NOW A PRIVATE residence, this was a boarding house for miners 70 years ago, when the North East and Mary Luck coal companies dominated the life of Auxier. The newly-formed Auxier Historical Society wants to mark the town's historic buildings and to restore relics of the town's former existence as a busy coal camp.

Fifth Jenny Wiley Festival Continues Through Sunday

Everything from artifacts to fashions of bygone days in this area are to be seen in store window displays, here, this week during the fifth annual Jenny Wiley Festival. Arrowheads left by the Indians who camped and occasionally took a scalp in this region; iron kettles used by early settlers; spinning wheels, and a number of quilts are among the items to be seen.

The week-long festival is being held here with events scheduled daily through Sunday when the Battle of Middle Creek scrimmage will be held on the original battle site at the forks of Middle Creek.

Today (Wednesday) the children's competition in the Jenny Wiley Pageant will be held at the National Guard Armory at 7 p.m., and those competing for the title of Miss Jenny Wiley will vie for the honor at 8 p.m. tomorrow (Thursday) at the Armory.

Also, on Thursday, those attending the Prestonsburg-Lawrence County football game can give a few war hoops to cheer on their team.

Saturday, there will be displays of arts and crafts all day, and sports car buffs will enjoy seeing the sleek models driven by members of the Jaguar Drivers Club who will be on hand. At 11 a.m., the annual costume contest will be held at the parking lot across from the courthouse. This is fun all with squaws, warriors, chiefs, and Indian princesses competing for most authentic dress. Sponsors are urging one and all to drag out their war bonnets, tomahawks, and buckskins for this one.

Following at 1 p.m., will be one of the most unique races held in these or any other parts—the Terrapin Trots. These trusty steeds have had one run for the roses, or in this case, lettuce, at Paints-vile's Apple Day, and should be in fine fettle for Saturday's event. The competition is fierce, the critters are rarin' to go, and spectators are advised to be on hand early in order to see them leave the gate.

This year's parade, with Mrs. Barbara Hall Gullett, of Bypro, as parade marshal, will be held at 3:30 beginning at the intersection of South Lake Drive and Richmond and continuing through town to the high school grounds where it will disband.

For those who like a good, ole-fashioned hoe-down, the evening will conclude with square dancing at the parking lot across from the courthouse.

Sunday's re-enactment of the clash between the Blue and the Gray at the Battle of Middle Creek will be held at 1:30 p.m. with members of the 5th Kentucky and the 36 Virginia Infantries taking part. The skirmish is being sponsored by the Middle Creek Re-enactment Committee which is composed of members of the General Humphrey Marshall Camp No. 1429, Sons of Confederate Veterans, from both Floyd and Johnson counties.

Paving Job Set

Gov. Martha Layne Collins announced Friday that the state will repave two miles of Kentucky 194, the Cow Creek-Buffalo Creek road. Area residents have long complained of the badly-deteriorated road surface.

State Transportation Secretary C. Leslie Dawson said the project is estimated to cost $100,159 and is being funded with Rural Secondary funds.

City Tightens Belt As Cash Flow Dries

Noting that the city has had to borrow $132,000 since Sept. 1 to pay its bills, Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta last week announced a spending freeze and other measures designed to "put the city on a legal and sound financial footing."

In a memorandum to the city council Thursday, the mayor said:

—Effective immediately, only essential purchases will be made, and then only on the say of the mayor or city administrator.

—For the next three months, street and sidewalk repairs will be limited to correcting hazardous or emergency situations, or to work paid for by the city utilities commission.

—All contracts—"from gasoline purchases to coffee service"—are being reviewed by the city administrator to see whether the city is getting what it pays for and at the best price.

—Purchase of all office supplies, stationery, and printing will be centralized.

—During October, an inventory will be made of materials and parts in every department and city property will be clearly marked.

—A review will be made as soon as possible of the garbage truck and street-sweeper routes to see if they are cost-efficient.

—Gasoline purchases are among the contracts causing concern. Councilman Thomas Tackett suggesting the city could get a better price than the 78-cents-a-gallon it now pays Action Petroleum. That is among the deals he will seek to renegotiate, said City Administrator Fred James.

As a vehicle for borrowing money over longer periods and at cheaper rates, the council voted to incorporate the Prestonsburg Holding Corporation. By-laws for the non-profit corporation are to be discussed at the council's next regular meeting, on Oct. 13. Unlike the council, the corporation is permitted to take out loans that extend beyond the council members' terms.

Council members are also expected to choose a replacement next Monday for former colleague Robert Ranier, whose seat on the council they declared vacant.

Ranier was elected last November to his second term on the council but he last attended a council meeting in June and it appeared over the summer that he had moved to Daytona Beach, Fla. A certified letter sent the former councilman to ascertain his intentions was claimed by him but never answered.

In determining Thursday that he no longer had city residency—a statutory requirement for council office—council members noted that Ranier's University Drive house is up for sale and that, the last time he was in town, his auto bore Florida tags.

Seven from Knott County Held in Eastern Robbery

Seven Knott countians were arrested in Hazard on Friday in connection with a burglary late Thursday or early Friday at the Eastern post office. A hundred Social Security checks, $2700 in postal money orders, and a money order machine were taken in the break-in.

The seven were arrested around 12:30 p.m. after a clerk at Citizens Bank in Hazard became suspicious of someone trying to cash a Social Security check without identification. The teller notified Hazard police, who stopped a car that fit the clerk's description.

Inside the car, officers discovered a large number of uncashed Social Security checks bearing the Eastern post office address, money orders, and a money order machine, state police said.

Authorities said some of the stolen checks turned up at area businesses and some were unaccounted for.

Arrested and charged with possession of stolen mail were: Larry K. Stone, 30, Chester Campbell, 25, Aileen Campbell, 31, and Ermadine Campbell, 29, all of Larkslane; Dewayne Chafins, 25, of Mousie; Noel Wicker, 20, and Joel Wicker, 20, both of Softshell. U.S. postal inspector Jim Donnelly said they are also being questioned about earlier burglaries of post-offices in the Knott communities of Garner and Mousie.

Town of Auxier Seeks To Preserve Its Past

The basic idea, as Bob Castle explained it, is that you cannot feel good about yourself unless you feel good about your origins.

Alex Haley may not have invented the idea—that, in order to feel proud, a people needs to reclaim its roots—but he surely gave a boost to the movement that is sending many individuals and communities back to the archives and elders in search of their past.

Count Auxier among them.

Many of the landmarks familiar to residents in its bustling coal-town days have already disappeared and the relics will soon vanish unless someone marks and preserves them, said Castle, who was elected last month as president of the newly-formed Auxier Historical Society.

Memories of the town that grew, struggled, and prospered under the benevolent paternalism of the North East Coal Company and its superintendent, Richard C. Thomas, will die with the older residents unless an effort is made to restore the old structures, organize the written and photographic records, and re-tell the old stories, Castle believes.

It is a story that reaches back to the pacification of the Shawnees and the arrival from Virginia of farmers and loggers like Sam Auxier, Basil Castle, Everett Dorton, and John Porter in the

State Board Declines To Act On Emergency Status Request

Citing questions asked about the $10,000 raises granted this summer to Floyd school principals, the state Board of Education last Wednesday failed to act on the district's requests that a fiscal emergency be declared on account of the 1986 budget deficit and that Floyd administrators' plans for eliminating the deficit be approved.

Floyd was one of seven Kentucky school districts which ended fiscal 1986 in the red and which sought emergency status in order to be able to continue spending legally. Since school districts are not permitted to have deficits, officials could be vulnerable to taxpayer lawsuits when they spend without state board sanction.

The state board decided not to act on the requests of Floyd county, which had a $403,278 deficit, or Carter county, with a $314,947 shortfall, until further financial information is furnished by the districts. Five districts with smaller deficits were granted emergency status.

According to news reports of the meeting in Frankfort, state board member Henry "Bud" Poage, of Fort Thomas, claimed that:

—a recent decision of the Floyd Board of Education to raise property taxes as a means of making up the deficit needs to be accompanied by better management of funds;

—Floyd principals' salaries now far exceed the state average; and

—this district's request for approval

About Those Salaries...

Of the salary increases given the district's 18 principals this year, Supt. Ray Brackett said they were designed to bring the underpaid administrators' salaries into line with those paid in neighboring school districts. The raises had been promised for several years, he said. Nor did he think they were much out of line with those paid statewide.

In fiscal 1985, the salaries of Floyd's five high school and 13 elementary school principals ranged from $20,410 to $33,860, the average being $30,230. This year they range from $37,190 to $44,108, with the average $40,434. The average increase was $10,204 or 33.7 percent.

According to the state Department of Education, the state average for elementary and middle school principals last year was $32,671, that of high school principals $37,539, a combined average of $35,105. While figures for this year were not available, if school districts increased principals' salaries only by the five percent across-the-board raise given to the state's teachers this year, the current statewide average for principals' salaries would be $36,860.

of its financial plan would again be considered after an independent audit of the system was completed.

But Floyd superintendent Ray Brackett—who, together with board chairman Dr. J. D. Adams and Finance Director Russell Frazier, was summoned to appear at an earlier meeting of the state board's financial committee—said the property tax hike was voted not only as a deficit remedy but also to qualify for school construction funds.

The Floyd contingent was given no reason in Frankfort to believe the principals' salaries would be an obstacle to the district's being granted emergency status, Brackett said. Nor was there any stipulation that the district be independently audited, he said.

The financial committee members present—Poage and former state board chairman James Ratcliffe—said only that they needed to see Floyd's close-estimate working budget before they could properly assess the district's financial prudence, Brackett said. Final approval of a budget by the Floyd board had been delayed by an amendment to the property tax rate—an alteration needed to correct a state Department of Revenue error—he said.

The necessary financial data will be available to the state board in time for its Nov. 5 meeting, when he anticipates the board will declare the financial

To Compete for Title of Miss Jenny Wiley

One of the young women pictured above will be named this year's Miss Jenny Wiley in competition to be held tomorrow night (Thursday) at 8 p.m. at the National Guard Armory. The Miss Jenny Wiley Pageant is but one of the events of the week-long Jenny Wiley Festival.

Contestants are, from left, Sabrina Burke, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donnie Burke, of Martin; Cathy Horn, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Horn, of Prestonsburg; Beverly Martin, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lacey Hicks, of Eastern, and Serena Pitts, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lacy Pitts, of Hueysville.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd B. Allen, of Eastern, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Sherri Rene' to Mr. Michael F. Reynolds, son of Dr. and Mrs. William C. Reynolds, of Lexington.

The first national water-skiing tournament was held in 1939 at Jones Beach State Park, Long Island, N.Y.

Public Wants Local Control Of Schools

There is "substantial support for more influence on public schools from local school boards" according to the 1986 Gallup Poll on the Public's Attitudes Toward the Public Schools. A higher percentage of those responding wanted more influence from local school boards, while there was only moderate support for more influence from state government and strong opposition to more federal influence.

On the question "Would you like the local school board to have more influence, or less influence, in determining the educational program of the local public schools?", 57 percent want more influence, 17 percent want less influence, 17 percent the same influences, and nine percent didn't know.

These responses include both parents and nonparents and parents with children in public schools as well as those with children in nonpublic schools. Parents and nonparents have similar attitudes on these matters. Parents, however, are even more likely than nonparents to oppose increased federal influence. At the same time, they are somewhat more likely than nonparents to favor both increased influence by local school boards and by state government.

Various population groups polled consistently support increased influence for local school boards, but some differences emerge on the question of increased control by state and federal government. Forty-five percent want the state government to have more influence, while 32 percent think the state should have less influence. (Sixteen percent said the same as now and seven percent didn't know.)

On the question "Would you like the federal government in Washington to have more influence or less influence in determining the educational program of the local public schools?", 26 percent said there should be more influence, while 53 percent said there should be less influence from the federal government. Twelve percent said same as now and nine percent didn't know.

The annual Phi Delta Kappa/Gallup Poll on education provides information on trends in opinion about a wide range of questions concerning schools. It alerts decision makers to overall public reaction to a variety of school programs and policies and serves as a national benchmark against which local attitudes can be measured.

FAMILY DOCTORS AT CONVENTION

Dr. Ellen Joyce, of the Mud Creek Clinic, and Dr. Allen Halbert, of Martin, attended the annual scientific assembly of the American Academy of Family Physicians (AAFP) in Washington, D.C. The meeting was held Sept. 29-Oct. 2. More than 4,000 family physicians from around the country attended the continuing medical education meeting.

Barring legal challenge, royalties of from $12,000 to $15,000 a year are predicted as the result of a contract signed by the city with Randy Bradley to tap natural gas on city property on Sally Stephens Branch. The new well replaces one that once operated on a site later used as a garbage dump and since reclaimed.

One of the beneficiaries would be the animal shelter operated on the site by the city and county. The facility would get free gas.

However, Houston Stephens, grandson of the woman after whom the branch is named, said this week his family still owns gas and mineral rights to the property on which the new well has been drilled and he has informed the city of his claim.

last years of the 18th century. But the period that is best documented, and whose relics the historical society is bent on preserving, is that which began with the arrival of North East in 1907 and its construction of a town on property bought from the Auxier and legendary coal entrepreneur John C. C. Mayo.

Some of the old structures are still intact. The 80-year-old building that was once the Mary Luck Coal Company store was recently donated to the Auxier Historical Society by its most recent owner, T. A. Patton, to house a museum. A boarding house dating to the town's earliest coal-camp days is now a private residence. Still standing is the Auxier Methodist Church, built with the help of North East and J. C. B. Auxier. So are three houses built by the thrifty coal company nearly 60 years ago from lumber salvaged from an old wooden school.

(North East replaced the wooden school with one of the county's first brick high schools in 1929. Built at a cost of $25,000, the two-story, eight-room structure burned to the ground, as the result of a faulty furnace, four months after it opened. It was replaced by the present school.)

Structures that have now disappeared or are in a state of decay the historical society would like to mark and, where feasible, restore. Among them are the coal-fired power plant, only a fragment of its 150-foot chimney still standing, which symbolizes for some a progressive coal company's concern for the welfare of its workers.

There is a wood-shingled storage tank built in 1911, once the centerpiece of the town water system but now rotting away, unmarked and unmourned, on a hill above Jack Music's house. And there are the three town wells the water system replaced, which old photos show covered with gazebos.

All that remains of the railroad depot are a few pylons in a weedfield. Gone, too, except for some concrete foundations, are the trestle and the trestle that fed it with coal from North East's Johns Creek mines.

It was when he was looking at the ruins of the old power plant, said Castle, a psychometrist with Mountain Comp Care, that he resolved to try to preserve the last few links with Auxier's past. "Why not save this beautiful town?" he thought. And the Auxier Historical Society was born.

Beside Castle, its officers are Vicki Tackett, vice-president; Stella McCown, secretary; and Linda Jefferson, treasurer. Its directors are Clara Harris, James W. "Bugdust" Evans, and Claude McKenzie.

The first issue of "The Trestle," a proposed quarterly publication, appeared recently—it can be bought at the Wells or Stambaugh groceries in Auxier or The Bookworm in Prestonsburg—and the society is planning a homecoming for next Labor Day.

The society meets on the third Monday of the month and is seeking members and contributions, which may be sent to P.O. Box 409, Auxier, KY 41602.

"Too often our kids are not shown cultural things," Castle explained. "We have a distinct culture, including what North East brought us. If we're going to hold our heads up in the future, we must know our past."

Bits and Pieces

IMPORTANT PEOPLE

Sometimes we wait too long—too many times.

I have thought many times of writing about the teachers who, as teachers and individuals, probably had more influence on me than anyone other than my parents, grandparents, and my Aunt May.

They all taught me to value hard work, learning, and fair play.

The real reason I haven't done this before is that I have been afraid I would leave someone out.

I remember when I left Miss Anna Laura May's second grade that I thought I could never, ever have another teacher that I loved as much, or who was so good. Then I was in Mrs.—we always said "Miss"—Anna May Mellon's third grade, and I have never been able to say or feel that one was more or less wonderful than the other. And there was "Miss" Shirley Hughes, who taught me twice for shorter periods, and she joined those I could not choose among. I regret that I never told her how much her love, kindness, and fairness meant to me. I hope she knew.

These were early teachers, and I have often wondered if children now can be as fortunate as I was; if teachers can now be as unfailingly caring; if one ever stops to repeat the alphabet to a little girl who, although she knew all the letters and how to write them, had somehow missed learning the proper order; if one still will stop to shame a few who are "picking on" a child who can't or won't fight back.

These teachers did these things for me and for all their students. I have remembered them over the years, because they were important to me then and remain so.

"Miss" Shirley died Saturday morning, and the world is poorer for it, as I am.

But my generation is richer in many ways, because of her and "Miss" Anna Laura, and "Miss" Anna May, and "Miss" Victoria, and "Miss" Pauline, and of course, so many others.

They loved us, and we, in turn, love them still.

LETTERS To the Editor

The views expressed here are those of the writer, and not necessarily those of this newspaper. No unsigned contributions will be published.

"Buzzard City"

I was raised in the country, never had the chance to go to school but about three months out of each year. My dad died in 1921. I was seven years old; my oldest brother was 12. There were five children left and my mother was 38 years old. We all had to work, dig May apple roots, pull labelia and any other herbs we could. Opossum hunted in winter months to survive. We were always taught to be honest and tell the truth. I guess that is why I have always despised a liar and a thief.

I have always had a feeling for a working man since they are the backbone of our country.

Our coal business and truckers for Floyd county and Pike, Martin, Johnson and some counties around us are the only sources of income they have.

Our lawmakers have had 15 or 20 years to make a law that would be safe and take care of our roads. Instead they make a law that they themselves don't understand, full of loopholes which allows the court in Catlettsburg to play the game as highway robbers.

About three months ago I went down to the Boyd County Attorney's office to talk about a little business on our overweight tickets. The tag that was bought for overweight didn't cover Boyd county, I suppose. He said our fine is $500 plus court cost even if it is a jury trial. I had heard rumors about that place but wanted to find out for myself.

Then I got to thinking, most buzzards wait till their prey dies but these don't. The county attorney told me he looked at truck drivers as bank robbers. Then I thought to myself, Buzzard City.

If Boyd county people want to put up with that kind of leadership, the whole county falls in the same category.

All these counties I just mentioned, take heed and stay out. If you are caught for anything you have had it.

Guilty or not is the pass word then the next word is $500 plus court cost.

Think about it.

They would like to ask that God may bless each and everyone for their kindness and helpfulness.

GUEST HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Homer L. Merritt, Jr., of Newport News, Va., Edna and JoAnn Bentley, formerly of Floyd county, have been guests of their sister, Lora Hall, of Prestonsburg, while visiting relatives and friends in this area.

Can He (She) Do It Again?

Well, the kids did it again last week at the Apple Day Turtle Trots, winning over older and wiser, and slower competitors.

"The Dukes of Hazard" No. 235, owned by 11-year-old Shawn Gwinn, of Hager Hill, won the first race in the double-crown of turtle trotting last Friday. The question quickening the pulse of every true turtle racing fan is, "Can he (or she) repeat the feat in the prestigious Jenny Wiley Festival race, Saturday?"

Only time can tell.

Following the winner was "Big Dick" owned by J.R. Sadler, in second place, and third was "Terrible Turtle", owned by Roger Castle, II, of Thealka, third.

Although most of the honors for the day went to Johnson countians, some from Floyd county were seen in the winners' cycle. These included the gang from the Prestonsburg Sundry Store whose turtle, "Kaboom," won heat number two in the Business and Group Division; Radiological Management and Services, Dr. David White, Prestonsburg, with "Big D" won heat number 68 in the Sawbones Division, and Annie Hall, of David, won heat number 223 with "Finish First" in the Claiming Race.

The Turtle Trot Committee, composed of whoever shows up to work, tries hard to keep the Trots organized in a manner fair to all, and Jeanne Spurlock, foremost turtle trotswoman of the Commonwealth, said, "We feel this is the best year ever and hope everyone has a good time. Should anyone have any suggestions to better the Trots, call 886-3160, or write to Turtle Trot Committee, % First Commonwealth Bank, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653."

AARP Board To Meet

Warning Goes Out To Student Defaulters

The Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority plans to notify 5,137 student loan defaulters this week that have until Nov. 15 to pay up or the U.S. Department of Education will take their 1986 federal income tax refunds to help repay their defaulted loans.

The 5,137 defaulters, who are now scattered across the U.S., but whose loans originated in Kentucky, owe the federal government an average of $2,768 and a combined total of approximately $14.2 million in principal and interest. These defaulted loans were insured through KHEAA by the federal government.

KHEAA transferred these defaulted loans to the U.S. Department of Education which has authorized the state agency to accept payment on its behalf prior to referring the claims to the Internal Revenue Service for action. The IRS, upon notification from the Department of Education, will deduct the amount of the defaulted loan plus a servicing fee from any federal income tax refund for 1986.

If the 1986 federal tax return is insufficient to cover the debt, or if no federal refund is due, the student can expect to face legal action by KHEAA or to have future federal tax returns claimed every year until the defaulted loan is repaid in full.

KHEAA has been claiming state income tax refunds to help offset defaulted loans since the 1984 tax year and has claimed a total of $101,000 in tax refunds in the last two years.

Students who want to inspect their records or to have their debt reviewed must do so within 65 days of the date on the notice they receive, according to the Department of Education rules. The Department of Education rules will be included with each notice.

A request may be disregarded if it is not filed before the deadlines, or if the request does not contain the information and documents that the Department of Education rules require. All requests must be sent to: KHEAA, Default Unit, 1050 U.S. 127 South, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40601.

Portion Of Mine Fee Returned To County

Gov. Martha Layne Collins recently presented Judge-Executive John Stumbo with a check for $65,429, which represents the county's portion of permit and acreage fees collected on permitted mining operations during fiscal year 1985-1986.

The Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet, by law, collects these fees and returns a portion to the coal producing counties for general purposes determined by the fiscal court.

Drug Being Tested At UK Could Halt Heart Attack

The pain comes in the chest; hard to breathe, hard to move. Maybe if you sit down, it will go away again. But this time it doesn't go away and you know you're in trouble: you're having a heart attack. And the pain is getting worse. The heart may stop, not enough time to get to a surgeon, irreversible damage.

In the near future, this familiar scenario might be changed. Dr. Anthony DeMaria, a University of Kentucky cardiologist, is involved in clinical trials of a new drug, called t-PA, that has the potential to interrupt heart attacks in progress. "We are the first hospital in Kentucky testing this drug," DeMaria says. "It's unique. The wave of the future."

Serious Crime Up This Year

Serious crime took a dramatic jump during the first six months of 1986 according to the Kentucky State Police. The seven major crimes, used nationally to measure the crime rate, rose 24 percent during January through June 1986, based on comparison of figures for the same period in 1985.

While murder showed a slight decline (-5%), other serious crimes, classified as Part One Offenses, increased substantially: rape (+12%); robbery (+44%); aggravated assault (+17%); burglary (+28%); larceny theft (+24%); and auto theft (+22%). Overall, 10,738 more offenses were reported to the police during the first six months of 1986 than during the same period in 1985. Property offenses (burglary, larceny and auto theft) accounted for 89.4 percent of the reported crimes and 90 percent of the increase.

Kentucky State Police Commissioner Morgan T. Elkins said the numbers are alarming, but it is too early to draw any conclusions. "We will have to look at year-end figures before we know whether the six-month increases are signalling a trend." Elkins cited the fact that data for the first six months of 1985 reflected a 16 percent drop for Part One Offenses, but by the end of 1985 the state reported a 1.2 percent increase.

Sixty-eight of Kentucky's 120 counties show an increase in Part One Offenses. Robbery increased in 37 counties; burglaries were up in 72 counties; larceny increased in 64 counties and the number of stolen vehicle offenses jumped in 54 counties.

Jefferson County, the state's most populated county, reported 59 percent of the increase, with 78 percent of the increase in robbery, and over half of the statewide increase in property crimes. Jefferson County reflects 19 percent of the state's population and 30 percent of the reported offenses. Fayette County, with five percent of the state population, reported 13 percent of the Part One Offenses. Northern Kentucky (Boone, Campbell and Kenton counties), with seven percent of the population, reported nine percent of the offenses.

Handicapped Parking Month Is Proclaimed

October has been named D.A.V. Handicapped Parking Awareness Month in Prestonsburg by Mayor Ann R. Latta in cooperation with efforts of the D.A.V.'s 1,000,000 members and 110,000 auxiliary members to create a greater awareness of the needs of people who are disabled.

The proclamation reads, in part, as follows:

"Whereas, handicapped persons deserve and need greater accessibility to convenient public parking facilities, and...finding an accessible parking place can be very difficult for a handicapped person; and...many non-disabled persons disregard parking spaces reserved for handicapped persons thereby causing unnecessary hardship to them...Now, therefore, I, Ann R. Latta, Mayor for the city of Prestonsburg, do hereby proclaim the month of October as DAV Handicapped Parking Awareness Month."

D.A.V., Chapter 18, and auxiliary will meet at 7 p.m., Friday, at the Auxier Fire Department.

"NOVA" Examines Uranus

After a journey which lasted nine years and covered more than 2 billion miles, Voyager 2 passed Uranus, a planet previously seen only as a fuzzy patch of light in the most powerful telescopes.

The strange and wondrous discoveries made by Voyager 2 on its journey to Uranus is discussed on the "NOVA" episode, "The Planet That Got Knocked on Its Side" which airs Sunday, October 26, at 9:00 p.m. on KET.

"NOVA" learns that primordial catastrophes may have shaped the actual planet and its moons. Perhaps most remarkable: these findings were made by an aging spacecraft with stiff gears, a balky receiver, a forgetful computer and a feeble 25-watt transmitter—about the size of a refrigerator bulb.

As Voyager approached Uranus, scientists were frustrated by the lack of visible detail in its atmosphere. The colorful cloudscapes Voyager had found at Jupiter seven years earlier were hidden by a blue haze of methane gas.

However, other data gave evidence that beneath 4,000 miles of clouds was a sea of liquid water and ammonia over 5,000 miles deep. Beneath these depths was discovered a core of rock and ice the size of planet Earth.

A rain of icy comets early in Uranus' history may have helped form the ocean. One very large comet, striking a glancing blow, possibly knocked the planet on its side. Such an occurrence would explain why Uranus' poles now lie in the plane where its equator should be.

This violent past perhaps is the only way to account for the strange features found on some of the 15 moons of Uranus, notable Miranda, where landforms never before seen in the history of planetary exploration were photographed: cliffs higher than Mt. Everest and vast systems of parallel grooves resembling race courses.

"NOVA" is produced for public television by WGBH/Boston.

ELECTRICITY DOES IT ALL FOR LESS!

IF SHERIFF HENRY HALE, Chief Deputy John Blackburn, and Deputy Randy Johnson have their way, there will be a lot less marijuana grown in this county. This stand of 1,508 plants, which was destroyed soon after this picture was taken, was found in the Salt Lick area of Right Beaver. It is but one of several destroyed recently by the Sheriff's department and the State Police.

Miners File Suit To Insure Payment

Six coalminers last week asked for a court order to seize equipment at a Little Mud Creek mine as a guarantee they will be paid back wages.

In a suit filed Thursday in Floyd Circuit Court, the men claim they are owed $6400 in back pay by George Newsome and Elbert Spears, operators of T&G Coal Company, for work they did between July 7 and Aug. 17 this year.

Because they had reason to believe the owners planned to sell out, they said, plaintiffs sought court orders attaching mining equipment left on site and putting a lien on the mine and equipment.

The men, and the amounts they say are due them, are: Clifford Woods, $1618; Eddie Gayheart, $487; Freddie Stratton, $168; Danzil Lee Endicott, $693; Estill Ratliff, $1649; and Drew Blair, $1783.

The property they want attached includes three endloaders, four scoops, a tractor, two roof bolters, a push drill, and a riding drill.

The suit—which, like all lawsuits, gives only the plaintiffs' version of events—was filed by Prestonsburg attorney Elizabeth A. Burchett.

Kentucky AARP Sets Its Legislative Goals

Containing health costs and expanding community services for older persons are among the legislative goals which volunteer legislative representatives of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) will pursue during the next biennium in Kentucky.

These and other priorities were agreed to during an organizational meeting of the AARP Kentucky State Legislative Committee, held September 3 and 4 in Jamestown.

The legislative group's chairman, Col. Strather W. (Bill) Hawkins, of Echols, noted that AARP is particularly attentive to older persons' desire to be financially independent.

"Rising hospital and other health care costs threaten the security of many older persons, because Medicare pays less than half of their total health costs," Hawkins explained. "We will urge legislators to continue to address escalating health costs. In addition, we will support actions to hold down utility costs and to expand energy assistance for low-income people."

The AARP group will also work during the 1987 Interim Session of the Kentucky General Assembly to ensure that living wills are honored and to increase home health and community care services.

These legislative priorities, which reflect the needs and interests of AARP's 241,053 members in Kentucky, were determined by a survey of all AARP chapters and National Retired Teachers Association units in the state.

The following AARP members will serve as officers of the Kentucky State Legislative Committee during 1986-87: Col. Strather W. (Bill) Hawkins, of Echols, chairman; Wanda Korte, of Somerset, vice-chairman; and Frank Clark, of Louisville, secretary. New members are: James Scanlan, of Erlanger; Charles Spears, of Pikeville; Adrian McMillian, of Goshen; Bowers Wallace, of Sturgis; Kendall Boggs, of Whitesburg; and Marshall Swain, of Frankfort.

With more than 23 million members nationwide, the American Association of Retired Persons is the nation's largest organization of Americans age 50 and older.

Court To Borrow To Aid Gas Co.; Bond Issue Seen

At a special meeting Tuesday, Floyd Fiscal Court authorized the county judge-executive to borrow the money needed to keep a county-owned gas company in business.

Some $120,000 will be borrowed from the First Commonwealth Bank for six months, according to the court decision. It will be used to pay $100,000 on the debt owed by East Kentucky Utilities to Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company and $20,000 on the utility's debt to Southeastern Gas Co.

The payment to Kentucky West Va. guarantees the wholesale firm will continue to supply gas to EKV's Beaver Creek customers this winter. About 1300 families, a nursing home and three elementary schools are served by the system. The wholesale supplier had earlier petitioned the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission for permission to shut the gas off in view of EKV's failure to pay bills totalling $312,000.

For the long term, the county is seeking authorization to float a bond issue to retire the utility's debts and upgrade the system.

C.A.P. Receives Flour From Feed The Children

A shipment of 5,000 pounds of white flour was delivered to the Christian Appalachian Project at Somerset, Saturday, September 27. The American grown flour was donated by Feed The Children.

"The flour will be distributed to small mission ministries in eastern Kentucky and through the Christian Appalachian Project's used clothing stores," said Charles Deaton, project manager for the organization's Operation Sharing.

The Christian Appalachian Project, based in Lancaster, was started by Rev. Ralph Beiting, and has grown from holding summer camps in the 1950s to a multi-faceted, multi-million dollar organization serving people in ten eastern Kentucky counties.

Anyone interested in flour for their program may contact Charles Deaton at 606-792-3051.

Marshall Benefits From Couple's Will

A prominent Huntington attorney and his wife today said "Thanks" to the Huntington area—nearly seven years after his death and nearly two years after her death.

As a result, three of the area's lending institutions divided a gift of $600,000 from the estate of Mrs. J. J. N. Quinlan during a news conference this afternoon in Marshall University's Memorial Student Center.

Receiving $200,000 checks were Marshall University, Huntington Galleries and Green Acres Regional Center for the mentally retarded.

Announcement of the gifts was made by Huntington attorney William M. Frazier, co-executor of Mrs. Quinlan's estate. The checks were presented by Mrs. Irene "Susie" Clay, Quinlan's long-time secretary and also a co-executor.

"Mr. and Mrs. Quinlan both remarked to me on several occasions that they had earned their money in Huntington, a city they loved, and that they wanted to leave it here," Frazier said. "Their wills made provision for that to happen and I'm very pleased that Mrs. Clay and I are able to present their gift to three of this area's most outstanding organizations."

Frazier said the $600,000 represented the residue of Mrs. Quinlan's estate after a number of smaller individual bequests had been met.

Fire Prevention Week

Mayor Ann Latta proclaimed this week Fire Prevention Week in Prestonsburg.

It will also be a week of special recognition of the city fire department, which is celebrating its 50th year of service, she said.

Fire Chief Tom Blackburn is the grandson of Arthur Blackburn, the city's first fire chief.

Houseplants Are For Looking, Not Eating

The moving and planting of shrubs and houseplants that takes place each fall often brings kids and plants together for the first time.

Children still at the stage where they experience the world by putting it in their mouths should be kept away from plants, or the plants kept away from them.

"Many plants are being brought in from patios and decks for the winter," said Robert Anderson, a horticulturist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

"These plants are a new addition to the world of many toddlers. And those children are going to want to touch, and often taste, the new addition," he said.

The danger of a child being poisoned by a houseplant or an ornamental shrub or plant in the lawn is very remote—much less than that the child will be injured from household cleaning products.

Most of the worry over certain houseplants being poisonous is over concern, Anderson said. But, allergies are a different matter. Lots of people, children among them, are allergic to different degrees to different things. A wide variety of houseplants will cause an allergic reaction in some individuals.

JoAnn Johnson, a pharmacist in Princeton, Ky., said there has been little research to determine just how potent various plants are.

"There are substances in many plants that are poisonous, but there have been no studies to determine how much of the plant an individual would have to eat in order to get a lethal dose," Johnson said.

"It's not so much a matter of worrying about getting poisoned as it is simple concern about being made ill. Children, even youngsters who may be out in the woods playing 'pioneer' need to be warned not to eat plants and berries unless they know them to be safe," she said.

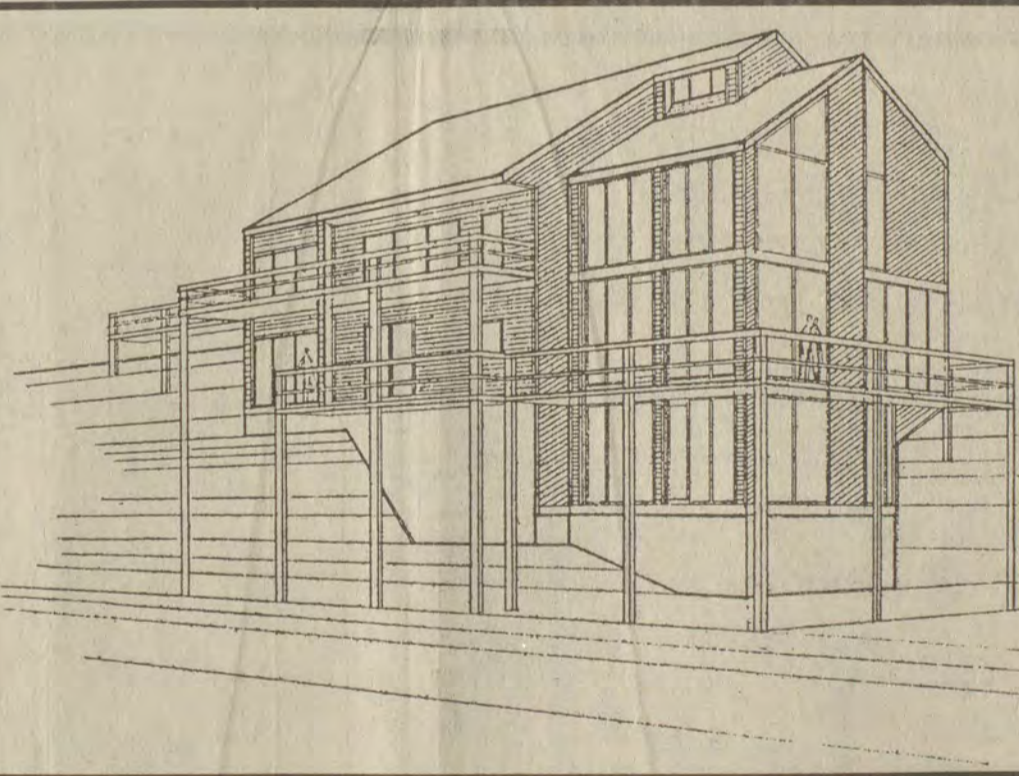

Jobless Rate Down

The jobless rate in the Big Sandy district dropped from a revised 15.1 percent in July to a preliminary 13.0 percent in August. All five counties reported double-digit rates, which ranged from Floyd county's 10.6 percent to Magoffin county's 16.3 percent.

The monthly sample of claimants of unemployment insurance benefits showed 56.1 percent had worked in mining, 15.8 percent in trade, 8.6 percent in construction and 7.7 percent in services.

Historians say the word "Yankee," meaning an American, comes from the Dutch word for "pirate," which the settler's in New Amsterdam (now New York) applied to their shrewd New England neighbors.

Sister Marie Gangwish Honored

Our Lady of the Way Hospital held a reception in honor of its former pastoral care director, Sister Marie Gangwish, September 17. She is shown above with Dr. Gan Maddiwar.

Sister Marie's resignation became effective June 1 after she was hospitalized in May with health problems that were eventually corrected through open-heart surgery performed in Northern Kentucky.

"It is with great joy we welcome you back today," said sister Monica Justinger, Our Lady of the Way's administrator. "We've waited a long time."

Waneta Newsome, Health Care Coordinator, opened the celebration with a special prayer for Sister Marie, and Sister Monica presented her with a large plaque that read, "In appreciation for all the years of dedicated service and time given unselfishly and with love to Our Lady of the Way Hospital and Eastern Kentucky... God Bless You..."

Mrs. Newsome gave Sister Marie a tree made of marigolds and money donated by hospital employees.

Sister Marie's voice did not cooperate well with her attempt to respond to the presentations.

"I've yet to fully recover the gift of my voice," she explained. "I've no strength in my arms. But I can walk four miles a day in an hour, if the ground's flat!" she added.

"I think it's everybody's prayers that got me through all that. I do appreciate your love and support. For the first two or three months, I got at least one card every day. Thank you for all your love and concern."

Sister Marie said the employees' money gift would help her pay her first month's rent. She plans to move to Knott county in November and continue the ministry of home visitation and prayer that always complemented her work at Our Lady of the Way Hospital.

Flowering Trees For Fall Planting

Ten free flowering trees will be given to people who join the National Arbor Day Foundation during October. The Foundation will give two white dogwood, two American redbud, two European mountainash, two Washington hawthorn and two flowering crab trees to members joining during October. The free trees are part of the Foundation's efforts to improve the quality of life in America by encouraging tree planting.

"The Foundation is encouraging more people to plant trees in the fall, which is an excellent time for tree planting," John Rosenow, the Foundation's executive director, said. "So we're giving these free flowering trees to people who make a $10 membership contribution during October."

"These trees were selected because they will give a colorful flowering of pink, white, and red blossoms throughout the spring," Rosenow added. "The six-to-twelve inch trees will be sent postpaid at the right time for planting between October 15 and December 10, with enclosed planting instructions. The trees are guaranteed to grow, or we will replace them free of charge."

To become a member of the Foundation and to receive the free trees, a $10 membership contribution should be sent to FLOWERING TREES, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, NE 68410, by October 31, 1986.

Greyhounds are said to have the best eyesight of any breed of dog.

Floyd Students In Stuart Drama

Two Floyd students at Morehead State University are involved in a production of "The Thread That Runs So True," an adaptation of Jesse Stuart's book by the same name. Tracee Buchanan, Prestonsburg Senior, is a member of the cast; Wheelwright graduate student Doug Salisbury is lighting director.

This drama will be sponsored by the Jesse Stuart Foundation and will be performed at the Paramount Arts Center in Ashland on Friday, October 17, at 7:30 p.m. and again the following afternoon, Saturday, October 18, at 2:00 p.m. Immediately following the Friday night performance, the Department of Communications at Morehead State University is sponsoring a special reception for the public to meet the cast and crew. The reception will be held at the Quality Inn and will be hosted by President and Mrs. A.D. Albright of Morehead State University.

Carl Curnutte, an Ashland junior, will play the role of "Burt Eastham."

"Jesse Stuart" will be played by Ronald Meeks, Morehead, and "Naomi Dean Norris" will be played by Julie Jones, Cynthia.

"The play focuses on Stuart's early years as a teacher," according to Dr. Travis Lockhart, MSU assistant professor of theatre and director of the play. "Stuart began teaching at age 18 in Greenup County. In the play he brings an educational experience to teenagers who have not had an opportunity to achieve because of their work on the farm," he added. "When you see the play you will appreciate the pride and talent that was in rural Kentucky in the 20s."

Ticket information is available by calling the Paramount Arts Center at (606) 324-3175 or the Jesse Stuart Foundation, (606) 329-5233.

Centre Awarded
$3 Million Grant

Centre College has become the first Kentucky college or university to receive a prestigious grant from the Olin Foundation, Inc., of New York, that provides $3 million for building and equipping a new physical science building.

Centre was the nation's only institution to be honored in 1986 with a grant for a new building from among 78 colleges and universities that applied for the coveted Olin Foundation grant.

The $3 million grant will pay the entire cost of building and equipping what will be called the Olin Physical Science Building. The new building, along with Centre's Young Science Hall (1970), will provide the college with one of the most complete science facilities of any college of its size in the country.

In announcing the grant, Lawrence W. Milas, president of the Olin Foundation, said: "We believe you have amply demonstrated not only the importance of this facility to the college but also the importance of Centre to higher education. Centre is clearly an academic leader in its region and its planning for the future has been superb."

The Olin Foundation's primary interest is to award grants based on criteria of institutional stability, academic quality and regional leadership to private colleges and universities for the construction of academic buildings and libraries. In awarding a grant, the Olin Foundation pays the entire cost of constructing and furnishing a new building and will not share the cost with any other donor.

Examples of other prominent institutions that have received Olin Foundation grants in recent years are Vanderbilt University in Tennessee for a chemical engineering building; Kenyon College in Ohio for a library; and Johns Hopkins University in Maryland for an earth and planetary sciences building.

The new building will provide classrooms, laboratories and faculty offices for Centre's programs in physics, chemistry, biochemistry, molecular biology, chemical physics and pre-engineering studies. In addition, the 32,000-square-foot building will provide computer facilities linked to the existing campus network as well as various other rooms and facilities to support work in the physical sciences.

Construction of the new building is expected to begin by the spring of 1987. It is expected to be completed by the summer of 1988.

The building will be on a site east of Breckinridge Hall (1892), a dormitory, and directly in line with the campus landmark, Old Centre (1820), the administration building, which is on the other side of Walnut Street.

The Seven Thunders

I wrote the Seven Thunders in Revelation Chapter 10, but I didn't know I was writing them until I started to write the last one.

I had been shown that the articles I was writing was out of the little book that was given to John in Revelation 10.

It was like this, I had wrote several articles, then I felt I needed to write another article, so I started wondering what I should call it. The Spirit impressed me to call it THUNDER NO. 7. That rung a bell. I turned and read the seven thunders, then I counted the articles I had wrote and published and I had published six. The first one that counted was a eight page paper. The next one was a four page that was added to the eight page. The other Thunders were small articles.

Each one of these articles was a Thunder or message that came down to John and he was about to write them and was told not to, but to seal them up.

And, then the Angel went ahead and explained that when these articles or thunders are published that time would be no more because the mysteries of God would be finished that He had given to the prophets.

Then, I started looking at these thunders again and there was no mystery in them, although they came from God in heaven they were plain.

They tell how to build an altar that is ordained of God. They tell how to pray. They even tell how to get a birth defect healed. But most of all they tell what the righteousness of God is.

Then the Angel in (Rev. 10:11) explained to John that he must prophesy again before many people and nations and tongues and kings.

Now read (Rev. 10) again and you will see John was to do this prophesying again when time was no more. It's talking about now, we are in the thousand year judgment (Rev. 20:5).

When I wrote the little article called OUR WOMEN, when I wrote the last word, someone laid their hand on my shoulder. I looked and there was no one there.

One night in the wee hours of the morning, I got up and wrote on an article and I was copying a reference out of the Bible and the Bible started closing, but someone stopped it and held it until I wrote the last dot.

Then, they shut it so hard that it popped. I jumped. Writing these articles was like that.

I wrote these articles over a period of seven years (Rev. 10:7)
I wrote with great fear.

I wrote these articles in the presence of two great spiritual forces, one for me, and one group against me.

When the Lord started giving me visions of people in the judgement and I saw them in their new bodies, then I read (Rev. 20:4,5) and that was saying that the people in the judgement was going to die. John said (Rev. 20:4) that he saw the souls of them that had died. He's talking about seeing them in another new body, making the third body these people had been seen in. I was amazed at this. So much so, that the Lord gave me a vision of this. I saw walnuts hanging on a tree and I was caused to know we are made like that. Our spirit is that living thing inside that kernel.

In a vision I was showed to lay my hand on a dead person. Months later in a vision that person showed me how to cut my hair.

I had released their spirit, sin ties you to the body you are living in whether this carnal body, or the judgement body (Rev. 20:4,5).

These seven thunders are called the rod of iron in Rev. 12:5. These thunders are the government of the kingdom. They are forever.

I was reading in Revelation 2:28 about the morning star. I prayed and asked what it was that night in a vision I saw THUNDER NO. 1, the paper saying the famine was coming.

If you are out there in Babylon, come out of her. I used to pay her my fifties.

If you have trouble believing these articles I write, I want you to consider this...In God's Holy Word He says in one place to not mar the corners of your beard. In another place He said you will not shave the corners of your beard. Now, the corners of your beard are under your eyes where it grows out there to a point on your cheek bone. Now look at all the religious pictures you can find, you will see they have the corners shaved off.

Now, the point is this. If the world's religions, if their leaders don't know how to grow a beard like God said, then how are you going to trust them to lead you down that narrow path to the judgement, which they call heaven. You see they are in darkness. You may have believed in Jesus Christ but if you follow their dark path you know what can happen.

Matt. 26:64

Time For Flu Shots, Say Health Officials

Although Kentucky has had unusually warm temperatures recently, flu season will eventually arrive, and state health officials are reminding people that it is time for flu shots.

"Any person, including a child, with a history of chronic heart or lung disease is in the top priority group for influenza vaccinations," said Reginald Finger, M.D., of the Department for Health Services. "Others in the high-risk group are those with chronic kidney disease or diabetes and residents of nursing homes and other chronic care facilities."

"Most people recover from the flu uneventfully," he said, "but it can cause serious health complications for persons in these high-risk groups."

Everyone older than 65 should be vaccinated as well, said Finger, who directs the department's communicable diseases branch. Other individuals who should be vaccinated are physicians, nurses and other health care professionals who have extensive contact with high-risk patients.

People younger than 35 who need flu immunizations should get two different shots this year, according to health officials. The make-up of this year's flu immunization is based on prevalent flu strains from the 1985-86 flu season, explains Joseph Skaggs, acting director of the department's epidemiology division.

"After this year's vaccine was in production, epidemiologists identified another strain of Asian flu particularly threatening to high-risk young people and children," said Skaggs. "So this year, there are two different shots, and we recommend that people under 35 in high-risk groups get both shots."

Influenza vaccines may be administered to almost anyone, except persons with a severe allergy to eggs and to persons who have a short-term illness with fever. To minimize concern over possible side effects, pregnant women should wait until the second or third trimester of pregnancy before taking the vaccine, Finger said.

Persons who should be vaccinated against influenza should contact their personal physician or their local health department about the shots.

Star Lore

By Fred Cooper Tichenor

This is that "awful" time of the year, Virgo!

ARIES (Mar 21-Apr 21) Your desires will be strong this week but you'll be too lazy to do anything about them. All litigation will go against you now, but it may be for the best in the long run. Don't try to get too chummy with the boss, s/he'll think you're trying to brown-nose. A young friend will offer you awekend interlude.

TAURUS (Apr 22-May 22) You will be much less practical than usual this week and it will do you good. Your marriage is being transformed now - is it for the better or worse? This is your weekend for anything public - you'll have them in the palm of your hand. A female supervisor has a proposition that can mean the end of an old relationship.

GEMINI (May 23-June 21) Whatever you do, don't try to escape from your problems from your usual selfishness into a humanitarian for a few days. Legal proceedings may seem to be the only way out of marital difficulties now. Get involved with a hobby that will get your some exercise - you need it.

CANCER (Jun 22-Jul 20) You will be changing from unselfish to selfish in a few days. You're in a kinky mood now and if any opportunities turn up you won't be able to say "No". The thrust of your life is in a confused period but it will clarify shortly. Push plans and ideas at church this weekend - particularly for fund-raising events.

LEO (Jul 21-Aug 20) You will be on one of your eccentric-kicks this week and really putting-on-the-dog. If you've been needing an ingenious plan to solve a problem, it should come soon. Don't plan to stop with the "guys" after work Friday, it will "destory" your pocketbook and your home life. A femail is going to bring you some news that will turn your marriage upside down.

VIRGO (Aug 21-Sep 22) Since your ruler, Mercury, is moving through Scorpio, this is your most physical time of the year. It's money time as well and you can Beg, Borrow or Steal anything you need. An invitation from someone in the neighborhood could have serious romantic implications. Trust your ideas concerning the home implicitly this weekend.

LIBRA (Sep 23-Oct 25) You will have problems communicating with unusual people this week your normal charm won't be effective. Venus, is in your second sector and you will be buying everything in sight, or you could strike it rich - may be the lottery. Be leary of any unusual religious experiences, they could be deceptive.

SCORPIO (Oct 26-Nov 23) A deep-dark secret will come to surface and affect you dramatically. You are most egocentric now and even if you're right, it won't make you very palatable to others. Make plans to redo your home this weekend if you can afford it. But expect a battle at home, so maybe you should go away.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 24-Dec 21) Your mind will be absolutely incisive this week - trust it implicitly. The moral problem you've been wrestling with will be resolved soon. Fantastic money-making ideas will come to you this weekend. An Aquarius relative is going to instigate a new regimen in your home.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 17) You will be unusually diplomatic this week too bad it won't last. Drugs, alcohol and other forms of escape are attractive but they won't solve your problems. An excellent weekend to spend working to improve the lot of your fellowman. You could also be hosting a meeting for some group.

AQUARIUS (Jan 18 - Feb 16) This would be a good week to make plans for that exotic trip you've been considering. You have suddenly developed diplomatic talents keep them as long as possible. A Capricorn can put you in deep debt but you'll probably enjoy it. A hobby group is going to play a role in your professional life.

PISCES (Feb 17-Mar 20) You will be on your very best behavior this week and people may not recognize you. Doing for others is your ruling theme and it's the best you've got. You are going to have a religious experience in the near future which could change your life. You will also increase your creativity.

Epic Amazon Adventure Retrace in TV Special

In December 1896, a young Englishwoman named Lizzie Hessel set out on an epic journey up the Amazon River. Her destination: the Orton Rubber Estate over 4,000 miles away from her starting point, the commercial seaport of Belem.

"Lizzie: An Amazon Adventure—A River Journeys Special" is a personal account of Hessel's experiences. Airing Wednesday, October 29, at 8:00 p.m. on KET, the program weaves a dramatic recreation of Hessel's trip and her life in the Amazon jungle with an account of present day life there.

Ninety years after Hessel made her pioneering river journey, another young woman, actress and journalist Maria Aitken, followed in Hessel's footsteps and covered the same territory in 13 weeks.

Hessel recorded her extraordinary adventure through letters home to her family in London. The letters were discovered only recently by Hessel's great-niece. In "Lizzie: An Amazon Adventure" the letters are read over dramatized sequences which reconstruct Hessel's voyage. The sequences were shot in the actual locations and a Brazilian actress who reportedly bears an uncanny resemblance to the real Hessel portrays the young adventures.

In a year's time, Hessel covered over 4,000 miles of river through some of the most remote and untamed country on earth. She combatted dangerous river conditions, traveled miles of unexplored jungle harboring hostile Indians and became the first European woman ever to make the trip.

"Lizzie: An Amazon Adventure—A River Journeys Special" is produced by RKO Pictures and the BBC. It is presented on public television by WETA/Washington, D.C.

Headwaters Series' Tribute To Perkins

Veteran Kentucky Congressman Carl D. Perkins died August 3, 1984 as he was returning home to his Seventh Congressional District. Perkins' distinguished career lead him from the small eastern Kentucky town of Hindman all the way to the nation's Capitol.

"A Tribute to Carl D. Perkins," the first program in the seven-part "Headwaters" series, focuses on the hundreds of people from all walks of life who came to Hindman to pay their last respects to "Carl D." This episode airs Tuesday, October 28, at 7:00 p.m. on KET.

"Headwaters" is a series dealing with key issues of interest and concern to Eastern Kentuckians. Topics discussed include the problems faced by women miners, the implications of violence, the Frontier Nursing Service and the importance of the arts in community schools. The program "Women Miners' Conference," which airs November 4, was derived from a gathering of women miners two summers ago in Charleston, W. Va. "Five Conversations About Violence," airing November 11, features Clay County poet Lee Howard and other noted Eastern Kentuckians—professionals in education, law enforcement and related fields—as they reveal their personal and professional observations about violence and its causes.

"Frontier Nursing" airs November 18 and covers the visit of Mary Marvin Breckenridge Patterson to show her film "The Forgotten Frontier." This 1929 silent film presents a striking portrait of the first nurse-midwives in our country. "Dance Residency," the November 25 episode, follows Mary Bruce Blackburn as she teaches interpretive dance in eastern Kentucky communities and schools.

"Headwaters" is produced by Appalshop/Whitesburg, Ky.

Are Some Dentists Putting The Bite On Their Patients?

After the common cold, gum disease is probably the most widespread infectious ailment in this country. By the age of 60, nearly 40 percent of the adult population needs false teeth as a result, reports the October Reader's Digest.

To treat gum disease, also called periodontal disease or pyorrhea, many periodontists have routinely advised surgery, which can cost from $300 to $500 an hour. In recent years, however, researchers such as Dr. Paul Keyes, chairman of the International Dental Health Foundation, have challenged the need for surgery, deeming it a last resort. For the past decade, Dr. Keyes, who in 1960 helped identify the specific bacterium that causes tooth decay, has been widely known for his Keyes system, a nonsurgical treatment of gum disease.

Gum disease is a progressive disorder caused by bacteria that colonize in the gum crevices around teeth and down to the tooth root surfaces. The bacteria emit toxins that inflame the gum tissue, and this inflammation can spread all the way into the supporting bone. It is this inflammation that causes the damage.

As the infection advances, it usually causes "pockets" to form between the teeth and the supporting gum tissue. If the pockets become deep enough, teeth loosen and fall out. Traditional gum surgery seeks to reduce or eliminate the pockets by cutting and mechanically cleaning them out.

Dr. Keyes contends that a bacterial field cannot be controlled just by surgery or mechanical measures. Instead he advocates applying salts or baking soda, scaling and planing the root surfaces and pockets, and then irrigating the pockets with antiseptics. In severe cases, he has prescribed tetracycline, a broad-spectrum antibiotic. For follow-up care at home, he has instructed patients to rinse with oxygen-creating hydrogen peroxide because many bacteria thrive in an oxygenless environment.

Says Dr. Paul Cummings, former director of periodontics at the University of North Carolina's School of Dentistry and now in private practice, "There is just no comparison between the results I get from the Keyes system and surgery. What used to frustrate me with surgery was that invariably two or three years later you had to re-treat the case. The reason is obvious: we were attacking the tissue, instead of the infectious bacterial disease."

Dr. Cummings charges $85 to $150 an hour for treatment via the Keyes system, a far cry from the exorbitant costs of surgery. That, believes Dr. Cummings, is one of the chief reasons many periodontists are fighting the method tooth and nail. Another of their objections is that general dentists can perform the Keyes system, and they do not want general dentists treating these patients, according to Dr. Cummings.

On one point, both Dr. Keyes and his adversaries agree: some dentists are using what they call the Keyes system to treat their patients, but in fact are not trained in it. Dr. Keyes advises patients to be wary of a dentist who claims he uses the system but does not have a microscope in his office. He contends that a microscope is needed to monitor the disease. "Treating someone for gum disease without a microscope," he says, "is like going on a weight-control program without a scale—you're playing a guessing game."

To prevent gum disease in the first place, dentists agree that regular brushing with a soft brush combined with flossing and/or water irrigation helps remove plaque and dislodge the food particles that give rise to the damaging bacteria.

But if you do have gum disease and if surgery has been recommended to you, Reader's Digest suggests you seek a second opinion.

Natural History Encores On KET

David Attenborough's "The Living Planet: A Portrait of the Earth" encores on KET beginning Sunday, October 5, at 8 p.m. This 12-part series traces the earth's geological cycles, showing the planet as it has developed over the millennia.

Filmed over a three-year period at sites around the world by the BBC's Natural History Unit, "The Living Planet" also illustrates the cycles of creation and destruction of plant and animal life, powered by the elemental forces of fire, wind, and water.

GOAT HOUSING

COPYRIGHT 1986 KVMA
Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association
As goats become more popular in Kentucky among people with only a few acres on which to keep animals and as a source of milk as well, information about them is in more demand.

Misinformation already abounds, in particular that goats are always "smelly and eat tin cans" and don't give much milk anyway.

Facts are that goats have been bred up in milk production to the point that a doe which gives a gallon of milk a day isn't rare. Beyond that, goats are essentially clean and it is only the buck that gives off a musky odor, mainly in the fall breeding season. They can be descended by a minor operation.

Housing goats is relatively simple. Both dry and milking does do best if allowed free housing where they may wander in and out at will.

An exception would be a nursing doe. Nursing kids will sneak milk from does other than their mother, which wastes milk and causes digestive problems for the kids. The kids may also be injured by other does.

Provide large, draft-free, well-bedded loafing pens with an outside paddock for exercise. Goats that are tied too closely or kept in stanchions are more prone to arthritis and lameness.

Don't forget the buck, if you have one. He needs exercise, too, and a companion—either a wether (a castrated buck) or a non-milking doe. Keeping him penned up alone may result in behavior problems as well as illness. Allowing him to run may control bad habits such as chewing on wood or beating on fences.

Goats are browsers as opposed to grazers such as cattle and sheep. This means they prefer tree or bush branches to grazing on grass. For this reason, they may be difficult to contain.

Goats can be staked out, but this presents problems. They are reasonably defenseless if tied to a stake. There is also the possibility of sunstroke if they can't find shade.

Electric fences are being used in many places, sometimes in conjunction with woven wire fences.

Whether fenced or staked, some shelter needs to be provided not only against the sun, but against rain as well. Goats don't like to get wet.

Your veterinarian can provide practical tips to caring for goats, as well as excellent technical advice on nutrition, health maintenance and disease prevention and the like.

He is trained in developing the most efficient way for you to maintain the health of your animal in economics as well as in medicine.

The average woman worker 16 years of age in 1979-80 could expect to spend 29.3 years of her life in the labor force, this compared with 39.1 years for a 16-year-old man, according to a fact sheet on women workers published by the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Stretch your energy dollars with electric thermal storage.

The dollars you spend on heating your home stretch the farthest with Electric Thermal Storage (ETS). The ETS system uses lower "off-peak" electric rates that save you money.

ETS works like a thermostat. It stores heat at night when electric rates are at their lowest. Then it uses this stored heat to keep your home warm.

"Shadowlands" Tell Of Unexpected Love, Death

"Am I right that you are as fascinated as I am by the image of the unopened door? The mythical door that leads out of time and space into where? The undiscovered country? The never-never land?... Surely this is your land of Narnia, that you got to through the magic wardrobe..."

These words were part of a letter Joy Gresham sent to the British writer C.S. Lewis in 1950. Their correspondence eventually led to friendship, love and marriage. "Shadowlands," a special airing Wednesday, October 29, at 9:00 p.m. on KET, is this story of extraordinary love.

Lewis was in his early 50s and a confirmed bachelor when he met Gresham in 1952. His essays and novels, such as the "Chronicles of Narnia," had made him famous both as a fiction writer and an intellectual defender of Christianity. Gresham, an American, had been raised in a Jewish home and had converted to Christianity partly as a result of reading Lewis's work. Gresham was a writer and award-winning poet and their common literary and intellectual interests served as the foundation for their friendship.

When Gresham's husband left her for another woman, Lewis agreed to marry Gresham so that she and her children could be naturalized British citizens and reside permanently in England. The marriage was in name only and only Lewis's brother knew about it. However, when Gresham became deathly ill with cancer, Lewis discovered that his feelings went beyond friendship and married Gresham in a religious ceremony at her bedside in 1956.

Gresham's cancer went into remission. For the next few years, she and Lewis spent what he described as the happiest period of his life. When Gresham's cancer returned, Lewis was devastated. Her painful death profoundly shook his faith and belief in a merciful God. Lewis struggled with his grief, but slowly was able to rebuild.

"Shadowlands" was filmed on location in Oxford, England and Wales and is a co-production of the BBC and the Episcopal Radio-TV Foundation, Inc.

★ Cancer Hopeline

QUESTION: What is the major cause of skin cancer?

ANSWER: Until recently, most experts believed that skin cancer was caused by a lifetime of sun exposure, but now researchers are discovering that even a few severe sunburns may be an additional cause. The latest findings, although not conclusive, show strong evidence that many people with melanomas—the most serious form of skin cancer, which shows up as pigmented patches on the skin—have histories of acute sunburn sometime in their early lives. Severe sun exposure can lead to the instantaneous mutation of pigment cells; once these cells are altered, they can become malignant.

For more information on how to prevent serious sun burns call the Cancer Information Service at 1-800-4-CANCER, or write the Cancer Information Service, McDowell Cancer Network, 800 Rose Street, Lexington, Ky. 40536. The Cancer Information Service is a program of the Kentucky Community Center Program.

LEADING THE GROUND GAME: Greg Ison cuts upfield against Sheldon Clark. Ison found enough running room to lead Allen Central in rushing.

First Quarter Continues To Hamper Rebels

Struggling with a season old problem of first quarter execution difficulties the Allen Central Rebels surrendered 12 points in the initial period to come up on the losing end of a final score for the fifth time this season.

On their third play from scrimmage Sheldon Clark Cardinal quarterback Jerry Bowen connected with Dwayne Marcum for a 44 yard touchdown pass and run to once again force Allen Central to play catch up football.

In each of their first four games Allen Central suffered a tough initial stanza and Coach Donnie Daniels said that if his Rebels could play a good first quarter they might beat someone but that someone wasn't to be Friday night.

After the Bowen to Marcum touchdown pass Sheldon Clark struck again, less than two minutes after their initial score.

The Cardinals, following a stalled Allen Central drive, claimed possession on their own 30 yard line and on their first play from scrimmage Bowen pitched out to Eric Marcum who rambled 70 yards for yet another Sheldon Clark touchdown.

Trailing by a 12-0 score the horn ending the first quarter brought renewed excitement to the Allen Central sideline. Coach Daniels said "it's over now, we can play some ball."

The Rebels did play good football in the second quarter but an interception of a Darrin Conn pass and a late Sheldon Clark touchdown spoiled Allen Central's comeback efforts.

The Rebels, after recovering a live punt, drove from the enemy 42 to the nine yard line but following a Greg Ison run which lost two Conn suffered an interception in the end zone which put to an end the Allen Central scoring effort. Sheldon Clark, following the turnover proceeded down the field in a scoring drive which covered 80 yards in six plays. The score, a 25 yard Bowen pass, came with 1:49 remaining in the first half and appeared to effect Allen Central more than just six points.

The Rebels never mounted a serious offensive drive in the second half, partly because of a tough Sheldon Clark defense and partly because Allen Central was working without one of their top threats, end Tim Bailey.

Bailey, who also plays a tough defensive end, was forced from the game late in the second quarter which left his Rebels short on both sides of the football.

Before the big end left the contest he pulled down two Darrin Conn passes for a total of 13 yards but with his fourth target out Conn failed to connect with his other receivers, leaving Allen Central a 26-0 loser.

Although the Rebel passing game wasn't as sharp as it has been in past games they did run the football effectively. Greg Ison led the Allen Central rushing attack with 71 yards on 23 carries while Jeff Hughes carried 11 times for 61 yards.

The Rebels moved the pigskin consistently from their end to enemy territory but key turnovers and losing rushing efforts kept them off the score board.

At the same time Sheldon Clark was finding paydirt regularly with Jerry Bowen having the hot hand. Bowen threw for three of the Cardinals four touchdowns with the final one coming with 5:17 remaining on the game clock.

With Bowen at the controls Sheldon Clark improved their season record to 5-1 while Allen Central continues the search for their first victory.

The first year Rebels will once again find that initial varsity win a tough one to get when they go up against two A power Hazard.

Even though the Bulldogs are two A this season Allen Central will join Hazard in the same district next season. With the Bulldogs dropping from two A to single A and the re-alignment of districts this Friday's meeting will be the first of many to come between Allen Central and Hazard.

THE SPORTING TIMES

Baseball has Pete Rose, football has Jim McMahon, basketball has Michael Jordan and tennis has John McEnroe. All these athletes represent popular personalities of their individual sports but who is the most popular and interesting of all professional athletes?

Well, no scientific poll has been conducted to answer this question but if a poll is made a reality the answer could very well astound fans of the big four sports.

Rose receives both cheers and geers regardless of where he goes and McEnroe gets about the same treatment, just more of it. Jordan is a hero in Chicago as is McMahon but none of these athletes ever receive the positive fan reaction that professional wrestler Hulk Hogan consistently gets.

Oh yes. You say professional wrestling is a joke. Just a fraud some muscle bound maniacs have thrown together and you may be right but one thing that isn't fake is the millions of fans wrestling draws.

Of those millions, most of them are drawn in by one man. Or maybe I should say one thing, Hulkmania.

Wherever the World Wrestling Federation heavyweight champion takes his act many follow. He sells out Madison Square Garden and coliseums all over the country. People just don't go to see the Hulkster wrestle but they go to worship the part-bald, part-blond mountain of muscle.

Not only is Hulk Hogan famous as a wrestler but he has shown up in places such as Rocky Balboa's boxing ring in Rocky III and NBC's series A Team.

The Hulkster also hosts a television show entitled Hulk Hogan's Rock and Wrestling and enjoying royalties from his cartoon. Not a bad track record for a guy who started his career as a bass player in a small rock band.

Hogan has also cut a record recently which tells everyone why he gave up a music career.

As a grappler none can top the 6-9 305 pound champion. The Hulkster has held the WWF title for over three years and during this time has become the most popular figure in professional sports. Or at least the promoters call professional wrestling a sport.

Hulk first won the hearts of wrestle goers when he won the heavyweight belt from the hated Iron Sheik. The Sheik, supposedly from Iran, had enjoyed running down America until Hogan stripped the title from the dreaded villain and at the same time becoming the latest and greatest American hero.

From that point in the Hogan's popularity has grown in mega-portsions. From alsonor to the biggest craze in the world of figure fours, drop kicks and atomic elbows.

When Hulk Hogan walks into an arena thousands jump to their feet in a screaming rage just to show support for one man. Although Jessie The Body is yet to catch Hulkmania he could very well be the only one.

Hogan began his career as an unpredictable rule breaker but after coming to the WWF Hulk turned his attitude from being mean to defeating mean.

Not unlike real life, professional wrestling pits good against evil, the US against Russia, and in some isolated cases, snakes against crocodiles.

This is where Hulk Hogan comes in. He is America's answer to a foreign invasion. He is the one who protects good against evil.

All Hogan needs to do this is all those screaming Hulkmanics pulling for him and the Hulkster has built quite a large contingent of followers.

Not so long ago wrestling had a few faithfuls which kept the business going but recently WTBS and the USA network started carrying wrestling regularly and now these stations are enjoying tremendous ratings.

ESPN and NBC have joined in the ratings game and everyone in professional wrestling is rolling in the dough.

Although some others like Ric Flair and Dusty Rhodes, Paul Orndorf and The British Bulldogs occasionally gain some recognition, Hogan is the most in demand.

Wrestling is a secretive business which is for the most part controlled from within. The people in power can make a hero of anyone they wish but in Hogan's case, he has been as much responsible as anyone else.

The first noticeable thing about Hogan is his bronzed, muscular body which would please even the most demanding of weight lifters. Hogan's other asset is his presentation of himself to the public.

The Hulkster insists that his intentions are to be the best and he clearly demonstrates his clean cut measures to obtain them. The champ doesn't take any bull from anyone but at the same time he offers none.

With a reminder, a stern one indeed, for the children to train hard and take their vitamins, the Hulkster poses in all his muscular bulk and glamour.

If you think professional wrestling is fake don't tell Hulk Hogan. The Hulk might get upset because he has gotten rich and famous from it. Probably more rich and famous than any other professional athlete.

Blackcats Suffer Big Loss, Eye District Game Here

Not much positivity can be derived from a 40-0 loss but Prestonsburg head football coach Chuke Williams isn't exactly upset with his young Blackcats' effort against a strong Belfry team.

"For two quarters and a half I felt that we played them a good football game," Williams said. "They tried to beat us as badly as they could. They came out throwing and tried to blow us out early and couldn't do it."

In fact the Prestonsburg Blackcats had an opportunity to cut a third quarter Belfry lead in half but a fumble inside the enemy six yard line denied the Blackcats a scoring chance and following the critical turnover Coach Williams said that his team might have lost their intensity.

"When we got inside their five and couldn't score it just broke our backs," Williams said. "But I'm not ashamed of our play," the coach continued. "As big and as strong as they are and as many bodies as they have it would have been an excellent effort for us to just stay close and we did that the first half and six minutes of the third quarter."

With the loss to the Belfry Pirates, a team Coach Williams says is the best team Prestonsburg has seen this season, the Blackcats fall to 1-5 but those five losses could very well be forgotten with a win this Thursday.

In a game re-scheduled from Friday to Thursday the Blackcats will take on sub-district foe Lawrence County.

The Bulldogs already own a victory over district rival Morgan County and if Prestonsburg makes their initial district action a successful encounter then Coach Chuke Williams and company could be in the drivers' seat and odds on favorite to advance beyond regular season play.

"That was our goal coming into this year," Williams revealed. "We knew coming in that we were inexperienced and we would lose some games early but if we can win our sub-district it will be a good season for us."

Coming into the contest Lawrence County owns a 2-4 record and Coach Williams knows what his Blackcats have to do if they are to keep their playoff hopes alive.

"We have to cut down on our fumbles and generate some kind of offense," Williams said. "We'll have to have another good defensive game and hold them to at least two touchdowns. If we allow them more than that then we will be in trouble because we haven't shown yet that we can come back and score enough to win."

"They have some tough running backs and a left handed quarterback that can throw the ball pretty well so they have a pretty decent team," Williams added.

One distinct advantage that Prestonsburg has in their corner is the home field advantage. In fact both of the Blackcats' district games are played in Prestonsburg which may be the extra incentive Coach Williams' young team needs to claim another sub-district title.

The Blackcat, Bulldog contest is scheduled to kickoff at 7:30 Thursday.

Tough Luck Trojans Fall To Elkhorn City

Some teams get all the breaks and some teams never get a break. Unfortunately for the Wheelwright Trojans this season has produced much more of the latter than of the initial.

In keeping with seasonal tradition Wheelwright jumped out to a quick early lead only to see their opponent, Elkhorn City, take advantage of Trojan mistakes to turn back Coach Roger Johnson's club.

Stevie Little kicked Monday night's game off in fine fashion with a 90 yard kickoff return but the first half ended as badly for Wheelwright as the start was for Elkhorn City, more so according to Coach Johnson.

Leading 6-0 with just over 30 seconds remaining in the second quarter Wheelwright fumbled on their own 30, a turnover which the Elkhorn City Cougars returned for a touchdown.

After adding the extra point the Trojans saw their six point lead rapidly turn into a one point deficit, a turn of events that a young Wheelwright team couldn't overcome.

"After that fumble they come out in the second half and did what they wanted to do with us," Coach Johnson said.

The Cougars scored a total of 26 points in the final two frames in their 33-12 victory over Wheelwright.

Turnovers have plagued the Wheelwright Trojans all season and Coach Johnson says his team has a hard time overcoming their turnovers.

"I don't know what it takes to get a team up after that," Johnson said. "That's just the way a young team is."

In Monday's contest the Trojans really established their running game

Kicking Game Boosts Bobcats to Victory

Not many high school football teams consider their kicking game a critical part of their success but without the leg of Dwight Jarrell the Betsy Layne Bobcats could very well be without their latest victory.

After quarterback Bud Newsome hit fullback Keith Hall with a 18 yard touchdown pass in the second quarter Jarrell tacked on the extra point, not an incredible feat but an important one.

At the time Jarrell's kick gave Betsy Layne a 7-3 lead and later proved to allow the Bobcats to take a lead into the locker room at halftime.

Elkhorn City had earlier kicked a first period field goal and added another just before half to pull the Pike County school to within one point of the Bobcats.

The two first half three pointers proved to be all Elkhorn City could manage to dent the score board with as Jarrell and Betsy Layne improved their season record to 5-1 with the 10-6 victory over Coach Jack Hall's former school Elkhorn City.

A proven stingy Betsy Layne defensive squad, led by seniors Joey Cecil and Benton Nunemaker and freshman linebacker Kevin Spurlock, denied their opponents from lighting up the second half score board while Jarrell added some three point insurance late to stretch the Bobcat winning streak to five.

Cecil, from his linebacking position, led the Betsy Layne defensive charge with 18 tackles while Nunemaker and Spurlock checked in with a total of 11 and 12 respectively. Sophomore Lee Adkins also broke double figures in total tackles with 12.

On the offensive side of things the Bobcats conducted business as usual with Bud Newsome and tailback Todd Sturgill leading the way.

Newsome finished the night seven of 17 and 160 yards, including the 18 yard screen pass to Hall, a play which has worked effectively all season for Betsy Layne.

Sturgill, who consistently heads a balanced rushing attack, carried the pigskin 10 times for 58 yards while Kenton Nunemaker ran for 47 yards on a mere three carries.

All told the Bobcats accounted for a total of 314 offensive yards but not until the final horn sounded did Coach Hall feel comfortable.

Betsy Layne did have an opportunity to put the game firmly in the win column with less than two minutes remaining but rather than to gamble on fourth and goal from the three yard line Hall and company elected to go for a four point lead rather than give Elkhorn City a chance to upend the Bobcats with a last minute field goal.

"I started to go for the touchdown but I knew they had a good kicker because he had already kicked two," Coach Hall said. "So we called 'a time out and decided to kick the field goal because with a four point lead they couldn't break something long and beat us with a fieldgoal of their own."

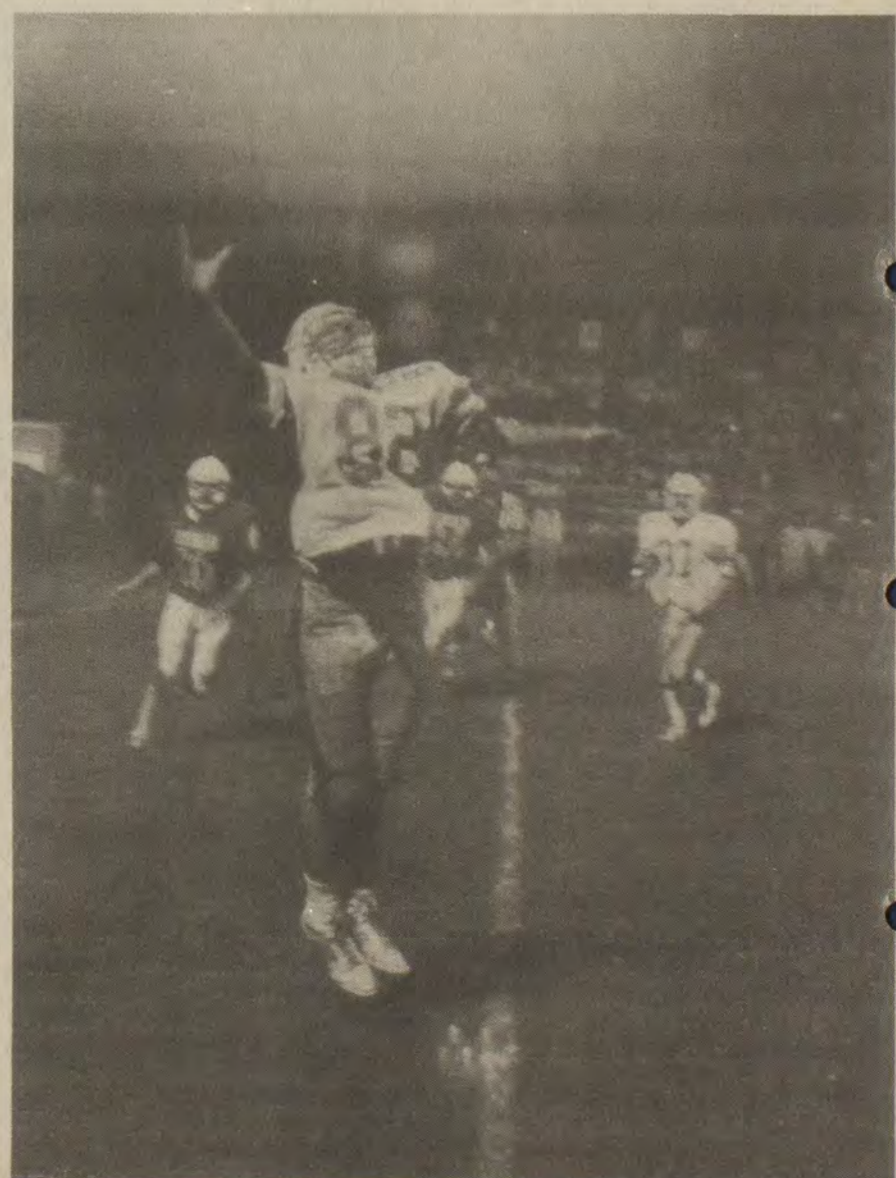

Hall's decision not to gamble and possibly fail on their fourth down touchdown try paid off when Jarrell split the uprights with a 20 yard field goal to give the Bobcats their final margin of victory.

Betsy Layne, who has improved steadily during the course of this season, will put their 5-1 record and five game winning streak on the line this Thursday when they travel to Whitesburg to take on a tough Yellow Jacket team.

"It should be a fine game because they are tough, there is no question about that," Coach Hall said.

One of the Whitesburg weapons that Coach Hall fears the most is sophomore running back Charles Mathews, Jr.

"He is one of the top runners in the state," Coach Hall revealed. "Before their last game he had something like 12 touchdowns and he can fly."

NOT LACKING EFFORT: Tim Bailey goes after a Darrin Conn pass in action Friday night. Before leaving in the second quarter Bailey caught two passes.

University of Kentucky kicker Joey Worley set two school records Saturday night as his Wildcats unended Southern Mississippi 32-0.

Worley became the most prolific scorer in UK history with his first quarter 45 yard field goal and went on to set a consecutive extra point streak after Timmy Jones' touchdown reception.

The present Wildcat kicker broke the record previously held by former field goal expert Tommy Griggs.

Worley proceeded to kick four total field goals in Saturday's Homecoming win and combined with Mark Higgs 15 yard third quarter touchdown run the 'Cats kept their undefeated season alive.

Kentucky will put their 3-0-1 record on the line this Saturday when they open SEC action at Ole Miss.

Tony Perez suited up Sunday for his final game as a Cincinnati Reds' player when the Reds fell victim to the San

A DEFENSIVE COLLAPSE: The Allen Central defense, spear headed by Mike Cutting (37) puts the clamps on Sheldon Clark's runner. The Rebels lost, though 26-0.

Morehead State University The Building Of A Football Program

Inside Morehead State University's Jayne Stadium football facilities signs bearing the words, "Find a Way to Win", is in full evidence and for the first four games of this season these words have taken on a totally new meaning.

Over the previous three seasons Morehead State had won a grand total of two games in their first 12 but 1986 has told a different football story, a story which owns a perfect plot, a 4-0 record to open the Eagle season.

Along the way this undefeated start has produced many incredible feats. How about their upset of powerful Marshall on the Green Wave's home turf? Or how about their come from behind win over Wichita State? After being down 32 at halftime the Eagles managed to pull out a win, also on the road.

Impressed? Well, if you aren't the polls are. The MSU Eagles are currently ranked along with William & Mary as the fifth best team in Division 1 AA.

Now, we're talking about a team which isn't used to winning, has never developed a winning reputation and wasn't expected to win but hey, these guys have found a way to win in 1986. The 4-0 start this season represents the best Eagle football start since 1964 and smiles are in full bloom all over the Morehead community.

"There is a lot better feeling around town," says linebacker John Gilliam. "Driving through you see 'way to go Eagles' and things like that on the marquee. It's completely different than anything I have seen since I've been here."

The incredible MSU football start has drawn more attention to the school's program than any other team but all the success came as a rapid and unexpected surprise.

"I don't think any of the players thought we would be 4-0 and I don't think the coaches thought we would be 4-0," Gilliam explained.

"We all thought we could be pretty good by OVC time but I don't think anyone thought we would be this good this quick," Gilliam continued.

A fourth year Junior from Prestonsburg, John Gilliam has experienced both good times and not so good times during his career at Morehead State and along with linebacking partner Randy Frazier, is a big reason why MSU is 4-0. Gilliam and Frazier are the heart and soul of a tough Eagle defense but the dynamic duo of linebackers have experienced injury problems of late, Gilliam a knee injury and Frazier a lower leg ailment.

Not to worry though, both are expected to be back this Saturday when the Eagles open conference play against Austin Peay. But in their absence Jay Koehler has performed admirably, ranking second in total tackles. Senior safety Kelvin Bellamy and senior tackle Tony Sergeant are also mainstays of MSU's defensive squad and according to Gilliam the senior part may be a key part in Morehead State's turn around from 1-10 last season.

"We've got guys who aren't worried about personal goals. Everyone wants to contribute to a winning team," Gilliam pointed out. "We've also received great leadership from the seniors on this team."

Pre-season all-American selection Billy Poe echoed Gilliam's thoughts on senior leadership and added that positive things have finally started to happen for Morehead State football.

"A lot of positive things have been happening to us," new players, new coaches, the new turf," Poe explained. "Everybody is helping everybody else," Poe said. "We don't rely on just one great player. We have a bunch of good seniors that have taken over and shown leadership for a bunch of good younger players."

Poe, a 6-3 273 pound offensive tackle spends most of his football time protecting quarterback Adrian Breen but Billy doesn't mind because Breen's throwing talents are yet another reason why the Eagles are 4-0, a record which makes Poe happy.

"It's great," Poe said of MSU's start. "It's the first time I've ever been 4-0. I wasn't even 4-0 in high school so its kind of like a dream come true for me."

With the unbelievable start and number five ranking Morehead State has to be considered as one of the favorites for the Ohio Valley Conference title.

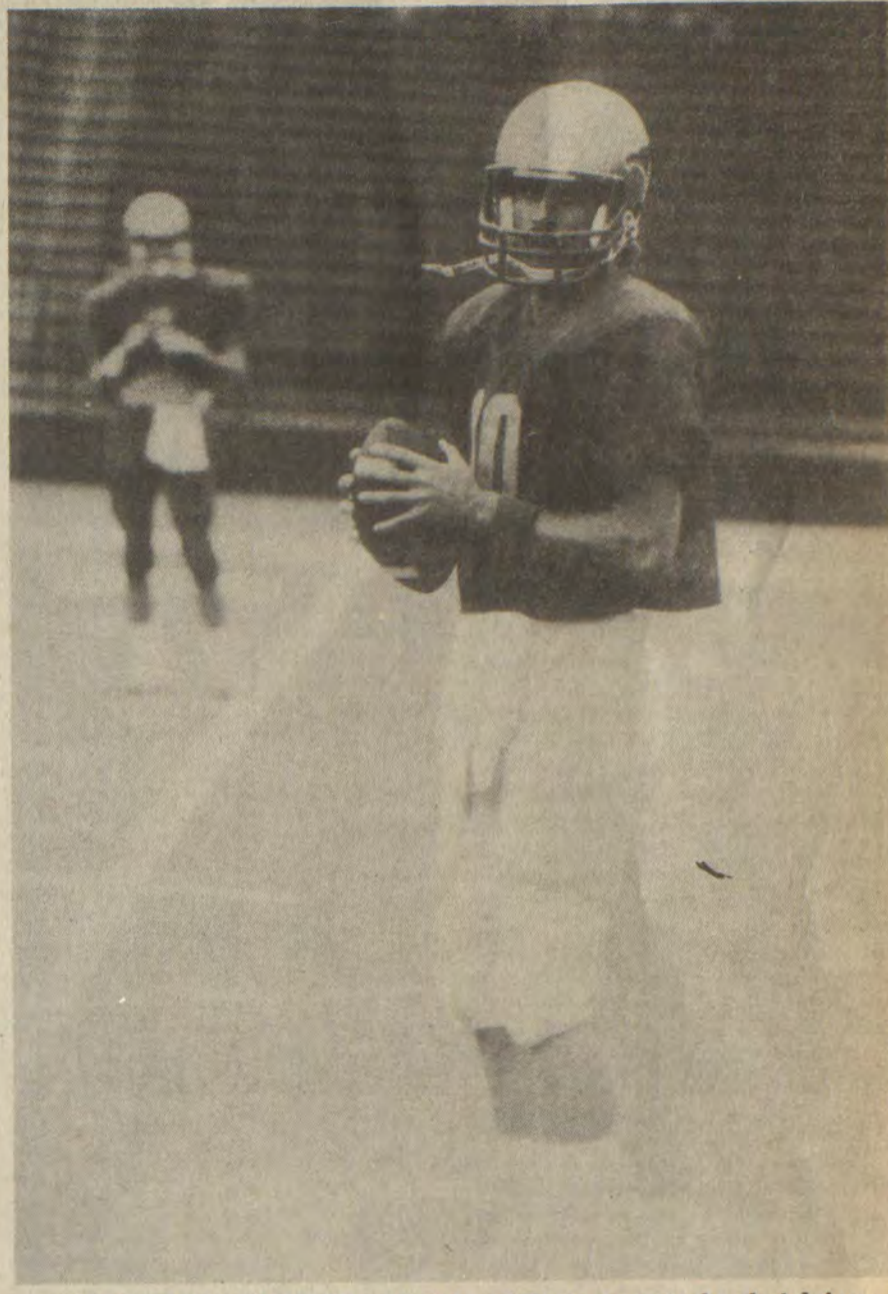

When the Eagles open conference competition Saturday against Austin Peay they may have behind them in the biggest home crowd in MSU history. Homecoming at Morehead State now has something worth coming home for. If the Eagles are to find conference success Billy Poe says they will have to keep a chip on their own shoulders.

"We have to keep a chip on our shoulders," Poe said. "We were picked last in the conference." "When we started the season we had 11 hurdles.

We've crossed four of those and now we have to cross seven more."

Regardless of where Morehead State continues their winning ways this team of 1986 has already done something no other team before them did, bring pride and recognition to the Morehead State University Eagles football program.

TALENT UNLIMITED: Morehead State quarterback Adrian Breen has completed over 60% of his throws this season to lead MSU to a number five national ranking.

News And Notes From The NFL

All football eyes were upon Seattle's Steve Largent and San Diego's Charlie Joiner Monday night as the two receivers were primed to rewrite the NFL record books and no one came away disappointed.

Largent shattered Harold Carmichael's record of 127 consecutive games with at least one catch when he hauled down a 17 yard reception in the second quarter.

Joined etched his name once again in the record books when he was on the receiving end of a 27 yard Dan Fouts pass in the third quarter. Joiner's catch enabled the 39 year old wide receiver to surpass Don Maynard as the all-time yardage for receptions.

After the individual records were set aside Largent came away a much happier man as his Seahawks thumped Joiner's Chargers.

Seattle, with a strong defensive effort, stayed close to Denver who came up with a defensive gem themselves, shutting down Dallas and Hershel Walker.

The Philadelphia Eagles also displayed a dominating defense, recording seven sacks while shutting out the NFC's top offensive team, the Atlanta Falcons.

The loss dropped Atlanta from the ranks of the undefeated, leaving only Washington, Denver, and Chicago with perfect records.

Washington kept their perfect season alive with a typical Redskin victory. George Rogers ran for over 100 yards and Washington played a usually tough defense.

The Redskins will have a tougher time this week when they take on Dallas in Dallas. The Cowboys should have their starting quarterback Danny White and possibly sorely missed Tony Dorsett back for this important divisional battle.

The Bears had an easy time in humbling the NFC's then number one passer Tommy Kramer and things won't get any harder for the super bowl champions. The Bears probably have the easiest of all schedules but then again who would be a tough opponent for Chicago.

The New York Jets continue to win but it took a Ken O'Brian to Mickey Shuler touchdown pass with under one minute to go for the Jets to beat Buffalo.

New York will have a tougher time this week also when they travel to Foxboro. The Jets will meet New England in a key divisional matchup and the Patriots are a hot team.

After beating the Jets in their home stadium New England continued their successful AFC East schedule with a thumping of powerless Miami. The Dolphins can't stop anyone and won't be able to until Hugh Green, out with a bad knee, returns in about eight weeks. It could be too late though.

In other divisional matchups the Pittsburgh Steelers tried to run an option play which worked perfectly for Cleveland as they recovered the fumbled play and proceeded to win their first game ever in Three Rivers Stadium.

With Pittsburgh driving inside Cleveland territory late in the fourth quarter this could have been the bone head play of this past Sunday but it wasn't.

The officials and their instant replay brought about that. In the LA Raiders, Kansas City game the Raiders were awarded a touchdown when the replay clearly detected otherwise but the officials miscommunicated and LA won by seven points.

The man of the day was the other LA's Eric Dickerson. The Ram running back galloped for 207 yards, including a 42 yard run to paydirt in overtime to allow the Rams to keep pace and move into a tie at the top in the NFC West.

The Rams can help themselves with a victory over Atlanta this coming Sunday, in much the same fashion as can the Raiders.

Howie Long and company will be home to take on Seattle who will probably be without strong safety Kenny Easley, injured Monday night.

Other divisional games that could have a bearing on the playoffs is Pittsburgh at Cincinnati and Denver at San Diego.

The Bengals bounced back after their beating at the hands of Chicago and Pittsburgh is off to their worst start in 15 years.

Denver, on the other hand is undefeated while San Diego can't score, believe it or not. The Chargers are bound to get on the score board sometime and the Broncos may be ripe for an upset.

The various divisional matchups could greatly change the playoff picture taking shape or enforce the strong hold teams such as Denver, NY Jets, and Washington already have.

Diego Padres.

Perez, an integral part of the Big Red Machine of the '70s, ended a professional baseball career which spanned some 24 years.

In that period the dependable first baseman stretched together nine seasons in which he drove in over 90 runs per season.

The Cuban born Perez is expected to remain with the Cincinnati organization, probably as a coach or scout.

During his career Doggie was known for his RBI production and one of the gentlemen of the game of baseball.

Major League Baseball's second season got underway last night with the Boston Red Sox entertaining the Chicago White Sox.

Both Sox teams opened the American League playoffs after coming off a season ending loss but this series is expected to offer both good pitching and strong offensive units.

Over in the National League the New York Mets will invade the Astro dome Wednesday to tangle with the Houston Astros in their best of seven series.

Both the Mets and Astros are riding high after ending the regular season in winning fashion. New York finished their season by winning nine of their final 10 while Houston won their final five games.

In both league series the old saying 'good pitching stops good hitting' will truly be put to the test. All four teams are explosive offensively, while boasting probably the best four pitching staffs in baseball.

The Florida Gators will be without starting quarterback Kerwin Bell for at least four more weeks due to an injured knee.

Florida, one of the highest rated pre-season teams, have fallen on troubled times of late.

One of the favorites to take the SEC title, Florida is currently 0-3 in conference action and without Bell the Gators aren't expected to improve much on this record.

while fullback Anthony Luney and Elkhorn City did offensive things according to plan.

Coming into the game Coach Johnson said his Trojans would have to stop the talented senior runner and according to Johnson, Wheelwright did this in the first half but the second half told a different tale for the Trojan defense and Luney's football ability.

Wheelwright's only other score came in the fourth quarter when Tony Hutton broke loose for an 84 yard kickoff return but Coach Johnson doesn't think will win many games.

"Our returns were just about the extent of our offense but when you return kickoffs that means the other team is scoring," Johnson revealed.

Roger Johnson and his Wheelwright Trojans will try to improve their 2-4 mark this Thursday when they entertain Virgie.

The Eagles have struggled this season which Coach Johnson said would make for a good game because he added "we're not over powering ourselves." Wheelwright and Virgie, during the past several years, have developed a strong rivalry. Being only 12 miles apart the two teams will be fighting it out for bragging rights in that area.

The game, scheduled to kickoff at 8:00 is set as Homecoming for Wheelwright.

Woodcock And Common Snipe Season Opens October 1

Woodcock and common snipe season in Kentucky will open October 1 and run through December 4. Daily bag limits are set at four woodcock per day, and eight snipe per day. Possession limits double the daily bag for both species after two or more days of hunting.

These two species are not particularly well known or hunted heavily in Kentucky. However, there are good populations of these birds throughout the state for hunters to pursue. Woodcock and snipe primarily inhabit creek bottoms, wooded creek beds and areas which are generally wet and woolly. A majority of the birds taken each year are bagged when hunters after other game flush them from underneath along streams or other waterways.

Both native and migratory snipe and woodcock populations can be found in most every county in Kentucky. According to Jeff Sole, upland game program coordinator for the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, the portion of woodcocks not native to Kentucky migrate from northern states through both the Atlantic and Mississippi Flyways.

In a report released in early August by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, woodcock populations in the Eastern Region (Atlantic Flyway) were up 2.7 percent from 1985, but still remained well below normal levels. For the Central Region, including the Mississippi Flyway which the majority of birds passing through Kentucky use, numbers increased 6.3 percent from last year's survey.

Hunting woodcock and snipe is a challenging sport of jump-shooting in difficult places, which may be one reason why this type of hunting is not as popular as some of the other small game hunting across the state.

Both species blend well with their dense environment and maneuver well through thick cover, presenting hunters with considerably more snap shots than would dove or quail found in more open spaces. Getting a good shot at these birds may be difficult when hunters have to shoulder a shotgun through bushes and tree limbs, while trying to keep visual contact with the target. Using a trained dog will give the hunter a big advantage.

Dogs will also be helpful when a bird goes down in thick cover, since its plumage matches the brown and gray forest floor. Often, if a woodcock or snipe is flushed and not fired at, it will travel only a short distance along the same path it used as an escape route. Hunters should remain alert while moving in heavy cover around bottomlands, and choose their path of movement carefully for better shots.

Since these birds are not as common as dove or quail, some hunters will not immediately recognize woodcock or snipe when startled to flight from their creek bank or forest floor perches. The most notable feature of both species are long, slender bills, which look somewhat out of place protruding from short, stocky bodies. Snipe and woodcock use their elongated bills to forage through mud, sediment and leaves in search of earthworms, which constitute the birds' main diet.

While woodcock and snipe populations peak in Kentucky during hunting season, these birds also inhabit the state in good numbers from February to April during courtship and breeding. The woodcock is well known for its mating ritual, and in addition to being considered a game bird is valued highly by bird enthusiasts for its entertaining courtship performance.

The Purple belt was recently awarded to Timothy Shawn Robinson by Grand Master Shin, of New York. Grand Master Shin also presented Prestonsburg Community College Tae Kwon Do Club a U.S. and a South Korean Flag.

Robinson is the son of Tim and Ina Robinson, of Eastern, and the grandson of Molly Owens, of Langley, and the late Ralph Owens, and Marlene Robinson, of Langley and Bill Robinson, of Inez. He is the great-grandson of Lillie Johnson, of Virgie, Hollie Robinson, of Langley, and Billy and Beulah Hughes, of Hueysville.

Sports Is Now A Science, According To Researchers

Any self-respecting American male with an ounce of ego will claim he's "in pretty good shape." But sports science facilities like the human performance laboratory at the University of Kentucky can quickly separate fact from fat.

The electric metronome didn't get tired. Its unerring "tick, tick, tick" commanded my legs to pedal harder.

The pace increased every two minutes until perspiration streamed down my face and arms and onto the stationary bicycle below. Only the breeze from a fan gave any sensation of forward motion in the laboratory.

With my nose clamped shut, breathing through a plastic mouthpiece and hoses running to a great gob of electronics, my heart pounded a rhythm faster than the murderous metronome. Sensors strapped across my chest displayed the number of beats per minute in glowing red digits on a small black box.

I began to feel I surely was pedaling fast enough to take flight—stationary bike, hoses, computers and all—when the human in charge of the machinery called "time."

Before I could towel dry the computer printed a chart of my test results. Heart rate, respiration rate, volume of air taken in, volume of carbon dioxide given off and more—readings taken every 30 seconds during the session.

Had the test subject been a world-class amateur or professional athlete, those test results could be used to assess fitness for a particular sport, to alter training or evaluate injury recovery.

Sports science teaching and research at UK centers around the interrelated studies of biomechanics and exercise physiology.

The surge of popular interest in sports and physical conditioning has brought greater popular awareness of the sports sciences, says Rob Shapiro, a professor of biomechanics in UK's College of Education.

Biomechanics investigates how the body accomplishes particular actions and how it withstands physical stress. Along with his teaching, Shapiro is involved in an ongoing study of the biomechanical aspects of various pitching techniques in major league and collegiate baseball.

Exercise physiology is concerned with the body's efficient use of fuel. Jay T. Kearney, director of UK's human performance lab, is on a year's leave of absence from UK to coordinate the exercise physiology segment of the U.S. Olympic Committee Training Center in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Ironically, sports sciences have yet to be fully utilized by American athletes, notes Shapiro.

Eastern bloc countries have shown the most comprehensive use of sports sciences in their Olympic programs, says Shapiro. "Having a smaller population from which to pick their elite amateur athletes, the East Germans, especially, have used sports science to develop their athletes' full potential.

"Application of science to human movement isn't new. Leonardo da Vinci was making biomechanical analyses of walking, sitting and standing in the late 15th century," says Shapiro. "But the new capabilities of our technology mean we can make very exact studies of individual athletes and produce data almost immediately."

Safer sports equipment is one result of biomechanical research. Examining the mechanics of injuries can help prevent them.

And results of this research filter down to consumers of related recreational sports products. Running shoe manufacturers have invested in extensive biomechanical laboratories to improve their products, says Shapiro.

The same type of technology can be used to evaluate race horses, notes Shapiro.

Recent developments in the sports sciences and a display of biomechanics instrumentation will be featured in an Oct. 25 "Saturday Seminars" presentation in Seaton Center on the Lexington campus.

The seminar is free of charge and will be presented from 1 to 3 p.m., preceding the UK-Georgia football game. The public is invited.

Kentucky Fishing Report

Frankfort, Ky., October 6—Fishing activity for the October 4-5 weekend was reported light to moderate statewide. Angler success was reported up slightly as a result of rainfall and generally cooler temperatures statewide during the past few days. The lake-by-lake rundown as reported by conservation officers or creel clerks at each lake:

KENTUCKY: Crappie were hitting jig and minnow combinations over submerged cover 10-17 feet deep; catfish were taking chicken livers over the main river channels 22-40 feet deep; murky, falling, 3-1/2 feet below summer pool and 78 degrees.

BARBLEY: Black bass were hitting crank baits cast off sloping gravel points 3-10 feet deep; crappie were hitting minnows and jigs over brush piles and tree tops at the same depths; clear, falling, 3-1/2 feet below summer pool and 78 degrees.

BARREN: Crappie continued to take minnows and jigs along stump rows 8-12 feet deep; black bass were hitting crank baits off rocky points 6-12 feet deep; heavy discharge prevented tailwater activity; clear, falling, 14 feet below summer pool and 78 degrees.

NOLIN: Black bass were hitting buzz baits and crank baits off points and along stump rows 2-6 feet deep; crappie were taking minnows over submerged cover 5-10 feet deep; heavy discharge hampered activity in the tailwaters; clear to murky, falling, 17 feet below summer pool and 79 degrees.

ROUGH RIVER: Crappie were taking minnows still fished over submerged cover 5-10 feet deep; black bass were hitting crank baits along stump rows and off rocky points and banks 5-10 feet deep; clear, stable at one foot below summer pool and 79 degrees.

TAYLORSVILLE: Black bass were taking deep runners over submerged cover in 6-12 feet of water; bluegill were biting crickets and worms also over submerged cover about six feet deep; clear to murky, stable at 1-1/2 feet below summer pool and 78 degrees.

HERRINGTON: Black bass were hitting plastic worms and crank baits off rocky points and banks 10-12 feet deep; bluegill were biting wax worms and crickets off rocky banks 6-8 feet deep; clear, stable at 16 feet below summer pool and 77 degrees.

GREEN RIVER: Crappie were hitting minnows and crickets around stick-ups and submerged cover 10-15 feet deep; muskie were active on large spinners in deep channels; white bass were hitting small spoons in the jumps; black bass were hitting spinners and plastic worms; clear to murky, rising, at summer pool and 77 degrees.

CUMBERLAND: Black bass were striking spinners off rocky points and around stump rows 10-15 feet deep; crappie were hitting minnows over submerged tree tops 15 to 20 feet deep; clear, falling, 27 feet below summer pool and 76 degrees.

DALE HOLLOW: Black bass were hitting buzz baits and plastic worms cast off shallow banks at night in 1-3 feet of water; bluegill were hitting crickets over submerged cover 8-10 feet deep; clear, stable at two feet below summer pool and 79 degrees.

LAUREL: Trout were hitting corn, and minnows in open water at night 10-30 feet deep; black bass were hitting spinners and crank baits off rocky banks at variable depths; clear, falling, 12 feet below summer pool and 74 degrees.

CAVE RUN: Muskie were hitting deep running crank baits over standing timber 10-20 feet deep; black bass were taking surface lures and crank baits along edges of channels over timber from the surface to 15 feet deep; clear, falling, two feet below summer pool and 78 degrees.

PAINTSVILLE: Black bass were coming up for topwater lures off rocky points; trout were hitting wax worms at night over creek channels about 2 feet deep; clear, falling, three feet below summer pool and 76 degrees.

BUCKHORN: Crappie were hitting minnows drifted over submerged cover 6-12 feet deep; muskie were hitting large lures trolled 10-20 feet deep in the lower lake and over old river channels; clear to murky, stable at one foot below summer pool and 73 degrees.

GRAYSON: Black bass were enjoying spinner baits near brush piles about 10 feet deep; crappie were active on minnows over submerged cover about four feet deep; clear, rising, two feet below summer pool and 72 degrees.

On September 20th, the Bassin' Buddies Bass Club met on Taylorsville Lake to fish their seventh tournament of the year.

Thunder, lightning and heavy rains made for less than desirable conditions for fishing. But these conditions did not stop the club from enjoying fishing this beautiful lake.

Greg Bryant and Joe Arms took first place with 8 lb. 14 oz. Second place went to the team of Tee Watkins and Howard McFaddin with a weight of 3 lb. 13 oz. Third place went to Paul Hagan and Paul Horn with 3 lb. 1 oz. The Lunker Trophy was taken home by Paul Horn with a fish weighing 3 lb. 1 oz. The club caught a total weight of 30 lb. 7 oz.

Bassin' Buddies will hold their last tournament of the year on Lake Cumberland October 18, at the Jamestown Dock.

7UP SUPER STARS SPORTS TALK

Mike Schmidt

The 1981 baseball season will be remembered by its fans, its players and its historians for all the wrong reasons.

The sparkling catches, clutch hitting and power pitching, the drama and tension of a dramatic divisional race or a pivotal playoff game will be forgotten. What will be remembered is the baseball strike and a time for two months when there was no baseball.

For the fans, it meant finding new summer reading to replace the box scores that were no longer available for digesting with one's morning coffee, and searching for new diversions—like drag racing or beachcombing—to fill the baseball-less hours. When the Summer Game returned, some diehards rushed back to the stadiums and television sets as if in had need of a fix. Others spurned it—as attendance figures over the last two months of the season showed—with the spitefulness of a jilted lover.

For the players, it was like taking a six-week vacation during the busy season. Just like teachers and air controllers, the Bretts and Winfields and McGraws and Ryans found themselves sitting passively as the strike tore a hole in their wallets and sparked fear for their futures.

"It was very tough during the strike," said 7UP Super Star Mike Schmidt, the slugging third baseman of the Philadelphia Phillies, who was recently named the National League's Most Valuable Player for the second consecutive season. "You're conditioned to play ball at this time of year, mentally as well as physically, and it's not easy to be puttering around the house. I could never really enjoy the free time because the strike was continually on my mind. There was no guarantee, of course, that we'd be coming back at all during 1981. Then, once the strike was over, we had to get back into the right frame of mind and the proper physical condition with very little preparation."

In a sport that has always been tailor-made for statistics, individual marks took a beating. Schmidt, for example, hit 31 home runs, and drove in 91 runs, leading the majors in both categories, and batted .316. A fine year for any ballplayer.

Only in 1981 the 7UP Super Star had to wonder what he might have accomplished if 55 Phillies games had not been washed away by the strike.

"That's something I had no control over," said Schmidt. "Tim Raines of Montreal had 71 stolen bases and very likely could have set the major league mark for one season. Pete Rose had to wait six weeks to get a single hit and break Stan Musial's National League career record. A guy like Gaylord Perry, who is very close to reaching the 300 mark in lifetime wins, now might never make it. Unfortunately, it was part of the game—or a part of the game in 1981."

Students of the game will continue to take issue with Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's decision to split the season into B.S. and A.S. (before strike and after strike). Kuhn's ruling meant that the team leading the division at the time of the strike was given a ticket into the divisional playoffs against the winner of the second division.

"That's like ending a mile race at the half-mile, counting the votes for a Presidential election in September, or giving a student an 'A' for a course during midterms," said one critic. "The commissioner failed to take into consideration any discrepancy in number of games played or the strategy of managers who were pacing their teams for a 162-game season, not one that lasted 55 games."

Supporters of the plan, however, saw the second season as a chance to draw fans into ballparks whose occupants were suddenly starting even instead of, in some cases, nearly 20 games out of first place. One of those teams, the Kansas City Royals, made the most of the chance by winning the second division of the American League West after finishing the first half an even dozen games behind the Oakland A's.

None of the first-half winners, byes in hand, repeated during the second half of the season. After all, critics said, by winning both halves, a team had little to gain. It would still have to face the second-place team during Season Two in a best-of-five playoff.

A number of baseball people complained, but the club with the biggest gripe was the Cincinnati Reds. They had the best record in the major leagues in 1981, yet finished a half-game behind the Dodgers in the first half, and 1 1/2 in back of the Astros in the second half.

"The split season threatened the integrity of the game," said Dick Wagner, the unhappy president of the Reds.

The team consoled itself by hanging a banner in its clubhouse that read "Baseball's Best Record in 1981." It didn't make the pain disappear.

New Election Law Changes Affect Voter, Candidates

By Attorney General David L. Armstrong
Several important changes were made in the election laws during the 1986 General Assembly of which all Kentuckians should be aware. Many of the laws were effective July 15, 1986, and affect both voters and candidates for public office.
Kentuckians who are out of the Commonwealth are not necessarily prohibited from voting in any election. In fact, state law encourages you to do so. However, there have been recent changes in absentee ballots. The law now states that anyone who chooses to vote by absentee (special) ballots must obtain an application form either in person or by mail. The application can be obtained in this manner by the voter's spouse, parents, or dependent children, but can no longer be obtained by a telephone request.

Candidates for public office are also affected by the election law changes. In November, there will be regular elections in Kentucky for the U.S. House of Representatives in each of the seven Congressional districts, one U.S. Senate seat, all state legislative seats, some state Senate seats and for school board members in certain school divisions in each county.
One important change in the election laws concerns party affiliation and the right to run as an independent candidate. The law now prohibits a person registered as a Democrat or Republican from running for any office in November as an independent unless such person changes his or her party affiliation to independent. Prior to the amendment, anyone could run for office as an independent regardless of party affiliation.

Certain candidates are exempt from the new law affecting party affiliation, however. Certain candidates for some city offices in certain class cities operating under particular forms of local government are exempt from the requirement that they change their party affiliation in order to run for office as an independent. For example, candidates for council can run as an independent without changing their party affiliation because they cannot seek major party nomination. However, in a city of the fifth class, for example, a mayoral candidate cannot run as an independent unless he or she changes party affiliation to independent because he or she has the option of seeking major party nomination in the May primary. Candidates for council, however, can run as an independent without changing their party affiliation because they cannot seek major party nomination.

The law also affects the filing deadline for independent candidates seeking municipal offices. The deadline is now 68 days before the November election, rather than the previous deadline of 90 days before the May primary. The law applies regardless of the candidate's right to seek party nomination in the May primary.

Effective January 1, 1987, all candidates for public offices must file nominating papers no later than 4 p.m. on the last day that such papers can be filed, whether it be for party or nonpartisan primary nomination or for a special or general election. (Before the law took effect, they could file up to midnight on the last date of filing.)

Although some of the new election laws are complicated and confusing, with careful review of the law, no one, either candidate or voter, should be caught off-guard. If you have any questions, contact the Office of the Attorney General, Capitol, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, (502) 564-7600.

"Southern Folk Art" Exhibition Opens at J.B. Speed Art Museum On September 27

From a robust horse prancing across a quilt to a delicate portrait of an aristocratic woman, the great diversity of the folk art tradition in the American South is presented in the exhibition, Southern Folk Art, on view at the J.B. Speed Art Museum from September 27 through November 30. The exhibition is made possible by a grant from Philip Morris Companies, Inc., with additional support given by the National Endowment for the Arts.

Guest curator Cynthia Elyce Rubin has selected 90 major works, including paintings, sculpture, textiles, furniture and pottery, all produced between 1743 and 1915. "Through the bits and pieces which record the daily life of a society—the birth and baptismal certificates, paintings, quilts, samplers, furniture and pottery—we bear witness to a Southern artistic sensibility that has gone largely unexplored," said Rubin.

On loan from private collections and museums, many of the objects have never before been exhibited publicly. The exhibition and the accompanying book, provide the public with its first opportunity to see the full range of the South's folk art legacy.

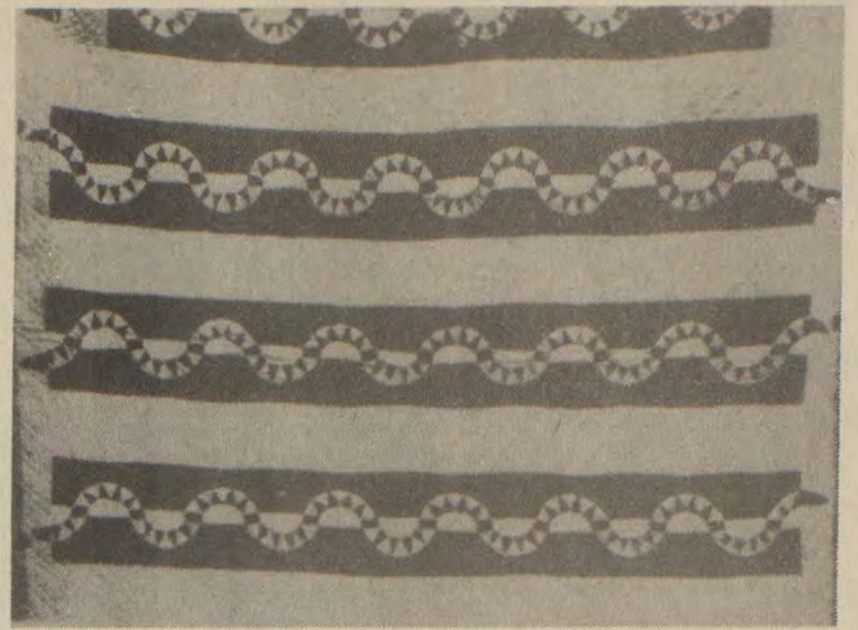

Hamish Maxwell, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Philip Morris Companies, Inc., said, "We are pleased to help people better understand the crafts and folk arts that have shaped and expressed the character of Southerners. We depend on the South's world-class tobacco, and many of our factories and people are in the South. We share the region's pride in its original contributions to our national treasury of folk arts."

Exploring the little-known world of folk art in the South, the exhibition demonstrates how the region's strong, varied traditions comprise a major mosaic of the American art experience. Southern Folk Art includes objects from Maryland to Texas, the Eastern seaboard to Florida, the deep South of Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi, as well as West Virginia and Kentucky. Many classic masterpieces in the folk genre are included in the show: an 1815 panorama of the Battle of New Orleans, a pair of earthenware lions, a Tennessee steamboat model, as well as more typical portraits, fraktur, samplers, snake canes and painted furniture.

Peter Morrin, the Speed Museum's new director commented, "The magnificent heritage of Southern artists working in folk traditions is largely unknown. 'Southern Folk Art' provides a delightful revelation."

J.B. Speed Art Museum hours are Tuesday-Saturday, 10-4 p.m., Sunday 1-5 p.m. Admission: Tuesday, free; Wednesday-Sunday, adults $2.00; senior citizens, $1.00; children and students with ID, free.

BACK ON THE JOB after an auto accident disabled her for a year, Renee Spaulding, of Abbott Creek, was answering the phone this week at the Sears store in Prestonsburg. Miss Spaulding earned associates degrees in arts and science at Prestonsburg Community College and had her heart set on becoming a respiratory therapist when she "met a coal truck on a curve" of the Abbott road on July 30 last year. Her compact car was demolished and her knees were "cut to the bone."

Fourteen months later, she credits surgeon Dr. Syed Ikramuddin for more than stitching up her knees. "The accident destroyed my self-confidence," she said. "If it hadn't been for him I'd have given up."

When an internship becomes available at Highlands Regional Medical Center, Miss Spaulding said, she hopes to resume her interrupted pursuit of a career in respiratory therapy.

Group Forms Here For Adults Who Were Sexually Abused As Children

"I haven't told anybody about this, but I heard about your group..." That is a line Sandy Cannon hears often and would like to hear some more.

The executive director of Parents Anonymous of Kentucky, Cannon was in Prestonsburg this week to announce the formation of a self-help group for adults who were sexually abused as children. It will be the first such group in the state.

If the accepted statistics are anywhere near the mark—three out of five girls and two out of five boys are reckoned to have been sexually abused—there are many adults in any community burdened with an experience that shadows their lives and about which they have never spoken to anyone, she said.

Until now, there has been no place to turn where a victim of sexual abuse could share her or his story with those most likely to understand—those who have had the same experience—said Janie Hall, a Mountain Comp Care counselor who is facilitator for the existing Parents Anonymous (PA) chapter here and who will be one of two facilitators for the planned PA-ASAAC (Adults Sexually Abused As Children) chapter.

For Hall, the benefits of confidential self-help groups—participants reveal only their first names—are incalculable. "I have never seen such cohesion, such empathy, in a group," she said. "It is something no professional could provide. These people have been in the other persons' shoes."

The group will meet at 6 p.m. next Tuesday, Oct. 14, at the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center on Front Street. There is no charge to participate.

WHY DO I NEED A WILL?

It's a common misconception that only older people or those with large amounts of property need wills. The truth is that every adult should have a will to guarantee that his - or her - final wishes will be carried out properly. If you die without a will, state law will determine who inherits your property. Seldom will your property pass to the people you would choose in the proportions you prefer. With a will, you can choose who will administer your estate, handle financial matters, and act as guardian for your children. Even people in their 20's should have a will to specify their wishes in such matters. So-called "do-it-yourself" wills often do not stand up in court. Consultation with a competent attorney will assure that your will is legal and binding; his or her fee is small when you consider the peace of mind that a legally secure will brings. As funeral directors, we have seen the disastrous results when the proper wills were not drawn. As funeral directors, we can provide counseling if you choose to specify funeral services as part of your will. For all other related matters, see an attorney. We welcome your questions and comments.

Randy Travis has taken country music by 'Storm'

By Lynn Hoogenboom

Randy Travis found out that he had been nominated for four Country Music Association Awards in that most public of all places — Nashville's Opryland Hotel — where he had been asked, as a last-minute substitute for Ricky Skaggs, to read out the nominations.

Randy Travis

"I ended up reading my own name about four times," Travis recalls. "They wouldn't let me see the cards before I went out to read the nominations, so it was quite a shock to me."

And did he succeed in looking calm, cool and collected while he was reading his own name? "Most of the time — I think," he says.

If a bit of a yelp did creep into his voice as he read off his name, he could hardly be blamed. His four nominations — for single of the year ("On the Other Hand"), album of the year ("Storms of Life"), male vocalist of the year and the Horizon Award — were a double shock, since Travis was virtually unknown a year ago, and country-music careers tend to build slowly.

Not that Travis just started singing yesterday. He's 27 now, and has been singing professionally since he was 17 years old, often doubling as dishwasher or cook at the clubs in Charlotte, N.C., and Nashville, where he sang.

When he finally got a break, however, there was no stopping him. He has racked up two No. 1 singles and a No. 1 album, and his voice has been compared with the voices of such country giants as Merle Haggard and George Jones. That's high praise, indeed, for Travis, who lists those two, as well as Hank Williams and Lefty Frizzell, as his personal favorites.

Travis also has demonstrated a talent for song writing. In fact, his own "Reasons I Cheat," a song about a disillusioned middle-aged man, may be the strongest song on his album.

But what firsthand knowledge does Travis, who has never been married, have of such country-music staples as cheating and heartbreak — let alone middle age? "Not a whole lot," he quickly admits. "But I've known a lot of people who have."

"The 20th Annual Country Music Association Awards" will air live from Nashville on Monday, Oct. 13, on CBS. Even if Travis doesn't clean up this time around, it's already been his year.

For Fire Hazard Season,
Special Regs Take Effect

Natural Resources Secretary Charlotte E. Baldwin reminds Kentuckians that Kentucky law designates Oct. 1-Dec. 15 as "Forest Fire Hazard Season."

During this period, the law prohibits burning anything capable of spreading fire within 150 feet of the woods. The no-burning provisions are in force throughout the day except between the hours of 4:30 p.m. and midnight.

The cabinet's Division of Forestry advises that even after 4:30 p.m., no one should burn unless the wind is calm. It is also illegal to start a fire at any time on or near one's timberland without taking all reasonable precautions to prevent the fire from spreading. The law requires that all outdoor fires be attended until extinguished.

Forestry Director Donald Hamm explained that reasonable precautions include: the ground should be cleared around a fire, tools should be handy, the fire should be fed slowly, and it should be manned until it is completely out. "Burning only in the late evening and taking adequate precautions would rid Kentucky of one of the leading causes of forest fires," Hamm said, referring to fires which accidentally spread when people burn trash and other unwanted material.

Hamm said that this past spring, Kentucky has 2,321 forest fires that burned 82,836 acres. At an average loss of $85 per acre, these fires did over $7 million damage during the spring fire season.

Hamm said that division field personnel are now making final preparations for the fall fire season with the hiring, training, and equipping of emergency fire fighting crews.

This Week's Report On Fall Leaf Colors

Kentucky woodlands continue to be only lightly brushed by the reds, yellows and oranges of fall leaf color. However, the arrival of cool weather will likely accelerate the spread of fall hues throughout the hardwood forests. The following is a summary of current leaf conditions in the state's four regions:

EASTERN—About 10 percent of hardwood trees have changed color so far. Crimson-colored dogwoods and yellow sassafras trees are beginning to take on their autumn colors.

NORTH CENTRAL—Fall coloration ranges from 5-15 percent in the region. The most color appears to be around Pleasureville in Henry County, where bright-yellow hickories stand out in the forest landscape.

SOUTH CENTRAL—About 5-10 percent of hardwood trees have changed color. Blackgum trees are starting to turn deep red, and poplars are changing to their bright yellow fall color.

WESTERN—Approximately 15 percent of deciduous trees have changed color in the eastern half of the region and about 20 percent in the western half. Around Benton, maples are beginning to take on their spectacular fall hues, which range from red to orange. Also prominent through the region are sweetgums, whose leaves turn scarlet as the fall progresses.

IMMUNE SYSTEMS
Are you planning to travel abroad? If travel to a third-world country is planned, check with your physician to see which shots are needed. Yellow fever immunization, for instance, is recommended, and often required, for travel to parts of tropical Africa and South America. Immunization for typhoid is advised if one is traveling to certain regions of Central and South America, Africa and Asia. Polio still exists in Africa and India. The polio vaccine is thus necessary if travel is planned to those points. The vaccine contains small amounts of streptomycin and neomycin. An individual who is sensitive to these drugs may develop a minor allergic reaction after being immunized.
Here at COOLEY APOTHECARY we aim to offer you the finest professional service available anywhere. We're in the business of helping you stay healthy and are always available to answer any of your concerns. We look forward to being of service to you in the near future here at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. MasterCard and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4.
HANDY HINT: A gammaglobulin shot is necessary if one is planning to travel to a country with unsanitary food and water conditions.

TAX LAW COMPLICATES IRAs
Individual retirement accounts have become a very popular means of saving for retirement while cutting current income taxes. The 1986 Tax Reform Act makes some changes that may affect your use of an IRA.
Beginning in 1987, if you or your spouse has a pension plan at work, you can take the full IRA deduction only if your adjusted gross income doesn't exceed $40,000 ($25,000, if you're single). Between $40,000 and $50,000, couples covered by company plans will see their IRA deduction phased-out (between $25,000 and $35,000 for singles).
Since the new IRA provision does not go into effect until January 1, 1987, contributions for 1986 can still be made and deducted in full, up through April 15, 1987.
Earnings on both deductible and nondeductible IRAs will be tax-deferred until withdrawal. IRAs remain very attractive for those taxpayers still entitled to a deduction for contributions. For those not entitled to a deduction, the tax deferral on earnings inside the IRA may still make funding an IRA a good plan. However, other investment opportunities should be examined and your funds put where the biggest after-tax yield can be achieved.
Since the Tax Act also eliminates the preferred tax treatment for capital gains, IRA funds might be appropriately placed into capital asset investments such as growth stocks that could provide a higher return than CDs or money market accounts. There are, of course, other considerations. For example, while earnings remain tax-free in IRA, any losses cannot be deducted. Another change in the new law will allow IRA funds to be invested in U.S. gold and silver coins, something not permitted under prior law. Also take into account that if you need to withdraw your money early, taking it from an IRA results in 10% penalty in addition to the income tax that is due on the withdrawal. Pulling money out of non-IRA investments creates no such penalty.

October Is Month
For Proclamations

"October seems to be the month for them," observed Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo with regard to the four proclamations he issued in as many days this week.

A federal program observing its 21st birthday... the needs of the handicapped... the benefits of tourism... the colors of an east Kentucky fall...

All were duly marked with pronouncements bearing the traditional (if obscure) salutation, "To All To Whom These Presents Shall Come," each paragraph introduced with the customary, capitalized "WHEREAS," each document ending in the conventionally around "NOW, THEREFORE, I attest..." and dated, like wedding invitations, with the figures spelled out in words.

So, whereas the Head Start program has provided health, educational and social services to 210,000 Kentucky children since it began in 1965, October is proclaimed Head Start Month.

And, "whereas all persons have the right to employment at the highest levels of which they are capable," Oct. 5-11 is proclaimed National Employ the Handicapped Week.

And, whereas tourism is the third largest retail industry in the U.S. and could beef up many a region's sagging economy if only people realized its benefits, this is also Tourism Awareness Week.

And, "whereas this fair county of Floyd is abundantly blessed with a natural beauty that equals if not surpasses that of the New England states... let it be known that all who visit our fair parts in joyful spirit will find feasting for the eyes and warm welcome."

On hand for the Head Start proclamation were Sidney Jane Smith, program director; staff members Juanita Stephens, Deborah Belcher, and Mildred Kendrick; and parents on the policy committee, Jeannie Bow, of Garrett; Hattie May Hurd, of Prestonsburg; Sammie Perkins, of Betsy Layne; Bobbie Caudill Jones, of Melvin; Susan J. Pilch, of John M. Stumbo school; Sybil Fay Robinson, of Martin; and James Allen, of Osborne.

Receiving the proclamation for Employ the Handicapped Week was Glenda Hall, counseling supervisor at the employment office here.

Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta joined the judge for marking Tourism Awareness Week, with Big Sandy ADD planner Larry Wingate handling the protocol.

And celebrating the fall colors with a stylishly-lettered proclamation were Duna and Andrea Combs and Marcella Bailey, of Maytown. Mrs. Doug Garrett, of Bull Creek, and Eileen Burchett, of Prestonsburg.
