

Failure To Stop To Cost Drivers

5 Drivers Cited As Bus Warning Claimed Ignored

In 27 years, no child has been killed while riding on a regular Kentucky school bus. Regulations introduced this year, moreover, are aimed at guaranteeing the competence of the drivers who transport 462,000 children in this state each school day.

The safety of children getting on and off the buses is another matter, however, and Floyd Transportation Director Ed Patton last week stepped up a "get tough" policy on motorists who ignore the law requiring them to stop for school buses that are loading or unloading children.

Five drivers who allegedly passed a school bus near Honaker recently are scheduled for arraignment in Floyd District Court on December 5, following complaints by Patton and school bus driver Sharon Mary Case, of Dana.

The bus driver, who transports Little Mud Creek children to and from Betsy Layne and Harold schools, said she had stopped to pick up three grade school children near Honaker on November 13 when a driver passed, forcing the children, who were about to cross the road, to jump back off the pavement. The bus' stop-arm was out and its lights were flashing, she said.

The following morning, two drivers passed as children were being transferred from a minibus to the regular school bus in front of the Spruce Pine school, she said. Both buses had their stop-arms extended and lights flashing, she said.

On the last run from Betsy Layne that afternoon, two drivers again passed the stationary bus. "I held the horn down" as one driver approached from the opposite direction, the bus driver said. "He didn't even look up."

Plant at Ligon Wins Approval After Hearing

An operating permit granted to a controversial coal processing plant at Ligon will apparently stand, following a hearing officer's finding that improvements at the plant should resolve the problems it has long caused its neighbors.

Moreover, while the Left Beaver Coal Company has engaged in a "pattern of violations" at its Clear Creek tippie, there is no evidence that the violations were "willful," said hearing officer J. Gregg Clendenin in a report filed last week with the state Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet.

In the past, Left Beaver Coal, a subsidiary of the Turner Elkhorn Mining Co., has created an "awesome nuisance" and "terrible problems" for one neighbor, Palmer Humphrey, Clendenin acknowledged. But a review of the new operating system proposed by Left Beaver "leads to the inescapable conclusion that Palmer Humphrey has already won his case," the hearing officer said.

But Humphrey thinks he and his neighbors are again the losers in their long-standing battle with the plant that is both the area's biggest employer and, critics say, an intolerable blight on the environment.

The latest round in the battle came when Humphrey and four of his neighbors—Malcolm and Draxie Slone, Rex Slone and Ed Slone—objected to the issuance of an operating permit to the tippie, which had earlier been shut down because of violations of environmental laws. A principal cause of complaint was that slurry waste from the plant, which was disposed of by injecting it into old deepmine workings at the head of the hollow, had contaminated surface and ground water in the area.

The four Slones won an agreement from Left Beaver Coal that the company would drill them new wells and furnish water conditioners adequate to bring the water quality up to state standards. But Humphrey, perhaps the homeowner most adversely affected by the tippie, could not reach agreement with the coal firm.

Humphrey, who was represented in the action by attorney Ned Pillersdorf, argued that the Natural Resources Cabinet abused its discretion in granting Left Beaver Coal a permit. The company had established a pattern of willful violations of the law, the reopening of the tippie operation would further pollute the area's water supply, and there was no reason to believe the operation would conform with the law in future, he contended.

Coal Companies, Doctors Figure In Court Actions

Disputes between two coal companies and two physicians are the subject of suits filed this week in Floyd Circuit Court.

Pocahontas Development Corporation, owner of a tract on the right fork of Copperas Creek, and Enoxy Coal Co., which leases mineral rights on the property, claim in one of the suits that Delta Energy Corporation, Terry Giese and John H. Wilson, in business as the Maxton Company, have trespassed on the property, extracting more than 2000 tons of coal from it.

They seek an injunction against the defendants, an accounting of the coal allegedly taken, and compensation.

McDowell pediatrician Dr. John P. Fairchild has taken to court his former colleague at the Regional Medical Center, a corporation operating out of McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital. Fairchild said that he and Dr. Mary Hall worked for the corporation, of which they are joint owners, until he resigned on Nov. 19.

Dr. Hall, president of the corporation, is now withholding $9053 owing to him in unused vacation leave, Dr. Fairchild contends. Moreover, his liability and health insurance coverage was cancelled by the corporation after he announced his intention to resign on August 19 but before the resignation became effective, he said.

(Suits filed in court present only the plaintiff's side of the issue in dispute.)

Renovation for Pool Hangs on State Grant

Archer Park's swimming pool, which for years has been slowly sliding into disrepair, will get a facelift if a loan application to the state Land and Water Conservation Fund is approved.

City Manager David Evans received permission from the City Council Monday night to apply for the matching funds loan. The city is asking for the maximum available, $60,000. Of that, $30,000 would be supplied by the city, either in actual funds or in kind—such as materials or labor.

"We should know in January if the loan is approved," Evans said. "If we get it we'll take bids and hopefully get started on renovating the pool by February." Evans estimated the work would take about four months, putting completion near the time the pool should open for the summer season. "But that should be adequate," he said, "because most of the work will be done on pumps and pipes."

Evans speculated the pool, built in 1962 and never having received any major repair work, was in such poor shape now, that, were renovation not done, the pool would most likely remained closed indefinitely.

And a little further down the road, Evans sees the possibility of a new pool at the park. "I've just gotten into checking into that," he said. "I'm checking on getting money from the ARC (Appalachian Regional Commission), trying to explore every channel." Such a project, he said, could be completed as early as the summer of 1987.

In other business, Council granted a request by First Commonwealth Bank President Burl Wells Spurlock for a seven-year waiver of property taxes on the bank's new building on Arnold Avenue, in exchange for a road improvement package to be supplied by the bank. Spurlock proposed the bank construct a slowdown lane northbound on the Bert T. Combs Bridge, which would enter into Arnold Avenue and lead to the new bank site.

Spurlock estimated the cost of such a project at $60,000, including architectural, engineering and construction fees. According to Spurlock's figures, the cost of building the slowdown lane and the deferred taxes would amount to roughly the same, as the taxes were estimated to be about $9,000 per year. The property is not due to be on the tax rolls until 1987, so the deferral frees the bank from paying the tax through 1993.

Evans said the project was one the city would have done eventually, and under the agreement, it was simply a matter of the bank assuming responsibility and doing the work in the near term. (See Story No. 6, Page 4)

Prestonsburg Designated "Certified City"

Prestonsburg can pat herself—and Chalmer Frazier, executive director of the Floyd county Chamber of Commerce—on the back in celebration of the recent "Certified City" designation here.

The Certified City title replaces the old All-Kentucky City award, and this year Prestonsburg was one of 35 cities across the state to receive the distinction. The Kentucky Chamber of Commerce bases the awards on quality-of-life and preparedness for economic development in the chosen cities. Prestonsburg had applied for the award last year, but failed to make the grade. This year, with Frazier leading the charge, Prestonsburg was accepted.

The awards were presented November 17 at Lexington's Radison Plaza Hotel, with Governor Martha Layne Collins, Lt. Governor Steven Beshear, Commerce Secretary Carroll Kniceley and state Chamber of Commerce Chairman Richard K. Boyd, Jr. in attendance.

Gov. Collins called the Certified Cities program the "most important mechanism available for economic development at the local level."

Also attending were Judge John M. Stumbo, Huck Francis, Roger Recktenwald, Mr. and Mrs. Crush Dingus, Tauna Shelton, Thomas Hereford, Rep. Greg Stumbo, Mrs. Chalmer Frazier, Henry Mayo, James VanHoose and Jamie King.

This Town...That World

While you're adding calories take time, this Thanksgiving, to count your blessings.

You saw Halley's Comet through a telescope? I saw it without the benefit even of bifocals.

ANOTHER SUMMIT

(The following is not a letter from Secretary Weinberger that has, somehow, fallen into the wrong hands. Instead, it purports to be from the memoirs of Massasoit, the Wampanoag chief, after the first Thanksgiving.)

Paleface big chief invite us to feast. Braves, squaws, papooses all go to white man's camp. Find much venison, turkey, all the trimmings. Also pumpkin pie.

Paleface chief stand up and talk long. Thanked Great Spirit for much maize, much health, heap blessings, peace.

Paleface stack guns against tree, easy to reach; Indian bows and arrows and tomahawks left in forest.

Before feast, paleface governor and me, Massasoit, talk summit about treaty to end arms race. He say all Indian arrows and tomahawks should be destroyed. We want all guns destroyed. He talk about new weapon we had. We shake heads. "What weapon?"

"Curare," he said. "You put it on arrowhead, poison us if arrow just scratch."

"But we know no such thing," I argue. "Somebody more savage than us savages use that."

I, Chief Massasoit, remind governor his guns make our arrows no use, only toys. My people know you making guns that kill long way off."

We disagree but smile and shake hands, smoke peace pipe, go eat bellies full.

Indian loses. But hopes Secret Weapon will work. Next dark moon, we try it. Indian does rain dance. Rain comes, Paleface powder gets wet. Gun no shoot.

Indian thankful, too, this Thanksgiving.

Fire Protection Districts Gain As Insurance Costlier

As reluctant as most people are to assume additional taxes, skyrocketing home insurance rates have generated a small boom in fire protection districts in this county. Following the recent approval of taxing districts in Garrett and Wayland, petitions from Allen and Maytown residents were presented to the fiscal court at its monthly meeting, Friday.

No opposition was heard from Maytown but the Allen Volunteer Fire Department, which recently settled a boundary dispute with its Cow Creek counterpart, found itself embroiled in another squabble, this time with Bull Creek residents, some of whom pointed out they were covered under Prestonsburg's fire protection service.

Insurance agent Denzil Allen cautioned Bull Creek residents that Prestonsburg's service for out-of-town subscribers would not protect them if they lived more than five miles from city hall. But Magistrate Lowell Samons advised Allen firefighters to avoid controversy by eliminating the Bull Creek watershed from their proposed coverage area.

(Prestonsburg city manager David Evans confirmed this week that residents around the Bull Creek junction of U.S. 23 and new KY 80 fall within the city's five-mile radius).

Pressure from underwriters is also being felt here in stricter enforcement of laws governing flood plain construction. The growing number of calls from homeowners or prospective homeowners seeking certification that they are above the 100-year flood stage forced him to recommend the hiring of a flood plain administrator, Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo told the court.

Named by Stumbo to the post, and approved without question by the court, was the judge-executive's son, John M. Stumbo III.

The younger Stumbo—he is 33, lives at Ivel, and recently returned here from a goldmining stint in Alaska—will be paid $7200 a year for an unspecified number of hours. The position is not a new one, the judge-executive noted, although it has recently been combined with that of deputy judge-executive. It has been vacant since May, when Morris Isaac was dropped from the county administration.

Asked whether he feared charges of nepotism in the hiring of his son, the judge-executive replied that most courthouse offices were liberally staffed with

Magoffin Wets Lose in Court

Floyd county liquor and beer dealers had an easing of the competition from legalized dealers in a bordering county this week after Prohibition returned to Magoffin county at midnight Monday.

U.S. District Judge G. Wix Unthank refused Monday to issue a court order that would have enjoined the state Alcoholic Beverage Control board from closing six liquor stores and seven beer outlets in neighboring Magoffin county as well as several beer and liquor stores in Nicholas county.

Unthank's ruling ended, at least temporarily, a long court battle and about four years of legalized alcoholic beverage sales in Magoffin. The ABC board ordered liquor and beer licenses there withdrawn two months ago after the state Supreme Court had reversed a Court of Appeals decision holding unconstitutional the state law that permits voting precincts of wet counties to vote themselves dry but prohibits precincts in dry counties from voting themselves wet. The local option election held in dry Magoffin county affected precincts of only one magisterial district.

Rejecting the motion of attorneys for alcoholic beverage dealers for a preliminary injunction to halt the closing of the liquor stores, Judge Unthank said the lawyers for the liquor interests had failed to demonstrate the likelihood that their lawsuit would succeed on its merits.

State liquor laws permit cities of the first four classes in dry counties to vote on the wet-dry issue but forbids a wet vote by precincts or districts elsewhere in such counties.

Another local option election appears to be in the offing for both counties affected. Don Bailey, of Salyersville, was quoted as saying that about 1600 Magoffin countians have signed a petition for a new countywide election and that he will ask the county judge-executive to schedule the vote. February was mentioned as a probable date of the election.

New Regional Airport Opening Slated Monday

Ribbon-cutting ceremonies officially opening the Big Sandy Regional Airport will be held at 1:30 p.m. Monday, it was announced this week by Allen M. Perry, of Paintsville, chairman of the airport board.

The occasion will mark the completion of the major phase of the four-county project which was begun nine years ago at a cost of $4 million. Included in this phase is the 5000-foot runway, a parallel taxiway, and an adjoining terminal aircraft parking area.

Development of the terminal area is scheduled to start early next year. This work, which will cost an estimated $800,000, will include a base hangar, offices, parking, water and sewage systems and taxiways to hangars.

A new access road, expected soon, will connect with rebuilt KY 3. Access to the airport now is made via the road to the Pevler mine. The airport is adjacent to KY 3, just across the Johnson-Martin line.

Expected to take part with local dignitaries in the ribbon-cutting are Con-

ABBOTT HOMEMAKERS MEET
 The Abbott Homemakers met Tuesday evening, Nov. 12, at the church annex, with the president, Mrs. Sharon Sparr, presiding. Mrs. Ruby Frasure gave the devotionals. Mrs. Sparr presented the lesson on "Gift Wrapping and Bow-Tying." Mrs. Frances Pitts had a large number of gift-wrapped packages on display, and others were added by some of the members. Several workshops were announced by Mrs. Pitts, who also told the group that Mrs. Sharon Sparr, their president, had been elected as Area vice-president. A "card of cheer," to be sent to Mrs. Oma Spradlin, a member who is ill, was signed by those present. The hostess, Mrs. Eukie Merritt, served a salad course to members, Mesdames Nancy Howard, Ruby Frasure, Barbara Dunn, Grace Conley, Ethel Ratliff, Cynthia Frasure, Francis Pitts, and Sharon Sparr, and guests, Rebecca Howard and Allison Dunn. The next meeting will be the Christmas dinner, sponsored jointly by the Abbott Homemakers and Development Clubs, at this same location, on December 10, at 6 p.m. Each member is asked to bring a covered-dish.

The School Tax Handicap

The decision of the Floyd County Board of Education to pass up a countywide vote on a 28-cent tax levy could have been prompted by varied circumstances, one of which undoubtedly was—the tax couldn't win.

Time was against the tax if it was taken to the voting booth. A reputation for fiscal irresponsibility, for a degree of waste, some politically motivated spending on unnecessary jobs for political favorites—this, no matter how hard the present school administration may try, has created an image that cannot be changed overnight.

Then, just as the board of education was ready to put the issue to a vote, came the revelation that wealthy developers who had financed buildings and other installations through Kentucky Building Authority bonds would not be required to pay local taxes on their developments until the bond indebtedness against them was paid off.

Those who took advantage of the financing arrangement are not censured for avoiding taxation (state government had made it legal and other individuals or businesses competing with them had already benefited in the same manner), but the ordinary home builder, who was paying high interest along with regular payments on the principal—plus state and county, and often city, taxes—naturally wasn't in the mood to see his school tax bill hiked to 28 cents per $100 valuation.

Then there was the fact that Alice McDonald, head of Kentucky schools, was getting her share of unfavorable publicity. There was the story of the Louisville attorneys, political supporters if not political allies of McDonald, who were paid $1000 each for a day spent as "consultants" in her office. And the story, too, about the two Louisville accounting firms that were awarded a contract to audit the State Board of Education on their bid of some $30,000 more than the bid of a competing firm—one which was not so "friendly" with McDonald or perhaps State Auditor Tobin.

The $1000-a-day remuneration for the two lawyers is a mere drop in the big bucket that is the state budget, and the $30,000 excess paid the accountants won't bankrupt the state, but it's capers like this—some call it hanky-panky—that creates an atmosphere, a malaise, that the ordinary taxpayer revolts against.

We have a feeling that the Floyd county school system is trying to clean up its act. But, if Frankfort refuses to wield a broom, the day when taxpayers will agree to pay more taxes is not yet.

Charged in the incidents were Honaker residents Lois Adkins, Barbara Hunter, Jessie Coleman and Leonard Clark, and Stanley Neece, of Big Mud Creek.

Transportation Director Patton said three student drivers were also reported recently for the same violation and, in a Nov. 18 directive to principals, he asked the school heads to "let your student drivers know they will be treated as adults under this law."

"From this day forward, I will get warrants for their arrest," Patton warned. "We must stop this before some children are injured or killed."

The transportation director said the problem of drivers passing school buses is countywide, with coal trucks on the David road and traffic on the heavily-traveled Mountain Parkway reported to be among the main offenders.

Mrs. Case, who has transported children on the Little Mud run for nearly 10 years, said the problem has never been as bad as it is now. What makes it even harder to understand, she said, is that most of those cited this week have children on her bus. "It makes me mad. I just don't know what's got into them. They're going to kill some little child," she said, adding, "How would they feel if another driver killed one of theirs?"

Last week's warrants follow the citation in October of Jerry Gullett, a driver for Overnite Transportation, who was reported to have narrowly missed a grade-school student when the tractor-trailer he was driving passed a school bus at Auxier.

He entered a guilty plea last week in Floyd District Court and was ordered to pay $97.50 in fine and costs.

Under new state regulations, the Floyd school system initiated a training program this summer for new drivers. Beginning next fall, all school bus drivers must be certified by the state.

To be certified, drivers will have to complete successfully a two-day training course. In addition, all drivers will be required to have eight hours of classroom and behind-the-wheel training each year.

Among the instructions bus drivers here are receiving is that they are to report all incidents of drivers violating the stop-arm law.

The fiscal court put off a request by Betty Christian that they commit $5000 toward Big Sandy Serenity House, a proposed halfway house for recovering alcoholics and drug addicts. The magistrates said they would leave that decision to the incoming court in January. In the meantime, County Attorney David Barber urged Mrs. Christian to press for legislation that would enable part of the stiff fines now collected from drunk drivers to be applied to the support of a halfway house.

The judge-executive was authorized to negotiate with state highway officials to widen the bridge serving the Clark School and Clark Addition and possibly to replace the bridge serving 26 families at Glo.

Beginning in December, the county garage now located on old U.S. 23 at Allen will be moved to the site of Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc. at Garth Hollow, near Martin, according to a fiscal court decision.

In other business, the court decided to buy a $430 computer from G and G Computer Sales, reappointed Morris Hylton, Jr. and Burl Shepherd to the county housing authority, and turned over to the new county attorney Bascom DeRossett's long dispute with a neighbor at New Allen.

BIRTH ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Salisbury, of Lexington, announce the birth of a son, Russell Morgan Salisbury, on November 1. The grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Salisbury, of Martin, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Patton, of Hueysville, and the great-grandparents are Mrs. Peg Hewlett, of Prestonsburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Patton, of Hueysville.

RETURNS HOME

Mrs. Zella Archer returned last Tuesday from Somerset, where she visited her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Troser, and granddaughters, Misses Lori Ellen and Elizabeth Anna Troser. While there, she attended the Somerset Woman's Club's Lilliput Children's Theater production of "Tom Sawyer," in which her granddaughter, Elizabeth Anna, was cast as Becky Thatcher.

Clendenin conceded that the evidence showed that Left Beaver Coal "has adversely affected Palmer Humphrey's use and enjoyment of his home and property to an unconscionable extent" and that the company's past operation "more likely than not" polluted the homeowner's domestic water supply.

But the two major sources of Humphrey's problems would be eliminated under the company's latest proposal, the hearing officer said. The coal firm will no longer be using the road that runs within 10 feet of Humphrey's house to haul sludge to a dump, and liquid wastes will no longer be disposed of by injection into the ground, he noted.

In fact, the system with which Left Beaver Coal has replaced the former slurry injection system has already been in use for six months and has resulted in no violations, Clendenin said.

Humphrey agreed that relocation of the company's haul road will be a marked improvement but claims that the new waste disposal system has yet to be tested. Before the tipples closed down recently for the winter it had not been operating at more than a third of its normal capacity, he said. Nor will the new system do anything to diminish seepage contamination from Clear Creek's huge gob piles, he said.

While a $1 million Rural Abandoned Minelands Project will improve the appearance and stability of the gob piles, neither the government nor the company is "spending a nickel" to furnish Clear Creek residents with a potable water supply, Humphrey said. "They're spending all that money to benefit the company," he said of the reclamation project, "while people in this hollow haven't got a drop of water."

What most incenses the homeowner, however, was Clendenin's failure to find evidence of a "willful pattern of violations" on the part of Left Beaver Coal.

The coal company was cited for "numerous violations," including 28 since 1981, the hearing officer noted. Moreover, when Left Beaver Coal first applied to have its permit renewed, the company "incredibly" proposed to continue the slurry injection system which had been the source of most of its violations in the past, he said. The Natural Resources Cabinet "could well have determined that Left Beaver's record as a whole did not establish that there was probable cause to believe that reclamation laws would be obeyed," Clendenin wrote in his report.

On the other hand, "the Cabinet could look at the same evidence and see mitigating circumstances and Left Beaver's good faith efforts to minimize adverse environmental effects caused by its violations," the hearing officer wrote.

"I can't see how he can think they'll run it like they're suppose to after all those violations. If that ain't willful, I don't know what he means by willful," Humphrey said of Clendenin's findings. "If you do something over and over, I call that willful."

Floyd Clerks At State Meet

Floyd Deputy Clerks Pat Reynolds and Cathy Goble attended the Fall Circuit Clerk's Conference in Owensboro, November 13-15. Conferences for the state's 120 circuit clerks are held twice annually as part of efforts by the Administrative Office of the Courts to provide continuing professional education for court personnel.

The Fall program agenda opened with a session on "Dealing With Angry People" conducted by Dr. Margaret Verble of Verble, Worth & Verble, a Lexington based instructional consulting firm. In dealing with the public on a daily basis, circuit clerks are occasionally confronted by angry, hostile, confused, or frustrated citizens. Dr. Verble offered practical techniques to help clerks tactfully yet effectively respond and assist people in anger producing situations.

Owensboro attorney Morton J. Holbrook, Jr. addressed the 256 clerks and deputy clerks in attendance on "The Judicial Article—Where It Began and Where It Is Now on Its Tenth Anniversary." The Judicial Article of the Kentucky Constitution was approved by the voters in November 1975 and provided for a unified court system.

An update on domestic violence legislation and filing procedures was provided by Travis Fritsch, administrative assistant in Family Violence Prevention Services, Office of the Governor.

Coal Firm, Shopping Center Developer Named in Suits

Residents take on a coal company, and a construction firm seeks payment in suits filed this week in Floyd Circuit Court.

A 20-foot road intended for use as a residential street has been widened to 30 feet by coal truck traffic, and the resulting dust and noise makes it difficult to rent out property in the area, a Tram couple claims in one of the suits.

David and Norma Hinchman, residents of the Stanley Powell Addition, seek an injunction barring Prater Creek Processing Co. from using the road and ask compensation for alleged losses. The coal company has operated a stripmine nearby since 1983.

The developer of Prestonsburg's newest shopping center owes one of the construction firms which worked on the project a total of $261,886, according to another suit.

Roger Collins and Ray Potter, partners in a West Liberty firm known as R. and R. Construction Company, claim that W and G Prestonsburg Associates, future. The agreement does not free the bank from property tax on its existing buildings.

Attempting to put an end to a minor controversy which had sprung up between the bank and the city regarding payment of the new building's contractor's fee, Spurlock told Council that according to his interpretation of the city statute, the money owed the city—one half of one percent of the cost of the new building—was to be collected from the contracting firm in charge of constructing the building; Akers and Akers Construction Co., and the sub-contractors hired by them. The question of who owed the money and when the city could expect to receive it had been raised periodically at Council meetings during recent months.

Council voted not to extend mutual aid fire protection to county fire departments on calls within the city's five-mile subscription area. The vote came after Fire Chief Tom Blackburn asked for clarification of where his department could go in responding to a fire.

The Council's reasoning seemed to be that those people within the five-mile radius who had paid the $25 subscription fee deserved the coverage, but additional runs were not required of the city and only left Prestonsburg vulnerable in the event of a fire here.

With the exception of an abstention by Councilman Frank Adams, Paul Hunt Thompson was the only Council member not to support the motion. Thompson explained his "no" vote was because many people who live within the radius work in Prestonsburg, and he felt it was unfair to deny them protection, providing the manpower and trucks were available. There was some discussion of doing away with the subscription system altogether when the present contracts expire in May.

At its last meeting two weeks ago, Council had voted to donate approximately $2,500 to the East Kentucky Wildlife Federation to be used to supply an animal control officer with materials needed to pick-up stray dogs and cats and dispose of those which were unadoptable.

However, based upon several complaints received from Council members regarding what the money would be used for, it was decided the funds would be withheld pending further investigation of the shelter. It was suggested a committee of citizens be formed to help oversee how the money could best be spent, with Evans speculating that a five-member board, with two year terms for members, might be the best method.

Christmas Parade Slated Saturday

Ring in the holiday shopping season here, the Prestonsburg Businesses Association will play host to a Christmas parade this Saturday at 3 p.m.

Tentatively scheduled to begin in front of the grade school, travel along North Lake Drive to Court Street, turn right there, and left on Front Street, the parade will end in the Richmond Plaza parking lot. Included in the parade will be bands from several county schools, complete with beauty queens. Also, the Prestonsburg High School Blackcats, coming off a season that saw them play in the semi-finals of the state AA football tournament, will be chaffered along the parade route. The Job Corps will be represented, and Santa Claus will be on hand as well.

Gary Vickers, principal parade planner, said the parade would not be extremely large this year, with no floats, other than the one used to carry the Blackcats, being involved. He added, however, that people interested in helping out with the festivities should contact him at the Francis Department Store here.

Mayor Harold Cooley will officially open the Christmas season here by lighting the city Christmas tree immediately after the parade.

During the afternoon, Christmas music will be played in downtown streets.

The parade and other activities will serve as entertainment for the numerous shoppers expected to be in town Saturday, the second day after Thanksgiving, traditionally one of the heaviest shopping days of the year.

The Louisville-based developer of Prestonsburg Village, has never paid them for work they did at the site between June and December last year.

Also named as defendants are the three lending institutions that financed the project—the Bank Josephine, the Chemical Bank of New York and the Southport Savings and Loan Association, of Jacksonville Beach, Fla.—and six other firms asserting liens against the property—B.C. Hale Construction Co., of Huntington, W. Va.; Hopkins Erecting Co., of Lexington; East Equipment Co., of Prestonsburg; Sandy Valley Explosive Co., of Allen; H. and M. Construction, Inc., of Milan, Tenn.; and Truman Messer and Paul Robinson, in business as M and R Trucking Co., of Martin.

Plaintiffs seek a court declaration of their rights, a determination of the priority of the liens, and sale of the property in settlement of the alleged debts. (Suits filed in court give only the plaintiff's version of the issue in dispute).

Coyotes Fair Game

Coyotes are listed among those species which hunters may legally take when small game seasons open Nov. 21. Although coyotes, along with groundhogs and gray foxes, are listed as unprotected species, there is a general "closed season" on even these otherwise unprotected animals from Nov. 1 until the opening of small game hunting.

An exception to this rule is that legally licensed deer hunters who have not yet taken a deer can shoot coyotes during the gun deer season.

Once extremely rare in the commonwealth, coyotes are now found in all parts of Kentucky and are becoming numerous enough in some areas that they are giving livestock owners problems. Hunters wishing a new and challenging sports should consider giving coyote hunting a try. The most productive method is to use a varmit call to lure the animal within range. Both hand- or mouth-operated calls and electronic calls are allowed for hunting coyotes and other unprotected species. However, all calls must be used only during daylight hours.

Water spiders live underwater in air-tight nests. There they eat, molt and raise families.

Pageant Winner

Ashley Nichole Steffey, 22-month-old daughter of Tim and Debbie Steffey, of Eastern, was crowned Toddler Miss Harvest Queen, October 4, at Garrett Grade School. She also won the photogenic trophy in her age group. Prior to this, she has been crowned Baby Miss Starburst, Baby Miss Coal Queen, Baby Miss Fairy Tale Princess, Baby Miss Springtime, and Baby Miss Spring Blossom.

She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Romie G. Osborne, of Eastern; Janelle Steffey, of Dwale, and Mr. and Mrs. James Steffey, of Tram. She would like to thank all of the people who helped during each of these pageants.

Thanksgiving Service Set At First Baptist Church

The annual Thanksgiving service sponsored by the Prestonsburg Ministerial Association will be held Wednesday night, November 27, at 7 p.m. at the First Baptist Church, Prestonsburg. The speaker will be the new pastor of the First United Methodist Church, the Rev. Quentin Scholtz. The Prestonsburg High School Honor Choir will sing, and other ministers of the community will participate in the service. An offering will be taken for the needs of the Association, which assists transients and other needy persons passing through our area. The public is invited.

Astrological Forecast..

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 2)—Don't forget the true meaning of Thanksgiving, attend a religious service, and make sure the children get an understanding of what it's all about. A Gemini may cause extra work for the holiday but it will be worth it. You will be in a wonderful mood and able to contend with anything.

TAURUS (Apr. 22-May 22)—Start the holiday off quietly counting your many blessings. Don't be surprised if you have to deal with your finances over the holiday. Your biggest and most exciting holiday event will come after the fact. Your biggest and most exciting holiday event will come after the fact, and you'll be raring to go. Don't run around while over-indulging, that won't mix.

GEMINI (May 23-Jun. 21)—You will retain the Thanksgiving spirit for the entire weekend and should do something special to "pay your dues". Share that spirit with as many people as you can. Devote the weekend to the loved one, you might find out you like it. (That doesn't mean you can't entertain friends, but put them second for a change.)

CANCER (Jun. 22-Jul. 20)—The full moon will make you a little flakey and you must watch taking it out on the boss. Use your unique talents to put your home in the holiday mood, and share it with someone less fortunate. A public appearance could arise unexpectedly although it is one you should have been preparing for.

LEO (Jul. 21-Aug. 20)—You are in the holiday spirit and will want to entertain over the long weekend. This should be a great Thanksgiving, and on top of everything, you can begin a new understanding of the children. Attend a party with the loved one and you will continue the fellowship. Don't allow the full moon to encourage you to over-do the partying.

VIRGO (Aug. 21-Sept. 22)—The children may need more attention than you want to give them this week. Leave the boss with a good feeling about you, something could change over the holiday. Get involved in a public event, it will be enjoyable and give you a good feeling. Plan to see all the family members you missed on Thanksgiving Day.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 25)—Make it your goal to explore the true meaning of Thanksgiving this year. Visitors or messages from afar may inconvenience you but this is one way you can "redeem yourself". Unexpected guests will show up and could precipitate a new relationship. Visit neighbors over the weekend and not only for social reasons.

SCORPIO (Oct. 26-Nov. 23)—Invite someone alone in an institution out to dinner—you'll benefit more than they do. But don't stop there, get involved permanently with the institution. Over-indulgence may leave you feeling poorly, and it will serve you right! Partnership finances will receive a shot-in-the-arm just in time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 24-Dec. 21)—There will be parties galore over the holiday and you will be 100 percent involved. This will be a great Thanksgiving for renewing your spiritual life. But it won't be all spiritual, there are great possibilities for romance if you do something special and unusual with the loved one.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 17)—Concentrate on the spiritual this Thanksgiving and the good feeling will last longer. You will be in an idealistic mood and could find the peace of mind you are seeking. Get involved doing something for those who don't have so much to be thankful for. A Cancer could cause you some bad moments over the weekend—examine the reason carefully.

Your last will and testament had better be clear, the December Reader's Digest warns. It cites the seemingly straightforward will leaving "All To Mother." It was contested on the ground that "Mother" was what the testator called both his wife and his parent.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 18-Feb. 18)—A child may bring you the true spirit of Thanksgiving and change your life. Be prepared for a last minute guest—not exactly a welcome one. Visit or do something up on Thanksgiving resolutions over the weekend, it may be easier than you think.

PISCES (Feb. 17-Mar. 20)—Sharing your good fortune with others will make it multiply. Don't be afraid to invite strangers into your home, you can renew their lives as well as your own. Get involved with the children and try to instill the Thanksgiving spirit in them. The Love Boat will hit rough waters over the weekend and your "ship may sink".

PBL Chapter Centers On Three Activities

Phi Beta Lambda, chartered at Prestonsburg Community College in 1975 under the sponsorship of Associate Prof. Mazola Salmons, is a national student organization which provides practical business experience for interested students. Its purpose is to build leadership skills and confidence and to encourage students to be active in community affairs. The PCC chapter has consistently won local, state and national competitions.

Senior Citizens, the Central Kentucky Blood Center and a "silent auction" were the focus of the chapter's 1985 fall activities. Senior Citizens and Phi Beta Lambda sponsored a craft fair and sale, while Central Kentucky Blood Center and PBL conducted a blood drive. Local merchants contributed items such as floral arrangements, tanning sessions, attache' cases, cosmetics and jewelry for the silent auction. Prof. Salmons stresses that the planning and implementation of all three projects were done by the 17 club members and officers of PBL.

Nature's Wonders...

Are Those Hogs or Frogs

By JULIA SMITHER

What lives in crawfish burrows and sounds like a sty full of hogs at feeding time, or the snoring of a giant? You guessed it—a chorus of Crawfish Frogs! We're not kidding—there actually is a frog here in Kentucky that can call from under 18 inches of water and be heard a half mile away! This loud "wurr-r-r-up" has more carrying power than the call of a bullfrog and stands out above the calls of all other frogs.

The Crawfish Frog (rana areolata) is found in Kentucky only in the western third of the state in groups scattered throughout the lowlands of at least a dozen counties. Smaller than the bullfrog, it has short legs, a stubby appearance, and is clumsy and slow-moving. Its dark spots surrounded by greyish-white borders on a light background make it easily distinguishable from other spotted frogs. The male has on either side of its throat an enormous vocal pouch, a bag which is filled with air to produce its loud call. These pouches expand until they resemble miniature balloons, each one almost as large as the frog's head. All this ballooning and snoring is part of the female frog's sexual appeal, and reaches its crescendo on warm, rainy nights during the breeding season in March and April.

So why are they called Crawfish Frogs instead of Hog Frogs? Because their homes are abandoned crawfish burrows, which can be five feet deep, and sometimes the burrows of small mammals, holes in roadside banks, and storm or drainage sewers. They can occasionally be seen peeking out from a few inches below the entrance of the burrow where they remain hidden through the day, often two to a burrow. A smooth, flattened, platform of mud at the edge of the entrance prevents grass from growing too close to the entrance and provides a sort of front porch on which the frogs can sit at night or early in the morning and catch their meals of beetles, spiders, crickets, and ants. When disturbed, the frogs retreat into the water that usually fills the lower part of the burrow. Crawfish Frogs generally live in low meadowlands and prefer breeding in flooded fields, farm ponds, and small lakes in pastures or on golf course.

The Kentucky Nature Preserves Commission is concerned about the protection of this unusual creature, just as it is about all of Kentucky's rare and endangered species. The Crawfish Frog shares our natural world, adding to our wonder and enjoyment. It is one of many species that together create the glorious diversity which is Kentucky.

Ex-Governor Nunn's Portrait To Be Unveiled

The Kentucky Historical Society has announced plans for the unveiling of the official portrait of former Governor Louie B. Nunn. The ceremony will be held at 4 p.m. Friday, Dec. 6, in the Hall of Governors, located in the Old Capitol Annex, Frankfort.

"Mrs. Nunn will have the honor of unveiling the portrait, and Governor Nunn will be in attendance and offer brief remarks," Robert B. Kinnaird, director of the historical society, said. Following the ceremony, a reception will be held in the Old Capitol.

The portrait of Nunn, the forty-ninth governor of the Commonwealth (1967-71), will hang in the Hall of Governors alongside those of Kentucky's other chief executives. The art work is being presented by the Republican Women's Club of Barren County.

The state is currently working to bring the collection of gubernatorial portraits up to date. Plans are underway to commission three artists to render portraits of Governor Martha Layne Collins and Ex-Governors Julian M. Carroll and John Y. Brown, Jr.

First in Area With Medical Alert

James and Fay Grinstead are residents of the Highlands Terrace senior citizens residence in Prestonsburg and are a "first" in the area, the first home to obtain the AT&T Emergency Call System known as Medical Alert offered through Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Mr. Grinstead contacted HRMC about the system after seeing a promotional ad in the local newspaper. He and his wife had more than just a casual interest in the system; once, while Mr. Grinstead was out, Mrs. Grinstead fell in the hallway of their apartment, an area away from the building alarms, and was also unable to reach her phone. She remained in the hallway for hours until her husband returned.

Medical Alert is AT&T's emergency call system designed to call for help when the person cannot. By touching a button on a pocket-size transmitter that is carried by the person at all times, a signal is sent to a console attached to the person's own phone. The console automatically dials the number to a special phone located in the Emergency Room at HRMC which is staffed seven days a week, 24 hours a day. When the call is received at HRMC it is acknowledged and the staff person attempts to call the sender of the signal to verify that it is a true emergency and not a false alarm. If an emergency situation exists, the staff person will locate the first contact on a personal data sheet completed when an individual initially purchases Medical Alert.

Mrs. Grinstead, who suffers from a heart condition and diabetes, has fallen several times while alone in the apartment. Mr. Grinstead sometimes needs to leave his residence because of his involvement with the DAV System. As Mr. Grinstead said, "My wife and I feel a lot more secure since we have installed Medical Alert in our home. The monthly rental fee is very small in comparison to the capability the system is providing to me and my wife."

Gasoline Prices Down Since Labor Day

The 29 million motorists expected to take to the highways over Thanksgiving will find that gasoline prices have dropped an average of 1.3 cents a gallon since Labor Day, the Blue Grass Automobile Club (AAA) reported recently. The average price, $1.256, is three cents higher than it was Thanksgiving a year ago.

Nationally, full service prices average $1.306 for regular, down 0.6, and $1.368 for unleaded, down 0.9 cents, since August 27, date of AAA's last survey.

Self service gasoline averages $1.138 for regular and $1.211 for unleaded, decreases of 1.9 cents and 1.8 cents, respectively. The difference between full and self service prices has widened to 16.2 cents a gallon, one cent more than reported in AAA's Labor Day survey.

Premium unleaded full-service is down 1.2 cents to $1.458 and premium unleaded self-serve went down 1.7 cents to $1.321 a gallon. The price of this grade of fuel is not included in the national average because of its relatively small share of the market.

Diesel fuel increased 2.9 cents a gallon to $1.279.

In its survey of service stations throughout Central and Eastern Kentucky, the Blue Grass Automobile Club also found gasoline prices have dropped since Labor Day.

Full-service regular decreased 2 cents to an average of $1.251 a gallon. Although unleaded increased 0.3 cents a gallon to $1.349, premium unleaded decreased 2.3 cents to $1.396 and diesel dropped 2.4 cents to $1.281 a gallon.

Self-service prices were down to $1.118 for regular and $1.206 for unleaded, a decrease of 1.9 cents for both.

AAA also reports that the average cents per gallon charge for credit card use is 4.5 cents and only about 10% of the stations across the state will be open 24 hours a day during the holiday. However about 52% of the stations will be open for the holiday period.

Jehovah's Witnesses To Meet in W. Va.

The Beaver Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses has received notice of a semi-annual circuit assembly to be held in Bluefield, West Virginia, at the Brushfork Armory, December 7 and 8.

Delegates will be arriving from 23 congregations in Virginia, Kentucky, and West Virginia. Burnis Jones, spokesman for the Beaver congregation, said, "We expect at least 1,500 delegates and friends to attend the sessions. We look forward to seeing one another, of course, but the real benefit from the program is the counsel from the Bible that helps us serve Jehovah God in a clean way."

Preparation is already underway to organize the different assembly departments and rehearse the parts on the program so all will go smoothly. The theme of the assembly is, "Doing Our Part in Glorifying God". One of the highlights of the program will be the baptism Saturday morning. The public talk on Sunday will be, "Global Peace—From What Source?" and will be presented by Mr. James Hinderer, a representative of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of Brooklyn, New York.

Jones continued, "Since the program is educational, no collection is taken. All seats are free and anyone is welcome."

"A good book is the best of friends, the same today and forever."

ASCS To Accept LTA Applications

Beginning December 2, and extending thru December 20, the Floyd County ASCS Office will be accepting applications for Long Term Agreements under the Agricultural Conservation Program.

Under LTA's, the applicant may receive cost-sharing on a number of practices designed to meet the particular needs of his farm as determined by a farm plan.

The LTA may last from three to five years and will consist of practices which are eligible through the regular, or annual, Agricultural Conservation Program. For further information, contact the Floyd County ASCS Office at 886-2802.

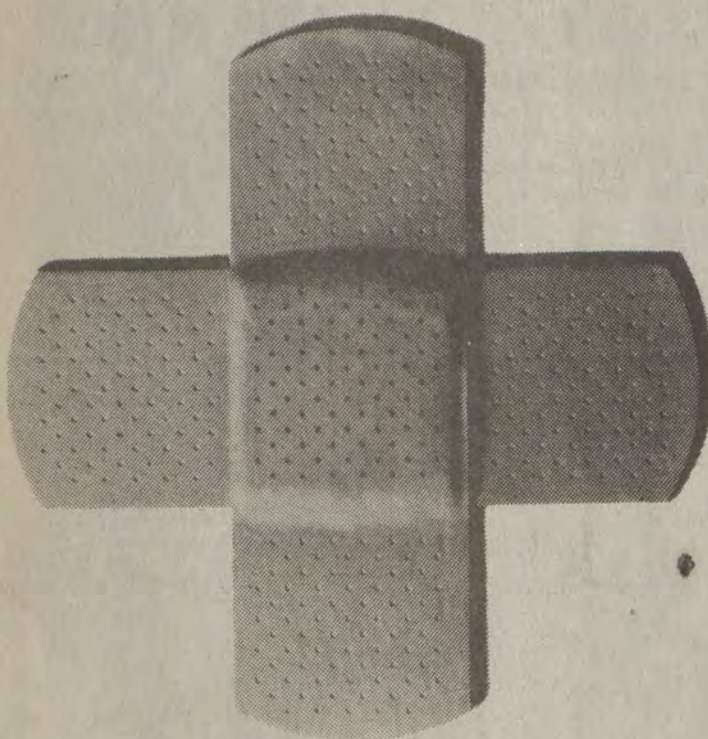

Do you need all that junk you've got in the trunk of your car? According to the December Reader's Digest, cutting down on extra weight such as snow tires or ski racks will improve your gas mileage.

VA Spending For Veterans

Expenditures by the Veterans Administration in Kentucky totaled nearly $427 million during fiscal year 1984, and in Floyd county the total was an estimated $3,850,013.

VA expenditures in Floyd county included $3,514,495 for disability compensation and pensions, $128,305 for readjustment and vocational rehabilitation, and $207,213 for insurance and indemnities.

Lee Caudill, director of the VA Regional Office in Louisville, reported on the estimated spending in Kentucky for various services and benefits. The largest portion, $260.2 million, represented disability compensation and pension checks to veterans, their dependents and survivors.

Approximately $121 million went toward medical services and administrative costs, and $28.6 million provided for GI Bill educational and vocational rehabilitation programs for Kentucky veterans, he said.

The remainder was spent for GI insurance and indemnities ($17.9 million) and construction and related costs ($3.5 million).

An estimated 402,000 veterans live in Kentucky. The VA has medical centers at Lexington and Louisville and a regional office in Louisville. Vet Centers to assist Vietnam-era veterans are in Lexington and Louisville and seven national cemeteries are in the state.

In Jefferson county, disbursements totaled $89.8 million, and in Fayette county, the VA spent $83.7 million.

Extension Office Offers Fruit Tree Order Info

The Floyd County Extension Office, along with adjoining county offices, is again offering to assist farmers and home owners in grouping orders for fruit tree and small fruit plants.

Orders for these plants must be into the Floyd County Extension Office along with full payment by December 12.

Delivery will be made about the first to the middle of March. Call 606-886-2668.

The U.S. Employment Service and affiliated state employment security agencies operate about 1,700 local Job Service offices to serve job seekers and employers. The assistance offered includes interviewing, testing, counseling, referral to training and other employability development resources, and placement in jobs, according to a U.S. Department of Labor fact sheet.

MUCH OF THE ARTWORK that decorated Prestonsburg store windows last week, as the city awaited the semi-final showdown between the Prestonsburg High School Blackcats and Newport Catholic, came from the brush of Tim Howell, 19, of East Point. Howell, a PHS senior and art student, is seen here putting the finishing touches on a window commissioned by Sherry's Shoes on Court Street.

Earn Academic Honors

Seventeen students have been named to the June Buchanan School honor roll for the second six weeks. Students appearing on the honor roll have earned an average grade point average between 3.50 and 4.00 (based on a 4.00 system).

Named to the honor roll were Brett Akers, son of Joyce Akers, of Martin; Bryce Amburgey, son of Wiley and Betty Amburgey, of Mallie; Jeffrey Davis, son of Jerry and Shirley Davis, of Pippa Passes; Julie Davis, daughter of Jerry and Shirley Davis, of Pippa Passes; Kenneth Davis, son of Len and Betty Davis and Kevin Davis, daughter and son of Olen and Betty Davis, of Mooresville, Ind.; Carolyn Hall, daughter of Don E. and Sylvia Hall, of Raven; Gina Hall, daughter of Maynard and Shelia Hall, of Garrett; Kevin Moore, son of Tandy and Dana Moore, of Garrett; Preeti Nayak, daughter of I.N. and Kanaka Nayak, of Hazard; Natasha Smith, daughter of Melvin E. and Sharon Smith, of Hazard; Jami Spicer, daughter of James and Carol Spicer, of Jackson; Heather Thornsberry, daughter of Albert and Nita Thornsberry, of Hollybush; Keith Webb, son of Earl and Mary Frances Webb, of Langley; Arnie Williams, son of Burnett and Wilma Williams, of Pippa Passes; Rhonda Willis, daughter of David and Patsy Willis, of Prestonsburg; Brian Zimmer, son of Charles and Janice Zimmer, of Inez.

In 1823 Justice Johnson of the United States Supreme Court wrote that the Constitution was "The most wonderful instrument ever drawn by the hand of man." The Daughters of the American Revolution urge you to discover precisely what he meant during Constitution Week, September 17th through 23rd, the one hundred ninety-seventh anniversary of the drafting of this comprehensive document. Visit your library and read the Constitution. Know your rights and responsibilities. Study your Constitution.

The Daughters of the American Revolution remind us that the week of September 17th through 23rd has been proclaimed by the President of the United States of America as Constitution Week. If our Nation is to remain vital, it must maintain the spirit of liberty expressed in our Constitution. If we fail to guard that spirit, and become indifferent to the worth of our freedom, we will have lost the right to freedom. Read your Constitution.

State Idle Rate Grows

Nonmanufacturing equipment hit an all-time record in Kentucky in the month of October. Yet, as more Kentuckians searched for jobs, the state's unemployment rate went up for the second month in a row.

The rate rose from a revised 8.9 percent in September to a preliminary 9.2 percent in October, according to figures released by the Cabinet for Human Resources. The October, 1984 rate was 8.5 percent.

Nationally the rate inched downward, from 6.9 percent in September to 6.8 percent in October. The comparable state and national rates are not seasonally adjusted.

Kentucky's work force rose by 4,200 in October, according to state labor market analyst Ed Blackwell, "but many of these people simply weren't able to find jobs."

He said nonmanufacturing wage and salary jobs totaled 1,002,800 in October. The increase by 4,200 positions allowed Kentucky to surpass the million mark for that type employment for the first time in history.

This broad category includes construction, finance, insurance and real estate, government, mining, services, trade and transportation, communications and utilities.

"Trade employment grew by 2,700 between September and October," Blackwell said. "We showed gains in apparel and accessory stores, automotive dealers and service stations, restaurants and supermarkets."

In education, 1,900 more people were added to the payroll between September and October. Employment in this category has increased by 6,800 since October 1984.

More jobs also were reported in agriculture (1,600), transportation, communications and utilities (700), construction (300) and finance, insurance and real estate (100).

Offsetting these gains was a decline in manufacturing employment for the second month in a row. "We were seeing some slow gains in this area, but manufacturing jobs dropped by 1,100 between August and September and again between September and October," Blackwell said. "This pushed the manufacturing employment level to 4,900 below the October 1984 figure."

Decreases also were reported in service jobs. "We lost 1,000 service jobs between September and October," Blackwell said. "Many of these were in amusement and recreation services and hotels as the vacation season was winding down. Other decreases were in auto repair services and health services."

Another 300 jobs were lost in bituminous coal mining, which pushed employment in this category to 2,100 below the October 1984 level.

The estimated number of Kentuckians working in October was 1,566,700, down 2,200 from the September figure of 1,568,900 and 33,100 below the October 1984 report of 1,599,800.

No Points For Ducks

Kentucky's duck hunters won't need to carry a calculator with them this year. When the statewide duck season opens Nov. 28, hunters will be working under a conventional bag limit rather than the point system, which required them to know numerical values for each species and add these values to determine their daily limit.

With the conventional limit, the daily bag may contain no more than four ducks, with no more than two mallards (only one a female), one black duck, two wood ducks and two pintails. There is also a daily limit of one canvasback and one redhead. The possession limit is the maximum which could have been taken in two days.

Granny Toothman Found Axis Sally A Good Weaver But 'An Old Bat'

Granny Toothman, spinner of yarns and yarn, at her spinning wheel.

By KENN JOHNSON

"I'm a spinner of yarn and yarns," Granny Toothman tells visitors to Morehead State University's Folk Art Gallery as she pedals her 150-year-old saxony spinning wheel to a steady, mesmerizing hum.

Since September, Granny—a name she encourages—has been the gallery's weaver/spinner in residence, storyteller and star attraction. Her demonstrations in traditional crafts often attract admiring crowds, but it is her flair for storytelling that keeps them gathered near her wheel, sometimes for hours at a stretch.

Most of Granny's stories are autobiographical. She was born Lyndall Toothman 75 years ago in Williamsburg, W. Va., where she lived in a log cabin until she was 20 making clothes, soap, toys and other items for her family. The hardships of the Depression further increased her knowledge of useful crafts. "We had to make everything just to get by," she said.

In the 1940s she taught weaving at a women's prison in Alderson, W. Va., where one of her students was "Axis Sally," the Nazi war criminal. "She was an old bat. A good weaver, but she never saw any good in anything," Granny said.

After 13 years with her prison job—and at an age when most people are more inclined toward dreams of retirement than adventure—Granny swapped her furniture for a pick-up truck and trailer and worked her way west picking cherries, apples and hops.

In the 1950s, Granny worked at amusement parks such as Knotts Berry Farm in California and Old Tucson in Arizona, where she gave demonstrations. "At Old Tucson, they were filming the TV series 'High Chapparal,' and it was my job to entertain tourists between scenes," she said.

It was during one of those breaks in filming that Granny's career took another interesting turn. A woman watching Granny work challenged her to spin the hair of the woman's three Samoyed dogs into yarn. "I did it and we got 13 pounds of yarn from those dogs. It only takes about two pounds for a sweater," Granny said.

Since then, Granny has entertained thousands of amusement parks, festival and fair visitors from California and Florida by spinning almost any fiber they can suggest. She has spun the hair from more than 100 breeds of dogs, buffalo fur, yucca plants, Clydesdale mane and penguin belly fuzz. According to Granny, the penguin fuzz was the most difficult to acquire, because it is only found on newborn penguins.

A board displays dozens of photos and yarn samples that Granny has collected during the 30 years she has been giving demonstrations.

Among the photos of camels, dogs, lions and other exotic creatures that have given their hair for Granny's yarn is a photo of a bald man with a chest-deep beard.

"That fellow bet me I couldn't make yarn out of his beard. He lost. Human hair makes excellent yarn, especially curly hair," she said.

Granny and MSU formed their current relationship as a result of her frequent visits to the Appalachian Celebration, a festival the University coordinates each summer.

"Tom Sternal (chair of MSU's Department of Arts) asked me if I knew how to put together an old loom he had lying in a room at the school. We had to build a few new pieces, but we got it done in a day and a half. One thing led to another, and now I'm working at the gallery all of the time," she explained.

Granny's craft exhibitions at the gallery are jointly sponsored by MSU and the federal Green Thumb project, a supplementary program for Social Security recipients. She spends 24 hours a week at the gallery, which is located in the Claypool-Young Art Building.

Wearing traditional mountain clothing, Granny weaves, spins and entertains visitors with her talent and wit.

"I love doing this. Talking and spinning is the most relaxing thing I know," she said. "That's why men didn't use to cheat on their wives like they do today. They'd sit in a room with a spinning wheel and a big old fire and be content to stay put."

MOST AFFORDABLE PRECIOUS

Diamond Pendants

Enhance your neckline with these superb diamond pendants crafted in precious fourteen karat gold. Graduated diamond sizes at graduated affordable prices.

Quality comes in all shapes.

There's more to a diamond than meets the eye. And whether the diamond is in good shape or not has little to do with the shape of the diamond. It has to do with quality. Quality as determined by the 4C's: Cut, Color, Clarity, and Carat-Weight.

Cut: Some diamonds make the cut. Every cut of a diamond is defined by a precise mathematical formula to allow the maximum amount of light in. Quality comes in all cuts, or shapes. But the quality of the cut, or make of the diamond directly affects its light handling capabilities.

Color: Lighten your world. The gradations from totally colorless (pure white) to yellowish. The less color the diamond itself has, the more colors it can reflect out.

Clarity: You're clearly there. The degree to which a diamond is free of exterior and interior inclusions. The clearer the diamond, the clearer your choice.

Carat-Weight: Size it up. The size of the diamond measured in carats. First decide on the size that's right for you. Then choose the highest quality diamond in that size range.

4C Four characteristics that determine the quality of a diamond. Consult me.

PLAN STATE MEET
Mrs. James B. Goble, sixth district director of the Daughters of the American Revolution, met Nov. 12, at the Marriott Resort, Lexington, with Mrs. Tracy W. Neal, state regent, Miss Sarah Hall, state treasurer, and Mrs. Winston DeGrosse, Fifth district director, to formulate plans for the Kentucky Society, D.A.R. state conference to be held at the Marriott Resort next March.

HONOR BRIDE-ELECT
Miss Rhonda Whitt, bride-elect of Mr. James Scanlon, was honored Saturday evening, Nov. 23, with a miscellaneous shower at the annex of the Irene Cole Memorial (First) Baptist Church. The serving table had for its centerpiece, a bouquet of fall flowers, flanked by candelabra holding tall candles. Decorated cake, punch and other refreshments were served. Gifts included silverware, china, and miscellaneous items. Hostesses for the occasion were: Mesdames Eva Collins, Judy Hooker, Ada Meade, Susan Akers, Lucy Regan, Myrtle Allen, Dolly Pettrey, Rebecca Rasnick, Dacia Woods, Julia Harrington, Gay Herring, Lenora Leslie, Betty Green, Ruby Garrett, Phyllis Kalos, Orella McGuire, Peggy Carter, Alma Rice, and Totty Johnson.

SEE GAME
Among those attending the University of Kentucky-Tennessee football game Saturday were Gorman Collins, Jr., of Prestonsburg, and Jim Frazier, of Allen.

ATTENDS BEREAS CLASSES
Mrs. Zella Archer attended a series of classes on Asian studies, with emphasis on Oriental religions, at Berea College, November 10-16. She was joined for lunch on Sunday by her granddaughter, Miss Lori Ellen Trosper, a student at Georgetown College.

COMMITTEE MEETS
Members of the Alice Lloyd College Planning committee from this county met Tuesday afternoon, at the Floyd County Library. Arthur Haywood, president of Floyd alumni, was in charge of the meeting. Mr. Haywood appointed a nominating committee to select officers for 1986-'87. Mrs. Haywood served refreshments.

ATTEND LUNCHEON
Mrs. Zella Archer was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Bill Trosper, of Somerset, when she attended a luncheon given by President Hanly Funderburk, of Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond. Mrs. Archer, as a member of the alumni legislation network, was among the guests of honor at the luncheon at the Keen Johnson Building, Nov. 9.

ATTEND FUNERAL
Among the relatives of Dr. G.A. Culbertson, formerly of Prestonsburg, who attended funeral services for him in Paris, Ky. last week were Mesdames Peg Hewlett, Myrtle Davis and Jane Howard and daughter, Miss Vanessa Howard, of Prestonsburg, Mr. and Mrs. Lon Hill, of Huntington, W. Va., and their son, Atty. Tom C. Hill, of Cincinnati, Judge and Mrs. Edward P. Hill, of Frankfort, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Jones, of Corbin, Mrs. Julia Hill, of Mt. Sterling, Mr. and Mrs. Don Robertson and sons, Clint and David, of Gainesville, Va., and Mr. and Mrs. J. Tom Hewlett, of Lexington.

SPEAKERS AT CLUB MEET
Mrs. Jody Mullins, of Dwayne, and Mrs. Terry Ousley, of Blue River, were guest-speakers at the luncheon-meeting last Thursday of the Prestonsburg Kiwanians at May Lodge. Mrs. Mullins and Mrs. Ousley, who are sisters, are completing the manuscript of a book, "The Dark Mermaid," and members in attendance were impressed with the effort these two young housewives are making to ready the manuscript for publication.

The devotions were given by Mrs. M. Robert Regan, who based her discussion on Thanksgiving, and read a poem, "Show Me the Way," by Helen Steiner Rice. Mrs. Jane Bond, president, who presided, expressed her thanks to those who had helped with the serving of food furnished by the Kiwanians and Kiwanians for the recent heart clinic held at the Floyd County Health Department.

The president said that the business men of Prestonsburg are sponsoring a Christmas parade, and that the tentative date is set for November 30, at 2 p.m.

It was decided that, due to the forthcoming holidays, the club's Christmas luncheon will be held Thursday, Dec. 19, at 12:30 p.m., at May Lodge. Members wishing to attend should make reservations with the telephone committee before that time.

Enjoying Thursday's meeting were guests, Mrs. Terry Ousley and Mrs. Jody Mullins, and members, Mesdames Jane Bond, Lucy Regan, Barbara Dawson, Jane Wallace, May K. Roberts, Mabel Jean LeMaster, Rebecca Rasnick, Mary Margaret Webb, Dolly Pettrey, Myrtle Allen, and Zella Archer.

Congratulations!

To Coach Williams, your staff and The Blackcats. While you won't be winners at state this year (maybe next year) I think you've won the greatest gift of all—the gifts of LOVE, RESPECT and HEARTS of so many people, and one young man in particular.

Congratulations Coach

December 2, 12 Noon to 6 P.M.
FIRST ASSEMBLY OF GOD, MARTIN, KY.

- + A mini-physical will be given to all donors.
- + You will receive a card to carry with you of your blood type.
- + Anyone who participates, the American Red Cross Blood Band will be available to their families.

The American Red Cross has been here when we have needed them, let's join together and show our gratitude. Because you donate, blood has been available to patients when they needed it to live or regain health. Only continued blood donation by caring people like you can ensure that blood will always be there when needed. Urge your friends and co-workers to join you in the lifesaving ranks of voluntary blood donors.

Appointments are available by calling 285-5155.

WALK-INS are welcome.

Blood, "The Gift of Life", is one of the few things that an individual can give to others at no expense to himself while to the recipient, the gift is invaluable.

VISIT MRS. SMITH
Mrs. E.A. Smith was visited last weekend at Mountain Manor by Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Smith, of Kingsport, Tenn., Mr. and Mrs. E.A. Smith, Jr., of Olney, Illinois, and Mrs. Linda Franklin and Lauren Franklin, of Lexington.

GUESTS HERE
Mr. and Mrs. C.M. Isaacs had as their guests last week, her sister, Mrs. Garnette Morgan, and daughter, Jeanette, of Destin and Fort Walton Beach, Fla.; his brother, Millard Hall, and nephew, Philip Hall, and wife, Elizabeth, of Topmost, and Miss Pauline Wallace, of Allen. Mrs. Morgan and daughter Jeanette left Sunday for West Virginia, where they will visit other family members.

HONORED ON ANNIVERSARY
Flowers in the sanctuary of the Irene Cole Memorial (First) Baptist Church last Sunday were for Fred and Orpha Meece on their 50th wedding anniversary, from Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bottoms and Dr. and Mrs. Fred Meece and their families.

ANNOUNCE BIRTH
Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Burchett, of Winchester, announces the birth of a daughter, Mary Elise, at the Clark County Hospital, Nov. 12. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Burchett, and the maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. C.J. McNally, all of Prestonsburg. Mrs. Clyde Burchett spent two weeks recently with her son and family.

ATTEND FAMILY MEET
Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wallace were in Stanton, Friday, when they attended a family breakfast given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Rose. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Rose, of Clay City, Elbert Stephens, of Nicholasville, Miss Reola Welch, of Rosslyn, Ky., the hosts and daughter, Bonnie.

VISIT RELATIVES
Mrs. Frank Thompson and son, David, of Durham, N.C., and her daughter, Mrs. Marianna Reynolds, of New York City, are here to spend Thanksgiving with her mother, Mrs. Homer Salisbury, her aunt, Miss Maurine Mayo, and other relatives.

REPRESENTS CHAPTER
Mrs. James B. Goble, Sixth district director, Daughters of The American Revolution, represented John Graham Chapter, and the Sixth district at a board of management meeting, KSDAR, at the Springs Motel in Lexington, Nov. 13. One important announcement made during this meeting was concerning a new book, "Ancestor Roster KSDAR," which will be available at the state D.A.R. Conference, in March.

TO HOLD CHRISTMAS PARTY
The annual Christmas party of the Prestonsburg Woman's Club will be held at the home of Mrs. Barbara Dawson, Thursday evening, Dec. 5, at 7 o'clock. Cohostesses with Mrs. Dawson will be members of the club's executive board, Mesdames Sharon Sparr, Rebecca Rasnick, Clare Day, Dorothy Stover, Docia B. Woods, Elizabeth Ramey, Kathryn Poe, Arnita Snavelly, and Susie Poe. The program leader will be the club president, Mrs. Sharon Sparr. A music program will be given by Mrs. Edith James and Miss Betty Rowland. All club members are urged to attend.

BIRTH OF SON
Mr. and Mrs. Stan Urbanski, of Whittier, Calif., announce the arrival of a son, Peter Stanislaw Urbanski, on October 26, here. The baby, who is also being welcomed by his two-year-old sister, Lara, is the grandson of Mrs. Virginia Jeffries, of Prestonsburg.

VISITED BY FAMILY MEMBERS
Mrs. Marietta Crager had as her houseguests recently members of her family, Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Crager and daughter, Miss Le Ann Crager, of Flatwoods, and Mr. and Mrs. Andy Knicoley, of St. Albans, W. Va. The Bobby Crager family also spent some time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Hicks.

HERE FROM PENNSYLVANIA
Mr. and Mrs. David Moyer, of Landenberg, Pa., arrived Monday to spend Thanksgiving here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Heinze, and other relatives.

ENTERTAIN GUESTS
Mrs. Virginia Shivel and Mrs. Josephine Fields had as their houseguests during the past week-end members of their family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Maranville, Lee Moranville and Mrs. Anna Laura Boulas, of Lexington. While here, they also spent some time visiting other relatives and friends.

TO DECORATE LODGE
Members of Floyd county homemakers' clubs, under the direction of Mrs. Frances Pitts, will participate in the decoration of May Lodge and the Christmas tree there, on Dec. 9. On December 12, "Christmas at the Lodge" will be observed, and homemakers from throughout the county will gather there to view their handiwork, and to lunch together. All club members are urged to attend.

CONDITION IMPROVES
The condition of Mrs. Anna Lowe, who was a patient for a time at the Highlands Regional Medical Center, and is now at her home here, is satisfactory. Her many friends and relatives are concerned about her.

To Wed Dec. 26
Mr. and Mrs. Larry L. Lafferty, of Allen, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Marsha Ann, to Paul David Rice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Rice, of Hueysville. The ceremony will take place December 26 at 2:30 p.m. at the Community United Methodist Church in Prestonsburg, Ky. The gracious custom of open church will be observed and a reception will follow immediately in the church fellowship hall. Miss Lafferty is the granddaughter of Woodrow and Billie Lafferty, of Prestonsburg and of Darwin and Dottie Lafferty, of Emma. Mr. Rice is the grandson of Mrs. Hazel Rice, of Prestonsburg, and the late Jim Rice, of Garrett, and the late Claude and Billie Prater, of Hueysville.

HAS LUNCHEON GUESTS
Mrs. Dania Bingham had as her Sunday luncheon guest Mrs. Alice Bayes. Her guests on Sunday afternoon were Mesdames Marietta Crager, Willia Mae Branham and Belvie Wills. From there, Mrs. Crager and Mrs. Bayes went to Indian Hills, where they visited Mrs. Sylvia Patton Lowe.

GUEST AT LODGE
Mrs. Edith James was the supper guest of Miss Ethel Burke, at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, Saturday. They then attended the viewing of "Halley's Comet," conducted by Dr. Ray McNeil. Mrs. James, who had seen the comet in 1910, was introduced.

CHRISTMAS CELEBRATION SET
Women of the Irene Cole Memorial (First) Baptist Church will hold their annual Christmas celebration at the home of the group's president, Mrs. Patty Minns, next Monday, at 6:30 p.m. Husbands and guests of members are invited to attend.

COURT ST.-PRESTONSBURG, KY.

HOSPITAL VOLUNTEER. Anna Mae Spencer, at left, says her volunteer work enables her to see people she hasn't seen in years. Here she waits on two such friends, Eunice Hall, center, and Margie Osborne, in Our Lady of the Way Hospital's gift shop.

Anna Spencer, Louise West and Linda Holbrook don't get paychecks for their work at Our Lady of the Way Hospital. But somehow they feel blessed instead of cheated.

"It's enjoyable work," says Anna Mae Spencer, who has given the hospital more than 500 hours of her time, "and it's rewarding to be able to do something for someone who needs help."

Louise West agrees. She too finds benefit in her efforts to "say or do something to make somebody's day easier."

"When you see those smiling faces on those sick people, your heart just swells," comments Linda Holbrook. "You want to do more."

"Doing" can mean many different tasks and, like other hospital volunteers, these three women have done a variety of them.

Anna Mae Spencer works on the nursing floor one day per week. Among many other things, she passes out ice and water, delivers food trays, and takes patients to radiology for x-rays.

"You name it, I've done it," she chuckles. "I just pinch hit where I'm needed."

Pinch hitting includes helping out in the hospital gift shop a different day each week.

The nursing floor and gift shop have also been aided by Louise West. But telephone surveys of former patients, filing, chauffeuring, and soliciting donations have also worked their way into the one or two days she spends each week at Our Lady of the Way.

Although she has performed many of the above-mentioned services, Linda Holbrook has also coached pregnant patients through labor and helped employees with bookkeeping and pastoral care work. Increasing responsibilities as a wife, mother, childbirth educator, and Girl Scout leader have reduced her volunteer days from one day per week to when she can, usually one day per month.

Linda Holbrook became a volunteer after her daughter, Jennifer, was hospitalized with pneumonia at Our Lady of the Way Hospital in 1981.

"It was so nice," remembers Linda of the volunteer who asked if she could do anything at that difficult time. "It means so much to have somebody else care."

Linda Holbrook has continued that caring even though she says "Seeing death or sick babies tears me up."

Anna Mae Spencer sees the difficulties of volunteering in a lighter vein. "You can't go loafing anytime you want," she teases in reference to the time she likes to spend at the Martin Senior Citizens' Center. "I have to fill an obligation here."

The volunteer services of men and women age 14 and up are always welcome at Our Lady of the Way Hospital. For more information, call Sister Ann Koebel at 285-5181.

Governor Announces Home-Buyer Loans

Gov. Martha Layne Collins has announced that more than 2,500 lower and moderate income individuals and families throughout Kentucky may be eligible to purchase a home through Kentucky Housing Corporation's (KHC) single-family program. Governor Collins' announcement was made in conjunction with KHC's selling a $100,000,000 bond issue that will provide a 9 3/8% interest rate on a 25-year mortgage for lower and moderate income households. The interest rate will not change during the life of the loan.

To qualify for a KHC loan a family or individual may earn up to $25,000 gross income and may purchase a house costing no more than $46,000 ($52,000 in certain Eastern Kentucky counties). Unless living in federally designated targeted areas, applicants may not have owned a house in the past three years.

According to KHC executive director F. Lynn Luallen, the application period will be 18 months. During the first 60 days, commitments will only be made on loans to those persons earning 80% or less of the State Median Income. Using figures from the federal government, the median family income in the state of Kentucky is $22,500. Eighty percent of median is $18,000.

The Kentucky Housing Corporation (KHC) was created by the Kentucky Legislature in the 1972 session. Its purpose is to provide safe, decent and sanitary housing to lower and moderate income citizens of Kentucky. KHC provides this service primarily through the funding of loans for single-family and multi-family residences. The interest on those loans is below market rates.

Funds for the mortgages are provided through the sale of bonds and notes, the interest of which is exempt from federal and state income taxes. KHC receives no state funds, and its programs are self supporting.

VETERANS' COUNSELOR HERE

Jack D. Clark, Field Veterans Benefit Counselor of the Kentucky Center for Veterans Affairs will be in Prestonsburg, December 4, at the National Guard Armory. Office hours will be from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

New Information Officer

E. Carol Blevins has been hired to fill the position of public information officer at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Miss Blevins received her bachelor's and master's degrees in communication from the University of Kentucky. Her previous experience includes work in public relations for Kentucky Educational Television, news reporting for WSIP Radio in Paintsville and teaching at Prestonsburg Community College.

She is a Johnson county native and is the daughter of Edna Boyd Blevins, of West Van Lear, and the late Charley Blevins. She is a 1976 graduate of Paintsville High School.

Prayer Service Set

Our Lady of the Way Hospital will have its annual Memorial Prayer Service on Sunday, November 24 at 2 p.m. in the hospital chapel.

Although the service gives special remembrance to hospital patients who died during the past year, relatives and friends who have lost a loved one anywhere and at any time are welcome to attend.

"The memorial prayer service is part of our bereavement program," said Sister Marie Gangwish, the hospital chaplain who planned the service. "We try to offer comfort by way of prayer and sharing to those who are suffering because their loved ones have died."

Refreshments will follow the prayer service. For more information, contact Sister Marie at 285-5181.

"Fields are won by those who believe in the winning." Thomas Wentworth

28 Receive Belt Promotions at PCC

Grandmaster Hyun Ok Shin, 9th degree Blackbelt and chairman of the New York Chung Do Kwan Association, administered a rank examination for members of the Prestonsburg Community College Tae Kwon Do Club, Sunday, November 17 at PCC. Awarded yellow belts were Scotty Hall, Shawn Robinson, Tommy Gibson, Brian Hardison, Adam Titlow, Shaun Hammonds, Josh McKenzie, Chris Allen, Bobby Hamilton, Stephanie DeRossett and Chad Slone. Green belts were achieved by Wan Jani, George Lee, Modell Cooley, Libby Ratcliff, Tony Skeens and Lester Jones. Tobin Won was promoted to purple belt. Receiving 4th gup red belts were Janine Lee, Brian Jones, David Lee, Rod Wooten, Eric Ratcliff, David Frazier and Eric Baldrige, while Mark Vanderpool and Corrie Goebeler received 3rd gup red belts. Roger Derossett was promoted to plus-1 brown belt.

Shin, who operates Tae Kwon Do schools in Floral Park, New York, makes the trip to Kentucky three times a year to test the PCC and University of Kentucky Tae Kwon Do clubs. He was assisted at the PCC test by Jeff Weddle and Steve Farmer, head instructors of the PCC and UK clubs, respectively.

The Head Louse...

No Respector of Persons

Each fall as cooler weather arrives, children pull out the old wool cap and scarf to head for school. Eventually, that cap or scarf may carry an unwanted stowaway waiting to overrun the whole class, even the entire school.

The culprit is the head louse. The mere mention of lice is synonymous with "cooties" and conjures up the image of dirty children who lack personal hygiene. This is a myth.

Head lice know no socio-economic bounds, said pharmacist JoAnn Johnson. They don't care if you are rich or poor, immaculate or unkempt. They only see a creature that provides a warm habitat and a plentiful food supply—your hair and your blood. They aren't choosy. Anyone can get head lice.

Of the three species of lice known to man, head lice are the most common in the United States. They are most often found on school-age children from kindergarten through eighth grade among whom head-to-head contact is frequent. These children then carry their infestation home to the family.

A head search will seldom locate the parasite. Head lice are small, two to three mm (.08 to .12 inch) long and whitish to gray-black in color. They quickly scurry from bright light.

Generally, the evidence is found behind ears or near the neckline where the egg cases (nits) are cemented to the hair shaft. Nits may also be attached to head gear, that old cap and scarf.

The female will lay 50 to 150 nits during her short lifetime, three weeks or more, depending on conditions. The nits hatch in five to 10 days and the young resemble the adults, except smaller.

In order to shorten the louse's lifetime, effective medications should be carefully applied. Lice cannot be removed or killed by bathing with ordinary soaps or shampoos.

Medicated shampoos, ointments, lotions or dusts from pharmacists or a physician's prescription can be used to quickly kill lice and nits on the body.

Normal laundering with hot soapy water or dry cleaning will kill lice and nits on clothing and bedding. Dry storage of body louse-infested clothing for three weeks or more is sufficient to kill these lice by starvation.

Personal items such as hats, combs, hair brushes and towels often transfer lice, so these items should not be shared. They should be thoroughly cleaned after each use.

Head lice infestations in schools often are difficult to control and in some cases lead to unnecessary pesticide use, said Chris Christensen, Extension entomologist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. The key to control in these situations is thorough insecticidal treatment of all children in the infested classes, he said. In addition, the family members of these children must

Employment Service May Help Job Search

Thousands of Kentuckians look for temporary jobs each year during the holiday season. And many have found that local offices of the Department for Employment Services are good places to shop for jobs.

Staff in these local offices already have begun referring job applicants to employers. Types of jobs available differ from one local office to another, according to Harry Dickerson, director of the department's Division of Field Services.

"The first thing many people think of when we mention seasonal work at this time of year is a job in a department store," he said. "But employers call our local offices and place orders for a wide variety of jobs."

Department figures for the last six years show an increase of 5,000 to 7,000 trade jobs between November and December. "These include jobs in department stores, the tobacco market, groceries and restaurants," Dickerson said.

The department made a total of nearly 10,000 job placements during November and December 1984.

In the Covington and Paducah areas the department has agreements with many stores to take applications and make job referrals. "While we don't have similar agreements with all stores in Kentucky, our local offices still are a good source of labor market information and job locations," Dickerson said.

While many retail sales jobs end in December, most tobacco trade jobs last through January.

Again this year department officials expect the supply of jobseekers to be greater than the demand. "People who just want temporary seasonal jobs will be competing with those who have been laid off from full time jobs and will accept short term work until they can get full time jobs again," he said.

While most holiday season jobs already may be filled this year, the department frequently receives additional placement requests. So people interested in such job opportunities still may check with local Employment Services offices.

"One important thing we want people to remember is that historically the department has tried to help all job applicants, whether they are looking for full time or part time, temporary or permanent work," Dickerson said.

Game Violations Reported

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife reports good results from concerned citizens who have called the department's toll free telephone number to report game violations. If you have knowledge of anyone committing a violation of fish and wildlife laws call 1-800-25ALERT to report it. If you do not wish to give your name or identify yourself it is not necessary to do so.

A new state-wide radio network coupled with 24-hour dispatchers in Fish and Wildlife's Frankfort office means that responses to calls on the toll-free numbers can be made quickly. During the recently completed deer season, several arrests were made because of this increased response time.

403 Laid Off In Martin Co.

Last Wednesday morning's announcement that the Martiki Coal Corp. had dismissed all but 81 of its employees was bad news not only to Martin county where the coal mining operation is located. An unknown number of men from Floyd, Johnson and other nearby counties lost their jobs.

In all, it was said, 403 men were laid off. An estimated 65 percent of these are residents of Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Lawrence and Pike counties.

Officials at Mapco, Inc., of Tulsa, Okla., were quoted as saying they laid the men off because of a "dramatic slump" in the coal market, but some United Mine Workers officials have suggested that recent disputes between labor and management led to the non-union mine's drastic cutback.

The loss of jobs will cost Martin county alone about $10 million, it is estimated. The county's government will be a big loser in coal severance taxes.

DRIFT NEWS

The Drift Woman's Club met November 18 at the club house. Correspondence was read by the president, Ruby Akers, who discussed the art and music contests to be held at Pikeville in March. Miss Akers also gave details of an upcoming European tour.

Taunya Shelton, health planner/ombudsman with Big Sandy ADD, is coordinating a visitation plan in area nursing homes, and Jerri Turner and Carolyn Martin, second grade teachers at McDowell will be organizing an adopt-a-grandparent program involving the elderly in the nursing homes. Cheryl Hall, volunteer for Alternatives, Inc., explained the purpose of the organization and gave suggestions on how the members could help and items needed. Beth Ward, chairman of the Conservation Committee, presented plans and ideas on how to beautify the community; Doris Lawson announced she will be sponsoring a type-a-thon at Garth Vocational Center in December to aid Muscular Dystrophy.

Five new members were welcomed, Carolyn Martin, Chris Stumbo, Tommie Whicker, Minha Stumbo, and Taunya Shelton. Other members present were Roberta Luxmore, Anna Sue Stumbo, Doris Lawson, Ruby Akers, Lynn Stumbo, Jerri Turner, Cheryl Hall, Beth Ward, Geraldine Ward and hostess Chris Kidd.

The next meeting will be the Christmas party, December 16, at the home of Cheryl Hall.

City Vote Totals

Belatedly, The Times publishes for the record the official returns in the Prestonsburg city election. (The vote as it appeared in our election night story was incomplete, since at that time the absentee votes had not been counted.)

Ann Latta polled 870 votes to Harry Short's 287 in the race for mayor. The vote for council members was, in the order the candidates' names appeared on the ballot:

Bobby Ranier 604, Robert G. Carpenter 272, Harry Ray Porter 559, Harold A. Baldrige 351, Ashland Joseph 491, Gary D. Brown 591, Burl C. Shepherd 382, Frank A. Adams 587, Chuck B. Akers 351, Thomas "Rube" Tackett 548, Roy Dean Roberts 461, Eunice Shepherd 514, William O. Goebel, III, 624, Margie N. Osborne 547, William R. Callihan 657.

The absentee votes made no change in the election outcome. The eight council winners were Callihan, Osborne, Goebel, Tackett, Adams, Brown, Porter and Ranier.

AUXIER NEWS

The Auxier Community Development Club will hold a special meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday, December 3, at the school lunchroom. Everyone is urged to attend this important meeting.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

SINUS ACHE

Very often, people with colds complain that their sinuses ache. A "sinus ache" is caused by the swelling of membranes and mucus in the sinuses. Usually, sinus congestion is just an extension of a cold from nasal passages. Allergies are another cause. An additional cause of sinus congestion is the bacterial infection of a sinus. Unlike the congestion of a cold, bacterial infections are usually more painful. The pain may often localize over one particular sinus and the skin over that sinus may sometimes be tender. A sinus infection caused by bacteria needs to be treated with antibiotics in addition to decongestants. A physician should be consulted.

COOLEY APOTHECARY carries what you would expect to find in a well-inventoried drug store. We are very proud to be able to provide families in this area with all their pharmaceutical needs. Our records are fully maintained so that they can be readily available to both you and your physician. You'll find us located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106 and open Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4. Master Charge and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments.

HANDY HINT:
 A decongestant is all that is generally needed to treat the blocked nasal passages and secretions of a cold.

Honored For Services To Needy

Dr. Bashir Ameji, family practice, and Dr. Sayeeda Kadeer, Pediatrician and Neonatologist, of Paintsville, were among the honored at a luncheon in the Governor's Mansion, October 17. Gov. Martha Layne Collins expressed her appreciation of their services to the needy and poor.

Steel Shot Not Required

The Fish and Wildlife Commission's decision to restrict waterfowl hunters to non-toxic steel shot in the Western Goose Zone will not go into effect until the 1986-87 season. Lead shot will be allowed for all waterfowl hunting in Kentucky through the 1985-86 seasons, the latest of which is scheduled to close Jan. 31, 1986.

High lead levels in several waterfowl areas in Western Kentucky necessitated the commission's decision to require non-toxic shot. However, implementation was delayed until the 1986-87 seasons to allow retailers time to stock steel loads and to give waterfowl hunters an opportunity to become familiar with shooting steel loads.

The Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources is planning a series of seminars to acquaint hunters with the ballistics of steel shot. Specific dates and places will be announced in the future.

AUXIER HOMEMAKERS CLUB MEETS

The Auxier Homemakers Club met Thursday, November 7, at the home of Mrs. Sue Wells. The devotional was given by Mrs. Betty Curnutte, and Mrs. Frances Pitts announced the dates for upcoming workshops with a demonstration on gift wrapping and bow making.

Those present were Brenda McKenzie, Audrey Hall, Peggy Wells, Mrs. Frances Pitts, Betty Curnutte and Sue Wells.

The next meeting will be Thursday, December 5, at 7 p.m. at the home of Betty Curnutte. Each member is to bring a Christmas ornament for exchange.

If you saw the movie "2001," you saw scenes of a lavish garden growing in space. As our present day space program progresses and people spend longer periods of time in space, the need to grow food plants in space will become ever more pressing. A good deal of the needed technology already exists in the form of hydroponics—the process of growing plants in water or in inert support media.

Many people have hydroponically rooted stem cuttings or plant leaves for years. I remember little jelly glasses filled with water and African violet leaves lining the sunny window sills of my grandmother's kitchen. The only problem with that system is that the roots that form on these plant parts fail to develop a protective root covering (the root cap) which makes transplanting them into a solid potting soil difficult. Plants rooted hydroponically are better left to simply grow hydroponically.

When plants are grown hydroponically, they are grown either with their roots in water or in gravel, sand, vermiculite or some other inert material that simply serves to support the plant. The key, however, is that a nutrient solution must be supplied to the plant via the water or inert support material in order to provide the essential elements for growth. The nutrient solution can simply be liquid fertilizer which is always present in diluted form in the water or can be applied to the inert medium on a regular basis.

Hydroponic systems are used not only for growing houseplants, but also for commercial production of vegetable crops and for research in plant physiology and nutrition. Where crop land is scarce or of poor quality, large scale food production may be done hydroponically. If you've been to Epcot Center at Disney World, you may have seen the hydroponic production of lettuce where a nutrient solution is regularly sprayed on the lettuce plants' roots.

There are several advantages to hydroponic plant production. Although the plants may grow in water, far less water is used than when they are grown in potting media or soil. Fertilizer application is strictly controlled, giving very steady growth and consistent yield. Many maintenance chores, such as weeding, are reduced or eliminated, and year-round production can be achieved, and production costs can be reduced. Whether better quality plants and food are produced is debatable.

Despite the advantages there are some disadvantages. The fertilizer solution must constantly be applied or monitored and changed as plants use up the nutrients. Oxygen should be supplied to the roots if they are in water so that they can respire or digest food materials to use them for growth energy. Some sort of physical support must be supplied, and for water solutions, a non-metal, light-tight container, or one that is made of opaque or colored glass, is needed to prevent algal growth.

There are many types of hydroponic systems available commercially, ranging from closed flower pots with wicks to large tanks with pumps. Nurseries and garden centers often carry some of the basic systems for use in raising houseplants or a tomato or cucumber plant indoors hydroponically through the winter.

Should you become interested in hydroponics and want to join an organization that conducts meetings and publishes a newsletter on hydroponics,

Will Promote Statewide Parley On Appointing Superintendent

Dorothy S. Ridings, chairman of the Prichard Committee for Academic Excellence, announced today that the Committee will facilitate discussions across Kentucky of a constitutional amendment for a professionally appointed Superintendent of Public Instruction.

The announcement was made on the first anniversary of the Prichard Committee Town Forums, statewide meetings of citizens concerned about public education. The Town Forum meetings held on November 15, 1984 in 178 out of Kentucky's 180 school districts were widely credited for building the public support for legislative consideration of Governor Collins' $300 million education tax package, which was approved by the special session of the state legislature last summer.

Ridings said the citizen discussions of the need for an amendment to the state constitution dealing with the Superintendent would not follow the same pattern as the 1984 Forums but are designed to serve the same purpose: to promote informed public discussion about an education issue. Discussions on a constitutional amendment will use many of the Town Forums leaders to coordinate efforts in their communities.

The Prichard Committee, composed of 90 citizens from across Kentucky, "wants to help the public get into the conversation about the kind of leadership we need for Kentucky elementary and secondary education," Ridings said. "We need an informed public about this. We believe we need a professionally selected superintendent, but our first goal is to help the public understand both sides of the issue."

Kentucky's constitution currently provides for statewide election of the superintendent, on a partisan ballot. Any amendment would have to be approved by the legislature and then submitted to the voters.

Robert F. Sexton, executive director of the Prichard Committee, said Town Forum leaders will identify people in their communities to participate in small-group discussions. The Prichard Committee will provide discussion materials and training, and will try to see that discussion sessions are held in as many counties as possible during December.

Consideration of a constitutional amendment on an appointed superintendent is expected during the 1986 legislative session, which convenes in January.

The Prichard Committee also will provide materials to Kentucky newspapers and others to publicize the issue.

The Committee recommended a constitutional amendment for the selection of a professional state school superintendent two years ago. The Committee said that a professional superintendent should be hired to provide continuity of leadership, to eliminate the often counter-productive political campaigns for the office, and so that a superintendent of high professional quality could be employed.

Similar recommendations have been made by many other education organizations—the Kentuckians for Excellence in Education Task Force of the Chamber of Commerce, Governor Collins' Council on Education Reform, the State Board of Education, the Kentucky Association of School Administrators, and the Kentucky School Boards Association. Governor Collins and Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald both endorsed the amendment in their 1983 campaigns. An amendment was passed by the Kentucky Senate in 1984, but failed to gain approval by the House of Representatives. As a result, the provision was never placed on the ballot for public vote.

Sexton said that materials for local discussions will provide arguments on both sides of the issue, so citizens can inform themselves and make their own choice. He added that the 1986 session of the legislature will be the "decision-making time" on the amendment and that interest is high in the legislature.

Program To Recognize Teachers of History

The Kentucky Association of Teachers of History will again assist the Louisville Consistory of the Scottish Rite of Freemasonry in a statewide program that honors outstanding teachers of American history in Kentucky schools.

The American Heritage Award recognizes excellence as demonstrated by teaching through innovative and creative methods, growth in the profession, interaction with students, and involvement in local communities. Teachers in accredited schools, grades 6 through 12, are eligible. One award recipient will be chosen from each congressional district.

The deadline for applications is January 27, with the winners to be announced in March. For applications or information contact Dr. James C. Klotter, Kentucky Historical Society, P.O. Box H, Frankfort, Ky. 40602-2108.

Last year's recipients, recognized by the president of the United States, governor of the Commonwealth, and Kentucky's congressmen, included teachers from Calloway County Middle School, Hancock County, Atherton, Ballard, Taylor County, Western Hills, and Paul G. Blazer high schools.

Miss Jenny Wiley

Paula Ann Spencer, 19-year-old daughter of Paul and Bonnie Spencer, was crowned Miss Jenny Wiley 1985 at the pageant held Oct. 10 at Prestonsburg Community College. She was presented with a crown, banner, trophy, flowers, gift certificates from area merchants amounting to $500 and a $1000 U.S. Savings Bond presented by the Bank Josephine.

Miss Spencer was also presented two silver trays as winner of the evening gown competition and winner of best costume in her portrayal of a Kentucky Colonel.

Kelli Stumbo was runner-up and Serena Pitts was chosen Miss Congeniality.

The pageant was sponsored by the Jenny Wiley Festival Board and directed by Sharon Bingham.

October Mine Permits

The Division of Permits of the State Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement issued 144 permits in October.

The permits included 48 original permits, 47 revision permits, 15 amendment permits, 23 two-acre permits and 11 succession permits. Of the 144 permits, five were for preparation plants and refuse areas, two for haul roads, 106 for surface mining and 31 for underground mining.

Permitting activities for October authorized the disturbance of 11,849.3 new acres and resulted in the collection of $349,895.00 in fees.

Thank You

I would like to take this opportunity to "Thank" each and every person who supported me, those who campaigned diligently for me, and those who contributed to the campaign fund throughout this campaign for County Clerk.

I cannot express in words the gratitude that I feel for those who took their valuable time to talk to others about supporting me and those who put up my posters and proudly wore my bumper stickers and signs on their own personal vehicles.

I would like to say a very special "THANK YOU" to the members of my family who stood behind me every inch of the way. Without you, I couldn't have made it. You are all very special and important to me!

I thank you for giving me the opportunity to serve as "Your" Floyd County Clerk for the next four years. With your help and your support we will continue to make improvements in your clerk's office and hopefully within the next four years we will have one of the best County Clerk's offices in the state of Kentucky.

Again, I say "THANK YOU" and remember, the County Clerk's office is YOUR office.

Thanks and May God Bless You,

Paula

NUMB ARMS, LEGS Warning Signals

There may be misalignment of vertebrae in the spine causing pressure on nerves, yet the patient experiences no pain in the back. Instead, a variety of sensations may be felt in other parts of the body. These include tingling, tightness, hot spots, cold spots, crawling sensations, electric shock sensations, stinging, burning, and others.

The following nine symptoms involving back pain or strange sensations are often the forerunners of more serious conditions. Any one of these may spell back trouble

- (1) Paresthesias (see above)
- (2) Headaches
- (3) Painful joints
- (4) Numbness in the arms or hands
- (5) Loss of sleep
- (6) Stiffness in the neck
- (7) Pain between the shoulders
- (8) Stiffness or pain in lower back
- (9) Numbness or pain in the legs.

These signals may indicate your body is being robbed of normal nerve function. Until this function is restored, you will, in some degree, be incapacitated. The longer you wait to seek help, the worse the condition will likely become. Don't wait! Should you experience any of these warning signals...call for in depth consultation in Layman's terms.

Miss Wright Records Pick Hit of the Week

A Prestonsburg native is making a strong bid to become a recording star with her new country song, "It Hasn't Been Easy Since I Found Love." Mary Lynne Wright, daughter of the late Elder and Maggie Wright, recorded the song for BFI Records in Hazard. It was released in October, and has been chosen the last three weeks as the "Pick Hit of the Week" by WVLC radio in Lexington—fifth ranked country station in the nation. BFI will be releasing Miss Wright's next record in January, and the singer has a three record deal with MCA Records in Nashville in the works. She will also be appearing in a Christmas special on Hazard's new WYMT television station.

COW CREEK NEWS

Jackie Endicott, who was hospitalized several days with a foot injury is now recuperating at home. Mr. J.E. (Speed) Harris is in Baptist East Hospital in Louisville where he will undergo surgery for removal of his gall bladder. His wife Estella is with him. Those from this area visiting him this week were Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Harris and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harris. Mrs. Edith Burchett spent last week in Louisville, shopping and visiting her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Daniels. She was accompanied by her grandson, Robbie Holbrook. Those from here attending Jim Leach's funeral in Wellston, Ohio were: Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Harris, Jeanette Harris, Ellen Holbrook and Robbie, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harris and Mrs. Edith Burchett. Mr. Leach's wife, Anna Marie Harris Leach, was reared in the home of Speed Harris. Mr. and Mrs. James B. Goble visited Mrs. Lizzie Goble, Sunday. Mrs. Lockie Blackburn, who is ill at her home, is showing some improvement.

Pikeville Homes Tour To Aid McDonald House

The third annual Parade of Homes in the Pikeville area has been scheduled Sunday, December 8, from 2 to 6 p.m. The tour is being sponsored by Epsilon Beta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority.

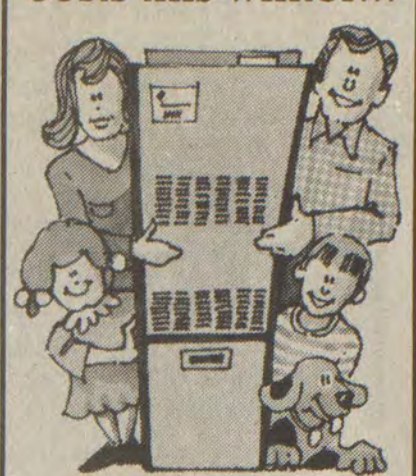

Five homes, decorated for the Christmas holidays, will be open for viewing to the public. Featured this year are the homes of Hi and Stephanie Pauley, 611 Scott Avenue; Nancy Belcher Roberts, 208 Cedar Drive (Middle Bowles Addition); John and Shanna Elliott, 130 Cedar Creek Road; Eddie and Neitha Coleman, Walnut Drive (Middle Bowles Addition) and Mr. and Mrs. R.C. Billips, of Coal Run Hill.

Tickets for the five-home tour are $10 and all proceeds will be donated to the Ronald McDonald House of the Bluegrass, a "home away from home" where families from all over Kentucky can stay while their children are receiving treatment in Lexington hospitals for chronic illnesses.

The tour may be started at any of the five homes. Arrows will be posted for direction to each of the homes. Visitors from surrounding counties are invited to attend.

Tickets may be purchased at the door or in advance from any Epsilon Beta chapter member. For more information, contact Janice Myers (432-5823) or Kids Kiosket (432-2260).

For lower fuel costs this winter... choose HEIL.

We can show you the best way to reduce your heating bills this winter. Heil manufactures a complete line of central heating systems for nearly every home... and every situation. And each one is designed with savings in mind. Gas, oil, heat pump, electric... you name it. They easily equal and often surpass any other models from any other manufacturer. If you're into saving money instead of spending it... see us today about a Heil furnace for your home. You've got nothing to lose - and a whole lot to gain. Give us a call.

Toy Safety Stressed

While today's toys are safer than in years past, parents must still be selective when buying Christmas toys.

Despite improvements by the toy industry and year-around inspection of toys made, sold and brought into Kentucky, playthings caused nearly 3,000 injuries in Kentucky in 1984, according to Edsel Moore of the Department for Health Services' Consumer Health Protection Division.

"There are several things that toy-buyers should keep in mind when shopping for safe toys," said Moore. "Don't let price be the number one concern when choosing toys. Look for durability, good construction and education potential."

"Make sure you buy toys that are appropriate for the child's age. Most manufacturers list age ranges on the packages. Toys with small parts and sharp edges or points should not be given to young children," he said.

Moore points out that parental responsibility doesn't end with buying a safe toy. Many toy-related injuries occur because toys are abused—broken or used improperly, he said.

"Parents should watch for broken toys," said Moore. "Ones that cannot be repaired should be thrown away. It's also a good idea to remember that toys that are safe for older children can be hazardous for the younger ones. For example, a chemistry set for a 12-year-old can be dangerous if there is no place to use it away from a four-year-old."

Ten state inspectors monitor toys manufactured in Kentucky, those imported, and those sold in retail outlets. Common problems that inspectors find are sharp points, small parts and painted toys with high levels of lead. Most toys that do not meet federal safety standards are imports and low-priced playthings.

"The scope of the toy industry is beyond most people's comprehension," said Moore. "The sale of all toys nationwide amounts to about $7 billion every year. And 50 percent of those toys are sold in November and December. There are well over 100,000 import shipments into this country every year."

"Kentucky's toy safety program is one of the most aggressive and comprehensive in the country," he said. "We work in conjunction with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission to ensure that unsafe toys are removed from the shelves of Kentucky's stores. Another aspect of our program is reminding parents that they, too, should take an active role in making sure that their children's toys are safe."

For more information about toy safety, contact Moore at the Department for Health Services, 275 E. Main St., Frankfort, Ky. 40601. His phone number is (502) 564-4537.

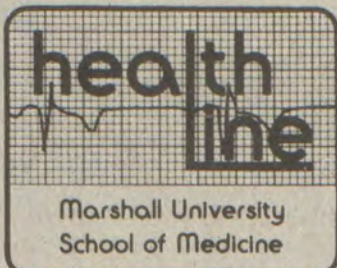

CARD OF THANKS

We, the family of Ervin Hamilton, would like to express our thanks to all those that helped us so much in the passing of our beloved husband father. We want to thank those who sent lovely flowers, food, silent prayer, and those words of comfort during this time of sorrow. We especially want to thank the Regular Baptist ministers and the Hall Funeral Home for it's most efficient and courteous service.

In Spite Of Myth; Lice Don't 'Jump'

By John Walden, M.D.

One of the more annoying health problems parents have to deal with is head lice.

This problem is surrounded by misconceptions. Two of these untruths are that head lice are transmitted from pets, and that lice "hop" or "jump" from one person to another.

In reality, lice are spread by direct person-to-person contact or the sharing of infested combs, brushes or hats. Children are more susceptible to head lice than adults are, with girls having them more than boys do. Some ethnic groups also may have a greater or lesser risk—American blacks very seldom have them, for example.

Head lice are one of three types of lice that infest humans (the other two are body lice and public lice or "crabs"). These insects can be hard to spot since they are only about one-eighth of an inch long.

Small as they are, head lice can cause quite an itching problem. Scratching can then lead to infection.

The female louse lays her eggs (nits) on the hair shaft close to the scalp. They are most commonly seen behind the ears, at the back of the head and at the nape of the neck.

Before hatching, these nits are pearly white and look like pussy-willow buds; after they have hatched, the white empty shells remain attached to the hair. Nits are often confused with dandruff, but it's easy enough to tell the difference: dandruff flakes easily and can be flicked off the hair shaft with the fingers, but nits are cemented securely to the hair.

A doctor can confirm the presence of nits by checking affected hair under a microscope.

Several medicated shampoos for head lice are available, some without a prescription. All of them seem to be more or less equally effective.

To Join in Close Up

High schools from across the Tri-State Region have once again been invited by the Close Up Foundation to travel to Washington for a week-long government studies program.

The invitation has been issued on behalf of the Board of Directors of CLOSE UP by John Pinkerman, the Foundation's community coordinator for the Tri State Region.

"Washington is a city with innumerable resources and expertise and CLOSE UP seeks to capitalize on these opinions and information," Pinkerman said.

Pinkerman explained that during their week in Washington the students meet with members of Congress, journalists, experts on the executive and judicial branches and on foreign and domestic issues. The participants also take part in various tours of the city, attend a live theater performance, and have a final banquet and dance.

"The heart of the week are daily, small group workshops where the local students have the opportunity to share their ideas with students from other areas of the country," Pinkerman said. The Close Up Program is open to all students in grades 10, 11, and 12 and there is no limit to the number of participants from each school.

To ensure that all types of students are able to participate CLOSE UP provides fellowship funds to each participating school for teacher and low-income students.

A teacher from each school also travels to Washington with the students so that the teachers may carry Washington resources back to their classroom.

The teachers and some of the students may also participate in a televised seminar aired on the C-SPAN cable network through a grant to CLOSE UP from The Du Pont Company and R.J. Reynolds Industries, Inc.

Funds for these fellowships are made available through a congressional appropriation and matching community grants from Kentucky Fried Chicken Corporation; Martha Holden Jennings Foundation and MAPCO Inc.

It is expected that more than 350 students and teachers from the Tri-State area will be among the 23,000 from across the country to participate in CLOSE UP this year.

Buckle Up!

ONLY 15 PERCENT of Americans use their seat belts, yet that alone saves over 1800 lives a year. If another 10 percent of us buckled up, 1200 more lives would be saved. If 80 percent of the people in passenger cars would wear their seat belts, almost 10,000 lives would be spared on our highways every year. It takes only a couple of seconds—but those seconds could turn out to be the most important of your life.

Operator of Dozer Is Accident Victim

A freak accident at a Stephens Branch stripmine claimed the life last Wednesday of a heavy equipment operator for the Huscoal, Inc., Jackson, Ky. mining firm.

When Corbett Fallen, 59, of Campton, left the bulldozer which he was operating at the end of his day's work, he left the motor running. Another operator, Raymond Hale, stepped into the cab of the dozer to take his place on the job. Apparently a lever was accidentally touched, and as the machine moved in reverse Fallen was caught beneath it. Apparently, the blade of the dozer crushed Fallen's body and he died almost instantly. Hale suffered a broken finger.

The victim, 69, was a resident of Campton and a son of the late John and Sue Neff Fallen. He was a member of Winchester (Ky.) Masonic lodge No. 20. Survivors include his wife, Garnett; one daughter, Danna Varks, of Campton; two sisters, six brothers and four grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday at Campton and burial was made in the Evans cemetery there, the Shackelford Funeral Home directing.

Herbs: Good For Gourmets, Gardens, Butterflies and Birds

Herbs—those fragrant plants that add texture to our gardens and are useful to us in cooking and/or as medicine—are also of great value to wildlife, both plant and animal.

I used to be able to count the herbs that I grew on one hand—a clump of chives, enough parsley for a season or two of garnishes and sweet basil for the two dozen quarts of tomato sauce we put up each year. Then the flood gates opened. I found many others that smelled and looked good. A trip to the hardware store in March meant another packet of herb seeds. My kids began pinching and enjoying the plants on their way to school. Lavender made its way into our closets. Lemon balm found a place in ice tea.

Many flowers and vegetables benefit from the proximity of herbs—so-called "companion plants," such as sages, thymes, oregano, garlic, chives and wormwood. The strong scent of these herbs protects neighboring plants from insect pests. An insect (usually attracted by both the sight and smell of a plant) may fix its eyes on a squash, say, and head for it—only to find on arrival that what looks like squash smells like the nearby offensive sage and not at all like tasty squash. Confusing! Some herbs merely confuse insects; others literally drive them off; and some contain chemicals that inhibit insects' growth or actually kill certain pests. Such natural pest control, when possible, is far better for other

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Elmer Reffett would like to express their thanks to all who helped during the passing of our loved one. Thanks to all who sent food, flowers, prayers and words of comfort during this time of sorrow. Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 p.m. today (Wednesday) at the McHatton-Sadler Funeral Home in Warsaw with Albert Whitaker officiating. Burial will be made in the Menton cemetery there.

Gracie Ellen Chaffins

Funeral services for former Minnie resident Gracie Ellen Tuttle Chaffins, 86, of LaGrange, Ohio, will be conducted Friday at 10 a.m. at the Stone Coal Regular Baptist Church at Garrett. Mrs. Chaffins died Monday at the home of her son, Hayes Chaffins, in LaGrange, following a short illness.

Born in Knott county, November 26, 1898, she was the daughter of the late James and Martha Lewis Tuttle. She had been a member of the Stone Coal Regular Baptist Church for 69 years.

Survivors include two sons, Hayes Chaffins, of LaGrange, Enon Chaffins, of Willard, O.; two daughters, Verne Mae Fraley, of Tucson, Ariz., Norsie Tuttle, of Minnie; three brothers, Elder Wright Tuttle, of Willard, O., I.V. Tuttle, of McDowell, Virgil Tuttle, of Shelby, O.; three sisters, Artie Collins, of Plymouth, O., Rachel Collins, of N. Fairville, O., Marie Stumbo, of Martin; 24 grandchildren, 45 great-grandchildren, and nine great-great-grandchildren.

Ministers of the church will officiate at funeral services and burial will be made in the Tuttle cemetery at Sizemore under direction of the Nelson-Frazier Funeral Home.

Visitation may be made at the funeral home.

Dr. James E. Wells

Dr. James E. Wells, 54, prominent Anderson county veterinarian and native of Auxier, died Monday, November 18, at his home in Lawrenceburg.

A veteran of the Korean War, he attended the Auxier schools, Eastern Kentucky University, and graduated from the University of Kentucky School of Agriculture in 1957. A 1961 graduate of Auburn School of Veterinary Medicine, he was associated with the animal hospital in Campbellsville prior to going into private practice in Lawrenceburg in 1963. He continued his practice until 1980 when he accepted a position with the Kentucky Racing Commission. He was a member of the Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association and American Veterinary Medical Association. He had served as president of the Lawrenceburg Rotary Club in 1969-70.

Dr. Wells was the son of Mrs. Carrie Wells, of Auxier, and the late Leonard Wells.

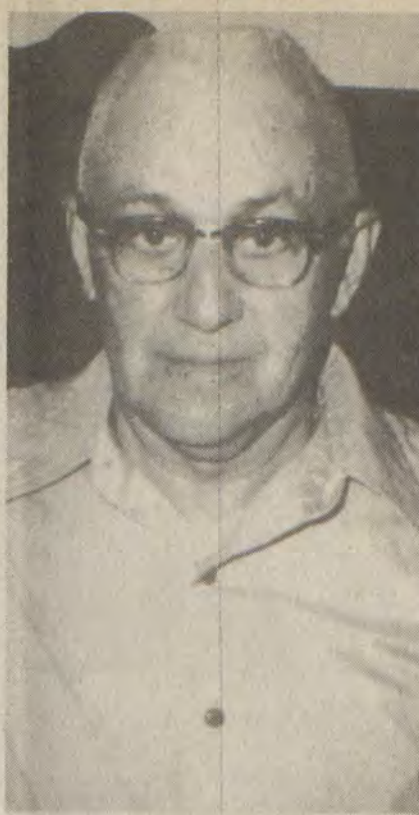

In addition to his mother, he is survived by his wife, Rebecca Wells; two daughters, Charmayne Williams, of Casey county, and Tara Le McGaughey, of Mercer county; two sons, Danny and Lindsey, and a stepdaughter, Donita, all of Lawrenceburg; four brothers, Lloyd Wells, of Auxier, Charles and John T. Wells, both of Lawrenceburg, and Ronald Wells, of Georgetown; two sisters, Laura Wells, of Nashville, Tenn., and Mrs. Jean Hunt, of Cooksville, Maryland, and five grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 p.m. last Thursday at the First Christian Church in Lawrenceburg by Roger Rankin, and burial was made in the Lawrenceburg cemetery.

Pallbearers were Dr. John C. Wells, Jeff, Chuck, and Johnny Wells, Richard Crutcher and Dr. Ed Kennedy.

Thanksgiving Service Scheduled This Evening

The annual Thanksgiving service will be held at Irene Cole Memorial (First) Baptist Church at 7 tonight (Wednesday). The Prestonsburg High School's Honor Choir, under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Frazier, will give a musical presentation. Dr. Quentin Scholtz, pastor of the First United Methodist Church, will bring the message. The public is invited to attend.

Andrew Sexton

Born Nov. 28, 1906
Died Oct. 24, 1985

A TRIBUTE TO DAD

With his passing, Andrew Sexton left a proud heritage for his children. His forefathers came to America and settled near Jamestown, Va. in 1607. Cherokee Indians killed all of this first Sexton family except one small boy. The Indians reared that small boy until he became of age and took unto himself an Indian maiden for his wife.

This author's grandfather, Greene Sexton, told her that his dad was taken prisoner by the Confederate Army and taken to Libby Prison where he died of exposure and starvation. This writer learned through research that William Sexton, Andrew's grandfather, escaped from Libby Prison; came back to his home and found the house burned and his family gone. He assumed that they were dead. He, then, went west where he remained and started a new family.

Andrew was the last of Greene and Amanda Wicker Sexton's sons to die. However, his memory will live on.

This daughter, this writer, has spent her life admiring and loving Andrew and her mother, Zina Paek Sexton for their love of God, his kindness, his gentle loving ways, and his hard work. He built with his own hands the house in which his children were born and where his wife still lives.

This author was the first of his children to complete college and become a teacher. His introduction of her to others was always: "This is my daughter, Lucille! she is a school teacher."

His two older daughters, Christine and Pauline, chose to marry early and now have fine families. One son, Edgar Ray, died at the age of nine. One daughter, Judy, lives in Lexington with her husband and two children. She is a secretary. His son, Donnie, lives in Lexington, also, with his wife and two children. He is a civil engineer.

Andrew was so proud of all of his children and they felt the same for him. He instilled in all of them a strong and lasting love for God and each other.

This Thanksgiving day would have been his 79th birthday. That is the reason for this article—one more birthday present for Dad.

With loving memories,
LUCILLE MAY

Allen Volunteer Fire Dept. Boundaries

Due to the fiscal court meeting, Nov. 21st 1985, the Allen Volunteer Fire Department will be setting new fire protection boundaries for Rt. 23, toward Prestonsburg. The new fire boundary will end at the top of the hill at Wickes Lumber.

All persons previously covered by the Allen Fire Protection Area beyond Wickes Lumber, will drop to a Class 10 insurance rating UNLESS you live 5 miles from Prestonsburg Fire Department Station 1, and are paying for their subscription service. This includes these areas: Rt. 3, Lancer-Watergap Road to Black Hawk Mining, and all hollows therein; Left and Right Fork of Bull Creek, and Rt. 80; Rt. 23 North to East Equipment; Bottom of hill at Town Branch.

This action could go in effect as soon as Dec. 15, but an exact date cannot yet be determined. Everyone affected can consult future issues of this newspaper for an exact cut-off date.

We, the members of the AVFD, are sorry for the inconvenience that has been caused, but this action is not in any way in our control.

Let's Count Our Blessings Today

Let us remember the many blessings we each have to share on this day of togetherness.

May the spirit and tradition of Thanksgiving bring you and yours closer together, as we give grateful thanks.

ADVENT

By ELMA JESSEN
And the Local Council of Church Women

"Prepare ye the way of the Lord; make straight in the desert a highway for our God (Isaiah 40:3 and Mark 1:3)." These familiar words, which begin Handel's Messiah are an appropriate way to begin our consideration of Advent. It is hard to believe that in America's early years, due to our Puritan ancestors, in many churches Christmas was not celebrated at all! About a hundred years ago observances began to appear in most Protestant churches. Catholic and Episcopal churches have always observed the liturgical year. Today the problem is how to keep a religious significance in a holiday which has become more and more secular.

The observance of Advent is an answer. It has become increasingly popular in churches in recent years as a means of giving a Christian context to preparations for the Christmas holiday. Advent means coming, specifically the coming of Jesus Christ, and begins with the fourth Sunday before Christmas, so its length varies. This year Advent begins December 1st. As December is a time for buying of gifts and parties, Advent becomes a time for spiritual preparation and focuses on our inner life and expectation for the coming of Christ.

One favorite way of observing Advent is through the Advent wreath, hung in churches or set up in the home. The wreath of evergreens, representing God's everlasting love, has four candles, one of which is lit each Sunday before Christmas, until all are lit. The candles represent Christ, the Light of the World, and symbolize that in this period of ever-increasing darkness, the Light is not put out. The candle-lighting ceremony can be combined with reading of Scriptures related to the season and the singing of Christmas songs.

The Local Council of Church Women encourage you to prepare for the true meaning of Christmas, which is Christ's love and light in our hearts. "Let every heart prepare him room, and heaven and nature sing!"

Conduct Pre-Retirement Seminar at PCC

Art Class To Exhibit Drawings by Students

Student drawing will be on display at the Community College Library, Dec. 3-5. Drawing class students will each have two or more works in the show.

Subjects included in the show are self-portraits, landscapes, and studies of various natural and subjective material. An open reception with artists present will be held from 6-8 p.m. Tuesday, December 3.

Floyd county art students include Nathan Collins, Paul D. Combs, Teresa Cox, Teresa Bradley, Estill Robinson and Grace Scott. Angela Coleman, Barbara Derossett and Gaye Derossett are from Pike county; Paul May is from Johnson; Greg Samons hails from Martin county and Ruth Montgomery is an art student from Magoffin county.

(Professor Tom J. Whitaker says this class has more sincere art students than any class he has taught.)

Nonregistrants Denied Federal Employment

Under a new law signed by President Reagan, appointment to federal jobs will be denied to men who have not registered with Selective Service. The new law, effective immediately, applies to students seeking temporary summer employment, as well as men searching for permanent employment with a Federal agency or department.

Men of registration age must be registered to receive Federal student aid and job training benefits. Additionally, registration is a requirement in some states for various employment opportunities, such as law enforcement agencies and permission to practice law.

Men born in 1960 and later years are required to register with Selective Service within 30 days of their 18th birthday. Failure to register is a felony, punishable by a fine of up to $250,000 and/or up to 5 years imprisonment.

WREATH WORKSHOP SET

There will be a Green Wreath Workshop at the Kentucky Power Company, Tuesday, December 3, from 9:30 a.m. until 11:30 a.m. Wreath rings will be available at $1.50 each. Each person will need to supply their own greenery. Call 886-2668 to register.

WHITE NIGHTS (PG-13-Columbia) Starring Mikhail Baryshnikov, Gregory Hines, Isabella Rossellini. ★ ★ ★

By J.T. YURKO

"White Nights" refers to the eerie, disorienting midnight light that appears in the area of northern Russia so close to the Arctic Circle that during late spring and early summer the sun remains in the sky, even at night.

Black and white, night and day — such opposites provide the operating motif of the film. Mikhail Baryshnikov plays a Russian dancer who defects to the West. When a plane crash forces him back into Russia, he suddenly finds himself looked upon as a criminal, and the authorities (i.e. the KGB) want to use him as an artistic pawn in the Cold War.

They enlist the aid of Gregory Hines. Hines plays Baryshnikov's opposite, an American expatriate who defected to Russia during the Vietnam War, served the propaganda machine for a while, and now spends most of his time performing segments of "Porgy and Bess" in distant outposts of Siberia.

He is enlisted by the KGB to serve as companion to Baryshnikov. He must try to con-

Martin Short pulls it off

By Amanda Bruce

It would seem to be a difficult task to arrange an hour-long show that stars one comic playing 11 different roles, but "Martin Short Concert for the North Americas" pulls it off. Airing Dec. 5 on Showtime, the special is carefully woven together so that each character sketch flows effortlessly into the next. This is a classy special.

Martin Short

Short plays his characters, from nerd Ed Grimley to 90-year-old Irving Cohen, with brief help from his former "Saturday Night Live" and SCTV friends Christopher Guest, John Candy, Robin Duke, Eugene Levy, Dave Thomas, Andrea Martin and Joe Flaherty. Paul Shaffer, from "Late Night with David Letterman," does a funny and poignant closing number with Short. The two, they say, have been close friends for 15 years.

This "concert" is Short's first TV special, and it pulls him up one rung higher on the comedy ladder. He's obviously glowing from the climb, and so are his viewers. "Martin Short Concert for the North Americas" is highly recommended.

The same can't be said of "Fortress," HBO's latest Premiere Film, which airs Dec. 2.

Rachel Ward stars as an Australian schoolteacher whose mettle is put to the test when a group of masked shotgun-toting thugs kidnap her and her nine-pupil class. The film is powerful in its tension and suspense, but it breaks down into a typical ax-murderer type horror film with ominous musical foreshadowing and a surprisingly gory ending.

There are two pluses: (1) It was filmed in Victoria, Australia, and the scenery is simply gorgeous; and (2) the young Australian children in the cast do an excellent, natural acting job. Miss Ward works hard, too.

Sports

FINDING THE GOING TOUGH, is Prestonsburg Blackcat tailback B.D. Nunnery No. 23, as he struggles for yardage against the defense of the Newport Central Catholic Thoroughbreds. Prestonsburg fell short in their bid to contend for the state Class AA title in Louisville on Friday. The 'Cats ended an impressive season with a 12-2 record.

Newport Catholic Downs Cats in State Semi-Final

The Prestonsburg Blackcats closed out an impressive football season last Saturday night as they fell victim to the defending state champions from Newport Central Catholic, ending the season with a 12-2 record.

The Cats went into the state semi-final contest riding high from their previous week's upset victory of the Corbin Redhounds, who were ranked as the state's No. 1 team prior to the Blackcat win, hoping to win a spot in the Class AA title game this Friday.

The Blackcats were unable to get their usually high-scoring offense on track against the Thoroughbreds as the defensive unit of Newport Catholic was just too strong.

"We just never got in the groove," commented Blackcat Coach Charles "Chuke" Williams in a post-game interview. "I don't know what it was. The kids played their hearts out for us, as they have done all year."

The Blackcat offense, sporting an exceptional 33.54 points per game average, was held to only seven points by the strong Thoroughbred defense, a feat accomplished by no other opponent this year. The lowest point production game occurred in a mid-season loss to another team called the Thoroughbreds as Harrison County upset the 'Cats before a homecoming crowd, 17-14.

Newport Catholic displayed its offensive prowess on the first play from scrimmage, marching 80 yards in a 16-play drive that consumed nearly seven minutes of the first quarter.

The 'Cats looked nervous on their first two possessions, making turnovers to end the drives. The second turnover, a fumble by all-state candidate B.D. Nunnery, allowed the Thoroughbreds good field position on the Blackcat 47-yard line.

The 'Breds wasted no time putting another score on the board, driving the length of the field in only eight plays, leaving the visitors from Floyd county behind, 14-0, with 10:48 left to play in the first half. The 'Cats had never before gone into intermission this year trailing an opponent.

With 5:43 left to play in the half, Prestonsburg capitalized on a Newport Catholic fumble to set up its first and only score of the night.

Gaining possession on the Thoroughbred 34-yard line, the 'Cats went to work. Hampered by two illegal procedure penalties on the first two plays from scrimmage, quarterback John Goble was then able to find his sure-handed senior wide-receiver, Pete Green, on the opponents' 13 yard line.

Six plays later, Goble was able to dash around left end for the Blackcats' first touchdown. Brent Hackworth added the conversion and the 'Cats had trimmed the deficit to 14-7 with 1:11 left to play. Neither team was able to score again before the half ended. It turned out that this would be the only score for Prestonsburg on the night.

The 'Cats had an excellent scoring opportunity midway through the third quarter as they put together a drive that took them to the Newport five-yard line. With four downs to get the ball into the end zone, it seemed a sure thing that the 'Cats would soon tie the score.

But the 'Cats couldn't get the ball over the goal-line. The Thoroughbred defensive unit held Prestonsburg's Shag Branham as he tried to score from the one-yard line. Branham was thrown for a loss on the play, and the defending champs took over.

"In looking back, I wish I had called another play," said Coach Williams. "On any other team we would have probably let John (Goble) keep the ball himself, but the way they (Newport) had been playing I wanted to try Shag over the top."

Prestonsburg's defense also played a good game. They were able to hold the Thoroughbreds to only 162 total yards, no small task for any squad. Newport Catholic managed to put one more score on the board with 8:13 remaining in the game, making the final margin of victory 20-7.

The Thoroughbred victory was the only one for Northern Kentucky teams over the weekend against Eastern Kentucky teams.

On Friday night, the Paintsville Tigers defeated Beechwood in the Class A playoffs while Belfry, led by second year coach Phillip Haywood, who previously coached the Blackcats, upset Newport in the Class AAA playoffs. Both teams will be playing Friday in Louisville for their respective state titles.

Lake Crappie Study Begins

Biologists of the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources recently began work on a three-year research project that will help them more accurately assess crappie populations in Kentucky lakes and answer some of the difficult questions relating to available management options for this prolific game fish.

Stunting or "stockpiling" occurs in many lakes but till now little, if any, research has been done on how to correct this problem, which often relates to competition, crowding or poor food availability. Periodic population monitoring of crappie populations are conducted as part of cove rotenone studies, but biologists admit that these samples don't accurately reflect entire populations, since crappie spend much of the time in open water suspended above stumps and brush.

The three-year study will involve extensive population sampling through the use of 3x6-foot trap nets, similar in design to the hoop nets which are widely used by commercial fishermen. The fish caught in the nets are released unharmed after they are measured and counted.

The fish of all sizes that will be trapped in the nets will provide biologists with a data base for each lake, enabling them to learn more about population densities, age structures, size structures, crappie growth rates and year class recruitment, so that the relative quality of a population can be assessed and comparisons with others can be made more easily. Jim Axon, assistant director of the department's Fisheries Division, said that one of the goals of the project was to try to relate the quality of a crappie fishery to the available habitat, an aspect of crappie research that hasn't been dealt with much before. Eventually all of Kentucky's major lakes will be investigated, but initially work will center on Rough River Lake, Barren River Lake, Lake Barkley, Kentucky Lake, Green River Lake, and Nolin River Lake, the state's top crappie producers.

Of these six impoundments, Kentucky Lake and Lake Barkley are considered the best, and biologists can only theorize why these lakes consistently produce larger fish and superior fisheries. Some plausible explanations include: 1) They are mainstream reservoirs with high nutrient loads of total dissolved solids 2) They are shallow lakes with a greater percent of shallow area in relation to the total acreage, affording greater cover and reproductive potential 3) They support both threadfin and gizzard shad as a forage base, and 4) They fail to thermally stratify in the main lake, creating more available habitat during critical growth periods so crappie are able to bottom feed on aquatic insects.

Rebels Remain Undefeated Bobcats Lose, Trojans Win

Two of Floyd county's most promising basketball teams were in action Friday night at the D.W. Howard fieldhouse, as the Betsy Layne Bobcats and the Wheelwright Trojans hit the hardwood in the pre-season Panorama.

It was a tough loss for the Bobcats as they fell one point shy of victory, losing in overtime to the Morgan county Cougars.

During the contest the crowd was treated to vintage Betsy Layne basketball, as Duran Hall and Jimmy Stumbo, with help from Jimmy Parson, Brett Meade and Davey Mitchell, executed the fast break to perfection.

The 62-61 loss by the Bobcats will be their last action on the court until the Floyd Conference pre-season tournament, December 4-7. The Bobcats enter this season as the defending 58th region champions.

Danny Johnson's Wheelwright Trojans, led by senior guard David Hall, fared somewhat better as they defeated the Johnson Central Golden Eagles 58-40, showing what type of season can be expected from the hard-playing Trojans this year. The Trojans will entertain Jackson next Tuesday in their final tune-up before the conference tourney.

If you had to pick a pre-season favorite in the Floyd Conference this early in the year, you would have to give the nod to the Rebels of Allen Central led by coach John Martin. The squad from Right Beaver Creek has logged an impressive 4-0 record as they approach the regular season of play.

Picking up victories on the road this past weekend, defeating Millard 62-44, and Dorton 53-50, and defeating Dilce Combs 63-57 earlier in the week before the home crowd, the Rebels appear the team to beat.

PARVOVIRUS

The sudden appearance on the scene of human medicine of exotic viral diseases such as Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome has served to downplay the sudden appearance of another viral complication in animals.

Canine Parvovirus suddenly appeared in 1978 and had a devastating impact upon the world's dog population and pet owners.

The virus, which is highly contagious between dogs, is transmitted by way of excrement, urine or closely confined air. Fortunately, exposure to the virus does not mean that a dog will come down with the disease—it appears that resistance varies greatly from animal to animal, though young dogs seem to be more prone to severe manifestations than older dogs.

In its mildest form, canine parvovirus may not cause any visible effects. More commonly, an owner will notice diarrhea, lack of appetite and vomiting. In its most severe form, the virus will progress rapidly with profuse and bloody diarrhea, persistent vomiting, high fever, dehydration and often death within 24 hours.

The virus has an affinity for growing cells, and quickly attacks the intestinal lining, literally dissolving it. All the microscopic finger-like projections normally found in a healthy intestine disappear, resulting in poor digestive ability.

Young dogs who exhibit these symptoms may fall victim to an even more insidious form of attack when the parvovirus invades the heart muscle. Then the puppy which survived the initial attack faces the risk of sudden death due to heart failure. The myocardial (heart) form may also show up without any evidence of the enteritis (diarrhea) form.

It is estimated that 75 percent of the puppies contracting parvoviral disease die within 24 to 48 hours after infection.

There is yet no known drug to combat the virus, therefore treatment is supportive. Your veterinarian will replace body fluids intravenously, give medication to control vomiting and diarrhea, and antibiotics to control secondary infections.

The premises in which the dog was treated and in which he lived will have to be cleaned with a chlorine bleach solution to neutralize the virus.

Because there is no drug to combat the virus yet, successful treatment is entirely preventive.

Canine parvovirus vaccine was introduced in 1981 and has been improved so dramatically since that time that now a veterinarian who may have seen hundreds of cases a year before will now see only three or four. Of course, the success of any vaccine depends largely upon how many owners utilize it. While canine parvovirus seems to be somewhat under control at present, the presence of the virus has not been eradicated and annual vaccination (more often in some areas) is highly recommended.

As with most communicable diseases, an understanding of how it is spread better equips the owner to combat it.

Summer months seem to be most dangerous, because dogs tend to run more freely and be more sociable than the virus is easily transmitted from place to place on the hair or feet of infected dogs as well as by contaminated cages, shoes and other articles which have come in contact either with the infected dogs or their quarters.

Humans, insects and even other species of animals are thought to be carriers of the disease.

There is, at present, no evidence that humans can contract the disease.

There is no predilection to the parvovirus regarding sex, breed or age among canines, though the young seem to suffer the highest fatality rate.

Susceptibility seems to vary from region to region within Kentucky, and your veterinarian has up-to-date information regarding where epidemics are known, and can help you determine the probabilities of an outbreak in your area.

A ten-year study on cholesterol shows that if you have a high blood-cholesterol level, for every one percent you lower it, you lower your chances by two percent of having a heart attack.

HILL AND HALL FILE CONTEST PROCEEDINGS

Recount Of Pike And Floyd Returns Are Asked

FRAUD CHARGED

Contest suits were filed this week by A. L. Hill, Democratic candidate for State Senator from this district, against E. D. Stephenson, of Pikeville, and by O. C. Hall, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Commonwealth's Attorney from the Thirty-first Judicial District against C. P. Stephens, present Commonwealth's Attorney, in the August primary.

Mr. Hill lost to Senator Stephenson by a majority of 40 votes, and Mr. Hall lost by 223 votes. Both suits were filed Thursday.

Mr. Hill, in his suit, charges that a pool of not less than $5,000 was contributed to by friends and supporters of his opponent, with the knowledge and consent of Mr. Stephens, and was used for the purpose of "purchasing votes and influencing voters to vote for the contestee."

The suit alleges that votes in the following precincts were "erroneously, wrongfully, unlawfully and incorrectly counted": Buckeye, Spurlock, Johns Creek, Jim Polk, Mouth of Beaver, Jim Banks, Antioch, Elder Hiram, Painter Harve, Clear Creek, Estep, Rough and Tough, Cliff, Dwale, Toler, Maytown, Lackey.

Gross fraud is charged in Johns Creek precinct, asking that the count be thrown out and wholly disregarded. The charge is made that only 46 votes were cast there for the contestee and that all of said "voters who voted for contestee in said precinct at said election voted openly in the presence of the election officers on the table, without having taken oath that they were blind or physically unable to mark their ballot in secret.

In Elder Hiram precinct, the contestant alleges, John Hall, "a dangerous, violent man, threatened, intimidated, scared and abused voters and forced them to vote for the contestee." The contestant's supporter there was forced by Hall to leave, the suit charges.

The charge is also made in the action that in Johns Creek precinct 36 voted on the table; in Jim Polk, 40; Mouth Beaver, 30; Jim Banks, 35; John Possum, 43; Antioch, 20; Elder Hiram, 150; Painter Harve, 40; John Ant. 52; Midas, 30; Estep, 60; Martin, 40; Rough and Tough, 50; Maytown, 20, and Lackey, 20.

Asking for a general recount in Pike county of the vote, Mr. Hill charges that in Leckieville precinct, that county, the vote of E. D. Stephenson was changed from 104 to 404, and that at Island Creek the vote was changed from 16 to 46. It is said that Mr. Hill's opponent admits the charge.

COURIER-JOURNAL STORY

Pikeville, Ky., Aug. 19.—In one precinct, Leckieville, in this county, the primary returns were padded 300 votes in favor of Robert T. Crowe for Governor and E. D. Stephenson for State Senator.

Miss Lillie May Carpenter, of Salyersville, was the guest this week of Miss Ruth Francis.

Mrs. Minnie Grace Stone Dies Saturday

Mrs. Minnie Grace Stone, 34 years old, formerly a resident of this place and a native of Floyd county, died Saturday night at her home in Ashland after several years of invalidism. Mrs. Stone was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Robinson, and was born and reared on Abbott Creek. She was married Nov. 10, 1910 to M. B. Stone, to which union three children were born. Mr. and Mrs. Stone moved to Ashland about three years ago.

The deceased was well-known in this county, and was respected by all who knew her. She was a devout member of the Holiness Church.

Surviving her are two daughters, Malta, 13, and Mildred, 5. Her parents, two brothers, Dr. T. W. Robinson, of Ashland, and Homer Robinson, of Portsmouth, O., and a sister, Mrs. Golda Combs, of West Van Lear, also survive.

The body was taken to the home of her parents on Abbott Sunday, and burial was made in the family cemetery. Funeral services were conducted by Reverend Bowling.

OFFICERS CAPTURE TWO STILL LAST WEEK-END

Two stills were captured by Floyd county officers in raids during the past week-end.

Deputy Sheriffs W. D. and Marion Martin captured a small still in the Stumbo Hollow on Left Beaver, near the home of Lewis Tussey. One barrel of mash was destroyed.

Officers W. J. Vaughan and George Horn cut up a still Sunday on the Tandy Branch of Johns Creek and found three gallons of whisky. The worm was brought here. No arrests were made in either raid.

PRESTON SLAYER IS GIVEN PARDON

A. J. Cox Freed By Governor of 14-Year Sentence

A. J. Cox, who was convicted at the June, 1923 term of the Floyd circuit court for manslaughter in the killing of Oscar Preston at Martin and given a penitentiary sentence of 14 years, was pardoned Friday by Gov. W. J. Fields, who stated in granting the pardon that he was convinced that Cox fired in self-defense.

Cox had served a little more than a year of his sentence. Governor Fields said that he was moved to grant the pardon upon the request of practically all the leading citizens of Martin that Cox be granted clemency, as they were of the opinion that his conviction was a miscarriage of justice.

A news dispatch from Frankfort states that the circuit judge who tried the case and the commonwealth's attorney who prosecuted Cox expressed the opinion that the prisoner should be pardoned. Preston, a prominent druggist at Martin, was killed in Cox's hardware store there.

MRS. SOWARDS, MRS. DAVIDSON ENTERTAIN

As a pre-nuptial courtesyhrludshdu Sallye Gatewood Ligon, whose engagement to Mr. John Randolph Clark, of Charleston, W. Va., was recently announced, Mrs. Everett H. Sowards, of Pikeville, and Mrs. Jo M. Davidson entertained Saturday at the home of the latter with a charming luncheon-bridge and crystal-china shower.

Sharing this honor with Miss Ligon were Mrs. W. J. Fitzpatrick, of Miami, Fla.; Mrs. John Hensley, of Henderson, Texas, and Mrs. C. L. Hutsinpiiler, of Ashland.

In the beautifully appointed Davidson home luncheon was enjoyed by the guests, and bridge offered several hours' entertainment, with Miss Jo Ann Allen winning high score prize and Mrs. J. J. Emerich second prize. The honor guests received handsome prizes.

Miss Ligon was the recipient of many charming gifts, all of which she graciously acknowledged.

Miss Ruth Oppenheimer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Oppenheimer suffered an attack of appendicitis this week. An operation may be necessary.

E. E. Clark, of the Louisville Gas and Electric Company, made a business trip to Ashland this week.

KIWANIS CLUB CONDEMNS PRESTONSBURG WATER SYSTEM

Going on record as supporting the Floyd county health unit in its work of combating disease in this county, the Kiwanis Club at its Friday evening meeting last week passed a motion condemning the present water system in Prestonsburg and demanding filtration of the water supply.

Friday evening's program was devoted mainly to music, the club having two talented musicians present in Misses Edith Fitzpatrick, of Logan, W. Va., and Elizabeth Cross, of Alexandria, Ohio.

Miss Cross rendered delightful piano and saxophone solos, and accompanied her brother, Waid Cross, who sang. Miss Fitzpatrick gave an impromptu rendition of an old opera air, which was much enjoyed. The treat thus furnished was roundly applauded.

Rev. F. R. McAllister and Waid Cross sang "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," to the special delight of the old-timers, with Miss Fitzpatrick at the piano.

J. Bascom Clarke is to be in charge of the "Public Affairs" program this week.

251 INOCULATED AGAINST TYPHOID

Within the seven days included between August 13 and 20, 251 persons were inoculated against typhoid in this county by the recently-established health unit, according to the report made this week by Dr. E. E. Martin, head of the unit.

Vaccination work was done in Dwale, Allen, Cow Creek and Bear Hollow, near East Point. At Bear Hollow nine cases of typhoid were reported, while at Dwale there are four cases.

Anti-toxin was administered to nine children at Wayland to prevent an outbreak of an epidemic of diphtheria there following development of one case. One case of smallpox is reported at Burton, on Left Beaver, and serum was sent there.

Of 105 school children given physical examinations by Dr. Martin, 47 are defective, he said. Four schools, those at Dwale, Allen and two on Cow Creek were visited by Dr. Martin, and lectures were given at the Dwale and Allen schools on health topics. Twenty food establishments were also inspected during the week.

Difficulty has been encountered in procuring the services of a nurse to work in conjunction with Dr. Martin, and Mrs. Simms, special state board of health nurse, will be sent from Louisville to assist in the work, it is said.

Dr. Martin said this week that he plans to visit all schools in the county for the purpose of inoculating against disease.

Honored By State of Texas, Judge Leslie Proud of 'Folks Back Home

Of all her native sons Floyd county takes more pride in none than Judge W. P. Leslie, present judge on the bench of the court of civil appeals of the state of Texas. And of this county's sons who have gone out into the world and established reputations as men of achievement none takes more pride than he in the "folks back home."

Judge Leslie recently said, "I take special pride in the fact that, between us, my wife and I are related to almost every family in the Big Sandy valley.

Judge Leslie, who now resides in Eastland, Texas, has steadily risen in political prominence in the Lone Star state through those inherent qualities gained from the pure mountain stock of his parents, and his success provides an interesting story.

The son of A. N. and Martha Leslie, of Emma, this county, Mr. Leslie received his early education in Floyd county, and taught for a number of years in Floyd—a work by which he is remembered by many of his old students today, and which resulted in the development of a number of successful business men and women.

Later, Mr. Leslie entered the University of Texas, from which institution he was graduated in 1907. In 1908 he went to Mitchell county, Texas.

The esteem in which Mr. Leslie was soon held by the citizens of Mitchell county is little short of amazing, and soon he was elected county attorney. For a second time he was elected to this office. Then he was chosen district attorney of the Thirty-Second Texas

Judge Fitzpatrick Dies In Whitesburg

Judge John Dishman Fitzpatrick, 55 years old, a leading figure in Eastern Kentucky politics and prominent banker, died last week at his home in Whitesburg after a brief illness.

Judge Fitzpatrick was a son of James Fitzpatrick, who was a brother of the late T. Y. Fitzpatrick, former Congressman from this district. He was well-known in this county, and was a student here years ago under Prof. W. M. Byington.

The deceased was a leader of the Democratic party in Letcher county, and had been county judge of that county for two terms. He was reported to be in line for the appointment as highway commissioner of this district in the event of J. C. W. Beckham's election for governor.

Surviving him are his widow and several children. Burial was made in Whitesburg.

TO PRACTICE LAW HERE

Prestonsburg welcomes the coming to this place of Harry R. Burke, of Bonanza, as a new addition to those practicing law here. Mr. Burke, who was formerly with the law firm of Daugherty and Barrett, of Pikeville, comes, well recommended as a young man of good character and ample qualifications. He completed the grades at Bonanza, attended high school at Berea and graduated from high school at Louisa. After doing college work in Louisa, he graduated from the Jefferson Law School, Louisville, and passed the bar examination. Mr. Burke is a native Floyd county man who is remaining in Floyd county to practice his chosen profession.

INTERESTING NEWS OMITTED

Space limitations caused by publication of county and city advertising necessitate the omission of a number of interesting news items this week.

John R. Young, of Lexington, representative of the Ely-Walker Company, spent Monday night in Prestonsburg, the guest of H. C. Francis.

judicial district. The faithfulness with which he executed his duties and gave to his constituents of the talent with which he is gifted was attested to by the fact that he held this office for four successive terms. Next he was appointed district judge by the Governor of Texas, and when this term expired he was twice again chosen for the office by the vote of the people for terms of four years each. Except for the first time he was elected to this office for each term without opposition—a record that is remarkable in that the recipient of these honors is a Kentuckian in a state far removed from this.

His most recent and greatest triumph was his election in 1926 to the office of judge of the Court of Civil Appeals. And, his past successes promise, added honors lie ahead for him.

Judge Leslie is one of seven children, all living in Floyd county. They are:

D. B. Leslie, of Paintsville; L. C. Leslie and Mrs. Lula Bevins, of Emma; Mrs. Minnie Martin and Mrs. Anna Hall, of Allen; Mrs. Kate Harris, West Prestonsburg; and Mrs. Victoria Burchett, of Woods. His mother, Mrs. Martha Leslie, resides at Emma. She will be 80 years old in September.

Mrs. Leslie is a former Floyd county girl, Miss Rosa Lee Allen, daughter of T. G. ("Bringe") and Mrs. Susan Allen, of Beaver Creek. Ties of kinship bind both Judge and Mrs. Leslie closely to Floyd county and the Big Sandy Valley—which is a source of pride to both. They are visiting relatives in this county now.

Local Tennis Players Excel In Singles, Win

Excelling in singles play, the Prestonsburg tennis team won three out of five matches here Sunday from the Paintsville team, with the two doubles matches, which were abbreviated for lack of time, the only ones going to the visitors.

Displaying a more varied attack and a tight defense, Fletcher Combs won the first match from Picklesimer, of Paintsville, 7-5, 6-2. While Picklesimer played a good net game, Combs' loftart and well placed lobs marked his opponent's defeat.

In the second match Harlowe lost the first set to Wheeler, 7-5, but came back strong to cop the next two, 6-2, 6-4. Harlowe's play, while slightly erratic for want of practice, was much stronger than his opponent's, Harlowe's returns from his backhand being especially pleasing.

The last singles match of the afternoon between Spradlin, of Prestonsburg, and Stone, Paintsville's star singles player, was the best of the day. After losing five games straight in the first set, Spradlin came back with a rush to take seven in a row, and the set. In the next set Stone took three consecutive games, a feat which was duplicated by Spradlin. Stone took the next, then Spradlin ran out the set without the loss of a game. Spradlin's work with his chop stroke was very effective, and his steadiness overcame Stone's powerful service and slashing drives. Spradlin's courageous comeback in the first set, winning seven consecutive games, drew the applause of a fair-sized crowd of spectators.

In the doubles, the contests were limited to one set for each team. Wheeler and Spencer defeated Friend and Leroy Combs in the first set, 6-3, and the second set went to Picklesimer and Preston over Harlowe and Fletcher Combs, 6-2.

BAPTISTS MEET IN ASSOCIATION

Five Counties Are Represented At Two-Day Meeting

Representatives of Baptist churches from Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Martin and Magoffin counties met here Wednesday in the fiftieth annual session of the Enterprise Association of Baptists.

Short devotional services marked the beginning of the meeting, which was called to order by the clerk, John Caudill, of this place, in the absence of W. W. Barrett, of Pikeville, Moderator. In the business meeting that followed, R. C. Thomas, of Paintsville, was elected moderator; John Caudill, clerk; A. J. Jackson, of Pikeville, treasurer, and A. S. Corbin, of Pikeville, auditor.

The Rev. E. L. Howerton, pastor of the first Baptist Church, Pikeville, delivered the introductory sermon, which bore a stirring message for his hearers. Dr. V. I. Masters, of Louisville, also spoke in behalf of the Western Recorder, church organ.

Evening services were in charge of the Rev. Jesse Brown, of Elkhorn City, who spoke on "The Great Commission." The sermon of the evening was delivered by the Rev. A. H. Webb, pastor of the Paintsville Baptist Church. His sermon dealt with missions and was a strong plea in behalf of missionaries in foreign fields.

Thursday afternoon was devoted to a business session, and the day marked the close of the meeting. Luncheon and dinners were served to visitors in the dining room of the church during the meeting, with the visitors being guests of members of Irene Cole Memorial Church at night and for breakfast.

Among those attending the Association from a distance were Dr. V. I. Masters, of Louisville; W. J. Vaughan, field representative of the Baptist General Hospital, Ashland; Rev. J. M. Bell, of Inez; Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Thomas, of Paintsville; Rev. Jesse Brown, Elkhorn City; Rev. E. L. Howerton, A. J. Jackson and A. S. Corbin, of Pikeville; Rev. A. H. Webb, Darwin Slone, Mrs. Slone, Miss Mead, Miss May Stafford and Mrs. W. M. Preston, of Paintsville; Miss Annie Allen, of Elkhorn City; Rev. R. E. Booker, of McVeigh; Hatler Johnson, Paintsville; Rev. Paul Thompson, of Salyersville; W. M. Wallen, Lakeville, Magoffin county; Mrs. Sally Rice, East Point; A. E. Hackworth, Ivyton; Guel H. Kazee, Salyersville; Misses Burnett Napier, Roxie Webb, Vertress Conley and Susie Akers, Van Lear; and Joseph Darnell, of Mouthcard, Pike County.

CANEY CREEK STUDENTS TO TOUR COAST

Four Floyd County Boys In Party Making Western Trip

REWARD FOR MERIT

A three month's automobile tour of the western coast of the United States will begin September 10 for six youths, students at the Caney Creek Community Center, Pippappass, Knott county, in recognition of meritorious scholastic work which they have performed in the school. Of the six, four are Floyd county boys.

The party will be composed of David Hollander Hall, of Pippappass; Town and Wade Hall, sons of Greenbury Hall, formerly of McDowell, this county; Wayne Ratcliff, of Langley; William Claude Caudill, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Caudill, of Prestonsburg, and Otis Vanderpool.

Leaving Pippappass September 10, the party will go to Ashland by train, and from there will continue the tour by motor. The first stop will be made at Midway, Ky., thence to Louisville, with occasional tours of the various cities between Louisville and Salt Lake City, Utah. Upon their arrival in Seattle, Washington, the group will head southward along the coast to Texas, returning to the school about the middle of December.

David Hollander Hall, while yet connected with the Caney Creek Community Center, is a student in Antioch College in Ohio. Wayne Ratcliff finishes his secondary college work at the school this year, and Town and Wade Hall are also college students there, probably completing their courses also. Claude Caudill and Otis Vanderpool are in the grades, the former entering school June 10, this year.

The care of the younger boys is entrusted to the college students who are making the trip, and in whom the school officials place implicit confidence.

KNOTT SCHOOLS RECEIVE $2,900

Amount To Be Used In School Reconstruction Work

Knott county has received $2,900 for the replacement of school buildings and equipment destroyed by the May flood, as the result of a meeting held in Lexington last month between the Reconstruction Board of Schools, and superintendent of Eastern Kentucky counties.

Contract has been awarded B. W. Pigmon for the construction of a two-room frame school building at Sassafras for $2,200. Construction of a three-room building is planned to replace the schoolhouse washed away by the flood on Ball Branch of Jones Fork. A one-room stone building will replace the old school at Lower Caney, it is said. Cost of these buildings will aggregate $4,400, it is estimated, by the Beacon Light, Caney Creek Community Center publication.

Lark Slone and Estill Gearheart, contractors on the Smith's Branch schoolhouse, completed their work a few weeks ago. The building was erected for $1,800.

UNK WAGS A MEAN INCISOR

Pikeville—That amputation is a new use for the teeth, was demonstrated in the court house hall here Saturday when I. A. Harris bit off the finger of his nephew, Sam Harris. Both are from Fordsbranch, Ky. Sam had just been acquitted in county court for whipping the former's son, Curtis, alleged trespasser. The elder Harris attacked him at the door of the judge's office and with a set of teeth as a weapon clipped off the end of Sam's little finger back of the nail before officers could interfere. "It looked like a surgeon's job" attaches of the court said. There will be another trial next Saturday.
