

Developer Told To Improve Site

Work Promised To Make Safe Shopping Area

Even as their newest tenant, the Winn-Dixie Supermarket, opened for business last week, developers of Prestonsburg Village were hit with yet another creditor's lawsuit and faced a threat that the partially-completed project would be shut down by city building code and fire authorities.

The developers insisted, however, that they could resolve their difficulties both with creditors and city officials and that they will see the project through to its conclusion.

Fire officials threatened to seek a court order closing down the 25-acre site at the junction of U.S. 23 and the Mountain Parkway unless a highwall behind newly-built stores is made more stable by the end of this week. In a letter to the contractors, Century Builders Associates, Inc., of Crestwood, Prestonsburg's code enforcement officer, Paul Chaffins, claimed the unstable highwall "causes extreme danger to life and property" and said no more construction will be permitted at the site until the problem is corrected.

"They've known about the highwall ever since it existed and have shown no effort to straighten it up," Chaffins added Friday. "Eventually there's going to be a massive rock failure over there. We can't leave it sitting there the way it is."

At the same time, Fire Inspector Larry Adams warned the developers, W and G Prestonsburg Associates, also of Crestwood, that fire lanes must be designated in the shopping center's parking lot.

Harry Eskridge, vice-president and director of construction for Century Builders, said in a Jan. 24 response to the fire officials that an excavation contractor would be on the job "on or about January 29" to begin immediately on "permissible cleanup operations" on the highwall and benches. He also said that possible revisions of the shopping center's parking layout could be submitted for the approval of its tenants.

Century Builders' marketing director Jan Youngling said Friday that machinery was being transported that day from Corbin to make the ramps that would permit the highwall bench to be cleared of loose boulders, a task described by Chaffins as the first and most urgent step in the reclamation process.

As Chaffins sees it, reclaiming the site will be no easy task. The highwall, which lies about 50 feet from the shopping center's two principal tenants—Walmart and Winn-Dixie—is 140 feet high, honeycombed by old mining operations, and apparently very unstable, he said. The center's main power lines and transformers lie between the rock face and the metal frame buildings, posing the possibility that a rockfall could bring down the high-voltage lines and electrify the buildings, he said.

Among possible remedies are terracing the rock face, facing the wall with concrete, pouring concrete into the fissures, excavating a safety ditch, building a wall to protect the power lines and buildings, or some combination of these measures. Estimates of the cost of the reclamation have ranged from $300,000 to $600,000.

While the firm has been held ineligible for an emergency grant under the federal Abandoned Mine Lands Program, Century Builders is still hopeful of tapping reclamation funds, Mrs. Youngling said. In any event, "we are 100 percent confident this problem will be remedied and the project finished," she said.

Financial Aid Workshop Slated Thursday at PCC

The Office of Financial Assistance of Prestonsburg Community College will be conducting a financial aid workshop tomorrow (Thursday) at 7 p.m. in the Martin Student Center. This workshop is for students who plan attending college this fall and expect to apply for financial assistance. Parents are encouraged to attend.

At the conclusion of the workshop, a representative from Prestonsburg Community College will be available to answer any questions concerning the academic programs and admission requirements at the college. Additional information concerning the workshop may be obtained by calling the Admissions-Financial Aid Office at 606-886-3863.

Dewey Lake Has Biggest U.S. Birch

Floyd county is not big tree country, but it has at Dewey Lake what has officially been declared the biggest sweet birch in the United States.

The tree, which rises 117 feet high and is three feet in diameter at the trunk, stands on a hillside overlooking Shade Branch, an arm of the lake, approximately one mile upstream from May Lodge. The Shade Branch area, like most of the forest land bordering the lake, is leased by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to the Kentucky Division of Forestry, with the two agencies working in cooperation in forest management.

It was while state Division of Forestry representatives were working in the lake area in April, 1979 that the big tree was found. The foresters, Reed Omer and Leslie Cole, who now are with the state reclamation office at Pikeville, nominated the tree to the Kentucky State Big Tree Program. Since then the birch has reigned as the state champion of that species, and last October it became the national champion.

The official Big Tree Certificate was issued to the Corps of Engineers by the state Division of Forestry.

Age of the tree has not been established. Nor can anybody explain how it survived the almost annual succession of forest fires which swept the lake area before Dewey Lake was impounded.

"If anyone is interested in viewing the tree, feel free to contact the Corps of Engineers office at Dewey Lake or call 606-789-4521 or 886-6709 for more information," W. Dean Murray, Dewey Lake resource manager for the Corps of Engineers, said last week.

Board Meets Tonight

The Floyd Board of Education is scheduled to meet this (Wednesday) evening at McDowell High School. UK education specialist Dr. Charles Faber, the consultant hired by the board to help in the selection of a superintendent, is expected to submit to the board the names of five candidates he considers best suited for the post.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT officials were urged here last week to get their fiscal courts and city councils behind a legislative effort to increase the gasoline tax as a way to provide funds for construction and repair of the state's highways. From left, Johnson Judge-Executive Wayne Blevins, Floyd Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo, Magoffin Judge-Executive Paul Salyer and (rear) Pike Judge-Executive Paul Patton were among county officials who attended a meeting at May Lodge sponsored by the Kentucky Highway Contractors Association.

Adams Brothers Win Acquittals

Beaver brothers Jimmy Adams, 34, and Donald Adams, 30, were acquitted in Floyd Circuit Court last Wednesday of assault and robbery charges.

The two had been identified by Dwayne Chaffins, 21, of Mansfield, Ohio, and Alan Case, 21, of Minnie, as their assailants on the night of October 29, 1983, when Chaffins was shot in the leg, arm and ribs with a .38 caliber revolver and Case was allegedly robbed of $120.

Case said the four men met at CJ's carryout at Price and were riding together over Bill Hall Branch when an argument broke out over his intention to buy the car in which they were traveling. After he handed over $120 of the $150 agreed-on purchase price, he and Chaffins were pushed out of the car and Chaffins was shot, Case said.

The four men later showed up in the emergency room at the Appalachian Regional Hospital at McDowell, Chaffins with gunshot wounds, Jimmy Adams with a cut to the back of his head. Initially, Chaffins and Case denied the Adamses were their assailants, of whom the victims gave police conflicting descriptions. Six days later Case changed his story to accuse the Adamses.

To each of us, at some time, comes personal tragedy which also strikes others near us. Last week's space shuttle catastrophe was a national tragedy which, somehow, drew almost all of us personally, however remote or isolated we were, into the shadows.

FEBRUARY CONFUSION

February, which could be rated first among all the months of the year because it's the shortest, is a confusing time. First of all, they've juggled Washington's Birthday around to fit into a Monday and give everybody a long week-end till few remember that George Washington was born on Feb. 22. And at last count there two Groundhog Days. Little wonder that the Weather Man also is confused.

Floyd Countians To Join Rally At Frankfort

Kentuckians with an interest in higher education will gather today at Frankfort's Convention Center to rally in support of Gov. Martha Layne Collins, proposed state budget.

The budget, which must be approved by the state legislature before it is enacted, includes healthy funding for the state's colleges and universities. Among projects listed by the governor to receive money is a proposed $2.9 million learning resource center at Prestonsburg Community College.

PCC director, Dr. Henry A. Campbell, Jr., said he expects representatives from every higher educational institution in the state to be represented at the rally, with students, alumni and anyone with an interest in higher education invited to attend as well.

"I think this is a good way for all of us to show we support higher education and the governor's budget," said Campbell. "I see this doing something good for all of higher education, not just PCC."

Campbell will be joined at the rally by several PCC staff members, including Mrs. Sandra Robertson, the college's coordinator for its learning resource center. Mrs. Robertson said she saw the rally being an important forum for education in Kentucky. "The last

Ex-Magistrate And Kinswoman Are Defendants

The Commonwealth completed its evidence in chief around 3 p.m. Tuesday, and defense testimony was scheduled to begin immediately thereafter. The case is not expected to reach the jury before this (Wednesday) afternoon, a court attache said.

Trial begun in Pike Circuit Court yesterday (Tuesday) of former Right Beaver Magistrate Kenneth Roberts and his sister-in-law, Naomi Green, on a dozen counts of theft stemming from a lengthy state police investigation of the 1982 Floyd county administration.

A Floyd grand jury in December, 1984, issued indictments accusing Roberts of stealing a utility building belonging to the county, taking materials owned by the county on various occasions, using county employees to repair a barn and three rooms of a hardware store he owned, using county employees and equipment to work on his own home, and having in his possession a forged county check.

Mrs. Green is named as an accomplice in two counts—stealing county property and using county workers and equipment on her personal residence. The two defendants are being tried together.

The 12 felony counts included in the indictments each carry penalties of from one to five years on conviction.

Anthony Castle is scheduled to be tried next Wednesday, Feb. 12, on two counts of theft and two of possessing a forged instrument, charges stemming from the same police investigation.

Trials of the Floyd county defendants were moved to Pike county on a motion of the prosecutor, who claimed it would be hard to empanel an impartial jury in this county.

State Police Probe Blasts into Trailer

A volley of gunshots fired into a trailer-home and vehicle of a Floyd county family in an isolated area near the Floyd-Magoffin line endangered the lives of three persons early Monday morning, and Kentucky state police are seeking the identity of those who fired the shots.

Eight shots were fired into underpinning of the mobile home of Dolvin Ratliff and family, and five bullets hit the family Jeep parked nearby. Inside the building at the time of the shooting, shortly after 2 a.m., were Ratliff, his wife, Charlene, and daughter, Shena. The scene of the shooting is at the head of the Raccoon fork of Salt Lick Creek.

State Trooper Todd Henson, who is investigating the shooting, said late Monday that both clues and witnesses are lacking.

Ratliff was quoted as saying he heard a vehicle drive away immediately after the shots were fired but could give no

USDA Conservation Plan May Save Erodible Farmland Here

Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block recently said farmers may begin in early March to volunteer highly erodible cropland for entry into the Conservation Reserve Program, a provision of the Food Security Act of 1985.

Highly erodible land that enters the Conservation Reserve Program will be ineligible for farming for 10 years and must instead be planted with permanent vegetative cover.

"The Conservation Reserve is one of the most important provisions of the 1985 farm bill," said Block. "The program will go a long way toward conserving America's eroding farmland for the future."

Up to 45 million acres may be enrolled in the reserve during the five-year period, 1986 through 1990. The yearly program acreage goals are at least 5 million for the 1986 crop year, 10 million or more each year 1987 through 1989, and 5 million or more for 1990, according to Block.

Program participants will receive annual rental payments, the amounts depending on the bids per acre and the number of acres under the 10-year contracts. Participants also will receive 50 percent of eligible costs of establishing trees or grass on the acreage placed in the reserve.

Rental payments will compensate farmers for retiring highly erodible cropland from crop production. The conservation payments will partly reimburse farmers for one-half the one-time costs of establishing vegetative cover.

Rental payments will be made annually as soon as practicable after Oct. 1 of each calendar year. Cost-sharing payments will be made as soon as possible after individual participants report their conservation treatments are in place.

The total amount of rental payments for any fiscal year may not exceed $50,000 or its equivalent, if in-kind payments are made. There is no payment limit on cost-sharing for cover establishment.

"Farmers who decide to return land to production during the 10-year contract must repay the government, with interest, all of its costs for annual rental and for establishing cover," said Block. "In the event of national need, however, the Secretary of Agriculture may declare that any farmer who wants to return the land to production may do so without penalty."

The sign-up dates for the Conservation Reserve Program are expected to be announced soon. Farmers interested in participating in the program should contact their local office of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Block said other USDA agencies also will administer the program. Technicians from USDA's Soil Conservation Service will help farmers determine if their land is eligible; the Extension Service will lead public information and education efforts; and the Forest Service will coordinate and provide technical assistance for tree planting.

State and local agencies also will lend assistance, he said. State forestry agencies will help prepare and approve tree planting plans. State wildlife agency representatives will serve on the conservation review groups to recommend and assist in determining the cover practice specifications necessary for wildlife enhancement. State conservation agencies will recommend and assist with erosion control requirements. Local conservation districts will approve all plans.

Governor Sets Voc Ed Week

Gov. Martha Layne Collins has declared Feb. 9-15 Vocational Education Week in Kentucky.

"Vocational Education—A Choice With a Future" is the theme for activities to be held statewide. Many vocational schools plan to display students' work, hold open houses, bring in guest speakers, offer tours and set up exhibits in public places.

Calling vocational education vital to Kentucky's economic development, Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald said, "Strong economic development requires that business and industry have access to a skilled, well-educated and highly motivated work force."

Vocational education is constantly updating equipment and curricula to meet the changing needs of the commonwealth's employers, said Wilburn Pratt, associate superintendent for vocational education.

"For example, if an employer needs people trained in robotics or special machinery techniques, we tailor our classes to meet that special need in that area," Pratt said.

There are 17 state vocational-technical schools, five health centers and 57 area vocational-education centers in Kentucky. State schools serve primarily post-secondary students, and the centers serve both high school and post-secondary students.

In addition, most Kentucky high schools offer general vocational-education programs that provide basic work skills, teach discipline and offer specific instruction.

Senate Week Review

By BENNY RAY BAILEY
State Senator

The biggest challenge of every legislative session is deciding how we are going to spend your tax dollars over the next two years, and we began to face that challenge in earnest last week.

Gov. Martha Layne Collins sent us her proposed two-year spending plan for the executive branch of state government last Tuesday night, delivering her Budget Message to a joint session of the House and Senate. As submitted, the governor's plan calls for spending more than $13 billion over the next two fiscal years. Of that figure, $6.3 billion would be General Fund money, and the rest would come from federal funds and other sources of state revenue.

Our Appropriations and Revenue Committee wasted no time in beginning hearings on the budget requests. Within hours of the governor's presentation, the committee sat down with administration officials to go over the budget figures in the first of a series of hearings that are expected to wind up the last week of February.

As we go through the proposed expenditures, we will take a look at every line of the budget. In many cases, we will make changes in the spending plans for various programs or departments to reflect the priorities of our constituents—and fiscal constraints.

Unlike Congress when it draws up the federal budget, we are prohibited by Kentucky's Constitution from spending more money than we take in. That means we must figure out how much we can spend by first estimating how much revenue we will raise from the various taxes we levy. The governor's staff is projecting a much more optimistic revenue picture for the next two fiscal years than is our staff economist. So we must now decide if we will accept the higher figures presented by the administration, which would allow us to spend more, or if we should stay with our own more conservative figures. Obviously, that decision will have an important impact on any final budget we approve.

Of course not all our time has been spent on the budget. We have also been taking up several other issues that will affect Kentuckians.

We have passed a bill that would once again establish a presidential primary in Kentucky. This past election, we used a caucus system that was supposed to involve more people in the selection of delegates to the national nominating conventions. In reality, that system did not work and we have voted to hold once again a statewide primary.

The primary would be held a little earlier than in the past, as we have decided to join with several other southern states to hold a regional primary in March. It has been dubbed a "Super Tuesday," in which the southern states would band together to elect their delegates on the same day. By holding simultaneous primaries, it is hoped we will develop a regional clout with the candidates that will not be forgotten after election day.

We have also passed a bill that would give local school districts more flexibility in deciding whether they should cancel school in times of bad weather. Currently, school districts that decide to hold classes on days when not all students are able to make it in are penalized because we base state funding on average daily attendance. The bill we passed and sent to the House would allow up to 10 "calamity" days a year with full state funding for those days when most students can make it to class.

It's a Learning Trip, Mayor Says of Visit

Making good on earlier promises to take a strong hand in city government, Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta is in Washington, D.C. this week to learn more about such things as revenue and finances, housing and downtown development.

Mrs. Latta, who returns home Friday, is scheduled to take part in several conferences which she feels will better equip her to govern the city. Among the most important of these, she said, is a federal briefing sponsored by the National Association of Regional Councils.

This meeting is set to cover the current status of federal revenue sharing programs, as well as the cuts cities can expect to receive in funding as a result of the Gramm-Rudman bill. Prestonsburg currently receives about $150,000 annually in revenue sharing money, though these funds will be cut off in October.

Mrs. Latta said that with cuts proposed by Gramm-Rudman, the city could stand to lose even more.

The mayor will also attend the Kentucky Housing Association's legislative reception and briefings. The Kentucky congressional delegation is scheduled to attend the reception, and Latta said she would have an opportunity for individual meetings with the lawmakers.

She will get a chance to meet with other mayors and city officials as well, along with developers, retailers and lending institutions during a conference on downtown retail development, sponsored by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

"I hope to learn something which might show us where we can go with our own downtown," said Mrs. Latta. "Part of this will be an instructional workshop on finding revenue sources."

Other workshops will cover such areas as how cities can attract developers, how to better deal with parking and transportation needs, and the use of public resources.

"It's a learning trip," said Latta. "A chance to make some contacts."

Rural Educator To Be Honored

The Rural Educator Award, sponsored by the Kentucky Commission on Women, will be presented at the Second Annual Conference on Rural Women—"Rural Women and Education" at Berea College on March 7.

The two-day conference, March 7-8, will examine the role that public education can play in the lives of girls and young women in rural areas. The Rural Educator Award is designed to recognize an individual who has made significant contributions in this area. The monetary award is for $100.

An individual may be nominated by sending a one-page statement on the person's qualifications including specific contributions in the field of education to enhance the lives of young women in the community. Two references who might be contacted by the Award Committee should be listed.

Applications must be completed and postmarked no later than February 15, and sent to Nancy Godsey Baker, executive assistant, Kentucky Commission on Women, 614A Shelby Street, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40601.

The three children of one Norwegian family all celebrate their birthday infrequently. They were born in 1960, 1964 and 1968—on February 29th.

Miss Hughes, Mr. Iden Wed

Sharyl Elizabeth Hughes, daughter of Col. (ret.) and Mrs. John Delmar Hughes, of Lexington, and Benjamin Howard Iden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Iden, of Bloomingsburg, Ohio, were married recently in a candlelight ceremony in Morehead's United Methodist Church.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a classic gown of silk charmeuse and Venice lace. The gown's scalloped cathedral length train, Elizabethan style sleeves, basque bodice, and high collar were adorned with hand-sewn seed pearls, Venice lace appliques, and cutwork. A matching headpiece held her veil in place. She carried a cascade bouquet of cymbidium orchids, stephanotis, rosebuds and trailing ivy.

Attending the bride were Suzan (Hughes) Reny, matron of honor; Margaret Holt, maid of honor; Cynthia Iden, Joan Iden, Buffi King, and Rachel Gessendorf, bridesmaids.

The groom's attendants were Toby Doughty, best man; Alan Cory, Doug Johnson, and Rob Pollock, groomsmen; John Hughes and Michael Reny, ushers; and Sam Iden, acolyte.

Paula (Richardson) Hughes served as welcome and guest book attendant. Little Morgan Smith was the flower girl, and Joey Reny was the ringbearer.

Honorary attendants were the sorority sisters and fraternity brothers of the bride and groom.

Dr. Randall Wells, of Morehead State University, was soloist. Officiating minister was the Rev. David Cheeks.

The ceremony was followed by a reception at the Adron Doran University Center on M.S.U.'s campus.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Iden are students at M.S.U. She is a junior, a member of Gamma Beta Phi honor society, and Kappa Delta sorority.

Mr. Iden, a senior, is president of the Student Government Association, a member of Blue Key honor society, and Sigma Nu fraternity.

Among the many guests from out-of-town were the bride's grandparents, Clyde Allen, of Pyramid, Ada Allen, of Adrian, Mich., and Gladys Hughes, of Ocala, Florida, formerly of Prestonsburg.

To Wed February 14

Dennis Gene and Priscilla Jean Martin, of Eastern, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Marie, to Deanie Ray (Bush) Davis, son of Floyd Dean and Patty Sue Davis, of Hippo.

Miss Martin is an early 1986 graduate of Allen Central High School. She plans to attend P.C.C. in the fall. Mr. Davis is a 1985 graduate of Allen Central High School and is now employed by F.D. Trucking.

Vows will be exchanged at 7 p.m., Friday, February 14, at the Church of Christ at Hueysville. All friends and relatives are invited to attend.

general assembly focused on elementary and secondary schools," she said, "and heaven knows, they needed it. Kentucky Advocates for Higher Education (who, along with the Council on Higher Education and the state's colleges and universities, is sponsoring the rally) focuses on kindergarten through graduate school."

One glaring statistic Mrs. Robertson cited is Kentucky's standing regarding adults seeking education above the high school level. She said that in the 18-34 age group, Kentucky ranked next to last in the nation. Methods of dealing with problems such as this are to be discussed at the gathering.

Mrs. Robertson also said that, while the community college system was the most cost-efficient higher educational institution in the state, it is also the least funded. Based on the state formula used to determine how much funding a school should receive, the community colleges get only about 70 percent of their projected needs.

One of the event's organizers, Bob Whitaker, associate director for Alumni Affairs at the University of Kentucky, said he expects between four and five thousand participants at the rally, but said seven to eight thousand would not be "out of the question." Whitaker said the entire legislature has been invited to attend, and shuttle buses will be provided to take the lawmakers there.

Though most people at the rally are expected to be there because of their desire for more support for higher education, Whitaker said an added enticement has been provided. A new van, valued at $26,000, has been purchased with private funds raised by Kentucky Advocates for Higher Education, and it will be given away to one lucky person at the rally. While he admitted the van giveaway would probably serve to attract people to the rally, he said its primary purpose was to gain publicity for the event.

For their part, the Adams brothers said they went straight home from CJ's and only returned to the McDowell hospital because Jimmy Adams had fallen at home, cutting his head.

On a motion of defense attorney Ned Pillersdorf, Circuit Judge Hollie Conley granted Donald Adams directed verdicts of acquittal, since he had not been named in the shooting of Chaffins and since a transfer of money under the circumstances Case described would not have constituted robbery under the law. The charges against Jimmy Adams, who was represented by Public Defender Gary Johnson, were dismissed after a jury found him not guilty.

The added cost represents $127 for each auto driver and $293 for truck drivers. By comparison, each one-cent increase in the state's motor fuel tax costs each driver $5 annually, assuming the driver gets 20 miles per gallon.

Blair said he favored returning to the Road Fund some of the coal severance tax receipts that now go into the state's General Fund. Over the 10 years that the road fund grew by 53 percent, the general fund increased by 230 percent, he noted. Kentucky's $11.50 auto-registration fee, which is low by comparison with neighboring states, could also be increased, he said. But the gasoline tax is the "only place we have a chance of generating substantial new revenues," Blair said.

In Floyd county, funding for the rural secondary highway program, currently at $487,944, would rise to $750,644 with a nickel-a-gallon increase in the gasoline tax, according to a state Department of Highways estimate. The county road aid program would increase from $376,793 to $579,648. The funds received by Prestonsburg in municipal road aid would increase by $13,701.

"It's a painless tax—you pay as you go—and tourists and out of state truck drivers pay their share," Blair said. While speaking to them was "kind of like preaching to the choir," he said, he urged the county and city leaders to recruit their constituents in the fight for increased highway funding.

'DISREMEMBERING'

I have on occasion noted in this column the fickleness of one's memory as the years creep up. Now comes my old fishing buddy, Judge Edw. P. Hill, who explains why he forgot to renew his subscription by relating the anecdote pertaining to the two old codgers who were golfing partners.

Preparing to tee off, one asked the other to keep an eye on his ball because his own vision was rather tricky. The other agreed to watch, and his buddy hit his ball.

"Did you see it?" the man on the tee asked.

"Sure, I saw it."
"Well, I didn't—where did it go?"
Replied the other: "I sure saw it, but I disremember the direction it took."

The redbirds are still few around the place, but one atones every morning for his neglect of us by greeting the new day with a low, liquid roundelay a few yards outside my window.

partners in W and G Prestonsburg Associates—are being sued by Buckingham Kentucky Holdings, Inc., a New York investment firm which claims the developers have defaulted on a $13.5 million loan taken out in November.

While not a part of the Floyd suit, court papers filed here indicate that the two partners, doing business as W and G Chinese Associates, are also in default on a $9.9 million loan made by Buckingham in October and that, as W and G Jackson Associates, they were in default last September on $6 and $4.5 million notes issued by the Chemical Bank of New York.

In response to notices of default issued in the Prestonsburg and Chinese projects, a lawyer for the developers claims that payments on the notes are being withheld because the investor has failed to release money that Waits and Greer wished to draw from the reserve and because an appraiser hired by Buckingham Holdings has allegedly undervalued the worth of the two projects.

In its suit, Buckingham Holdings asks that the court appoint a receiver to handle the financial affairs of Prestonsburg Village.

The suit also names 15 other defendants. They include two other financial institutions—the Bank Josephine and Southport Savings and Loan Association, of Jacksonville Beach, Florida—which made mortgage loans earlier; the leaseholders—Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., Winn-Dixie Louisville, Inc., and the Cato Corporation; and 10 firms or individuals who have either filed mechanic's liens or civil suits against the developer. They include H and M Construction Co., East Equipment, M and R Trucking Co., R and R Construction Co., Sandy Valley Explosives Co., Hopkins Erecting Co., B.C. Hale Construction Co., Joe Calhoun and Rosa Calhoun, Tagg Coal Corp., and Pat Wareham.

In their dispute over the assessment of their net worth, Waits and Greer claim the appraiser valued their Prestonsburg and Chinese properties at the current state of construction rather than estimating their fair market value upon completion of construction.

Asked about the danger of a financial collapse of the new shopping center project, Marketing Director Youngling dismissed the possibility outright.

"There's no way that's going to happen. The funding is definitely there," she said.

Operations Director Dan Storie was equally optimistic. "We're doing what it takes to remedy our problems. That is going to be a good project for Prestonsburg and Floyd county," he vowed.

Alexander Hamilton, 1757-1804, was a man of outstanding intelligence, energy and loyalty. He had served with distinction during the Revolutionary War. He signed the Constitution as the sole representative for the State of New York. His tragic death from a duel with Aaron Burr resulted mainly because of their political differences. The Daughters of the American Revolution proudly honor this great patriot.

U.S. Senator Wendell Ford will bring his office to Prestonsburg next Wednesday, as part of his continuing "government to the people" program. Russell Hagewood, well-known Prestonsburg resident and president and cashier of the First National Bank, died Thursday at Highlands Regional Medical Center after a brief illness. He was 68 years old. Groundbreaking ceremonies will be held here Monday morning to officially mark the initiation of construction on the long-planned Floyd courthouse annex-juvenile detention center. Miss Teresa Huff has been named Allen Central High School's 1975-76 Betty Crocker Family Leader of Tomorrow. A budget totalling more than $60,000 over last year's figure of $415,540 has been adopted by the City of Prestonsburg for 1976. The Prestonsburg Blackcats dropped two games at home last week, losing Tuesday night to the McDowell Daredevils, 72-68, and Friday night to the Wheelwright Trojans by a score of 69-52. Dr. Hal E. Midkiff, of Prestonsburg, has been named to serve as liaison coordinator for this area for the 53rd Annual Southern Educational Congress of Optometry to be held in Atlanta, February 27-March 2. There died: Mrs. Mae B. Potter, 56, of Garrett, last Friday at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin; Mrs. Delilah Fitzpatrick, 61, January 26 at her home on the Middle Creek Road near West Prestonburg; Mrs. Lottie May Ryan, widow of the late George D. Ryan, of Martin, at her home in Orange City, Fla.; Friday: Tandy Hamilton, 83, of East McDowell, Saturday at McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital; Mrs. Mary Henson, 75, Sunday at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin; T-Sgt (ret.) Ivan Eugene (Poodie) Hall, formerly of Wheelwright, last Wednesday at his home in Westland, Mich.; Mrs. Sally G. Webb, 90, of Hueysville, Tuesday at Highlands Regional Medical Center; Robert Vincent Parsons, 56, of Pittsburg, Texas, formerly of McDowell, Friday at Baylor University Hospital, Dallas.

Purchase of the Evans Elkhorn Coal Co., of Wayland, and its associated companies by the Island Creek Coal Company, Cleveland, Ohio, was announced Wednesday. The Prestonsburg General Hospital is in the process of becoming a community hospital, to operate as a non-profit institution. Of the 44 indictments voted by the grand jury which adjourned last Thursday, only one alleged a crime of violence, and that involved only a minor knife wound. For the second straight week Floyd county and almost all of Kentucky remain in the grip of winter, with all schools closed and most activities slowed to a walk. Sgt. First Class Frank D. Osborne, formerly of Martin, has been awarded the Bronze Star with "B" device by his own country and the Viet Nam Cross for Gallantry with Bronze Star by the Government of South Viet Nam for heroism in action against the Viet Cong. Married: Miss Dorinda Aileen Mullins and Mr. Silas Jones, Jr., February 2 at the home of the officiating minister, Bennie Blankenship. There died: Mrs. Mollie Keathley, 75, of Galveston, at Methodist Hospital, Pikeville, January 26; two children of Otis and Joann Thacker Cisco, formerly of this county, were burned to death Sunday night at their Urbana, Indiana home; Clark Pelphey, 43, of the Auxier road, died Saturday at St. Mary's Hospital; Mrs. May Fitzpatrick, 59, of West Prestonburg, Sunday at Prestonsburg General Hospital; Denny Ray Hall, two-year-old son of Dayton and Christine Bentley Hall, of Galveston, in Lexington; Lonnie Clark, 55, of Harold, Friday at the C & O Hospital, Huntington.

Thirty Years Ago

(February 2, 1956)

The grand jury in its final report to Circuit Judge Edw. P. Hill last Saturday called on the courts and officers of the county for strict enforcement of the law. The Floyd County Health Department today was busy at work in the most effective series of polio clinics it has conducted since the Salk vaccine became available last year. Arlie E. Hayes and B.P. Bogardus, owners of the Hayes Metal Products Company at Hi Hat, this week announced that they and associates will open a second plant at Richlands, Va., by February 15. High incidence of rabid animals in this county prompted M.V. Clarke, health administrator, and County Agent O.E. Boggs to issue a call for a meeting of interested persons at the courthouse Wednesday evening, Feb. 8. The region's top point-producing prodigies, Kelly Coleman and Lowell Hughes, literally tore the net to shreds as Coleman outpointed Hughes, 63 to 46 in Wayland's 107-80 victory over the Blackcats at Wayland Tuesday night. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Connell Miller, of Middletown, O., a daughter, Barbara Anne, January 18 at the Beaver Valley Hospital, Martin. There died: Mrs. Kate Halbert, 78, at home at McDowell, Sunday; Mrs. Eva DeLong, 61, formerly of Johns Creek, in a Huntington hospital, Sunday; Mrs. Pearl D. Holbrook, 50, at Water Gap, Tuesday; Mrs. Mary Patrick, 65, at her home at Hueysville, Sunday; Estill Fraley, 65, of Cranston, at home, Tuesday.

The Army Board of Engineers has approved canalization of the Big Sandy river and its two tributaries, the Levisa and the Tug, at an estimated cost of $82,300,000. It was announced this week. Floyd county's representatives in the State Legislature were assuming major roles in the steps being taken toward a probe into the Straight Creek mine disaster and legislation intended to protect families of workers in future disasters. Twenty-four uninsured men were lost in the Straight Creek tragedy. Johnny Lee Taylor, 43, former resident of Garrett and Hueysville, died Monday in a Huntington hospital of injuries suffered in a slatefall in the Taylor and Diamond mine, Lawrence county. Four Eastern Kentucky rural electric co-operatives last week lost their battle in Franklin circuit court to prevent the Kentucky & West Virginia Power Company from extending its lines into territory involving 1,156 miles of lines in 16 Eastern Kentucky counties. Married: Miss Mosaleete Ferrell and Mr. George A. Patton, both of Langley, January 19 at the home of the bride's parents. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Boyd, of Betsy Layne, a son. There died: James A. Ball, 81 years old, at his home at Prestonsburg, Friday; Harry C. Cooley, 72, of Northern, Friday night while in an automobile en route to Northern; Charles Whitfield, 61, of Hi Hat, at the Beaver Valley Hospital, Martin, Friday; Edward Patrick Blair, two years old, of Melvin, Friday at the Beaver Valley Hospital, Martin.

Fifty Years Ago

(January 31, 1936)

What is said to have started as a poolroom brawl ended late Saturday afternoon at Ligon in the death by gunfire of two brothers—Robert Newsome, 35, and Estill Newsome, 22. Construction of a new courthouse for Floyd county is expected to be ordered by the Floyd fiscal court at its meeting to be held here Friday, county officials said early this week. As a result of immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus being voted by both houses of Congress over President Roosevelt's veto, Floyd county veterans will receive by June 15 cashable bonds in the sum of $325,000. Tommy Vinson, 26, of Paintsville, is in serious condition in a Paintsville hospital, suffering from a shotgun wound in his thigh sustained Saturday night at Wayland. For the third time within two weeks, the Modern Drug Shop here was burglarized Wednesday night. Monday, this week, the home of Curtis Clark, manager of the Drug store was also entered. Eleven-year-old Anna Jewell Pritchard, sixth grade pupil in the Garrett consolidated school, won the Floyd county spelling championship here Friday. Married: Miss Leone Phares, of Prestonsburg, and Mr. Miles Carey, of Betsy Layne, January 20 at Paintsville. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. I.H. Goodman, of Prestonsburg, a son, Robert Irwin, at home January 28; to Dr. and Mrs. Julian C. Harlowe, formerly of Prestonsburg, a daughter, Sarah Helen, January 3 in Louisville. There died: Mrs. Martha Crum Derossset, 36, at home at D'wale, Saturday.

McCurry Hollow Too Narrow To Confine Woman's Dream

MRS. LAUNA BRYANT, with husband, Lester, and children, Raymond and Melissa, displays some of the hand-made children's wear she hopes to sell nationally.

The house is modest, set about half a mile up the muddy road of McCurry Hollow, near Price. But, if determination counts for anything, it may some day be known as the place something wonderful began.

Mrs. Launa Bryant, 26, has lived in this hollow all her life, as have her husband, Lester, and children, Melissa, 9, and Raymond, 6. What better place, says Mrs. Bryant, to launch a business she hopes will "go nation-wide"?

The business, handmade children's clothing and quilts, is the natural outgrowth of this plucky young woman's sewing talents.

"Having my own business has always been a dream of mine," she said. "I've been sewing since I was 11; my grandmother taught me."

The sewing she's done has not been just as a hobby, Mrs. Bryant said she has been selling her stitchery since she was 12, and the money has helped out around the house.

But now she wants more. That's why, with the gentle nudging of family and friends, she formed "Launa's Mountain Dreams" last November. She hopes that by August of this year her line of handmade children's wear will be available in stores in several states, with the eventual goal that her line be sold in every state in the union.

"A lot of people look at me and say I'm doing something only older people can do with my sewing," she said. "It takes talent to sew, but I've got years of experience, too."

Talent and experience make Mrs. Bryant believe her new business will succeed.

"There's three things that make my line special," she said. "It's handmade, the quality is No. 1 and really, it's an art." She believes people from outside Kentucky will appreciate these qualities maybe even more than those reared here.

Mrs. Bryant said she devotes all day Thursday, Friday and Saturday to her sewing, but is able to give only mornings Monday through Wednesday, since days she attends Garth vocational school, studying business, those days.

She has introduced her children's ware to a few area stores, such as the Kiddie Stop, in Pikeville, but it is still the dream of national distribution which keeps her going. Her plan is to get a network of sales representatives, enough to have someone pushing her merchandise to buyers in every state.

Once the representatives convince buyers to include her fashions, she will hire local women to do much of the actual sewing.

"I will sell things to people who come by and ask," she said, "but I'd rather get the stuff in stores. Besides, that puts more people to work."

She said she has already contacted several seamstresses who are ready to begin work if the business begins taking off.

And family members are expected to help out, too. Mrs. Bryant said her husband and children were helping in everything from production to quality control. Mr. Bryant agreed, saying, "I just stand behind her and hopes she makes it."

Mrs. Bryant summed up the drive shared by her family when her son brought out an old guitar to show around.

"How old you gonna be when you go to Nashville?" she asked.

"Ten," the boy replied.

Mrs. Bryant smiled. "We dream big around here," she said.

The Kentucky Garden Journal

By Bonnie Lee Applinton
State Urban Garden & Home Horticulture Specialist
COOPERATIVE EXTENSION PROGRAM
KENTUCKY STATE UNIVERSITY

Many gardeners are frustrated come winter because their outdoor gardens require little if any attention, and then houseplants just sit and do nothing due to low light levels and dry indoor environments. Seed starting trays sit vacant and fluorescent lights fail to shine.

What's a good indoor winter project to keep the gardener busy? If you enjoy starting vegetable transplants and annual flowers from seed, you might enjoy starting houseplants from seed. It's as easy as starting most other plants and a very economical way to get new cacti, scheffleras or even African violets. Even some of the new varieties of houseplants may be easier to get by starting your own from seed than by trying to locate the plants in garden centers.

Where do you get houseplant seeds? The two best sources are large garden centers and mail order sources. An excellent source for common houseplant seeds is Park Seed Company, Greenwood, SC 29646. For a wider variety of plants you might try J.L. Hudson, Seedsman, P.O. Box 1058, Redwood City, CA 94064. If you have access to any of the horticultural magazines (Flower and Garden, Horticulture, Avante Gardener), they generally have listings of or advertisements for houseplant seed sources.

Once seeds are obtained, they should be sown according to packet instructions. A premixed seed starter medium or sterile potting soil should be used in containers that are easy to water but from which excess water readily drains away.

Ample light can be obtained from cool white (industrial type) fluorescent tubes, but be sure to keep the top of the starting medium, or the top of the seedlings once they begin to grow, within a few inches of the light to prevent leggy (tall, spindly) growth. To speed seed germination, provide bottom heat by way of a heating coil or tape. Or, should you have an old electric blanket, cover it with plastic and put your seed flats on it (or on a heated water bed!)

Once houseplant seeds have begun to germinate, the seedlings should be treated as any marigold or tomato transplant. Harden the young plants off by gradually decreasing the humidity and warmth around them, and decreasing the light if they are to grow permanently in a dimmer location.

VFW Service Officer To Be Here Friday

R.L. Mayhew, state service officer for Kentucky's Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, will be in Prestonsburg at VFW Post No. 5839, from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m., or as long as there are Veterans or their dependents who require his assistance in filing a claim. His services are free and are available to all eligible veterans and their dependents, without regard to their membership or affiliation with any veterans' organization. Members of VFW Post 5839 will be on hand to assist Mr. Mayhew in processing the claims presented and to provide future assistance when required.

HAVE HOUSEGUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Allen have had as their recent houseguests his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Cordus Wallen, of Indiana, and their cousins, Dr. and Mrs. Palmer L. Hall, of Morehead.

Hospice in Need

Hospice of Big Sandy is in serious financial difficulty. This non-profit, charitable organization which offers care and comfort to terminally ill patients and their families is unable to meet its current staff financial responsibilities. Hospice has been relying on donations from the members of the community for support throughout the first year of its existence. Response from the community has been most warm but, unfortunately, a few members of a large community cannot possibly sustain the burden on their own.

Hospice has applied for a number of grants from various institutions which provide economic assistance to agencies in eastern Kentucky but has been unsuccessful in these bids for aid. There are a number of worthy institutions and a very limited amount of outside money available to help them. Hospice was successful in obtaining a grant from the Christian Appalachian Project for $5,000 but this was in matching funds, which means that Hospice must generate $5,000 on its own before being granted money from CAP. This grant was based on money donations from the coal industry in our area and thus far, attempts to obtain donations from this area have been unsuccessful.

Hospice's board of directors has believed from the outset that there was sufficient capital within our community to keep Hospice functioning. The problem to date has been that Hospice has been unable to maintain the necessary level of involvement from all areas of that community.

The service which Hospice offers is one which we all hope and pray we will never need. Unfortunately, the fact is that at some time or another many of us will require the care and comfort of someone to help us through the most difficult time in one's life. Without some consistent support from all of the members of our community, Hospice may not be there to provide that compassionate help which many of the community have experienced from Hospice and its volunteers.

Currently, Hospice is working on applying for certification through Medicare which will mean some source of income. This will also mean Hospice will move into the area of billing for services. The billing will be related to patient ability to pay and will be as painless a process as any organization can make it. Until that time, however, Hospice of Big Sandy is in need of help from the community.

If you are interested in helping Hospice, through a donation or through volunteering your services, please call 886-2721 or write Hospice, Box 1002, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653.

The Same Story?

I recently read or heard that the TV show, "The Dukes of Hazard," had been cancelled and would not appear any more. I guess this was a mistake, because after reading the lead story in the January 8 edition of the Times, I find that the Duke boys are alive and well and are operating in the Floyd county area.

It sounds like "Boss" Stumbo has everything under control, as usual. The names are different, but the story is identical. Jackie Owens is of the new breed, and his kind doesn't survive in Floyd county. It would be nice to see some real change come to the law enforcement system in that county, but this would mean that a lot of people would have to go to work for a living instead of making a living off the honest taxpayers of the county. If Mr. Owens wants to get things done and done right, he should go to the state or federal level, and quit wasting his time with the Duke boys.

This whole mess reminds me of when Harold Washington was elected mayor of Chicago. Chicago had long been famous for its political machine and Mayor Washington was the people's mayor and he went directly against that. Don't worry, Jackie, Washington is still mayor of Chicago. It might take some time, but hang in there. Even if you don't succeed, you will have made an impression. You suggested having retired state troopers as county detectives. This wouldn't work, because no judge-executive wants people working for them that are smarter than they are. If you don't watch who you have working for you, they might end up reading your mail, if you know what I mean.

Finally, I have a few words to say about the way the Times handled this story. It was very poor journalism, was very one-sided, showed a lack of professionalism on the part of the writer. The little article to the right of Mr. Owens' picture was a cheap shot. What has happened to the good, ole times? Has your readership dropped, or does the same machine that I spoke of earlier control the newspaper in Floyd county also?

In closing let me say that you all are playing with matches and stand a good chance of getting burned. I will be willing to answer any and all letters concerning my position on this matter.

Urges Unmined Coal Tax

Here in Eastern Kentucky, we have been classed as a deprived people, economically, culturally, and educationally, while at the same time one of the most wealthy regions in the world. Why is this so? One reason for this is that we are allowed to tax only half of our property here in the mountains, that part being hillside land and small homes which the "little people" own. Why have the coal barons been favored to this extent?

The coal barons live in New York, Chicago and other places all over the world. When these people sell the coal, the money leaves Kentucky without any taxes having been paid. Another reason being, the coal people whine, "We do not know how much coal is under the ground." Yet, if you prepare to buy coal from some of these same people they can tell you without hesitation, to within a ton how much coal there is under the surface. We do not accept this as a valid reason for not taxing the unmined coal.

Another lame excuse with which we are familiar is that if the unmined coal is taxed, the price would be so great that they could not sell their coal at the market place. To this we can only say that the price of coal due to the tax would be only five cents per ton or less.

The coal people yet further whine, when confronted with the unmined coal tax, that the coal business is already a "sick" industry and would slump even further; however, it has been predicted that there will be more coal produced in 1987 than at any other time in past history.

Let us examine the Kentucky Constitution. This important document states that ALL property will be taxed equally. Why then, have not the taxes on the unmined coal and other minerals been collected for the past 100 years? Who is responsible for this gross inequity and negligence?

The law states that all children in Kentucky shall have an equal opportunity for an education; however, due to our not taxing the unmined minerals which lies underneath the eastern section of Kentucky, we must depend on the more wealthy section of the state to supplement our low income, this being the equalization law.

The people in the Bluegrass section of the state are collecting approximately $1.50 in taxes and sending 50 cents back to this co-called poor eastern Kentucky section to assist in financing our very depressed educational system. Lack of funds in our section is due to NO TAX on the unmined coal.

There are approximately 3.5 billion tons of unmined coal underlying the land in Floyd county alone. This would yield 1.9 million dollars for Floyd county government and 1.7 million dollars for the Floyd county school system, annually. God knows we need this.

The courts in this county are operating on a starvation diet while the school system is also on the starvation budget. This is being done while being supplemented by the power equalization law.

It would be to the advantage of the people in Louisville, Lexington and other wealthy districts to strongly urge their legislators to vote for the unmined minerals tax, as this would cut their taxes drastically.

We need responsible corporations mining this coal who would shoulder their responsibility and pay their fair share of taxes.

Due to these irresponsible coal corporations not paying taxes on the unmined coal, we see ourselves remaining under bondage as we have been for the past 100 years.

We urge each person to contact your legislator and urge him to vote for the upcoming unmined minerals tax. It will make a great difference and is the only decent thing to do, as all surrounding states are taxing their unmined coal.

Discrimination?

Here, once again, is an occasion proving that it is becoming more and more expensive to be in the lower income group.

It looks as if the banking industry is taking lessons from the federal government in letting the "blue collar workers" pay the way for the "hot shots" with money.

This week, along with my cancelled checks, was a notice containing two important points. They follow:

1. "Those checking accounts whose balance drops below $500.00 in a month will be charged $5.00.
2. "Checking accounts with extremely high transactional activity will be analyzed to determine whether additional fees are to be applied."

Now, I ask you, who are those people that have the problems keeping their balance above $500.00? How much money are these people making each week? Why should they be discriminated against because they are not highly paid executives? Bankers, could you answer these questions?

As for point No. 2. If the banks don't want people to do business by check, why do they spend so much money advertising and boasting about their great checking accounts and their advantages over carrying cash? It would seem some people are talking from both sides of their mouths.

The Old Johns House

I was pleased to read in the Floyd County Times that the logs from the Old Johns House were going to be used by the city for a public building.

In 1824, Solomon Derossett built the log house on Front Street. This house was the second oldest house left standing in the city of Prestonsburg. The oldest house is the beautiful old red brick house in the north end of Prestonsburg. It belongs to Mary Barney May and her two sons, E.B. May, Jr. and Bill May, Samuel May, an ancestor of theirs, built that house in 1817.

During the Civil War, Confederate General John Hunt Morgan and Morgan's Raiders stopped at the Johns house to rest. He was on his way to Tennessee, where he was killed by Union soldiers. By the time of the Civil War John Graham Johns, grandson of John Graham, and his wife, Elizabeth Harkins, were living in the log house. They added more rooms and covered the logs with siding. From this time until the house burned in 1985, the Johns heirs lived in the house.

My grandmother, Emma Johns, and her sister and three brothers were born and reared in the old house.

Emma Johns married George Preston Archer, Prestonsburg banker.

Elizabeth married Ernest Robinson and moved to Texas.

John G., Jr. became an attorney and died of tuberculosis, a young man, unmarried. Bucky Burchett, of Prestonsburg has the cherry secretary book-case from his law office.

William Johns—I do not know what happened to him. He was living at age 24. Perhaps some of his descendants will get in touch and give me this information.

Thomas Johns, IV. Now we come to the best-known occupant of the Johns House, Aunt Winnie Johns. She was a Fitzpatrick, sister to Edith James who is still living in Prestonsburg. Aunt Winnie had lived in the old house about 75 years when she died at age 96 in 1981. A lot of my information came from Aunt Winnie and her sister, Edith James, in my research of the Johns family.

When Thomas Johns IV, whose great-grandfather, Thomas, Sr., fought in the Revolutionary War from Amherst Co. Va., married Aunt Winnie, his father deeded them the house. Aunt Winnie's two grandsons, Dr. Herbert Salisbury, of Florida, and Dr. Robert Johns Salisbury, of Mount Sterling, inherited the house.

Solomon Derossett has many descendants in the area. The ones I know are Kate Whitt at Sugar Loaf, Jim Derossett, Jimmy Joe Derossett, and Tom Lafferty, of Prestonsburg, both Lack and John Derossett at Watergap, and Ella Rose Derossett Archer in Lexington.

Some descendants of John Graham Johns are Marthan Archer Damron, and her brother George Preston Archer, IV, Betsy Lambert, Burl Wells Spurlock, Kay Archer Rowland, Betty Archer Davis, Pauline Archer Burchett, Martha Archer White and John Archer Spurlock, all of Prestonsburg and Martha Ann Rapier, of Paintsville, one granddaughter still living, age about 87, in California, Mary Archer Van Peton.

I know seven descendants of both Solomon Derossett and John Graham Johns. Joe (Bucky) Burchett, Albie Burchett, Paul Preston Burchett, of Prestonsburg, Jim Daniels, of Frankfort, Bob Daniels, of Ft. Mitchell, Arthur Johns Archer, III, and William Thomas Archer, II of Lexington.

I would appreciate hearing from anyone who has more information on Johns descendants.

For Unmined Coal Tax

As a former West Virginia resident, I am pleased to learn that the Kentucky legislature is considering the passage of an unmined minerals tax bill. The experience in West Virginia has been that such a tax brings needed revenue without damaging the coal industry. Coal production is the highest in West Virginia history.

Studies in the West Virginia legislature showed that coal will be developed more quickly, and therefore more jobs created, if that coal is taxed. In addition, new industries will not locate in eastern Kentucky without the services that can only be provided with an adequate property tax base.

Kentuckians should be aware of the benefits of an unmined minerals tax. Schools, libraries, and other services do not have adequate funding in eastern Kentucky, and taxpayers in other sections of the state are forced to pick up the bill. Minerals are property—land—should be taxed as such. It is astonishing that the only industry of any size in eastern Kentucky is allowed to control so much land and pay no property tax. Taxpayers all over the state should be outraged.

LIST BURKETT PALBEARERS

Active pallbearers at funeral rites for Jeff Burkett were Billy Ray Burkett, Jerry Burkett, David Burkett, Wayne Warrax, Randy Stumbo, Adrian Lafferty, Tommy Lafferty, Roland Gray and Eugene Blackburn.

Honorary pallbearers were Herman Gray, Charles Gray, John Crandall, James Lafferty, and Jim Thomas.

The Animal Shelter Issue

I read with considerable amusement the recent letter of Curtis Hughes, concerning his treatment at a recent meeting of the Dewey Dam Dog and Cat Protection Society. Given the admissions made by Mr. Hughes, we were probably overly courteous to him.

The fact is that Mr. Hughes voluntarily got to answer questions from a roomful of people he had been misleading for months.

In these months, Mr. Hughes has been telling anyone who will listen, that he hasn't had to euthanize a single animal. In fact he now admits that ninety-eight percent of the animals who pass through the shelter end up in a prized gas chamber.

For months Mr. Hughes has been talking about how well he is running the finances of the shelter. In fact he now confesses that he took approximately two thousand dollars of taxpayer money, and used it to run his personal vehicle. His apparent explanation is that Judge Stumbo on behalf of the county, made him, or his organization some type of donation, and that Hughes wasn't expected to itemize or account for these funds. Somehow, I find this hard to believe.

Mr. Hughes invites everyone to visit the shelter. I have no doubt the shelter is extremely clean. Why wouldn't it be when you have an active gas chamber?

Mr. Hughes has chosen to answer criticism of how he runs the shelter by making libelous, personal attacks against Dr. Ousley, myself and anyone who dares to criticize him. These attacks are so ridiculous, they don't even deserve to be addressed.

What needs to be addressed is the fact that Floyd county no longer has an animal shelter. We have a building with a gas chamber.

I submit that Mr. Hughes has made enough money, and has caused the senseless loss of countless animals; and that it's time the county turned over the shelter to more responsible hands.

Praises Honesty

Notwithstanding the fact that they would not accept a reward—they likewise wanted no praise—however, they are a rare people. I speak of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Boyd, of Highland Terrace Apartments in the city. I lost a purse containing a few hundred dollars in Wendy's parking lot and later in the afternoon, I received a telephone call from Mr. Boyd that he found my purse with everything intact. I thank the Lord for Mr. and Mrs. Boyd and their honesty. While losing the money would not have appreciably hurt us but to some it could have meant not paying their utilities bills. I am glad there are still good decent people who have allowed almighty God to instill in them honesty and integrity at an early age.

The Unmined Minerals Tax

In my mind the unmined mineral tax is not a question of whether it should or should not be enforced but how. I know some say the timing is not right with the coal industries hurting. But production and profits are up in 1985 over 1984. Some say the tax would hurt the price of coal and make it less competitive. One can look at West Virginia, a state that has implemented an unmined minerals tax, their market is still competitive and profitable. This money would stay in the county of origin and be a stable source of income. This income can be used to improve schools, roads and attract new industry to the area. Taxation of real property including minerals, is part of our constitution. I think it's time it should be implemented.

Flag Should Be Flown

Our Bible has been driven out of our schools, now is it our flag?

The people of Prestonsburg may not realize that the flag at Prestonsburg High School is rarely hoisted to show its proud patriotic colors.

As other schools around the country flew their flags at half mast mourning the death of the seven astronauts on the space shuttle Challenger, the flag at Prestonsburg High School was nowhere in sight. Many students were outraged because they felt that their right to join their country in this time of mourning was denied.

I am a student at Prestonsburg High School, but even more important, I'm an American citizen, and I'm proud of it. I feel that our flag should be flown daily, and in time of national mourning, we should give our country the respect it deserves.

I am only one of the many students who felt that the American flag should have been flown at Prestonsburg High during the mourning of the seven brave astronauts killed in the tragedy of the shuttle Tuesday morning.

Adult Abuse and Neglect in Ky.

(Part 2 of a Two-Part Series)

Cases of abused, defrauded and neglected adult Kentuckians climbed steadily from 1980 through 1985. Officials of Kentucky's Department for Social Services say it will take an aggressive adult protection campaign to reverse that trend in the second half of the decade.

Social Services Commissioner Anna Grace Day says such a campaign is underway through the coordination of the efforts of several sources.

"In 1976 Kentucky's first adult protection law was put on the books by the General Assembly. The law was strengthened by legislators in 1978 and 1980, and there are new adult abuse and neglect proposals before the 1986 legislature," said Day. "As a result, we are receiving more calls about adults who are unable to protect themselves. We are seeing more reports of suspected abuse and neglect, more arrests, more prosecutions and more cooperation between law enforcement officers, social workers, judges and the public in general."

Other leading elements in the campaign against adult abuse and neglect are: increased public awareness of the problem, more education and training on prevention of abuse and neglect, and encouragement for more reporting of suspected cases of fraud or exploitation of senior citizens.

In 1985 the Department for Social Services investigated more than 8,000 reports of adult abuse and neglect, providing some type of protective service to more than 6,400 Kentucky adults.

Those services ranged from counseling to court-ordered medical treatment to emergency protective placement in spouse abuse centers to referrals for mental health services to assistance with applications for food stamps and Medicaid.

In 1986 the department is pushing ahead in areas leading to early intervention in or possible avoidance of cases of abuse, neglect and fraud.

"One area we hope to improve upon is in how we are alerted by concerned neighbors, family members, co-workers and others of suspected abuse or neglect cases. We now have a 24-hour toll-free telephone line for reporting suspected cases of adult abuse," the commissioner said.

The number (1-800-752-6200) also is used as the state child abuse hot line. "More and more people are accepting the fact that adult abuse, like child

CHURCH ORDAINS DEACONS

The First Baptist Church of Garrett was the scene of an ordination service Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Rev. J.S. Bell, retired minister of the First Baptist Church, of Hindman, served as moderator. Pastors and/or deacons of the following churches participated in the ordination service: Petry Memorial, Hazard; First Baptist, Hindman; Montgomery Baptist, Montgomery; Topmost Baptist, Topmost; First Baptist, Mousie; Pleasant Home Baptist, and Calvary Baptist. The Rev. Archie Everage, pastor of Montgomery Baptist Church, brought the message. Members of the Garrett Baptist Church who were ordained were Frank Bolin, James Allen, and Don Hughes. At the conclusion of the service, dinner was served to those in attendance. The Rev. Kenneth Sammons is the pastor there. Attending from Irene Cole Memorial (First) Baptist Church were Mrs. Rebecca Rasnick, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Pettrey, Mrs. Versa Moore, also Doug Fitzpatrick.

RETIRED TEACHERS TO MEET

Floyd County Retired Teachers will gather at a luncheon-meeting Thursday, Feb. 13, at 10 a.m., at May Lodge. abuse, is a social problem, not just a private family problem," said Day. "Because early intervention is so critical in any type of abuse, we want people with genuine concerns to call and allow us to see if our help is needed."

Improved identification by professionals of possible cases of abuse and neglect is essential to a major campaign against the problem, according to Richard Newman, manager of the department's Adult Services branch.

"Health care and education professionals have been doing this for years in the area of child abuse. Now there are more doctors and nurses looking for signs of spouse abuse, neglect of care by family or long-term care facilities and the inability of individuals to care for themselves," Newman said.

While cases of physical abuse, neglect of care or exploitation of resources are reported to law enforcement authorities, the department's role focuses on protection and preservation as opposed to prosecution.

"Our social workers try to intervene and offer assistance. We aren't going in to a situation involving adults to disrupt the family or remove someone from his or her caretaker," he said. "Our services are generally voluntary and may be initially refused. But the services do offer alternatives to the problem."

As those services are put into play in cases of adult abuse and neglect, hopes for a significant impact depend on cooperation from all corners. Day said, "The problem is too large for one agency to meet alone. The Department for Social Services works closely with other agencies in helping people. Today more victims are willing to seek that help. We've come a long way from where we were at the beginning of the 1980s. But we still have a long way to go."

AL-ANON IS IT FOR YOU?

Millions of people are affected by the excessive drinking of someone close. The following twenty questions are designed to help you decide whether or not you need Al-Anon:

1. Do you worry about how much someone else drinks?
2. Do you have money problems because of someone else's drinking?
3. Do you tell lies to cover up for someone else's drinking?
4. Do you feel that if the drinker loved you, he or she would stop drinking to please you?
5. Do you think that the drinker's behavior is caused by his or her companions?
6. Are routines frequently upset or meals delayed because of the drinker?
7. Do you make threats, such as, "If you don't stop drinking, I'll leave you"?
8. When you kiss the drinker hello, do you secretly try to smell his or her breath?
9. Are you afraid to upset someone for fear it will set off a drinking bout?
10. Have you been hurt or embarrassed by a drinker's behavior?
11. Does it seem as if every holiday is spoiled because of drinking?
12. Have you considered calling the police for help in fear of abuse?
13. Do you find yourself searching for hidden liquor?
14. Do you often ride in a car with a driver who has been drinking?
15. Have you refused social invitations out of fear or anxiety?
16. Do you sometimes feel like a failure when you think of the lengths you have gone to control the drinker?
17. Do you think that if the drinker stopped drinking, your other problems would be solved?
18. Do you ever threaten to hurt yourself to scare the drinker?
19. Do you feel angry, confused and depressed most of the time?
20. Do you feel there is no one who understands your problems?

If you have answered yes to three or more of these questions, Al-Anon or Alateen may help. You can contact Al-Anon or Alateen by calling 886-2893.

Governor Asks Funds Increase For 'Main Street'

Governor Martha Layne Collins has proposed a significant increase in money to assist Kentucky's small communities preserve their heritage while also bringing new vitality to their downtowns and new jobs for their residents.

"The Kentucky Main Street Program offers a means of improving the heart and soul of our smaller cities," Governor Collins said. "And when that happens, the benefits extend to the entire community."

Governor Collins pointed out, for example, that the lasting impression most visitors take with them from a community stems from the appearance of Main Street. "That impression can spell the difference between success or failure in attracting new industry and jobs," the Governor said.

"Just as important, of course, is how the appearance of Main Street adds to or detracts from the daily life of the residents," she said.

The Kentucky Heritage Council has sponsored the Main Street Program since 1979. Governor Collins is proposing an additional $460,000 over the two-year budget cycle for the program so more communities can take advantage of it.

She said the Main Street Program allows historic preservation and economic development to go hand in hand. It is built on the idea that older buildings should be used to preserve the tradition and heritage of a downtown and that a concerted effort from merchants and public officials can spark a new vigor in any downtown.

The program provides a wide range of services, everything from workshops and seminars about how other cities have improved their downtowns, to assistance in developing a slogan to rally support for a community's commercial area, to grants to help implement ideas.

Under the Governor's recommendations, cities ranging in population from 500 to 60,000 will be eligible for assistance from the Kentucky Heritage Council. In a special Cities Demonstration Project, cities with population of 1,500 to 10,000 will be eligible for grants and other assistance. And communities with populations of 10,000 to 60,000 can receive grants to help pay for a full-time "Main Street Manager."

Currently, ten communities participate in the program: Bowling Green, Carrollton, Covington, Frankfort, Hopkinsville, Maysville, Owensboro, Paducah, Shelbyville and Somerset.

More than 43 million Americans have one or more forms of heart or blood vessel disease according to American Heart Association statistics.

On MSU Dean's List

Gregory D. Frasure, son of Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Frasure, of Grethel, and a sophomore at Morehead State University, has been named to the 1985 fall semester Dean's List at M.S.U. To achieve this, a student must have a minimum 3.4 grade point average.

Frasure attended Betsy Layne High School and John M. Stumbo Elementary, where he not only was an outstanding student, but excelled in athletics. In making the Dean's List, he has shown intellectual achievement as well as a serious commitment to learning.

State Health Plan Puts Curb on Some Ky. Health Agencies

The Statewide Health Coordinating Council last week unanimously endorsed a series of changes, recommended by Gov. Martha Layne Collins, in the 1986-88 Kentucky State Health Plan.

The changes in the State Health Plan include moratoriums on additional long-term care beds and on the establishment of new and the expansion of existing home health agencies. Both moratoriums would be in effect through Dec. 31, 1986.

With the changes, Collins is expected to accept and sign the plan shortly.

Council Chairman Wade Mountz said the three-year plan was developed with the involvement of health professionals, consumers, and citizens at large.

"This plan came up from the grassroots with a lot of local involvement and a lot of broad-based input," he said.

The new state health plan allows for the following exceptions to the long-term care moratorium:

(1) Downward conversion of skilled nursing and nursing home beds to intermediate care beds. The number of downward conversions will be limited by area development district to the number of intermediate care patients in skilled beds awaiting placement into intermediate beds as of Jan. 17, 1986;

(2) Reclassification of unneeded or underutilized acute care (hospital) beds to swing beds. A swing bed may be used as either an acute care bed or a skilled nursing bed. The number of reclassified acute care beds will be limited to the unmet need of skilled beds as stated in the State Health Plan;

(3) Replacement of facilities that fail to meet life safety codes. Replacement facilities would be limited to their current licensed bed complement.

"The moratorium added to the State Health Plan and the one enacted by the governor in December are much more flexible than previous moratoriums," said Human Resources Secretary Al Austin. "The exceptions allow the Certificate of Need Authority to address long-term health care by approving intermediate and swing beds in certain situations when a need is demonstrated."

The plan is an advisory document used by the Certificate of Need Authority in reviewing health-care facilities' project applications.

"I think this is the best plan that we have ever produced in Kentucky," said Mountz, who has been involved in writing state health plans since 1968. "It's certainly far from perfect, but it's the best we've ever had."

"It's more comprehensive, more specific and it comes closer to responding to the health needs of the citizenry than anything else we've ever done."

PCC Students Selected For 1986 Who's Who

The 1986 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges will include the names of 17 students from Prestonsburg Community College who have been selected as national campus leaders.

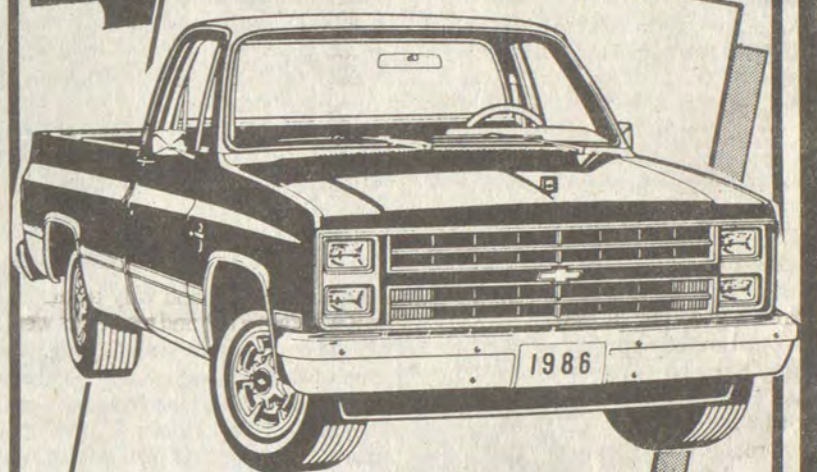

Campus nominating committees and editors of the annual directory have included the names of these students based on their academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and potential for continued success.

Students named this year from Prestonsburg Community College are: Ellen L. Allen, Prestonsburg; Gary Todd Clevinger, Pikeville; Katrina H. Davis, Banner; Hans Doderer, Paintsville; Mark E. Greene, East Point; Linda S. Hall, Job; Barrie B. Handshoe, Hueysville; Michael Keith Horn, Auxier; Andy P. Keaton, Red Bush; William D. Murry, Meally; James J. Pass, Williamsport; Leslie H. Preece, Paintsville; Misha G. Reynolds, David; Kathleen Salisbury, Wheelwright; Myra A. Salisbury, Wheelwright; Jeri R. Sword, Dwale; and Dan E. Underwood, Prestonsburg.

McDowell Teacher Says Wild Trout Thrive in Some Mountain Streams

(Ask 100 anglers if any native trout yet survive in Eastern Kentucky waters and 99 will probably assure you there is none. The 100th will say, "Yes," because he knows better. The following, written by Joe Clay, well-known outdoors writer, for Fins and Feathers, tells of the search made by that 100th angler, Freddy W. Hall, McDowell High School teacher, for the hill-country trout. Mr. Hall, who is widely known as an angler, is vice-president of the Kentucky Mountain Chapter of Trout Unlimited.—Editor.)

Fred Hall looks like an eastern Kentuckian. Not too tall, with a belly bordering on the beer-gut size. He's prone to wear old hunting coats, shirts with elbows out, a ball cap stained by many hours of perspiration, and hipboots. Because he's in the sun a lot, most folks would believe he fits well into that segment of our society known as "rednecks."

With a little coal dust on his face, Fred would be indistinguishable from the multitudes of black-faced men emerging from the depths of the mines found in his part of the state. Fred Hall isn't a coal miner, but I suspect that many of his relatives are. What he is (besides being a school teacher at McDowell High School, located in a deep fold of the mountains in Floyd County), is a dedicated, died-in-the-wool creek fisherman, and a good one at that.

Like most middle-aged eastern Kentuckians, Fred has seen what mining can do to the mountains. Fred is old enough to remember when the small creeks produced rock bass and pumpkinseed, and the larger estuaries produced smallmouth bass and muskies. He is also old enough to have seen how these once clear and fish-filled creeks, streams and rivers were fouled by abuse.

Fred's Appalachian ancestry goes back far enough for him to have heard grandfathers tell tales about bringing home speckled trout from high-mountain streams.

I had never heard of Fred Hall until I received a letter in the mail asking me to tell my newspaper readers about a meeting he was holding to form a Kentucky chapter of Trout Unlimited. The address on the envelope said the letter came from Price, Kentucky—wherever in the world that is. It isn't listed on a map.

No matter. Fred mentioned in the letter that he was a teacher in McDowell. I knew where that was—right in the mid-

Rockwell International Plans EKV Scholarship

Officials at Rockwell International Corporation, Winchester plant, has announced plans to establish an academic scholarship at Eastern Kentucky University.

In a joint announcement, Rockwell and EKV officials said the Rockwell International Academic Scholarship will be given annually to a member of EKV's freshman class who plans to pursue study in an area that is related to the business of the Rockwell International Corporation. The $1,000 award will be given for the first time in August at the beginning of EKV's 1986-87 academic year.

The one-year scholarship will be awarded primarily on the basis of outstanding high school performance. Preference will be given to the son or daughter of a Rockwell International employee.

"Rockwell International Corporation is pleased to announce the establishment of a major academic scholarship at Eastern Kentucky University," said Mark Zardus, personnel supervisor at Rockwell International's Winchester plant. "In our judgment, Eastern has demonstrated a commitment to provide a quality education for students living in this part of the state, and we are delighted to assist in this effort by providing academic scholarships for deserving students."

EKV President Hanly Funderburk praised Rockwell International for the company's commitment to higher education and said the gift is an excellent example of how industry and higher education can work together to meet common goals.

Additional scholarship information is available by writing Scholarship Committee, Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond, Ky. 40475-0931.

dle of the world's largest coal-producing area.

"Trout? Aw, come on now, Fred. Don't be a dreamer." That was my first reaction to the idea of putting together a chapter of TU in eastern Kentucky.

They say that curiosity killed the cat, and I suppose the same thing has caused the demise of many journalists down through the ages. But I decided that I would have to learn more about this man who had such optimism about restoring quality trout fishing to a part of the state that had already been given to king coal—lock, stock and political pork barrel.

When I first met Fred at a little restaurant in Sandy Hook, I discovered that he is a man who knows the ins and outs of the power politics that go on in the eastern tip of the state. He might have become a county judge; instead he decided to direct his energies and influence towards the goal of restoring speckled trout to the high country of the Commonwealth.

Fred and a few good sportfishermen from his area had joined forces to form the Kentucky Mountain Chapter of Trout Unlimited. True, there weren't a lot of members at first, but the idea was sound. Even though the mountain-based anglers pursued a variety of sport fish, they seemed to have an overriding interest in the wild and wily trout.

So it was that Fred and his scouts went forth, scouring the countryside, in search of a remaining trace of the fish that helped feed their forefathers. They looked high and they looked low. They encouraged fisheries biologists to join their search and they asked big-city anglers to come with them. More TU chapters were formed, and the interest in wild trout grew. Then, wonder of wonders, some of the tiny, colorful fish were found in high, rugged, remote lands, where there were no roads that could be used to dump worn-out refrigerators, throw away diapers or discard bleach jugs. A species thought to be extinct in Kentucky for a good 100 years was found swimming, and doing fairly well, in a mostly unspoiled environment.

Today, Fred has the distinction of being among the first to believe that eastern Kentucky could once again provide a wild fishery for the speckled trout of the days of yore. But he'll tell you that he didn't have much to do with the new-found interest in wild trout which is currently bouncing around in the heads of state fisheries biologists.

Personally, I won't buy that argument, especially when I read the releases from Kentucky's fish management folks. They say that there are at least 11 streams in the higher elevations in the eastern part of the state that are capable of supporting wild brook trout. They even say that there are as many or more streams in this region that are capable of sustaining populations of wild rainbow and brown trout.

Many other anglers aren't buying Fred's noninvolvement story, either. That's why the TU chapters are swelling their ranks and anglers all across the Commonwealth are beginning to unlimber their fly rods and wipe the dust off unused willow creels.

Thanks to Fred Hall and others who shared his dream, future generations of sportfishermen in the Commonwealth will be able to experience the thrill of drifting a fly through a rill and of battling with a small, colorful brookie that has an ancestry longer than man's.

CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Strickland, of Prestonsburg, celebrated their 32nd wedding anniversary, Saturday, at the home of their daughters and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. Watkins, and son, Ray, at East Point. Also present were their daughters Mrs. Carolyn Case and children, Brandon and Jennifer, of Harold, and Sharon and Lisa Strickland, of Prestonsburg. They received a call from Mrs. Strickland's sister, Mrs. David Lancaster, in Illinois. A dinner was held in Mr. and Mrs. Strickland's honor, with many relatives and friends in attendance. The honorees were presented gifts.

"Frozen Addict" Case To Be Explored On KET

On July 16, 1982, a 42-year-old drug addict awoke in a California jail to discover that he could not move or talk. Frozen like a pillar of salt, he was transferred from the San Jose jail to the Valley Medical Center in nearby Santa Clara.

The key to this mystery led to the underground drug world of California. "NOVA" traces the clues of this medical detective story in "The Case of the Frozen Addict," airing Sunday, February 23, at 8:00 p.m. on KET.

Other addicts were quickly discovered, all victims of a bad batch of synthetic heroin, a "designer" drug which caused irreparable brain damage.

Something in this synthetic heroin had destroyed a small patch of brain cells, exactly the same cells that are killed in Parkinson's disease. To "unfreeze" these victims, chief neurologist Dr. William Langston administered large doses of L-dopa, the principal drug used to combat Parkinson's disease.

Out of this "designer" drug tragedy in California has come a major medical breakthrough in neurology which offers hope to millions of sufferers of Parkinson's disease.

"The Case of the Frozen Addict" was produced for "NOVA" by Jon Palframan.

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NEWS

FINANCIAL PLANNING

FILING JOINT OR SEPARATE?

If you are married on December 31st of any year, you and your spouse may elect to file either a joint income tax return or married, separate returns.

Generally speaking, filing a joint return will save you taxes, because the tax rates for married persons filing separately are higher than the joint rates. There are also certain deductions and credits that are not available to you if you file separate returns.

However, there are times when married couples can save taxes by filing separate returns. If one spouse has large medical expenses or casualty losses and moderate income and the other spouse has few medical or casualty deductions and relatively high income, the expenses may not be deductible if they file jointly but will be deductible if they file separately. In certain cases where one spouse has capital gains and the other has capital losses, filing separately may give an overall lower tax.

In cases where one spouse wishes to limit his or her liability to only his or her facts and figures, separate returns may be advisable. When joint returns are filed, both spouses are liable for the entire amount of tax, as well as any penalties and interest. With separate returns, each spouse is liable only for the tax liability, penalties, and interest on his or her own return.

A decision to file a joint federal return should not keep you from evaluating the benefits of filing separately on state tax returns if your state allows that option.

Once you've filed your returns you may, with amended returns, change from separate filings to a joint filing, but you may not switch from a joint return to separate returns. Consult your tax advisor for assistance in making the election that will give you the lowest overall taxes each year.

Congress Sets Hearings On Satellite Dish Rights

The Satellite Television Industry Association (SPACE) is elated at the timely announcement of the House Telecommunications Subcommittee to schedule hearings March 6 on the heels of full-time scrambling by Home Box Office and Cinemax. The hearings will focus on the attempts of cable TV companies and satellite program networks to monopolize distribution and to overcharge consumers for satellite TV programming. The hearings will be conducted by the House Subcommittee on Telecommunications and Finance of the Commerce Committee. SPACE applauds the efforts of Rep. Timothy Wirth (D-CO), chairman of the subcommittee.

The hearings will help ensure that consumers are not denied access to any scrambled programming, that programming is available at reasonable rates; that coercion of programmers by cable TV companies is stopped; that decoders are readily available, and to erase the misconception, that more than one decoder will be required. The hearings will also focus on a number of house bills designed to protect the interests of earth station owners: H.R. 1840, which ensures access to programming at reasonable rates and H.R. 1769, which would place a two-year moratorium on scrambling. Rep. Billy Tauzin (D-LA), Rep. Judd Gregg (R-NH) and Senator Albert Gore (D-TN)—authors of the pending legislation—welcome the subcommittee hearings.

"Subcommittee hearings of this nature are of paramount importance to the industry and for earth station owners, who are willing to pay reasonable rates for programming," said Taylor Howard, Chairman of SPACE, "and to help ensure in the future that millions of other households will have access to satellite TV programming as well," he added. The earth station industry developed, for the most part, in rural areas where broadcast reception was difficult, if not impossible, and in areas way beyond the coaxial wires of cable TV. Like any new product, the early growth of the satellite earth station, or satellite dish, was saddled by its large size and high ticket price. However, technological advancements and price reductions over the years have increased its popularity among U.S. households, and as a result, it is now found in more than 1.5 million homes.

Rep. Wirth has recognized the potential of this new technology and understands the benefits that it offers to consumers in rural areas, to consumers who just prefer owning a dish rather than subscribing to cable TV and to consumers who live in cable franchised areas and who demand more choice than offered by cable TV. SPACE, a national trade association based in Alexandria, VA, represents the interests of manufacturers, distributors and dealers of satellite earth stations and also the interests of satellite earth station owners.

Dance Theatre Of Harlem On "Great Performances"

"Great Performances" award-winning "Dance in America" presents Arthur Mitchell's Dance Theatre of Harlem in the critically-acclaimed dance drama, "A Streetcar Named Desire," to be aired on KET Monday, February 24, at 8:00 p.m. Based on the play by Tennessee Williams, the piece combines elements of ballet and modern dance, featuring a jazzy film score by Alex North.

Choreographed by Valerie Bettis in 1952, "Streetcar" has been completely translated for television. The cast features Virginia Johnson as Blanche DuBois, Lowell Smith as Stanley Kowalski, Julie Felix as Stella Kowalski and Donald Williams as Stanley's friend, Mitch.

Following the ballet, Arthur Mitchell speaks about his company's creative profile. In addition to dramatic, narrative works, the company also presents classical ballets and ethnic-inspired dances. The program concludes with brief selections from "Sylvia Pas de Deux," a classical piece with music by Leo Delibes and choreography by Frederic Franklin, and "Bele," an Afro-Caribbean work with choreography, music and costumes by Geoffrey Holder.

Huck Finn On PBS

The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn, a four-part, four-hour version of Mark Twain's classic novel filmed in Kentucky, will air on American Playhouse over Public Broadcasting Service in early February.

The all-star cast includes Jim Dale, Lillian Gish, Barnard Hughes, Richard Kiley, Geraldine Page, Sada Thompson, Frederic Forrest and Samm-Art Williams, as well as a number of Kentuckians who filled speaking roles and acted as extras.

"The production also stars Kentucky. We understand the river scenes, in particular, are stunning," commented B.J. Dollase, director of the Kentucky Film Office, which assisted The Great Amwell Company both in pre-production and on location in Northern Kentucky last year. The cast and crew spent a total of three months filming in and around Maysville, Mays Lick, Washington, Augusta, Rabbit Hash and Dover.

In celebration of the novel's 100th anniversary of publication, American Playhouse will present the adaptation of Mark Twain's literary classic in four consecutive weeks. The KET networks will air the show beginning on Tuesday, Feb. 11, at 8 p.m. and three subsequent Tuesdays. Viewers are encouraged to check their local listings.

The longest hot spell on record occurred in Marble Bar, West Australia, when the average temperature was 100 degrees Fahrenheit or above for 162 consecutive days.

FBI Tempting Floyd Graduates With Desk Jobs in Washington

Want to live in the nation's capital and work for the Federal Bureau of Investigation? There are opportunities now that come by only rarely, FBI recruiters said in Prestonsburg last week.

Visiting colleges and high schools in this area were Special Agent Phillip Doty and staffing assistant Vera Whiteside, both of the FBI's Louisville office. They were "putting out the word" that there are 2800 openings in the bureau's Washington headquarters for high school graduates with clerical or keyboard skills.

While they hardly compare in glamor to the image of the special agent more readily associated with the FBI, the clerical positions offer the prestige and job security that comes with working for the bureau, a chance to work in the shadow of the capital's historic buildings, and steady advancement for people willing to work well, Doty said.

Moreover, unlike the highly competitive special agent positions, the clerical slots are available now and in unprecedented numbers, the result of a long-awaited appropriation of funds by Congress last year. Recent high school graduates now in college or high school students graduating this year could have a government job waiting for them when classes end this summer, the recruiters said.

Even the recruiters describe the starting salary—especially for a place like Washington, where the cost of living is relatively high—only as "adequate." Depending on their skills, most new recruits will begin with an annual salary of $11,458 or $12,862, but they can expect regular pay increases and those who rise to supervisory positions could earn three times that amount. "It's a good place to start and, in the FBI, we encourage upward mobility," Doty said. "If you demonstrate you want to work and can work, that attitude is rewarded."

Moreover, working for the federal government means good fringe benefits and generous leave, the recruiters said, and job security is almost legendary. "We've never had a layoff, either of agents or clerical workers, in the 75-year history of the FBI," Doty claimed.

Louisville is one of a dozen regional FBI offices—all of them in eastern states—participating in the drive to fill the vacancies. They would "like to be swamped" but have not yet had a chance to gauge the response, the two recruiters visiting here said Monday. Snow forced cancellation of a sign-up drive on the Prestonsburg Community College campus Monday and counselors at Prestonsburg and Pikeville high schools indicated there was little student interest in working in Washington, they said. But the recruiters were hoping for good responses at Pikeville College, which they were scheduled to visit Tuesday, and at Johnson Central High School, which they were expected to visit Wednesday.

Mrs. Whiteside, who grew up on Right Beaver Creek and graduated from the old Wayland High School, said she could understand a student's reluctance to move so far from home. One thing that can help, she said, is for a group of two or three to share moving, living and auto expenses. If several from this area want to do that, the FBI would guarantee to start them all on the same day, probably in the same division, she said.

While much of the work is admittedly routine, the work environment is good, the recruiters say. "If it were not, we would have more turnover," said Mrs. Whiteside, who offered her own career as an example. "I've been here 23 years," she said. "You don't quit when you start working for the FBI."

(For those who would like more information, Mrs. Whiteside may be reached at a toll-free number: 1-800-752-6000).

PROCLAIMING FEBRUARY "AMERICAN HISTORY MONTH" in Floyd county, Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo cited the John Graham chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution for their "strong role" in preserving Kentucky history.

Scholarship Winner

Jane L. Edmonds is the 1986 recipient of the Susan S. Nutter Scholarship founded at Prestonsburg Community College in 1985. Daughter of George Edmonds and Nancy Edmonds, of Pikeville, she is a 1984 graduate of Mullins High School where she was class salutatorian.

This tuition scholarship is awarded each year to an outstanding education major. The scholarship fund was developed as a permanent memorial to Susan Sparks Nutter, the beloved mathematics professor at PCC who was killed in an auto accident.

Education was Mr. Nutter's lifelong interest. Her mother was a librarian and her father, Harry M. Sparks, a former state superintendent of education and former president of Murray. Education is also an interest of her husband, John Nutter, a psychologist at Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, who is also an adjunct faculty member at PCC.

September 1786—At a conference in Annapolis, Maryland, Alexander Hamilton and James Madison were sympathetic with those calling for a convention of the 13 states for the purpose of drafting a national Constitution. The Daughters of the American Revolution honor these men who worked for effective organized government in the United States.

Program Helps The Jobseeker

Job hunting can be stressful, even if you've gone through the ritual dozens of times. It can be especially nerve-racking for people who are looking for that first job or who have been out of the labor force for several years.

A variety of Department for Employment Services program offer help to Kentuckians through the Job Training Partnership Act.

"Many of the people who take advantage of these programs are women who have not worked for a number of years, and who, because of death or divorce, have become the primary or the sole breadwinners for their families," said Employment Services Commissioner James Daniels.

"Some of these programs are specifically for women who are heads of households, such as displaced homemakers, while others include single mothers as only one of several target groups," Daniels said. "A number of the participants in these programs are unskilled and need some type of training before they can find jobs. Others need to polish skills they haven't used for several years."

Programs the department is funding at Southeast and Hazard community colleges are examples of the types of help available. "These programs, which are designed specifically for single heads of households, offer an orientation to the world of work, counseling and career exploration. They also provide help with placement into a training program or a job," the commissioner said. "They are geared to help women who lack recent work experience who may not know what educational and vocational opportunities are available to them."

The Louisville YWCA receives funds from the department and the Louisville and Jefferson County and North Central Kentucky private industry councils (PICs) to operate programs for single heads of households, including those who are victims of domestic violence. These programs are part of the YWCA's Creative Employment Project.

Participants are involved in job readiness workshops, in which they learn about money management, community resources, stress management, nutrition and legal issues in the work place. They also are taught job-seeking skills, such as resume writing, how to complete a job application and how to prepare for a job interview, and they receive job counseling. Some may enroll in on-the-job training or home health aide, clerical or retail business training classes.

In Owensboro a program funded by the department and the TRI-ADD PIC through the Green River Area Development District offers remedial classes in reading and math and classes in clerical and computer training. Participants take aptitude tests, then are referred to job openings that meet their interests.

Other local councils that sponsor programs include the Northern Kentucky PIC. It uses JTPA funds to support the Homemaker Re-entry Center at Northern Kentucky University, which offers career development, remedial classes in reading, math and English, and typing and word processing training. Bank teller bookkeeping classes are offered to some participants. Limited funds also are available for other training classes.

The Cumberland PIC sponsors a program at Somerset Community College and the Purchase/Pennyrile council supports programs at Paducah and Hopkinsville community colleges. These offer remedial education and support services to help participants make the transition into the labor force.

People interested in participating in any JTPA programs should contact one of the Department for Employment Services local offices.

Must Obtain Coal Permits

All Kentucky coal crushing and sizing operations must obtain permits in order to continue operating beyond August 1, according to Robert F. Knarr, Commissioner of the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement.

Operations without permits must close down August 1, unless they have submitted an initially complete permit application to the Department by February 3, and the Department has not acted on the application by August 1.

Applications submitted by the February 3, deadline are exempt from collection of six months of surface and ground water data, but applications submitted after the deadline must contain such data.

On Fayette All-Academic Football Team

Fayette county has announced the Junior High All-Academic football team. Five players from Beaumont Junior High made the team, and two of those chosen were Marc and Stacey Hall, sons of Lanny and Katie Hall, of Lexington, formerly of Floyd county. They are the grandsons of Hobert and Goldie Spurlock, of Printer, and Sheila Hamilton, of Grethel.
 Stacy was one of two players who made the first team which requires players to maintain a 4.0-3.8 grade average. He had a 3.8 average. Marc was one of three players who made the second team which requires a 3.7-3.5 average. He had a 3.6 average. Marc was also chosen best offensive player for his school team. As halfback, he carried the ball for a 5.4 yard average per carry. Stacey was reserve linebacker and second leading tackler on second string. Both played varsity football.
 Their parents credit the Allen Elementary School staff and athletic department for helping their sons excel in academics as well as athletics.

Late Winter, Early Spring Tradition... Snagging and Gigging Fish

The gigging and snagging of rough fish is a late winter and early spring angling tradition in Kentucky.
 This year the gigging and snagging season will open on February 1 and run through May 10, although anglers are reminded that some waters are off limits to gigging and snagging, and special regulations apply at others.
 The applicable regulations are detailed in the statutes KRS 150.010 through 150.470. If you have any questions about gigging or snagging be sure to talk with your local conservation officer first. This is because gigging and/or snagging is strictly prohibited in over 40 Kentucky streams (and their tributaries)—many of which support trout fisheries.
 Anglers who wish a copy of the gigging and snagging regulations may write: Ky. Dept. of Fish & Wildlife Resources, Division of Public Relations, No. 1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, or telephone (502) 564-4336.
 Gigging and snagging are primitive ways of harvesting fish that date back to prehistoric man—a means of gathering food utilized by native Americans, and later adopted by early settlers. Today, the regulations which govern gigging and snagging allow sportsman ample opportunities to pursue this fun sport and harvest a "mess" of fish while benefiting the resource as a whole. Gigging and snagging are considered legitimate fishery management tools because they increase the harvest of rough fish to the benefit of game fish.
 "Snagging" refers to taking fish by pulling or jerking a single weighted hook through the water, although in the Green and Rolling Fork rivers (and their tributaries), up to five single or treble hooks may be used. Snagging rods have extremely stiff action and casting reels seem to be preferred. Braided or lead core line is most often used when snagging.
 Anglers may gig through the ice (provided the gigger is supported by the ice) and gig or snag, day or night, from a stream, or lake bank, but not from a boat or boat dock (or other floating platforms). Gigging and/or snagging is prohibited within 200 yards of all dams, except in the Tennessee River below Kentucky Dam.
 The Tennessee River below Kentucky Dam is a top area for snagging that has its own set of regulations. In the swift waters below Kentucky Dam, anglers may snag year-round from the banks only. Spoonbill catfish are the most sought after fish species, although in this area anglers may keep any game fish that are snagged.
 The daily creel limit shall not exceed 15 fish in aggregate, and snaggers aren't allowed to exceed the daily creel limit for any game species. All fish snagged must be kept except shad or herring, and no rod used in snagging shall be longer than seven and one-half feet in length, including its handle.

Lake Recording Available

Have you ever wondered what the lake conditions were going to be the night before you planned a fishing trip? If you're planning to fish at Paintsville Lake you can find out before you leave home—if you call 606-297-4111.
 The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers began providing a recorded message on January 22 for those planning to visit the lake. If you would like to know whether the lake is low or muddy, what the summer water temperature is, when trout will be stocked, or if the lake is frozen in winter, call before you go. When conditions are changing quickly the message will be updated at least once each day. Additional information can be obtained by calling another number supplied by the recorder.
 The recording number is 606-297-4111 and is available 24 hours a day. For additional information write Resource Manager, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, P.O. Box 1177, Paintsville, Ky. 41240.

INVITATION FOR BIDS

The Floyd County Fiscal Court is now asking for bids on a County Track Endloader. The Endloader must have a standard 2 cubic yard bucket with an operating weight which exceeds 28,000 pounds. All other necessary specifications must be obtained from the County Judge/Executive's Office, Monday thru Fridays between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. All sealed bids must be in the office by 9:00 a.m. on February 21, 1986 before the Court meeting which will begin at 10:00 a.m.

Together, heart disease, stroke and related disorders kill almost as many Americans as all other causes of death combined, American Heart Association statistics reveal.

The flags of six nations—Spain, France, Mexico, the Republic of Texas, the Confederate States of America, and, of course, the United States—have flown over Texas.

'A Very Sick Little Boy'

Now only a year old, Mathew Combs has for half of his young life suffered from liver cancer. Described as "a very sick little boy," he is at St. Jude's Hospital, Memphis, Tenn., where two-thirds of his liver was removed recently.

The child's parents, Adron and Dorothy Combs, of Garrett, are poor people, but they have tried to give him a chance to beat the cancer and to live a normal life. When he was six months old they learned that he had cancer. He was taken to Lexington, where doctors told them there was nothing they could do. But they continued their desperate search for help for the tot. They took him to a cancer research center in Tennessee where specialists succeeded in shrinking the tumor. Then, last October, surgery was performed. Surgeons thought they had succeeded in removing all the cancer, but within two months it reappeared.

Two weeks ago, the tot was taken back to Memphis, and a second operation was performed, leaving only a third of his liver.

"If he lives," say the parents, "he will need lots of treatment and medical assistance. If anyone had a prayer or donation, it would be appreciated."

Contributions should be made to the Mathew Combs Fund and mailed or otherwise delivered to the child's aunt, Sharon Gibson, P.O. Box 83, Garrett, Ky. 41030.

LPN's Needed, Study Shows

More licensed practical nurses are needed because Kentucky's population is aging and health-care costs are increasing, a study by the Kentucky Department of Education has determined.

Kentucky vocational education centers are offering 11-month courses to prepare students for the licensure examination as well as other health-related careers, Supt. of Public Instruction Alice McDonald said.

The study, done by the research and development unit of the Office of Vocational Education, says the strongest demand within health occupations is for registered nurses, medical administrators, licensed practical nurses, medical secretaries and nurses' aides.

ACCUMULATION
By WILMAY

Many citizens have questions about the Toyota deal, since certain details remain undecided. The prospect of more jobs is encouraging but if the state pays Toyota millions or for them, why not do the same to help American firms, some of which have had to reduce personnel or to close? Reports say the first amounts quoted for Toyota are much too low.

Some officials and other knowledgeable persons think the governor's estimate of state income is well above what can be reasonably expected. A check this time next year may be enlightening. Too many allocate millions of dollars now the way we octogenarians talked about dimes and quarters in the good ole days!

Kentuckians have long known that teacher salaries are shamefully low. When a husband and wife both teach one wonders how they manage. Retirement pay is unjust. Still, advance in education depends less upon increased salaries (which I favor) than on other factors. The dedicated teacher who considers her position a calling more than a profession, gives her best, regardless of pay. Unfortunately some gain that category solely by nominating themselves for same. If the city of Jacksonville, Florida and a poor state like New Hampshire—to cite two examples—upgraded their systems with no tax increase, why don't more states and municipalities investigate and try their methods? Too many people, products of one-room, one-grade schools of yester year, are still alive and competent in the Three R's, plus, proving that additional funds are not the crucial need. Nor is money the number one solution to educational dilemmas.

Placing athletics where they belong, on the school program, would help the situation all over this nation. No one opposes sports but the emphasis on athletics and on extra-curricular activities is outrageous and is a potent constituent in the current educational national muddle that is sure to affect national security ultimately unless resolved. Another primary requisite is more teachers the caliber of Joe Clark, for, after all, the classroom teacher is the dominant key to a child's learning.

It's hoped parents and teachers read The Man With The Bullhorn, page 171, February Reader's Digest. The article describes a New Jersey ghetto high school with 3000 students, high illiteracy, non-achievement, dropouts, and rated one of the worst schools in the U.S., on any scale. But Joe Clark, its black superintendent, turned it completely around, almost single-handed, in short time. General improvement and academic success astounds everyone. AND there is no mention of a tax increase, which helps show that other elements are equally accountable for quality education.

As one reads of terrifying problems in schools across our land we find almost no reference to the fact that when morals in a country collapse other aspects of life jump on the roller coaster. Scripture confirms this. A child's character and conduct are molded chiefly in the home before he starts school, placing major responsibility for his behavior on his parents. Teachers largely determine his progress in school, though preschool years in the family count enormously, particularly if his parents have sufficient education, plus the will to assist him and oversee his studies from time to time. The fact remains that teachers are employed to do the teaching, and in homes of low socioeconomic status often that is the only instruction of value many receive. Educators and parents share in child development; moreover, churches and society play vital roles, too.

Almost one in four adult Americans has high blood pressure. This amounts to 37,990,000 people according to an American Heart Association estimate.

Receives AA Degree

Connie Bevins Brackett, student services office assistant and a five-year veteran of the Prestonsburg Community College staff, received her Associate of Arts degree from PCC in December. She graduated with high distinction having maintained a 4.0 average while working full-time and taking six hours a semester. Her favorite class was Introduction to Philosophy because, as she says, "It led me away from small-minded thinking into a world where man has questioned his very existence."

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leeman Bevins, of Banner, Mrs. Brackett has always been a source of academic pride to her parents, for she graduated as co-valedictorian from Feds Creek High School. She took advantage of PCC's challenge examination program to earn twelve of her 61 credit hours. She plans to continue her studies in English and computer science.

Trainees Recruited For the Job Corps

The Kentucky Department for Employment Services last week announced the placement of full-time Job Corps recruitment staff in eight of its regional offices.

These offices are in Bowling Green, Corbin, Covington, Hopkinsville, Lexington, Louisville, Owensboro and Somerset.

"Staff in all our local offices currently recruit trainees for the Job Corps program, and they will continue to do that," Employment Services Commissioner James Daniels said. "But we've made it a full-time job in the areas where the potential for recruitment seems to be the greatest, based on past performance."

The Job Corps program is funded through the federal Job Training Partnership Act. The program serves youth and young adults who are out of work or school and need additional skills to secure and hold meaningful employment. It provides intensive education, vocational training, work experience and counseling programs for selected applicants.

"Job Corps offers an educational program to high school dropouts who want to obtain their General Education Development (GED) certificate," Daniels said. "And it offers a variety of training programs to help participants become productive members of the labor force."

There are 103 Job Corps centers in 42 states and Puerto Rico. Kentucky is the home of six centers, including the largest and smallest.

"An effort is made to place recruits at centers close to their hometowns when possible," said Charles Marcum, state Job Corps coordinator. "The ability to do that depends upon the number of openings at a particular center and the type of training that a recruit needs."

The Earle C. Clements Job Corps Center at Morganfield is the country's largest with more than 2,500 men and women. Courses offered to enrollees range from automotive and building trades to business and clerical skills, from heavy equipment operation and repair to culinary arts to retail sales.

Courses offered the 280 participants at the Whitney M. Young Jr. center at Simpsonville include air conditioning and refrigeration, automotive trades, building trades, cooking and welding.

Training is offered to 165 people at the Carl D. Perkins center at Prestonsburg. Courses include brick masonry, carpentry, plumbing and electricity.

Three of Kentucky's centers are Civilian Conservation Centers located on public lands.

The largest of these is the center at Pine Knot in the Daniel Boone National forest. Up to 224 men can be trained here in carpentry, bricklaying, painting, cement masonry, welding, cooking, building maintenance, automotive trades and forestry.

"This center is widely known for its program for forestry aides," Marcum said. "Trainees for this program often are called upon to fight forest fires anywhere in the country."

At the Frenchburg center, also located in the Daniel Boone National Forest, up to 168 people can be trained in carpentry, masonry, welding, cooking and automotive trades.

The Great Onyx center at Mammoth Cave National Park is the smallest Job Corps Center in the nation. Here training is provided for 110 men in carpentry, masonry, cooking, building maintenance and automotive trades.

"The Job Corps program isn't for everyone," Daniels said. "But it provides a unique opportunity for youths who have not obtained the education and vocational skills necessary to hold productive jobs and to be self-sufficient. It offers them a critical second chance."

Two tablespoons of grated Parmesan cheese added to a quarter cup of melted butter, makes a terrific sauce for fish or vegetables.

Get out your handkerchiefs: Felicia-Zane wedding is on

By Nancy M. Reichardt

Viewers who like to cry at weddings can get ready for a tearfest. Romance novelist Felicia Gallant and adventurer Zane Lindquist of "Another World" are scheduled to tie the marital knot this week — on Valentine's Day.

Linda Dano

And they'll be doing it in style. The bride will be decked out in a $12,000 gown made of Chantilly lace, white feathers, bugle beads, translucent sequins and hand-beaded cultured pearls. The whole concoction was created by designer Rafael for Via Coutura.

Says Linda Dano, the beautiful and stylish actress who portrays Felicia, "The dress is very Felicia. It has wide, wide shoulders and tiny feathers everywhere.

"Felicia wears all the layers you see on the fashion runway — and at home she wears feather boas."

Miss Dano admits that she has more than a little in common with Felicia.

TURTLE DIARY (PG-Samuel Goldwyn Company) Starring Glenda Jackson, Ben Kingsley, Richard Johnson. ★ ★ ★ ★

By J.T. YURKO

Harold Pinter is not everyone's cup of tea. His brooding, melancholic looks at life aren't exactly fluffy British biscuits. But "Turtle Diary," although it is hardly a laugh-a-minute escapade, is optimistic and approachable Pinter — and it has all the earmarks of being his most successful film to date.

The film's stars are a casting director's dream. Ben Kingsley of "Gandhi" fame is teamed with the venerable Glenda Jackson, and both play characters who have lost synch with the real world.

Kingsley is a humble salesman in a quiet little bookshop. Years ago he had a wife and family, but due to circumstances that are not revealed in the film, he dropped out of the rat race.

Jackson plays a writer of children's books, often about animals, who has run into writer's block. She feels dried up and incarcerated in a cell of her own creation. Both share one other significant trait — they have developed an obsession with turtles. Separately at first, they make frequent visits to the London Aquarium and watch the large creatures for hours. Together, they hatch a plan to steal the turtles and send them back to the sea.

It doesn't take a masters degree in symbolism to associate the lives of the turtles with the lives of these lonely, isolated people. What is extraordinary is how well Pinter and director John Irvin paint the portraits of these people, and how well Jackson and Kingsley (and the rest of the cast) play their parts.

Pinter's script is his liveliest to date. The film starts out in usual Pinter style, meaning nearly everyone looks and acts suicidal. But there is a remarkable amount of droll humor, and it all works in seamless harmony with the intent of the film.

"Turtle Diary" is the first movie made by a recently formed production company called United British Artists. The board of directors includes Glenda Jackson, Harold Pinter and producer Richard Johnson, who also appears in the film. If this film is any indication, the future of UBA should be very bright indeed.

National Geographic looks at 'Creatures of Mangrove'

By Peter Meade

"Creatures of the Mangrove" may sound like the title of a new B-rated monster film, but it's actually the name of the latest National Geographic Society special, scheduled to air on PBS Wednesday, Feb. 12. (Check local listings.)

The hour-long special, sponsored by Chevron and narrated by actor Richard Kiley, is filled with enough bizarre-looking creatures to fill a "Godzilla" remake. The cast of eerie, unlikely looking characters all live in a mangrove in Borneo. The mangrove, a small island called Siarau located between the Australian and the Asian mainlands, is neither totally land nor totally sea. The tide floods the lush vegetation of the mangrove twice a day, and the mangrove's inhabitants have been forced to adapt to these conditions.

One unusual member of the mangrove clan is the mudskipper, which is actually a fish that spends more time on land than in the water. The mudskipper has adapted with a sort of aqualung breathing mechanism and flippers that also serve as arms to push it along the ground. Fiddler crabs, one of the wild assortment of crabs photographed in the brilliant close-up style that has become the National Geographic trademark, have adapted through the use of a giant lobster-like claw that help the crab eat the nutrients left in the mud at low tide.

The most memorable mangrove resident is the proboscis monkey, a native of Borneo. The golden-haired creature is easy to spot because of its ruddy, orange-red Durante-esque nose. These monkeys have adapted to their environment by becoming strong and skillful swimmers.

Also featured are striped archer fish, which kill their prey by shooting bursts of water up to 12 feet; the foot-high mouse deer; crab-eating frogs; the monitor lizard, a direct descendant of the dinosaur; the short-clawed otter; dozens of spiky-haired caterpillars; hundreds of fruit bats; and thousands of weaver ants.

"Creatures of the Mangrove" may lack some of the excitement of a day on Madison Avenue, but it nevertheless gets across the point that it's a jungle out there.

"Creatures of the Mangrove" is the second of four new National Geographic specials scheduled to air during 1986, the society's 111th year on PBS. Next month, National Geographic will air "Jerusalem: Within These Walls," followed in April by "Realm of the Alligator."

SCHOOL COUNSELOR SPEAKS

"What are today's schools doing to train the children for tomorrow's jobs?" was the provocative question posed by Jack Stevens, student counselor at Allen Central High School, speaking last Monday evening to members of the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club at the home of Mrs. Don Hughes, of Garrett.

Mr. Stevens advised that students must be trained in micro-computers. He pointed out that in 1981 there were approximately 30,000 computers in the schools, while today there are over a million and by the year 2000 there will be over three million. He explained that computer technology is advancing so fast that those who choose a career in that field and work for a period of 40 years will need to be re-trained at least eight to ten times during their years of employment. He further pointed out that robotics is the current trend and robots are being used in manufacturing for cutting, measuring, building, painting, etc., and that while there are more jobs available than ever before in history, few workers are required. He warned that parents need to consider this when borrowing money "to send the kids to school".

In answer to "what jobs are going to be available?" the speaker mentioned jobs in electronics, the para-legal profession (legal assistants), electrical engineering, and as travel agents. In answer to a question asked about jobs in the teaching profession, Mr. Stevens affirmed that teachers would still be in demand as there is at present a teacher shortage because many of the best students are being gobbled up by the large corporations which pay more. However, he indicated that he felt certain teachers' salaries and benefits would be much improved in the future.

A business meeting conducted by the club president, Mrs. Marie Mullins, was held prior to the program.

The treasurer, Mrs. Don Hughes, reported that the club's annual contributions to the Wayland and Garrett volunteer fire departments had been sent. The president reminded the members of the cup cake baking to be done for the Golden Years Rest Home for Valentine's Day, advising that she would pick up the cup cakes on Friday morning, the 14th, and deliver them to the home. The club also unanimously voted to approve a bill being considered in the Kentucky Legislature to make wearing of automotive seat belts compulsory. Mrs. Vera Allen was received as new club member.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. LaFaye Hughes and Mrs. Blanche Bamer, to the following: Mrs. Marsella Bradley, Mrs. Marie Mullins, Mrs. Vera Allen, Mrs. Jo Ann Hall, Mrs. Lula Coburn, Mrs. Maxine Martin, Mrs. Libby Martin, and the speaker, Mr. Stevens.

The next regular meeting will be held Feb. 17 at the home of Mrs. Marsella Bradley, Garrett, with Mrs. Marie Mullins program leader.

Benjamin Franklin, in his last will and testament, bequeathed to his friend, General George Washington, his "crab-tree walking stick, with gold head curiously wrought in the form of a cap of liberty." After Washington's death, one of his nephews inherited the walking stick. It is now in the Washington Collection at the Smithsonian Institution. The Daughters of the American Revolution encourage the reading of history to bring alive the intimate character of great Americans.

Cawood Ledford Named Spokesman for Bank

S.F. "Butch" Bradley, marketing director of First Commonwealth Bank, announces an agreement has been reached between First Commonwealth and Cawood Ledford Productions, Lexington, for Cawood Ledford to act as spokesman for the bank.

Ledford, a native of Cawood, Harlan county, has been the "Voice of the Kentucky Wildcats" for 33 years. He has called the Kentucky Derby and Preakness on CBS radio and the NCAA Collegiate Basketball finals on both NBC and CBS radio for the past 10 years. His book on sportscasting is used as a textbook at two universities.

Prior to forming his own company, he was with WHAS radio and television in Louisville for 22 years and was director of its sports staff for 20 years.

Voted 17 times (including 1985) Kentucky's "sportscaster of the year" Ledford has been chosen the top college basketball announcer in the nation four times. He was the first on-the-air announcer honored by the Kentucky Broadcasting Association. His alma mater, Centre College, honored him as the "Outstanding Graduate". He is the only broadcaster to have won thoroughbred racing's Eclipse Award three times.

Due to his travel schedule at this time of year, it is not yet known when production of advertisements using Ledford will take place.

John Sevier, who became the first governor of the State of Tennessee in 1796, had assisted in the victory against the British at the Battle of King's Mountain in 1780. For this battle he had raised 480 men and was appointed their colonel. Later he became a strong supporter of the Federal Constitution. The Daughters of the American Revolution encourage the reading of American History.

CARD OF THANKS

We the family of Harry E. Hager, of Auxier, Ky., who passed away Jan. 19, wish to express our appreciation and gratitude to all of those who sent flowers, food and gave moral support and comfort during this time of bereavement.

IN APPRECIATION

We, the family of Harry E. Hager, wish to express our deepest appreciation and gratitude to the Nelson and Frazier Funeral Home for all their help and support during this trying time. You did a skilled and professional job. It was done with love, great care and compassion. Daddy would have been very pleased that all his wishes were carried out and that everything was done in a dignified and professional manner. He loved you as we do. We appreciate all your help and support. God bless all of you.

1tpd.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Reynold Nelson, who died Feb. 3, 1984.

In tears we saw you sinking. We watched you fade away. Our hearts were very broken. You fought so hard to stay. But when we saw you sleeping so peaceful, free from pain. We could not wish you back to suffer like that again. Though your smile is gone forever, and your hand, we cannot touch. We will never lose the memories, because we loved you so very much. Sadly missed by wife and children.

AT WHAT AGE

DO YOU TEACH A CHILD ABOUT DEATH

Just as there is no specific age in our childhood when we learned about the "birds and bees," so is there no special age to discuss death with children. It may be a gradual education, given a little at a time.

Situations present themselves which may be used to start little talks with your child. Children themselves give you clues to their interest, to their "wanting to know" Questions and comments like these are good "openers": "Boy are these flowers ever droopy, mom?" or "Gee, dad, why doesn't my fish swim right?"

As the child's questions become more specific, so should the answers. Give truthful, direct answers, but not too elaborate, because the child might be overwhelmed or confused.

As with most learning situations, the best bet is to keep it simple, honest and direct.

We are always willing to provide information and tours of our facilities for school groups. Please stop by or phone for details.

MAYTOWN NEWS

Thomas Benjamin, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Kent Flanery, is a patient at St. Joseph Hospital in Lexington where he underwent surgery last week. He is recovering well.

Our sympathy to relatives of Mrs. Amanda Sutton, who passed away last Thursday in Clearwater, Fla. where she had resided for the past 11 years with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Crowe. She spent most of her life in Maytown. Family members from out of town attending the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Crowe and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Snoddy, Clearwater, Fla., Mrs. Sutton's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Evelyn Whaley, Long Beach, Calif., grandchildren, Mrs. Vicki Bush, Cypress, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Joe Crowe, Barbara, Amy, Diane and Michael, Union, Ky., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Seymour, Swathmore, Pa., and Mrs. Judy Garton, Cottonwood, Tenn., and Mr. and Mrs. Jake Hughes, Covington, Ky. Following funeral services, these family members were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Patton.

Mrs. Sarah Allen was a recent patient at the McDowell Regional Hospital for treatment.

Jennings and Gary Webb attended a party for Jackie Owens at the Archer Park rink on his fifth birthday last Saturday.

Ron and Janie Smith were shopping in Huntington last weekend.

Sympathy to Mrs. Joyce Rowe, whose mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Bentley Derossert, of Allen, passed away last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude J. Webb honored their son, Jennings, with a party on his 11th birthday Sunday at their home. The young guests enjoyed games and refreshments, including birthday cake, served by Mrs. Webb and Mrs. Mecca Skeans. Those attending or sending gifts were Micky Joe and Jimmy Dock Ratliff, Chris and Kim Anderson, Hazel, Jimmy Darrel, Mark and Stephanie Patton, Delbert, Susan and Delbert Milton Goins, Johnny, Dawn and Brandon Skeans, Hattie, Jackie and Chris Owens, Lou and Kelly Campbell, Shawn and Chris Bailey, Lynn, Jason and Jessica Isaac, Angela Bradley, Cletis Howard, Carl, Ginger and Natalie Cooley, Jeremy Clark, Glima and Maria Hicks, Gary Webb, Sammy and Mecca Skeans, Claud and Helen Webb, Gorman and Edna Cooley, Edna Click, Lula Webb, Rebecca Salisbury, and Agnes Woods.

Gospel Singing
At Cow Creek, Sat.

A gospel singing will be held Saturday, February 8, 7 p.m., at the Cow Creek Freewill Baptist Church. Featuring the Gospel Harvesters, the Sounds of Rachel, the Spiritual Lights, and Pat and Ron Chaffins. Refreshments will be served afterwards.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

(which in this situation includes all the people of Floyd county)

A few years ago in 1977, I think Floyd county school board members, being the same as those comprising that position today with the exception of Mr. John Stumbo, Judge-Executive being replaced by Mr. Fred Newsome, had the opportunity of placing the future of the education of our children in the hands of a very highly qualified individual. They chose to by-step that gentleman and appoint another person. Once again that opportunity lies in their hands, once again they have the opportunity to appoint this highly qualified gentleman, Mr. Ray Brackett, as superintendent of Floyd county schools.

I began my association with the Floyd County School System in 1965 when my oldest daughter began the first grade at Prestonsburg Elementary School. Today she holds a Master's degree in Speech Pathology and is employed by the Johnson County School System. Why Johnson county, you ask? Why not Floyd county where she and her family reside? Because when she finished her education and came back home to work, having a new baby, she wished to work part time only. Floyd county being over crowded with speech therapists, I suppose—three for the whole of the county—couldn't handle the situation of part time. Johnson county felt part time for one year and then fulltime the next was pretty good. For the record, Floyd county still has only three speech therapists.

In 1977, my son was of age to enter school. Being a handicapped individual, autism by diagnosis, the school system was not ready for this task—and this was understandable; very few states, let alone school districts, were ready. However in 1975 Congress passed Public Law 94-142, which says all children must be educated according to their handicap, in the public school system. This law gave all school districts in the United States from 1975 to September 1, 1978 to prepare themselves. Floyd county chose to wait until this date, September 1, 1978, and then only under pressure, using as excuse no teacher, until it was pointed out that Ms. Mollie Tackett—holding a degree in Learning Disabilities, substituting in the Floyd County School System, had had her application in for employment in that field for three years.

When the law became mandatory her lost application was able to be found and a Learning Disabilities class was started at Prestonsburg Elementary School and Stumbo (I think), I know she was part-time between two schools, educating the handicapped students was a new field for us all, parents and the school administrators. Ray Brackett, realizing his lack of knowledge in the area of handicapped, took it upon himself to educate himself by reading and listening, therefore being prepared to help work out problems in this field.

I feel the teachers of Floyd county would have a direct line to the Superintendent, were it Mr. Brackett, in that his wife is a teacher in this school system. Were you at the Board meeting the night a teacher of Floyd county addressed the Board concerning needs in her classroom? You remember, don't you, when Mr. Grigsby jumped up and let this teacher know she was just a teacher and what did she mean to bring such trivial problems to the Board—that those were professional people sitting around that table. I know of no one sitting around that table, or in that room for that matter, more professional than a teacher.

Isn't the world now mourning the death of a teacher? They must be pretty important. After Mr. Grigsby calmed down, the lady said, "I have some more to tell, do you want me to go on?" Yes, Mr. Duff, you made a very wise decision that night, I certainly hope when the time comes to make a decision for Superintendent of Floyd County Schools, you once again make a wise decision in the best interest for all of Floyd county—those young, those old, those in between and, yes, even those yet to be born.

Once again, the elected members of the Floyd County School Board have a opportunity to place the future of our children in the hands of a very highly qualified gentleman—that being Mr. Ray Brackett. I hope and pray we don't make a mistake.

No matter how you slice it, a day's electricity costs less.

In an all-electric home, electricity does everything, everyday—including heat—for less than the cost of a small pizza. Think about it. Electricity lights your home, cooks your meals, cleans the house and dishes, entertains you, washes and irons your clothes, powers your tools, heats your water and, with an electric heat pump, keeps you warm in winter and cool in summer. Electricity does all this and more for about what you might spend for lunch. In addition to being a great value, electricity is delivered wherever and whenever you want it, instantly, with just a flick of a switch. Having dependable power when you need it is something we all take for granted. Electricity—no matter how you slice it, it does it all for less!

Startling Discoveries

The sun doesn't just sit there and shine. It shakes, and quakes, and vibrates like a bowl of gelatin. In "The Solar Sea," the sixth program in the new "Planet Earth" series, the focus is on the Earth's own star—the sun that gives us light, heat, and life itself. "The Solar Sea" will be aired Wednesday, February 26, at 9:00 p.m. on KET.

Filed around the world, the program imparts the latest facts and scientific theories about the sun. "The Solar Sea" looks at Robin Stebbins' accidental discovery of "sunquakes" and explores the question, "Are sunspots linked with drought?"

The viewer travels to Australia to investigate the curious banded rocks discovered in an ancient lake bed. The viewer then travels to Kitt Peak, Arizona, to learn how their telescope works and will even climb down its barrel. Other phenomena explored and explained in the new program include the solar wind, which hurtles through space at a million miles an hour and the fabulous aurora borealis, as seen, for the first time, photographed from both the ground and a satellite.

"The Solar Sea" is produced by WQED/Pittsburgh in association with the National Academy of Science.

OLD DRUG, NEW USE

Adenosine monophosphate (AMP) is a drug that has been used for years in treating multiple sclerosis and Hodgkin's Disease. A recent study has shown a potentially new use for the drug. It can be used as a treatment for shingles (herpes zoster). Shingles is caused by the varicella (chicken pox) virus. The disease gets its name from an old word for "belt" or "girdle." It starts with a painful rash that follows a belt or girdle-like pattern. The virus traces nerve cell pathways, usually on one side of the body. Eventually, the skin dries out and sheds. However, the pain gets worse and may last months. In tests, 88 percent of AMP-treated patients were pain-free after four weeks. The U.S. F.D.A. is waiting to approve the new use of AMP.

Our pharmacists are pledged to further and maintain the highest ethical standards of our profession and keep up to date with all the latest developments. COOLEY APOTHECARY has already played a significant role in the health care of hundreds of families in this area. If you are new to the Prestonsburg area we suggest you become acquainted with us before the need arises for our services. Complete patient profiles are maintained here at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Master Charge and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4.

HANDY HINT: Testing is now under way to gauge AMP's powers against genital herpes.

"TODAY'S SMART HOMEBUYERS LOOK FOR ENERGY EFFICIENCY... THEY LOOK FOR GAS."

Joe Mercurio
 Joe Mercurio, Builder

"Natural gas offers people more of what they're looking for in an energy source—especially for heating, but also for hot water, cooking and clothes drying. Gas is economical, and today's gas equipment is the most energy-efficient ever.

"It's reliable, too. When buyers begin to compare my homes with someone else's, gas gives me a clear advantage. I build energy-efficient homes, and gas is part of that. I prefer to offer it...and families prefer to have it."

If you're looking for more energy efficiency for your home, look into the new gas heating systems and appliances. And see why builders like Joe Mercurio count on them to add value to their homes.

New Entrance Under Construction

A crane waits to install the elevator in the new entrance to ground floor medical offices at HRMC.

An outside entrance to medical offices at Highlands Regional Medical Center is under construction. The newest addition to HRMC will contain an elevator and a stairway leading to the ground floor. The funds for this structure were donated by the Medical Center's Women's Auxiliary.

Currently, patients at the medical offices must enter through the main entrance of the hospital, then take the elevator to the ground floor. The new entrance will eliminate going through the main entrance and make the offices of Dr. Rodney Handshoe (cardiology), Dr. Byron Young (neurology), Dr. Ernest Behnke (ear, nose, and throat), and Dr. Charles Young (ear, nose, and throat) more convenient for patients.

The construction is set to be completed by early spring.

Hospice of Big Sandy Cites Need of Funds

Hospice of Big Sandy has been awarded a matching fund grant from the Christian Appalachian Project for $5,000. A matching fund grant is one which requires the recipient to collect money which the granting organization will match with money of its own.

The source of these matching funds must come from the coal industry in this area. The reason for this requirement is the belief of both Hospice of Big Sandy and CAP that there is an untapped source of revenue for charitable institutions to be found in the coal industry. Any donations made by coal companies will be automatically matched by the Christian Appalachian Project grant up to $5,000.

If you wish to make a donation toward the matching fund grant, call Hospice 886-2721 or write Hospice of Big Sandy, Box 1002, Prestonsburg, Ky., 41653.

Hospice is in great need of financial help and will welcome any donations from any members of the community.

P.R.I.D.E. To Meet Thursday at Pike High

P.R.I.D.E. of Pike, Inc. (Parent Resources for Information on Drug Education) will host an educational meeting to discuss the question, "Do Drugs Affect School Behavior?" The panel composed to address this issue will be composed of two area psychiatrists—Dr. Cora Chua and Dr. Manuel Chua along with three high school counselors—Don Bowling, Mullins High School; Henry J. Clevinger, Pikeville High School; and Danny Belcher, Virgie High School. This meeting is open to the public and all interested individuals are urged to attend. It will be held tomorrow (Thursday) February 6, at 7:30 p.m. in the library of Pikeville High School.

Preparatory to the panel discussion, Dr. Cora Chua will discuss the normal stages of adolescent growth and development; and Dr. Manuel Chua will discuss the effect that one particular drug, marijuana, has on the course of normal development.

P.R.I.D.E. invites anyone in the surrounding communities of Pike county to come and join efforts with us, so that with a united campaign, we can WIN this war against drugs. For more information, call Gloria Whitt at 437-6784.

FLOYD STUDENTS ON NAT'L LIST

Pikeville College has announced that twenty-two of its students will be featured in the upcoming ninth edition of the National Dean's List. Five of these scholars are from Floyd county.

The Floyd countians include: James Cooley, Wayland; Carol Daniels, Prestonsburg; Tammy Jarrell, Dana; Connie Scott, Estill; and Alysia Turner, Garrett.

Cooley will be honored, along with fellow Pikeville College student Hagar Bush, III, with inclusion in the 1986 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Wife-Beating Still With Us, But Progress Is Reported

Wife-beating, a scourge that claims four lives a day, according to the January Reader's Digest, remains distressingly prevalent in our society. And while there's growing recognition that the problem should be treated as a crime, and offenders punished, even so, it remains the one assault for which police don't want to make arrests. In a 1985 study of big-city police departments, only 30 percent reported that they "encourage" officers to arrest wife batterers.

Says Judge William R. Sweeney of Family Court in Duluth, Minn., "People continue to think of wife-beating as a private matter. We need to see it as a public concern, too dangerous to ignore."

That's exactly how they see it in Duluth. In 1981 the police department there became the first in the nation to make arrest mandatory for domestic violence—which means the police officer, not the victim, presses charges. If an officer believes there has been an assault, and the victim is injured in any way, the batterer must be jailed overnight for a hearing. The next day, most men plead guilty and choose six months of mandatory counseling over the alternative: 30 days in jail. Once in counseling, men are taught to deal with the problems that lead them to batter their wives and how to control the anger that often turns to violence.

Also in Duluth, the actions of every agency that deals with victims and offenders—police, courts, shelter for battered women and counseling groups for men who assault their wives—are coordinated through the Domestic Abuse Intervention Program.

A survey of women helped by the Duluth system revealed that 87 percent were living without violence two years later. Among the rest, the ongoing violence was far less severe and less frequent.

First Commonwealth Bank's Tax-Tamer IRA gives you a tax break without breaking your budget.

Investing in an IRA is a good idea. But the problem with most IRA's is that they require a large lump sum payment each year, which often breaks your budget as well as your heart.

First Commonwealth Bank's Tax-Tamer IRA is different. Our Tax-Tamer IRA lets you save gradually for your tax-deduction. You can open your Tax-Tamer IRA for as little as $25.00 and make additional contributions anytime during the year.

Besides getting a tax-deduction, you can include your Tax-Tamer IRA as a part of your monthly budget. For more details, come in to any First Commonwealth Bank office.

NOTICE

The City Council of Prestonsburg, in its session January 27, 1986, expressed concern over the condition of unsightly litter, trash and other debris on private property, which detracts from the appearance of our City. Council members also discussed the problem of coal dust and debris falling from improperly covered vehicles. Therefore, the Council ordered that the following portions of Ordinance No. 2-80 be published, to remind all citizens of the City laws pertaining to clean-up of their property, and to give notice that all persons will have sixty (60) days to comply with the Ordinance:

ORDINANCE NO. 2-80 of the City of Prestonsburg requires all persons within the City to keep their property clean of litter. Litter means all solid wastes including containers, packages, wrappings, printed matter or other material thrown or deposited. According to "Section Four" of the ordinance, no person, shall throw, drop, deposit, discard or otherwise dispose of litter upon any public place, in the City or upon any private property or in any water within the City.

Also according to this ordinance no vehicle shall be driven or moved on any street unless it is so constructed or loaded as to prevent any of its load from dropping, shifting, leaking or otherwise escaping therefrom.

Any person not in compliance with this ordinance shall be fined according to the following schedule:

FINES

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant to Permit No. 836-5091

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350, notice is hereby given that Earl Bentley dba Carry Back Coal Company (Existing permit number 436-5054), P.O. Box 159, Drift, Kentucky 41619, intends to transfer its permit to TLC Coal Corporation, HC 72, Box 220, Price, Kentucky 41654.

The existing operation is approximately 0.4 miles west from State Route 80 junction with County Road 1210 and located 0.2 miles north of Stephens Branch. The latitude is 37° 33-35. The longitude is 82-46-53. The surface area is owned by Henry May Estate. The total area affected by this operation is 226.63 acres.

The existing operation is located on the Martin U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The operation will use the underground method of mining. The surface area to be disturbed is owned by Henry May Estate. The operation will underlie land owned by Johnny Skeans, Virgil Flannery, Myrtle Skeans, Mae Skeans, Linda Gail Skeans, Vernon Flannery, Curtis Frasure, Joe Hughes, Raleigh Barnett, Henry B. May, J.S. and Opal Greer et. al., and Gregory and Peggy Tackett.

The application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 503 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653. Written comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, 6th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

All comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be received within fifteen (15) days of today's date.

ORDINANCE NO. 3-86

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG ESTABLISHING RATES FOR THE REMOVAL OF TRASH.

WHEREAS: The City Street Department is receiving numerous calls to haul contractor's trash from houses in the City; and,

WHEREAS: This places a burden on the street labor in hauling off the trash; and,

WHEREAS: This increases the operation of the department to the City, NOW THEREFORE BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG AS FOLLOWS:

SECTION 1: It shall be the duty and responsibility of each contractor doing business in the City to haul their own refuse to the licensed landfill in the county. If the City does have to haul the refuse in the City vehicle, a charge of $30.00 per load or portion thereof will be charged to the contractor. Said fee to be paid in advance to the City.

SECTION 2: All contractors must not leave any refuse on property inside of the City limits for more than seven (7) days of completion of the job. If the refuse is left longer than seven days a charge of $25.00 per day will be assessed upon the contractor. If the contracting job lasts for a period of over one (1) month, the trash will not be allowed to set on any property for over two (2) weeks.

SECTION 3: This ordinance shall apply to contractors only and not upon individuals doing their own work on their own property.

SECTION 4: All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict herein are hereby repealed to the extent of such conflict.

SECTION 5: This ordinance shall take full force and effect upon adoption and publication.

Adopted this 27th day of January, 1986.

ANN R. LATTA, Mayor

SUE WEBB, City Clerk

House Week in Review

By REP. JIM ROSE,
92nd District

Lawmakers got a break from the hectic activities of the Legislature this past week because of a two-day holiday. But that didn't slow the flow of bills moving through committees and onto the House floor.

Several pieces of legislation brought representatives to their feet for discussion and debate before the measures were voted on.

One controversial bill would allow crime victims, their next-of-kin, or legal counsel to appear at parole-board hearings when the person who committed a crime against them is considered for release. Supporters said that such legislation would open up the parole system and make parole boards more accountable for their decisions. Opponents argued that the bill contained unforeseen fiscal implications and could inject politics into the parole process. In the end, the measure—which is part of a package of so-called victims' rights legislation being introduced this session—passed by a comfortable margin.

A bill regarding unemployment insurance spurred lengthy debate in the chamber, and in the end the matter was left unresolved. The bill, which reflects a compromise between business and labor, would allow an increase in weekly jobless benefits—the first in several years. But the benefits hike, which is set on a sliding scale, would be pegged to the amount of money in the state's Unemployment Insurance Trust Fund. At length, however, we voted to lay the measure on the clerk's desk until major points of disagreement could be resolved.

Three more education-related bills coasted through the House last week. We cleaned up a bill approved in last summer's special session providing teachers with duty-free lunch periods. The new bill would allow teachers to be assigned to lunchroom duty only if their regular school day includes 55 minutes of "non-instructional" time. Schools could not force teachers to come to work an hour early to satisfy the planning-period requirement.

We listened and heard some off the complaints and problems or our state's hearing-impaired students. We approved a bill that would provide those students with services such as interpreters and notetakers in university classes. The universities would also be required to install emergency warning devices in dormitories.

We also voted on a bill that would establish a new formula for figuring how much state money local school districts will receive for educating mentally and physically handicapped students. The bill only sets the formula, not the mechanism for funding those units.

Problems in Kentucky's nursing-home industry would be reviewed if a resolution we approved passes the Senate. The resolution would direct the Legislative Research Commission to study the future availability of nursing-home beds and long-term care services, including in-home care throughout the state.

A few bills focusing on revision of Kentucky's adoption statutes have been introduced and considered in committee. The full House passed one measure making the health records of adoptees' genetic parents or blood relatives available to their adoptive parents, circuit courts, and the adoptees themselves when they reach adulthood. The department of human services would be required to furnish the non-identifying health information if it is requested by anyone authorized to receive it.

Typing, Accounting Classes Scheduled

Night classes will be taught in typing and accounting at the Garth Area Vocational Education Center beginning Monday, February 10 from 6-9 p.m. The classes will be taught on Monday and Wednesday nights by Greta Hernandez. You may contact the school if you would like to get your name on the list since slots will be limited. Phone 285-3088.

WINN DIXIE

Celebrates 70th Birthday

A surprise birthday dinner party was held for Mrs. Marie Click, 70, of Emma, by her daughters, Patsy Hayes, of Marion, O.; Sandra Porter, of Ypsilanti, Mi., and Frankie Sue Bartley, of Westerville, O., Saturday, January 18th at the Emma United Methodist Church. Helping with the arrangements were Mrs. Click's five sisters: Wanda Cobb, Mildred Potts, and Norma Conley, all from Emma, Birdus Conley, from Wayland, and Estelle Bayes, from Ypsilanti. A special thanks goes to Jack Cobb who helped the fugitives (Patsy and Frankie) in last minute preparations. Mrs. Click received many nice gifts and two poems written by Lillian Blackburn and Ida Leslie.

Those attending were: Wanda and Jack Cobb, Mildred Potts, Norma Conley, Birdus Conley, Estelle Bayes, Bill and Beth Bartley, Harry Childers, Mary Thornsberry, Luca Hamilton, Hope and Janet Whitten, Ida and Claud Leslie, Virgie Stapelton, Myrtle Joe Potter, Hester Layne, Ida Ross, Lillian Blackburn, Sue Wright, Kay Auxier, Mable Senterfeit, George Goble, Carol and Wayne Walters, Bonnie Walters, Dena Layne, Pat Arnett, Grace Leslie, Aleen Burchett, Jesseca and Lisa Little, and Marie Fraley. Many gifts were sent from friends unable to attend.

Senators Discuss Legislation

Sen. Art Schmidt, R-Cold Spring (left) and Sen. Benny Ray Bailey, D-Hindman, discuss pending legislation on the floor of the Senate before the day's session begins. More than 1,000 bills and resolutions are expected to be considered before the 1986 General Assembly adjourns in mid-April.

NUMB ARMS, LEGS Warning Signals

There may be misalignment of vertebrae in the spine causing pressure on nerves, yet the patient experiences no pain in the back. Instead, a variety of sensations may be felt in other parts of the body. These include tingling, tightness, hot spots, cold spots, crawling sensations, electric shock sensations, stinging, burning, and others.

The following nine symptoms involving back pain or strange sensations are often the forerunners of more serious conditions. Any one of these may spell back trouble

- (1) Paresthasias (see,above)
- (2) Headaches
- (3) Painful joints
- (4) Numbness in the arms or hands
- (5) Loss of sleep
- (6) Stiffness in the neck
- (7) Pain between the shoulders
- (8) Stiffness or pain in lower back
- (9) Numbness or pain in the legs.

These signals may indicate your body is being robbed of normal nerve function. Until this function is restored, you will, in some degree, be incapacitated. The longer you wait to seek help, the worse the condition will likely become. Don't wait! Should you experience any of these warning signals...call for in depth consultation in Layman's terms.

January Blood Drive Proclaimed A Success

On Saturday, January 18, 24 people donated blood at the Armory in Prestonsburg. The drive was sponsored by Central Kentucky Blood Center and Kentucky National Guard.

Upon completing their eighth donation (one gallon), donors are eligible to receive a special key chain which is imprinted with the donors' blood type and number of gallons given. New key chains are given after completing each additional gallon. The key chain is numbered and postage guaranteed if the keys are lost and dropped in a mail box.

When a donor reaches 10 gallons a special plaque is presented to recognize outstanding contributions to their community's blood supply. Central Kentucky Blood Center depends on the generosity and support of the Kentucky National Guard to help meet the increasing need for blood and blood components. The following people took time to try to share their good health by donating blood at the blood drive in Prestonsburg: James Howard, Larry Caudill, Gary Paul, Leon Patrick, William Mollette, Henry McKinney, Bart Bauer, Robert Carpenter, Harold Koontz, Danny Spears, Larry Caldwell, Loyd Borders, Edmond Caudill, Calvin Setser, Don Castle, Michael Holt, George Green, Jimmy Webb, Charles Music, Charles Carroll, Phillip Pack, David Slone, James Setser, Ronald Stephens, Ray Stivers, Tim Griffith, Timothy Keel, Joe Ryan, Ronald Wheeler.

Martin-Vanover

Mrs. Sherry Allen, of Garrett, announces the engagement and forthcoming marriage of her daughter, Lori A. Martin, to John W. Vanover, of Beulah Hts. Miss Martin is the daughter of the late Milford Martin, step-daughter of James A. Allen, granddaughter of Joe and Nettie Martin, and the late Bill and Francis Hackworth. She is a 1983 graduate of Allen Central and a licensed practical nurse.

Mr. Vanover is the son of Jimmie and Pearl Vanover, grandson of Jack Perry and the late Bonnie Perry, and Delice Vanover and the late Thermal Vanover. He is a 1982 graduate of McCreary Central and an assistant manager with Maloney's Enterprises.
