Offenses Many But None Slain, Report by Jury

No murders are among the 56 true bills handed down by the Floyd Circuit Court grand jury on adjournment Monday. Nine persons are charged with assault, however; one is accused of raping a 12-year-old; four face drug charges and most of the remaining indictments allege forms of robbery and theft.

Four Pikeville men—Clancy Adkins, 22, Kenneth Damron, 24, Sammy Fronto, 21, and David Damron—are accused of first degree assault in the stabbing and beating of Ronald "Whitey" Wills in a fight outside The Warehouse at Auxier on August 11. Adkins, Fronto and Kenneth Damron were also indicted in the beating of Gary Hopson the same night.

Also charged with assault is William "Doc" Scaf, of Stanville, in the lug-wrench beating of Paul Vernon Lewis on July 7. Lewis was left blinded in one eye.

Kenny Johnson, Vernon Johnson and Dave Slone were indicted in the beating of Rodney Thornsbury, the grand jury alleging that Slone held Thornsbury at gunpoint while the other two "beat and stomped him about the face and body."

Brackett Is New Supt. of Schools

Board To Ask Public To Join Hunt for Supt.

Ray Brackett, an employee of the Floyd schools system for 28 years and its chief financial officer for the past 13, was sworn in last Wednesday as acting superintendent. He replaces E.P. Grigsby, Jr., who quit the top post last month with three years remaining on his contract and who has been named as Brackett's administrative assistant.

The public will be invited to share in choosing a permanent superintendent, said Chairman Dr. J.D. Adams near the end of Wednesday's meeting of the school board. The Floyd County Education Forum, a citizens' group, had earlier requested public participation in the search and screening process.

Brackett's inauguration—the oath was administered by his son, District Forester Stephen Ray Brackett—came just five days before Floyd school officials were scheduled to learn whether the state Board of Education would permit them to continue to run the schools here. The new appointee said he felt confident of state officials' support and, in a brief statement of his goals as superintendent, listed improved relations with state education and fire officials as top priorities.

(Brackett's confidence was not misplaced. The state Board of Education voted Monday to give Floyd another chance to put its house in order. The school district must have a state-approved consultant to aid in the search for a new superintendent, however, and the state will continue to monitor the Floyd school district at least until a new superintendent is in office.) Magistrates or Commissioners?...

Voters To Decide On Court Change

Floyd county voters will be asked to decide in November whether they want to change the structure of the fiscal court. A question appearing on the ballot will ask whether the voter is in favor of having a fiscal court composed of a judge-executive and three commissioners, all to be elected at large.

The Floyd fiscal court is currently made up of the judge-executive, elected at large, and four magistrates, each elected by district. But that will change if W.T. "Bill" Foley, of Cow Creek, has his way.

Foley, who operated a South Lake Drive restaurant until he retired, organized the petition that got the question of a commission put on the ballot. He makes no bones about where he stands on the issue.

"It don't seem the magistrates know when to quit raising their salaries," he said this week. "We can't put up with that stuff."

Under a commission form of government, "we might have better qualified people, people more interested in the county than themselves," Foley said. With a fresh start, salaries could be scaled down to more modest proportions and more money could be available for maintaining county roads, he said.

At least one of the candidates for magistrate in November's election has come out strongly against the idea of a commission. "When you beat the politicians at their own games, as I did in May, they have a tendency to change the game," said Jackie Edford Owens, Democratic candidate in District 2, in a political advertisement this week. "If four magistrates can't better the county, there is no way three commissioners can."

Some have criticized the commission proposal on the grounds that it would involve a costly redistricting of the county. While voting is countywide under the commission system, candidates are proposed by district to insure a broad representation. State law fixes the number of commissioners at three.

Even if voters support the proposed change, it would not go into effect for another four years, when the magistrates elected this year have completed their terms in office.

One knowledgeable source, who asked not to be identified because of court-house ties, predicted that changing to a commission form of government could profoundly alter the relationship between the judge-executive and other members of the fiscal court.

"Under the present system, the county judge has a stronger hand. No one magistrate can threaten him directly," the source said. With the proposed change, "the commissioners would take on new stature. It would be more difficult for the judge to isolate them."

Insurance, TV Tops Agenda Of City Council

Discussions of what to do about Prestonsburg's city insurance and possible upgrading of TV cable service topped the agenda of the City Council Monday night.

At the Council's Aug. 26 meeting it had been decided to go with coverage provided by the Hatton-Allen Insurance Agency for a period of 60 days, while accepting bids from other insurance agencies. Hatton-Allen stepped in with coverage for the city after the former underwriter, Kentucky Insurance, withdrew its policy as of midnight, August 25.

Denzil Allen reportedly talked with City Manager David Evans sometime after the meeting and said he felt it was unfair to allow 60 days for bids, as that would give other insurance companies the advantage of knowing the price of their premiums. Allen asked for a cap of 45 days, said Evans.

However, a representative from Nationwide Insurance, Roy Ramey, said 45 days would not give his company enough time to prepare a bid. Council decided to keep the 60-day deadline but keep secret the cost of the Hatton-Allen premiums.

Performance Report Shows Floyd Sends More Grads To College Than Average

The good news is that a higher than average percentage of high school students from this county go on to college. The bad news is that Floyd high schools have a higher-than-average number of students dropping out along the way.

Both figures were contained in the schools' annual performance report which was summarized for the Board of Education last Wednesday by schools psychologist Larry Jervis and which will be published in its entirety by the Floyd County Times.

Forty-four percent of Floyd high school graduates enrolled in college last year, compared to a state average of 43.8 percent.

However, of students in grades seven through 12, an average of 4.4 percent (9.3 percent of the senior year) dropped out during the school year—an improvement over the previous year but still an area that needs close attention, according to the report.

No state dropout average is given for the 1984-'85 school year but, the year before, Floyd ranked only 2 on a scale of 1 to 10 in the percentage of students staying in school.

Two figures with a significant bearing on Floyd students' test results, board members were told, were the percentage of school revenues raised from local sources (taxes and investments) and the percentage of students enrolled in special education classes. While, on (See Story No. 4, Page 4)

New Building Needs Stressed at Meeting

Delegations from several grade schools at last Wednesday's meeting of the Floyd Board of Education made it clear that nothing short of new buildings will resolve some of the school district's most pressing problems. And there were signs that the availability of additional state money next summer may set off a spirited scramble here for the coveted funds.

An estimated $9.3 million is expected to be available for school construction in this county in 1986 and 1987 as the result of recent action by the special session of the General Assembly. The Floyd board is also expected to seek an increase in local property taxes this year to help raise building funds.

A delegation from Garrett, where one building has been condemned as unsafe and students are attending classes in an auditorium, put in a strong bid for a share of the money. Rodney Moore asked that a new school there be moved up on the district's list of building priorities.

Parents from Prater Creek, incensed at an overcrowding problem that left seventh graders without a regular teacher and eighth graders sharing space with a remedial reading class, also feel they have a strong claim on a new building.

In fact, the school district's current building plans call next for construction of a middle school at Lancer—a project that would also alleviate conditions in the long-overcrowded Clark school—followed by a new elementary school at Allen and high schools at McDowell and Wheelwright.

Construction of a new grade school at Garrett is currently fifth on the official list of priorities; renovation and expansion at Prater is sixth. But acting Supt. Ray Brackett indicated in an interview last week that the troublesome issue of consolidation—urged by state officials but unpopular in some local communities—will again have to be considered in the school district's long-range building plans.

The board voted to apply for $250,000 in emergency loan money from the state Department of Education to furnish portable classrooms at Garrett. The 10-year loan would be interest-free. The state Board of Education was expected to vote this week on the loan application.

Rosalie Shepherd, president of the Clark PTA, told the board that a one-lane bridge over Middle Creek is causing a dangerous bottleneck there. She also asked why Clark was given only a part-time physical education teacher while smaller schools had a fulltime teacher.

Supt. E.P. Grigsby, Jr., in his last meeting as head of Floyd schools, said reconstruction of the narrow bridge is the responsibility of the Floyd fiscal court. The appointment of physical education teachers is dictated by tradition as much as by school size, he indicated.

Everett Akers vehemently argued for the removal of vehicles from the grounds of Martin grade school and for the establishment of a parent-teacher organization there. Jean Rosenberg, representing the Floyd County Education Forum, asked the board to lend its support to parent-teacher organizations throughout the district.

Board Chairman Dr. J.D. Adams suggested that a well-publicized day be set aside in all schools for parents and teachers to organize any groups they desire. He said he was trying to contact the Martin mayor and city council in the hope of providing alternate parking space for teachers there.

Over Adams' objection, the school district's bus drivers, cooks and custodians will receive a four percent pay raise beginning Sept. 1; other non-certified staff will receive raises on an individual basis depending on length of (See Story No. 3, Page 4)

Seven Years, And None Lean...

PCC Officials Hail Record Enrollment

Prestonsburg Community College set an enrollment record last year, and now that record has been broken for the Fall 1985 term.

The present enrollment stands at 1340—a gain of 73 students over that of 1978 the enrollment stood at 580.

What was described by college officials as "unprecedented growth" at PCC began seven years ago. In the fall of 1978 the enrollment stood at 580.

While this continuing growth is regarded by college officials as proof of a growing desire of area residents for an education, they also see it as an indication that new people are coming into the area.

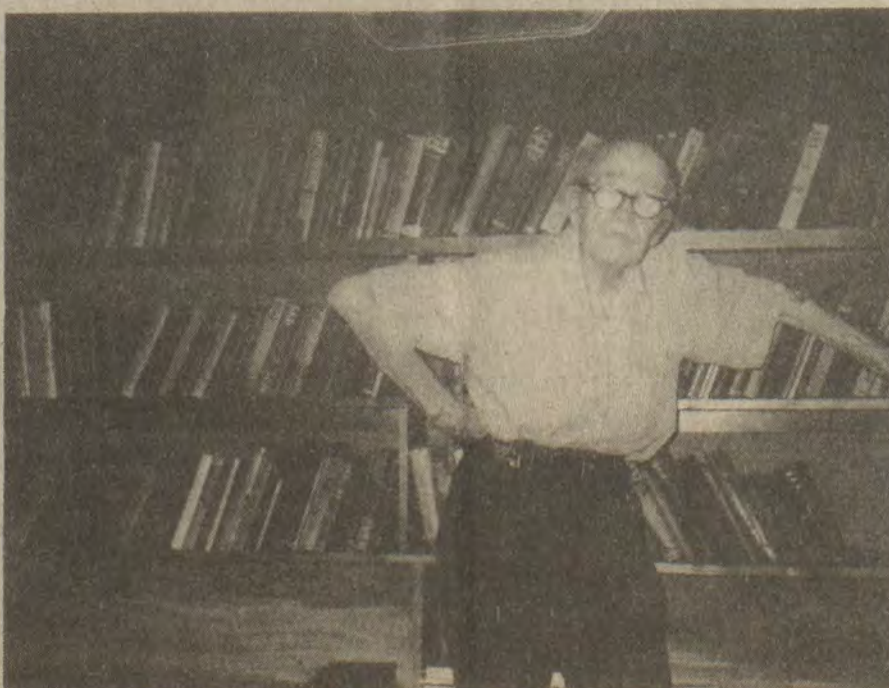

Commenting on the record enrollment, PCC Director Henry A. Campbell, Jr. said, "even more spectacular than the total number of students was the growth in Full Time Equivalent (FTE) students during this semester. While the headcount rose from 1,267 to 1,340, the FTE rose from 797 to 858.6. Two hundred ten classes were on the class roster for the fall semester. Only 10 of those classes had to be dropped for insufficient enrollment."

The increase in the number of students carrying fulltime loads is seen as the reason for the growth in FTE. It is also the reason for the large classes and the necessity to split a sizeable number of classes. Once again, students from Floyd county contributed the largest percentage of the total student population; Pike county has the second largest enrollment, with Johnson county very close behind.

"The future of this institution looks very good," continued Campbell. "With the tremendous growth that we have had, we can anticipate that the Legislature is going to look favorably on the addition of two new buildings to our campus. By 1990, this campus could have from 1,800 to 2,000 students. Part of this growth has come from the influx of new people to the area; however, growth is also evidenced through the increased numbers of high school students pursuing a college career."

Dr. Campbell pointed out that in the past three years, many distinguished faculty members have been added to the PCC roster and that each of these has contributed to the educational growth of the college. "We now have eight faculty members with earned doctorates and three more who will attain their doctorates within the next academic year," Campbell said. "New faculty members that we have brought into the community college have credentials that are far beyond what one normally finds in the community college setting. In addition, a larger number of faculty members at Prestonsburg Community College have been taking sabbaticals and leaves of absence to go back to college for graduate work in their subject matter fields. All of these factors have contributed to a better-trained and superior faculty."

ALLEN BOOKSTORE OWNER, WYATT MARTIN, stands before a fraction of the estimated 10,000 volumes which line the walls of his combination home and work place.

At Age 84, Allen Bookseller In Business Almost 40 Years

For lovers of books, there exists in an old house at Allen a pleasure place, a store of more than 10,000 volumes, some first editions, all hardback, all for sale.

Presiding over these tomes is Wyatt Martin, who has been in the book-selling business since 1947. Martin, who will turn 84 soon, said his life's work arose from a love of books and the expansion of one's horizons books provided.

Coming from rural Knott county, Martin said he "didn't have much chance to expand" intellectually as a child, but spent many hours wandering around the then almost untouched countryside of what he described as "really the prettiest section of eastern Kentucky."

A rift in their clan and some reportedly shady land deals took the Martins' home-place in Knott, forcing a move to Garrett, which Martin described as "a delightful place." It was there he began his schooling at the Stone Coal school.

Martin said he loved to roam the area with his dog when he wasn't going to what he described as "a good school with good teachers," or working around the house.

"Life was pleasant, but it wasn't easy," he said. "There was always lots of work to be done. You didn't have all the (different) things you wanted to eat, but it was substantial food—corn, beans, potatoes and berries, things like that."

Martin pursued his education at Stone Coal for a time before a Prof. W.R. Thomas organized a subscription school in which students paid a monthly fee to attend classes. Martin said the subscription school was unlike anything available at the regular county schools, and it was there he got his first taste of drama. Thomas introduced him to historical plays on American heroes such as Washington and Lincoln. (See Story No. 2, Page 4)

State Extends Pay On Long-Term Care

The Cabinet for Human Resources has announced a major revision in its plans on providing Medical payments for skilled nursing long-term care patients who no longer need that level of care.

Effective immediately, the Kentucky Medical Assistance Program will pay intermediate care reimbursements for skilled nursing patients who, after Sept. 1, no longer meet the medical criteria for the skilled nursing level of care and are awaiting placement in an intermediate care bed.

The state will continue to pay, through Jan. 31, 1986, skilled nursing rates for approximately 1,200 Medicaid recipients who were listed as skilled nursing-awaiting-intermediate care placement prior to Sept. 1.

Effective Feb. 1, 1986 only intermediate care rates will be used in making reimbursements for any Medicaid recipients classified as skilled nursing-awaiting-intermediate care placement.

On July 30 the cabinet announced plans to end the higher payments effective Feb. 1, 1986 as part of action to balance the state Medicaid budget. The change was designed to save $4.2 million this fiscal year.

Human Resources Secretary Al Austin called the announcement good news for numerous concerned Kentuckians who had questioned what would happen to those nursing home residents affected.

"This is definitely a positive turn of events, both for the program as well as for the nursing home residents affected," Austin said. "This should surely reduce the concerns of many residents and of their families. We now have the ability to make appropriate reimbursements for the level of care provided."

Austin said the state plans were altered because of a change in position by the federal government.

"In the past, this agency had been informed that we could not make intermediate care payments for patients in the higher level of care," he said. "When we recently learned of a possible modification in the federal position, I immediately inquired to the federal Health Care Financing Administration regarding the issue. Today I received a letter from the HCFA regional administrator to the effect that there is no federal statutory or regulatory prohibition to such payments. Therefore, we have immediately exercised this new option."

Austin said he considered an immediate implementation of intermediate care rates for the 1,200 Medicaid recipients currently in the skilled nursing-awaiting-intermediate care placement classification. "At this time, however, I see no need to alter our previously announced schedule of reductions and reimbursements," he said.

The Cabinet for Human Resources will also continue its schedule of incentive payments to intermediate care facilities which receive skilled nursing-awaiting-intermediate care patients. Through Jan. 31, 1986 the cabinet will pay a $7.50 per day incentive in patient reimbursement for any transfer of a skilled nursing patient awaiting placement in an intermediate care bed. The $7.50 incentive is one-half the difference between the daily reimbursements for skilled nursing and intermediate care.

The incentive is to continue for a minimum of 90 days. Austin said the cabinet would continue to explore any avenue available which would help balance the Medicaid budget while reducing any impact of those actions on recipient services.

MAO INHIBITORS AND FOOD

Individuals taking monoamine oxidase (MAO) inhibitors, which are occasionally prescribed for depression or high blood pressure, need to exercise great care in food and beverage selections. Food and drugs that contain high levels of tyramine, a natural component, can interact with MAO inhibitors. It can force blood pressure to dangerous levels and cause severe headaches, brain hemorrhages and even death. Tyramine-rich foods and beverages include aged and fermented items such as sharp cheeses, yogurt and sour cream. It also includes pickled herring, salami, pepperoni, soy sauce, active yeast preparations, beer, Chianti wine and sherry. In addition, livers from beef and chicken, broad beans, canned figs, bananas and avocados are on the list as well.

When your physician prescribes medication for you or a member of your family, have him call COOLEY APOTHECARY. If there is something in particular you should know about the medication we tell you. We also maintain complete patient profiles so we can check for drug interactions and as an added convenience for you in obtaining proper credit at income tax time and for insurance purposes. CLUB PICNIC HELD

The Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club held its annual covered dish picnic Thursday, August 22, at the home of Mrs. Otto Martin, Wayland.

Gathered around the loaded tables in the late afternoon shade of Mrs. Martin's rear lawn were six clubmembers, one former clubmember, one past district governor, and five additional guests.

Later, indoors a business meeting was conducted by the club president, Mrs. Marie Mullins, who outlined the club programs for the coming year, naming program leaders and hostesses, and making announcements concerning the various federation meetings.

Mrs. J.C. Wells was again elected unanimously for another four years as trustee of the club.

The first program meeting of the new club year will be at the home of Mrs. Maxine Martin, Wayland, Sept. 23, with Mrs. Marcella Bradley in charge of the program.

Those attending the picnic were: Mrs. Jan Killen, Miss Sherri Burke, Mrs. Lester Jones, Mrs. Charles Scott (former clubmember), Mrs. Bert R. Stapleton, guests; Miss Ruby Akers, past District Governor, Mrs. Mary Martin (visiting from Florida), and clubmembers Maxine Martin, LaFaye Hughes, Marcella Bradley, Marie Mullins, Mrs. Lula Coburn, and Libby Martin, hostess.

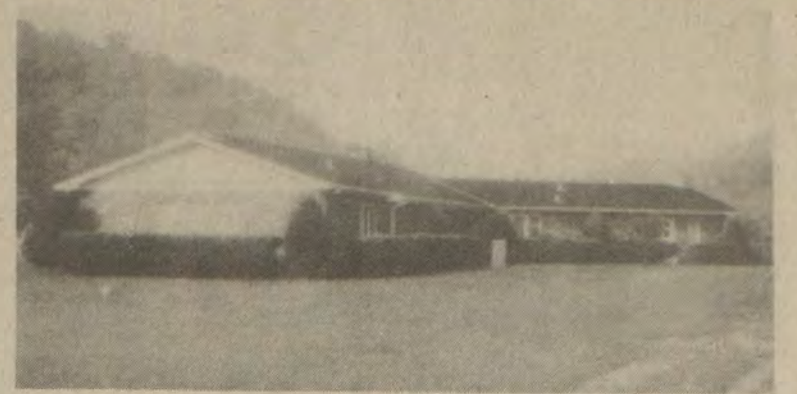

Mine Rescue, First Aid Contests Scheduled

Safety Days will be held September 12-13 at Allen Park, the Department of Mines and Minerals has announced.

A mine rescue and recovery contest will test the skills of the people trained in this field. The five person team will be judged on performance under pressure of a practical mine rescue and recovery problem, representing to the fullest extent possible, the condition a team would encounter during an actual mine fire or other mine emergency.

First aid contestants must display the proper skills to aid an injured miner while implementing cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR), artificial respiration and the best care possible until actual medical help arrives.

Sheriff's Office Makes Two Marijuana Raids

More marijuana raids were reported by the Sheriff's office last week, bringing the number of plants confiscated this year to 2,700.

According to Deputy Paul Auxier, 135 plants were confiscated last Wednesday on the Left Fork of Abbott. Arrested and charged with cultivation of marijuana were Brenda Collins and Gary Bayes, both of Abbott. Also on Wednesday, 132 plants were confiscated on a hillside along the Mountain Parkway. That case is still under investigation by Kentucky State Police Trooper Lee Weddington, Auxier said.

The raids, a team effort of the Sheriff's office and state police, were based on information supplied by a reliable source, said Auxier.

What he interpreted as a school board ploy to dump Grigsby in order to placate state critics drew an angry response from Burl Scott, coal company executive from Hite, who accused the board of caving in to pressure from state education officials and the media. "Someone comes in here from Frankfort to stomp their foot at us and we ran away and hid from them," he said.

To a smattering of applause, Scott said board members would answer to the electorate if they continued to be cowed by "gin hands sent up here from Frankfort." In the audience were at least three state Department of Education staffers.

Brackett said he had "no hard feelings" for the man he replaced and that he and Grigsby would "work together." But he also stressed that he intended to assume full control of the county schools system. "The board elected me as its chief executive officer and that's the role I will play," he said.

On Thursday, Brackett was moving his effects into Grigsby's former office. Grigsby was given an office in the school bus garage at Garth. Although he will lose the $2400-a-year stipend he was paid as board secretary, there will be no change in the former superintendent's $44,817 salary. Brackett will get an $8900 raise to bring his salary up to the same level. He is also serving as board secretary.

Among other objectives listed by the acting superintendent were improved relations between the board and the community, raising more money for the schools, building new schools, and—a crowd-pleaser among the 80-or-more visitors jammed into the sweltering boardroom—finding a cooler and more spacious meeting room.

He will try to hold at least one board meeting every year in each of the five educational districts, will seek to improve dropout and attendance rates, and will work at improving student test scores and relations between administrators and staff, Brackett said.

Thomas, said Martin, was unconcerned about money, and would teach the children even if they could not pay.

Around 1912 or 1913, said Martin, he enrolled in the Hindman Settlement School, where he spent two or three years.

"I seemed to gain the confidence of the teachers," he said, "and did a reasonably good job for my age."

Success at his studies going to his head a little, Martin said he eventually got to thinking he was grown up. "I thought I knew more than I knew," he said. "I knew better what to do than what others could tell me. I left with two school companions to see the outside world. With lots of walking and skimping, we made it to Ohio. The war was raging and labor was short; employers didn't care much about size or age, and we were able to get jobs. We made a little money and bought new clothes. After about a year we returned to our old stomping grounds, decked out like financiers, telling tales of thing across the border."

Martin said he derived enormous benefit from his years at the Hindman Settlement School, and in a way regretted leaving. His education didn't come to an end then, however. While living in Ohio, he had received letters from Alice Lloyd offering a scholarship to the Raymond Rirdon School in the Catskills of New York. He accepted the offer and as soon as he was able, left for the school from which he would eventually graduate.

At the Raymond Rirdon School, Martin was thrust into an environment different from anything in his experience. The boys there came from all over the world—Cuba, South America, Mediterranean islands and other farflung locales.

But Martin said he didn't experience much culture shock. "I hadn't reached the stage where I thought much of culture," he said. "I was still caught up in the joy of living." He concentrated on literature and the Spanish language while at the school, where the philosophy he said was to merge arts and sciences, trades and culture into the interests of humanity.

After graduation, Martin said he moved back to Ohio, where he found a job with the Crystal Paper Co., but wasn't satisfied there. He wanted to see the world. In the early 1920's, he joined the Army Medical Corps.

He completed a three-year tour of duty in Hawaii, returning eventually to the mainland and once again resuming his studies, first at the Columbus Academy of Fine Arts, and later at the University of Louisville. It was at U of L he met the man who introduced him to the passion he carries to this day, the study of medieval history and literature.

"Professor Beard got me started in medieval history. I enrolled in whatever courses I could find on the life and times of the medieval ages. I held together and reached its downfall, and that's a heap of study for a little mountain boy."

Martin said he also had admiration for the great Russian authors, such as Dostoevski, Tolstoy and Turgenyev, but had no use for more modern American writers such as William Faulkner or Ernest Hemingway.

But for those interested in any of those writers, and a host of others, there is a very good chance of finding their works among the many lining the walls of Martin's combination residence and place of business, where he has been since 1947.

He said around that time he read an advertisement from a fellow from back East who wanted a book on European superstitions. Martin had one and sent it to the man in exchange for $5. From these humble beginnings began a mail-order business that prospered for more than 30 years. That business has tapered off a bit in recent years, he said, as he doesn't send out as many book lists to his clients. And, he said, he has never had a large number of walk-in customers.

The bookstore remains open. Martin cautioned, however, that one should call before dropping by.

He summed up his great love of literature and music with a grin and a twinkle in his eye. "It runs like a golden thread through the years of my life, discovering the beauty and magnificence of literature and music." And for those who share such love, particularly that of literature, a visit to the old house in Allen could be quite rewarding.

average, school districts across Kentucky raise 23 percent of their income locally, Floyd derives only six percent of its budget from local sources.

"That's the difference between bologna and a steak," remarked Board Chairman Dr. J.D. Adams.

Floyd had 6.4 percent of its students enrolled in special education classes next year, compared to 11.7 percent statewide. The relatively low number here means not only that some handicapped children are not getting the special support they need but also that their inclusion in the general school population distorts achievement test scores, Jervis said.

On another measure thought to affect test scores, 57.8 percent of Floyd students are listed as "economically deprived" or eligible for free lunch. No state average is available for 1984-'85 but it usually runs around 36 percent.

In two high schools and nine elementary schools some classes were larger than the maximum permitted under state regulations. The county's most crowded conditions were at Harold Elementary, where seven classes containing 57 percent of the students enrolled there were over the limit, and Martin Elementary, where eight classes containing 47 percent of the students exceeded the maximum size. Countywide, 32 classes, representing 10.8 percent of the county's students, were listed as overcrowded.

Although the figures were said to have improved this year, 25 teachers last year taught 41 classes out of their field of training. Eight were teaching a total of 13 classes out of field at Allen Central High school; six were teaching out of field at Betsy Layne high school.

Across Kentucky, $537 in local money is spent on each child in school; in this county, the figure is $127. Statewide, each child is backed by $106,018 in assessed property value; in Floyd county, $62,346.

With 91.47 percent attendance, Floyd lags several percentage points behind the state average. While tiny Home Branch school boosted the county average, with 96.4 percent, Allen Central High School had only 86.4 percent in average daily attendance, while Wheelwright High School had 87.2 percent.

The report also lists grade-by-grade results of the new Kentucky Essential Skills Test (KEST) given to all students in April and results of the Comprehensive Test of Basic Skills (CTBS) given to grades three, five, seven and 10.

The KEST resulted from a bill passed by the 1984 General Assembly that required the state to establish certain basic skills as the foundation of classroom teaching, to test whether students had mastered those skills, and to tutor those who had not.

All students in grades one through 12 were required to take the test last spring in math and reading; kindergartners took it in reading only. Next spring, all Kentucky students are expected to take the test in writing arts, spelling and reference skills as well.

Whereas the KEST is tied specifically to what is taught in Kentucky schools, the CTBS is a national, standardized achievement test which is not specifically linked to the Kentucky curriculum. Under a 1979 state law, students in grades three, five, seven and 10 take the test in five areas: reading, math, language arts, spelling and library use.

In an ongoing saga of dissatisfaction with the Consolidated Communications Group, overseers of Prestonsburg's cable television system, several council members voiced their continued dissatisfaction with the cable system and mentioned complaints from subscribers.

Evans read a letter he had received in which Consolidated's regional manager, J.M. Crawford, indicated a proposed upgrading of Prestonsburg's service, similar to a project the company is implementing in Pt. Pleasant, W. Va. The new system would result in a 30-channel capacity from Prestonsburg, up from the 13 channels, including the premium HBO and Cinemax channels, now available.

Some of the new channels Prestonsburg might be in line to include MTV, Nickelodeon, the Disney Channel and Showtime, while most of the currently available channels would remain.

The upgrading, however, is not targeted for completion until September 1, 1986.

Crawford, aware of the numerous subscriber complaints, ended his letter, saying, "I am hoping that this letter will help to keep your council and city cool for a couple of months. I promise you, you won't be sorry."

Councilman Bill Ray Collins, however, was not impressed. He made a motion, seconded by Councilman Bobby Ranier, to allow "any and all other cable companies to contract in Prestonsburg." Mayor Harold Cooley refused, however, to entertain the motion until City Attorney Larry Brown checked in to its legality.

In other action, Council set the city property tax rate for fiscal 1985 at 25¢ per $100 property evaluation, the same as for last year.

The question of the propriety of paid firefighters doubling as auxiliary police officers was brought up by Collins.

Saying he felt "it's a conflict with the best interests of this city," Collins said he would like to see the practice stopped. He said he was afraid a problem might arise if two separate emergencies necessitated the men abandoning one job to do another, thus leaving the city with diminished services. Police Chief Stan Fletcher said there are now four men pulling such double-duty. Council did not vote on the proposal.

Another matter, ongoing for some time, came again before the Council in the form of a letter sent by attorney Woodrow Burchett to Cooley and each of the council members, concerning a family cemetery the city moved when building the new access road at Cliff. The cemetery is on land owned by the city.

Burchett wrote that Lillie Parker, a relative of those buried there, had complained that the city had not moved a monument to the new location and had failed to erect a chain-link fence around the cemetery. But the mayor and members of council said the city had done much to improve the site.

Following a dispute between 4th St. neighbors, Council voted to have yellow lines painted along both sides of that street across from driveways to better accommodate traffic flow and parking for residents. Fifteen-minute parking will be permitted for loading and unloading, it was decided.

The painting of the yellow lines will fulfill a motion passed by the City Council 18 years ago, said Evans, who added that he didn't know why the painting had not been carried out at that time.

Council also voted to honor E.L. Beirman's request that the city donate $500 to the Jenny Wiley Festival, to be held here Oct. 6-12.

County Clerk Returns More Excess Fees

The state auditor's recently completed audit of the Floyd County Clerk's office for 1984 shows that County Clerk Carla Robinson Boyd turned over to the county a total of $78,034.44 in excess fees for the year.

Of this total, Mrs. Boyd returned $74,218.65 on March 15, with the remainder of $3,815.79 being paid to the county last week.

This is said to be the first time in Floyd county history that an amount of such proportions has been given back to the county in any one year.

MILLIONAIRE BOARD GAME FUND RAISER

The Kiwanis Club of Prestonsburg will soon offer residents of Floyd County an opportunity not only to aid a local fund raising effort but to purchase a unique gift as well.

The Millionaire Game bears a slight resemblance to the classic, "Monopoly", but the Kiwanis Club is predicting that Monopoly will take the back seat in Floyd County this Christmas, when its residents find that instead of buying properties like (Park Place) and (Board Walk) they now have a chance to own local businesses that have chosen to participate.

Only 32 positions will be available on the game board. Those spots will be sold on a first-come, first-serve basis beginning September 12th. Contact a Kiwanis member today to reserve yours.

The games will be available for purchase soon in a limited edition. So listen to your radio and watch the paper for further details.

HOW TO WIN AT THE LOSING GAME
DIET CENTER

START NOW...
...TO CONTROL WEIGHT THROUGH FALL/WINTER

As summer draws to a close, it's time to think about ways to keep from gaining extra weight during the upcoming winter months. Fall and winter typically mean heartier, calorie-rich meals and a decrease in outdoor activity and exercise. Diet Center offers the following tips for keeping your waistline in line during the coming months:

- Decrease the amount of beef in your diet. Replace it with leaner meats, such as chicken or fish.
- Increase foods in your diet that are high in fiber, such as fresh, raw fruits and vegetables; whole-grain breads; crackers; and bran. These foods take longer to digest and provide "staying power" to get you from one meal to the next without hunger and the temptation to snack.
- Drink eight 8-ounce glasses of water every day. Water itself is filling and is a healthful alternative to beverages containing caffeine, alcohol or sugar.
- Do not skip meals. Hunger encourages less intelligent food choices, and you may consume even more calories when hunger catches up with you than if you had eaten at mealtimes in the first place.
- Shop on a regular basis to make sure you always have plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables available when you go to the refrigerator looking for "a little something to eat." Vegetable salads prepared ahead of time also provide the basis for quick, nutritious meals.
- Reduce the amount of fatty "extras" in your diet. Each time you butter your bread, add dressing to a salad or sour cream to a baked potato, make a conscious effort to use less than you're accustomed to. Also, try using herbs or lemon juice on cooked vegetables in place of butter or low-fat cottage cheese on your baked potato.
- Become more physically active: Walk whenever possible; take stairs instead of the elevator; park your car at the end of the parking lot; and instead of visiting over coffee and donuts, ask a friend to join you for a walk at break time.

For more tips on ways to control your weight and improve your diet, contact your local Diet Center Counselor today.

NUMB ARMS, LEGS Warning Signals

There may be misalignment of vertebrae in the spine causing pressure on nerves, yet the patient experiences no pain in the back. Instead, a variety of sensations may be felt in other parts of the body. These include tingling, tightness, hot spots, cold spots, crawling sensations, electric shock sensations, stinging, burning, and others.

The following nine symptoms involving back pain or strange sensations are often the forerunners of more serious conditions. Any one of these may spell back trouble.

- (1) Paresthesias (see above)
- (2) Headaches
- (3) Painful joints
- (4) Numbness in the arms or hands
- (5) Loss of sleep
- (6) Stiffness in the neck
- (7) Pain between the shoulders
- (8) Stiffness or pain in lower back
- (9) Numbness or pain in the legs.

These signals may indicate your body is being robbed of normal nerve function. Until this function is restored, you will, in some degree, be incapacitated. The longer you wait to seek help, the worse the condition will likely become. Don't wait! Should you experience any of these warning signals . . . call for in depth consultation in Layman's terms.

Whitaker Art To Be Featured

The Kentucky Highlands Museum Society is sponsoring an exhibition of art work by Kentucky artist Tom J. Whitaker. Whitaker is being honored with a closed reception, Sept. 14. The exhibition opens to the public from 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 15, in conjunction with the open house at the Kentucky Highlands Museum in Ashland.

Whitaker grew up on Punccheon Creek in Magoffin county, and is presently teaching drawing, painting, art history and art education at Prestonsburg Community College. He owns and operates the Parkway Gallery-Studio on Middle Creek, near here.

Many collectors own works by Whitaker. His exhibitions, workshops, and expertise as a juror make him widely sought for his artistic knowledge and ability. "Paint what you know and know what you paint" is one of Whitaker's favorite sayings.

The show is composed of drawings and watercolors. Although Whitaker's hill heritage is reflected in the work, there is also a universal quality. A hog, portraits, flowers, buildings, the fisherman and a rat are among the many subjects depicted. Of special interest is a painting of the Kentucky Highlands Museum.

WIC Program Said Economically Worthy

A recent congressional study shows that a federal food program for children, pregnant women, and new mothers saves $3 in short-term hospital costs nationwide for every $1 spent.

But more importantly, these groups of people in Kentucky are healthier because of the Special Supplemental Feeding Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC), says Peggy Kidd, director of WIC in Kentucky's Department for Health Services.

The WIC program, funded entirely with federal dollars, provides nutrition education and specific foods high in protein, iron and vitamin C to low-income pregnant women, new mothers, infants, and children through age four. With vouchers from local health departments, women can buy iron-fortified cereal, juice, milk, cheese, eggs, beans and peas. For infants, they can buy iron-fortified formula, juice and cereal.

"The program's goal is to improve the health of children in their formative years through proper nutrition," said Kidd. "To qualify, participants must be income-eligible and determined by a physician, nutritionist or nurse to be at nutritional risk, meaning they have health problems that can be improved through better nutrition."

"Our studies show that participants in the program—even after as short a time as six months—become healthier," said Kidd. "I believe that these facts, coupled with the federal study showing cost-effectiveness, prove that WIC is a worthwhile expenditure of tax dollars."

For example, a marked drop in the rate of anemic children occurs after a few months in the program, she said. "This is significant since physicians have observed that anemic children tend to be more susceptible to infections, appear lethargic and are often poor learners in school," said Kidd.

Good nutrition during pregnancy can help prevent low birth-weight babies and can improve the survival chances of those who are born too small, said Kidd.

Families in WIC tend to stay in the health-care system because of realizing that preventive measures can improve health, Kidd said. Because of involvement in WIC, "women are coming in earlier and more frequently for prenatal care and nutritional counseling," she said.

"However, the success of the program should not be construed to mean that we are doing all that we can do," Kidd pointed out. "In Kentucky, we serve 62,000 women, infants and children every month. There are 161,000 people eligible for the program. We cannot serve these people because of limited funds."

"So we end up serving only those in the high-priority categories, such as women with high-risk pregnancies, teenage mothers, low birth-weight babies, and breastfeeding mothers with nutritionally-related problems."

"We just now have started serving high-risk post-partum women. These are women who definitely need to be served, but if we continue serving them, we may have to cut some children off the program."

The congressional study by the House Select Committee on Children, Youth and Families supports these conclusions. Only a third of the nine million eligible women in the nation participated in WIC last spring, the report said.

Dress Like You Feel, Aquarius!

ARIES—You are in a humanitarian period and need to fulfill this for your own well-being. An ideal romance could begin now but it won't be consummated without hard work (and a lot of money). Apply all your energy to your work and a transformation can take place; but don't neglect your better-half or your head may get "transformed".

TAURUS—You will be especially sensitive when you feel you are slighted. Don't be afraid to express your true emotions, it may improve the climate around the home. A child will give you cause to be proud when she appears in public. A Virgo may try to persuade you to invest in a get-rich-quick-scheme—look at it carefully.

GEMINI—You are in a house-cleaning mood and will be getting rid of anything not essential. When you run across an "old dream", will you throw it out or revitalize it? If you're serious about transforming your work, take it home with you. A neighborhood party could see the beginning of the romance you've been secretly wanting.

CANCER—You are into serious buying and the more expensive the item the better. Lifetime dreams may be attained but it will be up to you to make them last. Be very precise at work and you can get the recognition you want. Join a community action group, you'll have the ideas needed to make it a success.

LEO—Dealings with institutions will go your way today—you'll get the "respect" you "deserve". Guard against extravagance, your champagne-taste won't fit a beer-pocketbook. Listen to a Virgo on money matters and you won't have to worry about overspending. An inspiration can lead to the peace-of-mind you've been seeking.

VRIGO—A dream will show you how to attain peace-of-mind and you should have the drive to put it into effect. Unusual activities at home will not be to your liking (or understanding). An "ideal" romance may turn out just the opposite so keep your eyes open. You will be concerned that the children aren't developing properly—you're being silly.

LIBRA—You will be changing from a social butterfly to caring for others to selfishness over the next week. Don't pass up any invitation today, a new friend can be made. A dream can become a reality if you'll make plans and then do the work. You can be the "belle of the ball" wherever you go, and will you ever be going!

SCORPIO—Put your best foot forward with the boss, a salary increase is possible. Those plans for your love life will "die" and you should be glad when they do. All health matters can be dealt with successfully now—don't skip this opportunity. Increase your visibility over the weekend, it will be fun and profitable.

SAGITTARIUS—You are eccentric now, and in a big way—don't expect people not to notice. Be careful not to increase the tension in your life—maybe you should try meditation. You are a genius at getting rid of money and may wind up very, very broke. Implement plans to make your career compatible with private aspirations.

CAPRICORN—Sudden relationships can spring up out of nowhere—think twice before you sign your "John Henry". You are a practical idealist now and should have the energy to do something about your love life. Get involved with a club or organization this weekend, you will be excellent at making plans. You may receive a spiritual reward for your efforts.

AQUARIUS—Unusual and exciting social events are coming up, so plan your wardrobe. Establish a new budget and quit wasting your resources trying to "keep up with the Jones' ". You are in an expansive mood and over-eating or drinking could be detrimental to your health. Now is the time to make permanent changes.

PISCES—You will be nit-picking at the loved one and if the favor is returned, you'll be sorry. Don't be pretentious at work, someone is looking for an excuse to get-on-your-case. If you get a raise now you should take the extra money and speculate with it. You will run into an exciting friend over the weekend and anything can happen.

The year 1934 saw the production of an immensely strong synthetic fiber later patented under the name nylon. It was first used as bristles for toothbrushes.

Presents Opposing Views on Abortion

Abortion is one of the most personal issues a woman can face. Yet, this very private matter is at the heart of a very public debate. Thirteen years after the Supreme Court decision to legalize abortion in 1973, this emotionally-charged issue is once again at the heart of a battle that divides the nation.

Differing views on this controversial and divisive subject will be presented during "The Abortion Battle," to be aired on KET Wednesday, September 18, at 8:00 p.m. The program, which represents a bold and unprecedented effort by the Public Broadcasting Service, integrates three hours of programming which reflect both Pro-Choice and Pro-Life viewpoints.

Through the presentation of intensely compelling, diametrically opposed films and testimony, viewers will have an opportunity to examine this controversial issue. Opposing documentaries and position statements will be tied together by KQED reporter Stephen Talbot. The films included in "The Abortion Battle," in the order in which they appear, are:

"Conceived in Liberty," a film described by its producers as "Pro-Life dynamite," and winner of the 1985 Religion in Media "Certificate of Excellence" Award;

"So Many Voices," a Pro-Choice documentary narrated by Ed Asner and Tammy Grimes, which profiles several couples and single women who faced the question of abortion;

"The Silent Scream," an edited version of the highly controversial film showing an abortion through ultrasound visualization, followed by a response by Planned Parenthood;

"Speak Out," which shows segments from the National Abortion Rights Action League (NARAL) campaign about women defending their decisions to have abortions; and,

"Abortion Clinic," a documentary, originally aired as part of the "Frontline" series, portraying the agonizing decisions of four pregnant women, two of whom choose abortion and two of whom bring their babies to term.

"The Abortion Battle" is produced by KQED/San Francisco.

"Scholastic Challenge"

Lists 3 Floyd Schools

"KET Scholastic Challenge," the academic quiz show which tests students' proficiency in English, history, math, and science, kicks off its fourth season beginning Sunday, October 6, at 1:00 p.m. on KET. More than 350 students, representing 117 Kentucky high schools, will compete in this "variety sport of the mind."

From this county, teams from Prestonsburg, McDowell and Wheelwright high schools will participate.

KET developed this program four years ago to help promote interest in education in Kentucky. Sally Jackson, producer of "KET Scholastic Challenge," says, "It is long overdue that academic achievement in our high schools be recognized. Kentuckians should be proud of their youth and KET is proud to bring their academic excellence to the attention of our viewers across the state."

Each hour-long program consists of two games, with three high school teams competing per game. Each game will have five rounds of questions, one of which is centered entirely on Kentucky. Questions about Kentucky were written by Dr. Richard Smith, and questions for the other rounds were provided by Altman Productions, who has developed questions for similar broadcasts in the Washington, D.C., area for 25 years.

This year's host is Bill Myers, a veteran of 30 years of broadcasting experience in the Cincinnati area, which includes positions as anchor man and weather forecaster. Additionally Myers was a cast member of the syndicated "Bob Braun Show," hosted the Opening Day ceremonies of the Cincinnati Reds, and is currently co-anchor of the "Cincinnati Business Weekly" for public television station WCET.

Unemployment Rises in State

Unemployment rates rose in 96 Kentucky counties between June and July, reflecting the rise in the statewide rate, according to figures released last Friday by the Cabinet for Human Resources. Rates were lower in 19 counties and remained the same in five.

Sixty-six counties reported rates above 10.0 percent, compared to 51 in June and 59 in July 1984.

Compared to July 1984, rates were higher in 66 counties, lower in 51 and the same in three.

In the Big Sandy district Floyd county's 14.2 per cent jobless rate was highest and Martin county's 6.4 percent was lowest. Over the five-county district unemployment for the period rose to 12.2 percent from 11.5 in June.

The preliminary statewide rate for July was 9.1 percent, up from a revised 8.3 percent for June. Nationally the comparable rates were 7.4 percent in July, down from 7.5 percent in June. The rates are not seasonally adjusted.

The increase in Kentucky's jobless rate between June and July was caused by a drop in agricultural jobs and a decrease in the number of hourly employees who work for schools and colleges during the summer, according to state labor market analyst Ed Blackwell.

Trimble County reported the state's lowest rate, 3.2 percent, followed by Bourbon with 3.5 percent, Woodford with 3.9 percent, Fayette with 4.5 percent and Scott with 4.7 percent.

Five counties reported rates above 20.0 percent. Wolfe County's 30.7 percent rate was the highest and was a drastic jump from that county's June report of 13.0 percent. Blackwell cited layoffs at the Campton Electronics plant as a contributor to the rate jump. "This is a temporary layoff, with most of the work force expected to be called back in September," he said. "Also, more people entered the labor force. Many of these were applying for jobs at a new shopping center in Jackson and a fast-food restaurant in Campton."

Carter county's 21.6 percent rate was the second-highest in the state, followed by Letcher's 21.5 percent, Menifee's

21.3 percent and Robertson's 20.5 percent.

Blackwell predicted the August report would show an increase in agricultural employment because of the tobacco harvest season. "Education jobs should increase in September," he said.

Employment also was down in manufacturing and bituminous coal mining, he said. "But more people were working in construction, finance, insurance and real estate, transportation, communications and utilities, and trade."

An estimated 1,558,400 Kentuckians were working in July, down from 1,572,900 in June and just barely above the 1,558,300 employed in July 1984. The state's jobless numbered 156,100 up from 142,000 in June and slightly below the July 1984 report of 156,300.

Yates-Ward Wedding Solemnized

Miss Karen Sue Yates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Yates, of Prestonsburg, and Mr. Steve Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ward, of McDowell, were united in marriage June 29 at the home of the bride's parents in a beautiful lawn wedding.

The bride is the granddaughter of Esta Newsom and the late Delmon Newsom and Corbett and Ethel Yates. Mr. Ward is the grandson of Alice Ward and the late Fred Ward and Dixie Lawson and the late Dewey Lawson.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a ivory chapel-length satin dress with a beaded pearl bodice and chantilly lace featuring a scalloped neckline. The dress was draped to the shoulders and gathered with many silken flowers extending over full puffed sleeves puckered at elbow-length. She wore a bridal hat of chantilly lace with beaded pearls adorned with flowers, and she carried with her a cascading bouquet of ivory and peach roses, baby's breath and ferns accented with long ivory satin ribbons.

The bride's mother wore a peach silk stree length dress with matching corsage, and the groom's mother wore a lace mauve color street-length dress with matching corsage.

The groom's sister, Debbie Hardee, was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Vickie Duncan Thomas and Betty Reid. Their dresses were of peach taffeta and they carried ivory lace fans with peach flowers and wore a comb in their hair with peach flowers. Ellie Justice, daughter of John and Carolyn Justice was flower girl.

Susan Baldwin registered the guests and presented peach and ivory rice bags and peach ribbons.

Patti Howell, at the piano, played songs including "Lord's Prayer," "We've Only Just Begun," and the traditional Wedding March. The groom's aunt, Trish Cieslak, sang "Tonight I Celebrate My Love," and other selections.

A reception was held at the home. The cake was beautifully decorated by Parties Unlimited in ivory with a touch of peach throughout. Flowers for the cake were peach roses and baby's breath.

Out-of-town guests were Naomi May and her granddaughter, Angela May, Nora Lee, Sharon Wright and her son, Timmy Wright, Charolett, Doward and Ivel Webb, Jimmy Webb, Donna Davis, Nanna England, Howard and Flossie Hall, John and Carolyn Justice, Gary C. Johnson, Anthony and Rosanna Webb with daughter Rebecca, Laura Coleman, Bruce Hopkins, Corbett Yates, Teresa Justice, Patrick Justice, Pam Duncan, Robert and Susan Baldwin with son, Rob.

Note of Thanks

The magic God works! The proverb, "God works in mysterious ways," is as old as the history man has recorded.

At the present time we have two houses that care for the alcohol-and drug-addicted men and women in our community. God has provided the chosen few, and a few we are, to provide food, clothing, and shelter for those who seek help from this dread nightmare, caused by the abuse of alcohol and drugs.

More important than the chosen few are those caring citizens that have contributed to our endeavor to make our dreams a reality.

When I realized a need for a house for recovering substance-abused people, I was promptly informed it would not work, by a select few, because our community would not support it.

To those who said it would not work I am indebted. Negative reaction to this humanitarian need deepened my faith in God and the people of the Big Sandy basin.

These past few months, the God I have come to know is very special to me. He has instilled in me that, as one of His children, all I must do is to have an unyielding faith that He is always with me.

This thank-you note would not be complete without expressing the gratitude I feel for Betty K. Christian, our vice-president, who has always been there.

Question

If new 23 from West Prestonsburg to the by-pass at Paintsville is routed across Abbott Mountain and down Little Paint Creek, why would there be any use for a new bridge at Cliff?

In fact, why should there be a bridge at all at Cliff, when new 23 would be 2000 feet from the Cliff approach.

AVERY WILEY,
Prestonsburg

Question Unanswered

Apparently The Floyd County Times and attorney Janice Porter missed the point of Jimmy Harvey's trial. Two-year-old Frances Layne was beaten brutally. But the story (are we to assume likewise the trial?) focused on whether Frances' mother was jealous of a babysitter.

Much media attention is given to the reporting of suspected child abuse. But reporting is useless when our social service and justice systems do nothing to heal the hurts or correct the criminal.

Jimmy Harvey was acquitted of the child abuse charge. But as Frances' father, did he not have responsibility to provide for her protection? Will Jimmy Harvey prevent future abuses—physical and otherwise—from happening to his daughter? Will the Department of Human Resources prevent them? Will the Floyd County Circuit Court?

The question still remains—who beat up Frances Layne?

Suggests May Recognition

Thanks should be extended to all those who had a hand in recognizing Governor Bert Combs for his leadership and those things accomplished during his administration. He deserved this recognition.

Of his accomplishments the one I appreciate most is the Mountain Parkway. Having traveled the old road many, many times, I have always appreciated the Parkway and was happy to pay the toll. In Combs' remarks he paid tribute to William H. May and said that the Parkway could just as well have been named in his honor. No doubt Bill May was out a great deal of money and effort in surveying the road before the election with the possibility that he wouldn't be repaid. May I suggest that the parties who planned the recognition for Governor Combs do the same for Bill May, another hometown product? He also deserves the recognition.

Selected for Arts Academy

Mahoney England, daughter of Nancy Salisbury, of Prestonsburg, and Dr. Nick England, of Williamson, W. Va., has been selected to attend the prestigious Interlochen Arts Academy sponsored by the University of Michigan.

In 1984 Interlochen was designated one of America's exemplary private schools. Students are selected on the basis of talent, performing ability and academic qualification.

Miss England is both a dance and gymnastics student and a student dance and gymnastics teacher for the PCC Dance Program, and has been a student of PCC ballet and gymnastics instructor Robin Carlson for four years. She danced the prima ballerina role of the Sugar Plum Fairy in the 1984 PCC production of the Nutcracker Ballet and both choreographed and danced in the jazz on point number, "Puttin' on the Ritz," in the 1985 spring performance. This past summer, she attended the Briansky Saratoga Ballet Center at Skidmore College, the summer home for the New York City Ballet, where she placed in the top group in every class.

Observe 50th Anniversary

William and Lizzie Mitchell, of Dwale, observed their 50th wedding anniversary, August 26, at their home. Sharing the occasion with them were their children and grandchildren.

It takes the average commercial airplane 12 seconds to land, starting 3,500 feet from the end of the runway and 200 feet in the air.

Select Group Visits Auxier, Other Points

Points of interest in Floyd, Johnson and Martin counties were inspected last week by a group of "emerging leaders," from across the state.

Among those accompanying the group was Secretary of Labor John C. Wells, native of Auxier.

The group, called Leadership Kentucky, was in the area Thursday through Saturday, touring a coal mine near Inez, Mayo State Vocational School in Paintsville, the Auxier Grade School and Prestonsburg Community College. They stayed at May Lodge, where, Friday, they heard a panel discussion on acquiring more resources for public universities, moderated by Lexington attorney Terry McBrayer. Members included University of Kentucky President Otis Singletary, University of Louisville President Donald Swain and Northern Kentucky University President Emeritus A.D. Albright.

According to Al Smith, publisher of the London Sentinel, and one of the organizers of the event, the Eastern Kentucky excursion was the sixth of seven such sessions held around the state, dealing with topics ranging from health care to the economy. The focus of last week's tour was education.

Smith said Leadership Kentucky, an enterprise of the state Chamber of Commerce, was inspired by similar programs, Leadership Lexington and Leadership Louisville, which cater to up and coming young professionals in those cities. He said programs such as these would allow the next generation of state leaders to see first hand the problems and strengths to be found around Kentucky.

Sam Blankenship, a vice president of the First Commonwealth Bank here, was one of 46 people accepted into the program. He said the sessions had "made us more aware of state issues. We'll be able to come back and help our local communities."

Teachers at the Auxier Grade School, where the group stopped for about 30 minutes, were somewhat upset with county school administrators, whom they felt did not believe them when they called to tell of the upcoming visit.

One teacher said the attitude taken at the central office was that if such a thing were to occur, they would have heard about it in advance. In fact, teachers at Auxier said even they were unsure if a phone call they received several weeks earlier regarding the visit was on the level until just two days before the visitors came. An information packet had been sent by the state Chamber of Commerce, but the Auxier school did not receive it.

Acting Supt. of Schools Ray Brackett said he was aware of the visit but cited the problems associated with the transfer of office from former Supt. E.P. Grigsby, Jr., and generally running the school system as preventing his being present.

FLOYD CONSERVATION DISTRICT MEETING SET

The Floyd County Conservation District will meet Monday, Sept. 16, at 2:15 p.m. in the District office at 105 Court Street. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Primary Voting Probe Extended

A state police investigation is being conducted into allegations of election irregularities in the May primary and a report is expected to be made to the Floyd Circuit Court grand jury at its November session, Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen said this week.

Allen said the report, which is being prepared by the state police special investigations branch, was originally anticipated at the grand jury session just completed. However, several new charges necessitated that the probe be extended, he said.

Among the alleged irregularities are "abnormally high" numbers of absentee voters and voters requiring assistance at the polls and alleged infractions by the board of election commissioners.

East Kentucky Grouse Trapped for Stocking

A program to capture 150 ruffed grouse from six eastern Kentucky counties was begun recently by the Department of Fish and Wildlife in an effort to restore the bird to its historic range across the state.

Grouse from Rowan, Clay, Knott, Jackson, Bath, and Breathitt counties will be released in the Land Between the Lakes National Recreation Area located in Trigg and Lyon counties, and at the Higginson-Henry Wildlife Management Area (WMA) in Union county.

Extirpated from the central and western portions of the state in the early part of the century, the grouse has thrived in the eastern mountains and has been naturally extending its range into the central counties again. The Department believes that stocking the birds will hasten the process, and that protection will soon increase the population to harvestable levels.

East Kentucky sportsmen should not be concerned that their birds will be trapped out. According to Lauren Schaa, Assistant Director of Wildlife, the grouse are being trapped from a very large area, and many of the birds taken would succumb to natural mortality before the hunting season. "There will still be plenty of birds to hunt" he says.

Stocking wildlife into areas with suitable habitat is a normal management practice and a successful one. The Knott county deer stocking program, where 500 whitetails were relocated to the east from the Ballard WMA is an example of that success.

Crop Development Rate Remains Good

Harvest time is keeping Kentucky farmers busy despite scattered rainfall, according to Agriculture Commissioner David E. Boswell.

Current farm activities are centered around cutting and housing tobacco, harvesting hay, chopping corn silage, spraying weeds and preparing field machinery for the up-coming corn and soybean harvest.

Moisture levels are quite good, with only 4 percent short, 85 percent adequate and 11 percent surplus.

Burley tobacco cutting has advanced to 48 percent complete, continuing to be well ahead of last year's 28 percent and the average of 33 percent. The tobacco still in the fields is rated 13 percent fair, 69 percent good and 18 percent excellent.

"But there has only been a limited amount of houseburn and rotting, so we're really in pretty good shape," the Commissioner said.

The dark tobacco harvest is also well ahead of normal, with 52 percent cut.

"The corn crop is also progressing rapidly," Boswell said.

The crop is now entirely in the dough stage and beyond. Over four-fifths of the crop, 86 percent, has reached dent stage or beyond, compared with 72 percent last year and for the average.

Thirty percent of the crop has been rated as mature, as compared to 13 percent last year and 20 percent average.

"We're happy to see that yields for early harvested corn have been good, and that farmers are busy harvesting silage corn as time permits," Boswell said.

Some farmers are expressing concern over potential damage from corn borers as the season progresses, but as of Aug. 30, the corn crop was rated 6 percent fair, 63 percent good and 31 percent excellent.

The rains have been a great help to late-planted, full-season beans and especially to double-crop beans. The beans are showing good growth and 72 percent of the soybeans are podded or podding.

This compares to 70 percent last year and 76 percent on average.

The soybean crop is listed as 10 percent fair, 68 percent good and 22 percent excellent.

Grain sorghum is being rated as mostly good. The hay harvest is continuing, although recent rains have delayed some cuttings.

Big Sandy Family Planning Program

In accordance with the Title X legislation, federally subsidized Family Planning services are available to all clients requesting them, but, special priority will be given persons who are high risk and to those of low income. The regulations also state that charges will be made for services to persons other than those from low income families in accordance with an income and family size schedule.

The regional program consultant for Family Planning points out that services to high risk women are a priority. High risk is defined as women under age 20 and over age 35 of childbearing capability, women 20 to 34 with four or more pregnancies, women giving birth two times within a 17-month period, women with a history of premature birth weight or fetal death, women having had an abortion and women with low educational attainment. The following is a listing of priorities in accordance with federal policy and regulations: 1. High risk women and their partners with incomes below poverty; 2. All teenagers; 3. All low income persons.

The mission of the Statewide Family Planning Program is to provide individuals the information and means to exercise personal choice in determining the number and spacing of their children. Family Planning clinics must provide services without regard to religion, race, color, national origin, creed, handicap, sex, number of pregnancies, marital status, age and contraceptive preference.

Every Family Planning clinic must assure client confidentiality and provide safeguards for individuals against the invasion of personal privacy.

Some of the services offered by the Family Planning clinic is provision of a method of birth control including sterilization, counseling and referral; to other services offered in the health department or county offices. Annual pap smear, pelvic and breast examinations are offered as well as pregnancy testing, which takes only approximately five minutes to perform. Abnormal pap smears, high blood pressures and diabetes are monitored and/or referred as indicated. Genetic counseling and referrals are also done.

A debate has recently been raging regarding parental notification of adolescent family planning patients. Regardless of the outcome, family planning clinics are concerned with involving patient's families whenever it can be a supportive influence for the decisions patients are making. Adolescent patients are encouraged to discuss their actions with parents if they feel it is feasible.

If you would like more information regarding family planning, please call your local family planning office.

PUBLIC NOTIFICATION

Bacteria MCL Exceeded

The Mud Creek Water District hereby gives notice that the maximum contaminant level for coliform bacteria was exceeded during its recent reporting period of July 1985 to the State's Division of Water. The test results for coliform bacteria (normally found in the intestinal tract of man or other warm blooded animals) indicate that some contamination had occurred. Coliform bacteria is not considered harmful, but its presence is a reliable indicator that harmful bacteria may have been present. If the presence of coliform bacteria would continue to occur, a boil water notice would be issued. Frequent testing is done to assure the quality of your drinking water.

Craynor Man, Bennie Tackett, Is Mine Victim

A Craynor man was killed Monday in a roof fall at a family-owned mine on Mink Branch. Bennie Tackett, 41, died at McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital, around 2 p.m.

Richard Watts, district supervisor at the Martin office of the Department of Mines and Minerals, said miners were running a mobile scoop in the mine when the accident occurred. An investigation of the mishap was expected to be completed Tuesday, he said.

The fatality occurred at a mine owned by the BJ & L Coal Co., whose principal owner is listed as Jeromia Tackett. The victim is reported to have been a co-owner of the mine.

Watts said 15 persons were working in the mine at the time of the accident. None of the other miners was injured. The BJ & L operation was "an excellent mine, practically citation-free," he said.

Tackett was born in this county on July 5, 1944, a son of Lacy Tackett Webb, of Craynor, and the late Emmitt Tackett. Besides his mother, he is survived by his wife, Pauline Hall Tackett; two daughters, Denise Maureen McKinney, of Craynor, and Levette Mitchell Tackett, at home; two brothers, Carmel Lee Tackett and Walker Tackett, Jr., both of Craynor; four sisters, Gilvia McKinney, Ivalee McKinney, and Barbara Gail Hamilton, all of Craynor, and Carol Jean Blanton, of Grethel; and one grandchild.

Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow (Thursday) at 12 noon at the family residence at Craynor, with Bill Tackett, Jimmy Hall, Harold Tackett, Don Parker, Earl Newsome and others officiating. Burial will follow in the Emmit Tackett family cemetery at Craynor, under the direction of the R.S. Jones and Son Funeral Home at Virgie.

IN MEMORIAM

To Milton Stumbo

FINDING THAT BRIGHTER DAY

Thank you Lord for every blessing
For none were ever small
Often those the world call tiny
Are the largest of them all.

Thank you Lord for every trial
For it was how I learned to grow,
And in my darkest moments
Your love I really came to know.

Forgive me when I faltered
And in self pity, I complain.
Don't let me overlook the rainbows
When my life has floods of rain.

Help me live victorious
And in your will to stay
For then and only then
Will I find that brighter day!

I will miss you,
LUCY

OWENS FOR MAGISTRATE

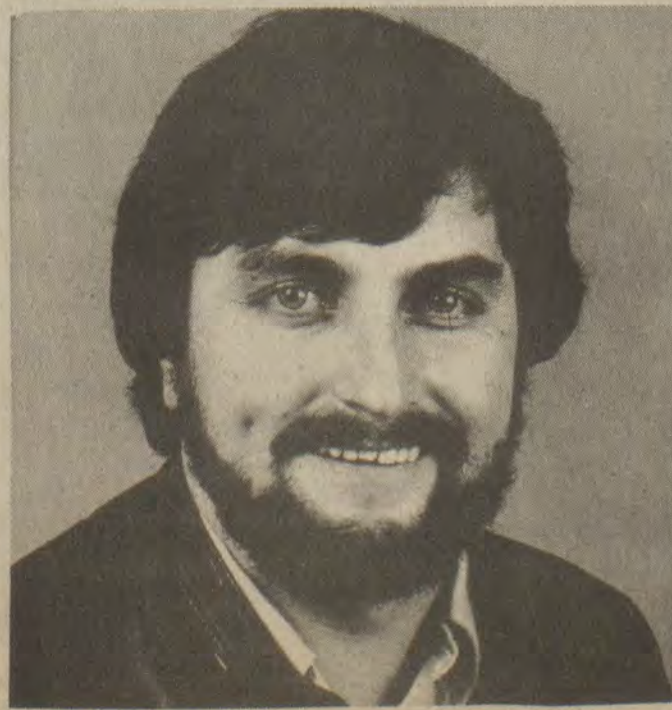

In the past week since I started my November campaign, I saw one of my opponent's posters which stated "Vote For The Man—Not The Party." That's because he doesn't have a party behind him. I WAS CHOSEN by the DEMOCRATIC PARTY to represent them in the November Election. IF YOU ARE GOING TO VOTE FOR THE MAN—Vote for the MAN that had the GUTS to come out and fight in the May Primary against TEN OTHER DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES—Not for a man who HID behind the Independent ticket so he would have a FREE RIDE to the November Election.

In the May Primary in 1981, this candidate WAS BEATEN as the Democratic candidate for Magistrate. This same guy then changed his politics in the November Election in 1981 as a write in candidate for magistrate and WAS BEATEN again. LET US NOT FORGET that he had also run for magistrate in 1969 and was once again DEFEATED. AFTER THREE STRIKES, YOU'RE OUT. HANG IT UP DUFF.

P.S.—When you beat the politicians at their own games, as I did in May, they have a tendency to change the game. Such as; this November on the voting machines we are going to have an IMPORTANT VOTE. It will be to change from magistrates to commissioners. This means rezoning of the whole county, and the county would be divided into thirds, and we would have three commissioners instead of four magistrates. If four magistrates can't better the county, there is no way three commissioners can.

IF WE STICK TOGETHER—COUNTYWIDE—WE CAN BEAT THIS VOTE.

Improvement at May's Branch

City worker Tom Wright is shown at site on Mays Branch where a metal drainage pipe is being replaced with a larger one of concrete. This is expected to provide better drainage to residents who have been inconvenienced by minor flooding by surface water.

Other work engaged in by the city includes the opening of a street next to the Green Acres Housing project which will connect Porter Lane with Green Acres Drive. Street Superintendent Leonard Joseph has completed most of the bulldozing work required.

City workers have also completed work on a new playground at Goble-Roberts which was funded by a matching grant from the Land and Water Conservation Fund. Equipment for the playground includes slides, swing sets, sand boxes, picnic shelters, and basketball court.

Paintsville, Hazard Seminars On Kindergarten Program Set

The Kentucky Department of Education will hold training sessions on effective kindergarten programs at locations throughout the state during the 1985-86 school year, the first year of mandatory kindergarten attendance in Kentucky.

The first of 11 two-day sessions are scheduled in Perry and Johnson counties this month. Training will be offered on Sept. 16 at Hazard Community College and on Sept. 24 at the Carriage House in Paintsville. A second day of training is planned Oct. 18 in Hazard and Oct. 24 in Paintsville.

"Through these workshops we hope to bring about a better understanding of what constitutes an effective kindergarten and to involve teachers, administrators and the community in working together toward that goal," Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald said.

The training sessions are designed for instructional leaders, kindergarten teachers, university personnel and the directors of private preschools. The training team at each site will consist of four early-childhood specialists from the Kentucky Department of Education and a kindergarten teacher from that region.

The 1984 General Assembly approved a law that made successful completion of kindergarten a prerequisite for entry into the first grade, beginning in 1986. The session will include the rationale for mandatory kindergarten attendance and the benefits anticipated from the program.

Participants will also be instructed in methods for determining successful completion of kindergarten and the ac-

Cheerleaders Score at Morehead

The Prestonsburg High School varsity cheerleaders attended the United Cheerleader Association (UCA) camp at Morehead State University, July 29-Aug. 1 and did themselves proud. Their achievements won seven superior ribbons and one excellent. Pictured in photo, from left, are Beth Lyons, Leigh Ann Patton, Kay Skeens, Jamie Harris, Traci Hayes, Nicole Weinstein, Shannon Flannagan, Stephanie Stumbo, Wendy Combs, Lisa Young, and Leslie Derossett (not pictured).

THE FIGHTING BLACKCATS of Prestonsburg High School were devastating as they trounced traditional arch rival, the Paintsville Tigers, here, last Friday evening.

Black Cats Clobber Visiting Tigers, 34-0

In a re-enactment of Custer's last stand, with Prestonsburg playing the part of the Indians, the Blackcats rolled to a 34-0 victory last Friday over the Tigers of Paintsville High School.

It was the 'Cats second 34 to zip shellacking of a respected opponent in as many weeks, the third victory against no losses in a promising young season.

Though in radio interviews after the game, several Prestonsburg players charged the Paintsville team with boasting during the week of certain victory over the 'Cats, once the teams took the field it was clear the home-standing Blackcats would not be denied.

Paintsville won the coin-toss and elected to receive. The Tigers returned the kick-off to their own 24-yard line, but in five plays were only able to edge the ball to the 25. An offside call against the Tigers in the third play of the game did nothing to help their cause and turned out to be a foreshadowing of things to come. At 3rd and nine on the 25, the Tiger QB threw an incomplete pass, setting the stage for a Tiger punt.

Ronnie Slone received the punt for Prestonsburg, fumbled the ball but recovered it himself on the 46-yard line. Quarterback John Goble threw an incomplete pass intended for Pete Reed, leaving the 'Cats at second and 10 on the 46.

But the onslaught was about to begin. On the next play B.D. Nunnery ran 54 yards for the touchdown, with Brent Hackworth kicking the extra point. Three minutes had ticked off the clock and the score was Prestonsburg 7, Paintsville 0.

Prestonsburg's Greg Shepherd kicked off, but the Tigers fumbled the ball, Prestonsburg recovering on the Tiger 28. In three plays the 'Cats marched the ball to the Paintsville 4.

On the forth play of the drive, John Goble ran into the end zone for the 'Cats' second TD. Hackworth again displayed deadly accuracy for the extra point, and with 6:49 left in the first quarter Prestonsburg led, 14-0.

Possession of the ball changed hands five more times in the quarter, and it was not until 10:36 remained in the half that Prestonsburg again stung the visitors, this time on a 23-yard carry by Nunnery. Again Hackworth made the extra point.

After five more changes of possession, the 'Cats once more struck gold when Pete Green received a Goble pass, scrambling past several defenders for the score. Again, Hackworth's aim was true for the extra point.

With the score now 28-0, things were beginning to look grim for Paintsville, but most of their gutsy fans stuck it out till the third quarter, when Prestonsburg scored as Goble flashed nine yards for the six points. Hackworth kicked for the extra point, but a flag sent the 'Cats back five yards and the kick was ruled invalid. Hackworth gave it another shot, coming up short for his only miss of the contest.

But it didn't matter. The score was then 34-0, which it would remain.

Coach Charles "Chuke" Williams later said he didn't expect such an easy time with the Tigers.

"They're a strong team... This was our best game of the year; things have really started coming together," he said. It appears that Prestonsburg's next outing will not be until Sept. 20, when the team travels to Estill County. At last-minute scheduling conflict arose with next week's slated opponent, Johnson Central. Central will play crosstown rival Paintsville, instead of Prestonsburg.

A CHAD COLLINS TOUCHDOWN twelve seconds into the game helped the Betsy Layne Bobcats bury the Virgie Eagles 20-0 last Friday. Collins, named WDHR radio's athlete of the week, was also credited with setting up the team's second touchdown. The senior offensive back, son of Josephine Collins of Betsy Layne, and the late Tommy Collins, carried for 66 yards on the night. In the field competition, Prestonsburg High School chalked up a second place over all finish, taking "best percussion" honors, while Betsy Layne (pictured above) came in third, having won the "best field commander" award.

THE ALLEN CENTRAL MARCHING REBELS were crowned Grand Champions of the Gingerbread Festival, held July 7 at Hindman. The band received 1st place in all categories of competition, including Best Band, Field Commander and Band Front.

HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETICS TO BE DISCUSSED ON KET

The issues facing Kentucky high school athletic programs will be discussed when "The People's Business" airs live Thursday, September 12, at 7:00 p.m. on KET.

Representatives from the Kentucky High School Athletic Association and several public high school athletics programs will join host Dave Baker, WKYT-TV sports anchor, Lexington, and Mike Fields, Lexington Herald-Leader high school sports writer.

1985 Dove Season Opens With Increase Of Birds

The dove season in Kentucky opened with an increase in the number of birds harvested as compared to 1984, according to information received from Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources regional law enforcement supervisors in an informal telephone survey.

Over Labor Day weekend, September 1-2, conservation officers checked 5,248 hunters in 79 of Kentucky's 120 counties, who had bagged a total of 21,963 doves. Four hundred fifty seven hunters checked by conservation officers had bagged their daily limit of 12 doves. The informal telephone survey is conducted annually as a means of subjectively comparing hunter success on opening weekend and estimating the availability of birds.

The number of doves harvested per hunter during the opening weekend of the 1985 season (4.18) was higher than the three year average of 3.61 doves per hunter, and considerably more than the 1984 success ratio of 2.90 doves per hunter. During three days of hunting on the opening weekend of the 1984 season, the 4,764 hunters checked had harvested 14,146 doves. In 1983, 5,587 opening weekend hunters bagged 21,079 doves (667 limits checked) for a hunters success ratio of 3.77.

An increase in the number of birds available in 1985 was noted in the first, third, fourth, and sixth law enforcement districts. A slight decrease was noted in the second district, with the fifth, eighth, and ninth districts reporting population levels that were unchanged from last year.

In the first district of far western Kentucky, an above average harvest was reported on opening day at the Ballard County Wildlife Management Area where 527 hunters took 4,165 doves. A total of 78 limits were checked and the hunter success ratio was 7.90 birds per hunter. Public hunting at Ballard continues through October 14.

Statewide, dove season continues through October 31; the second half of the split season opens November 30, and runs through December 8. Shooting hours are from 11:00 a.m. until sunset during the September 1-October 31 season. During the later time frame, November 30-December 8, hunting is allowed from sunrise to sunset, since the hours of daylight are extremely short.

The bag limit is 12 doves per day. After two or more days of shooting, a possession limit of 24 doves applies to the transportation of game. A possession limit does not allow a double bag limit in the field.

Five Pink Panther movies

By Toni Reinhold

In how many Pink Panther movies did Peter Sellers star, and what were their titles? — D.H., Snow Hill, N.C.

Peter Sellers

Sellers starred in five Pink Panther films, starting with "The Pink Panther" in 1963 and "A Shot in the Dark" in 1964. Sellers came back on the scene as the inimitable Inspector Jacques Clouseau in 1975 with "The Return of the Pink Panther." It was followed by "The Pink Panther Strikes Again" in 1976 and "Revenge of the Pink Panther" in 1978. Two years after Sellers' death in July 1980, "The Trail of the Pink Panther" was made from out-takes of previous Pink Panther films.

TeleWaves

Television in all its glory

By Constance Pace

September is the month of this season's new television series premieres, when audiences get their chance to determine if each new show is a hit or a miss. All of Hollywood, where most new shows are concocted, lives — or dies — by this final determination (a.k.a. ratings). But the most entertaining tale of this new television season may not be seen on screen.

It is Dan Wakefield's hilarious and biting new novel "Selling Out" (Little, Brown & Co., $16.95). "Selling Out" is about a naive Vermont college professor who is summoned to Hollywood to convert a prize-winning short story, gets intoxicated by the television industry glitz, O.D.'s on it, and ends up with considerably less than he had when he started.

For well-known novelist Wakefield ("Starting Over," "Going All the Way"), who went to Hollywood himself to create and write his own series ("James at 15") a few seasons back, the idiosyncrasies and hypocrisies of the industry are all too familiar. (Wakefield quit the series after a dispute with NBC censors.)

Though this is predominantly the tale of the swift rise — and even swifter fall — of the professor, Perry Ross, Wakefield saves his most satirical venom for industry execs — pretentious phonies, whose only god is "the bottom line." There's Archer Mellis, the network programmer who lures Ross to California over lunch in New York, where he wears a sober three-piece suit. In Los Angeles, however, he does business in Fidel Castro battle fatigues out of a Trans Am that's blaring reggae. Then there's Ravenna, a business manager who materializes from nowhere and does business half-nude at the side of a swimming pool. When Ross's show becomes a hit, she promptly takes his money and invests it in a $35,000-a-month condo he can't afford when his ratings (and life) begin to plummet.

When Ross's show, "The First Year's the Hardest," (about young marrieds) gets a whopping 40 share in the ratings, even the waiters and owners of the primo Hollywood eatery Spoleto (read: Spago) genuflect at his feet. But the bubble bursts all too suddenly when the network, in its infinite wisdom, slots the show against "Dallas." People who had kissed Ross on the mouth earlier won't even acknowledge him. In an attempt to save the show, the network converts it to a detective format (natch!), and Ross is out. But addicted to the power, the glory and the Hollywood glitz, Ross stays on in town, even though it means losing his wife and his tenure. The money goes, and Ross finds himself moving to (horrors!) the Valley.

This guy needs help, but Wakefield certainly doesn't. "Selling Out" is funny, caustic and tender. It's also a good read, especially at this time of year.

CHILD BURNED TO DEATH AS HOME RAZED

Mother and Another Child Burned in Escape

FLAMES THWART RESCUE

Special to The Times
Glo. Ky., Dec. 6.—The two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Talton Watson was burned to death at 8 o'clock Friday morning in the flames which consumed the Watson home in "Punkin Center," an outlying part of this place, and the mother and an elder sister of the little victim were seriously burned in their escape from the holocaust.

Heroic efforts of the frantic mother and friends of the family to rescue the tot from the home were rendered futile by the flames. The ashes of the child mingled with those of the home and its contents.

Mr. Watson arose early Friday morning to go to work, and the mother, having finished her household duties, had lain down again on the bed and had fallen asleep when the blaze started. It is believed that the fire was started when the children awakened and, playing, set fire to draperies near the fireplace.

In the excitement which followed, the younger of the two children sought refuge in a pantry. The other aroused the sleeping mother, who caught up the child present and, panic-stricken, dashed through the smoke and flames to safety. Once outside the building, the mother realized the predicament of the other child, but she and other would-be rescuers were driven back by the flames.

Mrs. Watson and the other child are improving from the effects of the burns sustained in fleeing from the home.

Much sympathy and material aid have been tendered the bereaved and homeless family.

They will make their home at Cliff.

Tenth District Represented by Only Grandmother Now a Member of Lower House

The Tenth Congressional District has the distinction of being represented in Congress by a grandmother in the person of Mrs. Katherine Langley, wife of ex-Congressman John W. Langley.

When Congress convened Monday, it found Mrs. Langley "all set," as she expressed her readiness for the session prior to its opening.

As Kentucky's first Congresswoman and the fourth woman in Congress today, Mrs. Langley, whose home is at Pikeville, says that she has no pet hobbies to ride.

She is interested in flood control, immigration, war veterans' welfare, and woman's rights.

"I am for 100 per cent enforcement of the prohibition law and you will remember that my husband voted for prohibition while he was a member of congress," said Mrs. Langley.

"For 21 years I have been watching public affairs. I believe that I can be of most service by taking an interest in general legislation, instead of specializing in one line as some do.

Six-Year-Old Child Accidentally Killed

A six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ward, of Garth, was fatally wounded Monday, December 1, when he accidentally discharged a .38 special revolver which he was handling. The bullet pierced the child's abdomen, causing death about an hour later.

The father is a miner, and the family moved to Garth from Paintsville. The body of the victim was buried at Garth.

REVIVAL AT BAPTIST CHURCH TO CONTINUE

A mass meeting is expected Friday night, with the Rev. Dr. W. T. Gregory, evangelist, speaking on "What's the Matter with Prestonsburg."

SQUID SALISBURY PASSES TO REST

Pneumonia Fatal to One of County's Best-Known Men

Morgan Salisbury, one of the best-known men in Floyd county, passed away Thursday, December 1, in his 79th year, at his home at Hunter, this county, after a brief illness with pneumonia. Mr. Salisbury's fatal illness followed development of blood poisoning in his hand.

Popularly known as "Squid," Mr. Salisbury was born and reared in Floyd county, throughout which he had many friends. The son of Greenville Salisbury and Mrs. Rhoda Sizemore Salisbury, he was born in 1849.

He was married to Miss Pricye Carroll, who survives him. The deceased was prominently identified, years ago, in county politics, being appointed magistrate by Gov. J. C. W. Beckham to fill the vacancy caused by the death of John Allen, magistrate in the upper Beaver district. Later, he was elected for two or three terms to this office.

Besides his widow, Mr. Salisbury is survived by four daughters and four sons: Mrs. Sallie Brooks, of Hunter; Mrs. D. W. Spurlock, of West Prestonsburg; Mrs. Robert Salisbury and Mrs. Pollie Martin, of Hunter, and Hiram, Charlie, Robert and Nick Salisbury, all of the Hunter community. He also leaves two brothers and a sister: J. P. Salisbury, of Prestonsburg; Richard Salisbury and Mrs. Catherine Lykins, both residing near Hunter.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday afternoon by the Reverend Chapman, of the Baptist Church, of which the deceased was a member, and burial was made in the family cemetery.

COLONEL BILL!

W. H. Jones, chief inspector of mines of Kentucky, was commissioned a colonel last week by Gov. W. J. Fields, as was also Mrs. Mary Elliott Flanery, of Catlettsburg.

JAMES MARTIN DIES AT MINNIE

Pneumonia Takes Good Citizen of Floyd County

(Special to The Times)

Minnie, Ky., Dec. 6 (Spl.)—James Martin, 83 years old, prominent Floyd county citizen, died here at the home of his son, K. F. Martin, Thursday, afternoon, December 1, after an illness of about six weeks.

He was first confined to his room with an infected foot, from which he was recovering until pneumonia developed. "Uncle" Jim, as he was familiarly known, was one of the county's most prominent farmers, and was highly respected. He was the son of Simpson Martin and Elizabeth Turner Martin and was born January 12, 1844, lacking only a few weeks being 84 years of age. In 1870 he was married to Rose Frazier, and out of a family of ten children only two sons survive, being K. F. and Noah Martin. He is also survived by two brothers, John Martin, of Alphoretta, and Simpson "Boy" Martin, of Branham's Creek; three sisters, Mrs. H. E. Stewart, of Prestonsburg, Juda Martin, of Alphoretta, and Mrs. Polly Spencer, of this place, and a number of grand-children and great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at the home of K. F. Martin, and were in charge of Rev. Thomas Mosley, after which burial was made in the family cemetery.

Though Mr. Martin lived modestly, he was at the time of his death the possessor of a considerable fortune, which was gathered by dint of hard work and business acumen. His death marks the passing of one of the county's most quaint and best-known characters.

GEARHEART BEATEN, ROBBED THIS WEEK

Three unknown men, heavily armed, entered the home of Jeff Gearheart near the Perry-Knott county border Monday night, stripped him of his clothing, assaulted him with clubs until he was nearly unconscious, then looted a trunk, from which they took $266 in cash.

The wife of the aged man was driven from the home. She later returned and cared for her husband until a physician was called. He is in a serious condition, according to a report reaching here.

NEW THEATRE TO OPEN SOON

Purchase of two of the latest-type projecting units for the new Court Theatre here was made recently by Joe Ward, manager of the theatre, in Chicago.

The model of projection machines to be used in the theatre are the same as those used in metropolitan theatres, except that they are smaller.

Mr. Ward stated this week that it was believed that the theatre would be ready for opening in the new Layne building about January 1. He is now arranging for some outstanding screen attraction for this event.

Movie fans here will be afforded every convenience upon the opening of the new theatre, with a modern ventilating and heating system assuring comfort, and an elevated floor and clear projection insuring perfect visualization.

Mrs. Davidson, Hostess Monday to U. D. C. Chapter

Davidson Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. M. Davidson. Mrs. E. P. Arnold, president of the chapter, presided at the meeting.

After the regular business session, the program prepared for the occasion was in charge of Mrs. C. Y. Ligon, who read an interesting paper on Horace Greeley. A charming piano solo was rendered by Mrs. L. S. Moles.

Mrs. A. J. Davidson, of Auxier, and Miss Josephine Davidson were guests of the chapter. The following members were present: Mesdames E. P. Arnold, C. Y. Ligon, L. S. Moles, S. L. Davidson, Roy Perry and Joe Hobson. The hostess served delicious refreshments to members and guests.

HOPKINS JUDGE IN JACKS CASE

Joe Jacks, Jr. Faces Trial for Fourth Time

John C. Hopkins, of this place, is sitting as special judge this week in the celebrated insurance murder plot case in Pike county, and for the fourth time in two years and a half Joe Jacks, Jr., faces trial for his life for alleged participation in the mine explosion at McCarr, Pike county, January 17, 1924, in which two men were blown to bits.

To date, the identity of one of the men has been an inexplicable mystery. The other has been identified as Henry Wilson, foreman at the mine in which the explosion took place. It was claimed that the "mystery man" was William H. Turner, a mine foreman, and insurance amounting to $85,000 was collected by Turner's beneficiaries.

After almost nine months, Turner came back from Europe, having heralded his return with a number of letters. These letters suggested the outline of a plot aimed at his own life, but which he claimed to have escaped by not being in the mine. He implicated his father-in-law, Joseph Jacks, Sr., Joseph Jacks, Jr., his brother-in-law, his sister and his wife. On his arrival in New York, in October, 1924, he was arrested and while there made a statement that corroborated the plot as set out in his letters.

In the meantime Joe Jacks, Jr., had been arrested earlier in the same month and although subjected to severe grilling, insisted that he was innocent.

In May, 1925, Turner was tried and sentenced to life imprisonment. Then the court entered into the first trial of Joseph Jacks, Jr., that ended two days later in a hung jury. Soon afterward a second trial resulted in a compromise verdict of two years, but since two separate indictments had been returned, one for the murder of each of the two men, and as the Commonwealth demanded immediate trial on the remaining indictment, a new trial was asked for the defendant and was granted.

Several weeks later, the third trial of the case was begun. It was one of the most bitterly fought criminal trials ever conducted. The jury from Letcher county, returned a verdict of guilty and fixed the penalty at life imprisonment.

An appeal was taken and a new trial granted on the grounds that the trial judge should have included instructions to the jury covering an accomplice.

In this, the fourth trial of the case, Mr. Hopkins has directed Sheriff J. M. Moore, of Pike county, to summon 100 men from Johnson county to report in Pikeville for jury service. Work of empanelling a jury was begun Tuesday. After Turner's conviction, an appeal was filed in his behalf, but not within the statutory time so the merits of the appeal never were on, and he is at Frankfort serving his time.

Both Joseph Jacks, Sr., and his daughter, Mrs. William H. Turner have been released from custody on their own personal recognizance and it is likely they never will be brought to trial. Turner's sister, Mrs. Hattie May Farley, who is in Florida, probably will never be brought to trial as that state refused to honor a requisition issued by Governor W. J. Fields in 1924.

SUNDAY SCHOOL COUNCIL MEETS

The Sunday School Council met Sunday in regular session, with the following present:

Chas. Oppenheimer, Supt.; Mrs. W. S. Wells, Elementary Supt.; E. H. Barnette, Pastor; Mrs. H. F. Patton, Prof. D. O. Harmon, Miss Ella Noel White, N. M. White, Miss Bureta Greenwade. It was decided that the classes do their best to get their members back in Sunday School.

If all the church seats in the town should be filled on any Sunday, some 1,300 persons would have to stand up or remain at home. But it is distressing to know that we had 1,000 VACANT seats in town Sunday in the various churches.

Shake off that "Sunday headache" and be in your places next Sunday, will you? There will come a time when "sleeping late" and other excuses will not work. They do not work now, but they keep people out of church.

Piney Oil & Gas Co. Drills Two Gassers

Two gas wells were brought in this week by drillers for the Piney Oil and Gas Company, both of which are reported as good producers.

One of the wells was drilled to the shale on the Sally Shepherd lease, near Pyramid. Though its volume is said to be good, definite figures on its production were not available Wednesday. Blanton and Morrison are drillers on this tract.

T. J. Langton, drilling for the same company, found 300,000 cubic feet production of gas on the T. J. Allen farm at Allen. The gas flow was struck in the Big Lime formation, and the hole will be sunk to a greater depth.

The well on the James Hatcher lease on Holly Bush is producing little or no oil at this time. A fourth well is being drilled on Mr. Hatcher's land on the Spurlock fork of Middle Creek.

WHISKY SEARCH CAUSES TROUBLE

Three Dwellings Burned, Horses Killed, Following Gun Fight

What has been characterized as an incipient bootleggers' war broke out last week-end on Raccoon fork of Salt Lick Creek, this county, when approximately 50 shots from high-powered rifles were exchanged between Linville Bradley and Deputy Sheriff Allie Jones, P. Duncan and Brack Howard, resulting Saturday night in the burning of three houses owned by Howard and the shooting to death of two of Howard's horses.

The trouble had its inception, it is said, when Jones and Duncan searched Bradley's home, finding and confiscating several gallons of moonshine whisky. When the two stopped at Howard's home, a short distance down the creek, Bradley is said to have opened fire with a Winchester rifle, sending several bullets into the house. After a protracted duel at long range, Bradley is said to have been driven away. None of the bullets took effect.

A few hours later, the buildings were fired, and Howard's horses were killed. A man, it is reported here, was seen leaving the blazing buildings, but his identity has not been definitely fixed. Loss sustained by Howard may total $1,500.

MRS. MARY THOMPSON SUCCUMBS TO TYPHOID

Mrs. Mary Thompson, 28 years old, wife of Harley Thompson, died at her home at Emma Monday of typhoid.

The deceased was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tobe Sellards, of Buffalo Creek. She is survived by her husband and five small children.

The body was taken to Buffalo Creek Tuesday for burial in the family cemetery, under the direction of E. P. Arnold.

KENTUCKY COLONELS

Robert Vernon May and Alex H. Spradlin, both of Prestonsburg, were commissioned Kentucky Colonels by Gov. W. J. Fields, Dec. 3.

Days When Garfield and Marshall Led Forces to Battle in Floyd Recalled

Floyd county received its first real taste of the Civil War when General James A. Garfield, who was later to be President of the United States and a martyr to his country, was sent to the vicinity of Prestonsburg to dislodge General Humphrey Marshall and his "Rebel" forces from this section.

The battle of Middle Creek lingers in the memories of the oldest inhabitants of this county. In this fight Garfield's forces were victorious—because, it is said, Marshall was too tender of heart to send his men to their deaths.

In the Ashland Daily Independent there recently appeared an interesting article written by Judge John F. Hager, giving an account of the military campaign in the Big Sandy valley. The article follows:

A young man just arrived at the age of thirty, a graduate of Williams College, a teacher of Greek and Latin in Hiram College, a preacher according to the faith and doctrines of the church founded by Alexander Campbell, and a State Senator, Colonel (afterwards

$25,000 AUXIER SCHOOL BURNED TO THE GROUND

Blaze Starting From Furnace Destroys Structure

WAS NEW BUILDING

Fire burned to the ground the new $25,000 school building at Auxier Thursday morning, and all school equipment save the desks from two rooms were destroyed.

The building has been used only four months. It was a two-story brick structure of eight rooms and had a student body of 250, with five teachers in charge.

Forrest Short, principal of the school, said here Thursday morning that the blaze is believed to have started from the furnace, which had not been satisfactory for some time. The janitor had lighted a fire in the furnace early Thursday morning, and had then returned to his home for breakfast. Upon his return he discovered that the structure was on fire. The blaze started at 7:15 o'clock.

Efforts of firefighters to check the flames with a small hose and fire extinguishers were in vain. Three sides of the wall were left standing though badly cracked. Loss is believed to be covered by insurance.

Kiwanis In Excellent Program Friday Evening

Dr. M. J. Leete led the Kiwanis Club Friday evening in one of the most interesting programs of the year, with almost the entire club and a number of guests present.

Dr. W. T. Gregory, who is conducting the revival at the Baptist Church here, regaled the club with a splendid talk, which was well interspersed with a wholesome brand of humor.

Following Dr. Gregory, Miss Nellie Allen rendered two delightful vocal solos, singing, to the always capable accompaniment of Miss Edith Fitzpatrick at the piano, "If Winter Comes" and, for an encore number, Irving Berlin's new song hit, "My Blue Heaven."

Mrs. C. P. Stephens appeared on the program with an excellent reading of "Small Town Sympathy," a poem from the pen of Bess Shepherd Sloane, a Prestonsburg girl, which received an appreciative hearing.

Guests were Mrs. Winnie F. Johns, Mrs. C. P. Stephens, Miss Nell Allen, Miss Edith Fitzpatrick, Dr. Gregory, Edward L. Allen, Prof. Allison and Prof. Jesse.

NEWSLETTERS OMITTED

A number of newsletters were crowded out this week by a rush of advertising, and The Times wishes to apologize to its contributors for this unavoidable situation. These letters will appear next week. Correspondents are urged to send in their letters as usual next week and as early in the week as possible, so that no news may be omitted.

NEW GAS LINE FINISHED

The new gas line carrying gas into Prestonsburg was connected here Thursday afternoon. This work has been pushed by the new gas company, and will assure Prestonsburg of gas throughout the winter.

HOW DO I COMFORT PARENTS WHO HAVE LOST A CHILD?

I know of no more distressing news than to hear of a young person's death. The life of a child has great social value. The children are our future. We are moved by a child's general helplessness and feel that he has not had a chance to live as we feel he is entitled to.

The impact upon the family is tremendous. Parents often feel guilty and may even, for a time, hold themselves responsible. It is a time when that family needs all the love and attention that friends have to offer.

The best way to help, most of the time, is just to be there and listen. A grieving parent may ask "Why did God do this to me?" or "What more could we have done?" You should let him talk. By expressing these feelings, the grieving parent is on his way to recovery.

Those of us who provide funeral services realize the special significance of the death of a child. We try to offer comfort and special attention to those in need of our services at all times. We welcome your questions and comments privately or through this column.

Perkins Rehab Center Renews MSU Contract

The Carl D. Perkins Comprehensive Rehabilitation Center has renewed a contract with Morehead State University's Department of Psychology and Sociology for the 1985-86 fiscal year.

Under the 11-year-old agreement, MSU's Department of Psychology and Sociology supplies psychological services to the center, while providing the opportunity for graduate student interns from across the nation to gain practical experience.

Interns at the center aid in the testing, counseling, vocational evaluation, job training, and care of physically and psychologically impaired patients, according to Dr. George Tapp, MSU Department of Psychology chair.

Internships and practicums at the center are open to any clinical psychology student in the United States, who has completed the first year of graduate study in the field. MSU, as administrator of the program, nationally advertises the availability of applications, evaluates applicants and places interns. Tapp said that approximately seven internships and practicums are filled each year.

The Carl D. Perkins Comprehensive Rehabilitation Center, formerly known as the Eastern Kentucky Comprehensive Rehabilitation Center, is a residential care facility with a 200-bed capacity, located near Paintsville and operated by the Kentucky Office of Vocational Rehabilitation Services.

Additional information regarding the center or the availability of internships or practicums can be obtained from Dr. George Tapp; telephone (606) 783-2986.

IGA TABLERITE BEEF

At IGA WE BUY MATURE, GRAIN FED, USDA CHOICE BEEF from heavy cattle.

Beef from heavy cattle is REAL beef. IT TASTES LIKE BEEF. Look for the 'MARBLE' (small flecks of fat in the red that enhance flavor) that only comes with maturity.

Our beef is not as bright red as beef from less mature cattle and it is not watery like beef from cattle fed longer on grass and shorter on grain. BUT DON'T BELIEVE IT! TRY IT ONCE, AND SEE FOR YOURSELF!

WILD ANIMALS

COPYRIGHT 1985 KVMA

Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association
Pity the poor little rabbits, orphaned in their nest by the mowing machine. And the baby squirrel dropped from its nest. As well as the young raccoon obviously disoriented and lost.

To pity them is fine. To take them home with you, even if the pity is sincere, may be opening to you a Pandora's box of trouble and disappointment.

To begin with, wild animals have personalities and natural instincts that equip them to survive in a wild environment. They may not survive in captivity, and certainly will not thrive. Most have an instinctive fear of man as well, which further complicates things. And then, you simply may not have time to care for the very young according to their needs.

Wild rabbits are a good example. If their eyes are not open, they require almost constant attention. If they can see, their fear of man becomes a dominant factor and they may refuse to eat or drink.

No matter how good the intention, attempting to raise extremely young wild animals may innocently result in their death.

Beyond that, consider the danger to humans. Skunks, for example, are the primary reservoir of rabies in Kentucky. Baby skunks have been known to be carriers and even a playful nip from an infected young skunk can result in human infection.

Tularemia is another danger. In humans it causes headache, nausea, high fever and severe prostration, followed by extreme weakness, recurring chills and profuse sweating. Even slight contact with an infected animal is sufficient to transmit the disease, which is caused by Francisella tularensis, which can penetrate unbroken skin. It is so highly infectious that special precautions must be taken in laboratories when attempts are made to isolate it.

All wild animals in Kentucky are protected to one degree or another by government regulations. To keep one in captivity requires a holding permit, available from the Department of Wildlife for $6 per year. The holder is subject to inspection by the department at any time to assure the animal receives proper care. Penalty for violation is a fine ranging from $15 to $100, plus court costs.

Pet stores and others dealing with animals for exhibition or sale require a commercial license, available from the same department at a cost of $30.

Federal regulations protect most birds such as hawks, eagles and owls. Permits for keeping them in captivity are difficult to obtain and penalties are severe.

Beyond that, there are strict regulations prohibiting the importing of certain wild animals into the state for any purpose. These include wild hogs, jackrabbits, the monk parakeet, the javelina and nutria, wild turkey, the San Juan rabbit, bears, bobcats, cougars and wolves.

The only exceptions to this regulation are zoos with animals for exhibit.

Department of Wildlife personnel recommend that if you discover orphaned wild animals, report it to their office or to local officials who will contact them. They are equipped to care for young animals and then release them in their natural habitat. They will pick up such wild animals with no questions asked.

Those who wish to keep wild animals in captivity should also be aware that not all veterinarians are willing to treat them, and that treatment of wild animals is not always as successful as treatment of domestic animals.

If you're thinking of catching a wild animal for a pet, best advice is—don't!

If you're thinking of buying one at a pet store, thus covering the legal aspects, look around in advance for a veterinarian who both has the expertise and is willing to treat it.

Observe 60th Anniversary

Recently, some family members of Mr. and Mrs. Ory Lee Bowling, of Langley, visited them for a belated celebration of their 60th wedding anniversary. Ory Lee Bowling and Lonnie Cook were married June 18, 1925, at the home of her parents at Ashcamp.

Ory Lee Bowling, son of Edward and Elizabeth Blevins Bowling, of Whitehouse, Johnson county, was born June 3, 1901. Lonnie Cook, daughter of William and Mary Castle Cook, of Ashcamp, Pike county, was born May 30, 1906.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowling are the parents of three sons, Chester, of Indianapolis, Indiana; Harold, of Vandalia, Ohio, and Robert, of Stone Mountain, Georgia. They have four daughters, Mrs. Weldon (Peggy) Oakley, of Sidney, Ohio; Mrs. Roosevelt (Verla) Thornsberry, of Lewisburg, Ohio; Mrs. Bobby Joe (Pina) Click, of West Manchester, Ohio and Mrs. Dennis (Patricia) Kennedy, of Highland, Michigan. There are 19 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren.

Attending the recent celebration were Peggy Oakley and Kathie Swallow, of Sidney, Ohio; Pina and Charles Click, of West Manchester, Ohio; Robert, Pat, and Beth Bowling, of Stone Mountain, Georgia; Bobby Joe, Jr., Lora, Amber Brooke, and Lucas Cody Click, of Langley. Other family members visited and celebrated at other times during the summer.

The black rhinoceros cow bears only one calf about every three years, and both parents guard it jealously.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Austin Johnson wishes to take this opportunity to thank those who showed they cared during this time of sorrow. Thanks to those who sent food, flowers, prepared the grave or just spoke comforting words. We deeply appreciate you all. A special thanks to Don Parker and the Regular Baptist ministers for their comfort and support and the Hall Funeral Home for its kind and efficient service.

Gasoline Up 4.4 Cents from Year Ago

The estimated 28 million motorists on the road over the Labor Day weekend found that the average price of gasoline, $1.269 a gallon, is 4.4 cents higher than it was last Labor Day, the Blue Grass Auto Club (AAA) reports.

AAA's latest fuel gauge survey shows that, nationally, gas prices have increased by .3 cent a gallon since July 4.

Nationally, full service prices average $1.312 for regular and $1.377 for unleaded gasoline, increases of .4 and .3 cents, respectively, since July 4th, date of AAA's last survey.

Self service prices were $1.157 for regular, an increase of .4 cent, and unleaded remained $1.229 a gallon.

Premium unleaded rose .3 cent, to $1.47, for full service stations, and .4 cent to $1.338 at self service stations. The price of this grade of fuel is not included in the national average because of its relatively small share of the market.

Diesel fuel, at $1.25 a gallon, dropped 1.2 cents since July.

In its survey of service stations throughout Central and Eastern Kentucky, the Blue Grass Auto Club found that gasoline prices have increased here also since July 4.

Although full service regular dropped 3.2 cents to $1.271, unleaded increased 2 cents to an average of $1.346 and premium unleaded increased 1.4 cents to $1.419 a gallon.

Self service prices were $1.137 for regular and $1.225 for unleaded, increases of 2.3 and 2.9 cents respectively since July 4th. Self service premium unleaded increased 1.4 cents to an average of $1.309.

Diesel prices decreased 1.7 cents to $1.305.
