

Surface Mine Rules Controversy Growing

Environmental, Coal Interests Are In Conflict

Recent weeks have brought reports of new fighting on an old battleground, with the coal industry, environmentalists, and state and federal regulators caught in a four-way struggle that some hope may yet be resolved by negotiation.

Among the most recent skirmishes: —A week ago, House Majority Leader Greg Stumbo was in Washington for talks with officials of the U.S. Office of Surface Mining (OSM), the federal agency which is growing increasingly skeptical of Kentucky's will to enforce surface-mining regulations but which Stumbo and some other state legislators think may be singling this state out for unjustifiably strict enforcement.

—A couple of days later, Pikeville Rep. Herbie Deskins said he wanted to hold public hearings here to investigate complaints by Kentucky coal operators that state and federal inspectors are stricter in Kentucky than in neighboring states.

—At the same time, the General Accounting Office of Congress issued a report that the reclamation bonds posted by coal operators to insure that the environment is restored after mining are inadequate to get the job done.

—And three environmentalist groups were persuaded by state officials to delay for a week the filing of a suit charging that OSM has failed to oversee various states' regulatory programs.

All were signs of a growing controversy over the enforcement of surface mining rules, and particularly over the effectiveness of Kentucky's four-year-old "primacy" program, under which the state has primary responsibility for regulating strip mines.

The conflict is one that many coal operators say leaves them caught in the crossfire. The threat of suits by environmental groups—like the Kentucky Resources Council, the League of Kentucky Sportsmen, and the National Wildlife Federation, which have

25 Job Corps Students Get Suspended Sentences

Twenty-five Job Corps students were arrested late Saturday night and charged with second-degree riot after they allegedly made threatening gestures and ignored a police order to disperse.

Seventeen adults, aged from 18 to 22, and seven juveniles later pleaded guilty to amended charges of disorderly conduct and received suspended 30-day sentences.

Prestonsburg police reported confronting the youths on foot on the KY 3 bridge at Lancer after Job Corps officials alerted them that the group was headed toward Prestonsburg, allegedly bent on "freeing" a fellow student arrested earlier on a drinking charge.

After being instructed to disperse and return to the Job Corps Center in the nearby Goble-Roberts Addition, the students began chanting obscene slogans and striking the palms of their hands with their fists, police reported.

The city police were joined by state police and sheriff's officers in making the arrests. The adults charged were:

Marcus Anderson, Sherril Bolin, Bobby Carroll, Johnny Cobb, Harvey Farris, Bobby Green, Garry Gullett, Carl Hicks, William F. Howell, John Jackson, S. B. Johnson, Darrin Jones, Gary May, Keith Scott, Dwayne Thompson, James Varner and Alfonso Young.

Vandalism Ends Cruise Plans At Dewey Lake

Vandals aborted a Dewey Lake cruise planned by a retirees' group last week and triggered a call for increased protection for houseboats and other craft moored at the Jenny Wiley boat dock.

About 20 members of the local chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons had scheduled a day-trip Thursday in a houseboat operated by the Christian Appalachian Project (CAP) but the cruise was abruptly called off after Mike Sanders, CAP director of administration, discovered Wednesday night that someone had vandalized the craft's electrical wiring, broken decorative mirrors, and disturbed radio equipment.

The damage may have been done the previous Monday night, when a neighbor's dog reportedly began barking, said Sanders, who surmised that the intruders planned to steal the radio equipment when the dog's barking caused them to flee.

The houseboat has since been rewired and the AARP excursion has been rescheduled for 11 a.m., July 10.

ARH Hospital Strike at End

United Steelworkers' three-month-old strike against the Appalachian Regional Hospitals ended Monday for all but one of the facilities in the 10-hospital chain when management and union signed contracts for the hospitals at McDowell, Harlan, South Williamson, and Whitesburg in Kentucky and at Wise, Va.

The contract had been approved earlier for hospitals in West Liberty, Middlesboro, Hazard, and Beckley, W.Va. The only hospital still without a contract is in Man, W.Va.

Monday's settlement came despite a vote last Friday, in which the McDowell unionists rejected the contract by 83 votes to 3, Harlan by 114 to 82, Whitesburg by 109 to 14, and South Williamson by 177 to 57.

78-Year-Old Postoffice May Bow To Automation

Although postal officials are handling the news as if it were a state secret, the possible closing of the 78-year-old post office at Emma will not apparently occasion great mourning.

And that may be as much a sign of the times as of the demographic and economic statistics cited by postal officials in deciding these matters.

For, while no one denies that a valuable human element would be lost with the closing of the tiny facility tucked onto one end of Ruth Weddington's ancient grocery store, most appear satisfied that the loss would be more than offset by the convenience of the "neighborhood lock boxes" the U.S. postal service is thinking of providing in its stead.

Bonnie Walters—who retired as postmaster Monday after nearly 20 years on the job and within weeks of her 67th birthday—has her own reasons for missing the place. It's only about the size of the average kitchen and lacks the amenities of its modern counterparts. "But I'll miss seeing all my friends," she said last week.

Not for Emma the compact, streamlined scales that weigh a package, figure the second-class rate to Hong Kong, and compute the postage, all at the touch of a button. At Emma they do it the old way, heaving a package up onto a cumbersome scale that might have been invented by Ben Franklin and that takes up more room than can be spared in the cramped space behind the counter, adding iron weights until the scales are even, and then figuring the rate and postage from a well-thumbed manual.

The Emma post office boasts only seven customer mailboxes, most of them handed down in long-established families, and at least one of them inoperable because the lessor has long since forgotten the combination of the lock. But some 73 "general delivery" customers are still served by the post office, and most of them can be expected to pay a daily visit and swap the day's news.

Not that there is much space for socializing. The small area set aside for customers is dominated by a pot-bellied stove that the lucky few get to huddle around in winter. But, for the rest of the year, there are seats outside for customers to rest on while they

Floyd Schools Eligible For $11,000,000 in Funds

Independence Day Fun Friday at Archer Park

There will be a fireworks display at Archer Park this Friday at 10 p.m. as part of the annual 4th-of-July celebration. Other festivities at the park, will include a greased-pole climbing contest and an ugly man contest. To top off the celebration, the James H. Drew Carnival is holding their annual engagement at the park this week.

New Fiscal Year Brings Changes in Drunk Law

Changes in state law that took effect yesterday (Tuesday) mean that public intoxication will usually be treated as a citation offense, not a misdemeanor.

The new public intoxication law will mean those arrested for a first or second offense will remain in jail only until they have sobered up and will be able to pay a fine rather than go to court. The fine is $25 but court costs will bring the bill up to $72.50.

People can now be charged with a misdemeanor offense of public intoxication only if they are under the influence of drugs or a combination of drugs and alcohol.

State Insists Higher Taxes Be Assessed

The official word is in Governor Martha Layne Collins announced last week that Floyd school district will be eligible for about $11 million in school construction funds from the state School Facility Construction Commission.

The allocation is dependent on this county's adopting a 25-cent school tax rate—up from the current 17.9-cent rate—and is in addition to about $2.3 in construction funds expected to be raised through the local tax effort.

The funds have been earmarked for four projects here:

—A 700-student middle school to be built on an eight-acre site at Lancer at a cost estimated by state Education Department officials at $3,136,000. Construction at the site is expected to begin in the new year.

—A 600-student elementary school at an Allen site yet to be chosen. Estimated cost: $2,352,000.

—A 750-student school to replace

BONNIE WALTERS stood at the doorway of the Emma post office on her last day as postmaster last week and the post office itself, a small room at one end of Ruth Weddington's grocery store, may soon follow her into retirement. U.S. Postal Service officials conducted a survey last week to see if Emma residents might be served more economically by neighborhood lock boxes.

Brackett Says McDonald Letter Not Offensive

He does not know if he will attend a fund-raiser to which he has been invited by the Friends of Alice McDonald committee or whether he will try to sell tickets to the reception, Floyd Schools Superintendent Ray Brackett said this week. But the Floyd school chief said he saw nothing improper about the solicitation and did not feel pressured by it.

In a move that provoked widely different reactions among local school officials, state Superintendent for Public Instruction Alice McDonald's campaign for lieutenant-governor recently invited the superintendents to a July 22 reception, including with each letter 20 tickets to be sold for $50 each.

Responses among superintendents interviewed ranged from those who said they were happy to contribute to Mrs. McDonald's political campaign to those who threw the tickets in the wastebasket. As of Monday, Supt. Brackett had neither discarded nor tried to sell the tickets, which were still on his desk, tied with a rubber band.

"I didn't find it offensive," Brackett said of the solicitation. "I don't feel under pressure. I get this kind of letter all the time from different politicians. It's a common practice."

Brackett said he had not yet decided whether he would attend the reception at Louisville's Executive Inn West or whether he would try to sell the tickets he had received. "I just haven't given much thought to it one way or the other," he said.

McDonald said superintendents should feel no pressure to donate to her campaign. However, Bullitt County Superintendent Frank Hatfield said there is "always a subtle hint of pressure" when a fund-raising letter comes from a person able to influence what happens in a school district, and Dot Ridings, chairman of the Pritchard Committee for Academic Excellence, said, "I think this clearly is a case of bad judgment. . . . This is what we've been talking about when we talk about political pressure on our school administrators."

For his part, Brackett said, "Whether it is good or bad—someone else can make that judgment."

Wright Plans Holiday Gala

"We're going to be displaying our colors and flying the flag," City Clerk Katie Newsome enthused. "And if we don't have enough flags, we'll put out red geraniums or something."

The occasion is a combined homecoming and patriotic celebration being planned in Wheelwright this July 4 weekend.

One high school class reunion was already scheduled but city officials are hoping that anyone who ever went to school in Wheelwright, worked there, has family there, or has memories there will return for a visit on Saturday, July 5.

The Community Action and Summer Youth programs have assigned workers to clean up Main Street and city parks; private citizens are working on their own front yards; businesses have chipped in to help defray the cost of the observance; and the Christian Appalachian Project, which operates the Wheelwright swimming pool on lease from the city, will open it free to all on Saturday. Mrs. Newsome said.

The day's celebration will include a tribute to the contribution to the city of the black community there, the clerk said.

James Named City Manager

A new city administrator for Prestonsburg was confirmed last Thursday during a special meeting of the city council.

Prestonsburg native, Fred James, 35, will replace David Evans, who is leaving to accept a position with the Floyd county school system. Evans' last day in office will be August 8, though he will remain as a consultant through September 30. He has been employed by the city for 6½ years.

James will start work during the first week of August. He brings with him 12 years of experience in state government, and a masters degree in public administration from Western Kentucky University. Prior to being hired by the city, he was employed by the state department of mental health.

Those council members present at the meeting—Margie Osborne, Harry Ray Porter, William O. Goebel, III, Gary Brown and Thomas Tackett—entered into executive session with Mayor Ann Latta to discuss and vote on James' appointment.

City Seeks Membership In Mainstreet Project

City officials and civic leaders are gearing up to make application for Prestonsburg to become a member city of the Mainstreet program.

Mayor Ann Latta has formed a task force of local business leaders to define the city's strengths and weaknesses. Among the issues they are studying are how to best capitalize on Prestonsburg's history, location and unique features.

If Prestonsburg is selected for participation in the project, it will receive either intensive technical assistance or a matching funds grant for use in paying the salary of a downtown manager.

The downtown manager—not to be confused with the position of city administrator—has been described as part watchman, part ombudsman, and part cheerleader. This person will be concerned not only with increasing sales or cleaning streets, but also with parking, financing, economic development and physical design.

The Mainstreet program in Kentucky is maintained by the Kentucky Heritage Council, which says that the biggest problem facing downtowns is one of image. They have come up with a four-point plan to help alleviate such problems for Mainstreet cities. The remedies include improving communication between downtown business leaders and city officials; promoting the downtown section as a unit; updating downtown design, ranging from signs, storefronts and public spaces to modern merchandising display; and economic restructuring, beginning with an economic and market analysis to determine the best course for future development.

At a public meeting last Thursday at city hall, a number of business leaders discussed the city's strengths and weaknesses, and offered suggestions on how Prestonsburg could improve.

Strengths seen by the merchants included the city's friendly atmosphere, attractive shops, and the feeling of security provided by the small-town environment.

Among suggestions for improvement were the additions of walking and bicycle trails, a youth center, and a bowling alley. More promotion of Jenny Wiley State Park, particularly the amphitheatre, was said to be necessary, as was finding a solution to traffic-flow problems, establishing a health center, making better use of existing buildings, particularly vacant top-floors and, perhaps most importantly, having a professional building downtown.

One of the biggest problems facing downtown, said Playhouse Restaurant owner Bill Ray Collins, arose when the Prestonsburg General Hospital closed and Highlands Regional Medical Center began caring for people outside the city. Other merchants agreed that a professional building leased to physicians and dentists would do more than would promotions to bring people back to town.

The merchants also bemoaned the fact that so many local landmarks had disappeared over the years. When City Councilwoman Margie Osborne mentioned the old Garfield Place, someone piped in, "Better ask Burl Wells (Spurlock) about that," referring to construction of the new First Commonwealth Bank building on the Arnold Avenue site of the house in which the civil war general and later president stayed briefly during a battle in the area.

If Prestonsburg is chosen to participate in the program, it must agree to make a two-year commitment. This becomes especially important if the city receives matching funds, as the funds will likely be available for only one year.

Ten cities are expected to be chosen to participate this year, with seven receiving funding, and three technical assistance. These cities will join Bowling Green, Carrollton, Maysville, Hopkinsville, Paducah, Owensboro, Frankfort, Shelbyville, Winchester, Covington and Somerset in the program.

given notice that they are ready for a court battle over the enforcement of strip mine law—has heightened the tension between OSM and the state Cabinet for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, the operators say, with the result that they are being "regulated out of business."

That was the message delivered last week by four industry groups to the General Assembly's interim joint Committee on Natural Resources and Environment, of which Deskins is chairman. "Recent changes in policy and attitude (of state regulatory officials) ... are threatening to further endanger an already ailing coal industry," an industry release said.

Moreover, said Pikeville attorney Charles Baird, who represents one of the coal groups, some operators feel that the federal regulatory agency "has singled out Kentucky for more stringent oversight." As it is interpreted and applied by OSM, Baird claimed, primacy is nothing more than dual enforcement—a reverting to the situation that existed here before the state obtained primacy.

"We understand that OSM is approving certain practices in other states but not in Kentucky. We are asking the joint committee to check this out and either confirm or disprove it," said Baird, who represents Coal Operators and Associates, Inc., a Pikeville-based group. "If there are unfair burdens being placed on coal companies in Kentucky, they need to be removed for the future health and wellbeing of the entire state as well as the coal industry."

But what Baird criticizes as dual enforcement an environmental attorney in Frankfort describes as "dual non-enforcement." Tom FitzGerald, who represents the Kentucky Resources Council, charged recently that state inspectors are not adequately trained to see violations and that some operators "have walked away from their responsibilities" to restore the environment.

A particular bone of contention for environmentalists are abuses of two-acre permits in Kentucky, which they claim are not being thoroughly investigated and which some see being cleaned up only if federal officials take over regulation of the state's two-acre program.

That kind of criticism is unfair, counters state Natural Resources Secretary Charlotte Baldwin. "We are vigorously enforcing the surface-mining law and actively prosecuting violators," she was quoted as saying in a Lexington Herald-Leader story this week.

But the same story, by Herald-Leader business writer Alecia Swasy, quoted William Brown, an attorney with the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund, as charging that the coal industry has been pampered by state officials who "want to keep the coal industry moving."

Brown does not deny the industry's economic importance to the region but contends, in a summary statement that goes to the heart of the present controversy, that "the jobs provided in no way justify the long-term damage done to the environment."

After the vote, a spokesman for the Harlan local said he hoped the hospital chain would neither hire new workers nor encourage workers to cross picket lines until both sides could return to the bargaining table. But the ARH director of labor relations said no further talks were planned.

While ARH had held off on rehiring or newly hiring workers until after Friday's vote, the hospital chain said it intended to rehire union members who wanted to return to their jobs and to hire permanent replacements for those who did not.

The striking workers included licensed practical nurses, X-ray and laboratory technicians, and food-service and maintenance employees making up about two-thirds of the hospital chain's employees.

The theme will be patriotic, Mrs. Newsome said. "We're celebrating America's birthday, Miss Liberty, and Wheelwright. We'll be decorating and putting up a big 'Welcome' sign."

Months of squabbling among city officials, including a major rift between the city council and its utilities commission, have done nothing for the city's image, noted the clerk, who hopes the celebration planned this weekend will generate some good publicity. "We need it," she said.

But Sanders said the chronic problem of vandalism of craft at the dock will remain unresolved until the area is made more secure.

"The park rangers should be stationed on this end of the lake," Sanders said. "This is where the money is and this is where the thefts are going to be."

He also suggested that a system of issuing permits could result in greater control of people visiting the dock area.

Four park rangers are currently stationed near the entrance to the Dewey Lake campgrounds, about five miles from the Jenny Wiley Dock. A ranger acknowledged this week that the dock area could be better protected if the ranger station was not so distant.

Normally, only one ranger is on duty at a time and he is expected to patrol a seven-mile shoreline from the golf course in the south to the Terry boat dock in the north, the officer said. "We try to make a round every hour," he said.

Garrett and Wayland schools at a cost of $2,940,000. The current, state-approved facilities plan calls for construction of the new school on the existing Garrett school site but that decision is still under review.

A 700-student high school to replace Wheelwright and McDowell high schools, to be located between the two schools at a cost of $3,920,000.

The estimated cost of the total building program—$12,348,000—includes site purchase and architects' and attorneys' fees as well as construction costs, Brackett said.

State plans for construction of the Garrett school call either for filling the site to bring it above the flood level or for raising the building on concrete arches or pylons. Filling the seven-acre site is opposed by some local residents, however, as possibly increasing the danger of flooding in neighboring areas; and a raised construction could both pose some design problems and interfere with the operation of school in the existing building.

An architect is currently assessing the pros and cons of building on the existing site and another site is also being considered, Brackett said.

The first offer of assistance under the construction commission program will be made officially on July 15, after which the local school district will have 30 days to accept it or not. The $11 million allocated to Floyd county will be raised by bond sales and will become available to the school district during the coming fiscal year. The 1986 General Assembly authorized a $15 million debt service for the commission, enabling it to sell about $150 million in bonds under current market conditions.

Bob Spillman, executive director of the commission, said about 100 school districts applied for the funds. The money is available to school districts that have met the required minimum local effort. "We want to assist those districts that expended most, if not all, of their funds and have no way of raising the additional capital to meet their needs," he said.

School district allocations are determined by the commission using a formula that considers each district's unmet needs and the total debt service budgeted for the biennium.

Money from the bond sale may be used only for new construction or major renovation efforts. Maintenance projects or the purchase of portable structures are not eligible for the construction funds, Spillman said.

The School Facility Construction Commission was created by the 1985 special session of the General Assembly. It replaces the School Building Authority which went out of existence Monday

Congressman Carl D. Perkins assured County Judge Henry Stumbo last Friday that the Appalachian Regional Commission had approved a grant of $205,000 towards completion of the planned county park and recreation center near Allen. Nine-year-old Helen Marie Short was dead on arrival Sunday afternoon at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin, after she had come in contact with electrically charged livestock fencing on a farm on Rock Fork Creek, near Garrett. Three men were arrested during the week on charges of possessing intoxicants for the purpose of sale, and a fourth was jailed as a parole violator. Thirty-five motorcyclists from several states and one from Canada competed in the professional motorcycle hill climb sponsored last Sunday near the Goble Branch section of Jenny Wiley State Park, and a gathering estimated at 2,500 got its share of speed and spills. The Miss Springtime pageant, held recently in conjunction with the Maytown Woman's Club style show at the Allen Central High School, had as its winner, Tammy Cordial, of Dana, and Robin Ratliff, of Martin, as runner-up. Floyd county's first Bluegrass Music Festival, featuring many of the top names in the field, will be presented by the Goins Brothers and the Archer Park Board, July 9, 10 and 11 at Archer Park. Eastern Kentucky's unemployment rate dropped from 6.6 percent in April to 6.4 percent in May, according to figures released this week by the Department for Human Resources. Delegates from Floyd county for the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs returned from the General Federation's 85th convention in Philadelphia, June 20; Born to Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Adkins, of Weebury, a daughter, June 11; to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Shepherd, of David, a son, June 18. The mandamus sought by a representative of Floyd county wet forces to require County Judge Henry Stumbo to order three separate ballots for the July 27 local option election was denied Tuesday morning by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley. The $286,061 budget adopted by the Floyd County Budget Commission was approved Wednesday by the fiscal court, in time to beat the July 1 deadline. As part of the second Civil Defense disaster alert to be staged in this county, a siren wailed at 7:45 Saturday evening, and for more than two hours Prestonsburg was a "disaster area" as the result of "enemy attack." The community of Tram this week received four volunteer workers, members of the Appalachian Volunteers, a summer program sponsored by the federal government. Married: Miss Helen Robinson, of Martin, and Mr. Richard Lee Goodman, of Prestonsburg, May 28 at Wise, Virginia; Miss Sara Noel Hill, and Mr. Jack Stumbo, both of Prestonsburg, June 4 at the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church here; Miss Sonia Bee Allen, of Risner, and Mr. Byron Dixon Nunnery, of Prestonsburg, June 18 at Paintsville. A showdown between the two factions of the Democratic party in Floyd county is looked for Saturday when delegates to the State Democratic convention in Louisville will be named in a mass meeting at the courthouse here. "There is the barest possibility that the gymnasium can be finished by next March," said Ervin Akers, of Akers & Akers, contractors on the Prestonsburg High School gymnasium construction job. Final plans are being completed for the Independence Day celebration scheduled here next Wednesday, David Leslie, chairman of the observance committee, says. More than $1,000 has been raised to cover expenses of the celebration. A $10,000 suit was filed in a Floyd circuit court Friday to recover damages allegedly caused by the use of heavy trucks in hauling coal over a Mud Creek farm. Floyd countians on food relief this month numbered 14,659, G. R. Spradlin, head of the surplus food commodity office here, said Wednesday. If Willie Frazier and his family haven't come up with a state record in strawberry production their very first year in the business, they've crowded it mighty close, according to production figures given this week by Assistant County Agent Donald Claypool. Roy Cook, of Drift, Floyd county dog warden, said this week that he will resume work July 1 rounding up stray dogs and selling dog license tags, if the new 1956 tags arrive by that date from Frankfort. There died: Cpl. Oscar Spradlin, Monday in a military vehicle accident in Germany; J. W. Campbell, 66, of Estill, last Friday at the McDowell Memorial Hospital; James J. Tackett, 37, Monday at his home at Martin; Fred O'Bryan, 71, of Martin, last Friday at Pikeville Memorial Hospital; Mrs. Etta Enis Akers, 62, of Dwale, Sunday at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin; Walter Fitch, 64, of Lackey, last Wednesday at the Huntington Veterans' Hospital.

Five appeals of applicants for license to sell whiskey in this county from the decision of County Judge Alex L. Davidson to refuse approval as county alcoholic beverage administrator were heard at Frankfort Wednesday. Judge Davidson refused the applications because "the well-being of the community warranted my doing otherwise." Operator reaction to the coal price increase of 46 cents a ton allowed last Friday by the Office of Price Administration was that the raise would not cover higher production costs resulting from wage increases and other strike-ending concessions made to the UMW. Establishment of two game refuges, each approximately 500 acres, one on the farm of O. J. Webb at Midas and the other on the Russell Harman farm, lower Johns Creek, were announced this week by E. R. Burke, Seventh District Supervisor, Division of Game and Fish. The Floyd County War Memorial Association was organized here Tuesday to raise funds for construction here of a memorial to war veterans. A food shortage has hit Floyd county—flake hominy is being used in rural sections in lieu of corn meal, and in the mining towns both bread and meat are painfully short. So pronounced was the shortage of bakery products, beef, pork and lard that there was talk of no work in the mines unless the basic foods for men doing such heavy work were supplied. Married: Miss Sue Hornsby and Mr. John R. Earle, both of Garrett, March 11; Miss Louberta Hall, of Prestonsburg, and Mr. Donald Hunt, of Lancer, June 15 at Pikeville. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Patton, of Maytown, a son. There died: Mrs. Ruby Jacobs, 23, formerly of Garrett, June 19 at Marion, Ohio.

Circuit Judge John W. Caudill declared this week that he would call a special session of the grand jury, if necessary, to stop the operation of slot machines in Floyd county, this statement following the discovery of one machine in a local restaurant and the reported operation of others at various points in the county. In cooperation with state civic clubs of Eastern Kentucky, the Pikeville Chamber of Commerce has appointed a committee to plan a meeting to be held in Pikeville to discuss ways and means for securing the completion of U. S. Highway 23, in order to make it available for tourist travel this year. In appreciation of work done by the Works Progress Administration toward paving of Highland Avenue, residents of the street Friday evening spread a banquet for all officials and workers employed on the project. pass the time of day with their neighbors.

That's the kind of thing you'd think someone like Dean Merritt might be up in arms about. He helped put in one of the outside benches and has spent a good many hours keeping it warm. But he's not about to launch a "save the post office" crusade. The way he sees it, the loss of a place to meet friends is pretty much compensated for by the advantage of a street-corner box where you can mail and pick up your letters 24 hours a day.

In fact, one of the few champions of the local post office is a postal officer whose intelligence-gathering last week might well result in the Emma office being closed down.

If that happens—and the decision will be made in Ashland and Charleston, not locally, he notes—it will be for economic reasons Les Nelson hopes the public will understand. For a quarter of the annual salary of a postmaster, he explains, the postal service can install a neighborhood lock box capable of serving 100 people.

It would be set where most people say they want it. It would be free of charge to customers. It is capable of handling all the services a local post office provides, from selling stamps and money orders to insuring packages and sending a certified letter. And installing it would be a one-time cost. "People have to understand we have a responsibility to keep costs down," Nelson explained.

But the postal official was also at pains to say no decision has been made about the future of the Emma post office and that his sampling of customer opinion there last week was a purely routine procedure the postal service goes through whenever a postmaster steps down. "It's just federal law that we go through certain steps—A, B, C—when someone retires," he said.

If it does close, the Emma post office will be replaced with something better, said Nelson, but better only "in mechanical terms."

"You can never improve on that lady behind the counter," he conceded. "I just love her."

Frank Leslie says amen to that. A former Floyd sheriff and Bonnie Walters' twin, Leslie lives across the Big Sandy on Cow Creek. But, if his mail service is not at stake, a slice of his history is.

The Emma post office has been around almost as long as the village of Emma itself, which grew alongside the C & O railroad soon after the turn of the century. The post office was established on August 26, 1908, according to Robert M. Rennie's Kentucky Place Names, first alongside the railroad siding and at its present location since about 1937.

Long-time postmaster Bertha Weddington told Rennie the place was named by the late Congressman John W. Langley for his wife, though others—including Bonnie Walters—think it honors the wife of Ruben Taylor, a prominent real estate dealer.

In any event, it was once home to workers in three mines and to railroad employees as well as to the family of L. C. Leslie, a teacher in the local two-teacher school. For those families, notes L. C.'s son Frank, the Emma post office is not just a place to buy stamps and mail letters; it is an element of the history that has shaped them.

Will he miss it? "You know I will. It's been there ever since I've been here. A lot of us cut our teeth on the Emma post office," said Leslie. "It brings tears to your eyes."

In other business, council gave guarded approval to the purchase of a new street sweeper. The new machine, which will cost $68,000 after a $30,000 trade-in on the old sweeper, will be purchased if it appears to fill the city's needs after a trial period of several days.

Councilman Tackett may have kept the city out of hot water when he reminded Mayor Latta that a state of emergency must be declared before the city could make the purchase without taking bids from other suppliers. An emergency was declared after a motion to do so was made by Porter and seconded by Goebel.

Council voted unanimously for passage of a budget amendment. The amendment was designed to reflect revenue in excess of what Evans had predicted when making out the budget for the current fiscal year. Evans said he had been aware the excess revenue would be available when he prepared the budget, adding that he is usually conservative when preparing the city's budget.

Much of the additional revenue came from an increase in occupational and business licenses, and from the sale of a city garbage truck.

Harry and Hattie Fain, of Wheelwright, are his paternal grandparents and Ida Slone Pritchard, of Dwale, is his maternal grandmother.

Beattyville Man Wins $600 Claim

It took him five trips to small claims court here but a Beattyville teacher finally won a $600 claim Monday against a Martin entrepreneur.

In a suit first filed in April last year, Samuel Edward Watkins claimed the money was owed him by Samuel Martin, III as the result of an oil-well investment that "went bad."

Watkins was one of several investors brought together by Martin to finance the drilling operation, sinking $2450 into the venture. As an inducement to invest, Watkins said, Martin guaranteed 75 percent of his investment, less any money he made off the well and any taxes he saved.

That worked out to be $1400, of which Martin had only paid him $800, said Watkins, who, as is customary in small claims cases, was not represented by an attorney.

Martin, who was represented by counsel, claimed that Watkins' investment was not guaranteed, even in part, at the time of the contract and that he had only agreed to return some of the investment later, after he learned that Watkins was out of a job and his wife was having a baby.

Watkins produced a June 29, 1983 letter, however, in which Martin referred to the 75 percent guarantee given "when we bought the share."

Special Judge Bayard V. Collier found in favor of the plaintiff, ordering Martin to pay Watkins $600 and also to pay court costs.

Collier, a Pike district judge, was named to hear the case in place of Floyd District Judge Harold Stumbo, who stepped down because of a distant relationship to the defendant and because the plaintiff had expressed doubts about whether he could get a fair trial.

Watkins filed a complaint last September with the consumer protection division of the state Attorney-General's Department, claiming that his case had been continued four times.

Biblical Signs Galore

By WILMAY

Second Coming signs are abundant. Reading the context references herein will help any interested. First, Jesus will return in midair FOR the church, his bride. Next, is the tribulation at whose close he comes again WITH the saints from heaven. I Thes. 4:14-17, Acts 1:9, John 6:62 and 20:17; Mk. 16:19. The rapture, a coined word, is called by various names. The last column gave two signs of Jesus' return. Others follow. This mark / signifies the end of each biblical quotation. Parenthesis enclose supplementary references. Slight repetition weekly is for new readers.

Sign No. 3. Mt. 24:5, 23. For many shall come in my name saying I am Christ and shall deceive many./ Counterfeit Messiahs are becoming more frequent in many lands.

Sign No. 4. I Peter 2:1. But there were false prophets among the people, even as there shall be false teachers among you, who shall bring in damnable heresies./ (Mt. 24:11) False teachers and clergy now abound. Jim Jones was one example. If in doubt, test every statement by God's Word. Typical unorthodoxy in foremost denominations today is the fact that innumerable leaders in my faith and other prominent ones claim Christ was not born of a virgin. Scripture proves Mary was a virgin, and Jesus deity. If she was not we have no Savior. Such falsehoods should be vigorously rejected.

No. 5. Mt. 24:14. And this gospel shall be preached in all the world for a witness in all nations, and then shall the end come./ Before radio, T.V., the satellites, you name it, high tech with all its extraordinary appurtenances, would any doubter have believed Rev. 1:7 or 11:3? Note the word SEE in those passages.

No. 6. Daniel 12:4. But then, O Daniel, shut up the words and seal the book, even to the time of the end. Many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased./ Travel is the most prolific in all history, millions flying to and fro daily. Each new mode of travel increases speed amazingly.

Isn't knowledge today advancing at roller-coaster rate in most categories? Its progress has been explosive during the past four to five decades. It is said that total learning achievements since the beginning of time are minuscule in comparison with present ones. Daniel says the end will come at just such a period.

No. 7. II Tim. 3:1. This known also that in the last days perilous times shall come./ Yes, they have come at intervals but never like current ones. Is the prevalence of fear not confined to probable nuclear calamities? Are people and property safer now, or is wickedness mounting? Is corruption in governments across the world worse or is that improving? When Jesus comes back times will be dangerous. II Tim. 3:13. But evil men and seducers shall wax worse and worse, deceiving and being deceived./ the word DECEIVE will have a big function in closing years. Watch the MidEast.

No. 8. Luke 2:11. And great earthquakes shall be in divers places, famines, and pestilences, fearful sights and great signs shall there be from heaven./ Note the word DIVERS. Seismographers report quakes regularly, saying minor ones occur daily in myriad places. Some forecasts include two of extensive magnitude in the U.S. because colossal faults exist, one on the West coast and one in the Central part near us. Some shifting has already been noted. Unique and expected changes in weather and seasons are taking place.

Pestilences like herpes and aids are gaining, creating problems. Less common ones are dengue, Lyme Disease, and borrelia.

Yes, the good Lord's timetable is ticking away. Thousands know nothing of Biblical prophecy which is being fulfilled right before our eyes, faster than multitudes realize. What a blessing that many men—the majority living centuries apart and never laying eyes on each other—heard and obeyed God's call to "Take up thy pen and write." This alone should impress believers and unbelievers, for that marvelous book, the Bible, remains the best seller in almost every nation on earth, despite the fact that renowned infidels predicted it would be destroyed!

Drunk Drivers Cause Child Passenger Deaths

A recent interview of one state's traffic accident data revealed that the largest proportion of children's car accident deaths related to drunk drivers were child passengers, not child pedestrians, contrary to what the public might think.

The findings, published in the June issue of Pediatrics, the journal of the American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP), prompted the North Carolina researchers who conducted the study to suggest that, in addition to more stringent alcohol control legislation, health care providers should admonish and teach parents about the deadly hazards of drinking and driving to their children.

Motor vehicle crashes, the leading cause of death for children 1-15 years old, accounted for 3,600 deaths in 1982. The researchers estimate that more than 30,000 children are injured yearly in alcohol-related crashes.

The study looked at a four-year period (1972-1982) preceding the adoption of a law in North Carolina that raised the drinking age and included stiffer penalties for drunk driving. Fifty-six percent of the alcohol-related deaths involved child passengers in cars where their own driver had been drinking; 23 percent were children in multiple-vehicle crashes where the other driver had been drinking.

ATF Warns of Hazard Of Bootleg Fireworks

For over 200 years, Americans have been celebrating the 4th of July by watching brilliant designs in the night sky and listening to the artificial thunder of explosions. Stephen E. Higgins, Director of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms (ATF) cautions you to ensure that your holiday is a time of fun, not a day of tragedy. "Playing with illegal fireworks is literally like playing with dynamite," said Director Higgins.

ATF is the federal agency charged with enforcing federal explosives laws. Under these laws, certain classes of fireworks are treated as explosives and are regulated by ATF. Common or "Class C" fireworks are not subject to ATF jurisdiction, although they are covered by state and local ordinances. Some common fireworks are Chinese firecrackers, Roman candles, sparklers and snakes. Special or "Class B" fireworks are the kind generally used in professionally produced fireworks displays and are subject to the provisions of the federal explosives laws administered by ATF.

Illegal fireworks are not firecrackers but are classified as explosive devices. Some of the common names given illegal fireworks are M-80's or ash cans; silver salutes and hammerheads; cherry bombs; M-100's; and M-1000's to mention just a few of them. Director Higgins said, "Due to the lack of quality control, illegally manufactured explosive devices are extremely unsafe and account for numerous accidental injuries and property damage." The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission estimates that 10,000 persons were injured last year by fireworks.

Beginning in June and climaxing with the 4th of July the number of incidents involving illegal explosive devices steadily increases. These incidents are categorized into two types—the tragic and the criminal. Tragic incidents involve illegal explosive devices, like M-80's, that result in headlines such as "youth killed by blast in Illinois." The criminal incidents involve the blackmarket industry which illegally manufactures and sells explosives.

"The 'bootlegger' has little concern for the public's safety," Higgins said. "He is only interested in making a profit." The clandestine factories that manufacture M-80's are located in houses, garages, trailers and commercial buildings. The explosive powders and chemicals used in making the illegal fireworks are particular, sensitive to heat, shock, friction, and in some instances, moisture. Extreme caution should be used by anyone who discovers illegal explosive devices.

The person who manufactures illegal explosive devices faces severe criminal penalties, up to a fine of $10,000 and/or a 10-year prison sentence.

ATF has for several years fought a running battle with clandestine manufacturers of M-80's and other illegal fireworks. From 1979 to the present, ATF responded to 27 explosions at illegal fireworks manufacturing sites in which 47 people were killed, 83 injured and property damage was in excess of $16 million dollars. Since 1979, ATF has initiated over 100 investigations of illegal fireworks manufacturing and distribution.

In 1984, ATF initiated an Illegal Explosives Interdiction Program to deal with the manufacture, transportation and the sale of M-80 devices and the criminals involved. Last year, 11 district offices were selected to participate in the Program. These districts were: Birmingham, Charlotte, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Houston, Kansas City, Nashville, New York, Philadelphia and St. Louis. So far, the ATF Interdiction Program has perfected 13 criminal cases involving 47 subjects. Director Higgins said, "The success of the Interdiction Program has significantly enhanced the public's safety by the seizure of thousands of illegal explosives devices before they could cause death and injury to the purchaser."

Women Miners Meeting Hears Feminist Issues

They came from eleven states, Great Britain, and South Africa last weekend to show solidarity and promote "sisterhood."

It was the Eighth Annual Conference of Women Miners, held last Friday through Sunday at Paintsville's Heart 'O Highlands motel. Sponsored by the Coal Employment Project and the Coal Mining Women's Support Team of Eastern Kentucky, it was the first such conference to be held in eastern Kentucky.

Though the gathering was comprised mostly of working women miners, speakers at the event included such luminaries as Sallie Bingham, a member of the family which recently sold the Louisville Courier-Journal; United Mine Workers of America International Representative Nomonde Ngubo, of South Africa, and a quartet of British miners' wives.

As could be expected, the conference had a decidedly political and feminist overcast, with speakers calling for women miners to unite in making their concerns heard by the UMWA leadership.

Conference Co-Chair Joyce Goble, a native eastern Kentuckian, related an example of discrimination against women in the mines. While a shower is provided for male miners, similar facilities are not provided for women, she said. "I'm going on my 12th year, and I am yet to bathe except at home."

Another eastern Kentuckian, Dorothy Vanover, of Harlan, said she had been a miner for over 10 years. "There were a lot of problems at first," she said. "There was a prejudice against women in general. Everyone said, 'You have no business in the mines.'"

She said one of the biggest hurdles was overcoming the prejudice of other women. "The wives were very, very jealous," she said. "We're about 20 years behind times in Harlan. People still believe women should be barefoot, pregnant and in the home."

Conferences such as this help "make me more aware of the issues," she said. "We learn more about our roles as women."

Miss Ngubo illustrated the miners' struggles on a larger scale. She said the recent strike at the A.T. Massey Coal Company's operations in this area was "only an example of what is going on in the U.S."

Miss Ngubo said apartheid in her country made for "slave labor" in mines there, allowing South Africa to undersell American coal by $20 per ton. Thirty-four percent of all coal mined in South Africa is sold to the United States, with the result that American miners lose jobs, she said.

She said the UMWA is now involved in a boycott against one of the major stockholders in A.T. Massey, Royal Dutch Shell, parent company of Shell Oil. Royal Dutch Shell is one of the largest mining interests in South Africa.

Though boycotting Shell and South African coal could bring hardship on South African miners, Miss Ngubo said, "We have suffered so much, we can suffer a little more for equality."

The other keynote speaker, Sallie Bingham, is the founder of the Kentucky Foundation for Women, which is designed to promote social change, especially through the arts. Bingham told the women miners that 70 percent of the money she will receive from the sale of the Courier-Journal—about $8,000,000—will go directly to that fund. That money will generate about $600,000 yearly for the group.

Bingham repeatedly alluded to the differences between herself and her audience, saying once that she was a representative of "the most rarified species on earth, the rich, white, upper-class—as peculiar and as rare as the dodo bird, and just as doomed." But she said she and the audience shared common bonds.

"When I got in that fight with the Bingham men, I was just taking what was mine," she said. Women coal miners must do the same to get jobs and benefits equal to those of their male counterparts, she said.

A group having perhaps more in common with the women miners was a group of four British miners' wives. All members of a group called "Women Against Pit Closures," the women said closure of a British pit—their term for mine—could mean the loss of as many as 10,000 jobs.

The wives agreed they did not want to see a change in the operational structure of the government-run British mines. Selling the mines to private interests would result in competition for higher profits, with less benefit to the miners, they said.

The miners' wives said they were against nuclear energy, not only for its potential hazards, but also because it eliminated the need for coal miners.

A floral arrangement of pink and mauve flowers, with silver candelabra, holding matching candles, furnished the table decorations. Refreshments appropriate for the occasion were served. Gifts of crystal, silver, china, linens and other miscellaneous items were displayed and a large number of friends and relatives called throughout the evening.

JACKIE EDFORD OWENS MAGISTRATE, DISTRICT 2

After reading last week's Floyd County Times, I saw where Paul Hunt Thompson, a former candidate for sheriff, made the statement that I was a "Misinformed Magistrate, a liar, or both." He alleged that I made the statement that he had been out arresting people as a County Detective. I did not say a word about him being out arresting anybody. In fact, at the last Fiscal Court meeting I asked County Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo to tell me how many paid County Detectives we had before we voted to rehire the county workers. He told me two. I asked him how many unpaid County Detectives we had and he said 3 or 4. I asked Mr. Stumbo if Bob Hackworth, Jr., was a County Detective since he was the only man that could appoint them and he said yes. I reminded the Judge that when they first hired the County Detectives, he said they would be used for mine theft investigations and things like that and they wouldn't be out Sheriffing people, but a large amount of complaints coming to me from people in my District said that they were being arrested by the County Detectives for public drunkenness and things like that—things that should be left up to the Sheriff's Department. I don't think the Fiscal Court should be involved in law enforcement. It never has been. That's why the people of Floyd County elected a Sheriff.

Back to Mr. Thompson—I asked the Judge if Paul Hunt Thompson was a County Detective at the meeting. He said yes. That was all that was said—period—about Paul Hunt Thompson. Either you have been "MISINFORMED," Mr. Thompson, or you are a "LIAR" or "BOTH." This is the same thing you said about me.

(TEL-COM filmed this meeting—If you have any questions—get a copy of the film.)

Plastic Surgeon To Practice at HRMC

Brad C. Roberg, M.D., will begin his practice of plastic surgery at Highlands Regional Medical Center on July 11.

What do Betty Ford, Phyllis Diller and Michael Jackson have in common? They've all used plastic surgery to improve their appearance. In the past this surgical specialty was available only to people in urban areas, but in July plastic surgery will be available at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Brad C. Roberg, M.D. will begin his practice of plastic surgery on July 11. His office will be located in the Medical Office Suite in the hospital.

"We feel the addition of Dr. Roberg provides a valuable new specialty for the people of eastern Kentucky," said Clarence Traum, HRMC Administrator.

"Dr. Roberg will play an important role in the new Breast Center," added Traum. "Now, in addition to the comprehensive educational program we will offer in the Breast Center, reconstructive surgery will be available for mastectomy patients."

Because his specialty is new to this area Dr. Roberg has prepared a list of answers to the most common questions asked about plastic surgery.

Q. What is Plastic Surgery?

A. Plastic Surgery is a specialty of medicine that seeks to heal and restore patients with injury, disfigurement or scarring which has resulted from accidents, disease or birth defects. It also includes aesthetic (cosmetic) surgery to correct or reconstruct facial and bodily features not pleasing to the patient. The word "plastic" is derived from the Greek word plastikos, which means molding or giving form and does not refer to the synthetic plastic materials which are sometimes used.

Q. What type of cases are treated by a plastic surgeon?

A. A plastic surgeon treats cosmetic problems of the face, neck and trunk, birth deformities of the hands and the face, clefts of lip and palate, birth defects of the genitalia, tumors of the head, neck, skin, and soft tissues, injuries of any part of the body, burns and the correction of resulting scars and deformities, skin cover and replacement problems (unstable scars and chronic ulcers), and reconstruction following disfiguring or deforming cancer surgery of the face, jaws, breasts or other areas.

Q. What are some common purposes of aesthetic surgery?

A. Aesthetic surgery, popularly known as cosmetic surgery, seeks to improve an individual's appearance. While the operations may not be necessary for physical health or safety, they may benefit the patient emotionally and psychologically, as well as aesthetically. The operations usually involve the nose, ears, face, eyelids, breasts, abdomen, and loose skin folds of the thighs.

Q. What types of hand surgery do plastic surgeons perform?

A. Plastic surgeons are trained to treat birth defects involving the hands, a full spectrum of hand trauma—from tendon or nerve injuries to fractures—and various degenerative hand problems including those caused by arthritis or tumors.

Dr. Roberg is a graduate of Rush Medical College in Chicago. He completed his internship at the University of California and his residency in plastic surgery at the University of Texas. He was an instructor in general surgery at Rush Presbyterian St. Luke's Medical Center in Chicago. He was also an instructor in plastic surgery at the University of Texas.

Appointments with Dr. Roberg can be made by calling Highlands Regional Medical Center (886-8511 or 789-6548) ext. 580.

Special financial arrangements can be made through the hospital for cosmetic procedures not covered by insurance.

Safety First For July 4th

Parades, picnics and fireworks displays are Fourth of July traditions enjoyed by most Americans. Another, often overlooked tradition, comes in the aftermath of the holiday—those news stories about people blinded or maimed by fireworks.

The Kentucky Society to Prevent Blindness reports that in 1985, an estimated 10,265 people required hospital emergency room treatment.

"Fireworks are not toys," cautions Ed Holloway, President of the Kentucky Society. "We need to keep fireworks out of the hands of young people."

Last year the American Academy of Ophthalmology, an organization of eye care physicians, reported the largest number of fireworks related eye injuries during a single day, 659. In more than 40 percent, fireworks caused permanent eye damage.

The Society's Kentucky affiliate recommends the following guidelines to protect your family:

Don't allow children to shoot rocket-type fireworks or to play with children who do. Bystanders suffered 25 percent of all eye injuries last year. More eye injuries were caused by small missiles known as bottle-rockets, which are legal in about half of the state, than any other type of fireworks.

Make it a family plan to attend a public display instead of setting off fireworks at home.

Make it a stringent family rule that fireworks should never be treated as toys.

To enjoy the celebration, make eye injury prevention a family project for this Fourth of July.

"Parents is a very important profession; but no test of fitness for it is ever imposed in the interest of the children."
George Bernard Shaw

Honor Student

Chris Kidd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Miles Kidd, of Honaker, graduated from Betsy Layne Elementary School with a 4.0 yearly average. He received his diploma, a 4.0 certificate, a perfect attendance certificate, and a silver dollar from his homeroom teacher, Mrs. Lois D. Tackett.

He is also a member of the band and won individual honors at the Pikeville Band Concert and in the All-County Band Concert, here.

D.A.V. Representative Will Be Here July 5th

The Disabled American Veterans State Service officer, Eugene Akers, will be at the Prestonsburg courthouse district courtroom, July 5, and at the Betsy Layne Grade School, July 12, from 10-4.

Veterans must bring certified copy of their discharge, marriage certificate and birth certificate of children. Widow's also need to present a certified death certificate.

Host Families Sought For Foreign Students

Host Families are being sought for 25 high school students from Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Finland, Holland, Belgium, Switzerland, Germany, France, Italy, Brazil, Equador and Australia for the school year 1986-87, in a program sponsored by the American Intercultural Student Exchange (AISE).

The students, age 15 through 17, will arrive in the United States in August, attend the local high school, and return to their home country in June, 1987. All are fluent in English, have been screened by their school representatives in their home countries, and have spending money and medical insurance.

Host families may deduct $50 per month for income tax purposes.

300 Senior Athletes On Hand For Games

Almost 300 athletes gathered at Dewey Dam last Friday to compete in the first annual Senior Games.

A host of officials was on hand to open the games. Along with Jenny Wiley State Park Director, Leon Russell and state Park Commissioner June Hudson, Floyd Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo and Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta welcomed the participants.

Stumbo said he hoped the games would become an annual event. Latta echoed the judge's comments, saying, "Prestonsburg is very proud to be part of the senior games." She cautioned participants not to overdo it. "All the great athletes take care of themselves," she said.

That was good advice, as the temperature soared into the 90's, and humidity saturated the air. More than one participant said they wished the event could have been held during the fall or late spring, when the weather would be more congenial.

While most of the almost 300 present did compete, some were content as spectators. Such was the case for Virgil and Nancy Webb. Mr. and Mrs. Webb ate a picnic lunch while cheering on competitors in the walking relay event, who were passing at intervals by their picnic table.

Raleigh Rice, 85, of Highland Terrace, spent a good part of the afternoon watching checker and card play in one of the park's pavilions. Rice said, while he didn't plan to compete, he did enjoy the outing.

One who did compete, Hershel Shell, of Prestonsburg, said he "did pretty good" in spin casting, though he wasn't so sure about his performance in horseshoe pitching. "They've got some pretty good horseshoe players over there," he said.

Musical entertainment was provided by Prestonsburg's Festival String Band. Their bluegrass renditions were met with tapping toes, clapping hands and even a few hardy souls who got up to dance.

Prestonsburg Fire Chief Tom Blackburn and several members of Squad 6, the fire department's emergency medical unit, were on hand in case anyone over-exerted themselves. Highlands Regional Medical Center provided two registered nurses and lab director Don Hicks to administer free blood pressure and blood sugar checks.

A hospital spokesperson said that while there were "two or three" mild cases of heat exhaustion, no emergencies presented themselves.

Day's end saw the following winners in the various events:

A CHAMPIONSHIP SWING—Duran Newsome takes a swing during Friday's Babe Ruth action. Before that day's games Newsome was hitting .483.

Babe Ruth All Stars Set For Action

Rosters for the 1986 edition of the Floyd County Babe Ruth All Stars have been selected and the district tournaments set as this baseball youth league begins its second season across the state.

After enjoying a successful local season, youngsters across Kentucky will take their baseball talents on tour in hopes of a state championship which almost came true for local All Stars last year.

The 15-year-old All Star edition of a season ago were impressive in their flight through Eastern Kentucky before falling short in a state championship bid. However, with 12 of that squad's players returning, Coach Ellis Spurlock and company may be within reach of becoming the Bluegrass State's best.

This talented group will begin this year's championship conquest Monday with a 6:30 contest against Johnson County at Central Park.

The site and competition will be the same for Harold Case and his 14-year-old All Stars but this team won't be in a double elimination format likened to that of fellow Floyd County competitors.

The 14-year-old squad will take on Johnson county in a series similar to the Major League playoffs. The local All Stars will begin play July 14 at 4:00 and conclude the following day.

Floyd and Johnson county are the only two 14-year-old All Star teams in this particular district which led to the forced playoff series.

Before either of these teams take to the district tournament field the 13-year-old team will already have completed their play in Hazard.

The younger All Stars, under the watchful eye of Paul Douglas Gearheart, will open Floyd County action Friday when they take on Carr Fork at 5.

All tournaments are double elimination and the winners will earn a trip to Ashland and the regional tournament.

Floyd Co. Babe Ruth

Floyd County Babe Ruth finished up their season's play with Betsy Layne 13-0; Martin Cardinals 10-5; Martin Pirahans 8-5; Garrett Pirates 6-9; Prestonsburg 6-9; McDowell 0-15.

Short Sports

In accordance to Ted Turner's search for global peace the Goodwill Games will begin July 5 and continue thru July 20.

The Goodwill Games, which will take on a similar Olympic format, will be held this summer in Moscow before making its next appearance in Seattle, Washington in 1990.

The games will consist of more than 3,500 athletes from 50 countries. The worldwide athletic gathering will compete for a total of 175 gold medals in 18 sports.

This initial encounter will mark the first meeting of America and Russian athletes as a whole since the 1976 Montreal Olympics.

The Goodwill Games will be aired by Turner Broadcasting Network and along with the 10th men's World Basketball Championships will produce a total of 192 broadcast hours on Superstation WTBS.

Softball and fireworks will highlight this weekend at Archer Park as the 16th annual Fourth of July Softball tournament will be held July 3 thru July 6.

The tournament which is, according to league commissioner Bill Ray Collins, the biggest and oldest of its kind in Eastern Kentucky, will feature 20 teams from the tri-state area, including squads from Miami and Sidney, Ohio.

Not only will softball fireworks be abundant, but Archer Park will also be the site of a $2,500 Friday night explosion.

Former New York Met and Cincinnati Red pitcher Tom Seaver has been traded from the Chicago White Sox to the Boston Red Sox for outfielder Steve Lyons.

Seavers had posted a 2-6 record for the White Sox while Steve Lyons was hitting at a .250 clip.

The veteran righthander boasts a career 306 victories and is expected to move directly into the Red Sox starting rotation where he will join 23-year-old sensation Roger Clemmons and the ever popular Oil Can Boyd.

Clemmons is an early MVP and Cy Young candidate after a 14-0 start, one of the major reasons why Boston has a comfortable lead in the American League, East.

Don Rogers, a defensive back for the National Football League Cleveland Browns, died this past weekend from use of drugs according to reports.

Rogers became the second wellknown athlete to die in the past 10 days from direct use of a controlled substance.

Former Maryland basketball star Len Bias also met with an untimely death recently from what doctors termed as cocaine intoxication.

• More than 800 celebrities joined Hands Across America, including Bill Cosby, Lily Tomlin, Pete Rose and Kenny Rogers.

Rebels Making Strides in League Play

Roger Horne scored a combined 45 points and Ronnie Ousley added 35 as the Allen Central Rebels split their two games in summer league action last Tuesday.

Horne, whose 28 points per game average was the league's best, tossed in 22 while Ousley scored 17 in the Rebels opening loss to Bryan Station, 77-68.

Although Allen Central fell short to a physically stronger Bryan Station team, Coach Johnny Martin liked what he saw from his Rebel players.

"Bryan Station was a good team," Coach Martin said. "We led them for three quarters, but they wore us down. They were a lot bigger and stronger, and I think we got kind of tired."

Before summer league action began, Coach Martin was hoping for the emergence of stronger guard play from juniors-to-be, Darrin Conn and Robbie Click. Both Conn and Click tried their hand at point guard last season and according to their Rebel coach the guard duo produced impressive play Tuesday night.

"I thought the Bryan Station game was one of our better games," Coach Martin said. "Robbie Click and Darrin Conn both played well. Their defense was excellent and they played an overall good floor game. They complemented the other three players real well."

After the Bryan Station loss, the Rebels bounced back with a 67-59 victory over Louisville Southwest.

Roger Horne once again paced Allen Central with 23 points while Ronnie Ousley scored a total of 18. Rebel power forward Stanton Bentley added nine points in the winning effort, after scoring 11 in Tuesday's first game.

Allen Central will continue summer league action Tuesday July 8 with a regular season game then conclude this summer's basketball play in a single elimination tournament to be held during next Tuesday's second game and action held July 15.

The Sporting Times

Who said journalism isn't a profitable way of making a living? Believe it or not, several people have told me the exact thing, but in the past couple of weeks, key turn of events have proven them wrong.

I have been in this business just under a year, and here I am working with and for Eastern Kentucky's biggest and best print media outlet.

This is the numero uno opportunity available for a young journalist but the most important thing for me is the realization of all Floyd countians who will be introduced to our outstanding high school and amateur athletes.

It is one thing to be in a newspaper but with several thousand people following your athletic progress and accomplishments, the idea takes on a totally different meaning.

Where sports is concerned, Floyd county takes a back seat to no one, and with that fact in mind, our goal has become clear. If you have the best athletes playing in the best programs then somewhere you should have the best sports coverage.

That is where we come in, the Floyd County Times sports section. This section will include unbiased high school coverage, softball, summer league baseball and basketball, plus various national items of interest and an opinion column.

The national articles will appear in a column entitled 'Short Sports' which will contain various MLB reports, major tennis tournaments, college and professional football plus a host of other interesting tidbits from the world of sports.

Our opinion column, which you are reading now, will take a stand on various arguable issues while praising those who deserve being praised but otherwise wouldn't receive the recognition.

This section of athletic news will also include varying people features such as this week's article on Martin, Kentucky's own driving demon, Bat Bartrum.

Sports is strictly for fan and competitor enjoyment, and only those who try to destroy it suffer. My job, if successful, will promote athletes more than those few can demote them.

I take great pride in Floyd countians and working for this particular paper has already been the highlight of my sportswriting career. The excitement of the huge audience combined with the obvious talents and professionalism of this staff should make for the best sports section in Eastern Kentucky, so be a part of it.

Little League Play Scheduled At Allen

Allen Park will be the scene of this year's Little League District Tournament set to begin July 7.

The double-elimination tourney will feature teams from the four-county area, including four all-star teams from Floyd county.

Harold-Allen-Prater will serve as hosts of this year's event while All Stars from Prestonsburg will open Floyd county action Monday in a scheduled 5:30 start.

The tourney will feature teams from the Beaver Creek, Wheelwright, Harold-Allen-Prater, and Prestonsburg little leagues together with all-star squads from Martin, Magoffin, and Johnson counties.

Senior Little League All-Stars will also be in district competitions being held this week in Martin county.

Both the 13- and 14-15-year-old All Stars will begin action Tuesday, going up against Magoffin county.

The 13-year-old squad is scheduled to see its first action beginning at 5 p.m. while the 14-15-year-olds take the field 20 minutes after the conclusion of the first game.

The tournament will conclude July 14, barring rain and is also double-elimination.

Predicted Muskie Boom Comes True

Predictions about a muskie fishing "boom" at Green River Lake have apparently come true.

Last November, fishery biologists with the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources predicted that muskellunge stockings in this South-Central Kentucky impoundment were about to pay off, and that this year fishermen would start catching keeper muskie in good numbers.

Confirmation of this prediction comes from Owen Chelf, editor of the Kentucky Silver Muskie Club's publication, The "Muskie Line." Chelf reported in a letter to the fish and wildlife department that a recently conducted tournament at Green was "great."

"Fifty-two people registered to fish and 11 legal-size fish were caught" during the May 31-June 1 tournament Chelf said.

"That's twice the average for northern muskie tournaments and twice the catch ratio at Cave Run," Chelf added. Cave Run Lake, near Morehead, has been stocked with muskies since 1974 and has developed into one of the country's leading muskie lakes.

To a bass or crappie angler, 11 fish among 52 fishermen may not sound too impressive, but to those who cast for muskie these results are something to write about. A dedicated muskie angler considers a fishing trip a success if he sees a muskie or gets a strike. Actually catching one of these giant battlers is an occasion for celebration and photographs.

In this context, when Chelf reports that "Lonnie Davis of Campbellsville and his young son told me that they saw 17 fish the day of the tournament and a number of boats raised 12 and 14," it was truly a great day of muskie fishing.

Chelf reported that, unlike in Cave Run Lake, the fish were not around standing timber. Rather, the muskie were near trees that had fallen into the water.

Betsy Layne Astros End Season Undefeated

The Betsy Layne Astros finished their season with a bang this past week with a doubleheader sweep over the P'burg A's and the McDowell Angels. The first game was a 6 to 0 shutout pitched by Duran Newsome, a three-hitter making Duran undefeated on the season with a record of 7 wins 0 losses.

The second game against the McDowell Angels was a blowout by the Astros, 21 to 2, with a fine game pitched by 13-year-old Adam Gearheart. There were four home runs in the game, two by Kevin Spurlock and two by Big Brad Hall. One of Kevin Spurlock's was a grand slammer. The Astros finished the season undefeated at 13 and 0. They had six boys in their lineup who batted over 500 on the season, they were Kevin Spurlock, Duran Newsome, Barry Hamilton, Keith Hall, Brad Hall and Aaron Flanery. They also had very good hitting out of Cotton Parsons and Brian Osborne and very respectable hitting from 13-year-olds Adam Gearheart, Chad Hamilton, Danny Page, Keith Mulkey and Craig Hunter, with a strong finish and very good support from Vince Parsons and Kevin Parsons.

Bartrum Rapidly Becoming Dominating Force

Bjorn Borg, before his retirement in 1983, stood as the unequalled tennis figure for over six years, and during the past three NBA seasons, Larry Bird has been recognized as that league's most valuable player.

These names represent only two of the many athletes that have dominated their respective sports, and through tremendous athletic and mental abilities have become household names throughout the world.

As sports fans around the globe closely follow the progress of a great athlete, many tend to forget those sports figures closer to home who enjoy tremendous success in what may be termed a lesser sport.

Dirt track auto racing has taken a back seat to the 'big three' sports, but as a dominating force in his field, Floyd county's Bat Bartrum is a lap or two ahead of his driving competition.

Although Bartrum will never play in a Wimbledon final or win an NBA championship, when this Martin driver combines his skills with the power of his 1986 I-Roc Z the results are those of a true champion.

In just over a year of racing, Bartrum and the 65 racing ream has won a total of 21 Hobby Stock feature races, 11 of which have come this season. "We won 10 races last season and have already won one more than that this year," Bartrum said. "I guess I've improved, because at the first of last year people hated to see me run because I wrecked so much."

He earned a total of $4,500 last season while already receiving $3,000 in total winnings in this young racing season, but Bartrum is quick to point out that dirt track racing isn't exactly a money-making adventure.

"You never really make any money at it," the second-year racer said. "Last Saturday I won $400 but I spent $300 on tires and things like that."

Of Bartrum's 11 wins, six have come at the Salyersville Speedway where he says that the track is smooth to run on. The impressive fact about this is that Bartrum has raced only six times at that particular track.

With man and machine working as one, this Floyd county connection hasn't lost a race in which they have finished but with all of this success, what does the future hold for Bartrum and crew?

"We're thinking about moving up," Bartrum revealed. "The guys want to move up to NDRA but I don't know when that will happen."

GETTING READY—Greg Shepherd rips away during recent softball action. All players are getting ready for the Archer Park 4th of July Tourney.

Basketball Camp Trophy Winners

David Martin

Brian Wallace

Prestonsburg High School was well represented at the Blue Chip Basketball Camp held at Northern Kentucky University June 15-20.

Competing with more than 450 boys who attended the camp from 35 states, David Martin, senior Blackcat center, and Brian Wallace, senior guard for the Blackcats, won first place trophies in their division of the Hot Shot Tournament. Wallace and Martin came in second and third in overall competition.

Martin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Martin, of Stratton Branch, and Wallace is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wallace, of Sugar Loaf.

Kentucky Afield... Turkey Harvest Up 49 Percent

Kentucky hunters bagged 526 wild turkeys during this spring's season, a 49 percent increase over last year's harvest, according to George Wright, the biologist in charge of turkey restoration for the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

Approximately 4,000 hunters participated in the April 16-29 spring hunt, and 13.1 percent of these hunters were successful in bagging a gobbler.

Ten years ago, before the fish and wildlife department began its current wild turkey restoration project, only 24 turkeys were taken in the state. The success rate for the 1976 hunt was 2.6 percent.

Hunters at Land Between the Lakes accounted for over half (272 birds) of the total harvest. The leading open counties were Christian, in Western Kentucky, and Harlan, in the eastern part of the state. Thirty turkeys were reported from each of these two counties.

Wright expects the turkey harvest to increase dramatically for the next several years as more and more counties are opened to hunting. After a county is stocked with turkeys, it is closed to hunting for five years to allow the flock to establish itself and grow. After that time, the county can be opened to limited hunting for gobblers without materially slowing population growth.

Last year, Wright and his crew stocked 259 turkeys in 22 counties throughout the commonwealth. Only three of these sites had existing turkey populations, and the other 19 were in locations where turkeys did not exist before. These new stocking sites were in Carlisle, Fulton, Crittenden, Butler, Edmonson, Nelson, Marion, Larue, Taylor, Green, Breckinridge, Franklin, Monroe, Nicholas, Bell, Clinton, Magoffin, Martin and Boyd counties.

Turkeys are obtained from the wild, either by live-trapping in Kentucky or from other states with established turkey populations. In an unusual wildlife "swap," the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources buys river otters from Louisiana and trades them to Iowa and Missouri for turkeys. Ten to 12 hens and three or four gobblers are released at each stocking site.

Wright says he expects turkey hunting to become increasingly popular in Kentucky as more and more counties are opened to hunting. Turkey hunting takes skill and dedication, but its adherents say there are few outdoor sports more challenging or satisfying.

Outboard Motor Overboard? Get It To a Dealer—Pronto!

I only witnessed it once. A fisherman frustrated from a lack of action sought to start his motor with a strenuous yank—only to find that his motor wasn't secured nor did it carry a retention chain. Yep, kerr plunk! Right into the soup. There's nothing like seeing a man's motor dive overboard and the flurry of language and body gestures that follow!

With some fast and savvy action you can minimize damage to your motor (and billfold!) and restore your motor and ego to normal operation.

Fast action is the key to restoring operation to a submerged outboard motor according to Tom Ireland, manager of field service at Outboard Marine Corp., parent firm of Johnson and Evinrude outboards.

"Assuming it can be recovered after taking the plunge," Ireland says, "our best advice is that you hustle the motor right to a marine dealer. Once the motor is out of the water, you only have about three hours before corrosion can start working on needle bearings and other important parts.

"If you are more than three hours away from a dealer, there are some steps you can take yourself to try to prevent costly damage to the motor," Ireland instructs.

If you happen to be in a remote area and can't go to a dealer for service, follow these steps, which are outlined in the owner's manual shipped with each Johnson and Evinrude outboard. (Didn't keep your manual? Well, neither did I so clip this column out and put it in your tacklebox.)

Step One: Remove the motor cover and flush the exterior of the motor with fresh water to rinse off salt water, mud or sand.

Step Two: Get any water out of the cylinders. Disconnect the spark plug leads and remove the plugs. Place the motor in a horizontal position and rotate the flywheel about 10 times with the starter rope. Then place the motor in its normal, upright position and drain all of the fuel and water out of the carburetor by removing the high-speed orifice screw plugs from the lower sides of the carburetor. This procedure may vary with manufacturer and vintage.

Step Three: The electric starter (if the motor has one) and any other electrical hardware on the motor should be removed, disassembled, cleaned and dried out as much as is possible with the tools and expertise you have at hand.

Step Four: Check the gas tank for water and drain if necessary.

Step Five: Put everything back together and follow normal starting procedures.

"We recommend a 25:1 gas/oil mix for restarting submerged motors if it is available," Ireland says. "This helps to protect the bearings and rings. When the motor starts, allow it to run for at least half an hour on a boat or in a test tank. The best bet is to put it on a boat and run it at normal load. Heat generated by the running motor will evaporate water inside the engine and help dry it out.

"If the motor fails to start, remove the spark plugs and check for water on the electrodes," Ireland advises. "Blow any water off the electrodes and reinstall the plugs or replace them with new ones, and try to start the motor again. If it still won't start, get it to a dealer immediately."

Before you leave for the dealer, Ireland suggests you treat the motor with a fogging oil, such as OMC's Storage Fogging Oil Spray it into the carburetor while cranking the motor to coat internal parts and further protect them from corrosion until repairs may be made.

If the motor was running when it fell overboard, follow the above procedure to get it started. However, if there is any binding when the flywheel is rotated, a connecting rod may have been bent and to avoid further damage no attempt should be made to restart the motor.

If your attempts to start the motor fail and you're still a long distance from a dealer, submerge the motor in fresh water to avoid exposure to atmosphere until you can get it to a mechanic. If the motor was submerged in salt water, even if you do get it restarted, get it to a dealer or mechanic as soon as possible as salt water will cause excessive corrosion of electrical and internal parts.

If the motor was submerged for a long time before you or the divers could reach it and pull it out, check to see if sand or silt may have sifted into the motor before you attempt to start it. This also applies if the motor settled on a soft or mucky bottom. If it looks sandy, don't try to start it. You will only suck the sand into the motor which could cause further damage. Let a mechanic clean it out.

E.K.U. Majorette

Miss Renee Kinzer will enter the Eastern Kentucky University this fall where she will be a majorette and a member of the E.K.U. Marching Band. She is a former Prestonsburg High School majorette, where she served as head choreographer for two years and as captain during her senior year.

She is currently employed with the Smith Walbridge Camp working as a majorette instructor in Indiana, Ohio and Tennessee.

Miss Kinzer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Kinzer, of Allen.

Bassin' with the Pros...

Spring Use of Buzzbaits

In the spring of the year, one of the deadliest bass fishing lures is buzzbait. Buzzbaits are available in two basic categories: safety-pin type or in-line type. Examples for the former are the Clacker, Buzz King, Pistol Pete, Rocker Buzz, Weed Eater, Chatter Buzz, Pro Buzz 3, T's Shaker, and Paddle Whacker. Brands conforming to the latter type include the Hobo, Floyd's Buzzer, Sputterbuzz, Lundahl Buzz Spoon, Musky Hawk, Herb's Dilly, Skitter-Buzz, Uncle Buck's, and Sputterfuss. These lures feature either a double- or triple-winged propeller. The safety-pin type resembles a spinnerbait while the other type resembles a standard spinner.

The buzzbait works half in and half out of the water and its blade or blades give off a gurgling sound on the surface. These lures are very deadly in shallows, murky waters and weedy flats. Some pros tip buzzbaits with plastic worms for additional action. The most favorite weights are between 1/4 and 5/8-ounce.

"I like to use a smaller buzzbait like the 1/8-ounce size or maybe a quarter-ounce," stresses Linda England, Johnson Outboards Pro Staff member. "I like to use the smaller bait in the springtime because I don't feel that fish are quite as active or stable as they are later on in the year. It seems that the smaller buzzbaits draw them up better."

One benefit to using a buzzbait is the amount of area it can cover in a small amount of time. Some anglers use buzzbaits to locate fish, then go in for the sure catch with a worm. This is because buzzbaits are seen by many anglers as a low percentage lure for successful catches.

"One thing that many people do wrong in fishing buzzbaits is that they miss a lot of strikes or lose a lot of fish," England said. "If they can slow that lure down, that's one thing that the fisherman has more control over than anything else to help him catch more fish."

"As with any top-water lure, it (buzzbait) goes across the surface," continues England. "The fish has to locate it, get a fix on it, plan his attack, and then come after it. A lot of times when you're running those baits and real fast, the fish might not have a chance to get a good angle on it. I think that's why a lot of people miss strikes on them. The fish just doesn't have enough time to prepare itself. If you slow that buzzbait down while still keeping it on the surface, you'll catch more fish."

One tip that several pros are eager to reveal is the use of trailer hook, sometimes called a stinger hook. This device rides in piggy-back fashion on the end hook and can be attached to that primary hook by an eyelet or a connecting tube. This trailer is used when fish tend to strike at the lure but regularly miss it. The trailer gives an added piece of insurance to the angler for success. It is important that these hooks are as sharp as possible to insure more catches.

"I usually put a trailer hook on with surgical tubing so it rides upright the same way that the main hook does," instructs Linda England.

As Linda England stressed, lure speed is a critical factor. You should reel in steadily enough to maintain the lure on the surface. Make sure those blades are lifting the lure, and for further lift try a double or twin blade model. The rod tip should be held high at 10 or 11 o'clock so the line will be on the surface and you can set the hook at a moment's notice. Hold the rod too high and you won't be able to effectively hook the fish.

There's a little secret I've used for tuning the blades on the buzzbait. Experiment a little in bending the blades while riding in a car—yes, I said a car! Stick the bait outside the window and see how easily the blades move and how fast. Try and get the blades to move fast with smooth action and your bait has been properly tuned!

Another trick some anglers use is to bend the blade so that it just minimally knocks the shaft, which adds a bit more noise to the lure. Make sure that you don't bend the blade to the point where it affects the spinning speed of the blade or the action of the lure.

Have a question you'd like a bass pro to answer? Jot it down and mail it to "Bassin' with the Pros" at this newspaper. Answers to your questions will appear in a future column.

"We shared our knowledge of where (the fish) live with the fellows who didn't know the water," Chelf said, and as a result "we couldn't keep track of the sub-legal fish caught."

Another indication of the developing muskie fishery at Green is the fact that Raymond Morris, a local angler, recently landed the largest muskie ever caught from Green River Lake. The fish weighed 25 pounds, two ounces and was 46 inches long.

The Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources began stocking muskies in Green River Lake in 1977, but the six-inch fish stocked between then and 1982 didn't survive well. So starting in 1983, the muskies were held in hatchery ponds until they reached 9-12 inches.

This increased stocking size has apparently made a significant difference in survival rates. So last year, the stocking rate was increased from 1,500 to over 8,500 muskies (approximately one per surface acre of water). It takes just over three years for a nine-inch muskie to reach the 30-inch minimum legal size.

Although the muskellunge is associated in the minds of many anglers with the north woods, this fish is a native in many Kentucky Rivers. The current state record (43 pounds) was caught from Dale Hollow Lake, cut Cave Run has been the place to catch muskies in recent years. Annual stockings of one fish per acre there have created and maintained an excellent fishery, biologists say.

With the same stocking rate at Green, it looks like we have another muskie lake that will rival or exceed the best that Minnesota or Canada can offer.

Although some fishermen have expressed concern of the impact muskies might have on other game species, biologists who have investigated the matter thoroughly say that this large fish can co-exist with bass, crappie and bluegill. Green River Lake has a tremendous supply of bait fish, so the competition for food will not hurt the bass fishery, according to Biologist Benjy Kinman. Studies at the lake have shown that the size structure of bass have remained the same since the muskie stockings have accelerated.

If you need only a few drops of lemon juice, prick one end with a fork and squeeze the desired amount. Return the lemon to refrigerator and it will be almost as good as new.

Spa Customers Have Rights, AG Advises

If you are planning to join a health spa this summer, you should be aware of your rights as a consumer. "All health spas conducting business in Kentucky must register with the Consumer Protection Division," said Attorney General David L. Armstrong.

Information such as the name and address of the spa, its officers and directors, and the type of facilities, types and cost of membership plans, etc. is included in the registration. This guards against the spa making misrepresentations concerning the operation and services of the spa, Armstrong said.

Also, every health spa in Kentucky that does not meet exemption requirements is required to post a $50,000 surety bond with the Consumer Protection Division. This bond is held for the benefit of any member who suffers a loss of money paid on a contract entered into after July 15, 1982, due to the failure of the spa to open or the closing of the spa. Spas are exempt from bonding if they have an annual membership fee of less than $100 or a membership enrollment of less than 100 people, or if they furnish to the Consumer Protection Division financial statements establishing sufficient financial responsibility. Also exempt from bonding are spas in operation before April 1, 1982.

Armstrong advises consumers to read the spa contract carefully before signing. It should explain the cost, payment schedule, length of membership and also your right of cancellation within three business days. Information about the three-day cooling off period must appear on all spa contracts.

To assist consumers in making a wiser choice when choosing a spa, Armstrong offers the following suggestions:

- Beware of "one-day specials" and high pressure sales tactics. Do not be pressured into joining a spa. More often than not, the special is extended from day to day.
- Visit several spas and compare costs between facilities.
- Talk to other members to find out if they are satisfied.
- Understand the contract before signing. Never sign if there are any blank spaces.
- Make sure you receive a copy of the contract and receive receipts for all payments made.

-Ask to see a copy of the spa's registration statement.

-Be aware of your three day right of cancellation.

If you have a complaint against a health spa, first contact the manager. If your complaint is not resolved, contact the spa's headquarters or the Office of the Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division, 209 St. Clair St., Frankfort, Ky. 40601 or call the toll-free Consumer Hotline at 1-800-432-9257.

Crop Deadline Nears

Floyd county farmers are reminded to certify their crop acreages by the July 15 deadline.

Participants in the 1986 Feed Grain Program must report in order to receive benefits and avoid liquidated damages. Those persons who have a feed grain base should report in order to insure future benefits and protect acreage bases.

After farmers report their acreages, the ASCS county office is to select farmers at random to verify that acreage reports are accurate.

A representative of ASC will be in Floyd county in the office of the Soil Conservation Service at 105 Court Street each Wednesday to accept applications, phone 886-3128. Also certifications may be accepted at the Hindman office, phone 785-5402.

KBT Award Given At Lexington Meet

Speaker of the Kentucky House of Representatives Donald J. Blandford was presented the Kentuckians for Better Transportation Service Award at a luncheon held in his honor, recently, at the Radisson Hotel in Lexington.

Among those attending to express their organizations' appreciation for his efforts were Burl W. Spurlock, chairman, Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, and president of the First Commonwealth Bank, here, and Jitter Allen, former state representative and present assistant to the Governor.

Representative Greg Stumbo, majority floor leader, of Prestonsburg, was one of six House members presented appreciation awards for their leadership in improving transportation.

FAME

Hylands has his own ideas about what makes good TV

By Lynn Hoogenboom

"It takes just as much time and pain to make something awful as it does to make something good," says Scott Hylands of "Night Heat," the CBS series that airs late Thursday nights.

Scott Hylands

Hylands should know. Although he hails from Canada and has returned there to do "Night Heat" (which is filmed in Toronto), he has spent most of his professional career in the United States, and guest-starred on scores of dramatic series during the 20 years he spent in Los Angeles.

"What makes something good is having a producer who is prepared to be fierce to protect some one person's vision," says Hylands. "The more cooks there are, the longer the odds are that it will be worth watching. The reason 'Night Heat' has a distinct point of view is because we have a driven creative man running it — Sonny Grasso.

"Another reason that 'Night Heat' keeps its batting average reasonably high is that it's made in Toronto," Hylands continues. "It's far away from a lot of the cooks. We also shoot in the middle of the night, so nobody wants to come out and mess with us. I've been in God-knows-how-many episodes in Los Angeles where you had the feeling there were buzzards on the wall peering down on you."

Hyland's big television break, landing the role of Det. Kevin O'Brien on "Night Heat," came relatively late in life and fell into his lap after he had decided to write off television completely.

"I'd reached a point where I could always support myself in Los Angeles," Hylands says, "but I was getting lost among a bunch of other people who could do similarly or better than me. Everybody wants to be a little special, so I decided I would cast my line in the theater as a director and as an actor and see where it took me, and I seemed to be doing OK.

"Incidental to that, I was visiting a friend in Toronto who was seeing about this job. I walked in, and it was the classic case of 'Who are you?' 'Who's asking who I am? I'm on vacation.' I was in that enviable state where I was relaxed because I didn't really want or need the job, and I'd decided that TV was not for me. So this thing fell into my lap like an over-ripe piece of fruit."

'Prizzi's Honor' and 'Mask' make their pay-TV debuts

By Amanda Bruce

Pay cable is offering some big movies this month.

Anjelica Huston

"Prizzi's Honor," John Huston's black comedy about love and murder in the underworld, heads the list. It airs July 11 on Showtime and July 13 and 16 on HBO. Jack Nicholson and Kathleen Turner play hired killers, and Anjelica Huston, the director's daughter, plays Mae Rose, the estranged Prizzi daughter whose goal is to win back Nicholson's affections. Anjelica Huston won an Academy Award for best supporting actress for her role, and each and every one of her co-starring actors is equally wonderful.

It's a funny, unusual story that keeps you on the edge of your seat despite its length (more than two hours).

For poignant drama and a stirring story, try "Mask" (airing July 7 on Showtime, July 8 and 10 on The Movie Channel, July 6 and 9 on HBO and July 8 and 12 on Cinemax). Cher stars as the fiercely devoted mother of a physically deformed son. Eric Stolz plays the son who leads a relatively normal teenage life, largely due to his mother's efforts. Peter Bogdanovich directed this film, which earned Cher a best actress award at the Cannes Film Festival.

CABLE NOTES — In the what-has-cable-picked-up-from-the-networks-lately department, there's "Oh Madeline," airing weekly now on the USA Network (Fridays at 8:30 p.m., ET). Madeline Kahn stars in this 1983 ABC comedy series about a housewife trying to liven up her suburban existence. ... A more promising series from the USA Network is "The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes," which airs Friday evenings at 10 p.m. (ET). The 13-part British series stars Jeremy Brett and David Burke and presents a different case from Sir Arthur Conan Doyle each week. This week, Holmes must try to figure out how some top-secret information was stolen in a case called "The Naval Treaty." ... This week, on "The Paper Chase: Graduation Year," a law student finds himself on the wrong side of the law when he is jailed for credit-card fraud.

The Ford car was a 1915 model and the third to be bought in this section. It was made of high-class material and still in good running condition.

COMMENTS ON TIMES' STORY

Referring to a news story published a few weeks ago in The Floyd County Times, K. S. Kaltenbacker, writes in the Courier-Journal of August 14 as follows:

Sabbath Day Work

Working on the Sabbath day in Kentucky has from time immemorial been frowned on and only in exceptional cases is it tolerated without a protest or the offender made to feel the hand of the law. Sometimes, however, the exigencies of the situation require Sunday work in planting or saving the crops at opportune times and in such Sunday endeavors whole communities are often engaged.

Working the public roads on Sunday is exceedingly rare but recently more than half a hundred men of a Floyd county community pitched in on a cooperative plan to improve the stretch of road leading from Betsy Layne to the new Mayo Trail highway being constructed through the Big Sandy valley. Loads of cinders from adjacent coal mines and stone from the neighboring cliffs were transported to the scene and spread on the crude roadway during the Sunday operations that were justified on the theory of rescuing the ox from the ditch.

The innovation of Sunday road building, however, is not expected to become general in Kentucky, in which the time-honored Sunday observance statute has been but little changed since its enactment in the early days, except to legalize the playing of baseball on the Sabbath.

Not long ago a new Kentucky industry figured in a novel test of the Sunday-closing statute. Haled into court on the charge of violating the provisions of the ancient statute, the operators of a carbon plant in the natural gas fields contended that continuous operation was necessary and that closing down for any period and allowing the apparatus to cool would cause a heavy loss and cripple the industry.

AT LINDBERGH BANQUET

Chaplain E. L. Howerton, of this city who is on duty at Fort Thomas, Kentucky, was shown a special favor during the stay of Col. Lindbergh in Cincinnati when the committee in charge of arrangements for Lindbergh's reception admitted Chaplain Howerton to the banquet at the Gibson Roof Garden even though all tickets had been sold out for ten days. Chaplain Howerton reports a fine time, an excellent dinner with over fourteen hundred present, and a wonderful address from our national hero.

Lindbergh was paid many honors by the people of Cincinnati and Rev. Howerton says he is indeed a fine youth and modest in the extreme.

Rev. Howerton will be back for the services at the Baptist Church on August 21

He would be able to go back to work in a few days, hospital authorities said.

PIKEVILLE

Capt. Erwin of the U. S. Army who piloted his plane as far as Pikeville, the Assistant Secretary of War, Col. Hanford McNider, who addressed the American Legion Convention at Williamsen, W. Va., Thursday, made a brief talk at the Kiwanis Club Meeting, but one that was heard with deep interest by the Kiwanians. Col. McNider, as well as Capt. Erwin, was invited to attend the meeting, but after landing just after noon had to go on to Williamson immediately.

Captain Erwin told of his difficult flight from Cincinnati here through fog and rain but which, in spite of all difficulties, was made in an hour and a half. He spoke of the tremendous boost in aviation occasioned by the flights of Lindbergh and the other trans-oceanic fighters. Of the four flights, he pronounced the Hawaiian the most remarkable because of the difficulty in navigating to the small islands and the far greater percentage of travel over water, compared to the percentages of other flights.

The Captain said that Lindbergh was under him last year and that he was "crazy" about flying, a quiet, modest, unassuming boy, a "darn good pilot" whose greatest qualification was common sense. His greatest feat, according to the Captain, was his sensible behavior after his spectacular achievement.

The statistics of Lloyds Insurance Company of England show fewer casualties per capita carried in aviation than in any other means of transportation, he stated, and spoke of the wonderful progress in reliability. Safety and practicability of air travel will be almost perfected, he said, with the development of radio beacons and earth inductor compass which he described in detail.

Floyd County Pork Producers To Vote

Floyd County Pork Producers have the opportunity to participate in the U.S. Department of Agriculture's state wide election, July 7-11. Voters will select individuals for appointment to an industry-wide body that will administer a promotion, research and consumer information order for pork.

Any farmer in Floyd county who raises their own swine (feeder pigs, breeding stock or slaughter hogs) for sale are eligible to vote.

Gene Ball, Floyd County Extension Agent for Agriculture said all Floyd county pork producers are encouraged to vote their preference for state wide representatives. Candidates receiving the largest number of votes in each state will be eligible for appointment by the Secretary of U.S. Department of Agriculture to the state allotted position on the National Pork Producers Delegate Body.

The Delegate Body will consist of approximately 165 producers, including two or more members representing each of the 50 states and four importers, will be responsible for administering all aspects of the pork order.

Ball said that voting for Floyd county will take place in the Floyd County Extension Office, Room 105, Courthouse Annex Building, Prestonsburg. The office will be open each day during the week of July 7-11 from 8-12 and 1-4. Pork producers may vote in any county in their home state after signing a voter registration list certifying that they are pork producers of that state.

Pork producers are urged to vote in person at the County Extension Office. An absentee voting packet containing a ballot and registration form may be obtained from Jim Epstein, National Pork Producers Election, P.O. Box 23762, Washington, D.C. 20026-3762; telephone (202) 475-5407. Absentee ballots must be postmarked by July 11, and received at the above address no later than July 18.

Votes will be tallied at 9 a.m. July 15 at the local county office of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. The public is invited to be present at this official counting, and the results will be forwarded to the Secretary for consideration.

Mountain Inspiration

By GLENN MOLLETTE
Summer season means travel, vacation and recreation. A time to do something a little different is always welcomed.

The highways are busy this year. Few folks are traveling abroad because of terrorism. On the other hand, recent gasoline prices have encouraged tourists to take to the highways.

I am always amazed when I drive the interstate. There are wide roads that will take me almost anywhere I want to go.

Roads and travel are certainly not uncommon to man. Since the day when man made his way by foot or animal he has looked for the best road to travel.

Jesus talked about roads in the Bible. He said, "Go in through the narrow gate, because the gate to hell is wide and the road that leads to it is easy, and there many who travel it. But the gate to life is narrow and the way that leads to it is hard, and there are few people who find it." (Matthew 7:13-14)

The best road to travel is the road that leads to life eternal.

Guinness To Record 500-Foot Hot Dog

The supermarket chain, Food City, is about to enter the Guinness Book of World Records, or at least the hot dog they are preparing to unveil July 4th will be making the next edition.

Originally, the famous Coney Island hot dog was six inches long. And in the early 1900's it was offered in one foot lengths. Since that time the traditional All-American hot dog has been created in various sizes and lengths. But never before has there been an attempt to make a five hundred foot long hot dog. That is, not until now.

July is National Hot Dog Month, and Food City, which has been promoting its "All-American Supermarket" image for several years, decided they should be the one to make the "World's Longest Hot Dog".

Thus the office of the Guinness Book of World Records in London, England was contacted and provided the necessary specifications for the record.

Plans are now set to present the five-hundred-foot-long hot dog at their Euclid Avenue location in Bristol, Friday, July 4, between 10:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. NBC, CBS and ABC television networks are notified and are expected to cover the event.

The public is invited to inspect the "World's Longest Hot Dog" and enjoy free refreshments at the unveiling.

HOW DO CHILDREN LEARN ABOUT DEATH?
The death of a pet; an animal killed by the roadside; a discussion in the classroom; all of these can help young children learn about dying. Handled with tenderness and understanding, these experiences can help build a healthy, accepting attitude toward death.

If someone close to the child dies, a relative or a friend, these first experiences with death can help the child accept the death of a loved one when it comes. Adults can assist this process by helping the child to understand that sorrow and tears are not for the person who died, but because the deceased will be missed so much.

Talking openly with a child when he or she has an experience with death can form the foundation for a lifelong acceptance of death, a fact of life. And a healthy attitude about death will help the child accept it when it touches his or her life again.

As funeral directors, we can help you to help your child understand death. Please stop by.

JOHN GRAHAM CHAPTER, D.A.R., members and guests at a luncheon meeting in Berea, recently, from left-to-right, in front, Mrs. Jim Simpson, Miss Maurine Mayo with her hands on the shoulder of Edward Hager, Mrs. Virginia S. Goble, and Mrs. Joe A. Spradlin. In second row are Miss Julia Ann Hager, Mrs. Paul C. Hager, and Mrs. Norma S. Stepp. Also attending the meeting was Mrs. Margaret D. Collins.

Members of the John Graham Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution went Saturday, June 14, to Boone Tavern in Berea for a luncheon meeting, with Mrs. Joy May Hager, who is a member of the John Graham Chapter and of the faculty at Berea College, as hostess. Assisting her were her daughter, Julie Ann, and her son, Edward Lee.

Following a luncheon at Boone Tavern, slides were shown, giving a complete history of the college, including how students participate in various activities such as arts and crafts, pottery, weaving, the making of brooms, flowers, rugs, quilts and other items, and also how farming and the making of furniture is taught, and how each student is required to work a certain number of hours per week.

An interesting tour included the Log Cabin, where handmade crafts made by the students are on display for sale and Churchill Weavers.

D.A.R. members enjoyed a visit at the Hager home with Dr. Paul C. Hager, assistant dean of Berea College and son of Mrs. Priscilla Hager, of East Point, and the late Harry Hager.

They also visited with another Floyd countian, Carl Ford and Mrs. Ford, at their home there. Mr. Ford, a retired Berea College faculty member, is the son of the late Grace Dingus Ford, a long-time member of the John Graham Chapter, D.A.R., and the late Carl Ford, Sr.

At the conclusion of these events, a regular business session was held with Miss Maurine Mayo, first vice Regent, presiding.

Miss Mayo presented the program leader, Mrs. Stepp, who had as her topic, "What the Flag Means," by Charles Evans Hughes from a 1928 "Woman's Day" magazine, which made a very informative and interesting program.

Mrs. Stepp presented each member with a copy of her program in booklet form. She called on Mrs. Margaret Collins to read a poem, entitled "Our Flag," written by the late Claude P. Stephens.

Members who attended were Miss Maurine Mayo, Mesdames Margaret M. Spradlin, Virginia S. Goble, Margaret D. Collins, Norma S. Stepp, Joy May Hager, and Mrs. Jim Simpson; guests were Jim Simpson, Edward Lee Hager and Julie Ann Hager.

The next meeting will be with the S.A.R.'s, in September.

Handicapped Need Early Treatment

What is the worst thing that can happen to a handicapped child?

Nothing.

Many children are born with or may acquire physical and/or mental conditions which handicap their normal growth and development. Fortunately, many of these conditions can be helped or completely corrected.

The earlier you recognize a child's special needs and seek professional help, the greater the possibility that child can be helped to overcome a handicapping condition.

For assistance or additional information with these concerns, contact Early Intervention, MR/DD Program Director, Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, 18 South Front Avenue, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41652, 886-8572, or toll-free, 1-800-422-1060.

Owsley Family Reunion Held in Miamisburg, O.

The 23rd Isaac N. and Millie Jane Owsley family reunion was held at Miamisburg Mound Park in Miamisburg, Ohio, June 21, with 64 members and seven guests in attendance.

The day's weather permitted a lovely outing for family and friends. The group gathered under the reserved pavilion for the picnic lunch, fellowship, business meeting, and many of the games that followed. President Mr. Bill Owsley, donated all of the prizes for the games, which were chiefly, stuffed animals.

The reunion began at 1 p.m. with a welcome to the family and guests, followed by grace. Family members who are deceased since the 1985 reunion are as follows:

Taubly Owsley, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Isaac N. Owsley-Nov. 11, 1985; Mrs. Stella Owsley, wife of the late John Bennett Owsley, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Isaac N. Owsley-March 20, 1986; Mrs. Ernestine Owsley, wife of Jerry Owsley, Jr., son of the late Jerry Owsley, Sr.-Nov. 1, 1985; Roger Dale Slaton, husband of Priscilla Mosley Slaton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira (Lorraine) Mosley-June 14, 1986; James Arthur Nance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene (Opal Jean) Nance-June 1, 1986.

Mrs. Opal Jean Nance, Mr. Eugene Nance, and David Slaton were each awarded a 1971 silver dollar for the daughter of the late Owsleys, the oldest member, and the youngest member respectfully.

Mrs. Lillie B. Terry was surprised with a retirement card containing a gift of money from all of the participants of this reunion. She had been a certified employee of the Huron (Ohio) City Schools for 31 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Edwards donated a decorated sheetcake for the occasion, which pleased everyone.

Pictures of the floral wreath that was placed on the grave site by Bill Owsley prior to the reunion were shown to everyone. The grave site of the late Isaac N. and Millie Jane Owsley is in the DeRossett cemetery near Prestonsburg, and it is a custom that a wreath with streamers bearing the words "The Owsley Family Reunion" be placed there every year in their memory. A picture is inserted in the family reunion record book, also.

The membership approved of next year's reunion to be at Miamisburg Mound park in Miamisburg, Ohio, on June 20, 1987. It was approved that the officers of this year's reunion be retained for next year, also. The president is Mr. Bill Owsley, of Franklin, Ohio. The vice president is Cecil Edwards, of Middletown, Ohio. The secretary and treasurer is Mrs. Bennie (Lillie) Terry, of Huron, Ohio.

Most everyone became involved with the games.

CancerCare

Q. I had a mastectomy ten years ago. Is it too late to have reconstructive surgery done?

A. It's never too late to have reconstructive surgery of the breast, health permitting. Restoration of one's body image and the feeling of wholeness is crucial to many women. Timing of reconstructive surgery depends on many factors, including the condition of the chest wall skin and the patient's general physical and emotional health. There is relatively little difference in the outcome of breast reconstruction between one year and ten years after the mastectomy. All that is required is the desire for the reconstruction and a commitment to the two or more surgical procedures required to accomplish it.

Q. I work in an office where everyone smokes. I've read that even nonsmokers can get cancer by inhaling someone else's smoke. Is this true?

A. Further study is still required, however, studies in several countries have shown that nonsmokers exposed to the smoke of others (passive smoking) may have an increased risk of lung cancer. This has not been accepted by all authorities on the subject. Most lung specialists do feel that, given the well-documented discomfort to nonsmokers caused by passive smoking, it should be restricted in confined areas or banned from the work place.

Q. I've got cancer, and I'm worried about my medical bills. Is any financial help available?

A. Depending on an individual's particular situation, financial assistance may be available from the American Cancer Society, the Leukemia Society, the Social Security Administration or the Department of Health and Human Services. There are also private foundations and special funds sometimes available to help out on a one-time basis or in a limited way.

Q. My doctor says that my bladder will have to be removed because of cancer, and as a result, I'll have to wear a bag to collect my urine. In addition, he says I will become impotent. At my age (60), this bothers me. Can't anything else be done?

A. There's a new approach to urinary drainage after bladder removal. In men, it's usually possible to construct a reservoir out of the large intestine that serves as a substitute bladder and allows the patient to urinate normally. In women, we have been hooking the urinary system directly into the large intestine. In the past, bladder removal in men invariably led to impotence. It's now possible to preserve the nerves responsible for erection in many men. When the nerves can't be preserved, other treatments, such as drug therapy, can be used to restore potency.

BULK-PRODUCING LAXATIVES

Bulk-producing laxatives containing "methylcellulose" generally are the best choice for treating simple constipation. When products containing methylcellulose get into the intestine, they absorb water and swell. This gives the intestine a natural feeling of fullness which, in turn, stimulates movement. Although usually effective in 12 to 24 hours, they may require as long as three days. Bulk-producing laxatives may combine with the "salicylates" that are found in some pain-relievers. They should not be taken together because they could cause these drugs to be absorbed improperly. Some bulk-producing laxatives contain "psyllium" which, in combination with salicylates, speeds up movement in the intestine. This causes the drugs to be passed out more quickly and, thus, decreases absorption.

Many families in this area have already discovered that by relying on COOLEY APOTHECARY for their prescription and over-the-counter needs they will not only receive quality service but can take advantage of our everyday low prices. We're conveniently located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5-30, Sat. 9-4.

HANDY HINT:

"Newsleaders" Series Interviews Bingham

"A good newspaper must never lose touch with its readers, or the community it serves," is the philosophy of the former Courier-Journal and Louisville Times publisher Barry Bingham, Sr. NBC journalist John Chancellor will interview Bingham on the Thursday, July 17, episode of the series, "Newsleaders." The program airs at 7:30 p.m.

The sale of the Courier-Journal and Louisville Times in May marked the end of a communications dynasty. The Bingham family was introduced to the news business when Bingham's father, Judge Robert Worth Bingham, bought one of two major newspapers in Louisville. Through the years a television station, radio stations and a printing operation were added.

Unlike some media moguls, Bingham believes an editor cannot afford to lose touch with his roots and that he must focus attention and care on the community he serves. An example of the Bingham sense of responsibility toward readers and the community include the papers' editorial position supporting school integration. Louisville became the first southern city to achieve peaceful integration.

The Courier-Journal and Louisville Times also became the first newspaper in the country to employ a special ombudsman to present reader concerns to the staff. According to Bingham's philosophy, a great newspaper gives readers more than what they want—it gives them what they need.

In his interview, Bingham recalls highlights of his career such as arranging press coverage for the Japanese surrender aboard the battleship Missouri in 1945.

"Newsleaders" is produced by SAI Productions for the Poynter Institute for Media Studies.

Tourism Cabinet Assists Employees

Troubled employees comprise 10 to 20 percent of the American workplace, costing industry billions of dollars each year through absenteeism, accidents, health care and decreased productivity. And the problem is increasing, experts say.

The Kentucky Tourism Cabinet has developed an employee assistance program for its 3,000 workers.

Through Tourism's program, supervisors are being reminded of the warning signs that an employee may be troubled—absenteeism, a decline in the quality of work, etc. The supervisor will be asked to refer the employee to the agency's personnel director, who serves as an assistance-program representative.

The representative will be trained to refer the worker to an appropriate community service agency for counseling.

Program representatives will also learn ways to work with the troubled employee and will be asked to attend a special school on alcohol and drug studies, according to Margaret Daniel, coordinator of the program.

Two other cabinets, Transportation and Human Resources, have similar programs. The Human Resources Cabinet employs a consultant who does some counseling, while Transportation maintains a referral service.

Daniel said health insurance may cover all or part of treatment costs. She also stressed that the service is confidential.

G. Wendell Combs, cabinet secretary, said, "A program like this benefits the employee and benefits the organization at the same time. By helping the worker solve his problem, we increase the productivity of his work."

"Oliver" Opens Tonight At Jenny Wiley Theatre

OLIVER!, the big British blockbuster musical hit based on Charles Dickens' classic tale "Oliver Twist," is the next production at Jenny Wiley Theatre in Prestonsburg. The rollicking musical story of the orphan Oliver's adventures in Victorian London's underworld will open today (Wednesday) and will run in repertory until August 22.

Lionel Bart supplied the book, music and lyrics for the stage adaptation of Dickens' poignant novel. Bart transformed the grim elements of Dickens' tale into light entertainment with only minor adjustments. The show began its historic run in London in 1960, and in New York in 1963. It was made into a smash film that won the 1968 Academy Award as Best Picture, and enjoyed a major revival in New York in 1984.

Byron Christopher Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Regald Smith, of Pikeville, will be seen in the title role as the fate-buffed orphan boy. Other local children in the cast include Misty Daniels and Malisha Ratliff, both of Pikeville; Benny Ray Bailey, Amy Grigsby and Susan Grigsby, of Hindman; Ruth Jessen, Jesse Jones, Brandon McDonald and Stacy Webb, all of Prestonsburg; Matthew Kazee, of Paintsville; and Beau Martin, of Ashland. Rick Catt, from Santa Monica, CA will be seen as Fagin, the droll professor of pickpocketry. John Brown, of Louisville, plays the sly Artful Dodger. Charlotte K. Hammett portrays the spirited Nancy, and Equity Guest Artist Robert Jensen is seen as the evil Bill Sikes.

Christopher Catt will direct OLIVER!, and Jeffrey Buchsbaum will lead the orchestra through such delightful songs as "Consider Yourself," "Where is Love?" and "As Long as He Needs Me." Deborah Brunson will design the period Victorian costumes, and Mark Halpin will design the set. For more information and ticket reservations for OLIVER!, call the Jenny Wiley Theatre box office at (606) 886-9274.

Silver Poet Receptient

One of the highest honors bestowed on a poet, the Silver Poet Award for 1986 will be presented to Lisa Wolford, daughter of Yvonne and Carmen Caroll, August 30, at Marriott's Orlando World Center, in Orlando, Florida.

In recognition of her achievement, celebrities Vincent Price, Maya Angelou, and others will be in attendance, as well as World Television to record her acceptance. She has been asked to bring some of her poetry to share with the other poets attending.

A graduate of Betsy Layne High School, she has won three Award of Merit certificates, the 1985 Golden Poet Award, and the national Beta Club Journal's literary award. She recently published her first short story in the new literary magazine Mountain Magic, which she also titled.

Another Silver Poet

One of the highest honors to be given to a poet, The Silver Poet award for 1986, is to be presented to Mrs. Doris Lewis, of Martin, at ceremonies in Orlando Fla., August 30.

The Board of Directors of World of Poetry has voted to honor Mrs. Lewis in recognition of her poetry. John Campbell, editor and publisher, will be making the presentation at the second annual convention, marking the 11th anniversary of the organization, at Marriott's Orlando World Center.

Those to be attending will include Vincent Price, Mayo Angelo, Eddie Low Cole, Herman Berandt along with World Television to record her acceptance of the honor. Mrs. Lewis has been asked to bring her poetry to share with more than 2,000 other poets expected to attend.

She is also eligible to be named World of Poetry Laureate for 1986 and for induction into the World of Poetry Hall of Fame.

In addition to this, she has won an award of Merit Certificate. Mrs. Lewis and her husband, Thomas Lewis, Jr., reside in Martin.

Church Access Road Surfaced
Gov. Martha Layne Collins has announced that the state will provide funds to place an initial blacktop surface on 528 feet of County Road 5413, Latta Day Saints Church Road in Floyd county.
"The funds for this project will come from the Rural Secondary Program, which assures maintenance and traffic improvements for Kentucky's rural roads," said Collins.
Gov. Collins explained that Rural Secondary funds are made possible through collection of the state motor fuels tax.
State Transportation Secretary C. Leslie Dawson said the state will provide $4,096 for materials, and the county is responsible for all work necessary in performing the project.

Tourist Calls Flood Travel Phone Lines

Operators of the Department of Travel Development's toll-free travel information lines can be forgiven if they sound a little hoarse lately. The department is fielding thousands more calls from prospective tourists so far this year, compared to early 1985. The calls in March amounted to a one-month record for the telephone system, which was installed in 1980.

From January through May, operators took about 40,000 calls on the toll-free line. The figure represents an eye-opening 82.3 percent increase over the number of calls in January through May of 1985. In March 1986, more than 14,700 calls were received, surpassing by more than 6,000 the previous one-month high.

Those calls flooding in represent more than idle curiosity by callers. About 60 percent of callers subsequently visit Kentucky as tourists, department research shows.

Department Commissioner Mimi Lewis said the figures show the current state travel-advertising campaign is on target.

"The campaign has been very effective this spring," Lewis said. "We are especially pleased in the response from our major market states to the north, such as Ohio and Illinois."

Response linked directly to the 1986 advertising campaign has shown a dramatic increase over 1985. Telephone responses are up nearly 150 percent, and mail responses have increased 142 percent. The bulk of this year's advertising ran in March and April with about 70 percent of the ads appearing out of state, and the remaining 30 percent in Kentucky.

Features of the 1986 campaign included print advertisements in 24 publications, including Reader's Digest, Ladies Home Journal and Family Circle; new television and radio spots; and a radio campaign in nine markets, plus the Kentucky Network and the Indiana Network.

Tourism officials are hopeful 1986 will prove to be a good year for Kentucky tourism.

"We are convinced that Kentucky will benefit from a predicted overall growth in domestic travel," said Lewis. "Lower gasoline prices and a perceived risk in traveling abroad appear to be influencing people to explore America, rather than travel overseas."

Tourism Secretary Wendell Combs said Kentucky stands to cash in on any increase in domestic travel.

"Kentucky features a wide variety of attractions and a central location," Combs said. "We are dedicated to aggressively promoting Kentucky travel so that we can maintain and enhance our share of the huge travel market."

SP4 Michael D. Conn and wife Delia, of Panama, spent the last two weeks of March visiting here with family, friends and relatives.

They visited his brothers, James Campbell, of East Point, Toney Conn, of Prestonsburg, and his sister, Carolyn Stapleton, of Emma.

Conn completed his basic training in Ft. Benning, Georgia, and was stationed at Ft. Stewart, Georgia before his assignment to Ft. Clayton, Panama.

SP4 Conn and family will return to the states after completing 16 more months of duty in Panama.

He is the son of Bonnie Campbell, of East Point.

Collection Of Gov. Gifts On Display At Frankfort

Gifts presented to American government officials by foreign dignitaries and heads of state are now on display at the Capitol, the Governor's Mansion, the Lieutenant Governor's Mansion and other historic homes in Frankfort.

Kentucky is one of four states chosen to receive collections of the gifts, Gov. Martha Layne Collins said. Federal officials were impressed with Kentucky's strict accountability system and the locations available for display.

Cooperative efforts by the Kentucky Department of Education's Office of Resource Management, the federal government's General Services Administration and the Kentucky Finance and Administration Cabinet's Office of Historic Properties brought the items to Frankfort.

Redwood Taylor, former director of the Office of Resource Management, discovered the availability of the items through his work for the Department of Education with surplus government property in Washington, D.C.

He requested specific items like a sterling silver cigarette box presented to Alexander Haig Jr. by King Hussein of Jordan, a black lacquered box inlaid with mother-of-pearl that was given to Secretary of State George Shultz in Korea, and a silver tray from former Mexican President, Jose Lopez Portillo.

The unusual and exotic items are available because federal officials are not permitted to keep gifts valued at more than $50.

"In effect, federal officials originally accepted each gift on behalf of the American people. I'm delighted that Kentucky schoolchildren will enjoy these international displays when they visit the state capital," Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald said.

Jolene Greenwell of the Office of Historic Properties is responsible for the collection of 48 foreign gifts. They will be displayed during August.

"We will be changing the displays from time to time to give people the opportunity to see them all," she said. "We feel very privileged to display these items. The only other states who are doing so are Wisconsin, Utah and Illinois."

FINANCIAL PLANNING
DON'T BANK ON THE IRS
Never, never use the Internal Revenue Service as a banker—unless, of course, you have their permission to do so beforehand. This should be the last place that you go for an unauthorized extension of credit.
When the cash flow is tight, many small business operators choose to pay their suppliers first and the employee withholding tax to the IRS last. Before the manager knows it, another month has passed and another set of payroll taxes has gone unpaid.
The Internal Revenue Service will take steps to minimize this liability as quickly as possible. They take a dim view of your owing several thousand dollars in payroll taxes but even a dimmer view of that liability growing to several more thousand dollars.
For those of you who may already be in the unenviable position of owing back payroll taxes, we have this advice. Pay the IRS. If this is truly impossible to do, contact your local district IRA office before it's necessary for them to contact you. This will be a positive indication to them that you will cooperate to solve the problem.
Most collection officers will try to work with you as long as you're willing to cooperate with them.
Corporate officers, beware. The IRS can hold corporate officers liable for unpaid taxes of the corporation (actually, it is a penalty equal to the corporate liability). In a recent court decision an employee who was not a corporate officer was also held liable for unpaid corporate payroll taxes. The employee was held liable even though he was told by his boss to pay other bills and not the IRS. The court said he had the option of quitting instead of doing as he was told. As unfair as that may sound, it is an indication of how serious a problem unpaid payroll taxes can be.

Nursing Homes Raise $75,000

Fund-raising contributions totaling $75,000 were raised from February through May by 140 Kentucky nursing homes for the Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders Association, American Heart Association and Arthritis Foundation.

The fund-raising was held in coordination with the Kentucky Association of Health Care Facilities' (KAHCF) annual Rock 'N Roll Jamboree.

"Rock 'N Roll Jamboree is our special way to help in the fight against many of the diseases which afflict the elderly," said KAHCF President, Jack Wells. "Nursing home professionals know firsthand the debilitating effects of Alzheimer's heart and arthritic diseases."

Nationally, over $13 million have been raised for charities since 1977 through Rock 'N Roll Jamboree activities.

KAHCF is the trade association which represents 226 Kentucky nursing homes. KAHCF's membership includes 95 percent of Kentucky's skilled and intermediate care beds.

John Wiggs is director of the Health Careers Program at UK, and Emmett Burnam, minority and disadvantaged health recruiter, is co-director.

Western K. Univ. Awarded Grants

Western Kentucky University has recently been awarded two grants from the National Science Foundation in Washington, D.C., toward the purchase of equipment which will support both teaching and research efforts in the Ogden College of Science, Technology and Health.

Western will match funds with a $47,617 grant toward the purchase of an Energy Dispersive X-Ray Fluorescence Spectrometer. The instrument would allow students in several departments to analyze trace elements in solids, and would also allow undergraduate students to complete independent study projects within one semester, according to Dr. Robert Hoyt, principle investigator for the multi-disciplinary science instrumentation project.

Western will also match funds with a $23,734 NSF grant toward the purchase of a robot. Students will use the robot to learn robotics programming, produce a marketable product using the robot, evaluate costs, process effectiveness, and efficiencies of programmable automation with other production techniques, says Dr. Kenneth Mussnug, professor of industrial and engineering technology.

Acting happy, sad or frightened can actually make you feel that way, reports the June Reader's Digest. In a recent study, volunteers made six facial expressions, each signifying a different emotion. When they looked afraid, their bodies reacted as if they were afraid. Their heart rates speeded up, and their skin temperatures dropped.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Kentucky Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet, Division of Water, hereby gives notice that the Francis Water Company exceeded the maximum contaminant level for coliform bacteria for the reporting period of March 1986.

The test results for coliform bacteria (normally found in the intestinal tract of humans and other warm-blooded animals) indicates that some contamination occurred. Coliform bacteria is not considered harmful, however, its presence is a reliable indicator that harmful bacteria may have been present in the water at that time.

The Francis Water Company was formally notified of this violation and the regulatory requirement to inform their consumers of this violation. As of June 16, 1986, the Division of Water has not received verification of the Public Notification. Therefore, the Division of Water is acting on the behalf of the water supply in issuing this statement in accordance with the Kentucky Public and Semipublic Water Supplies Regulations (401 KAR 6:015).

Other violations accumulated since July 1985 are:

- August 1985—Exceeded maximum contaminant level for coliform bacteria. Failed to submit an adequate number of check water samples for bacteriological analysis.
March 1986—Failed to submit an adequate number of check water samples for bacteriological analysis.

Questions or comments concerning this Public Notice may be directed to Drinking Water Branch, Division of Water, 18 Reilly Road, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

85-CI-420

United Federal Savings and Loan AssociationPlaintiff
VS: NOTICE OF SALE
A.C. Swiney and Mary Hill Swiney, his wife; Wayne and Ethel Ratliff; The Commonwealth of Kentucky; and Floyd County, Kentucky Defendants

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered at the November 26 term, 1985 and January 28 term, 1986, in the above styled cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Courthouse door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 17 day of July, 1986, at 10:30 o'clock a.m., same being a day of the regular term of the Floyd Circuit Court, for cash or upon a credit of thirty (30) days the following described property, to wit:

That certain tract or parcel of land, lying and being on the waters of Abbott Creek in Floyd County, Kentucky, and being the same property conveyed to A.C. Swiney and Mary Hill Swiney, by deed from Scott Hill and Maggie Hill, his wife, dated August 22, 1964, recorded in Deed Book 185, page 555, Floyd County Clerk's Office, and being more particularly described as follows, viz:

Beginning at a stake in the right of way line of Kentucky Highway No. 142; thence running across the bottom of an apple tree; thence continuing in the same direction up the hill to the top of the hill; thence turning to the right and running with the top of the hill to the property line of Stanley Johnson; thence turning to the right and running down the hill with his line to the State Highway right of way; thence turning to the right and running with the State Highway right of way line to the stake, corner of beginning.

Excepting and excluding, however, from the foregoing description, that certain tract or parcel of land conveyed by A.C. Swiney and Mary Hill Swiney, et al, to Joe D. Pelphrey and Betty Sue Pelphrey, his wife, by deed dated the 18th day of September, 1976, and recorded in Deed Book 227, page 180, Floyd County Clerk's Office, and described as follows:

Beginning 207 feet, more or less, in the center of drain along the road or street, at a metal stake, from the corner of the Claude and Mary Lou Swiney and the Frasure-Hill Corporation on Highway 1427; thence running at near a right angle East and 10 feet back of and near parallel to privacy fence for a distance of 213 feet, more or less, to a metal stake above mentioned (approximately 252 feet west of Stanley Johnson's line) and up the hill with the line of Billy Blair and Marjorie Blair to the top of the ridge; thence left and up the ridge to corner of Claude Swiney and Frasure-Hill Corporation; thence left and down the hill and drain with same lines to point of beginning.

The foregoing A.C. Swiney and Mary Hill Swiney property is also subject to a restrictive covenant, that additional structure will not be built or placed between the property conveyed to the Pelphreys and property lying west of existing home and joining property of Frasure-Hill Corporation. This restriction is described in the foregoing deed from A.C. Swiney and Mary Hill Swiney, his wife, to Joe D. Pelphrey and Betty Sue Pelphrey, recorded in Deed Book 277, page 180, Floyd County Clerk's Office.

Also excepting and excluding from the foregoing description, that certain tract or parcel of land conveyed to Sam Jones and Emma Jones, his wife, by deed dated the 5th day of May, 1967, and recorded in Deed Book 193, page 646, Floyd County Clerk's Office, and described as follows:

Beginning at a corner of the property of Stanley Johnson, in the right of way line of State Highway 1427, thence running west with said State Highway a distance of approximately 256 feet, more or less, to a stake in said right of way line, thence turning at a near right angle and running a straight line across the bottom by the east edge of an underground concrete septic tank belonging to the first parties and parallel with the line of Stanley Johnson, and continuing parallel to the top of the hill to the boundary line of the first parties, said boundary line being the old line of Scott Hill, thence turning at near right angle and running down the ridge with the old Scott Hill line to the line of Stanley Johnson, and thence turning right and continue down the said hill with the Stanley Johnson line and across the bottom to the beginning corner, being a lot or parcel of land 252 feet wide, more or less, being said Stanley Johnson land and the east edge of the septic tank, and extending from the State Highway to the top of the ridge.

Any purchaser, except the plaintiff, shall be required to make a cash deposit of $500.00 at the time of sale.

The amount of money to be raised by this sale shall be in the several sums of $45,883.88 and $6,231.00 with interest thereon at 12% annually from November 26, 1985 until satisfied and accrued interest of $1628.00 and $416.00 and the additional sums of $627.77 and $150.52 taxes, plus interest and penalties, and the costs of this action, including costs of advertising of this sale and the fees and commissions for conducting this sale.

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms.

Given under my hand, this 27 day of June, 1986.

Cancer-causing radon gas may be present in as many as five million homes in the United States, reports the June Reader's Digest. The odorless gas is emitted from minerals containing radium—granites, black shales—and seeps into houses through foundation cracks, sump pumps, drains and cinder-block walls.

Tiny Miss Rose Petal

Miss Amber Raye Hall, four-year-old daughter of Phyllis Hall, of Prestonsburg, and Stevie Hall, of Allen, was crowned Tiny Miss Rose Petal, June 16 at Garrett.

She also won the swimwear competition and received two trophies, a crown, and a banner.

Small Bugs, Not Drought May Cause Browning Trees

Recent prolonged hot, dry weather may prompt many homeowners to incorrectly conclude that their spruce, balsam, pine, fir and hemlock trees are turning brown as a result of heat and lack of moisture.

The real culprit in many cases is the spider mite, an insect smaller than the printed period at the end of this sentence. Rudy Scheibner, Extension entomologist in the UK College of Agriculture, said the mites, although small, seem to be quite plentiful this year.

"The damage these insects cause resembles the way a tree will respond to drought, and this can fool many homeowners into ignoring a significant threat to very valuable trees in their landscape, or trying to correct the problem by watering," Scheibner said.

One key difference between drought damage and spider mite damage is the drooping of small branches. A drought-stressed tree will droop. Another thing Scheibner said to look for is where the damage begins to appear.

"Spider mites will start in the interior of the tree, near the trunk. Drought and heat damage often are seen first at the branch ends," Scheibner said. Also, hemlock trees will turn brown under drought stress, but white under spider mite stress.

To determine if a tree is infested with spider mites, slap a small branch against the palm of the hand over a piece of white paper or cloth. Then watch the tiny specks that land on the paper or cloth for a minute or two to see if any of them begin to move. If they move they're probably spider mites, if not, they're probably dirt, bits of the tree itself or dead mites. If the tree is infested it should be sprayed with malathion or diazinon.

"Spray it twice, 10 days apart. Most insecticides do not kill the eggs, so you need to spray the tree and then spray it again 10 days later to kill the mites that have hatched since the first spraying, and before they get a chance to lay more eggs," Scheibner said.

Vanishing Wildlife Series Is Repeated

Lush tropical rain forests, stark polar icelands and mysterious underwater worlds are explored in a series of rarely filmed wildlife programs titled "Living Wild." This 13-part series encores on KET beginning Saturday, July 26, at 8:00 p.m. and repeats Sundays at 7:00 p.m.

Shot in remote locations around the world, the series travels from the desolate shores of Antarctica in the opening segment to a wildlife refuge between Kenya and Tanzania where the effects of tourism and environmental pressures are traced. This collection of one-hour documentaries features portraits of animal life in which American audiences can view some of the world's most exotic and rarely observed patterns of animal behavior.

Several noted commentators and guides host each segment of the series. On Saturday, August 2, in "Voyage to the Vermillion Sea," naturalists Krov and Anna Menuhin journey to the waters of Baja, Calif., to photograph the whales and giant sharks of that region. Later in the series, David Attenborough narrates "Hunters of the Dugong," filmed in Papua New Guinea, and Orson Welles tells the story of Zambia's elephant and hippopotami in "Last Kingdom of the Elephants."

"Living Wild" is a tribute both to the earth's vanishing wildlife and to the wildlife photographer's art. The series focuses on the threat of extinction of many of the earth's rarest animal species and suggests that many of those losses may not be recoverable.

Prepare your child for School

1. A law passed by the 1986 legislature requires parents of children entering school for the first time in Fall of 1986 to present a certified copy (full size) of the child's Birth Certificate. A Blue Card from the Health Department will not meet this requirement. Applications for birth certificates are available at the Floyd County Health Department, the principal's office of your school, or at the Board of Education's Central Office. There is a $5.00 charge for Certified Birth Certificates.
2. Each child enrolled in the Floyd County School System this fall (1986) MUST present the principal or head teacher with a Kentucky Immunization Certificate. This certificate must be signed by a physician, clinic or local health department, and it must list the immunizations which the child has completed.
3. Each child entering the Floyd County School System for the first time (Kindergarten, or transfer students) must have a Tuberculin Test Certificate (CH-91A) Immunizations and T.B. skin tests may be obtained at the Floyd County Health Department any Monday, Wednesday, or Friday from 8:00 A.M. until 3:00 P.M. There is no charge for these services.
