

Murder Charge Lodged by Jury Against Lewis

Auto Driver Included In Assault Charges; Drug Bills Returned

A Stanville man charged last week in the shooting death of his estranged wife was indicted for murder by a Floyd Circuit Court grand jury Friday.

Randall Lewis, 30, named in the death of Veneda Lewis, 25, last Tuesday, was arraigned later on Friday and then released on $100,000 bond. A pre-trial conference has been set for April 12.

Among others indicted were four named on assault charges, including Timothy A. Bakay, 22, of Weeksbury, who was involved in a head-on collision with a car driven by Cathy Allen at Martin on Feb. 7. Mrs. Allen, 33, of Hueysville, was hospitalized in Lexington with severe head injuries. She has not regained consciousness.

Woody Paul Shepherd is named on two counts of assault, the grand jury alleging he shot Randy Hamilton with a shotgun and struck Mickey Martin on the head with the gun last Nov. 22. He is also charged with wanton endangerment for allegedly shooting into a car in which Ricky Johnson was riding.

Rebecca Prater is charged with stabbing Billy Johnson and Melvin Shepherd with a dagger on Jan. 7. Clyde Sparkman is accused of striking Keith Conley in the face with an ashtray.

Berlyn Ray Little was indicted on a count of wanton endangerment for allegedly running Patricia Vicars off the road last Nov. 17 and throwing a rock at the windshield of her car.

Five men face a total of 21 drug charges as the result of an investigation by Prestonsburg city police. Herman Harold Bright was named on 10 counts of falsifying prescriptions to obtain (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

IT WAS A BRIGHT, sunny day (for a change) last week when this photo was snapped of a crew of city employees adding finishing touches to a cedar, gazebo-like structure at the municipal parking lot on Court Street here. Roofed and provided with benches, it should make a nice rest stop for weary pedestrians or an ideal place for a bit of whittling on a rainy day.

Insurance Crisis Looms For East Kentucky Area

Physician Fails In Suit Against Former Patient

A Prestonsburg physician has failed in an effort to prove that he was maliciously prosecuted when a former patient sued him for malpractice.

The state Court of Appeals has upheld a decision handed down in September, 1983, by Floyd Circuit Judge Hollie Conley in which he dismissed a suit brought by Dr. Rondall Leslie against Gypsy Helen McPeek and the two Pikeville attorneys who represented her.

A cycle of claim and counterclaim began with Mrs. McPeek's allegation in 1978 that Dr. Leslie did not properly treat her after she fell and broke her hip while a patient at Mountain Manor Nursing Home here the year before. Her suit, which named both Leslie and Mountain Manor as defendants, was dropped when Mrs. McPeek and the nursing home agreed on a $1500 settlement. Dr. Leslie admitted to no liability and did not agree to the settlement.

Instead, the physician filed a counterclaim, charging that Mrs. McPeek "knew or should have known that her claim was frivolous." Also listed as defendants in his suit were Charles Lowe, Jr. and W. Sidney Trivette, Mrs. McPeek's attorneys, and the Fire, Marine and Inland Insurance Co., of Philadelphia, carrier of Leslie's malpractice insurance.

Lowe and Trivette were guilty of legal (See Story No. 2, Page 4)

Some Insurers Not Accepting Area Business

Greed on the part of some insurance writers... arson on the part of too many eastern Kentucky policyholders... and reluctance on the part of juries here to give insurance firms a verdict... all add up to a three-way squeeze on homeowners that is likely to push many of them out of the insurance market, a Prestonsburg insurance agent warned this week.

In a return of the "redlining" that made coverage unavailable in inner-city neighborhoods in the late 1960's, eastern Kentucky and southern West Virginia are now among the areas that insurance underwriters shun, he said.

And for homeowners jarred by hefty premium hikes in recent years, the worst may be yet to come, he said; for many, insurance may not be available at any price.

Already, insurance agents are getting word that some underwriters are no longer accepting business from this area, said Blaine R. Hall, a partner in the Hall-Clark Insurance Agency here. "People have this idea that insurance companies have to stay here. They don't have to," Hall said. "We've worked ourselves sick trying to tell people. If companies can't make money in this area, they can't stay here."

Not that the industry is blameless. In fact, the present crisis—which Hall calls (See Story No. 3, Page 4)

Island Creek Coal To Close Johnson Office in 2 Months

The Island Creek Coal Company will within the next two months close the doors of its administrative office building which it opened 11 years ago on US 23, between Paintsville and Prestonsburg.

Closing of the office will affect about 60 staff and clerical employees. Of these, however, 20 are to be transferred to Holden, W. Va., 12 to Island Creek's corporate headquarters in Lexington, and eight to work "in other areas." Twenty employees are due to be released outright.

Besides closing the office building, the company will also empty its maintenance and training facility and several homes built on a 40-acre site at Paintsville.

Byron Daniel, Lexington spokesman for the company, said the move is being made to streamline management of mining operations and reduce operating costs.

A shrinking coal market has resulted in heavy financial losses to Island Creek, it was said. One report says it has been offered for sale by its parent company, Occidental Petroleum.

Meanwhile, Island Creek has announced that it is cutting 20 persons from its Lexington headquarters. Most of these hold clerical positions and will not be called back, Daniel said.

What will be done with the company's properties in Johnson county has not been announced.

One of the nation's top coal producers, Island Creek operates a mine at Spurlock on Left Beaver Creek in this county, the Gund mine in Pike county, and more extensive mining in western Kentucky and West Virginia.

Postal Patrons Protest Change

Most patrons of the Hueysville post-office are indignant about the proposal of the U.S. Postal Service to move the 85-year-old office from its present location to another at or near the mouth of Brush Creek, two miles away.

And an estimated 175 of them gathered in a public meeting last Saturday afternoon at the Hueysville Church of Christ, next door to the postoffice, to voice their opposition to the move. A representative of the Postal Service had scheduled attendance at the meeting but cancelled his appearance.

Statements and comments heard at the meeting represented only the opposition to the proposed change:

—The office has been in its present location since 1951 and serves most patrons satisfactorily there;

—The office has never in its long history been located more than half a mile from where it now stands and never outside the town of Bosco (Hueysville);

—A change in its location would destroy the identity of the community and would create an inconvenience to most patrons.

Besides emphasizing their opposition to the proposed change, a number of (See Story No. 6, Page 4)

Police Here Figure In 31 Indictments

Thirty-one indictments of those handed down by a Floyd Circuit Court grand jury last week were sought by the Prestonsburg Police Department, a figure thought to be a record for the city police force.

The indictments included 21 in which five Tennessee men are accused of fraudulently obtaining drugs from Prestonsburg pharmacists. Det. Sgt. Mike Ormerod joined officers of the Tennessee Bureau of Investigation in cracking the reputed drug ring.

Ormerod said the number of indictments reflects the recent addition to the city police department of a fulltime investigative unit.

TO GIVE THE JAY THE JITTERS

The daily prints record the sudden death that has come to hundreds of birds in California where, after eating berries from the pyracantha plant, our feathered friends have been guilty of flying while under the influence and winding up, beak-first, on various windshields.

We've some pyracantha around here, and the influence its berries have on birds has been noticeable, I'm told. This may account for the absence of several birds from our feeders. Now, I'm just hoping a certain jaybird has looked overlong on the pyracantha berries when they were red and shows up with a hangover. If he does, I may try yelling in his ear.

Anybody looking for humor here this week might have to go back to that unit (See Story No. 4, Page 4)

Residents Continue Coal Company Fight

A bid by the Left Beaver Coal Company to renew its permit to operate a coal processing plant at Ligon has again drawn opposition from some local residents, who have asked state officials to schedule a meeting to discuss their grievances.

The request for an informal conference, filed with the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet by six Clear Creek residents, is the latest maneuver in a two-year battle between the coal-washing plant and its neighbors, who claim that wastes from the operation have polluted their drinking water.

In a Feb. 8 letter to the NREPC Division of Permits signed by Palmer and Ramona Humphrey, Edward and Ogie M. Slone, Ada Slone and Rex Slone, the homeowners cite as a reason for their opposition to the plant the "high concentration of lead recently found in the water" near the planned operation.

Residents bordering on the permit area "have been unable to get clean drinking water for over a year" on account of contamination thought to be connected with Left Beaver Coal's past activities, the letter writers complain. Also listed among their allegations are the poor condition of haul roads, the proximity of silt ponds to potential housing sites, the condition of a slate dump, and the coal company's "past performance."

A subsidiary of Turner Elkhorn Mining Co., Left Beaver Coal was required to file for a new permit under regulations that became operative when Kentucky took over from federal agents primary responsibility for enforcing environmental laws.

At a public hearing on the new permit application last August, residents from Ligon and Melvin opposed it, their attorney alleging that left Beaver Coal had been cited 16 times since December, 1981, for violations of environmental laws.

Annual Event Raises $16,000

Robert Ruberg

A total of $16,000 was raised for the Mountain Christian Academy at its second annual fund-raising Friday evening, Feb. 22.

The money raised will be used to complete a gym, a cafeteria and a stage area. A total of $300,000 will be needed to complete the facility, which is the second phase of the MCA complex.

About 250 persons gathered at the school's partially completed structure near Martin to hear remarks from Robert Ruberg, a Covington lawyer and state Board of Education member, and the Rev. Ralph Beiting, president of the Christian Appalachian Project and MCA board member, to see entertainment performed by students and view a live television news broadcast by students.

"Private schools like Mountain Christian Academy," said Ruberg, "are to be innovators in education."

"The things for which private education stands—good management of schools, emphasis on academics, parent-citizen participation—are the same goals for public schools," he said. In fact, private schools should not be seen as competitors to public schools, but as partners which are searching for excellence; the issues that affect public schools also affect private schools, he said.

In the past year, the initial steps in establishing quality education have been taken, the former classmate of Rev. Beiting said. "But there is still a lot of work to be done," he added.

In his remarks the Rev. Beiting pointed to the success in uniting the religious community to work toward a common goal.

"The success is based on our love for one another in God," he said. "Through love we have set the people free. We have freed them from fear and prejudice."

"When people can work together without fear or prejudice, it will change Floyd county," he said. (See Story No. 5, Page 4)

Rockslides Continue To Plague Highways

After weeks of record snows and frigid temperatures, the "big thaw" appears to have arrived, bringing with it a hint of spring, and, unfortunately, more rockslides. While crews worked this week to remove the tons of debris which resulted from a massive slide on U.S. 23 North near American Standard several weeks ago (photo at left), equipment was called out Tuesday morning to clear boulders and dirt from a slip on new KY 80 near Garrett (above). The rockfall blocked two lanes of the four-lane Route 80 with debris spilling onto other lanes.

The BACKYARD NATURALIST

By Craig Tufts

Birdseed - A Mixed Bag

What kind of birdseed mix will best coax birds to your backyard?

It all depends on what kinds of birds you like having around. If you don't mind backyard bullies such as grackles, starlings, mourning doves, pigeons and house sparrows rolicking in your yard, a common, inexpensive seed mix will do.

But if you want to attract more cardinals, chickadees, goldfinches, jun-some 10 to 15 different kinds of seeds. The mixes may all look good and smell good, but you don't want to be led only by your eyes and your nose; what looks like granola to you is not necessarily preferred by the birds you want to attract - and may well bring in the kinds many people think of as pests.

Common seed mixes (most prevalent on supermarket shelves - and least costly) often contain a high proportion of hulled oats, peanut hearts, wheat, cracked corn and red milo plus some proso millets and sunflower seeds. Cardinals and other birds you particularly want to attract prefer mixes that have lots of proso millets (small white or red beady seeds) and sunflower seeds as well as some peanut kernels and fine cracked corn.

Your bird visitors will most appreciate being served their rich mix from a window feeder, a feeding table placed a foot or two off the ground - or right from the ground. Such a banquet will complement the straight sunflower seed and niger (thistle) seed that you offer the birds from your hanging or pole-mounted feeders - and probably will double your bird-watching pleasure.

coos, cowbirds, red-winged blackbirds, titmice, bluejays, and sparrows such as the white-throated, white-crowned, song, and Harris' sparrow, you'll choose your birdseed mix more carefully. This is not guesswork but scientific fact, based on research by Dr. Al Geis, an urban biologist for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Public Support Asked To Halt Brine Pollution

Local residents are being asked to offer comments on a proposed regulation which would effectively eliminate the dumping of oil well brine wastes into streams.

The proposal calls for an in-stream limit on chlorides of an average of 600 parts per million (ppm) at any point in any stream. At no time should the chloride level exceed 1,200 ppm, according to the proposed standard.

By comparison, oil well brine has a concentration of chlorides which generally ranges from 20,000 ppm to in excess of 100,000 ppm. The maximum level considered safe for drinking water is 250 ppm, according to the Environmental Protection Agency.

The setting of a limit on the amount of chloride pollution comes after almost three years of drafting and rewriting regulations by the Division of Water within the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet. The 600 ppm proposed standard is based on a year and a half study by the University of Kentucky at the request of NREPC, and came only after repeated public pressure on the state to acknowledge and deal with the problem.

The proposed standards have drawn heavy criticism from the oil industry. Treatment of brine to meet the in-stream standard is considered to be too expensive in most cases to be feasible, forcing oil companies to find a safer means of disposal such as underground injection which is practiced in most other oil drilling areas.

However, landowner and environmental interests are also gearing up to do battle over the proposal. They want to see the 600 ppm limit implemented and the illegal dumping of brine halted.

NREPC officials chose an "in-stream" chloride limit rather than calling for the regulation of each individual brine discharge because of the massive number of oil wells in the state would make enforcement an almost impossible task. With an in-stream standard, all brine dischargers above any point in the stream share equally in the responsibility for meeting the standard.

UK researchers recommended the 600 ppm average limit, as well as the 1,200 ppm one-time maximum, based on adverse impacts to warm water aquatic life. State law requires that pollution be regulated so as to cause no adverse impact on fish and stream life.

Many streams affected by brine pollution are now devoid of any type of life.

A public hearing was scheduled at Natural Bridge State Park Tuesday for the purpose of receiving public comment on this and other proposed regulations.

Originally, NREPC had scheduled only one public hearing on the proposed regulations, that being set for Thursday, February 28 at 2 p.m. in Frankfort. That hearing will still be held, but the Natural Bridge hearing was added at the insistence of the oil industry.

Those unable to attend either hearing may send in written comments to the Division of Water, 18 Reilly Road, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601, marked to the attention of Robert Ware. Comments are due by the close of business on February 28.

Forest Fire Season Near

By STEPHEN BRACKETT, District Forester

March 1 begins the first day of spring fire season in Kentucky. During this period through May 15 it is illegal to set fire to any flammable material within 150 feet of woodland or flammable material leading to woodland except between 4:30 p.m. and midnight. Persons burning between 4:30 p.m. and midnight must take all reasonable care and precaution to prevent the escape of fire to woodland by carefully clearing around and piling material to be burned. All fires must be closely guarded to prevent the escape of fire until dead out. No burning should be done on windy and dry days.

During last spring's fire season, the Division of Forestry took suppression action on 1076 forest fires which burned 14,152 acres.

Last spring the total estimated economic loss due to forest fires in Kentucky was $28 million.

While fire noticeably kills only small seedlings, it does major un-noted damage to the bark of the larger trees, which later allows invasion of insects and disease, causing serious loss in harvested wood products.

As a result of many fires being deliberately set, the Kentucky Forest Industries Association is offering a standing reward of $500 for information leading to the conviction of any woods arsonist.

This spring will see a vigorous enforcement of our state forest fire protection laws by Division of Forestry rangers. Last year, more than 800 citations were issued to violators.

For additional information or to report a forest fire, call the Division of Forestry at Prestonsburg, 886-8562, or contact your local ranger at 478-5013, or call your nearest fire department.

Social Security District Director People in the Big Sandy area who have Medicare can get the names of the Medicare participating physicians by calling the Medicare carrier that serves their area. The number is 1-800-432-9255.

Doctors who signed an agreement with Medicare are listed in the directory. Under the agreement, doctors agree in advance to accept assignment on all Medicare claims for at least one year, beginning October 1, 1984.

Doctors taking part agree to accept Medicare's approved charge as the full charge for all services they provide to Medicare patients during the year. The doctors and suppliers can bill Medicare patients for the $75 annual deductible and coinsurance amounts not paid by Medicare, but can make no other charge.

Doctors who did not sign the agreement can continue to get payment from Medicare, but their fees are not limited to the Medicare-approved charge. These doctors cannot increase their fees above the amounts they charged Medicare patients during April, May, and June 1984 through September 30, 1985. Failure to comply with this freeze could result in fines or expulsion from Medicare.

Medicare patients treated by doctors taking part will have the advantage of knowing in advance that all services will be provided on an assigned basis and that Medicare payment will be made directly to the doctor. This also means that the patient will not have to worry about filling out a Medicare claim form.

FLOWERS PLACED

Flowers placed on the altar of the First United Methodist Church, during Sunday morning's services were in honor of Miss Elizabeth Lynn Frazier, on her birthday, and were from members of her family. The bud vase on the altar was in honor of Matthew Kyle Turner, on his first birthday, and was from his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burchett.

However, the statue was not dedicated until October 28, 1886, because the statue's pedestal, which was designed by Richard Morris Hunt, was not completed in the seventies.

Vocational Students—Fare Better

(The following is printed in conjunction with National Vocational Education week, Feb. 10-16.)

Data from the most recent and comprehensive data set on young people in the United States, the National Longitudinal Survey of Youth Labor Market Experience, involved approximately 13,000 young people who were between the ages of 14-21 in 1978. These individuals have been interviewed each year since 1979. Information about topics such as personal characteristics, formative influences, education, occupational knowledge/aspirations, and achievement/ability test scores with vocational emphasis has been collected on these individuals. Information collected from the National Association of Manufacturers and other sources was also utilized.

Vocational courses included those in agriculture, business and office occupations, trade and industrial education, marketing and distributive education, health occupations educations, and occupational home economics. Approximately 78 percent of secondary school students (almost four out of every five) took at least one course in vocational education. The vocational students were divided into two types—those who had limited participation and those who had concentrated participation in vocational classes.

Campbell and others found that the more vocational education courses individuals took, the greater were their chances for being in the labor force after leaving high school. Other studies found that persons who had taken concentrated amounts of vocational education were more likely to be in the labor force for a full year than were those who had taken limited amounts of vocational education.

They found that increased participation in vocational education in high school consistently reduced the expectancy of graduates to be unemployed and out of the labor force. Those who concentrated in vocational education experienced an unemployment rate of slightly more than 9 percent. This compared to an employment rate of approximately 12 percent for those graduates who took less or no vocational education.

Since the passage of the Smith-Hughes Act in 1917, vocational education has been charged with assisting individuals in preparing for and advancing in employment. A survey of the National Association of Manufacturers reported that 57 percent of those responding indicated their company benefited from vocational education. Finally, 85 percent of the manufacturers said they would hire a vocational education graduate for a job requiring less than a four-year degree, all else being equal.

Ten Years Ago

(February 26, 1975)

A "mysterious" gift of $25,000 to be used for the establishment of a community humane society and animal shelter has been bequeathed the City of Prestonsburg by a Middlesboro woman, Mrs. Susan Hawkins Leibig. Letters inviting participation in a single planning commission to represent Prestonsburg, Floyd county, Allen, Martin, Wayland and Wheelwright have been mailed by the city of Prestonsburg. The search for oil and gas to meet the national shortages in both fuels is not reflected in any great activity in Eastern Kentucky, spokesman for two major companies said here this week. State Representative W. J. Reynolds, of Allen, this week became the fourth official serving Floyd county to announce his decision not to seek reelection. Eastern Kentucky has shown the sharpest increase in flu cases, reporting 8,740 new cases for the week of Feb. 15. Born: A son, James Franklin Howard, II, to Mr. and Mrs. James F. Howard, of the Abbott Road, Feb. 17. There died: Fred Hall, Jr., 64, of Galveston, last Thursday at a Pikeville hospital; Roscoe Mulkey, 68, of Banner, Feb. 18 at a Martin hospital; Ed Fraley, 67, of Stratton Branch, Thursday at a hospital here; Henry Robinson, 58, of Spurlock Fork of Middle Creek, Feb. 18 at a Lexington hospital; Heber Baldrige, 70, of East Point, Saturday at a local hospital; Mrs. Anna O. Slone, 83, of Wayland, Friday at the home of a daughter, Dewey E. Davis, Sr., 52, of Martin, last Thursday at Archer Park; Dave Wallen, 76, of Knox, Ind., formerly of this county, Feb. 8 in a Knox hospital.

Twenty Years Ago

(February 25, 1965)

Dayton Hamilton, 24, and John W. Johnson, 20, former Teaberry neighbors, died last Friday at Albion, Michigan, in the head-on collision of two automobiles. As a result of President Johnson's Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, Floyd county would receive approximately $515,400 for improvement of education during the next fiscal year. In reversing a Floyd county liquor conviction the Court of Appeals last week reaffirmed its view that officers cannot legally run a full-scale search of a motor vehicle after stopping it merely for a traffic violation. An even dozen candidates for countywide office appeared before the Floyd County Ministerial Association and a group of church laymen Sunday afternoon in the county courtroom to state their views on general questions and to answer specific questions pertaining to the particular offices which they seek. The standings of 58th District basketball teams based on win-loss records thus far in the season in order of ranking are as follows: Martin, McDowell, Prestonsburg, Wheelwright, Betsy Layne, Garrett, Maytown, Wayland. There died: Truman Bryant, 44, formerly of Melvin, Monday at Jackson, Michigan.

Thirty Years Ago

Mayor Curtis Clark announced Wednesday that the City of Prestonsburg will pay a reward of $25 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person who shot out a Lake Drive traffic light Tuesday night. Deputy Marshal Wince Trimble, and Deputy Sheriffs Willie Johnson and Deen Johnson. Conservation Officer Raymond Copley said here this week, discussing the loss of another deer there last week. Plans are moving ahead for the possible administration this spring of the Salk polio vaccine to an estimated 180,000 children in the first and second grades of all public, private and parochial schools in Kentucky, it was announced this week. malpractice in filing a claim against him without investigating its merits, Leslie contended. His insurance company, which settled the claim and refused to represent him further, was guilty of breach of contract, he claimed.

Judge Conley dismissed the suit, however, and the state appeals court agreed, noting that one of Mrs. McPeck's attorneys had given her medical records to a second physician to review before initiating a lawsuit. Because the reviewing doctor was of the opinion Dr. Leslie was guilty of malpractice in treating her, Mrs. McPeck and her lawyers had reason to file suit, the appeals court held.

The state court also confirmed dismissal of the suit against Leslie's insurance company, noting that the terms of its policy allowed it to stop paying for the doctor's defense if he refused to go along with a recommended settlement.

Following the appeals court decision, which was announced last Aug. 31, Dr. Leslie sought to have the case reviewed by the Supreme Court of Kentucky. He has since withdrawn that motion, however.

THOSE WHO CAN'T QUIT

Farmers who are having to sell—their sell—their grain at less than the cost of production aren't in the fortunate position of oil producers, among others, who can simply stop drilling till the price is right, and all the while yell "shortage" till some folks believe them.

LOST IN THE REPLAY

There was a time when the coming of Spring was truly a happy time, for then you could turn the young'uns out, barefoot, and worry no more about keeping them shod till the next fall. But, as some philosopher has said, times change, and now there's a shoe for every season and every one kicks the stuffin' out of the family pocketbook. Add to that the tax deadline and the threat of Daylight Saving Time coming up, and the tra-la loses something in the replay.

patrons voiced sharp criticism of the present postmaster.

The meeting was attended by candidates for the office of county judge-executive, Judge John M. Stumbo and James R. Allen, and both said they would do all they could to keep the office in its present location. The same sentiment was expressed by a spokesman for Congressman Chris Perkins.

The Postal Department letter, signed by Forrest A. Evans, postal systems examiner, and addressed to Talmadge Allen, a leader in the opposition to the location change, said, in part:

"...the current location and quarters housing the office create safety, health and housekeeping problems for postal employees and customers. These conditions have existed for some time and are the result of numerous things—such as the closeness of a coal tippie, hazardous and congestive road entrance, railroad tracks, etc."

A second meeting, billed as an open forum, has been scheduled at the Hueysville church for 2 p. m., March 16.

Training Lesson Scheduled

The next Homemakers leader training lesson will be given Thursday, Feb. 28 at 10 a. m. at the Kentucky Power Co. building here.

The topic will be catalog shopping, and Mrs. Betty Jo Dedic, University of Kentucky clothing specialist, will be conducting the lesson.

All Floyd county Homemaker Clubs should be represented. The meeting is also open to the public. Door prizes and refreshments will be served. Contact 886-2668 for more information.

the worst to hit the industry since the 1960's—stems from a price-cutting war that broke out among underwriters six years ago, he said.

Interest rates were high. Insurance companies could turn a quick profit if premiums were rolling in. To attract them, some companies cut their rates by as much as 70 percent.

Then interest rates fell, even as claims began to accumulate. Some companies folded. The whole industry braced to absorb the losses. "A few wanted to get rich quick," Hall explained, "and we're all in trouble because of their greed."

A principal measure of trouble in the insurance business is the ratio of claims to premiums. Some companies doing business in eastern Kentucky are currently experiencing a loss ratio of 200 percent and the industry average is a staggering 140 percent. That means the average firm is paying out $140 in claims for every $100 collected in premiums. "You can't live that way for very long," Hall remarked.

One way to cut the losses is by "redlining"—refusing to do business in areas that are unprofitable. Lopping off agencies in rural areas makes more sense for an insurance carrier than would an across-the-board reduction in the amount of business they accept from all agencies, an industry analyst pointed out recently. "Simply cutting the number of agencies to be serviced will reduce field service costs by that amount," writes Stuart V. d'Adolf in this month's issue of The Independent Agent, a trade journal. "Cutting smaller and rural agencies will reduce costs in considerably greater proportions than it will reduce premiums."

The mountains have traditionally been a marginal territory for casualty insurance on autos, homes and businesses. Roads are bad; they're clogged with coal trucks; if you run off the side, your chances are high of hurting yourself and totalling your car.

But hard economic times make the situation worse, Hall said—because of an all-too-common practice among policyholders of cutting their losses by pushing their cars over a hill or burning their homes. "We know from the fire marshal's office that this is going on," he said, "but arson laws don't have enough teeth and, in any case, juries are partial to the insured. People don't seem to care."

They will care, the agent predicts, when they see their rates climb drastically or, worse, when they find they cannot get their home insured at all.

That is a lesson not easily learned—a fact that is illustrated, Hall says, by the current debate in two Right Beaver communities about whether to establish fire protection districts. "People worry about paying a few extra dollars in taxes," he said, "but if they don't set up those districts, people are going to have to do without insurance."

As it is, some companies are not writing any policies in Class 10 communities—those that are not within five miles of a fire department—and others, like the Kentucky Insurance Co., are not offering coverage to homeowners more than two miles from a fire station.

Yet another major national firm was scheduled to send a representative to talk to its Big Sandy area agents this week, and the betting among some was that it, too, would be reducing its coverage here.

Industry planners are conscious that redlining can trigger public anger and that public anger can result in intervention by federal and state legislators. When companies virtually eliminated agencies in the inner-city areas of the industrial northeast in the late 1960's, sometimes canceling policies in mid-term, a number of states passed laws forcing insurance carriers to renew policies and, in some cases, to insure all applicants, a degree of control the industry does not wish to provoke again.

As Daniel J. McNamara, president of the Insurance Services Office, put it in an address to that agency's annual meeting last month, "To ignore the implications of the coming capacity shortage is to run the very real risk that society will impose solutions that we will neither like nor have any role in shaping."

But McNamara acknowledged there are no painless solutions for the industry's problems. "Our industry has now suffered through six years of underwriting loss, each year worse than the year before," he said on Jan. 16. "The bottom of this industry cycle is indeed so deep that the road back to recovery will be tortuous."

The effects of industry cost-cutting have already been felt here by agents and their customers. The Snodgrass Insurance Agency, at Allen, collapsed last year. And a Left Beaver resident who allowed the policy to lapse on her $130,000 home last August found that her carrier was unwilling to renew it when she applied again for coverage a few months later. Other agents and homeowners in this area, industry analysts warn, are about to learn the same bitter lesson.

But the ultimate lesson that needs to be understood, Hall pointed out this week, is that the cost of fraudulent claims and excessive court judgments is not finally borne by insurance companies. It is borne by the buying public.

To Organize Theatre Guild

A meeting will be held at Prestonsburg Community College, Sunday, March 3, at 2 p. m. in the Student Center to organize a theatre guild for adults and young people. All interested in participating in such an organization should plan to attend that meeting. The theatre guild will be sponsored by Community Services at PCC.

LETTERS To the Editor

The views expressed here are those of the writer, and not necessarily those of this newspaper or. No unsigned contributions will be published.

On New DUI Law

I am of the opinion that freedom of the press is very important to a free society. In Judicial College we were told that a man could not be prosecuted for the third offense if he had two prior offenses under the old D.U.I. law.

The County Attorney must also notify the defendant and his attorney if the prosecution is the third offense.

I have placed several men in jail for D.U.I. In fact no D.U.I. charge is amended except on motion of the County Attorney. Most of those cases are cases in which the B.A. is less than .10 or the B.A. machine is out of order.

In the beginning I stated that I am for freedom of the press but I think the press has a responsibility to the public to report all events accurately. Many persons are arraigned before me from the jail and plead guilty. These cases are never reported in your paper.

Thomas Jefferson once stated that you could only believe one half of any paper's front page and nothing thereafter. I hope that this is not the case with our local newspaper.

I have had a good relationship with your paper in the past and I hope this will continue in the future.

HAROLD STUMBO,
District Judge

On Board Meetings

Supt. Grigsby was quoted in your Feb. 13 issue as saying that the board of education meetings were "not a public meeting, per se". Perhaps he should read KRS 61.805. I'm glad he has finally admitted that the meetings aren't "public."

Since the regular meetings have never had a time set aside for public comment how can they say that the time would be used to "slander" them?

If the Board of Education doesn't want to hear the problems that people need to talk with them about, why do they seek reappointment and reelection, time after time? If they're not there to improve the quality of education, then what are they there for?

Says TV Signal 'Worthless'

Numerous accounts have been observed in your paper with regard to the battle between Cablenetainment and the Prestonsburg City Council. These problems appear minute when compared to the poor TV cable service we receive from the same out-of-state company.

Since Cablenetainment and then Consolidated Comm. assumed the TV cable franchise from the Holbrook System on the Parkway on Middle Creek, the TV service and reception have been terrible. The cable in this area has been set back 20 years by these "operators" from West Virginia. The service is worse than poor and the system is out an average of three days a month or more. Better reception could be achieved by a roof-mounted antenna. According to their initial letter, we are supposed to receive KET and Channel 27 from Lexington. KET has been absent for more than two months and we have yet to see a clear picture on Channel 27. The reception on various channels just come and go, mostly go. It appears to me that TV cable consumers should be protected by the franchise agreements which were enacted several years ago. It is my opinion that if this group of outlanders from West Virginia can't do any better than take our money (20.45) for worthless TV signal, then the TV cable franchise should be awarded to someone else.

Information Wanted

I am trying to locate missing relatives that at one time lived at Martin, Kentucky.

Around 1931 to 1933 my uncle, Clark Kidd, lived at Martin and worked at the Bucks Branch mine. I do not know his wife's name. I have been told they had a daughter named Ruth.

If anyone knows who Clark Kidd was married to or know where any of his children are, please write or call me. I will appreciate any help you can give me. You may call me, collect.

About Dwale, Ky.

I am glad to know that Dwale, Ky., the village of a longtime deserted people, is beginning to wake up. Many of us are wondering just where our severance tax money is going, and why the approach to our little village and the steep railroad crossings have not had the snow plowed off. And I have spent much time trying to find out just who our present Magistrate is. It is an evident fact, if one has an old horse that would not work, we would trade him off. We have decided that about the month of May and November, when the election gets real hot, our approach to our village and the railroad crossings will be plowed off every week, even if there is no snow on them, and those that has not stood up for us will be traded off, and we will decide just who are the best work horses in the races.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Wheeler McKinney would like to extend our greatest appreciation and sincere thanks to the Hall Funeral Home, our neighbors, friends and family for the food, flowers, and kind words of sympathy during our time of grief. Thanks to the ones that prepared the grave, the United Baptist ministers and members for their services.

Consumer Prices Rise Moderately

The Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers (CPI-U) rose 2 percent in December 1984, the same as in November.

During 1984 as a whole, the CPI-U rose 4 percent.

"This continues the moderation which we have seen in consumer prices since late 1981," said Agriculture Commissioner David E. Boswell.

Grocery store prices also rose .2 percent in December, slightly more than in November.

Over the past year, dairy products, up 3.4 percent since December 1983, went up less than the average for all food for home, which went up 3.6 percent.

Dairy product prices were up 5 percent in December, following increases of 5 percent in October 1984 and 4 percent in November of that year.

In 1984, both grocery store food, up 3.6 percent, and shelter costs, up 5.2 percent, were running higher than the last several years, but the 1984 average for all other items was down to only 4.3 percent.

Fruit Growers To Meet

A meeting on fruit production will be held Thursday, February 28 in the conference room of the Floyd County Courthouse Annex, 6:30-8 p.m.

Dr. Terry Jones, Extension Horticulture Specialist from the Quicksand Sub Experiment Station, will conduct the meeting on general fruit production practice for strawberries, raspberries and fruiting trees. Portions of the meeting will deal with spray and fertilization practices. Fruit producers are encouraged to attend.

Who Can Prevent Teen Suicide? YOU CAN.

When a friend talks of suicide: LISTEN
Let your friend tell you of his situation and his feelings. Don't give advice or feel obliged to find simple solutions. LISTEN and try to imagine how you'd feel in his place.

BE HONEST
If your friend's words or actions scare you, tell him or her. If you're worried or don't know what to do, say so. Don't be a cheerful phony.

SHARE FEELINGS
At times everyone feels sad, hurt or hopeless. You know what that's like—share your feelings. Let your friend know he's not alone.

GET HELP
If you keep this secret you may lose your friend. Perhaps you and your friend can think of a helpful adult he or she could talk to. If not, talk to someone yourself—a parent, teacher, counselor of the Crisis Line—and find out what to do next.

Your friend turned to you because you could be trusted to help. You CAN help, but not alone.

Lowering Fat Intake; Lower Cancer Risk

Research shows that most Americans consume too much fat in their diets. If you're like most of us, changing that fact may seem like a very difficult task to accomplish. However, according to the American Institute for Cancer Research (AICR), just a small amount of education and a little more awareness of what we're eating can easily bring that percentage of dietary fat in our daily menus down to more reasonable levels.

According to Dr. T. Colin Campbell, Professor of Nutritional Biochemistry at Cornell University and Senior Science Advisor to AICR, "The average American diet currently gets approximately 40% of its calories from dietary fat, but most research shows that if that amount were reduced to 30% or less we should be lowering the health risks we face in a number of different ways." Research has shown links between high fat diets and a number of health problems, including many types of cancer, heart disease and kidney disease. "There is good evidence," Dr. Campbell noted, "that by lowering the amount of calories that are consumed as fat one also significantly lowers the risk for certain types of cancer, especially breast, prostate and colon cancers."

One of the difficulties in lowering fat intake for many people is that they simply are not aware of which foods are high in dietary fat. "While most of us realize that fatty meats, fried foods and some snacks, such as potato chips, are very high in fats," Dr. Campbell pointed out, "not many people realize that even lean cuts of meat contain more than 50% of their calories as fat." He noted that moderating the consumption of such products while emphasizing the consumption of vegetables, fruits and whole grain cereal products, should also help reduce total fat intake to more acceptable levels.

Blast Damages Claimed in Suits

Two suits claiming damage from explosives were filed last week in Floyd Circuit Court. In one, Emmitt and Juanita Williams claim their home and well on Spider Hall Branch of Mud Creek were damaged by blasting at a nearby Coal Mac mine. They seek $25,000 for damage to the house and $5000 for damage to the well, which they say is now unusable.

In the other suit, Herman and Claude Halbert, of Dinwood, claim their homes were damaged by blasting done during construction of new KY 80 five years ago. Herman Halbert seeks $18,000, Claude Halbert $22,000, in compensation. Their suit lists as defendants the G & G Construction Co. and R.C. Durr Construction Co.

In another action, Judith A. Colvin, of Lexington, claims that Edgar Walters, proprietor of the Ed Walters auto dealership on South Lake Drive, deliberately destroyed a building on the property last October in an effort to force her to sell the property to him.

Mrs. Colvin and Harry H. Ranier, the other owner of the property, gave Walters an option to buy the place for $10,000, an option she says he never exercised. The auto dealer had been renting the property.

On October 9, Walters had the building demolished and failed to reimburse her for it, Mrs. Colvin complains in her suit. She seeks $109,000 in actual damages, together with incidental and punitive damages.

(Suits filed in court give only the plaintiffs' version of the issues in dispute.)

In District Court

Sentenced in district court, following guilty pleas or verdicts, were:

James Edward DeRossett, Martin, assault, public intoxication, disorderly conduct, resisting arrest, attempt to elude police, criminal mischief, 30 days, $357.50 in fine and costs; Bradley Lewis, drunk driving, $147.50, alcoholic driver education; Johnnie Caudill, McDowell, drunk driving, expired insurance sticker, two days' public service, $211.50; Roger Case, Drift, drunk driving, no insurance, improper registration, no driver's license, 30 days, probated, two days' public service; Cret Caudill, McDowell, drunk driving, driving on suspended license, no taillights, no insurance, 30 days, $557.50, bench warrant issued for defendant, who failed to appear in court; Dwayne Earl Bishop, no registration, no insurance, no motor cycle operator's license, attempt to elude police, 30 days, $257.50, bench warrant issued; Teddy Walters, McDowell, drunk driving, two days' public service, $207.50.

ELECT PAUL HUNT THOMPSON

Democratic Candidate for SHERIFF

Three Primary Concerns:

- Accessibility—That the Sheriff's Department be readily accessible to the citizens of the county with dispatchers answering calls 24-hours a day.
- Personnel Training—Sheriff's Department deputies should be well-trained in all facets of law enforcement techniques and procedure.
- Drugs and Alcohol in the Schools—Our focus must be on prevention among those who are most vulnerable to the effects of drug and alcohol abuse—our youth.

In the weeks ahead I hope to discuss these and other issues with all the people of Floyd County.

"A CAMPAIGN ON THE ISSUES"
ELECT
JAMES R. ALLEN
DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE
COUNTY JUDGE-EXECUTIVE

During the next few months, James R. Allen will take his campaign message to the people and ask for their support. Issues that affect the people of Floyd County will be identified and presented to the people along with James' approach to creative and innovative solutions to the problems facing us. This is how we run campaigns in the world's greatest democracy

American political campaigns, unlike the majority of world nations, offer each one an opportunity to look at the candidates, study each candidate's approach to the problems, priorities and solutions to the issues facing us, and make up their own individual mind about the leaders they want to serve them. Political campaigns offer our people an opportunity to see the candidates as they are, to hear the different approaches to solutions to issues and force the candidates to take stands. Remember the last Presidential campaign? Ronald Reagan was forced to make a public commitment not to cut social security benefits to our elderly and disabled people. How many of us believe that President Reagan would have made such a pledge if he hadn't been forced to commit to this during the Presidential debate? Now, his administration talks about a "freeze" on social security payments which is bad enough, but there is a public commitment not to cut social security benefits.

Floyd County has both problems and potential. During the next few months, James R. Allen will present his views on the issues and he invites his opponent to do the same. A healthy debate of the problems and potential of our county is important to the people and will assist the people to determine who has the academic training, experience and leadership ability to lead Floyd County during the complex times of the last half of the 1980's.

James R. Allen has a straightforward approach to campaigning. "I want to personally contact every Floyd County citizen, tell them of my hopes for the future of our County, outline for them my views on what County government should do, and ask for their input. County government is an extremely important aspect of the lives of our people and all candidates should actively seek out the ideas and concerns of our citizens. Only by seeking the maximum possible involvement of our people can we achieve the potential for greatness that our County has."

The complex issues facing our people in Floyd County cannot be solved by one person or one group. They require all of us, working together, for the common good of our people. Floyd Countians have a unique opportunity in 1985 to elect a proven leader to our highest local political office. A man who has the necessary experience in public service, the academic training and the proven abilities to understand these complex problems and work with the people to build a Floyd County government that will be a source of pride for all of us. James R. Allen needs your help, your support and your vote. Vote for James. It's a vote for you.

To Our Friends & Patients:

As you know, on Friday, February 1, my house burned. This was close to losing a family member, even some furniture lost had not been out of this house since it was built some 180 years ago.

We want to take this opportunity to thank you for your help and patience in our changes in scheduling, partial inability for the office not being opened, and understanding my sorrow. The office is now back in full motion with renewed vigor, dedication, and commitment to our patients, following such a disaster.

Record Electricity Usage Set Jan. 21 At Kentucky Power

Over the 24 hours Monday, January 21, Kentucky Power Company customers consumed more kilowatt-hours of electricity than in any other 24 hour period of the company's history—23,061,000 kwhrs were consumed which was 8.6% higher than the peak day of the previous winter.

According to C. Richard Lovegrove, public affairs director for Kentucky Power on January 21, the company would have easily exceeded its previous record high one-hour peak demand had it not been for an outage affecting a part of its transmission system.

That outage occurred at 7:43 a.m. when a surge arrester failed at the company's Dewey Station. This electric fault was followed by a failure of certain circuit breakers to reclose properly which in turn caused overloads on other circuits carrying the load. Ten stations serving 16,643 customers of all kinds were affected. Although restoration was made more difficult by the extreme cold weather, the company restored service to the bulk of these customers within three hours and to all of them by 2 p.m.

At the time the outage occurred—before work hours—the demand for electricity was already up to 1,020,000 kw. "Judging by the load on the affected substations both before and after the outage it is obvious that our customers' peak demand would have gone considerably above the generating capacity of the company's Big Sandy Plant which is 1,060,000 kilowatts. If that had happened, we would have had to purchase electricity from other companies," Lovegrove said.

The Kentucky Garden Journal

By Bonnie Lee Appleton
State Urban Garden & Home Horticulture Specialist
COOPERATIVE EXTENSION PROGRAM
KENTUCKY STATE UNIVERSITY

There are many reasons that plants fail to flower, any of which can affect fruit production. There are also other plant and various environmental factors that can lessen or halt fruit formation or enlargement. Be they vegetables, fruit trees or landscape ornamentals, if you decide to grow particular plants for their fruits and they fail to produce, one or more of the following problems or situations may exist.

Fruits form as a result of pollination, the process involving the transfer of male pollen grains to the female ovaries—the ovaries becoming the fruits. Pollination can be prevented outright, or it can be reduced or hindered.

Some plants are self-pollinated, while others must be cross pollinated for one or more reasons. Self-pollinated plants like nectarines, tomatoes, roses and tulip poplars produce enough of their own pollen at the right time with the right chemical components that they do not need pollen from another variety or cultivar. Other plants, like apples and pears, will fruit poorly or not at all if there isn't another different yet related plant for a pollen source.

Need for a crop pollinator is most critical with fruit trees. Some prunes, most peaches, and all nectarines, apricots and pie cherries are self-pollinating. Most apples, pears, plums and sweet cherries must be cross pollinated. If there is space for only one tree, be sure to pick a self-pollinator, or graft on a branch from a pollinator.

Within cross pollinators, not all varieties work. Winesaps generally won't pollinate any other varieties while Red and Golden Delicious will pollinate most, even though certain types of Red Delicious won't pollinate each other. Crabapples can even be used to pollinate most apples.

Peaches and nectarines can cross pollinate, but plums can't pollinate prunes nor pie cherries pollinate sweet cherries. Dwarf fruit trees can pollinate semi-dwarfs or standards and vice versa.

Even if pollinators are planted, heat or cold can kill pollen before it is transferred or the transfer agent for the pollen may have problems. Fruit trees and many vegetables (even though most vegetables are self-pollinated) have their pollen transferred by insects. If insect populations are low, if their activity is diminished due to adverse weather conditions or insecticides, or if some other factor interferes with their work, pollination won't occur and consequently neither will fruit development.

Many self-pollinated plants have their pollen transferred by wind. If air circulation is poor or limited, pollination may be inadequate. This can be a factor in nut and pine seed production.

Sometimes a stand of plant is inadequate. This is especially true with corn. Corn pollen must blow or be carried from the male tassels on the top of the plant to the silks on the ends of the developing ears. A single row of corn may pollinate poorly, resulting in few kernels on the cob. If a density of four or more rows is planted, most silks will be randomly contacted by pollen grains.

A very familiar landscape "no fruit" situation involves hollies. Hollies are self-pollinated, but male flowers are on separate plants from female flowers. If your female American holly sits in the front yard with no male American hollies within several hundred yards, no pretty red berries may be produced.

Even if pollination occurs, good fruit development is not assured. The major cause of fruit dropping or failing to enlarge is inadequate moisture. Fruits, be they apples or tomatoes, are mostly water. This is a major reason to keep plants evenly watered, especially once you notice fruits beginning to develop.

Timely Tip: If space is limited, grow fruit trees in containers. Select either grafted dwarf trees, or for very small containers (18 to 24 inch diameters), genetically dwarfed trees.

March Hikes Announced

The Big Sandy Hiking Association will be holding two walks during March. The first will take place Sunday, March 3, at 2 p.m. at Jenny Wiley State Park. Totty Johnson, of Prestonsburg, will lead hikers along the Lake Trail. Hikers should meet in the front lobby of the May Lodge at Jenny Wiley State Park.

On Saturday, March 16, the BSHA will sponsor a hike through Natural Bridge State Park. The hike will be led by Tom Matijasic, of Van Lear. Those wishing to participate should meet in the front parking lot of Prestonsburg Community College at 8:30 a.m. The hike will take all day, so hikers should bring their own lunches. Each hiker is responsible for his or her own safety, food, water and transportation. Children must be accompanied by an adult.

Three Pike Men Arrested In Car Lot Confrontation

An apparent leasing disagreement between a car dealership and owner of the building housing the dealership resulted Monday in the arrest of three Pike county men on charges of wanton endangerment and terroristic threatening.

According to Kentucky State Police Detective Gary Rose, a call was received by police early Monday morning from an employee of Pike-Floyd Motors near the Floyd-Pike county line claiming that armed men had blocked entrances to the dealership with vehicles.

State police, who arrived shortly following the call, reportedly found three men armed with shotguns and handguns. Arrested by State Trooper J. L. Holbrook was Don Adkins, 44, of Elkhorn City, and Robert Burgess, 22, and Dwayne Adkins, 22, both of Pikeville.

The dispute apparently resulted from a leasing disagreement between Don Adkins, owner of the building and Claude Maynard, Pike-Floyd Motors president. Civil actions had previously been filed in the disagreement between the two parties, it was said.

Maynard and an employee obtained warrants for the three men who were lodged in the Pike County Jail. All three were later released on an unsecured $2,000 bond and were arraigned in Pike District Court where they entered pleas of not guilty. Trial date has been set for September 11.

New Classification To Help in 2 Towns

As insurance companies rank communities, Garrett and Wayland can expect to be reduced from Class 10—the least desirable classification—to Class 9, beginning May 1, said Terry Triplett, a member of the Garrett Volunteer Fire Department.

Triplett said he had been given oral assurance of the improved rating by a representative of the Insurance Service Organization, who inspected the Garrett and Wayland fire departments last week.

According to a Prestonsburg insurance agent, the change in classification would translate to a 34 percent reduction in homeowners' insurance rates.

However, many homeowners will not benefit by the improved classification, Triplett said, unless fire protection districts are established in those areas. A hearing on that proposal, which has sparked some opposition in the area, has been scheduled by the Floyd fiscal court for March 15. (The date of the hearing, scheduled to coincide with the next meeting of Floyd fiscal court, was earlier announced, erroneously, as March 22).

Without the district, the Garrett fire crew can travel only five road miles from their Stone Coal base, said Triplett—a limit that excludes properties on Lick Fork, Patton Fork, Plummer Branch, main Salt Lick, Shepherd Branch and Midas. Those areas would be covered if the fire protection district were approved, he said.

CLASS TO BEGIN MARCH 7

Veteran of Two Wars Awarded Decorations After 20-Year Delay

Estill Orsbon, of Price, fought in both World War II and the Korean Conflict, but not till the night of Jan. 25 did he receive any recognition for his services.

All he had to show for the part he played in two wars were three honorable discharges from his country's military service. Disabled, he finally contacted John T. Handshoe, of Grethel, commander of Pikeville Chapter No. 134, Disabled American Veterans, who, in turn, informed the Army that he had earned and had never received.

Finally, they came, all seven of them, and on Jan. 26 they were presented to him by DAV Chapter Commander Handshoe. They are:

The Good Conduct Medal, American Defense Service Medal with two Bronze Stars, European-African-Middle Eastern Campaign Service button (World War II), WW II Victory Medal, National Defense Medal, Expert Marksmanship Badge, and the Presidential Unit Citation.

Appalachian Oil Acquires Leases In Area Counties

Cities Service Oil and Gas Corporation has approved the acquisition of a 175,000-acre leasehold for oil and gas development by Appalachian Oil and Gas Company, Inc., under an agreement with long-term implications, Benton L. Becker, chairman of the Board of Appalachian, announced last week.

Cities Service, based in Tulsa, Oklahoma, is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Occidental Petroleum Corporation, the nation's eighth largest oil company.

"With the completion of this acquisition, Appalachian Oil and Gas Company has now become one of the largest oil and gas leaseholders in the state of Kentucky," Mr. Becker said.

Under the agreement, Appalachian has acquired Cities Service's leases on 175,000 acres in southeastern Kentucky, spanning an eight-county area.

The agreement provides for Cities Service to participate with Appalachian in the drilling of selected wells, and to receive an overriding interest in oil and gas production from this acreage.

Concurrent with the execution of the agreement, Mr. Becker announced tentative plans for the joint drilling by Appalachian and Cities Service of four developmental wells at sites located in the newly-acquired acreage.

The eight Kentucky counties involved in the agreement are Clay, Breathitt, Jackson, Knox, Lee, Leslie, Owsley and Perry.

Clay county is already the principal site of Appalachian's development programs and producing properties. The company has 16 producing wells in Clay county, of which 13 are gas wells and three are oil wells.

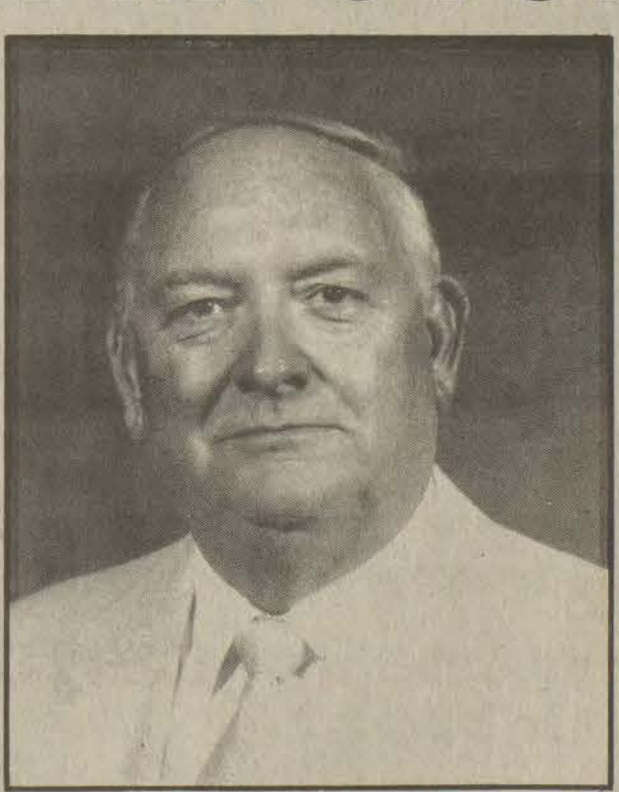

Mr. Becker also announced that Appalachian has authorized a feasibility study for the construction of a new 60-mile pipeline to transport the company's natural gas from this area to major interstate pipelines owned by Texas Eastern Gas Transmission, Columbia Gulf and Tenneco, near Lexington, Kentucky.

The study will focus on the feasibility of building a 12-inch, high-pressure pipeline with the capacity to transport up to 30 million cubic feet of natural gas per day.

Appalachian Oil and Gas Company, Inc. is headquartered in Nashville, Tennessee.

Financial Aid Cuts To Students May Be Delayed Till 1986

President Reagan's proposed budget cuts in financial aid to college students will probably not affect financial aid programs for the upcoming academic year, according to Paul Borden, executive director of the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority.

Borden says, "Because financial aid is forward-funded, the proposed budget cuts would take effect in the next fiscal year, which begins October 1 and will have their impact on 1986-87 awards."

Borden urges students who need financial aid to attend college this fall to apply immediately. Recent publicity about massive cuts in student financial aid may have distorted the public's perception of the availability of financial aid for the upcoming 1985-'86 academic year. The general public may have been led to believe that the cuts in student aid are immediate. "This is not true," says Borden. "Students should not give up, they should continue with their plans for college this year, since the aid will be available, and then wait and see about next year."

Applications for financial aid may be obtained from high school counselors and college financial aid offices.

Superintendent Currey Announces Selections For Faculty SUCCESSFUL YEAR SEEN

Prestonsburg schools will open September 19, Superintendent T. J. Currey announced this week in a letter written from his home in Maysville. Enrollment of the student body will be made on that date, and a marked increase over last year's attendance is expected to result.

Howard B. Allison, B. S., a graduate of Illinois State University, will be principal of the high school, which will open in the new building now under process of construction. Professor Currey announces, Mr. Allison is now working toward his Master's degree, as Smith-Hughes representative in the high school here, Professor Allison will teach Agriculture, Farm Mechanics, Physics and Algebra. He will also coach the football team.

Miss Susan D. Wallace, A. B., a graduate of Transylvania College, will be instructor in Latin and English.

Professor Currey and Mrs. Virginia Currey will be in charge of the same subjects as those taught by them last year. Instructor for History and Civics is yet to be supplied.

Assignment of teachers for the grade school, which will be conducted in the old school building, has been made as follows:

Miss Anna Miller, two-thirds of first grade; Miss Hope Herford, one-third of first grade and one-third of second grade; Mrs. Fanny Collins, two-thirds of second grade; Mrs. Joe Jarrell, third grade; Miss Stella Fitzpatrick, fourth grade; Mrs. Alex Spradlin, fifth grade; Miss Eula Hunley, two-thirds of sixth grade; Joe Dingus, one-third of sixth and one-third of seventh grade; Miss Minnie Grace Harris, two-thirds of seventh grade; D. O. Harmon, eighth grade.

Mr. Spradlin and Mrs. Epp Lafayette have been selected to teach in the West Prestonsburg school.

With the new building offering many added facilities to school work, and with Professor Currey's untiring energy directed toward the development of Prestonsburg's schools, the most successful school year yet experienced here is predicted. The capable faculty selected for this year's work is expected to push the schools ahead.

Mr. Currey announces that he expects to be in Prestonsburg, September 9 or 10, after which date he will be glad to meet with parents and offer advice as to planning for the education of their children.

Johnson County Boy, Once Cripple, Romps Through Hills As Member Of Louisville Troop of Boy Scouts

From a Johnson county home came, three years ago, a crippled lad into the care of the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children, who today is one of the manliest Boy Scouts in Louisville—romping and frolicking through the hills and holding his own with Scouts who never suffered such handicaps as his once were, says the Courier-Journal, which recounts the lad's story as follows:

This boy's name is Manuel and he was born and raised in the mountainous region of "Old Kaintuck."

About three years ago when the Rotary Clubs of the State were organizing the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children, Miss Marion Williamson, executive secretary of the society, was addressing the Rotary Club at Paintsville, Ky. Into the room hobbled a boy, 11 years old. He walked with a stick, home-fashioned of hickory and was badly crippled from a neglected injury to his knee. His right leg hung limply and the knee-cap was twisted around to the back of his leg.

Although crippled and ignorant, this boy, fairly radiated personality, from the top of his curly brown head to the tip of his limply hanging foot.

Questions brought forth the story of a dead mother, a father who had deserted his family, a blind grandfather who tried to make a home for Manuel and his five brothers and sisters. The Paintsville Rotary Club raised enough money to send the boy to Louisville with Miss Williamson, and he remained in the hospital here almost continuously for two years. During this time the Co-operative Club of the L. & N.

FATHER AND SON SHOT BY STACEY

Jealousy Said To Have Led To Magoffin Shooting

Jealousy is said to have caused the shooting of a father and his son, "Ham" Conley, 60 years old, and Henry Conley, 32, Tuesday afternoon by George W. Stacey, proprietor of the Prater hotel in Salyersville, where the shooting took place.

Both men are seriously wounded, reports say, but have a chance for recovery. The elder Conley was shot through the side, a short distance below the heart. His son was shot through the nose, the bullet piercing his tongue and emerging at the back of the neck.

Alleged attentions of the younger Conley to Stacey's 27-year-old wife are said to have led to the shooting. He is said to have accosted the younger man on the streets of Salyersville and to have opened fire without warning.

As his son fell, the elder Conley, it is said, ran forward, throwing, it is alleged, a rock at Stacey. He fell a moment later as Stacey's bullet struck him. Stacey, a news dispatch states, then attempted to shoot a third man as the man was wrestling the revolver from his grasp, but all the cartridges in the weapon had been fired.

The man charged with the shooting has been married four times, it is said. After separating from his first wife, he married the present Mrs. Stacey, from whom he was later estranged and in turn re-married his first spouse. A second separation from this wife led to his marriage again to the wife with whom he is now living.

Mr. Stacey was formerly jailer of Morgan county.

The report also states that the victim was a native of Greenup county and that the body was taken there for burial.

Mr. Wheatley sustained a severe cut on the leg, below the knee, and other minor cuts. The other occupant of the car escaped without serious injury. The auto was practically demolished.

W. M. Greenwade found the men in a dazed condition, and drove them back to Paintsville in his own car.

Neither of the occupants of the car remembered how they escaped death, and are believed not to have jumped from the machine until it stopped at the foot of the declivity.

WORK WITH IMMIGRANTS

Ellis island was a focal point of activity for the Daughters of the American Revolution from 1921 when the government gave permission to work in the women's detention room providing cloth, yarn and other materials for clothing and handiwork. Later, the Commissioner of Immigration asked that the work be extended to the men's section. For many years this occupational therapy provided by the DAR brought welcome relief from boredom to thousands of immigrants waiting to enter America.

Joseph Pulitzer, a Hungarian immigrant and publisher of The World, used the power of his newspaper to conduct fund-raising for the pedestal of the Statue of Liberty. His campaign went to the grassroots population of America. Now, almost 100 years later, America is once again being challenged to rescue Lady Liberty. Liberty Love Day (February 14-Valentine's Day) is the day chosen by the Daughters of the American Revolution for their nationwide effort. Each member will make her own voluntary contribution and enroll at least five other people who will each donate $1 or more. The John Graham Chapter here in Prestonsburg is spearheading the local campaign.

FAME

ORIENT EXPRESS — Cheryl Ladd and Stuart Wilson star as American magazine editor Lily Conrad and Englishman Alex Woodward in "Romance on the Orient Express," airing Monday, March 4 on NBC.

Cheryl Ladd

The story revolves around the couple's earlier affair which ended 10 years before when Woodward failed to meet Miss Conrad to finalize their wedding plans. Miss Conrad doesn't suspect that Woodward has tracked her down in the hope of winning her back. As they travel on the famous Orient Express from Venice to Paris, Miss Conrad soon realizes that she cannot suppress the intense feeling she begins to experience again. She believes there may be hope for their lost love.

Of her character, Miss Ladd says: "I found Lily Conrad to be a very modern woman. She's ambitious, determined and has a tough quality about her. I was waiting for something that peaked my interest and I think what convinced me to take the role of Lily was having to play her from the ages of 19 to 29. It was a challenge to be 19, naive and unaware of the harsh realities in life. In Lily's recovering, she does become a bit hardened and focuses on her career. I like that idea, the duality of that growth."

The beautiful countryside also added to the story, Miss Ladd says. "The movie was so beautifully shot. I'm so pleased with what they have captured: the old romantic quality of Europe."

Academy Award-winner Sir John Gielgud makes a special guest appearance in the movie.

James Farentino

UNUSUAL FRIENDSHIP — "A Summer to Remember," the story of a deaf boy's unusual friendship with an orangutan, will air March 27 on CBS.

Sean Gerlis, who has been deaf since birth, plays a lonely boy who uses sign language to establish a relationship with an orangutan who is hiding near his home. James Farentino stars as the boy's father, who thinks his son is lying about the animal. Louise Fletcher plays the scientist who raised the orangutan and taught it a type of sign language.

WITNESS. (R-Paramount Pictures) Starring Harrison Ford, Kelly McGillis and Alexander Godunov. ★ ★ ★ 1/2

By J.T. YURKO

Why has Australia produced such a large number of fine films and fine film makers? During the last few years, filmgoers have been treated to an Australian film invasion, which has produced films such as "The Last Wave," "Gallipoli" and "The Year of Living Dangerously." Now comes the first American film by the director of the aforementioned three: "Witness" by Peter Weir. And with this film, Weir sets his mark as one of the best directors working in any country.

The evidence is visible in almost every frame of "Witness." The story is essentially a crime-and-cops tale, with much of the action taking place in an Amish community. What sets this film apart from most is that Weir has filled the screen with emotion, passion and sentiment. Yet every response he elicits from the proceedings is drawn with such an easy-handed grace and style it seems as though he were letting us discover this tale naturally and not creating it artificially. In an era of sledgehammer manipulation, Weir's direction is a breath of fresh air.

Lowell Langefeld, First United Methodist, "The Crucifixion," Good Friday, April 5, and the Easter sermon, by the Rev. Chris Platt, St. James Episcopal, April 7.

The Monday through Friday services will be held at the Irene Cole Memorial (First) Baptist Church, and (weather permitting), the Easter sunrise services at the Amphitheatre, at Jenny Wiley State Park. In case of inclement weather, the services will be held at nearby May Lodge.

A light lunch will be served from Monday through Friday, with food furnished by women of the church whose pastor will be bringing the message on each designated day, and will be served by the Social committee of the host church. Women of some of the smaller churches are being asked to join some of those of the larger churches in the preparation of food, with women of the Seventh Day Adventist Church joining with those of the Community United Methodist, and women of St. James Episcopal with those of the Lancer Baptist Church.

Pike Man Sentenced For TV Cable Theft

A Pike county resident received a stiff sentence last week for stealing cable reception for his home TV set.

Tommy Russell, of Island Creek, was sentenced to a year in jail and fined $500 for theft of services. JoAnn Holbrook, owner of the Island Creek Cable Co., said last September that Russell had spliced into her TV cable line to get free service.

Mrs. Holbrook expressed satisfaction with last week's conviction. "I'm very glad this has been brought to court," she said. "It is a crime to steal cable service and this shows that."

Prosecutor Bayard Collier said the severity of the sentence should show people that cable theft is not a minor offense.

P.T.O. TO MEET

The Mountain Christian Academy P.T.O. meeting will be held Monday, March 4 at 6:30 p.m. Guest speakers will be Dr. Mark Sohn, speaking on "Adolescent Psychology," and Carol Yeager speaking on "Psychology of the Child."

Cable T.V. Signal Thieves Put On Notice

The Floyd County Cable TV Association announces today the beginning of a concentrated effort to locate and prosecute, to the full extent of the law, all cable TV thieves in their local cable system.

The association stated that they are now in possession of the new State of the Art Electronic Detection gear that will enable them to quickly pinpoint all unlawful hookups on the cable systems, once they begin the procedure the first of September.

The group said they decided to conduct the search when it became evident that there were hundreds of these illegal hookups within their systems.

The association said that in many cases illegal hookups created electronic problems within their systems that affect the signal quality to paying subscribers and they are determined to provide the best service possible to their paying customers by eliminating the illegals.

The group also said, since the Association's main interest and business is providing cable TV signals to paying customers, and not the prosecution of those persons involved in an illegal hookup, that to all persons who call their cable company's office before the search begins, to request a legal hookup to the cable service, no questions will be asked and no embarrassing comments will be made by their personnel.

The association urges those of you who are hooked up illegally to call! If not, be prepared to face the embarrassing and, very probably, costly consequences! The decision is yours.

The operators also request that customers who have extra sets connected to their systems and are not being billed, please contact your local cable company.

WHAT IS THE VALUE OF A FULL-SERVICE FUNERAL?

Since the beginning of time, man has publicly viewed and buried his dead with dignity and ceremony. Although rituals differ, the funeral service meets the needs of the survivors, the living, as well as providing for the deceased. What are some of these needs and how does a full-service funeral fulfill them?

Realization: First, it declares that death has occurred and it offers testimonial to a life well-lived. Denial of a death is common. The very fact of a funeral and the viewing of the body (or casket) facilitates the realization of that death.

Emotional expression: The full-service funeral is of deep psychological significance to the living. Sorrow-shared is sorrow-diminished. The full-service and the facing-of-facts is the first step toward emotional adjustment after bereavement.

For more information about the full-service funeral, stop by or phone us.

Some 23 state representatives have recently been appointed to committees of the Southern Legislative Conference of the Council of State Governments for 1985-86.

The SLC offers legislators from 17 southern jurisdictions the opportunity to meet and discuss issues facing their legislatures and the southern region.

The SLC is one of four regional legislative conferences in existence under the Council of State Governments, a national organization. The CSG is headquartered in Lexington, Ky.

The Kentucky House appointments, announced by House Speaker Don Blandford, D-Philpot, include members and alternates to nine standing committees of the SLC and members only to the Southern Legislative Conference State Legislators' Network.

Named to SLC committees are:
Rep. Greg Stumbo, Prestonsburg, State-Federal Affairs, and Rep. Herbie Deskins, Pikeville, Environmental Quality and Natural Resources.

CAP Announces Annual Grants

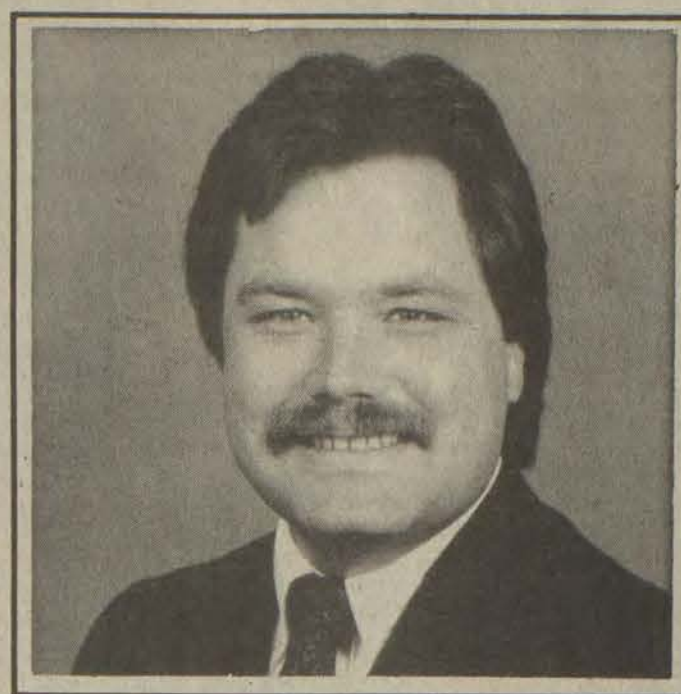

The Christian Appalachian Project recently announced its annual scholarship program designed to promote community spirit and involvement.

This year $1,000 in scholarship money will be awarded to each of the following counties: Clay, Floyd, Garrard, Jackson, Jessamine, Knott, Letcher, Lincoln, Madison, Magoffin, Martin, Pulaski, Rockcastle, Whitley and Wolfe. Nine additional counties are to be included as of 1985. They are as follows: Estill, Johnson, Knox, Laurel, Lee, Leslie, McCreary, Owsley and Powell. Additional grants of $1,000 will be awarded to the Buckhorn Children's Center, Oneida Baptist Institute, Redbird Mission, and students of the Kentucky School for the Deaf from the Appalachian counties.

These scholarships are unique in that grade standing and family financial circumstances are not the prime factors for selection. Citizens' committees from each community select the recipient or recipients from their county based upon involvements and contributions to their local communities. Applicants for the scholarships must be graduating seniors.

School counselors will have applications and further information concerning these scholarships by mid-March, or seniors may contact the coordinator of Scholarships & Grants directly at C.A.P., 322 Crab Orchard Road, Lancaster, Kentucky, 40446.

Hospital Warns Parents...

"Social Drinking" At Home Sends Message To Children

George had a particularly bad day Wednesday. After arriving late for work, the boss called him on the carpet for missing a deadline. Once home, he settled into his easy chair, comforted by his extra-dry martini.

On the other hand, George had a terrific day Friday when he closed a big sale he had been working on for weeks. He jovially suggested that he and his wife celebrate at their favorite bar.

Both incidents involve what most consider harmless "social" drinking. But they may also communicate mixed messages to George's children, according to Dan Rohrbough, alcohol therapist at Our Lady of Bellefonte Hospital Care Unit.

"The kids see it's okay to have a drink because it's a bad day and then they see it's okay to have a drink because it's a good day," he explains. "Without realizing it, parents like George may communicate that drinking helps us to get through good times and bad."

Since children learn by example, Rohrbough explains that parents need to be highly sensitive to what they're communicating to their children through "social" drinking. This includes being aware of how much and when they're drinking in front of their children.

"A beer on a hot day after a set of tennis or a champagne toast at a wedding is acceptable social drinking provided that someone isn't an alcoholic," he says. "Two martinis after work every day is not social drinking. That's medicine."

Rohrbough adds that parents should guard against drinking at every social occasion. "It's important that children don't get the message that they must drink to socialize properly," he explains. Parents should also be aware that keeping ample supplies of alcohol may suggest that liquor is a household staple, he says.

Rohrbough says that most parents underestimate how perceptive a child is about their drinking patterns. "I know of one father whose 2 year old son would frequently bring him a beer because he could tell daddy needed it," he said. "I have also heard about a 6 year old who would always wait to ask his father for something after 7:30 p.m. because he knew dad was much more pliable after he'd had a couple of beers under his belt."

Rohrbough says whether a child is allowed to taste alcohol is up to the individual parent. "If a child is allowed a sip of alcohol at home, it may take some of the mystique out of it," he says. "It may also be a good time to initiate an open discussion about the pros and cons of alcohol and how it can be abused."

Rohrbough adds that no child should be allowed to drink regularly until he or she reaches legal drinking age. "The law says it's 21 and there are good reasons for that," he says. "Unfortunately, many parents think it's okay to get two big kegs of beer for a 16 year old's party," he says. "They give into kids who threaten to drink at a friend's house if the parents won't let them drink at home. This is a case where the parent takes the easy way out."

Rohrbough says that educating a child about alcohol is a continual process which parents need to initiate. "Too often we react to a crisis rather than trying to exercise some prevention," he says. "It's important to talk about alcohol and the issues surrounding it. Children also need to learn refusal skills so they can say no to alcohol and feel good about it."

"But the best teaching tool of all is a good example," he adds. "Kids learn from what parents say, but they learn a lot more from what they do."

Kentucky (So Far) Has Escaped Severe Influenza Epidemic

While much of the nation is suffering from a severe outbreak of influenza, the number of cases reported in Kentucky is not all that alarming, according to officials of the Department for Health Services.

"Kentucky is having considerably fewer cases this year than in 1981, which was a bad year for influenza," said Dr. Ward Hinds, director of the Division of Epidemiology. "In 1981, we had as many as 8,500 cases per week reported during the flu season. This year the highest total in one week has been 2,200 reported cases."

Hinds added that in 1983 Kentucky also experienced a more severe outbreak of influenza, with more than 10,000 cases being reported one week during February. The Type A influenza virus, which is probably responsible for most of the current cases, was confirmed first in the state last December. Since then, there has been no clearcut peak in the occurrence level, although the number of reported cases has been above average since mid-January, Hinds said.

Another indication that the outbreak is not as severe in the state this year as in the past is the number of counties reporting influenza cases, Hinds pointed out. During 1981, as many as 19 counties reported influenza cases each week during the season, with a low number of 12 counties in one week. This year, the high number of counties has been 14, with a low of seven counties reporting cases in one week.

Although the worst part of the influenza season may be behind us, Hinds said it is still not too late to be vaccinated against influenza.

"Influenza may continue into April, so the possibility of catching influenza is still there," said Hinds. He recommended that anyone who is considered in the high-risk groups be vaccinated against influenza if they have not already done so. That includes people who have chronic illnesses such as heart disease, lung disease or diabetes. Anyone over the age of 65, as well as health care workers, should consider being vaccinated.

"We recommended health care workers be vaccinated since they are more likely to be exposed to the virus, and if they get it, are more likely to transmit it to high-risk persons," said Hinds.

Hinds also warned parents of children who do get influenza against giving them aspirin to help bring down the fever, since this could cause what is known as Reye's Syndrome. This disease, which affects the liver and central nervous system, can cause serious illness and death. The cause for Reye's is unknown.

"Reye's Syndrome occurs in a small number of children following an illness with fever, such as influenza or chicken pox," said Hinds. "The use of aspirin appears to increase the risk of Reye's." He recommended using products containing acetaminophen, if there is a need to lower high fevers.

While there is no specific cure for influenza, Hinds said the drug amantadine can be useful in shortening the course of the disease, if treatment begins during the first day or so of infection.

"If you suspect you have influenza, the best thing to do is, simply, see your doctor," he said.

Women's Group Directory Published by Commission

"A Woman's Place in Kentucky," a 399-page directory of women's organizations and professional women in the state is now available at the Kentucky Commission on Women.

The directory, published by the Kentucky Commission on Women, has more than 400 entries representing women's organizations and organizations that offer support to women. The "Yellow Pages" section lists women in business such as attorneys, counselors, carpenters, consultants, artists, caterers and photographers.

"It's the first such statewide directory in the nation," according to Robin J. Crigler, Executive Director of the Kentucky Commission on Women.

Although it seems that primarily women would be interested in the directory, Ms. Crigler said it should become an important toll to all members of the business community as a resource and reference guide.

"We feel strongly about networking and the importance of keeping organizations in contact with other organizations and we also see it as an important toll to help promote women in business," Ms. Crigler said.

The Commission intends to publish a supplement late this year because of the large number of additional entries they have received. Anyone wishing to list a business, service, club or organization in the supplement should contact the Kentucky Commission on Women. There is no charge for listing in the directory.

"A Woman's Place in Kentucky" is available at $6.95 by writing the Women's Directory, Kentucky Commission on Women, 614-A Shelby Street, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. The price includes postage.

HEAD LICE

Lice are parasites that commonly affect humans. They can exist in people of all ages and social levels. No one is immune. Infestation by head lice is more common among children. As a matter of fact, schools are sometimes closed because of an outbreak of lice that spreads in epidemic proportions. Any part of the scalp can be affected. The itching is not severe. Pustules, bleeding areas on the scalp and matting of the hair may be noticed. It is important to periodically check your children's hair. The lice can be seen on the scalp and small, white sticky eggs on the hair itself may be observed. Lice can be treated with a variety of over-the-counter products. Consult your pharmacist about application procedures.

Although we never play doctor, the pharmacists at COOLEY APOTHECARY will be happy to answer any of your questions about over the counter remedies or about any of the prescription medications your physician may prescribe. For your convenience at income tax time and for insurance purposes we maintain patient profiles. This program also allows us to check for drug interactions and for drug allergies. You'll find us located in No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106 and open Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4. Master Charge and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments.

HANDY HINT:

Lice can be transmitted from person to person by sharing personal articles or by body contact.

People who save energy deserve a reward.

Take a bite out of your monthly electric bill by following a few energy-saving hints.

You can save money by wrapping your electric water heater with an insulated jacket. Save even more by setting your water temperature at 140°F—if you don't have a dishwasher, you can set the thermostat at 120°F.

Whenever possible, use a toaster, toaster-oven or electric frypan instead of your large oven or range. Place pans on the surface of your electric range before you turn on the heat. And use lids on your pots and pans instead of leaving them uncovered.

Place the items you use the most in the front of your refrigerator so you can get to them quickly without wasting too much cold air.

By using these simple tips and good common sense, you can really slim down your electric bill. Reward yourself for the money you saved, but be careful of the calories!

ARC Twentieth Anniversary Marked in Special Celebration

The twentieth anniversary of the Appalachian Regional Commission was marked last Saturday by a celebration hosted in the nation's capital by the governors of the 13 Appalachian states. The celebration, including a 7 p.m. banquet at the Capitol Hill Hyatt Regency Hotel, was planned by the governors to honor the founders and pioneers of the Commission and to recognize the progress made in bringing the Appalachian Region closer to the nation's economic mainstream since ARC's establishment in 1965. To commemorate the anniversary, the Commission also launched a special initiative aimed at lowering the Region's school dropout rate, which remains higher than the nation's average, posing a severe threat to economic growth. During the celebration, medallions were presented to a group of 14 individuals in recognition of their pioneering contributions to the Appalachian program. They are: the late President John F. Kennedy; the late President Lyndon B. Johnson; former U.S. Senator Jennings Randolph of West Virginia; former U.S. Senator John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky; U.S. Senator John C. Stennis of Mississippi; former U.S. Representative Robert E. Jones of Alabama; U.S. Representative Jamie Lloyd Whitten of Mississippi; the late U.S. Representative Joe L. Evins of Tennessee; U.S. Representative Tom Bevill of Alabama; former Governor Bert T. Combs of Kentucky; the late Governor John Millard Tawes of Maryland; Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Jr., chairman of the President's Regional Appalachian Commission, a forerunner of ARC; John L. Sweeney, first federal co-chairman of ARC; and John D. Whisman, Kentucky's first representative to the Commission and ARC state's regional representative for more than a decade. Additional honorees include all state governors who have served as Commission members. Another highlight of the celebration was the premier showing of the film commissioned by the governors, "More than a Promise: Appalachia Twenty Years Later," surveying the accomplishments of the past 20 years. The film will be telecast throughout the Region during the coming months. The celebration precedes by two weeks the actual date of ARC's establishment. The Appalachian Regional Development Act was signed into law by President Johnson on March 9, 1965. The Washington events were planned to coincide with a conference in Washington of local development district officials from throughout the Region and the winter meeting of the National Governors Association. At a governors' quorum meeting of the Commission preceding the celebration, ARC Federal Co-Chairman Winifred A. Pizzano outlined plans for the special initiative on school dropouts. The initiative is spurred by the fact that the dropout rate is still intolerably high throughout much of Appalachia, reaching 50 percent in some school districts. The goal of the Commission's special program was to stimulate other public and private resources to support dropout reduction and prevention programs through such community-based projects as special tutorial programs, work-related training programs, etc.

Hospital Association Protests Rate Boost Asked by Phone Firm

In an effort to keep the cost of hospital care from ultimately increasing, the Kentucky Hospital Association (KHA) has intervened in the requested rate increase of $76 million filed by South Central Bell before the Public Service Commission (PSC).

Although not a lawsuit, the intervention by KHA is an opportunity to provide additional information to the PSC in an effort to keep hospital telephone rates from increasing.

(Hospitals are telephone intensive due to the need to provide patients the ability to remain in touch with families.)

In written testimony prepared for the Public Service Commission, William S. Conn, Jr., president of the KHA said, "The hospital industry recognizes the plight of service industries such as South Central Bell and other utilities and their need for revenue to cover their operations. However, we feel a strong obligation to inform the PSC of the plight of hospitals in meeting increased costs for telephone service and other utilities. It is our belief that the general public is not aware of, or at least does not readily associate the fact that utility rate increases simultaneously increase their cost of hospital care as well."

"Since hospitals must manage their costs within budgeted amounts under the federal government's prospective pricing system (DRGs) in order to remain financially viable, increased hospital telephone rates could not only increase hospital costs but may prompt some hospitals ultimately to consider limiting telephones for patient use."

"While hospitals have entered into sharing arrangements to achieve greater cost efficiency for many items of hospital expense, hospitals have little or no control over increasing telephones and other utility rates," said Conn.

"Hospitals in 1985 are undergoing a metamorphosis resulting from a variety of pressures and are unable to absorb costs of new technology as well as other expense items, such as telephone and other utility costs," said Conn. He added, "Increases in the rates and charges for hospital telephone service are not susceptible to the benefits derived by cost containment programs which hospitals have implemented."
