

THE PILOT of this Wilkinson Flying Service helicopter escaped with minor injuries after crashing along the banks of Middle Creek near Archer Park, Tuesday afternoon. John Kendrick, who had transported a party to the construction site of the Prestonsburg Village Shopping Center, a short distance from the park, told police he lost power upon taking off and was forced to crash land. A witness said the aircraft, which was reportedly on its way to refuel, got as far as Archer Park when the engine stalled. Prestonsburg rescue units quickly removed Kendrick from the wreckage and an investigative team from the National Transportation and Safety Board is working to determine the cause of the crash, it was said. Capt. Larry Adams of the Prestonsburg Fire Department is pictured here examining the downed helicopter.

Floyd schools have again been put on notice by state education authorities to shape up—or, this time, risk their accreditation.

The latest ultimatum came Monday, when the Floyd Board of Education met in special session on the instruction of state officials to receive the report of an audit recently done on eight county schools.

The 35-page report listed numerous irregularities—some of them violations of federal and state law—in the schools' accounting practices, principally in the lunch program.

Many of the discrepancies will apparently mean that the schools will be ineligible for part of the federal reimbursement for which claims have been submitted. And continued accreditation of the school district may be in jeopardy unless school officials here can show the state Board of Education at its next meeting—scheduled for May 5-6 at May Lodge—that it is putting its house in order.

Auditors said they turned up instances of payments to school employees for services which were unauthorized by the board and undocumented.

Proceeds from vending machine sales were so poorly accounted for it was impossible to say in some cases how much money was taken in or where it went, the report reveals.

Many purchases, including vending machine supplies—which already amount to $40,000 in one school this year—are not advertised for competitive bids, in violation of state law. And even where contracts have been let, purchases are being made from firms other than those named in the contract, the audit report says.

Sloppy management and inflated figures in the lunchroom accounts of the audited schools may mean that thousands of dollars in claims for federal reimbursement will be disallowed, according to the report, which lists 26 areas of noncompliance. Floyd officials must be prepared to show the state Board of Education that bookkeeping procedures are in compliance in all 27 county schools, state officials told the local board Monday.

Questioned by Board Chairman Dr. J.D. Adams, who insisted that the discrepancies revealed by the audit were what could normally be expected in any large business, Don Fightmaster, of the state Department of Education staff, acknowledged that auditors had run into similar problems in other Kentucky school districts.

This Town...That World

April is, indeed, the "cruellest month," or was as of last week.

AMONG THE MISSING

The resident groundhog has been missing from our premises since last week's snowfall, and his whereabouts have not been established to my satisfaction. I, somehow, have my doubts about the report that he was last seen, shivering at the roadside last Tuesday, thumping every car that was headed south.

I MISS THE BOAT

It may be that I have just now denied myself the trip of a lifetime.

Walter Hall has this day invited me to join him, Paul Gearheart and Jack Branham on a river cruise such as I've dreamed of too long now.

Next Sunday, the three of them—if Cam Garrett, another of those invited, doesn't make it a fourth—will be leaving Watts Bar Lake in a luxuriously outfitted boat for the Tennessee river. And then down the Tennessee in its giant swing as far south as Alabama and back north to join the Ohio at Paducah, and from there on into the Mississippi at Cairo, Illinois.

I won't detail all of Walter Hall's blandishments, but they were something to hear... Big, comfortable beds, television, refrigeration, a modern kitchen... fishing when you like, loafing, reading, leaving cares behind, going to bed when you feel the urge, rising when you want... long miles of beautiful water, a countryside of storybook charm...

I supply some of the lure of the trip, myself. Mere mention of a boat and the Mississippi gets me into country made

Operators Lose Trespass Case But Trespass Law Said 'a Mess'

In upholding a 1983 decision by a Floyd Circuit Court jury, the state Court of Appeals last week gave support to the notion that coal companies should be made to pay fair rental value to any landowners on whose property they trespass.

The appeals court upheld the award of $48,000 to Eugene and Julia Hamilton, of Teaberry, who had accused coal operators John B. and Sterling "Porky" Tackett of trespassing on their property between 1973 and 1979.

The question of trespass was first decided in favor of the Tacketts, Special Judge William B. Hazelrigg concluding they had a valid deed to the disputed property. That decision was overturned on appeal, however, and Hazelrigg subsequently found for the Hamiltons.

The October, 1983 decision which was the subject of last week's appeals-court ruling concerned the amount of damages to be paid to the Hamiltons and how such damages should be assessed. It is one of the thornier thickets of state law.

The measure used by the Floyd jury in assessing compensation was the rental price the Hamiltons could have got, had the Tacketts acknowledged their ownership of the property on which the coal operators were working a tippel and running trucks. A more traditional measure—and one which usually means much lower settlements for property owners—is the amount by which the value of the property is lessened as a result of the trespass.

A recent Martin county case in which the more traditional measure was applied is presently pending before the Supreme Court of Kentucky, which is expected to give definitive guidelines for assessing damages. As matters now stand, said one Prestonsburg attorney this week, "the state of the law on coal trespass is a mess."

THE SPRING COLORS have come in scattered, subtle clusters, until now, that is. The unfolding everywhere of the showy dogwood blossoms announces in dramatic fashion that spring, has indeed, sprung.

Jury Convicts Man Who Fleed Earlier Trial

Albert O. "Buddy" Gibson, 49, fled a courtroom here last December when he was about to be tried on assault and wanton endangerment charges. He feared a decision had already been made to give him a 10-year jail sentence, he said.

Back with a new lawyer this week, Gibson took his chances. A Floyd Circuit Court jury Monday found him guilty of one of two assault charges and one of wanton endangerment, recommending a 30-day jail term on the one conviction, a $500 fine on the other.

According to the case outlined by Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen, Gibson held a loaded gun to the head of Dorothy Sue Branham, then his mother-in-law, during a dispute in the Indian Hills apartment of his daughter, Chandra Nelson, in the early morning hours of Jan. 13, 1984.

He was also said to have shot his

Recktenwald Named Big Sandy ADD Head

Roger Recktenwald, 40, of Dwale, has been named executive-director of the Big Sandy Area Development District. He replaces the late Joseph S. McCauley.

A member of the ADD staff for the past 11 years, Recktenwald has been for six years director of the Water Resources Assistance Corporation, an ADD-sponsored agency that assists local governments in the operation of water and sewage systems.

His appointment was recommended by the ADD executive committee and received unanimous support from the full board, which met Monday at May Lodge. Recktenwald was one of 11 applicants for the position.

Social Security Office Here Believed Safe from Closing

"We are planning no massive assault on existing social security offices... No ax is about to fall," Health and Human Services Secretary Margaret Heckler hastened to assure staff members in Social Security Administration field offices recently.

The reassurance became necessary after word spread that an internal Social Security Administration memo had been drafted which could result in the closing of more than half the nation's 1340 social security offices.

According to a Congressional committee report, one of 13 Kentucky centers targeted for possible elimination is the Prestonsburg district office, on the Auxier road. The Pikeville branch office is listed as one of eight in the state that "may be downgraded or closed."

But Jim Kelly, director of the office here, said that, while the whole system is being reviewed to see where cuts might be made, there is "no list of places named for imminent closure." The Social Security Administration has a good record of administrative efficiency and strong arguments can be made for retaining the Prestonsburg and Pikeville offices at least their present strength, he said.

"I have received nothing from my boss saying, 'Prepare for an orderly closure'—or even a disorderly one," Kelly said.

The suggestion that many offices might be phased out drew criticism from Congressman Edward R. Roybal, chairman of the U.S. House of Representatives committee on aging. "I feel certain that such a plan would create serious problems for the nation's 28 million social security beneficiaries," he said. "It is outrageous that such a plan would not even take into consideration the fact that seniors would be forced to travel to other communities to resolve their social security problems."

In addition to the suggested office closings, President Reagan's proposed 1986 budget calls for a 21 percent reduction in Social Security Administration staff over the next four years. "I cannot help

Although foundation work is already well under way, ground was officially broken Friday for the county's newest public housing development on Ivy Creek at Ivel. A project of the Floyd County Housing Authority, the complex will provide 41 two, three and four-bedroom townhouse-type dwellings at a total cost of near $2.5 million. Most of the funding is being provided by the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) with additional grants from the Appalachian Regional Commission and the Kentucky Housing Corporation's Land Grant Program. On hand for the groundbreaking were, from left: Paul Hunt Thompson, Floyd County Housing Authority board member; Morris Hylton, board member; Wendell Stratton, Ivel civic leader; Julia May, executive director of the Floyd County Housing Authority; Bill Richardson, project architect, of Whitesburg; Ron Reynolds, C.B. & S. Before You Dig Give BUD a Call

Do you know whether there are any buried utility lines on your property? There is a way to find out before you start digging, and it doesn't cost you anything, according to Art Willett, manager for Bell.

Just call BUD toll free at 1-800-752-6007 and utilities with underground lines in the area where you plan to dig or excavate will come out and mark where their lines are.

BUD stands for "Before You Dig" and represents the Kentucky Underground Utilities Protection Center. The Center was organized by South Central Bell in 1978 and now includes 26 member utilities of all types across the state.

"It costs several million dollars each year for utility companies in Kentucky to repair underground lines that are accidentally cut," said Willett. "That's why we'd rather spend a little prevention money providing this locating service at no charge."

While the utility companies save money in the long run, there are also benefits to you whether you're a contractor, farmer or a home gardener.

"Damage to underground utility lines can interrupt service for our customers," Willett said. "Someone who accidentally cuts into a telephone cable, for example, could leave an entire community without telephone service."

As further incentive, Willett said that if you do accidentally damage a utility line, you may have to pay for having it repaired.

Willett said over 20,000 people called BUD last year, but there is so much more damage that could be prevented.

The Kentucky Underground Utilities Protection Center is open from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. (EST) Monday through Friday, but your calls after hours will be recorded.

There is no charge for the call or the service, but the Center does ask for 24 to 48 hours notice.

The toll-free number again is 1-800-752-6007.

PERFORMANCE COUNTS

Last week I saw an ad run by James Allen whereby he was attacking John Stumbo on his record as School Board Member. No matter what Mr. Allen's ads may say, the people of Floyd County should know that the voters of District No. 3 were pleased enough with John Stumbo's performance as School Board member to allow him to serve in that office undefeated for a period of 31 years. And, no matter how difficult things may have been for Floyd County at large the simple truth is that during John Stumbo's services as representative for that district 21 one- and two-room schools were eliminated and replaced with two (2) new and modern schools built at Grethel and Harold for elementary schools. Also, Betsy Layne High School was constructed and is now the newest and most modern facility in Floyd County. Betsy Layne High School is equal to or better than any facility in East Kentucky, being fully air-conditioned, innovative and modern in every detail. So, Mr. Allen, no matter what your bias opinion of Mr. Stumbo's record may be I simply say he did his job and he fulfilled his duty to the people who elected him from District No. 3. Can you say the same about your performance as Commonwealth Attorney?

A Ladder Is for Climbing

When teachers attending the Kentucky Education Association meeting last week gave Gov. Martha Layne Collins a "raspberrious ovation" in response to her argument for a Career Ladder for teachers, there surely was a reason.

We cannot believe that that reason lies in the opposition of teachers to the Career Ladder concept itself. We believe that teachers who are truly professionals, proud of their profession and want to achieve success in it do not oppose the Career Ladder theory.

But, we are told, the main opposition rises from a widespread fear of what will happen when the time comes to convert theory into practice. A limited survey of teachers indicates, to put it bluntly, that they fear the Career Ladder in practice would be only another device to reward cronies, relatives and influential political allies while more deserving teachers who do not enjoy such a relationship with school boards and administrators would be left standing on the same rung of the Ladder that they now occupy.

If this is why the governor of Kentucky and the concept which she espoused before the KEA drew the unconcealed opposition of many teachers, it is a sad commentary on the educational system and the individuals who administer it.

Are the fears of these teachers reasonable? If they are, then education in Kentucky has something of a herculean task ahead. Its leaders will have to prove by forthright action, and not by mere words, that the Ladder is for climbing by any climber and that nobody will shove one climber back while pulling a laggard up.

but speculate that the only motivation for these shortsighted administrative cuts is to cripple SSA's ability to do its job." Roybal said.

But Secretary Heckler denied any such intent. "If the status quo best serves the people, we will retain it. But where population shifts, demographic changes, and technological improvements warrant change, we will make change."

The SSA memo notes that field offices were greatly expanded in the 1980s and early 1970s "to reach out to minority and socioeconomically deprived segments of our society." But "changes in the law, budget and political climate" require changes by SSA, it adds.

The rapid increase in field offices followed a period of unrest in the nation's urban ghettos. When SSA took over programs for aiding the aged, the blind, and the disabled—which had formerly been the responsibility of the states—field offices were multiplied in inner-city areas, at least partly to placate angry minority communities, Kelly said. The result, he added, is that in some cities branch offices were set up within a few miles of the parent office.

While much of the earlier expansion would be undone under the proposed rules, Kelly said he is confident the Prestonsburg district meets all the new criteria: the number of people served by the district is relatively high; it is a long way to the nearest office and there is no public transportation; and relatively low education levels mean people need a lot of help dealing with the system.

The Prestonsburg office and its Pikeville branch serve 31,000 beneficiaries in five counties and the district includes more disabled persons than in any other district in the state except Louisville. The nearest district offices are in Ashland, Hazard—which has a branch office in Jackson—and Lexington.

There are 20 full-time workers on the staff here, 13 in Pikeville, and the district also employs four part-time workers. The need is for more, not fewer, permanent employees, Kelly insists. Social security taxes support the system and, with administrative costs running at less than 1.5 percent, taxpayers are getting good value for their dollar, he said. "We have a good record as far as being frugal goes," he said. "I think we are too frugal at times."

daughter in the forearm during a scuffle and later to have assaulted police officer Larry Woods with his fists.

But Pikeville attorney Thomas W. Goodman, representing the defendant, said the argument began when Mrs. Branham pulled a pistol from her purse and threatened to fill Gibson. The bullet that passed through Nelson's arm was fired accidentally in the ensuing scuffle, he said.

And the incident in which Gibson struck Woods with his handcuffed hands came only after Woods—then a Prestonsburg police officer and now a state trooper—"laid his head open with a nightstick and fractured his ribs," his attorney said.

Gibson, who was married at that time to Sandra Kaye Wright, was earlier married to her mother, Mrs. Branham. When he broke up with the mother and started dating the daughter, "bad blood" arose between Gibson and Mrs. Branham, who had threatened him on several occasions, Goodman said.

The jury acquitted Gibson of shooting his daughter but recommended a month in jail for assaulting Woods and the $500 fine for endangering Mrs. Branham.

Gibson claimed he was beaten by Prestonsburg police officers during an arrest here last month. He appeared in court wearing a surgical collar around his neck.

OBSERVES BIRTHDAY

James Kenneth Allen observed his 16th birthday on Saturday before Easter with a party given at his home by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James P. Allen, and his grandmother, Mrs. Theckley Short. Pizza birthday cake, and other refreshments were served to about 40 of his classmates and other friends who came to share the occasion with him. Movies were enjoyed and the honoree was presented many gifts.

On Easter Sunday, he was honored by members of his family's Birthday Club, who entertained him with lunch at the Western Sizzlin' Steak House. Present were the guest of honor, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James P. Allen, his grandmother, Mrs. Theckley Short, and Miss Burietta Gearheart, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Pettrey, Mrs. Eva Hyden, and Mrs. Pauline Sparks. Following the luncheon, the group went to his home, where refreshments were served and gifts were presented.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Jack Sword wishes to thank all who helped in any way upon the passing of their loved one. We deeply appreciate the flowers, food and the words of kindness given by all. Thanks to the Wilson Creek Regular Baptist ministers and members and to the Hall Funeral Home for its kind and efficient service.

THE FAMILY

But one of the auditors reported that the accounting problems here were "the worst she has ever been into," Fightmaster added.

Among the auditors' findings:—Prestonsburg Elementary Principal Thomas Tackett was paid $125 in December supposedly for checking the temperature of the school freezer. His assistant, Frank Stewart, was paid $100. The payment to Tackett indicated he had made 25 freezer checks but gave no dates; neither times nor dates were indicated in the payment to his assistant. State officials wanted to know why it took two persons to make the freezer checks and whether this responsibility fell outside the school officials' regular job descriptions.

—At Allen Elementary, a secretary who was said to have worked overtime and to be "very efficient" was paid an extra $75 in October and again in November, although no time sheets or invoices were presented to support the payments. Principal Daniel Branson was paid $25 in November and in January, again without invoices, for "picking up food..." and delivering it to the school. A telephone bill for $63.40 was given to the cafeteria manager to pay even though she has no phone in the cafeteria and denied making any long-distance calls.

—Drivers on extra-curricular trips, basketball and cheerleading sponsors, and others have been paid without submitting required invoices at McDowell High School and other schools.

—Although purchases in excess of $7500 must be let for competitive bids, bids are not being taken on vending machine supplies or athletic equipment. Since July 1, 1984, McDowell High School has purchased $15,000 worth of soft drinks and $25,000 in candy and snack items, all without bidding. At Prestonsburg High School, $11,000 worth of sporting goods have been purchased without bids.

—While $10,772 worth of custodial supplies have been bought from vendors awarded the low bid, $17,622 worth of business has been done with vendors without contract. Three vendors awarded low bids for bus parts have been paid $5218; sixty-four vendors without bids have been paid $68,444 for parts. Maintenance supplies, gasoline, oil, and transmission fluid are also bought frequently from firms without contracts.

—There is no method of accounting for monies taken in vending machines at some schools. "Numerous" claims are paid without vendor invoices and standard forms for cash and inventory control are not being used in some schools, Fightmaster told the board. Often "it is not clearly documented who turned in cash or where it went," he said.

—In a reference to two allegations revealed at the state Board of Education's March meeting, auditors said a vending machine in the Wheelwright High School gym was under the control of basketball coach Danny Johnson, who "is not submitting money collected from the machine to the school treasurer or the central fund treasurer," and that school psychometrist Larry Jervis was operating soft drink and snack machines at the district's central office. Board employees convicted of doing illegal

DAY HOMEMAKERS MEET

The Prestonsburg Day Homemakers met Tuesday afternoon, April 9, with the president, Mrs. Eleanor Horn, presiding. Mrs. Mary Jane Brown gave the devotional. The theme of Mrs. Brown's discussion was "Joy in the Christian Life." She then read a poem entitled "Do You Really Care," and Mrs. Betty Langefeld led the group in prayer.

Mrs. Dorothy Osborne gave a report of the last meeting, and also reported that this club now has 51 members. Birthday greetings were extended to Mesdames Myrtle Allen, Barbara Dawson, Mabel Donahoe, Pat Necessary, Beckye Short, and Maman Leslie.

A donation was made to the First United Church, in memory of Mrs. Ellen Messer. The president read a list of the meetings for the month of April, and discussed the forthcoming Cultural Arts Camp, which is to be held May 29-31. She appointed a nominating committee composed of Mesdames Margaret Alley, Jane Wallace, and Ann Alley to select officers and committee chairmen for the year 1985-86, and named Mesdames Gladys Blackburn and Peg Hewlett to serve on a Scrapbook committee.

Mrs. Mary Sue Moore, Program chairman, gave a discussion on "Skin and Nail Care," after which she presented Misses Sandy Fields, Kim Miller, Loena Osborne, and Kim Martin, students at the Prestonsburg Barber School, who gave a demonstration of applying facial make-up.

The hostesses, Mesdames Judy Kittle, Maman Leslie, and Lucy Regan served a desert course to Mesdames Eleanor Horn, Dorothy Osborne, Jane Wallace, Fannie Runnels, Mary Jane Brown, Betty Langefeld, Docia Woods, Mary Sue Moore, Barbara Dawson, Dorothy Burke, Beverly Hackworth, Becky Rasnick, Gladys Blackburn, Ann Alley, Myrtle Allen, Dolly Pettrey, Dorothy Stover, Nancy Webb, and Hope Whitten.

The next meeting will be there on Tuesday afternoon, May 14, at 1 o'clock, with Mesdames Dorothy Stover and Jane Wallace presenting the lesson, and Mesdames Opal Dingus, May K. Roberts, and Fannie Runnels as hostesses.

CHURCH DINNER SLATED

A covered dish dinner will be held at the annex of the First Baptist Church here, Sunday at 5:30 p.m. The adult choir will present "God's Trombone" during that time. All church families are urged to attend.

business in the schools are subject to fine and dismissal, Ron Mowbray, of the state Department of Education's management and audit division, reminded the board. Both employees deny any wrongdoing.

—A seven-year-old contract between Dairy Queen and Prestonsburg Elementary School for the sale of ice cream in the school cafeteria is cited by the auditors as a violation of various regulations relating to the federally-subsidized, school lunch program—including a law requiring that revenue from food sales go into a school account. Gross sales of ice cream at the school were put at $27,750 a year, of which only a 10 percent commission is paid to the school. At least five school employees, including the principal and his assistant, reportedly spend time supervising or running the ice-cream business. The sale of ice cream also results in low participation by students in the regular lunch program, the audit noted.

—Among irregularities in school nutrition programs which appear certain to mean that some claims for federal reimbursement will be disallowed, auditors cited undocumented or erroneous applications for free or reduced-price meals and inflated counts of the number of students lawfully receiving free meals. "Free meals were overclaimed on a daily basis at Prestonsburg High School," where a teacher's aide was also reported to be receiving a daily free meal. Cash register tapes were thrown away at Allen Central because Principal J.O. Dingus found them "too bulky" to keep, and records at Auxier Elementary were discarded by the lunchroom manager for the same reason.

—At Allen Elementary, depreciation was still being claimed on kitchen equipment destroyed in last year's flood; at Prater Elementary, depreciation was still being claimed on equipment already fully depreciated. The employer's cost for unemployment insurance, retirement benefits and social security were claimed twice at Prater and at Wheelwright. Large sums of lunchroom monies were allowed to accumulate—sometimes for as long as a month at a time—before being deposited in the bank.

—The cost of buying and maintaining two ice machines for concession stands at Prestonsburg grade school constitutes an ineligible claim on the federal school lunch program. A December, 1984 invoice shows the school paid $596 to replace and repair the machines.

Beside Fightmaster and Mowbray, Rendall Butler, state director of school food services, and Gordon Cook, of the accreditation division, were on hand to explain details of the audit, which was ordered last month by the state Board of Education.

Superintendent E.P. Grigsby, Jr. said he welcomed the scrutiny of state officials. "We make no excuses for our problems," he said. "We want to face up to them."

Fightmaster acknowledged that James F. "Frankie" Francis, who took over from Blanche Dingus as food service director this year, should not be held responsible for all the program's shortcomings. "This didn't happen overnight," he said.

Dept. of Education Sets Paintsville Meet

The Kentucky Department of Education will hold a series of eight meetings across the state to discuss programs and regulations that come under the purview of the Office of Instruction.

"The meetings provide an opportunity for local administrators and Department of Education officials to discuss the implications and implementation of federal and state legislation," Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald said.

Local school administrators and members of school boards will be invited to attend the meetings, which will be held in eight locations, corresponding to the regions of the Office of Instruction. (The meeting for this area will be held April 24 at the Carriage House, Paintsville, beginning at 8:15 a.m.)

Topics to be discussed include master in-service plans and Department of Education policies on in-service programs. Other topics are the evaluation of certified personnel, the implementation of the Educational Improvement Act and requirements for developing and submitting educational improvement plans.

Regulations regarding teacher internships and buildings and grounds policies will also be addressed in the regional meetings.

Another session will include discussion of the kindergarten program, the Commonwealth Diploma, the discipline code and programs designed to attract teachers to the fields of mathematics and science and improve the qualifications of those already teaching in those fields.

Other planned topics include essential skills remediation and new implications for federal Chapter I funds.

Ky. Historical Society Among Largest of Kind

One of state government's smallest agencies is also one of its most visible. Because of its small staff size—some sixty full-time people—the Kentucky Historical Society in Frankfort may not be as well known as some other departments of state government. But, with some 8,000 members, the KHS is one of the largest state societies in the nation.

The Kentucky Historical Society name can be seen in small print on the numerous highway markers that dot the state's highways and city streets; it is visible on the sides of two large trailers, known as Historymobiles, that carry exhibits to schools, fairs and festivals; and it is imprinted on two quarterly journals and a newsletter that are available to members of the Society throughout Kentucky, America, and in a dozen countries overseas.

In Frankfort, the Society operates a research library and three historical museums, in addition to providing free guided tours of the Governor's Mansion and the Lieutenant Governor's Mansion.

According to Edna Flowers, assistant director of the Society: "Our organization furnishes assistance and programs to local historical societies and to genealogists across the state. Teachers rely on our workshops and study materials on Kentucky to help them prepare lesson plans for the classroom. All of our activities are designed to help promote awareness of Kentucky's heritage."

(For more information about the Kentucky Historical Society, write Post Office Box H, Frankfort, Kentucky 40602, or telephone (502) 564-3016.)

On November 5, 1781, the Continental Congress elected John Hanson as the first "President of the United States in Congress assembled" under the Articles of Confederation. George Washington, later the first President elected under the Constitution, wrote to congratulate Hanson on his "appointment to fill the most important seat in the United States."

DISTRICT NO. 2

TO ALL FLOYD COUNTIANS IN
MAGISTERIAL DISTRICT NO. 2:

During the last few weeks, various candidates for the office of Magistrate, District 2, have made great claims as to their qualifications for the office by virtue of their ability to operate a truck, bulldozer or other road-building equipment. I simply ask you, the voters, to decide if the problems we have experienced in getting the best services for our citizens are the result of our inability to find qualified truck drivers or heavy equipment operators. I believe that the most pressing need for Magisterial District No. 2 is for a Magistrate who has the integrity and ability to use the Two Million Dollars that is available each fiscal year in a manner that has no selfish interests. We simply don't need a better man to handle County equipment, we need a better man to handle the County's money. Your Magistrate must be able to rise above any personal need, greed, or temptation to use your tax dollars for his own self-employment, or for the benefit of his family or supporters. Simply put, the reason that your road or bridge is not maintained as you think it should be is because your representative, your Magistrate, has not used integrity or intelligence in the spending of the monies available for you. I promise to do so. With the monies available, I promise to simply HIRE the best men available for the operation of County equipment. After all, that's how this system is supposed to work—to take your public monies and spend them to HIRE qualified road workers, not ELECT them.

I ask that you vote for an individual who is not working for anything except an opportunity to serve you. This I will do by taking every public dollar and with honest effort see that it is spent in a manner that best serves our common needs.

Plan Ahead Against Flooding

Spring rains can be expected and now is the time to act to protect property from one of Spring's most deadly companions: floods.

Action taken now can help to minimize the impact of flooding. The following tips on what to do are suggested by the Federal Emergency Management Agency:

1. Learn the safest route from your home and place of business to high, safe ground. If you are asked to evacuate in a hurry (particularly at night), knowledge of the roads provides an extra margin for safety.
2. Never attempt to drive through water on the road since sections of the road or bridge may have already been washed away. Move immediately to higher ground as the floodwaters may still be rising.
3. Keep a battery-powered radio, emergency cooking equipment and flashlights in working order at home. Also maintain a supply of food that needs no refrigeration.
4. Residents of frequently flooded area should keep materials such as sandbags, plywood, plastic sheeting and lumber which can be used to protect property. Sandbags should not be stacked directly against the outer wall of a building, since wet sandbags can create added pressure on a structure.
5. Purchase flood insurance. Your homeowners or business insurance policy will not protect you from flood loss. Flood insurance can be obtained through the Federal Insurance Administration's National Flood Insurance Program. Contact your local insurance agent or broker for information about eligibility. There is normally a five-day waiting period for the policy to become effective.

6. Make an itemized list of personal property, including furnishings, clothing and valuables. Keep this list and your insurance policies in a secure location, such as a safe deposit box. Photograph your home inside and out. This will help verify losses when filing a flood claim. It will also prove helpful should you have any other type of home insurance claim.

A more complete listing of steps to take before, during and after a flood is published in the NFIP pamphlet, "In the Event of a Flood." For a free copy, write: Consumer Information Center, Department 600M, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

ELECT BRUCE "SCRAP" SCOTT MAGISTRATE, DISTRICT 2

In response to a statement in last week's Times, I think it is very important to know about the equipment you are to be in charge of. I am making no "great claim" of knowing this, it's an honest statement. This is how I make my living.

I think that qualified people should be hired to operate county equipment; but before you can hire these people, you should be knowledgeable of the equipment and able to tell if the people are capable of operating it. And yes, I do have the "integrity, ability and intelligence" to handle the County's budget. When elected your Magistrate, I will prove this ability to you.

ELECT BRUCE "SCRAP" SCOTT AS YOUR NEXT MAGISTRATE—NO. 9 ON THE TICKET
(Pol. Adv. Paid for by Candidate, 11-pd.)

A GOVERNMENT OF THE PEOPLE

The Floyd County Judge-Executive sets the meeting time and the agenda for the Fiscal Court. The Fiscal Court is the governing body of our county and makes decisions which affect the life of every single citizen of Floyd County. Yet, as I travel the County and talk to the people, I find that very few of our people have ever attended a meeting of the Fiscal Court. Why?

Many people tell me that the time the Fiscal Court meets, when most of our people are working, and the place, Prestonsburg, makes it difficult for them to attend. Some suggest that attendance at the Fiscal Court meetings would be improved if the meetings were in the early evening and some of the meetings were held out in the county. This isn't done.

Perhaps our people wouldn't want to spend almost as much on salaries and fringe benefits as is spent on road repair; perhaps our people wouldn't agree that no money should be spent on economic development plans to create jobs for people; perhaps our people would want to spend some small amount on promoting tourism activities that would mean millions of dollars to our economy; perhaps our people wouldn't agree to award a contract worth over $200,000 for county blacktop to the County Judge's former employer without competitive bids. Maybe those who have watched the manner in which our County Judge conducts the meetings on Channel 5 would be embarrassed to attend the meetings.

The County Judge-Executive's office belongs to the people and is operated with money given to the office by the people. Doesn't it follow that the people should have maximum input into how their office is run and how their money is spent.

James R. Allen knows that our County Judge is "hired" by the people each four years to operate their government. James believes that the County Judge should actively seek out the ideas, concerns and needs of the people in all matters. When the budget is proposed, there should be community based public meetings to seek out the advice of the people. It takes some effort and is a little bit more cumbersome than making the decisions as far away from the people as possible, but the result will be a more democratic local government that reflects the wishes of the people. James R. Allen thinks the effort is worth it.

James R. Allen will operate your office for you. Your ideas and concerns are important and James will actively seek out the counsel of the people on all governmental decisions. James R. Allen will bring the Fiscal Court meetings to the people and establish "people hours" not "politician hours" for meetings of the Fiscal Court. After all, it's your government isn't it?

Children's Home Has Happier Easter

Every child looks forward to Easter morning, but some are less fortunate. Because of local merchants and residents, 18 children at Dessie Scott Children's Home, near Beattyville, received Easter baskets, candy, fruit, toys and personal items for Easter. Charlotte George and Pat Reynolds gave the children free hair cuts, and Jean Lafferty assisted in this project. This home doesn't receive state aid and depends on donations. Coal Firm Recognizes Work Safety Records

Martin County Coal Corporation has recently initiated a program of recognizing continuing safe work performances by company employees and their individual production units.

Safety banners have been awarded to crews that have worked for a full year without a lost-time injury accident and for crews with 100,000 employee hours of exposure without a lost-time accident. This practice will be continued and is just one more way of recognizing and rewarding safe work practices on the job.

Aerobic Walking Offered At PCC

Aerobic walking is a class designed for those who are interested in developing and maintaining cardio-vascular fitness. The medical profession recognizes that the heart and peripheral vascular system are responsible for delivering oxygen and nutrients for muscular working. Periods of intense and repeated exercise increases the ability of the heart and vascular system to work more efficiently. The class will meet five days a week for ten weeks. Each participant is encouraged to participate three days out of the five each week. An aerobic walking program using a cumulative point system developed by Dr. Kenneth H. Cooper will follow a brief warm up with exercises. A book will be available for purchase entitled "Aerobics", by Dr. Kenneth H. Cooper. The program is open to people including young people and adults ages 16 and older. The class will meet 4:30-5:30 p.m. on the Prestonsburg Community College campus. For more information or to register contact the Office of Community Services 886-3863, ext. 215.

When you throw rice at newlyweds you're practicing a very old custom. According to the April Reader's Digest, the practice originated in China or India—as a fertility rite to grant young couples many children and prosperity from an abundant harvest.

LET'S SET THE RECORD STRAIGHT

Six weeks ago, Mr. Bluford Floyd, owner of Smith Cable System at Hi Hat, published a letter in the Floyd County Times stating that "Mr. Edward Caudill should receive a medal for building a bridge at Hi Hat". Mr. Smith later had to retract that statement because it was untrue. Now "Channel 9" of Smith Cable System (on the edge of the screen—not the center that people pay for) has advertised that ballgames are to be played at the "Edward Caudill Park" at Minnie.

Please, let's set the record straight! That park—The Minnie Park at Minnie—belongs to the taxpayers of Floyd County, not to Mr. Caudill. Just as the Whitehouse belongs to the people of the United States, just as the capital in Frankfort belongs to the people of Kentucky, so the Minnie Park at Minnie belongs to the people of Floyd County—the taxpayers.

"Channel 9" is well-liked by the people on Left Beaver Creek but, please, let's not use it for false political advertisement.

RESPECT FOR THE LAW

Respect for the law comes, in part, through respect for law enforcement officers. A trained professional, sensitive to his community and its people, (especially its young people), can do more to generate respect for the law and prevent crime than all the judges and prisons in the world. The key is to demonstrate by presenting the positive and correct posture that law enforcement is efficient, relentless and above all, fair and impartial. It is harder to go against someone you respect than it is to go against someone you don't.

Perhaps the most important service a professional law enforcement officer can perform is in the way he or she handles the minor violation or first offender. Handle it poorly or unprofessionally or with a heavy hand and respect for the law is greatly damaged. Instead, resentment and ill will is generated. That can and does lead to later problems. However, handle the situation well and respect for the law is enhanced. This enhancement of respect for the law is a great help in the prevention of future crime.

My pledge to you, as your Sheriff, is to provide even-handed, professional and available law enforcement by Trained Deputies that law abiding citizens have no need to fear and that criminals have little hope of outwitting.

GUESS WHAT DR.

As I sit here reading your last week's ad in the Floyd Co. Times, I had to laugh. You almost had me fooled by this honesty and character stuff. You speak of various candidates. I am one of those candidates. Don't you know you can't get the best qualified operators on what the county pays, that is the trouble now with Dist. 2. They send too many people to Prestonsburg that don't know what to do. They hire someone else to do the job, and we all get stuck. Wise up and tell the people in Dist. No. 2 why you want the Magistrate's job. Don't try to fool the people. These workers need a leader, and if you don't know what to do, how can you lead them. I cannot only run the equipment I know when someone else is doing a good job too. If I am your Magistrate, the roads in Dist. 2 will be fixed the right way and not with shot rock, creek sand and gravel, or the bull some of the other candidates are putting out.

Treated Lime Found Economical Way To Remove Sulfur from Coal Boilers

(From DOE This Month)
For more than 30 years scientists have known that limestone injected into a coalburning boiler can act as a chemical "sponge" to absorb sulfur impurities before they escape into the atmosphere. The drawback has been the cost of large quantities of limestone.

Now, after analyzing data from a test in Minnesota, Energy Department researchers have found that only one-third as much of a specially-treated limestone, called "pressure-hydrated" lime, is needed to reduce sulfur emissions when injected directly into a coal-burning boiler.

Pressure-hydrated lime is made by mixing water and calcium, then compressing the mixture at up to 150 pounds per square inch and heating it to temperatures as high as 300 degrees F. When the moistened lime is released from the pressure vessel, the particles typically are microscopic-size. The extremely large surface area created by the tiny particles makes pressure-hydrated lime more effective in capturing sulfur emissions.

The Energy Department's Grand Forks (ND) Project Office tested the technique last fall in a 50-megawatt lignite-burning boiler at the Otter Tail Power Co.'s Hoot Lake Station in Fergus Falls, Minn. Energy and Environmental Research Corp., of Irvine, CA, ran the tests for the Department.

During the tests, the pressure-hydrated lime was continually shot into the furnace through compressed air lines—a simple injection technique that lends itself to retrofit on existing boilers where space is often limited.

Some 30 individual tests were made, including one 30-hour run. When two parts of lime were injected to one part of sulfur in the flue gas, 50 percent of the sulfur dioxide was absorbed. By comparison, a test conducted in 1981 at the same power plant using conventional limestone also captured 50 percent of the sulfur dioxide but used more than three times as much limestone.

Researchers also found that by increasing the hydrated lime proportion to seven times the amount of sulfur, 80 percent of the sulfur in the gas stream was captured. Boiler efficiency and operation were not impaired by the lime, and deposits that built up in the boiler were easily blown away.

Injecting pressure hydrated lime directly into boilers may be an alternative to installing scrubbers on existing coal plants if air quality standards are tightened in the future.

Although demonstrated with North Dakota lignite coal, the technology may also be applicable to other Western coals as well as Eastern coals.

Pressure hydrated lime may also offer advantages in arid Western states. The water needed for the process is estimated at only five percent of that required for conventional dry scrubber technology.

FIRE INSURANCE ON YOUR HOME?

The only way to combat the loss of property and fire insurance companies' pulling out or refusing to write homeowners insurance in Eastern Kentucky or raising the price of fire insurance to double and triple cost for business and home fire protection: We Need Active, Modern, Accredited Volunteer Fire Departments! We can organize the volunteer fire departments in District One to operate in complete cooperation with one another and the Prestonsburg Fire Department.

Each section (four) of District One will have its own department with a chief and volunteers from their own community, to run their department at all times. We can start our own Regional Fire Training Center School. We have the certified teaching instructors, now, to run the school and train the volunteer firemen. These individual volunteer departments will receive the latest advanced training classes taught by the Prestonsburg Fire Department on the newest equipment with actual, on-site fire demonstration situations, classroom and field training, every 4 to 6 months. The Magistrate's office will seek every state and federal grant or fund available for advancement in fire protection. We can have the knowledge of the latest national firefighting methods and use of fire equipment for all Volunteer firemen in District One. Every Volunteer fireman in Floyd County can receive certification and training at the Regional Fire Training Center School. Other Eastern Kentucky counties will be accepted also. We can make our District—District One—the best fire-protected district in Eastern Kentucky. TO ALL FLOYD COUNTIANS

Last week I read my opponent's Ad in this publication which expressed his alleged concern about my record, but I could not help but marvel at how selective his recollection is. The fact of the matter is two (2) years ago, due to the tragic death of the incumbent, the Democratic nomination for Floyd County Judge Executive had to be filled by the Democratic Executive Committee. At the public meeting of the Executive Committee, where the voting was held for the Democratic Nominee for the unexpired term, my opponent vigorously proclaimed to all who would listen my qualifications for the job. My record as a past member of the School Board was then what it is now, and Mr. Allen considered it quite acceptable. Because this is true it should be obvious to all that Mr. Allen's sudden campaign for County Judge Executive is not the result of his dissatisfaction with my performance as a school board member, being it was acceptable to him when I first entered this office.

What then is it? I only know that during the short time I have held this office, my opponent and his close supporters have showed a continuing and keen interest in who receives county employment and appointments on the various boards and commissions, particularly Beaver Elkhorn Water District. I admit I have been less than accommodating to them, being that I have attempted to make my decisions based on your best interests, as opposed to strengthening any particular political organization. The clear point of departure appears to have come when I declined a "request" to become involved in supporting the candidacy of the brother of our State Senator (and James Allen supporter) in the School Board race of Educational District No. 4 last fall. Threats were made by various individuals now active in my opponent's campaign as to the ramifications of my failure to assist in their drive to gain control of that school board position. I told them, as I tell you now, that I do not intend to complicate or impair my ability to serve as County Judge Executive by mingling this office with school board elections. Yes, I have had the pleasure and privilege to serve with many fine individuals connected with the Floyd County School Board, but when I became Floyd County Judge Executive two (2) years ago I considered that a change of direction for the type of public service I would labor at. From the office I now hold I am striving to work with all elected officials and public bodies in the hope that a unity of effort of County Government may be restored from which the public can benefit. Frankly, it is my perception that this striving for unity has been lacking for sometime because so many have been putting political ambition before public good.

What does all of this have to do with this campaign? I simply say that after that particular School Board election when I failed to respond to the directions of the Senator, apparently my opponent did not. The School Board election was held on Tuesday, and on that Friday Mr. Allen announced his candidacy for County Judge Executive. Before that time, few had any idea that the present Commonwealth Attorney desired to be Floyd County Judge Executive, but it has proven to me that when certain people speak, my opponent follows.

In closing, I simply renew my commitment to you to work and serve as a County Judge Executive that holds no obligation to anyone but you. I'm not a lawyer, but one need not be a lawyer to have dreams of a better life for Floyd County, and a willingness to work to achieve it. During this short time that I have been in this office, most of my energy has been directed toward reestablishing stability in your county finances and moving the county budget into the black. This I have done. Now that we are in a solvent and debt-free position, I humbly request your vote and support to give me an opportunity to not simply "hold our own", but to move forward. Coal severance tax monies are now available for the first time since I took office and our efforts to obtain Federal monies are now bearing fruit (just two (2) weeks ago it was officially announced the authorization of $520,000 Federal funds for a public water system for Floyd County citizens.)

I, and I alone am the candidate who sincerely desires to serve you as Floyd County Judge Executive, and to work to see that you have all to which you are entitled. These include decent roads to travel, modern and sufficient water systems, garbage and solid waste collection, sewer systems, and the development of new jobs that are sure to follow if this progress is made. But, much progress and improvement of the quality of your life cannot come from double-minded servants, who must balance your need against political opportunity or the well being of their organization and supporters. Accordingly, I ask for your vote and promise to do all within my power to serve you with a single interest, the public good.

Behind The Scenes Of "Living Planet"

Journalist Mike Kington takes a behind-the-scenes look at the making of "The Living Planet," a new series by the BBC Natural History Unit, written and presented by David Attenborough. This special, airing Sunday, May 5, at 8:00 p.m. on KET, reveals some of the mysteries and problems of wildlife filmmaking.

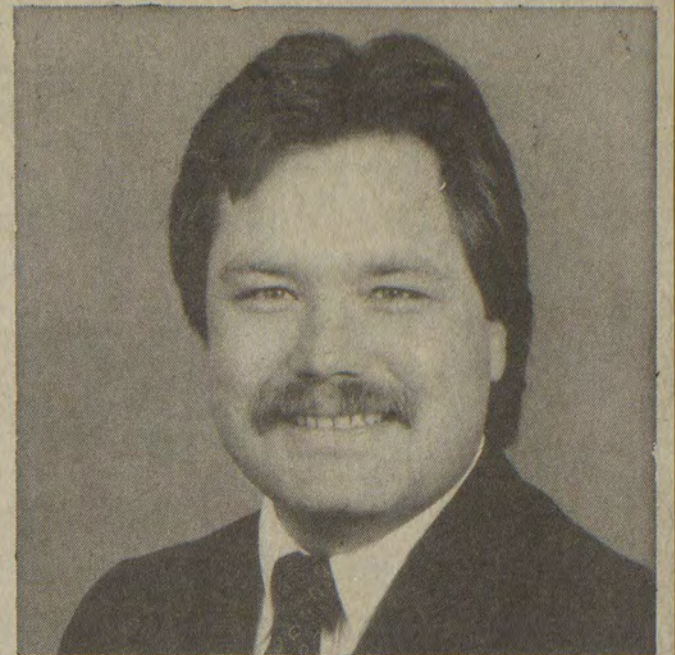

"The Making of the Living Planet" looks at how the crew went about filming such diverse creatures as whales, komodo dragons, polar bears and termites. You'll see many memorable moments, including some footage seen here for the first time.

The difficulties and dangers facing Attenborough and his crew over the three years it took to make "The Living Planet" series, their moments of triumph and disaster, excitement and frustration, are all included in this program.

And some stranger behavior of the species is revealed when they meet, among other things, a parrot that won't sit still, an antelope that changes sex behind a bush and a land crab that runs away to sea when it catches sight of the camera.

"The Making of the Living Planet" was produced by the BBC Natural History Unit, and was acquired from Lionhart TV International by the Inter-regional Program Service/Eastern Educational TV Network.

DEMOCRAT FOR COUNTY ATTORNEY

The County Attorney's office has two very important functions.

The function most citizens are familiar with is the responsibility of prosecuting misdemeanor cases in the Floyd District Court. The other function is acting as the legal advisor to the Floyd Fiscal Court.

I have the experience necessary to handle both functions. I prosecuted cases for the Jefferson County Attorney's Office for one year as a legal intern and have practiced law in the Floyd District Court for five years. I have advised the Martin City Council and Mayor for four years.

My record demonstrates that I have always been hard working and honest.

THE MOST SINCERE PROMISE THAT I CAN MAKE IS THAT I WILL BE A FRUGAL COUNTY ATTORNEY WHO WILL WORK TO SEE THAT YOU GET A DOLLAR'S WORTH OF GOODS AND SERVICES FOR EACH OF YOUR TAX DOLLARS.

ELECT ME

ANOTHER REMINDER

To the County Road Supervisor—the people here in Dist. #2 would like to know why the roads are being treated the way they are. Don't you know how the grader should be run or don't you care. As the supervisor, you should know it don't cost anymore to fix a road right than it does to keep scratching the top off and putting it over the hill and in the ditch line. That backhoe the county has parked on Stone Coal is a good thing to unstop some of the drains with. People on the lower end that live in Dwale need help. You should know Dwale, Old Allen, and New Allen are all in Dist. #2 of Floyd County. I would think they pay tax. There is Maytown, Cracker Bottom, Eastern, Bosco, Garrett, Lackey, and Wayland, plus the roads in these hollows, these people all need help. Where are the workers the county put back to work? It don't matter how many people the county hires—what counts is what these workers are doing. Why don't you start fixing up Dist. #2 now so we won't have this mess next winter. You can get the jump on me by starting to do a good job now and not waiting to see if I am your Magistrate in Dist. #2. Do unto others as you wish to be done by. We all will have a better county to live in.

GUM RECESSION

Q. What makes gums recede? Can anything be done about it.

A. Gum recession is generally the effect of excessive plaque and calculus, incorrect brushing, and improper hygiene. An irregular bite causing too much pressure, as well as bruxism (teeth grinding), are also causes of gum recession. Other, less likely but possible causes: genetics, poor health and improper nutrition.

Gum recession ignored can lead to further recession, bone loss, root decay, even tooth loss. The recession must be stopped, and calls for professional analysis. Each patient's problem calls for its own special solution.

Officers Mike Meade (left) and James Mullins, of the Prestonsburg Police Department, recently completed the 10 week Police Basic Training course held at Eastern Kentucky State University, Richmond.

The Police Basic Training Program has progressed over the past decade from a lecture course of 120 hours to the present 400 hours of highly structured and intensive instruction.

Meade and Mullins received training in areas of criminal law, crime detection and prevention, drug abuse, child abuse, procedures of handling family disputes, robbery, apprehension of criminal suspects and five-weeks of fundamental academic training (classroom).

The graduation ceremony was held last Friday at the Stratton Building on the EKV campus. The graduating officers received their certificates from Walter Mosher, training instructor and Dotty Priddy, Kentucky House of Representatives, 45th district.

Attendance, Focus Of Special Week

Floyd County will participate in Kentucky School Attendance Week, April 22-26, a statewide competition to increase pupil attendance.

Governor Martha Layne Collins, in conjunction with Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald and the Kentucky Association of School Administrators, proclaimed Attendance Week to emphasize the importance of pupils being in school and to identify strategies school districts can use to improve school attendance.

Floyd County plans to use the following strategies to improve school attendance during this special week. There will be a special recognition ceremony in each school for all students who attain 100% attendance for the week. Sticker badges announcing "perfect attendance" will be provided for perfect attenders to wear the following week. Competition among schools in the district will be encouraged. One trophy will be awarded to the school in each category that has the best percentage of attendance for the School Attendance Week. Schools will be considered in these categories for the competition: (1) rural schools, (2) consolidated elementary schools, (3) high schools. Schools winning trophies will be given publicity in our local newspaper.

Following the competition, an awards ceremony will be held at the state Capitol for all school districts that achieve excellence in school attendance for the week. Criteria will be the percent of students in class and the percent of improvement in attendance.

Students in kindergarten through twelfth grade will receive an official certificate signed by the Governor and state superintendent. Schools that record 99 percent or 100 percent attendance for the week will be awarded a large printed scroll for display in the school.

WHAT ABOUT EMBALMING?

There are varying laws and regulations about embalming throughout our country by state and even by some cities. They differ by customs, religious beliefs, usage and consumer demands.

Embalming is not usually required by law except under certain conditions. It is usually written into law if death was due to a communicable disease or if final disposition has to be delayed too long or if the body is to be carried from one state to another.

The needs for such requirements are obvious. The advantages of embalming are three-fold: 1) It allows survivors time to make proper and unburied funeral arrangements; 2) It permits relatives to come from afar for the funeral; and 3) Embalming preserves the body in a favorable appearance for the final viewings. In the case of a devastating illness or violent death, this third point becomes all the more important. While one can sometimes eliminate the embalming costs, the alternative solutions usually end up as more expensive and more harrowing.

Deadline Near For Training Veterans

The U.S. Labor Department reminds Kentucky employers that the deadline for hiring and training Korean or Vietnam-era veterans under the Emergency Veterans' Job Training Act (EVJTA) is September 1, 1985.

Under EVJTA, an employer can receive from the federal government 50 percent of a veteran's starting salary during the training program, with the reimbursement limit being $10,000 per veteran, according to Henry J. Field, the Labor Department's regional director for veterans' employment and training, Atlanta.

Although veterans must have already been certified for participation in the program, employers have until September 1 to start training. Participating employers must certify their intent to hire veterans on a permanent basis and must pledge they will not displace employees already on the payroll.

Employers can get more information about the program from Claude Ratliff, Department for Employment Services, North Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, 886-2396.

WHAT'S UP, DOC?

As I was reading another candidate's ad last week, he stated that he didn't think that a Magistrate's job had anything to do with knowing how to run a dozer, truck, or other road-building equipment. Of course, I can see why he thought that because he can't run any of the equipment. He thinks you can fix these roads with a PAIR OF PLIERS. He thinks that SPENDING THE MONEY is all there is to a Magistrate's job. WE'VE GOT A MAGISTRATE WHO CAN SPEND THE MONEY. WE WANT A CHANGE!

This man speaks of personal need, greed, and temptations, yet in last week's paper I said I would vote for at least a 40% CUT in the Magistrate's pay for a SAVINGS of approximately $9600 per Magistrate per year, for a total of approximately $153,600 per term. Yet with his selfish greed, he speaks of no cut in pay and all he sees is DOLLAR SIGNS in the job. With my plan, the money saved could be used to help out our Badly Needed local FIRE DEPTS., without putting a burden on our SENIOR CITIZENS, that are on fixed incomes and have a hard time just taking care of themselves already.

He speaks of hiring the BEST operators available for the job. I would like to know HOW he is going to pick the best operators because with the qualifications he has he wouldn't know an OPERATOR from a TRACK SHOVEL. From the way he sounds to me he is going to replace all county employees in District 2 regardless of their qualifications.

I believe the people in District 2 are fed up with the RICH GETTING RICHER and the POOR GETTING NOTHING for their roads. We don't need a Magistrate that doesn't know anything about building roads, running equipment, or GETTING DIRTY—a candidate that wears nothing but a SUIT and TIE, or a WHITE lab jacket, who wouldn't know what a hard day's work is. The people in District 2 want a man who knows WHAT WORK IS, and will work for ALL THE PEOPLE—FROM ALLEN TO WAYLAND.

I AM THAT MAN!

Ceremony Honors Perkins, Prichard

The Kentucky Department of Education paid tribute to two outstanding Kentuckians last Wednesday in a ceremony marking the 20th anniversary of the federal Chapter 1 program for disadvantaged children.

Noting that the late U.S. Rep. Carl D. Perkins played a leading role in the Chapter 1 legislation, Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald announced the presentation of an award named in his honor to the late Edward F. Prichard, Jr.

Prichard, who died Dec. 23, was an adviser to many public figures and a champion of educational reform in Kentucky. He was the chairman and guiding spirit of the Prichard Committee for Academic Excellence, which recently issued a series of recommendations for educational improvement.

Perkins, a Democrat from Hindman, represented the 7th Congressional District in Eastern Kentucky for 36 years. As chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee for 17 years, he helped bring about passage of legislation providing compensatory education, school lunches, better libraries and vocational programs.

McDonald said the Carl Perkins Award was being established to recognize his many contributions to education, not only in Kentucky but in the nation as a whole. An estimated 2 million Kentucky children have benefited from the more than $1 billion in Chapter 1 funds granted to Kentucky in the past 20 years, she said.

Chapter 1, then known as Title I, was part of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, the first major federal-aid bill for schools. Perkins helped guide that bill through Congress for President Lyndon Johnson, McDonald noted.

Perkins, who died Aug. 3, 1983, also fought to save his education programs from the cutbacks of recent years, she said. Although he lost on some fronts, she said, "he succeeded in saving the centerpiece of the original bill, the Title I program for disadvantaged children—now Chapter 1—that we are celebrating today."

McDonald said the posthumous award to Prichard recognized "someone who has in his lifetime made significant contributions to elementary and secondary education... someone whose contributions have made a difference in education in Kentucky."

Franklin Circuit Judge William Graham, who was formerly associated with Prichard's law firm in Frankfort, paid tribute to Prichard, recounting some of his many accomplishments in behalf of public education.

Joanne Brooks, director of the Department of Education's Division of Compensatory Education, announced the selection of four compensatory programs in Jefferson County as "exemplary programs" by the U.S. Department of Education.

Announcement of exemplary programs throughout the nation was made in Washington today in conjunction with the observance of the Chapter 1 anniversary.

Each state was invited to nominate compensatory programs that were highly successful and worthy of replication in other states, Brooks said. The four chosen for the honor were among 24 projects nominated in 14 Kentucky school districts, she said.

Coordinators of the four programs selected were recognized during the ceremony. They were Rosemary Chambers, who directed two of the projects, Programmed Tutoring in Math and Programmed Tutoring in Reading; Barbara Cummings, High School Reading Labs; and Stephanie Palaisa, Basic Skills, a program serving children in Jefferson County institutions for the neglected and delinquent.

Also present for the announcement were Bill Carrithers, Jefferson County assistant superintendent, and Joe McPherson, director of the district's Chapter 1 programs.

CORN BORER REMEDY

Latest USDA reports state that the European corn borer now ranks second only to corn rootworm as the most serious pest affecting the crop, costing American farmers lost profits each year. One European corn borer first generation egg mass per plant means a yield loss of six to nine bushels per acre.

Farmers have found that a single application of Furadan 15G at planting, in addition to controlling soil pests like rootworm, reduces the corn borer population.

It is the only planting time insecticide that provides the dual benefit. It will reduce the need for rescue treatment later.

Hunt Wins Kentucky Lake Bass Tourney

John Hunt of Waverly, TN, braved violent storms and high winds on Kentucky Lake to win the first KEN-TENN Division Bass fishing event on the American Bass Anglers Tournament trail.

High winds, and rain hampered all the contestants on Ky. Lake during the March 24th event, but Hunt came through with a seven-fish limit weighing 24 pounds, 4 ounces to claim the $2,000 first place. Hunt, a 45-year-old public relations manager with KEEPER Bait Co. used Bageley's KBI'S, L.C. Lures Jig's, and Shad Rap's to pull in his large catch. The Bass were scattered due to low water levels on the impoundment. The fish seemed to be on the secondary points according to Hunt.

Mike Jameson, of Henderson, Ky., and Mickey Joe Demoss, of Hanson, Ky., both had combined weights of 13 pounds, 15 ounces to tie for second place. Mike Jameson a 42-year-old electrical contractor had five bass which he caught on a crawfish colored Shad Rap.

Mickey Joe Demoss, 42, used a crankbait which hasn't been made in a long while. This was the Talk Tall Crankbait. Mickey used this along with a perch colored Shad Rap to catch his five bass.

Fourth place went to Doug Caskey. The 42-year-old welder from Madisonville, Ky., has four bass weighing 13 pounds, 8 ounces. Doug used a crawfish crankbait to produce his results.

The tournaments biggest bass was 7 pounds, 7 ounces lunker catch by Chuck Agnew, of Union City, TN. He claimed the $355.00 dollars for the Big Bass Pot.

A field of 76 fishermen competed for a purse of $4,300.00 on in the competition.

The next tournament in the KEN-TENN Division will be held April 21 at Paris Landing Marina.

For further information, interested fishermen can call the A.B.A. offices at 901-587-2955.

COMMUNITY PATROL

I know we all have reservations about leaving our homes unattended because we are afraid they will be robbed while we are away.

One of my plans, when elected Sheriff, is to form throughout our county a community patrol so we can keep a closer watch on our homes and loved ones.

When I say community patrol, I mean we will set up a police unit within any willing community in our county, and have volunteer policemen to patrol their neighborhoods, with direct communication to the Sheriff's department, which will have a dispatcher on duty 24 hours a day.

This way we will be able to respond immediately to any emergency and will be able to keep crime at a minimum, with no extra cost or tax to the people.

By making the community a safer place in which to live, new businesses may take a closer look at us and decide this is the county in which to build and provide job opportunities for our people.

Conclude Successful Season

The Betsy Layne Ladycats finished another outstanding season of basketball this year as they battled their way to the semi-finals of the regional tournament where they were defeated 49-46 by Sheldon Clark High School. With a season record of 19-10 they also won the Floyd County Conference championship with a conference record of 7-1, a title the team has enjoyed for the past three years.

Losing four starters from last year's team and playing only two seniors this year, Coach Paul D. Tackett and Coach Karen Henry were particularly pleased with this season's performance. "With this rebuilding year under our belt the Ladycats should be very impressive next year," Coach Tackett commented. The girls will be strongly tested as next season's schedule consists of six games with teams which played in the state tournament. "This will help our kids develop to their full potential," Coach Tackett said.

Award Contract For 4-H Center

Branscum Construction Co., of Russell Springs, has been awarded a contract for almost $1.5 million to begin construction on the first phase of a new 4-H Center near Lake Cumberland. Branscum won the contract with a bid of $1,469,000, the lowest bid offered by eight bidders, said Ron Sheets, president of the Friends of 4-H, the support group for the Kentucky 4-H program administered through the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

The new center, designed to train volunteer 4-H leaders from across the state, will be located near Jabez, Ky., close to the banks of Lake Cumberland. Stephen Branscum, president of the Branscum Construction Co., who attended the recent business meeting of the Friends of 4-H to sign the contract, said the contract called for the project to be completed within the next year, but with good weather the first phase of the project could be completed as early as 10 months.

Branscum's firm recently completed the new addition for the Bluegrass Airport in Lexington.

Coleman White, director of the Kentucky 4-H program, said the first phase would include the construction of the main conference center and parking areas. Phase II will consist of 24 housing units to serve 96 persons and the facility's laundry service. Phase III will provide another 24 units to house another 96 people.

The total project, which will house 228 will cost about $2.7 million, and should be completed within three years, he said.

Construction will begin very soon, said Dave Jeffries, 4-H project specialist with the University of Kentucky. He said groundbreaking ceremonies are being planned for May 6.

If all goes well in construction of Phase I, limited use of the center could begin as early as late this year. By the completion of all three phases, White said the facility would be a major center for training 4-H leaders from all over the state.

"I want to emphasize that this is not just going to be a building for the local area," White said. "It is going to be a first-class, state-wide facility to be used by people from all over the state."

The center will be paid for partially by a $950,000 federal grant announced last year and partially by other grants, including a $175,000 grant from the James Graham Brown Foundation in Louisville and by private fund-raising efforts sponsored by the Friends of the 4-H, White said.

White said, "The Friends of 4-H are responsible for the financing of this entire project. They were successful in getting the grants, and responsible for initiating the fund-raising efforts now planned to complete all three phases of this project. This support group is the reason the Kentucky 4-H program is one of the best in the nation."

"I, Claudius" Returns

The political and personal intrigues, corruption and lust that toppled the glory of vainglorious Rome will unfold on KET when "I, Claudius" encores. KET will air two programs each Saturday night beginning May 11: one at 10:00 p.m., and the second at 10:50 p.m., until all 13 programs in the series have been aired.

Based on Robert Graves' best-selling novels about dirty work in ancient Rome, the series lavishly depicts the orgiastic society of the all-powerful Claudians, the family whose business was ruling the world. In their egomaniacal pursuit of power at any price, they underestimated Claudius—a dribbling lame spastic whose mind, they assumed, was a deficient as his disease-riddled body.

It was more pleasant to try to ignore Claudius, and real sport to ridicule his infirmities when they couldn't escape his distasteful company. So Claudius survived to become emperor, and to set down the inside story of his conniving, murdering royal relatives and the Rome they destroyed before his eyes.

Derek Jacobi stars as Claudius. Sian Phillips plays Livia, the breathtakingly beautiful, murdering Mother of Rome. John Hurt portrays the mad Caligula, an incestuous deviate whose reign is an orgy of blood and lust. Margaret Tyzack is Claudius' mother, Antonia, and Sheila White plays the part of Messalina, his third wife. Brian Blessed is Augustus Caesar.

"I, Claudius," which originally aired as part of the "Masterpiece Theatre" series, is distributed by the Central Educational Network.

Earthwatch—a non-profit research program—brings new highs to volunteerism, and with it the opportunity for exciting personal challenges. In its 14-year history, the April Reader's Digest calculates, it has signed up 13,000 recruits to help scientists in their research around the world.

I promise you honest and fair treatment to all sections of our district when I am elected your Magistrate. As I understand it, the good people from McDowell to Martin will shortly have difficulty obtaining and keeping fire insurance because of the lack of fire protection. Here, our fiscal court can play a significant part in appropriating revenue to help start voluntary fire departments in these areas. Without fire protection, insurance rates will become so expensive our people can no longer afford to pay their premiums. Our elected officials need to set an example whereby our taxpayers can feel proud of our county. I promise you that I will never betray the trust that I believe you will place in me at the polls. I believe with proper management, that money can be saved, to be used to improve our roads and bridges, whereby the good people can travel to church and work without tearing their cars asunder. If we are to have a change I need your help. I think you agree this is a two-way race. I have the business background and training to manage your tax money, whereby it will be used for you and not mismanaged. I promise I will never vote to increase my salary as magistrate; this I promise you. SOLID QUESTIONS ABOUT SOLID WASTE

A question that is frequently asked of me as I visit with the people of Floyd County is, "Why are the garbage bills so high?" Some research of the solid waste program reveals some interesting information.

In 1981, some property was given to the Floyd County Board of Education for a possible site for construction of a "mock" coal mine facility. The mock mine was never built. In 1982, the Board of Education sold the property to a private company. Some three months after the first private company bought the property for $25,000, it was sold to another private company for $25,000. This property, with an established worth of $25,000, was then leased to the Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc., for $1980 per month for 15 years. Total value of the lease over the 15 year period—$356,400. So, as far as we can determine, a piece of property was given to the Board of Education, was then sold to a private company, then sold again three months later to another private company, both times the selling price was $25,000, then leased to the people of Floyd County through Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc., for $23,760 per year or $356,400 for 15 years. Who signed the deed conveying the land from the Board of Education to the private company, John M. Stumbo, Chairman of the Board.

The same John M. Stumbo who presided over the Board when it ran a deficit near $1 million; the same John M. Stumbo who budgets almost as much of your money for salaries and fringe benefits as for road repair; the same John M. Stumbo who awarded a contract for blacktop worth more than $200,000 to his former employer without competitive bids; the same John M. Stumbo who now asks for your vote for County Judge so he can continue overseeing the spending of your money.

Floyd County is at a crossroads. This is the last half of the 1980's and Floyd County needs strong, qualified leadership if we are to progress and take our rightful place as a leader in East Kentucky. We can have a bright future and we can have a county government that is progressive for our people and a source of community pride.

James R. Allen is well qualified. James has a college degree and a law degree from the University of Kentucky and he knows how to make government work for all the people, not a few chosen political friends. James will take county government to the people in an open, honest administration that seeks out your input. More importantly, James R. Allen will operate a county government that is above even the slightest hint of impropriety. Vote for James R. Allen—it's a vote for you.

Researchers Seek Relief For Hay Fever Sufferers

By LINDA ST. THOMAS
(Smithsonian News Service)

People who have hay fever, officially known as seasonal allergic rhinitis, don't need to consult a pollen chart or reference book. Runny noses, sneezes, wheezes and watery eyes tell hay fever victims that pollen is in the air. Allergy season for the estimated 15 million Americans who suffer from hay fever—an allergic reaction to tree, grass or weed pollen—is a time of misery.

Hay fever is more serious than its name implies. The term is a misnomer coined in the early 1800s when people thought the illness was a malaise brought on by new hay in springtime. In fact, hay fever is the number one chronic disease in the country. More people miss days at school and work from seasonal allergies than from any other single cause, according to the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases in Bethesda, Md. Last year, an estimated half billion dollars were spent on over-the-counter and prescription antihistamines, nasal sprays and decongestants to help alleviate the symptoms of hay fever, at least temporarily.

Hay fever patients keep more than 2,500 full-time allergists busy while the federal government, drug companies and universities fund studies that keep researchers occupied looking for improved treatment methods and, perhaps, a cure.

What's behind all this misery, money and research? A tiny pollen grain, smaller than a grain of sand. About a quarter million species of plants reproduce by releasing pollen containing the male germ cells to fertilize the female's eggs. About 500 of these species are pollinated by the wind.

Most wind-carried pollen misses its target—the stigma, or female reproductive part, of a plant. Nature compensates for inefficiency with numbers. A single ragweed plant, for example, produces an estimated 1 million grains of pollen per year, says Dr. Joan Nowicke, a "palynologist" or pollen expert at the Smithsonian's National Museum of Natural History in Washington, D.C. Wind-pollinated plants are the bane of allergy victims, she explains, since airborne pollen ends up in eyes, noses and lungs.

The sheer volume of pollen released into the air is only part of the problem. The hundreds of allergy-causing pollen species and their mobility complicate the situation. Pollen just doesn't stay put. On rare occasions, it can travel hundreds of miles.

However, ragweed pollen—the principal offender in hay fever—doesn't have to travel far to cause trouble. The plant grows in almost every vacant lot, along roadsides and in gardens, especially in the Midwest, and its pollen is almost unavoidable in late August, September and October.

Something is pollinating somewhere in the United States all year long. The "season" begins in early spring with trees such as elms, ashes, oaks and mulberries, followed in late spring and summer by grasses, including Bermuda, timothy and Kentucky bluegrass. Certain weeds, including the infamous ragweed, daisies and thistles, pollinate from late summer into early winter.

What happens when these microscopic pollen grains meet a human nose is what hay fever is all about. The pollen grains land on the mucous membrane of the respiratory tract where certain cells, called mast cells, are abundant. Attached to these mast cells are antibodies or proteins called IgE. These proteins are more abundant in people with allergies.

When the pollen's protein, the substance that actually causes the allergic reaction, leaves the pollen grain, it combines with IgE protein molecules and triggers the release of histamine and other powerful chemicals from the mast cells. These chemicals are responsible for inflammation and the familiar allergy symptoms.

The allergic person's response to a foreign substance such as pollen is similar to that of the body's reaction to dangerous invaders such as bacteria, parasites and viruses. That is, the immune system tries to fight foreign bodies to protect us from disease. This same immune system also produces undesirable responses such as rejection of transplanted organs and, for about 15 to 20 percent of the population, allergies.

The treatment of hay fever's uncomfortable symptoms actually begins with the botanists, palynologists and microbiologists who study airborne pollen. These specialists identify and record what plants are found in each region and when they flower or pollinate and keep up-to-date on the ever-changing, allergy-producing pollen scene.

Ideally, once a patient knows what triggers the allergic reaction, the allergy is treated simply by avoiding that substance. For instance, if animal dander is the culprit, the pet cat might have to go. In the case of hay fever, though, avoidance of pollen usually is not practical. The seasonal sufferer may find temporary relief by forgoing a pastoral stroll on a dry, windy day when the pollen count is high in favor of the air-conditioned indoors.

For those people who want to carry on their normal activities during pollen seasons, the answer is medication and medical advice. Most people with mild seasonal allergies diagnose and treat their own disease by buying one or more of the hundreds of over-the-counter preparations, reports Dr. Jordan Fink, president of the American Academy of Allergy and Immunology. Patients seen by allergists, Fink notes, begin their treatment by giving a complete medical history and undergoing skin tests. After a diagnosis is made, the allergist may then recommend treatment with drugs. If they fail to give relief, the patient may begin a course of "immunotherapy"—allergy shots.

Injections of the same substance that cause the allergy, such as pollen extracts, are given in gradually increasing dosages. "We don't know precisely how the shots work," Dr. Michael Kaliner of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases says, "but we do know that a patient builds up a tolerance to the allergen and gradually develops an immunity to it by forming new antibodies." The allergy shot process usually takes several years, depending on the individual. Fortunately, Kaliner says, 85 percent of people tak-

ATTENTION FLOYD COUNTIANS

I am a born-again Christian, and have been for several years. I have never really gotten into politics until recently, and I think now is the time for Christian people to take a strong stand for what's right and what's wrong.

After reading a commentary from Mr. D. B. Slone of Wheelwright last week concerning Mr. Henry Hale and Mr. Paul Hunt Thompson, I realized that these two men are closely affiliated with liquor stores. This is something that myself and many of my brothers and sisters in church were unaware of. It is my understanding that these men have donated money or gave something to their church. Is this the kind of money you want for your church? Sinful gain from the profits of liquor. Well, not me. And I know that if you pray about this very important matter your answer will also be no. NO to sinful money and no to a Sheriff whose only goal is personal gain. Let's think about the future of our children and grandchildren before we make this very important decision. I think it's time the Christian people woke up and help elect a better Sheriff for Floyd County. As D. B. Slone questioned and I wonder myself, just what are the real intentions of these two men?

Hay Fever Relief...

ing allergy shots will improve significantly.

One goal of allergy research has been to develop allergen preparations that would make "going for shots" less time-consuming and more effective. Dr. Philip Norman, head of clinical immunology at Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine in Baltimore, and others there have done basic research and clinical tests on a modified extract (one treated with chemicals) called an allergoid.

Dr. Roy Patterson, chairman of the Department of Medicine at Northwestern University in Chicago, and his colleagues have spent the past 14 years working on a similar theory and have developed extracts called polymerized allergens. Two pharmaceutical companies are now awaiting Food and Drug Administration approval for these modified extracts which work more quickly and effectively than those currently available. These new preparations, Patterson says, will offer the most advanced allergy treatment since the introduction of antihistamines about 40 years ago.

Dr. Robert Reisman of the State University of New York at Buffalo is also studying the use of new extracts applied directly as a nasal spray rather than as an injection. Among the advantages, he argues, are that nasal immunotherapy goes right to the heart of the problem—the nose—and it can be easily administered by the patient at home.

Meanwhile, for the vast majority of ragweed hay fever sufferers who take medication rather than shots, there are several new and effective drugs on the market and more under investigation, including an antihistamine that works without causing excessive drowsiness. Other new medications include an anti-inflammatory steroid nasal spray as well as a mast-cell-stabilizing spray made of cromolyn sodium, a substance that has been used effectively for years by asthma sufferers.

Right now, both shots and medications manage, in varying degrees, to relieve the patients' symptoms, to get them through the season. But several immunologists around the world, including Dr. Kimishige Ishizaka of Johns Hopkins, are working with molecular biologists on an "IgE binding factor," a protein produced by certain cells that is capable of affecting the production of IgE. Suppressing the production of IgE molecules, the actual triggers of the allergic reaction, that are sensitive to pollen and other allergens is the researchers' goal, according to Ishizaka.

Though their goals are often long-range, many allergists and researchers are spurred on by the idea of easing seasonal allergy discomforts for millions who suffer, often including themselves.

BONNIE BLANCHARD

To me, the name Stanley Steemer is synonymous with quality service. My carpets were dull and dreary until they were given a face lift by the experienced cleaners. I highly recommend this company, without reservations. If you are looking for a job "well done," Bonnie Blanchard, Ashland

ROBYN ROARK

As a mother of a two-year-old, I was impressed with the way Stanley Steemer removed stains. My carpet has never looked better. Also, they were quick, neat and quiet. They cleaned my living room and hall, and my son slept all through it. They handled all my furniture with care and took great pains to return each piece to its rightful place. I would recommend them to all my friends.

CARING FOR BULB FLOWERS

Daffodils and tulips are probably the most popular bulb flowers, according to FTD Florists, and both require similar care and boast interesting histories.

- Unlike most other flowers, tulips and daffodils should be placed in shallow, not deep, water, with only about a third of the stem submerged.
- Both flowers like it cool, so keep them away from heat and strong light.
- Tulips like to lean towards the light and one way of keeping them straight is to put a few copper pennies in the bottom of the container. You may have to search for some old pennies—the new ones aren't pure copper.

ELECT HARRY RAY PORTER FOR CITY COUNCIL
No. 11 on the ballot
Your Vote and Support Will be Appreciated
(Pol. Adv. Paid For By Candidate, 4-17-21-pd.)

Don't Be Fooled With Promises
How long has it been since your roads have been graveled or graded? How many times have you been promised that your roads would be fixed? During the election is the only time you can get anything done. Is this the way you want your roads to be fixed? Once every four years? I don't believe so!! If elected, I will stockpile sawdust on every road in the fall, so when it snows the sawdust will be ready to spread on roads in hollows and slick spots. So school buses will be able to run. This will solve the problem of schools losing time. There are lots of ways to fix the roads and keep the cost down. When there is no money to buy gravel, we can get the gravel out of creeks free. This will kill two birds with one stone, getting the creek cleaned up and getting the gravel free. Red dog and sawdust are also free, so there is no excuse for the roads to be in the same condition as four years ago. I talked with a lady at Spradlin Branch and she told me she had to get gravel out of the creek to fix potholes in the road. An elderly man had to do the same in front of his house. Every time these people ask for gravel they were told there was no gravel. Why should taxpayers have to do their own road repair? Is this the way you want your magistrate to work? Fixing your roads once every four years? You need a magistrate to work full time, not part time. You don't need a magistrate that has another job he has to devote all his time to. He gets paid full time from the taxpayers, so he should work full time for the taxpayers. So, to get results, vote for me, Paul Slone, No. 1 on the ballot, and No. 1 for the people. I hope to see and talk with all of you before the election.

Letcher Idle Rate State's Highest

Seventy of Kentucky's 120 counties reported higher unemployment rates in February than in January, even though the statewide rate for those two months was the same, according to Cabinet for Human Resources figures released today. In 41 counties the rate decreased between January and February, while in nine counties it remained unchanged.

Compared to February 1984, 29 counties reported higher rates, 87 counties had lower rates, and in four counties the rate was the same.

Almost two-thirds of the state's counties reported rates above 10.0 percent. In February, 75 counties reported double-digit rates, compared to 76 in January.

The statewide unemployment rate for January and February was 9.7 percent. Nationally, the comparable rates were 8.0 percent in January and 7.8 percent in February. The rates are not seasonally adjusted.

Eight counties, including six in the Bluegrass area, reported rates below 6.0 percent in February. Woodford county reported the lowest rate, 3.8 percent, followed by Scott, 3.9 percent; Fayette, 4.0 percent; Trimble, 4.4 percent; Bourbon, 5.0 percent; Madison and Oldham, each with 5.4 percent; and Jessamine, 5.7 percent.

Seven counties, including six in eastern Kentucky, reported rates above 20 percent. For the second month in a row Letcher county reported the highest rate, 24.4 percent. Next were Morgan, 21.8 percent; Menifee, 21.4 percent; Carter, 20.7 percent; Lawrence was 20.6 percent, and Owsley, 20.3 percent.

Floyd county's rate was 16.3 percent; Pike's, 13.7; Johnson's, 15.7; Magoffin, 15.4.

The state's civilian labor force decreased by 16,400 people between January and February, which state labor market statistician Carlos Cracraft attributed to inclement weather.

There were 4,900 fewer people working trade jobs. Most of these job losses were reported by restaurants and department stores. However, trade jobs were up by 17,800 over the February 1984 figure.

"The construction industry reported 1,800 fewer jobs than in January," Cracraft said. "More than half those were in home building." However, he noted, construction employment is up by 2,800 from February 1984.

He said 2,400 job losses were reported in the manufacturing sector, "but we still have 5,300 more people working in manufacturing jobs than we did a year ago."

Bank Here Sponsors Theatre Brochure

The Bank Josephine donated $3,000 recently to the Jenny Wiley Theatre to sponsor the printing of the 1985 season brochure. Over 75,000 brochures were printed in order to encourage people to attend the theatre this summer.

The Jenny Wiley Theatre is producing "The Sound of Music," "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," and "Pippin." When asked why Bank Josephine supports the theatre, Burieta Gearhart, vice president and comptroller at the bank, said that the theatre encourages tourists to visit the area which in the long run helps everyone.

Steve Cornwell, general manager of Jenny Wiley Theatre, said, "The Theatre could not survive without the help of businesses like Bank Josephine. Ticket sales only bring in 50% of the operating funds we need. All I can say is 'thank you' to all the corporations and individuals that help us each year. We couldn't do it without you!"

In addition to sponsoring the brochure, Bank Josephine provides flowers for the theatre lobby each summer and allows the theatre to mail ticket information to the bank's customers each year.

Cervical Cancer Mortality Rate High in East Ky.

Approximately 100 Kentucky women die each year from cervical cancer. Two of every three of those deaths occur in women over 50 years old. A new study by officials of the Cabinet for Human Resources indicates those figures could be lowered if more women would get a simple examination from their physicians.

"The cervical cancer death rate in Kentucky continues to remain above the national average, as it has for the past 30 years," said Dr. Ward Hinds, director of the Division of Epidemiology in the Department for Health Services and co-author of the report.

According to Hinds, the major problem is with older women in rural, low-income areas of the state. "These women are not as receptive to the idea of Pap smears as are younger women and older women in urban, higher-income areas," he said. A Pap smear is a sample of cells taken from the neck of a woman's uterus and examined for evidence of cancer.

"The death rate decline in recent years has been much greater for younger women because they are more accepting of the idea of Pap smears than older women," Hinds said. "This is true in all areas of the state."

Results of the research are being published in the April issue of the Kentucky Medical Journal. The study divides Kentucky into two areas based on socioeconomic factors. The highest rate of death from cervical cancer occurs in the area that includes the mountainous region of eastern and south-eastern Kentucky and is much higher among women over 50 years of age, according to findings in the study.

"Almost 70 percent of the deaths from cervical cancer occur in women over the age of 50," said Hinds. "That's because the disease usually starts 20 years or so before the symptoms become obvious. Cervical cancer is usually a slow-growing cancer."

Because cervical cancer does usually grow slowly, Pap smears are instrumental in catching the disease in its early stages. Hinds said although the cancer often begins when a woman is in her 20s or 30s, the symptoms, which include bleeding, abnormal discharge and pain, may not become obvious until 20 years later.

"When these women develop such symptoms and do get a test, it's usually too late," said Hinds.

Because many women in Kentucky do not understand the importance of the exam or simply refuse to take it, the state's death rate from cervical cancer has decreased at a much slower rate than that of the nation as a whole, said Hinds. The study revealed that between the 1950s and the 1970s, the national rate decreased 54 percent, while the Kentucky rate dropped only 41 percent during the same period.

"One solution to the problem would be to encourage women who haven't had a Pap smear to do so when they visit a health department or doctor's office for some other reason," Hinds said, "and to encourage physicians to recommend Pap smears to these women." Trying to mount an extensive media campaign to inform women about the exam would be very expensive, he added, and other methods that have been tried have not been successful.

"We're not reaching the hard-core group of poor, rural, older women who are susceptible to cervical cancer," said Hinds. "We have to reach them and convince them the Pap smear exam could save their lives, if we expect to see further substantial decreases in cervical cancer deaths in Kentucky."

Letcher Driver Appeals Sentence

A Letcher county truck driver who failed to show up in district court here and received a jail sentence in his absence has taken his case to the state Court of Appeals.

James L. Buttrely, 34, of Isom, was accused of drunk driving, reckless driving and driving on a revoked license after he was stopped in his coal truck on North Lake Drive in the late evening of January 24.

Prestonsburg police officer Paul Auxier said that, before he pulled Buttrely over at 10:45 p.m., the truck driver had been traveling at 60 to 65 m.p.h. in a 35 m.p.h. zone. The driver refused to submit to a breathalyzer test, Auxier said.

Buttrely entered a not-guilty plea to the charges but failed to appear for a scheduled trial on March 25. District Judge Harold Stumbo found him guilty in his absence, sentencing him to 30 days in jail and ordering him to pay $478 in fine and costs. A bench warrant was issued for his arrest.

Notice of an appeal of the sentence was filed in Floyd Circuit Court Monday by Whitesburg attorney James W. Craft, representing Buttrely.

Chubby Checker To Appear At Local Club, April 26

Chubby Checker, legendary entertainer who changed the way most of the world dances, will be at the Warehouse at Auxier, Friday night, April 26.

Born Ernest Evans, he officially changed his name at the urging of the wife of American Bandstand's Dick Clark who met him when he was doing an impression of Fats Domino. And Checker became the undisputed leader of the "twist," which moved dancing couples farther apart than they had been since pre-minuet days.

Unlike many stars of the 50's, Checker has remained a name that continues to draw audiences in this country and throughout Europe. He and his band are on tour most of the time attracting enthusiastic crowds whether in large cities or small towns—yes, like Auxier.

LONG HOT SUMMER —

Jason Robards, Cybill Shepherd and Don Johnson will star in "Long Hot Summer," a four-hour NBC miniseries that will air later this year. It is based on William Faulkner's novel "The Hamlet" and his short stories "Barn Burning" and "The Spotted Horses." The story focuses on a peaceful Southern hamlet, run by a wealthy tyrant, which is disrupted when an ambitious young stranger is accused of barn-burning.

Robards stars as Will Varner, the strong-willed Southerner who controls everything in Frenchman's Bend except his family. He must contend with an independent daughter and a weakling son, who is married to the ravishing but flighty Eula, played by Miss Shepherd.

KING DAVID (PG-13-Paramount Pictures) Starring Richard Gere, Edward Woodward and Alice Krieg. ★ ★

By J.T. YURKO

Lavish Biblical epics seem to have gone the way of the expensive Hollywood musical. Perhaps the trend ran its course; perhaps today's movie audiences simply aren't ready to accept ancient heroes; perhaps religion is too touchy a subject for "liberated" Hollywood impresarios.

Yet the TV miniseries "Masada" was quite successful a few years back, so there seems to be a market for a well-told Biblical epic. Unfortunately, this semi-lavish version of "King David," starring Richard Gere, doesn't fit the bill.

The story of David facing Goliath is as classic a tale as any in Western culture. And the story of his fall from grace when he becomes infatuated with the married Bathsheba should provide enough tension and drama for any movie.

But no matter how timeless the story, its success depends on how it is told.

In this version, Australian director Bruce Beresford is at the helm. On the surface, the choice looks good. Beresford has dealt successfully with the themes of faith and justice in "Tender Mercies" and "Breaker Morant."

But those movies were made on a much smaller scale, and when it comes to handling large crowds, chariot races, and epic battles, Beresford is no Cecil B. DeMille. Anyone who has read the Bible can tell you that it is filled with a lot of beheading and beheading. So is this film. Even before the opening credits, heads are lopped off in gory detail. The battle scenes may be void of epic expanse, but they are filled with colorful carnage worthy of "Conan the Barbarian."

As for Richard Gere, he does his best in a role in which the action sometimes jumps forward several years between scenes and the motivation for his character is provided by some half-hearted narration.

"King David" may be part of the greatest story ever told, but this time out, it could have been told better.

VIDEO SCENE

Madonna's at her best in front of a camera

By Barton Weiss

Lucky Star

Madonna is the ultimate video star. I'll be surprised if she ever does a live tour, but the way the camera loves her, she doesn't have to.

On her current video, "Material Girl," Madonna parodies Marilyn Monroe's famous "Diamonds Are a Girl's Best Friend" number. Most MTV fans are too young to catch the reference, but that doesn't seem to matter.

She has made the transition from video to feature films with ease. She plays a nightclub singer in "Vision Quest," and her role in her second film, "Desperately Seeking Susan," is a carbon copy of the vampy video character people can't seem to get enough of. That film's video, "Into the Groove," includes most of her scenes, cut briskly together. You won't be able to follow the plot, but you will see what Madonna looks like when she doesn't have to lip-sync.

No Tears Here

"Everybody Wants to Change the World" should bring the English band Tears for Fears out of obscurity. Lead singer Curt Smith drives cross-country in his sports car, stopping every once in a while to ask for directions. The song is upbeat and has a real hook.

Across the ocean

Directors Kevin Godley and Lol Creme are responsible for clips like Herbie Hancock's "Rockit," and the Police's "Every Breath You Take," but they are also first-rate musicians. They recently have come out with a new record (and video), "Cry." It's not available here yet, but keep your eyes open.

Music this week

On Friday, April 26, the USA Network's "Night Flight" will take a look at rock 'n' roll's great guitarists. On Saturday, April 27, "Night Flight" will feature a video profile of Marvin Gaye. Tonight, April 21, you can see "MTV Presents: REO Speedwagon Wheels Are Turning." Best moment: When the band plays basketball with two members of the Los Angeles Lakers. Could this be the beginning of a basketball-MTV connection?

The Kentucky Garden Journal

COOPERATIVE EXTENSION PROGRAM
KENTUCKY STATE UNIVERSITY

"Spring has sprung, the grass has ris'..." and so has the temperament of many homeowners, groundskeepers and golf course superintendents. Why? And why is your normally rational neighbor out jumping up and down on his lawn? The answer is mounds and ridges, evidence of increased mole activity.

With increased mole tunneling comes increased advertising of magic controls, guaranteed to send them packing. Beware, says Dr. A.J. Powell, extension turf specialist for the University of Kentucky. None of the magic controls work. They actually do little.

Understand what is occurring. Moles are insectivores, feeding on grubs, beetles and especially earthworms. Moles do not feed directly on turf or vegetation, but their burrowing prunes roots and upheaves soil, turf and plants. Partially-eaten bulbs are left by mice and voles that also use their runs. And a lot of surface damage is probably from skunks foraging, not moles.

Moles are active year-round in a network of tunnels and passages that varies in depth from three to 30 or more inches. Their regular-use tunnels are generally six to 10 inches deep. Mole runs may actually consist of miles of interconnecting passages, especially where the ground is less compacted like along fence rows instead of across a plowed field.

At the spring meeting of the Central Kentucky Ornamental and Turf Association, Dr. Powell mentioned three categories of controls which I'll label "won't work," "work temporarily," and "gotcha."

"Won't work"—Magic controls like broken glass, razor blades, gasoline, burnt cylinder oil, lye, sheep dip, bleach bottles, mole wheels, human hair and moth balls. Even Juicy Fruit gum, carefully unwrapped with plastic gloves to impart no human scent, then rolled up and inserted in a passage won't gum up their insides. When a mole meets an obstacle in its passage, it gets suspicious and burrows around it.

"Work temporarily"—Insecticides (but they may not kill the diet staple, the earthworms), gas bombs and car exhaust (runs have holes so the gas or exhaust leaks out or dilutes), flooding (moles move very quickly and can generally outrun water), poisoned bait, mole beans, gopher plants, brambles and electronic devices. These may make the mole go away temporarily, but the same mole or another will likely return.

"Will work"—Natural predators (dogs, cats, skunks, foxes), mole traps, and as Dr. Powell put it, "premeditated murder." Mole traps, whether the scissor-jaw (choker) or the harpoon trap type, are the best bet. Dirt used to conceal part of the trap and block the tunnel does not arouse the mole's suspicion; it will burrow through and be caught. The traps must be placed in a main straight run or intersection that is actively being used. If a catch isn't made in a day, move the trap.

Getting rid of the moles is only part of the problem. Repairing the turf is the other. When soil mounds are deposited on the surface due to deep feeding, do not mow over the mounds. Mowing will compact soil over the grass and kill it. Broadcast the soil shallowly over the grass before mowing.

Timely tip: Flowers should be cut off spring flowering bulbs, but foliage cutting or mowing should be delayed. Cut flowers for enjoyment or as they fade to keep food from being diverted to seed formation. Foliage can be mowed over or cut down six weeks (but no sooner) after flowering ceases. The bulbs will then continue to grow as vigorously as those whose foliage was never disturbed. (From 10 years of research by the Royal Horticultural Society.)

Life Photographers— Lives of Glamour and Danger

By MARGERY BYERS
Smithsonian News Service

They were the "stars." Billed as the best in their profession, LIFE magazine photographers could be charming or arrogant, cooperative or demanding, and everyone—editors, reporters and subjects—accepted their varying temperaments.

It was their sensitive, dramatic and interpretive photographs that built the reputation of the magazine, and its publication each week was a major event for millions of readers. In the 1940s and '50s, when Americans traveled less than they do today, LIFE brought the world into their homes—its wars, arts, sciences, sports, movies, tragedies and triumphs.

LIFE photographers were tenacious, gifted with discerning eyes, willing to endure danger and discomfort. They documented death and despair, high jinks and horror, joy and sorrow. On assignments, they were arrested, shot at, torpedoed, stoned by mobs, beaten up, spat upon and on one occasion—charged by an angry elephant. They parachuted into combat, dove the ocean depths, explored the Nile, photographed at 60 degrees below and 116 above zero. During World War II, Carl Mydans spent two years in a Japanese prison camp. In later years, Robert Capa and Larry Burrows were killed in Indochina, and Paul Schutzer lost his life in the Middle East.

Because their mandate was to "get the story" at almost any cost, they rented helicopters and planes, ladders and cherry pickers, outrigger canoes and motorboats, jeeps and chauffeured limousines—sometimes with convincing but fake credentials taped to the windows.

Expense accounts were lavish compared to those of other news organizations. One unabashed photographer asked for five dollars a day for taxis covering a period when he had been on an aircraft carrier, and, on another occasion, requested reimbursement for laundry bills in the Sahara.

On news stories, the magazine was accused of "over-kill" because it assigned a retinue of photographers who jostled, pushed and cajoled to get every angle. For a photo essay, patient subjects rarely balked at the most outlandish request. The LIFE team disrupted everyday lives, covering furniture and floors with film cans, camera bags and lighting equipment. There was no guarantee that a story would appear, the next week or ever, and people across the country still remember the days or weeks LIFE came to visit 20 or 30 years ago.

LIFE shocked and informed the way TV does today, giving readers the good and the bad news. From the magazine's files, a selection of 200 vintage black-and-white prints is on view at the Smithsonian Institution's National Museum of American Art through May 12. "LIFE: The Second Decade, 1946-1955"—an exhibition organized and circulated by the International Center of Photography and sponsored by Time Inc. and United Technologies—depicts the events and personalities of that era: the Korean War, 3-D movies, the McCarthy hearings, the Scrabble craze, the Berlin aircraft, Marilyn Monroe, Grandma Moses and Adlai Stevenson—all are included.

Edward K. Thompson, managing editor of LIFE during those years and subsequently founding editor and publisher of Smithsonian magazine, explains that LIFE was not just in the business of producing great pictures. Because it was then published weekly, a certain amount of news material demanded use, and there were only so many available pages. "Being a LIFE photographer was not necessarily the ideal way to produce a single great photograph," he says. "We used photographs as one means of communication—the most important one—to report the changing mores of the country and the world. Because of the pressure photographers worked under, you could either consider that the great pictures were taken in spite of or because of that."

With pictures the heart of the magazine, photographers were as demanding of reporters as they were of their subjects. Using a machete to clear a path through a Brazilian jungle, a reporter slashed his arm and bled profusely. There was no sympathy from a queasy photographer, only a complaint: "You know I hate the sight of blood." On assignment in the Rockies, another photographer urged a reporter to buy boots for protection from snakes, declaring, "I don't want to lose a day's shooting if you get bitten."

Photographers and reporters traveled together for days, weeks or months. It was the reporter who wrote the shooting "script," soothed the ruffled, assured the doubtful, cajoled the reluctant and, finally, explained the photographs to the editors and provided the facts.

Some LIFE photographers were superb in combat situations while others excelled in sports, fashion or human interest. Their dedication could be astounding. When Ralph Crane woke up in the hospital after a plane crash, his first question was "Where's my camera?"

Photographers and their subjects sometimes attained remarkable rapport. As a lark, Errol Flynn served as Peter Stackpole's assistant on a sorority story, and gallant generals carried Margaret Bourke-White's bags. Harry Truman's vice president, Alben W. Barkley, enjoyed introducing the lovely photographer Lisa Larsen at political rallies. An angry Clark Gable, however, "boycotted" the magazine for 10 years after he had cooperated for a week on a story that never appeared.

The staff could be beguiled by movie stars. Marlene Dietrich, after posing for a Milton Greene photograph featuring her famous legs, visited LIFE's offices. After a layout artist perfected her already-perfect legs with an airbrush, she kissed the top of his bald head. Normally blase, the man wanted to keep the lipstick imprint and didn't wash his head for days. Another beauty, Marilyn Monroe, so enchanted photographer Philippe Halsman, a reporter and an assistant that Halsman later said, "Each of us felt, if only the other two would leave, something incredible would happen."

Among the most famous photo essays was W. Eugene Smith's depiction of the long days and challenges of a country doctor in Colorado. "People credit it as pure Smith genius, which it is," Thompson says, "but in order to get the story, we had to decide on which country doctor and assign a sympathetic photographer." Smith, who had been so gravely wounded in combat on Okinawa that he had been unable to work for two years, was the ideal choice.

On the other hand, the Vatican's Sistine Chapel was closed for months while its ceiling was photographed. Express railroad service was rerouted in Hungary while LIFE shot a fashion story on its tracks, and a United Nations secretary-general was talked into posing on a New York City rooftop.

Photographers were not above producing "gimmicks." When Noel Coward—who had written that "mad dogs and Englishmen go out in the mid-day sun"—was appearing in Las Vegas, Loomis Dean decided to illustrate that line, despite the fact that Coward didn't get up until four in the afternoon. Determined, Dean one day stocked an air-conditioned chauffeured limousine with ice and liquor, and coaxed Coward out into the 118-degree desert heat. The entertainer lolled in the back seat in his bathrobe, then changed into formal attire at the site. Cigarette holder poised at a jaunty angle, Coward struck a memorably stylish pose in the desert sun.

In 1949, LIFE ran this scene by David Douglas Duncan of the Turkish cavalry conducting winter maneuvers on the Russo-Turkish frontier.

LIFE photographer W. Eugene Smith captured a young physician in a hospital kitchen at 2 a.m. for a 1948 essay, "Country Doctor." In 1953, Howard Sochurek photographed French forces in Indochina evacuating their dead and wounded.

Smithsonian News Service Photos: LIFE Magazine © Time Inc.

The prospectus for LIFE, which began publishing in 1936, was "To see life; to see the world..." The National Museum of American Art exhibit shows clearly that LIFE's photographers 30 years ago lived those words.

Winston Churchill, guarded by his poodle, Rufus, was photographed in 1951 at his country home, Chartwell, near London, by Philippe Halsman.

Grandma Moses was the focus for W. Eugene Smith at Eagle Bridge, N.Y., in 1947.

Albert Schweitzer and a carpenter watch construction at the humanitarian's hospital in Lambaréné, West Gabon, Africa in 1954. The LIFE photographer was W. Eugene Smith.

In 1952, this photograph of Marilyn Monroe by Philippe Halsman appeared in LIFE magazine.

Performing in Las Vegas in 1955, Noel Coward struck a stylish pose in the desert sun for Loomis Dean.

'Strangers And Brothers' To Air On Masterpiece Theater

British author C.P. Snow's "Strangers and Brothers," a massive 11-volume story about the public life and private loves and friendships of an English lawyer and civil servant from World War I to the late 1960s, has been called "nothing less than...a composite portrait of 20th century western man."

A seven-part dramatization of the novels debuts on "Masterpiece Theatre" on KET Sunday, May 5, at 9:00 p.m. The cast features Shaughan Seymour, Cherie Lunghi, Carmen Du Sautoy, Nigel Havers and Elizabeth Spriggs.

Snow's novels, written between 1940 and 1970, cover 40 years in the life of Lewis Eliot (Seymour), beginning at age 19 when, as a poor boy from the wrong side of the tracks, he began his climb to the top of the British Establishment. Action ranges from Cambridge University to pre-war Berlin, then through the great country homes of British politicians to Parliament, Whitehall, and what Snow called the "corridors of power."

As Eliot makes his way to the summit, he's continually fascinated by people's attempts to manipulate events and one another. Disillusioned with his early career as a barrister, he moves to academe and first encounters the savagery among "civilized" academicians. Promoted to Whitehall in World War II, he becomes closely involved with England's attempt to beat the U.S. to develop the atom bomb. As a high-ranking civil servant after the war, he's again embroiled in the "uses and abuses of power."

"Masterpiece Theatre" is presented by WGBH/Boston.

Gifted Student Hunt On in Area Schools

Dr. George Troutt, director of the Morehead State University "Project Challenge" for the last two years, is looking for academic achievers from 22 eastern Kentucky high schools and giving them a chance to pass a college course in three weeks.

"Project Challenge," an idea MSU spawned four years ago, provides high school students a chance to get a taste of the college atmosphere. The camp lasts from July 7 to July 26 and offers students a choice of earning college credit in American history, English composition, biology, analytical thinking, calculus, performing arts and recreation.

"The high school students are given similar material as the college students, and they are tested as the college students are," Dr. Troutt said. After a student finishes a course, he is also tested through the College Level Examination Program (CLEP).

For a student to gain admittance to the program, he must present a recommendation from a teacher from his school, his principal, and his counselor. Dr. Troutt must also review his personal achievement file and said, "In all probability, he must be an 'A' or a high 'B' student."

Students who are academically "gifted," as defined by their school system, are eligible for entrance to the program. Dr. Troutt described "gifted" students as those who are academic achievers.

Every state university in Kentucky hosts a summer camp for high school students. Three or four times a year, the committees from each school get together to coordinate their programs. According to Dr. Troutt, however, "Each university's camp is different."

On the weekends, the student will enjoy a camping trip to Cave Run Lake and tours of area museums and local historical sites. More information is available from Dr. Troutt at (606) 783-2894.

"The inflated, outrageous, salary of the Magistrate's office in District One" is really the pay check of a "full time" job. The salary of $24,000 per year "PLUS" $360 per month expense account makes a grand total of $28,300 per year—in addition to anything else not nailed down.

This is really a ridiculous paycheck as a "part time" job and it pays $236 per day or $33.73 per hour. Where in the world can "Anyone" find a "part time" job that pays that much money—and the taxpayers still cannot get gravel, ditches, culverts, bridges or anything else repaired. The magistrate salary is not an "Inheritance" it is a "Earned Income" and should be worked for, "full time". Two of the candidates for Magistrate, Shag Branham and Gerald Derossett are "full time" gas company employees and "claim" that they are able to work the magistrate job effectively on a "part time" basis. Therefore—the Magistrate's job must get "short changed" and that's where the taxpayer gets the shaft and Lord knows we've had enough of that.

MSHA Now Monitoring Toxic Mining Hazards

A pilot program to monitor toxic substances on coal mining properties is now underway at the Department of Labor's Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA).

Historically, the primary function of MSHA coal health inspectors has been to conduct respirable dust and noise surveys, and their secondary function has been to investigate complaints on other health hazards. However, due to the increasing number of new chemicals being introduced into the mining industry, and the increased concerns of the miners about the health hazards these chemicals may present, MSHA has launched the pilot program to monitor other toxic substances and harmful physical agents in addition to dust and noise control work.

In carrying out the program, MSHA coal inspectors specially trained in industrial hygiene will identify toxic substances that are on mine property and ensure that their storage and usage are safe. They will also complete an inventory of the toxic materials found at the mine site and compile the information in a toxic material data bank to assist the agency in determining which toxic substances should be monitored and what safety precautions should be used.

The trial period for this pilot program is from March 1 through Oct. 1, 1985. During this period, MSHA will make an inspection of health hazards in at least 5 percent of all surface shops and coal testing laboratories, where chemical or physical hazards may be present. Upon completion of this pilot program, a decision will be made on the future directions of the program.

Most of MSHA's inspectors who make the toxic substance inspections have completed an advanced 16-18 week industrial hygiene training course at the National Mine Health and Safety Academy in Beckley, West Virginia.

For further information on MSHA's Industrial Hygiene Monitoring Program, contact William Sutherland, Chief, Division of Health, Coal Mine Safety and Health, MSHA, 4015 Wilson Blvd., Arlington, Virginia 22203, telephone (703) 235-1358.

VOTE FOR RONDELL LAWSON

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR MAGISTRATE, DISTRICT 2

To The Voters of Magisterial District No. 2:

As a voter who appreciates that right and privilege, I beseech everyone who cares about their future to exercise your right to vote and express your opinion. Don't leave it to everyone else to decide who's elected. Decide for yourself and make your choice heard. Each and every vote does count. Study the issues involved. Find out what is involved in the office of Magistrate. What does the magistrate do, and how is that going to affect you?

Know who you are voting for; read about the candidates, hear them speak if possible, or call them and hold a private conversation by phone. I would appreciate a call and will be happy to tell you about myself and my plans after elected. Then you can decide who is the best and most qualified person for the office.

All this takes so little time and effort, but it makes you an intelligent, free thinking voter. If our democracy is to truly be run by the people; then you the people must take your privilege and responsibility seriously.

Please vote for and support Rondell Lawson for Magistrate, No. 2 on the ballot.

THINK FUTURE—THINK LAWSON

SAY IT'S TRUE, JAMES

After reviewing my opponent's ad last week, it seemed obvious to me that he is an individual that feels that a public servant's record is of utmost importance when that individual chooses to seek another elective office. As I am sure you know my opponent, James R. Allen, is Floyd County Commonwealth Attorney, and a review of his job performance for 1984 should enlighten each of us as to one's willingness to diligently discharge his duties and serve for the public good. The Circuit Court Clerk's records reveal the following:

ACTION ON CRIMINAL INDICTMENTS BEFORE THE COURT IN 1984

103 cases dismissed on recommendation of the Commonwealth Attorney without going to trial.

83 cases plea bargained by the Commonwealth Attorney without going to trial.

OF THE 82 CASES PLEA BARGAINED, DISPOSITIONS WERE

14 sentenced to the Floyd County Jail on reduced charges

20 cases probated without prison time served

6 cases with fines assessed only, no time served

42 sentenced to the penitentiary

18 cases tried by jury

Of the 18 the following dispositions are revealed: 16 not guilty verdicts
(Commonwealth Attorney failed to Obtain Conviction)

2 guilty verdicts

As the foregoing reveals of the 203 cases that the Commonwealth Attorney brought before the Court in 1984, they obtained convictions in only two (2) cases, save and except 42 that they were able to obtain as the result of plea bargaining. Given credit for the plea bargained convictions it means our Commonwealth Attorney was able to obtain a total of 44 convictions out of 203 cases.

It is not my desire to be unduly harsh or unfair toward my opponent, but the foregoing is a matter of public record. As I have said from the beginning of this campaign, that competence and desire to serve are the key issues of this campaign.

Consider my opponent's record, as well as mine, and then you judge who has demonstrated his willingness to work hard and use each opportunity given to do public good. Based on the foregoing I do agree in part with what some people are saying, that Floyd County needs a new Commonwealth Attorney but I respectfully submit that electing him County Judge is not the way to solve the problem.
