

HOVERING over the Big Sandy here Sunday, its 250-gallon bucket scooping up water to be dumped on a nearby hillside, is one of two National Guard choppers participating in firefighting activities here during the past week. Many parts of the county are yet shrouded in smoke and at least four fires continue to burn in tinderbox conditions created by the current spell of hot, dry weather.

Solid Waste Stays Tough; Sues 20 More

Spurred on by the response to its earlier decision to "get tough" with delinquent households and firms, the county garbage agency filed suits this week against another 20 customers, whom it charges with refusing to pay for their garbage pickup.

"We got a tremendous response" after Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc. filed 25 suits in small claims court a month ago, said Robert McAninch, chairman of the agency board. Six of those named as defendants paid up on the spot, most of those remaining face an April 9 trial date, and a number of delinquent customers who were not named in the suits came forward voluntarily to settle their bills, McAninch said.

Small Army Works Long Over County

After 17 days of raking and burning, often for 16 hours a day, the small army of firefighters who have been battling blazes from one end of the county to another are "pretty tired." District Forester Stephen Brackett acknowledged yesterday (Tuesday). But, with forecasters holding out little hope of an early break in the unseasonably hot weather, it appears the battle is far from over.

Some 35 Division of Forestry employees, around 200 minimum-wage workers hired for the present emergency, two National Guard helicopter crews, and volunteers from the Job Corps Center here have fought about 50 fires in this county during the past week, although the number of new fires reported this week appears to be tapering off, Brackett said.

Five fires were active Tuesday—at Dwale; at Buckeye, on the left fork of Middle Creek; on Buffalo Creek, near the German bridge; and on Mink Branch and Tackett Fork of Mud Creek. A 12-person ground crew and a helicopter equipped with a 250-gallon water bucket were dispatched to the Buffalo Creek blaze, one of the newest to be reported here. The Dwale fire, which has been burning since Saturday, is now contained within control lines or firebreaks, said Brackett.

The district forester said that, while a few of the outbreaks appear to have been deliberately started, most were the result of backyard fires that got out of hand.

"The biggest part of them come from people clearing off for their gardens or burning debris," said Brackett, adding, "It takes very little for a fire to get out of control." In the six-county forestry district, 27 citations were issued last week and more could be expected when forestry officials have a chance to catch up on their investigations, he said.

Apart from the loss of a shed at Weeksbury, no official reports have been received of homes or other buildings being destroyed in the current spate of fires, Brackett said.

Because of the "extraordinarily high fire risk," Gov. Martha Layne Collins issued an executive order Monday restricting access to woodland areas and imposing a total ban on outdoor burning. The governor also placed 175 National Guardsmen from eastern Kentucky units on standby alert for possible firefighting duty.

Liquor By Drink Move Is Scotched

Liquor by the drink will apparently not be available in Floyd county any time soon.

House Majority Leader Greg Stumbo said Tuesday it was "a safe statement" to conclude that the move to reclassify Prestonsburg from a third to fourth class city was dead.

Mayor Ann Latta, however, said she wouldn't believe the move was over until the legislative session ended last night. "There are still three businessmen in Frankfort lobbying to get this passed," she said.

The reclassification proposal was in the form of House Amendment No. 2, which was attached to Senate Bill 47, requesting reclassification of the Indian Hills community in Jefferson county.

Stumbo said the retreat came after it became clear that the measure would enable liquor by the drink to be served throughout Floyd county. He said he was unaware that such was the case when he added the amendment, adding that at the time he was simply complying with a request of Prestonsburg's city council.

The majority leader said he had since heard from a number of constituents voicing opinions on both sides of the issue, "though probably more opposed than for" the reclassification.

The city council voted 7-0 at their March 24 meeting to request the reclassification, after H.D. "Buddy" Fitzpatrick, Jr., a partner with Dr. James D. Adams, Tom G. Dingus and Jack Absher in the corporation building a Holiday Inn on U.S. 23 near here, told them his group would not block an annexation move to bring the motel into the city if they would pass a resolution asking the General Assembly to reclassify the city.

Council passed the resolution quickly, with the developers apparently whisking the signed document immediately to Frankfort for action by the legislature.

A special meeting of the council was called the following Wednesday, after a request from Councilman Harry Ray Porter and Dr. Gary Brown. Though there was some concern a quorum might not attend the meeting, the entire council was present.

Brown said he had experienced a change of heart after discussing the reclassification with his minister, and Porter, who was absent from the regular meeting because of city business in Louisville, said he would have voted

MARH Workers Go On Strike With 90 Idle

About 90 employees of McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital—estimated at almost half the hospital staff—were out on strike yesterday (Tuesday) in a system-wide dispute over job security.

The strikers are members of the United Steel Workers of America, the union that represents licensed practical nurses, X-ray technicians, laboratory technicians, maintenance workers, and pharmacy and respiratory technicians in the 10 Appalachian Regional Hospitals in Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia.

The union's current contract with the government-funded hospital chain expired at midnight Monday; the strike began when workers overwhelmingly voted to reject the hospitals' final offer for a new contract.

Martin Acquires Fire Dept. Site

A new firehouse for Martin is still a dream but at least the site for one became a reality last week, when the city completed negotiations with the state for purchase of a two-acre highway landfill.

The site is on the city end of the "middle bridge" connecting Martin with new KY 80 and was created by the construction of that highway six years ago. The city paid $14,800 for the tract, said Mayor Raymond Griffith, who noted that "it will be a good thing for the community—and the land is paid for."

Finding a way to pay for a building capable of housing half a dozen fire vehicles and a fire crew that is now squeezed into cramped quarters beside city hall may be no easy task. But Sen. Wendell Ford and Congressman Chris Perkins are scheduled to be in town this week to discuss with community leaders ways of making up for an anticipated loss of federal revenue-sharing funds in September—and Griffith intends to enlist their aid in finding a quonset hut or some similar structure to serve as the new firehouse.

Perhaps the police department will some day be relocated on the new site. Perhaps a new city hall will find a home there. But for now, said Griffith, he would be well pleased to see the fire trucks accommodated.

Culvert at Martin, Highway Headache

Prolonged Work, Expense Ahead For Road Dept.

Barely six years after it was constructed, a section of new KY 80 at Martin has proven to be a major headache for state engineers and, at least until emergency repairs were effected recently, may have posed a significant hazard to motorists.

Even now, the problem threatens to be a protracted inconvenience for KY 80 traffic and may yet prove to be a substantial drain on the public purse.

Several weeks' work on removing part of the road surface above a 200-foot corrugated steel culvert came to a halt this week as engineers tried to figure out a permanent solution to their problem: how to prevent the giant culvert from caving in under the strain of the tractor-trailers that pass over it and the coal gons that rumble through it.

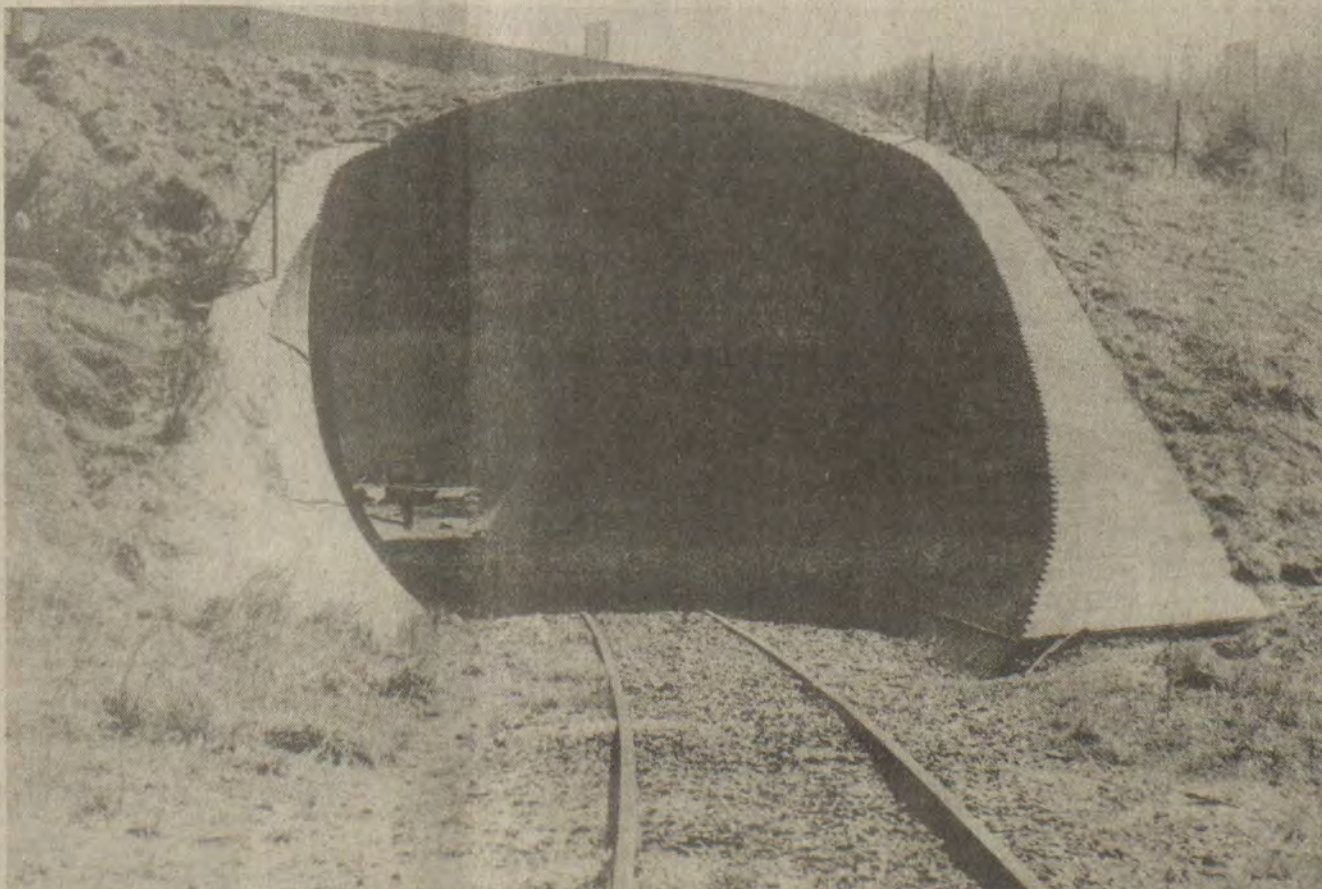

Although he insists it is now safe to travel on, Denton Biliter, district engineer at the Bureau of Highways

Pikeville office, acknowledged this week that fear of a major failure spurred highway officials to order the removal recently of tons of fill from the top of the culvert. The remaining pavement, now narrowed from four lanes to two, poses no threat and in fact constitutes a sturdy bridge over the weakened pipe, Biliter said.

The oddly-shaped culvert—it is about 28 feet high, 22 feet across, and shaped like an inverted pear—was designed by Armco Steel to meet specifications ordered by the C & O Railroad. The single track that bisects the highway at that point serves a coal-loading facility on Bucks Branch owned by the JVA Coal Company. The tunnel must be able to accommodate not only loaded gondolas but also large pieces of equipment being transported on railroad flatcars.

While the unusual design is new, it is not experimental, said Biliter, who noted that a smaller culvert of the same design was installed on the Mud Creek road, near its junction with Little Mud Creek. Moreover, while several died in the collapse of a similar culvert in Ohio, the structures are now in relatively wide use

EMERGENCY REPAIR work was halted this week on an arched tunnel, designed to let railroad gons pass under new KY 80 at Martin, while engineers tried to figure out what to do next. Tons of heavy fill have been removed from the top of the corrugated iron culvert, which had threatened to collapse under the load. The highway, now reduced to two lanes of traffic, is expected to be under repair for several months.

Health Spa Here Closed by Court

Fantasy World Health Spa closed its doors, apparently for good, last Friday after U.S. District Judge Joe Lee, of Pikeville's federal bankruptcy court, ruled that the firm's lease agreement with Brown Foodservice, Inc. was no longer valid.

The ruling came as a surprise to both sides, who were expecting a decision only on whether Fantasy World would be made to accept or reject the lease, as urged by Brown Foodservice in a lawsuit filed in December.

After reviewing the evidence, Judge Lee told attorney Larry Brown, representing the lessor, that he was free to "go padlock" the building. The ruling, said Brown, came after the judge decided Novella Ford and Marvin Gibson, operators of Fantasy World, had waited too long to act on the lease. The spa was several months behind in lease payments, as well as deeply in debt to several local contractors for renovation done on the building, he said.

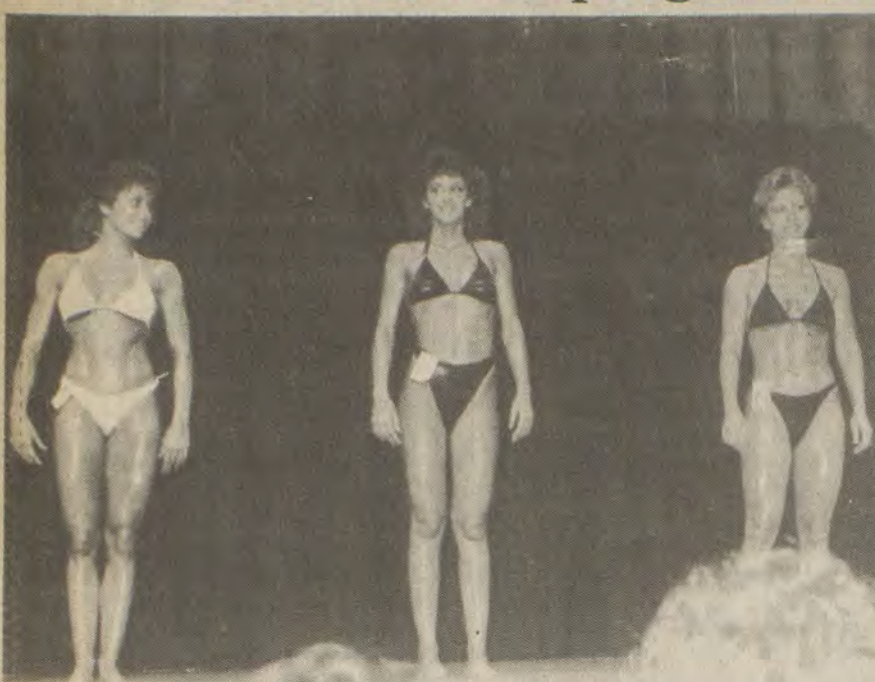

Brown said the lease was further in question because Fantasy World had subleased a portion of the building to a second corporation, Fantasy World II, in violation of the original lease.

Hugh Richards, an attorney representing the defendant, termed the judge's

Contest Brings Out Pectorals On Local Iron-Pumping Buffs

DISPLAYING PRIZE WINNING FORM, bodybuilders Annette Boggs, Kathy Burchett and Peggy Hecht compete in the women's division of Saturday's Highlands Cup Bodybuilding Championship. Boggs, of St. Albans, W. Va., took top honors.

Larry Roberts, the reigning Mr. America-Over-Forty, was just one—albeit the biggest—of the well-muscled physiques on hand Saturday for the First Annual Highland Cup Bodybuilding Championships at Prestonsburg Elementary School.

The contest was moved from Prestonsburg High School on short notice but, other than causing a few contestants and spectators brief confusion, and pushing the starting-time back by half an hour, the change didn't detract from the event.

Seventeen competitors vied for trophies in six categories: novice, for those who had never won first-place in a divisional contest; lightweight, under 152 lbs.; middleweight, 152-175; light-heavyweight, 176-198; heavyweight, 199 and above; a men's overall championship, pitting the men's division winners against each other; a teenage division; and a women's division.

The women started the evening, with Prestonsburg's Kathy Burchett going against Peggy Hecht, of Pikeville, and Annette Boggs, of St. Albans, West Virginia. It was the first contest for all three, though Boggs was clearly the superior athlete. She placed first, with Burchett taking second and Hecht, third.

Up next were the teenagers. Again, only three contestants entered the division, but this time all represented Prestonsburg's Body Perfection Fitness Center. The top spot was taken by Robbie Davis, 19, over Mike Günter, 18, and Wayne Wallen, 19, who placed second and third, respectively.

Though Wallen finished third, he displayed excellent calf development and definition, illustrating the judges' preference for overall body symmetry and development over the cultivation of isolated body parts.

In the novice division, Rick Newsome, of Pike county, took first place, while Robbie Davis, Rob Shepherd and Gary R. Burruss, also of St. Albans, took second through fourth place. Lee Martin, of Dryden, Va., finished fifth.

In the middleweight division, Kevin Phillips, of St. Albans, outclassed both Robert Kisop, also of St. Albans, and Rick Newsome, taking first to their second and third placed finishes.

The light-heavyweight class saw Prestonsburg's Jeff Hilton, in his first contest, go against a more veteran Timmy Mitchell, of St. Albans, with Mitchell taking top honors.

Only two contestants competed for the heavyweight title, as well. Prestonsburg's Gary R. Burruss, competing in his second bodybuilding contest, went against Curtis Beller, of St. Albans. Beller took the close decision.

The grand finale pitted the individual weight-class winners against one another, with Kevin Phillips prevailing.

Earlier Saturday afternoon, Mr. America-Over-Forty, Larry Roberts, held a seminar for local bodybuilders, giving advice and encouragement to those aspiring to the iron-pumping way of life. The seminar was considered successful by participants, though fewer than expected took advantage of the opportunity. Roberts stayed for the evening program, presenting trophies to the winners.

Lending further authority to the contest, Franklin Page, head of the Kentucky chapter of the National Physique Council, one of the major sanctioning bodies in the United States, acted as head-judge.

Proceeds from the contest were donated to the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad.

Cost-Sharing Said Threat To Haysi Dam

Flood-control measures long sought by the Army Corps of Engineers received a nominal boost last week when the U.S. Senate passed legislation authorizing $11 billion for 191 projects, including construction of the Haysi Dam on the headwaters of Big Sandy's Levisa Fork.

However, the bill includes language inserted under pressure from the Reagan Administration which requires the states or local communities to share the cost of the water projects, a condition that critics say virtually dooms most of the enterprises.

As passed by the Senate, the bill also represents a significant cutback in the House version, which called for 230 new Corps projects costing at least $20 billion to build and which required a smaller local match.

House and Senate conferees must now attempt to negotiate a compromise acceptable to the administration, which has said the lower level of cost-sharing proposed in the House bill is unacceptable.

It has been 16 years since Congress has agreed on major water-projects funding and the holdup has largely centered on proposals to make states and local communities raise funds to match the federal investment. Proponents of cost-sharing say it will not only help reduce the budget deficit but will weed out marginal projects. The Senate bill would require local interests to pay 35 percent of a flood-control project.

Dave Whalen, spokesman for Congressman Chris Perkins, said last week that Senate Bill 1567 "would stop everything," since local sources would be unable to come up with the $3.5 million match that would be required to build, say, a $10 million floodwall in Prestonsburg or the $31.5 million match for a $90 million dam at Haysi.

The late Congressman Carl D. Perkins was a strong backer of the bill that authorized the Corps of Engineers to construct, at the expense of the federal government, flood-control measures on the Tug and Levisa Forks of the Big Sandy and his son vowed last week to continue the fight to provide flood protection for Big Sandy communities.

Construction of a reservoir at Haysi, Virginia, is held by the Corps to be the key to flood control here, since it would lower flood levels and so reduce the height and the cost of floodwalls needed to protect river communities. Construction of a dam on the Russell Fork of the Levisa Fork, just over the border in Virginia's Dickenson county, would reduce flood crests by two feet in Prestonsburg, Corps officials claim.

"If the Senate position prevails, then it is very simple," Perkins said. "The Haysi reservoir will not be built."

Upset With Officials

As with most Kentucky residents, I have been an avid sports fan for most of my life. I have attended regular season games as well as tournaments throughout the state, but I have never been as disappointed with Kentucky high school athletics as I am at this moment.

I was in attendance at the recent Sweet Sixteen Tournament in Lexington on the day Hazard faced Pleasure Ridge Park in the semifinal round of the tournament. I watched an unrated mountain team face the "Goliath" of 1986 Kentucky high school basketball. Ten young and impressionable ballplayers took the court in an attempt to fairly decide the winner of that game, but somewhere along the way, two adults dressed in black and white walked onto the court and changed destiny with the use, or in some cases, nonuse of their whistles.

I along with over 15,000 other basketball knowledgeable fans from Paducah to Pikeville, from Louisville to Williamsburg, watched in disbelief as these individuals periodically continued to make seemingly unjustified calls which altered the outcome of this game.

I realize that referees are only human and are subject to make an occasional inappropriate call during a closely played game, but when referees make so many unjustified calls, or calls, that 15,000 fans come to their feet and show their disapproval with vocal displays of booing as well as throwing materials and money onto the floor, I feel it is time that these officials' credentials be reviewed.

As a parent of a 14-year-old, I strive to work with the teachers, principals, and the superintendent of our school system to help mold the character of our children in order that they will avoid drugs and alcohol and have the morals required to accept their place in society and carry on the American way of life. Then I attend what is called by Caywood Ledford the "Greatest Show On Earth", and see 15-, 16-, 17-, and 18-year old boys seemingly cheated by two adults who are also supposed to be helping moral character.

The majority of referees are civic-minded individuals who donate their time and energy for the betterment of young men and women, and these individuals should be congratulated. However, there is a small percentage who tarnish the luster of Kentucky high school basketball by altering the outcome of games. I, along, with thousands of other Kentucky high school basketball fans, call for the resignation of Phil Burkeen and Donnie Byars, officials who, in our opinion, fit into this small percentage of referees. In the event they do not see fit to resign, I feel it is the duty of the Kentucky High School Athletic Association to take some action to see this is carried through in order that our tournament can be returned to its place as the "Greatest Show On Earth."

We the fans of Kentucky high school basketball demand that the officiating in our State Tournament be cleaned up.

Health Care Crunch

We have approximately 350,000 recipients of Medicaid in Kentucky. There are at least another 350,000 citizens who qualify for public assistance. Yet another 350,000 people have no health insurance whatsoever because they cannot afford premiums; and make no mistake about it, those with no health insurance are medically indigent. This problem of health care and equity in health is the most important domestic issue of our time.

Federal matching funds for the Medicaid program are at a 3 to 1 ratio. Kentucky is spending about 150 million, dollars and receiving about 450 million annually from Washington. If these figures were doubled the expenditures could be justified based solely on the measurable economic impact alone. The by-product would be furnishing another 350,000 people with access to medical care.

A rapidly growing medical technology, changes in the economy and numerous other factors simply requires the allocation of a larger share of the state budget to health care.

Health care is a question of economics. The health care industry is being driven by financing and reimbursement mechanisms rather than by patient care mechanisms. There is a general "ratcheting down" of the system and we are today confronted with the question of rationing beneficial medical treatment. To forestall such an outcome our state and federal government must address the issue of equity in health, and they should address the issue now. Our health problem is too serious to be swept under the rug again.

We have reached that point in time when we need to develop a private sector partnership with government to provide some form of health care insurance for the medically indigent.

Correction

In a story last week concerning the Cow Creek Volunteer Fire Department's change from ISO class 9 to class 7, it was incorrectly reported that those homes within 100 feet of a fire hydrant should check with insurance companies regarding lower premiums. The correct distance is 1000 ft. The Times regrets any confusion caused by this error.

Decries Council Vote

At last night's specially-called city council meeting I was disappointed with the way our city council determined to "improve" our city. As many of you know, Prestonsburg, by vote of the council, requested to reclassify from a fourth class city to a third class city. This sounds good so far, but I can assure you there is more there than meets the eye. The reclassification was a thinly-disguised attempt to allow liquor to be sold by the drink. It seems that the "Holiday Inn" people would be happy to annex their area into the city and bring in around $12,000 annually in taxes if only Prestonsburg would become a third class city.

But let's get to the point. The whole issue is centered around the "liquor by the drink" discussion. One side sees it as a way for this county to keep pace with the other surrounding counties. The churches, on the other hand, are (and always will be) opposed to the sale of alcohol. I do have strong feelings on this debate, but would rather bring up another point that I feel is very important to the main issue of reclassification.

At last night's meeting, no one on the city council admitted knowing what all becoming a third class city involves. Mayor Latta brought up several questions which should be of great concern to all the people in the city. There is question if this city can afford third class status. I'm sure the annexed area would want all the city services if it were to become part of the city. There are other questions that need to be addressed before a move to third class should be considered.

I feel that those who voted in favor of the reclassification are doing so because of some special interest group, and are not serving the voters who put them in office. This is an issue that needs careful consideration, rather than being thrust through an unprepared city council meeting. I for one feel that if the move to third class status is a good move, then it will stand closer examination before being passed. I don't believe that the voters of this city appreciate being sold short on this very important decision. I further believe that the county, since this proposal will allow liquor to be sold by the drink countywide, will not appreciate their future being decided by the council members who voted in favor of this reclassification proposal.

Advice For The Young

As I thought on the words of the song, "We Are The World," I came to realize that the children are the world; the children of today will be the leaders of our world tomorrow if the Lord tarries. But how are we raising our children? The young people of today are being pressured on all sides. They are pressured at home, at school, everywhere they turn they are pressured. Too often they are pressured to do the wrong things. They look for a way out and unfortunately turn to drugs, alcohol, illicit sex and even suicide. I would like to tell the young people that there is a better way. A better way than drugs; a better way than alcohol; a better way than illicit sex; a better way than ending it all with suicide. That way is Jesus Christ. I urge you to turn your life over to Jesus and find the satisfaction you long for; the peace of mind, the love you look for. Jesus loves you just the way you are.

Some people think that you are a weak person if you turn to Christ but it takes a stronger person to stand for Christ than it does for a person to go along with the crowd. A dead fish will float downstream with the current but it takes a strong fish to swim against the current.

Once you have accepted Christ as your Saviour, find you a Bible-believing, Bible-teaching church and attend it regularly and learn of the goodness of God.

You are the children, you are the world and with Christ as your guide you can bring a better and happier world into existence.

May God richly bless you.

Commends Local Care

I have just spent two weeks in the Highlands Regional Medical Center in Prestonsburg due to a heart condition. I feel impelled to write a letter to the public in appreciation for the outstanding care I received while there.

To the nurses in CCU, the nurses on the floor and to the doctors, Dr. Doug Adams and Dr. Rodney Handshoe, I publicly say thank you for the care I received. Because of God's love, your prayers and a caring hospital I feel that I am alive today. I also thank my wife and family for their care and love during these days.

I have been in hospitals in Lexington, Louisville and Indianapolis in the last few years, but I have never been treated as good as I was at Highlands Regional. A lot of people feel that they need to go to another town to receive good care and good doctors. This is a misconception. The people here are our kind of people; they care, are concerned and loving.

We have a great facility here in the mountains of East Kentucky, so why not use it? I'm sure you'll find what I did, "HUCK" FRANCIS

Extra Effort Pays Off

Mrs. Dorothy Newman's remedial reading class at the John M. Stumbo Elementary School sure learned their vowel sounds when she mentioned a contest! The climax of the vowel contest was a red, white, and blue cake with a big ribbon on the icing.

The children's names appeared on their slice of cake. Knowing Mrs. Newman, she probably had the children say a vowel sound when they received their slice of cake. They probably said vowel sounds as they munched it, too.

This extra effort on the part of a teacher goes to show that reward works!

Thanks, Mrs. Newman. I saw that cake, and could not believe the excitement my children experienced while this contest was in progress.

Seeks Stiff Sentences

This letter concerns the recent sentencing of Larry Joe Pelphey in Johnson County Circuit Court. It is disgraceful that Mr. Pelphey chose to drink and drive thus resulting in the untimely deaths of a young man and baby. However it is even more disgraceful for the jury to believe that a two year sentence was reasonable punishment. Had this accident involved their families, they probably would not have considered a slap on the wrist equitable.

Luckily I have been spared involvement in such a tragedy, but I can empathize with the pain and rage evoked by this ridiculous sentence. I commend the formation of the local chapter of M.A.D.D. and hope they can enlighten the public to the devastation of this crime. Perhaps then jurors will assess the punishment as one that should equal the offender's act, not just a minor inconvenience in his life. I implore future juries to impose the maximum sentence allowed, thereby emphasizing that drunk-driving is a deed that will not be tolerated.

Sees No Change

When the Cuyahoga County (Ohio) school board drew fire from the state to get it right, they sent to North Carolina for a Ph.D. to run their school system until it came up to a level with the rest of the state or where it belonged.

When Sarasota County (Florida) failed in their school system, the county school board sent to New Hampshire for a Ph.D. to run it.

When Floyd County school board failed and drew fire from the state, the superintendent resigned and arranged for his assistant to take over and the acting superintendent appointed the former superintendent as his assistant. In other words, they swapped jobs.

But, where's the difference? It's the same system and the same people running it.

We give the state no choice but to take over the school system and run it to give the children their constitutional right to an equal education.

Stop Dumping in River

Why do residents of this city continue to dump trash in the Big Sandy with the city providing semi-weekly refuse collection? I witnessed a wheelbarrow full of trash bags headed that way Sunday afternoon while walking the family dog along the river. Its ironic people would still practice this form of disposal—or would you call it punitive or just trashy?

A Legislative Perspective

As the legislative clock ticks away the final minutes of the 1986 Kentucky General Assembly, several pieces of major legislation are still under scrutiny by conference committees.

At this writing, the state budget still lacked a compromise agreement between House and Senate members. These members are appointed by their respective Houses to iron out points of contention.

Conference committee members have agreed to a compromise on Senate Bill 86 which prohibits an insurer from refusing to issue or renew an auto policy solely because of the marital status of the insured. Members of the conference committee appointed to hash out the compromise approved the bill as amended by the House. The House version of the measure also prohibits insurance rates based on sex, race or factors other than a person's driving record. The bill in its final form will be voted on later today.

The so-called new car "lemon bill" squeezed past its final hurdle by passing the Senate unanimously this week. After several attempts in past sessions to pass similar legislation, this particular version of the issue will require manufacturers to replace or refund the cost of a car with a defect that cannot be fixed in four tries or that places the vehicle out of service for 30 days.

The law applies to vehicles within the first 12 months after purchase or 12,000 miles.

Also, this week the House passed and returned to the Senate an amended version of an omnibus state-personnel bill which will more than likely find its way into a conference committee. The House replaced Senate Bill 340 with its own interpretation of the bill. Differences in the two bills include issues such as the Senate directive to repeal the state Personnel Board's power to review regulations issued by the personnel commissioner. The House version divides regulatory power between the commissioner and the seven-member board which includes two state employees.

Although the unmined minerals legislation ran out of time for obtaining the needed approval from both Houses of the General Assembly, I did sponsor and pass a resolution calling for a special study on mineral taxation to be conducted during the upcoming legislative interim.

I was saddened, as all Floyd Countians were, by the death of our longtime friend and editor of the Floyd County Times, Norman Allen.

Not only was he a friend to all East Kentuckians but he was my personal friend and I sought advice from him often. He was a gentleman of the old school and his contribution to the mountains will be remembered as long as his many friends live.

We adjourned the House of Representatives in his honor, Monday, March 24.

Next week's legislative schedule includes two days of conference committees finding us attempting to reach agreements in legislation with House and Senate differences. To contact me write to: Kentucky House of Representatives, Legislative Offices, Capitol Annex, Frankfort, Ky. 40601 or call the toll-free legislative message line provided by the General Assembly. ## New SSI Checks Coming April 1

Starting with the Supplemental Security Income (SSI) check delivered April 1, people in the Big Sandy Area will get a new style check in multiple colors, Jim Kelly, District Director for the Big Sandy Area, said recently. The check will also be delivered in a new, blue envelope.

SSI recipients will no longer get the familiar, gold punchcard check, Kelly said. The new check, however, is as good as the old and just as easy to cash.

In addition to being multi-colored, the new checks show a full-length replica of the Statue of Liberty on the left side. A muted close-up of her head and torch is in the background near the right side.

The new check contains features that discourage alterations, forgeries, and counterfeiting, Kelly said. The new, lightweight paper stock is less expensive and takes less space to store. Use of the new check is expected to result in a savings to taxpayers of about $6 million a year.

SSI checks will be delivered in blue envelopes to help distinguish them from other Government checks, which are delivered in brown envelopes.

People who have any questions about the new Social Security checks can get them answered at the Big Sandy Area Social Security Office, located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. The telephone number is listed in your local telephone directory under U.S. Government.

The 90th Kentucky Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, opened with an assembly call by a trumpeter and by the Pershing Rifles Color Guard, University of Kentucky. Guest speakers included Steve Brashear, Lt. Governor; Thomas Preston, Lexington, and Mrs. Eldrid Martin Yochim, first vice president general, National Society, DAR, of Virginia. John Graham Chapter Sixth District Director, Mrs. Virginia S. Goble, and Mrs. Weston de Grasse, fifth district director, of Northern Kentucky, were hostesses to the state conference, March 11-13, at the Marriott Inn in Lexington.

On the last day of the conference, Mrs. James B. Goble read a tribute to Mrs. Tracy W. Neal, outgoing Kentucky State DAR Regent, and sixth district regents, Mrs. Ray Brackett, Prestonsburg; Mrs. Carl Hall, Whitesburg; Mrs. Cordell Martin, Hindman; Mrs. Bruce Stephens, Hazard, Mrs. Nelson Gullett, Paintsville; Mrs. George Mays, Louisa; Mrs. Michael King, Salyersville; Mrs. Jacob Henson, Morgan county. Mrs. Thomas R. Ross, of Ashland, presented Mrs. Neal with a colonial knot quilt which incorporated names of regents, director, state officers, state chairman, and the DAR insignia. It was designed by Mrs. Ray Brackett and Miss Laura Brackett, and was made by all 12 sixth district chapters, with the quilting being done by Mrs. Ike Woods, of Cow Creek. Also, 16 colonial knot pillows, designed by Mrs. James B. Goble and completed by DAR members, were presented to all guests and KSDAR officers. Mrs. Goble, as director, was the recipient of one of the pillows presented by regents, and crafted by Mrs. Gullett, of Paintsville. Mrs. Goble and Mrs. de Grasse were also presented with corsages, at the Wednesday night banquet, by the sixth district regents.

Miss Lee Ann Bottoms, Prestonsburg High School Senior, and the John Graham Chapter "DAR Good Citizen," was presented the Kentucky DAR Good Citizen Pin by Mrs. Neal, and a check for $100 by Mrs. Brackett, on behalf of the State Society. Miss Bottoms will be Kentucky's representative to Washington, D.C., in April. Also at this luncheon honoring students from Kentucky schools and where more than 300 DAR members and guests were present, centerpieces, used for the various tables, were schoolhouses constructed by and under the supervision of Carlos Neeley and his art department at Prestonsburg High School. Students participating were Elizabeth Howard, Marcus Owens, Michael Lee Compton, Tim Howell, Connie Craft, Ricky Crider, Lori Crider, and Kim Fraley.

Mrs. Virginia S. Goble, sixth district director, was elected to the KSDAR state office of organizing secretary, the second person from John Graham Chapter to hold a state office.

Mrs. Frances Brackett was elected president of the State Regents' Club, and named as KSDAR magazine chairman for Kentucky. Terms of office are for three years.

John Graham Chapter received national and state Gold Honor Roll awards, a yearbook blue ribbon, and third place in the state for their pressbook, which was compiled by Mrs. J.G. Stepp, press secretary of John Graham Chapter.

Attending the conference from the local chapter were Mrs. James B. Goble, Mrs. Ray Brackett, delegate, Mrs. Olga A. Preston, alternate, Mrs. Opal S. May (an alternate), Mrs. J.G. Stepp, Jane Ann Kendrick, and guests, Miss Lee Ann Bottoms, Mr. and Mrs. William Bottoms, Mrs. Orpha Meece, all of Prestonsburg, and Mrs. Jo Huddleston, of Lexington.

Let's Hear It for the Mayor

Mayor Ann Latta deserves a lot of credit for having the courage of her convictions as well as the willingness to go against the odds.

When the majority of city council members here, went along with a fast move to have Prestonsburg elevated to third class city status, she not only voiced her opposition—pointing out that Prestonsburg falls far short of the population requirement—she took action. Because of this, the people of Floyd county will not have liquor by the drink—whether they wanted it or not and with no voice in the decision.

Latta took her case to Frankfort, and few in the know gave her much of a chance. As a rule, the General Assembly goes along with such a request by a city, especially with the legislature's adjournment imminent.

But she pulled it off, and we're glad. If liquor is to be sold by the drink here, the voters, in our view, should make the decision. To paraphrase a well known slogan, "Let's do it right, or let's not do it."

We Submit...

This is the kind of letter to the editor that Norman Allen often received but never, to our knowledge, printed. It was found this week among the papers on his (in)famous desk, and its writer says what we feel to be true.

Letter follows:

September 16, 1974

All your readers enjoy your Town World column but many of your editorials I fear are not as widely read, although they will most certainly be long remembered by those who do. While I don't recall any that I did not enjoy, this one will have to stand out in my mind as a classic. I made several Xerox copies and one learned gentlemen commented as follows:

There is no limit as to how far the writer can go in his profession.

My reply was as follows:

Having had the pleasure of knowing this man for many years it is my opinion that he has already reached all the goal he set for himself when he first became an editor, namely to earn the love and respect of all who came in contact with him and this he did early in life. I don't think he ever would have wanted to be a big city editor. He could have if he had so chosen, but a simple life in a good country was his desire and the people of Eastern Kentucky are richer for his decision.

decision "harsh." He said Tuesday he had not yet received the court's decision, adding that when he did he would review it and ask that the court vacate its order.

Neither Richards or Brown knew whether spa members who had paid dues in advance would be reimbursed.

Brown, who is also assistant vice-president of Brown Foodservice, said he could not foresee any circumstance under which the firm would lease the building to Fantasy World again.

Creditors will probably vie for the Nautilus equipment and other items left in the building, said Brown, under what he termed "a contest of priorities."

Brown said that contractors' liens—from Mullins and Son Plumbing, for $1,000; M and C and D Construction, $56,000; and F.S. Vanhose & Co., which has filed claims for $5,611 and $7,658—are against the building owners as well as the lessees. He said there was a significant chance this would force the sale of the building to pay the debts.

Brown described District Judge Harold Stumbo and his wife, Pluma, co-owners of the building with Brown Foodservice as "innocent bystanders" who stood to lose their property through no fault of their own. The Stumbos leased their portion of the building to Brown several years ago, when the company's main offices were located there. Brown had subleased the Stumbos' portion to Fantasy World.

Fantasy World filed for Chapter 11 reorganization under federal bankruptcy laws in October.

Garrett pride of place on the construction agenda.

Under the proposal adopted by the local board, the insertion of Garrett at the top of the list would not affect the ranking of other projects: construction of a $2.5 million, 600-pupil elementary school at Allen would remain in second position; the replacing of Wheelwright and McDowell high schools with a single $3.9 million, 700-pupil facility would still be in third place; a $989,000, 12-room addition at Betsy Layne Elementary would follow; and so on down the line.

Where would that leave the 700-pupil Prestonsburg middle school proposed for a seven-acre site already purchased at Lancer? "In a kind of limbo," Superintendent Ray Brackett conceded last week.

Board Chairman Dr. J.D. Adams has made it clear he will fight to rescue from limbo a project he has had in his sights for the 15 years he has served on the board, just as he did in December, 1984, when state planners proposed dropping the middle school from the construction agenda altogether.

Under the plan proposed that year by the Department of Education's building and grounds division, Prestonsburg's needs would be met by the construction of a new grade school at Allen, the state state planners' first priority, and the addition of eight classrooms at Clark Elementary. Floyd should scrap plans for a middle school and stay with its traditional K-8 plan, the state said.

However, in the teeth of opposition from board member Ray "Shag" Campbell and then-Supt. E.P. Grigsby, Jr., Adams mustered the votes on the Floyd board to retain the middle school as top priority and the local board's amended list was given state approval the following April.

Friday's hearing on the proposal to change the list will begin at 6 p.m. in the auditorium of Prestonsburg Elementary School before Dr. Dan Branham, deputy state superintendent and the hearing officer named by the state board. Persons or groups wishing to speak at the hearing have been urged to notify Supt. Brackett of their intention and to bring a written statement that can be left with the hearing officer.

No decision on the facilities plan will be made at Friday's hearing. The hearing officer will later make a recommendation to the state board of education, which will have the last word on the matter.

The Prestonsburg police department announced this week that it will begin the operation Saturday of radar equipment recently purchased by the city for the control of motor vehicle speeds here. The corridor for relocation of KY 80 between Hazard and US 23 at Water Gap has been identified and consultants to design the new road have been named. County Judge Henry Stumbo announced last week that he has returned to W. J. May, county treasurer, $4,626 excess fees collected by his office for the year 1974. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Calhoun celebrated their 57th wedding anniversary Sunday, March 28, at their home on the Middle Creek Road. U.S. Senators Wendell H. Ford and Walter "Dee" Huddleston this week notified County Judge Henry Stumbo that a $20,384 grant has been awarded to the Floyd fiscal court by the Department of Interior's Bureau of Outdoor Recreation for land acquisition and development for the Left Beaver Community Park at Minnie. Though outscoring eventual state-champs Edmondson County from the field, the Betsy Layne Bobcats lost 77-72 on the strength of Edmondson's 19-6 free-throw edge in the first round of the state basketball tournament, last Wednesday at Louisville's Freedom Hall. Dry forces in the county were preparing this week for their campaign against the "wets" in an upcoming local option election. The home being constructed by C. R. Hatton in the Briarwood addition to Prestonsburg for Francis Carroll Hughes burned to its foundation, shortly before midnight last Thursday. Last of the parleys between Commissioner of Highways Henry Ward and Prestonsburg business leaders on the routing of U.S. 23 from Prestonsburg to Allen was believed to have been held at noon today (Thursday) at May Lodge. Henry Ellis Osborne, 19, of Buckingham, freshman at Morehead University, was shot and fatally wounded here, late Tuesday afternoon. Acquisition by the town of Allen of the water system which serves it and its environs will be effected as soon as a proposed water revenue bond issue of $280,000 is sold, it was said here this week. There died: Caleb B. The Prestonsburg independent school district was merged Tuesday with the county school system by order of the State Board of Education. Eunice M. Craft, 14-year-old eighth grader at the Spradlin Branch school won the Herald-Dispatch's Floyd county spelling bee and Donna Powers, also a 14-year-old eighth grader, of the Auxier consolidated school, won the Courier-Journal's county-wide bee recently. Gordon Collins, of Lackey, brother of Sheriff Gorman Collins, was named chairman of the Floyd County Republican executive committee, succeeding William Darby, who declined to seek re-election. Fire continued to exact losses in Prestonsburg and West Prestonsburg this week with blazes leveling two more structures. Dr. David Lee (Lonnie) Clark, native Floyd man who for 30 years had been professor of English at the University of Texas, died at his home in Austin, Texas, early Tuesday. Married: Miss Barbara Kay Prater, and A-2C Vernis Adkins, March 21. ## Forty Years Ago

Fifty thousand dollars of Floyd county's rural highway allotment of $72,580 for 1946 may be used for macadam-bound surfacing of farm-to-market roads constructed during depression years by the Works Progress Administration. Construction of the two-story addition to the courthouse here for use of the Floyd County Board of Education and the County Health Department was near completion this week. Low bid on the job was $6,240. With a general shutdown of the soft coal industry called by UMWA President John L. Lewis for Sunday midnight, Floyd county viewed with no pleasure the prospect of an indefinite period of idleness in the county's principal industry. Proposed canalization of the Big Sandy river and its Levisa and Tug forks will be taken up in hearings next month by a Congressional committee. It was announced Tuesday that Congressman A. J. May had been named by President Truman a member of the nine-man commission to appraise the results of the proposed atomic bomb tests at Bikini Atoll this summer. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Denver Calhoun, a daughter, Pamela Sue, March 23 at the Prestonsburg General Hospital; to Mr. and Mrs. Lafon Ball, of Prestonsburg, a daughter, Cheryl Lynn, March 22 at the Paintsville General Hospital; to Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Patton, 45, near his home at Emma, Thursday morning.

Fifty Years Ago

(March 27, 1936)

Floyd county offices of the Kentucky Emergency Relief Administration will close Tuesday, March 31, it was announced this week by Miss Edna Prater, county relief worker. Contractor for Dr. W. L. Stumbo this week began construction of a hospital in Knott county within half a mile of Lackey. Emergency relief disbursements in Kentucky from October 1934, to December 31, 1935 totaled $51,820,060, with Floyd receiving $992,622.79 of this amount. George Lee, 47 years old, died Thursday a few hours after he was crushed beneath a heavy slatefall in the mines of the Elk Horn Coal Corporation at Wayland. Garfield Wright, veteran marshal of the town of Allen, last week submitted his resignation to the town board of trustees, giving his age—74 years—as reason for doing so. Floyd county's percentage of unemployable persons responsible for families on relief was the lowest of any county in this section for the year 1935, figures just released by the Kentucky Relief Administration indicate. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Willie Honde, of Estill, a son, There died: Mrs. Dave Music, 35, at home at Bonanza, Friday; Mrs. Golda Ramey Farmer, 28, at home at Prestonsburg, Tuesday; George Swafford, 55, at his home at West Prestonsburg, Monday; Stanley Roop, 34, at the home of his parents at Glo, Sunday night; Mrs. Jennie Bailey, 59, at her home at Hueysville, Wednesday; Mrs. Hazel Mae Adams, 24, at her home at Betsy Layne, Sunday.

and manufacturers insist they are safe, the engineer said.

It will probably be up to the courts to decide who is responsible for the swag in the Bucks Branch culvert, which is said to have cost $600,000 to install and may cost as much again to repair. But those who are being hurt immediately, said an owner of the JVA Coal Company, are owners of the East McDowell mining firm that leases the Bucks Branch tippie and must pay a monthly fee for it even while the track is closed and the tippie idle.

Martin Mayor Raymond Griffith, who owns JVA Coal in partnership with Barkley Sturgill and Jack Dingus, confirmed this week that the coal-loading facility is leased to the JRM Coal Company, owned by Edgar Jones, his son Greg Jones, and son-in-law Carson Akers. Railroad officials have refused to allow their equipment on the track for several weeks, said Griffith, who declined to speculate about who should be held responsible for the shutdown but who argued that some compensation was owing to JRM for its losses.

"If you keep a man from working when it's not his fault, someone should be liable," Griffith said. "At least someone should be liable for what he has to pay us."

While tippie activity has slackened off in recent months, 26 gons a day were being loaded at the Bucks Branch facility last summer and JVA has plans to expand the plant so it can handle twice that number, Griffith said.

In the meantime, the tippie owner barely concealed his chagrin at the snafu that has shut his operation down and the mayor faced the prospect that KY 80 traffic may soon have to be diverted through the streets of Martin. "You'd think someone would have known better. I'm surprised the railroad let that type of tunnel go in," said Griffith, a retired railroad worker.

As to the expense incurred by the state in accommodating the Bucks Branch coal sliding, neither Griffith nor engineer Biliter considered the arrangement unusual. "We could never have bought out the railroad right-of-way. It was a very commercialized system at the peak of the coal industry," explained Biliter. Or, as Griffith put it, "it all boils down to the fact that the railroad was there first. We've got a big investment there."

Even while the highway was under construction, the roof of the Bucks Branch culvert showed signs of weakness, a problem that was addressed by reinforcing a section of the roof with steel beams. One plan now under consideration, Biliter said, involves reinforcing the entire pipe with steel rings and topping it with concrete slabs.

However, it is likely to be several weeks before a design is finalized, he said, and repair work may then continue for several months. He does not expect the highway will have to be closed, he said.

While striking employees picketed the McDowell facility Tuesday, the picket line was reported to be peaceful. "There have been no problems," said Phyllis Vanderpool, administrative assistant at the hospital.

Nevertheless, hospital services have been curtailed. "We're trying to handle only emergency cases," Mrs. Vanderpool said.

Richard Litaker, chairman of the union's contract negotiating committee, said the key issues that led union leaders to reject the contract proposed by the hospital company have to do with job security, which he said the company is trying to undermine.

He said that, under the existing contract, workers who faced reduced hours could retain their current hours by bumping employees with less seniority. The hospitals want to prevent bumping except in cases of layoffs, he said.

Company spokesman Eric Johnson noted that the hospitals had offered a 3.9 percent pay raise in the first year of the new contract, a 3.7 percent increase the second year, and a 3.5 percent boost in the third year. He said the proposed contract also calls for employees to retain all their benefits.

The ARH chain includes seven hospitals in Kentucky. Besides McDowell, they are located in Middlesboro, South Williamson, Hazard, Harlan, Whitesburg, and West Liberty.

When the agency reached the maximum 25 suits that may be filed annually by a single plaintiff in small claims court, it began filing the claims in district court. Unlike small claims, which may be prosecuted and defended without the intervention of attorneys, those wishing to defend themselves in district court would ordinarily need to hire a lawyer.

Already, an attorney for one firm named in a district court suit filed last month has filed an answer and seeks a jury trial. Those named in the suits filed this week have 20 days to file answers to the charges.

Said McAninch, "We're hoping people will come to understand that we're not going to go away."

In addition to court action, a bill that cleared the House this legislative session would allow county clerks to tack an unpaid garbage bill onto a person's auto tax bill. "It would mean you couldn't renew your license unless you'd paid your garbage," said McAninch, adding, "That may turn out to be the real answer to the problem."

House Bill 77 languished in a senate committee as recently as Monday, however, and its chances of passage this session seemed small.

Those against whom claims were filed Monday by Assistant County Attorney Dan Rowland, and the amounts they are alleged to be in arrears, are:

Woodrow Lewis, Prestonsburg, $200; Luther Jarrell, Prestonsburg, $178; Russell Jarrell, Slick Rock, $178; Luke Kidd, Betsy Layne, $376; Herman Morris, Ivel, $190; Elby Morris, Ivel, $150; Bingham's Liquors, Auxier, $210; Boyd's Carryout, Prater Creek, $237; Collins Floor and Wall Covering, Allen, $138; Rocky Hamilton's Grocery, Galveston, $184; Millard Johnson Grocery, Teaberry, $176; Leo Roberts, Harold, $190; Daniel Newsome, Craynor, $238; Darvene Bryant, Betsy Layne, $238; Clinard Jones, Martin, $388; Richard Lewis, Jr., Prestonsburg, $216; Coalfield Reclamation, Betsy Layne, $404; McKinney's Store, Harold, $215; C & J Carryout, Price, $394; Invest, Inc., Hueysville, $575.

Named in small claims filed last month and still pending are:

Herb's Body Shop, Allen, $561; William B. Osborne, Auxier, $238; Delmar Honeycutt, Auxier, $144; Ellis Castle, Jr., Auxier, $103; Gary E. Lilly, Auxier, $184; Robert Craft, Prestonsburg, $238; Imes Service Station, Allen, $155; Ron's Bargain Barn, Prestonsburg, $230; Ann's Pizza Restaurant, Wheelwright, $138; Scalf Engineering, Stanville, $149; Newsome Chevron, Price, $210; Delong's Grocery, Blue River, $175; Little's Market, Hi Hat, $172; R & R Gulf, Grethel, $147; Doug's Market, Harold, $46; Billy Music, Auxier, $388; Akers Restaurant, McDowell, $315; Gene Pizza, Teaberry, $463; and Merion Funeral Home, Martin, $178.

A suit filed last month in district court alleges that Parker's, Inc., of Betsy Layne, owes the solid waste agency $2070. In response to a suit charging that Big D Excavating, of Betsy Layne, is $1183 in arrears, attorney R. Don Goble has filed a response on behalf of the firm, denying the claim.

against the resolution had been present at the first meeting.

A group of citizens, among them several ministers, attended the special meeting, but their objections to reclassification fell upon deaf ears. Only Brown and Porter voted to rescind the resolution.

With the exception of Councilman Bobby Ranier, no one at the special meeting spoke in favor of the reclassification. Ranier said, while he didn't see the question of liquor sales as the only issue at hand, he didn't think the availability of liquor in restaurants would sway more people to drink.

Latta said she was disappointed other council members didn't publicly discuss their reasons for supporting the change.

After the meeting, pharmacist Eric Herrin said, "The city council has acted entirely without consideration for the people of this town. I am shocked and very disappointed."

Steve Hopkins, pastor of the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church, echoed Herrin's sentiments. "I am surprised and deeply disappointed," he said. "I felt like the council would act more responsibly."

Before council voted to rescind the resolution, Hopkins read a prepared statement in which he linked the sale of liquor by the drink to numerous social problems, including increased crime rates and traffic accidents.

Latta, who had strongly opposed the resolution from the time it was introduced, maintaining Prestonsburg did not have the population to be a third class city, and wary of the possibility of further ramifications which might not make themselves known until it was too late, took her concerns to Frankfort Monday. Armed with petitions signed by about 600 people opposed to the change, and the results of a local radio poll, in which 144 of 166 respondents said they were against reclassification, she made her position clear to Senators Benny Ray Bailey (D.-Hindman) and David Lemaster (D.-Paintsville).

The mayor said she was unsure what effect her trip would have on the outcome of the issue. She said that while the response she had received from city residents concerning the resolution had been "overwhelmingly opposed" to reclassification, she was relieved the ordeal was ending.

"I'll just be believed that this is all over, and we can go back to important city business," she said.

SELECTING A DIET FOR YOU

Q: I am so tired of the diet routine! Everywhere I look, there's another diet. I need to lose weight, and I want to do it in a sensible way. But I don't want it to take forever. How can I find a diet that's right for me?

A: Dieting is a very personal experience. Consequently, you must find a diet that can be individualized to meet your specific needs. When making your selection:

1. Be sure the diet you choose is based on sound nutrition. Inquire about the foods, and the amounts of protein, carbohydrates, fats, vitamins, minerals and water.
2. Choose a "program" instead of simply a "diet." It is as important to change attitudes about eating as it is to change eating habits themselves. By combining a nutritionally sound diet with a good behavior modification program, your chances of success are greatly increased.
3. Find a program that offers follow-up maintenance counseling. It is important to your health to keep your weight under control once you've lost those extra pounds.

For more information on losing weight sensibly, contact your local Diet Center today at 886-8181.

Spelling Bee Finalist

Stephen David Damron, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Stephen Damron, of Weeksbury, winner of the Floyd County Education Association spelling bee held February 26 at Allen Elementary School, was one of the four remaining finalists in the Eastern Kentucky Education Association spelling bee held at Summit Junior High School in Ashland, March 22.

Damron's stumbling block was the word "descendant."

Swan Lake Open

The Swan Lake Wildlife Management Area in Ballard County was opened to the public April 1, according to Don McCormick, Commissioner of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

The fish and wildlife department is now the official owner of this 2,536-acre area, McCormick says. It includes Swan Lake, the largest natural lake in Kentucky.

There will be some special rules for use of the area, McCormick says. Outboard motors used on Swan Lake itself must be 10 horsepower or less, and only electric motors may be used on other waters within the management area. Primitive camping (14-day maximum stay) will be allowed only in the designated camping area, and recreational vehicle camping will not be permitted. All pets in the camping area must be leashed.

Fishing creel and size limits on all species will conform to statewide regulations. Bullfrogs may not be taken by firearms, but other legal frogging methods will be allowed.

The area will be closed to the public from Oct. 15 through March 15. Waterfowl hunting will not be permitted on Swan Lake itself, but will be allowed on the rest of the area during any waterfowl seasons that occur before Oct. 15. Deer and turkey hunting will not be permitted, and dog training will not be allowed on the area.

Squirrel and dove hunting will be permitted from season opening dates through Oct. 14. Waterfowl and dove hunters must use non-toxic steel shot on the area.

The Swan Lake area, like other wildlife areas owned by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, was purchased with funds from the sale of hunting and fishing licenses. The fish and wildlife department receives no general fund tax money, according to McCormick.

Allen Man Assaults Minister; Is Jailed

A 67-year-old Allen man was lodged in the county jail last Wednesday on charges of assault and carrying a concealed deadly weapon after he allegedly disturbed a church choir practice and punched a minister.

The Rev. Kenneth R. Lemaster, pastor of the Allen United Methodist Church, told police that Alonzo Lafferty appeared at the church while the choir was in rehearsal, got into an altercation with the minister, and struck him with his fist. In the course of the scuffle, it became apparent that he was armed with a handgun, the pastor said.

Lafferty was ordered released the next day on an unsecured bond by Trial Commissioner Jack Hyden, who instructed him to stay away from Lemaster.

On Friday, however, about two dozen members of the parish successfully petitioned for a court order requiring Lafferty to undergo a psychiatric evaluation. Some said that Lafferty, one a member of the congregation, had had a falling-out with the church several years ago and had periodically harassed the congregation in the meantime. As recently as Sunday last week, he was said to have caused a disturbance during a church service.

Martial Myths That Can Sabotage Wedded Bliss

Only in fairy tales can couples live happily ever after without working at it. Yet many couples cling to storybook beliefs that can poison even the most magical marriages.

Here are six menacing myths as reported in the April Reader's Digest:

•Romantic love makes a good marriage. The monotony of married life has extinguished many a flame. Necessities to any longtime union are kindness, consideration, communication, adjustment to each other's habits, joint participation in several activities, consensus on values, and respect.

•Husbands and wives should do everything together. Many people feel guilty about going anywhere without their partners, but there should be some separateness to allow individual growth and privacy. Couples should spend 20 or 25 percent of their time apart.

•Good spouses should make their partners happy. No one can assume responsibility for another person's feelings. Trying to can only lead to misery and despair. Each partner must take charge of his or her own gratification and fulfillment to make a marriage work.

•Husbands and wives should "let it all hang out." Too many people assume that they can release all their pent-up anger and frustrations at home. Instead of attacking the source, they resort to kicking the dog, beating their children or abusing their spouses. A relaxed and loving home is created with respect, politeness, tact and good humor.

•True lovers know each other's thoughts. This fallacy is applied especially to lovemaking. Some people, for instance, contend that if a woman is really in love with a man, she can sense exactly how to please and satisfy him. Communication, not mind reading, is the secret to better sexual relations. One can't automatically experience another person's feelings.

•A happy marriage requires total trust. Taking a partner for granted can have disastrous results. In a lasting marriage, a little insecurity goes a long way. Regarding your spouse as attractive to members of the opposite sex encourages your own displays of affection and caring.

After all, caring is why people marry in the first place.

Panel Will Study Unmined Coal Tax

Coal counties will be the subject of a study as a result of a resolution passed by the House of Representatives in the last days of the 1986 legislative session.

Rep. Clayton Little, D-Virgie, co-sponsored House Resolution 166 which creates a commission to study taxing unmined minerals, a tax on mineral royalties and changes in the state's severance taxes in mineral producing regions in the Commonwealth.

The bill describes the makeup of the commission and directs the House speaker and Senate president pro tem to appoint five legislators, five coal industry representatives and five representatives "of efforts to increase mineral taxation" in Kentucky to conduct the study. The study is estimated to cost $10,000.

Little said he drafted the resolution after House Bill 503 failed to pass. "All major legislation that brings about great changes is generally passed after a thorough study," Little said. "House Resolution 166 will certainly bring into focus the need for a method of taxation of unmined minerals."

According to Little, those who say minerals can't be taxed would be convinced to change their thinking after a study has been conducted. "A real wealth is underground, and we don't own it," Little said. "Our minerals are owned by out-of-state corporations, and these shouldn't go untaxed."

The date requiring the most Roman numerals is 1888, with 13: MDCCCLXXXVIII.

Asks Safety Lights Of C & O Railroad

The Kentucky Railroad Commission conducted its regular monthly hearings regarding petitions requiring an open and public hearing, March 13, in Frankfort. The Commission was required to issue judicially appealable rulings on six matters of public importance. The items ranged from issuance of orders regarding rail blockage of public highways and key transportation routes to compelling the railroad industry to comply with state law in the installation of traffic bars and safety lights at grade crossing in Floyd county.

The Department of Transportation appeared before the Kentucky Railroad Commission to defend an order issued by the Commission directing C & O Railroad to comply with certain provisions of safety law in Kentucky. "This commission was informed by the Director of Highway Crossings for DOT that C&O Railroad would not comply with the order of the Commission and that his department would not provide any information to the Railroad Commission as has been requested in the past three months."

The Kentucky Railroad Commission conducts hearing on the second Thursday of each calendar month on the Fourth Floor of the State Office Building. The public is invited to attend these meetings. The Commission intends to conduct hearings in at least 25 Kentucky counties in the next 18 months.

FINANCIAL PLANNING

FAMILY BUSINESS TRANSACTIONS

What happens when you hire your children as employees? What tax treatment are you allowed on business transactions with related parties? Since transactions between related parties can be an area of abuse in terms of shifting income to reduce taxes, the tax code provides special treatment in certain family and related-party transactions.

- The tax prohibits a taxpayer from deducting interest or expenses which are owed but not yet paid to certain related parties. At the time the payment is actually includable in the recipient's income, it is deductible by the paying party.
- The law prohibits a deduction for a loss on sales if the buyer is a "family member" of the taxpayer. Generally speaking, a family member is a son, daughter, brother, sister, spouse, an ancestor, or a lineal descendant. For tax purposes you can be a "related person" to individuals, corporations, trusts, exempt organizations, etc.
- One spouse working for another and children under the age of 21 working for their parents are exempt from Social Security (FICA) contributions and from Federal Unemployment (FUTA) tax. This is not optional; if you have made FICA or FUTA contributions under these circumstances, you should apply for a refund since these family members are not entitled to benefits when it is time to draw them.
- One spouse working for another is entitled to make contributions to his or her own individual retirement account (IRA). Example: If a wife working for her husband makes at least $2,000 for the year, she's entitled to make a full $2,000 contribution to her IRA account.

Many small businesses have family members as employees. Make sure you're getting the tax treatment most beneficial to you and that the tax return treatment of your financial transactions will hold up under audit. Consult your accountant for assistance in specific application of these rules.

The Unmined Minerals Tax: A Test of Political Leadership

By RON MARSTIN

Looking back on them, the two meetings here in which the pros and cons of levying a standard property tax on unmined coal got a public hearing of sorts tell us something about why that hapless proposal was scuttled in the recent legislature for the third time running.

For one thing, the two meetings were strictly segregated—proponents in the local library one Saturday; opponents in the courthouse a month later. No discussion, no argument, no cross-examination, no give-and-take, no meeting of minds. Just a lone legislator, listening first to one side in all its purity, next to the equally-unqualified position of the other side, then retiring to Frankfort like a judge to his chambers, presumably to search for the all-encompassing truth and render an impartial verdict.

What he ended up with, House Majority Leader Greg Stumbo acknowledged near the end of the legislative session, were simply two views that were so far apart no consensus was even in sight. That is not the kind of issue on which his legislative colleagues are eager to have to vote.

They were spared any embarrassment. Although a House committee approved the bill, it was sent back on a technicality. In any event, Stumbo said, a lot of his colleagues had gained the impression that a bill initially proposed as straightforward and unproblematic had turned out to be more complex than they were led to believe. Better to give it more study.

Stumbo filed a resolution, which the House approved, to create a task force to study coal taxes—including a tax on unmined coal—and come up with a workable proposal two years from now. "Workable" meaning, among other things, acceptable to the General Assembly.

The majority leader said he is optimistic a bill can be drafted that will win the support both of the coal industry, which has been adamantly opposed to restoring the property tax on coal in the ground, and of those, like the Kentucky Fair Tax Coalition, who have been pushing hard for such a levy.

Perhaps he's right. Indeed, in the intense lobbying that surrounded the bill near the end, an amendment was proposed by the KFTC that looked as if it might be just the sort of compromise that would broaden the bill's appeal. But it came very late in the game and, by then at least, the coal lobbyists had nothing to gain by bargaining, everything to gain by standing pat.

One question all this raises is why, after years of public debate, the issue should still need two years' study to produce a viable compromise. It is an issue after all, on which both sides claim a fair measure of agreement in principle.

Coal operators say they are as interested as anyone in seeing that the industry makes a fair contribution to the common weal, as long as they are not driven out of business. Tax proponents say they care about protecting local coal companies and miners' jobs, even while they insist that large absentee mineral owners be made to pay their fair share of the coal industry's social costs. If there is really a will to compromise, it is hard to understand why a way has yet to be found.

As beneficiaries of the status quo, of course, the coal industry has had to do nothing but throw a monkey wrench in the works before an unmined minerals tax gets to the House floor for a vote, a tactic they have now pulled off three times. Stumbo's task force is not likely to fire tax proponents with the hope of a better deal in 1988 but, short of a judicial solution to the problem, it is now their best chance.

The task force is to be made up equally of legislators, coal representatives, and minerals tax proponents. If it does its job, legislators will no longer be able to put off a vote by claiming the facts are not clear, or the issue has become unexpectedly complex, or there is insufficient time to hammer out a workable compromise. If it does its job, proponents and opponents of an unmined minerals tax will not be able to continue circling in two different orbits, each guarding the purity of its own position while sidestepping the objections of the other side.

Politics is supposed to be the art of compromise and, given some real political leadership on this issue, the two sides might have been forced long ago to get together and work out their differences. But the fact that it should have happened long ago is no reason not to do it now.

Only when the red herrings and rationalizations have been swept aside can the real issue be joined—the issue of whether, in the 50 years or so that coal is still mined in these parts, those who own it and reap its profits will be forced to plow back a fair measure of their wealth into the communities that live here and that will still be here when the coal is long gone and those who took it are investing their millions elsewhere.

Construction Continues On New HRMC Entrance

Work continues on the new entrance to Highlands Regional Medical Center. When completed, it will provide easy access to the medical offices of Dr. Rodney Handshoe (cardiology), Dr. Byron Young (neurology), Dr. Ernest Behnke (ear, nose, and throat specialist), and Dr. Charles Young (ear, nose, and throat specialist), all located in the hospital basement.

The construction, which was paid for by donations from HRMC's Women's Auxiliary, is set to be completed by early spring.

SLEEP ON IT

Have you ever taken sleeping pills that left you drowsy the next morning? If so, there is good news. Physicians are increasingly prescribing short or intermediate-acting sleep medications. Traizolam and temazepam are the drugs that are best for those times when you awaken in the middle of the night. They leave you refreshingly awake at your normal wake-up time five hours later. Insomnia at bedtime also responds to these quickly metabolized drugs. Like all sleeping pills, even the shorter-acting variety should be taken only for a limited time. For the long run, try to establish a regular sleep-awake schedule. Go to bed and get up at approximately the same time every day. Limit the amount of time that you spend awake in bed, which tends to fragment sleep and leaves you tired.

Are you having a problem with insomnia? Consult with your physician. If he prescribes an over-the-counter remedy or a prescription medication you can feel confident we have it in stock. We keep up to date with all the latest developments in the pharmaceutical world. COOLEY APOTHECARY has already played a significant role in the health care of hundreds of families in this area and we look forward to doing the same for you and yours. We're located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Master Charge and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4.

Parenting Tips To Air On KET

Parenting and child rearing aren't something you have to learn by the trial and error method. We all can become better informed about the art of nurturing children.

"Time Out For Parents" is a series of informational announcements which provide sound parenting tips and advice. "Time Out For Parents" will premiere Monday, March 31 and air Sundays through Fridays on KET.

The announcements will follow both the 8:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. plays of "Sesame Street" Mondays through Fridays. Additionally, "Time Out For Parents" will follow each of the two consecutive Sunday morning presentations of "Sesame Street" which begin at 8:30 a.m.

"Time Out For Parents" ranges in length from 45 to 50 seconds and discusses such areas of concern as reducing stress in children; creating a safe and stimulating environment, and building self-esteem in children.

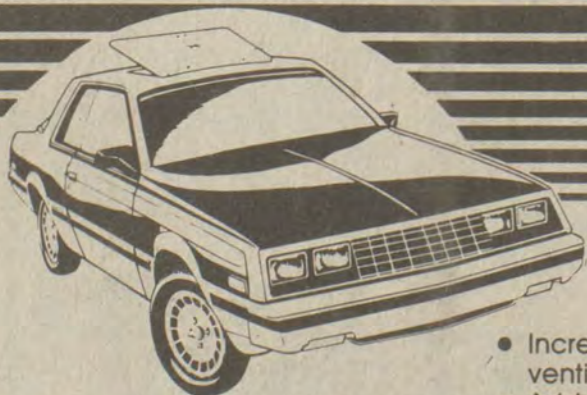

According to KET Education Division's Special Projects Coordinator Deborah Watson, the idea behind the announcements is to raise the consciousness of parents.

"We want to create an awareness that parenting is something we all need to learn more about, and there are resources available," explained Watson.

In correlation with "Time Out For Parents," KET will be offering a parent information packet.

"Time Out For Parents" is a KET production.

In one of the season's first catches, and surely one of its biggest, Bill Darby, of Cow Creek, hooked this 23-inch big-mouthed bass on a "lazy Ike" this week. The fish was taken around 10 a.m. Monday on Dewey Lake "just down from the lodge."

Forest Fires Cause Lasting Timber Loss

This spring has had some dry spells that has made it dangerous for burning trash near our woods. Please be careful with fire. When our forests burn it robs us all. Did you ever think about the cost of woodland fires? According to the Division of Forestry, everytime an acre of woodland burns an average of $2,000 is subtracted from the end market-value of the trees when they are harvested. This is because fire damages the base of trees where disease and insects can enter. Trees that are seemingly unharmed a year after the fire can have hidden damage. For example, wood that has been injured from the fire's heat will shatter when it is sawed.

All of the fire related damage to woodland has a real impact on our economy. There isn't a shortage of trees in Floyd county but there is a real shortage of quality timber. If it wasn't for fires ravaging our hillsides this area would have a booming lumber industry. The reason is that there is a strong demand for quality hardwoods. With quality hardwood timber there would be a base for furniture, oakwood floors, and cooperage factories. These industries in turn would provide a better price for our timber and many needed jobs.

A walk through some of our woodland reveals why a booming lumber industry isn't a reality. Old hollowed-out beeches take the place of what could be marketable timber. Even younger trees show fire damage with swelling near the base of trunk. Tree seedlings are often killed in fires and those that survive are often deformed. Only straight healthy trees command the high prices of quality timber.

This spring and every dry season let's be especially careful with our woodland resources. If we stop the widespread burning of our forests then our grandchildren will benefit with a higher standard of living. They will have a quality renewable resource if we only practice good stewardship and judgment today.

"DANGEROUS BUSINESS"

Publishing a newspaper is a hazardous occupation, in the opinion of the Bracken Chronicle. The man "behind the gurns" has to be careful that he does not offend any one by calling the attention of his readers to all the vile happenings that go on constantly. If the editor mentions some unusual happening, liable to arouse the ire of some of his readers, he is either threatened with a licking or classed as a liar. If he does not publish the item, he is accused of upholding "onriness," and what is a fellow to do? However, there is some consolation in the fact, at least to us, that if we should publish all we know of a scandalous nature, no doubt there would be many vacant places around various dining tables the day after the paper was issued.

THE TRAGEDY

Fido's tail lay on the rail; The train was coming fast; While first in glee He wagged it free In woe he wagged it last.

When I recall poor Fido's fate, I wish to see once more, That tail so fine He wagged behind, Which looked so nice before.

Mrs. Lon S. Moles was hostess Wednesday evening, August 31, honoring Mrs. J. W. Hensley, of Henderson, Texas, with a bridge of marked charm at her beautiful home on First and Goble streets.

After an enjoyable period of play, scores showed that Miss Ella Noel White was holder of high score prize. The honoree, Mrs. Hensley, received a handsome guest prize.

Mary Tyler Moore plays a happily married housewife who discovers that her husband had been having affair with her best friend. Naturally, complications set in.

Four fine performances in roles nicely shaped by writer-director Allan Burns help the viewer overlook potentially disastrous complications. Mary Tyler Moore essentially continues her role as Mary Richards from Burns's "Mary Tyler Moore Show." She blushes at cuss words and gets uneasy at the mention of s-e-x. In contrast, there's Christine Lahti, a TV-news reporter who borrows Miss Moore's husband from time to time. As the wandering husband, Ted Danson of "Cheers" fame seems a bit too young to be Moore's husband and the father of two teenagers, but that can be overlooked. And Sam Waterston turns in a superb performance in a change-of-pace role as Danson's timid co-worker.

"Just Between Friends" almost seems like Burns's answer to "Terms of Endearment," a similar film in style and content made by James L. Brooks, who co-created "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" with Burns. Both films are a curious mix of humor with tragedy. Scenes that are farcical one moment are fraught with tension the next. Whether the viewers can forgive all the plot machinations will determine whether Burns' effort is as successful as Brooks' was.

Lee Grant is making a new name for herself

By Lynn Hoogenboom

"I've just found my voice as a director," says Lee Grant. "I'm an established actress, but I'm a young director. So a lot of the things I've been sitting on are tumbling on top of each other. It's like after the blacklist (Miss Grant was blacklisted for 12 years during the McCarthy era), when my appetite for acting was so enormous that I couldn't stop."

Lee Grant

One of the projects that has come tumbling out of the emerging director (who now has three HBO documentaries, the TV movie "A Matter of Sex" and the feature film "Tell Me a Riddle" under her belt) is "Nobody's Child," based on the true story of Marie Balter. Mrs. Balter spent 20 years in mental institutions, was written off as a hopeless case, and still managed to work her way out. "Nobody's Child" airs Sunday, April 6, on CBS.

"I know how moved I was and how moved I still am by Marie Balter's story," says Miss Grant. "I think overcoming obstacles is a very attractive element for me. And somehow, seeing her triumph in the smallest ways, and then in a larger way, without ever being aware of her triumph, because she's so unconscious of it, really meant something to me."

The challenging role of Marie Balter is being played by Marlo Thomas, an actress Miss Grant admits that she probably wouldn't even have considered before she saw Miss Thomas's performance in "The Lost Honor of Kathryn Beck."

"I called her up after I saw 'Kathryn Beck,'" says Miss Grant, "and I said, 'I will never write anyone off again. I would never have believed that you were capable of this kind of performance, and it's my shortcoming.' The work Marlo did in 'Kathryn Beck' was so classy and showed such a different facet from what I had seen in her that I offered her 'Marie Balter' on the spot."

At the moment, Miss Grant's career as a director looks bright. "When I left Hollywood three and a half years ago, the studios could see me only as an actress. I certainly have no ax to grind. I was offered wonderful things as an actress. But they could not see me as a director. So I went to New York."

And what a difference a few years make. "When I left, nobody would talk to me seriously," says Miss Grant. "A year and a half ago when I went back, everybody wanted to talk to me."

WILL CHAIR BIKE-A-THON

The Central Regional Office of St. Jude Children's Research Hospital announced today that James Martin has agreed to chair the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Bike-a-Thon in Auxier.

Research has shown that substances related to vitamin A can block cancer formation and reduce tumors in laboratory animals. But the April Reader's Digest cautions that large doses of the vitamin can become potential toxins and kill. Experts agree that you should always check with your physician before taking vitamins in doses higher than the Recommended Dietary Allowances set by the National Academy of Sciences.

In a survey cited in the April Reader's Digest, 20 out of 25 people who had recently suffered the loss of a relative or friend claimed that most sympathetic comments they received didn't help or, in some cases, even hurt. Among the worse remarks one can make on such sad occasions are "It's better now because he is at peace" and "You'll get over this." Instead of talking, notes The Digest, one should listen; grieving people need to talk about this sudden vacuum in their lives.

We're glad you asked!

John C. Hall
Founder
Hall Funeral Home

IS PRE-ARRANGING A FUNERAL COSTLY?

Actually, you can make your funeral wishes known at no cost whatsoever. We can provide you (or your lawyer or estate executor) with all the information needed for your funeral with no charge or obligation. It's just a matter of filling out the forms and making your personal wishes known.

SAVE TWO WAYS

You can elect to have all the funeral details selected in advance with one of our funeral directors—and keep costs within the limits which you set up. The extent of service and the casket you select will be priced and established for you, now at today's prices. The full amount can be set aside in a trust fund at your bank, payable when the need arises. The trust can (if so arranged) even earn a high rate of interest.

Your lawyer or banker can assist you in this, along with the counsel and forms we provide.

There's also the No-Payment form of funeral pre-arrangement in which you simply specify what kind of service and casket you will want. You keep a copy in your family records, as do we, so that at death, your family can act according to your wishes. In this type of pre-plan, no money is deposited—just your wishes. Stop by for full details anytime.

"The Shakers" Opens '86 Shakertown Season

On Saturday, April 5, the Louisville Ballet Company opens the Shaker Village of Pleasant Hill's 1986 Calendar of Events with "The Shakers." They dance five performances of this modern dance classic at 11:00 a.m., 1:00, 2:30, 4:00 and 5:00 p.m.

Doris Humphrey based its choreography on the Shaker sect's motions and gestures that spontaneously evolved to "shake out their sins" during their worship meetings in the 19th century.

Soloists or choral groups present Shaker folk music each weekend from April 5 through October 26. The Shakers wrote these lively, descriptive tunes to accompany their fervent and rapturous "laborings."

The 1986 seven-month calendar features many special craft demonstrations. Introduced into Kentucky by the Pleasant Hill Shakers, the silk industry was the village's most distinctive craft. Mary Stock brings silkworms, cocoons, and reels from Canton, Ohio for silk culturing demonstrations on April 26, 27, May 31, June 1; August 16, 17; September 13, 14; and October 4, 5.

Other demonstrations include candle-dipping, basketry, hearth cooking, beehive-oven baking, butter churning, cottage cheese making, tinsmithing, sheep shearing, blacksmithing, vegetal wool dyeing, pole lathe cabinetry, chair-seat listing, leatherworking, shoemaking, oval box making, medicinal herb processing and making cider and apple butter.

Located on 2200 acres in the bluegrass region of central Kentucky, this National Historic Landmark restored village offers dining and overnight accommodations and two craft sales shops as well as the exhibition tour. All services are housed in original 19th century structures.

A sternwheel riverboat, the Dixie Belle, provides rides up the Kentucky River each day on a regular schedule from April 28 to October 26.

Shaker Village is open daily from 9:00 to 5:00. For dining or overnight reservations, please call as early as possible.

Adult admission to the self-guided tour is $5.00; $2.50 for students 12 through high school and $1.00 for children 6-11. Riverboat rates are $4.00 for adults; $2.50 for students 12 through high school and $1.00 for children 6-11. A reduced rate combination riverboat and tour ticket for adults is $7.00; $4.00 for students 12 through high school. There is no reduced rate combination ticket for children.

All special events are included in this tour price. A Calendar of Events will be sent at no cost by writing or calling Shakertown at Pleasant Hill, 3500 Lexington Road, Harrodsburg, Kentucky 40330 or phone (606) 734-5411.

Hospice Finds Funds, Still Needs Support

An organization that helps people die is still struggling for life, its executive-director announced this week.
 Hospice of Big Sandy, Inc., which brings together teams of professionals and volunteers to help terminally ill patients and their families, recently raised $5000 needed to qualify for a like grant from the Christian Appalachian Project. But Executive-Director Chris Conley said it is only a temporary reprieve in the organization's tenuous struggle for financial survival.
 "The minimum monthly budget on which Hospice can survive is $2000. This amount pays two half-time salaries—for individuals who are working fulltime jobs—and the meager bills Hospice accrues," Mrs. Conley said. "Hospice is still looking for help from within the community."
 Mrs. Conley and Sr. Margaret Jacobs, patient care coordinator, are anxious to speak to any groups they can about Hospice services. Anyone wishing to find out more about the organization, invite one of the staff to speak, or make a donation may write Hospice of Big Sandy, Inc., Box 1002, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653, or call 886-2721.

Realm Of Alligator Geographic Special

A new "National Geographic Special" invites viewers on an unparalled journey through the Okefenokee Swamp. "Realm of the Alligator" will be aired on KET Wednesday, April 16, at 8:00 p.m. The program will be narrated by Pernell Roberts.

Entering Okefenokee Swamp is like stepping back millenia, to a time when dinosaurs dominated the earth. Today the dinosaurs are gone, but Okefenokee—erie, forbidding, and darkly beautiful—is ruled by the descendents of one of their crocodilian contemporaries: the scaly and sinister alligator.

Okefenokee, 700 square miles on the Georgia-Florida border, is a hostile environment. Its dark waters are as acidic as strong tea. It is an unchartable wilderness because floating mats of peat regularly appear, move about, and sometimes disappear. Nevertheless, life thrives there, and two scientists, biologist/filmmaker/professor John Paling and alligator expert Kent Vliet, brave the swamp to unlock its secrets and share them with viewers.

The alligator, a creature of ancient ancestry, is the undisputed star of the program. Sometimes the creature glides silently through its realm, stony eyes just above the waterline, mouth held in a seemingly perpetual smile. But viewers see alligators in a host of other ways, too: seizing prey and thrashing it to death; in gentle courtship; hissing and roaring to ward off intruders; and, amazingly, tenderly caring for their babies. "Alligators are really superb parents, loving and intelligent," says Kent Vliet.

"The National Geographic Specials" are coproduced by WQED/Pittsburgh and the National Geographic Society.

Workings Of Jury
Focus Of Report

An American jury grapples with guilt, innocence and the meaning of justice as real-life drama unfolds in "Inside the Jury Room," a "Frontline" documentary with Judy Woodruff airing Thursday, April 10, at 9:00 p.m. on KET.

"Frontline" observes 12 men and women inside a jury room within the Wisconsin State Court System, as they weigh facts, ponder evidence and debate the meaning of justice. They agree that the case of Leroy Reed should never have come to trial. But is he guilty, or not guilty?

Reed served seven years in prison. Clean for 11 years, he sees a magazine ad for a mail-order private detective course in which he enrolls. First he receives a badge, and then he buys a gun. He hangs around the courthouse watching detectives at work. He is asked one day for identification. For an unknown reason, he produces the receipt for the gun. Authorities order him to bring it in. When he does, he is arrested and held in jail.

Defense attorney Charles Blaha asks Judge Ralph Adam Fine to instruct the jury that it has the power to ignore the law, but Fine refuses. However, the jury finds its own path to justice.

The case is significant because it deals with an on-going legal debate of whether jurors should be told they have the power to disregard the law. Judges are obliged to inform jurors they may follow their own consciences in Georgia, Indiana and Maryland.

"Frontline" is produced by KCTS/Seattle, WGBH/Boston, WNET/New York, WPBT/Miami, and WTVS/Detroit.

NUMB ARMS, LEGS
Warning Signals

There may be misalignment of vertebrae in the spine causing pressure on nerves, yet the patient experiences no pain in the back. Instead, a variety of sensations may be felt in other parts of the body. These include tingling, tightness, hot spots, cold spots, crawling sensations, electric shock sensations, stinging, burning, and others.

The following nine symptoms involving back pain or strange sensations are often the forerunners of more serious conditions. Any one of these may spell back trouble

- (1) Paresthesias (see above) (2) Headaches (3) Painful joints (4) Numbness in the arms or hands (5) Loss of sleep (6) Stiffness in the neck (7) Pain between the shoulders (8) Stiffness or pain in lower back (9) Numbness or pain in the legs.

These signals may indicate your body is being robbed of normal nerve function. Until this function is restored, you will, in some degree, be incapacitated. The longer you wait to seek help, the worse the condition will likely become. Don't wait! Should you experience any of these warning signals...call for in depth consultation in Layman's terms.

Leads Cleanup Effort

Mrs. Nora Martin has organized a group of Turkey Creek-Stone Coal residents to clean up illegal dumping sites such as this one at Stone Coal. Her group hopes to get the clean up finished in time to plant flowers along the roadway.

Nora's Trailblazers.

That's the name chosen by a group preparing to clean up illegal dump sites at Stone Coal and Turkey Creek. It's not inappropriate.

The group was formed two Saturdays ago at a meeting held at the Garrett Fire Department, though most were recruited days earlier by Turkey Creek resident Mrs. Nora Martin. Mrs. Martin led a similar drive several years ago to close a dump site on Turkey Creek, with protesters at one point turning back two Prestonsburg city vehicles loaded with trash and escorted by city police cruisers.

While the present effort may not be as dramatic, it appears, at least to some residents of that section, to be as important.

Willie Duff was one of the sparse group that attended Saturday's meeting. He said he has for some time made it a practice to get the auto license numbers of people dumping in the area and to prosecute the offenders. He told of one occasion when he saw some young men in a pick-up truck throw garbage from atop a hill. The garbage, he said, slid all the way to the bottom. Duff said he made the boys pick up the rubbish and later had them prosecuted.

Duff added that he had been frustrated at times because dumpers were given what he felt to be too-light punishment by the courts. Many times, he said, they were just made to pick up the trash they had left.

But now, maybe Nora's Trailblazers can turn things around for the scenic-but-littered area. Mrs. Martin and company plan on a marshalling as many resources as possible for the clean-up effort. She said County Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo had indicated the county would supply a grader and two workers, while suggestions from those at the meeting included calling on the 4-H Club, with which Mrs. Martin has been associated for many years, the Boy Scouts, perhaps the Job Corps center in Prestonsburg. And, especially, the children.

Mrs. Martin made it clear that one of her priorities was to get her own grandchildren, as well as other children in the area, to participate in the clean-up drive. One of her suggestions was for the children to divide their efforts into various groups, each concentrating on a different area. After the clean-up is complete, each group would find a large stone in their section and have carved on it who participated in the clean-up drive there. She said it would be something they could show their grandchildren.

In fact, it was one of her grandchildren who made Mrs. Martin begin thinking of cleaning up Turkey Creek-Stone Coal several years ago. One of her sons had moved his family to Florida, and his children were back here visiting. His daughter, Allison, was walking with Mrs. Martin one day, when the girl remarked that she couldn't understand why people would go to places like Florida to see beautiful things when there was so much beauty right here. The pair walked on only a short distance before coming upon garbage someone had dumped by the roadside, jarringly illustrating the need for something to be done.

When the clean-up is completed, Mrs. Martin said the group plans to plant flowers along the roadway. She suggested calling the area the "Rainbow Trail." Another member of the group suggested calling it "Nora's Trail," hence the group's name.

The group plans to meet again Saturday, April 5, at 4 p.m. at the Garrett fire department.

A SHORTCUT TO THE COMFORT OF GAS HEAT: NO CHIMNEY.

Good news...you can have gas heat without a lot of expensive home alterations.

That's because some of the new high-efficiency gas furnaces vent through the wall, and don't need a chimney. So they can be installed easily—and in so little time, you can have it done on a cold winter day and never feel a chill.

Sound good? It gets better. A new high-efficiency model uses as much as 30% less energy—even as it keeps your home warm and cozy.

Check with a heating dealer on availability of these new side wall-venting units. You may find there's a welcome shortcut to having the comfort, efficiency and dependability of gas heat in your home.
