

New Court Splits On Hiring Issue

Owens Opposes Action Taken On Detectives

If its first meeting was any sign of things to come, the new Floyd Fiscal Court will subject the county judge-executive to closer scrutiny and his policies to livelier debate than they have had to withstand in recent years. By the same token, Monday's meeting suggests that Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo will still be able to muster the votes when he needs them.

Of the newcomers to the court, Right Beaver Magistrate Jackie Edford Owens, who replaces longtime strongman Kenneth Roberts, brought to his deliberations the same combative energy he showed in his election campaign. In crucial votes Monday he found an ally in First District Magistrate Gerald DeRossett.

When the votes were counted, however, Mud Creek Magistrate Eral Tackett, who succeeds Lowell Samons as Fourth District representative on the court, fell in behind Stumbo and Third District Magistrate Ed Caudill to form a majority. "Watch for a lot of 3-2 votes on this court," one observer commented.

The first test of strength for the new county legislators came on an apparently innocuous recommendation by the judge-executive that all workers currently on the county payroll be rehired under the new administration. Owens spoke against the motion, saying he wanted two recently-hired county detectives laid off until their backgrounds and qualifications could be checked. He was joined by DeRossett.

At Stumbo's urging, Caudill and Tackett voted to rehire the detectives, pending a background check. "I'll be the first to fire anyone who's not doing his job," Caudill said. The judge-executive added his vote to carry the motion.

Owens then moved that any county law-enforcement officer—including sheriff's deputies and county detectives—"have their badges pulled within 24 hours" if they have been convicted of a felony or are awaiting trial on a felony charge. Sheriff Henry Hale acknowledged last week that former magistrate Kenneth Roberts, who is

Bakay Sentences Are Concurrent, Probation Denied

While he turned down a request that the sentences be probated, Circuit Judge Hollie Conley ruled Friday that two 10-year prison terms meted out to a Weeksbury man could be served concurrently.

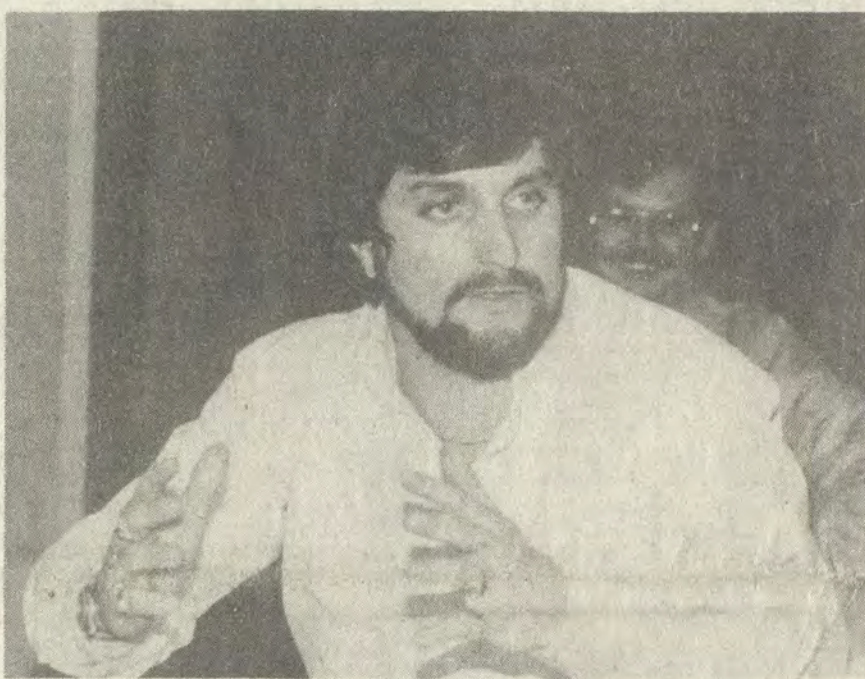

"We were not above begging for mercy," said Ned Pillersdorf, who acknowledged that multiple sentences in criminal cases are ordinarily served consecutively. His client, Timothy Bakay, 23, was convicted Dec. 2 on two counts of first degree assault in the auto wreck last winter that left Cathy Allen in a coma and injured Kay Rodebaugh. Police said Bakay was drunk at the time of the collision.

In seeking probation, the defense attorney noted that Bakay was employed, married, and the father of two young children, and had no previous criminal record. (Bakay was convicted of drunk driving in 1981.) But Judge Conley held that failing to incarcerate the defendant would tend to underrate the seriousness of his crime. As it is, Bakay will be eligible for parole in two years. He has been lodged in the Floyd county jail, pending transfer to the state reformatory near

WHEN THE ED CAMPBELL FAMILY AWOKE Monday morning, they discovered that they had narrowly escaped the fate of the two cars lying under this massive rockfall. Their trailer is located just a few feet from the fall on the Mountain Parkway near State Road Fork.

"A LITTLE GREEN" is how Jackie Edford Owens, newly-elected Right Beaver magistrate described himself as he took his place on the Floyd Fiscal Court this week. He impressed some observers, however, as one who would quickly learn the ropes of county government.

Uppermost on the new magistrate's mind this week—and the issue that dominated the year's first fiscal court meeting—were plans to hire three Right Beaver men as law officers. Owens lambasted the plan as a political payoff and as a potential source of reprisal against his supporters.

Why Not a Woman?

As long as the county is going to hire detectives, they might at least hire a woman for the job, Priscilla Jean Martin, of Eastern, told members of the Floyd Fiscal Court, Monday.

Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo suggested Mrs. Martin pick up a job application form from his office, advice which she readily followed.

Asked later whether she was trained for the position, Mrs. Martin said she figured she had as much police training as the two men hired last week as county detectives. Moreover, as a hairdresser and florist's helper, she is experienced in dealing with the public, she said.

The would-be sleuth is a sister of Jackie Edford Owens, newly-elected magistrate for the Right Beaver Creek section.

Former Head Of Comp Care In New Post

David Bell, Jr., 41, who resigned last August as executive-director of the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center here, is "doing an excellent job" as counselor at a mental health agency in central Kentucky, according to a recent news report.

Bell's management of the center here came under fire from staff members and a citizens' group and was the subject of a sharply critical report by investigators from the state division of mental health and mental retardation services. In mid-November, he was hired as a social worker at a Camp

W. P'burg Floodwall Favored in Plans

City officials have decided to target their application for a $750,000 community development block grant for flood-proofing West Prestonsburg, and excluding housing rehabilitation. Their decision was based on estimates that flood-proofing would take the greatest percentage of such a grant, leaving little for improvement of the houses.

According to City Administrator David Evans, it was decided that the funds would probably not be forthcoming for a project that involved only the easing of the housing problem.

"It would just be throwing good money after bad," said Evans, "as the frequent floods there would soon negate any benefit derived from new housing." Use of any funds made available was at first considered mainly for housing rehabilitation.

Later options were discussed to submit an application detailing plans for both types of improvement, but Evans said the closer the project was examined, the more evident it became that a specific plan to keep water out of that section had the greatest chance of approval from the state.

"You have to submit a definite, specific plan," he said, adding that the city would have to request a specific amount of money to fund any given project completely. In other words, the city could not request the full $750,000 and spend part of the money for a flood wall and use whatever was left over to do some housing renovation. The grant must be for complete funding of a project for it to be considered.

Evans said plans now include the possibility of applying for two block grants—one now for flood control, and another, in August, for housing.

One problem facing the city is the filing deadline for this round of block grants. The application must be submitted by the last day of January, leaving little time to study the situation. A public meeting will be held January 20 at the municipal building to get resident input into the project.

Two citizens already heard from are West Prestonsburg's Harmison Hale and Wade Moore, who indicated to Evans and others involved with the application procedure that flood protection was definitely a high priority there.

Hale said many people in West Prestonsburg did not carry flood insurance, and for those who did, the insurance money was little consolation for a flooded home.

Evans said that the grant program was highly competitive, and to make the city's application more likely to be approved, a certain amount of local funds would have to be pledged as well. That money, it was speculated, might come from the city taxes collected in West Prestonsburg.

"They have to pay taxes, anyway," said Evans, "and I'm sure they'd feel better about it if they knew the money was going directly to help West Prestonsburg." Such a measure would have to be approved by the City Council.

The city administrator said he was still optimistic that the grant will be approved, since approval is based to a large extent on need.

"It's badly needed," he said.

Suit Assails Left Beaver Washer Okeh

The past performance of Left Beaver Coal Co. is so bad the firm should not have been issued a permit to renew operation of its Clear Creek coal-washing plant; that is the argument pressed last week by Palmer Humphrey in a suit filed in Franklin Circuit Court.

Named as defendant in the suit is Charlotte Baldwin, secretary of the state Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet, who approved Left Beaver Coal's revised permit application on December 9. Baldwin followed the recommendation of a hearing officer who concluded on November 14 that the permit should be granted.

Hearing officer J. Gregg Clendenin held that, while the Natural Resources Cabinet might have concluded from the coal company's past record that it could not be relied on to observe environmental laws in the future, the Cabinet could

Suit Against Asbestos Makers Spurs Talk of Action in Floyd

If a case can be made against the manufacturers of asbestos used in the construction of half a dozen Floyd schools, it should be made, said W.W. Burchett, attorney for the Floyd Board of Education, who added that he would take up the matter with board members this week. The lawyer's comments came in the wake of a report that state Attorney-General David L. Armstrong last week filed a lawsuit against 23 manufacturers of asbestos used in the construction of state-owned buildings.

Vicki Dennis, director of public information in the attorney-general's office, noted that the state suit does not cover school buildings. Several school districts have filed lawsuits on their own behalf and some have joined other school districts nationwide in class-action suits, she said. Acting Floyd Superintendent Ray Brackett said he once provided information to a national citizens' group which was filing a class-action suit against the now-bankrupt Johns-Manville Corporation, which manufactured asbestos.

Judge Vexed As Jury Pool Low

An angry district court judge told 17 jurors they could go home yesterday (Tuesday), since they were three short of a complete jury pool and the defense attorney in the case up for trial declined to allow a jury to be selected from an incomplete panel.

While District Judge Harold Stumbo blamed no one in particular, his anger appeared to be directed at the Floyd Circuit Court officials responsible for making sure that sufficient jurors are on hand and, ultimately, at Circuit Judge Hollie Conley.

Lengthy pretrial motions had already been heard in the drunk driving case on Tuesday's docket when a district court clerk realized that there were fewer than 20 jurors present. When defense attorney Jerry Patton declined to waive

The discovery of asbestos in Prestonsburg High School in 1978—and the resultant friction between the Floyd Board of Education and a citizens' group—received national publicity and helped focus attention on the hazards of asbestos, which was once used extensively as a building and insulation material because of its heat-resistant qualities. In a crumbling state it can cause cancer and asbestosis, a scarring of the lungs.

While the shredded asbestos fibers which once hung from the ceilings at Prestonsburg High School were cleaned up relatively quickly, less-exposed asbestos at Prestonsburg High and in at least five other Floyd schools was not eliminated until the beginning of the current school year.

While there is "probably a case" to be made by Floyd school authorities against firms which manufactured, sold and installed asbestos in Floyd schools, such a lawsuit would be "a long shot," Burchett cautioned. "It's sort of new ground," he explained.

The action filed by Attorney-General Armstrong—the largest lawsuit in the history of the Commonwealth—seeks $68.7 million in damages from manufacturers of asbestos used in the construction of 4000 state-owned buildings between 1945 and 1978. The suit charges that the firms made and marketed their asbestos products despite the knowledge that they could pose serious health threats. Among the buildings affected, Armstrong noted, are colleges, office buildings, hospitals, institutions for the mentally ill, and facilities for juveniles.

"The state has already spent more than $1 million surveying some of its buildings to determine the level of the problem created by asbestos and in removing asbestos," Armstrong said. "It is inevitable that Kentucky taxpayers, or someone else, will spend many more millions of dollars in dealing with asbestos. I'd rather it be paid by those manufacturers responsible and not the people of Kentucky."

Acting Superintendent Brackett estimated this week that the Floyd school system had spent $124,000—$98,000 of that at Prestonsburg High School—in removing asbestos from county schools. The cost was not covered by insurance, he said.

Judge-Executive Warns Court Of Reduction in Govt. Funds

This year's county administration faces a particular challenge, Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo told the new fiscal court at its inaugural meeting Monday, in that federal revenue-sharing money, traditionally a substantial chunk of the county's income, will almost certainly dry up this summer.

Revenue-sharing funds amounted last year to $374,000, about 17 percent of the $2.1 million county budget. The money has been targeted for elimination by Reagan-administration budget-cutters, noted Stumbo, who said he hoped the state legislature could be persuaded to pick up some of the slack.

The judge-executive pointed to housing projects at Warco and Ivy Creek—the one already occupied, the other nearing completion—and to "33 miles" of newly-paved road as highlights of his first full term in office. Among the top priorities on the current agenda, he said, are the strengthening of fire protection services and the extension of water lines.

Among water projects being developed, he noted, is the extension of the Prestonsburg system up Middle Creek to Magoffin county; a $700,000 overhaul of the Mud Creek system; construction of a water system on Prater Creek; upgrading of the Wheelwright system and its extension to Clear Creek; and the installation of a water storage tank at the head of Steele's Creek.

Stumbo said he hoped a contract could be let this spring for construction of the $1.1 million Prater Creek water project.

Shelly Woods was hired as county roads foreman at an annual salary of $18,516.

Sworn in prior to Monday's fiscal court meeting were the judge-executive and the four magistrates—incumbents Gerald DeRossett and Ed Caudill, newly-elected magistrates Jackie Edford Owens and Eral Tackett, County Attorney David Barber, County Clerk Carla R. Bolton, Coroner Roger Nelson and Constables Morgan Joseph, Roger Conley, Buddy Bryant and Paul Stilton.

Prestonsburg Community College has announced that a member of its faculty, Associate Prof. Hailu Bogale, recently received his Kentucky Professional Engineer's license from the Big Sandy Chapter of the Kentucky Society of Professional Engineers (KSPE).

Hailu received his BS in mechanical engineering from the University of Addis Ababa and his MS in mechanical engineering from Fairleigh University in New Jersey. His MS in thermal science is from N.Y.U., where he specialized in heat transfer and gas dynamics. He has been a lecturer at Queens College and has taught engineering and mathematics at PCC for 10 years. He is the Division Chairman of Physical Sciences and Related Technologies at PCC.

Hailu is especially proud of the fact that PCC students consistently take top academic awards in every engineering area at UK. As a result of student performance, UK has awarded PCC 10 $500 per semester scholarships in the mining engineering area.

First-Mortgage Share Declining For ARMs

Although adjustable-rate mortgages continued this fall to be the principal alternative to the more popular level-payment, 30-year, fixed-rate mortgages, ARMs have held a significantly smaller share of the first-mortgage market recently than they have in the past, according to an October survey by the National Association of Realtors.

The NAR survey of real estate closings in September and October reported by a panel of residential real estate brokers around the country found that the percentage of first mortgages using fixed-rate loans rose to 74 percent in October from 68 percent in July.

The percentage of ARMs used as first mortgages dropped from 25 percent in July to 20 percent this fall, the lowest since April 1983.

ARMs were by far the second most frequently chosen type of first-mortgage instrument this fall. The remaining 6 percent of first mortgages used in home purchases were short-term loans with balloon payments, graduated-payment mortgages, land contracts, equity-participation mortgages and wrap-around loans, NAR survey analysts said.

The October survey found that 85 percent of borrowers who used an ARM as a first mortgage to finance their home purchases chose loans with one-year payment adjustments. The three-year ARM accounted for 10 percent of all ARMs; loans with six-month payment adjustments made up 3 percent of all ARMs, and 2 percent were five-year ARMs. The October percentages were virtually unchanged from July, when the previous NAR survey was conducted.

"The overwhelming popularity of ARMs with one-year payment adjustments probably is due to their wide availability, compared to those with longer or shorter adjustment periods," association economists said. "Furthermore, ARMs that adjust more frequently involve more monthly payment uncertainty, while those with longer adjustment intervals generally have higher initial interest rates than one-year ARMs," they added.

Almost three of every four ARMs selected by borrowers this fall were tied to a U.S. Treasury securities index, the National Association of Realtors' survey found. Sixty-four percent of ARMs were tied to the one-year Treasury note index.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board's contract rate was the second most frequently used index, with nearly 15 percent of all ARMs tied to it. Eleven percent of ARMs were tied to a Federal Home Loan Bank District average cost-of-funds index.

Virtually all ARM borrowers this fall selected loans that limited their risk by placing caps on the amount the monthly payment could increase. A typical ARM placed a 2 percentage point cap on the increase in the interest rate at each adjustment, with a 5 percent cap on interest rate increases over the life of the loan. However, many loans also limited the decrease in the interest rate that the borrower would enjoy during periods of falling interest rates.

Nine of 10 ARM borrowers this fall chose a loan with a cap on both the periodic payment adjustment and the total adjustment over the life of the loan, according to the survey. Only 4 percent chose ARMs with no protective caps of any kind, while another 4 percent selected ARMs with life-of-the-loan caps only. Two percent chose ARMs with both adjustment period and life-of-the-loan caps was down slightly from a survey taken in April, while the percentage who chose ARMs with no caps of any kind was up since April, NAR analysts said.

The caps included in most ARMs may prevent the monthly payment from adjusting to levels required by changes in the related interest rate index and, therefore, protect the borrower from sharp payment increases. However, in some ARMs an obligation of additional interest or principal is only postponed, and the balance of the loan builds up through negative amortization.

"The overall trend in 1985 is toward increased use of ARMs that do not allow negative amortization, paralleled by declines in the use of ARMs with both unrestricted and restricted negative amortization," NAR analysts said.

The October survey found that 96 percent of all ARMs did not allow negative amortization. This percentage has risen consistently since this aspect was first surveyed in June 1984. Another three percent of ARMs restricted negative amortization to 125 percent of the initial principal.

Only one percent of ARMs taken by borrowers this fall allowed unrestricted negative amortization, compared to four percent reported in April and three percent reported in July.

The National Association of Realtors, the nation's largest trade association, represents more than 675,000 members involved in all aspects of the real estate industry.

awaiting trial on a dozen felony counts, was being considered for a newly-created deputy's job. And Owens suggested Monday that Henry Scott, one of the two hired last week as county detectives, may have been involved in two separate shooting incidents in the past.

Owens claimed that Scott, 34, is a resident of Knott county and hinted broadly that he and Joe Boling, 37, the other man hired as detective, were added to the county payroll mainly to satisfy a political debt. "I know Scott campaigned hot and heavy for you at Garrett and Boling campaigned hot and heavy for you at Wayland," Owens told Stumbo.

The Right Beaver magistrate also implied that the new law-enforcement officers from that section lacked training and suggested that their authority might be abused in settling old campaign scores. "I think it's important we get qualified men with training in police work," said Owens, noting that retired state police officers might be tapped for the job. "I don't want any revenge on anyone who might have (displayed) my bumper sticker," he said.

Stumbo admitted last week he did not know if Scott, a builder, or Boling, a grocery store operator, had any police training. Nor did he deny that the two had supported his bid for re-election. "I'm not going to pick someone who was against me, someone who was gouging me," he said. But he insisted the two were hired only because of a sharp rise in mining equipment theft and he noted also that the positions were only part-time, paying $400 a month.

"Whether it's $400 or $200, we still want an honest person," said Owens, whose proposal to lay the two off drew support from DeRossett. Once again, however, Caudill and Tackett backed the judge, defeating the motion.

During the debate on their hiring, Scott and Boling waited outside the fiscal court meeting room in the company of Ex-Magistrate Roberts, who later accompanied them when they filled out their employment papers in the county offices.

The judge executive's hand seems to have been considerably strengthened by his recent reorganization of the county garage in the name of better economy and stricter discipline. Under the reorganization, county roadbuilding equipment has been pooled and will be under the direct control of the judge-executive. The implications of the move were not lost on Owens, who recognized that his intransigence could prove costly for his district. "I won't get nothing for the next four years," he predicted, only half joking.

LaGrange. Meanwhile, Pillersdorf has filed a motion seeking a new trial for Bakay, on grounds that the prosecutor improperly attempted to influence the jury during his closing argument. Specifically, Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen should not have invoked community sentiment about "these drunk drivers"; nor should he have told jurors that one of them or their children could have been "in that car that the defendant hit," the defense attorney said. Under trial rules, it is improper for a prosecutor to invite jurors to place themselves or their families or friends in the place of the crime victim.

In an unrelated case, Bill Jones, of Bypro, pleaded guilty Monday in Floyd Circuit Court to a reduced charge of receiving stolen property. Jones was originally indicted on a felony count, the grand jury charging that last February he had in the trunk of his car tools valued at $889 which had been stolen from Monroe Jones, of Bevinville.

Under a deal worked out with the prosecutor, Jones pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge and received a one-year jail sentence, to be probated after he has served 60 days. The defendant was given credit for 14 days already served while awaiting sentence.

bellsville clinic operated by the Somerset-based Lake Cumberland Mental Health-Mental Retardation Center, according to an Associated Press report by Bill Bergstrom.

Dennis Boyd, state commissioner for mental health and mental retardation services, advised the Somerset agency against hiring Bell, Bergstrom reported. But David True, the agency's executive director, noted that Bell was hired to provide purely clinical services. "He doesn't have any administrative role, no fiscal role," True was reported to have said. "It's working out well for us."

Boyd noted that the state attorney-general's office is reviewing the allegations of mismanagement on Bell's part to see if criminal citations should be issued. "Mr. Bell has not cooperated in the investigations and we felt it was inappropriate for another comp care center to hire him as long as the investigation was going on," he said.

True said he and the Lake Cumberland board were aware of the probe and might review Bell's employment "should any of the allegations against him be proven."

The state report on the mental health agency here charged in June that board members were lax in their oversight of the agency, that Bell exercised poor management and supervision, that purchasing procedures were being circumvented and that staff morale was low. The report also questioned salary advances made to Bell and travel expenses incurred by him. Bell denied any wrongdoing and attributed complaints about his management to jealousy and politics.

Jim Roberts, director of community service in the state mental health division, said the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center board had since responded to the state report and "we're very pleased with their progress" in dealing with the problems.

also be swayed by "mitigating circumstances and Left Beaver's good faith efforts to minimize adverse environmental effects caused by its violations."

Moreover, while the coal firm had engaged in a "pattern of violations" at its tipples, there is no evidence that the violations were "willful," the hearing officer concluded.

But Ned Pillersdorf, Humphrey's attorney, argues in his suit that the frequency of violations for which Left Beaver has been cited itself demonstrates a "willful pattern of violations" sufficient to justify denial of an operating permit. "The overwhelming weight of the... evidence was that Left Beaver Coal Company had... 28 adjudicated violations in a three year period," the suit says. "The hearing officer arbitrarily failed to recognize that repetitive violations of the law connote willfulness."

Company attorney George Seay was recently quoted as denying that Left Beaver Coal had degraded the Clear Creek area where Humphrey lives. Regarding the coal company's former practice of pumping slurry into old underground mines, Seay said "the company does not believe that the injection system in anyway affected the groundwater."

his right to a full panel, the judge had no option but to excuse the jurors and redocket the cases scheduled for trial that day.

"Unless we get this jury situation straightened out we might as well not set any case for trial," Stumbo said in a tone of exasperation. "This has happened at least five times in the past year. I'm getting sick of it."

The judge, whose own absences on scheduled court days have sometimes vexed jurors, attorneys, witnesses and defendants, said, "It's not fair to be bringing these people out of the hollows only to send them home again."

"I've done everything I can. I've begged for 25 jurors," a court clerk replied helplessly. "Judge Conley is the one who decides."

Among those tried before the judge, without a jury, this week were 25 who pleaded guilty to or were convicted of drunk driving. Joe D. Fraley, pleaded guilty to a second drunk driving charge and to driving on a suspended license; he was sentenced to seven days in jail and ordered to pay $557 in fine and costs. Lowie G. McKinney pleaded guilty to one DUI count while an old, 1984 DUI charge was amended to reckless driving. He was fined $407. Earl Carr pleaded guilty to drunk driving and failing to maintain insurance and was likewise fined $407.

David Young did not appear in court but was convicted on the testimony of state Det. Steven Zoellers, who said Young took off on the Mountain Parkway on Sept. 7 when he tried to pull him over for a license check. Convicted of drunk driving, possession of marijuana, driving on a suspended license, attempting to elude a police officer and having no insurance, Young was sentenced to 30 days and ordered to pay $557.

Speeding, drunk driving, attempting to elude, no insurance, and possession of marijuana charges against Michael L. Burchett were consolidated; he was sentenced to 12 days and ordered to pay $707. Charles E. Mullins was ordered to work for two days at Maytown Fire Department after he pleaded guilty to charges of drunk driving and possession of marijuana. Dwayne E. Bishop, convicted of drunk driving and driving without a license, was sentenced to 10 days. Matthew Wells was sentenced to two days of public service and fined $207 after pleading guilty to drunk driving and drinking on the highway. An attorney for Charles E. Foley said his client would plead guilty to drunk driving, having prescription drugs in an improper container, having no insurance and leaving the scene of an accident but no penalty was yet recorded.

Also convicted of DUI were: Charles A. Murdock ($357); Jimmie Smith, of Phelps ($407); Calvin D. Rathburn (two days' public service, $157); Rita J. Ward ($407); David Allen (two days' work, $407); Johnnie Thacker, Sidney ($407); Zandale W. Lewis, ($357); Franklin Boyd (two days); Jessie Willis Young ($357); Danny Bradley ($407); John K. Wallace (two days' work with fire department, $157); Walter Harless, Tomahawk ($407); Estill Miller (two days' public service, $157); Benjamin D. Ferguson (two days, $157); and Linda Archer, Paintsville (two days, $157).

A drunk driving charge against Jeffery N. Lewis, of West Liberty, was amended to public intoxication on a motion of the prosecutor. A DUI charge against Carl Richard Uber, Jr. was amended to reckless driving. Dismissed was a similar charge against Jackie L. Howard, the prosecutor explaining that the defendant recorded only .09 percent on the Breathalyzer.

Randy Keathley, 18, pleaded guilty to a charge of trespass brought by Betsy Layne High School Principal Russell Frazier. He was sentenced to five days' jail, the sentence to be probated for two years on condition that Keathley stay away from the school during class hours. Jimmy Spears was ordered to pay $67 after pleading guilty to a charge of reckless driving brought by Wheelwright police officer Tommy Engle. Randall Coleman, of Elkhorn City, was ordered to pay $557 after pleading guilty to driving on a suspended license, speeding, and having no insurance. Jeffery Skaggs, of Ulysses, was fined $72 for driving on a suspended license.

A New Year

By GLENN MOLLETTE

A new year is a new beginning: a time to make resolutions, mend broken relationships, give up an old habit or maybe start a new one, depending on the habit. It is a time to make plans and a time to change some.

With bad weather and icy roads you'll have time to relax and think a little more as the cold snowy days or evenings keep you inside.

I believe a quiet time is good for every person. We live in a world of noise. Noisy machinery, televisions, radios, telephones, cars, etc. It's amazing what you can hear when you can get in a quiet place. Sometimes the best noise I enjoy hearing is silence. It gives me a chance to meditate and talk to the heavenly father. When I have nothing to say the quietness makes it easier to hear what he might be trying to say to me.

A good new year resolution would be to plan a daily quiet time. It might only be fifteen minutes. But it might be the best fifteen minutes you'll spend all day. Try a quiet time with God. You'll find a source of energy during these moments not found in any other.

Board Meets Today

Seeks WW II Veterans

The 16th Armored Division Association is a non-profit organization of WWII Army veterans who served with General Patton's Third Army in Europe. We have 1100 members who now reside in all 50 states, except Montana and Alaska. Our Armored Division consisted of approximately 15,000 men during combat.

Since I was the first sergeant of "B" Company, 64th Armored Infantry Battalion of the 16th Armored Division, I can recall that there were men in my outfit who originally lived in Kentucky and either enlisted or were drafted from your state.

I am trying to locate these men and ask them to join our Association. It would be greatly appreciated if you would print this letter, requesting that these former members of The 16th Armored Division contact me.

We hold an annual reunion in a different city and state in the United States. In 1985, our 34th annual reunion was held in Cleveland, Ohio. In 1986, we plan to be at Lake Tahoe, and in 1987 in Orlando, Florida.

Appalachian Skills Focus of KET Show

Vibrant homespun fiber on a rough-hewn loom. Lifting tunes from a hand-crafted fiddle. Earth scents rising from a whirling mound of clay on the potter's wheel.

These are the sights, sounds, and smells of "Folkways," a seven-part series showcasing America's pre-industrial survival skills and crafts. The series will be aired on KET beginning Friday, January 3, at 6 p.m. and on successive Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays at that time through January 17. Mountain musician David Holt hosts nostalgic visits with Appalachian artisans who keep pioneer masteries alive, passing centuries-old "Folkways" on to succeeding generations. In his visits, Holt discovers the reminiscent allure of homesteading as he witnesses colorful craftsmen still practicing skills of self-sufficiency and creating objects of collectible beauty.

Some of the talents demonstrated on the series are log cabin construction; crafting dulcimers and banjos and mountain fiddles; weaving hand-loomed coverlets; blacksmithing and metal crafts; oak splint basketry; pottery, and cornhusk dolls and carved toys.

Magoffin Wets Win Saturday's Election
Only six weeks after the state Supreme Court had nullified the vote which permitted legal liquor sales in one magisterial district of Magoffin county, voters of that county last Saturday approved countywide sales.
Eight of the county's 13 precincts voted wet, giving the pro-liquor group a margin of 281 votes. Edward A. Farris, commissioner of the state Alcoholic Beverage Control board, said the county will become legally wet and licenses to sell can be issued 60 days after the date of Saturday's election.
Salyersville, the county-seat, polled a dry majority of 85 votes, but the town of Royalton, in the Third magisterial district which had earlier voted in legal liquor sales, gave the wets a 317 to 118 edge.

Medical Center Tours Highlands Regional
During December, Highlands Regional Medical Center has played host to student groups ranging in age from nine years old to college students.
Early in December, Sheila Ratliff's seventh grade class from Wayland Elementary visited HRMC. Later that week microbiology lab students from Prestonsburg Community College visited the lab and, on December 9th, Talented and Gifted classes from Clark Elementary visited the medical center.
"We enjoy having different student groups tour our facilities, said E. Carol Blevins, Public Information Officer at HRMC, "the students keep us on our toes with the questions they ask and we want teachers in the area to know that our facilities are available for tours."
In addition to tours, Highlands Regional Medical Center is also offering a teacher's information program and a speaker's bureau. To schedule a tour or speaker or for more information contact E. Carol Blevins, Public Information Officer at Highlands Regional Medical Center (886-8511 or 789-6548 ext. 286).

Great Performances Series Starts Mon.

A dramatic re-creation by playwright Tom Stoppard of a 19th-century Viennese story is a comedy of errors in "On the Razzle," airing as part of "Great Performances" on Monday, January 6, at 8:00 p.m. on KET.

When Herr Zengler (Dinsdale Landen), the bungling Imperial Grand Grocer, promotes Christopher (Felicity Kendal) to chief sales assistant and Weinberl (Alfree Lynch), the previous sales assistant, to a partner's position, a madcap adventure begins.

Weinberl and Christopher decide that all men of position should have an exciting past, so, to celebrate their new-found importance, the two men go "on the razzle" to Vienna and find more adventure than they had sought.

Stoppard is also the playwright for such productions as "The Real Thing," and "Rosencrantz and Guildenstern are Dead."

"On the Razzle" was produced by Consolidated Productions and Terence Donovan in association with Channel Four, London.

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETS

The Prestonsburg Woman's Club met last Thursday evening at the Emma Wells May Cultural Center, with Mrs. Sharon Sparr, president, presiding. The devotionals were given by Mrs. Fannie Runnels, who based her discussion on the Twenty-Third Psalm.

Mrs. Kathryn Poe, secretary, read a letter from the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club, thanking the Woman's Club members for their help in sponsoring the recent Christmas parade, and from the Allen Woman's Club, advocating that the use of seat belts be stressed.

Mrs. Sparr discussed with the group the possibility of sponsoring fingerprinting of the children of the Prestonsburg Elementary School before the close of the school year, and it was agreed to sponsor this project.

She asked Mrs. Dorothy Stover to look into the possibility of C.P.R. classes. It was announced that ceramics classes are being held for members at the club's Arts and Crafts building at Archer Park each Tuesday at 7 p.m.

Mrs. Dorothy Osborne asked members of the club to join with the Prestonsburg Kiwanians in an effort to further the cleanup of Floyd county roadsides, and the county in general, by writing letters to the county judge-executive, members of the Fiscal Court and the Floyd County Times. It was agreed that this should be done.

A "white elephant" sale was held, with John Sparr as auctioneer.

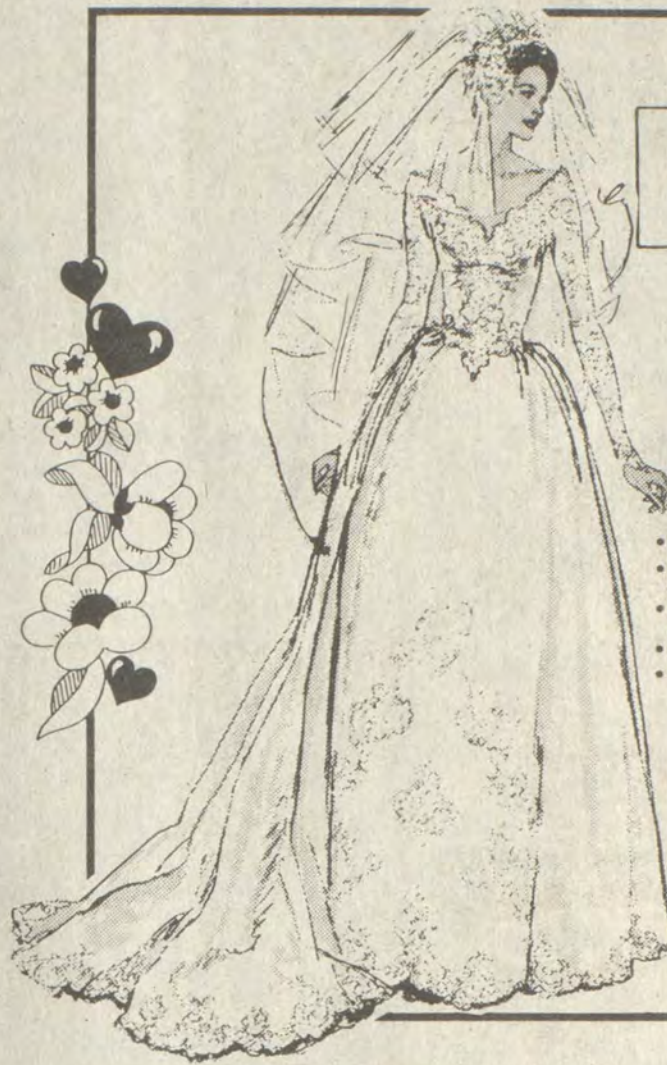

Hostesses for this meeting were: Mesdames Eva Collins, Abby Grant, Lois George, Ruth Hall, and Maman Leslie. Refreshments were served to guests, John Sparr, and sons, Jordan and John, and members, Sharon Sparr, Dorothy Stover, Kathryn Poe, Susie Poe, Dorothy Osborne, Fannie Runnels, Alice Harris, Elizabeth Ramey, Mabel Donahoe, Christine Spradlin, Garnett Fairchild, and Ora Bussey.

The next regular meeting will be Thursday evening, Feb. 6, at 7:30 p.m., at the same location, with Mrs. Frances Pitts as leader. Hostesses will be Mesdames Joyce Allen, Boots Adams, Frances Pitts, Alta Leslie, and Helen Ankrum.

An epidemic far more deadly than the flu, possession of lethal small arms is on the rise. The January Reader's Digest says that while no one knows for certain, reliable estimates are that some 500,000 military style assault guns are now in private hands in the U.S.

While the prime interest rate (the rate banks charge large corporate borrowers) dropped to 9.5 percent this year, The January Reader's Digest points out that banks charged consumers 13 to 21 percent on car loans, mortgages and personal loans.

Perhaps America's favorite fruit, apples were brought to this country by our early settlers. Some of those first specimens are still around today, the January Reader's Digest reports—Baldwin, Winesap and Rhode Island Greening date from the 1700s.

Highlands Regional Center To Sponsor Breathe-Free Program

The Breathe-Free plan to stop smoking is being offered at Highlands Regional Medical Center, beginning Tuesday, January 7. The program will consist of eight nightly meetings in the Learning Center at Highlands Regional Medical Center from 7 to 9. The meetings will take place over a two week period.

"Many people make a New Year's resolution to quit the smoking habit, but don't succeed," said E. Carol Blevins, Public Information Officer at HRMC. "We hope that offering the program at this time of year will help those people keep their resolutions."

According to Alex Killian, technical director of the Respiratory Rehabilitation Program at HRMC, the Breathe-Free plan focuses on behavioral change. "This program not only breaks the nicotine addiction, but alters the social behaviors usually associated with smoking," said Killian. The scientifically based program has a 25-year success record and over fifteen million graduates.

Russ Briggs, an associate administrator at Highlands Regional Medical Center, can testify to the success of the program. He has been a reformed smoker since completing this program five years ago.

To enroll or procure additional information on the program call 886-8511 or 789-6549 and ask for extension 581. The enrollment is limited to 50 and the registration period ends January 6.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Lucretia Stewart Hayes wishes to thank those who visited at the funeral home; those who sent flowers and food and rendered helpful services, the ministers, Bill Ford and Cecil Sherman for their comforting words; the choir for the beautiful songs, and the Hall Funeral Home for its concern and efficient service.

TAP at Work in Lake Area

Started in 1983, the Touch America Project (TAP) has involved thousands of young American volunteers, ages 14-17, in projects which benefit public lands throughout the United States.

Last December 7, TAP came to Floyd County when a group of youth associated with the Christian Appalachian Project along with their parents and sponsors, planted 575 trees in the German bridge area of Dewey Lake. The trees were planted in spots where they were needed to control erosion and or to replace trees which had died from exposure or disease.

The Floyd County TAP was the brainchild of members of the Floyd County Foods and Agriculture Council in cooperation with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. Persons involved were: Tammy Charles, 17; Julie Miller, 10; Mike Sanders, leader of CAP; Mike Sanders, Jr., 8; Father Ralph Beiding, Rodney Hutchinson and Dennis Hutchinson, 14. Sponsors of the project were Steve Kull and Tim Sheehan, Kentucky Division of Forestry, who served as project coordinators; John Nichol, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers; Clark Allison, Soil Conservation Service; and Sharon Conley, ASCS.

Meals were provided by Ratliff Farm Supply, Prestonsburg Farm and Home Store, Price's Tractor Sales, and Music-Carter-Hughes.

Energy Help In Final Phase

The final phase of the 1985-1986 Home Energy Assistance Program opened Monday with applications being processed for the first time through local offices of Kentucky's 21 regional community action agencies.

A total of $6 million dollars has been earmarked for the third HEAP segment by the Cabinet for Human Resources. The federal program is administered by the state which, in turn, has contracted with the Kentucky Association of Community Action Agencies to handle applications in the "crisis" portion of the program.

Human Resources Secretary Al Austin said eligible applicants will be low-income families or individuals without heat in the households, facing the loss of heat within five days, or in need of minor repairs to the home heating system.

"This is the second year for a HEAP segment strictly for households with a heating crisis," said Austin. "Last year more than 21,000 Kentucky families received assistance under HEAP in the worst part of the winter. The response proved the worth of setting aside some of the federal allocation from the early application periods before the cold weather sets in."

The "crisis" HEAP segment runs through April 30 or until the available funds are exhausted.

Applications should be made through the nearest local office of the area community action agency. Assistance may take the form of utility payments, emergency fuel supplies, space heaters, blankets or heating system repairs. The type and value of assistance will vary, depending on the individual case, up to a maximum benefit of $300 per household.

Persons wishing to locate the community action agency serving their community may contact the Kentucky Association of Community Action Agencies by calling toll-free 1-800-633-7107.

The Happiest Man

The happiest man in the world is the common, everyday chap who makes his own living, pays his bills, has a little money as he goes along, but doesn't strive to get a corner on the local output, and is a slave neither to ambition nor society.

He loves God and his fellow man; thinks "there is no place like home," the haven of rest; prefers the company of his family to that of anyone else; never has to sit up nights to poultice his conscience; believes in the doctrine of live and let live, and when he encounters one of the needy, he doesn't stutter with his pocketbook.

The plain man is happy to be satisfied and does not spend the best of his life yearning for things four sizes too large for him.—Masonry at Work, Santa Barbara, California.

Math-a-thon Champ

Stephanie Ann Sizemore, eight-year-old daughter of Calvin and Leslie Ann Sizemore, of Martin, was announced November 13, as math-a-thon fund-raising champ for the second year at Martin Elementary.

She is a second grade student under Mrs. Rosemary Hopkins. The test had 211 problems and there was only one problem missed to make her sales over $100.

She would like to thank the people at the First Commonwealth Bank and her family for helping her complete this fund-raising for Saint Jude's Children's Hospital.

"Smithsonian World" Travels With Steadman

Whether dangling by rope in crumbling lava caves that honeycomb the Galapagos Islands or digging alongside the bones of ancient Polynesian warriors on the remote Cook Islands, David Steadman is one of that special breed of scientist who ventures into subterranean netherworlds to unearth clues to the evolutionary past. The 34-year-old research associate of the Smithsonian Institution and a curator at the New York State Museum in Albany, Steadman is the focus of "On the Shoulders of Giants," the "Smithsonian World" special airing on Wednesday, January 22, at 8 p.m. (ET) on KET.

The program moves from the Galapagos Islands to the Cook Islands, as it shows how this young scientist is building on the work of Charles Darwin to shed new light on the mysteries of evolution. No one, least of all Darwin, suspected that Steadman's brief visit to the Galapagos would stir a line of thought that would shake the very foundations of science. In the late 1970s, Steadman began fossil hunting there where no other scientist had thought to look—in "lava tubes," miles of immense and treacherous caverns left when the lava emptied. Despite criticisms that fossils are not found in sedimentary rock, Steadman persisted and discovered vertebrate animal fossils, among them species which had vanished since Darwin's visit in 1835. These fossils identify previously unknown, now extinct, species as well as help to clarify some of Darwin's long-mislabelled evidence, which puzzled scientists for 150 years.

A visit to Mangaia, one of the tiny Cook Islands, which unlike the Galapagos, has been occupied by Polynesians for about 1000 years, is also featured. In "makatea," rocky caves where vanquished tribes sometimes hid for generations, two-thirds of the fossils Steadman found are from extinct species.

Steadman confirms his own seemingly obvious statement, "The era of discovery isn't over...places you can do original research, open up new ways of looking at things and discover new species."

State Jobless Rate Mounts

November jobless rates in 102 Kentucky counties were higher than October reports, according to figures released Jan. 3 by the Cabinet for Human Resources. In 15 counties the rates were lower in November, while in three counties the rates were the same as in October.

Seventy-seven counties reported unemployment rates of 10.0 percent or higher in November, compared to 71 in October and 55 in November 1984.

There were 101 counties reporting higher jobless rates than in November 1984, while 19 had lower rates.

The increase in unemployment rates on the local level reflected the statewide increase from a revised 9.3 percent in October to 10.0 percent in November. Nationally the rate decreased from 6.8 percent in October to 6.7 percent in November. The comparable state and national rates are not seasonally adjusted.

State labor market analyst Ed Blackwell attributed the higher rates to plant closings, layoffs in the coal mining industry and seasonal job losses in construction and services. "While we think some of these job losses will be temporary, we feel Kentucky's unemployment will remain at 10.0 percent or above at least through February."

Woodford county's 4.4 percent rate was the lowest in the state, followed by Fayette's 4.7 percent. Menifee county's 29.5 percent rate was the state's highest, followed by Carter's 24.6 percent.

An estimated 1,539,700 Kentuckians were working in November, down 28,000 from the October figure of 1,567,700 and 45,400 below the November 1984 report of 1,585,100.

The state's unemployed totaled an estimated 171,400, up 11,100 from the October figure of 160,300 and 20,100 more than in November 1984, when 151,300 were out of work.

In the Big Sandy district the jobless rate rose from a revised 11.3 percent in October to a preliminary 12.6 percent in November. Layoffs at Mapeco's Martiki mine added to the number of jobless in Martin county and the district. However, Martin county continued to report the district's lowest and only single-digit rate, which was a preliminary 9.2 percent in November, up from a revised 5.5 percent in October. Johnson county's 15.2 percent rate was the district's highest. Floyd county's rate, 11.3, was the same as Pike's.

Before you file your income tax return, tame your taxes by opening or adding to a First Commonwealth Bank Tax-Tamer IRA.

An Individual Retirement Account is a good idea for anyone who wants to reduce their taxes and save for the future. Any working person is eligible to open an IRA, even if you already have a pension or retirement plan set up for you where you work.

If you haven't yet filed your taxes this year, you can save on your taxes by opening a Tax-Tamer IRA at First Commonwealth Bank. You can open your account for as little as $25 and make contributions anytime throughout the year in weekly, monthly or quarterly installments. You can even arrange to have funds transferred into your IRA from your First Commonwealth Bank checking account.

Every dollar you invest in your IRA, up to $2,000 per worker is tax-deductable and the interest is tax-deferred.

To open your First Commonwealth Bank Tax-Tamer IRA, simply fill out the form below and either mail or bring with your deposit to any First Commonwealth Bank office.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Kentucky Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet, Division of Water, hereby gives notice that the Francis Water Company exceeded the maximum contaminant level for coliform bacteria for the reporting period of August 1985.

The test results for coliform bacteria (normally found in the intestinal tract of humans and other warm-blooded animals) indicate that some contamination occurred. Coliform bacteria is not considered harmful, however, its presence is a reliable indicator that harmful bacteria may have been present in the water at that time.

The Francis Water Company was formally notified of this violation and the regulatory requirement to inform their consumers of this violation. As of December 16, 1985, the Division of Water has not received verification of the Public Notification. Therefore, the Division of Water is acting on behalf of the water supply in issuing this statement in accordance with the Kentucky Public and Semipublic Water Supplies Regulations (401 KAR 6:015)

Other violations accumulated since January 1985 are:
 August 1985—Failed to submit check water samples for bacteriological analysis.
 Questions or comments concerning this Public Notice may be directed to Drinking Water Branch, Division of Water, 18 Reilly Road, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

SOCIAL SECURITY (Who pays?)

All taxpayers with "earned income" contribute to social security without regard to age. There is no minimum age and no maximum age. There is a common misunderstanding that once a taxpayer has reached age 72 he/she no longer has to contribute to social security. As long as you have income from wages or self-employment (earned income), you are required to make contributions to social security. There are two exceptions: farm labor earning less than $150 per year and self-employment income of less than $400 per year.

Employees in 1986 will pay 7.15% on all earnings up to $42,000 per year, and the employer must match this contribution with a like amount. The total contribution from employer and employee combined will total $6,006 for 1986 as compared to $5,583 for 1985.

The self-employed individual will pay 12.3% on all net earnings up to $42,000 for a total contribution of $5,166 compared with $4,673 for 1985.

If you work for more than one employer, you might pay in an "excess" amount to social security. Each employer is required to hold out the full amount without regard to what other employers may have withheld from you. In other words, if you earned $60,000 in 1985 ($30,000 from each of two companies), you will have overpaid your social security by $1,438. You are to treat this excess as a credit against your income taxes.

If you worked for more than one employer in 1985 but earned a total of $39,600 or less, you will not have paid in any excess.

Social security tax along with other tax considerations should be reviewed in determining whether your business should operate as a corporation or not and what levels of compensation and/or dividends should be withdrawn by the owners.

Skills Training Funded At Community College

The Bluegrass State Skills Corporation (BSSC) has announced the funding of a skills training program to be operated by Prestonsburg Community College in coordination with the Kentucky Society of Mine Safety Instructors for certification of mine safety instructors.

The BSSC is making $9,875 available for the training of 50 workers in a Skills Upgrade Training Program.

An independent public corporation, the Bluegrass State Skills Corporation was created and funded to stimulate economic development through programs of skills training to meet the needs of business and industry.

National Award Winner

The United States Achievement Academy has announced that Carol Hobson has been named a United States National Award winner in science.

Miss Hobson, who attends McDowell Elementary School, was nominated for this National Award by Joan Caldwell, a science teacher at the school. Her name will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, published nationally.

She is the daughter of Bobby and Jewel Hobson and granddaughter of Leonard and Ruby Hobson, of Orkney, and Moses Frasure, of McDowell, and the late Ruth Frasure.

The insured unemployment decreased 3.3 percent in September, as declines took place in all the major industrial divisions except mining and trade.

Law Enforcement ATF Scholarships

Randall E. Lacy, of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms (ATF), has announced the establishment of the "ATF Special Agents' Scholarships for Law Enforcement Explorers".

The scholarships are funded by contributions from ATF special agents and are dedicated to the future of American law enforcement. The goal of the scholarships is to assist explorers, whose well-rounded performance in academics, exploring, and in other activities indicate an exceptional potential to pursue undergraduate studies preparing one to enter the law enforcement profession.

Scholarships of $1,000 will be awarded, payable to an accredited college or university for tuition only. Application forms are available from: Law Enforcement Exploring, 1325 Walnut Hill Lane, Suite 210, Irving, TX 75038-3096 or the nearest ATF office.

ATF supports the Explorer program as a member of the National Law Enforcement Explorer Committee. At the biennial National Conference, ATF and other federal agencies and national organizations offer Explorers hands-on experience through role-playing scenarios, individual and team competitive events and seminars on a wide range of law enforcement topics.

The 1986 National Law Enforcement Explorer Conference, sponsored by ATF, will be held at the University of Washington in Seattle from July 14-19. Over 2,000 Explorers are expected to attend the 1986 Conference and to participate in the seminars, competitive events and workshops.

Presently, 500,000 young adults between the ages of 14 and 20 are actively enrolled in the Explorer program with over 43,000 enrolled in the Explorer program with over 43,000 enrolled in 2,200 law enforcement posts throughout the country.

HAVE YOU HEARD?

In the cover story of the 12/23/85 issue of Business Week magazine, the Model "D" was said to be "The hottest personal computer of the season..."

Leading Edge Hardware Products, Inc. is pleased with our recent review in InfoWorld. In their "Report Card", they rated the Leading Edge Model "D" as an "excellent value."

Family Computing called the Model "D" the "Best Hardware pick of '85."

The excellent reviews and positive statements keep coming! We've included a reprint of a review that you may have missed. The reprint is from PC Week.

LEADING EDGE MODEL D
A Thoughtful Design,
Outstanding Value
At a Reasonable Cost

By Garry Ray

In the past, Leading Edge Products has sought to distinguish itself as a distributor of high-quality computer products, including IBM PC-compatible microcomputers.

This year, Leading Edge is back in the limelight with its new offering to PC users, another computer that should prove even more popular. The Model D is an absolutely phenomenal deal for those in the need of a new or replacement PC. Priced at $1,495, it sports all the features that IBM considers options and that most users know are necessities. In addition to the Phoenix Software ROM BIOS, which almost guarantees 100 percent IBM PC compatibility, the system comes with a variety of features. The standard Model D includes two half-height, double-sided, double-density floppy disk drives, one parallel and one serial port, an on-board battery-backed-up clock, color and monochrome monitor ports, 256K bytes of memory expandable to 640K bytes on the main system board, and an on-board keyboard. In short, the Model D comes with everything but the kitchen sink.

Manufactured by the Korean electronic giant Daewoo, the Model D supports a plain-Jane 8088 microprocessor running at 4.77MHz. Thus, there are no speedups in processing times over the IBM PC, but no losses either.

In all our benchmark tests against a standard PC, the Model D showed nearly identical execution times. Even in our disk tests, frequently the Achilles' heel for PC compatibles, the Model D was right up there with the IBM PC — maybe even a bit faster.

The Model D is enclosed in an off-white metal case that is lightweight, aesthetically pleasing and well designed. It has a smaller and more economical footprint than the IBM PC. Both units are 15 1/2 inches deep, but with a 14-inch width, the Model D is nearly 6 inches slimmer than the PC. Besides giving more desk space, the Model D simply looks better than IBM's comparative tank of a PC. A PC-compatible keyboard usually provides ample reason for criticism of the entire system. After all, the keyboard is our sole interface to the computer, and if it fails to please, then so does the system. Curiously, many compatible vendors seem content to sell their systems with a "popular" replacement keyboard that, to us, provides much the same tactile feedback as typing on a loaf of bread.

Keyboard Improvements

Not so with Leading Edge. Its 83 key keyboard, though lightweight and somewhat flimsy, provides excellent tactile feedback. In fact, it's the closest any vendor has come to mimicking the response of the IBM keyboard. Users who dislike the placement of certain keys on the IBM 5151 keyboard will also be pleased, since the Model D keyboard has been designed to accommodate criticism of IBM's shift-and-return-key placement.

However, even if you don't like the Model D keyboard, you have some options. The keyboard is connected to the system unit through an IBM-compatible 5-pin connector on the front panel, which means you can replace the keyboard with any of your choosing. Even the IBM PC keyboard worked beautifully.

The Model D is available with either a monochrome or color monitor. The system with color monitor costs $454 extra, for a total of $1,949.

Our system was delivered with a green monochrome monitor, and Leading Edge says an amber monochrome is also available. Both types of monitors can be connected to the color or monochrome display port on the rear of the system unit. Both ports seemed to provide 100 percent IBM compatibility. A rear panel switch provides the ability to activate either the color or monochrome port.

The monochrome screen was crisp and clear, providing IBM-like 9-by-7 characters within a 9-by-14 character box. The front-panel contrast and brightness controls seem to provide a much wider range of contrast than do IBM's monochrome display adjustments.

The Model D also supports full 720-by-348-pixel Hercules graphics compatibility from the monochrome port. We ran a variety of Hercules-compatible programs with excellent results. Even the programs on Hercules' system floppy disk ran without any problems whatsoever.

The system board of the Model D has been economically designed to support all the features mentioned above in a relatively small space. Since display, input/output and floppy-disk circuitry are all located on the system board, there's plenty of room for the four fully compatible expansion slots that are available for additional peripherals.

None of those slots needs to be used for additional memory, because a single jumper allows the use of either 64K- or 256K-byte memory chips, plus two additional banks of 256K-byte chips. The Model D can be configured to a maximum 640K bytes without using a single expansion slot.

The Model D comes with a 130-watt power supply, ample for nearly any combination of hardware additions. The power supply is also plenty adequate for the hard-disk version of the Model D, which is available for about $800 over the standard system price.

Our version of the Model D came with MS-DOS 2.11, along with a well-done diagnostics program. Included is an informative memory test that shows the location of any faulty chips that may turn up. This is a major improvement over IBM's convoluted and uninformative system tests.

All in all, the Leading Edge Model D is an excellent performer with virtually no flaws. In fact, the only identifiable problem is that the first two banks of memory chips are soldered, rather than socketed, to the system board. As with other PCs, this could lead to service difficulties exceed any of those chips fail. However, in every other area, the Model D is an outstanding combination of thoughtful design, tons of features and reasonable cost.

If anyone has been listening to PC users over the past two years, it's been Leading Edge.

Offers New Programs

The Continuing Education Program at PCC persists in trying to provide the community with creative and responsible programs. James Ratcliff, Coordinator of the program, said recently, "We search very hard to find creative and interesting programs and teachers. The college has a mission of meeting the educational needs of the community in as many areas we we can."

Along with the broad schedule of offerings already available, PCC will offer these new additions:

Personal Income Tax Return Preparation, Introduction to Word Processing, Instrument Rating Class, Basic Electronics, Professional Engineer Review, KPDES Sampling Analysis Procedures, Mine Safety Instructor Skills Training Program, Mine Supervision Skills Training Program, Beginning Genealogy, Wildflowers and Ferns of Kentucky, Wildflower Pilgrimage, Basics of Bass Fishing, Water Safety Instruction, Self-Defense for Women, Introduction to Drawing Portraits, Pastel Portrait Painting, Introduction to Music (for high school age).

(For information about these courses, contact Juanita Ratliff at 886-3863 extension 215.)

A TRAGIC FAILURE

We submit this "log" of the Dole prize flight: Several weeks ago a millionaire, not content to rest with his millions in comparative obscurity, struck upon a plan to catch the public's eye.

Many airmen planned to compete . . . to chase the fleeting bubble, fame, and that Jack-o-Lantern, Fortune, which leads its pursuer into many the snare.

Three men lost their lives in preparatory flights. Yet a millionaire must have his sport. And, he being willing to pay the price therefor, other fliers took their places as the pawns of fate.

Four airplanes headed into the sunset, Honolulu bound. Two reached port. Two others and their human cargoes—four men and a woman—have, it is almost certain, met death in the smilingly treacherous Pacific.

Seven valuable lives are lost. And therein America and the world loses, with nothing gained.

The millionaire donor of the prize is bent with grief. He is reported as breaking under the strain. Human vanity has taken its toll, and he is paying.

Goebel, winner of the first prize, is richer by $25,000. The flight means no more to him. He may return as one from the dead, but not as a conquering hero comes.

For America's heart is with those hapless victims of this rash venture, and her homage is due only them.

HILL AND HALL FILE CONTEST

Without this padding, Mr. Crowe's majority in the county would have been 300 less and Senator Stephenson would have been defeated for the Democratic nomination for Senator.

NONE DENIES FRAUD

No one, not even the election commissioners or Senator Stephenson, deny that the reports from the precinct are fraudulent. Indeed, the fraud is evident on the face of the election book.

Senator Stephenson insists that "what appears to be irregularities in Leckieville precinct only gives me back a part of what was stolen from me in Floyd county."

Writing in the Courier-Journal, August 19, from Pikeville, J. Howard Henderson, staff correspondent for that paper, says of alleged election "irregularities" in that county:

Leckieville's 105 to none vote was a bit more open, but somewhat in line with what happened in several other precincts in the county. Mr. Sanders is authority for one story that he heard, after the polls closed, of another precinct where the election officers had certified far more votes for Crowe than there were Democrats living in the precinct, and he rushed out, he said, stopped the officers, and had them change the returns to a more moderate sum.

In Belfry precinct the election officers were changed just before the election, and just after the election the precinct reported 185 for Crowe and three for Beckham. Anyhow, Saturday night, Crowe's total in the county had been run up to 3,232 against 954 for Beckham. In the face of that there are reputable citizens in the county, conversant with conditions, who declare that if the ballot books were opened up and counted today Mr. Crowe's majority over Beckham would not be 500 votes.

Senator Stephenson is quoted by his friends as having said Saturday night or Sunday afternoon that the returns indicated he had been defeated by Mr. Hill.

Monday was the day to make the official count. Sheriff John M. Moore, Democrat, and Alex Ratliff, Democrat, election commissioners, were late starting the count in Pike county. Mr. Ratliff said it was because Mr. Moore spent Monday morning entering the names of the candidates in the election book.

FLOYD, KNOTT COUNTED FIRST About 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, the count started. Supper time came and the commissioners recessed. Floyd county's count was completed. Knott county was counted. On the face of the official count in Floyd and Knott, and the unofficial count in Pike, Mr. Hill was leading Senator Stephenson by 260 votes.

After supper Mr. Ratliff and Sheriff Moore resumed the Pike county count. "I came to Leckieville precinct, and said, 'Boys, there's something funny here—Crowe has 405 votes and Beckham none,'" Mr. Ratliff told the Courier-Journal.

"We looked at the book and sure enough it was just that way, and Stephenson was given 404 and the men running against him got none," he said.

Someone, by the stroke of a pen, had made a four out of a one after Mr. Crowe's name, and had changed a one to a four in the figures 104 after Mr. Stephenson's name.

The election commissioners knew it was incorrect, and Mr. Ratliff admits that he knew from his general knowledge of the precinct that there were

But the election commissioners consulted the statutes, and lawyers, and reached a decision that there was

"nothing for us to do but certify the vote as it appeared on the election books." And it was certified, Crowe 405, Beckham none, and Hill none. And thus Mr. Stephenson won the nomination over Mr. Hill by forty votes.

INK SHOWS CHANGES

The ink with which the figures "11" were changed to a "4" was blue, while the ink with which the original entries were made was black, or considerably darker.

The man who tampered with the ballot book overlooked, right at the top of the certificate, a line which read:

"Number of votes cast, 106."

The election commissioners overlooked it, too, and certified to the state board that 405 votes were cast for Crowe and 404 cast for Stephenson.

The next line in the election book read:

"Number of ballots remaining (in the book), 364."

The bungler forgot to change that line. There were 470 ballots in the book in the beginning. One hundred and five were voted for Crowe, and one was spoiled, making 106 ballots cast, or used. That left 364 unused ballots in the book, which was certified to by the precinct election officers. But the county election commissioners, Mr. Ratliff and Mr. Moore, ignored the certificate of the precinct officers that 364 unused ballots were left in the book, and certified to the state board that 406 ballots were used, which left only 64 ballots in the book.

The precinct officers certified that only seventy-four votes were cast in the Lieutenant Governor's race, which, set against the entry of 405 for Crowe in the Governor's race, did not stop the county election commissioners from certifying to the false returns.

The precinct officers certified that seventy-two votes were cast in the race for secretary of state; seventy-five in the contest for attorney general; sixty-three for auditor; eighty for treasurer; sixty-nine for commissioner of agriculture, and seventy-one for clerk of the court of appeals.

The election commissioners accepted as correct these totals, always less than 100 in those races, and certified to the state board, without expression of doubt or wonder, that Crowe polled 405 and Stephenson 404 votes in the same precinct.

In a hotly contested race for circuit clerk the precinct polled, according to the certificate of the precinct officers, 102 votes. The county election commissioners recorded that vote, but expressed no doubt that nearly four times as many persons, 404, to be exact, voted for Stephenson for Senator.

RIPPED OUT UNUSED BALLOTS

Whoever tampered with the election book tore out the unused ballots from number 107 to number 406, inclusive, in handfuls. It is evident even on the most casual observation. Numbers 27 to 167 were torn out one at a time, and the tear, which did not follow the perforated line, is exactly alike on these ballots, while the next batch, torn out, up to No. 183, left the telltale uneven line.

There was another fact that went without comment on the part of the election commissioners. The stubs remaining in the book are supposed to be filled in with the names of the voters. Only ninety-four stubs are filled in. All of the stubs after No. 96 are without names.

Mr. Ratliff does not deny that the returns were forged. He interprets the law, however, as requiring the election commissioners to certify the returns as they appear on the books, without regard to obvious inconsistencies.

"When I first noticed the return from Leckieville," he said, "I thought it was funny, and held it up to get a better light on it."

After he saw that it read 405 for Crowe and 404 for Stephenson, he did not examine it further, he said.

"Our duties are ministerial and clerical, good lawyers informed us, and we had no other option but to count the vote as it appeared on the book and send it to Frankfort."

Mr. Ratliff was hazy about the parts of the precinct officers' certificate except as it applied to the vote for Crowe and Stephenson.

He did not remember whether he and the sheriff, Mr. Moore, noticed that the certificate showed that only 106 ballots were cast, or that the same certificate showed that 334 unused ballots were left in the book.

He doubted, anyway, he said, if they could have paid any attention to that, as he interpreted it to be his duty to report the vote cast for each man, and nothing more.

He did not notice, he said, that the ink with which a figure "one" was changed to a "four" was of a different color, and that the ballots after No. 106 were torn out in handfuls, and that the stubs after No. 96 were without names of voters.

He saw nothing and looked for nothing after the first shock of his surprise that the precinct gave Crowe 405 and Beckham none, and Stephenson 404 to none for Hill and none for Hatcher, he said. But he doesn't doubt, he said, that "it was a little bit irregular."

IRREGULARITY TO STEPHENSON

No one here denies that the ballot book was changed. Some call it a "steal," and Mr. Stephenson and his friends call it "an irregularity."

Mr. Stephenson has never looked at the ballot book. He says he does not want a stolen election. He desires nothing but an honest count, he says. He declares he would not accept the nomination if he was not entitled to it.

The ballot book is in the circuit clerk's office, not more than 200 feet from Senator Stephenson's law office. The Senator spent part of Monday in the hall running through the center of the Pike county courthouse, not twenty feet from the ballot book, but did not go in to see how it had been changed to give him 300 more votes than he actually got, and elect him by forty votes.

Community Colleges To Teach Japanese Industry Techniques

The quality control and problem solving technique which helped spark Japan's postwar resurgence will soon be offered to Kentucky industries through a program being sponsored by the University of Kentucky Community College System.

Approximately 35 UK community college instructors and industry representatives will be trained in the technique—called Statistical Process Control—Jan. 6-10 at Elizabethtown Community College.

These 35 persons will then become trainers for industries across the state. Statistical Process Control emphasizes the labor-management team approach in industry which has become a central theme in large Japanese firms. It has also been adopted by Ford Motor Company, General Motors, IBM, TRW and many other U.S. corporations.

"Many corporations which utilize this technique are requiring this same type of program in their subcontractors," says Gary M. Green, coordinator of community services and continuing education at Elizabethtown Community College. Making the training available through the UK Community College System will open doors statewide for industry.

Statistical Process Control is based on the quality improvement principles of W. Edwards Deming, an American mathematician.

Ironically, his statistical theories were used to advance U.S. war efforts in WW II, then were adopted by Japanese industry as they rebuilt in the 1950s to become a world industrial superpower.

Obituaries

Timothy Paul Reynolds

Former State Rep. Timothy Paul (T.P.) Reynolds, 57, of Beaver, died Dec. 31 at the Pikeville Methodist Hospital, victim of an apparent heart attack.

For the last 28 years he had been a merchant and at the time of his passing was owner of the S. & J. Market there. A Democrat, he was elected to the state House of Representatives from the 95th district of this county, serving from 1970 to 1972.

He was born March 18, 1928 at Beaver, the son of the late Joseph S. and Frances Henson Reynolds. He was a member of Wheelwright Masonic Lodge No. 889 and Oleika Shrine Temple, Lexington.

Surviving are his wife, Shirley Hamilton Reynolds; one daughter, Mrs. Vickie Bryant, of Beaver; four brothers, Clifford Reynolds, of Stanville, Effert Reynolds, Cynthia, of Marcum, and Joe Reynolds, Jr., both of Allen, and three sisters, Evelean Akers and Belle Conn, both of Allen, and Cathern Tackett, of Beaver.

Funeral services were conducted at 11 a.m. Friday from Samaria Regular Baptist Church at Teaberry, Regular Baptist ministers officiating. Burial was in the Joe Reynolds family cemetery at Beaver under direction of the Hall Funeral Home.

Gertrude Perry Adkins

Gertrude Perry Adkins, 80, of Harold, died Saturday, at the Pikeville Methodist Hospital, following a long illness.

HOW CAN I HELP MY CHILDREN ADJUST TO THE DEATH OF THEIR MOTHER?

When a young child loses his mother, it can have a devastating effect on his life. He probably has been closer to his mother than his father in his formative years simply because she was probably around more. The child is deprived of a source of emotional stability and affection and perhaps a model for the development of sex-role behavior.

Therefore, new roles must emerge in the family. A father of young children must try to deal with his children's loss as well as his own. The father must make an effort to become even closer to his children, taking more interest in their school and other activities. The children may have to take over certain adult functions in the household.

With proper organization, the family can run smoothly. Though this is a difficult situation for everyone involved, it can bring the survivors closer and instill the children with a greater sense of responsibility. They can also gain a feeling of value knowing that their father depends on them. They will like that!

A father's love and understanding, of course, can never completely ease the pain of a child losing his mother, but it can give them comfort, and shape their character. We are glad to discuss these kinds of questions with you. Please contact us any time.

FIRST BABY...Connie Cook, of the First National Bank, Paintsville, presents a $50 U.S. Savings Bond to Jessica Danielle Nickell, first baby of 1986 at Paul B. Hall Regional Medical Center, while PBH nursing director Debbie Meadows stands by.

It is a tradition at area hospitals to anxiously await the first baby of the new year. The obstetrics staff at Paul B. Hall Regional Medical Center in Paintsville didn't have to wait long.

Just nine hours and six minutes into 1986, James and Virginia Nickell, of West Liberty, welcomed six-pound, eight-ounce Jessica Danielle Nickell, the Morgan county couple's first child.

As first baby of 1986 at Paul B. Hall, Jessica was the recipient of assorted gifts, from diapers to a $50 Savings Bond, donated by area merchants.

ENJOY CHRISTMAS DINNER
Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Hopkins, of Prestonsburg, entertained friends and relatives with Christmas dinner.

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Andy Reed, Essell Reed, of Martin; Mrs. Luna Combs, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Hopkins, and Alisa Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Roe, Missy and Tommy, all of Grayson; Keith Mason, of Elliott county, the Rev. and Mrs. Hobert Hunt, of Martin and Eddie and Virginia Hopkins.

HAVE HOLIDAY GUESTS
Mr. and Mrs. Milton Ryan, of Allen, had the following members of their family for the Christmas holiday: Mr. and Mrs. William A. Gregory, daughter, Elizabeth Ann, and son, Paul Richard, Miss Deata Sexton and Anthony Valdez, all of Lexington; Mr. and Mrs. Danny Stumbo and daughter, Angela, of Martin. A buffet supper on Christmas Eve and Christmas dinner were enjoyed.

The Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA) provides for the formation of State Job Training Coordinating Councils (SJTCCs) by governors to advise and counsel them on state job training activities and to help plan employment services authorized by the Wagner-Peyser Act, according to a U.S. Labor Department fact sheet.

Arrives With the New Year

Locally, a crisis pregnancy center called Alternatives is completing one year of service attempting to meet this need, and has had a surprisingly large response from women reaching out and wanting help. Organized a year ago and operating out of offices provided by a local law firm, Alternatives' first objective was to make itself known as a resource available for women facing a crisis pregnancy and considering abortion. The main method of contact was through a listing in the telephone directory, which gives an 800 number that can be called from anywhere in the 606 Area Code. Alternatives also has a local Prestonsburg calling number, and both numbers were made available through brochures and stickers throughout the region.

Announce Engagement

Mrs. Janice E. Leiter, of South Whitley, Ind., and Mr. and Mrs. Estill Calhoun, of Warsaw, Ind., are announcing the engagement of their children, Shelley Ann Leiter and David Calhoun.

The bride-elect is a 1982 graduate of Whitko High School and will graduate from Grace College in May 1986 with degrees in business and psychology. She is presently employed with Grace Schools in Winona Lake, Indiana.

The prospective bridegroom is a 1980 graduate of Warsaw Community High School, a 1982 Vincennes University graduate with a science degree and a 1985 Purdue University graduate with a degree in aviation technology. He is presently employed with Estill's Auto Service in Warsaw, Indiana. He is the grandson of Mrs. Amie Burke, of West Prestonsburg, and Mrs. Margaret Calhoun, of Cliff.

The couple are planning an April 11 wedding at the First Baptist Church in South Whitley.

Asks Permission To Move Gravesite

Edward M. Tackett, of Weeksbury, Ky., came before the Floyd County Fiscal Court, January 6, 1986, asking for permission to move an abandoned gravesite located on his property on Rt. No. 466 in Weeksbury, Kentucky. The remains are that of a stillborn child born to Mr. and Mrs. Willis Hamilton, both now deceased. The child died sometime between 1930 and 1935, and the grave is in great disrepair. According to K.R.S. 381.755, the grave can be moved after advertising three (3) times, and if there are no objections at the February, 1986 court meeting, Nelson-Frazier Funeral Home of Martin, Kentucky, will move the grave to the Weeksbury Community Cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Arthur A. (Aut) Boyd wish to thank all the people who sent flowers and food. Also for the many prayers and words of comfort in our time of sorrow.

We especially want to thank all the ministers for their time and words of comfort. A special thanks to Hall Funeral Home for their kindness and service.

Crisis Pregnancies Center Here Ending First Year of Service

It is, after all, a problem that goes back to the very first Christmas. When Mary was discovered to be pregnant, Joseph, to whom she was engaged, was "not willing to make her a public example" according to St. Matthew's gospel. But, being assured that the child was "of the Holy Spirit," he went ahead and married Mary.

Marriage has been an alternative considered by many before and since, who like Mary, have been confronted with what we call today a "problem pregnancy." But the situation of the unwed mother is a common one in America today, so much so that the December 9th issue of TIME magazine highlighted the problem of teenage pregnancy as its cover story. Even though legal abortion is available in the United States and has been since the historic Roe v. Wade decision in 1973, many young girls and women choose to continue their pregnancies. Because they are crisis or problem pregnancies, they need the support and concern of their families, friends, and community.

Out of the support and concern of the Christian community for women caught in this situation, and particularly to provide alternatives to abortion, numerous crisis pregnancy centers have been formed throughout the country. U.S. Surgeon General C. Everett Koop, writing in Christianity Today, notes that there are more crisis pregnancy centers in the country than there are abortion clinics. According to Koop, this has resulted from a change in the attitude of the churches toward the plight of the woman who is pregnant and would rather not be. Compassion and concern has replaced harsh judgment and condemnation.

Locally, a crisis pregnancy center called Alternatives is completing one year of service attempting to meet this need, and has had a surprisingly large response from women reaching out and wanting help. Organized a year ago and operating out of offices provided by a local law firm, Alternatives' first objective was to make itself known as a resource available for women facing a crisis pregnancy and considering abortion. The main method of contact was through a listing in the telephone directory, which gives an 800 number that can be called from anywhere in the 606 Area Code. Alternatives also has a local Prestonsburg calling number, and both numbers were made available through brochures and stickers throughout the region.

After a slow beginning, more and more women have been turning to the center for help. For instance in the month of November, 207 calls were received. At present, there are 30 women who are waiting delivery and already 9 babies have been born to women who have been in the program.

When a woman calls one of the numbers asking for help, she is encouraged to come in to the center, where a free pregnancy test is given. If the test is positive, counseling is provided and an assessment made of what she will need to enable her to carry the baby to term. Referrals are made to other agencies where necessary, and help is available from housing to clothing to medical needs. In short, Alternatives tries to supply anything that will help the woman through the crisis the pregnancy has provoked. All of this is done in the context of Christian love and concern.

Volunteers from many Christian denominations give time to answer the phones, do office work, or answer calls at home that come in on the weekend. The Coordinator of the program is Mrs. Connie Kinzel of McDowell, and she is assisted by Mrs. Dana Caudill of Prestonsburg. Church groups and individuals have provided baby clothes, diapers, baby beds, and other needs as well as pledging financial help. No charge is made for any of the services, but attempts are made to see that each woman receives the aid she is eligible for from state and government programs.

Starting as a vision to provide a means for concerned people to do something to provide alternatives to abortion, Alternatives has developed into a many-faceted ministry serving human needs of the pregnant woman and her unborn child. Alternatives no longer waits for clients, but wonders if it will have the resources to meet the needs of the women already being cared for. But, surely it will turn no young woman away, who like Mary, is faced with a crisis pregnancy and has no place to go. By providing alternatives, it enables a woman to carry her child, and to see the child born into the world with the caring concern and compassion of others.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Ted Miller, who passed away January 10, 1982. This was a day we can't forget. Some people might, but to us it lingers still.

Dad, we have cried so many tears,
For the one we loved so dear,
For the sorrow in our heart,
When we had to part.
But dad, the things on earth we own,
We would give it all to have you back home.
But that cannot come true.
For we don't have that kind of power like the Lord can do.
So I guess we will live in memories of you.
And visit your grave as we often do.
But we know that you are at home with the Lord and at rest,
Free from all troubles and trials of this old world below for the Father knows best.

We miss you very much.
YOUR WIFE AND CHILDREN

Vocational Students Lacking in Economics, Kentucky Study Shows

Many Kentucky vocational students lack an understanding of basic economic truths that they need to function effectively as consumers, producers and responsible voters, a study prepared for the Kentucky Department of Education shows.

The research "paints a less than rosy picture with regard to the economic education of the commonwealth's youth," said Dr. M. Louise Hickman of Morehead State University, who directed the study for the Department of Education's Office of Vocational Education.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald said the study indicated a need for a stronger emphasis on economics in the secondary curriculum. The department will be considering recommendations from the study for a required six-week or one-semester economics course for secondary students and for better preparation of teachers in the area of economics, she said.

The study was conducted in Vocational Education Region 9, which includes Bath, Bracken, Fleming, Lewis, Mason, Menifee, Montgomery, Morgan, Robertson and Rowan counties.

The report said those students were "probably typical of all students enrolled in all Kentucky vocational schools" but recommended that further research on economic understanding be conducted in Central or Western Kentucky.

The Test for Economic Literacy was administered to the 795 students in the study. Only four questions on the 46-question test were answered correctly by more than 50 percent of the students, Hickman reported. The highest scores were made by college-bound students and those who had previously taken relevant courses, she said.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Hie Conn and my sister, Atcha Gray.

They passed away this past year, 1985. God took part of me that day. He took them, but God takes the best. It broke my heart, but I know they are with God, and God knows best.

With God, and God knows best. I know they are in Heaven with God and the Angels. I'm just waiting to meet them up there. My dad was 94 years old, and they are sadly missed by all their friends and loved ones. It won't be Christmas without them. Missed sadly by sisters and brothers.

KET To Cover General Assembly

Extended same-day coverage of the Kentucky General Assembly in Open Session will begin Tuesday, January 7, at 7 p.m. on KET. The General Assembly is expected to meet through April 1 and coverage will continue throughout the session.

"The Kentucky General Assembly in Open Session" will air nightly Monday through Thursday at 7 p.m. and Fridays at 10 p.m. KET will provide highlights of the gavel to gavel activities of both the house and Senate sessions. Additionally, reporters will cover committee meetings daily.

Governor Martha Layne Collins' "State of the Commonwealth" address will be broadcast live and its entirety. Issues expected before the General Assembly during this session include funding provisions for the education reform package passed in the 1985 Special Session and several proposed constitutional amendments. These amendments include proposals for a state lottery and that the office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction be an appointed post, instead of an elected one.

Host for this year's coverage of "The Kentucky General Assembly in Open Session" will be Dick Brown, former Frankfort Bureau Chief for WKYT-TV, Lexington. Reporting on committee activities will be former Frankfort Bureau Chief for the Lexington Herald-Leader Diana Taylor-Osborne along with Tim Scowden and Cynthia Cash.

"The Kentucky General Assembly in Open Session" is a KET production.

State Board To Hold Report Hearing, Jan. 15

The Kentucky State Board of Education will hold a hearing at 8:30 a.m. Jan. 15 on recommendations from a consultant's report on teacher preparation and certification in Kentucky.

The all-day hearing will be in the state board room on the first floor of the Capital Plaza Tower in Frankfort.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald said the topics of discussion would include the review and accreditation of teacher education programs and the size, composition and function of the state Council on Teacher Education and Certification.

Other aspects of the report from MGT of America Inc., an educational consulting company in Tallahassee, Fla., will be considered at a second hearing in March, she said.

Those who wish to testify at the hearing should call Dr. James Fouche at the Kentucky Department of Education, Office of Instruction, (502) 564-3010, to obtain scheduling forms and other information.

Prestonsburg Shaves Lady Rebels, 48-45

The Prestonsburg Lady Cats picked up their second win of the season Friday night by defeating the Allen Central Lady Rebels 48-45 in overtime.

Prestonsburg jumped out to a 14-6 first quarter lead, behind the hot shooting of Joell Hall and Shon Burchett, who sizzled the nets for six points each in the first frame.

But the Lady Cats went cold in the second quarter, as Allen Central, behind Terina Hall's scoring, came back to take a 19-18 halftime lead.

Early in the third quarter, Allen Central jumped out to a 27-20 lead, but buckets by Burchett, Hall and Frazure brought Prestonsburg within one at 27-26. The score remained close throughout the third quarter with Prestonsburg claiming a 31-29 advantage.

In the fourth quarter Allen Central regained the lead, but clutch shooting by freshman forward Karen Frazure and Shon Burchett helped send the game into overtime tied at 44.

With less than a minute remaining in the overtime period, Allen Central's Jennifer Stephens hit the front end of the bonus to give the Lady Rebels the lead, 45-44. But Stephens missed the second throw and Prestonsburg pulled down the rebound and dished it out to Harris, who hit Shon Burchett in the front court. Burchett made a quick move to the basket and put in the go-ahead jumper to give Prestonsburg a 46-45 lead. Allen Central had another chance to score but failed and with only three seconds left in the game play-making guard Paula Harris sank two pressure free throws to secure the victory for the 'Cats.

Prestonsburg was lead in scoring by Shon Burchett with 24 points followed by Joell Hall with 14. Karen Frazure came off the bench to give the 'Cats six second half points.

Paula Harris, who led the team in steals and assists connected on two points while Vicki Bates and Trish Patrick had one point each.

Allen Central's leading scorer was Terina Hall with 16 followed by Pam Baldrige and Joann Conn with nine each. Tonya Brown finished with seven, while Dawna Shepherd and Jennifer Stephens each had two. The 'Cats, who played McDowell last night will go to Millard Thursay, Jan. 9 to take on the Lady Mustangs. On Saturday the 'Cats will travel to Paintsville and play the Comets at 3:00.

NOTICE OF BLASTING SCHEDULE

Triple Elkhorn Mining Company, Inc., P.O. Box 520, Harold, Ky. 41635, shall conduct blasting operations on its 29.5 acre surface mining permit, application number 436-0068. Said operation is located approximately 5 miles south of State Route 1426 junction with US 23. Latitude is 37° 34' 11". Longitude is 82° 42' 49". The surface of the area to be mined is owned by Scottie Crum, Everett Crisp, H.L. Bryant, Teddy Ray Akers, Bobby Joe Akers, Mexico Spears and Gertrude Sammons.

Blasting hours will be daily Monday through Saturday from 11:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m., and 4:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. Any major change in the hours will be published in the local newspaper. No blasting will be done before sunrise or after sunset unless an emergency exists. Unscheduled blasting may occur in emergency situations where lightning, rain, other atmospheric condition or the safety of the operator or public requires unscheduled detonation. Control of the blasting area will be maintained by blocking access roads to the blasting area ten (10) minutes prior to the blast. Post detonation access to the blasting will be allowed only after an inspection and determination that no hazards exist.

Warning devices will be air blast horns and/or sirens audible over a distance of one half mile. Three long blasts of the air horn/siren will be used as a preliminary warning. After personnel have been cleared from the area and just prior to detonation of explosives, one additional long blast will be sounded. Personnel are to remain in "clear" areas until areas are checked for fired or burning holes. After a satisfactory check, an all clear signal will be given by sounding a series of short blasts on the air horn/siren.

The preceding notice is published pursuant to CFR 715.19, Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement Provisions and KRS 350.220 and the regulations relating thereto. Kentucky Permit Number 436-0068.

—Movie Week—

SUNDAY

(ABC) SUNDAY NIGHT MOVIE

"DIAMONDS ARE FOREVER" (1971) Starring Sean Connery, Jill St. John, Jimmy Dean and Lana Wood. After a one-picture hiatus, Connery returned as James Bond and found himself pitted against an old archenemy, Ernst Stavros Blofeld, who was amassing a priceless fortune in diamonds — in order to gain global control.

(NBC) SUNDAY NIGHT MOVIE

"FATAL VISION" (1984) Part I. Starring Karl Malden, Eva Marie Saint, Gary Cole, Barry Newman and Andy Griffith. Based on Joe McGinnis' best-selling book about Dr. Jeffrey MacDonald (Cole), a former Green Beret captain accused of slaying his wife and two daughters.

(CBS) SUNDAY NIGHT MOVIE

"ROCKABYE" (1985) Starring Valerie Bertinelli and Rachel Ticotin. A young woman (Miss Bertinelli) who has been deserted by her husband enlists the aid of a hard-nosed woman journalist (Miss Ticotin) to help search for her kidnapped child.

MONDAY

(ABC) MONDAY NIGHT MOVIE

"THE RIGHT OF THE PEOPLE" (1985) Starring Michael Ontkean, Jane Kaczmarek and Billy Dee Williams. The passage of a local law enabling citizens to carry guns legally becomes an obsession for prosecuting attorney Chris Wells (Ontkean) — whose life had been devoted to the orderly process of law and justice — after his family is brutally murdered.

VIDEO SCENE

Charlie Sexton's first clip has a little of everything

By Barton Weiss

Charlie Sexton is the new performer to look out for this year. He was featured on MTV's New Year's Eve concert and is being given a lot of play on that channel — and everywhere else. He's young (17!!!) and he's cute — in a street-wise manner. (His look even includes a couple of oh-so-fashionable earrings.)

Charlie Sexton

His clip, "Beat's So Lonely," is in rough-and-tough black and white and includes studio shots, live shots and posturing concept shots. (How can you lose if you've got them all?)

The song is pretty good, too.

Townshend minus guitar

The strangest thing about Pete Townshend's performance clip "Face to Face" (from his "White City" home video) is that there's no guitar in it at all. As Townshend has dabbled with the movies, he seems to have shed his man-with-a-guitar image. Like everyone else, he's realizing that it's possible to have good rock (and good video) without the twang of the guitar.

Dance the night away

Out in clubland, the most danceable video is "I Want You," from Cabaret Voltaire, an arty new-wave dance duo named after the famous Dada hangout.

It's really a simple clip. Dracula is pursuing a new-wave girl and the band comes to her rescue, which sets an orgy of lamp breaking (leading to bright hues of paint all over the walls and beds) in motion.

Throughout the battle, the camera moves in a jerky motion that resembles dance very closely — so closely, in fact, that it will make those feet move when you thought you were too tired to do anything but go home.

Photogenic

Another club hit is Grace Jones' new clip, "Slave to the Rhythm." It includes re-edited material from her "One Man Show" video album with a few new shots thrown in. As usual, it's her face that will intrigue viewers. Miss Jones knows exactly how to look into a camera (she is an ex-model), and nobody is as effective in a close-up as she is.

Smokin' away

Trouble Funk was one of the first Washington, D.C., bands to play Go Go music, a kind of teen-oriented James Brown soul music that asks for audience participation. Trouble Funk's new and mostly live clip celebrates the band's longevity. It's upbeat and it's "Still Smokin'."

THE COLOR PURPLE (PG-13-Warner Bros.) Starring Whoopi Goldberg, Danny Glover, Rae Dawn Chong. ★ ★ ★

By J.T. YURKO

Steven Spielberg has supposedly taken a big chance with "The Color Purple." After all, what does a white kid from sunny Southern California know about poor black farmers from the 1930s and '40s? Imagine — no giant shark, no spaceships, no roller-coaster rides through gold mines ... not even a score by John Williams!

But Spielberg needn't lose any sleep. The Hollywood "Wunderkind" has taken Alice Walker's Pulitzer Prize-winning story and transferred it to the screen with as much warmth and humanity as can be found in any film of the last few years. All the poetry of Walker's letters is brought to life with the same intensity of emotion, the same homespun charm, the same quiet sweep of life and love.

The story is essentially the tale of Celie, a young and not-too-pretty girl who is a victim of incest by her father and then beatings by her husband. Her great love for her sister provides the only happiness in her life, but her husband (literally) tears Celie and her sister apart, sends the sister away, and doesn't even let Celie read her letters.

But before you write this movie off as a depressing tear-jerker, you should know that it has as much humor as it has terror and provides as much wit as weeping.

The film has at least a dozen images that startle the eye and then enter the memory, and in only a few scenes does Spielberg seem to be pushing too hard for impact. (Some bits of humor that are used for comic relief are overdone, and there should have been at least one less sunset silhouette.)

Still, "The Color Purple" would be a marvelous achievement for any filmmaker, and it is a real breakthrough film for Spielberg. The cast is, without exception, superb, and Whoopi Goldberg in the lead role as Celie will have record keepers going to the books to see how many times an Academy Award for best actress has been won by someone in her first film.

FOLEY SQUARE

Margaret Colin is Alex Harrigan, a feisty lawyer who has learned to survive almost everything in her five years as an assistant district attorney, on CBS's "Foley Square," WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 15.

A Letter of Thanks

The family of Estill Taylor would like to thank everyone who stood by us in our time of sorrow and to those who sent flowers and food. We would especially like to thank the Rev. Doug Burkett, James Mollett, and Calvin Setser, and the members of the Auxier Freewill Baptist Church, who were so kind to us. Also thanks to the P&B Ambulance Service who was always there when we needed them. Our thanks to Carter Funeral Home who handled everything so well. Thank you. Our Dad may be gone but he'll never be forgotten.

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NEWS

By JANE BOND
Health Educator

Cervical cancer kills approximately 11,000 women each year, yet this type cancer can be one of the most curable of all cancers if it is detected in its earliest stages. There is a simple painless test to determine cervical cancer; this is the pap test. It takes only a few moments and it could save a woman's life.

The Floyd County Health Department is having a pap clinic Thursday, January 16, from 8:30 until 11:30 and from 1 until 2. This clinic is a free service of the health department and is open to women of all ages, but those women age 45 and over are especially urged to take advantage of this free service since this is the high-risk age for the disease.

The branch office of the health department at Beaver is open every Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 10 until 2. For more information concerning services at the Branch Office, call 886-2788 or 597-2106.

Nurses at the health department would like to remind parents that they must accompany their children to the health department for any immunizations or T.B. skin testing. The immunizations may not be given unless a parent or legal guardian is present.

IS AIR FORCE RECRUIT

Air Force DEP (Delayed Enlistment Program) volunteer Ricky J. Kendrick, son of Joe and Margie Kendrick, of Prestonsburg, enlisted in the Air Force's delayed enlistment program, according to TSGT T.J. Kornegay, Air Force Recruiter in Ashland. A 1984 graduate of Prestonsburg High School, Kendrick is scheduled for enlistment in the regular Air Force on June 4, 1986. Upon graduation from the Air Force's six-week basic training course near San Antonio, Texas, he is scheduled to receive technical training as a security specialist.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Effective February 1, 1986, each dog in the City limits of Prestonsburg must have a numbered dog tag. These tags are $1.50 each and can be purchased in the Municipal Building. In accordance with City Ordinance 840.2 it is the responsibility of the owner or keeper of each dog to obtain this license. The complete dog license ordinance is printed below.

840.2 DOG LICENSE

SECTION ONE: It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation or company to own or keep a dog or dogs over the age of six (6) months in the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, without first obtaining a license for each dog.

SECTION TWO: The required license shall be good for one year upon purchase from the Prestonsburg City Clerk. The license will be required within two (2) weeks from the date that said ordinance is published in the local newspaper of the largest circulation in Floyd County.

SECTION THREE: Each dog over the age of six (6) months owned or kept by any person, firm, company or corporation in the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, shall be examined and inoculated by a duly licensed veterinarian and a statement or certificate from said veterinarian showing such dog has been immunized against rabies shall be presented to the Floyd County Dog Warden. A license tag will then be issued by the Floyd County Dog Warden upon the payment of a fee of One Dollar and Fifty Cents ($1.50) for each dog which has been inoculated. The procedure provided for herein in accordance with this ordinance.

SECTION FOUR: The license tag so delivered to the owner or keeper of a dog shall be fastened to the collar of the dog and shall be worn continuously. The failure to have such a tag so attached to each dog shall subject the owner or keeper thereof to the penalties provided for herein.

SECTION FIVE: It shall be unlawful for the owner or keeper of any dog, either licensed or unlicensed, to allow such dog to remain at large and unattended; or to allow the dog attended or unattended to damage public or private property.

SECTION SIX: Any person being the owner or keeper of a dog who fails to license such dog as required by this ordinance, or who permits such dog to remain at large, shall, upon conviction be fined not less than Ten Dollars ($10.00) nor more than One Hundred Dollars ($100.00).

SECTION SEVEN: All license fees and fines shall be paid into the treasury of the City of Prestonsburg to become a part of its general fund for public purposes.

SECTION EIGHT: It shall be the duty of every police officer of the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky and every dog warden of Floyd County to obtain the name of the owner or keeper of any dog seen unattended or who damages property, public or private, and to obtain a summons for the owner's appearance in Floyd County District Court.

Sole To Head State Upland Game Program

Jeffery D. Sole, 30, was recently appointed Upland Game Program coordinator for the Kentucky Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources.

The program is a new research and management project to be administered within the Division of Wildlife. It was created under the direction of Commissioner Don C. McCormick, who has voiced a commitment to help improve small game population throughout the state.

Working with private landowners, wildlife management area biologists, coal operators, and foresters in both the public and private sector, Sole will be responsible for the development and implementation of management strategies to benefit cottontail and swamp rabbits, ruffed grouse, bobwhite quail, and gray and fox squirrels.

Some aspects of small game population dynamics that will likely be studied are age and growth, reproduction and predation. Sole said he will conduct harvest surveys and study factors that may influence population densities like habitat, the quality and availability of forage, and the impact of hunting pressure. "At this time very little is known about small game populations and harvest rates throughout the state," Sole explained.

Presently a wildlife biologist with the Environmental Section in the Division of Fisheries, Sole has been an employee of the department for four years. Sole earned a B.S. in wildlife management and a M.S. in biology from Eastern Kentucky University.

Sole said he is very interested in grouse hunting and looking forward to continuing work on Kentucky's grouse restoration project. Last fall, Sole worked with fellow department biologists and wildlife management graduate students, trapping grouse in six eastern Kentucky counties for restocking in TVA's Land Between the Lakes and Higginson-Henry Wildlife Management Area (WMA) in Union County, as part of the department's ongoing efforts to reestablish grouse throughout their historic range.

A TRADITION OF...

CARING BY THE BOOK

"Going by the book" is a common expression in almost every phase of human endeavor that has a tradition. It's true of health care too.

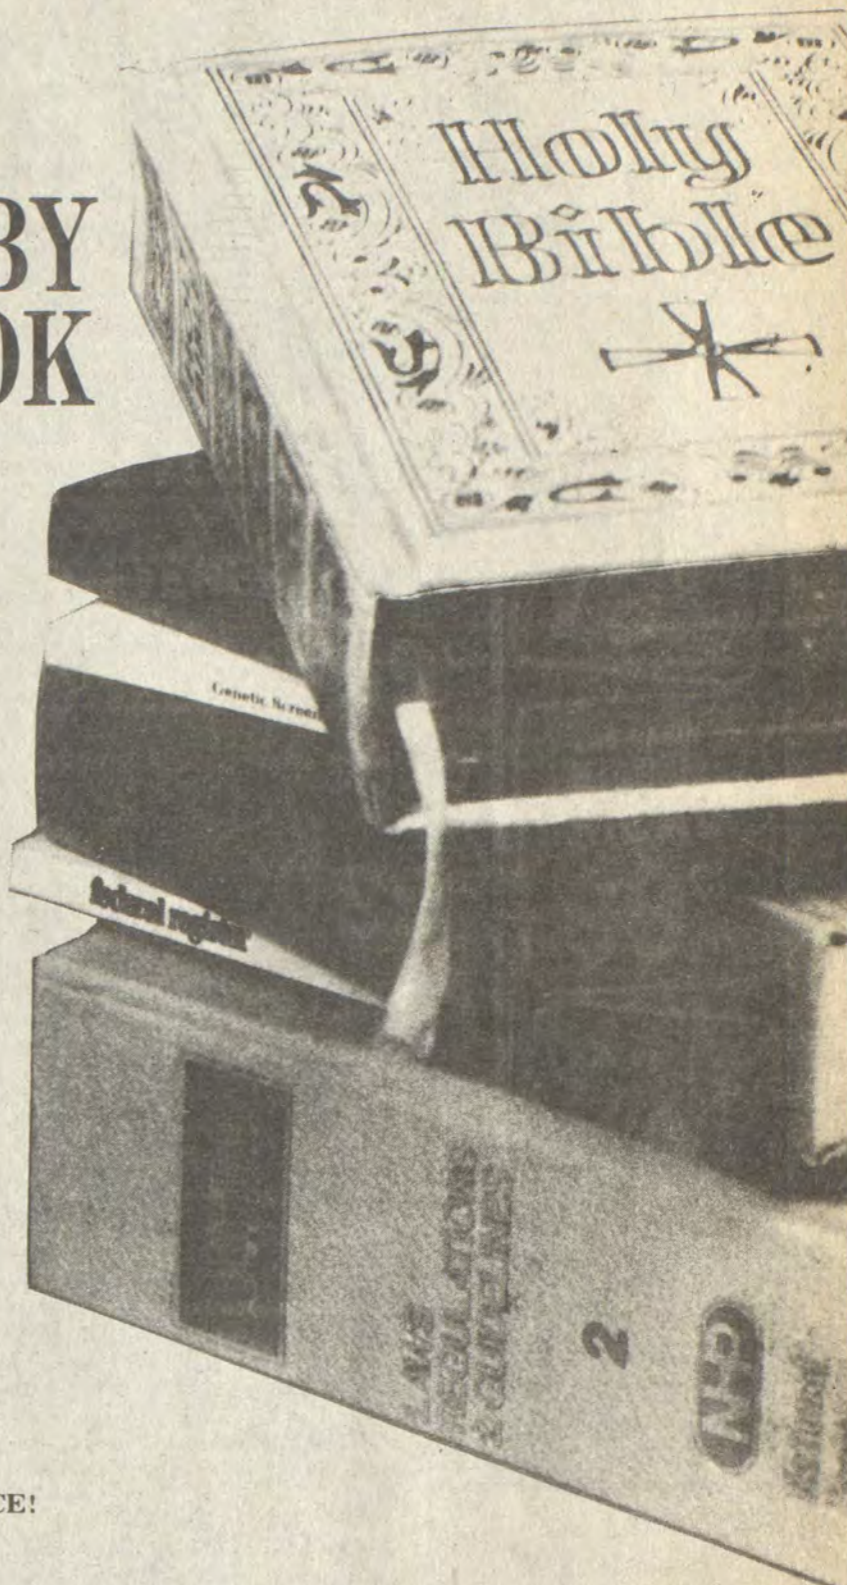

But the question today is: Which book do we go by? The increasing volume of federal regulations aimed primarily at cutting health care costs to the possible neglect of human needs? The ever-growing scientific tome that advances technology without considering its moral effects?

We in Catholic health care have been caring by the book for nearly 2,000 years. It's called the Bible and it talks about healing the sick and caring for the poor—in other words about people not profits, values not vials.

And we're going to keep on using the Bible as the primary book we go by. That's why last year more than 42 percent of the patients we served had their bills paid by Medicare or Medicaid—or by the health care facility itself.

623 hospitals, 292 nursing homes, 52 multi-institutional systems, 14 dioceses, and 278 sponsoring religious orders. We're the Catholic health care ministry and...

Army Enlistee

Michael Derossett, of Cow Creek, has enlisted in the United States Army and will receive training as a Aircraft Fire Control Repairer. He was assisted in choosing a skill from among the many skills available in today's Army by Sgt. Gordon of the Prestonsburg Recruiting Station (886-9431).

Derossett is the son of Paul D. Derossett, of Cow Creek, and attended Prestonsburg High School, graduating in Dec. 1985. He will receive basic combat training at Ft. Dix, N.J. and advanced individual training at Ft. Eustis, Va. After training he will be assigned to Europe.

At many major corporations, when senior officials fly, they take separate airplanes.

First Runner-Up

Nikki LaSha Patton, four-year-old daughter of Rondal and Jennifer Martin Patton, of Estill, was the first runner-up in the Tiny Miss division of the Wayland PTO's first annual Miss Winter Wonderland Pageant held December 7. She is the granddaughter of the late Melvin (Nick) Martin and Josephine Martin, of Estill, and Van and Rebecca Patton, of Estill.

Miss Marple Traces "The Moving Finger"

A rash of poison-pen letters takes that unlikely detective Miss Jane Marple to a small English village in East Anglia when "Mystery!" "The Moving Finger" airs Saturday, January 25, at 9 p.m. (ET) on KET. The two-part "who-done-it" concludes February 1 in the same time slot.

British actress Joan Hickson portrays the elderly spinster sleuth. Hickson almost is a dead ringer for mystery writer Agatha Christie's Jane Marple—thin with snowy white hair, pale blue eyes, and a pink crinkled face.

In "The Moving Finger" Miss Marple doubts the apparent suicide of a local solicitor's wife. Although the deceased is found with a suicide note next to her body, and both the police and the villagers are convinced the woman killed herself, Miss Marple knows it was murder.

"The great thing in all these cases," explained Miss Marple, is "to keep an absolutely open mind."

"Most crimes, you see, are so absurdly simple. This one was. Quite sane and forward—and quite understandable—in an unpleasant way, of course," she continued.

Survey Shows Changes In Home Financing

More than 90 percent of home sales this fall were financed using a single mortgage, which is the highest recorded level of single-loan transactions since data collection began in 1982, when only 62 percent of transactions used a single mortgage, according to a National Association of Realtors survey.

While nearly 4 percent of home sales this fall involved all-cash transactions, 95 percent of sales in which mortgage financing was used were closed with a single mortgage. Counting all sales, including cash only and those with home loans, 91 percent were financed with a single mortgage.

The nationwide survey of real estate brokers in September and October also showed that eight of 10 homes financed with single mortgages obtained their financing from financial institutions, including savings and loans, mortgage bankers and commercial banks. This was 2 percent less than July but 48 percent higher than three years ago.

"The use of single-mortgage-only packages increased 3 percent from July to October, accompanied by a corresponding reduction in two-mortgage financing packages and cash transactions," association analysts said. The increase in single-mortgage loans reflects the highly affordable interest rate environment since the early- to mid-summer period, they added.

"Only 5 percent of homes were financed with the help of a second loan, with seven of 10 buyers obtaining the second loan directly from sellers," the analysts said. This represented the highest proportion of seller-provided second mortgages in the three years NAR has compiled such data, they noted.

Financial institutions provided only one of five second loans this fall, down noticeably from 36 percent rate a year earlier, according to the survey results.

"One reason for the decline was tighter lender underwriting standards, which may be forcing some sellers to provide additional mortgage funds to buyers who are hard pressed to qualify for complete institutional financing," NAR analysts said. The use of third mortgages this fall was virtually nonexistent, they added.

Loan assumptions this fall dropped to 9 percent of first mortgages, only half the level of a year earlier. In 1982, loan assumptions accounted for 41 percent of first mortgages and 11 percent of second mortgages. Overall, loan assumptions were used in a little more than 8 percent of home sales this fall, compared to nearly 28 percent three years ago, NAR analysts noted.

"Relatively low interest rates have offset a potentially lower blended rate that could be obtained by assuming an existing first mortgage and taking out a second loan to finance the balance," association analysts said. "Higher rates on assumable loans issued during the last five years and enforcement of due-on-sale clauses by lenders are other factors in the decline of loan assumptions," they added.

The latest survey conclusions are based on real estate closings in September and October reported by residential brokers from across the country who are members of the National Association of Realtors.

The National Association of Realtors, the nation's largest trade association, represents more than 675,000 members involved in all aspects of the real estate industry.

Celebrates First Birthday

RUB OUT PAIN

One class of painkillers can be applied directly to the skin to help relieve pain, sprains, aching joints and burns. Some of these drugs, however, actually depress the sensory pain receptors. The active ingredient usually is benzocaine, lidocaine, tetracaine or dibucaine. Benzocaine is the most commonly used. The FDA considers it a safe topical OTC anesthetic. Other external drugs such as menthol and camphor produce a sensation of warmth that masks the underlying pain. These counter-irritants do as much to make you feel better as they do to relieve pain. Finally, there is hydrocortisone. While it is technically not considered to be a painkiller by the FDA, it is a safe and effective treatment for most skin conditions and itching.

We know you have a family doctor in whom you place your confidence. Why not a family pharmacist to serve your health needs? If you are not yet familiar with COOLEY APOTHECARY, do yourself a favor and learn firsthand about our reliable service and hometown friendliness. We offer our customers complete patient profiles so we can further safeguard their health by checking for side effects, drug interactions and for possible allergic reactions. These records will also be of great help to you for insurance purposes and at income tax time. We are located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4.

HANDY HINT: "Maximum strength" merely means more painkiller.

"IT'S EASIER TO SELL A HOME WHEN IT HAS MORE FEATURES PEOPLE LIKE... LIKE GAS HEAT AND APPLIANCES."

Holly Perry
Holly Perry, Realtor

"It's as true today as it's always been. Families prefer natural gas in their homes. Gas heat gives the warmth that makes the whole house comfortable, no matter how cold it gets outside. It's reliable, too. A gas furnace hardly ever needs service, which means real cost savings compared to other systems. And if the home has other gas appliances—like water heater and range—so much the better. So when I'm asked about the features of a home, I'm always glad when I can say it has gas heat and appliances. The people almost always are, too."

Natural gas can add comfort, convenience and value to your home. Just ask Holly Perry, and the families in the gas-equipped homes she has sold.

Spilled Coal Causes Traffic Hazard Here

A city crew labored for nearly an hour to shovel coal from the roadway in three spots on South Lake Drive just south of here. Traffic approaching the city from the south was diverted until the pavement was clear. Cited by Prestonsburg police Det. Mike Ormerod for spilling coal was David E. Jenkins, 24, of Kitts Hill, Ohio. Jenkins drives a tractor-trailer for Pavel Popov Trucking Co., an Ohio firm.

NUMB ARMS, LEGS Warning Signals

There may be misalignment of vertebrae in the spine causing pressure on nerves, yet the patient experiences no pain in the back. Instead, a variety of sensations may be felt in other parts of the body. These include tingling, tightness, hot spots, cold spots, crawling sensations, electric shock sensations, stinging, burning, and others.

The following nine symptoms involving back pain or strange sensations are often the forerunners of more serious conditions. Any one of these may spell back trouble

- (1) Paresthesias (see above), (2) Headaches (3) Painful joints (4) Numbness in the arms or hands (5) Loss of sleep (6) Stiffness in the neck (7) Pain between the shoulders (8) Stiffness or pain in lower back (9) Numbness or pain in the legs.

These signals may indicate your body is being robbed of normal nerve function. Until this function is restored, you will, in some degree, be incapacitated. The longer you wait to seek help, the worse the condition will likely become. Don't wait! Should you experience any of these warning signals...call for in depth consultation in Layman's terms.

Study Group Asks Tougher Penalties on Child Support

Stressing stricter enforcement of existing court orders and tougher penalties for violators, the Kentucky Commission on Child Support has forwarded the results of its year-long study to Gov. Martha Layne Collins.

The governor created the commission in January to identify problems in Kentucky's child support enforcement system and develop recommendations to be considered by the administration and the 1986 General Assembly.

Commission chairman and Franklin Circuit Judge William L. Graham said the findings of the study are based on extensive research as well as citizen input.

"This commission conducted seven regional public hearings and participated in numerous other private discussions on problems facing families dependent on the financial assistance of child support," Graham said. "Our recommendations are not total solutions. They do represent well-conceived ideas on how the present system can be strengthened and how the various agencies involved in child support enforcement can assist these families through that system."

Major proposals included in the 97-page report, several of which would require legislative action, include:

- Encouraging Kentucky judges to be stricter in enforcing their own child support orders and development of an educational and monitoring process to enable judges to keep up with those orders as well as new ideas on enforcement.

- Mandating jail sentences for persistent failure to make timely and full child support payments;

- Raising to eighteen the age of children for whom paternity may be established for child support purposes;

- Allowing withholding from wages earned by a non-support offender when the amount of unpaid child support equals one month's payable support;

- Urging both parents to share rights and responsibilities of child-rearing and requiring communication between the parents about any impending relocation involving the child;

- Improving cooperation between federal, state and local child support officials for the most economic and effective support collection services;

- Establishing a continuing review board, unattached to any governmental unit, to suggest improvements in Kentucky's child support enforcement system.

Graham said certain of the recommendations are already being experimented with in some counties, but not statewide.

"In Franklin and Jefferson counties, the reality of a jail sentence for repeated non-support offenses had had a positive impact," he said. "Other recommendations, such as the paternity establishment age and the wage withholding proposal, are federal law changes which must be addressed by the 1986 General Assembly."

Graham said the committee encouraged Gov. Collins and state legislators to give close consideration to the findings in the report.

Miss Winter Wonderland

Miss Robyn Lynn Johnson was crowned Teen Miss Winter Wonderland in the first annual Miss Winter Wonderland pageant held at the Wayland school on Saturday, December 7. Robyn was also chosen Teen Miss Photogenic.

She is the daughter of Rooney and Terri Johnson, of Wayland, and is the granddaughter of Mrs. Tish Johnson, of Garrett, and the late Lee Johnson, and of the late Garner and Gilda Crager.

College Receives Pepsi Grant

Pikeville College will receive a $1,000 gift from Pepsi-Cola USA thanks to the award-winning efforts of the East Kentucky Beverage Company, Inc., in the area of community service.

East Kentucky Beverage earned this grant, known as the John Reese Award, because of its generous contribution of time, services, and financial support of Pikeville College. "We consider community involvement to be one of the most important aspects of our business," said John Dupuy, president. "We are a local business. Our success comes from loyal support from eastern Kentucky consumers. Community action is the best way to say thank you and tell our customers that we care."

The John Reese Award Program is a grassroots community grant program developed to recognize and support the public service initiatives of Pepsi-Cola Bottlers around the country. Grants of $1,000 are awarded to non-profit organizations through the local bottler. Qualifying organizations include charities, the arts, civic affairs, educational programs, or assistance programs to which the local bottler has committed both volunteer time and financial resources.

The program is dedicated to the late John Reese, a Pennsylvania Pepsi-Cola bottler and industry leader, who distinguished himself as a businessman, community leader, and humanitarian.

"If your gas or oil bills are high, add on a heat pump."

You can cut your heating bills by adding a heat pump to the gas or oil furnace you already have.

An add-on heat pump saves you money because it shares the job of heating your home. You just add it on to your existing furnace. It goes on only when electricity is the most efficient, economical source of heat.

And all summer long, you get the comfort of air conditioning. Because in the summer, the heat pump reverses itself and pumps the heat out of your house while keeping the cool air circulating.

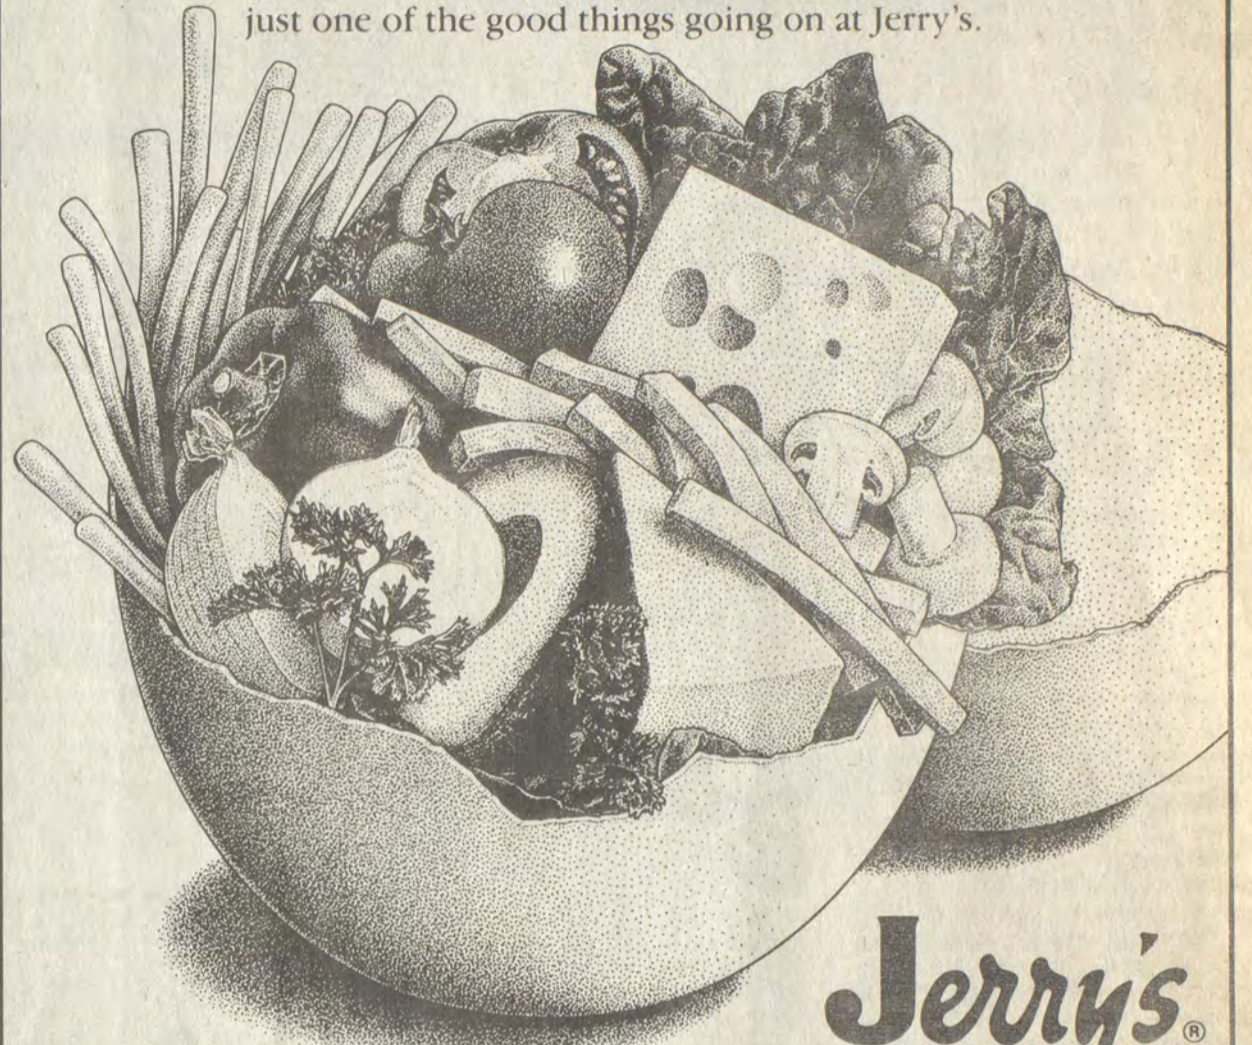

Because an add-on heat pump uses your existing furnace, most installations don't involve any changes to your ductwork.

If you think about the savings, the air conditioning, and the low cost of installation, adding on a heat pump is a pretty smart move. Call us and find out more.
