

Haulers Unwelcome, Says Police Chief

Fletcher Cites Street Damage, Citizen Peril

Coal truck and tractor-trailer operators driving through downtown Prestonsburg to save a few minutes hauling time are in for trouble, say city police.

Police Chief Stan Fletcher said the number of coal trucks, the principal offenders, coming through the city has been steadily increasing in recent months, along with the resulting damage to streets, noise pollution and complaints from citizens. Fletcher said his department has received more than 30 complaints about the trucks in the last two weeks.

To combat the deluge of trucks, Fletcher said he plans to contact state Highway Commissioner C. Leslie Dawson to request that the section from the four-way stop at Lancer along Lake Drive to the intersection of N. Lake Drive and U.S. 23 be restricted to light vehicles only. The police chief said that, even if the restriction is not granted, his officers will stop trucks taking the city short cut, checking for such things as bad tires and overweight and oversize loads, and issuing citations.

In fact, Fletcher said he is forming a special section within the force to deal with the truck drivers. He plans to assign at least two, possibly three officers to the duty. "We've had several people hit by falling coal in the last two weeks," said Fletcher. "Not only that, but there's the damage to sidewalks and streets."

Street department supervisor Leonard Joseph said the city's street sweeper recently ran over a large chunk of coal, which became lodged in its sweeping mechanism and required several hours work to dislodge. Such problems, along with the additional burden placed on an already congested downtown and the potential danger to elementary school children going to and from school make the situation intolerable, said Fletcher.

By traveling between Prestonsburg and Allen on S. Lake Drive and KY 1428, the truckers avoid the two hills and two

Bus Topples, Students Safe

The students aboard escaped serious injury Friday when a county school bus was allegedly forced off the road by a speeding motorist and turned over on its side.

Schools Transportation Director Ed Patton said 22 Prestonsburg high school and elementary school students were on the bus as it traveled out of Little Paint Creek around 3:30 p.m. As he approached a curve, bus driver Robert Spears was forced to cut to the right to avoid colliding with a van approaching from the opposite direction; the wheels dropped into a deep ditch, causing the bus to turn on its side, he said.

Witnesses reported that the van was traveling at an unsafe speed and was across the centerline when the bus left the road. The driver did not stop but a neighbor gave police the license number of the van, Patton said. No charges had been filed Tuesday.

An ambulance and parents drove 13 of the students to Highlands Regional Medical Center and one of them, high school student Glenna McCoy, was admitted overnight for observation. The others were treated and released immediately.

Spears drove a school bus for five years in Johnson county before being hired by the Floyd system this year.

AMONG DOZENS of forest fires that flared up in eastern Kentucky with last week's hot, dry weather was this one at the head of Katy Friend, which sent clouds of smoke swirling across U.S. 23 on Monday afternoon. Rain showers later that day put a damper on the fires in this area.

SEVENTEEN-YEAR-OLD Teaberry girl Tammy Lynn Hall died in this auto Sunday night, after it collided head-on with another vehicle on KY 3 near Lancer. Jamie Pennington, driver of the car in which the victim was a passenger, is hospitalized with multiple fractures.

Teaberry Girl Killed Sunday In Auto Wreck

A 17-year-old Teaberry girl died Sunday night when the car in which she was riding slammed head-on into another vehicle on the Lancer-Water Gap road.

Tammy Lynn Hall was a passenger in a car being driven south on KY 3 by Jamie Pennington, 21, of Prestonsburg, around 9:18 p.m., when Pennington allegedly tried to pass in the face of oncoming traffic. He collided with a car driven by Arnold Mosley, Jr., 23, of Prestonsburg, in the northbound lane.

The crash victim was pronounced dead at Highlands Regional Medical Center at 10:12 p.m. She was not wearing a seat belt.

Pennington, who suffered multiple fractures, was transferred to Central Baptist Hospital in Lexington. Mosley who received minor injuries only, was treated at Highlands and released.

The accident is being investigated by State Trooper Bobby Jack Woods. No charges have as yet been filed.

Miss Hall was born July 1, 1968 in Teaberry, a daughter of Wayne Clifford Hall and Dorothy Helen Tackett Hall. In addition to her parents, she is survived by a brother, Ellis Dwayne Hall, of Teaberry; five sisters, Lisa Trump, of Warsaw, Ind., Teresa McKinney, Loretta Lynn Williams, Dianna Lynn Hall, and Donna Sue Lynn Hall, all of Teaberry; and her maternal grand-

For An Estimated $17,000... Inspectors Descend On Law Agency Here

A new administration takes over in Washington and a slew of people in eastern Kentucky lose their disability benefits... A Pike county man is denied food stamps because he owns a 1984 Datsun, even though the car has been totalled... The UK Medical Center refuses to schedule diagnostic tests for a patient on Medicaid... A young paraplegic is evicted from a Hazard nursing home...

A miner is fired because, after one shift, "pulling pillars" underground, he thinks he is too tired to work another shift safely... Another miner, in charge of the electrical cable powering a continuous mining machine, is thrown to the mine floor by an electric shock but is fired when he insists on having the cable repaired... A bus driver at Mountain Comprehensive Care here is discharged, allegedly for her "negative attitude and negative behavior," but apparently because she was talking to state investigators about management and morale problems at the agency...

Cases like these are among the dozens currently on file with the Prestonsburg-based Appalachian Research and Defense Fund of Kentucky (ARDF), according to a summary of cases prepared recently by the legal services agency. Founded 16 years ago to provide legal assistance in civil disputes to clients who could not afford to hire private attorneys, ARDF is funded by the federal government, which dispatched no fewer than a dozen inspectors to this area last week to see how the agency is being run.

While the panel—which was made up of financial and management consultants as well as lawyers—has yet to issue a report, ARDF Director John Rosenberg said Friday he felt confident the investigators were impressed by the number of clients served in the agency's 37-county area and the range of issues addressed. In all, ARDF's 11 offices cleared 7367 cases in 1985, including 1400 in the Prestonsburg office.

At the same time, the agency chief was clearly skeptical about the motivation of the Washington bureaucrats who will spend about $2 million this year monitoring legal services agencies nationwide and who spent an estimated $17,000 on last week's investigation of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund, its second review in 18 months. "That's a staff attorney's salary," said Rosenberg. "We could have hired another person for what it cost for them to come down here and try to find fraud and abuse that just isn't here and never was here."

A conservative federal administration is distrustful of legal-services agencies "because they think all we're doing is lobbying and filing class-action suits," said Rosenberg, who added, "What they'll find is that we're just trying to meet the legal needs of people with problems."

Agency attorneys represented a woman miner in Perry county who complained of sexual harassment on the job... a loader operator denied unemployment benefits after he walked off a strip job, complaining the machine had faulty brakes... the family of a man found hanged in Pike county jail... a non-profit agency building a daycare center in Prestonsburg... a McDowell High School senior expelled although he suffered from a learning disability...

Two public housing tenants facing eviction because their boyfriends moved in were represented by an "Appalled" attorney... as were several Clear Creek residents who sought to block issuance of an operating permit to Left Beaver Coal Co., a firm with a long history of violating environmental regulations... and as was a citizens' organization in Martin county, protesting a rate increase sought by the Kentucky Power Company...

The record is studded with cases of mothers whose parental rights have been terminated, fathers denied visitation rights, parents in custody disputes; divorces and property settlements; consumer cases. A Prestonsburg couple is helped win a claim against a Paintsville furniture store; three young women successfully sue a vacuum cleaner distributor for breach of contract, fraud, and malicious prosecution; a disabled Floyd man is defended against foreclosure by a Prestonsburg bank.

Conservative critics have sometimes charged that legal services agencies spend public money in advancing liberal programs of social change or in attempting to promote through the courts social policies that have been rejected by legislatures. But Rosenberg insists the only changes legal services attorneys want to make in the system are those needed to make it work equally for all people.

"We can't just file a case out of the blue. We can't make laws that don't exist," he said. "We always have to appeal to an existing law or at least apply an existing principle."

However, especially where a client is representative of a whole category of plaintiffs—in so-called class-action suits—a victory in the courts can have wide repercussions on public policy. One such case filed by ARDF, for example, challenges the policy of reducing Social Security benefits for those already receiving black lung compensation. And, in some instances, legal services

Outsiders Will See Hike In Fire Protection Cost

Fire subscription rates for those living outside Prestonsburg's city limits have been raised from $24 per year to $100 per year.

At Monday's meeting of the city council, lengthy discussion preceded the vote to raise rates, with Bull Creek resident Jim Combs calling on city officials to justify the increase. Combs said he was willing to pay whatever rate the city felt was necessary, but wondered why the change was needed and how the amount was determined.

One of his main concerns was that the city only made three out-of-town runs last year—not, as he saw it, even coming close to using up the revenue collected at the lower fee. City Administrator David Evans countered that there was no way of knowing if the city would respond to three or three hundred subscription fires this year. Paul Chaffins, city building inspector, said that in 1984 the fire department responded to 22 out-of-town fires.

At the April 14 meeting, council presented a first reading of the rate increase ordinance. In its original form, residential rates were to be based on property valuation and businesses on a sliding scale, depending on the size of the building. While there was no objection to the business rate, Combs objected to the property valuation scale for home owners, pointing out that the lot is assessed as well as the home. Council agreed with Combs, opting instead for a flat $100 fee.

The Bull Creek resident seemed only partially appeased by the amendment, and Councilman Thomas Tackett seemed to share his concerns. Tackett said he thought the additional $76 per year was too big a jump and could add undue hardship on some homeowners. Other council members and Mayor Ann Latta countered that the subscription service substantially lowered homeowner's insurance, and added that the $24 fee had been unrealistically low.

The increase passed with only Tackett voting against it.

In other action, council had the second reading of an ordinance raising the rate of pay for council members and the mayor. The raise is designed to comply with state regulations which specify city councils and mayors are to receive a set monthly salary. Previously, council members had been paid $3 per meeting, and the mayor $100 per month.

At the first reading, the ordinance specified paying council members $100 per month and the mayor $500 per month. Monday, however, several council members lobbied against the figure set for themselves, saying it was too high, while praising Latta's job performance and arguing for her raise.

Councilwoman Margie Osborne reminded her colleagues they all knew the office didn't pay well when they ran,

Trial of Moore For Auto Death Opened Tuesday

Trial of a McDowell man on a charge of murder, which began yesterday (Tuesday) in Floyd Circuit Court, stems from a January 16 accident in which a car left KY 122 just above McDowell and landed upside-down in Left Beaver Creek.

Basel Ray Moore, 28, of McDowell, who allegedly was the driver of the car, was charged with murder in the death of Timothy Dye, one of his two passengers. Dye, 22, was said by a physician to have drowned.

Prosecutor John Griffith told the jury in opening his case that Moore, Dye, and the other passenger, Robbie Hall, had been "riding around, drinking, and smoking dope most of the day" on the day of the accident. Moore was speeding when he lost control of his 1976 Chevette on a curve and, after the vehicle ended in the creek, his two companions left Dye trapped under the back seat of the car, face down in the water, the prosecutor said.

Hall, of Spewing Camp, testified the three had consumed two fifths of Wild Irish Rose and a gallon-and-a-half of another wine, and that they had smoked marijuana that day. "We were all pretty drunk. We had drank pretty heavy," he said.

stoplights along the U.S. 23 four-lane. This saves them between 15-20 minutes driving time, police estimate. The beefed-up patrols will not affect trucks coming into town on new U.S. 23, turning left onto North Lake Drive and heading toward Paintsville. That section of road is better equipped to handle such traffic, police explain.

Fletcher said the policy change is not designed to deprive truckers of their livelihood but added they need to respect the rights of city residents. "We'll probably start next week," said Fletcher Monday. "And we'll be stopping everything that comes through."

and said simply serving on the council was "an honor."

The rest of the council seemed in agreement that, while they didn't want more money, they felt Latta deserved the raise. An amendment proposed by Bill Callihan allowing the mayor $500 monthly and council members $25 passed with only Osborne voting nay. With Osborne abstaining, the remainder of the council voted to pass the amended ordinance.

Latta thanked the council for their support and said she felt they should receive more money as well. "I think everyone should be compensated," she said. "I continually wonder that city government is the only branch of government where people are expected to volunteer their time."

The continuing saga of cable television controversy continued at the meeting, with William and Jo Cash, of Middle Creek, presenting a petition signed by 629 people served by Consolidated Communications, requesting the city void the company's contract. The Cashes said they had collected the signatures within a three-day period.

Among the problems Cash said he had encountered with Consolidated Communications were a billing mix-up which caused his service to be disconnected. Though he didn't receive a bill, his cable was cut-off and he had to pay $15 to get it reinstalled, he said.

Mayor Latta said the city was still in the process of attempting to void Consolidated Communication's contract. City Attorney Larry Brown said he had witnesses who knew first-hand of several franchise violations by Consolidated, but declined to elaborate. Brown said the matter would be decided in circuit court.

Consolidated Communications regional manager Marty Crawford has said his company will go ahead with a complete system rebuild here, beginning this week, in defiance of the council's vote to void the contract. Crawford said that after the renovation is complete, the company will ask for a raise of about $3 per month. At present, cable systems must request permission to raise their rates from the communities they serve. However, beginning January 1, 1987, deregulation by the federal government will apparently allow them to set rates as they see fit.

In other business, council declined to vote on a proposed zoning change on N. Arnold Avenue, at the present site of Brown's Motor Court. Branham and Baker Coal Company has acquired the property and wants to build a two-story office building there. Though Brown's is a commercial establishment, it was grandfathered in when the neighborhood was zoned R-3. In order for another business to be constructed there now, a zoning variance would be needed.

The city planning and zoning commission voted at its April 7 meeting to deny the change. Council members are considering holding a public hearing before they decide the issue. Such a hearing would be required in the event they decided not to go along with the commission's recommendation.

Council voted unanimously to form a police review board for the purpose of holding hearings on disciplinary action for police officers. The board will consist of the mayor, city administrator and three council members serving in rotating, alphabetical order. Hearings may be requested by the chief of police, mayor or any individual police officer in appeal of a disciplinary action.

Council will meet in special session next Monday at 7 p.m. to discuss the city budget.

Hall testified that Moore was traveling at a speed of between 65 and 70 m.p.h. when the car left the road. "He laid it to it," he said.

After the wreck, he looked for Dye but was unable to find him, Hall said.

Selection of a jury went slowly earlier Tuesday, as the prosecutor and defense attorney Jerry Patton closely questioned potential jurors. One panelist was excused when he said he could not return a murder conviction against Moore if the victim, Dye, had voluntarily ridden with Moore.

Testimony was continuing in the case Tuesday afternoon.

attorneys' representation of their clients can lead them well into the legislative arena.

A classic case is the 1984 "broadform deed" law, which fundamentally altered the balance of power between Kentucky landowners and the owners of coal rights severed under the turn-of-the-century deeds. Traditionally interpreted as giving the coal owners carte blanche to remove the coal as they saw fit, the new law requires the surface owner's permission before coal can be removed by stripmining methods unknown at the time the deed was signed.

Not only was the Kentucky law authored by Rosenberg but ARDF is involved in a class action that will have a distinct bearing on how it is applied—a suit on behalf of several east Kentucky landowners who have won an injunction prohibiting the state Natural Resources Cabinet from issuing stripmine permits where broadform deeds are in dispute.

"I don't doubt this had made some people unhappy with us, but I don't think there is any doubt that this is an issue for low-income landowners," said Rosenberg of the suit. "It would be foolish for us not to represent people in an issue that directly affects them and that the Cabinet is paying no attention to."

Foolish or not, budget cuts and other restrictions imposed by a Reagan administration with little sympathy for poverty programs have severely limited the opportunities for legislative advocacy that were once a major attraction for idealistic young lawyers. With its budget cut from $2.3 million in 1980 to $2.05 million this year and its staff attorneys reduced from 48 to 26 during the same period, the agency finds its resources dwindling even as the low-income population it serves is on the rise.

"Most attorneys who come to the program feel a need to do something about broad inequities in society. The restrictions have limited our ability to do that," said Rosenberg, a veteran of the civil rights struggles of the 1960s. "But most still feel that the law is one place they can help their clients get the same shake as the wealthy and the powerful. This is what has motivated people from the start."

Thirty Years Ago

(April 26, 1956)

A booming international trade has brought to life the Eastern Kentucky coal business, and prospects are that it will keep it alive. David L. Francis, president of the Princess Elkhorn Coal Company, told the Pecco Foreman's Club at a recent meeting. Figures released by Laban Jackson, conservation commissioner, showed that Dewey Lake State Park last year had a net loss of $22,930. M. V. Clark, administrator of the Floyd County Health Department, announced Wednesday that the last series of mass polio clinics to be held in Floyd county have been scheduled for the week of May 7. Next to Pike, Floyd county had the heaviest population loss from migration among the 10 counties of Eastern Kentucky that suffered worst last year for this reason. Married: Miss Shirley Ann Porter, formerly of Drift, and Alfred T. Russell, Jr., of Lexington, March 31 in Jeffersonville, Ind.; Miss Jimmy Pitchford, of Allen county, Kentucky, and Mr. Ronald Hicks, of Allen. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Brown, a daughter, Kathlene Ann, April 12 at Honolulu, Hawaii. There died: Garrett Slone, 70, Monday at his home at Allen; A-3C Philemon Brown, 21, formerly of McDowell, April 18 in a car wreck in Portland, Oregon; Mrs. Rebecca Belcher, 71, of Halo, Monday at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin; Jimmy D. ## Forty Years Ago

(April 25, 1946)

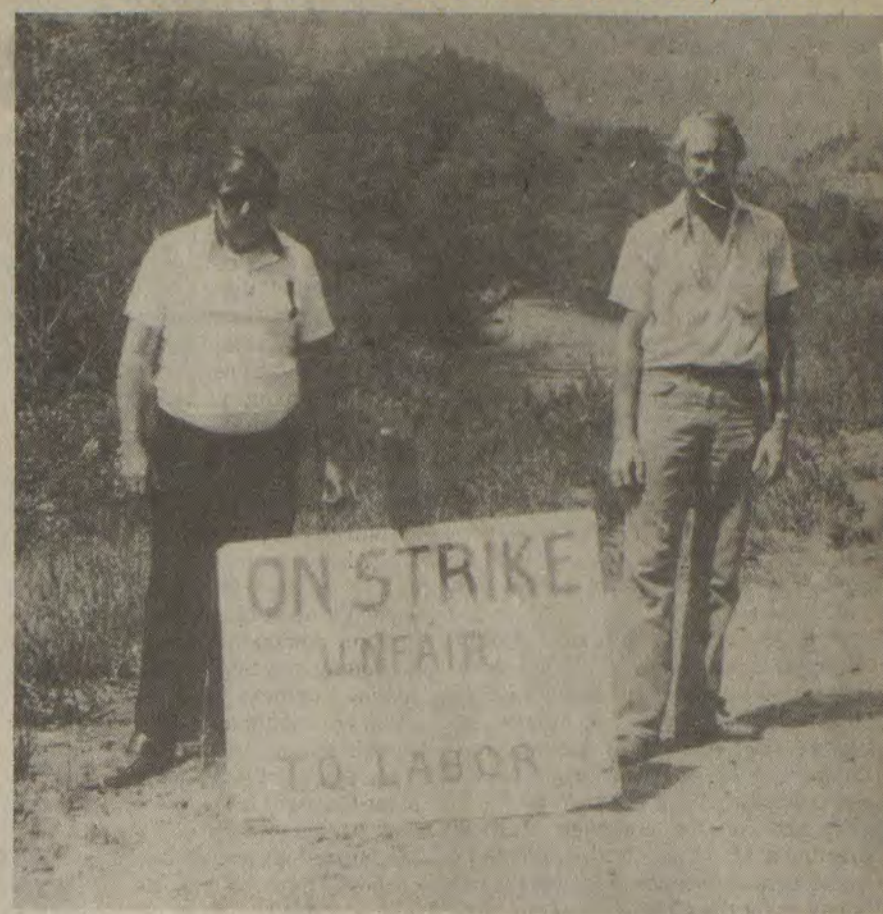

Bus transportation in a 10-county area remained paralyzed this week as negotiations to settle the 10-day-old strike of Kentucky-Virginia Stages employees ended Tuesday in a complete breakdown. Pharoah and Noah Johnson, Wheelwright brothers, Friday were awarded bronze medals and diplomas by the Joseph A. Holmes Safety Association in recognition of their heroism in rescuing another miner. Willard Stanley, when he was trapped under fallen rock in the Inland Steel Company mine at Wheelwright. Floyd county's third bank, The First Guaranty, will open at Martin soon after May 1. Mrs. Oma Ash "Ma" Haywood, 71, of Dwale, was struck and killed by a train last Sunday morning near Dwale. This was the second death in as many Sundays in this county involving C. & O. passenger train No. 36. Striking employees of the Ryan Construction Company at the Dewey Dam returned to work last Friday following negotiations between the firm and the workers' organized labor spokesmen. Married: Miss Betty Herrell, of Waterloo, Ohio, and Mr. Robert L. Spurlock, Prestonsburg, March 30 at Ashland. Born: to County Superintendent and Mrs. Town Hall, a son, Town Hall, Jr., April 23 at the Paintsville General Hospital; to Sgt. and Mrs. Russell Elliott, a daughter, Diana Evelyn, April 17. There died: Mrs. Mima Hughes, 35, of Hippo, at the Gearheart Hospital, Martin, Monday; Mrs. Beatrice Auxier Rice, 49, of East Point, at the Prestonsburg General Hospital, Wednesday; Baxter Wallen, 80, at home on Stone Coal Creek, April 3.

Fifty Years Ago

(April 24, 1936)

Melvin Ousley, of Risner, was shot and killed Sunday afternoon on Alum Lick. Morrow Brown, 22, of Auxier, is in critical condition in a Paintsville hospital as the result of a knife wound in his side received during a fight Saturday night at Auxier. Meetings in the various communities of the county will be held by County Agent S. L. Isbell during this week and next to acquaint farmers with the new soil conservation program. Prestonsburg's police department was directed by the city council at its meeting Tuesday night to put existing traffic ordinances into effect under strict enforcement, with a $5 fine to be meted out to violators. A. C. Scott and E. L. Weems, Greenville, Tennessee, were here this week making preparations for the opening of Mr. Scott's store in the Odd Fellow's building. Jimmy, son of R. T. Allen and Mrs. Cal Allen, received head injuries when struck by a car Wednesday at West Prestonsburg. Married: Miss Elizabeth Butler, of Paintsville, and Mr. J. W. Leake, of Prestonsburg, April 4 at Lowmansville. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. John E. Jenkins, of Glo, a son, Van Ransler Jenkins, April 19 at a Maysville (Ky.) hospital. There died: F. N. "Bud" Tackett, 65, of Fed, former deputy jailer, Thursday at Prestonsburg.

These Steelworkers Are Out, Too

While most of the attention has been given to the four-week-old strike by United Steelworkers against the Appalachian Regional Hospital chain, these lonely pickets, also members of the United Steelworkers of America, have been off the job for 10 weeks. Truck drivers Arville Estep, of Paintsville, left, and Roger Conley, of Lawrence county, were pictured Monday at the entrance to Adams' gravel and concrete plant at Allen. Unionists have also shut down Adams plants in Paintsville and in Pike county. Contract talks were scheduled to resume Tuesday in Shelby. The main issues, according to Estep and Conley, are wages and the use of non-union truckers.

Strike Hopes Dim As Talks Founder Parkway Accident Is Attributed To Flagman's Error

Hopes for an end to the strike between the United Steelworkers and the Appalachian Regional Hospital chain faded quickly Monday, when negotiations broke down about two hours after they resumed.

The hospital chain had proposed that unionists go back to work under their old contract while negotiations continued. The union rejected the proposal and the talks, which had just resumed in Lexington's Howard Johnson Motor Lodge, were suspended.

About 1850 United Steelworkers members, including practical nurses, X-ray, laboratory, pharmacy and respiratory technicians and maintenance personnel, went on strike April 1, after their contract with the hospital system expired.

Like the system's nine other hospitals, the McDowell ARH is being operated by non-union personnel, with reduced patient loads. Some services in two of the system's West Virginia hospitals and one in Virginia will be curtailed, beginning next Monday, as a result of the strike.

Because of the support of non-union staff, no cuts are anticipated at the chain's other hospitals at this time, hospital officials said.

Brandeis Files Suit To Keep Gas Flowing

Attorneys for Brandeis Machinery, Inc. filed suit this week in an effort to force an Ashland woman to keep supplying them with cheap natural gas for their Mare Creek operation.

They cite a 1974 contract by which Gypsy Hughes offered to sell them gas at 95 cents per thousand cubic feet as long as she had it and they needed it.

As of Monday, however, Mrs. Hughes said she would shut the gas off.

Brandeis, which uses the gas to fuel its steam cleaning equipment, will be forced to shut down unless Mrs. Hughes is restrained by court order, company attorneys claim.

The suit, filed Monday in Floyd Circuit Court, gives the address of the Brandeis plant as Allen, the city that authorized the bond issue that helped finance its construction.

(Suits filed in court give only the plaintiffs' version of the issues in dispute.)

Committee Planning Martin Homecoming

The first organizational meeting for the Martin Homecoming was held April 25 at the Allen Park. Attending were Jake Layne, James Dempsey Allen, Charles "Crush" Dingus, William "Bud" Reynolds, III, Nora "Tish" Clark Boyd, Jackie Osborne, Delores Flanery Dingus, Glenda Mayo Frye and Judge John M. Stumbo.

The committee decided to hold the event on August 29, 30 and 31 (Labor Day Weekend) with the theme, "Come Home To Martin." Classes were divided into the following years: 1925 through 1940, 1941 through 1950, 1951 through 1961 and 1962 through 1972. Anyone who has any information to supply, including names, addresses, or telephone numbers, please call any of the following numbers: 285-3988, 285-3028, 285-3298, 285-5020, 377-6011, or 285-9397. If interested in registering now, please send $10 per family to Martin Homecoming, P.O. Box 1176, Martin, Ky. 41649.

The next committee meeting will be held at Veral Frazier's restaurant in Martin, Thursday, May 22, at 6 p.m. All interested Purple Flashers are urged to attend.

"To travel hopefully is a better thing than to arrive, and the true success is to labor." Robert Louis Stevenson

Richmond, Virginia, like Rome, is built on seven hills.

An overcharged shot and confusion over a flagman's signal apparently contributed to a Mountain Parkway accident Thursday that hospitalized two persons, including the founder of the Mud Creek Clinic.

Injured were Eula Hall, of Honaker, a social worker at the clinic she began on Mud Creek 14 years ago, and Larry Newsome, of Beaver, driver of the car in which she was a passenger. Also a passenger, but uninjured, was Isaac Little, of Teaberry. The three were en route to a board meeting in Salyersville of Big Sandy Health Care, Inc., which operates the Mud Creek and Magoffin Clinics.

According to witnesses, the Newsome car was the first in a line of westbound vehicles stopped by a flagman near a construction site on Ivyton hill, about a mile over the Floyd-Magoffin line. A blast was detonated at the site and, according to occupants of the Newsome car, the construction worker who had halted them then signalled them to proceed. His vision obscured by the dust still swirling around the blast site, Newsome hit a pile of rocks that had been blown onto the roadway.

According to state Trooper Jerry Critchlow, who investigated the incident, a spokesman for Harry Holbrook Construction Company, the Salyersville firm which is preparing the site for development, denies its flagman had signalled the motorists to proceed.

Mrs. Hall remained hospitalized at Highlands Regional Medical Center Tuesday, with injuries to her head, neck, back, arm and leg. Newsome, who suffered internal bleeding as well as neck and back injuries, also remained hospitalized here.

Banner Youth Held, Pike Trio Charged

Three Pike county brothers were lodged in jail there Saturday on charges of first-degree unlawful imprisonment in the alleged abduction Friday of a Banner youth.

Eddie R. Clevinger, 29, Wayne L. Clevinger, 31, and Honsel Clevinger, 36, all of Elkhorn City, were arrested on the basis of a warrant sworn out by Mike Conn, 19, of Rice Branch of Prater Creek.

Conn told police he was driving near Banner when he stopped to give assistance to a man lying by the road. As he approached, the man pulled out a knife and two companions appeared, claiming they had sawn-off shotguns concealed under their jackets, Conn said.

The three men forced him to drive them to a trailer in Kimper, Pike county, stealing a few dollars from him on the way, and left him in charge of one of the men, Conn said. He struck the man and made his escape, he said.

Fighting forest fires requires massive support activities such as radio communications, logistics, air and ground transportation and other physical aids. A large fire may require 3,000 to 5,000 firefighters over 2 or 3 days. More important is the prompt rehabilitation work required to protect fire-damaged areas against soil erosion, so they will regreen as soon as possible.

There is some misunderstanding about "prescribed" burning. Prescribed burning can be useful in conversion of brush lands to seeded grass, developing breeding grounds for wildlife species, and fuel reduction projects, such as slash burning. But this is decided only by forest managers. No one else should ever deliberately set fire to the forest. That constitutes arson, a serious crime.

Need New Fuel Sources

In reply to your article appearing in the April 23 issue in which the president of the National Coal Association suggests methods of getting those environmentalists, regulators of the Office of Surface Mining and just plain concerned people like myself, I submit Mr. Bagge is attacking his own conscience with the profit motive that drives an apparent greed. He must be blind if he cannot see the horrendous, atrocious results of the acts credited to the mining industry.

Deaf ears should be turned to the likes of such people who label those of us concerned about better air quality, acid rain, children's health, etc., as "vigilantes, zealots, guerrillas and malcontents." It seems also his position and the fast buck syndrome identified with the coal industry affects his imagination and an apparent paranoia is the result.

A locally grown, superior quality "supper" was on most all tables prior to the onslaught of the industry with its subsequent assortment of supporting businesses who have paved and dangerously polluted the small agriculture areas of our valleys.

Thanks for the coverage of their meeting at May Lodge and exposing the minds behind the operators who are only pawns for the multinational corporations that brainwashes them into "heads" that do not enter the balance sheet of cost/benefit analysis to the environment and health effects which are insidious.

We should all be grateful the former president did legislate restrictions as the old scars of the coal industry are a heinous footnote to the operations existing and compounding at an alarming rate when Carter took office in '77. The present administration with the likes of Watt nearly annulled what Carter began before a public outcry forced him from the office of the Interior.

All truly concerned people should and must guard and meet the coal industry head-on and elect legislators without special interests and contact those who can be identified now in office at all levels of government. The past reflects the unwillingness and inability of the industry to police itself.

One may perhaps at this point prod another condescending response from the oil industry representatives. It's their conglomerates of coal, chemical, and other subsidiaries that do the bulk of environmental damage. What is needed is an alternative, and nuclear power is not the answer. Solar, wind and water power are far superior, non-polluting, renewable and should be diligently pursued by those wanting (as opposed to needing) the current lifestyles necessitating high energy consumption now supplied by fossil fuels. The extraction and use plus the concurrent consequences suffered by all life as a result, if checked now, may allay what appears an imminent ecological disaster.

Well-Earned Rest

It is with sorrow and joyful memories I write to the editor of the Floyd County Times, which is no longer Norman Allen. From the time I learned to read, the Times was a part of my life. Thank you, Norman Allen, for providing a local newspaper for our world.

And thank you personally for printing so many words I sent you beginning with the Letter-to-the-Editor (must have been 1941) concerning vote-buying and selling in Floyd county. I had read a newspaper account (not the Times) about this activity in West Virginia, where vote buying was called "Black Satcheling."

From this I learned the availability of the newspaper. And did I ever bombard the Times during the years I spent teaching at Maytown High School along with my husband and principal, Edwin V. Stewart, at the same raising four children and taking part in the life of the Maytown community.

Norman Allen, you printed column after column, year after year, about book fairs, honor rolls, American Education Weeks, halloween carnivals, 4-H club activities, basketball and other sport events; musical programs, fund-raising dinners, fashion shows, flower shows, reunions, Fish and Game Club activities, homecomings, Bible schools and other church activities. And always the community.

No, I didn't send it all to you, but I want to thank you and the Times again for being there, and accepting all the columns of print I did send to you. Being a school librarian for the last seventeen years of my teaching career, I saw youngsters week after week read the Times until dog-eared when they would not pick up the other newspapers available.

Yes, I know there were unpleasant and painful reporting by the Times, but I always felt that Norman Allen tried to report more about the good side of life in our area, and gave only what was necessary to the bad.

Rest in peace; you earned it.

Coming Home

Enjoyed "Spring Has Sprung" in a recent issue—Articles like that make those of us who live in another state very homesick for the lovely Kentucky mountains. Fortunately, we plan to leave the sun and sand of Pensacola, Fla. in the very near future to spend the remainder of spring, summer, and fall in Floyd county. Our former teacher associates and many friends are invited to visit us at our Ivel home at their convenience. Until then, aloha.

Letters to the Editor

Letters from readers do not necessarily reflect the view of the Floyd County Times. All such letters are subject to editing. Letters should not exceed 350 words in length and all must bear the signature and complete mailing address of the writer.

Interesting Similarities

I have been pouring over some newspaper articles brought back from the library of the Louisville Courier-Journal. These articles go back as far as 1960 and all relate to the activities of James Neel, the president of PyroChem, Inc., a company proposing to build a hazardous waste incinerator in Lawrence County, Kentucky.

It was interesting to discover the similarities in the current tactics employed to promote his plans for a hazardous waste incinerator and the past tactics used to promote his nuclear waste dump at Maxey Flats, Kentucky (a dump now on the Environmental Protection Agency Superfund Clean up list, costing Kentucky taxpayers millions of dollars in what may be a losing effort to contain radioactive leakage.)

Mr. Neel and Howard See (President of the Greater Louisa Industrial Foundation) have repeatedly told the citizens of this State that the construction of the proposed hazardous waste incinerator will attract all kinds of industry to Lawrence County. In 1963, Mr. Neel said, "Maxey Flats was the first step in attracting nuclear industries to Kentucky." Fortunately, Mr. Neel's prophecies did not come true. The nuclear industries in this country and around the world are building up tremendous stockpiles of radioactive waste; still there is no solution as to what to do with it. In 1962, Mr. Neel had all the answers to solve the nuclear waste problem, as he claims to have all the answers today to solve the toxic waste crises.

In 1962, Mr. Neel said, "Maxey Flats would be constantly monitored and tested to insure the area is radiation safe at all times. Such an operation is tightly controlled by the Federal and State agencies." Referring to the type of material that was to be disposed of at Maxey Flats, Neel said, "The radiation level is so low that most of it can be shipped in cardboard or wooden boxes." Today in Lawrence County and around the state, Mr. Neel and Howard See are telling the people that the hazardous waste incinerator they plan to build will be constantly monitored and the people of Lawrence County will be protected by the Environmental Protection Agency and the State. The E.P.A. and the State did not protect the people of Rowan County from Mr. Neel's radioactive waste dump and neither can we depend on them to insure safe operation of this planned hazardous waste incinerator.

It is time for the people to realize that their State and Federal governments have failed miserably in looking out for the health and safety of the citizenry. How long are we going to put up with the promises of protection that are never kept? How long is our government going to represent the interests of the chemical and nuclear industries and the likes of James Neel?

Kind Words From An Old Friend

In the passing of your father, Mr. Norman Allen, our long-time editor, I lost a long-time and great friend, whom I had known since about August, 1923. I don't remember when I first met your mother, the former Miss Alka Dingus, a lady I greatly admire.

I praise the Lord that I had the privilege of knowing Mr. Allen, always a gentleman, then in later years, a Christian Gentleman. Many times I was spiritually uplifted by talking with him. The greatest thing which comes to my mind just now is when he put a notice in the Floyd County Times that he would not accept detrimental or objectionable campaign advertisements on the eve of elections, leaving opposing candidates no recourse to make an answer to objectionable advertising.

I'm happy with your "Bits and Pieces" column, but personally, I would have been happy had it graced the front page, as in "days gone by," but knowing your father and family these many years, I understand.

It would not be in good taste or protocol, to say "Congratulations" under the circumstances, but I do anticipate good things for you, especially as our editor.

Hope your mother continues to improve. My prayers and sincere wishes to you, yours and all the Allen family.

Say Garrett School's Need Is Greatest

We would like to comment on the supposed law that Greg Stumbo has stated he had a big part in writing concerning the list of building priorities in our school district.

According to Mr. Stumbo the list of priorities cannot be changed as of 1985. However, he also stated that there was another law that will allow the list to be changed only to move Garrett to the number four position. We believe that this is the most ridiculous statement that has ever been told by a politician.

According to Mr. Stumbo, if one of the schools in Floyd County was destroyed by a disaster the parents of that particular school would have to keep their children home for an indefinite period of time, because there would be no money to build a new one. We believe that it was Mr. Stumbo's intention to lock in the list of priorities so that the top three schools could not be changed to another position, regardless of the possibility of a disaster affecting another school in the county. However, to go as far as calling it a law is ridiculous.

Nevertheless, nothing would please Mr. Stumbo more if Garrett was moved down on the list of priorities to the number four position. Therefore, he could please all of his voters.

On the other hand, the safety of the children of Garrett, Lackey, Hueysville, and Bosco areas means nothing to him, because there would be no political gain for him in these areas.

Furthermore, if our board member James Duff had placed Prestonsburg on the list of priorities when he was forced to make the motion to move Garrett to the number one position on Feb. 5, 1986, Garrett would be holding the number one position today.

In addition, the structural engineer that inspected the Garrett school Aug. 28, 1985 stated at the hearing, the danger that concerned him was that some damaged joist, flooring or foundation could go undetected, resulting in failure, and that the Garrett school should be number one on the list of top priorities. By making this statement one could conclude that there couldn't possibly be another school in Floyd county in more dangerous conditions than the one at Garrett.

An Outstanding Man

The first 37 years of my life were spent in my native state of Kentucky and the past 40 years in my adopted state of Texas and I feel most fortunate to have been a citizen of these two great states.

The year 1986 is a difficult time for Texans who are suffering a drought, farm problems, surplus office space, bank failures, falling oil prices and our normal allotment of hail, tornadoes and hurricanes, but at least in the traumatic sense Texas may be more fortunate than Kentucky due to Kentucky's loss in 1986 of Mr. Norman Allen. A man of his caliber just does not emerge too often.

Texas will recover in a few years but it may be decades before Kentucky is honored with the equal of this outstanding man, who combined his writing talent with humor and humility. In time, some person will fill his shoes and hopefully it will be a native of eastern Kentucky and preferably a descendant of this great writer.

Halley Visible Two More Weeks

By CHARLES ROBERTSON, Ph. D.
Professor of Physics

Prestonsburg Community College Good news for comet-watchers! Halley's Comet, the most famous of all comets, is still visible. It is not the spectacular object it was in 1910, but at least it isn't fading as fast as some early predictions had indicated. In fact, viewing conditions are quite good now, if clouds don't interfere. So, during the next two weeks, we have our last easy chance to view Halley's Comet.

The comet is now higher in the sky than it was a few weeks ago, so it may be above hills or trees that were hiding it from your viewpoint then. In addition, it rises in the evening and should be visible as soon as the sky is dark in clear weather. Another important factor is the moon; it doesn't rise until the wee hours. However, the moon will be out of the way only until May 13.

Halley is now bright enough to be easily seen through binoculars, even if you have streetlights nearby, so long as they are to one side while you're looking at the comet. Under good conditions, you may be able to see the comet without binoculars, so don't let lack of binoculars keep you from trying.

The key to finding Halley is knowing where to look. Look to the south for a constellation called Corvus. It is readily recognized as four stars that form the corners of a figure that is not quite a square. The two on the right side are closer together than the two on the left. Also, the sides are not exactly vertical.

After you locate Corvus, gauge the distance between the two bottom stars and go twice that distance to the right of Corvus, and slightly upward. You are now looking in the vicinity of the comet, which appears to be a fuzzy ball, in contrast with the pinpoint of light that is a star.

The distance of Halley above the horizon can also be judged as follows. Hold one end of a foot ruler vertically at arms length, with the lower end on a level with your eye. The top end is about the right elevation.

Women's Health Is Conference Topic

Our Lady of the Way Hospital is sponsoring a conference on women's issues and wellness titled "Looking Good! Feeling Good!" Friday, May 2, at May Lodge in Jenny Wiley State Resort Park. McDowell Cancer Network of Hyden, is co-sponsoring the 9:00 a.m.-3:30 p.m. event.

While the conference is approved for six contact hours by the Kentucky Board of Nursing, it is open to any woman interested in learning more about issues they face daily in their busy lives. "This conference will be a unique combination of learning and fun" said Naewana Nickles, R.N., who organized the conference.

One learning session will address issues related to stress, such as coping with loss, single parenting, divorce and death. Selected women's health issues will be examined in another session. Today's nutritional practices and their impact on wellness will be discussed. The session that identifies methods of enhancing one's self-image will include a fashion show that teaches about color and its influence on appearance.

Faculty for the conference include: Linda Linville, M.A., program coordinator of the McDowell Cancer Network; Ruth Cuzzort, dietitian of Paul B. Hall Medical Center, Paintsville, and dietary consultant for Gloria Marshall Fitness Salon; Rose Price, B.S., social worker and color analyst for Beauty for All Seasons; and Pat Tyson, B.S., regional coordinator for the McDowell Cancer Network, Hyden.

Conference fee is $30. To register, contact Naewana Nickles, R.N., at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, 285-5181, Monday through Friday, 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Cancer Hopeline

QUESTION—My mother, who would like to quit smoking, is admittedly very worried about gaining weight in the process. What can I tell her to help dissolve her fears?

ANSWER—Gaining weight is a major concern of many cigarette smokers who plan to quit. But most smokers who quit don't gain weight. As a matter of fact, one third lose weight! These are people who start a general fitness program at the same time that they stop smoking. One third of quitting smokers neither gain nor lose weight. Only one third gain weight. Most of the time, these are people who began eating more to satisfy their oral cravings once they quit.

Keep in mind, too, that giving up cigarettes is far more healthy for a person than adding on a few extra pounds. It would take a gain of more than 75 pounds to offset the health benefits which a normal smoker gains by quitting.

For people who are concerned about gaining weight, these tips may be helpful.

- Start a diet program while you are getting ready to quit smoking.
- Don't set a target date for a holiday when high calorie food and drinks may be too tempting to resist.
- Weigh yourself daily.
- Watch what you eat—plan menus with care and count calories.
- Have low calorie foods on hand for nibbling.
- Getting some daily exercise is often helpful in keeping unwanted weight off. It may also make you feel better about quitting. Be sure to check with your doctor before starting any exercise program.

For more information on how to quit smoking, call the Cancer Information Service at 1-800-4-CANCER and ask for Clearing the Air: A Guide to Quitting Smoking. Or write to the Cancer Information Service, McDowell Cancer Network, 800 Rose Street, Lexington, Ky. 40536. The Cancer Information Service is a program of the Kentucky Community Cancer Program.

QUESTION: How are unproven methods of cancer treatment different from experimental treatments? How can I and others recognize when something is not proven?

ANSWER: The words "experimental" and "unproven" may seem similar in meaning, but there are major differences when they are used to describe cancer treatments. Experimental treatments have a scientific basis for use in the treatment of cancer patients. These methods have been tested on animals and have shown promise for treating cancer in humans. They are also performed under strict scientific standards with specific study plans (protocols). These studies are called clinical trials. They are designed to give unbiased information about which methods work better than others.

The term "unproven method" is used to describe a cancer treatment in which either the substance or the treatment method has not been shown by scientific standards to be effective. For some methods, there is not enough evidence to warrant a clinical trial. Others have been found ineffective in clinical trials.

One way of telling experimental treatments apart from unproven methods is to look at how results of the treatment are reported. Findings from experimental treatments are most often first reported in medical and scientific journals. They may later be seen in newspapers and popular magazines. On the other hand, news of unproven methods tend to appear only in the popular press (i.e., magazines, newspapers, television, radio). They most often rely on first person accounts by patients and do not discuss scientific data.

Some other questions to ask yourself about treatments are:
•Are the major proponents recognized experts in cancer treatment?
•Does the proponent attack the medical/scientific establishment?
•Is there a claim that only specially trained people can get results with the method, or that the preparation is secret?

Using unproven methods may lose precious time and reduce the patient's chance for cure or control of the cancer. Instead, patients who want to know more about experimental forms of treatment can ask their doctors if they can take part in a clinical trial sponsored by the National Cancer Institute or a cancer center.

For more information on experimental treatments or investigational studies call the Cancer Information Service at 1-800-4-CANCER and ask for What Are Clinical Trials All About? Or you can write the Cancer Information Service, McDowell Cancer Network, 800 Rose Street, Lexington, Ky. 40536. For Hiking, Backpacking Kentucky Is Made-To-Order

Spring is a special time in Kentucky's forestlands, and for some visitors, the only way to really enjoy all nature has to offer is to take to the trails. Crisscrossed by more than 1,000 miles of maintained parks, Kentucky is made to order for a hiking trip. Let's take a look at some better-known trails.

The Jenny Wiley Trail in eastern Kentucky winds more than 225 miles through nine counties, taking in scenery ranging from peaceful, flower-strewn meadows to dramatic bluffs overlooking deep gorges. This north-south trail runs from the Ohio River in South Portsmouth, Ky. to Jenny Wiley State Resort Park near Prestonsburg in the eastern Kentucky mountains. Hikers will find a three-sided shelter that sleeps six every 10 miles along the trail, which is maintained by the state Department of Parks.

Also in eastern Kentucky is Sheltoe Trace, a national recreation trail that stretches 254 miles from Morehead in northeastern Kentucky to the Kentucky-Tennessee border. The trace cuts through the huge Daniel Boone National Forest, including the famed Red River Gorge in Powell County, known for its breathtaking scenery and rare fauna.

The south-central portion of Kentucky boasts the Big South Fork National River and Recreation Area, embracing over 100,000 acres of dense forest and dramatic gorges. More than 200 miles of trails are maintained, and camping is allowed at least 300 feet from a trail.

While the average visitor goes to Mammoth Cave National Park to see the fascinating caves, the park also features more than 60 miles of hiking trails. Springtime is an excellent time to visit, as songbirds provide background music and deer scamper through the dense forest.

About 14 miles west of Bardstown in north-central Kentucky is Bernheim Forest, a 10,000-acre wildlife sanctuary that includes day-use hiking trails. Bernheim includes an informative nature center and an arboretum in a picturesque, unspoiled setting.

In western Kentucky, outdoor activities center on the Land Between the Lakes environmental education and recreation area overseen by the Tennessee Valley Authority. This 170,000-acre peninsula is bounded by Kentucky's two largest lakes, Kentucky Lake and Lake Barkley. The TVA maintains more than 200 miles including the 60-mile North-South Trail that runs the length of the peninsula. Don't forget your camera, because photo opportunities range from a herd of bison (honestly!) to vast lakes that, in late spring, will likely showcase colorful sailboats.

The Kentucky state park system, widely considered the nation's finest, maintains more than 117 miles of day-use trails at 25 parks. Some parks even have naturalists who conduct regular nature walks to interpret local flora and fauna for visitors.

Natural Bridge State Resort park even sponsors escorted backpacking weekends several times a year. The park's naturalist shows participants the basics of camping, points out natural features along the park trails, and generally introduces them to the pleasures of hiking and camping in the winds. Call the park at (606) 663-2214 for information.

The Department of Parks is a good source for hiking information. Contact the department's recreation division, 10th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

McDowell Man Still Missing

A long search for Donnie Mac Stumbo still continues through family efforts. April 26 marked four years Mr. Stumbo has been missing. Mr. Stumbo was living at Allen at the time of his disappearance.

The Bronco in which Mr. Stumbo was driving was recovered from the Lexington, Ky. Airport three months after his disappearance. Inside were personal items, and the keys were in the ignition, while doors were locked.

Arizona police reported picking up Mr. Stumbo hitchhiking. No call came from Mr. Stumbo to his family at this time as has been rumored. A private detective flew to Arizona but could not get a positive identification by showing pictures of the missing man.

Many prayers throughout the state and nation have been said on behalf of Mr. Stumbo and his family's efforts. The family would like to thank each Christian for those prayers.

Mr. Stumbo is now 52 years of age and was last known to weigh approximately 180 pounds, being five feet, eight inches in height, with brown hair and brown eyes and wearing glasses. If any person feels they have seen him or has any hope of information, please contact his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Buck Stumbo, HC 80, Box 280, Wayland, Ky. 41666, (606) 358-9580 (call collect).

Spring Means Thoughts About Christmas—Six Years Hence

As the weather warms and the world turns green, as shorts and short-sleeves are seen once again, Deborah Hill begins to think about Christmas.

Hill is not one of the world's earliest Christmas shoppers. She is a forester. And she believes a small-scale Christmas tree farm might be the best present many Kentucky farmers could give themselves this, or any other year. And Spring is the time to plant a tree farm.

"Currently, most Kentucky Christmas trees are imported, primarily from Michigan and North Carolina. Wholesale prices for those trees averaged $16 in 1983, probably more in 1984 and '85. That leaves room for profit for Kentucky farmers," said Hill, an Extension forestry specialist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Christmas trees shipped into Kentucky are cut and bundled before Thanksgiving, many of them well before Thanksgiving. That means much of their freshness is lost by the time they reach Kentucky homes.

"Kentucky-grown trees should appeal to Kentuckians over imported trees through lower costs associated with lower transportation expenses, and through increased freshness which means families will be able to enjoy their Christmas trees longer," Hill said.

Despite the charming prospect, Christmas tree farming is not an ideal enterprise for everyone. The establishment of a Christmas tree farm requires some investment in land, equipment and labor, and a willingness to wait five to eight years before any returns on the investment begin to appear.

"There's a bit more to it than just sticking the seedlings in the ground and sitting back and waiting until the trees are ready to harvest. Weed control and mowing are continuously necessary from the beginning, and the trees must be shared periodically beginning in the third year to give them the proper shape," Hill said.

Kentucky producers who can make those commitments are very likely to develop a profitable enterprise, although nothing in agriculture or forestry is guaranteed.

"Predictions about the Christmas tree market are inexact. While there is certainly room for increased local production of trees, future prices will depend on the number of growers who enter the market, the quality of the trees they produce, the rate of market expansion, and action by out-of-state growers," Hill said.

Bob Daniels, a forester in Mississippi where the push for farmers to consider Christmas tree farming has been underway for several years, said local growers have an advantage that out-of-state growers will have difficulty in overcoming.

"The added freshness is a plus, but the real advantage, obviously, is price. Local growers can make a profit selling choose-and-cut trees at $17 to $19 a tree. That's how much the out-of-state growers have to get from the person who then turns around and tries to sell the tree to you for $35 to $50," Daniels said.

Daniels said the National Christmas Tree Association is currently developing an advertising campaign called "Operation Real Tree" intended to increase the use of real trees.

"A lot of environmentally sensitive people shifted away from real trees in recent years, but those people should remember that artificial trees are made of plastics and metal, and those are non-renewable resources. Real trees are a crop, just like corn or wheat, and we can grow more as we need them. That's not the case with the materials that go into an artificial tree," Daniels said.

Farmers interested in looking into a Christmas tree undertaking may wish to attend a meeting of the Kentucky Christmas Tree Growers' Association May 17 at the Mt. Zion Baptist Church in Mt. Zion (Grant County). The meeting will include several demonstrations and discussions. It will begin at 9 a.m. and is expected to last until mid-afternoon.

Hill and others will be on hand to discuss planning a Christmas tree plantation and to demonstrate planting, pruning and shearing Christmas trees. There also will be a tour of an established Christmas tree plantation.

Those not able to attend the Mt. Zion meeting may want to watch for announcements of meetings scheduled for June in Webster, Garrard and Bell counties. If those meetings too are out of the question, more information about Christmas tree farming can be obtained from any county Extension office.

Right cut and perm give body for bouncy summer makeover

When Leigh Ann came to my shop, her hair was limp and fine and wouldn't hold a set. A pretty style would fall flat in just a few hours.

Leigh Ann needed a body-coaxing cut but wanted hair long enough for fun summer ribbons and ponytails.

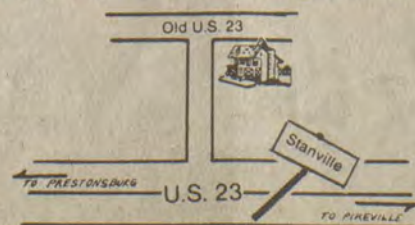

I trimmed her hair all over and layered softly around her face. Then we gave her a body perm to make a good look last. Her hair is naturally blonde, but delicate and fine, so we chose a gentle perm for damaged or color-treated hair.

The result? Soft, silky hair with long-lasting body for a young and carefree summer.

At Haircuts by Holly, we want you to like the way you look. So we're happy that Leigh Ann loves her bouncy new style.

New Bill Should Benefit Deaf, Hearing-Impaired

Kentucky Commission on the Deaf and Hearing Impaired Executive Director, William Rogers has announced the passage of House Bill 404, a law that will significantly benefit the deaf and hearing impaired population of Kentucky.

Rogers stated that this law will require a separate certificate, with several simple questions answered by the mother or family, of every newborn infant accompany the birth certificate when it is filed. The new certificates, called High Risk Certificates, will then be handled by the Commission on Handicapped Children.

Based on responses to the questions on the certificates, infants with a higher than normal risk for hearing impairment will be placed in a High Risk Register. The Commission on Handicapped Children will then contact those families to assist them with testing for their infants and provide them with information about services.

Rogers stated that it is estimated that as many as 1,000 infants are born in Kentucky yearly with some degree of hearing impairment and many are not currently identified until the age of three or older.

Speaking on the need for this bill, Kathy Daniel, Director of the Louisville Deaf Oral School and a strong advocate of preschool programs, stated: "I am encouraged that this bill will do a great deal to increase public awareness about hearing impairment and its consequences to young children. Hopefully we will be able to reach many deaf infants who would not have been identified until much later. This is critical because intervention should happen as soon as possible."

Ms. Daniel also chairs the Education Committee of the Commission on the Deaf and Hearing Impaired.

Food Stamp Benefits Increased Slightly

An estimated 148,000 Kentucky households will begin receiving a slight increase in food stamp benefits as of May 1 due to federal changes in how food stamp allocations are determined.

The new guidelines will be implemented by the Kentucky Department for Social Insurance. The modifications in the food stamp program are part of the Food Security Act of 1985, signed into law last December by President Reagan.

Approximately 179,000 Kentucky households currently receive $21,033,257 in food stamp coupons monthly. The new rules are expected to boost those benefits by more than $2.6 million in Kentucky annually.

Social Insurance Deputy Commissioner Mike Robinson said the higher food stamp benefits result from new calculations on household income used in determining eligibility and benefit allocations.

"The most significant changes relate to deductions from household income for dependent care and shelter costs," he said. "The former standard allowed for a maximum monthly deduction of $139 for housing costs and expenses for care of dependent family members. The new guidelines allow deductions of up to $147 each month for care of elderly or disabled family members or up to $160 for child care expenses, such as baby-sitting."

"There is still no limit to the monthly deduction for housing expenses when the family includes someone who is elderly or disabled. All other households receive credit for up to $147 a month in housing expenses."

Robinson said food stamp clients will not have to make special trips to local Department for Social Insurance offices in order to receive their increased coupon benefits. "We have already entered the new income standards in the food stamp computer system," he said. "Recipients should begin seeing the higher monthly allocations as of May 1."

WATCH FOR THE OPENING OF OUR NEW OFFICE IN PRESTONSBURG.

JACKIE EDFORD OWENS MAGISTRATE, DISTRICT 2

Last week's Floyd County Times made it sound like to me that when I was urging the Fiscal Court to buy the Caterpillar loader that I was wanting them to buy a CAT because my brother worked for Whayne Supply and because I had worked there 10 years ago.

Now I will tell you some of the questions I asked both salesmen at the Fiscal Court meeting (before the bids were awarded) that the Floyd County Times didn't tell you about.

These are some of the reasons I voted for Caterpillar—the higher priced machine:

- 1) When I asked the KMI salesman to give me a rough estimate of the parts KMI had in stock, he told me around $100,000 to $200,000. I asked the CAT salesman the same question and he told me around $32,000,000 worth of parts IN STOCK.
- 2) I asked both the CAT and KMI salesmen about their motor, transmission, power-train warranty. Both of these warranties were nearly the same.
- 3) I asked the KMI salesman about parts availability. He said that if they didn't have them, they would order them. I asked the CAT salesman the same question. He told me that with their new program—PARTS PLUS—that if they ordered a part and didn't receive the part within 48 hours, that no matter how large the piece was, it would be FREE and furthermore, if our loader was down for more than 48 hours they would furnish us a loader to use—FREE OF CHARGE—until our loader was repaired. I asked KMI if they could match this and they said no.
- 4) I asked the number of field service men in trucks that KMI had on the road and he said 5 or 6. I asked the CAT salesman the same question. He told me around 147 field service men in radio-dispatched trucks.

I also told the KMI salesman about the time I came to KMI to get oil filters for a machine that they had sold for a price of nearly a quarter of a million dollars. They didn't even have the oil filters for it. After waiting 3 days, I went to a nearby truck parts store and picked up the oil filter.

People, the reason I asked these questions of each salesman is because I have seen equipment at the County Garage sit for weeks waiting on parts to fix it. That's why it's important to buy equipment that you can get parts for. Another thing the Floyd County Times reporter didn't state was that ALL the Whayne Supply Stores—Ashland, Bowling Green, Corbin, Evansville, Lexington, Paducah, and Pikeville—are tied in with computers. If you order a piece for something that is broke down by 4 o'clock in the evening, no matter which one of the stores it is at, you will have the piece the next morning at opening time. All of these stores run a truck to Lexington EVERY NIGHT. They exchange parts and return back to each store before opening time.

As far as my brother working for Whayne Supply—He is one of the 147 field diesel mechanics who has worked for Whayne Supply for approximately 11 years and if the county bought a Caterpillar loader from Whayne Supply, my brother wouldn't get "Diddy Squat." The paper said I later acknowledged that I once worked for Whayne Supply. They made this sound like it was a secret. I stated this several times in my campaign ads (in the Floyd County Times) when I ran for Magistrate—not to count both of my TV shows—I stressed this heavily. I worked for Whayne Supply as a field diesel mechanic 10 years ago. It didn't matter which piece of machinery we bought, none of the magistrates get anything out of it anyway.

Another reason I was for CAT—at one time every magistrate had a dozer for each district. Out of four (4) dozers, two (2) were CAT and two (2) were not. Now we only have two (2) dozers to divide among four (4) districts. The other two are in the junk yard. Guess which two are running. That's right—the two Caterpillars. If they had all four been Caterpillars, we each might still have a dozer to work the roads with.

As far as the difference in the bids with KMI and Caterpillar—the Caterpillar was equipped with bucket teeth, rock guards, and lights. The KMI didn't include any of these on it.

The last reason—I asked the KMI salesman where their machine was assembled at. He told me Italy. I asked the CAT salesman where their machine was assembled at and he told me that their machine was assembled in Peoria, Illinois.

People, if we're going to keep AMERICAN people working, at times we're going to have to buy AMERICAN products.

Our Lady of the Way Hospital honored its volunteers with a luncheon at May Lodge in Jenny Wiley State Resort Park April 23.

Following lunch, Sister Ann Koebel, director of volunteers, told the volunteers that she had gifts and certificates for them. "The gift is small in comparison to what you've given," said Sister Ann. "...Since August, we've together given over one thousand hours."

Gifts were presented to Melissa Hancock, Sister Anne Eden, Linda Holbrook, Lisa Hutchinson and Louise West by Sister Ann and Sister Monica Justinger, Our Lady of the Way Hospital's administrator. Volunteers Anna Mae Spencer and Bessie Stumbo were unable to attend the celebration.

At the conclusion of the presentation, Sister Monica told the volunteers, "We appreciate you very much. Your time and effort help make Our Lady of the Way the special place it is."

Volunteers aid Our Lady of the Way Hospital according to their talents and hospital needs. Present volunteers have helped on the nursing floor, in departments such as materials management, medical records, pharmacy and pastoral care, and in the gift shop.

ITEMS NOT TAXABLE

There are several sources of receipts which are not taxable on your federal tax return. A few of the more common ones mistakenly reported by taxpayers as income are presented here:

- Gifts and inheritances. If these were subject to tax, they should have been fully taxed before you received your portion.
- Child support. Child support is distinguished from alimony which is taxable.
- Awards for personal injury. The personal injury portion is non-taxable, but money received as punitive damages is taxable.
- Dividends received on life insurance policies which are not yet paid up.
- Gain on the sale of a personal residence by taxpayers age 55 and older.
- Gain on the sale of your personal residence if replaced within certain time and money limits.
- Life insurance proceeds.
- Death benefits of up to $5,000 received from an employer on the death of an employee.
- Benefits paid to you under workman's compensation for an industrial accident.
- Interest you receive on state and municipal bonds.
- Money you borrow or the principal portion of money repaid to you which you previously loaned out.
- Income tax refunds to the extent not previously taken as a tax deduction.

If you have questions, seek professional assistance. Remember you can amend your federal income tax return for three prior years to regain any excess taxes you may have paid.

Workshop To Be Held At HRMC

Highlands Regional Medical Center will be the site for a regional workshop about "Understanding, Counseling, and Coping with Dying Patients." Sponsored by Morehead's Department of Nursing and Allied Health Services, it will be held May 1. Registration begins at 8:30. The classes run from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The workshop will explore current perspectives on death, death's impersonal aspects, techniques for counseling patients and their families, the nurse/patient relationship and the effect the care-givers attitudes on death may have for the patient.

The faculty will include Dr. William J. Weikel, MSU professor of education and American Mental Health Counselors Association's Counselor/Educator of the Year; Ellie Reser, registered nurse and associate chaplain at St. Claire Medical Center; Geri Hall, regional coordinator of the McDowell Cancer Network; and Pauline Ramey, MSU's coordinator of continuing education for nursing and allied health sciences.

The series of workshops is partially funded by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services through the Public Health Services. Participants will earn MSU-approved continuing education units and six contact hours approved by the Kentucky Nursing Board.

The workshop is approved by the Kentucky Board of Nursing for the continuing education of registered and licensed practical nurses. Nursing, counseling, and social work students are encouraged to attend. Ministers, social workers, counselors, and hospital administrators are welcome.

A small registration fee will be charged. Additional information or registration forms may be obtained by calling Ramey at (606) 789-2635 or you may register at the door.

Arson Charged At Det. Center

Two youths have been charged with arson in connection with a fire last Wednesday evening at the county juvenile detention center here.

The boys, aged 16 and 17, are both from Magoffin county. It is believed one of the suspects used a cigarette lighter, presumably obtained from a visitor, to ignite an assortment of clothing, sheets, pillows and mattresses.

At the time of the fire, there were seven boys and one girl lodged at the center. The boys were transferred to the women's section of the county jail, which was unoccupied, while the girl was taken to the Johnson county detention center. All were returned to the center after one night and day.

Though the fire was contained less than five minutes after firefighters arrived, officials estimate it took more than 2 1/2 hours to clear the facility of smoke. As that section of the building has no windows, the smoke had to be force-ventilated with fans.

Both boys also face charges of arson stemming from a similar fire last summer at the center.

City building inspector Paul Chaffins said the potential for tragedy was great. "It could have been very bad," he said. "The smoke got so thick the fluorescent lights wouldn't even penetrate it. And it's the smoke that kills you, unless you're right in the fire."

STUMBO PARK NEWS

By OSCAR RICE

Data from the Bureau of Labor Statistics indicate that between 1980 and 1984 the number of self-employed women in nonagricultural industries rose 22 percent, according to "From Homemaking to Entrepreneurship: A Readiness Training Program," published by the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Women-owned nonfarm sole proprietorships numbered 2.6 million in 1982, or 26.2 percent of all nonfarm sole proprietorships; they generated $41.7 billion in receipts and $5.2 billion in net income, according to "From Homemaking to Entrepreneurship: A Readiness Training Program" published by the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Prestonsburg opened this week with three victories at the Henry Stumbo Memorial Park field. Two were over Allen Central—10-6 and 14-4—and the third was a hotly contested 11-10 win over Betsy Layne.

Betsy Layne lost their first game of the season to Virgie Monday against 10 wins. The loss to Prestonsburg dropped them to 10-2. Prestonsburg's hardhitting club is now 10-4.

Saturday's radio game of the week saw Nathan Shelton, of Allen Central, victimized by five consecutive errors by team members. The little lefty only allowed four earned runs in the 10-6 defeat.

Sunday was supposed to be an off day for me, but a trip to Hazard to watch my nephew, Danny Ray Rice, pitch for Alice Lloyd College turned into work, as one umpire didn't show and I had to work both games of their double-header with Clinch Valley College, of Wise, Va. Danny had no-hit the Cavaliers of Clinch Valley two weeks ago, but had to settle for an 11-6 win this time around. This win, with the 14-0 shut-out in the first game, sent Alice Lloyd to 15 and 17 on the year, with two games with Asbury College remaining.

Bill Melton, admissions director, and Coach Stepp feel they are a player or two from competing seriously for the NAIA championship and hope Floyd county will supply some players for their championship run next season.

While confirming the dates for our district tournament, Melton said they will be in attendance, recruiting the Floyd county talent.

This week, Betsy Layne plays Mullins Monday at 4:30; Johnson county, Wednesday at 4:30; Virgie, Thursday at 4:30; McDowell, Friday at 4:30, and in the game-of-the-week on radio Saturday, they take on the Shelton Clark Cardinals.

The tentative date for our first Sunday evening gospel sing is May 18. Please call Chester Pack at 886-9181 or 886-8073 for information on the Floyd County Gospel Singing Association.

KET To Have Second Channel By Satellite

Governor Martha Layne Collins signed into law on April 10th an 1987-88 biennial budget which includes provisions to construct a second channel and telecommunications center complex for KET.

The second channel will comprise an uplink located at the Network Center in Lexington plus approximately 1,500 downlinks which will be located at every public school building in the Commonwealth and at universities, libraries, and other public buildings. This will double KET's programming capability, open much of the daytime broadcast hours to adult and continuing education, offer the opportunity for statewide training through teleconferencing, and pose other potential services which are now being explored.

The telecommunications center complex to support the second channel will be located immediately adjacent to the KET Network Center in Lexington and will contain approximately 56,000 square feet.

According to O. Leonard Press, KET executive director, "If the second channel does nothing but increase GED enrollment, which it will and substantially so, it will more than pay for itself."

The budget bill signed by Governor Collins provided funds also for a new roof for the Network Center, an expanded GED program, full-time operation of the network 365 days a year starting in 1987, and, for all agencies in the state, restoration of 5% increments for state workers plus, starting in 1987, limited funds for merit increases.

August 2, 1785—The Frigate Alliance, 36 guns, the last of a valiant, makeshift Revolutionary War Navy, is sold by a penniless, powerless Continental Congress. The Continental Navy's squadron and cruisers took nearly 200 British vessels as prizes during the war. After nearly nine long years of humiliation on the high seas a new Congress, empowered by a new Constitution, took the vital step of funding six new frigates—one appropriately named USS Constitution—thereby adding muscle to the American image. The Daughters of the American Revolution have always supported the federal government in a strong defense policy.

Recent attention to prevention of osteoporosis may leave the impression that calcium is a new discovery! The truth is, generations have been told to drink their milk to protect their bones. What is more recent is dependence on pills rather than food for good nutrition. Food is still the best source of nutrition, nutrients as nature intended them!

4-H Day Camp To Be Held June 23-27

The Floyd County 4-H Clubs will participate in the Summer Food Service for Children at the Day Camp.

Fair to good catches of crappie, rockfish/white bass hybrids, walleye, largemouth bass and bluegill were reported during the April 26-27 period covered by this report. The lake-by-lake rundown is as follows:

WEST: Crappie were being taken on tube jigs at Kentucky Lake and Lake Barkley over shallow stump beds and brush piles in 3-7 feet of water. Bass were being caught on spinnerbaits and plastic worms cast across shallow rocky points. At Lake Barkley, anglers should be on the lookout for floating debris.

BARREN: Clear, rising slowly, 10 feet below summer pool, 68 degrees.

NOLIN: Clear, stable, 3 feet below summer pool, 70 degrees.

ROUGH RIVER: Clear, stable, 11 feet below summer pool, 65 degrees.

CENTRAL: At Taylorsville Lake, bass were being taken on crankbaits, and plastic worms over shallow banks and wooded inlets in about 5 feet of water. At Herrington Lake, rockfish/white bass hybrids were being caught by trolling crankbait and spinner or jig combinations in the lower lake, bass by casting crankbaits over rocky points. At Green River Lake, bass were being taken on topwater lures fished across rocky banks, crappie on minnows and jigs over drop offs. At Lake Cumberland, walleye were being caught on crankbaits and nightcrawlers fished over rocky points and steep banks, bass on buzzbaits, plastic worms, and floating imitation minnow lures twitched over brushpiles. At Dale Hollow Lake, bass were hitting crankbaits over brush piles on shallow banks, and catfish on trotlines baited with minnows set along submerged creek channels.

TAYLORSVILLE: Murky to clear, rising at summer pool, 65 degrees.

At Paintsville Lake, bluegill were being caught on red worms still fished over mud flats, rainbow trout on wax worms off rocky points in 20 feet of water. At Laurel River Lake, bluegill were being taken by still fishing worms and crickets over brush piles and stumps from 6 feet to the surface, and crappie on jigs over flooded treetops in 8 to 15 feet of water. At Buckhorn Lake, crappie and white bass were being taken in the headwater tributaries of the lake by casting jigs and still fishing with minnows. ## Fleming Is Finalist For PC Scholarships

Pikeville College will award two scholarships to finalists in the Eastern Kentucky Academic Conference competition during the 1985-86 year. The scholarships will provide up to $1,400 tuition and fees, and a free room ($850 value) for recipients who plan to live in a Pikeville College dormitory.

Selection was based on the following criteria: ACT composite, GPA, rank in senior class, rank in EKAC competition, need, and extracurricular activities. Members of the Pikeville College EKAC scholarship selection committee consisted of members of the EKAC governing board, and the Pikeville College Director of Financial Aid.

One of the finalists is William K. Fleming, a senior at Prestonsburg High School. Fleming is a member of the school chorus, Beta Club, and National Honor Society. He has also been chosen as a Governor's Scholar. His intended major at Pikeville College is chemistry, which he plans to use in the field of pharmacy. Fleming resides with Bill and Juanita Boatwright in Prestonsburg.

Others are Connie J. Harrison, a senior at Feds Creek High School; Lori L. Howard, a 1986 graduate of Feds Creek High School, and Bryan Scott Loudermelt, a Belfry High School senior.

In addition to being considered for the Pikeville College EKAC scholarship, all four finalists are in contention for other scholarships at the College. The final selection will be announced during the EKAC Awards Banquet today (Wednesday) at Pikeville High School.

Meade Signs With PC

Pikeville College Bears' Coach Greg White has added a Floyd name to the growing roster for the 1986-87 basketball season. This time the signee is Brett Meade, a 6'7", 1986 graduate of Betsy Layne High School. According to White, "He has tremendous leaping ability and has been a winner his entire career. He comes from a great coach in Junior Newsome, who has done a great job with Brett."

High school stats for the 29-4 Bobcats' star are 18.5 points scored per game, 11 rebounds and 5 assists per game.

In addition to being a fine basketball player, Meade is a good student, sporting a 3.5 grade point average.

Coach White feels Meade will see "plenty of action his freshman year. He will have to be a little more perimeter-minded in College, but I'm sure he will make any adjustments we ask." Concludes White, "He impressed us this entire season and I'm looking forward to working with him."

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albon Meade, of Betsy Layne.

Jeffrey Tambor: An original lead in an original series

By Constance Pace

Jeffrey Tambor is not your typical male sitcom lead: He's balding, heavily bearded, intellectual — and extremely unpretentious.

Jeffrey Tambor

His character, college professor Paul Stark, a.k.a. "Mr. Sunshine," is "acerbic, witty, quite brilliant — and blind," says Tambor.

Tambor, heretofore seen as a character actor in many episodic television shows and movies, both toupeed and sans toupee, says he took on the unusual role because, "When I first read the script I absolutely marveled at how innovative and new it was! I mean there's no doubt that he's blind. But the show just didn't seem to weigh 400 million pounds. I thought the man and his dilemma would be a great challenge. And after doing 11 episodes, I have to say it's certainly the most difficult work I've ever done — but also the most enjoyable."

He carefully prepared for the role by taking classes at the Braille Institute. "I had to immerse myself as an actor in an area I knew nothing about. I had to learn everything about being blind, and it was a wonderful journey. The first day at the Institute, I was so nervous I almost jumped out of my skin. I was overly reverential. I was overly polite. I watched every word. I wasn't even a person."

Tambor says a teacher there taught him what was most important about dealing with blindness. "Betty Clark came into a room. She was vibrant. There was a person in the room. That's what you have to always remember. Our show is about the person first, rather than about the fact that he's unsighted."

Tambor sincerely shrugs off a question about finally becoming a lead after a career full of supporting roles. "I really haven't thought about this before," he says. "To me every role is a character role." Among the character roles the San Francisco native has played in the past are Judge Wachtel in a succession of "Hill Street Blues" episodes and Jeffrey P. Brookes III on "The Ropers." He has also had roles in the movies "And Justice for All" and "Mr. Mom."

Offscreen, he's a voracious reader who favors Anne Tyler ("I'm mad about her novels") and spends a lot of time with his daughter Molly, 11. "My character's a divorced father and so am I. I can definitely relate!"

Twin Tin in his clip debut

By Barton Weiss

During their last tour, The Thompson Twins added a new member, Twin Tin. He's a robot who moves around the stage and sort of lip syncs along with the band. So when the Thompson Twins did a concert video for "Revolution," they gave the singer with a tin ear a few closeups.

Thompson Twins

Twin Tin lip syncs every bit as well as any other band member (expect him to appear in future videos as well and maybe even grow some hair so he, too, can have a cute haircut), but it's not as if the boys need the help. They are as lively as ever here, doing a cover of the Beatles classic.

WAR GAMES — Sly Fox, a newcomer to the video scene, has come up with a showy clip called "Let's Go All the Way." It uses strobic effects (rapidly alternating black-and-white backgrounds), old movies, negative images and other visual candy to pump the clip up.

But the power comes from two kids, both accomplished scene stealers, who almost look like members of the band. They play with toys, then war toys, and finally dress as soldiers.

The end of the clip is the capper. The little ones pick up their final toy, a giant globe, and walk off with it. Need we say more?

MIRACLE TIME — Mike and the Mechanics' new video, "All I Need Is a Miracle" (starring Genesis' Mike Rutherford), starts off with the band, in a mostly empty nightclub (and getting meek response at that), finishing "Can You Hear Me," which was, of course, their first hit. Meanwhile, their manager, for some reason or other, has to find a way to raise some quick cash, or the band will lose its instruments.

Surprise, surprise, a miracle does happen. Everyone gets paid, and the crowd even starts to like the band. Now that's a real miracle.

STARRY EYED — In his new clip for the Simple Minds, "All the Things She Said," director Zbigniew Rybczynski creates a visual rhythm by repeating, to the beat of the music, images of the performer on whom the camera is keyed.

In the background, there's a field of stars, which gives the clip a mystical feel. Still, it's hardly Rybczynski's best clip.

HOME-VIDEO FRONT — Fans of the Clash will be pleased to note that "Video Clash" is finally available. It includes such major Clash hits as "Should I Stay or Should I Go," "Radio Clash," "London's Calling," "Train in Vain" and "The Call Up." Unfortunately, the sound quality is uneven. Some of the tracks are great, but a few are unacceptable by today's standards.

FALCON CREST

Jeff Wainright (Edward Albert) penetrates the security surrounding Maggie, imprisons her in his cabin in the hills, and reads her the grim last chapter of his novel in which she figures, on "Falcon Crest," airing FRIDAY, MAY 9 on CBS.

Soap Beat

Jed Allan is now spending his days in 'Santa Barbara'

By Nancy M. Reichardt

When Jed Allan was scripted out of his role as Don Craig on NBC's "Days of Our Lives" after 12 years, his fans were afraid they would never see their favorite actor on a soap again. Not so. The multi-talented actor is now portraying business tycoon C.C. Capwell on "Santa Barbara," another NBC soap.

Jed Allan

"After I left 'Days,' I began watching a lot of daytime television," says Allan, who took over the role of C.C. "I really got hooked on 'Santa Barbara,' so I've had a big advantage coming into the show and knowing so much of the story. It makes it easier to learn the pages of dialogue I get handed each day.

"I can't personally relate to C.C.," Allan adds, "but I can understand what motivates him — power and position. I'm making changes in the character, though. He's more mellow. He's not the heavy that he was originally."

When Allan took on the role, C.C. was recovering from a stroke that had put him in a coma. He had also escaped death at the hands of his wife, Gina, who tried to murder him.

"The character is multifaceted," says Allan. "He's not particularly villainous, but he's still quite different from Don Craig."

Allan, who was born in Brooklyn, N.Y., has been acting since he was in his early 20s. He has appeared on Broadway in productions of "Oliver" and "Barefoot in the Park," was seen in the film "Ice Station Zebra," and was a series regular on "Lassie" from 1968 through 1970. He also appeared on two defunct daytime soaps, "The Secret Storm" and "Love of Life."

"I've done stage, television and film roles," says Allan, "but if I had to pick a favorite role, it would be that of Howard Hill in 'The Music Man.'"

Allan and his wife, Toby, live in a beach house that was once occupied by Clark Gable and Carole Lombard. They have three sons — Rick, Dean and Mitch (Dylan Ross on the CBS soap "Capitol"). Mitch, obviously, is following in his dad's footsteps.

Kentucky's Queens...

The Lady's Slippers

Did you receive an orchid for Easter? Long ago it was believed that the roots of orchids possessed aphrodisiac properties. (Maybe that's why men still give orchids to their sweethearts!) The orchid family, with an estimated 20,000 species, is the royal family of plants. As we place man at the top of the animal kingdom, so orchids are at the top of the plant kingdom.

Do we have orchids here in Kentucky? Certainly! We have more than two dozen different kinds, the showiest and most spectacular of which are the lady's slippers. Lady's slippers, also called moccasin flowers, have a sweet, sometimes spicy fragrance and a bottom lip enlarged into a colorful, one- to three-inch, hollow, inflated pouch or "slipper." To either side of the pouch are flat or twisted petals with a similar looking sepal above. In Kentucky, lady's slippers bloom in late April through mid-June.

The most common of Kentucky's six varieties is the pink lady's slipper found in the forests of the Cumberland Plateau. It occasionally occurs in dense colonies of thousands of plants carpeting the forest floor with exotic pink blossoms. The small white lady's slipper is a prairie species that thrives in direct sunlight and, in Kentucky, is found only in natural prairie-like openings called cedar glades. This lady's slipper was

Vaccinating Cats Against Leukemia

M.R. VARIA, D.V.M.
Martin Animal Hospital

Unknown until the last two decades, feline leukemia virus (FeLV) infection is now regarded as a leading cause of pet cat death. Cats persistently infected with FeLV rarely live more than three years, and most die of associated diseases before cancer develops.

Leukemia, a blood cell cancer, is only one of many outcomes of infection with FeLV. Another cancer, lymphosarcoma, is a more common FeLV disease, can occur in almost any tissue or organ, and is eventually fatal. As FeLV impairs a cat's immune system, many "associated diseases" are observed. Cats infected with FeLV have limited ability to resist other infections. They develop frequent colds, stomach problems, skin and mouth sores and anemia. Also reproductive failures, such as abortion or birth of weak and dying kittens, are observed.

Intimate contact between infected cats and susceptible cats is necessary for transmission of FeLV. After gaining entry, the virus multiplies in lymph nodes of the head and neck and in tonsils. Cats that do not mount an adequate immune response become persistently infected, and the virus spreads to the bone-marrow, various tissues and organs.

As the disease is complex, signs and symptoms are also variable. Frequently the affected cat undergoes a chronic wasting disease marked by anemia, lethargy and anorexia.

Recently a number of simple blood tests have been developed that will tell us whether a cat is exposed to FeLV infection. When a cat is healthy looking but positive for FeLV infection, there is a 40 percent chance it will reject the virus and recover from infection. About 30 percent of the cats are incapable of rejecting the virus and they may develop a persistent infection leading to the disease. Another 30 percent of cats neither reject the virus nor develop persistent infection. They are called "latent carriers". They rarely develop the disease but become a continuous source of infection for other cats.

While cats that test positive for FeLV does not necessarily develop disease, a negative FeLV test is not a guarantee that the cat won't become infected. A negative test simply means that for the time being the cat is not actively infected. Future exposure to FeLV could still result in infection and disease.

There is no conclusive scientific evidence linking FeLV with cancer or other diseases in humans. However FeLV research workers and other public health officials believe the safest policy at this time is strict isolation of any cat diagnosed as FeLV infected.

Only bright hope for this deadly disease is that a prevention is possible. This prevention of FeLV infection is by vaccination. This vaccine is known as "leukocell." Vaccinating a cat with "leukocell" should be part of regular preventive vaccination of your cat.

We're glad you asked! John C. Hall Founder Hall Funeral Home HOW DO I MAKE A CONDOLENCE CALL? To express your sympathies and console the bereaved, here are some logical "do's and don'ts" which may help you and the bereaved. 1. If you're not really sure whether you should make the call or not, then do it. The family is bound to appreciate it. 2. Remember, the purpose of the call is to express sympathy and offer assistance. Don't make it a long "social" event. 3. Make the visit short—unless the bereaved ask you to stay. 4. Dress neatly, tastefully; not necessarily in mourner's black. 5. If the bereaved wish to talk, fine. Be a good listener! 6. A simple "I'm sorry about (the deceased)" is appropriate along with a firm handshake or brief embrace. 7. Leave after offering to help or doing what you've been asked to do. 8. Call back in a few days; the family will appreciate your thoughtfulness. We welcome your questions and comments—privately or publicly through this column. HALL FUNERAL HOME Near Junction of Ky. 80 and Ky. 122, Martin Phones 285-9261 OR 285-9662

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Christian Appalachian Project will participate in the federally funded Summer Food Service Program for Children. The program operates under guidelines similar to those of public school food service programs. Taking part in this program enables the sponsors to hold down costs so that most families can afford to send their children to camp.

The program is available to all children 17 years of age and younger. All children will be served the same meals at no separate charge regardless of race, color, national origin, age, sex, or handicap and there is no discrimination in the food service. If you feel you or any individual has been discriminated against in the Summer Food Service Program, write to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

For more information on the camping program, contact Donna Turner, Camp Director, at 285-5111.

The following scale is the current family-size and income criteria used in determining eligibility of children at camp sites.

Family Size	Free Meals	Reduced Price Meals
1	$6,825	$9,713
2	9,165	13,043
3	11,505	16,373
4	13,845	19,703
5	16,185	23,033
6	18,525	26,363
7	20,865	29,693
8	23,205	33,023

For each additional family member, add 2,340 3,330

NUMB ARMS, LEGS Warning Signals

There may be misalignment of vertebrae in the spine causing pressure on nerves, yet the patient experiences no pain in the back. Instead, a variety of sensations may be felt in other parts of the body. These include tingling, tightness, hot spots, cold spots, crawling sensations, electric shock sensations, stinging, burning, and others.

The following nine symptoms involving back pain or strange sensations are often the forerunners of more serious conditions. Any one of these may spell back trouble:

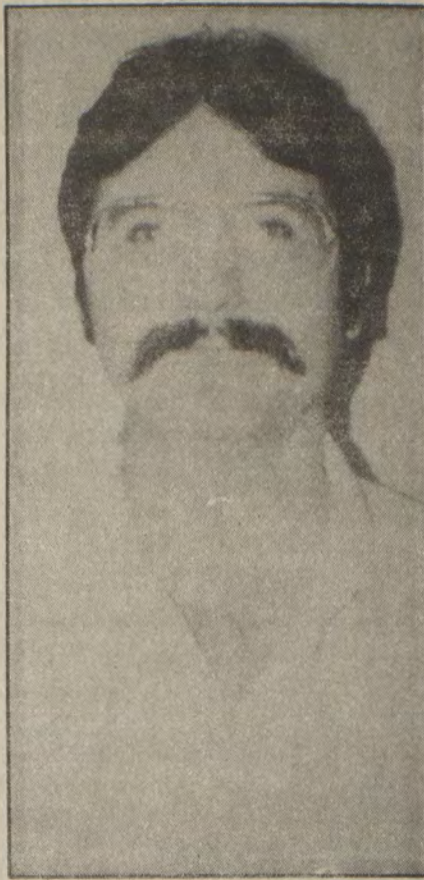

- (1) Paresthesias (see above) (2) Headaches (3) Painful joints (4) Numbness in the arms or hands (5) Loss of sleep (6) Stiffness in the neck (7) Pain between the shoulders (8) Stiffness or pain in lower back (9) Numbness or pain in the legs.

These signals may indicate your body is being robbed of normal nerve function. Until this function is restored, you will, in some degree, be incapacitated. The longer you wait to seek help, the worse the condition will likely become. Don't wait! Should you experience any of these warning signals...call for in-depth consultation in Layman's terms.

CHILD FIND PROGRAM

Food City and Pepsi-Cola have kicked off a super child find program, "Protect The New Generation." This child find program has been talked about throughout Floyd County. Many opinions have been expressed, but friends, just opinions and talk won't help find a lost child—a precious treasure.

Prestonsburg Chief of Police Stan Fletcher and the local police department are joining forces with us on Saturday, May 10th, at the Glen View Plaza, where we will be working with many schools in the area and parents who are urged to bring their children to the center to get their picture taken and to be fingerprinted. Every parent interested in protecting your child, come bring your child to the Glen View Plaza, and we will photograph and fingerprint your child.

Come and have fun with us, May 10th. And remember you're helping to protect your precious treasure—"YOUR CHILD!"

Nat'l Guard Exceeds Easter Seal Goal

The Kentucky Army National Guard broke all their old records by collecting $128,081.99 for disabled children and adults served by the Kentucky Easter Seal Society. Guard units throughout the state were at major traffic points April 5 and 6 accepting contributions from the public on behalf of the Easter Seal Society. This was the 15th anniversary of this annual Guard project.

Major General Billy G. Wellman, Adjutant General of the Kentucky Army National Guard, was pleased to have the Guard exceed their goal. Based on projections from Battalion Commanders, General Wellman had pledged a goal of $100,000 on the Easter Seal Telethon in March. Guion Miller, Executive Director of the Kentucky Easter Seal Society stated, "We're so pleased at the Guard's accomplishment this year. This marks the highest amount they have ever collected."

"Volunteers from units all across the state donated their time for two days last week-end (April 5 & 6) and their efforts really paid off," Mr. Miller continued. "The funds raised by the men and women of the Kentucky Army National Guard will help us continue our rehabilitation programs for disabled children and adults throughout Kentucky."

Locally, volunteers from Co B, 206th Engr Bn collected $741.02 in Floyd county.

According to National Wildlife Magazine, it was an argument over the speed of a golden plover, a hunted game bird, that led to the birth of the Guinness Book of World Records more than 30 years ago. Among the sportsmen engaged in the argument was Sir Hugh Beaver, then the managing director of Guinness Breweries. Since then, the book has been responsible for sparking the eating of the biggest tree by a human (an 11-foot birch), the most prolonged kiss (417 hours) and the most non-stop leap-frogging (108,463 leaps covering 602 miles).

Parks Offer Phone Device for Deaf

The Kentucky Department of Parks has installed a telecommunication device for the deaf (TDD) on its nationwide toll free number, 1-800-255-PARK, Tourism Secretary G. Wendell Combs announced.

There are 33,000 Kentucky citizens identified as needing a TDD to communicate by phone. Those individuals with access to a TDD will now be independently able to get information about and make reservations at state parks.

Statistics at the Commission of the Deaf and Hearing Impaired in Frankfort show that how to get reservations at Kentucky State Resort Parks is one of the most frequent requests to the commission.

"We are pleased the department is now able to accommodate a large segment of our population in this manner," says Parks Commissioner June Hudson. "We believe it will result in more use of our entire park system."

Variables of Structure And Depth Changes

By TREY FOERSTER

Being able to see "structure" and differentiate it in a weed or grass line is a lot different than finding a stump on a small lake that sticks out like a sore thumb. Although structure is only one element to consider in establishing a fishing pattern, in itself, structure is worthy of detailed study.

One of the best structure experts on the pro fishing circuit is Randy Fite, two-time winner of the Lone Star circuit and member of the Johnson Outboards Pro Staff.

"Structure is anything that disrupts the bottom," explains Fite. "One tree coming up from a flat bottom would be a form of structure. Another form of structure would be a bottom that's running along flat and all of a sudden drops down or rises. And fish will relate to either one."

"A weedline is structure," Fite continues, "but the entire weedline is not a relevant structure. What the bass fisherman should really be looking for is an aspect of the structure that's a little different. For example, if you have a completely straight weedline that suddenly makes a corner or a dip, the corner or dip in the weedline is what I would probably want to fish first."

How do the pros go about fishing a lake from scratch? What are their techniques to discover not only the lake's structure but the best eventual fishing pattern?

"To establish a fishing pattern, this is the way I would start out on a new lake," instructs Jerry Rhyne, one of the better spinnerbait fishermen in the country and Johnson Outboards Pro Staff member. "Before launching the boat, I look at a map and I pick a particular area in the lake that I decide I want to fish that day. I consider the season and the light conditions to determine whether the fish are likely to be up shallow or down deep."

"Then I start studying the visual structure—wood, rocks, grass, and so on. If I'm going down a shoreline and I see three or four pieces of wood, I fish all those places from zero depth to seven or eight feet. If I don't catch a fish, then I begin to think the bass aren't going to associate themselves with wood. So I begin to look for a harder structure like rock, maybe indentations in a rock cliff or boulders. And I start fishing that. If that still doesn't work, I'll start looking for grasses."

"Usually one of those structures is going to hold some fish. If I find the fish alongside the wood, I'll most often find them in grasses, too. If I find the fish near rock, it's unlikely I'll find them near wood or grass."

It's very important to keep in mind that structure just isn't something showing above the surface; it can be on the lake bottom, as well.

"Depth changes are sort of like the interstate system: some spots are real busy and some aren't," explains Randy Fite. "The first true depth change (is) from zero to five feet. You might find the first (bass) in a foot of water but the next one in five; they're basically on the same type pattern. If you've got a little lip, a little edge, or a bench in the first five feet of water, you really want to explore that."

"Then probably your next step is around the 8- to 10-foot mark. Naturally, any little quick drop such as a rock point that drops off from eight to 10 to 12 feet of water will hold fish. Normally, the fish will be in a particular area of those drops, such as at the point of the drop-off or an indentation of it."

"Just a straight, true-line drop won't attract fish. There's got to be some structure down there for them to get on: a brush pile on a ledge, a stump pile, or just a single stump and root structure coming out of that stump."

Fite specifies three factors to keep in mind about depth changes: time of the season, water temperature and water clarity.

"Those three factors are probably the most significant in determining how deep the fish are going to be in any lake at any given time," he said.

OMC recently introduced a new, more powerful version of its OMC Tracker 2000 fishfinder, available at Evinrude® and Johnson® outboard dealers. The new model has five times more power output and improved reception sensitivity, OMC says. The OMC Tracker 2000 features an LCD display that marks the surface, the bottom, and any fish between, and an easy-to-read digital readout of the depth. OMC also offers a variety of transducer options for the OMC Tracker 2000.

Electrical Fires Can Be Reduced When Common Hazards Removed

Consumers can reduce chances of a home electrical fire by making informal inspections of their living quarters to eliminate commonplace hazards that often lead to household electric fires.

According to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, there are some 192,500 home fires of electrical origin each year which claim 1,000 lives and cause 10,700 injuries. Annual property damage from these fires is estimated at $1.1 billion. Electrocutions kill another 500 Americans in and around the home each year.

May has been designated Electrical Safety Awareness Month, and CPSC is encouraging consumers to eliminate the common electrical hazards in the house. For this purpose, the government agency has developed an electrical safety checklist telling consumers how to conduct a room-by-room inspection and how to reduce the hazards.

Consumers may obtain a free copy of the electrical safety checklist in English or Spanish by calling the agency's toll-free hotline at 800-638-2772, or by writing Electrical Safety, Washington, D.C. 20207. A free slow-play disc of the English checklist is also available for the blind.

HOUSEHOLD HAZARDS

The major sources of household electrical fires identified by CPSC were ranges and ovens, household wiring, clothes dryer, appliance and extension cords, ranges and ovens, and portable electric heaters. Electrocutions most often involved household wiring, electric power tools, ladders and antennas.

PRODUCTS THAT SHOCK

CPSC said several precautions could be taken by consumers to reduce electrocution hazards around the house.

Noting that many electrocutions and major electric shock and burn injuries are caused by products which previously shocked someone in the home, the agency said that any electrical product which gives the slightest shock should be removed from use and immediately taken to an electrical repair or appliance shop for inspection. Only after the fault has been corrected and the hazard eliminated should the product be used again.

CPSC said the installation of ground fault circuit interrupters (GFCI's) in circuit-breaker panel boxes or duplex electrical outlets offer the best protection against electrocutions and shock injuries in the home. The National Electrical Code calls for the installation of GFCI's in bathrooms, garages and outdoor circuits of newly constructed homes. However, older homes and some newer homes lack this protection. CPSC also recommends GFCI protection for kitchen countertop circuits and basement outlets.

Safety experts said the GFCI monitors electricity flowing in a circuit to "sense" any loss of current to ground, and then switches off the power quickly if current is escaping from the circuit. A typical scenario as cited by the safety agency was as follows:

If an electric appliance fell into a sink filled with water, even if the switch were turned off, the consumer could be electrocuted if he or she instinctively reached into the sink to remove the appliance. If a GFCI has been installed to protect the outlet, the power would have been shut off before serious harm came to the consumer; the individual might receive a painful shock, but would not be electrocuted.

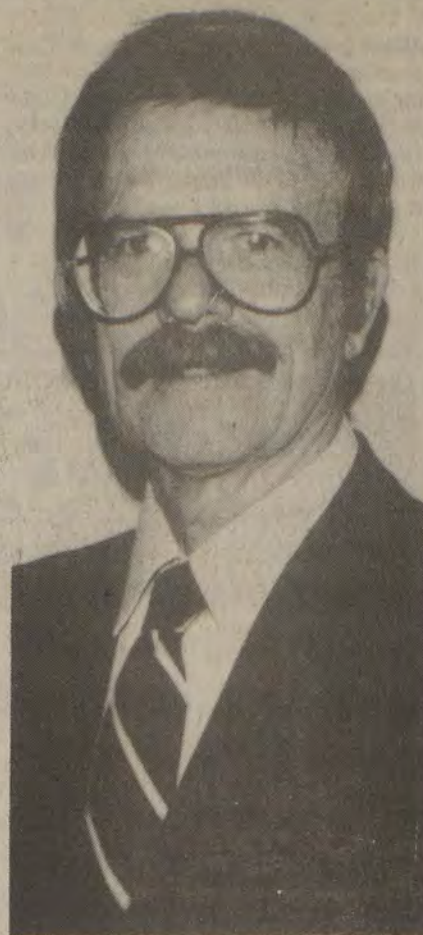

CPSC said all homes can be equipped with GFCI's to protect consumers against electrocution and burns. GFCI's are available for installation in circuit-breaker panel boxes and duplex wall outlets and as a portable power source to be used with electric tools or other equipment, and in the form of attachment plugs.

Vet Counselor Here

Jack D. Clark, field veterans benefit counselor of the Kentucky Center for Veterans Affairs will be in Prestonsburg, on May 7, at the National Guard Armory, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The counselor will be there to assist veterans, their families, dependents, or beneficiaries in the presentation, proof, and establishment of all claims, privileges, rights and other benefits which they may have under federal, state, or local laws. The service is free.

Retirement Announced

James Wicker, of Chicago, Illinois has announced his retirement after 25 years with Plochman, Inc., where he served as vice president and general manager.

Mr. Wicker, a former resident of this area, attended the Hindman Settlement School and Morehead State University. He was recently commissioned a Kentucky Colonel.

He is the son of the late Kelly Wicker and grandson of the late John Bud Wicker.

Mr. and Mrs. Wicker will move to their new home in Crossville, Tennessee.

In 1965, the same year a chemist created the artificial sweetener NutraSweet, another scientist discovered a natural substance which is the world's sweetest known compound. The seeds of the plant he found in the rain forests of West Africa are—molecule for molecule—100,000 times sweeter than sugar and, on a weight basis, 3,500 times sweeter. International Wildlife magazine reports that the plant, known as katemfe, is being harvested along the Ivory Coast for sale abroad.

You may not know it, but flying squirrels could be visiting your backyard bird feeder. According to National Wildlife magazine, if you have mature leaf-bearing trees on your property, chances are good that squirrels which look like they're flying have been by at night. How can you tell? At dusk, turn on an outdoor light that's just bright enough for you to see the feeder... and check the feeder for visitors about once an hour.

PCC Summer Camp Plans Under Way

Prestonsburg Community College, Office of Community Services/Continuing Education is now accepting job applications for Summer Camp employment. The college is looking for talented people who can work with young people between the ages of six and thirteen years. Applications are available in the Community Services Office.

For those who are unfamiliar with the program, the first summer camp was begun in 1978 for the purpose of giving our youth some creative opportunities during the summer months including social, cultural and physical activities which they were not getting elsewhere. It also was initiated to give parents a safe place to take their children. The camp will meet at Archer Park in three, two-week sessions beginning June 23 and continue through August 1.

The college will be looking for people who can teach and conduct various activities in arts & crafts, sports, Science and Nature, language, dance and other creative activities. Those interested in applying may call 886-3863, ext. 215. The deadline for applications is Thursday, May 1.

Mrs. Barbara Williams, of Prestonsburg, will be the summer camp supervisor. Mrs. Williams teaches in the Garrett school and has taught in our summer camp.

A Legislative Prospective

With Majority Floor Leader Gregory D. Stumbo
Kentucky House of Representatives
Summarizing this session of the Kentucky General Assembly could be symbolized by referring to this session as the results of the care and feeding of the Legislature.

For some years now, the interim committee system has worked hard to ease the crunch of legislation that appears during a legislative session. By studying those issues sure to come before the General Assembly, a great deal of the confusion and lack of knowledge on specific issues is eliminated.

In addition to the efficiency of the committee system, it should also be noted that this session was the first to operate with the so-called Kenton Amendment fully in place. First term lawmakers now have the opportunity to experience a full year of interim work before being faced with the hectic pace of a legislative session. I believe that the interim committee system and the Kenton Amendment have combined to make this a truly professional Legislature. I'm proud to be a part of the leadership in the House of Representatives during the General Assembly that I feel confident will be recognized for its efficiency and knowledge of the issues.

Very briefly I will examine the high points of the session in the limited space that I have. Many of our achievements were landmarks—from education to better roads to the pressing needs of the prison correction system and economic development.

Members of this session saw the most efficient and speedy passage of the state budget. Increased revenue brought on by economic growth enabled us to fully fund the education reforms we passed in last summer's special session. I am pleased to report that the budget contains available funds to replace some of our old outdated school buildings here in Floyd county. It allowed us to significantly boost funding for our state universities. I am very pleased to report that our community college here in Prestonsburg is earmarked to receive a new building—one that we need desperately.

All in all, the $13.4 billion budget is a sound, progressive one that will address many pressing needs. But, it is conservative in that it doesn't spend every cent we anticipate raising. In fact, a $50-million-a-year cushion is built into the budget to allow for unanticipated emergencies or shortfalls.

The General Assembly approved a constitutional amendment to appear on the ballot for voters to decide whether the state superintendent of public instruction should be an appointive rather than an elective position. Under the proposed amendment, the Governor would appoint the 13 members of the state Board of Education, and the Board itself would then appoint the superintendent. Seven of the Board appointees would be selected regionally, one from each of the state's Supreme Court districts. The other six would represent the state at large. All of the Governor's appointments would be subject to review and consent by the Senate.

We made several major changes in road taxes. House Bill 126 replaced the difficult to enforce weight-distance tax on heavy trucks using our state highways with an annual sticker fee based on mileage driven in the state. The revenue from the sticker fee would be used for rural, secondary and urban road maintenance and repair. This bill also had a section to include a gasoline tax increase that could amount to as much as a nickel a gallon if gas prices continue to fall. Twenty-five percent of the total revenue collected from the gasoline tax is specifically earmarked for return to local county governments for rural secondary road repair.

Also included in the Transportation Cabinet budget was enough money to fund the Mountain Parkway Rest Area—a project East Kentucky legislators have been working for some time. The facility should be ready for use by 1987.

Other major pieces of legislation include:

*Senate Bill 29 will once again establish a presidential primary in Kentucky. It will be held earlier than in the past in order that Kentucky can join with several other southern states to hold a regional so-called "Super Tuesday" concept primary on the second Tuesday in March.

*House Bill 76 allows jurors to know the criminal history and parole possibilities for defendants prior to sentencing.

*Coal truckers will be able to run overweight legally under provisions of a measure state Rep. Clayton Little, of Pike County and I sponsored.

*The budget includes $44 million for a new medium-security prison near West Liberty in Eastern Kentucky and $3.7 million for a new dormitory at the Kentucky State Reformatory near LaGrange.

*Legislation was also approved creating a bond pooling system for coal operators who voluntarily request membership. The bond pool is designed so that an operator's contribution to the fund would be stopped when the pool fund reaches $7 million. Until the $7 million level is reached, members of the bond pooling system would pay eight cents a ton if the operator is deep mining. Only if the bond pool funding levels fall to less than $5 million would the coal operator start paying a tonnage contribution again.

Legislative committee meetings start again this summer. I encourage the readers in the 95th Legislative District to involve themselves in the committee system. It is the most direct way to influence legislation considered by the General Assembly.

If a passenger took a 35-mile bus trip from Steubenville, Ohio, to Moundsville, W. Va., and set his watch to local time at each stop, he would have had to reset it seven times.

Bad Branch Is Added To Wild Rivers System

Bad Branch, a tributary of the Poor Fork of the Cumberland River in Letcher county, was designated by the 1986 General Assembly as part of the Kentucky Wild Rivers system.

The system was created by state law in 1972. With Bad Branch, the system now includes portions of nine rivers and covers 114 stream miles.

Bad Branch, four miles of stream located approximately five miles southeast of Whitesburg, is a boulder-strewn stream descending from the top of Pine Mountain through a hemlock gorge rimmed by 100-foot sandstone cliffs. A spectacular 60-foot waterfall and a dramatic view across the gorge to the distant slopes of Big Black Mountain provide breathtaking scenery. Although it is not navigable because of the rapids and low flow at certain times of the year, Bad Branch offers excellent opportunities for hiking, birdwatching, scientific study and aesthetic enjoyment.

Bad Branch is home for 16 species of plants and animals considered to be endangered or threatened—a greater concentration of rare species than is found anywhere else in the state. Arrow darter, a fish found only in Kentucky, lives in Bad Branch. The tall cliffs are the only place in Kentucky where the endangered Northern raven nests. The moist cliffs harbor an unusual variety of small mammals, including the long-tailed shrew and pygmy shrew. Rare plants, such as painted trillium, Fraser's sedge and matricary grape fern, grow on the lush forest slopes.

Only free-flowing, unpolluted streams like Bad Branch with undeveloped shorelines are designated as Wild Rivers. Although an occasional road, house or farm field is permissible under the specific designation, the view from the stream must remain natural.

Because of their clean waters and high quality habitat conditions, the Wild Rivers provide a home for many species of fish and mussels, like Bad Branch's arrow darter, that can't survive in even moderately polluted streams. Wild Rivers support healthy fisheries and have some of the best trout and muskellunge populations in the state. The lady's slipper orchid, shining lady's tresses orchid, cumberland rosemary and monkshood are among the beautiful and rare plants that grow undisturbed by the banks of Kentucky's Wild Rivers.

The boundaries of a Wild River include all visible land within 2,000 feet of the stream. Within these boundaries, new land developments are controlled to protect the stream environment. Some kinds of development, such as surface mining, dam construction and clear-cutting timber, are prohibited.

The state Wild Rivers system was established in 1972 to preserve outstanding examples of Kentucky's river heritage. Five streams were initially included in the system and three were added in 1974.

The system includes 26,000 acres of land. Besides Bad Branch, other designated Wild Rivers are the Red, Rockcastle, Cumberland, Big South Fork, and Little South Fork of the Cumberland, Rock Creek, Martin's Fork and Green River. The system is managed by the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet.

The Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet encourages visitors to the Wild Rivers and each river offers many recreational opportunities. Seven of the streams flow through public lands, including the Daniel Boone National Forest, Mammoth Cave National Park, Cumberland Falls State Park and the Big South Fork National River and Recreation Area. These public lands provide access for boating, hunting, fishing, horseback riding and hiking.

Public access to the Wild Rivers, other than through public lands, depends on land ownership. While it is permissible to launch a boat from a road shoulder or bridge crossing outside of public use areas, parking facilities are not generally available and the use of private land requires the permission of the landowner. On the Red, Rockcastle and Cumberland Rivers, local commercial guide and shuttle services take visitors to the river areas.

EKU Music Camp In 51st Session

Eastern Kentucky University will host the 1986 edition of the Stephen Collins Foster Music Camp this summer beginning in mid-June.

The summer camp, divided into four sections, provides intense musical training for several hundred young musicians from across Kentucky and the region. University officials said.

"Last year, of course, was our fiftieth anniversary celebration of the Foster Camp," said Dr. Robert Hartwell, director of bands at EKU and director of the Foster Camps.

"As with all of the 50 camps that have gone before, we plan to provide instruction that will benefit high school bands and music programs across the state," he said.

"The idea behind the camp when it was founded back in the mid-1930s,—and still today—is that young musicians would come here to EKU, learn as much as they could in one to two weeks, and return to their home bands as better musicians. The benefit of the camp would then spread to the hometown music programs."

EKU's Foster Music Camps are the oldest continuous summer music camps in the state and one of the oldest in the nation, Hartwell said.

The four camping options are: The Foster Piano Camp, June 15-20; the Foster Middle School Instrumental Camp, June 15-20; the Foster High School Instrumental Camp, June 22-July 5, and the Foster Vocal Camp, June 28-July 5.

For more information, contact Dr. Robert Hartwell, Foster 101, EKU, Richmond, Ky. 40475, or call (606) 622-3161.
