Goble Is Victim at His Home As Dispute Ends in Tragedy

The life of one of Prestonsburg's best-known figures ended in tragedy Thursday, when Daniel "Dan" Goble was felled by a single bullet in the chest.

Goble, 66, was shot in the course of a domestic dispute in his Graham Street home, around 9:30 a.m. He died within minutes of the shot, said Floyd Coroner Roger Nelson.

His wife Pauline, 64 and ill with cancer, was later arrested and charged with murder. Freed after posting a $10,000 property bond, she is scheduled for arraignment in Floyd District Court on Jan. 5.

Generations of moviegoers here knew Goble as the little, balding man who sold and collected tickets at the Strand, took care of any rowdiness during the movie, barked out from the aisle the coming attractions and, when the show was over, closed the place up.

He ended up as theater manager in a business he entered about 57 years ago when he sold popcorn at night, first in the old Abigail Theater, later at the Strand.

Hearing Is Set Jan. 5 As Wife Is Free on Bond

For much of his life, however, the cinema was but a sideline for the man who was known as "the shoeshine boy" well into his adult years. When he dropped out of school in the third grade—he was nine when County Judge Walk Stumbo officially exempted him from any more formal schooling so he could help support his family—Goble had already been shining shoes for three years.

For 20 years he operated a shoeshine stand in Tom Moore's barber shop—it stood where the municipal parking lot is now—and did a brisk business among judges and attorneys at the old courthouse nearby.

Depending on whether he backed the successful candidate for governor, he sometimes had state highway and park jobs. There were a couple of years in Michigan during the war, when he helped build bombers, worked a lot of overtime, and saved every penny he could.

He came back to Prestonsburg, Goble would boast, with $1,000 sewn into the lining of his jacket. It was a story he enjoyed telling. Raised in poverty, he liked to say, he learned to make his own way.

But if he boasted—this little-schooled man, who could write not much more than his name and never did learn to read—it was that he had provided a decent education for his six children, four of whom went on to college and one of (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

District Court Will Hear Suit Against RECC

A Spurlock Creek woman has a right to bring before a jury her grievance against a power company, District Judge Harold Stumbo ruled last week.

An attorney representing Big Sandy Rural Electric Cooperative Corp. had asked the court to dismiss a complaint filed by Debra Gambill, arguing that the issue should first be adjudicated by the state Public Service Commission.

But Mrs. Gambill's attorney, citing a 1983 Kentucky Court of Appeals ruling, argued successfully that the district court was the proper forum to air her grievance. Trial was set for Dec. 29.

In arguing for dismissal, William G. Francis said Gambill had not been wronged when the RECC disconnected the power to her Conley Fork home on July 29. Moreover, if there were a problem with her service, she should take it up with the PSC, he said.

But Gambill disputed the bill: said that, in any event, the power company told her she had until July 30 to pay it; and insisted that, when she tried to pay in on July 29, the utility company refused to take the money.

Her suit, filed by attorney Ned Pillersdorf, asks that she be credited the $250 she claims she was overcharged after the RECC changed her meter on April 1; that she be paid $100 (See Story No. 6, Page 4)

BUSY SHOPPERS IN THE DOWNTOWN Prestonsburg area were reminded by this Salvation Army worker to give to those less fortunate whose holiday may not be so merry and bright.

Tradition of Old Christmas To Be Observed at May Lodge

It will be a joyous time, a time of merriment, singing and square-dancing, a time to get out the fiddles and banjos, a time for children and story telling. It's a tradition. It's old Christmas in Prestonsburg.

The observance of Old Christmas began here in the thirties during the Depression. It was the idea of Edith James, a pianist and vocalist who, as an Appalachian artist, had the annual job of organizing a Christmas party.

Unable to organize it one Christmas on account of illness, she simply postponed the festivity a few days, celebrating Old Christmas instead—an observance she had heard stories about as a girl.

Old Christmas commemorates the 12th day of Christmas or the Epiphany, the day when the three wise men are said to have brought gifts to the baby Jesus in Bethlehem.

In an effort to keep alive the rich traditions and customs of the early Appalachian settlers, who celebrated Christmas on the twelfth day with music, dance, and tales, Mrs. James hosted the party every year in her house or at someone's else's. "We started in homes, had a party, and invited neighbors; it grew and grew until it eventually moved to the lodge," Mrs. James said.

Old Christmas this year will be celebrated January 4 from 2-5 p.m. in May Lodge at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park. Hot gingerbread, hot cider, and spiced tea will be served. It's free and open to the public.

"12 Days of Christmas" and old English carols will be sung by a boys choir from Prestonsburg Elementary School. There will be a clogging duet by Dannette Flannery and Misty Daniels. Piano songs will be played by David Leslie and Gospel songs will be sung by Bobby Cole from Salyersville. The Hillbilly Square Dancers from Elkhorn City will perform, and Clarence Henson, a caller of mountain dances from Stanton, will be there, along with Dave Sizemore and the Festival String Band.

What started out as a local yearly celebration now has grown in popularity and attracts people from as far away as Minnesota and Iowa. "While many people from the Prestonsburg area attend, more every year have come from outside," said Kathryn Frazier, a retired music teacher, who took over for Mrs. James and was the coordinator for Old Christmas until this year.

What is unique about the occasion is its naturalness and lack of formality. People of all ages attend and you don't have to dress up. "In the old days people worked hard and their times of fun

W'wright Mining Cites Its Reclamation Record

Despite two recent citations for polluting Beaver Creek, any suggestion that Wheelwright Mining Company is careless of the environment is unfounded and unfair, company officials insisted last week.

"We're not monsters, we're responsible people, and we try to run our business in a responsible manner," said Wheelwright Mining Vice-President Charles Reid at the company's Price tippie Friday. "Sixty million tons of clean coal have gone through here in the past 35 years and that says something about us. It says we've done something right. And there's a lot of people around here will say that."

The firm was issued a notice of violation on Dec. 11 by a state Bureau of Surface Mining inspector, who found that contaminated water had been washed into Left Beaver Creek from a haul road serving a refuse area on Wheelwright Mining's 248-acre permit area. The company was cited in March for spilling black water into the stream and failing to maintain sedimentation ponds properly and, in July, for allowing coal waste to leak from a diversion ditch.

Reid did not deny the charges but said some spills are practically inevitable and that Wheelwright Mining both tries hard to prevent them and works promptly to remedy them when they occur.

Last Issue of 1986—

With this issue we wind up—or is it wind down—our efforts for 1986. We will not print during New Year's week but will be back at the same old stand, January 2. The next issue of The Times will be on Wednesday, January 7.

We wish you all a merry Christmas and happiness in the coming year.

"All our people are told we will not tolerate polluting the streams. But in this business you're always subject to risk, even if your ponds are in good shape," the official said. "It's hard to catch every inch of your territory."

The sprawling preparation plant that straddles KY 122 at Price has been operated since 1950, owned first by Inland Steel Co., later by Island Creek Coal Co. and, since 1982, by Inspiration Coal Co., which has its head office in New York. Reid and company engineer Bruce Jones portrayed a firm that is vital to the economy of Left Beaver Creek, conscientious about its responsibilities to the community and the environment, and sensitive to charges of negligence—like those raised by a neighbor, who suggested recently that chemicals from the plant could be polluting the area's drinking water.

Heavy rains, like those that saturated the area earlier this month, make it almost impossible to contain all the runoff within the drainage system required under Wheelwright Mining's operating permit—a system designed to divert all the water into eight settling ponds, where coal particles can be removed before the water flows into the creek—Reid said.

However, the occasional spills make only a tiny contribution to the total stream-pollution problem, a large part of which is unrelated to the mining industry, and some of which is caused by the industry's critics, the official said.

"The trouble is, coal is black. It looks worse than it is. If it was white, it probably wouldn't be a violation," Reid said.

"Probably people living along the stream have contaminated it more than the company has," he added. "I'm not saying it's their fault, but we need a sewage system in this county. If environmentalists want a clean

Cable Cost Increases As Local Control Lifts

The news release from Consolidated Communications Group, the TV cable company serving subscribers in and around Prestonsburg, was blunt. As of Dec. 29, it said, "local elected officials will no longer control what CCG charges subscribers for the various cable services it provides."

Not surprisingly, that means rates are going up. Basic cable service will rise from $10 a month to $12.95. The satellite tier, where it is available, will cost $6.95.

The intense and sometimes bitter sparring that has marked local government attempts to keep a leash on cable companies operating in this county is apparently at an end—the result of industry deregulation brought about by the Cable Communications Policy Act passed by Congress in 1984 and now about to take effect.

Under the Act, while local governments will still be able to award cable franchises and to bind cable operators to certain agreements, they will no longer be able to regulate what subscribers pay for services.

As a result, most cable companies will be raising rates by an average of 18.5 percent, according to a recent survey by the Cable Television Administration and Marketing Society.

For operators, deregulation means a chance to recoup money spent over the past decade in expanding and upgrading services—money they have not been able to recover earlier, they claim, because of local governments' tendency to set unrealistically low ceilings on rates.

Cable firms operating in rural areas here—like Paul Gearheart's Harold-based Telcom, Inc.—have been essentially uncontrolled by local govern-

Remembering Stephen

1976-1986

On December 18, 1976 my precious only son, Stephen Lee Best, went to be with the Lord. My loss can best be expressed by quoting excerpts from his poem entitled "Portraits":

"An empty cup was filled beyond emptying.

By the presence of one who passed

Through the hills of my being and went away"

My greatest consolation is that Stephen is celebrating Christmas with the one who made Christmas possible and nothing can harm him any more!

Life must go on according to God's plan, and I must realize that for everything there is a reason.

To sum it all up, I am quoting the last lines from the same poem: "What is done?"

What is said at the loss of living's heaven,

When a bit of one's surroundings goes away?"

Love and prayers,

Gasahol By-Product Toxicity

Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association

By-products of some of Kentucky's distilleries have long been known as high quality feed for cattle and swine. Two by-products of spent mash, dried distiller's grains and "slop" have long been profitably feed to Kentucky livestock without harmful results.

In fact, some producers of country hams maintain, possibly with good reason, that the distiller's by-products fed to their swine are responsible for part of the flavor of the meat.

The same results may not be guaranteed with feeding of a particular by-product of the gasahol industry.

Within the past couple of years, several cattle producers in the mid-South have reported extensive death losses linked to the feeding of "syrup," a by-product of gasahol production. At least twenty of these farms reported losses approximating 200 head.

"Syrup" is produced by concentrating the leftover stillage liquid retained after removal of the grains, and contains about 65 percent moisture.

Affected cattle become lethargic, lose their appetite and pass a chalky, white diarrhea. After a week or so they become emaciated and dehydrated and die.

The rumen has been found to be packed with a pasty material, the livers normal but the kidneys almost completely destroyed.

Yearlings and young cows seem to be more susceptible to the poisoning, only a few calves or older cows are affected.

Research has linked the incidence of the poisoning with both the amount of "syrup" consumed and the receipt of delivery of the product. The "syrup" contains substantial quantities of corn oil, has a pleasant odor and high palatability.

Some researchers are assuming that the bouyant oily portion is the culprit, because farms which receive delivery first get "syrup" with very little oil and those farms seem unaffected by the poisoning, while those who take later delivery have been affected.

Research done at Murray State University's laboratories have isolated several long-chain, toxic alcohols from both "syrup" found in the rumen of affected animals as well as tissues of those animals. Long-chain alcohols are more toxic than ethyl alcohol, the longer the chain the more severe the toxicity.

Definite research is not complete, yet cattle farmers would seem wise to consult their veterinarian before feeding "syrup" from gasahol production.

Kentucky veterinarians are kept continually updated on this and other matters which have surfaced only recently but affect herd health and profitability.

whom—Dan, Jr.—became head football coach at Christian County High School.

Goble had a couple of forays into politics, running for jailer against Lawrence Hale, who beat him and has had the job ever since. But, if he ever felt dissatisfied with his lot, he didn't betray it.

"I never got above my raising. It doesn't bother me to be a servant," he told a reporter in 1979. "Anyway, I was a professional, same as the doctors and lawyers" whose shoes he buffed.

There were times, Goble confessed, when the movies he showed were offensive to his religious convictions and he wondered if he "might not be a better Christian" if he got out of the business. But there was never any question that the man who started his career as a shoeshine boy would be content to finish it the same way. "I still have my shoe brushes," he noted, "—professional brushes."

Authorities said Goble and his wife were quarrelling in their living room when Pauline Goble went to a bedroom and took a .38 revolver from a zippered pouch. Goble followed her and was shot, the bullet entering an inch under his breastbone and perforating two large blood vessels before becoming lodged in his spine.

City police officers and emergency medical technicians rushed to the scene but found him lifeless. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Highlands Regional Medical Center at 10 a.m.

The body was sent for autopsy to Pikeville Methodist Hospital, where District Medical Examiner Dr. George Buckley removed the fatal slug from the spinal column. It had severed his aorta and vena cava, the body's two largest blood vessels.

Mrs. Goble gave a statement to State Police Det. Danny Stumbo, who declined to reveal what she told him, pending a complete investigation, including ballistics and powder-residue tests.

Goble was born Sept. 1, 1921, a son of the late James Comadore Goble and Ida Reffett Goble. Besides his widow, he is survived by two sons, Daniel Goble, Jr., of Hopkinsville, and James Dewey Goble, of Concord, N.C.; four daughters, Patty Chareq, of Centreville, Va.; Teresa L. Carr, of Ypsilanti, Mich.; Karla Goble, of Auxier, and Margaret Ann Price, of Shelbyville; three sisters, Ann Oliver, of Prestonsburg, Marvella McCallihan, of Zalia, Ohio, and Lula Mae Buchanan, of Victorville, Calif.; 14 grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Carter Funeral Home chapel, with the Rev. Ted Green officiating, and burial followed in Davidson Memorial Gardens, under direction of Carter Funeral Home.

PHS Team Third In Academic Standing

Prestonsburg High School remained among the leaders last week in the latest ranking of the state's high school academic teams by the Kentucky Academic Association. With a win-loss record of 29-2, the Prestonsburg team was ranked third behind Lafayette High School in Lexington and Lincoln County High School in Stanford.

Pikeville High School, 24-7, was fourth in the ranking, which is issued every two weeks. Johns Creek was 12th and Virgie 14th.

stream, they could start with the sewage."

Because of the flocculents used to separate dirt and impurities from coal in the washing process, water leaving the preparation plant and draining back into Beaver Creek is a lot cleaner than when it was pumped from the creek to the plant, Reid said.

"I would drink our black water, where I certainly wouldn't drink from the creek," he said. "In fact, it probably contains a lot less chemicals than what the water company uses to treat it."

In the reclamation field, Wheelwright Mining has made a pioneering contribution, noted engineer Jones. By directly adding nutrients to the old Bailey Mining Co. gob pile at Weeksburg, legumes and grasses with long-term growth prospects have been cultivated. "For two years we've had a beautiful cover crop that surprised even the state," Jones said. "I think it's an excellent example of our commitment to the environment."

Reid nodded in agreement. "We want to be spoken well of. It hurts me when I see things like this," he said, in reference to last week's news account of the company's violations. "If I was polluting the stream, I'd be ashamed. But we've been doing a hell of an exceptional job."

were few, so Old Christmas was a chance for people to relax and show what they could do," Mrs. Frazier said. If they could play a dulcimer or fiddle or had a poem to read, they did."

This same sense of participation and spontaneity will be welcomed again this year, according to Gail Brahier, recreation director at Jenny Wiley State Park and the coordinator of this year's event. "If someone wants to bring a musical instrument and play or tell a story they're welcome," Brahier said. "If they want to get up and dance they can. The square-dancing is geared toward the beginner."

"It's a way for members of the community to get together to celebrate Christmas in an old-fashioned way," said Freddie Lee Goble, of Auxier, who has attended and participated with his daughter, Robin, in the past. Goble compared it to an old-fashioned bean stringing. "It's a pick-me-up, a wholesome time, where people are themselves and speak from their hearts."

"It's after Christmas but it has the Christmas spirit," Brahier said. "It's a nice way to culminate the holidays." She expects about 200 people to attend.

The fire is crackling. The wassail bowl is full of hot cider. Someone is reading the story, "The Cattle Low at Midnight." There's clapping and laughter. The faces of children shine with smiles. A fiddler limbers his instrument. The caller yells, "Take your partners..." It could be 1886 or 1936 but it's not. Yet the tradition is the same. It's Old Christmas in Prestonsburg.

ment except for a few years under the administration of Judge-Executive Bill Wells, when the county enacted an ordinance and established a commission to regulate rates and adjudicate complaints.

Mike Little, operator of a cable system in the Upper Left Beaver area, successfully challenged the ordinance on a legal technicality and the fiscal court never bothered to re-enact it.

Prestonsburg City Council has skirmished with the city's cable operators, including CCG's predecessors, for the past five years or so, the debate sometimes generating a rhetoric and passion stirred by relatively few issues. Council members roundly accused operators of giving bad service and renegeing on commitments, while the operators claimed they were unable to generate the revenue needed to do the job properly.

The need for better returns on their investment has only increased in recent years, say cable operators, because of increased competition for the home entertainment market brought on by the spread of videocassette recorders, movie rentals, and satellite dishes.

Operators in rural areas also note that there is less return on their investment in less densely populated areas.

Rate increases for CCG subscribers are necessitated by a 620 percent increase in company costs and to recoup costs of rebuilding the system here, said J. M. Crawford, the firm's regional vice-president. In addition to the basic rate hike, customers who subscribe to premium services will also see their rates go up, he said. All increases will be reflected in the January bills, which will also include an explanation for the higher rates, he said.

Ten Years Ago

(Wednesday, December 22, 1976)

The office of the Big Y Auto Sales Chrysler distributorship, here, was broken into during the weekend and $100 in cash, a typewriter and various small items were taken, Prestonsburg police reported. More than 33,000 "pirate" eight-track stereo tapes were seized Saturday in Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Martin and Perry counties when Federal Bureau of Investigation agents staged simultaneous raids on retailers of such tapes across Kentucky. A spokesman for the Kentucky Department of Transportation said Tuesday that it will be represented at the March meeting of the Appalachian Regional Commission and that at that time it will ask ARC to include the Prestonsburg-Pointsville sector of US 23 in its plans for four-lane construction. Tom Nelson, 54, of Cliff, who was shot November 23 on Abbott Creek, near Bonanza, died Friday night at Highlands Regional Medical Center here. Commonwealth Property Management, Lexington-based Research firm, in a housing market study made for the town of David said last week that some 1600 housing units will be needed in Floyd County between next year and 1980. The death of 15-year-old Reva Akers Hamilton last Wednesday morning brought to five the total of deaths caused by carbon monoxide poisoning in this county last week. There died: Mrs. Phoebe Collins Kidd, 80, of Printer, at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin, Thursday; Otis Cooley, 68, of Prestonsburg, Sunday, at Highlands Regional Medical Center; Stephen Lee Best, 32, of Cliff, Saturday, at UK Medical Center in Lexington; Mrs. June T. Likens, 49, of Martin, Thursday, at Highlands Regional Medical Center; Gordon Lee Porter, 53, of Dwayne, Wednesday, December 15, at Highlands Regional Medical Center; Tunis M. Daniels, 64, of Harold, Friday, December 17, at Methodist Hospital Pikeville; Mrs. Alice Goble, 77, of Emma, died Wednesday, December 15, at Mountain Manor Nursing Home, Pikeville; Shirley Julius Hayden, 47, of Auxier, died Wednesday, December 15, at UK Medical Center, Lexington; Irvine Conley, 76, of Garrett, died Friday, December 17, at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin.

Twenty Years Ago

(December 22, 1966)

Plans for the community-size swimming pool at Jenny Wiley State Park have finally been completed by a Louisville architect, and bids are expected to be asked on the project, on or about January 1. Those involved in the administration of a variety of public benefit programs in this county are convinced the cutback in funds ordered by President Johnson will affect most of them but when and to what extent they do not know. Bill Pettrey and Irvin Harris were named outstanding members of the Dewey Lake Fish & Game Club here recently. A "truce" in the local option election contest case will prevail until after Christmas, it was said this week. Horseplay, which included an attempt at divesting one of the group of his trousers, resulted in a free-for-all aboard a Floyd county school bus here last Friday morning, plus a variety of bruises and scratches for some of the participants and the suspension from Prestonsburg high school of seven male students. Married: Miss Harriet Ann Sandige, of Prestonsburg, and Mr. Richard Lee Wiley, of Hot Springs, Va., Dec. 10 at the Irene Cole Memorial Church here. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Clark Sanders, a son, Ronald Clark, II, December 18, at the Prestonsburg General Hospital; to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Taylor, of Auxier, a daughter, Veronica Lynn, December 5 at the Paintsville Clinic. There died: W. J. Reynolds, Sr., 80, former Floyd county magistrate, Saturday at St. Mary's hospital, Huntington, W. Va.; Prof. Carl D. Woods, 53, Floyd native and a member of the faculty of Eastern Kentucky University, Monday night at Richmond; Mrs. Fanny Greenwade, 87, of Cliff, Tuesday at Russell, Kentucky; Mrs. Lydia Maggard, 46, of McDowell, Friday at the University of Kentucky Medical Center, Lexington; Mrs. Barbara Jean Snell, 25, former Floyd woman, December 10 at Warsaw, Indiana; D. E. (Dave) Chafin, 77, Monday at his home at Martin; Porter A. Layne, 57, of Harold, Friday at Huntington, West Virginia; Mrs. Anna Wallen Case, native of Garrett, November 24 at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin.

Thirty Years Ago

(December 20, 1956)

A two-lane highway on the side of the Big Sandy river opposite from the present U.S. 23 was talked by a representative of the Kentucky Highway Department at a meeting in Paintsville last week of the U.S. Route 23 Association. Fire destroyed the one-room Warrick schoolhouse at Water Gap early Tuesday evening of last week. County Judge Henry Stumbo and other members of the Kentucky County Judges Association last Wednesday heard J. B. Wells, rural highway commissioner, discuss a proposed plan for the state to take over construction and maintenance of county roads where it is requested to do so. Gary Wendell Williams, 18, of Bypro, was fatally injured Sunday night on the Bypro-Melvin road when the auto in which he and three teen-age friends were driving toward Melvin crashed into the hillside bordering the highway. The United Mine Workers Union finds the coal industry did so well in 1956 and its prospects for 1957 are so good that its spokesman proclaimed: "Coal is king again." Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Wallace, of Prestonsburg, a son, Charles Martin Wallace, November 30 at the Prestonsburg General Hospital; to Sgt. and Mrs. Kenneth Price, a son, David Kenneth, Dec. 13 at Johnson City, Tennessee. There died: John L. Little, 54, of Beaver, last Wednesday at UMWA Memorial Hospital; Bud Hoover, 78, Monday at his home at Eastern; Mrs. Bertha Layne Hall, 51, Wednesday at her home at Tram; Mrs. Evelyn Moran, 36, of Martin, Tuesday of last week at the Hazelwood Sanitarium, Louisville; Mrs. Rosa Bell Leslie, 86, at her home at Mossy Bottom.

Forty Years Ago

(December 19, 1946)

Circuit Judge E. P. Hill, Jr., this morning entered an order postponing the effective date of prohibition in Floyd county until a final judgment is reached in the Floyd circuit court in the contest suit of Bill Hall vs. Troy B. Sturgill, et al. County whiskey dealers thereby gained a respite beyond the December 28 prohibition deadline. Plans for a hospital to serve the miners of the Big Sandy and Hazard coal fields were announced this week by Tom Raney, Pikeville, international UMWA representative. Bobby Joe Martin, 14 years old, of Harold, is in critical condition in the Methodist hospital, Pikeville, as the result of a skull fracture sustained Friday night at Harold when struck by a passing truck. The Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club at its Thursday evening meeting heard R. L. Shepherd, Vocational Agriculture teacher here, discuss plans for strawberry-growing in Floyd county. Workmen employed by John Allen and G. C. Spradlin last week began construction of a two-story building on the Mayo Trail here to be occupied by the Warfield Natural Gas Company. Dr. G. C. Collins, veteran Martin dentist, last week had his youngest patient. He extracted a tooth for four-month-old Marena Elaine Watson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Watson, of Alpharetta. Married: Miss Margaret Philomena, of Australia, and Mr. John Calvin Hopkins, Jr., of Mt. Sterling, November 15 at San Francisco, California. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Tom Graham Dingus, of Prestonsburg, a daughter—Elizabeth Graham—December 13 at the Methodist hospital, Pikeville. There died: Mary Alka Skeans, 13 years old, of Dock, Monday at the Prestonsburg General Hospital; Charlie George, 73, at his home at Betsy Layne, Thursday; Mrs. Ed Hall, 54, Tuesday at home at Drift; Mrs. Georgia Banks Frazier, 41, at her home at Prestonsburg, Monday; Dennis Ray Gibson, 15, at his parent's home on Steele's Creek, Wayland, Saturday.

Fifty Years Ago

(December 18, 1936)

Jeff Harris, 24 years old, of Emma, was killed Thursday when the truck he was driving left the road at the top of Greasy Creek hill. Completion of the interior of the courthouse is expected this week and practically all offices are occupied at the present time. Mathew Shelton, 47 years old, of Wayland, was instantly killed Tuesday when he was caught beneath a slatefall in the mine of Elk Horn Coal Corporation at Wayland. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Burchett, of Cow Creek, a son—Woodrow, Jr.—December 12.

Bits and Pieces

LAST ISSUE OF '86

For those who read this trivia and might have missed the notice elsewhere, this is the last issue of The Times for 1986. We will be back in the office in full force, January 2. Mail will be picked up—yes, and opened—so keep those cards and letters coming. Our next issue will be January 7.

We look forward, as you do, to Christmas with friends and family, and perhaps a bit of rest. We also look forward to another year of business as usual, seeing old friends, newer acquaintances, meeting newcomers, reporting the news, good and bad, as it affects us all, in and around Floyd county.

And last, but by no means least, we wish you a happy Christmas and good things in the coming year.

TWO MORE DAYS

Children are supposed to be approaching an abnormal state of almost perfect behavior as the prospect of Christmas morning comes closer. Mine, I must admit, never followed this pattern. They went at it tooth and toenail, no matter what the season.

They did know, however, whose birthday it is, and that we give, because He did.

for the food in her freezer that spoiled when the power was shut off: and $215 in charges for being reconnected and other fees.

The suit also seeks $1,500 in punitive damages for the utility's "outrageous conduct."

Pillersdorf, who characterized the issue as a contract dispute rather than a service complaint, cited an appeals court ruling in a dispute between a Kenton county man and Cincinnati Bell Telephone Co. The higher court ruled, said Pillersdorf, that the law did not delegate power to the PSC to adjudicate contract disputes. Otherwise, the attorney said, "the court could never hear any lawsuit against a public utility."

Francis insisted that the law on the matter is "in a state of flux."

"All that means," Pillersdorf quipped later, "is that the most recent decision went against him."

In District Court

"If they're going to arrest them, they better be here to try them," said Judge Harold Stumbo of three law enforcement officers who failed to appear in Floyd District Court December 18. As a result of the officers' absence, charges against three defendants were dismissed. A drunk driving charge against James A. Robinson was dropped when sheriff's deputies Anthony "Harpo" Castle and Ricky Thornsberry failed to appear. Drunk-and-disorderly charges against Jimmy Flynt, of Salyersville, were dismissed because of Thornsberry's absence; and an assault charge against Jeff Joseph was dropped, when Constable Larry Shortridge failed to appear.

Sentenced following guilty pleas or verdicts, were: Howard J. Waddles, 51, of Prestonsburg, drunk, assault 3rd degree, terroristic threatening, disorderly conduct, resisting arrest, charges consolidated, 30 days probation and $82.50 in fine and court costs; Jimmy Darrell Stumbo, of Drift, terroristic threatening, 30 days in jail and fined $167.50.

Smith Decorated

Sgt. Kimberly K. Smith, daughter of Geraldine M. Brown, of Sidney, Ohio and Thomas L. Smith, of Eastern, has been decorated with the Army Achievement Medal at Fort Lewis, Wash.

The Achievement Medal is awarded to soldiers for meritorious service, acts of courage, or other accomplishments.

Smith is a medical specialist with the 47th Combat Support Hospital.

Christmas List

Dear Santa,
We know that this is an awfully busy time for you and that everyone is asking for special favors. But the members of the Kentucky Fair Tax Coalition have a few special requests that would make this Christmas our happiest ever.

Would you please bring some special wisdom and compassion to the Kentucky Supreme Court as they decide the fate of the 1984 broad form deed law? Please make sure they understand how important this decision is to the average citizen, farmer, and small landowner in Eastern Kentucky.

Please bring some more determination to the citizens of Lawrence County, Henderson, and other Kentucky communities working to protect their homes and counties from the dangers of hazardous wastes. We are all proud of what they have done so far, but I'm sure they would appreciate your support.

You know who's been bad and good so you know how our governor and other Kentucky officials have talked about protecting our precious water resources. They have threatened to stop polluters and prevent damage to our water. Please bring them just a little bite to go with their bark.

And please bring some understanding for coal operators and land companies. Help them see that we are not working against coal, we are working for Kentucky and its citizens. We need and want a healthy coal industry as much as everyone else, but we want a coal industry that benefits the whole state and all the people. That means a coal industry that pays its local taxes, doesn't run over small landowners, and protects our water for future use and development.

As a final favor please bring all Kentuckians the resolve to stand together and the awareness that if we don't fight for our rights nobody will.

Santa, I hope we are not asking too much. We will appreciate anything you can bring us. Best of luck to you on Christmas Eve and have a merry and restful Christmas.

MARY JANE ADAMS
Chairperson
Kentucky Fair Tax Coalition

From A Dear Friend

Dear Norman for years published a memorial for me with one of Stephens poems. He always looked forward to receiving them.

I hope this little memorial may comfort your hearts also. I want to say to you Norman Allen was one of the finest people I have ever known. He was loved and respected by everyone who knew him even by those who only knew him as Mr. Floyd County Times! When I looked up to someone in our church or needed advice Norman was the first person who came to my mind. He truly was a pillar to First Baptist Church.

May God comfort you all and be, very near and bless you all this Christmas season. You, whom I was privileged to teach will always be dear to me—you enriched my life. If you ever find time, please come to see me.

I love you all, Frankie Sue Best.

"Nature" Gets New Time Slot

Arctic exploration with all the frozen beauty and splendor will be offered when KET encores "Kingdom of the Ice Bear," a three-part "Nature" presentation.

The mini-series begins when "Nature" moves to a new time slot Saturday, January 3, at 7:00 p.m. on KET. "Nature" repeats Sundays at 7:00 p.m.

The three-part presentation looks at the rarely seen creatures of the frozen oceans; the wildlife found in the land beyond the trees; and at challenges facing Eskimos as they are joined by scientists and oil explorers.

Revenue Bond Refinancing To Pay for Fire Hydrants

Savings of about $252,000 will be realized by the refinancing of mortgage revenue bonds, financial consultant Terrell Ross told Floyd Fiscal Court at Friday's meeting. The refinancing of the 1979 bonds takes advantage of lower interest rates now available.

The court voted to accept the bid of Johnston-Brown, a group of Louisville underwriters. It was the only bid received. The court had hoped to realize savings of as much as $300,000 from the refinancing but interest rates on the bonds turned out to be somewhat higher than anticipated, said Ross, who represents the Cincinnati firm of Prescott, Ball & Turben, Inc.

Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo has earmarked this money to be used to install fire plugs throughout the county in an effort to provide better fire protection and lower insurance premiums to homeowners.

He does not know whether a fire hydrant would have saved the life of Megan Suzanne Slone, who died in a December 14 fire in Estill, said Magistrate Jackie Edford Owens but he has written to state Attorney General David Armstrong, calling for an investigation into the hydrant situation in District 2, he said.

At a local firefighters' meeting prior to the Slone house fire, fire chiefs had complained to Owens about hydrants in his district, complaining that some "had valves saved off so firefighters couldn't turn them on and some were covered so deep with dirt that it would take 35-40 minutes to dig the valve out."

Owens said he had also received complaints from parents at Garrett Elementary School about a hydrant that could not be turned on because of the blacktop buildup around it. The school board has since taken steps to correct the problem.

In his letter, Owens wrote, "The firefighters in District 2 need to know which fire hydrants are working and which ones aren't so they won't waste valuable time." Asking for a thorough investigation from the attorney general's office, the magistrate went on to say, "If we have a problem, we need to know where the blame falls and what steps will be necessary to prevent this from happening again."

In other court business, the four magistrates listed for the state Highways Department roads that need improvements in their districts. Whether they get what they asked for is dependent on the amount of highway money available next year, said Freddie Lee Goble, Highway Department engineer. State highway funding comes from the sales tax on gasoline.

Enjoy Christmas

DRUG TESTS... In 1987 about one out of every three job applicants will be asked to take a drug test, reports The Better Way in Good Housekeeping's January issue. Here's what you should know:

In both the public and private sectors workers may be tested—randomly and repeatedly—in jobs involving safety or security. The established method of testing is urinalysis. First-test results can be inaccurate if lab workers mishandle samples. Also, some seemingly harmless substances have caused false positives in screening because their structures are similar to those of certain drugs. For example, painkillers containing ibuprofen can be mistaken for marijuana; cold, cough and weight-control medicines containing phenylpropanolamine, mistaken for amphetamines; and some herbal teas mistaken for cocaine.

How long do drugs remain in the body? Marijuana can be picked up for three or four days after a person smokes one cigarette, but in the urine of a daily smoker who stops cold, it may still be detected 20 days later.

PLAYING WITH WORDS... You'd never guess where some words come from. According to The Better Way in Good Housekeeping's January issue:

Jeans—the all-American pants—comes from Genoa, Italy, from the name of a cotton fabric called gene fustian.

Poodle—that dog gets its name from the German word, pudeln, meaning "to splash in water." The dog was once used to retrieve ducks.

Honcho—this word for boss is from the Japanese word for "squad leader," Hancho, and caught on here just after World War II.

GETTING RID OF WRINKLES... Laugh lines, forehead creases, crow's feet. Three new techniques available right now, can make your skin look younger, reports The Better Way in Good Housekeeping's January issue. They are:

Collagen—A purified form of protein is injected by a dermatologist or plastic surgeon below the skin surface to fill in scars and wrinkles. There are three formulas: one for fine lines, small acne, and trauma scars, and two different formulas for deeper lines, scars, and contour deformities. A touchup is usually needed after about a year, sometimes sooner.

Retinoic acid—A prescription cream containing a vitamin A derivative is applied—usually nightly—by the patient. It speeds cell turnover in the skin's top layer, increases blood flow, and seems to retard the formation of fine wrinkles. But initially skin may look worse because of temporary irritation. Treatment must be continued indefinitely.

Fat transfer—Fat is removed with a suctioning needle from where it's not needed (thighs, abdomen) and implanted into the face to plump up hollows. Individual results vary and the method is so new it's not yet known how long effects will last.

Computer Program Designed To Improve Teen Reading Skills

Imagine two nations on the verge of war. You have been assigned the task of opening lines of communication between the adversaries to prevent yet another conflict from being added to the world history books.

A new computer game? Almost. It is the teaching format used in International Business Machines Corp.'s latest computer-based educational tool, the Principle of the Alphabet Literacy System. PALS is designed to improve reading and writing skills in teenagers and adults with less than a sixth grade literacy level.

Gov. Martha Layne Collins, state Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald and Marshall Gerstel, studies manager for IBM Educational Systems, announced Friday that four PALS learning centers will soon be installed in Kentucky as part of a nationwide pilot project.

"I'm very pleased to introduce yet another state-of-the-art learning instrument into Kentucky's school system. There will only be about 30 learning centers in the entire country during this final evaluation period of PALS," Gov. Collins said. Earlier this year, another IBM high-tech instrument, Project Vision, was put in use in eight Kentucky schools in cooperation with the state Department of Education and the Department of Information Systems.

"Illiteracy should be our country's greatest concern... I know it's mine. As long as illiteracy inhibits Kentuckians from enjoying the basic freedoms to achieve and to learn we must fight it with every means and with all the tools available," the Governor said.

According to Gov. Collins, PALS learning centers are scheduled to be installed in time for the spring semester at the Duvall Community School at Louisville, the Hazard Vocational and Technical School, the Newport Adult Learning Center in Northern Kentucky, and the Kentucky State Reformatory at LaGrange.

The IBM-licensed program uses an adult fable in which an alphabetic system is invented to prevent war between two kingdoms. The story dramatizes the importance and power of the written word. PALS students learn how to combine the letters to form words. In addition, they are taught how to read and write by recognizing different letter-sounds which eliminates the confusion caused by spelling inconsistencies in the English language.

Previous use of PALS has resulted in improved reading skills by almost three grade levels. Normally, 16 students per class use a PALS learning center one hour a day for one semester, about 20 weeks. According to IBM literature, each center can handle about 500 students per year.

Equipment for each learning center will cost about $50,000 which will be paid for with state funds during the pilot project.

"Wonderworks" In Time Change

"Wonderworks," the only prime time weekly series created for parents and children, moves to 8:00 p.m. Saturdays on KET beginning January 3. "Wonderworks" repeats Sundays at 11:00 a.m. beginning January 4.

"Wonderworks" is an award-winning anthology of programs created for the whole family to view together. Featuring some of the entertainment world's most respected performers such as Carol Burnett, Henry Winkler, Loretta Switt, LeVar Burton and Colleen Dewhurst, "Wonderworks" explores timeless issues faced by young people in the often-difficult process of growing up.

"Wonderworks" was recognized by the American Children's Television Festival for "thoughtfully showing how young people can deal with the issues and problems of growing up." Since many of the dramas, comedies, fantasies and classics produced for the series are based on books, parents also can encourage reading and discussion.

"And the Children Shall Lead," a drama about a young black girl's attempts to advance the rights of blacks in a small Mississippi town in 1964, airs January 3 on "Wonderworks."

"Happily Ever After," airing on "Wonderworks" January 10, is a humorous animated program about an outgoing little girl and the gang of funny, quirky friends who help her adjust to her parents' divorce.

"Wonderworks" is produced by a consortium of five public television stations headed by WQED/Pittsburgh and including KCET/Los Angeles, KTCA/Minneapolis-St. Paul, South Carolina ETV Network and WETA/Washington, D.C.

The Flowers of Christmas

Decking the halls with holly or hanging mistletoe are nothing new, according to National Wildlife magazine, bi-monthly publication of the National Wildlife Federation. These and other plants and flowers that we associate with Christmas have long traditions.

In ancient Rome, holly wreaths were sent to newly married couples to express congratulations and good will. Like other peoples around the world, the Romans believed that the holly warded off evil spirits. In England it protected against witches, dogs, and wild beasts. At Christmas, every house, church, street corner, and market place in London was decorated with holly. Upon discovering holly in America, the early settlers were overjoyed to find a touch of home in the new land.

The Indians of Pennsylvania used holly as a badge of courage, while New Jersey Indians used the wood for tomahawk handles. Tribes to the south drank holly tea to give them strength.

Mistletoe has an equally ancient history. Druids used the plant to cure may ills, and Indian tribes chewed the leaves to relieve toothaches. In recent years a drug was derived from mistletoe to lower blood pressure.

The custom of kissing under the mistletoe comes from the Norse legend of Balder, the sun god. Fearing for her son's life, Frigga extracted promises from every living thing not to kill Balder. Unfortunately, she forgot the mistletoe.

The rival god Loki made a sharp arrow of mistletoe wood and shot Balder. As the myth goes, Balder's light (the sun) lessened, and Frigga's tears turned to mistletoe berries. So impressed were the gods that they saved Balder. Frigga was so overjoyed that she kissed everyone who walked beneath the mistletoe.

In Mexican homes, the poinsettia is known as "Flor de la Noche-buena"—the Christmas Eve flower. And in homes across America, this colorful plant has become as much a part of Christmas tradition as the Christmas tree.

Americans inherited the tradition of highlighting Christmas with poinsettias from our Mexican neighbors. Numerous legends attempt to explain its popularity there. According to one, many years ago a young child in Cuernavaca wept because she had no flowers to place at the manger.

An angel appeared to the child and directed her to pick a weed from the roadside, place it before the altar, and wait. The child obeyed, and soon after the weed was placed at the Nativity scene, it was transformed into a tall, beautiful plant bearing the whorl of scarlet leaves that became the poinsettia.

The plant was introduced into the United States about 1830 by Joel Roberts Poinsett, the first U.S. minister to Mexico and an able botanist. After supplying his own greenhouses in Greenville, South Carolina, he distributed plants to his friends and to botanical gardens.

State Pursues Intangible Tax

Escaping or overlooking Kentucky's intangible property tax laws will become a thing of the past January 1. The 1986 session of the General Assembly passed a law which instructs the Property Tax Department to "develop and administer a centralized assessment system for intangible personal property." With enhanced computer capabilities, the Property Tax Department will be able to compare information from individual income tax returns to the intangible tax return.

Property Tax Commissioner Claude Stone said, "Most people fail to file an intangible property tax return because they don't realize they have to file." The filing date for the return was also changed to April 15 so that the due date coincides with the individual income tax return.

Examples of intangible property to be listed on the return include, but are not limited to the following: shares of stock, bonds, notes, land contracts, money market funds, accounts receivable, loans to stockholders, certificates of deposit in out-of-state banks, and money in out-of-state banks.

Some items which are exempt from intangible property tax include: U.S. government bonds, Kentucky state, municipal and school bonds, stocks in most Kentucky corporations, and cash on deposit in Kentucky credit unions.

Kentuckians need to file their Intangible Property Tax return with their county Property Valuation Administrator by April 15. The form is included in the 1987 Individual Income Tax (740) packet or can be obtained from the county PVA office or the Department of Property Taxation in Frankfort.

Joins Nursing Faculty

Dr. Henry Campbell is pleased to announce the appointment of Jennifer J. Rozovich to the nursing faculty at Prestonsburg Community College. The daughter of John and Curly Hill, of Prestonsburg, she graduated from Prestonsburg High School, took classes at PCC and went on to the University of Kentucky, where she received both her BSN and MSN. She specialized in neonatal nursing.

Before coming to PCC, Rozovich was employed in the special care nursery at Central Baptist Hospital. Prior to that she worked at Highlands Regional Medical Center in the labor and delivery section.

She and her husband Michael are the parents of a daughter, Lindsay, and a son, Adam, pictured above visiting mom at her office.

KIWANIANNES LUNCHEON

The Prestonsburg Kiwanianes held their annual Christmas luncheon Thursday, December 18, at May Lodge. The devotional, based on "Luke," was given by Mrs. May K. Roberts, and prayer was offered by Mrs. Zella Archer.

Mrs. Jane Bond, president, on behalf of the Floyd County Health Department, presented to the Kiwanianes a plaque, in appreciation of the services rendered to the health department. It was announced that Mrs. Jane Wallace had also been honored with a plaque for special services.

The announcement was made that donations had been made to the First United Methodist Church in memory of former members, Mrs. Virginia D. Shivel and Mrs. Margaret P. Alley, and that $50 had been given to the Hospice program.

Mrs. Jane Wallace, alumna of Berea College, said that an endowment was being established at this school in memory of Miss Jane Ann Kendrick, a Berea graduate, who, at the time of death, was serving as secretary of the Floyd County Chapter of the Berea College Alumni Association.

Miss Elizabeth Frazier presented her entire chorus of 7th and 8th grade students of Prestonsburg Grade School, accompanying them at the piano, as they sang Christmas carols.

Mrs. Bond, was assisted by other members of the club in serving refreshments to Miss Frazier and the group.

Following the luncheon, members and guests gathered around the Christmas tree for pictures. Present were Mesdames Jane Bond, Lucy Regan, Barbara Dawson, Lily Bolland, Garnett Fairchild, Thelma D. Wallen, Rebecca Rasnick, Myrtle Allen, Ada Meade, Zella Archer, Mabel Jean LeMaster, Dixie Webb, Dolly Pettrey, Jane Wallace, Mary Margaret Webb, May K. Roberts, and Docia Woods.

The next regular meeting will be January 22 at the Lodge.

RECUPERATING AT HOME

Mrs. Chalmer H. Frazier, who recently underwent surgery at St. Joseph's Hospital, Lexington, is recovering nicely at her home, now, and has been able to attend services at her church, and several of the Christmas festivities.

IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Maggie Martin, of Garrett, is a patient at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, in Martin. Mrs. Martin is the mother of Mrs. Scott Collins, of Prestonsburg.

Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club

Members of the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club were taken on a secondhand trip to Germany recently, via pictures and descriptive narrative by the program leader, Mrs. Louise West, the club's vice president, who was hostess at her home at Hueysville. One of the most interesting segments of Mrs. West's presentation was pictures of Dachau, one of the Jewish concentration camps during the Holocaust, and pictures of the "Eagle's Nest", Adolph Hitler's notorious hideaway. The program was on International Affairs.

Following the program, Mrs. Marie Mullins, club president, discussed several projects during the business session. The Christmas project will be the same as was accomplished last year; namely, each club member will provide Christmas gifts to members of local nursing homes who have no families in this area. These will be collected at the club's Christmas party in December and delivered.

A picture was displayed for the club members to see how the club name will appear on the plaque which the club purchased for the Highland Regional's new breast cancer clinic. It was decided that each person would bring an inexpensive gift to be exchanged at the club's Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Paul Hall at Mousie.

A dessert course was served by the hostess to Mrs. Marsella Bradley, Mrs. Marie Mullins, Mrs. Lula Coburn, Mrs. LaFaye Hughes, Mrs. Elizabeth Duff, Mrs. Joyce Stevens, Mrs. Blanche Bamer, Mrs. Vera Allen, and Mrs. Maxine Martin.

McDowell ARH Auxillary Holds Christmas Meeting

The McDowell ARH Auxiliary members held their annual Christmas Party at the home of the president, Kathryn Youmans, Thursday evening, December 11. Roberta Luxmore was in charge of the entertainment program, and everyone enjoyed Christmas carols and games. Gifts were exchanged and traditional holiday food was served. Edith Hopkins won the door prize.

During the course of the evening, the president discussed briefly a major project to help the hospital that the group will probably be undertaking. All present expressed their eagerness to move into the new gift shop which will be finished soon.

Those attending the party included Brooksie Gayheart, Alma Mosley, Ruby Akers, Edith Hopkins, Cecilia Denny, Madge Denny, Helen Stumbo, Christine Stewart, Roberta Luxmore, Mary Ellen Maggard, Kathryn Youmans, and Nannie Hall. Five of the active members, Anna Moore, Inzie Moore, Violet Hall, Celia Little, and Anna Sue Moore were unable to attend because of illness and a death in the family.

AUXIER HOMEMAKERS MEET

The Auxier Homemakers met December 4, at the home of Sue Wells. The meeting was called to order by the president Brenda McKenzie, and the devotional was given by Betty Curnutte. A covered dish meal was enjoyed by Brenda McKenzie, Audrey Hall, Peggy Wells, Frances Pitts, Jeanie Wells, Betty Curnutte and Sue Wells.

The next meeting is scheduled for Thursday, February 5.

Second Birthday

Amanda Dawn Goble celebrated her second birthday, November 25. A Popples cake and ice cream were served.

She is the daughter of Roy and Nellie Goble, of Prestonsburg, and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Ratliff and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Goble, all of Prestonsburg.

To cherished old friends, and of course to the new, our wishes of peace and joy are extended to you. Happy Holidays.

Don't Use Microwave To Heat Baby's Food

Busy parents always look for shortcuts, but heating baby bottles in a microwave oven is one to avoid, warn state health officials.

"Baby bottles and other baby food simply do not belong in a microwave oven," said Patricia Nicol, M.D., of the Department for Health Services. "The two real dangers associated with heating baby food in a microwave are getting the food too hot and the possibility of bursting plastic liners. Both can result in burns."

With microwave heating, baby formula can become extremely hot while the bottle remains cool to the touch. If the liquid or food does not heat evenly, the portion that parents test might be the proper temperature while the rest of the food will be much hotter.

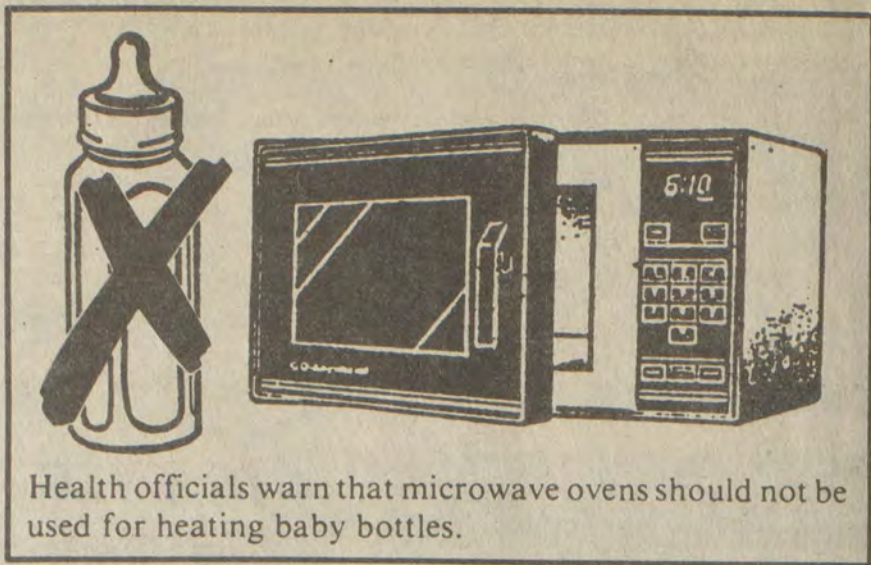

"Obviously drinking hot formula or eating food that is too hot can burn an infant's mouth and throat," said Nicol, director of the Division of Maternal and Child Health. "Another danger with microwave heating is that the food can continue to heat and may get hotter after the parent has sampled it."

Popular disposable plastic liners for bottles should not be used in microwaves because of the possibility of explosion.

"Steam quickly builds up with heating in a microwave," said Nicol, "and this can burst the plastic liner. If this happens during the feeding, the baby can be burned."

The best way to heat formula is the "old-fashioned" way, she said. Set the bottle in a bowl of warm, but not boiling, water. Or hold the bottle under warm tap water.

"Remember to shake the bottle gently to distribute the heat," said Nicol, "and shake a few drops from the bottle onto your wrist. This method might take a few minutes longer, but it's worth the extra time."

Health officials warn that microwave ovens should not be used for heating baby bottles.

Antifreeze Is Attractive And Deadly To Family Pet

Even a small puddle of antifreeze from a slightly overheated engine, or leaky radiator can be enough to poison a dog or cat.

"It takes about two-thirds of an ounce of antifreeze to kill a dog. Half that to kill a cat," said Duane Miksch, Extension veterinarian in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Many car owners drain their radiators this time of year to add fresh antifreeze. When freezing temperatures arrive, the spilled antifreeze may be the only liquid available to family pets. But even during above freezing weather, pets will seek out puddles of antifreeze. They seem to like its sweet taste.

Pets that have lapped up antifreeze must be gotten to a veterinarian immediately.

"The first symptoms usually show up within a few hours of ingestion. They include staggering, panting and vomiting. One of the misleading characteristics of the poisoning, however, is that the symptoms may go away within 12 hours, but more serious signs follow within the next 24 hours," Miksch said.

Proper care requires that the veterinarian have the best estimate possible of when the animal drank the antifreeze. The appropriate treatment varies depending on how long it has been since the animal drank the antifreeze.

"Of course, as in so many things, a little bit of forethought can avoid the need for a great deal of correction. If you drain a radiator or even spill any antifreeze when topping off a radiator, be sure to hose down the area thoroughly," Miksch said. "And keep antifreeze containers sealed to prevent pets from getting into them."

Sheriffs, Deputies Get Basic Training Course

The Department of Criminal Justice Training has just completed plans for a basic training course for Kentucky sheriffs and their deputies.

Deputy Justice Secretary Edwin E. Miller, who also serves as commissioner of the department, said the first sheriff's course is tentatively scheduled for March 1987. Like the police basic, the sheriff's basic course will consist of 400 hours of training over 10 weeks. However, the curriculum has been tailored to fit the needs and requirements of the sheriff's office.

Miller said, "Many of the courses will be similar but sheriffs have responsibilities other law enforcement officers do not have such as collecting taxes, serving legal documents, jury security, and serving the court." Miller added, "A graduate from this course will be fundamentally prepared to perform the tasks and duties of the job of a Kentucky sheriff."

The course was developed during the summer of 1986 on the basis of a job task analysis of the Kentucky sheriffs. A committee of sheriffs and deputies was selected by the president of the Kentucky Sheriff's Association to participate in this study and course development.

Miller said, "Sheriffs training has never been required by law, however, the need is obvious." The police training has always been available to sheriffs and some have attended the training program for regular police officers.

As is the police basic training course, the sheriff's course will be free of charge and taught by personnel of the department at its headquarters on the campus of Eastern Kentucky University at Richmond.

Christmas Baskets

The Rev. Ralph Beiting, founder and board chairman of the Christian Appalachian Project, gave out Christmas baskets to Floyd countians, Saturday afternoon, December 20, at the Christian Appalachian Project's warehouse on Duncan Street, here, after a prayer service at the First Presbyterian Church.

Christmas baskets will also be distributed in Salyersville from St. Luke's Catholic Church, December 21, and in Hindman.

The baskets, which include food and gifts, will help about 350 in Floyd county and 150 in Magoffin county have a more joyous Christmas.

The Christmas basket program has been a service of the Christian Appalachian Project since its inception in 1964.

In addition to Floyd, Knott and Magoffin, baskets will be distributed in Casey, Pulaski, Rockcastle, Lincoln, Garrard counties. Approximately 2,000 baskets will be given out in all. Figuring four members per family, about 8,000 people will be directly affected by this program.

The baskets consist of enough food for three meals for one day and gifts for every member of the family. The food is bought with money donated as a result of a special mail appeal. Then families across the nation are asked to pledge that they will sponsor a family in Appalachia. Once the pledges are received, details about each family member—first names, ages, sex, gift requests—are sent to the sponsor so they can buy appropriate gifts.

Participation in the Christmas basket program is by invitation only. Contacts for potential participants are made through the Christian Appalachian Project's used clothing stores and its elderly, small farm, parents-are-teachers, and outreach ministries programs. All of these programs involve direct contact with needy people.

Families receive certificates to claim their Christmas baskets at a prayer service held at a local church. On the day baskets are distributed, volunteers and employees work together in giving Christmas cheer.

The Christian Appalachian Project is a non-profit, Christian service organization seeking to help Appalachians improve their lives through employment, education, economic development, and a sense of community. The organization now has direct services in 10 Eastern Kentucky counties.

The Task Force of Economic Adjustment and Worker Dislocation was appointed by Secretary of Labor William E. Brock in October 1985. The 21-member task force includes representatives from government, history, labor, academia and the private economic research community.

Allen Golf Course To Return To Original 9-Hole Status

While for most of us the spring of 1987 is only a blip on a distant horizon, Oscar Rice already has his eyes on the spring of 1988.

Dancing before his eyes are greens, tees, a clubhouse, a pro shop—the realization of a long-cherished plan to restore the county's original and, for many years, sole nine-hole golf course.

The county got another course with construction of Jenny Wiley State Park—a nine-hole course with real greens, no less—but, especially since the original course at Allen had three of its sand greens lopped off to make way for construction of a county park there about six years ago, the Jenny Wiley course has become inadequate to the needs of the area's golfers.

"A new golf course at the county park will relieve crowded conditions at Jenny Wiley," said Rice, who is supervisor at the Allen park. It will also make possible a junior golf program.

"A real good program for high schools and grade schools is planned.

Jenny Wiley is so crowded they don't have the time to free up their golf course for a junior program," he explained.

Funding for reconstruction of the Allen course is being provided by a $30,000 state grant which the county will match. Plans call for replacement of the three truncated greens—to be rebuilt in a semi-circle around the tennis courts and softball diamonds on the park's northern perimeter—and conversion of the other sand greens to grass.

Other park improvements are also under way or on the drawing board. The county and Conservation District recently worked together to drain a section on the golf course side of the railroad tracks. Another marshy area by the tracks is to be drained and converted into a picnic area, which will be suitable for outdoor concerts and Scout jamborees, Rice said.

Work on the new golf course is expected to begin next summer—the golf course will remain open for practice throughout—and an opening is planned for the spring of 1988. It will represent a rebirth of a project launched at least 55 years ago as the Beaver Elkhorn Country Club, noted Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo, who still has a cap emblazoned with the insignia of the long-defunct club.

"In those days, they had a log building for a clubhouse and you reached it over a swinging bridge," the judge recalled. A concrete bridge was built over Beaver Creek there about 10 years ago and a concrete and timber building has since been constructed on the site of the old log structure.

In 1976, C&O Railroad sold the county nearly 10 acres of land there for $33,300 and, on behalf of National Mines Corp., then-company president George N. Evans donated to the county five tracts totalling about 75 acres on condition the acreage be used for public recreation.

C.C.G. Donates Toys To Rescue Squad

Consolidated Communications Manager Homer Wells presents toys from their "Toys for Tots" campaign to Captain Chuck B. Akers of the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad. Consolidated Communications offered installation of cable T.V. for a toy donation during the Holiday Season. The campaign has been very successful. The toys will be distributed by the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad.

County To Get Share of Funds For Hardships

Of $70 million appropriated by Congress to help expand emergency food and shelter programs in high-need areas around the country, $21,201 will trickle down to Floyd.

How the initial appropriation was to be split up was decided by a national board made up of representatives of voluntary organizations and chaired by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA).

How Floyd's allocation will be distributed will be determined by a board made up of Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo, Janet Tackett, of the judge's staff; Rev. Cohen Campbell; Rev. John Woods; and Eula Hall, social worker at Mud Creek Clinic.

To be eligible for funds under the program, an organization, which may be a government agency or private group, must be non-profit, have an accounting system, be audited, be non-discriminatory, and have a proven ability to provide emergency services. Such organizations are urged to apply for funds.

For further information, inquiries may be made of Greg Hamlin, Big Sandy Area Development District, 886-9402.

Martin Housing Authority Takes Ex-Tenant To Court

They should "send a message" to public-housing tenants, an attorney told a Floyd District Court jury panel Wednesday. "If this lady can get away with it and leave her apartment in the shape it was in, everyone up there will want to," said Tom Moak, on behalf of Martin Housing Authority.

Tenants should understand, Moak said, that "just because they live there for low rent doesn't mean they can trash the place."

The case involved Debbie Hall, who now lives on Simpson's Branch, near Drift, but lived for about nine months with her two children in Grigsby Heights, the newest housing project operated by the Martin Housing Authority.

Hall paid $29 a month for a "very, very nice" two-bedroom, townhouse apartment, which was brand new when she moved in on Sept. 18 last year, said Helen Ison, the housing authority's director for the past 16 years.

When she moved out in June this year, the apartment was so dirty and in such disrepair, it cost the housing authority $249.60 to get it back in shape, Mrs. Ison said.

Housing officials had retained a $120 security deposit Hall paid when she first leased the apartment. They had come to court to recover the remaining $129.60.

Hall insisted she kept a clean house, that she and her sister cleaned it before she moved out, and that, considering two small children lived there, it was "in real good condition."

"This is just ridiculous," said Hall, who conducted her defense without the benefit of an attorney. The former tenant accepted responsibility for $40 in unpaid rent and $30 for damaged window screens but denied owing anything for cleaning or for other damage, including alleged damage to a sliding closet door. "Everyone in those apartments had problems with the doors," she said.

The six-member jury opted for a middle course, finding the tenant liable for $120—equivalent to the security deposit she had already forfeited—but no more.

MEMBERS OF THE FLOYD COUNTY RESCUE SQUAD are shown working to free Freda Cyrus, who was trapped in the wreckage of her auto after a collision at the Maytown entrance to KY 80 early Sunday morning.

Ex-Employee Drops Suit Against MCCC

A registered nurse, who was fired by Mountain Comprehensive Care Center during the stormy months that preceded the resignation of former director David E. Bell, last week dropped her suit against the agency, her lawyer explaining that she was now in medical school and could not be present to pursue her claim.

Drema Hunt was fired from the mental health agency in May, 1985 and, while she was rehired nearly four months later, was held ineligible for the wages and benefits—valued at $2,500—she had lost in the meantime.

In the lawsuit filed on her behalf by Ned Pillersdorf, Mrs. Hunt said her firing was motivated by a desire on Bell's part to purge the agency of employees who were thought to be cooperating with or sympathetic toward a state investigation of the agency's management and finances.

Mrs. Hunt was admitted during the summer to Marshall University School of Medicine.

Floyd County Continues Slow Growth Record

Like the state generally, Floyd county continues a pattern of slow growth begun earlier this decade, according to final 1984 and preliminary 1985 population estimates released by the U.S. Bureau of Census.

Floyd grew by 136 persons—from 50,650 to 50,786—over the one-year period. Among neighboring counties, Pike (now 82,910), Knott (18,386) and Magoffin (14,252) also registered gradual growth, but population dropped slightly in Johnson (25,691) and Martin (14,280).

While Kentucky's rural areas have been growing faster than the cities since the 1970s, that trend was turned around in 1984-85, when metropolitan areas grew by .2 percent and rural areas by .1 percent.

Most urban growth was in the Lexington area, which grew by 2,856 persons or .9 percent. The Kentucky portions of Cincinnati grew by 1,509 persons or .6 percent. A slight drop was recorded in Louisville and a more significant decline in the Kentucky portions of Ashland and Huntington (574 persons or .5 percent) and of Clarksville and Hopkinsville (718 persons or 1.1 percent).

Fifty two of the state's 120 counties lost population, with 14 counties declining by at least 1 percent. The largest rates of decline were in Robertson (.3 percent), Calloway (.27 percent), and Carlisle (.21 percent).

Seventeen counties increased by at least 1 percent. Those with the fastest rates of growth were Simpson (2.6 percent), Hart (2.5 percent), Boone (2.4), Bullitt (2.3), and Spencer (2.1). By comparison, Floyd grew by .3 percent, Pike by .4 percent, and Magoffin by .9 percent.

The figures were published by the Population Studies Program of the University of Louisville's College of Urban and Public Affairs.

THIS CHRISTMAS TREE stands tall and bright—a shimmering, shining symbol of the holiday season.

Jobs For Older Kentuckians To Get Tryout In Six Cities

Two state agencies are trying to boost private sector job opportunities for a group of Kentuckians whose primary employment barrier is their age.

The departments for Employment Services and Social Services have begun recruiting participants in six communities for a training and job placement program aimed at unemployed, low-income Kentuckians over age 25.

Social Services Commissioner Anna Grace Day said, "Age is often considered to be a principal determinant of one's capabilities and value in the workplace. We want to demonstrate that an older employee, properly trained and given the opportunity, can be a definite benefit to Kentucky employers."

Graduates of special state vocational education school classes in health aide skills will be employed by nursing homes, adult day care centers and other health care facilities in Lexington, Louisville, Madisonville, Morehead, Paintsville and Pikeville.

"This is Kentucky's first major effort at older worker employment under the federal Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA)," said Employment Services Commissioner James Daniels. "We are putting nearly $229,000 in JTPA funds into this project, which we hope will spark the business community into reviewing the value of employing the older worker."

Daniels cited three factors which will make graduates of the program attractive to the state's health care employers.

"First, these men and women can be hired already trained for the work they must do. Most new health aides have little if any training. Second, the training provided by the Department of Education vocational education schools will be superior to the training most entry-level health aides have received," he said.

"Finally, and perhaps most importantly to the employer, older workers offer a strong degree of stability to the work force, with less absenteeism and fewer outside demands to distract from performing their duties."

The Social Services' Division for Aging Services is working with local offices of the Department for Employment Services on trainee and employer recruitment in each of the six cities selected for the project.

The health aide training portion of the program will begin in January and placement with participating health care facilities is scheduled around the first of April.

"Presently we only have an agreement on funding the program through the end of this fiscal year," said Day, "however, we are looking at other projects to spur increased employment of older workers and are hopeful of continuing this effort in the future."

Businesses and eligible trainees interested in additional information are encouraged to contact the office of the Department for Employment Services in their community.

MSU Groups Honored

Morehead State University's Chapter of Phi Delta Kappa received this year's "Outstanding Chapter Award" for Kentucky and also the "1986 Annual Fund Award" for the state at the recent district conference in Charlotte, N.C.

Phi Delta Kappa is an international professional fraternity composed of public school and university teachers and administrators. MSU's chapter is one of nine in the state of Kentucky.

The "Outstanding Chapter Award" recognizes chapters for service. Chapters are evaluated in the areas of membership, attendance, service activities and scholarship sponsorship. MSU tied with the University of Kentucky chapter of Phi Delta Kappa for this honor last year.

The "Annual Fund Award" is presented to the chapter in Kentucky offering the most financial support for the international organization's Foundation Program. The Phi Delta Kappa Foundation Program coordinates activities within the organization.

The two awards are the only honors given to local chapters, according to Dr. Larry Griesenger, MSU professor of education, who is president of the campus chapter.

Partnership Funded

The Kentucky Department of Education has received a grant from the Kentucky Energy Cabinet to pair energy companies and local schools for educational projects during this school year.

In 1985, Meadowthorpe Elementary in Fayette County asked the Kentucky Energy Cabinet to form an education partnership. Its success led the Energy Cabinet to expand the program to include elementary, middle and secondary schools across the state. These schools will form partnerships with energy related businesses in their areas that will be mutually beneficial to the schools and businesses involved.

"The partnership is very flexible," said State Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald, "so that activities chosen will meet the needs of both schools and businesses. Each partnership will choose its own goals, so each will develop its own measure of success."

HERE FOR HOLIDAYS

Howard Doss Blackburn will spend Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Holland at their home on Little Paint. He will be here from Wednesday until Sunday.

ADVENT DEVOTIONAL

During this Advent Season, it is good to recall the words of the late Mrs. Luther (Virginia Davidson) Shivel, as found in the pages of a book of "Advent Devotionals," published in 1981, by the First United Methodist Church here, of which she was a faithful member. Her contribution, based on Matthew 21:22: "And all things, whatsoever ye shall ask in prayer, ye shall receive," reads as follows:

"My late husband was ill for two years. I prayed continually for his healing, but, if he could not be healed, I asked God for three specific things—that my husband would keep his mind, that he would not suffer, and that I would remain physically able to care for him.

"My prayers were gloriously answered, and I shall ever marvel at the power of prayer.

"Pray without ceasing, in faith believing, and soon you'll be receiving." Mrs. Shivel died in early December.

Disaster Relief Program Helps Kentuckians Through Hard Times

When floods ravaged Eastern Kentucky during the spring of 1984, help had to be provided for thousands of people hurriedly forced from their homes.

One of the first agencies to gear up for the relief effort was the Department for Social Insurance.

"In the event of a federally-declared disaster, our first priority is to help prepare a center to take applications in each of the counties involved," said Director Gail Rayburn of the department's Division of Field Services. "Families affected by the disaster may receive help, but first, they have to apply for disaster relief assistance."

When an area is declared eligible for federal disaster relief funds, the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) alerts the governor, cooperating federal and state agencies and volunteer organizations. Several locations throughout the area are selected as disaster assistance centers and training is scheduled for center staff.

"Before opening a center, we determine how many families might have been affected by the disaster and how many of the department's workers will be required to staff each center," Rayburn explained. "After this information is established, we gather the materials we need and begin training workers."

Rayburn said each center is usually open within a week after the area is approved for federal disaster relief funds. All the agencies connected to the relief effort have representatives at each center.

"Our main responsibility is to insure that each application received has all the necessary documentation to support the applicant's claim," she added. "If an application needs more verification, it isn't processed until the required information is provided."

Not having that documentation can cause delays in getting the assistance to the applicant. After the Eastern Kentucky floods of 1984, several dozen applicants experienced delays in receiving assistance because verification required for approval was not submitted with the application.

"When a case is ready for processing, it is forwarded to Disaster and Emergency Services in the Department of Military Affairs," said Rayburn. "DES is responsible for directing the Individual and Family Grant Program, which provides federal relief funds for disaster victims."

Follow-up assistance is provided after applicants have been referred to such agencies as the American Red Cross, Farmers Home Administration, Small Business Administration and state Department for Social Services.

"The role our department plays is only one part of the overall relief effort," said Rayburn. "While the department works with the Department of Military Affairs to develop an emergency plan, we never really know what our duties will be until a disaster actually occurs. And whenever that happens, we're ready to do our part."

"We should behave to friends as we would wish friends to behave to us." Aristotle

Miss Stewart, Mr. Mauersberg Wed

Miss Janet Kay Stewart and Mr. Daniel Dean Mauersberg were united in marriage at 1:30 p.m., Saturday, December 6 at the Marysville First United Methodist Church.

Vases of pink and white carnations and white mums on the altar and a unity candle provided the setting as the Rev. G. William Wilcher officiated at the double-ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Stewart, of Marysville, Ohio and the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lackey Salisbury, of Printer. Mr. Mauersberg is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mauersberg, of Columbus, Ohio. Nuptial music was provided by organist Chris Westfall and vocalist Trudy Westfall.

Gowned in satin and Chantilly lace, the bride approached the altar on the arm of her father down an aisle marked with white bows. Her dress was styled with close-fitting bodice of re-embroidered Chantilly with pearls and a basque waistline, a V-neckline, front and back, and puffed sleeves. The full skirt of satin was trimmed at the hemline with lace and extended into a cathedral train. She wore a floral spray headpiece with fabric flowers and pearls which also enhanced her fingertip veil and blusher.

To complete her ensemble, a pearl necklace and diamond earrings were her something borrowed from her grandmother, and she carried a silk cascade bouquet of white roses accented with pink, lavender and blue baby's breath.

Maid of honor was Peggy Stewart, sister of the bride, and bridesmaids were Debbie Ritsman, Analisa Mauersberg and Tonnie Farnlacher. The attendants wore royal blue taffeta dresses with sweetheart necklaces, puffed sleeves and adorned with lace medallions. They wore heartshaped necklaces with a single pearl, gifts of the bride, and each carried silk nosegays in pink, royal blue and white sweetheart roses and carnations.

Best man was Steve Lomax, and ushers were Brent Bernard, Dale Johnston and Dale Stewart.

A reception was held in the church dining room which was decorated in the bride's colors of royal blue and white, carried out in streamers and flowers. A three-tiered cake, topped with a bride and groom, was framed by heartshaped satellite cakes trimmed with roses and topped with cherubs.

Following a wedding trip to Deer Creek State Park Lodge, the couple are living in St. Louis, Mo.

The bride is a graduate of Marysville High School and Clark Technical College, Springfield, Ohio. The groom attended Ohio State University and Columbus Technical Institute, and is in management for Tire America, Inc.

Branham-Butler Vows Exchanged

Miss Mary Beth Branham and Mr. Richard L. Butler were united in marriage Saturday, October 4, at the Hilliard Presbyterian Church in Hilliard, Ohio. The double-ring ceremony was solemnized by the pastor, Reverend Richard E. Karns.

The bride is the daughter of John Ellis and Bernice Stephenson Branham, formerly of Prestonsburg, and the groom is the son of Mr. Richard B. Butler, M.D., of Columbus, O., and the late Shirley Ann Butler.

Traditional wedding selections were presented by Madeline Bing.

Escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a white floor length gown of satin, chiffon, beaded pearls and lace with pleated chiffon at the wrist and hemline. The tailored bodice was accented by a sweetheart neckline with embroidered lace and pearls. The cascading cathedral length mantilla veil was trimmed with pearls and lace and was tiered with a waist length blusher. She carried a bouquet of white roses with carnations, baby's breath, and white satin ribbons.

Miss Sheryl Ann Branham, sister of the bride, was the Maid of Honor. Bridesmaids were Tara McCabe and Katherine Rowcliffe, of Columbus. Their dresses were deep pink floor length taffeta with sweetheart necklines. They carried bouquets of white carnations with pink roses and white baby's breath with ribbons.

The groomsmen were Dirk Laycox, Best Man, and ushers were Richard A. Branham, brother of the bride, and Mark White, brother-in-law of the groom, of Orlando, Florida.

The bride's mother wore a floor length dress of mauve silk and lace with a corsage of pink and white roses.

Immediately following the ceremony, the reception was held at the Olenfany Inn, Columbus, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Butler attended Hilliard High School, class of 1983. Mrs. Butler is attending Ohio State University, where she is majoring in fine arts. She also teaches at Peggy's School of Dance in Hilliard. Mr. Butler is employed with the Franklin County Land and Buildings of Columbus and also attends Columbus Technical Institute studying automotive engineering.

Maternal grandparents of the bride are the late Greeley and Clara Goble Stephenson. Paternal grandparents are Mary Ellis Branham and Frank Branham, all of Prestonsburg.

The couple reside in Columbus, Ohio.

Allen Central H.S. To Participate In Academic Showcase

Allen Central High School will participate in the Second Annual Sweet 16 Academic Showcase, a scholastic competition being held in conjunction with the Kentucky High School Athletic Association's Boys Basketball Tournament. The Showcase will involve a series of regional competitions to culminate in Lexington March 25-28, with sixteen finalists in each category.

The Showcases will give students who excel academically an opportunity to participate competitively and be recognized publicly for their achievements.

The academic areas of competition are art, journalism, English, computer, math, music, speech and quick recall. One individual or team from each school may enter each competition. Regional competitions will be held at four sites with the finals being held on the Transylvania University Campus in Lexington.

Scholarships in excess of $44,000 will be awarded to the top two finishers in each competition at the state level. These are to be used at a Kentucky school of their choice.

Conference Makes For Interesting Season-Long Battle In County

While most district teams throughout the state of Kentucky go through a season of preparation of getting ready for March's district tournament, schools in Floyd County wage a continuous battle for that all important top conference spot.

From the pre-season tournament to the district tournament, basketball in the 58th district has much more to offer than do schools depending on the luck of the draw for a good tournament position.

The round robin schedule between the five schools making up the 58th district decides how the tournament will line up. The top two spots will earn top seeds in district play, meaning they will have to win only one game to advance to regional play.

The conference isn't good for those teams that finish third and fourth, because they will be forced to win another game if the regional tournament is to be a reality for them.

Last season the Allen Central Rebels and Prestonsburg Blackcats finished third and fourth, and Rebel coach Johnny Martin said it might have been the difference in his team playing beyond the district tournament as opposed to watching.

"We had to play Prestonsburg last year, then Wheelwright," Martin remembered. "Prestonsburg had beaten Wheelwright during the season so if we would have finished higher in the conference we might not have had to play Wheelwright in the tournament."

Coach Johnny Martin mentioned merely possibilities where last season is considered, but now his Rebels have a good chance at that top first or second spot which Martin says is important.

"The conference is very important," Coach Martin said. "It keeps pressure on you the entire season to play your best. A conference game is almost as important as a district tournament game."

Allen Central and Johnny Martin will have to wait until 1987 for their first shot at a quick conference start, and his Rebels will be starting behind Prestonsburg.

The Blackcats sit alone atop the Floyd County Conference with a 2-0 record but the conference is fair for all. Allen Central will play as many games as everyone else, but now the Rebels will have to play more games in less time.

On the women's side of things, Prestonsburg also holds an advantage, but the Lady Blackcats may be in a better situation than is Jeff Riley's club.

The Lady Blackcats upset the women's conference favorite, Betsy Layne, which means they have put distance between them and the team most likely to win the conference.

On the other hand, the Blackcats have yet to play Allen Central, the men's favorite to finish first. Regardless of who finishes first and who finishes last, one thing is certain, the conference race will give to this county more excitement and more interesting basketball than you will find anywhere in eastern Kentucky.

Another thing in the conference's favor is the seeding process. Unlike other districts which stubbornly cling to the draw, the 58th district has a correct and legitimate lineup come district time.

Many times you can find two good teams in one district who find themselves going against each other in first round district action while a much lesser team will luck itself into a regional tournament.

Teams in districts with the draw spend their entire season trying new lineups and experimenting with various situations while having one goal in mind, finding that regional tournament path.

In Floyd County, the conference gives fans a special treat. Not only do they watch excellent basketball, but the games mean more than a preparation tool for the district tournament.

58th district basketball has a three-month plus season while for the districts playing with the draw they have a long pre-season and without the luck of the draw, have a one-game season.

Every coach in the Floyd County Conference has expressed a desire to finish high in the final standings, but McDowell Daredevil coach Rick Hall may have a different idea.

Hall said due to the balance of this district, finishing fifth would give a team a much better seed than finishing third or fourth. The coach is right. The fifth placed team will play the top seed come tournament time and will need only one victory to be in a regional tournament.

However, Rick Hall doesn't want to bring up the rear, and neither does anyone else, but someone has to. Everyone wants to win the conference, but only one can. Who will be those two teams? This is what we have to look forward to, and it will be fun.

THE SPORTING TIMES

When the sounds of ringing aluminum and lively chatter fills the Magoffin county air a renewed enthusiasm will be reborn in this area. Baseball is the most successful sport in Magoffin County and has been for the past several years, but 1987 brings a sad situation to Magoffin County High School.

For as many years as most recent graduates can remember the diamond game has brought success and pride to this small but tightly fellowshipped county.

However, the one man who made it all possible won't be there to direct what should be a strong version of Hornet baseball.

For 11 years, Tim Bostic coached the Magoffin County Hornets to successful seasons. In most of these seasons, Bostic led the Hornets to 20 wins or more a season and added class to an area that sorely needs it in these trying times.

Unfortunately Tim Bostic said more than he should about a critical and controversial issue some time back, and as a result, he will no longer be allowed to weave his baseball magic from the third base coaching box.

When the recent school board action came about naming Carter Whitaker as the new Magoffin County Schools superintendent, Mr. Bostic objected. Not because of a personal battle with Carter but through deep concern and care for Magoffin County's young people that Bostic has spent his entire Salyersville life protecting.

As a result, the puppeteers of the school board announced that Tim Bostic's baseball services would no longer be needed, but oh, how little does the school board know.

Politics and education is as deadly a combination as nuclear war and idiots such as third world leaders. Some may get some satisfaction from dumping Bostic, but obviously they care nothing about Magoffin County students, especially those wishing to play baseball.

For his action on behalf of his county's young people, Tim Bostic was relieved of his baseball duties, regardless of who it will hurt.

Tim was more than a baseball coach. He was Magoffin County baseball. In his 11 years as coach, he received a grand total of zero for his efforts.

From late February to May, Tim Bostic worked feverishly to field a solid baseball squad. Sometimes he succeeded, and sometimes he didn't, but one thing was certain, no coach cared more for his players than did this man.

I know, I played two years for the man, and without Tim Bostic baseball would have meant watching the Reds on television, but thanks to Tim I now have lifetime memories of playing the greatest game on earth.

When I was little, I always wanted to play the game but one thing stood in my way, talent. But Tim saw something in me that I didn't see myself. Something a coach like Tim Bostic looks for, a desire and enthusiasm to play.

He took a young boy who had nothing but a bush league curve ball and developed him into a decent high school pitcher. But boy, what I learned for this man went so much deeper than just a game.

He told me that I was something better than nothing. He told me that the only thing keeping me from being what I wanted to be was me.

Those words hit the heart. I took Tim's advice and, you know something, he was right. Coach knew more baseball than anyone in eastern Kentucky, but he also knew about life. Its ups and downs and how to overcome those low spots and how to handle success.

The thing I remember most about Tim Bostic is his laughter. A smile in difficult times and a word of advice when we strayed from right to wrong.

Another thing that sticks in my memory is how Tim gave to his players. After every game and practice, he would stay around until he knew everyone had a ride home, and on road trips, Tim would dig deep into his own pockets for some food money. Some of us were a bit short on cash.

Tim Bostic is known around Salyersville for his large family, but during baseball season he had about 20 extra sons, or at least he treated us as such.

The love, the work, and the concern Coach gave to his players was unmatched. You don't have to take my word for it. Just ask any one of hundreds who played baseball for this man.

We didn't have any great teams, but we had fun. This big man has a big heart, and he shared what he had with everyone who came in contact with him.

When I graduated from Morehead State, Tim gave me my first job. One day he said, "Alfie I'm proud of you. You were the one everyone thought wouldn't make it but you stayed with it."

Tim, I'm proud of you. Without your confidence and direction I don't think I would have made it. You took an insecure boy who thought he had nothing and gave me something to work for. I thank you.

In his weekly Salyersville Independent, Tim wrote, "Now I have a chance to do some fishing this spring," but fishing compared to baseball will be a major disappointment for a man who gave most of his private life to the young players at Magoffin County High School.

Hornet baseball people will miss Tim Bostic. You have my guarantee on that. But what about all of those little leaguers who won't get a chance to play under Tim.

His self-confidence and outstanding attitude on life had a positive effect on every player he coached but no one else will benefit from this, now.

Tim and I have had our difference through the years but at no time did I think that he didn't care for me. The respect I had for this man was CAUGHT IN THE ACT: Prestonsburg's Paula Harris denies Yolanda Keathley the basket but is whistled for the foul.

Blackcats Get Needed Halftime Boost To Turn Back Betsy Layne Challenge

The Prestonsburg Blackcats were a team in the midst of a performance slump. They were coming off a Saturday night loss to Allen Central, and for the first half against Betsy Layne looked nothing like a team that could challenge for a 58th district title.

A talent rich club, Prestonsburg had yet to play up to their pre-season expectations and at halftime of Tuesday's contest with Betsy Layne appeared as if they were on their way to their second loss of the season to the Bobcats.

Despite possessing superior physical advantages and experience, Prestonsburg saw the Bobcats take a 11-4 advantage after one quarter and go into the halftime break with a five-point lead.

However, somewhere in the Blackcat locker room the message was sent out and received that their play was nowhere near satisfactory. Something had to change, and in a hurry.

With this message still fresh in their minds, Prestonsburg hit the hardwood with more intensity and execution than had been displayed thus far in this young season.

The Blackcats cut Betsy Layne's lead to three in the third quarter and behind David Martin's 11 fourth quarter points, outscored Betsy Layne 24-14 for a final margin of 50-43.

After the contest had ended, Coach Jeff Riley talked confidently of his team's second half performance but the Prestonsburg head man refused to accept credit for lighting the basketball fire which enabled his team to earn the conference victory.

"During halftime I sat down in the corner and Coach Burchett stood in front of the team," Coach Riley revealed.

"It wasn't a pep talk or anything like that," Riley continued. "He talked in truths about the team's play. Evidently they listened to what he said because anyone at the game could tell a big difference in the way we played in the second half as compared to our first half play."

The boost Prestonsburg obviously received from Burchett's halftime talk enabled them to take a full game lead over Betsy Layne in the Floyd County Conference standings and improve their overall record to 4-2.

Coming into the contest, Bobcat coach Craynor Slone said his team would have to keep a bigger Prestonsburg team off the boards. The veteran coach also mentioned the fact that the Blackcats would be playing with guard Brian Wallace.

Wallace, a strong offensive threat, had missed several games due to an injured ankle. One of his missed contests was the pre-season encounter with Betsy Layne, a game the Bobcats won by three.

Coach Slone had reason to be concerned about Wallace. The 5' 11" guard averaged 12 points per contest a year ago and turned his offense on Tuesday with 16 points.

Wallace had a great deal of support, though, as forwards David Martin and Cory Vicars combined for 29 points. Martin had 19 while Vicars finished with 10.

As much as Craynor Slone was concerned about the Blackcat guard, Jeff Riley was just as happy to have him back.

"Brian made a big difference," Riley said. "We missed him tremendously, more than anyone realized."

With the loss Betsy Layne dips to 3-2 on the season and 1-1 in the conference, good enough for second place behind Prestonsburg.

Betsy Layne owns a victory over the Blackcats in pre-season play, but Jeff Riley says that playing experience meant the difference in Tuesday's contest.

"The two games were very comparable," Riley said. "But we had five games under our belts as opposed to that game being our first."

Coach Riley said that his team had eliminated most of their mistakes and bad decisions in the victory over the Bobcats, a factor which has increased the enthusiasm level surrounding Blackcat basketball.

Although Prestonsburg played a solid game, the Bobcats struggled, especially in the second half but they did receive strong showings from their Newsome guard combination. Bud led Betsy Layne with 15 points while Duran tossed in 10.

Junior forward Todd Sturgill cashed in with eight points and Jamie Little added six while Jimmy Stumbo rounded out the Betsy Layne scoring, accounting for four points.

For the Prestonsburg Blackcats Thomas Nairn scored four and Brent Music hit on a free throw for one point in the winning cause.

Riley Gets Early Gift As Blackcats Win Tournament

It wasn't wrapped in holiday paper nor did it have a pretty ribbon, but for Prestonsburg coach Jeff Riley the gift may prove to be his favorite present of this holiday season.

The gift was a number one finish in the Cardinal Classic, and Coach Riley was presented the extra holiday cheer earlier than usual.

Prestonsburg gave their coach is present Saturday night when they defeated Sheldon Clark, 65-56, in the Cardinal-hosted tournament.

The Blackcats, led by David Martin and Brian Wallace, played one of their best games of the season in the final game, defeating an improved Sheldon Clark team by the nine point margin.

David Martin and Brian Wallace scored 17 points each to lead the Blackcat offensive attack while the 6' 6" Martin came through with key rebounds and defensive play underneath.

Wallace scored 13 of his 17 points in the first half to shoot Prestonsburg to an early advantage that they never relinquished although the Cardinals cut the Blackcats' advantage to one during second half play.

Point guard Brent Music gave Jeff Riley an added reason to be happy by scoring 10 points. Riley says if his prized floor general does his unusually sound ballhandling job and scores five or six points, he will be satisfied, but Music proved he can do that and more.

Sophomore forward Thomas Nairn added to the winning Blackcat cause with eight points as a surprise starter while Cory Vicars chipped in with eight, eight.

Prestonsburg advanced to the finals with a Thursday opening round victory over Mullins and came back the following night with an upset of highly rated Wolfe County.

In the Mullins victory, the Blackcats were led in scoring by David Martin's 14 points while Brian Wallace and Brent Music cashed in with 14 and 10, respectively, as Prestonsburg downed the Tigers, 56-41.

Friday night, Jeff Riley's club defeated the number one rated 14th region team as David Martin once again checked in as their top scorer.

Martin tossed in 15 points and along with Cory Vicars, owned the boards. Martin hauled down 14 rebounds while Vicars came up with 10 caroms while scoring 14 points.

Coach Riley, however, says that this team's excellent handling of the basketball was the key to their victory over the ever pressing Wolves.

"We played awfully well," Riley said. "They pressed us all night and did a lot of different things with their defense, but we handled the ball real well."

With the three victories in the Cardinal Classic Prestonsburg upped their season record to 7-2 while drawing praise from area competitors.

The Blackcats will now take a much deserved rest, not seeing any further action until the season picks up again in 1987.

In the consolation game Saturday defending state champion Pulaski County and Shannon Fraley turned back Wolfe County and Steve Johnson in overtime 75-70.

The Wolves fought back from a late deficit to send the game into the extra period, but with Johnson watching for the bench, Wolfe County couldn't muster the fire power to stay with Pulaski County.

The McDowell Daredevils, behind Lenny Hall and Brian Hall, captured the Millard Invitational this weekend.

"Frozen Bait, Frozen Fish And Frozen Fingers"

By A.G. SPENCER

Just when the television was growing blurry, which was during the third college bowl game in a row, the phone mercifully rang. I gently moved the snoozing beagle from my lap and reached over to pick up the receiver. "Howdy, ol' son," rang out a cheerful voice. "Let's catch us some papermouths."

For the uninitiated, papermouth is just a back-woods term for crappies. That wasn't what I was thinking at the moment, however. "Have you gone out of your blinderflanking mind, Robert?!", I yowled into the receiver. It's the bloody first day of January—don't you think the ground's going to be a bit hard for worm digging?" No response. "Besides, they'll be moving to slow to hit artificials." Still no response. "O.K., let's hear you plan." "You're sure you have it all out of your system now," Bob replied stonily. "Yeah. Sorry. Go ahead."

"I laid back some crawdads that I picked up while seining for minnows this summer. Put 'em in the freezer. Figured they'd come in handy some time," Bob said, his former exuberance beginning to pick up again. Thirty minutes later, we were out on the lake, fishing in front of a rock drop-off. I had long since given up on arguing with "Do-Bob" as he knew more about outdoor matters when he was twelve than I will when I'm fifty. A "good ol' boy" who grew up in the woods of McCracken county, Bob knew, as did I, that there are few things that crappie love any better than crawdad tails. What you do is cut off the tail section and turn it inside-out, exposing the tender white meat. When the weather turns chilly, this technique will really put them in the frying pan. Just keep in mind that you can't catch 'em where they ain't, so be sure to go to a known crappie hotspot. It gets even colder when you aren't reeling them in!

After three-and-a-half hours, our stringers were finally full. With enough fish for several mid-winter fish fries, we adjourned to the warm, wonderful indoors. When I went over to Bob and Sandy's fridge to see if there were any room in the freezer for the fish. Click. Bob turns the boob tube on. Another ballgame. Some things never change during the holidays!

Until next week, happy hunting!

For those who want to try something different, yet traditional, for Christmas dinner this year, here are the dates for goose season.

EASTERN GOOSE HUNTING ZONE—Nov. 12-Jan. 20, 1987; the daily bag limit is five, of which no more than two may be Canada geese.

WESTERN GOOSE HUNTING ZONE—Dec. 13-Jan. 31 (or until the quota of 15,000 geese are taken in the zone); again, the daily bag limit is five, of which no more than two may be Canada geese.

BROILED RABBIT

Take a couple of young rabbits, split them in half, season with salt and pepper. Skewer a pair of bacon slices around each half and baste periodically with butter sauce containing a touch of lemon juice—baste liberally. This recipe is best when prepared out of doors over slow to moderate coals. It usually takes about forty-five minutes. The rabbits will be done when juices run clear after a knife has been stuck into a thick section of muscle.

LOSE BALL: Betsy Layne and Prestonsburg go to the floor after a loose ball in last week's action.

Bassin' With the Pros... PFD Isn't Your Life Worth One?

By TREY FOERSTER

If you have a 14-foot flat-bottom boat powered by an electric motor for a small lake or pond, you might not see the necessity of wearing a personal flotation device (PFD)—but you should because one of every four fatalities are drownings from small boats. But put yourself in a bass boat powered by a 150 h.p. V-6 outboard motor, and you'd better think twice about leaving it on the floor!

Ken Cook, Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff member, best sums up the reason for wearing a PFD: "You ought to use it so you can go fishing again tomorrow!"

There are many PFDs on the market and I'm sure that you've seen a great variety of them at discount department stores, your local baitshop and marinas. But what kind is best for bass fishing? What do you look for in a vest designed for angling?

"As far as picking one out," Cook explains, "I have one that I prefer over anything that I've seen before. It's a jacket that's being marketed for skiers, it's a racing jacket. It has a zipper but it also has straps and underarm pads, which block your rib cage. Most jackets have big arm holes where you can get in and out of it and that leaves your rib cage on both sides exposed. If you do hit the water at a high rate of speed, the impact could knock you out because of the blow to your rib cage. This jacket has a set of pads that strap around your upper torso and covers up your arm pit and ribs so that if you do strike the water, you won't get that blow. It also has a neck roll collar to prevent splash to some degree, of course, and also has leg straps. It's supposed to be certified to stay on your body in impacts of up to 100 m.p.h."

Another favorite of the bass tournament circuit is the Johnson Pro Team Bass Best. "I think it has very innovative ideas with the straps that clip around your belt so that it won't ride up," says Randy Fite, Johnson Outboards Pro Staff member. It also features an "O-ring" for the kill switch and handy pockets.

But there are still drawbacks to PFDs for fishermen, according to Fite. "Some PFDs are so cumbersome that it really doesn't give you enough mobility to fish in the style of fishing I like to do or more of the pros do. I think the next step will be when someone can come up with a PFD that is attractive, comfortable and yet could float you upright if you were unconscious in the water."

No matter who you talk with, all the pros agree that you ought to secure your lifevest before you turn your motor on and that the PFD should be worn at all times while on the water whether or not the boat is moving.

Cook also makes a few more recommendations that make a lot of sense.

"I would recommend that anyone who wears a PFD, wear one that fits tight. If you end up in the water, especially if the water is cold and assuming you're not unconscious, you tire easily and lose energy and strength. The next thing you know, your arms are above your head and...zip, you're jacket's off because of the big arm holes and lack of tightness around the body. It's got to be tight enough to cling to your torso so you won't come out of it. I think leg straps are by far the best choice in that type of situation."

There's also one more piece of advice Cook gives: "I never start my engine without putting my jacket on (in accordance with bass tournament rules) because I got two little boys and I want to be their daddy from now on!"

Those are the two best reasons I've ever heard.

Ken Cook responds to a letter to "Bassin with the Pros" from Steven P. Starch of Chardon, Ohio, who asks: What would an entry fee be in a professional tournament?"

"It depends on what you call a professional tournament," Cook states. "The professional circuits that I'm aware of where a person has an opportunity to make a living—that would be my description of a pro tournament—is B.A.S.S. or U.S. Bass, and possibly the Hungry Fisherman tournaments on the East Coast."

"B.A.S.S. entry fees for this year are $450; U.S. Bass is $300. Any time the purse is $10,000 and up, it's to be considered a professional tournament and for most of those types of purses, your entry fee is $100 and up."

If it has been a while since you last treated your outboard motor to a tune-up, consider scheduling an appointment in the fall or winter months with your dealer. Don't wait until April or May, when the service department at most dealerships is swamped. The service manager is often looking for work to do in November and December, and many stores run off-season specials. Tune up now, and you'll be ready to go when the fish start biting again.

Season Changes Under Consideration

Kentucky's small game hunters may see a change in season dates next year, according to a proposal made to the Fish and Wildlife Resources Commission at its Dec. 8 meeting in Frankfort.

The proposal, made by the Division of Wildlife, calls for an earlier opening of small game seasons—Nov. 1 instead of the traditional third Saturday in November. The gun deer season would open on the second Saturday in November as it does now.

Hunting for raccoons would begin Nov. 1, but trapping would not be permitted until after the close of the 10-day gun deer season. The shake-out season for raccoons, which currently begins Oct. 22, would be eliminated.

The wildlife division also proposed that closing dates for small game hunting be moved forward, with quail, rabbit and grouse hunting to cease after Jan. 31.

The primary reason behind moving the season framework earlier in the year is that recent research has shown that late season hunting can negatively impact breeding populations of game species. Also, small game populations are higher in early November than later in the month, which could mean improved hunter success.

The commission will set season dates at its next meeting, scheduled for March 1-2, 1987.

Goose Season Gets Underway In The Western Zone

With the beginning of goose season this past weekend, hunters will again have the opportunity this year to call a goose hunting "hotline" for harvest information in the Western Zone.

By dialing (502) 564-6185, waterfowlers will receive population estimates for the Ballard and Henderson-Union reporting areas for the first few weeks. As harvest information becomes available from these areas over the next two to three weeks, it will be recorded and included in the two-minute message to give hunters some idea of when the season will close, should it come prior to January 31.

The "hotline" number to the department in Frankfort may be called 24 hours a day and is NOT toll free.

The quota for Ballard Reporting Area is 9,500, Henderson-Union 3,000 and open counties 2,500 geese, which more than doubles last year's quotas.

Currently, wildlife personnel estimate 36,000 Canada geese are present at the Ballard Wildlife Management Area and an additional 16,000 geese are on the Sloughs WMA in Henderson County. Mike Morton, Sloughs WMA supervisor, said he expects hunting success to pick up considerably near the end of this week following the prediction of poorer weather. Overcast, cloudy conditions are often better for waterfowl hunting than clear, sunny days.

The goose season in the Western Zone is scheduled to end January 31, unless the harvest quota is reached first. This year, only the reporting area will close as soon as the quota is reached. Counties associated with the reporting area will remain open an additional seven days (or until Jan. 31) after the reporting area closes.

Hunters can keep up with how the harvest is coming through the "hotline," which may help them avoid an unnecessary trip.

According to Jeff Lawrence, migratory bird program coordinator for the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, hunters interested in using public goose blinds should try the Sloughs WMA, since hunting on Ballard County WMA is handled through prior-to-season drawings. Sloughs, on the other hand, has 43 blind sites for public use and over 1800 acres in the Jenny Hole-Highland Creek unit for hunters who want to try their luck from cover other than a blind.

"After this week, there will probably be an 80-percent chance or better that hunters can find an available blind on any given day," said Morton. He strongly advised hunters not familiar with the Sloughs WMA make a scouting trip prior to hunting and stop in the WMA office for a map and directions. Mentioning the Ohio River is currently coming up at a rate of over two feet each day, Morton reminds hunters that units are not considered flooded and closed unless water prevents driving to area parking lots. Hunting from boats is then allowed but boats must be situated at least 200 yards apart for safety.

As most hunters are aware, non-toxic steel shot no larger than F is required for all waterfowl hunting in the Western Zone. The daily limit for geese is five, with no more than two Canada geese and two white-fronted geese. The boundary between the Eastern and Western zones is a line beginning at the Kentucky-Tennessee border at Fulton and extending north along the Purchase Parkway to I-24, east on I-24 to US 641, north on US 641 to US 60, northeast on US 60 to US 41, then north on US 41 to the Kentucky-Indiana border.

Waterfowl hunters are required to possess a Kentucky state waterfowl stamp and a federal migratory bird stamp in addition to a valid state hunting license. Those hunting in both reporting areas are required to report the number of geese taken each day.

remarkable. If Tim Bostic can't do it, it can't be done.

Don't worry Paintsville, Magoffin County won't present any problems for you in 1987 baseball, they have no coach. Oh sure, someone might field a team but baseball in Hornet land will be obsolete in a few years.

For your service, Tim Bostic, from everyone you coached, "Thanks for everything." If I ever have a son who wants to play baseball I expect you will personally tutor him. I want my child to have something no other Magoffin County student will receive, a quality baseball teacher and a quality man teaching him.

Safety Programs Mean Fewer Boating Deaths

Although boating activity in Kentucky has increased by 70 percent since 1972, boating fatalities have dramatically decreased, partly due to annual water safety programs taught by the Kentucky water patrol.

Beginning this month, Water Patrol officers, employees of the Kentucky Natural Resources Cabinet, offer programs to schools and adult groups in the winter months when boating activity is at a minimum. The programs incorporate films and slide presentations ranging in length from one half hour for civic groups to six one-hour classes for school children.

If you are interested in a water safety program for your group or school, call the water patrol toll free telephone number, 1-800-828-BOAT. Office hours are from 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Since the program schedules are filling fast, you should not delay calling if you are interested.

SHORT SPORTS

Daredevil offense attack with 23 points, and Brian Hall cashed in with 17 to lead McDowell to a 70-65 championship victory over Dorton.

In continuing Floyd County domination over non-conference opponents, the Betsy Layne Bobcats thumped Breathitt County, 70-49, Friday night.

Jimmy Stumbo continued his offensive opponent torture leading Betsy Layne to the home victory with a total of 25 points.

Improving and impressive guard Duran Newsome gave strong support with his 16 points while Mike Vance added eight points for his personal season high.

With the big winning margin, Coach Craynor Slone was given the opportunity to play just about everyone in the gym and just about everyone scored.

Bud Newsome accounted for six points, and Roy Ballard scored four while Randall Spurlock hit a free throw for one. Todd Sturgill, Keith Hall, Matt Conn, Sam Stewart, and Kevin Spurlock all finished with two points each.

The University of Kentucky basketball Wildcats won their own invitational tournament Saturday when they upended Boston University 81-69 in the championship game.

Rex Chapman, who has already proved why he was rated as the best guard prospect ever from the Bluegrass state, poured in 26 points to lead the Wildcats in scoring.

Kentucky, behind Rob Lock, advanced to the finals with a 75-59 victory over Iona. Lock scored 19 points and hauled down 11 rebounds in the winning effort.

Penn State head football coach Joe Paterno was awarded the Bear Bryant trophy this past week to recognize him as college football's best coach.

The award was decided by the Football Writers Association of America. This year's honor was the third time in the past eight years that Paterno had been recognized as football's college coach of the year.

Paterno may have to weave some of his football magic to prove more so that he deserved the award, because his Penn State club will tangle with the nation's number one team January 2 in the Fiesta Bowl in a battle for the winter and spring's permanent top spot.

The NFC playoffs are now set and action between wildcard representatives will take place December 28.

The LA Rams, after their loss to San Francisco, will travel to Washington to take on the Redskins. If the Rams win they will play in New York while San Francisco and Chicago do battle in the Windy City.

If Washington wins, they will play Chicago and the 49ers will travel to New York.

The AFC picture is still cloudy even though only one game remains. Tonight New England and Miami hook up and the Patriots need a victory over the divisional rival Dolphins for a divisional title.

The Paintsville Tigers fell from the Kentucky Network's top spot this week after experiencing trouble in Louisville.

Paintsville was firmly planted as the number one team in the state, but with two losses this week will no doubt drop in the Kentucky Network poll.

Charlie Johnson

Charlie Johnson, 73, of Weeksbury, died last Wednesday at Highlands Regional Medical Center. He was a son of Malion and Ousley Hall Johnson and was born April 13, 1913 in Pike county. A retired miner, he was a member of the U.M.W.A. Local No. 5899 at Wheelwright, and also of the Joppa Old Regular Baptist Church at Melvin. Surviving are his wife, Eliza Collins Johnson; two sons, Billy and Charles Johnson, both of Weeksbury; five daughters, Betty Tackett, of Marshville, O., Mary Lou Howell, Bonnie Thacker, Jeanette Shelly and Nancy McDonald, all of Richman, O., 14 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. Funeral services were conducted Sunday at 10 a.m. at the Joppa Old Regular Baptist Church with ministers of the church officiating. Burial was made in the Buckingham cemetery under direction of the Nelson-Frazier Funeral Home.

Lenora Mullins

Funeral services for Lenora Mullins, 75, will be conducted at 11 a.m. today (Monday) at the Little Rock Old Regular Baptist Church at Jack's Creek. Miss Mullins died Friday at her residence at Bypro. Born November 29, 1911 at Halo, she was a daughter of the late Harry and Nanny Tackett Mullins. She is survived by three brothers, Jerry Mullins, of Bypro, Andy Mullins, of Bevinville, Melvin Mullins, of Price, and one sister, Mallie Brown, of Wayland. Ministers of the Old Regular Baptist Church will officiate and burial will be made in the Mullins cemetery at Jack's Creek under direction of the Nelson-Frazier Funeral Home.

Spriggs Victim Of Heart Attack At Jail, Friday

An inmate at Floyd County Jail died early Friday morning of a heart attack in the course of a card game with fellow inmates, according to a deputy jailer. Thomas Lee Spriggs, 39, who had been held since Monday night in lieu of a $5,000 property bond on a drunk driving charge, had a history of heart trouble, including an earlier heart attack this summer, according to a family member. Deputy Jailer Larry Campbell said Spriggs and five other prisoners were playing cards around 3:45 a.m. when Spriggs complained of pain, clutched his chest, and slumped into the lap of the man sitting beside him. He was apparently dead when an emergency medical technician arrived on the scene shortly after. Spriggs, whose address is listed as Allen on court records, had been living most recently with her at Martin, said his sister, Brenda Clay. He had nitroglycerin tablets with him and had taken one shortly before his death, witnesses said. But he had been unable to afford another medication prescribed for his heart condition. Clay told authorities. Campbell said the night turnkey, Jody Mullins, saw Spriggs as he made a routine check of the cellblock area around 3:35 a.m. Spriggs did not complain of pain at that time, the turnkey reported. A former mechanic, Spriggs was born November 15, 1947 in Prestonsburg, a son of the late John Lee Spriggs and Faye Woods Hall, of Allen. In addition to his mother, he is survived by his stepfather, George Hall, Jr., of Allen; two brothers, Roger Hall and David Hall, both of Allen; three sisters, Carolyn DeBates, of Redford, Mich., Brenda Clay, and Tammy Kilburn, both of Martin. Funeral services will be conducted today (Monday) at 10 a.m. at Hall Funeral Home chapel in Martin, with Ken Lemaster officiating. Burial will follow in the Spriggs family cemetery at Eastern under direction of the Hall Funeral Home.

Gracie Allen Collins

Gracie Allen Collins, 76, of Wayland, died Friday, at her residence following a short illness. She was born March 2, 1910 at Wayland, a daughter of the late Alex and Laura Shepherd Allen. She is survived by her husband, Worden Collins; six sons, Jackie D. Collins, of Little Rock, Ark.; Jerry Lee Collins, of Howe, Ind.; Clifford Collins, of Stroth, Ind.; Billy Dean Collins, of Shelby, O.; Jimmy J. Collins, of Sturgis, Mich.; Johnny Collins, of Wayland; three daughters, Edith L. Cordial, of Wayland, Helen Sue Gray, of Sturgis, Mich.; Laura Ann Lane, of Seminole, Fla.; three brothers, Oran Allen, in Michigan, Clester and Chester Allen, both of Wayland; three sisters, Ermal Lee Hicks, also of Wayland, Nora Allen, of Kendallville, Ind.; Rita Ford, of Indianapolis, Ind.; 28 grandchildren and 19 great-grandchildren. Funeral services will be conducted today (Monday) at 10 a.m. at the Steele's Creek Regular Baptist Church, at Wayland, with Regular Baptist ministers officiating. Burial was made in the Cordial cemetery, at Wayland, under direction of the Hall Funeral Home.

The public employment service is a nationwide system which provides services to individuals seeking employment, and to employers seeking workers. The system also facilitates the match of job seekers and employers within and among the States and performs basic work test activities for the States' unemployment compensation systems.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Bernard Tackett, December 26, 1974. DADDY Twelve long years have now escaped Since the Lord called you away We still miss you as though it were yesterday. But praise the Lord, it won't be long Until that rapturing day. Then we shall meet to part no more Throughout Eternity. FAMILY

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Mickey Lawson, who passed from this life, May 26, 1985. Honey, to some you are forgotten To others just a part of the past, But to us who loved and lost you Your memories will always last. No one knows the heartache Only those who have lost can tell, The pain we bear the one We loved so well. The sound of your voice, The touch of your hand, So very much missed, and So hard to understand. It's a lonesome home without you And sad has been the way, For life and home are not the same Since you went away. If all this world was ours to give, We would give it, yes, and more, To see you coming up the steps And walking through the door. You were so very special in your own special way. Your love and memories will be with us Mickey today, and everyday. Love you so much in everyday. Sadly missed by his daughter, Brandie; mother, father Readie Junior; brother, Gary; sisters Glenda, Bonnie and a host of family and friends.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Maggie Ousley Hicks, December 20, 1981. Five years have passed since our dear, sweet mother has left us. It was so hard to give her up. She was such a dear and kind person, especially to her children. We miss her so very much, miss seeing her loving smile and the talks we would have with her. She loved Christmas so very much, so it's so hard to realize she isn't here to share it with us this year. To those who have a mother with you, please cherish the time you have with her and love her deeply because a mother's love is so very precious. Sadly missed by her children CHARLENE, CLYDE, TIM AND TRENT

Analysis Suggests...

American Workers Have Inadequate Insurance Against Mental Illness

Americans working in medium and large sized companies have inadequate health insurance coverage for mental illness, a group of diseases that will strike two out of 10 people during their lifetime. That was the conclusion drawn from an analysis of Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) data published in the October issue of the American Journal of Psychiatry. BLS data indicate "a growing crisis in access to psychiatric services for middle-class families when medical expenses arising from catastrophic or serious chronic mental illness find them underinsured," the report says. "Already restricted benefits for psychiatric illness are being curtailed further as a means to effect cost control and savings." The report, written by Jo Brady, APA health economist, Stephen S. Sharfstein, M.D., vice president and medical director of Sheppard and Enoch Pratt Hospital, and Irwin L. Muszynski, Jr., J.D., M.S., director of the APA Office of Economic Affairs, looked at the BLS Level of Benefits Survey taken between 1979 and 1984. Though 99 percent of those surveyed had hospitalization coverage for mental illness, an increasing number of policies had limits on the amount they will pay for such hospitalization. Moreover, 6 percent of surveyed workers with health care benefits had outpatient coverage for mental illness, but, again, the benefit limited the amount of money or the number of doctor visits for such care. "In 1981, 15 percent of employees were in plans with separate dollar limits; by 1984 this number had grown to 24 percent," Brady and her colleagues report. "The use of fixed dollar caps became an increasing problem as inflation eroded the buying power of set dollar limits." In other words, insurance companies may provide full coverage for a physical illness, but limit coverage for mental illness to a specific dollar amount that has not changed over the years. Moreover, a policy that has continually limited psychiatric benefits to $2,000 a year since 1981 will cover even less care after five years of inflation than it originally offered. The picture is more gloomy for outpatient psychiatric care, Brady and her colleagues noted. "In 1984, 53 percent of the participants (unchanged from 1981) were covered by plans requiring 50 percent copayment, while 69 percent (up from 61 percent in 1981) were covered by plans with specific dollar limits. A plan could have an annual limit on visits, a limit on dollars per visit and lifetime limits on dollars or visits." On the brighter side, insurance coverage for alcohol abuse increased during the survey period. Coverage for alcoholism increased from 38 percent of the workers in surveyed companies in 1981 to 61 percent in 1984. Slightly more than 40 percent were covered for both alcohol and drug abuse treatment. "Since medium and large firms usually have more comprehensive coverage than small companies, part-time workers, and self-employed persons, the results from our study are biased toward a more favorable climate for mental illness coverage than actually exists," the authors write. "While health insurance coverage for the treatment of mental illness in 1984 was available to most full-time employees in medium and large establishments, this fact alone does not suggest that such coverage was good or even adequate."

Two Kentucky professors—from Centre College and Murray State University—have been selected as new deans for the 1987 Governor's Scholars Program. Dr. Milton Reigelman, chair of the division of humanities at Centre College and veteran literature teacher in the Governor's Scholars Program, will be dean for the 1987 program at Centre. Dr. Kenneth Wolf, associate professor of history and coordinator of World Civilization courses at Murray State University, has been named dean of the 1987 program at the University of Kentucky. Gov. Martha Layne Collins sponsors the prestigious program in partnership with private corporations and foundations. Six hundred outstanding Kentucky high school juniors, selected competitively from across the commonwealth, will attend the academic and personal enrichment program free of charge from June 20 until July 24 next year, prior to their senior year in high school. Reigelman and Wolf will succeed Dr. James Lee Howard, former Centre professor, and Dr. Robert E. Hemenway, former chair, English Department of the University of Kentucky. Dr. Howard was appointed vice president for academic affairs at Kentucky State University in August, and Dr. Hemenway is now dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, University of Oklahoma. The new deans were recommended by an eight-member search committee after a two-month search process, according to Lillian H. Press, executive director of the program. The deans serve part-time until June and full time in June and July. Reigelman received his bachelor's degree from William and Mary College and has done graduate work at John Hopkins University, the University of Pennsylvania and the University of Iowa, where he received a Ph.D. in English. He holds two master's degrees, as well, and is a member of Phi Beta Kappa. A professor of English, he came to Centre in 1971. Reigelman has twice received Fulbright awards to serve as a senior lecturer on American literature in Poland and in the Soviet Union. A former captain in Army intelligence, he was a reporter for The Washington Post. Wolf received his bachelor's degree from St. Ambrose College in Iowa, and a master's and Ph.D. degree from the University of Notre Dame. He has served as a professor at Murray since 1969 and spent two summers as a faculty member in the Kentucky Institute for European Studies in Austria. As coordinator of Murray's interdisciplinary World Civilization courses, which enrolls 1,200 students each semester, Dr. Wolf has university-wide responsibility, supervising 30 sections of the course. He is a recognized scholar of intellectual history. His column "Thoughts in Season" appears three times weekly in the Murray-Leader-Times. Members of the dean search committee included members of the scholars program's original planning committee: Rush W. Dozier Jr., vice chairman Public Service Commission and chairman of the board of directors of the Governor's Scholars Program; John Frazer, executive director of the Council of Independent Kentucky Colleges and Universities; Robert Sexton, executive director of the Prichard Committee; Roy Peterson, Council on Higher Education; Taylor Hollin, Department of Education; scholars program board members Robert Slone, of Lexington, president, Foodtown; Stanley Dickson vice chairman of South Central Bell, and Mrs. Press.

BRIGHTON BEACH MEMOIRS (PG 13-Universal) Starring Blythe Danner, Bob Dishy, Jonathan Silverman. ★ ★ ★

By J.T. YURKO

If nothing else, Neil Simon is prolific. Since his first Broadway play, "Come Blow Your Horn," was first produced in 1961, Simon has written more than a dozen Broadway shows and nine original screenplays and has adapted eight of them for the screen.

His plays range from classic American comedies ("The Odd Couple," "Barefoot in the Park") to simulated comedies ("The Out-of-Towners") to tragedies of comedies ("Murder by Death," "The Slugger's Wife"). The quality of his work varies, but Simon continues to put forth an impressive and unequalled body of work.

During the past five years, Simon has written a trilogy of autobiographical plays. They are "Brighton Beach Memoirs," "Biloxi Blues," and the recently opened "Broadway Bound."

"Brighton Beach Memoirs" presents Eugene Morris Jerome (Jonathan Silverman) in the prime of adolescence. It is set in the Brighton Beach section of Brooklyn, and Jerome grows up in a Jewish household that is not much different from any other household — meaning that everyone involved is only slightly crazy.

Eugene is about to enter adulthood, but he can't quite leave the loves of childhood behind. In his journal he writes a line that sums up this peculiar moment in his life: "Actually, I'd give up writing if I could see a naked girl while I was eating ice cream."

Yet in this trilogy Simon forsakes the one-liner more than he has at any point in his career. The family constellation around Eugene is presented in humorous fashion, but without Simon's usual go-for-broke jokes.

The Jerome family is universal enough to trigger memories for most filmgoers, but unique enough to offer some lovely new characters. Of these, Blythe Danner as the matriarch of the household and Judith Ivey as her widowed sister present exceptional performances.

It's true that they don't quite look Jewish, but had director Gene Saks gone with ethnic faces, the same critics who are complaining now would be screaming "stereotypes."

OLIVER TWIST

A young orphan (Richard Charles, foreground) undergoes a series of adventures before learning the secret of his ancestry in "Oliver Twist," which airs TUESDAY, DEC. 30, on CBS.

VIDEO SCENE

The 10 best videos of 1986

By Barton Weiss

As 1986 turns into a fading blur in our collective memory cells, it's time to look back, evaluate and come up with a 10-best list. Here, without further ado and in no particular order, are the 10 best videos of 1986.

Peter Gabriel

Peter Gabriel — "Sledgehammer." One of the best videos ever. This Steven Johnson video is so original and so good that nobody has been able to copy its style, and in the current video world, that's a major feat.

Lou Reed — "No Money Down" and "Original Wrapper." Reed once again proves that he's one of the coolest people on earth. In "No Money Down," he shows a personal view of destruction by seeming to tear his head apart. This is really a refinement of Kevin Godley and Lol Creme's work from "Rockit" — remember the robots?

"Original Wrapper" is a refinement of the work of Zbigniew Rybczynski (commonly known as Zbig). Here, Big Z uses more talent and locations than he has used in the past. In both videos, Reed's character comes through the stylized imagery.

R.E.M. — "Fall on Me." R.E.M. doesn't appear in this clip, but the band uses the poetic vision of the lyrics to make its presence felt. R.E.M. is the most imitated band around the country, but in sound only. Nobody makes clips like they do.

Iggy Pop — "Cry for Love." Iggy's dance through the post-industrial landscape shows a wonderful mix of youthful angst with the knowledge of pain that comes in later years.

INXS — "What You Need" has more images per second than anything I've ever seen — period.

Run-D.M.C. — "Walk This Way." The video that made Run-D.M.C. and rap music accessible to the masses.

Talking Heads — "Wild Wild Life." It's a great clip, but it was even better in its original version in David Byrne's "True Stories," where the whole town got up to lip sync a line of the song.

Paul Simon — "Homeless." The clip of this a cappella song brings the South African problem home for American audiences by mixing our homeless problem with theirs.

Big Audio Dynamite — "E=MC2." BAD is a visually oriented band — and not just in the sense that they like to be in videos. The band's whole aesthetic includes imagery from films, television and music. This clip is a compilation of clips from Nicholas Roeg's films.

HEAD OF THE CLASS

Charlie (Howard Hesseman) decides to change his old-fashioned thinking after his students give him an object lesson when he refuses to learn how to use a computer, on ABC's "Head of the Class," airing WEDNESDAY, DEC. 31.

Rod Taylor in 'Outlaws'; Football for the New Year

By Wendy Wallace

Years ago, in the 1960 adaptation of H.G. Wells' "The Time Machine," Rod Taylor played a British scientist who had frustrating experiences in the future after inventing a time-travel device.

Rod Taylor

On Sunday, Dec. 28, Taylor returns in a similar vehicle as a Texas sheriff in a special two-hour premiere of Outlaws, a new CBS mid-season replacement, which will move to its regular Saturday slot on Jan. 3.

"Outlaws" deals with four 1899 bandits pursued by a sheriff who get transported to modern-day Houston by a freak electrical storm. With stolen $20 gold pieces as a stake, the outlaws and the sheriff must reconcile their differences and learn to survive in this startling new world.

What do they do? With the help of a modern law-enforcement officer (played by Christine Bel-ford), they join forces to form a detective agency.

If it's a timeless classic you desire, don't miss Oliver Twist (Dec. 30, CBS). George C. Scott plays Fagin, a moneylender and fence who trains a gang of young pickpockets in this adaptation of the Charles Dickens' classic about an orphan raised in a workhouse.

For those who choose not to remember the past, the New Year brings college football — and more college football.

Starting Jan. 1, here's the lineup: For ABC, it's Auburn vs. USC in the Florida Citrus Bowl from Orlando Stadium, in Orlando, Fla. Following that game, the Nebraska Cornhuskers go up against the LSU Tigers in the Sugar Bowl from the Superdome in New Orleans.

NBC provides coverage of the Rose Bowl when Michigan meets Arizona State at the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif. Later in the evening is the Orange Bowl, which pits the Oklahoma Sooners against the Arkansas Razorbacks, from the Orange Bowl in Miami.

On Jan. 2 on NBC, the Fiesta Bowl from the Sun Devil Stadium in Tempe, Ariz., pits the No. 1-ranked University of Miami Hurricanes against the No. 2-ranked Penn State Nittany Lions in a showdown for supremacy. The 1986 Heisman Trophy winner, QB Vinny Testaverde, leads the Miami offense.

And For Your Eyes Only (Dec. 28, ABC) offers a bit of escapism for James Bond fans. Roger Moore returns in this 12th adventure of the popular series and saves the world by outrunning and outfoxing his enemies on ski slopes, under water and on the face of a vertical cliff.

NOTICE OF ENACTMENT AND SUMMARY OF ORDINANCE
I. TITLE:
AN ORDINANCE RELATING TO THE AUTHORIZATION AND EXECUTION OF A FIRST SUPPLEMENTAL TRUST INDENTURE AMENDING THE INDENTURE AUTHORIZING THE COUNTY OF FLOYD, KENTUCKY, RESIDENTIAL MORTGAGE REVENUE BONDS, SERIES 1979, DATED APRIL 1, 1979.

II. SUMMARY

As required by Chapters 67 and 424, I hereby certify that an Ordinance, the title of which is the foregoing, was enacted by the Fiscal Court of the County of Floyd, Kentucky, at its regular meeting on December 19, 1986, and that the following is a summary of the provisions of said Ordinance. The Ordinance:

A. Authorizes and approves the participation of the County in a proposed restructuring program (the "Program") of the County of Floyd, Kentucky Residential Mortgage Revenue Bonds, Series 1979, dated April 1, 1979 (the "Bonds"), for the purpose of freeing-up and making available to the County certain residential funds at the present time which would otherwise become available to the County in future years.

B. Authorizes and approves the execution of a First Supplemental Trust Indenture between the County and First National Bank of Cincinnati, Cincinnati, Ohio, as trustee, custodian and paying agent (the "Trustee") amending and supplementing the original Indenture authorizing the Bonds.

C. Authorizes the County Judge/Executive and other County officials to take any other necessary action to effect the Program.

D. Provides that nothing in the Ordinance will create a general obligation of the County or cause the County to become liable on the Bonds.

E. Provides that the Ordinance shall be effective upon the publication of a Notice of Enactment and Summary of Bond Ordinance.

F. The full text of the Ordinance is on file in the office of the undersigned Fiscal Court Clerk, during normal working hours, Monday through Friday, in the Courthouse in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, where it is available for public inspection. (Signed) Carla R. Bolton, Fiscal Court Clerk. 1t.

AL-ANON IS IT FOR YOU?

Millions of people are affected by the excessive drinking of someone close. The following twenty questions are designed to help you decide whether or not you need Al-Anon:

1. Do you worry about how much someone else drinks?
2. Do you have money problems because of someone else's drinking?
3. Do you tell lies to cover up for someone's else's drinking?
4. Do you feel that if the drinker loved you, he or she would stop drinking to please you?
5. Do you think that the drinker's behavior is caused by his or her companions?
6. Are routines frequently upset or meals delayed because of the drinker?
7. Do you make threats, such as, "If you don't stop drinking, I'll leave you"?
8. When you kiss the drinker hello, do you secretly try to smell his or her breath?
9. Are you afraid to upset someone for fear it will set off a drinking bout?
10. Have you been hurt or embarrassed by a drinker's behavior?
11. Does it seem as if every holiday is spoiled because of drinking?
12. Have you considered calling the police for help in fear of abuse?
13. Do you find yourself searching for hidden liquor?
14. Do you often ride in a car with a driver who has been drinking?
15. Have you refused social invitations out of fear or anxiety?
16. Do you sometimes feel like a failure when you think of the lengths you have gone to control the drinker?
17. Do you think that if the drinker stopped drinking, your other problems would be solved?
18. Do you ever threaten to hurt yourself to scare the drinker?
19. Do you feel angry, confused and depressed most of the time?
20. Do you feel there is no one who understands your problems?

If you have answered yes to three or more of these questions, Al-Anon or Alateen may help. You can contact Al-Anon or Alateen by calling 886-2893.

Senior Citizens at the Prestonsburg Center are served a hot meal by Center personnel.

Sue Wilkerson prepares 1,300 meals every day, but she doesn't do it alone. Wilkerson is director of food services at Highlands Regional Medical Center. She oversees 32 employees who prepare 1,300 meals each day for patients, visitors, HRMC employees, students at Mountain Christian Academy, and senior citizens in Floyd, Johnson, Martin, and Magoffin counties. In October, the Food Service Department prepared nearly 50,000 meals.

In addition to breakfast, lunch, and dinner meals, Highlands also does catering, including decorated cakes, party trays, and complete holiday dinners. Mrs. Wilkerson says catering helps make her job more interesting. "Food service can be very routine," she explains, "you finish breakfast, then start lunch, you finish lunch and start dinner, after dinner you have to get ready for breakfast again. Preparing special meals, party trays, and cakes breaks this routine. Our employees take pride in their work and catering helps keep them motivated to always do their best."

Highlands has been preparing meals for Mountain Christian Academy since December 1985. They began preparing senior citizens meals in July of this year.

"We've never really advertised the catering service," added Mrs. Wilkerson. "Most of our business comes from people who have tried our food, liked it and called us. For this type of service, word of mouth seems to be the best advertisement."

CARD OF THANKS
The family of Perry Newman would like to extend their appreciation to all those friends, neighbors and loved ones, who helped comfort them during their time of sorrow. Thanks to all who sent food and flowers, prayers or spoke words of comfort. A special thanks to the minister, George Akers, and the Hall Funeral Home for its kind and courteous service.

...about your Social Security

WHAT YOU NEED FOR RETIREMENT
People planning to retire next year or in the near future should not wait until the last minute to get answers to the questions they may have about Social Security. This may lead to a delay in benefits or Medicare coverage, or even the loss of benefits in some cases.

The people at any Social Security office can answer a person's questions about retirement benefits. In addition, a special leaflet entitled "Thinking about retiring?" is available for the person contemplating retirement. The leaflet gives answers to questions most frequently asked by people planning to retire.

Many people retire at the beginning of the year because it permits them to wrap up their affairs more conveniently. However, you may retire at any time during the year without affecting your right to benefits or the benefit amount.

Social Security generally suggests that people apply 2 or 3 months before the month they wish their Social Security checks to begin. This gives the office time to process the claim and take care of any problems that may crop up.

You may apply by mail, by telephone, or in person. Once a person is interviewed by phone, the rest may be handled by mail. The best times to call the office to assure prompt service is during the latter part of the month, on Thursday or Friday, and in the afternoon.

A person applying for retirement benefits should have his or her Social Security card or a record of the number; birth certificate; a copy of his or her W-2 form for the last year; or if self-employed, a copy of the self-employment tax return for the last year since recent reports may not yet be in the records. If spouses and children are also eligible, evidence may also include a marriage license for a spouse and birth certificates of spouse and children.

People who have questions about retirement should call me at the Social Security office. That number is listed in your local telephone directory.

Drinking and Driving
By Attorney General DAVID L. ARMSTRONG

About half of the nation's traffic deaths result from accidents involving drinking drivers. Drinking alcohol impairs a person's ability and judgment which can cause someone to make mistakes. Unfortunately, some mistakes are fatal when made behind the wheel of a car.

According to the Kentucky State Police, there were 7,744 accidents in 1985 on the Kentucky highways that were alcohol-related. Of this total, 151 were fatal accidents in which 168 people were killed. Many of these tragedies could have been prevented.

With the holiday season here, everyone should stop and think before getting behind the wheel after drinking. Even one alcoholic beverage could have a greater impact on one's ability to drive than one might realize. In Kentucky, a blood-alcohol concentration of one-tenth of 1 percent is considered the legal measure of "drunk driving." There are many factors which affect a person's impairment, including the rate of drinking, the concentration of alcohol in a beverage, the person's body weight, and psychological factors such as stress, anger or fear (which influence the emptying of the stomach). Driving after even moderate drinking is not worth the risk of a serious accident or injury, either to yourself or someone else.

Kentucky's DUI Law is tough on drunk driving offenders. If you are a first offender, you will receive a six month license suspension. You will also be fined a minimum of $200 and could face imprisonment for not less than 48 hours nor more than 30 days in jail, or both.

Should you be convicted a second time within a period of five years, you will go to jail for a minimum of seven days up to a maximum of six months. Your license will be suspended for one year and you will pay a minimum fine of $350. Persons convicted of DUI for the third time within a five year period will be sent to prison for not less than 30 days. You will lose your license for a minimum of two years and will have to pay a minimum fine of $500. An additional service fee of $150 is applied to all offenses.

Juveniles convicted of drunken driving will have their licenses revoked until they reach 18 or for one year, whichever is longer.

You can avoid being involved in an alcohol-related accident this holiday season. If you must drink, do not get behind the wheel of a car. Let's make this holiday season a happy, safe one for everyone.

CARD OF THANKS
The family of Grace Noe (Granny) would like to thank everyone for all of their kindness and consideration in this time of need. We would also like to send special thanks to the wonderful people who sent flowers, food, refreshments, donations, and offerings of lodging. Our best regards and thanks to each and everyone of you.

Excess of 'Spirits' Can Spoil Season

Kentuckians enjoy the Christmas-New Year's season as a time to observe special customs, but one custom sometimes observed in excess—holiday "spirits"—can spoil an otherwise joyous celebration.

"There's one thing to remember about alcohol—it's a drug," said Dianne McAvoy of the Department for Mental Health and Mental Retardation Services Division of Substance Abuse. "Alcohol is a depressant which, when consumed heavily during a short period of time—such as at a party—can affect a person's judgment without him or her realizing it."

Holiday partying can easily provide the atmosphere that supports some of the myths about alcohol intake.

"Many people believe that eating while you drink will keep you from getting drunk," McAvoy said. "Eating does slow the absorption rate of alcohol into the blood stream, but if you drink too much, you will still get drunk."

"Drinking black coffee will sober you up, but only if you drink it for five hours. Cold showers don't work, either. The only way to remove alcohol from your system is for the liver to metabolize it."

Barbara Stewart, director of the Division's Prevention and Training Branch, said, "The holiday season with all its parties is a good time to evaluate drinking habits. If you're hosting a party, serve non-alcoholic drinks. There are many recipes for non-alcoholic cocktails available and they taste just as good as the ones with alcohol."

She added, "If someone attends a party, drinks heavily and gets drunk, the potential impact can last long after the holidays are over."

Heavy holiday drinking may result in uncharacteristic behavior such as throwing up, passing out, fighting or not recalling your actions while drunk. Traveling after an evening of drinking, the driver risks being arrested for public intoxication or having a car wreck which injures or kills someone.

"Many of these problems occur because few people understand how alcohol affects the body," said Stewart. "Beer, wine and liquor all contain ethanol, large doses of which are poison. Small doses may relax the drinker, but mood changes begin to show as the toxic effect increases. Many people become withdrawn, depressed, obnoxious, belligerent or even violent when drinking."

Pregnant women can drink, but do so at a risk, she added. Doctors have been unable to determine a "safe" level of alcohol consumption and as little as one drink per day could damage an unborn child in some women.

"Alcohol impairs judgment, reaction time and alertness are decreased and you may be considered 'under the influence' at only half the legal intoxication limit," McAvoy warned. "People who choose to drink at a holiday party should limit themselves to no more than one drink per hour." People who must drive themselves or others home after the party should consider non-alcoholic drinks or make other driving arrangements in advance.

"Drinking too much leaves you intoxicated, and intoxicated is just another word for drunk," said Stewart.

Celebrates 10th Birthday

Melissa Dawn Crider, daughter of Dwight and Karen Crider, of Abbott Creek, celebrated her tenth birthday, Wednesday, December 10.

Those present were her baby sister, Elizabeth, Jackie Robinson, Tina and Bradley Powers, Fred and Edna Hannah, Rhonda, Ronnie, Crystal, Arnold and Roberta Crider.

Mr. and Mrs. Crider also celebrated December birthdays.

Breast Center Logo Is Award Recipient

The logo design for the Breast Center received an Award of Excellence from the River Cities chapter of the International Association of Business Communicators (IABC). The logo is a graphic design of a woman posed over the words "Breast Center".

"When we chose the logo design for the Breast Center, we wanted a symbol that was uniquely feminine and we felt this design expresses femininity," commented Carol Blevins, HRMC spokesperson.

In addition to the Award of Excellence, Highlands received three Awards of Merit for Merchants Day, the Breast Center Tile Brochure, and the Testimonial advertising campaign.

The River Cities Chapter of the IABC is made up of business communicators who work in organizations in the Tri-State Area. Thirty-four awards were presented at the banquet held November 20 at the Bellfonte Country Club.

"Mother Teresa" Life Chronicled

"Mother Teresa," a 90-minute documentary airing Wednesday, January 14, at 9:00 p.m. (ET), 8:00 p.m. (CT), on KET, follows the life of one of history's most selfless and courageous people; a woman whose faith and determination have enabled her to transcend all political, religious and social barriers to help the world's poor.

Mother Teresa founded the Missionaries of Charity in 1948. A mission is based in the Letcher County community of Jenkins.

Five years in the making, "Mother Teresa" includes scenes of war-torn Beirut and Guatemala, famine-stricken Africa, and the ghettos of Calcutta and the south Bronx. Scenes of Mother Teresa evacuating children in West Beirut and working with lepers in Calcutta are included in the documentary narrated by Sir Richard Attenborough.

In 1985, "Mother Teresa" received a standing ovation at its first public screening at the United Nations, the first feature film ever to premiere there. That showing was followed by unprecedented screenings at the United States Senate and the Vatican.

An estimated 60 countries representing every continent will broadcast the documentary acknowledging the universal appeal of Mother Teresa and her work and becoming the first film to receive a coordinated broadcast throughout the world.

"Lions of The Night" Is Nat. Geographic Special

A new "National Geographic Special," more than three years in the making, reveals the secrets of Africa after dark. The season premiere, "Lions of the African Night," airs Wednesday, January 14, at 8:00 p.m. (CT), 7:00 p.m. (ET), on KET.

The special begins as darkness descends on the African bushveld and takes viewers through a cycle of day and night. The stars of the special—a pride of 30 lions composed of adult females and their cubs—begin to wake and stir, ready to set off on the nightly hunt for food. As the pride moves through the darkness, viewers get a startling close-up of age-old animal behavior.

Surprisingly, most hunts are not successful, making hunger a constant enemy. After the "Lions of the African Night" fail at a wildebeest hunt, the killing of a warthog barely satisfies the appetite of the large group. Also, the females and their cubs move off quickly when six intimidating male lions roar their intent to take over the pride.

"Lions of the African Night" is not all hunting and killing. The lions unwittingly provide several hilarious moments: Clumsy efforts to climb a tree end in a group tumble to the ground; and inexperienced cubs learn a painful lesson from a determined porcupine.

"Lions of the African Night" is a production of the National Geographic Society and WQED/Pittsburgh.

December 11—a daughter, Loretta Daniell, to Tammy and Darrell Hensley, of Paintsville. December 11—a son, Kenny Allen, to Carol Pennington, of Flat Gap. December 15—a son, Franklin Lee, to Sandra and Glenn Castle, of Hager Hill.

Ballroom Dancing
Airs January 13

When America's foremost ballroom dancers go toe-to-toe on the dance floor to compete for top honors, "Championship Ballroom Dancing" records the action in a 90-minute special airing Tuesday, January 13, at 8:00 p.m. on KET.

Juliet Prowse, an accomplished dancer in her own right, returns for the sixth year to host the evening's competition. Prowse is joined by former dance champion Roy Mayvor. Prowse and Mayvor provide step-by-step commentary as more than two dozen couples compete in the Latin, modern and cabaret divisions of the national championships.

"Championship Ballroom Dancing" includes a dance exhibition featuring Ron Montez and Elizabeth Curtis, seven-time U.S. Latin Dance Champions, who perform the cha-cha. Taped at the Hyatt Regency in Columbus, Ohio, the program also offers an engaging segment of ballroom dancing performed by children ranging from 7 to 15 years of age.

"Championship Ballroom Dancing" is a production of WGBH/Boston.

Tips For Safe, Happy Holiday

During the Christmas season, most households take special pride in decorating an evergreen tree or even the now-popular artificial trees. The surprise gifts later found under the tree often become cherished memories.

But there is no need to have another kind of memory—a not-so-pleasant one—connected with the Yuletide season. W. W. Zoellers, Pikeville Division Manager of Kentucky Power Company, said there are some basic steps to follow in tree decorations which involve the use of electricity.

"First, make certain the lighting systems and all cords carry the Underwriters Laboratory (UL) symbol of approval. If not, the lights or cords are not worth any investment and actually could be unsafe for use in a home or anywhere else," Zoellers explained.

"Also, avoid any tendency to put too many extension cords or fixtures into one electrical outlet. This could cause a circuit breaker to trip or a fuse to blow. It could also lead to a potentially dangerous situation. In addition, a bunch of extension cords lying on the floor around a tree could be hazards for tripping. And remember, never put a cord under a rug because it could become frayed or broken and present an electrical hazard."

If decorative lights are planned for outside use, make certain the units are approved and designed for such placement. "For example, outdoor lights should feature rubber gaskets to prevent moisture from getting into the sockets. Any outdoor connections of extension cords should be covered to prevent contact with water or snow."

Finally, a live tree requires a basic amount of special treatment. It should be treated with a commercially-available flame retardant, and it should be placed in a stand suitable for holding small amounts of water to keep the tree from drying out.

When purchasing a live tree, remember to check its needles for dryness. If dry, the tree could be a fire hazard when decorated with bulbs which become hot during use.

Bulbs should never be positioned near ornaments made of flammable material, and they should be turned off when the family is in bed or away from home.

"A safe Christmas is a happy Christmas," Zoellers concluded.

Merry Christmas—Happy New Year

We are pleased to take this opportunity to wish one and all a very Merry Christmas and a happy and successful New Year. We particularly wish to thank our esteemed clients for their confidence. It has been our desire to serve small accounts, as well as large ones, faithfully, honestly, efficiently and promptly.

EQUINE WORMING
COPYRIGHT 1986 KVMA (Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association)
For Kentuckians, the late fall and winter months are times of relative inactivity for horses. Shows are not held, racing is at a minimum, breeding operations have not yet started. It's a good time, and a good idea, to consider worming your horses. Various kinds of worms can affect horses, and not all medicines are effective against all worms. One of these is ascarids, or roundworms. They are sometimes seen in manure and resemble bean sprouts. They cause the most damage in young horses, mainly foals. Then there are bots, fairly large grublike worms which actually fly larvae which attach themselves to the stomach lining. They pit and scar the lining of the stomach and sometimes cause perforations, which may result in peritonitis and death. Pinworms cause intense itching around the anus, and while they seldom cause much damage they are irritating to the horse and the owner. Strongyles are a fairly large group of worms which present a real danger to the horse. They infest the bloodstream, where they scar the vessel walls, and sometimes cause colic, aneurysms and thrombosis. They also cause anemia and sometimes damage to the liver, lungs and heart. Several other intestinal parasites can infect horses, including tapeworms, lungworms, liver flukes, Habronemiasis and others. All can be controlled, though not always by the same medication. Your veterinarian can easily diagnose which worms are infecting your horses, and prescribe or administer an effective medicine which will control the particular parasites. He will also determine the general condition of your horse at the same time, which is important because worm medicine is a toxic and can kill a sick horse under certain conditions.

Judy C. Stewart, of Langley, was one of four Morehead State University home economics students who recently participated in a national leadership training conference in Knoxville, Tenn. "You Can Do Magic" was the theme of the weekend conference designed to help nearly 1,600 students and their advisers analyze their leadership qualities. "MSU students served as workshop leaders and attended Future Homemakers of America and Home Economics Related Occupations (FHA-HERO) advisers' sessions," according to Jane C. Ellington, MSU assistant professor of home economics, who also attended the conference. A senior, Stewart is the daughter of Frank Stewart.

New AICR Calendar Offers Tips To Lower Cancer Risk

If you have been looking for a year's worth of helpful hints on diet, nutrition and how they can relate to better health for your family, then a copy of the American Institute for Cancer Research 1987 calendar, "A New Leaf," is what you need.

Combining colorful illustrations and easy-to-understand health tips, this unique, full-color calendar offers a variety of information for a healthier lifestyle. Each month focuses on different health topics and presents positive information on diet and nutrition, with a particular emphasis on lowering cancer risk.

"A New Leaf" is part of the educational publications program of the American Institute for Cancer Research. This national organization provides a broad range of education materials for consumers and health professionals on cancer and cancer prevention, and also supports cancer research at universities and hospitals across the country.

Although there is no charge for this special calendar, the Institute is requesting a donation, if possible, to help support its research and education programs. A copy of the calendar may be ordered by writing to the American Institute for Cancer Research, Dept. NL, Washington, D.C. 20069.

 Those new contacts made this week could prove to be rewarding at a later time. Pursue the relationship on a professional level.

TAURUS
 (April 21-May 20)
 Don't hold in your feelings about a personal problem. Seek the comfort of close friends who can help you see things in a different light.

GEMINI
 (May 21-June 20)
 Speculative ventures may seem inviting. You are feeling adventurous. Take some risks wisely.

CANCER
 (June 21-July 22)
 Your hectic schedule leaves you with little time for family members. They may feel neglected if you do not explain your other commitments to them.

LEO
 (July 23-Aug. 22)
 Do not underestimate your creative talents. This is a good time to pursue new hobbies.

VIRGO
 (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
 Take time out from a busy social schedule to visit an older or ailing friend. Don't forget those who have helped you.

LIBRA
 (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
 You are in the spotlight right now. Social recognition may come your way. Make sure your appearance is neat and professional.

SCORPIO
 (Oct. 23-Nov. 22)
 Time alone might clear your mind. Plan a vacation or short trip by yourself. Get away and listen to your inner voice.

SAGITTARIUS
 (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
 Do not make any financial commitments right now. Your finances might be subject to sudden ups and downs.

CAPRICORN
 (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 Certain family obligations may put a strain on your social life. It is important to be responsible with family members.

AQUARIUS
 (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
 Your strong feelings may be clouding a romantic problem. Look for an easier solution.

PISCES
 (Feb. 19-March 20)
 Opposition from a loved one may leave you feeling lonely. A little emotional distance may be difficult but necessary right now.

Award Winner

The United States Achievement Academy recently announced that Kristina Bevins has been named a United States National Mathematics award winner in Algebra II and a National Science merit award winner in Advanced Biology.

Miss Bevins, who attends McDowell High School, was nominated for these awards by Lindsey Blackburn and Joan Cardwell, teachers at the school. Her name will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, published nationally.

She is the daughter of Bill and Barbara Bevins, of Printer, and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Butler, also of Printer.

The History Corner...
"Those Colorful Editors"

By A.G. SPENCER
Last week we took a look at the humble beginnings of Kentucky's first newspaper, the Kentucky Gazette. It began publication in Lexington in 1787 under the guidance of John Bradford. Bradford, never one to be overly concerned about a possible conflict of interest, served from time to time as a member of Lexington's Board of Trustees, and as both a member and a chairman of the Board of Trustees of Transylvania University. At the time of his death, he was serving Fayette county as high sheriff!

Again, it cannot be stressed too strongly that this state-sanctioned paper was vital as a voice through which public forums might be crystallized. Anything but apolitical, the Kentucky Gazette sponsored separation from Virginia, opposed Hamar and St. Clair, and played a significant role in the Whiskey Rebellion, the French and Spanish conspiracies, the Alien and Sedition Laws, the Burr Conspiracy, and public sentiment in the War of 1812.

Nor was early printing an easy proposition. When Bradford needed crude drawings or large capitol letters, he had to carve them out of dogwood with his pocket knife! Despite this somewhat primitive approach, the paper was printed with a surprisingly attractive format. Also beautiful examples of presswork were Bradford's publications of the first Kentucky almanac and the first pamphlet in the west.

Another Lexington paper, The Kentucky Herald, first saw the light of day in 1793 under the editorship of James H. Stewart. The paper proved unsuccessful, and shut down that same year, only to be reborn and moved to Paris in 1797.

Yet another paper which came into being around that time was The Kentucky Mirror. It opened for business also in 1797 in the hamlet of Washington under the editorship of William Hunter. When Hunter was elected state printer the next year, he moved his press from Washington to Frankfort, where he began publication of the Palladium.

Once the state had come into existence and population levels grew, a number of publications sprung up. Some of these included the Western Citizen (Paris), the Western Messenger, the Republican Auxillary, the Lexington Observer, and the Western Courier. Just by the titles of some of these papers, one can glean the importance that Kentucky played in being on the western frontier of our then-fledgling nation. One also can get a feeling for how deeply rooted political allegiances were among some of the early editors. One early editor even closed up his printing shop in Ashland when the Whig party for which his rag was a mouthpiece passed into history. He evidently saw no reason for a newspaper, or at least no other reason, other than to promote his own political views!

Some of the editors weren't above taking jabs at each other, as well. George D. Prentice, a New England Whig, had come to Kentucky to assume leadership of the Louisville Journal, which at that time (the paper began on November 24, 1830) was the number one paper in the state. A bitter enemy of Shadrach Penn, who was the editor of the heavily Democratic Advertiser, Prentice thoroughly embarrassed his rival by taking a paper from New Orleans, which was more than a year old, pressing it and changing the date, and wrapping it in a white paper bearing the inscription: "With compliments, clerk of the Waucousta, five days, seventy-eight hours out from New Orleans. Quickest trip on record."

Penn proceeded to write up a murder story, not realizing that it was over a year old. Even worse, in another column, he profusely congratulated the mate and the captain of the Waucousta for their record-breaking trip.

Penn was, quite naturally, mortified when he discovered that the Waucousta was, in fact, such a leaky old tub that her crew was afraid to sail on her. Not just singling out Penn, Prentice took on all comers, and was well ensconced as the state's preeminent editor for forty years.

Even Prentice was not immune to attack, however, as the pro-Democrat Cincinnati Gazette ripped him before he had even assumed his editorial duties in Louisville. The former ran a story entitled: "Prick Me a Bull Calf Till He Roar." That scathing editorial nearly caused the Whig Party, fearful that they were sending a lamb in to do battle with a lion, to recall young Prentice. Fortunately for the Whigs, Prentice distinguished himself admirably, and the Journal soon became the Kentuckians' "Whig Bible," for "every Whig to swear by and every Democrat to swear at."

Next week, we'll take up with the role Kentucky played in the Burr Conspiracy. Until then, health!

LOW FAT MILK... Since whole milk has only 3.5% fat, do you really have to switch to low fat or skim? Good Housekeeping's January issue suggests you consider this: While the percentage of fat in whole milk is small, the actual amount of fat is equal to two parts of butter, and one cup of whole milk has 150 calories. All milks have the same amount of nutrients and calcium, so by switching to skim milk (85 calories per cup), 1% fat milk (100 calories per cup), or 2% low fat milk (120 calories), you'll benefit.

America's Favorite Tree Is Profitable Business

Until the middle of the nineteenth century, any family that wanted a Christmas tree either cut the tree themselves or ordered one from a farmer. The custom was practiced mostly by German-Americans, although Americans of other stock were beginning to hear about the tradition.

All that changed in 1851, when a New Yorker named Mark Carr started that city's first Christmas tree business, according to National Wildlife magazine, a bimonthly publication of the National Wildlife Federation.

Carr lived in the Catskills 80 miles north of New York City, where he knew many German families lived. In mid-December of 1851, Carr filled two ox-sleds with young firs and spruces, loaded them on a steamboat, and sold them for a handsome profit at New York's Washington Market.

By 1880 a veritable forest of 200,000 trees was moving to Washington Market from all over the Northeast. They came on boats, by trains, and in big horse-drawn farm wagons. Although cedar trees were popular in the 1860s, by 1880 the fashion had switched to evergreens that dried more slowly, creating less of a fire hazard when decorated with lighted candles. Many early photographs show hemlocks, but they too had disadvantages, since their branches are too lacy and frail to support many ornaments.

Up in Maine, balsam firs had always been considered a nuisance, because they grew like weeds. But in 1892 a steam yacht returning to Boston from Newfoundland stopped at a small town on Maine's Penobscot Bay. The yacht's owner loaded 500 young balsam trees and sold them in Boston's Christmas market at Faneuil Hall. Within a few years, balsam became New England's favorite tree, and the Christmas trade sparked an economic boom for Maine.

In the Midwest, Christmas trees for cities like Chicago came largely by boat from the forests of Michigan. As early as 1887, two brothers named Schuenemann sailed from Michigan in their fishing schooner with a load of trees lashed to the deck. They tied up beside Chicago's Clark Street bridge and began selling their trees. Although both brothers were later lost in Lake Michigan storms, the younger brother's widow took over the business in 1913, and the Schuenemann Christmas tree ships became part of Chicago history.

By 1920 Christmas tree cultivation had become a profitable business in many parts of the country. Farmers were pleased to find a crop suitable for growing on rocky upland pastures and other unproductive pieces of land. In the 1930s, Franklin D. Roosevelt was the country's best-known Christmas tree farmer. Roosevelt helped popularize the concept by growing Christmas trees on his estate at Hyde Park, New York.

This year, 32 million Christmas trees will be sold in the United States—big business by any standard. The most popular tree is the scotch pine, a European import popularized in the 1930s by a Pennsylvania car salesman and entrepreneur named Fred Musser. But no matter how many trees are cut and sold, the fundamentals of the business haven't changed much since Mark Carr's time. The challenge, still, is how to ship fir trees to eager families in time for the Christmas holidays.

Blessings to All

As we gather together with friends and relatives let us remember the real meaning of Christmas. God's love for us!
