

Utility Tax, Pro and Con, To Be Heard

A group representing the Floyd Board of Education's most outspoken critics has endorsed its proposal to levy a 3 percent utilities tax to help finance the school district. But senior citizens have been urged to voice their opposition to the tax, which will be the subject of a public hearing tomorrow (Thursday) at 6 p.m. at the Board offices.

The Floyd County Citizens' Education Council (FCCEC)—which last June called on state officials to oust the board and Superintendent E.P. Grigsby, Jr.—said its support was "not an expression of confidence" in the board or superintendent. And it appended to its endorsement a list of improvements it said are needed in the schools.

In a statement released Monday, FCCEC Chairman Kathy Hatfield, of Drift, and Joyce Everly, of Prestonsburg, said school improvements are "not likely without local support through taxes" and noted that the proposed utilities tax would raise the most revenue in the shortest time.

The tax would also increase the school district's bonding potential, enabling construction of sorely-needed school buildings, they pointed out.

Those on whom the tax would work a hardship could have recourse to such programs as the federal energy assistance program and the Wintercare programs sponsored by utility com-

PRESTONSBURG CITY MANAGER David Evans (wielding flashlight) peers into the dark crevasse which quite unexpectedly opened up Friday (the 13th) along Lake Drive in front of city hall here. The pavement began to give way about 3:30 p.m. according to Fire Chief Tom Blackburn who was alerted by a passerby who told him the blackout "had sunk about a foot." By the time he walked from city hall, Blackburn reported that the highway's surface had sunk at least another foot and involved a depression about 12 feet across. While most passing autos stopped, some hit the massive "pothole" and Blackburn reported the back ends of some cars "jumped clean off the ground." Closer inspection revealed a cavernous hole about nine feet deep underneath the cracked roadway.

Cause of the break is not yet known although city utilities officials say the sink occurred in the general area of an old culvert connection which splits off toward the river. Collapse of the culvert or erosion from runoff is believed to be at fault. Other areas along downtown streets are suspect and efforts will be made to prevent such occurrences, it was said. Friday's break was safely filled with sections of broken pavement, sand and gravel.

Refunds Possible; Senator Blames Reagan Policies

The natural gas pipeline company supplying 71 local distribution companies, including Columbia Gas of Kentucky, "recklessly disregarded" its legal requirement to provide gas at the lowest possible cost in 1981 and 1982, government regulators said last week.

The Columbia Gas Transmission Corporation is the first of a dozen major interstate pipelines to be heard on charges that they imprudently bought high-priced gas when cheaper supplies were available.

According to the charges, the pipeline firms quit buying low-cost gas in order to keep buying high-priced gas, sometimes from their own affiliated drilling companies, when demand fell off with the recession and some industries switched to oil.

Columbia Gas Transmission Corp. sells gas wholesale in the District of Columbia and seven other states besides Kentucky. Columbia Gas of Kentucky, its local distributor here, serves about 110,000 customers in central and eastern Kentucky.

Bill Chaddock, a spokesman for Columbia, said the company's decisions were proper at the time they were made, when gas was in short supply and demand was high.

In 1981 and 1982, the recession and a sharp drop in oil prices resulted in a falloff in the demand for gas. But the company had already committed itself in 1980 to long-term contracts based on what customers predicted they would be needing, he said.

Fiscal Court Denies Mineral Tax Support

For a second time, Floyd fiscal court declined last week to endorse a proposal to increase the tax on unmined minerals, and discussion of the issue served notice that the Board of Education's current bid to levy a utilities tax may run into strong opposition, too.

Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo told Billy Arms that the court wanted to review the report of a task force appointed by former Gov. John Y. Brown, Jr. before deciding on whether to endorse the unmined minerals tax. But Magistrates Kenneth Roberts and Gerald DeRossett indicated they were opposed to the tax, Roberts arguing that the added cost to coal operators would be passed on to power companies and ultimately to consumers.

Alluding to the Board of Education's current proposal to levy a three percent tax on utilities, Roberts said he hoped that, if the tax passed, a petition would be filed to have the question put to a countywide vote. "People are burdened to death with taxes already," he said.

Arms said that an unmined minerals tax would primarily affect mineral owners, not coal operators, and that it would result in a fairer distribution of the tax burden. As a member of the Kentucky Fair Tax Coalition and of a task force appointed by Superintendent E.P. Grigsby, Jr. to study the financing of Floyd schools, the East Point farmer is active in seeking passage of both the unmined minerals and the utilities tax.

One tariff for which the fiscal court did vote support was a tax on sales of alcoholic beverages. On a recommendation by Floyd Alcoholic Beverage Control Administrator Denzil Allen, the magistrates voted to ask local state legislators to introduce a bill authorizing county governments to levy such a tax, which Allen said could yield as much as $300,000 annually here.

A house-by-house survey of 17 communities has so far resulted in the addition of 990 new subscribers to the county's solid waste system, Deputy Judge-Executive Morris Isaac reported to the court.

Isaac said the only way to forestall creditors' demands for an increase in the monthly garbage fee was to increase the number of subscribers and improve the bill collection rate. In the 17 communities surveyed, he uncovered 559 past-due bills amounting to $88,315, Isaac said.

Communities surveyed to date include Betsy Layne, Beaver, Bevinville,

SMOLDERING REMAINS of the office and storage building of Mountain Comprehensive Care Center's Greenhouse Training Project are pictured Monday morning following a fire which levelled the 30 X 120-ft. structure at around midnight, Sunday. A sizeable quantity of records, seed, equipment and supplies were lost in the blaze which reportedly began in a section of the wood frame and metal building where no utilities were present. Arson is considered a possibility.

Project Director David Gillespie said the fire "shouldn't interrupt our spring crop of bedding plants," and he stressed that the project, which includes a large complex of greenhouse structures on the Auxier Road, "will continue to provide work for our clients."

Ground Broken For Airport

Ground was broken Tuesday for the long-planned Big Sandy Regional Airport with state, federal and local officials taking part in the ceremony. Pictured above are, from left, state Transportation Secretary Floyd Poore, Airport Board Chairman Bud Perry, Rep. Carl D. Perkins and Martin County Judge-Executive John Callahan. Floyd County Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo also participated in the ground breaking.

Construction on Phase I of the $4 million project has already begun by the E. H. Hughes Company, of Jeffersonville, Ind. and is expected to be complete by this spring. Phase II will involve paving work. The airport, which will feature a 5,000-ft. runway and will accommodate business and commercial aircraft, is being built on 150 acres of reclaimed strip mine near the Martin-Johnson county line donated by Pocahontas Development Company.

Transportation Secretary Poore has already cleared funding to renew design of Route 3 from U.S. 23 to provide improved access to the mountain-top site.

The project is 90 percent federally funded with the remaining 10 percent provided equally by state and local monies.

COMPETITION VIA TELEVISION

The more I sit and stare like a boob at the Tube, the more convinced I become that the old graces—courtesy, chivalry, civility, the like—are doing a fast fadeout.

TV commercials are a case in point. Competition may be no less keen today than yesterday, but there's a singular lack of respect for the other fellow, these commercials indicate. Some years ago, there were a few men in business who carried guns, expecting, or hoping for, a showdown with the competition. But when those individuals advertised their wares or service in the newspapers they carefully refrained from mention of any rival by name. Their vendettas were private affairs.

Now, in TV commercials, a razor blade manufacturer or a breakfast food producer isn't satisfied with extolling the superiority of his own product but must take a pot-shot—by name—at one or half-dozen others that are in the same business.

Wouldn't be surprised to see a certain blade manufacturer reply to attack by the other—old-fashioned, I mention no names—by showing a blade holding down a lone whisker with one foot while its twin blade laboriously saws it off.

Liquor Licensees Urged To Open or 'Show Cause'

Of the 21 liquor licenses that the state Alcoholic Beverage Control Board announced it was ready to hand down 13 months ago, all but two have been issued, and applicants for whom those two have been earmarked are being pressed to start operations or surrender their license claims.

Operators of a planned Holiday Inn are reported ready to begin construction in the spring, an arrangement that Distilled Spirits Administrator Michael Davidson says is fine with him.

But Prestonsburg businessman James L. McClung, who already owns one liquor store here, said he and William L. Smith may surrender their unused license option.

The ABC board sent out letters of intent to 21 out of 137 license applicants in December, 1982, six months after the county voted wet, and one more was issued later following a revision of population figures.

Davidson said last week it is board policy to give an applicant about a year to begin operations, after which time he or she is expected to show cause why the board's letter of intent should not be revoked.

The state official said he has been told by prospective operators of the Prestonsburg Inn—listed as H.D. Fitzpatrick, Jr., Dr. J.D. Adams, Jack Absher and Tom G. Dingus—that they had completed acquisition of a site on U.S. 23 at Katy Friend and expect to break ground there in March. In view of the fact that it is a large, complex undertaking and promises to be of significant economic benefit to the county, their delay in getting started appeared "fully justified," Davidson said.

The other unused license was intended for McClung and Smith, who planned to open BJ's Liquor and Wine on the Mountain Parkway, just west of here. In the meantime, however, McClung bought the license originally issued to Frank Adams and Tom Ed Music and now operates the Beverage Mart on South Lake Drive.

Davidson said last week he had asked that McClung and Smith be instructed to appear before the state board soon to show cause why their letter of intent should not be revoked. But McClung said later that he and his partner were considering a voluntary surrender of their license claim.

"Like all other businesses, the liquor business is not all that great right now," McClung explained.

If the license is to be awarded to someone else, that fact will be advertised and applications will be solicited, Davidson said. In that event, those who have applications currently on file will be notified and asked if they still want to be considered, he said.

Gibson Charged In Indian Hills Shooting Affray

A 48-year-old man was arrested on multiple charges Friday following an early-morning disturbance in an Indian Hills apartment during which he allegedly shot his daughter.

Albert Gibson, whose address is listed on court records as Otway, Ohio, was charged with four counts of assault, two of terroristic threatening, and one each of drunkenness, disorderly conduct, wanton endangerment, resisting arrest and being a felon in possession of a handgun.

Prestonsburg policemen Larry Woods and Greg Hall were dispatched to the Mays Branch apartment rented by Gibson's daughter, Chandra Nelson, 26, around 3 a.m. Friday. She had been shot in the forearm. A .32 caliber pistol was recovered nearby.

Officer Woods charged Gibson with first-degree assault in the shooting of Mrs. Nelson. He was also charged with fourth-degree assault, terroristic threatening and wanton endangerment on a complaint by his mother-in-law, who was also present during the row. Dorothy Sue Branham said Gibson punched her and pointed a loaded, cocked pistol at her head.

Woods further alleged that Gibson punched him in the shoulder and, after he was handcuffed, struck him on the head and face with the handcuffs.

Mrs. Nelson was admitted to Highlands Regional Medical Center, from where she was released Monday. Gibson was treated at the hospital for a cut to the head and bruises on the face and released.

Gibson received a probated one-year sentence in Magoffin county in December after conviction on a charge of assault under extreme emotional disturbance.

Released On Promise Not To Harm Parents

Burlin Slone, 19, sentenced to a month in jail after a New Year's Day altercation at his parents' Blue River home, was released on probation this week—on condition that he not "engage in any crime of violence, especially toward his parents."

The youth was released at the request of his father, Richard Slone, by order of Trial Commissioner Thomas D. Lafferty, who set a year's probation.

Also sentenced in district court, following guilty pleas or verdicts, were Billy Hall, Melvin, and Michael D. Ousley, Martin, speeding, each to pay $37.50 in court costs and referred to state traffic school; Freddy Robinson, Pikeville, drunk driving, no insurance sticker, $147.50, referred to alcoholic driver education; Donnie G. Mullins, Price, spilling coal $57.50; and Danny R. Burkett, Prestonsburg, no mobile home permit, $57.50.

HOUSEBOAT belonging to Harold coal operator Emmitt Conn—reportedly the largest craft on the lake—was among four damaged in a fire that broke out as they were moored at the Jenny Wiley boat dock last week. State Arson Investigator James B. McKenzie was said this week to be probing the cause of the blaze.

ASCS Announces Cost-Sharing Signup Periods

The Floyd County ASCS Committee announces the beginning of signup periods for cost-sharing for both annual agreements and long-term agreements under the Agricultural Conservation Program.

Signup for annual agreements will be held from January 16 to February 29, and will be limited to the following practices:

Permanent vegetative cover establishment; permanent vegetative cover improvement; permanent vegetative cover on critical areas; planting trees; improving a stand of forest trees; and site preparation for natural regeneration.

Continuous signup for ACP will no longer be used and applications will be accepted only during signup periods unless the farmer is prevented from applying due to reasons beyond his control. No applications will be approved until after the end of signup and all applications will be considered on basis of need and conservation benefits to be derived. Practices must not be started before County Committee approval.

Signup periods for summer practices and fall practices will be announced at a later date.

Applications for long-term agreements will be accepted from January 16 thru January 31. Long-term agreements are cost-share agreements which last from three to five years with the farmer agreeing to complete a number of practices needed on his farm as determined by the Conservation Plan of Operations as developed jointly by the farmer and the Soil Conservation Service (Forestry Service for forestry practices.) These agreements may include seeding practices, forestry practices, animal waste control, grazing land protection, sod waterways, diversions, erosion control practices, stream protection, water impoundment reservoirs, and permanent wildlife habitat.

Persons interested should contact the Floyd County ASCS Office at 105 Court Street or phone 886-2802, prior to the end of signup periods for the particular agreements.

Blaze Destroys Daniels Ck. Home

The Daniels Creek home of Donald Harkins, well known developer, burned to the ground early last Thursday morning.

Harkins and his wife were said by neighbors to have left for Lexington where they also maintain a home, only hours before the blaze broke out.

The house, a relatively new log structure, was totally destroyed.

Reportedly lost in the fire were valuable antiques including a 100-year-old table that had belonged to Harkins' great-grandfather.

Loss is put at $200,000, according to one estimate.

Legislature To View Budget, Other Issues

The Kentucky General Assembly's biennial 60-day legislative session officially began at noon Tuesday, Jan. 3, and several key issues must be addressed prior to adjournment on April 14.

Among the first items of action will be the filling of four vacancies in the House of Representatives. The openings, which must be filled through special elections, were created when the four members were elected to other offices.

Budget figures will be the dominant topic during the session as the state continues its sluggish recovery from economic woes. Several new programs have been proposed during the 1982-83 interim, many of which would require additional funds.

Among those proposals are pay increases for teachers, internships and competency testing for beginning teachers, the upgrading of the state jail system and bills which would toughen the state's drunken driving laws and make changes in campaign-financing statutes.

The establishment of a statewide emergency medical service program has also received a great deal of attention and will be discussed.

Some issues first raised during the 1982 session may also come under consideration in the coming months. They include the overweight-truck tax, which was declared unconstitutional by the Franklin Circuit Court.

The tax would have permitted trucks to pay a fee of 2.85 cents per mile to operate in excess of the state weight limits on Kentucky roads.

Gov. Martha Layne Collins, who took office less than one month ago, was expected to address a joint session of the General Assembly during its initial week of activity.

The General Assembly calendar includes a 10-day break from March 31 through April 11 to permit the governor to review laws passed by the Legislature and to sign or veto them.

The General Assembly will then return to Frankfort, April 12, for a three-day "veto session" to consider overriding any vetoes. The last day lawmakers may draw up new bills is February 23. No new bills may be introduced in the House after March 2, while the final day in the Senate for such action is March 6.

Senate President Pro Tem Joe Prather, D-Vine Grove, and House Speaker Bobby Richardson, D-Glasgow, encourage Kentuckians to take an active role in the legislative process.

Kentuckians who wish to contact individual lawmakers may call toll-free 1-800-372-2985. The number to check on the progress of specific legislation is 1-800-372-2993. A schedule of daily events may be obtained by calling 1-800-372-7100.

Mrs. Goebel To Represent Merchants in Frankfort

Ruth Goebel, of B.F. Casual in Prestonsburg, will represent area Kentucky Retail Federation businesses at a legislative meeting scheduled January 25 in Frankfort. According to Mack J. Morgan, Jr., President of the state-wide trade association, "It is critical that our local people continue to be informed about the issues before the General Assembly. Proposed changes in wage and hour laws, bad check laws and unemployment compensation laws and other retail legislation will have a serious impact on local businesses."

Governor Martha Layne Collins is slated to welcome the over 100 retail and restaurant leaders expected to attend. Among the key issues to be discussed will be a presentation on the revenue picture in Kentucky by Senator Michael Moloney (D-Lexington) and Representative Joe Clarke (D-Danville), the chairman of the respective Appropriations and Revenue Committees in the Senate and House. Other key legislative leaders and state government officials will also be on hand to discuss pending legislation.

Church Group Opposes Katy Friend Annexation

Wilce Rose, who led a delegation from the Katy Friend Freewill Baptist Church, told the new Prestonsburg City Council last week that they have no desire to be incorporated in the city. Although church property is tax-exempt, Rose said he feared that future changes in the law might make the church subject to taxation.

Council members told the group that the ordinance annexing part of Katy Friend was already enacted—it passed in December—and that the church's only remaining option was to file a lawsuit challenging the ordinance. A group of businessmen planning to build a motel on Katy Friend indicated last month that they intended to file such a suit.

In other business, the council read an ordinance setting the second and fourth Mondays as its regular meeting days, decided to retain all current city employees, and appointed Bill Ray Collins, George C. Brown and Eunice Shepherd as members of the council's personnel committee.

Larry D. Brown, son of Councilman George C. Brown, was appointed city attorney at a fee of $50 an hour. Brown replaces Paul P. Burchett in that post.

The council will next meet Jan. 23 at 7 p.m. when a reduction in the city's five percent tax on sales of alcoholic beverages is expected to be discussed. Some liquor dealers, citing marginal profits, have reportedly asked that the levy be reduced.

Boswell Supports Agri-Bonds Bill

State Agriculture Commissioner David E. Boswell has thrown his full support behind an agri-bonds bill now working its way through the state Legislature in Frankfort.

Agri-bonds are the agricultural equivalent of industrial revenue bonds and assist farmers through low-cost loans.

Boswell explained that farmers are now paying the highest production costs in our history. "These high costs coupled with prices that are at or below cost of production, have been a disaster," Boswell said.

"Even good farmers are being forced out of business by these economic conditions. They are not incapable people or bad managers. They are victims of the times—unstable markets at home and abroad, poor weather, high interest rates and high fixed and variable production costs," he said.

Agri-bonds will provide a tool that may enable some farmers to survive until the general agricultural situation can be turned around, Boswell said.

"Turning that economic crisis around should be a major concern of everyone. Because farmers produce the food that feeds all of us," Boswell said.

Boswell, a former state representative, was a sponsor of agri-bond legislation when it was first introduced in the 1982 General Assembly. As a member of the House Agriculture Committee, he was also a force in seeing that agri-bonds were studied during the legislative interim.

Boswell will be using his experience in the Legislature and his ties with its members as he works toward the bill's passage. He will be speaking in support of the bill when it appears before the legislative committees.

Jones, McNally Face Impending Federal Trials

Of two well-known Prestonsburg businessmen currently facing federal charges, jury selection in the trial of one continued this week and trial of the other is scheduled to begin Monday.

Jury selection began last week in the trial in U.S. District Court, in Pikeville, of coal operator Edgar Jones and 19 others accused of plotting to force a competitor out of business. However, close questioning of jurors by attorneys and adverse weather conditions have slowed the selection process, which is expected to continue for most of this week.

Opening arguments in the case may be heard next Monday, a court official speculated yesterday (Tuesday).

Jones and his co-defendants are accused of conspiring to drive Ray-Mac Coal Co. near McDowell out of business early in 1982. A federal indictment last June said shots were fired at the Ray-Mac mine site, equipment was dynamited and a coal tippie was burned.

Trial of auto parts dealer Charles J. McNally and former state official James E. Gray on charges of participating in a kickback scheme involving state insurance policy commissions will begin on Monday in Lexington despite a plea by prosecutors for a postponement.

Prosecutors argued unsuccessfully last Friday for a continuation of the trial. They said they wanted time to appeal the dismissal last month of six of eight mail fraud charges against the defendants. But U.S. District Judge Bernard T. Moynahan said further delay would violate their right to a speedy trial.

Moynahan dismissed six of the original charges because he found a grand jury indictment to be improperly worded.

Local Man Arrested In Pike Co. Robbery

A Prestonsburg man was one of two arrested last week in connection with the robbery of a Pike county woman.

Kentucky State Police at the Pikeville post said three men came around 9 a.m. last Tuesday to the home of Lois Parker, 43, of Zebulon, identifying themselves as census takers. They forced their way in, made Mrs. Parker give them the combination to a safe, and took $40,000 from it. They then tied Mrs. Parker up and fled.

Lee Mann, 30, was arrested here within hours of the robbery during a routine traffic stop. Police recovered about $15,000 when they apprehended him.

A second suspect, Vernon Lee Clemons, Jr., 34, of Frankfort, was arrested in Frankfort the next day. During a search of his home, police recovered $16,190.

Police were searching for a third suspect.

George Custer was the youngest American man ever to make rank of General in the American army—he achieved that by age 23.

Local Teacher To Head Travel Group

Ron Robinson, of East Point, a teacher at Prestonsburg High School, has been selected by the American Institute for Foreign Study (AIFS) to accompany a group of students on travel adventure abroad. This trip is organized by the American Institute for Foreign Study of Greenwich, Connecticut. To date, over 300,000 teachers, students and adults interested in international educational travel have participated in AIFS programs since it was founded 20 years ago in 1964.

Group members of Heart of Bavaria spend two weeks touring this beautiful historic region. Once an independent kingdom, and then a part of the 19th Century German Empire, modern Bavaria overlaps the national boundaries of Austria and Germany. Highlights of this program include visits to Salzburg and Munich, a Rhine River Cruise and an excursion to the Swiss city of Lucerne. This program is especially attractive because it combines sightseeing in the "must-see" cities of Paris and Brussels with an extended visit to an area of Europe not generally included on American tourist itineraries, thus enabling participants to observe firsthand its rich and lively culture.

There are still places available in this group. For further information, parents and students, as well as other interested adults, may contact: 606/886-8413.

Parenting-Skills Support Group

If any new parents are looking for a place in which to share ideas and conversation, the Big Sandy Family and Childbirth Education Association is sponsoring a parenting-skills support group, Wednesday, January 25, at St. Theodore Catholic Church in Prestonsburg.

The purpose of this get-together is to give parents an opportunity to discuss their new babies, and the parenting skills they have found helpful with other parents who are experiencing some of the same problems and feelings. All parents are welcome.

For more information, contact Ann Slone at 886-3863, ext. 213.

Where do I find the phone services I need?

On January 1, 1984, South Central Bell and other local Bell telephone companies were separated from AT&T.

But South Central Bell is still your phone company. As part of a holding company called BellSouth, we'll continue to provide dependable service. For your home. And for your business.

While there are many changes taking place, there will be little immediate effect on your basic local home or office phone service. In fact, you can choose to keep your service just as it is. If you decide to make changes in your service, however, you'll notice some differences.

Use these phone numbers.

Now, when you need help with your phone or phone service, you should use these phone numbers, which may be different from some you've used in the past.

panies for help in paying their winter heating bills, the Council statement said. But Jack Freed, president of the Jenny Wiley Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons, said his group opposed the tax and he urged senior citizens to speak out against it at Thursday's hearing. Opposition by older citizens was held mainly responsible for the scuttling of an identical tax proposal here five years ago.

FCCEC officials took note of their own role in bringing about recent improvements in the Floyd schools system—including a more efficient transportation system, more textbooks, and some building repairs—changes which came about, they said, because of their complaints to the state Board of Education.

Among improvements they said they still want to see:

—principals and teachers should get needed classroom materials and repairs on request;

—all students should have a full set of textbooks;

—efforts should be made to get parents directly involved in education;

—new schools should be built soon and learning opportunities should be equal in all county schools;

—public money should be "extremely" well managed and other departments besides the transportation department should be "streamlined."

ONE MAN'S OPINION

We don't propose to indulge in a name-calling contest with Bob Smith, the so-called "pre-eminent anchor of the tri-state," or with Channel 13 TV (Huntington), but thought it might interest some of our readers to know of the pre-eminent Mr. Smith's opinion of Prestonsburg.

At hand is a copy of "thirteen times," which apparently is a "house organ" published by Channel 13. Its December, 1983 edition features "Bob Smith's Story," a question-and-answer interview with Smith.

In reply to the question, "Bob, how did you get started in broadcasting?" Smith, according to "thirteen times," rambles through college days, work in radio, time spent as an announcer for bus arrivals and departures for Greyhound, and graduation from Marshall University in 1961. And then:

"I got a job in Prestonsburg, Ky., the armpit of the nation."

It's true, that remark is only one man's tasteless view of this community and it doubtless was not intended for wide circulation, but it reflects a studied contempt.

We might well remember this, if and when Channel 13 suggests "A Salute to Prestonsburg," complete with advertising paid for by Prestonsburg businesses. We might respond with a salute of our own that is known in some quarters as The Raspberry.

Tri-County Raids Net 'Hot' Machinery

State police recovered stolen machinery valued at around $200,000 last Friday and several arrests are expected, according to Trooper Philip Tucker, public information officer at the Pikeville post.

Acting on information gleaned earlier last week from a suspect in the robbery of a Pike county woman, police raided sites in Floyd, Pike and Martin counties. Equipment recovered at the sites included two backhoes, a Silver Anniversary Corvette, four two-ton trucks, two "tagalong" trailers, a bulldozer and an end-loader.

The lead was developed in the course of a police investigation into the robbery last Tuesday of Lois Parker, of Zebulon. Lee Mann, of Prestonsburg, and Vernon Lee Clemons, Jr., of Frankfort, have been arrested in connection with that case.

Ten Years Ago

Although the town of Martin was perhaps the county's most dramatic flood scene, with almost two feet of Beaver Creek water running down its main street, last week's heavy rains brought considerable damage to dozens of hollows and creeks. With a budget of $377,882 set for 1974 by the retiring City Council last month, Mayor William O. Goebel, Jr. said last week there is "no way" for the city of Prestonsburg to reduce the city's occupational tax, the city's biggest single source of revenue. The Kentucky '74 Bicentennial commemorative license tags for this county have been delivered to the Floyd County Bicentennial Committee and are available to residents desiring to purchase them, according to an announcement made Monday by Paul P. Hughes, chairman of license plate sales for Floyd county. The Mountain Comprehensive Care Center will open bids at 10 a.m. Monday on renovation of the ground floor of the old Prestonsburg General Hospital building which was purchased last year by the Mountain Mental Health-Mental Retardation Holding Corporation. Three Mud Creek men who were jailed here during the weekend by Sheriff Joe Wheeler Lewis, Deputy Sheriff Green Slone and State Police Detective Gary Rose are accused of arson in the burning last Friday night at Teaberry of a dwelling owned by Homer Hamilton. Marvin Music, of Prestonsburg, was inducted to the office of governor of the Kentucky-Tennessee district of Kiwanis International at May Lodge last Thursday. Thirty Years Ago

(January 21, 1954)

A building development is in the planning stage here which would mean the razing of 15 or more old residences owned by the Harkins estate in the North Highland-Trimble Branch area of Prestonsburg and replacement of these with modern ranch-style homes. The Martin Waterworks Commission announced this week it is considering a $350,000 bond issue to finance the construction at Martin of a modern high school gymnasium. Negotiations between the state and the federal government for the lease of an area on Dewey Lake for the creation of a new state park have been completed, Henry Ward, commissioner of conservation, announced this week. Inland Steel Company announced Wednesday that John T. Parker will become manager of its coal properties at Wheelwright, succeeding E. R. Price, who is retiring. Control of dogs in the Dewey Lake game refuge confronted conservation officials this week as the second of 20 deer released there two months ago was found dead Monday morning. A View on Beirut

If you don't mind, I'd like to express my views on that Beirut issue in your fine paper.

When my wife (who had been watching the news) began telling me that someone had broken thru the guard and bombed our marines in Beirut: I said, "Don't tell me the rest, let me tell you—they were guarding with empty guns, were 'nt they?" They did the same thing to me in W.W. two. I do believe, that's what happened in Pearl Harbor also. It's just a carry over from the days when they didn't have firearms.

They seem to reckon, what worked then ought to work now. Course we can't expect much more from or out of folks when they are educated in ignorance; we need some people with hoss sense. They, (the big ones) put me to guarding a warehouse, at night, on the edge of a giant woods, with a stick—it was a fine stick though. If a fellow had had a bow and arrow, it'd seemed more like the U.S. Army.

I was supposed to halt 'em three time and if they didn't stop—hit 'em with that stick. That was in '42 during our scuffle with Japan or some country. They didn't tell me what to do if the enemy shot me or if he wouldn't stop, or rather, obey. I wasn't scared much though, I allus knew that Uncle Sam and Aunt Mary were right behind me.

They, (the authorities) put me to guarding a camp of soldiers, ammunition, foodstuff, water supply etc., with one cartridge. Naturally, I wasn't allowed to put that round into the firing chamber of the rifle. That was overseas in the South Pacific, in that war that we won—I don't see how we won it so easy, I'll bet it cost a lot of lives. Even our Bible teaches, "He becometh poor that dealeth with a slack hand." Prov. 10:4. If I had not had some shells of my own at that time, someone other than me, would probably have to tell these things.

To illustrate what's going on all the time in our services: We used Sterno, canned heat, to give hot drinks to the patients with battle fatigue, wounded, etc. This stuff was hard to get and so often we were without. The writer purchased a gasoline camp stove and presented it to the 11th Inf. Med. Det. Hqs.: soon every battalion section in the whole Detachment had gasoline stoves. (If you don't keep up in the army, you get run over) Isn't that what we are talking about? No, their observation post, their out-post and their guard wasn't sufficient at Beirut; can anyone refute it? It's the leaders as usual. Kinda like, The Little Bighorn, huh?

A common soldier, marine or what, is in no position to fix policies. If their commanders are slack, the ordinary soldier generally pays for this. The authorities should be aroused out of their sleep. (I believe, they aren't fully awake yet) A bit of demoting, court martials, guard house, etc. may help. They used to have firing squads.

Doesn't everyone know that we are dealing with desperate people. Such folks are subject to do anything at anytime. What do you say?

Sincerely,
ROGER REED, SR.

PCC Enrollment At Record High

Prestonsburg Community College hit an enrollment record Monday when its spring semester registration stood at 1193, and when the registration ends today (Wednesday) that record is expected to be broken again with a total of more than 1200 students.

The enrollment is up 29 per cent from the fall semester when 1154 enrolled.

Commenting on the record enrollment, Dr. Henry A. Campbell, Jr., director of the college, said "Not only are the facilities being strained to the limit, but faculty teaching loads are reaching a maximum peak. Also, during certain periods of the day there are no parking spaces available.

"Normally, an increase in the spring signifies a large increase during the next Fall," Campbell added. "These figures point up the importance of securing a new building for the campus during the 1984-'86 biennium. The present buildings are crowded and the growth expected next fall will strain all facilities to the maximum limit. We are currently on the priority list of the Council of Higher Education for a new library building. This would enable us to remodel a substantial number of rooms for classroom purposes."

Appeals Court Affirms Conviction of Doctor

The conviction of a Prestonsburg doctor for using a minor in a sexual performance was upheld Friday by the state Court of Appeals, the court holding that the willingness of the minor was not a valid defense.

In affirming the 1982 conviction of Dr. Ernest C. Holbrook, the court ruled that merely participating in a sexual act with a minor is sufficient evidence of a criminal act.

The physician's attorney argued that the youngster's participation implied consent. But Appeals Court Justice Michael O. McDonald held that the boy's willingness was irrelevant. "The statute was designed to protect minors regardless of whether their participation was voluntary," he wrote.

Caulliflower can cook to a bright white if you add a little milk during cooking.

Rate, Rake or Rape

I've been worried about you citizens of Prestonsburg. See by the Dec. 14, 83 issue of your paper that you folks of Prestonsburg are in for another nice "Rake" hike on your gas bills.

My wife and I were discussing this as we read the headlines. I informed her that you all were in for another rake. (I had Section One of the paper.) She said, "It isn't rake, honey, it's rape." (We're kinda old and can't see so well—didn't go much far to school, either.) I said, "I guess you're pretty close." She said, "You've got to get close to do something like that." "Guess a body's pocketbook's about the closest thing to them!"

We wondered if you'd made a misprint when you said, "Rate Hike?" Or whether it was supposed to be Rake or Rape? Told my wife, it couldn't be rape, 'cause that was against the law; but she says, it's lawful to do lots of things we used to couldn't do.

I wanted to write my congressman but wife warned me against it, said might cause him to lose his job if he did anything about it. I just don't think those old monopolies ought to be allowed to force us people, do you? We don't have much choice, though, do we? Makes a body wonder if maybe atomic energy may not be the best, after all?

Say! let me know if they up the quality of that gas. It's such funny times, wife says, "They've improved everything till they've just about ruined everything." Said, too, "People will do anything anymore to make an honest dollar."

Keep warm—best wishes!
ROGER REED SR.
Hueysville, Ky.

P.S. When people forget God, they're a good bit worse than brutes, aren't they? Thought our fathers left those companies have that gas quite reasonable

Mayor Disputes Charges

I wish to take issue with the remarks attributed to Policeman Tommy Engle as stated in your paper of 1/11/84, in regards to me.

Tommy Engle's charges had no validity—I was neither drunk nor disorderly. Rather, because of his refusal to carry out his duties as the officer of our town, I had just verbally relieved him of his policeman's position. He then, in a rage, loudly proclaimed the charges against me and asked bystanders to assist him in my arrest, all of whom refused.

As for Mr. Engle's statement that I was detained at the jail; that remark is totally false. I was not subjected to a breathalyzer test for drunkenness as I would have been had I been intoxicated. I merely filled out an appearance bond and came home the same way I went—in my own automobile.

In addition, those Commissioners of Wheelwright who purportedly backed Mr. Engle in his actions met illegally and without authority to discuss this matter, according to Kentucky statutory law.

Pleasant Break For Us, Too

Your readership is larger than the 11,000 you indicated in your paper. Several of us here at Mercy Hospital in Columbus, Ohio enjoy reading the Floyd County Times. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson bring a copy each week to Peggy Hughes Wears, who hails from your fair county, and Mrs. Wears shares the paper with her fellow workers, who include Dr. Mandac from Hawaii. All of us greatly enjoy the "Times" and comparing newsworthy items there and here. We feel that you concentrate more on the people who live there and their lifestyles, where here, the news is much more general and impersonal and the people being written about are strangers to the people doing the writing. Your writers give the impressions that they know the people of whom they write very well and make us feel that we know them too.

Thank you for the pleasant break in our week.

Seeks Family Information

I am seeking information on the father of Thomas C. Brown who settled in the Paintsville-Prestonsburg area in 1789. He had a brother, Nathaniel; a daughter, Sarah, who married Samuel Auxier; two sons, Daniel and Francis Asbury. Francis married Addie Preston, and they had nine children, one of which (Thomas Stogden Brown) married twice, first to Emaline Dameron, second to Fannie Baldwin.

THE LEGISLATIVE BASKETBALL TEAM—the Lawmakers—will be playing with one less member this year. Rep. Greg Stumbo, D-Prestonsburg, suffered a leg injury while playing basketball in his hometown. He said the injury to his achilles tendon has permanently retired him from playing basketball. He may be required to wear a special shoe for up to a year, he added. "It has always been difficult to maneuver during legislative sessions in Frankfort—but now it's harder than ever," Stumbo said with a twinkle in his eye.

ABC Considering State As Topic For TV Series

An ABC television series called Kentucky drew a step closer to reality recently when ABC approved the concept for the Dallas-type drama. KENTUCKY is the brainchild of film producer Howard Koch and the husband-wife scriptwriting team of Stephen and Elinor Karpf. Lynda Jalbert, director of the Kentucky Film Office said that ABC has given the go-ahead for a script for a two-hour pilot for the series, and a script is expected by early March. "If ABC likes the script, they'll come to Kentucky this summer to shoot the two-hour pilot," said Jalbert. "Then if ratings are good on the pilot, KENTUCKY will become a weekly prime time one-hour show—perhaps as early as next January." Director Koch has produced top TV series like MAVERICK and THE UNTOUCHABLES and has also produced a number of successful films like the smash hit AIRPLANE and later, AIRPLANE II, THE ODD COUPLE and ON A CLEAR DAY YOU CAN SEE FOREVER. The Karpfs, who list the script for the film LOVE STORY and the popular daytime drama CAPITAL among their many successful works, paid an extensive research visit to the Bluegrass with Koch last year in preparation for their writing of KENTUCKY. "We're delighted about all this said Jalbert. "Not only because of the immediate impact on the economy that the two or three months of on-site filming would have each year, but we're looking at the broader, long-range effects KENTUCKY could have on tourism." Jalbert explained that if the series is well received, millions of people across the nation would be exposed to the attractions of Kentucky every week. "You know, thousands and thousands of people visit the Ewing's ranch (featured on DALLAS) every year. A successful TV series about Kentuckians could really do great things for our tourist industry."

Johnson Central Students To Appear On KET

Johnson Central High School students, above, will be among those representing six schools in the state competing in KET's academic quiz series, "KET Scholastic Challenge," Thursday, January 19, at 10 p.m. They are, seated, from left, Jeff Able, son of Lindsey and Joyce Able, of Wittensville; Jimmy Pack, son of James R. and Barbara Pack, of Nippa, and Sayeed Ikramuddin, son of Syed and Kamar Ikrenuddin, of Prestonsburg. Standing are host, Ralph Hacker, and alternates, Andy Keaton, Robin Watts, and Melinda Call, faculty advisor. The first round of competition includes Laurel County, Pikeville, and Simon Kenton high schools. Following will be a match between Warren Central, Johnson Central, and Lincoln County. Eighty-one high schools in the state will participate in the series, and teams were drawn from a list supplied by the state's Department of Education. Students are tested on their proficiency in history, math, English and science, and winners will receive $500, runners-up, $250. Members of the Pikeville team includes Kristin Leah Kelly, David Scott Kirn, and Nelson Kelly Maynard, II. Alternates are Suparna Malempati and Joseph Sean Anderson.

IRS Sends Out Tax Packages

The Internal Revenue Service has begun mailing out 1,292,420 1040A and 1040 tax packages to Kentucky taxpayers. These tax packages contain blank tax forms and instructions on how to prepare the forms. They also explain the kinds of assistance available to help you in the preparation of your return. Taxpayers are urged to use the peel-off address label which is affixed to the tax package. If your address or name on the peel-off label is incorrect, you can make pen and ink changes right on the label. By using the peel-off label on your tax return, you will help the IRS speed up the processing of your return, and assure correct return identification. The 1040A package also contains the Form 1040EZ that may be used by many single taxpayers in the state. The Form 1040EZ is a simplified tax return that requires only 11 lines for completion. Taxpayers who use Form 1040EZ will note the numerical entries are to be made in the blocks shown on the tax form. This will enable the IRS to process these returns using optical character recognition scanning, a procedure that is used at some supermarket check-out counters. If you have any questions about the particular form which was sent to you, or whether you should be using a different form, please contact the IRS at 584-1361 in Louisville, or toll free 1-800-424-1040 elsewhere in Kentucky.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

Adrenocorticotrophic Hormone (ACTH) is naturally produced in the pituitary gland of the brain. It directly controls the secretions of the adrenal glands which, in turn, produce cortisone. The primary use of cortisone is the temporary reduction of pain associated with inflammation. It does not matter where the inflammation is located. Cortisone is prescribed, not to cure anything, but to relieve discomfort. It may be injected, sprayed, rubbed on or swallowed by capsule. In prescribing cortisone, doctors usually start with a low dosage because administration of cortisone from an external source causes the pituitary to cease producing ACTH. In turn, then, the body stops the natural production of cortisone.

At COOLEY APOTHECARY we look forward to meeting the complete pharmaceutical needs of every member of your family. From the newborn baby to Grandma and Grandpa. Letcher Festival Slated Next Autumn

Letcher County is in the planning stages for the second annual Mountain Heritage Festival to be held September 16 thru September 23. The Letcher County Mountain Heritage Festival is different from many of the traditional county festivals in that the entire culture and history of the mountains is stressed. This year's festival will include events such as a horse show, dog show, beauty pageant, home canning and cooking and other events, also planned are "how to" demonstrations in such areas of mountain crafts as weaving, soap making, candle making, woodcarving and quilting. It is also hoped that during the week-long festival, one night can be set aside for square dance lessons. The theme for the 1984 festival is "Our Mountain Heritage Alive Today." The parade and merchant display will stress all aspects of the culture, social, economic and political history and folklore of eastern Kentucky. Any civic, social or business organization wishing to enter a float, display or marching unit in the festival parade on September 22, 1984 is encouraged to contact the Letcher County Courthouse, Mountain Heritage Festival, Whitesburg, Ky. 41858. Education Expensive Mediocrity More So

Americans spend an estimated $20 billion a year for tobacco products, $50 billion on alcohol, $6 billion on cosmetics, and $3 billion for dog food—but only $1 billion on student textbooks, according to a recent study by the McGraw-Hill Book Company's Gregg Division.

"Today many textbooks in use are obsolete," says Mary Hatwood Futrell, president of the 1.7-million-member National Education Association. "School budget squeezes are making the once common five-year book replacement cycle a thing of the past."

While school districts' total budgets have increased over the years, the percentages allotted for such key items as teacher salaries and instructional materials have declined, Futrell points out. The average budget share for textbooks has plummeted 50 percent since 1966.

"For students trying to keep up with the whirlwind pace of technological advances and social developments," the NEA leader concludes, "the shortage of current textbooks is a serious obstacle to learning. We're going to have to keep reminding ourselves that educational excellence costs, but—as the President's Commission on Excellence in Education has warned—mediocrity costs more."

★ CANCER HOPELINE ★

This questions and answer column is provided as a public service by the McDowell Cancer Network. Questions are answered by appropriate specialists associated with the Network and represent some of the inquiries made by callers who use our Hopeline.

The Cancer Hopeline is a toll free consultative telephone service available to any Kentuckian who has a cancer-related problem. Qualified counselors take calls Monday-Friday from 9-5 and return recorded messages the next working day. They do not diagnose cancer, recommend treatment for individual cases, nor dispense money. Counselors do provide consultations with specialists as well as support and understanding. Because of its designation by the National Cancer Institute as Kentucky's Cancer Information Service, the Hopeline has rapid access to the latest cancer information. All matters are treated confidentially. Call the Cancer Hopeline toll free at 1-800-4-CANCER, or write us at McDowell Cancer Network, 915 South Limestone Street, Lexington, Ky. 40536-0084.

Q. I have just learned that I may have thyroid cancer. If so, it is probably the result of radiation treatments which I had for enlarged tonsils as a child. How can this be since I was cared for by a doctor? How dangerous is thyroid cancer? Is there an alternative to surgery?

A. The cause or causes of thyroid cancer are not fully understood. However it is known that the incidence of this disease is greater than would normally be expected among persons who received radiation treatments to the head or neck area during childhood or infancy. For several decades beginning in the 1920's, babies and children were treated with x-rays or radium for various head and neck conditions, including the enlarged tonsils you mentioned, fungal infections of the scalp such as ringworm and acne. At the time, no one was aware of the dangerous side effects of such treatments. As a result, both cancerous and non-cancerous thyroid tumors are now being detected

GRETHEL HOMEMAKERS

The Grethel Homemakers met Tuesday, January 3, at 6:30 p.m. at the Grethel Baptist Church annex. President Arietta Hall called the meeting to order and devotions were led by Mrs. Glenna Evans.

Each member brought an 18-inch gingham square, embroidery thread and hoop, and Mrs. Frances Pitts taught them to do Tennerife, which is the same as Mountain lace, or chicken scratch. Completed squares will be brought to the February 6 meeting.

Those attending were Arietta Hall, Christine Crisp, Shirley Hamilton, Glenna Evans, and Eileen Martin.

MEETING ANNOUNCEMENT

The Executive Committee of the Council on Higher Education will meet on January 12, at 2 p.m. (ET) at the Capitol Plaza Hotel, Frankfort, Kentucky.

in greater than expected numbers of people as long as 40 or 50 years after irradiation for benign conditions in childhood.

Cancer of the thyroid is relatively rare and accounts for only about one percent of all cancer incidence. It is usually curable. Even those patients whose disease has spread to lymph nodes in the neck at the time of diagnosis usually can be treated successfully. Surgery is the treatment of choice for all types of thyroid cancer. The operation may be followed by radiation to destroy any stray cancer cells. Chemotherapy has been effective in some cases where the cancer has spread beyond the thyroid itself, and the administration of thyroid hormones is part of the treatment of some thyroid cancers.

The National Cancer Institute recommends that persons who received radiation to the head or neck during childhood, as well as anyone who feels a lump in the neck or throat area, should consult a physician. Those who have a history of radiation treatment during childhood should be re-examined every one or two years.

For answers to your cancer or cancer-related questions, call the Cancer Hopeline toll free at 1-800-4-CANCER weekdays from 9-5. You may also write to us at 915 South Limestone Street, Lexington, Ky. 40536-0084.

Huntin' And Fishin'

By DOUG HENSLEY
7th District Commissioner
Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources

The 1983 hunting and fishing season is history. Many hunting and fishing success stories are floating around and you have to be the judge whether to believe or not believe. However, there is certainly one thing you can believe; our hunting and fishing in Kentucky is continuing to improve. Every year we see more game being harvested and more fish being caught. Our Department of Fish and Wildlife is working hard to see that our sportsmen get the full benefit of their hunting and fishing license. We have the only department in state government that is self-maintained, and thanks to our great sportsmen, we will continue to improve and develop our fish and wildlife resources.

Here in Eastern Kentucky we are seeing our rabbit population coming back. Our squirrel population is most always great, as is our grouse population. Some quail are starting to show up and our turkey restoration is going very well. We have an experimental deer stocking program already started in Knott Co. This program will consist of stocking 500 deer in the shortest period of time. Hopefully, these numbers of deer will withstand poaching and wild dogs so that we can have deer herds in Eastern Kentucky as do the other parts of the state. Our thanks go out to Tom Young and his staff at Ballard Co. Wildlife Management Area for the great job they're doing in trapping the deer being sent to Knott Co.

Our fishing in Eastern Kentucky seems to be progressing; however, one problem that we face is that most of our lakes are flood control reservoirs. This means the water goes up and down and this hinders our fish population. The department will continue to stock our lakes, streams, and ponds to insure that our fishermen get the full benefit of their sport.

In their last meeting the Department of Fish and Wildlife Commission voted 8 to 1 to install an idle speed only regulation for Pan Bowl Lake in Breathitt Co. The former regulation was 10 H.P. limit. The commission's feeling of this regulation was that an idle speed only would give away every fisherman an equal opportunity to harvest fish at Pan Bowl Lake. A survey through the Jackson Times was taken and only 46 sportsmen responded with only 2 wanting to keep the 10 H.P. limit. The commission was presented a petition with over 300 signatures wanting an idle speed only. I personally think this will be a fair and adequate regulation if it is not abused. However, if the problem of speeding or water skiing on Pan Bowl Lake becomes evident, then the commission will change the regulation back to a 10 H.P. limit. The Department of Fish and Wildlife is working hard to insure that the Kentucky sportsmen receive every opportunity to enjoy our fish and wildlife resources. However, the sportsmen also have an obligation. The department and the sportsmen need to work together, "United We Stand, Divided We Fall", to insure that we have continuing success in our great state.

We have sincere and dedicated conservation officers in our 7th District, as well as in our entire state, and we need to assist them in any way to insure the progress of our fish and wildlife resources.

Please! If anyone sees any fish or game violation, report it to your local conservation officer. If you can't get in touch with him, in the near future there will be a toll free telephone number in Frankfort for reporting violations. Remember "Poachers are Thieves" and as sportsmen we cannot let a few violators destroy everything we have worked so very hard for.

Also, you can join your local Sportsmen Clubs and become active with the League of Kentucky Sportsmen. That is one of the best ways I know to keep informed on what's happening within your district and the department. Also, it's the best way to voice your opinions and ideas.

Betsy Layne Falls In Tourney Finals

(Statistics by Maleta Campbell)

Hampered by injuries, the Betsy Layne Bobcats fell Saturday night to Magoffin county in the championship game of the Paintsville Invitational Tournament.

Missing their two injured starters, Brett Meade and Chris Conn, the Bobcats nonetheless turned in some good performances during the tourney with their opening game a 44-39 win over Morgan county. Betsy Layne scorers included Dwayne Kidd 11, Levi Hamilton 10, Jeff Campbell 8, Jimmy Parsons 8, Lester Newsome 5 and Duran Hall 2.

In semi-final play the Bobcats downed Russell 68-50. Scoring for BLHS was as follows—Levi Hamilton 19, Dwayne Kidd 14, Parsons 13, Lester Newsome 10, Duran Hall 4 and Mike Conn 2.

In the championship game, Betsy Layne played hard throughout but lost a heartbreaker, 52-50. For Betsy Layne scorers were Hamilton 15, Parsons 11, Kidd 8, Newsome 8, Campbell 4, Duran Hall 2.

I'm a firm believer that we can have anything we want if we're willing to sacrifice and work for it; so, sportsmen, let's get cracking. Join a Sportsmen Club, get involved, support your conservation officers, and take a stand for our fish and wildlife resources. Let it never be said that our generation didn't leave the younger generation of sportsmen something they can enjoy and be proud of.

If anyone has any comments or suggestions, please feel free to write: Doug Hensley, Box 775, Hazard, Ky. 41701. Hearing from you will be greatly appreciated.

As your commissioner, I have dedicated myself to represent the sportsmen in the 7th District and protect the fish and wildlife resources of this state the only way I know how: Hard Work. Good Huntin' and Fishin'!

Outdoor Recreation Program To Be Funded

For the second consecutive year, Kentucky will receive over $1.1 million for public outdoor recreation, Richard D. Cole of the Department of Local Government announced recently.

Funds will be administered through the state's Land and Water Conservation Fund housed in DLG. Kentucky's funding is allocated by the National Park Service of the U.S. Department of the Interior.

According to Commissioner Cole, the Land and Water Conservation Fund has been the primary source of funding for outdoor recreation projects since 1965. With the exception of a funding moratorium in 1982, Kentucky has received over $42 million since the 1965 funding cycle.

"The federal funds allocated, coupled with funding from additional sources represents a total recreation investment of $82 million through the LWCF," Commissioner Cole said. "All of Kentucky's 120 counties have participated in this funding program with high rates of project success."

Eligible projects for LWCF money include outdoor recreation site acquisition, development and rehabilitation. The NPS requires a committee of statewide representatives of recreational interests to review and evaluate LWCF project applications. An open selection process is utilized to screen projects and award grants to municipal and county governments for outdoor recreation.

Cole said the LWCF program has been responsible for widespread recreational opportunities which might not exist otherwise.

"The positive results and reactions we have experienced from past LWCF projects have proven this to be a highly popular and successful program," Commissioner Cole added. "With the 1984 funding, we hope to follow this established pattern and further contribute to a statewide network of outdoor recreational facilities that has become a source of pride and national recognition for the Commonwealth."

Local and county governments may apply for program consideration through their respective Area Development District.

The Northern Kentucky Easter Seal Center at Covington provided rehabilitation services to 2760 children and adults in 1983.

Donorama Great Success

By PAT PHILLIPS
The Third Annual Donorama was held at the Central Kentucky Blood Center's Prestonsburg Donor Center, December 20 and 22, in the effort to provide blood for the holiday period. There were 90 donors which was up 26% over last year's total of 67 donors.

CKBC wishes to thank the Floyd County Times and Carla Boyd for the kick-off campaign. Announcements by Radio Stations WPRT, WMDJ and WQHY-WDOC were most helpful in reminding everyone. Marquees helped by bringing more attention at Prestonsburg High School, Jerry's Restaurant and United Federal S & L.

Thanks goes to the following who provided holiday refreshments: Pic Pac, Piggly Wiggly, Super America and IGA. Coupons were donated by Lee's Famous Recipe, Kentucky Fried Chicken, Pizza Hut and Dairy Cheer. Gifts were donated for a drawing. Russell May contributed two beautiful prints; "Jenny Wiley" was won by Charlotte Harris and "The Breaks" went to Estill Lee Carter. B. F. Casual gave a large piece of American Tourister luggage which was won by Kerry Sluss and the Odyssey-2 video game with three game cartridges was won by a first-time donor, Mark Brown. The thirteenth donor received a Christmas stocking for breaking last year's record (1258 pints in 1982); Marty Hicks enjoyed the stocking. The thirteen-hundredth donor, Debbie Roddam, received a Wicker Bell door decoration.

Posie Peddler, Jan's Florist, Jenny Wiley Florist and Allen's Flower and Gift Shop gave donors beautiful carnations. Steve Sanders and Aubrey Onkst received special gifts in the spirit of the season by saying the magic words.

A most special thanks to everyone who has helped the Prestonsburg Donor Center to grow each year and to prove the people here are very special.

Mining Subsidence To Be Seminar Topic

Mining subsidence, one of the most controversial issues associated with underground mining, will be the topic of a seminar held at Jenny Wiley State Park, February 2. The seminar is sponsored by Kentucky Senator Kenneth O. Gibson of the Sixth District. Senator Gibson is interested in proposing legislation designed to protect landowners from loss due to mining subsidence. In addition to speaking at the seminar, Gibson will conduct a panel discussion at the end of the seminar.

Other speakers on the seminar agenda include George Kelley, of the U.S. Office of Surface Mining, David Rosenbaum, of the Kentucky Natural Resources Cabinet, Willard Stanley, of Mines and Minerals, and David Short, of the Mineral Law Center. The seminar is expected to be both interesting and informative.

Registration will begin at 8 a.m. in the lobby of Jenny Wiley State lodge and the program will begin at 8:45. The registration fee is $30. Planning and arrangements for the seminar are being made by the Kentucky Geological Survey and the Institute for Mining and Minerals Research (IMMR).

To advance register, contact the IMMR's O.I.S.T.L. office at (606) 252-5535, extension 400, or write OISTL at P.O. Box 13015, Lexington, Kentucky 40512.

Greyhound Must Continue Routes

Greyhound Lines will have to continue bus service on U.S. 27 between Lexington and Covington and on U.S. 460 between Mt. Sterling and Paintsville, but will be allowed to drop bus service on two other routes.

John A. Stephenson, deputy secretary and commissioner of vehicle regulation, issued the final order this week on Greyhound's application to abandon bus service on four routes in Kentucky.

The order approves Greyhound's application to abandon service between Hopkinsville and Guthrie on U.S. 41 and between Rush and Morehead on U.S. 60.

It was Greyhound's second application to discontinue service on U.S. 460 and U.S. 27. The first application was denied in March 1983.

"The testimony presented at the public hearing last fall indicated considerable legislative and public concern over possible cancellation of the U.S. 27 and U.S. 460 routes," Stephenson said.

"There is significant use of these routes and no reasonable alternative public transportation I believe these two routes must be maintained to ensure adequate public transportation for the people who depend on it," he said.

Transportation Secretary Dr. Floyd G. Poore said Greyhound can apply to the Interstate Commerce Commission to abandon the routes.

"I have directed Deputy Secretary Stephenson to testify on the need for continuing bus service on these routes, if necessary, at any ICC hearings," Poore said.

In the application, Greyhound proposed to continue service at Covington and Lexington, using the interstate. Service would have been discontinued along U.S. 27 at Newport, Fort Thomas, Falmouth, Cynthiana and Paris.

The proposal to stop service between Mt. Sterling and Paintsville would have left 12 eastern Kentucky communities without service. Mt. Sterling and Paintsville would have continued to be served by other routes.

The twelve communities that would have lost service are Camargo, Jeffersonville, Frenchburg, Wellington, Ezel, Grassy Creek, West Liberty, Bloomington, Salyersville, Falcon, Oil Springs and Staffordsville.

THE NEED FOR ORTHODONTICS

Q. When is orthodontic work necessary?

A. The two chief physical reasons for orthodontics are the disharmony among individual teeth (overcrowding) and the inability of the upper and lower jaws to meet (occlude) properly.

This takes in three major conditions. In the case of OVERCROWDING, malposed, tilted and rotated teeth interfere with proper biting and chewing. Upper teeth can no longer mesh with lower teeth as they should, and are difficult to clean, thus causing more cavities. BUCKED TEETH, the most common problem, is characterized by a prominent upper jaw, or teeth that jut too far out over lower teeth. With a PROTRUSIVE JAW, the lower jaw extends further forward than the upper jaw so that the lower teeth are in front of the upper. All three of these conditions can make eating and speaking difficult. Regular visits to your dentist can help spot problems which need further investigation.

Rural Med Scholarship Applications Being Taken

The RKMSF is accepting applications from Kentucky medical students, who have been accepted at University of Kentucky or University of Louisville Medical School. The fund provides a $4,000 loan per year to a recipient, who is willing to practice in Rural Kentucky for one year for each loan received. Special forgiveness of loans is available to those who practice in Kentucky's 85 critical counties.

The fund is the oldest and most successful in the nation. In its 38 years, the Rural Kentucky Medical Scholarship Fund has loaned more than $2.3 million and has placed 450 physicians in Rural Kentucky. Sixty percent of the recipients are still practicing in rural or critical areas of the State, and another 16% are still practicing in metropolitan areas.

Anyone interested in applying for a scholarship should contact the RKMSF office at KMA Headquarters, 3532 Ephraim McDowell Drive, Louisville, Ky. 40205, or call 502-459-9790. Deadline for applications is April 15, 1984.

Indian Ocean Atoll Is Scientists Dream

By THOMAS HARNEY
Smithsonian News Service

The two chartered sailboats carrying the Smithsonian expedition had been at sea in the Western Indian Ocean for four days when the scientists spotted their destination. Peering through field glasses, they could almost feel the energy of the sea crashing against the forbidding coastline of the tropical island—Aldabra.

Aldabra. The very name sounds exotic, conjuring up a setting from The Arabian Nights. Indeed, its name is believed to be derived from the Arabic words meaning "the green." Aldabra is an island that many scientists dream of studying. It is one of the last unspoiled natural sanctuaries on our planet—an ideal location for scientific research on evolutionary processes.

Actually, Aldabra is not a single island, but rather four coral-based islands arranged in an elongated ring enclosing a lagoon peppered with still more islands. This geological formation is called an "atoll." Aldabra's 140-square-mile lagoon—dwarfing the islands' collective 60 square miles—is the world's largest atoll lagoon.

In this setting are the only surviving colonies of the Indian Ocean giant tortoise and the last surviving colony of flightless birds of the Western Indian Ocean, as well as large numbers of unique plant and animal species.

That Aldabra is so rich and unspoiled owes much to geography. Located in the southernmost Seychelles Islands, 400 miles east of Africa, the remote atoll lies off the world's major shipping lanes in a region lashed for much of the year by fierce winds and rough seas. There is no landing strip for airplanes; to reach the atoll, one must charter an ocean-going vessel or wait for a ship that delivers supplies several times a year from Mahe, the main island of the Seychelles, 650 miles away.

On April 1, 1983, after months of planning, the Smithsonian team reached Aldabra. From the deck of one of the boats, Dr. Brian Kensley, a zoologist and leader of the Smithsonian expedition, could see the ranch-style buildings of the spartan Aldabra Research Laboratory and a wide beach, the only low point along Aldabra's rugged, steep coast where a small craft can make a relatively safe and easy landing.

The scientists had made the difficult voyage to begin a five-year investigation of the atoll's reef and lagoon. "When we're finished," Kensley says, "we will have a much more complete knowledge of its complex marine communities and a broader understanding of how coral reefs function in general."

Coral reefs, he points out, are important ecological systems in many parts of the world. Not only are they builders and protectors of land, but they also support an abundance of animals, major sources of food in the tropics.

Accompanying Kensley on the expedition were biologists Dr. Kristian Fauchald, Michael Carpenter, Diane Bohmhauser, Michael Sweeney and Robert Sims from the Smithsonian National Museum of Natural History; Dr. Mark Hay from the University of North Carolina Institute of Marine Sciences; James Thomas from Newfound Harbor Laboratory, Big Pine Key, Fla., and Dr. Patricia Hutchings from the Australian National Museum, Sydney.

Aldabra is managed and controlled by the Seychelles Island Foundation, an independent international trust formed for the purpose of conserving the atoll in perpetuity. The foundation maintains boats, a network of field camps and a research station for 15 scientists on Ile Picard, one of the atoll's major islands. The only permanent residents of the atoll are the station's manager and 10 to 12 Seychellois workers and their families.

Using the Ile Picard station as a base during their 19-day sojourn, the members of the expedition set out to explore the atoll's remarkable habitats. All of Aldabra's land surface was formed from an ancient coral reef, about 125,000 years old, now raised 10 feet or more above the present sea level by geological processes. As a result, Aldabra has a larger land area and a more varied landscape than an ordinary sea-level atoll.

But the rough and deeply eroded dead coral terrain makes moving about very difficult. Another obstacle is the Pemphigus, a dense, wiry shrubbery that grows in thickets 8 feet high, covering large areas of the island's interior.

"We first found out how rugged the going is," Michael Carpenter recalls, "when we hiked back into Ile Picard's interior to investigate aquatic life in the deep sinkholes that pit the atoll. As soon as we got off the well-worn paths, we had to pick our way very slowly. We knew we'd better not slip because the rock is razor-sharp."

Aldabra hosts a diverse array of plants, most from Africa and Madagascar originally. The Smithsonian's Dr. F. Raymond Fosberg made one of the first major modern surveys of Aldabra's vegetation in the 1960s and '70s, cataloging more than 175 species of plants, six times as many as on an ordinary atoll. Twenty species are found nowhere else.

The scientists also explored the atoll's shallow lagoon by boat, tricky business because of the tides. Twice a day, water levels rapidly fall 8 feet, and a boat can easily be left high and dry for hours in the lagoon if one is not cautious.

By scuba diving in the channels separating the islands, where the tide goes in and out at rates of up to 12 knots, the scientists found rich growths of sea grass, coral and other marine plants and animals. "While underwater," Robert Sims says, "we could see large schools of reef fish, including large sharks, passing through the channels with the outgoing tide and then returning with the incoming tide."

The mangrove forests fringing the lagoon make Aldabra one of the world's great sea birds islands. Nesting in these trees are the largest populations of frigate birds in the Western Indian Ocean, as well as huge numbers of red-footed boobies.

Thousands of other birds—including red-tailed and white-tailed tropic birds, noddies, Audubon's shearwaters and terns—can be observed nesting on the many islands in the lagoon. They feed in the shallow waters of the reef flats or within the lagoon itself, along with other wading birds—herons, egrets, sacred ibis and flamingos.

Bohmhauser, Carpenter, Thomas and Sweeney, accompanied by two Seychellois guides, crossed the lagoon to South Island on the atoll's eastern shore, a four-hour boat trip. From there, they made their way across a long stretch of rough terrain to a field camp at Cinq Cases on the coast. They had come to this part of the atoll to collect specimens from the coastal reef flats and the area's brackish-water ponds; while there, they had the opportunity to see one of the atoll's biggest concentrations of tortoises.

Aldabra is the last outpost of the Indian Ocean giant tortoise. Today, more than 150,000 of these huge animals live on Aldabra, giving the atoll its "Lost World" atmosphere. Despite their great size—the largest stands 2 feet high, 4 feet long and 3 feet wide—they are harmless. In the Cinq Cases region, they browse like herds of cattle, keeping patches of grass clipped as closely as a tennis court.

"During the daytime, while we were working," Carpenter says, "they slept under trees to escape the heat. But in the morning and early evening, they wandered around our camp. Only a fence in front of the camp kept them from lumbering in and knocking things over."

On their return to Ile Picard, the biologists stopped for a few hours on Middle Island to collect invertebrates from the reef flats and from under the eroded, undercut coastal cliffs. While ashore, they encountered another of Aldabra's unique rare and endangered animals, the white-throated rail, the last surviving flightless bird of the Western Indian Ocean. An estimated 5,000 of these birds live on Middle Island.

Most of the reef research during the three weeks was carried out on the shore of the Ile Picard research station. On the Ile Picard flats, Kensley, Fauchald and Hutchings collected small crustaceans and worms. "One of our great interests," Fauchald explains, "is collecting the tiny reef-building plants and animals that make up the largest base of the atoll's food chain." Expedition members also moved progressively out from the shallows into deep water habitats, using scuba gear down to 160 feet, collecting sea grasses, sponges, corals and other marine animals that inhabit Aldabra's spectacular reef.

This study marks the first time that the Smithsonian has undertaken a comprehensive, systematic study of the atoll, although other Institution researchers have studied Aldabra in the past. In 1892, Dr. W.L. Abbott, a naturalist associated with the Smithsonian, explored a number of the islands of the Western Indian Ocean and sent back to the Institution a large and important collection of flora and fauna. Of all the islands on which he landed, Aldabra excited him the most. Kensley, who will again lead this year's expedition, understands why.

"Before I left for Aldabra," he recalls, "I talked with scientists who told me that Aldabra was the most scientifically interesting place they had ever been in their lives. Now I find I feel the same way. I didn't want to leave."

Forest Service Asks Public's Comments

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Forest Service is inviting public comments for use in determining what shares of the nation's timber, range, outdoor recreation, wildlife, wilderness, water, and other renewable resource outputs the agency should help produce during the next 50 years.

Forest Service Chief R. Max Peterson said public comments on the draft environmental impact statement for the 1985-2030 Resources Planning Act Program issued on January 10, 1984, will be used to update the program which helps to guide Forest Service activities. Those activities include cooperative assistance programs with states and private landowners, forest and range research, and management of the 191 million acre National Forest System.

This is the third such program prepared by the Forest Service to fulfill requirements of the Forest and Rangeland Renewable Resources Planning Act of 1974 (RPA), Peterson said. The first RPA program was developed in 1975, and it was updated in 1980.

RPA requires the Forest Service to identify the role it should play in providing renewable resources to meet future needs of the nation. The program, which guides Forest Service activities, is based on an assessment of future demand for and supplies of those resources. A 1984 supplement to the assessment prepared in 1979 indicates that demand for most products will continue to rise rapidly. Supplies will increase also but at a slower rate leading to a widening gap between supply and demand unless steps are taken now to prevent it, Peterson said.

The draft program statement includes nine alternatives for Forest Service activities. The alternatives range from one substantially below the current level and mix of activities to several which are substantially higher for some or all resources. Peterson said the Forest Service has not selected a preferred alternative.

Comments on the draft environmental impact statement document are due April 9, 1984.

Comments from reviewers should be sent to the Regional Forester, U.S. Forest Service, 1720 Peachtree Road, Atlanta, GA 30367. Copies of the document can be requested from the Regional Forester.

FUNDS RAISED FOR MAYTOWN SCHOOL

Langley, Ky., Nov. 2 (Spl.)—A pie supper was held at the school building Friday night to raise funds for the support of the basketball teams. Despite an inferior lighting system, the receipts were beyond expectations; $114.00 was contributed by the citizens, which will enable the boys and girls to buy more equipment. Several of the pies went at a very high price. The highest went for $10.50 to Oliver Reynolds and was baked by Mrs. H. N. Cooley and Mrs. Philip Hagans for Beryl Turner. Edd Moore won out over his big brother, Jones, by a nickel and bought Christie Allen's pie for $7.05. The contest for the most beautiful girl was a close race between Misses Virginia Hemingway and Mabel Cooley. Miss Hemingway finally won out over her pretty student and received the large cake baked by Miss Shirley Allen.

An order was sent out next day for suits for the boys' basketball team and three new balls.

HONOR STUDENTS NAMED

Mrs. Edgar May, teacher of the fourth and fifth grades, reports the following as having attained honor during the first month for high grade:

Fourth year, all "A" list—Emma Risner, Ben Baker, Jr.; Ed Sutton, Jr., Naomi Allen, Charles Stapleton, Inez Allen, Carl Lamar Combs.

Fifth year, all "A" list—Harriet Allen, Stanton Allen, Hildred Baldrige, Leah Dye, Edna Allen, John Marshall, Harmon Tussey, T. A. Combs.

ENJOY PICNIC

The Maytown Business College enjoyed a pleasant afternoon Thursday when they journeyed to a nearby hill for a picnic. About twenty-five attended the gathering and all were students of the Business College here. Miss Mamie Cooper, teacher, was hostess and several of the other teachers were present.

ATTEND SPEAKING

Dr. J. H. Allen, Prof. Boughton, S. B. May, Townsel Combs, W. A. Stewart, Professor Wells, H. F. May, Jones A. Moore and Ray Stephens attended the public speaking at Prestonsburg Friday and all came home in cars, with the exception of H. F. May.

BASKETBALL GAME POSTPONED

The basketball game between Maytown and Betsy Layne was called off because of an event of major importance in the school work. The game will be played at Maytown Saturday. While Mr. Wells was in Prestonsburg he scheduled a game with the high school team to be played here the last Saturday before Thanksgiving. The girl teams will also play. Mr. Wells promised Mr. Allison a return game.

THE KENTUCKIAN SOCIETY

The Kentuckian Society gave a thirty-minute program Friday afternoon before the student body and faculty. It was in the form of a burlesque of the faculty and the students seemed to enjoy the mimicry of dress and actions of the faculty. The play consisted of two fifteen-minute scenes: the first a mock chapel meeting of the teachers, and the last a faculty meeting, supposed to be secret. Those participating were:

Rudolph Hayes as Professor Boughton, Ray Stephens as H. N. Cooley, Ray Allen as Professor Wells, Judson Hayes as Jones Moore, Theckley Osborne as Miss Cooper, Avanel Cooley as Miss Callihan, Edna Halbert as Mrs. May, Bola Turner as Miss Hemingway, and Ellen Hayes as Miss Cunningham.

KENTUCKIANS LOSE

The Kentuckian basketball team met the Columbian team in a game Friday afternoon and came out on the short end of a 20 to 16 score. It was a hard-fought game in which our boys fought gamely to force the game into "extra innings," so to speak.

WOMAN'S CLUB

On Friday afternoon last, the Woman's Club met with Mrs. N. C. Boughton whose new home was very attractive. Living and dining rooms were decorated with autumn leaves, gorgeous in their many colors. Banks of nasturtiums were placed to good effect, and a few suggestions of approaching Halloween were final touches.

After the business session, the hostess was assisted by her mother, Mrs. J. M.

Jones, of Ft. Valley, Ga., in serving a delicious salad course and ice tea.

XMAS BAZAAR PLANS

The Christmas sale given annually for a number of years by the Maytown Improvement Club is expected to be a tremendous success this year, because more elaborate plans and extensive preparations are being made, than ever before.

Saturday, December 3, has been set for the date, 10 a. m. the opening hour, for the convenience of many who arrive by train.

Arrangements have been completed for apron, fancy work, novelty, toy, food and candy booths.

SOCIAL ITEMS

Miss Juliette Callihan had as guests this week-end her mother, Mrs. Callihan, and sister, Mrs. Lake, both of Russell, Ky.

On Wednesday afternoon of last week, the following enjoyed a picnic on the hillside: Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Baker and Ben, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Boughton and Newell, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Webb and Eugene, Mesdames J. M. Jones and Edgar May, Misses Anna Cunningham and Georgia Salisbury, George, Ralph, Claude and Harriett Allen.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Cassidy now occupy the home recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. William Ward.

A number of visitors were with us in Sunday School Sunday, but several were absent whom we hope to have next Sunday.

Feed Grain Program Signup Begins Jan. 16

January 16 to February 24 will be the signup period for eligible persons to apply to participate in the 1984 Feed Grain Program. Eligible persons are those who have a 1984 corn base on their farms (notices of bases were mailed eligible farmers on November 30, 1983.)

For 1984, there will be no Payment-in-Kind Program. Farmers who sign up will plant no more than 90% of their corn bases and will devote to Acreage Conservation Reserve an acreage equal to 11.11% of his planted acres. Acreage Conservation Reserve (ACR) is the new term for what used to be called set-aside.

Benefits of the Program include eligibility for loans, the farmer-owned reserve, and target prices, along with deficiency payments. In 1984, a special emphasis is being put on retiring severely eroding land from production by an additional incentive, the ACP/ACR Special Project where ASCS will share at 90% the cost of establishing permanent vegetative cover on the required set-aside.

Those who plan to apply or need further information should contact the local ASCS office.

IS A TRADITIONAL SERVICE NEEDED?
It is—if we are to retain the dignity and pride as set by our national character. It was Gladstone, the noted English statesman, who put it so well when he said: "Show me the manner in which a nation or community cares for its dead and I will measure with mathematical exactness the tender sympathies of its people, their respect for the law of the land, and their loyalty to high ideals."
Whole nations are saddened and go into mourning when their leaders die. Recently, the United States mourned one of its favorite senators, Minnesota's Hubert H. Humphrey—whose traditional and full-service funeral was of national significance. On Memorial Day and Veterans Day and to render tribute to national leaders who have died, we fly our American flags at half-staff. We observe these traditions with patriotic and religious ceremonies. They, are, in effect, national funeral ceremonies, indicates Dr. Arthur Freese ("Help for your grief" 1977). He feels these national rituals periodically help our country deal with death, and we agree. We will be glad to discuss this in detail with you.

Honored on 50th Anniversary

Elmer and Letha Williams, of McGuffey, O., formerly of the Middle Creek Road, had planned a quiet day at home on their 50th wedding anniversary, but it didn't turn out that way. Their three children surprised them with a large gathering of friends and family at their home on Friday evening, December 30.

They received many gifts and cards and had a large wedding cake decorated in gold and white.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams were married December 30, 1933 at Bonanza, and their first home was on State Road Fork of Middle Creek. They moved to McGuffey, O. in 1937 but say they still get lonely for the hills of Kentucky. Their children are Estill Lee Williams, of Ada, O., Mrs. Wayne Prater, of Lima, O., and Mrs. Bill Brummett, of Alger, Ohio. They have 11 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Mr. Williams is the son of the late Harrison and Izania Richardson Williams, and Mrs. Williams is the daughter of the late G.W. (Wash) and Rachel Music Holbrook.

Coal Bills Introduced In General Assembly

As state legislators convened the 1984 session of the General Assembly last Tuesday, two bills of importance to coal field residents were among the first to be introduced.

House Bill 32 would change the abusive interpretations currently allowed by the so-called "broad form" mineral deeds. Sponsored by Rep. Greg Stumbo, (D-Prestonsburg) the proposed legislation would give surface owners the right of consent before certain types of mining took place on their land.

Broad form deeds were generally signed around the turn of the century when surface mining was not in common use. Thus, it is claimed, landowners did not intend to convey the right to destroy the surface. However, state courts have given mineral owners the right to surface mine, even though this was not part of the original deed.

Stumbo's bill would change this, making it necessary for surface owners to give their consent before surface mining could occur.

A proposal to remove the property tax exemption from unmined coal property has been introduced by Reps. Clayton Little (Pike county) and William Donermeyer (Bellevue). House Bill 92 calls for the taxing of mineral property at the same rate and by the same methods as all other real property. Protections from the tax are included for small landowners and farmers who are not mining their coal.

According to the Legislative Research Commission, an unmined minerals tax would raise millions of dollars in revenues currently being lost, with about two-thirds of this going directly to school districts and local governments in coal counties.

House Bill 92 has been assigned to the House Appropriations and Revenue Committee, which is expected to hold a public hearing on the issue within two weeks. The broad form deed bill has been assigned to the House Judicial-Civil Committee.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Grover Shepherd wishes to express their appreciation and thanks to all who sent food and flowers during this time of sorrow. Thanks to the ministers for their comforting words and to the Hall Funeral Home for being so kind.

FIRST AID FACTS

(Courtesy of Highlands Regional Medical Center, Our Lady of the Way Hospital, and the Emergency Physicians of Medical Associates.)

CLOSED WOUND

A closed wound, or internal injury, should always be examined by a physician. Highlands Regional Medical Center and Our Lady of the Way Hospital emergency departments are staffed by a physician twenty-four hours a day to treat just such emergency illnesses and injuries.

Suspect internal wounds if the patient has fallen or receive a severe body blow.

If any of the following appear after the victim has been in an accident, medical attention must be sought immediately: pain and tenderness at the site of the injury, vomit that resembles coffee grounds, coughed up blood that is bright red, pale, cold skin, rapid pulse and breathing, dizziness, swelling, restlessness and thirst.

There is little that can be done until medical assistance is reached. Keep the victim lying down and quiet. Do not give him anything to eat or drink, including water. The victim should be kept reassured as much as possible.

LeMaster Sworn In

Sen. David LeMaster, D-Paintsville, makes his first floor speech during the opening session of the 1984 General Assembly. LeMaster, who was elected to the 25th District seat in November, rose to introduce members of his family who attended his swearing-in ceremony on Jan. 3. The Legislature will meet until April 14.

New Title Law Leaves Room For Improvement

Dr. John Stephenson, deputy secretary for the department of vehicle regulation, said he is working on ways to improve Kentucky's vehicle titling and registration system.

Stephenson said he is looking at the state's regulations and laws and will propose ways of making the system easier for the states automobile owners and dealers.

The new title law as implemented last September. Under the system, vehicles are registered in the county of residence. Vehicle titles are issued from Frankfort.

On Jan. 3, another law went into effect that requires vehicle owners to pay the property tax on their cars at the time they are registered. The property tax is collected by the county clerks for the Revenue Cabinet.

"With the implementation of these two major changes in a short period of time, we have experienced some problems," Stephenson said. "And there is understandable confusion on the part of the public."

"Most of the problems will disappear as everyone becomes more familiar with the system," he said.

"We have contact people working with the county clerks and vehicle dealers to solve problems as soon as they occur," he said.

The department of information systems, which manages the computer system, has twenty teams working the county clerks offices on technical problems.

"I will be working with Revenue Secretary Gary Gillis to improve our current methods for registering cars and collecting the tax on vehicles," Stephenson said.

A Low Sodium Diet for Health

Salt is second only to sugar as an additive in the American diet. As a consequence, medical scientists find, we ingest 10 to 20 times the sodium our bodies need or can eliminate.

A number of recent studies have indicated that over-consumption of sodium is linked to hypertension (high blood pressure) which is, in turn, cited as a major cause of heart and kidney disease, stroke and death.

Behavioural scientists tell us that our early vegetarian ancestors ate very little salt, probably less than 500 mg. a day. Even today, it is agreed, that physiologically we need less than 1,000 mg. (1 gram) of salt in our daily diet. In spite of that we are eating, on average, 25,000 mg. to 35,000 mg. Because early man used little salt our bodies hoard sodium and excrete potassium. This creates the problems with our bodies.

It is generally agreed that desire for salt is acquired and can be controlled with very little difficulty. Many baby food manufacturers have eliminated salt in their products without a discernible change in the eating habits of infants. In fact newborn babies express a distaste for salt.

In spite of this many baby foods are loaded with sodium. The average baby gets about 25,000 mg. per day.

The diet of babies and young children contains so much salt that they become "hooked" and demand ever increasing amounts. The cravings are evidenced by the teen-agers preference for salty snack foods, potato chips and fast foods.

The introduction of excessive amounts of highly-salted foods into the diet of our young has resulted in a population which averages two to four teaspoons (2,000 mg. per teaspoon) of salt per day in its diet. Although the body needs only a fraction of that amount. The result is 50 million persons in the United States suffering from high blood pressure.

A nutrition task force of the non-profit Consumer Education Research Center has studied this situation and compiled a book to help break the salt habit. It lists the salt content of over 800 foods, liquors and medicines. The book, Salt And Your Health, is available for $4 plus $1 for mailing from CERC, P.O. Box 336S, South Orange, N.J. 07079.

Even pets are given diets extremely high in salt content. The makers say that this is necessary to encourage the animals to eat the products. However, meat-eating wild animals eat no salt except that found in the other animals they eat. Thus we subject the pets we love to the same diseases that we cause in ourselves.

According to Robert L. Berko, Executive Director of the Center, there are many ways to season foods without salt. For instance, he says, the flavor of asparagus can be enhanced by using garlic, lemon juice, vinegar or onion. For beef, Mr. Berko suggests using bay leaf, dry mustard powder, green peppers, marjoran, fresh mushrooms, nutmeg, onion, pepper, sage or thyme. The book lists alternate seasonings for meats, fish, poultry, vegetables and soups.

The consumer leader cautions against the excessive use of salt substitutes since they use potassium in place of sodium and can result in problems associated with too much potassium.

"For those who require more specific ways to avoid sodium, we have included low-salt recipes and sources where other recipes can be found," says Mr. Berko.

He tells us, "We think we can tell what foods are salty. And many times we are right. Obviously sauerkraut, pickles, potato chips and herring are salty. But did you know that 2 slices of Pepperidge Farm White Bread (234 mg.) contains more sodium than a one ounce bag of Lay's Potato Chips; that 1/2 cup of cottage cheese contains as much sodium as 32 potato chips or that 1/2 cup of Jello Chocolate Instant Pudding and Pie Filling (404 mg.) gives you more sodium than three slices of Oscar Meyer Sugar-Cured Bacon (302 mg.)?"

"Did you know that dehydrated chicken or beef noodle soup contains 1200 mg. of sodium and Parmesan cheese (grated), 528 mg. per serving. Regular whole milk contains 195 mg. per eight ounce glass while instant whole milk delivers 470 mg. A modest serving of canned shrimp brings you a giant 1,955 mg.; chili con carne with beans (canned) 1,194 mg. per cup; stuffing mix 1,131 mg. and Kentucky Fried Chicken (3 pc.), a whopping 2,285 mg. of sodium."

Mr. Berko reminds us, "Most adults need less than 1,000 mg. of sodium per day for their physiological well-being."

"We must be vigilant and know the sodium content of the foods we eat and it essential to our health that we develop a plan to reduce our salt intake," he stresses.

The Center's study suggests that we immediately cut down to half the salt we normally use in our cooking and reduce gradually from there. Don't add salt before tasting foods. Replace foods high in salt with those low in salt content. Try to prepare as much of the food you eat as possible. Manufacturers use three times as much sodium in cooking as the home cook.

By Ethlie Ann Vare

UPDATE

Michael Jackson will reunite with his brothers for a major tour in 1984, to be sponsored by Pepsi Cola. The price tag for Pepsi linking its name with Jackson's is estimated to be $10 million.

Next month, Duran Duran will be embarking on its first United States tour since attaining superstar status. Expect to see their pretty faces adorning many magazine covers.

Yoko Ono and the three surviving Beatles have been meeting to discuss the dissolution of Apple Records, which released the Beatles' last albums. The company could be worth as much as a billion dollars.

Def Leppard, still smarting from lead singer Joe Elliot's anti-Latino remark at a concert, donated $15,000 to Hispanic charity groups and have publicly apologized for the gaffe.

The English Beat announced to the world that they were looking for a new lead singer, and have so far received more than 300 audition tapes in the mail. They haven't found anyone yet, so there's still time to send your cassette.

tour because of what the record company called "exhaustion." Miss Davis told reporters, however, that she had to undergo surgery to remove a cancerous growth. The sultry vocalist is OK now.

Unlikely duet of the year: Willie Nelson and Julio Iglesias are getting together for a Columbia recording.

Wendy O. Williams, laughing stock of the Plasmatics, is making a solo LP produced by Gene Simmons of Kiss.

Our quote of the week comes from Martin Fry, lead singer of ABC. Asked what he would do to improve the state of popular music, he replied: "I'd buy a big boat, and I'd fill it with people like REO Speedwagon, Styx, Asia, Yes and Foreigner. And I'd row it out into the middle of the Pacific and detonate it from a distance. That'd be a good start."

Journey's Steve Perry turns 31 on Jan. 22.

SPORTS PROBE

Greatest 60 minutes Or just one big hype?

GREAT STUFF — CBS calls the Super Bowl the "greatest 60 minutes in sports." It has to be the most greatly hyped 60 minutes in sports.

At least the network doesn't call the day "Super Sunday" anymore. Maybe now they will call it "Great Sunday" instead.

When that network televises today's Super Bowl XVIII from Tampa Stadium in Tampa, Fla., at 4:30 p.m. (ET) the game will be preceded by two hours of more greatness. "The Super Bowl Today." It will feature Jimmy the Greek, Phyllis George and other football greats, including newscaster Charles Osgood.

There is something great about the prices it is getting for commercials. Advertisers paid $450,000 per 30-second spot — and that was the bargain rate for early buyers. Latecomers were charged an extra $30,000 for their half-minute messages.

ABC, who will televise the big show next year, is reported to have already sold six spots at half a million dollars each for Super Bowl XIX.

Why so much? In addition to the 100 million viewers in the United States exposed to the Super Bowl game, which in its 17-year history has seldom proven to be a great game, it will be seen by potential buyers in Canada, Mexico, Australia, lia, Italy, Japan, the United Kingdom, Ireland and Korea, not to forget the many American military bases around the world.

John Madden

CBS is also making a great effort to make sure the game is the best televised event thus far. Pat Summerall, who has had broadcast assignments on 16 of the 17 Super Bowls, will do the play by play, and the analysis will be provided by the Emmy Award-winning John Madden, complete with his electric chalkboard.

The game will be covered by 20 cameras, 14 videotape machines, 100 microphones, 100 monitors and 20 miles of cable will be used. The equipment was transported to Tampa in 22 vehicles, including control trucks, office trailers and maintenance vehicles.

Are they covering the Olympics or just another "great" football game?
