

Highway Wreck Claims 3 Lives As Truck Flips

Kentucky State Police indicated that excessive speed may have been responsible for the one-car crash in which three persons died late Saturday afternoon on US 23, 1.4 miles south of here.

Killed instantly were Stephen Isaac Stumbo, 28, his cousin, Milton Taylor Stumbo, 32, and Miss Rose Chiffon Hayden, 18, all of the West Prestonsburg vicinity.

According to officers' reports, the three were traveling north (toward Prestonsburg) in a small pickup truck on the Katy Friend hill section of US 23 when they passed "at a high rate of speed" another vehicle. After passing the other car, the truck was cut back into the right lane and it went off the shoulder of the road. The driver, who was identified as Milton Taylor Stumbo, apparently attempted to cut back onto the road, lost control, and his truck cut across the median, crossed the southbound lanes of the highway and rammied into the bordering cliff.

All three occupants were thrown from the truck at impact and are believed to have died almost instantly. After hitting the cliff, the smashed truck bounded back across the southbound lanes and came to rest on its top in a northbound lane.

School Closes After Pickets Oppose Opening

An already uneasy situation at the Garret Elementary School erupted into confrontation Monday as angry parents formed a picket line, turning away buses and closing down the school.

An 18-member parents' committee had been formed to study the situation after the school's oldest building began rapidly deteriorating two weeks ago. This committee and other parents met Sunday with principal Ralph O'Quinn, at which time it was decided by a 33-7 vote to have school Monday in the old high school building, already used for years as part of the grade school.

But several parents were concerned that the building was not capable of safely housing the additional children and did not want school to resume before the building was inspected by a structural engineer. They said they felt the other parents voted to have school because O'Quinn told them there would be school Monday, regardless.

They decided to take matters into their own hands. Architect Randy Burchett, of Burchett and Associates, of Martin, was called in to render an opinion after the pickets refused to allow children into the building. Burchett said the structure was "unsafe at this time," citing the need for a complete replacement of the structural floor system downstairs, and additional support beams for the top floor. He said school should not be resumed in that building until these improvements had been made, and that it would take two weeks or more to complete them.

Floyd Students Yet Rank Low in New Test Scores

In publicizing the results of student test scores this week, the state Department of Education yielded in some respects to criticism voiced by school officials here that earlier district-by-district rankings drew unfair attention to Floyd's low scores.

This year, the state's 180 school districts are ranked only by deciles—that is, on 10 levels, with 10 percent of the school districts at each level.

The state appears also to have accepted in part the Floyd administrators' contention that the schools receive an undue share of the blame for low test scores unless a fuller picture is given of other factors, such as the financial and human resources available in the community, which have a bearing on student achievement. Besides test scores, information provided this year—also in decile rankings—includes such data as local tax support, per-pupil spending, assessed property values, and poverty level.

Test scores this year show Kentucky students as a whole doing somewhat better than the national norm—but Floyd students falling below the norm—in the four grades that took the full battery of tests last spring. Students in all grades were also tested this year on their mastery of essential skills in reading and math.

A comparison with earlier scores shows Kentucky students continuing to "edge their way upward" in relation to national standards, Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald said Monday. Students in grades 3, 5, 7 and 10 scored above 50—where 50 represents the national average—in every subject but one, and scores "increased significantly" over 1984 levels in grades five, seven and 10, the test report indicates.

But Floyd county, which ranked 147th in the state last year, came in 174th this year.

For the state as a whole, the percentage of students scoring at or above the national median was 68.5 in the third grade, 59.1 in the fifth grade, 59.4 in the seventh and 56.7 in the 10th.

In Floyd county, the figures are 47.6 in the third grade, 44.5 in the fifth, 49.6

Marine Corpsman 29 Years, Floyd Man Eyes Film Career

There's an old saying that declares, "One thing leads to another." In the case of former Floyd county resident William "Bill" Dower, dedication and hard work in the military have led to the edge of fame and fortune.

Dower, 46, a Wheelwright native now living in San Diego, Calif., was the man responsible for making Louis Gossett, Jr. so menacing as the drill instructor in the motion picture, An Officer and a Gentleman. He was given the assignment because he was at that time a Marine master gunnery sergeant, and the corps' chief drill instructor on the West Coast, responsible for training the men who trained the regular drill instructors.

"I was given the script and saw that what they had needed improvement," he said. "I made it more down to earth, realistic. I showed him (Gossett) how to walk, talk and act like a drill instructor. He did it, and was very easy to work with. The result was an Academy Award for Louis Gossett."

Dower, the second oldest of Lily Hood's nine children, joined the Marines in 1956 at the age of 17. Mrs. Hood, who still lives in Wheelwright, had to give consent for her son to enlist, because of his age. She was reluctant at first, but agreed after he pleaded for blessing. Dower said it was important for him to join up with the Leathernecks because of an intense patriotism and an affinity he had always felt for the Corps.

"I joined the day after I graduated from high school, along with my cousin, Donald Ray Parker, and Harry Brank," a friend, he said. "The main reason I did it was because people said I couldn't. They were the toughest branch, the first to fight. Even as a kid during the Korean War, I'd get the paper to check on the Marines. I was very patriotic, and it just hit home."

Dower said he didn't plan, however, to make a career of the Marine Corps. "I didn't dream I'd stay in this long," said the veteran of three tours of duty in Viet Nam.

Now, after 29 years as a Marine, Dower is excited about his new career in the entertainment industry. In addition to coaching Gossett, Dower wrote and starred in one of the more successful home-exercise videotapes and record albums, The Armed Forces Workout. His most recent project is an autobiography which he expects to be published this fall.

In addition to all this, Dower has been a guest on such television programs as Good-Morning, America, Hour Magazine, PM Magazine, 20/20, Today, and local programs in St. Louis and San Diego. And, just recently, he conducted a motivational and physical fitness seminar in New York for advertising executives from all over the world. He said he had been chosen "from all the other exercise albums on the market."

Dower credits his success to many things. He says the reason the exercise video and album are so successful is that he's not "just a movie star doing this on the side. I've been teaching Marines." That commitment to physical fitness, he feels, brought him another kind of success after he was wounded during his second tour in Viet Nam.

"The doctors said I would never walk again," he said, "but I proved them wrong with exercise. I was paralyzed from the waist down, but I kept practicing isometrics and one day my toe moved. I was in excellent physical condition before I was wounded, or I might have been dead."

But Dower also credits a higher authority for his healing.

"I thank the Lord and the people of my home town, Wheelwright. It just goes to show how close-knit Kentuckians are," he said. "I was lying in a hospital bed in Tokyo, and the Rev. Terry and some others got together in my mother's house and prayed. God doesn't know any distances."

As might be expected, Dower has nothing to do with drugs or anything else harmful to the body.

"Your body should be a temple," he said. "You've only got this one. You should be careful what you put into it. We're all unique. I've been preaching that everywhere."

This belief was hammered home for Dower while in Viet Nam. He said the communists would recruit children to sell marijuana cheaply to American troops "to weaken them." Later, he said, civilians unwittingly did the same thing to the Marines stationed in San Diego. Dower said when he saw the problem developing stateside, he went undercover with the military police to quench it, and with great success.

But all that is behind him now. Dower is retired from the service and has set his sights on conquering another beast—show business.

"I'd like to get into radio and TV voice-overs," said Dower, who clearly has potential in that area, with a voice both articulate and commanding, as befits a man having spent so many years using his voice to motivate others. Now, however, he won't be using it to call people "Slimey Worms," as he did in the old days. Instead of intimidating people, he says he now seeks to motivate and entertain them.

From here on in, the sky's the limit. Dower says he's talked to filmmakers about turning his autobiography into a movie, and from there—who knows?

"Wheelwright is a small town," he said. "The road just ends there. But I don't care how small the town, God's given you a brain and a body. God recognizes success, be it in Wheelwright or in Hollywood. You have to be your own man or woman. Here I am, I've had Hollywood come to my door looking for me."

Dower cautioned against resting on one's laurels. A favorite saying of his seems to sum up his life so far: "He who remains complacent with the zeals of yesterday and the present will always be denied the fortunes and successes of tomorrow."

And Dower says he doesn't intend to deny himself any success.

Ruling in Floyd Tipple Case May Affect Other Operations

In a decision settling a three-year-old lawsuit brought by residents of Dinwood, near Martin, against a coal tippie operating there, a federal judge has ruled that all coal-processing plants and tipples in Kentucky are subject to surface-mining regulations, regardless of their distance from coal mines.

In the decision, which was handed down last Tuesday in U.S. District Court in Covington, Judge William O. Bertelsman struck down a 1982 Kentucky regulation which exempted from stripmine regulations tipples and preparation plants that are not located near a mine site and that do not wash coal.

Thomas FitzGerald, an attorney for the plaintiffs, said Bertelsman's order will result in closure of some coal tipples—like the Dinco Coal Sales tippie at Dinwood—located within 300 feet of residences and will subject others that have been in operation since 1977 to controls on dust emissions, water pollution and transportation regulations.

But Iris Nickell, a lawyer for the state

Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet, said Kentucky won't be able to change its current rule without action by the 1986 General Assembly to change a 1982 state law.

The suit decided last week was filed by three environmental groups, as well as seven Dinwood residents, shortly after the Reagan administration approved a proposed plan for giving Kentucky primary responsibility for enforcing the 1977 federal surface-mining law. Prior to that, enforcement was primarily the responsibility of federal officials. The 1982 rule by which Kentucky restricted the application of the stripmining law was adopted with the approval of former U.S. Interior Secretary James Watt, who proposed to change the federal rule to match it.

A subsequent lawsuit resulted in a ruling by a federal court in Washington, D.C. last year, which held that Watt's efforts to exempt offsite coal-crushing facilities "is contrary to the statute and cannot stand." Last week's ruling puts state officials "under a more stringent time frame" to expand the applicability of rules affecting tipples and processing plants, FitzGerald said.

Bertelsman also ordered Kentucky to allow all of its stripmine inspectors—not just those with more than two years' experience—to close down surface mines if they believe significant harm to people or the environment is imminent.

In addition, the court strengthened the rights of ordinary Kentuckians to protect stripmine permits.

Say Girl Mauled In Attack by Dog

An attack by a large dog on a nine-year-old girl at Dewey Dam last April has left the youngster permanently disfigured, according to a suit filed in Floyd Circuit Court.

Charles and Diana Webb allege in the suit that a Doberman Pinscher in the care of Michael Wallen, of Prestonsburg, attacked Mary Jane Webb near the dam last April 14. They are seeking $2500 for her alleged disfigurement, and also her medical and court costs.

(Claims made in filing a lawsuit give only one side of the issue in dispute.)

This Town...That World

YES, WE WILL BE OPEN

August and dog days and muggy heat and the like fall to evoke any buzzes from this quarter, but the month has one virtue: It does not have a Monday holiday. And now comes welcome September, and lo! the first Monday is Labor Day which most will celebrate by resting from their labors while we are too busy working to take time to celebrate. Happy Labor Day.

A GIRL OF 13 YEARS

The death last Sunday of Samantha Smith in a plane crash ended the life of a girl who was important to the world. When she was only 10 she fired a shot heard 'round the world with a letter to Russia's Andropov, asking a simple question, "Why do you want to conquer the whole world, or at least our country?" She became a leader of the call for peace by the little people of the world. In her 13 years this girl probably did more for plain human understanding and world peace than all the diplomats and heads of state put together.

Little League Dispute Draws Fans To Court

One of the largest courtroom crowds seen here for some time gathered yesterday (Tuesday), drawn by a dispute between the Beaver Creek Little League and a Martin baseball team.

About 50 persons, 13 of them subpoenaed by the Little League, appeared in Floyd Circuit Court for a hearing on the league's request to dissolve a court order issued 18 days earlier. The order stayed an August 17 decision by the league to banish the Martin Reds from participating further in this season's tournament.

As it happened, the issues in the dispute did not come up for discussion in court, Circuit Judge Hollie Conley sustaining the Little League's motion on the procedural grounds that the Martin Reds had failed to file a request for a permanent injunction against the league.

According to Jerry Patton, the Little League attorney, the dispute originated with an August 5 game at which Martin Reds fans, some players, and team coach Charles Lafferty were alleged to have harassed an umpire. Some were said to have threatened the official and one report said a knife was drawn during the fracas.

The Little League board of directors suspended the Martin team from further participation in the tournament.

Trials of Three Moved to Floyd From Pike Court

Three of the Floyd county defendants originally scheduled for trial in Pike Circuit Court on charges stemming from a state police investigation of the 1982 Floyd county administration will now be tried in this county.

Ballard Crum and sons Jackie and Ricky, all of Eastern, were included in a successful Commonwealth motion that saw the trials of the 15 defendants moved in June to Pike county, where prosecutors felt there was a better chance of seating an impartial jury.

Because he was not notified of the hearing, however, Jerry Patton, the Crums' attorney, sought a new hearing on the venue change, which he opposed and which Special Judge Will T. Scott this time denied. Patton said it is not yet certain whether his clients will be tried by Scott or by Floyd Circuit Judge Hollie Conley. No trial date has yet been set.

Jackie Crum was indicted on three counts of criminal possession of a forged instrument and one of theft by deception. His father and brother are each charged with a single count of theft by deception.

Department of Arts Succeeds In New York With Ky. Crafts

AT THE NEW YORK GIFT SHOW, Lynn Weddington Tucker, of Mountain Laurel, is shown talking to buyers at her exhibit.

Early this year, the Kentucky Department of the Arts began a strong new initiative to push Kentucky crafts. In February and again in August, it sponsored a huge sales area, with more than 20 crafters on hand, at the New York Gift Show, a prestigious event that brings together 30,000 to 40,000 buyers from all over the world.

"It is just a fantastic opportunity, not only for the crafters who attend, but for all Kentucky craftspeople," said Arts Commissioner Crit Luallen.

One of Kentucky's top crafters said, "No, thanks," to the Department's plans for the August New York Gift Show.

Why? "As much business as we can handle from the February show," explained Joe Galloway of Country Crafts in Harned. He and his wife Ruth, who produce hand-made quilts in the by-gone tradition of pioneer Kentucky, are busily filling orders they received when Kentucky crafts were featured at the February show. Buyers for the national catalog, "Country Notebook," ordered a minimum of 60 quilts from the Galloways, so that large order, plus a number of others, is keeping them busy.

Mountain Laurel's collection of fine infant's and children's clothing, toys and accessories was extremely popular with buyers, chalking up the largest overall Kentucky orders at the February show, and again doing extremely well at the August show, although sales totals are not in yet from August. Mountain Laurel is headed by Lynn Weddington Tucker, of New York, formerly of Prestonsburg.

Another gift show participant, woodworker Warren May of Berea, sold 100 hand-made dulcimers for the "Smithsonian Christmas Catalog." May, however, did return to the New York show in August with his original line of hand-crafted Kentucky-style furniture.

These are just a few of the many success stories that are developing with Kentucky crafters as the Department of the Arts' aggressive marketing initiatives continue to pay off.

"As part of Kentucky's Commerce Cabinet, the Department of the Arts not only supports the rich cultural tradition reflected in Kentucky's crafts, but actively promotes the economic aspects of the crafts industry with a strong marketing program," said Arts Commissioner Luallen.

She noted that the department's efforts to build stable crafts markets and to develop the business abilities of the state's craftsmen is a reflection of the economic development initiative of Governor Martha Layne Collins.

None of the three wore seat belts, it was said. The tragedy was investigated by State Trooper Todd Henson, of the sheriff's department, Prestonsburg police and Coroner Roger Nelson.

The Stumbo cousins were painters, employed by the Meade Construction Company. Stephen Isaac Stumbo was a son of Mrs. Nola Stephens Stumbo, of West Prestonsburg, and the late Isaac Stumbo. Besides his mother, he is survived by one daughter, Stephanie, and a sister, Sandra Haines, both of Dayton, Ohio. Milton Taylor Stumbo was a son of Edith Slone Stumbo, of West Prestonsburg, and the late Loran Stumbo. His survivors include his mother, two sons, Milton Ray and Toby Wayne, a brother, Loran Stumbo, Jr., and one sister, Teresa Stumbo Prater, all of the West Prestonsburg vicinity.

The Stumbo cousins were grandsons of the late Taylor and Rhoda Fitzpatrick Stumbo. Their joint funerals were held at 11 a.m. Tuesday from the chapel of the Floyd Funeral Home, the Rev. Ted Nelson officiating. Both were buried in the Stumbo family cemetery on the Middle Creek road.

Miss Hayden was a daughter of Gene and Garnet Collins Hayden, of West Prestonsburg. Besides her parents, she is survived by two brothers, Gene Hayden, Jr. and Martha Lee Hayden, of West Prestonsburg, and one sister, Thelma Ferguson, of Water Gap.

Her funeral was conducted today (Wednesday) at 11 a.m. from the Church of God of Prophecy, West Prestonsburg, the Revs. Jerry Smith and Robert Varney officiating. Burial was in Davidson Memorial Gardens at Ivel, the Floyd Funeral Home directing.

in the seventh and 49.2 in the 10th. That gives Floyd an overall score of 47.7 and places it in the first, or lowest, decile in the state.

Lawrence county students also scored 47.7. Only five districts in the state—Leslie county, 47.6, Lewis and Whitley counties, 47.0, Magoffin, 46.8, and Knox, 46.6—scored lower.

Of the four grades tested, Floyd third graders scored 47.6 (first decile); fifth grade, 44.5 (first decile); seventh grade, 49.6 (second decile); and 10th grade, 49.2 (first decile).

"We urge that those looking at a district's achievement on the tests also consider the district's ranking on other factors affecting achievement," McDonald said in a press release. The other factors include per-pupil expenditures for instruction; total per-pupil expenditures, including instruction, administration, transportation and operating costs; pupil-teacher ratio; attendance rate; dropout rate; local funds provided for instruction; percentage of school revenue coming from local funds; socioeconomic information; and assessed property values.

"A district that ranks high in student achievement is likely to rank high in these other factors as well," McDonald said. "However, it's obvious from a study of the district profiles that there are exceptions to this rule—that some districts are high in achievement despite higher class sizes or unfavorable economic factors."

In money spent per student, pupil-teacher ratio, and attendance rate, Floyd ranks in the lowest decile. In assessed property values and local money spent on education, this county is in the second lowest decile. In percentage of economically deprived households, Floyd is on the third lowest level.

Among neighboring counties, Johnson, with a score of 53.7, and Pike, 52.4, both place in the third decile, while the independent city schools—Paintsville, 64.1 and Pikeville, 62.7—each placed in the top or 10th decile.

While the state's top-scoring districts are frequently small systems in relatively affluent communities, some figures in the state report suggest that social and economic conditions do not alone account for a district's performance. Nine districts with higher percentages of poor families than Floyd, for example, also scored higher on the tests. Among them, Breathitt, Clay and McCreary counties ranked in the second decile on test results, while Clinton, Wolfe, Morgan, Wayne, Rockcastle and Casey all placed in the third.

O'Quinn said classes would be cancelled at least until after the Labor Day weekend. He told the parents that the new floor could be completed by that time, having ordered the materials as soon as Burchett told him what was needed, but was unsure about the support beams for the second floor, that type of construction job being out of his experience.

The other building, which started the uproar, was said to be beyond repair.

In addition to the construction suggested by Burchett, O'Quinn and the school board already had authorized the building of five additional classrooms in the auditorium of the newly inspected building. These rooms were nearing completion Monday, and were expected to be ready for classes next week.

O'Quinn said classes would not resume until Burchett, or a structural engineer chosen at the discretion of the parents committee, declared the building safe.

The principal also said he supported the parents in their stand to keep their children out of an unsafe building, saying the children were his first concern. He said he would continue working closely with parents to find the best solution to the problems facing the school.

Some of the pickets felt, however, that O'Quinn had been overzealous in pushing for school to begin Monday. One mother charged that O'Quinn had threatened to have them arrested if they turned back the children. In general, though, most seemed to agree O'Quinn was doing the best job he could under the circumstances.

One of the pickets said of their actions, "The bottom line was this needed to be done, and it's a good thing we did it." Another said she realized the children would have to go extra days in the summer to make up time lost now, but "at least those extra days will be spent in a safe building."

Floyd School Superintendent E.P. "Pete" Grigsby said he had contacted the state school board as soon as the situation developed, to ask for emergency building funds, and found the county to be eligible for a loan of $250,000, interest free for ten years, and possibly a grant as well.

Grigsby said, however, that this money would go to correct immediate problems. The new school which parents demand is at best several years away, he said.

And this type problem is likely to become widespread in the county, Grigsby speculated, as buildings get older and more crowded, with funds for new construction or repair continuing to be limited. The Floyd county school system is scheduled to receive around $9 million in July, 1987. The Garrett school is fourth on the list of projects to be funded.

The parents' committee at Garrett has scheduled its next meeting for tonight (Wednesday) at 7 o'clock in the school gymnasium.

LETTERS To the Editor

The views expressed here are those of the writers, and not necessarily those of this newspaper. No unsigned contributions will be published.

Challenges State

The continued harassment and acts of discrimination by the State Board and State Department of Education, as well as Alice McDonald's personal, politically-motivated vendetta against Mr. Grigsby provoked his resignation.

They (the State) have accused our Board of willful neglect of duty. The word negligence, especially to me as a physician, is a very serious charge. I have never willfully neglected any duties and defy the State to prove their accusations.

I encouraged the other board members to join me and remain united in operating our school system. I tried to get them to not allow the announcement of Mr. Grigsby's resignation and let those State people try to oust all six as they threatened to do by a "possible takeover by the State." I don't think it can be done. We were elected by the people, and surely someone sitting behind a desk in Frankfort cannot tell the people of my Educational District No. 4 in Left Beaver that they can replace me by someone of their choice!

I have nothing to lose in my job as Board member, but I do have a lot to gain in trying to restore the pride lost by our teachers and other Board employees.

Mr. Grigsby's resignation is not a step forward in an attempt to prove to the State that we are trying to correct "alleged deficiencies." They will continue to dig up anything they can to make our school system and all its teachers, employees, students, parents and former graduates an embarrassment throughout the state and elsewhere.

Buckingham Bridge Slated for Repair

Governor Martha Layne Collins announced last week that the state will repair the deck of the Buckingham bridge over Left Beaver Creek on KY 1091.

State Transportation Secretary C. Leslie Dawson said the project is estimated to cost $40,656 and is being funded with rural secondary special emergency funds. Dawson said the project is expected to be done by contract and will be advertised for bids as soon as possible.

Council Studies Insurance Needs

Prestonsburg's city insurance was cancelled as of midnight last Sunday, but City Manager David Evans says other coverage has been arranged.

In a Monday meeting of the city council, it was disclosed that Prestonsburg's old underwriter, Kentucky Insurance, has dropped the city, and, said Evans, coverage of other clients in the region. "I think they just pulled out of the area," he said.

Though the upcoming cancellation was discussed at the council's last meeting, a permanent insurer was still being sought Monday. In fact, two council members, Bill Ray Collins and Paul Hunt Thompson, said they checked Sunday night to make sure some kind of coverage was going to be provided. Thompson expressed concern that the city appeared to have waited until the last minute to address the problem. "We should have done something 30 or 60 days ago when we still had coverage," he said.

But Mayor Harold Cooley said a new insurer had been sought for some time, and that "the agent was to get back with us if he couldn't get coverage" before the policy expired.

Evans said the city was now being covered by four separate companies and, as yet, premiums had not been set. The council voted to continue with the present companies for 60 days, while they could try to find the best arrangement for the city.

However, Roy Ramey, of Nationwide Insurance, said he didn't feel the city "would find many companies who want your business." Ramey said his company was prepared to write the city a policy, but could not fix a premium until he knew the uses of various city vehicles.

Though Evans denied it after the meeting, several council members felt the cancellation was connected to the suit filed against Prestonsburg by Albert O. "Buddy" Gibson. Gibson is suing the city and four of its police officers for a combined total of over $5 million for allegedly using excessive force in a March 27 arrest.

Ramey said his company could provide coverage for such a situation, something the city has not had before. However, the price of such a policy would be high and would not cover the present suit, he said.

In other action, the council ratified an earlier decision to grant a waiver of property taxes for the Glyn View Plaza shopping center over a 10-year period. Under this arrangement, the Plaza will voluntarily become part of the city, thus supplying revenue from occupational tax and business licenses, for a net gain of approximately $200,000 dollars for Prestonsburg.

The amendment further stated that the "council will consider a waiver of property taxes or other incentives to other business, new or existing, that will better the city both physically and financially."

Thompson said the council "feels like Prestonsburg has been left behind by her sister cities up and down the Big Sandy," and that he, for one, was willing to offer these incentives to business if it would help in developing the city.

The council also voted to donate $200 monthly to the Eastern Kentucky Animal Shelter to supplement the salary of a dog warden, whom, shelter president Curtis Hughes said, would be responsible for dog control throughout the county.

Hughes stressed, however, that it would be about two months before the position could be filled and that the shelter would not be able to respond to calls before that time.

Rain No Damper On AARP Health Fair

The Jenny Wiley Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons held its annual Prestonsburg Health Fair at Highlands Regional Medical Center for the first time Saturday, drawing nearly 50 people despite a day-long rain.

"I'd like to express AARP's appreciation for all the participation," said chapter President James E. Goble. "We especially want to thank the health professionals who donated their time and talents, and the Medical Center for providing space."

The fair was held in HRMC's Learning Center, a complex of four multipurpose rooms. "We're proud to be able to help the community in general and the AARP in particular by providing space for the health fair," said HRMC Public Information Officer Kurt Pickering. "I also want to thank the local chapter of the American Cancer Society and Valerie Chaffin, who brought ACS literature and distributed free colorectal cancer screening kits."

Pickering added his thanks to the health professionals who turned out. They were: physicians Donald Chaffin, MD, Rodney Handshoe, MD, and Ellen Joyce, MD; dentist Robert Herrick, DDS; optometrist Lee Majakey, OD; Terri Hall, RN; HRMC Laboratory Director Don Hicks, MT, and several members of his staff; and a crew of three from the Eastern Kentucky Speech and Hearing Clinic—speech pathologist Barbara Curtisinger, learning disability/reading specialist Nancy Wildman and Dorothy Underwood.

Johnson Escapee Suspected In Deaths of Officer, 2 Others

On Sunday, Aug. 18, Randy Haight, 33, escaped the Johnson county jail with two other prisoners. Five days later, the search for Haight resulted in the slaying of the Lexington police department's Officer of the Year, Roy Hobson Mardis, 35, in a Mercer county cornfield.

In an exchange of shots Haight himself was seriously wounded. Chris Tony Minix, 23, one of Haight's fellow-escapees, later surrendered to an assistant jailer at Paintsville. The other, 22-year-old Mabel Jean Musick, had not been located Saturday.

Haight escaped jail while awaiting a probation hearing.

Authorities now are investigating the deaths of a Garrard county couple who were found shot to death Friday in their car, and are interested in a possible link of Haight with their slayings.

The bride is a 1985 graduate of Betsy Layne High School and will be attending Pikeville College this fall. Mr. Meade is a 1983 graduate of Betsy Layne High School and is now employed by Big D Excavating.

Majority at EKU
On Financial Aid

As more than 2,300 in-coming freshmen prepare to enroll at Eastern Kentucky University this fall, University officials said that approximately 71 percent of them would be receiving some form of financial aid.

The average financial aid package for an EKU student is $2,100. And funds are still available to qualified students.

Although most awards consider academic excellence and financial need, University officials stressed that financial aid is not a closed club at EKU where only a few need apply. Information about EKU financial aid is available now by calling (606) 622-2361, or by visiting the Office of Financial Aid, 200 Coates Administration Building, EKU. No appointment is necessary.

The University has a wide variety of academic scholarships available. In addition there are various government grants and loans.

WHO IS THIS MAN?

This is my son Gormon Collins, Jr. candidate for magistrate in District No. 1, of whom I'm exceedingly proud...Gormon was raised here in Prestonsburg, loves his country, and appreciates the freedoms our country offers. He believes that good officials are elected by people who put love of country and love of God above partisan politics. He is a Republican. Not by birth—because no one is born with a political belief, but born with a conscience that dictates right and wrong. He is honest, dedicated and believes in equal treatment of all people, regardless of politics. He believes that an elected official has a responsibility to perform the job he has been elected to do the best he can, dictated by his conscience and adhering to his oath of office, and at all times be available to the people he represents. My son is that kind of man.

Childrens' Stories, Photographs Collected

A fascinating book, Portraits and Dreams: Photographs and Stories by Children of the Appalachias, by Wendy Ewald, has been released by Appalshop and Writers and Readers, Inc., of New York.

Appalshop, located in Whitesburg, will hold a reception in honor of the book's publication Aug. 27 from 6 to 8 p.m.

The photographs in Portraits and Dreams were taken by students at Cowan, Kingdom Come and Campbell's Branch elementary schools in Letcher county, from 1975 to 1980. The children's perceptions give us a close look at life in the coal mining communities of southeastern Kentucky. The words are from conversations artist-in-residence Wendy Ewald had with eight of the students.

The subjects are the children themselves, their fantasies, their families, their animals, their homes and their land. Intimate because the children's work is honest and imaginative, the photographs come as a revelation. In capturing everyday goings-on the children have managed to come up with lasting and at times haunting images. Their insights, as Pulitzer-prize winning author Robert Coles says in his introduction "will easily match" the efforts of "experts" to tell us what life is like in eastern Kentucky.

The presentation is completely without artifice, reflecting at once the innocence and directness of youth and a dignity and knowingness that seem to surpass the children's years. Their photographs and words are a valuable record because they are eloquent, original and unstudied.

Photographer Wendy Ewald lived on Ingram's Creek, from 1975 through 1981 while teaching photography classes in three elementary schools in Appalachia. She worked as an artist in education through a grant from the Kentucky Arts Council.

Ewald was born in Detroit, Michigan, studied photography at MIT and served as director of the Mountain Photography Workshop at Appalshop in Whitesburg during her time spent teaching in Kentucky. Her photographs have been exhibited in the United States and abroad, and her publications prior to Portraits and Dreams include Appalachia: A Self-Portrait.

(Portraits and Dreams, distributed in the U.S.A. by W.W. Norton and Company of New York, is available in bookstores or may be ordered from Appalshop, Inc., Box 743, Whitesburg, Ky. 41858 for $9.95 per copy, plus $2.50 postage and handling.)

Farm, School Jobs in Decline

A sharp decline in agricultural jobs and a drop in educational employment combined to push Kentucky's unemployment rate up from a revised 8.3 percent in June to a preliminary 9.1 percent in July.

Figures released by the Cabinet for Human Resources show the estimated number of Kentuckians who were out of work in July jumped by 14,100 over the June figure.

Nationally the unemployment rate decreased from 7.5 percent in June to 7.4 percent in July. The comparable state and national rates are not seasonally adjusted.

"The loss of 10,000 agricultural jobs is seasonal," said state labor market analyst Ed Blackwell. "Employment in this sector should pick up again in August when the tobacco harvest season begins." He said the loss of 6,600 jobs in education represents hourly employees of public school systems, the state's colleges and private schools. "Employment in this area should pick up again by September."

The state's coal mining industry reported a loss of 800 jobs between June and July. "Our surveys show 39,100 people were employed in bituminous coal mining in Kentucky in July, 1,700 fewer than in July 1984," Blackwell said. "This reflects a continued soft market for Kentucky coal, partly because utilities built up their stockpiles last year in anticipation of a strike that never occurred."

Employment also was down in manufacturing, as 1,200 fewer jobs were reported.

Construction jobs rose by 2,000, finance, insurance and real estate by 800, and transportation, communications and utilities by 700.

Trade jobs increased by 500, bringing total employment in that sector to 297,900, which is 16,800 higher than a year ago. "This shows we are continuing our movement toward a trade-oriented economy," Blackwell said.

The state's labor force data for July was almost the same as a year earlier, when the rate also was 9.1 percent. The estimated number of Kentuckians working in July was 1,558,400, compared to 1,572,900 in June and 1,558,300 in July 1984. The unemployed numbered 156,100, compared to 142,000 in June and 156,300 in July 1984.

The state's civilian labor force figure for July stood at 1,714,500, compared to 1,714,900 in June and 1,714,600 in July 1984. The civilian labor force includes non-military people who are working and unemployed people who are looking for jobs. It does not include the jobless who are not seeking employment.

Cats Defeat Belfry On Soph's Field Goal

May Metal Wins Gold Medal

The May Metal softball team captured the youth division gold medal at the Bluegrass State Games, held August 2-4 in Lexington.

Finishing second in the state tournament, held in July in Maysville, the team was invited with other top squads to compete in the state games, and it shook off a slow start to make the most of the opportunity.

After losing the opener to Pendleton county, May Metal came roaring back to win four straight in the double-elimination tournament, including a 13-1 championship game against Sunkist of Bourbon county in which the "skunk rule" ended play after the fifth inning.

The division silver medal went to the team from Little Rock, while Falmouth captured the bronze.

The biggest crowd Coach Charles Williams has seen here since he became Prestonsburg football coach two years ago got an eyeful of football Friday night when Phillip Haywood, former Blackcat coach, returned with his Belfry High School Pirates for their annual game with the Cats.

And they saw the Pirates almost win. The Pirates held a 13-12 edge till closing seconds of the contest when sophomore Brent Hackworth kicked a field goal to give the Cats the victory, 15 to 13.

Prestonsburg scored on the opening kickoff, taking the ball on ground plays 72 yards, with quarterback John Goble passing to Pete Green, wide receiver, for the touchdown. The kick failed.

Dominating first-half play, the Cats in the second quarter recovered a Belfry fumble, and another Goble to Green pass was good for a 9-yard touchdown. The run for two extra points was stopped.

The visitors dominated the last half of play almost as much as the Cats did the first. Late in the third quarter, Belfry scored its first touchdown on a pass following a run. Its attempt for extra point also failed. Then, in the fourth quarter, with about six minutes remaining in the game, the Pirates scored again on a pass and made the kick, going ahead, 13 to 12.

On the ensuing kickoff Prestonsburg fumbled, Belfry recovering the ball with about four minutes to go. But Belfry returned the favor by fumbling, and the Cats took the ball downfield till they stalled on the Belfry 9. It was at that point that young Hackworth, attempting the second kick of his career as a varsity player, scored a bullseye, though kicking from a difficult angle.

GREG SHEPHERD KICKED off to Belfry after the Blackcats scored their first touchdown in Friday's opener against Belfry, a cliff-hanger ending in a 13-12 win for Prestonsburg.

The field goal was protested temporarily, but Coach Williams explained that seven men were in the line for the kickoff and that the questioned man in motion was a back and that the play was legitimate.

"I feel that we won the first half and they (Belfry) won the second—except for those last few minutes," Williams said of the game. The strong Belfry running attack was held to 68 yards, but the team's total yardage gained was 240 to Prestonsburg's 160.

Williams said the Cats' offensive line was especially effective. He cited the play of Donnie Ray, Brian Griffith, Keith Slone, Trent Nairn, Stacey Marshall and Greg Shepherd.

"I especially thank the fans who made up that big crowd and gave the team such great support," Williams said.

Prestonsburg is away from home Friday night at Cannonsburg to play Boyd County.

"Another dogfight," predicted Williams.

Merchants Share Softball Crown

The Prestonsburg Merchants' softball team won a piece of the 1985 Amateur Softball Association men's class B state championship, held recently in Lexington. The champs posted five victories, including wins over both the defending titlists and the 1983 winners, in their march to the finals. They were defeated in the first game of the double-elimination finals, and the second game was rained-out, giving both teams a share of the crown. Their next stop will be the Mid-East Regional tourney in Wyoming City, Mich. Bottom left to right: Barry Risner, Earl Stephens, Donnie Williams, Jimmy Music, Tony Whitaker and Ron Bolen. Top: Billy Hook, Timmy Wallen, Joe Watson, Roger Arthur, Mike Wells, Randy Griffith and Coach John Stephens.

Squirrel Season May Be Better

By ART LANDER, JR.

The squirrel season in Kentucky opened with a slight increase in the hunter success ratio as compared to 1984, according to information received from Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources' regional law enforcement supervisors in an informal telephone survey.

Over the weekend of August 17-18, conservation officers checked 2,135 hunters in 114 of Kentucky's 120 counties, who had bagged a total of 2,807 squirrels. Eighty five hunters checked by conservation officers had bagged their daily limit of six squirrels. The informal telephone survey is conducted annually as a means of subjectively comparing hunter success on opening weekend, and is not related to the squirrel hunter attitude survey which is being conducted statewide throughout the 1985 season.

The number of squirrels harvested per hunter during the opening weekend of the 1985 season (1.314) was higher than the three year average of 1.093 squirrels per hunter, but only slightly more than the 1984 success ratio of 1.183 squirrels per hunter. During the opening weekend of the 1984 season, the 1,928 hunters checked had harvested 2,282 squirrels.

Slight increases in the hunter success ratio during 1985 were noted in the second, third, fourth, sixth and eighth law enforcement districts, while decreases in the hunter success ratio were noted in the fifth and seventh districts, as well as the first district in far western Kentucky, and the mountainous ninth district in eastern Kentucky.

While considerably more hunters were afield in '85 compared to '84, during opening weekend in the 14 counties of the first district in western Kentucky, nearly the same number of squirrels were harvested. In 1984, the 655 hunters that were checked had harvested 1,350 squirrels; this year, the 843 hunters checked had taken only four squirrels more, or 1,354, for a hunter success ratio of 1.606 squirrels per hunter. Last year's hunter success ratio in the first district was 2.061 squirrels per hunter.

In the 13 counties that make up the Ninth district of Eastern Kentucky, the '84 hunter success ratio for opening weekend was .496, whereas in '85 it dropped slightly to .449. It should be noted that poor weather conditions such as high winds or rainstorms are factors that can greatly affect hunter success. These factors can create quite an impact on the data collected for informal telephone surveys, which are conducted to subjectively monitor hunter success over the years.

But, as any veteran squirrel hunter knows, the best hunting of the year doesn't generally occur until late September when most nuts mature; and squirrels congregate in their favorite trees. That's when "Mr. Bushytail" is most active, and considerably easier to locate and stalk, since he's making all sorts of racket cutting nuts and scampering from limb to limb in search of ripe mast, although some good early season hunting does occur as the hickories ripen in early September.

Found Not Guilty Of Beating Child

After deliberating about three hours, a Floyd Circuit Court jury yesterday (Tuesday) acquitted a Harold man of a charge of child abuse.

Jimmy Harvey, 22, had been accused by Thelma Joyce (Joy) Layne, 20, of severely beating their two-year-old daughter, Frances, in March last year. Miss Layne told investigators she fled with Frances to a women's shelter in Hazard after Harvey whipped the child with a belt around the legs, buttocks and face. "He never did like for her to cry," the mother said.

But Harvey denied he had beaten his daughter. "I wouldn't do it to a dog, much less a kid," he said. His attorney, Janice Porter, suggested that Miss Layne had herself beaten the child—in a fit of anger, upon seeing Harvey "flirting" with a 16-year-old babysitter.

"If I had to sum up the defense in 10 words or less, it would be, 'Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned,'" Porter told the jury. "If she (Layne) can't have him, she wants to make sure no one can."

Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney Albert Burchett emphasized that there had been no evidence of child abuse in the 19 months that Frances lived alone with her mother but that "a pattern of verbal and physical abuse" developed when Harvey joined the household. Moreover, "it would take a pretty strong person to mark that baby like she was marked," the prosecutor argued.

The case turned in large part on the imprint of a hand left on the little girl's thigh, a photograph of which was projected onto a screen and measured by witnesses on both sides. Defense attorney Porter attempted to show that the bruising was caused by a hand considerably smaller than Harvey's; the prosecutor insisted the injury was consistent with a blow from the defendant's hand.

If convicted of the charge Harvey could have been sentenced for up to 10 years in the penitentiary.

Stai To Return To MCC Office In Interim Role

An interim director was named Monday for the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center here, pending the naming of a permanent replacement for David Bell, Jr., who resigned recently in the wake of criticism by state mental health officials, agency employees and citizens.

Board Chairman Gary Sword confirmed, after a closed board meeting attended by three state mental health officials, that Dick Stai, executive director of Pathways Comprehensive Care Center in Ashland, will act as temporary director here while the search is under way for Bell's successor.

Stai was Mountain Comprehensive Care's first executive director and is well known to many in the mental health community here. He was the choice both of state officials and local board members, Sword said. He will continue as executive director of the Ashland agency.

Ned Pillersdorf, an attorney for some of the employees fired under Bell's administration, said Tuesday that he would give the new director an opportunity to redress his clients' grievances before taking further legal action.

Attending Monday night's board meeting were state Mental Health Commissioner Dennis Boyd, and Jim Roberts and Bernie Ransdell, employees of the Human Resources Cabinet.

Republicans Choose Frasure As Candidate For County Court Clerk

Declaring its intention to field the strongest slate of candidates possible, the Floyd County Republican Executive Committee last Friday night chose Ronald Frasure, Prestonsburg businessman, as the party's candidate for county court clerk.

The committee action followed the resignation of the Republican nominee for the office, Ray Dempsey, who reportedly decided that he is physically unable to make the November race. Dempsey is 75 years old.

Frasure, a onetime G.O.P. candidate for county judge-executive, will oppose incumbent Carla Robinson Boyd, Democratic nominee, at the November polls.

Nightclub at Auxier ABC Decision Winner

Operators of The Warehouse, an Auxier nightclub, won a round last week in their ongoing dispute with some neighbors, who claim the establishment is intolerably noisy.

An order issued by the state Alcoholic Beverage Control Board on August 20 dismissed a charge filed by ABC field director Porter Collier, who found that "the licensed premises were permitted to become disorderly, in that the volume of live and recorded music... was playing excessively loud."

In a hearing held on the question of whether the retail beer license of Rita Wells should be suspended or revoked, the board concluded that music coming from The Warehouse could be heard as far as 270 feet from the site but that it was not loud enough to constitute a violation of law.

The board also noted that the licensee had attempted to insulate the wall of the building on the side nearest to the aggrieved residents and had also constructed a band shell in an effort to further reduce the noise.

Rural Economic Woes Becoming Urban Worry

Interest rates could climb to one and one-quarter percentage points as a direct result of what has been called the U.S. farm crisis.

"The U.S. farm situation is such that unless there is some major legislative remedy soon, farm loan defaults could reach as high as $25 billion. And losses of that magnitude will be absorbed through hiking interest rates," says Larry Jones, University of Kentucky Extension agricultural economist.

A survey sponsored by Farm Journal, an agricultural trade magazine, showed that 30 percent of U.S. farmers are currently in a heavy debt situation—defined as a debt to asset ratio of more than 40 percent. That 30 percent holds 63 percent of all farm debt, Jones said. "Nationally, we expect to lose about 5 percent of these farmers annually for the next three years. If this were to happen we would have $25 billion in farm loan losses that the banking community will have to absorb—likely by passing the losses onto other customers through higher interest rates," Jones said.

In Kentucky, Jones said, the farming community has not yet been as hard hit by the farm crisis as farming communities in other states, such as Nebraska, Iowa and Kansas.

"We have areas of the state in which the farm crisis has already manifested itself—particularly in the western part of the state. But if legislative remedies are not forthcoming soon, the situation in Western Kentucky will worsen and spread into Central Kentucky," Jones said.

"If current conditions continue for the next three years, we could lose up to 10,000 farms in Kentucky," he said.

Congress recessed without making substantive plans to deal with the farm credit situation. When it reconvenes, it will have to tackle the difficult issue of providing for farm credit, Jones said.

How Congress will deal with the situation is uncertain at this time. Sentiments to keep the federal deficit within some bounds, coupled with desires to move agriculture to a more market driven economy, have in part thwarted efforts to provide solutions, Jones said.

Repercussions from failure to deal with the farm crisis include not just consumer interest rates. A study by Wharton Econometrics suggests that over the next eight years the farm crisis could cut economic activity in the U.S. by as much as $50 billion and increase the federal deficit by $20 billion. In addition, the cost of failing to bolster the farm economy will mean the loss of an estimated 200,000 jobs, Jones said.

FAME

THE SHELDON TOUCH

TV miniseries based on Sidney Sheldon's novels "Rage of Angels" and "Master of the Game" have hit pay dirt, so it's no wonder that CBS recently began filming a miniseries based on another Sidney Sheldon novel, "If Tomorrow Comes." It will star Madolyn Smith, Tom Berenger and David Keith.

This one is about Tracy Whitney (Miss Smith), a law-abiding bank clerk turned cat burglar after being victimized by a racketeering scheme and sent to prison on a trumped-up charge. Upon her release, she discovers that all law-abiding avenues of employment are closed to her, and she is left with one unhappy alternative — a life of crime. But she makes a happy discovery — she has a talent for it.

Well, you get the idea. She even discovers true love with a dashing fellow burglar (Tom Berenger) before the lure of the ultimate caper pits her against her most dangerous enemy (David Keith).

'Cinderella' is full of charm

By Amanda Bruce

There aren't any exposed shoulders or gyrating silhouettes when Jennifer Beals ("Flashdance") plays the title role in "Cinderella," which opens the new season of "Faerie Tale Theatre," Sept. 2 and 7 on Showtime.

Miss Beals is sweet and demure as the put-upon stepdaughter, and her co-star, Matthew Broderick, is pleasant and innocent as the prince who rescues her in the end.

Of course, it's really the fairy godmother (Jean Stapleton) who rescues Cinderella from servitude to her nasty stepsisters (Edie McClurg and Jane Alden) and witch of a stepmother (Eve Arden). In fact, the fairy godmother turns a forlorn Cinderella into such a sparkling beauty that even the king (James Noble) thinks his son has good taste.

"Cinderella" is a clever combination of fairy-tale magic and adult tongue-in-cheek humor. It works beautifully.

For more adventure and courtly romance, there's "The Prisoner of Zenda" on the Arts & Entertainment Network.

"Zenda" is the classic turn-of-the-century story of an aristocratic Englishman who finds himself doubling as the King of Ruritania because of similar looks. The pressures mount when the Englishman (played by Malcolm Sinclair) begins to like being king a little too much — and begins to like the princess (Victoria Wicks), to whom the real King is engaged, even more.

Miss Beals and Broderick

"Zenda" is a six-part series, beginning Sept. 2. Also starring are John Woodvine (Ralph from "Nicholas Nickleby") and George Irving.

Parent alert: "Too Smart for Strangers," a musical special on personal safety aimed at children, airs Sept. 7 on the Disney Channel and is well worth watching.

You should watch this program with your children. This can be a frightening subject for them, even when Winnie the Pooh and the gang at Pooh Corner are doing the talking.

There'll be a 20-minute discussion with child abuse experts at the end of the program to give parents further advice.

Defendant Cleared As 'Politics' Claimed

A Floyd district court jury last week acquitted a man of a charge the defense claimed was politically motivated.

Claude Gilliam, 19, of Wheelwright, was arrested May 27—the day before the primary election—and charged with disorderly conduct. Deputy Sheriff Harold "Beaver" Johnson said Gilliam used profane language and attempted to open the doors of a cruiser in which Gilliam's father and sister were already being held.

The Gilliams had been attending a political rally for Paul Hunt Thompson, a rival of Sheriff Henry Hale in the Democratic primary. When Raymond Gilliam was arrested by Johnson on a charge of drunkenness, his daughter, Kathryn Gilliam, 21, became involved in an argument with the arresting officer. Claude Gilliam said he also became involved in the altercation when he saw Johnson holding his sister by her hair.

Kathryn Gilliam was charged with assaulting a police officer and resisting arrest. Trial on the felony charges will depend on whether a circuit court grand jury next month hands down indictments against her.

Appearing last Thursday as a witness in her brother's behalf, Miss Gilliam said the arrest of the three family members was political. "On the way down (to the county jail in Prestonsburg), all he (Johnson) talked about was the elections," she said.

Johnson denied the arrests were politically motivated. "They said it was a damn election scheme but it wasn't," he said. "I went there (to the scene of the rally) because neighbors called me." Assistant County Attorney Dan Rowland urged the jury to "forget about the political issue." The point, he said, was that when Gilliam sought the release of his father and sister "he didn't just make a request. He was loud, he was boisterous, he was profane. It could turn into a really dangerous situation."

Public Defender Sandra Simmons countered that the evidence would not bear such an interpretation. "The most they've proved is that the cops might personally have been annoyed by this family," she argued.

Had he been convicted, Gilliam could have been jailed for up to 90 days and fined $250.

Gail Smith, 28, of Wheelwright, who was also arrested on a disorderly conduct charge the night of the Thompson rally, failed to appear in court Thursday and was convicted in her absence. Johnson said she became involved after he had arrested the Gilliams.

"She told me, 'By God, if you take them you're going to take me,' so I took her, too," the officer testified. She was ordered by District Judge Harold Stumbo to serve five days in the county jail and to pay $117 in fine, fees, and court costs.

Officer Fails To Press DUI Charge Here

A Betsy Layne man accused of drunk driving saw charges dropped in district court here Thursday after the arresting officer failed to appear in court.

In "reluctantly" moving for dismissal of a DUI charge against Barry L. Boyd, Assistant County Attorney Dan Rowland said, "I'd like to go on record as being opposed to drunk driving, but we do need a prosecuting witness."

A representative of the Pikeville state police post told court officials the post had tried unsuccessfully for two days to contact Trooper Todd Henson, the arresting officer.

Boyd, 36, was arrested near midnight on June 3. Henson reported he was weaving on U.S. 23 at Ivel and recorded a Breathalyzer reading of .18 percent.

A drunk driving charge against Gregory A. Tackett, 27, of Drift, was amended to public intoxication when the arresting officer, who said he found Tackett asleep in his vehicle, admitted he could not prove Tackett was the driver.

Dismissal of the one charge and reduction of the other came at the end of a week in which drunk driving cases crowded the court docket. A David motorist was convicted earlier of his third drunk driving offense since a tougher state law took effect last year; two other drivers were convicted of second offenses.

Kenneth Webb, 32, of David, was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail and ordered to pay $707 in fine, fees and court costs after pleading guilty to charges of drunk driving and driving on a suspended license. Webb was booked by Prestonsburg Police Sgt. Gerald Clark on South Lake Drive on March 23. He had two previous convictions, following arrests last August and September.

Convicted in their absence were two Martin men, Fred R. Mynhier, 38, and Ell Arnett, 27, both charged with drunk driving and driving on a suspended license. Bench warrants were issued for the two, each of whom received a 60-day jail sentence and was ordered to pay $1057.

Others convicted of driving under the influence: Lucky Collett, Garrett; Joe Clark, West Prestonsburg; Ollie Robinson, Jr., Martin; Phillip D. Moore, Price; Jimmy D. Hall, Prestonsburg; Robie Johnson, Jr.; Allen Thomas Ray; Ellis McCoy; Kenneth B. Spradlin; Ivel McSurley, Jr.; Mike A. Feltner, Chillicothe, Ohio; Joseph Melvin Harris, Thorton, Colorado; Freddie Bowling, Danville; James Leslie Church; Donald E. Leckrone; Paul D. Lard; Donnie Preece, Jr.; Don Keith Spurlock; Bobby Joe Turner; Marion Kilburn, Martin; Fred Greer, Banner; Johnny R. Gunnels; Darrell Mullins; Thomas H. Cesco; Willie E. Prince; James H. Isaacs; and Rebecca Prater.

Also convicted were: Don Keathley, theft by deception; Nancy B. Crum, selling beer on Sunday; Oscar M. Fannin, Jr., drunk, possession of marijuana; Gladys Berousek, assault; and Otto Berousek, disorderly conduct.

Minnesota has been cleaning up toxic dump sites four times faster than the Environmental Protection Agency, reports National Wildlife magazine. The reason: a state law passed by Minnesota that allows private companies to be held liable for personal injuries caused by exposure to leaking toxic chemicals. The law, passed in 1983, was the first of its kind in the United States, and may be the model for tougher federal Superfund legislation.

Betsy Layne District Gets Improved Rating

Some homeowners living within the boundaries of the Betsy Layne Fire Protection District should receive reduced fire insurance rates as the result of an improved rating of that community's fire department, fire department secretary James A. George announced this week.

According to the new classification, issued by the Insurance Service Organization and effective Sept. 1, homes or businesses located within 1000 feet of a hydrant will now enjoy a Class 7 rating, while other homes and businesses will continue to have a Class 9 rating. Homeowners near hydrants previously had a Class 8 rating.

For those homeowners affected, rate reductions should appear on policies issued or renewed Sept. 1, George said.

Flem D. Sampson Elected Governor

MAJORITY OVER BECKHAM RISES TOWARD 15,000

G. O. P. Makes Clean Sweep of Mountains, Except In Knott

One of the most hotly contested elections ever held in Kentucky resulted Tuesday, on the face of unofficial returns, in the election of Flem D. Sampson, Republican, for Governor...

Despite inclement weather on election day, Judge Sampson piled up a heavy vote in the Mountains, and in the Eleventh district turned in for him a reported majority of 23,209 votes.

Returns from the horse racing centers of the state give Sampson a heavy vote. Mr. Beckham ran far behind other candidates on his own ticket, and, though the minor state races are said to be close, it is believed that the entire Democratic state ticket, except Mr. Beckham, is elected.

In the First district Mr. Beckham failed to poll the heavy vote anticipated for him, but in the Fifth district, the home of Thomas S. Rhea, Democratic campaign chairman, the Democratic candidate led by approximately 7,000.

Wednesday, Democratic headquarters were claiming a victory by 12,000, while Sampson's election was claimed by G. O. P. state leaders by 35,000.

Three counties, Floyd, Knott and Jackson, were reported out Wednesday afternoon. Floyd, counted by the Associated Press in the Democratic column, went more than 1,000 for Sampson.

Louisville and Jefferson county was carried by the Republicans after being in the Democratic ranks for a few months.

Democratic headquarters charge that "the grossest frauds have been perpetrated against the franchise."

The election was generally quiet throughout the state, save for two killings—that of Lindsey Clarke on Johns Creek, this county, and that of Gill Lewis, candidate for Congress in Harlan, Ky.

Says Pikeville College Has a Great Field

Trustees of the Pikeville College have completed one of the most successful meetings since the founding of the institution forty years ago, it is said.

The Rev. Samuel R. Curry, pastor of the Ashland Presbyterian Church, was the principal speaker. Other speakers were the Rev. Dr. W. C. Condit, one of the founders of the college, and the Rev. Dr. James F. Record, president of the institution for the past twenty years.

The Rev. Frederick Stockwell, Philadelphia, secretary of the department of the Board of Christian Education, after his preliminary study of the Pikeville College field, reported to the trustees that he believes that no college in America has a more important field and that none is doing a finer work.

About 400 students are enrolled and more than 100 were turned away because of the lack of facilities.

Unlettered Hunchback Is Bearer of Lamp of Knowledge to People

One of the strangest human associations imaginable led, 10 years ago, to one of the greatest works of uplift ever recorded in the Kentucky mountains.

In the spring of 1917 Mrs. Alice Spencer Geddes Lloyd, Boston newspaperwoman and former editor of a magazine in the "Hub of the Universe," met "Humpty Joab," a native of Caney Creek, Knott county, who had never looked, either in the flesh or in the spirit, beyond the horizon of his native hills.

As a result, the Caney Creek Community Center came into being, and from it radiated learning to hundreds of boys and girls of Eastern Kentucky in the succeeding decade.

Leaving Pittsfield, Mass., in August, 1916, in a buggy to which was hitched her black horse, "Pal," Mrs. Lloyd drove straight to the field in which lay her future work.

Lloyd came to be known, grew. Troublesome Creek might have been the permanent location of Mrs. Lloyd's work, had not "Humpty Joab" come.

One day in November, 1916, there appeared at Hope Cottage a strange figure—an unkempt hunchback. It was "Humpty Joab," who was born Abisha Johnson.

"Humpty Joab" had heard, over at his home on the head of Caney, of "The Little Woman" and her work; and, though illiterate then and the same to this day, he sought a better lot for his children and for the children of his neighbors.

Standing in the doorway of Hope Cottage, clad in rags, his feet covered with cloth tied with strings, the man made known the purpose of his visit.

"My name is Joab," he said. "I live on the head of Caney Creek, jest over the hill from here. I understand that you hev come a fur ways to help us people as don't know how to help ourselves. I haint got no money, but I hev a little, old farm and a wife and six children, and if you will come to Caney I will give you a part of my farm and yo' can build a house on it like this big one you air a-buildin' here and come out and do this kind of work over thar."

FLOYD KILLER TO GET RE-HEARING

Appellate Court Reverses Blackburn Slay-er's Sentence

Right of new trial was granted Lee McCurkin, of this county, by the court of appeals Friday, Nov. 4, from a life sentence imposed upon him in the Floyd circuit court for the murder of Policeman Tom Blackburn, this year, at Garrett.

In reversing the Floyd circuit court decision, the appellate court held that the trial judge erred in his instructions to the jury. McClerkin pleaded self-defense in the trial here, claiming that the officer fired first into his home.

At the time of Blackburn's death a negro named Tucker was shot and killed by Officer Verlie Banks, a son-in-law of Blackburn.

FIRE DESTROYS LANGLEY HOME

Langley, Ky., Nov. 8.—The fine home of Kendall Moore erected a short distance above here several months ago, was destroyed by fire late Thursday night, Nov. 3.

Origin of the blaze is unknown, as the building was untenanted. Mr. Moore and family moved a few months ago to Garrett, where he is connected in business. The home had been occupied by surveyors on the Beaver road, but had left the place on the evening before the fire took place.

Value of the building has been placed at $10,000. Loss was partly covered by insurance, it is said.

PIKE ROAD TO JOIN IN FLOYD

Indian Creek Road Designed to Connect Abner Route

When the Indian Creek road from the Mayo Trail to the Floyd county line, which was let to contract last week by the Pike fiscal court, is completed, connection will be established with the Left Beaver Creek section of this county by the way of Abner fork road.

A meeting was held by citizens of the upper Left Beaver Creek section, Oct. 16, for the purpose of raising funds to finish the road up Abner Fork to connect with the Indian Creek road, and thus to obtain connection with the Mayo Trail into Pikeville.

The Indian Creek road contract was awarded by the Pike fiscal court to the J. D. Hackney Construction Company on its bid of $39,850. Road contracts totaling $60,000 were awarded at the same time.

Tight Local Races Election Features

FLOYD COUNTY BRIDGE TO BEAR GOVERNOR'S NAME

A news dispatch says that Governor W. J. Fields has requested that the order naming the bridge over Tygart Creek in Carter "Fields Bridge," be rescinded and that the name be given a bridge in Floyd county.

Inquiry made by the Times here failed to identify the bridge to be named in this county, but it is believed to be the bridge at Allen.

One Democrat and two Republicans involved in local or district races were elected on the face of returns gathered from Tuesday's election, while the issue between two others hangs in doubt.

O. H. Stumbo, Democrat, defeated George T. Roberts, Republican, for circuit court clerk by a majority of 384 votes, unofficial returns show. H. D. Fitzpatrick, Republican, won over Alex L. Hill, Democrat, for State Senator.

WHERE IS BUS COUNTY? O. K! THEN DEFINE 'BUS'

The story told recently by the Ashland Daily Independent of the young ladies' efforts to locate "Free county, Kentucky," reminds us of a young lady's attempts, upon arriving here recently, to locate "Bus county."

Here, she first saw the name of the county printed on the automobile license tags. Past went a car marked "Floyd." Then "Johnson," "Pike"—and, finally, "Bus."

Then the matter was recently explained to her. It was also explained that "bus" does not mean a county, nor does it necessarily mean a motor vehicle.

Nigh-Forgotten Story of Civil War Days Recounted by Aged Floyd County Man

BY WILL BOGGS

Many are the historical incidents of the Civil War period that never appear between the covers of histories. Reasons for the omissions are numerous, but many of the left-out occurrences hold a goodly measure of intense interest, especially to the people in or about the place of occurrence.

During the early days of the Civil War, many roving bands of merciless robbers began to operate in the Kentucky hills. Honest citizens suffered at their hands, often losing practically all they possessed.

Shortly before this band was apprehended, they robbed Charles Huff, a peaceable citizen of Carr's Fork, Knott county.

TWO ASPIRANTS FOR JUDGESHIP CLAIM VICTORY

Stumbo, Allen and Fitzpatrick Elected, Results Show

The race which is, as yet, undecided lies between Judge W. W. Williams, Democratic candidate for re-election for circuit judge of the 31st judicial district, and C. B. Wheeler. Both are claiming election.

Rev. A. L. Allen, of Allen, was returned winner over Representative W. S. Wallen for representative by 765 votes. His election was conceded by Mr. Wallen Wednesday morning.

Floyd county furnished the scene Tuesday for one of the hottest political fights staged in Kentucky. With the gubernatorial and local races lending many angles to the situation, what is believed to have been an unprecedented "scratching" of the ballot took place.

Judge Sampson led all candidates, with a majority of more than 1,000 votes in this county. H. D. Fitzpatrick's majority with four precincts out, was placed at 299. Stumbo's majority was at that time 424, but it is held at 384 as we go to press, with all the precincts reported.

In Knott county the Democratic ticket is reported as leading. Beckham piled up a lead ranging from 800 to 1,200, and Judge Williams also has a small margin there.

The deprivations of these men reached the ears of Confederate officials. Accordingly, one Lieut. Halk, or Halcck, was dispatched to capture and kill the pillagers, especially the Hall-Quillen band, who were wanted for desertion.

Halk took his prisoners to a school-house at the mouth of the Mallet Fork of Carr, where he kept them until the evening of the following day, when the killing took place.

With an old "Navy" pistol, Halk shot the three deserters down and went his way as though nothing had happened.

The exact place of the first killing is not known. The Lieutenant ran into the bad trio on the headwaters of Carr's Fork, Knott County, and captured them on the spot.

Five Generations Family

Mrs. Peggy McCowan, of Chillicothe, Ohio, formerly of Prestonsburg and Floyd county, the mother of Mrs. Henry Stumbo, observed her 97th birthday at her home, August 24. Many of her relatives and friends visited with her during that time. Others called by telephone and sent greetings. Those attending from Prestonsburg were five generations of her family: Mrs. Henry Stumbo and daughter, Mrs. Yvonne Jones, Mrs. Jones' sons, Michael McCormick and Steve Jones, and Michael's son, Brett McCormick.

His Ship Fired Last Shot of War

On the 40th anniversary of the end of World War II, "Wimp" Newsome, of Martin, dusted off an oil painting of the light cruiser on which he served for two years in the Pacific. Congress last year officially declared that the guns of the USS Concord, on which Newsome served as a general seaman and radio operator, fired the war's last shots.

What "Wimp" Newsome remembers are the stories of soldiers who have died in a war's closing hours, victims of a cruel chance, sometimes after hostilities have been officially declared over in some far-off general's tent or in the chambers of a distant parliament. It still rattles him some to think of how easily he could have met the same fate.

It didn't matter as much to him, Newsome said this week, as it did to many of his buddies that Congress officially declared last year, after researching the historical record, that the USS Concord was the last American ship to have fired its guns in World War II—except for the eerie realization that he might easily have died in the war's final battle, days after atomic explosions had leveled Hiroshima and Nagasaki and effectively ended Japan's resistance.

It was August 14, 1945 when the news of surrender crackled over a radio from the Concord's bridge. Newsome and his shipmates were cleaning the cruiser's six-inch guns, cannons that only two hours earlier were trading deadly 108-pound shells with the enemy. Formal surrender would not come until September 2—40 years ago next Monday—but for one weary "kid from Left Beaver" it was finally over.

Estill Newsome—the nickname Wimp or Wimp came from the Popeye comic-strip character and recalls his youthful fondness for hamburgers—grew up in Hi Hat and was a senior at Wheelwright High School in 1943 when the departure of older classmates, the stirring oratory of FDR and reports of naval battles in the Pacific made schoolwork appear intolerably dull. He enlisted that August. He had just turned 18.

Now 60 and retired, Newsome has no desire to paint his two years in combat as somehow larger than life—he speaks indulgently of some former shipmates for whom the tales grow taller as the years grow longer. Enlisting took no special pluck when the whole country was swept up in a tide of patriotism and, if the navy is nobody's idea of the quiet life, it seemed to him much preferable to sitting in a foxhole or slogging across North Africa.

Storms at sea turned out to be at least as frightening as actual combat, when the heavy, rhythmic labor of charging the Concord's dozen big guns left little time for thinking about anything but the job at hand. And then, in the Sea of Oshkosh, 90 miles off the coast of Japan, it was over.

If he had to do it over he might have stayed in the navy, Newsome says now, but he came back to work in the mines—his father, Orbie Newsome, was foreman at Hi Hat Elkhorn—until 1952, left again for a brief stint in the Fisher Body plant in Hamilton, Ohio, and returned to work for Hall Brothers Funeral Home until he retired, disabled with a heart condition, 10 years ago.

If most of Newsome's wartime links are held together only tenuously by the nostalgic reunions which he now attends infrequently, one has endured. Waneta Price, trainee in a Charleston, W. Va. nursing school and a pen pal during his two years at sea, is his wife of 39 years.

Their two children have long since grown up, in a world which, though hardly peaceful, is yet to see again the eruption of a global conflict. Son Michael, drafted for Vietnam 20 years ago, though subsequently turned down for medical reasons, was eager to follow his father into the navy.

It was an enthusiasm the father didn't share. "I was proud he didn't run to Canada, but I didn't want him to go over," he said. "I knew what he was facing."

Gallup Poll Surveys Esteem For Schools

Parents of children attending a public school rate schools significantly higher than people without children in school, according to the 17th annual Gallup Poll of the Public's Attitudes Toward the Public Schools.

The results of the poll will be published in the September 1985 issue of the magazine, Phi Delta Kappa.

"One of the most interesting things in this survey is the fact that those people with first-hand knowledge of the schools rate them considerably higher than those who do not have students in school," points out Mary Hatwood Futrell, president of the National Education Association.

Over 71 percent of parents of children attending a public school give the schools their children attend a grade of A or B. Forty-three percent of the U.S. public give the public schools in their community a grade of A or B, and only 27 percent of the public give public schools in the nation a grade of A or B.

The Phi Delta Kappa poll also continues to give teachers high marks. Almost half (49 percent) give teachers in local public schools a grade of A or B. This is almost equal to last year's figure of 50 percent, but up considerably from 1981, when only 39 percent of the public graded teachers A or B.

On other issues: The public didn't find any "big problem" facing the public schools. Discipline was named by the public as the biggest problem, but it was named by only 25 percent of the public polled.

The public feels that teachers are underpaid. In 1985, one-third of Americans feel that teachers' salaries are too low; only six percent feel that salaries are too high.

The most frequently cited problem that relates to the quality of schooling is "poor curriculum/standards," mentioned by 11 percent of the public.

The public (73 percent) thinks that the movement toward home schooling is a bad thing for the nation.

The public supports sex education programs for students by a 75 percent margin in high school and 52 percent in elementary school.

Reprints of the 17th Annual Gallup Poll are available from Phi Delta Kappa, P.O. Box 789, Bloomington, Indiana 47402. Minimum order is 25 copies for $7.50.

Floyd Troopers Aid In Marijuana Raids At Dorton, Monday

State police investigation led by Captain Roy Sturgill resulted in the arrest of five people and the confiscation of marijuana in Pike county, Monday night.

Joan Mullins, 33, and Phillip Andrew Akers, 21, both of Dorton, were charged with trafficking in marijuana and three pounds of the drug were confiscated. A second bust the same evening netted 125 marijuana plants, and Patricia Sanders, 21, and Rex Sanders, 30, of Shelby Gap, are charged with their cultivation. In a separate arrest, Jerry Wayne Kanes, 26, also of the Dorton area, was charged with producing marijuana.

Assisting in the investigation and arrests were Trooper Lee Weddington and Trooper Carie Cross, both of Floyd county, Sgt. Shemelya and Sgt. Sandlin.

State Tax Rate Set

Secretary Gary W. Gillis, of the Kentucky Revenue Cabinet has announced that the 1985 state real estate property tax rate has been set at 22.0¢ per $100 of assessed valuation. The state real estate rate must be reviewed each year and adjusted as needed to ensure that no more than a 4% cumulative increase in revenues is realized over the previous year's. Because estimated 1985 growth in the real estate base is less than 4%, the 1985 rate of 22.0¢ is the same as the 1984 rate.

With the establishment of the 1985 real estate tax rate in a timely manner, local taxing districts statewide can be assured of being able to have tax bills prepared and collected as soon as the local tax rolls have been certified by the Revenue Cabinet and local tax rates have been properly established.

One of the world's most nutritious root crops is perhaps this country's best kept secret. National Wildlife magazine says groundnuts, about the size of golf balls, are as tasty as potatoes and have four times the protein. They were not always unwanted and forgotten, however. The Pilgrims may not have survived their first winter without these nutritious nuts. And now, after some 300 years, scientists are trying to make this wild vine vegetable a household word, that may one day compete with potatoes.

Mrs. May Honored

A packed auditorium of happy home-comers witnessed the crowning of their beloved "Miss Wilma" as Homecoming Queen on Saturday evening, July 27, at Maytown.

Mrs. May, founder of the Maytown homecoming event, was presented a plaque and honored as outstanding citizen for her devotion and dedication to community and Christian work. She was recognized as teacher, writer and speaker in the fields of Christianity and education; as the founder of the Maytown Fall Flower Show which was attended by hundreds for a period of 25 years; the establishing of the Maytown, First Baptist Church; Maytown's first 4-H Club and the Easter pageant at Martin. These are only a few of Mrs. May's accomplishments, but perhaps most appreciated by the community is the time and care she gives to the sick and bereaved.

At the conclusion of the program, Dr. Ida Martin Chiaraviglio, Atlanta, Ga., who was honored as Maytown's most outstanding woman graduate, presented Mrs. May with a bouquet and crowned her Homecoming Queen.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Sol Sammons would like to express our sincere appreciation to all who helped upon the passing of our loved one. Thanks to the many friends and neighbors who helped by sending flowers, preparing food and who shared comforting words with us. We would also like to thank Evangelists Bennie Blankenship and Ronnie Sammons, the Choir, The Prestonsburg Church of Christ, and the Hall Funeral Home for its kind and efficient service.

Pharmacy Footnotes

PREGNANCY TEST KITS

This is a time when many prescription and over-the-counter drugs are on the market. Researchers are finding that some drugs are having a direct effect on fetuses. As a result, early detection is very important. One must take the correct steps to safeguard both the health of the mother and the health of the unborn child. One early detection method is an accurate, do-it-yourself at home pregnancy test kit. The benefits of knowing that one is pregnant within a few weeks after conception are boundless. Proper diet, exercise and pre-natal care can be immediately started to help ensure a healthy baby. With a home pregnancy test kit, one can determine pregnancy within seven days after the first missed period.

At COOLEY APOTHECARY we believe there is more to a pharmacy than just filling prescriptions. That's why concise records are kept about your prescriptions, including vital information on any allergies or drug interactions. A registered pharmacist is always on duty to be of service. Learn for yourself why your friends and neighbors already rely on us. We are located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4.

HANDY HINT:

Contact your doctor regardless of the outcome of the pregnancy test.

NUMB ARMS, LEGS
Warning Signals

There may be misalignment of vertebrae in the spine causing pressure on nerves, yet the patient experiences no pain in the back. Instead, a variety of sensations may be felt in other parts of the body. These include tingling, tightness, hot spots, cold spots, crawling sensations, electric shock sensations, stinging, burning, and others.

The following nine symptoms involving back pain or strange sensations are often the forerunners of more serious conditions. Any one of these may spell back trouble.

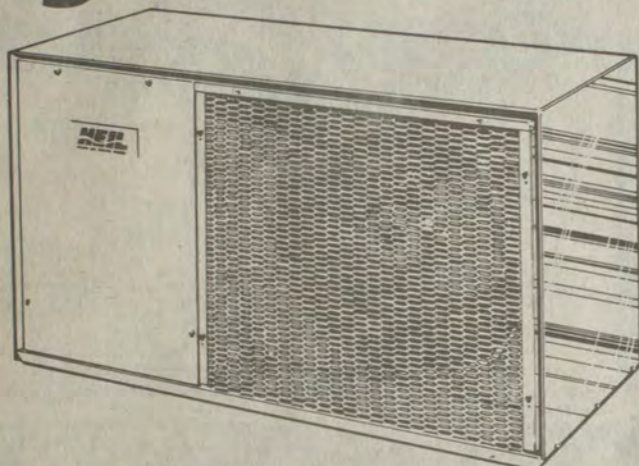

- (1) Paresthesias (see above) (2) Headaches (3) Painful joints (4) Numbness in the arms or hands (5) Loss of sleep (6) Stiffness in the neck (7) Pain between the shoulders (8) Stiffness or pain in lower back (9) Numbness or pain in the legs.

These signals may indicate your body is being robbed of normal nerve function. Until this function is restored, you will, in some degree, be incapacitated. The longer you wait to seek help, the worse the condition will likely become. Don't wait! Should you experience any of these warning signals... call for in depth consultation in Layman's terms.

Ky. Historical Society
Films Endangered Records

The Kentucky Historical Society is striving to protect and preserve old historical records through its microfilming section. Its purpose is two-fold: first, to make a film copy available for use by researchers, and, second, to preserve records which are slowly disintegrating. These materials may include old church record books, local newspapers, personal diaries, or genealogical data. Local records, such as those of funeral homes, hospitals, business firms, and the like, are valuable source materials often overlooked. Personal diaries are also sources which provide insight for scholars and genealogists.

The Kentucky Historical Society urges persons to contact its Micrographics Department if there are questions for filming requests. The Society wishes to film records of demonstrable historical significance. This service may be provided at no charge, if the owner allows the Society to retain a copy. All original materials will be returned to the owner.

Contact Carol Cline, Micrographics, Kentucky Historical Society, P.O. Box H, Frankfort, KY 40602; (502) 564-3016.

Tired of Mowing?
Try Ground Covers

Many people are shocked when they go to a nursery or garden center to buy a tree and see what one costs. Over the long run, however, trees are the least expensive part of permanent landscapes. Once they're planted, they may occasionally be mulched, fertilized or sprayed, but we spend relatively little additional money on them, directly or indirectly.

Compare the tree costs with shrubs, which cost less initially to buy, but which require more maintenance and more frequent replacement. Then compare these costs with those of maintaining a lawn, and the grass, which is usually the least expensive part of our permanent landscapes to install (unless we're sodding), becomes the most expensive part overall when you consider mowing, watering, fertilizing, weeding and the like.

Unless you're in an area that lends itself to replacing a lawn with a total covering of trees and natural tree litter, you can't escape maintaining a lawn. But no one says the lawn has to be composed totally of grass or turf. There are several other options including wildflowers (although this has unfortunately led to legal problems in some residential areas), low-growing spreading shrubs such as prostrate junipers and cotoneasters, perennials, herbs, and plants typically referred to as ground covers.

Early fall (late August through September) is a good time to work up lawn areas (till or spade, test soil, apply necessary fertilizers) to be replanted with ground covers.

When you have prepared the site and are ready to plant, accurately space two rows before planting. The plants should not be planted in straight rows in both directions. One direction should be staggered every other row (double staggered rows) to give quicker spread, reduce soil erosion between plants and make the death of a plant or two less noticeable. Be sure to water the plants in and mulch them generously (two to three inch depth).

When trying to select the specific ground cover to use, consider the following factors: exposure, soil type, moisture availability and drainage, heath requirement, deciduous vs. height requirement, rate of spread, seasonal interest (flowers, etc.), permanence, foot traffic, and surrounding vegetation. Look at the type of covers used in your neighborhood, and determine the growing conditions under which they are succeeding—or failing. (Avoid duplication).

Timely Tip: One way to decrease insect and disease problems in the vegetable garden is to use resistant varieties. If one of your tomato varieties fell victim to early blight, note the variety and look for a substitute for next year.

Hunt Will Gauge Health
Of Knott Co. Deer Herd

A three-day bucks-only deer hunt will be held in Knott County this year to check on the health of the newly-stocked deer herd.

The massive stocking of 500 deer in Knott county, which took two years to complete, is an experimental effort by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources to overcome the problem of excessive deer mortality in eastern Kentucky, a problem which has thwarted past efforts to establish viable deer populations in the mountain counties.

John Phillips, deer biologist with the department, says that the controlled hunt is the best method for obtaining a sufficient number of deer for determining the condition of the animals. A percentage of the herd must be taken so that information regarding the age structure and general health of the county's deer population can be determined, and the department feels that hunters should benefit from the harvest.

The three-day season is for antlered deer only, and will run from November 9-11. It is expected that 35-50 animals will be harvested during the Knott County hunt. Biologists will be at check stations throughout the county to examine the deer and to collect biological information which will be used to analyze the health and population size of the Knott County herd.

Archer's Club Meets

Area archers are invited to attend a weekly Trophy Shoot Wednesdays at 6:30 at Archer Park. Renowned bowhunter John Blair will be on hand to provide hunting and safety tips, while Jim Hall will teach target archery.

The first Shoot was won by Chalmers Howard and Jack Hale. Hale also placed 10th in the state KBA Bow Shoot. The weekly gatherings are sponsored by the Sandy Valley Archer's Club.

Gov. Collins Proclaims Industry Appreciation Week for September 1-7

Governor Martha Layne Collins has proclaimed the week of September 1-7 as Industry Appreciation Week in Kentucky.

This will be the 21st year that a special week has been designated in honor of the state's manufacturing industries. A highlight of the annual observance will be the Governor's Industry Appreciation Luncheon to be held September 4, at the Executive Inn West, Louisville.

At that time Governor Collins will recognize Kentucky's new manufacturing industries and existing firms that have expanded between August 1, 1984, and July 31, 1985. The governor will also honor seven industries observing their 100th anniversary this year. Two other awards, the Governor's Exporter of the Year and the Corporate Citizen of the Year, will be presented at the luncheon.

According to Secretary of Commerce Carroll Knicely, 129 new plants, 380 plant expansions, and 17 new supportive industries were announced between August last year and July of this year. He said some 21,500 new jobs were announced as a result of these new and expanded industries.

Calendar year 1984 was a record year for the number of new jobs announced in Kentucky—22,009. Kentucky ranked sixth nationally last year in the number of new manufacturing plants and expansions announced. Through the first seven months of 1985, 12,582 new jobs have been announced in Kentucky, according to Knicely.

Noting the importance of manufacturing in Kentucky, Knicely said over 256,000 workers are employed in manufacturing jobs. He said manufacturing accounts for one out of every five jobs in Kentucky.

To Handle Concession At Jenny Wiley Fest

The Cow Creek Volunteer Fire Department will be handling the concession again this year at Jenny Wiley Amphitheater during Jenny Wiley Folk Festival, Sept. 5, 6, 7, and 8.

Everyone will enjoy the music and our hotdogs, baked goods and fried apple pies.

IF A DEATH OCCURS AWAY FROM HOME HOW DO I HANDLE THE ARRANGEMENTS?

Should the death of a loved one occur while traveling in this country or overseas, call us immediately. We can handle several of the additional and necessary procedures incurred when death happens away from home. Our membership or experience with national and international funeral service organizations will help a lot. We have access to the services of funeral homes almost anywhere and we can make the arrangements with less confusion and expense.
We'll confer with you by phone and follow your wishes as we always do. Our services can include making arrangements for burial at home, at the location of death or elsewhere. Especially on overseas death there are problems which would need our care and attention.
No matter the hour of day or night, remember the telephone operator can put you in contact with us. Your wishes will receive the same concern and care away from home which we give here at home. Using our services as the PRIMARY SOURCE will avoid any duplication of effort and fees. We've known of situations which caused much needless grief and doubled expenses because no primary source was chosen. Call us for any particular details.

... about your Social Security

Update Earnings Report

People getting Social Security benefits who made a report of their estimated earnings for 1985 early in the year should be sure to report any changes in their estimate that has taken place since the report was filed. Or, if they did not make a report because they did not expect to earn over the annual earnings limit but their circumstances have changed, they should also report this to the Social Security office.

The monthly benefits of working people are based on their estimate of earnings reported on their annual earnings report to Social Security, due by April 15 of each year. Failure to report expected earnings over the limit could result in an overpayment. The law states that overpayments must be repaid either through deductions from future checks or through refunds.

In 1985, the earnings limits are $7,320 for people 65 through 69 and $5,400 for people under 65. People 70 and over during all of 1985 are not affected by the earnings test.

Failure to report changes in earnings is one of the major causes of overpayments.

Letters will go out next month to people in target groups most likely to be overpaid because of excess earnings. The letters ask people to update their estimates of 1985 earnings, if necessary, to avoid overpayment problems.

Many people wait until after the end of the year when they file their annual report to notify Social Security of earnings over the annual limit. However, by this time the overpayment may have accumulated to the point where repayment may create a hardship.

A change in earnings may be reported to any Social Security office by phone, mail, or in person. The Big Sandy Area Social Security Office is located on U.S. 23 North between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. The telephone number is listed in your local telephone directory under U.S. Government.

"School Night For Scouting" Slated in County, Sept. 12

All elementary schools in Floyd county will open Sept. 12 to host "School Night for Scouting," a special annual program sponsored by the Blue Grass Council, Boy Scouts of America.

"Our goal is to enroll every boy in Floyd county who would like to be a Tiger Cub, Cub Scout or Boy Scout," said Dr. John Fairchild, School Night chairman for this county. "The Blue Grass Council registered more than 4,000 new Scouts at School Night in 1984 and we hope to sign up even more boys this year."

Boys age 7 and older are eligible to join Scouting, and they can enroll by bringing their parents to the School Night at their school. The time will be 7 p.m.

Alice McDonald, superintendent of Public Instruction, is chairman of the School Night program. Mrs. McDonald heads a group of more than 1,000 adult volunteers who will conduct the School

Night meetings.

During each School Night, adult volunteers will explain the Tiger Cub, Cub Scout and Boy Scout programs and enroll new members. Parents are asked to attend to be informed of Scouting activities.

Boys ages 7 through 10, or in the second through fifth grades, may join Tiger Cubs or Cub Scouting. Those 11 or older, or in the sixth grade, may join Boy Scouts.

FLOYD COUNTY SCHOOLS MENU

(Sept. 2 thru Sept. 6)
MONDAY, Sept. 2—No school Labor Day!

TUESDAY, Breakfast—Toast with honey/butter, orange juice, milk. Lunch—Hoagie with cheese on buns, French fries, applesauce and milk.

WEDNESDAY, Breakfast—Donuts, orange juice and milk. Lunch—Pizza, lettuce salad, fruited Jello with Cool Whip, milk.

GOATS

COPYRIGHT 1985 KVMA

Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association
Of increasing importance in Kentucky, as well as in the nation, is the lowly goat.

The common joke about the animal is that it will eat anything and is smelly. And, while their odor is offensive to many people and admitting their tastes are somewhat unique, even in the animal world—the goat has a long history of usefulness to man, dating back to a period of time before written history records were kept.

The dairy goat's association with man covers several areas of utility. Children often find the animal a loving pet, affectionate and playful, and capable of pulling them in a small wagon.

Its meat—called chevon—is a delicacy for some palates, and can be barbecued, baked, fried, broiled and stewed. Its hide, properly cured, is soft and fine grained, and used to manufacture many kinds of quality leather goods.

Even its pelletized droppings are useful; they make an excellent organic fertilizer.

The main interest of late is in its milk. Many observers agree there is no perceptible difference between the flavor of properly handled goat milk and cow's milk. Goat milk, however, does appear to be whiter than whole cow's milk, and butter and cheese made from goat's milk are white.

While it is not regarded as a miracle food or cure-all, it does have distinct characteristics which make it beneficial. The fat globules are smaller than those in cow's milk and the curd is softer and smaller, making digestion easier.

Many persons who are allergic to cow's milk tolerate and thrive on goat's milk.

From the farmer's viewpoint, the goat is an efficient animal. Small and easily handled, it can be kept on small parcels of land. The ratio of feed to milk is favorable economically.

Dairy goats have a lifespan of eight to twelve years and have been kept successfully in all climates. They have a strong herding instinct and prefer the companionship of at least one other goat.

They graze well on Kentucky pastures.

Goats are susceptible to essentially the same diseases as cattle, and most Kentucky veterinarians with large animal practices are knowledgeable in this field, both in training and in practice.

Rain Gives Boost To Crops

"Recent rains kept most Kentucky farmers out of their fields, but the rain also supplied a needed boost to crops, especially late-planted crops," says Agriculture Commissioner David E. Boswell of the state crop situation.

"We were afraid for awhile that our good luck with rainfall amounts this summer was going to change, but this rain put us back in good shape again," Boswell said.

The moisture levels across the state are rated as 10 percent surplus, 68 percent adequate and 22 percent short.

On the days suitable for fieldwork, the primary farm activities included weed control on soybeans, haying, a limited amount of corn harvest and tobacco topping, cutting and housing.

"Burley cutting is well under way at 18 percent complete," Boswell said. Last year, burley cutting was only 4 percent complete at this date.

"The tobacco is rated as 14 percent excellent, 66 percent good, 19 percent fair and 1 percent poor," Boswell said. "This indicates a pretty good crop."

Corn development continues to be several weeks ahead of the average. A few early-planted fields were harvested last week. Silage harvest is also under way.

"Statewide, 88 percent of the crop is in the dough stage or beyond, compared with 70 percent last year and an average of 73 percent. Denting has occurred on 56 percent of the crop, compared with 26 percent last year and 35 percent on the average," Boswell said.

The condition of the corn is reported as 25 percent excellent, 64 percent good and 11 percent fair.

Late-planted soybeans were prime beneficiaries of the rain. Crop condition was reported as 13 percent fair, 70 percent good and 17 percent excellent, improved from last week.

Soybeans are now 82 percent blooming or beyond, compared with 71 percent last year and an average of 73 percent. As of Sunday, Aug. 18, pods were being set on 42 percent of the acreage, ahead of last year's 30 percent and 32 percent for the average.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Mary Newsome at Ligon would like to thank each and everyone for their kindness, and those who sent donations, food, flowers, or just for being a friend when her brother, Joseph Terry, passed away. A special thanks to Hasadore Reynolds, Don Fraley, Jr. and Ralph Hill, also to Buddy and Helen Smith. There's not enough words I could really say, but thanks from the bottom of our hearts for being good friends in our need of help. A special thanks to every church that sent donations. Also a special thanks to Hall Brothers Funeral Home for all your help.

FAMILY OF MARY NEWSOME

Grain sorghum continues to be rated mostly good. The yield for Kentucky is forecast at 75 bushels per acre as of Aug. 1. Hay crops and pastures continue to be rated fair to mostly good. The apple harvest will begin this week in Casey county.
