

Monsanto Sued For $30 Million In Pike County

A multi-million-dollar lawsuit filed in Pike Circuit Court shortly before Christmas seeks compensation for former employees of a Pikeville junkyard who claim their health was jeopardized by exposure to toxic chemicals.

Principal defendant in the suit is the Monsanto Company, manufacturer of a lubricant once used in the construction of electrical transformers. The lubricant was rich in synthetic compounds called polychlorinated biphenyls (PCBs), which have long been known to cause toxic effects in workers exposed to them over long periods.

The exposure of employees at the former Libby Iron and Metal Co. yard on the Williamson road was first brought to public attention a year ago in an exclusive Floyd County Times story, which reported that soil samples taken from the site by state environmental inspectors showed PCB levels as high as 1000 parts per million. It was the first recorded instance of PCB pollution in eastern Kentucky.

At the time, the site—next to the Piggly Wiggly supermarket in the Town and (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

Okay Fire Districts For Allen, Maytown

In Last Official Act...

Roberts Creates Job He May Fill

In one of his last official acts as a member of Floyd Fiscal Court, Right Beaver Magistrate Kenneth Roberts moved Monday for the creation of a position in the sheriff's department for which the magistrate is himself being considered.

The motion, which was seconded by Magistrate Lowell Samons and passed unanimously by the court on the recommendation of Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo, allocates $2000 a month in county funds to pay two additional sheriff's deputies.

Sheriff Henry Hale said after Monday's fiscal court meeting that Gillis Conn, of Mud Creek, will be one of the new deputies. He acknowledged that Roberts is being considered for the other position. The sheriff also acknowledged that one question complicating Roberts' appointment is whether the retiring (See Story No. 2, Page 4)

Two new fire protection districts were established by fiscal court order Monday, the latest in a series of actions prompted by rising homeowners' insurance costs.

After three public readings, ordinances establishing special taxation districts in the Allen and Maytown areas were approved by the court. Fire officials in those districts may levy a tax of a dollar for every $1000 of assessed property value, beginning with the 1986 tax rolls, but fire district proponents say the tax will be more than offset by decreased insurance premiums.

Fire districts were set up earlier in 1985 in Wayland and Garrett. The ordinance establishing the Allen district was read in court Monday by Roy Compton, and the one establishing the Maytown district by George Gray.

Two Right Beaver men were hired as part-time county detectives on the recommendation of Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo, who explained that they are needed to investigate thefts—especially of mining equipment—and drug dealing. Hired at a rate of $400 a (See Story No. 3, Page 4)

Martin Wins Reversal Of Slaying Conviction

The 1984 conviction of an Estill man in the killing of two brothers there was reversed recently by an appeals court and the case was ordered to be tried anew.

Charles Martin, 42, is expected to be returned to the Floyd county jail from the Bell County Forestry Camp where he has been serving a 20-year sentence for the murder of Reginald G. Lazar and 10 years for the manslaughter of Walter S. Lazar.

In reversing the judgment handed down in May, 1984 by the Floyd Circuit Court, the Supreme Court of Kentucky held that trial judge Hollie Conley erred in not excluding one of the jurors in the case and that Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen may have prejudiced the case against the defendant by suggesting in his closing argument that Martin may have earlier killed his wife.

According to testimony in the case, Martin, a gas station operator, was once a close friend of Walter Lazar but fell out with him when he learned he was having an affair with Martin's wife, Linda. Linda Martin, a schoolteacher here, was (See Story No. 6, Page 4) found dead at home about a month later, an apparent suicide. A Knott count coroner ruled the death accidental.

Witnesses said Walter Lazar blamed Martin for his wife's death. Their enmity culminated in a gunfight in Lazar's home, which left Martin wounded and the Lazar brothers dead, on August 15, 1983. Martin contended he shot the two men in self defense.

In his appeal, in which he was represented by a Lexington attorney with the state Office of Public Advocacy, Martin said he was prejudiced by the prosecutor's implying that he had murdered his wife. "We don't know how she met her death," Commonwealth Attorney Allen said in his closing argument. "We don't know who did it."

"We are not prepared to say that the implications in (Allen's) statement did not result in prejudice to (Martin)," the appellate judges said.

The other ground cited by the appeals court for reversing the lower court ruling was Judge Conley's refusal to dismiss Larry Schuster, who was to become foreman of the trial jury. In pre- (See Story No. 6, Page 4)

This Town...That World

The very first New Year's resolution to be broken: "I resolve to write it 1986."

ENCORE, PLEASE

And now, as before, we all look out onto an expanse of time, days and nights, that are veiled—mercifully, in many cases—by the unknown. Don't brand me a pessimist, but I am at the age when I can't expect this new year to be any better than the old. In fact, I'd settle, this moment, for the assurance of an encore performance from Father Time as the curtain lifts again.

CHRISTMAS REPEATS?

How often have you told others how great it is that Christmas comes only once a year? This is the reaction after we have run in circles till we're dizzy, rounding up gifts, food and all the trappings that have cluttered up the day. But we're wrong, I've decided. If Christmas came oftener—say, every month in the year—custom would stifle the bright spirits of the day and we would go about our business as usual, which would include being foolish about something else.

Echoes of Christmas:

At a Lexington shopping mall Santa questioned two children, a boy of 5 and his three-year-old sister.

City's First Woman Mayor To Be Inducted Wednesday

A new era in Prestonsburg city government begins tomorrow (Wednesday) at 6 p.m., as Ann Latta becomes mayor, the first woman to hold that office here.

Mrs. Latta, who replaces three-term Mayor Harold Cooley, who did not seek re-election, won the May primary over Harry Short and Ed Kuss, and defeated Short in the November run-off. She says she plans to take a stronger role in city government than Cooley, keeping regular office hours at the municipal building and being personally responsible for hiring and firing city employees. Cooley had delegated such responsibility to the city council.

A state law enacted in 1980 (KRS 83A.130) gives the mayor the option to assume such authority.

In addition to Mrs. Latta, four new city council members will be sworn in tomorrow. William P. Callahan, Margie Osborne, Harry Ray Porter and Thomas Tackett will join incumbents Frank Adams, Gary Brown, William O. Goebel, III and Bobby Ranier.

The new mayor's background includes 13 years as a board member of the Democratic Woman's Club of Kentucky. She is past vice-president of the Floyd (See Story No. 5, Page 4)

County Democratic Executive Committee, and was three times a delegate to the state Democratic convention.

She is a graduate of the University of Kentucky School of Journalism, and worked for eight years in the Kentucky Department of Public Information in Frankfort. She was for several years the eastern Kentucky correspondent for the Lexington Herald-Leader and the Huntington (W. Va.) Herald-Dispatch.

Though the new mayor says she does not foresee any radical departures from current city programs, there are certain areas which she says will be emphasized.

"The overall thing, really, is making Prestonsburg the No. 1 city in the mountains," she said. "We don't have many problems, as we've had a good administrator in Harold Cooley. But we need to promote our location. We're right here in the intersection of the Mountain Parkway, US 23 and KY 80. We have good recreation, with Jenny Wiley State Park and Archer Park, and we have good shopping areas. We need to take what we have and focus on it as an attractive area for people to come to."

are especially important to the city's economic future, said Mrs. Latta.

"We need to develop more tourism," she said. "There's that new Toyota plant going in at Georgetown. We may not get a lot of jobs out of it, but we're only two hours away, and in a prime vacation spot."

Animals Low at Midnight...

Old Christmas Party Set at Lodge, Saturday

Old Christmas, the day Christ's birth was celebrated according to the old Julian calendar, will be observed January 5 at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park.

According to legend, at midnight on January 6 (the actual date of Old Christmas) animals kneel and pray. Whether or not that happens, people from throughout the region are expected to gather here to celebrate a part of their heritage that is mostly forgotten in many locales.

The Old Christmas observance became a yearly event here in 1932, when it was begun by Mrs. Edith Fitzpatrick James, and she says not a year has gone by since then that it has not been observed.

Mrs. James said that in the early days Old Christmas was held in school buildings, people's homes or wherever was available. About 15 years ago it was moved to May Lodge.

The celebration is held the Sunday nearest the 6th, said Mrs. James, to accommodate people coming from other areas. It was felt that holding festivities on a week day would greatly lessen the number of people able to attend.

There is no admission, and Mrs. Kathryn Frazier, who is in charge this year, said the whole affair will be "very relaxed."

"The program is definitely not formal," said Mrs. Frazier. "When we dance, we want everyone who will to join in."

Music and other traditional entertainment is scheduled to be provided by a number of area residents.

The Festival Band, official band of the folk festival, will play. John Skaggs will sing, and Tom Whitaker will sing and pick guitar. Also singing will be L. B. Fairchild and Betty Rowland, as well as Tim and Elma Jessen. David Leslie will play the piano.

Mrs. Laura Weddle will read the sketch, "The Cattle Low at Midnight," and there will be story tellers and square dancing.

Hot spiced tea, hot cider and ginger bread will be served as refreshments.

Mrs. Frazier said there was "a really good crowd" last year, including people from as far away as Minnesota. She says she expects a similar turn-out this year.

Mrs. James said that in the early part of the century, all twelve days of Christmas—from December 25 through (See Story No. 9, Page 4)

School Resumes Thursday

For those who may have lost track of the calendar over the holiday season, classes resume for all Floyd public school students on Thursday, weather permitting.

TIMBERS IN THIS RAILROAD TUNNEL near Hi Hat are expected to continue burning for perhaps three weeks. The blaze apparently began between 9 and 9:30 Thursday night, with "an explosion, but not like dynamite, like a fire roaring," according to Ronnie Meade, whose home is near the tunnel. Meade's son, James, first noticed the flames shooting from the mouth of the tunnel as high as 200 feet into the air shortly after 9 o'clock. Although Sheriff's Deputy Harold Johnson said he suspected arson, officials of the C&O Railroad and Kentucky State Police said Monday their investigations are incomplete.

Floyd Bridge Jobs To Cost State Almost $4 Million

The two major Floyd county bridges being replaced this year by new construction no longer play the key roles in transportation that they once did, but they're there, still used by many people, and the state is investing upwards of $4 million in the new bridges to make travel as safe as possible.

One is the bridge under construction across the Big Sandy at Allen, at one time the vital link between KY 80 and US 23, but now less heavily used because KY 80 has been rerouted from Water Gap to Martin. Construction of the new span by G & G Contracting, Williamsburg, Ky., was 34% complete as of Dec. 8, the Pikeville district office, state Department of Transportation, said. The bridge itself and approaches will cost $1,812,132, with right-of-way acquisition adding about $490,000 to the overall outlay on the project.

The second bridge construction project will replace the 58-year-old span across the Big Sandy at Cliff. Originally built as a key link on US 23, it is now of more local importance, since the (See Story No. 7, Page 4) main highway follows the river north to Paintsville and points north. It is mainly used by traffic to the heavily populated Little Paint and Abbott Creek sections and the developing area downstream from Cliff.

Contract on the Cliff bridge was recently awarded to the Prestonsburg-based firm of Bush & Burchett, Inc., on its low bid of $1,950,000. The two-lane structural steel span with concrete deck will be located a few yards downstream from the old bridge and will be approximately 600 feet in length.

Joe A. Burchett, member of the contracting firm, said this week the beginning of construction waits only on two things—a work order and the weather. Work is expected to begin by March 1. The contractors have 200 working days in which to do the job but they expect its completion late this year.

As in the case of the Allen bridge, the Cliff contract includes the removal of the old bridge which will be open to traffic until the new construction is completed.

Evans Announces City Plan For Youth Center at Park

Prestonsburg teenagers will have a new place to gather and socialize soon, if plans for a youth center at Archer Park materialize.

City Administrator David Evans said construction is set to begin in the old pool ticket office to convert it to a combination grill-youth center, with completion targeted for spring. The existing grill near the park entrance will be closed, with the building being converted to offices.

Evans said the youth center would operate during the evening, with the grill doing business in daytime hours.

To gain entry to the center, teenagers will be issued passes. Evans said that all city youth would be eligible for such (See Story No. 7, Page 4) passes, but admission would be denied those who caused disturbance.

The city is applying for a $25,000 grant from American Express to fund the center, but even if the grant is not approved, Evans says, the center will still be established.

The question of getting the American Express grant was raised by local merchant Huck Francis. Evans said Francis called him several weeks ago after receiving a letter from the company detailing "Project Hometown America," which is designed to "fund innovative approaches to solving local problems through new or existing organizations across the nation."

Is Small Farmer On Way Out?

Agricultural production is increasingly being centered on farms with sales of $500,000 or more, according to the most recent U.S. Census done in 1982.

Farms with at least a half million dollars in sales accounted for 22 percent of all farm sales in 1974 and 28 percent in 1978, according to the U.S. Commerce Department's Bureau of the Census.

"These farms made up only a small number of the total of all farms in 1982, only 1.2 percent, but they accounted for one-third of the value of agricultural products sold," said Agriculture Commissioner David E. Boswell.

The relatively few farms with sales of at least $500,000 tended to dominate the market for the major crops. This can be easily seen from Census Bureau figures.

—The larger farms accounted for only 4 percent of the farms selling vegetables, but made 69 percent of the vegetable sales.

—They accounted for only 3 percent of fruit, nut and berry farms, but accounted for 52 percent of the sales.

—They accounted for only 7 percent of cotton farms, but 46 percent of the sales.

—They accounted for only 5 percent of nursery products farms, but 62 percent of nursery sales.

The larger farms also dominated the livestock industry. These farms make up only 1 percent of the farms selling cattle, but had 49 percent of the sales.

Farms with $500,000 worth of sales or more also made up only 1 percent of the sheep and horse farms, but they accounted for 33 percent of the sheep, lamb and wool sales, and for 49 percent of the horse sales.

The poultry industry was also concentrated on the large farms, particularly on the turkey farms, where 69 percent of the turkeys were sold from the large farms.

For all poultry operations, 51 percent of the sales come from 4 percent of the farms.

"I think these figures indicate some important changes taking place in the American family farm," Boswell said. "The figures suggest either that family farms are becoming significantly larger and fewer, or, more likely, that larger corporate farms are simply crowding out the family farms as we have known them."

Pike College
2nd Semester
Owl Program

The Pikeville College "Owl" (evening college) program will be registering students for its spring semester of classes January 4, 6, 7, and 8. This program is specially designed for adult students seeking an associate degree in business management. Classes are scheduled in sequential modules and students obtain the associate degree by taking two courses twice weekly, on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, for ten semesters. Students may enroll in this program any semester and still complete the associate degree in ten semesters of study.

According to Pikeville College enrollment information, 25 students completed classes during the 1985 fall semester and will continue their program during the upcoming spring term. Andrew Poulos and his wife, Sheila, were among those completing a data processing class. According to Poulos, "There was an adjustment, being back in the classroom after 10 years or so, but I really enjoyed the class, and I plan to finish the associate degree in this program."

Many of the students are employed at part-time and fulltime jobs in addition to taking evening classes at Pikeville College. Poulos noted that taking these classes did not interfere with his job in any way. In fact, he mentioned that he did homework on his personal computer at home. Also, according to Poulos, being in a class with older (non-traditional) students made everyone feel more comfortable.

Owl classes are held in two sessions during the Tuesday and Thursday evenings. Session I classes begin at 6 p.m. and Session II classes begin at 7:30 p.m. During the 1986 spring semester, two classes have been added to the originally scheduled modules. Session I classes are ENG 111 (Composition I), ENG 112 (Composition II), and BUS 323 (Business Law I). Session II classes are BUS 101 (Introduction to Business), ACC 232 (Principles of Accounting II), and SPH 225 (Speech and Discussion). ENG 112, and ACC 232 have a prerequisite requirement, which means they are the second class in a series and the first class (ENG 111 and ACC 231) must have been successfully completed in order to enroll in the second part.

There are several registration times and locations possible for those interested in being "owl" students. Check dates and times below for the most convenient for you.

January 4, 10 a.m.-2 p.m., Admissions Office in the Administration Bldg.; January 6-7, 9 a.m.-12 noon, 1 p.m.-7 p.m., Administration Bldg. Lobby; January 8, 1 p.m.-4 p.m., 5:30-7 p.m., Armington Science-Learning Center.

The Admissions Office will be open January 4 from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. to talk with anyone interested in attending Pikeville College, especially in the owl program. Prospective Owl program students (or anyone thinking of enrolling in this evening program) can meet with an admissions counselor, discuss career goals, and actually register for the spring semester of classes. There will also be valuable information available about academic counseling, financial aid, payment options, and general college procedures.

For more information about the program, registration, or classes available, contact the Admissions Office at (606) 432-9322, or the Registrar's Office at (606) 432-9369.

Centre Gets NEH Grant

The National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) announced recently that Centre College is one of 41 educational and cultural institutions in 23 states to be awarded a challenge grant for 1985.

Centre has been awarded a NEH grant of $1,600,000-$400,000 in federal funds and $1,200,000 to be raised in a three-to-one match from the private sector.

Centre is the only institution in Kentucky to be awarded an NEH Challenge Grant. Centre president Richard L. Morrill said, "this grant is in recognition of Centre's leadership in and commitment to education in the humanities."

The $1,600,000 grant will be used by the college to establish two distinguished professorships, one in each curricular division containing humanities programs, and to establish a humanities enrichment fund to support teaching and scholarship with a special focus on the activities of the two endowed chairs.

"Centre has a long and rich tradition of liberal education," said Morrill. "The study of the humanities is central to the College's curriculum, and this award will allow us to strengthen and secure a humanities program of notable vitality and to move it to a level of leadership and wider consequence," he said.

The challenge grants for 1985 were announced by NEH Acting Chairman John Agresto. When matched three-to-one by private sector money raised by the grant recipients, the $14.9 million in federal dollars will stimulate an additional $44.7 million in new institutional support.

"The grants just announced bring the number of awards to 833 since the program began in 1977," said Agresto, "and the total federal money offered in challenge grants to date is nearly $217 million."

Centre is one of only 12 colleges to be awarded NEH grants (12 universities also were named NEH grant recipients), and on a per-student basis, Centre's grant is the largest made to an educational institution.

Health Council To Fill
4 Membership Positions

"The Big Sandy Health Council is seeking to fill four membership positions in order to comply with the recently revised state standards of council membership. To be a viable and visible local health planning council which reflects the broad interests of the total district population, members must be residents of the Big Sandy area (Floyd, Pike, Martin, Magoffin, and Johnson counties) with each county having a representative. Council membership shall be composed of consumers and providers of health care, with a consumer majority. Terms of membership are to be designated for two years with the possibility of a second term."

Nominations for membership to the Big Sandy Health Council may be submitted to Taunya Shelton, Health Planner, Big Sandy Area Development District, 2nd Floor Municipal Building, Prestonsburg, or call 886-9402."

LISA WOLFORD, Betsy Layne High School student, received a $50 prize recently for her entry in a literary magazine title contest sponsored by the school-community partnership committee of the Floyd County Education Forum. Making the award is Allen Central High School teacher Willie Elliott.

Changes In Fishing Regulations

In an effort to solve a use conflict at Smithland Dam on the Ohio River, the Fish and Wildlife Commission voted Dec. 13 to prohibit the use of sport fishing trotlines and all commercial fishing gear (except slat baskets) from the area extending from the dam downstream to the end of the lock wall, a distance of approximately 400 yards. Previously, the use of commercial fishing gear and sport fishing trotlines was allowed to within 200 yards of the dam.

A symptom of the disease is denial.

Most substance abusers won't admit to themselves, let alone someone else, that a problem even exists. That's why helping them seek treatment can be slow and painful.

Country shopping plaza on KY 119—was being prepared for construction of a larger store by Williamson Piggly Wiggly, Inc. The company voluntarily suspended operations after a Pike County Health Department environmentalist alerted the firm to the potential health hazard there.

State environmental authorities cleared the tract for construction in early December after a large volume of earth was excavated and removed.

Before the company folded in December, 1979, Libby Iron and Metal operated a scrap metal yard on the prospective supermarket site, which drained into Ferguson Creek and the Big Sandy River. The firm bought junked transformers for salvage from the Kentucky Power Company.

The colorless oil in the core of the bulky transformers routinely spilled on to the ground during handling, Joe Stone, the scrap metal yard's most recent operator, told The Times last December. Workers sometimes burned the oil for warmth in winter, and some of it was used to help settle dust on the runway of the old Pikeville airport, adjacent to the residential Pauley Addition, he said.

Stone is one of the plaintiffs in the suit filed on December 18, which lists as plaintiffs 60 former employees of Libby Iron and Metal, or their survivors. Each demands $500,000 in damages from Monsanto and $100,000 from five other defendants, including the Westinghouse Electric Corporation, manufacturer of the transformers. Kentucky Power is also named as a defendant but is not being sued for damages.

The former junkyard workers claim they were repeatedly exposed to massive amounts of PCBs and similar compounds. The transformers they handled were defective in design and manufacture and were "unreasonably dangerous," they allege in the suit.

Manufacturers of the transformer lubricant were negligent in not adequately researching the effects of long-term PCB exposure, in not warning them of the potential dangers, and in failing to implement a plan for safe handling of the toxic material, plaintiffs allege.

Monsanto deliberately failed to warn Kentucky Power, Westinghouse Electric and the other defendants of the hazards associated with PCBs; when the other defendants learned of the danger, they deliberately failed to pass that information on to Libby Iron and Metal Co. workers, the suit says.

All defendants were aware of a 1944 study detailing precautions to be taken in handling PCBs, but withheld that information from them, plaintiffs claim. Moreover, a 1972 indemnity agreement signed by Monsanto and Westinghouse officials shows they were aware of the harmful effects of PCBs but the agreement was kept secret, the suit alleges.

In a distinct charge of fraud and concealment, Monsanto is accused of changing some wording in a 1975 toxicological study, in a way that deceived other defendants in the case. The study originally reported PCB to be "slightly tumorigenic"—that is, having a slight tendency to cause the growth of tumors. The altered version says the chemical "does not appear to be carcinogenic" or cancer-causing, according to the suit.

In test animals, PCBs have been associated with reproductive problems and liver cancers; they have also been shown to cause liver damage in humans. The EPA banned their production in 1976.

The Libby workers' suit seeks punitive as well as actual damages, in order to deter other companies from "engaging in similar intentional and reckless exposure of workers to toxic chemicals."

Barry Burrus, chief of the uncontrolled sites section of the state Division of Waste Management, confirmed Friday that the Williamson Road site "has been cleaned up." The months-long operation was concluded in early December and the site has been cleared for construction, he said.

"Several hundred" cubic yards of polluted soil were removed in the operation, Burrus said. Highly contaminated soil was taken to a hazardous waste landfill in Alabama while soil with relatively low levels of contamination—under 50 parts per million—was disposed of at the Pike county landfill, which is approved for disposal of such material, the state official said.

(Claims made in the filing of a lawsuit represent only one version of the issues in dispute.)

The new detectives, who will be attached to the office of County Attorney David Barber, will be paid out of funds saved by his not employing a deputy judge-executive, said Stumbo, who acknowledged he did not know if either man had any training for the job. Boling is a member of the Floyd Democratic Executive Committee.

As has become customary, over half the county road workers were laid off for the winter months. Laid off until March were 17 of the county's 28 road workers. Those retained on the payroll were roads foreman Shelly Woods, heavy equipment operators Ray Hill, Ronald Mullins, Phillip Hagans, Troy Jarrell, Linzie Conn, Jr., and Ernest G. Burchett, truck drivers Charles Lewis and Michael McCormick, mechanic Anthony R. Moore and timekeeper Vickie R. Moore.

The court voted to set aside $30,000 to match a state grant in the same amount, for which the county is applying. The grant, administered by the state Department for Local Government, would permit the laying of grass greens on the golf course at the Allen county park. A further $20,000 was set aside as the county's contribution toward construction by the state of a proposed bridge to serve the Goble-Roberts Addition.

The first contract was let for improvements of the Mud Creek Water District, Elliott Contracting successfully bidding on a contract calling for installation of two pump stations. The bid price: $40,482. A grant and loan package totalling $520,000 has been awarded for the restoration project.

Reappointed to the board of Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc. were Robert McAninch, John Allen, Ned Bush, Edward Caudill and Otis Johnson. Appointed to the board of the Floyd County Extension District were Arnold Lowe and Ernest Prater.

Our Yesterdays

Ten Years Ago

(December 31, 1975)

The office of Congressman Carl D. Perkins announced Monday that the Farmers Home Administration (FHA) had approved a loan of $150,000 to the city of Prestonsburg for enlargement of the water system here to a capacity of 2 million gallons a day. Two arrests for liquor violations were recorded at the county jail over the holidays and constituted the most serious charges during a two-week period which was, otherwise, quiet. Several factors contributed to the collision of an automobile and a school bus on the Mountain Parkway, opposite the Clark school, near here, early Monday morning, but the missing safety feature so badly needed, according to Wayne Ratliff, Jr., transportation director for the Floyd County Board of Education, was traffic lights or some other type of traffic control at the scene. Workmen recently began the task of tearing down the large, two-story frame house on the corner of Arnold Avenue and Graham streets here. One of the last of Prestonsburg's older houses, the structure was built about 75 years ago by the late George P. Archer, well-known banker. The house site will be used as a parking lot for the First United Methodist Church. The Goins Brothers, nationally-known Bluegrass musicians, presented their first half-hour segment of a weekly show, Tuesday night on WKYH television, Hazard. A total of 92 students from Floyd county were enrolled at Eastern Kentucky University for the 1975 fall semester. The "Old Christmas" celebration, first observed here more than 35 years ago, will be held at May Lodge Jan. 11, according to founder and director, Edith Fitzpatrick James. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Roger Price, of River, a daughter, Audrey Elaine, December 9 at Highlands Regional Medical Center; to Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Dale Newsome, of Price, a son, Shannon Dale, Dec. 8 at HRMC. There died: John Wes Burchett, 70, of Cow Creek, December 20 at Highlands Regional Medical Center; Ward Terry, 57, of Handshoe, December 23 at HRMC; Elbert Howell, 71, of Martin, last Friday near West Liberty where he was visiting with members of his family; Mrs. Lula Belle Dale, 56, of Ivel, Dec. 19 at HRMC; Adrian R. Eckert, 51, of Wayland, Dec. 22 at his home; Mrs. Mary B. Pratt, 69, of Garrett, Dec. 24 at HRMC; George Salisbury, 79, of Printer, Dec. 23 at his home; Mrs. Nina McGuire Spears, 94, native of Johns Creek who had made her home here with her daughters for the past seven years, Dec. 18 at the home of Mrs. Norma Stepp.

Twenty Years Ago

(December 23, 1965)

Frank Hall, 49-year-old Teaberry miner, died last Thursday at the McDowell Appalachian Regional hospital of injuries sustained a short time earlier in a slatefall in the Sterling Hamilton mine at Teaberry. Tom O. McGuire, building contractor and member of the Prestonsburg City Council, was elected president of the Prestonsburg Development Corporation at the firm's first election of officers last Thursday evening. County Judge Henry Stumbo was elected chairman of the new organization of county judges of the seven counties of this highway district at a meeting Tuesday at Jenny Wiley State Park. A Saturday night raid on the Dewey Lake Improvement Association Club, near Lancer, resulted in the arrest of its owner and the confiscation of a varied assortment of liquors. Apparent low bidder on construction of an addition to the state's Economic Security building here is W. R. Kendrick, Prestonsburg contractor, it was announced last week. There died: Mrs. Marie Adkins, 50, of Allen, December 20 at Our Lady of the Way hospital, Martin; Grover Johnson, 75, Friday morning at his home at Weeksbury; Mrs. Mary C. Johns, 84, of Eastern, December 17 at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin; Miss Luraney Pitts, 73, of West Prestonsburg, December 19 at the Prestonsburg General hospital; Arvel Combs, 45, of Martin, Dec. 15 at the Veterans' Administration hospital, Huntington, W. Va.; Garfield Blankenship, 66, December 19 at his home at Minnie; Elick Patton, 66, of Mantion, Dec. 17 at Our Lady of the Way hospital, Martin. (In the Dec. 17 listing of "Twenty Years Ago," we mistakenly listed among the obituaries, B. L. "Bev" Burchett. The correct name should have been B. L. "Bev" Sturgill, former county official, who died Dec. 9, 1965.)

Thirty Years Ago

(December 22, 1955)

Immediately after hearing testimony in a preliminary hearing delving into the death of 31-year-old Clyde Manna, who died in a fist fight Sunday afternoon at the Miners' Club at Hunter, Judge Henry Stumbo issued an order directing Sheriff Gorman Collins to close the club. State police have been instructed not to operate in Prestonsburg, the Times learned this week. The state was officially promised a medical school at the University of Kentucky Tuesday. Floyd county will join 10,000 other communities of the country in launching the 1956 March of Dimes on Tuesday, Jan. 3, and the campaign will continue through Jan. 31. Between Sunday School and church services Sunday, the Rev. Harold W. Dorsey, pastor of the Methodist Church here, officially became chaplain of the Prestonsburg fire department. Married: Miss Beatrice Sturgill, and Mr. David B. Leslie, of Prestonsburg, December 20 here. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Luther Hicks, of Turkey Creek, a daughter, Brenda, December 5 at the Beaver Valley hospital. There died: Joe Wheeler Holbrook, 42, formerly of the Middle Creek section, last Wednesday in an automobile accident near LaPorte, Indiana; Mrs. Betty Lewis Endicott, 82, Tuesday at her home on Daniel's Creek near Ivel; Denver Amburgey, 42, Wednesday at Price; Sie Tackett, 50, last Sunday at his home at Weeksbury; George Byran Ratliff, native of Harold, last Saturday at his home at Vinton, Ohio; Mrs. Rebecca Harmon Hubbard, 74, Monday at her home at Dock; Willie DeLong, 54, of Ivel, last Wednesday at Peru, Indiana.

Forty Years Ago

(December 20, 1945)

The Johns Creek flood control dam at Dewey, this county, became a certainty Saturday with approval by the U.S. Senate of a $124,775,000 navigation and flood control bill passed by the House recently. Floyd county appeared this week to be well past its $765,000 Victory Loan quota. Judge E. P. Hill, Jr., said. Wayne Ratliff, principal of the Wheelwright consolidated school, Wednesday announced that a reward of $100 will be paid for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who entered the school Monday night and stole a safe containing cash and other valuables worth an estimated $800. Jim Hunt, 62, well-known resident of Prestonsburg, was instantly killed late Tuesday afternoon in the mines of the Sandy Valley Coal Company at Water Gap when his neck was broken by a slatefall. Married: Miss Recca Harmon, of West Prestonsburg, and Mr. Samuel Kennis Hatcher, of Prestonsburg, December 16 at the Methodist parsonage here; Miss Bonnie L. Leslie, of Emma, and Signalman I-C Wyman Walters, also of Emma, November 16 in Baltimore, Md.; Miss Billie Dale, of Wayland, and Mr. Jack Hammett, of Parkersburg, W. Va., Dec. 9 at the Wayland Methodist Church. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. George M. Laven, of Cliff, a daughter, Tommie Carol, Dec. 8 at the Paintsville General hospital; to Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Salisbury, a son, Vernon, Jr., Dec. 15 at Beaver Valley hospital, Martin; to Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hackworth, of Portsmouth, O., a son, James Cecil, Dec. 11 at Portsmouth. There died John Hale, 59, Thursday at his home here; Elwood Rone, 75, Saturday at his home at Maytown; Mrs. Dacy Hall, Sunday at the home of her parents on Town Branch; Mrs. Martha Mullins Ferrell, 69, Sunday at the home of her daughter on Cow Creek; George W. Woods, 67, Monday at his home at Allen.

Fifty Years Ago

(December 20, 1935)

At the second meeting of the new city council Tuesday night, Joe Hobson was appointed city attorney, and J. M. Davidson was re-appointed city clerk. Contracts for the construction of a gymnasium for the Lackey consolidated school and for a three-room addition to the Drift school and remodeling of the school were awarded Saturday by the Floyd county board of education to B. T. Frasure, of Teaberry on his bid of $26,729 for the two projects. The reduced coal rate ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission for the product of Big Sandy mines, and approved by the Supreme Court, went into effect Sunday. Attacked by a German police dog, Miss Katherine Mellon was severely bitten Saturday morning on First Avenue here. There died: Jeff Bradley, 60, of Estill, December 10 at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin; Dr. W. B. Hopkins, 79, for the last few years a pharmacist in this county, December 7 at Martin.

"What do you want for Christmas?" he asked the boy. The youngster shuffled his feet and made no outright reply. Then the Old Gent turned to the younger child. "What do you want?" he asked.

And almost lost his whiskers when the tyke boldly replied, "Cash—lots of cash!"

Quoth the embryonic Liberated Woman.

QUESTION

Sid Bailey, of Eastern, is a ham radio operator and he pretty well ranges the world, sending and receiving messages, listening in on others. Just before Christmas, he was playing the listener's role as two others, apparently "furriners," were battling the breeze or the airways.

What made the conversation between the two memorable was the question one of the two asked:

"I'm somewhere south of Paintsville, Kentucky. Tell me, where is this place, 'Falling Rock,' located?"

RETURN OF THE WANDERERS

A newspaper story which last week told of a husband showing up at his home in a New York town after an absence of 15 years during which he reportedly had suffered from amnesia recalls a similar absence of a wayfaring husband in this county many years ago.

This man, so the story goes, was gone seven years. He did not wander off in a mental haze; he was sent. It was in the days before matches were readily available. At that time a fire was kept burning in almost every home, day and night, because getting a blaze started anew was a slow and laborious process. It was said that at one home the fire had never been permitted to die out for 75 years.

Anyway, this householder who stayed away seven years was sent by his wife to borrow some fire from a neighbor, because they had failed to keep their own home fires burning.

The record does not detail the missing husband's whereabouts or travels during the seven years. Nor is there a record of his wife's remarks or of his explanation of his absence when he did show up. But one thing is certain. He didn't plead amnesia. Mainly because the word wasn't a part of his rather limited vocabulary.

One thing can be said for the guy. In all that time he had not forgotten the wife's orders. When he came home he dutifully carried a shovelful of live coals that he had borrowed from the nearest neighbor.

trial questioning by defense attorney Gary Johnson, the potential juror made a reference to his "300 hours of formal training"—Schuster served in an intelligence unit during a four-year stint with the U.S. Coast Guard—and expressed a reservation about his ability to render a fair verdict.

"I am willing to try," Schuster said. The appellate court held, however, that Judge Conley should have acceded to the defense attorney's request to have the juror step down from the case.

Attorney Johnson argued after the appeals court announced its ruling that, since Martin's conviction for manslaughter in the death of Walter Lazar implied acquittal of the murder with which he was charged, he cannot be retried for murder in Walter Lazar's death.

In any event, re-trial on both counts may be avoided if a plea bargain is struck, the defense attorney noted.

3 Months in Jail, $407 Fine Follow Chase, Auto Wreck

An early-morning chase ended for Michael L. Burchett, 23, of the Dixie Heights housing project, when he lost control of his auto on Mine Branch of Bull Creek.

Burchett was sentenced to a three months' jail term and ordered to pay $407 in fine, fees and court costs after pleading guilty to charges of driving under the influence of drugs, reckless driving, speeding, driving on a suspended license, attempting to elude a police officer, wanton endangerment, possession of marijuana and having no insurance.

Prestonsburg police Sgt. Gerald Clark said he tried to pull Burchett over on the Goble Roberts road around 2:30 a.m. on Dec. 8 but Burchett took off on KY 3 at speeds of up to 90 m.p.h. After he wrecked on Mine Branch, Burchett admitted he had been smoking marijuana, Clark said.

Entering guilty pleas on drunk driving charges last week were Curtis L. Frasure, 20, of Martin (sentenced to one day of public service, given a 30-day license suspension, and ordered to pay $407); Linda Archer, 42, of Paintsville (two days' public service, 30-day suspension, $157); and Byron Sparkman, 59, of Larkslane (30-day suspension, $407). Edward Lee Nichols, 26, of Pikeville, was sentenced to 30 days and fined $207 on charges of drunk driving, driving on a suspended license, and resisting arrest. He spent 13 days in the county jail and had the remainder of his term probated.

A DUI charge against Jeffery M. Lewis, 22, of West Liberty, was amended to public intoxication at the request of Deputy Sheriff D. Goble, the arresting officer. Lewis was ordered to pay $67.

Latta also plans to work with the Prestonsburg Business Association to help revitalize an ailing downtown, though she emphasizes such revitalization will not come at the expense of Glyn View Plaza and Prestonsburg Village, the new shopping centers.

"Downtown has a unique character of its own," she said, "and I think we can promote that without hurting the suburban areas. The shopping centers are drawing people in—I see license tags there from other counties. If people don't find what they need at the shopping centers, they go downtown."

But, at present, more emphasis would be placed on downtown. "The shopping centers are brand new, they don't need new sidewalks and things like that. In everything in the city, I think we have to look at need."

One thing Latta sees as a possibility to aid downtown is a beautification program which she hopes to implement, including the possibility of resculpting the business district. New store fronts, plants and trees and a type of outdoor mall are in the plans—if the funds become available.

Another problem facing the mayor and new council is one inherited from the previous administration: what to do about cable television here.

Cable entertainment, the franchise holder here, has been under attack for some time by the council for supplying what was felt to be inadequate service. Cable company officials met in November with Mayor Cooley and some of the old council members, after council had voted to seek bids on a new system here. The cable company proposed to upgrade the system, offering more channels and better reception, along with a rate hike of $3 per month. The issue was tabled, pending the new council and mayor taking office.

Latta said a decision on the franchise was a top priority for the new administration, but admitted the new package did not seem extremely attractive.

"The proposal, at $3 more, doesn't provide anything for the people except the opportunity to buy more (services) and, presumably, a better signal," she said.

Latta praised City Administrator David Evans, calling him "an excellent administrator." She said he would continue handling the day-to-day operations of the city, but his role would be more "clear cut."

"It goes back to the line of authority," she said. "The mayor can delegate some of her power, and I think anything I delegate, it'll be to Dave."

She also had good words for Fire Chief Tom Blackburn, Police Chief Stan Fletcher and Street Dept. head Leonard Joseph, saying she was pleased they were staying on and that she was looking forward to working with them.

But all other issues aside, the first order of business for the new mayor and council will be to set regular meeting times, which they will do in special session at 6:30 tomorrow (Wednesday) evening. The meeting time is expected to remain the same, each second and fourth Monday at 7 p.m.

To apply for the grant, Evans prepared "a sort of essay," telling why the center is needed.

"I had to explain that we didn't have such a center, but had a place that could be used," he said.

Evans sees the center as a place young people can go to enjoy themselves without having to spend a lot of money or be tempted to get in trouble.

"It's going to have music, video games and a big screen TV," he said. "Of course there won't be drinking or anything like that. It'll be a place for kids to get together and talk."

Evans is hoping to get adults to volunteer to run the center, and would like to establish a committee of teenagers to oversee aspects such as admission.

Evans said many details had not yet been decided as to the organization and operation of the center, but felt it was something the community had needed for some time.

"There's been a groundswell of support," he said. "We'll start out small, work the bugs out. I think it's a start, something people have talked about on a number of occasions."

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Kohler, of Bypro, announce the forthcoming marriage of their sister, Macel Wells Baxter, of Bypro, Ky., daughter of late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wells, to Mr. Charles Newsome, of Banner, son of the late Alvin and Nannie Newsome, of Teaberry, Ky.

A mid-summer wedding is planned.

Alice McDonald To Speak At Heart Assoc. Dinner

Alice McDonald, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, will be the featured speaker at a kick-off dinner for the American Heart Association's residential and business campaign.

McDonald is the honorary campaign chairman for the American Heart Association in Kentucky. She became active as a volunteer for the organization after her father suffered a serious heart attack. "I'm convinced my father would not be alive today had it not been for the advanced technology that allowed him to undergo bypass surgery last year," she said. "This technology would not even have been available had it not been for the effectiveness of the American Heart Association."

The kick-off dinner will be held at 6 p.m. at the Carriage House, Paintsville. Reservations may be made by calling Helen Neeley, 886-2321, or Carla Robinson Bolton, 886-3816, by January 8. At the kick-off dinner, McDonald will announce the goal of the Floyd/Johnson campaign.

After the kick-off, American Heart Association volunteers will begin knocking on doors to help raise money for the fight against heart disease and stroke in Kentucky. It is estimated that in 1983 alone, cardiovascular diseases took the lives of close to 17,000 Kentuckians, nearly one-half of all the people who died that year.

HOLDING UP A Russell May print of Prestonsburg High School is Freddie Goble, of Auxier, chairman of the Floyd County Education Forum's school-community partnership committee. The print, and a $50 cash prize, were presented to PHS senior Tim Howell, of Van Lear, winner of a logo competition sponsored by the committee. Howell was accompanied by his father, Raymond C. Howell, left. Seated in front is Ruth Ann Akers, a member of the FCEF board.

Landowners May Manage Fish Populations Better

Farm pond owners will be able to impose special fishing regulations on their ponds under a regulation change proposed by the Fish and Wildlife Commission Dec. 13.

With approval of the district fishery biologist, farm owners would be issued a permit for special management. This permit will allow size and/or creel limits which differ from statewide fishing regulations. Any valid management strategy could be utilized under the biologist's direction for a specified period of time. For example, permittees could remove the size limit on bass if a population is stunted, or prohibit the harvest of any bass if only a small number of big fish are present. The permits will be signed by the local conservation officer, district fishery biologist and Director of Fisheries.

To Allow Grass Carp

The grass carp, a fish with a taste for water weeds, may be legally imported into Kentucky as a biological control for aquatic vegetation.

The Fish and Wildlife Commission voted at its Dec. 13 meeting to amend two existing regulations and create a new one to establish a permit process whereby grass carp may be imported into Kentucky and possessed for vegetation control and propagation by licensed fish propagators. The permit process will be administered under the Division of Fisheries technical guidance program. Upon the recommendation of a district fishery biologist, landowners will be able to purchase sterile "triploid" fish for vegetation control in their ponds provided that they erect spillway control devices so that the fish can't escape. Under strict program guidelines, only licensed fish propagators will be able to purchase and possess the fertile "diploid" grass carp.

Do days seem shorter than they used to be? El Nino can take part of the blame, says International Wildlife magazine. Intense winds during the severe 1983 weather phenomenon known as El Nino accelerated the Earth's spin—shortening the day by three-thousandths of a second.

National Award Winner

The United States Achievement Academy announced today that Barry Kent DeRossett, junior at Mullins High School, has been named a 1985 United States National Award winner in English.

DeRossett was nominated for this national award by Mrs. Delorse Meek, English teacher at the school. His name will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, published nationally.

Criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability, and recommendation from a teacher or director.

DeRossett is the son of Golda Mae DeRossett, of Grethel, teacher in the Floyd county school system, Prestonsburg. The grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Jones, of Grethel.

Appalshop Films Honored At Festival

Whitesburg—Appalshop Films' collection of award-winning documentaries will be the subject of a major retrospective salute in the forthcoming 15th Rotterdam Film Festival, opening Jan. 24. Appalshop has participated in this and other international film festivals in the past, but this year Festival Director Hubert Bals decided to pay special tribute to the East Kentucky media center. Calling for "an Appal a day," Bals has scheduled an Appalshop film daily throughout the 10-day festival. Other Appalshop films will be shown during an international film market which accompanies the main program.

This marks the first time that a documentary film producer from any country has received such a tribute in the festival. Bals had been impressed with Appalshop's work since 1983, when the film, "The Big Lever," was selected for showing, but felt that the collection of nearly 40 films deserved greater recognition. In selecting an Appalshop film per day, Bals said the mostly European audience of film reviewers and fans will develop a greater familiarity with Appalshop's unique and important work. Appalshop's films, about the culture and social issues of Appalachia and rural America, represent a type of cinema, and reflect a vision of America that is little-known in other lands. The films chosen include some of the earliest as well as the latest release, "Sunny Side of Life," about the Carter Family and the oldtime mountain music they helped popularize.

Appalshop is an art and education organization founded in 1969 in Whitesburg, and includes June Appal Recordings, Headwaters Television, Roadside Theater, Mountain Photography Workshop, and WMMT-FM, in addition to Appalshop Films.

Christmas Greetings (Delayed in Transit)

Due to an illness which struck me in July 1985, taking my weight to 85 pounds, and which is now 95 pounds, I have been 'on the shelf' for six months. I tried to, and did, send out a few Christmas cards, but I quickly learned I could never complete my list of some 175 names!

To all of you, acquaintances, friends, fellow-workers, kin (and isn't everybody, somewhere, a Martin or a Hall?), Bob, Margaret and I wish you a happy holiday; above all, that the Christ of Christmas will live, be loved, and reign in your hearts.

REV. AND MRS. BOB MARTIN AND MARGARET

D-Day on Drunks Nets Few in County

Friday the 13th, believed by many to be the unluckiest day of the year, turned out to be a pretty good day for all but a few unwary Floyd countians tagged by police for driving drunk.

Billed as "D-Day on Drunk Drivers," last Friday saw law enforcement agencies in most states put forth a concentrated effort to warn people not to drive under the influence, and to get those foolish enough to do it anyway off the road and into jail.

In Prestonsburg, Police Chief Stan Fletcher said his department didn't run the announced roadblocks, but concentrated more on patrolling and random checking of vehicles. The effort yielded three arrests; two for DUI and one for reckless driving.

Fletcher said he was pleased that there were so few people found to be driving under the influence, but said he had hoped that everyone would heed the warnings and stay off the roads if they had been drinking.

"I was real impressed with what the people did," he said. "There were a number of parties that night. We stopped several people who had been drinking, but they'd taken someone with them who wasn't, to act as chaffer. That impressed me. People were aware and concerned. With that in mind, I might make D-Day 365 days a year."

Elsewhere in the county, the sheriff's department reported three arrests, while the Kentucky State Police nabbed two offenders here.

In their five-county coverage area, KSP post nine made 15 such arrests, more than would normally be expected on an average Friday, according to Trooper Kenneth Frost. The majority of the DUI's came in Pike county, where 10 were arrested. One person was arrested in Johnson, and two in Martin county. No fatalities were reported.

Mother of Slain Youth Says Arrest 'Answer to Prayer'

A former Floyd county woman, now a resident of Hillsboro, O., said recently that she considers the arrest of a man suspected in the shooting death of her son "the answer to prayers."

"I tried everything, including politics, newspapers and radio stations, and offering a reward," Mrs. Olivia Langston, Jr. said. "Finally, I turned it over to the Lord in prayers."

Her statement was made after James Daniel South, 24, of Cincinnati, formerly a bill collector in Hillsboro, had been charged with aggravated murder in connection with the slaying of her son, Nick Langston, 20.

Young Langston disappeared from Hillsboro on Sept. 27, 1984. His body was found in a field near Flemingsburg, Ky., Oct. 24, 1984. He had been shot in the head.

But not till late November of this year was there a break in the case. Impatient with the apparent slowness of officers to make headway in the case, Mrs. Langston made media appeals, finally offered a reward of $5000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any person connected with the death of her son.

Then, last Nov. 29, South was arrested by Cincinnati officers, to be returned to Adams county, Ohio. A motive for the slaying was not given, but Mrs. Langston was quoted as saying she is convinced that drugs were involved in the crime and that more than one person had a part.

Although the arrest relieved the helpless feeling of knowing little and being able to do nothing to dispel the mystery surrounding her son's death, Mrs. Langston was assailed by renewed memories of her loss.

"It's happiness and sadness all together, because it reopens so many wounds," she said. Her husband, Letcher Langston, died in December, 1983. A year later, she buried her son. And now, another year later, this new development in her son's death.

"It's all coming up again at the same time of year. Three years, and all at holiday time," she said. "But I'm thankful and relieved that justice will finally be brought."

Mrs. Langston is the daughter of Audrey S. Salisbury, of Hunter and the late Oliver Williamson.

Church Play Goes On With Borrowed Sound As Equipment Stolen

A Christmas play at the Vogel-Day United Methodist Church at Harold went ahead with a borrowed sound system after the church's new public address system was stolen in a break-in the week before Christmas.

Church members this week offered a reward for information leading to the conviction of the thief or thieves who entered the church by breaking a basement window.

Besides the PA system, the burglars took two coffee urns, a tape recorder and a 30-inch gulf cross from the communion table. Value of articles taken was set at approximately $2,000. "You wouldn't think anybody, even if he was the worst for stealing in the world, would rob from a church," commented George E. Clark, of Harold, a member of the church.

The stolen public address system was less than a year old, Clark said, adding, "I doubt if it was paid for yet." The church's Christmas play was presented as scheduled on December 23, with a sound system loaned by the Pikeville Music Company, he said.

CLUB HAS ANNUAL DINNER

The Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club met December 5 in the home of Mrs. Marcella Bradley, Garrett, for the club's Christmas dinner and social hour.

Prior to the serving of "turkey and trimmings" Mrs. Bradley gave the devotions, pointing out that the spirit of Christmas should be kept alive all through the year, not just during Christmas season.

Mrs. Libby Martin gave several readings on the Christmas theme and Mrs. Marie Mullins spoke on different customs of other countries in the celebration of Christmas.

A brief business session was conducted by the president, Mrs. Marie Mullins, during which a contribution was voted for the Town of Wayland's Christmas treat to the community children, and names of patients at the Golden Years Rest Home were given out in order that each clubmember might purchase a Christmas gift for the patient whose name was drawn.

Additional pecans were distributed to be sold prior to Christmas. Gifts were exchanged and a special gift was given to each club member by the hostesses, Mrs. Marcella Bradley, Mrs. Marie Mullins, Mrs. Lula Coburn, and Mrs. Loveda Coburn.

Those attending were Launice Duffee, Jo Ann Hall, Vera Allen, Joyce P. Stevens, Louise West, Elizabeth Duff, Loveda L. Coburn, Lula Coburn, Maxine Martin, Marie Mullins, Marcella Bradley, and Libby Martin.

To New County Workers

Incoming Floyd county employees will need to report to the county offices in the courthouse annex to fill out forms before they can be added to the county payroll, Finance Officer Delores F. Dingus said this week.

Under the provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act, youths aged 16 and 17 may work at any time for unlimited hours in all jobs not declared hazardous by the Secretary of Labor, according to a U.S. Department of Labor fact sheet.

The Fair Labor Standards Act states that youths aged 16 and 17 may not work in hazardous occupations including working with explosives and radioactive materials; operating certain power-driven woodworking, metal-working, bakery, meat processing, and paper products machinery; operating various types of power-driven saws and guillotine shears; and operating most power-driven hoisting apparatus, such as non-automatic elevators, fork lifts and cranes, according to a U.S. Department of Labor fact sheet.

Mother's Suit Would Correct Age of Her Son

The mother of an eighth-grade basketball player ruled ineligible to play on account of his age has filed suit in Floyd Circuit Court in an effort to get him back on the team.

Lynda Hughes, of Caney Fork of Middle Creek, claims in her suit that the birth certificate that records her son, Johnny Ray Goble, as having been born on August 3, 1970 is in error. The boy was born exactly one year later, she insists.

Citing Floyd school policy that prohibits students from playing grade school basketball if they turn 15 by the beginning of the school year, Acting Superintendent Ray Brackett declared Goble ineligible to play on the eighth-grade team at Clark Elementary School. His December 11 decision was prompted by complaints he had received from Clark school officials and other parents, Brackett said.

As a result of Mrs. Hughes' asserting an error on her son's birth certificate—a claim in which she was supported by Judith Carol Ousley, of Blue River, who said she was present when Johnny Ray Goble was born—Floyd Trial Commissioner Jack Hyden issued an order on October 30 directing the state Bureau of Vital Statistics to "correct" the certificate. Attorney Ned Pillersdorf, representing the mother and son, cites the district court order in his December 17 motion for an injunction that would prevent school officials from "wrongfully banishing" Goble.

Brackett noted, however, that the Bureau of Vital Statistics had so far failed to alter the birth record, which was purportedly signed by Dr. J.D. Adams on August 4, 1970 and received by the state registrar on August 5, 1970.

In another suit filed by the parent of a Floyd school student, Albert A. Burchett claims that his son, Joe W. Burchett II, was wrongfully suspended from Prestonsburg High School by Principal Robert May on Dec. 18.

Burchett said his son was singled out and denied due process when he was given a three-day suspension for allegedly disturbing class and failing to report for detention. The lawsuit asks for the boy's reinstatement, $10,000 to compensate for "humiliation and defamation," and an injunction preventing May from "using the powers of his office to wage personal grudges" against the boy.

In yet another suit, Lois Trusty, former comptroller for Big Sandy Health Care, Inc., seeks reinstatement, back wages and punitive damages following her dismissal on May 23. Her former employer failed to follow established personnel guidelines in letting her go, she said.

A 12-year employee of the federally-funded health agency, Trusty noted that a referee had recommended in November that she be reinstated. In his recommendation, Prestonsburg attorney Dan Rowland noted that, while a "small percentage" of billings were being lost, apparently through "administrative oversight," while Trusty was comptroller, the loss was within a range acceptable to federal funding overseers. Moreover, the losses might not have occurred if Trusty had been given the assistance she needed, Rowland said. "She had her hands full and did a good job for Big Sandy Health Care, according to her supervisors," the referee noted.

(Claims made in filing suits represent only the plaintiffs' version of the issues in dispute.)

No Suspects In Slingshot Shooting Spree

Police reported no suspects this week in a series of "shootings"—apparently by slingshot—that shattered two windows in a school bus and struck a gas station, a funeral home, and the Prestonsburg office of the Department of Child Welfare over a short span of time the Monday before Christmas.

A bus carrying Millard High School students home from a basketball game at Warfield was hit as it traveled south on U.S. 23 near Allen, around 9:15 p.m. on Dec. 23. Glass sprayed some of the students but none was injured.

Around the same time, Boyd's service station at Stanville, the Floyd Funeral Home at Water Gap, and the Department of Child Welfare office here were also fired on, said state Det. Kenneth Slone, who was accompanying the school party in a private vehicle.

Initially, damage to the bus and buildings was thought to have been the result of gunfire, but Prestonsburg police Det. Mike Ormerod said this week that steel balls recovered near the child welfare office appear to be slingshot ammunition of a kind sometimes used in small game hunting.

Lawyers Create Fund for Needy

In what he hopes will become an annual event, Prestonsburg attorney William S. Kendrick last week presented a check in support of three Floyd food pantries on behalf of the Floyd County Bar Association. Floyd attorneys contributed over $1000 to the fund, which will be divided among the Loaves and Fishes Food Pantry, operated by the Council of Church Women, a pantry operated by St. Vincent's Mission in David, and another run by Doreen Martin at Drift under the auspices of the Christian Service Ministry.

Pictured, from left, are John Earl Hunt, Bar Association president; the Rev. Timothy Jessen, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church here, who accepted the check on behalf of the food pantries; Kendrick, who headed the committee that raised the money; and John Logan Griffith, Bar Association secretary-treasurer.

FLOYD COUNTY now has a working animal control officer, Jeff Hall, of Martin, who is pictured here with the Ford Bronco recently leased to the Eastern Kentucky Animal Shelter by the City of Prestonsburg.

Underground Storage Info Deadline, May 8

Owners and operators of underground storage tanks containing petroleum and other substances regulated by the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet must submit information about those tanks by May 8 to the Cabinet's Division of Waste Management on a special notification form being mailed to them.

The forms request information concerning the tank's size, age and contents.

Kentucky is required to collect this information according to 1984 amendments to the national Resource Conservation Recovery Act (RCRA). The amendments were prompted by concerns that some underground tanks may be leaking their contents and contaminating groundwater which is the source of drinking water for many people, including 750,000 Kentuckians.

The legislation classifies a tank as "underground" if ten percent or more of the tank, including the piping, is beneath the ground. In addition to petroleum, underground tanks containing hazardous substances listed in the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation and Liability Act of 1980—the "superfund" legislation—must also be reported. This includes most all chemicals, including industrial solvents, but does not include hazardous wastes listed under Subtitle C or RCRA which are currently covered by regulations pursuant to that Act.

The following types of tanks are exempted from the notification requirements:

Farm or residential tanks of 1,100 gallons or less capacity used for storing motor fuel for noncommercial purposes; tanks used for storing heating oil for consumptive use on the premises where stored; septic tanks; pipeline facilities (including gathering lines) regulated under other acts; surface impoundments, pits, ponds or lagoons; storm water or waste water collection systems; flow-through process tanks; liquid traps or associated gathering lines directly related to oil or gas production and gathering operations; storage tanks located in an underground area, such as a basement or cellar, if the tank itself is on or above the surface of the floor.

World-renowned operatic great Luciano Pavarotti will help celebrate the tenth anniversary of the "Live From Lincoln Center" series of "Great Performances" when "Pavarotti Plus" airs Sunday, January 12, at 2:00 p.m. on KET.

The three-hour musical extravaganza will originate from Lincoln Center's Avery Fisher Hall and will include a cast of major American singers. The program of operatic arias and ensembles will be accompanied by the New York City Opera Orchestra conducted by Emerson Buckley.

The "Live From Lincoln Center" series has been broadcast into more than 300 million homes since its inception in January, 1976. It is an Emmy Award-winning series.

Guest performers with Pavarotti will include sopranos Kathleen Battle, Susan Dunn, Mary Jane Johnson, and Carol Vaness; mezzo-soprano Delores Ziegler, tenor Jerry Hadley, baritones Simon Estes and Alan Titus; and bass James Morris.

"Great Performances: Live From Lincoln Center" "Pavarotti Plus" is a production of the Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts, Inc. in cooperation with WNET/New York.

RECORDS—HOW LONG?

Organizing, filing and retaining old records is a burden for many businesses and households. The following types of records and retention periods are general guidelines and should be tempered by your own business and investment concerns.

RECORDS AND RETENTION PERIOD

- Cancelled Checks—3 Years
- Bank Deposit Slips—3 Years
- Bank Statements—6 years
- Tax Returns—Permanent
- Expense Reports—3 Years
- Entertainment Records—3 Years
- Financial Statements—Permanent
- Contracts—Permanent
- Minutes of Meetings—Life of company
- Corporate Stock Records—Permanent
- Employee Records—Period of employment + 3 years
- Depreciation Schedules—Life of business + 3 years
- Real Estate Records—Permanent
- Journal & General Ledger—Life of business + 3 years
- Inventory Record—3 Years

The normal statute of limitations on federal returns is three years. Under some circumstances it is six years, and if you fail to file a return or there is fraud involved, the statute of limitations does not close.

This means that the Internal Revenue Service under normal conditions would audit your return any time up through three years. Since the statute of limitations in some states exceeds the federal statute, you should tailor your years of retention to the longer of the two statutes.

In deciding your own record retention schedule, consider keeping indefinitely those records which cannot be recreated by any other office, institution or governmental unit.

Hall Funeral Home

THE FUNERAL IS OVER, WHAT MORE CAN I DO?

When someone we are close to loses a loved one we offer them comfort and hope by attending the wake and funeral services. These activities are very helpful because a period of grieving is needed as an emotional outlet. They help the survivors to accept the deceased's death through the presence of friends and relatives.

But, a feeling of emptiness often follows when those closest to the deceased are back home alone after the formalities are over. You might ask yourself "now that the funeral is over, what more can I do to help?"

In his book, Death and Dying, Leonard Pearson suggests two things:

1. It is necessary for the bereaved to have some time alone to think and finish the grieving process.
2. At the same time, frequent-and-short-visits from friends and relatives are in order...especially visits which encourage the bereaved to take part in some activity they enjoy.

Pearson also says that we should visit in the spirit of real friendship for the bereaved and not just because they have lost a loved one. People want our love, not our pity. We invite you to consult us for books and articles on this and other related subjects.

Live Jazz Celebration New Year's Eve On KET

Ring in the new year in the best seat in the house, enjoying a live celebration of jazz. Music history in the making is insured when "New Year's Eve Jazz Celebration" airs Tuesday, December 31, at 11 p.m. on KET.

Some of the top names in jazz will perform New Year's Eve at Ethels Place, a Baltimore jazz club. The club is owned in part by Baltimore's "High Priestess of Spirit and Song," Ethel Ennis, who will be one of the evening's performers.

Ennis gained international attention when she won an audition over hundreds of competitors for Benny Goodman's tour of the 1958 Brussels World Fair. She also has recorded several jazz albums for RCA and performed at the prestigious Newport Jazz Festival.

Other featured performers will include guitarist, harmonica player and whistler Toots Thielmans; bass guitarist Ray Brown; pianist, composer and vibraharpist Milt Jackson; baritone saxophonist Gerry Mulligan; alto saxophonist Phil Woods, and singer Joe Williams.

This group of "Who's Who" from the world of jazz will be appearing together for the first time on television and will perform several members together as well as individual sets.

"New Year's Eve Jazz Celebration" is a production of Maryland Public Television.

Somerset Angler Catches State Record Rockfish

By ART LANDER, JR.

For the second year in a row, Lake Cumberland has yielded a Kentucky state record rockfish during the month of December.

Wednesday morning, Dec. 11, 27-year-old Roger Foster, of Somerset, boated a 58-pound, 4-ounce rockfish which has been accepted as the new state record for the species by the Kentucky Dept. of Fish & Wildlife Resources.

Foster's catch eclipsed Robbie Bell's 49-pound, eight-ounce Kentucky state record striper, which was caught just a year and one week ago, by a whopping eight pounds, 12 ounces. And according to the International Game Fish Association's (IGFA) "1985 World Record Game Fishes", Foster's catch should also qualify as a world line class record. The giant striper measured 50 inches in length and had a 30-inch girth.

The current IGFA 20-pound line class world record for striped bass (landlocked) is 52 pounds, eight ounces; the fish was taken from the Colorado River in Arizona on June 27, 1976. Foster's catch made with a casting rod and reel exceeds this current line class world record by five pounds, 12 ounces.

Foster said he's interested in applying for the 20-pound line class world record and will be sending the paperwork off to the IGFA soon. Even though Foster made his catch on 17-pound test line, he will have to apply for the 20-pound line class world record since there isn't a 17-pound test line category on the IGFA record books.

Foster's rockfish is very close to the IGFA all-tackle world record of 59 pounds 12 ounces. While many local anglers believe that striper in excess of 60 pounds are present in Lake Cumberland. It's likely that Foster's fish will stay on the record books for some time.

to come. But don't be surprised if some day the all-tackle world record striper (landlocked) is caught from the sprawling 52,250-acre impoundment in southcentral Kentucky. The fishery is just that good.

Benjy Kinman, the Division of Fisheries biologist who manages the department's Predator Fish Evaluation Study, said that scales from the new state record rockfish were aged and it's believed that the fish was almost 11 years old when it was caught. "It was most likely stocked in 1975, one of more than 49,000 four to eight-inch fingerlings placed in the lake during two separate stockings that year," explained Pete Pfeiffer, director of fisheries.

While Bell's record catch was made on a jig, Foster's came on a shallow running crankbait (Cordell Redfin) twitched across the surface! The monster rockfish was feeding on shad and came to the top in about 18 feet of water off a rock bank in the Beaver Creek embayment.

Foster had been fishing with his nephew Reggie Stringer since 4 a.m. without a strike. "About 8 o'clock we saw bleeps as big as cigarette butts on the LCR (liquid crystal recorder, an electronic depth sounder). We both began casting crankbaits but soon afterwards Reggie switched to a jiggling spoon because we thought maybe the suspended fish were walleye," Foster explained.

A little while later Foster hooked into his trophy. "I saw a big swirl on the surface and cast towards it," Foster remembered, adding that "the fish's powerful runs stripped off about 100 yards of line." It took Foster about 25 minutes to land the fish. When the rockfish first rolled on the surface he said he told Reggie, "he's as big as I am."

1986 Deer Season Dates

Kentucky's 1986 deer gun season will open Nov. 8 (the second Saturday in November), according to a motion adopted by the Fish and Wildlife Commission at its quarterly meeting in Frankfort Dec. 13. The season will continue for three, five or ten consecutive days, depending on zone regulations to be established later.

The deer bow hunting season will run from Oct. 1 through Dec. 31, 1986, with crossbows permitted only during the Nov. 18-27 portion of the archery season. A special two-day season for muzzle-loading firearms is set for Dec. 6-7.

The commission announced these season dates in December in response to requests from sportsmen for earlier notice on hunting dates. Specific zone assignments for counties and other deer hunting regulations will be set at the next commission meeting, scheduled for March 2-3, 1986.

12"-2 Size Limit Imposed

At its quarterly meeting, Dec. 13, the Kentucky Fish & Wildlife Commission voted to adopt a 12"-2 size limit at Lake Malone in an effort to maintain the quality bass fishery which now exists in the 692-acre state-owned lake in Todd, Logan and Muhlenberg counties. For the past three years there has been no size limit because the lake was overpopulated with small bass. Biologists believe that the "no size limit" management strategy worked because recent samples have shown that the population is back in balance. Effective March 1, 1986 the size limit on bass at Lake Malone will be 12 inches, although anglers may keep two bass under the minimum length from their daily creel of 10. This will prevent a further buildup of undersize bass in the fertile lake where it's been proven that bass have good recruitment and fast growth rates.

KET's New GED Series To Begin

The second enrollment period of KET's statewide GED Study-at-Home project begins airing January 9, with the newly completed General Educational Development (GED) series.

The KET/GED series is being updated to coincide with a new national GED test, scheduled for implementation in 1988, and to modernize production techniques. The series has been in production for four years, at a cost of $2 million.

The new series consists of 43 programs, which cover the areas of math, reading, science, social studies, and writing skills. This series is designed to emphasize skills rather than content, a reflection of the new GED test.

According to KET producer Judy Tipton, "The programs aim to teach students how to interpret and apply the material covered on the GED test."

The math programs were the first to be completed and have already been airing on KET. Students who enrolled in the KET/GED Study-at-Home project in October began preparation for the GED test with the math section.

The five new reading programs, which begin airing in January, are hosted by Wally "Famous" Amos, spokesman for Literacy Volunteers of America.

According to Tipton, "These programs are different in that we produced literary videos somewhat like MTV videos. We use a narrator who is actually reading the words of the writer, with the story being acted out by actors who don't speak."

The six science programs, which begin airing on January 28, are hosted by Pamela Lewis. Numerous computer generated graphics are used in this section to illustrate the material more clearly. Astronauts Sally Ride, Kathryn Sullivan and Story Musgrave, as well as other prominent scientists, will also appear in the science segments to describe the practical application of these scientific theories to their work.

The five social studies programs, which begin airing on February 18, are unique in that the KET production crew tried to show how the concepts which were important when the United States was founded still apply today. This section also touches on the areas of economics, sociology, and political science, and how they fit in historically. The crew worked closely with the National Archives in Washington, D.C., to obtain hundreds of historical visuals, including maps, illustrations, portraits, cartoons, videotapes and film, as well as shooting scenes at historical locations.

The final 10 programs, which begin airing on March 6, are on writing skills. Mississippi Educational Television produced these programs. The format is similar to that of the math programs. They are designed to help people learn not only the rules, but how to help the students organize their writing.

Judy Tipton and Russ Farmer of KET were co-producers on the math programs. Tipton was the producer of the social studies, reading, and science programs. Farmer directed the math and science programs. Vince Spoelker of KET directed the social studies programs, and Farmer and KET's Guy Mendes co-directed the reading programs. The scripts for the math and science programs were written by Dr. Richard Smith of KET, Mendes wrote the social studies scripts, and Tipton and Mendes co-wrote the reading scripts. Workbooks which accompany the series were all written by Alan Garinger of Muncie, Indiana.

A third enrollment period for KET's GED Study-at-Home project begins on April 15. To register call 1-800-KET-4-GED.

State Idle Rate Up 10%

Plant closings, layoffs in the coal mining industry and seasonal job losses in construction and services helped push Kentucky's unemployment rate to a preliminary 10.0 percent in November, according to figures released Dec. 19 by the Cabinet for Human Resources.

The rate climbed from a revised 9.3 percent in October into double-digits for only the second time this year with the other 10.0 percent rate recorded in February. In November 1984, the state unemployment rate was 8.7 percent.

"While we think some of these job losses will be temporary, we feel unemployment will remain at 10.0 percent or above at least through February," said state labor market analyst Ed Blackwell.

The national rate inched downward from 6.8 percent in October to 6.7 percent in November. The comparable state and national rates are not seasonally adjusted.

An estimated 1,539,700 Kentuckians were working in November, down 28,000 from the October figure of 1,567,700 and 45,400, up 11,100 from the October figure of 160,300 and 20,100 more than in November 1984, when 151,300 were out of work.

Employment losses occurred across the board. The greatest change was in agriculture, where seasonal employment declined by 14,800 between October and November. "We see a substantial decrease in agricultural employment at this every year. Fewer workers are required to prepare tobacco for market than for harvesting and housing it," Blackwell said.

Job increases were reported in manufacturing of food, tobacco and leather products, but total manufacturing jobs in Kentucky declined by 1,700 between October to November with losses in durable goods, such as stone, clay and glass products, metals, machinery and lumber and furniture. Employment declines in non-durable goods were in textiles and apparel and petroleum, rubber and plastic products.

Reflected in those figures are the 400 jobs lost when Green River Steel Corp. of Owensboro closed and the 75 to 80 jobs which were phased out during October at the Washington Overall Mfg. Co. plant at Scottsville, Blackwell said.

Education jobs increased by 700, but the number of other non-manufacturing jobs declined, producing a net loss of 2,900 jobs in this category.

There were 1,200 job losses recorded in the mining industry. "About 400 of the miners still are laid off at the Tennessee Valley Authority's Union County complex, which is managed by Peabody Coal Co.," Blackwell reported. "Another 430 were laid off at Mapco's Martiki mine in Martin County." Mining employment is 2,100 below the November 1984 figures.

In the construction industry 1,100 job losses were reported. "This is a normal seasonal decline," Blackwell said. "Employment in this sector normally drops during the winter months."

Employment gains in health and education services were offset by decreases in business services, hotels and amusement and recreation services, causing a net loss of 400 service jobs.

"Despite an increase in retail trade jobs, mostly because of the holiday shopping season, wholesale trade jobs declined, leaving us with a loss of 300 jobs in that sector," Blackwell said.

The state's civilian labor force estimate in November was 1,711,100, down 16,900 from October's 1,728,000 and 25,300 below the November 1984 figure of 1,736,400. The civilian labor force estimate includes non-military people who are working and unemployed people who actively are seeking jobs. It does not include anyone who is unemployed but not looking for work.

Annual changes in the number of Kentuckians employed and those out of work reflect the number who have dropped out of the labor force.

NUMB ARMS, LEGS Warning Signals

There may be misalignment of vertebrae in the spine causing pressure on nerves, yet the patient experiences no pain in the back. Instead, a variety of sensations may be felt in other parts of the body. These include tingling, tightness, hot spots, cold spots, crawling sensations, electric shock sensations, stinging, burning, and others.

The following nine symptoms involving back pain or strange sensations are often the forerunners of more serious conditions. Any one of these may spell back trouble

- (1) Paresthesias (see above)
- (2) Headaches
- (3) Painful joints
- (4) Numbness in the arms or hands
- (5) Loss of sleep
- (6) Stiffness in the neck
- (7) Pain between the shoulders
- (8) Stiffness or pain in lower back
- (9) Numbness or pain in the legs.

These signals may indicate your body is being robbed of normal nerve function. Until this function is restored, you will, in some degree, be incapacitated. The longer you wait to seek help, the worse the condition will likely become. Don't wait! Should you experience any of these warning signals...call for in depth consultation in Layman's terms.

A TRADITION OF...

CARING BY THE BOOK

"Going by the book" is a common expression in almost every phase of human endeavor that has a tradition. It's true of health care too.

But the question today is: Which book do we go by? The increasing volume of federal regulations aimed primarily at cutting health care costs to the possible neglect of human needs? The ever-growing scientific tome that advances technology without considering its moral effects?

We in Catholic health care have been caring by the book for nearly 2,000 years. It's called the Bible and it talks about healing the sick and caring for the poor—in other words about people not profits, values not vials.

And we're going to keep on using the Bible as the primary book we go by. That's why last year more than 42 percent of the patients we served had their bills paid by Medicare or Medicaid—or by the health care facility itself.

623 hospitals, 292 nursing homes, 52 multi-institutional systems, 14 dioceses, and 278 sponsoring religious orders. We're the Catholic health care ministry and...

Give Part of Yourself

By WILMAY

The best holiday joy comes from giving. God gave the greatest gift, his only son, something no mortal would have done, to save a sinful world. The least we can do is to give what we can to Jesus and humanity. Mt. 24:20. No gift surpasses giving part of ourselves. That doesn't cost a thing, except time and good will; moreover, Ecc. 11:1 says: Cast thy bread upon the waters for thou shalt find it after many days. It comes back to us in words of the unknown poet: "Happiness is like rare perfume inside you on a shelf, when you rub some on the other fellow, you spill a whole lot on yourself." Dwight Moody said, "Not what we get but what we give, Measures the success of the life we live." How true!

Ada Mosley,
Pastor

Some constantly seek happiness, never realizing we create our own. A top way to keep exuberant is to make others happy. While costly gifts evoke pleasure, praise, encouragement, and time given others are usually remembered longer. Such gifts are often free, and money can not buy most of them. There is no better way to exalt Christ than by giving a portion of ourselves to humanity. Self can be given to individuals or to causes involving many. Longfellow said, "Give what you have. It may be better than you think." Moody said, "Give God your life. He can do more with it than you can." God is a great multiplier. He multiplies talents given him. Some people have a talent of love, concern, compassion, sympathy, understanding, empathy, encouragement, enthusiasm, courage, etc. Time is a scarce commodity today, but of inestimable value when given the sick, aged, needy, a new family, a burdened relative or friend. Young mothers welcome baby sitters. Frequently the old folks need a driver, someone to shop for them, transportation to church, the doctor's office, to see someone in the hospital. Amateur counselors may be ideal listeners whom some sorrowing, troubled soul needs. A phone call to congratulate a friend who won an honor, a card to another who buried a loved one, a poem mailed a terminally ill patient, will not be forgotten soon. Such kindnesses brighten the days of recipients and donors. "But I don't know what to say," remarks a novice. A firm handclasp or warm embrace may be more expressive than words. "Better for the heart to be without words, than for the words to be without heart," some writer said.

An inventory of our most cherished memories may prove a helpful guide. Many young people are ambitious. They crave success. Some put others before Self by thoughtful deeds of kindness. Some are selfish and negligent. A few may lose their jobs for failure to show courtesy and gratitude to all with whom they come in contact, especially to fellow workers, etc. A good way to prevent this is to teach small children the joy that comes from giving of ourselves, by expressing thanks and genuine appreciation. Every mortal is human. Only the hard-hearted fail to appreciate being appreciated! Appropriate words, lovingly said, mean as much or more than costly gifts.

This brings an old maid to mind. When hurrying down the street she met her pastor. He extended his hand and said, "Congratulations, Sallie." "What for?" she asked. He replied, "I hear you're getting married." "Oh, Preacher," rejoined Sallie, "say that again. There ain't a word of truth in it, but I shore like to hear you say it."

Violet Allen, long rated one of the best teachers this county ever had, once remarked that she tried to pay compliments all along to each pupil. She did not call a homely child beautiful, but fitted her praise to each youngster. Every person—regardless of age—has good points of some kind. Untruth is flattery, which is sinful. But merited praise is life-giving for donor and recipient. No one suggests overlooking shortcomings, bad habits, or undesirable traits we all have. But those who learn to appreciate the good points of others have a certain glow bestowed on them as time passes.

This is the season of giving, something Americans are noted for. Remember Mt. 25:40.

TWO BOOKS

By WILMAY
 "WHAT'S COOKING FOR THE HOLIDAYS," the new cook book by Irene Hays of Hueysville, is a superb collection of the best recipes for holiday dishes, contributed by numerous Kentucky cooks in and out of state. It has a lovely cover design, a splendid format, and just reading some of the recipes may make your mouth water!

The second book may benefit the physical, often does, but is guaranteed by its author to bless the spiritual—God's Holy Word—the best seller the world over. God's letter to all mankind. When letters arrive in the mail we read them, but millions neglect to read the most wonderful ever written. Some are unaware that about forty writers heard the voice of God saying, "Write; take up thy pen and write," et cetera, and their doing so over a period of around sixteen hundred years, without contradicting one another. Still, thousands, even in Christian America, have no interest in scripture unless illness, tragedy, or death occur. How sad that is.

President Wilson once said, "When you have read the Bible you know it is the Word of God because you will have found it the key to your own heart, happiness and duty." Teddy Roosevelt said, "A thorough knowledge of the Bible is worth more than a college education." Spurgeon, distinguished theologian, said, "Nobody ever outgrows scripture. The Book widens and deepens with our years." Some unknown writer wrote, "In the physical world nothing will retard the aging process. But in the spiritual realm there is a remedy against aging. It's found in Bible study, prayer, testimony, and the exercise of faith. Take liberal doses daily!"

Lincoln declared: "The Bible is the best gift God has ever given man." How sad that many reject it! It's God's compass for humanity. When Patrick Henry's will was read, it included the following: "There's one thing more I wish I could give you. It is the religion of our Lord Jesus Christ. With it, if you have nothing else, you can be happy. Without it, though you have all things else, you cannot be happy."

A little boy picked up a dusty Bible in his home one day. He asked his mother, "Is this God's book?" "Certainly," she replied. "Well, I think we'd better send it back to him, for we don't use it here."

"The Bible contains the mind of God, the state of man, the way of salvation. Its doctrines are holy; its precepts are binding; its records are true. Read it to be wise; believe it to be safe, and practice it to be holy. It contains light to direct you, food to support you; comfort to cheer you. It is the traveler's map, the pilgrim's staff, the pilot's compass, the soldier's sword, the Christian's charter. Christ is its grand object; our good, its design, and the redemption of man its end. It should fill the memory, rule the heart and guide the feet." By John L. Saunders.

Someone asked how much of the Bible was inspired. II Tim. 3:16 gives the answer: "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, reproof, correction, and instruction in righteousness."

Years ago Dr. Wm. Lyon Phelps of Yale University said, "I thoroughly believe in a university education for men and women, but I believe that a knowledge of the Bible without a college course is more valuable than a college course without the Bible. Everyone who has a thorough knowledge of the Bible can truly be called educated; and no other learning or culture, no matter how extensive or elegant, can form a proper substitute."

A kind white minister offered the use of his extensive library to his black fellow pastor. "Help yourself," proffered the owner of many volumes. "They will enlighten you a great deal." "Yas, such, Boss," rejoined the aged saint, "Ah ain't got but one book, mah Bible, but hit shore do shed a heap o' light on dem books on yore shelves."

It likewise sheds much light on what is wrong with America and the world today. Yet, millions have almost no time for it, and a high percentage of the population almost anywhere, is growing up in darkness, partially because we who comprise the remainder too often put other things before God and his Word!

PUBLIC NOTICE
 The Kentucky Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet, Division of Water, hereby gives notice that the Francis Water Company exceeded the maximum contaminant level for coliform bacteria for the reporting period of August 1985.

The test results for coliform bacteria (normally found in the intestinal tract of humans and other warm-blooded animals) indicate that some contamination occurred. Coliform bacteria is not considered harmful, however, its presence is a reliable indicator that harmful bacteria may have been present in the water at that time.

The Francis Water Company was formally notified of this violation and the regulatory requirement to inform their consumers of this violation. As of December 16, 1985, the Division of Water has not received verification of the Public Notification. Therefore, the Division of Water is acting on behalf of the water supply in issuing this statement in accordance with the Kentucky Public and Semipublic Water Supplies Regulations (401 KAR 6:015)

Other violations accumulated since January 1985 are:

Martin County Grand Jury Indicts 47 in Election Probe

(In The Lexington Herald-Leader) INEZ—Forty-seven people, including newly elected Martin County Magistrate Henry Mills, were indicted here yesterday (Dec. 27) for alleged election-law violations.

The grand jury indictments, which stemmed from a lengthy investigation by Kentucky State Police, brought to 65 the number of people charged in connection with May's primary election in Martin County.

At least two people charged were also among the 20 named in indictments issued Aug. 23 by the grand jury.

Commonwealth's Attorney John David Preston of Paintsville said the 47 defendants were scheduled to be arraigned on various misdemeanor and felony charges Jan. 23 and 24.

Trials for at least two defendants charged in August have been scheduled for January, he said, although some charges stemming from the earlier indictments have been reduced or dismissed.

Many of the charges involved vote buying—bribery—and the falsification of sworn voter assistance forms. The forms apparently allowed campaign workers to enter the polling place with some voters to confirm their votes.

Preston said yesterday's grand jury action completed most of the vote-fraud investigation, although he said, "I think there's a few loose ends to tie up."

In August, the prosecutor said he requested the state police investigation after former County Clerk Sam Moore reported "an unusually large number of complaints about voter-assistance affidavits."

More than 700 of the county's 6,000 voters signed voter-assistance affidavits claiming that they needed help in the polling place on May 28.

For Mills, 51, yesterday was bitter-sweet. He was charged by the grand jury just four hours before he and other Martin County officials gathered in the courthouse to take the oath of office from Circuit Judge James A. Knight.

Mills was charged with two misdemeanor counts of complicity to commit bribery.

"I don't know that much about it now," said Mills, a Tomahawk resident who earlier served three terms as magistrate. "I need a little more time to study on it before I can say anything."

All 20 people indicted in August were at the Tomahawk voting precinct on election day, and Mills noted that about a third of those charged yesterday also were from Tomahawk.

"I might be a little prejudiced on it, but it seemed to me like they rode Tomahawk pretty hard," Mills said.

The state prosecutor, Preston, responded, "Well, you know, you just go where the cases are."

Martin County Judge-Executive John Callahan said he thought the indictments would help deter future vote buying, but he also said he hoped the investigation wouldn't hurt people who legitimately needed help in the polling place.

Mills was the only county official among the 65 indicted, although Tommy Muncy Jr., the son of one candidate for county clerk in the primary, was charged with one count of helping a voter swear a false voter-assistance affidavit, a felony carrying maximum penalties of a $1,000 fine and a year in jail. The younger Muncy's father, Tommy Muncy Sr., is a former Martin County sheriff.

D.E. "Danny" Maynard of Inez, a former school board candidate, was charged with four counts of bribery, a misdemeanor, and two counts of helping a voter swear a false voter-assistance affidavit.

Kim Smith, no address given, who was named in a two-count indictment in August, was charged on nine additional counts yesterday. She was charged with five counts of complicity to commit bribery and four counts of helping to swear false voter-assistance affidavits.

Janet LeMaster of Tomahawk, who was indicted on one count of bribery in August, was charged yesterday with three more bribery counts and four counts of helping swear a false voter-assistance affidavit.

One man, Timothy Speakman of Tomahawk, was charged in two separate indictments yesterday. Preston said: one for allegedly receiving a bribe and swearing a false voter-assistance affidavit and another for alleged assault in a shooting incident.

Others indicted for alleged election-law violations yesterday were Marlene Spence, Harvey A. Davis, Phyllis Edwards, Randy Marcum, Maggie Maynard, Peggy Sue Johnson Maynard, Donna Maynard, Frankie Justice, Diana Maynard, Burl Fannin, Franklin Patrick and Charles Oakie Patrick, all of Inez;

Harrison Don Moore, Jeff Workman and Alice M. Chapman, all of Warfield; Robert Slone and Timmy Lee Slone, of Beauty; Eula Stepp, Ralph McCoy, Jr. and David Preece, all of Pilgrim; Deford Maynard of Milo; Regina Spense and Edna Preston of River; and Wanda McCoy, Mary Mills, Verla Nichols, Timmy Ward, Homer Ward, Linda Newsome, Beatrice Buskirk, Pansy Mollette, Clista Bowen, Linda Bowen, Lisa Preston, Nyoka Moore, Tammy Carter and Sandra Speakman, all of Tomahawk.

No addresses were given for Sherman Spencer, Rose Howell, Walter Ward and Dennis Swisher, who also were indicted.

Richard Henry Lee was elected November 30, 1784, to serve as "President of the United States in Congress assembled." The preparation of the Constitution was still the significant item of business of the Continental Congress. A prime concern of Lee's was the guarantee of the rights of the states to govern themselves in areas not reserved to the Federal Government. This concept was incorporated in the 10th Amendment. The Daughters of the American Revolution encourage you to study the Constitution of the United States.
