

Grigsby Reports to Board...

Schools Comply With Directives

Some Asbestos Found in Three Floyd Schools

School administrators have responded to all directives issued last month by the state Board of Education, Superintendent E.P. Grigsby, Jr. told Floyd school board members last week—and the state panel will apparently not be taking stronger action against the school district.

The state directives followed a report critical of Floyd school administrators by Don Fichtmaster, a state official who has monitored the system since last April. They called for stricter control over school lunchroom and athletic funds, better communication between administrators and citizens, tighter discipline at Allen Central High School, and a more efficient maintenance operation.

The month that followed the state report has seen many changes here, according to a report prepared by Grigsby for state Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald. Mrs. McDonald was asked by the state board to determine whether Floyd officials had responded adequately to their directives.

One thing that happened, Grigsby's report makes clear, is that a few heads

Wells Promises Kentucky To Be Model of Safety

Kentucky will soon become one of the first states to become solely responsible for enforcing workplace safety laws, and state Labor Secretary John C. Wells promised last week it would be a model for the nation.

In Prestonsburg for a seminar for labor readers Friday, Wells touted the benefits of the state's workers' compensation program and of safety programs now administered under the aegis of the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA).

The Labor Secretary also took the opportunity to blast articles appearing in the Louisville Courier-Journal earlier this year which were critical of the state's black-lung compensation program.

Primary responsibility for enforcing the 1973 law which brought new and stricter safety standards to the workplace has so far rested with federal inspectors in all states but Alaska and Hawaii. But, with OSHA's approval, three more states—Kentucky among them—are due to achieve "primacy" this summer.

Wells—an Auxier native who was brought into state government by former Gov. John Y. Brown, was a strong backer of Dr. Grady Stumbo to succeed Brown, but who was asked to stay on by Gov. Martha Layne Collins, anyway—has no doubts of the state's ability to assume its new responsibilities. "Kentucky has one of the best programs in America," he asserted.

Friday's seminar at Prestonsburg Community College drew leaders from mineworkers', machinists' and nurses' unions representing workers from Ashland to Pikeville. It was the second arm of a strategy that began last September with a seminar for area business leaders and is designed to reduce work-related injuries by educating both workers and managers.

Legislators Tell Poore Overweight Law Ignored

A 1984 law dealing with overweight trucks is not being enforced, a group of east Kentucky legislators told Transportation Secretary Floyd Poore last week.

The lawmakers complained that no money has been collected under the law to repair roads damaged by overweight trucks.

"We passed a bill to help truckers carry more coal and tried to put in provisions to return money to the coal-haul roads, but the bill is not being implemented," said House Majority Leader Greg Stumbo, of Prestonsburg. "The roads are being smashed to smithereens and not one dime has been collected."

Under the law, truck drivers or coa-

Gas Rate Drop To Benefit 1600 Floyd Families

For more than 1600 Floyd county families spread over a wide area there was good news last week. The upward trend in natural gas rates had, for them, not only been halted but finally had taken a welcomed drop.

They are among the 200,000 residential consumers in Kentucky who will benefit from the rate reduction plan to be implemented by Columbia Gas of Kentucky and the Columbia Gas Transmission Corporation.

The reduction results from an agreement negotiated at the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission by representatives of Columbia Gas, the Kentucky Public Service Commission and other gas distributors. The agreement was filed last Thursday morning in Washington, D.C. and will affect customers of the Columbia Gas distribution system in six states.

In Kentucky, not only will retail customers of Columbia Gas of Kentucky benefit from the reduction, but so will customers of 11 gas distributors who purchase wholesale gas from Columbia Gas Transmission Corp. and Columbia Gas of Kentucky.

BIG CATS, high-flying acrobats, clowns and cotton candy—basic ingredients for a day at the circus—were in abundance during Monday's two performances of the annual Shrine Circus extravaganza held at the high school gymnasium here.

Landowner Wins $637,886 Damages

Because Henry Martin, rather than Kentucky-West Virginia Gas Company, could have been selling gas from a well on his family's place at Drift, he is entitled to $687,883 in damages, a Floyd Circuit Court jury decided last week.

The settlement follows a decision handed down by Floyd Circuit Judge Hollie Conley a year ago, upholding the validity of a 1921 lease giving Martin's grandparents the option of buying all the natural gas they wanted for 30 cents per

Citizens Have a Part In Meeting of Board

Citizens were quick to take advantage this month of their newly-won opportunity to speak out at meetings of the Floyd Board of Education.

At the request of a citizens' group, and under pressure from state education authorities, the board agreed last month to set aside 15 minutes at the start of its monthly meeting for public comment.

The system—which requires speakers to sign up two minutes each—was given its first test last Wednesday.

The comments came thick and fast—prompting Superintendent E.P. Grigsby, Jr. to ask that future speakers leave the board a written statement, as well—in a spirit that was generally firm but civil.

Everett Akers, whose fiery oratory has sometimes scorched the board in the past, coolly presented a list of requests that included formation of a PTA at Martin and the opportunity for parents to inspect the school there—even sit in on classes—without advance notice.

Regena Lafferty brought before the board long-standing requests by Clark Elementary parents that a classroom trailer there be put into service and that their physical education teacher be reinstated on a fulltime basis.

The classroom accident in which a student's fingers were severed at Betsy Layne High School recently prompted Karen Marcum to inquire why the schools don't carry insurance on students. A senior class trip at Allen Central was of concern to Priscilla Martin. Barbara Burchett, of Prestonsburg, wanted to know why school buses could not run when main roads are clear of snow.

Grigsby said later he thought the comment period "went very smoothly" and said school officials would respond to the citizens' questions at the next board meeting, May 1.

Untenured teachers—even math and science teachers, who are usually in some demand—can expect to be fired if they don't measure up, board members indicated. The issue came up during discussion of a routine proposal to inform all untenured teachers that they may not be rehired next year—a precaution taken each year against the possi-

Driver of Auto In Fatal Wreck Penned 16 Years

As he was about to be tried on two murder charges stemming from an auto accident at Harold last October, a Shelbyana man pleaded guilty to manslaughter charges in Floyd Circuit Court Monday and now faces a 16-year pen term.

Members of his family sobbed as Elmer Ratliff, 35, agreed to change his not-guilty plea in the deaths last Oct. 6 of a Dayton, Ohio couple, into whose car he ran head-on as they travelled to a religious meeting in North Carolina.

Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen recommended that Ratliff be given 16 years on each count, the sentences to be served simultaneously. A conviction of first-degree manslaughter carries a penalty of up to 20 years. Circuit Judge Hollie Conley ordered a pre-sentence report on Ratliff and set sentencing for May 3.

Steven Perkins, 38 at the time of his death, and Brenda Perkins, 29, were travelling south on U.S. 23 around 12:30 p.m. when Ratliff's car, which was going in the opposite direction, crossed an elevated median and struck them, according to a police report. Ratliff was drunk, police said. He was charged with murder under a 1984 state drunk-driving law.

PLUMES OF SMOKE were visible in various sections of the county, Thursday and Friday, as forest fires, fanned by high winds, took a heavy toll on area woodlands.

Principals' Plan...

Will Challenge Area Schools In Athletics, Academics Too

Athletics and academics need not be mutually exclusive and five area high school principals have organized a competition to bring out the best in both worlds.

To be known as the Eastern Kentucky Academic and Athletic Conference (EKAAC), the new organization will provide full-scale academic and athletic competition for area schools in the 1986-'87 school year, with a view to selecting an overall EKAAC champion.

The schools will compete in five academic areas—humanities, math, science, social studies, and Scholastic Challenge—and in five athletic areas—baseball, basketball (boys and girls), football, and girls' softball. The competition is designed to heighten the schools' concern for their total program and to encourage students in a school to support one another, whether their talents lean more toward study or sports, organizers said.

A constitution for the new organization was approved here recently by the five principals—Robert May, of Prestonsburg High School, Russell Frazier, Betsy Layne High School, Frank Welch, Belfry, Tom Swartz, Pikeville, and John Hanev, Sheldon Clark. May was elected president of the organization.

"This conference has tremendous potential for bringing together the various facets of our schools in a common effort," May said. "We believe the academic competition will bring an excitement to this area that has previously been reserved for athletic competition."

Denied Insurance, Widow Sues Firm

The widow of a man who worked 35 years for Big Sandy Wholesale Co. at Harold has sued the firm for allegedly renegeing on an insurance policy it took out on his life.

In a suit filed last week in Floyd Circuit Court, Lassie Cool, of Pike county, said her late husband, Roy Fonso Cool, was told by Philip and Clyde Justice, owners of Big Sandy Wholesale, that a $20,000 life insurance policy they purchased on his behalf would be effective even after his retirement from the firm.

But premium payments made by Big Sandy Wholesale after Cool's retirement and after his death last April were refunded to the firm and the insurance carrier, Fidelity and Guaranty Life In-

Named Governor's Scholars

Lee Ann Bottoms

Patrick Allen

William Fleming

Lauren Slone

Four Prestonsburg High School students are among the 617 outstanding Kentucky high school juniors chosen to attend the 1985 Governor's Scholars Program.

Scholars will be in residence at Murray State and Western Kentucky universities. Dates for the sessions will be June 22 to July 26.

Announcing the names of students, Gov. Martha Layne Collins noted the high quality of applicants for the prestigious five-week academic enrichment program now in its third year.

"We also received the most applications since the program began," she said. "We are accepting more students than our stated goal of 600 because the selection committee found so many evenly matched students whom they could not turn down."

The students represent 114 of Kentucky's 120 counties, with the population distribution close to that of the high school juniors of the state: 27 percent of the scholars will come from Eastern Kentucky; 24 percent from Western Kentucky; 20 percent, Central Kentucky; 15 percent, Jefferson county; 14 percent, Northern Kentucky. Louisville and Northern Kentucky totals include a number of private school students.

"It is very encouraging that this fast-paced Kentucky program, which is already creating a tradition of outstanding intellectual challenge and excitement, is so attractive to good students that they make a total commitment of five weeks of their summer vacation to participate," Governor Collins said. Students must remain on campus for the entire session, including weekends.

Students choose a major course of study from areas ranging from mathematics to fine arts, with additional study in a second area. Scholars are challenged by a wide range of enrichment and extracurricular activities such as nationally known speakers and performers in science and the arts, experts in various fields of interest, field trips, intramural sports and many others.

To be eligible for the program students must:

—Score in the top 10 percentile of the statewide achievement test.

—Be nominated by at least two teachers who rate them on qualities ranging from intellectual curiosity and breadth of interest to attitude toward other students.

—Write an essay, to be evaluated, on one of three suggested topics.

—Be a Kentucky resident who intends to return to his or her present school district in the fall.

The Prestonsburg students selected for the 1985 program are:

David Patrick (Pat) Allen II, 483 South Lake Drive; Lee Ann Bottoms, P.O. Box 164; William Fleming, P.O. Box 1228; Lauren Marie Slone, R.R. 1, Box 291.

Chewing Tobacco Can Be Hazardous To Your Health

When lawmakers banned cigarette commercials from television, they hoped to cut down on the promotion of an unhealthy habit. But a University of Louisville dentist says the ban didn't go far enough.

Dr. Norbert Burzynski, professor and chairman of diagnostic science at the School of Dentistry, believes a jump in advertising for smokeless tobacco is spurring another epidemic.

Teenagers across the country are following the lead of sports heroes-turned-ad-spokesmen and taking up chewing tobacco, he says. The athletes usually appear with a pouch of smokeless tobacco and imply it isn't bad for your health.

"It's vogue for teenagers... It's a way of life and they think nothing will happen. But things do happen. Teenagers have died from oral cancer," he says.

Oral cancer is a disfiguring, traumatic and often fatal disease which begins in the mouth and throat area. It is almost exclusively seen in tobacco users. Once the cancer takes hold in the mouth, it can spread through the lymph glands and circulatory system entering the bones, lungs and brain.

Burzynski says it's the advertising of smokeless tobacco that angers him most. "I wish I had the money to take five minutes a day on TV and say, 'now, let's take this one and show you what they're doing.'"

He says the television ads imply that smokeless tobacco is a healthy alternative to cigarettes when, in fact, both uses of tobacco are addictive and harmful.

50 State Teachers To Be Named Soon To Attend Institute

The second annual Commonwealth Institute for Teachers will be held this year June 23-29 at the University of Kentucky.

Sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Education and the Kentucky Educational Foundation Inc., the institute is designed to enrich, inspire and challenge the state's top teachers to strive for educational excellence in their schools and districts.

Fifty teachers from across the state will be selected for the week-long institute and two follow-up seminars. Each participant will receive free room and board and a stipend of $400.

Application forms and instructions have been mailed to superintendents and principals of public and non-public schools. Teachers chosen to participate will be announced between May 20 and 27.

DISABILITIES AND DENTAL PROBLEMS

Q. Do disabled children have more dental problems than others?

A. Only a few disabling conditions are a direct cause of dental problems. (For example, children with certain genetic disorders will have teeth with defective, pitted enamel which decays easily.) Most disabled youngsters start out with strong, healthy teeth and gums. As they grow older, though, factors related to their disabilities can make them more susceptible to dental caries and periodontal disease.

They may require special diets, frequent small meals, or blenderized foods that promote dental problems. Or they may need help to drink, and so are likely to take less fluids. That way, they lose out on the rinsing benefits that remove food particles from around teeth, and get less fluorides than they should.

People often ply disabled children with sweets that promote cavities. Medications that are sugar-based or reduce saliva flow are also negative factors.

Like all children, the disabled should follow the 4-point oral health program: nutritious diet, daily teeth cleaning, use of fluorides, regular dental visits.

CHURCH GROUP MEETS

The Annie Allen Circle, W.M.U., of the Irene Cole Memorial (First) Baptist Church met Monday evening, April 1, at the home of Mrs. Eva Collins, with Mrs. Patti Minns, vice-president, presiding in the absence of the president, Mrs. Ruby Garrett. Mrs. Zella Archer, chairman of the Nominating committee, presented a list of officers and committee chairmen for the coming year, as follows: President, Mrs. Patti Minns; vice-president, Mrs. Zella Archer; secretary and publicity, Mrs. Docia B. Woods; treasurer, Mrs. Rebecca Rasnick; Mission Study, Mrs. Eva Collins; Mission Action, Mrs. Lucy Regan, and Mission Support, Mrs. Vivian Fraley.

It was announced that the W.M.U. associational meeting will be held at the First Baptist Church at Allen, Tuesday, April 16, and that the Rev. Don McGuire would show films on "Kenya" at that time. Mrs. Eva Collins, president of the Local Churchwomen, announced that this group will meet Friday, April 19, at 10:30 a.m.

Mrs. Minns, on behalf of the president, announced that the Annie Armstrong Easter offering as of that date was $588. Mrs. Sarah Laven gave an informative report on "What Are We Baptist Women?"

Mrs. Vivian Fraley read a list of the Baptist missionaries who are observing birthdays during the month of April, and prayer was said for them, by Mrs. Eva Collins.

The hostess, Mrs. Collins, served a dessert course to Mesdames Patti Minns, Zella Archer, Lucy Regan, Vivian Fraley, Goldia Williams, Sarah Laven, Susan Akers, Ada Meade, and Ora Bussey.

The next meeting will be Monday evening, May 6, at 7 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Vivian Fraley.

HOME FROM COLLEGE

Among the college students home for the Easter weekend were Jack Carter Wells, son of Mrs. Jack F. Wells, and Miss Jennifer Burke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Burke, both of Centre College, Danville; Miss Rhondetta Goble, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Goble, Eddie Bradley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Danny Rowe, and Karen Hager, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hager, all of the University of Kentucky, Lexington, and Miss Laura Cooley, daughter of Mayor and Mrs. Harold Cooley, from Western Kentucky University, Bowling Green.

Seeking Disabled Artists

A woman paralyzed in youth by polio who paints; a craftsman injured in a farm accident who still creates his masterpieces in wood; a blind woman active in the church choir and Gospel sings—all these people are artists with disabilities or handicaps. And the Advocado Press is looking hard to find them, to feature in a directory of disabled Kentucky artists.

The Advocado Press, Inc., publisher of The Disability Rag, is a non-profit small press located in Louisville. The Press has received a grant from the Kentucky Arts Council to compile a directory of disabled or handicapped Kentucky artists and craftspeople. The project is part of an effort to showcase the talents of artists with disabilities through a directory to be released next year.

The Press asks anyone who knows a disabled or handicapped artist to write or call them with information. If you are a disabled artist yourself, contact the Advocado Press today. We need to find you!

If you have information, contact: The Advocado Press, Disabled Artists Directory Project, Box 145, Louisville, Ky. 40201 (502) 568-4475.

NUMB ARMS, LEGS
Warning Signals

There may be misalignment of vertebrae in the spine causing pressure on nerves, yet the patient experiences no pain in the back. Instead, a variety of sensations may be felt in other parts of the body. These include tingling, tightness, hot spots, cold spots, crawling sensations, electric shock sensations, stinging, burning, and others.

The following nine symptoms involving back pain or strange sensations are often the forerunners or more serious conditions. Any one of these may spell back trouble.

- (1) Paresthesias (see above) (2) Headaches (3) Painful joints (4) Numbness in the arms or hands (5) Loss of sleep (6) Stiffness in the neck (7) Pain between the shoulders (8) Stiffness or pain in lower back (9) Numbness or pain in the legs.

These signals may indicate your body is being robbed of normal nerve function. Until this function is restored, you will, in some degree, be incapacitated. The longer you wait to seek help, the worse the condition will likely become. Don't wait! Should you experience any of these warning signals . . . call for in depth consultation in Layman's terms.

TO ALL FLOYD COUNTIANS IN
MAGISTERIAL DISTRICT NO. 2:

During the last few weeks, various candidates for the office of Magistrate, District 2, have made great claims as to their qualifications for the office by virtue of their ability to operate a truck, bulldozer or other road-building equipment. I simply ask you, the voters, to decide if the problems we have experienced in getting the best services for our citizens are the result of our inability to find qualified truck drivers or heavy equipment operators. I believe that the most pressing need for Magisterial District No. 2 is for a Magistrate who has the integrity and ability to use the Two Million Dollars that is available each fiscal year in a manner that has no selfish interests. We simply don't need a better man to handle County equipment, we need a better man to handle the County's money. Your Magistrate must be able to rise above any personal need, greed, or temptation to use your tax dollars for his own self-employment, or for the benefit of his family or supporters. Simply put, the reason that your road or bridge is not maintained as you think it should be is because your representative, your Magistrate, has not used integrity or intelligence in the spending of the monies available for you. I promise to do so. With the monies available, I promise to simply HIRE the best men available for the operation of County equipment. After all, that's how this system is supposed to work—to take your public monies and spend them to HIRE qualified road workers, not ELECT them.

I ask that you vote for an individual who is not working for anything except an opportunity to serve you. This I will do by taking every public dollar and with honest effort see that it is spent in a manner that best serves our common needs.

Why Only One?

State Treasurer Frances Jones Mills stands indicted by a grand jury on testimony produced through the efforts of Attorney General David Armstrong, and it could well be that she deserves to be indicted.

Yet, somehow, the old, hackneyed expressions come to mind when one considers the case against her: "sacrificial lamb," "scapegoat," for example.

As we understand the matter, Mrs. Mills is accused of using employees of her office in her own political behalf while they were being paid for working for the state.

Frances Jones Mills may be guilty, as charged. But we wonder: How many others now in office, and how many who have been in office, committed the same offense, and not a whisper heard against them? How many have driven state cars while doing some "unofficial" campaigning for office? How often have other officials used office help to further their chances of being elected all over again?

True, you've got to start somewhere, and to issue a clean bill of health to Mrs. Mills might be compounding the felony and trying to make two wrongs equal right; but if the end result of this case is to be the penalizing of only one of a dozen (or dozens) who are equally guilty, certainly the whole affair becomes a miserably poor example of justice.

"We came to tell them, this is the law, these are the regulations, these are your rights, these are your responsibilities... If you don't adhere to them, we will take corrective action," Wells said of the seminars. The Labor Secretary also said he was "proud to have the confidence of both" labor and management in preparing the state for primacy, confidence he said was won by being "firm but fair" in enforcing safety regulations.

Wells had harsh words to describe stories on the state black-lung program which appeared in the Courier-Journal on Jan. 27. The stories, by staff writer Richard Whitt, suggested the state compensation program might be too liberal in awarding claims and is increasingly burdensome for the companies that are taxed to support it. Claims made in the stories were "wrong, indefensible," and represented "an apparent effort on the part of the Courier-Journal to drastically change the black-lung program," Wells said.

One of the stories said critics viewed the black-lung program as "something closely akin to massive public fraud." In response, Wells said, "I think there is something wrong when a newspaper calls the black-lung program little more than a public fraud without even talking to the administrator of the program. I didn't even get a call on it."

The Labor Secretary predicted the newspaper's alleged campaign to curtail the black-lung program would fail. "I don't detect any sentiment in the General Assembly to follow the lead of the Courier-Journal," he said.

According to the agreement, average bills for residential retail customers of Columbia Gas of Kentucky will decrease by $4.50 per month. The company will reduce bills by 45 cents per thousand cubic feet of gas used. The average residential use is 10 thousand cubic feet per month.

Customers of four Kentucky companies that buy wholesale gas from Columbia Gas of Kentucky will also see monthly reductions of about $4.50, or six percent. Those companies are Auxier Road Gas Co., Elzie Neeley Gas Co., Phelps Gas Co., and Martin Gas.

Bills for customers of five distributors that buy wholesale gas from Columbia Gas Transmission Corp. will decrease by eight percent, also $4.50 per month. Affected companies are Belfry Gas, Elam Utility, Mt. Olivet Natural Gas, Pendleton County Water District—Gas Division, and Western Lewis-Rectorville Gas and Water District.

According to the agreement, the reduced rates will be effective until April 1, 1987.

Affected by the settlement in this county are:

- Customers who are among the 102,000 served by Columbia Gas in 20 Eastern and Central Kentucky counties;
- 440 customers in the Prestonsburg area served by the Auxier Road Gas Co., which buys gas from Columbia;
- 80 customers of the Elzie Neeley Gas Co., which buys Columbia Gas;
- Martin Gas, Inc., which serves 403 customers in and around the City of Martin with gas purchased from Columbia;
- Belfry Gas, Inc., which serves 715 customers in and around Allen with Columbia Gas.

Marvin E. White, chairman of Columbia, said Columbia of Kentucky will pay $19 million less for the gas it buys from Columbia Gas Transmission Corp., and that this reduction will be reflected, dollar-for-dollar, in customers' bills.

While the agreement is for two years, White said he is hopeful that the price will continue to be competitive beyond that time.

Columbia Gas of Kentucky and other gas distributors, together with representatives of the Kentucky Public Service Commission, negotiated an agreement with Columbia Transmission to resolve long-standing disputes over the pipeline company's gas purchasing practices, White said.

Pikeville attorney Larry Webster, who represented Ratliff, said his client was so anxious to settle the case that he had to be discouraged from accepting the 20-year sentence on which the Commonwealth initially insisted. The recommended 16-year sentence is "not unfair," Webster said, but added, "Sixteen years is a long penalty for an accident. We keep losing sight of that."

Webster predicted that the victims' families "will be sorry one day that they wanted to exact such vengeance."

The plea bargain followed a conference among attorneys which interrupted the court proceeding immediately after the attorneys had made their opening statements to the jury. It meant an abrupt end to the trial, which was being filmed for the Cranial National Film Board as part of a series on drunk-driving cases.

Want to get quick rich quick? All you have to do is prove that a creature called "Ogopogo" really exists, reports National Wildlife's Ranger Rick magazine. "Ogopogo" is said to be a large unknown animal that looks like a sea serpent, living in Canada's Lake Okanagan, near Vernon, British Columbia. Is the reward a joke? No way! The money has been guaranteed by "Lloyds of London."

bility of layoffs in the new school year. Math, science and learning disabilities teachers are usually exempted from the notice, since it is assumed they will be needed in the new year, but school officials worded this year's resolution in a way that will permit administrators to fire even math and science teachers who prove incompetent. "What's the use of evaluating teachers if we can't act on it?" Grigsby explained.

Teachers become eligible for tenure after they have been teaching for four years and have been hired for a fifth. Unless non-tenured teachers are notified by April 30 each year that they may not be re-hired the following school year, they are automatically re-hired.

State and federal officials have approved a "dropout prevention" plan devised by the pupil personnel department here, Asst. Supt. Ron Hager told the board. The plan calls for two itinerant teachers to give one-on-one tutoring to students identified as potential dropouts at Prestonsburg, Betsy Layne, and Allen Central high schools.

Hager also announced formation of a committee, made up of teachers, citizens and students, which will develop a uniform discipline code for Floyd schools.

Transferred to the Dropout Prevention Program were teachers Ricky Jones and Patty Elliott. Also transferred were Ervin Pack, from principal at Wheelwright to physical education teacher at Osborne and Melvin grade schools, and Wilbur Jamerson, from classroom teacher at Wheelwright to principal there. The resignation of J. O. Dingus as principal at Allen Central was accepted, effective as of the end of the current school year.

Hired were: Ricky Kidd, Rebecca G. Gullion, Bronley Williams, and Wayne E. Gullion, emergency substitute teachers, and Vickie T. Ratliff, certified substitute teacher; Nellie Earler, head cook at Auxier; Brenda Conley, janitor at Garrett, and Ricky Hancock, part-time janitor at Allen Central; Marie Miller, John McIntosh, Donald Johnson, and Paul Williams, substitute bus drivers, and Joe Daniels, regular bus driver at Prestonsburg.

rolled. Principals were asked to resign at Wheelwright and Allen Central high schools and the janitor in charge of Allen Central's pool and gym area was let go.

The school system's janitorial and maintenance departments have shaped up, the report says. Custodians have new schedules, more supplies to work with, and a better idea of what they are expected to do. The maintenance staff has been busy, installing restroom partitions at Allen Central, replacing electrical wiring at Wayland, and patching leaks at Melvin.

Grigsby, whose administration was criticized for not being open to the public, could report that citizens are now given the floor at the start of monthly board meetings. Vending machines, which state officials said were being operated as a private business by two board employees, have been removed, the report noted. And steps are being taken to eliminate illegal deficits in school lunchroom and activity accounts, it said.

A mannequin, lying prone on the boardroom floor Thursday, was another sign of the shake-up in the school system: maintenance personnel were taking lessons in cardiopulmonary resuscitation—the first in a promised series of training sessions.

A survey of all school buildings revealed five places—including the first-grade classroom at Prestonsburg Elementary—with exposed asbestos. Visible fibers have been painted over and efforts will be made to remove or enclose the material, Grigsby told state authorities. Asbestos, an insulating material that has been linked with cancer, was also discovered in the Prestonsburg grade school boiler room and a basement storage area, in the Wheelwright gym and boiler room, and in the boiler room at Osborne Elementary.

Plans are under way to make an inventory of janitorial supplies, to improve security, and to conserve energy. Finding a larger storage area will probably have to await construction of a new Allen grade school, however, and school officials here have not been able to find step-vans for the maintenance department—another state recommendation—at a price they can afford, the report says.

Floyd officials agreed to compromise with the state on a plan for construction of new facilities, which now lists the top three priorities, in order, as: a middle school in the Prestonsburg area, a new grade school at Allen, and a single school to replace McDowell and Wheelwright high schools.

The middle school proposal represents a concession by state officials, who originally insisted that all Floyd schools be organized around a K-8 plan. The consolidation of McDowell and Wheelwright high schools, on the other hand, was a victory by state planners over local officials, who have consistently resisted consolidating high schools.

The state school board, which threatened last month to take "the strongest steps we can legally take" if Floyd administrators did not correct deficiencies here, planned no further action this month, although Department of Education officials will continue to monitor progress here.

"I think they have made some progress," Fightmaster was reported as saying last week, "but they still have a lot of work to do."

thousand cubic feet. Attorneys for Kentucky West had argued that, in leasing the gas underlying A.L. Martin's 87 acres on Frozen Branch, the Kentucky Coke Company intended their offer of cheap gas to be for use only in the two homes and a storage building on the property. They made that clear to A.L. Martin's son, Gomer, when he tried to exercise the family's option on the gas in 1966, the gas company said.

Gomer Martin died in 1983, two years after the present suit was filed.

Jurors began hearing evidence last Monday on what damages the Martin family was entitled to for lost profits. In an instruction Wednesday, Judge Conley fixed the upper limit at $897,329. The jury returned its verdict after about an hour's deliberation. The gas company is expected to appeal the decision.

Insurance Co., has refused to pay out on her husband's policy, Mrs. Cool claims. The insurance companies that issued four policies on her husband's life were negligent in not telling him that Big Sandy Wholesale changed the types and amounts of the policies, the widow said. She seeks the $20,000 face value on the policy which was allegedly in force on her husband's death and an unspecified amount in punitive damages.

Another suit filed last week seeks damages from a coal company and its driver in the 1983 death of author Leonard W. Roberts. Roberts was 71 when he turned onto U.S. 23 at the mouth of Mare Creek and into the path of a truck driven by Charles H. Lytton, of Blacksburg, Va., for Rebel Coal Co.

A well-known folklorist, Roberts was a professor at Pikeville College. His widow, Edith Roberts, claims that Lytton was travelling at a "high and dangerous rate of speed" at the time of the accident. No charges were filed against the truck driver at the time.

(Suits filed in court give only one side of the issues in dispute.)

Urges Attendance At Hearing Here

Kentucky's leaders of the Twenty-First Century will come from the schools of today. Are students getting the education necessary to prepare them to be tomorrow's leaders? Are they being prepared to be responsible citizens who can cope in an age of high technology? Do the people of Kentucky want better schools?

These are some of the questions that I and members of the Kentucky General Assembly's Interim Joint Committee on Education hope will be answered during a series of public hearings being conducted throughout the state this spring.

In 1984, the General Assembly passed a number of bills which began the long process of educational reform for Kentucky. In 1986, we will again be faced with the task of deciding how to vote on approximately 1,500 bills, many of which will directly affect education. The questions concerning education are too important to be totally researched and understood during the short time frame of the legislative session. We need to have clear-cut goals long before that time—goals which are established by the citizens of the Commonwealth.

We are all aware that there are many groups outside of government which are vitally concerned and are dedicated citizens who want to improve Kentucky's educational systems; however, the responsibility will be that of the General Assembly. It will be the 138 members who will make the final determination on a comprehensive legislative package which will give new direction to education in Kentucky in the coming years.

On April 18 and 19, the Committee will conduct five hearings in Richmond, Morehead, Prestonsburg, Hazard and Harlan to hear from the citizens of Eastern Kentucky. The Big Sandy area meeting will be at 5:30 p.m., April 18, in the Pike Building, Prestonsburg Community College.

I urge you to take the opportunity to attend one of these meetings. I assure you that whether you speak or choose to submit your comments in writing, they will be considered as we draft legislation to further educational reform in the Commonwealth.

State Senator

Student Creativity Ranges from Robots To Far-Out Vehicles

A robot that can do class work in math, science and geography is more than a fantasy for students taking part in what has become Kentucky's largest academic competition.

Creating such a robot is one of the long-term problems tackled by youngsters taking part in the state finals of Kentucky OM, formerly Olympics of the Mind, at 8 a.m. April 20 at Kentucky State University, Frankfort.

Other teams will present a show with a circus theme, develop a vehicle that can transplant trees for a "tree farm," build a structure of balsa wood to support a maximum amount of weight, and link a visual presentation to classical music.

Solutions to long-term problems will be judged in the finals, and spontaneous problems to be solved within a strict time limit will be presented to each team. Students will compete in three divisions—grades one through five, six through eight, and nine through 12.

"OM is a top-quality academic competition that encourages students to use their creativity to find new and different ways of doing things, to come up with new solutions to problems," Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald said.

McDonald will present awards to the winners in a ceremony at 4 p.m. April 20 at the Farnham Dudgeon Civic Center. The winning teams will represent Kentucky at the world finals in College Park, Md., from June 5 through 8.

Jim Gregg, coordinator of gifted education for the Kentucky Department of Education, said more than 1,500 students from throughout the state would take part in the finals.

Because of the growth of the competition, regional or district competitions were held for the first time this year to choose the finalists, he said.

Panel Slates Hearing Here

The final schedule of locations and times for the April 18-19 public hearings on education hosted by the Interim Joint Committee on Education has been set.

Richmond will be the committee's first stop. The meeting will be held in the Carl Perkins Building on Eastern Kentucky University's campus from 8:30 a.m. to 10 a.m., April 18.

Legislators will then travel to the Carl Perkins Community Center in Morehead for a 1 p.m. hearing, and finish the day at Prestonsburg Community College with a 5:30 p.m. meeting.

On April 19, the committee will be on the road again for a 10 a.m. meeting at the Hazard City Hall, and will wrap up its two-day swing through Eastern Kentucky at Harlan Elementary School with a 2:30 p.m. session.

All hearings are scheduled to last 90 minutes.

Rep. Harry Moberly, D-Richmond, a member of the education panel, said he feels the April hearings will be as successful as the first series held last month.

"These meetings help us (legislators) reaffirm some of the ideas we already have about what's needed in education," Moberly said, "and it lets the people know we're interested in hearing from them."

Common threads are becoming evident in the hearings, said co-chairman of the education panel Rep. Roger Noe, D-Harlan. "The same kinds of issues are emerging at every meeting. The major ones are of consequence to the entire state, such as quality teachers, teacher salaries and funding for elementary and secondary education," Noe said.

Both Noe and Moberly agreed that the main emphasis will continue to be on funding for the state's education system.

The committee will conduct the final round of its regional hearings on May 16-17, traveling to Bowling Green, Owensboro, Madisonville, Paducah and Hopkinsville. Times and locations of those meetings will be released later.

Noe and state Sen. Nelson Allen, D-Greenup County, who co-chair the education panel, will alternate chairmanship of the public hearings.

How To Get Insurance Firms To Stay in Area, Meet Topic

Burning your house down for the insurance might seem riskier if your neighbor is upset about the effect on his premiums.

That is one reason insurance representatives are getting the word out that coverage will cost a lot more here—and may be impossible to purchase at all in rural areas—unless eastern Kentucky can shed its image as a place that is high on arson and low on public indignation.

For the second time in as many weeks, area insurance agents, underwriters, and bankers met Tuesday with officials of the state Department of Insurance to discuss ways of coping with the growing reluctance of insurance firms to do business here.

One thing he cannot do, Insurance Commissioner Gilbert McCarty told the May Lodge meeting, is to force underwriters to stay. "There is no statute requiring them to write policies in a particular area, especially when they are losing money," he said.

And, despite some claims that insurance firms are manufacturing a crisis in order to justify higher premiums, McCarty insists that the crunch is real. Six firms serving 14,000 policy-holders in Kentucky have gone broke in recent months and "five or six" more are likely to go under in the next few months, he said.

Arson—the incidence of it, the difficulty in getting convictions for it, and community tolerance of it—is a major reason insurance companies are taking losses on homeowners' policies, industry representatives said. And the problem of home fires, whether of suspicious origin or not, is heightened by the area's primitive fire protection services, they said.

An eight-county area in eastern Kentucky represents 15 percent of his company's business, said Tim Alford, of the Commonwealth Life Insurance Co., but accounts for 50 percent of the firm's suspicious fire losses. "Who pays for that? Everybody else," he said.

The effects can be far-reaching, Alford warned: "If companies will no longer write insurance, you can't get a loan on a house or car, you can't operate a business. The economy begins to sputter, then it comes to a stop."

The insurance industry is at least partly to blame for the mess it's in, acknowledged Bill Horn, a representative of U.S. F. and G. Insurance Co. Some companies which cut rates to attract business when interest rates were high were unable to stay afloat when interest rates dropped and claims started to mount. "We need to have more prudent pricing," Horn said.

But Bob Hale, of Ohio Casualty Insurance Co., said his firm's losses were especially high in eastern Kentucky. Ohio Casualty last year paid out $109 for every $100 it took in on homeowners policies, he said, but in this area it paid out $136.50. Communities here are "going to have to spend money to upgrade fire protection systems," Hale said.

Eastern Kentucky's insurance squeeze is a "society problem," McCarty said. "Society has to decide how far it wants to tolerate people making fraudulent claims. Society has to decide if it wants to pay for fire protection," he said. "When people decide they want to take a hand in things that affect their rates, the rates will come down."

The biggest complaint against some politicians in Floyd county—is that after they win their election and get in office—they sit down in their chair, put their feet up on the desk and wait four years until the next election. Then—they come out of "hibernation"—STRIKE A LICK OR TWO—and loudly say "look what a good boy am I." MOST of our roads in District One haven't seen a NEW GRAVEL or an OLD GRADER in 3½ years. If you have had enough of this kind of "bull and baloney", now's your chance to do something about it—change it with your vote. Vote for new leadership! Vote for service to the people! Vote to get something done! Vote for Bill Ray Collins for a full time working Magistrate in District One.

COMMUNITY PATROL

I know we all have reservations about leaving our homes unattended because we are afraid they will be robbed while we are away.

One of my plans, when elected Sheriff, is to form throughout our county a community patrol so we can keep a closer watch on our homes and loved ones.

When I say community patrol, I mean we will set up a police unit within any willing community in our county, and have volunteer policemen to patrol their neighborhoods, with direct communication to the Sheriff's department, which will have a dispatcher on duty 24 hours a day.

This way we will be able to respond immediately to any emergency and will be able to keep crime at a minimum, with no extra cost or tax to the people.

By making the community a safer place in which to live, new businesses may take a closer look at us and decide this is the county in which to build and provide job opportunities for our people.

Transplanted Floyd Countian Quite Busy at Ohio Crossroads

By CAMI BOHRER
 (In The Ashland, O. Times Gazette)
 A native of Craynor in Eastern Kentucky, Freeman Hamilton Sr., has transplanted his home, his skills and his energies to turn a country crossroads into a rural business center.

The location is the intersection of two highways, U.S. 250 and U.S. 224, two major roadways but located in the middle of an open farming area (near Ashland, Ohio).

There are three businesses involved. The most obvious is J & F Bargain Center, a "general store"-type retail establishment covering 7,500 square feet of space. The store specializes in "everything except groceries," as Hamilton puts it. Next door is J & F Furniture.

Across the street is Hamilton Realty, which is Hamilton's official full-time career now as family members tend to much of the day-to-day operation at the bargain center.

Next door to the real estate office is Travel Inn Motel, owned by Hamilton since 1982 and providing him with a birds-eye view of his stores as he mans the desk at night.

Then, up the street and next to the stores is his residence, a home built in 1973.

Hamilton made his way north to these crossroads in stages, bringing with him his bride—and high school sweetheart—Melvina.

In a soft-spoken voice that still carries traces of his hometown accent, Hamilton says he first moved to Ashland, Ky., where he and his father ran a dairy farm. That's also where he was when the call came for World War II military duty, duty that eventually included service at the Battle of the Bulge.

When he came home, Hamilton moved to a southern Ohio farm for four years but found that the business world was where he really wanted to be.

So, in the spring of 1950, he and his family packed up and moved to Ashland County (Ohio) and a series of businesses, owning first a tavern, then a combination service station, garage and used car lot in Ruggles. He also sold insurance for a couple of years.

Seeing a need for a discount sales business to serve people living between towns like Norwalk and Ashland, Hamilton, in partnership with his father, built the first J & F building in 1960, specializing in items in the hardware and furniture lines.

Obviously, his instincts were right because, in 1973, a second building was added and Hamilton says he could still use more space for merchandise.

The bargain center and furniture store draw customers from all over the country, according to Hamilton, due in part to their location at two main highways.

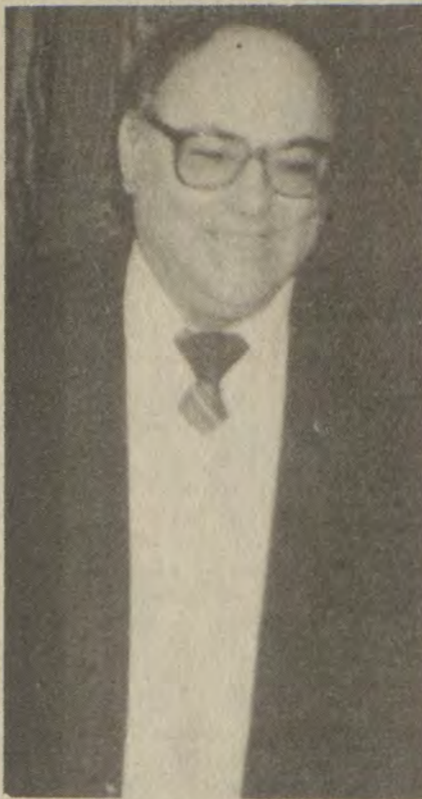

However, the general merchandise part of the bargain business appears geared to the rural needs of those who live nearby with a sizeable hardware section and lots and lots of work boots and blue jeans, going well into the large sizes so difficult to find in many stores. The other business deals in furniture and home decorating needs.

With two of his three sons, his daughter and his wife handling the daily operation of the stores now, Hamilton has, for the past 5½ years, worked on developing his real estate business, where he is a broker. He has eight certificates in real estate and is a member of the local, state and national boards of Realtors.

He also belongs to the Eagles in Ashland, to the Moose Lodge in Norwalk, to the American Legion in Mansfield and to Veterans of Foreign Wars in New London.

He and his wife have eight grandchildren.

To relax, Hamilton says he likes to follow his two sons' country bands to club dates to listen to them. And though he says he would like to play more golf, he finds he never really has enough time for the sport, even in the summer.

A layer of soil no thicker than the width of a dime, spread across an acre of farmland, weighs about five tons, says National Wildlife magazine. That's all the amount of soil most American farmlands are able to replace, naturally.

Lexington's Hospitality House Offers Rest, Support for Many

An all-too-familiar ordeal for the people of this area is the hospitalization of a family member far from home. Besides dealing with the emotional turmoil of a loved one's illness, families must often face the added strain of sitting up long nights in the rooms and hallways of a hospital or facing the extra financial burden of a motel.

The Hospitality House in Lexington was established three years ago in answer to the needs of those who might have relatives seriously ill in a hospital there.

One of only 10 such facilities in the U.S., it provides a free bed, one meal a day (supper), cooking facilities, and information and support for those who need help in dealing with the various aspects of illness and hospitalization.

"Many guests here are having to deal with the possible death of a loved one," says director Terry Hale Hicks McMaster, "and you might think this would be a gloomy place to stay. It is actually quite a cheerful group that is usually here. I think they have a need to leave their troubles behind them for a bit."

As Mrs. McMaster points out, many of those staying there have been carrying the burden of a patient's care all alone, but now, perhaps for the first time, they can share that responsibility and that has to be a relief. The Hospitality House is a place to rest for people who very much need a break.

Many Floyd countians are already familiar with the Hospitality House, as 85% of the guests are from Eastern Kentucky. Mrs. McMaster, who has a degree in medical sociology with special studies in death and dying, has Eastern Kentucky roots. She is the daughter of Floyd county natives, Celia Hale Hicks and Ben Frank Hicks, who are now living in Morehead. "There's very much a family feeling here," says Mrs. McMaster.

There are 17 beds and five couches in the Victorian-style home. The arrangements are dormitory-style, with five beds to a room.

The house serves all hospitals in Lexington, and people are referred to it by a hospital's social worker or chaplain. Eligibility for referral to the house is not based on financial circumstances but solely on whether or not a person is truly a "support person." (A support person can be anyone who can provide the patient emotional support in a difficult time. Having someone nearby who cares is often an important factor in a patient's recovery, Mrs. McMaster says.)

The Hospitality House asks nothing of its guests except positive identification and that they be 14 years of age, or older. Aside from limited room, the age restriction is required by the state fire marshal. Any pressing need for an exception to the rule will be referred to the director by the hospital's social worker. Mrs. McMaster cited one example in the case of an adolescent's "simply being the backbone of the family."

When a large family group is present, they may be asked to select two members to stay. In some cases, some members will stay with the patient while others go to the house for rest.

Alcoholic beverages are not allowed on the premises, and smoking is restricted to the "common room" which includes ample seating and a TV.

The Hospitality House is a non-profit facility supported completely by donations; it receives no government funds of any kind. Although Lexington residents cannot use the house, the people of that community are its strongest supporters. The evening meal provided guests comes from a church group and there are often other food supplies for guests which are donated by local food markets, God's Pantry, and also groups of nurses who occasionally throw "showers" for the House, and donate canned goods.

The founder of the house was Mary Frank Ewalt, whose husband, a cancer victim, made her promise to start such a facility. Over a period of nine years Mrs. Ewalt fought the advice of the "experts" about the feasibility of dependency on donations and the Hospitality House finally opened in February, 1982.

Anyone interested in staying at the Hospitality House should contact the hospital's social worker or chaplain any time after the patient has checked in at the hospital.

CARD OF THANKS

Our thanks to the staff of the McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital, Home Health Care, Riverview Manor Nursing Home, the Hall Funeral Home, and others that helped in any way.

"If your heating bills are high, add on a heat pump."

You can cut your heating bills by adding a heat pump to the gas or oil furnace you already have.

An add-on heat pump saves you money because it shares the job of heating your home. It goes on only when electricity is the most efficient, economical source of heat.

And all summer long, you get the comfort of air conditioning. Because in the summer, the heat pump reverses itself and pumps the heat out of your house while keeping the cool air circulating.

Because an add-on heat pump uses your existing furnace, most installations don't involve any changes at all to your ductwork.

If you think about the savings, the air conditioning, and the low cost of installation, adding on a heat pump is a pretty smart move. Call us and find out more.

RE-ELECT A PROVEN LEADER JOHN M. STUMBO COUNTY JUDGE-EXECUTIVE

Like most of you, each week I eagerly read the various campaign ads of the candidates for public office in Floyd County. It is seldom that I read one that says anything that anyone could disagree with. I, like others, dream of a day that every Floyd Countian can find a good and safe job here in his own area. I dream of quality education second to none in this country, clean and efficient solid waste disposal, homes and streets that are crime-free and safe for all, and quality health care for every man, woman and child. However, these dreams, hopes or ambitions no more qualify me for public office than my ability to express them in ads in this paper, or on the radio.

Simply put, these are difficult times, when Floyd Countians need straight talk from every candidate, as well as an honest effort by their elected officials to fulfill their duties with the resources at hand. A competent County Judge-Executive must have the personal strength to say "NO" to any and all persons, when the circumstances demand. He cannot owe his political survival to any other elected official, supporter, or their political organization, and be subject to manipulation according to their desires. In this race, with the foregoing criteria, I am the ONLY candidate that can say I am qualified to serve you.

Floyd County has been through difficult times, and frankly more black clouds are appearing on the horizon. President Reagan has proposed elimination of revenue sharing which will cost this county in excess of $300,000 per year. Now, more than ever, your Floyd County Judge-Executive must be a person who will take every single dollar and opportunity and apply it in such a way as for the maximum benefit for the public at large. Even more so, as we look to the future, no public official should seek additional opportunities to serve, until and unless he has diligently sought to fulfill the existing opportunities that he has. I, and I alone am the only candidate for Floyd County Judge-Executive that can honestly say I have done so. For example, just this past week, I was able to announce that we have obtained over $520,000.00 in monies for the Mud Creek Water District. All but $75,000.00 of this money is Federal funds and is the result of diligent efforts to serve you from this office.

I humbly ask for your vote, and promise that I will continue to be a full time servant of your interest, as your Floyd County Judge-Executive.

Pikeville College Sells Francis Farm on Johns Cr.

Pikeville College has recently sold the Francis farm, located on lower Johns Creek in Pike county. The farm complex was donated to the college by the Francis family, and has been used until recently, to produce farm products, but in the last few years the property has become non-income producing.

According to Burlin Coleman, chairman of the college board of trustees, "The decision to sell the college farm was in line with the trustees' earlier decision to dispose of properties that are not utilized by the college and produce little or no income. This sale will put the college on a much sounder financial basis."

Other properties of a non-income, non-academic status will also be sold in the near future, it was said. As a result of the sale of these properties the college will realize a savings in the areas of maintenance, taxes, insurance, and administrative attention.

Kentucky law prohibits a woman from marrying the same man four times.

I THINK NOT

I would like to make a few comments concerning the political ads of two sheriff's candidates appearing in the Floyd County Times.

One ad was that of Sheriff Henry C. Hale. Mr. Hale, you said that you would continue to have 24 hour police protection. I would like to ask you if this is something that you just recently started, because it seems that in the past three years hardly anyone could get any needed police protection from your Sheriff's Dept. Could it be due to the fact that you were too busy looking after the family-owned coal trucks and liquor store to devote your full attention to being Sheriff for the people of Floyd County?

The other ad was that of Mr. Paul Hunt Thompson. Mr. Thompson, you said you were going to educate yourself and your deputies. I am curious to know who is going to take care of the Sheriff's Dept., and look after your family-owned liquor store, your grocery stores and coal tippie while you are out of the county for ten weeks going to school. And one other question, Mr. Thompson. If you are so eager to be educated in law enforcement, why didn't you get educated while you were one of Sheriff Henry C. Hale's chief deputies? Were the people of Floyd County less important then than they are now?

One final question, Sheriff Hale and Candidate Thompson. How deep are your commitments on controlling drunk driving and alcohol abuse when you, or your close relatives are among the few to receive a liquor license in Floyd County?

Rose To Oppose Gas Rate Raise

East Kentucky Utilities' application for a gas rate increase in this county and general bolstering of its fiscal position will be topics argued at a public hearing set by the state Public Service Commission (PSC) in Frankfort, May 14, and at that hearing the utilities firm will face a new opponent.

State Rep. Jim Rose, D-Hindman, who represents much of the Floyd county area served by the utilities firm, has requested permission to intervene at the hearing on behalf of the consumers and has asked the PSC to look into three areas of contention.

In a recent letter to Richard D. Heman, Jr., PSC chairman, Rose asked the commission to investigate the following:

1. Hazardous conditions to the public because of lack of maintenance.
2. Discrepancies in the rate increase and contractual agreements between the three companies involved, East Kentucky Utilities, Southwestern Gas Co., and Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company.
3. The Floyd County Fiscal Court's involvement in contracting to East Kentucky Utilities, with respect to compensation to the fiscal court and the contractual agreements between the two entities.

One of the utility's requests expected to be acted upon by the commission is for approval of the bond ordinance adopted by the fiscal court in 1981, extending the lease by the court to East Kentucky Utilities from a period of 5 to 30 years.

In 1979 the court enacted an ordinance for the issuance of Floyd County Water and Gas Revenue Bonds to pay off $165,000 principal and $65,000 interest due on bonds issued in 1953. The utilities were leased to East Kentucky Utilities, and the lease period was extended to 30 years.

Besides approval of increased rates and the lease period extension, East Kentucky Utilities also is asking PSC authority to borrow $134,000 to settle indebtedness to its gas supplier.

Of the proposed rate increase, Rep. Rose wrote Heman: "The elderly and the citizens on fixed incomes simply cannot stand these continuous rate increases."

Visit June Buchanan School

During a teacher in-service workday, five members of the Mountain Christian Academy staff visited the June Buchanan School at Pippa Passes. The group looked at all phases of the school with particular interest in computer offerings. David Hall, instructor and coach at MCA, said they were especially impressed with the amount of software available to the students in using the computers which are in every classroom.

Director of the June Buchanan School, James Akers, said, "One of the primary functions of the June Buchanan School is to provide for the dissemination of knowledge gained from the operation of the school, and we are pleased to have officials from the Mountain Christian Academy visit us."

Judge's Decision Favors Limiting Broadform Deed

A state law passed last year and designed to limit the scope of old broadform deeds passed an important court test last week, when Perry Circuit Judge Calvin N. Manis upheld the constitutionality of the law.

John Rosenberg, director of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund of Kentucky and a principal architect of the law, said it is the first Kentucky case in which any law aimed at limiting the power of the broadform deed has been ruled constitutional. The case could be expected "to go on up (to the Kentucky Supreme Court)," he said.

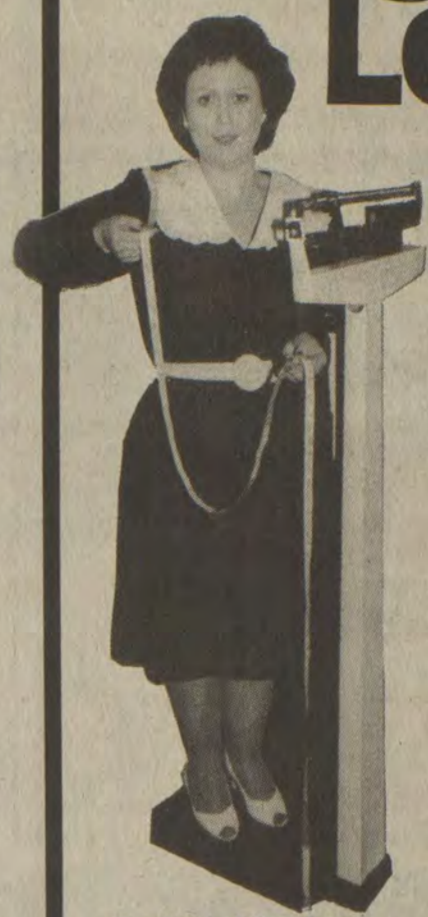

The constitutional question was raised by Matthew Baker, a Perry county coal operator, who cited a 1910 broadform deed in an effort to stop Elizabeth Wooton from interfering with his company's efforts to stripmine her Bulan property.

The new law says that coal mining permitted by broadform deeds is limited to methods commonly in use at the time the deeds were executed. Judge Manis, noting that stripmining did not exist in Perry county before the 1940s, held that landowners like Mrs. Wooton could block coal operators from stripmining under a broadform deed.

Soil erosion is not only bad for farmers, it's bad for wildlife too, reports National Wildlife magazine. Researchers in Missouri found that 90 percent of the deer living atop fertile soils give birth to twins, compared to only 40 percent of the deer living in more eroded areas of Missouri.

Library Celebrates "Nation of Readers"

Sting does it. Bill Cosby too. Bette Midler even does it. And so does Baryshnikov. They all read.

This year, these celebrities have stepped down from center stage and into America's libraries to lead a nationwide celebration demonstrating that we are "A Nation of Readers."

Yes, people still read in spite of dire predictions that television and computers will displace the book. In fact, computers and television have probably increased the number of readers. How many computers were there five years ago? Today, you need a computer to keep track of all the book titles on computer systems. And while millions may have been glued to the tube for television presentations of Shogun and Lace, the next day droves went out to libraries and bookstores in search of the books.

"We are a nation of readers," says Carolyn Traum, librarian at the Floyd County Library. "Public library usage is on an increase, subscriptions are up and newspaper readership is on the rise. In our library, we check out about 3,500 books a month and about 900 books a month through the bookmobile."

As Kentuckians savor the richness reading has brought to their lives, it is hard to believe that there are 400,000 illiterate adults in the state—people who can't read and understand simple texts, signs and directions well enough to function in everyday life.

For those of us who are a part of "A Nation of Readers", National Library Week (April 14-20) is the perfect time to visit and learn more about the many services available at the Floyd county library, Mrs. Traum said.

Let's Educate Them About Drug and Alcohol Abuse They won't understand the long-term problems associated with drug and alcohol abuse unless we tell them what they are. Parents can't do the job alone. The entire community MUST be involved. Future drug use by our young people is a real and present danger to our community. We must teach our children to say NO!

It's my intention, as Sheriff, to reorganize the management of the Sheriff's Department so that an amount equal to the extra 1% of school tax given the department for collection two years ago, can be devoted solely to a program of drug education.

Regular Marijuana Use Causes These Symptoms Sooner or Later:

- Lack of Motivation
- Decreased performance in school-work and sports
- Loss of timing
- Loss of short term memory
- Abrupt mood changes
- Impaired driving ability
- Irritability and increasing friction with peers and family

Marijuana Use Affects the Body and How it Functions:

- It interferes with the ability to concentrate, which is necessary for basic academic skills, and overall thinking ability.
- It interferes with motor skills by slowing down reaction time, distorting visual perception, and minimizing coordination.
- It interferes with psychological functioning, personality development, and emotional growth.

Most important, using drugs gives the child a way to avoid problems instead of learning to deal with them. And learning to deal with problems is the foundation of a productive adulthood.

UK Tuition Increases To $614 Per Semester

Undergraduate students at the University of Kentucky will pay tuition and fees of $614 a semester beginning this fall.
The Executive Committee of the UK Board of Trustees recently confirmed the raise in tuition rates set by the Kentucky Council on Higher Education. The student fees will remain at this year's rate—$35.25—and the $25 health fee remains the same—both are included in the per-semester tuition of $614.
One dollar of the student fee is dedicated for Student Government Association use in providing the association's services to the campus.
Tuition and fees for undergraduate students at UK for the current school year are $562 per semester.

By state law, the Council on Higher Education sets tuition fees for the state universities. The new tuition rates were designed to bring UK's fees closer to its benchmark institutions—those schools outside the state similar to UK in size and scope.
Tuition and fees for undergraduate students from outside the state were raised from $1,601 per semester this year to $1,759 per semester effective next fall.
Semester fees for graduate students will be $672 compared to $614 for the current school year. Non-resident graduate students will pay $1,931. Non-residents this year paid $1,757.

Increased tuition rates were also confirmed for law, medical and dental students and non-resident pharmacy students.
Students at the Lexington Community College, one of UK's 13 community colleges, will pay the same per-semester fees as students on the Lexington campus.
Tuition and fees charged students at UK's other community colleges will be $260—up from the current rate of $234. Non-resident students at the community colleges will pay $780 per semester—up from the current year's $701.

NEA Calls For Credit For Work in the Home

"Marriage is clearly an economic partnership and each spouse contributes services of economic value to the family. Yet unpaid work in the home is not counted as work to qualify for Social Security benefits," Mary Hatwood Futrell, president of the National Education Association, testified April 3 before the House of Representatives Subcommittee on Labor-Management Relations.
Futrell called for "earnings sharing," which would base Social Security benefits on earnings records shared equally by a couple for each year of their marriage.
"Earnings sharing would acknowledge each person as a worker with earnings for all work done—whether in the home or in the paid labor force," Futrell said.
The NEA president also called for a national retirement income policy based upon a comprehensive employment policy; more adequate nutrition, housing and better health programs for senior citizens; federal protection of public pensions similar to the private sector, and portability of pensions for public employees who move from one state to another.

PCC Summer Camp Taking Applications

Prestonsburg Community College's Office of Community Services-Continuing Education, is now accepting job applications for summer camp employment. The college is looking for talented people who can work with young people between the ages of 6 and 13 years. Applications are available in the Community Services office.
The first summer camp was begun in 1978 to give youth some creative opportunities during the summer months, including social, cultural and physical activities which they were not getting elsewhere. It was initiated to give parents a safe place to take their children. The camp will meet at Archer Park in three two-week sessions, beginning June 24.
The college will be looking for people who can teach and conduct various activities in arts and crafts, sports, dance and other creative activities. Interviews for all applicants will be held Saturday, April 20, beginning at 8:30 a.m. on the college campus.
Rhonda England, of Pikeville, will be in charge of planning and supervising the activities this year. Miss England worked in the camp last year and for several years has run her own Montessori school.

Mon. Is Application Deadline For UK Aid

The deadline for students who plan to attend the University of Kentucky or one of UK's 13 community colleges to apply for financial aid is April 15.
UK Financial Aid Director David Stockham said the university will help students again this academic year (1985-86) secure more than $32 million in financial aid.
Stockham says current and first-time UK students need to apply early because "the cupboard will be more bare if they wait to apply until after April 15."

Stockham noted that students need only apply for financial aid one time during the year under ordinary circumstances.
Students who want to apply for financial aid from the university need to complete two forms, Stockham said. In most cases, both can be acquired from the high school counselors.
The forms (both of which have a purplish color) are:
—Kentucky Financial Aid Form (1985-86), and —1985/86 Financial Aid Application, University of Kentucky, University of Kentucky Community College System.

If for some reason the financial aid forms are not available from high school counselors, Stockham encourages students to write to his office in care of: University of Kentucky Student Financial Aid Office, 567 Patterson Office Tower, Lexington, Ky. 40506-0027, telephone (606) 257-3172. Simply ask for a set of the forms and this office will mail them out on the same day as the request is received.
These forms are also available, Stockham said, at any of UK's 13 Community College financial aid offices. He pointed out the same form is applicable to community college enrollment.

USAA Award Winner

The United States Achievement Academy announced recently that Nichole Burke, has been named a 1985 United States Award winner in history and government.

Miss Burke, who attends Prestonsburg High School, was nominated for this national award by Aleene Brown, social studies teacher at the school. Her biography will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, published nationally.

She is the 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Burke, of Auxier. Her grandparents are Mrs. Rosie Cole and the late Leonard Cole, of Auxier, and Mrs. Mildred Burke and the late Hassell Burke, of Wheelwright.

Disc on Tooth Said Best ID

The current concern for identifying children—seen most recently in a rash of fingerprinting campaigns—has spawned something new in means of identification. A couple of Chicago dentists have designed an ID that can be attached to a person's tooth.

"It's the best technique available," said Betsy Layne dentist Brent Clark, who is participating in the I.D. DOT program introduced recently at the Chicago Dental Convention. "A lot of dentists are thinking about it."

The I.D. DOT is a clear plastic disc, an eighth of an inch in diameter, that is imprinted with the wearer's social security number. The dot is bonded to the outside of a rear tooth. It is applied without anesthetic or drilling, lasts four to six years, and is not harmful to the tooth, Clark said.

Promoters of the program say it provides identification for children and adults who may be missing, lost, hurt or unconscious. Unlike other means of identification, it cannot be lost, stolen, destroyed or left at home, they point out.

THE POWER SEEKERS AND THE PEOPLE

Isn't it amazing how some people, in attempts to "control" our county will mention how "others" are "seeking power".

This same group plays power politics with every single office of the people that they come into contact with. They attempt to control everything from who gets gravel or red dog on their roads to who is the janitor in our schools. Yet, they talk of "others" who "seek to control". Talk about the pot calling the kettle black!

In sharp contrast to these "power seekers," James R. Allen has proven himself to be a true servant of the people. While the power seekers seek out the person who "controls" a precinct and put their faith in this person to "see to it" that everyone votes "right," James has taken his campaign directly to the people.

James R. Allen talks about innovative programs of recycling solid waste to create jobs for our people; his opponent talks about his 21 years of road building experience while our roads literally go to "pot"; James R. Allen tells the people of an exciting plan to increase tourism to stimulate our economy; his opponent talks of his financial experience with the school board which is one of the very few in the state to be constantly monitored by the state; James R. Allen tells the people of his plan to use state of the art technology to see to it that our roads are adequately maintained; his opponent tells the people not to use modern technology, but to rely on his "experience" although people along the creeks and hollows claim his "experience" has resulted in no noticeable improvements in their roads.

We have a clear choice this election day. We can continue to rely on the timeworn policies of yesterday's politics and see our county continue to slide behind others in the area in economic development, innovation and road maintenance. Or, we can elect a man who has the academic training, the experience and faith in our people to move Floyd County ahead into the last half of the 1980's. The choice is yours, the choice is clear.

James R. Allen has a simple and straightforward view of politics. "The County Judge/Executive's office, like all others, belongs to the people. None can hope to have but temporary custody of the office. I believe that the people should be involved in every single facet of the operation of their office. I plan to hold budget meetings throughout Floyd County, in every district, to get the people's ideas and concerns BEFORE the budget is submitted to the state for approval. I plan to use modern, state of the art technology, to develop a road maintenance program that assures that the roads in every district are adequately maintained on a regular basis. I plan to institute an economic development program for Floyd County so that our county can compete with other areas to attract and maintain industry so that our people can have jobs. I know that I cannot win this election without the people. I also know that I cannot operate the office without the support and input of the people. Together, we can build a proud future for Floyd County." Vote for James R. Allen—it's a vote for a county government that all our people can be proud of.

Enforcement Of Dog Law Among City Council Topics

With an animal shelter again in operation, there may be hope that Prestonsburg's dog laws can be enforced. Mayor Harold Cooley told a group of residents who attended Monday night's meeting of the Prestonsburg City Council.

Mayor Cooley spoke to several residents of the Lancer area who presented a petition asking that state dog laws be enforced within the city. The petition bore the signatures of about 80 Prestonsburg citizens.

Cooley said the lack, until recently, of a holding facility for dogs made the job of controlling stray or unattended dogs "all but impossible."

"We couldn't just go out and destroy an animal without first boarding it in case its owner wanted to claim it," Cooley explained.

Cooley, who referred to stray or unleashed dogs as a "major problem" throughout the city, said, "We have a good ordinance, and with the opening of the dog pound, hopefully, we can begin to improve the situation."

The animal shelter on the old Middle Creek road, formerly run by the now disbanded Floyd County Humane Society, has been reopened by the Eastern Kentucky Wildlife Federation, an organization of area sportsmen and conservationists.

The question of programming to replace WPBY, the West Virginia educational public broadcasting channel, was resolved at Monday's meeting following the report of a customer poll conducted by the local cable system. Consolidated Communications, City Manager David Evans, who participated in a vote count last week of questionnaires which had been mailed to cable subscribers, told the council that among the choices offered by Consolidated, WVAH Channel 23, received the nod with 513 votes. A.C.T.S., a station of Christian-oriented broadcasting, got 246, while Nickelodeon, a children's programming station received 130. While the council had originally opted for A.C.T.S., members voted to approve the selection of Channel 23, a West Virginia station which carries a variety of older movies and T.V. series as well as some sports coverage, since the choice seemed to reflect the wishes of city residents.

Councilman Bobby Watson reminded the council that a recent ruling which prohibited the posting of campaign posters to utility poles within the city had been largely ignored. "The rule worked fine for about a day," Watson commented. While no firm decision was made by the council, it was decided that an effort would be made to discourage the practice with possible enforcement of a $50 fine which was originally imposed.

Acting on a motion made at the last council meeting by Watson, the council voted to grant five percent cost of living increases to a number of employees who didn't receive the boost last July. The increase will total $9,000.

A wrecker policy, which was explained by Councilman Bobby Ranier, was adopted, giving the city authority to choose one of three 24-hour wrecker services within the city limits, but only if no preference is voiced by the owner of a vehicle needing a tow service.

It was announced that a Municipal Road Aid Treatment hearing would be held April 22 at 6:30 p.m. at city hall to discuss needs for street and sidewalk repair in the city. The public is invited to this meet.

In other council business:

-Authorization was given to purchase $2,200-$2,500 of fireworks for the annual July Fourth display at Archer Park with financial help to be asked of the Prestonsburg Business Men's Association.

-Upon the request of Councilman Bill R. Collins 11 additional firefighting outfits were authorized for volunteers at a cost of about $2,200. Part of the money would come from Mines & Minerals Tax funds.

-City council voted to keep salaries of council members and mayor at their present level—$3.00 per meeting and $100 a month, respectively.

-Employment of six additional, school-age summer workers was approved.

-Blaine Hall was reapointed to the Prestonsburg Housing Commission.

-A request for annexation of the Plantation Motel into the city was denied by unanimous council vote.

"Snoopy" Exercise Toy Is Recalled

On January 31, the Cabinet for Human Resources' product safety section requested "Snoopy" crib exercisers be recalled in Kentucky by Rose's Department Store. The exerciser contains two blue-painted wooden balls, red plastic rings with a cut-out of Snoopy on a yellow and red swing bar, and mounts on a standard size crib or playpen. The product is recommended for children 1-8 months old.

The exerciser, Model 99939 is made in Taiwan and imported by Danara International, Ltd., South Hackensack, NJ. The painted surfaces contained excessive lead—many times the amount permitted by law—and ingestion would create a serious health hazard.

The exerciser was also recalled by Hill's Department Stores in this state. It is not known if these were sold by other stores or how many may have been distributed in Kentucky prior to the discovery of the violation. People who have purchased the exerciser are advised to remove it from areas where children are exposed to it and to return it to the place of purchase for credit.

Mrs. Shivel and her family would like to thank their many friends and relatives for the cards, letters, telephone calls, visits and other ways in which they have shown their thoughtfulness during her illness.

MANY ATTEND SERVICES

Holy Week services, which were conducted at the First Baptist Church, April 1-6, and the Easter Sunrise service held at the Amphitheatre, Jenny Wiley State Park, were well attended. The Rev. Steve Hopkins, pastor of the host church, gave the call to worship at each of the services; meditations were by the Revs. Ralph Beiting, Paul Hoover, Timothy Jessen, Jennings West, and Lowell Langefeld. Special music was furnished by Gus Kalos, Jayne Patton, James Ratcliff, Paul and Linda Smith, and Pat Chafins.

On Easter Sunday morning, at 7 o'clock, the Rev. Chris Platt brought the message for the Sunrise service at the park, and David B. Leslie substituted for Miss Elizabeth Frazier, who was ill, in presenting the music program.

Three Years Old

Kenneth Ryan Hamilton celebrated his third birthday, March 26, at his home with a He-Man party.

He is the son of Kenneth and Christine Hamilton, of Ivel, and the grandson of Goldie Hamilton, of Ivel, and the late Charlie H. Hamilton, and of the late Gilbert and Morine Hardin, of Letcher county.

Want Seat Belts In School Buses

The movement to put seat belts in school buses has gained momentum because "a new generation of parents," who adhere to state-mandated child-safety seats in their family cars, does not want their children to ride on school buses without safety restraints. In 1983, ten school bus passengers were killed and 3,300 students were injured in school bus accidents, according to the National Safety Council.

In the past two years, more than 20 school districts around the country have put seat belts in their new school buses, and some are even adding safety restraints to their older buses. At least five states are considering legislation to require seat belts on buses, and two bills are being considered in the Congress that would tie federal funds to seat belt requirements.

Many concerned parents say their children are frightened to be riding the school bus without seat belts, because the school bus is the first vehicle they ride regularly without seat belts. According to the newly-formed National Coalition for Seat Belts on School Buses, there are two basic reasons to put seat belts in school buses: They reduce the number and the extent of injuries to passengers, and they reinforce the importance of buckling up.

DAVID ALLEN BARBER DEMOCRAT FOR COUNTY ATTORNEY

The County Attorney's office has two very important functions.

The function most citizens are familiar with is the responsibility of prosecuting misdemeanor cases in the Floyd District Court. The other function is acting as the legal advisor to the Floyd Fiscal Court.

I have the experience necessary to handle both functions. I prosecuted cases for the Jefferson County Attorney's Office for one year as a legal intern and have practiced law in the Floyd District Court for five years. I have advised the Martin City Council and Mayor for four years.

My record demonstrates that I have always been hard working and honest.

THE MOST SINCERE PROMISE THAT I CAN MAKE IS THAT I WILL BE A FRUGAL COUNTY ATTORNEY WHO WILL WORK TO SEE THAT YOU GET A DOLLAR'S WORTH OF GOODS AND SERVICES FOR EACH OF YOUR TAX DOLLARS.

Hero or Egomaniac

Gen. Geo. A. Custer

George Armstrong Custer, whose defeat at the Battle of Little Bighorn remains one of the great enigmas of American history, is the subject of "Heroes and the Test of Time," a "Smithsonian World" special airing Wednesday, April 24, at 8:00 p.m. (ET), on KET.

On the sunny Sunday afternoon of June 25, 1876, Lieutenant Colonel George Armstrong Custer led more than 200 members of the United States Cavalry into Montana's Valley of the Little Bighorn. Less than two hours later, every man lay dead. The fascination, the mystery and the debate surrounding Custer's last stand remain strong even after a hundred years.

Why did Custer, with such a small force, attack an encampment that contained the largest Indian fighting force ever gathered? Was he a tragic hero or a reckless egomaniac?

Historian and writer David McCullough, who hosts "Smithsonian World," says "Custer was everything the American people and press could hope for in a hero on horseback. He was dashing, handsome, courageous, often controversial, always conspicuous, and until that fateful Sunday, blessed with what was called 'Custer's Luck.'" So what went wrong?

"Smithsonian World" examines how Custer, and the events at the "Battle of Greasy Grass," as the Indians called it, have withstood the scrutiny of a century. "Smithsonian World" is co-produced by WETA/Washington, D.C. and the Smithsonian Institution.

Fire-Spotter Takes to the Air

Forest fire detection pilot Kirk Wells (center) consults with District Forester Steve Brackett (right) concerning areas of possible fire violations. Rick Conn relays information back to Prestonsburg district office.

Everyone knows Smokey the Bear goes to great lengths to prevent forest fires. But few associate Smokey with an airplane. Has he taken to the air? Well, in a way he has. Just ask Kirk Wells, owner of Quality Aviation at Pikeville.

One job during his 10 years as a pilot has been spotting forest fires for the Kentucky Division of Forestry.

On the warm and windy days of spring and fall, Wells spends several hours flying over six counties in eastern Kentucky to locate the many wildfires that frequently burn-up local hillsides. Pinpointing each fire on a map, he radios its location to Forestry's district office in Prestonsburg, which in turn dispatches firefighters to contain each fire. "From the air I can tell firefighters a lot about the fire—how to get into it, barriers that might keep it from spreading, homes and buildings threatened by the flames, and sometimes even who started the fire," Wells said.

"Flying the plane, spotting fires and burning violations, handling maps and grids, monitoring air traffic control, (contacting) Forestry headquarters and ground crews—all this keeps me plenty busy on these detection flights," Wells said, adding when winds are strong he takes someone along to assist. He told of landing after an especially hard trip on March 4 when winds were gusting to 45 miles per hour. "I found out later I was the only detection pilot in the state who had dared the winds that afternoon," he said.

Hamm explained all nine forestry districts across the state use aerial detection for locating forest fires. "Fire towers are still used some," he said, "but we get better detection for less cost with good pilots like Kirk Wells."

Grow a Bouquet of Dry Flowers or Everlastings

You often see people selling bouquets of dry flowers and grasses at flea markets and craft shows across Kentucky. These are very popular items, especially with the sellers, because most are very easy to grow. A few rows in the flower garden and a corner in the tobacco barn can yield hundreds of bouquets for enjoying and selling.

There is a difference between the true "dry" flowers and flowers that are dried. Dry flowers are ones whose petals are relatively dry when the flowers develop or open as opposed to a marigold or a zinnia whose petals are fleshy (the cells contain lots of water) when the flowers are fresh. To use the everlastings as dry flowers they are simply cut and air dried for a few days. To use a marigold or a zinnia as a dried flower the water is generally removed from the petals with a dehydrating agent or desiccant (silica gel, cornmeal, borax).

Some flowers are intermediate. The fluffy white gypsophila or baby's breath that florists use as a "filler" flower is often used fresh and hydrated in an arrangement and then allowed to air dry naturally once the arrangement fades.

The dry flowers or everlastings are found in all three floral groups: annuals, biennials and perennials. Annuals are plants that grow, flower, and die all in one growing season. Everlastings in this group include acroclium (daisy-like white, pink, apricot and salmon colored flowers with large yellow centers), celosia (the yellow, red, orange and purple feathery or cock's comb flower), gomphrena or globe amaranth (white, yellow, orange, pink, red and purple, red clover-like flowers), gypsophila, Bells of Ireland (the green bell-like flower) and perhaps the best known dry flowers, the multicolored strawflowers.

The biennial everlastings, which form their leaves the first year and flower and die the second year include ammorbium (little white daisy-like buttons), lunaria or money plant (with flat, papery seed pods), and another filler flower used frequently by florists, statice (clusters of small white, yellow, pink, blue and purple flowers). And the perennials which can live for several years include some types of baby's breath and statice along with teasel-relatives cirsium thistle and globe thistle and the weedy Queen Anne's lace.

The plumes or seed heads of many grasses are cut for dry flowers including sea oats, white and pink pampas grasses, fountain grass, silverfeather, bridal veil, Job's tears, hare's tail grass, quaking grass, and animated oats. Many of these grasses can also be used as striking specimens in the landscape.

None of the everlastings or ornamental grasses is any more difficult to grow than ordinary garden annuals. The most important requirements for any of these flowers to do well are simply plenty of sunlight and adequate water. So why not grow a bouquet this summer that will continue to give you color and cheer when the snows fall again next winter.

Timely Tip: For a good lettuce substitute for your summer salads, try growing Swiss chard. Swiss chard can very easily be blended with plantings of annual flowers to produce an "edible landscape." An especially showy variety is Rhubarb chard with red leaf stalks and veins.

According to the EPA's latest estimates, under the Superfund program's current funding levels of approximately $1 billion a year, it could take up to 23 years to clean up the nation's 2,500 most hazardous toxic waste dump sites, reports International Wildlife magazine.

"WE HAVE OVER 200 REASONS TO WANT THE BEST ENERGY VALUE... AND THAT MEANS GAS."

"Every one of our more than 200 rental units has gas heat and appliances, and that's important to our success. The gas heating keeps our tenants warm and comfortable. Plus, gas is economical—not only in lower energy bills, but also in lower service costs. The gas equipment lasts longer and gives us few maintenance problems, so we save money. For heating, cooking, hot water and drying clothes, we're sold on the value of gas. And so are our tenants."

If you're about to choose a home heating system or appliance, take a tip from Richard Burke. For total value, gas gives you more.

Park Area Drainage Begun

John M. Stumbo, Floyd county judge-executive, Harry Bilton, of the Soil Conservation Service, and Shelly Woods, supervisor, inspected the Allen Park project last week. Drain tile is being installed in the ball field.

In the past, the Allen Park ball field would not be usable for long stretches of time due to poorly drained soil. A shower of rain would turn a good playing field into a swamp for several days. Now, however, drain tile and gravel are being installed to remedy this situation. The Floyd Fiscal Court and the Big Sandy Resource Conservation and Development District combined resources and sponsored this project that includes tiling for 15 acres, vegetative cover for two acres of critical area, and a grassed waterway with a rock rip-rap outlet.

The project is designed to improve the appearance of the area and reduce the cost of excessive maintenance and lessen the inconvenience of cancellations due to rain and poorly drained fields. In effect, the park will have better playing conditions and will be able to be used more days during playing season.

Some Filers Can Get Four-Month Extension

Taxpayers who file Form 1040 or 1040A can request an automatic four-month extension of time to file their federal income tax returns, according to the Internal Revenue Service. The IRS stresses the extension to file tax returns is not an extension of time to pay.

To obtain the four-month extension beyond April 15, 1985, taxpayers must complete Form 4868, "Application for Automatic Extension of Time to File U.S. Individual Income Tax Return," and forward it to the service center processing returns for your area. Kentucky residents should file their extension forms at the Internal Revenue Service Center, Memphis, TN 37501. Form 4868 must be filed on or before April 15.

On Form 4868, taxpayers should make a tentative estimate of the year's taxes and submit any balance due with the form. If the unpaid tax is more than 10 percent, a penalty is assessed for late payment unless the taxpayer can show reasonable cause for not paying the tax when due. The penalty is one-half of one percent per month on the unpaid balance, up to a maximum of 25 percent. Interest is also assessed on any unpaid balance.

Taxpayers who wish to take an Individual Retirement Arrangement (IRA) deduction for 1984 must make their IRA contributions by April 15, whether or not they have been granted an extension to file, the IRS said.

Taxpayers filing Form 1040EZ, or those requesting the IRS to compute their tax, are not eligible for an automatic extension.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant To Application Number 436-5177

In accordance with the provisions of KAR 350.055, notice is hereby given that Maple Ridge Mining Corporation, General Delivery, Honaker Kentucky, 41639, has filed a major revision No. 1 to an application for a permit for an underground mining operation. The proposed operation will affect a surface disturbance of 7.59 acres and will underlie an additional 44.0 acres located 0.7 miles east of Honaker in Floyd County.

The proposed operation is approximately 1.0 miles southwest from KY 2030's junction with Frog Branch Road and located 0.25 miles east of Spruce Pine School. The latitude is 37° 31' 00". The longitude is 82° 40' 09".

The proposed operation is located on the Harold USGS 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The purpose of this revision is to add a borrow area, additional stockpile, road, and a new sediment structure. An additional 1.62 acres will be disturbed.

The surface area to be disturbed is owned by Leonard Hall and Columbus Lawson.

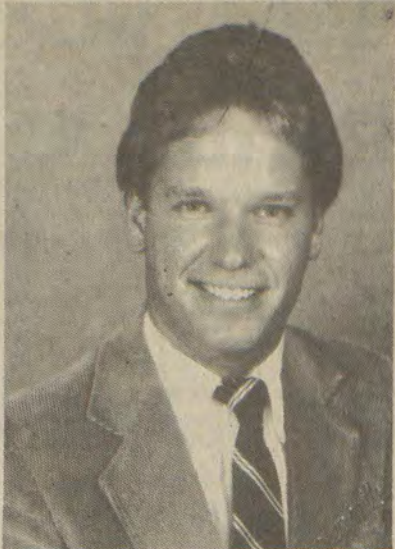

The operation will underlie land owned by L. Meade, Columbus Lawson, Clark Heirs, and Leonard Hall.

The application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 503 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653. Written comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must have attached a copy of the newspaper clipping and must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, 6th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. 4-10-3t.

Job Corps Plays Big Role In Fight With Forest Fires

Crews from the Carl D. Perkins Job Corps Center prepare to help Division of Forestry officials fight fires in the area.

Since 1983, trainees from the Carl D. Perkins Job Corps Center here have provided valuable service as forest firefighters. Instructed and tested in firefighting techniques, trainees work under close supervision by Kentucky Division of Forestry personnel.

"The Center provides as many as four seven-man crews," said District Forester Steve Brackett. "They are good firefighters and have saved many, many acres of woodland from burning in this county," he said.

The Job Corps Center is part of the Singer Company's Career Systems program. Leonard D. Grant, placement specialist for the center, said trainees stand ready to help with community needs. "We have helped with the recent snow clean-up, the 1984 flood clean-up, maintenance work for public service projects, and, to date, suppression of over 30 forest fires in Floyd and Magoffin counties," Grant said. "Firefighting does not interfere with our members' regular classroom work," he said, explaining that some are enthused enough about the forestry work that they are inquiring about forest career possibilities.

Don Hamm, director of the Division of Forestry, emphasized the protection and service provided by the Job Corps fire crews. He said that in 1980, timber harvested from Floyd County land was valued at $208,000. It was nearly $925,000 in Magoffin. Hamm emphasized that these values would have been much greater if fires were not scarring the hillsides. "If local landowners are ever going to grow quality timber, they have got to stop fires," he said, adding that "all should appreciate the Job Corps crews helping contain the many fires that are occurring in the area."

Don't Be Fooled With Promises

How long has it been since your roads have been graveled or graded? How many times have you been promised that your roads would be fixed? During the election is the only time you can get anything done. Is this the way you want your roads to be fixed? Once every four years? I don't believe so!! If elected, I will stockpile sawdust on every road in the fall, so when it snows the sawdust will be ready to spread on roads in hollows and slick spots. So school buses will be able to run. This will solve the problem of schools losing time. There are lots of ways to fix the roads and keep the cost down. When there is no money to buy gravel, we can get the gravel out of creeks free. This will kill two birds with one stone, getting the creek cleaned up and getting the gravel free. Red dog and sawdust are also free, so there is no excuse for the roads to be in the same condition as four years ago. I talked with a lady at Spradlin Branch and she told me she had to get gravel out of the creek to fix potholes in the road. An elderly man had to do the same in front of his house. Every time these people ask for gravel they were told there was no gravel. Why should taxpayers have to do their own road repair? Is this the way you want your magistrate to work? Fixing your roads once every four years? You need a magistrate to work full time, not part time. You don't need a magistrate that has another job he has to devote all his time to. He gets paid full time from the taxpayers, so he should work full time for the taxpayers. So, to get results, vote for me, Paul Slone, No. 1 on the ballot, and No. 1 for the people.

I hope to see and talk with all of you before the election.

Tuition At Pikeville To Remain Unchanged

The Pikeville College Board of Trustees has announced that there will be no increase in tuition costs for the 1985-86 academic year. The only cost increase will be in the area of room and board, which will go up by only $100 over the cost last year. This increase is primarily due to the increasing cost of food and cafeteria expenses.

This decision represents an effort on the part of the Board of Trustees to keep Pikeville College "affordable". Other Kentucky colleges and universities will be raising their tuition rate between 5 and 11% during the 1985-'86 academic year.

AIRMAN GRADUATES

Airman Jeffrey S. Craft, son of Kendall Craft, Jr., of Rural Route 2, Sunman, Ind., and Peggy Craft, of Wayland, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force aircraft maintenance course at Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas. Craft is scheduled to serve with the 363rd Equipment Maintenance Squadron at Shaw Air Force Base, S.C. He is a 1983 graduate of Prestonsburg High School.

Kentucky Fishing Report

Frankfort, Ky., April 1—Sunny skies and warm spring rains have combined to produce generally improving fishing conditions throughout the state during the March 30-31 period covered by this report, although wind and cold snaps continued to hamper anglers. The lake-by-lake rundown, as reported by conservation officers or creel clerks at each lake, is as follows:

KENTUCKY: Officer Willard Browning reported light fishing activity for crappie on minnows in secondary creek channels. Light fishing activity for bass was reported with anglers casting crankbaits and plastic worms over deep banks. Tailwater activity for catfish and crappie was also light. The lake was clear to murky, rising, five feet below summer pool and 54°.

BARKLEY: Light fishing activity was reported by officer Ronald White with crappie being taken still fishing minnows over dropoffs and sunken brush piles. Bass were being caught off rocky points and stump beds casting crankbaits and spinnerbaits. The lake was clear, rising, five feet below summer pool and 61°.

BARREN: Officer Donald Depp reported moderate fishing activity with crappie being caught in 4-10 feet of water casting jigs and still fishing minnows. Bass were being caught by casting crankbaits, and flippin' jig and pork rind combinations over steep banks. A few white bass and hybrids were being caught in the tailwaters by anglers casting jigs and spinners. The lake was clear to murky, rising, 20 feet below summer pool and 58°.

NOLIN: Moderate fishing activity was reported by officer Sammy Renfro. Crappie were being taken by still fishing minnows and casting jigs over stickups in 10-12 feet of water. Bass were being caught by casting crankbaits over points and stickups. Light fishing activity was reported in the tailwaters with anglers catching crappie, bass and bluegill. The lake was clear, rising, 14 feet below summer pool and 60°.

ROUGH RIVER: Officer Harold Belt reported light fishing activity for crappie and bass. Crappie were being caught in 6-10 feet of water on minnows, and bass by casting crankbaits on points, and jigging pork and rind combinations along the banks in 3-5 feet of water. The lake was clear to murky, 18 feet below summer pool, and rising at 58°.

HERRINGTON: Light fishing activity was reported by officer Charles Goode, and creel clerk Bill Pinkston. Bass were being caught casting crankbaits in the heads of creeks, and crappie were being caught still fishing minnows in 4-6 feet of water. A few white bass were caught in the headwaters, but the run is still a few weeks off. The lake was reported clear to murky, rising, and three feet below summer pool at 54°.

GREEN RIVER: Officer Buddy Loy reported moderate fishing activity with crappie being caught in brush and over dropoffs in 6-10 feet of water by anglers still fishing with minnows. Bass were being taken on jigs over dropoffs, and crankbaits on the flats. Crappie and white bass were also being caught in the tailwaters on minnows and jigs. The lake was reported murky to muddy, rising, nine feet below summer pool at 56°.

CUMBERLAND: Moderate fishing activity was reported by officers Lowell Dolan, Randy Wilson and Fred York. Crappie were being caught in 2-15 feet of water still fishing small minnows over submerged treetops and brush in headwater flats. White bass are being taken in the headwaters of embayments casting jigs and spinners. Black bass were being caught by anglers casting crankbaits on points, and spinner baits and jigs over shallow flats, drift piles and warm water "run-ins." Light activity was reported below the dam for trout in the tailwaters, although in the Big South Fork at Yamacraw, walleye were being caught on Shad Rap crankbaits, and white bass on doll flies. The lake was reported clear, stable, 10 feet below summer pool, and varying in temperature from 49-51°.

DALE HOLLOW: Officer Marvin Edwards reported moderate fishing activity. Bass were being taken casting jigs and crankbaits over deep rocky points and channel dropoffs. Crappie were being taken still fishing small minnows and jigs over submerged treetops in eight feet of water. The lake was clear, rising slowly, three feet below summer pool and 56°.

Frankfort Ceremony To Honor Teachers

A special recognition ceremony for Kentucky's teachers will be held June 18 in Frankfort. The luncheon will be sponsored by the Kentucky Educational Foundation Inc. and the Kentucky Department of Education as a way to pay tribute to the state's dedicated teaching staff, Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald said.

Each school in the state is being invited to send a delegate to the recognition luncheon, she said. These delegates will return to their schools with certificates honoring all the teachers within their schools.

The teachers in each school will decide whether to participate and how to select their delegate.

"SAY IT AIN'T SO, JOHN"

For 31 years, John M. Stumbo served on the Floyd County Board of Education, many of these years he was Chairman of the Board. What did he accomplish during these 31 years?

He rewarded political friends and supporters with high paying jobs in the central office while our classroom teachers received little or no increases from local money for their dedicated service.

What did the rewarding of political friends with your tax money accomplish? During John Stumbo's tenure as Chairman of the School Board, the school system ran the first deficit in the history of Floyd County. Our schools slipped to the point where they were ranked 176 out of the 183 school districts in Kentucky. In fact, our schools are still suffering because of John M. Stumbo's "leadership." Last month, our school system was told to shape up or face state take over.

Once he got our school system in such a shape, it isn't surprising that John, after 31 years on the Board, decided to resign in 1983 and become Floyd County Judge/Executive. What's his record in this important position? Look at your county roads and bridges. Do they resemble roads and bridges maintained by someone who has "30 years of road building experience"? What about working to obtain state and federal money to provide much needed public facilities and vital services for our people? In the last two years, every single county around us has received more money from the Appalachian Regional Commission, the Land and Water Conservation Fund and the Community Development Block Grant than we have. John did recently award a contract worth over $200,000 for black top for the county. However, he awarded the contract to his former employer and did not allow other companies to bid.

John M. Stumbo has held public, elective office in Floyd County for 33 years. Yet, he has never had to face the voters in a primary of the Democratic Party. This May, he must face you and ask for your vote and support to continue his program for him and his friends and he must run on his record. The above narration outlines his major accomplishments. When you meet John, ask him about his record. You'll be amazed at his explanations.

The time has come to stop government "of the few, by the few and not for you," and return to a government "of the people, by the people and for the people." James R. Allen has a college and law degree and he will put this training to work for you. James will build a county government that works to develop our economy so that our people can have jobs and will see to it that the needs of Floyd County are treated fairly in all aspects of state and federal programs. And, more importantly, James R. Allen will stop this senseless waste of your tax dollars and restore pride in county government. Vote for James R. Allen—it's a vote to stop waste and bring Floyd County government back to the people.

April Special Month For Special Children

The month of April is very "special" for "special" or exceptional children in the Big Sandy and Buffalo Trace areas, as it has been designated Child-Find Month by the office of Education for Exceptional Children, Kentucky Dept. of Education.

According to project coordinator Cynthia Champer, of the Kentucky Educational Development Corporation (KEDC) of Ashland, which coordinates a 10-district project in the Big Sandy area and a nine-district educational coop in the Buffalo Trace area, the month is an annual event designed to find children who are either first priority—that is, exceptional or handicapped and not receiving any services—or second priority children, those children who are receiving some but limited or inappropriate services.

"Throughout the history of our discretionary grant projects" (five years in Big Sandy and six years in the Buffalo Trace, Mrs. Champer said, "We still find that parents are often unaware where to turn for help for their child."

"Thus, our projects are designed to cooperate with local school districts in providing supplemental services in such areas as referral, testing, evaluation and placement, in addition to therapy and other additional services that are not always available through a local school district."

For example, Big Sandy personnel recently participated in a Behavioral Management workshop for TMH teachers and aides, while Buffalo Trace districts have been able to participate in a cooperative Occupational Therapy workshop and in-district therapy services.

"This month we want to find those children in our area who are in need of service, and provide it to them, particularly those in the 5-17 year age range," Mrs. Champer said.

The Big Sandy Diagnostic Service Centers employ Jeff Howe, psychometrist, who is headquartered in the Floyd county schools, and serves the school districts of Pike county, Pikeville Independent, Morgan county, Magoffin county and Floyd.

Andy Howard is also employed as school psychologist with the Big Sandy Centers, serving Johnson county, Paintsville Independent, Elliott county, Lawrence county, and Martin county.

State Job Placement Heads Southeast Area

Gov. Martha Layne Collins announced last week that Kentucky had the fastest growing job placement program in the southeastern United States during the first half of the 1984-85 fiscal year.

"Our Department for Employment Services found jobs for nearly half again as many Kentuckians during that time as compared to the previous year," Collins said. "It proves that Kentucky's economy is continuing to grow and to produce new jobs."

Between July 1 and Dec. 31, 1984 the Department for Employment Services placed 40,729 people in jobs. According to the U.S. Department of Labor (DOL), that represented a 46 percent increase over the 28,567 people placed during the same six-month period of 1983.

Kentucky outdistanced Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee in DOL's eight state southeastern region.

Daniels said the southeastern region is the most productive in the country. "Traditionally our region accounts for 25 percent of Job Service placements made nationwide, while we have about 15 percent of the funds budgeted for the program," he said. "Any time you lead this region in productivity, you're in the top drawer."

Kentucky's goal is to place 56,448 people in jobs during the program year which ends June 30. The regional goal is to find jobs for 900,000 people.

Landscaping With Native Wildflowers

Your neighbor spent no money and did no planting, yet there are flowers in her yard? How can that be? Despite our neglect, there are flowers that come up year after year, like spring daffodils and iris, or summer daylilies and coreopsis.

Many bulbs and flowering perennials are familiar. But another group of perennial, flowering plants deserves more attention—that of native wildflowers. Whether for highway plantings to save fuel and mowing time, for development areas to restore habitats for wildlife, or for the home garden, our native wildflowers should be used more extensively.

Once established, wildflowers can be a tremendous aesthetic asset, requiring minimal maintenance. However, establishing them is not as easy as popping a marigold seedling out of a tray and planting it in the ground. Certain wildflowers can be very fussy about their growing locations, dying in one spot but thriving in another no more than five feet away.

One of Kentucky's wildflower experts, both as a gardener and a photographer, is Leslie County's Agricultural Extension Agent Rufus Fugate. He says to study the natural environment of a wildflower and try to find an identical environment in the proposed landscape site. Conditions to note include the amount of shade or sunlight, the types of surrounding vegetation and ground cover, the exposure, the soil's pH, drainage and moisture status, soil disturbance and rockiness, and soil organic matter content. If a particular wildflower needs an acid soil with plenty of moisture, and your site has a dry, alkaline soil, don't even bother. Try moving trilliums or butterfly weeds to foreign environments and you'll be met only with frustration.

Wildflowers for landscaping can be obtained in many ways. They can be dug from the wild and transplanted, but be sure you have the landowner's permission and that the wildflower is not an endangered species. (It's illegal to dig endangered plants.) Often an easier way to collect from the wild is to harvest seeds when they're ripe. Either way, never remove all of the plants or seeds unless the site is about to be destroyed by construction or mining or an event that will kill the plants or irreparably alter their environment.

Many wildflower nurseries and seed companies offer transplants, and collected or specially grown seed. A nice gift item is a can of wildflower seeds that the recipient can scatter to create a rainbow-colored meadow. Compare that to a plain old green lawn!

Interest in conserving and increasing the use of wildflowers has escalated so much recently that in 1983 a National Wildflower Research center was established in Austin, Texas. Write to them at 2600 F.M. 973 North, Austin, TX 78725 for more information about their educational and research programs. Send them a No. 10 self-addressed stamped envelope for their list of recommended wildflowers for Kentucky plantings.

A good reference for use in identifying Kentucky wildflowers is Wharton and Barbour's A Guide to the Wildflowers and Ferns of Kentucky. If you are interested in landscaping with wildflowers, Ortho Books has a beautiful new book titled Landscaping with Wildflowers and Native Plants.

If you'll have occasion to visit Chicago this summer, be sure to stop by Grant Park along the Lakefront. There you'll find this country's first park district display of wildflowers has been designed as a new form of "living" art. More than one million wildflowers, representing nearly 48 species, were planted last summer and are expected to bloom each year from May through September.

The biggest complaint against some politicians in Floyd county—is that after they win their election and get in office—they sit down in their chair, put their feet up on the desk and wait four years until the next election. Then—they come out of "hibernation"—STRIKE A LICK OR TWO—and loudly say "look what a good boy am I." MOST of our roads in District One haven't seen a NEW GRAVEL or an OLD GRADER in 3½ years. If you have had enough of this kind of "bull and baloney", now's your chance to do something about it—change it with your vote. Vote for new leadership! Vote for service to the people! Vote to get something done! Vote for Bill Ray Collins for a full time working Magistrate in District One.

EDITORIAL.

When you're down and out and got the blues, just think how many hundred thousand hues are scattered o'er life's ways for sure and simple cures for the man who prays.

Banks may break and factories burn; hopes may fade and winters go, and yet we make our bliss or woe.

There is no beauty or happiness outside the human mind. The sun-set and rainbow have no display of light where there is no optic nerve.

The degree of beauty that we attach to anything is measured by our aesthetic concepts which have been formed by those who taught and teach us.

The MONITOR is optimistic regardless of spasms, the weather, or an occasional reduction in size.

This is an age of conservation and condensation. The man who works a week to grub a sycamore stump cannot hope to compete with the fellow who takes a stick of dynamite and does the work quicker than it takes to tell about it.

If you can't be progressive, you are retrogressive.

The Court of Appeals has affirmed the verdict of the Circuit Court in the cases against Algernon Moore, Jack McCurry and Silvester Gearheart, each of whom were given a life sentence in the penitentiary at former terms of the Floyd Circuit Court.

Mrs. G. P. Archer has been visiting at Auxier for a few days. Mr. A. J. Davidson, wife and Mrs. Ed Ford left here Wednesday for Florida, where they will spend the winter.

President Taft in his message to Congress dwells at length on the trust question, saying but little about the more important tariff question. But we're too little to be criticizing the President. I bet when we get our growth we'll keep Mr. President straight.

Nives, get your husbands to subscribe for the MONITOR, if you don't enjoy reading you'll want to.

School Happenings.

Mr. Stone is so punctual in his teaching that he carries his watch in his coat tail pocket, so as to keep a head of time.

Ed Allen--"What part of speech is egg?" Boy--"Noun, sir." "What is its gender?" "Can't tell, sir." "Is it masculine, feminine, or neuter?" "Can't say, sir, till it's hatched."

Prof. W. B. Wards' rules: No kissing the girls in school hours; no licking the master during holidays.

Prof. Beam, the other day in chapel asked the students if they could quote any text of scripture which forbade men having two wives. In answer to this a small boy raised and quoted the text: "No man can serve two masters."

Help out, push along. Crack your shell for 1912.

If we get through with this issue without a law suit, we'll try to do better next time.

The following men will compose the next Board of Supervisors: G. W. Elliott, Wm. Akers, I. N. Hall, Hiram Lafferty and George Hale.

Mr. Dave May and wife formerly of Pike County, after visiting relatives here a few days, left Monday for their new home at Winchester, Ky.

Talk about yer quail on toast, talk about yer punkin pie, talk about yer rabbit, cut, stewed, boiled, and fried. These things, turkey, and many other delicacies were very much in evidence on Thanksgiving.

The post office at this place was robbed a few ago. The office occupies an apartment in the store of R. A. Burke, the post master, and besides about $30. taken from the post office, a few articles were taken from the store. Mr. Burke wired the post office inspector, who arrived a day or so after the robbery. There is a clue to the robbery and it is thought that the parties will be apprehended and convicted.

COME ON TO PRESTONSBURG

January 1, 1912.

It is now time to decide where we are going to attend school this winter. We should seek the facts concerning every School contemplated.

Then weigh the matter both pro and con and finally go with the burden of proof.

I am expecting to be at the same old stand and behind the same old desk, ready to work early and late for the success of that great crowd of appreciative Teachers that is going to be here in Prestonsburg, this winter. I want you as one among that happy number.

If you are here you will find me exerting every effort to live up to these testimonials, as well as to the confidence you repose in me by coming. We had a great school last year and we are going to try to improve one hundred per cent this year.

So come on and help us fight the battle of Education in Old Kentucky. W. B. Ward, Normal Department.

BOSCO

The new Union Church house at Mouth of Salt Lick is being rushed to completion. When finished it will be one of the largest and most attractive in the Beaver Valley. The upper story will be used as a lodge room. The people of this vicinity may well be proud of such a building and its founder, Rev. D. M. Allen, whose untiring efforts have made it possible.

Rev. Kazee preached a masterful sermon at the Mouth of Salt Lick school house last Sunday. A large crowd was in attendance.

The Odd Fellows and Red Men are still progressing with their work at Mouth of Salt Lick. The "howls of new members may be heard every Saturday night.

Thanksgiving was celebrated in the usual quiet way in this locality. Nothing suffered save the quail and rabbits. O. C. Hayes, the progressive young teacher of Bush-Creek made a flying business trip to Prestonsburg last Saturday. It is reported that he has found a Bonanza in West Texas and will soon settle in his claim. He has sent his attorney to investigate and to make a report as to the different minerals to be found. It is reported that you can raise one hundred bushels of "tater onions" to the acre, as a by-product provided enough rain falls.

Hundreds of crates are being delivered along the proposed route of the railroad, and we expect to see within the next century the iron horse steaming through our fields.

Everybody here wants a Christmas present.

Jeff Davis.

Everybody should patronize the Lyceum course, given in college chapel. Our next number will be on December 21.

GRIST

Lee Preston is making a town at the mouth of Buck's Branch.

Sam Orsbon and J. A. Patton started off with a drove of cattle on Monday the 4th of the month.

Sam Orsbon has been summoned as jurymen in the Federal court at Cattleburg.

Christmas is approaching and it will not be long until the boys are celebrating the birth of Christ by filling themselves up on bad liquor, thereby closing the doors of Heaven on themselves and making assurance doubly sure that where Christ is they shall never go.--S. D. O.

The best Normal School in the mountains will open at Prestonsburg, on January 1, 1912. Come and verify this statement for yourself.

Most appreciative readers prefer magazines, hence our change. W. W. Williams accompanied by Ballard James has gone West to buy Texas.

Panel Schedules April 23rd Meet At College Here

State legislators and key government officials will participate in a panel discussion here, April 23, to update members of the Kentucky Human Services Association (KHSA) on legislative proposals expected to be considered by the 1986 General Assembly.

The discussion will take place at a joint meeting of districts 9, 10, 11 and 12 of the KHSA at Prestonsburg Community College in the Pike Auditorium, beginning at 1 p.m.

This joint session will allow members of the association to learn about the legislation that will affect the clients with whom they work on a daily basis and their futures as state government employees, Bertha Daniels, president of the KHSA, District 11 said.

Daniels said the meeting covers members of KHSA in 23 counties and includes more than 400 members.

Those participating in the panel discussion will include Commissioner for Social Services Anna Grace Day; Commissioner for Social Insurance Jack Waddell; Commissioner for Personnel Thomas Greenwell; Director of Child Support Enforcement Hanson Williams and Pike County Attorney Gary Johnson, who is a member of the Child Support Commission.

State legislators participating will include House Majority Floor Leader, Gregory D. Stumbo, D-Prestonsburg, and Senator Benny Ray Bailey, chairman for the Interim Joint Committee on Health and Welfare and a member of the Interim Joint Committee on Appropriations and Revenue.

Also committed to the discussion are Rep. Walter Blevins, D-Morehead and Senators David LeMaster, D-Pointsville, Woody May, D-West Liberty, Charlie Berger, D-Harlan, John "Eck" Rose, D-Winchester; and Senate chairman for the Interim Joint Committee on Health and Welfare, Nelson Allen, D-Greenup.

Daniels stressed that it is an open meeting and encouraged the public to attend.

Census Bureau Getting Employment, Vets Data

The Census Bureau is collecting data on employment, unemployment, and veteran status from area residents this week.

The local data will contribute to April's national employment and unemployment picture to be released May 3 by the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS). Data already collected for March became available April 5.

The Census Bureau also will gather information on veterans from males 18 years and over for the BLS and Veterans Administration. Veterans will be asked questions to determine which theater of operations they served in, and to help evaluate to what extent they have used their entitlements.

Floyd Schools To Close Thurs., Friday For KEA

VIDEO SCENE

Springsteen's latest video is a real winner

By Barton Weiss

Capturing Bruce's poetic visions
Bruce Springsteen's bittersweet new video "I'm on Fire" tells the story of a grease monkey who yearns for a wealthy married woman. After fixing her car, he drives it to her place and, in a great moment of decision, turns away and walks home, not wishing to rock the boat.

But he doesn't turn away in anger, and that's the beauty of the video. Its message is that just wanting the better things in life is enough to keep us going.

"I'm on Fire" is as powerful as anything Springsteen has done, including his haunting first video, "Atlantic City."

Ure takes charge
Midge Ure, the leader of the English synthesizer-oriented band Ultravox, learned to direct videos by watching Russell Mulcahy, one of the pioneers of the clip world. This time out, Ure decided to take the helm himself.

In "Love's Great Adventure," Ure takes us into a world where things happen so fast that at one point he stops the action — and the song — to catch his breath. In the end, of course, he gets the girl and, with the help of the band, beats up a mean bunch of motorcycle hoodlums.

Bruce Springsteen

It's like a good Saturday-morning cartoon come to life.

Overshadowed by manikins

This time out, Godley and Creme, who directed "Rockit" and "Two Tribes," introduce Go West, two cute guys who, given the right material, would have made an impressive debut. Unfortunately, the show is stolen by a group of manikins, animated to dance like the Motown groups of the '60s.

The manikins so overpower "We Close Our Eyes" that I still can't tell you anything about Go West, except that one of the guys plays a guitar, the other holds a large wrench as if it were a guitar and the song has a good hook.

THE SLUGGER'S WIFE (PG-13-Columbia Pictures) Starring Michael O'Keefe, Rebecca De Mornay and Martin Ritt. ★

By J.T. YURKO

In movieland, there are no sure things. Take for instance "The Slugger's Wife," a film that seemingly has everything going for it.

First, there's a script by Neil Simon. Unless you've just arrived from another planet, you know that Simon has penned hits such as "Barefoot in the Park," "The Odd Couple," "The Sunshine Boys," "The Goodbye Girl" and many, many more for the stage and film. Some of his tales are certified classics, and almost everything he's written has enjoyed some amount of success.

Next, there's the director, Hal Ashby, whose credits are no less impressive. He has directed "Harold and Maude," "Coming Home," "Shampoo," "Bound for Glory" and "Being There," among others. Many of Neil Simon's past hits were helmed by journeyman directors, so when a Simon script is augmented with a talent like Ashby's, expectations run high.

Producer Ray Stark is a veteran of eight other Simon films, as well as such Hollywood blockbusters as "West Side Story" and "Funny Girl." "The Slugger's Wife" is about a baseball player and his rock-singer wife, so Stark hired Quincy Jones as executive music producer to make sure the musical sequences were first rate.

Caleb Deschanel is the director of cinematography. Deschanel recently did a superb job of shooting "The Right Stuff" and has as another baseball film, Robert Redford's "The Natural," to his credit.

That all this talent should be brought together is a producer's dream. That it should fail so miserably is a producer's nightmare.

It is difficult to place blame in one specific area. In fact, all these talented people may have ended up canceling each other out. Film is a collaborative art, but there still has to be someone at the controls. "The Slugger's Wife" wanders aimlessly, hampered by an unfunny script, barely likable characters, a preposterous baseball backdrop and a totally predictable ending. But few filmgoers will hang around that long.

Disney salutes Huck Finn

By Amanda Bruce and 26. Episode four airs April 27 and 29.

Life was simpler around the Mississippi River in the 1880s. When young boys got into trouble then, it was because they were stealing jam from the pantry or cutting school to go swimming in the river. And no one was better at such shenanigans than Tom Sawyer and his buddy, Huckleberry Finn.

The Disney Channel salutes them, and the 100th anniversary of the publishing of Mark Twain's classic novel "Huckleberry Finn," with a 26-part series called "Huckleberry Finn and His Friends." The series, which began last month, incorporates two Twain novels, "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer" and "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn."

lan Tracey stars as Huck Finn, the street-smart vagabond in tattered clothes who narrates the tale. Sammy Snyders stars as the mischievous Tom Sawyer. They're clever and naughty and never too far from trouble. Two new episodes air each month. Episode three airs April 21

ESPNU will be there when the oldest marathon in America gets underway in Boston on Monday, April 15 at 11:30 a.m. (ET). The cable network will carry the Boston Marathon from its beginning to the early finishers. The live coverage will be supplemented by a half-hour of race highlights later in the evening. George Grande will host the three-and-a-half-hour race broadcast.

There are two cinema classics on The Arts & Entertainment Network this week: "A Star is Born," on April 14, starring Janet Gaynor, Fredric March and Lionel Stander in the 1937 Academy Award-winning tale of a marriage shattered by the strains of Hollywood; and "Of Human Bondage," also on April 14, starring Bette Davis, Leslie Howard and Frances Dee in the 1934 story of a medical student's obsessive attraction for an undeserving waitress.

CUT THE PAY
 —I believe that the Magistrates in Floyd Co. are overpaid.
 —As Magistrate of Dist. 2 I will push for a cut in the Magistrates' pay.
 —If the Magistrates pay stays as it is right now I will vote for at least a 40% cut in the pay which will amount to approximately $9600 per magistrate per year, which in one term will amount to approximately $153,600. This money could be used to help out our Badly Needed local FIRE DEPTS., without putting a burden on our SENIOR CITIZENS, that are on fixed incomes and have a hard time just taking care of themselves already. This is only one way that we could help out one of the services that we badly need in our District.

Biggest Investment Calls For Best Advice

Buying a home, particularly your first home, is probably the biggest single investment most of us will ever make. Because of the long-term financial commitments, such an investment requires a variety of informed decisions. For good advice from someone who knows their business, the Big Sandy Board of REALTORS® suggests you contact a real estate broker who is a REALTOR®.

REALTORS® are real estate professionals who belong to the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® and subscribe to its strict code of ethics. Not all real estate brokers and agents are REALTORS®.

A REALTOR® provides you with indispensable information and help as a natural outgrowth of his or her representation of the seller. There is no cost to seek the service of a REALTOR® when buying a home because their commission is paid at the time of closing by the seller they represent.

When buying or selling a home, the Big Sandy Board suggests you interview several REALTORS® in your area and then explore the housing market with the one with whom you are most comfortable.

KEA President Jon Henrikson will open the first session of the KEA Delegate Assembly, the organization's policy-making body, at 8 p.m. today (Wednesday) at the Hyatt Regency Hotel, Louisville.

State finals of the KEA President's Spelling Bee, presentation of School Bell Awards for media coverage of education, and a luncheon at which the recipient of KEA's annual Lucy Harth Smith-Atwood S. Wilson Award for Civil and Human Rights in Education will be announced will be among major activities at the convention.

Forest Fires Burn Floyd Timberlands

Forest fires which, in most cases, were all but uncontrollable due to tinder dry and windy conditions, swept over a wide area of Eastern Kentucky last week hitting Floyd and surrounding counties particularly hard.

While a few scattered blazes were reported last Monday and Tuesday from Floyd and the five other counties which comprise the Eastern Forestry District, the situation had become critical by Thursday as state Division of Forestry crews and local fire departments battled 29 fires throughout the district. Friday, the number had increased to 33, according to District Forester Steve Brackett.

In Floyd county firefighters struggled to control blazes along KY 114 (Middle Creek), on Route 850 near Hippo, Bays Branch, Clear Creek near Ligon, on Mill Branch at Melvin, Hall's Branch at Banner, Stephens Branch, and Abner Mountain. Winds, which gusted to 55 miles an hour in some sections, created a bellows effect making it all but impossible to extinguish the flames which leaped several feet into the air. "Finally, we had to just concentrate on protecting people's property," Brackett commented. Four full-time forestry crews, county Disaster and Emergency Services personnel, and the Wheelwright and Garrett Volunteer Fire Departments fought the woodland blazes in this county.

A barn, owned by Norma L. Hicks, burned Friday night at Goodloe on the left fork of Middle Creek and may have been the result of a hillside fire which burned about 500 feet from the structure. Police are also investigating the possibility of arson, it was said.

By the time winds had abated and thunderstorms slowed the flames, Friday night, 446 acres of woodland had burned in Floyd county and Brackett described a figure of 2,400 acres for the entire district as a "conservative estimate."

With about 13,000 acres being burned in 35 mountain counties, the Eastern District suffered the most, a situation which forestry officials have come to expect, according to Brackett. "The Pineville District usually runs right up there with us," he commented, pointing to the ruggedness of the terrain in both districts as a contributing factor.

Brackett said 18 citations had been issued for illegal or careless debris burning in connection with last week's rash of fires although "close to half" were the result of woods arsonists. "These are people who actually set fire to some leaves or brush along a roadside or on a ridge for no apparent reason," he commented. "And if it was just in Floyd county maybe we could say it was the work of one weird individual," he said. "But it's all over the district, so it's clear that there are a lot of dangerous people around."

Brackett said Magoffin county.

Yet the March Reader's Digest reports that people living in areas that have a low rate of medical and surgical intervention appear to be just as healthy as those where such treatment is twice as likely.

where one unoccupied home burned, was the hardest hit of the Eastern District's counties which also includes Pike, Johnson, Martin and Lawrence.

Thursday and Friday's situation was the worst since the 1981 spring fire season when 48 blazes burned simultaneously in the Eastern District. That period was particularly disastrous for Floyd county woodlands as 98,000 acres, or 41 percent of the county's total forest land was burned over.
