Board To Ask 3% Utilities Tax In Bid To Gain Needed Revenue

The Board of Education will sound out the public on a proposal to levy a three percent utilities tax to help fund county schools.

A public hearing on the proposal has been set for next Thursday, January 19, at 6 p.m. in the Board of Education offices here. A special meeting of the board will follow immediately.

An identical proposal was quickly dropped when it ran into strong opposition, especially from persons on fixed incomes, five years ago. But Ralph O'Quinn, principal of Garrett grade school and chairman of the task force, said the group considered a utilities tax "the most fair and equitable" and "the quickest way to get the revenue we need." And Board Chairman Dr. J.D. Adams noted that Pikeville Independent and Pike, Johnson and Martin county school districts all levy such a tax.

While the tax would be imposed on utility companies' gross receipts, the firms could be expected to pass it on to customers. Electricity, gas, water and phone users would be affected.

A public hearing on the proposal is required by law. Should the board then decide to pass it, the tax could still be challenged by a petition asking for a special election. According to law, the petition would have to be filed with the county board of elections within 30 days of the tax's passage and be signed by a number of registered voters equal to 15 percent of the votes cast in the county during the last presidential election.

In making the task force recommendation his own, Grigsby said demands by citizens and state agencies for costly improvements in the schools made the tax necessary. Each of the school district's five educational divisions would see upgraded facilities, perhaps within the next 4½ years, if the tax were adopted, he said.

Among the demands listed by the superintendent were:

—recommendations made by state Education Department inspectors that Floyd buy 12 new buses and 12 used buses for next year and install six gasoline tanks and pumps, improvements expected to cost $350,000;

—requirements by the state Fire Marshal's office that Wheelwright High School be rewired, other old buildings be rewired, panic hardware be repaired and hoods installed over all kitchen stoves;

—citizen demands that all students have textbooks in all subjects and that librarians and teachers of art, music, physical education and driver's education be hired;

—minimum standards set by state accreditation authorities, who have insisted the school district hire guidance counselors for the elementary schools and add math and science teachers in the high schools; and —the "perennial need" to repair the more than 100 school buildings in the district and to replace older buildings, some of which date to the 1930s.

Of the new tax revenues raised this year, half would go into the general fund "to purchase buses (and) meet emergency needs," while the remainder would be divided equally between instruction and building maintenance, Grigsby said. In 1984-'85, half the proceeds would be earmarked for construction, 25 percent for building repairs, and 25 percent for new programs and teachers, he said.

Task Force Vice-Chairman Billy Arms told the board "it is time for eastern Kentucky to come out of the Dark Ages." The question of a utilities tax, he said, comes down to the question, (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

Board Whittles Deficit, Commended by Auditor

As a result of overspending in eight out of 11 departments, a school district balance of $465,753 at the beginning of the 1982-'83 school year was whittled to a mere $28,404 by year's end, according to audited financial statements presented to the Board of Education last Wednesday.

Auditor Don Wallen praised the board and administration, nevertheless, noting that the district's internal accounting controls are "working very well."

Wallen also had praise for bookkeepers who keep track of the individual schools' lunchroom and activity funds, remarking that there remained "one or two minor problems" and that "one school was still trying to overcome a deficit budget," but that the situation there was "getting better."

In fact, five school funds reported end-of-year deficits, contrary to state law, and the Prestonsburg High School lunchroom fund, which ended the previous year $14,867 in the red, reported an even larger deficit, ending 1982-'83 with a negative balance of $21,008.

The auditor found no records at all of the McDowell High School lunchroom fund and administrators of five other school funds were said either to have written no receipts for monies received or to have lost the receipt stubs.

Wallen represents the Pikeville accounting firm of Linton and Company.

In other business, the board decided to hire contract drivers to help transport some Bonanza Elementary School students. A delegation of parents told the board that, because their bus called at Prestonsburg schools before taking them home, about 23 Bonanza students living on the left fork of Abbott Creek were being forced to ride nearly 10 extra miles each day.

Spokesman John Clark also claimed the 71-passenger bus once carried 92 students between Prestonsburg High School and Meade Branch of Abbott Creek.

The board bought 20 Franklin computers, four for each high school, accepting the low bid of $27,345 from the East Kentucky Educational Development Corporation.

Hired were: Kathryn Anne Burchett, Jerri Ward Turner, Jane Webb Jones, Roy Dean Burke and Sandra T. Newsome, certified substitute teachers; Donald R. Craft, Georgia Allen, Tammy Lynn Martin, Ruth Irene Little and Gary R. Newsome, substitute bus drivers; Ruth Ann Hamilton, Christina Compton, James O. Spurlock, Reka Woods and Teresa Bradley, emergency substitute teachers; Frank Baldridge, lead mechanic; Jeff Campbell, bus inspector and mechanic; and Steve Spriggs, Mitchell Prater, Jeff Stumbo, Joe Bailey, and Lloyd Hall, mechanics.

State Panel Urges Tougher Teacher Review

In firmly-worded recommendations to the Board of Education, a state panel said last week that Floyd teachers should be better evaluated, administrators should "follow through" on their evaluations, and board members should not interfere.

The advice, read to last week's board meeting by a state Department of Education official, is contained in a report to the board by the Task Force for School Effectiveness, created two years ago to help Kentucky school districts scoring low on standardized achievement tests.

The panel also called for better training for principals and supervisors, better use of test results, and rewards for teachers and students who do well.

The three-page report, which bears the signature of Dr. Gene C. Wright, director for school effectiveness, contains 29 recommendations under four headings—leadership, instructional planning, instructional time, and evaluation and rewards system. It follows an inspection of this district's 25 schools by the task force, which came here in the fall at the board's invitation.

Floyd's system for evaluating teachers on how well they teach and manage a classroom needs to be improved and expanded, the report says. For teaching to improve, administrators must have the authority to "follow through with the evaluation process...without board interference," it says.

Problems of staffing and discipline should be resolved by principals, supervisors and superintendents and the board should back their authority, the (See Story No. 3, Page 4)

ABC Admr. Rules Younce Was Right In Saloon Fracas

Arguing that owners have a right to protect their property, Alcoholic Beverage Control Administrator Denzil Allen decided this week not to impose a penalty on a Melvin saloon keeper who last month broke a pool cue over a patron's head.

Allen said it was not clear that Johnny Younce, 25, had used inordinate force in subduing Jimmy Johnson on Dec. 5. Younce admitted striking Johnson twice on the head but claimed he acted in self defense.

The bar owner said a fight broke out when Johnson lit up a marijuana joint and he asked him to leave. Johnson swung at him and he retaliated, Younce said.

"If we don't give bar owners some latitude in taking care of a situation like this, the drunks are going to take over," Allen said, explaining his decision.

The ABC administrator reprimanded Younce for not calling police when the incident occurred. A deputy sheriff was summoned by relatives of the injured man.

Police Arrest Two In Cliffside Raids

Simultaneous raids on two apartments in the Cliffside housing project Monday resulted in two arrests and the seizure of a quantity of marijuana and some stolen silverware, according to Police Chief William R. Campbell.

Rose Mary Lafferty, 24, was booked on a charge of trafficking in marijuana, after an undisclosed amount of the drug was recovered from her apartment. Bobby McAllister was charged with (See Story No. 4, Page 4)

Four Houseboats Damaged by Fire

Fire damage estimated at nearly half a million dollars was done to four houseboats moored at the Jenny Wiley boat dock about 11:30 Monday night.

Houseboats belonging to Emmitt Conn, of Harold, and Demorris Martin, of McDowell, were completely destroyed in the blaze; a houseboat belonging to Goble Martin, of McDowell, was gutted; and a fourth owned by Paul Pelphrey, of Paintsville, was damaged by heat and smoke.

Prestonsburg Fire Department responded to the blaze, the cause of which was said by Fire Chief Tom Blackburn to be under investigation.

Proclaims Jaycees Week

40 To Be Laid Off at HRMC As Payments, Occupancy Down

Effective Sunday, 40 workers will be laid off by Highlands Regional Medical Center, Administrator Clarence C. Traum announced Monday.

A dramatic rise in the number of patients who cannot pay their bills, coupled with tighter reimbursement policies on the part of insurance companies and the federal government, were cited by Traum as reasons for the layoffs.

A somewhat lower occupancy of hospital beds and the treatment of more people as outpatients for illnesses that would formerly have meant a hospital stay were also said to have figured in the retrenchment.

Workers laid off are said to be drawn from most job categories and represent nearly 10 percent of the hospital's work force.

"Having to tell someone they no longer have a job is the most difficult thing a manager ever has to do," said Traum, "but there does come a time when all the other alternatives have been exhausted and steps like this become essential."

Highlands is the second area hospital to have announced a major retrenchment recently. Pikeville Methodist Hospital shut down a whole floor several weeks ago, closing the area's only facility for inpatient psychiatric care.

The staff reduction at Highlands comes at a time when the hospital is in the midst of a $10 million expansion project and follows by three months the opening of the new $10 million Paul B. Hall Regional Medical Center at Paintsville.

Highlands officials who fought against construction of the new Paintsville hospital, claiming it meant unnecessary beds and duplication of services, were nevertheless reluctant to blame the new hospital for their current problems.

Occupancy rates at Highlands, which generally ranged from 90 to 95 percent in good years, currently range from 80 to 85 percent, said Amy Lively, the hospital's public relations officer. While the opening of the Paintsville hospital may have had some bearing on the reduced usage, the occupancy rate here is still relatively high, she said.

Nor does the lower occupancy rate suggest that Highlands' expansion might be ill-advised, according to the

ZEROED IN

Believe it or not, I haven't written it 1983 since 1984 moved in—for the simple reason that I have written neither check nor letter this year.

MAY REQUIRE INVESTIGATION

It apparently was something of a shock, too, for the birds when we upped and left them, house, family, friends, lock, stock and barrel, last month. It was for only two weeks, but changes followed that won't change.

The birds are an example. They left, too, and haven't come back. A few sparrows, once in a great while a stray chickadee or titmouse, a redbird couple and three pine siskins have showed up at our feeder. But the numbers are so slim! Even the despised starlings and swashbuckling jays are no longer seen (See Story No. 2, Page 4) hospital spokeswoman. While the new wing will mean an additional 47 beds, it is mainly designed to add badly-needed service areas, including a laboratory and an emergency room, she said.

Primarily responsible for this week's staff cuts, Miss Lively said, is the fact that the percentage of patients unable to pay their hospital bills has doubled in recent years. Moreover, where a hospital could in the past simply present an insured patient's hospital bills to the federal government or a private insurance company and be reimbursed, insurers now have much stricter reimbursement policies.

All hospital procedures are now classified and insurers have set a cap on what they will pay for each class of procedure. If the bills exceed the cap, the hospital must absorb the difference, Lively said.

Tackett Death Ruled Suicide

A 19-year-old Knott county woman found hanged in a jail cell here last November died by her own hand, Floyd County Coroner Roger Nelson found last Wednesday.

The coroner accepted a verdict of suicide handed down by a jury after it had heard seven hours of testimony and deliberated for 18 minutes. The inquest had been requested by the dead woman's parents.

Their attorney said later the parents planned to challenge the coroner's ruling.

Mary Vinamae Tackett was found hanging by a narrow belt from bars in the jail cell on Nov. 21. She was beginning a month's sentence for attempting to steal $55 worth of goods from a Martin grocery.

She had earlier been jailed for several months in Knott county on a conspiracy charge stemming from a June 7 incident in which Rosetta Hall, 22, was shot and Miss Hall's seven-month-old fetus killed. She was released after agreeing to testify against others in the case.

Don't Risk an Explosion . . .

There's a Safe Way To Boost a Dead Battery

(Courtesy West-Virginia Gas Co.) Don't look now but there's a bomb under the hood of your car! Concerned? You have every right to be. Many drivers are blissfully unaware of the potential danger to "that innocent-looking little package" under the hood known as a dead storage battery. A battery is a deadly anti-personnel device which could explode with a blast of lead and corrosive acid causing disfigurement and sometimes death.

If you have ever used jumper cables to start your vehicle not following the correct procedure and your battery did not explode, you may count yourself very fortunate. The facts are that any lead-acid battery, those types used in vehicles, generates explosive gases while the battery is being charged which in turn leaves an ignition source such as a match, cigarette or even a spark from the battery itself to trigger an explosion.

There is a safe way to boost a vehicle battery which will virtually eliminate to a degree the risk of explosion. The following steps should be followed:

1. Shift both vehicles into neutral or park and set the emergency brake.
2. Ignition and all accessories such as defroster, windshield washer, radio, etc., should be in the "off" position to reduce the change of electrical sparks as well as the load on the charged battery; thus reducing substantially the amount of explosive gases that the booster battery emits.

3. Battery posts should be thoroughly cleaned. The vehicles should be aligned but not touching as this will ground the vehicles and promote sparking while attaching the jumper cables.

4. The booster battery and the dead battery must be of the same voltage. A quick way to determine your battery's voltage is to double the number of filler caps. (An example: three (3) filler caps are found on a 6-volt battery.) Remove the filler caps from both batteries and if necessary add water to the full level mark. Do not attempt to boost a frozen battery.

5. Place a piece of cloth over the vent holes of both batteries to prevent the chance of acid getting on your clothes and/or skin when the sudden surge of current transmitted by the battery being charged in turn causes the electrolyte to bubble.

6. The next step is to make the jumper cable connections. Attach the positive end of the jumper cables to the positive terminal of each—the charged and the discharged battery. Most batteries will be marked with a "+", a "P" or a "POS" and is known as the hot wire.

7. Connect the second jumper cable to the negative or ground of the charged (live) battery with the remaining end connected as far from the battery as possible completing the circuit and allowing current to flow from the "live" battery to the dead battery. This step could create a spark and is the reasoning behind making the last connection from the negative or ground post of the live battery to the generator, alternator or any accessible metallic part attached to the engine block as far away from the dead battery as possible so that any sparks created when the cable is connected or disconnected is away from the explosive gases generated by the battery.

8. Try to start the disabled vehicle. If the engine does not start immediately start the engine of the boosting vehicle to avoid drainage on its battery. When both vehicles are idling, disconnect the negative cable attached at the engine block first followed by the removal of the same jumper cable from the "live" battery; however, the second cable (positive) is removed from the "live" battery first.

If these steps are followed, there should be no problem in starting your dead battery without mishap. In the event acid does find its way to your clothes or on your skin immediately wash affected areas with large amounts of water. If contact is made with eyes, flush immediately with large quantities of water and seek medical attention. These steps, if followed accurately, should enable you and your family to feel more confident in your car's maintenance program.

Playwright Sam Shepherd's first dramatic work to be produced for television, "True West," premieres Tuesday, January 31, at 9 p.m. on KET. The two-hour production is part of the "American Playhouse" series.

A contemporary comedy/drama set in a rural southern California community, "True West" focuses on the relationship between two brothers—one a clean-cut, successful screenwriter played by Gary Sinise and the other a desert rat portrayed by John Malkovich. The play is the story of the slow but inevitable reversal of roles. Malkovich and Sinise re-create their Off-Broadway roles in this Obie Award-winning play adapted for television.

"American Playhouse" is made possible by grants from public television stations, the Corporation for Public Broadcasting and the National Endowment for the Arts.

Funds Released For Ky. 3 Design

Design work on reconstruction of KY 3 between Auxier and Inez may go ahead as the result of the settling of a dispute between the state Transportation Department and Brighton Engineering Company.

Transportation Secretary Floyd Poore last week agreed to a settlement giving the engineering firm $2.7 million in state engineering contracts, mostly for design of KY 3.

The case was a holdover from the administration of former Transportation Secretary Frank Metts, who tried to cancel Brighton's state contracts. Under the settlement, Brighton receives a $2.2 million contract for designing the Auxier-Inez road, work on which began in 1979 and was cancelled by Metts the following year.

The expression "pulling the wool over his eyes" goes back, it is said, to the days when gentlemen wore powdered wigs. If you pulled a man's wig (wool) over his eyes, he would be unable to see what was going on.

Another Way

At a time when many people, not only senior citizens, but those of moderate income, are hard put to meet the burden imposed on them by utility companies, the Floyd County Board of Education seeks to add a utility tax in order to raise undeniably much-needed funds.

We can understand that the county school system is in need of revenue just as are other educational and government units across the country. We can well understand its looking for ways to increase revenue.

And it is true that Floyd countians pay lower taxes than are levied in the Bluegrass or Louisville. It is also true that the per capita income in Eastern Kentucky is lower than in many other areas of the state. Floyd county has for the past several months led this district in the number of unemployed and according to the latest figures released by the Cabinet for Human Resources does so again.

No one, of course, wants to pay more taxes, but a property tax, such as was proposed last summer, seems infinitely preferable to a tax on utilities, which in themselves, without added taxes, are a public burden. This, perhaps, is not the most expedient answer, but it seems a singularly inappropriate time to place further onus on those who already have their backs against the financial wall.

"Do we want to upgrade our schools or let the schools go down?"

Treasurer Brackett warned recently that the school district faces a possible $225,000 deficit this fiscal year. A bid to increase property taxes last summer failed when county tax officials said it would delay the mailing of tax bills.

Members of the task force are:

panel report says.

According to the state panel, the board should adopt a policy for the review of teachers' lesson plans and principals and supervisors should be trained in how to carry it out.

In all subjects and grade levels there should be a curriculum guide and a list of minimum skills to be mastered; lesson plans should be designed to meet needs revealed by the annual Comprehensive Test of Basic Skills; and some staff members should be trained in administering, interpreting and using the test results, the task force recommends.

Quality teaching and high academic performance by students should be recognized and rewarded, the panel says; it does not suggest what forms the rewards might take.

Basketball practice is still taking up class time in two Floyd schools, said Don Burchett, the state official who read the report to the board. Six hours of instruction a day is mandatory, the task force noted. Non-curricular activities regarded as having instructional value should be spelled out, the panel said.

Among other recommendations, the state team suggested that: the board provide the schools with more classroom supplies; a district-wide program-of-studies handbook be developed, listing and describing all course offerings; an organizational chart be drawn and teachers given job descriptions; a procedure be developed for involving the community in school activities; and that there be "more continuity in the philosophy and practice" of discipline.

About $20,000 in state funds is available to assist the county in implementing the task force recommendations, Burchett said. Assistant Superintendent Ron Hager heads a committee responsible for developing a plan of improvements based on the recommendations.

Ten Years Ago

(January 9, 1974)

County officials got going with new four-year terms of office Monday, and a new city administration for Prestonsburg took office at induction ceremonies conducted at City Hall, Monday evening. Jackson, Mich. police said Tuesday that two of three persons found dead in a home there late Sunday night had been shot to death and that the third, apparently their slayer, was Charlie Miller, 74, formerly of this county. Removal of the D. & D. Car Wash and associated service station to a new location was begun this week to make way for a major food outlet at the corner of Patton street and North Lake Drive. Gwen Clark, 17-year-old Betsy Layne senior, was crowned homecoming queen during halftime activities at Betsy Layne High School's recent game with Wheelwright. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Bobby J. Flanery, of Ligon, a daughter, Dec. 24 at the McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital. There died: Mrs. Mary Jane Anderson, 78, of McDowell, Dec. 29 at the McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital (MARH); Mrs. Eunice M. Rickard, 75, Prestonsburg native, Dec. 26 at Letart, W. Va.; Mrs. Mary Emma Richmond, 92, of St. Paul, Va., sister of Mrs. Ethel Gravelly Heinze, of Prestonsburg, last Wednesday at Bristol; James Edward (Red) Slone, 46, Friday at his home at "Winchester," south of here; Miss Minnie Hoover, 67, of Hueysville, last Wednesday at Highlands Regional Medical Center; William V. Woods, Sr., 85, of Emma, Dec. 31 at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin.

Twenty Years Ago

(January 9, 1964)

Three newly elected circuit court officials were sworn in here Monday. Taking the oath of office were Circuit Judge Hollie Conley, Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo and Circuit Court Clerk Frank DeRossett. Addressing the grand jury of the Floyd circuit court for the first time, Judge Hollie Conley served notice Monday morning on property owners whose tenants are bootlegging to get them out. The Floyd County Board of Education voted unanimously Saturday to renew the contract of Superintendent Charles F. Clark for another four years. Floyd County Judge Henry Stumbo, in commenting on the food stamp program in this county noted this week that 7,000 persons are receiving aid from the stamps. Curtis Clark, former Prestonsburg mayor, was employed by the City Council Monday night as new city manager. A review of the first half of the 1963-64 high school basketball season in the 15th region indicates that Wheelwright and Paintsville are the choices to dethrone Garrett as the regional champion although John Campbell's Black Devils are still in contention. There died: James Edward Jarrell, 29, of Dwale, Tuesday at home; Mrs. Mary Hobbs, 76, of Allen, Saturday at the Beaver Valley Hospital, Martin; Magdelene Hamilton, 73, of Ligon, Monday at McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital (MARH); Mrs. Katie Friends, 76, of Garrett, Tuesday at MARH; Cecil M. Bower, 74, of Prestonsburg, Friday at the Prestonsburg General Hospital; Mrs. Hazel Estep Bailey, 61, formerly of Garrett, December 31 at LaPorte, Indiana; Eugene Hall, 58, Banner postmaster, December 21 at home; Mrs. Stella Patton, 81, formerly Floyd woman, Christmas Day, at Columbus, Ohio.

Thirty Years Ago

(January 14, 1954)

The fiscal court last Monday directed County Judge Henry Stumbo and County Attorney Hollie Conley to make inquiry as to the legal procedure to follow toward getting a new courthouse built. Snow and ice closed schools and circuit court Monday and slowed traffic to a walk. The Inland Steel Company announced this week that Edwin R. Price, manager of its coal properties at Wheelwright since 1930, will retire at the end of this month. Fire destroyed the No. 1 commissary and general appliance building of the Inland Steel Company at Wheelwright and for a time threatened a large section of the town. George P. Archer, cashier of the Bank Josephine here till forced his retirement, was named chairman emeritus of the board of directors last week. A petition filed in county court asks a local option election for the town of Martin. February 27. Miss Mary Ordell Ray, of Bypro, has been elected to Phi Beta Kappa at the University of Kentucky. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. William Harvey Howard, formerly of Prestonsburg, a daughter, Barbara Lynn, January 8 at El Paso, Texas. There died: Mrs. Liza Lewis Crum, 72, Monday at West Prestonsburg; Mrs. Liza Hamilton, 72, Wednesday at Teaberry; John Osborne, 70, formerly of Clear Creek, Tuesday at Hillsboro, O.; N. F. (Bud) Potter, 84, of McDowell, last Thursday at Grundy, Virginia; Mrs. Nellie Martin King, native Prestonsburg woman, January 1 at Huntington.

Forty Years Ago

(January 13, 1944)

A feature story published in The Times this week says the Rev. Isaac Stratton, of Banner, has in the 31 years of his ministry officiated at 1,866 funerals. Melvin Anderson, 55, of McDowell, was killed, and Wayne Stumbo, of Minnie was seriously injured Monday in the collision of their car with a truck near Louisa. Lt. Raymond N. Stephens, of Prestonsburg, received his "Wings" as a fighter pilot recently at Pampa, Texas. Two children died at Martin hospitals this week of burns—Ernie Moore, 2, of Gearheart, and James Walter Graham, 2, of Neon. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Buck Baldrige, of Wald, twins, January 4; to Mr. and Mrs. John Hinton, of Allen, a son, January 9. There died: Mrs. Alonzo Hall, 70, at her home on Turkey Creek, Tuesday; Glen H. Mattingly, of Printer, at the Beaver Valley hospital, December 28; Mrs. Callie Wells McGuire, 81, at the home of her daughter, in Prestonsburg, Friday; Noah Hall, 72, of Drift, at the Beaver Valley Hospital, Monday; Mabel Kilburn, 8 years old, at home at Cracker, Wednesday.

Fifty Years Ago

(January 12, 1934)

County Judge W. L. Stumbo has been formally requested by Magistrates M. C. Wright, Willie Hall and Jim Clark to call a special fiscal court session to set aside alleged misappropriations of public funds. Lewis Wells, Auxier was killed and five other persons were injured Monday when a car plunged over the hill near the intersection of the Auxier road with U.S. 23 at East Point. Wendell H. Nicholls assumed his duties this week as CWA disbursing agent, succeeding Carl H. Fraim who resigned recently. Union services will be held Sunday morning at Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church to welcome the new pastor, Dr. Josef Nordenhaug. An auto bearing the House of David basketball team to another scheduled game crashed into another last Thursday night on the Mayo Trail after the bearded wonders had swamed the Betsy Layne Red Devils. The team's car later was attached and members were temporarily set afoot. Mrs. Ben Norris, of Martin, who took the oath as Floyd county coroner, January 1, is the first woman ever to hold the office in this county. Mrs. Grace D. Ford was guest of honor December 30 at a surprise birthday party given here. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Hill, Jr., January 8, a son at the Wells Hospital, Paintsville; to Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Webb, a son, January 3 in Louisville. There died: Mrs. Clara Jane Maddox, 76, mother of Dock Maddox, of Martin, Tuesday of last week at Pikeville.

But Can She Teach?

By RON MARSTIN

It was a familiar routine. As Board of Education members surveyed the month's hiring list at last Wednesday's meeting, the name of a teacher on the list caught the eye of one.

"Who is that?" the board member inquired. "Is that so-and-so's daughter?" It was the only question asked. Yes, she was so-and-so's daughter. The list was approved.

A lot of other questions might be asked, of course, about so-and-so's daughter—as they might be asked about Floyd county's other 530-or-so teachers. How do they come to be hired? Does the district attract the most qualified people available? How effective are they? To whom must they account for the quality of their work? What incentives are there to encourage good teachers and help poor teachers? What can be done about the incorrigibly incompetent?

But these are not matters that are likely to be raised at a meeting of the Floyd Board of Education. Nor might the omission be cause for particular notice now except that two other items on last week's meeting agenda throw it into sharper relief.

One item was a report implying, to one's surprise, that politics is partly to blame for the Floyd school district's current doldrums. The other was the board's decision to rally public support for a utilities tax.

The report was issued by a team of state Department of Education officials who recently surveyed Floyd schools as part of the School Effectiveness Project, a program designed to help 10 low-scoring districts boost their scores on achievement tests. The three-page document was read to the board in a flat, barely intelligible monotone by a state official who explained, perhaps apologetically, that he had been "instructed to read it verbatim."

If the delivery was meant to discourage discussion, it worked. Of its 29 recommendations, none drew any immediate response from the board and only one item—a reminder that basketball practice is not to be held in class time—moved the superintendent to comment. (He said he was insisting on six hours of daily instruction and wanted the names of the offending schools.)

Perhaps the report is too touchy. It says that the job of the superintendent is to provide leadership; that principals and supervisors need to be checking on the quality of teachers' work; that principals and supervisors themselves need to be shown how to help teachers, how to evaluate them, and how to analyze their lesson plans; and that the system should have some teeth, with rewards for good teachers, help for teachers with problems and, presumably, desk jobs or pink slips for those who cannot or will not measure up.

A clear implication of the report is that politics has no business in the hiring and firing of teachers.

These may not be ideas the board is anxious to push too hard, but they will be of interest to many citizens—the same people whose support for a utilities tax school officials will be trying to win in the coming weeks.

Taxpayers will need little persuading of the need for more teachers, programs and buildings. But many will be looking for assurance that, in this school district, performance means more than politics. They may want evidence that board

Dr. John C. Hunsaker III, who performed an autopsy, told the jury he believed Miss Tackett died as a result of hanging and recommended the death be ruled a suicide. Tests indicated the victim had not been sexually abused, he said.

The dead woman was first buried without autopsy but her body was exhumed after inmates in another part of the jail said they had heard her scream for help. A state police investigation later concluded the inmates' petition was merely a ruse to embarrass Jailer Lawrence Hale.

One witness told the inquest jury that Miss Tackett called her three times the day she died. Geraldine Roberts, of Topmost, said Miss Tackett asked her for clothes and cigarettes and was upset at being separated from C.B. Hall, a man with whom she apparently lived at times. "Without (Hall), she didn't have anything to live for," Roberts said.

The inquest was marked throughout by tension between the coroner and Gary Johnson, the lawyer representing the victim's parents, Denver and Lula Tackett. Johnson, who was not allowed to cross-examine witnesses or to call witnesses of his own, told the jury the inquest was being used to perpetuate a cover-up.

When Nelson refused his request to call Assistant County Attorney Janet L. Stumbo to the stand, Johnson said "This proceeding is a farce and a mockery" and was ordered from the courtroom.

Johnson said later his clients might file a civil complaint against jail authorities. "Somebody killed her or let her die and we're not going to quit until we find out," he said of Miss Tackett's death. "If she committed suicide, something happened to her to make her do that. Everyone testified she was belligerent, not suicidal."

Johnson and his clients were permitted to "feed" questions to County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. during the inquest. Turner and Nelson questioned the witnesses. But "the hard questions can only be asked on cross-examination," Johnson said.

Nelson said later he did not want the inquest used by Johnson as a way to gather possible evidence for a civil suit. "We were simply there to determine the cause of death," he said.

members and administrators care more about classroom effectiveness than they do about how many votes a teacher's job represents; they may need to be persuaded that teachers who press openly for the means to teach well need not fear recrimination.

No doubt, there are principals in this district who routinely review teachers' lesson plans and who hold them to account for the quality of their work, just as there are teachers who would do a professional job regardless of whether anyone is looking over their shoulder. No doubt there are already principals who observe and help their weaker teachers and who challenge lazy teachers to produce, just as there are teachers whose training and dedication makes that sort of attention unnecessary.

But is this kind of professionalism typical of the Floyd school district or is it the exception? Is the periodic evaluation of teachers, already required of principals here, a conscientious review or a perfunctory gesture? The report of the state panel which recently surveyed our schools suggests that procedures for holding teachers to professional standards need to be strengthened. Can the Board of Education assure us they will be?

Most citizens can understand that bettering our schools will cost money. But they also know that spending more money will not necessarily translate into more effective classroom teaching. Conviction on that point will come more easily when school officials show they care at least as much about competence as they do about loyalty, when concerned teachers do not fear to speak out, and when incompetent teachers can be made to do the job right or find employment elsewhere.

"Whose daughter is she?" might be a matter of concern to board members. The rest of us could care less. What we want to know is, "Can she teach?"

No Handouts Needed

I was born and raised on Little Mud Creek and Big Mud Creek in Floyd County, Kentucky. The people who wrote about me having no feelings for those children who must walk to a school bus obviously are assuming a lot about my background. I began school in a one-room school in the head of Little Mud Creek. I walked, at the age of 5, approximately one mile to school and one mile back. As I grew up I continued to walk, to catch a school bus, to go to the store, even to church and friends. We used to walk several miles to catch a bus to ride to Pikeville to pay our bills or shop. Walking is not new to me, nor did it cause me such anguish that it scarred me for life.

As for the roads that are impassable except for a four-wheel drive, yes I am familiar with roads like that. I lived in the head of Little Mud, the last house! Unfortunately we had no four-wheel drive vehicle. We could not afford one and I still cannot. This did not send me out to stand in the welfare lines. Maybe I should have written to my congressman and asked for one? Maybe we would have gotten started on those poverty projects in eastern Kentucky a lot sooner! My grandfather kept a mule called Old Dory. You know she could always get us out when we had no other means and could not walk for one reason or another. The point I am making here is that people planned and prepared for the things which make up everyday life here. We depended on ourselves and our families. We did not depend on the government to carry us through.

No, I am not ashamed of the poverty in eastern Kentucky. I am poor and I am certainly not ashamed of myself. As I said before poor is one thing and pitiful is quite another. While I do not deny that the exposure such as the much belabored Kennedy visit does bring money to the area, I object to what the money carries along with it. In the 35 years of my growing up and living in Kentucky, I have seen that money handed down through poverty programs, result in apathy and loss of desire of many people to take charge of their own lives. Once the people of eastern Kentucky were industrious people... I saw the change come over the area...

I have never said that poverty conditions do not exist. I am not blind. The point I have made from the start is that the conditions could be improved by the people concerned if they did not wait for someone else to do it for them. In so doing they would recover something very precious that has been lost, pride.

I visited on both Mud Creeks this past weekend. I heard about one family who, as a result of the publicity from Kennedy's visit, had been given two new stoves. This family, who were so in need of these stoves that it made national news, sold them both. I heard many other things which I choose not to write here. All of them reaffirmed my convictions about this issue.

Let me say again, I did not object to Kennedy coming to this area. I objected to only the negative side being publicized and indeed searched out. The Bible says that the poor shall be with us always. That does not mean that we shall exploit them.

At '83 Boy Scout Camporee

Competition in cooking, pioneering skills, and campsite development highlighted the 1983 Fall Camporee for Boy Scouts of the Lonesome Pine District held this fall at B.S.A. Camp Shawnee in Floyd County. Over 140 Scouts and leaders from 11 troops participated in the three-day event. The Lonesome Pine District includes Scouts from Magoffin, Martin, Floyd, Johnson, and Pike counties.

Major events of the competition began on Saturday with judges eating the noon meal with the troops. Each troop had received a foods list of items to bring to the camporee and at the flag-raising ceremony Saturday obtained preparation directions. Campsite inspections on Saturday afternoon looked for general camp setup, avoidance of safety hazards, proper cleanliness, and focused on special pioneering improvements made to the site. All troops prepared altar fires. An altar fire is a table-like platform covered with mud, so cooking may be accomplished while standing. Other pioneering items some troops prepared included pack racks, shoe stands, wash stands, tables, and, of course, flag poles and entranceways.

During the inspections, the Scouts were gathered for fun, non-competitive games. Dog patch softball, tug-of-war, Indian scalp hunt, and capture the flag were some of the games. At the Saturday night campfire, there were songs, skits, and jokes performed by patrols from each of the troops present. Mike Parker, a Scout from Troop 27, Prestonsburg, directed the campfire.

Rev. Charles Elswick, associate minister at Pikeville United Methodist Church, presented a devotional time for the Scouts and leaders on Sunday morning.

Johnny Ratliff, camporee chairman and unit commissioner for the Virgie area, Pike county, closed the weekend with the presentation of ribbons to winning troops. First place went to Troop 803, sponsored by the Dorton Woman's Club. Harold PTA's Troop 871 won second place. Sponsored by the Pikeville United Methodist Church, Troop 10 took the third place ribbon. All participating troops received a participation ribbon and each Scout and leader was given a patch which can be worn on the uniform denoting the event.

Those troops participating and their members and adults in attendance were:

TROOP 803, Dorton Woman's Club: John Anderson, Jason Beverly, Kevin Potter, John Gable, William Bentley, Barry Lucas, Derrell Anderson, Ricky Wright, Todd Coleman, Johnny Lowe, and Chester Mullins; leaders John Anderson and Bob Hurston.

TROOP 871, Harold PTA: Dwayne Akers, Patrick Spradlin, Tim Parsley, Alton Moore, Chris Saylor, Frank Gilispi, Willie Watson, Michael Kidd, Brian Kidd, Jammie Collins, Sie Hamilton, Dean O. Hall; adults Vance Akers, Larry Parsley, Frank Gilispi, Toney Spradlin, Bascom Hall, Linnie Kidd, Donald Akers, and Robert Pinkbone.

TROOP 10, Pikeville United Methodist Church: John Smith, Chris Smith, Eric Morrison, Donald Tackett, Bryan

TROOP 801, Lick Creek, Pike County: T.J. Stanley, Eric Hackney, David Hackney, Ray Mullins, Chris Mullins, Randy Maynard; leader Larry Dotson.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

Since the Poison Prevention Packaging Act requires childproof containers for over-the-counter drugs, accidental ingestion of aspirin has declined by 20 percent. However, these child-resistant caps have also proved to be annoying to many adults who could not unlock the secret of opening them. If you are one of these adults, the poison Prevention Packaging Act also allows the manufacture of easy-to-open tops for those who live in all-adult households. The exception was made in consideration of elderly or handi-capped consumers. It also benefits non-mechanical consumers. If unavailable in your area, ask the pharmacist to transfer the contents of a medication to a conventional container.

At COOLEY APOTHECARY we take great pride in the role we play in promoting the health of folks in our community. We are your physician's consultant and source of information about many of the newest drugs and products available. Call your doctor first and then have him call us. ### Christmas '83

It's that time of year again! Greetings—in the name of the risen Savior!
 This is a difficult season for me because seven years ago, Dec. 18, 1976 my Stephen went to be with the Lord. Seems like yesterday—I miss him so much, but when I remember how he suffered I say "Thank you Lord for taking him to live with you where nothing can ever hurt him any more."
 I want to share with you another of his poems. When Stephen was in his teens, we lived with my parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Stephens. Dad used to get aggravated at Steve when he was slow about doing his chores and would say to him, "Why don't you grow up, young man?" In later years after Dad was gone, Steve wrote the following poem:

GROWTH
 "Grow up boy," they tell you.
 "Take responsibility by the hand."
 Make some plans,
 Go to work,
 Sweat for it,
 Plow the earth,
 Become a man."
 But God, can't they see
 That growth's a gradual thing?
 That even an eaglet,
 Before it can flee
 The safety of the nest
 Must first test
 Its wing.
 Say instead, "go, boy.
 Find for yourself what you're worth.
 See this land,
 Learn it,
 Love it,
 Revel in it,
 For it gave you birth.
 Run,
 Jump,
 Fly,
 Crawl,
 Discover.
 Then, perhaps,
 You'll be ready to become a man."

May each of you know the true meaning of Christmas and may the holiday season be the best you have ever known. In the words of Tiny Tim "God Bless us every one," and remember Jesus loves you—and I love you too!

W.M.U. MEETS
 The Annie Allen Circle W.M.U. of the Irene Cole Memorial (First) Baptist Church met Monday evening, January 2, at the home of the vice president, Mrs. Patti Minns, with the president, Mrs. Ruby Garrett, presiding.
 The president made the following announcements: Clear Creek Baptist School is in need of clothes and shoes, and those who may wish to contribute to this cause should bring the items to the basement of the annex of the First Baptist Church by the last of February; the W.M.U. annual meeting will be held at the Emmanuel Baptist Church in Lexington, March 29-31. Those interested in attending should get in touch with Mrs. Garrett before that time. The Loaves and Fishes Food Pantry which the local church women, in cooperation with the Prestonsburg Ministerial Association sponsors, is in need of money and food, and those wishing to make donations should contact officers of these organizations. The Baptist associational meeting and dinner will be held at the local church, Tuesday evening, January 17, at 6 p.m. The menu was planned during the meeting and it is asked that other women of the church contact Mrs. Garrett regarding the kind of food needed.
 Mrs. Eva Collins was in charge of the program entitled "Evangelism in the Sun Belt." Others participating in this program were, Mesdames Ruby Garrett, Patti Minns, Patsy Evans, Ora Bussey, Docia Woods, Myrtle Allen, Zella Archer, and Lucy Regan. Mrs. Vivian Fraley read a list of missionaries who were observing birthdays on that date, and prayer was held for them and their works. The hostess, Mrs. Minns, served a salad course to those in attendance. Mrs. Eva Collins dismissed the meeting with prayer. Attending, other than those taking part in the program, were Mrs. Versa Moore, Mrs. Rella Evans, and her two little daughters, Bethany and Emily.
 The next meeting will be Monday evening, February 6, at the home of Mrs. Ora Bussey, with Mrs. Docia Woods as co-hostess.

BLEEDING GUMS
Q. Are bleeding gums a sure sign of pyorrhea?
A. Bleeding gums are only a sign that something is not quite right. That "something" may not be serious at all. For example, you may simply be brushing your teeth the wrong way, or gums may be sensitized from your learning how to floss correctly, or from hormonal changes due to pregnancy.
On the other hand, if the bleeding gums stem from gingivitis or pyorrhea, your dentist can tell you what may be causing this and how to stop it. If you have gum-bleeding in combination with other symptoms such as persistent bad breath, loosening of teeth, puffy or red gums, or shifting teeth, then it is imperative that you visit your dentist or a qualified periodontist for treatment.

Where do I get local phone service?

On January 1, 1984, South Central Bell and other local Bell telephone companies were separated from AT&T.

But as part of a holding company called BellSouth, we're still your phone company. And divestiture will have little immediate effect on your basic local home or office phone service. In fact, you can choose to keep your service just as it is.

South Central Bell still provides local telephone service for your home and your business. Call on us to order new phone service, to transfer existing service, to add new lines, or to order new sets and equipment.

How to get special services.
 South Central Bell still offers convenient services such as Touch-Tone dialing, Call Waiting, Call Forwarding, Speed Calling and Three-Way Calling (available in some areas).
 And new services (available in some areas) such as Prestige™ Service that gives expanded calling capabilities to business and residence customers with more than one line. And ESSX Service that uses advanced electronic switching service technology to give businesses PBX features.

Options let you keep costs down.
 One change you've probably heard about is that local rates will go up. Competition and deregulation in the telecommunications industry mean an end to local service subsidies from long distance and other competitive services. That means local phone rates must increase to reflect more of the true costs of providing local service.

Local Measured Service options (available to homes and businesses in many areas) can help keep local service charges down. Local Measured Service is especially attractive to people who don't use the phone a lot to make local calls and for people who can't, or don't wish to, pay for Premium Flat Rate Service.

Coping with change.
 We're doing everything we can to see that the changes brought about by divestiture and increased competition are as easy for you as possible. And nothing will affect the high quality of service you've come to expect from us.

If you have questions or want more information, return the coupon below. Or call on us at the Bell Answer Center, toll free, 1 800 555-5000, 9 a.m. till 9 p.m. EST, Monday through Friday.
 We're still your phone company.

THE PRESTONSBURG BLACKCATS were winners over Allen Central's Rebels, 90-61, when the two teams met Friday night here. The Rebs, last week, handed the powerful Betsy Layne Bobcats their first loss of the season, a team which Prestonsburg, as yet, has been unable to topple. In photo, the Blackcats' Kelly Cecil becomes airborne to deliver a pass to a teammate. Rebel defenders pictured include, from left, Dale Pack, Tim Lawson, Jeff Powell and Dan Moore.

★ KENTUCKY AFIELD ★

GO HUNTING AND FISHING NOW
Although Kentucky's squirrel and deer bow hunting seasons closed Dec. 31, there's still a couple of month's worth of hunting for quail, rabbits and grouse, as well as almost a month until the waterfowl season closes after Jan. 20 and furbearer season ends after Jan. 31.

The grouse season will extend through Feb. 28 this year, while quail and rabbit hunters have to call it quits after Feb. 12. Even though most bird or rabbit hunters stop hunting long before that, there is a small group of dedicated die-harders who stick with it until the last day of the season.

These late-season hunters fare pretty well, too. Perhaps they are successful because they do persist and learn a little more about the game they're hunting than the "fair weather" nimrod who hangs it up after the Christmas holidays.

Or maybe those who hunt in January and February are intent on getting the full value out of their hunting licenses. 1983 sport licenses expired at midnight, Dec. 31, so those who buy their licenses early in January and hunt until the seasons close get an extra two months of hunting for their money over those who wait until the fall seasons roll around to buy their licenses.

Since fishing licenses are also issued on a calendar year basis, the angler who wants to get the most for his money will also buy this license early in the year and take advantage of what is often some very good late winter and early spring fishing.

Crappie school tightly during the winter months and the fishermen who locates the fish can have some "hot" cold weather fishing. Since the fish are sluggish in cold water and don't move around much, so you can usually locate schools of crappie in just about the same location day after day.

Trout are active in cold weather, so if there's a nearby lake, stream or tail-water that's stocked with these fish, you might give it a try some warm, sunny day this winter. You're likely to find the trout, which were in the depths last summer, swimming around in shallow water and not too difficult to catch.

Sauger and walleye also remain active in winter and begin their spawning runs very early in the year, offering the cold-weather fisherman another chance to bring home some fresh fish for the table—and there's no better eating than fish caught in the middle of winter. Even species which taste a little "muddy" when caught in the summer will be firm, fresh and delicious when pulled out of 40-degree water.

Even if everything is completely frozen over, you can still catch fish. Test the ice on your favorite farm pond and if it's over four inches thick, go ice fishing. An ultra-light spinning outfit, a small hook, a light line and some meal worms or other suitable bait is all you'll need, plus an ice auger, a hatchet or some similar instrument to make a hole in the ice. You'll generally find a school of bluegill near the bottom of the deepest part of the pond, and the fish will almost always bite readily when you get the bait down to them.

So there's no reason to sit around the house this winter wishing for warm weather. Just put on an extra pair of socks or two, bundle up good and get out of doors for a while—you just might discover that you've been missing something.

Public Meets Slated Abandoned Land Funds

Public meetings on the state's third annual grant application package for federal funds to reclaim Kentucky's abandoned mined land and to control the adverse effects of past coal mining will be held in mid-January in Hazard and Madisonville, officials of the state Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet have announced.

The meetings, sponsored by the state Division of Abandoned Lands, will be held to gather citizen and industry comments on the proposed application package before its submission to the federal Office of Surface Mining of the U.S. Department of the Interior.

The application package lists specific reclamation projects in the coal-producing regions of the state to be undertaken with funds from OSM. Revenue for the reclamation projects will come from a program which derives its funds from fees collected by the federal government on each ton of coal produced in Kentucky.

The meetings will be held January 17, at the Hazard-Kentucky River ADD office at 7 p.m., and January 19, at Madisonville Community College.

Division of Abandoned Lands personnel urge all interested persons to attend either or both of the meetings to ensure maximum public participation in the application process.

For additional information on the application package or the meetings, contact the Division of Abandoned Lands, 618 Teton Trail, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, telephone (502) 564-2141.

Bernheim Hunt Set To Reduce Deer Herd

Governor Martha Layne Collins signed an emergency regulation today authorizing deer gun hunting on Bernheim Forest Refuge and adjacent private lands in Nelson and Bullitt Counties.

The hunt, necessary to reduce the overcrowded deer herd in the area, is scheduled for Feb. 3-6. Approximately 1,200 hunters will be selected by a random drawing for the Bernheim Forest Refuge hunt. Hunters on the refuge may use only muzzle- or breech-loading shotguns from ten through 20 gauge firing single projectile (slug) ammunition.

Those wishing to apply should write their name, address, telephone number and age on a 3x5 index card and mail it, along with a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Deer Hunt, Dept. of Fish and Wildlife, No. 1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Those wishing to apply as a party should mail their cards together in a single envelope. Parties may not contain more than five hunters.

Applications must be received no later than 4:30 p.m., Jan. 13 to be eligible for the drawing. More than one application from an individual will disqualify that applicant. Specific hunting dates (one day per hunter) and hunt locations will be assigned at the time of the drawing.

No advance application will be required to hunt on the lands surrounding Bernheim Forest Refuge. However, hunters must obtain permission from the property owner before hunting on private lands. Any firearm legal for deer hunting may be used on the surrounding private lands.

The open area of Nelson and Bullitt Counties will be between the Bernheim refuge boundary and the following roads: In Bullitt County from the Nelson County line north on State Route (SR) 61 to I-65, north on I-65 to SR 480, east on SR 480 to SR 1604, south on SR 1604 to Deatsville Rd., south on Deatsville

Rd. to the Nelson County line. In Nelson County from the Bullitt County line south on Deatsville-Cedar Grove Rd. to SR 523, west on SR 523 to SR 245, south on SR 245 to US 31E, south on US 31E to US 62, west on US 62 to SR 61, and north on SR 61 to the Bullitt County line.

In addition to a 1984 hunting license, all hunters participating in these hunts must have a valid 1983 deer permit.

Biologists say that it is necessary to reduce the herd in the area by 60 percent so the forest can recover from over-browsing and so the remaining deer will have sufficient food to make it through the rest of the winter. Officials say that this hunt should give all parties a few years to work on a long-term solution to the deer population on Bernheim.

PHS Boys, Girls See Net Action

By LAURA COOLEY
The Prestonsburg Blackcats and Lady Cats were in action Tuesday night, playing the Wheelwright Trojans, and Friday night, meeting the Allen Central teams.

In Tuesday night's action, Wheelwright's Trojanettes defeated the Prestonsburg girls in a close game, 51-48. The Blackcats then faced the Wheelwright Trojans winning 86-57.

Friday night, the girls' game was again the more exciting contest as the Allen Central Lady Rebs beat Prestonsburg's Lady Cats in an overtime thriller, 50-48.

When the Prestonsburg boys played Allen Central's Rebels it was a fairly easy win for the Blackcats, 90-61. The Rebels showed their stuff the following night, however, as they beat the previously undefeated Betsy Layne Bobcats 52-51 at Allen Central.

Goose Season Cut Short in Ballard

Old Man Winter has thrown Western Kentucky goose hunters a real curve this year, causing the early closing of the Ballard Quota Zone, the state's most productive goose area.

Normally, waterfowl hunters hope for bad weather, since snow, ice and sub-freezing temperatures up north force ducks and geese south along the Mississippi Flyway into Kentucky.

The late December cold snap brought the birds down in droves, a mass migration that swelled the goose population to approximately 1.5 million birds on the Ballard Wildlife Management area and surrounding private lands.

When the goose season opened Dec. 23 (Dec. 26 on the wildlife area), hunters began enjoying unprecedented success. But after only a few days of hunting, it became obvious that this season would be a short one.

According to this year's regulations, the goose season in the Ballard Quota Zone (the northwest portion of Ballard County bounded roughly by US 60 and state route 358) was to continue through Jan. 31 or until a quota of 6,000 Canada geese was harvested. Such quotas are established by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the states represented in the Mississippi Flyway Council (including Kentucky) to regulate the harvest of geese on a flyway-wide basis.

On Monday, Jan. 2, Fish and Wildlife Commissioner Carl E. Kays made the decision to close the Ballard Quota Zone on Jan. 5, since harvest figures were indicating that the quota would be met by then.

Although this is not the first time a quota has been placed on the goose harvest in the Ballard zone, this is the first year that a season has been closed early because of the quota being met. Under normal conditions, it would have been late January before 6,000 Canada geese would be taken in this zone and with a mild winter, hunters probably would not have "shot out" at all before the season closed Jan. 31.

The closure applies only to this one portion of Ballard County, which does include the Ballard Wildlife Management Area. In the rest of the state, goose seasons will continue through Jan. 20, the scheduled closing date. Duck seasons will not be affected.

Hunters who have reservations at the Ballard wildlife area for goose hunting after Jan. 5 will have their hunting fees refunded. Those who have reservations for duck hunting on the area will be allowed to hunt as scheduled. However, because of the large number of goose hunters and the limited availability of duck hunting areas, no one will be allowed to switch from goose to duck hunting.

SAVE THOSE LABELS

Clark Elementary School P.T.A. is collecting labels from Campbell products. The goal of 25,000 labels will procure much needed phonographs for classrooms.

Participating grocery stores in the area will display boxes to collect your discarded labels of Campbell, Swanson, Prego, Franco-American, or V-8 juice. The deadline is March 3.

Clark is also participating in the Post Cereal Fun and Fitness program. Post will supply a computer for the school for 6,250 Fun and Fitness proofs of purchase. The deadline for this program is June.

For more information, contact the school by calling 886-2487.

Vaughan-Howard To Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Jack M. Vaughan, of Auxier, Ky., announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Sandra Lea, to Gregory Kirk Howard, son of Carlotta Howard, of Salyersville, Ky.

Miss Vaughan is a 1983 graduate of Morehead State University and is presently employed by the Johnson County Board of Education. Mr. Howard is also a 1983 graduate of Morehead State University and is presently employed by the London Bridge Company, of London, Ky.

The couple will exchange vows at 6:30 p.m., on Saturday, January 14, at the East Point Church of Christ, East Point, Ky. The gracious custom of an open church wedding will be observed.

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETS

The Prestonsburg Woman's Club met Thursday evening, January 6, with the president, Mrs. Elizabeth Ramey, presiding. The devotionals, the theme of which was "Women of the Bible, and You and Me," were given by Mrs. Dorothy Harris. The Pledge of Allegiance to the American Flag was said in unison by those in attendance. The secretary, Mrs. Joyce Allen, gave her report, and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Dorothy Harris.

The secretary, Mrs. Joyce Allen, read a note from Mrs. Elizabeth Ramey and Mrs. Dorothy Harris thanking the club for their remembrances following the recent death of their father, T.J. Leake. Mrs. Eileen Burchett, chairman of the arts and crafts committee, suggested, and members in attendance agreed, that money made by this department should be used for repairs for the arts and crafts building, which is operated by the club at Archer Park. She announced that there would be an arts and crafts meeting for interested members, there Thursday, January 12, at 7:30.

Mrs. Garnett Fairchild, chairman of the community improvement committee, presided a plan for planting dogwood trees at the entrance of the Highlands Regional Medical Center here, and this was met with approval by the club.

Mrs. Carolyn Traum, finance committee chairman, announced that dues for the Prestonsburg Woman's Club had been raised from $12.00 to $14.00, beginning with the club year, 1974-75.

Mrs. Traum, program leader, presented Leonard Grant, who served as auctioneer for a spirited "white elephant" sale. Approximately $110.00, which is earmarked to be used for the purchase of dogwood trees for the hospital, was realized. Mrs. Traum, on behalf of the club, presented Mr. Grant with an appreciation gift.

Present for Thursday night's meeting were Leonard Grant, a guest, and members, Armita Snavely, Joyce Allen, Dorothy Harris, Carolyn Traum, Phyllis Herrick, Docia Woods, Garnett Fairchild, Mabel Brown, Dorothy Stover, Judy Kettle, Dolly Pettrey, Boots Adams, Mabel Donahoe, Sharon Sparr, Susie Poe, Katherine Poe, Christine Spradlin, Rebecca Rasnick, and Eileen Burchett. The hostesses, Zella Archer, Eva Collins, and Abby Grant, served a dessert course to those in attendance.

The next meeting will be Thursday evening, February 2, at 7:30 at the same location. The hostesses will be Wonnell Godsey, Ora Bussey, Boots Adams, Turp Combs, and Nancy Martin. The program leader will be Eva Collins, and Nancy Howard, an employee of the First Commonwealth Bank here, will speak on "Women and Banking." The devotional leader will be Eileen Burchett.

Brothers Enlist In AF Training

Delmer and Elmer Frasure, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Delmer Frasure, of Grethel, enlisted in the Air Force Delayed Enlistment Program (DEP) recently, according to Air Force Master Sergeant Jim Brooks, of the Ashland recruiting office.

The Betsy Layne High School graduates are already accruing time in the Air Force for pay purposes although they will not report for active duty until February when they will board a jet airliner for Lackland Air Force Base, Texas. There they will undergo six weeks basic training prior to receiving specialized training.

Of all the 250,000 species of flowering plants, there are just two that don't need water from the soil. One is the pygmy cedar and the other is the caper plant of the Sahara. Both take all the moisture they need from the night air.

BOSCO NET TEAM WINS OVER LACKEY

Hueysville, Ky., Oct. 31 (Spl.)—A very interesting and hard-fought basketball game was staged between Bosco and Lackey Sunday afternoon, drawing a considerable attendance and ending with a very close score. Bosco won, 15-13. Bosco's team had practiced very little prior to the game, having finished work on their court only a day or two previous to the contest, and it was rather surprising to see them play so well. Lackey's team had not practiced much either, it is said. Fred Bailey, former merchant of this place, transported Bosco's team as far as Garrett in his truck. The remaining distance was made on foot. Players from Bosco were Claude Huff, Bert Huff, Leroy and Ray Coburn, George and Frank Bailey, and Beecher Allen. The Bosco boys found Lackey's goals higher than those of their home court, and this was some hindrance to their best playing. Beecher Allen was "high man." Bosco fans attending were Mrs. Robert Huff, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Damron, Misses Gola Huff and Clarice Webb, Jimmie Prater, Edgell Baldrige, Talmadge Allen, Coley Martin and Earl Allen. They were well pleased with the final score of 15-13, favoring Bosco. However, they admitted that the Lackey team played splendidly. Lackey's team will come to Bosco next Sunday for another trial, and everything points to an interesting game.

HURT IN PRACTICE

Taulbee Bailey, teacher of this place, suffered an injured knee Saturday while practicing basketball. The knee is badly swollen, and Mr. Bailey is unable to get about easily. He was to have played with the Bosco team against Lackey Sunday afternoon, but he was not able to compete on account of the injury. It is hoped that he may be able to enter the coming game next Sunday, for he has played much and is one of Bosco's best players.

TO MOVE CAMP

The camp of the Bylesby Engineering Company, located on Salt Lick, and keeping the large number of men working on the big pipe line now being laid into the head of Rock Fork by way of Salt Lick, will be moved this week, it is reported. The largest majority of the workers will return to West Virginia, along with the camp, the work in this county being near completion.

RUSH DRILLING WORK

The New Domain Oil and Gas Company, which recently drilled in a good gasser on the Esther Horton farm, Rock Fork, are now rushing work to drill another well on the same farm. Several men are employed making a road to the present location, and the rig will be moved soon, it is reported. Wm. Sexton, field superintendent for this company, moved from his Salt Lick home to Garrett Monday, so as to be closer to his work.

MOVE TO GARRETT

Ellis Conley and wife, teachers, have moved from their Salt Lick home to Stone Coal, so as to be near the Garrett public school, which they are now teaching. Kendall Conley and wife, former teachers of this school, were offered a higher salary in another school, and they accepted; the present teachers then took up the work.

PERSONALS

James Harper, formerly of this place, was visiting here Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Harper are now conducting a restaurant at Pikeville.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Huff were visiting Lackey Saturday. Mr. Huff is having dental work done by Dr. G. C. Collins, of Lackey.

Mrs. Eliza Reed and Mrs. Ellen Gearheart were visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Huff, here Monday.

Bert Gearheart, of Raccoon, Salt Lick, is visiting relatives at Columbus, Ohio.

Chester Howard, this place, was visiting at Lackey Sunday.

Mildred Duke, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Duke, of this place, was visiting her parents here during the past week-end. Miss Duke is a student in Mayo College, Paintsville.

Trip the Light Fantastic?

Oldtimers may spend an enjoyable ten minutes by checking up on the calls for the old-time square dance, as given below from the Big Sandy News: "Slute yer pardners! Let her go! Balance all an' do-se-do! Swing your girls an' ruff away! Right an' lefts an' gents sashay! Gents to right an' swing or cheat! On to next girl an' repeat! Balance next an' don't be shy! Swing your pard an' swing her high! Bunch the gals an' circle round! Whack yer feet until they bound! Form a basket! Break away! Swing an' kiss, an' all git gay! All men left an' balance all! Lift yer hoofs an' let 'em fall! Swing yer op'site! Swing again! Kiss the sage hens if you kin! Back to pardners, do-se-do! All jine hands an' off you go! Gents salute yer little sweets! Hitch an' promenade to yer seats!"

Two Years Old

Martin Heirs Ky.-W. Va. Gas Dispute Lease

In 1921, when A.L. and Melvina Martin leased the natural gas on their 87-acre Drift property to the Kentucky Coke Company, they concluded what seemed to be an enviable deal—with free gas for their own use and a unique provision allowing them to buy gas back from the lessee at a bargain rate as long as the gas lasted.

But Kentucky-West Virginia Gas Company, successor to Kentucky Coke, now says it is not bound by the deal, and the Martin heirs have so far spent two years in court trying to hold the firm to it.

The latest round in the complex legal battle was fought in circuit court here last week; nobody expects it will be the last. Whatever the decision on last week's motion for summary judgment—Circuit Judge Hollie Conley promised one within two weeks—it seems certain to be appealed to a higher court.

The gas well known as Kentucky-West No. 41 turned out to be one of the company's most prolific. In operation since 1926, it currently produces over 300,000 cubic feet a day—gas that sells at around $4 per thousand cubic feet.

The late Gomer R. Martin, Sr., son of A.L. and Melvina, sought in 1981 to buy back some of the gas, under a provision in the 1921 lease allowing the property owner to purchase it for 30 cents per thousand cubic feet. Martin, who died last March, said he wanted to sell the gas "to the people up and down the road (from) here to Weeksbury."

Gas company officials balked. They are governed by federal regulations and are not subject to the jurisdiction of the Floyd court, they argued. And, in any event, they rejected a similar bid by Martin in 1966 and are now protected against a lawsuit by the statute of limitations, they said.

Martin denied he had tried to exercise the option in 1966 and Judge Conley ruled last June that an inter-office memorandum produced by Kentucky-West as proof that he did is not conclusive on that point.

Conley also found that the Floyd court was entitled to try the case, which now names Gomer Martin's widow, Golda, and Harry Martin, administrator of his estate, as plaintiffs.

The suit seeks a court order compelling Kentucky-West to furnish gas to the plaintiffs under the terms of the lease and to pay damages for their lost profits.

After losing the earlier arguments over jurisdiction and the statute of limitations, the gas firm's attorneys recently renewed their attack, citing ancient legal rules that govern the extent to which successors in title may be legally bound by conditions attached to a contract signed years before.

Arguing for the plaintiffs, Richard E. Fitzpatrick said the 1921 lease conferred a right on the Martins that they are free to exercise at any time. But Morris Kennedy, attorney for the gas company, said the Martins could claim a vested right only if they exercised it within a reasonable time.

Kentucky-West earlier agreed to pay the plaintiffs a royalty amounting to one-eighth (12.5 percent) of net proceeds, in settlement of the suit. Plaintiffs insisted on a three-eighths (37.5 percent) royalty, retroactive to December 31, 1981.

Trial has been set for April but the case will presumably not go before a jury until the Kentucky Court of Appeals gives a ruling on the applicability of the rules—known as the rule against perpetuities and the rule against illegal restraint of alienation—cited by the defense.

Clinic Director

Funding of medical care for people living in rural areas is, in many parts of the country, hard to obtain, but in Alachua county, Florida where Prestonsburg native, Sandra Prater, is director of the Alachua County Organization for Rural Needs (Acorn), services are being expanded.

In the past year, the non-profit organization has acquired new personnel, established a children's clinic, provided a pharmaceutical outlet, and begun a weight-reduction course. Another project under way is the addition of a dental clinic. All of these services are available to any of the 9,000 residents in rural LaCrosse and Monteccha-Gordon in northern Alachua county.

Miss Prater, who recently spent the holidays here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Prater, is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School and of Berea College. She received her master's degree, and is presently working on her Ph.D at Florida State College in Gainesville. She has been director of the clinic since 1980.

Appalred Announces Personnel Changes

Because of funding cuts, only one attorney will be hired to replace the two experienced attorneys who resigned recently from the staff of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund of Kentucky (Appalred), Program Director John Rosenberg announced this week.

Joining the program is Karen Alfano, a recent graduate of Georgetown University Law School. She is a member of the District of Columbia Bar and is applying for admission to Kentucky courts.

Kathleen O'Sullivan, staff attorney in Appalred's Prestonsburg office for the past five years; recently resigned to take a position with a law firm serving New York city employees. Laura Bowers, who has worked with the legal services agency for eight years, also resigned.

Appalred's Prestonsburg office serves clients in Floyd, Johnson, Martin, Magoffin and Lawrence counties and is the administrative center for 10 other area offices.

The Lackey-Garrett-Wayland WOMAN'S CLUB

The Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club observed Christmas with a dinner at the home of the treasurer, Mrs. James E. Martin, Wayland.

Mrs. Marshall Bradley gave the devotions which included two poems on the Christmas theme.

Following the dinner, the club president, Mrs. Otto Martin, gave out the club yearbooks and also "Breast Cancer Testing Cards" from the American Institute for Cancer Research. She also read a letter from Mrs. W.T. "Granny" Hatcher thanking the club for its tribute to her at the November dinner meeting at Vest. She also re-read the article which Granny had given at the club's 50th anniversary celebration in 1976 on "What the Club Means to Me". A contribution was voted to the Town of Wayland for its Christmas treat for under-privileged children.

Following the business session, the club members retired to the family room where gifts were exchanged around a beautifully decorated Christmas tree.

Those attending were: Mrs. Marsella Bradley, Mrs. Marie Mullins, Mrs. Felix Coburn, Mrs. LaFaye Hughes, Mrs. Blanche Bamer, Mrs. Maxine Martin, Mrs. Avanelle Wells, Mrs. Elizabeth Duff, Mrs. Louise West, Mrs. Libby Martin, and the hostess, Mrs. Loretta Martin.

The next program meeting will be at the home of Mrs. LaFaye Hughes, Garrett, on the subject of public affairs.

COMMUNITY CHORUS TO MEET

The Prestonsburg Community Chorus will meet Monday, January 16 at Prestonsburg Community College, Room J155, at 7 p.m. At this time the chorus will begin work on "The Creation" by Joseph Haydn. The work will be performed in May, 1984.

The chorus, which has been in existence nineteen years, is composed of lay musicians. Anyone interested in singing good choral literature is eligible and is invited to join the group by attending the meeting. According to Gus Kalos, the director of the group, the Chorus will need to add many new voices this semester.

Little Miss Muffet not only sat beside spiders, says National Wildlife's Ranger Rick magazine. She lived with them. Miss Muffet's father, a medical doctor who lived in the 1500s, let spiders drape all over his house in the belief that spiders would protect his family from diseases. Dr. Muffet even gave his daughter pills made from spiders when Miss Muffet got sick.

Wheelwright Mayor Is Arrested Friday

By KATIE NEWSOME

Wheelwright Mayor Elmer Ferguson was arrested Friday evening following a reported argument with a Wheelwright city policeman earlier that afternoon.

Ferguson was arrested at his home at Wheelwright by Wheelwright Officer Tom Engle and two state troopers on charges of disorderly conduct, resisting arrest and public intoxication.

According to Officer Engle, Ferguson approached him at about 4 p.m. Friday outside the old Wheelwright clubhouse to discuss city business. Engle said Ferguson then began yelling, using profane language, "and pushed me in the chest." Engle said when passersby began to stop he told the mayor to "go on home and we will talk later." At that point, he reported that Ferguson "just became more violent and verbally abusive."

It was then that Engle placed Ferguson under arrest although he reported that the mayor refused to get into the police car. Later, accompanied by two state troopers, the arrest was made at Ferguson's home and he was booked at the county jail where he was released later that night after executing bond.

Ferguson, who has served as Wheelwright mayor intermittently for the past 20 years and was the Republican candidate for Floyd County Court Clerk in the past general election, said he had just returned from a funeral at Hollybush (Knott county) and saw Engle's police car parked illegally on the sidewalk. "I got onto him over the illegal parking and checked with him on some junk cars I asked him to tag earlier in the month," Ferguson said. When he and Engle began to quarrel he claimed the policeman "was in a rage." He reportedly admitted that he refused to get into the police car.

At a special meeting of the Wheelwright City Council, Monday night, the three council members present, Freddy Johnson, Bill Meade and Elva Wenk, voiced support of Officer Engle in the matter.

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NEWS

By JANE BOND Health Educator

Glaucoma is the second leading cause of blindness in adults; this disease usually strikes without symptoms. It is for this reason that it is important to be screened regularly for the disease. Persons age 40 and over should be aware of the need for screening since this time is the high-risk age for the disease.

The Health Department is having glaucoma screenings on Friday, January 13 and January 27. These clinics are free services of the Health Department and are open to persons of all ages, but those persons age 40 and over are especially urged to take advantage of these clinics since this is the high-risk age.

A nurse from the Health Department will be in Harold at Ward's Health Food Store on Monday, January 16, from 10 until 2. She will offer T.B. skin tests, urinalyses, anemia screenings, blood pressures, and immunizations. This clinic is a service of the Health Department and is open to the public.

There will be a Pap clinic today, January 11, 1984 from 8:30 until 11:30 and from 1:00 until 2:00. This clinic is a free service of the Health Department and is open to women of all ages, but those women age 45 and over are especially urged to attend since this is the high risk age for cervical cancer.

A NOTE OF THANKS
Better late than never, however, no less sincere. We wish to thank the various business establishments and other citizens of our and surrounding communities for their generous support of our annual Christmas Trees for children and elderly shutins. You made it possible for us to distribute 400 bags of candy and fruit for children and 46 packages of fruit, candy and nuts to the elderly shutins. Again, thanks to each one who contributed.
I want to especially thank each member of our department who bereaved the cold weather to distribute these treats.
HOWARD FERGUSON, Chief
Auxier Volunteer Fire Dept.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Ted Miller, who passed away January 10, 1982.

It has been two years now since the Lord called you home to dwell with him forever in peace and no more troubles. We know you are living in peace now and enjoying yourself with the Lord and your friends. The day never goes by that we don't think of you and shed some tears for you, but the good Lord knows best and he knows which one of his children has had enough trouble down here, so he says, "come on home, child."

We miss your face and you in every thing we do. It is so sad for us without you, but we have to understand that the Lord needed you more than we did and when we have troubles it seems you are always near to help us overcome.

You will always be in our hearts. Sadly missed by your wife and children.

Fiscal Court Named In Spat Over Road

A dispute over reconstruction of a road serving Rice Branch of Middle Creek wound up in circuit court here last week, George C. and Bertha Mae Brown claiming in a suit that the road being built by Mike Little will be dangerous and hard for long vehicles to negotiate.

The Browns, who own property there, are challenging a 1975 fiscal court resolution authorizing Little to change the existing road. The authorization was given without due process and violated the rights of adjoining landowners, plaintiffs claim.

(Suits filed in court present only one side of the issue in contention.)

After spending millions of dollars to stop erosion along creeks in the West's arid sagebrush hills, engineers turned to beavers for help, reports National Wildlife magazine. Grass is now growing and trout have returned to Wyoming creeks, thanks to dams built by eight beavers that were trapped and then released there two years ago.

Wedding vows will be exchanged at 2:30 p.m. Saturday, January 21, in the Oakland Avenue Baptist Church, Catlettsburg. The gracious custom of an open church will be observed.

The bride elect is a graduate of Boyd County High School and the University of Kentucky.

The prospective bridegroom is a graduate of Taylor County High School and the University of Kentucky. He is employed by Naval Avionics, Indianapolis, Indiana.

Miss Stewart is the granddaughter of Mrs. James W. Salisbury, of Prestonsburg, and the late Mr. Salisbury, and Mrs. Walter E. Stewart, of Allen, and the late Mr. Stewart.

See Final Payment on Fire Truck

By: KATIE NEWSOME
In January, 1983, the Southeast Floyd County Volunteer Fire Department began a $10,000 fund-raising drive to make final payment on its fire truck. Doubt was expressed that this amount of money could be raised within a year's time. There is no doubt today! On Dec. 12, at the fire department's annual Christmas dinner, a check was written to erase this debt.

Community volunteers from several towns in the Left Beaver Creek section worked together on a variety of money making projects to reach their goal. Committees were organized and sponsored bake sales, gospel sings, rummage sales, country and western shows, road blocks, Bike-A-Thons, dinners, and in addition individual donations were solicited. Volunteer member, William P. "Bill" Wells, collected over $5,000 in donations from Floyd and surrounding counties.

The Southeast Fire Dept. serves several communities at the southern tip of Floyd County on Left Beaver Creek. When called upon, Southeast will assist as back-up for other fire departments throughout the area.

According to Fire Chief, Haskell Hall, their fund-raising activities are far from being over. "We can take a short breather," he said, "we're already planning to buy two "Air Pacs," or breathing respirators, to be used by firemen to enter a burning house and rescue people caught in a fire or to put out an existing fire. Each of these respirators will cost $1,000, so, we have our work cut out for us."

AUXIER HOMEMAKER'S CLUB

The new Auxier Homemakers Club held its third meeting, Jan. 5. There were 10 members present, Betty Curnutte, Kaye Hall, Henrietta Osborne, Helen Music, Sue Wells, Brenda McKenzie, Marty Ward, Audrey Hall, Pat Salyers, Peggy Wells, and all dues were paid. The club meets the first Thursday each month at 7 p.m. at the Auxier Methodist Church. Next meeting will be Feb. 2. If there is no school on this date, the meeting will be cancelled also. Mrs. Pitts had a class on chicken scratch and a lot of fun was had by all. New members are welcome.

TWIN SONS BORN

Ronald D. and Glenna Jo Allen, of Grethel, announce the birth of twin sons, Marcus Crandall and Joshua Neil Allen, November 14 at the Methodist Hospital in Pikeville. Maternal grandparents are Lee and Verdine Akers, of Grethel.

THANKS FROM MOUNTAIN MANOR
The staff and residents of Mountain Manor Nursing Home of Prestonsburg would like to take this opportunity to thank all those who helped to make the 1983 holiday season a very special time. Our thanks goes out to all those who gave donations, brought in gifts, fruit and flowers for the residents. We would also like to thank all those who visited with us through the holidays, and contributed their time and efforts to making this Christmas a huge success. Finally we would also like to express our gratitude to all area ministers and churches, and all volunteers who helped us throughout this past year. We look into 1984 as a successful year as well and hope all of you will continue to spend time with us. Our invitation is extended to the public to come and visit with us here at Mountain Manor.

Fairchild's New Eastern Equipment and Distribution Center Is Centrally Located To Serve You Better

"Our new Equipment and Distribution Center in Whitesburg increases our ability to serve you faster . . ." Myrleen and Jack Fairchild.

Fairchild International has recently purchased Eastern Machine, a division of Elmac Corporation in Whitesburg, KY, located at the Pine Mountain Junction. The name of this new facility will be the Fairchild Eastern Equipment and Distribution Center. The facility is situated on several acres of land and offers the complete line of new Fairchild products and product servicing, including Fairchild replacement parts, component rebuilds, and a wide inventory of used and rebuilt mining equipment for your inspection. This facility is geared to giving the fastest service and Fairchild's usual high quality to the coal operators in the eastern coal fields.

For the past eighteen years, Fairchild has been dedicated to serving the needs of the coal industry, and the new Eastern Equipment and Distribution Center is continued evidence of this commitment. Stop by the Fairchild Eastern Equipment and Distribution Center - you will be glad you did.

WANTED CAMPBELL LABELS

Charles Clark Elementary School will participate in Campbell's Labels for Education Program and you can help. Please collect and save these Campbell labels: Campbell's, Franco-American, V-8, Swanson's, Prego. Our school can redeem these labels for free school equipment. All sizes of labels are eligible.

If you have Campbell product labels you would like to donate to Clark Elementary School, from now till March 3, please give them to a Clark Elementary student, or call the school at 886-2487 and we will send someone to pick them up. Thank you.

ALLEN WOMAN'S CLUB

The Allen Woman's Club held its January meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Blanton, of Allen, Jan. 3. The meeting was called to order and the Pledge to the Flag led by President Hollie Blanton. A devotion, "This Is All I Ask," by Helen Rice Steiner was read. Secretary Mary Hinchman read the minutes from the previous business meeting. The club approved of a donation to the GFWC "Woman History and Resource Center." President Blanton informed members of coming events in the Club's regular program including letters for the Allen Volunteer Fire Dept. and the annual Little Miss Floyd County Pageant to be held April 28.

Members present were Joan Adams, Hollie Blanton, Belle Conn, Judy Hester, Mary Hinchman, and Janie King.

Pike County Shriners Help Child

Shriners Howard Stratton and Adam Estep recently presented a check for $316, on behalf of the Pike County Shrine Club, to Mrs. Eunice Robinette, chairwoman of the Christopher Keathley wheelchair fund. The chair will be ordered by Mrs. Debbie Thorpe, therapist at Paintsville Hospital, and will enable the family to better care for Christopher, who has been an invalid since birth. In addition to the $316 check, Hillbilly Clan 1, Outhouse 2, donated $48 dollars to the fund.

Beware of Danger In Woodcutting

If you plan to cut your own firewood this year, be careful, especially if you are going to use a chain saw. In recent years they have become popular and made cutting wood much easier, but the biggest hazards associated with wood cutting come from these saws, according to Dr. Larry Piercy, Extension agricultural safety specialist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

About two million chain saws are sold each year. Hospital emergency rooms report some 25,000 chain saw-related injuries treated every year.

Two out of three accidents are associated with the cutting chain itself, said Piercy. "These can happen when someone releases the throttle and it continues to spin down and accidentally comes into contact with some part of the body."

Another injury associated with the cutting chain comes when the operator is finished cutting through the log and the saw swings down. "You don't have any control over it and the saw strikes a part of the body," Piercy explained. "Just plain loss of control for one reason or another can also cause this to happen."

Probably one of the most serious injuries associated with chain saw use is the "kickback." When a person is cutting the tip of the chain saw or the blade itself hits a log or rock, it will kick the blade back towards the operator and cause some very serious and severe injuries, Piercy said.

These accidents are not limited to the amateur. Kickback also poses potential injury for the experienced chain saw user. Almost 25 percent of reported injuries are believed to be associated with kickback, said Piercy.

Other injuries happen when the cut material hits the operator. There also are reported instances of operators being shocked or electrocuted by electric chain saws. Another hazard is an excessively noisy gasoline powered saw which can damage hearing.

One way to minimize the danger of a chain saw is to keep the tool in good condition, Piercy advised. "If the chain is sharp and the tension adjusted, a lot of problems can be eliminated. All it takes is good maintenance activity."

When cutting wood, be sure that you are in a balanced position and have good footing. "If you are working in a place where you are off-balance or in an awkward position, there is just that much more potential for getting injured if the saw were to kick back," said Piercy.

Be sure your thumb is wrapped around the bar on the front handle guard so that you will have a good firm grip in case the saw kicks back.

Safety aids for chain saws include a tip guard that covers the end of the chain bar when the saw is in use. This helps eliminate the possibility of a kickback. A chain brake is a device which is activated after kickback occurs. It is designed to stop the movement of the chain in a fraction of a second to prevent injury to the operator.

Safety devices are only one way to reduce injury. Another way is to learn how to operate your chain saw properly. First, start out by reading the instructor's manual, Piercy said.

"If you are inexperienced with a chain saw, be sure to work with somebody who knows what they are doing," advises the specialist. "Instead of going out on your own, go out with someone who can give you some added tips and steps to use that will help assure your safety."

Start out with vertical cuts and don't try to fell trees right away. Work up to it when you feel comfortable with the saw. "Don't go out and start like Paul Bunyan, cutting up the biggest trees and timber in the woods," Piercy said.

Use personal protection equipment when cutting wood. Wear hard hats to protect yourself from falling limbs, and use hearing protection when using a saw for a long period of time. Wear tight fitting clothing that doesn't have any loose ends that might catch in the saw. Also wear safety goggles to protect your eyes from flying chips, advised Piercy.

When operating a chain saw, Piercy reminds users to keep others out of the way. Don't have something holding the log close to where you are cutting in case the saw slips, Piercy advised.

Piercy offers some other tips to ensure proper use of your chain saw:

Cut wood at high engine speeds (full throttle). At low speed, the chain can catch in the wood and throw the saw.

Keep all parts of your body and clothing away from the chain when starting or running the engine.

Don't start a saw on your leg or knee.

Carry your chain saw safely. Stop the engine, point guard bar and saw behind you and point muffler away from your body.

Do not smoke near fuel can or chain saw.

Do not work alone.

Keep the saw below shoulder height where you have good control over kickback reactions.

Use only the fuel mixture recommended by the manufacturer.

Before felling a tree, Piercy suggests checking the area around it. "Notch the side on which it is expected to fall. Make the feeling cut about two inches higher than the notch. Use wedges if necessary. Shut off the saw and remove it from the tree before it falls, then get to a safe spot quickly."

When limbing, Piercy recommends cutting the limbs on the top side before removing those resting on the ground, being careful when cutting small limbs because they are more apt to get caught in the saw. It's safer to use an ax or a handsaw for small limbs, according to the specialist.

"Keep all your hand tools sharp. Check the handles for soundness and use axes and splitting mauls with care. Keep bystanders safely back, assume a stable stance, and aim true," said Piercy.

When you are splitting wood, the specialist recommends wearing safety goggles. "Also, watch your step when you are carrying the stacking wood—don't carry, lift or toss more than you can comfortably handle. And wear sturdy leather gloves to protect your hands from cuts," he adds.

Using these safety measures will help ensure that you have a warm and safe winter.

Census Survey Seeks Displaced Worker Data

The U.S. Bureau of the Census will conduct a regular survey on employment and unemployment in this area during the week of January 16-21, 1984, according to Joseph S. Harris, director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Charlotte.

In addition to the usual questions on current employment, the January survey will include others concerning displaced workers and occupational training. Displaced workers questions will be asked of persons 20 years of age and older, who have lost or left a job involuntarily in the past five years, in an effort to determine which industries and occupations have been affected the most, and what earnings or benefits losses may have been incurred. The occupational training questions will be asked of persons 14 years of age and older who have attended any occupational training program in the past two years.

Households in this area are part of the sample of 72,000 across the country scientifically selected to represent a cross section of all U.S. households.

The monthly survey is conducted for the U.S. Department of Labor and provides a continuous record of activity in the labor force. The November survey indicated that of the 112.0 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 102.7 million were employed. The nation's unemployment rate was 8.4 percent, down from the 8.8 percent reported in October.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

Surface Mine Dept. Acting Comm. Named

Gov. Martha Layne Collins has appointed Charles W. Martin, of Wickliffe, as acting Commissioner of the Kentucky Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement.

Secretary Charlotte Baldwin of the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet commented that Martin "will provide competent oversight for surface mining during the 'transition period' within the cabinet."

"As acting commissioner, Martin will contribute his extensive professional experience to stabilize this crucial area of operations in our cabinet," Baldwin said.

Martin, named Deputy Secretary to Baldwin, December 14, by Gov. Collins, will oversee the issuance of permits for both surface mining and the surface effects of underground mining in Kentucky. He will also be responsible for the enforcement of state and federal mining laws and regulations.

Having earned a master's degree in environmental engineering technology from Murray State University, Martin formerly served as environmental affairs coordinator for the Westvaco Corporation's facility in Wickliffe.

Martin's professional background includes the vice-chairmanship of the Kentucky Environmental Quality Commission, membership on the Region IV EPA Administrator's Industry Advisory Committee and membership on Gov. Collins' transition team for the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet.

HOW MUCH ABOUT DEATH CAN A CHILD UNDERSTAND?

The young child of three to five usually understands little of death and seems to be disturbed about it for only a short time or for short intervals.

The child from five to nine may express guilt remembering past feelings and quarrels with the deceased. They will be very much influenced by the way in which adults in the family behave during the death and funeral.

Of utmost importance to children of any age is that they receive the support of a loving adult to help sort out their feelings, assure them that they are in no way responsible for the death, and encourage them to share their feelings with you. If you have a question free feel to contact us. Sometimes we can be of help in lightening your load in these intensely personal situations.

A Budget Balanced by Constitution

(Reprinted by permission of The Baltimore Sun)

A recent article by Attorney General Stephen H. Sachs asserted that a constitutional convention called by the required number of states for the purpose of checking runaway deficit financing by the federal government would place "America on the threshold of a reckless experiment that could endanger our constitutional liberties and even alter our form of government."

This extreme nonsense is not upheld by a special committee of the American Bar Association, by numerous other legal authorities, and by the common sense of anyone who will study the origin and reason for Article V of the Constitution.

Mr. Sachs' article, and others of like nature, are more emotional than logical. There is no reason to believe that delegates to a constitutional convention would be any less committed to upholding our basic liberties and form of government than are members of Congress. Congressmen have unlimited power to propose a constitutional amendment on any subject at any time. In this sense, the Congress is an unlimited constitutional convention. Yet this has never disturbed anyone. Nothing proposed by the Congress can become part of the Constitution until it is ratified by three-fourths, or 38, of the states. The same would be true of anything proposed by a constitutional convention called under the provisions of Article V of the Constitution.

Candidly, I wish it were not essential to have 34 states call for a constitutional convention which will require the president and the Congress to maintain a balanced budget, with exceptions to meet emergencies. But the alternative to this promises to be disastrous. In only four years—1980 to 1984—we shall add 50 percent to the debt of the United States accumulated from the beginning of our history down to 1980. The deficit will be at least $2 trillion. Under current policies of both major political parties one can see an acceleration of deficits. In time, the interest on the debt will consume a huge share of the revenues received by the federal government from all forms of taxes. That could lead to a repudiation of all federal debts. It is a far greater and more realistic danger than a constitutional convention called by the states to bring sanity into the management of federal revenues and expenditures.

The Constitution for good reason provides two different methods of bringing about a constitutional change. The proposal of amendments by the Congress and approval by three-quarters of the states is one method. The other is for two-thirds of the states (34) to adopt resolutions calling for a constitutional convention for the sole purpose of adopting a single amendment. It would then be sent to the states by the Congress and would require 38 states to ratify.

Those who object to the second method of amending the Constitution really do not believe in the Constitution as it is now written. If they believe, as Mr. Sachs does, that there is danger in permitting the states to amend the Constitution, they should say so and propose that this power be deleted by an amendment proposed by the Congress.

The framers of the Constitution recognized that those in power in the federal government might be disinclined to give up unforeseen prerogatives. Today, most Congressmen do not want a convention called by the states, for they foresee their undisciplined spending threatened (voting for appropriations deemed likely to re-elect rather than for what is right and in the national interest).

Congress has the power to establish procedures limiting a convention to the single subject matter slated in the applications from the state legislatures.

Congress has the power to determine exactly under what conditions the delegates to a convention would be chosen, when the election of delegates would be held, where they would meet, how the delegates would be paid and precisely how the convention would be limited to a single topic.

But suppose the delegates to a convention did not hold their actions to the call for a single amendment. Does anyone believe it is conceivable that the state delegates chosen for a limited purpose, namely to approve a single constitutional amendment that would be strictly in harmony with the call of their own states, would now turn around and propose an amendment or amendments that went beyond the legal call? The delegates of the other states would have to go along with this revolt. Later, 38 states would have to approve the amendment or amendments. These would be the very state legislatures that had called for a single constitutional change. Instead, many of the states have said that if convention enactments strayed beyond the original amendment the enabling petition would be considered "null and void." If this were overridden and multiple amendments ensued, does anyone believe that three-fourths of the states (38) would ratify the runaway amendments?

Thirty-two states have called for a constitutional convention for the sole purpose of bringing the federal budget under control. When two or more additional states take similar action, the Congress will be compelled to act. But today, or tomorrow, or any time before the thirty-fourth state takes similar action now envisaged by the states, the Congress could, if it wished, write its own balanced budget amendment. The Congress could offer this to the states and we would use the same method of amending the Constitution we have always used.

Candidly, the "runaway convention" argument is raised by those who do not wish to force an irresponsible Congress (which now threatens our representative form of government), to be restricted, even for the good of the country, even to overcome the peril we now face. Irresponsibility fits the needs of thousands of pressure groups and disregards the vital needs of all the people—the nation itself.

The people should act, have the right to act, and act at once. The danger of financial collapse can no longer be tolerated.

I find it regrettable that past Congresses, the present Congress, and several presidents of the United States have been reckless in the handling of federal revenues and expenditures. They will continue in this mood, for they prefer to vote for what will re-elect, rather than to vote for what is right. This is precisely the type of self-serving attitude the framers of the Constitution foresaw. Perhaps it is what de Tocqueville meant years ago when he said, "Democracy contains the seeds of its own destruction."

Dr. Eisenhower is president emeritus of the Johns Hopkins University.

Free Training Offered Volunteer Tax Counselors

An IRS instructor will conduct a class for volunteer tax counselors beginning at 9 p.m. Monday, Jan. 9, through Jan. 13. In cooperation with the AARP, the I.R.S. instructor will conduct an additional week of more in-depth classes beginning Jan. 16. Those completing this second week of tax instruction can be certified as a tax counselor. These classes meet at the Floyd County Public Library on Arnold Avenue in Prestonsburg.

The local chapter of AARP offers free tax counseling to older persons during the tax season. Those who would enjoy helping disabled and older persons with their tax returns are urged to become certified as counselors.

For more information write or call Aaron Akers, River Drive, Box 2, Banner, Ky. 41603, 874-9921.

ALC REGISTRATION

Spring registration at the Alice Lloyd College will be held in the June Buchanan Alumni Center, Tuesday, January 10 with seniors and juniors registering from 8-9:30 a.m. Sophomores will register from 9:30-10:30 a.m. Freshmen will register from 10:30-12 noon.

Students who register after January 10 will have to pay a late registration penalty. Regular classes for the spring semester will begin Wednesday, January 11.

Live From The Met Presents 'Don Carlo'

Placido Domingo stars in the title role when "Live from the Met" presents Verdi's "Don Carlo," airing Wednesday, February 1, at 8 p.m.

A central idea of the opera is one of Verdi's favorite thematic pursuits: the continuing struggle against tyranny and the pain of divided loyalty. The setting is 16th century France and Spain. Prince Carlo of Spanish royalty has covertly journeyed to France to meet his future wife; the betrothal arranged by his elders, Carlo meets the young woman, Elisabetta, daughter of King Henry II, and they fall in love.

But blossoming love is quashed when Carlo is informed that Elisabetta is to become the wife of his father, King Phillip of Spain, as the condition of a peace treaty between the two countries.

His spirits crushed, Carlo retreats to a monastery for solace. There he is befriended by Rodrigo, Marquis of Posa, and together they begin the ill-fated quest for the hand of Elisabetta (who is now Carlo's stepmother).

"Live from the Met: Don Carlo" is produced by WNET, New York.

Use Caution In Applying Ashes To Your Garden

The use of wood ashes in the garden should present few problems for gardeners, and coal ashes can be applied with caution, according to an Extension horticulturist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

"Questions about applying wood and coal ashes to the garden often arise during the winter months," said Dr. Jean English, who works at Robinson Substation-Quicksand.

The main value of wood ashes lies in their potassium and calcium carbonate (lime) contents, explains English. Wood ashes are about 45 percent carbonate, with hardwood ash being about one-third higher in lime than softwood ash. "Thus, you would have to apply about twice the weight of wood ashes as lime to meet a particular lime requirement," the specialist said.

If the pH of a soil is 6.7-7.8, no lime is required, according to English. On a soil with a pH of 6.1-6.7, an average application of limestone is about 50 pounds per 1,000 square feet, so about 100 pounds of wood ashes per 1,000 square feet could be applied safely.

"If you remove about five pounds of ashes from your stove each week, you could make 20 trips to a 1,000 square-foot garden without worrying about raising the pH of the soil too much," English said.

She added that gardeners who apply wood ashes to their gardens year after year should have the soil pH checked regularly. "Also, wood ashes should not be applied to soil around acid-loving plants, such as azaleas, rhododendrons, blueberries and pin oaks."

Wood ashes contain no nitrogen, 1-2 percent phosphate and 4-10 percent potash. Thus, 100 pounds of wood ashes would supply about two pounds of phosphate and 4-10 pounds of potash per 1,000 square feet. Since the highest recommended amount of potash per 1,000 square feet needed on a low potassium soil is four pounds, 100 pounds of wood ashes could meet all of your needs for this element, English said.

"Soil tests should be done regularly to make sure your soil is not becoming too high in potassium, since too much potassium can interfere with the uptake of other essential elements, such as calcium and magnesium," explained English.

Recommendations for phosphorus range from 1-7 pounds of phosphate per 1,000 square feet, so little danger of over-supplying phosphorus from wood ashes exists.

The application of coal ashes to gardens can present problems of salt and boron toxicity to plants, and the coarser particles of coal can make a soil too gravelly, according to English.

She recommends that coal ashes be sifted to remove anything larger than sand-size particles. Then apply the fine particles in a layer about one-third inch deep over the garden. Such an application probably can be repeated for three or four years before potentially toxic levels of salt or boron are reached, English said.

These applications will supply most of the potassium, calcium, magnesium and sulfur needed by crops while elements such as nitrogen and phosphorus will have to be supplied by other fertilizers.

English points out that most coal ash has a pH of 6-7, so it should not be used around acid-loving plants. "You should also avoid adding much or any ash to boron-sensitive and salt-sensitive crops, such as fruit trees, garden beans, celery, radishes, cucumbers, squash, peas and Jerusalem artichokes," advises English.

Plants that can tolerate boron and salt are asparagus, beets, spinach, broad beans, turnips, cabbage, broccoli, cauliflower, Brussels sprouts and rutabaga.

"If areas of leaves begin to die or appear scorched, especially along leaf margins, toxic levels of boron may have been reached," notes English. Toxic levels will be reduced by weathering and leaching within three years if no more boron is added to the soil, she said.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA FEDERAL ENERGY REGULATORY COMMISSION, Notice of Application Filed with the Commission, (December 23, 1983). Take notice that the following hydroelectric application has been filed with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission and is available for public inspection: a. Type of Application: Preliminary Permit; b. Project No. 7845-000; c. Date Filed: November 14, 1983; d. Applicant: HydroEngineering Associates; e. Name of Project: Fishtrap; f. Location: Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy River, Pike County, Kentucky. g. Filed Pursuant to: Federal Power Act, 16 U.S.C. § 823 (a) - 825 (f); h. Contact Person: E.D. Tice, P.E., P.O. Box 24, Pauline, South Carolina 29374; i. Comment Date: Feb. 24, 1984; j. Description of Project: The proposed project would utilize the existing U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Fishtrap Dam and Reservoir and would consist of a powerhouse with one or more turbine-generator units having a total rated capacity of 1,080 kW and a 1/2-mile-long transmission line. The project would be capable of generating up to 5,440,000 kWh annually. k. Purpose of Project: Energy produced at the project would be sold to Kentucky Power Company. l. This notice also consists of the following standard paragraphs: A5, A7, A9, B, C and D2. m. Proposed Scope and Cost of Studies under Permit: A preliminary if issued, does not authorize construction. A permit, if issued, gives the permittee, during the term of the permit, the right of priority of application for license. The Applicant seeks issuance of a preliminary permit for a period of 18 months. The work to be performed under this preliminary permit would consist of gathering necessary data, completing surveys and environmental studies, obtaining necessary Federal, State and local permits including coordination with the Corps of Engineers, and preparing necessary documentation for the Commission's licensing requirements. Applicant estimates that the cost of work to be performed under the permit would not exceed $20,000. A5. Preliminary Permits: Existing Dam or Natural Water Feature Project—Anyone desiring to file a competing application for preliminary permit for a proposed project at an existing dam or natural water feature project must submit the competing application to the Commission on or before 30 days after the specified comment date for the particular application (see 18 CFR 4.30 to 4.33 (1982)). A notice of intent to file a competing application for preliminary permit will not be accepted for filing. A competing preliminary permit application must conform with 18 CFR 4.33(a) and (d). A7. Preliminary Permit—Except as provided in the following paragraph, any qualified license, conduit exemption, or small hydroelectric exemption applicant desiring to file a competing application must submit to the Commission, on or before the specified comment date for the particular application, either a competing license, conduit exemption, or small hydroelectric exemption application or a notice of intent to file such an application. Submission of a timely notice of intent to file a license, conduit exemption, or small hydroelectric exemption application allows an interested person to file the competing application no later than 120 days after the specified comment date for the particular application. In addition, any qualified license or conduit exemption applicant desiring to file a competing application may file the subject application until: (1) a preliminary permit with which the subject license or conduit exemption application would compete is issued, or (2) the earliest specified comment date for any license, conduit exemption, or small hydroelectric exemption application with which the subject license or conduit exemption application would compete; whichever occurs first. A competing license application must conform with 18 CFR 4.33(a) and (d). A9. Notice of Intent—A notice of intent must specify the exact name, business address, and telephone number of the prospective applicant, include an unequivocal statement of intent to submit, if such an application may be filed, either (1) a preliminary permit application or (2) a license, small hydroelectric exemption, or conduit exemption application, and be served on the applicants named in this public notice. B. Comments, Protests, or Motions to Intervene—Anyone may submit comments, a protest, or a motion to intervene in accordance with the requirements of the Rules of Practice and Procedure, 18 C.F.R. §§ 201, 211, 214, in determining the appropriate action to take. The Commission will consider all protests or other comments filed, but only those who file a motion to intervene in accordance with the Commission's Rules may become a party to the proceeding. Any comments, protests, or motions to intervene must be received on or before the specified comment date for the particular application. C. Filing and Service of Responsive Documents—Any filings must bear in all capital letters the title "COMMENTS", "NOTICE OF INTENT TO FILE A COMPETING APPLICATION", as applicable, and the Project Number of the particular application to which the filing is in response. Any of the above named documents must be filed by providing the original and the number of copies required by the Commission's regulations to: Kenneth F. Plumb, Secretary, Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426. An additional copy must be sent to: Fred E. Springer, Deputy Director, Project Management, Division of Hydropower Licensing, Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Room 208 RB at the above address. A copy of any notice of intent, competing application or motion to intervene must also be served upon each representative of the Applicant specified in the particular application. D2. Agency Comments—Federal, State, and local agencies are invited to file comments on the described application. (A copy of the application may be obtained by agencies directly from the Applicant.) If an agency does not file comments within the time specified for filing comments, it will be presumed to have no comments. One copy of an agency's comments must also be sent to the Applicant's representatives. Kenneth F. Plumb, Secretary. 1-4-84.

Could insects ever evolve into those monstrous sizes you see on horror movies? Probably not, says National Wildlife magazine. Every living thing has its proper size. Biologists note that, because of their physical structure, insects couldn't breathe if they were the size of a dog, or an elephant.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE (20th Century-Fox — PG) ★ ★
★ ★ Starring Mel Brooks, Anne Bancroft, Tim Matheson. Produced by Mel Brooks, directed by Allan Johnson.

By J.T. YURKO

Mel Brooks is a fan of old movies. His rather curious way of showing affection for them is to do lavish, ridiculous send-ups of such genres as horror films ("Young Frankenstein"), thrillers ("High Anxiety") and Westerns ("Blazing Saddles").

Brooks is a big fan of the original version of "To Be or Not to Be," released in 1943. He is such a big fan that he doesn't spoof this film, but virtually remakes the original.

Both films concern a Polish theater company at the start of World War II. Both films are set against the German invasion of Poland and how it affects the company, combining a drawing-room comedy with praise for Polish patriotism.

Ernst Lubitsch's film is a favorite of many film buffs, and Brooks knows not to mess with a good thing. He cannot avoid throwing in a Brooksonian shtick or two, such as the brief but silly musical numbers.

The usually madcap Brooks is forced into playing a sincere, likable character in this film. His performance is closer to that of "The Twelve Chairs" than any of his other films. But when Brooks plays Herr Hitler, the performance is strictly slapstick.

A fine supporting cast backs up Brooks and his wife, Anne Bancroft, providing some touching and comical moments. The humor is not as broad as most of Brooks' recent films, so those turned off by the bathroom humor in "History of the World, Part I" will find this film a welcome relief.

PBS in the spotlight

Author and historian David McCullough hosts the new series "Smithsonian World."

'Time and Light'

"Smithsonian World," a new television series that draws upon the resources of the Smithsonian Institution, will premiere on Jan. 18 over PBS with the television special "Time and Light." (Please check local listings for time.)

With author and historian David McCullough as host, "Time and Light" will examine how the sweep of time is measured not only by man but also by plants and animals; and it will look at how man has used light as an artistic and practical tool.

The Smithsonian Institution, one of the world's leading research and museum centers, is much more than a repository for art and artifact. Reflecting the work of the Smithsonian Institution itself, "Smithsonian World" delves into an encyclopedia of subjects from the arts, the sciences, history and the humanities. The series will include features on archeology, astrophysics, art, technology, aviation, anthropology, paleontology, design, biology, animal behavior, music and communications.

Each hour-special will explore a different theme and contain four-to-six stories. "Smithsonian World" gives viewers the opportunity to look at the arts, the humanities and the sciences side by side and to see all disciplines as an integrated whole.

CBN CORNER

'Best of Groucho'

by Kim Cooper

The "word" at CBN Cable is that Groucho Marx is back in "The Best of Groucho," one of TV's zaniest quiz shows. It airs Mondays through Fridays at 11:30 p.m. (ET)

The half-hour show features segments from Groucho's 1950s show "You Bet Your Life." Guests on the show include Liberace, Frankie Avalon, Pancho Gonzales, Phyllis Diller and a young Candice Bergen.

The program centers on a word game, usually interrupted by Groucho's witty remarks. A pair of contestants answer questions from a category of their choice trying to win a cash prize. Contestants could also win money by uttering "the secret word," or "woid" as Groucho pronounced it, chosen at the start of each show.

Kim Cooper is publicity director of the CBN Cable Network.

Mysteries of Antarctica To Be Revealed On KET

"NOVA" visits a wilderness of ice, where the winds howl a hundred miles an hour and temperatures can slide to -126°F, in "Antarctica: Earth's Last Frontier," airing Tuesday, January 31, at 8 p.m. on KET.

In "Antarctica: Earth's Last Frontier," "NOVA" walks in the shoes of explorers and scientists, surveying the 200 years since Captain Cook first entered Antarctic waters. With archival footage from the early 20th century, "NOVA" reviews the heroic efforts of Norwegians and Englishmen to reach the South Pole and the first American expedition in 1929, when Admiral Richard Byrd arrived there by airplane. The documentary also explores the scientific research in Antarctica today and the continent's unusual political status in the political arena.

"NOVA" visits meteorological stations and field laboratories and listens to these scientists, Antarctica's only warm-blooded residents, apart from the penguins, skuas and seals.

"NOVA" is produced by WGBH, Boston.

The Toy Chest; Potential Danger

Parents who take great care to protect their preschoolers from household dangers like the stove or the furniture polish may be overlooking another potential hazard: the toy chest in the child's own room.

A recent survey coordinated by the state's Cabinet for Human Resources indicates that some toy chests with hinged lids do not comply with the industry's own safety standards and can cause serious injury to small children.

The survey was conducted by the cabinet's Radiation and Consumer Product Safety Branch at the request of the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission. Branch manager Edsel Moore said the commission initiated the safety check in several states because from 1974 to mid-1982 it recorded 21 deaths of small children who were strangled when hinged lids fell on them as they were looking into the open toy chests. None of the deaths occurred in Kentucky.

Commission records also show two cases of permanent brain damage and one case of partial paralysis and blindness because of accidents involving toy chests. Moore said there are probably many unreported cases of less serious injuries such as mashed or broken fingers.

In Kentucky, 32 retail outlets were checked in 14 towns and cities. Surveyors examined 42 items labeled, sold or used as toy chests. Only 18 had lids that did not fall from any open position. Fifteen lids fell no more than a half-inch from various open positions. Nine of the chests had lids that dropped beyond the allowable distance from open positions and so are considered potentially dangerous to children.

"The trouble comes when a toddler pushes the lid up and leans over the front edge of the toy chest to see inside," said Moore. "The child then turns loose of the lid to reach for a toy. If there is no safeguard to hold the lid in position, it falls and traps the child across the neck or chest. A child who cannot or does not push the lid back up is likely to strangle or be deprived of oxygen long enough to cause permanent damage."

Moore said the Consumer Product Safety Commission initiated mandatory safety standards for toy chests in 1982 but did not invoke them when the manufacturers asked to be allowed to set their own voluntary standards. The industry's standards took effect last August. However, chests made before that time are still in retail outlets, and commission inspections indicate that not all manufacturers observe the standards.

Because the standards are voluntary, federal and state agencies have no authority to order product recalls of items that do not comply. Another problem, said Moore, is that many items not designed as toy chests are being bought and sold for toy storage.

"The industry standard applies only to items designed, made and labeled as toy chests," he said. "We're finding that various kinds of trunks, benches and boxes with hinged lids are being sold or used as toy chests. Some have labels warning of the potential danger, but most do not. It's a difficult thing to control."

Moore said he prefers not to release the names of the makers and sellers of the potentially unsafe chests because the safety standards at this time are strictly voluntary and because most of the items do not have labels that can be identified by consumers. He advises parents shopping for toy chests to perform the same safety test used in the cent survey. Open the lid at least two inches or as high as 60 degrees from the fully closed position, then turn loose. If the lid drops more than one-half inch from any position in that range, it does not comply with accepted safety standards and could cause injury.

Moore urges parents to apply the same test to all hinged-lid chests already in the home. His office can recommend ways to modify chests so the lids will not fall.

"Of course, the surest way to alleviate the problem is to remove the lid—at least until all the children in the home are big enough to protect themselves against the danger," said Moore.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Rutha Tackett would like to thank everyone for their help upon the loss of our loved one. We deeply appreciate all the relatives and friends who visited her at the hospital and especially to those who sat with us day and night during a great time of need and comfort. We thank those who sent money, food and flowers; those who prepared the grave and maintained the roadways. We especially want to thank the Old Regular Baptist ministers for their words of comfort and to the Hall Funeral Home for their kind and efficient service.
