

Meeting Called To Oust Supt. Grigsby Cancelled

Grigsby Claims Move Involved McDonald Office

An anticipated showdown between some members of the Floyd Board of Education and Superintendent E.P. Grigsby, Jr. failed to materialize when Board Chairman Dr. J.D. Adams abruptly called off a special meeting of the board scheduled for Monday night.

Adams declined to give a reason for his decision to cancel the meeting, which he announced last Tuesday "to evaluate the superintendent and consider his possible removal." But Grigsby speculated that Adams backed down because "he didn't have the numbers."

The board chairman would have needed the support of at least two other board members for a vote to fire Grigsby and, even then, the ouster of the superintendent, who still has three years to run on his four-year contract, might have proven difficult. Board member James A. Duff is known to have backed Adams' bid to remove the superintendent but Ray "Shag" Campbell, who was also rumored to be leaning in that direction, said such reports were without foundation.

Grigsby made it clear last week that he had no intention of going quietly. In a press release issued Thursday, the superintendent said that the move to fire him resulted from a deal worked out between some Floyd board members and the office of state Superintendent for Public Instruction Alice McDonald.

According to the alleged pact, the terms of which were conveyed to him on July 9 by Dr. Adams, the state superintendent offered the Floyd board "exoneration and peace" if the board would "abandon their support" for him, Grigsby said.

Grigsby said in the press release that his "problems" with the state school board, which voted earlier this month to give Floyd school officials until August 15 to show why the state should not consider removing them from office, stemmed from his refusal to back Mrs. McDonald's 1983 political campaign. Grigsby said he was approached by "the McDonald campaign" during the primary that year and "received hostile feelings from the McDonald camp" when he declined to support her candidacy.

Grigsby said Monday he had retained Robert L. Chenoweth, a Frankfort attorney and former assistant attorney general, to represent him in his dealings with state school officials and, now, with members of the Floyd school board as well.

Chenoweth advised him that Senate Bill 202, the so-called "academic bankruptcy" law, and another state law cited by the state school board in its threat to consider removing Floyd officials from office were "poorly drafted" laws which had never been proven in the courts, Grigsby said.

In particular, his attorney questioned the right of an appointed state panel to remove from office a duly elected local board or its employee, Grigsby said. Chenoweth has written the state board to ask that it specify its charges against him, Grigsby added.

Blaze Claims Manton Resident

Millard Edward Gunnels, 40, of Stephens Branch, died Thursday of carbon monoxide poisoning resulting from smoke inhalation in a fire at his home.

The fire apparently began when Gunnels fell asleep in a recliner while smoking, said Coroner Roger Nelson. The cigarette was believed to have fallen into the chair and started the blaze, which awoke Gunnels. He attempted to push the chair out the kitchen door, but was only able to get it into the doorway, blocking that exit. He then awoke his four children, who escaped through the front door. After the children were safe, Gunnels re-entered the house to check on his wife, who, unknown to him, had already left the house, and retrieve a metal box containing important papers from his bedroom. While inside, he was overcome by smoke. Nelson said evidence indicates Gunnels tried unsuccessfully to escape by opening the bedroom window. The time of death was placed by Nelson at 5:15 a.m.

The only injuries sustained by other family members were minor burns on the foot and lower leg of one of his daughters.

Gunnels' body was taken to the McDowell hospital, where Dr. David Wolfe, forensic anthropologist with the state medical examiner's office, performed the post-mortem.

Gunnels was a native of Langley, a retired employee of Kentucky West Virginia Gas Co., and an Army veteran of the Vietnam War.

HIGHLAND AVENUE RESIDENTS awoke Saturday morning to look on a sea of mud—or at least a streetful—and fire department and city utilities personnel spent several hours cleaning up the mess. An overflow valve on the water tank located on the hillside above Highland failed to shut off automatically with the resultant wash of debris which would have been welcomed by many whose gardens are akin to the Sahara right now.

Judge Directs Five To Begin Prison Terms

Free on bond while their unsuccessful appeal was being heard, Prestonsburg coal operator Edgar Jones and four other Floyd men were ordered by a federal judge last week to begin serving their prison sentences no later than next Monday.

In an order issued last Wednesday, U.S. District Judge G. Wix Unthank directed Jones to report to a penitentiary to be designated by the federal Bureau of Prisons on or before July 29. German Stumbo, 40, Kenneth Rolland, 47, and Teddy Kinney, 49, all of McDowell, and Mose Meade, 26, of Wayland, were all instructed to report a U.S. marshal by the same date.

The five were convicted in April last year of using violence in an attempt to shut down a non-union coal mine operated by the Ray-Mac Company, near McDowell, in February and March 1982. Convicted after a three-month trial, they were sentenced to three years in prison.

Jones is part-owner and president of the JRM Coal Company, a firm that marketed coal furnished by a group of contract mine operators. According to evidence presented at the trial, Jones became concerned, early in 1982, that JRM would not have enough coal to meet its contract with a South Carolina utility, to which it was obligated to deliver 7500 tons a week.

Fearing that Ray-Mac, a nearby non-union operator, would take advantage of the situation and cut in on the deal with South Carolina Electric and Gas Co., Jones sought help from local union officials of the UMWA, with which all the operators in JRM's network had labor contracts. By persuading the local to call a strike and set up a picket line, prosecutors said, Jones hoped to shut Ray-Mac down. At the same time, a clause in JRM's contract with South Carolina

Marshall Wins U.S. Court Case

A U.S. District Court jury in Pikeville took less than 15 minutes last Thursday to acquit Clyde Douglas Marshall of a three-year-old weapons charge.

Marshall, 33, was indicted in April on a charge of possession of a handgun while a convicted felon. The former Hueysville man served 11 months in an Ohio jail in 1973 after pleading guilty to a robbery charge.

In the case presented last week by Assistant U.S. Attorney Thomas L. Self, Marshall was accused of selling a .38-caliber Smith and Wesson pistol to Harold "Bud" Baldrige, of Prestonsburg, on January 21, 1982, while both men, who were then employees of Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company, were attending a meeting of the Society of Petroleum Engineers at the Paintsville Country Club.

Marshall flatly denied the charge and suggested later that it may have originated in the fact that Baldrige is related by marriage to Frank Rapier, a Lexington agent of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

Another gas company worker, Tom Harmon, of Ivel, testified that Marshall earlier tried to sell him the pistol on the day of the meeting and told him later that night that he had already sold it to someone else. But Harmon said the transaction occurred at a meeting of the Na-

Lafferty Jurors Unable To Agree

A Pike Circuit Court jury was unable to reach a verdict Monday in the trial of former Floyd Deputy Judge-Executive Thomas Lafferty, Sr. on a theft charge. Trial of Irene Merion, also for alleged theft, ended in an acquittal Tuesday in a directed verdict by Special Judge Will T. Scott.

Mrs. Merion, wife of a Martin funeral director, was accused of receiving from Floyd county a check to cover the cost of a funeral that was previously paid for. After state prosecutors rested their case Tuesday, defense attorneys Cassie Allen and Stephen Owens moved successfully for a directed verdict of acquittal, Judge Scott ruling that the Commonwealth had failed to prove criminal intent.

"This was really important to us," said Attorney Allen soon after the judge announced his decision around 3:15 p.m. "because (the charge against Mrs. Merion) was a mistake from the start."

After hearing four days of testimony, jurors in the Lafferty trial began their deliberations around 4 p.m. Monday, resumed after a supper break, but declared around 8:30 p.m. that they were unable to reach agreement on a verdict.

Prosecutors sought to prove that the former deputy judge had misused a county credit card during the last five months of 1982, charging to the county a total of $847 in meals, mostly at the Plantation Motel, of which he was part owner.

But defense attorney Phillip D. Damron pointed out that, three months later, Lafferty donated five weeks' salary—representing about $1200—to the county "to alleviate its financial burden."

"It's not much of a thief who gives back more than 50 percent more than he's supposed to have stolen," Damron remarked.

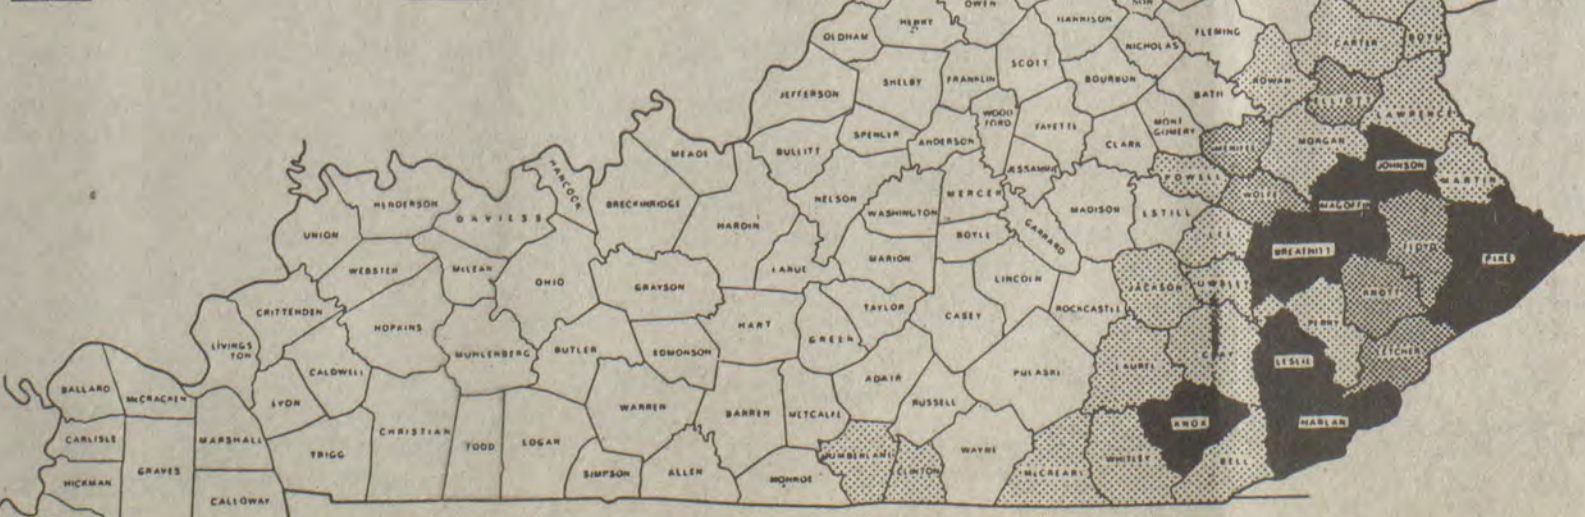

Prosecutors sought to cast Lafferty's donation in a less altruistic light, noting that it came only after questions had been raised publicly about spending practices in the 1982 administration of Lafferty's brother, the late Jerry Lafferty, Jr., who was judge-executive.

But Damron insisted that the gift was planned before Lafferty was aware of any investigation and that, in any event, his use of the county credit cards was legitimate. That argument turned on a point of law, prosecution witness Al

REAL PROPERTY DELINQUENCY RATES 1983 TAX YEAR

Source: Department of Property Taxation

Tax Delinquents Get Extra Grace Period

Floyd countians who haven't paid their 1984 taxes are the beneficiaries of an extended period of grace before their property is advertised for sale by the sheriff, thanks to the state Department of Revenue.

Sheriff Henry C. Hale was ready to advertise the delinquent taxes, weeks ago. But just after he had advertised the sale date and had notified delinquents by direct mail, a representative of the state told him the sale could not be consummated until he had collected 95% of the total tax bill.

Since then, the sheriff has concentrated on reaching the required 95% collection level, but as of last Friday, for all his efforts, collections were only slightly above 91%.

(Now, a Department of Revenue representative says Hale could advertise the delinquent tax bills but could not make the sale unless the required collection level is met. "Why advertise if you can't sell?" Mrs. Grace Damron, of the Sheriff's office, rejoined.)

Although Mrs. Damron said the 95% collection appears to be a hard-and-fast rule, Claude Slone, the Knott county native who is commissioner of the state's Department of Property Taxation, has been quoted as saying that the collection percentage is a target figure and that there may be exceptions to it. He was quoted as saying each county would be considered separately.

"You've got to be kidding," Al Howell, of the Office of Local Finance, remarked recently during a call at the sheriff's office here when told of the state ban on advertising and selling the delinquent tax bills, saying he knew of at least one county with a low collection rate that already had gone through the entire procedure.

(Knott county, which had collected only about 87% of its taxes for 1984, has already advertised and sold its delinquent bills.)

Floyd county had 15,562 tax bills in 1984, and these totalled $2,519,949.03. When will the delinquents be advertised? Mrs. Damron says she doesn't know. It's already later in the year than ever before for the sale. From here on out she sees tax collecting as a slow job.

"We have people, almost every day, calling, saying they just don't have the money," she said. Unemployment and

Fire Code Violations Pose Threat to School Opening

Prestonsburg schools will not reopen next month unless certain fire code violations are corrected, city fire officials said this week.

In a July 15 inspection report, Fire Marshal Larry Adams lists 33 fire code violations at Prestonsburg grade school; an inspection the following day at the high school here disclosed 18 infractions. In a letter sent to members of the Floyd Board of Education and Superintendent E.P. Grigsby, Jr., Adams said most of the violations resulted from poor maintenance.

Fifteen violations—seven at the grade school, eight at the high school—must be corrected before Prestonsburg students will be permitted to return to their classrooms, Adams said, and his ultimatum has the backing of Code Enforcement Officer Paul Chaffins and Fire Chief Tom Blackburn. "They're going to correct these violations or they're not going to open," Blackburn said Monday.

Floyd students are scheduled to return to school on August 8. Work to be done by then at Prestonsburg grade school includes installation of exit lights; adding self-closers to all smoke doors; repair and certification of the fire alarm system, and repair of an emergency power system. The entire school plant must be brought into conformity with the National Electrical Code and must be certified, fire officials said.

At the high school, smoke doors must be repaired and equipped with self-closers; vending machines are to be removed from hallways; fire alarm and emergency lighting systems must be in working condition; a cover is to be replaced on the main electrical panel, and a boiler room pipe, which is reported to be leaking onto an electrical motor, is to be repaired.

"If the Lord lets us live, we're going to try to take care of it," Volney Allen, the schools' maintenance supervisor, said of the list of violations. Work is currently being done on rewiring several trailers on the grade school campus and a contract for the remaining repair work has been let to a contractor, he said. "But there are a lot of ifs in there," Allen conceded.

Fire Chief Blackburn indicated he was in no mood to tolerate any delays in completing the essential repair work. "We've gone to the board repeatedly—over five, six, seven years—and told them to correct these things, but every year they come back with a different excuse," he said, adding, "The kids are not going back into the schools without fire alarms or emergency lights or with exits that don't work right."

drivers are routinely treated to a display that more than few would describe as crazy.

Sitting in an odd-shaped contraption called a gyrocopter, Young swoops and moves across the sky, seemingly with no regard for his personal safety. His ship, as he likes to call the gyrocopter, measures about eight feet from tip to tail, weighs in at just a few hundred pounds, and is a marvel to behold. Basically, it consists of a frame, a seat, a control stick, two propellers, three wheels and not much else. But not much else is needed for Young to fly his ship just about anywhere he wants to go.

"The ship is designed to go across country," he said. "It has full instrumentation, except for a radio, and a transponder," a device he said airport towers can home in on to keep track of aircraft. Young makes up for this lack of equipment by calling ahead to airports with his estimated time of arrival, and by avoiding major, metropolitan airports.

The only other obstacle to cross-country jaunts is the Federal Aviation Authority, whose restrictions on gyrocopter pilots without fully certified licenses are rather limiting. Young has a "student ticket," the equivalent of an automobile learner's permit. For example, Young is not supposed to fly his ship anywhere except the air-space directly over Combs field and adjacent Auxier. He is not to perform acrobatics or fly across the runway. He resolves these conflicts by ignoring them.

"Nobody cares," he said. "As long as I don't create a hazard for other pilots, I can do what I want."

And what he does is spectacular. With his machine, Young is able to do most things an actual helicopter can. He can fly vertically at speeds approaching 70 mph, climbing and diving with a startling swiftness more appropriate to a bird than a machine; making steep, banking turns which take away the breath of earthbound observers. He can even shut off his engine and "coast" to the ground.

The same thing that allows him to coast down prevents vertical take-offs, however. The reason is, the main propeller is not motorized. Rather, the ship is pushed forward by thrust created by a smaller, motorized rear propeller. The wind flowing across the larger blades causes them to turn, eventually creating enough lift to raise the craft aloft. If the engine fails while airborne, the rushing air keeps the blades turning fast enough for a safe descent, according to Young.

Young is aware that many people question the sanity of his hobby. To this he answers they simply don't understand the mechanics of flying a gyro. He says if one is well-trained and uses commonsense, flying a gyro is safer than driving a car.

"There are two things that will get you killed when you're flying," he said. "One is over-confidence, the other is under-confidence. If a pilot gets up there and starts doing crazy things, he can get in trouble, the same way if he's up there and starts thinking that he doesn't know what he's doing and panics."

A death resulting from over-confidence occurred just recently, he said, when an Ohio man attempted a trick maneuver while landing. He was causing the gyrocopter to spin along with the blades, a stunt fairly common among experienced pilots, when he decided to add a little more difficulty by pushing the rudder and adding a sharp turn. This caused the ship to lurch and the main propeller to strike the tail of the craft. At that point the blades stopped turning, and the gyro fell about 200 feet to the ground.

"He fought it all the way down," said Young, but it was to no avail. Young said the man left behind a wife and seven children.

As for himself, Young has had only one accident, and it was minor.

"Back when I had less than 15 hours of flying instruction, I flipped off the tow-line and figured I'd land the ship myself," he said. The gyro fell about 30 feet to the ground. Fortunately, he wasn't injured.

The tow-line Young referred to is standard operating procedure in teaching novice gyro pilots. A non-motorized ship is attached by the line to a truck and pulled, causing the blades to spin and the gyro to fly. An experienced pilot rides in back of the truck and yells instructions to the student. The student gets a minimum of 15 hours of such training, according to Young, before he's allowed to taxi up and down the runway alone.

And, if anyone feels brave enough to become a gyro-pilot himself, Young is willing to teach them, for the relatively modest price of $20.00 per hour. In fact, he and fellow gyro-pilot, Tim "Sky Tamer" Coleman, have plans to form a gyro club if enough interest can be raised.

Young believes gyro-flying will attract people like himself, a self-proclaimed egotist.

"This is a great ego-trip. It attracts very self-centered, egotistic people. It's that type who like to fly."

But Young emphasized gyros were strictly recreational vehicles.

"People have to realize they can't use a gyro to fly to and from work, for example," he said. "They are recreational and experimental."

If nothing else, Young is confident and exuberant.

"I guess that's why they call me Captain Gyro," he said. "Because I'm so good. I'd rather fly it (the gyro) than eat."

All states have child labor laws, and when both state and federal child labor laws apply, the law setting the more stringent standard must be observed, according to a U.S. Department of Labor fact sheet.

Distinguished Student

The Society of Distinguished American High School Students announces that Cindy Lea Stephens has been awarded a membership of distinction in recognition of her excellence in leadership, scholarship and civic contributions.

Society membership not only provides students with the positive recognition they deserve, but also makes them eligible for scholarship funds from over 130 colleges and universities.

Miss Stephens was nominated by her church and has been selected to represent her church and Bryan Station Junior High School. Her biography of honors will be featured in this year's membership registry along with other outstanding young achievers across the nation.

She is the daughter of Dennis and Aranita Stephens, of Lexington. Her grandparents are Arnold and Ruby Clark, of Prestonsburg.

Area Serenity House Soon To Open Here

The Big Sandy Serenity House has found a home in Prestonsburg.

It is the fulfillment of the hopes of area residents who are interested in restoring alcoholics to health and normal lives. It will serve persons who have received help from treatment centers such as the Layne House here and the center at McDowell, will furnish them a place to live in and associate with others and, generally, help in their rehabilitation. They will be helped to find work, if they are able to work, and earn a livelihood.

Big Sandy Serenity House will be located at South Lake Drive here and is expected to open as soon as it is furnished and ready for occupancy. Betty Christian and Conrad McComas are in charge of its preparation.

The halfway house is planned to serve recovering alcoholics from several counties of this section.

NUMB ARMS, LEGS Warning Signals

There may be misalignment of vertebrae in the spine causing pressure on nerves, yet the patient experiences no pain in the back. Instead, a variety of sensations may be felt in other parts of the body. These include tingling, tightness, hot spots, cold spots, crawling sensations, electric shock sensations, stinging, burning, and others.

The following nine symptoms involving back pain or strange sensations are often the forerunners of more serious conditions. Any one of these may spell back trouble.

- (1) Paresthesias (see above)
- (2) Headaches
- (3) Painful joints
- (4) Numbness in the arms or hands
- (5) Loss of sleep
- (6) Stiffness in the neck
- (7) Pain between the shoulders
- (8) Stiffness or pain in lower back
- (9) Numbness or pain in the legs.

These signals may indicate your body is being robbed of normal nerve function. Until this function is restored, you will, in some degree, be incapacitated. The longer you wait to seek help, the worse the condition will likely become. Don't wait! Should you experience any of these warning signals... call for in depth consultation in Layman's terms.

Scottie Williams, Volunteer

Williams "riding the range" along new lake.

The Paint Creek valley in Johnson county is home to Scottie Williams, a U.S. Army Corps of Engineers volunteer. He knows the area as only one who has lived there 61 years can know it. He has ridden horseback across the same Paint Creek that became, in 1984, Paintsville Lake. In fact, after the lake was impounded, he enjoyed riding the ridges overlooking this clean, mountain lake so much he found himself riding along it twice a week through most of the year. So it was only natural when he learned of a need for forest fire spotters on his favorite riding area he should volunteer.

As a Corps of Engineers volunteer, Williams rides "the range," checking for anything that might harm the surrounding environment, such as forest fires, unauthorized logging, vandalism, trash dumping, oil spills, and the like. Since the Paintsville Lake area has a history of many forest fires caused by careless hunters and brush burners, his primary responsibility is to prevent and report on forest fires as quickly as possible.

Since Williams became a mounted volunteer fire spotter, there have been no forest fires on the 14,000 acres of land surrounding the lake. This is astonishing considering the fire history of the past 7 years. Every year since 1978 there have been 2 to 5 forest fires on the project. One of these severely damaged 500 acres of timber and burned a total of 2,000 acres. Perhaps this year was wetter than normal? Hardly. The spring of 1985 was one of the longest, driest fire seasons recorded at Paintsville Lake.

"The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers appreciates the work Scottie Williams has done while enjoying himself as a dedicated volunteer. The visitors who view the green hills, or the rhododendron blooming in June, or a deer drinking by the lake should appreciate his efforts, too," said a Corps spokesman.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers volunteer program began with passage of a new law July, 1983. Williams was the first volunteer under the program at Paintsville Lake. Since then, hundreds of volunteers have participated in improving the lake project. Flower beds have been planted to beautify the damsite area, trash has been picked up and hauled away, brush cleared, and trees planted. One group of volunteers is now planning to plant wildlife food plots for deer and wild turkey. Many of these projects were part of Boy Scout, Girl Scout, or other group activities. Others, as in Williams' case, involve one person, lending their time and expertise, to make Paintsville Lake better for everyone.

Drift Golfer Scores Amateur Division Win

Johnnie R. Turner, of Drift, lives 10 miles from the nearest golf course, but in the recent 44th annual Paintsville Invitational he was tops in the amateur division.

The tall Floyd countian, who looks more the basketball player than golfer, defeated the defending champion, Charlie White, of Ashland, 3 and 1, in the finals of the championship flight. He chipped in from 40 feet on the 13th hole for a birdie and a two-stroke lead and was never headed. White had won the amateur title at Paintsville on three previous occasions.

WDOC To Broadcast Leukemia Radiothon

The Kentucky Chapter, Leukemia Society of America, Inc. announced this week that the first annual Leukemia Radiothon will be broadcast live July 27, 1985, on WDOC AM-FM, Prestonsburg, from 10:00 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Leukemia kills more children between the ages of 2 and 15 than any other disease. It kills more adults than children. People over 60 are most often affected, and more men than women. There is yet no known way to prevent Leukemia, but it can be treated effectively.

The Leukemia Society provides direct financial assistance to 18 families in Floyd, Johnson, Knott, Magoffin and Pike counties. Help is needed to fund patient aid and research for these families.

ATTEND PARTY

Lois Huffman, Suzy Johnson, Wes "The Best" Mollett, and Mike "Boogie" Hitchcock were guests this weekend at The Chicken Coop at Flat Gap. Turtle, Kenny and Mouse were also invited but did not show. It was a great slug barbecue.

CELEBRATES 85TH BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Joda S. Gunnell, of Emma, who is now a resident at the Salyersville Health Care Center, celebrated her 86th birthday on Thursday, July 18.

Those sharing her birthday cake and sending cards were Mr. and Mrs. James Woods, Jim and Joe, of Ypsilanti, Mich.; Mrs. Mary Lee Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Jenkins, of Myrtle Beach, S.C.; Mrs. Betty Mills, Tracy and Ginney, of Marion, Ohio; Mrs. Rita Meathson, of Grayson, Ky.; Evelyn Cecil, of Olive Hill, Ky.; Mrs. Anna S. We Know Our History— But What of the Future?

Who was Jenny Wiley?

Almost any resident of Eastern Kentucky can tell you of the pioneer woman who was an Indian captive and, after months of harrowing experiences, made her escape to a white settlement.

And most of us of the region also can tell you that Blockhouse Bottom, in the southern edge of Johnson county, only a few hundred yards from the Floyd-Johnson line, was the refuge that Jenny Wiley almost miraculously found.

Fewer of us know that the site of the old blockhouse, the first white settlement in the Big Sandy region, is today a part of the runway of Combs Airport, its artifacts, even its spirit, buried beneath concrete.

This spot was the first toehold the white man held in all the eastern region of Kentucky. Known as Harman's Station, it ante-dated Boonesborough. Daniel Boone visited Harman's Station before he ever saw the rolling Great Meadow that was the Bluegrass.

The spot is recognized downstate and in official circles for its importance in the history of the state. But we to whom its name and story have become commonplace, do little or nothing to leave any evidence for future generations of what took place there.

A replica of the old blockhouse could be built—the exact site and dimensions of the little log fort are known—and Blockhouse Bottom, or Harman's Station, could become, as it deserves to be, another Kentucky shrine. Yet, as the time nears when the airport will give way to a larger and a newer, it may become another victim of the apathy that besets so many of us.

Level land is precious in this region. Some will argue, and effectively, that much of what is known as Blockhouse Bottom should be a site for some industry that will furnish employment to this section where the dependence on coal mining is stifling. We have no argument with that, but a few acres of that southernmost corner where Harman's Station stood belongs to history and to those who down the years will be its heirs.

The help of officials, particularly that of state legislators from this part of Kentucky, is needed if Blockhouse Bottom is to become more than a dimming memory.

illness of wageearners are the reasons most often given.

The situation with many is so tough that Sheriff Hale has accepted partial payments on taxes. "It's more work for us, and some sheriffs in other counties have refused to accept partial payment, but some people just don't have the money, and we're willing to help if we can," Mrs. Damron said.

Floyd county is a part of a block of Eastern Kentucky counties (see chart) that has the highest delinquency rate in the state, but Floyd is far from the worst. Several other counties of the area—Magoffin, Johnson, Pike, Knox, Harlan, Leslie and Breathitt—have a tax collection rate of only 80 to 85%.

tional Management Association, a discrepancy which was underscored by the defense.

In the face of Marshall's denial, prosecutors then called as a witness State Police Lt. Gary Rose, who testified that Marshall had a "bad reputation for truth and veracity."

Prosecutor Self was stunned by the outcome of the trial, which, he agreed, came down to a choice between the conflicting accounts of Marshall and Baldridge. "I can't believe it," he said after the jury verdict was announced.

But Marshall, who was acquitted by a Fayette Circuit Court jury last year after a highly-publicized trial on a charge of conspiring to murder his wife, Glenda Sharon Pack Marshall, implied that the weapons charge was trumped up by disgruntled law enforcement officers.

Cross-examined by Pikeville attorney Stephen Hogg, who represented the defendant, Lt. Rose denied that he bore any grudge against Marshall. Marshall, who had praise for Self's "fair" handling of the prosecution, insisted, however, that he was the victim of overzealous investigators.

"I'm going back to Detroit," he said after the trial, "and I hope Gary Rose will now leave me alone. It's getting expensive for the public to keep going after me just to maintain a personal grudge."

Announces Seminar

The Central Appalachian Coal Preparation Society announced this week the 24th in its series of seminars dealing with coal preparation, to be held Wednesday, July 31, at 7:30 p.m.

The seminar, at the First National Bank of Pikeville, will discuss "Acid Rain—How Will Legislation Currently Being Drafted in Washington Affect You?" Harry Storey, of Harry Storey & Associates and the chairman of the Alliance for Clean Energy (ACE), will discuss this issue as well as other legislation affecting the coal industry in eastern Kentucky, southern West Virginia and southwest Virginia.

Ten Years Ago

(July 23, 1975)

The City Utilities Commission announced this week that, effective August 1, water and gas rates will be increased here for the first time since 1968. The population of the Floyd county jail had an abrupt increase Thursday night after a fire at the Magoffin county jail necessitated the transfer of 20 Magoffin prisoners to the jail here. Floyd county apparently is scheduled to receive $72,000 less in federal Title II and Title VI funds this year for its employment program, and a loss of jobs is feared. Removal of the Betsy Layne post office to its new quarters in the Betsy Layne Development Corporation building will be marked by openhouse Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, it was announced last week by Mrs. Aileen Hall, postmaster. Mr. and Mrs. John H. Case were honored on their 55th wedding anniversary, Sunday, July 13, at their home in Honaker, where family and friends held a surprise party for them. Miss Marie Sanders, Wilmington, N.C., vice-president of Area III, National Retired Teachers Association, will address the Floyd County Retired Teachers Association at noon, August 9, at a cafeteria luncheon at the Wise Steak House here. Married: Miss Vikki Lyn Necessary and Mr. William J. McGuire, both of Prestonsburg, June 20, at St. Theodore Catholic Church. Miss Judy Damron, of McDowell and Mr. Randy Looney, of Pikeville, June 14 at Left Beaver Regular Baptist Church. Miss Eileen Teschner, of Whippany, New Jersey, and Robert J. Tallent, of Langley, at Our Lady of Mercy Chapel, in Whippany, N.J. There died: John Morgan Stumbo, 77, of McDowell, last Thursday at Mountain Manor Nursing Home. Mrs. Elizabeth Gearheart Allen, 85, of Hueysville, last Saturday, also at Mountain Manor. Noah D. Thacker, 74, of Martin, Monday, at Our Lady of the Way hospital in Martin. Isaac Leroy (Buddy) Stephens, 50, of Ashley, O., formerly of Martin, July 15, at Delaware Memorial Hospital, Delaware, O. Ruth Ann Boatwright Fleming, 28, of Amherst, O., at Highlands Regional Medical Center, last Tuesday. Mabel Goble, 45, of Prestonsburg, last Sunday at Highlands Regional Medical Center. Mrs. Martha B. Newsome, 67, Monday at her home in East McDowell. Oliver H. Marshall, 64, Sunday, at his home on lower Johns Creek. Sarah F. Bowen, of Whitesburg, at Good Samaritan Hospital, Lexington, July 15.

Twenty Years Ago

(July 22, 1965)

Completed plans for the First Presbyterian Church building here have been received and approved by the Building committee. The Princess Manufacturing Company at Auxier announced this week that it will have open house, Saturday and Sunday, July 24-25. "Prestonsburg—City with a Future" is the title of a feature article which appeared in a recent magazine section of The Huntington Herald Advertiser. Corridor B, the part of the Appalachian highway network affecting Floyd county and the Big Sandy valley, was approved last Wednesday by the Appalachian Regional Commission. Alvin B. Webb, of Jenkins, who has been employed as a resource development specialist by the Extension Service, University of Kentucky, will have his headquarters in Prestonsburg, it was announced this week. "Uncle" Sam Halbert celebrated his 100th birthday, July 16, at his home at Martin. Married: Miss Patricia Ellen Evans, of Wayland, and Neal Joseph Crowley, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, July 10, in St. Peter Catholic Church, Lexington, Kentucky; Miss Jerrie Ann Artrip, of Hite, and Mr. Carl Frank Carriero, of Cleveland, Ohio, June 26 at St. Margaret Mary Church, Euclid, Ohio; Miss Claudia Jean Martin and Mr. Ronald Ray Clark, both of Martin, June 26 at the Big Hill Avenue Christian Church. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. James W. Gullett, a son, James Anthony, July 9 at Paintsville. Mrs. Gullett is the former Lou Hager, of Auxier. There died: Calvin Caudill, 60, Tuesday at his home at Melvin; Mrs. Emma May Hatcher, 86, of Allen, Wednesday at Our Lady of the Way hospital, Martin; Mrs. Lora Moore, 45, of Hi Hat, July 14 at the Beaver Valley hospital; Math Boyd, 49, of Dana, there Saturday at the home of a sister.

Thirty Years Ago

(July 21, 1955)

The City of Prestonsburg today (Thursday) sold at par $275,000 worth of building revenue bonds to finance construction of the auditorium-gymnasium annex to the new Prestonsburg high school structure. Dewey Lake has a safety record that is at least six times better than that of the TVA impoundments, the figures show. Sheriff Gorman Collins said this week that all individuals and clubs who have slot machines and pinball machines on their premises for the purpose of permitting gambling have until Monday to get those devices out of the county. The drowning in Japan Saturday of Gilbert Tackett, 25, brought to four the sons of Spurlock and Artie Damron Tackett, of Drift, who have lost their lives in tragic accidents or in battle within the last four years. The appointment of Charles D. Jenkins, Jr., as administrator of the McDowell Memorial Hospital at McDowell, was announced this week. Married: Miss Bonnie Martin, formerly of Minnie, and Mr. William Taft Wells, of Waynesboro, Va., June 11 at Waynesboro; Miss Patricia Lafferty, and Mr. Robert Caris, both of Marion, Ohio, June 25 at Marion; Miss Gaynell Caldwell, of Harold, and Mr. James (Butch) Clark, of Pikeville, July 18 at the Vogel-Day Methodist Church, Boldman; Miss Carol Jean Lang, of Newport, Ky., and Lt. Ronald H. Smiley, of Prestonsburg, July 9 at Newport. There died: Mrs. Tiny Jones Wright, of Wyandotte, Michigan, formerly of Amba, last Tuesday at Wyandotte; Mrs. Lydia H. Nunney, 82, of Prestonsburg, last Friday at the home of her daughter here; Elder Joseph King, 83, of Osborne, last Wednesday at the Methodist hospital, Pikeville; Winfield Castle, 76, of Pyramid, Tuesday at the Prestonsburg General hospital.

Forty Years Ago

(July 19, 1945)

The U.S. Bureau of Mines will send representatives to this county this week-end to inspect possible coal hydrogenation plant. Almost all the $100,000 capital stock of the proposed First Guaranty Bank at Martin has been subscribed. The mines at Wayland resumed work, Monday night, but the Utilities Elkhorn Company at Martin became strike-bound, that morning. REA line extensions to electrify 2,200 rural homes in six counties of this section have been approved, with 29 miles to be constructed in this county. CM 1-C Tom James arrived home last week from Hawaii to spend a 30-day leave at home here. Ballard Branham, Jr., former Prestonsburg high school pitching star, has signed a contract to hurl for Salisbury (N.C.) of the North Carolina State League. There died: Louis Keen, 14, of Wayland, Tuesday at a Lackey hospital of an accidental rifle shot; Mrs. Mary N. Stewart, Monday at Edgar; Leroy Ratliff, 42, of Hueysville, Saturday at Ashtabula, Ohio; Charles Tackett, 16, Friday at Harold; Jack C. Rollins, 66, at Wayland, July 11.

Fifty Years Ago

(July 19, 1935)

Bodies of nine of 11 men who were trapped Wednesday morning by an explosion in the No. 5 mine of the Consolidation Coal Company at Van Lear, were removed from the mine this morning (Thursday). The other two—Anse Wilson, who was Van Lear's police judge, and Stanley Crain—escaped, unhurt. An evangelistic party conducting a revival meeting here plans the permanent organization of the Church of Christ in Prestonsburg. The Beaver Valley State Bank, which closed its doors August 10, 1931, has completed full payment to all depositors, it was announced this week. Charles Oppenheimer and son, J. L. Oppenheimer, last week sold their store to J. H. Patton. Married: Miss Nora Conn, of Printer, and Mr. Bob Clark, of Pikeville, here, July 16. There died: Lew Harbour, 41, Huntington salesman, Tuesday afternoon in an auto wreck on Little Paint Creek, near the home of S. W. Rice; the Rev. J. T. Pope, a former pastor of Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church here, June 27 at Richmond, Kentucky; Mrs. Leonard Marsillett, Saturday at her home on Middle Creek.

Howell, a supervisor in the state Local Finance office, contending that in-county meals, even where county business was transacted, could not properly be charged to the public purse.

Damron challenged the government to cite any state law to back its argument, however, and Judge Scott, in his instructions to the jury, sided with the defense on that point.

Prosecutors called several witnesses, including Floyd County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr., who claimed that they had not lunched with Lafferty even though their names appeared on charge slips as his guests. In response, Damron called Ruth Ramsey, a former clerk at the Plantation Motel, who said she had seen county officials, including Turner, join Lafferty for meals at the motel restaurant. Sheriff Henry Hale also testified that he had discussed county business over meals with Lafferty on several occasions.

Alma Hughes, a prosecution witness, said under cross-examination by Damron, that, while Lafferty's signature appeared on the disputed charge slips, the names of those listed as his guests were not written in his handwriting. Damron argued further that, while the defense was being put in the position of having to prove that Lafferty's lunches were charged in the course of county business, the onus should have been on the prosecution to show that they were not. "It seems like the legal 'presumption of innocence' was lost somewhere along the way," the defense lawyer noted.

The defense also attacked a prosecution insinuation that Lafferty profited by reason of the fact that he was an owner of the Plantation Motel. Called as a defense witness, Burl Wells Spurlock, president of the First Commonwealth Bank here, testified that Lafferty owned only 18.75 percent of the stock in Kentucky Motel, Inc., the firm that owned the Plantation Motel, while the remaining stock was owned by Spurlock, his sister, and two brothers.

Pursuing an argument that state investigators arbitrarily singled out the Lafferty administration in its probe into county spending, Damron called a former county finance officer, Grace Damron, who testified that the county first issued credit cards for its top officials under the earlier administration of Bill Wells and that the cards were used for the same purposes then as under the Lafferty administration.

In the same vein, Damron underscored testimony of prosecution witness Howell, who conceded that the county was already heavily encumbered in January, 1982, when Jerry Lafferty succeeded Wells as judge-executive. "It was illegal for the Wells administration to leave the Lafferty administration no money to run the county, but nothing was done about that," the defense attorney noted.

Damron attributed the state investigators' decision to focus their attention on the Lafferty administration to "resentment" of politicians whom Lafferty had defeated at the polls. County Attorney Turner, who called for the state police probe, had recently seen county funds cut for some of his office staff and admitted on the stand that his relationship with Lafferty was "strained," the defense lawyer noted. "We felt it was more of a personal vendetta brought on by the county attorney," Damron said after the trial.

Trial of Left Beaver Magistrate Edward Caudill, indicted on three counts of theft by deception, is scheduled to begin today (Wednesday). Trial of other defendants, who have been "bumped" from the docket as a result of the length of the Lafferty trial, will be rescheduled later, as will the retrial of Lafferty, assuming the government chooses to try him again.

Among those to be redocketed are the trials of Lafferty's son, former County Clerk Thomas Lafferty, Jr., and Right Beaver Magistrate Kenneth Roberts, both of whom are also represented by Damron.

Because of Judge Scott's heavy trial schedule, it could be next spring before all the trials of those indicted last December can be redocketed, said Damron, who added, "It appears that the special investigators will be able to spend another winter sitting beside the indoor pool at the Carriage House," a Paintsville motel.

To Wed Aug. 3

Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Givan, of Valley Station, Ky., announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Mary Katherine, to Timothy Allan Webb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Webb, of the Goble-Roberts Addition, Prestonsburg.

The wedding will be solemnized Saturday, August 3, at 11 a.m., at the St. Pius X Catholic Church, 3521 Goldsmith Lane, Louisville, Ky. A reception will follow immediately at Thorougbrd Hall. The gracious custom of open church will be observed.

The couple will reside in Cleveland, Ohio where Mr. Webb will be a third year student at the Ohio College of Podiatric Medicine.

Meanwhile, state officials and the Floyd board members Grigsby accused of colluding with them denied striking any bargain on the removal of the superintendent, Barbara McDaniel, a spokeswoman for the state superintendent, said last week that Mrs. McDonald would have no comment to make on Grigsby's charges since she had not read the press release and because the Floyd school district is the subject of a continuing investigation by the state Department of Education and the state board.

Any suggestion that state officials had made a deal with Floyd board members was "totally incorrect," said McDaniel, who added that Grigsby's charge "looks like a desperate attempt to shift the blame onto someone else."

While the removal of Grigsby would be a "major consideration" in the state board's evaluation of Floyd's willingness to clean house, the state panel would be looking at "the overall effort" being made by Floyd officials to correct the school district's problems, McDaniel said. "We want to see evidence," she added.

In response to Grigsby's charge that he had negotiated a deal with the state, Board Chairman Adams said Monday that "there is absolutely no validity to that statement," and added, "I have had no conversations with Mrs. McDonald or any other state official regarding such a proposal."

Grigsby stuck by his charge this week, however, specifying that Adams and Duff approached him in his office here on July 9 and asked him to resign. "It's one or six (that is, removal of the superintendent alone or of the superintendent and five board members together); that's what (Adams) told me," Grigsby said, "and he said it came from Alice McDonald's office."

Duff acknowledged that he and Adams asked Grigsby to step down but denied they had entered into any agreement with the state superintendent or that they had said as much to Grigsby. "We had no assurance we had the votes" to remove the superintendent, Duff said, adding that Monday night's meeting was cancelled because "we felt we needed more time" to resolve differences between Grigsby and dissident board members.

In response to reports that he had been persuaded to support Adams and Duff, board member Campbell, who returned Sunday from an 18-day vacation in Florida, insisted that "no one knew how I was going to vote" on Grigsby's removal. "I didn't even tell my wife," he said.

Campbell, a longtime friend of the superintendent, said he had yet to see any specific charges against Grigsby. "I will make my decision when I see the charges," he said.

In last week's press release, Grigsby said he "must shoulder the responsibility of the Floyd county school system" and promised that "our people will do their jobs with new vigor."

"Teachers will teach, school personnel will do their jobs or face the consequences," the superintendent said, adding, "If they want leadership, I'll give them leadership."

"These same people who claim to want to take politics out of the schools are the ones who are making all the political deals. There are two sides to every story. I felt it was time mine was told," Grigsby said.

1 Killed, 1 Injured In Jeep Hillclimb

A jeep wreck claimed the life of Roger Dean Osborne, 36, of Weeksbury, last Wednesday.

According to Coroner Roger Nelson, the accident occurred at approximately 8:50 p.m., as Osborne and passenger Larry Little were hill-climbing at the slate dump at the Bailey Mining company at Weeksbury. Osborne apparently lost control of the vehicle, which then flipped. Osborne died instantly of head injuries, while Little was taken to the McDowell hospital with an apparent concussion, and was later transferred to Good Samaritan hospital in Lexington.

Osborne was born December 16, 1948, a son of the late Will R. Osborne and Naoma Waddles Osborne, of Weeksbury. He was an employee of the C. & O. Railroad and a veteran of the U.S. army.

In addition to his mother, Osborne is survived by two sons, Ryan David and William Charles Osborne, both of Tennessee; three brothers, John Edward Franklin, of Ypsilanti, Mich., Curtis Lee Osborne, of St. Augustine, Fla., and David Chandler, of Weeksbury; and four sisters, Donna Faye Johnson, of Indiana, Susetta Tackett, of Lexington, Louetta Johns, of Weeksbury, and Noreen Ward, of Ashland.

Funeral services were conducted last Sunday at 11 a.m. at the Freewill Baptist church at Bypro, with Munroe Jones and others, officiating. Burial was made in the Buckingham cemetery at Bevsinsville, with the R.S. Jones and Son Funeral Home of Virgie in charge of arrangements.

CARD OF THANKS

Tipsy Driving Cases Frequent Dist. Court

Drunk driving charges dominated the Floyd district court docket this week, with 17 drivers convicted or pleading guilty, including four previously convicted of the same offense.

James M. Howell, 30, of Prestonsburg, drew a six-month jail term and was ordered to pay a $1000 fine by District Judge Harold Stumbo for his third drunk driving conviction. Howell, who was stopped by Prestonsburg police officer Gerald Clark at Lancer on May 26, recorded a Breathalyzer reading of .26 percent. He was also convicted of driving on a suspended license.

Ellis E. Sexton, Jr., 27, of Jenkins, pleaded guilty as a first offender before court officials learned he had previous convictions in June this year in Letcher county and in March, 1984. Court records list Sexton as being involved in three traffic accidents in this county last year. A bench warrant was issued for him Tuesday.

Dennis Bartley, of Prestonsburg, convicted of a second DUI offense, was sentenced to seven days and ordered to pay $557.50 in fine and costs. Another second-time offender, Walt Ed Carroll, 42, of Printer, drew 60 days and a $500 fine.

Stanley Henson, of Beaver, was convicted of drunk driving and leaving the scene of an accident on the testimony of William H. Chaffins, of Pikeville, the driver whose car he collided with on John Hall Branch of Mud Creek on March 21. On the testimony of State Trooper Cary L. Cross, Henson was also convicted of being in a stolen car. He received a 60-day jail sentence and a $557 fine on the first pair of charges, 90 days and a similar fine on the latter charge. He still faces two assault charges in Floyd Circuit Court.

Also convicted of or pleading guilty to drunk driving charges:

Kenneth B. Peters, Martin, $357.50 in fine and costs, referred to Alcoholic Driver Education (ADE); Judy C. Kidd, $157.50, ADE; Rebecca Prater, $357.50, ADE; David Lee Slone, $157.50; Harry G. Allen, $147.50, ADE; Thomas E. Wallen, $407.50; Dora M. Estep, $407.50; James P. Osborne, Martin, $157.50, ADE; Roger D. Hall, Allen, $357.50; Donald Gene Ward, two months' probation, $157.50, ADE; Danny Ray Bradley, $157.50, ADE; Dwayne M. Moore, $157.50, ADE; and James R. Hale, two months' probation, $157.50.

Accused of drunk driving but convicted of lesser charges, usually on the recommendation of the Commonwealth: Henrietta C. Scott, drinking on highway, $57.50; Robert K. May, drinking on highway, $67.50; Dora Estep, Allen, drinking on highway, $87.50; Mark E. Stumbo, reckless driving, $47.50; Patrick Lee Hicks, Prestonsburg, drinking on highway, $57.50; and Raymond Gibson, drinking on highway, $57.50.

A drunk driving charge against Richard C. Skeens, 28, of Prestonsburg, was dismissed when Prestonsburg police officer Gerald Clark said he had not positively identified Skeens while he was allegedly driving on North Lake Drive last February. Clark said the driver and a passenger quickly changed places after police pulled the car over.

As State Trooper Jerry Critchelow told it, Gary Gibson, 19, of Salyersville, almost asked to be arrested as he rode his bicycle up to Critchelow's parked patrol car, offered the officer a beer, and then used a vulgar epithet to address him. Convicted of being drunk and disorderly, Gibson was sentenced to 30 days and was fined $150.

Husband-Wife Cardiology Team Have Returned 'Home' To Practise

Knott County native Rodney Handshoe, M.D., his wife, Floyd county native Sharon O'Quinn Handshoe, and their son, Rodney Cameron, have moved to Johnson county from Lexington. Dr. Handshoe, a cardiologist, has earned a national reputation in 2-D and Doppler Echocardiography, and Sharon is one of the few ARDMS-registered echocardiography technologists in Kentucky. Both are now working at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Knott county native Rodney Handshoe enrolled at Prestonsburg Community College in 1971, went on to the University of Kentucky two years later, and, what with undergraduate work, medical school, internship, residency and two fellowships, has been there ever since.

Until now. Rodney Handshoe, MD, cardiologist, is returning to his roots. Dr. Handshoe, his wife of nearly 10 years, Sharon, and their son, Rodney Cameron, have moved to Hager Hill in Johnson county, and he has joined the medical staff of Highlands Regional Medical Center. In fact, Dr. Handshoe will occupy an office in HRMC's new Physicians' Office Suite as soon as it is completed. Until then, he will be working in temporary headquarters elsewhere in the Medical Center.

"I chose Highlands Regional Medical Center because this was our home originally and because the hospital has the necessary facilities and equipment to allow me to practice state-of-the-art non-invasive cardiology," said Dr. Handshoe, who helped finance his two years at PCC by working part-time in HRMC's Respiratory Therapy department.

Dr. Handshoe's areas of particular interest are Two-Dimensional and Doppler Echocardiography. 2-D Echo uses high-frequency sound waves to make images of the heart's muscle, chambers and valves. Doppler uses the same concept to evaluate blood flow in the heart. These images enable Dr. Handshoe and his HRMC cardiology colleague, Dr. Syed Akhtar, the better to assess the severity of a patient's problems with the heart valves or heart function.

HRMC has just obtained a 2-D Echo/Doppler unit for use in its cardiology programs. Sharon Handshoe, an echocardiography technologist, will work with HRMC in using the new unit. Before the Handshoes returned here, she was supervisor of the Echocardiography Laboratory at the UK Medical Center, where she contributed to numerous scientific publications dealing with 2-D and Doppler echocardiography. The Floyd county native has also twice served as an instructor for core curriculum courses in 2-D and Doppler held in conjunction with national cardiology conventions.

Dr. Handshoe earned his medical degree from the UK College of Medicine in 1979, and has since been with the UK Medical Center in a number of heart-oriented specialties. He served an internship in internal medicine from 1979 to 1980, then was appointed to a residency in the same field. He began a fellowship in cardiology in 1982, and was named a clinical fellow-post-doctoral scholar in 1984. He returned to eastern Kentucky in early July to go into practice at the Medical Center.

"Dr. Handshoe has a most impressive set of credentials," said HRMC Administrator Clarence Traum. "We were already quite proud of our work in cardiology here at the Medical Center with Dr. Akhtar, and now Dr. Handshoe makes us even stronger in this critical

Block Asks Conservation Reserve

INDIANAPOLIS, June 28—Secretary of Agriculture, John R. Block, today proposed the largest single soil conservation initiative in the history of American agriculture—a 10-year, $11 billion conservation reserve which would take up to 20 million acres of highly erodible cropland out of production.

"Nothing in this nation is more precious than the natural resources which produce our food and fiber," Block said. "Yet we have been compelled to work with farm programs which encourage production on land that should never have seen the blade of a plow."

"I am asking Congress to join me in seriously addressing the problem by including this proposal in the 1985 farm bill," Block added. "I should also point out that this proposal is consistent with my strong support for a sodbuster provision in the farm bill which would make producers ineligible for federal farm program benefits if they produce crops on highly erodible land."

Under the proposal, the Department of Agriculture and participating farmers would share the cost of planting protective grass or trees on eligible land. At least 10 percent of the reserve would be earmarked for tree planting and maintenance. "I'm looking to have somewhere in the neighborhood of 1 billion trees planted on this land, and that has to make a great difference in our ability to protect this soil," Block said.

Conservation reserve payments made to the farmers would provide a modest level of income support during the 10-year transition from row crop farming to other enterprises, Block added.

Block said the reserve would reduce soil erosion on land which is enrolled in the program by nearly 20 tons an acre yearly. Also, a successful program would improve water quality, curb production of surplus commodities and thus help increase commodity prices received by farmers. Other environmental benefits would include better habitat for fish and wildlife and reduced sedimentation in streams and along roads.

USDA studies show that one out of every eight acres of cropland in the U.S.—53 million acres of a total 421 million acres of cropland—would be eligible for the reserve.

"While the gross outlays for the reserve would be about $11 billion over 10 years, it is important to point out that they will be offset to a large degree by reduced outlays for annual loans, deficiency payments and storage costs under existing commodity programs," Block said. "We should also keep in mind that there is re-prioritizing existing funds. I strongly believe it is far better to use this money for conservation than on annual acreage reduction programs."

Other details of the proposal include: —Farmers would submit bids on the cost-share payments they would accept and the amount of acreage to be enrolled.

—Grazing and harvesting hay on reserve lands would be prohibited.

—No producer would receive more than $50,000 in reserve payments yearly.

—No more than 25 percent of the cultivated cropland in a county could be enrolled in the reserve.

In Praise of Firefighters

July 22-28 is firefighter appreciation week. I would like to tell your readers a little bit about firefighters and the world in which they live.

A firefighter's life is depicted by t.v. shows and movies as a glorious occupation filled with daily adventure and daredevil events. In reality, a firefighter spends 93 percent of his or her time in non-firefighting duties including the daily routine of cleaning the firehouse, truck maintenance, caring for firefighting equipment, checking fire hydrants, maintaining records, keeping training programs on-going and up to date with current certification requirements.

Firefighters unlock car doors for owners who have locked their keys inside. Lock homes for owners who have lost their keys, pump water from flooded basements, wash mud from city streets, remove trees which have been blown into roadways or onto homes. Firefighters carry out an ongoing fire inspection program to lessen loss of life or property due to fire. They do arson investigations to combat those who would run insurance companies from our region. In fact, no organization can put as many trained professionals on the scene of an emergency incident than the local fire dept. And yet, there are those who would tell us we are lazy. There are those who would tell us they do not like us or the things we do. Those who say this also know that if they call us we will come, because we are professionals and we put our duty above our personal prejudices.

I have said that 93 percent of a firefighter's time is used in non-firefighting activities, now let me tell you about the other 7 percent. Even though it may seem like such a small percentage, during this time more firefighters are killed in the line of duty than any other occupation known to man. This is not a case of untrained personnel or improper equipment. This is a case of firefighters, men and women, who enter burning structures, perhaps unfamiliar with the floor plan of the building, never knowing when the roof will cave in or the floor will fall into the basement. Perhaps the hot gases generated by the fire, sometimes reaching 1800 degrees or more, will suddenly ignite causing what firefighters know as "flashover." Firefighters may be killed by explosions or by breathing poisonous fumes.

Probably the one most single hazard to a firefighter is stress. Firefighters work heart attacks, cave-ins, explosions, electrocutions, chokings, and other incidents too numerous to mention. Every incident leaves a mark etched in the memory of each individual who works them.

So, where's the glory? The glory is found in the whispered "thank you" from the relative of an accident victim. It's the comment from the citizen on the street who brags about the job our firefighters are doing. This is the glory and this is our reward. That's what being a firefighter is all about. Firefighters love their community in which they work and care greatly for the people whom they serve.

LARRY ADAMS, Captain
Prestonsburg Fire Dept.

Opposes School Use As Voting Places

If you would like your children in school on election day, contact your board members or any board member with your ideas on this proposal.

At the meeting July 10 it was discussed, and Mr. Duff and Dr. Hall were positive to this idea. Also wanting to hear from the parents, taxpayers, etc. about it.

There must be other places that would be more appropriate to vote than in our schools. The grounds are a scandal afterward, and the main issue is, our children are out of school when they should be in.

The board members are Mr. Newsome, Dr. Adams, Mr. Campbell, Dr. Hall, Mr. Duff. The Board of Education can give you their phone numbers.

Needed—A Halfway House

It is the number one killer of teenagers, and our nation's leading cause of accidental death. All of us have a friend, neighbor, or relative who is chemically dependent. Forget the image of the skid row bum—your doctor, busdriver, the straight A student—any or all could be an alcoholic and/or chemically dependent person.

In the Eastern Kentucky area, we have both Alcoholics Anonymous and Narcotics Anonymous (A.A. and N.A.). We also have in-house treatment centers for the chemically dependent. Unfortunately, many are not able to stay clean after leaving a treatment center; returning home means returning to their old lifestyle of drinking/drugs.

What is needed is a bridge—a halfway house—to help support those seeking a better way of life. The Big Sandy Serenity House would provide a homelike environment, alcohol and drug free. It would support the individual, while allowing him/her room to grow. Time spent in a halfway house increases a person's chances of staying straight and making it in the outside world.

Much has been done to make the dream of the Serenity House a reality. Board members have been on local radio stations and on TV. Articles have been printed in the local newspapers. During Hillbilly Days in Pikeville, a booth was set up, baked goods were sold and there was a raffle. People and organizations in the five county area (Pike, Floyd, Johnson, Martin, and Magoffin) have been asked for donations. The fiscal courts of all five counties are being asked to give $5000.

A bank account has been set aside for the Serenity House, and will be held until the doors are opened. Much remains to be done—hopefully churches and civic organizations will get involved and more funding will become available.

While the Serenity House is the long term goal, funds have been made available for any alcohol or drug addicted person's treatment that needs food, shelter or clothing. There are immediate needs in this area and The Serenity House board wants to do what it can now, and establish a firm footing for the further development of the halfway house.

Alcohol and drug abuse touches the lives of us all. It will not get better unless we, as individuals, support programs like these.

Plea for 'Something Good'

Now that the elections are over and we can all get down to work and proceed to make things good in Floyd county and make it a place that we can be proud of, I hope we can get all of the roads and streets in Floyd county clean of debris, beer cans and all that is litter. The other surrounding counties have made great progress and so can we. Let's put the summer employees and all the regular workers to work and by August have our county not looking like a garbage dump.

I urge all the county officials, both elected and appointed, to get together along with all citizens and work together for the betterment of our county. Let's see and hear something good for a change.

The Restrooms That Aren't

I am writing to let you know I feel the same way Mrs. Otto Martin does. We travel the Daniel Boone Parkway and I think it stinks. We came down with our grandchildren, and there wasn't a restroom for them or us to use. Michigan, Indiana and Ohio have nice restrooms. Kentucky is the only one that is too cheap to have one. It's too bad my home state is like that. We come to Lackey and Hindman quite a bit.

MAYTOWN NEWS

Mrs. Inez Moore has been a patient at St. Joseph's Hospital in Lexington for tests and treatment. Mr. Moore and other members of the family have been with her.

Mr. and Mrs. Morton Adkins wish to thank Dr. Lowell Martin, the staff and nurses at Our Lady of the Way Hospital for their kindness and care while Mr. Adkins was a patient there, also the ministers and friends for their prayers and visits.

Sid and Marcella Bailey, Ron and Janie Smith and Jerry Smith have returned from a three-week vacation touring the central and western states. In their stop in St. Louis, Mo. while Mr. Bailey was touring the Gateway Arch Museum, he heard a voice saying "Bailey." When he looked around, he saw a friend with whom he had played football at Ohio State University in Columbus, Ohio 44 years ago, and they had not seen each other in all those years. Some of the places they visited were Pike's Peak, Col., Grand Canyon, Royal Gorge, Disneyland, Las Vegas and a day in Mexico where they purchased souvenirs of pottery. They also visited Mr. Bailey's cousin, Virginia Rose Burwell, and husband in Golden, Col., and in Dallas, Tex. they were the overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. Rick Martin. Mr. Martin is the son of Elvey and Audrey Cooley Martin, of Lexington, formerly of Eastern.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bailey and sons spent a week touring the northwestern states. They stopped in Golden, Col. long enough to have lunch with Mrs. Virginia Rose Burwell.

Mr. and Mrs. Elvey Martin and grandchildren, of Lexington, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joby Cooley, at Eastern last week. They also called on Mr. and Mrs. Sid Bailey.

Mrs. Lula Webb celebrated her 91st birthday, Friday, July 19. She received gifts, letters, cards and phone calls and several members of the family came to wish her a "Happy Birthday."

Family members from here attending the annual Dial Salisbury Family Reunion at the Salisbury Home in Stockdale, Ohio, Sunday, were Mrs. Rebecca Salisbury, Mr. and Mrs. Claud Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Claude J. Webb, Jennings and Gary, Mrs. Delbert Goins and Delbert Milton, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Skeans, Jr. and Brandon and Mr. and Mrs. Sammy Skeans. Following the reunion, Mrs. Rebecca Salisbury went on to Springfield for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. G.B. Colvin.

Charles (Donny) Robinson is a patient at Paul B. Hall Medical Center in Paintsville.

Donny Robinson was the winner of 25,000 Quality stamps at the Martin Picnic store.

Jamie Lee Kidd, son of Eddie and Judy Robinson Kidd, celebrated his first birthday, July 1, with a party at which he received many gifts. Jamie Lee is the grandson of Donny and Phyllis Robinson, of Langley, and Edgar and Lucinda Kidd, of Printer.

Our sympathy to the family of Millard Gunnels, of Manton, who died in a fire at his home last Thursday morning. Mr. Gunnels was a former resident of Langley.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Allen have returned home after spending more than a month in Checotah, Okla. to be with Mrs. Allen's mother, Mrs. Pearl Eudy, who has been seriously ill but is much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Allen and children spent last week vacationing at Myrtle Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Ron Smith accompanied his brother, Jerry Smith, to Firebrick, Ky. where they spent the weekend. Shawn Bailey will be the guest of Jerry for a week at Firebrick.

The Maytown PTO will sponsor meals for Homecoming on Friday and Saturday, July 26-27. The schedule is:

Friday afternoon there will be a snack bar at the lunchroom from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Saturday morning breakfast will be 8 a.m. to 10 a.m.

Saturday luncheon will be 12:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Saturday night there will be a dance at the gymnasium from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Named Award Winner

The National Secondary Education Council announced recently that Stephanie Stephens has been named an Academic All-American.

The NSEC has established the Academic All-American Scholar Award Program in order to offer deserved recognition to superior students who excel in the academic disciplines. The Academic All-American Scholars must earn a 3.3, or better, grade point average.

Miss Stephens, who attends Bryan Station Jr. High, was nominated for this national award by Judy Lowry, cheerleading coach. Her name will appear in the Academic All-American Scholar Directory, which is published nationally.

The Council selects Academic All-American Scholars upon the exclusive recommendations of teachers, coaches, counselors, and other qualified sponsors. Once awarded, the students may be recognized by the NSEC for other honors.

Miss Stephens is the daughter of Dennis and Arnitia Stephens, of Lexington. Her grandparents are Arnold and Ruby Clark, of Prestonsburg.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Gladys Marie Hancock wishes to thank all who helped in any way upon the passing of their love one. We deeply appreciate the flowers, food, and the words of kindness given by all. Thanks to the ministers, the Wright's Chapel, Water Gap, the Church of God, Betsy Layne, and the Calvary Southern Baptist Church, Betsy Layne, for all their help and comfort during this trying time. Also thanks to the Brotherhood of Railroad Signalman, the Pikeville Surgical Center, Pikeville, and the Hall Funeral Home for all the services provided. We deeply appreciate you all.

Pet Emergencies

COPYRIGHT 1985 KVMA
 Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association
 Most everyone tries to prevent accidents and other emergency situations, but try as we will accidents tend to happen to all of us at one time or another. Unprepared as you might think you are, what you do in an emergency situation involving your pet might well make the difference between saving and losing its life.

It is important to remember, however, that first aid alone is not sufficient for many situations, as important as it may be during and immediately after an emergency.

The most common emergency for a pet is being hit by an auto. Dogs and cats which have been hit by autos, if conscious, are always frightened and in pain. There are three steps to follow:

1. Protect yourself from being bitten; an animal in pain bites almost as a reflex. Wrap a cloth around the pet's mouth and tie it behind the ears.

2. Prevent the animal from running away. Injured or sick pets will usually try to hide when badly hurt.

3. Prevent further shock to the pet by careful handling and soothing actions, such as petting the dog or scratching the cat's neck, is possible.

If a leg is broken, do not apply a splint. Improperly applied, the splint can do more harm than good. Instead, carefully slide the animal onto a rug or heavy blanket, then take it to the veterinarian.

If there is heavy bleeding, apply pressure directly over the wound after covering the wound with clean gauze or a cloth.

To help prevent infection of a cut or wound, cover it with a moist, clean cloth and keep it moist so it won't stick to the wound. Never put strong antiseptics or ointments on the wound, these may create difficulties in suturing the wound closed.

If the animal suddenly goes into convulsions or suddenly becomes comatose, suspect poisoning. In such an event every moment counts—get to the vet as soon as possible.

When an animal continually claws at its mouth, use extreme care. It may indicate rabies. It may also indicate a foreign object such as a bone or stick caught in its mouth or teeth. If you can see it, gently remove the object.

If you can't see anything, the object may have been swallowed and then lodged in the throat. Your veterinarian can remove it, using sedation if necessary.

Red, inflamed or blistered skin may be caused by a burn, either chemical or mechanical. To relieve the pain, apply cool wet packs of strong tea or a weak solution of washing soda. Do not use grease or ointments. Keep the packs wet and seek professional help.

Injured eyes should be cleaned with warm boric acid solution or a weak salt solution (one teaspoonful to a quart of warm water) and professional help sought. Eye injuries need not be dramatic to be severe—allowing your dog to ride with his head out the car win-down or in the open bed of a truck with his face to the wind often results in eye irritation or injury.

Prolonged exposure to high temperatures, such as leaving your pet in your car in hot weather, may cause heatstroke. Get the animal's temperature down as quickly as possible. Take it to a cool place at once. Sponge it off with cool water, immerse it in cool water if possible. Seek help.

Common sense is the best way to keep your pet out of emergency situations. A dog on a leash or behind a fence isn't likely to be hit by a car. An animal in a ventilated auto isn't likely to get heatstroke. Keep caustic and other household chemicals out of reach and you're not likely to have poisoning to chemical burn problems.

Still, true accidents happen from time to time, and it's handy to have emergency supplies on hand when you need them.

Your veterinarian will help you make up a list of items needed for first aid care and will advise you on common sense precautionary measures.

Seven Eastern Kentucky Lakes Stocked With Smallmouth Bass

By ART LANDER, JR.
Seven lakes in eastern Kentucky were recently stocked with smallmouth bass as part of a three-year project to introduce the highly-prized game fish into suitable cold water habitat.
Ted Crowell, assistant director of the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources' Division of Fisheries, said that a total of more than 215,000 smallmouth bass, averaging one and a half inches in length, were placed in Cave Run Lake, Paintsville Lake, Laurel River Lake, Woods Creek Lake, Greenbo Lake, Cranks Creek Lake and Beulah Lake during June.
"We raised all of the fish in Morehead (at the Minor E. Clark Fish Hatchery), most from brood stock obtained at Dale Hollow, although some of the fry came from the federal fish hatchery in Mammoth Springs, Arkansas," Crowell explained, adding that "the stocking project is the result of a divergence of management approaches."

In the past few years, Crowell said, biologists have undergone an evolution of thinking in regard to stocking, and a great deal of effort has been devoted to habitat evaluation. "We've established a strict set of criteria that helps us better identify cold water habitat, and through these stockings we're trying to take advantage of the suitable waters that are available in eastern Kentucky," he explained. Crowell said that good smallmouth habitat has a specific chemical and temperature makeup. "It's not simply a matter of physical appearance or bottom type."
"Our approach has changed because we've learned to let the lakes dictate what fish are best for them, rather than stocking them with the fish we want to establish. It's a more sensible and cost-effective approach that, I think, reflects how much more we know about the role of stocking fish as part of a lake's overall management," Crowell said.

Kentucky's top smallmouth bass impoundments are Dale Hollow Lake, Lake Cumberland and Green River Lake. To a lesser extent, "bronzebacks" are occasionally caught from Kentucky Lake, Carr Fork Lake, Taylorsville Lake, Barren River Lake, Nolin River Lake, Rough River Lake and Martins Fork Lake.

Because Kentucky is one of the southernmost states in the fish's geographic range, smallmouth grow just about as big in Kentucky as they do anywhere in the U.S. Widely distributed throughout the midwest, south, and northeast from Alabama to Quebec, the smallmouth, genus and species Micropterus dolomieu, is typically greenish with a bronze luster, and silvery belly. The dark vertical bars are most conspicuous in fingerlings; on the cheek and opercle there are three bronze streaks radiating from the eye.

The smallmouth is considered by many anglers to be the "cream of the crop" of freshwater sport fishes. A terrific game fish, the smallmouth is agile, strong and possessed with terrific endurance. His heart-stopping leaps and frantic, drag-screaming runs are amazing. Smallmouth seem to head for the surface as soon as they're hooked, and often jump repeatedly. They prefer ledges and shallow gravel flats, as well as steep banks along old river channels.

They are finicky eaters which is part of the reason why the larger adult fish are difficult to catch. The smallmouth's preferred foods include crayfish, minnows, shiners, hellgrammites, shad, madtoms, salamanders and night-crawlers. Most importantly, remember that smallmouth are highly selective about the size of their prey. Anglers should use smaller artificial lures than are normally used when fishing for largemouth bass.

Spinnerbaits, vibrating "sonar-type" blades, jig and rind combinations, four and six-inch plastic worms, curlytails, and 1/16 to 1/4-ounce crankbaits are commonly used by smallmouth bass anglers. In the fall, propeller-type surface lures are often very effective. The main reason why many anglers use ultralight tackle is that smallmouth usually live in clear water lakes. They spook easily. Trophy-size fish are extremely wary and are seldom taken at depths less than 20 feet.

CARD OF THANKS
May we take this opportunity to express our appreciation to everyone who assisted in any way during the death of our beloved mother, grandmother, sister and aunt, Emma R. Jones. Your kind expressions of sympathy will long be remembered.
A special thanks to the Little Paint First Church of God, Rev. Roy Tinscher, the singers and musicians and to the Jones-Preston Funeral Home for its efficient service.

Heck's To Buy Maloney Chain

Heck's, Inc., regional Mid-Atlantic and Midwestern area discount department store chain, announced last week that it has contracted to acquire privately-owned Maloney Enterprises, Inc., Mt. Sterling, Ky. operator of 32 discount department stores in Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia. In addition, Heck's also agreed in a separate transaction to purchase three Maloney franchised stores, bringing the total number of units to be acquired by Heck's to 35. The 35 Maloney stores have annual sales of approximately $80 million. The agreement, which calls for the payment of an undisclosed amount of cash, is subject to approval by the boards of both companies and is expected to be consummated in September.

Russell L. Isaacs, chairman and chief executive officer of Heck's, said "the 27-year old Maloney chain represents a natural and highly advantageous adjunct to Heck's existing retail operations. Our trading areas fit together favorably," he stated, "giving us important additional retail penetration in four key states of our present nine state market."

Under the agreement, Heck's will acquire 100 percent of Maloney Enterprises stock for cash from the company's sole owner, Charles E. Padgett, who is also the franchised owner of the three additional stores to be purchased separately by Heck's.

Mr. Isaacs said that Maloney Enterprises president and chief executive officer, Theodore W. Cazelman, will remain with the company and continue to head the stores' operations. Isaacs noted that some Maloney units will be converted to Heck's stores and others will continue operating under the Maloney name.

Heck's presently operates 127 stores in nine states and the 35 Maloney units would increase that total to 162.

USDA Announces New Publication

"Conservation Tillage: Things to Consider," is a new publication to help farmers decide how conservation practices can be used in their operation, available from the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Highlights of research underway on problems associated with some practices are discussed. Sources of computerized information on conservation tillage systems are also given.

For a copy of the publication Conservation Tillage: Things to Consider, Agriculture Information Bulletin No. 461, write the U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402. Price is $1.50 each.

To examine a sample copy of this publication or for assistance in planning conservation tillage practices, contact District Conservationist, Clark Allison, Soil Conservation Service, or phone 886-3128.

Crops Remain In Good Condition

Crop conditions across the Commonwealth appear as of July 16 to be good following a week of extremely warm, humid weather and nearly four weeks of below-normal rainfall.

Statewide soil moisture was reported by the Kentucky Crop and Livestock Reporting Service as 22 percent short, 70 percent adequate and 8 percent surplus. However, south central portions of the state reported areas in short moisture supply.

"Farmers did take advantage of the dry weather to work in the fields," said Agriculture Commissioner David E. Boswell. "Primary activities for the week of July 8 were harvesting wheat for grain, planting soybeans, clipping pasture, harvesting hay, topping tobacco and controlling weeds and insects."

Reports for the Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said some tobacco plants are blooming prematurely. So as some farmers were spraying their tobacco last week, many were also beginning to top plants.

The burley crop is rated average or better by 87 percent of the reporters.

The burley crop is still being bothered by insects and diseases. Aphid populations are increasing in several areas. Black shank and manganese toxicity have been reported, and blue mold has been found in untreated fields in at least two eastern counties.

The 1985 corn crop was rated 15 percent fair, 57 percent good and 28 percent excellent. About 52 percent of the acreage is silking. At this critical stage of development, the crop needs rain and moderate temperatures to avoid additional stress.

This crop is far ahead of last year at this time when only 24 percent of the crop was silking. Thirty-four percent of the acreage at silking stage is the five year average.

Planting of double crop soybeans is nearly complete. Like other producers, soybean growers would welcome a rain to replace moisture in the topsoil.

As of July 14, 16 percent of the acreage was blooming, compared to 6 percent a year ago and 11 percent for the average.

Grasshopper infestations are increasing, but overall the soybean crop is rated 1 percent poor, 25 percent fair, 62 percent good and 12 percent excellent.

Wheat for grain harvest is completed. The statewide average yield is estimated at 36 bushels per acre, down two bushels from last year's harvest.

Sorghum is rated in mostly good condition; however, grasshoppers are increasing in some fields.

Pastures and hay crops continue to be rated mostly good. Some pastures are beginning to feel the heat and could use some rain.

Appreciation Night For Fire Departments

In recognition of their service to Eastern Kentucky, Jenny Wiley Theatre has scheduled a Fire and Rescue Squad Appreciation Night, Thursday.

All area fire officers, volunteers, and their families will be admitted to the August 1 production of PIPPIN for a special two for the price of one discount.

The general public is also welcome to join in honoring these people for their dedicated service to the people of Eastern Kentucky.

"If you are an employee or volunteer of a Rescue Squad or Fire Department and would like to attend, contact your administrators or the Jenny Wiley Theatre at (606) 886-9274 for ticket information," the theatre advises.

Getting to the Root of Plant Problems

Very few people who grow anything green in Kentucky escaped the harshness of June's weather. Excess water made fields and gardens hard to work, so weeds began to flourish and strawberries rotted too fast to pick. Ground-keepers hunted for dry times to mow while reshaping wind-ravaged trees.

Strong winds accompanying a storm the night of June 9 left the city of Frankfort strewn with downed leaves, twigs and major limbs, and a whole bunch of upped roots. As this author wandered the streets photographing the misery of others, the damage suggested that if people knew more about tree root growth, some of this type of damage might be reduced in the future.

Most plants are divided into essentially two parts: the above ground portion (stems, leaves, flowers and fruits) and the below ground portion (roots, occasionally some stem or leaf tissue). What we see of a plant above ground is a reflection of the condition of what is below ground, i.e., a plant is only as healthy and vigorous as its root system.

Roots have two major functions: to anchor plants in the ground (generally the deep growing roots) and to absorb water and nutrients (generally the shallow growing roots). Despite the fact that roots absorb materials for the leaves to use in manufacturing food, roots are at the bottom of the plant's feeding list. Fruits and flowers get fed first, then leaves, stems, and if anything is left, the roots. If plants aren't fed and watered, and weeds and pests controlled, the "invisible" roots can suffer the most.

Because the roots are fed last and may be the first part of the plant to suffer, the top of a plant may not reflect root problems until they have gotten fairly major. When we finally see wilted, discolored or falling leaves, the roots may be in critical conditions.

Plants suffer from both pathological (caused by insects, fungi, etc.) and physiological diseases (caused by too little or too much water, air pollution, etc.). Both categories can affect roots, with some form of physiological disease often weakening a plant and predisposing it to a pathological disease. For example, a yew planted in wet compacted soil may subsequently die of a fungal root rot.

One of the best ways to diagnose plant problems is to look at the roots. On almost all plants healthy roots are white to tan in color. If roots are brown, the ground may have been too dry, the plant may have been overfertilized, or a chemical toxin (such as a soil sterilant) may have been applied. If roots are black, conditions were either too wet and/or a root rotting organism has been at work.

There are two major myths about roots and their growth patterns that need to be dispelled. First, the bulk of a tree's roots are not deep. Most are within the top foot of soil. That's why soil compaction and dryness, road salts and chemical spills, and other upper soil factors can hurt trees so severely—the small feeding and absorbing roots are damaged or killed.

Secondly, the spread of a tree's root system is not confined to the area under the canopy or within the "drip line." Roots may spread one or more times beyond that. They go around corners and across the street under roads. That's why construction in a tree's vicinity does so much damage—damage that often takes years to appear in the above ground tree. Construction within the drip line may destroy the structural anchor roots and beyond may destroy feeder roots.

Why did so many trees blow over in the June winds? Their roots were neglected or destroyed, and although the top may have sported green leaves, what was left of the root system couldn't hang on any longer.

Timely Joke: Do you know why you're supposed to cover potatoes with newspaper when you plant them? So the dirt won't get in their eyes.

Law Enforcement Night

Jenny Wiley Theatre has scheduled Law Enforcement Appreciation Night for Wednesday, July 31.

All area law enforcement officers, volunteers, and their families will be admitted to the July 31 production of A FUNNY THING HAPPENED ON THE WAY TO THE FORUM for a special two for the price of one discount.

The general public is also welcome to join us in honoring these officers.

Employees or volunteers of a law enforcement organization who would like to attend should contact their administrator or the Jenny Wiley Theatre at (606) 886-9274 for ticket information.

Preventacare Class Graduates

The third and final Preventacare class was graduated June 26 from Mayo State Vocational-Technical School. The homemaker-home health aides were trained to help elderly and disabled persons in Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Pike counties. Through the Preventacare Program elderly or disabled persons may stay in their own homes instead of entering an institution.

The Preventacare aides are trained in general household cleaning and management, meal preparation, personal care, vital sign monitoring, basic first-aid, and cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR).

Margaret Tackett, R.N., of Allen, was instructor for the seven-week training period. During the training, the aides had an eight day practicum at River-view Manor in Prestonsburg, to combine classroom knowledge with hands-on experience.

Beginning July 1, the aides were employed by Sandy Valley Senior Citizens Program, Inc. here.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Roberts and Mr. and Mrs. Budge Moore, of Garrett, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their children, Vickie Lynn and Anthony Wade, July 27 at the Stone Coal Regular Baptist Church of Garrett at 6 p.m.

The gracious custom of open church will be observed, and a reception will follow immediately after the wedding in the church dining hall.

P.C.C. Day Camp Blends Athletic, Cultural Activity

The summer day camp conducted at Archer Park under the auspices of Prestonsburg Community College began its third two-week session Monday.

The camp—which has kept hundreds of children busy over eight long, hot summers—was begun in 1978 on the PCC campus but has been held at the city park since 1981. The change of venue meant better recreational facilities but somewhat reduced opportunities for craft and cultural activities, said James Ratcliff, director of PCC's community services department.

In any event, camp staffers still strive to offer a balance of both physical and cultural activities, in a varied schedule that includes classes ranging from baton twirling to computers. Campers can choose from such sports as basketball, roller skating, swimming and tennis; drama and modern jazz sessions are offered; or they can try their hand at sign language, pencil sketching or crafts.

This year's camp director is Rhonda England, assisted by Maria Mullins. Camp counselors include Raymond Roberts, Sanoma Goodwill, Barbara Ware Williams, Dorothy Howard, Debbie Reed, Kim VanHoose, Jonni Harris, Kelly Cecil, John Anderson, Chris Honeycutt, Mary E. Smith, Karen Ousley, Rachel Floyd, Jill Isaac, Beverly Marstin, Mark Vanderpoole, and Thomas Floyd.

Honored On Father's Day

Odas Hamilton, of Banner, was honored on Father's Day with a pleasant surprise. All of his six children and three step-children, two of his nine grandchildren and one step-grandchild were present to give him gifts and wish him a happy Father's Day. It was the first time they had all been together in our 10 years.

Those present were Lola Miller and Shelia Clogg, of Johnstown, Ohio; Patty Corse, of Columbus, Ohio; Linda Colegrave, of Etna, Ohio; Rich Hamilton and his children, Brandon and Brian, of Dayton, Ohio; Odean Hamilton and Karen Hicks, of Banner; Loretta Fugate, of Minnie; and Debora McKinny and her son, Dwight, and his wife, Lois Hamilton, all of Printer.

Berea Given $100,000 By Mellon Foundation

The Andrew W. Mellon Foundation of New York City has awarded $100,000 to Berea College to stimulate scholarly research in the Appalachian region and encourage the use of Berea's extensive collection of research materials.

Berea Development Vice President Rodney C. Bussey said the Mellon gift, to be used over the next four years, will enable the college to continue its program of research fellowships for Appalachian scholars. Additionally, a portion of the gift will be used to expand the Hutchins Library archival staff in order to provide increased assistance to researchers.

The Appalachian Studies Fellowship Program, which began in 1979 under a grant from the Mellon Foundation, helps to meet the basic expenses of scholars and researchers within the nine-state Appalachian region. Between 1979 and 1984, the college awarded 92 fellowships which have resulted in the production of a variety of books, articles, dissertations and slide/tape presentations.

The sizable resources of Berea's Weatherford-Hammond Mountain Collection and Southern Appalachian Archives, as well as other important collections in the region, have been utilized by fellowship recipients.

In most cases Appalachian Studies Fellowships cover the costs of travel, lodging, food, copying and equipment rental. The fellowship selection committee gives priority to experienced scholars who plan to publish or share in some way the results of their research.

Fellowship application forms may be obtained by writing Loyal Jones, Director, The Appalachian Center, Berea College Box 2336, Berea, Ky. 40404.

BOARD TO MEET

Mrs. Danese Amburgey, president of the Floyd County Retired Teachers' Association, reminds members of the executive board of the meeting to be held tomorrow (Thursday) at 1 p.m., at the Floyd County Library. Matters pertaining to the recent Kentucky Legislative session, as it relates to retired teachers, will be discussed, and plans will be made for the next regular quarterly F.C.R.T. meeting, which is scheduled to be held at May Lodge, beginning at 10 a.m. on August 8.

VACATION IN FLORIDA

Mr. and Mrs. Denzil Whitten, of Prestonsburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Garrett, of Ypsilanti, Mich., who were here for a visit with them, spent a vacation of several days recently in Fort Pierce and Daytona Beach, Florida. They returned home via Savannah, Georgia, and Gatlinburg, Tennessee.

Allen Wins Poetry Award

M. Ray Allen, a freelance writer from Clifton Forge, Va., and a native of Floyd county, won second place in the Appalachian Writers Association's poetry contest held at Morehead State University.

Allen is slated to teach journalism, drama, and English at Allegheny High School during the 1985-'86 school year. Additionally, he will serve as head golf coach and assistant basketball coach.

Allen's collection of poems, entitled Between The Thorns, was among the 60 manuscripts entered in the professional division that was won by Anne Shelby, a well-published poet from Lexington. Albert Stewart, the author of The Untoward Hills and former editor of Appalachian Heritage, took third-place prize.

Allen's prize for second place was $50 along with an honors certificate from the Appalachian Writers Association. He credits Stewart for his start in creative writing.

Allen said, "I owe a lot to Al Stewart for helping me get started in creative writing and encouraging me over the years. I attended writers' workshops that he organized and conducted at Morehead State, Alice Lloyd, and at the Hindman Settlement School."

Allen's first public poetry reading was on June 23, 1968 at the opening ceremony of The Douglas House Center in Long Beach, California. Allen and Jim Bell, a poet from Long Beach, were instrumental in getting a poetry workshop started, and it eventually led to the Douglas House Center being founded by Budd Schulberg, the academy-award-winning dramatist who also founded the Watts Writers Workshop.

Allen's most recent poetry reading came last March as a result of an invitation to read at Berea College in Kentucky as part of the ceremony for the publication of Common Ground: An Anthology of Contemporary Appalachian Poetry. "Sorghum Harvest," one of his poems that appeared in Appalachian Heritage in 1979, was selected for Common Ground.

Allen's poems have appeared in Black Times, Westwind; The UCLA Quarterly For The Arts, and The Green River Review in addition to Appalachian Heritage.

Having taught in Kentucky, Michigan, and California before moving to Clifton Forge, Allen received his A.B. degree from Morehead State in 1963, majoring in English and physical education. In 1965, he earned his M.A. degree in Secondary Education at Morehead State and received his M.F.A. Degree in Theater Arts from UCLA in 1980.

He majored in writing for TV and motion pictures at UCLA, and he is currently rewriting Bloody Harlan, an original screenplay, for Ned Beatty Productions, Inc. of Los Angeles.

Born in Martin, in 1941, Allen graduated from McDowell High School in 1959, and Between The Thorns is a 95-page manuscript of poems that traces his parents' lives from the 1920s to the 1980s as well as his own life.

His parents, Ralph E. and Pauline H. Allen, of McDowell, continue to live in Floyd county where their parents and grandparents lived before them.

Allen has been invited to conduct a workshop in screenplay writing for the AWA at Virginia Tech next summer in Blacksburg, and he narrated and served as a technical advisor for Shooting Coal, a 13-minute documentary film shot in Floyd county. Shooting Coal, which was directed by Charlie Coban, of Sherman Oaks, Calif., features Klein Dean Stumbo and the men of the Eastern Mine near Maytown. Recently, it was included as part of the Appalachian Collection at the University of Kentucky.

Allen also has one film to his credit, a 15-minute surrealist film, entitled Hollywood on the Pike. Filmed in Long Beach, it featured his wife, Cherie, who was Miss Virginia in 1968 and a singer-actress with the Los Angeles Civic Light Opera at the time.

The Allens live on Iron Gate Hill near Clifton Forge, and they have two children, Landon Ray, 7, and Jana Cherie, 4. His wife is a native Virginian who graduated from Allegheny County High School where her husband now teaches.

Allen is presently writing Two Places, a second manuscript of poems, and he is busy organizing another writers workshop that will be called The Appalfolks of the Allegheny Highlands. The workshop will promote film, TV, video, photography, song writing, poetry, short story, novel, drama, and nonfiction.

Floyd County Student Shares In National First Prize Award

Two pharmacy students—one, a Floyd countyian—, representing the Poison Prevention Committee of the University of Kentucky's pharmacy student organization, won first prize in the third annual nationwide competition among health professions students for the best proposal for innovations in health promotion and disease prevention.

Plaques and a $3,000 prize were presented to John D. Butts, 35, and Carol L. Beck, 26, at a ceremony held July 16 in the Department of Health and Human Services headquarters in Washington, D.C. The Department sponsors the competition with the Federation of Associations of Schools of the Health Professions.

Butts lives with his wife, Patsy, and son, Eric, in Lexington, and is the son of William R. and Joda E. Butts, of Ivel. While pursuing his doctorate in clinical pharmacy at the University of Kentucky, he is employed at the Veterans Administration Medical Center in Lexington. He is currently president of the Student American Kentucky Pharmaceutical Association.

Beck received her doctorate in pharmacy from the University of Kentucky and is now a teacher and clinical pharmacist at North Dakota State University, College of Pharmacy in Fargo. She is the daughter of Robert L. Beck of Lexington, and the late Betty J. Beck.

The winning paper describes the development of a puppet play designed to teach poison prevention concepts to young grade school children. The play, written and performed by pharmacy students, has been shown to more than 2,000 children, and a follow-up evaluation indicates its positive effect. The paper will be published in the Public Health Service journal, Public Health Reports.

In UK Enrichment Program

Mary Dye, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Dye, Jr., McDowell; Melissa Samons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Samons, of Martin, and Todd Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Johnson, of Prestonsburg, who are attending an eight-week summer enrichment program at the University of Kentucky Chandler Medical Center (at left is John Wiggs, program director.) Thirty sophomore, junior and senior college students are participating in the Health Careers Opportunity Program (HCOP), funded by the Federal Division of Disadvantaged Assistance of the Public Health Service. The program is designed to help selected disadvantaged white and minority students become more competitive, as well as to have the opportunity to be admitted to and succeed in medical, dental or pharmacy schools.

To Stock Streams With Brook Trout

Five mountain streams in Bell, Harlan and Letcher counties will soon be stocked with fingerling brook trout as part of a program to establish nearly 60 miles of wild trout streams in eastern Kentucky.

Jim Axon, Dingell-Johnson Coordinator and Assistant Director of Fisheries for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, said that the streams are located "in remote, undisturbed watersheds of the Cumberland River drainage. All of the streams are above 2,000 feet in elevation, and offer good coldwater habitat."

Axon further said that the streams "are very secluded, not accessible by motor vehicle," adding that "someday we hope they will provide a high quality, hike-in sport fishery."

The 1,000 or so four-inch brook trout, scheduled to be stocked in July at the rate of 100 fish per mile, are of the OHI strain from Washington state. Axon said that the OHI strain has a good reputation for being able to reproduce well in small streams. It is a good strain for developing a self-sustaining wild trout fishery," he added. All of the trout to be stocked will be trucked from White Sulphur Springs National Fish Hatchery in West Virginia.

Axon said that the OHI strain is capable of reaching four years of age, and 12 to 14 inches in length in small streams, whereas throughout much of Appalachia, wild brook trout seldom reach more than eight inches in length or live longer than three years. "We expect the trout to do well in our streams since the water is a bit more fertile than most other trout streams in the region," he said.

These initial stockings will be the first step in the establishment of about 60 miles of wild trout streams throughout southeastern Kentucky. Axon said that next year the same five streams will be stocked one last time. In following years, six more streams will be stocked for two years. These stockings will provide two distinct year classes to reproduce and develop a wild trout population.

"Based on the productivity of surrounding streams we expect these new trout waters to produce standing crops of about 30 pounds of fish per acre, or mile, but the total could be higher. That remains to be seen," Axon explained. Before any of the streams will be opened to fishing, biologists will have to sample the populations to be sure they are reproducing and adapting well to their environment, three years after they were initially stocked.

All of the fish will be carried in plastic bags filled with oxygen and water to the streams in which they will be stocked. Axon said that a total of eight Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources personnel will be involved in backpacking the fish through rugged mountainous terrain to the streams where they will be released.

The streams in which the trout will be stocked had to meet strict criteria based on water quality, habitat and water temperature. The preliminary stream surveys included population samples which turned up some interesting native fish, primarily darters, dace and creek chubs, although Axon said that he expects crayfish to be one of the main food sources for the "brookies."

Seven Years Old

Elizabeth Irene Owens celebrated her seventh birthday, July 11. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Owens, of Martin, and the granddaughter of Ruth Hackworth, of Prestonsburg, and Irene Robinson, of McDowell.

Miss Sturgill Becomes New Flight Attendant

Dorothy L. Sturgill, 24, of Prestonsburg and Lexington, is Republic Airlines' newest flight attendant. She and nine other classmates recently graduated from the airline's four-week flight attendant training program in Atlanta.

Miss Sturgill has begun her duties as a flight attendant at Republic's Memphis crew base.

A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barkley J. Sturgill, of Prestonsburg, she is a 1978 graduate of Prestonsburg High School and earned a degree in business administration from the University of Kentucky-Lexington Technical Institute. Before joining Republic, she was a financial adviser at the University of Kentucky.

"Our heat pump is cleaner and better than a wood, oil or gas furnace."

First of all, the fuel burned by a furnace is expensive, and getting more expensive every year. But the heat pump doesn't burn anything. Rather than generating heat, it pumps the heat that's already in the air. That's why a heat pump saves so much money.

Second, a heat pump is cleaner than a conventional furnace. Because it doesn't burn anything, there's no dirt or soot.

Finally, unlike a furnace, a heat pump becomes an air conditioner in the summer. By reversing itself, a heat pump takes the heat out of the house and keeps the cool air circulating.

Winter and summer, an electric heat pump is a complete comfort system. That's why so many smart homeowners have made the switch from a wood, oil or gas furnace to an electric heat pump.

Talks Revive Haysi Dam Dream

The Haysi (Va.) dam, a project talked of by Seventh district congressmen over a period of more than 40 years, is still alive.

Congressman Carl Chris Perkins led two meetings, July 1 and 2, at Elkhorn City and Belfry, at which the U.S. Army of Corps of Engineers explained the benefits that would accrue to Pike and other counties when, and if Haysi Reservoir becomes a reality.

The dam would be located on the Russell Fork of the Big Sandy, and, had it been in operation at the time of the destructive 1977 flood in that section, the river stage at Elkhorn City would have been 5.4 feet lower and at Pikeville 2.3 feet lower, with the reduction of flooding farther downstream being appreciable but not as great, Corps of Engineers spokesmen told gatherings at the two meetings.

The dam, which would be primarily for flood control, would also provide new recreational opportunities for residents and tourists. Water from the dam, controlled and allowed to flow through the Breaks Interstate Park, would create "world class" white water rafting in the rivers passing through the deep gorges in the park. Another sport considered by the Corps of Engineers was trout fishing in the new waters.

It is estimated that construction of the dam would provide approximately 375 jobs and would contribute between $20 and 25 million in salaries and wages to the local economy. White water rafting, which is a multi-million dollar industry in West Virginia, would continue to provide jobs and a boost to local economies after construction.

In response to questions asked about problems of trash and sedimentation buildup in the new lake, as in Fishtrap Lake at present, a representative of the Corps of Engineers said trash is a community problem resulting from people dumping their trash into tributaries.

He acknowledged that sedimentation might have impeded the recreational use of Fishtrap Dam, but that the Haysi Dam would be built to allow for more storage of sediment. He also indicated that new, tougher laws on mining in the region had reduced the problem of runoff and sedimentation at Fishtrap.

The Corps would avoid the problems of bad roads such as those at Fishtrap by purchasing all the property near the proposed dam, a procedure that was not followed at Fishtrap. Purchase of the lands would necessitate relocating between 75 and 100 families.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Osborne Elementary School hereby gives notice that the maximum contaminant level for coliform bacteria was exceeded during its recent reporting period of May, 1985 to the state's Division of Water. The test results for coliform bacteria (normally found in the intestinal tract of man or other warm-blooded animals) indicate that some contamination had occurred. Coliform bacteria is not considered harmful, but its presence is a reliable indicator that harmful bacteria may have been present. If the presence of coliform bacteria would continue to occur, a boil water notice would be issued. Frequent testing is done to assure the quality of your drinking water.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant To Application Number 880-0018

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Martin County Coal Corporation, Rt. 40, Box 82-A, Inez, Kentucky 41224, intends to amend its permit for combination surface and underground coal mining and reclamation operations located 1.5 miles northeast of Thomas, Kentucky in Martin, Floyd, and Pike counties.

A brief description of the proposed amendment is: Change method of mining from mountain top removal to contour and underground mining on a portion of this permit. The modification and addition of seven (7) hollow fills for disposal of excess spoil. Amend the permit boundary to add contour mining on the Broas Seam and mountain top removal mining on the Richardson Seam. One (1) sediment dam is being added to the permit for sediment control. A total of 44.1 acres of surface disturbance is being added resulting in a total of 519.1 acres of surface disturbance area. A total of 23.8 acres of affected area above underground mining is being added resulting in a total of 209.1 acres of affected area. The total permitted area is being increased by 67.9 acres resulting in a total permit area of 728.2 acres.

The proposed operation is approximately 1.5 miles northeast from Brushy Fork road's junction with KY Hwy. 194 and located 1.5 miles northeast of Thomas, Ky. The latitude is 37° 41' 34". The longitude is 82° 33' 13".
The proposed operation is located on the Thomas U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The surface area to be disturbed is owned by Pocahontas Kentucky Corporation, and Lon B. Rogers. The operation will underlie land owned by Pocahontas Kentucky Corporation, George Morrison, and James Morrison. The application also includes a proposed land use change from the forest land pre-mining land use to a combination forest land and pasture land post-mining land use. All access roads at the proposed mine site will be retained as permanent facilities.

The application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 503 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653. Written comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, 6th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. 7-24-3t.

PUBLIC NOTICE

An application for a place of entertainment license has been filed by Henry Hall, of Box 78, Dorton, Kentucky. The nature of the business will be video games and juke box.

The County Attorney's Office is required to file a written report to the County Judge Executive's office reflecting if the person applying is "not of good moral character or who will not, in the judgment of the Court, (County Judge Executive) obey the laws of the state in the carrying on of the business." Any interested citizen having information relative to said applicant's lack of "good moral character" or willingness to obey the laws of the state in the carrying on of the business is requested to file the same in writing, with the County Attorney's office. Said written information shall be signed, dated, and reflect the current address of said citizen, and must be delivered to the County Attorney's office no later than the 25th day of July, 1985. ARNOLD TURNER, JR., Floyd County Attorney 7-24-2t.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Mining fatalities numbered 163 in fiscal 1984, according to the U.S. Department of Labor's annual report for fiscal year 1984. This represented an increase from the record-breaking low of 131 in fiscal 1983, but it remained far below fatality figures in earlier years. 1t.

GARRETT NEWS

Mrs. Effie Howard spent two weeks in Marion, Ohio with her daughter, Glenna Caudill and her family. While there they had their fourth family reunion. Those at the family reunion included all of Mrs. Howard's children, Mrs. Alberta Bolding, Bonnie Farmer, Jenny Farmer, Lisa Bolding, of Warren, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Howard, Kelly Lee and Trena, of Swanton, Ohio; Sandy and Dean, Robin, Robie, Jaslyn of Marion, O.; Mr. and Mrs. Tim Howard, Cristy, Carlo and Ryan, of Michigan; Mr. and Mrs. Garry Howard and Karen, of Maysville, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Caudill, Darren, Denise, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Slone, all from Ohio. Elma Faye Wireman and her children; Mrs. Nina Moore, Jeremy, Steven, of Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Rick Hayes and Angie, Misty, Eric, of Marion, Ohio.

Jolenda Howard spent a week with Rita Bolding and her family at Warren, Ind. She enjoyed some fishing while she was there. Mrs. Audrey Whitt spent a few days with her brother, James Bolding, and his family. Mrs. Anna Cox and Angie Mayo spent a few days with their brother and son and his family. Delengeier Cox and Martin Mayo were in Huntington, Indiana, recently.

The French philosopher Jean Jacques Rousseau gave better advice and followed it less than perhaps any other great man.

The VA Quiz

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Following are representative questions answered daily by VA counselors. Full information is available at any VA office.)

Q-How can I purchase copies of VA's handbook "Federal Benefits for Veterans and Dependents"?
A-The VA-produced handbook "Federal Benefits for Veterans and Dependents" can be purchased from the Government Printing Office, Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D.C. 20402. The stock number is 051-000-00170-2, and the cost is $2.50.

Q-I am the widow of a veteran who died of an injury he incurred on active duty. We voluntarily separated and lived apart for several years prior to his death. Am I entitled to any compensation from the VA?
A-The surviving spouse must have lived continuously with the veteran from the time of marriage until the veteran's death, except where there was a separation due to the veteran's misconduct or obtained by the veteran without fault on the spouse's part. You may file a claim to obtain a proper determination on your eligibility.

Q-I entered military service before December 31, 1976 and plan to serve at least twenty years for retirement benefits. Will I lose my GI Bill benefits which expire on December 31, 1989?
A-No. Under the provisions of Public Law 98-525, enacted October 19, 1984, a new GI Bill has been established to protect your benefits. Under this law you would receive $300 per month for 36 months plus one-half of the GI Bill rate you would have received under the existing GI Bill if you start training after December 31, 1989.

Q-I served in Vietnam in 1969. I think I may have some problems related to Agent Orange exposure. Does the VA have any programs that can assist me?
A-Veterans who served in Vietnam may be eligible for health care services for illnesses or disabilities that might be related to Agent Orange exposure. You should contact the nearest VA medical center or outpatient clinic to determine your eligibility. VA also has a continuing program for examining veterans who served in Vietnam and who are concerned about the possible health effects of Agent Orange. You may request an examination by contacting your nearest VA medical center or outpatient clinic.

Q-When the time comes to convert my Veterans Group Life Insurance to a private policy, how will I know which companies participate in the program?
A-The Office of Servicemen's Group Life Insurance will notify you before your insurance expires and will provide you with a list of participating companies. You should keep them informed of your current address.

Q-When I purchase a home using a VA loan guaranty, will my wife's income be considered?
A-If both husband and wife are obligated for the loan, the wife's income will be fully considered.

Floyd Projects Studied By Licensure Board

A total of 15 applications, representing a total capital expenditure of $103,397, was approved at the July 17 meeting of the Kentucky Health Facilities and Health Services Certificate of Need and Licensure Board. All of the approvals were for the establishment or expansion of home health agencies except for an adult day care center in Covington and an outpatient rehabilitation agency in Winchester.

The board did not review 65 proposals concerning long-term care beds in accordance with a restraining order issued Tuesday by Franklin Circuit Court Judge William Graham. The order prevented the board from taking any action on any proposal related to long term care beds until a ruling is made on the legality of the June 28 moratorium on long term care beds ordered by Gov. Martha Layne Collins. Acting chairman Thomas Duncan stated at the beginning of the meeting that the board would "abide by the law" and obey the restraining order.

The board also denied or revoked 11 licenses of health care facilities. Floyd county projects reviewed are: Highlands Regional Medical Center Home Health Agency, Prestonsburg—to establish a home health agency to serve residents of Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Pike counties. Approved.

Appalachian Home Health, Pikeville—to expand home health services to a portion of Floyd county to include the Prestonsburg area and the northern section of the county. (This application was withdrawn by the applicant.)

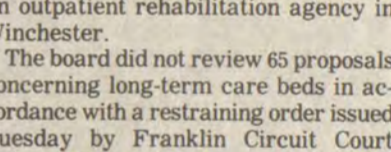

Among facilities denied relicensure due to failure to submit a licensure fee and application was the Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hall Family Care Home, Craynor.

The board upheld its recommendation to revoke the license of the Shree Ji Health Care Center in Paintsville and voted to proceed with the license revocation of the Shree Ji Health Care Center in Jenny Wiley.

Homecoming Roundup

Last call for Maytown homecomers! Registration in the cafeteria, 1 to 6 p.m. Friday, again on Saturday, 8-12. Meals and short orders available there, all concessions to Maytown P.T.O. From 8-10 Friday evening, a Gospel Sing at Maytown First Baptist Church is open to the public, everyone welcome to attend, not limited to homecomers. Come, enjoy the fellowship and music. Bob Varney, pastor, will give the invocation and brief welcome; Bill Patton, of United Methodist, to emcee the program planned by Bett Lou Frasure and Gloria Jones, choir directors of their respective churches. Among those participating is a four-year-old lass of Eastern, only child of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Martin of Eastern. Crystal invariably charms her audience. Reminders follow:

Saturday agenda: Breakfast, class reunions, 10 to 12 noon, in main building; youth reception by local youth for visitors, same hours in cafeteria. Luncheon. Blue Grass music with stringed instruments in auditorium, starting at 1 p.m.; Glenn Stone, Sr. and Gheard Martin, chairman. Dinner, evening program begins at 7 o'clock in the auditorium, very brief, no speaker, so everyone can visit more, especially those arriving late. Welcome, invocation, flag salute, Maytown High songs, announcements, etc., benediction, and farewells for those who cannot remain longer to attend services in one of the three churches that extend a welcome to all.

Bentley Reunion Held

The descendants of Allen and Susan Prater Bentley held their third reunion July 6 at the Dewey Dams picnic and reunion area.

The day started with the traditional song, "Family Reunion," sung by Zeb Ousley, followed by prayer by the Rev. James Tackett.

After the food was served, prizes were given for the oldest member, the youngest member and the family with the most children present.

The prize for the oldest member was given to Crecie Slone, the youngest member was Jenna Patton, who was one month old, and the family with the most children present was that of Mr. and Mrs. Ireland (Buzz) Bentley.

Families came from Ohio, Michigan, Virginia, and Indiana as well as a number of counties in Kentucky. Those present were Zeb and Lola Ousley, John and Erva Baker, Denver, (Flora Bentley) Newsom and Bryan, Christine and Bob Childers, Mack and Betty Blankenship, Ireland and Eurette Bentley, McKinley, Donna and Chuck Hall, Ireland (Buzz), Vonda, Tonya, Glenna, and Jeremy Bentley, Howard, Wanda, and Susan Justice, Tom Ousley, Edgar and Lois Bentley, Clindard Bentley, James and Rita Tackett, Cindy Tackett, Bill and Glema Smith, Paul and Josephine Spangler, Mary Angeline Ousley, Mark Ousley, Phillis Ousley, Melissa Lykens, Glen and Anna Lykens, Jeff and Pam Patton, Donna and Shawn Sylvester, Tim Lykens, Danny and Patty Rowlette, Daniel S. Rowlette, Herbert and Mary Rowlette and Crecie Slone.

ATTENDS CONFERENCE

Mrs. Delphia Hicks returned to her home July 21, from a nine-day trip to Hartford, Conn., where she attended the Northeast Regional Conference of Delta Kappa Gamma Society International, a working organization of women educators. The purpose of this organization, which has given more than 3000 scholarship grants for women of other countries for study in the United States, is to unite and honor women educators. Mrs. Hicks was accompanied by Mrs. Virginia Mutchler, of Western Kentucky University, Bowling Green, and Emma Mcpherson, of Cumberland College, Williamsburg, Kentucky. En route to Hartford, they visited historic Gettysburg, toured Boston, and visited the John F. Kennedy Library.

While in New England, Mrs. Hicks spent some time with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hackworth, and family, at South Hampton, Mass., and visited her niece, Mrs. Cheryl Prindle, and Mr. Prindle, and Miss Marie Hackworth, daughters of her brother, the late Lloyd Hackworth. In Connecticut Mrs. Hicks also visited a center in Leitchfield, concerning her position on the board of directors of Mountain Comprehensive Care.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Pete McGuire wishes to gratefully acknowledge the thoughtfulness and kindness of friends, relatives, and neighbors in the loss of our loved one. We are especially grateful to the minister, J. Michael Curry, for his kind service and to the Hall Funeral Home for its courteous service. Also thanks to all who sent food, flowers, prayers and gifts of love. All your kindnesses are greatly appreciated.

THE FAMILY

ATTEND HACKWORTH RITES

Family members from Kentucky who attended funeral services in Richmond, Va. for John Bruce Hackworth, July 11, were Mr. and Mrs. Isom Poe, Thomas A. Poe, Mr. and Mrs. Isom B. Poe, all of Prestonsburg, and William R. Hardin, of Ashland.

Where Crawfish Is Caviar

By SUSAN D. BLISS

(Smithsonian News Service)

Travelers agree that south Louisiana restaurants can serve up some of the tastiest regional food in the nation. And there's good reason for that—restaurants have to compete with everybody's mother.

No one sitting in Maude Ancelet's living room in Lafayette, La., following a dinner of crawfish creole, shrimp etouffee and fig cake could disagree with that comment from her son Barry. For the citizens of Lafayette, heartland of Cajun culture, America's new enthusiasm for the spicy, flavorful food that south Louisianians eat every day at home is gratifying, but not surprising.

Paul Prudhomme, the New Orleans restaurateur who is marketing Louisiana cooking far beyond state borders, has a simple explanation: "Cajun food is popular because it tastes good."

The delicacies now craved by food enthusiasts from New York to San Francisco are adapted from traditional recipes developed by hardworking people who made use of whatever ingredients were available from Louisiana farms, bayous and coastline. Their forebears were French-Canadian immigrants expelled by the British from Nova Scotia—then known as Acadia—in 1755. Settling in south Louisiana, the Acadians, or Cajuns, brought along their French language, food traditions and culture, adapting them to a subtropical region with a long growing season, flat terrain and plentiful waters.

In south Louisiana, the Cajuns lived side by side with Indians, African and Caribbean blacks and French, German and Spanish landowners who had gathered in this bustling commercial center fed by Mississippi, Caribbean and Atlantic trade. Cajun menus were spiced by the distinctive cooking styles of French ancestors and new neighbors.

These environmental and cultural influences are well mixed in south Louisiana cuisine. At Schwegmann's, a large New Orleans grocery store, 40-foot-long shelves are stacked with every size, color and shape of dried bean. There are aisles lined with boxes and bags of rice—most of it grown nearby. Vegetable bins hold squashlike mirlitons, small green tomatoes and plantains. The fish counter is chock-a-block with jumbo Gulf shrimp, local crawfish and whiskey 10-pound catfish.

So varied are regional culinary customs, and so creatively have south Louisianians managed to maintain them in contemporary life, that cooks from New Orleans and south Louisiana are among the nearly 100 folk artists demonstrating their skills, through July 7, during the Smithsonian Institution's Festival of American Folklife in Washington, D.C.

The cultural mixing process, or "creolization," percolated strongest in New Orleans, where "creole" cuisine is centered. Glenn Conrad, director of the Center for Louisiana Studies at the University of Southwestern Louisiana in Lafayette, traces the origin of "creole" back to "a person born in the colony. Hence, creole is a synonym for 'born here.'"

But to the New Orleans restaurant community, creole means Louisiana haute cuisine derived from classic French cooking.

Often, to "cook creole" means to combine French and Afro-American cooking. Usually, the city folk who do so can trace their New Orleans ancestry back to 18th-century French or Spanish colonists and African or Caribbean blacks. Outside New Orleans, in Cajun country, to "cook creole" means to cook soul food.

Mathe' Allain, president of the Louisiana Historical Association, was born in France but makes her home in Lafayette. An enthusiastic cook herself, Allain has devoted many of her studies in Louisiana culture to the investigation of traditional foods. "You have things like pralines, a Louisiana transformation of a classic French recipe using walnuts dipped in sugar," Allain says. "Here, pralines are made with syrup—cane syrup, naturally—and pecans," which are grown nearby.

Carmen Ricard's crawfish 'etouffee is another Louisiana interpretation of a French classic. To thicken the sauce, Ricard begins her preparation with a roux. In France, this handy thickener is made with butter and flour, but in south Louisiana, where land was given over to sugar and rice cultivation, dairy products are not prevalent in cooking. Instead, a roux made with vegetable oil is the base for many a gumbo, creole or stew.

"You can make a roux in 10 minutes or one hour," Ricard says, depending on how dark you want it, "and just as the roux gets to the right point, you throw your seasoning in. That cools it down and stops the cooking process." To her roux, Ricard adds two pounds of crawfish, the tiny, lobsterlike crustacean that, along with Chef Prudhomme, has helped make Cajun food famous.

Over in Henderson, La., you can visit Seafood Inc., one of the region's biggest crawfish processing plants. "Henderson is just a Cajun town where everybody lives on catchin' crawfish," plant manager Lonny Guidry says.

Each man looking for crawfish sets some 300 traps in local fresh water every morning and may catch up to 1,000 pounds a day. The crawfish are taken to a processing plant and parboiled. At Seafood Inc., some 60 workers, immigrants from Vietnam, then pick the white flesh from each creature's meaty tail. For every 100 pounds of crawfish, a picker salvages only about 16 pounds of meat. "One of the reasons that crawfish are popular is that they became available commercially," Mathe' Allain says. "Cajuns used to eat them not as a treat, just as something they could catch."

Many Cajun food traditions are still closely tied to the agricultural year, even though fresh ingredients are now available through the seasons. Lucy Sedotal came to the Folklife Festival from Pierre Part, La., a tiny Cajun town "you have to want to get to," according to local wisdom, because it's so far off major roads. Until a few years ago, Sedotal's husband, Raymond, "made a boucherie," or butchered a hog, every fall.

"We'd make our own cracklins, salt meat and 'andouille' (smoked sausage)," Lucy says. "Then we'd put salt meat and the leftover pieces you didn't know what to do with in a 5-gallon crock. The pig's tail went at the bottom." The scraps were preserved and used in cooking. Cracklins were eaten as snacks. "When you got down to the tail, you knew it was time to boucherie some more," she recalls.

Carmen Ricard, a Creole, was born in New Orleans; French Quarter, but she learned to cook Cajun style from her late husband, who was raised in the country. She makes hogs-head cheese at Christmas, a tradition based on the autumn butchering Sedotal describes. Ricard's family eats black-eyed peas and cabbage, flavored with ham, at New Year's.

You don't have to go to a delicatessen to find "boudin," another product of the boucherie, based on French "boudin blanc," or white sausage, that the Cajuns brought from Canada. Just about any small grocery sells this delectable rice-and-pork sausage, most likely made down the road in someone's kitchen. Or, "Grocery stores with butcher shops make boudin with their pork scraps," says Ellis Cormier, proprietor of The Boudin King, a restaurant in Jennings, La., who supplied the Folklife Festival food concession.

To a visiting Northerner, the abundance of shrimp, oysters and crawfish in south Louisiana is enviable, and Louisianians do take full advantage of their good fortune. When Sylvia Conrad was in high school, shrimp was so cheap that "our high school parties were shrimp-boils." Conrad, who is descended from early French settlers, uses Cajun recipes and also follows the food traditions of the Creole parish where she was raised. Her seafood gumbo is thick with crab, shrimp and oysters, standard fare in New Iberia, La., where she and her husband Glenn make their home.

Sharing food is the neighborly way in Louisiana. The shrimp in Maude Ancelet's etouffee was fished out of the Gulf of Mexico and donated for a family dinner the next night by her son-in-law, Willert Menard. "I don't buy very many groceries," Maude says.

"What we don't use we give away," Elmo Ancelet, Maude's husband, adds. He is giving a visitor a tour of the vegetable garden behind the house. Over the long growing season, it will yield enough Irish potatoes, carrots, little purple hull beans, okra, lima beans, four kinds of tomatoes, mirlitons, green eggplants, strawberries and cucumbers to feed family and friends most of the year.

The taste for fresh foods expertly prepared dies hard, apparently. Carmen Ricard tells the story of her brother Arthur who moved to California after World War II. On a recent visit to New Orleans, he stocked up on fish, shrimp, crawfish and oysters. Lacking a container to transport his treasure, he packed his suitcase with ice and seafood and left his clothes in Louisiana.

ORPHAN DRUGS

The Department of Human Services set up its orphan drug program in 1982. "Orphan drugs" are products that are of little commercial interest. This is usually because the diseases that they are intended to treat are relatively obscure. As part of our effort to keep the public informed, we would like to announce one of the newest of these orphan drugs. It treats severe cases of Tourette syndrome. The drug, pimozide, was shown in clinical trials to decrease the involuntary muscular movements and uncontrollable vocal sounds that characterize this rare neurological disorder. This new drug is for patients who do not respond to, or cannot tolerate, haloperidol. Haloperidol is a drug that has been used for years to treat cases of Tourette syndrome.

Your pharmacist at COOLEY APOTHECARY is ready with knowledgeable advice when you need it. He is a trusted health professional that you may speak to in confidence. As an expert in drugs and medications we explain to patients how to take drug products and also provide patients with other necessary information to achieve the most positive value from the product or products your physician has ordered. For everyday low prices on over the counter remedies and prescription medications rely on us. We are located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Master Charge and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4.

HANDY HINT:

Tourette syndrome is so debilitating that the benefits of pimozide are considered to outweigh its potential risks.

Educators Meet Begins In L'ville

An estimated 3,000 teachers, administrators and teacher educators are expected to attend a statewide vocational education conference that opened Monday in Louisville.

The conference, which continues through July 25, has as its theme "Vocational Education: Excellence at Work."

The headquarters for the conference, which is being sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Education's Office of Vocational Education, is the Commonwealth Convention Center.

Programs for the various vocational areas are being offered at several downtown hotels. The interest areas include agriculture, the Galt House; home economics, Seelbach; health and personal services, Brown; business and office, Louisville Inn; special programs and guidance, Hyatt Regency; public service, Best Western; and industrial, Rodeway, Howard Johnson's and Best Western.

Officials in the Office of Vocational Education said the conference would include in-service activities for participants, exhibits by 80 vendors of educational products and an awards luncheon honoring students, teachers and others for their contributions or achievements in vocational education.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald and James Ratcliffe, chairman of the State Board of Education, presented awards at the luncheon at 11:30 a.m. Tuesday at the Hyatt Regency Hotel.

"Vocational education forms the critical link between education and work," McDonald said. "This conference provides an opportunity for us to consider ways or improving our vocational programs and to recognize outstanding achievement."

Scott McKain, humorist and motivational speaker, gave the keynote address at a general session at 7 p.m. Monday at the Commonwealth Convention Center.

The Governor's Council on Vocational Education will meet in conjunction with the conference. The group attended a luncheon at Phillip Morris, Inc. at noon Monday and held a business meeting there beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Two vocational groups participating in the conference will hold luncheon meetings at 11:30 a.m. Wednesday (July 24). The Kentucky Association of Home Economics Teachers will meet at the Seelbach Hotel, and the Kentucky Association of Vocational Education Special Needs Personnel will meet at the Hyatt Regency Hotel.

The normal adult takes about 16 breaths a minute when awake, six to eight when asleep and as many as 100 under stress.

Floyd Teacher Among 44 in State Selected For Writing Institute

Carol Stumbo, teacher of English at Wheelwright High School, is one of 44 teachers from across the state who have been selected to participate in the Kentucky Writing Institute from July 28 through Aug. 2 at the Radisson Hotel in Lexington.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald said the institute would provide training in the writing process and in the effective teaching of writing for teachers from public schools and universities.

The training is based on methods used in the National Writing Project, which began in California and has since spread throughout the country. The program has been in effect in the Jefferson county schools for the past five years, as a cooperative effort with the University of Louisville.

The institute, which is being co-sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Education and the Kentucky Educational Foundation Inc., is part of a two-year project. During the summer of 1986, similar instruction will be offered at the eight state universities to prepare a cadre of trainers in the special writing techniques.

The program for the institute includes morning and afternoon workshops on various aspects of writing, dinner speeches by noted Kentucky writers and evening activities ranging from book discussions to presentations on the use of the computer in teaching writing.

Participants will also have the opportunity to do their own writing during the institute and will read from their works in the final session.

The keynote address will be given by Dr. Donald M. Murray, a professor of English at the University of New Hampshire, at 8:30 a.m. Aug. 2. Murray, who has written several composition textbooks and published articles in numerous journals, will discuss "What Happens When Students Write."

Guest speakers will include Kentucky authors Thomas Parrish of Berea, John Ed Pearce of Louisville, Anne Armstrong Thompson of Frankfort, Jim Wayne Miller of Bowling Green, James Still of Hindman and Billy C. Clark of Somerset.

The term "post office" stems from "post roads"—those over which stagecoaches first traveled with "posts" maintained along them for changing horses.

INSPECTION PERIOD FOR THE PROPERTY TAX ASSESSMENT ROLL

The Floyd County property tax roll will be opened for inspection from August 5 through August 12, 1985. Under the supervision of the property valuation administrator or one of the deputies, any person may inspect the tax roll.

This is the January 1, 1985 assessment on which state, county, and school taxes for 1985 will be due about September 15, 1985.

The tax roll is in the office of the property valuation administrator in the county courthouse and may be inspected between the hours 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Any person who wishes to appeal an assessment must file a written letter or petition with the county clerk within the above period of time. This letter or petition must state the reasons for appeal, identify the property in question, and state the taxpayer's estimate of actual fair cash value. (KRS 133.120)

Movie Nostalgia

By Lynn Hoogenboom

He was the silent screen's most sensual star and the idol of a whole generation of women. His untimely death in 1926 at the age of 31 set off a wave of national histrionics, and fans, eager to get one last look at their idol, actually rioted in front of the funeral home.

Spoilsports have since claimed that the power Rudolph Valentino exudes on screen is simple overacting and that those long smoldering glances are caused by a nearsighted squint, but Valentino definitely had something. It's still in evidence in such movies as "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," "The Sheik," "The Eagle" and "Son of the Sheik," his last movie.

Ironically, the screen's greatest lover had little success with women in his private life. His first marriage, to actress Jean Acker, broke up on their wedding night, and his second wife, Natacha Rambova, seemed to exert a Svengali-like influence over him.

A third woman — a prominent movie star — claimed that she was engaged to him at the time of his death (and played the role of grieving fiancée to the hilt), but since the actress was a notorious publicity hound and Valentino had never breathed a word about the "engagement" to any of his friends, most people have tended to discount her story.

Question: Who was the publicity-hungry actress?

Answer: Pola Negri

Ask Toni

Selby plays Channing

By Toni Reinhold

The actor who plays Richard Channing on "Falcon Crest" also appeared on "Flamingo Road." What is his real name and what was the name of his "Flamingo Road" character? Also, what was the name of the character played by Howard Duff on "Flamingo Road"? — E.M., Bridgeport, Ohio

David Selby plays Richard Channing on "Falcon Crest." On "Flamingo Road," which ran from January 1981 to July 1982 on NBC, Selby played Michael Tyrone and Duff played Sheriff Titus Semple.

How old is Harrison Ford, and how did he get his start in acting? — L.S., Peoria, Ill.

Harrison Ford was born on July 13, 1942, which makes him 43. He launched his career with guest spots on TV shows like "Gunsmoke," "The Virginian" and "Leave It to Beaver." His film career began with a bit part in "Dead Heat on a Merry-Go-Round" in 1966. He went on to star in such box-office hits as "Star Wars," "The Empire Strikes Back," "Return of the Jedi," "Raiders of the Lost Ark" and "Witness."

Who played Johnny in

David Selby

the TV series "Lancer"? — L.B., Williamstown, Vt.

James Stacy played Johnny Madrid Lancer, a drifter and gunfighter who came to the aid of his aging rancher father in "Lancer," which was set in California of the 1870s. It aired on CBS from September 1968 to June 1970.

Has "Remington Steele" been renewed for the fall season? — K.E., Waynesboro, Va.

You bet it has! Pretty Stephanie Zimbalist (Laura Holt) and dashing Pierce Brosnan (Steele) will snoop their way through the prime-time airwaves again this fall. In the end-of-season cliffhanger, Steele disappeared from Laura Holt's life. It should be interesting to see how this is resolved when the show returns in the fall.

NFL '85 takes to field; five greats enter Hall

By Adam Beckerman

After a two-week hiatus, pro football is back on the tube. This Saturday, in Canton, Ohio, the New York Giants and the Houston Oilers play in the National Football League Hall of Fame Game, a sweltering, half-speed look-see at vets and free agents. The game takes place two hours after five men have been presented with bronze busts of themselves and officially inducted into the Hall.

The Inductees: Frank Gatski, Joe Namath, Pete Rozelle, O.J. Simpson and Roger Staubach. Gatski, a center, anchored the Cleveland Browns offensive line from 1946-56. Joe Willie Namath was a gimpy-kneed, slump-shouldered New York Jets QB who popularized white cleats. Rozelle, as NFL Commissioner and negotiator with the networks, is the man most responsible for the promulgation of pro football into American's media consciousness. And Simpson and Staubach are the first Heisman trophy winners ever to be inducted into the Hall.

To be inducted, former players must work through a convoluted voting process that weeds out those whose character rubs some writers the wrong way.

Don Smith, of the Hall of Fame, says, "There are no rules about moral conduct.

We instruct our voters to vote on a candidate's pro football record only. We can't control what they think or feel, however, or how they vote in private."

Hence, some players get tripped up on their way to the hall. Like Paul Hornung, the Green Bay Packer Golden Boy. And many thought Jimmy Cannon, an AFL star receiver, had a decent chance at induction until he was arraigned last year on counterfeiting charges. Forget Cannon.

As for the game on ABC, the Giants approach this '85 campaign with great expectations following their second post-season appearance in 21 years. And Coach Bill Parcells is content: During the off-season, he acquired Maurice Carthon, former running mate of USFL New Jersey General Herschel Walker; George Adams, a fleet halfback from Kentucky; and a new, four-year, $1.3 million contract.

The Oilers have improved gradually. They won only once in '82, twice in '83 and three times in '84. On offense, the plan is for Warren Moon to set up behind a line supported by heavyweights Dean Steinkuhler and Mike Munchak and toss to sticky-fingered Tim Smith; on defense, it is hoped that draft picks Ray Childress and Richard Johnson create some some havoc.

Butt, Mandeville Vows Solemnized, June 29

The chapel of Mather Air Force Base, California was the setting for the June 29 wedding of Melissa Ann Butt and Jeffrey Scott Mandeville.

The bride, the daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Robert A. Butt, of Carmichael, Calif., and the granddaughter of Mrs. Mary Allene Riffe, of Prestonsburg, wore a gown which had been worn by her mother, of ivory imported French silk and rosepoint lace encrusted with iridescents and pearls and featuring a cathedral train. A Juliette cap encrusted with iridescents, crystals and pearls secured her silk illusion veil. She carried a cascade of ivory bridal roses and baby's breath.

The bride is completing her senior year at California State University, Sacramento. The groom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Mandeville, Jr., of Portland, Ore., attended California State University, Sacramento, and is employed as a musical instrument repair technician.

Sisters of the bride, Mrs. Denise Lovejoy, of Fairborn, Ohio, and Miss Sheryl Butt, of San Francisco, served as honor attendants. Miss Karen Honk and Miss Michelle Corti of Sacramento were bridesmaids. They wore formal peach gowns and carried bouquets of ivory and Sonia roses. The flower girl was Miss Kelly Grayce Lovejoy, niece of the bride.

Mr. Jesse Janzen, of Santa Monica, Calif., served as best man. Mr. Reese Mandeville, of Sacramento, Calif., Mr. Darrell Moore, of San Francisco, and Mr. Tim Eberhart, of Santa Cruz, Calif., served as ushers.

Mrs. Butt, mother of the bride, wore a formal gown of seafoam green, encrusted with bugle beads. Mrs. Mandeville, mother of the groom, wore a blue gown studded with pearls. They wore corsages of ivory bridal roses.

Among the out-of-town guests were the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Mary Allene Riffe, of Prestonsburg, her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Leo M. Butt, of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, the Jeffrey A. Lovejoy family of Fairborn, Ohio and Mr. Chris Barense, of San Francisco. Also attending were the groom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James J. Mandeville, Sr. of Lake Tahoe, California, Mr. Phillip Mandeville, of Los Angeles, California and an aunt, Mrs. Douglas Atkin, and Jeff, of Reno, Nevada.

The reception was held at the Mather Air Force Base Officer's Club. Miss Mary Krista Lovejoy, niece of the bride, Miss Robin Mandeville and Miss Jennifer Mandeville, sisters of the groom, assisted with the guest book, gift table and favors.

Following a trip to the northern California and Oregon coast, the couple will reside in Citrus Heights, California.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Imogene Smock would like to express their thanks to all who helped during the passing of their loved one. Thanks to all who sent food, flowers, prayers and words of comfort during this time of sorrow. Thanks to the minister, Cohen Campbell, Lora Hardwick, the pianist and soloist, and the Hall Funeral Home for their kind and efficient service.

CHURCH HAS ANNUAL MEET

The Bonanza United Baptist Church, established 118 years ago, held its annual observance of the Lord's Supper and the washing of feet Sunday, with a large crowd in attendance. Following the services, lunch was served by church members in their homes. Among the large crowd enjoying the luncheon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gale Music and their son Jim were members and guests from surrounding counties and the following from Prestonsburg: Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Grant and Mrs. Grant's granddaughters, Miss Rebecca Stark, of Phoenix, Ariz., and Miss Jennifer Henry, of Nashville, Tenn.; Mesdames Myrtle Allen, Grace Conley, Wayne Ratliff, and Carl Woods; Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Branham, Mr. and Mrs. Winston Ford and children, Kelli and Winn, and Mrs. Ford's cousin, Kara Baker, of Harlan.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Lee Alley wishes to thank all of those who were so kind and considerate during our time of grief. We want to thank those who sent flowers and gifts of love. We especially want to thank the Pilgrim Home Regular Baptist Church, members and ministers and the Hall Funeral Home for being so kind. All your kindnesses were greatly appreciated.

"A Funny Thing" Resurrects Comic Vaudeville Tradition

One of the funny things about A FUNNY THING HAPPENED ON THE WAY TO THE FORUM, the hilarious New York musical comedy hit playing at the Jenny Wiley Theatre, is that nobody in the show ever gets to the Forum. Nobody even starts out for the Forum.

The joke of the title is, of course, immediately apparent to those bent and arthritic senior citizens old enough to remember vaudeville in its heyday. To their spryer juniors who never experienced that popular form of entertainment, which collapsed with the joint arrival of movie sound tracks and the Great Depression of the 1930's, the full flavor of the title of the Jenny Wiley Theatre's musical can only be appreciated with an explanation.

It's simply this: the old-time vaudeville comedians, in order to give a touch of spontaneity to their gags, would often lead off to their straight men, or to their audiences, with—"Say, do you know, a funny thing happened to me on the way to the theatre this evening." And then they'd spring some old chestnut, like the one beginning, "Who was that lady I saw you with last night?"

The title A FUNNY THING HAPPENED ON THE WAY TO THE FORUM neatly kids the old vaudeville line and at the same time indicates that the musical is concerned with shenanigans in ancient Rome. At the same time it gave the old vaudeville lead-in a new life. After the Roman romp became a huge Broadway success, its title was borrowed for all kinds of advertising ("A funny thing happened on my way to the supermarket, I suddenly realized how good Sudsy-Suds is for dishwashing," etc.) and as an introduction to almost any topic of conversation. Serious commentators sought flippant touches with adaptations of the title, as when political columnist Max Lerner wrote, "Something funny happened to Fidel Castro on the way to his dream of becoming the Lenin of the American hemisphere."

Possibly the topper of these adaptations was a Chon Day cartoon showing a suburban matron coming upon her husband reading a newspaper in their living room and rousing his apprehension by saying, "A funny thing happened on my way into the garage."

The story of the wily Roman slave that is related in A FUNNY THING is low comedy, pure and simple—or, rather, not very pure, just rowdy—but all the same it required of its authors some of the same kind of serious scholarship and research as a Ph.D. thesis. For this is authentic stuff from ancient Rome, a combination of farcical situations in no less than nine plays by Plautus, the playwright who lived from 254 B.C. to 184 B.C. and wrote around a hundred plays that kept his fellow Romans in stitches.

Stealing comic ideas from the plays of Plautus has been a habit of writers for centuries. Shakespeare swiped his whole plot for THE COMEDY OF ERRORS from Plautus's farce, THE BROTHERS MENAECHEMI, and so did George Abbott for this musical comedy with Rodgers and Hart tunes, THE BOYS FROM SYRACUSE. Dozens of Italian plays of the 14th, 15th and 16th centuries derived from Plautus.

After more than 2,000 years, the copyright on Plautus has run out and anyone can help himself to the old boy's boisterously funny plots and situations—as did, for example, the Marx Brothers and the old Mack Sennett silent movies. But to keep Plautus's daffiness in its original Roman setting, as in A FUNNY THING, takes a college education, so to speak.

This the authors of A FUNNY THING have. They are Burt Shevelove and Larry Gelbart, a pair of certified comic writers who have in their time ground out rib-tickling material for such TV comedians as Red Buttons, Bob Hope, Sid Caesar and Art Carney.

Both Shevelove and Gelbart know enough Latin to read Plautus in the original, if they had to (but they didn't, English translations of the plays have long ago been made by experts in Latin and leering) and they have had an interest in ancient drama since their college days. When Shevelove was a student at Yale he staged a comedy by Aristophanes, the Greek playwright who predated Plautus by more than 200 years, and this was so successful that for his class's Commencement Day he wrote and staged a burlesque of ancient farces that he called WHEN IN ROME.

This went so well that Shevelove later decided he must try the same notion again as a Broadway musical. A FUNNY THING HAPPENED ON THE WAY TO THE FORUM was the result (with music by Stephen Sondheim of WEST SIDE STORY and GYPSY fame)—and a happy result it was. It sent New York, London and Paris theatregoers into guffaws in the early 1960's (it ran for 28 months on Broadway) that might just possibly have been as uncontrolled as the roars with which the Romans greeted the Plautus comedies—in the Forum?—more than 2,000 years earlier. A funny thing happened to the plays of Plautus on the way down the centuries—they stayed funny all that time.

So, if you wonder why Rome fell, come see the blockbuster musical by Broadway's finest contemporary composer, Stephen Sondheim. Start with two roughish slaves, add a dash of young love, blend with a mismatched husband and wife, and bake with a braggart soldier, foolish servants, and pretty girls for an evening of non-stop slapstick hilarity at the Jenny Wiley Theatre. Hale Reports More Marijuana Arrests

Sheriff Henry Hale says this has been a good year for catching marijuana offenders, and he believes the trend will continue.

"We've confiscated 777 plants this year, and we're not through with it yet by any means," said Hale last Friday. Deputies recovered another six plants over the weekend, pushing the total to 783.

Hale credits the success rate to information supplied by citizens, saying, "This year I've had some good information from people around the area. We've had one or two calls that were false alarms, but mostly the information has been good."

In raids last week, Doug Blevins, of Melvin, was charged with cultivating 34 plants; and Arnold Prater, of Salyers Branch, was charged with cultivating 137. Charged with producing marijuana were David Howell, of Craynor, 22 plants; Tom Lewis, of Mining Branch, 4 plants; Helen Fields, of Mining Branch, 4 plants; Harriot Ann Jackson, of Brush Creek, 19 plants; Joey Crum, of Arkansas Creek, 9 plants; Timothy Crum, of Arkansas Creek, 9 plants. Crum was also charged with possession of marijuana.

According to deputies, the sheriff's office has opened 21 marijuana-related cases this year and made 14 arrests. Seven cases remain under investigation. Across the Commonwealth, the Kentucky State Police report more than 107,000 marijuana plants being destroyed so far this year, almost twice as many as at the same time last year. The KSP said the greater number of plants was due to better growing conditions this year.

But more marijuana means more peril for the peace officers, says Hale. "We don't know what we're going to step into, a booby trap, or somebody lying there with an automatic weapon. This is very dangerous work," he said.
