McNally, Gray Said Guilty In Fraud, Conspiracy Case

A Lexington jury yesterday (Tuesday) afternoon found Charles J. McNally and James E. Gray guilty of conspiracy and mail fraud.

The decision came after a five-and-a-half hour deliberation and seven weeks of testimony from 64 prosecution and 10 defense witnesses.

Each of the charges carries a penalty of up to five years in prison. The conspiracy charge also carries a possible fine of up to $10,000, the mail-fraud charge a fine of up to $1000. U.S. District Judge Bernard T. Moynahan set an April 19 sentencing date.

McNally, manager of the East Kentucky Auto Parts store here, and Gray, a cabinet secretary under Gov. Julian Carroll, were tried on charges stemming from the distribution of state insurance commissions between 1975 and 1979.

The prosecution argued that McNally was a "front man" for Gray and former Democratic state Chairman Howard "Sonny" Hunt, Jr., who allegedly set up a dummy corporation through which to funnel to themselves and others $200,000 in commissions from the state workers' compensation insurance policy.

The defense claimed the firm, Seton Investments, Inc., was set up to go into the real-estate business and was owned by McNally from the start. Gray claimed to have had no financial interest in Seton, contradicting prosecution arguments that he breached his duty as a public official by failing to disclose his interest in the company.

The defendants admitted receiving commissions from state insurance policies but said they had broken no laws, a point stressed by their attorneys in closing arguments Monday. Defense attorney William E. Johnson, representing Gray, also maintained that the prosecution had failed to show that the people of Kentucky were deprived of honest government—a requirement for conviction on the two charges.

McNally, whose five hours of testimony wound up the defense case, said last week that he had received $77,500 from Hunt in commissions, which he took as a reward for working "extremely hard" in Carroll's gubernatorial election campaign. "If you win, you get certain things; if you lose, you don't," he explained.

The commissions were channelled to him through the Snodgrass Insurance Agency in Allen, McNally said. Evidence in the trial indicated that the Prestonsburg businessman loaned Seton $14,000 shortly after he received a $20,000 check through Snodgrass.

According to earlier testimony, commission sharing may not be illegal in Kentucky as long as the recipient is a licensed insurance agent. McNally received his license on Dec. 13, 1977, but he had already received $25,000 some 11 days earlier, the day he signed his license application. He told the jury he thought he could begin receiving the commissions as soon as he had filed his license application.

Family Seeks To Bar Marshall Inheritance

Clyde Douglas Marshall should be blocked from inheriting any part of his wife's estate and his share should go instead to the dead woman's children, the children's guardian claims in a suit filed in circuit court here yesterday (Tuesday).

Glen Pack, of Ohio, father of Glenda

Sharon Marshall and custodian of her two children, Brent Morgan, 10, and Ashley Marshall, 1, claims in the suit that his daughter died last June 20 "as the result of intentional acts" of her husband. Marshall was acquitted by a Lexington Circuit Court jury last month of a charge of conspiring to have his wife murdered.

Under state law, Marshall is entitled to half of the property left by his wife, who died intestate, unless he is found to have intentionally caused her death.

The dead woman's estate lists assets of $55,894; she had accrued $10,188 as a participant in the Kentucky teachers' retirement fund; and Marshall is the designated beneficiary of insurance policies on her life amounting to $36,000.

Besides Marshall, the suit, which was filed by Prestonsburg attorney Arnold Turner, Jr., names as defendants Lanny Hamilton, administrator of Mrs. Marshall's estate; Woodmen of the World Insurance Co., issuer of two policies with a combined value of $20,000; Life and Casualty Insurance of Tennessee, issuer of a $4000 policy; Kentucky Central Life and Aetna Life and Casualty Insurance, each of which issued a $6,000 policy; and Teachers' Retirement Systems of Kentucky.

Any benefits from the insurance policies or retirement fund which might otherwise go to Marshall should be paid to the estate and all proceeds from the estate should go equally to the children, the suit claims.

Unless federal charges are filed against him, Marshall cannot be tried again on criminal charges stemming from his wife's death. The civil suit apparently means that the question of his involvement in her death will again have to be adjudicated, however.

To find for the plaintiffs, a civil jury would need to find only that a preponderance of evidence favored the plaintiffs' position. Criminal conviction requires that the jury find the defendant guilty beyond a reasonable doubt.

(Suits filed in circuit court present only one side of the issue in dispute.)

Library Retires 20-Year Debt

A $51,000 bond issue that financed construction of the Floyd County Library was retired with a flourish last week, Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo burning the note in a brief ceremony. Stumbo was assisted by R.B. May, left, president of a corporation formed March 1, 1964, to float the bonds.

On November 22 that year, the library building was dedicated. The county picked up the bond payments until 1968, when state funds were set aside for that purpose. Under the library program initiated by former Gov. Louie Nunn—Cliff Latta was the state senator credited with getting the Floyd project included in the grant—the library here has received $7200 annually to retire its debt.

About $10,000 is still owing on an additional section built in 1968 and the 20-year-old building is in need of major renovations, said Librarian Carolyn Hay Trauma.

After Landowners Request OSM Aid, File Suit, Here

Acting on a complaint by landowners who claimed they were ignored by state officials, a federal mining inspector Monday shut down a stripmine operating at Minnie in the name of Rep. Greg Stumbo.

Owners of properties adjacent to the stripmine asked the federal Office of Surface Mining to intervene after state officials agreed to settle with the mine operator. The landowners also filed suit in circuit court here in an effort to stop the operation.

An agreement announced last week between the state Department of Surface Mining and the Minnie Development Corporation was reached without the knowledge or consent of the property owners who originally brought complaint against the firm, said the landowners' attorney.

Arnold Turner, Jr., who represents E.P. "Pete" Grigsby, Jr. and Sam Martin, Jr., said his clients learned from a newspaper story last Friday that the same state officials who had scheduled a hearing on their complaint this week had already worked out a deal with the mine operator that belittled their complaint and made the hearing on it moot. "After telling us we'd be able to appear and make our case, they settled out under us. I feel pretty hot about it," Turner said Friday.

After inspecting the minesite Monday, OSM inspector Tim Brehm cited the mine for operating without a valid permit and ordered it shut down. The cessation order stemmed from the inspector's finding that the operation extended beyond the area for which it had a mining permit, said Bob McKenzie, manager of OSM's Pikeville area office.

Not Convicted

Because of an error in district court records, Roy Hill, of Betsy Layne, and Ronald Martin, of Sandusky, Ohio, were listed last week as having been convicted of drunk driving charges, when the charges were in fact dismissed. The Times regrets the error.

Stanley Asks EMT Teams In Every Mine

Every deep mine with two or more employees would be required to have one trained as an emergency medical technician if state Mines and Minerals Commissioner Willard Stanley has his way.

The proposed measure is included in legislation designed to strengthen mine safety rules and approved Monday by the House Natural Resources and Environment Committee.

Other bills approved by the panel and sent on to the House Rules Committee would allow miners to accompany inspectors on their rounds, require lifelines designed to guide miners out of smoke-filled shafts, and require more refresher courses for emergency medical technicians.

The law currently requires an EMT in mines with 25 or more underground workers—a rule that Stanley says leaves 1066 smaller mines without provision for medical emergencies. Noting that eight Kentucky miners have died already this year—most in roof falls and all far from medical care—Stanley proposed that the state train enough miners to see that every underground operation has at least one EMT.

One member of the House committee which considered the proposal Monday said he doubted Stanley would find enough miners to be certified. Many

Unmined Minerals Tax Bill Aborted

For this legislative session at least, the move to levy a tax on unmined minerals is apparently dead.

The House Budget Committee voted yesterday to table a bill that would have taxed unmined coal at the same rate as surface property. The move apparently kills the measure.

Defeat of the bill was attributed in part to strong lobbying by organized coal interests.

This Town...That World

March is so unpredictable that it has the crocuses and robins deceived.

THE MOST HATED

What is the most hated word in the language? With their dark connotations, the list of despised words would include, among others, murder, hate, treason, putrid, and so on. But the one word that curls the lip and darkens the countenance as does no other is "taxes."

A MATTER OF NAMES

Saw something the other day about the gal whose name was Mary Ann and who came to the point at which she demanded that her acquaintances use both names in addressing her. For, you see, her husband was named Virgil and she was fed up with hearing that hen's cackle of a laugh from her next-door neighbor after referring to them as Virg and Mary.

"PAMPER CREEK" AND "LAKE JUG JAM"

Have you ever heard or read "Pamper Creek"? I, who became acquainted with it through our contemporary, The Troublesome Creek Times, recommend it.

It's one of those ballad-type things and was written by musician-folksinger-environmentalist Michael Johnathon. It's about a Bunyanesque character named Solomon Cornett, his 22 wives and the 48 babies whom he fathered. The "conflict" in the story arises from the fact that these young'uns had to be diapered, and the women-folks complained about having to wash all those "diddies" every day.

But the redoubtable Solomon doesn't yield to the temptation to cut line and run as a man of baser metal might have done. He starts looking, and he runs across "plastic, taped-together britches" (which came to be known as disposable diapers; trade name, Pampers).

No Case Is Found Against DeRossett

A grand jury refused last week to indict a Cow Creek man accused last month of attempted murder and criminal mischief.

Criminal charges against Paul David DeRossett, 37, will be dropped as a result of the grand jury's failure to act on them. Palmer Crider, 31, of Endicott, had accused DeRossett of shooting at him on Feb. 10 as Crider fled in his laden coal truck from Cow Creek to Martin. He said he was able to foil the pursuit only by colliding with DeRossett's car in a supermarket parking lot.

But DeRossett appeared before the Floyd Circuit Court grand jury last week under a 1980 court rule which allows persons to testify before a grand jury considering charges against them. He was prepared to call several alibi witnesses and to have grand jurors inspect his car, said his attorney, Gary Johnson.

The panel apparently accepted DeRossett's explanation without calling for further evidence, however. "We're not saying Palmer Crider made up his story," said Johnson, "but it was obviously a case of mistaken identity."

16 Men Are Indicted In Area Theft Ring

A six-month state police investigation into the activities of an east Kentucky ring allegedly dealing in stolen vehicles and mine equipment has resulted in the indictment of 16 men by Floyd and Pike grand juries.

Named by the Floyd Circuit Court jury last week were Bennie Tackett, 56, and Eugene Tackett, 31, both of Galveston, Donald Epling and Lee Mann, of Pikeville, and Elwood Parker of Raccoon, all charged with knowingly receiving stolen property; and Tracy Yates, Pikeville, and Kermit Ratliff, no address listed, who are both cited for theft. The charges all involve the alleged removal of an endloader last September from the Diamond Elkhorn Coal Co. mine on Mare Creek to a Branham's Creek mine site.

Epling and Mann were indicted by the Pike Circuit Court grand jury on stolen property charges stemming from the alleged thefts of a bulldozer, two backhoes, three trucks, a 1978 Corvette and two trailers. Also cited by the Pike jury as participants in the ring were Vernon Lee Clemons, Jr., of Frankfort, Richard Eldon Adkins, of McCarr, Henry "Todge" Maynard, of Pikeville, Roger Dale Comer and James Edward Comer, of Shelbiana, Ronnie Mullins, of Elkhorn City, Denzil Newsome, of Virgie, Arthur Bill Akers, of Pikeville, and Johnny Wayne Charles, of Zebulon.

The state police investigation reportedly led to the recovery of vehicles and equipment valued at nearly half a million dollars.

TRAUMATIC SHOCK

Though Highlands Regional Medical Center and Our Lady of the Way Hospital have twenty-four-hour emergency services to treat illnesses and injuries, immediate treatment for traumatic shock while transporting a patient may help keep from intensifying the damage of his other injuries.

Traumatic shock is a life-threatening situation in itself. The body's vital functions are threatened by insufficient blood reaching the body tissues. Injuries that result in a loss of blood, loss of body fluid, too little oxygen reaching the lungs, loss of nerve control, severe infections or heart problems can lead to shock. It is a medical condition secondary to the serious illness or injury.

The symptoms of shock are pale and cool skin, moist and clammy skin, weakness, rapid pulse, irregular rapid breathing, restlessness, thirst, vomiting, dilated pupils, blotchy skin, or possible unconsciousness.

The victim should be kept lying on his back and covered to prevent loss of body heat. Do not move the victim if he has head, neck or back injuries. If the victim's face is pale, elevate the feet eight to twelve inches.

If the victim is experiencing chest pain, has a red face, or has difficulty in breathing, elevate the victim's head and shoulders slightly. Do not elevate the feet.

If there are no obvious injuries and the reason for shock is unknown, leave the patient lying flat on his back. If the patient is conscious, give him water or fruit juice. Do not give the victim fluid if he is unconscious, having convulsions, likely to need surgery, has a brain injury, has a stomach wound, is vomiting or is bleeding from the rectum. If possible, obtain any information about the nature of the accident so that you can relay the information to the personnel at the Highlands Regional Medical Center emergency department or Our Lady of the Way Hospital emergency department.

The parents of Danita and Douglas are Denzil Ray and Donna Hall, of McDowell, and their grandparents are Mrs. Margie Parsons, of McDowell, and Mrs. Maudie V. Hall, of Grethel.

84 Lumber Grew From Single Outlet

Numbers alone cannot tell the entire story for any business. But for one local company numbers seem to symbolize the drive and determination which have taken it from a small single retail outlet to a nationwide chain of lumber and home improvement outlets.

"Our stores now number 374 from coast to coast and we have more on the drawing boards for our namesake year, 1984," said Joseph A. Hardy Sr., President and Chairman of the Board of 84 Lumber and Home Centers.

Hardy founded the company with a single store in Southwest Pennsylvania just 27 years ago. Since then the firm has grown to a leadership position in the lumber and home improvement field, boasting outlets across the nation, and sales in excess of $600-million annually.

Hardy, who is still actively involved in the operation of the business, remembers his roots as a struggling single store operator. The company has nurtured that sense of pioneer retailing.

Hardy and his son, Joseph Jr. (the company's Senior Vice President), have seen many changes in the retail lumber business over the years. "Perhaps the biggest change has been our overall direction," said the younger Hardy. "Lumber, while still a vital factor in our business, is now mixed with a myriad of other products to form what we call The Home Improvement Center."

From the kitchen sink to just the right telephone, customers can browse through an 84 Lumber Home Center and find what they need for that special project around the house. "And if they need help, our associates are specially trained to help them from planning through to completion," Hardy Jr. explained.

This emphasis on the do-it-yourselfer has put 84 out in front in a very competitive field. With 20 stores opened in 1983 and 30 more on the drawing boards for this year, both father and son are optimistic about the future.

If you wonder how parents can care for quintuplets, imagine having 99 offspring. According to National Wildlife's Ranger Rick magazine, water snakes are known to have as many as 99 young in one litter.

'Coriolanus' To Air On KET, March 26

"The Shakespeare Plays" continue on KET with "Coriolanus," a drama of political intrigue, on Monday, March 26, at 9 p.m. The production stars Alan Howard as Coriolanus and Irene Worth as Volturnia.

"Coriolanus," Shakespeare's most political drama, has been greatly admired by modern critics and audiences for its exciting story and statement on the corrupting influence of absolute power.

The play is set in ancient Rome and chronicles the political fortunes of a Roman warrior, Caius Marcius, who is awarded the title Coriolanus after his valiant victory over the Volscian tribes. Coriolanus discovers that the qualities that helped him gain success as a warrior are the very qualities that spell his defeat as a leader.

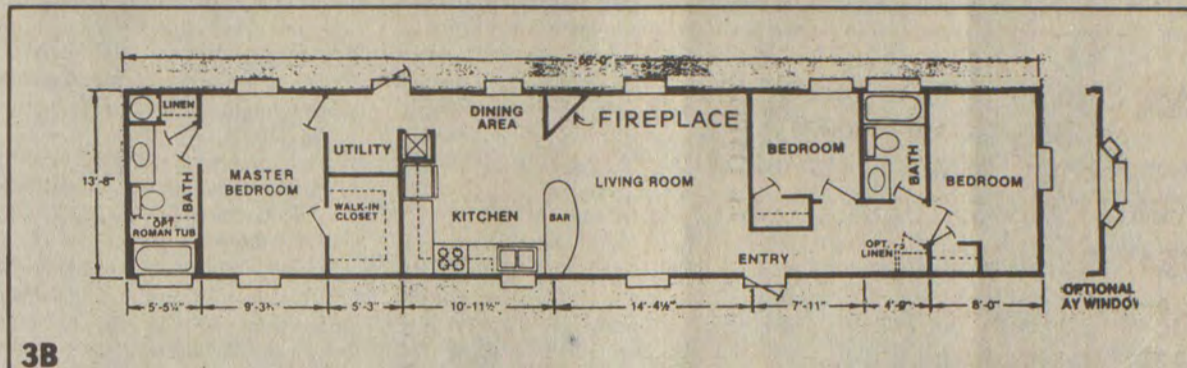

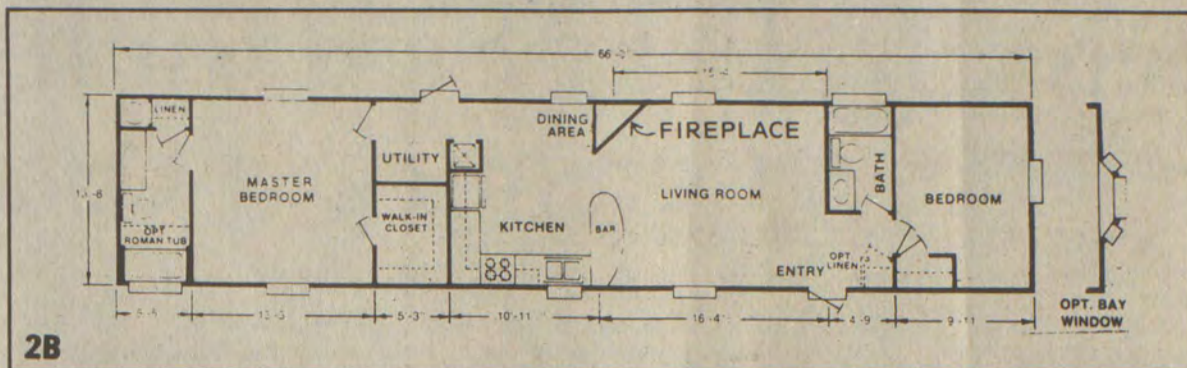

"The Shakespeare Plays" are produced by BBC-TV and Time-Life and presented by WNET, New York.

Wildlife Week Set March 18-24

"Water: We Can't Live Without It." That theme is the conservation message of this year's National Wildlife Week, to be observed March 18 to 24, and sponsored by the National Wildlife Federation. The theme will be promoted throughout the year to make Americans more aware of the critical significance of life-sustaining water.

More than 20 million students, teachers and conservationists are expected to participate in the Wildlife Week observance helping promote the importance of clean, life-giving water and the necessity of conserving critical water resources. Each year, schoolchildren learn about Wildlife Week with information provided by the National Wildlife Federation in specially prepared education kits.

"More than any other resource, water is basic to survival," said Jay D. Hair, NWF executive vice-president. "Water is part of every living thing, and is just as vital to our industrial processes. Unfortunately, our useable freshwater supplies are threatened by contamination, mismanagement, and waste. We hope to impress upon Americans this year the need to protect and conserve our precious water supplies."

employees of small mines have little formal education, said Rep. Elmer Patrick, himself a coal operator.

But Stanley said Tuesday the training program he has in mind will itself educate miners. Cost of the program would be borne not by coal operators but by the state, which has $500,000 in federal funds to spend on safety training, he pointed out. A specially-equipped mobile classroom furnished recently by the Mine Safety and Health Administration will also be available for use by the program, he said.

His EMT program would not need to cover the whole range of medical emergencies but only those likely to be encountered in the mines, the state official said. "We don't need to have them trained in clinical-type areas like childbirth," he explained. "But if seriously injured miners could get real good treatment before they get to the medical people, it would save lives in many, many cases."

"I don't believe there will be any problems" in getting the bill passed in the current legislative session, the commissioner said, adding that he had not heard of any opposition to it by organized coal interests.

Gen. Anthony Wayne, Hero of Revolution

The Daughters of the American Revolution salute Brig. General Anthony Wayne 1745-1796. A hero of the American Revolution, he fought in many battles and wintered at Valley Forge with George Washington. Although his home was only five miles away from Valley Forge he did not visit with his family because he believed that his place was with his troops. Wayne is one of many Patriots and truly a part of our American History.

Knarr, who graduated from the University of Kentucky in 1962 with a B.S. in Civil Engineering, has worked for 22 years as a registered professional engineer. His engineering experience, has included land surveying as well as civil, highway, sanitary and mining work.

Rep. Stumbo and his father, Floyd District Judge Harold Stumbo, are listed as stockholders of the mining company which began stripping late last year on the elder Stumbo's property—on Sizemore Branch at Minnie—under a special permit for stripmines of less than two acres. Stumbo said he and his father planned to develop the site as a trailer court. The mining plan was coordinated by Morris Isaac, Floyd deputy judge-executive, and the actual work contracted out to Ray and Randy Combs, of Letcher county, owners of Pine Tree Coal Company.

The operation was shut down by a state mining inspector last month for blasting within 300 feet of neighbor Sam Martin's house and for going beyond the two-acre limit of the permit. Before they could resume work at the site, the operators would have to obtain a regular stripmine permit and obtain waivers from homeowners living within 300 feet, the inspector said at the time.

In fact, the company resumed operations last Tuesday, after agreeing to pay a $2100 fine and to reclaim the area where it had exceeded the limits of the permit.

According to the agreement, which was signed for the Minnie Development Corp. by Lexington attorney Eugene Mooney, the company had "inadvertently" exceeded the two-acre limit and approached too close to Martin's house. But Turner said it was "obvious to any competent adult" that the operation was well over its limit—some three-and-a-half acres was disturbed, he claimed—and labelled as "pretense" the firm's claim to be developing a two-acre house site.

"To anyone who says it's a house site, I say go take a look at it," the attorney said. "It's straight up and down. It's way back on the mountain. It's being striped and augered. Last Friday I saw trucks coming out of there every 10 minutes."

Once the operators went over two acres they should have been compelled to reclaim the whole area or to cease operations until they obtained a regular stripmine permit, Turner said. Operations of less than two acres, unlike larger stripmines, are exempt from most state mining laws and are not subject to federal regulations.

In a letter he had hand-delivered to OSM's Pikeville office Monday, Turner wrote that his clients had "abandoned any hope of protection...from the Commonwealth of Kentucky" and complained that, by working under the two-acre exemption, the Minnie mine was evading regulations that might have protected neighboring properties.

Federal officials were apparently persuaded by Turner's argument. The Minnie mine will not be allowed to resume operations until it obtains a regular stripmine permit, OSM Manager McKenzie said yesterday.

In asking the federal agency to intervene, Turner said the mining firm had conducted no pre-blast survey, was not being made to observe blasting regulations, and carried no liability insurance.

The lack of insurance means that, even if the aggrieved neighbors win a court judgment for damages against the firm, they have little chance of collecting, he noted. The Pine Tree Coal Company is said to be renting its equipment and to be virtually without assets.

In the suit filed on their behalf in Floyd Circuit Court Tuesday, property owners Sam and Marguerite Martin seek $75,000 as compensation for alleged blasting damage to their home. Pete and Phyllis Grigsby are asking for $65,000 for alleged damage to their property. Both parties also seek punitive damages and a court injunction against the operator.

A hearing on the injunction request would normally be scheduled this Friday, but Circuit Judge Hollie Conley could disqualify himself, in which case the issue may not be adjudicated until a later date.

Young Couple Plead Guilty To Forgery

A Cliffside couple pleaded guilty in circuit court Friday to forged-check charges, the Commonwealth recommending probated sentences.

Kenny Ray Jones and Debbie Lynn Jones, both 22, were "poor people with young children, who ran out of money," said their attorney. They were accused last September of stealing checks from John and Debbie Biliter's mailbox, forging Mrs. Biliter's signature on three checks for $100 each, and cashing them at different grocery stores.

In return for Jones' plea of guilty to five counts, Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney Albert A. Burchett recommended concurrent five-year sentences on each count, the pen terms to be probated. Defense Attorney Gary Johnson, in asking for more time to show why his client should not go to jail, noted that Jones had made restitution to the three groceries and had helped police recover some stolen property.

Mrs. Jones pleaded guilty to a single forgery count, the Commonwealth recommending a probated one-year sentence. Johnson said she was an unwilling participant in the scheme. Circuit Judge Hollie Conley set sentencing for this Friday and ordered Jones held meanwhile in the county jail.

David Mullins, 25, of Price, was put on two years' probation after pleading guilty to a stolen property charge. Public Defender Ned Pillersdorf noted that his client had served nearly a month in jail and had a part-time job to go to. Mullins has been charged with possessing a stolen dinette set.

LETTERS To the Editor

Asks Public Apology

In your February 22, 1984 edition, Pete Grigsby, superintendent of schools in Floyd county, was quoted as making derogatory comments about my character. For the record, I am only exercising my democratic rights and responsibilities by participating in the public affairs of the public school system.

I am highly offended at Grigsby's comments and have asked him for a public apology in this paper, as well as others in which the comments were printed.

I trust that you will ask Mr. Grigsby to either provide substantial evidence for his claims or retract his comments.

Hoped for Harmony

I would like to respectfully respond to your January 4 article about the Water-gap Freewill Baptist Church. It was my heart's desire that love, peace and harmony would flow like a river in our church. Harmony would have continued in our church, had not confusion and a foreign and non-freewill Baptist doctrine come into the camp. I indeed mortgaged my home to help build the church as stated in your paper, thinking my brothers and sisters were willing to fellowship and help the church prosper. The church requires the ministry of dedicated workers along with the ministry of a dedicated pastor preaching the word of God and subscribing to the doctrine of the church.

I hold no ill will toward the Pentecostal Christians. I am sure they love the Lord. However, no pastor should confuse Freewill Baptist members by changing the doctrine of a church that the members established on Freewill Baptist principles.

I agree with your paper that some will be happy about selling the church and some will be heartbroken and grieved. Some were heartbroken when our former pastor had our church voted out of the Freewill Baptist Conference. We thought we had built a church that would be a Freewill Baptist until the Day of Jesus Christ.

The Rights of Children

I was recently informed by my eight-year-old daughter that she was shown Michael Jackson's video thriller during her gym class. I certainly do not, nor do I think you parents, consider a video a gym-related activity.

As a Christian parent, I try to raise my children with a sense of right and wrong and try not to be influenced by the majority. I am proud to say that my daughter asked her teacher to be moved to where she could not see the television (provided to the schools for educational programs?). The teacher told her to move to a specific place where the television could still be seen. When my daughter then asked if she could leave, she was told, no.

We often sit back and say, "What is happening to the schools?" My answer is: When a child cannot say a blessing over their food in the lunchroom, cannot put their hands on their hearts and learn pride in their country that their relatives died for, yet are allowed every other exception to be placed before them in public schools, what would or could a child expect when she has made her choice, and speaks out, but no? Our future is our children. They need their rights freed.

Against Annexation

The City Council of Prestonsburg is trying to annex north from the city limits to the Auxier bridge. The majority of the people in the affected area are opposed to the annexation, but still a few council members are trying to force their will on the majority. The way the annexation law is written it will be almost impossible for the majority to prevent what they are against from happening. The only way it can be stopped is by the few that started the ball rolling.

I urge all the City Council members to seek the true facts about this venture and decide if Prestonsburg has the money to make such a move. Will it be like a snake trying to swallow an elephant?

On Child Support

Providing money for the support of a child is only one part of being a responsible parent. There are others that money won't buy: love, time spent with the child, health care, teaching and guiding and just plain, hard work!

Where can one hire someone to care for a sick child at 3 a.m.? The custodial parent willingly does it, unless sick himself or herself. How does one explain why my father or mother does not love me?

The custodial parent has a better chance of doing an acceptable job of rearing the child if the pressures aren't so great.

The least the absentee parent can do for his or her child is pay child support without the hassle of going to court. Going to court is expensive!

Nothing is free if you work.

Growing Child

NINE TIPS FOR HANDLING SIBLING FIGHTS

Almost all siblings fight at some time or other during their growing up years. Here are some tips from Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter, about how to handle such disputes.

*Teach by your example. The ways you settle your own disagreements—with your children or with other adults—will show your children how to settle their own, no matter what you say.

*Be fair. If you must punish your children for fighting, make your "punishment fit the crime," and avoid taking sides. Don't punish either of them so harshly that you cause them to feel even angrier at each other and at you. And remember that there is seldom only one person at fault in an argument.

*Remember the Golden Rule. Try to put yourself in each child's shoes before you judge behavior. Try to remember your own childhood and how you felt when your parents stepped into your fights. Treat your child as you would have liked to have been treated yourself in that situation.

*Discipline with kindness and respect. Let your children know that you don't like and will not allow certain behaviors. But don't make them feel they are bad people when they make mistakes. Avoid name-calling. Labels such as clumsy, stupid, careless can become self-fulfilling prophecies. If you do slip in anger, apologize to your child later and explain that you don't really feel that way about her.

*Accent the positive. Pay attention to the things each of your children does well and to their interactions that are cooperative and constructive. They will tend to repeat these behaviors since they earned your attention.

*Minimize the negative. Whenever possible avoid pointing out your children's faults and mistakes, especially in comparison to siblings. Also, unless they're hurting each other, ignore your children's petty disputes with each other. They may decrease simply from lack of attention from you. Remember, if you want to see a behavior repeated, pay attention to it. If you don't want to see a behavior again, ignore it.

*Explain your expectations. Let your children know what responsibilities you expect them to assume; what the limits are on each of them; what behaviors you will not tolerate; and what they can expect if they don't meet these expectations.

*Be consistent in your response to your children's behaviors. There are days when their arguing doesn't bother you and you ignore it. Other days it will be the "last straw," and you might blow up. Still, if you try to respond in a way that is predictable, you will find you have much calmer, less anxious children since they know what to expect.

*Cultivate patience. Patience and a sense of humor are two of the most important qualities you can cultivate as a parent. Try to be patient with your children's bickering. Even though you may think the things they're squabbling about are silly, they're important to them. And when your patience wears thin, try to find some humor in the situation. Before you know it, your children will be grown and the lessons they learn now about how to get along with others, particularly siblings, will be carried into their own families.

The Growing Child newsletter follows a child's development month-by-month. For more information and a free sample newsletter, write to Growing Child, P.O. Box 620N, Lafayette, Indiana 47902. Include child's birthdate when writing.

Poison Prevention Week Will Begin March 18

National Poison Prevention Week begins March 18 and carries the theme "Children Act Fast...So Do Poisons." Dr. George C. Rodgers, Jr., medical director of the Kentucky Regional Poison Center of Kosair-Children's Hospital, points out several easy measures which can prevent hundreds of child poisonings each year.

Dr. Rodgers suggests parents purchase cleaning products, garden chemicals, paint products, and medicines in safety packaging whenever possible. These products should be stored in their original containers, out of children's reach, and preferably in a locked cabinet.

Dr. Rodgers also suggests parents survey their homes for easily reached cigarettes, alcohol and household plants that could poison small children.

And Dr. Rodgers suggests keeping a one-ounce bottle of syrup of Ipecac for each child under five years old at home, and the Kentucky Regional Poison Center's phone number near the household telephone.

If an accident does happen, the Kentucky Regional Poison Center is available 24 hours a day at the toll-free number in Kentucky, 1-800-722-5725 or 589-8222 in Louisville.

Craft Market Slated
In Lexington, Mar. 8-11

The fifth Kentucky Craft Market sponsored by the Kentucky Department of the Arts, featuring some 100 of Kentucky's top craftsmen, will be held March 8-11 in Lexington.

The first two days of the market are for retail buyers, then on March 10-11 the public will have an opportunity to see and purchase from this vast display of original and traditional Kentucky crafts and handmade wearables.

Fran Padgett, crafts coordinator with the department, noted that the past four markets generated over a half million dollars in sales for the state's craftspeople, plus additional reorder business. "The last market alone created $157,000 in direct sales; and since the spring market is traditionally best, we're anticipating $200,000 in wholesale and retail purchases," she said. "Representatives from some 200 shops and stores from around the country will be on hand to buy from 100 or so craft displays that will be set up."

Summer Food Program Seeks Sponsors in Ky.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture is seeking sponsors to operate the 1984 summer food program in Kentucky.

The summer food program provides nutritious meals to children in needy areas, without regard to race, color, national origin, sex or handicap, during extended school vacation periods. In most areas, the program operates from May until September. Under the program, meals and snacks are served to children in such places as schools, playgrounds and parks.

Public or private, nonprofit schools and units of local, municipal, county or state governments may qualify as sponsors of the summer food program in areas where at least 50 percent of the children are eligible for free or reduced price school lunches. Residential summer camps whose enrollment includes needy children may also act as program sponsors. Qualified sponsors are reimbursed for program operating and administrative expenses up to the current rates of reimbursement.

To be eligible, sponsors must provide continuing service to the community; serve meals on a regular schedule to children or provide meals as a part of an organized program for enrolled children at camps; and show they are financially and administratively capable of operating the program.

For more information, potential sponsors in Kentucky should contact the Division of School Food Service; State Department of Education; Capital Plaza Tower; 17th Floor; Frankfort, Ky. 40601. Telephone: (502) 564-4390.

'NOVA' On KET Examines The Indian Health Crisis

NOVA will explore the state of medical care for a proud but vulnerable Indian minority in "Make My People Live: The Crisis in Indian Health," which will air on KET, Tuesday, March 27, at 8 p.m. The question of America's obligation to its native Indian population is examined in light of an important Indian health act that comes up for renewal this spring.

In "Make My People Live," NOVA visits the Sioux, Tlinget and other Indian tribes who, in exchange for their lands, now receive free medical care through the Indian Health Service. This federal agency has undeniably helped to cope with the demoralization caused by unemployment and poverty on most reservations.

NOVA also looks at a number of medical programs, from a half-condemned IHS hospital on a Sioux reservation, to native health aides who advise on medical problems by CB radio and telephone among Alaska's Tlinget Indians. NOVA discovers that staffing such programs with Indian medics and doctors helps ensure their success in the community.

NOVA is produced by WGBH, Boston.

Voices of Appalachia on Tour

Pippa Passes, KY—Singing of their mountain heritage through the hymns and folksongs of the Southern Appalachian region, the "Voices of Appalachia," 40-member choir from Alice Lloyd College, will travel this month through the northeastern United States.

The choir members are Alice Lloyd students. Richard Kennedy, is director of the choir.

This year's annual tour will take the choir to Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, New York and the District of Columbia. The tour will begin Friday, March 9 at the Chilhowie Methodist Church in Chilhowie, Virginia. On Saturday the choir will travel to Washington, D.C. where it will present a concert Sunday morning at the National Presbyterian Church. Sunday evening the group will be at the Douglas Memorial Community Church in Baltimore, Maryland. Monday evening, March 12, the choir will appear in Lancaster, Pennsylvania. Although the tour is strenuous, there will be time for choir members to relax and do some sightseeing. While in Pennsylvania, they will tour the Hershey chocolate factory at Hershey. Tuesday, March 13, the choir will appear at Kendall at Longwood, a retirement community in Kennett Square, Pennsylvania. Tuesday evening, the "Voices" will go to New York City where they will remain until Thursday. While in New York the choir will appear at St. John's Episcopal Church in Cold Spring Harbor and at the Garden City Community Church in Garden City.

Saturday, March 17, the choir will return to the District of Columbia where the "Voices" will appear at the Palisades Community Church. This appearance is significant because the Palisades Church was the first church to host the "Voices of Appalachia" during their initial tour in 1962. At that time the choir was under the direction of Abner "Papa G" Grender.

Early Sunday morning the choir will travel to Richmond, Virginia to participate in the morning worship service of the Bon Air Baptist Church, then to Grottoes, Va. for the final spring tour concert. The choir will return to Pippa Passes March 19.

Several local concerts are planned for the spring.

Workshop Scheduled

A Trapunto workshop is scheduled here Friday, March 9, at the Kentucky Power Company at 10 a.m.

Supplies needed are building two squares of pre-washed muslin or other cotton material 18x18 in size, embroidery hoops, scissors, white rug yarn, thimble and a needle with eye big enough to thread yarn into. The instructors will be Mrs. Jean Watson and Frances Pitts. Call 886-2668 to register.

Directory Lists 12,000 Key Conservation People

They save wetlands and whooping cranes; they fight toxic wastes and water pollution; they hike, fish, farm and take care of zoos.

The people who know natural resources are listed in the National Wildlife Federation's 1984 Conservation Directory, which lists 12,000 individuals and 1,800 organizations, from the Air Pollution Control Association to Zero Population Growth.

The 300 pages of the directory's 29th edition, published this month, list key contacts and addresses for organizations involved with natural resource management in the United States and 113 countries.

Included are federal, state and Congressional officials, committees and agencies concerned with the environment, as well as thousands of citizens' groups—with interests as varied as trumpeter swans, prairie grouse, New England wild flowers, and American wilderness.

The listings of organizations include the address, telephone number, names of directors, statement of purpose and size of each group.

The directory also contains a list of U.S. and Canadian state and provincial fish and game administrators; a guide to major colleges and universities offering professional training for careers in conservation and environmental protection; lists of national forests, parks, seashores and wildlife refuges; a list of conservation offices for foreign governments; a list of periodicals, directories, and audio-visual sources of interest to conservationists; a list of state education agency coordinators for environmental education.

The 1984 Conservation Directory can be obtained for $9 plus $1.55 for shipping charges per order (regardless of number of books ordered) by writing to Conservation Directory, National Wildlife Federation, 1412 16th St., NW, Washington, DC 20036.

Some people believe that a baby born between the 21st and 24th of any month will have good luck on the 13th day of the month.

Brackett Commended For Forestry Work

Eastern District Forester Stephen Ray Brackett, at left, recently received a Certificate of Appreciation for outstanding forest law enforcement activities from Department for Natural Resources Acting Commissioner and Division of Forestry Director Donald A. Hamm.

Brackett has been in charge of the Eastern District, which covers Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin, and Lawrence counties since December, 1981. Since that time the Eastern District has had one of the highest forest law enforcement prosecution rates statewide. This increased prosecution rate is part of a program initiated statewide by Director Hamm, in an effort to reduce the number of forest fires occurring from illegal burning of debris.

Brackett is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School and of the United States Army Military Police School at Fort Gordon, Georgia. He also attended Prestonsburg Community College and Eastern Kentucky University where he majored in Police Administration. He is currently a member of the Epsilon Chapter of the National Criminal Justice Honor Society, the Brigham Young Lodge No. 59, Fraternal Order of Police, The Kentucky Conservation Council, and District Chairman of the Kentucky Tree Farm Committee.

★ Cancer Hopeline

Q. I recently learned that a relative of mine has stomach cancer? This is a type of cancer I hardly ever hear about. Is this because it's rare? What causes stomach cancer?

A. Stomach cancer is not rare. There will be about 25,000 new cases diagnosed in the United States this year.

Although it remains a major health problem, the death rate from this disease decreased rapidly since 1930. Today the U.S. death rate for stomach cancer is among the lowest in the world. The reason for the rapid decline in death rates and the causes of this disease are not fully understood. Studies of countries with high rates of stomach cancer suggest that environmental factors such as socio-economic status and diet may play a role in the development of this disease.

In Japan, stomach cancer causes more deaths than all other types of cancer combined, and it is five times more common than in the United States. However, when Japanese moved to this country, their stomach cancer rates decreased over successive generations. This decline may be due to changes in dietary habits, such as decrease in the amount of pickled, salted or smoked foods commonly found in the Japanese diet. It is interesting, however, that the rates of breast cancer and colon cancer show a corresponding increase in successive generations.

Other research shows that close relatives of people with stomach cancer appear to have a risk two or three times higher than the general population. However, because families tend to share the same environment, it is possible that lifestyle factors may play a more important role in the development of this disease than hereditary factors.

PRAYER MEETINGS SET

Prior to the revival, scheduled to begin at the Irene Cole Memorial (First) Baptist Church, a series of cottage prayer meetings have been planned at the following homes, and on these dates: Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nunn, March 9; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ramey, March 12; Mr. and Mrs. Mitch Kalos, March 16; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Pettrey, March 19; the Rev. and Mrs. Steve Hopkins, March 26, and Mr. and Mrs. Ron Hooker, March 30. The minister for this forthcoming revival will be the Rev. Robert D. Hopkins, pastor of the First Baptist Church, in Brooksville, Ohio, who is the father of Rev. Steve Hopkins.

Unemployment in Upward Leap

Pushed upward by a combination of seasonal factors and new job seekers, Kentucky's unemployment rate leaped in January by the largest monthly percentage in 20 years. The rate rose from a revised 9.1 percent in December 1983 to a preliminary 11.7 percent in January, according to figures released by the Cabinet for Human Resources. That increase of 2.6 percent is the biggest single monthly increase since the December 1963-January 1964 report, when the rate rose by 2.9 percent from 6.5 percent to 9.4 percent. January's 11.7 percent jobless rate is also the highest for Kentucky since last July's rate of 11.9 percent. Nationally, the unemployment rate rose from 8.0 percent in December to 8.8 percent in January.

"The figures reflect seasonal labor force activity," said state labor market analyst Ed Blackwell. "The rate increase corresponds with a 2.6 percent rise in the civilian labor force, which grew by 44,100, from 1,683,100 in December to 1,727,200 in January. This was the greatest monthly increase since September 1982, when the labor force grew by 44,243 over August."

He pointed out that employment was down by 4,500, from 1,530,100 in December to 1,525,600 in January. Meanwhile, the number of people who were unemployed and looking for jobs increased by 48,600, from 153,000 in December to 201,600 in January. "A lot of these people were new and re-entrants into the labor force," he said.

"Kentucky's economic picture is not as bleak as these figures might have you believe," Blackwell said. "We're still recovering from a recession." He noted that a year ago the rate jumped from 12.6 percent in December to 14.0 percent in January, when 236,291 Kentuckians were out of work.

Blackwell said there was an overall employment increase of 1,000 in manufacturing jobs. "Gains were recorded in machinery; tobacco; textiles and apparel; and petroleum, rubber and plastic products. These offset losses in fabricated metals, lumber and furniture, food and chemicals."

In the non-manufacturing sector there were 200 more jobs in the bituminous coal mining industry, the only area where an employment gain was reported, Blackwell said. The number of trade jobs decreased by 13,900. "This reflected a drop of 11,500 retail trade jobs, which were up for the Christmas season, and 1,637 jobs in the tobacco wholesale trade industry, which also reported temporary gains in December," he said.

Hueysville Woman Is Beaten, Robbed

When 30-year-old Yvonne Compton Porter returned from work to her home near Hueysville early last Friday night and switched on the kitchen light, she was seized by two men, severely beaten, bound and left lying on the floor while her assailants made their getaway with approximately $20,000 worth of family possessions.

And the getaway car was the almost-new Buick which the Porters recently bought at a cost of $15,000.

The Porter residence is just off KY 7, on Salt Lick Creek. Mrs. Porter, who is employed by the First Guaranty Bank at Martin, worked late on Friday, and the house was dark when she arrived home. Her husband, Willis Porter, who is a foreman at a Magoffin county stripmine, and their daughter had left the house, earlier in the day, and had not returned.

Beaten and kicked by her assailants, Mrs. Porter remains under treatment at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin.

Besides the automobile, the intruders stripped the woman's rings from her fingers, took approximately $90 in cash from her purse, and also made off with her husband's collection of guns and knives.

Mrs. Porter contrived to free herself some time after the two men left. She telephoned her father, Floyd Compton, who lives approximately half a mile away, and he quickly alerted State Police.

State Police Detective Danny Stumbo is investigating the assault and robbery. The stolen car was found Sunday afternoon by Stumbo on a narrow side road on Quicksand Creek, Knott county. It had been burned. Stumbo said the robbers have not been identified, and no resident of the area where the auto was found has admitted having seen the car or its occupants.

Mrs. Porter's condition, her father said, is not serious. Her eyes were blackened and she suffered one or more broken ribs.

P'burg, Betsy Layne Students Win Contest

Last fall the Floyd County Conservation District co-sponsored the Jim Claypool Poster and Essay Contest with the Louisville Courier Journal. The goal of this contest is to foster an appreciation for our natural resources and to encourage soil and water stewardship. Floyd County schools participated with over 1,000 students drawing posters or writing essays.

The county winner for the poster contest, Byron Crider, is eligible to compete in the state final contest. Robin Lynn Thompson, county essay winner, is also competing in the state final contest, and state winners will be announced at the end of March.

Byron Crider attends Prestonsburg Elementary School, and Robin Lynn Thompson is a student of Betsy Layne Elementary. The second-place county winners are Katina Jean Krull, Martin Elementary, for the poster contest, and Susan Raye Carter, Clark Elementary, for the essay contest.

The Floyd County Conservation District voiced its appreciation to the schools, teachers, and principals who helped make the Jim Claypool Contest a success this year.

This ministry takes the young people through the United States, Canada, Scandinavia, Central and Eastern Europe. This tour will be traveling in the United States, Scandinavia and Eastern Europe.

The program features familiar hymns, gospel music, medleys and choruses, and is planned with an emphasis on bringing hope to people of all ages. The purpose of the Outreach For Christ ministry is to challenge people to make a commitment to, or a renewal of faith in Jesus Christ.

No admission fee will be charged, and a love offering will be taken at the concert.

The Daughters of the American Revolution stress the importance of visiting historic sites to remind its citizens that our country has many famous points of interest. Note the home John Jay built when he retired in 1800. It is located in Westchester county in the state of New York. John Jay lived in this house until his death in 1829. The 1,000-acre tract of land on which Jay built his home had been purchased from an Indian chief by Jay's grandfather, Jacobus Van Cortlandt. John Jay was a lawyer and was first Chief Justice of the United States. He was a member of the First and Second Continental Congress and, of course, one of the commissioners who negotiated the Treaty of Paris.

State Jaycees Honor Preston

At the winter all-state meeting of the Kentucky Jaycees held in Owensboro Feb. 10-12, John David Preston, of the Paintsville-Johnson County Jaycees, was named one of the five Outstanding Young Men of Kentucky for 1984. Mr. Preston has served his local chapter as treasurer, vice-president and president, and was honored by the state Jaycees by being named a Kentucky Jaycee Thoroughbred in 1981.

Preston graduated from Harvard University, magna cum laude, with an A.B. in history in 1973. In 1976, he graduated with a Doctor of Jurisprudence from the University of Kentucky College of Law. While there, he was a member of the Moot Court Board and director of Student Research Service for the Law Journal. In 1969 he graduated from Prestonsburg High School where he was valedictorian, National Honor Society president, and varsity basketball player.

Preston has been a practicing attorney in Paintsville since 1976. He was elected commonwealth attorney for the counties of Martin, Johnson and Lawrence, and when he assumed office he was the youngest commonwealth attorney in the state. He inherited a backlog of more than 400 felony indictments. Recent figures released from the Attorney General's office for 1983 showed that his office is the most proficient in Kentucky.

Mr. Preston serves on the administrative board and is a lay-leader for the Paintsville First United Methodist Church. During a four-month period in 1982, he was called upon to perform and lead worship services during the illness of his minister. He is director of Hope Haven, Inc. (home for displaced children), Paintsville Rotary, and the Chamber of Commerce. He is county coordinator for the Kentucky Task Force on Exploited and Missing Children, recently fingerprinting more than 3,000 children, and is chairman of the committee for Boy Scout Troup 851.

Preston, who is the son of Mrs. Olga Auxier Preston and the late J. Frank Preston, of Allen and Ulysses, and his wife, the former Mary Stephenson, are awaiting the publishing of his book, "The Civil War in the Big Sandy Valley of Kentucky."

It was on December 4, 1783, that the General bade a poignant farewell to his officers at Fraunce's Tavern, Pearl and Broad Streets in lower Manhattan, New York City. After a triumphal tour at Annapolis where Congress was in session, Washington appeared before that body on December 23, 1783, to resign his Commission as Commander-in-Chief and "take...leave of all the employments of public life." Along with the Daughters of the American Revolution, observe February as American History Month.

Jones' Lawyer Cross-Examines Gov't. Witness

It was a buyer's market early in 1982. Coal prices were low and stockpiles high. There was no reason for a coal operator like Edgar Jones to be worried about getting enough coal to fill his order with a South Carolina utility.

Such was the line of argument pursued by Jones' attorney Monday during cross-examination of a key government witness in the trial of the Prestonsburg coal operator and 17 others on federal racketeering charges.

Testifying in U.S. District Court in Pikeville last week, Phillip Booth said that what began as an effort by unionists to organize the Ray-Mac stripmine near East McDowell in February, 1982, turned into a ploy by Jones to drive the rival company out of business. Booth has been named as an unidentified co-conspirator in the alleged plot.

Jones, president of the JRM Coal Company, was "mad" because he thought Ray-Mac had tried to underbid him on his five-year contract to sell coal to the South Carolina Gas and Electric Company and was worried that he may not be able to fill the coal cars he was expected to dispatch each week, Booth said.

After consulting with officials of the McDowell union local, Jones made it clear all his contract miners were expected to join the strike and later offered to see that they were adequately armed, the witness testified.

Questioned by defense attorney Aubrey Harwell this week, Booth said he did not recall the state of the coal market the week of Feb. 15, 1982, when violence erupted at the Ray-Mac mine. He did not remember whether there was a surplus of coal at the time and was unaware of the "huge stockpile" Harwell suggested was awaiting shipment at the Martin tippie used by JRM, he said.

Booth, who in 1982 operated two coal companies which were under contract to JRM, admitted reluctantly that he did not know whether Jones was having trouble "meeting his unit train" the week of the Ray-Mac strike.

The defense lawyer tried unsuccessfully to elicit from Booth an admission that pickets who blocked truck traffic at Ray-Mac that week told the drivers they could not haul unless they joined the mineworkers' union. Harwell has argued that Jones' involvement in the Ray-Mac troubles stemmed solely from his aiding a union drive to organize the mine.

But Booth, who was identified by an earlier witness as one of those firing on Ray-Mac truck drivers, said he never heard the drivers pressed to join the union.

A private court-reporting firm retained by defense counsel since testimony in the case began six weeks ago was ordered to leave the courtroom Monday following a dispute between defense and government attorneys over the use being made of daily transcripts furnished by the reporters.

Harwell, who hired the reporters, objected to prosecution witnesses using transcripts of their testimony to prepare themselves for cross-examination. But Assistant U.S. Attorney Thomas L. Self said the government would be at a disadvantage if the transcripts were available only to the defense.

(A shorthand stenographer is employed by the court to keep an official record of trial proceedings but this is not usually transcribed in type unless the record needs to be reviewed by an appeals court and, even then, the typescript may not be prepared for weeks or even months after the trial.)

Since the unofficial reporting service was causing problems, it would have to be discontinued immediately, ruled U.S. District Judge G. Wix Unthank.

In 1777, George Washington had the entire Continental Army—then 4,000 men—immunized.

Schools Join Blood Drive

By PAT PHILLIPS
Share your good health and donate blood!
The McDowell Consolidated School will be sponsoring a community blood drive in the auditorium on Wednesday, March 7 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., and the mobile crew will move from there to the McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital to take donors in the library from 3 to 7 p.m. on the same day. Residents in the area are invited to donate at either location.

a.m. to 12 noon, there the mobile crew will move next door to the Mayo State Vocational Technical School to take donors from 2:30 to 4 p.m.
Congratulations are extended to the seniors of the Betsy Layne and McDowell High Schools for taking on the adult responsibility of donating blood. Seventeen-year olds may donate with written parental consent, provided they pass all of the eligibility requirements. The process for each donor takes an average of 45 minutes to register, take a mini-physical exam, donate (about seven minutes) and to take some refreshments.

McDowell ARH has sponsored mobiles, dating back to 1976. This year this group has volunteered to hold two drives, due to a 20% increase in the demand for blood in the area in 1983. Mayo State Vocational Technical School at Betsy Layne is a new, welcome addition to support the community blood program.

Groups wanting to set up a donor group should contact the Prestonsburg Donor Center by calling 886-1557.

Bighorned rams, while battling to establish dominance in the herd, sometimes clash at speeds of 30 miles per hour, says National Wildlife magazine. Usually, the only injury is to the loser's pride.

GREGORY STUMBO STATE REPRESENTATIVE 95TH DISTRICT

The 1984 General Assembly has only four weeks left. We are going to be extremely busy in these final days dealing with the budget and other issues such as Roads, Unemployment, and Education. During the past two months of the 1984 session, I have had the opportunity to meet and talk with many people on these issues. The results of the poll that appeared in this column were very beneficial to me and I appreciate the interest everyone has shown.

Last week, Gov. Collins presented her Educational package and now, we in the Legislature must analyze and study that proposal. I urge you to continue expressing your views to me. We are planning at least one more public meeting and I will continue to be available throughout the week in Frankfort by calling the toll free number listed below, and on the weekends at my office in Martin or at my home. Please feel free to call me at any time.

During the past four years we have made tremendous strides forward in the General Assembly concerning Eastern Kentucky. We, here in the mountains, still have many problems that must be addressed. I have been privileged to serve as your State Representative and I am asking for the opportunity to continue in that capacity for another term.

This week, 16 students from the one room school on Daniels Creek will come to Frankfort to visit. I would like to invite any school group that would like to come and observe the Session to contact me and I will try to help make the arrangements. It is important that we continue working on the problems that we face here in the mountains so that the future will be bright and prosperous for these children.

I ask for your support in that endeavor.

TEETH AND THE HEART

Q. Is there any relationship between health of teeth and the heart?

A. A tooth abscess or infection is likely to affect ANY organ of the body if the infection is neglected and permitted to travel. For that reason, any illness or symptom involving teeth should get the same prompt and careful attention given to other medical disorders.

An abscessed tooth causes high fever and toxicity which can move through the body. If the patient has a history of heart valve problems or rheumatic fever, he or she may develop a heart condition called "endocarditis." This is an inflammation of the lining of the heart and its valves and can be fatal.

Since abscessed teeth are usually the result of extensive decay, the best protection against endocarditis and other complications arising from mouth infections is proper diet, oral hygiene, and intelligent dental care.

Beatrix Potter's Life Dramatized On KET

Beatrix Potter was the creator of Peter Rabbit and a menagerie of other fanciful creatures in her classic tales that have made her the best-known writer of children's stories in the world. Tune in to "Masterpiece Theatre's" "The Tale of Beatrix Potter," which will air on KET Sunday evenings, March 25 and April 1, at 9 p.m.

The two-part program, starring British actress Penelope Wilton in the title role, intersperses Potter's original drawings with the story of her extraordinary life and work—her strangely solitary childhood, her final breaking out in her 40's from parental dominance and repression, her tragic love affair, eventual marriage and final years as a sheep farmer.

John Hawkesworth of "Upstairs, Downstairs," "Flame Trees of Thika" and other "Masterpiece Theatre" series' fame, wrote the BBC production based on Margaret Lane's biographies. He is executive producer of the program which critics have acclaimed as "magical," "enchanted" and "a treat." Hawkesworth utilizes the "deceptively simple form of a children's story, using vignettes of Potter's family life but with some very adult observations along the way."

Opposes Acid Rain Resolution

Governor Martha Layne Collins told the Executive committee of the National Governor's Association at its meeting in Washington last week that Kentucky could not support a resolution the Association wants to adopt dealing with the Acid Rain Control Program.

She told the other governors that Kentucky could not support the resolution if the state were asked to take on more of the burden of sulfur dioxide reduction than any other comparable state, and unless the program provided for a measurement program to account for emission reductions. Additionally, Gov. Collins said the resolution must concentrate on all contributors to acidity rather than just to sulfur dioxide.

"Kentucky has reduced its sulfur dioxide emissions by 36 percent since 1976," she said. "In all, an investment of over $2 billion is being made in Kentucky to take sulfur dioxide out of our air."

"We are doing our share already," Collins added. "On the other side of the coin, there are no scrubber units operating in all of New England."

Governor Collins was joined in her objection to the adoption of the resolution by West Virginia Governor Jay Rockefeller and Missouri Governor Kit Bond.

Fire Season Begins Early

Completes Basic Training

Greg D. Chaffin and his wife, Gay, were here visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Chaffin, for a week upon his completion of basic training in the Marines, February 8. He was honored on his birthday, February 12, with a dinner at the home of his parents. His aunt, Joyce Music, brought a cake, and another aunt, Tammy Coleman, helped with the dinner. Stephanie and Tina Blair were also present.

He is now stationed in San Diego, Calif., for further schooling, and his wife has returned to North Carolina.

Although the spring fire season does not officially begin until tomorrow (Thursday), Floyd county has already experienced a pretty severe fire situation in the past two weeks, according to Stephen Ray Brackett, district forester.

Brackett said 17 forest fires had been suppressed by rangers in the county and that seven persons had been cited to district court for violations of KRS 149.375, allowing fire to escape to woodland. He listed those cited as Lucille Haywood, of Eastern, by officers Ferguson and Brackett; Ike Poe, of the Middle Creek road by officer Hamilton; Jack Mosley, of Prestonsburg, by officer Hamilton; Willis Akers, of Dana, by officers Brackett and Zoochi; Sue Gibson, of Tram, by officers Omer and Ferguson; Susan A. Ratliff, of Brandy Keg, by officer Phillips; and Brad Walls, by officer Zoochi. Three other persons cited for failing to take proper precautions when burning KRS 149.375, but did not allow fire to escape to woodland were listed as: Chalmer Whitt, of Allen, by officer Ferguson; Rutherford James, of Lancer, by officer Ferguson, and Wesley Giles, of Banner, by officer Hamilton.

Brackett advised that, beginning March 1, it will be unlawful for any person to burn except between the hours of 4:30 p.m. and 12 midnight, within 150 feet of woodlands or grasslands leading to woodland. Persons burning between those hours are required to take all reasonable precautions to prevent the escape of fire by clearing carefully around all materials to be burned and piling such debris in small piles so that fire will be easier contained. These fires must be attended at all times and properly extinguished before leaving.

For further information, or to report a forest fire, call the Division of Forestry office at Prestonsburg, 886-8562.

... about your Social Security

Medicare's Medical Insurance By JIM KELLY

(Social Security District Director for the Big Sandy Area) Most people 65 and over have come to recognize the importance of Medicare coverage and have signed up for both parts of the program, hospital insurance and medical insurance—about nine out of ten people 65 and over. However, there are still some who have yet to sign up for medical insurance, which covers doctor bills and other medical bills not covered under hospital insurance.

People who failed to sign up for Medicare's medical insurance when they had an opportunity to do so, or who dropped out, may enroll through the end of March. Coverage will be effective July 1, 1984.

There are a number of reasons a person may not sign up for coverage under medical insurance, which unlike the payroll tax-financed hospital insurance, requires the payment of a monthly premium. Some people may feel they can't afford the basic monthly premium, currently $14.60. Others may not feel they need it. Some people drop the coverage for one reason or another.

In addition to doctors' services, medical insurance covers outpatient hospital care, outpatient physical therapy and speech pathology services, home health care and many other health services and supplies not covered by hospital insurance.

Some 28.2 million persons are currently covered under medical insurance, including people who have been receiving Social Security disability benefits for 2 years or more, and those with permanent kidney failure. Contrary to popular perception, 25 percent of the cost of the program is financed through the monthly premiums; the rest comes from Federal general revenues. This is one reason why it would be difficult for the average person to match the coverage from private sources for the same cost.

Another good reason people should sign up for Medicare's medical insurance when they are first eligible is that it costs more later—10 percent for each year they could have had medical insurance but did not enroll.

People 65 and over who are not entitled to Social Security or railroad retirement benefits can get medicare hospital insurance by enrolling and paying a monthly premium of $155. People who buy hospital insurance must also sign up for medical insurance and pay the monthly premium.

Those who have questions as to what Medicare's medical insurance is all about should call the Big Sandy Area Social Security office, located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. The telephone number is listed in the local telephone directory under U.S. Government.

MEDICARE GENERAL ENROLLMENT PERIOD ENDS SOON

March is the last month of the 1984 general enrollment period for people who failed to sign up for Medicare medical insurance at their first chance, Jim Kelly, District Director for the Big Sandy Area said recently.

There is a general enrollment period during the first three months of each year. Also eligible to enroll at this time are people who once had medical insurance but who dropped this protection.

Medical insurance protection will start July 1, 1984, for people who sign up during the general enrollment period. The basic monthly premium for medical insurance is $14.60 for the period ending December 1984. The basic premium is increased by 10 percent for each year a person could have had this protection but did not.

The premium paid by those with medical insurance represents about one-fourth of the costs. The remaining amount is paid by the Federal Government from general revenue.

Medical insurance helps pay for doctors' services, outpatient hospital services, and many other items and services not covered by the hospital insurance part of Medicare.

In general, after a person has had $75 in approved charges for covered medical expenses in a year—the annual deductible—medical insurance will pay 80 percent of the approved charges for any additional covered services a person has during the rest of the year.

Anyone who has a question about either part of Medicare—hospital insurance or medical insurance—can get the answer at the Big Sandy Area Social Security office, located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. The telephone number is listed in your local telephone directory under U.S. Government. The people there have free leaflets which tell about the protection offered by Medicare.

Some Garden Plots Yet Available In Martin

There are still a few more garden sites available at the community gardens on old U.S. 80 in Martin across from St. Juliana's church. Sponsored by the Christian Appalachian Project, all plots are free and will be plowed. Participants are asked to supply their own seed, fertilizer, and tools.

Since there is a limited amount of space, plots will be given out on a first come first serve basis, and all applications should be in by this weekend. For further information, contact Rick Fairbanks at 285-3254 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETS

The executive board of the G.F.W.C./Prestonsburg Woman's Club met Thursday evening, March 1, at the Floyd County Library, with the president, Mrs. Elizabeth Ramey, presiding. Matters of importance, to be presented during the regular meeting, were discussed. Present were, Mesdames Elizabeth Ramey, Arnita Snavelly, Dorothy Harris, Betty Rowland, Joyce Allen, and Docia Woods.

The regular G.F.W.C./Prestonsburg Woman's Club meeting was held at the Emma Wells May Cultural Center that same evening and the president welcomed the members and a guest, Tom Whitaker, of Prestonsburg Community College. Mrs. Joyce Allen read the minutes, and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Dorothy Harris.

Mrs. Judy Kittle, on behalf of Mrs. Eileen Burchett, chairman, and other members of the Arts and Crafts department, announced that the Arts and Crafts Building, at Archer Park, would be opened March 13, at 10 a.m., for those who may wish to do work there.

Mrs. Ramey named the following members to serve on the nominating committee for the club year, 1984-85: Betty Rowland, Mabel Donahoe, Phyllis Herrick, Dorothy Harris, Helen Ankrom, Dorothy Stover, Arnita Snavelly, Eileen Burchett, and Carolyn Traum.

The program chairman, Mrs. Roberta Davidson, introduced Tom Whitaker, associate professor of art at Prestonsburg Community College. Prof. Whitaker painted a picture for the group while he lectured. He said that he grew up on the head of Ponceon Creek, in Magoffin county, received two degrees from Kentucky colleges, and that he had taught in various counties in the state before coming to P.C.C. He explained, "In my work, I don't create; only God can do that. All I can do is to arrange." Then he added, "I may inspire or motivate a student, but the art work must come from within."

Hostesses for Thursday evening's meeting were Garnett Fairchild, Sarah Goble, Honey May, Lois George, Betty Francis, Norcie Burchett, and Christine Spradlin.

Refreshments, in keeping with the St. Patrick's Day theme, were served to guest, Prof. Tom Whitaker, members, Roberta Davidson, Ora Bussey, Mabel Donahoe, Judy Kittle, Zella Archer, Sharon Sparr, Barbara Dawson, Edith James, Lucy Regan, Alice Harris, Fannie Rannels, Susie Poe, Kathryn Poe, Dorothy Stover and son, Tommy, and Orella McGuire.

The next meeting will be Thursday evening, April 5, with Ethel Burke, Betty Jarvis, Dolly Pettrey, Pat Necessary, Roberta Davidson, Rebecca Rasnick, and Ditty Tackett, hostesses.

AARP BOARD TO MEET FRIDAY

The Board of Directors of Jenny Wiley Chapter No. 3528 AARP, will meet Friday, at 7 p.m. at the meeting room at the Prestonsburg municipal building. All board members are urged to be present.

Brown Rice Recalled

Following the recommendation of the Kentucky Cabinet for Human Resources, Comet Rice Mills of Houston, Texas, is recalling batches of brown rice from Kentucky wholesale and retail outlets. Cabinet tests indicate that the rice contains EDB pesticide levels more than three times higher than maximums advised by the federal Environmental Protection Agency.

The cabinet's Food and Sanitation Branch analyzed samples of Comet brown long-grain rice in 14-ounce packages coded S4923. The samples came from a Winn-Dixie warehouse in Louisville. Test results set the product's EDB level at 453.3 parts per billion. Recent EPA recommendations set a maximum of 150 parts per billion for rice.

Branch manager Dudley Conner said today that officials of Comet Rice Mills have been "just as cooperative as they could be" after receiving notice of the test results. "I contacted the company, and the management immediately initiated a voluntary recall of all S4923 production known to be in distribution," said Conner. "They are alerting all wholesale and retail outlets to return boxes with that code number to the mill in Texas."

Easter Seal Campaign Begins

The Kentucky Easter Seal Society officially started its 1984 campaign recently at the governor's office. Four year old Whitney Hayse, a resident of Shelbyville and the 1984 Kentucky Easter Seal Child, visited Governor Martha Layne Collins at her office to present her with the first sheet of Easter Seals in Kentucky. Governor Collins welcomed Whitney (center) and her escorts, Major General Billy G. Wellman, adjutant General of the Kentucky Army National Guard and 1984 state campaign chairman (at left kneeling), and Easter Seal president John L. English (standing).

Whitney Hayse was the victim of a stroke prior to birth; however, with therapy and bracing she is now able to walk without the use of crutches or a walker. She has received speech therapy at the Louisville Easter Seal Hearing and Speech Center for more than two years. This has helped her overcome her speech problems which resulted from the stroke. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Greg Hayse, of Shelbyville.

The Easter Seal campaign, which raises funds to support the service programs of the Society's seven treatment facilities in the state, will continue through Easter Sunday, April 22. Highlight of the campaign will be the annual Easter Seal Telethon which will be broadcast March 31 and April 1 in Louisville, Covington/Cincinnati, and Owensboro/Evansville. The Easter Seal Telethon in Lexington will be broadcast April 28 and 29.

Floyd Among Counties To Share In Community Service Grants

The Christian Appalachian Project announces its annual scholarship program designed to promote community spirit and involvement. This year $1,000 in scholarship money will be awarded to each of the following counties: Floyd, Clay, Garrard, Jackson, Jessamine, Knott, Letcher, Lincoln, Madison, Magoffin, Martin, Pulaski, Rockcastle, Whitley, and Wolfe. Additional grants of $1,000 will be awarded to the Buckhorn Children's Center, Onedia Baptist Institute, Redbird Mission, and students of the Kentucky School for the Deaf from the Appalachian counties.

These scholarships are unique in that grade standing and family financial circumstances are not the prime factors for selection. Citizens' committees from each community select the recipient or recipients from their county, based upon involvements and contributions to their local communities. Applicants for the scholarships must be graduating seniors.

Examples of student involvement might be volunteer work as hospital aides, visits to the sick and elderly, church related community projects, leadership roles in scouting, as well as community improvements along conservation and ecological lines. Many other examples would describe ways the student would contribute to making his or her community a better place in which to live.

Student counselors can or will provide any interested student with application forms or further information, or students may contact Lew Phillips directly at C.A.P., 322 Crab Orchard Road, Lancaster, Kentucky, 40446, phone (606) 792-3051.

Fiscal Court To Meet Fri.

The monthly meeting of the Floyd Fiscal Court, originally scheduled for Mar. 16, has now been set for this Friday, Mar. 9, at 10 a.m., court officials announced this week. The court meets in the courthouse annex.

HOBERT'S PIZZARIA

LANCER KY

Honored at Riverview Manor

Riverview Manor's Valentine King and Queen were Tom Burchett, 56, of Prestonsburg, and Amanda Lafferty, 65, of Martin. They were honored during the Valentine Party held, February 14.

Victor Borge Concert Scheduled in Ashland

Concert pianist and funnyman Victor Borge will have a special guest during his March 19 engagement at the Paramount Arts Center in Ashland.

Coloratura soprano Marilyn Mulvey, a winner of the Metropolitan Opera National Finals, has joined the Victor Borge Company in his show entitled "Comedy in Music". She has previously sung professionally with the New York City Opera Company, the Metropolitan Opera, the Philadelphia Lyric Opera and in recitals with the London Philharmonic, the Boston Symphony and many other leading orchestras.

Limited seating is still available for the PAC performance.

Borge will be playing a Bosendorfer piano, which has 97 keys instead of the traditional 88. The $53,000 piano, which the Paramount is having trucked in from Indiana for the occasion, is considered the "Rolls Royce" of pianos, according to Borge. "Only it has smaller wheels," he laughs.

Kimball, the parent company, imports Bosendorfers from Vienna.

A concert by the Danish-born Borge is an evening rich in music, comedy and showmanship. "After two hours on stage with an audience equally divided in their likes and dislikes of classical music, it is incredible to hear them scream and shout for more," says the comedian/pianist, who is now an American citizen. "When I hear these cheers, I think I could stay on stage until my voice gave out completely."

Although Borge is noted for interrupting his classical pieces on the piano with bits of humor, he does play some pieces from start to finish. He feels that his informal style makes people feel more comfortable with the music, and his strong following among young people helps to introduce more people to the classics.

For ticket reservations, call the PAC weekdays at 606/324-3175.

For a children's book about life in Eastern Kentucky from 1880 to 1910, we would appreciate any recollections, anecdotes or access to family photographs and journals. We are also interested in games or toys popular at that time.

Panel Okay's Bills Affecting Both School Boards and Pupils

By MARY ANN ROSER
(In The Lexington Herald-Leader)
Two bills that could have a dramatic effect on Kentucky school boards and students were endorsed last week by the Senate Education Committee.

The more controversial measure, Senate Bill 202, would allow the state to intervene in "academically bankrupt" school districts. The committee voted 6-1 in favor of the bill.

SB 169, which won unanimous approval, would require the testing of students, with remedial help for pupils who fail to master basic skills. It would cost an estimated $25 million over a two-year period.

Both measures, included in budget packages proposed by Gov. Martha Layne Collins and Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald, now go to the full Senate for a vote.

McDonald and several others, including Lexington attorney Edward Prichard, chairman of the Prichard Committee on Academic Excellence, urged passage of both bills.

"This legislation will go far and perhaps farther than any single legislative proposal to bring about accountability," Prichard said, referring to SB 202. "It won't cure all the ills...but it will put school districts on the way to improvement."

If the bill is passed, the state—for the first time—could force academically deficient school districts to improve, McDonald said.

Under current laws, the state sets academic requirements but cannot force districts to meet those standards, Prichard said. "You gave us the hole but not the doughnut," he said.

What the bill would do is give the state "a management structure and clear-cut way to hold districts accountable," McDonald said.

Under SB 202, a school district that does not meet the state's academic performance standards would be required to work with the Department of Education on an improvement plan. The department would monitor the school district and offer assistance in complying with the plan, McDonald said.

But if a district fails to cooperate, the state superintendent and Kentucky Board of Education would be empowered to intervene in the local district.

In extreme cases, state officials could remove the local board and superintendent.

If taxpayers are going to be asked to "dig down into their pockets to contribute to a school system," they deserve SB 202, Prichard said.

The state Department of Education already has the personnel to do the job, McDonald said.

Asked how the department would identify deficient districts, she said a variety of factors—including student test scores, dropout rates and attendance records—would be considered.

Representatives of the groups that would be affected by the legislation—William Nallia, executive director of the Kentucky Association of School Administrators, and Larry Powers, director of governmental relations for the Kentucky School Boards Association—said they were not opposed to the bill.

"It is in much better form now than it was originally," Powers said after the meeting. Initially the bill would have held individual board members and superintendents personally liable for deficiencies, he said.

And Nallia told the committee that SB 202 would "contribute greatly to causing local districts to pull themselves up by the bootstraps."

SB 169 would have a similar effect, McDonald said. The testing bill goes hand-in-hand with the "academic bankruptcy" proposal, she said, because it would establish how well students are learning.

Under SB 169, the state Department of Education would set a "minimum level of basic skills" to be achieved by all Kentucky students. Pupils in grades three, five, seven and eight would be tested on those skills each year, and those who have failed to master basic skills would be placed in remedial programs.

The testing program, scheduled to take effect in the 1985-86 school year if approved, also would require eighth-graders to master the skills as a basis for promotion.

"We can no longer afford to let our children drift from grade to grade," McDonald said.

The testing would not replace the Comprehensive Test of Basic Skills, a nationally standardized test given to students in grades three, five, seven and 10.

In other action, the committee approved SB 223, which would require local school board members to have high school diplomas and report election contributions to the Kentucky Registry of Election Finance.

Celebrate Birthdays

Mr. and Mrs. John Henry, of Minnie, celebrated birthdays at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Gullett, of Paintsville. Relatives attending: Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Gullett and son, Lloyd Calvin; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Henry and son Kevin, from Minnie; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hill and son Matthew, of Chillicothe, Ohio; Mrs. Karen Brown and Nicole, of Columbus, Ohio; Phillis and Lisa Henry, of McDowell; and Lenore Gullett, of Paintsville.

P'burg UPS Center Reaches Safety Mark

Since December 1982, 23 drivers of the United Parcel Service facility in Prestonsburg have not had a single accident among them while on the job. That equals more than 5500 driver-days, one of the best in the history of the nationwide package delivery company.

"We place great emphasis on safety in all of our operations, but this record is exceptional," said Bob Johnson, who manages the Prestonsburg center. "It's amazing to think of all the hours these people have spent on the road, day in and day out, in good weather and bad, without so much as a scratch or dent."

The top driver of the group is Barney Walker, of Prestonsburg, who has gone more than 16 years without an accident. Other leading individual performances include Manual Howard, of Salyersville, with 13 years safe driving; Harvey Underwood, of Paintsville, with 12 years, and Henry Welch, of Salyersville, with 10 years.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

Smoking is a habit with little or nothing to recommend it. Yet stopping is seemingly almost impossible once the habit has seized you. The withdrawal symptoms are very real. Since the craving for nicotine seems to settle in the kidneys, one very real aid in stopping is a small, white pill containing lobeline sulphate. By taking this pill according to the package instructions, it helps displace the nicotine collected in the kidneys. It flushes it away, replaces it with a non habit forming product and eliminates the desire for cigarettes. The package instructions also suggest taking regular and frequent showers to wash away the nicotine that is expelled through the skin surface and pores.

Our pharmacists at COOLEY APOTHECARY are proud to enjoy our outstanding reputation for furthering and maintaining the highest ethical standards of our profession. As a result we have found over the years that many of our customers recommend us to their neighbors. When your physician prescribes medication for you or a member of your family have him call us. We are located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Master Charge and Visa. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9-5:30, Sat., 9-4.

HANDY HINT:
Lobeline sulphate is said to have an astounding effect on smoking habits.

KMA Joins in Fee Freeze

The president of the Kentucky Medical Association, James B. Holloway, Jr., M.D., announced last week that KMA applauds and joins the American Medical Association in urging physician members to freeze their fees for a one-year period.
"I know that many of our members have already demonstrated their commitment to keep patients' bills as low as possible. Our announcement today is a continued opportunity for Kentucky physicians to demonstrate that we are willing to do everything we can to hold down escalating health care costs," Holloway said. The KMA President stated that Kentucky physicians have historically been committed to providing their patients cost effective care of the highest quality.
In the past year and a half, when many Kentuckians became unemployed or uninsured, physicians, through their county medical societies and individually, established programs to provide such patients with low cost or no cost health care. "I urge all Kentucky physicians to take into account the financial circumstances of their patients—especially the unemployed, uninsured and elderly—and to accept reduced fees when warranted," Dr. Holloway said. In making these announcements, Holloway said, "Some five years ago, this Association urged its members to keep their fees below the cost of living index. Subsequently, we advised our members on methods to lower health care costs: we helped organize the Kentucky Voluntary Effort on Health Care Costs; we encouraged the formation of health care coalitions; and, through our corporate visitation program, we visited industry officials across the state and offered advice and assistance on health care cost programs. More recently, special programs have been set up for the unemployed and uninsured. Today's announcement is a way of saying our commitment is as strong as ever, and our efforts are ongoing."

Dr. Holloway pointed out that while a physician fee freeze is significant and will have some effect on overall costs, physician fees remain a small portion of total health care expenditures, constituting only 19 percent or less of all health care costs.

Chevrolet Begins Factory Construction In Atlanta

Detroit, Oct. 31.—An indication that the automobile industry is looking forward toward increasing prosperity was noted here today with the announcement by the Chevrolet Motor Company that construction will start immediately on a new Chevrolet assembly plant in Atlanta.

The Atlanta plant has been made necessary to adequately meet the requirements of the rapidly growing demand for Chevrolet cars in the South and at the same time to relieve the Cincinnati plant, which has been operating on an overtime basis to care for southeastern business as well as that from more immediate territory. The Atlanta plant will serve particularly Georgia, Florida and parts of Alabama and South Carolina.

When completed early next spring the plant will represent an investment of more than $2,500,000, covering acreage, buildings and equipment. Thirty-one acres of ground have been taken over for the Atlanta layout. Building plans call for 410,000 square feet of floor space, including plants, office and driveway shed.

The plant will be one of the largest and finest of its kind in the south with a capacity of 350 cars a day. Work will be provided for 1,200 people and the payroll will exceed $8,000 daily.

Completion of the Atlanta project will provide the Chevrolet Motor Company with eight assembly plants throughout the country and an export plant at Bloomfield, New Jersey. Domestic assembly plants are located in Flint, Mich., Tarrytown, New York, Norwood, Ohio, Oakland California, Buffalo, New York, Janesville, Wisconsin, and St. Louis, Missouri. In addition Chevrolet maintains manufacturing plants in Detroit, Bay City, Saginaw, Flint and Toledo.

Mrs. H. F. May, of Langley, was here Wednesday doing some shopping.

IVEL

GHOSTS' SHENANIGANS

Ivel was paraded on Hallowe'en night by the worst mob of "ghosts" in its history. A calf, a table cloth, and parts of buildings were painted with black oil by the mob of "spooks." W. D. Steele, teacher here, on going to the school found the coal scattered, parts of seats scattered and an outbuilding turned over the hill. After finding out the families represented in this mischievous party, he notified the heads of some of these families, who replaced the outbuilding.

G. C. See was in Allen last week.

W. D. Steele was in Prestonsburg Monday on business.

W. K. Steele, Sr., was in Ivel Tuesday.

J. K. Stratton went to Betsy Layne Tuesday.

C. C. Hughes left Sunday night for Big Shoal, where he is employed by the James Hatcher Coal Company as painter.

John Jarrell is cutting up corn this week.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

A Hallowe'en party was given at the Presbyterian Church Monday evening, and the occasion was marked by a large attendance.

Prizes were awarded Mrs. Winnie F. Johns for her costume as Queen of Sheba; Miss Mary Ellis as Queen of Hearts, and Mrs. Dock Bowling for the most comical costume.

Delightful refreshments were served. Proceeds were $25.

Lackey School News

(Last week's correspondence)

The biology class was out on a field trip Monday afternoon.

The Science Club is preparing a program for Friday, October 28. The evening's program is for the community.

Garrett's basketball team is scheduled to play Lackey's boys Saturday, October 29.

The boys and girls of Lackey High School were out for a picnic last Saturday afternoon. Messrs. Ishmael Triplett and T. W. Eversole and other teachers were with them and reported an enjoyable time.

A study-hall has been organized for the students here at night. The students have the privilege of coming to the school building and studying for a period of two hours. The study hall is under supervision of Ishmael Triplett, principal of Lackey School. The plan promises valuable results.

Miss Amma Robinson was called to Dinwood on account of the illness of her mother.

Four students, Ervin Conley, Marguerite Conley, Ella Triplett and Noria Triplett, are attending high school here. They are walking from up on Jones Fork, Knott county, but are doing excellent work.

PIPE LINE FOR NEW GAS LINE INTO TOWN

A carload of pipe has arrived and is being unloaded for the gas line to be laid from Prestonsburg to the Louisville Gas and Electric Company line, from which gas is procured for this place.

GLO

HALLOWE'EN

Monday night last, Hallowe'en was duly observed with the usual celebrations, although of a more sane nature than usual. Everybody, being possessed of the spirit of the occasion, joined in the sports, masquerading in such garbs that one could not tell to whom he was talking from "Adam's off ox." Only mischievous pranks were played and nothing of a damaging nature was done to property, save the usual advertising placed on store fronts and show windows.

FIRE AVERTED

On last Sunday morning shortly after dawn, at Lackey, the alarm of fire went forth, when it was discovered that the city "bastle" was on fire. Timely arrival of the bucket brigade soon subdued the flames, which in a very few moments would have enveloped the entire business part of the town. For a little while it looked as if the entire town would be swept away, but the heroic efforts of the citizens soon brought the blaze under control and thus prevented a disastrous fire.

BRIDGE PARTY

On Thursday evening of last week Mrs. Dave Cooley had as her guests Mrs. Chas. D. Schlegel, wife of our superintendent, Mrs. Tom Sexton and Mrs. George Hay, of Wayland, and a most enjoyable game of bridge proved to be the chief entertainment of the evening's gathering. Of course, the delicious refreshments served were part and parcel of the occasion and all present were highly pleased with the gathering, which is the first of a series planned for the season. Others will begin at different times and places at the will of the club.

Kentucky State Board of Health Officer Condemns Prestonsburg Water Supply

THE FOLLOWING IS A COPY OF A LETTER FROM DR. STEELE, DIRECTOR OF THE KENTUCKY STATE BOARD OF HEALTH:

Prestonsburg, Ky., October 31st, 1927

To the Honorable Mayor and Council, Prestonsburg, Kentucky.

After having made a careful inspection of your city water supply, we find that it is very unsafe for use by the people, and urge that immediate steps be taken to remedy this condition.

We recommend a modern filter plant to be installed as early as possible.

We do now condemn said water supply, but do not advise cutting off the water, but as an emergency measure we urge that all possible precautions be taken to see that all water from said city supply be boiled before being used for drinking, OR FOR ANY HOUSEHOLD PURPOSE, washing vegetables, utensils, etc.

M. W. STEELE, a Director
Kentucky State Board of Health.
GRANT RICE, Director
Floyd County Health Department.

Did you ever try to take a bath just after a rain? Was it really a bath or was it just a "MUD WALLER?"

WE ARE THE ORIGINAL FILTERED WATER CANDIDATES; AND PLEDGE OUR EFFORTS FIRST OF ALL TO THAT END. OUR NEW HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING MUST HAVE FILTERED WATER. Even if we would take a chance on our own lives and health, WE CANNOT AFFORD TO DO SO WITH THE LIVES AND HEALTH OF OUR CHILDREN.

YOU HAVE KNOWN US MANY YEARS; and KNOW THAT WE WILL CARRY OUT OUR PROMISES.

COAL BUSINESS

All the coal mines in this section have been a little inactive during the past two weeks, due to causes over which the operators have no control, but most of them are rather optimistic, as the outlook for the sale of domestic coal is quite promising throughout the entire country, and this gives sale for the entire output of the mines in this section.

OIL NEWS

Considerable activity is noted in this entire field. Several rigs are working, and a new one is being erected on Jones' Fork, about two miles from here, and the belief prevails that this locality will prove a good strike. The producing wells already here are being well cared for and the pumping continues.

BRIDGE PAINTING

Our iron bridge spanning the creek here to the railroad station is being treated to a new coat of paint, bright scarlet in color, adding greatly to the appearance of the structure, as well as giving protection against evil weather.

NEW BABY

W. S. Justice, well and favorably known in this county, is the proud father of a baby girl. Mr. Justice is at present store manager for the Elk Horn

Coal Corporation at Fleming and recently took the prize for having the best-kept store of any of the chain belonging to the Elk Horn Coal Corporation.

VISITS HOME

Rev. Henry Griffith and family left Sunday morning for a three weeks' stay among friends and relatives at Lowmansville, Ky.

Worth and Bernice Blankenship, of Louisa, who have been business visitors with us for the past week, returned home Tuesday morning.

George Beidenmiller, of Huntington, W. Va., was a business caller here Friday.

Mrs. Chas. Hughes returned Saturday from Fleming, where she had spent several days, the guest of her sister.

Soap Beat

Realistic rape boosts integrity of 'Search'

By Connie Passalacqua

Marcia McCabe

"Search for Tomorrow," one of daytime's base-ment-rated soaps, took a giant step up to integrity, if not popularity, last month when it aired a special documentary-style episode in which Sunny Adamson (Marcia McCabe) was raped by her TV news co-anchorperson Jack Benton (Jimmy Clark).

Because the two knew each other, Sunny is having a nightmarish time proving that the assault was actual-ly rape. The story line examines almost every angle of this "confidence" or "acquaintance" rape without the usual soap opera melodramatics.

Treating the subject seriously is the aim of both the show's producer, and its writers, Gary Tomlin and Jeanne Glynn. The writers consulted extensively with authorities at New York Women Against Rape, a counseling and referral service.

"Search" is providing an in-depth portrayal of what a woman has to go through to prosecute a rapist," says Stephanie Roth, a program coordina-tor of the Center, who was one of those consulted. "She has to go to the police, and usually winds up being interrogated as though she is the criminal herself."

So far, the show has por-trayed Sunny facing such humiliation. Miss McCabe, who has always winningly portrayed the forthright and intelligent Sunny, has been doing a fine job play-ing this story line with great dignity.

Maintaining the emotion-al stability of the character is another of the writers' aims. Says Tomlin, "I want-ed a story in which a wom-an was not necessarily res-cued from a situation by a 'white knight' — but res-cues herself. She gets out of it and copes with it. Not that she doesn't have help — but she is not rescued. She rescues herself."

If the show carries over such dignified and sensitive work into some of its other story lines, perhaps "Search for Tomorrow" itself can be rescued from its low-rated status.

HER LIFE AS A MAN

Robyn Douglass portrays a reporter who disguises herself as a man in order to get a sportswriting job in "Her Life as a Man," airing MONDAY, MARCH 12 on "NBC Monday Night at the Movies."

To Observe 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Bradley, of Van Lear, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary with an open house given by their children between 2 and 5 o'clock Saturday, March 17, at the Masonic Lodge, Second Street, Paintsville. The Bradleys have four children, 11 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. All relatives and friends are invited to attend. The couple request no gifts.

Moloney Insists on Budget Including Severance Tax Shift

Transportation Cabinet officials were told last Wednesday by Senate Appropriations and Revenue Chairman Michael Moloney to prepare a budget which would include the transfer of $47 million in severance tax. Moloney said it is apparent that the revenue is needed in the Road Fund, and present law clearly requires the transfer.

Moloney's remarks were made during testimony by Transportation Cabinet officials at the Senate Appropriations and Revenue meeting on Transportation.

Moloney read KRS 143.090 which states, "The department of transportation SHALL certify to the commissioner of the department of revenue the amount required to pay the debt service on the resource recovery road bonds. The commissioner of revenue SHALL transfer that money to transportation."

When asked by Moloney why this is not anticipated in the budget "since the statute says you SHALL," Secretary of Transportation Poore responded by saying, "We're adhering to the Governor's proposed budget."

Moloney said, "I'm surprised there hasn't been a law suit filed. The language is clear. Are we saying that Kentucky's word means nothing to bond holders?"

Previously, Transportation Cabinet officials testified that the Road Fund will be unable to meet essential services without the $47 million in severance tax or an amount equivalent to it.

The Governor's proposed budget recommends funding for resurfacing at less than one-third the amount requested by the Cabinet. There are no funds for major maintenance of the toll roads.

There are no funds for emergencies and virtually no funds for 100 percent state construction projects, including funds needed for possible industrial access roads to attract new industry.

The budget recommends funding for resurfacing at only $13.4 million in FY '85 and only $4.1 million in FY '86. For state construction the budget recommends only $4.6 million in FY '85 and $5 million in FY '86. Compared to FY '82 construction figures, the state spent $28 million and in FY '83, $38 million. For resurfacing in 1982 the state spent $38 million and in 1983, $27 million.

Based on the $13.4 million resurfacing budget, 358 miles of highway can be resurfaced, State Highway Engineer Robert Capito told the committee. "So in 50 years," Moloney responded, "we can resurface all our roads." Capito said an 18-year resurfacing cycle would be a good goal.

Poore agreed with Moloney that the return of the $47 million to the Road Fund would "take care of a lot of problems." Moloney asked, "Do you intend to push for the $47 million?" "Yes," answered Poore, "I would certainly like to have it."

Moloney also questioned the legality of the administration's recent freeze order and "service reduction plan" that would divert funds from the Road Fund to the State Police.

Play For Children Coming Here

The works of Swedish playwright Erik Vos have seldom been produced on the American stage. The Jenny Wiley Theatre and the Elkhorn Coal Corporation are sponsoring a performance of one of the first U.S. productions of Vos' play for children, "Professor Flarsky's Miraculous Invention."

The performance, to be held at 2 p.m., Sunday, March 18, in the auditorium of the Pike Technology Building on the Prestonsburg Community College campus, marks the first stop on the regional tour of the play performed by Virginia Tech's Theatre Arts-University Theatre.

"The play centers on six eccentric characters who become directly involved in the escapades of a miraculous invention—a machine which doubles people," said Kat Matassarin, the play's director. The play explores the effects of this wonderful machine on its inventor as well as the people who come in contact with it.

The production incorporates lyrics written by the author with original music composed by Tom McLoughlin. The music will exhibit a folk influence. "I wanted music that was flexible," said McLoughlin. "I wanted to be able to fit the music to the actors' voices." McLoughlin will also create the sounds the machine will make.

The machine itself posed a challenge to designer John Saari. "I had to think like Professor Flarsky in order to build a machine he could have invented," said Saari. "I used familiar, everyday items that the Professor might have found and that the children will recognize."

"The Jenny Wiley Theatre is proud to make this fine production available to the youth of eastern Kentucky," said Keith Stevens, managing director. "We also wish to express our gratitude to the Elkhorn Coal Corp., which is sponsoring this production."

May Heads Berea Personnel Staff

Martin D. May, 41, formerly of Prestonsburg, has joined Berea College as director of personnel.

May goes to Berea after 14 years with the University of Kentucky's Personnel Division where he served as a job analyst, managed training, employment and management development programs and, most recently, was employment manager for the Chandler Medical Center.

Before joining the UK staff in 1969, he was associated with the Monarch Life Insurance Company and was an employment counselor with the Kentucky Employment Services Bureau.

May earned an A.B. degree from the University of Kentucky in 1965 and completed his M.S. in higher and adult education at UK in 1978 with concentrations in organizational behavior, college administration, personnel administration and staff development. He serves as vice president of the association's Kentucky chapter.

He and his wife, Felicia, and children currently live in Richmond.

At Berea, May replaces John O. Henry who has accepted a personnel position at Indiana's DePauw University.

A 1960 graduate of Prestonsburg High School, May is a son of the late Martin Lee and Douglas Hopson May.

The American Cowboy:

The Making of A Myth

By MARY COMBS (Smithsonian News Service)

He sits tall in the saddle, is shy with ladies, stern with villains and scornful of duds. He can hold his liquor and his own in a fight with fists or sixshooters. His best friend is his horse. He can burst a bronco, throw a steer, rope anything that moves. Nothing fences him in or ties him down, except for the rare pretty schoolmarm.

The former army scout assembled this spectacle of real cowboys in 1882, and, Taylor says, "coupled their name forever with reckless, hell-for-leather horseback riding and feats of skill and daring."

The notion of the cowboy as criminal faded in the mid-1880s, possibly, Taylor says, because the booming cattle industry wanted a more positive image for the public—and potential investors.

horeseman, and his love for an Eastern schoolteacher. The Virginian was soon produced as a play, and a stampede of imitators followed. Among the immortals of the genre was Zane Grey's Riders of the Purple Sage (1912), the first in a string of tales set in a West that never existed. Grey's formula for success was simple: "virgins, villains and varmints."

Wister dedicated The Virginian to a New York-born politician and fellow Harvard graduate who had chosen the cowboy as his hero and had himself come to personify—to foe and friend alike—that bold image. He was President Theodore Roosevelt, sometime cattle rancher, leader of the Rough Riders—a Spanish-American War cavalry regiment composed of four companies of cowboys and one of elite New Yorkers—and author in 1888 of Ranch Life and the Hunting-Trail (illustrated by Remington).

20 GREAT YEARS AND GROWING UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY COMMUNITY COLLEGE SYSTEM

In celebrating February as American History Month each year, the Daughters of the American Revolution sponsor an essay contest in the public and private schools all over the United States.

Among the authors painting the cowboy in a romantic light was Owen Wister, who wrote his first Western story for Harper's in 1891. Eleven years later, he captured what was to be the essence of the myth in a tale of a noble young cowboy, a crack shot and superb

Many artists were leaders in their field. West, Copley, Peale and Stuart are some whose works are still highly prized today. Benjamin West was famous for his painting of Penn's Treaty with the Indians.

Meanwhile, the romantic cowboy moved onto the screen as "the strong, silent man of action with an independent but impeccable moral code."

In the early '20s," Taylor says, "it was a poor (radio) station indeed which could not boast a Lonesome Cowboy, an Oklahoma Yodler or a Sagebrush Sam,"

Soon, business began to appreciate the commercial clout of little cowpokes. Ralston Purina, sponsor of the Tom Mix radio show (so successful it outlived the star by a decade), created the Tom Mix Ralston Straight Shooters Club.

"The future forms that the mythical cowboy will take are uncertain," Taylor says, envisioning "the punk cowboy, the computer cowboy, the Third World cowboy, the astral cowboy. None of these could be farther from reality than the series of mythical cowboys that we have already created, yet all will be equally important as reflections of ourselves and our aspirations—which is, after all, the function of a myth."

U of L Newsletter Explains Legislation

Legislation is confusing. It is confusing to professionals; it is confusing to students. It is confusing to bankers, factory workers, retailers and educators. It is even confusing to legislators.

In an effort to alleviate some of legislation's confusion, the Government Law Center, a unit of the University of Louisville's College of Urban and Public Affairs, is publishing "In the Hopper," a periodic newsletter offering analyses and summaries of bills and resolutions being considered by state legislators. First published in December of 1981, "In the Hopper" is published weekly during General Assembly sessions and monthly between sessions.

According to Dr. Dee Akers, director of the Government Law Center, "In the Hopper" serves to "reduce the confusion—to simplify the legislative process as much as possible." Because of the increased responsibility of states in the federal system and the increased power of Kentucky's legislature, it is important that the "transactions of the people's business in the state capitol be communicated to the public in an organized, regular and continuous way."

"The legislature now plays a dominant role in the development of a multi-billion dollar budget, and in the regulation of every phase of life of three million Kentuckians. The citizen's only means of self-protection from this kind of power lies in being better informed about the power struggles that go on in the legislature." Although initially published as a service to state and county legislators, "In the Hopper" is now available to the public on an at-cost subscription basis.

It is the goal of "In the Hopper" publishers to become a reliable source of legislation information to all of Kentucky's urban areas and to maintain a viable legislature evaluation system. Organizers expect to encourage better legislation through "In the Hopper," especially urban impact legislation, and to better advise both officials and citizens on legislative action.

"The purpose of the newsletter's bill analysis is to give people an understanding of the effect of each piece of legislation in a non-technical way," said Akers. "In the Hopper" also helps U of L fulfill its urban mission by providing a community service."
