin, was honored with a birthday dinner at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Vera Ford, Friday evening, Oct. 14. After blowing out the five candles on her cake, she opened her gifts from those present: Mr. and Mrs. Winston Ford, Jr., Winn and Kelli Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Fannin, Mrs. Edna Carol Greenwade, and the hostess, Mrs. Ford.

A party was also given by Jenna's family at Druthers Restaurant to observe her birthday this past week. After enjoying lunch with birthday cake and ice cream for desert, the honoree opened her gifts from guests including Ruthie Jessen, Karen and Jody Kyle Harris, Leila Valentine, Liza Kendrick, Estill Lee and Kevin Porter, Shawna Osborne, Aaron Bond, Rebecca Hunt, Tommy, Keith, and Michael Boley, Winn and Keith Ford, and Amanda and Brian Brinstead.

DAY HOMEMAKERS MEET

The Prestonsburg Day Homemakers met Tuesday, Oct. 11, at Fellowship Hall of the First United Methodist Church. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Eleanor Horn, the vice president, Mrs. Mabel Donahoe, presided. It was decided that the Christmas luncheon will be held at one of the local restaurants, and Mrs. Donahoe appointed Mesdames Beckey Short, Mary Sue Moore and Donna Culpepper to select the location and make plans.

The decision was made that, instead of exchanging gifts during that time, donations be made during this meeting for the Ovarian Cancer Fund. Mrs. Frances Pitts, Floyd county home economist, stressed the need for the purchasing of pecans being sold by the Homemakers of this county, the proceeds of which are to be donated to this fund.

Mrs. Pitts reminded members of the area homemakers' meeting, which was to be held at Pikeville last week.

It was announced that Mrs. Peg Hewlett, a member of the club, and Virgil Webb, the husband of another club member, were ill, and it was decided that cards would be sent to them.

Mrs. Mabel Donahoe and Mrs. Judy Kittle presented the lesson on "Candlewicking." Cushions begun during that time are to be finished and returned for display at the November meeting.

The hostesses, Mesdames Pat Allen, Verlin Nichols, Mary Sue Moore and Beckey Short, served ham and biscuits and a hot fruit drink to Frances Pitts, Mabel Donahoe, Phyllis Herrick, Gladys Blackburn, Marie Salisbury, Rebecca Rasnick, Donna Culpepper, May K. Roberts, Lucy C. Regan, Sharon H. Campbell, Judy Kittle, Stella Spurlock, Otelia Smiley, Ellen Messer, Ann Lee Alley, Dolly Pettrey, Barbara Dawson, Alice Harris, Hope Whitten, Ruth Francis, Jane Wallace, Margaret Alley, Fannie Rannels, and Docia Woods.

The next regular meeting will be at this same location, Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 8, at 1 p.m. Mrs. Dorothy Stover and Mrs. Eva Collins will be in charge of the lesson on "Decorating with Needlepoint," and "Tennersing" will be introduced during November's meeting.

RECENT GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Greene, Sr. had as their recent guests members of their family, Mr. and Mrs. A.L. Greene, of New Carlisle, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. Perry Greene, Jr., of Dayton. While here, the A.L. Greens spent some time with her father, John Holbrook, and with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Boatwright. On Monday, Oct. 10, they attended funeral services at the Bonanza United Baptist Church for their uncle, Joe Snipes, Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Perry Greene, Jr. went from here to Paintsville for a visit with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Philpot.

THE SHAMROCK
 The Irish emblem of the shamrock is derived from Saint Patrick, who employed it as a symbol to explain the three persons in the Holy Trinity—the reason why we find the shamrock worn in buttonholes and hatbands on Saint Patrick's Day.

Little Miss RWB

Paula Lynn Jones, third grade student at Prestonsburg Elementary School, was crowned Little Miss Red, White and Blue of Floyd county at the competition held at the Allen Central High School gymnasium, Saturday, October 8.

She is also Kentucky's Cinderella Beauty Queen and represented the state in the international competition held in Miami, Fla.

Miss Jones is the eight-year-old daughter of Mrs. Chester Bailey, of Prestonsburg, and Mr. Bobby Jones, of Melvin. Her grandparents are Alvin Moore, of McDowell, and Mrs. Icy Jones, of Melvin.

Five Generations Gather

Great-great-grandmother Maud Dye, of Martin, held 11-month-old Amy Lee Ann, when five generations of the family gathered recently. Standing, from left, are Lena Keller, of Lexington, the baby's mother, Clara Mae Fowler, of Houston, and Opal Boyd, of Martin. The baby has seven grandmothers, great-grandmothers or great-great-grandmothers living.

MAYTOWN NEWS

Stanley Ramey, of Alexandria, Ky., was the overnight guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ramey, Wednesday. He also visited his aunt, Mrs. Thurm Click.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Skeans, Jr., announce the birth of their first child, a son, John Brandon, Oct. 6 at Our Lady of the Way Hospital. The maternal grandparents are Delbert and Susan Goins, of Langley, and James and Pat Dingeldein, of Long Beach, Calif. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Skeans, Sr., of Martin. The birth of John Brandon makes five living generations with six great-grandparents and two great-great-grandmothers, Mrs. Rebecca Salisbury and Mrs. Lula Webb, living.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Webb and Katina, of Springfield, Ohio, were the weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Webb, here, and Mr. and Mrs. Alex Howard, in Prestonsburg.

Kathryn Stratton, of Banner, called on Mrs. Bernice Arnett and Mrs. Bradas May, last Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy May spent last weekend in Gatlinburg, Tenn. On their way home, they visited Mr. and Mrs. C.J. Sparks and Mrs. Josephine Webb at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and their daughter, Miss Beverly May, at Somerset.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin May, of Morehead, were the weekend guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy May, and other relatives.

Mrs. Tressie May and Miss Brenda May were in Lexington, Saturday.

Miss Kathy Hughes, of Morehead, spent the weekend here with her mother, Mrs. Quanda Hughes.

Those from her visiting the Smoky Mountains in Tennessee and North Carolina over the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Delmer (Dude) Hagans, Mr. and Mrs. Randy Martin, Mrs. Ethel Presley, Mrs. Lois Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Roberts, Mrs. Wanda Brown, Tommy and Marsha, Mrs. Patricia Hagans and Dougie, Mr. and Mrs. Earl E. Webb and Keith and Mrs. Banner Vanderpool.

HERE FROM OKLAHOMA

Mrs. Margie Owen, Miss Judy North and Clyde May, who are visiting here from Erick, Okla., spent Tuesday of last week with his brother, Patrick May, of Van Lear.

Similar Name But Not Same Person

The Carl Patton, of East Point, who was listed in the District Court news in last week's Times, is not Carl Patton, Sr., of East Point.

Job Loss Effect Examined On KET

The personal devastation, loss of dignity, sense of worth and direction experienced by many of today's blue-collar workers are explored in "When a Factory Closes," airing on KET Tuesday, November 8, at 10:00 p.m. The program explores the personal costs American workers now pay because of factory closings by examining the shutdown of a single plant in Philadelphia and looking at the implications of this growing national trend.

The rumors began in March of 1980...by June, 1982, Eaton Corporation's Yale Forklift plant had closed its doors. Four hundred and twenty men and women lost their jobs. Eaton Corporation, an international conglomerate operating in 27 countries on six continents, blamed the shutdown on foreign competition.

The Yale forklift was once a symbol of American quality. Today it is a relic. Americans no longer build the truck—Japanese and Mexican workers do.

The programs shows the increase in spouse and child abuse that occurs when a factory closes, as well as the increase in alcoholism, attempted suicide and the death rate among former employees.

The lack of substantial retraining programs in the U.S. makes it especially tough for the unemployed factory worker. Overseas competition is forcing companies like Eaton to either shut down factories or modernize them. American workers, American businesses and the American economy are all affected by this disturbing trend.

VA Burial Benefits Can Ease Hardship of Vets' Families

The Veterans Administration reminds former servicemen and women that awareness of VA burial benefits can often spare the family of a deceased veteran anxiety and financial hardship following the veteran's death.

Interment in a national cemetery is available to veterans discharged under conditions other than dishonorable. Also eligible under certain guidelines, are a veteran's spouse and minor children.

VA will furnish a headstone or marker to memorialize a veteran or mark the grave of a veteran buried in a national, state, or private cemetery. VA will also provide markers to eligible dependents interred in a national or state veterans' cemetery.

A memorial marker or headstone for veterans whose remains have not been recovered or identified is also provided by the VA. This includes those who were buried at sea, those whose bodies were donated to science, and those who were cremated and the ashes scattered. A memorial section in national cemeteries honors these veterans.

VA also provides up to $300 toward the burial expenses of eligible veterans and $150 as a plot or interment allowance if the veteran is not buried in a national cemetery or other government cemetery.

Burial allowance eligibility is established if the veteran was entitled at the time of death to VA compensation or pension payments or had died in a VA medical facility. This eligibility may also be established in cases of certain indigent veterans whose remains are unclaimed.

The plot allowance is available if the veteran is entitled to the burial allowance, or served during a war period, or was discharged or retired from service because of a disability, which was incurred or aggravated in line of duty. If the veteran's death is service connected, VA will pay an amount not to exceed $1,100 in lieu of the usual burial and plot allowance.

VA will also provide an American flag for use in covering a casket; a reimbursement for part of the cost of a headstone or marker bought and placed on the grave of a veteran. The current amount is $67, the average cost of government headstones purchased by VA; and, a memorial certificate, bearing the signature of the President, expressing the nation's recognition of the deceased veteran's service.

Photorama Set At Carter Caves

Fall's spectacular foliage is the perfect subject for shutterbugs, so Carter Caves State Resort Park is sponsoring a fall "photorama" this weekend, Oct. 21-23.

Professional nature photographers will lead trips through the scenic park, offering tips on how to get the best outdoor shots. During the evenings, the hosts will conduct lectures on photographic technique, composition and other matters.

Another highlight will be a photo contest. Prizes will be awarded to winners in various categories.

A small registration fee will be charged for the weekend's activities. Further information may be obtained by contacting Carter Caves near Olive Hill in northeastern Kentucky at (606) 286-4411.

Office Hours Changed For Plumbing Inspector

The Floyd County Health Department would like to announce that there are new office hours for the plumbing inspector. He is now in the Prestonsburg office on Tuesdays and Fridays from 8:00 until 9:30 a.m.

Mr. Stanley Hibbits, plumbing inspector for Floyd county, would like to remind the public that in order to get a water meter from the utility companies, a permit must be obtained prior to setting the water meter. These permits are available from Mr. Hibbits and he may be seen during his office hours on either Tuesday or Friday.

Social Security Information

People in the Big Sandy area suffering from permanent kidney failure should be aware that Medicare health insurance is available for those who need regular kidney dialysis or a kidney transplant, Jim Kelly, Social Security district director for the Big Sandy area, said recently.

A person who has permanent kidney failure can get Medicare if he or she:

- Worked long enough to be insured under Social Security, or
- Already gets Social Security benefits, or
- Is the husband, wife, or dependent child of someone who has worked long enough under Social Security.

Medicare coverage generally begins with the third month after the month the person starts getting dialysis treatments. Coverage can begin in the first month of a course of dialysis if the person takes part in an approved self-dialysis training program and the person expects to self-dialyze after the course.

Coverage can also begin the month the person is admitted to an approved hospital for a kidney transplant if the transplant takes place within 3 months.

Medicare generally ends 12 months after the month a person no longer needs maintenance dialysis or 36 months following a kidney transplant.

For a free booklet about Medicare coverage for people with permanent kidney failure, contact the Big Sandy Area Social Security Office, located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville.

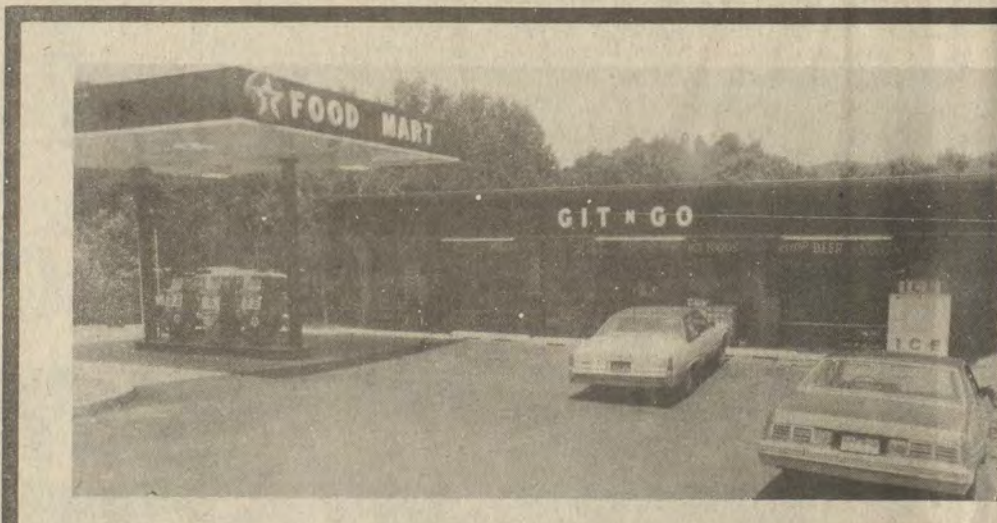

163 Mining Permits During September

FRANKFORT, Ky.—The Division of Permits of the State Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement issued 163 mining permits during the month of September.

The permits issued included 84 original permits, 61 revision permits, one amendment permit, 11 succession permits and six transition permits.

Of the 163 permits issued, 131 were for surface-mining operations, 28 for underground operations, one for a haul road and three for preparation plants and refuse areas.

Permitting activities in September authorized the disturbance of 3,825.8 new acres of land and resulted in the collection of $137,125 in fees.

Soccer Program Meet Set at Clark School

The Floyd County intramural soccer program will get under way this Saturday, October 22, at noon at Clark Elementary field. All third through eighth grade students are encouraged to attend and participate. They should come dressed to play in t-shirt, shorts, and tennis shoes. Students will be divided into teams according to grade level and will learn about the fastest growing sport in America.

Soccer (derived from its formal name, association football) is the world's most popular participant and spectator sport. A soccer player is anyone able to kick, dribble, and pass a ball, be it on a lush soccer field or on an empty lot. Anyone can play. Size is neither a handicap nor an advantage. Anyone can enjoy soccer to the full extent of his or her ability, desire, and opportunity. It sounds very simple because soccer is a simple game, simple to learn, and simple to play.

It requires very little equipment. Players wear only shorts, t-shirts and a pair of sneakers. Beyond that, all they need is a soccer ball, two goals, and a level field. There is no need for the expensive protective equipment that is standard in many sports.

In terms of cost, a soccer program is easy to start.

The thing needed most is players, and those organizing the program hope to see a good number present Saturday at the Clark School.

Bass Fishers Try Different Styles

The competitive spirit was running high as the Bassin' Buddies' September tourney got under way on Dewey Lake recently. Dewey is the lake most members call home.

Over 100 small fish were caught and released, after several patterns developed. Don Bryson and Allen Sublett, who placed third with 2.9 pounds, took their fish on plastic worms. Gary Hicks and Delbert Ison, second with 4.1 pounds, caught theirs on spinner and buzz baits. The winners, Tee Watkins and Paul Horn, caught 4.11 pounds on topwater baits erratically twitched off the edge of the weed beds.

The big fish of the day, a 2.8 pound largemouth, was taken by Gary Hackworth.

Receive Girl Scout Pins

The Investiture Service for Prestonsburg Brownie Troop 355 was held October 3 at the Community United Methodist Church. Troop leaders Debbie Burke, Sandy Howell and Bonnie Hale conducted a candle-lighting ceremony in which 14 girls received their Girl Scout pins. The girls include, from left, Erica Branham, Misti Howell, Dorothy Arnett, Rhiannon Burke, Emily Damron; (second row), Bonnie Hale, Heather Wicker, Kristin Omerod, Jennifer Burchett, Debbie Burke, Kristie Harris, Allison Allen, Sandy Howell, and Tonia Hale.

Volunteers interested in starting a new troop for local Brownies are invited to attend a service unit meeting to be held next Wednesday, October 26 at Community United Methodist Church at 9 a.m.

Blackcats Down Knott Co.; To Face Pikeville, Friday

By LAURA COOLEY

In the strongest passing game of the year, the Prestonsburg Blackcats collected their eighth victory in a row by downing the Knott County Central Patriots, 21-6, Friday night at Hindman.

Scoring began early in the first quarter when PHS quarterback Todd Nairn connected with Brad Hughes on a 23-yard pass for the score. The extra point was kicked by John Goble. Late in the same quarter the 'Cats picked up their second touchdown of the game on a 14-yard pass to Pete Greene with the extra point by Goble.

In the second quarter Nairn again found Brad Hughes and connected with a 43-yard pass for the score. With the extra point by Goble, the halftime score stood at 21-0.

After the half, sophomore John Goble replaced Nairn as quarterback and other starting players were replaced by the Blackcats' bench.

The Patriots, whose coach was thrown out of the game following two violations called by the referees, picked up their only score early in the fourth quarter.

Of the Blackcats' 310 total yards collected, 165 came on passes. Receivers included Brad Hughes, five receptions for 93 yards; Gordie Ratliff, one for 44 yards, and Randall Stone and Pete Greene each caught one for 14 yards.

Fullback John DeRossett led his team in rushing with 79 yards in eight carries. Chris Hooker picked up 34 yards in seven carries, and James Little, nine carries for 28 yards.

Defensively, James Little led in tackles for the Blackcats with four tackles and seven assists. Pete Greene had three tackles and three assists. Phillip Lewis, one tackle and seven assists, Bryan Pace, one tackle and six assists, Shag Branham, one tackle and five assists, John DeRossett, five assists, and Randall Stone, five assists.

The undefeated Blackcats will face another undefeated team, rival Pikeville, this Friday night at Pikeville.

FIREWOOD AND WILDLIFE

A lot of folks wait until the approaching cool weather before sharpening up the chain saw and taking to the woods to cut their winter's supply of firewood, so if you're cutting wood now, keep in mind that many species of trees provide valuable wildlife foods. If you have a choice, spare these trees in favor of species with little value to wildlife, says Jim Durell, an assistant director in the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources' wildlife division and an expert on wildlife foods.

Look for trees of these species which are vigorous and which produce heavy seed or nut crops—or which produce a crop every year, Durell says. Leave a few of these good producers and mark the others for cutting.

Another category of good wildlife trees are more scarce and should definitely be spared, Durell says. Species in this group include post oak, laurel oak, green ash, walnut, shellbark hickory, sassafras, persimmon, paw paw, black haw, beech, gum or hazelnut.

If you're wondering by now if there's anything left you can cut, Durell says that the following are poor food trees and can, from a wildlife point of view, be safely cut: sycamore, elm, maples, yellow poplar, basswood, redbud and hemlock.

There's a final category, Durell says: the "pest" trees, those which have little wildlife food value and which grow so fast and so abundantly that they crowd out more desirable species. Trees in this group include box elder, bitternut hickory, honey locust and sometimes even otherwise desirable trees such as persimmon and black locust.

Also remember that trees provide homes as well as food for many wildlife species. Large den trees—those with large hollow places—are scarce and should not be cut. Neither should all dead trees be felled, Durell says, since these provide insects which feed woodpeckers.

Halloween Carnival Set

McDowell Elementary School will hold its Halloween Carnival next Friday, October 28, at the school gymnasium.

The carnival, which is being sponsored by the McDowell P.T.O., will be held from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

There is a definite pattern of better weather during maximum sunspot activity—even the quality of wine vintage is considered superior during these times.

VA Makes Large Computer Investment

In what amounts to one of the largest single acquisitions of data processing equipment ever undertaken in the health care field, the Veterans Administration has awarded several contracts to computer hardware firms expected to cost $62 million over the next two fiscal years.

The VA computer acquisition will equip the agency's medical centers with over 300 computers, 12,000 terminals, 6,000 printers and about 800 communication linking devices.

In announcing the awards, VA Chief Medical Director Donald L. Custis, M.D., said the acquisitions will "address a critical need to automate clinical support and administrative functions" in the nation's largest health care system.

Dr. Custis noted the equipment will enable the VA to run computer programs developed by its field facilities supporting clinical laboratory functions, pharmacy activities, patient scheduling and patient admission/transfer/discharge processing.

Delivery of the equipment will begin in October with prototype installation and acceptance testing at one of the VA's Verification and Development Centers in Hines, Ill. Following the testing period, multiple, phased deliveries of the computer hardware will begin in the agency's medical centers across the country.

The VA system consists of 172 medical centers, 226 outpatient clinics, 99 nursing homes and 16 domiciliaries. The agency's medical budget of $7.7 billion this year will provide for 1.3 million hospital inpatient episodes and 18 million outpatient visits.

Givens Named Chairman In Anti-Smoking Project

Jack Givens, former University of Kentucky three time All-American basketball star has accepted the Kentucky Chairmanship of the annual "Great American Smokeout" for 1983, sponsored by the American Cancer Society.

Appointment of the popular star athlete and civic worker was announced by Harry C. Barfield, Chairman, Public Information Committee, Kentucky Division, American Cancer Society.

The "Great American Smokeout" will be observed on November 17, 1983. This event focuses public attention on cigarette smokers from coast to coast. Now in its seventh year, it's an upbeat, good natured effort to encourage smokers to give up smoking for 24-hours.

When accepting the Kentucky Chairmanship of this year's event, Givens stated, "I consider it a privilege to have a part in the 'Smokeout' and to help smokers throughout Kentucky kick the cigarette habit on November 17th, the day of the 'Great American Smokeout'."

Oct. 23-29 Named KET For Learning

In celebration of 15 years of instructional television excellence, Governor John Y. Brown, Jr., has proclaimed October 23-29 as "KET Is For Learning Week" in Kentucky.

Instructional television programs were first to air when KET began broadcasting 15 years ago. Now KET airs more than 100 instructional series and employs six utilization specialists to help Kentucky teachers incorporate educational television into their classrooms.

"Instructional programming supplements the curriculum," explained KET Utilization Specialist Liz Hobson. "It can help make abstract ideas concrete. For instance, you don't just have to talk about the path of blood through the body; you can show it. You can illustrate a process and show movement in time, such as a flower blooming. Instructional television is motivational; kids like to watch TV."

KET also is involved in the production of instructional television, and many of the KET-produced series air nationwide. One of its newest series, "Arts Express," which began airing nationally this fall, has already been rated in the top third of the most-viewed series in Kentucky schools. "Arts Express" is an introduction to the arts for elementary students.

KET's newest series, "Kentucky's Story," introduces the state's history to fourth graders, beginning with the Mississippian culture Indians and ending with current times.

Research Centers On Vietnam Vets

Did attending Morehead State University help prepare Vietnam veterans for return to civilian life?

This is one of the questions Dr. John Hanrahan, professor of history at MSU, and Michael Downs, history graduate student, hope to find an answer to through current research.

Dr. Hanrahan and Downs are interviewing alumni who served in Vietnam about their war experiences and their attitudes toward the war.

"There have been a number of oral histories written about the Vietnam experience," says Dr. Hanrahan. "What we are trying to do is a similar oral history for our region." Downs, an Owingsville native, served in Vietnam. He was wounded in combat and received four Purple Hearts.

"Being a vet had a lot to do with my interest in this project," he says. "I am curious about what effect being in the war is having on their lives today, and why they did after the war ended, and why they decided to come back to school."

A significant number of Vietnam veterans have attended MSU on the GI Bill. Since 1961, more than 1,000 veterans have enrolled, with 591 receiving bachelors degrees and 219 earning masters degrees.

Currently, there are 118 Vietnam veterans enrolled at MSU; 22 of them are enrolled in graduate programs.

The research should be completed by December.

ROCK ON

By Ethlie Ann Vare

UPDATE

A slew of big-name albums are going to be released this week: Genesis, Paul McCartney, Ozzy Osbourne, Alan Parsons Project and the Rolling Stones.

Todd Rundgren's touring plans have been postponed. He fell down and broke his arm taping a television special in England.

New bands to watch out for: Midnight Oil, Nena, Lone Justice, Truth and the Stingers.

Frank Zappa is working on a play based upon his musical characters. He hopes to put it on Broadway.

The band Toronto is releasing its next album with 3-D artwork on the jacket and inner sleeve. It will come with a pair of 3-D glasses, too.

Film rights have been sold to Michael Jackson's "Billy Jean." Will she do as well as "Ode to Billy Joe?" Or are they the same person?

Peter Schilling

the System" (Elektra) — This young German doesn't play an instrument; his haunting arrangements and silky tenor are his talents. The standout song on this debut is the European smash "Major Tom," an eerie, hypnotic homage to David Bowie's legendary spaceman.

The LP has an English translation of the song, but the original German (more mysterious and exciting) is available on the cassette. The rest of the material isn't as remarkable as "Major Tom," but it's good Euro-techno pop.

Big Country — "The Crossing" (Mercury) — Big Country's Stuart Adamson calls his songs "music to move mountains by"... and he's not far off. The young Scottish band has such a sweeping, larger-than-life sound — it's an orchestra of guitars, a sky full of violins and bagpipes all done by four guys. There's so much grandeur here that it's easier to associate it with winning the American West than with the firths of Scotland. An impressive album — and a new band of note.

REVIEWS

Michael Sembello — "Bossa Nova Hotel" (Warner Brothers) — Except for the disco-update hit "Maniac" (from "Flashdance"), Sembello's debut LP is straight Christopher Cross-style soft rock. It's all done with synthesized instruments, but it sounds every bit as dull as the real thing. Of course, a whole lot of people like Christopher Cross.

BRAINSTORM, from MGM/UA. Directed by Douglas Trumbull, screenplay by Robert Stitzel and Philip Frank Messina. Starring Christopher Walken, Natalie Wood, Louise Fletcher. Rated 'PG' ★ ★

By J.T. YURKO

Douglas Trumbull likes visual effects. He created many of them for such films as "Close Encounters of the Third Kind," "Star Trek: The Motion Picture" and "Blade Runner."

"Brainstorm" is set in the future, with Trumbull using as his premise not outer space but the inner workings of the human mind. Two scientists (Christopher Walken and a chain-smoking Louise Fletcher) have developed a machine that can tap into and record brain waves to be played back and experienced by another person.

As premises go, this one is not so farfetched, especially for a science-fiction film. Brain waves are electricity, and with some appropriately exotic laser tape and lots of computers, "Brainstorm" becomes a kind of "WarGames" for the mind.

What is done with the premise is more important, however, and "Brainstorm" seems like a series of missed opportunities. The idea of being able to walk around in someone else's mind — let alone his moccasins — opens up a limitless number of possibilities, but few are tapped.

The special effects come into play when the sensory effects of such a device are exploited. Recording someone's trip aboard a roller coaster can be played back directly to your own mind, to give you the impression that you are experiencing the sensation. For these sequences, Trumbull shifts from regular Panavision to 70mm Panavision, with some success, but all too fleeting and transient. A few of the more hallucinogenic sights, however, are quite remarkable.

All of this must be set against Natalie Wood's death occurred while making the film. Although the studio wanted to shelve the project, Trumbull persuaded them to complete the picture. What he intended and what he ended up with are two different matters, and only Trumbull can say how far apart the two are. "Brainstorm" could use one of the machines from the movie to fully give us the movie in Trumbull's mind.

Supplement Allows Best Use Of Forage

Most Kentucky beef producers depend heavily on winter pasture and hay to get through the cold months. To make the most efficient use of forages and assure maximum beef production, the wise use of supplements is necessary, says Dr. Warren Gill, Extension livestock specialist at the University of Kentucky.

He adds that a good supplement program is especially important this year because this summer's drought has lowered the quality of feedstuffs available for livestock.

Gill defines a supplement as normally being a concentrated form of a nutrient that is added to provide energy, protein, vitamins or minerals. Supplements also may contain other feed additives, such as antibiotics or buffers.

To determine whether a supplement is needed and at what level it should be fed, Gill, who is headquartered at UK's Robinson Substation-Quicksand, says these questions must be answered:

What is the quality of the forage (hay)?

What type and size animal will be eating the forage?

What stage of production is the animal (early pregnancy, growing, lactating, etc.)?

"The first question is best answered by getting a forage analysis," says Gill. County agriculture Extension agents can provide details on how to do this, as well as help visually appraise hay.

"In general, high quality hay is cut at an early stage of maturity, and is leafy, green, pliable, free of dust and has a pleasant odor," says the specialist. Poor hay is stemmy, late-cut, brown, moldy and may contain weeds or foreign material, and while it is undesirable to have poor hay, it can be useful if properly supplemented, according to Gill.

Bulls, calves and cows all have different nutrient requirements and different supplement needs, notes Gill in explaining the second question.

Scholarship Pageant Set at Georgetown

Georgetown College will host the 13th Annual Miss Kentucky National Teenager Scholarship Pageant on June 15, 16, and 17. The winner will receive a $1,000 cash scholarship award, a $2,000.00 scholarship to Georgetown College, and other prizes. Contestants will be judged on scholastic achievement, leadership, poise-personality, and appearance. To qualify as a contestant, the teen must be a student age 13-18.

Applications are being accepted now and may be obtained by calling the pageant headquarters at 803/798-3342 or by writing to Miss Kentucky National Teen-ager, P.O. Box 21645, Columbia, S.C. 29221.

BANKRUPTCY AUCTION

We will sell at public auction the 205-acres of real estate known as the Willis O. Francis property on Saturday, Oct. 22, 1983, 10:30 A.M.

Located in the coalfields of Eastern Kentucky on the Mountain Parkway, 10 miles south of Jackson and 20 miles north of Hazard. The property has a one-third mile paved, oval racetrack. It has a truck tippie site which is presently leased and operating. The property, rich in minerals, has an active mining permit and a current analysis and reserve report available. Also, a large modern home and many acres suitable for needed residential sub-division. There is an excellent commercial lot lying on Highway 15.

Also, certain items of personal property located thereon including Thurman scales, 12x50 office trailer, and a 1979 Blazer.

This property has tremendous investment potential and will be divided into tracts and offered as a whole.

TERMS:

Personal Property: Cash in full on date of sale.

Real Property: 10% of bid price down in cash on the date of sale, balance due within 30 days from the date of sale, with interest on unpaid balance at 12% per annum.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Chandra Lynn Halbert. It has been one year since God has called you home to be with him forever.

Passed away October 19, 1982

Little Angels
When God calls little children to dwell with Him above,
We mortals sometimes question the wisdom of His love.
For no heartache compares with the death of one small child
Who does so much to make our world seem wonderful and mild.
The saddest word mankind knows will always be "Goodbye."
So when a little child departs,
We who are left behind,
Must realize God loves children,
Angels are hard to find.

MOM AND DAD

Mrs. Matilda J. LeMaster

Mrs. Matilda J. LeMaster, 73, of Ashville, Ohio, died Sunday, Oct. 9, at her residence.

Born March 6, 1910 in Lawrence county, she was the daughter of Johnnie and Ethel Castle Wheeler. She was a 59-year member of the United Baptist Church.

Survivors include her husband, Olgie LeMaster, five sons, Paul, Arby, and Rick LeMaster, all of Ashville, O.; Loy LeMaster, of Circleville, Ohio, and Estil LeMaster, of Grove City, O.; Wanda Payne, of Springfield, O., and Janet Shatzer, of Lima, O.; one foster son, Bill Fowler, of Ashville, O.; 17 grandchildren, two great-grandchildren; one half-sister, Edith Caldwell, of Columbus.

Funeral services were held Wednesday, Oct. 12, at the Wellman Funeral Home in Ashville, with Elder Troy and Elder Ervin Preston officiating. Burial was in Floral Hills cemetery.

Stanley H. Nichols

Stanley H. Nichols, 78, of Franklin, O., died Saturday, October 8, at Middletown (O.) Hospital where he had been a patient for 10 days.

A member of the Franklin Free Will Baptist Church, he retired in 1967 from the St. Regis Paper Co. in Middletown. He was the stepfather of Mrs. Lillian Conley, of Abbott Mountain, Prestonsburg, who survives.

Other survivors include his wife, Ollie; three sons, Jack Nichols, of Franklin, Bob Nichols, of Lexington, Ky., and Charles Nichols, of Blackie, Ky.; three stepdaughters, Mrs. Conley, Mrs. Julie Duchermin, of Franklin, and Mrs. Mary Dooley, of Springfield, O.; three stepsons, Russell and John Griffith, both of Franklin, and Bill Griffith, of Miamisburg, O.; two brothers, Harrison Nichols, of Blackie, and Ray Nichols, of Holden, W. Va., and a sister, Mrs. Eliza Brown, of Little Rock, Arkansas. Thirty-three grandchildren and 41 great-grandchildren also survive.

Funeral rites were conducted last Tuesday at the Franklin Free Will Baptist Church with the Revs. Denzil Owsley and Dewey Conley officiating. Burial was made in the Springboro Cemetery.

Dr. Frances R. Sherman

Dr. Frances R. Sherman, who with her husband, the late Dr. John J. Sherman, practised medicine at Martin for many years, died Oct. 11 in a Santa Cruz, Calif. hospital. She was 75.

A graduate of Rush Medical College, Chicago, Ill., she was in medical practice at Martin for 20 years and later at Veterans Hospital, Huntington, W. Va., for six years. She was a member of the Association of American Physicians and Surgeons, Chi Omega Society, Alpha Omega Alpha (honorary medical society) and was a former member of the Kentucky Medical Association and the Floyd County Medical Society.

Dr. Sherman was a native of Fayetteville, Ark., the daughter of the late William J. and Grace Buchanan Reynolds. She was a member of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Capita, California. Her husband died Dec. 6, 1973. Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Sue Carr, Sunnyvale, Calif., one son, Jerome Sherman, Pacifica, Calif., and two grandchildren.

The funeral mass of Christian burial was held at St. Laurence Catholic Church, Ironton, O., at 10:30 a.m. Saturday by the Rev. James A. Dirker. Burial in Calvary cemetery there was directed by the Hayes-Phillips Funeral Home of Ironton.

In lieu of flowers, contributions to Our Lady of Mercy Research for the Prevention of Blindness, Chicago, Ill., were received.

Fedie Frasure

Fedie Frasure, 89, of Ashland, formerly of this county, died last Friday at Elmwood Village in Ashland following a long illness.

A son of the late Anthony and Martha Francis Frasure, he was born at Craynor and was a retired farmer. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Sallie Akers Frasure; five sons, Robert, Aderos, and Noah Frasure, all of Ashland, Eskil Frasure, of Taylor, Mich., and Walter Frasure, of Circleville, O.; four daughters, Mrs. Rutha Tackett, of Grethel, Mrs. Rosa Ellis, of Ashland, Mrs. Nellie Bush, of Raceland, and Mrs. Zella Minnehan, of Flatwoods; three brothers, Travis Frasure, of Blackfoot, Idaho, Noah Frasure, of Harold, and Evan Frasure, of Ashland; 24 grandchildren, 35 great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

Funeral rites were conducted at 10 a.m. Monday at the home of Fredd Tackett at Grethel with Regular Baptist ministers officiating. Burial was made in the Fredd Tackett cemetery at Grethel under direction of the Hall Funeral Home.

Western Union Sued By Woman Claiming Wire Not Delivered

The failure of a Western Union agent to deliver a telegram caused her to be absent from her mother's deathbed, at Prestonsburg woman claims in a $1.5 million damage suit filed here last week.

Brenda Johnson, of the Dixie Heights apartment building in the Goble-Robert Addition, says in the suit that her sister sent a telegram from Michigan last December to inform her that their mother, Freida Brown, was gravely ill in Lexington's Good Samaritan Hospital.

Boyd Nuckols, who operates the Western Union agency out of his Chevron gas station on South Lake Drive, allegedly never delivered the telegram. Mrs. Brown died January 6. Her daughter says she learned of this only the day after.

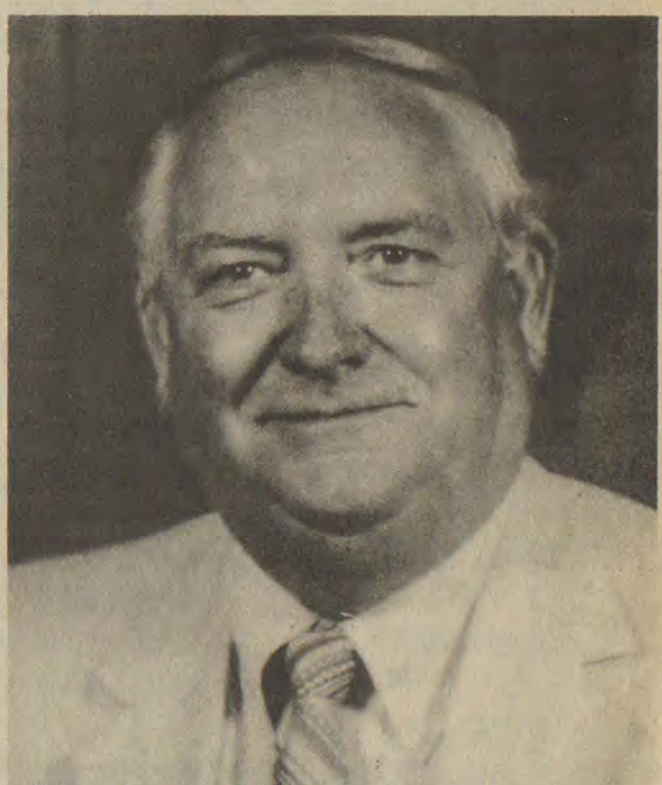

Mrs. Johnson, who names Nuckols and Western Union as defendants, claims $1 million for emotional suffering and $500,000 in punitive damages. (Suits filed in circuit court present on only one side of the issue in dispute.)

LEADERSHIP AND INTEGRITY

JOHN M. STUMBO

- LIFELONG RESIDENT OF FLOYD COUNTY
- LIFELONG DEMOCRAT
- A STRONG FAMILY MAN
- EXTENSIVE EXPERIENCE IN ROAD CONSTRUCTION
- EXTENSIVE EXPERIENCE IN PUBLIC FINANCE
- CONCERNED AND CAPABLE

John M. Stumbo is the Democratic nominee for County Judge-Executive. John knows of the importance of this office to the people of Floyd county. In the four short months that John has been our County Judge, dramatic progress has been made. John has demonstrated his ability to take charge of the county budget, the road maintenance program and the county administration.

John is a lifelong resident of Floyd County and a lifelong Democrat. The County Judge-Executive must be able to communicate with our state and federal leaders and gain their support and assistance for projects and programs necessary for progress in our county. He has worked with Congressman Perkins and other state leaders in the past and has demonstrated his ability to gain access for us into the complex areas of state and federal government programs.

John is a family man. He has lived in Floyd County all of his life. John has children and he has the same hopes and dreams for his children as we all do. Our children are our greatest resources. John Stumbo has spent 31 years of his life working for our children here in Floyd County. He has demonstrated his concern for our children and his willingness to work for our children and for our future.

Leadership is the major issue. John Stumbo has proven he can provide that leadership. John says, "With the cutbacks in funding for our people from the Republican administration in Washington, we are facing difficult times. I believe I can help our county. That's why I am running for County Judge-Executive."

The Kentucky Garden Journal

By Bonnie Lee Appleton
State Urban Garden & Home Horticulture Specialist
COOPERATIVE EXTENSION PROGRAM
KENTUCKY STATE UNIVERSITY

Are you like me—your spirits quickly sag when frosts blacken the remains of your summer garden and warn your fall veggies that the end is near? Do you begin to miss your walks to the garden to see what is ready to pick?

I decided a few years ago that spring, summer and fall vegetable gardens just weren't enough. I wanted a winter vegetable garden too. I wanted to be able to go out on Christmas day, even in the snow, to pick lettuce and radishes for a fresh Christmas salad. And I did, with very little effort.

Cold frames can be constructed for little or no money making them excellent garden additions. Used windows can serve as the lids, with bales of hay or concrete blocks for sides. Extra heat can be provided by mixing compost or manure into the soil.

Timely Tip: As you enjoy squash and pumpkins this fall and winter, save the seeds for birdfeed. Wash the pulp from the seeds or place them on a cookie sheet and leave overnight in a gas oven. The pilot light will dry the pulp and make it easy to separate the pulp and seeds. Cardinals in particular seem to enjoy this winter treat.

No, I wasn't vacationing in Florida that Christmas. I was in the cold north picking from my backyard garden. But here's the secret—my garden was inside a cold frame.

A cold frame is simply a bottomless box-like frame with sloping side walls that sits on the soil. The back (north wall) is several inches higher than the front (south wall) so that a lid or cover placed over this frame is on a slope. The frame should slope down towards the south so that sunlight can passively heat the soil and plants within. Normally sunlight is the only heat source for a cold frame.

I know many gardeners who have cold frames. Most used them for hardening off vegetable transplants in the spring, chilling pots of bulbs for indoor spring forcing or rooting cuttings from favorite landscape plants.

But one friend had a passion for spinach salad. He picked spinach from his garden all year, in fall and spring from his regular garden, in winter from his cold frame and in summer from his "shade frame" (he replaced the cold frame lid with lath strips).

That was all I needed to see. A simple cold frame was cut from one three foot by three foot sheet of half inch exterior plywood with a hinged lid of corrugated fiberglass. The cold frame hinges have removable pins that allow for assembly or break-down in a matter of minutes.

My cold frame wasn't built and seeded until mid-October the year I started, but on Christmas day, even with a light cover of snow, I harvested green onions, leaf lettuce, radishes and spinach to accompany my turkey. I took enough pictures that day to rival anyone's vacation trip.

I did help matters along in a few ways. I pregerminated my seeds for quicker seedling establishment, bermed the compost around the cold frame's walls to provide extra heat and put an old blanket over the cold frame at night to help conserve heat.

We will sell at Absolute Auction this fine Log Home and surveyed lot of approximately .6 of an acre, located on Ewing Trail Rd., 1/2 mile northeast of Stanton, Ky. This fine home has the best of materials and workmanship in it and must be seen to be appreciated.

There is a large family room with a cathedral ceiling, cut stone hearth for wood-burning stove, a chimney (heat reservoir) of sandstone brick, free standing from the basement to the roof. Kitchen with custom-made cabinets by Walker Woodworks of Berea, Ky., and table top range, oven, dishwasher, double stainless steel sinks and garbage disposal, carpeted master bedroom with adjoining full bath. Upstairs are 2 large bedrooms with large closets and a large bathroom. The attic is floored for use as storage space. Downstairs, the basement is finished for family living, having a large living area with hearth for a woodburning stove, a large 4th bedroom with closet or other uses, a large laundry room and utility room with drop ceiling to suppress noise, and a full bath. There is a natural gas furnace and city water. There are 2 septic tank systems, one for kitchen and bath tubs only, installed according to code and inspected by the State Health Dept. officer. The basement is 12" block, each course has steel block ties; the footer is 2 1/2 ft. wide x 1 1/2 ft. deep with 6 strands of tied reinforcing steel. Two—6" drain tile are around the footer with 2 ft. of no. 2 rock above it. Outside basement walls have 3 coats of basement seal. Exposed basement walls are faced up with native stone. There is a sun deck across the back and a front porch; all copper flashing above windows, doors, chimney, etc.

This fine log home is designed for economical living cost in a home. There is very little maintenance cost and never any painting or treatment for termites and wood-eating insects. The insulating factors of this log home supersedes all requirements of Federal Housing Authority.

If you have been wanting a fine home, you now have the opportunity. Also available for this home purchase is long-term mortgage money from Farmers Federal Savings & Loan Association. For further information call the selling agent.

OPEN WOUNDS

An open wound is any injury in which the skin is broken. The objectives in treating an open wound consist of stopping the bleeding, preventing contamination, preventing or treating shock, and seeking medical attention if the wound is severe or the victim has not had a tetanus shot within five years. Though professional medical attention may be sought at the Highlands Regional Medical Center emergency department or Our Lady of the Way Hospital emergency department, at times steps must be performed first by non-medical personnel in order to preserve the health of the victim.

If the bleeding of the wound is severe, use direct pressure to stop the flow of blood. Do not clean a large severe wound or apply any medication. Seek medical attention immediately.

Wash your hands thoroughly and examine the injury. If it is not severe, wash the wound thoroughly with soap and water and, if necessary, scrub gently to remove all of the dirt and other contaminating particles. It may be necessary to remove foreign particles with tweezers that have been sterilized over an open flame or boiled in water. Foreign materials that are deeply embedded in tissue should only be removed by a physician.

After washing the wound, rinse it thoroughly under cool running water and pat dry with a clean cloth. Do not apply medication unless directed by a physician. Cover the wound with a sterile dressing and bandage in place. If the cut is slightly gaping, apply a butterfly bandage or tape the wound to get the edges as close together as possible.

There are some cases in which medical attention should always be sought. A visit to the emergency room is necessary if the wound is severe, the bleeding will not stop, the injury was caused by a dirty object, foreign material is embedded in the wound, signs of infection or if there is any doubt about tetanus immunization.

If there are any questions concerning the treatment for an open wound, please contact the Highlands Regional Medical Center emergency department at 886-8511 or Our Lady of the Way Hospital emergency department at 285-5181.

Student Government At Job Corps Exceeds

Miss Burieta Gearheart, 1983 Floyd County Arthritis chairwoman, announces that the Student Government of the Prestonsburg Job Corps Center sponsored a recent and most successful road block for the Arthritis Foundation. The 1983 goal for Prestonsburg was $700. The Job Corps Center students worked and collected a total of $890.31, an alltime high for Prestonsburg.

The goal for the county is $1,400. Miss Gearheart reported that campaigns are now in the process of taking place in all towns in Floyd county to help reach that goal.

Distinguished 100% Service Arthritis Awards were presented, on behalf of the Arthritis Foundation, by Bob Crawley, vice-president of the Kentucky Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation, and Miss Gearheart, to the members of the Student Government of the Prestonsburg Job Corps Center.

Proceeds from the road block will go toward the overall arthritis program of education, treatment and research.

After Prestonsburg's success, Miss Gearheart urges all communities in the county to support the effort to meet the county's $1,400 goal.

PCC Class Calendar, Community Services

CHRISTMAS CRAFTS

The second session of Christmas Crafts at Prestonsburg Community College will start Monday, October 31, at 6:30 in Pike 216. Students will put their sewing machines to good use as they learn to candlewick, make treeskirts, placements and wreaths.

CAKE DECORATING

Cake Decorating as taught by Shelba Phillips will again be offered at Prestonsburg Community College. This is a class for those who enjoy baking and decorating birthday and holiday cakes for family and friends.

The course will meet in the Pike Technology Building on Thursdays, 6-8 p.m., starting October 27 for six weeks. Enrollment is limited to 18 participants.

GYMNASTICS

The second series of gymnastic classes taught by Robin Carlson are scheduled to start at Archer Park on Thursday, October 27, and Saturday, November 5. The Thursday class is for advanced students. Children 10 and under will come at 4 p.m., and teenagers and adults at 5:15 p.m. Three classes are offered on Saturday morning. At 9 a.m., a new class for three and four-year-olds has been added. This will include basic tumbling and muscle strengthening exercises as well as beginning ballet exercises. At 10 a.m., a beginning gymnastics class is scheduled and at 11 a.m., an intermediate class is scheduled. Tap and jazz classes are scheduled at the college also on Saturday mornings. Students may register for tap, ballet, and jazz for the first of each month.

PHOTOGRAPHY

A new class for photographers is starting Wednesday, October 19, at 7 p.m. It is a class in beginning darkroom techniques and should interest every amateur photographer who wants to take the next step. This class, taught by David Gardner, will include techniques such as burning and dodging, cropping, matting, framing, chemical and paper selection.

UPHOLSTERY

A new addition to our sewing classes will start October 19. This is a class for homemakers who wish to learn to upholster a chair or hassock. It is designed for beginners and will be taught by Helen Burchett. The eight-week class will enable the student to complete her project in time for the holidays.

BALLET

PCC now has a new dance studio in Building B. Ballet, taught by Robin Carlson, starts Monday, September 12 at 5 p.m. for teenagers and adults.

CANDY MAKING

Linda Little will offer her candy-making class Tuesday, November 1, at 6 p.m. in Pike 216. Learn to dip and mold chocolate for delicious holiday giving.

Nature Trails... By RUFUS REED

Marvels of Bird Migration

The arctic term is the champion migrator of all the birds. This bird is closely related to the seagull and has long, strong wings for long flights. It nests on the tundra of the arctic, where the sun never sets, and in autumn it flies 11,000 miles to where the sun never sets in Antarctica. So this is one bird that never knows darkness except during migration.

For travel the bobolinks are next to the tern. In the fall they leave New England and fly 700 miles to spend the winter on the plains of Argentina.

Our local robins go south in winter, and their place is filled by robins from Canada. About seven years ago, all the robins of Canada formed one great flock of perhaps 500,000 birds and flew to the Tug Fork valley to spend the winter. For their winter quarters they chose a large pine grove on a hillside of John Cline's farm at Lovely, Martin county. Those Canadian robins looked bigger and brighter than those we know.

Daytime, they fanned out in all directions, in search of food. They devoured every berry, every seed, every nut within a radius of 20 miles of their roost. They would fly back to the pines, late in the afternoon, and it took them two hours for all to get settled in.

People came from all over to see these robins. Such a multitude of birds had never before been seen in this region, and some people brought chop (chopped corn) and spread it among the pines, but the robins wouldn't eat it. Others brought raisins. The visitors stayed in the pines until they had consumed all the available berries and seeds within a radius of some 20 miles. They left and settled again in North Carolina.

September and October are the months of migration. If you could look deep into the night sky, you would see flocks of thousands making headlong flight, in a hurry to go south. In these flocks are warblers, thrushes, vireos, tanagers and orioles. They often fly so fast that they are often dashed to their deaths against some high object. At the foot of a high television tower in Tennessee several hundred dead birds were found.

The wood thrushes fly to Castro's Cuba to spend the winter; the chimney swifts fly 400 miles to winter in Peru. The martins, which go to Brazil, left in August.

We have several species of birds that do not go south, but these are mostly seed-eaters and have strong bills for cracking seeds and nuts. The warblers, vireos and others have weak bills and feed on insects. Since no insects are flying here in winter, these birds must migrate south or starve.

Our state bird, the cardinal, stays with us, all winter. If he should go south, too, we would be without a state bird half of the time.

CARD OF THANKS
The family of Danny Ray Reynolds wishes to thank all of those who were so kind and considerate during our time of grief. We want to thank those who sent flowers, food and gifts of love. We especially want to thank the Samaria Regular Baptist members and ministers and the Hall Funeral Home for being so kind. All your kindnesses were greatly appreciated.

Hughes-Case

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hughes, of Martin, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Lynn, to Mr. Wesley Case, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Case, of Martin.

Miss Hughes is a 1982 graduate of Allen Central high school and Mayo State Vocational School and is presently attending Prestonsburg Community College. She is employed by Maloney's Discount Store in Martin. Mr. Case is a 1978 graduate of McDowell high school and attended Pikeville College. He is self-employed at Custom Waterbed in Martin.

The wedding will be solemnized Saturday, October 22, at 6:30 p.m. at the Martin Methodist Church in Martin. The gracious custom of open ceremony will be observed.

A reception will be held in the church fellowship hall immediately following the ceremony.

Public TV Launches War on Drug Abuse

A nationwide action campaign to combat school-age drug and alcohol abuse, combining the power of television and people-power at the community level, will be launched Wednesday, November 2, at 8 p.m.

First Lady Nancy Reagan will host the two-part national series, "The Chemical People," with the second part airing the following Wednesday, November 9, at the same times. Joining Mrs. Reagan as co-hosts will be Bill Bixby, Bruce Weitz, Rita Moreno and Michael Landon. Baseball player Willie Stargell will also co-host the second program.

The first program, "The Chemical Society," on Nov. 2, presents an overview of the widespread use of drugs and alcohol by young people. Professionals in Atlanta, Minneapolis, Washington, D.C. and Los Angeles acknowledge four stages of drug abuse: experimental, regular use and misuse, early abuse and finally dependency. Each stage is substantiated by youngsters who actually have experienced it.

"Community Answers," airing Nov. 9, depicts communities and groups of men and women working together to set up task forces. Viewers are shown how task forces obtain information about treatment centers and learn about intervention. Through case histories, example and inspiration, "The Chemical People" will show how to prevent young people in their communities from being tempted by chemicals. The program urges that they be encouraged to value and to enjoy a healthy, drug- and alcohol-free lifestyle.

KET, with the cooperation of Kentucky War on Drugs, Inc., has produced two programs to precede each of the national shows. "The Chemical People: Kentucky Edition," takes cameras around the state for interviews with young people and their parents, and will seek to provide some answers at the local level. These programs will be aired at 7:30 p.m. on Nov. 2 and Nov. 9.

In this unprecedented outreach effort, more than 200 town meetings will be held in Kentucky during the broadcasts of "The Chemical People." The people at these meetings will then form task forces in their individual communities, to better meet the needs of their young people.

Also on November 2, Channel 15, Louisville, will present a live studio discussion, "The Chemical People—Too Close to Home." KET will carry this broadcast, and viewers may call in their questions to the Channel 15 studios.

Tax Workshop Is Slated At Paintsville, Dec. 6-7

Workshops for income tax practitioners are scheduled in 12 locations across the state beginning in mid-November.

The workshops for preparers of individual, business and farm returns are being sponsored by the University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service and the Kentucky Revenue Cabinet.

Workshop locations and dates include one at Paintsville, Dec. 6-7, at the Carriage House.

On the agenda for discussion are new Treasury rulings and cases since October 1982, all 1983 tax legislation, a new format for net operating losses, recent legislation on retirement plans, income and deductions from oil and gas, bad debts and repossessions, capital gains and losses, and Kentucky returns. Instructors will be revenue agents from throughout the state.

Deadline for enrollment in the workshop is November 1. A fee covers registration and reference materials. A cassette tape with much of the workshop material will be available.

For more information or to register, contact Charles L. Moore, Department of Agricultural Economics, Agricultural Science Building-South, University of Kentucky, Lexington 40546-0215.

Job Corps Thanked for Fire Aid

Tom Hummer, left, Director of Prestonsburg Job Corps Center, receives certificate of appreciation from Bill Phillips, Kentucky Division of Forestry. Approximately 30 students from the Job Corps assisted the Forestry Division with the suppression of forest fires in Floyd, Pike, and Magoffin counties in the spring of 1983.

★ Cancer Hopeline

Q. I have polycythemia vera, which I never heard of until my doctor said I had it. Can you give me any information on this disease and why it makes me apt to get leukemia?

A. Polycythemia vera is characterized by an increase in the number of red blood cells and in the total volume of blood in the body. It is found most often in patients over the age of 60. Because of the increased number of red cells in the blood, the viscosity (thickness) of the blood is greater, and the patient appears flushed and often complains of headaches. In addition, the patient's blood pressure also usually rises.

Methods of treatment include regular phlebotomy or withdrawal of blood to reduce the volume of the blood. Other more complex treatment involving radiation and/or chemotherapy may also be used. Mild anemia may develop, which later can become marked. Since the platelets in the blood (necessary for clotting) may be reduced in number or become abnormal, the patient may have a tendency to hemorrhage. In 10-15% of cases abnormal changes in white blood cells may ultimately result in acute or myelogenous leukemia. Thus, it is essential that polycythemia vera patients be regularly and carefully monitored and treated by a physician.

Do you have questions about cancer, its treatment, or ways to cope more successfully with the disease? Counselors at the Cancer Hopeline provide information, referrals, and counseling weekdays from 9-5. Just call toll free 1-800-4-Cancer, or write to us at 915 South Limestone Street, Lexington, Ky. 40536.

Parenting Skills Group To Meet Here, Oct. 26

The Big Sandy Family and Childbirth Education Association is sponsoring a parenting skills support group on Wednesday, October 26, at St. Theodore Catholic Church in Prestonsburg.

The purpose of this get-together is to give parents an opportunity to discuss their new babies and the parenting skills they have found helpful with other parents who are experiencing some of the same problems and feelings. All parents are welcome.

For more information, contact Ann Slone at 886-3863, ext. 213.

Collins Receives UK Scholarship

Joey Collins, of Stanville, has been awarded a scholarship to attend the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture for the 1983-84 academic year. He received the Alfred Chambers Brent Scholarship.

Collins is among nearly 170 students to receive a scholarship to study agriculture at UK, said Dr. John Robertson, associate dean for instruction in the UK College of Agriculture. He is a junior majoring in Pre-Veterinary Medicine.

More than 1,000 students currently are pursuing degrees in agriculture at UK. Degree programs are offered in agricultural economics, education, engineering and production, and in agronomy, animal sciences, entomology, food science, forestry, horticulture, landscape architecture, pest management, plant pathology and rural sociology.

UK's College of Agriculture also has a pre-veterinary medicine program. Students completing this program apply for admission to Auburn University or Tuskegee Institute for four years of study in veterinary medicine.

Beautiful log home of hand-hewn yellow poplar, located in a head-of-hollow setting offering privacy and solitude while only 10 minutes from Prestonsburg or Paintsville. On 20 acres, more or less (it's more), this 2,800 sq. ft. house is hand-crafted throughout with many unique features. House has three bedrooms, one-and-a-half baths, large living room and dining room, screened-in porch at rear, full-length front porch, city water, fine t.v. cable service, well, central heat and air-conditioning. (Large wood stove and hand-cut stone fireplace provide adequate heat during much of the winter months.) Large, rough lumber outbuilding. Land offers plenty of timber for the woodcutter and more than enough garden space.

The house and setting are a rare combination in one of the cleanest and most scenic areas of Floyd county. (House was subject of a recent feature story which appeared on both Huntington and Lexington television.)

For appointment to see call 886-8834. (Keep trying—someone's bound to answer sooner or later.) Please, no curiosity calls.

Attend Phi Beta Lamda Meet

The newly-elected officers for the Mayo Chapter of Phi Beta Lambda attended the Kentucky State Fall Leadership and Training conference held at the Louisville Inn, September 23-24. During the conference, the officers attended workshops on parliamentary procedures and the duties of their respective offices.

Shown in the picture are the 1983-1984 officers. First row, left to right: Carmen Brady, president; Beckie Bohannon, vice president, and Bryen Dyer, treasurer. Second row, left to right, are Lynn Maynard, of Emma, reporter; Jeanie Belcher, of Paintsville, historian; Tammy Arlene Shepherd, of David, parliamentarian; Tracy Stalvey, secretary alternate and Connie Skaggs, parliamentarian alternate.

The LaFollette Seamen's Act was approved in 1915. It regulates conditions of employment for maritime workers, according to a publication of the U.S. Department of Labor, "Important Events in American Labor History."

Women Executives Are KET Subject

The role of executives is a relatively new one for women and still in the evolutionary process. A 30-minute KET special, "For Executive Women," looks at how the executive woman combines her career and personal development Thursday, November 10, at 7:30 p.m.

In the program, Lexington psychologist Dr. Else Bolotin discusses opportunities for women and how to take them. Dr. Kathy Miller, a Lexington research and consulting psychologist, explains career/life planning and how the executive woman can take control of her life.

The program also explores exercise as a way to reduce the stress that the executive role creates. Discussing running are Lexington business people John Sensenig and Hetty Carriero.

Four Years Old

Little Larry Craig Tackett celebrated his fourth birthday, September 25, at his home at Grethel. He is the son of Larry and Flora Tackett, of Grethel.

Craig was given a Smurfdy party by his parents, and enjoyed a Smurf birthday cake baked by his Aunt Glenda Stumbo. He received many nice gifts and cards, and everyone who attended wished him the very best in the coming years.

Those attending included his brother, Shawn Douglas Tackett, Marie and Curt Tackett, John Glen and Betty Tackett, Glenda, Jeff, and Anitra Stumbo, Daryl and Danita Gail Spears, Curtis, Melissa, and Curtis Tackett, Jr., Luther, Debra, Amy Lynne, and Mark Tackett, Donnie, Brenda, and Brandon Craig Hall, Ronnie, Josephine, and Cindy Adkins, and Mrs. Minnie Adkins. Cassie and Larue Casebolt and Fayida Ray could not attend but sent best wishes. Larry Craig thanks everyone for making this a birthday he won't forget.

He is the grandson of Curt and Marie Tackett, of Grethel, and Mrs. Fayida Ray, of Virgie.

An Honor Neither Wants . . .

Pike, Floyd in Unemployment Tie

Unemployment was on the retreat during August in 95 of Kentucky's 120 counties, reflecting on the local level improvement already recorded in Kentucky's state jobless rate—dropping from 11.4 percent in July to 10.6 percent in August, the lowest monthly unemployment report of 1983. Preliminary figures released last week by the Cabinet for Human Resources also showed 53 counties registered single-digit unemployment in August compared to 42 in July. On the national level, the August jobless rate declined to 9.2 percent, down from July's 9.4 percent.

"The lower rate reflects our continued economic recovery," said state labor market analyst Ed Blackwell. "In August about 20,500 more people had jobs than in July. While more than half of these were in agriculture, employment was also up in manufacturing, construction, trade industries and coal mining."

The jobless rate for Letcher County, which had been the highest in the state for five months, dropped to 29.9 percent in August from 34.7 percent in July. Clinton county's 33.5 percent took Letcher's place as the state's highest.

Woodford County's 3.8 percent rate was the state's lowest for the sixth month in a row, down from 4.6 percent in July.

The August unemployment rate for the Lexington metropolitan area was 5.2 percent, down from 5.7 percent in July. This area, which is made up of Fayette, Clark, Bourbon, Jessamine, Scott and Woodford counties, reported employment of 162,408 in August, up from 161,599 in July, and unemployment of 8,982, down from 9,699 in July.

The unemployment rate in the Louisville metropolitan area was 9.5 percent in August, down from 10.1 percent in July. In this five-county area, comprised of Jefferson, Bullitt and Oldham counties in Kentucky and Floyd and Clark counties in Indiana, employment was estimated to be 378,513, up from 376,271 in July, and unemployment was 39,790, down from 42,388 in July.

Kentucky's civilian labor force was estimated to be 1,645,015 in August, up from 1,637,685 in July. The civilian labor force includes only non-military persons who currently are employed and unemployed people actively seeking jobs.

Total employment for the state was 1,470,675 in August, compared to 1,450,201 in July. The number of unemployed dropped to 174,340 in August from 187,484 in July.

Purchase Area Development District
The unemployment rate in the Purchase district was 10.5 percent in August, down from 11.3 percent in July. Calloway County's 6.5 percent unemployment rate was the lowest and Marshall County's 16.7 percent rate was the highest in the district. Four of the counties had unemployment rates above 10.0 percent.

The monthly sample of the district's unemployment insurance benefits recipients indicated 25.4 percent had worked in construction, 25.4 percent in trade and 22.8 percent in manufacturing jobs.

Pennyrite Area Development District
Unemployment in the Pennyrite district was 10.7 percent in August, down from 12.1 percent in July. Lyon County reported the district's lowest rate, 7.0 percent, and Muhlenberg County the highest, 14.6 percent. Five of the district's counties reported unemployment rates above 10.0 percent.

The unemployment rate in the Big Sandy district was 17.4 percent in August, down from 18.8 percent in July. Martin county's 9.8 percent rate was the district's lowest and the only one below 10 percent. Floyd and Pike counties tied for the district's highest rate as each reported 19.1 percent unemployment. Johnson county's rate was 15.2 and Magoffin's, 16.8.

The monthly sample of unemployment insurance benefits recipients showed 64.2 percent had been employed in mining, 9.4 percent in construction and 9.3 percent in services.

Unemployment in the Kentucky River district in August was 18.2 percent, down from 20.3 percent in July. All eight counties reported double-digit unemployment, with Breathitt County having the lowest, 10.9 percent, and Letcher County the highest, 29.9 percent.

A Matter of Time

(Smithsonian News Service)

Poets, philosophers and politicians began exploring the meaning of time long before physicists. Here are some samples of their wisdom and wit.

"Time travels in divers paces with divers persons. I'll tell you who Time ambles withal, who Time trots withal and who he stands still withal."—William Shakespeare (1564-1616)

"We take no note of Time/But from its Loss."—Edward Young (1683-1765)

"For time y-lost may not recovered be."—Geoffrey Chaucer (1340-1400)

"But at my back I always hear/Time's winged chariot hurrying near."—Andrew Marvel (1621-1678)

"Time wounds all heels."—Jane Austen (1775-1817)

"I would I could stand on a busy corner, hat in hand, and beg people to throw me all their wasted hours."—Bernard Berenson (1865-1959)

"Time: That which man is always trying to kill, but which ends in killing him."—Herbert Spencer (1820-1903)

"Remember, that time is money."—Benjamin Franklin (1706-1790)

"Nae man can tether time or tide."—Robert Burns (1759-1796)

"The less one has to do, the less time one finds to do it in."—Lord Chesterfield (1694-1773)

"Time is the most valuable thing a man can spend."—Theophrastus (d. 278 B.C.)

"Methinks I see the wanton hours flee,/And as they pass, turn back and laugh at me."—George Villiers, 2nd Duke of Buckingham (1628-1687)

"Time is a great teacher, but unfortunately it kills all its pupils."—Hector Berlioz (1803-1869)

"Lost, yesterday, somewhere between Sunrise and Sunset, two golden hours, each set with sixty diamond minutes. No reward is offered, for they are gone forever."—Horace Mann (1796-1859)

"There's a minute of life passing! Paint it in its reality and forget everything to do that."—Paul Cezanne (1839-1906)

"Some people can stay longer in an hour than others can in a week."—William Dean Howells (1837-1920)

"You can ask me for anything you like, except time."—Napoleon Bonaparte, to an aide, 1803

Medicare.

If you're 65 or over, you probably know about Medicare...including the fact that it doesn't cover all your hospital and medical bills. There are deductibles, co-payments and non-covered services you must pay yourself.

Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kentucky offers two different Medicare Supplement programs to help fill in the gaps left by Medicare. Both meet state and federal standards for Medicare supplement programs. And they're both designed to pay the majority of the Medicare deductibles and co-payments and to fill in where Medicare benefits leave off.

Both programs include extended coverage for skilled nursing facility care and in-hospital private duty nursing.

In addition, one of the programs also offers prescription drug benefits.

For more information about the Blue Cross and Blue Shield Medicare Supplement programs, complete and mail in the coupon below. All applicants are subject to health care questions and if accepted, there is a six-month waiting period for health conditions which exist at the time of enrollment.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

One way that the body may react to a drug is with an allergic response. Any chemical agent, not necessarily a drug, may act upon the body in a way that causes it to react as if it were an infection. The body then calls the mechanisms of defense into play, causing a release of its own chemicals. Chief among these may be histamine. This may result in swelling. If such an allergic symptom accompanies the taking of any medication, cease taking it and call your physician. He can advise you as to the availability of an antidote or another effective drug.

If you develop any strange reaction or side effects while taking a medication, please don't hesitate to contact your physician. Here at COOLEY APOTHECARY we're dedicated to you and your health, and we're more than willing to answer your health-related questions. After all, it's one of the reasons we're here. You'll also find convalescent items. VISA and Mastercard welcome. Located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., where we're open Mon.-Fri., 9-5:30; Sat., 9-4. 886-8106.

HANDY HINT:

For almost every medication, there is a person with an allergic response.

WAYLAND

CLUB RE-ELECTS OFFICERS
The Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club held a business meeting recently at the home of Mrs. James A. Duff, Hueysville, to make plans for the new club year.

An official election of officers was held, which had been delayed since May because of the serious illness of the club president's husband. The same officers were re-elected for another year; namely, Mrs. Otto Martin, president; Mrs. Marie Mullins, vice-president; Mrs. Don Hughes, recording secretary; Mrs. Marcellous Dunfee, corresponding secretary; Mrs. James E. Martin, treasurer, and Mrs. J.C. Wells, parliamentarian.

Mrs. Marie Mullins, vice-president, gave a report on the KFWC 7th District workshop she had attended in Prestonsburg. She also distributed boxes to be assembled by each member for coins to go to the General Federation of Women's Club's History Research Center in Washington, D.C.

The club president reported that all commitments had been met for the prior year and urged everyone to try to bring in new members for the current year.

Mrs. Felix Coburn was unanimously re-elected for another five-year term as a trustee for the club.

It was also unanimously decided to again sell pecans as a money-raising project for the club's civic endeavors.

Program meetings were assigned by the club president, who also asked that committee members keep their last year's assignments in order to expedite getting into the year's projects.

It was voted to raise the club dues by $2.50 per year, due to the increase in the GFWC/KFWC allotments.

The hostess, Mrs. Duff, served refreshments to Mrs. J.C. Wells, Mrs. Felix Coburn, Mrs. Marie Mullins, Mrs. Marcellous Dunfee, Mrs. Don Hughes, Mrs. James E. Martin, and Mrs. Otto Martin, members, and Mrs. James West, guest.

At U.S. Naval Academy

Mr. and Mrs. Guy W. Baker, of Mt. Vernon, Illinois, recently visited their son, Midshipman Fourth Class Charles Ross Baker, during Parent's Open House Weekend at the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md.

Midshipman Baker, a native of Wheelwright, is the grandson of Mrs. Nancy Caudill, of Hi Hat, and Mt. Vernon, Illinois, and the late Milford Caudill. Mrs. Baker is the former Nelsba Caudill, of Hi Hat.

Midshipman Baker, who graduated in 1983 from Mt. Vernon Township High School, is one the 1,356 members of the Naval Academy Class of 1987, which reported to Annapolis in July and underwent six weeks of intensive military training.

The new midshipmen were selected from among 13,568 applicants, which is the largest number of applicants in 10 years.

BSF-CEA Receives Grant of $3,170

The Big Sandy Family and Childbirth Education Association (BSF-CEA) recently received a grant from The Kentucky Social Welfare Foundation in the amount of $3,170. This grant will enable BSF-CEA to support hospital personnel working towards and educating local community people about family-centered maternity care (FCMC), which is the focus of the organization.

Family-Centered maternity care includes such components as meeting the entire family's needs during the childbearing experience; the family and medical caregiver working as a team during the birth; use of certified-nurse midwives for low risk mothers to allow for education and support of the family before, during, and after the childbirth; use of birthing rooms for labor and delivery to allow maximum flexibility in procedures to accommodate the individual mother's comfort; gentle handling of the mother and newborn during the birth process; bonding of the newborn with the parents as soon as possible after the birth; newborns rooming in with the mother; visitation of mother and baby in the hospital by other brothers and sisters; providing information and support for mothers choosing to breastfeed; and providing supportive resources for families experiencing an unexpected outcome.

Debra C. Hall Named Postmaster at David

Debra Hall, who joined the U.S. Postal Service as a part-time clerk in the Prestonsburg Post Office in 1970, is the new postmaster at David. Since last June she has been detailed as officer-in-charge at the post office.

Mrs. Hall's appointment became effective October 15. She succeeds Mrs. Lillia Price, former postmaster, who retired, effective June 3. The office serves an area population of approximately 500, including approximately 50 general delivery families, 80 lock box customers, and 60 star route boxes.

Mrs. Hall has previously served as a relief clerk at the West Prestonsburg Station, clerk-in-charge at the Prestonsburg Post Office, and as a clerk in the Martin Post Office. She is actively involved in the church and civic affairs in her community.

A breastfeeding support group for new and expectant mothers will be held Tuesday, October 25, at 10:30 a.m. at the home of Leatha Kendrick near East Point and at 7 p.m. at the home of Ellen Joyce, at Banner.

There are no fees, no rules, just companionship, advice, and encouragement from other mothers who have breastfed or are breastfeeding their babies. For more information, contact Leatha Kendrick at 886-8796 or Ellen Joyce at 874-9414.

KHC Board To Meet

The regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Kentucky Housing Corporation (KHC) will be held Friday, October 21, at 10 a.m., EDT, at the Hyatt Regency Hotel, 320 West Jefferson Street, Louisville, Kentucky.

The press and public are cordially invited to attend.

'NOVA' Confronts Death and Dying

Dr. Elizabeth Kubler-Ross has become a legend in her time for her work with the dying. "To Live Until You Die: The Work of Elizabeth Kubler-Ross," to be shown Tuesday, November 8, at 8:00 p.m., captures this compassionate and dedicated doctor as she encounters her patients.

Dr. Kubler-Ross, holder of 40 honorary degrees and a best-selling author, earns her living lecturing and writing. She receives no fees from her patients yet travels constantly to sit with the terminally ill and their families. "The greatest gift," she says, "is to sit and listen and hear."

NOVA makes it possible for the television audience to do just that. "To Live Until You Die" provides a rare and privileged look at a therapeutic art in the hands of a master. The cameras explore the experiences of the dying and their soon-to-be bereaved families. The sorrow, confusion and rage of the young and old softens and Dr. Kubler-Ross guides her patients through the labyrinth of grief, to discover a serenity with which to greet death.

VITAMIN A AND TEETH

Q. Does a Vitamin A deficiency affect teeth and gums? How?

A. Lack of Vitamin A can produce a whole string of problems, including soft tooth enamel as teeth develop in the jaw, gingival inflammations, susceptibility to infection, problems with salivary glands, and formation of periodontal pockets. Although such a deficiency contributes to these problems, it is not the immediate cause of them. Actually, the same can be said of all deficiencies of vitamins and minerals. They weaken the body's ability to fight infection and function properly, and this applies equally to gums and teeth.

A raw carrot a day can give you twice the recommended amount of Vitamin A, and you get it naturally from other foods as well: liver, milk, fresh fruits and vegetables, and meats.

Alcohol, coffee, too much iron, not enough Vitamin D, mineral oil taken internally, and medically prescribed cortisone all affect the body's ability to absorb Vitamin A. Vitamins C, D, E, calcium, phosphorus and zinc all help the body convert Vitamin A for use in the body, and so are essential to dental health.

Electric Thermal Storage works nights so you can save on your heating bills all day long.

Electric Thermal Storage, ETS, stores enough heat at night to heat your home for the rest of the day. And because ETS stores heat, it saves on your heating bills all winter long.

Heating coils inside the ETS furnace heat the special bricks throughout the night. The bricks then store heat which the furnace draws from at night, and the rest of the day.

You save because you heat with electricity at night, when the cost of electricity is less, under special rates available to ETS customers. So you pay lower electric rates for heating. And for all other electricity you use at night.

What's more, the same lower electric rates apply all weekend — for ETS heating and all other electric uses.

ETS heats your water, too. And individual room heaters are available, which let you comfort control any room.

For complete information about the energy-saving and money-saving advantages of Electric Thermal Storage, send us this coupon. It could be one of the best investments you ever make.
