

Magic Number Eludes Attempt To Unionize

There was a lot of talk about a "magic number" among the 100 or so Board of Education employees who gathered under an Archer Park fair-ground pavilion Saturday.

That was the number of workers needed to sign cards authorizing Teamsters Local 783 to have union dues deducted from their monthly paycheck. It is set by law at 50 percent—reckoned here to be about 160 signatures—of the school district's non-teaching, non-management employees.

While there was an undercurrent of disappointment among the drivers, clerks, janitors, cooks, and aides who turned out—a sense that fear of recrimination was keeping many of their colleagues at home—and while the first poll turned up only 53 signed cards, there was also a sense among many that the time for a union had come.

"A lot of them have been scared off by principals calling to say they'd lose their jobs if they showed up here today," said Nadine Springer, a custodian at McDowell. To which Mary Baldrige, a clerk at Martin Elementary, added that a recent salary hike for principals was given on condition they dissuade their workers from making trouble.

"I don't blame them. If I was making their money, I'd keep them in line, too," she said.

But Local 783 Secretary-Treasurer Jerry Vincent urged the workers to act in union and not to overestimate the power of their employers. "It's not a big monster up there," he said in apparent reference to the Floyd Board of Education, "it's a pussycat." And union organizer Terry Osborne read from a state statute guaranteeing the right of workers to organize for the sake of collective bargaining.

Vincent told the group they would be paying at least $11 a month in union dues if they chose to be represented by the Teamsters. Jefferson county school employees, of whom the union represents 900, pay $17 a month, he said.

But any qualms the Floyd workers may have had about the dues checkoff appeared more than offset by reports from two Louisville unionists about their wages and conditions.

Loretta Warren, whose last pay stub was passed among envious workers here, said she was paid $10.04 an hour as a school bus driver with 13 years' experience. Floyd drivers generally earn between $20 and $23 for a work day that averages about four hours. In addition, Warren told the group, she is allowed one sick day a month and three personal days and two emergency days annually.

Ronnie McFarlane, a maintenance worker with Jefferson schools for four years, said he was paid $11.73 an hour. Cooks in the Louisville schools were said to earn $7.39 an hour, a figure that drew gasps from Floyd cooks, who said they were paid $3.58 and enjoyed neither benefits nor job security.

If a majority sought Teamster representation, a labor lawyer would be hired and a business agent assigned to this area with a view to negotiating contracts for the workers before next year's school budget is adopted, Vincent said. Besides wage issues, a grievance procedure would be negotiated, he said.

The union official urged the group to (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

DISCUSSING THE MERITS of joining a union at an Archer Park rally Saturday were about 100 Board of Education employees, over half of whom agreed to ask Teamsters Local 783 to represent them. About 160 signatures will be needed if the union is to be recognized as the voice of Floyd school workers, however. Around the table were, from left, Local 783 Secretary-Treasurer Jerry Vincent; Mary Baldrige, a clerk at Martin Elementary School; Mary Terry, lunchroom manager at Martin; Carlotta Shannon, lunchroom manager at McDowell; and Karon Robinson, teacher aide at Drift.

Lack of Health Records Sends 150 Students Home

Last Thursday, September 25, was supposed to be D-Day in the off-again, on-again battle to get student health records up to date. But when the time came to hit the beaches, Don Daniels found himself pretty much alone.

Thirty school days after classes resumed, any student whose records were incomplete was supposed to be sent home, the Allen Central principal said. That was what he understood the Floyd Board of Education to be saying. And the board was only implementing a state Department of Education directive that came down as long as four years ago.

On Thursday, Daniels turned away 150 of Allen Central's 541 students. He said they did not have current physical exams on file. Their immunization shots were not up to date. They hadn't had a recent TB skin test. Or their medical examination was not recorded on the approved form.

On Friday, classes were out in any case on account of a disruption in Beaver Elkhorn Water District service. Many students seized the opportunity to get their shots or physicals and "at least half" of them were able to return to class Monday, Daniels said.

Of the rest, many were angry. "I'm catching holy hell," the principal acknowledged Monday. "I've been called everything from a milk cow on down. Everyone's pointing the finger at me. Some are threatening to sue. I'm the dirty dog."

In a basic sense, Daniels feels he's on firm ground. "The law is the law," he explained. And for that reason he says he's being criticized unreasonably for enforcing rules that were supposed to have been enforced years ago, that school administrators insist they want enforced now, and that students and parents have repeatedly been warned will be enforced this year.

"A lot of them think it is something I did on my own. It's not. It's something the state said we were supposed to take care of four years ago," Daniels said.

"I don't mind taking the flak for something I've done, but I don't like taking it for something someone else has not done."

He has sympathy for parents who insist their children's files are on record, Daniels said. "I'm not calling them liars or anything. It's possible things have been lost. All I'm saying is there's nothing I can do about it."

He can understand the frustration, too, of parents who discover that the deadline for immunizations falls at a time when training sessions have left the Floyd County Health Department shortstaffed until October 10. "It looks as if communications were not good," he said.

But even harder to refute, he said, is some parents' charge that the law is not being enforced uniformly across the county. "I heard they had 265 that were not up to date at one school, and nobody was sent home," Daniels said. "It's inconsistent."

Prestonsburg High School Principal Robert May conceded Tuesday that about 200 students there are behind on their records—about 80 percent of them sophomores and juniors up for their 10-year immunization booster. He was reluctant to send students home without written instructions from the Board of Education and hoped that an additional grace period would see the problem resolved, he said.

Notes are being sent home this week to parents of PHS students lacking health records. "Hopefully that will take care of it," May said. "If it

Some Don't Like New Report Cards

The design of the report cards Floyd students are bringing home this week is one of the improvements resulting from a plan adopted by the school district last November. Assistant Supt. Ron Hager said Friday. But, at least in one respect, they represent a "step backward" for the county school system, the leader of a citizens' group protested.

Jean Rosenberg, chairperson of the Floyd County Education Forum, a group that has pressed school administrators in recent months to strengthen communication between teachers and parents, said the message that comes through loud and clear on at least one of the newly-designed report cards is not likely to make parents feel welcome in the schools.

Trumpeted in large type and studded with four asterisks, the most prominent message on the report card designed for grades four through eight reads, "All conferences shall be scheduled through the principal."

That is hardly encouraging to parents who already feel reluctant to schedule conferences with their children's teachers, Mrs. Rosenberg said. "It implies they must have official clearance."

The same instruction is included on the grades 1-3 report card, although in much less prominent type. The grades 9-12 report adopts a more encouraging tone, urging parents to schedule conferences with teachers, counselor, or principal as they see the need. The kindergarten report includes only a general suggestion that parents "take an active part" in their children's education.

Hager defended the admonitions on the primary-grade reports, noting that they only repeat a general rule that school visitors report to the principal, who is responsible for overall scheduling and security. The requirement is not onerous and was included in the report cards on the suggestion of the (See Story No. 5, Page 4)

Board Meeting Postponed

The monthly meeting of the Floyd Board of Education will be held October 8 at 7 p.m. at the school district's central office, it was announced this week. The meeting, normally scheduled for the first Wednesday of the month, is being held over to permit Supt. Ray Brackett to attend a meeting today (Wednesday) of the State Board of Education. Brackett was directed to appear before the state board's finance committee.

Rate Increase, Bond Issue To Upgrade System

Although the state Public Service Commission denied East Kentucky Utilities the rate hike it requested and disallowed a monthly surcharge it asked for to pay off its debts, the regulatory agency left the door open for an agreement that will apparently keep the gas flowing to the utility's 1300 customers this winter.

EKU had asked the PSC for permission to charge an extra $1.50 a month per household and an extra 96 cents per thousand cubic feet of gas in order to pay off a $312,000 wholesale gas debt to Kentucky-West Virginia Gas Co. and a $131,000 debt to Southeastern Gas Co. Kentucky West had asked federal authorities for permission to disconnect service to the county-owned utility because of its unpaid bill.

The local utility had also sought to raise its rates from $7.88 to $8.50 for the first thousand cubic feet and from $4.85 to $6.20 for each additional thousand.

The PSC denied the proposed surcharge outright. It granted a rate increase to $7.92 for the first thousand cubic feet and $5.12 thereafter.

In denying the surcharge, the PSC found that EKV's debts resulted from excessive loss of gas from the utility's corroded lines, "a condition which had not substantially improved until recently," and blamed the utility management for paying all its other operating costs—including at least $44,370 paid to persons related to EKV president David Allen—before paying

Cash Flow Problem Plagues City Gov't

The Estill-county city of Irvine met its payroll last week by switching $4350 in state highway money to its general fund. Prestonsburg did it by again borrowing from the bank.

City Administrator Fred A. James draw attention to Irvine's plight to illustrate his contention that Prestonsburg is not alone in its current cash-flow problem.

That problem has sent the city council to the bank three times in the three months since the start of the new fiscal year—to borrow $25,000 at the end of August, $15,000 two weeks later, and now $92,000 more. The money is needed, James told the council, to pay city workers for the latter half of September and to pay insurance premiums on employees, buildings, and vehicles.

It may not be the last note the council will have to sign, said the city administrator, who pointed out that, while payrolls and operating expenses have to be met on a continuing basis, much of the city's income is available only at the end of each quarter.

Occupational and property taxes and insurance license fees for the first quarter, which together generate 57 percent of the city's revenue, are not due until the end of October. Until then—and until small local governments come up with a better solution to their cash flow problems—Prestonsburg has no choice but to borrow, he said.

For cities and counties around the nation, the problem is exacerbated by the loss this year of federal revenue-sharing money, said James, who estimates the cutback will cost Prestonsburg about $100,000. Cities like Prestonsburg have often compounded the problem, he said, by using the supplementary federal funds to finance essential services and expand local payrolls.

"If you've been using your revenue-sharing to buy police cars, a fire truck, a street sweeper, a garbage truck, and to expand the work force to 65 employees," the city official said, "you're caught with a level of service you can't retract without laying off employees or selling a dump truck. And people have become accustomed to it."

Phone Company Petitions Court To Repair Line

Officials of South Central Bell Telephone Company successfully petitioned Friday for a restraining order to allow them to enter on an Allen property to make line repairs.

Cable repairmen Leslie Spradlin and Thomas H. Cook said in an affidavit that they were sent last Wednesday to a property owned by Dalton Ray Conley between Allen and Martin on KY 1428 in order to check out service complaints in that area.

They discovered that a phone cable had been severed on the property but, when they tried to go on the tract to make repairs, the owner emerged armed from Conley's Restaurant and Motel, challenged them, and threatened to shoot any phone company worker who set foot on the place, they said.

Conley, a fish and game officer, was carrying a gun in a holster at the time, the two workers testified. The property owner said he had a "Mini 14" and four cases of ammunition, the repairmen said.

How Much Is Your Health Insurance Really Worth?

By RUTH SHELTON,
Director of Outpatient Services, and GWEN HALL, Public Relations

Whether you have private or governmental health insurance, it is worth to you only what it pays for medical care. Even today's best policies, usually pay but 80% of actual physician and hospital costs.

To save embarrassment, money and possibly your health, you need to understand your health insurance policy. Probably the simplest way to do that is to call your health insurance company or agent, and ask the following questions.

If I were admitted to the hospital today, how much would you pay on my hospital bill?

Do I have a deductible amount to pay? (A deductible requires you to pay a certain amount, usually hundreds of dollars, before the insurance will pay anything.)

After my deductible is paid, how much do you pay the hospital? How much must I pay?

Do I have a pre-existing condition clause in my policy? (A pre-existing condition clause is a statement about a health condition you might have had before the effective date of your policy.)

If I do have a pre-existing condition clause, is there a waiting period before insurance pays for treatment of this condition or do you never pay on this condition?

How do you pay on outpatient emergency services?

How do you pay on outpatient laboratory services?

How do you pay on outpatient x-rays?

How do you pay on outpatient surgeries?

How do you pay on accidental emergencies?

How do you pay on medical emergencies?

Do you pay doctors' fees?

Does my policy require pre-authorization? (Some health insurance policies state that the doctor must notify the insurance company 24 hours prior to your hospital admission unless it is an emergency. Others state that notification must occur within 24 hours of your hospitalization. Policies which require a pre-authorization may not pay the bill at all if notification is not made as required by the policy. Medicare and Medicaid require pre-authorization for elective surgeries.)

Are there cash bonuses for early discharges from the hospital? (Some companies will pay a cash bonus to mothers who leave the hospital within 24 hours of giving birth rather than staying the usual 3-4 days.)

These questions can also help you read your health policy, but don't be surprised if your policy is difficult to read. Some policies are purposely written that way. Others are complicated by legal terms and contract requirements.

Most insurance companies have a toll-free number, but even if yours doesn't, it may well be worth the price of a long-distance phone call to find out what your policy is really worth. How you are treated and how your questions are answered can be important cues to how your insurance claim will be handled.

Take time to understand your health insurance policy. That understanding will help you plan realistically for your health care and make wise decisions when purchasing, re-newing, or canceling a health insurance policy.

try to win over to their cause Floyd maintenance workers, who were said to be reluctant as a group to consider unionization. "Don't say you don't want the maintenance people; take everyone you can get," he advised.

Vincent was unconcerned about making peace with teachers, however, and played on the hostility felt by some non-certified workers toward teachers, whom he accused of "not wanting to bring you up to their level."

His boast that what were formerly "teachers' lounges" in Jefferson schools are now "employee lounges" as a result of union efforts drew applause from the group.

Nor was the possible leverage afforded by the upcoming Board of Education races overlooked. "We're in a good position in that two are up for election," said Martin school clerk Mary Baldrige, a reference to this year's board races in the first and second educational divisions. Vincent noted that a union would be in a position to give campaign support to cooperative board candidates.

While he had no wish to be "out here politicking," said Maryland "Burl" Joseph, who is running against incumbent Dr. James D. Adams in the first division, he did mention that he would have an "open door policy" with respect to school employees. "Whether you're unionized or not."

In an apparent reference to the Teamsters' alleged links with organized crime, Vincent acknowledged that "people usually say we're gangsters, that we're coming in to steal something." But "it has never been said we sold out to anyone," he asserted.

Loretta Wallen, the Jefferson county bus driver, conceded later that fear of the Teamsters' reputation initially colored the attitude of Jefferson workers. "We were petrified. We thought they'd be overturning buses. But not any more," she said. "Now we feel better—about our jobs and about ourselves."

Union organizer Osborne said he felt hopeful as a result of Saturday's rally about the chances of organizing Floyd workers. "This is a good turnout," he said.

teacher-committees which re-designed them, he said.

"The committees thought parents should have to assume some responsibility. It's easy to do. It's just a matter of picking up a telephone and calling," he said.

In response to recent charges by the citizens' group that the administration is dragging its feet on the issue of parent-teacher conferences—to which the school district is theoretically committed through its adoption last November of a Master Educational Improvement Plan (MEIP)—Hager noted that the MEIP leaves it to principals and teachers to schedule parent-teacher conferences.

Moreover, teachers' and citizens' groups appear divided on the question of whether any change is needed in the present system of informal meetings between teachers and parents, he said. A proposal by the citizens' group that parent-teacher conferences be scheduled some evenings was received coolly by teachers, who saw it as unpaid labor.

Hager said also that the format of the new report cards, spelling out more specifically in the lower grades the skills students are expected to master, is a step in the direction of better informing parents about what the schools are doing. "I think it's a valid attempt to communicate more about academic things. Instead of just saying a student got a C in reading, it will say what specific skill he or she is being tested in," he said.

Both the kindergarten and grades 1-3 reports are more specific than formerly; the format for the other grades seems little changed. All but the kindergarten reports now include some space for teachers' comments—a lot in the grades 1-3 report, a little in the others.

According to their affidavit, Conley told the workers they could repair the overhead line only if they agreed to bury it. He also said he was angry that the phone company sought a restraining order against him in 1979, the repairman said. According to court records, that dispute was resolved when Conley agreed to let the phone company repair its line.

In the current dispute, Circuit Judge Hollie Conley granted a restraining order sought Friday on the phone company's behalf by attorney D. Brent Irwin.

Overhauling the city's personnel policies was the only other business taken up in a council meeting that was postponed by a day. Originally scheduled to meet Monday, the meeting was recessed when word of his father's death called Councilman Harry Ray Porter from the council, which then lacked a quorum.

Reconvened on Tuesday, council members went over the revised policies with Paul Combs, a Lexington consultant. Job responsibilities, steps by which city workers will be promoted, pay scales, and due process mechanisms are all spelled out in the new manual, which replaces one designed in 1975 by then-Mayor William O. Goebel, Jr., said James.

While the revised manual will be a substantial improvement on the one it replaces, Goebel was nevertheless forward-looking for his time. James said. "It was a professional thing to do in those days. He didn't have to do it," the city administrator said. Adoption by local governments of personnel policies and procedures has since been mandated by a 1980 state statute.

The regulatory agency noted, however, that Floyd Fiscal court had requested permission to issue bonds to pay off the system's present bond indebtedness, pay its delinquent bills, and upgrade its system to eliminate the current 14.83 percent line loss. A bond issue would be considered if the county makes an application in the required form, said PSC executive-director Forrest Skaggs.

The regulatory agency's willingness to consider a bond issue—a remedy it had previously excluded, according to County Attorney David Barber—opened the way for an agreement with EKU's wholesale suppliers, the county attorney said.

Under the pact, Kentucky-West has agreed to withdraw its request to cut off service provided the utility makes a $100,000 payment on what it owes Kentucky-West and $20,000 on its debt to Southeastern, Barber said. The utility will borrow money to make the payments, he said.

Although the county had never supported EKU's request for a surcharge to pay its bills, Barber defended the utility against the PSC's charge that its payments to members of the Allen family were evidence of mismanagement.

"If you can show me where they would have done it cheaper by, say, paying someone other than Stephen Allen for accounting services, I'd say okay," Barber said. "But if they saved money (by hiring family members), I can't see that that's bad management. It might be nepotism, but it's good nepotism."

The rate increase sought by EKU would have increased the utility's revenue by $116,774. The increase approved by the PSC is expected to generate $30,918.

A bond issue of about $1 million will be required, Barber said, to complete replacement of EKU's gas lines, to pay its suppliers, and to retire $200,000 still outstanding on a 1981 bond issue.

Goble Roberts Blast Under Investigation

A gas explosion and fire in a Goble-Roberts home drew a heavy response from city emergency vehicles Monday afternoon, after early reports suggested someone might be trapped inside the house.

The house proved empty, however—the owner was said to be away in Michigan—and no injuries were reported.

The blast did extensive damage to the house; the resultant fire was contained mostly to the attic. Cause of the explosion, which is thought to be of suspicious origin, is under investigation by city Fire Inspector Larry Adams.

doesn't. I assume they will have to be told to stay home."

Garrett Elementary Principal Ralph O'Quinn took four grade-schoolers home as the deadline fell Thursday. All four got their records updated the same day. Only 12 of the school's 428 students still need shots or physicals and all of them are in the process of getting them, O'Quinn said.

At McDowell High School, "four or five" students were sent home earlier in the semester and now all of the 310 students there are current except for two needing 10-year boosters and 10 needing physical exams. The 10 are awaiting doctors' appointments and "we're cutting them a bit of slack," Frazier said.

Gene Davis, principal at Betsy Layne High School, said Tuesday that school officials were still tallying the number of students there with incomplete health records. But it was obvious that "a lot ignored" newspaper and radio notices this summer about school health requirements, he said.

Principals have received conflicting information from the school district's central office about how to handle the problem, Davis said. As he understood the procedure, parents of Betsy Layne students will receive as many as two more warnings before students are sent home, he said.

Supt. Ray Brackett, Asst. Supt. Ron Hager, and Health Coordinator Ned Bush could not be reached for comment Tuesday on the apparently uneven enforcement of school health regulations. School nurse Jennifer Martin declined to comment without authorization.

Floyd Homemakers Hold Annual Meet at Lodge

The annual luncheon meeting of the Floyd County Homemakers was held at Friendship Hall of the First United Methodist Church, Thursday, September 25, with Mrs. Frances Pitts, Floyd county extension agent, presiding. Registration began at 10 a.m., with Mrs. Otelia Smiley and Mrs. Ann Alley in charge of registering more than 80 members and their guests.

Many handmade items were on display.

Mrs. Mary Sue Moore, president of Floyd County Homemakers, welcomed the group, and devotionals were given by Mrs. Arietta Hall, president of the Grethel Homemakers Club. The Flag salute was led by Mrs. Gail Osborne, president of the Martin Club.

Mrs. Dorothy Harris, secretary-treasurer, gave the roll-call, and Mrs. Mary Sue Moore introduced area and county officers. Mrs. Helen Boyd, vice president, gave the membership report, stating that Floyd county leads the state in the number of Homemakers clubs. Mrs. Boyd, who also serves as Area Health chairman, said that Floyd County Homemakers' Clubs are 100% in contributions to the Ovarian Cancer drive. Mrs. Frances Pitts introduced Mrs. Brenda Cockerham, Pike county extension agent, who discussed cake decorations.

Mrs. Arietta Hall gave the blessing, and favorite foods, brought by Floyd County Homemakers, was enjoyed from tables decorated with gnomes and a variety of flower arrangements. Mrs. Pitts thanked the members who had been helpful throughout the year, and in preparation for this event.

Following the luncheon, door prizes were awarded.

Attending were Alice Hays, Geraeline Barten, Ann Alley, Jane Wallace, Helen Boyd, Betty Bentley, Alda Gibson, Violet Stover, Dorothy Stover, Dixie N. Webb, May K. ## Ford Schedules Campaign Stop

U.S. Sen. Wendell Ford will be in Prestonsburg Thursday, Oct. 9, for a morning campaign meeting at the Floyd county courthouse. He will arrive at 8:30 a.m. to meet supporters in his reelection bid. The visit is part of an October swing throughout the Commonwealth that will take the former Kentucky Governor into more than 70 communities following adjournment of the current session of Congress, and ending with the November 4 general election.

Disabled women represented 8.5 percent of all working age women (ages 16 to 64) in 1981 or slightly more than 1 out of every 12 women in this age group, according to a fact sheet published by the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor.

The Good Old Days

Like the new hit song by the Judds' "Grandpa Tell Me About The Good Old Days," I long for the good old days when Pete Grigsby was doing such a fine job as Superintendent of the Floyd County School System. He had the system on the move before he was forced out by local and state politics. What a loss for our future!

Look at what his supposed replacement Ray Brackett has done in his first year as Chief of the Floyd County Schools. He has brought the school system out of the black into a $400,000 deficit in only a year. Floyd County ranked 178th in the achievement tests, the lowest ranking in the history of our school system.

Ray Brackett has the people of Garrett and Wayland feuding over where to build a new elementary school. Is the job too big for the man? I would say a resounding YES! Ray Brackett should do the people of Floyd County and the School System a big favor by resigning immediately so we can get back to the business of running our school system!

It seems like Ray Brackett's 1st year in command has been a step backwards. He has shown no leadership. I say put someone else in to run the ship!

Just ask yourselves this question. What kind of job did he do under Charles Clark and Pete Grigsby as Assistant Superintendent of Finance?

Band Uniforms Appreciated

We would like to take this opportunity to say "thank you" to everyone who contributed to the Prestonsburg Band's Uniform Drive. The band needed $12,500 for new uniforms, and the community was wonderful in opening their hearts and wallets to giving to this need. The band's old uniforms were wearing out and some of the members didn't even have uniform pants because of the disrepair of some of them. They now have their uniforms that they and the community both can be proud of. We love our band. They are a great bunch of kids, and they all join us in again saying thanks to the businesses and individuals who gave either for a whole uniform or helped in part on one.

Remembers Martin

Congratulations to the ones who made Martin Homecoming a great success.

I am a 1939 graduate of Martin. It is with regret I was not able to attend.

I was glad to see names I recognized, such as Monroe Wicker, who helped make it possible for me to finish my last two years, also names of John Wesley Adams and Denzil Halbert.

Hoping these plans will continue next year and I will be able to meet many old friends.

Thanks for your coverage of the homecoming.

You Can Go Home Again

I read with much interest and emotion the letter in your paper from Virginia Copley Harmon with her comments on the Wayland Homecoming. It was a wonderful weekend which was made possible by Patty Murphy, many former residents, and the present interested and caring residents of Wayland. The long hard hours that must have gone into the planning are truly appreciated by more people than they will ever realize.

I sincerely thank everyone that worked so hard to make such a weekend possible. I felt such warmth in seeing so many old friends who have been, and will always be, so precious to me. Yes, we can go home again, if only for a short time. I enjoyed every minute of the weekend.

Next Summer May See Airport Open

A "working, operating airport next summer," was projected last week by an engineer involved in construction of the Big Sandy Regional Airport on a former Martin county stripmine site.

The projection came after an announcement by Cong. Chris Perkins and Sen. Mitch McConnell that a $389,000 Economic Development Administration grant had been approved. The EDA grant completes a funding package of $789,000 for development of the airport's terminal area.

To be constructed are a fuel system, a hangar to include an office and pilots' area, paved taxi-ways to private hangars, lighting and parking in the terminal area, a permanent power source and utilities.

The fuel system could be in place in a few months, said engineer Phillip Boleyn, allowing partial use of the facility by Bates Flying Service, the base operator. Bates will sell fuel, and provide charter, ambulance, training and airplane maintenance services.

Total cost of the airport, which is a joint project of Johnson, Martin, Magoffin and Floyd counties, is put at under $5 million.

Energy Giants Not Among Floyd Mining Companies

A handful of energy giants continue to dominate Kentucky's coal production, according to a recent study by the Kentucky Fair Tax Coalition. None of the biggest companies is among those mining coal in this county, however.

Just 20 companies, among them familiar multinational conglomerates such as Peabody Coal, Standard Oil, Occidental Petroleum, Chevron, and the Sun Company, controlled nearly 50 percent of the state's coal production in 1985, according to a report by KFTC researcher Tom Del Salvo. Only four of these companies were based in Kentucky, the report said.

In 1985, coal mines in Kentucky produced 169,616,063 tons, the highest of any state in the nation. Peabody Coal Company (a venture of Newmont Mining, Bechtel, Williams Companies, Boeing, and Equitable Life Insurance) accounted for nearly 10 percent of the total, outdistancing all other producers with 16.5 million tons.

Second on the list was Arch Minerals, a joint venture of Ashland Oil and the Hunt family of Texas. It was followed by Massey Coal (a joint venture of Royal Dutch Shell and the Fluor Corporation), MAPCO, and Transco Energy.

Standard Oil of Indiana, Pyro Energy/Costain, the Sun Company, Reading & Bates and Blue Diamond Coal round out the top 10 producers for 1985. With the exception of Ashland Oil's ownership in Arch, none of these top 10 are based in Kentucky.

The KFTC study, "Who's Mining Kentucky's Coal?," differs from similar listings compiled by the state or by industry sources in that it lists production by corporate ownership rather than by individual company, said Sidney Cornett, KFTC chairman. "For example, Star Fire Coal, Lost Mountain Mining, Straight Creek Coal and others would be listed independently on most other lists, while KFTC lists these under their corporate parent, Standard Oil of Indiana," Cornett said, adding, "This more accurately shows the concentration of coal production and lets Kentuckians know who is really controlling our coal."

The study notes that, while Kentucky coal production declined only slightly (by six-tenths of a percent) in 1985, coal employment fell by more than seven percent.

In Floyd county, 7,903,839 tons of coal were mined last year. In order of production, the top 25 producers, their tonnage yield, and percentage of Floyd production were:

Donn Chickering (Meadow Branch Coal), 674,254 tons, 8.53 percent; Jaco Mining, 596,110 tons, 7.54 percent; Prater Creek Processing, 425,350 tons, 5.38 percent; Ramblin Coal, 269,584 tons, 3.41 percent; Denzil Hall (Douglas Coal, Surefire Coal), 242,184 tons, 3.06 percent; Somerset Coal, 224,725 tons, 2.84 percent; Delta Energy, 176,407 tons, 2.23 percent.

Gap Fork Fuels, 173,438 tons, 2.19 percent; DFM Inc., 170,111 tons, 2.15 percent; PIA Mining, 167,824 tons, 2.12 percent; Carl Kirk (Amber Coal), 155,299 tons, 1.96 percent; P&J Coal, 152,527 tons, 1.93 percent; Shannon Coal, 150,970 tons, 1.91 percent; M&M Coal, 150,283 tons, 1.90 percent; T&H Coal, 132,754 tons, 1.68 percent; C&H Coal, 132,487, 1.68 percent.

Ensol Coal, 129,148 tons, 1.63 percent; Boyd Coal, 128,751 tons, 1.63 percent; F. Taylor Mining, 124,709 tons, 1.58 percent; Grateside Coal, 117,242 tons, 1.48 percent; Zion Mining, 110,008 tons, 1.39 percent; Jena Coal, 108,199 tons, 1.37 percent; Kenneth Allen (Allen and Newsome Coal, Cindy Coal), 104,995 tons, 1.33 percent; Buckingham Coal, 101,582 tons, 1.29 percent; and Steven Lee Enterprises, 101,504 tons, 1.28 percent.

Together, these companies produced 5,020,445 tons, or 63.52 percent of the Floyd total.

Oct. 17 Deadline For Adult Reading Course

Life is full of written words: congratulations, harmful if swallowed, take as directed, do not enter, help wanted. However, thousands of adult Kentuckians cannot read these words.

You have the opportunity to share a whole new world with a non-reader, when you teach an adult to read. Become a volunteer tutor and learn how you can help someone learn to read when you enroll in the KET Teach An Adult To Read Academy, offered in conjunction with the KET-produced series, "Teach An Adult To Read."

The Academy includes five 30-minute television classes which premiere Saturday, October 25 at 10:00 a.m. on KET. Programs are repeated Tuesdays at 7:30 p.m., beginning October 28. A student handbook accompanies the series. This manual is designed to reinforce information presented in the television series. Assistance will be available at a designated time from your teacher, series host Susan Paull. Students will be referred to literacy program representatives in their areas for further training and participation.

Paull, your host and instructor in the Teach An Adult To Read Academy, is a former volunteer tutor and trainer in the nationally-acclaimed Jefferson County Adult Reading Program (JCARP). Through the National Diffusion Network, Paull currently is the JCARP literacy coordinator at the Kentucky Department of Education. She designs the JCARP training for literacy program coordinators.

Enrollments for the KET Teach An Adult To Read Academy must be postmarked no later than October 17. Cost for the Academy is $15, which covers postage and workbook costs. For an informational brochure, call toll free 1-800-432-0951.

To enroll, send your name, complete address including county and telephone number, to KET, Teach An Adult To Read Academy, 600 Cooper Drive, Lexington, Ky. 40502. Please make your $15 check or money order payable to Kentucky Educational Television.

"Teach An Adult To Read" is a KET production.

Contract To Be Let For Auxier-Inez Rd.

A contract for reconstruction of a 3.6-mile section of KY 3, the Auxier-Inez road, is scheduled for letting in November, Gov. Martha Layne Collins announced. The Transportation Cabinet recently authorized $13.5 million to rebuild the road from U.S. 23 at Auxier Heights to Odds in Martin county.

The contract to be let next month will cover the first section of the 15.9 mile highway. Broken into six different sections, the entire reconstruction will stretch from Auxier to the Inez bypass and will cost an estimated $23.1 million.

Construction contracts for the five remaining sections are tentatively scheduled for letting this fall and next spring.

South Prestonsburg Homemakers Meet

The South Prestonsburg Homemakers' Club met September 22 at the home of Mrs. Ora Bussey. The devotional was given by Mrs. Joyce Allen and the business session was conducted by Mrs. Karen Colvin, president. Program books for the coming year were filled in and Mrs. Drema Miller was welcomed as a new member. The program on garnishing food was presented with demonstrations by Karen Colvin and Frances Pitts.

A desert course was served by the hostess, Mrs. Ora Bussey, to Mesdames Carlos Haywood, Joyce Allen, Lois Ball, Karen Colvin, Vivian Fraley, Drema Miller, Theckley Short, and Frances Pitts.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Lois Ball, Monday evening, October 20.

Winter Heating Aid May Be Sought, Beginning Oct. 20

Applications for the first of three phases of the 1986-87 Home Energy Assistance Program (HEAP) will be taken statewide beginning Oct. 20.

HEAP, a federally funded program administered in Kentucky by the Department for Social Insurance, helps low-income families to pay the cost of electricity, gas, wood, oil, coal, bottled gas or other heating fuels.

"We estimate that during all three phases of this year's program, we will distribute approximately $18.9 million in assistance payments," said Social Insurance Commissioner Mike Robinson. "Applications will be accepted during each segment as long as funds are available."

Changes have been made during the second phase of this year's HEAP program by allocating funds to insure a fair distribution of benefits, Robinson said.

"Each area development district is allocated a certain portion of the HEAP funding based on the percentage of families in the district's counties who are living below the poverty level," he said. "This will allow for a fairer distribution of funds to meet the need statewide."

Applications from low-income households with at least one member who is 60 or older or is 100 percent disabled will be taken Oct. 20-31. All other low-income households may apply for benefits during the "subsidy," or second, segment of the program from Nov. 17 through Dec. 30.

The first two application phases will be processed at county offices of the Department for Social Insurance or at a location designated and announced locally by the department. Questions about HEAP applications should be directed to staff with the nearest Social Insurance office.

Again this year, the state's 24 regional community action agencies will take applications during the "crisis," or third, portion of the program, which begins Jan. 5.

Robinson said the department would reserve $6 million for the crisis segment of the program. From Jan. 5 through April 30, any eligible household either without heat, facing the loss of heating fuel within five days, facing disconnection by a utility or needing heating system repairs may receive benefits.

Eligible households facing a heating crisis also may receive blankets, space heaters, emergency fuel supplies or minor furnace repairs.

An additional step is being planned this year to alleviate problems which might occur late in the final segment. A reserve of $500,000 will be retained until March 15 to cover emergency situations in households without heat which might occur in the later stages of winter. Also, any funds left over from the subsidy segment would be added to the crisis segment.

Payments are expected to range between $100 and $160 during the first two HEAP segments. Crisis component benefits will be in the type and amount necessary to offset the crisis up to a maximum of $300.

Anyone who is unable to apply for HEAP aid in person because of illness or disability may designate someone else to make the application. In some special cases, other arrangements may be made through the local Social Insurance office.

Last year, more than 161,000 families received $20.5 million in HEAP payments.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY
OTC'S

Non-prescription medicines are, by legal definition, safe for consumer use without medical supervision. However, any medicine that is capable of causing changes in the body must be taken with care. Warnings now appear on many non-prescription medicines which say: "Keep this and all drugs out of the reach of children. In case of accidental overdose, seek professional assistance or contact your poison control center immediately." Many non-prescription medicines are sold in containers with safety closures which are difficult for children to open. In the first five years after safety closures were required (1972), the number of accidental deaths from aspirin overdose in children dropped by 76 percent.

Your pharmacist can help you select the best over-the-counter products to meet your particular needs. There are so many products available that making the best choice can be difficult without professional guidance. At COOLEY APOTHECARY we're here to answer your questions. You'll find us located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106 and open Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4. Master Charge and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments.

Most Farm Deaths Involve Tractors

"Seventy-six Kentucky farmers died in farm accidents last year, and that's 76 too many," said Agriculture Commissioner David E. Boswell. "The Kentucky Department of Agriculture strongly supports any safety efforts which will help bring that number down."

The National Farm Safety Week campaign this year, Sept. 21-27, asks farmers to be prepared for the unexpected.

"We are urging farmers to take just a few minutes before they start a job to consider the possible dangers that are part of it," said Larry Piercy, extension farm safety specialist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

As usual, tractors were at the root of many of the accidents and fatalities in Kentucky. In an 11-year study of 733 fatal farm accidents in Kentucky, 38 percent of the deaths involved tractors. Sixty percent of those were tractor overturns.

For this reason, those concerned with farm safety in Kentucky are strong advocates of rollover protection devices (ROPS).

"I don't know of any fatalities in Kentucky involving a tractor with ROPS," Piercy said.

"There are any number of excuses some farmers use to explain why they don't have ROPS on their tractors, but none of those excuses is good enough to

Myth and Reality Of U.S. West Explored

The myth and reality of the American West have come to color almost every aspect of American culture. "The West of the Imagination," a six-part series hosted by James Whitmore, premieres Sunday, October 19, at 10:00 p.m. on KET. The programs explore the American West as seen through the eyes of artists, photographers, filmmakers and entertainers. From George Catlin's early paintings of the vast uncharted western wilderness and Frederic Remington's heroic cowboys, to movie westerns and cowboy singers, the series traces how the region has been depicted and immortalized by popular artists.

The first episode, "The Romantic Horizon," follows the path of Lewis and Clark, revealing the new lands through the work of George Catlin and other explorer-artists. The second episode, "The Golden Land," captures the saga of the pioneers who rushed to claim the West as their own. The first photographs of the region and lithographs by Currier and Ives added to the allure of the West. "Images of Glory" traces the last Indian wars, the completion of the transcontinental railroad and the opening of Yellowstone Park. Artists document the beginning of the end of "the Wild West."

One of the most popular symbols of the West—the cowboy—is the subject of "The Wild Riders. The contrast in style of Frederic Remington and Charley Russell, the two artists largely responsible for immortalizing this American hero, is the focus of this episode. The final two episodes conclude that despite wars, depression, and social upheavals, the West has retained its legendary image as a land of freedom and possibility.

"The West of the Imagination" is a presentation of KERA/Dallas, Ft. Worth, Denton in association with Independent Communications Associates of Los Angeles and London.

bet your life on," Piercy added.

The safety week theme applies in all other areas of farming as well as tractor use.

"The slogan 'be prepared for the unexpected' is basically telling us to spend some time thinking about how something can go wrong rather than assuming it will go right," Commissioner Boswell said.

"We need to farm defensively in the same way that people drive defensively," he added.

Boswell went on to point out that rural roads call for as much or more defensive driving as city roads do.

"Rural roads are great places for the unexpected," he said. "You could come upon farm equipment going slowly, a loose animal, children playing or other obstacles. And, if the road is narrow or windy, that only makes things worse."

Boswell also pointed out that harvest time is often especially dangerous on the farm. People are using machinery which they may not have used since the previous harvest, or inexperienced workers may be operating the equipment.

The National Safety Council has provided additional safety reminders of importance to farmers. Some of them are as follows:

Keep all shielding in place while operating equipment. Remember that the one who removes the shield isn't always the one caught in the unguarded shaft. Often, the person caught is the farm wife or children.

Turn off the power before unclogging machinery or dealing with operating problems.

Keep extra riders off of and away from vehicles.

Take work breaks with refreshments to reduce fatigue.

Remember that toxic gases from silos, manure pits or chemicals may be life-threatening.

Always wear your safety belt. Stop hazards before they start by doing preventative maintenance.

Teach children to swim or at least float.

Install smoke detectors and fire extinguishers.

Mathias Harman and Harman's Station

By A.G. SPENCER

The founding of Harman's Station in 1790, near the airport just over into what is now Johnson county, marked the first recorded establishment of a settlement in Eastern Kentucky. The road leading to this effort at colonizing "the dark and bloody ground," as Kentucky was referred to by Indians and settlers alike, was an arduous one, however, with as many twists and turns in its plot as the Big Sandy River around which it revolves. The first member of the Harman clan to move to the colonies was Prussian-born Heinrich Adam Herman, whose name was later anglicized to Harman (now spelled H-a-r-m-a-n by most of his descendants). Heinrich settled near Strasburg, Virginia, where his son, Mathias, was born in 1732. Although all of the Harmans were frontiersmen, Mathias became the leader in his family in this regard, often displaying a restlessness to seek out new territories, never to settle in one place too long.

Mathias Harman was an odd figure of a man to behold. No taller than five feet in height and weighing no more than 120 pounds, his thin face was kept from being nondescript by piercing blue eyes and an enormous, hawk-like nose which would have rivaled that of Cyrano de Bergerac. Likewise, his unruly mop of blondish hair was coveted by many Indian warriors.

That his diminutive and unusual appearance caused him to be the subject of many jokes seemed to only spur Mathias on to great acts of bravery. Some of those acts might even be labeled foolhardy. Perhaps his boisterous acts of bravado and daring-do were part of an effort to overcompensate for his slight physical stature, kind of a Napoleonic complex, if you please. To be sure, he could out-drink many larger men. Indeed, his fondness for corn liquor was nearly his undoing on more than one occasion.

One of the most notable of these incidents occurred when a small party of men, led by Harman, returned from a scouting expedition to an inhabited area on Walker's Creek in the border country between Virginia and what is now Kentucky. After proceeding to "tie one on," two members of the group wandered outside to gather firewood, whereupon they were attacked by marauding Indians. One was mortally wounded, the other fellow scalped but left alive. The natives withdrew as quickly as they had come.

After seeing to his companions, a greatly infuriated and similarly inebriated Mathias Harman mounted his horse and went tearing through the woods, brandishing his rifle and shouting taunts and threats to the attackers in an attempt to get them to come forth and fight. No doubt he would have been set upon and swiftly dispatched had he been anyone else, but the hiding savages recognized their antagonist as the one they called "Short Devil with the Big Nose." They held the fierce Mathias in such abject fear that they would usually avoid engaging him in face-to-face combat, though for decades they used every ruse and tactic known to them in repeated attempts to kill or capture him.

Regardless of what else might be said of him, Mathias Harman was without question an inquisitive, pioneering sort and a natural leader of men. By the time he had reached his early twenties, Mathias had traveled not only the border country west of Virginia, but had also roamed through the mountains and along the rivers of the Allegheny Mountains, traversed much of the Appalachian chain, and had even made forays along the shores of the Mississippi River on several occasions. Moreover, men looked to him for leadership and advice, even on expeditions which he did not lead but merely traveled with, such as the Sandy Creek voyage with Captain Lewis in 1756.

Mathias Harman was in this part of eastern Kentucky even earlier, though. Records indicate that he built a hunting lodge in a section of bottom land near the mouth of Johns Creek in 1755. This cabin served as shelter during annual hunting trips made by himself, his father and their friends for a quarter of a century.

To put this into proper historical perspective, one must realize that most historians do not credit Daniel Boone with coming into the area until at least 1765. In fact, Mathias Harman and his band of self-proclaimed long hunters stumbled across Boone in 1769 during an extended encampment near Monticello in the present Wayne county. Just to illustrate the loneliness and isolation that the early explorers endured, Boone was lying on his back singing to himself when they came upon him. Apparently, he was doing this despite the ever-present Indian risk just because he was lonesome for the sound of a human voice.

Historians differ as to the exact date, but Harman's Station was probably built in either the winter of 1789 or the spring of 1790. Mathias selected the site because he had long been enamored of the beauty of the tract of land called the Louisa Valley, especially at the mouth of John's Creek near his old hunting lodge. Moreover, the spot was one of the largest and most open tracts of flat land in the region, land for growing crops and expanding a settlement.

The location argued for security, also. It was open enough terrain to make an attack from concealment fairly difficult for the Indians to accomplish. If an assault simply became too intense, the settlers had only to flee up the reaches of John's Creek. The spot was also supposed to have been chosen for its being off the well-beaten warpath extending from the Ohio River to southwest Virginia. Again, historians differ on this point, with many claiming that Harman's Station was deliberately constructed right in the middle of a warpath, and that Mathias Harman placed it there out of sheer cussedness and love of battle. Regardless, Harman had help in establishing his settlement. By all accounts, the hardy troupe of settlers included Henry, Adam and Daniel Harman; James and Henry Skaggs; Robert Hawes and ancestors of the Horns and the Leeks.

Indians burned Mathias and his party out of their buildings three separate times before the former were able to complete their stockade. Once all was finished, however, the fort must have been quite impressive. Eastern Kentucky historian William E. Connelly rendered the following:

"The site selected for the fort was almost half a mile below the mouth of John's Creek and about one hundred yards back from the east bank of the Louisa River. The fort was built on the plan common to the forts in frontier settlements. It was about twenty feet square and two stories in height. The upper story projected beyond the walls of the lower story about two feet on every side and this extra space was floored with heavy timbers in which loop holes were cut through which to fire down upon besieging Indians should they ever come to such close quarters. The walls of both stories were provided with openings through which to fire upon a foe. The door or gate was made of split oak timbers six inches in thickness. It was hung upon strong wooden hinges made by the hunters, opened inwards, and was secured by an immense beam of oak. The roof sloped up from each of the four sides of the fort to a point in the center, and was made of thick slabs of white oak timber pinned to the log ribs or rafters with long wooden pins or pegs driven into holes bored with an augur (sic). A small stream flowed from the hills back of the bottom and passed close by the fort, and upon it the settlers relied for water. The timber about the fort was cut off close to the ground and burned back the full space of rifle range. This was done to deprive the Indians of cover should they ever besiege the fort."

It was a good thing that the fort was so well thought out, because it was under intermittent siege by the same band of Indians who had abducted Jenny Wiley, sometimes for as long as three weeks in a row. Indeed, her fate was closely allied to Mathias Harman, his followers and Harman's Station. We'll pick up with this interwoven saga of Jenny Wiley in next week's column.

Law Protects Medicaid Nursing Home Patients

By DAVID L. ARMSTRONG, Attorney General

The population of most Kentucky nursing homes and other long-term care facilities is made up of both "private-pay" and Medicaid patients. Private-pay patients pay for the cost of their own care, while the care provided to Medicaid eligible patients is covered by the Kentucky Medicaid program.

Medicaid patients have frequently in the past had more difficulty in finding available nursing home beds than have private-pay patients. The chief reason for this is associated with the fact that nursing homes are able to charge private pay patients more than they charge Medicaid. As a result, some facilities have given preference to admitting private-pay patients over Medicaid patients. Compounding the problem is the fact that due to funding limitations, the number of certified beds—those beds eligible for Medicaid reimbursement—throughout Kentucky is limited by state regulation.

In the past, some Medicaid patients found that even if a Medicaid certified bed was available, they might not be able to occupy it because the nursing home might be reserving it for a private-pay patient. And sometimes private-pay patients found themselves having to leave a facility after their funds were exhausted and they had to go on Medicaid.

To remedy these problems, the 1986 Kentucky Legislature enacted legislation to end these practices against Medicaid recipients and to ensure that all long-term facilities provide access to both Medicaid and non-Medicaid patients on an equal basis.

As a result of the new law, long-term facilities can no longer deny a patient admission simply because the patient is a Medicaid recipient. In addition, if a private-pay patient and a Medicaid patient are on a facility's waiting list and a certified bed becomes available, the facility cannot admit the private-pay patient over the Medicaid patient solely because that patient is on Medicaid.

The new law also protects the private-pay patients in non-certified beds who become eligible for Medicaid after entering a facility. Nursing homes are prohibited from removing a patient from the bed unless he or she or their custodian or caretaker is informed in writing that the patient is being admitted to a bed that is not Medicaid-certified. In other words, while a facility is under no obligation to admit a Medicaid recipient to a non-certified bed, if the facility does allow a Medicaid patient to occupy a non-certified bed, they cannot require the patient to leave unless the patient or their responsible party knows at the time of admittance that the bed is not Medicaid-certified.

The law also protects Medicaid patients who occupy certified beds by prohibiting facilities from decertifying a bed occupied by a current Medicaid patient or a patient who has applied for Medicaid eligibility.

The law protects Medicaid nursing home residents. While the majority of Medicaid providers are serving the patients' best interests, there have unfortunately been some in the past which have not. Thanks to this important legislation, Kentucky's Medicaid recipients are entitled to fair and equal treatment in gaining access to the long-term care they so often need.

Emergency Room Has Open House

People from around the area attended the Emergency Room open House at Highlands Regional Medical Center last Thursday. Activities included tours of the emergency room, CPR demonstrations, free blood pressure testing and instruction in the Heimlich Maneuver.

HRMC's Emergency Department was moved into the 'new' addition of the hospital and expanded two years ago. The emergency room has ten beds, four of which are in specialty rooms. These specialty rooms are for cardiac, trauma, fracture and obstetric and gynecologic patients. Highlands was one of the first hospitals in the area to have a physician in the emergency room 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

ER Head Nurse Oma Elkins, who has worked in the emergency room for five years, felt pleased with the response to the open house.

"No one ever plans for an emergency," she commented, "so when one happens you get frightened and are unsure of what to do. Attending an ER open house gives you a better idea of what to expect in an emergency so you will know how to react."

Carol Blevins, Public Information Officer at Highlands added, "Whenever we conduct a tour of the hospital we always go through the emergency room. We feel it's important, especially, with small children, to at least show them the emergency room, so they will know a little more about what to expect if they are ever brought into one."

The Public Information Office at Highlands has prepared a brochure explaining "What to do in a Medical Emergency" and a phone sticker with emergency phone numbers for Pike, Floyd, Johnson, Martin and Magoffin counties. If you would like to receive one of these brochures and a sticker for your county call Carol Blevins at 886-8511 or 789-6548.

Alcohol Focus Of Safety Plan

Alcohol countermeasures will be the primary focus of the 1987 Kentucky Highway Safety Plan which is administered by the Kentucky State Police Highway Safety Standards Branch.

Nearly $1,279,000 from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration will go towards alcohol countermeasures in the federal fiscal year running from Oct. 1, 1986 to Sept. 30, 1987. Most of that federal funding will be used in Traffic Alcohol Projects commonly referred to as "TAP". The money will fund continuation of these projects which involve the KSP and nine local police agencies.

Although the number of alcohol-related crashes has decreased in Kentucky from 10,899 in 1981 to 7,744 in 1985, a 29 percent decrease, emphasis in this area must continue says KSP Commissioner Morgan T. Elkins. "Our efforts have been received in a positive manner by the public and we have made an impact. But if we changed the emphasis now, the public would perceive that the problem has been solved. We must continue to deter drunk driving."

Other alcohol countermeasures included in the plan are Project Graduation, a program co-sponsored by the KSP and the state Department of Education to inform high school students about alternatives to drinking during their graduation activities, proms and senior trips; and a continuation of statewide public information and education concerning drunk driving.

In addition to alcohol enforcement activities, programs relating to safety belt and child safety seat issues and increased enforcement of the 55 MPH speed limit will be funded.

Safety belt public information and education materials will continue to be produced and distributed statewide, and a safety belt "convincer" and a vehicle will be purchased to demonstrate the importance of wearing safety belts. A Kentucky State Employees Safety Belt Usage Emphasis Effort will be continued by the state Cabinet for Human Resources. Federal funding in this area will total $55,000.

Approximately 300 child safety seats will be purchased for distribution to various child restraint loaner programs and loaner program training workshops will be conducted across the state with $46,000 in federal funding.

Monies have been provided for increased speed enforcement in 42 counties. The enforcement will take place in rural areas where the KSP is the primary enforcement agency. The KSP will receive $306,000 in federal funding for the increased patrols on roads in these designated counties where speed-related accidents occur.

In addition, moving radars will be purchased with a 50-50 state and federal match.

Kentucky's 1987 Highway Safety Plan will also receive $742,850 from the Federal Highway Administration. These funds will be used for analysis of traffic records to identify accident locations; a project for establishing "No Passing Zones" on the state's road system; a training workshop on geometric design and funding to purchase warning and regulatory traffic signs for up to 61 cities throughout Kentucky.

P-burg Wins Overall Academic Conference

The Eastern Kentucky Academic Conference got off to a good start again this year with the first competition of the season held at Pikeville College, Thursday, September 18. The conference has seven new members this year: Allen Central, Dorton, Johnson Central, Magoffin County, Mullins, Paintsville, and Phelps High Schools. Three schools, Elkhorn City, McDowell, and Wheelwright High Schools, dropped out of competition in the conference this year. This leaves the conference with 14 active members.

In addition to the new members, the old members returning are Belfry, Feds Creek, Johns Creek, Pikeville, Prestonsburg, Sheldon Clark, and Virgie High Schools.

The Eastern Kentucky Academic Conference conducts written competition in the areas of math, social science, science, and language arts. Schools also compete in oral quick recall competition.

In the first meet of the new season, Prestonsburg took overall honors in the written competition with 23.50 points; Pikeville was second with 19.25 points; Phelps came in third with 16.75 points; and Sheldon Clark placed fourth with 16.25 points.

Prestonsburg took first place in math with seven points; Virgie was second with six; Feds Creek placed third with five and Sheldon Clark came in fourth with four points.

Individual honors went to Tony Skeans, of Prestonsburg, first; Greg Bentley, of Virgie, second; Chris Blair, of Feds Creek, third; Anita Dalton, of Sheldon Clark, fourth.

Phelps took first place in social science with seven points; Johns Creek and Sheldon Clark tied for second with 5.50 points each, and Feds Creek took fourth place with four points.

Individual honors went to Kelly Dale, of Phelps, in first place; Rebecca Ward, of Johns Creek, and Robert Baldwin, of Sheldon Clark, tied for second, and Curtis Sizemore of Feds Creek placed fourth.

Prestonsburg was first place winner in the science competition with a total of 10.50 points; Pikeville placed second with 5.50 points.

Individual honors went to Chris Croot, of Prestonsburg, in first place; Eliot Ward, of Pikeville, and David Spiggle, of Prestonsburg, tied for second, and Mike Rosenberg, of Prestonsburg, placed fourth.

Pikeville took first place in the Humanities/Language Arts competition with 7.75 total points; Paintsville placed second with 6; and Johns Creek, Phelps, and Sheldon Clark tied for third place with 3.75 points each.

Individual honors went to Jesse Bagley, of Pikeville, in first place; Pam Marsha, of Paintsville, was second, and Mike Ramey, of Pikeville, Mandy Hammond, of Sheldon Clark, Kelly Dale, of Phelps, and Becky Walker, of Johns Creek, tied for third place.

After the first meet, in a double round robin season competition, Prestonsburg is leading in quick-recall competition with a record of four wins and no losses. Close behind in second place is Johns Creek and Virgie with a record of three wins and no losses. Belfry, Pikeville, and Sheldon Clark are tied for fourth place with three wins and one loss each.

Layne Tackett, Commissioner of the EKAC, stated that: "the conference is off to an excellent start and we are looking forward to a new season of academic competition. We are hopeful that the experience gained in conference competition will again this year, provide the impetus for a school from within the conference to win the Governor's Cup in State Competition."

Zachary Taylor was the first career soldier to rise to the Presidency without having held any other civil post.

Filing Penalties Charged On Information Returns

Nationwide, notices are being mailed to taxpayers who are subject to the $50 per annum penalty for filing Tax Year 1985 information returns improperly, the Internal Revenue Service announced.

The notices are sent to taxpayers required to file information returns with IRS to report amounts paid to others such as dividends, interest, commissions and pensions. These returns also are required to report other transactions which affect another person's income tax returns.

According to IRS, many of the notices explain that penalties have been charged for failure to file the returns timely and/or failure to file returns on magnetic media. For most types of returns the penalty is $50 with a maximum penalty of $50,000. However, for returns reporting interest, dividends, patronage dividends and original issue discount the penalty is $50 per return with no maximum penalty.

The notices explain that the taxpayer can request removal of the penalty by demonstrating due diligence in attempting to meet the filing requirements. The due diligence exception applies to returns reporting interest, dividends, patronage dividends and original issue discount. For other returns, the taxpayer must show reasonable cause for removing the penalty, such as for unusual circumstances.

If the taxpayer has filed information returns which cannot be processed and did not correctly resubmit the returns after receiving a letter from the IRS, the notices will instruct the taxpayer to submit the returns correctly to avoid the $50 per return penalty or explain why the penalty should not be charged.

The IRS says the main objective of the penalty program is to get information return filers to report correctly as required by law. Answers to any specific questions about information return filing may be obtained by calling IRS toll-free at 1-800-424-1040.

A Proposal For Internal Passports

One of the most effective techniques developed by authoritarian governments for controlling their subjects has been the "internal passport" or personal ID card. Most of us are accustomed to carry one or more ID cards, granting access to the factory or the campus or the club. Such ID cards serve a useful and limited purpose. But the ID card issued and controlled by the state is another matter.

The ID card issued and controlled by the state is a way of crippling the person's natural rights and limiting his historic liberties. Originally it was developed by tsarist Russia as a way of controlling subjects grown restless from economic exploitation and brutalization by the secret police. At that time no other European government had passports, either internal or external, although kings had for long issued letters patent to members of the nobility for special purposes (including safe travel).

In 1914 a subject of the German Emperor travelled to the United States and spent several weeks visiting relatives among American citizens. He travelled and returned home without having to bother with a passport.

One of the purposes of the passports, both internal and external, has been to identify and isolate "second-class citizens." (In countries under despots or dictators it is more accurate to refer to "subjects" rather than "citizens!") In tsarist Russia this was especially true of the Jews. And in Nazi Germany the same thing was true. In fact, one of the scandals in today's debates about the Holocaust is the fact that a number of countries—including France and Switzerland—cooperated with the Third Reich in seeing to it that the "J" was stamped in Jewish passports.

Here too the Soviets have carried on the tsarist imperial tradition, stamping the "J" in the passports of Jewish subjects to this day. And under the Afrikaner government in South Africa, one of the measures most resented by the blacks has been the requirement that the internal passport be carried at all times, under penalty of fine and imprisonment.

In the massive tax "reform" bill now before the Senate and the House, little noticed in the midst of the universal confusion, is the plan for an "internal passport."

If the bill is passed by Congress as it presently reads, every child of five years and over will be entered into the computer in Washington, D.C. After that will come the dossier, added to the millions already in the files, and after that will come the internal passport for all subjects.

The argument being made is that there are millions of dependents being claimed on Income Tax returns where in fact none exist. The bureaucratic answer, instead of enforcing the existing law, is to set up a massive new control system. The control system is scheduled to be in place by 1988.

Since the Internal Revenue Service is already the rogue cannon among Federal agencies, with an appalling record of harassment of churches and colleges, this development can only be considered most ominous.

Of course the data will be shared with other agencies of government. Past experience has shown that this is common as the dossier system is built up, and even Congressional enactments specifically forbidding such disclosure have proved no impediment to the power-hunger of bureaucrats in government agencies.

It is tempting to speculate at what point in our recent history the American ideal of limited government and maximum individual freedom was displaced by visions of close control of the populace. That put aside, we must still be aware that the slide from citizen to subject is wide open. Dr. Franklin H. Littell, The Hamelin Institute, POB 2147, Phila PA. 19103.

ON HIS WAY: Quarterback Cliff Miller hands off to Johnny Ray Harris in action Friday night against Wheelwright. Harris, when Prestonsburg got close, was the Blackcats' man of the hour.

Impressive Defense Ends Blackcat Losing Streak

During the first four games of this football season Prestonsburg High School had been repeatedly hurt by turnovers and big plays surrendered which proved to be a major factor why the young Blackcats suffered with an 0-4 record but what had been Prestonsburg's biggest enemies turned out to be their allies Friday night.

On the strength of an opportunistic defense, which limited the Wheelwright Trojans to a total of 69 yards while forcing three turnovers, the Prestonsburg Blackcats gave Coach Chuke Williams his first victory of the season, a 20-6 win over Wheelwright.

"It wasn't pretty but we'll take it," Coach Williams said after the game. "Our kids just hung in there and won the thing."

The Trojan contest started in much the same fashion as has Prestonsburg's previous four games when the Blackcats were forced to punt after failing to convert a third down try from their own 44 yard line.

A simple punting chore turned into near disaster for Prestonsburg when the snap sailed high. When the football was finally retrieved Wheelwright accepted possession on their own 17 but thanks to a strong Blackcat defense, the Trojans failed to gain anything when their four downs concluded.

Turnovers came back to haunt Prestonsburg, however, before they could improve their unenviable field position.

A mere three plays after the Prestonsburg defense avoided a golden Trojan scoring opportunity, the Prestonsburg offense placed them in another difficult position, a position the defense couldn't control twice in less than three minutes.

The Blackcats, after taking over on their 17, experienced difficulty with their center to quarterback exchange, losing the pigskin to Handy Jackson and Wheelwright on the Trojan 14 yard line.

On a second down and seven from the Wheelwright 11 Tony Hutton made Prestonsburg pay for their turnover with a touchdown run with 5:35 remaining in the first quarter.

Hutton's scoring run gave the Trojans an early lead but unfortunately for Wheelwright, this first quarter score was the first and last for the visiting Trojans.

From this point in the contest the Prestonsburg defense took control of Friday's game, allowing Wheelwright to enter Blackcat territory only twice, once to the Prestonsburg 49 just before halftime and another time at the start of the second half when the Blackcat kickoff coverage team was penalized for a late hit which moved the Trojans across midfield to the Blackcat 47.

"Our defense played real well," Coach Williams praised. "Johnny Ray and our down lineman and linebackers played a super game."

Not only did Johnny Ray Harris play a solid defensive game but the small, in stature, Blackcat running back scored all three Prestonsburg touchdowns.

Harris' first score came with 1:19 to go in the first quarter when he carried the pigskin to paydirt from five yards out.

The initial touchdown was set up on a 48 yard Doug Holbrook sprint, moving Prestonsburg deep into enemy territory at the Wheelwright five and from there Harris found paydirt on the next play.

Harris scored another first half touchdown, this time on a one yard run. The Blackcat score came after a blocked punt which Prestonsburg laid claim to on the 10 yard line.

The final Harris and Prestonsburg touchdown was also set up by a blocked Trojan punt attempt. The tough running Blackcat back found paydirt with 1:15 showing on the game clock on a one yard run after Prestonsburg took possession on the Wheelwright 20 yard line.

Harris finished the contest with 50 rushing yards on 16 carries while Doug Holbrook led Prestonsburg with a total of 63 yards.

With the win Prestonsburg captures their first of such for the season and Coach Williams hopes this is the one that will build a fire under his young squad.

"Our intensity will hopefully pick up in practice and we'll work harder and maybe that will carry over into our next game," Williams said.

The Wheelwright Trojans, with the loss, dip below the .500 mark with a 2-3 record but did experience the return, in full force, of John Justice. The senior lineman proved to be one of the lone bright spots in a disappointing loss for Coach Roger Johnson's Trojans.

Justice was consistently in the Prestonsburg backfield, throwing a cog into the Blackcat offensive wheel, but it was Prestonsburg's defense and special teams play that told the final story.

The three interceptions and two blocked punts were too timely and devastating for Wheelwright to overcome.

Morehead State Enjoying Record Setting Season

Not that long ago the Morehead State University football program was engulfed in turmoil. School officials were entertaining thoughts of dropping from Division I AA competition to Division 2 while many others thought the school should drop football all together.

But now those same people are enjoying a record setting season and the talk of forgetting football isn't heard any where around Morehead, Ky.

Morehead State scored on four of their five first half possessions in route to a 33-10 thrashing of Kentucky State Saturday night in Morehead.

With this win MSU improves their season record to 4-0 and with earlier upsets of Marshall and Wichita State the Eagles have earned a top ten national ranking.

Morehead State's victory over Kentucky State also signified their 190th win since football began at the school in 1927.

Pride in their football program is something MSU students have never shown but the Eagles, up until this season, never gave students anything to be proud of.

Morehead State has had but two winning seasons from 1971 to 1985, 6-5 under head coach Roy Terry in '73, and 5-4-1 with Tom Lichtenberg at the helm six years ago. But now the Eagles have created excitement in a program which repeatedly denied the death penalty.

Behind an explosive offense led by quarterback Adrian Breen and a tough defense the Eagles have gotten off to their best start in 22 years. MSU won five games to start 1984 but turned around and lost their last four.

This isn't expected to happen to this year's Eagles unless they are struck by a harsh wave of injuries. Morehead doesn't boast any all-Americans but they do have talented athletes who are currently putting their total game together.

At their current pace the Eagles and head coach Bill Baldrige will re-write the MSU football record books with their winning success and high scoring offense.

The most victories ever recorded by a Morehead State football team in a single season was seven, the '86 Eagles have an excellent opportunity to surpass this record.

Also, MSU is on schedule to break the season scoring mark created by the 1984 squad, which tallied a total of 281 points. The '86 Eagles have already scored 14 points in only four games.

Last Saturday Morehead State came back from a 32 point halftime deficit to down Wichita State, the biggest comeback ever concerning a division I school.

Until this season's winning streak the only claim to fame Morehead football had was the New York Giants Phil Simms but now the Eagles have a legitimate, quality team to brag about. A new confidence surrounds MSU football now, a confidence that could lead the Eagles to even bigger and better things than just a good start.

With their success MSU is looking forward to Ohio Valley Conference competition and now the Eagles think they have a chance to win a conference title.

The last time that happened Morehead boasted a defensive tackle who loved to terrorize opposing backfields and for his efforts Bill Baldrige received all-OVC honors and a conference championship.

Most of Morehead's players weren't even born then. Eagle offensive coordinator Fred Mariani was 14 and defensive coordinator Matt Ballard was all of nine years old.

In 1966 Morehead State University won their only outright conference title ever, the same year Morehead changed from a college to a university.

1966 was a big year in the history of Morehead football and education and people surrounding the school are hoping history repeats itself.

The Eagles will receive a well deserved rest this Saturday but the following week they will open conference action with a home game scheduled against Austin Peay.

Grant Will Expand Allen Golf Course

County golfers, who lost three holes of their nine-hole course at Allen when the county park was built there a few years ago, are going to have the three missing holes restored and the whole course upgraded.

Final approval has been given to a $32,346 Land and Water Conservation Grant for the restoration project, aides to Sens. Mitch McConnell and Wendell Ford rushed to announce last week. The county is to match the federal funds in a like amount, for a total of $64,692.

Three holes of the course were taken for the present parking lot, tennis courts, and two ballfields. A new area will be developed to restore the holes and all nine holes will have grass greens instead of the existing sand greens, said Janet Tackett, who coordinated the grant application for the county.

THE SPORTING TIMES

After desperately clinging to a fast fleeting hope for their beloved Reds' even the most optimistic Cincinnati fan has to let go of any hope for a Queen City playoff appearance.

Having faith when your team faces a difficult situation makes for a good fan but the law of mathematics now says that Cincinnati's chances to win a division championship is impossible.

The Houston Astros made the impossibility a reality when they defeated San Francisco 2-0 Thursday. The Astros clinched their division in classic Houston style with solid defense, strong pitching and timely hitting.

All during the season Houston has counted heavily on their strong pitching staff anchored by Mike Scott, Nolan Ryan, and Charlie Kerfeld.

Thanks to their consistent pitching performances the Astros managed to capture the organization's second division title.

This year's version of the Houston Astros could very well be termed as a throw back to baseball's yesteryears when a team could win with fundamentally sound players who didn't concern themselves with personal numbers and high salaries.

Houston will put their team oriented play to the test starting October 8 when the National League championship series begins in the Astrodome.

Playing in the Astrodome gives Houston a big advantage in opening the series on a positive note. The Astros is tailor made for the Dome because they rely so heavily on their pitching and defense.

Always known as a difficult place to hit the long ball, the Astrodome could very well limit the home run ability of Eastern Division champion New York. The Mets thrive on the power of Daryl Strawberry and Gary Carter.

With Wally Backman and Len Dykstra getting on base with an incredible frequency Strawberry and Carter, along with Keith Hernandez have rolled up some impressive numbers. The Astro pitching staff will have a tough time holding New York in offensive check.

Although Houston's staff has some tough hurlers, probably the strength of this team, they don't have the talent to match New York's staff in a seven game series.

The biggest thing about the Mets' pitching corps is not their 90 plus mph fastballs but what separates this staff from other great ones in the history of the game is the various weapons available for Davey Johnson.

New York will probably go with a four man rotation of Dwight Gooden, Sid Fernandez, Ron Darling, and Bob Ojeda and possibly in this order. The unique thing about this rotation is that Houston will be seeing the baseball thrown from different sides each game. Gooden and Darling are hard throwing righthanders while Fernandez and Ojeda not only complement them from the left side, but the latter two throw a great deal of off speed stuff.

Also, with this pitching set up the Mets will have available Rick Aguilera for long relief while Roger McDowell, from the right side, and Jesse Orosco, from the left side, are virtually unhittable in short relief.

Houston has had a dream season that others only hope for but without a lot of big breaks their second season could quickly turn into a nightmare.

The series will pit one team, Houston, who plays baseball the old fashioned way, the way its taught in little league, while the other boys depend solely on their dominating ability.

Houston plays fundamental baseball with few mistakes and missed opportunities but the Mets super fire power may prove to be devastating for the Astros' chances.

The Cinderella sports story of 1986 could, if they play the perfect series, send New York home but don't expect it. The Mets are the best baseball team of this year so expect Houston to fall in six with most of the games being close.

Over in the American League everything seems to be set for a California-Boston championship series and who would have expected it back in April.

In looking over the Red Sox roster it isn't any surprise to learn that Boston was one of only two American League teams which scored 100 or more runs than they gave up.

With Jim Rice, Tony Armas, and Wade Boggs around Boston has never worried about scoring runs and with the addition of DH Don Baylor the offense output increased dramatically.

The only question surrounding the Red Sox of 1986 was their pitching but Roger Clemmons and company answered those questions in fine fashion.

Clemmons, 24-3, is a leading candidate for the American League MVP and Cy Young award winner. Clemmons received pitching help from lefty Bruce Hurst, 13-7, Oil Can Boyd, and veteran Tom Seaver.

Boston has probably the best run producing crew and pitching staff in the American League but their defense is questionable, something the California Angels hope to take advantage of.

California, the other team to score 100 or more runs than they have given up, has some definite firepower of their own.

Father Time was once again eluded by the Angels and veterans such as Doug DeCinces, Brian Downing, Bobby Grich, and Don Sutton experienced tremendous success.

Combine these near immortal names with those of youngsters Wally Joyner and Dick Schofield and you have a winning mixture of experience and enthusiasm.

California pitching will have a tough time holding back a dangerous Boston lumber company and the Angels do not have that caliber of run producing personnel.

If Boston can catch a ground ball come October 7 then Clemmons' command will tell the final tale in this championship series.

Like Houston, California will have to play the perfect series if they are to advance but once again the possibility is slim. The Red Sox will more than likely take care of California in five but no one knows for sure, that is why they play the games on the field, to make sure who will win and to entertain us with their baseball ability and sometimes lack of it.

Regardless of who wins these league series no one can say that any of the teams didn't deserve to be there. By winning their respective divisions well in front of the pack Houston, New York, Boston, and California proved they are baseball's best four teams. Coming October 18 baseball's two best teams will go head to head to prove who is truly number one.

Bobcats Survive Defensive Struggle Shut Out Knott Central Patriots With 7-0 Victory, Friday Night

Behind a strong defense spear headed by linebacker Joey Cecil the Betsy Layne Bobcats kept their winning streak alive with a 7-0 victory over Knott County Central Friday night.

From his linebacker position the 5-10 230 pound Cecil made his presence known on just about every Patriot play from scrimmage, rolling up a total of 14 tackles, nine solos and five assists.

"We had a good defensive game," Coach Jack Hall said. "Joey Cecil was named our player of the week from his defensive position. Joey isn't a flashy player but he will impress you because he is a consistent player."

Betsy Layne scored the only points they would need to defeat a strong Knott Central team in the first quarter when halfback Todd Sturgill sprinted into the end zone from eight yards out.

Sturgill's scoring run came after the Bobcats moved the pigskin 52 yards in their initial drive of the night. During their flight to paydirt Betsy Layne was aided greatly with two Bud Newsome completions.

Newsome connected with fullback Keith Hall for an 18 yard gain and also hit end Matt Conn with a 17 yard gainer as the senior quarterback directed his Bobcats down the field, setting the stage for Sturgill's scoring run.

Through the air Betsy Layne receivers caught six of 11 Bud Newsome passes for 76 yards as the strong armed southpaw continues to be one of this area's highest rated passers.

Touchdown scorer Todd Sturgill led

Betsy Layne in rushing with 52 yards on nine carries while Kenton Nunemaker finished second with 25 yards.

With the victory Betsy Layne improved to 4-1, including four consecutive wins after losing their season opener.

This season's success hasn't come as a great surprise to Bobcat supporters but for Coach Hall his team's record wasn't exactly expected.

"I didn't expect to be 4-1," Coach Hall admitted. "I figured a 3-2 record would have been pretty good for us at this stage of the season."

"The kids have surprised me, especially with their defense," Hall continued. "The defense has improved each week and right now their playing good football."

Betsy Layne puts their impressive record on the line this Friday when they travel to Elkhorn City in a homecoming of sorts for Bobcat mentor Jack Hall.

Hall was the head man in Elkhorn City two years ago before taking over at Betsy Layne. In two separate stints at the Pike County school, Coach Hall built a strong program during his 13 total coaching seasons.

Now the second year Bobcat coach finds himself going head to head with his former school and Coach Hall has plenty of respect for the Elkhorn City football program.

"Elkhorn City is a tough group and they have a good defense too," Coach Hall praised. "They held Pikeville to seven points and lost 7-6 so they have to be pretty tough."

Green Bay Packer defensive back Tim Lewis announced Thursday that he has decided to call a halt to his professional football career.

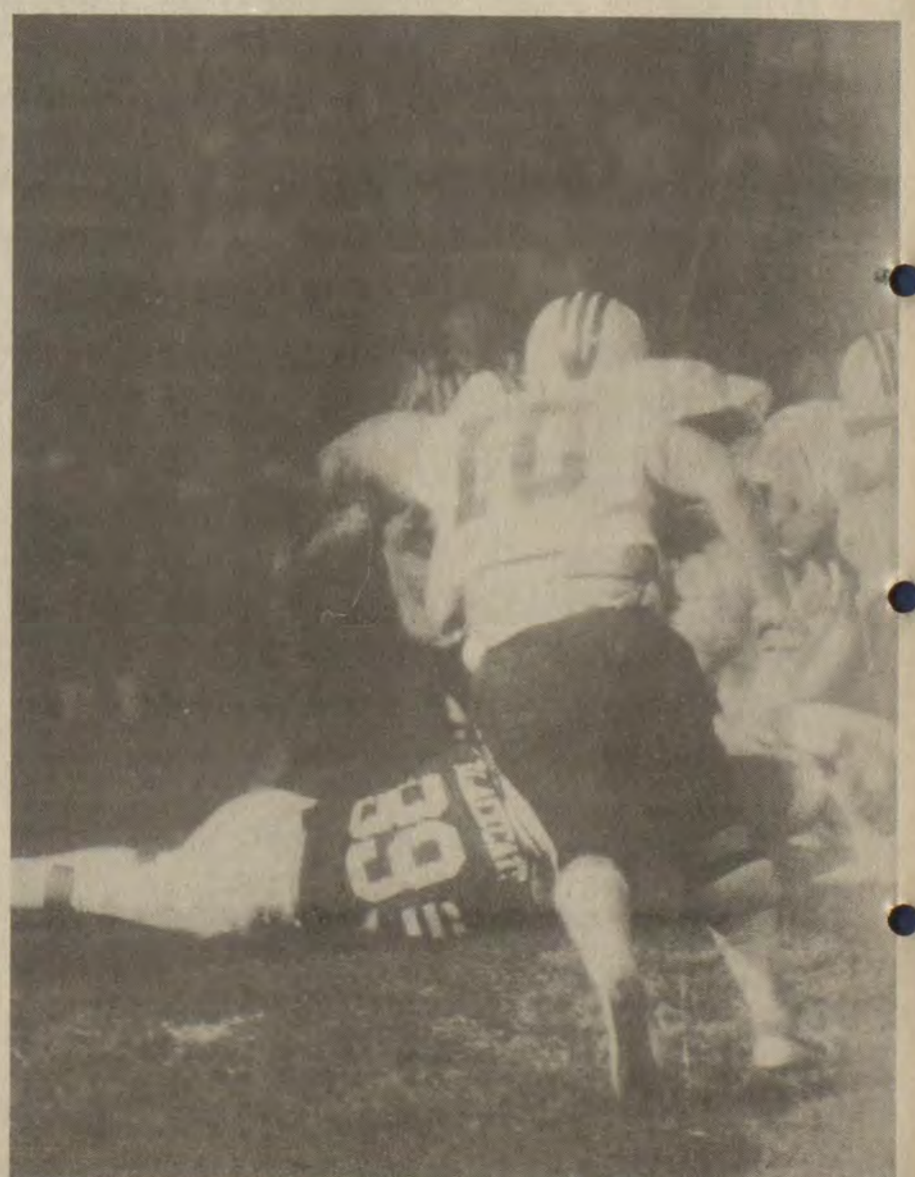

Lewis was temporarily paralyzed in last Monday's contest with Chicago after the corner back collided with a Bears' receiver.

Even though Lewis recovered from the incident, doctors told the Packers leading interceptor of a year ago that another neck injury of the same nature could leave him permanently paralyzed.

Lewis took the warning seriously and decided against taking a life altering chance.

News And Notes From The NFL

After three not so terrific football games against lesser competition people had began to question the Chicago Bears and their chances to repeat as super bowl champions, but this week the Bears answered all questions in a big way.

Although Cincinnati didn't go out of their way to stop Chicago, Boomer Esiason threw three interceptions in the first quarter, the Bears proved they are the team to beat in the super bowl chase.

Their 44-7 victory over the Bengals produced two things, Mike Ditka has a tough high school team and Cincinnati suffered their worst loss ever.

Bears' fans are convinced that they have the best team in football again but some people in Washington and Denver might not agree with them.

The Redskins defeated a tough and previously undefeated Seattle team in RFK Sunday to remain undefeated themselves and hold onto that top spot in the NFC east.

Washington has proven tough to score on but they play defense the old fashioned way, with their offense. With George Rogers, Jay Schroeder, Art Monk and the Hogs, Washington features a ball control offense which keeps the football out of the hands of their opponents.

However, in Sunday's affair Seattle did have the football long enough for Steve Largent to catch a pass, the 127th straight game the Seahawk receiver has caught at least one pass. The only other player who can say that is Harold Carmichael.

While Washington uses their offense to keep their defense fresh another undefeated team, the Denver Broncos, is just the opposite.

The Broncos famed Orange Crush defense prides themselves in their ability to take the pigskin away from other teams' offense, in most instances giving John Elway and company good field position. This defense, in their daring, flashy vigor is also capable of scoring as many points as some NFL offensive units.

Against a high powered New England running game the Orange Crush defense allowed a mere 46 yards on the ground. They didn't let the Patriots control things with their running attack thus giving the Bronco offense a chance to rack up a total of 265 yards and 24 points in the second half.

Chicago, Denver, and Washington are all 4-0 which isn't unbelievable but the fourth perfect NFL team could be termed as incredible. Just take a look at the NFC west and see for yourself.

Wow, the Atlanta Falcons are alone atop their division, in front of powerhouse teams such as LA and San Francisco. Its true Atlanta hasn't had a tough schedule but in their toughest game the Falcons came through with a big win over Dallas.

With a little help from Mick Luckhurst and the Philadelphia Eagles the Atlanta Falcons are making some definite playoff noise.

Luckhurst hit a field goal to send Atlanta into overtime with Tampa Bay and again in the extra period the Falcon kicker hit another three pointer to give his Falcons another win.

At the same time Luckhurst was proving his worth Philadelphia was handing the Los Angeles Rams their first loss of the season.

The win also gave Philadelphia their first of the season but a 1-3 record doesn't exactly mean Buddy Ryan has a bad team. The Raiders, the Dolphins, and the Chargers are all 1-3 so the Eagles join an elite group of good football teams who haven't won.

Both the Raiders and the Dolphins have an opportunity to help their cause this week if they can defeat teams within their own division.

LA travels to Kansas City to take on the surprising 3-1 Chiefs and with a victory the Raiders could move into third place in the AFC west.

Miami will have a tougher time on the road with New England. If the Dolphins are to have a playoff shot this is a crucial game but the same can be said for the Patriots. The AFC east was supposed to be one of the toughest divisions in the NFL but it boasts only one winning team, the New York Giants.

Another headline game this week and probably the most exciting for football fans is the double D matchup which puts Denver at Dallas. The Cowboys are tough, especially at home but Denver is an incredibly talented group. Not only will this be an important game for both teams but it will prove just how tough Hearshel Walker is or how tough the Denver defense isn't.

Barring some upsets the rest of the divisional races should remain pretty much as they are now but upsets are what makes professional football exciting and unpredictable.

ship winning teams. Members of a championship team will be tested for steroids and other illegal street drugs. The NCAA insists that testing isn't the only goal of their drug efforts. They also say the anti-drug movement will include drug education.

The run for the Heisman Trophy is in full swing and two front running pre-season choices are proving they were worthy of their high billing.

Almost everyone in college football ranks Miami's talented quarterback Vinny Testaverde and Michigan State tailback Lorenzo White as the top two college football players.

Saturday both Testaverde and White greatly aided their Heisman cause. The Miami signal caller threw for over 260 yards and four touchdowns as Miami upended the then number one ranked Oklahoma Sooners.

White, on the other hand, ran for 192 yards in Michigan State's contest against Western Michigan to keep pace with Testaverde.

From tiny Morehead, Kentucky to the windy city of Chicago Drew Hall has made an incredible jump and Thursday Hall made his jump a successful one.

The lefthanded Cud pitcher collected his first major league baseball victory in an 8-2 thumping of the New York Mets.

With his initial victory Hall evened his season record at 1-1 and with a strong performance in the latter stages of this season Hall could earn a spot in Chicago's regular 1987 pitching rotation.

Finishing last is nothing strange for the Milwaukee Brewers and George Bamberger but finishing last for the second time in two seasons was too much for the Milwaukee manager to handle.

The Brewers ended 1985 28 games behind Toronto and were sputtering around in the AL East collar 21 games behind division leader Boston when Bamberger called it quits.

The veteran Brewer manager recently announced his decision not to return to Milwaukee after this season but this past week Bamberger updated his decision and left the Brewers before this season ended.

Milwaukee management selected Tom Trebblehorn to serve as interim manager to finish out the 1986 season.

The Kentucky Wildcats kept their unbeaten season alive with a convincing 37-20 victory over Cincinnati Saturday. The Wildcats took advantage of Cincinnati turnovers, scoring touchdowns following turnovers in each of the first three quarters.

Joe Curry caught a 14 yard touchdown pass from Bill Ransdell after the Bearcats fumbled a punt on their own 14.

The "Cats returned two pass interceptions for touchdowns, the first in the second quarter on a 74 yard return. David Johnson got into the act in the third quarter with a 95 yard interception return for touchdown.

Kentucky will put their 2-0-1 record on the line Saturday night when they take on Southern Mississippi in a Wildcat Homecoming battle.

Boston Red Sox third baseman Wade Boggs collected a two run single in Sunday's victory over Toronto to give the Red Sox their first division title in 11 years and Boggs his hit number 200.

To go with his 200 hits Boggs also has over 100 walks. The last player to combine such numbers was Hall of Famer Stan Musial 33 years ago.

Boston was the last team to clinch a division title. Houston, behind Mike Scott's no hitter, won the NL west Thursday while California toppled Texas Friday to claim top honors in the AL west.

Young Talent Arrives As Union Routs Lambuth

Before their 1986 football season began the Union College coaching staff knew if they were to have a successful year many young players would have to contribute and Saturday that young talent arrived in full ability.

Going into the contest with Lambuth College, Union featured 12 freshmen in their starting lineup but youth and inexperience didn't limit the Bulldogs' ability in the slightest.

On the strength of a 21 point second quarter outburst Union defeated their Tennessee opponents 41-17 to even their record at 2-2.

"It was a real good win for us," Head Coach John Ross said. "We were on top of our game both mentally and physically."

"A lot of our kids got a chance to play," Ross continued. "In fact all of our kids got a shot at some varsity action."

With the victory over Lambuth, Union College remained undefeated in Division 2 but Coach Ross and his young Bulldogs haven't had as much success with Division 1 programs who are responsible for their two losses.

Coach Ross said that his team wasn't ready then to play scholarship schools but after what he saw in Tennessee the coach would like to have another shot at Georgetown and Wingate.

"We weren't ready for them then but I would like to play them again in a couple of games," Ross said. "I think we turned a big corner with these young kids Saturday."

The Union head man is more than eager to praise his newly acquired gridiron performers while promising good things from his present youthful class.

One incoming freshman who has already proved his football ability is former Prestonsburg gridiron great Pete Greene. Greene became the starting tight end last week and in two games the impressive receiver has caught six passes, one for a touchdown.

"Pete caught three passes for over 60 yards Saturday and he has turned out to be a dependable player for us," Ross said.

Greene's high school teammate Donnie Ray saw extensive action Saturday and Coach Ross says that Ray is making a strong challenge for a starting defensive tackle position.

"Donnie Ray is making a lot of progress at defensive tackle. He played a lot and he did a good job for us Saturday," Ross said.

"There are so many things Donnie has to learn. That is a difficult position to play because of the stunts and other things we do but Donnie is coming along nicely."

"If we didn't need Donnie so much on the defensive side we would use him on the offensive line and we still might next season but right now Donnie is helping us a lot at defensive tackle," Ross revealed.

Union College is expected to be one of the better Division 2 schools next season and one added incentive for Bulldog players and coaches will be the newly adopted conference which Union will be a member.

The new conference titled the Bluegrass Conference will feature eight teams consisting of schools from Kentucky and Tennessee.

The schools making up the Bluegrass Conference include Union, Georgetown, Maryville, Cumberland, Evansville, Lambuth, Kentucky Wesleyan, and Tennessee Wesleyan.

These football programs are expected to prosper both from conference competition and the possibility of conference honors helping recruiting.

THE FLAG IS ON ITS WAY: Steve Little draws a pass interference penalty with this early hit on Doug Holbrook.

Kentucky Fishing Report

Frankfort, Ky., September 29—Fishing activity for the September 27-28 weekend was reported light to moderate statewide. Unseasonably warm weather and generally rising water temperatures affected angler success at some lakes. Some lakes will begin water level draw down over the next two or three weeks. The lake-by-lake rundown, as reported by conservation officers or creel clerks at each lake:

KENTUCKY: Crappie were hitting jig and minnow combinations over brush piles and channels 14-25 feet deep; catfish were taking chicken livers over the main river channels 22-40 feet deep; murky, falling, 3-1/2 feet below summer pool and 79 degrees.

BARKLEY: Crappie were chasing minnows around brush piles in 3-10 feet of water; black bass were hitting plastic worms and crank baits over rocky banks 3-12 feet deep; clear, falling, three feet below summer pool and 80 degrees.

BARREN: Crappie continued to take minnows and jigs along stump rows 8-12 feet deep; black bass were hitting crank baits off rocky points 6-12 feet deep; heavy discharge prevented tailwater activity; clear, falling, 10 feet below summer pool and 78 degrees.

NOLIN: Black bass were hitting spinners and crank baits off rocky points and along stump rows 2-6 feet deep; crappie were taking minnows over submerged cover 8-10 feet deep; heavy discharge hampered activity in the tailwaters; clear to murky, falling, 12 feet below summer pool and 80 degrees.

ROUGH RIVER: Crappie were taking minnows still fished over submerged cover 5-12 feet deep; black bass were hitting crank baits along stump rows and off rocky points and banks 5-10 feet deep; clear, stable at one foot below summer pool and 80 degrees.

TAYLORSVILLE: Black bass were taking crank baits and plastic worms off deep points and banks in 2-25 feet of water; bluegill were biting worms or crickets near stick-ups 3-5 feet deep; clear to murky, stable at 1-1/2 feet below summer pool and 79 degrees.

HERRINGTON: Black bass were hitting plastic worms and crank baits off shallow points and banks 6-8 feet deep; some hybrid rockfish were being taken trolling spoons and deep runners over submerged creek channels; clear, rising, 16 feet below summer pool and 77 degrees.

GREEN RIVER: Crappie were hitting minnows and crickets around stick-ups and submerged cover about 15 feet deep; white bass were hitting small spoons in the jumps; black bass were hitting spinners and plastic worms; clear to murky, rising, at summer pool and 79 degrees.

CUMBERLAND: Black bass were striking surface lures cast near rocky bluff walls; bluegill were biting crickets and meal worms over submerged tree tops 4-8 feet deep; clear, stable at 24 feet below summer pool and 78 degrees.

DALE HOLLOW: Black bass were hitting buzz baits and plastic worms cast off shallow banks at night in 1-3 feet of water; bluegill were hitting crickets over submerged cover 8-10 feet deep; clear, stable at two feet below summer pool and 79 degrees. LAUREL: Trout were hitting corn, worms and minnows in open water at night 10-30 feet deep; black bass were hitting spinners and crank baits off rocky points at variable depths; clear, falling, 11 feet below summer pool and 77 degrees.

CAVE RUN: Muskie were hitting deep running crank baits over standing timber 10-20 feet deep; black bass were taking surface lures and crank baits along edges of channels over timber from the surface to 15 feet deep; clear, falling, 2-1/2 feet below summer pool and 72 degrees.

PAINTSVILLE: Trout were hitting wax worms at night over creek channels about 25 feet deep; bluegill were taking red worms off rocky banks about six feet deep; clear, rising, 3-1/2 feet below summer pool and 72 degrees.

BUCKHORN: Crappie were hitting minnows drifted over submerged cover 6-12 feet deep; muskie were hitting large lures trolled 10-20 feet deep in the lower lake and over old river channels; clear to murky, stable at one foot below summer pool and 73 degrees.

GRAYSON: Black bass were enjoying crank baits over stump rows and mud flats about two feet deep; crappie were striking minnows from submerged cover about four feet deep; clear, falling, 2-1/2 feet below summer pool and 75 degrees.

DEWEY: Black bass were hitting plastic worms and buzz baits cast over weed beds from the surface to one foot deep; catfish were taking cut bait on the bottom of creek channels; clear to murky, stable at summer pool and 73 degrees.

By A.G. SPENCER

"You missed," my partner chided as he spotted for me with his binoculars. I peered through the four power Redfield Traditional scope in disbelief at the upright groundhog while muttering something hard-heard about a strong crosswind.

Settling down for a shot at redemption, I placed the crosshairs slightly to the left of center on the 'chuck's chest to allow for a fairly consistent ten mile-per-hour breeze over the 100 plus yards between my target and me. Taking a breath and letting out half of it, I began the slow, steady squeeze on the trigger.

Just before my shot went off, the 'chuck vanished from the picture in my scope. He'd dropped to all fours to resume feeding! Luckily, I had managed to hold back on the trigger at the last split-second. It would have been too embarrassing to have muffed two shots in a row, and in front of an audience at that!

When the 'chuck stood up the next time, I was ready for him. The little rifle cracked sharply. "A bolt of lightning couldn't have dropped that one any quicker," I boasted, patting the stock on my then-new Kimber bolt-action M82 in .22 Hornet as gently as if it was the head of my favorite rabbit dog.

The kind of day we had as we roamed that farm in Jefferson county a couple of seasons ago should absolutely happen to anybody who loves small-game hunting and the great outdoors. Groundhogs were plentiful and active, presenting us with frequent shooting opportunities. Whenever a lull in the shooting was encountered, we usually spotted a crow or two in one of the cornfields on the farm to take up the slack.

No matter what you call him, groundhog, whistlepig, pasture poodle, woodchuck or just plain 'chuck, not to mention some of the less printable titles given to the ground-dwelling rodent by farmers, he was surely made for the rifleman in mind. When the heat causes squirrels to den up, and dove hunting is slower than expected, (as it has been so far this year in eastern Kentucky), it's time to call a hunting buddy or two, grab your favorite rifle, and seek out a shady spot overlooking a freshly cut hay field.

All of this is not to say that groundhog hunting has to be a long-range affair, or even that it has to involve rifles. My friends and I have used rifles and pistols in both .22 Long Rifle and .22 Magnum (WMR), as well as pistols in .357 Magnum, .45 Auto, and .44 Magnum. There are even longer range handguns, available in such cartridges as .22 Hornet, .221 Fireball, .223 Remington and a bevy of others. There are also scopes made specifically for pistols. Don't laugh—I've tried these pistol scopes, and they really work!

Indeed, pistol hunters are by far and away the fastest growing group of sportsmen in America, having already surpassed the total number of muzzleloaders in this country. Some of these pistoleros can put an awful lot of rifleman to shame.

By the same token, Indian summer and hot spells in autumn provide muzzleloaders and bow hunting aficionados with a chance to sharpen their skills in preparation for deer season. Just bear in mind that the closer you have to get to your intended quarry, the greater the need for stealth and camouflage.

Although some experts claim that the rotund little pasture poodles don't weigh over 15 pounds, they simply haven't seen Eastern Kentucky 'chucks. I have personally weighed groundhogs which have tipped the scales at as much as 33 pounds, and have seen several others that had to have been even heavier.

Be advised that groundhogs will rarely venture out of their dens when the wind is blowing hard, as the gusts make it difficult for them to hear predators. Despite this wariness, the 'chuck's primary defense is their excellent eyesight. In areas where they haven't run at the sight of people near by, they either haven't been shot at much, or have simply let their curiosity get the better of them. A canny hunter can stalk around corn, tobacco and hay fields. Be sure to make good use of the wooded fringes along the edges of these fields for concealment. Also look for them to den under corn cribs, barns and old abandoned buildings.

When it's as warm as it's been the last few weeks, 'chucks will be active from 6:30 a.m. until about 9 a.m., and from 5 p.m. through dusk. Also when cleaning your prize, be certain to remove the kernal-like glands from in between the muscle sheaths under their arms.

Finally, as both the conversation and the shooting action began to wane and the sun sank below the horizon, we decided to call it a day. Gathering up our varmint rifles and other assorted gear, as well as the makings of "groundhog gumbo," we began the long walk back to my truck.

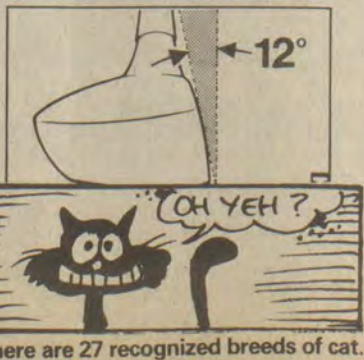

While young whistlepigs are usually rolled in flour and pepper and slow-fried, and their medium-sized cousins are often baked with frequent basting, my favorite recipe was dubbed "groundhog gumbo" by a rather skeptical relative. In order to fix this dish, garnish your 'chuck with whatever seasonings you prefer and slow bake at a fairly low heat, basting it very frequently with a wine and butter sauce. When the dish is done, piece the meat into small bits just as you would in fixing chicken a la king. Put the pieced meat in a skillet with butter, mushrooms, diced up green onions and green peppers, season to taste and stir fry at low heat for about five minutes. Then drain the butter and juices from this concoction, adding whole milk, flour and pepper to stir into gravy. Pour the whole works onto toast or biscuits, add a side dish of hominy, and you have a meal fit for a king. Even skeptical relative wolfed this dish down greedily.

So get out there on those evenings that you normally perch yourself in front of the television and give those 'chucks a try. Until next week, happy hunting!

While every good golf shot gives satisfaction, none gives more than a big, booming drive. And one thing that contributes greatly to that kind of shot is loft of your driver—the angle of the clubface from vertical, which can range from a low of 9° to as much as 13°.

As a rule of thumb, only the scratch golfer or touring pro should use a driver with 9° loft. If your handicap is from one through five, you should consider 10° of loft. With a five to ten handicap, it's 11°. Higher handicap golfers probably need 12°, but if they really have trouble getting the ball in the air they might think about drivers with highly flexible shafts plus 13° loft.

Exchange Vows

Jewell Martin Peters and Fred Barrett Anderson exchanged wedding vows at 7:30 p.m., August 9, in a ceremony solemnized by the Rev. Paul Heatherly at the Hillcrest Baptist Church in Careysville, Tennessee.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Lester Green, of Smithville, Tenn., and Mr. Estill Martin, of Minnie. She is employed at Hill's Department Store in Lexington, Ky.

Mr. Anderson is a member of the Metro Police Department in Lexington, and is the son of Ray and Clara Anderson, of Lexington.

A reception was held for the couple at the Fraternal Order of Police Lodge, Blue Grass Lodge No. 4 in Lexington, August 30 with more than 250 guests. Out-of-town guests included the bride's mother, Aveen Green, and stepfather, Lester Green, of Smithville, Tenn.; Miss Wanda Stewart, of Dayton, O.; Ron England, of Houston, Texas, and Henry Kennon, of North Carolina.

Appreciates Honor

We deeply appreciate the honor bestowed upon the late Oak Mullins and Troy Mullins at the recent Wayland Homecoming. We humbly thank each and every person for this honor. It made us so proud that the residents of Wayland so fondly remember Daddy and Uncle Troy. They, too, loved Wayland and all her residents.

We are indeed fortunate to have grown up and lived in such a wonderful community.

Mid-America Conference

COPYRIGHT 1986 KVMA

Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association If your veterinarian isn't immediately available to you between Oct. 4 and Oct. 7, don't scold too much. No doubt, he's found someone competent to handle emergencies while he is participating in the Mid-America Veterinary Conference in Louisville.

It is a continuing education seminar sponsored annually by the Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association to keep its members abreast of the latest innovations in techniques of treatment, the latest developments in medical research and the latest modernizations of equipment.

It is one of the largest in the nation. The high degree of training necessary for the Doctor of Veterinary Medicine is perhaps not known to the general public.

Today's veterinarian has had at least three years of college pre-veterinary study similar to that required of pre-med students for medical school. Most have gone on to complete college and some receive a master's degree before going to veterinary college. Even then, some applicants are rejected.

Four years of intense study are required to earn a DVM degree, and even then some go on to further training. Many hold doctorates in other areas as well. The training is of such quality that it is not unusual for medical doctors and veterinarians to share research, or for veterinarians to be consulted by medical doctors.

Some veterinarians go into teaching, often combining research.

They have contributed significantly to the well-being of food animals in this country (which has a direct bearing on the food supply) as well as to disease control, not to mention the care of small animals.

Most, however, go into private practice. Some specialize in specific areas or animals. Others create a general practice, treating pigs and pets, cattle and cats with equal ease.

But their education does not end with the degree. Dramatic advances are made in veterinary medicine each year, and continuing education programs make practicing veterinarians aware of things that have been learned since they received their degrees.

This is the purpose for the Mid-America. Seminars will update practitioners in the area of small animals, food animals and horses. Nationally known authorities and experts conduct the seminars.

Your veterinarian considers it an obligation to offer you the best knowledge available, and those in Kentucky take that obligation seriously.

Tax Makes Possible Soil Erosion Work

THE BALLFIELD at Clark Elementary School, plagued by a drainage problem, should be drier from now on as the result of a joint effort among U.S. Soil Conservation Service technicians, county laborers, and the Floyd County Conservation District. A 600-foot drainage tile was being covered when this picture was taken Thursday. A drainage ditch is also being constructed at the foot of the hill behind the school.

If a school or public park has a soil conservation problem—erosion, say, or excessive runoff, or water that won't drain away—Billy Merritt and Clark Allison want to hear about it.

Merritt is treasurer of the Floyd County Conservation District, now enjoying the modest benefits of a county tax. Allison is a conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service, a division of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Together, and with help from county laborers, they have embarked recently on a series of small but significant conservation projects around the county. And they are looking for more.

This week the two men were working on the Clark Elementary School ballfield, which has had a drainage problem so bad it is unusable for days after heavy rain. That should not be the case for long. Under the eye of the conservationists, a county crew was laying 600 feet of drainage tile and 90 tons of gravel this week in an effort to divert surface water from the playing area into nearby Middle Creek.

A drain was also to be installed at the base of a hill behind the school, where it is planned to provide additional parking once the area is dried out.

The drainage work, which was coordinated by Conservation District Secretary Thelma DeRossett, dovetailed perfectly with long-range landscaping plans of the Clark PTA, which also hopes to see an outdoor classroom constructed in a natural amphitheatre near the school. It is the kind of joint effort—involving a community group, the county, the conservation district, and technical help from the Soil Conservation Service—that Merritt and Allison are anxious to promote.

It is not coincidental, Merritt said, that the conservation district—which has long sponsored poster and essay contests, issued a newsletter, offered forestry-camp scholarships for youngsters and workshops in environmental education for teachers—is now getting involved in "hands on" restoration work. For the first time in memory, the district has a predictable if limited source of income.

While the state has always helped a little—the current allocation is about $2000 a year—it has been the Fiscal Court's responsibility by law to fund the conservation district. More often than not, good intentions flowed more liberally than dollars.

"They would budget us a whole lot but then they'd spend it somewhere else and we wouldn't get it," said Merritt. The problem was solved three years ago when the Fiscal Court authorized a tax of one penny per $100 assessed value to fund the district. The tax yields about $20,000 annually—enough to pay a part-time clerk and to buy materials for small land-use projects.

Besides the Clark ballfield, county and conservation workers have earlier cooperated to divert water runoff from Osborne Elementary School, drain a ballfield area at the county park at Allen, and remodel a drainage area at the Minnie mini-park.

"It was an ugly, open ditch. They had to throw oil in to keep down the mosquitoes," Allison said of the Minnie

Cake Decorating

One of the features of the annual Floyd County Homemakers' luncheon meeting, held at Fellowship Hall of the First United Methodist Church, Thursday, September 25, was the cake decorating demonstration by Mrs. Brenda Cockerham, Pike county Extension Agent. Since homemakers from Pike and Floyd county are scheduled to decorate May Lodge at Jenny Wiley State Park for the Christmas season, Mrs. Cockerham showed a house made of graham crackers and cake icing which illustrates the kind of decorations they plan to use.

CARD OF THANKS

Thanks to all who sent food and flowers, prayers or spoke comforting words. A special thanks to the Maytown First Baptist Church, the minister, Bob Varney, and the Hall Funeral Home for their kind and efficient service.

Engineering Students Recruited by Cabinet

The state Transportation Cabinet is accepting applications for scholarships in civil engineering and civil engineering technology for the 1987-88 academic year.

The cabinet offers freshman, sophomore, junior and senior scholarships to Kentucky high school graduates to study civil engineering at the University of Kentucky and Kentucky State University, and civil engineering technology at Western Kentucky University. In turn, the student agrees to work for the Department of Highways during summers and after graduation.

According to Transportation Secretary C. Leslie Dawson, the program, which started in 1948, "provides the opportunity for students to become successful highway engineers, and allows the Transportation Cabinet to build up and improve the quality of its engineers."

To qualify for a scholarship students must be a graduate of an accredited high school and must meet admission requirements of both the university and its engineering department. Applications are available from high school counselors and civil engineering departments of the participating universities. Students are asked to complete the application and submit two recommendations from individuals familiar with the student's scholastic achievements.

Completed applications are returned to the head of the university's engineering department and reviewed by the scholarship committee. Applicants are nominated by the committee on the basis of scholastic standing, recommendations, and in the case of freshmen, American College Test scores.

Upon approval by the Department of Highways, those selected are employed as scholarship students. Scholarship students must agree, by contract, to work full time for the Department of Highways immediately after graduation one year for each year the student is on scholarship. The department also requires summer employment for scholarship students so long as they make reasonable progress in their academic work and prove satisfactory in summer work.

Scholarship students are initially appointed for the fall semester only, but appointment is extended through the spring if satisfactory progress is being made.

Scholarship payment to the student is on a semi-monthly basis. Students receive a stipend, while in school, of $185 a month for the first year, $215 a month the second year, $250 a month the third year and $280 a month the fourth year.

The Transportation Cabinet employs nearly 2,000 engineers and technicians to build interstate roads, parkways and state and local highways for Kentucky.

WHAT HAPPENS TO THE FLOWERS?

The beauty and fragrance of flowers serve as a reminder that funeral services are for the living.

Colorful, tasteful floral arrangements are generally sent by those who cannot be present but wish to extend their condolences. These floral pieces help the bereaved to accept that life continues, though the loved one is no longer present to share in it. As such, flowers serve both to honor the deceased and to reaffirm the value of life itself.

The sentiment which the flowers represent can travel further than the funeral. Floral arrangements may be taken to the gravesite or to the church. Many hospitals and rest homes will accept gifts of flowers for their residents and patients.

Or flowers given by friends in honor of the deceased may be given to guests as a fragrant reminder of a life that has passed and of the value of their own lives.

Most florists have developed special floral arrangements for funerals. We also can answer your questions about the value of flowers in funeral services. Please call us if you would like more information.

THE NAME OF THE ROSE (R-20th Century-Fox) Starring Sean Connery, F. Murray Abraham. ★ ★ ½ ★

By J.T. YURKO

Part of the art of filmmaking is to create worlds different from our own — whether the location be a galaxy far, far away or a journey to the center of the Earth.

Umberto Eco's novel "The Name of the Rose" is set in a location many may find even stranger than a different planet. All the action of the film takes place within the walls of a 14th century cloister, where the monks' daily lives have been upset by the mysterious deaths of several of their members.

It's the Dark Ages, a time when plagues are rampant and starvation is a way of life. Religious cults abound, and in response to them the Inquisition wrecks a sadistic hand across Europe.

When these deaths invade the inner sanctum of the cloister, the monks turn to two separate sources. One is Brother William of Baskerville, played by Sean Connery. The other is the feared inquisitor Bernardo Gui, played by F. Murray Abraham.

Eco's novel is a ponderous,

VIDEO SCENE

Too much 'Dancing on the Ceiling' in new Richie clip

By Barton Weiss

If Lionel Richie's "Dancing on the Ceiling" wasn't written to be a video, it should have been. It comes with an obvious visual hook, inspired by "Royal Wedding" (1951), in which Fred Astaire dances on the walls and on the ceiling.

Lionel Richie

Stanley Donen, who directed the original, has also directed this clip. The effect is nice, and it is pulled off convincingly, but it OD's on the bit, and eventually becomes almost meaningless.

If anyone is curious about how this special effect was pulled off, it's the old trick in which the set and the camera are moved at the same time.

OPENING WINDOWS — Remember the scene in "Let It Be" when the Beatles played on the rooftop and viewers saw how London reacted to a free concert.

Well, Billy Joel's latest clip, "A Matter of Trust," works on a similar principle. In this case, however, Joel opens the windows and lets the music flow out. The video has more shots of people in the city getting into Joel's music — dancing and the like — than it does of Joel and the band, but that's OK.

This clip is part of a Billy Joel home video, which is a must for a mild fan and a good reason to buy a VCR for a major fan.

ARETHA AND WHOOP! — The star of Aretha Franklin's latest clip, "Jumping Jack Flash," is Whoopi Goldberg, who sings backup to avoid being chased by some bad guys. Her bit in the intro is very good, but once Aretha starts singing, attention — quite rightfully — shifts to her, and the story that has been set up in the intro is never resolved.

Keith Richards also appears and plays guitar on the song, which is, for obvious reasons, rather familiar to him.

LONG TIME NO SEE — Eddie Money has teamed up with Ronnie Spector (of Ronettes fame) for his current clip, "Take Me Home Tonight." It's great to see Spector looking so good, but the rest of the clip is forgettable.

LOOKING GOOD — Tina Turner doesn't look her age either. In "Typical Male," she slinks and slides, but she doesn't sizzle like she did in the clips from her "Private Dancer" album. Here, she seems dwarfed by a shoe of this typical guy and by all sorts of large office equipment.

That's not to say that it's a bad clip. Turner's performance is every bit as impressive as it usually is, but the trappings around her don't quite measure up.

Soap Beat

David Haskell still gets excited about acting

By Marie Michaels

"Santa Barbara" 's Nick Hartley has had more than his share of hard knocks since he was introduced on the soap. His now-deceased brother Dylan turned out to be a no-goodnick who spent years fleecing Nick out of his hard-earned money. More recently, the love of Nick's life, Kelly Capwell, had a one-night-stand with Dylan, then left Santa Barbara to hide out in Italy while her family searches for proof that she didn't kill Dylan in cold blood.

David Haskell

But through it all, Nick has managed to remain a genuinely nice guy, and David Haskell, who plays Nick, hopes that he'll stay that way. "I've shaped Nick as a guy with a strong sense of integrity and honor," says Haskell. "He's the type of guy who can take a lot of lumps and then get up and fight all the harder to get what he wants. Nick has a strong heroic point of view. As a photographer, he's an artist and a romantic."

Acting has always been second nature to Haskell. He never considered any other career.

"The acting bug bit me as a little kid," recalls Haskell, who has had featured roles in such films as "Godspell," "Body Double" and "Star 80." He also was seen on the nighttime soap "All That Glitters" and has appeared in guest-starring roles on such nighttime TV series as "Remington Steele" and "Knots Landing."

"I still get as excited about a new role as I did when I first started acting," says Haskell. "You have to commit a big part of yourself to acting, and you can't be afraid to fail. If you blow a scene, you can't worry about it. You have to go on with the next scene."

During his non-acting hours, Haskell likes nothing better than spending time with his daughter, Alexandra, and tending his elaborate flower garden.

MSU Magazine Seeks Writers

Inscape, Morehead State University's student literary magazine, is sponsoring a contest for student writers.

First place awards of $100 each and second place awards of $50 each will be given to winners of both the Poetry Division and the Short Story, Play or Essay Division.

Winning entries will appear in the Spring 1987 issue and all entries will be considered for publication. The awards are funded in part by the University's Honors Program and the Department of English, Foreign Languages and Philosophy.

The competition is open to all MSU students, whether full-time or part-time, according to Dr. Marc Glasser, MSU professor of English and magazine faculty sponsor.

"In fact, we really would like to have some entries from MSU students attending classes off-campus at our regional centers," Dr. Glasser said. "There's no limit to the number of entries a student may submit."

"We are looking for well-written, fresh, exciting and thought-provoking manuscripts," Dr. Glasser added.

Entries must be received no later than Oct. 31 and may be sent to Dr. Glasser, UPO 1274, Morehead State University, Morehead, Ky. 40351.

Art Work Exhibited in Library

"I LIKED HIS FACE," said Paul David May, a PCC art student, of his choice of Norwegian rock musician Pal Waaktaar as the subject for this portrait, one of May's works now on display at the Floyd County Library. The exhibit, which includes acrylic paintings, pencil and pen-and-ink drawings, and a linoleum block print, will be on display until October 6.

EKU Fall Semester Enrollment Rises

Eastern Kentucky University officials last week announced a projected 1986 fall semester enrollment increase of 2.5 percent and "a significant increase" in the number of first-time, full-time freshman students.

An estimated 12,525 students are expected to be enrolled at EKU when final enrollment figures are compiled, according to EKU President Hanly Funderburk. This compares with 12,229 students who enrolled at EKU for the 1985 fall semester.

The number of first-time, full-time freshman students also appears to have grown, as an estimated 2,800 new students have enrolled for fall semester classes, Dr. Funderburk reported. This represents an increase of 12 percent over last year's first-time freshman enrollment of 2,492, which was the largest among the state's public universities.

"We are pleased that our early fall semester enrollment projections indicate an increase in our enrollment, particularly in light of the calls for increased levels of educational attainment in the Council of Higher Education's strategic plan and in the goals of the Kentucky Advocates for Higher Education," President Funderburk said.

The EKU president said University officials will have more accurate data next week following EKU's extended campus registration. Members of the Eastern faculty teach dozens of college credit courses each semester at more than 15 off-campus locations throughout the University's 22-county service region.

EKU's enrollment has shown an increase for the past four consecutive terms.

First Signs of Fall In Changing Leaves

Kentucky's hardwood trees have begun their gradual change to vivid, fall leaf colors, with a few species now displaying their autumn hues. In all regions, 10 percent or less of deciduous trees have changed color. The following is a regional summary of leaf conditions based on reports from 40 observers:

EASTERN—Less than 10 percent of hardwood trees show pronounced fall leaf colors. The best color can be seen in crimson dogwoods, deep-red blackgums and yellow sassafras trees.

NORTH CENTRAL—Observers report less than 10 percent change. At the Stanton reporting station, maples, whose bright fall leaves range from red to orange, are beginning to change color. Yellow tulip poplars can be seen along US 31E between Elizabethtown and Hodgenville.

SOUTH CENTRAL—The region as a whole is displaying about 10 percent coloration. In the Somerset area, maples are beginning to take on their fall shadings. Other stations report a splash of forest color from scarlet-colored sumacs and bright-yellow persimmons.

WESTERN—About 5-10 percent of deciduous trees are exhibiting fall colors, such as the yellow cottonwood. Other colorful species include blackgums and dogwoods.

For the latest information on fall foliage and general travel information, call the toll-free Kentucky Color Connection, 1-800-225-8747.

P.C. Prof. Publishes Local School Stories

Since 1901 a major Pikeville College focus has been teacher education. Now Dr. Mark Sohn, a professor in the Division of Education, and members of his Appalachian Education class, have co-authored and published Education in Appalachia's Central Highlands. The book is full of stories about people and facts about schools. It is a living history with a unit on current trends. It was written for parents and educators.

This is a textbook with chapter outlines, review questions and terms. The 23 chapters are divided into five units: history, teaching, cultural influence, politics and trends. There are chapters on Carl D. Perkins, boys' and girls' sports, coal and public education, one-room schools, pioneer teachers, math achievement, special education, school drop-outs, the Appalachian student, Bible instruction and others. The book is limited to elementary and secondary education.

For more information about this manual, or instructions on how to obtain a copy, contact Mark Sohn at 437-6467, or call the Pikeville College Bookstore at 432-9368.

Health Facilities Panel
Has Eye To Cost, Spread

One of state government's least understood processes—and one that affects every Kentuckian—is the granting of certificates of need for health-related facilities or services.

Kentucky's certificate of need law, one of the most comprehensive ones in the United States, requires any facility that provides a health service to two or more people to have a certificate. Private physician practices, freestanding medical laboratories, family care homes and industrial clinics, or first aid stations, are exempt.

The Commission for Health Economics Control in Kentucky, a three-member panel appointed by the governor, administers the certificate of need law, issuing certificates and determining which facilities and services require them. The members are Jack S. Lesshaft Sr., chairman, Cornelia Serpell and Jack Waddell.

The commission's charge is multi-fold, according to Lesshaft, who has been involved in the certificate of need process since its inception in 1972. "Many people think that the commission exists merely to control the cost of health care," he said. "While that is important, we also look at the distribution, accessibility and quality of medical services when reviewing a project."

The commission must control the proliferation of health care, Lesshaft said, because "if there are too many of any one service, cost increases and quality decreases."

"An example with hypothetical numbers—if 10 facilities each performed 100 open heart surgeries every year, then 20 facilities would do 50 per year," he said. "As more facilities perform the procedure, the number that each doctor or group of doctors performs decreases. Quality suffers and costs increase."

"Anybody who has to have a procedure like open heart surgery or a kidney transplant wants to go where the physician who performs the surgery does it often enough to stay proficient in it."

The number of hospital and nursing home beds must be controlled too, Lesshaft said. "Many hospitals in this state are having problems—they have many unused beds. If the state had not tightly controlled the number of beds in the 1970s, our hospitals would be in worse shape than they are now."

"The certificate of need process also affected the distribution of long-term care beds in Kentucky," he said. "Years ago when nobody wanted to build in the state's smaller, rural counties, we encouraged applicants to build in counties that truly needed long-term care facilities, thereby distributing health services more evenly across the state."

What is the process of asking for and obtaining a certificate of need in Kentucky?

A 26-page application describing the project's need, cost, accessibility and other factors is completed. The commission's staff review of the project and ultimately the commission's decision is based on this comprehensive application.

The project is then put on a 90-day public notice allowing the staff and commission time to review the project according to five criteria—consistency with the Kentucky State Health Plan; need and accessibility; interrelationships and linkages with other medical services; cost, economic feasibility and resource availability; and quality.

An applicant or a project's opposition can request a public hearing at which both sides meet with the three commission members to present evidence, witnesses and testimony to support their positions. The commission then writes a hearing report citing facts from the hearing and its opinions about the approvability of the project.

The applications are voted on at a public meeting. Public participation is limited to questions that the commission asks of an applicant for clarification purposes. In some cases, applicants or those in opposition are allowed a brief presentation. The commission's decisions can be appealed to the courts.

The commission is empowered by law to issue advisory determinations about "gray" areas—those types of health facilities or services that are not expressly spelled out by the law but which may fall under the commission's jurisdiction.

"It's a good system in an imperfect world," said Lesshaft. "I don't think anybody is foolish enough to believe that if you have a health service on every street corner it would be cost efficient or quality care."

Officially, there is no such coin as a penny — to the United States Government and its mints it's legally a "cent."

Star Lore

By Fred Cooper Tichenor

Get out your atlas, Aquarius!

ARIES (Mar 21-Apr 21) Money is the name of your game this week and everything else will have to play second fiddle - except your mood for loving and wanting to be loved. This would be a wonderful weekend to straighten out your marriage. The New Moon in Libra favors beginnings in partnership matters.

TAURUS (Apr 22-May 22) Your thinking will be rather obtuse this week and you should make no decisions. The conservative mood you've been in is going to end soon, and I do mean end! If you have extra work this weekend, find a Libra to help, things will run much smoother. And there may be a little excitement after work to boot.

GEMINI (May 23-Jun 21) You'll be more practical than usual this week although you'll still be as flexible as ever. Exciting relationship opportunities are hitting you from all sides now. A child could give you a financial idea if you're not afraid to listen. A Libra has an invention that can further your career.

CANCER (Jun 22-Jul 20) With the Moon in Virgo you are even more picky and uncompromising. Get involved with something new - something of your own creation or something you're interested in. Your mental processes are being transformed and you could be a genius shortly. You have the chance to make your marriage the ideal you've dreamed about.

LEO (Jul 21-Aug 20) You will be as hard-working this week as you'll ever be; plus you can charm your way in or out of any situation, so take advantage of it. The New Moon in Libra favors new relations with relatives. Do a good deed this weekend for a neighbor or the community.

VIRGO (Aug 21-Sep 22) Practice unselfishness this week and do something for others each day. You are still dreamy but unrealistic about relationships things should change soon. You may have to choose between devoting your weekend to work or the loved one. Financial plans can be made now and don't be afraid to follow your dreams.

LIBRA (Sep 23-Oct 25) You can begin any project you want now.

especially one you've been dreaming about. You are much more realistic about a home and could find something you can transform into your dream. An unusual change at work could be just what you've been looking for. You need something innovative to make a break-through.

SCORPIO (Oct 26-Nov 23) You will be able to get down to business this week and finish that project you've been putting off. Don't get involved in anything devious now, you'll get caught for sure. A new business opportunity is coming your way and it could change your life. Schedule a romantic evening with the loved one this weekend, the "impossible" could happen.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 24-Dec 21) This is the week to allow your mind to soar. Listen to an "impossible dream": You are overly aggressive and unrealistic in love matters. Make sure the entire family attends religious services this weekend. You may hold a neighborhood get-together in your home, but I don't mean just a party.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 17) You will be a real romantic this week it's probably just an aberration. Your dreams may be confusing but they are preparing you for the future. Work on that recent brainstorm you had, it can mean money in the bank if you get it organized. If you aren't afraid of change, it could mean a new career.

AQUARIUS (Jan 18-Feb 16) With your ruler, Uranus, moving through Sagittarius, there will be much activity concerning distant lands or people. Your career is being slowly transformed and this could be the "biggy". A public appearance is not going to be easy for you but it will further your aspirations. Let your mind soar and others will fly right along with you.

PISCES (Feb 17-Mar 20) Togetherness will be your number one priority this week. Don't waste your time on trivial matters, concentrate on personal dreams. If you're ever going to develop an optimistic attitude, now is the time. It will make improvements in every part of your life - mental and physical.

Salisbury Tells MSU Summit Prospects Dim

"There is not likely to be a summit meeting between the United States and Russia this year," Pulitzer prize-winning journalist Harrison Salisbury told an audience in Button Auditorium on Morehead State University's campus Wednesday (Sept. 17).

"If there is one next year, there will be no substantial achievements," Salisbury said. "The conditions are not the same as they were 15 years ago when President Nixon and Dr. Kissinger were discussing the opening of China and detente."

Salisbury's lecture opened the 1986-87 Concert and Lecture Series of Arts in Morehead, sponsored by Morehead State University and the Rowan County Arts Council.

He was the 1986 Wilhelm Exelbirt Distinguished Lecturer, a continuing lectureship series funded by MSU's Foundation.

Recognized for his expertise in the affairs of Communist countries, Salisbury stated that conditions between China and Russia were improving. "Both countries are showing quiet diplomacy and reduced tension; however, there will never be the close intimate relationship they shared before."

During a portion of his talk, Salisbury related the hardships encountered by the Communist Chinese in their epic movement over 6,000 miles across mainland China. He recently spent six months in China, traveling the path the Chinese took more than 50 years ago. He told of his discussions with persons who participated in the trek that started with 86,000 persons and was completed by less than 10,000, spanning a year's time. His views of the trek are discussed in his recent book entitled "The Long March: The Untold Story."

"Presently, they are the third ranking power in some respects in the world, but not economically," Salisbury continued. "They are trying to slow down their population growth and modernize their country."

Salisbury stated the United States and China should keep relations on a friendly basis. "It's to China's advantage to remain in contact with the United States and it's to the United States' advantage to remain in touch with China," he said.

"The Chinese people need the technology we can give them and we need the backing a population of that size would afford."

A journalist, traveler, historian and scholar, Salisbury has won all the leading awards in journalism. Currently he is an associate editor and editor of the Op-Ed Page of the New York Times, where he has been employed almost half a century.

PUBLIC NOTICE

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

It is well known there has never been a charge for grave sites at the Buckingham Cemetery and there will never be a charge for this service.

In order to preserve and maintain the present family plots that are now at this cemetery, it becomes necessary for the owners and caretakers to make this announcement:

Due to the large number of burials made over the past two years and the shortage of space, we must restrict future burials to present family plots. There has never been a burial refusal made at this cemetery but due to the shortage of space, the owners and caretakers find it necessary to place certain restrictions on future burials.

As of this date, September 17, 1986, there will be no new family plots given or started.

All future burial sites must be supervised by Joe Osborne, Caretaker and part owner.

It is with deep regret we have to make these restrictions and we trust there will be no hard feelings.

SIGNED BY OWNERS: Maryland Osborne, estate by JOE OSBORNE

BE WARM AS TOAST FOR A LOT LESS BREAD.

A modern, high-efficiency gas furnace gives you the ideal combination of comfort and cost savings.

Gas heat is warm, and the furnace does a full-time heating job no matter how cold it gets outside. That's unlike a heat pump, which delivers air that can actually feel cool, and needs a backup heating system on colder days.

A new high-efficiency gas furnace also saves you money. It's usually less expensive to install than a heat pump, and it will cost less to operate. Plus, studies show that a gas furnace requires less maintenance, and lasts much longer than a heat pump.

To learn more, check with your heating dealer. You'll like the way gas keeps your home warm and toasty, for less money.

Warm heat is gas heat

"Teach Me To Read" Draws Big Response

"Both KET and the Kentucky Literacy Commission are extremely pleased by the overwhelming response to our viewer call-in program 'Teach Me To Read,'" said KET Deputy Executive Director Sandy Welch.

"Over 400 Kentuckians called during the evening (Wednesday, September 17) either to be volunteer tutors or to learn to read. Forty percent of our callers," explained Welch, "were non-readers requesting placement in adult learning programs."

"Teach Me To Read" was produced by KET as part of Project Literacy U.S., (PLUS), and aired as a follow-up to the national adult literacy awareness documentary "A Chance To Learn." Host for "Teach Me To Read" was radio commentator Ralph Hacker. Welch joined Hacker, as co-host for the evening.

"We're not asking for your money," said Hacker. "We're asking for something more valuable: your time—time for you to teach adults to read, time for you to learn to read."

Hacker's requests were answered as Kentuckians from Paducah to Pikeville called 1-800-654-7323 (1-800-654-READ), the Kentucky Literacy Commission's toll free number, which was connected to KET studios for the evening.

Governor Martha Layne Collins sent a special taped message to Kentuckians at the beginning of the program as she encouraged viewers to join the statewide literacy efforts. Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald joined in the request live from the "Teach Me To Read" studio.

In the winter, the flameless electric heat pump keeps you warm and comfortable.

In the summer, it keeps your whole house cool and comfortable.
