

CITY OFFICIALS and some residents of the Goble-Roberts Addition were alarmed this week when East Ky. Paving Company began removal of dirt and rock underlying the Goble-Roberts road to make room for an additional railroad siding for their operation there. The section of road affected clings to the side of a steep hill and some fear the road may collapse under the weight of traffic. It presents a difficult situation for the city since the section of road lies on property owned by the company. Prestonsburg City Manager David Evans said the dilemma "emphasizes the need for a bridge to provide access to Goble-Roberts," a project which, he said, is a primary goal of the city government. Guard rail can be seen above tracks where rock and dirt removal is being done.

Court Holds P'burg Liable On Gas Claim

As the result of a recent decision by the Supreme Court of Kentucky, Prestonsburg or its utilities system will have to pay five local gas producers around $50,000 for gas the city never used.

The decision, which wraps up a case first filed in 1978, marks a victory for owners of three Porter Addition gas wells, who accused the city of renegeing on a contract to buy gas from them.

Under the 1970 pact, the city utilities commission, which buys most of its gas from Kentucky-West Virginia Gas Co., was to buy all the gas produced by the three wells, which are located in an area known locally as Black Bottom. The price of the local gas was to be the same as that charged by Kentucky-West Virginia.

As the larger company hiked its rates, however, the city agency proved unwilling to pay the local producers at the higher rates. In April, 1977, the deal collapsed.

Owners of the three wells—John Allen, Viola M. Cooley, Jettie Shreve, Burl Wells Spurlock and Nell Hagewood—won a Floyd Circuit Court judgment in April, 1982, Special Judge E.N. Venters ordering the city to start buying their gas again and to compensate them for the profits they lost when the city backed down from its contract.

That decision was partially overturned by the Kentucky Court of Appeals (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

School Officials And Fightmaster Review Charges

Before a packed house, Floyd school officials sparred last week with a state-appointed watchdog whose report had earlier prompted the state Board of Education to hand them a set of curt directives.

When the Floyd board met Wednesday before an audience of about 65 persons, it was to hear a list of instructions issued Tuesday by the state board and some pointed comments by Don Fightmaster, the Education Department official who has been monitoring Floyd schools since last March at the state board's request.

The state directives call for tighter control of school lunchroom, athletic and other activity funds, which were said to be operating in the red in half a dozen county schools.

The cases of two school employees were referred to the attorney-general's office "for investigation and/or prosecution," state officials alleging the two owned vending machines located on school property, "an apparent conflict of interest."

Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald was asked to determine at the end of a month whether Superintendent E.P. Grigsby, Jr. and the Floyd board had responded adequately to state directives and, if not, to recommend that a special meeting be set up between state and county officials.

For his part, Fightmaster made clear in a report to the state board his own assessment of the responsiveness of Floyd officials, charging that they take "no initiative" in correcting deficiencies but act "only when there are complaints and the Department of Education makes recommendations for corrections."

The state official accused the Floyd board of taking a "paternalistic" attitude toward citizen critics and warned it would not be able to function effectively—or win a tax increase—if it did not attempt to win citizen support.

Switch in Principals Ordered at W'wright

Wheelwright High School teachers, who only last Friday told Superintendent E.P. Grigsby, Jr. that the school needed new leadership, broke into applause Monday afternoon when Grigsby told them they had a new principal.

It was not immediately clear which was the greater triumph—the superintendent's prompt response to their complaint, or the fact that they had voiced it in the first place. "It's the first time we've really been together," one of them said later. "We rather surprised ourselves."

What was clear was that, beginning Tuesday, Ervin Pack's troubled, 19-month stint as head of the 280-student school was over. Named to replace him for the remainder of the school year was Wilbur "Shorty" Jamerson, health and physical education teacher at the school and a favorite among the high school's 18-member faculty.

The week's dramatic events began in earnest on the Left Beaver campus last Thursday, when some parents reported receiving telephone threats of bombs in the school. Rumors spread quickly, worried parents drove to the school to pick up their children, and the school was evacuated.

No bombs were found, but fears were sufficiently widespread that Friday morning's roll-call found 104 students absent. Further threats, including one called in to the superintendent's office, again forced teachers and students out into the rain while another fruitless search was conducted. Teachers at the school decided they had had enough.

A dozen teachers traveled to Prestonsburg Friday afternoon to meet with Grigsby. Of the handful who stayed behind, a few were thought to be sympathetic to Pack and two, lacking tenure, may have felt vulnerable to reprisal, said one observer. The rest were said to be unanimous in their conviction that the principal had to go. (See Story No. 5, Page 4)

This Town...That World

With all its temperamental tantrums,—sunshine, wind, rain and (heaven forbid!) snow—, March is a great month. It brings the first day of Spring. Just you wait one week, and see.

OUR LOSS

Watt Hale, whose stories enlivened this column and the lives of many people over the years, is dead. And with his passing we lost something of those great intangibles, humor and inner joy, that only some other person with such rare gifts can replace.

A LAUGHING MATTER

I am reminded that, among other things, the ability to laugh at ourselves is something most of us could very well use.

It's so easy to be hoodwinked by the delusion of grandeur that lies in the concept of your own importance. This week I spent a little time taking inventory of myself, my speech, dress, habits, the lack of logic in some of the things I do, and so on. No, I wasn't brooding. I was looking for something funny, and, believe me, I found it.

You don't have to laugh out loud at yourself. That might deter some other who needs to laugh at himself. However you may go about it, give it a try. It just might save you from going nuts or keep you from driving some one else up the wall, like a nuthatch.

We have a redbird which interests me. His liquid notes serve as an alarm clock, every morning, but just as I get awake enough to enjoy his morning song it stops. Four notes, no more, and he either calls it a day or flies off to some neighbor's place to resume his roundelay.

Hager Report Shows...

Administrative Cost Less, So Are Taxes

The "good" news is that administrative costs in the Floyd school system are only about half what they are across the state. But many of the other figures in a statistical summary presented to the Board of Education by Asst. Superintendent Ron Hager last week were as dismal as they were familiar.

Among other things, the school official pointed out, the figures show that Floyd taxpayers invest relatively little in education.

The statistics, which must be collected and published annually under a new state law, measure the school district in 17 categories. For comparison, the averages for the Big Sandy region and for the state are also listed. All figures are for the 1983-84 fiscal year.

Administrative costs per pupil were a lean $28.57 here, compared to $41.43 in the seven school districts of the 11th Educational Development Region (Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Martin and Magoffin county systems and Pikeville and Paintsville independent systems) and $56.82 for Kentucky as a whole.

But all other per-pupil costs are below regional and state averages, also. Compared to the state, overall spending on students is 20 percent lower here, and only half as much is spent on textbooks and other teaching materials in Floyd county as is spent in other Kentucky school districts.

Floyd schools spend $1502.98 per pupil in average daily attendance, compared to $1572.03 in this region and a state average of $1878.91. Educational materials cost $16.95 per student in this county, $23.65 in the 11th Region, $33.34 across the state.

Floyd has fewer teachers per student population, poorer pupil attendance, more school dropouts, and fewer high school graduates going on to college.

The pupil-teacher ratio is 23.7 here 22.7 in the region, 20.7 in Kentucky. At tendance averages 92.11 percent in Floyd, 93.46 in the region, 94.42 statewide. The percentages of ninth-graders finishing high school in county, region and state are, respectively, 52.52, 58.92 and 65.84. The 39.2 percent of Floyd high school graduates entering college is better than the regional average (38.1 percent) but worse than the state's 44.1 percent.

Floyd teachers earn less than the state average, although they do better than the regional average. They are somewhat less educated than their state colleagues but better than the regional norm. Teacher attendance figures, a cause of concern for school administrators here, are not included in the statistical summary.

The average classroom teacher earns $18,686 here, compared to $18,356 in the 11th Region, $19,663 in Kentucky and 71.9 percent of teachers in this district have their MA or equivalent. That is 5.3 percentage points below the state average but 3.7 points above the regional figure.

More than half the children in Floyd schools are classified as economically deprived. Floyd's 50.7 percent in that category compares with 47.5 percent in the 11th Region, 36 percent statewide.

State aid accounts for 78.7 percent of Floyd school funding, compared to a regional average of 73.1 percent and a state average of 65.6 percent. The federal government's contribution is, respectively, 15.3 percent, 15.5 percent and 11.3 percent.

Floyd's deviation from the statewide norm is greatest in a category that occurs near the bottom of the list of statistics but near the top of school officials' concerns—in the percentage of the school budget that comes from local taxes. Across Kentucky, that figure averages 23.1 percent; in the 11th Region it is 11.4 percent; in Floyd it is 6 percent.

THE SWIMMING POOL at Archer Park, now rather dismal looking and half-full of water, will, in a short time, come alive as swimmers and sunbathers flock to the popular recreation area—that is, if enough money can be raised for extensive renovation work to the facility. According to James A. Hughes, park board member, repeated flood damage and general wear and tear over the pool's 20-year history have made the repairs, which would include installation of new pumps and drains and concrete work, necessary. A concert, featuring popular country-pop vocalist Lee Greenwood, set for March 21 at the high school gym here, is among fund-raising efforts planned to help procure the needed funds.

Citizens Group And Board Agree On Forum Issue

In their second approach to the Floyd Board of Education, members of a citizens' group easily persuaded the board last week to set aside 15 minutes at the start of its monthly meetings for public comment.

Under a proposal submitted by Dolores Smith, a committee member of the Floyd County Education Forum, persons wishing to speak to the board will sign up the night of the meeting and will have up to two minutes each to say their piece.

Members of the board will not be required to respond on the spot and need not fear that the comment period will be used to launch personal attacks on them, Mrs. Smith explained.

Board members who were cool to the idea of a comment period when it was proposed last month unanimously supported it last week, Superintendent E.P. Grigsby, Jr. explaining that his earlier opposition was only to "verbal attacks."

"I can't stress strongly enough this thing of working together with citizens. I think we've shown we're doing that," Grigsby said.

Ironically, the board's yielding time to the public coincided with criticism by a state monitor that school officials here are aloof in their dealings with citizens. Don Fightmaster, who has been sitting in on Floyd board meetings since last March as a representative of the state Board of Education, reported to that panel Tuesday that "other than cosmetic changes such as board seating arrangement and distributing agendas, little effort has been made (by Floyd officials) to improve relations" with a group of citizens whose widely-publicized complaints in 1983 led to close state supervision of the Floyd school district.

Several comments at Wednesday's meeting suggested that school officials might be more willing to cooperate with the Floyd County Education Forum—a product of the "town forum" sponsored here last November by the Prichard Committee on Academic Excellence—than they were with the citizen groups that preceded it. "I will readily accept constructive criticism," Dr. Mary Hall said in support of the 15-minute comment period, "rather than the destructive criticism which we had in the past."

Letters to the Editor

The views expressed here are those of the writer, and not necessarily those of this newspaper. No unsigned contributions will be published.

Yells "Foul Play"

FOUL! An often-heard word this time of year, but I think Prestonsburg should be made aware of fouls being committed on their behalf at City Hall.

This writer was told to submit an application for director of Archer Park; the city wanted someone with a degree in recreation preferably, but, since problems were evident in the actual work areas, experience and job-related work would be taken in consideration.

This writer was told the job was to be fulltime, and duties were explained, and expectations were high. But, alas, politics again entered the scene.

As it's becoming an every day thing in Floyd county, politics again reared its ugly head and a seemingly already employed person was hired for the job and several well-qualified individuals were cast aside. Could it be the fact that the wife of the person hired sat in on the interviewing committee?

Shame on you, Prestonsburg! You should learn from the neighbors to the north and south of us, Pikeville and Paintsville, and try to do something for the kids instead of handing out political "plums".

After all, Floyd county has mired itself in politics so long that the kids suffer as they beg for things to do with their idle time. "Parents For Better Schools" who ask about grade scores, ask why kids hate to go to school? Ask why they can't wait to go home or turn 16 to drop out?

The complex problem revolves around a select few participating in team sports and a vast majority dreading school and school work because of a lack of camaraderie, team work, friendships, loving and caring that sports participation brings.

The problem lies not in education and educators, but in our backward approach to participation in extra-curricular sports and activities, for to make a child learn he or she must first want to go to school to learn.

Politics is one thing that should never enter into education and sports, but, sad to say, it's a common occurrence in Floyd county and Prestonsburg. The Haves have it and don't want to share with our less fortunate Floyd citizens.

Thanks for the interview, but I really could have found a better way to spend that evening.

OSCAR RICE,
Emma, Ky.

The ACTS Network

On March 2, Consolidated Communications, serving cable subscribers in the Prestonsburg area, sent out a "Channel Choice Card." The first choice on this card is "ACTS". The ACTS Network is a unique and attractive station that is now reaching millions of homes in the United States. The 24-hour-a-day programming includes entertaining, informational, and educational formats. It has a special commitment to children's programming.

The ACTS Network is unique in many aspects. It is a non-commercial station (like public TV), with a strict prohibition against any on-the-air solicitation. There never has been and never will be any appeals for funds on the air. It would be free of time-consuming and often offensive advertising. Also, there will be the availability of 23 hours per week of local programming. This could be very effectively used for our community. A local ACTS board will control this time. Another unique aspect is the satellite feed which is provided absolutely free to the local cable company. Therefore, the ACTS Network will never be a cause for any raise in cable subscription prices.

The ACTS Network is being provided by 35,000 Baptist churches, including three in Prestonsburg. Their commitment is to provide wholesome family programming, with only 25% directly religious programs. Other denominations are already producing programs for ACTS.

If you would like more information or want to view "a demo" tape in ACTS programming, contact the First Baptist Church, Irene Cole Memorial. I strongly urge the people of our community to mark their Channel Choice Card for ACTS.

In Appreciation

I want to thank everyone who helped circulate and sign the petitions concerning the rockslides between Paintsville and Prestonsburg. I especially thank Mrs. Charlotte Crum for her services and interest in helping make it such a success.

Bad weather hampered us some toward distribution of the petitions—but Johnson and Floyd county people really showed an interest in hoping the situation would be corrected before a terrible tragedy occurs.

The petitions were sent to Gov. Martha Layne Collins and I believe they were very instrumental in helping convince her that the people of Eastern Kentucky are really anxious for the need of road improvements in this area.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Frank Newsome wishes to gratefully acknowledge the thoughtfulness and kindness of friends, relatives, and neighbors in the loss of our loved one. We are especially thankful to the Regular Baptist ministers for their kind service and the Hall Funeral Home for its kind and efficient service.

More About Pageants

In the letter by Mrs. Kim Frasure she only touched the surface of the "pageant war." Of course, no matter how hard anyone tries, feelings are always hurt, but I fail to see anyone trying.

But that's not the reason for this letter. I have participated in two pageants—the Miss Jenny Wiley and Miss Eastern Kentucky (Pike county). Although the merchandise, gifts, flowers and general organization efforts were donated by the Pike county merchants, no difference was made between in-county and out-of-county girls. The Pikeville Woman's Club suggested that I get a sponsor from my county (Floyd). With the response I received I began to think I had the plague, with the exception of Dr. Larry Leslie. I thank him for his full support. At the time I entered the Miss Eastern Kentucky, Floyd county didn't host a pageant. So why were the merchants so snobbish? Floyd county sure didn't mind when I had a Johnson county sponsor for Miss Jenny Wiley. Now that Miss Floyd County has been reestablished, they aren't willing to accept a girl from another county where no pageant is held.

I'm sure they aren't considering that other counties have welcomed girls from our county. Maybe the situation would be different if every county in the state hosted pageants or if the Floyd county pageant was as large as the Miss Lexington or Miss Fayette County pageants. But this is just a small town where "cliques" overrule. What ever happened to equality? The only way to be equal in Floyd county is to be in a certain clique. I thought that Miss Kentucky meant having the girl that represents our state to its fullest at the Miss America Pageant. Now I know I'm wrong. It's the girl that has a pageant in her county and all others just don't exist. Maybe it's because there is no talent or poise there? Or is it they aren't in a clique from a neighboring county? Wouldn't Floyd county love the honor of having a Miss Kentucky? Sure, only if the girl is one of Floyd county's own.

I'm sure if a Floyd county girl had gone to a neighboring county, won and then becomes Miss Kentucky, Floyd county would want to share the honor also. But, of course, at the expense of the other county. What I'm trying to say is, What difference does it make what county you're from as long as you represent your title well? Seems to be that if you can't have a pageant for everyone—then why bother with having a pageant at all.

Just for the record, I know the real pageant rules. I'd like to add if every pageant could be as equal as the Miss Eastern Kentucky Pageant, which is now Miss Pike County, the whole state would be better off. Maybe a Miss America could be from Kentucky.

Keep up the good work, Pikeville Woman's Club, and with luck other woman's clubs will follow your example.

SHERRY CLARK

Question Coach's Action

We as parents were astounded at the way our coach decided to handle a situation with two of our ballplayers on the night of March 4, the game being between Osborne and Wayland Grade Schools.

The coach said it was because of disciplinary matters. The two boys had missed a ball practice. Why do you discipline one child for something and fail to discipline another child for the same incident? Do you discipline in anger? Do you discipline with favoritism? Do you discipline when a child is forced to choose between one school activity over another? Do you discipline when a child is given permission by a parent to attend an event? Do you discipline by the mood you are in? These are questions that need answers from our coach.

Why did the coach choose this night of all nights for discipline? These boys were at the two practices prior to the game. So why didn't he punish these boys during these two practices? Why did he practice these two boys in their regular position especially the day before the game? Why didn't he practice the two substitutes in those positions to prepare them for the game? These are questions that also need answers from our coach.

Dewey Ray Jamerson, you didn't discipline two players, but instead, you punished the entire team, the cheerleaders, the parents and the fans. Did you get mad at the boys at half time because the team unanimously voted to put the two players back in the game? Is that why you told the boys you wouldn't coach them when they went back out on the floor? Or was it, you got them so far behind, that you knew that they could not catch back up?

We would like to thank Ernie Johnson, coach of the O.E.S. girls basketball team for coaching our boys when their coach quit. Mr. Johnson coached the second half.

What kind of example was set that night? What was accomplished? You have to admire the Osborne Eagles, Mr. Jamerson, even tho they were down, and you, their coach quit on them, they didn't give up, they went down trying to win for their school, W.D. Osborne.

Student Financial Aid: A Bitter-Sweet Situation

Reports about the future of federal financial aid for college students have created an environment of crisis in the media and in the higher education community. The real situation is both bitter and sweet. There are some bright spots as well as some real concerns.

The bright spots include the fact that need-based student aid for 1985-86 is forward-funded at both the federal and state level and that the proposals contained in the White House budget are just that—proposals. This means that prospective students and their families should proceed with their plans for college attendance for next Fall. They should work closely with their high school guidance counselors and the financial aid directors of the colleges they are interested in attending. The doors of opportunity are still open.

The concerns are self-evident in the assumptions which apparently directed the budget which was proposed by the President on February 4, 1985. All citizens certainly must be concerned about a federal budget deficit that is growing at an alarming rate, but we must also be concerned about the capacity of society to regenerate its sense of values as a body politic and at the same time meet the economic demands and opportunities in the "post industrial" or "information age." One of the important keys to the future is economic stability, but education is as critical to economic stability as is defense capability.

To understand the dilemma which confronts us we must have some sense of what has happened in the past two decades. The nation and the states determined that all citizens capable of benefiting from higher education should have that opportunity. The decision represented enlightened self-interest. Higher education joined enthusiastically in supporting that objective. A process of aiding students and their families has evolved. It is not a perfect process and it does have flaws, but by combining federal, state, and institutional resources we have seen an expansion of opportunity for higher education unparalleled in history. Higher education, public and independent alike, set about meeting the demand; facilities were constructed, faculty were trained and hired, programs were added, and the nature of higher education was expanded and changed. In the process, public expectations were changed while our national destiny has been tied to a new era of technology that demands education of a relatively high order for every citizen.

The White House proposals effectively address budget concerns but they demonstrate little or no sensitivity to historical, educational or equity concerns. For example the proposed $25,000 adjusted gross income cap in the Pell Grant Program applies equally for a family with one child in college or one with three children in college. It also applies equally whether the child is attending a low price college or an institution with high tuition. The same kind of cap at a level of $32,500 adjusted gross income applies in the Guaranteed Student Loan Program.

The $4,000 ceiling which has been proposed for any individual's combined federal grant-loan and work financial aid applies to students whether they are attending institutions with $4,000 or $10,000 cost-of-attendance. Such simplistic assumptions force educational decisions which are dictated by price only. Further, they have the indirect effect of simply transferring tax burdens to the states. In short, the budget objectives are laudable, but the educational impact is insensitive to reality and could have the result of seriously impairing access, choice, and the effectiveness of higher education at a time when improved quality is essential.

There are ways to address the budget problems equitably and effectively, such as limiting Guaranteed Student Loans to a computed remaining need and by stipulating that students and their families bear a higher proportion of the cost of education. The details can be worked out to realize federal budget savings. There is genuine disappointment, however, on the part of those who know the details and the history of student aid with the inconsistency and potential unfairness of the proposed changes. At the same time there is real appreciation of the fact that few members of Congress on either side of the aisle seem inclined to accept the proposals in their present form.

It would indeed be ironic if federal policy inadvertently reduced the effectiveness of higher education at a time when the Nation is "at risk." Now is the time for all who believe in the importance of these student aid programs to make their voices heard to their congressional representatives in both the Senate and the House.

Wins School Bee

Brian Boyd, eighth grade student at Osborne Elementary, was the winner of the spelling bee held at his school. At Allen Grade School he was eliminated from the county competition by the word, "February." His homeroom teacher is Kenneth Eads, and he is the son of Jeff and Shelyvie Boyd, of Wheelwright.

New Courses at PCC

Prestonsburg Community College's Community Services Program is offering Automobile Electronics and Electricity, a class designed to help the car owner as well as the mechanic to understand the auto electrical system. The course will meet March 19 from 6:30-9:30 p.m. in room A2 of the Magoffin Complex. The course will cover the General Motors H.E.I. ignition system and the Ford electronic ignition system. Systems of other cars will be addressed as time permits. The class will actually strip down the electrical system of an engine and rebuild it.

Beginning March 26, a course in Proofamatics will be offered at PCC. Proofamatics is a skill-building course which increases office efficiency and professionalism while reducing employees' work errors and job fatigue. The class is for word processors, secretaries, administrative assistants, supervisors of keyboard departments, data processors, professional proofreaders, typesetters, and supervisors and managers. The workshop will be taught by Mazola Salmons, a certified Proofamatics instructor. The class will meet from 6:30 to 9 p.m. in P202.

For more registration information, contact Juanita Ratliff at PCC, 886-3863, ext. 215.

Additional Employees To Help on FmHA Loans

The Farmers Home Administration will hire additional temporary employees to help process farm loan applications in Kentucky, FmHA State Director Kendell L. Seaton said last week.

"We will begin hiring the extra staff immediately," Seaton said. "The new employees will be temporary. They will serve for four months to help with the seasonal loan peak and to process applications for hundreds of farmers who have requested a review of their debt situation to see if they qualify for the new debt restructuring program."

Under the new program, farmers who are having trouble meeting their FmHA payments may have their loans rescheduled or have up to 25 percent of their loans, up to $200,000, set aside for five years with no interest. Farm loans held by commercial banks and other lenders that are classified as "problem loans," can be reduced by ten percent in exchange for an FmHA guarantee.

THE FUTURE IS NOW

What does the future hold for Floyd County? There are those who believe that we must continue to struggle along accepting a pretty dismal picture of what's ahead for our County. Then there are those who believe that the future belongs to those who begin now to mold and shape our own destiny.

Let's look at what we have that's positive. First, Floyd County has a strong labor force of people willing to work and help develop adequate wage jobs. We have a strong program at Prestonsburg Community College; we have one of the finest Resort Parks in the Nation; every single major highway through the area crosses in Floyd County; we have very adequate natural gas and coal energy deposits; we are within 600 miles of 50% of the population of America. Floyd County has as much to offer as any other region of the United States.

What we need now is leaders who have the educational training that enables them to understand and relate to the more technically advanced aspects of our society, but who maintain the personal characteristics necessary to relate to our people. Such a man is James R. Allen, Democratic candidate for County Judge/Executive.

James R. Allen has a law degree from the University of Kentucky School of Law. James has spent his entire adult life in service to the people of Floyd County. James knows that recruiting industry to Floyd County is a complex task and that we need the assistance of every single Floyd Countian in the effort. However, we must begin to put a major emphasis on economic development now if we are to secure the future for us and our children.

The failed policies of yesterday's politics, which seek to reward a few power seeking individuals and their friends at the expense of the people of Floyd County, is now longer acceptable to our people. We are free thinking, independent people and we need to move Floyd County into the later half of the 1980's with proven, dedicated and well-trained leaders who will work with the people to shape a better future for our County. All our people can join with James R. Allen to begin a program of economic development that will involve each of us in building a strong future for our County.

The Vending Machine Problem

The Floyd county school system drew fire last week from the state Board of Education for the allegedly loose handling of vending machines in two of its facilities. The interest of private individuals in these money-makers came in for criticism.

Whatever the vending machine problem in this particular case, it should be noted that the machines constitute a wider problem—not merely that they can be used for private gain but that they are in the schools, in the first place.

Those machines have been in the schools for years. How badly, or how well, they have been managed we would not know. But we do know a solution to the more basic problem: Take the machines out.

At the risk of having a whole generation of youngsters rise up to bless us out, we suggest that these machines that dispense soft drinks, candies, and other sweets defeat some of the cherished teachings of the schools that house and operate them. In Health class, for example, youngsters are taught that sugar in the diet should be shunned because it is detrimental to the teeth—and from that class the same pupils step into a nearby hallway to face the invitation and temptation of those verboten sweets. Milk and other ingredients of a sound diet stand little chance in competition with a tasty drink or a candy bar.

It may be true that the vending machines are closed to the pupils before lunch, to prevent the dulling of their appetites to more beneficial foods, but that is not enough. It also is true that the youngsters can spend their money at a neighborhood store for the same drinks and candies. Youngsters can buy marijuana off-campus, too, but the schools don't dispense the stuff.

Income from these machines may help finance some worthwhile school activities, but, as the State Board complaint implies, individuals could profit as much as, or even more than, the schools. Removal of the machines would not be fatal to school activities. Parent-teacher organizations in some fine schools work effectively to raise funds for such purposes. And, if necessary, taxes (hated word!) could be increased to meet such needs.

While the state Board of Education criticizes local school people on this score, it leaves itself open to criticism. It shows its interest in the money derived from vending machine sales but little or no concern about what is being sold and to whom.

later that year, the appellate judges ruling that the trial court had used the wrong method in figuring out damages to be paid to the well owners.

But the appeals court ruling was itself rejected by the Supreme Court of Kentucky last December and a request by Prestonsburg and its utilities agency to have the case reheard was turned down late last month.

That effectively reinstates Judge Venters' original decision, according to which the well owners are to be paid $48,402, plus interest, for their lost profits.

Much of the legal argument turned on whether lost profits should be the measure of damages. The city's attorneys, on the argument that the well owners still have in the ground the gas the city declined to buy from them, contended that the plaintiffs were not damaged by the collapse of their contract with the city.

But both the trial court and the Supreme Court, noting that the well owners have no other market for their gas, held they had a right to the profits they would have reaped if the contract had been honored.

In a short concurring opinion, Justice Roy N. Vance despaired of finding a solution that would be fair to both sides. But if there has to be some inequity, he said, "it should be borne by the party which brought the situation about."

"The city of Prestonsburg caused this dilemma by its breach of contract and should bear the consequences of the breach," he wrote.

PORTER'S AD GETS RESULTS
When Foster Porter advertised in this paper last week for an old woman to operate for him the Little Rabbit flea market near Martin, he did not dream of getting any unusual results. But he did.

First of all, Bill Bergstrom did a story for the Associated Press about Foster and his ad, and it got into all the daily newspapers. Next, he began getting telephone calls from all over—Arizona, California, Ohio, West Virginia, Indiana, not to mention Kentucky.

"Well, now," he commented this week, "things are beginnin' to happen." One of his callers was a 25-year-old woman from "out west" who seemed ready to head for Kentucky. But Foster headed her off. "You don't qualify—too young," he said. He had advertised for an old woman.

Most of the callers, he said, had seen his ad in The Floyd County Times. But one hadn't. That call was from the office of Johnny Carson, wanting a photograph and suggesting for the droll Mr. Porter a spot on the Johnny Carson show.

Considering that possibility with no great enthusiasm, Porter said, "Shucks, I'd be as nervous on that show as I'd be drivin' a truckload of coal downhill."

Despite their missing 29 days this year on account of snow, Floyd students will apparently not have to attend Saturday classes. With adjustments to the school calendar and the decision by the state Board of Education to allow local districts to write off nine days as "calamity days," students here will be out of school by the first week in June provided no more time is lost, Grigsby told the board.

A plan designed to encourage teachers to show up for work by giving them a retirement bonus for unused sick leave may cost the school district $102,000 this year. Treasurer Ray Brackett told the board. But in the long run it could save the district several times that amount by reducing pupil absenteeism, he said.

Hired were: Mollie Darlene Starnes and Ruth Patterson, certified substitute teachers; John Robert McIntosh, Spencer Hamilton, Shelia Kaye Duff, Judy C. Stewart, and Susan Lynn Key, emergency substitute teachers; Sharon Justice and Ernestine Shelton, Head Start teachers at Drift; Lucie Rainey, Head Start teacher aide at Osborne Elementary; Patsy Phipps, special education teacher aide at Spradlin Branch; Gertrude Webb, substitute cook at Maytown; Ballard Jones, janitor at Wheelwright High; Nick Fairchild, bus driver at Wheelwright; and Terry Hamilton, bus driver at Stumbo Elementary.

The National Flood Insurance Act will become effective July 1, next, but its impact is not expected to be as shocking as the law itself reads. The Floyd fiscal court last Wednesday awarded contracts for the collection and disposal of solid waste to Floyd County Sanitation, Inc., and Okie Lawson, of Harold. Brandishing a bayonet, a 17-year-old Chicago youth robbed Roberts' Market of $800 and wounded store owner Lee Roberts, Sunday night at the Goble-Roberts Addition, here. The Prestonsburg-Floyd County Chamber of Commerce is making an effort toward enlisting 150 blood donors for the March 20 blood drawing. The weight of Monday's wet snowfall caused a section of metal dock to tilt and partially sink at Jenny Wiley State Park boat dock. Posthumous honors to the late Jesse B. Elliott will be accorded by the Eastern Highlands Music Educators Association, Sunday, at Prestonsburg Community College. Paintsville votes last Friday defeated the move to legalize the sale of alcoholic beverages there. There died: William Alton Woods, 32, of Columbus, O., formerly of the Cow Creek section, Saturday at a Columbus hospital; Mrs. Myrtle Ousley, 73, of Topmost, last Wednesday at the McDowell hospital; Glenn Allen Hale, 60, at his home at Harold, Monday; H. Scalf, 73, of Endicott, Saturday at his home; Bessie Dawson Booth, 77, of River, Wednesday at the Paintsville hospital; Martin Hall, 66, of Hi Hat, Feb. 26 at the McDowell hospital; Allen Chaffins, 83, of Garrett, last Saturday at a hospital, here; Oliver Branham, 91, Monday at the home of his stepdaughter, Mrs. Berry Akers, of Grethel; W.E. Parker, 85, of Wayland, last Wednesday at a nursing home, here; Bee Gearheart, 75, formerly of Hueysville, Friday in a Columbus, O., hospital; Grayce Golden, native of Ashland, Monday in Phoenix, Ariz.

The city of Prestonsburg is considering the acquisition of the electric power franchise here to add the two water and gas utilities which already are municipally owned. President Johnson signed Tuesday the $1.1 billion Appalachian Development Act which, with the so-called anti-poverty funds made available through the federal Office of Economic Opportunity, is designed to set in motion large-scale measures to bring the Appalachian states out of the economic doldrums. Preliminary plans for a six-room addition to the Prestonsburg grade school building were approved by the Floyd County Board of Education at its Saturday meeting. Buri Spurlock, president of the First National Bank, again this year is heading the Red Cross drive for funds which began Wednesday in this county, it was announced this week by Ella Noel White, executive secretary of Floyd Red Cross Chapter. At the second meeting of the Saddle Club the organization was named the East Kentucky Saddle Club. Martin defeated the Wayland Wasps in the finals of the 58th district basketball tournament here, 60 to 47. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Daniels, a daughter, Kimberly Norene, March 6 at the Prestonsburg General hospital; to Mr. and Mrs. Larry Williams, a daughter, Barbara Downes, March 5 at the Prestonsburg General hospital. There died: Ralph Steel (Risher) Lafferty, 86, of Dwale, Wednesday at the Beaver Valley hospital; Mont Ousley, 84, of Risner, Sunday at the Beaver Valley hospital; William Dean Howell, 13, Sunday at his home on Abbott Creek; Mrs. Beulah R. Wells, 69, of Prestonsburg, Sunday at the Paintsville hospital; Walter A. Gardner, 53, February 24 at his home at Tram; Charles Hubert Sherman, 46, formerly of this county, last Thursday at Detroit, Michigan; Mrs. Martha Carver, 98, Monday at her home at Printer.

For the second time within a week Floyd county streams were at flood stage over the week-end, and the Big Sandy rose again within inches of street level at the Court street and Lake Drive intersections. Senator Earle C. Clements wired The Times Saturday that he has called on the White House and the Civil Defense Administration for assistance to Floyd county and other flood-stricken areas. Improvements to Dewey Lake State Park scheduled for the coming year are a permanent boat dock, with lunchroom and restrooms; a new bathroom as a permanent improvement at Stratton Branch recreation area; opening of a parking lot, and construction of a caretaker's home. Contract was awarded last week by Edward B. Music and Thomas Hereford, Jr., on construction of a 20-unit motel on U. S. 23 in the Richmond Addition here. Dewey reservoir afforded the Big Sandy river basin an estimated $310,000 in benefits during the recent floods, according to data released Wednesday afternoon by the Corps of Engineers. Wayland's high-scoring Wasps overcame a five-point third-quarter deficit last Saturday night to dethrone Garrett, 64-53 as the 58th district basketball champion. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Gervin Waddle, of Abbott Road, a daughter, Melody Ann, Wednesday, March 9; to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Elkins, of Prestonsburg, a son, Rickie, March 7 at the Prestonsburg General hospital. There died: Linville Isaac, 84, of Bevinsville, and Lawrence Isaac, 62, of Hunter, father and son, Tuesday and Wednesday, respectively, of last week; Hardy Kilburn, 72, of Martin, Sunday at Our Lady of the Way hospital; Tom Mullins, 59, of Weeksbury, Sunday at the Virgie Community hospital; Mrs. Della W. The casualty list of nine Floyd county soldiers reported this week: Killed in action—Pvt. Curtis Conn, of Dana; wounded (the first four men listed here had been previously wounded and returned to action)—Pvt. Clarence Adkins, of Risner; S-Sgt. Elmer Nemet, of Wheelwright; S-Sgt. Richard McGuire, of Water Gap; Roy Mullett, of Bonanza; Pfc. Teddy Stumbo, of McDowell; S-Sgt. Harrison Stephens, of Risner; Pfc. Lewis J. Knott, Pvt. John W. Burke, of Cliff. Wounded Saturday morning by a bullet from a .22 caliber rifle which was accidentally discharged as her children played with the weapon, Mrs. Fanny Francis Derossett, 47, died a few hours later at the Prestonsburg General hospital. The bullet first hit Mrs. Reynold Derossett, daughter-in-law of the victim, inflicting a flesh wound, then struck the elder woman. Purchase for $40,000 of gas holdings in Floyd, Pike and Magoffin counties and in West Virginia which include approximately 20 producing wells was made Monday by Ex-Magistrate W. A. Wills, Commonwealth's Attorney John Allen, Circuit Judge Henry Stephens, Otis Cooley and Ken Sparks, all of Prestonsburg. Garrett high school's Black Devil basketball team won the Floyd county district championship in last week's tournament at Maytown. Two Floyd county fathers were serving 10-day jail terms here this week following conviction as second offenders in failing to send their children to school, county attendance officers said. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Collins, of Minnie, a son, Clinton Ray, February 28; to Mr. and Mrs. Frank McGuire, a son, Frank, Jr., January 22 at St. Armes hospital, Columbus, Ohio; to Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Callihan, Jr., a daughter, Mary Jo, January 31 at Ft. Thomas, Kentucky; to Mr. and Mrs. Merle J. Keirn, of Columbus City, Indiana, a daughter, Sharon Kay, January 13 at Wolf Lake, Indiana. There died: Alex Crider, 92 years old, at home on Copperas Creek, Monday; Mrs. Mary Ann Branham, 81, at the home of a daughter, Tuesday; Mrs. Louraney Shepherd, 73, at home at Lancer, Sunday; James E. Amburgy, three years old, of Maytown, Wednesday at the Martin General hospital.

Alex H. Spradlin had been named police judge here to succeed E. P. Arnold, who resigned. Quarantined in his home when his young son Billy became ill of scarlet fever, the Rev. Harry F. King, pastor of the Methodist Church, preached to his congregation Sunday via public address system installed by R. H. Koch, local radio repairman. His sermon topic—"Church Attendance." Ora Lee Brown, 17, formerly of Prestonsburg, was shot and killed Sunday at Neon. Betsy Layne and Prestonsburg high schools will represent Floyd county in the regional tournament which begins here Thursday night. Construction by relief employees will start Friday on the Abner Fork and Left Beaver roads, the latter job to extend from Hunter to McDowell. Sixteen pairs of jackrabbits caught in a Kansas drive were shipped here and released last week by L. C. Keeling (anybody know what happened to them?). Milford Hicks was shot through his leg Monday at "Greentown," near Garrett. There died: the Rev. M. T. Murphy, 78, February 14 at Hager Hill; J. Marvin Fairchild, 37, Floyd native, February 24 at London, Kentucky; Mrs. Emma Mosaete Ferrell, formerly of Boldman, February 27 at Louisa; the eight-months-old baby of John H. Shepherd, February 24 at Dock.

stemmed from a lack of discipline at the school "from the principal on down." The 13-year-old school "appears to be 50 years old" and a $150,000 swimming pool is idle for want of maintenance, he said.

The Floyd board was instructed to use the school district's general fund to see that no lunchroom or activity funds end the year with a deficit balance. No schools are to be allowed to buy more goods than they have the cash to pay for. And purchases may be made only by the superintendent, and with the superintendent's permission, by school principals.

According to an audit report, unpaid bills in three school lunchroom accounts amounted to $35,000 at the end of the last school year—including $24,652 at Prestonsburg High School, $4997 at Wheelwright High School, and $5362 at Auxier Elementary. In activity funds, $15,454 was owing at Wheelwright High School, $13,072 at Prestonsburg High, and $1130 at Garrett Elementary. The deficits are illegal under state law.

Grigsby noted that he had planned to centralize purchasing of all lunchroom supplies next year and pointed out that, taken as a whole, the district's lunchroom accounts ended the 1983-'84 school year with a $180,000 surplus. But Fightmaster said individual school deficits were to be cleared by June 30, a directive that Board Treasurer Ray Brackett warned could cause a district-wide deficit.

In response to a complaint by Food Service Director Wayne Ratliff that state officials had ignored his efforts to cut costs in individual schools, Fightmaster noted that it was not until Feb. 1 this year that the number of cooks at Prestonsburg High School was reduced from nine to five. Lunch programs in at least 11 Floyd schools are not being managed in accordance with USDA regulations, he said.

The practice in some schools of allowing coaches to purchase athletic equipment contravenes state regulations, Fightmaster said.

School psychometrist Larry Jervis and Wheelwright High School coach Danny Johnson defended their intentions in setting up soft drink machines, the complaint for which they will have to answer to the state attorney-general. Jervis said he had installed a Pepsi machine in the school district central office building as a service to employees and visitors and not as a money-making scheme. All proceeds from the pop dispenser he installed at the Wheelwright gym were turned over to the school, said Johnson, who added that state officials never asked him for an explanation before charging him with the apparent conflict of interest.

"What I can't understand is why someone would want to libel or slander someone without questioning the record," Johnson said. "It seems that someone was out to get someone." Fightmaster's report to the state board included five pages of recommendations for upgrading school maintenance. "I gave them to you 12 months ago," he told the Floyd board, "and nothing has been done about them."

Among the recommendations listed as not yet implemented or implemented fully are: a survey of each school building's maintenance needs; in-service training for maintenance workers; an inventory of equipment and supplies; the introduction of bulk purchasing; testing of suspected asbestos on pipe joints at Clark and Osborne grade schools and in the boiler room at Prestonsburg High School; development of an energy conservation plan; provision of a master key system for all school buildings; purchase of stepvans; and construction of a storage building at Allen Elementary.

Apart from the cost involved in implementing some of the recommendations, state officials had overlooked the fact that "we had a little thing like a flood in May" that heavily taxed the district's maintenance staff, Grigsby replied.

Concerning Allen Central High School, Fightmaster said his inspection revealed broken furniture, ceilings damaged by water, locks torn off doors, student lockers "ripped open," a boys' restroom that was "practically demolished," and an inoperative swimming pool. "I find it phenomenal that Floyd county's facilities survey lists a total renovation of Allen Central," a school that is only 13 years old, he wrote.

Allen Central Principal J.O. Dingus acknowledged that "students sometimes throw chairs in the pool out of frustration" but argued that the pool has been in operation more than Fightmaster gave the school credit for and added that maintenance of the facility was beyond the resources of the school district's maintenance staff.

Superintendent Grigsby had praise for the district's maintenance and food service departments. Board member James A. Duff complained that "we're all the time looking at the negative side of this school system." And Dr. Mary Hall, in a sharp criticism of what she called inadequate notice of Tuesday's state board meeting, said she "understood they were making fun of the Floyd county school system."

"I don't like that at all," she added.

Poacher Fined $1,000

A Calloway county man who pleaded guilty to the illegal shooting of a wild turkey out of season has received substantial penalties.

Doug Noel, Dexter, Ky., was fined $1,000, plus court costs. Five hundred dollars of the fine was probated for two years. District Judge Chapel Wilson also imposed a $500 restoration fee for the bird. The weapon used in the shooting was confiscated, all hunting and fishing rights were revoked for three years and a six-month jail sentence was probated for two years.

Guidance counselor Bob Hall deputized for the beleaguered principal Friday and Monday. But on Monday afternoon Grigsby drove to Wheelwright to tell teachers that Pack would be reassigned and Jamerson would take his place.

It will be a third term as principal for Jamerson, who stepped down as head at the beginning of the 1983-'84 school year and, even then, let it be known that he was looking forward to retirement. A one-time University of Kentucky football star and a 34-year veteran of Floyd schools, he was described affectionately by Grigsby as "an old warhorse, whom I coaxed back by telling him that we needed him."

Even among those who took the unprecedented step of insisting on a change, not all teachers were willing to speak on the record this week. "If you knew how the school system operates, you would understand," said one teacher, who spoke only with a guarantee of anonymity. Pack, who was recruited from Harlan county in July, 1983, was "ineffective" as principal, the teacher said. "There was no discipline at the school," the teacher added. "It seemed he really couldn't control the students."

One who was willing to speak openly of the week's events was biology instructor Doris Osborne, a teacher in the Floyd system for 18 years and one of those who met Friday with Grigsby. "It seemed as though our school was falling apart," she said in explanation of the teachers' action. "One of the chief problems was lack of leadership."

But if the leadership vacuum was a key problem, teachers and parents agreed, it is by no means Wheelwright High School's only problem. Long before last week's bomb threats, discipline at the school was in shambles, they said. Fights among students—some involving non-students who came onto the campus—had left some injured, and minor disagreements easily erupted into fights, some said.

One female teacher, who asked not to be identified, said she and her colleagues were even fearful of physical assault. "It was like anyone could walk into the school; they couldn't be stopped," she said.

Robberies have plagued the school in recent months. Two computers were stolen late last year and the lunchroom has been stripped of foodstuffs repeatedly. "We'd find ourselves eating whatever (the intruders) left behind," a teacher complained.

The school's aging plant has deteriorated for want of maintenance; many furnishings are said to be broken and teaching materials in short supply; some complain the school is dirty. "When morale is low," Mrs. Osborne said, "other things go down, too." For all that, the biology teacher spoke hopefully of the school's future. "This was a tremendous school at one time and it can be again," said Mrs. Osborne, who sees signs of "a new attitude in the whole community."

Close supervision of Floyd schools by state education officials has helped, she said. In fact, state officials are scheduled to meet with Wheelwright citizens tomorrow (Thursday) night in an effort to iron out some of Wheelwright High's problems.

The town forum on education sponsored last November by the Prichard Committee on Academic Excellence and several follow-up meetings held since have also contributed to renewed interest in the schools, she said. "It gave everyone the heart to start again."

But the development of which she speaks with most pride is closer to home: the formation last November of Wheelwright High School's Academic Boosters Club.

The fledgling organization boasts 87 members, $4000 in the bank, and high hopes—of sending a team to a history bowl at Eastern Kentucky University, of entering another team in a chess tournament, of furnishing a room fit to house the school's newly-replaced computers, of restocking the school library.

Virgil Hall is an inspector with the Mine Safety and Health Administration; his daughter is a freshman at Wheelwright High; he is president of the Academic Boosters Club. Keeping the organization alive on a campus that has not had a viable parent-teacher organization in years will be no easy task, he acknowledges.

But one thing in his favor, he said, is the influx of parents of children entering Wheelwright High from Melvin Elementary, which has an active PTA. And another is the appointment of Jamerson, who "has attended every meeting we've had."

"We got so far behind. It seemed like we were forgotten up here," Hall said, "but we're starting to move right now." Mrs. Osborne echoed the sentiment. "I feel we're on our way back," she said.

Storm Spotter Class

DISTRICT 2

My name is Rondell Lawson, and I would like to take this opportunity to introduce myself to the voters of the Second Magisterial District.

I was born and raised in Floyd County, the son of Bud and the late Bertha Case Lawson. I am married to Jackie Hayes. We have three sons, Rondal Darrel, Timothy, and Keith David. Two daughters, Danise and Rhonda Jane.

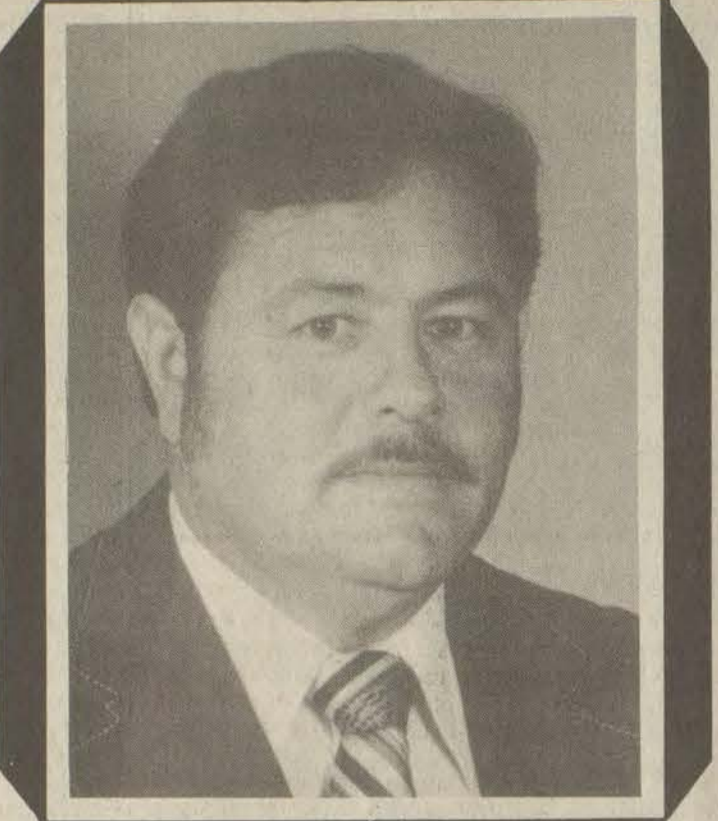

I am the grandson of John and Dollie Turner Lawson and Martin and Sallie Reed Case.

Jackie and I have chosen to raise our own family in Floyd County, not only because of our deep affection for the people here, but also because of the sincere pride we feel in the progress our county continues to make.

I personally feel that each of us has a responsibility to help Floyd County continue to grow. As your Magistrate in District 2, I feel that I can play a constructive role in the further development of both our district and our county. Your support in my upcoming campaign will be greatly appreciated.

A Road Builder of 21 Years Experience

RE-ELECT

JOHN M. STUMBO
COUNTY JUDGE-EXECUTIVE

With over 21 years of road building and maintenance experience, I will use the most cost-effective methods in building and maintaining a quality road system for Floyd County. Some who are less experienced would like to experiment with your county dollars in using so-called "state of the art" road construction and maintenance methods. You must not allow your county dollars to be invested in an unproven plan formulated through inexperience at this crucial point in our county government. The proven cost effective methods which I have instituted during my short term as your County Judge-Executive will, if you allow me to continue as your County Judge-Executive over the next four years, allow me to provide quality roads through sound fiscal management based on years of experience.

As I am sure you recall, a few short months ago I was elected to fill the unexpired term for the office of Floyd County Judge-Executive. This was the fulfillment of a life-long dream, to be in a position to put to work my energies and abilities to serve you, the people of Floyd County. Having worked over 21 years in building roads throughout Eastern Kentucky, I was eager to demonstrate that knowledge by the planning, construction, and repairing of the Floyd County road system. Unfortunately, when I took office, Floyd County's fiscal situation was such that it was under the control of the State Department of Local Government. County government owed hundreds of thousands of dollars more than monies on hand. As opposed to choosing to ignore the problem, I worked in conjunction with the appropriate State officials to resolve it. I made the hard decisions, and eliminated much of the purchasing that was done locally irrespective of friendship or relation to save you money. For example, such an approach saved $11.60 for each ton of blacktop purchased by the county, as well as $107.00 per tire on each grader. It was because of these changes that Floyd County is now in the black and owes no one, in spite of the fact that the budget for this fiscal year was One-Million ($1,000,000.00) Dollars less than the 1982-1983 budget.

Floyd County is now at a crucial point in terms of its county government. Irrespective of less monies coming in, we are now in the black and should see coal severance tax monies for the first time since I have been in this office. The dollars that come in can be used to provide services and an improved quality of life for the people of our county, or they can fall victim to manipulation that goes beyond simple service to you. I reaffirm a promise I made when I took this office and that is to view every public dollar as an opportunity to serve, and not as an opportunity for my friends or supporters. If I continue in this office, this promise will remain my guiding light. The needs of our people are too acute for us to surrender the control of the Floyd County Judge-Executive's office or allow decisions of the Judge-Executive to be made based upon personal ambitions of himself or others. My desire is to simply serve you and to use this office for the best impact on the quality of your life.

Accordingly, I respectfully request your assistance in my re-election to a full term as County Judge-Executive, and promise to use that opportunity solely for the public good.

EVERYONE WELCOME

Try walking into your local garden center, nursery, discount store or farm supply store and asking for seeds of ai kwa, lobok, lou teou and bok choy. Unless the salespeople are Chinese, they probably won't recognize any of the names except perhaps the last, bok choy, the name for Chinese mustard cabbage. But the others—Chinese eggplant, Chinese radish and mung bean—are all common in the Chinese diet and can readily be grown in Kentucky.

If you dislike the thought of growing a "foreign" vegetable in your garden, keep in mind that not all garden veggies are as American as corn. Carrots and beets are foreigners, as is our favorite fruit, the apple, and a large percentage of our woody landscape plants. Just look at trying a Chinese vegetable as trying a new variety of tomato or cucumber.

Growing Chinese vegetables is little different from growing our regular vegetables unless you want to grow something like water chestnuts or arrowhead that are grown in water. Good soil and soil preparation are necessary, as well as the usual sunlight, water and fertilizer.

There are a host of other goodies including Chinese okra, Chinese radishes, Chinese eggplants, and burdock (a relative of our burdock weed). And why not season these Chinese vegetables with Chinese herbs such as Chinese chives, giant garlic, multiplier onions, Chinese parsley, sesame, watercress, ginger, hot peppers, and, of course, daylilies.

For those with limited space, most of the Chinese vegetables can be as easily grown in containers as in the ground. A very good book on growing and cooking with Chinese vegetables is Geri Harrington's Grow Your Own Chinese Vegetables from Garden Way Publishing, Pownal, VT.

Timely Tip: From Chinese to Irish—St. Patrick's Day is March 17th, so why not give your favorite Irish gardener a pair of green gardening gloves or a green watering can.

As we all know so well, nothing beats the taste of sweet corn or tomatoes just picked from the garden. For those of us who like to cook with Chinese vegetables, there is little we can get fresh. Snow peas and Chinese cabbage are becoming regular items in large grocery stores, but many other Chinese vegetables must be purchased canned. And canned just doesn't do it, taste-wise.

What can we grow? Several different categories of Chinese vegetables. Under Chinese greens are various mustards, amaranth or Chinese spinach and garland chrysanthemum. There are several types of Chinese cabbage along with a Chinese broccoli.

Several legumes populate the Chinese garden including the asparagus pea and the well-known snow pea, a relative of whose; the sugar snap pea, has become an American favorite during the past few years. The various Chinese beans—adzuki, fava, mung, soy and yard-long—are as easy to grow as any green bean. The Chinese use their beans as sprouts, as cooked pod and seed, and as dried beans.

Then there are the Chinese cucurbits, relatives of the cucumber and the watermelon. There are Chinese pumpkins and fuzzy gourds. There are winter melons, pickling melons, bittermelons and sweet melons, not to mention the Chinese cucumber—the forerunner of the American "burpless" cuc.

Drug and alcohol abuse is present in our school system. We must put into effect a plan to eliminate the current problem and to educate our children to say NO.

It will take a total community effort to do this job. My Sheriff's Department will take a strong and active role in this effort. It is our responsibility to investigate, follow through to the source, and stop the drugs coming into our school system.

I will propose a committee made up of teachers, pastors, church leaders, parents, civic leaders and students to advise and work with the Sheriff's Department in the coordination of this effort.

The point is that the problem is bigger than any one organization, including the Sheriff's Department. Again, I must stress that a total commitment from the entire community is the only way we can get the job done.

Girl Scout Week Proclaimed

Mayor Cooley has proclaimed March 10-16 as Girl Scout Week in Prestonsburg. In a special proclamation, the mayor asked all citizens to recognize and support the contributions made by Girl Scouts and adult Girl Scout volunteers toward improving the quality of life in Prestonsburg. The mayor cited Girl Scouting as an important way for girls to become self-reliant, productive and self-confident women through wholesome and enjoyable activities. He also praised Girl Scouting as an investment in tomorrow's leadership and included a special welcome to Girl Scouting's newest members, Daisy Girl Scouts, who are five years old or in kindergarten. Girl Scouts will celebrate their 73rd birthday on March 12. Girl Scout councils all across the United States will sponsor events based on the theme "The Best Part's the Fun." The Girl Scout Week proclamation was signed by Mayor Cooley in the presence of The Clark Girl Scouts, Troop 467 on 3-11-85.

Council Discusses Possible Threat To Goble-Roberts Road

Concern was expressed at Monday night's meeting of the Prestonsburg City Council that work to create a railroad siding by a company at Goble-Roberts Addition might ultimately shut off access to that heavily-populated section of the city. In order to create a second siding near its facility at Goble-Roberts, the East Kentucky Paving Company began blasting and cutting away at the hillside which underlies an elevated section of the road leading to the residential area and city officials and a number of residents voiced concern that the work could well undermine the road and cause it ultimately to collapse.

"I don't want to seem like an alarmist," said City Manager David Evans, "but it seems to me that if you cut the hill away from beneath the road, it's going to fall in at some point."

The problem is that the land on which that section of road lies is owned by the company who allowed the city to build the access when heavy development of Goble-Roberts, including the construction of public housing there, began.

The whole situation, council agreed, points to the need for a bridge to serve Goble-Roberts. Councilman Paul H. Thompson will meet Monday with State Highways Commissioner Floyd G. Poore to discuss the possibility of a bridge project there, it was said.

Councilman Bill R. Collins revived the oft-discussed city television cable system issue pointing to a recent court of appeals decision in California which ruled it unlawful for a municipality to grant an exclusive television franchise. (Prestonsburg officials have sought for some time to back out of an exclusive franchise granted to a West Virginia-based cable system several years ago.)

If the California decision stands, the city would be able to let the cable service within Prestonsburg for bids.

City Manager Evans told the council that a new park administrator for Archer Park had been selected by the Archer Park board. The board voted to hire David Hereford, of Prestonsburg, at a salary of $14,500 a year, a $2,500 reduction from that of the previous park manager Peggy Hereford, wife of the new park administrator, and a member of the board, did not vote in the selection, it was explained.

To resolve a long-standing right-of-way and property ownership dispute between a West Prestonsburg church and residents who live near the church grounds, the council approved a motion by Paul Hunt Thompson to lease the disputed tract to the Free United Baptist Church for $1.00 a year for 25 years. "This does not necessarily imply that the church is on city property but it's being done as a solution to this problem," Thompson said.

Councilman Robert Ranier read a letter submitted by Police Chief Stan Fletcher describing chronic problems in the city's communications system and recommended a plan devised by city employees to purchase a new $13,000 system with minimal financial hardship to the city. Help through the state office of Disaster and Emergency Services was cited along with a one-year free service contract with Motorola Corp. as presenting an attractive purchase package. The proposal was adopted.

The city council voted to renew Kentucky Power Company's franchise for providing electric power throughout the city.

Fifteen Prestonsburg auxiliary police were recognized and presented certificates by Mayor Harold Cooley for completing a marksmanship course "on the first attempt," according to Chief Fletcher, who said most other officers from different squads had to make as many as 30 attempts to pass. Other city departments were also commended for their efficiency in reaction to the weather-related emergencies of the winter's record snowfalls.

A salary increase of $25.00 per week was granted Street Department Superintendent Leonard "Lightning" Joseph and David DeRossett was advanced to assistant street department superintendent at a salary of $200 a week or $5.00 per hour.

CHURCHWOMEN MEET

The Annie Allen Circle of the Irene Cole Memorial (First) Baptist Church met Monday evening, March 4, at the home of Mrs. Patti Minns, with the president, Mrs. Ruby Garrett, presiding, and opening the meeting with prayer. Mrs. Garrett announced that the Lottie Moon Easter goal for this year is $500. She added that there are some persons in this church who need assistance.

Mrs. Garrett appointed Mesdames Zella Archer, Lucy Regan and Dolly Pettrey on the Nominating committee, to select officers for the forthcoming year. The W.M.U. annual state meeting will convene April 25-27, at Bowling Green, Kentucky, and Holy Week services, sponsored by the Prestonsburg Ministerial Association in cooperation with the Local Churchwomen will be April 1-5 at the First Baptist Church.

Mrs. Minns read the names of Baptist missionaries observing birthdays during the month of March, and prayer was held for them. Mrs. Eva Collins was assisted by Mesdames Zella Archer, Ruby Garrett, Lucy Regan and Rebecca Rasnick in presenting the program, "Who Cares? Jesus Cares."

The hostess, Mrs. Minns, served refreshments to Mesdames Ruby Garrett, Rebecca Rasnick, Myrtle Allen, Eva Collins, Lucy Regan, Zella Archer, Dolly Pettrey, and Ada Meade.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Eva Collins, Monday April 1.

Suit Alleges Insurance Agent Was Negligent

An insurance agent's procrastination left her without coverage when floodwaters inundated Martin last spring, a woman claims in a suit filed last week in Floyd Circuit Court.

Through her son, Dr. James D. Adams, Mrs. Hazel Adams alleges in the suit that on last April 23 she sent Roy Ramey, an agent for Commonwealth Life Insurance Co., $286 as premium payment for flood insurance on a commercial building she owns in Martin.

Two weeks later, on May 7, the town and the building were under water. But Mrs. Adams' policy under the National Flood Insurance Program did not take effect until May 13.

Mrs. Adams attributes her losses to Ramey's alleged negligence and seeks compensation for damage to her building and loss of rent.

(Suits filed in court give only one version of the issues in dispute.)

VISITED BY FAMILY MEMBERS

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Maggard, of Martin, had members of their family with them for a visit at their home recently. These included Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Luxmore and son Marty, of Chicago, Mrs. Rose Tackett and grandson, Eli Spear, Dayton, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Spencer and Mr. and Mrs. Don Hansford and son Josh, of Martin, and Mr. and Mrs. Ken Ratcliff and children Nathan and Elizabeth, of Morehead. Friends who have visited them recently have been Victor Warren, of Dayton, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. John Hall and daughter Kara and Charles Dingus, of Martin, Dr. R.D. Marshall, Allen, and Mrs. Betty Luxmore and son Edmond, of Warner Robbins, Georgia.

On Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Maggard celebrated the birthdays of their twin daughters, Mrs. Ruby Spencer and Mrs. Rose Tackett, with a chicken and dumplin' dinner. Enjoying this occasion with the guests of honor were family members, Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Luxmore, Marty Luxmore, Mrs. Rose Tackett, Eli Spear, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. Don Hansford, Josh Hansford, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Ratcliff, and Nathan and Elizabeth Ratcliff. Birthday cake and other refreshments were served, and the honorees were presented many gifts.

OBSERVES 87TH BIRTHDAY

Mrs. W.J. (Jip) McGuire, of Louisa, observed her 87th birthday at her home in Louisa, Saturday, March 10. Guests were greeted graciously, and Mrs. McGuire served dinner to about 30 guests, including her children, stepchildren, nieces, and nephews. She has been hospitalized for some time in Columbus, Ohio, until recently, and is now recuperating at her home.

Attending from here were Mrs. Mae Kendrick, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Oak McGuire, Frank McGuire, and Mrs. Jeanette Hubbard.

Beef Meeting Set March 19

Floyd County Beef Producers are encouraged to attend the last in a series of four beef meetings, Tuesday, March 19, 6:30-8:30 p.m., at the conference room located in the Floyd County Courthouse Annex.

Speaker for the evening will be Dr. Warren Gill, U.K. Cooperative Extension Beef Specialist from Quicksand. Topic for discussion will be health and nutrition for beef cattle.

What's Involved in Getting New Water System?—Ask Akers

Overseeing the installation of a water system should be no special problem for Ervin Akers, who has seen plenty of construction in his time. But for the Dana contractor, who is also board chairman of the Prater Creek Water District, getting out from under the paper work may be another matter.

"People want to see the backhoes. I can understand that," Akers said last week, "but they don't understand all that's involved."

What is involved, he said, are enough legal forms to plug the bow of the Titanic. And, to illustrate the point, he indicated a checklist of tasks yet to be completed before bids can be advertised for construction of Prater Creek's proposed $1.01 million water system.

There are 79 items on the list.

The Farmers Home Administration, which manages the "Jobs Bill" money that Prater Creek Water District was able to tap in 1983, is picky about documentation. The checklist calls for proof that the district has 280 paying customers signed up, proof that the water system designed to serve them will do the job, and proof that they can pay for it.

Homeowners have put up $42,000 in tap-on fees and FmHA weighed in with a $688,000 grant. But the district must borrow an additional $323,000 from the government to finance the project.

Enter the attorneys—to set the district on a sound legal footing, to secure and record easements, to find buyers for the bonds. Perhaps it is because doing legal work for public utilities is not exactly a lucrative proposition—that's the theory advanced by Holly Leach, the Big Sandy ADD specialist who is shepherding the Prater project through the bureaucratic maze—but, to commissioners and customers alike, the lawyers' pace can seem agonizingly slow. "It's like one of those glaciers you read about," complained one member of the board, only half-joking, "that moves a half-inch a year."

The water district has already learned to its cost, however, what can happen when the legal niceties are not attended to. For the first two years of its existence, it later turned out, Prater Creek Water District was a legal non-entity—a fact that came to light only recently, when a routine check by attorneys turned up no evidence that Floyd fiscal court ever officially established the district. The oversight has since been corrected, but much of the early spadework—like canvassing signatures for a formal petition to set up the district—had to be redone and the project suffered further delay.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has agreed to the laying of a water line under the Big Sandy River at Banner, where the Prater Creek system will tie into the Prestonsburg Utilities line running along U.S. 23, Akers reported at a progress meeting last Thursday. The Chessie System has indicated it will give an easement across its track nearby, as long as the water district carries enough insurance to pay for any damage it might cause. But the state Public Service Commission has yet to approve the district's proposed rate structure—a process that has been known to take as long as five months—the board chairman cautioned.

In the meantime, the district has yet to negotiate with local landowners for space to set a water tank and two pump stations. And individual homeowners will have to grant easements for the water line to cross their lots.

Most property owners have already indicated they will do whatever it takes to get city water to their homes. And Akers insists the district wants only a strip wide enough to lay a pipe and, if necessary, get a backhoe in to repair it.

Housing Complex Work Under Way In Ivel Section

Construction of a 41-unit housing complex on the Ivy Creek road, near Ivel, has been begun by the Floyd County Housing Authority.

Cost of construction, which is being done by the C.B. & S. Construction Co., of Somerset and Lexington, will be $1.7 million, Julia M. May, director of the Floyd County Housing Authority, said.

The housing units are being built on a site approximately one-half mile up Ivy Creek, off US 23, and the site was purchased through a $60,000 grant made by the Kentucky Housing Corporation.

Ivy Creek Apartments will provide housing for 41 families with 20 two-bedroom units, 17 of three bedrooms and four of four bedrooms.

The $60,000 Kentucky Housing check was presented last week to the Housing Authority director. "KHC literally saved the project for us, and it's not the first time it has stepped in and helped us salvage a project," Miss May said.

When the Ivy Creek Apartments are completed, the county will have a total of 646 public housing and subsidized housing units available, it was said. Nearing completion are two housing projects in the Martin-Warco area, one an effort of the City of Martin, the other being constructed as a joint effort of the Floyd County and Prestonsburg housing authorities.

VISIT RELATIVES HERE

Mrs. Delphia Keaton and Mrs. Karl Oppenheimer, both of Ashland, were here Sunday for a visit with Mrs. Edward Worland and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Clark. While here, they all enjoyed lunch and visited with longtime friends at May Lodge.

But he is also conscious that, for some landowners, to talk of an easement is to raise a delicate topic.

"Some feel they've been burned by utilities before," he acknowledged, "but there's no way around it. If they want the water, we've got to lay a pipe. If we lay a pipe, we've got to be able to service it."

The water that feeds most Prater Creek wells is high in iron and, too often, is contaminated by mine wastes and sewage. With the expansion of mining activities on the creek, the quality of the water supply is deteriorating rapidly. Most residents have long since made their choice, Akers said: "They want water."

"And they're going to get it," he pledged, even if it is likely to be a few months yet before the paper is cleared and the backhoes roll.

The records were for their 1984 4-H Club Project Work.

40 Years After... Museum Houses War II Exhibits

This year marks the 40th anniversary of the end of World War II. Over the years there have been memorial services commemorating many of the major events of the war. The Kentucky Military History Museum, located in the Old State Arsenal on East Main Street in Frankfort, has several exhibits to explain the role of Kentuckians in World War II. These are permanent exhibits, and the museum staff is constantly seeking new acquisitions for its World War II collection.

The war began with tragedy for Kentucky. The 38th Tank Company of the Kentucky National Guard fought against the Japanese in the Philippines late in 1941-42. The survivors of the defeated American forces endured the cruel Bataan Death March and years of captivity in Japanese prison camps. This episode is commemorated in the display of a uniform worn by General Jonathan Wainwright, who commanded American forces in the Philippines after the departure of General Douglas MacArthur. Photographs of 38th Tank Company members in Harrodsburg before the war and in Japanese prisons are also in the exhibit along with a commemorative plaque.

World War II was a "total" war, and its effects were felt in every home in Kentucky, according to Nicky Hughes, museum curator. One exhibit shows items from the "home front," including gas masks stockpiled for emergency use by civilians in Louisville, and an air raid warden's helmet from Northern Kentucky. Women played a greater role in the military than ever before, and one exhibit is dedicated to the WACS, WAVES, and other female participants in the war.

Most Kentucky National Guard units fought in the Pacific theater. Their part in the war is represented in the museum by their uniforms and equipment and by captured Japanese arms, some of which are very rare examples. A large selection of weapons and uniforms from both sides make up the "War in Europe" section of the museum. One interesting item in this exhibit is an M3A1 submachine gun with the barrel bent 90 degrees. The weapon was not intended, as it appears, for shooting around corners, but was planned as a defensive weapon sticking out the top of tanks, Hughes explained. Engineers at Fort Knox evaluated the bizarre weapon, but found it unsatisfactory for use in the field. Captured German weapons include a Guerlich, "Squeeze Bore" anti-tank gun captured in North Africa.

The museum's large collection of automatic weapons contains many World War II machine guns. Exhibits of aviation and naval material round out the museum's coverage of this global conflict.

People who lived through this war may find nostalgic memories awakened by viewing the museum's exhibits. The young will find the museum a good place to learn about the war their parents or grandparents fought. The museum is open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mon.-Sat. and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Sundays. It is closed on Christmas, New Year's, Easter and Thanksgiving, and hours may be limited on other state holidays. There is no admission charge.

AL-ANON IS IT FOR YOU?

Millions of people are affected by the excessive drinking of someone close. The following twenty questions are designed to help you decide whether or not you need Al-Anon:

1. Do you worry about how much someone else drinks?
2. Do you have money problems because of someone else's drinking?
3. Do you tell lies to cover up for someone else's drinking?
4. Do you feel that if the drinker loved you, he or she would stop drinking to please you?
5. Do you think that the drinker's behavior is caused by his or her companions?
6. Are routines frequently upset or meals delayed because of the drinker?
7. Do you make threats, such as, "If you don't stop drinking, I'll leave you"?
8. When you kiss the drinker hello, do you secretly try to smell his or her breath?
9. Are you afraid to upset someone for fear it will set off a drinking bout?
10. Have you been hurt or embarrassed by a drinker's behavior?
11. Does it seem as if every holiday is spoiled because of drinking?
12. Have you considered calling the police for help in fear of abuse?
13. Do you find yourself searching for hidden liquor?
14. Do you often ride in a car with a driver who has been drinking?
15. Have you refused social invitations out of fear or anxiety?
16. Do you sometimes feel like a failure when you think of the lengths you have gone to control the drinker?
17. Do you think that if the drinker stopped drinking, your other problems would be solved?
18. Do you ever threaten to hurt yourself to scare the drinker?
19. Do you feel angry, confused and depressed most of the time?
20. Do you feel there is no one who understands your problems?

If you have answered yes to three or more of these questions, Al-Anon or Alateen may help. You can contact Al-Anon or Alateen by calling 886-2893.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Annual Report Deadline News

By JIM KELLY

District Social Security Director People who get Social Security retirement or survivor checks and who earned more than the annual exempt amount in wages from a job or in self-employment in 1984 have until April 15, 1985, to file an annual report of their earnings.

The 1984 exempt amounts were $5,160 for people under 65 all of the year and $6,960 for people 65 or over any part of 1984. In general, a person has $1 in benefits withheld for each $2 of annual earnings over the exempt amount.

Social Security uses the annual report to decide whether the person received the correct amount of benefits during 1984. If too much or too little was paid, any adjustment necessary is made based on the annual report.

A special monthly test is used during a person's first year of retirement. Under this test, a person can get a benefit for a month in which he or she did not earn wages over the monthly limit and did not perform substantial services in self-employment. This monthly test can be used only in the person's first year of retirement.

Most people who need to file a report should have received one in the mail. If a person did not get a form, or lost or misplaced the one he or she did get, another copy of the annual report form can be obtained at your Social Security office.

The people at the office will be glad to answer any questions. They also have a leaflet, How work affects your Social Security checks, which contains more information about the earnings test.

The annual exempt amounts for 1985 are $5,400 for people under 65 and $7,320 for people 65 or over. The earnings test does not apply to people who get disability benefits, Kelly said, as they must report earnings of any amount.

Road-bridge repair and maintenance are major concerns and as far as I'm concerned, if we can't buy gravel we should get it out of the creek. Also, sawdust is always available and I think more use of it could keep more roads open for school buses. In addition to roads, I'll work to control T.V. cable operation and keep garbage rates down. My home as well as business phones will be listed.

To Celebrate Anniversary

The Blue Grass Council, Boy Scouts of America will celebrate its 75th anniversary on May 11 at the annual EXPO show in Lexington at Heritage Hall, next to Rupp Arena. EXPO '85 is being billed as Kentucky's finest Scouting extravaganza—the finest exhibits, scout skills, professional entertainers and prizes in the region.

Every year, Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts from all over Eastern Kentucky sell tickets and participate in EXPO. Boys receive prizes that are Scout-related and their Pack or Troop receives money to help in materials, outings, and advancement awards. Boys will be knocking on doors in every area to sell this year's tickets.

NOTICE OF PERMIT CONFERENCE

Pursuant to Application Number 836-8002
In accordance with the provisions of 405 KAR 8:010 Section 11, notice is hereby given that a permit conference is scheduled for March 26, 1985 at 10:00 a.m. o'clock at the Prestonsburg Department for Surface Mining Office, concerning the above application filed by Left Beaver Coal Company, P.O. Box 159, Drift, Ky. The application is for a permit for a Coal Processing Plant with associated Coal Processing Waste Areas operation approximately 0.10 miles east of Ligon in Floyd county.

The proposed operation is approximately 0.5 miles south from the intersection of State Route 979 with Clear Creek Road and located 0.75 miles south of the Ligon Post Office. The latitude is 37° 22' 09". The longitude is 82° 40' 28". The surface area is owned by Turner Elkhorn Mining Company, Florence Newsome, Gordon Meade, Will Slone Heirs, and The Elk Horn Coal Corporation. The proposed operation is located on the McDowell and Wheelwright U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The operation will use the coal preparation with associated refuse areas and loading railroad gondolas mining activities.

The application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 503 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653. Any person whose interests are or may be adversely affected by the issuance of the proposed permit may present information relevant to the permit, in oral or written form, at the time of the conference. 1t.

Distinguished Alumni Slated for UK Honors

The University of Kentucky and the UK National Alumni Association have named 13 UK graduates including Gov. Martha Layne Collins to the Hall of Distinguished Alumni for their outstanding achievements reflecting favorably on the university.

A small number of alumni or former students have been named to the honor every five years since 1965. Of UK's 108,937 graduates, 177 have been designated as distinguished alumni.

The 13 alumni will be honored at the Hall of Distinguished Alumni banquet at 7 p.m. May 10 at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Lexington.

The new members of the Hall of Distinguished Alumni, their place of residence and the reason they were named for the honor are:

George Blanda, LaGrange Park, Ill., a former professional football player; A. Sidney Behrman, Chicago, Ill., a scientist, inventor and army officer; James A. Caywood of the Washington, D.C., area, a civil engineer; Wendell Cherry, president of Humana Inc., Louisville, an attorney and businessman; Gov. Collins, an educator; Adolph M. Edwards Jr., Arlington, Va., attorney and statesman;

Philip R. Edwards, deceased, a bacteriologist of Atlanta, Ga. (his wife, Katherine, of Lexington, will accept the award at the banquet); Lt. Gen. Jack I. Gregory, Bergstrom Air Force Base, Austin, Texas, an Air Force general; Dr. F. Story Musgrave, Houston, Texas, surgeon, teacher, researcher and astronaut; Dr. J.C. Powell, Richmond, president emeritus of Eastern Kentucky University, an educator; Warren W. Rosenthal, chairman of Jerrico Inc., Lexington, a businessman; Dr. James R. Urbaniak, Durham, N.C., an orthopedic surgeon; and Earl D. Wallace, Sr., Lexington, engineer and businessman.

Banquet tickets are $20. Reservations may be made by calling (606) 257-8905.

Aid Flood Victim

When Left Beaver Creek broke its banks last May, Jobie Shepherd lost his home and everything in it. Now, with the help of a church organization, he is about to move into a new house. The house has been built by a Mennonite disaster service team, in cooperation with the Kentucky Council of Churches and a Floyd group known as CERVE, an acronym for Christian Ecumenical Recovery Effort.

The six-member construction crew has been at work on the project about six weeks. Mennonite disaster service teams are made up of volunteers who contribute their services for six months a year. Presbyterian pastor Tim Jensen, who coordinated the volunteer effort here, is CERVE board chairman.

Is Top Speller

Gina Prater

"Cellar" is a word that Keith Webb, a Maytown eighth-grader, won't forget for a while. He spelled it with an "o"—and gave Gina Prater the opening she needed to win Floyd county's annual spelling bee.

Gina, 13, is in the eighth grade at Garrett Elementary. The daughter of Danny and Kathy Allen, of Hueysville, she set her opponent straight on the spelling of "cellar" and clinched her victory by spelling "odor" right, too.

The two finalists were among 20 youngsters, representing all Floyd elementary schools, who participated in the day-long bee, sponsored annually by the Huntington Herald-Dispatch, at Allen grade school on Feb. 28. They will go on to the Tri-State Spelling Bee to be held at Marshall University, in Huntington, on March 30.

Other students competing in the county bee were Chattie Jarrell, of Allen Elementary, Melissa Wells, Auxier, Tricha Robinette, Betsy Layne, Belinda Collins, Clark, Victoria Orrison, Harold, Chris Kidd, Martin, Susan Newsome, McDowell, Carrie Smith, Melvin, Brian Boyd, Osborne, Kenneth Blackburn, Prestonsburg, Steven Branham, Stumbo, Christine Henegar, Wayland, Jennifer Howell, Bonanza, Lesia Jarrell, Daniel's Creek, Tammi Miller, Drift, David Chaffins, Home Branch, Shaun Hughes, Prater, and Rebecca Ann Kidd, Spruce Pine.

Floyd schools supervisor Anna Sue Stumbo was bee director. Other officials included Philip Dingus, pronouncer, Ulysses Horne, Blanche Dingus, and Pat Branson, judges, and Betty Flanery, statistician.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Gene Rowe would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone for their help in the loss of our loved one. Thanks to those who sent food, flowers or just spoke comforting words. A special thanks to the ministers, Hobert Justice, Lorie Vannucci, Danny Curry and the choir for their beautiful service and also the Hall Funeral Home for its kind and efficient services. The Story of L. Frank Baum

By INK MENDELSON
 Smithsonian News Service

"I have a little cabinet letter file on my desk in front of me. I was thinking and wondering about a title for my story, and I had settled on 'Wizard' as part of it. My gaze was caught by the gilt letters on the three drawers of the cabinet. The first was A-G; the next drawer was labeled H-N; and on the last were the letters O-Z. And Oz it at once became."

In 1903, L. Frank Baum, author of The Wonderful Wizard of Oz, gave Publisher's Weekly this account of the birth of the word "Oz." Although some students of Baum's life and work have pointed to apparent historical inconsistencies in Baum's story, Michael Hearn disagrees: "It's just nitpicking." Hearn, author of The Annotated Wizard of Oz (Clarkson N. Potter, Inc., 1973) and a forthcoming Baum biography, says: "This is the story Baum himself told, and I have no reason to doubt it. Of course," Hearn adds, "the man was a great storyteller, and the name could have come from anywhere—even a tube of toothpaste."

Baum, who wrote 13 Oz sequels and about three dozen other books for children, adolescents and adults, was indeed a superb storyteller. Yet no story Baum ever told was more fascinating than the tale of his own life.

Lyman Frank Baum was born on May 15, 1856 in Chittenango, N.Y., but spent most of sheltered childhood at Rose Lawn, the Baum country estate outside Syracuse. A shy boy who had been diagnosed as having a defective heart, the youngster spent much of his time with imaginary playmates and books. At 15, he and a younger brother published The Rose Law Home Journal. Baum, son of indulgent parents, spent his 20s experimenting with life. He was an actor, salesman, newspaper reporter and theater manager.

"The Maid of Arran," an Irish melodrama, with book, lyrics and music all written by the handsome young lead who was calling himself Louis F. Baum, was a big hit in 1882 and ran for two years. That same year, Baum also embarked upon a truly successful lifelong engagement when he married Maud Gage, daughter of the influential suffragist Matilda Joslyn Gage. Over the years, no-nonsense Maud provided the stability and the awareness of economic realities that the family of a creative dreamer required. Baum was an easygoing and entertaining father to their four sons, who were the first lucky children to share the fantastic imagination of the creator of Oz. Mrs. Gage considered her son-in-law impractical and once in a letter called him "a perfect baby." Nevertheless, she encouraged Baum to write down the stories he had been telling his sons for years.

Following his early success as a playwright, he worked as an axle-grease salesman and authored a treatise on raising chickens in New York; he became the proprietor of a variety store called "Baum's Bazaar" and publisher-editor-humor columnist for The Aberdeen Saturday Pioneer in the Dakota Territory; and he took turns as a reporter, department store crockery buyer, traveling salesman and founder of The Show Window, a periodical for window trimmers in Chicago. But in 1896, the very special life of L. Frank Baum was about to begin at 40. In that year, he completed the manuscripts for his first two children's books, one of which would be published successfully in 1897 as Mother Goose in Prose.

The Wonderful Wizard of Oz was published in 1900, and the world's love affair with a fantastic place called Oz began. "The children won't let me stop telling tales of the land of Oz. I know lots of other stories, and I hope to tell them sometime or another, but just now my loving tyrants won't let me," Baum mock-complained. He had never intended to write a sequel to "The Wizard," let alone a long series, but economic necessity and public demand proved an irresistible combination. Over the years, he received hundreds and hundreds of letters like this one: "I am going to write you a letter. You wrote a nice book. It's called The Wizard of Oz. I couldn't write a book like that. I think I love you."

 L. Frank Baum, the author of The Wonderful Wizard of Oz, first published in 1900, was a man of many occupations and talents, but the "Royal Historian of Oz" was, above all, a superb storyteller.

A new Oz book for Christmas virtually became a tradition for American families. In his sixth Oz book, The Emerald City of Oz, Baum tried in 1910 to escape from Oz so he could write other kinds of fantasy tales. He informed his young readers that Oz had been cloaked in a barrier of invisibility, sealing it off forever from the rest of the world, and so there could be no more stories about Oz. One newspaperman didn't think Baum was going to get away with it: "The only graceful way Baum can quit telling tales of Oz is to die." He was right. Poor sales of two non-Oz books and a general outcry from his readers forced Baum in The Patchwork Girl of Oz to re-establish contact with Oz by wireless telegraph.

At rainbow's end, he found Hollywood. There in 1910 he built his home "Ozcot." Baum brought fantasy to fantasyland before it had any of its own. Once had made his peace with Oz, he sat in his garden among his prize dahlias, listening to the songbirds in his aviary, answering the call of the children with six more Oz books before his death in 1919.

TO ALL FLOYD COUNTIANS IN MAGISTERIAL DISTRICT NO. 2:

"AMAZING." This is the only response that I can say to my fellow Floyd countians and close friends that reside within this district. I have had the distinct pleasure to talk to many of you, as I continue to seek your genuine interest in this forth-coming election. It is very evident that many areas of this district are in need of assistance.

What can I do as your Magistrate? As I stated previously, I promise only to put all my energies and concerns toward getting the best services for you that are possible from every dollar available. Thus by doing so, I hope to gain your support and trust that I so humbly desire.

"HONESTY WITH CHARACTER" is my motto and has been for my entire life. I thank my good Lord daily that we live in a Democracy that allows the freedom of Speech, Religion, and Press. The freedom to Vote is just one of the many opportunities that we take for granted in our society today. We (people) truly need to urge everyone to exercise their freedom to VOTE for and give continued SUPPORT to the candidate of their choice.

A public elective office is an office "Of the people, By the people, And For THE PEOPLE". The "PEOPLES OFFICE," should be represented by that individual who can best serve with Optimism, Devotionalism, and Patriotism, to and for his fellow colleagues.

There are many questions to be asked, and I sincerely hope there are answers for ALL of them. Perplexity has caused many people to dwell upon the question, but never seeking the answer. Let us, (Dist. NO. 2) return to simplicity with accuracy, and I for ONE will seek that answer for YOU.

Unbeknown to her, while Betty Layne, of Prestonsburg, was on the job at Lee's Famous Recipe here recently, she was being observed by a member of the American Institute of Concerned Citizens, a Knoxville-based group which aims to improve the service businesses give their customers. The observer liked what he saw, giving the fast-food restaurant good marks for quality and cleanliness and Layne a certificate for "outstanding professional service."

REBEKAHS IN SESSION

Members of Miriam Rebekah Lodge No. 31 met Tuesday evening, March 5, with Mrs. Nancy Duff, noble grand, presiding. Those on the sick list were recorded. Sympathy was extended and it was noted that flowers and food had been sent and visits made to a local funeral home following the death of the father of one of the members. The announcement was made that the sale of cookbooks was progressing nicely, and purchases may still be made from members of the lodge.

Plans were made for the serving of a dinner for the Odd Fellows' district meeting.

In the celebration of the birth anniversary of Schuyler Colfax, founder of the Rebekah degree, Mrs. Virginia S. Goble, program chairman, presented a history of his life.

During the next regular meeting, March 19, all members who have belonged to Miriam Rebekah Lodge for 25 years or more will be honored. Refreshments will be served at 6 p.m.

Mrs. Duff announced that the District 4 meeting will be held March 16 at 6 p.m., at the R.E.C.C. building in Paintsville. Birthday greetings were extended to Mrs. Norma S. Stepp.

Present for the meeting were Nancy Duff, Sue Moore, Mabel Jean LeMaster, Kelly Sue Moore, Doris Miller, Norma S. Stepp, Venelia Rinehart, Lorena Wallen, Virginia S. Goble, Theckley Short, Wanda Justice, Otela Smiley, Jean Hickman, and Loretta Akers.

BEREA ALUMNI MEET

Members of the Big Sandy chapter of the Berea College Alumni Association met Friday evening at May Lodge for their annual dinner meeting. Bog Hager, local president, presided at the business session, and Miss Jane Ann Kendrick, secretary, registered the guests. Former Floyd countians appearing on the program were Carl Ford, retired professor of Education at Berea; his son, Ed Ford, director of Berea's Development Program, and Martin D. May, director of Personnel there. Harmison E. Hale, of West Prestonsburg, was elected to serve as local president; and Miss Jane Ann Kendrick was asked to continue as secretary for 1985. Attending were Prof. Carl Ford, Ed Ford, and Martin D. May, of Berea, Mr. and Mrs. Bog Hager, Mr. and Mrs. Harmison E. Hale, Miss Jane Ann Kendrick, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bradbury, Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Miller, Kathy Ratliff, Clark Allison, Bill McCoy, William Elam, Glenn McDowell and Abe Wireman, all of the Big Sandy area.

D.A.R. CHAPTER MEETS

Members of John Graham Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held their regular meeting at the home of Miss Maurine Mayo and Mrs. Homer Salisbury March 5, with the regent, Mrs. Ray Brackett, presiding, and Mrs. Opal S. May, chaplain, conducting the ritualistic service. The Sixth district director, Mrs. James B. Goble, presented the National Defense program. Mrs. Norma S. Stepp gave a report on the last meeting. The Treasurer, Mrs. Olga Preston, reported receiving a "Thank you" note from Mike Mullins, Executive Director of the Hindman Settlement School, for the Chapter's donation to the Carl D. and Verna Perkins Endowment Fund. The regent presented each member with a program for the KSDAR conference, to be held in Lexington, March 12-14. Mrs. Carl Horn, program leader, told the group that "February 14 was proclaimed Liberty Love Day by the Daughters of the American Revolution" to express their love and thanks to the Statue of Liberty. She added that the Society's more than 211,000 members joined, nationwide, to raise funds for the restoration of this symbol of freedom and justice. The John Graham Chapter members repounded 100% to this endeavor.

The hostess, Mrs. Homer Salisbury, Miss Maurine Mayo and Mrs. Margaret Spradlin, served refreshments to Mesdames Frances Brackett, Virginia S. Goble, Olga Preston, Norma S. Stepp, Eleanor Horn, Opal S. May, Mae S. Kendrick, and Margaret P. Alley.

The next meeting will be held at the Emma Wells May Cultural Center, April 9, at 3:30 p.m., with Art Willett, Southern Bell Telephone official, as the speaker. Hostesses will be Mesdames Martha Jo Crisp and Margaret P. Alley.

OBSERVES BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Eunice Spradlin celebrated her birthday at her home, Monday of last week. Her guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Rodebaugh, Mrs. Julia Herrington, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Spradlin, Mandy and Penelope. Mrs. Spradlin received flowers from Clay Spradlin, Mrs. Rodebaugh and Mrs. Herrington, and other gifts, cards and telephone calls. Birthday cake, made by Mrs. Tom Spradlin was served with other refreshments.

WOMAN'S CLUB IN MEETING

The Prestonsburg Woman's Club met last Thursday evening at the Emma Wells Cultural Center, with Mrs. Elizabeth Ramey, president, presiding. Mrs. Kathryn Poe led the devotionals, the theme of which was "The Lord Is My Shepherd." Mrs. Ramey introduced her guest, Mrs. Sharon Burchett, president of the Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club, and announced that the Seventh district student contests will be held at Whitesburg, March 30, and urged members to attend. She added that Miss Jamie Wallen had been chosen to represent the club in the forthcoming Junior Women's Club beauty pageant.

It was decided that a donation would be made to furnish one bed of flowers in the landscaping program at Archer Park.

Mrs. Ramey appointed Carolyn Traum, Arnita Snaveley, Joyce Allen, Sharon Sparr and Christine Spradlin to serve on the Nominating committee for the coming year.

Mrs. Mary Sue Moore, program chairman, introduced local artist, Tim Sizemore, who displayed the paintings, "Coal Miner's Child," "Mountain Madonna," "Bad John Wright," and Eastern Kentucky scenes as he discussed his philosophy of art, and told about his work at the David School. Following his discussion, Mrs. Moore, on behalf of the club, presented him a gift.

Hostesses were Mesdames Phyllis Herrick, Mabel Brown, and Lucy Regan, and refreshments were served to guests, Mrs. Sharon Burchett and Tim Sizemore, and members, Mesdames Elizabeth Ramey, Arnita Snaveley, Sharon Sparr, Polly H. Sparks, Carolyn Traum, Dorothy Osborne, Susie Poe, Kathryn Poe, Dorothy Burke, Betsy Rennie, Barbara Dawson, Mabel Donahoe, Mary Sue Moore, Dorothy Stover, and Docia Woods.

The next meeting will be Thursday, April 4, at the same location, with Mrs. Marshall Davidson leading the program on Education. Hostesses will be Mesdames Russell May, Pauline Burchett and James Donahoe.

The marriage will be solemnized at the First Presbyterian Church, here, at 7 p.m., Saturday, March 23.

Miss Collins is the granddaughter of Rosie and Johnny Ferguson and the late Rev. James B. Oney and Orville and Rebecca Collins from Franklin, Ohio. Mr. Hackworth is the grandson of Sam and Della Bays and Bruce and Sue Hackworth.

Zebulon Masonic Lodge To Confer M.M. Degree

Zebulon Lodge No. 273, F & AM, Prestonsburg, will confer the Master Mason degree at the meeting to be held Saturday beginning at 6 p.m.

Dinner will be served at 7 o'clock and the degree work will continue. All Master Masons are invited to attend.

RETURN FROM CRUISE

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ward, of Auxier, who have been spending the winter in Naples, Florida, have returned from a cruise to the Bahamas. They were joined on the cruise by their daughter, Janet, and son-in-law, Dr. Robert Goodman, of Harrodsburg.

Board Acts To Better State Arts Education

In its meeting (March 5) in Frankfort the State Board of Education took steps to improve the arts education available to students in Kentucky schools.

In separate actions the state board approved the Kentucky Plan for Comprehensive Arts in Education and reviewed a list of essential skills in the arts.

The plan is designed to improve the quality of educational opportunities for all students by incorporating the skills, creative processes and cultural experiences of all the arts into the schools' curricula. Through the plan, interests in the areas of dance, drama, music and the visual arts will be developed, and students will be urged to explore the creative avenues of their intellects, state education officials said.

Under the plan, local schools are encouraged to use curricula designed for arts emphasis. Business and civic groups are encouraged to expand their support for comprehensive arts in education.

The development of the essential skills list in the arts resulted from the overall thrust of the state board to improve the quality of instruction in every aspect of education in the state, the plan says.

At the meeting the state board reviewed a list of essential skills in the arts. The list was developed through the combined effort of local school teachers and administrators and college and university arts educators.

"Education in the arts is critical to the development of the entire mind," said Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald.

"If we are to have a truly educated population, we must stress education in the arts at an early age and throughout the public school experience."

The Daughters of the American Revolution support the efforts of other American citizens to restore the Statue of Liberty to her original beauty. This statue was presented to the people of the "Etats-Unis d'Amerique" in a Paris ceremony July 4, 1884, in recognition of ties first forged during the American Revolution, between France and the United States.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Elmer Hall would like to extend their thanks to all who helped in any way during the passing of their loved one. Thanks to those who sent food, flowers, prepared the grave, and spoke comforting words. A special thanks to the Arkansas Church of God, the ministers, Earl Newsome, Woody Crum, Orville Crum, and to the Hall Funeral Home for its kind and efficient service.

WHY ARRANGE A FUNERAL IN ADVANCE?

Pre-arrangement is done for peace of mind, economy, and the grief-relief that pre-arrangement provides.

PEACE OF MIND.
Knowing that the task is done is a blessing to many. Your family won't have to do it for you. You'll be secure in the knowledge that both you and your family are assured that all is under control.

ECONOMY.
No extra, unwanted frills, if you so designate. Or, if you prefer, an elaborate, full-service funeral, with all the special touches you'd like—at today's agreed-in-advance price. The amount, held in a trust for your funeral expenses, can even earn interest until needed, if you so arrange it.

GRIEF-RELIEF.
Making funeral arrangements under the stress of bereavement, in the midst of emotional chaos, can be devastating to a widow. By pre-arranging a funeral, you can relieve her of some of the grief, letting her concentrate on family matters of equal importance. For full details on pre-arranged funerals, stop by or call us anytime. No obligation, of course.

USAA Award Winner

The United States Achievement Academy announced today that Darwin Ratliff has been named a 1985 United States National Award winner in leadership. Ratliff who attends Betsy Layne High School, was nominated for this national award by Mr. Cooke, counselor at the school. Ratliff is the son of Lula and Gary Ratliff, of Allen, and grandson of Mabel and Don Ratliff, of Hunter, and the late Margaret and Pharoah Hale.

ELECT
JACKIE EDFORD
(EVERETT) OWENS
 DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR
MAGISTRATE, DIST. 2

Some of the people I've had a chance to talk to have asked me "who is supporting you and behind you in this campaign and will you be on the ballot on Election Day for sure?"

To answer these questions—These are the people who are behind me:

From left to right in picture:

- ★ My Sister, Priscilla Owens Martin, who is married to Dennis Martin of Eastern
- ★ Myself, Everett Owens. I am married to Hattie Cooley Owens of Prater Fork
- ★ My Mother, Molly Owens of Langley, owner of Molly's Beauty Shop and also owner of Molly's Florist.
- ★ My Brother, Joe Owens, who is married to Teresa Conley Owens of Rock Fork
- ★ My Sister, Ina Owens Robinson, who is married to Timothy Robinson of Langley

★ And, of course, my Friends and Voters of Dist. 2.

This way, if I am elected as your Magistrate, I can vote for the people and what they stand for and not be told how to vote. And I WILL be #3 on the Ballot come Election Day.

Stumbo Is Accepted By UK Med School

Anthony (Tony) Clark Stumbo, a December graduate of Alice Lloyd College, has been accepted to the University of Kentucky College of Medicine. While earning his degree in only seven semesters, Stumbo was on the Dean's Distinguished List, maintaining a grade point average of 3.5 or better.

At ALC, Stumbo served as class representative his junior and senior years and was secretary and vice-president of the ALC Pre-Med Club. He worked as a tutor and served as a lab assistant in the chemistry and biology departments.

During the summer of 1983, Stumbo participated in the University of Kentucky's Health Careers Opportunity Program. During the summer of 1984, he was involved in the Professional Educational Preparation Program at the University of Louisville and is presently doing post-baccalaureate work at the University of Kentucky.

Stumbo has also been accepted to the University of Louisville School of Medicine.

Fairy Tale Beauty

Leah Suzanne Reynolds, 16-month-old daughter of Richard and Suzanne Reynolds, of Emma, recently won the titles of Baby Miss 1985 and Baby Miss Photogenic 1985 held at Wheelwright High School, Feb. 3. She has also placed third in beauty and second in the photogenic category in the Baby Miss Sweetheart Pageant held at Betsy Layne, Feb. 16. Leah currently holds the title of Jenny Wiley Baby Girl 1984. Her favorite pastime is playing with her older sister, Kristi. Her maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Harris, of Rt. 1428, Prestonsburg, and her paternal grandparents are Effert Reynolds, of Cynthia, and the late Dorsey Tackett Reynolds. Her great-grandparents are Mrs. Edith Burchett, of Cow Creek, and J.E. "Speed" Harris, of Rt. 1428, Prestonsburg. Her sponsor, Fairy Tale Fashions, is owned by her parents and is located at the Highlands Plaza, here in Prestonsburg.

Photographers' Meeting Set

Several local photographers have expressed an interest in meeting to share ideas and information. In order to determine the desires of local photographers, a meeting has been scheduled in room P115 at Prestonsburg Community College at 6 p.m., Tuesday, March 19. David Gardner, of Salyersville, who is currently teaching a Continuing Education photography class at the college, has suggested that there may be a number of people who wish to meet informally to discuss their needs and desires. Those who have questions in regard to this meeting should please contact the Office of Community Services, 886-3863, ext. 215.

D.E.S. Workshop Set March 15-17

The third in a series of regional Emergency Management Workshops will be held at the Carriage House in Paintsville March 15-17. The three-day session will open March 15 with a public officials conference, a new feature of the 1985 workshops.

"We believe the public officials conference will allow Kentucky Disaster and Emergency Services better access to local officials who often get overlooked unless we have a disaster in their area," said DES Executive Director Wilbur R. Buntin, Jr.

The public officials will receive an introduction into DES, hear how the county DES system can work from Pike Judge Executive Paul Patton, and learn how disaster response and recovery can help their communities should a disaster strike.

The Emergency Management Workshop itself begins the afternoon of the 15th. Local disaster officials from Southeast Kentucky will receive intense training and updated materials in the area of disaster mitigation and recovery. One area of concern for much of the commonwealth in the past two years has been water shortages. Leon Smothers of the state Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet will discuss a water shortage response plan. Other topics for the weekend session include a look at emergency medical services, the National Medical Disaster System, search management, and a table top exercise in which all conference participants will take part.

MAYTOWN NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Goins and Delbert Milton were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Goins, Sr. in Richmond, Ind. over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Robinson were in Frankfort recently on business.

Martin Gregg Halbert was burned in an accident at his home Saturday and was taken to Cabel-Huntington Hospital in Huntington where he is receiving treatment in the burn division. He was accompanied by Mrs. Halbert, Mrs. Pam Patton, Mrs. Ruth Martin and Jeff Patton.

Julia Marie Robinson, two-year-old daughter of James and Sybil Robinson, is a patient at Highlands Regional Center.

Mrs. Sandra Wilson, of Ivel was the Saturday guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Hayes.

David Webb, Mrs. Sharon Lawson and Susan Clark, of Lexington were the guests of Mrs. Gertrude Webb last week while they were here to attend the funeral for Charles May, of Allen.

Edward F. Robinson, Doris Robinson and Larry D. Robinson have been confined to their home for several days due to illness. Sean Keith Robinson is also confined to his home with pneumonia.

Howard Ramey visited his mother, Mrs. Cora Ramey, last weekend, and is the guest of his sons, Glennis Ramey and Stanley Ramey in Alexandria, Ky. where he is recovering from a severe case of flu.

Sid and Marcella Bailey attended church services at the Spurlock Bible Church Sunday evening where they heard County Attorney Arnold Turner give his testimony on "How Christ Saved My Life."

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Allen have returned home after spending two months in Southeast Texas. Mr. and Mrs. Basil Coburn and Mrs. Pearl Eudy were there also.

Mrs. Donna Gray is recuperating at home after spending a week at Our Lady of The Way Hospital, suffering from pneumonia.

DON'T GET BLOWED AWAY!
PEOPLE, THIS IS MARCH 1985

You can hear the wind blow hard and strong—the candidates are out and running. Listen to them yell! Some yell red dog, some yell gravel, some yell management, some yell operator, some yell just to have something to yell about.

How many of these candidates have it all? Some would probably waste gravel on roads not ready to gravel. Some would haul red dog until it was all gone.

What do we get from these problems not solved? Some think they can help the people by just going to fiscal court once a month. How many of the candidates would quit their job right now to be a candidate for your next Magistrate?

If elected, Carl Duff will be a full-time Magistrate to you all. I know this district has problems. You give me your vote, May 28, and I, Carl Duff, will give you the best Magistrate you have ever had. You will see me on the road every day looking for ways to improve this district. You will see me at fiscal court speaking out for you. Carl Duff will be on the job. No one else will do my work for me. A vote for Duff is a vote for you, your children, and your grandchildren.

VOTE FOR
 for
MAGISTRATE, DIST. 2
 No. 8 on the ballot

P.S.—Vote for the best—let's scrap the rest. District 2 needs a Magistrate not to know who is in the family. My people are not asking for the job. Carl Duff is. Never size a candidate up by his kin. Let's size up the candidate by what he can and will do for this District. If you are not registered to vote, call 358-9630. I will come to your home and register you. I need your vote, and you need Carl Duff for your Magistrate.

Presents Check To Rescue Squad

Chuck B. Akers, co-captain of the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad, is pictured receiving a check on behalf of the squad from Bob Johnson, United Parcel Service Center manager at Emma. The check, for $709, came from the donations of UPS employees to the United Way and represented the largest single donation ever received by the rescue squad. Akers explained that the UPS employees asked that United Way return the donations to this area and he expressed appreciation that the rescue squad was the recipient of the check.

Mrs. Holbrook Honored On 88th Birthday

Mrs. Bertha Childers Holbrook was honored on her 88th birthday Friday, February 22, at the home of her daughter, Florene Smith, with whom she lives. Several members of her family were with her for the occasion; her daughter, Pauline Kucharski; her son, George Childers; granddaughter, Doris Bailey; grandsons, Kenneth Kucharski, and Carl Presnell; great-granddaughters, Paula Heims, Tamera Bailey, and Shelly Heims, and Kristofer Heims, one-year-old, who is her great-great-grandson and represents the fifth generation of her family. Others present were Gerald Longmire, Larry Heims, and Lance Hall.

Cake and ice cream were served to everyone, and Mrs. Holbrook received gifts, cards, and telephone calls which she greatly enjoyed.

Check in and talk to us if you want support.

SEE YOU AT THE FLOYD COUNTY LIBRARY MONDAY, MARCH 18 AT 7:30 P.M.

TO THE VOTERS OF MAGISTRATE DISTRICT NUMBER 2

I sincerely ask for your vote and support in the upcoming Primary. Currently the Floyd County Fiscal Court's budget is running at the rate of Two Million dollars per year, thus it is probable that your next Magistrate will be one of four magistrates making a decision for the spending and disbursement of over Eight Million dollars during this term. That amount of monies can be used to benefit and improve the quality of your life or they may be "captured" for the exclusive benefit of a few. Accordingly, it is urgent that the people of District No. 2 elect a magistrate who will direct his efforts with honesty and competence toward the public good. We cannot afford the luxury of favoritism, creating jobs for a few, or taking care of friends or family. FOR A CHANGE OF DIRECTION and FAIR TREATMENT for all, VOTE FOR

Bank Josephine
Donates $3,000
To JW Theatre

On behalf of the Bank Josephine, Miss Burieta Gearhart recently presented a check for $3,000 to Bari Kazee, president of the board of directors of the Jenny Wiley Theatre. Miss Gearhart is a vice-president and comptroller of the bank. Asked why the bank feels it is important to support the theatre, Miss Gearhart said "The Bank Josephine is interested "in anything that helps the community and the Jenny Wiley Theatre was one of the few organizations that encouraged tourism into our area."

The $3,000 donation helped the theatre print 75,000 brochures that will be placed throughout the state. Some of the brochures will be used in a mailing campaign that will allow people to order tickets.

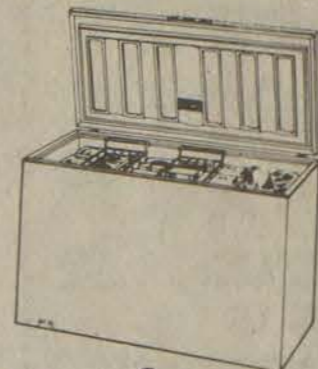

The Jenny Wiley Theatre also receives funding from the Kentucky Arts Council, the Kentucky Department of the Arts and the Kentucky Department of Travel Development.

This summer the theatre hopes to perform before 22,000 theatre-goers. The 1985 season consists of THE SOUND OF MUSIC, A FUNNY THING HAPPENED ON THE WAY TO THE FORUM, and PIPPIN. For more information, call (606) 886-9274.

Complete 50-Mile Canoe Trip

Members of Boy Scout Troop No. 27 recently completed a 50-mile canoe trip down the Big Sandy, starting at Prestonsburg and continuing down river to Louisa. Approximately 20 scouts and four leaders took part in the two-day trip.

State Opposes Power Plants On Ky. River

Natural Resources Secretary Charlotte E. Baldwin has announced that the Commonwealth has filed papers to intervene in the permit applications of two proposed hydroelectric generating plants on the Kentucky River at locks and dams 5 and 6.

The Cabinet petitioned the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission for denial of permits to install one hydroelectric plant at each of the two dams and requested a hearing on the intervention.

The Cabinet's action follows the signing of a Memorandum of Understanding with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers on Feb. 22, when the state and the Corps agreed to work jointly to open the Kentucky River navigational system and provide a mechanism for the State to pursue eventual ownership of locks and dams 5 through 14 on the Kentucky River.

Secretary Baldwin stated that "the Cabinet, acting for the Commonwealth, must establish that Kentucky has an interest in keeping the entire Kentucky River open for navigation. Any activity along the river that may jeopardize the river's navigational potential, such as the hydroelectric plants, will be challenged by the Cabinet."

"This intervention should have no effect on our ability to prepare the navigational system for use this summer," Baldwin added.

To Observe March 21 As "Founders Day"

Students, faculty and alumni of Eastern Kentucky University will pass an important milestone on March 21.

On that date in 1906 then-Gov. J. C. W. Beckham signed into law a bill creating Eastern Kentucky State Normal School No. 1 in Richmond—which evolved in the succeeding 79 years into Eastern Kentucky University.

From its beginnings in 1906 in a cluster of buildings around the Ravine and a handful of students and teachers, Eastern Kentucky University now has nearly 13,000 students pursuing more than 150 degrees programs in a comprehensive regional university.

Eastern Kentucky State Normal School's name was changed in 1922 to Eastern Kentucky State Normal School and Teachers College. In May 1925 the first four-year degrees were awarded. Graduate programs were launched in 1935 with the master's of education degree.

University status was attained in 1966 when then-Gov. Edward T. Breathitt signed into law House Bill 238.

New Teachers To Do Internship

The State Board of Education at its March 5 meeting accepted a proposal to establish a statewide teacher internship program and strengthen educational requirements for middle school teaching certification.

Under the regulation, teacher internship will take place during the first year of a teacher's employment in a full-time teaching position in an accredited Kentucky school. The one-year internship shall include a minimum of 140 days of actual full-time teaching in the classroom.

The internship program, developed subsequent to the passage of Senate Bill 19, is designed to provide beginning teachers with supervision, assistance and assessment during the initial period of their employment.

The program is required of all Kentucky teachers certified since Jan. 1985 and out-of-state teachers with less than five years' teaching experience seeking initial certification in Kentucky.

The changes the state board made in middle school certification will improve the credentials of the teachers instructing in the middle grades, state education officials said.

As approved, a one-year endorsement for middle school teachers in the fifth through eighth grade shall be made upon recommendation of the local school superintendent. The applicant must have completed at least 12 semester hours of credit in the middle grade teaching major.

The Postsecondary Model, a program targeted to vocational students beyond high school, will take effect statewide at the beginning of the 1985-86 school year, the Kentucky Department announced.

The Postsecondary Model requires that students be tested for basic competencies before enrolling in the occupational programs of their choice.

The program also offers special enrichment for students who need support in certain areas. If students are unable to improve in the skills needed for their vocational choice, they will be encouraged to select other occupational training choices more compatible with their particular talents.

The Postsecondary Model is already being tested at state vocational-technical schools in Morehead and Covington.

The director of Vocational Region 7, John Corwin, reports significant improvement by students in the pilot Postsecondary Model project at Northern Kentucky State Vocational-Technical School in Covington.

"We've seen three years' growth in reading and math skills in 10 weeks or less," Corwin said. Progress was determined by pre- and post-testing, he said.

Vocational educators throughout the state will assemble at the Rowan State Vocational-Technical School April 2 and 3 to observe the new program in operation and receive training for statewide implementation next fall.

NEWS OF HEALTH

NEW VACCINES GUARD AGAINST FLU, PNEUMONIA

New vaccines will be protecting older Americans and others this winter against influenza and pneumonia, diseases that were responsible for 60,000 to 70,000 deaths in the winter of 1980/81 alone.

Anyone over the age of 50, and especially over the age of 65, is at increased risk from flu and pneumococcal pneumonia, the most serious form of pneumonia. Also at increased risk are people with certain long-term illnesses—chronic heart and lung disease, diabetes, kidney failure, impaired spleen or liver function and sickle cell anemia.

Highly effective vaccines are now available to help protect against flu and pneumonia, and are strongly recommended for high risk groups, according to The National Foundation for Infectious Diseases (NFID), a non-profit, nongovernmental organization dedicated to the support of research, education and prevention of infectious diseases. Its president, Dr. Richard J. Duma, says that an improved pneumococcal pneumonia vaccine, offering greater protection against the strains of bacteria that cause the disease, was introduced in 1983. It confers longer-lasting protection and probably need not be given more than once. Influenza immunization must be administered annually.

More good news—Medicare now covers pneumonia immunization. Your doctor has full details about the flu and pneumococcal vaccines now available and can best decide if they are right for you.

Flu/pneumonia season is here. Fortunately, new vaccines can protect the elderly and other high risk groups.

On Georgetown Honor Roll

Pamela Lynn Porter, Georgetown College senior from Allen, was named to the "A" Honor Roll for the fall semester, according to a recent report by Dr. Joe Lewis, vice-president for academic affairs.

Vocational Ed Control Should Stand Unchanged, State Groups Suggest

The State Advisory Council on Vocational Education plans to recommend in its annual report that administration of Kentucky's vocational system remain with the State Board of Education and the Kentucky Department of Education.

Control of vocational education in the state should not be changed without compelling reasons, council members said in a recommendation approved at a meeting in Bardstown on Feb. 25.

Noting that various proposals have been made for transferring control of vocational education to other agencies, Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald said, "We at the Department of Education appreciate this expression of confidence on the part of the business and community leaders who make up the state advisory council."

Advocates of the recommendation included Dr. Charles Wethington, chancellor of the University of Kentucky Community College System and a member of the council.

"No governance system can ensure the success of a program," he said. "Governance is a political issue, not an educational one. We are working together, and if a serious issue should arise we will deal with it."

The state's vocational system was established earlier than the UK Community College System, Wethington said. Each developed independently, he added, and each is meeting its responsibilities as ordered by the legislature.

"There is a history of coordination and cooperation between vocational education and community colleges, which has been continued in both formal and informal agreements," Wethington said.

Wilburn Pratt, associate superintendent for vocational education, said he was encouraged by the efforts made by his office to improve communications with the community colleges. The result has been an increase in cooperative efforts and the sharing of physical facilities, he said.

"We believe our present system is the most effective way to provide a wide range of vocational studies for young people and also meet the needs of adults and industry for employment-oriented programs," Pratt said. "At the same time, we need to be open to improvement in this system."

The advisory council also approved a state plan for vocational education developed by the Office of Vocational Education. Under state law, the plan must be approved by the council before being submitted to the State Board of Education for review and approval.

Council Chairman Stanley Wall said the Bardstown meeting might be the last for the council as now constituted. Under the federal Carl Perkins Vocational Education Act of 1984, he said, a new 13-member State Council on Vocational Education is to be appointed by Gov. Martha Layne Collins.

Who's Who in Music Lists Seven Students From Prestonsburg High

The 1984 edition of Who's Who in Music will carry the names of seven students from Prestonsburg High School who have been selected as being among the country's outstanding high school musicians.

Campus nominating committees and editors of the annual directory have included the names of these students based on their academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and potential for continued success.

Students named this year from Prestonsburg High School are Lisa Lafferty, John Anderson, Donna DeRossett, Ramona Rose McKinney, Jamie Harris, Sandy Horn, John Goble.

That certain tract or parcel of land, lying and being in Floyd County, Kentucky, on Beaver Creek between Allen and Martin, Kentucky, and being the same property conveyed William J. May and Judith May, his wife, from Larry D. Rollins and Ann Rollins, his wife, by deed dated October 28, 1982, recorded in Deed Book 271, page 85, in the Floyd County Clerk's Office, containing five (5) lots, which are more particularly described as follows:

Lots No. 52, 53, 54, 55 and 57, as shown upon the Lillian and M.E. Burke Plat now on file in the Floyd County Clerk's Office in File Box No. 3, Plat No. 150, to which reference is made for a complete description of said property.

The amount of money to be raised by this sale shall be in the principal sum of $76,747.90 with interest and late fees of $11,222.79 to January 9, 1985 and interest thereon at 12% per annum until satisfied and the additional sum of $31,985.16, plus interest at the rate of 12% per annum from November 30, 1984 until satisfied and the costs of this action, including costs of advertising of this sale and the fees and commissions for conducting this sale.

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms. Given under my hand, this 25 day of February, 1985.

MARSHALL DAVIDSON, Master Commissioner 2-27-31.

The Carawan Family Comes To Appalshop The Carawan family, who have their home at the Highlander Center in East Tennessee, have been working in Appalshop and the South for twenty years, during which they brought people together to experience singing, music, dancing and stories. Guy plays the hammered dulcimer, guitar, banjo and penny whistle, Candie lends beautiful vocal harmony and son Evan backs Guy on the hammered dulcimer. Their programs include children's songs, love songs, Appalachian and Irish dance music, and spirituals, as well as music from picket lines, coal field struggles, civil rights movements and union halls throughout the South.

The Carawans will be appearing at Appalshop in Whitesburg, Kentucky on March 16 at 8 p.m. Tickets are $5.00 for adults, $2.50 for students and Senior Citizens. For reservations call Jerri at 606/633-0108.

Also appearing with the Carawan's will be the Bluegrass Friends (Pine Top Ramblers), a traditional bluegrass band from Hindman, Ky. The band members include: Ray Slone, fiddle; Orbin Slone, guitar; Eldred Vance, mandolin; Levon Slone, bass, and John Childers, banjo.

Park Rangers' Upgrading Set

The Department of Parks is upgrading its park rangers program through new training sessions, recruitment and uniforms, said Director of Park Rangers Lloyd Alexander.

"We've got a good group of rangers, but for a long time our system has needed improvement in some areas," he said. "We want to be well-trained and appear friendly, because we're here to help."

In past years, park rangers have had a problem being recognized as law enforcers and getting the proper training to do their job, Alexander said. When Alexander accepted the position as director a year ago, he said he was surprised to find 15 rangers working in the parks with little medical or legal training.

To improve the situation, rangers are now required to take an 80-hour training program at Eastern Kentucky University's Law Enforcement Center before they're qualified. The first session, attended by those already in the field as well as cadets, took place last April. Courses in first aid, criminal and traffic law, firearms and survival training and writing reports are included in the two-week period.

"We want to stay on top of things," Alexander said. Park rangers do the same jobs as police officers: they patrol areas, make security checks, answer complaints and make arrests.

Because park rangers face the same dangers daily as police officers, their jobs should be considered hazardous duty, and they should get the same training, the former police officer said. But rangers haven't had that type of training since they were removed from the state police division in 1981 and placed under the park ranger division, he added.

Capt. Roy Martin, area supervisor of the park rangers, echoes Alexander's concern for training rangers. "We get our rangers from the top of the register," he said, "and we make sure they're in the best physical and mental condition through these programs. The training isn't only for the rangers, it's for the public."

Martin, who has worked with different law enforcement agencies and has been a ranger for three years, said he can already see positive results from the training. "I just wish we could train eight weeks instead of four," he said. The police department trains for 20 weeks.

In addition to the initial training sessions, rangers must attend annual in-service programs in their region. These sessions, which last four days, give rangers a chance to brush up on their skills and knowledge. One of the major topics stressed is public relations.

"Besides the front desk, the first thing visitors see in the parks are the rangers," Alexander said. "We teach our rangers to be friendly—it costs nothing."

The training is especially important now because Kentucky's 43 parks are understaffed. The number of rangers has fallen from about 140 to 53 in the past few years, primarily because of budget cuts, said Bob Bender, parks' administration and budget director. "Rangers are a top priority for increased funding in the next budget," he said.

Twenty-three of the parks, including the 15 state resort parks, have rangers, but about 50 more are needed to make the parks fully staffed. Most of those that have no rangers, such as Old Fort Harrod and My Old Kentucky Home, are near cities and are being patrolled by police officers, Bender said.

Alexander is trying to rebuild the force. He hopes to recruit 15 officers from a group of cadets who will graduate from the State Police Academy in March.

RELIEF

Millions of people use over-the-counter antacids to relieve the symptoms of upper gastrointestinal distress. An antacid neutralizes hydrochloric acid. When one smells, tastes, chews or swallows food, hydrochloric acid is produced. This potent, gastric acid is secreted by glands in the lining of the stomach to aid in food digestion. Why the same amount of acid secretions plagues some people but not others remains unclear. The only symptoms that can be safely and effectively self-diagnosed and self-treated with non-prescription antacids are those that are caused by excess stomach acid. These symptoms have been described as a burning distress that is felt in the upper abdomen, behind the chest, and as high up as the throat.

COOLEY APOTHECARY carries a wide variety of over the counter remedies for everything from gastrointestinal distress to the common cold. In addition we maintain a very large inventory of prescription products. Join the many families throughout this area who have come to rely on us to meet their total pharmaceutical needs. We are located in No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Master Charge and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4.

HANDY HINT:

Antacids do not act by forming a physical "coating" in the digestive tract.

Quit-Smoking Program Scheduled on 3 Days

The nation's first smoking cessation information, entitled "CALL IT QUILTS—A SMOKER'S INFORMATION," produced by Lifetime Medical Television in cooperation with the American Lung Association, is coming to Kentucky. It will air on March 18, 24 and 26.

The two-hour program will feature experts, including doctors, nutritionists and psychologists, who will give advice on such issues as psychological addiction, women and smoking, aids to quitting, weight control, exercise, and the stop-start syndrome. Viewers can use a toll-free telephone number which will be shown throughout the program to ask physicians and other experts questions about smoking cessation.

Once each hour, the ALA of Kentucky will present information specific to residents of the Commonwealth.

The American Lung Association of Kentucky has joined the U.S. Surgeon General in calling for a smoke-free society by the year 2000. This smoking cessation information addresses the increased public interest in this topic.

Blackcats Fall In Regional Play

By BETTY WEBB

In the opening round of the 15th Regional Tournament, Friday night at Sheldon Clark High School, Prestonsburg saw its hopes for a berth in the state tournament dashed as the Blackcats were defeated by the Belfry Pirates, 64-56.

The teams traded baskets the first three times down the floor until Belfry turned on a good defense to force Prestonsburg into numerous turnovers mounting a 13-8 lead at the end of the first quarter.

In the second quarter Belfry took advantage of cold Prestonsburg shooting as the Blackcats just couldn't get their offense going and the Pirates registered a 27-19 lead at the half.

The Belfry offense stayed in high gear during the third period racing out to a 44-32 lead at the end of the third period although Doug Green led a Prestonsburg comeback in the fourth quarter scoring 10 points. Good foul shooting by Belfry in the last minutes of the game, however, put a stop to the Prestonsburg rally and the Pirates coasted on in to a 64-56 win.

Green led the Blackcats in scoring with 16 points, followed by Brian Wallace with 14, Marty Minix 12, Gordie Ratliff 6, John Goble 4, Jody Hackworth 3 and Jon Hale with 1.

Prestonsburg ended their season with a 19-12 record.

Betsy Layne Loses To Phelps, Saturday In Regional Play

After Prestonsburg lost to Belfry, Friday night, and the Allen Central girls had fallen to Pikeville the previous Monday in 15th Regional Tournament play, the eyes of area basketball fans were on Betsy Layne as Floyd county's last hope. But it was not to be as the powerful Bobcats fell to a sharpshooting Phelps team, 55-52.

The normally hot-shooting Bobcats were cold as the game began and didn't score a field goal until the second quarter. Their first half shooting percentage was an uncharacteristic 39 percent while the fired-up Phelps team hit for a scorching 79 percent of their attempts.

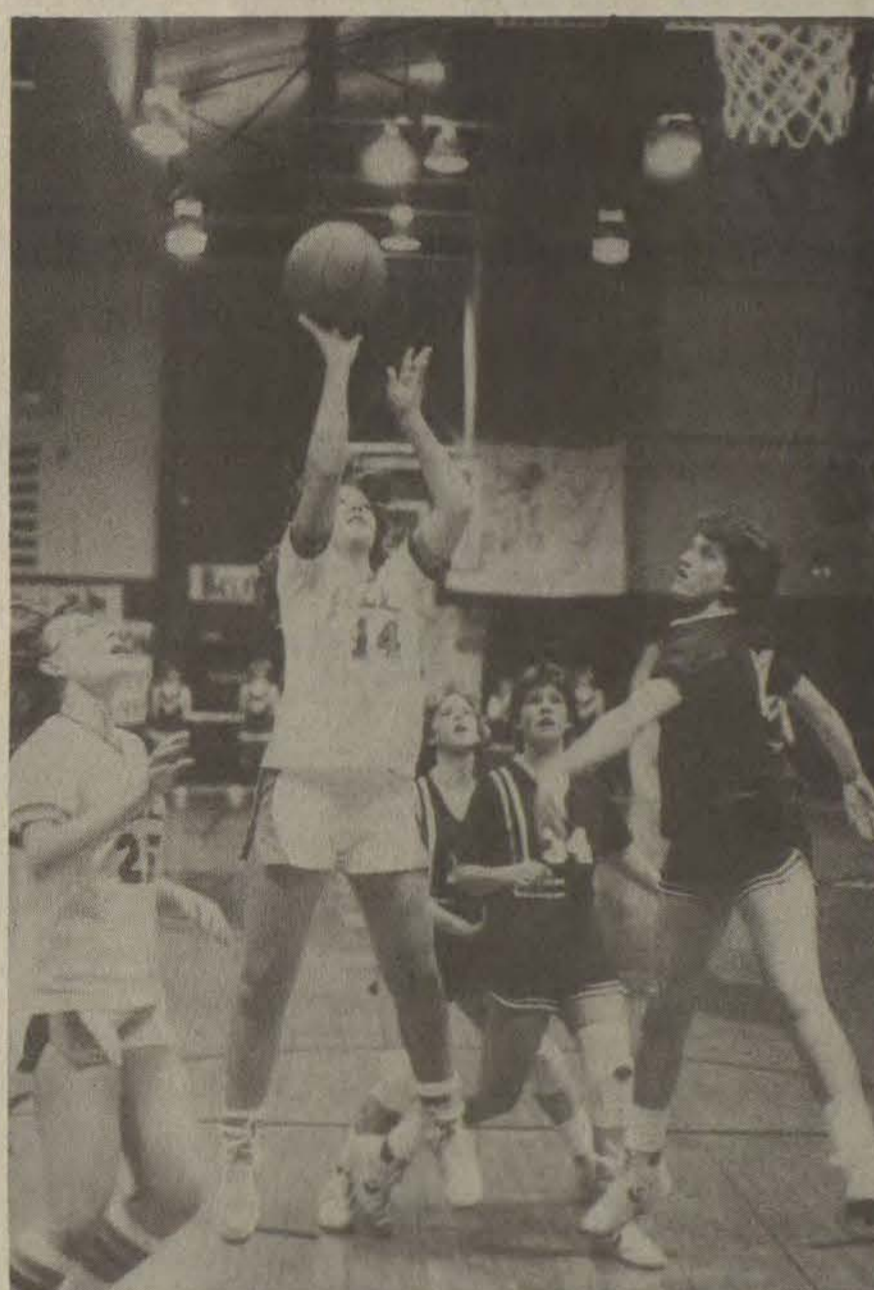

In the second half Coach Newsome's Bobcats warmed up a bit to around a 50 percent shooting figure but Phelps never let up, hitting for 73 percent in the final half.

Betsy Layne ended the year with an impressive 24-5 win-loss record.

Girls 15th Regional Action... Pikeville Wins Over Allen Central

HEADS UP! Belinda Click of Allen Central sneaked inside for two of her 27 points Monday night against the Pikeville Lady Panthers. The 5'9" senior forward also connected on 7 out of 7 from the free throw line.

In the first game of the 15th Regional Girls Basketball Tournament Monday night at Belfry High School, the Pikeville Lady Panthers held off a stubborn Allen Central Lady Rebs team, 63-56.

Pikeville had defeated Allen Central by 41 points just a few short weeks before, but somebody forgot to tell Jerry Fultz's team that they were not supposed to be in the game.

The Lady Rebs shot 60.5 percent from the field (23 for 38) and 76.9 percent from the free-throw line (10 for 13) in the loss. Pikeville hit on 28 of 47 from the field for 59.5 percent and 7 of 9 free throws for 77.8 percent.

Belinda Click led Allen Central with 27 points and 5 rebounds. Terina Hall had 15 points, 7 rebounds and 3 assists. Pam Baldrige had 8 points and 3 assists.

Pikeville controlled the first quarter, hitting 9 of 10 shots from the field to take an 18-10 lead at the end of eight minutes.

Allen Central came back in the second period behind Belinda Click's eight points and Terina Hall's seven markers. Pikeville held a slim one-point advantage at halftime, 26-25.

The two teams traded buckets a couple of times to start the third quarter. Then, Pikeville hit the Lady Rebs with a full court pressure defense. Belinda Click was called for her third foul and taken out for a rest. The Lady Panthers scored 5 points in 13 seconds due to their pressure defense and before Jerry Fultz could get a timeout, Pikeville held a seven point lead, 36-29.

At the end of the third quarter the score was Pikeville 38, Allen Central 33.

Pikeville's Denise Lockhart started the fourth quarter with six points to make the score 44-35. Karissa Carter added two more to make it appear that Pikeville was ready to run away with the game.

Not so—Click and Hall managed to keep Allen Central within striking distance until the last minute, and then Click went to war, scoring a three-point play at 1:11, and following it with a bucket at 0:45 to make the score 56-52. In the last 37 seconds the Lady Panthers scored 5 out of 6 free throws and hit a big bucket on the rebound of a missed free throw to make the final score 63-56.

Coach Fultz took his two starting seniors out with 0:11 to go. Robin Roope and Belinda Click had played their last game for the Allen Central Lady Rebs. They stood with their coach, tears streaming down their faces, as the crowd gave them a well-deserved standing ovation.

The scoring for Allen Central: Belinda Click 27, including 7 out of 7 from the free throw line, Terina Hall 15, Pam Baldrige 8, Robin Roope 4, and Terry Bailey 2.

For Pikeville: Carter 21, D. Lockhart 18, Blanton 4, C. Lockhart 8, Justice 8, Nakai 4.

Belinda Click was rewarded for her tournament play with a trophy on the 15th Regional Tournament team.

Betsy Layne Lady Bobcat, Raquel Keathley, junior center, had two fine nights of play in the 15th Regional Tourney play and was also picked for the all tournament team.

Ice Cover On Ponds, Lakes May Have Caused Fish Kills

While late winter and early spring fish kills are a fairly common occurrence for a number of reasons, biologists with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources say this winter's prolonged ice cover may cause more die-offs than usual.

The blasts of cold, arctic air, and snow which blanketed much of the state from January through early February caused many bodies of water to freeze over. On shallow ponds, especially, the ice cover may have been substantial, and partial or complete fish kills could have occurred due to shortages of dissolved oxygen in the water.

Fish kills, induced by prolonged ice cover, were common during the late 1970's when the state suffered a string of record-breaking severe winters. Ice-induced fish kills occur because a layer of ice, covered by snow, prevents sunlight from reaching aquatic plants. This causes plants such as filamentous algae and plankton, for example, to die and begin decomposing.

The problem may continue as water temperatures increase, although in most cases the fish kills has already occurred by the time the ice melts. Sometimes, in severe cases, the decomposition of plant material will continue until a majority of the available oxygen in the water is used up, thus creating a total kill.

The severity of the problem is often keyed to the amount of vegetation in the pond or lake, and the amount of time the body of water was denied penetrating sunlight. But there are a number of reasons why ponds or small lakes may escape this form of winter kill. Low levels of dissolved oxygen may be averted if a body of water is extremely deep, is fed by springs or creeks, or doesn't contain an over abundance of aquatic plants.

By the time a pond owner notices that a die-off has occurred, it is too late to do anything about it, biologist say. Ponds will generally recover from a partial die-off but a complete fish kill will require that the pond be restocked. (Contact your local conservation officer for details about the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources' farm pond stocking program.)

Donated Blood Tests Slated As Safeguard Against AIDS

Testing of donated blood for antibodies to the HTLV-III virus, suspected of causing AIDS, could begin in Kentucky within three to four weeks, according to officials of the Cabinet for Human Resources.

"When the testing actually begins depends on the individual blood collection centers," said Dr. Ward Hinds, director of the Department for Health Services' Division of Epidemiology. "The centers have to set up facilities for testing the blood and train technicians who can perform the test."

There are currently four whole blood donation centers in Kentucky and seven blood plasma centers. The whole blood banks, which rely on volunteers for blood, are in Lexington, Louisville, Owensboro and Paducah. There are four blood plasma centers in Louisville, two in Lexington and one in Richmond. These centers buy blood from donors.

The test, which will be conducted after the blood has been donated, was approved March 2 by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration and the Department for Health and Human Services. It is designed to screen the blood for antibodies to the HTLV-III virus, suspected of causing AIDS (acquired immune deficiency syndrome).

"While some people are hailing the test as a 'godsend' and 'the answer to the prayers of thousands,'" said Hinds, "the test, like many others, is not perfect."

"There is speculation about the proportion of false positives and false negatives with this test, but we won't know for sure until the test has been used for at least several months," said Hinds. According to officials of Abbott Laboratories, which manufactures the test kit, the test did not register the presence of antibodies in seven percent of the tests given to known AIDS victims. Officials added that about one percent to two percent of the tests will show a positive result, but approximately 17 percent of those results will be wrong. A positive test result does not necessarily mean the person has AIDS or will develop AIDS, Hinds noted. It indicates that probably the person has, at some time, been exposed to the virus or a related virus.

Hinds added that it will be hard to measure the test's effect on Kentucky's blood supply. While there have been 113 cases of AIDS transmitted through blood transfusions nationwide, Kentucky has yet to report the first such case in the state, Hinds said.

"Most donated blood tends to be used locally, and since there isn't a big incidence of AIDS in Kentucky, our blood supply is relatively safe," he said.

While the test is effective in detecting antibodies to the HTLV-III virus in donated blood, Hinds warned that certain high-risk groups, such as homosexual or bisexual males and intravenous drug users, should not donate blood.

"The test is not perfect, and there is the possibility of contaminated blood being undetected by the test," he said.

AIDS has become a major concern among health officials and the public in recent years. There have been almost 8,500 cases reported nationwide, approximately 4,000 of which have been fatal. Kentucky, which reported its first case in 1982, has 21 reported cases of AIDS, 16 of which have been fatal.

Anyone wishing more information on the test should contact one of the blood donor centers or the Public Health Service toll free hotline at 1-800-324-AIDS.

Already responsible for cleaner roadways and playgrounds New York's bottle-deposit bill is expected to save the state $100 million a year in solid waste collection and disposal costs, reports the National Wildlife Federation. The law, the ninth state bottle bill in the nation, requires a minimum deposit of five cents on cans and bottles of beer, soft drinks and mineral water.

State Board Adopts Adult Education Plan

The State Board of Education adopted a three-year state plan for adult education at its March 5 meeting.

The state plan provides funds and procedures for programs enabling adults to develop the basic literacy skills necessary to function in society.

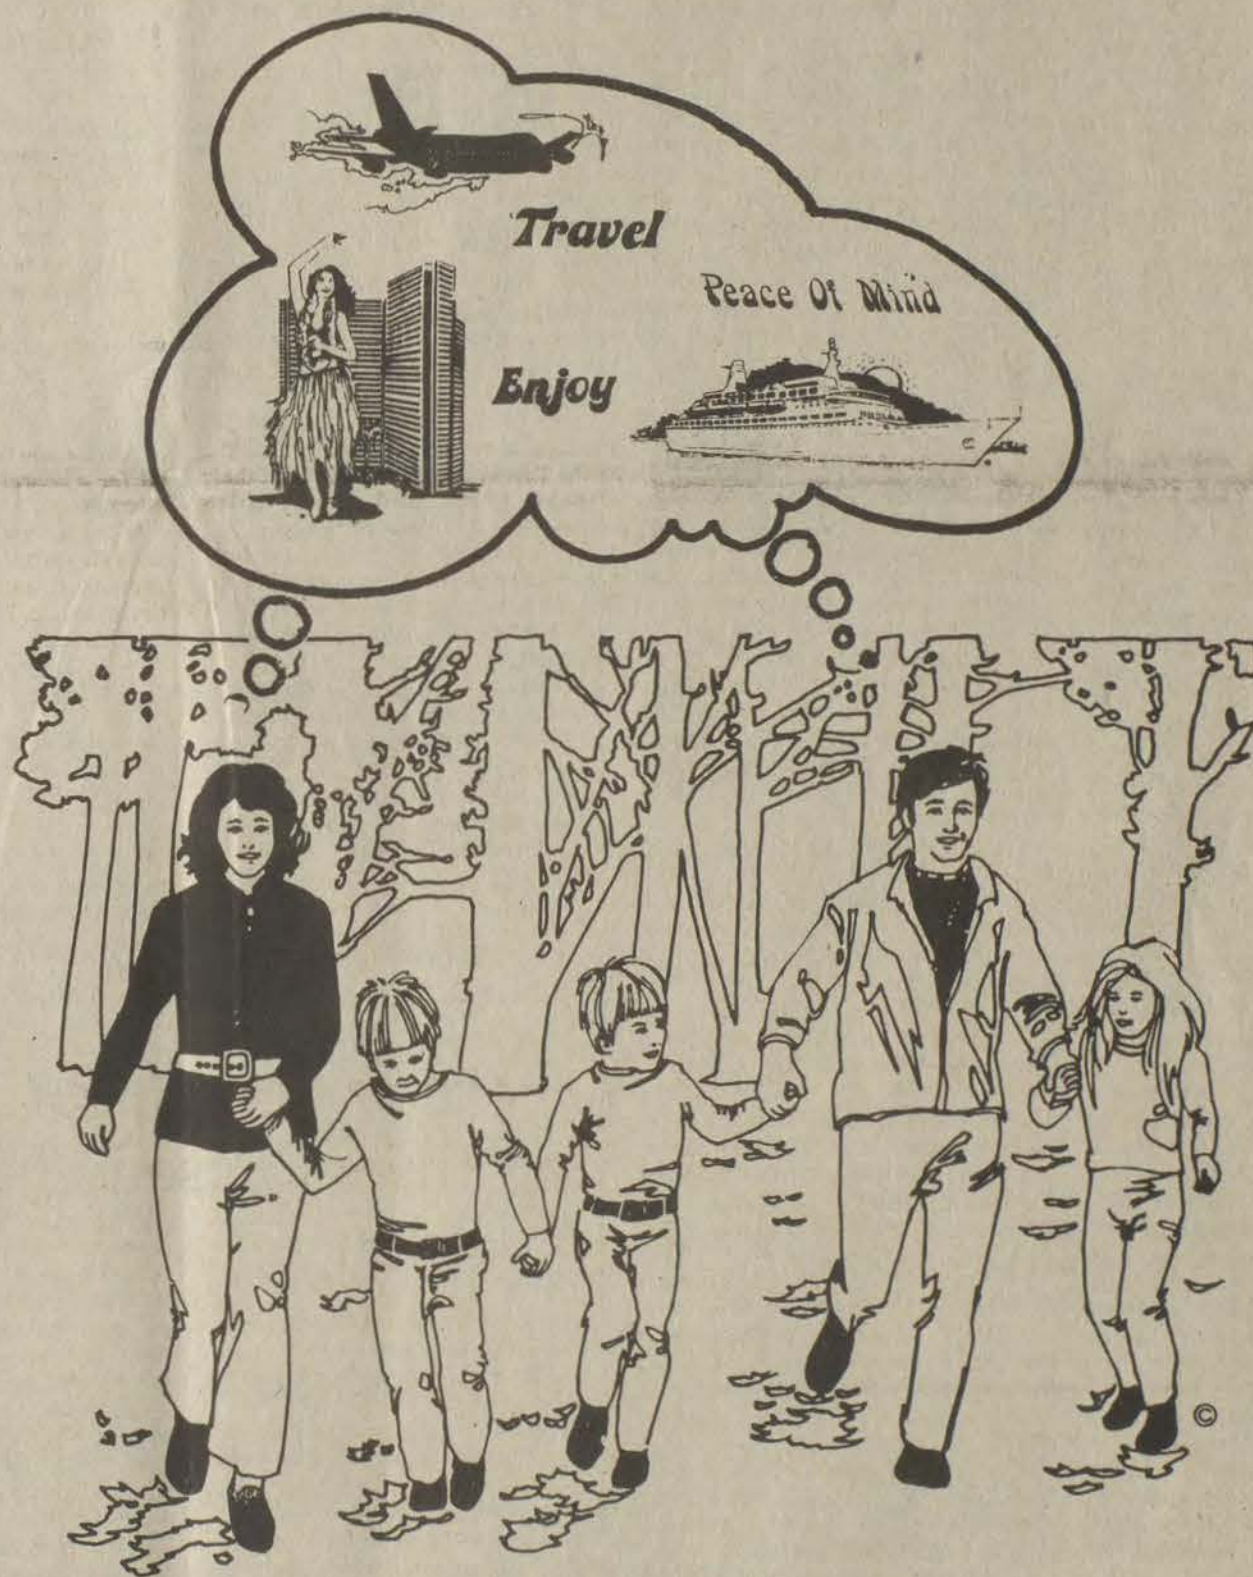

"There is tremendous need for adult education in Kentucky. The adult education program is critical to overall educational improvement in the state," education officials told the board.

"Kentucky has a large number of adults over the age of 25 who do not have a high school diploma. This causes problems, not only for those individuals, but also for the state as a whole. Businesses tend to look at the statistics and classify Kentucky's work force as largely uneducated," said Sharon Darling, director of adult and community education.

The adult education program seeks to offset this problem by providing instruction to motivated adults, Darling said. This year the adult basic education program serves 23,000 people, more than 6,000 of whom are identified as illiterate. The programs operate in 114 Kentucky counties. Seventy percent of those enrolled in adult education programs are unemployed, and 60 percent are below the poverty level, she said.

The state three-year plan has several major areas of concern. The program is designed to meet the needs of the unemployed and underemployed adults and undereducated parents. It also seeks to improve the interaction of agencies in order to meet the needs of special adult populations and to ensure the participation of citizens with the least formal education.

Democratic Candidate For SHERIFF

I am sure you're all aware of the need for efficient law enforcement. I will work hard to be a servant to everyone, and be available at anytime, to anyone in need. In being Sheriff, my only interest will be providing dependable service.

Please help me make the Sheriff's office one to be proud of.

By the way, if I am elected Sheriff, there will be a bench at the Sheriff's office for the people who visit the courthouse to rest on. After all, it's your courthouse.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant to Application Number 636-5036. In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Premium Elkhorn Coal Corporation, McDowell, Kentucky, has filed a revision to an application for a permit for an underground mining operation. The proposed operation will affect a surface disturbance of 2.00 acres and will underlie an additional 275 acres located 2.6 miles southeast of East McDowell in Floyd county. The proposed operation is approximately 0.9 mile east from Ned Fork Road's junction with KY 1929 and located 90 feet east of Ned Fork. The latitude is 37° 25' 13". The longitude is 82° 41' 22". The proposed operation is located on the McDowell U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The surface area previously disturbed is owned by Alvin Gayheart, and the surface area proposed to be disturbed under this permit is owned by the Orbin Moore heirs. The operation will underlie land owned by Donna Terry, Henry Keathley, John Keathley, Ervin Paul, Hazard Collins, William Blankenship, Ambros Howell, Henry Hamilton, and Sam Hamilton. This operation will affect an area within 100 feet of Ned Fork Road. This operation will not involve relocation of this public road. The application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 503 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653. Written comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, 6th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. 3-13-31.

CITY OF WHEELWRIGHT, KENTUCKY NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS for the year ended June 30, 1984

- 1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies. The accounting policies of the City of Wheelwright conform to generally accepted accounting principles applicable to governmental units. The following is a summary of the more significant accounting policies. A. Fund Accounting. The accounts of the City are organized on the basis of funds or account groups each of which is considered to be a separate fiscal and accounting entity. Each fund is accounted for by providing a separate set of self-balancing accounts that is comprised of its assets, liabilities, reserves, fund equity, revenues and expenditures or expenses as appropriate. Governmental Fund Types are those through which most governmental functions are financed. The governmental fund measurement focus is upon determination of financial position and budgetary control over revenues and expenditures. The following funds are used by the City of Wheelwright: Governmental Fund Types: General Fund - The general operating fund of the City is used to account for all financial resources except those required to be accounted for in another fund. Special Revenue Funds: Revenue Sharing Fund - A special revenue fund used to account for revenues received from the U. S. Treasury under the federal revenue sharing program. B. Basis of Accounting. Basis of accounting refers to when revenues and expenditures or expenses are recognized in the accounts and reported in the financial statements. Basis of accounting relates to the timing of the measurements made, regardless of the measurement focus applied. All governmental funds are accounted for using the modified accrual basis of accounting. Under the modified accrual basis of accounting, revenues are recognized when they become measurable and available. Expenditures are generally recognized under the modified accrual basis of accounting when the related fund liability is incurred. Exceptions to this general rule include principal and interest on general long-term debt which is recognized when due. C. Budgeting. The City follows the procedures established pursuant to Section 91A.030 of the Kentucky Revised Statutes in establishing the budgetary data reflected in the financial statements. Budgets for all funds are adopted on a basis consistent with generally accepted accounting principles. Budgeted amounts in the financial statements are as adopted by ordinance of the City. D. Other Accounting Policies. General fixed asset purchases are recorded as expenditures in the general fund and revenue sharing fund at the time of purchase. Such assets should be capitalized at cost in the general fixed assets group of accounts except streets and sidewalks and drainage systems. Property taxes are recognized at the date of levy with a reserve for uncollectibles for the portion estimated to be uncollectible. Grant revenues restricted in use are recognized when eligible expenditures are incurred. Amounts received but unearned are reported as deferred revenues. Total columns on the combined statements are captioned Memorandum Only to indicate that they are presented only to facilitate financial analysis. Data in these columns do not present financial position, results of operations, or changes in financial position in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles. Neither is such data comparable to a consolidation. Interfund eliminations have not been made in the aggregation of this data. 2. Scope. The scope of our examination did not include the Wheelwright Utilities Commission, which is administered by a separate commission appointed by the Mayor and City Council. The Commission operated under the supervision of the Mayor and City Council and therefore, its financial statements should be included in the combined financial statements to conform to generally accepted accounting principles. 3. Note Payable. The City borrowed $2,775 on July 20, 1983 to pay the City's share of pool repairs. The note is to be repaid over 36 months at $96.20 per month. The total finance charge over the 36 months is $686.20.

FAME

GUILTY CONSCIENCE — Anthony Hopkins stars in a dual role in the TV movie "Guilty Conscience," a psychological suspense drama airing Tuesday, April 2 on CBS.

Anthony Hopkins

Hopkins plays both Arthur Jamison, a prominent criminal attorney, and The Prosecutor, who only exists in Jamison's mind. The character grew out of Jamison's law school days when he would prepare a case, try it before The Prosecutor and try to outwit him.

Swoozie Kurtz plays Jamison's mistress, who wants him to divorce his wife, played by Blythe Danner. When Jamison's wife makes it impossible for him to divorce her, he enlists the help of The Prosecutor to find a foolproof way of killing her.

NATIONWIDE PURSUIT — The true story of the nationwide pursuit of the killers of two New York City police officers will be dramatized in the TV movie "Badge of the Assassin." The movie is now filming in Los Angeles for future broadcast on CBS.

The story is based on a book by Robert K. Tanenbaum about the manhunt for the killers, which took place in the early 1970s. Tamu Blackwell, James Woods and Richard Brooks star.

BETTY BOOP RETURNS

— Betty Boop, the jazz-age cartoon bombshell, returns to the screen in her first television special, "The Romance of Betty Boop," Wednesday, March 20 on CBS.

The animated musical special mixes actual photos of bygone New York with Betty's new adventures. The character was originally created in the 1920s by Max and Dave Fleischer and drawn by Grim Natwick. She satirized the various screen sirens of the era and represented the flapper age to a generation of film goers.

Desiree Goyette

Desiree Goyette stars as the voice of Betty Boop. She is a singer and songwriter who has written music for many of the Peanuts and Garfield specials.

Philip Michael Thomas of "Miami Vice"

By Wendy Wallace

When creator and Executive Producer Anthony Yerkovich brought actors Philip Michael Thomas and Don Johnson together to audition for the roles of two vice detectives, there was an instant rapport. The interaction between the two stars of what has become "Miami Vice" (Fridays on NBC) was evident from the beginning.

The popularity of "Miami Vice" is fueled by Thomas, who plays Detective Ricardo Tubbs, a relocated New York officer, who works with Detective Sonny Crockett (Johnson) along the boulevards of Miami. "Anthony Yerkovich conceived the role of Tubbs around what my interpretation of a character was on an episode I did on 'Starsky and Hutch,'" says Thomas. "When I read with Don, there was magic. What I expose on TV is just a tip of the iceberg. Don and I have had similar careers. Astrologically, our signs are fire and air, which helps the combination. The best is yet to come — and I don't intend to stop."

Thomas had his own idea of how he perceived Tubbs. "I had a conception about Tubbs when I first began," he says. "I conceived of him as a cat who has already lived eight lives. He always expects the unexpected. He's been in the streets and is ready for anything. Right now the way I'm playing my role, I'm a chameleon," Thomas continues. "I'm eating my role up. Tubbs will always keep his edge. Each week he is developing as a man, a policeman, a multidimensional character. You always have to expect the unexpected from me. This is my expression."

And like his co-star Don Johnson, Thomas researched his role by spending time with local undercover detectives. Thomas's family also offered some assistance. "I did a lot of research for the role," he says. "I never take anything for granted. I talked to my older brother about Vietnam. My uncle was a police officer and I found that the honesty and integrity in him helped me create Tubbs.

"It's pretty realistic," Thomas says about the show. "We take artistic license in a sense that we make it flamboyant. It should not be misconstrued. We are not trying to depict real life. There are very few flamboyant police officers. It's very regimented."

"Miami Vice" may be new, but Thomas is hardly an overnight sensation. "I lived the quality of life through the arts and it has given me a great dimension," Thomas says. "What you have are two of the hottest artists today. Both Don and I have gone through much to get where we are today. Don relates to me as an artist. I'm very well organized and structured. Yesterday is a canceled check, today is a promissory note and tomorrow is cash in hand."

THE PURPLE ROSE OF CAIRO. (PG-Orion Pictures) Starring Mia Farrow, Jeff Daniels and Danny Aiello ★ ★ ★ ★

By J.T. YURKO

Woody Allen places a great web of security around the production of his films, letting little information concerning the plot or setting slip out to an eager press. Such security is usually reserved for big-budget sci-fi films, such as "Star Wars" sequels or "E.T., The Extraterrestrial."

It appears that Allen feels that his films should weave their own webs of story and character.

Thus, you will find no plot description here, not even clues as to the delightful bit of magic on which "The Purple Rose of Cairo" is based. Simply, the movie is a "romantic fantasy" set in the 1930s starring Mia Farrow and Jeff Daniels.

Allen has succeeded, and the film speaks volumes for itself. Director Allen continues to explore the favorite themes of his most recent movies, including "A Midsummer Night's Sex Comedy" and "Zelig," but many viewers will see a direct relationship to Allen's play and subsequent film "Play It Again, Sam." What is illusion and what is reality, and how do they relate to movies? It's mesmerizing fun to watch Allen spin his answers.

Allen has always cast his personal leading lady as his movie's star. Here, Mia Farrow is more like her characters from "Midsummer Night's Sex Comedy" or "Zelig" than from her much-acclaimed performance as a gum-chewing, teased-hair housewife from the Bronx in "Broadway Danny Rose." Timid and thin to the point of anorexia, she is a hopelessly romantic wail lost somewhere between the vividness of the Depression and the sheen of the silver screen.

Allen has little use for the zany slapstick comedy of "Sleeper" and "Bananas," and although there are some very funny moments in "Purple Rose," folks who walk out of the theater saying, "Yeah, the film had a few funny moments" will have missed the point. Beneath the fluffy little tale is a bedrock of truth. Woody Allen continues to be a uniquely gifted filmmaker.

IN MEMORIAM

In honor of Martha Stambaugh, born March 13, 1886; departed this life March 17, 1984 at age 98.

Martha was an old fashion mother So scarcely found today She never tried to impress folks But she lived in the old fashion way. She loved the Lord's church and his preachers. The old fashion sermons and prayer. She had an old fashion faith that was waiting For the Lord to appear in the air. She was beautiful in her life With that beautiful silvery hair. Her smile had an angelic expression When I came to her bed for prayer. We will surely miss that sweet smile But will love her more dearly still— This is not the last time we'll see her If we will obey and keep God's will. Christians will never see one another the last time. There will be a sweeter meeting place When our life here is ended And we win our Christian race. I wish the world was full of Martha's Who many times the story of Christ told, Reached many poor wayward lost sinners To find their way into the fold. Last Saturday morning she boarded a new plane The stewards were the angels so dear The distance and way was no hinderance The Lord was the Chief Engineer. Her suffering and pain is now ended And all that restless tossing passed Safe in the arms of her dear Saviour At Home in Heaven at last. Sadly missed by her loved ones

Watt Hale, Former City Official, Dies Monday at Age 88

Watt Hale, former Prestonsburg police judge and city councilman, died early Monday evening at the Mountain Manor Nursing Home here at the age of 88. He had been a resident of the home more than two years.

A native of Carter county, he was the last of the family of Samuel and Ada Church Hale. He had lived more than 65 years at West Prestonsburg, where he operated a barber shop.

Because of his keen sense of humor, the wealth of his reminiscences and his superb ability as a storyteller, his barber shop was frequented by many, some of whom admitted they came only for the entertainment they found there.

Mr. Hale was a deeply religious man and attended the Assembly of God Church near his home.

Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Wilma Price Hale, to whom he was married 63 years ago; one son, Charles Hale, of the Abbott road, and one daughter, Mrs. Kathy Huff, of London, Kentucky.

His funeral will be conducted at 11 a.m. tomorrow (Thursday) from the Assembly of God Church, West Prestonsburg, by the Revs. Lorie Vannucci, Wade Martin Hughes and Bill Campbell. Burial will be in the Hale cemetery on Middle Creek, under direction of the Carter Funeral Home.

James Lee Ousley

James Lee Ousley, 54, died Monday night at his home on the Spurlock Fork of Middle Creek, victim of an apparent heart attack.

Born November 28, 1930 in Prestonsburg, he was a son of the late Ollie and Mary Wallen Ousley. He was employed by Norris Industries in Ypsilanti, Michigan until ill health forced his retirement. He was a veteran of Army service and was a member of the Disabled American Veterans, Chapter 18, Auxier.

Survivors include his wife, Virginia Harris Ousley; two sons, Jimmy and Larry Ousley, both of Prestonsburg; two daughters, Mary Varney and Debbie Ousley, both of Ypsilanti; a brother, Larry Frazier, and a sister, Millie Ann Griffin, both also of Ypsilanti, and three half-sisters, Stella Holbrook and Marie Ramey, both of LaPorte, Ind., and Gaylie Taylor, of Wabash, Indiana.

The body will be taken from the Carter Funeral Home, here, to Ypsilanti, Michigan where funeral services and burial will be made. Details were not available yesterday (Tuesday.)

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Marion Hall wishes to thank all who helped in any way during our time of grief. We deeply appreciate the flowers and food sent by the neighbors, relatives and friends. Thanks to the Little Rock Regular Baptist Church, members and ministers, and the Hall Funeral Home for its kind and efficient service.

By its very nature a hospital tends to isolate the birthing process from the family and its environment. In an attempt to remedy this situation, Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin, Ky., embraces a family-centered philosophy of care, believing that the family plays a major role in the well being of the patient.

Our Obstetrical Department is one of the most innovative and dedicated in the area. Our staff, headed by Betty May, RN, consists of registered nurses, licensed practical nurses and nursing assistants who truly believe that quality maternity care provides for the needs and desires of people from diverse backgrounds and lifestyles. Patients are given a choice as to the type of delivery they prefer—whether it be the traditional delivery room or the modern birthing room delivery with the services of either the Obstetrician/Gynecologist Specialist or the Certified Nurse Midwife in attendance. The choice of pain medication in labor and delivery is also personalized to the patient's needs.

"Rooming in" is a preferred option at Our Lady of the Way. This means the mother may keep the infant in her room at all times so she may participate in infant care and receive individualized instruction and guidance. Visiting hours and regulations are flexible to allow family involvement.

Our Lady of the Way Hospital is privileged to have Dr. Chandra Varia on its staff. Dr. Chandra is a Board Certified Obstetrician/Gynecologist whose main objective is quality care. A graduate of high distinction from M.P.

Shah University in India, she is a Fellow of the American College of Obstetricians & Gynecologists. She has worked in inner city areas of New York and has been a member of Our Lady of the Way's Medical Staff since 1979. In addition to prenatal care, labor and delivery, Dr. Chandra also has expertise in infertility workup, common and complicated gynecological care, gynecological surgery and family planning.

We are also proud to have Katie Isaac, Certified Nurse Midwife as a member of our staff. A graduate of Wheelwright High School, Katie received her RN training from Prestonsburg Community College and Certification as a Midwife from Frontier School of Midwifery and Family Nursing in Hyden, Kentucky. She has been employed by Our Lady of the Way since 1982. Katie is most interested in promoting family centered maternity care, offering uncomplicated prenatal care, labor and delivery, post partum care and family planning. She also offers care for common gynecological problems.

Recent renovations and redecorating of our Obstetrical Department include the addition of a second birthing bed, rocking chairs, wooden cradles for all newborns and color coordinated patient rooms. These new features were added with the idea of providing a home-like atmosphere for our OB patients.

Your quality care and health education are important to us. Stop by or call if you have any questions (285-5181). We are proud to serve you.
