BLHS Principal Asst. Supt. In All But Title

While he was not given the title, a high school principal was tapped by the Floyd Board of Education last week for a position apparently equivalent to assistant superintendent in respon-

Russell Mont Frazier, principal at Betsy Layne High School for the past 10 years, was appointed as the school district's director of building and grounds and fiscal operations. Superintendent Ray Brackett later confirmed that Frazier's duties will be the same that Brackett had as assistant superintendent for finance. The appointment of another aide frees him to oversee the heavy construction program expected here in the next few years, the superintendent said.

At an annual salary of $39,000-with an increase in the offing-Frazier will make about $6000 more than he made as principal, but perhaps $5000 less than he might have been paid as an assistant superintendent. His appointment comes at the end of weeks of wrangling behind closed doors, much of it reportedly centered on the status

Extra Pay Is An Issue...

Parent, Teacher Reps Differ On Meet Plan

strengthen the role of parent-teacher conferences in Floyd schools ran into an unexpected roadblock last Wednesday, when a teachers' representative said her colleagues would reject any suggestion that they work longer hours without pay.

The proposal put to the board by Jean Rosenberg, president of the Floyd County Education Forum, Inc., would require parent-teacher parleys to be scheduled on two evenings during the coming school year. Parents would be notified of the conference dates on the first day of school.

The conferences would be held on a weekday night from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m., in the week following the first grading period each semester and report cards would be given out at that time, according to the FCEF proposal. The citizen group made specific recommendations designed to insure that the parentteacher meetings were well-publicized.

The Floyd County Education Association, a teachers' organization, has always supported parent-teacher

A move by a citizens' group to conferences, said Patricia Barnette, president of the group. A "very good, informal" procedure for such conferences is already in place and in-service time might also be used for that purpose, she said.

However, Mrs. Barnette told the board, "We would oppose any plan which would require teachers to give blocks of their time to such conferences without additional pay for such time.'

Mrs. Rosenberg said later she was surprised at the stand taken by the teachers' group, whose president had earlier expressed "enthusiasm" for the FCEF proposal. The board decided to study the matter further and to make a decision at the August meeting. Paying the teachers more to make time for parent-teacher meetings is out of the question, Brackett said later, explaining that a single day's pay for Floyd teachers costs the school system more than $50,000. By law, time may not be taken from classroom instruction for scheduling parent-teacher confer-

Uncertainty Shrouds Dog Pound Operation

Court Accepts County Budget On Split Vote

A political hot-potato which has been passed around for some time, but finally looked close to finding a taker, was dropped by the fiscal court last Friday. A resolution which would have allowed Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo and County Attorney David Allen Barber to work with Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta in appointing a new overseer for the animal shelter on Sally Stephens Branch failed after magistrates Jackie Owens and Gerald DeRossett voted against it. Magistrate Ed Caudill, who made the motion, left the meeting before the vote was taken, saying he was on his way to Cincinnati. With only Ermal Tackett and Stumbo left to support it, the measure died.

Owens complained the resolution would take power away from the magistrates, while DeRossett wanted the county to advertise the position. Judge Stumbo reminded Owens and DeRossett that the city of Prestonsburg owns the building which houses the shelter, and therefore would have to be involved in the appointment.

County Attorney Barber said that, given the stalemate, an administrator for the shelter could be appointed through the circuit court. A suit filed several years ago by Mrs. Bonnie Faulkner demanding an operational shelter in the county is still active. It was this suit which originally led to the shelter's re-opening. The county had planned on contributing $10,000 this year toward the shelter operation but Barber warned the county could end up paying more if the circuit court again became

Pikeville Man In Wreck Here On DUI Charge

A 21-year-old Pikeville man has been charged with drunk driving following a two-car collision that injured three here Sunday.

Charged was Douglas B. Tibbs, who was driving south on U.S. 23 near the flea market just north of Prestonsburg when his car crossed the centerline, hitting a northbound car head-on, according to a state police report. The accident occurred shortly before 7 p.m.

Driver of the northbound car was John Ward, 34, a forest ranger from Boonscamp.

Also injured was Delisa Gullett. 2/ of Prestonsburg, a passenger in the car driven by Tibbs.

All three persons were taken first to Highlands Regional Medical Center. from where Ward was transferred to U.K. Medical Center and Tibbs and Gullett to Pikeville Methodist Hospital.

State Trooper S. L. Trees salu was a strong odor of alcohol on Tibbs breath and he failed several sobriety tests. A blood alcohol test was administered but results were not available Tuesday. Tibbs is scheduled to appear in Floyd District Court on July 29.

Damage Suit Says 3 Drivers Racing

Just before the head-on collision that claimed the life of a 17-year-old Teaberry girl in April, three men were racing on KY 3 near Lancer, the driver of a fourth vehicle charges in a suit filed this week in Floyd Circuit Court.

Arnold Mosley, Jr., 23, of Prestonsburg, said that three southbound cars approached him abreast as he was driving north on KY 3 shortly after 9 p.m. on April 27. Mosley's car was

For DUI Conviction...

Evidence Must Demonstrate That Defendant Was Driving

For the purpose of a drunk driving enough evidence to justify a conviction conviction, what does it mean to be

"driving" A Fayette Circuit Court conviction which was reversed on appeal was cited by District Judge Harold Stumbo this week as the reason for dismissing or amending two drunk driving cases.

The Favette case involved a man found drunk and asleep at the wheel of a van parked in a motel parking lot, its engine running, the transmission in neutral, and the emergency brake engaged. In a March 21 decision, an appeals court judge held that the Commonwealth failed to present in the case

That was what Judge Stumbo said of the case against James G. Gayheart, 42, of Prestonsburg, who was arrested on April 14 on the Oklahoma Hollow road near Allen. State Trooper B. J. Woods said a wheel of Gayheart's car had dropped off the roadway and that the driver fell over a hill when he got out to investigate. Gayheart was "highly intoxicated" and registered a .17 percent on the Breathalyser, Woods

Maybe so but, since the trooper had not seen Gayheart at the wheel and had no other evidence he was driving, he could not be convicted of drunk driving, said the judge, dismissing the

The same was true of a case presented by Prestonsburg police officer Mike Meade against Darwin G. Quesenberry, 18, of Hueysville, who registered a .19 and was booked for DUI after allegedly hitting the gas pumps at the SuperAmerica station here and then fleeing.

When Meade came upon Quesenberry, he had allegedly abandoned his Camaro at the southern end of the Bert Combs bridge and was walking toward Prestonsburg. Although the police officer said the defendant admitted driving his car to the point where it was abandoned, Judge Stumbo allowed him to plead guilty to a reduced charge of public intoxication. He was ordered to pay a $10 fine and $47.50 in court costs

In a plea bargain, Martin Hayden, 28. of West Prestonsburg, who had been accused of a second DUI offense. pleaded guilty to a first offense. He was sentenced to seven days and ordered to

In his absence, Norman D. Henson, 22, of North Manchester, Ind., was convicted of DUI, sentenced to 30 days, and ordered to pay $557. Phillip Gene Booth, 36, of Hi Hat, who also failed to appear in court, was convicted of drunk driving and driving on a suspended license, sentenced to 15 days and ordered to pay $607.

Ishmael Tackett, 35, of McDowell, pleaded guilty to DUI and was ordered to pay $157.

Ordered to pay $50 each were Harry McKenzie, of Prestonsburg, and Joey (See Story No. 3, Page 4)

At a May 28 meeting in Prestonsburg, however, McGuire indicated the bank would not be making loans to four intending purchasers of units in the Five Palms Motel, the suit says. According to documents filed with the suit, McGuire charged that Pat

Wells, marketing director for the development group, had lied to him about the purchase contracts and the bank officer also doubted the enforceability of the contracts.

(Suits filed in court give only one side of the issues in dispute).

James Is Focus Of Search For P'burg Manager

Prestonsburg's city council did not meet Monday, the result of a quorum not being present. But those councilmen who were present, Bill Callihan, Harry Ray Porter, Thomas Tackett and Frank Adams, along with Mayor Ann Latta and other city officials, met informally with the man who will likely succeed David Evans as city administrator here.

Of the 11 who applied, Freddy James, 30, holder of a Masters degree in Public Administration from Eastern Kentucky University, is said to be the most qualified candidate for the job. Evans is leaving to accept a teaching position in the Floyd county school system. James, a Prestonsburg native, is currently employed by the state Dept. of Mental Health.

Rumor has it that James, if hired, will begin at a salary higher than Evans currently receives. Evans holds a Bachelor's degree in Public Administration from Western Kentucky University A special council meeting has been called for tomorrow (Thursday) at 7 p.m. to discuss filling the position. Immediately after the council adjourns Thursday, another meeting will be held at city hall, this one concerning the state supported Mainstreet America Program.

City officials are hoping for a large turn-out in what has been described as 'a type of town meeting." Mayor Ann Latta says she hopes the meeting will attract a large number of people, willing to share ideas on Prestonsburg's present status, and its future.

Against Flow of Time, Fashion...

Drive-In Operator Struggles To Preserve Dying Tradition

Once upon a time, in a land of big convertibles, slicked-back hair and-some would have you believe-innocence, there was a special place for a guy to take his girl on the hot nights of a steamy

It was a place to relax, drink cokes, split oversized boxes of popcorn and, maybe, watch a movie. That place, of course, was the drive-in.

During the 1950's and '60's, drive-ins flourished all across America. They were the perfect complement to the nation's love affair with the automobile, affording movie-goers the paradox of privacy while still being "seen" by their peers. But in the 1970's and 80's, drivein popularity has suffered, their numbers steadily declining. This attrition has been reflected locally by the closing in recent years of both the Almar, on old KY 80 between Allen and Martin, and Paintsville's Skyview.

But, according to Jack Absher, Jr., operator of the Prestonsburg Drive-In, open-air movie buffs have nothing to worry about here. The drive-in is still alive and kicking

Absher, who literally grew up around a chain of drive-ins and walk-ins owned by his family, took over the drive-in here several years ago, after returning from Florida, where he earned a masters degree from a restaurant school. His tenure has seen a number of promotions aimed at spicing up the outdoor theatre's popularity

Among these have been cash giveaways, ugly-mask contests, and, when showing martial arts films, karatedemonstration contests. But probably the most popular-and most controversial-attractions Absher has promoted have been wet t-shirt and 'sexy nightie" contests.

Absher voluntarily stopped the racy promotions last year after pressure was leveled by a number of elected officials. But, he says, to help increase drive-in attendance, he is considering bringing them back July 4. "It's an economic decision," he said.

A number of factors, he said, have contributed to sagging attendance in recent years. Last summer, for example, (See Story No. 4, Page 4)

Bridge Traffic Prompts Concern

Heavy traffic across the old Cliff Bridge, particularly that of coal trucks, since the closing of the Hager Hill bridge has prompted the Floyd County Chapter, Kentucky Fair Tax Coalition, to voice its concern.

The letter to Kirby Ison, Transportation Cabinet, Pikeville, and others, including Congressman Chris Perkins, Sheriff Henry Hale, and County Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo, points out the posted weight limit of the bridge is 15 tons. Asking prompt action, the letter states, "We feel that the potential exists for a tragic situation to develop...We hope you will act quickly to remedy this dangerous situation.

City police have attempted to stem the flow of traffic, diverting coal trucks to KY 114 or 1428.

Ronald Hager technically remains the only assistant superintendent, while Grigsby retains an office in the county garage with the title of assistant to the superintendent. A replacement for Frazier at Betsy Layne High School will probably be named at the July board meeting. Brackett said

Hired as assistant football coach at Betsy Layne was Vincent Tucker. recruited from Murray State University, where he served most recently as a graduate assistant in the football program. He will also teach industrial arts at the school.

In another central office change, the board named Hershel Conn. of Dana. as director of the Headstart program at an annual salary of $21,869. Conn is a long-time school employee. most recently as a social worker in the Chapter I (remedial reading) program. He replaces Charlotte Collins. who was transferred to the Chapter I program as a social worker. Mrs. Collins retains her standing as a tenured administrator, however, and will be paid $28,103 annually.

Other Headstart personnel employed were: Mildred Kendrick, social worker: Sandra Newsome, supervisor teacher: Juanita Stephens, social worker aide: and Debbie Belcher. secretary/bookkeeper.

At Auxier, Pat Newsome was hired as teacher in the Headstart program. Blanche Cox as teacher aide, and Rose McCoy as bus driver. Pennington, Walter J. Hatfield, and Paul David Ousley were abreast and racing at the time of the accident. He holds them responsible for injuries sustained by himself and his four-year-old son, Arnold Mosley, III.

Also named as a defendant in the suit is Andy Hatfield, listed as the owner of the cars driven by Pennington and Walter Hatfield.

A suit against Pennington was filed last month by Dollie Lewis, of Betsy Layne, who was also a passenger in the car he was driving and who accused him of speeding.

The meeting will help city officials decide which of two Mainstreet programs to apply for. One would supply matching funds to be used toward paying the salary of a Mainstreet manager, while the other would supply only technical assistance.

Only 10 cities will be chosen this year for the program. Of these, three will receive matching funds, while the remaining seven will be given technical assistance. Mainstreet officials met with the Downtown Business Association in April, and with city officials May 30.

Latta said the thrust of the Mainstreet program is to help downtown businesses better coordinate their efforts to deal with competition from shopping centers and malls.

Named To Dean's List

of former superintendent Pete ences and there is a question about whether in-service time may be properly used for that purpose, he said.

> Asked whether teachers might reasonably be expected to turn out for two parent-teacher conferences a year as part of their normal teaching responsibilities. Brackett replied. "I would not want to give such a directive. It would need to be done on a voluntary

> Turning back a decision made two years ago to stiffen grading standards for Floyd students, the board adopted a policy proposed by Asst. Supt. Ron Hager which will make it easier for students to earn an A grade. Brackett said the proposal was recommended by a committee of principals and teachers, which held that the less demanding standards put Floyd students more in line with students in other systems.

"There was a feeling that (the higher standards) put our students on an unfair competitive basis when it came to getting scholarships and that kind of thing." Brackett said.

In order to give students and parents more frequent "feedback" on student progress, the grading period was educed from nine weeks to six on Hager's recommendation. Floyd students will now receive report cards three times per semester

Those who have argued that students should not be promoted without meeting certain educational criteria might find little comfort in a policy adopted Wednesday which lists four criteria-teacher evaluation, progress on skill continuums, achievement on a standardized test, and age-but says promotion may be based on "two or more" of the criteria.

Entry requirements for kindergarteners were formally adopted and will be strictly enforced, according to a board decision. Children five years old by Oct. 1 are required to attend kindergarten. A booklet detailing entrance requirements is available at the Board of Education offices in Prestonsburg.

The board adopted a Young Authors Program sponsored by the Louisville Courier-Journal to supplement the language arts program in the elementary grades.

the power generator for lighting the projectors broke down, and Absher wasn't able to replace it until late in the season. This made for poor picture quality on the screen, but with the new equipment,

"This year it's running great," he said. Other problems have been caused by the advent of cable television, videocassette recorders, daylight savings time, which makes an already night-time activity finish even later, and the drive-in's huge, by modern walk-in standards, viewer capacity. This spaciousness doesn't mesh well with modern film rental practices, which tend to place movies in small theatres for weeks or even months at a time.

"That works great for small theatres or multi-screen theatres where not many people can watch the movie at one time. But with a large capacity like we have here, in a couple of nights everybody who wants to see the movie can see it," he said.

The opening of new KY 80 several years ago spelled death for the Almar. 'The main drag became a local access road. So what used to be a fun place to stop off on your way home now became a destination. When you start thinking about destinations, you start thinking about alternatives," said Absher.

But Absher doesn't like to dwell on the negative. He prefers to remember the things that have made the drive-in fun for generations of movie-goers. "It's still a popular place. We do pretty well. Especially Sundays we draw a good local crowd."

Absher agreed the drive-in has always had an appeal to teenagers, who helped create its mystique. "Probably the thing that was the most fun about going to the drive-in, was public kissing," he said. "Sure, you had privacy, but your friends could see what you were doing.

And, of course, there were the movies. These were movies that for the most part, you just couldn't see anywhere else. Such epics as "The Giant Spider Invasion," "The Toolbox Murders, "Slumber Party, 1957," "The Hills Have Eyes," and the list goes on and on.

But the titles changed here last year, with Absher switching over to more standard releases from the major studios. "Those little studios just aren't making the cheapie R-rated movies anymore," he said.

This Friday, Saturday and Sunday the marquee announces "The Money Pit" and "Volunteers," along with a $400 cash prize. You have to be present to win the cash, and entering once means your name is in the pool all summer. The marquee also announces radio-sound. "That's something I'm very proud of," said Absher. "Very few driveins have both radio and speaker sound. But we do. Innovations come and go, but some things never change, such as the constant vigil to make sure people aren't trying to sneak in without paying. 'One of the things we always have had to watch out for is people trying to sneak their friends in the trunk of their car. And we're careful about making sure how old the kids are when a family comes in." Children under 12 get in free, and Absher says it is not unheard of for parents to claim that offspring above the age limit still qualify.

Another favorite way for people to avoid paying full price has been whole groups piling into cars on nights when only the driver had to pay admission.

The Prestonsburg drive-in has been in business for about 30 years. It has weathered controversial promotions, faulty equipment, and a host of maladies which outdoor theatres are heir to. But Absher says things are running smoothly now, and he has no plans for shutting down what has become a local monument to a vanishing American institu-

"As long as I'm around it's gonna be open," he said. "It's part of my life."

United Way Forms Floyd Co. Chapter

An Eastern Kentucky United Way is being created for the five county area. The Board of Directors for Floyd county are Paul P. Burchett, chairman; James O. Vanhoose, treasurer; and Pat Phillips, public relations, representing Floyd county

Elsie T. Atherton, executive director of the United Way of Kentucky, met with the new Board of Directors last month to advise and answer questions in support of the new organization.

The United Way sponsors agencies based on services that our area needs. Citizen volunteers review agency budgets and determine allocations. Participating agencies undergo an annual independent audit to protect your United Way gift. Local volunteers raise and allocate funds. Costs for the campaign are kept to less than 10%, enabling the United Way to deliver more of your gift to those who need it.

Contributions are distributed to the agency of your choice. If none is indicated, then your contribution will go to the county where you reside.

Public forums will be held in each county. All decisions are going to be made by the people here based on local needs. The United Way goal is to provide the very best life has to offer for all Kentuckians.

backing Frank Mullins, the current overseer; Ron Shepherd, a Sally Stephens Branch resident, whose stepson assists Mullins; and the Dewey Dam Dog and Cat Protection Society, headed by Mrs. Faulkner and attorney Ne

Seemingly a front-runner, the Dewey Dam Dog and Cat Protection Society was awarded a lease from the city to operate the shelter from July 4, the date the East Kentucky Wildlife Federation's lease officially expires, till July 11. Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta said the lease was of such short duration because the city was waiting to see which applicant would be awarded the county funds

The shelter had previously been controlled by Curtis Highes and the East Kentucky Wildlife Federation, Hughes stepped down amid charges of mismanagement several weeks ago.

In other business, the court passed the county budget for fiscal year 1986-'87, but not without dissent.

Magistrate DeRossett noted that while $2,000 each had been allocated to other county fire departments, the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squag got nothing. Stumbo countered that rescue squad representatives had never approached the fiscal court requesting funds. He also charged that the squad had not cooperated in the past with the local Disaster and Emergency Services

Magistrate Owens raised the question of the number of county detectives on the payroll. While Stumbo said there were only two paid men, he admitted there were "three or four" unpai Charging that the unpaid detectives were "harassing and sheriffing" people, Owens said, "I think the fiscal court should get out of this county detective business." Two men Owens identified as unpaid detectives were Bobby Hackworth, Jr. and Paul Hunt Thompson said Monday that he had asked Stumbo to appoint him as a county detective about a year ago, so that h could better protect his IGA supermarket in Wheelwright, a city that has seen a number of changes in law enforcement personnel in recent months. He said, however, that he had "never arrested anybody, never even pulled anybody over. Taking strong exception to Owens' charges, Thompson said, "If Magistrate Owens made such a statement, that either makes him a very misinformed magistrate, or a liar, or both."

While county workers received a sixpercent, across-the-board pay raise, neither the judge-executive nor the magistrates received a raise. A request by Constable Morgan Joseph for more pay for constables was turned down. Three clerks in the judge-executive's office received $1-an-hour raises, however, over the objection of Owens. who also complained that Vickie Roberts Moore is overpaid a timekeeper at the county garage. As $7.30 an hour, Moore is paid at the rate of a heavy equipment operator. His truck drivers work harder but are paid less. Owens complained.

When the budget was put to the vote. Owens voted nay and DeRossett abstained. It carried when Judge Stumbo added his vote to those of magistrates Caudill and Tackett.

In other action, it was voted to allocate the funds necessary for improving the mini-park at Garrett after Mrs. Sherry Howard made a strong pitch to upgrade the baseball field there.

'We don't have a visitor's dugout,' said Mrs. Howard. "All we want is to get our park up to the standards of (the parks at) Minnie and Allen." Work was scheduled to begin at the park Monday. A request from Blue River resident

Richard Ousley for the court to reimburse him for gravel he applied to a county road near his home last winter was voted down, though the magistrates, judge-executive and county attorney all expressed a desire to

Before Gerald DeRossett made a motion, seconded by Owens, to pay Ousley $418.49, equalling half the money he had spent on the project, Barber quipped, "If you boys think that way, you ought to do something about it. All they can do is indict you." Barber pointed out that he had discussed similar situations with the state attorney general, who said the fiscal court could not reimburse private citizens for doing unauthorized road

County Treasurer David Allen was reappointed to another four-year term.

The Local Church Women met Friday morning, June 19, at 10:30, at the Community United Methodist Church, with Mrs. Eileen Burchett, president, presiding. Prior to the meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. Jean Burke and her granddaughter, Miss Kristen Ormerod, of the host church.

Devotions were given by Mrs. Marion Masters, wife of the new pastor. Mrs. Masters, who had recently done mission work for ten days, in Haiti, gave an interesting discussion on the conditions and needs there, and said, "This was a week that changed my life." During her discussion regarding the spiritual life in Haiti and the program provided by her and the other members of her group, she sang, in French, "Deep and Wide," one of the songs enjoyed by Haitian children.

A report on the Loaves and Fishes Food Pantry was made by Mrs. Eva Collins. Events of the last meeting were reported by Mrs. Zella Archer. Dr. and Mrs. Larry Leslie have responded to one of the Food Pantry's needs by donating a deep freeze to be used there. It was decided that women from the First Baptist Church would be in charge of giving out food from the pantry, during the month of July.

These officers are to be installed during the next meeting, which will be held at St. Martha Church, August 15, at 10:30 p.m.

Mrs. Eileen Burchett asked that a family friend, Mrs. Jerry Woodell, who has been ill, be remembered in prayer. Prayer was also requested for Mrs. Pat Necessary and Mrs. Sarah Clay Archer.

Churches represented were Community United Methodist, St. Theodore Catholic, First United Methodist, and First Baptist, (Irene Cole Memorial). Those in attendance were Mesdames Eileen Burchett, Eva Collins, Zella Archer, Goldia S. Writing Sessions Set For Teachers

Because of the intensive writing institutes that Kentucky teachers will be attending during summer vacation, fewer teachers will be assigning "What I Did During My Summer Vacation" themes when students return to the classroom this fall.

The four 1986 summer writing institutes are a joint project of state universities and the Kentucky Department of Education and are modeled after the successful Louisville Writing Project.

Seven universities have agreed to hold similar institutes during the summers of 1987 and 1988. These universities plan to apply for additional funds from the National Writing Project and become affiliated with it.

"This is another example of the department providing the leadership needed to improve instruction in the schools," Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald said.

"The Kentucky Writing Institute we held last summer for teachers planted the seeds that have germinated into these opportunities for teachers throughout the state.'

The 1986 summer institutes will last four to five weeks, and each will accommodate 20 participants. Each participant will receive six hours of graduate credit and a $500 stipend. A language arts background is not a prerequisite

The writing program, established by the General Assembly last summer, calls for training that will prepare teachers to offer stronger writing programs. Each university will be awarded $20,000 for each summer institute it conducts.

Participants in the projects will write their own compositions, learn about the latest research and theories on writing instruction, prepare teaching materials to take back to their schools and develop formal and informal in-service programs for teachers in their local schools and districts

Teachers interested in enrolling in the institutes to be held this summer should call their nearest institute site.

Institutes will be held at Western Kentucky University from June 9 through July 3; Eastern Kentucky University, June 30 through Aug. 1; and Murray State University and Northern Kentucky University, July 7 through Aug. 1.

July 4th Program To Honor War Dead

Ladies Auxilary members of Chapter 18 will participate in this event, and all members of others auxillaries are invited to attend.

Among those expected to take part in the programs are D.A.V. chapters from Garrett, Betsy Layne, Paintsville, Pikeville, Feds Creek, the Amvets and American Legion.

Commander James P. Connors, of Chapter 18, D.A.V., said everyone is urged to attend this program to honor our war dead.

The regular meeting of Chapter 18 will be held at 7 p.m., July 18.

NOTICE OF HEARING

Notice is hereby given that a hearing will be held on the 10th day of July, 1986 at the hour of 1:00 in the Conference Room of the Floyd County Annex, Prestonsburg, Kentucky. The purpose of this hearing is to determine if Pauline McKinney, a resident of Martin, Ky., should receive an entertainment license. All interested parties should be present.

DAVID A. BARBER Floyd County Attorney

Circuit Court Jury Exonerates Officer

At about 11 a.m. on election day, 1983, Mrs. Patsy Conn was leaving the parking lot of the Betsy Layne Grade School, where she had gone to vote. She pulled into the southbound lane of U.S. 23 and was preparing to cross the raised median and head north, when her Cadillac was struck on the driver's side by a state police cruiser driven by Trooper Jeff Carrington. Everyone agreed on that.

But points of contention were the extent of Mrs. Conn's injuries, whether she had lost any earning capacity, and who-she or Carrington- as at fault. Last Thursday, a circuit court jury sided with Carrington.

Mrs. Conn had asked for awards of $100,000 for pain and suffering, $50,000 for loss of future earnings, $3,991.41 for medical expenses, and $2,110 for damage to her car.

Working both for her husband, Harold L. Conn's, Stanville insurance agency and for herself as an accountant, Mrs. Conn claimed that her injuries prevented her from working for about two months after the accident. She said this lay-off cost her three bookkeeping accounts which she never recorded.

The plaintiff claimed that she looked both ways before pulling onto the roadway. She said she was preparing to cross over into the northbound lane when she saw something coming toward her "very fast" in the southbound lane.

That something was Trooper Carrington's cruiser, which struck the Conn vehicle, knocking it about 60 feet. Both Mrs. Conn and Carrington agreed she panicked when she saw the cruiser. This panic resulted in Mrs. Conn applying her brakes and stopping with her car sitting cross-ways in the road.

Carrington said he saw Mrs. Conn just before she pulled onto the road. "She was looking to the left. When she looked to the right, I was trying to evade her," he said.

The accident was investigated by Sgt. Stan Farler, now a lieutenant stationed at the Hazard state police post. Farler said skid marks showed Carrington's cruiser slid about 84 feet before impact. He said that distance didn't afford enough room for Carrington to evade Mr. Conn.

In his 11 years with the state police, Farler said he has investigated "10 or 12" accidents involving troopers. He said in about half of these cases, the trooper was at fault. But "not here," he

In response to a question by Phillip Damron, Mrs. Conn's attorney, Farler conceded he had never testified in court against a trooper.

Though witnesses established it was turned on at the time of the wreck, Mrs. Conn said she did not see the cruiser's blue-light flashing. Damron tried to establish that Carrington should have used his siren and flashing headlights, but Carrington and Farler said it is not standard operating procedure to use these devices when chasing a speeding

Carrington said that just prior to the accident he had been travelling north on U.S. 23, when he clocked a maroon Monte Carlo heading south at 74 mph. He turned to follow the car and travelled just over a mile when the accident occurred.

He estimated his speed at 65 or 70 mph at the time of the accident.

At the time of the accident, Carrington was stationed at KSP Post 9, Pikeville. He now works out of the Ashland post.

Honored By Students

In appreciation of many hours of dedication to Allen Central High School, Don Daniels, principal, was presented a special plague during graduation ceremonies on behalf of the student body by Peggy Shepherd, a representative of the Student Council.

Throughout the year, Mr. Daniels has shown a genuine interest in improving the quality of education at the school. A major concern, this year, has been to make the facility more attractive, to enhance the learning environment and to give the teachers resource support materials. He has supported many new school projects initiated by the students and the faculty. Among these projects were the formation and participation of academic teams, the Rebel Pride Plant/Beautification Projects, the formation of the Student Council, the formation of the Speech League and the Drama Club, and the reorganizing and coaching of football. In addition, he was instrumental in starting an academic booster's organization and in strengthening the athletic booster's organization. A goal which Mr. Daniels is currently undertaking is to revise the curriculum to meet individual student instructional needs and to provide teachers with more quality resource materials to make the educational process more complete.

While this is Mr. Daniels first year at Allen Central, it concludes his 27th year as an educator in the Floyd county school system.

C & O Hearing Set By RR Commission

A formal hearing will be conducted by the Kentucky Railroad Commission, July 15, regarding the failure of C & O Railroad to comply with directives issued by the Commission for the installation of safety bars and safety lights

Upon receipt of a petition from approximately 200 residents affected by the unsafe condition at Tram, the Commission conducted an investigation into the complaint. On January 20, C & O Railroad was instructed to install the necessary equipment to correct the unsafe and hazardous condition and was given 30 to 60 days to complete the work required by the Commission. The Commission has now learned that the orders and directives issued have been totally ignored by the railroad management and C & O Railroad has been ordered to appear before the Commission, July 15, in Frankfort, to explain why no action has been taken upon the complaint and why the orders of the Commission have been ignored.

The Department of Transportation has vigorusly opposed the efforts of the Kentucky Railroad Commission in compelling C & O Railroad to install the needed equipment. "This Commission will not allow the safety of residents of Floyd & Pike counties to be sacrificed and ignored," stated Chairman Jimmy

All interested parties are invited to attend the open hearing which will be conducted on the 4th floor of the State Office Building in Frankfort, Kentucky at 10 a.m. Thursday, July 15. The commission will hear five other matters regarding violations of safety throughout the Commonwealth

Chief Regional Circuit Judge Stephen N. Frazier announces the appointment of Linda Craft as Regional Court Administrator for the 22-county Mountain Regional Administration Program and the 24th Judicial Circuit. Floyd county is included in the Mountain Region.

Effective June 15, Craft will assist Judge Frazier in the administrative management of the Mountain Region's Judicial Administration Program.

She will act as liaison for Judge Frazier with the other circuit judges in the region, travelling throughout the area to provide assistance toward monitoring and equalizing caseloads and establishing uniform local rules of court procedure.

In addition, on the local level, Miss Craft will provide administrative assistance to Circuit Judge James A. Knight as well as Judge Frazier for the 24th Judicial Circuit encompassing Johnson, Lawrence and Martin counties.

THE O-T-C DIFFERENCE

Over-the-counter (non-prescription) drugs should not be regarded lightly. They are often as powerful and can have the same potentially harmful side effects as their prescription counterparts. The difference between prescription and non-prescription drugs is spelled out in the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act. It says that drugs that may be habit-forming, toxic or not safe for use except under a doctor's supervision may be dispensed only by prescription. Unlike prescription drugs, over-the-counter drugs usually are not intended to cure anything. They are used primarily to relieve the symptoms of a particular disease or condition. The label must provide the consumer with enough information to enable the safe and effective use of the product.

If you are not yet familiar with COOLEY APOTHECARY, do yourself a favor and learn firsthand about our reliable service and hometown friendliness. Complete patient profiles are maintained so we can further safeguard their health by checking for side effects, drug interactions and for possible allergic reactions. These records will also be of great help to you for insurance purposes and at income tax time. We are located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Master Charge and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, sat. 9-4.

HANDY HINT:

Never take OTC drugs longer than the time recommended on the label. If symptoms persist, see a doctor.

Bentley Receives Award

SFC David C. Bentley, son of Bob and Dora Bentley, of Wayland, received his second meritorious service medal June 4. The award was presented by LTC Engleking, director of personnel activities at Fort Riley, Kansas.

SFC Bentley, a 16 year veteran of the Army, is a 1965 graduate of Wayland High School. He is currently on leave and will depart for Okinawa June 17.

Signature Tiles Available With Center Donation

"Become a part of the walls you build" is the slogan for the area-wide fund raising campaign supporting the Breast Center at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Carol Blevins, Public Information Officer at Highlands explained, "Any person who gives at least $25 to the Breast Center is actually buying a ceramic wall tile. This tile will be silkscreened with his or her signature or personal message. When the Center is completed these tiles will cover the walls of the reception area. So your signature or message will literally become a part of the walls your gift helped to build."

Because the tiles will be silkscreened the message will be reproduced exactly as the donor has written it. Corporate or club logos can also be screened onto the tiles.

There are three different sizes of tiles available: a 4"x4" tile for a $25 donation, a 4"x6" tile for a $50 donation and a 6"x6" tile for a $100 donation. Individual arrangements will be made for donations over $500.

"Although the tile brochure won't appear in the local papers until mid-July," said Blevins. "We've already received several requests for tiles. We feel the tile program is a special way of thanking all those people who are helping us build the Breast Center. People often give money to organizations and only get a receipt in return. Giving $25 or more to the Breast Center will give you a lasting receipt that everyone can see when they walk into the Center."

If you would like to buy a tile, contact Susan Martin at Highlands Regional Medical Center, 886-8511 or 789-6548, ext.

Donations to the Breast Center, including the purchase of a tile, are tax deductible

Prepare your child for School

1. A law passed by the 1986 legislature requires parents of children entering school for the first time in Fall of 1986 to present a certified copy (full size) of the child's Birth Certificate.

A Blue Card from the Health Department will not meet this requirement.

Applications for birth certificates are available at the Floyd County Health Department, the principal's office of your school, or at the Board of Education's Central Office. There is a $5.00 charge for Certified Birth Certificates.

- 2. Each child enrolled in the Floyd County School System this fall (1986) MUST present the principal or head teacher with a Kentucky Immunization Certificate. This certificate must be signed by a physician, clinic or local health department, and it must list the immunizations which the child has completed.
- 3. Each child entering the Floyd County School System for the first time (Kindergarten, or transfer students) must have a Tuberculin Test Certificate (CH-91A)

Immunizations and T.B. skin tests may be obtained at the Floyd County Health Department any Monday, Wednesday, or Friday from 8:00 A.M. until 3:00 P.M. There is no charge for these services.

Much information has been written throughout the year concerning the education that some children were receiving within a classroom for students labeled multihandicapped at Prestonsburg Elementary School. Due to numerous due process hearings and the involvement of Protection and Advocacy, the school system hired me to help them create an educational environment within that classroom that met the legal and educational requirements that those children are guaranteed under federal law.

My work in Floyd county is drawing to a close and I would like to let the community know my feelings regarding the situation

1. The work of Ogie Slone, Special Education Coordinator for the county, should not go unnoticed. She took a position with the board of education and was immediately confronted with numerous due process hearings. It was she that was instrumental in hiring me to help alleviate some of the problems that were occurring. Since then, Ms. Slone has repeatedly tried to recruit certified teachers for classrooms throughout the county. She worked cooperatively and diligently to try to establish a model program within Floyd county.

2. The current teacher within the classroom, Ms. Hutchinson, also deserves much credit as do the classroom staff with which she works. Accepting a position under such conditions shows the commitment that she feels toward children and teaching. Much progress has been made within that classroom that has postively affected the development of those

3. The parents also should be congratulated. They pushed and were diligent in their efforts to obtain for their children the services that they need and that are required by law.

4. Finally, the remainder of the school staff and that of the board should also be commended. The involved individuals worked together to allow the development of a basic educational program where none had previously existed.

I am pleased about the progress that has been made throughout the school year. Though the job of providing services to children with handicaps in Floyd county is just beginning, I feel that the efforts shown this year are a good indication of things to come.

Appreciates Mountain Manor Nursing Home

For the past few years I have been a regular visitor at the Mountain Manor Nursing Home in Prestonsburg. I find it to be a very rewarding place to visit. The administration and staff along with the patients make you feel welcome.

The activities are planned to fit the patients' needs. Early Sunday members from different churches come to help with their spiritual needs. During the week different singing groups visit the home. Birthdays never are forgotten, and all are celebrated with a party. In addition, all special occasions (holidays) are observed with the appropriate activity.

Some patients enjoy fund-raising, some enjoy outings. The Activities Director does an outstanding job planning for the patients.

ETTA SCOTT, retired teacher Garrett, Ky.

Medical researchers at the University of California at Irving say parents should be more aware of the quality of air their children breathe, both indoors and out, reports National Wildlife magazine. Children are far more sensitive to air pollutants than older children or adults. The reasons: children need more air per unit of body weight to maintain proper metabolism and body temperature, and their smaller air passages collect more pollutants.

Questions EPA Values

One of the criticisms of the concerned citizens against the placement of a hazardous waste incinerator is that we are a bunch of alarmists. It's been pointed out that none of us are experts in hazardous waste disposal and hold no degrees in engineering or chemistry. We're told to put our trust in the government and the Environmental Protection Agency.

Let me share with you conclusions drawn from a study done by the Environmental Effects, Transport and Fate Committee, Science Advisory Board, on the incineration of liquid hazardous wastes, April 1985. The study looked at the rotary kiln type of incinerator. The same design used at L.W.D. in Calvert City and the proposed PyroChem incinerator at Lawrence County

Conclusion: Based on the data submitted for its review and observations made during site visits of operating facilities, the Committee is concerned, in the absence of qualified on-site inspectors, about the reliability of operating large scale land based incinerators.

Conclusion: To monitor whether or not liquid hazardous wastes were destroyed in the incineration process, the approach emphasizes the elimination of several pre-selected compounds in the waste and does not fully address either partial oxidation or chemical recombinations, either of which may create new toxic compounds in the incineration process. To date, only a very small portion of the compounds found in emissions from incinerators have been identified qualitatively or quantitatively. As a consequence, the Committee finds the concept of destruction efficiency used by the E.P.A. to be incomplete and not useful for subsequent exposure assessments.

Conclusion: Assessing the transport and fate of chemicals released into the environment is a necessary precondition for estimating probable exposures to various organisms and for calculating the potential for adverse effects. E.P.A. should include both the chemical and physical characteristics of emitted compounds in the development of exposure estimates. Calculations can result by direct measurements or by computer simulation coupled with laboratory or field verification. The Committee found that the E.P.A. had evaluated these phenomena for land based incinerators essentially on the basis of computer modeling alone with little or no field verification. In the case of ocean based incinerators, the Committee found the field measurements to be largely inadequate.

Conclusion: E.P.A. has not made the fullest use of existing modeling techniques to evaluate the transport, fate, and effects of incinerator products in terrestrial systems. Thus, subsequent Agency exposure assessments to biota and humans in the ecosystem are Conclusion: The toxicities of emissions and effluents from land based incinerators are largely unknown.

This advisory board was Congressionally established and consisted of independent scientists and engineers who provided scientific advice to the E.P.A. Administrator on a number of issues before the Agency. I have shared with you some of the main points in the report. My own conclusion is that the E.P.A. has again pushed a method of waste disposal that is a cheap means of disposal for corporate America, with little regard for the health and safety of the citizens of this land.

WHEN DOES MOURNING END?

Grief and mourning at the death of a loved one are natural emotions. Both are healthy and serve to heal the bereaved as well as to remember and honor the deceased. In some cases, though, protracted periods of mourning can signal a continuing depression. Some people may continue to mourn as a denial of death, by creating living memorials to the person who died. For others, long mourning is a sign of extreme dependence on the deceased. They have lost a sense of their own separate identity and they will or may need some extra support and guidance from medical or religious

It is important to feel deeply the loss of a loved one. It is just as vital to accept it. The process of mourning helps us to remember the life of the person who died, as well as reaffirming the value of our own lives.

GOD'S TIMETABLE

By WILMAY

Christ's return was the last topic of the column. Since the tribulation begins when the instantaneous rapture occurs signs of the seven years of horrors and sorrows apply to the rapture, too, though ess directly. The Day of the Lord is the next event of magnitude on God's schedule. Great spiritual occurrences have taken place at intervals of 2000 years. No one knows how long the creation took, for II Peter 3:8 says a day is as a thousand years with God, and vice versa. But 2000 years later the flood came, and the birth of the Savior in 2000 more years. Another climactic event may come near the year 2000. It could the rapture, when God takes Jesus' Pride—the church—out and into heaven in the twinkling of an eye. I Corinthians 15:51, 52. Some scholars say the beginning of sorrows started several decades

Careful study identifies the earmarks of the incident Christians have long awaited, Jacob's Trouble, or the blessed hope, as called in Titus 2:13. Students of that period to come will find a Thompson Bible indispensable. Some prefer cofield's. One may encounter difficuly if using a Bible minus a chain reference. STRONG'S CONCOR-DANCE, a good Bible dictionary, plus a reliable commentary will pay rich dividends, as will preliminary study of some fundamental passages, like Matthew 24, Mark 13, 26-36. Countless other writers shed much light on these events.

Luke 17:26 says Christ will come back when times resemble the antediluvian days of Noah or Noe, described in Lenesis 5: 29-32 and 6:5-13. Numerous citizens think corruption and evil have reached an all-time high in the U.S. Scripture also says the last days will be like those of Lot when God rained fire and brimstone on Sodom and Gomorrha for the same reason that he destroyed people by the flood. Luke 17:28-37. Note verse 30. Noah built the ark of safety, depicted by God in detail in Genesis 6:14-17. Likewise, today, ministers, evangelists, priests, and lay persons of arious faiths are admonishing Americans and others, as Noah warned his contemporaries centuries ago. II Peter 2:5-8. Just as scoffers made fun of Noah, some now laugh at those who expect these happenings, forgetting that Jesus, Paul, and Isaiah were called crazy, though time proved them right. Scripture always vindicates itself. Just give it time. Modern archaeology alone substantiates this beautifully. The sadest aspect is that most doubters know Attle about God's Word and are not inclined to learn more. If II Chronicles 7:14 occurs soon, God's plan may not be implemented quite soon, for he keeps every promise. Otherwise, with the signs all simultaneously in place for the first time, we should study and watch Dr. Billy Graham is one of many distinguished leaders who say the end is approaching rapidly. Why not amiliarize ourselves with the signs? On-God knows the day and hour of the rapture. Matthew 24:36. Numbers of the signs will be listed here and discussed as column space permits. They will be numbered, for the benefit of new converts

1. BUDDING OF THE FIG TREE. In scripture the fig tree is indicative of Israel, whose people God chose to be an example of theocracy for other nations. Having wandered hundreds of years with no homeland the Jews have had one since the organization of the United Nations. Jeremiah 24:1-7. Note especially verse 6. While small numbers of Jews often returned to Palestine at intervals, those episodes were minor compared with modern emigration to the Holy Land which God gave them in the Abrahamic Covenant. Genesis 13:14-17. Jeremiah 31:10. The Star of David flag now flies past. Early scriptures predicted this, saying they would make he desert blossom like a rose. Isaiah 35:1 and 27:6. Thanks to irrigation and

2. INCREASED OPPOSTION TO THE JEWS is another visible sign. They have endured horrendous mass persecutions and massacres in this century. Today all eyes are on Israel, which will play the leading role in the scenario of the tribulation. Even skeptics realize the

in a "A Capitol Fourth-1986" taped live from the lawn of the Capitol, Monday, July 7, at 8 p.m.

The National Symphony will be conducted by Mstislav Rostropovich, music director of the Symphony. The concert features guest star Sarah Vaughan and culminates in a work composed by Henry Mancini, specially commission-

During summer vacation, children typically forget 10 to 35 percent of what they learned the previous school year. according to the head of the National Association of Elementary School Principals.

But, says Dr. Samuel G. Sava of NAESP, parents can reduce that summertime "forget factor and give their children a better start next September by playing simple, learning-oriented games with them while the family is engaged in routine activities.

"License-plate math," for example. Whether on an interstate or en route to the local supermarket, parents can ask young children to add the numerals on the license plate of a car ahead or rearrange the digits in the proper, ascending 1-to-10 order. Older children can be asked to multiply the numbers.

When the plate includes letters, youngsters can be asked to rearrange them in proper alphabetical order, or to name an object visible from the car that begins with each letter

'But I'd skip the exotic letters, such as Q, X, and Z," advises Sava, "or the kids are likely to lose interest after 20 minutes of vainly hunting a xylophone.

Humble and obvious as such games must seem to adults, they can keep youngsters mentally alert to pass lessons for brief periods each day and ease their return to class next fall, according to Sava.

"More to the point, such activities demonstrate a parent's interest in what a child has learned," he says. "No teacher with 25 pupils can elicit as much enthusiasm for learning as an attentive parent who beams when a child comes up with a correct answer.

Other activities suggested by Sava: Use those papier-mache and plastic egg cartons as planters to stimulate children's interest in science. Slice the carton crosswise, forming six pairs of two-pod planters, fill with soil and seed, then place each pair in a different location (on a sunny ledge, on a table distant from any window, on a closet shelf), so youngsters can observe the differential effects of sun, shade, and darkness on growth. Outstanding Teacher

The student body at Allen Central High School has chosen Miss Patricia C. Watson as their Outstanding Teacher of

This award was initiated by the school's Student Council because students wanted to honor one teacher who had most contributed to improving the quality of education at ACHS.

The criteria used for selection included overall effectiveness in classroom teaching; availability and willingness to work with students; participation in extra-curricular activities; and overall contribution to better the school.

Miss Watson, who teaches English IV, is a first-year faculty member at ACHS. She has brought to her classroom an enthusiasm for teaching, an understanding of individual student needs, and a genuine concern that students attempt to learn. As well as teaching 120 students a day, Miss Watson initiated development of a Speech League and a Drama Club. With the formation of these clubs, she spent many hours after school helping students prepare for speech competitions and working towards a school play. Within the school, she initiated a "Celebration of Literature" day on William Shakespeare's birthday (April

She has served as a sponsor of the Student Council and worked with the students to accomplish a variety of projects. Also, she was sponsored by her students as a "rocker" in a five-hour "Rock-a-Thon" School Pride Project to raise money to purchase tile for the gym foyer. In addition to these activities, Miss Watson contributed to the preparation of the school's academic team for the Sweet Sixteen and the Governor's Cup competitions. She judged district and regional writing entries for the Governor's Cup competition. Throughout the year, Miss Watson has served as a member of the county high school review committee for the countywide high school publication of "Mountain Magic: Coal Dust and Silver Words". Overall, Miss Watson has proven to be a devoted "Rebel"

After receiving the award, Miss Watson commented that she felt honored to have this praise from the students for her efforts.

Miss Watson's teaching preparation includes two Master's degrees from Morehead State University, one in English and the other in Adult and Continuing Education. Her undergraduate degree in English is from Berea College. Currently, she is working to complete a Rank I teaching certification. Prior to teaching at ACHS, Miss Watson taught English composition at Prestonsburg Community College.

The award was presented during graduation ceremonies, June 10, by Peggy Shepherd, a graduating senior and Student Council representative.

Jenny Wiley Theater ...

"Shenandoah," Poignant Story Of Civil War, Opens Tonight

A double award-winning musical called Shenandoah will be the second offering this season at Jenny Wiley Theatre, opening today (Wednesday). It will play in repertory through August 23.

The show gathered a Tony Award for 'best libretto' of any musical during the 1975-76 season, by having an unusually strong, ambitious story that dared to be tinged with sorrow.

Another Tony Award went to actor John Cullum, for his brilliant performance in the musical's leading role.

Equity Guest Artist Robert Jensen will have this demanding role at Jenny Wiley Theatre, portraying an independent-minded planter who stubbornly resists the war fever that swirls around his farm in the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia during the Civil War.

Jensen, as Charlie Anderson, refuses to take sides or let his strapping, stalwart sons get drawn into the bloody conflict that engulfs his valley.

In one of the first musical numbers in Shenandoah, the pacifist Charlie Anderson sings "I've Heard it all Before" the smooth talk of how "we must defend our honor" that tempts men to kill one another. Anderson will have no part of the war frenzy, and he forbids his sons to go out "looking for strangers to kill."

But Charlie Anderson finds he cannot isolate himself or his family from the world they live in. The war intrudes when the youngest Anderson son, a teenager, is kidnapped by Union soldiers. The devoted father sets out to find the boy-and, as a result, two of his sons are killed and his daughter-in-law is murdered. The decent, peace-loving man must share the sufferings of war with everyone else. There is no escape.

The musical drama about America's most tragic event, the Civil war, was adapted by James Lee Barrett from his own screenplay that starred James Stewart as Charlie Anderson.

Composer Gary Geld and Lyricist Peter Udell created the songs that give Shenandoah a lilting, old-fashioned air, reminiscent of the great Rodgers and Hammerstein scores. All the songs are tuneful, ranging from the rollicking, 'Next to Lovin', I like Fightin' " to the gentle ballad, "Violets and Silverbells" to Charlie Anderson's moving musical soliloguy, "Meditation." Christopher Catt is directing Shenandoah without any embarrassed restraint on its poignancy. He says he fully expects some scenes to draw tears.

Bruce Barney, Dan Delafield, Cary C Couch, Ted Brady and Billy Breed (James, Jacob, Nathan, John and Henry) will appear as the Anderson sons. Paintsville native Matthew Kazee will be seen as Robert, the youngest son, abducted by Union troops and persued by his father with tragic results. Jenny Robertson (Jenny) and Tina James (Anne) round out the cast. Mark Halpin is designing a unit set to represent interiors and exteriors of the Shenandoah Valley, and Deborah Brunson is designing costumes of the Civil War period.

Floyd Co. Night Set At Jenny Wiley Theatre

Jenny Wiley Theatre will observe Floyd County Night, Friday, June 27, at 8:30 p.m. All residents of Floyd county will receive $2 off the regular ticket price to see "Cotton Patch Gospel," the foot-stompin' bluegrass musical based on Clarence Jordan's "The Cotton Patch Version of Matthew and John.

The evening is designated to thank all of Floyd County's residents for their continued support and to encourage everyone to enjoy the live, outdoor musical theatre at Jenny Wiley.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 24-Dec 21) Do something for your mother today she deserves it. This would be an excellent time to sell real estate at a substantial profit. Get to work and organize a new spiritual or philosophical group. Plan a special night out Saturday, the time couldn't be better for being entertained.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 17) Your energy level will be extremely intense this week. A Pisces acquaintance will be able to help you out on a public project. Don't try anything out-of-the-ordinary this weekend, you'll "shoot yourself in the foot". Your motivation is moving away from selfishness and toward idealism.

AQUARIUS (Jan 18-Feb 16) You'll be unrealistic about career matters this week, but it won't be from selfishness. Money will slip through your fingers tomorrow so avoid commitments. One of you will also waste money this weekend and the other won't like it. Unusual activities are favored and could bring you closer to the loved one.

PISCES (Feb 17-Mar 20) You will be in the public eye now and a public relations coup is possible. It won't necessarily be easy or positive, but whatever happens, you won't be able to say it wasn't fun. This is a great time to solicit help for your favorite cause. Going out will be very expensive this weekend - better stay home.

Cancer Hopeline

QUESTION: I recently read about a new scanning technique called "MRI", which is used to detect cancer and other noncancerous conditions. What is "MRI"? Is it like x-rays and CT scans? Are there any risks from it, such as the risk of radiation?

ANSWER: MRI (Magnetic Resonance Imaging) is a new diagnostic technique. Although still experimental, MRI is already providing useful for the diagnosis of cancer and other conditions. Unlike x-rays and CT scans, MRI scanners do not use radiation or injected contrast agents (such as dyes or radioactive chemcials). Instead, MRI uses very powerful magnets and radiowaves.

The pictures from MRI scanners look at first glance like CT scans, but they contain additional information. Both CT scans and MRI give information about the shape and structure of different organs, but MRI can give and show differences between normal and cancerous cells in some organs, which may not be detected by other tests.

MRI initially has proved most useful for showing tumors of the brain and spinal cord. Unlike CT scans or x-rays, this technique can "see through" bones, providing a clearer image of the tumor in these areas. Because MRI does not provide a good image of bone, CT scans and x-rays are better for studying bone tumors. MRI is also useful for planning the extent and type of treatment needed. For example, for patients who have been diagnosed with tumors in the soft tissue of the arms and legs, MRI can show the extent of the tumor and its relationship to blood vessels in the area. This helps the surgeon to plan an operation which removes all of the tumor, but preserves as much normal tissue and function as possible.

Thusfar, MRI is thought to be a very safe procedure for most patients. The only known risk is for those patients who have a cardiac pacemaker, since these may be damaged by the strong magnets used in MRI. Patients who have certain permanent surgical clips may also be at risk. If you have had surgery using any permanent clips, staples, or joint replacements, you should inform your doctor before MRI scanner is used.

MRI is a very promising diagnostic tool which is certain to have a major impact in the medical field in years to come. Because this technique is still experimental, and very expensive, it is not yet widely available. In those places in which it is available, it is only being used in addition to standard diagnostic

Faye Dunaway sees TV changing the face of movies

By Lynn Hoogenboom

Faye Dunaway started off in the theater and burst onto the motion-picture scene in 1967 in the smash 'Bonnie and Clyde.' She has been a major motion-picture star since.

Faye Dunaway

But unlike many other top-flight movie stars, she has never shied away from television. "I did 'After the Fall' and 'Aimee Semple McPherson' and other things that would not have worked as films because they were not big enough subjects for it," says Dunaway. "But for television they were perfect."

On Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, June 29, June 30 and July 1, one of Dunaway's television pro

Dunaway's television projects, the sprawling mini-series "Ellis Island," will be rebroadcast.

Throughout her career Dunaway has made a point of returning periodically to the stage. "I started on the stage," she says. "And if I hadn't done the stage before I did films, I think I would have been lost. I've also found that by going back to the stage you strengthen everything. Movies for some reason are a taking out of emo-tions and technique. With stage, having to make it alive and real every night puts them back in.'

But Dunaway has no in-tention of forsaking movies for the stage. "Both are tough," she says. "I don't know which I prefer, actu-ally. They feed each other. "I think television — video - is a very important area right now," she adds. "It's something that won't take the place of movies, but it certainly will change the face of movies. There's so much material. And I think another important thing that's happen-ing is low-budget films. It's possible to take more chances on material if you spend less money.

Like many other ac-tresses, she has started taking a more active role in developing projects for herself than she did in the past. "Like everything in life, you've got to do it yourself," she says. "You can't expect other people to be mind readers. And it's fun to be in from the beginning rather then to come in later and try to fix something.'

Right now, she's looking for a good comedy. "I want to show the juiciness, the lightness and the en-joyment of life," she says, "as opposed to playing dehumanized characters."

Good Board Member Call-In Show Topic

What makes a good school board

KET will address this question with a live, viewer call-in program. "What Makes A Good School Board Member?" will air Thursday, July 10, at 7:00 p.m.

The one-hour program will be hosted by Bob Hensley, WTVQ-TV/Lexington news anchor. Joining Hensley will be David Keller, executive director of the Kentucky School Board Association and Mary Cohron, president of that Frankfort-based association.

According to KET Producer Lynn Cooper. " 'What Makes A Good School Board Member?' is designed to increase the awareness of the qualifications and credentials a person needs to have to be an effective school board member.

'We hope not only to generate interest in getting good people to run for local school boads, but also to inform the voters what qualifications and qualities they need to look for in a school board candidate," concluded Cooper

Viewers may question panelists by calling (606) 233-3000. Collect calls will

Billboard Law To Be Enforced

Faced with the threatened loss of millions of dollars in federal highway money, the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet is taking renewed steps to enforce the state's billboard law and regulations.

Transportation Secretary C. Leslie Dawson said the state is obligated by its agreement with the Federal Highway Administration, which the state entered into in 1967 and is still binding, to clear the interstates and the primary and secondary roads of illegal signs. Failure to do so could result in the loss of $20 million a year in federal road funds to Kentucky.

The Secretary has directed the Cabinet's 12 District Highway Offices to begin an immediate inventory of illegal advertising devices on interstate and federal-aid primary routes.

Those devices located on the right of way are to be removed immediately, Dawson said, while the owners of illegal devices located off the right of way will be sent notices to remove the signs within 30 days. Failure to comply will result in legal action for removal. Following the initial inventory and removal efforts, Dawson said, periodic checks will continue statewide to ensure future compliance.

For information regarding the billboard law and regulations, contact your District Highway Office at Pikeville, phone 437-9691.

Wild Horses, Burros Are Available for Adoption

Wild horses slated to be brought to Rio Grande, Ohio and put up for adoption as part of the first Wild Horse and Burro Expo July 3-6 have been captured by the Department of the Interior's Bureau of Land Management (BLM). Using a blend of old and new techniques, cowboys on horseback and in a helicopter drove the horses into a trap, then trucked them to a temporary holding corral in Nebraska. Each horse is then "freeze branded" and examined by a veterinarian to determine its age and insure its soundness and good health. Any necessary medical treatment is administered and all the inoculations required for interstate shipment are given. A record of each animal's medical history is provided to adopters to assist in establishing a good health care program.

Approximately 200 of these horses and 75 wild burros will be trucked to Bob Evans Farm in Rio Grande, Ohio for the Expo. People who promise to give good homes to the animals may apply for as many as four. To qualify, applicants must have suitable transport, facilities and means for caring for wild horses or burros. An adoption fee of $125 per horse and $75 per burro is required. Applications and information about this event can be obtained by contacting the Adopt-A-Horse Program, Bureau of Land Management, 350 South Pickett, Alexandria, Virginia 22304, telephone (703)

"Adopters are always needed to help us solve the problem of overpopulation among wild horses and burros on public rangelands," said BLM Eastern States

Director Curt Jones. "But right now we're looking especially for people in Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky who would like to take this opportunity to get involved in the program." According to Jones, over 1700 wild horses and burros have already been adopted by residents in the three state area.

Many of these animals will be competing at Expo in the first national horse show open only to wild horses and burros obtained through the Adopt-A-Horse Program. A variety of classes are planned that will show the beauty and talents of these animals. Bob Evans Farms, inaddition to hosting the four day Expo, is donating the cash prizes, trophies and ribbons for the show to be held July 5. Other activities during the weekend include training and breaking demonstrations, movies, country music, tractor rides and the unique museums and reconstructed buildings of an 1800's village and farm which attract a quarter of a million visitors annually.

Infectious Hepatitis

COPYRIGHT 1986 KVMA

Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association Your veterinarian frequently recommends that your pet get his shots on a regular basis. Still, it's sometimes tempting to try to get by without maintaining the inoculations, either because of inconvenience or because of what you think might be economics.

Pet owners should be aware of the serious consequences which can result when disease prevention measures are ignored, before they determine whether to bypass inoculations or the advice of the veterinarian.

A case in point is canine infectious hepatitis.

Research indicates that 75 percent of all dogs under one year of age are exposed to this highly contagious viral disease. The death rate among puppies and young dogs is extraordinarily high, but declines to about 10 percent in older

This particular strain of hepatitis does not affect humans, though in dogs it varies considerably in severity.

Symptoms generally begin with a high fever, which may be short lived or may drop and return after a day or so. If the ver lasts more than a day, a reduction in the white blood count occurs.

Conjunctivitis will develop, along with loss of appetite and weight loss, thirst, serious discharge from the eyes and nose, as well as apathy and listlessness. Tonsils may become enlarged, the head, neck or trunk may swell and vomiting

Blood clotting ability may be affected, with spontaneous hematomas and bleeding from the gums.

Treatment for infected dogs is available, but expensive. Blood transfusions and dextrose are sometimes used, as well as broad spectrum antibiotics.

Though early symptoms may resemble distemper or leptospirosis, they appear suddenly and develop quickly. Successful treatment also depends upon quick response and correct diagnosis.

On the other hand, an effective and long-lasting vaccination against infectious hepatitis is available and can be used safely on puppies as young as ten weeks of age. It is much cheaper than treatment of the disease itself.

Next time your veterinarian advises a series of inoculations, don't ignore his advice without asking questions. Get to the nitty-gritty. Ask him how prevalent the disease inoculated against really is in your area, what the chances of survival will be if your animal contracts the disease, and what the cost of treatment will be. Then ask him the cost of the vaccination.

You might be surprised at the honest answers you'll get.
