Jackie Edford Owens, the Second District magistrate who is fast gaining a reputation as the maverick on Floyd Fiscal Court, wanted to know who would be running the county animal shelter before he would consent to set up a committee to oversee its operation.

"Who wants the right to give people a job? That's what I want to know," he told his colleagues at Friday's meeting of the court.

Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo, refusing to be drawn into discussion of the patronage issue, insisted the need was urgent to set up with the city of Prestonsburg a management structure that would enable the strife-wracked pound to get back into business on a normal basis.

Under the plan approved by a majority of the court but over Owens' objection, a five-member committee will oversee the shelter operation. No one was named at the fiscal court meeting to undertake the day-to-day operation of the facility but, by the same afternoon, the Dewey Dam Dog and Cat Protection Society, some of whose members have been voluntarily operating the shelter in recent weeks, was given the nod.

Falling interest rates could mean a $400,000 windfall for the county treasury, a bond attorney told members of the court. Again over the objection of Owens, who complained he had not had time to study the matter, a majority of the magistrates approved a plan proposed by the attorney for refinancing a mortgage revenue bond issue originally approved by the court seven years ago.

Shootout Ends With 2 Booked

Two men were charged Tuesday with first-degree assault after each shot the other during a Sunday night argument on a Wheelwright street.

State Detective Keith Scott, who is investigating the incident, said that Bobby R. Terry, 39, of Wheelwright, and L. T. Kiser, 42, of Virgie, were each armed with a .38-caliber pistol when they began arguing, about 8:30 p.m. Sunday, in the roadway at the mouth of Hall Hollow.

Shots rang out, Kiser receiving a wound in the left arm, Terry a wound in the right abdomen. Witnesses gave conflicting accounts of who shot first and it was not clear what prompted the argument, Scott said.

Terry was taken to McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital. Kiser to Pikeville Methodist Hospital.

Front Street Store To Close Doors Soon

After 44 years of business here, the Thomas Hereford store will soon be closing forever.

Just when the end will come for the Front Street landmark, manager David Hereford is not sure. It depends on when all the merchandise is sold. A going-out-of-business sale was begun last Wednesday, with prices marked down from 10 to 50 percent.

Hereford, with wife Peggy, owns the two "Peggy's Fashions" stores here. He says the decision to close the old store was based in large part on a desire to concentrate on the other businesses, which he described as "thriving."

The Front Street store first opened its doors in 1942, after Thomas Hereford, David's father, returned from a stint in the navy during World War II. Prior to its opening, the building had been used as part of the adjacent Richmond's store, owned by his mother's family, David Hereford said.

In the early part of the century, the site Thomas Hereford's now occupies was used for selling everything from groceries and feed to caskets; while next door, the other half of Richmond's sold clothing, as it did until closing several years ago.

"In those days, you went to one store and bought everything," said Hereford. While times and shopping habits changed, the Thomas Hereford store did its best to provide what the customer wanted, he added.

To that end, the store has tried to remain on the cutting edge of current trends.

For Lower Burton, Old Road Fund Paves The Way To New-Found Pride

By some bureaucratic twist in Frankfort, it got to be listed as Burton City. A city of the sixth class. No great status as cities go, but enough to put the tiny community of Lower Burton on the map when municipal road aid monies were handed out seven years ago.

By an equally capricious turn of fate, however, the money for Lower Burton was frozen almost as soon as it was allocated. By now, John Y. Brown, Jr. was in the governor's office, bent on running Kentucky like a business. Sound business practices did not include giving chunks of money to dusty hamlets lacking even the rudiments of local government.

An old Inland Steel coal camp, Lower Burton is a loop of 32 cottages bisected by an abandoned railroad track and huddled in the shadow of the hill that climbs up out of Bevinville. It has been an easy town to miss. And its long-unkept appearance had apparently persuaded passers-by on KY 122 that it was as good a place as any to dump an unwanted appliance or off-load a bag of trash. Just push it over the hill.

Not any more. Lower Burton now boasts a freshly-painted sign that proclaims it "a community with pride." It's not hard to see why. Early Friday afternoon, half a dozen young men were toiling in the hot sun with weed eaters and wheelbarrows, hauling debris from a once-overgrown hillside that is now as trim as an English country garden.

In his front yard nearby, Ricky McCoy was hammering nails in the park bench he was making. His wife Beth was busy explaining to a visitor the progress the community had made and its hopes for the future.

She produced photos to illustrate both. "Before" pictures of litter and tangled underbrush and junked cars. "After" pictures of tidy streets, a manicured hillside, the makings of a mini-park for the kids to play in and the older folks to sit.

She had statistics. Four county truck-loads of heavy debris and 250 bags of garbage carted off. Seven young men employed at $3.50 and hour. Four weeks on the job so far. The work overseen by a committee of five.

The work began on June 16 and, if Beth McCoy has anything to do with it, it will never end. Already, she notes, the meetings called to plan the clean-up have developed into regular town meetings to resolve problems and plan for the future in a systematic way. To keep local residents informed of what it going on, she is putting out a type-written news sheet, the "Lower Burton News."

The point is not just to get the place cleaned up, she explains. The point is, "It gives us a sense of pride."

BALES OF HAY were used in an effort to contain an oil spill on Mare Creek last week. A Disaster and Emergency Services crew, assisted by two workers from the state Division of Water, tried for 13 hours to clean up the oil, about 4000 gallons of which polluted Mare Creek and the Big Sandy River following a pipe rupture at the Dannemiller Oil Co. plant.

Lake Reports Safe Holiday Weekend

An estimated 54,000 persons visited Dewey Lake over the July 4 weekend and—better news yet—the weekend was free of accidents, reports W. Dean Murray, resource manager at the lake.

Murray attributed the dearth of mishaps to a heightened awareness of water safety and "good commonsense" on the part of boaters. Murray said park rangers conducted water safety programs for 3400 youngsters in grade schools and groups during the past three months. Any group wishing to have a program on water safety should contact the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers office at 886-6709, he said.

"Accident-free days and weekends are the kind we like to see," Murray said.

Jury Awards $2500 In Toler Land Case

The county's claim that it needed to take a strip of their property in order to improve a county road was just a ruse to provide a haul road for a coal operator and to deprive them of the wheelage fees they might have earned, a Tolers Creek couple argued before a Floyd Circuit Court jury last week.

Virgie and Imogene Mullins, whose farm fronts on the Sturgill's Branch road, said the $1200 they were offered as compensation for the five-foot strip condemned by the county along their 200-foot frontage was "ridiculously low."

Testifying in their behalf, realtor Joe D. Weddington said the property owners deserved to be paid $28,000 for the land they had lost. In calculating their loss, he said, he took into account a mining engineer's estimate that there are 300,000 tons of recoverable coal on the Sturgill's Branch property of Luther Conn and that, had the county not condemned the Mullinses property, Conn would have had to pay them for the right to haul the coal over their land.

Former magistrate Lowell Samons called the claim absurd. A long history of citizen complaints about the narrow county road came to a head when the May, 1984 flood washed out the

Burst Pipe Spills Oil Into River

A pipe rupture last Thursday at the Dannemiller Oil company's collection station near Ivel saw the spill of between 80 and 100 barrels of crude oil into Mare Creek and the Big Sandy River. Each barrel contains 42 gallons.

According to local Disaster and Emergency Services Coordinator Paul Chaffins, the operator there had opened a valve on a storage tank Wednesday night, contributing to the mishap, which occurred in the early morning hours of Thursday.

Chaffins said the problem was worsened because the facility was not dyked. A portable dyke—known as a boom—was borrowed late in the day from the Ashland Oil facility at Falcon, Johnson county.

The forces of nature both helped and hurt clean-up crews' efforts to contain the spill. According to Gene Blair, of the state Division of Water's Hazard office, a heavy rain Thursday afternoon made clean-up efforts difficult, but also helped to dissipate the oil. Chaffins added that the rain served to raise the water level of the Big Sandy, keeping the oil above the plane where it could enter into local water supplies.

Blair said that, while the spill potentially could have adverse environmental effects, he did not speculate what these effects might include. "Any kind of oil spill in a river is detrimental," he said.

Chaffins said 11 DES members and two Division of Water agents worked from about 9 a.m. till 10 p.m., applying absorbing agents and otherwise trying to contain the spread of oil.

New Trial Commissioner

Omery "Chuck" Hall, of Hi Hat, has been appointed trial commissioner, effective today (Wednesday). Floyd District Judge Harold Stumbo announced this week. Hall replaces Paul Osborne, of Wheelwright, in the court post. The district judge is also assisted by Trial Commissioner Jack Hyden, of Prestonsburg.

Disclosure Law Too Late...

Jurors Say Defendant's Record Could Yield Tougher Sentence

David H. "Johnny" Jacobs drew a one-year sentence after being convicted of a gun charge by a Floyd Circuit Court jury Monday. But it might well have been five years, two jurors said later, if a law that went into effect Tuesday had been on the books earlier.

Among the laws passed by this year's General Assembly and now effective is one that allows jurors to know the criminal history of defendants before sentencing.

It would have made a difference, said Ken Peters, of Martin—a member of the jury panel that recommended the minimum sentence for Jacobs—if the jury had known of the defendant's long police record and of his indictment in 1976 on charges of murder and rape.

In a deal with prosecutors, Jacobs pleaded guilty to criminal facilitation in the rape-murder case and was sentenced by a Fayette Circuit Court judge to five years in prison.

"It would have made a whole lot of difference if we had known. It certainly would have had a bearing," said Peters. The juror said he welcomed the new law, which will also permit jurors to know the parole possibilities for defendants before they pass on a sentence. "I think it will be an improvement in the court system," Peters said.

Wayne May, a mine supply salesman from Bull Creek and foreman of the jury that convicted Jacobs, agreed. Although the panel felt convinced of Jacobs' guilt, May said, "we all felt sorry for him because we did not know (his criminal history). We could hardly see someone doing five years when it was just his word against the other man's."

Most members of the jury said it would have been helpful for them to

East Point Homemakers Gives $550

"We're the tops" is what the East Point Homemakers are saying as they present their check for $550 to HRMC's Susan Martin. $550 is the largest donation made by a club to the breast center.

The East Point Homemakers of Floyd county recently gave $550 to the breast center at Highlands Regional Medical Center. $550 is the largest gift made by any women's organization to date.

Club president, Sharon Watkins, said the club members picked up garbage at the lake and had a spaghetti supper to raise the money.

"The members of the East Point club felt it was really easy to raise this money," said Carol Blevins, public information officer at HRMC, "they expressed surprise that all clubs in the area hadn't been able to raise equal amounts."

Over 100 women's organizations in Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin, Knott and Pike counties have been contacted about fund raising for the breast center.

"The breast center fund raising campaign is gaining momentum," said Blevins. "We've raised over 28 thousand dollars and if we get the response we hope for with the tile brochure in this week's paper, we should have enough money to buy the mammography machine."

The breast center will be the only one of its kind in southeastern Kentucky. It will combine the latest in x-ray technology with breast cancer education.

KET Special Looks At Life Of Jesse Stuart

"I have this feeling the land and I are one."
 —Jesse Stuart

In celebrations of what would have been his eightieth birthday, KET presents a look at the life and writings of Kentucky's poet of the people, Jesse Stuart. The half-hour program titled "Jesse Stuart" airs Thursday, August 7 at 9:30 p.m.

Scenes of residence, family and W Hollow are shown in home movies and are narrated with readings by Jesse Stuart himself.

James Stuart, the writer's brother, says Jesse heard music in the wind and wrote on whatever he could find—flour sacks, even a leaf when the inspiration and thought hit him. According to Stuart's brother, the writer never rewrote anything. Once it was done, it was done.

His wife, Naomi Deane Stuart talks of their marriage in 1939 and shows their home in W Hollow which was built around a single log room. Also shown, is the late writer's room where he worked. Mrs. Stuart has kept the room as it was when her husband wrote there.

Jesse Stuart was known for his writings about the mountains of Kentucky and their people. His works show his simple, realistic style and his affection for the people of W Hollow.

As James Clifford of the Jesse Stuart Foundation said of Stuart, "When you read Jesse Stuart's works, what you find is a story of people who love their family, who are consummately devoted to their land and to their country; people who don't mind hard work and who are willing to live within their means; people who go to their homes and beds with peace and integrity; people who made America the great country that it is and will continue to be. Jesse Stuart wrote the story of these people. That's why those people love him so much."

Also filmed at Greenbo Lake State Resort Park during the Jesse Stuart Weekend with comments and readings of his work are Dr. Jim Wayne Miller from Western Kentucky University, Dr. Paul Douglass from Mercer University, and Dr. Harold Richardson from the University of Louisville.

"Jesse Stuart" is a KET production.

MSU Offers Different Work-Study Program

Jane Smith is a business administration major who needs financial assistance to earn her degree.

Eastern Kentucky businessman John Doe needs additional help in his office, but isn't sure he can afford it.

Morehead State University may be able to solve both problems through its participation in the 1986-87 Commonwealth Work-Study Program, according to Tim Rhodes, MSU financial aid director.

Funded by a $39,035 grant from the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority, the program differs from the traditional campus work-study opportunity by placing the student in a "real world" job related to his major.

Businesses participating in the program will receive reimbursement of $1.50 per hour on the student's wage and the employer sets the wage rate, Rhodes said.

"The lion's share of the funds are earmarked for private, profit-making businesses, while some may be used in the private, nonprofit sector," Rhodes said.

"We plan to implement the program this fall and are looking for employers with whom we can place our students. The student-employer link-up possibilities are virtually limitless," Rhodes said. "In fact, in this region there should be a wealth of opportunities for students in biological and environmental sciences as well as in natural resources," he added.

Full-time students may work as many as 20 hours per week, while part-time students may work 30 hours per week under the program. Student participants must have at least a C average, have been enrolled full-time at MSU the previous semester and be able to demonstrate financial need.

"This program really has benefits for all concerned far beyond the financial considerations," said Rhodes. "Students gain experience in their field and the employer has an opportunity to help students get an education," he added.

Additional information on the program is available by calling Rhodes at (606) 783-2011, or by writing him in care of the Office of Financial Aid, Morehead State University, Morehead, KY 40351.

Don't Talk to Strangers

For some time now, women who list their names on classified ads have been subjected to obscene phone calls. This has been a frustrating experience for both the advertiser and for us. There is little one can do to an anonymous pervert. Now, there are indications that the same sick mind is behind an even more malignant series of calls. Calls, for the most part, it seems, to older persons who have had as guests members of their family. The visits are reported in The Times, and shortly thereafter, a call is received that a daughter or granddaughter has been raped by three men, beaten to a state of coma with brain damage, killed in a terrible auto accident. The stories vary, but all are cruel, senseless, and the product of a sick mind. Would the caller be gratified if he—it is a man, if the word applies in this case—caused someone to suffer a heart attack?

Perhaps the best way to avoid this senseless malice is to follow the advice we often give our children—"Don't talk to strangers."

Oh, Doctor!

After reading a report of the Tort Policy Working Group on the Causes, Extent and Policy Implications of the Current Crisis in Insurance Availability and Affordability—and that's just the title—there are one or two points that occur to me.

According to the report, between 1974 and 1985 there has been a 758% increase in the number of product liability lawsuits filed in federal district court; the number of medical malpractice lawsuits per 100 physicians doubled between 1979 and 1983, and tripled during that period for obstetricians/gynecologists.

Now, there is no doubt that excessive amounts have been awarded in some damage suits with much of it going for legal fees and litigation expenses. This, however, is one of the things that often stops the "little" fellow, who has no up-front money, from ever filing suit, no matter how valid his case.

Do you know that medical records must be paid for in advance before some hospitals will begin to make copies? At $1.00 per sheet (the going rate in Lexington), this can run from $600 to $1,000. This alone could stop a lot of people dead in their tracks. Then, lawyers tell you that a malpractice suit can cost anywhere from $10,000 to $25,000. Sure, these same lawyers take a hefty slice of whatever the court awards if you win the case, but what if you don't? There is no assurance that you're going to win and, if the case is lost, how many people can afford to owe these amounts?

Sorry, but I don't believe that just anyone who has a petty complaint sues and, as a matter of course, is awarded astronomical amounts of money.

Perhaps the reason for the increase in product liability lawsuits is that the public is fed up with being ripped off by planned obsolescence, shoddy workmanship, and inflated prices.

Perhaps the reason malpractice suits have doubled and, in some areas, tripled, is also that the public is fed up with uncaring, shoddy workmanship at inflated prices. Perhaps the public has also realized that doctors are, after all, not godlike creatures who are beyond challenge, whose judgment is not to be questioned, but that they are human, fallible, and accountable just like the rest of mankind.

No, I do not believe that the general populace is out to "get" either those in business or those in the medical profession. Maybe both should take a good, long, hard look at themselves and their colleagues and clean up their acts.

A responsible businessman should be respected. A good doctor or nurse is beyond price and should be honored—and many are honored.

A bad doctor should not be in the medical profession.

was learned the city was no real city at all. The $7000-or-so ended up in a Prestonsburg bank and might have stayed there forever if Hollis Daniels, disabled by a back injury in a Detroit auto plant, hadn't decided last year to return to his home town—and to wonder aloud if the money might not yet be put to use.

"The mayor of Lower Burton," some have called him, but Daniels insists the community leadership is a joint effort—and he points to the other four men who, with him, make up the Burton City Improvement Committee: Bobby Scott, Brother Speed Hall, Lee Rollins, and Gary Day. It was the committee, he said, which decided that, while Lower Burton has a reasonably decent road, the idle money would be well-spent refurbishing its image and restoring its self-respect.

The state Department for Local Government was contacted and officials there decided that, as long as the money went to a recognized community group and was properly accounted for, it could be used for any civic purpose.

Apart from the money spent paying the youthful work crew, some has gone toward tools, and some toward materials for the benches and tables that will grace two planned mini-parks. When the money runs out, Beth McCoy said, the place will be kept up with voluntary contributions.

But before it is all spent, she added, enough will be put aside for a festival to mark the community's achievement. "Burton Days" we're going to call it," she said, "to celebrate the new birth of our place here."

A kernel of corn must be heated to 400°F. before it will "pop."

know the defendant's record before recommending a sentence, the foreman said, adding, "He would probably have gotten five years," the maximum for the crime of which he was convicted.

Jacobs, of Pippa Passes, argued in court that his arrest on the gun charge was a case of mistaken identity. The man who gave an Estill storekeeper a stolen gun as collateral on a loan was actually his cousin, he said.

But the fact that Jacobs is 36 and his cousin, Timmy Jacobs, is 17 made it highly unlikely that the storekeeper got them confused, argued Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen. "Do you think it's likely I could be mistaken for a 20-year-old?" he asked the jury.

Moreover, Columbus B. Hall, operator of the Estill Stop n' Shop, was adamant. "He is the man," he said of the prisoner, when asked if there was any doubt in his mind.

Jacobs was convicted of possessing a handgun while a convicted felon. Formal sentencing was set for July 25.

He was initially charged also with receiving stolen property but that charge was dismissed after defense attorneys argued their client would face double jeopardy if tried on two counts stemming from a single incident.

Store proprietor Hall said that, on March 28 last year, he confronted Jacobs concerning $6 worth of gasoline that had been pumped but not paid for Jacobs offered to pawn an old Army-issue .45 revolver in return for $60, saying he would later repay the $60 and would also pay for the gas, Hall said.

A week later, Jacobs returned with the money and redeemed the gun, Hall said. By then, however, it was learned that the gun had been earlier stolen from a Hollybush residence.

Ten Years Ago

(July 14, 1976)

The first hearing on a strip-mine permit application ever scheduled outside Frankfort ended here Monday morning on a quiet note as a settlement was reached between attorneys for the B & H Elkhorn Coal Company and Everett Akers and others who protested the mining operation. Fourteen-year-old Paul Kevin Hubbard, of Auxier, was drowned shortly after noon Sunday while playing with companions in a farm pond at Auxier. He became the third water victim in the county this year. The bonds of $500 to $800 per acre posted in recent years by surface mining firms to finance the reclamation of mined areas in Floyd, Bell, Laurel, Knox and Webster counties aren't sufficient to restore the land to state reclamation standards, a state official admitted last week. Three Pike county men were booked at the county jail here Monday morning after they had allegedly attempted the robbery of the Harley-Davidson motorcycle shop at Betsy Layne. A 50-ton boulder which crashed from a mountainside near Inez early Sunday morning killed Ronald Horn, 27, and his wife, Connie, 26, in their sleep. Their children, Dennis, 8, and Rhonda, 2, escaped with minor cuts and bruises. At both the Prestonsburg and Almar Drive-In theatres tonight (Wednesday) through Friday: "Drive-In" and "Aloha, Bobby and Rose." Married: Miss Karen Grey Blackburn, of West Williamson, and Mr. Dana Miles Stephens, of Pyramid, May 15 at the Memorial United Methodist Church, West Williamson; Miss Dewana Kay Rodebaugh, of Prestonsburg, and Mr. David Robinson, of Katy Friend, June 19 at the Highland Avenue Free Will Baptist Church here; Miss Judith Lynn Johnson, of Bevinville and Mr. Thomas Monroe Gibson, of Cromona, June 26 at Bevinville. There died: Hubert Stephens, 69, of Martin, July 8 at the University of Kentucky Medical Center, Lexington; Charlie Leslie, Jr., 51, of Haxel Park, Mich., formerly of this county, July 6; Mrs. Rettie Jane Hall, 89, of Bypro, Sunday at Mountain Manor Nursing Home here; Samuel H. Bailey, 68, of Kendallville, Ind., formerly of Floyd county, Sunday morning in Downy, Ill.; Veterans' Hospital; Parley Lorn Hunter, 40, of Prestonsburg, July 8 at Veterans' Hospital, Lexington; Mrs. Georgia Anna Cook, 76, of Topmost, July 6 at Cresthaven Rest Home, Paintsville. Her husband, Frank Winfred Cook, 81, died 5 days later at his home.

Twenty Years Ago

(July 14, 1966)

The death last Wednesday night at the Paintsville Hospital of Miss Cora Lou Stanley, 17, of Buckingham, brought to three the death toll exacted by a two-car collision that afternoon on the Mountain Parkway, about 10 miles west of Salyersville. Almost instantly killed in the crash were Willie Hall, Jr., 43, of St. Mary's O., formerly of Bevinville, and Ray Arnett, 35, of Lakeville, Magoffin county. Tree-planting teams from Floyd and Muhlenberg counties have won the annual Tree Planting Award Program, sponsored by the State Department of Natural Resources. Mud Creek and its tributaries have a water problem which amounts to an emergency, and state and federal agencies will be asked to initiate action on that basis to meet needs of that action of the county. Sp. 4 James M. Slone, 20, was seriously wounded Saturday in action against the enemy in Viet Nam, his mother, Mrs. Oda Slone, of Dwale, was notified the following day. Married: Miss Brenda Lynn Patton, of Allen, and Mr. Charles Franklin Wills, of Prestonsburg, July 2; Miss Donna Sherry Fowler, and Mr. James L. Penix, both of Dayton, Ohio, June 25. There died: Mrs. Bertha Caudill, 64, of Ligon, Monday en route to the McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital; James Lincoln Layne, 42, of Marion, Ohio, formerly of Stanville, Saturday at Marion; Roy B. Conley, 58, of Wheelwright, Saturday at Pikeville Methodist Hospital; Proctor Slone, 79, of Dema, Monday at the Paintsville General Hospital; Felix Dennis Wellman, Jr., 46, of Morehead, formerly of Prestonsburg, Friday at Morehead.

Thirty Years Ago

(July 19, 1956)

Basil Lee Wicker, 35, of Mousie, was electrocuted in a mine accident Wednesday of last week while hauling coal on a shuttle buggy for the Hall and Hagans Coal Company at Midas. Suits were filed Monday in Circuit Court here by the First National Bank asking it be allowed to bid as a depository for the school funds of the county Board of Education. "Warning, Allen is a speed trap," say members of the City Council and Chief of Police Frank Crum. The two-way radio system envisioned by Sheriff Gorman Collins for the last two years as an aid to law enforcement in this county was becoming a reality this week. The Prestonsburg Junior Chamber of Commerce wants to mark the places on Dewey Lake where fatalities have occurred, it was noted this week. A small "twister" swept in Sunday afternoon and knocked down the "Old Fashion Gospel Hour" tent located at the twin bridge junction in Martin. There died: Mrs. Peggy Gibson, 65, of Dema, last Friday at the home of a daughter; Floyd Cornett, 61, former resident of the Johns Creek section of this county, Wednesday of last week, after being struck by a falling tree while at work on Big Creek, near Hatfield on a logging job.

Forty Years Ago

(July 11, 1946)

Five suits seeking cancellation of as many whiskey licenses recently granted to Floyd county retail dealers were filed Saturday in the Franklin Circuit Court by County Judge A. L. Davidson against three agents of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, the board as a whole and each of the licenses. Mrs. Hatler Collins, 18, of Hall, Knott county, was shot and killed Monday morning at the home of her parents at Hi Hat. Cecil Coburn, 30, former Handshoe resident, was killed, and his brother, John M., was seriously injured Tuesday in a truck wreck in North Carolina. Filling vacancies created in the Town Council of Martin by the resignation of three of its five members—Ted Salisbury, Demra Taylor and W. J. Ryan—was a task posing another headache for County Judge Alex Davidson this week as opposing factions in the community sought appointments for their friends. The Floyd fiscal court in its first year Monday called on the State Highway Commission to fulfill the five-year-old agreement of the commission to repair the bridge across the Big Sandy at Betsy Layne. Floyd county's rural schools will open their term Monday, July 15, concurrently with the beginning of the term as Superintendent of Schools Palmer L. Hall announced. Married: Miss Leona Baldrige Hall, of Prestonsburg, and 2nd Lt. Thomas Oaks, of Jenkins, June 15; Miss Kelsa Gearheart and Mr. Jesse Elliott, both of Betsy Layne, July 1; Miss Bertha Gearheart, of Hueysville, and Mr. Guy McMillen, Jr., of Columbus, Ohio, June 8. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Lewis, of Prestonsburg, a daughter, July 9 at the Prestonsburg General Hospital; to Lt. and Mrs. Moses Hall, of Albany, Georgia, formerly of Prestonsburg, a son, Michael Howard, July 6; to Mr. and Mrs. Randolph "Billy" Burchett, a son, Randolph, Jr., July 3 at the Paintsville Hospital; to Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Hall, of Ivel, a son, Tommy Duran, June 28 at a Paintsville hospital. There died: Cpl. Edgel Johnson, 26, of Wheelwright, July 1 at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D.C.

Fifty Years Ago

(July 10, 1936)

Rains falling almost daily since Thursday, last week, have definitely broken the drought which has prevailed in this section for over a month. Prospects of procuring from the Public Works Administration an outright grant to partially fund construction of an addition to the Floyd county courthouse and to effect repairs there are excellent, it was said this week by County Attorney Forest D. Short and County Clerk A. B. Meade. T. J. Hagans, 67, of Langley, was killed, and his wife seriously injured, Friday morning, when their auto crashed into the side of a state highway oil truck at the intersection of the Mayo Trail and the Allen-Lackey highway near Allen. Corbett Hollifield, 23, of Garrett, died July 2 at the Beaver Valley Hospital, Martin, of the effects of an accidental bullet wound, sustained the preceding Sunday. A 2,000,000 cubic-foot gas well which came in on the J. W. Burchett farm, Cow Creek, Monday night, was attended by a burst of flame which destroyed the drilling rig of Garver and Williams drilling contractors at an estimated loss of $5,000. Deputy Sheriff Lee Fitzpatrick, assisted by Jake and Norman Holbrook, last Thursday, captured a moonshine still on the Ray Branch of Middle Creek. The auto of Ransie Marcum, Flo peace officer, was stolen last Thursday night. Married: Miss Irene Holbrook, of Salyersville, and Mr. French Cline, of Williamson, West Virginia, here, July 3. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Fred DeRossett, a daughter, Nella Joe, June 27. There died: Miss Mabel Waddell, 23, of Hueysville, at the Beaver Valley Hospital, Wednesday morning; T. J. Hagans, 67, of Maytown, July 3 in a car wreck at Allen.

ANOTHER ONE, YET!
I promise you, this is almost certainly the last of the Not An I.Q. Test quizzes to be inflicted on you, mainly because with this one, I'm fresh out. Now, of course, if someone sent me another series, that might put a different complexion on the matter. Anyway, have at it as you will, and let me know how you do.

IN NEED

Now that the animal shelter question has been decided, and the dust has settled, the folks trying to bring the place up to par will welcome help in almost any form—paint, plaster, fencing, cages, polyurethane, or just a hand in doing all the needed repairs. Oh, yes, money is also in short supply. Any help given in any way will be greatly appreciated—and it's tax deductible.

BEAUTIFUL BUT DUMB

Margaret Mitchell never in her wildest dreams conjured up the Scarlett O'Hara I know. She is a nervous, high-strung beauty with auburn hair, and she came from the head of Tinker Fork. Rarely still, moving erratically, elusively, she no doubt drives my neighbors to the brink of caninicide, for my Scarlett is a beautiful Irish setter. Not very smart, but beautiful. And that, I understand, is the nature of the breed.

PREDICTABLE

The monsoon season has apparently arrived with its daily downpour. And with very little in the way of ESP and no claim to deja vu, I can predict with uncanny accuracy when the downpour will occur. It is, without fail, just a little after I have sat down to rest a spell in the sun.

VISITS FROM CALIFORNIA

While Mrs. Ray Brackett, of Allen, was the recent guest of her mother, Mrs. J. Frank Preston at her home at Ulysses, Mrs. Preston's sister, Dr. Gwen Auxier, of Riverside, California, came there for a visit with them and other members of their family. During that time, many of their relatives and friends, including Mrs. Knox Burchett and daughters, Michelle and Sarah, of Virginia Beach, Virginia; Miss Laura Brackett and John Thrasher, of Lexington; Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Brackett and daughter, Angela Frances, of Ulysses, Mrs. Ray Crisp and Mrs. Nancy Cantrell, of Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Hicks and sons, Jeremy and Josh, of Auxier, Atty. and Mrs. John David Preston, and Mrs. Douglas Galbraith, of Paintsville, Mrs. Howard Moore, of Louisa, and Mrs. John G. Auxier, of Whites Creek, West Virginia, came for a visit with them. Dr. Auxier also visited with her niece and nephew, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Brackett, at their home at Allen, and with other relatives and friends, before returning to her home.

Because of the decline in interest rates, the bonds remaining to be sold from the 1979 issue may now be sold more cheaply, resulting in a savings for the county. The change will not affect homeowners who have financed their homes with the bond money.

The court voted the sheriff's department $600 to pay the postage on this year's delinquent tax bills. While most of the unpaid bills are for real estate taxes, many of them are addressed to boat owners, who are notoriously reluctant to pay taxes on their boats, said Grace Damron, a sheriff's department bookkeeper. "I'm amazed at the number of people who own boats and don't pay taxes. We don't have five percent of them," Mrs. Damron said.

Property owners whose boundaries have become uncertain may wish to take advantage of a state statute that permits the fiscal court to appoint "partitioners" to draw the lines anew, thus avoiding the formality and expense of a circuit court adjudication, County Attorney David Barber told the fiscal court. His comments came in explanation of a joint petition by Blue River property owners James and Sadie Slone and Brady, Rose, and Astor Collins to have a court-appointed surveyor fix their boundaries.

What the judge-executive described as a routine request by Jailer Lawrence Hale for permission to appoint James Wells and James Slone as part-time deputies ran into trouble when Magistrates Owens and Gerald DeRossett insisted that the jailer be present to explain his choices. Stumbo voted with magistrates Ed Caudill and Ermal Tackett to honor the jailer's request.

The court heard a request by Ronnie Bates for help in getting city water to residents on the ridge between Stephens Branch of Right Beaver Creek and Caney Fork of Middle Creek, a section that is out of reach of both the Beaver-Elkhorn and the Prestonsburg systems. The judge-executive offered to assist in an appeal to Congressman Chris Perkins for federal funds for the project but no immediate relief appeared likely.

In response to a request by the Prater Creek Water District, the court authorized the county attorney to proceed with condemnation proceedings against Prater Creek landowner Russell Frazier, Sr., who declined to grant an easement for a water line on his property. Holly Leach, water systems consultant with the Big Sandy Area Development District, explained there were no feasible alternatives to laying the proposed water main on the edge of the Frazier property.

Contracts for road materials were awarded to all three of the firms submitting bids—Adams Construction, East Kentucky Paving, and Mountain Enterprises; a contract for gasoline was let to Action Petroleum, the only bidder; and one for cleaning supplies was awarded to Sysco, also the only bidder. A single bid was also received for the microfilming of deed books in the clerk's office, Southern Rebinding Co., a Morganton, NC firm offering to record 205,000 pages for $16,474. No bids were received on pipe.

The county roads foreman will be sent to inspect a rise in the road on Beech Branch of Middle Creek at the request of Mrs. Thurmal Collins, who said the sharp crest precludes a view of oncoming drivers, creating a hazard.

Garrett school principal Ralph O'Quinn made a pitch for new equipment and repairs at the mini-park there.

County detectives Quentin Henry Scott and Bob Hackworth, Jr. took Magistrate Owens to task for his recent criticism that the law officers are using their authority to harass his political supporters. The court adjourned without being drawn into the discussion.

asked rhetorically. "What the Conns wanted was that 300,000 tons of coal."

Assistant County Attorney Dan Rowland dismissed Goodman's argument, however, as "calculated to inflame you against Floyd county," and reminded jurors that they would ultimately be paying the money they awarded the plaintiffs.

"This wheelage thing is just a way to try to get the price up," he said. "But the money these folks gets belongs to us. It is our taxes. It is coming from you and me."

The $1200 the county offered as compensation was the value put on the condemned strip by three court-appointed commissioners. Willie Prater, an appraiser who testified for the county, assessed the Mullinses' loss at $1000.

"The testimony of Willie Prater is a lot more fair than that of Joe Weddington," the county attorney argued.

The jury agreed. After viewing the site and then retiring for about 20 minutes' deliberation, they awarded the Mullinses just $2500 for their loss.

A Correction...

The victim of a shooting at Halo was incorrectly identified in a story in last week's Times. He is Lester Johnson, Sr., and he is 46.

...and A Clarification

While early police reports did not identify the driver of the car in which Tammy Elkins died as the result of a head-on collision just north of here last November, a later police report and other evidence reveals that the car was driven by her sister-in-law, Janice Elkins, according to Jimmy Little, the victim's brother.

Miss McGill-Lt. Duncan Wed

The marriage of Miss Pamela Sue McGill, of Versailles, Kentucky, daughter of Thomas McGill and the late Elsie McGill, and Lt. James H. Duncan, III, also of Versailles, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Henry Duncan, Jr., was solemnized Saturday, June 14, at 4 p.m. at the Versailles United Methodist Church.

The groom is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Ermine Hall, of Prestonsburg.

Dr. Raymond Gibson, formerly of Wheelwright, and Dr. James Shepherd performed the double-ring ceremony before an altar decorated with a fan-shaped arrangement of yellow snapdragons, white carnations in a brass urn accented by two seven branched brass candelabra with burning white tapers. The brass unity candle, altar rail and family pews were decorated with greenery of spring rye, asparagus fern and lemon foliage accented with white carnations and white satin bows with flowing streamers. The windows of the church were adorned with magnolia leaves centered by hurricane lamps over white burning tapers.

A program of nuptial music was provided by Jennifer Klier, organist; Belinda Terry and Lyen Crews, Sr., vocalists. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal length gown designed and fashioned by the groom's mother. The fitted bodice, featuring a bateau neckline and illusion fitted sleeves tapering to a point at the wrist, was constructed of silk organza under English net with an overlay of Alencon lace. A basque waist accented the pearle soie skirt. The detachable cathedral-length train and the hem of the gown were embroidered with Alencon lace and the entire ensemble was accented with seed pearls and Irish sequins attached by crystal rocailles. She wore a triple-layered floor-length veil of silk illusion attached to a wreath of silk flowers and sprays of seed pearls. Her bouquet was a cascade of white gardenias, stephanotis and miniature carnations.

Miss Deborah Martin served as maid of honor. Pamela Sue Duncan, sister of the groom, Sherrie McGill and Angela Watson, sisters of the bride, and Kim Reid were bridesmaids. Brandy Samons, cousin of the bride, was the flower girl.

The bride's attendants wore matching formal-length gowns of lemon yellow silk moire taffeta, accented with Schifli embroidered jackets of white silk organza. They wore headpieces of silk flowers and illusion and satin streamers. The attendants carried bouquets of yellow sweetheart roses and white miniature carnations. The flower girl wore a formal-length gown similar to that of the bridesmaids and carried a wicker basket of yellow rose petals.

J. Henry Duncan, Jr., served his son as best man. Wallace Bailey, uncle of the groom, Lt. Eric Belcher and Cadet Kris Belcher, cousins of the groom, and Danny Troxell, cousin of the bride, served as groomsmen.

Lt. Randall Anderson, Jonathan Edwards and Joel Arthur Mize served as ushers.

Mrs. Duncan, mother of the groom, chose a lavender tea-length gown of silk chiffon over a silk taffeta skirt. She wore matching lavender satin pumps and a corsage of yellow sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Hall, maternal grandmother of the groom, wore a pastel blue silk chiffon dress accented by a tucked bodice and pleated skirt. Matching accessories and a corsage of sweetheart roses completed her ensemble.

Mrs. Faye D. Holman, aunt of the groom, attended the guest register.

Amidst glowing candles and soft music, guests were welcomed to a buffet and dance at the Colonial Ballroom of the Campbell House Inn, in Lexington, Kentucky.

Lt. and Mrs. Duncan are graduates of Woodford County High School, Versailles, and the University of Kentucky.

After a wedding trip to Cancun, Mexico, the couple is residing in Lawton, Oklahoma where the groom is serving in the United States Army at Fort Sill.

Guests from out-of-town included Mrs. Wallace Bailey, of Paintsville; Mr. and Mrs. James L. Hall and Jeff, of St. Paul, Virginia; Mr. and Mrs. John J. Meyer, Jr., and Dinah and Rosie, Charles E. Hall and Mike and Ernie, all of Columbus, Ohio; Mrs. Danny Troxell and Margo Troxell, of Prestonsburg.

Pre-nuptial parties included the following:

Mrs. Susan Walton gave the couple a miscellaneous shower at the Versailles United Methodist Church; Mrs. Frances Belcher and Mrs. Faye Holman hosted a miscellaneous shower in Russellville; a shower for the bride and groom was hosted by Kim Reid at her home in Lexington; a dinner party was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. David Terry at the home of Mrs. Terry's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Bond, III, of Versailles.

Lt. Eric Belcher and Cadet Kris Belcher gave a bachelor party for the groom in Lexington, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Henry Duncan, Jr., hosted the wedding rehearsal dinner at the Bluegrass Room of the Springs Inn in Lexington.

City Awards Lease For Animal Shelter

By vote of Prestonsburg City Council, the Dewey Dam Dog and Cat Protection Association was given a one-year contract Monday night to oversee the animal shelter on the old Middle Creek road.

The DDD&CPS had previously been awarded a contract by Floyd Fiscal Court, on condition that the city of Prestonsburg enter into a like agreement. The city, in addition to leasing the animal shelter to the DDD&CPS for $1 per year (the same rate charged the previous overseer, the East Kentucky Wildlife Federation), will provide them with $200 per month to help defray operational costs.

DDD&CPS President Ned Pillersdorf told the council prior to its vote that the combined funds his organization was receiving from the city and the fiscal court made for a very tight budget. In all, the shelter will receive $12,400 a year from those sources. He pointed out that if the shelter employs one full-time worker at minimum wage, it will cost $8,400 annually. With other expenses, such as utilities and food, he said the money will soon be spent.

Pillersdorf told the council the DDD&CPS will hold a fund drive to try and make up the difference. "If we don't raise the funds, we'll be back next year to ask three times this amount," he said.

Pillersdorf listed as a priority the shoring up of the shelter's sagging reputation. He said he was quoted in a story in the Lexington Herald-Leader several months ago as calling the shelter merely "a building with a gas chamber." Things will be different now, he said, and he wants the public aware of the changes.

"The Lexington television stations have called me continuously through this," he said. Plans call for television crews to film the shelter's grand reopening.

The DDD&CPS has not yet decided upon an amount to charge for adopting animals, he said. While Pillersdorf said he was lobbying for $10 or $12 per pet, he indicated some in the organization want to adopt the animals out at cost, which would be about $8.

"I suspect after the first couple of months I'll get my way," after the others see the need for additional revenues, he said.

To bring an animal to the shelter will cost individuals $3. This service will be provided free to the city of Prestonsburg.

Pillersdorf said he hoped the DDD&CPS could provide an animal pick-up service for Prestonsburg to bring in strays. "If we have anything left over, I'd love to do that," he said.

The motion to award the one-year contract passed, but not without some controversy. Councilman Bill Callihan argued that, before the city authorized funds for the shelter, it should grant an across-the-board raise of 3.5 percent for city employees.

In the course of a heated discussion of the pay-raise proposal, to which the council returned later, Callihan explained his motion was not meant to include his own salary as city traffic control officer. Feeling rebuffed at one point, he threatened to resign his seat on council, claiming "they won't let me do anything." After gathering his papers and briefly walking away, however, he returned to his seat for the rest of the meeting.

Among city employees most interested in a pay hike are Fire Chief Tom Blackburn and Police Chief Stan Fletcher. Both are paid straight monthly salaries and have subordinates who, paid by the hour, stand to gross higher annual wages when overtime pay is added.

The city administrator was to be instructed to outline a raise schedule for council members to study before the next meeting.

In other business, the council heard from Briarwood resident Ron Hooker, who requested the speed limit from the Ball Alley Curve area along KY 1428 through Lancer be lowered to 35 mph. Police Chief Fletcher said he had made a similar request about a year ago to state authorities, but had been turned down. A compromise proposal of 45 mph was reached, and Fletcher was directed to contact state highway officials with the city's request.

The council set a property tax rate of 25 cents per $100 evaluation, the same rate charged last year.

Resolutions were made honoring the Junior Woman's Club for its help in providing flowers during the city's beautification project, and to the Kiwanis Club, for providing a flag pole and flags for the municipal parking lot.

DUI Cases Spawn Varied Defenses

The state trooper who pulled Greg Mullins over for speeding had no right to subject him to the field sobriety tests that led to a drunk driving charge, defense attorney Jerry Patton told a Floyd District Court jury this week. "This man's rights were violated," he said. The jury thought otherwise, however, convicting Mullins, setting a 48-hour jail sentence, and ordering him to pay $407 in fine and court costs.

Patton based his defense on the admission by Trooper Scott Hazlette that the only reason he stopped Mullins at Eastern in the early hours of March 16 was that the 22-year-old Hippo man was speeding. Mullins, driving a new car, said he had drunk only two beers at the Paradise Lounge that night and was not intoxicated. Hazlette admitted under cross-examination that Mullins was neither driving erratically nor staggering when he got out of his car. But the defendant failed three sobriety tests and recorded a .12 on the Breathalyzer, the officer noted.

Ralph DeBoard's attorney, Don Goble, sought to show that Trooper Hazlette picked up the wrong man when he arrested his client at Harold last April, noting that DeBoard was not behind the wheel of the car when the police officer pulled up behind it. Hazlette conceded he briefly lost sight of the car he was pursuing but convinced the jury he had apprehended the right man. DeBoard, 40, of Ivel, received a 48-hour sentence and will have to pay $407 in fine and costs.

Bench warrants were issued for Billy J. Scott, 36, of Hueysville, Ricky Dean Slone, 26, of Hi Hat, and Collis Hancock, 49, of Sturgis, all of whom failed to appear in court, were convicted of drunk driving in their absence, and received 60-day jail terms. Slone and Hancock were fined $757; Scott, who has two previous DUI convictions under the new law, will pay $1207.

Evelyn E. Keathley, 33, of Allen, convicted of a second DUI offense, received a 14-day sentence, with $557 in fine and costs. For the 14-day period, she was ordered to report daily to the court for public service and to be closely confined at night in her own home. She faces a third DUI charge on July 17.

Marion Kilburn, 25, of Martin, sentenced to 30 days and ordered to pay $711 for drunk driving, will be released daily for work, according to a court order. Danny Ray Bradley, 27, of Wayland, convicted in a jury trial of a third offense, sentenced to seven days, and ordered to pay $770, will serve his jail term on weekends. Also convicted of DUI was Anthony T. Isaac, 34, of Martin, who pleaded guilty to a first offense and was ordered to pay $357.

In one of the rare DUI cases to be thrown out by a jury this week, Richard A. King, 29, of Morrison, Tenn., was acquitted after testifying that Prestonsburg police officer Mike Meade had expressed annoyance that the Breathalyzer—on which King recorded a .11—was apparently malfunctioning. He was convicted of speeding, however, and ordered to pay $127.

Convicted in her absence of a charge of theft by deception was Ruth Lawson, of Harold, who was said to have passed three cold checks totalling $63 at the Piggly Wiggly supermarket. She was sentenced to two days and ordered to pay $77 and to make restitution. A bench warrant was issued for her.

'Sweet Charity' Opening Tonight at Jenny Wiley

"It's like Ruth Gordon once said: 'Acting is easy if you know how to do it.'" So says Tina James, who'll be ready to test the truth of that maxim when she opens in the title role of Sweet Charity, at Jenny Wiley Theatre in Prestonsburg on July 16.

Growing up in Fairfax, Virginia, close to Washington, D.C., was a real advantage, says James, since theatrical activity was plentiful. "There was always a lot of theatre going on," she remembers. She became involved with Stage Inc., a group of top high school performers brought together by Pete Jameson, who produced "The Howdy Doodly Show" for television. "We did fantastic shows," she says. "We even did a production of Carnival with the puppets from the original Broadway show." From there it was a natural step into area dinner theatre, then summer stock, including Jenny Wiley Theatre, where she first appeared in 1975.

"I had auditioned for Jenny Wiley that year, and they turned me down," she says. "But then a girl who'd been cast decided not to come down, so I got the call." That first season she played Mag in Brigadoon and Cleo in The Most Happy Fella, along with a featured solo in Godspell. "But I ended up with an additional song in Godspell. A boy in the cast literally broke his leg and couldn't go on, so they gave me his song, too." James remembers another cast member who thought he should've had the song in question, but lost out. And the man's name? Dan Delafield—now James' husband and Jenny Wiley Theatre's Artistic Director.

James laughs at the irony. "Dan really believed he'd get that song, since he was the only one in the show who didn't have one!" A funny kind of introduction, James admits, for a couple who've been happily married for nearly a decade and have two sons: Ross, age 6, and Andrew, 3.

"I met many of the people in the community that summer, and I kept coming back and coming back," James says. She appeared at Jenny Wiley Theatre from 1975 to 1979, moving to New York City with husband Delafield after the 1979 season.

Now she's returned, playing Charity Hope Valentine—a role strongly identified with two performers: Gwen Verdon, who played it on Broadway, and Shirley MacLaine, who played it in the film version. Does James feel she might be overshadowed by the memory of their performances?

"Not a bit," she replies firmly. "I don't try to compare myself with anyone else or their work. I think I can do just as good a job."

James says her approach to the role

Mother-of-pearl, or nacre, often used as decorative handles for knives and other implements, needs only soap and water for cleaning. Avoid ammonia and don't let handles soak.

of Charity is pretty straight-forward. "I have a character history for Charity. It answers those time-honored questions: Who am I? Where am I? Why am I singing this particular lyric at this point?" She thinks a performer needs to remember to make what they're doing onstage interesting for an audience to watch.

And with just two short weeks to rehearse a major role like Charity, what's the biggest challenge?

"Lines!" she says without hesitation. "Charity has pages and pages of lines, paragraph after paragraph." But she adds that the rhythm of summer stock performing forces her to get things quickly. "I also had a great advantage in knowing well in advance I'd be playing the role. So I did a lot of work before rehearsals even began."

Sweet Charity was written by Neil Simon, Cy Coleman and Dorothy Fields in 1965. It's the story of one woman's search for love in a city of indifference. Charity, James says, never stops looking for one man to love her and take care of her. Her search is sometimes funny, sometimes sad, but always full of hope. James thinks the show's premise still holds after more than twenty years.

"It's the story of a person who wanted to be loved. That's what it's about and that's still valid. I'm a pretty independent person, but I still feel the need for that sense of security that comes with a husband and family."

Sweet Charity opens Wednesday, July 16 at 8:30 p.m. at Jenny Wiley Amphitheatre, and runs in repertory through August 21. For ticket information, call (606) 886-9274.

Hall To Head Ford Campaign

U.S. Senator Wendell Ford has named Eric D. Hall to serve as Floyd chairman of his campaign for election to a third Senate term.

Hall, an attorney with the Turner, Hall and Stumbo law firm and a former assistant county attorney, said the fact that Ford, if re-elected, will be no less than 29th in seniority in the next Congress is an important reason for supporting him. If Democrats regain control of the Senate, he noted, Ford is in line to become chairman of the Rules Committee.

On an average of every 18 days, a new star is formed in our galaxy.

RESPONSE TO

PAUL HUNT THOMPSON'S AD IN LAST WEEK'S FLOYD COUNTY TIMES ABOUT "FREEDOM OF SPEECH"

First off it sounds like it was wrote in PIG LATIN. When it comes down to the Fiscal Court Meetings, when the people of District 2 ask me to stand up for them—I'll stand up for them and if it steps on a few people's toes who don't like for everything to be known—THAT'S JUST TOUGH. As far as these County Detectives—PAID or UNPAID—we don't need either. If you get this upset about me just telling the people that you are a County Detective, you're in for a big surprise if you ever become an elected official. I think when it comes to spending around $10,000 a year for County Detectives and up to nearly $40,000 before this term is over is a WASTE of MONEY when we have already got a Sheriff that was elected by the people and paid by the taxpayers to do this job and also the Kentucky State Police and the Kentucky State Detectives that are trained and are paid by the taxpayers and I feel they can handle the job without the County Detectives—paid or unpaid. I feel this $40,000 could be better used for blacktop or gravel.

I also heard this propaganda on the radio WQHY-95. This report sounded BIASED to me on the news in favor of Paul Hunt Thompson. They reported that some person had called in and said they had a road that was impassable in my District. This is nothing but a lie. Every county road in my District is in the best shape it has been in a long time, but we'll never get caught up with the work that needs to be done on them.

It's funny how this person never left their name or where they lived—This is not news—this is just hearsay.

People, I'm going to go to the Fiscal Court and stand up for what I think is right and I'm going to vote that way. Threats of Lawsuits is not going to make me back down on my stands one bit.

The Floyd County Times didn't publish one paragraph of my response concerning Paul Hunt Thompson and Gorman Collins, Jr. I feel the paragraph left out was the most important one.

Arts, Crafts Guild Celebrates 25th Yr.

This year, the Kentucky Guild of Artists and Craftsmen celebrates its 25th anniversary. And while the art train, so prominent in its early history, no longer travels the rails, the guild continues to move steadily toward the 21st Century—stronger, more vital than ever.

Mike Imes, president of the 600-member guild, noted that from its inception in 1961 the group has dedicated itself to educating craftsmen and developing viable markets for their work.

"The guild's workshops, exhibitions, conferences, fairs and galleries have introduced thousands of people to high quality crafts," he said. "It has survived and thrived because its membership has stayed vital and aware of the guild's importance to artists and craftsmen as well as to the state of the arts and crafts in Kentucky."

The idea for a guild really began with prominent Louisville enamelist and painter Virginia Minish in the late 1950s. She envisioned a crafts industry as a way to help create jobs in economically depressed Eastern Kentucky, a region rich with traditional culture and many hands eager to work.

She enlisted support for her idea, and by 1960 the project was well on its way to fruition. She received an initial private grant through Barry Bingham, Sr., and the promise of two baggage cars from the L & N Railroad for use as a mobile art gallery and workshop. Mrs. Minish gained additional support from Gov. Bert Combs' administration, which was looking for ways to create new jobs and bolster the economy.

Soon, the "Guild Train," with its gallery and its workshops, as well as the Kentucky Guild of Artists and Craftsmen, became a reality. The train, Mrs. Minish's idea of a museum to inspire and educate Kentuckians about the visual arts, traveled the rails to all parts of the state until 1967.

The guild's membership includes individual artists and craftsmen, and guild centers, which offer opportunities for the sale of crafts.

Chartered as a non-profit educational organization, the guild has helped prepare artists and craftsmen to better cope with what is an unpredictable marketplace and to educate the public about quality and processes in arts and crafts. The guild also helped to provide income for artists and craftsmen by marketing their work, and in this, its shops and fairs have proved most successful.

Two prominent Louisville visual arts institutions, the Kentucky Art and Craft Foundation and the Water Tower Art Association, are supporting the guild in its anniversary celebration by hosting a variety of events. Other Kentucky arts organizations—the Department of the Arts and its Arts Council, the Development Foundation—are joining to help produce festivities.

An exhibition began July 8 at the Kentucky Art and Craft Foundation Gallery in Louisville. Then during the weekend of July 25-27, the guild and the Water Tower Association will co-sponsor a mafor outdoor crafts fair at the historic water tower on Upper River Road. A guild historic exhibit will go on display in the tower at this same time. Also, a special part of the opening ceremonies for this retrospective exhibit will be the naming of "Fellows of the Kentucky Guild." This new honorary title will acknowledge the key people in the Kentucky guild's growth and success.

After the Louisville premiere, many other communities and groups will join to host a traveling exhibition selected from portions of the Louisville shows. So, during its silver anniversary year, the guild will be "on the road again."

For further information about any of the plans and programs celebrating the guild's silver anniversary, contact the Water Tower Art Association (502) 896-2146.

Summer Poisoning Hazards

With summer's long days it is not surprising that many of summer's poisoning hazards involve outdoor activities. Listed below is information concerning some of the more common of these hazards.

PETROLEUM PRODUCTS

Petroleum products include such things as gasoline, paint thinner, furniture polishes, kerosene, and mineral or motor oils. Closely related are products derived from trees like turpentine and pine oil. As these products are commonly found in most homes, they are often swallowed by curious children. Petroleum products often cause their damage by getting into the lungs causing prolonged coughing and difficulty in breathing. They may also make a child vomit or sleepy or lethargic.

Because these products are potentially very dangerous they should always be kept out of reach of children. If your child does ingest one of these materials contact your doctor or Poison Center. They will recommend the proper treatment which is dependent upon the particular product involved. Do not induce vomiting unless instructed to do so by a physician or Poison Center as this may only increase the risk of serious problems.

MUSHROOMS

Mushrooms (or toadstools) are a fascinating object for most young children. Unfortunately, many common species are capable of causing symptoms or even death if eaten. There are many myths about mushrooms, such as: "if an animal eats a mushroom it is safe" or "if it doesn't turn a silver spoon black when boiled it's safe" or "mushrooms growing in clusters are safe." All of these myths and many others are false. It takes an expert to identify mushrooms and tell if they are safe. Even then, some species may be poisonous at some times or locations and not at others. All wild mushroom ingestions by children should be considered potentially dangerous. Contact your local Poison Center for advice and, if possible, be prepared to show them a specimen of the mushroom (roots and all) for identification. Specimens for identification should be placed in a paper bag—not plastic. Remember, never pick and eat wild mushrooms unless you are an expert at their identification.

BITES

Bites of all types are a common summer problem. They can be annoying, painful and sometimes even fatal. The following types of bites deserve immediate medical attention: 1) bites from poisonous snakes 2) bites from stinging insects in patients with a known serious allergy to these insect bites 3) bites from poisonous insects (certain spiders and scorpions) in very young children or adults with serious medical problems 4) any bite that produces major symptoms such as difficulty breathing or pronounced local swelling. Other types of bites you can usually care for yourself, perhaps with the help of your physician or Poison Center.

Most bites from stinging insects including bees, wasps, ants, and most spiders can be treated by the application of cold compresses (not ice applied directly to the skin). The application of a paste made from meat tenderizer, if done soon after a bite, is sometimes helpful.

Many methods have been advocated for the removal of ticks, which are a common summer problem. One good method is the application of a drop of gasoline or nail polish remover with the removal of the tick with tweezers a few minutes later. This method should be used with care on the face. The use of hot matches or cigarettes, while effective, runs the risk of burning an active child.

Remember to teach children to ask an adult first, before putting anything into their mouths.

OTHER SUMMER POISONING HAZARDS

Alcohol, cigarettes, medications, personal care products, household cleaners, fertilizers, outdoor plants, bulbs, and berries, indoor plants, lead from old paint chips, fireworks.

POISON PREVENTION TIPS

1. Keep all medicines, cleaning products, etc. out of reach and out of sight of children.
2. Do not put medicines or cleaning products, etc. in the same cabinet as food.
3. Try to purchase only those products with safety caps.
4. Do not make a game of taking medicine.
5. Remember, alcohol and tobacco are drugs. Find out if it is safe to drink while on medication.
6. Keep products in their original containers.
7. Dispose of old medicines properly.

FIRST AID MEASURES ONE CAN TAKE WHEN A POISONING OCCURS

FOR SWALLOWED OR INGESTED POISONS: if the individual is conscious, alert, and able to swallow, give water only. Call the Poison Center or your physician. CAUTION: Antidote labels on products and antidote charts may be out of date and incorrect. DO NOT give salt, vinegar, or citrus fruit juices. Do not induce vomiting, even with Ipecac Syrup unless so instructed by your Poison Center or physician.

FOR POISONS ON THE SKIN: Remove affected clothing. Flood involved parts of body with water, wash with soap and water, and rinse. Call the Poison Center or your physician.

FOR INHALED POISONS: Immediate carry or drag the person to fresh air and give mouth-to-mouth resuscitation if necessary. Ventilate the area. Call the Poison Center or your physician.

RECOMMENDATION: Keep on hand SYRUP OF IPECAC which induces vomiting, and epsom salts which acts as a laxative. Do not use either one unless instructed to do so by your Poison Center or your physician, and follow their directions for use.

Genealogists Asked To Meet In Jackson Saturday, July 19

Genealogists will want to mark July 19 on their calendar. That Saturday, the Breathitt County Historical Society hosts "Collecting Capital Clues," a half-day seminar to be held at Lee's College in Jackson. The program will explore the wealth of family and public records available in Frankfort to researchers in family history. The capital is home to the Kentucky Historical Society, the Kentucky Department for Libraries and Archives, the Kentucky Military Records Center, and many other repositories of genealogical and historical records. "Collecting Capital Clues" will offer insights on how to begin one's family research using the thousands of research items available in Frankfort.

The program begins at 9:15 a.m. Among the guest speakers are Ron Bryant, Kentucky Historical Society Library; James Prichard, Kentucky Department for Libraries and Archives Research Room, and Jim Wallace, Kentucky Historical Society. Those attending are encouraged to bring historic family photographs that they would like to have copied and also any genealogical or historical publications they would like to display.

Registration fee includes a catered luncheon and handouts. Checks should be made payable to Charles Riley, Breathitt County Historical Society, HC 36, Box 440, Gays Creek, Ky. 41745.

"Collecting Capital Clues" is the southeastern regional meeting of the Historical Confederation of Kentucky, an alliance of 130 historical and genealogical organizations. For further information on the confederation, contact William B. Chescheir, Kentucky Historical Society, P.O. Box H, Frankfort, Ky. 40602-2108.

Exchange Vows, July 5

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wilson Short announce the marriage of their daughter, Maria Layne, to Mr. Joseph Wesley Campbell, son of Mr. Keith Campbell, of Prestonsburg, and Mrs. Lolita Arnett Campbell, of Lexington.

The wedding ceremony was performed at St. James Episcopal Church, Saturday, July 5th at 6:30 in the evening.

Stephen H. Davis, a cousin of the bride, served as acolyte and ushered the bridegroom's mother to her seat.

Mrs. Joseph Buchanan, Sr. provided appropriate music at the organ.

Miss Audrey Webb, the maid of honor, was dressed in a floor length blue, sheer gown, and carried a long stemmed white rose bud with lavender and blue streamers.

The bride was lovely in a floor-length, white lace gown, with a cameo at her throat, which had been her great-grandmother Layne's. She carried a nosegay of white baby carnations, lavender roses and baby's breath with blue and lavender streamers. She was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by both parents.

The bridegroom's best man was his older brother, Dwayne Campbell.

The Rev. Julian Hugh Adams performed the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Betty Archer Davis, cousin of the bride, read I Corinthians: 13. Mrs. Joseph Arnett, maternal grandmother of the bridegroom, read from the Song of Solomon: 2:10-13 and 8: 6-7.

The white satin and lace kneeling pillow has been used at the bride's parents wedding in 1960.

The wedding ceremony was followed by a small reception in the Parish Hall.

Mrs. Sarah Buchanan Cross and Miss Margaret Buchanan, cousins of the bride, presided at the guest book.

Mrs. Don Howard and Mrs. Martha M. Hicks served punch and cake from a beautifully appointed table.

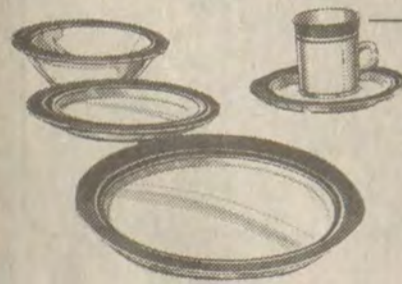

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell are at home to their friends on Abbott Road, Prestonsburg.

Collins Family Holds First Annual Reunion

The family of the late Casel and Judy Collins held its first family reunion, June 28. Of 10 of living children out of a family of twelve and two grandchildren they raised from babies, loved and cared for as their own, nine of the children were present and one of the grandchildren, Pauline Hall, one son, Ed Collins, was unable to come due to sickness.

Present were children, in-laws, grandchildren, great-great-grandchildren and their families, who came from as far away as Texas, Calif., Kansas, Louisiana, Michigan, W. Va., Va., Ohio and Florida.

Arietta Machowicz, of Pembroke Pines, Fla., Jim and Judy Aiken and family, of Woodhaven, Mich., Jeff and Beth Daniels and family, of Houston, Tex., spent a few days camping and sightseeing in the Smokey Mountains, returning in time for the reunion.

Jim and Judy Aiken and daughters spent a night with Preston and Billie Faye Collins at Garth.

Mary Daniels, of Trenton, Mich., and Arietta Machowicz, of Pembroke Pines, Fla., spent the past weekend with their sister, Vernie Messinger, at Martin. Preston Collins motored to Hindman, Sunday, to see a neighbor, Mrs. Ellen Halbert, in a nursing home, there.

The llama is a South American pack animal of the camel family valued for its wool and milk.

SUSAN MARTIN, HRMC's Director of Development, gives a brochure explaining the personalized tiles the hospital is selling to fund its new breast center to Wanda Price, of the Riverday Homemakers. The brochure will be appearing in area newspapers during the week of July 14-18.

While "Star Wars" remains largely theory, the Soviet Union is pouring an estimated $10 billion a year into "Red Shield," a ballistic-missile-defense system that may soon blanket that entire country, the July Reader's Digest reports. The system enhances the Soviets' growing ability to launch a nuclear first-strike against the United States without fear of effective retaliation.

SAFE AT HOME: Kevin Webb slides in safely Wednesday night with Floyd County's first run.

Floyd County Takes District Nine Title

In a game that required three days to complete, the Floyd County 15 year old Babe Ruth All-Stars defeated Johnson County Friday to claim the District Nine title.

Floyd County, composed enough to overcome continuous rains and several questionable umpire's decisions, rode the crest of an eight hit attack in defeating arch rival Johnson County 6-3.

Shortstop Kevin Webb and third baseman Rady Martin lead the Floyd County offensive attack. Webb collected a single and a double with two runs scored and an RBI while Martin went three for four at the plate, picking up a run scored and a run batted in.

Mark Tipton picked up the victory for Floyd County, working five innings. Tipton surrendered three runs on six hits, walking four and striking out five.

Floyd County, after Donnie Hackworth put Johnson County up 2-0 with a two out, two run homerun, tied the score in the second when Rady Martin singled in Kevin Webb and Brad Hall scored on a passed ball.

The local All Stars added a run in the third on the strength of Webb's run scoring triple, and after Johnson County tied the score in the bottom half of the third, Floyd County broke things open in the fourth.

Martin, leading off the inning, reached safely on an error, followed by a Barry Hamilton single. Keith Hall worked pitcher John Hughes for a walk, loading the bases and setting the stage for Mark Tipton.

Tipton promptly delivered with a line drive over third that scored two runs which proved to be the game winner for Ellis Spurlock and crew.

Hard throwing Tony Kidd spelled Tipton on the mound, working two scoreless innings to preserve the Floyd County championship victory.

In the seventh inning Barry Hamilton added an insurance run with a line drive double to left field and would have had another but the umpires ruled second runner Martin missed third on his race to the plate.

With the victory Floyd County takes the District Nine Title and earns a date in next week's regional or semi-state tournament.

This Floyd County group will take their talents to Ashland in an opening game scheduled for 5:30 Thursday evening. The upcoming Ashland tournament represents the final obstacle standing in the state tournament path of Floyd County's 15 year old Babe Ruth All Stars.

Rebels Tune Up For Summer League Tourney

Six weeks ago the Allen Central Rebels embarked on a summer league journey that pitted Coach Johnny Martin's club against some of the best prospective teams in Kentucky for this upcoming basketball season.

Last Tuesday the regular Rebel journey ended with Allen Central experiencing the thrill of victory and agony of defeat, splitting their final two regular summer season games.

After leading by as many as 13 points in the third quarter, the Rebels eventually fell to Conner 67-56 in Tuesday's first game.

"We were up by 13 points in the third quarter and wound up losing the game by 11," Coach Martin revealed. "For two and a half quarters we played well but we ran out of gas real fast."

"I think that we came back and played a good game against Bell County," Martin continued.

Allen Central came out victorious in Tuesday's second game, downing Bell County 88-57 to even their summer league record at 4-4.

With the conclusion of league play, Coach Martin and the Allen Central Rebels are now preparing for a single elimination tournament which will close out summer high school basketball play. The tournament opened Tuesday but Allen Central will not see their first tourney action until Thursday at 5:30. The game and those possibly following will take place at Sports World in Lexington.

Before the summer league season began Coach Martin saw the games as an excellent way for his team to remain in sound physical condition while challenging some of the state's tougher competition.

Also, Coach Martin was hopeful of this summer producing improved play at the guard spot and coming off the bench and the Rebel coach has liked what he has seen.

"I think it has helped us a lot," Coach Martin said. "Starting the summer we had three kids that we knew would play and they have played well. I think it will also make our bench a lot stronger with the other kids getting a lot of playing time."

The Allen Central program opted for league play because of conditioning. Coach Martin said, "A one week camp just keeps you in shape for one week."

Another factor was as Coach Martin said, "there isn't any pressure on us to win so we can just go out and play."

Relax and enjoy Coach because in about four months the pressure will begin.

Youngest Babe Ruthers Win Two

Lefthander Chad Hamilton turned in a complete game performance while first baseman Brad Compton singled twice and scored three runs as the Floyd county 13-year-old All Stars defeated Russell-Flatwoods 11-2 Friday.

Hamilton, in recording the semi-state opening round victory, gave up two runs on four hits, striking out five and walking six.

Compton put Floyd County on the score board first with a run scoring single in the first inning which plated Stuart Robinson. Robinson, with two out, reached safely on an error, collected a steal of second, and advanced to third on a wild pitch where he rode home on Compton's single.

Floyd County went on to score two runs in the third, one in the fourth, and seven runs in the fifth and sixth innings to assure Hamilton of the victory.

However, the local All Stars didn't fare as well against Johnson County Monday.

After taking a 5-3 lead in the fourth inning, Floyd County saw that lead vanish as Johnson County scored nine runs in the fifth.

In that pivotal fifth inning, Johnson County collected only two hits but were awarded with eight free passes and a host of Floyd County errors.

With the sour taste of defeat lingering, Floyd County bounced back with fury to defeat Russell-Flatwoods 18-8 Monday.

Floyd County's youngest Babe Ruth All Stars pounded out a total of eight hits in the first inning, scoring seven runs.

Not satisfied with this initial offensive showing, the local All Stars came back to score three more runs in the second, on their way to an 18-8 five inning victory.

With the win, Floyd County earned a return date with Johnson County. If the local All Stars were to advance to state tournament action they would have to defeat Johnson County, undefeated, twice.

The Sporting Times

By Alton Huff

Everyone throughout the sports world was saddened by the cocaine deaths of Len Bias and Don Rogers, and why not?

With talent galore and set financially for life, these young men elected to throw this and the breath of life away for a short lasting, drug induced high.

The biggest problem with these incidents is not that two young men traded away their lives but no one is willing to correct the problem.

Pete Rozelle and the National Football League did attempt to take the situation a step closer to a solution but has apparently been shot down by the player's association.

The NFL recently opted for random drug testing but representatives of the players' association has already revealed their plans to challenge the NFL's announcement. First responses hinted toward court action but players later decided to settle on arbitration.

It would appear professional football players, considering their decision, have admitted their use of illegal drugs while not intending to discontinue use.

Professional athletes, regardless of the sport, play an inspirational role on society's young people and with that in mind, what will they inspire our young people to do?

People learn from trial and error but it appears as if football players aren't learning their lesson. If Richard Dent stood on the railroad tracks, struck and killed by a train then Walter Payton would know better than to get on the tracks. So, why can't one experience be as effective as the other?

The players do have an argument, saying mandatory testing is an invasion of privacy but if someone didn't have something to hide, no one would object.

Problems with drugs have destroyed players as well as teams but one group of talented young men that doesn't have to worry about this problem or any other is the Floyd County 15 year old Babe Ruth All Stars.

From top to bottom this group is equally talented to any other baseball team of their age in the state of Kentucky.

With many of their players taking a vital role in their respective high school teams, experience is likewise on their side.

Not only are the 15 year olds tough, but all age groups of Babe Ruth are impressive which would lead one to believe high school baseball in this area is about to arrive in full bloom.

However, behind every good team is good coaching and without Paul Gearheart, Ellis Spurlock, and company, these players may not have as good of an opportunity to play as they do now.

Another man who deserves much credit is League President Ray Flanery. Ray has braved the elements (tough Coaches/ hostile parents) to hold the Floyd County Babe Ruth program together. Fortunately, young participants benefit from these quality people more than anyone else.

Blackburn Wins

Mike Blackburn, who now resides in Orange Park, Fla. returned this past week to visit family and play the Paintsville Tournament his fourth time as a "Pro." His father, the late Clyde Blackburn, introduced him and his brother Woody to this tournament when Mike was a ninth grader. They played as amateur's that year, both winning their flights. They have two grandmothers still living: Eliza Blackburn, 92 years old living in Betsy Layne and Laura Chandler, 100 years old, living in Roanoke, Va.

This was the 45th year for the Paintsville Tournament. Mike's team was the Pro-Am Tournament with an score of 61. Mike shot 65 on Friday and 67 on Sunday. The tournament was rained out on Saturday. Mike is presently playing the TPA tour.

Blackcat Basketball Campers

The first annual Blackcat Basketball Camp was held at the Prestonsburg High School Gym during the week of June 23 thru June 27 under the direction of Coach Jeff Riley. 32 boys between 4th grade and 10th grade attended. Awards were given in or awards presentation at the conclusion of the camp on Friday. Winners of awards were:

4th-6th One on One Champ, Aaron Tucker; 7th-10th One on One Champ, Thomas Nairn; 4th-6th Hot Shot Winner, Aaron Tucker; 7th-10th Hot Shot Winner, Todd Justice; 4th-6th Free Throw

Champ, Aaron Tucker; 7th-10th Free Throw Champ, Todd Justice; Three on Three Champs, Tim Trusty, Brian Hall; Jonathan Leslie; Five on Five Champs, The Lakers; Todd Justice, Alan Akers, Robby Watson, Josh Hyden, Seth Hyden, Brian Hall; Steve Farthing.

Assisting Coach Riley with the camp was Jeff Burchett and John (Wimpy) Clark. Also assisting was these members of the Blackcat varsity team: Wayne Akers, James Allen, Cliff Miller, David Martin, Mark Tuttle, Cory Vicars.

Babe Ruth Tourney Moved

Instead of making the short trip from Floyd County to Paintsville, players, coaches and fans will have to alter their travel plans for this year's 14 year old Babe Ruth All Star tournament.

The tournament had been scheduled as a best two out of three series between Floyd County and Johnson County to be held this past Monday and Tuesday.

However, due to the lack of 14 year old squads throughout the Bluegrass, state Babe Ruth officials felt the need to realign the tournament concept.

With the new look, this particular age group will consist of two regional or semi-state tournaments. Floyd County's All Star team will be doing battle against teams east of Jefferson County in competition beginning July 18th in Stanton.

At the same time, teams west of the Jefferson County line, including JC, will play in the same type tournament which is scheduled to take place in Elizabethtown.

The champions and runner ups of each tournament will advance to Owensboro for the final four state tournament.

The state championship opportunity for these four surviving teams will begin July 25.

The Floyd County 14 year old All Stars have been described as a talented group but are untried as well.

Both other county Babe Ruth teams have the experience of winning a district title before encountering regional or semi-state competition but this will be the first tournament action for the 14 year old squad.

How the lack of All Star participation will effect this Floyd County team is yet unknown but Harold Case says his team should be all right while playing in the only obstacle standing between them and a state tournament appearance.

SHORT SPORTS

The Cincinnati Reds were forced to place Dave Concepcion on the 21 day disabled list after the veteran shortstop suffered a broken hand Thursday against Montreal.

Concepcion is expected to wear a cast for at least 15 days and if doctors agree, the Reds shortstop will return to the lineup somewhere near the end of July. Kurt Stillwell has been called up from the Reds Triple A affiliate Denver to fill Concepcion's spot on the roster.

The 20 year old Stillwell had started earlier in the season but a sub .200 batting average had him packing for that dreaded trip to Denver.

Stillwell continues to hit below .200 but did make his first re-call hit a game winner in Cincinnati's Saturday victory over Montreal.

Former University of Southern California basketball standout Cheryl Miller led the US women's basketball team to a 83-60 victory over the USSR Thursday night.

Miller led the US team in scoring with 18 points while hauling down 10 rebounds as the women's basketball team brought home a gold medal.

The basketball competition is one of the many sports being held in Moscow as part of the Goodwill Games.

The games, which are a creation through Ted Turner and Russian television people, will continue through July 20 on WTBS.

With their four game weekend sweep of Atlanta, the New York Mets stretched their Eastern Division lead over Montreal to 13 games.

The Mets, who lead the National League in batting average, runs scored, and homeruns, are setting a pace that could leave the 1986 New York team permanently etched in the record books.

At the All-Star break New York holds a 59-25 won-loss record and with almost half a season left the Mets could become the winningest team of the 1900's.

The 1906 Chicago Cub's won 116 games to currently hold the record. In more modern times the 1971 Baltimore squad claimed 109 victories, the most successful number of recent years.

Another record this year's Mets squad will be challenging when action returns is a complete year without being shutout. The only baseball team ever to finish a season without having a shutout thrown to them is the other New York team, the 1932 Yankees.

The Oakland A's, with their victory over Toronto Saturday, put to an end their four game losing streak under new manager Tony LaRussa.

LaRussa, recently fired as the head man in Chicago, last week became the new manager in Oakland where he hires on with yet another struggling baseball franchise.

An All Star Hitter 13-year-old first baseman Brad Compton collects one of his many hits during semi-state action. Compton was 5 of 7 in the first three games.

Blackburn returns to Eastern Ky. to win the Paintsville Pro-Am Golf Tournament for his 3rd time.

Short Sports

The NFL Players Association has elected to settle for an arbitrary decision to settle the dispute of where Commissioner Pete Rozelle was within his legal right to instigate drug testing.

The commissioner's office released their intentions on random drug testing throughout the NFL last week which drew an immediate response from the Players' Association.

The Association first said they would seek legal action against Rozelle but later revealed that arbitration was their way to go in settling this controversial issue.

Martin's Bestway Win Tourney

The Martin's Bestway softball team won their second tourney of the year by going undefeated, winning games in a row, in the Minnie Softball League—Mid Season Tournament. The first win came by defeating McDowell Clinic, and then beating the Falcons, and Paradise Lounge and then finishing the tournament by beating the McDowell Clinic for a second time. Members of the team are: Roger Williams, Chris Meade, Gary Short, Richard Ousley, Ricky Caudill, Thomas Meade, Dickey Tackett, Terry Tuttle, David Tuttle, Arthur Fannin, Ricky Moore, Danny Miller, Coach Gene Shelton.

"If you utter insults you will also hear them." Plautus

Second Place Winners

Wins Honors

Seven-year-old Jenni Anne Calhoun, of Sidney, O., poses beside the trophy won when her team placed second in the beginner division of Dance-Twirl Teams in the USTA Ohio State Championships during recent competition held in Findlay. She has earned an excellent rating in the National Guild Piano Playing Auditions held recently at Ka-Jens Studio in Sidney, O., and received her membership in the National Fraternity of Student Musicians. She also attended the annual Scholars Breakfast held at Whittier Elementary School, June 3, for students who had attained a 3.5 or higher average and was presented with a scholarship pin.

Her parents are Clarence and DeLois DeRossett Calhoun, natives of Prestonsburg. Mr. and Mrs. T.J. DeRossett, of Prestonsburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Dode Calhoun, of Water Gap, are her grandparents. Minne DeRossett, of Little Paint, is her great-grandmother.

Reatherford-Salyers Award

The 1986 recipient of the Reatherford-Salyers Award is Bryan Alan Griffith, son of Rudy and Coleen Griffith, of Water Gap, and the grandson of the late Elder and Maggie Wright, of Water Gap, and Mrs. Alma Key, of Martin, and the late Rudolph Griffith, of Martin.

Griffith lettered four years in two varsity sports, football and golf, while at Prestonsburg High School. Starting at offensive center in 1985 and '86, he also competed in the Boy's Regional Golf Tournament all four years he lettered.

He was All-State Honorable Mention in 1986 as well as All-Area in 1985 and '86. He was also voted co-captain and was named best offensive lineman, by his teammates in both 1985 and 1986. In 1986, he was awarded the Scholar Athlete Award for having the highest grade point average of the football team.

Maintaining an A average, he graduated ninth in a class of 140 and was president of the National Beta Club, historian of the National Honor Society, member of the Kentucky All-State Chorus, PHS Honor Choir, mixed chorus and prom committee. He was elected to the Mr. Blackcat court by his classmates and voted Outstanding Senior by PHS faculty. He was also a member of the PHS Academic Team.

Griffith plans to attend the University of Kentucky this fall and major in pre-medicine.

The Reatherford-Salyers Award for the Outstanding Senior Athlete was initiated in 1955 by the Prestonsburg Jaycees in commemoration of two young Prestonsburg athletes, Donald Gene Reatherford and Woodrow Salyers, who lost their lives in 1954 in a locker room accident.

The Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club assumed the responsibility of presenting the Award in 1980. A committee composed of a Kiwanis member, one minister, the school principal, one civic leader, and one layman makes the final selection. At the close of the school year, 10 senior athletes are nominated by school officials to be considered for the Award. Then on the basis of leadership, athletic ability, cooperation, honesty, church work, student government, conduct, citizenship, character, and academic achievement, the final selection is made by the committee.

Attend Camp Robert Webb

The group of 29 fifth and sixth graders from Floyd county, pictured above, spent a week recently at Camp Robert Webb, one of three conservation education camps operated by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resource. The campers, who have all participated in the department's conservation education program in the schools, spent the week swimming, boating, and fishing, as well as receiving instruction in boating safety, conservation and safe gun handling.

Remote State Streams Get Trout Stockings

About 6,500 four- to six-inch trout were recently backpacked over rugged terrain in plastic, water-filled containers to several remote Kentucky streams in a project to establish a self-sustaining wild trout fishery in the state.

Approximately 35 Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources' personal and several other citizen volunteers waded mountain streams in north central Kentucky, (the exact streams and areas not publicized to protect the distribution of the trout) and chose spots in each stream most suitable for the fish to survive.

Nearly 1,800 brook trout were stocked in four streams, at a rate of approximately 100 per mile, in the second and final stocking of a program to establish around 50 miles of "wild" brook trout streams in the state.

Some 4,150 brown trout were also released as the first effort in a two-year program to develop around 100 miles of a wild brown trout water. The same 11 streams are targeted to be stocked with brown trout next year as phase two of the project continues.

Jim Axon, assistant director of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Fisheries Laboratory and Dingell-Johnson coordinator, said this project differs from a "put and take" stocking.

Unlike some stockings where anglers can harvest fish immediately after being released, these fish were released to remain in waters long enough to reproduce naturally, establishing a completely wild population in about five years.

The last stocking will provide two-year classes of fish for reproduction and a better chance for the "wild" fishery to evolve.

"These fish are the key for the wild trout to develop," said Axon, adding releasing browns and brooks in very remote areas is essential to allow the fish to remain long enough to spawn.

Biologists who have studied the habitats suitable for these types of fish found Kentucky streams more fertile and conducive to producing bigger fish than normal in other Appalachian-area streams.

Axon mentioned the productivity of Kentucky waters as one reason these fish will reach larger sizes than the eight- or nine-inches commonly found in streams of North Carolina and other states in this region.

Brown trout, the larger of the two species, will reach the three- to five-pound range, while brook trout can stretch somewhere in the 15- to 20-inch category after about four years.

One historically interesting piece of information discovered through research of these two fishes in brook trout are seldom found below elevations of 2,000 feet, unlike brown trout.

In the stocking effort, care was taken to see the fish were placed in areas where they traditionally have survived best, with respect to habitat, water temperature and elevations.

Axon said brooks "can't compete with other fish" found at lower elevations, and tend to remain closer to headwaters of streams. Browns, on the other hand, are more adaptable and will expand into larger bodies of water.

The overall stocking program of trout in Kentucky waters is part of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources' goal to continually upgrade fisheries in Kentucky, while providing a diversity of fish for anglers to "hook-up" with.

Developing productive fisheries in streams is a difficult task, one which Axon said is sometimes passed over by some state fish and wildlife departments because management of these waters is more involved than lake management.

Axon said, however, Kentucky is making a concerted effort at stream stocking and maintenance.

"We're probably doing as much as any other state with streams," said Axon in reference to the department's objective in continuing to supplement the variety of fishing for the anglers of Kentucky.

Attend Bentley Family Reunion

The reunion brought family members together from many states and counties in Kentucky.

The day was started off with the traditional song sung by Zeb Ousley. After the blessing of the food by Thomas Thacker, the family gathered around for a meal prepared by members, who cooked their speciality for the occasion.

There was a lot of getting acquainted to do, because the family was separated years ago; some moved to Pike county, and due to lack of phones in those days, cousins were meeting for the first time. By the end of the day there was just one big happy family who were in awe that so many existed that they didn't know about before the reunions began four years ago.

While pictures were being made and information exchanged and recorded by the older people, the children were playing games which included a good water fight.

Plaques were given for the oldest member which went to Zeb Ousley; the youngest member went to Maranda Morris. The family with the most children present was that of Billie Rose Smith from Knoxville, Tenn. Special Bentley reunion shirts were made and distributed among the members.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Childers, Daniel Rowlette, Denver and Flora Newsom, James and Karen King, April King, Leslie Smith, Billy Rose Smith, Jerry and Patty Smith Patterson, William Patterson, Lucreasie Slone, Glen and Anna Lykens, Tim Lykens, Jenna Patton, Dewey and Brenda Smith Foulk, Zeb Ousley, and Lola Ousley, Mr. and Mrs. James Ousley, Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Ousley, Beaver Baker, Diane Baker, Bryan Newsom, Kimm Ellis, Paul Spangler, Josephine Spangler, Shaun Edward Sylvester, Arlene Ousley Cecil, Phyllis Ousley, Marcella R. Bailey, John Baker, Erna Baker, Ireland (Buzz) Bentley, Vonda Bentley, Tonya, Glenna and Jeremy Bentley, Melissa Lykens, Rita and Cindy Tackett, Mike Coleman, Garry and Teresa Smith, Eureka Bentley, Mack and Betty Blankenship, William, Lisa and Leah Boardwine, Scott Baker, Jill Baker, Sarah Dotson, Sybil Thacker, Thomas Thacker, Sandy and Maranda Morris, Bob Buskirk and son, Ireland Bentley, Gene and Rosann West, Herman West, Jr., William Coty West, Garry Perry and Marion and Avonelle Smalley, Frieda Hale, and Howard, Wanda and Susan Justice.

Those present regret that Marian Cecil Bentley was too ill to be there. The day's events were videoed by Johnny Baker and copied for some of the members to share with those unable to be present this year.

Videotape Testimony Okayed For Children

The Kentucky Supreme Court today ruled that the testimony of child victims of sexual abuse may be videotaped for presentation in court, rather than requiring the child to take the stand during trial.

Attorney General David L. Armstrong, who argued the case before the Court on April 23, said that he is elated with the Court's decision. "I am very pleased that the Supreme Court found our Constitution permits this method of allowing child victims of sex crimes to testify truthfully without intimidation by the defendant," he said. "This decision will make the process of bringing the defendant to justice less traumatic for the child and will also encourage victims and the parents of victims to report and pursue these crimes."

The Court's decision came as a result of a case in Fayette county in which Leslie Willis was charged with two counts of sexual abuse of a four-year-old child. During the circuit court hearing, the prosecutor, Fayette Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney Mike Malone, found that the child was unable to testify in the presence of the defendant. He then requested that the Fayette Circuit Court order the child's testimony be videotaped for presentation during trial under a 1984 Kentucky statute designed to spare young victims of sexual abuse the trauma of testifying in open court. Instead, the lower court held that this procedure would violate the defendant's right to confrontation under the Kentucky and the United States Constitution. Attorney General Armstrong appealed the Fayette Circuit order and the state Supreme Court granted direct review.

"I felt from the beginning that this case had major significance, not only in Kentucky but throughout the country,"

Armstrong said. "A number of states are considering similar legislation and have been waiting, with great interest, for our Court's decision."

Armstrong added that he believes the decision indicates a recognition by the Court of the special needs of child victims. "We are slowly coming to the realization that child victims must be treated differently in our criminal justice system, just as we treat juvenile offenders differently," he said.

Shows Personal Side Of Ethiopia Relief Effort

When drought and famine struck Ethiopia, the nations of the world responded with an outpouring of millions of dollars in aid in the form of food shipments, medical supplies and emergency feeding camps.

"Faces In A Famine," an hour-long special airing Thursday, July 31, at 9:00 p.m. on KET, looks at the relief efforts in personal terms, focusing not only on the victims of the famine, but on the motivations of the assemblage of people drawn to the disaster site, including nurses, television producers and "disaster groupies."

In the spring of 1985, at the height of the crisis, noted author Robert Lieberman and a film crew traveled to Shoa province, one of 12 of Ethiopia's 14 provinces stricken with drought. Some of the provinces had not seen rain in nearly three years. Among the people Lieberman interviewed were western nurses in American, Irish and Danish emergency feeding camps—all attempting to give personal care to the hundreds, sometimes thousands, of people surging into the camps to seek shelter and assistance.

Others interviewed in the program include: a producer for ABC News; officers with the 47th Squadron, RAF, responsible for dropping sacks of grain into the stricken areas; the Rev. Colin Battell, a resident of Ethiopia for the past nine years and rector of the Anglican Church in Addis Ababa; and Joe and Mike, described by some as "disaster groupies" whose major purpose seems only to watch.

Governor's Mansion Tour Hours Extended

A marked increase in visitors to the Capital City has led Gov. Martha Layne Collins to expand tour availability for the Governor's Mansion, according to State Curator Jolene Greenwell.

In addition to the present tour hours, 9 a.m.-11 a.m. each Tuesday and Thursday, the public areas of the Governor's Mansion will also be open to the public from 1:30-3:30 p.m. each Wednesday, July 16 through August 27.

Large groups planning to visit the mansion may contact the Capitol Information Desk to arrange for a guided tour, (502) 564-3449.

Mindy Cohn has some good reasons for loving school

By Lynn Hoogenboom

Mindy Cohn doesn't exactly come from a classic show-biz background.

Mindy Cohn

"My mom is a lawyer, and my dad is vice president of a paint company," she says. "The only thing remotely in the entertainment business is that my step-grandfather wrote 'Baby Face' for my grandmother. I don't know. My family's real normal.

"Well, not normal," she amends. "But we're definitely typical."

Cohn, who plays the wise-cracking Natalie on "The Facts of Life," which airs Saturdays on NBC, was discovered in that most mundane of all places — school.

Well, not just any school. It was, in Cohn's words, "a very uppity all-girls private school." Back in 1979, Charlotte Rae was doing some background research for a new series on which she was going to play a housemother at an exclusive girl's school. She visited the school that Cohn attended and appar-

Ask Toni

Brolin isn't that old!

By Toni Reinhold

I heard that James Brolin is 64 years old. Please tell me if that's true. — S.V., Haledon, N.J.

James Brolin

Not quite. Brolin, who stars on "Hotel," was born on July 10, 1942. That makes him a mere 44 years old.

I know John McGiver appeared in a TV series in the late '60s about a hero, but I can't remember the name of the show. — D.G.K., Lodi, Calif.

The series was 1967's "Mr. Terrific," which starred Stephen Strimpell as 'Mr. Terrific' (a.k.a. Stanley Beamish) and John McGiver as Barton J. Reed. Stanley was a gas-station attendant who became a caped hero whenever he ate his secret power pills. These were supplied by Barton Reed.

Years ago, I saw a movie that seems to have disappeared. I think it was titled "Dondi," and it was about an orphan boy by that name. Who starred in it? — S.I., Greenwich, Ohio

You're right about the title. "Dondi" was released in 1961 and starred David Janssen, Patti Page, David Kory, Walter Winchell and Gale Gordon. It was based on the comic strip of the same name. Write to your local movie channel and let them know that you'd like to see it.

Where and when were Betty Hutton and Claudette Colbert born? — D.W., Odessa, Texas.

Hutton was born in Battle Creek, Mich., on February 26, 1921. Colbert was born in Paris, France on September 18, 1905.

In the '60s and '70s, there was a detective series about three people — a white girl, a white guy and a black guy. What are the names of the actors, and what was the show called? — J.S., Christopher, Ill.

You're probably thinking of "The Mod Squad." It aired from 1968 to 1973 and featured Peggy Lipton, Michael Cole and Clarence Williams III, who more recently played Prince's father in "Purple Rain."

DRUGS AND PREGNANCY

Most drugs that enter a mother's body will also enter her fetus. The first two weeks after conception is a very important period. During this time, there is no differentiation of cells in the embryo. No congenital malformations happen at this early stage. It is an "all or nothing" situation. During the next one or two months, the organ systems begin to develop. This time period is the most critical for the development of abnormalities. After the end of the eighth week, differentiation of the organs is completed. As a result, it is the first trimester of the pregnancy that is the most significant period for the occurrence of deformities and the survival of the fetus.

You have a family doctor in whom you place your confidence. Why not a family pharmacist to serve your health needs? COOLEY APOTHECARY suggests you become acquainted with our reliable service and hometown friendliness. We know you'll like the difference. At No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106 we will gladly answer any questions about your medication. We have plenty of free parking. Master Charge and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4.

HANDY HINT:
 During the first trimester of pregnancy, no medicines of any kind should be taken unless advised by a doctor.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of our son, Jimmy Penix, who passed away July 19, 1984.

No length of time can heal our grief, our love for you is much to deep. No one knows the heartache we try so hard to hide—no one knows the times we've broken down and cried. The few short years we had together and the good times that we had, makes me realize one thing—good times outweigh the bad. We had some sad, yet we are thankful every day for the blessing that we had.

In tears we saw you going—we watched you fade away—oh, how our hearts were broken—you fought so hard to say—but when we saw you sleeping so peacefully—free of pain—we could not wish you back to suffer again. Though your smile is gone forever—your hand we cannot touch—we will never lose the memories for we all loved you so much—our home is so lonesome without you, and sad has been the days, for life and home is not the same since Jimmy went away—when God called Jimmy from us, he didn't go alone for part of me went with him until we meet in our heavenly home—oh, how our hearts are broken, but we know he's at rest, and that tells us all, God only takes the best. Oh, how we miss you. Dad, Mom, Lonnie, Priscilla, and all the family.

Parents File Damage Suit As Son Hurt

When Christopher Sellors, 7, went to open a bottle of pop on a wall-mounted bottle-opener at his Lancer home last April, the bottle suddenly collapsed and his hand bore down on razor-like glass shards, say his parents, who have filed a lawsuit for damages against the bottle manufacturer and the maker and distributor of the pop.

In a suit filed in Floyd Circuit Court against East Kentucky Beverage, Co., Pepsico, Inc., and Pepsi-Cola General Bottlers, Inc., Gregory and Debbie Sellors say their son, then a second-grader at Prestonsburg Elementary School, suffered permanent disfigurement and injury to the ring and middle fingers of his right hand, of which some tendons were severed. Physicians predict a permanent, 30-percent loss of use in the injured fingers, they said.

The defendants are guilty of negligence in the design, manufacture and/or distribution of the defective bottle, plaintiffs claim in their suit, which was filed on their behalf by Prestonsburg attorney Dan Rowland.

Negotiations toward a possible settlement by Pepsi broke down when she declined to let company representatives take possession of the bottle fragments, Mrs. Sellors said this week. "I let them see the bottle and take photos of it but not to take it away," she said. "There was no guarantee I would get it back," she added, "and this is my evidence."

(Suits filed in court give only the plaintiffs' version of the issues in dispute).

Our Apologies...

Two names were, through typographical error, incorrectly listed in last week's social notes. They are Mrs. Orb Vaughn and Mrs. Mary Beth Henthorne. We regret the error.

HOW LONG DOES MOURNING LAST?

A major newspaper once asked, in a poll, "How long is it normal to mourn the loss of a loved one?" Most people answered that two days to two weeks of mourning is "Normal."

Those people were not well informed. The first two weeks of mourning are the most stressful, but the process of accepting the death of a loved one lasts far longer. Mourning is a process of reorganization, of rebuilding one's life. That process takes time, often up to two years.

Friends can help in this time by encouraging the bereaved to carry through with the searching, yearning feelings he or she is experiencing rather than trying to suppress them. A bereaved person's friends should recognize that he or she may be moody, lonely, or withdrawn. Those feelings should be allowed to run their course.

We, as funeral directors, can help bereaved people to deal with their grief and mourning. Call us or stop by for personal, private counseling.

OTHER SIGNS... by WILMAY

The longest visit ever made was by Jesus when he came from heaven as a babe and spent thirty-three years on earth. The Bible gives many clues concerning the possible time of his return.

No. 13. Mt. 24:9... and ye shall be hated of all nations for my name's sake./ Christ was addressing the nation Israel, the Jews who have endured untold oppression. One reason God has blessed America so richly may be our valiant stand by his chosen people, whose independence the U.S. assumed responsibility for when the United Nations was organized. Luke 21:16. And ye shall be betrayed by parents, kinsfolks, friends, and some of you shall they cause to be put to death./ Lawlessness will become more and more rampant in the final days of this gospel era. Murder will increase. Back in Noah's day Lamech boasted of slaying a man.

Jesus, who like God foreknows all, was talking in particular to his disciples, warning them of persecution, preparing them for the work he would soon leave in their charge. Throughout history prominent saints have undergone terrific opposition. Some were martyrs as were most of the disciples. Today, men like Drs. Graham, Estep, Van Impe, Baker, Falwell, Humbart, and scores of others suffer indignities, false accusations, threats, etc. Christianity does not solve all problems; nor does it spare any believer tests, temptations, trials, etc. God chastens those he loves./ Heb. 12:6.

No. 14. I Tim. 4:1,2... that in the latter times some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits and doctrines of devils, speaking lies in hypocrisy, having their conscience seared with a hot iron./ New faiths of all kinds are sprouting, including the Church of Satan, of Darkness, et cetera. Mysticism or occultism is staging a tremendous comeback in various lands. Sects and cults of weird beliefs arise here and there. Persons not familiar with scripture often fail to recognize them. Heb. 13:9. Be not carried away with divers and strange doctrines./ Test each one by God's Word. Know your church beliefs and where every one is found in scripture. II Thess. 2:3... for that day shall not come except there come a falling away first, and that man of sin be revealed, the son of perdition./ (John 17:12.) Some think that Judas—reincarnated—will be the antiChrist, who is destined to rule the world during the tribulation. Many published reports say plans for a one-world government, language, currency and banking system, and one-world religion are nearly complete. Various sources provide such information.

Prophecy predicts a time of sorrow, will precede the closing days. Some insist that has already begun. Chances are that countless clergy agree, for in thousands of churches half-empty pews testify to same. Some mainline assemblies have had to close their doors, while others struggle to keep afloat. Numbers report fewer converts and baptisms yearly. The Sabbath—once a holy day—has become a noisy holiday for millions. Numerous congregations prefer the supper room to the upper room, or prayer service.

And some church members think nothing of paying large sums for entertainment tickets but consider a dollar for the Sunday offering generous! A high percentage of electronic evangelists are in debt, in dire need of funds for their multiple programs that serve needy humanity. It's reliably estimated that only about ten percent of believers accept God's plan for supporting his church. Tithing is taught in the Old and the New Testaments. Men entrust their souls to God but refuse to trust their billfolds to him. Malichi 3:9-10 promises a blessing to all who tithed.

No. 15. II Tim. 3:2... In the last days there shall be blasphemers./ Many of us are old enough to recall a time when one scarcely ever heard women swear in public, though perhaps a few did so in private. Now, a fairly large number of women, girls, and children can and often do out curse the men and boys, with no apology for same. One renowned minister said some men of the cloth blaspheme God when they teach false doctrines. Profanity in any form should be condemned.

Family Circle Feature Demonstrates Hylton Home Capabilities

Home by Schult Homes Corporation Featured In Family Circle Magazine.

A national feature in the June 17 issue of Family Circle magazine clearly demonstrates the versatility and quality of a Schult manufactured home, according to Morris Hylton of Hylton Homes, Ivel, Ky.

More than eight million readers will find out how Family Circle editors and Schult Homes joined forces to reconstruct a family's dream home after a violent Texas tornado destroyed their nearly completed remodeled house.

The tale began with an unusual twist. Family Circle editors spotted a dramatic photo in Life magazine displaying a grieving mother-to-be over the ruins of her home. Magazine editors wanted to help the victims, the Powell family, and contacted Schult Homes.

At 1,650 square feet, the new Schult house is twice as large as the old Powell home. Although the Powell's dream house was provided by Schult's Navasota, Texas, manufacturing facility, Hylton Homes can fulfill similar needs for the Prestonsburg-Pikeville-area homeowners-to-be. Schult, the nation's oldest builder of quality manufactured homes, has floor plans with custom design features to meet any homebuyer's desires or budgetary needs.

Area home shoppers interested in learning more about the Family Circle home or how Schult can provide their dream homes should visit Morris Hylton at:

Collins Draws 35-Year Total On Five Counts

Edward Collins, 33, was sentenced last week to a total of 35 years in prison after he pleaded guilty to five separate crimes, three of which occurred after he was lodged in the Floyd county jail.

Originally booked last July 21 on a charge of receiving stolen property, Collins was charged the same day with forgery after he signed a false name on the cards bearing his fingerprints.

On October 24 and 25, a 19-year-old jail inmate said, Collins and William Burchett forced him into acts of sodomy in the jail cell.

The following day, jail officials said, Collins set fire to the jail.

As part of a plea bargain worked out between the Commonwealth and defense attorney Robert Greene, the arson charge was amended from first to second degree and a 12-year sentence was imposed.

The two sodomy counts each drew 10-year terms. (The charges against Burchett were dismissed in exchange for his testimony against Collins).

The forgery and two charges of receiving stolen property all drew one-year sentences, but all sentences were ordered by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley to be served concurrently.

Collins was originally picked up by state police in Garrett, together with James Ray Conley. The two were charged with receiving stolen property after it was ascertained that the 1976 Chevrolet pickup in which they were riding was reported stolen in Indiana. Conley pleaded guilty to the charge in January and received a one-year, probation sentence.

In another plea bargain, Freddie A. Prater, of Royalton, pleaded guilty to a reduced misdemeanor count of receiving stolen property and was sentenced to six months in the county jail. He was accused last February of having property stolen from Janice Prater and Doris Pennington.

RETURN FROM VACATION

Mr. and Mrs. James Michael Wells have returned to their home after spending a week at Nag's Head, North Carolina.

McDonald Speaks At Rotary Meet

She would have no trouble with children singing patriotic songs, but the ban on prayer in public schools is "the law of the land."

Thus spoke state Supt. of Public Instruction Alice McDonald last Thursday at a meeting of the Prestonsburg Rotary Club at the Holiday Inn here. Mrs. McDonald had speaking engagements that day both with the Rotarians and at Jenny Wiley State Park's May Lodge.

At the Holiday Inn meeting, Mrs. McDonald delivered a brief speech and then answered questions from the Rotarians. The speech was upbeat, pointing out how far education has advanced in Kentucky during her administration.

Among the achievements she claimed were that, since 1983, Kentucky has had done a better job than any other state in drop-out prevention. She said things will continue to improve if civic and educational groups work together for that end.

"We need you," she said. "I am offering you all the leadership in Kentucky that you can possibly stand. But we won't go anywhere without support."

"I knew children are as bright here, teachers are just as good," she added. "I know that some day we will lead the nation in education."

She cautioned that, as Kentucky's economy has traditionally been tied both to coal and agriculture, it was important to emphasize the value of an education to young people. "Coal is up and down," she said, "and I believe that we must teach our children there is a definite relationship between education and jobs."

She added that, in order to keep eastern Kentuckians from moving to other areas, a stable job market is a must. "People need work. We need industry and businesses where they can work and raise their families."

Questions from the audience—dealing mostly with school prayer, reciting the pledge of allegiance and singing patriotic songs in the classroom—were easily fielded by the education secretary, who seemed to agree with the general sentiment among the group that it would not be a bad thing to include patriotic observances in school. While not expressing a preference on the school prayer issue, Mrs. McDonald did note that the U.S. Supreme Court had declared it unconstitutional.

Less easily handled was a reporter's question about her recent letter seeking to enlist local school superintendents in fundraising for her campaign for lieutenant-governor. When asked how that might affect her campaign, Mrs. McDonald said she had addressed that question publicly before, and declined to comment further.

As to the campaign for lieutenant governor, Mrs. McDonald said she has not yet decided whether she will be a candidate. "If I do decide to do this, it will be because somewhere inside me I believe I have something to make a contribution to education," she said.

Everyone is asked to bring some good cooking for lunch.

4 Juveniles Escape Center

The juvenile detention center here has seen the escape of four prisoners in the past week.

Thursday, two 15-year-old males broke out after overpowering a staff member. Both had been confined there on charges of auto theft.

They are described as being about 5'7", of medium build and having shoulder length, dark-blond hair. One was said to have blue eyes and the other, brown. Both were barefoot at the time of their escape.

One of the pair had been apprehended July 4 after a previous escape from the center.

The latest escape occurred Monday. Another two youths, ages 16 and 17, both of Magoffin county, escaped and stole a Blazer from a Prestonsburg resident, later wrecking it. Both were taken to Highlands Regional Medical Center where one was treated and released, while the other was still hospitalized, Tuesday, with a reported concussion.

Both had been placed in the center on auto-theft charges, with one also charged with arson.

Center director Margie Osborne refused to comment on either incident.

But For Work-Study Program, College Would Be Impossible

Tom Rodgers, Morehead State University senior, doesn't believe that lack of money is a valid reason for not going to college.

"Anybody, if they really want to, can go to college. It just takes a little effort," said Rodgers, one of hundreds of Morehead State students working their way through school.

Morehead State has committed $1.2 million in federal and institutional funds—over and beyond scholarships and financial aid for 1986-87—to help undergraduate students earn their degrees, according to Dr. Gary Grace, MSU vice president for student development.

"Those dollars are earmarked for the federally-funded college work-study program and for the university's own workshop program," Dr. Grace said.

"The work-study program offers students a package of benefits," the vice president said. "They not only gain help with paying for their education, but they get on-the-job experience making the more marketable upon graduation."

"In fact, research shows that students who have campus employment tend to stay in school, rather than dropping out. Their work unit becomes a home base, sort of a family unit," Dr. Grace said. "They develop more self-discipline which is reflected in better grades."

When Tom Rodgers graduated from Nicholas County High School in 1983, he wanted to go to college, but also knew his parents could not afford to send him. With the help of his high school counselor, he discovered it was possible to get that college degree—if he was willing to put forth a little extra effort.

"Sometimes you have to give a little to get something extra in return," said Rodgers, who has worked in various campus jobs from shelving books in the library to answering phones since he enrolled as a freshman.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Rodgers of Cynthiana and the youngest of four children, he has maintained over a 3.0 grade point average, while being actively involved in campus life.

In fact, his campus activities are somewhat overwhelming. He is an Eagle Guide, a Student Alumni Ambassador, a member of Blue Key academic honor society, member and former officer of Sigma Nu fraternity, secretary of the Inter-Fraternity council, and president of Alpha Epsilon Rho broadcasting honorary. He also is active in Program Council and has been involved in the Miss MSU Pageant and 1986 Founders Day planning.

With a combination of academic scholarships, financial aid programs such as the Pell Grant and the $67 he earns every two weeks on a 10 hour per week workshop, Rodgers has financed

State Library Dept. Wins National Award

For the second time in the past three years, the Department for Libraries and Archives has received a national public relations award for its summer reading program.

"The agency's summer program has become a major educational event touching the lives of over 20,000 Kentucky children," stated Commissioner Jim Nelson.

"The 1985 program, Adventures in Kentucky with Library Jones, was a tremendous cooperative effort involving the state library agency, public libraries, the governor and the Tourism Cabinet, he added.

The Kentucky Horse Park offered free admission to each child for every two books read and the State Fair's Read and Ride program allowed children to earn midway tickets by reading books. These special reading incentives helped to make the reading program a success," Nelson continued.

The department received the John Cotton Dana Public Relations award at the American Library Association's annual meeting in New York, June 30.

Raise Heart Funds

Mountain Manor Nursing Home raised $274 for the American Heart Association (AHA) with Rock 'N Roll Jamboree, a special fund-raising event sponsored by the Kentucky Association of Health Care Facilities.

The event, held in nursing homes across the state, brings together residents and people in the community to raise money for the fight against heart disease.

his education at MSU. For two summers he worked under the JT Program assisting a soil conservationist and last year he was a day camp counselor. This summer he is working full-time as a 40-hour workshop in the Office of Student Development, doing routine office work, taking student ID pictures, giving campus tours and answering student questions.

One of three schools Rodgers looked at, Morehead State "had more of a personal touch and seemed to really care about me as a person. I felt that folks here wanted to help me," he said.

Rodgers unabashedly admits that he could not have come to MSU or any other institution, without the various financial aid programs.

"But I'll be paying some of this back to the University. I know I'll be able to earn a minimum of $15,000 when I graduate and I want to help someone else," said Rodgers, a radio/television major.

MSU funds nearly 1,000 student workshops each year, according to Ellen Carscaddon, associate director of financial aid. The jobs range from clerical help in administrative offices to working at the farm and from serving as residence hall advisers to assisting faculty in labs or grading papers.

While eligibility for much of the workshop funding is based on federal criteria, MSU also has institutionally-funded workshops which are not. "Many times a department needs specialized skills not available in the federal pool of workshop students. Also some students may appear on the surface not to need assistance and yet they actually do," said Carscaddon.

Tom Rodgers has some advice for those recent—and not so recent—high school graduates who think a college is beyond their means:

"Don't be afraid to explore all the possibilities. All it takes is a little effort and persistence."

To Wed August 16

Mrs. Wanda Hamilton, of Lexington, Ky., announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of her daughter, Kimberly Ann, to Mr. Russell J. Johnston, son of Mrs. Helen Johnston, of Nashville, Tennessee.

Mr. Johnston is a graduate of John Overton High School and is employed by Athens Paper Co. in Lexington.

The wedding will take place at 4 p.m., August 16, at Christ United Methodist Church in Lexington. The gracious custom of an open wedding will be observed and a reception will follow at the church.

Paintsville To Have Eye Surgery Center

Paintsville is to receive an Outpatient Eye Surgery Center licensed by the Kentucky Department of Human Resources to serve Eastern Kentucky and should be opened this fall.

The Certificate of Need was awarded to Paintsville Eye Institute, Inc., Micheal B. Minix, MD, incorporator, May 15, 1985 due to need for eye surgical services in Eastern Kentucky and cost effective services. Paintsville Eye Institute, Inc., is currently in the final stages of construction onto Dr. Minix's office and is pending licensure with the Kentucky Department of Human Resources and Federal Medicare.

It will be the second such facility in Kentucky to provide outpatient cataract and laser surgery. The first was opened in March in Glasgow.

"This facility should be licensed for eye surgical services and become a Medicare approved facility sometimes this fall 1986", said Marcus S. Minix, administrator for Paintsville Eye Institute, Inc. "Most all eye surgery can be performed safely on an outpatient basis at about half the cost of those operations performed in hospitals. Outpatient eye surgery is convenient, saves money for the patient, Medicare, and third party insurance carriers, and allows patients to return home for recuperation due to advances in high technology after approximately one hour procedures for cataract, intra-ocular lens implant, or laser surgeries."

Micheal B. Minix, MD, is chief of staff at Paintsville Eye Institute and is on staff eye surgeon at Humana, Paul B. Hall Hospital, and Highlands Regional Hospital. He is a graduate of the University of Kentucky Medical School and Stanford University Ultrasound Clinic. He is a member of the International College of Surgeons, American Medical Association, Pan American Association of Ophthalmology, and the International Glaucoma Congress and Diplomate of the American Board of Ophthalmology.

The practice of general eye examinations and procedures shall continue at his offices in Paintsville and Ashland, Kentucky. The staff currently consists of Howard Newmark, cardio-vascular surgeon in charge of diagnostic vascular imaging specializing in vascular, heart, and pacemaker surgery; Steven Rose, MD, ophthalmologist; William D. Salyers, hematology laboratory technician; Marcus Minix and William Frazier, licensed opticians at Minix Optical; Dora Shepherd, licensed surgical technician; Kathy Baldwin, LPN; and four certified ophthalmic assistants. Recently added is Susan Suchner-Klenter, a graduate ophthalmologist of Bascom-Palmer Eye Institute, in charge of eye muscle training, particularly for those children with 'crossed eyes.'

Dr. Minix shall maintain his Ashland office at 1301 Blackburn for the continuation of general ophthalmology and surgical assessment and plans to provide shuttle service to Paintsville Eye Institute for surgical services.

In addition to surgical services at Paintsville Eye Institute, emergency services will be maintained after office hours by dialing the appointment line toll free in Kentucky, 1-800-MED-EYKE.

More than 500,000 cataract surgeries are expected to be performed in the United States next year.

Summer Enrollment Said Up At MSU

Enrollment for Morehead State University's first summer term shows an increase over the same period of last year.

Figures released by MSU Registrar Gene Ranvier show 1,869 students taking classes during Summer I as compared with 1985's figure of 1,827, an increase of 2.3 percent.

"Like several of our sister institutions, Morehead State has been battling declining enrollments in recent years, so we find this upswing to be a very positive sign," Ranvier said.

Enrollment gains were made in graduate, freshmen and junior students. The breakdown by class shows 222 freshmen, 156 sophomores, 241 juniors, 401 seniors and 849 graduate students.

Ranvier attributed the improved enrollment to efforts to design a schedule of summer classes which meet current needs and to MSU's new registration by mail system.

Registration for Summer II classes will be Monday, July 7. Classes begin the following day and continue through Aug. 1.

On MSU Dean's List

Six students from Floyd county were named to the Morehead State University Dean's List for the 1986 Spring Semester.

To be named to the list, a student must be enrolled on a full-time basis and achieve at least a 3.4 grade point average on a 4.0 scale.

The Dean's List includes: Alfreda Case Elliott, Harold; Timothy E. Hubbard, Prestonsburg; Donnie Darwin Kidd, Grethel; Glenna S. Lykens, Langley; Anthony W. Moore, Garrett; and Donald R. Tackett, Jr., Grethel.

★ Cancer Hopeline

QUESTION: My doctor thinks my cancer may have spread to the bone so he's ordered a bone scan. How is a bone scan done? Does a bone scan show different things than a normal x-ray?

ANSWER: A bone scan is done by injecting a small amount of liquid, which contains a weak radio-active substance (isotope), into the vein. This substance is then carried through the bloodstream and taken up by the body. An imaging device moves over the area to be scanned. The results are displayed on x-ray film, paper, or on a screen. Cancerous areas in the bone usually pick up more of the substance than normal bone tissue. These areas will show up as "hot spots" on a bone scan.

In some cases, bone scans can detect cancerous areas earlier than x-rays. They can also show whether the bone tumors have become larger or smaller. But, certain other abnormal conditions, such as bone injury, arthritis and infection, may also show up as hot spots on bone scans. For this reason, a doctor carefully considers both the results of a bone scan and other information about a patient in determining whether cancer is present in the bone.

For more information on any cancer related subject call the Cancer Information Service at 1-800-4-CANCER or write to the Cancer Information Service, McDowell Cancer Network, 800 Rose Street, Lexington, Ky. 40536. The Cancer Information Service is a program of the Kentucky Community Cancer Program.
