

WITH SITE PREPARATION and clearing work complete, first stages of actual construction began this week on First Commonwealth Bank's new multi-million facility. Located on the former Garfield Place property and adjacent lots on Arnold Avenue here, the five-story structure will provide 78,000 square feet of space and will contain all departments of the bank that are now housed in the First Commonwealth building at the corner of Court Street and Lake Drive. Akers & Akers are contractors on the $6.5 million project.

Coal Company Gets Support for Plant

Were it decided on a show of hands, Left Beaver Coal Co. would have won an easy decision yesterday (Tuesday) in its bid to obtain an operating permit for its coal-washing plant at Ligon.

Of the 70-or-more who attended a permit conference—moved from the Bureau of Surface Mining office to the courthouse on account of the crowd—more than 50, many of them identified by lapel stickers bearing the company name, were there in support of Left Beaver's attempt to reactivate the plant, which has been shut down since last September.

In a similar hearing last August, local residents had the numbers, and their arguments that the Clear Creek plant was an environmental blight apparently proved persuasive in Frankfort. The permit application was turned down in September.

Residents who turned out this week said their feelings about the company are unchanged. "The coal company has destroyed our water and our environment," said Palmer Humphrey. If anything, the situation has deteriorated since last summer, when the creek ran black beside his home, he said. "Now it's solid white, with acid."

Jimmy Humphrey spoke of water seeping from a slate dump, high in concentrations of lead. Judy Blankenship worried for the safety of her children around two unfenced silt ponds. Draxie Slope attributed her and her husband's poor health to the pollution of their well.

But Doris Ison, of Drift, argued that unemployment is a "far greater" problem and figured that 523 people had been directly affected by the closing of the plant. "We all need water—but we also need a paycheck," she said.

It was a point made also by James Boyd, a UMWA safety inspector. "If we can't mine coal, we have no livelihood in eastern Kentucky," he said.

Brenda Faye Newsome, of Ligon, praised Left Beaver Coal for building a road to her church and cleaning out the creek in floodtime. Engineer John Reed agreed that company officials had "gone out of their way to try to be good neighbors." Moreover, he said, the level of lead in the groundwater was not above the limit held acceptable for drinking.

But the company's principal argument was that the operation they are now proposing differs significantly from the plan that was turned down by state environmental officials six months ago. The new operation will not require the injection of slurry wastes into old underground mine workings—a major focus of criticism in the past—noted George See, an attorney for Left Beaver Coal.

Moreover, the state Division of Abandoned Mine Lands is undertaking the reclamation of an unstable slate dump and, when that is done, the coal company intends to build a new road to the dump, enabling tippie traffic to avoid the county road, the attorney said.

The hope was also held out to Clear Creek residents that the renovation and extension of the Mud Creek water system—for which the county is seeking grant funds—may soon bring city water to that section. Plans are to replace the system's leaky lines and extend it to the plant.

DEBRIS, including guttering that has fallen from the eaves, litters the grounds of the 44-year-old Dwale schoolhouse, which has been for five years the site of Floyd county's only class for multi-handicapped children. But more worrisome even than the debris, for parents of the seven youngsters enrolled there, is their children's isolation from their non-handicapped peers.

Parents of Handicapped Tots Seek Way To Make Law Work

One of the nation's most compassionate laws, P.L. 94-142 has been on the books for 10 years. But, as a group of Floyd parents is discovering, passing a law is not the same as making it work.

For parents of the seven youngsters who attend class at the old Dwale schoolhouse, which now houses Floyd county's only class for multi-handicapped children, the important thing is to make the law work.

That is because their children, whose ages range from 5 to 10, are among the county's most disabled. And P.L. 94-142—the Education of All Handicapped Children Act of 1975—offers the best hope, perhaps the only hope, of their getting the education they need.

Parents of four of the children met in Prestonsburg last Thursday with representatives from the protection and advocacy division of the state Department of Public Advocacy. They sought state assistance, they said, because they felt they were no longer getting anywhere in their dealings with Floyd school officials.

Partly out of a new-found solidarity—and partly, some admitted, out of an old-established fear of crossing powerful figures—members of the group asked not to be identified by name. They are of one mind, at least as far as the essential issue goes, they insisted. And the essential issue, they agreed, is that handicapped children be schooled, as far as possible, in the company of their non-handicapped peers.

The three-room schoolhouse at Dwale, which has housed the multi-handicapped unit for the past five years, is unsuitable for many reasons, the parents say. It is old and in disrepair. It has no kitchen facilities. Access can be cut off by railroad traffic at any time.

But, mainly, it is segregated. No

PROUD LOSERS

For various reasons I passed up the state high school basketball tournament in Lexington last week. Yet, though far removed from the scene of action, I know who the most surprised people in Rupp Arena were. They were those daily newspaper sportswriters who apparently think nobody east of Winchester can play basketball. How shocked they must have been when Paintsville High School ran the pants off Hopkinsville, the eventual tournament winner, and went into overtime before losing by three points. And then, in the championship game, what must have been their surprise when Clay County, another Mountain team, led Hopkinsville till the dying seconds of the game and then also lost—by one measly point.

children attend classes there except a tiny band set aside by their infirmities. "Cast aside," one parent put it. Separate and unequal.

Fast fading are the days when—out of a desire to protect or a fear of embarrassment—parents of a mentally retarded or misshapen or socially inept child might be expected automatically to prefer for their child the sheltered environment of a "special" school. While few would deny that many handicapped children need special classes, parents are insisting increasingly that the classes be on the regular school campus.

The law supports them. Indeed, the thrust of P.L. 94-142 is that handicapped children be schooled as far as practicable in regular classrooms. Only where they have severe handicaps should students be placed in special classrooms and, even then, they should be in a regular school.

Even if a handicapped child needs to be instructed separately, the law says, that is not to say he or she should have to play or eat separately.

In a meeting with parents last October, Supt. E.P. Grigsby, Jr. told them their children could be moved out of Dwale if a suitable alternative was found and promised they would be on a regular campus—probably Allen Elementary School—by the next school

Poachers To Pay Stiffest Penalty Imposed in Area

Two poachers received stiff penalties in Floyd district court last week, in a case that was closely watched by area sports clubs and conservationists.

About 10 members of Floyd fish and game clubs were in court Thursday when Van Lear brothers Larry and Michael Delong pleaded guilty to shooting a deer on Long Branch of Johns Creek, just below Dewey Dam, on Feb. 13.

The two were each fined $1000 and sentenced to six months in jail, with the jail term probated for three years. They will lose hunting privileges for three years, must pay $250, the cost of replacing the deer, and are also liable for $47.50 in court costs.

"It's the heaviest fine ever paid in eastern Kentucky for poaching," said Asst. County Attorney Eric Hall, who is also secretary-treasurer of the Dewey Lake Fish and Game Club. "I hope it will discourage those who are making a habit of this," he said. "I think there was a feeling before that, even if you were caught, the penalties would be fairly light."

Conservation officers were reportedly investigating the area where the deer

New Contract Would Return 275 to Work

Union miners of the National Mines Corp. may have scored a sizeable victory in the tentative agreement reached last Friday in their Washington negotiations with company representatives.

At the same time, Vaughn Knapp, who became National Mines president last Oct. 1, the day the miners walked out, was quoted as saying, "After the time that has passed without digging any coal in Eastern Kentucky, we would have to say we are pleased."

The union membership will vote on ratification of the agreement this week. If the pact is approved, some 275 miners will return to work in four National Mines operations of the Stinson Complex at Caney Creek, Knott county. About 25 others would return to work in West Virginia, but most of the company's West Virginia and Pennsylvania operations, which were idle before the strike, are expected to remain closed.

The strike has been singularly free of violence.

UMW employees of National Mines in Knott county are members of Local Union 1791 at Wayland, which is a few miles from the scene of operations. It is the largest of the affected locals.

If ratified, the contract will be in effect for 40 months.

The agreement includes the provisions of the national contract with the Bituminous Coal Operators Association and these reported additions:

—Union miners laid off from a National Mines operation would hold the right to be recalled at any of the company's mines that are hiring.

Under the previous contract, miners could only be recalled to a National Mines operation in their own district or in a district bordering their own. The

Bids on Water Project Asked

For many Martin residents it must have seemed the day would never come, but construction bids are now being sought for replacing the city's ancient water system.

The bid advertisement calls for installation of a new, 200,000-gallon water tank, the replacing of 6.6 miles of water line, and renovation of the existing filtration plant. Bids are scheduled to be opened at Martin City Hall at 1 p.m., April 30.

The $1.4 million project has been around five years in the planning and has been dogged by controversy—notably about whether Martin should have retained its own treatment plant or joined the Beaver-Elkhorn water system, which serves much of the rest

Other Counties Snub District Health Plan

The number of counties that are deciding Floyd county was right when it refused to join the multi-county system of health services is growing.

When the shift to multi-county health districts was at its height, two years ago, 103 of the state's 120 counties had joined the move. As of this week, that number had dropped to 97. Four more—Johnson, Franklin, Woodford and Robertson—are scheduled to withdraw on June 30. And talk is heard around the state that soon there'll be more going back to the single-county health department system.

Proponents of the multi-county district system—among them, Dr. Grady Stumbo, who at the time it was formed was the state's head of the Department for Human Resources—argued that by pooling the resources of several counties into a district health department a wider variety of health programs could be had at lower cost.

In the Big Sandy ADD five-county area a district office at Paintsville was proposed. Floyd, Pike and Martin counties refused to join. Johnson and Magoffins counties did—and now they're not satisfied with the arrangement.

Said Earl Compton, administrator of the Floyd County Health Department, of this county's decision to remain independent of the district plan:

"We think the concept was fine on paper, but when you get to putting it to actual work, it's more expensive. And there's no way it could be more effective."

Compton said the Floyd Health Department, operating as an independent

Elk Horn Sues For Royalties

Two mining firms that leased its coal have failed to turn over at least $72,000 in fees and royalties, attorneys for the Elk Horn Coal Corp. charged in a suit filed last week in Floyd Circuit Court.

Named as defendants in the case are the Hunt Coal Co., operated by Earl C. Hunt, of Pikeville, who leased two coal tracts from Elk Horn Coal in December, 1979, and Mountaineer Resources, Inc.—its president is listed as Elster Childers—which subleased the coal in January, 1980.

The suit says the defendants have not paid a $3000-a-month rental fee since July, 1982, and now owe $27,000 in rent, plus interest. Moreover, they owe at least $45,000 in tonnage royalties on the coal they have removed, reckoned to be at least 15,000 tons, the suit alleges.

The two tracts underlie 3370 surface areas on Spurlock Creek, Notch Block Fork, Bradley Branch, Ousley Branch, Pitts Fork Middle Creek, the Granny Fitch Branch and Williams Branch. (Suits filed in court give only one version of the issue in dispute.)

SIDEWALKS were being poured, Tuesday, along a section of old KY 80 near Our Lady of the Way Hospital at Martin. Work is being done by Burton Concrete Construction, a Johnson county contracting firm.

Letters to the Editor
 The views expressed here are those of the writers, and not necessarily those of this newspaper. No unsigned contributions will be published.

The 'Book' Needs Reading
 I am a sophomore at Allen Central High School and I think I am representing this school when I say: "I disagree with the article in the Lexington Herald concerning Allen Central High School." Have you ever heard the old cliché, "Never judge a book by its cover"? I think this is the appropriate thing to say in this case. There are numerous things wrong over which the students have no control.

In the first place, our roof was designed and built flat. Because of this, water settles in puddles and cannot run off. It soaks through the roof and rots the ceilings, causing leaks inside our buildings. Secondly, the heating system is also on the roof. Installed there, it does not permit good heating of the rooms. In general, the engineering and construction of Allen Central High School was sub-standard, (my opinion), creating much of the deterioration.

Last, but not least, the vandalism to be seen upon entering Allen Central High School was not the fault of the current student body. Students who attended before us have destroyed things that, because of low school appropriations and budget cuts, have not been replaced. We have to settle for what we have now and make the best of it. The teachers and students who currently occupy Allen Central High School work very hard to prevent vandalism and help improve morale in our schools.

As a student here at Allen Central High School, I know how each day is conducted, how the students behave, and how the buildings were constructed. I know if someone were to take another look at Allen Central High School and the people who spend half of their lives here, they would find that it is not as it appears to be and that a few pages of this book have not been read.

Comments On Park Letter
 This letter is in response to the letter which appeared in The Times on March 13, 1985 dealing with the recent hiring of a director for Archer Park. I would like to clarify and elaborate on several items mentioned in the letter.

First, the letter discussed the role which politics played in the filling of this position and how Prestonsburg should model itself after Paintsville or Pikeville. Unfortunately, I seriously doubt that political manipulation in hiring practices is absent in either of these cities. Politics is a phenomenon which occurs everywhere, especially in the field of Parks and Recreation. As for Mr. Rice feeling he and several other well-qualified individuals were passed over, Kentucky has several fine institutions which produce capable individuals in the field of Parks and Recreation. Were attempts made to recruit qualified individuals from these universities? This is a resource which needs to be tapped to fill these type positions with qualified personnel.

A second item is the use of sports as a synonym for recreation. This is a misconception shared by many. Recreation involves a great deal more than sports. Granted, sports can be a recreational experience but these two terms are not interchangeable. Recreation also includes many other areas which are greatly neglected, i.e., arts and crafts, dance, drama, music, special events, hobbies and clubs, and nature and out-of-doors. These other areas are vital components of a good recreation program. After all, the concept behind recreation is participation by the many, not the few, and we all do not share the same interests, needs, and desires.

Another misconception mentioned was the idea that sports participation is some type of cureall for the educational problems experienced in our school system. In fact, participation in recreation alone is no guarantee of any special benefits. Camaraderie, team work, friendship, loving, caring, and a desire to want to go to school to learn are a result of the way in which people participate in recreation activities and the method in which the activities are conducted. Thus, the need for professional recreation leadership. Recreation is only one component of the total system needed to overcome this problem. Many positive attributes can be derived through recreational involvement but it is not the lone cure.

It is not my intention to discredit Mr. Rice's claim of politics playing a key role in the hiring of the new director or his concern for our youth and the educational system. Having dedicated myself to the field of Parks and Recreation, I felt some clarification was due. Maybe recreation can be used to encourage our youth to stay in school and to seek the best possible education. I for one hope so. Only through the recruitment and hiring of qualified individuals from accredited university curriculums can we achieve better recreation programs and if our youth gain a greater desire to pursue an education as a result of recreational participation, then this is an added benefit.

OF DIST. NO. 1
Prestonsburg, Ky.

I would like to tell you a little about the man I intend to vote for as well as campaign for in this years election. His name is Jerry Albert DeRossett, a Democratic candidate for Magistrate, Dist. No. 1. I've known Jerry for five years now and being a person who has not had a hand in political happenings as much as other Floyd Countians, I feel by watching our Fiscal Court meetings on a local television station (KCTV) channel 5 at Martin I have become more interested in my district, and the way it's run. My wish is that KCTV could be viewed by not only a few areas of Floyd County, but all of Floyd County. Then we could all see what really happens in these meetings and how our elected magistrates handle any given motions the Fiscal Court meeting presented.

I have seen several of these meetings on KCTV at the home of my aunt and uncle who reside in Martin, and I became appalled to see our Floyd County citizens receiving no direct answers to any of the questions they ask. And as far as the motioning Judge Stumbo presented in the meetings I watched, I only saw one magistrate second on those motions and that magistrate was not from our district.

We need a magistrate that will stand up for us as citizens in these meetings, for we all can't attend every meeting scheduled and if we could I don't think the Fiscal Court room could hold us all. So when you go to the polls to VOTE, vote JERRY ALBERT DEROSSETT for Magistrate, No. 9 on ballot, feel you have an honorable magistrate representing you. Remember, NOW YOU CAN MAKE THE DIFFERENCE.

Members of the Dewey Lake Fish and Game Club voted to give a $250 reward to the person who alerted wildlife officials to the poaching—the informant's identity was not disclosed out of fear of retaliation—and other clubs were said to be considering a similar offer.

Second only to attacks by wild dogs, illegal hunting is said to be a major threat to wildlife in this area, and the Long Branch section—which is sparsely inhabited but where stripmine haul roads provide relatively easy access—is said to be a favorite haunt of poachers.

tend them to tie in with the Beaver-Elkhorn system at Price, said Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo. In that event, Turner-Elkhorn Mining Co., Left Beaver Coal Co.'s parent firm, has agreed to run a four-inch line from the Mud Creek extension to the head of Clear Creek, the judge announced.

Ronald Hatfield, manager of Turner-Elkhorn and now president of Left Beaver Coal, said he felt a lot of the residents' objections "can be straightened out, given time."

"I hoped this could have been avoided," he said of Tuesday's hearing. "I thought we were making progress."

But Palmer Humphrey said the time is long past when their problems might have been avoided. "A lot of this could have been eliminated if the laws were applied," he said. "As it is, whether they give the permit or deny it, we are the losers. We have lost our water supply forever."

year. An alternative picked out by the parents—a former one-room school that is now an annex to the Lancer Baptist Church—was held unsuitable by school officials. As a permanent site for the multi-handicapped unit, Allen Elementary is reckoned unsuitable by at least some of the parents.

They want the unit at Prestonsburg Elementary, close to medical and emergency services, and they want it there soon. When the Dwale school was re-opened in 1980 it was supposed to be a temporary arrangement; for three years, the parents said, they have been pressing unsuccessfully to be moved to a permanent site. "We figured we've given them enough time," one of them said. "If we don't do something now, we'll have the same thing next year."

Audrey Pratt, director of Floyd schools' special education programs, expressed surprise this week that she was not invited to last week's meeting between parents and state officials. She also noted that "mainstreaming" was not included in any of the individual education plans that parents and school officials jointly design each year.

The Dwale school "is not a bad facility at all, as I see it," Mrs. Pratt said. "The isolation is not a problem for us... It is what parents agreed to."

That may be so, parents concede, but it is no longer enough. "We're just learning how to make our demands," one of them said this week. "We're learning the law."

Bickering by city council factions and former Mayor Larry B. Hall once drew a stern warning from the late Congressman Carl D. Perkins, who was instrumental in obtaining federal funding for the project, that the funds could easily be lost if city officials were unable to resolve their differences.

Funding for the new water system includes a $500,000 grant from the Economic Development Administration, a $64,000 grant from the Farmers Home Administration, and a $279,000 loan from the same agency, and a $100,000 grant from the state Pollution Abatement Authority.

Goble-Roberts Access Is City Council Topic

Concern over access to the Goble-Roberts Addition section of Prestonsburg was again a focus of discussion at Monday night's meeting of the Prestonsburg City Council and reported results of a meeting with state highway officials last week gave cause for some optimism among council members.

The need for a bridge to span the Big Sandy River to the heavily-populated residential section has been a priority of the present council for some time and that need was reemphasized recently when work initiated by a stone company at Goble-Roberts to add a new railroad siding appeared to be undermining an elevated section of the narrow road which presently serves some 1,000 residents.

The construction raised fears that the roadway might collapse near the work, effectively isolating the entire Goble-Roberts community, and prompted the scheduling of a meeting with Department of Transportation Secretary Floyd G. Poore.

Councilman Paul Hunt Thompson, who represented the council at the meeting with Poore last week, said the secretary "is very interested in helping the people here... and I think he will work to do that."

Since Prestonsburg would have to provide 20 percent of the total amount needed to build a new span, the city hopes that a substantial sum can be raised through sale to the state of a piece of right-of-way at Cliff which will be required for the proposed construction of a new span there to replace the present Cliff bridge.

Thompson said Sec. Poore vowed to give the right-of-way as high a value as possible to help the city meet its financial requirements. Poore said he would come here in the near future to look at the site as well as the Goble-Roberts road situation.

Although council voted to continue current fire protection subscription rates, the decision was preceded with some discussion.

With a Fourth Class fire rating, said to be the best east of Lexington, Prestonsburg homeowners, who pay $25 per home per year, and businesses, which pay an average of about $250 a year, may be getting by too easy, it was suggested by Councilman Bobby Watson. Other council members suggested the possibility of extending service to residents on the city's outskirts to bring in more revenue. But Mayor Harold Cooley, who expressed the opinion that the city was being more than generous by already allowing a five-mile limit outside Prestonsburg, said "let's not spread ourselves too thin."

"I don't want to sound harsh, but residents outside the city are going to have to realize as we did that to have a high level of protection they're going to have to support a fire department, and that means spending money, and taxes," Cooley commented.

Fire Chief Tom Blackburn also discouraged the idea of extending current subscription limits pointing to the recently well-publicized reluctance of insurance companies to grant policies in many parts of Eastern Kentucky as an indication that a number of new subscribers seeking the attractive fire rating of the city will certainly be added anyway.

City Manager David Evans announced that a $6,000 grant had been secured for rebuilding of the playground at Goble-Roberts Addition. The city will match that amount with much of the total being provided by "in kind" city labor and equipment.

Evans also suggested that additional employees be hired to serve on the city street department now that warmer weather has made a number of projects, including a general "spring cleaning" of the city possible. "There's an awful lot of work for just six people (the total number of street department employees)," said Evans, who also reminded the council that maintenance of Archer Park is now a responsibility of the street department.

There's Room For All

Now that we have over 100 candidates running for some type of political office, we have campaign literature everywhere.

For the past week I have had cards and posters all over my driveway and tacked on the post by my driveway. With respect to all candidates and their workers, they should respect each other and not place over or tear down each other's literature. If you notice, there is enough space in Floyd county for each and everyone that is running to put up their campaign literature without destroying others.

DEARL FAYE HOLBROOK West Prestonsburg, Ky.

Candidates Welcome

All candidates of Floyd county are welcome to come to the union hall of Local Union 1741. The members of Local Union 1741 have never, in the past, forced out any candidate from its premises and shall make no attempts to do so in the future.

tentative pact provides that a miner can transfer two districts away, from Kentucky to Pennsylvania, and vice versa, for example.

A union miner would have the right to be hired at any new National Mines operation, regardless of whether that operation is initially under a UMW contract.

Laid-off miners in the company's Beaver Creek division would have the right to be hired by companies subcontracting on National Mines property.

The union had contended that its members had been shut out from jobs in 11 Eastern Kentucky mines owned by National Mines but operated by companies that had subcontracted to mine them.

"The agreement had to be tailored to meet specific needs of our members at National (Mines), and at the same time, it couldn't contain any backward steps from our national agreement with the BCOA," said Steve Webber, the chairman of the union's negotiating team. "We believe this agreement accomplishes both goals."

Knapp of National Mines said that the agreement would prove to be "a mutual opportunity" for the company and the union. He also stressed that he was anxious to sell coal again but that he was not certain when that would be possible.

The company produced 3.1 million tons of coal in nine months before the strike last year, and its 1985 business plan, formulated before the strike, called for production of 3.5 million tons of coal.

Meanwhile, West Virginia Gov. Arch Moore was quoted as saying he thought the strike against the A.T. Massey Coal Co. could be settled "within 24 hours," but that stoppage, frequently marked by violence, continued Saturday. It, too, began last October 1.

Those Who Serve

In the past few months much has been said for and against the volunteer fire departments. Without a doubt they all suffer from the same thing—the need for funds to operate and the lack of support from the homeowners served by the departments. It takes a lot to operate and unless you are connected with it's hard to realize. I believe the members are to be commended and supported but never be made to feel like beggars.

The men are willing to spend their time to attend meetings, take the necessary training and even use their own money to do so. Each time they answer an emergency call they are risking their lives. Few people stop to think about this. But the men do not hesitate. What reward do they receive? Nothing. Nor do they expect anything. They are satisfied, knowing that they have helped someone.

I think I was instrumental in organizing the Maytown Volunteer Fire Department. In fact, I spent many hours and a lot of money on postage and phone calls before really getting started in the spring of 1973. But whatever I or the other men did, we did it for our people. From the beginning we established our protection area as: From the foot of the hill on Stephens Branch to the foot of the hill at Hippo and all areas in between, which includes Warco, Henry's Branch, John's Branch, Turkey Creek, Eastern, Goose Creek, Cooley Branch, Turner Branch and Brush Creek. We have been very fortunate in that we have had dedicated men and many dedicated supporters. Some of us are getting too old or are physically unable to fight the fires but younger men are stepping in to keep our Department going. They are to be commended very highly and I think everyone in the area should support them financially and encourage them.

We are one of the best equipped and best trained volunteer fire departments in the area. More than 75% are certified by the state fire marshal. When we purchased the 1972 Ford fire truck we now have all the firemen signed a note for $19,500 to purchase it. And we all worked hard to pay for it.

In 1980 we were given a dual insurance rating by the Insurance Services Office of Kentucky. Those that live within 1000 feet of a fire hydrant are level 8 and those that live farther are level 9. We have never refused to make an emergency run in our area but we are restricted to that area unless another department asks for our help. We are proud of our Department and, with the people's help, we hope to operate for many years to come. Whether a homeowner supports the department or chooses to ignore it, they still benefit from the insurance reduction and if they need us we will be there just as soon as possible. We need financial help, just as all other volunteer fire departments, and anyone in our protection area that wishes to make a donation please look for our bi-monthly newsletter or mail it to the Maytown Volunteer Fire Department, Box 130, Langley, Ky. 41645-0130.

Blankenship Named To Leadership Group

The First Commonwealth Bank of Prestonsburg announces that O. Sam Blankenship, vice-president and chief financial officer, has been chosen for membership in the charter class of Leadership Kentucky.

Leadership Kentucky was created in 1984 to develop the talent and tap the energies of Kentucky's present and future leaders. The participants, who are selected from across the commonwealth, have demonstrated leadership ability and continued dedication to Kentucky's progress. Enrollment is limited to 40 members annually. They will meet for seven monthly programs that address critical issues facing the state.

Blankenship, with First Commonwealth since 1981, served as president of the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce from 1980 to 1982 and is presently active in other professional, trade, and civic organizations.

ROTC Students at Ft. Knox

Pam Isaac, of Bypro, was among the 29 Morehead State University ROTC students who visited Fort Knox recently for an Army orientation visit.

The students stayed in Army billets, dined and danced at the Officer's Club, spoke with four lieutenants serving active duty at Fort Knox, and "fired" a computerized M-16 rifle. Because of the trip, military science instructor Maj. Gerald Adams said that many of the students have decided to stay in the ROTC program and seek a commission as an Army officer.

Miss Isaac, a sophomore, is the daughter of Opal Isaac.

Elderhostel Grants Offered

For the past five summers, educated and noneducated mingled on college campuses in Kentucky to live in dorms, eat in cafeterias, take liberal arts courses, go on field trips and just to meet others—all as a part of the Elderhostel program.

Now, to encourage better participation from all geographic regions of Kentucky, ten $150 scholarships are available to elderly residents through the Cooperative Extension Service.

Scholarships will be awarded on the basis of need, but anyone interested should apply, said Sam Quick, Extension family life specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. Applications are available at county Extension offices. The $150 scholarships cover all but $45 of the costs for one week of the Elderhostel program.

"Elderhostel is a non-credit program geared toward meeting the needs of people who are at least 60 years old," Quick said. "The program is dynamite, because it meets educational needs of older people, and does not discriminate based on formal education. You can't tell who has a third grade education and who has an advanced degree, because everyone has gained a lot of education just by living 60 or more years."

Elderhostelers spend a week on a college campus and spend three hours each day studying a specific subject.

Alice Brown, state director of Elderhostel, said a wide range of liberal arts courses are offered, and in some states special interest courses are available.

"If the group is studying the Civil War, participants have a chance to visit war sites," she explained.

"Besides the chance to exchange ideas and experiences in the classroom and on field trips, the greatest benefit comes from a sense of congeniality and camaraderie that develops immediately within the group," Brown said. "Participants also have a chance to touch base with another segment of the population—the college age group. Both young and old alike can learn more about the other age group."

The program nationally will be ten years old this summer and has grown from 2200 participants at five colleges campuses in 1975 to more than 67,000 participants at over 700 sites in 1984.

The Kentucky sites include 15 college and university campuses and Shaker Village, Tennessee Valley Authority, and Pine Mountain Settlement School. "The participation by Kentuckians has been disappointing," Brown said. "Eighty-nine percent of the people who participate in the Kentucky program are not from the state," she added. "And the Kentuckians who do participate are primarily from the urban areas."

That's why the scholarship program was set up to encourage others from rural areas to learn about the program. Other scholarships are available through the national headquarters in Boston. Brown said that people who have never participated in Elderhostel but who are interested in the program have a good chance of receiving a scholarship.

ARE YOU A VOLUNTEER FIREMAN--
--in Cow Creek, Middle Creek or Auxier? (We need to establish a volunteer fire department in the Abbott/Cliff area—Now.) Ask any member of the Prestonsburg Fire Dept. how much help Bill Ray Collins has been to their Dept. while serving for six years on the City Council. Our District needs a full-time Magistrate that knows something about the fire departments in our district. Someone that knows about firemen and fire fighting equipment. Someone that has fought fire, breathed hot smoke, and worked soaking wet to put a fire out. I have served 10 years as a volunteer fireman. In the near future, insurance on your home and on your property may depend on how close you live to a modern, well-equipped volunteer fire department. Repairing the roads and strengthening the Fire Departments are my priorities. Plain and simple.

Martin County Court Votes Official Pay Cuts

Members of the Martin County Fiscal Court have voted to cut the salaries of elected county officials and, in a separate action, agreed to reduce their own salaries by 44 percent.

Magistrate John Stepp made the first motion for a pay cut, to roll back magistrates' salaries by $400 a month to $509.32. The salary includes $100 a month for expenses.

Magistrate Gene Sisco then proposed a 30 percent cut of all elected officials' salaries paid in full or in part by the county.

"We've got five magistrates, and what they are drawing is a third of what is allowed by the state (the legal maximum is $31,815). All other elected officials are drawing a maximum salary," Sisco said.

Judge-Executive John Callaham expressed concern about the county possibly losing $10,000 in revenue-sharing funds and said, "It is going to take a big step in a lot of ways to provide for the activities of the county."

Callaham said a cut in the judge's salary, which is $31,815, "wouldn't cut me that much."

The officials' salaries to be cut, effective with the next administration in January, 1986, include the judge-executive, coroner, jailer and county attorney.

The three elected officers not affected are the sheriff and county court clerk, whose salaries are set by fees, and the property valuation administrator, whose salary is paid by the state Department of Revenue.

A series of public seminars on media relations and journalism will be featured in the 1985 Mass Communications Week at Eastern Kentucky University.

The seminars will be held Tuesday, April 2, and Wednesday, April 3, according to officials in the ECU Mass Communications Department.

The Tuesday seminars will cover print and broadcast journalism, and the Wednesday seminars will cover public relations and advertising, said Linda Henson, public relations instructor at ECU and coordinator for Mass Communications Week.

"In addition to the communications seminars, career and job hunting seminars will be held on Monday, April 1, and the Public Relations Student Society of America will sponsor a Pro-Am professional day in Lexington on Thursday, April 4, Henson said.

This will be ECU's fifth annual Mass Communications Week, Henson said.

Thursday's PRSSA "Pro-Am Day" will allow students to observe working public relations professionals in work settings.

The seminars are offered free and are open to the public, Henson said.

Persons interested in more information about ECU's Mass Communications Week should contact Linda S. Henson, 117 Donovan Annex, ECU, Richmond, Ky. 40475-0941, or call (606) 622-1871, or 622-1879.

"WHAT IS A SATURN"

Over the past couple of months, many news accounts have been published of local, state and community leaders traveling to Michigan to talk with General Motors about the location of the plant that will build the new "Saturn" line of General Motors cars.

There's a good reason for government leaders to be interested in this plant location—it will provide over 14,000 adequate wage jobs for the citizens of the area where the plant is located.

Shouldn't our local leaders have made a presentation so that our area could be considered? Of course they should. Floyd County has many positive attributes that could be presented to all firms interested in expanding or re-locating. A County development program is a must if we are to be considered for any type of employment industry.

We have a good solid labor force, we have an excellent community college, we have the finest state resort park in Kentucky, we have a fine library system, we have more major highways than any other part of East Kentucky, we have adequate energy sources, we are close to river transportation, we have newly developed commercial centers at Martin, Betsy Layne and in Prestonsburg and we have an active business community. Don't you think we could develop these positive attributes into a well defined, progressive presentation that could be presented to industrial prospects? Of course we can.

Economic development, providing jobs for our people, is a complex issue and we must compete with other areas both here in our area and throughout the Nation. We need competent, well trained leaders that can develop and present our case to prospective employers. James R. Allen has a law degree from the University of Kentucky and understands the complexities and importance of developing an economic development package that can present our area in a highly positive light to industrial concerns.

If Floyd County had had such a program to present to General Motors, would we have gotten the Saturn plant? Maybe—maybe not. One thing's for sure, we will never be considered for any type of plant location unless our local leaders understand the process of economic development and at least try. Over the past few years, the sewing factory, the shoe factory, Brown Produce, and other business concerns have left Floyd County taking with them hundreds of jobs that our people want and should have. Not only must we develop aggressive programs to recruit additional business concerns for our County, we must work with existing businesses to offer them the full cooperation and support of local government in expanding and staying with us. James R. Allen will be a strong advocate for Floyd County. He'll work to see that our area is considered equally when jobs are at stake. Vote for James R. Allen—it's a vote for jobs for our people.

Academic Boosters Club Assigns $1653 of Funds

The Academic Boosters Club of Wheelwright High School met March 11 in the high school library. After a successful money-raising venture at the recent district tournament, the group voted to spend the following amounts: $1,000 to the high school librarian to purchase needed supplies; $475 to the P.E. instructor to purchase equipment which will add to the curriculum; $100 to the chess team to meet partial expenses on their trip to Pulaski, Va.; $70 to fund an academic team which will compete in a history bowl at ECU on April 5; $9 to the guidance counselor to purchase a handbook.

The group voted also to begin work on the Computer Math room. Volunteers met March 16 to paint the room. The paint has been donated by alumni. Carpet will be purchased soon.

An announcement was made to the group concerning the placement of W.R. Jamerson as principal at Wheelwright. A plaque was presented to Ernie Johnson for his management of the fund raising projects that made the money available for the projects undertaken by the group.

Teachers are invited to submit their requests for materials to the club and each will be given consideration.

The club plans to submit a list of needs of the school to the Board of Education at the April meeting, and several members of the club will attend that meeting. Jean Rosenberg, a member of the Prichard Committee, and Delores Smith, a member of the Town Forum Planning Committee, visited the meeting and were very impressed with the activities of the group.

The Academic Boosters meet on the second Monday of each month in the high school library at 7 p.m. All concerned citizens and parents are urged to attend and to join.

Central Kentucky Blood Center To Begin HTLV Antibody Testing

Central Kentucky Blood Center last Friday began antibody testing of donor blood as mandated by the Food and Drug Administration. Central Kentucky Blood Center joins all blood collection agencies in the country as it implements the testing. The testing will be done in the Blood Center's laboratory at 330 Waller Avenue in Lexington. Testing will be done with existing equipment and staff.

though data is sparse, research shows that 99 percent of positive test results in a healthy population are false positive. As the test is used and data is gathered, additional tests may be developed.

The need to donate blood certainly still exists. At least 170 volunteer donors are needed daily to provide the blood for patients in southeastern and central Kentucky hospitals.

A positive reaction to the test only indicates that the individual may have been exposed at one time to the HTLV III virus. The virus is thought to be the apparent causative agent of AIDS and is just one of the viruses affecting patients diagnosed with AIDS. The test is not a test for AIDS.

In accordance with FDA requirements, if a donor's test results are positive for antibody to HTLV III, the unit will not be transfused and the donor will be indefinitely deferred. Even

Opposition Is Voiced To Jail for Drunks

Removing most criminal penalties for public intoxication would actually be cheaper than the current system of arrest and incarceration, lawmakers were told at Frankfort last week.

Ray Sabbatine, deputy jailer in Fayette county, said it was ironic that a bill removing incarceration as the penalty in most public intoxication cases had been delayed because of a lack of funding.

Sabbatine said the savings resulting from not putting intoxicated people in jail would more than offset the cost to counties of providing other programs for such people.

"They're very expensive to house (in jail)," Sabbatine told the Subcommittee on Human Services of the Interim Joint Committee on Health and Welfare.

A law to remove most criminal penalties for public intoxication was passed in 1980, but its implementation has been delayed repeatedly because of a lack of funding for the program.

Another bill that received some favorable consideration in the 1984 General Assembly was also shelved because there would be no money to put its provisions into effect.

But Diane Hague, executive director of the Jefferson County Alcohol and Drug Abuse Center, said such a position is shortsighted.

The 1984 bill would have made public intoxication a violation similar to a traffic ticket, with a fine for a penalty instead of incarceration.

The bill would have allowed police to take intoxicated people to the home of a relative, a shelter, or some other public facility rather than to jail.

Ms. Hague said putting someone in jail for a day costs $25. A day in a public detoxification center costs $90.

A night in a shelter, many of which are funded privately, costs $7 to $10, she said.

Many of the people who are most often arrested for public intoxication are chronic alcoholics only looking for a place to sleep and a meal, Ms. Hague said.

Jailing those people does no good because they will be out the next day and are likely to be arrested for the same offense, she said.

Sabbatine said Fayette county has some people who spend 300 days in jail a year for public intoxication.

Alternatives such as those in the 1984 bill are needed, he said.

Organize Strike Fund

A women's auxiliary has been formed to raise money for striking miners of Local 1741 and Local 1645. Sarah Jackson, secretary of the auxiliary said funds would be raised for future strikes as well as the current strike. Dewey Lake Club Fishing Contest Revised At Meet

The annual fishing contest was a main topic of discussion at the March meeting of the Dewey Lake Fish & Game Club with an increase in prizes and reduction in minimum limits the result.

Club President Chalmer Howard noted that last year's contest recorded only one entry, Gary Shepherd, of David, who won a reel valued at $25 and a graphite rod valued at $35 for his smallmouth bass and carp weigh-ins. There were no other entries in six other categories, apparently, he said, because other club members who had caught eligible fish may have felt that a larger fish of that species had already been registered.

To encourage increased participation in this year's competition, the club voted to increase prizes and lower the minimum size on several species. Waters in Pike and Johnson counties were also included along with Floyd county streams and reservoirs.

The eight divisions, size limits and prizes follow: largemouth bass, 15", $75 gift certificate; tiger musky, 30", Coleman cooler; smallmouth bass, 12", graphite fishing rod; walleye (a new category), 15", tackle box; white bass, 12", Stearn's fishing vest; crappie, 10", Garcia reel; bluegill, 7", Zebco 33 reel; catfish, 20", two-burner Coleman lantern; carp, 25", combination hunting-fishing license for 1986.

The contest, which runs from January 1, 1985 through December 31, 1985, applies to fish caught in waters of the three counties on hook and line by members of the Dewey Lake Fish & Game Club and all entries must be made on a special form furnished by the club to be certified by one of the club officials, conservation officer, or specified business places or other individuals. In case of a tie, the earliest entry will be judged the winner.

Membership is open to all, male or female, who pay the annual $5.00 membership dues. Meetings continue to be held the second Monday of each month at the Floyd County Courthouse.

ICC Gives Nod To Rail Removal

The Chessie System may begin removing nearly 93 miles of railroad track between Winchester and Coalton in Boyd county after April 18 under a ruling announced last week by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The commission's three-member panel, acting on a request by the railway, said it found no evidence that abandonment would adversely affect rural and community development along the corridor.

Towns that would lose rail service include Morehead, Mount Sterling, Olive Hill and such smaller communities as Rush in Boyd county and Hitchens and Soldier, both in Carter county.

Chessie, claiming ownership and operation of the line to be unprofitable, filed its application with the ICC on Sept. 28. The panel's review began in November.

Eighteen shippers and organizations opposed the plan, but the panel found that business on the line was just 2 percent of what it had been 10 years ago, said Dennis Watson, a commission spokesman.

The only action that would save the line would be for an individual or organization to provide financing to keep it open, Watson said.

"There was no concrete evidence on record that the line could be made profitable in the foreseeable future," Watson said.

Claims of adverse effect on rural and community development, as well as development of a proposed Ohio River port in Ashland, were not supported by evidence gathered by the commission, he said.

Even if protesters' predictions of increased future business along the corridor proved true, "it's uncertain how much of that business the railroad would get," Watson said.

The railroad runs parallel to Interstate 64, and the commission found that "trucks transport a large portion of the shippers' traffic," he said.

One ICC member, Paul H. Lamboley, dissented in part, saying he favored abandonment between Coalton and the Fleming county community of Ewing, a 74-mile stretch. But he thought the rest of the track should remain in place because of the line's proximity to the Lexington-Blue Grass Army Depot at Avon in eastern Fayette county.

ELECT
DAVID ALLEN BARBER
COUNTY ATTORNEY

Since becoming the Martin City Attorney in 1981, I have fought many court battles for the citizens of Martin. The most important have been related to the water restoration project. I am pleased to announce that construction bids are to be submitted in the very near future.

Martin was plagued with financial trouble when I took over as City Attorney. Services to the citizens were being cut because of the money problem. Today Martin's budget is in the black. Extra police protection has been added to protect citizens around the clock. A park/playground project is underway and the city is assisting Our Lady of The Way Hospital in locating land and constructing a helicopter pad for emergency patient services.

I have the experience necessary to serve the citizens of Floyd County and the desire to do so.

I WILL BE A FRUGAL COUNTY ATTORNEY WHO WILL WORK TO SEE THAT YOU GET A DOLLAR'S WORTH OF WORK AND SERVICE FOR EVERY ONE OF YOUR TAX DOLLARS.

Cocaine—Dangerous, Addictive

Cocaine is one of the most dangerous dependence-producing drugs. That's the word from the National Institute on Drug Abuse. According to the latest research, cocaine is just as dangerous as heroin. Both are powerful drugs that disrupt and ruin lives. And although few people realize it, cocaine can kill you.

One reason cocaine is so dangerous is that people underestimate its harmful effects. Researchers have found that a hungry animal will prefer cocaine to food. People who are addicted to cocaine cannot control their use of the drug even when their lives are falling apart.

Many people who experiment with cocaine end up with severe problems. No one who becomes addicted planned to or believed they would. After regular use, effects such as depression, fearfulness, and an inability to concentrate are common. Some people may act and feel paranoid and experience what is called "cocaine psychosis." Hallucinations of touch, sight, taste or smell may occur.

Overdose deaths from cocaine use can and do happen. Deaths can occur whether the drug is injected, smoked or snorted. Injecting the drug or smoking a form of the drug called freebase is especially dangerous.

According to a survey from the National Institute on Drug Abuse, the number of cocaine-related emergency visits from 1981-1983 increased 75 percent. Deaths are a result of multiple seizures and cardiac arrest.

For free booklets giving more information on the dangers of cocaine and other drugs, write to the National Clearinghouse for Drug Abuse Information, P.O. Box 416, Kensington, Maryland 20795.

'Victory Garden' Begins KET's Tenth Season

"The Victory Garden," a popular how-to growing and gardening series, begins the spring season with the inauguration of a Victory Garden West. The series airs on Sundays, beginning April 7, at 5:30 p.m. on KET.

Based in Newport Beach, California, at Roger's Gardens, which encompasses seven-and-one half acres of nursery, landscape and botanical displays, Victory Garden West segments will be hosted by Kathleen Brenzel, garden editor of Sunset, the magazine of western living. Brenzel joins host Bob Thomson and Victory Garden South host James Wilson as part of "The Victory Garden's" expanded horticultural team.

"Adding Victory Gardens South and West allows for an entire new dimension," says series host Bob Thomson. "We can show viewers plants, shrubs and trees they're not used to seeing in their own areas. We're really setting a precedent as a gardening series with a national scope."

The Victory Garden West will be designed to explore many of the problems encountered by gardeners with little available space and crowded, fast-paced lives. Brenzel will demonstrate low-maintenance, high-yield gardening techniques and introduce many of the region's indigenous crop varieties.

Victory Garden South—inaugurated in 1984 at Callaway Gardens in Pine Mountain, Georgia—will become a regular weekly feature of the series.

"The Victory Garden" is produced by WGBH/Boston.

American Cancer Society Designates Education Week

The American Cancer Society has designated April 8-14 as Colorectal Cancer Education Week in order to focus public attention on colorectal cancer, a frequent but highly curable form of cancer.

Colorectal cancer is a cancer of the colon (large intestine) or rectum. It is second to lung cancer in the number of new cases that will occur in Kentucky this year. It is estimated that, in 1985, 2,100 Kentuckians will develop colorectal cancer, and that 950 men and women in the state will die from the disease.

A physician conference or "Diagnosis and Treatment of Common Human Tumors" will be held April 10-13 in Lexington and a portion of the meeting will be devoted to a discussion of colorectal cancer. In addition, the Society's April residential drive will feature the distribution of a brochure on the disease.

When diagnosed at an early stage and treated promptly, colorectal cancer has a survival rate of 75 percent, according to the ACS. About the same number of men and women develop the disease and the likelihood increases with age, especially after age 50. Anyone with a personal or family history of colorectal cancer or polyps in the colon or rectum should be examined carefully.

During Colorectal Cancer Education Week, the American Cancer Society will explain three important tests for early detection of these cancers:

- 1) An annual digital rectal examination for people 40 and over.
- 2) An annual stool blood test for people 50 and over.
- 3) A "procto" examination for people 50 and over. This test should be administered every three to five years after two negative tests administered one year apart.

The warning signs for colorectal cancer are rectal bleeding, blood in the stool, constipation or diarrhea and abdominal discomfort.

Surgery is the primary treatment for colorectal cancer. Radiation and chemotherapy are sometimes used in combination with surgery.

Because of improvements in early detection and treatment and new techniques in surgery, only about 15 percent of people with cancer of the colon and rectum now require permanent colostomies.

Recapturing the Value Of Lost Landscape Plants

The American Association of Nurserymen says it is worth money for every homeowner to know what to do if trees or other landscape plants are damaged or destroyed by casualty.

Claiming the loss through insurance is the most common route and the quickest way to settle losses. Typical homeowners' insurance policies provide coverage for damage or loss to trees due to such events as fire, lightning, explosion, riot, civic commotion (anyone lost a box elder lately to civic commotion?) and malicious mischief.

If the loss is not covered by insurance (or if greater than the insurance will cover) a deduction might be claimed on a personal tax statement.

Whichever route a homeowner might take to regain financial value lost through casualty damage or destruction of trees or other landscape plants, it is important to arrange for a qualified appraisal by a competent tree, landscape or nursery consultant immediately after the damage occurs. The professional will know whether the item is replaceable or repairable, advise about possible action to preserve the planting, and suggest direction to pursue to recapture the financial loss.

Alice Lloyd College Gets Permit for FM Radio Station

Officials of Alice Lloyd College were notified last week by the Federal Communications Commission that their application for a construction permit for a non-commercial FM broadcast station at Pippa Passes has been approved.

The purpose of the station is to provide program service to the student body of Alice Lloyd College and the community it serves. The station will also provide training facilities in which students will become better aware of the communications industry through on-the-job experiences in a licensed studio.

It has been proposed that the educational FM station operate on a frequency of 91.7 MHz with a .9 effective radiating power. The studio and production facilities will likely be located in the newly renovated Community Service building, known as the Brown and Green building. Call letters for the station have not been assigned.

The college station will operate approximately seven hours a day, beginning at 3 p.m. and continuing until sign-off at 10:30 p.m. Week-day programming will include news, easy listening music, and community service programs. Sunday programming will include news, easy listening music, and programs of religious significance.

General manager of the new station will be James Silliman, who is presently director of public relations at the college. Mr. Silliman has done graduate study in instructional communications and has taught courses in television production. He also has experience as an announcer with WGLG, the station at Emory and Henry College. Last year he produced the community service program, "On Campus," which was aired on WKCB.

Said College President Jerry C. Davis: "We hope to have this new station in operation by the opening of school next Fall. I feel this station will be an asset to the community; it will allow us to keep the community more informed of the events and issues facing the College on a day-to-day basis. Because we will be utilizing student resources, it will offer an opportunity for students to put to good use what they are learning in the classroom."

THE COMFORT OF A GAS FURNACE.

Good news...you can have gas heat without a lot of expensive home alterations.

That's because some of the new high-efficiency gas furnaces vent through the wall, and don't need a chimney. So they can be installed easily — and in so little time, you can have it done on a cold winter day and never feel a chill.

THAT'S RIGHT,
NO CHIMNEY!

Sound good? It gets better. A new high-efficiency model uses as much as 30% less energy — even as it keeps your home warm and cozy. Check with a heating dealer on availability of these new side wall-venting units. You may find there's a welcome shortcut to having the comfort, efficiency and dependability of gas heat in your home.

NUMB ARMS, LEGS
Warning Signals

There may be misalignment of vertebrae in the spine causing pressure on nerves, yet the patient experiences no pain in the back. Instead, a variety of sensations may be felt in other parts of the body. These include tingling, tightness, hot spots, cold spots, crawling sensations, electric shock sensations, stinging, burning, and others.

The following nine symptoms involving back pain or strange sensations are often the forerunners or more serious conditions. Any one of these may spell back trouble.

(1) Paresthesias (see above) (2) Headaches (3) Painful joints (4) Numbness in the arms or hands (5) Loss of sleep (6) Stiffness in the neck (7) Pain between the shoulders (8) Stiffness or pain in lower back (9) Numbness or pain in the legs.

These signals may indicate your body is being robbed of normal nerve function. Until this function is restored, you will, in some degree, be incapacitated. TO ALL FLOYD COUNTIANS IN MAGISTERIAL DISTRICT NO. 2:

There are reasons why our county and especially Dist. No. 2 has not made significant strides in its overall general well-being. The time has come, when WE Must decide whether WE want the best that is available or are WE content to accept and be satisfied with, Services that OUR voice has no say-so in.

One of my objectives in seeking the office of Magistrate is simply to return the office to YOU, the tax-paying citizen, who should have an input in making decisions concerning Floyd County. I am not a Politician nor do I pretend to be. I am a Professional person who feels that our county has not progressed as it should have. The Magistrate's office is not the whole answer to our problems as such, but it is a positive step in a NEW DIRECTION.

My Christian belief will not allow me to be influenced in any manner that does not treat my fellow man EQUAL, and put forth the effort to see that each person receive the QUALITY of service that they so richly deserve. Ground Is Broken For New Welding Facility

Kentucky Welding Supply, in conjunction with Linde Gas Products, broke ground Friday near the intersection of new KY 80 and US 23 for a major distribution-compressed gas center. The proposed 15,000-sq.-ft. distribution center will headquarter the company's Eastern operations and will include more than $1,000,000 in inventory. The facility will be the focal point for sales and deliveries in the Eastern Kentucky area and, when completed, according to a company press release, be "the most modern welding supply operation in this part of the country."

Kentucky Welding Supply, formerly R. V. May Company, expects an August 1 completion date with a grand opening in September.

$550 Million in Bonds Issued For Industrial Development

Industrial development bonds (IDBs) totaling $550 million were allocated during the first year of the Governor Martha Layne Collins' administration to spur economic development and control pollution.

Governor Collins said that about half the bonds were for new factories and commercial facilities which created 5,032 new permanent jobs.

The other bonds are earmarked for pollution control facilities at three large coal-burning electrical power plants, Governor Collins said.

"We're developing the economy, providing jobs for people, promoting the use of Kentucky coal and getting a cleaner, healthier environment all at the same time," Governor Collins said.

The bonds were the first to be allocated through the Kentucky Industrial Development Bond Allocation Committee (KIDBAC), which was appointed by Governor Collins last summer.

The committee was appointed as a result of the limits placed by the federal Deficit Reduction Act of 1984 on issuance of industrial revenue bonds by state and local governments.

The annual limit on "private activity" bonds (as opposed to revenue bonds issued by public agencies for roads, etc.) were $150 for each resident of a state. Under that formula, Kentucky's 1984 limit was $550,050,000.

Governor Collins said that the committee allocated the bonds among state agencies and local governments on a modified "first come, first serve" basis.

Among the applicants were 17 municipalities, 9 counties and 2 state agencies. The largest single authorization was to the Kentucky Development Finance Authority (KDFFA) for $160 million in bonds for the new United Parcel Service (UPS) facility at Louisville's Standiford Field.

Other projects in Jefferson county accounted for $44.3 million. The northern Kentucky area accounted for $16 million.

Of total bonds allowed to be issued in Kentucky $258 million have been sold. The remainder, primarily for the pollution control projects, will be sold in 1985 under federal provisions which allow unused portions of one year's allocation to be used in the next year.

A Busy Spring At Alice Lloyd

Pippa Passes, Ky.—The Spring months are probably the busiest months in the academic calendar at Alice Lloyd College. Aside from regularly scheduled classes, convocations and ball games, there are several special events in the Spring.

The Core examination of the National Teachers Exam (NTE) will be administered Saturday, March 30; the Specific Area exam of the NTE, on Saturday, April 20; the general and specific areas of the Graduate Record Exam (GRE), on Saturday, April 13. All these exams will be administered in LCR No. 1 of the McGaw Library and Learning Center.

The annual Miss ALC Pageant will be held at 8 p.m., Thursday, April 11, in the Ralph Edwards Auditorium of the McGaw Library and Learning Center. The theme for the Miss ALC Pageant will be "You Are My Inspiration."

The Spring formal dance will be held April 18, in the Grady Nutt Athletic Center Gymnasium, starting at 8:30 p.m. The theme for this year's dance will be, "I Can't Fight This Feeling."

During the week of April 22, students will be pre-registering for fall 1985. Students should meet with their advisors to arrange their academic schedule for next fall.

The Honors Banquet will be held at 6 p.m., Thursday, April 25, in Hunger Din of the June Buchanan Alumni Center, to honor students who have excelled in academics and work-study during the current year.

How East Ky. Coal Benefits Other States

Folks in Indiana enjoyed the benefits of eastern Kentucky coal during 1984. And so did Ohioans. And West Virginians. And, of course, eastern Kentuckians themselves.

Nearly five million tons of Kentucky coal were purchased during 1984 for use at seven electric generating stations operated by the American Electric Power System or for which coal is procured by AEP.

"And less than half of it was bought for Big Sandy Plant to supply the needs of eastern Kentuckians," Robert E. Matthews, president of Kentucky Power, said. Kentucky Power is one of eight operating companies in the AEP System.

Matthews added that in addition to outright coal purchases, portions of the electricity generated at Big Sandy Plant were shipped to customers in other states because eastern Kentuckians did not need all of it. "This was electricity generated with eastern Kentucky coal. What we were doing was exporting additional amounts of eastern Kentucky coal—by wire. In the last ten years we have exported about 5 million tons of coal by wire from the Big Sandy Plant."

He added: "These actions are nothing new—we have been doing it for years. Unfortunately, this major contribution to the coal industry of eastern Kentucky, and to the overall economic wellbeing of the region, is at times overlooked by some. In some years, our total purchases of Kentucky coal have run higher than those of 1984, because purchases vary according to plant needs, prices, contract terms, and other factors. But always, we have bought far more Kentucky coal than is needed to supply electricity to eastern Kentucky," Matthews stated.

He said that included in the 1984 AEP purchases were: 1,911,000 tons delivered to Big Sandy Plant at Louisa, and nearly 3-million tons to plants in other states either owned by AEP companies or for which AEP procures coal.

"Our continuing commitment to eastern Kentucky coal—not just for Kentucky Power customers, but for those of other companies too—is well-known by most people. 1984's figures are another reminder of that fact," Matthews concluded.

DRIFT WOMANS CLUB MEETS

The GFWC/KFWC Drift Woman's Club met at the Drift clubhouse March 18 with the president, Miss Ruby Akers, presiding.

The following activities of the club were announced for March and April. The KFWC Spring Student Art and Music Contest at Whitesburg, March 30; Appreciation dinner, March 30; Allen Woman's Club inter-club meeting, April 2; Ombudsmen training workshop, April 12 at Drift Woman's club house; Drift Woman's Club inter-club meeting, April 15, Drift clubhouse; Bike-A-Thon for St. Jude, April 20 at Drift.

Miss Barbara Whitt, of the Kentucky Central Blood Center, spoke on the need for donors for the blood drive at McDowell High School, May 2.

Mrs. Mildred Salisbury, International Affairs chairman, presented the program on International Affairs. She stressed the need for helping alleviate hunger, illiteracy and poverty through projects that will aid the world's citizens to become self-sufficient.

Mrs. Cecelia Little, hostess, served refreshments to Miss Barbara Whitt, Ruby Akers, Mrs. Cheryl Hall, Mrs. Mildred Salisbury, Mrs. Doris Ann Lawson, Mrs. Anna Sue Stumbo and Mrs. Jerri Turner.

Named to Golden 100

Chris Holbrook, honor student at Wheelwright High School, has been nominated for the Golden 100, a group of the most outstanding high school juniors in Kentucky.

Successful nominees for the Golden 100 competed in an academic contest
 March 3 and 4 at Murray State University. The competition was in English, mathematics, natural science and social service.

Nomination to the Golden 100 is open to qualified juniors from all accredited Kentucky high schools. Mrs. Jesse Stuart, of Greenup county, is the committee's honorary chairman.

Members of the Golden 100 who earn top scores in the academic contest will receive trophies. Their high schools will receive plaques for permanent display.
 Students who write outstanding entry essays will also receive awards.

Holbrook, is the grandson of Elford and Mary Holbrook of Bevinville. His high school honors and activities have included a 3.8 average at present, participant in Close-Up (1985), participant in academic spelling bee (1984), nominee for National Math Award (1985), Honor
 Roll throughout high school to date.

Parks To Take Orders
For Prints of Painting

Gift shops at the 15 state resort parks and My Old Kentucky Home State Park will soon begin taking orders for limited-edition prints of the painting that graces the state's first waterfowl stamp.

Two Tourism Cabinet agencies, the Department of Parks and the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, are joining hands to promote the stamp.
 Tourism Secretary Wendell Combs said,
 "An important advantage of having a cabinet is that its agencies discover ways to explore projects of mutual interest. In this instance, both agencies benefit from the stamp's sale."

Famed wildlife artist Ray Harm was commissioned by a waterfowl conservation group, Ducks Unlimited, to render a painting for the waterfowl stamp. The artwork depicts two mallard ducks flying through early morning haze.

A large portion of sales from the print will benefit Ducks Unlimited. The stamp itself will raise money for waterfowl research, management programs, and habitat acquisition.

It's said that the frankfurter was first made in Germany during the Middle Ages.

National Award Winner

The United States Achievement Academy has announced that Steve Layne has been named a 1985 United States National Award winner in English.

Layne, who attends Allen Central High School was nominated for the award by Leona V. Fouts, English instructor at the school. He also has been selected for the USNBA band award.

The student is the son of Bert and Janice Layne, of Eastern, and the grandson of Gliden and Rosa Bradley, of Wayland, and Taylor Layne, of Manton, and the late Martha Layne.

Private Sewer Systems Now Require Permits

Most Kentucky farmowners may not know it, but a state permit is required when private sewage systems are installed. Officials of the Kentucky Department for Health Services want the public to be aware of the requirement and that the permits are available through local and district health departments.

Don Dixon, supervisor of the department's Environmental Sanitation Section, said such permits for rural houses on farms with private water supplies were not required prior to 1982 because, under the state plumbing laws, such residences were exempt.

"That year the General Assembly passed a law that stated onsite sewage disposal systems were not considered plumbing," Dixon said. "Responsibility for the systems was switched from the Department for Housing, Buildings and Construction to the Health Services Department and, in effect, eliminated the exemption from the permit requirement."

"The ruling will have the greatest effect on people who are not served by a water district and have to install a private sewage disposal and water supply system," said Dixon. "That averages about 200-300 systems per year, or roughly between one and two percent of the total systems installed."

He added that each county or district health department has a certified inspector who can inspect the systems and issue certificates of approval. He called the program "a good investment for the farmowner."

"This program assures the farmowner an onsite sewage system has a better chance to work," said Dixon. "If it isn't inspected, the owner may wind up with a substandard system and that could mean more trouble than having a certified system installed."

He warned that a faulty system could begin leaking and contaminate the farmowner's water supply and, quite possibly, the supplies of their neighbors.

"Our program is designed to ensure that proper onsite sewage systems are installed," said Dixon, "but it also protects the farmowner from contamination caused by a faulty system."

Realtors Sponsor Essay Contests For Students and Senior Citizens

Private Property Week will be observed this year from April 28 to May 4, and the Big Sandy Board of Realtors is celebrating the week with two essay contests—one for high school juniors and seniors and the other for senior citizens.

Both contests are open to students and senior citizens of Floyd, Pike and Johnson counties. The essay subject for both groups of contestants is, "How Becoming a Homeowner Can Give Me a Voice in America's Future."

Prizes for student-winners will be $150 and a plaque for first place, $100 second, and $75 third. Awards to winning senior citizens will be $125 for first place, $75 for second, and $50 third.

Rules for the student contest follow: Essays must adhere to the topic theme. Maximum number of words is 1,500.

All entries must be submitted to Mazola Lynn Salmons, Prestonsburg Community College, no later than 2 p.m., April 17.

All entries must be typed double-spaced on white paper, and must cite sources of material—books, periodicals, personal interviews, etc.

The winning essays will be determined by a panel of judges whose decision is final. All essays become the property of the Big Sandy Board of Realtors which may publish them as it sees fit. The immediate families of current members of the Big Sandy Board of Realtors are not eligible to enter this contest.

The essay winning first place locally will be entered in state competitions, and the state winner will be entered in national competition.

In the senior citizens' contest participants must be at least 62 years of age. Essays must have a minimum of 400 words but no longer than 500 words, and must adhere to the topic theme.

Anyone holding a real estate license is not eligible to participate, nor are the immediate families of the current members of the Big Sandy Board of Realtors.

Entries may be typed or handwritten and will be judged on content alone: feelings and thoughts behind ideas, not grammar and punctuation.

The winning essays will be determined by a panel of judges whose decision is final and will become the property of the Big Sandy Board of Realtors, which may publish them as it sees fit.

All entries must be submitted no later than Wednesday, April 17 to:

Senior Citizen Essay Contest, Big Sandy Board of Realtors, P.O. Box 44, Paintsville, Ky. 41240.

(For further information, call Mazola Salmons at Prestonsburg Community College, 886-3863.)

Kentucky Fishing Report

Unstable weather conditions and water temperatures in the mid 40's to low 50's resulted in mixed fishing conditions throughout the state during the March 16-17 period covered by this report. The lake-by-lake rundown, as reported by conservation officers at each lake, is as follows:

KENTUCKY: Officer Willard Browning reported light fishing activity with crappie being caught by still fishing and drifting over submerged cover, on minnows in 15 feet of water. He also reported light fishing activity for bass by casting with crankbaits off rocky points and over dropoffs in 8-10 feet of water. The lake was murky to muddy, stable at five feet below summer pool and 44°.

BARKLEY: Moderate fishing activity was reported by officer Ronald White. Crappie were being taken in 10-20 feet of water by still fishing over dropoffs with minnows. Bass were being caught off rocky points by casting deep running crankbaits, while in the tailwaters, crappie and sauger were being caught by casting jigs. The lake was clear to murky, stable, five feet below summer pool and 51°.

BARREN: Officer Donald Depp reported light fishing activity. Bass were being caught by casting crankbaits, and jig and pork rind combinations over steep banks. Crappie were being taken by still fishing minnows and jigs in 4-10 feet of water over stickups. A few white bass were beginning to move into the headwaters. The lake was murky to muddy, stable, and 26 feet below summer pool and 54°.

NOLIN: Moderate fishing activity was reported by officers Sammy Renfro and James Shipp. Crappie were being taken by still fishing with minnows and jigs over stickups in 10-12 feet of water in the lower lake, and by casting jigs in the headwater feeder creeks. Bass were being caught throughout the lake by casting crankbaits over shallow points and banks. The lake is muddy to murky in the headwaters and clear in the lower section, 18 feet below summer pool, rising and 54°.

ROUGH RIVER: Officer Harold Belt reported moderate fishing activity on weekends. Crappie were being caught throughout the lake, and the tailwaters. In the old river channel, they were being taken in shallow water from the banks by casting jigs and minnows, and in the main lake by still fishing minnows over stickups, stumps and submerged treetops in 6-10 feet of water. The lake is muddy upstream, and clear to murky at the dam, 23 feet below summer pool, and rising at 54°.

TAYLORSVILLE: Officer John Wells reported moderate to heavy fishing activity with only a few bass and crappie being caught by anglers in the main lake. Crappie and small catfish were being taken from the tailwaters. Bass were being caught by casting jigs at the heads of feeder creeks, and crappie by stillfishing and drifting jigs and minnows over stickups and brush in submerged creek channels. The lake is murky, stable and one foot below summer pool at 45°.

HERRINGTON: Moderate fishing activity was reported by officer Charles Goode. Bass were being caught in the shallow headwaters by casting artificial lures and still fishing live nightcrawlers. The lake was reported clear, stable, and three feet below summer pool at 50°.

GREEN RIVER: No report available.
CUMBERLAND: Light fishing activity was reported by officers Randy Wilson and Fred York. Crappie are being caught in 6-12 feet of water by still fishing small minnows over submerged treetops and deadfalls. Black bass and white bass are being taken in the headwaters of embayments by casting jigs and spinners. High discharge volumes below the dam hampered fishing for trout in the tailwaters. The lake was reported clear and rising 10 feet below summer pool, 46° in the main lake and 48° in the headwaters.

DALE HOLLOW: Officer Marvin Edwards reported light fishing activity. Bass were being taken by casting and drift fishing large minnows off deep rocky points and channel dropoffs. Crappie were being taken by still fishing small minnows and jigs over submerged treetops in 10-12 feet of water. The lake was clear, stable and three feet below summer pool at 48°.

CAVE RUN: Officer Mike Giliam reported light fishing activity. Crappie were being caught on minnows by still fishing in deep coves. In the upper lake, and in timbered embayments, muskies were being taken by casting crankbaits, and black bass were being taken by jigging/flippin'. The lake was murky and falling slowly just below summer pool at 42°.

BUCKHORN: Light to heavy fishing activity was reported by officer Bill Braswell. Black bass were caught in the lower end of the lake by jigging over stump beds and points, while in the headwaters, crappie and white bass were being taken by casting and still fishing minnows and spinners. Tailwater activity was heavy with white bass and crappie being caught on minnows and spinners. The lake was clear to murky, two feet below summer pool, and stable at 50°.

GRAYSON: Officer Jeff Adams reported light fishing activity. Crappie were being caught by still fishing minnows in 6-8 feet of water over brush stickups. Bass were being taken by casting rocky points with crankbaits. No tailwater activity due to heavy discharge. The lake was muddy, stable, and three feet below summer pool at 42°.

DEWEY: Officer Dalton Conley reported light fishing activity due to bad weather and poor launch conditions. Bass were being caught by casting points on the main lake with crankbaits. The lake is stable, clear, five feet below summer pool and no temperature was available.

FISHTRAP: Light fishing activity was reported by officer Don Bevens. Crappie were being taken in 4-5 feet of water by still fishing minnows over brush stickups. Channel catfish were being caught on cut bait and liver. In the tailwaters, crappie and trout fishing activity was light due to heavy discharge. The lake was reported clear to dingy, stable, 32 feet below summer pool and 50°.

Mike Minix Stars Again

By MIKE FIELDS

(In The Lexington Herald-Leader)
Michael Bryan Minix was and is an outstanding athlete for Paintsville High School.

Huh?
Don't be confused. It's just a case of the past meeting the present, a father's athletic excellence being repeated by his son.

Mike Minix Jr. was on center stage yesterday in the Boys' State Basketball Tournament. The 6-foot-1 sophomore guard was the catalyst as Paintsville outlasted Washington County 54-51 in the first round of the Sweet Sixteen at Rupp Arena. Minix, an acrobat on the fast break, hit eight of 10 shots and led the winners with 16 points.

Up in the stands, Dr. Mike Minix Sr., an ophthalmologist, watched proudly as he cradled his 6-week-old daughter in one arm and his 6-week-old grandson in the other.

"When you're an athlete, you've got that adrenal gland working overtime," he said. "And mine still kicks into gear when I'm involved in something like this with my son."

Twenty-four years ago the elder Minix was involved in everything at Paintsville High. Besides being an excellent student, he was a star in every sport he tried, especially football, baseball and basketball. Some people say he's still the best athlete ever to come out of the Johnson County school.

He scored 42 touchdowns in one football season and gained more than 2,400 yards as an all-state halfback. For a time he held the state's career scoring record of 618 points.

He wound up at UK and was projected to be a standout quarterback under Coach Blanton Collier.

But then Collier left and Charlie Bradshaw took over the Wildcats. There was a mass exodus of players, including Minix, which left Bradshaw with his "Thin Thirty" UK squad.

"The hours we had under Bradshaw were not conducive to studying," said Minix, whose No. 1 priority was academics. "He wanted to show films all night long and that sort of thing. A lot of us didn't think that was right so we gave up football for the books. And it seems like a lot of us turned out to be doctors and lawyers."

Giving up football cold turkey was tough on Minix, who had feasted on athletics all his life.

"It was very difficult," he said, "but I survived."

And now he can sit back and watch his son, blessed with the same natural ability, excel in sports.

"The greatest thrill is seeing him play in the Sweet Sixteen," Papa Minix said. "Of all the sports shows anywhere, the Sweet Sixteen is the greatest show on earth. I really mean that. This is the best."

Mike Minix Jr. not only shines in basketball, but also baseball. He has played outfield for the Tigers since he was an eighth-grader. Last year as a freshman he set a school record with a .476 batting average.

Benefits Of Concern To Women

By JIM KELLY
 Social Security District Director,
 Big Sandy Area

Improvements in Social Security protection for women in recent years may have escaped the notice of many women concerned about their Social Security coverage. The 1983 Social Security amendments contain several provisions which should be noted. Although they are not based on sex as such, the provisions are likely to affect more women than men and, in fact, recognize the difference in protection that may result from the spouse's role as a homemaker, divorcee or widow.

Beginning January 1, 1985, for example, an eligible divorced spouse age 62 or over will be able to receive benefits on the earnings of a former spouse who is eligible for retirement benefits, regardless of whether the former spouse has applied for benefits or has benefits withheld under the earnings test provided they have been divorced for at least 2 years and prior to the divorce they had been married for at least 10 years. Under prior law a divorced spouse could not qualify for dependent's benefits based on the earnings of a former spouse until the former spouse had filed an application for benefits. A divorced spouse could have some or all of his or her benefits withheld, if the former spouse continued to work and earn over the annual earnings limit after entitlement to benefits. Other changes in the 1983 amendments of concern to women include:

- Provides for continuation of benefits to surviving divorced spouses, disabled surviving divorced spouses, and disabled widows and widowers who remarry after entitlement to benefits. Under the law, benefits are payable to widows, widowers, or surviving divorced spouses at age 60 or older on the record of a deceased spouse. Benefits are also payable as early as age 50 to disabled widows and widowers and disabled surviving divorced spouses. Under prior law, remarriage prior to age 60, to other than certain other Social Security beneficiaries, terminated benefits for disabled or divorced disabled widows and widowers. Remarriage of a surviving divorced spouse after age 60 to anyone was a cause for termination of benefits. Under the new law, benefits for these individuals will not terminate if they remarry.

Benefits for disabled widows or widowers, and disabled surviving divorced spouses are now computed by the same formula applied to benefits for widows and widowers and surviving divorced spouses at age 60, producing a benefit equal to 71½ percent instead of 50 percent of the deceased worker's benefit at age 50. There will no longer be a benefit reduction for entitlement to benefits prior to age 60.

People who need more information about provisions of the Social Security law that affect women should call the nearest Social Security Office.

4-H Scholarships Aimed at Benefitting Minority Students

A new national 4-H scholarship program, designed to help minority 4-H members who want to pursue a career in agriculture, has been established with funding from E.I. duPont de Nemours & Co., officials with the state 4-H at the University of Kentucky announced this week.

Ten four-year scholarships of $1,000 per year will be awarded to minority 4-H members who will be seniors in high school next fall, said Anna Lucas, 4-H program specialist with the Cooperative Extension Service.

Rules specify that applicants must be planning to major in agriculture or a closely related field at a land-grant institution such as the University of Kentucky.

To be eligible for the scholarship, candidates must have completed at least one year of 4-H work and must demonstrate citizenship and leadership skills. They also must have proven academic ability and be accepted to attend a land-grant university with enrollment in the College of Agriculture or its affiliate departments.

Lucas said the five-year program is designed to expand the number of minority professionals working in the agricultural industry.

4-H, which involves nearly 4.5 million boys and girls nationwide, is the youth program of the Cooperative Extension Service of state land-grant universities and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. For more information on this minority scholarship program, contact the county Extension office or the 4-H office at the University of Kentucky.

CANKER AND MOUTH SORES

Millions of men, women and children regularly suffer the annoyance and discomfort of mouth and canker sores. While the exact cause has not been determined, research is underway to expand our knowledge of their origin and possible treatment. Canker sores generally last from one to twenty-one days, tend to be recurrent and rarely leave scars. Canker sores are also known by the medical term "aphthous stomatitis". They are tiny round or oval ulcers and are usually grayish white with a bright red ridge. They form inside the mouth and frequently appear in groups. "Herpes simplex" is a completely different disease than aphthous stomatitis. Although it may occasionally look like a canker sore, herpes simplex is now known to be an unrelated viral infection. Canker sores can be soothed with medication.

As an expert in drugs and medications you should seek your pharmacist's advice when looking for a non-prescription medication. This is particularly important if you are taking more than one medicine at a time whether they are prescription or non-prescription. Your pharmacist at COOLEY APOTHECARY is always ready with professional advice when you need it. For everyday low prices on over the counter remedies and prescription medications rely on us. WAYLAND CLUBWOMEN MEET

The Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club met Monday evening, March 18, in the home of Mrs. James E. Martin, Wayland, with the club president, Mrs. Marie Mullins, in charge of the program on "International Affairs."

Mrs. Mullins passed out literature and spoke on various projects which the club might become involved in that would further friendship around the world, thus helping to develop peace among the nations. She explained the International Book Project, which entails sending books, magazines, or other publications which have been published within the last 20 years to nations where needed. She also spoke on "Save the Children" and mentioned the General Federation of Women's Club's project of clubmembers volunteering to play host to foreign students for a limited time, during which time the visiting student becomes a member of the American family in whose home he or she is a guest.

Mrs. Libby Martin displayed various handcrafted articles that her son, James E. Martin, had made, some of which were decorated with floral designs by her other son, Mack Webb Martin. Mrs. Martin's delayed program on "Art" will be given next month along with the program scheduled previously to be given by Mrs. Elizabeth Duff on "Conservation", the club being two month's behind in its programs due to the winter's unusually inclement weather.

Prior to the program, Mrs. Marcella Bradley conducted devotions.

During the business portion of the meeting the president announced that 22 dozen cup cakes were baked and delivered by clubmembers to the Golden Years Rest Home in February. She also made announcements of various spring meetings at state and district level and an invitation by the Allen Woman's Club to an inter-club dinner on April 2. She advised also that the club would have entries in the art division of the spring contests at Whitesburg, Saturday, March 30. And she reminded the club that it is due to plant a coffee tree this spring in keeping with the Federation's project of planting the state's tree on school campuses.

After some discussion of the current problems being experienced by the local fire departments, Wayland-Garrett, it was voted to raise the club's annual contribution by $50 to each department.

Following the meeting refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. James E. Martin and Mrs. Libby Martin, to Mrs. Marie Mullins, Mrs. Louise West, Mrs. Marcella Bradley, Mrs. LaFaye Hughes, Mrs. Blanche Bamer, and Mrs. Lula Coburn.

The next club meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Joyce Stevens, Garrett, on April 15.

Dropout Prevention Is Aim

Raising the compulsory school attendance age from 16 to 18, or graduation, is one of 21 recommendations from the Dropout Prevention Advisory Commission.

Before that change goes into effect, however, the General Assembly should provide funds for alternative programs for students most likely to become school dropouts, the panel recommended at a meeting in Frankfort, March 18.

The commission recommended that the age change be made in the 1990-91 school year and that funds be sought from the General Assembly in 1986 and 1988 to enable local school districts to develop dropout-prevention programs and special services for potential dropouts.

"Raising the age to 18 will not solve the problem alone," said Wandel Strange, the commission chairman and superintendent of the Hart County schools. "We need new money to provide the necessary programs and services along with changing the law."

The commission's recommendations will go to Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald, who appointed the group last year in response to legislation approved by the 1984 General Assembly. The recommendations will be considered as McDonald and the Department of Education develop a legislative package for 1986.

State law now requires school attendance to age 18 unless parents give written permission for students who are 16 or 17 to drop out of school.

Other major proposals from the commission include:

* Requiring the State Board of Education and local school boards to follow up on all dropouts at six months and 12 months to determine whether it is feasible for them to re-enter school.

* Providing funds for local school districts to hire qualified personnel to address the special social and emotional needs of all children, giving first priority to those students identified as potential dropouts. The extra staff members would include guidance counselors.

school social workers and psychologists, at a ratio of one for every 250 students.

* Requiring every local school district, as a condition of accreditation, to devise a specific, written dropout-prevention strategy in all schools.

* Requiring the Department of Education and the Cabinet for Human Resources to develop a statewide public awareness campaign to educate all Kentuckians about the prevention of school dropouts.

* Expanding the remedial program now offered to students in the first and second grades to the third and fourth grades. The commission recommended that funds for an expanded remedial program be sought from the 1986 General Assembly.

Dr. Joyce Completes Academy Requirement

Dr. Ellen Joyce, of the Mud Creek Clinic, has completed continuing education requirements to retain active membership in the American Academy of Family Physicians, the national association of family doctors. The Academy formerly was called the American Academy of General Practice.

The requirements call for members to complete a minimum of 150 hours of accredited continuing medical study every three years. The Academy was the first national medical group to require members to keep up with medical progress through continuing education. Because of their broad training, family physicians have the "know how" to treat approximately 90 percent of all human illnesses.

McPeeks Observe 25th Anniversary

Patricia McCoy McPeek, daughter of the late Dockie McCoy and Alma McCoy, of Wheelwright, and Fred McPeek, son of the late Jake and Irene McPeek, of Elkhorn City, Ky., renewed their wedding vows on Dec. 29, at 3 o'clock in Pickerington, Ohio at the Pickerington Freewill Baptist Church. Performing the ceremony was Louis Ferrari, pastor of the Wheelwright Freewill Baptist Church. Accompanying Mrs. McPeek was her mother, Alma McCoy and friend, Frances Ford. Accompanying Mr. McPeek were their two sons, David and Kenneth McPeek.

The pianist was Erin Prichard, of Zanesville, Ohio. Special music was by Dena Walker, of Baltimore, Ohio. Omega Wolford, sister of Mrs. McPeek, presided at the guest book.

A reception followed the ceremony at the couple's home in Pataskala, Ohio.

HOMEMAKERS MEET

The Abbott Homemakers met Tuesday evening, March 12, at the church annex, with Mrs. Sharon Sparr, president, presiding. Mrs. Frances Pitts gave the lesson on "Catalog Shopping." Mrs. Pitts listed the workshops to be held during the month of March. Mrs. Sparr welcomed a new member, Mrs. Jeanette Hall.

Following the meeting, Mrs. Eukie Merritt was surprised by being presented a decorated birthday cake, made by her sister, Mrs. Mary Katherine Music, which was served with ice cream and soft drinks to: the honoree, Mesdames Frances Pitts, Sharon Sparr, Mary Katherine Music, Ethel Ratliff, Grace Conley, Mary Lynn Crisp, Mollie Prater, Mary Creed, Denise Creed, Ruby Frasure, Melissa Justice, Christine Ross, Kari Ross and Jeanette Hall.

The next meeting will be Tuesday evening April 9, at the church annex. Mrs. Eukie Merritt will serve as hostess, and the lesson will be on "Insurance."

In 1977, a lonely moose, suffering from unrequited love, was known to wander a thousand miles from his northern Minnesota home in quest for romance, reports National Wildlife magazine. Along the way, the moose attracted throngs of human admirers, but it's believed not a single female companion, before returning to his old stomping grounds.

in Cow Creek, Middle Creek or Auxier? (We need to establish a volunteer fire department in the Abbott/Cliff area—Now.) Ask any member of the Prestonsburg Fire Dept. how much help Bill Ray Collins has been to their Dept. while serving for six years on the City Council. Our District needs a full-time Magistrate that knows something about the fire departments in our district. Someone that knows about firemen and fire fighting equipment. Someone that has fought fire, breathed hot smoke, and worked soaking wet to put a fire out. I have served 10 years as a volunteer fireman. In the near future, insurance on your home and on your property may depend on how close you live to a modern, well-equipped volunteer fire department. Repairing the roads and strengthening the Fire Departments are my priorities. Plain and simple.

Pike College Names New Women's Coach

Athletic Director Paul Butcher has announced that Kevin Caldwell, assistant coach of the Pikeville College Bears basketball team, will assume coaching duties for the Lady Bears team. After the resignation of Coach Carolyn Hall, the Office of Student Affairs conducted a search for a new coach. According to Assistant Vice President Dr. Robert Como, Caldwell was chosen because of his academic background and familiarity with the basketball program at the college. In the words of Coach Butcher, "In screening the applications, we feel we have come up with a very capable young man. The enthusiasm he displays will carry over to his players and make the games even more exciting to see."

Caldwell played high school basketball for Mullens High School in Mullens, West Virginia. He attended Alderson-Broadus College on a full athletic scholarship. After graduating from college he was contacted by Pikeville College Coach Greg White and offered the position of assistant coach to the struggling Bears basketball team. In that position, Caldwell has had responsibility for team conditioning and seeing that the ball players maintain the required grade point average. Those responsibilities will now be extended, along with others like recruitment and discipline, to the Lady Bears team.

One of the most immediate concerns for the new coach is recruiting. He says, "I plan to do most of my recruiting in eastern Kentucky and southern West Virginia, particularly certain players at Pike High, Belfry, Johnson Central, and Whitesburg High Schools. I'm in the process of setting up appointments with them now."

"As far as those returning from last year's team," he continues, "There's a good nucleus—with KIAC Player of the Year Colette Jarrell and Bernie Burke, among others. I feel that we can compete with the best in the league. We have a fast-paced offense and a pressure defense. And definitely we will be running fast breaks as much as possible."

In addition to being the head coach of the Lady Bears team, Caldwell will continue to function as the assistant coach to White's Bears.

CARD OF THANKS

We, Clarence and Irene Turner, would like to gratefully acknowledge the thoughtfulness and kindness of friends, relatives and neighbors during the passing of Bessie Swindall. We would like to thank everyone who sent food, flowers, prayers or just spoke comforting words. We are especially grateful to the members of the First Baptist Church in McDowell, and the minister, Ralph Turner, for his comforting and wonderful service, and also the Hail Funeral Home for its efficient service.

Electrical safety begins at home.

Electricity is so dependable and so much a part of our everyday life, people sometimes take it for granted.

That's why it's important to review the basics of electrical safety.

Check your home and see if you have any overloaded outlets. See if the cords and plugs are frayed or worn.

Make sure no appliances are used near a bathtub or sink—be especially careful of hair dryers, blenders and radios.

When working on a roof or ladder outside, stay far away from overhead power lines. And never dig in your yard without first checking with the electric company for the location of any underground cables.

There are many other safety tips you should know about. You'll find them in a free pamphlet called "Electrical Safety." Contact us today and ask for your free copy.

COOPERATIVE EXTENSION PROGRAM
KENTUCKY STATE UNIVERSITY

When the worms have made Swiss cheese of your cabbage leaves or the aphids are so thick that the buds on your roses disappear, you're way past the time when an insect control program should have been started. It is far less expensive and frustrating to catch an insect population at its start than to call out the artillery when they're wreaking havoc with your plants.

What should you do? Examine leaves that fall off, buds that don't open, stems that fall over and grass that turns brown. Monitoring of this type on a regular basis—preferably daily in your vegetable and flower gardens and weekly in your landscape—will mean far fewer insect problems this year.

If you're going to monitor successfully, it helps to know the signs, signals and symptoms of insect feeders. And note I said feeders—be sure the insects are actually feeding on your plants. You'd hate to kill a beneficial insect that feeds on pest insects.

One group of insects defoliates, chewing holes or devouring whole leaves and needles. Included in the defoliators are various worms, caterpillars and leaf beetles. Worm and caterpillar control will be easiest when they are still small. Beetle control will depend on the type of beetle and its life cycle. Proper insect identification is necessary in order to select appropriate control measures.

Another group of insects feeds by sucking plant juices or saps. Because this group is quite diverse—including scale insects, aphids, leafhoppers, plant bugs and insect-like mites—it is important to know some specifics about each type.

Adult scales secrete a waxy covering that most insecticides won't penetrate. The adult must either be suffocated by an oil, or a contact insecticide must be applied when immature scales are in the crawling stage.

Aphids have soft bodies which contact pesticides can readily penetrate, but because many aphid species typically feed on the underside of leaves, chemicals need to be applied to both leaf surfaces. Numerous nonchemical controls, including aluminum foil mulches and bright yellow sticky traps, are available.

Leafhoppers and plant bugs tend to migrate from plant to plant; therefore, if insecticides are used, they must be sprayed on the leaves so that the insects will absorb the chemicals as they feed. And mites are a different story entirely. Because mites are not true insects, the best control is obtained using different types of chemicals—called miticides—to kill them.

A third group of insects tunnels into leaves between the upper and lower surfaces to feed. Chemical controls need to be applied as soon as the first tunnels, which look like narrow winding white lines in the green leaves, are visible.

A related group, the borers, tunnels into stems. Indications of their presence include frass at entry holes, plus stems and leaves that suddenly collapse. Good chemical penetration to control these pests can be difficult. Often the best control involves splitting the stem open, removing the borer, and binding the stem back together. Control can also be effective at the egg laying stage.

Root feeders are a group that can be difficult to control because they are often hard to suspect. Many of these pests are grub or larval stages of crawling and flying insects, which can be controlled above and below ground depending on life stage. The damage that we see may often be as subtle as a stunted plant.

If you chemically control pests this year, read the label carefully. Apply at the correct rate and time, especially noting waiting times to harvest. If the chemical isn't labeled for your pest, don't use it!

Timely Tip: To easily and painlessly transplant raspberry and blackberry suckers to use as new plants, try moving them with a posthole digger.

PEOPLE, ARE YOU BUYING YOUR OWN VOTE?

It's kind of funny how the Floyd Fiscal Court decided to rehire 15 people due to the fact of the poor roads in Floyd County, yet Magistrate Roberts talks about cutting magistrate salaries to $100 per month plus cutting out expenses.

Why didn't he think about cutting the magistrate's pay the last time they set the salaries instead of cutting off needed road workers.

People, do you think we haven't needed these workers on our roads for the last year or do you think their rehiring is a move to get their votes and their families' votes? AFTER the election will we need them then?

I believe it comes time to set the magistrates' pay before this election. Let's watch Roberts and see how he votes.

Among the people rehired was Magistrate Roberts' daughter. This reminds me of one of the candidates that is running for magistrate who has his son working for him on the Beaver-Elkhorn Water. As magistrate I will not employ any of my immediate family to hold down badly needed employee spots.

Dept. Seeks Sponsors For Summer Program

The Kentucky Department of Education is seeking sponsors to operate the 1985 summer food program in Kentucky. The summer food program provides nutritious meals to children in needy areas during extended school vacation periods. In most areas, the program operates from May until September. Under the program, meals and snacks are served to children in such places as schools, playgrounds and parks. Public schools, non-profit private schools and units of local, municipal, county or state governments may qualify as sponsors of the summer food program in areas where at least 50 percent of the children are eligible for free or reduced-price school lunches. Residential summer camps whose enrollment includes needy children may also act as program sponsors. Qualified sponsors are reimbursed at set rates for operating and administrative costs of the program. To be eligible, sponsors must provide continuing service to the community, serve meals on a regular schedule to children or provide meals as a part of an organized program for enrolled children at camps, and show that they are financially and administratively capable of operating the program. More information is available from Rendell Butler, Director, Division of School Food Services, Kentucky Department of Education, 19th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601, telephone (502) 564-4390.

HONOR VETERAN MEMBERS

The regular meeting of Miriam Rebekah Lodge No. 31 was held March 19 at 7 p.m., with Mrs. Nancy Duff, noble grand, presiding. The regular routine of business was conducted, and members on the sick list were recorded, with cards being signed to mail to them. In honoring members who had belonged to this lodge for 25 years or more, the noble grand asked that they stand and be recognized. Mrs. Duff welcomed them and presented each a gift from the lodge. So honored were Mesdames Effie Hopkins, Venelia Rinehart, Theckley Short, Nell Howard, Norma Stepp, Mabel Jean LeMaster, Susan W. Garrett, Mary Zemo, Maman Leslie, Violetta Wright, Hope Whitten, and John N. Burchett. Prior to the meeting, refreshments, including a decorated cake, depicting this occasion, honoring these members were served in the dining room.

A report on the district meeting, held March 16 at Paintsville, was given by Mrs. Sue Moore, who announced that Miriam Rebekah Lodge was awarded the Attendance Banner, and noted that much illness was prevailing in the various lodges.

The noble grand thanked those who helped with food for the Odd Fellows' district meeting, March 9, and stated that the Assembly presidents' official meeting would be held April 16, rather than April 2, as previously stated.

A membership and communication seminar, to be held at Merrick Odd Fellows' Hall, in Lexington, March 30, was discussed. Several members reported making plans to attend this event.

The lodge deputy, Mrs. Hope Whitten, conducted a "quiz" pertaining to the work of the order. Birthday greetings were extended to Mrs. Nell Howard.

Present for this meeting, other than those who have had been members for 25 or more years, were Mesdames Nancy Duff, Doris Miller, Sue Moore, Rosemary Holmondollar, Lynn Garrett, Otela Smiley, Jean Hickman, Loretta Akers, Ann Patton, and Nola Stepp.

The next regular meeting will be April 2, at 7 p.m.

Walleye Stirring

Now is the time to go walleye fishing, according to Benjy Kinman, a fisheries biologist with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

On March 18, Kinman reported that the water temperature in the headwaters of Lake Cumberland was 47 degrees, and that anglers were catching walleye up to eight pounds in the Big South Fork of the Cumberland River.

Biologists conducting an electrofishing study in the area have captured walleye weighing up to 11½ pounds, Kinman says.

These fish are the product of six years of stocking by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources in an attempt to restore walleye fishing to Lake Cumberland, which was once world-famous for its spring walleye "runs." For unknown reasons, populations began declining rapidly in the early 60s and the species had virtually disappeared by 1970.

The stocking program was suspended from 1981 to 1983 to let biologists determine how well the fish were reproducing naturally. Kinman says the results of these non-stocking years has been "mixed" and that walleye stocking resumed in 1984. Fish are captured in the area, taken to the Clark hatchery near Morehead for spawning, then are returned, along with their offspring, to Lake Cumberland.

RESUMES FISHING REPORTS

The fishing report, a popular service from the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, resumed March 18 after its annual winter hibernation.

The report, which gives fishing and lake conditions for Kentucky's 16 largest lakes (those over 1,000 surface acres) is compiled weekly from information gathered by fish and wildlife conservation officers and creel clerks at each lake.

The report is distributed to newspapers, radio stations and television stations across Kentucky and neighboring states, as well as being featured on the department's weekly Kentucky Afield television program.

Individuals wishing to obtain fishing information may call the department's Division of Public Relations at (502) 564-4336.

WALLEYE OR SAUGER?

Early spring fishermen in many parts of Kentucky are likely to hook up with either a walleye or a sauger, and telling these closely related species apart is sometimes difficult if the fisherman doesn't know what to look for.

Distinguishing between these two fish is of more than academic interest. Since there is a 15-inch size limit on walleye and no legal minimum size on sauger, being able to tell them apart will determine whether you may keep fish under 15 inches.

Both fish have long, slender bodies and mouths filled with wicked-looking canine teeth. Walleyes tend to be light colored, with indistinct body markings, while sauger will be darker, with three generally very distinct "saddles" or vertical blotches running down the side.

The easiest way to tell the two apart however, is to examine the dorsal fin—the large fin on the top of the fish's back. If this fin has a series of dark spots arranged in irregular diagonal rows, it's a sauger. If the fin has only one dark blotch near the bottom rear of the first dorsal fin, it is a walleye.

Both fish have wide distribution in Kentucky and both are excellent table fare.

Kenny Rice To Host Jim Beam Stakes

Prestonsburg native Ken Rice, sports director of WTVM, Channel 36, Lexington, will host the 1985 Jim Beam Stakes television network broadcast from Latonia Race Course, Sunday afternoon, March 31.

The fourth running of the Grade III $350,000 Jim Beam Stakes at a mile and a sixteenth for the top three-year-olds in America, is set for (approx.) 5:42 (EST) post-time.

The 28-year-old Rice, who started in radio at the age of 15 calling basketball play-by-play, has impressive racing credentials. He serves as national racing correspondent for the Entertainment Sports Programming Network (ESPN) Eclipse winning racing show—Down The Stretch.

Rice hosted the 1984 Jim Beam Stakes, then a 20-market television network broadcast.

"We're happy to have a Kentuckian like Kenny host one of the premier races in the Commonwealth for us," said Stephen Baker, vice-president and general manager of the Latonia Race Course.

Rice has been the Ohio Valley Conference play-by-play announcer on "Friday Night Live" (Game of the Week) two years.

Latonia's 1985 Jim Beam Stakes will be produced and directed by WTTV Ch. 4, Indianapolis, Ind. The race will be broadcast to a 28-station network, including New York City, Los Angeles, and Chicago—the top three television markets in the country.

R for Mistakes: 5 Key Questions

By Timothy G. Saxe, M.D.

According to the federal government, Americans spend $13 billion a year on prescription drugs. Unfortunately, studies show that up to half of all prescriptions are taken incorrectly.

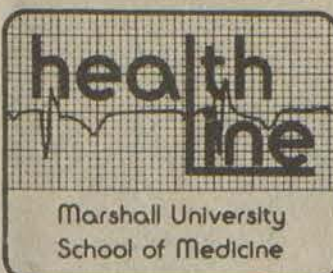

The most common mistakes, doctors say, are stopping the medicine too soon, taking the wrong amount, and using someone else's medicine. People may think they are saving money, but in the long run it can cost more — they may stay sick longer, suffer avoidable side effects and spend more time in the hospital.

In a government survey, most patients said they didn't get enough instructions and explanations about their medicines. But only four percent of them asked their doctors to explain their medications. Doctors said they thought patients were getting all the information they needed. How did they know? Patients weren't asking questions.

You can and should ask questions about your medicines, just as you would about any product you buy.

What should you ask? Start with these five questions, says the National Council on Patient Information and Education:

1. What is the name of the drug and what is it supposed to do?
2. How and when do I take it -- and for how long?

3. What foods, drinks, other medicines or activities should I avoid while taking this drug?

4. Are there any side effects, and what do I do if they occur?

5. Is there any written information available about the drug?

Another important point: always keep your doctor informed about all medicines you are taking, even over-the-counter remedies.

If questions come up after you leave the doctor's office, try asking your pharmacist. Most pharmacists surveyed said they would like to spend more time talking with patients about their medicines. When in doubt, ask.

HEALTH LINE invites health-related questions from readers. Although we cannot answer letters personally, we will answer questions of general interest through this column. Deer Harvest Data Released

The preliminary harvest data for the 1984 archery and gun seasons has been released and it reflects continued growth by Kentucky's deer herd throughout most of the state, as well as a record harvest for the eighth consecutive year.

John Phillips, Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources' deer specialist, said that preliminary data indicate that during the recently-concluded 1984 season a total of more than 32,000 whitetails were taken, statewide. Approximately 23,000 of those deer were harvested from farms and forestlands in the 115 counties open to hunting, not including wildlife management areas where special season dates and quotas may have been in effect.

Phillips said that for the first time there were two Kentucky counties—Christian and Owen—which had a total harvest of over 1,000 deer each. Hunters harvested 1,011 deer in Christian county, 780 of which were bucks. In Owen, the total was 1,208 with the buck harvest placed at 795. The statewide "open county" buck harvest was 18,818. Kentucky's deer herd, which is now estimated at 190,000 has been expanding rapidly since 1976.

The tremendous increase in Kentucky's deer herd is due to a number of factors. "We understand deer herd population dynamics better now. There's more intensive management, and our firmer control of the harvest has produced better herds in the individual counties," explained Director of Wildlife Bill Graves, adding that "the years of collecting data for our population model have paid off." The population model helps in tailoring season lengths and the numbers of days open to antlerless deer hunting to populations in each county.

In tabulating the preliminary deer harvest data for 1984, Phillips came across some interesting tidbits of information. He found that the number of bucks in the herd is increasing faster than the harvest and that the number of does taken was less than expected. Bow hunters, who usually account for 12 percent of the overall harvest, took about 100 fewer does than in 1983. "Apparently, more bowhunters are trophy hunting these days," Phillips said, adding that the "archery buck harvest was higher this past season than in 1983."

"As for the outlook for the 1985 deer season, Phillips is predicting that the total "open county" harvest will increase by 1,000 deer, and that seasons will continue to be liberalized in some counties where deer populations are high.

HRMC Opens Pediatric Area

Two-year-old Jessica Goble, of Inez, enjoys a few minutes in a rocking chair in the playroom of Highlands Regional Medical Center's new pediatrics area. She is one of the first patients to use the new area.

Hunting Season Dates

Both squirrel and deer seasons will have later opening dates this year and those who hunt deer with muzzle-loading firearms will have a special season, according to regulations adopted by Fish and Wildlife Commission at its recent quarterly meeting in Frankfort.

Responding to the wishes of deer hunters, the commission set the opening of the deer gun season at Nov. 9, one week later than in past years, when the season opened the first Saturday of November.

The state will again be divided into zones with 10, five or three days of deer gun hunting. Zone 1 hunters may take antlerless deer throughout the entire 10-day hunt, while Zone 2 hunters will be permitted to take antlerless deer on the last two days of the 10-day season (Nov. 17-18).

In Zone 3, hunters will have one day of antlerless deer hunting (Nov. 18), while in Zone 4, only antlered deer may be taken during the 10-day season. Zone 5 will permit five days, and Zone 6 three days, of bucks-only hunting; Zone 7 areas are closed to deer hunting.

The special muzzle-loaders only deer hunt is set for Nov. 19 and 20 in Zones 1 through 4. Only antlered deer may be taken.

The bow hunting season will open Oct. 1 and run through Dec. 31 with crossbows permitted only from Nov. 20 through Nov. 29. This year, archers may hunt with bow or crossbow during the gun deer and muzzle-loader seasons but must abide by all gun hunting rules during that time, including wearing protective "hunter orange" clothing and adhering to the zone harvest restrictions on antlered or antlerless deer.

The only major change in small game hunting seasons will be a delayed opening of the squirrel season. Instead of the traditional third Saturday in August, squirrel hunting will not be permitted until Sept. 14.

This change was made because female squirrels are nursing young during late August and early September. A statewide survey of squirrel hunters conducted by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources revealed that the overwhelming majority of hunters favored a later opening of the squirrel season.

The first phase of the squirrel season will extend through Nov. 7, and the second phase will open as usual on the third Thursday of November and extend through Dec. 31.

Quail, rabbit, grouse and furbearer seasons will open on the third Thursday in November (Nov. 21). The hunting and trapping seasons for furbearers will continue through Jan. 31, the quail and rabbit seasons, through Feb. 16 and the grouse season, through Feb. 28. Bag and possession limits remain unchanged.

The commission also approved a regulation change which will allow deer hunters who have not yet filled their deer tag to take coyotes during the gun deer season.

Soap Beat

Soap songbird Weaver would rather act

By Nancy M. Reichardt

Patty Weaver

Patty Weaver couldn't have a better role on "The Young and the Restless" to show off her vocal talent. As Gina Roma, Genoa City's resident restaurateur and entertainer, Miss Weaver has plenty of opportunity to belt out a song.

But singing isn't at the top of her career list right now. First she wants to prove herself as an actress. Miss Weaver, who spent nine years as Trish Banning on "Days of Our Lives," joined "Y & R" several years ago.

"The thing I like most about being on a soap opera is working," she says. "If an actor doesn't work, he can't grow. The luxury of being on a soap is being able to work and improve your craft."

Miss Weaver says working on a soap opera can also be exhausting. "Let's face it. It can be a drag getting up early and having to look good every day. Some days I roll into work and the makeup man stares at me and groans."

Barely 5 feet tall, Miss Weaver has boundless energy and a desire to achieve all her goals.

"I want to have enough money or clout to set up a fund to help underprivileged kids," she says. "Kids who have it tough and have never been given a break. I want to help them get involved and educated enough to pursue a career and have a better life.

"I've been very lucky," Miss Weaver says of her career. "I want to give something back."

Asked to choose between singing and acting, Miss Weaver says she would rather act. "I can always sing at home in the shower and at parties. I could force people to listen by tying them up. A singer can always sing, but an actor can't always act."

Miss Weaver has recorded the song "If We're Not in Love," written by "Y & R"'s music coordinator, Jez Davidson. She has performed the tune on the show several times.

Of her character, Miss Weaver says: "I would love someone from Gina's past to show up in Genoa City, wanting to expose her as a con artist."

LOVE LIVES ON

Susan Cummings (Mary Stuart Masterson, r.) must face the most harrowing choice a mother-to-be can make — prolonging her life or saving the life of her unborn child, in "Love Lives On," airing MONDAY, APRIL 1 on ABC. Ricky Paull Goldin co-stars as Brian, the sensitive, inexperienced boy who falls in love with her.

By J.T. YURKO

Melissa Gilbert must have a good agent. After her long run on TV's "Little House on the Prairie," the frail but feisty Miss Gilbert landed several roles in successful TV movies, including "Splendor in the Grass," "Choices of the Heart," "The Diary of Anne Frank" and "The Miracle Worker," for which she received an Emmy nomination. Miss Gilbert, however, has shown that she's ready for the big screen. "Sylvester" marks that debut.

Here, Miss Gilbert plays a Texas tomboy, barely 16 years old, who breaks horses for a living in order to raise two younger brothers. The family's parents were killed in a car accident, and so Miss Gilbert is forced to take charge.

Raising a family, however, takes money, and Miss Gilbert seizes on the idea of training a cow horse from Texas for the Three-Day Eventing competition in the Olympic-Equestrian trials. This is somewhat akin to taking a 1958 Studebaker and winning the Indianapolis 500, but such is Hollywood. "National Velvet" made a star out of Elizabeth Taylor, and that movie didn't have much of a plot, either.

Of course, this is 1985, so Miss Gilbert must endure more contemporary problems than those which befell Miss Taylor. For example, the actress must endure an attempted rape by a disgruntled young cowboy.

Apart from its "modern" touches, however, "Sylvester" (the horse is named after Sylvester Stallone) is still an old-fashioned adolescent tale caught somewhere between horse opera and soap opera. In a time when most teen flicks survive on skin, pranks and MTV look-alike videos, "Sylvester" is a pleasantly predictable middle-America meat-and-potatoes movie.

It might be less were it not for Miss Gilbert's considerable charm. She could easily be an actress of stature in the not-too-distant future. As for Richard Farnsworth, he has appeared in more than 300 movies as a stunt man, but only recently has he begun accepting lead roles. Don't quit now Richard. You are at your peak.

IN MEMORY OF MY GRANDPA WATT HALE

By JUDITH L. HALE

The City of Prestonsburg has lost a wonderful man. Watt Hale wasn't only a special man to the people of the City of Prestonsburg, but to my life. Watt Hale was my grandpa. Grandpa Hale was a man who spoke and acted on what he believed in. He was a man who dedicated his life to the Lord and his church. He shared the true meaning of Christian love with his fellowman.

As I watched his life, as I grew up, I came to know more about God. He shared his Biblical knowledge with his family and friends. Grandpa Hale knew no strangers, he befriended all. My grandpa was always on the underdog side. He wanted to see all people have a better and fair chance in life. I have seen him share his food and money with those less fortunate than he. My grandpa was a barber by trade. He would always say to a young man, "son, if you don't have the money for this haircut don't worry about it." He would give free haircuts to those who couldn't afford one. In those days haircuts were only $1.00 or $1.50.

One example of his love for others was when he and his pastor went to visit a new family in the community. The family was unable to have their electricity turned on. Grandpa Hale with his compassionate and caring heart made sure the family had the electric turned on and food on their table. This is only one example of many ways my grandpa shared his Christian love with others.

My grandpa was a man of many talents. Not only was he a barber, he was a man that used his hands to make furniture, many other items, and he had a green thumb. When spring and summertime came I knew that his yard would be filled with beautiful flowers. Many times I would walk up the street in West Prestonsburg to visit grandpa and I would find him in his garden. Grandpa only had a small piece of ground to work with. He took that small piece of ground and produced enough food for his family and many friends.

Not only was he a friend to his fellowman, but to the animals, especially the birds. Grandpa Hale had a pet crow, named Jim Crow. Jim was a very smart crow and grandpa was very proud of him. Jim Crow became famous in West Prestonsburg where grandpa lived. Jim Crow became known as the crow who went to church. Several times Jim Crow would follow grandpa to church. Grandpa said, "Jim's a religious crow." Grandpa always had bird feeders hanging in his trees. You could see grandpa all year round, especially during the winter, making sure there was enough food in those feeders.

Grandpa Hale, was a man of great compassion and love. Everyone who met Watt Hale knew that he was a fine Christian man.

About two years ago a stroke forced our family to put grandpa in the nursing home. Although, he was no longer as active as he once had been, he still had that compassionate and loving heart. As I would go to visit he always asked about the family members he loved so much. He loved his family and made sure we were all taken care of.

All that knew grandpa knew of those humorous stories he would share with his friends, especially those friends at the barber shop. He would make you laugh or smile, even if inside you may have been hurting. From the nursing home he never stopped sharing his stories with us his family and friends. On his good days he might sing you a verse or two of his favorite song, "Life's Railway to Heaven." He would always quote his favorite verse to you: PS. 37:25
My Grandpa Hale was a special man, a man who would share humor and turn a sad face into a happy one. I am so lucky to have been able to have had a man like Watt Hale as my grandpa. There are no words that can adequately tell you about the man whom we all knew and loved as Watt Hale.

He taught me love, compassion, caring and, most of all do and be the best you can be. So, I learned from grandpa that every person is a somebody. I had to say good-by to him a few days ago, but, Praise the Lord, only for a short time. Grandpa Hale has received his reward of his eternal heavenly home. I will see my grandpa again someday when my earthly years are through. As my grandpa touched many people's lives with his Christian life, my prayer is that I to can do the same.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Darrel R. Slone, who was in a car wreck March 22, 1983 and died March 26, 1983.

TIME ALONE

During my moments alone
My mind slowly wanders back
To the first time that I met you...
Each of us uncertain and yet intrigued.
But, as the days passed,
We became a part of one another,
Sharing our hopes, our dreams, and our love.
The gentleness of your touch
And the warmth of your gaze
Filled my world with joy.
It is in times like these,
When you're gone,
That I remember just how much I love you.

Wife, Vina, and sons,
Tommy, Clarence and Timmy
