Supermarket, 20 Others Cited For Alleged Garbage Violations

Trash from a Stanville supermarket—including discarded meat and produce—has been dumped illegally at a site in Tram, the head of the county solid waste agency charged last week.

The Dan-Dee Supermarket is one of five defendants named in a suit filed Friday in Floyd Circuit Court for alleged improper waste disposal. A separate suit filed in district court the same day accuses 16 of failing to pay their garbage-collection bills.

Robert McAninch, board chairman of Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc., said he had followed a contractor hired by Dan-Dee to dispose of its garbage and determined that the refuse—which included rotting foodstuffs—was being dumped alongside a road in Tram. The county's only approved dump is at Garth.

Dan-Dee manager Tim Sturgill denied that garbage officials had ever spoken to him about the way the supermarket was disposing of its refuse. To which McAninch replied, "That's a bunch of bull." He and other agency employees had approached Sturgill on at least three occasions to discuss the problem, he said.

McAninch said the manager claimed to be recycling the supermarket's trash. "But you can't recycle watermelons," he noted.

Jim Cox, general manager of the Dan-Dee store and also of Casey's IGA in Hindman, claimed that the firm recycled its paper products, adding, "We're probably one of the few around here that try to recycle anything."

With regard to non-paper refuse, Cox said only that "someone in the garbage business takes it off for us." Asked if he would be surprised to learn that the refuse was being dumped near a residential area in Tram, Cox said, "Produce and meat will not harm anything. It's not like we're dumping cans."

Power Company Also Accused Of Dumping

Oklahoma Hollow is relatively clean of trash and most local residents would like to keep it that way. It isn't easy.

Some of their neighbors are not above dumping the week's garbage by the side of the road, residents will admit. Some think a local coal company is responsible for bits of discarded machinery. But, for Wanda Justice, insult was added to injury last week, when a work crew—she thought, mistakenly, that it was a county crew—offloaded tree branches and stumps beside the road.

Noting that the ubiquitous plastic jugs and diapers are now beginning to be added to the newly dumped brush and branches, Mrs. Justice said, "It looks bad, not to mention the rodents that live there." The debris is also in danger of sliding down onto nearby railroad tracks, risking a derailment, she said.

What makes it worse, Mrs. Justice said, "is that the people doing it are people who are supposed to be cleaning up."

Workers at the nearby county park at Allen claimed they saw a Big Sandy Rural Electric Cooperative vehicle make five or six trips up Oklahoma Hollow laden with tree limbs. While he denied specific knowledge of any dump there, Bruce Davis, RECC assistant plant superintendent, acknowledged that RECC workers had been hauling brush in the area. If the brush has been dumped on Oklahoma Hollow, the RECC will clean it up, he said.

The general manager also noted that the supermarket did not generate as much food waste as it would if it included a delicatessen. "A deli would cause a bigger problem. We don't have a deli," he said.

Cox said he inherited the present trash-disposal arrangement when he bought the store in November, 1982. He said he would have "no problem" complying with the county's solid waste ordinance, which makes use of the county waste system mandatory. "If they say that's what we have to do, we'll do it," he said.

Also named in the circuit court suit were Jenny's Place, on the Middle Creek road, and Wildcat Beverages, on the Auxier road—both of which were continuing to burn their trash despite a warning by the state Department of Air Quality, McAninch said. Other defendants include A&J Carryout at Hueysville and Cindy Hall, a Betsy Layne resident.

The suit asks for a court injunction evicting them from their premises and notes that they are liable for imprisonment for up to 30 days or a $100 fine or both for "unlawful occupation."

Those cited in the district court suit for refusing to pay their garbage bills, and the amounts allegedly due, are:

R. B. Conn, of Martin, $160; Sherman Hunt, Prestonsburg, $330; Clifford Woods, Prestonsburg, $345; Tandy Buchanan, Auxier, $212; John M. Newsome, Auxier, $338; Lonnie Goad, Betsy Layne, $216; Don Ray Dameron, Harold, $380; Dwight Ratliff, Auxier, $144; Ron Stratton, Stanville, $222; Linda Belcher, Auxier, $154; Mary L. Hall, Auxier, $270; James H. Meek, Auxier, $283.50; Ronnie Reynolds, Betsy Layne, $318; Phyllis Campbell, Betsy Layne, $228; Consolidated Cable, Allen, $125.75; and Akers Restaurant, McDowell, $290.

Ex-Road Worker Gets Six-Month Jail Term

A former county road worker was sentenced to six months' jail and ordered to pay a $250 fine last week, after a Floyd District Court jury convicted him of threatening the worker who replaced him.

Donnie Combs, 31, of Estill, who was hired as a county truck driver in January following the election of Jackie Edford Owens as Second District magistrate, brought a charge of wanton endangerment against Forrest "Bud" Tuttle, Jr., of Garrett, who held the driver's job for the previous 4½ years, when Kenneth Roberts was magistrate.

Roberts, who was in the courtroom audience for the trial, later accused County Attorney David Barber of trying him rather than the defendant.

Combs alleged that Tuttle passed him on new KY 80 near the mouth of Goose Creek on April 4, made an obscene gesture, and pointed a "big blue gun" at him. Combs, who was driving an empty county gravel truck at the time, said Tuttle's 1977 Cadillac forced him off the road.

Questioned by defense attorney Phillip Damron, who suggested Tuttle could not have leveled a gun at him because of the disparity in height between car and truck, Combs said, "He had a good shot at me if he wanted to. I was afraid the man was going to kill me."

Magistrate Owens added that, when his driver reported to the county garage after the incident, he was "white as a ghost" and "scared to death."

Both Tuttle and his wife, Fanny, who was also in the car, denied Tuttle had a gun that day or forced Combs off the road. He was himself forced to pull over by a malfunctioning fuel pump, said Tuttle, who produced a sales slip to show he bought a new fuel pump on April 4.

But prosecutor Barber said that Tuttle had discussed with a weigh clerk at Grayson Coal and Stone Co., from which the county buys gravel, the kind of weapon Tuttle should use to intimidate Combs. The prosecutor implied that the clerk, Brenda Bowling Hall, who failed to answer a court subpoena, was persuaded by the defendant not to testify in the case.

In response to an in-chambers motion by the defense attorney, who asked for an acquittal on grounds that there was no evidence of wanton endangerment, District Judge Harold Stumbo denied the motion, saying, "If pointing

State, Judge Defend Church Paving Work

A state Highways Department official and Floyd Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo have defended the paving of a road leading to the new Mormon church at Martin, according to a Lexington Herald-Leader story published Sunday.

Blacktopping the 300-foot road at a cost of at least $4200 was justified, Kirby Ison, chief district engineer at the Highways Department's Pikeville office, was quoted as saying, because it is on state-owned property and connects with a dirt road that was accepted last year into the county road system.

Ison said he recommended the work after meeting with E. P. "Pete" Grigsby, Jr., former school superintendent.

a pistol at a man on the road is not wanton endangerment. I don't know what is."

Defense attorney Damron told the jury the charges against Tuttle were "ridiculous" and claimed he "would have had to blow the top off the car" to shoot Combs. But Barber replied, "What's ridiculous is that we have the kind of politics in this county that lends itself to this kind of case."

"This is nothing but a grudge," the prosecutor told the jury. "A man loses his job because the man he works for is voted out and he's mad."

Barber urged the jury to say by its verdict that "Floyd county will not take this duress and force that makes people afraid to assert their rights."

"Hopefully we voted that out and it will never come back up," he said.

Jury Sets Jail Term In Case Prosecutor Calls Wife-Abuse

"If you want to stop people beating up on their spouses, this is one way to send a message—put him in jail," Assistant County Attorney Dan Rowland told a Floyd District Court jury last week.

The jury, made up of four women and two men, did just that, sentencing Johnny Patton, of Weeksbury, to 45 days' jail and ordering him to pay a $250 fine on each of two charges. One of the jail terms was probated for a year by District Judge Harold Stumbo.

Mitzi Crisp Patton, of Lower Burton, charged that on May 9 Patton, her estranged husband, broke down her door, punched her, and threatened to kill her and himself. Other witnesses said Patton threatened to break with a baseball bat the windows of a car driven by a man Mrs. Patton was dating at the time.

"It burned me up" to see his wife at home with a boyfriend, said Patton, who acknowledged kicking the door in and said he told Mrs. Patton, "If you want to play around, play around somewhere else."

He also admitted threatening to break the windows of the boyfriend's car but denied hitting his wife or threatening to kill her.

Defense attorney Jerry Patton said the case was a bitter spinoff from a pending divorce suit. "Not only does she want a divorce after eight years; now she thinks she can put him in jail. She wants to be spiteful, that's what it comes down to," the defense attorney said.

But prosecutor Rowland said the marriage had been long marked by spouse abuse and noted that restraining orders were issued three times against Patton. He also cautioned the jury not to apply a double standard, noting that, while Mitzi Patton was

A Liberal Health Administrator Espouses Reagan Conservatism

Jim Stewart is not your classic Reagan conservative. On the contrary, on most issues he considers himself a liberal—as you would expect of someone who heads an agency born of the stereotypically liberal War on Poverty.

All the more noteworthy then that, on a key issue for conservatives—the need for tight curbs on government spending—he finds himself in sync with the President.

The Maytown native took over this month as executive-director of Big Sandy Health Care, Inc., a Prestonsburg-based agency that runs clinics on Mud Creek and in Salyersville. Originally fueled almost entirely by an Office of Economic Opportunity grant in the early 1970s, the agency still draws about half its $1.2 million budget from the federal treasury.

But, probably for the first time in its history, the agency ended its fiscal year in January with federal funds unspent. "Normally we end the year with a shortfall. This year we turned back $58,000 in excess funds," Stewart said

More Funds Allotted For Mud Creek Water

U.S. Sen. Mitch McConnell's office announced Tuesday that a $75,000 Farmers Home Administration grant has been awarded to the Mud Creek Water District for purchase of a storage tank, pump stations, and additional water lines.

The award supplements earlier grants totalling $444,000 from the Appalachian Regional Commission and the Community Development Block Grant program. Improvements to the water system include extension of the lines to serve 213 additional customers for a projected total of 641.

Work-Release Abuse Alleged

In some cases, work release may amount to more release than work, county prosecutors are claiming here in the wake of two alleged work release violations.

The county attorney's office filed a motion Monday to set aside a work-release order issued on July 23 by District Judge Harold Stumbo, after police officers said they discovered Lon Stone not at work but at a licensed club.

Stone, 27, of Blue River, was sentenced to 90 days' jail after a jury convicted him of third-offense drunk driving. According to a court order, he was to leave the jail at 9 a. m. each morning to work for Paul Hunt Thompson in Wheelwright.

But Prestonsburg police officers Jeff Stumbo and Gerald Clark, who watched Stone leave the jailhouse one morning, allegedly followed him to the Eagles Club in Prestonsburg.

County Attorney David Barber, who said he did not believe work release was appropriate in any event after a third DUI conviction, moved to have the court order set aside. A hearing on the motion was set for tomorrow (Thursday).

In another incident involving work release, Marion Kilburn, who was also serving time for a drunk driving conviction, returned to the jail from work with two bags of marijuana, according to Deputy Jailor Doug Wells. Kilburn pleaded guilty to the charge and was sentenced to an additional 15 days, to be served on weekends.

County Attorney Barber predicted the incidents will cause court authorities to take a harder look at the work-release program. "Jurors are wondering how it is that they put someone in jail one day and the next day they are out on the street," he said, adding that in some instances, convicted persons are released on bond pending an appeal.

Schenck Named Mental Health Agency Chief

Mountain Comprehensive Care will have a new permanent head, beginning August 18, it was announced Monday.

Stephen E. Schenck, 39, of Troy, S.C., has been named to succeed David E. Bell, who resigned last October amid charges of mismanagement. Schenck's appointment was announced by Commissioner Dennis Boyd of the state Department for Mental Health and Mental Retardation Services.

"We had an outstanding field of more than three dozen candidates for this position," Boyd said. "Steve Schenck was selected because he possesses a solid background in . . . administration (and) mental health program management and a good working knowledge of the area and of Mountain Comp Care."

"The staff and programs which make up Mountain Comp Care have completed a hard year. A new stability is very much in evidence there. I believe Mr. Schenck will improve upon that stability."

Schenck has served the last eight years as executive-director of the Beckman Center for Mental Health, a program of the South Carolina Department of Mental Health. The agency provided mental health services for a seven-county rural area and a population of more than 200,000.

Property, Damage Suits Filed Here

Among suits filed this week in Floyd Circuit Court, the state Transportation Cabinet has moved to condemn a number of Johns Creek properties preparatory to construction of the new Auxier-Inez highway; a man stabbed last summer outside an Auxier nightclub seeks damages from his alleged assailants; and a Martin couple accuses their church of negligence following the collapse of a bench.

In two separate condemnation suits, the state names as defendants Lois Clark Marshall, of Van Lear; Nancy and Forrest Hackworth, of Flatwoods; Roger and Jackie Marshall, of Fort Thomas; Joe L. and Janet Marshall, of Flatwoods; Goldie Wells Stevens, of Huntington; the Auxier Road Real Estate Co.; Pikeville National Bank; Floyd Federal Savings and Loan Association; and Family Federal Savings and Loan.

All defendants are said to have an interest in Johns Creek properties needed for construction of new KY 3. The suit asks the court to condemn the tracts and sent three commissioners to appraise them.

Ronald "Whitey" Wills, who was stabbed during a brawl outside The Wash-house last August, seeks unpaid damages.

McLain Family Band Festival Planned Near Berea, Aug. 8-10

THE NINTH ANNUAL McLAIN FAMILY BAND FESTIVAL, featuring 17 groups from the U.S. and abroad, will be held August 8-10 near Berea at the McLain Farm.

The Whites, from Texas and the Grand Ole Opry, making their ninth appearance at this family festival, will headline Sunday along with the Outdoor Plumbing Company and the Foster Family String Band, both on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, the D'Epiro Family and the Bass Mountain Boys, Sunday.

Internationally speaking, Bluegrass 43 from France will return to Berea, and an Irish group from Massachusetts called by their names, Mick Moloney, Robbie O'Connell and Jimmy Keane, will make their first appearance at the McLain Festival, on Friday and Saturday.

The Lewis Family from Georgia is featured Friday, as well as Janette and Joe Carter from Virginia, Kentucky Country (the young Ratcliff family from Morehead), and Blue Night Express from Texas. Dance All Night, Friday and Saturday, will be accompanied by the Outdoor Plumbing Company, the McLain Family Band and the Irish group, at various times.

Special family fun will be added this year by the Puppetry Caravan, a travelling marionette show based at Berea College, depicting a new version of a very traditional folk art, Saturday. Also on Saturday are the Osborne Brothers, Bobby and Sonny from Hyden, and the Grand Ole Opry, the Sally Mountain Show from Missouri, the Kentucky Warblers—Carol Elizabeth Reynolds and Suzanne Edmundson and special guest, Patsy Montana. In 1936 she became the first female singer and yodeler in country music to record a song which sold a million copies: "I Want To Be a Cowboy's Sweetheart." The McLain Family Band will join her on stage.

In keeping with the family emphasis, the McLains request no drinking and no drugs. No dogs are allowed in the concert area although family pets may be kept at the campsite if leashed at all times.

Music runs 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Friday; 9 a.m. to 11 p.m., Saturday, and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., Sunday, starting each day with an open stage for those from the audience wishing to perform. Tickets are available at the gate, and children under 13 are admitted free with families. Parking is free, and there is plenty of free camping in the rough. Motorcycles are parked at the gate. The festival grounds open at 10 a.m. Thursday and close at 10 a.m. Monday. There will be concessions on the grounds. The audience should provide its own chairs.

The McLain Family Farm is on US Highway 421, eight miles southeast of Berea on top of Big Hill. A shuttle bus will run from Berea to the Festival. For further information contact The McLain Family Band, CPO 1322, Berea, Ky. 40404 (606-986-8111).

June Permits Issued

The Division of Permits of the State Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement issued 147 permits in June.

The permits included 28 original permits, 79 revision permits, 13 amendment permits, 17 two-acre permits and ten succession permits. Of the 147 permits issued, six were for preparation plants and refuse areas, two for haul roads, 34 for underground mining and one for an existing process facility.

Permitting activities in June authorized the disturbance of 8,603.81 new acres of land and resulted in the collection of $210,475 in fees.

Permits issued for Floyd operations include: Coal Mac, Inc. (underground), Hall and Son Enterprise (surface/auger), JRM Coal Co., L & B Mining, Maple Ridge Mining, and TLC Coal Co., all underground.

New "Mormon" Center To Be Dedicated

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints is announcing the Dedication of a large new religious and family center at Martin, Kentucky on new route 80. The dedication will take place on Sunday, August 3, 1986 from 10:00 to 11:30 AM. This special service will be enhanced by a special two-day open house which will include filmstrips, historical and informational displays, refreshments, and informal public tours of the facility. The dates and times for the open house will be Saturday and Sunday, August 2 and 3, 1986 from 1:00 to 6:00 PM.

The chapel is located on 6.3 acres of land which was purchased by the Church in December, 1982 at a cost of $170,000. Containing 15,212 square feet of floor space, the edifice serves as a District Center for 800 church members of Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Magoffin, Perry and other surrounding counties. It also serves as a Branch Center for the 400 members of Martin and neighboring communities.

At a cost of 1.3 million dollars, there is no indebtedness for the new facility. Costs were paid by the tithes of the membership with local members contributing 4% of the total amount. As a policy of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, no building project is started until the necessary funds are budgeted and no structure is dedicated until all costs have been fully paid.

The chapel was built to meet the growing needs of the church members living in the area. It offers adequate seating accommodations, 31 classrooms for educational purposes, offices for the branch and district leadership, a baptismal font, a fully equipped library and kitchen, a recreational facility that includes a carpeted basketball court and a stage, a modern satellite system, and many other features.

The facility is designed to accommodate all of the weekly worship services which include:

- Aaronic and Melchizedek Priesthood meetings for the men
- Relief Society which is the women's organization
- Young Men and Young Women youth programs
- Primary (the children's organization)
- Sunday School
- Sacrament Meeting (general worship service for everyone)

Visitors are always welcome at any or all of these meetings.

Space Satellite System

Satellite Dish keeps local church informed...

Members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in the Martin area have a new way of keeping in touch with other members of their church—through a satellite dish recently installed at the new District/Branch Center at Martin.

This three meter satellite antenna system will provide leadership training and local viewing of programs from Church headquarters in Salt Lake City, Utah. Programs to be broadcast include the Church's semiannual general conference held during April and October of every year, educational programs, special "fireside" speeches for the youth and others, performances by the world famous Mormon Tabernacle Choir, and sports events.

The Church leases space on the Telstar and Westar IV communication satellites when broadcasting programs to its chapels throughout the world. All programs and services of the Church and the new Martin District/Branch Center are open to all members and visitors.

ARTICLES OF FAITH

1. We believe in God the Eternal Father, and in His Son, Jesus Christ, and in the Holy Ghost.
2. We believe that men will be punished for their own sins, and not for Adam's transgression.
3. We believe that through the Atonement of Christ, all mankind may be saved, by obedience to the laws and ordinances of the Gospel.
4. We believe that the first principles and ordinances of the Gospel are: first, Faith in the Lord Jesus Christ; second, Repentance; third, Baptism by immersion for the remission of sins; fourth, Laying on of hands for the gift of the Holy Ghost.
5. We believe that a man must be called of God, by prophecy, and by the laying on of hands by those who are in authority, to preach the Gospel and administer in the ordinances thereof.
6. We believe in the same organization that existed in the Primitive Church, namely, apostles, prophets, pastors, teachers, evangelists, and so forth.
7. We believe in the gift of tongues, prophecy, revelation, visions, healing, interpretation of tongues, and so forth.
8. We believe the Bible to be the word of God as far as it is translated correctly; we also believe the Book of Mormon to be the word of God.
9. We believe all that God has revealed, all that He does now reveal, and we believe that He will yet reveal many great and important things pertaining to the Kingdom of God.
10. We believe in the literal gathering of Israel and in the restoration of the Ten Tribes; that Zion (the New Jerusalem) will be built upon the American continent; that Christ will reign personally upon the earth; and, that the earth will be renewed and receive its paradisiacal glory.
11. We claim the privilege of worshipping Almighty God according to the dictates of our own conscience, and allow all men the same privilege, let them worship how, where, or what they may.
12. We believe in being subject to kings, presidents, rulers, and magistrates, in obeying, honoring, and sustaining the law.
13. We believe in being honest, true, chaste, benevolent, virtuous, and in doing good to all men; indeed, we may say that we follow the admonition of Paul—We believe all things, we hope all things, we have endured many things, and hope to be able to endure all things. If there is anything virtuous, lovely, or of good report or praiseworthy, we seek after these things.

—Joseph Smith, 1841

LOCAL MISSIONARIES

There are twelve full time missionaries presently serving in the Martin, Kentucky District. Four of these missionaries serve in Floyd County. They are Elders King and Horne of Prestonsburg and Sisters Hawkins and Shaw of Martin.

Sister Shaw is from Liberty, Utah and has been serving as a missionary for fourteen months. At the end of her 24 month mission, she plans to attend Utah State University.

Sister Hawkins is from Salt Lake City, Utah and has been a missionary for 12 months. She plans to continue her education at Brigham Young University upon her return home.

Elder King is from Garland, Utah and has been away from home on his mission for 18 months. He has a twin brother who is also serving a mission for the Church in Spokane, Washington. In 4 months, he plans to return home and pick his life up where he left off...playing football, pursuing a career, getting married, etc... "I love it here", says Elder King. "I am here on a mission because I want to be and because I know that the message that I carry is true".

Elder Horne was born in New York City but grew up in Bountiful, Utah. He has only been serving as a missionary for 2 months and this area is his first assignment. He has been here long enough, however, to know that he likes what he has seen so far. "The people here in Prestonsburg are probably the most hospitable I have ever encountered", said Elder Horne. "I love it here and after my mission I plan to return someday". He also plans to continue his education after his missionary service is completed by attending Brigham Young University.

These four young missionaries are part of the Church's energetic missionary program which is organized throughout the United States and in most other countries of the free world. Every year thousands of young men and women voluntarily accept calls to become proselyting missionaries for two years. They serve at their own expense using money they have saved or money that has been donated by family and friends. When their service is concluded, they are honorably released and return to college or vocational pursuits.

CHURCH PROGRAM STRENGTHENS FAMILY

The basic unit of the Church is the family and so the Church sponsors a family-strengthening program called "Family Home Evening" in which a family sets aside one night per week to meet and discuss important principles or participate in fun activities.

The idea of the program is to improve communication and love among family members so the family can be better equipped to oppose any negative influences that may permeate the home.

To aid families in starting this program, pamphlets and manuals are available. Those interested should contact the local Church at 285-3133.

New Genealogical Library Planned

Have you ever wondered who might be hiding in your family tree? Many people today are becoming interested in discovering who their ancestors are. They are learning to trace their ancestral "roots" by visiting cemeteries, reading family diaries and letters, looking through public documents at local courthouses, or using any resources that may be available.

A new source of information will soon be made available to those people interested in genealogy. The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints has just announced that there will be a new genealogical library added to the recently constructed District/Branch Center in Martin, Kentucky.

The new genealogical library will give members and visitors access to millions of volumes of birth, marriage, death, and other records that have been gathered by church members and compiled onto microfilm and microfiche for easy storage and use.

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints places strong emphasis on genealogy as evidenced by the presence of one of the world's largest genealogical libraries located at Church headquarters in Salt Lake City. Here hundreds of millions of microfilmed records are available for research. Members are encouraged to trace their ancestry back at least four generations.

The new genealogical library is expected to be operational by January, 1987. Anyone who is interested in learning more about the facility or genealogical research should call 285-3133.

High Health Standards

The code of health practiced by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints might have seemed unique when first introduced 150 years ago, but today it is followed by millions of people worldwide.

While no one can live on earth forever, the health and lifespan granted any individual can be of a better quality by observing the Church's health code better known as the "Word of Wisdom". The code advises people to follow a well-balanced diet, particularly the use of whole grains and fresh fruits and vegetables. Moderation in eating meat is also urged. Using tobacco, alcohol, coffee, and tea are advised against, on the basis that they can be harmful to one's health.

When the Church's health code was inaugurated in early 1833 through the Church's first prophet and president, Joseph Smith, the adverse effects of using tobacco and alcohol were not fully apparent. However, during the last few decades, medical researchers have concluded that Church members who observe the Word of Wisdom die of cancer at about half the rate of the general populace. The incidence of heart disease and liver ailments is also significantly reduced.

In addition, national statistics rank Utah (nearly three-fourths members of the Church) consistently at or near the bottom of all the states in the rate of serious maladies such as heart disease, stroke, diabetes, tuberculosis, and hypertension.

For more information on the health code of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints please call 285-3133, 285-3853, or 886-6988.

dating another man, her estranged husband was living with another woman.

Patton was convicted of charges of assault and terroristic threatening. Charges of criminal mischief and criminal trespass were dismissed. Judge Stumbo arguing they were more properly dealt with as part of the divorce proceedings in circuit court.

Charged with third-offense DUI was Billy V. Goble, 53, of Allen. Under a plea arrangement, he admitted to a second offense and was given a seven-day jail term, to be served on weekends. Raymond Tackett, 56, of Tram, Danny R. Newsome, 43, of Melvin, and John L. Osborne, 19, of Prestonsburg, were all tried in their absence on drunk driving charges and sentenced to 30 days. Tackett was ordered to pay $557, Newsome and Osborne $407 each, in fine and costs.

William F. Bamer, 30, of Garrett, and Larry Mitchell, 26, of Hi Hat, entered guilty pleas to DUI charges and were fined $207. Bamer was ordered to do two days' public service.

Jay D. Spears, of Prestonsburg, was convicted in his absence of failure to maintain insurance on his vehicle. He was ordered to pay $557. Leon K. Layne, of Phelps, said his daughter was involved in an accident involving Spears last September.

A drunk-driving charge against Festa D. Salisbury, 28, of McDowell, was dismissed when sheriff's deputies Anthony Castle and John Blackburn failed to prosecute the case.

Charges of harassing communications, filed against each other by Doris Lewis, of Manton, and Carolyn Cole, of Martin, were dismissed on a motion of the prosecutor, the judge holding the charges unconstitutional.

specified damages against his four alleged attackers—David and Kenneth Damron, Sammy Fronto, and Clancy Adkins, all of Pikeville.

Criminal charges against the four are also pending, with trial scheduled for September 2. The four are free in the meantime, the Damrons on a property bond signed by Pike county magistrate Kenneth Damron.

Susie and James DeRossett seek compensatory damages from the Bethel Old Regular Baptist Church at the mouth of Wilson Creek, near Maytown. Mrs. DeRossett claiming she was humiliated and suffered permanent injury to her leg when the bench she was sitting on in the church lunchroom collapsed last July. The court papers were served on McArthur Jacobs, proprietor of Jacobs Gulf Station, in Prestonsburg.

intendant and president of the Martin District of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

Drainage from the old gravel driveway to the $1.3 million church was creating a safety hazard for motorists and church members. Ison said, according to the report by Lee Mueller, of the Lexington paper's Eastern Kentucky Bureau.

Judge-Executive Stumbo said the county graded the state-owned road and paid a paving contractor $88 an hour to spread $4096 worth of blacktop bought by the state. The county was involved in the work because the state road leads to a county road, the judge-executive explained. Although only one house is served by the county road now, others may be built there later, he said.

Both Ison and Stumbo reportedly denied that politics were involved in the paving decision.

"Usually they cut it down. This year they increased it because we had done well the year before. They saw we were trying not to waste money," Stewart said. "It was a feather in Ron's and my cap."

There was a time, the administrator acknowledged, when some at Big Sandy felt the agency would survive only if it expanded its middle-class clientele. But, by keeping close tabs on income and expenditure, he was proving the agency could not only keep serving its traditionally low-income patients but even expand the range of services, he said.

With increased layoffs in the coal industry, the health agency is treating more impoverished patients—those on the bottom end of its sliding-fee scale—than at any time in its 14-year history, the administrator said, noting that "minimum pay" patients make up 50 percent of the clientele at the agency's Grethel clinic.

"We don't want to ever turn away someone because they can't pay," said Stewart. But he and Chaffins were able to realize significant economies, he said, by vigorously billing those who can pay, either out of their own pockets or because they are covered by government or private insurance programs.

That kind of fiscal record might well prove the real key to the Big Sandy clinics' surviving in a decidedly more conservative political climate than that in which they were first spawned, Stewart believes. A one-percent cut in the HHS budget decreed by the Gramm-Rudman bill wiped out about 15 marginal clinics in the southeastern states, he said, adding that the same belt-tightening forced Big Sandy Health care to "cut the fat from out of our program."

If that sounds like a startling admission from the manager of a federal program, most of whom have long berated Reagan Administration cuts as a cruel disservice to their low-income clients, Stewart is quick to point out that the cuts have run much deeper in other programs—like welfare, food stamps and legal services—than in primary health care. In non-health-related programs, "I think people are being hurt," he said.

One reason for the difference in Administration attitudes toward health as compared with other programs, Stewart believes, is that primary health care is easier than, say, welfare or legal aid to justify on a strictly economic basis.

"What they told us in Atlanta is that, in terms of what they get for a dollar, the primary health care dollar is one of the best spent," he said. "They know that, if they pay for preventive care, people are not going to have to go to hospital for the big operations that the government has to pay for in the end."

One proposed economy that could hurt clinics like those operated by Big Sandy Health Care, said Stewart, is the threatened elimination of the National Health Service Corps—a program that has forgiven a part of medical students' government loans in return for their commitment to work in doctor-poor areas.

The program has meant "extremely well-qualified doctors knocking on our doors to get here," said Stewart, who said that eastern Kentucky often looks very attractive to young physicians who might otherwise have to work off their loan on an Indian reservation in New Mexico or in an inner-city ghetto.

Big Sandy Health Care currently employs five physicians, all of whom came here under the NHSC program. "If they do away with it, we'll be hurt," Stewart said.

For the time being, however, this liberal, who opposed increases in military spending and cuts in poverty programs, is determined to prove to a conservative administration that liberals can match them in fiscal discipline. And this for a reason that might have come from the President himself: "If more people would do this, all along the line, the federal government would not have the problems it has."

Bits and Pieces

LIFE IN THE TROPICS

I don't care what anyone says, it is not the humidity; it's the heat and the humidity as far as I'm concerned. If this goes on much longer, I intend to don a pith helmet, plant a palm tree, sit down and wait for the coconuts to bounce off my head.
Ah, life in the tropics—Who needs it?

SOMETHING'S WRONG

Our mother remains seriously ill in a Lexington hospital, and we find it difficult to attend to the business of "Business as usual." It just doesn't seem to work too well.

As one will, I think of all the loving, wonderful, wacky things she did for us when we were children. She is an old-fashioned mother and a great one.

For instance, during World War II, it was impossible to get a rubber ball, and yes, Mother decided to make one. With more determination than skill, a sticky, horrible mess was concocted, but I still think she would have succeeded if the neighbors hadn't complained about the smell.

And I remember, she was always there when I came home from school. Years later, when I was away from home, if I called and no one answered, I panicked.

When Mother wasn't there, something was wrong. And something is wrong now.

NO CHARM

The third Not an I.Q. Test was a monumental flop as far as response is concerned. Only two brave souls came through—to this office, at least. Debbie Porter was, as usual, first, closely followed by Abby Grant. Both scored 100%, also as usual. I missed you this time, Janet.

Anyway, here are the answers.

Master Masons Meet Set at Flanery Farm

James W. Alley, Masonic Lodge, No. 869, and John W. Hall Masonic Lodge, No. 950, will host their second annual outdoor meeting August 2. The meeting will be held at Tom Flanery's Farm at Warco, about one mile west of Martin on KY 80. Signs will be posted.

Food will be served at 5:30 p.m., and the Tiled meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. to perform the 2nd section of the Master Mason degree.

All Master Masons are welcome. In the event of rain, the meeting will be moved to the Maytown Grade School gym at Langley.

Clarification

A story in last week's Times about the conviction of Kenneth Hinton on a charge of endangering Steve Barnett included the prosecutor's suggestion that Hinton was angry with Barnett because of Barnett's friendship with Hinton's wife. In fact, he was not married at the time. Hinton pointed out later.

Haysi Dam Once Again Listed In House Bill

Engineering for the proposed Haysi Reservoir on the Russell Fork of the Big Sandy would again be funded under an appropriations bill passed last week by the House of Representatives. The House bill has yet to be reconciled with a Senate version.

Included in the bill by U.S. Rep. Chris Perkins was $1 million for continued advanced engineering on the Haysi lake, which would be built in Virginia but would supposedly reduce flood crests in Kentucky.

The bill also includes $300,000 for engineering of a flood-control project on the Licking River at Salyersville.

VFW Service Officer To Visit Here, Saturday

Kentucky VFW's service officer, Richard Mayhew, will be at the VFW 5839 Post in Prestonsburg from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m., or as long as there are veterans or their dependents who require his assistance in filing a claim, on Saturday, August 2. His services are free of charge and are available to all eligible veterans and their dependents, without regard to their membership or affiliation with any veterans organization.

Correction

A Times report last week of the sentence given to Willie Hall, of Printer, convicted on July 22 of a second DUI offense, was incomplete. Hall received a seven-day sentence in addition to being restricted to his house for 30 nights and having to pay $557.

Thanks Theatre, Club

The staff of Camp Shawnee and Christian Appalachian Project would like to publicly thank James Deaton and the Jenny Wiley Amphitheatre for their kindness in inviting the young people attending Camp Shawnee this summer to attend the plays. Each week, approximately 30 to 50 young people have been able to see a Broadway production as part of their camp experience. For some of these children, it has been their only opportunity to see the plays.

The amphitheatre offers an excellent cultural and recreational event for the area, and we appreciate those professionals who come to work and spend their summer in our community.

Thanks are also in order for the Prestonsburg Rotary Club who generously provided refreshments for the campers. This new civic club seems to be enthusiastic in looking for ways to be of service.

Due to the efforts of Jenny Wiley Amphitheatre and the Prestonsburg Rotary our camp experiences are getting better and better.

A Pertinent Question

A friend of ours, Mrs. Charles Justice, Martin, asked me a question, regarding the "rights" of the retarded, that I can't answer.—I appeal to the readers of The Times, to enlighten me, if they can.

The taxpayers pay for and maintain the public schools. Is this not so? Then, do these taxpayers have a right to use them for legitimate reasons? My friend asked me this: "Why can't the retarded children have the use of the local gym for two nights a month; to run and race in—to throw a basketball through a hoop—to play tag, etc., and so on.—To end this evening, serve them a can of coke, for which the parents would pay." I add to this our "why?"

This is the day of "rights"—Have the retarded no "rights"? Every normal person, and every parent of a normal child should be humble and grateful for Gods' gift of being normal themselves, and having normal children. Not like a minister who admonished his daughter, the age of ours, not be around Margaret—"she might hurt you." All of us, who see people who are handicapped, in any manner, might repeat the words of the immortal John Wesley as he looked at a cursing, foul mouthed drunkard—"there but for the grace of God, go I." But for His grace, your child might have been like ours!

Made Contribution

It is with regret that the City of Wheelwright bids goodbye to the eight students employed in the city during the past five weeks.

These students, funded and sponsored by the Floyd County Community Action Summer Youth Program, have certainly made a visible difference in Wheelwright.

With their help and that of local citizen volunteers, these young adults have made a positive impact on our community. They have worked diligently with Mountain Housing, the utility commission and the city to gain much-needed experience for themselves and contributed to their community to make it a better place to live.

Many thanks to the Community Action Youth Program, its staff, and each individual "summer helper" assigned to the city—their presence made an enjoyable and productive summer for us all.

Kiwanis Club, Here, Aids Animal Shelter

Cats at the animal shelter, here, will no longer be dumped helter-skelter, regardless of age or sex, in one room for lack of proper enclosures.

When Laura Feamster and Bonnie Faulkner spoke before a meeting of the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club, last Thursday, of the lack of facilities for cats and puppies at the shelter, its members not only listened, they elected to give support in the form of stainless steel-coated cages.

Kiwanis members will buy one set and Marvin Music, Jr., will give three more of the three-tiered "apartments," for a total of $1250.

"We're just overwhelmed," Mrs. Faulkner said, and Mrs. Feamster agreed. Both are active members of the Dewey Dam Dog and Cat Protection Society, now managing the animal shelter. Active means they have spent long hours doing some of the major dirty work involved in getting the shelter cleaned up.

A spokesman for Kiwanis said, "In the true spirit of Kiwanis, to support and help our community and children, our club and one of its most active members, Marvin Music, Jr., elected to support the Floyd County Animal Shelter by contributing to the purchase of animal apartments. These...will help in the proper care of small kittens and puppies so dear to us all."

Celebrate Birthdays

Jason and Jamie Leigh Ann Slone, son and daughter of Frank and Barbara Slone, of David, celebrated their sixth and first birthday, June 18, at the Archer Park Skating Rink.

A Teddy Bear cake was served to their guests. They received many nice gifts.

They are the grandchildren of Charles and Ruth Nelson, of David and Ernest Ray and Pauline Slone, of Prestonsburg, and the great-grandchildren of Martha Nelson, of David.

Nurse-Midwives Get Liability Insurance

The American College of Nurse-Midwives President Susan A. Yates, CNM, MS, and President-Elect of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners (NAIC) Edward Muhl today jointly announced the formation of a new professional liability insurance program for certified nurse-midwives through an insurance consortium.

"We are delighted with the insurance consortium," stated ACNM President Yates. "Our members have been struggling all year to find insurance coverage to prevent them from having to interrupt their practices. More importantly, American families—mothers and babies—now will be assured of continued excellent care from certified nurse-midwives."

At the request of NAIC President Josephine M. Driscoll (Oregon Insurance Commissioner), CNA Insurance Companies and Aetna Life & Casualty have formed a consortium of major insurance companies to provide professional liability insurance for certified nurse-midwives who are ACNM members.

"This joint effort of the NAIC and private insurers further demonstrates the industry's resourcefulness and willingness to work together to try to solve difficult availability problems generated by the liability crisis facing society today," Muhl, also Maryland Insurance Commissioner, said. "This effort also speaks well of the ability of the states to respond to the insurance needs of their citizens."

CNA will act as the lead insurance carrier and servicing company. Other insurance companies participating in the consortium in addition to Aetna include USF&G, AIG, CIGNA, Crum & Forster, Liberty Mutual, Maryland Casualty, Royal Insurance and Travelers.

"CNA and Aetna have worked hard to put together this consortium at the request of Commissioner Driscoll," stated James Canavan, senior manager, professional liability specialty markets at CNA, "and we are extremely gratified by the response of the other individual carriers. We look forward to the early implementation of a successful program that will help alleviate the immediate insurance problem for certified nurse-midwives. It is our intention that this be the beginning of a long-term solution."

The insurance program is expected to be in place as soon as the various state insurance departments approve the filings.

The American College of Nurse-Midwives, located in Washington, D.C., is the professional organization for certified nurse-midwives (CNMs) in the U.S. Its 2,500 members represent close to 85 percent of the profession.

ACNM members are registered nurses who have completed advanced education in midwifery. They are specialists in maternal and child health care.

Migrant and seasonal farmworkers are provided important worker protections under the Migrant and Seasonal Agricultural Worker Protection Act, which offers workers protection in various areas, including wages, hours and working conditions, vehicle safety, housing and health.

Jesse Stuart Legacy Draws Many Visitors

A five-foot-tall granite tombstone marks the final resting place of one of Kentucky's most beloved writers, Jesse Stuart. The grave is located on a knoll overlooking the hills that Stuart knew, loved, and glorified in his works. This community cemetery is in Plum Grove, a tiny community that, like the settlement one ridge away, W-Hollow, has been home to Stuarts since the late 1890s. Here in the hills of northeastern Kentucky about 25 miles west of Ashland, Jesse Stuart found the inspiration for "Taps for Private Tussie," "The Thread that Runs So True," and countless other novels, short stories, and poems that have delighted readers worldwide for more than 50 years.

Fortunately for visitors, Stuart's world unfolds through a system of hiking trails that runs through the Jesse Stuart Nature Preserve, a state-maintained tract of land that encompasses portions of W-Hollow. One trail takes hikers past "Op's Cabin," a white clapboard house that figured prominently in "The Good Spirit of Laurel Ridge." Academy Hollow trail retraces the path Jesse used to take in walking to high school, while another loops around Plum Grove. To obtain a brochure that includes a map of the preserve, write the Kentucky Nature Preserves Commission, 407 Broadway, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Jesse Stuart devotees also can enjoy guided, half-day bus tours of W-Hollow each April and September, courtesy of the Jesse Stuart Foundation, an organization devoted to maintaining his legacy. The escorted tourists take in the Jesse Stuart home, the bunkhouse where Stuart wrote many of his most famous works, and other points of interest. Stuart family members serve as tour guides. For more information, contact the Jesse Stuart Foundation, P.O. Box 391, Ashland, Ky. 41114. Call (606) 329-5233.

The foundation has planned a year-long celebration this year marking the 80th birthday of Stuart. Events range from performances of a drama based on "The Thread that Runs So True" to tribute days at area universities. Contact the foundation for a complete schedule.

On a gray winter day, Jesse's brother, James, walked through Plum Grove cemetery. He paused at a tombstone marking the grave of Charles Cottle, a close friend of Jesse who was known for his happy-go-lucky nature. The inscription read: "One life to live" was my philosophy. The good earth was and is a friend to me. And as good as the earth are the Plum Grove friends I have, the last to bear me to this Plum Grove grave." The cadence and simplicity of the verse bears the unmistakable stamp of its author. It was Jesse Stuart's last gesture of thanks to a long-time friend.

James points out inscriptions on Jesse's monument, many written by him. They reflect his teaching career, which began in his late teens and continued through his 20s. "...I am firm in my belief that the teacher lives on through his students."

Stuart family history is all around. James points to a part of the cemetery that used to be the site of Plum Grove School, where he, Jesse, and three sisters went to school in the 1920s. Across the gravel road from the cemetery is a small, white building that used to house the Plum Grove Church. It was at this church that Jesse's parents, Mitchell Stuart and Martha Hylton, met in 1900 and married two years later.

We leave Plum Grove, driving about one-half mile to KY 1. A few hundred feet north on KY 1 is the road through W-Hollow. (Both Plum Grove and W-Hollow are marked by signs). As we drive slowly down the two-lane road, James points out the houses of cousins, sisters, a niece. This narrow hollow, named for its distinctive shape, is virtually all Stuart. We descend to the bottom land and pull off the road beside a creek. James points to a field that once contained a wall. He recalls a peddler named Nick who used to travel to W-Hollow once a month or so selling trinkets and handmade articles. One year, Nick didn't show up for a couple of months and local residents became worried. Finally, something drew a resident to check the well. Nick's badly beaten body was found there. He had been robbed and murdered, but no one was ever convicted of the crime. The incident is recounted in Stuart's "The Year of My Rebirth."

James, who has the same powerful build and silver-gray hair of his late brother, directs us to a side road just beyond a split-rail fence. A short distance up the road is the sprawling frame house Jesse and his wife, Naomi Deane, called home for more than 40 years. Mrs. Stuart still lives in the neatly tended house.

A short distance beyond, the road twists up a hill. Near the top is the white frame house where the Stuart family lived in the 1920s and '30s. Near the house is an addition the Stuarts call "The Bunkhouse." It was here that Jesse wrote "Man with a Bull-Tongue Plow" and many other works.

James points at a spot in front of the bunkhouse. "Jesse used to sit out under a maple tree over there and write for hours at a time," he said.

He recalls when Jesse returned from Vanderbilt University, which he attended for a year before financial difficulties beset him. An English professor had proven the bane of his existence. One day, Jesse later told his family, the professor assigned the class to write brief essays on their lives. Some 11 days later, Jesse returned with a 322-page manuscript!

The professor agreed only reluctantly to read the massive tome. A few days later, he told Jesse, "I have been teaching school for forty years and I have never read anything so crudely written and yet beautiful, tremendous and powerful as that term paper you have written."

It was encouragement like that, James says, that drove Jesse to labor far into the night, hunched over an old Olivetti typewriter as he smoked and typed. And it was that persistence that made Jesse Stuart an award-winning writer of prose and poetry.

Ky. Farmers Sending Hay To N. Carolina

Hundreds of Kentucky farmers are pitching in to send thousands of bales of hay to drought-stricken farmers in North Carolina.

Gov. Martha Layne Collins and state Agriculture Commissioner David Boswell sent out a plea for help July 23, and loading of more than 50,000 bales of hay on a train donated by CSX Corp. was scheduled to begin July 28.

"We have been in contact with Norfolk Southern Railway in case another train needed," the governor said.

Boswell urged farmers wishing to donate hay to contact the nearest county extension agent. "Farmers should await the instruction of the county agent before attempting to take the hay to a loading point," Boswell said.

Five loading points were announced for the CSX train: Madisonville, Bowling Green, Upton, Shelbyville and Avon.

Gov. Collins also announced that she has signed an executive order to ease restrictions for wide truck loads carrying relief hay over Kentucky highways.

"I want to express my pride in our Kentucky farmers. Their generosity and community spirit is an inspiration to all of us. They have made Kentucky proud," the governor said.

Boswell and the governor said that careful distribution plans have been worked out with North Carolina officials to see that the most needy farmers get the hay.

"We can assure Kentucky farmers that none of this hay will wind up in the hands of commercial shelters...and it is fairly certain that their generosity will result in their establishing additional markets for themselves in the future," Boswell said.

In More Ways Than One...

"Sweet Charity" Tells Tale Of Fortune's Fickle Finger

The "fickle finger of fate" is the best reason Charity Hope Valentine—the heroine of Sweet Charity—can give for her shabby life as a call-girl in a seedy New York bar. And the large Saturday-night audience at Jenny Wiley's summer music theatre had its own reason to know what she meant.

As Tina James belted out the lyrics of "Big Spender" and "If They Could See Me Now," thunder rolled ominously around the open-air arena and sheet lightning periodically lit the stage. At intermission, a torrential downpour sent patrons dashing for their cars or huddling under what little cover the theatre provides.

Too bad. Although anyone who attends outdoor performances needs to be philosophical about the weather—indeed, a little rumbling from the heavens never hurt, say, the mad scene from King Lear—Jenny Wiley's Sweet Charity was doing nicely on its own and playing to an appreciative house before the untimely intrusion of nature's fickle finger.

Sweet Charity is the story of a "dance-hall hostess" at the Fandango Ballroom in Times Square, a street-wise but vulnerable hooker looking for—well—Real Love. Adapted by Neil Simon from the 1957 Fellini film, Nights Of Cabiria—about a Roman prostitute in search of respectability—it first opened in New York in 1966. This is the first season it has been presented locally.

Miss James, the Actors' Equity artist who sings the title role, last appeared here 10 years ago in productions of South Pacific, Showboat, and Brigadoon.

From the opening "If They Could See Me Now"—the orchestra alternating between a brassy razzamatazz and plaintive strings—Sweet Charity moves back and forth between the surface glitter of the cabaret scene and the search of its lost souls for a more enduring sense of purpose.

It's an emotional seesaw that is well-served by Mary Cosaro's imaginative choreography, which includes a memorable "Big Spender"—the Fandango Ballroom's eight lovelies making the most of its brash, bitter lyrics—and a sequence of stilted posing that tellingly suggests the vacuous gaiety of the dance hall world. While the musical is ostensibly set in 1960s New York, the rather eclectic costuming evokes memories of urban decadence going back to pre-war Europe and even 1920s flapperdom.

Too-long, not-too-funny, and no way to end the first act is an exchange in a jammed elevator between Charity and a claustrophobic accountant named Oscar. It too is meant to lead us over the bridge from raunchy slapstick to a subtler triumph of the human spirit. But, by the time this labored journey runs its course, one suspects Oscar is by no means the only one who wants out.

The recent redesign of the summer music theatre, with the orchestra pit now set off to one side, gives new depth to the stage and must be a boon to the cast, especially in the "big production" numbers. It comes at significant cost to a fair section of the audience, however, those on the right side now being forced to strain to catch script and lyrics over an orchestra situated within feet of their eardrums. In an alfresco setting, which always poses daunting acoustical challenges, this one is a losing battle.

And, speaking of the new furnishings, one has to wonder what disembodied spirit designed the seats, which appear cunningly contoured to fit no currently extant human form.

Will Charity every find happiness? Book a seat—left or center, preferably, and lightly cushioned—and find out. It plays again tomorrow (Thursday) and, in repertory, through August 21.

Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, meanwhile, bring the other three musicals making up this season's repertoire—Oliver, Shenandoah, and Cotton Patch Gospel. For information, call 886-9274.

Prestonsburg Village Ordered Sold; Greer Repudiates 3 Notes

Prestonsburg Village—the unfinished, debt-plagued shopping center at the mouth of Katy Friend—must be sold at auction, according to a ruling by Pike Circuit Judge Will T. Scott.

Scott, who was appointed as special judge in the case after Floyd Circuit Judge Hollie Conley disqualified himself, found that W&G Associates, developers of the shopping complex, have failed to make a required interest payment to a mortgage lender. The development company is owned by John W. Waits, of Oldham county, and financier Robert W. Greer, of New York.

The July 18 order of sale came in a suit filed by Buckingham Kentucky Holdings, Inc., a New York-based financial company that invests British miners' pension funds. It sought to foreclose on the project because it said W&G was in default on a $13.5 million loan.

In another lawsuit involving Prestonsburg Village, Greer said his name was signed without authorization on three promissory notes obligating him and Waits to pay a Lexington paving company $150,000. A document filed July 21 in Floyd Circuit Court in connection with a pending lawsuit showed that Greer denied signing the three notes bearing his name and denied authorizing anyone to sign them on his behalf.

The notes were executed last year to ensure payment for work done by Mountain Enterprises, Inc. at the shopping center.

VISIT HERE

Misses Stephanie and Cindy Stephens, of Lexington, were here last week for a visit with their aunts, Misses Elsie and Linda Stephens and Mrs. Thelma S. Wallen, of Water Gap, their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Clark, and their aunt, Mrs. Joe A. Burchett, and Mr. Burchett, of Prestonsburg. They were joined on Saturday by their father, Dennis Stephens, who attended the reunion and dinner given by the Prestonsburg High School Class of '61 at the Holiday Inn, Saturday evening.

To Speak On Literacy

Jane K. Beshear will speak at a joint meeting of the Floyd County Adult Literacy Council and the Prestonsburg Rotary Club on Thursday, July 31, 12:15 p.m. in the Van Lear Room of the Holiday Inn here. Mrs. Beshear is chairperson of the Governor's Kentucky Literacy Commission and is the wife of Kentucky Lt. Governor Steven L. Beshear.

Foster Parent Meet Held at May Lodge

Saturday, July 12, foster parents from 20 counties in Central and Eastern Kentucky attended the Annual Foster Parent Training Conference at Jenny Wiley State Park Lodge. Four workshops were scheduled covering such topics as Behavioral Management, Fostering the Sexually Abused Child, Wellness with Children, and the Therapeutic Use of Life Books in Separation and Grief. Speakers for the workshops included Dan Thomas, Ph.D., professor of education from Morehead State University, Florence Lankster, M.S.W., child guidance specialist of Fayette County School System, Estalene Jenkins, R.N., health care specialist of the Cabinet for Human Resources, Department for Social Services in Frankfort, and Patricia Montgomery, Director of the Special Needs Foster Home of the Christian Appalachian Project and a Department for Social Services foster parent in Mt. Vernon.

The program was co-ordinated by Joan B. Tackett, Family Services Office supervisor with the Department for Social Services Recruitment and Certification Unit in Ashland.

Response from the foster parents attending was positive. Many felt it was informative and learned new methods in working and caring for the children in the foster care program. Training such as this is held to assist the foster parents in understanding the child in their home and dealing with their particular needs. Foster parents are special people who spend their time learning about children and their needs. They are people who desire to give the best they can to those children who are victims of circumstance. Those who desire to be a part of the Foster Care Program may do so by contacting the local Department for Social Services office at 886-8192.

To The Statue of Liberty— A Glimpse of Her Beauty

Thy feet were fashioned on the surface of surety. Thy garment doth symbolize the comfort that proceedeth by following after thy ways.

Thy children art a very great multitude. Thou has mourned pitifully for thy sons in battle. Fighting to uphold thy honor, many of them sleep on the soil of other nations, but thou criest out to all thy children to dearly remember those loved ones of many mothers, who lost their sons fighting the battle to keep my garment of freedom as your journey's desired pathway.

For my children the land of your habitation is the land preserved by your maker down through the ages, until the time appointed by him that thy fathers, seek a place to demonstrate, and make manifest the substance of what I stand for, Honesty, Truth, Peace, Hope, Charity and whatsoever pertaineth to freedom.

In the day when my covenant was decreed, I advised my sons and my daughters, your fathers, and mothers, from the gateway where I stand looking in every direction over the land of America. Saying to them abide you, and teach your sons and your daughters to abide, in the principals and standards of right. Letting the Golden Rule be the choicest rule among you. Do unto others, as you would have them do unto you. And by doing this, and wanting this, peace will greatly abound among you.

Selfishness, haughtiness, and wealth gained by defraud is sorely displeasing to me, as is a disease to the human body. For these are the standards of my enemy.

My right hand holdeth up the torch, which beareth the light to illuminate thy path to keep thy habitation free.

My crown symbolizes the strength from which my strength comes. The pointers on my crown signifies that thy maker planted thee in this good land, and is calling out to those that are poor and destitute regardless of race, creed, or color, come let us join together, and gain strength to uphold our peace of freedom.

Thanks to one and all for admonishing and repairing me. Now honor me by returning to the true principals for which I stand. Only let me be second to thy first love, God first above all for He gave you this land, and gave you freedom.

The ensign of thy banner speaks clearly, representing thy travail and glories. Red, White, and Blue.

Red is for the blood shed in the battles to gain freedom. White the pure peace of freedom. Blue the heavenly dominion from which my instructions come to give to you, and to guide you while you remain.

The stars represent your individual states, all together making one free nation.

So may I say once again as I did in the day of my erection, do that which is right, admonish that which has given you recognition as a great nation.

Return to recognizing God's ways in everything you do, pray and trust in God, for there is truly no room for the ones who seek to destroy our peace among us.

Moore Family Reunion Held in Marion, Ohio

The first annual reunion of the late Mart and Mandy C. Moore, of Wayland, was held July 12 at Sawyer Ludwig Park Lions Club in Marion, Ohio. There was a large crowd in attendance. The oldest one attending was Roxie Moore Horton, 81, of Portsmouth, Virginia, and the youngest was Lindsey Mae Kirts, two-week-old great-granddaughter of Mart and Mandy Moore and great-granddaughter of the late Tom E. Moore.

Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Virginia, and Missouri were represented by descendants of the Moore family. Troy Moore and Ethel Roberts were not able to attend.

The next reunion is scheduled July 11, 1987 in the same location. For information write to Mrs. Millie M. Reynolds, 400 Delaware Ave., Apt. 815, Marion, Ohio 43302.

Pageant Winner

Sheena Brooke Adams, 20-month-old daughter of Danny and Connie Adams, of Prestonsburg, participated in the Miss Liberty pageant June 27 at Martin. She won the title of Baby Miss Liberty and Miss Liberty Photogenic.

She also participated in the Miss Starburst pageant June 29 at the Holiday Inn, Prestonsburg. She won the titles of Baby Miss Starburst, Photogenic, Most Beautiful and Natural Beauty Queen.

Miss Adams is the granddaughter of Monroe and Nancy Adams, of Middlecreek, and William and Polly Hall, of Prestonsburg.

To Observe 61st Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mosley, who were married July 31, 1925, will be honored with a light luncheon and cake, Saturday, August 2, by their children from out-of-state. They are Mr. and Mrs. James O. Mosley, Mr. and Mrs. Alger Mosley, Mr. and Mrs. C.A. Mosley, all of Shelby, O.; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hobbs, of Hamilton, O.; Mr. and Mrs. Ira Mosley, of Franklin, O., and Mr. and Mrs. Jack P. Hughes, of Munith, Michigan.

K.E.A. APPOINTMENTS

One of the official actions of the K.E.A. Board of Directors meeting, held recently, was the reappointment of Mrs. Zella Wallace Wells, of Paintsville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wallace, of Prestonsburg, to serve on the Kentucky Academic Association. Mrs. Wells' husband, Frank Wells, Jr., has been appointed by K.E.A. president, David Allen, to the University and Management committee.

HONOR GOV. CHANDLER

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Weddington recently attended a series of celebrations given by the Dawahare Stores throughout Kentucky for former Governor A. B. (Happy) Chandler, in commemoration of his 88th birthday. When asked—out of plain curiosity—what Joe, a long-time friend of Happy's, gave him for his birthday, Mrs. Weddington answered, "The same thing as last year—a new pair of black shoes." Then, she added, "'Happy' just doesn't like to shop for shoes."

LUNCHEON GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. John Evans entertained with a luncheon at their home, Sunday. Enjoying their hospitality were the Rev. and Mrs. Ira McMillen, of Florence; Mrs. Lillia Mae Price, and Mr. and Mrs. David Evans and daughters, Bethany and Emily.

HONORED WITH SHOWER

A miscellaneous shower honoring Miss Patricia Ann Stumbo, bride-elect of Mr. Stephen C. Schuppert, was given Saturday evening, at the First Baptist Church, here. The serving table was covered with an imported cloth, and had for its centerpiece, an arrangement of summer flowers, flanked on either side with candelabra holding tall candles. Decorated cake, punch and other refreshments were served to relatives and friends of the couple who called throughout the evening, bringing gifts of silver, linens, crystal and other miscellaneous items.

Hostesses were Mesdames George C. Brown, Chalmer H. Frazier, Marty Hicks, Clayton Holland, Don Osborne, Scott Collins, Wm. O. Goebel, Jr., Tim Hites, Newton L. May, Barkley Sturgill, and Clifford Wright.

Attending from out-of-town were Miss Ruby Akers and Mesdames Elizabeth Burton, Dewey Stumbo, Edith Hopkins, and Dorothy Martin, all of Drift.

FIRST CHILD BORN

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kuss are announcing the arrival of their first child, Eddybanks Blake Kuss, July 20, Mr. Kuss's birthday, at Highlands Regional Medical Center. The grandparents are Edna and Thomas Kuss, of Water Gap, and Hazel and J.B. Spegal, of Demossville. The baby is the grand-nephew of Norman Blake (Sheriff) Martin and Mae Banks Martin.

REPRESENT CHURCH

Mrs. Fannie Runnels and Mrs. Rose Glenn represented the First United Methodist Church at the Methodist School of Missions, held at Union College in Barbourville, last week.

ENTERTAIN WITH COOK-OUT

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford B. Latta entertained Mrs. Latta's mother, Mrs. Dudley Roberts, of Lexington, and her sister, Mrs. Betty Sue Ingram, of Douglas, Alaska, with a cook-out at their home here, Sunday evening. Among others who attended were R.V. May, Mrs. Jess Mahan, a niece and nephew of Mrs. Latta's, and the Lattas' sons, Jackson D. Latta and Robert O. Latta. Following the cook-out they all attended a performance at Jenny Wiley Amphitheatre.

VISIT IN NASHVILLE

Robert A. Latta and a friend, Michael W. Baker, spent a few days recently with Mr. Latta's mother, Betty J. Parker, at her home in Nashville, Tennessee. While there, they attended the Grand Ole Opera, and afterwards were the dinner guests of Bill Monroe. They also attended a party at the home of Randy D. Cline, son of the late Patsy Cline.

Kiwanis Golf Tourney Winners

Fan Attention Turns Now From Baseball To Football

Just over a week ago Floyd County had several baseball teams participating in All-Star play but now that summer youth leagues have ended their competition sports fans will be turning athletic attentions toward area football.

Although the regular season isn't scheduled to begin until August 22, county teams have been working out regularly and are expected to slip into heavier training routines shortly.

Last year's season placed several gridiron performers in the college ranks, more than baseball and basketball, and this year's prospective talents are just as impressive as last.

Roger Johnson returns for his second season as head man at Wheelwright High School. Johnson led the Trojans to a 5-4 record last season but is faced with an almost impossible task of replacing the talents of David and Jackie Hall.

Wheelwright will see their first action against Whitesburg in a gridiron game August 16. The Trojans return several talented players including explosive tailback Tony Hutton and tough tight end Johnny Isaac.

Trojan talents are already familiar to their fans but head coach Chuck Williams and the Prestonsburg Blackcats face an almost total rebuilding task.

Six of Prestonsburg's graduating players from a year ago were signed to play college football but with all of this talent gone Coach Williams is quick to assure competitive Blackcat football.

As Prestonsburg eagerly strives to work in quality young players Betsy Layne fans are hoping only that last year's players improve for this season.

Jack Hall found himself with a generous quantity of would be players last season and through excellent coaching Hall is sure to provide, quality should join quantity.

Many people are quick to express their thoughts on Betsy Layne football and not many people are bad mouthing the program, saying this year could be the Bobcats best.

Quarterback Bud Newsome and running back Todd Sturgill return from last year's starting squad and could become key factors as to why or why not Betsy Layne makes the playoffs.

This season will also present the new 'kid on the block' in the Allen Central Rebels. Under Don Daniels the Rebels began their program as JV competitors last year but will be in the varsity ranks this year.

Not only is Allen Central football new, Coach Donnie Daniels joins the Rebel staff as both coach and crew start from scratch.

Allen Central opens their regular season August 29, against Virgie and Don Daniels says his team is going varsity to win.

It may take some time to build a strong football program in Rebel country but with the coaching team of father Don and son Donnie, Allen Central has the right men in the right places.

Can Prestonsburg come away with a repeat performance of a year ago? Will Wheelwright enjoy another winning season? Does this county have talents equal to that of John Goble or David Hall?

These questions and many others will be answered in the next four or five months so be a part of it, attend the games.

In next week's Floyd County Times sports section we will begin our county football coverage with indepth stories and team analysis.

Floyd County: None Better In Outdoor Recreation

Have you found these long summer days becoming increasingly boring or do you find an urgent need to escape the normal hazards of every day working and living?

These factors, among many others, rapidly add up to create ever depressing summer time blues but luckily Floyd County has several outdoor recreation spots perfectly tailored to beat boredom and 100 degree temperatures.

Regardless of age, degree of excitement, or pleasurable preferences, Floyd County has something for everyone but only if you know where to find it.

Studies have shown boredom leads to depression and depression to suicide so don't allow life's little ups and downs to affect your livelihood. Get out and enjoy the best Kentucky has to offer. Experience what man and Mother Nature have created because, after all, it was made just for you.

Following is a short summary of three of this county's main athletic/recreation areas and most are free from financial burdens so the only thing holding you back from a terrific time is yourself.

JENNY WILEY STATE RESORT PARK

Nestled quietly in the beautiful hills of Eastern Kentucky this well endowed park provides nature lovers miles of scenic hiking along with many other of man's favorite relaxations.

Boasting 860 acre Dewey Lake, Jenny Wiley also offers the finest in boating, swimming, and fishing which does wonders when 100 degree temperatures are upon us.

If water sports doesn't fit your fancy then maybe the park's nine hole golf course could beat those summer time blues. If maybe you're not an Arnold Palmer try out the 18 hole miniature golf course and don't worry about keeping a score chart.

A public swimming pool also blesses Jenny Wiley just in case you feel the need for a life guard but maybe you don't want in the water at all. Well, then rent a pedal boat. Its cheap on gas and good for that ever grateful heart.

Now, here is a thought. How about taking the family out for a beautiful day at the lake. Picnicking is always a hit with the children and the wife will be pleased to get out of the kitchen.

Housing is available with 49 room May Lodge and several cottages if you wish to make for a longer stay.

Excellent camping facilities are open from April 1-October 31 for those who enjoy roughing it but you may want to bring along the TV if the Reds are on because electrical hookups are a reality.

This park in our own back yards has the potential to take you away for a day

Will Football Be Fun Again In Cincinnati?

Cincinnati fans are hungry for a winner, be it baseball, or football and maybe, just maybe, 1986 will prove to be satisfying for both round and oblong fans.

The baseball Reds are currently challenging for a title in one of baseball's weaker divisions, the National League West. Playing in the West has granted Cincinnati an opportunity to remain in the divisional title chase, even though the Reds have performed below expectations.

Being a member of a lesser division is the Reds biggest asset and the same holds true for another Cincinnati athletic franchise, the football Bengals.

Likened to a Minnesota winter, the Bengals have always had the ability and threat to demoralize and devastate their opponents but, unfortunately for fans in the Queen City, the Bengals' play has been more comparable to that of a Florida snow, very rarely showing up and never in full force.

After getting off to slow starts, 0-5 1-4 in their first five games of the past two years, the Bengals have fallen just one game short of a Central Division title. Last year Cleveland won the division with an 8-8 record.

What was once the strongest of all in football, producing five super bowl teams in the late 70s and early 80s, has slipped to near oblivion, becoming the National Football League doormat.

However, if Cincinnati players decide to perform to their fullest of capabilities then the Bengals could turn things around for fans in Cincinnati and the Central Division. A repeat performance of 1981 isn't beyond the Bengals grasps.

Offense is no concern for Head Coach Sam Wyche if all are healthy. Southpaw quarterback Boomer Esiason emerged as Cincinnati's number one man. Esiason finished the season as the AFC's number two passer while leading the Bengals offense to 441 points, second only to Chicago's 456.

Esiason threw one touchdown in every 15 times the Bengals put the ball in the air which lead the entire NFL in touchdown percentage.

Shifty halfback James Brooks lead the Bengals yardage attack with a combined 12 touchdowns and 1505 yards rushing and receiving. When Cincinnati needs to run, bruising Larry Kinnebrew joins Brooks in forming a solid ground attack.

Although the Bengals have one of the most potent offensive units in football they also have one of the most venerable defenses.

As the Bengals were scoring 24 points a game their opponents were scoring just as much the single factor why Cincinnati finished 7-9.

It wasn't the defensive line, however, that hurt the Bengals as Ross Browner, Tim Krumrie, and Eddie Edwards turned in solid performances but the same can't be said about the linebacking corps.

Cincinnati may have helped, if not solved, this sore spot in drafting Joe Kelly. Kelly, a product from Washington, was the highest rated college linebacker and if signed should start immediately.

Overall, the draft could help the Bengals chances in making the playoffs because they drafted what they needed instead of grabbing the best athlete available.

They needed linebacking help so they drafted Kelly. They needed defensive backfield support and they got it in the second round with North Alabama's Lewis Billups. Cincinnati also shored up a third wide receiver in Tim McGee and also landed All-American defensive lineman Mike Hammerstein from Michigan.

Of Cincinnati's first six choices, all in the first three rounds, five were defensive players.

The Cincinnati Bengals are a talented group and could very easily win the Central Division but they will have to win more than they lose. A two game improvement over last year should do it.

Cleveland will produce the biggest obstacle but with the loss of leading tackler Don Rogers and the lack of draft choices, two in the first seven rounds, the Browns haven't improved their personnel from a .500 1985 season.

The Central Division has proven to be weak, a 15-26 non-division record last year, and which ever team takes advantage of divisional play will come out on top. The Bengals always beat up on Pittsburgh and Houston.

Both Cincinnati and Cleveland have basically the same schedule but the Bengals start with Kansas City while Cleveland opens with Chicago. The first weak creates a golden opportunity for Cincinnati to get out of the gate in front of the Browns and most importantly give the Bengals an early win, an early win that would have given Cincinnati a divisional title either of the past two seasons.

SHORT SPORTS

Radiation treatments are expected to begin sometime this week for Kansas City Royals manager Dick Howser who underwent surgery last Tuesday.

Howser returned home Monday after being released from St. Lukes Hospital in Kansas City. The KC manager, as an out patient, will receive radiation treatments five times a week for five weeks.

The 50-year-old skipper led his Royals to a world series championship last year and guided the American League to an All-Star victory this season.

Only two days after his All-Star victory the veteran manager was admitted to the hospital where doctors removed a malignant tumor from the left frontal lobe of his brain.

In Howser's absence Royals' third base coach Mike Ferraro assumes the role as interim manager of a Kansas City team expected to win another American League Western Division title.

The Sporting Times

By Alton Huff

Beating the competition by scoring more runs than they do doesn't appear to be enough for the brawling boys of New York City.

Dallas Cowboys defensive lineman Ed "Too Tall" Jones always loved to throw a punch but "Too Tall" saw fit to leave football before landing very many hard rights.

However, the New York Mets do most of their fighting on the field with the exception of three pitchers and a second baseman who prefer a Houston singles bar for their brawling life.

Tim Teufel, a reserve second baseman, Rick Aguilera, Ron Darling, and another Met starting pitcher were arrested in a Houston bar last Saturday after a fight broke out between Met players and security guards.

Teufel and Darling face charges of aggravated assault which carries a maximum prison sentence of up to ten years with a 5,000 dollar fine.

A member of the Houston prosecution system stresses that this case will be treated as any other but with the Astros leading the West and New York all but having the East wrapped up who knows what measures prosecutors will take to help out Houston's possible playoff situation.

With Teufel and Darling in legal hot water the Mets went overboard in helping their cause, instigating a bench clearing brawl with Cincinnati last week.

The fight in Cincinnati brought New York's grand brawl total to four this season and it seems when trouble breaks out third baseman Ray Knight is either starting or continuing it. Nancy must bring out the worse in him.

Many say a team reflects the personality of its coach but its hard to believe Davey Johnson is as hostile as the Mets have become this season.

New York is winning, New York is talented, and New York has fans but these Big Apple players obviously want more than success. Apparently they want to see blood while completely humiliating opponents. Its a shame that a game as great as baseball has to be degraded by degrading baseball players who double as degrading citizens.

On the lighter side of this sport, it is once again time to check in with our so called experts and see just how good their predictions and projections made before this season began are turning out.

Way back in spring training many people felt Cincinnati would capture the NL West and this could come true but the Reds aren't in any hurry to prove them right.

Sports Illustrated made Cincinnati their Western Division choice while saying Houston would lose 100 games. The Reds are below .500 and the Astros are leading their division.

Everyone correctly selected New York in the East but those same people also said St. Louis second, the Cardinals have struggled to say the least.

Boston has also surprised many early prognosticators by leading the AL East for most of this season. SI was sure the Red Sox would finish 19 games behind Toronto.

Another prominent baseball magazine said New York would capture the East with Boston finishing fifth. New York has a better chance than does Toronto but unless Roger Clemmons breaks his right arm the Red Sox won't finish fifth.

Most felt Kansas City would repeat while SI had Texas with 100 losses in a weak AL West. Oh well, nothing is certain and the limb might break when you climb out too far.

Many things can happen and probably will in the remaining 60 or so games but one thing is for certain, the San Francisco Giants won't lose 103 games like SI said they would.

Now don't get me wrong. These SI people know what they are talking about but maybe they talked a bit much. Selecting the order of finish is one difficult task but compiling a record before the season began may have been a bit too much.

I made a prediction, New York easily in the NL East and now I'm a baseball genius. Lets leave it at that or at least until pre-season football begins and this time maybe I'll try my hand at this prediction stuff.

Famous Athletes Set To Lead State Games

Three world-famous athletes will headline the second annual Bluegrass State Games. Gov. Martha Layne Collins announced.

Joining thousands of Kentuckians who will compete in 15 events at the 1986 games, to be held Aug. 1-3, will be Hank Aaron, corporate vice-president of the Atlanta Braves, Olympic gold medalist Wilma Rudolph, of Clarksville, Tenn., and Peter Vidmar, Olympic gold medalist and member of the Valvoline Amateur Sports Advisory Board, of Los Angeles.

Aaron, who rewrote baseball's record books in his 23-year-career, will be a special guest at the Bluegrass State Games torch lighting and opening ceremonies. Rudolph will be the featured speaker at the "Champions Against Drugs" program at 3 p.m. at Shively Baseball Field on the University of Kentucky campus. In 1960, she became the first American woman to win three gold medals in track and field at a single Olympiad. Vidmar, in 1984, led the U.S. men's gymnastics team to its first gold medal in history.

Aaron, sponsored by Coca-Cola, and Vidmar, sponsored by Valvoline Oil Co., also will appear at the "Champions Against Drugs" program.

"Champions Against Drugs" will be the theme of the Games. "People of all ages look up to players and coaches who achieve in athletics," said Gov. Collins. "These role models have immeasurable influence, especially on our young people. We want to use the occasion of these games to help make people aware of the seriousness of drug abuse."

Last year over 20,000 people participated in the games, setting a national record, and even more participants are expected this year. "We will give the other states a new record to shoot at. We registered over 25,000 participants this year," Gov. Collins said.

This year's youngest participant will be a 4-year-old roller speed skater. Nine new sports have been added to the 1986 games. Kentucky becomes the first state with competition for people with disabilities, Collins said. "We are the only state to do that, making our games truly open to everyone who wants to participate."

BOATING PLEASURE: Dewey Lake attracts boaters of all kinds from various locations. Boating is exciting but safe measures are a necessity.

Kentucky Fishing Report

Frankfort, Ky., July 28—Angling activity remained light around the state for the last weekend in July as hazy, hot and humid conditions continued to dominate the weather. Early morning, late afternoon and night fishing generated the better catches during the July 26-27 weekend covered in this report. The lake-by-lake rundown, as reported by conservation officers or creel clerks at each lake:

KENTUCKY: White bass were hitting lead spoons and deep running crank baits casted and trolled over mud flats at 12-15 feet deep; catfish were taking stink baits and nightcrawlers around the river drop offs and secondary creek channels; clear to murky, stable at 1-1/2 feet below summer pool and 86 degrees.

BARKLEY: White bass were taking spinners and small minnow lures by trolling and casting near tributary mouths; black bass were taking plastic worms or crank baits over drop offs; catfish were taking cut bait 5-20 feet deep over river channels; clear, falling slowly at one foot below summer pool and 88 degrees.

BARREN: White bass were in the jumps and were taking small spinner baits cast over mud flats; crappie were hitting minnows fished around submerged cover in 8-15 feet of water; in the tailwaters, small crappie and trout were being caught; clear, stable at summer pool and 90 degrees.

NOLIN: Black bass were hitting plastic worms at night off steep points and drop offs; bluegill were located off deep walls and rocky banks; some walleye were being caught by trolling deep running crank baits; clear, stable at summer pool and 89 degrees.

ROUGH RIVER: Bluegill were hitting crickets off deep banks; black bass were taking plastic worms and crank baits at night off steep banks; clear, stable at summer pool and 90 degrees.

TAYLORSVILLE: Black bass were taking crank baits and plastic worms over drop offs; bluegill were biting worms or crickets near shallow banks; murky, stable at 1-1/2 feet below summer pool and 90 degrees.

HERRINGTON: Hybrid rockfish were hitting deep runners trolled at 12-18 feet; black bass were hitting plastic worms fished off deep points; clear, stable at 16 feet below summer pool and 82 degrees.

GREEN RIVER: Crappie were hitting minnows around deep submerged cover; white bass were being taken trolling small to medium runners; clear, stable at summer pool and 84 degrees.

CUMBERLAND: Bluegill were active around deep, rocky bluffs on crickets and worms; rockfish were hitting deep running crank baits over submerged creek channels and clay and graveled flats; clear, falling, 16 feet below summer pool and 87 degrees.

DALE HOLLOW: Black bass were hitting crank baits and plastic worms around weed beds at night; bluegill were biting worms or crickets off deep rocky banks; clear, stable at summer pool and 89 degrees.

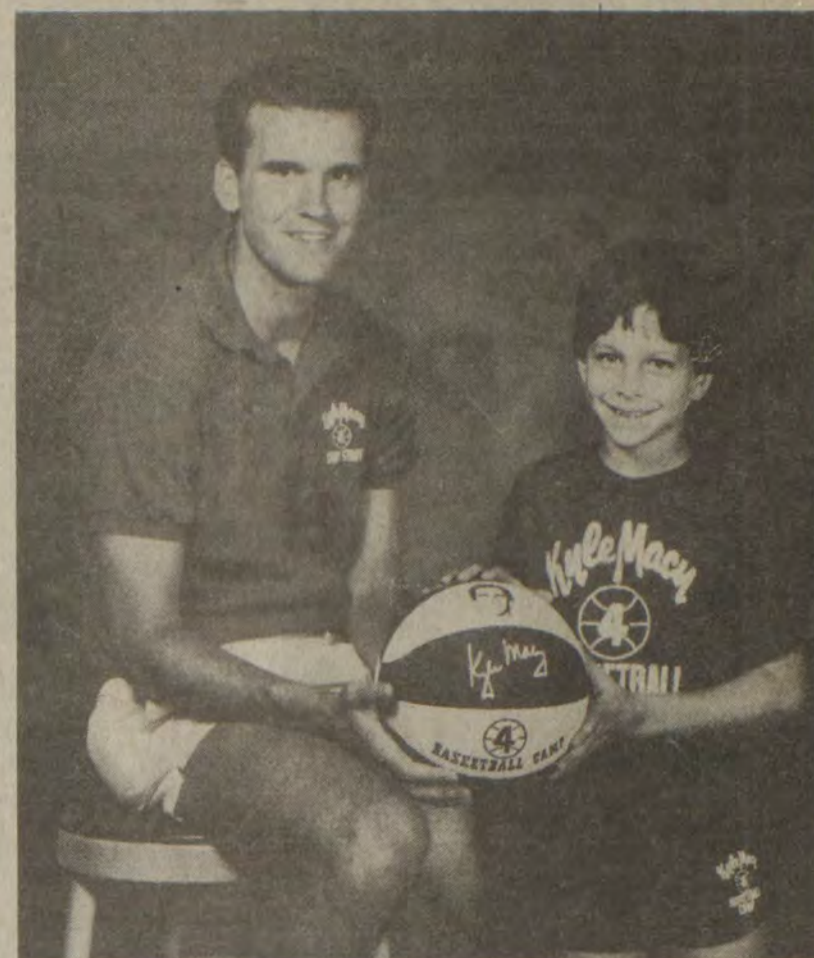

LAUREL: Trout were taking worms and cheese along steep dropoffs at night in 25-30 feet of water; bluegill were hitting crickets and worms off rocky points at depths of eight to 10 feet; clear, falling at eight feet below summer pool and 84 degrees.

CAVE RUN: Black bass were hitting plastic worms and some topwater lures around the timberline at night; bluegill were taking pieces of nightcrawlers still fished near brush piles in 5-10 feet of water; clear, stable at summer pool and 83 degrees.

PAINTSVILLE: Trout were active at night hitting waxworms in 20-25 feet of water; bluegill were taking red worms around five feet deep along rocky banks; clear, rising slowly at 2-1/2 feet below summer pool and 86 degrees.

BUCKHORN: White bass were hitting medium deep runners trolled over old river channels in the lower lake; bluegill were bedding in 4-8 feet of water; clear to muddy, rising slowly, 3-1/2 feet below

Wins Hotspot Shooting Award

Chris Potter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Potter, of Harold, recently attended his fourth year at the Kyle Macy Basketball Camp, held at the World Sports Center in Lexington. He received the first place award for hotspot shooting competition and was also awarded the All-Star shooting team certificate which allowed him to be one of the participants in the hotspot shooting exhibition performed before the public on the last day of camp.

Potter is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Phenis Potter, of Pikeville, and Mr. and Mrs. Dean Conn, of Harold.

ARCHER PARK

Established in 1966 in honor of George P. Archer, this park enables amateur athletes to show off their skills while maintaining a top notch physical condition.

With two softball fields Archer Park has rapidly become the hotbed of Eastern Kentucky softball, providing excitement for both players and fans.

The park also features seven tennis courts for that John McEnroe in all of us but if you get to hot on the courts a nice dip in the pool will cool those tempers.

Are you tired of arguing with the children over Donald Duck or Bo Brady? Compromise. Let them enjoy either of the two playgrounds this park has to offer. Who knows. You may get a tan in the bargain.

A horse rink, site of various summer horse shows, is also present at the park where you can enjoy the workmanship, or lack of it, between man and animal.

ALLEN PARK

The well kept grounds of Allen Park is a main attraction of picnickers, swimmers, and baseball players alike.

Not only is Allen Park one of the cleanest of its kind, it is rapidly becoming the baseball showcase of this area. This park boasts the only regulation high school and little league fields in the county which makes for enthusiastic crowds and talented players.

Allen Park, dedicated to former County Judge Executive Henry Stumbo, also has tennis courts, basketball courts, and a golf course in the makings.

Allen Park, along with many others in Floyd County, provides an excellent athletic/recreation possibility for area residents. Enjoy what your county has to offer this summer because we don't have many ski resorts. Oh, Floyd County, there are none better any where.

Paul Hornung Day Designated July 31

July 31 will be Paul Hornung Day in Kentucky, commemorating his induction into the National Football League Hall of Fame this year.

Governor Martha Layne Collins is sponsoring a reception July 31 at Louisville's Galt House Plaza for Hornung "the Golden Boy" of Notre Dame football. Hornung was All-American for the Fighting Irish twice and was awarded the Heisman Trophy in 1956. He was inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame last year.

Hornung played for the Green Bay Packers for three years, led the National Football League in scoring and contributed to the Packers' victory at the first Super Bowl and in other championships.

"His admission to the NFL Hall of Fame this year is a fitting tribute to an athlete whose abilities and contributions to the sports world are exceptional," Gov. Collins said.

Fleenor Cited For Dolphin Catch

Suzanne Fleenor, of Auxier, had great success on a recent fishing trip in Key West, Florida. Angling the waters Ernest Hemingway loved, she earned a citation from the Key West Fishing Tournament for landing a 26 lb. dolphin using 50 lb. tackle. Capt. Mike Cyr of the charter boat, C Hawk, was the guide for this exciting catch.

To Host PGA Senior Golf Tour

When the PGA Senior Golf Tour comes to the Marriott's Griffin Gate Golf Course next month the pros better have both their putting and driving skills sharpened.

The 6,873 yard course is sure to offer some challenges even to the golfing legends who will be vying for some of the $200,000 purse offered at the fourth-year classic.

The tournament will be played August 27-31. About 60 of the Senior Tour golfers have committed to play including Gay Brewer who won the 1984 tourney and Lee Elder, the 1985 winner.

The tournament is sponsored by the Lexington-Fayette Urban County Government, the PGA Tour and is underwritten by Bank One, Lexington.

The tournament is sponsored by the Lexington-Fayette Urban County Government, the PGA Tour and is underwritten by Bank One, Lexington.

At last week's news conference announcing plans for the tournament, Brewer described the Griffin Gate Course as "a challenge" and "perfect for the Senior Tour."

"This is a good shot making course; a good driving course," Brewer also commented.

At a previous tournament the Lexington native also was quoted on the importance of putting. "If you can't make putts on this course, you can't win," he had noted.

Dan Ruffing, the golf professional at Marriott's Griffin Gate, agrees. "The greens are well undulated and the speed of the greens will definitely make it a putting tournament. It is also a shot-making course. You will use most of the clubs you are carrying. There's little room for error. It requires good shot making throughout the course."

As far as favoring a particular type of player, Ruffing said he would give the edge to the good putter, even though keeping the ball in the fairway is crucial.

"The roughs play a little heavy and an errant tee-shot will require a second shot from a difficult position," Ruffing said. "They'll want to keep the ball in the fairway or they'll find themselves in trouble."

The weather at the time of the tournament could also have a bearing on who comes out as leaders, he added.

"There are certain players who traditionally play better in wet conditions. If there is a lot of rain around that time, certain ones will jump out of the pack. Under normal conditions, you will see a pretty good horse race."

Holes to look out for? Number 10 (the number one for the Senior Tour) and Number 9, the finisher, says Ruffing.

The 10th hole is a 499-yarder with water to the left and out of bounds to the right. The par five hole presents a "definite challenge" he says. Don January, 1983 Classic winner, described it simply as a "scary hole."

"It requires a well-placed tee shot as well as a well-placed second shot," Ruffing said. "A lot of times they are not loose or warmed up at that point. Therefore, it can be a tricky starting hole."

"That hole will traditionally give up some birdies but it will also provide a number of bogeys or double bogeys. You can end up in a watery grave or out on Newtown Pike."

While No. 10 is traditionally considered the most difficult of the course, Ruffing says the par 5 finish hole is one to watch based on its length, 572 yards, and the two-tiered putting surface.

"It is well-bunkered to the front and right. The hole takes three very good shots to get in a position to make a birdie."

It is the number one handicap hole on the course.

In all Ruffing says the course is a good one for the senior tour or any other. "It is a fair test of golf at any level."

Winner of this year's tournament will take home $30,000. The total purse for this year's senior tour is $7.5 million.

Brewer and Elder have committed to play along with other golfing greats such as Billy Casper, Sam Snead, Doug Sanders, Billy Maxwell and the ever colorful Chi Chi Rodriguez.

Kentucky Afield...

How Fishermen Beat The Heat

For the past several weeks, dry, hot conditions have been keeping many anglers off the waters and large numbers of fish off fishing lines throughout the state.

Although recent rainfall has provided some relief, many parts of Kentucky are still well below normal for this time of year.

But even though conditions are not optimal, die-hard anglers can still harvest a catch during this period, if they follow some general guidelines.

As most anglers are aware, during excessively hot periods of the year many game fish opt for deeper, cooler waters and are more active in early morning, late afternoon and night.

Some of our deeper lakes start to stratify and develop a layer of water approximately 15-20 feet deep where oxygen levels and temperatures are more comfortable than the warm surface water. Finding this layer and keeping lures at this depth may prove beneficial in locating fish during this time of year.

Water clarity should be taken into consideration when fishing during daylight hours. Particularly in clear water, anglers will find more fish located near some type of cover such as fallen trees, stumps and ledges where light is less able to reach the fish.

Slower working baits may produce better simply because of the lessened activity of the fish, and logically the longer a lure is in front of a fish the better the chance it will be hit.

Tempting them with smaller baits, especially in clearer water conditions, may produce more strikes since the lurking lunker may not be able to distinguish a lure as artificial so easily.

Night fishing may offer the best environment for the angler, even though maybe not the most convenient. Many fish, in ultra-low light conditions, can spot a lure at night in a clear lake, and, with less fear of the angler, may be more prone to strike.

Many species of fish are feeding more at night as well and are not sticking so closely to their shaded parking place as during daylight hours.

Knowing the lay-out of the waters you fish is also important. Finding channels, drop-offs, ledges and sub-surface cover areas and working these areas will produce fish during the mid-summer season.

Investigate these areas yourself, or ask other fishermen familiar with these lakes, and mark these spots in your mind or on a map for future reference. Spending more time where larger concentrations of fish are holding will be more profitable than just fishing "blind" without a plan.

Fishing for a variety of fish, some of which are more active during a given period, may also be productive for the angler who would rather spend time just catching fish instead of focusing totally on a single species.

White bass and bluegill, for example, are often active while all the largemouth bass in the lake seem to have lockjaw.

For the spare time fisherman, a little thought and effort can make the difference in having something to show for an outing other than a sunburn.

LOTS TO DO: Archer Park offers something for everyone regardless of age or ability.

On May 25, 1935, J.C. "Jesse" Owens of the U.S. became the only athlete to have his name entered in the record book six times in one day.

There are six ways a batter can get on base without getting a hit in baseball: error, base on balls, catcher drops third strike, hit by pitch, fielder's choice and interference by catcher.

Water Tragedies Can Be Avoided

It is a typically hot and sunny summer day in Kentucky. Jerry and Linda decide to spend the day pleasure-boating in Jerry's high-performance boat on one of the state's inviting waterways.

After a fun-filled day, the time has come to head home. Jerry and Linda decide to take just one more cruise before departing. It is already dark.

Jerry urges the boat forward at near full-throttle despite Linda's pleas to slow down. Suddenly, they confront a fishing boat with its running lights off. The boats collide. Jerry and one person riding in the fishing boat are hurled into the water. The person from the fishing boat sustains serious injuries and Jerry drowns. At 35 years of age, Jerry is a statistic.

Although the names have been substituted, the preceding story is true and is derived from accident reports compiled by the Kentucky Water Patrol.

Drowning is the third leading cause of accidental deaths in the United States according to the U.S. Coast Guard. In Kentucky, deaths from accidental drowning have increased significantly this year according to statistics from the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet. During 1985, 83 persons died as a result of accidental drownings in the state. Thus far in 1986, drowning has claimed the lives of 45 persons.

Accidental drownings are attributed to factors including unsafe swimming and boating practices, the consumption of alcohol, and basic carelessness while traversing Kentucky's waterways.

The Division of Water Patrol stresses individual consideration of the following safety precautions by Kentucky's water recreation community.

Swimming—Swim with a friend. Do not try to impress friends with hazardous antics. To gauge the distance one is capable of swimming, he should swim parallel to the shore—not across a waterway.

Alcohol—Alcohol does not mix with water recreation. Over 50 percent of all water-related deaths are attributed to alcohol. Balance, judgement and reaction time are affected by the consumption of alcoholic beverages.

Children—Secure children in life jackets in and around water. Pay attention to where children are and what they are doing.

Night Boating—Slow a boat to near idle speed at night. Ensure that running lights are on and in proper working condition.

Water sports and recreation are only as safe as people make them. Non-swimmers can enroll in swimming courses conducted by the Red Cross. The U.S. Power Squadron, the U.S. Coast Guard, and the Kentucky Division of Water Patrol offer boating courses to those new to boating recreation. The best precaution is the use of common sense while swimming and boating in Kentucky's vast and plentiful waterways.

Another hot and sunny summer day in Kentucky, Donnie and Carol venture to the lake with their young son, Steven. Upon arriving at their lakeside cabin, Donnie and Carol attend to some long overdue yardwork while Steven plays on his innertube in shallow water.

Steven gradually floats away from shore into deeper water, unnoticed by his preoccupied parents. When Donnie and Carol do look for Steven an empty innertube greets their eyes. Steven has disappeared.

The rescue squad is summoned and, two hours later, Steven's body is found in 12 feet of water.

Steven was five, and is the subject of another true story about accidental drownings in Kentucky.

Call the Kentucky Water Patrol toll free at 1-800-828-BOAT (2628) for answers to questions concerning boating and water safety.

Some people used to believe that if a man had four lines on his forehead he would live for 100 years.

What will 'Moonlighting' do for an encore next season?

By Lynn Hoogenboom

By all rights, Jay Daniel should be basking in his success.

He's the producer of "Moonlighting," the off-beat detective show that became a smash hit this past television season and turned Cybill Shepherd and Bruce Willis into two of the hottest actors in the business.

So is Daniel relaxing and enjoying himself? Not really. Next season is right around the corner, and Daniel sometimes feels like he's landed in the middle of a pressure cooker. "As the show becomes more popular," Daniel explains, "the pressure becomes immense not to let the people who have become viewers down."

"Moonlighting," which made its reputation by breaking rules and doing the unexpected, presents special problems, since it isn't going to be easy to provide its eager viewers with something new and unusual every week.

When Daniels is asked if he worries about running out of ideas, he responds, "All the time. To keep the show fresh, spontaneous and new is a huge challenge."

"There's one episode that if we are able to pull it off will be very unusual television," Daniel says. "And we have a couple of special shows in mind along the lines of the black-and-white show we did this year (which will be Aug. 5 on ABC), not in black-and-white, obviously, but that are special in that kind of way — that go off the beaten track.

"We are one thing," he adds. "We're die-hard perfectionists in terms of trying to get it right and taking every second that we can to do it."

Even the show's spontaneity and wild unpredictability are carefully planned. "The scripts are in constant flux and change," he says, "but very little of our show is ad-libbed. I know that everybody has the impression that it's improvisational, but 99.9 percent of everything you see is on the written page. Everybody seems to think that Bruce makes it up ... but he doesn't. He's just a fine actor."

"In a way it's very flattering," he adds. "People come up to him and say, 'God, how do you make all that stuff up?' And you're bleeding at the fingertips from typing it."

The real credit for "making that stuff up" goes to the show's creator and executive producer Glenn Gordon Caron. "Everything finally goes through Glenn Caron's typewriter," says Daniel. "And anything you see, like the breaking of the fourth wall, the seeming spontaneity of the show — why, you have to take your hat off to him. Because he's the one who finally polishes it."

CLUB PARADISE (PG-13-Warner Bros.) Starring Robin Williams, Twiggy, Peter O'Toole. ★★ 1/2★

By J.T. YURKO

About this time every summer, a film opens that spoofs summer vacations. The formula is simple: a few pratfalls, a few bikinis, and a few raucous parties in some quasi-exotic locale. Usually the hero is an average guy who is at first overwhelmed by the forces conspiring against his well-deserved time of rest and relaxation, but who eventually triumphs over them.

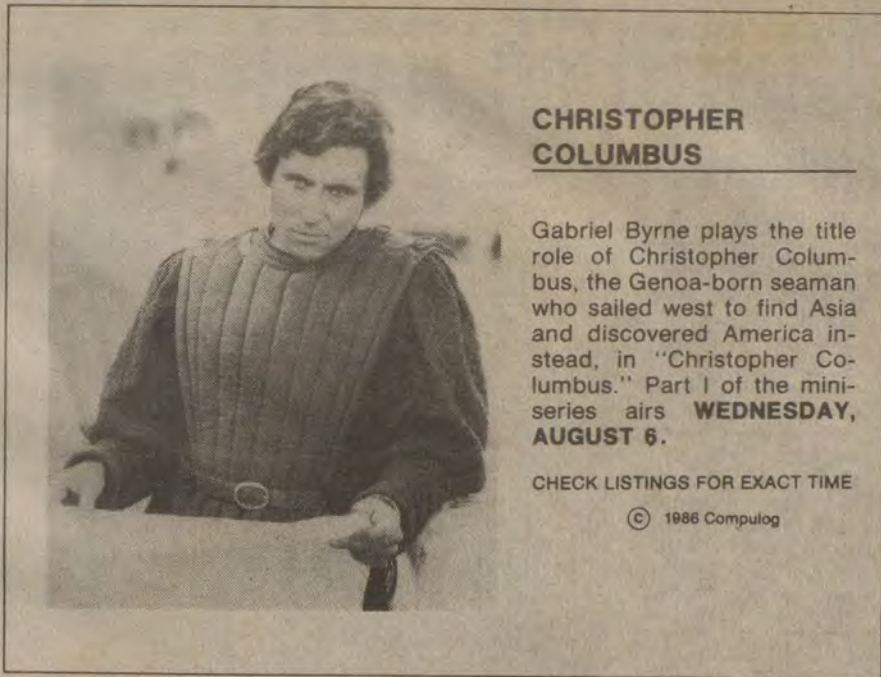

This year's entry is "Club Paradise," with Robin Williams. It is neither the best nor worst of the lot and provides a fair share of — you guessed it — pratfalls, bikinis and raucous parties.

Williams plays a Chicago fireman who is injured on the job. He receives an early retirement, a pension and an insurance settlement and heads for the mythical island of St. Nicholas.

He decides to stay on, fix up a run-down resort called "Club Paradise," and turn it into a first-class resort. But not everybody wants him to succeed. The prime minister of the country and a competing hotel owner want to sell the island to nasty sheiks.

Director Harold Ramis was also responsible for "National Lampoon's Vacation" and directed that summertime success in a style that suited Chevy Chase's physical humor perfectly. But Robin Williams is a more difficult case. He is an improvisational comic of unequalled talent, but no filmmaker has been able to harness that energy for a screen comedy. In fact, Williams has fared better with his more dramatic roles in "Moscow on the Hudson" and "The World According To Garp."

He is restrained here, although flashes of brilliance shine through. The rest of the cast members are more suited to comedy sketches than they are to feature films, but they provide many of the film's best moments. Eugene Levy and Rick Moranis are particularly good as two lounge lizards, both named "Barry." Twiggy, who plays Williams' love interest, is wasted in this film, and Peter O'Toole's role amounts to little more than a cameo appearance.

CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS

Gabriel Byrne plays the title role of Christopher Columbus, the Genoa-born seaman who sailed west to find Asia and discovered America instead, in "Christopher Columbus." Part I of the mini-series airs WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 6.

Mine Ventilation Course Offered

A short course entitled, "Basic Mine Ventilation" will be held August 21-22 on the campus of the University of Kentucky. The course is sponsored by the University of Kentucky Institute for Mining and Minerals Research.

The safe, efficient ventilation of complex modern mines is a challenging task for engineers and managers. But the basic principles are straightforward. It is the purpose of this course to teach applications of these principles to practical mine conditions. The participant should then be able to analyze the problems of his own workplace in the mines. Elementary mathematics will be used to work out approximate to common network arrangements.

For more information call Connie S. Willingham at (606) 257-2841 or 2847.

In 1939, Hollywood film companies made an average of two movies a day.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Roosevelt Stanley who passed away August 3, 1985.

Daddy, you can't see me, or read what I write.

Neither can you hear me crying at night. Remembering so plain you on the couch, and.

Talking about the foot prints in the sand. I go down to mom's, she sits in that ole chair,

And I can see more white in her hair. She sits some, then sits so silently, Then says "Why did God take him from me.

No words can ever begin to describe, The awful grief we feel inside Our lives are so empty since you went away.

But we must go on day by day. Seeing and remembering the things you loved so.

Asking God why did He let you go. But then we give thanks for the good times we had,

And for giving you to us for a dad. There was beauty in everything you saw and touched,

Oh daddy, daddy we miss you so much. You loved life and every thing around. Seems a new blessing each day you found

God gave you many years of life, Nine dear children and a loving wife. But God chose, one hour that day,

That He needed you more, for His way. We'll miss you dad as the days roll on, But can't even accept the fact you're gone.

Seems to me you're somewhere, still around, I look and listen, but not a sound.

So many memories we keep in our hearts, And daddy some day we'll never more part.

The circle has been broken on earth below, But can be joined again someday we know.

Forever we'll cherish the sweet memories and, Look forward to meeting in that better land.

We'll never forget the day Christ took you in His hands. And forever left one set of footprints in the sand.

Deeply missed by his wife, Carmia and children, Carl, Tom, Joe, Ralph, Chris, Perline, Ina Jo, Doug and Paul.

HONORED WITH SHOWER

Mrs. Carolyn Walters and Mrs. Wendell Wells were co-hostesses to a personal shower, Friday evening, July 25, at the home of Mrs. Walters, honoring Miss Aneeva Moore, bride-elect of Mr. James Wells. CAN YOUNG CHILDREN UNDERSTAND DEATH?

Four-year-old Karen's mother had died in an accident. Her father, overcome by grief and shock, sent her to live with a neighbor for a few days, saying she was "too young to understand" and would be upset by all the crying and visitors.

But Karen became confused, then frightened. No one would tell her where her Mommy was; she was living in a strange house with unfamiliar people; and at nursery school, her teacher looked at her sadly and started hugging her a lot.

Karen eventually learned, and accepted, that her mother had died. But those days of fright, the result of family and friends trying to "protect" her, need never have happened. Even the youngest child can understand, in simple terms, the concept of death.

As funeral directors, we have experience with helping children to understand and accept death. Please stop by if you would like to discuss it.

Direct Deposit Has Advantages

Over four in ten Social Security beneficiaries are not at home waiting for the mailman on the third of the month. They are visiting, vacationing, taking care of business, or doing whatever they want to do.

Why? Because they have direct deposit. In other words, they have their benefits deposited directly into their account at a bank, credit union, or other financial institution.

These people have discovered some distinct advantages to direct deposit. For example:

- Their money is safe. No check in the mail box to be stolen or lost before you deposit or cash it.
- They save time and money. No lines to stand in. No extra gas to buy to go cash the check. The Government saves money, too, by paying you this way which means more money is available for other benefits and services.

If you are now getting Social Security or Supplemental Security Income (SSI) checks and want direct deposit, ask at your financial institution for Form SF-1199.

Even if you have direct deposit, you still must notify Social Security promptly if you change your address. This is because important notices are mailed directly to you from time to time.

★ Cancer Hopeline

QUESTION: I have a white patch in my mouth where I keep my plug of chewing tobacco. Could this be a sign of cancer?

ANSWER: The condition you are referring to is called leukoplakia. It most often appears as white spots or thickenings on the lip, tongue, or lining of the mouth. It is very common in people who smoke, especially pipe smokers. Alcohol use may also contribute to the development of leukoplakia. More recently it is being seen in teenagers, who use chewing tobacco. Leukoplakia is not cancer, but it may become cancerous if it is irritated by continued tobacco and alcohol use. Poorly fitted dentures can also be irritating.

If you have leukoplakia your doctor or dentist may first suggest getting rid of the irritant, such as quitting smoking. But, surgery may be needed to remove areas that do not heal. Removing the tissue is the only way to determine if it is cancer.

Other warning signals for cancer of the mouth include a swelling, lump or sore that doesn't heal anywhere in the mouth; changes in color, especially red, brown, black or white spots; burning or numbness in the tongue or lip. Also, painful, sensitive or loose teeth and difficulty in swallowing can be symptoms.

Any abnormalities or changes that last more than a few weeks should be checked. But, anyone who has leukoplakia should be seen regularly for changes that may indicate cancer.

For more information on oral cancer or smokeless tobacco, call the Cancer Information Service at 1-800-4-CANCER. Or write to the Cancer Information Service, McDowell Cancer Network, 800 Rose Street, Lexington, Ky. 40536. The Cancer Information Service is a program of the Kentucky Community Center Program.

DOLORES REYNOLDS SMITH

CANDIDATE FOR
BOARD OF EDUCATION
 DISTRICT 2

I was born in 1943. My parents are Marcum and Gilva Martin Reynolds. I attended Beaver Elementary School, Betsy Layne High School and Morehead State University. I graduated from Morehead with A BS Degree in Business Education. I am married to William L. Smith. We presently own and operate R/S Truck Body Company at Allen where we live. I have two children, one who attends high school in Floyd County and one who has graduated from high school in this county. Prior to my husband and I going into business, I was a teacher.

GOOD LEADERSHIP IS VITAL TO A GOOD SCHOOL SYSTEM

GOOD LEADERS WILL:

- Have HIGH EXPECTATIONS—they will set policies that insure success
- Generate ENTHUSIASM about learning.
- Set GOALS and OBJECTIVES and work towards achieving those.
- Involve teachers in DECISION-MAKING—people respond more positively when they are involved.
- Have an open line of COMMUNICATION with the COMMUNITY—recognize that community support is based on trust and respect. The community has to believe that a leader's decisions are for the good of ALL. Recognize they are ACCOUNTABLE to the public.
- Provide safe, clean and orderly atmosphere that is most conducive to LEARNING.
- Recognize that education has a direct bearing on the general ECONOMY.
- EVALUATE to determine what is successful, where problems are, and what must be done to correct problems.
- Base decisions on SOUND EDUCATIONAL AND BUSINESS practices, NOT political self-interest.

AS YOUR BOARD MEMBER, THE ABOVE WILL BE MY GOALS.

I ASK YOU TO SUPPORT ME FOR BOARD OF EDUCATION IN NOVEMBER.

(Pd. for by the candidate, 7-23-21-pd.)

Pike College Offers Martin Co. Classes

Pikeville College's Mining Technology program will again sponsor classes at the Martin County Vocational School in Inez. Beginning with registration, Tuesday, August 26, from 6:30-8 p.m., the College will offer SPH 225—(Speech and Discussion), and MTH 111—(College Algebra). Orien Chafin will teach speech and discussion on Thursday evenings from 6-8:30 p.m., while Michael Shapaka will offer the algebra class Monday evenings from 6-8:30 p.m.

The Mining Technology program has held classes at the vocational school for two years, offering off-campus opportunities to continue education beyond the high school level. Many students enroll in these classes to complete an associate degree in one of Pikeville College's mining technology programs; while other students seek self enrichment or are interested in pursuing a degree in a more leisurely fashion.

Interested students may enroll at Inez, Tuesday, August 26, or they may register during general registration at Pikeville, August 25, from 6:30-7:30 p.m. For more information about the classes offered, costs, or particular programs, contact the Admissions Office at (606) 432-9322. Financial aid is available to eligible students. For financial aid information call (606) 432-9382.

Marshall Official Says Aid Available

Despite publicity about cuts in federal student aid programs, financial aid for college students is still available, according to Edgar W. Miller, director of student financial assistance at Marshall University.

"There is money available and in most cases we are still able to assist students," said Miller. "However, students need to act immediately if they are considering enrolling for the fall semester."

Miller explained that some prospective students may have heard or read that federal student aid programs have been cut back or eliminated, and consequently decided not to inquire about the programs that are available. He said some of the funds that were going to be eliminated have been restored by Congress and that students should not get discouraged and take the attitude that they cannot attend college.

"Prospective students should look into the financial aid situation and the opportunities that exist," said Miller. "The available funds might not be as attractive as they once were in terms of grants versus loans, but there is money there if a student wants to attend the university and is willing to make a commitment."

According to Richard Jerue, vice president for governmental relations of the Washington, D.C.-based American Association of State Colleges and Universities, Congress did not endorse the massive student aid cuts proposed by the Reagan administration and, in fact, adopted a supplemental appropriations bill that included additional Pell Grant funds to prevent massive reductions in the program next fall.

"We have discovered that many students and parents believe aid has been severely curtailed and are hesitating or deciding not to apply for aid," said Jerue. "It must be made clear to students and parents that student aid is still available and will continue to be available."

The most popular forms of financial aid at Marshall include Pell Grants, a federal grant program that provides up to $2,100 or 60 percent of a student's cost; the Guaranteed Student Loan Program, a federally subsidized loan program that provides up to $2,500 per year for undergraduates and $5,000 for graduate students at low interest rates, and university programs such as the work-study program, National Direct Student Loans, Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants and numerous scholarships.

Last year the university processed approximately $8,000,000 in Guaranteed Student Loans; $2,900,000 in Pell Grants; $600,000 in work-study assistance; $500,000 in National Direct Student Loans, and $130,000 in Supplemental Grants.

Miller also mentioned West Virginia State Treasurer A. James Manchin's "TEDDI BEAR" program, a relatively new loan program, as a potential source for student aid.

"Students need to act immediately if they are considering enrolling for the fall term," noted Miller. "It is getting very late, but our office will work with individuals and help them through the application process if they contact us."

To obtain further details about available financial aid programs contact Marshall University's Office of Student Financial Aid, 696-3162.

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NEWS

By JANE BOND
Health Educator

A nurse from the health department will be in Martin at the Beaver Valley Clinic Monday, August 4, from 1-2. She will offer T.B. skin tests, urinalyses, blood pressures, anemia screening, immunizations and pap tests. This clinic is a free service of the health department and is open to the public. These services will also be offered Monday, August 11, at the Wayland Methodist Church from 10-2.

Family Planning clinics for the month of August are Monday, August 4 and 11, at 12:30 p.m. and Wednesday, August 6 and 13, at 8 a.m. No appointment is needed.

Parents are reminded that all children enrolled in the Floyd county school system must be immunized against diphtheria, tetanus, pertussis, polio, measles and rubella. Each child must have an approved certificate on file at his/her school which shows these shots have been completed. The certificate should be presented upon enrollment at school.

AN ASPIRIN A DAY

In 1979, it was reported that taking an aspirin a day may reduce the likelihood of stroke and heart attack. Some doctors have subscribed to the aspirin-a-day plan for their heart patients in addition to other medical instructions. Two types of heart patients are said to benefit from a daily 325mg. (five grain) aspirin tablet. They are those who have had a previous heart attack and those with unstable angina. These are chest pains with a high risk of impending heart attack. In extensive studies, aspirin taken daily reduced the risk of repeat heart attack or death by one fifth. In patients with unstable angina, the daily aspirin reduced by half the risks of another heart attack or dying.

When you or a member of your family does not feel well, first call your doctor. If he prescribes medication we suggest you have him call COOLEY APOTHECARY. We are truly "The Drug Store With a Difference" as we offer everyday low prices and complete patient profiles. We invite you to come into No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106 so we can get acquainted before you actually need our professional service. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4.

HANDY HINT:

The F.D.A. reported that for heart-protection purposes, a single aspirin tablet is as effective as three.

Employment Agency Referrals
Near Record High Last Year

Nearly 750,000 Kentuckians successfully found jobs last year with the help of the Cabinet for Human Resources—the second highest annual job placement total ever recorded in Kentucky.

Gov. Martha Layne Collins has released figures from the cabinet's Department for Employment Services showing that 74,968 people were placed in jobs between July 1, 1985 and June 30, 1986. That employment mark was exceeded only by the record 76,743 placements made during the 1984-85 fiscal year.

"Since the beginning of this administration, almost 214,000 Kentuckians have been employed with assistance from the Employment Services department," Collins said. "We remain committed to finding jobs for the future, such as at the Toyota auto assembly plant. But we also are working hard to retain our current work force and expand Kentucky's existing businesses and industries."

Collins cited the stability of Kentucky's job market and the department's continued emphasis on employer relations as key reasons for the continued high number of placements.

"The employers who seek the department's help in recruiting workers represent a good cross-section of the job market," she said. "Our employment specialists made an average 264 placements each last year. They are actively working to bring together Kentucky employers and our citizens entering the competition for jobs."

Cabinet for Human Resources Secretary Al Austin praised the Employment Services staff for their accomplishments. "The placements made during the last year exceeded the department's goals by 15 percent," he said.

"Their consistent efforts figure greatly in the drop in Kentucky's unemployment rate below the double-digit level. Today we have more than 1.5 million Kentuckians on the job. A significant portion of our labor force has been well served by the department's job placement personnel," Austin said.

Austin noted that the types of jobs located through the department last year varied only slightly from the previous year, with 25 percent in wholesale and retail trade, 22 percent in services and 21 percent in manufacturing.

Employment Services Commissioner James Daniels said this is only the fifth year the department has made more than 70,000 placements. "However, 1977, 1978 and 1979 were peak years largely because of public service employment jobs created under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act. In other years during the past decade placements have ranged between 50,000 and 60,000."

He attributed part of the department's success in finding jobs for people to the administration's emphasis on developing and maintaining good relations with the state's employers. "About 1,300 Kentucky employers rely exclusively on us to recruit, screen and test job applicants," Daniels said. "All employers don't automatically list their job openings with us. We have to demonstrate to them that we have valuable expertise and assistance to offer."

"We must continue this type of assistance and cooperation to augment the administration's worldwide campaign to bring new employers to Kentucky and new jobs to the people of this state."

Has Tax Information For Retired Taxpayers

"A Less Taxing Retirement," the goal of any older American, is also the title of a new firm available free from the Internal Revenue Service.

Highlighting federal tax laws affecting retired individuals, the 28-1/2 minute film is designed for showing to retirement and community groups.

"A Less Taxing Retirement" portrays a tax lawyer who moves to a small lakeside community when he retires and discovers that his federal tax expertise is in demand among the retired townspeople. Through the lawyer's interaction with his new neighbors, the viewer learns about federal laws affecting pensions, IRAs, taxability of Social Security and tax benefits for older Americans. Interested individuals, community groups, and retirement organizations can obtain a free videotape loan copy of "A Less Taxing Retirement" in 1/4 inch, VHS or Beta videotapes, or 16mm film from the IRS by writing the IRS Public Affairs Office, P.O. Box 1735, Louisville, Ky. 40201. One may also call toll-free 1-800-424-1040 and ask for the Louisville Public Affairs Office.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant to Application
Number 436-0099

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Buck Coal, Inc., P.O. Box 203, Ivel, Ky. 41642, has filed an amendment to an application for a permit for a surface coal mining and reclamation operation of approximately 103.54 acres located 3.25 miles south of Langley in Floyd county.

The proposed operation is approximately 2.6 miles east from KY-777's junction with KY-80 and is located along Turkey Creek. The latitude is 37° 29' 00" N. The longitude is 82° 47' 08" W. The surface area to be disturbed is owned by Elkhorn Coal Corp. and Eugene Mullins. The operation will underlie land owned by Elkhorn Coal Corp. and Eugene Mullins.

The proposed operation is located on the Wayland USGS 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The operation will occur within 100 feet of public road KY-777 and will not involve relocation of the public road. The application also includes a proposed land use change from the forestland pre-mining land use to a pastureland post-mining land use. The operation will use the contour and auger methods of mining.

The applicant has also made application to be covered by the KDPE's General Permit for Coal Mining Operation.

The application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Prestonsburg Regional Office, 503 South Lake Dr., Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653. Written comments, objections, or requests for a formal administrative hearing must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, 6th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

Stripmine Farm Open To Public

Morehead State University's Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources has finalized plans for a Field Day at its Mountaintop Agricultural Complex on Aug. 21.

This is the first time the general public has been invited to view the Complex in Martin County, located nine miles southeast of Inez off KY 1439.

Begun in 1982, the experimental project in reclamation of surface-mined land is a joint venture of Martiki Coal Corporation, Pocahontas Development Corporation and MSU's Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

"There has been a lot of interest in the region, particularly in Martin County, and we think it's important for the people to observe the efforts of our team work," said Dr. Charles Derrickson, MSU College of Applied Sciences and Technology dean.

The Field Day activities will begin with registration at noon, followed by a tour of the Complex. MSU President A.D. Albright will participate along with Dr. Derrickson, MSU Board of Regents Chairman Louie B. Nunn and Kentucky Secretary of Energy George Evans.

Scheduled topics for discussion will include "Energy Production in Eastern Kentucky" and "The Role of a University in Reclamation."

Signs will be posted along the roadway to direct visitors to the Mountaintop site.

Consisting of 350 acres of reclaimed land, the Mountaintop project includes a sow farrowing to finishing operation, beef cattle, poultry and vegetable and grain trial plots.

Additional information on the Field Day is available from Robert Wolfe, coordinator of the mountaintop project at (606) 783-2665.

Those not pictured are Kyle Cornett, Jessica Tenney and Jason Tenney.

Graduation exercises were held June 10, for the kindergarten class of Maytown Elementary. The graduates performed songs, fingerplays and nursery rhymes and Mrs. Vickie King Prater, teacher and Mrs. Lorena Chaffin, principal, presented awards in math, reading, perfect and satisfactory attendance, honor roll and perfect 4.0 average. Diplomas, a memory book, and trophies were presented to each child. Class awards were also given.

Perfect attendance trophies and banners were presented to Jason Osborne, Jennifer Brown, Ethan Martin, Jason Isaac, Timothy Hagens and Shawn Ousley.

A reception was held in the classroom. Pianist was Jeanie Hicks and hostesses were Kelly Harrison, Tabatha Martin and Brenda Hoover.

...about your Social Security

Brides Need New Soc Security Card

New brides, along with anyone else who has had a recent name change, should contact the Big Sandy Area Social Security Office to have their names changed on Social Security records and to apply for a new Social Security card showing their new name, according to Jim Kelly, District Director.

Unless the bride plans to use her maiden name after marriage, the record should be changed so that earnings are correctly reported.

To apply for a new Social Security card, which will show the person's new name, but old Social Security number, a person must provide evidence showing both the old and new names. For brides, the original or certified copy of the marriage license is the best evidence. If the bride is foreign born, she also needs evidence of U.S. citizenship or current alien status. Social Security does not charge for this service.

Only original documents or copies certified by the issuing agency are acceptable. Uncertified photocopies are not acceptable. It takes about 2 weeks after acceptable evidence is submitted for the new Social Security card to be issued.

For more information about applying for a new Social Security card, contact the Big Sandy Area Social Security Office, located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville.

Mayo To Begin 49th Year

Mayo State Vocational-Technical School will open its doors for the 49th year on Tuesday, August 5th. All notified students are to report to the school for registration at 9:00 a.m. according to the Principal, Jesse Conley.

It is extremely important for all returning students to register Tuesday due to the large number of applications received for each of Mayo's departments, the principal said.

Students will register in the following programs: air conditioning and refrigeration, auto body repair, automotive mechanics, business education, carpentry, cosmetology, data processing, diesel mechanics, electronics technology, graphic arts, highway technology, industrial electricity, machine shop, mechanical drafting, mine maintenance technology, mine machinery operation, practical nursing, technical drafting, and welding.

Genealogists Meet

The Kentucky Genealogical Society will present its 12th Annual Genealogical Seminar on Saturday, August 9, at Bradford Hall, Kentucky State University campus, East Main Street and Maryland Avenue, Frankfort.

Researcher Claims...

"Fake" Steak Is Great Steak

Don't call them fake steaks. Don't call them artificial steaks.

Instead, call them restructured steaks.

The bottom line, however, is that research at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture holds much promise for revolutionizing the meat industry by creating what appears to be expensive cuts of steaks and roasts from the cheaper ones.

The idea is to take the cheaper beef such as chuck or round cuts and chop them up into coarse chunks or flakes.

What results, though, is not the traditional ground beef used for hamburgers.

After a process of molding or bonding the lean cuts of meat, these "restructured" steaks look just like their higher-priced cousins, New York strips, Porterhouse, or even rib-eye steaks.

"The taste of these restructured steaks is very close to the higher priced cuts too," said William G. Moody, a foods specialist, who along with Warrie Means, is researching restructured meat at the UK College of Agriculture.

The advantages of the process are obvious, Moody said. The product will resemble roast and steaks, but it will not cost as much. He estimates the price will be somewhere between hamburger and steak. This could create a whole, new demand market which would mean more profits to cattle farmers. In addition, since the process can use grass-fed steers, expensive feed lot costs are avoided.

Other advantages. The steak's composition can be carefully controlled to contain no more than 10 percent fat. There is no bone or waste. Steaks can be cut into any size or shaped portions.

Moody said, "We can't afford to raise cattle up to the slaughter stage only to turn most of the carcass into ground beef. Only a small portion of the beef animal provides the high price cuts."

Now with restructuring, a larger part of the steer can be used for "quality" meats.

To be sure, there remain some problems which the researchers are working on.

Because the meat comes from different muscles, the product may not be uniform in color which would be desirable from an aesthetic viewpoint. Some restructured meats have had an unusual amount of connective tissue, although recent techniques are improving that problem.

Until recently the product had to be sold as a frozen item, because it tended not to hold together until it was cooked. Moody said, however, that Means, who has recently joined the UK staff, has now developed a product that can be displayed fresh with the same binding as the intact muscle.

S.E. Fire Department To Conduct Canvass

Members of the Southeast Floyd County Volunteer Fire Department will conduct a door-to-door fund-raising canvass of its coverage area August 4 through 9. Residents of the area are urged to give as generously as they can.

Applications are also being accepted by the department for anyone wanting to become a volunteer fire-fighter. Applications may be picked up at the Fire Department Building or from one of the volunteers. Daytime volunteers are badly needed.

Robyn Conley found the friend she needed in the Emergency Room...

"I was in so much shock, I mean I was so far out of it, it helped just to have someone there that I knew."

dislocated ankle, and severe bruises over most of her body. Of course, Robyn doesn't remember much about the impressive new emergency facility or the professional attention she received at Highlands. But she does remember the help of a friend:

"I was close to home. I knew someone, and it really gave me support. I was in so much shock, I mean I was so far out of it, it helped just to have someone there that I knew. I can walk pretty normal now. I go down (to physical therapy) and it's just like one big happy family. I feel so comfortable with the people that are taking care of me now. I don't think I'd trade them for anybody."

The expanded 10-bed Emergency Room at Highlands is staffed 24-hours a day, seven days a week by qualified physicians and nurses who bring their skills to bear on each patient's immediate medical needs. But those needs can be quite different. That's why Highlands has four specialty rooms for treating cardiac, trauma, fracture and prenatal emergencies.

It just makes sense to know where to turn in any emergency—before it happens. And at Highlands, you'll find one of the most sophisticated emergency care facilities in Eastern Kentucky, staffed with competent, caring medical professionals...who know how to be a friend when you need one.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered at the November 25 term, 1985, and June 24, 1986, as amended, in the above-styled cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Courthouse door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 14 day of August, 1986, at 10:00 o'clock a.m., same being a day of the regular term of the Floyd Circuit Court, for cash or upon a credit of six (6) months, the following described property, to-wit:

That certain tract or parcel of land, lying and being on the waters of Little Mud Creek, Floyd County, Kentucky, and being the same property conveyed by St. Parsons, widower, to his eleven children, as shown by deed dated December 24, 1951, recorded in Deed Book 149, page 285, Floyd County Clerk's Office, and being more particularly described as follows:

BEGINNING at the mouth of a drain in the Big Branch and Bennie Marshall's line; thence running up the drain about 100 yards with said Marshall's line; thence running up the center of point with said Marshall's line to the top of the knob and Lonnie Hall's line; thence running down the ridge with said Hall's line to R.B. Clark's line to a black oak and Johnie Kidd's line; thence down the center of the point to the Big Branch; thence up the said Branch to the beginning, as shown on plat by Harold Baldrige filed at Map File 7-1-23. The mineral and mining rights, including coal, oil, gas and other minerals, are hereby excluded and shall not be sold. This property is being sold to settle the estate of the late St. Parsons.

The amount of money to be raised by this sale shall include the costs of this action, including costs of advertising of this sale and the fees and commissions for conducting this sale.

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms.

Given under my hand, this 25 day of July, 1986.

MARSHALL DAVIDSON, Master Commissioner 7-30-31.

Lots Of Ticks In Summer '86

Weather ideal for outdoor recreation has brought an above average number of Kentuckians in contact with potentially disease-carrying ticks this summer. Chris Christensen, Extension entomologist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture said, "A lot of them are out there this year, and if you're going through areas with high vegetation, you're probably picking up ticks."

The most common tick in Eastern Kentucky is the American dog tick, characterized by its short mouthparts and solid brown body color. It is the primary carrier of Rocky Mountain spotted fever although, "less than 2 percent (of ticks) carry disease," Christensen said. American dog ticks are most common on dogs, but also appear on cattle, horses and other animals, including humans. The ticks can endure starvation for up to two years without attaching to a host for a blood meal.

A second type of tick, located mainly in central and western parts of the state is the lone star tick. Female lone star ticks are distinguished by a white spot on the back, and both males and females have longer, more tenacious mouthparts than do other ticks. Lone star ticks differ from American dog ticks in that they bite humans during early stages of their life cycle, when they are no bigger than the head of a pin. Thus, they are sometimes hard to detect. Several thousand lone star nymphs could fit into a space the size of a healthy hunter's thigh, "and sometimes do," Christensen said.

Christensen offered advice on the control of ticks and their removal from the skin. To keep ticks off the body, wear long pants and tuck pants legs into boots or secure them with tape or string. Tuck shirts into waistbands. Clothing can be treated with readily available approved repellents. Check your body periodically after being outdoors and remove any ticks you find.

To remove a tick from the skin, grasp it as close to the skin as possible and pull upward using steady, even pressure, without twisting or jerking. Be careful not to squeeze the tick's body as this may inject disease fluids into the skin.

Keep the tick. If any problems occur within two weeks after the tick bite, the identity of the tick may help physicians determine what diseases to look for.

Regular maintenance of lawns and shrubbery around the home should be sufficient to keep ticks away. Ticks inhabit dense, low vegetation areas and are usually found on branches and trees two to three feet above ground.

According to the July Reader's Digest, while tracing President Reagan's ancestors, British genealogists found a link to Riagain, kin to the 11th-century Irish king Brian Boru, who died saving Ireland from the Vikings. Reagan was thus tied into European royal lines.

Mayo LPN Students Compete In Phila.

On July 1-4, the National Health Occupation Students of America (HOSA) Conference was held in Philadelphia, and practical nursing students from Mayo State Vocational Technical School participated. Betty King, of Pikeville, placed third in medical spelling while Angie Conn, of Dana, was one of 10 finalists in prepared speaking. The students were accompanied by their instructors, Marie Conn, RN, Veronica Click, RN, and Teresa Bowling, of the state Department of Education.
