

Announce Engagement

Ms. Ruth James, of Frankfort, Ky., and Mr. Fred A. James, I, of Prestonsburg, would like to announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter Emily Abbott James to Airman Kenneth Wayne Wilson, of Tampa, Fla. Airman Wilson is the son of Mr. Wayne Wilson, of Tampa, and Mrs. Debbie Wilson, of Highland Heights.

The wedding will be 2:00 Saturday, Sept. 13 at South Frankfort Presbyterian Church. The gracious custom of an open wedding will be observed.

DAY HOMEMAKERS TO MEET

Mrs. Judy Kittle, president of the Prestonsburg Day Homemakers, reminds members and prospective members that the first meeting of the club's 1986-'87 year will be held Tuesday, September 9, at 1 o'clock in Fellowship Hall of the First United Methodist Church, here. She urges them to attend.

PSC "Ignored" Advice In Rejecting Utility

A "red-faced" Public Service Commission "put on no case" and found itself on the defensive, according to County Attorney David Barber, when Floyd officials answered a summons last week to explain why they had not sacked East Kentucky Utilities as operator of a county-owned gas system.

However, while most other fiscal court officials agreed with Barber's assessment of the square-off in Frankfort last Tuesday, maverick magistrate Jackie Edford Owens—in whose district live the 1300 Right Beaver families served by the ailing gas system—found the regulatory agency's criticism of the gas company to have merit.

In turning the attack on the county's accusers, Barber made much of the fact that a consultant's study commissioned in 1979 by the PSC itself ranked the Floyd utility among the most deserving of government funds then available for system repair. An application by the utility for a $2 million loan under the reconstruction program was turned down, however.

"They gave money to eight eastern Kentucky utilities at that time but none to East Kentucky Utilities," Barber said. "If they had, we wouldn't have the problems we have now."

In fact, of the eight gas companies which did receive loan money, four are in default on the loans. But what is significant, the county attorney argued, is that the four in trouble all fall under the jurisdiction of the PSC. On the other hand, four municipally-owned systems, which are not subject to PSC oversight, are all solvent.

"What that suggests," Barber said, "is that the PSC is being so tight and so consumer-oriented that they're not using the evidence these small companies put in front of them" in determining whether rate increases are justified.

"No one wants to see these Right Beaver people paying higher gas rates," he said. "But neither do I want to see them cut off" because the utility is unable to pay a $400,000 debt to its wholesale suppliers.

But Owens, the only magistrate to accept a PSC invitation to testify at Tuesday's hearing, said his constituents opposed a rate hike and blamed John Allen's administration of the utility for the losses it has sustained.

Noting that EKU's heavy indebtedness to Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company resulted from gas escaping through corroded pipes, Owens said consumers should not have to foot the bill. "Since the gas was lost before it reached their homes, my people think they should not have to pay for bad management," he said. "We ought to get rid of the Allens."

Questioned by Barber, Owens acknowledged he had voted to rehire David Allen, EKU's present manager, as county treasurer and that Allen served satisfactorily in that capacity. But for East Kentucky Utilities to have become so indebted over the past three years, "someone has quit doing his job," Owens said.

Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo said the PSC hearing left him more

Surcharge Debated Before High Court

Whatever is to be done to help small utilities pay their debts, allowing them to collect a special surcharge from their customers is not the way to go about it, an assistant attorney general argued last Wednesday before the Kentucky Supreme Court.

At issue is the legality of surcharges the Public Service Commission allowed three debt-ridden utilities—including Prestonsburg's Elzie Neeley Gas Co.—to begin levying in 1982.

Assistant Attorney General Sarah Jackson asked the court to direct the PSC to refund the surcharges, which she said forced customers to pay twice for services.

Attorneys for the utilities argued that the firms had no choice but to ask the PSC for the surcharges, which have earlier been upheld both by Franklin Circuit Court and the Kentucky Court of Appeals.

In a 1985 opinion, the appeals court said the PSC's decision is "a clear case of the commission making the best of an impossible situation" because there was "no reasonable alternative" to ensure uninterrupted service to customers.

The Supreme Court did not immediately rule on the case.

rather than less confident in the Allens' ability to manage the system. Asked by a PSC attorney why the county has not terminated its operating lease with EKU, Stumbo replied, "I have not heard anything yet that would make me want to recommend to the fiscal court any change in management."

Barber said after the hearing that, while he thought Owens acted "with the best of intentions," the magistrate's appearance before the regulatory agency could result in the Floyd utility's being denied the rate relief for which it recently applied and which it needs to complete line repairs and begin to repay its supplier. "If the gas is cut off it will be partly because of his testimony," the county attorney said.

Owens acknowledged the risk but said he would be equally vulnerable to criticism if he voiced no objection to the sought-for rate hike. "If I go and stand up against the increase and they cut the gas off, I'm the villain. But if I don't speak up and they get the increase, I'm the villain again," he said.

If it comes down to a choice between raising rates and having the gas shut off, he will accept an increase, the Second District magistrate said. But it need not come to that if the county as a whole accepted responsibility for the system, he said.

Under the terms of the lease, the fiscal court is not legally responsible for EKU's debts, Barber said. But Owens said the county should render assistance to any district experiencing a crisis. The fiscal court could contribute the plastic pipe needed to complete replacement of the system's leaky iron pipes, he said. And it could draw on the $1 million received in a windfall gas tax last spring to help pay off the system's debt, he added.

But Barber said a bond issue is needed to retire the utility's debt and replace its lines and that a rate increase is needed to pay off the bonds.

The 1979 study commissioned by the PSC found the Floyd utility to be the most deserving of financial help out of 21 systems evaluated, Barber said. Four criteria were used in ranking the systems, with priority given to those with the oldest and most corroded pipes, those with most customers, and those where repairs could be effected relatively cheaply.

With cost of repairs estimated by the consultant at $970 per customer, the Floyd system (then known as Ohio-Kentucky Utilities) was reckoned to be one of the more cost effective. Denied government assistance, the utility has replaced 59 percent of its lines at a cost so far of only $217 per customer, Barber said.

All that last week's PSC hearing did, Barber insisted, "was to show that East Kentucky Utilities did a tremendous job with the money they had."

FIRST BAPTIST EVENTS

During morning services at the First Baptist Church (Irene Cole Memorial), Sunday, September 7, Baby Dedication will be observed. Any members of this church who have a baby that has not been included in the church's Cradle Roll, are asked to please call Mrs. Helen Vickers, at 886-9816, or the above church, at 886-8681.

At 7 p.m., worship services will be held outside, and groundbreaking for the church's new building will take place. The pastor, the Rev. Steve Hopkins, asks that "plans be made not to miss this event."

ATTEND MARTIN REUNION

Monroe Wicker, formerly of Floyd county, now of Morehead, was here this weekend, enroute to Martin, where he appeared on the program during the Martin High School reunion, Saturday evening. Mr. Wicker, who served for several years as principal there, and later as superintendent of Prestonsburg Schools, is retired from Morehead State University.

Safety Experts Warn...

New, Airless Spray Guns May Damage Skin of Hands

Amateur painters hoping to increase speed and efficiency with an airless sprayer risk shooting toxic paint into their skin, possibly causing irreversible damage.

Injuries from the use of airless equipment may be on the rise as manufacturers have unveiled models designed for the consumer market.

Extremely high pressure delivers paint from the nozzle with enough velocity to pierce the skin at close range. The paint spreads rapidly once in the tissue and the injury develops into a serious problem within a few hours.

The injury may appear to have been only a pinprick, but amputation of the affected area frequently is the only treatment.

"My concern is that farmers and homeowners will see these new sprayers at low prices and feel that they require a low amount of caution, as well. People need to be aware that serious injury can result from the careless use of these products," said Larry Piercy, agricultural safety specialist for the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Manufacturers have taken steps to prevent further mishaps. Safety guards are now required on spray outlets and new labels inside packages warn owners to exercise caution while operating the sprayers.

"These things force paint out of a small hole at pressures ranging from 2,500 to 3,500 pounds per square inch, which is much higher than compressed-air sprayers. We have had airless equipment for nearly 10 years, but I still warn my people to be careful with them, and they paint every day," said Bob Hays of Paintmaster in Lexington.

Airless spray guns cannot be cleaned with the same methods used for conventional air-operated guns. Any waste material must come through the spray nozzle. A clot of paint forced through the gun at such high pressure becomes a hazardous projectile.

Under no circumstances should hands or fingers be used to clean or unclog the spray gun. Wiping away blockage from the tip of the sprayer is common among painters using air-operated equipment, though it is not recommended. This practice can be unconsciously carried over to the airless equipment, sometimes with grave consequences.

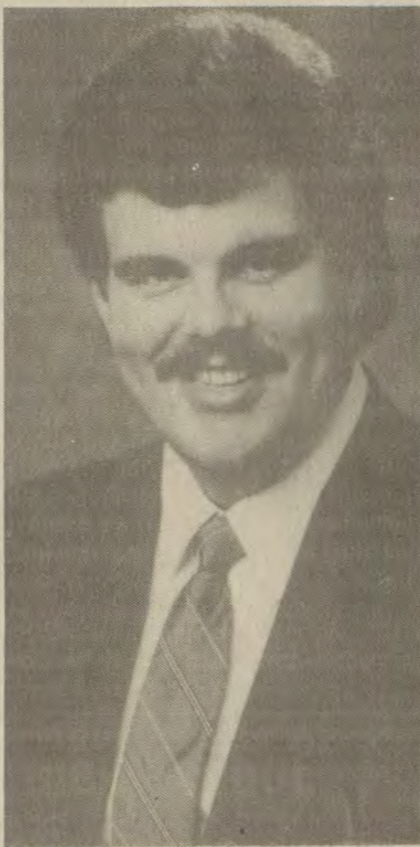

Pressure that builds up in the painting system remains high even when the pump is shut off. Great care must be taken to relieve the pressure before attempting to clean or disassemble the sprayer. Individual manufacturer recommendations should be followed for standards relating to specific sprayers.

Should an accident involving paint injections occur, medical attention must be obtained immediately.

Crops Suffer From Drought

Statewide, soil moisture still remains a critical concern. The state is 28 percent short, 52 percent very short and only 20 percent adequate, according to figures from the Kentucky Agricultural Statistics Service.

"Our crops are holding on almost better than expected, but we need a rain very soon if our good prospects are going to continue," said Agriculture Commissioner David E. Boswell.

"The dry weather has already hurt the tobacco," the Commissioner added. The tobacco crop is highly variable with regard to maturity and potential yield. If it received water at the right time, it is in good shape, but if it didn't yields have been reduced.

As of Aug. 24, 32 percent of the state's burley acreage had been cut. This compares to 30 percent last year and 20 percent for the five-year average.

Dark tobacco is estimated to be 30 percent cut. This is up from 28 percent last year and 21 percent for the average.

Corn in Kentucky continues to be ahead in development from last year. Corn is 98 percent in the dough stage or beyond, compared with 91 percent last year. More than three-quarters of the corn is in the dent stage or beyond. Thirty percent of the crop is mature or harvested.

Some farmers have started to harvest corn for grain, and about 5 percent had been harvested as of August 24. Silage choppage is very active in areas where there has been a great deal of drought stress. The general condition of the corn crop is 2 percent very poor, 15 percent poor, 44 percent fair, 35 percent good and 4 percent excellent.

Hay and pastures continue to be in poor to fair condition. Farmers are cutting and harvesting hay as available and are continuing to feed hay because of the poor pasture conditions.

ESPN is reliving some great achievements in sports

By Amanda Bruce

New for sports fans: "Magic Years in Sports" makes its debut Monday, Sept. 8, on ESPN. It's a 13-part series that will recreate some classic moments in sports from as far back as the 1930s.

Margaret Court

The half-hour episodes will use interviews with the highlighted athletes, when they are available, or with members of their families. Some of the moments that will be captured on ESPN will be Roger Bannister breaking the four-minute mile in 1954, Joe DiMaggio's 56-game hitting streak in 1941, Mark Spitz and Olga Korbut's gold-medal performances at the Olympics in 1972, and Arnold Palmer winning the 1958 Masters.

"Scholastic Sports America," a weekly show about high school sports. The half-hour programs will highlight achievements of individual athletes, profiles of outstanding coaches and reflections of professional athletes about their high school years. Chris Fowler will host the series, which airs on Saturday evenings at 6:30 p.m. (ET).

The Arts & Entertainment Network brings its viewers a major documentary on the history of cotton with the four-part series "The Rise and Fall of King Cotton," beginning Sept. 8.

The series was written and hosted by Anthony Burton. It details the business of cotton from its origins in the 1600s — when English traders discovered the crop in India — to the slavery that supported it in the 1800s — to the women and children who worked in the cotton mills for slave wages in the 19th and early 20th century. Today, it's once again big business back in India.

HBO draws some professionals to its sports rosters this season when Drew Pearson, former Dallas Cowboys wide receiver, and Howie Long, Los Angeles Raiders defensive end, join "Inside the NFL." Both men join current hosts Nick Buoniconti and Len Dawson in the series, which is marking its tenth season on HBO this fall.

Billy Warlock's specialty is playing soap orphans

By Nancy M. Reichardt

Billy Warlock can't seem to shake the image of the poor orphan boy in his daytime soap opera roles. He first burst upon the daytime scene as Ricky Driscoll on CBS's "Capitol." Ricky was an orphan out on his own. Now Warlock is cast as another orphan, Frankie Bridges, on NBC's "Days of Our Lives."

Billy Warlock

Although there are similarities between the two characters, Warlock insists that the two are very different.

"Ricky had a lot more problems than Frankie does," says Warlock. "Frankie is a very together person who's been dealt a lot of responsibility at an early age. He is totally responsible for his little brother, Max. Both characters are basically good guys, but Frankie is a little more intelligent than Ricky was."

What's in store for Warlock's character? At this point even he isn't sure. "Frankie will eventually achieve his goals. He's slated to be a possible love interest for Jennifer Horton," says Warlock. "Other than that, I don't know very much about Frankie. The writers are keeping me in the dark. They don't want me to give anything away."

Warlock wasn't idle professionally during the time between his two daytime roles. He filmed a featured role in the recently released theatrical film "Hot Shots" and filmed the TV pilots "2 1/2 Dads," (an ABC Disney feature) and the NBC-TV pilot "Rags to Riches." "I was basically a guest star on 'Rags to Riches,'" says Warlock.

On Nov. 2, 1985, Warlock married Marcy Walker, who portrays Eden Capwell Cranston on another NBC soap, "Santa Barbara."

"A two-career marriage is no problem for either of us," says Warlock. "It's easier on us because we're both working, and basically our jobs are 9-to-5. Our careers are really separate from our personal lives. What Marcy does with her career is one thing, and what I do with mine is another."

What does the future hold for Warlock? "Marcy and I would like to get into producing someday, and between the two of us, I think we'll pull it off. We also want to raise a family. Ultimately, we'd like not to be dependent upon the business. We'd like to be able to work simply because we enjoy it."

Wayland, Martin Alumni Remember The Old Times

Although both schools have disappeared from the academic and sports scenes as a result of consolidation, Martin and Wayland high schools refuse to lie down and die. As homecomings in both towns demonstrated over the weekend, the old school spirit lives.

Former students, those who drove the ball up their courts, and those who cheered them on "came home" to make them the biggest reunions the county has seen. They came from Florida, Maine, Tennessee, Michigan, Ohio, Alabama, California, Texas, Massachusetts and points in-between, to honor their former teachers, principals, and each other.

They gathered as members of a vanishing breed—graduates of small schools in close-knit communities whose ties have not been severed by the intervening years.

Nearly 2,000 showed up for a three-day extravaganza at Wayland, home of the Wayland Wasps, whose sting on the basketball court was once feared like that of the killer bee. The gala marked the homecoming of an entire town.

Grand marshal at a noon parade Saturday was Lawrence B. Price, teacher, principal and coach at Wayland High for more than 20 years. He was guest of honor at an awards ceremony later that also honored Circuit Judge Hollie Conley; Ray Patton, former hurler for the Boston Red Sox; "King" Kelly Coleman, former roundball superstar; Mrs. Charles Burnette, Wayland's oldest citizen; Frank Delzer, Elkhorn Coal Company representative at Wayland for 10 years; and Dave Tufts, longtime barber. Honored posthumously were law officers Oak and Troy Mullins and postmasters Mrs. Everett Parker and Aretta Mosley.

The enthusiasm at Wayland was matched only by that at Martin, where dignified-looking alums screamed, "The Flash is back!" The town was decked out in purple and gold. The school gymnasium was filled with 2000 balloons and festooned with long purple-and-gold streamers.

Among those who gathered for individual class reunions were Girdel Dingus Breeding and Effie Maggard—members of the school's first (1927) graduating class.

Presented with honorary plaques were former basketball coach Denzil "Hoss" Halbert; John Wiley Adams, a member of the class of '36; Monroe Wicker, the oldest living Martin school principal; the families of former principal, the late J.W. Salisbury and of the late Sherrill Frazier, former gym instructor.

About 800 gathered for a dance Saturday night and, even after the late-night revelry, many descended on the Allen Park Sunday for a picnic and bluegrass music.

Grant Could Boost Downtown Business

A three-pronged attack on the economic doldrums afflicting downtown businesses here will be mounted if Prestonsburg can qualify for the state Main Street program, according to City Manager Fred James.

The first hurdle to be overcome is to gain the support of business and civic groups, since the city will have to come up with a matching grant of $10,000 toward the salary of a director for the program.

The General Assembly this year allocated $460,000 for the program, to be spread among 10 chosen cities. Competition for the money is expected to be intense. And preference will be given to cities which agree to hire a qualified, full-time program manager.

James told the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club last Thursday that preparing for the grant application provides an opportunity for public discussion of the area's economic development. The application can be put together "after we have a strong coalition of business and civic leaders... who stand behind it," he said.

Together with an Appalachian Regional Commission grant, for which the city is also applying, the Main Street program would enable Prestonsburg to launch three projects: a promotional campaign, including a listing of all city businesses; the development of a logo for the city; and provision of technical assistance for employers and employees.

Afterwards, rehabilitation of city buildings and the shape of future development would have to be addressed, planners say.

Nor must revitalization efforts necessarily revolve around retail stores, the city manager said. Other possibilities include development of housing and educational facilities, professional offices, or a cultural center, he said.

The 11 cities which have been assisted under the program since its inception in 1979 have collectively garnered $54 million in private investment for their downtown areas. Administered by the Kentucky Heritage Council, the program is thought by many to give a city an edge when it comes to attracting tourists and industry. A task force is helping to prepare Prestonsburg's bid to participate.

The marriage of Miss Donna Owens Clark and Mr. William Thomas Horn was solemnized August 8 at 2:30 p.m. at the Church of Trinity Pentecostal on Middle Creek.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Owens, of Prestonsburg, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nancy Horn, of West Prestonsburg.

Elizabethtown Plant To Employ Hundreds

A joint venture between Akebono Brake Industry Co., Ltd. and the Delco Moraine Division of General Motors to build a plant in Elizabethtown has been announced by Gov. Martha Layne Collins.

The new company, American Brake Industry Corp., will manufacture automobile brakes and brake components for a number of Japanese and American automakers. The plant that eventually will employ 400 people "is the result of true team effort," the governor said. "We have seen cooperation between two companies...between two countries... and between government and private industry."

Collins noted that years of effort went into arranging the joint venture including her visits with Akebono officials on each of her four trips to Japan.

But community assets—good schools, productive workers, cooperative leaders, and local pride—were the key to landing the new plant. "Make no mistake, you can take a great deal of the credit for today's announcement," Gov. Collins told the crowd at the announcement ceremony in Elizabethtown, July 21.

"I can promote the commonwealth... Commerce Secretary Knically and his staff can show any number of locations... but, in the final analysis, the sale is always made at the community level," she added.

The plant located on a 50-acre site in Elizabethtown's Hughes Center of Commerce represents an initial investment of $25 million, increasing to $100 million within a few years. Production is scheduled to begin in September, 1987, with about 100 employees.

Gov. Collins presented Yasuoda Nobumoto, chief executive officer of Akebono Brake and Robert Wight, general manager of the Delco Moraine Division of GM, with framed prints of the Bardstown mansion made famous by the song "My Old Kentucky Home."

Planning Body Seeks Better, Cheaper, Health-Care System

A blueprint for building a better, more accessible, more cost-effective health care system for Kentucky. That's the Kentucky state health plan, which is developed by the Department for Health Services' Division of Health Planning along with a citizens advisory council.

"The primary function of this division," said Director Greg Lawther, "is to develop the state health plan. Most everything else we do is in one way or another related to that job."

"The state health plan—developed with citizen input all along the way—provides a general guide and direction for Kentucky's health care system," he said. "It enumerates the state's health care problems and formulates goals and methods for solving those problems. It describes the state's health care system and provides certificate of need review criteria for determining if a health facility or service is needed in Kentucky."

The division staff is responsible for writing a preliminary state health plan, which numbers about 250 pages, with advice and review from the 25-member Statewide Health Coordinating Council, a citizens group.

The council has representatives from all sectors of the health care system—health professionals, administrators and consumers. It meets quarterly to develop and update the three-year plan, which ultimately must be signed by the governor.

"The development of the plan is an ongoing process," said Bob Nelson, a branch manager. "The council and the staff are always looking at the plan for updating and revising."

Much of the information on which the plan is based comes from another part of the division—the health information branch. This branch collects data from all licensed health facilities in the state. It analyzes the results and publishes a wide variety of health-related data, including hospital and long-term care facilities occupancy rates, physician and dentist distribution, and information about home health agencies, hospices, ambulance services and ambulatory surgery.

"While our reports are used extensively in writing the state health plan," said Charlie Kendell, branch manager, "we have many requests from the private sector for our information."

"Hospitals, long-term care facilities, and health consultants in Kentucky use our statistics in planning," he said. "Our reports are requested by health researchers and health planners both in Kentucky and in other states."

Another of the division's branches—the one most well known by the public—also collects and compiles statistics. It is the Vital Statistics branch, which is the repository for birth, death and marriage certificates. The office also keeps data on divorces and stillbirths.

The vital statistics office recently began an effort to help Kentucky State Police to locate missing Kentucky children. Birth certificates of missing children, as listed by the state police, are marked with a special code. If someone requests the birth certificate of one of these children, the state police will be notified.

A child needs a birth certificate to enroll in school, get a Social Security number, sign up for some ball teams or get a driver's license, according to Omar Greeman, branch manager.

"Since the person requesting the certificate must list his or her name and address, we hope that this system will help us to locate some missing children."

Firefighters Seek Volunteers To Help

You will not find any members of the Prestonsburg Fire Department sitting around the fire on cold mornings playing cards. What you will observe, should you drop in some time, are men out on calls, attending to the repair and maintenance of their equipment, handling dispatch duties and seeing to the care of Susie, the dalmatian who is the department's mascot.

While the rest of us may sometimes take them for granted, nobody needs to remind the fire crew of the costs their job exacts. Among firefighters, the rates for divorce, suicide and work-related fatalities are among the highest in the nation. Nor do they need any more reminders of the long hours, especially when they have just put in a 24-hour shift.

What they do need, these bold citizens who daily risk their lives for their neighbors' welfare, is help. Prestonsburg Fire Inspector Larry Adams reports that the department desperately needs additional volunteers to aid in staffing phones and general help in minor work around the building. Persons wishing to offer their time and energies can call 886-1010.

Haysi Reservoir Will Face Senate Obstacle

The Haysi Dam project is in danger of falling victim to the budget-cutting axe as the Senate prepares to trim the national deficit. This threat to the project comes despite the passage of a House version of the bill. A previous version had been passed as far back as 1983, but it required the state to put up matching funds.

The current Senate adaptation of the bill calls for a 35 percent cost-sharing on the part of the state. Janie Catron, a spokesperson in Sen. Mitch McConnell's eastern Kentucky field office, said, "The senator is well aware of the (flood control and funding) problem and is sympathetic with it." A vote in the project should come up before the full Senate no later than the end of September.

According to Congressman Chris Perkins, the only way the project could be completed is if full federal funding is available, since local funds are too scarce.

Perkins and F. Rick Boucher, congressman for Virginia's 9th District, had earmarked $500,000 for the project in each of the last two years and $1 million this year if the current congressional appropriations hold up. However, the Reagan administration is insistent that the cost-sharing clause—which would almost certainly doom the dam project—be included.

Dave Whalen, a spokesman for Cong. Perkins, said funding is not the only hurdle to be overcome in getting the project off the ground. It must also be approved by the Assistant Secretary for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, whose approval is by no means assured.

Whalen estimates the impoundment—intended for the Russell Fork of the Big Sandy Levisa Fork—would have reduced the high-water level by as much as two feet during the 1977 flood.

TAX REFORM (IT'S GETTING CLOSE)

It appears that we will finally have tax reform legislation. Here's a brief rundown of the major provisions of the bill as agreed to by the Senate-House Conference Committee:

- Two individual tax rates—15% and 28%. (Higher income taxpayers will actually have a top rate of 33% because the 15% rate and the personal exemption are phased out at higher income levels.)
- Personal exemption increased to $2,000, to be indexed for inflation after 1989 and to be phased out for incomes above $149,250 (joint).
- Standard deduction increased to $5,000 for joint filers; $4,400 for head of household, and $3,000 for singles.
- Mortgage interest deductions for principal and second residence remain deductible; investment interest deductible within limits.
- Charitable contributions deductible only if you itemize.
- Sales tax no longer deductible; state and local income and property taxes are.
- Capital gains to be taxed as ordinary income.
- IRA deductions limited to those not covered by company pension plans and not earning above certain levels.
- Medical expenses deductible only to the extent they exceed 7.5% of adjusted gross income.
- Working couples deduction eliminated.
- Income averaging eliminated.
- Tax shelter loss deductions limited. (A taxpayer could use these losses only to offset income from similar "passive" investments.)
- Three corporate tax rates—15%, 25%, and 34%.
- Investment tax credit repealed; depreciation deduction reduced.
- Business meals and entertainment expense only 80% deductible.

We'll be providing you with details and planning suggestions in coming articles.

Program Offered On What School Boards Do

A program about the role of school board members developed by the Kentucky School Boards Association (KSBA) will be presented throughout the state in September and October. With the theme, "Different People, Same Dream...Quality Education for All", this program is designed to inform the public, as well as those in education, about what school boards do and about the challenges and responsibilities of school board membership.

The Association hopes to reach a large portion of the state's population this fall through local presentations and publicity on the program. "By informing the public about school board membership, we hope that citizens can make more informed decisions when they go to the polls in November to elect school board members," said Mary Cohron, President of KSBA and a member of the Bowling Green Board of Education.

Quality schools are important to everyone in a community, not just students and their parents. Business professionals know the importance of having good schools in order to recruit capable employees, to have a pool of qualified applicants from among graduates of the community's schools and to attract more businesses to the community. Good schools and well-educated citizens contribute to the quality of life in a community.

Strong effective leadership is critical to the success of a community's public schools. It is the local school board which charts the course for the schools through long-range planning, setting goals and objectives, selecting administrators to direct the schools and establishing policies by which the school operates. It is the local school board which listens to the community and interprets their suggestions and concerns to the school system's staff. And it is the local school board which keeps the community informed about the needs of the school system.

In order to have quality education, a community must have well-qualified citizens serving on the local school board. Kentucky school law requires board members to be at least 24, citizens of the state for at least three years before election, registered voters in their district and high school graduates. Other important qualities for school board members are: good decision-making skills, being able to judge people, organizational and planning abilities and being able to work as a team. School board members do not have authority as individuals but can act only as a board.

The program on "Quality Education for All" will be available to local community and civic groups as well as to educational organizations across Kentucky in an effort to reach as many citizens as possible. For more information about the program or to schedule it in your community, contact the Kentucky School Boards Association 1-800-372-2962.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Haley Webb extend their appreciation to all those friends, neighbors and loved ones who helped comfort them during their time of sorrow. Thanks to all who sent food and flowers, prayers or spoke words of comfort. A special thanks to the Regular Baptist ministers and members, Preacher Huff, for his comforting words and to the Hall Funeral Home for their kind and efficient service.

THE FAMILY 11.

Gravely-Ill Choose Home Over Hospital

If there is anything she could do for the people who helped care for her dying mother, Nadine Johnson would do it. As it is, she can only thank them with a feeling too strong to be easily put in words.

For Sister Margaret Jacobs—coordinator of patient care for Hospice of Big Sandy, an organization that provides care and counseling for dying patients and their families—the gratitude of people like Mrs. Johnson is more than enough to convince her of the need in this area for her agency's services.

Whether it will finally be enough to see a Hospice chapter take root here—as it has in Lexington, Ashland, and Hazard—remains to be seen.

An agency that has for three years eked out an existence on voluntary contributions and last winter received a life-saving grant from the Christian Appalachian Project, Hospice of Big Sandy is likely to remain in precarious circumstances at least until it becomes eligible for Medicare reimbursement, said Chris Conley, its executive director.

The government already recognizes the spectrum of Hospice services as

More and more dying Kentuckians are spending their final days at home, attended by family and hospice workers, instead of in hospitals or nursing homes.

—1985 U. of L. Study

eligible in principle for coverage under federal insurance programs. The fact that Hospice of Big Sandy has yet to be approved for Medicare payments stems partly from organizers' early hopes that the agency could survive without billing for its services, and increasingly from what Mrs. Conley calls "a lot of red tape."

But all that is of secondary importance to Sister Margaret. A Catholic nun with a bachelor's degree in nursing, she was working in the intensive care unit of a Cincinnati hospital when she accepted her present position, a year ago, with Hospice of Big Sandy.

The contrast could hardly have been greater.

In the hospital, "too often we wound up taking care of machines instead of people," she said, "or taking care of non-viable bodies."

In a cottage up left Beaver, on the other hand—or in the Green Acres apartment where she helped take care of Herma Mize, Nadine Johnson's mother, from February through August—the machines are left behind.

Here the focus is on people. People dying, typically of cancer. People who—increasingly, according to Hospice workers—are choosing to die in the familiar surroundings of home and family rather than in the starch-and-chrome world of the modern hospital.

That claim is supported by study done last year by the University of Louisville's Urban Studies Center and the Kent School for Social Work, which found that nearly twice as many Kentuckians opted for hospice care last year than three years earlier.

In the past year, 33 patients and their families have used Hospice of Big Sandy services, which run the gamut from doing shopping errands to lending an ear to the patient who wants to talk about his dying. Health workers, pastors, social workers, family members, and lay volunteers make up the teams assigned to each patient. And, as long as the funds can be found to support the paid staff needed to coordinate the effort, Hospice officials here are confident their growing "word of mouth" reputation will keep attracting both patients and volunteer helpers.

As Sister Margaret sees it, the trend toward dying at home parallels the trend toward home births and stems from the same philosophy. "It is natural to be born at home; it is natural to die there," she said.

That is something of which many have lost sight, she believes, largely because of the triumphs of high-tech medicine. With "miracles" of modern science a commonplace, health professionals have become dependent on a

"The things the medical profession normally tries to prevent can be beneficial to the dying person. We end up lessening our patients' ability to enjoy the time left to them."

—Sister Margaret Jacobs, RN

panoply of devices—respirators, suction pumps, intravenous tubes, catheters and monitors—to ward off death, she said.

"Death is not acceptable to the health profession," she said. "Death is the enemy. We're trained to fight it off, to avoid it at any cost."

The cost of a few extra days or weeks is likely to be indignity, unnecessary pain, and dehumanization, she said. "The things the medical profession normally tries to prevent can be beneficial to the dying person. We end up lessening our patients' ability to enjoy the time left to them."

It comes down to how you look at death.

"Our job is to help people do the things they want to do and be as comfortable as they can until life ends in the normal course of things," Sister Margaret said. "Death is the normal course of things. Life is terminal."

Cooperating with the "natural process of dying," she said, means allowing the body to "turn off systems one at a time."

For example, where hospital medicine reflexively acts to ward off dehydration in a patient, dehydration is "not a bad thing for a dying person," Sr. Margaret said. A decrease in body fluids makes it less likely that the patient will need a bladder catheter or a nasal tube, and it decreases the level of pain, she said.

What do dying patients want, when they have a choice? They want to be home, Sr. Margaret believes, where sounds and sights and smells are familiar, where family and pets can come and go, where they can take a walk in the garden, enjoy the sunshine, go to church, sit on the porch, have someone to talk to.

And they want to be free of pain.

On that point, it is not the aggressiveness of hospital medicine but its conservatism that results in unnecessary suffering, say Hospice workers, who appear more liberal than their hospital colleagues in the use of painkilling drugs like Dilaudid and morphine. That, according to Sr. Margaret, is because hospitals are more geared to

ATTEND MARTIN HOMECOMING

Mrs. Marie Salisbury had members of her family as her houseguests during the Labor Day weekend. Mrs. Salisbury and the following family members attended the Homecoming activities at Martin High School: Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Hardwick, of Parma, Michigan; Mr. and Mrs. Terry Salisbury and daughter Shawn, of Jackson, Michigan; Mrs. Melvin K. Stewart, David Salisbury, and Phillip Salisbury, all of Catlettsburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Tim Salisbury, of Printer. Joining them for this event were Mrs. Ethel Cross, of Prestonsburg, and Mrs. Astor Meade, of Paintsville. Mrs. Salisbury's husband, the late James Salisbury, who served as principal of Martin High School for several years, was honored during the program, and a plaque in his honor was presented to her.

Miss Burke, Mr. Garner Wed

The marriage of Miss Jennifer Kay Burke to Mr. Jerry Lee Garner was solemnized August 2 at 6:30 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church, here, by Dr. Quentin Scholtz.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Burke, of Prestonsburg. Mr. Garner is the son of Mrs. Rebecca Farmer and Kenneth L. Garner, of Owensboro, Kentucky.

The bride wore a gown designed by Phyllis Bianchi of The House of Bianchi. It was made of ivory satin and alencon lace. The bodice of pearls and iridescence had a sabrina neckline centered by a cameo effect of lace and long full sleeves with clusters of pearls which ended in a point at the wrist. The waistline, accented with satin shirring, flowed into a satin skirt with chapel train edged in alencon lace.

The maid of honor was Miss Tia Music, of Prestonsburg, and bridesmaids were Miss Deneen Gilliam, of Flatwoods, Ky., Miss Caroline George, of Lebanon, Ky., Miss Jodi Farmer, of Owensboro, Ky., Miss Kimberly Garner, of Owensboro, Ky., Miss April Adams, of Prestonsburg, Ky., and Mrs. Lisa Meade, of Prestonsburg, Ky.

Best man was Mr. Darren Korn, of Paoli, Ind., and groomsmen were Mr. Frank Mingione, of Madison, Ind., Mr. James Patton, of Campbellsville, Ky., Mr. Jack Wells, of Prestonsburg, Ky., Mr. Phillip Payne, of Louisville, Ky., Mr. Michael Engleman, of Louisville, Ky. and Mr. Jeffery Merritt, of Owensboro, Ky.

Flower girl was Miss Melissa Erin Howell, cousin of the bride, and Miss Laura Spurlock, of Lexington, presided at the guest register.

Pre-nuptial music was provided by Dan and Tina Delafield, with piano accompaniment by David Banner Leslie, III, and soloist, Randall Wells, accompanied by Mrs. Chalmer Frazier, organist.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Holiday Inn, here. The bride, a graduate of Prestonsburg High School and Centre College, where she was a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority, is now attending the University of Louisville School of Law.

The groom, a graduate of Apollo High School, Owensboro, and Hanover College, Hanover, Ind., where he was a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity, is also attending the University of Louisville School of Law.

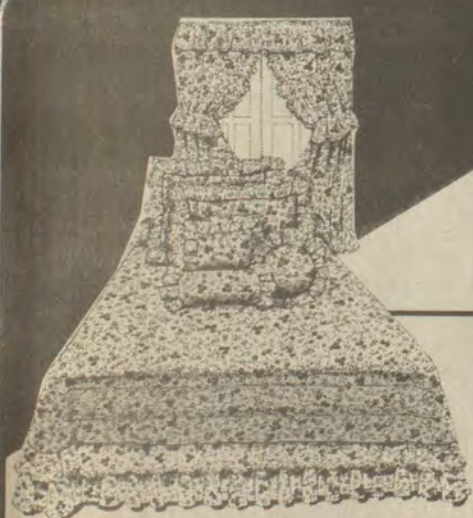

After a wedding trip to the Florida Keys, the couple is now residing in Louisville.

Bobcats Rally But Fall Short To Paintsville

They met last March to determine this region's representative in the state basketball tournament and two months later they clashed once again in the regional baseball tournament with the winner again advancing on to state competition.

Their fans are all too familiar with each other. Although names change as does the sport but the same icy stares, intimidating tactics, and emotional challenges remain to make the Betsy Layne-Paintsville athletic rivalry one of the most exciting and interesting of any in eastern Kentucky.

With all of these factors added up there could be no better way to start this high school sports year off than a Bobcat-Tiger gridiron confrontation and these two teams proved it Friday night.

Paintsville came into Mile High Field as UPI's number one single A team but many football people had been whispering the thoughts of an upset because Betsy Layne was a much improved unit from a year ago.

The upset whispers were quickly silenced however, as Paintsville scored three touchdowns in five first half possessions of their way to taking a 21-0 halftime lead.

The Tigers, after Jarred Gray intercepted an underthrown Bud Newsome pass, set up offensive shop on their own 30. Nine running plays later Gray completed the drive with a seven yard scoring run only 5:15 into the contest.

While Paintsville moved up and down the field behind hard running from Gray and timely tosses by quarterback Todd Burchell the Betsy Layne offense spluttered.

The Betsy Layne attack could manage only one yard through the air in the first half while the Bobcats found the going almost as tough as on the ground.

Paintsville padded their lead in the second quarter when Walter Brugh's club mounted a scoring drive which covered 75 yards in only seven plays. The Tigers were aided by two Todd Burchell completions, covering a total of 44 yards.

Burchell's arm once again came in handy for Paintsville when the senior quarterback hit Todd Sticklin in the back of the end zone for the Tiger's final score of the half. The touchdown, which came with 29 seconds left in the half, proved to be Paintsville's final score of the game but unfortunately for Bobcat fans, proved to be the game winner.

Betsy Layne knew they were armed with an explosive array of offensive weapons but failed to find the missing artillery in the first half. However, somewhere in that Bobcat locker room quarterback Bud Newsome located the problem and brought it back to the field for second half action.

Newsome, after throwing only one completed pass in seven attempts, loosened the left arm up, filling the air with footballs while racking up a total of 110 passing yards in the second half.

While the offense was righting itself Bobcat defenders suddenly got stingy, completely shutting down Paintsville's efforts to move the ball.

Betsy Layne's defense came up with their first turnover of the game when Newsome returned the interception favor by picking off an errant Burchell pass on the Paintsville 36 yard line.

Supported by a Tiger defensive holding call Betsy Layne proceeded down field toward their first score which came with 6:01 remaining. Halfback Todd Sturgill, who scored both Bobcat touchdowns while rushing for a team high 39 yards on eight carries, carried the pigskin to paydirt from one yard away.

Turnovers once again played a major role in Betsy Layne's success. On their second play after receiving the kickoff Paintsville's Gray fumbled an option pitch from Burchell which was quickly smothered on the Tigers' 38 by John Bush.

Six plays later Newsome connected with Sturgill who followed solid blocking into the end zone from 15 yards out to put Betsy Layne back into the contest.

Trailing 21-14 the Bobcat defense forced Paintsville to punt from their own 44

but with the unpredictable bounce of a football Betsy Layne was forced to take over deep in their own territory.

However, Newsome directed his offense across enemy lines with completions to wingback John Bush and end Matt Conn but with seven seconds remaining Newsome hit Dale Spurlock with a swing pass but Spurlock was rapidly brought down as the final seconds ticked off the clock.

Although Paintsville came out on the winning end of a 21-14 score the Tigers were dealt all and quite possibly more than they had bargained for. They came into Bobcat country as number one but Betsy Layne proved they can play with the best this state has to offer in single A.

Coach Jack Hall said he was pleased with his Bobcats' second half performance but according to the veteran coach his youthful squad didn't receive the breaks they needed in the first half to defeat a strong Tiger team.

"I said last week that we would need a lot of breaks if we were to win tonight and we just didn't get them early," the coach said.

Betsy Layne will continue their efforts toward a first ever winning season this Friday when they travel to Virgie for a scheduled 8:00 contest with the Eagles. While the Bobcats try to accomplish their goal of a winning season they will hope for some help from either Wheelwright or Pikeville in never dying hopes of a sub-district title.

Rebels Upended In First Varsity Contest

In their first varsity football game the Allen Central Rebels displayed exactly what they are, a first year football team. However, the Rebels took Virgie to the limit before falling to the Eagles 18-12.

After coming back twice to tie the contest Allen Central surrendered a Virgie touchdown mid-way through the fourth quarter which eventually proved to be the game winner for the home standing Eagles.

Even though Donnie Daniels' club came up short in this season's opener the first year coach was pleased with his team's efforts.

"We made a couple of first year mistakes that we probably wouldn't make in two or three years and we had some key breaks go against us at crucial times," Daniels said.

"We moved the ball almost at will against their defense but we made some big mistakes and anytime you make mistakes a team like Virgie or any team will sooner or later capitalize on them," Daniels added.

The Rebel offense compiled a total of 250 yards on 49 plays, led by Greg Ison's 110 yards rushing while Steve Hughes added 61 yards on 12 carries.

Ison, after Virgie took a 6-0 first quarter lead, brought his Rebels back when the senior running back carried the pigskin to paydirt from two yards away.

The Eagles, however, regained the lead with under one minute remaining in the half on a fourth down and six sweep which ended up in the end zone.

Starting the second half Allen Central mounted an 87 yard scoring drive which ate up almost 10 minutes of the third quarter clock. Quarterback Darrin Conn completed the drive with a sneak which once again brought the Rebels even.

After Conn's touchdown plunge the Rebels failed to find the end zone again but were close once only to see a questionable call nullify a first down and goal opportunity from the three yard line.

Allen Central, after driving the ball from their own 48 to the Virgie eight, was flagged for an improper use of equipment call.

On a second and three play from the eight yard line the Rebels picked up what appeared to be a first down on the three but the officials ruled quarterback Darrin Conn failed to insert his mouth piece which pushed Allen Central back.

Later in the contest the official was shown the mouth piece, a strapless piece which would be hard to detect through the face mask and from a distance. According to Daniels the official replied, "I didn't think you had it in."

Conn, with or without a mouth piece, completed five passes in 10 attempts for 41 yards while scoring the rushing touchdown.

It was on the ground, however, where Allen Central found their offensive success. Led by Ison's 110 yards, the Rebels expressed a control type attack, aided by Jeff Hughes 16 yards and Robbie Click's 14.

On the other side of the ball Coach Daniels said he was proud of the defensive performances turned in by Boo Barnett, Anthony Rederick, and Tim Bailey. The first year coach was eager to point out that this talented trio led a strong Allen Central defensive effort.

Coach Daniels will take his team's talents to Knott County Thursday for a Ginger Bread Bowl encounter with triple A Knott County Central.

"They are probably one of the better teams we have on our schedule," Daniels said. "They like to run the option and have a higher run-pass ratio than most high school teams do."

"Our kids know now that they can go out and play with anybody and have an opportunity to win," Daniels concluded.

The Allen Central, Knott Central contest will begin at 7:30 in Knott County.

Local Softball Team Earns Big Honors

Good things keep on coming for Sting, a local softball team based in Prestonsburg and a member of the Prestonsburg-Archer Park Softball League.

The local squad recently finished second in the National-Regional softball tournament held August 16 and 17 in Knoxville, Tennessee.

Sting, after losing to Jim's Boys in the tournament, remained alive by returning the favor to the same Louisville team 10-9 but the next contest proved to be the final one as Jim's Boys defeated Sting by the same score to spoil their championship title.

In order to participate in such a tournament a team must first qualify, something Sting accomplished in Virginia.

The local team finished the national-regional tournament with a record of 5-2.

All of these victories came in the heels of Sting took top honors in the Prestonsburg-Archer Park Softball League with a 16-1 record.

THE SPORTING TIMES

By Alton Huff

The college football season kicked off last Wednesday in the appropriately named Kickoff Classic where Alabama defeated Ohio State. The contest matched two of the nation's top quarterbacks and Heisman Trophy candidates, Jim Karsatos of Ohio State and Mike Shula of Alabama.

These two players are projected to be among the top passers because of past performances and their obvious abilities but they are Heisman candidates because of the position played, an offensive back.

The Heisman is given away every year by the New York Downtown Athletic Club, supposedly to college football's best football player but the club should change their termination from best player to the best offensive back.

Through the years the Heisman Trophy has repeatedly been given to the offensive player who either rushes or passes for the most yardage and more times than not to the leading senior offensive player.

Maybe a defensive player has received this prestigious award but this football fan can't remember when. In fact, I don't know when a defensive player has ever been given serious consideration for the Heisman.

In this sport it is easy to forget the men in the trenches who open holes for the flashy running back or protect the more popular quarterback. Football people also tend to pass up great linebackers and defensive linemen when voting time rolls around.

Archie Griffin, while at Ohio State, became the only player to ever win two Heisman Trophies and it appears the Downtown Club doesn't want the feat to be re-accomplished.

Last year the trophy was given to Auburn's Bo Jackson who ran for 1,786 yards and 17 touchdowns. Incredible numbers you say? Well, maybe so but not as incredible as Michigan State tailback Lorenzo White accounted for, 1,908 yards rushing, but White was a sophomore while Jackson was a senior.

True, Jackson did miss two games and people with a Heisman vote could have thought Jackson's output would have surpassed White's if the Auburn running star hadn't missed those two games but one could also speculate on what White would have accomplished with a better line and team at Auburn.

For his efforts White finished fourth in the Heisman balloting and with another year of experience under his belt, with Jackson and Chuck Long gone on to professional sports, the small Spartan tailback is a leading pre-season choice to capture the coveted college award.

White heads a long, talented list of possible Heisman winners which includes several quarterbacks and maybe a couple of super linebackers.

Along with Shula and Karsatos the list of passing names produces last year's top NCAA passer Jim Harbaugh of Michigan but most people seem to think Miami's Vinny Testaverde will follow in the foot steps of his Hurricane passing predecessors Jim Kelly and Bernie Kosar while attracting many Heisman Trophy votes.

Testaverde passed for over 3,000 yards and 200 touchdowns last season while finishing fifth in the Heisman balloting and in the Miami passing personality the senior quarterback should roll up some impressive numbers, something vote holders hold highly when it comes to college football's highest honor.

Another quarterback who figures to draw some votes is Florida's Kerwin Bell. Bell has a leg up on his colleagues after counting for four Gator touchdowns Saturday. The junior signal caller threw for three touchdowns and ran for another in his team's victory but Florida football has drawn some criticism lately and Bell is only a junior.

Heisman quality running backs, other than White, are UCIA's Gaston Green, Thurman Thomas of Oklahoma, State and DJ Dozier from Penn State. Although these players are talented, their biggest asset is the schools in which they perform for.

The major media market players always get more consideration than does a player of equal talent but of a lesser program. For this reason athletes from bigger named schools will have a much better chance to win a Heisman Trophy than will a George Swann of Miami of Ohio or Colorado State's Steve Bartalo. Bartalo and Swann rank one and two in active college rushers but have and will receive little recognition with the New York Down Town Club.

White appears to be the leading pre-season Heisman candidate but don't forget Testaverde and his abilities. With a name like Vinny Testaverde you have to be destined for greatness and this quarterback has proven his ability and he is a senior.

Other names thrown around as possibly being named college football's best player is Oklahoma linebacker Brian Bosworth and Ohio State linebacker Chris Spielman. Bosworth is the only 1985 consensus all-American choice previously mentioned, with the exception of Lorenzo White. Spielman is a junior this season and recorded close to 20 tackles in the Kickoff Classic.

For a defensive player winning the most important college football award is all but impossible but one of these two people could maybe attract enough attention to grab some votes.

However, injuries play a key role on individual performances as well as team play but if the little tailback from Michigan State stays healthy along with his offensive supporters, White probably won't be denied the trophy all college players will be running, throwing, catching, blocking, and tackling for.

SHORT SPORTS

The Cincinnati Bengals, after breaking off negotiations with Joe Kelly last week, signed the talented linebacker Friday.

The Bengals reportedly will pay Kelly 1.5 million dollars over the next four seasons, the same deal Kelly refused earlier.

Cincinnati made the former Washington linebacker their first round choice this year and the 11th player chosen over all. Kelly was the top rated linebacker in the draft, according to many scouting reports and was the second player of his position taken.

Michigan State product Anthony Bell was the first linebacker taken, the St. Louis Cardinals made Bell the fifth player chosen.

Little, Defense Powers Wheelwright To Victory

Regardless of the sport defense is the key to any team's success but the Wheelwright Trojans brought new meaning to the word defense in their Friday night victory over Fleming Neon.

Possessing an experienced and tough defensive squad, Trojan defenders arrived in full force, holding Fleming Neon to a total of negative ten yards running and passing the football while turning back the Letcher County school 12-7.

"The defense played tremendously," Coach Roger Johnson praised. "It wasn't just three or four guys either, it was a total team effort defensively."

As important as a team's defense is their offense no one can't win if they don't score, but on this particular night the Wheelwright defense was good enough to score a touchdown itself.

The Trojans scored one of their two touchdowns with the support of a blocked punt when Johnny Isaac scooped up the deflected football and galloped into the end zone.

Wheelwright's offense also showed up ready to perform, especially their running game. Doug Little and Tony Hutton led a strong ground attack which accounted for the majority of the Trojans' offense.

Little ran for 134 yards, eight of those for a Wheelwright touchdown, and Hutton added 76 yards to give the Trojans a balanced one-two running punch.

"Our game is going to be on the ground," Coach Johnson said. "But a back can't run without someone opening holes for them."

Not only did Friday night produce the Trojans' first victory in their first game, it also produced a quarterbacking change that played Sophomore Shawn McKenzie in the signal calling position and Johnny Isaac on the offensive line.

The change brought about immediate improvements in the Trojan attack. Not exactly from McKenzie's ability to throw the football, the sophomore spent most of his time handing off to Little and Hutton while throwing two completions in five attempts, but Isaac's work on the offensive line did wonders for an explosive running game.

"It was a big improvement for us," Coach Johnson said. "Johnny was in there opening holes for us all night."

McKenzie isn't expected to throw much this season but Wheelwright people feel the sophomore quarterback can put it up effectively when the need arises.

The Trojans will need just about everything they have this Friday night, namely another tough defensive effort and zero turnovers. Fleming Neon scored their only touchdown on an interception and return for score, something which could devastate Wheelwright's hopes of a victory over Pikeville and a district championship.

Coach Johnson and the Wheelwright staff are all too familiar with the Panther program which is one of the most successful of any single A school in this area.

Pikeville and Wheelwright will hook up this Friday and the Trojans will have the home field advantage but Coach Johnson knows what his team is up against.

"They're awesome," Coach Johnson said of his Friday competition. "If we beat them it will be the biggest victory in Wheelwright's history."

Although Roger Johnson has respect for the Pikeville Panthers he will also try to earn some respect for his Trojan program.

"If we can stop their passing game then we might have a shot at them," Johnson said. "Our strength is up the middle on defense and if we keep them from throwing the ball then I think we can stop the run."

Kickoff is set at 8:00 at Wheelwright.

BIG RUN: Freshman Aaron Flannery breaks loose during Prestonsburg's Thursday battle with the newly formed Magoffin County Football League Hawks. Prestonsburg spoiled the first ever organized football game in Magoffin County by downing the Hawks.

Chicago Bears' defensive lineman William "The Refrigerator" Perry has been fined 2,000 dollars for his aggressive actions during a recent pre-season game.

The NFL levied the fine toward Perry after the 308 pound lineman slammed quarterback Neil Lomax to the ground during the Bears' third pre-season contest against St. Louis.

Rich Gossage won't be of much help to the San Diego Padres for the remainder of this 1986 baseball season.

The Goose has been suspended until 1987 without pay due to remarks made about Padre front office personnel and the way they were running the National League team.

Gossage reportedly told a newspaper reporter that San Diego didn't want baseball players, they wanted choir boys.

The Padres' management has come under fire this season from their own players for removing beer from the locker room and many other unpopular moves.

Roger Clemmons, Boston Red Sox right handed starting pitcher, became the first pitcher to win 20 games this season.

Clemmons collected his 20th victory Saturday afternoon when his Red Sox defeated the Cleveland Indians 7-2.

The 6-4 215 pound Clemmons has greatly surpassed his 1985 win total, a season when the young right hander managed only a 7-5 won loss record.

The Boston ace has probably seven more starts in the regular season and Boston will need every win they can get from him because the Toronto Blue Jays have decided to make things interesting in the AL East.

The New York Mets won't suffer from legal action this season because the trial of second baseman Tim Teufel and pitcher Ron Darling isn't going to take place until November.

The trial was reportedly to be held last Friday but will not actually take place until all baseball action concludes.

Teufel and Darling face assault charges stemming from a brawl which took place in a Houston night club.

These two, along with the entire Met team, will probably have a scheduled date to appear in Houston in October. New York leads the NL East by a lofty margin while the Astros holds a comfortable lead in the West.

After less than one season in professional baseball Bo Jackson will be making his appearance in the Major Leagues.

Jackson, property of the Kansas City Royals, was called up to the big leagues Monday and was expected to report to the parent club yesterday.

The former Heisman Trophy winner hit seven homeruns in 53 games while maintaining a .277 average for the double A Memphis squad.

Jackson turned down a major contract with the football Tampa Bay Buccaneers to take on a baseball career. The power hitting outfield prospect thrilled Kansas City people when the rookie slammed a batting practice homerun off the score board. Many onlookers said the shot was the longest homerun ever hit in Royals Stadium.

The Cincinnati Reds will receive much needed help when three of their players return from the ranks of the injured.

Outfielder Tracy Jones, shortstop Dave Concepcion, and left handed pitcher Joe Price were re-activated from the injured list Tuesday.

The Reds are currently seven games behind west leading Houston with only 30 games remaining in the season. Of those 30 games, five are with the Astros.

In anticipation of this Sunday's season opener, NFL teams have been busy trimming their rosters to the limited 45 players.

The Cincinnati Bengals announced the cutting of three top performers in tight end ML Harris, and defensive backs James Griffin and Jimmy Turner.

Harris, a one time starter, shared the TE duties last season with Rodney Holman while Griffin picked off seven passes last year. Turner served mostly as a reserve and special teams player.

New Bass Regulations At Dewey, Grayson Lakes

Dewey and Grayson lakes in Eastern Kentucky will join Cave Run Lake in having special size limits for bass fishing, according to regulations approved by the Fish and Wildlife Resources Commission at its quarterly meeting in Frankfort Aug. 25.

Under the new rules, which will take effect Jan. 1, 1987, the size limit for largemouth and smallmouth bass will be increased from 12 to 15 inches. The size limit for Kentucky (or spotted) bass will be removed completely.

Cave Run Lake has had a similar regulation for the last two years, and Grayson Lake has had a 15-inch size limit on all bass for several years.

This size limit is designed to provide a higher quality bass fishery and at the same time allow the harvest of Kentucky bass, which seldom grow to over 15 inches in length, according to fisheries biologists with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

Kentucky bass are easily distinguished from either largemouth or smallmouth bass by the presence of a rough patch of "teeth" on their tongue.

Holiday Inn...

Mac Three Miler Set For Sept. 20

More than 150 runners from all parts of the Eastern Kentucky region are expected to participate in the Holiday Inn/MAC Three Miler Saturday, Sept. 20, at Morehead.

Held in conjunction with the Kentucky Harvest and Hardwood Festival and the Kentucky Logging Show, the Morehead Athletic Club and Holiday Inn are sponsoring this popular race for the second year.

The first male and female finisher will receive a $50 cash prize. Prizes will be awarded in 11 age groups, two weight groups, and four team championships.

Age groups are 11 and under, 12-14, 15-18, 19-24, 25-29, 30-34, 35-39, 40-44, 45-49, 50-59, and 60 and over. Weight groups will be 180-200 pounds and 200 and over pounds. Team championships will be for Men's Team, Women's Team, Morehead Team, Morehead Campus Organization Team. Local competitions and teams are encouraged and a number of prizes will be awarded. Teams may have five members with the first three scoring cross country style.

The first 250 pre-registrants will receive a shirt on race day and also a limited edition print by Morehead Artist Robert Franzini. All other awards will be hand made pottery by Adrian Swain, Morehead potter, courtesy of the Morehead Holiday Inn.

Registration for the event will be at 8 a.m., and Race Time is 9 a.m. The race will be followed by a parade and the Awards Ceremony which begins at 11 a.m. at the Laughlin Health Building on the campus of Morehead State University.

An entry fee will be charged. All teams must pre-register. Pre-registrations should be postmarked no later than Sept. 15.

Further information and entry blanks may be obtained from Race Director Herb Hedgecock, UPO 835, Morehead State University, Morehead, Ky. 40351, or by calling Race Administrators Dave Rudy, 606-783-2243, or Tom Carew, 606-784-8011.

NO SMILES HERE: Members of the Prestonsburg football squad pose with their award presented to them after falling short to Woodford County in Saturday's Governor's Bowl.

Blackcats Suffer Sudden Death

Prestonsburg Blackcat head football coach Chuke Williams wanted desperately for something good to happen early in Prestonsburg's Governor's Bowl appearance.

The coach said an early turnover or quick score would give his young Blackcats the confidence to contend with their Woodford County competition.

Sadly enough for Coach Williams and company the big breaks didn't come as hoped for and the Prestonsburg Blackcats returned home on the short end of a 13-7 score.

The Blackcats didn't score early. In fact, they were forced to come from behind to tie the score, bringing about the extra action.

After Woodford County scored on a 54 yard touchdown run, the Blackcats fought back in the fourth quarter, taking advantage of a fumble recovery to score their only points of the contest.

With just under 10:00 remaining in the game Prestonsburg recovered a Woodford County fumble deep in opposing territory.

Eight plays later quarterback Cliff Miller sneaked in from one yard out with what proved to be Prestonsburg's first and last touchdown.

The drive, which covered 20 yards, ate up 3:36 on the clock and after Brent Hackworth's kick sailed through the goal posts, also tied the score.

Prestonsburg received a golden opportunity to take the lead before the end of regulation play when the Blackcats recovered yet another Woodford County fumble.

On their initial play from scrimmage Woodford County lost the pigskin and Prestonsburg was in business on the enemy 26 yard line with 4:56 remaining.

However, three plays and eight yards later the Blackcats were faced with a fourth down and two situation.

After a Chuke Williams time out the Blackcats went for a first down but running back Doug Holbrook was stopped short of the 16 yard line and the first down marker.

Prestonsburg had one more opportunity before overtime but failed to cross the goal line and the rest is history.

Coach Williams and staff returns to the playing field this Friday when the Blackcats welcome in the Whitesburg Yellow Jackets.

Prestonsburg will be looking for their first victory of the season Friday but will have to contend with a strong quarterback receiving Whitesburg tandem.

Dewey Safety Record Improving

It's always good news when a season at Jenny Wiley State Park passes during which no water-related fatalities occur. Such has been the case thus far for the summer of 1986. Indeed, there have not even been any minor boating accidents reported for this season at the lake.

These statistics are much better than those compiled in 1985, when five drownings took place at Dewey. Dewey Lake Resource Manager Dean Murray attributes much of the improved safety record to a public awareness program he and his officers have carried on this year.

Murray and officers John McGinn, Jack Nichol and Marlene Moore have been putting on demonstrations about water safety for schools and civic groups all year long. Additionally, the officers in the Army Corps of Engineers' Rangers number three this year, as opposed to only two last season. With officers spending anywhere from eight to 10 hours per week on the water, the added man-power has meant a great deal, says Murray. Three officers is none too many when dealing with large crowds on weekends. They "only" had to deal with 26,698 park visitors this past Labor Day weekend, as opposed to 35,840 last year with just a two-person staff.

Should your local school, sportsman's club, civic group or other organization of which you are a member wish to hold a demonstration on water safety, you may contact Murray or one of the Rangers at 886-6709.

At one time in Scotland fishermen would help ensure a catch by throwing one of their number from the boat and then hauling him out of the water as if he were a fish.

SCHEDULE WEEK ONE

LOS ANGELES RAIDERS AT DENVER; CINCINNATI AT KANSAS CITY; CLEVELAND AT CHICAGO; DETROIT AT MINNESOTA; SAN FRANCISCO AT TAMPA BAY; PITTSBURGH AT SEATTLE; PHILADELPHIA AT WASHINGTON; ATLANTA AT NEW ORLEANS; INDIANAPOLIS AT NEW ENGLAND; HOUSTON AT GREEN BAY; LOS ANGELES RAMS AT ST. LOUIS; MIAMI AT SAN DIEGO; NEW YORK JETS AT BUFFALO; NEW YORK GIANTS AT DALLAS (MONDAY).

Denver game. These two teams are expected to battle for an AFC western division title and the schedule makers have blessed us by matching them up early. Now, hopefully NBC will be nice and air it.

Another interesting matchup could be Cleveland and Chicago. This might be a preview to the Super Bowl but we doubt it, don't we? The contest will be hard fought and that is what football fans love.

Sunday will be interested but this week's best game may be held Monday night. The Giants will visit Dallas and it won't be a social call because much is on the line in this game. Oh, no it isn't. These two teams will probably finish one and two in their division but Monday more than likely won't decide it. However, it should be one of the best games of this week and this writer wants to watch it. Aw honey, please let me. Newhart is a re-run.

This professional football season will, like all those before it, be exciting. You can't watch every game but you can keep up with the results in the Floyd County Sports Section. That is, of course, if the good Lord is willing and I get TV rights on Sunday and Monday and an occasional Thursday and Saturday.

Throw away that old recliner and buy another one because we have to be comfortable during football season. You know the NFL season begins this Sunday, don't you? Well, you can't call the plays if the atmosphere isn't just right.

For all of you neglected wives, we suggest either to get interested in football or buy a large amount of yarn or some good reading material because you probably won't hear from your husband on Sunday and Monday night for at least 16 weeks. What was that? Oh, you're tired of his Sunday complaining any way. Super! Now everyone is satisfied.

Ok football fans, above is a schedule of this week's games and you might want to pay special attention to the LA-

Free Hunter Education Course Offered Sept. 2-4

A free hunter education course will be held September 2, 3, and 4 at the Johnson County High School, on Highway 23 at Paintsville. The program will last from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m., September 2 and 3, and from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. on September 4. The course, sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources...

Swing weight measures a golf club's balance. It tells how much of a club's weight lies on either side of a fixed point on the shaft a specific distance from the grip end of a golf club. It's determined by using a specially designed scale. Almost every component of a golf club affects swing weight. One of the most important items in selecting your correct swing weight is shaft flex.

STEEL SHOT PRESENTS NEW CHALLENGE

By A.G. SPENCER Kentucky hunters had better practice at the trap and skeet ranges this year, because steel shot is now a fact of life. Steel shot is required for all waterfowl hunting in the Western Waterfowl Zone as of last Monday.

So how does this affect local hunters? An ever increasing number of area gunners are traveling to the western part of the state to try their hand at waterfowl hunting. What most of these folks don't realize, though, is that steel shot requires a different style of shooting to be effective.

Another point to consider about steel shot is that it has a much shorter shot string than that produced from shot shells containing lead pellets. If you could slow down the flight of the shot from your scattergun's muzzle, you would find that it strings out to a length of about 12 to 15 feet at 40 or so yards.

Duck Season Opens Nov. 27

Kentucky's 1986-87 duck season will open Nov. 27, with hunters once again using the point system to determine daily bag and possession limits, according to regulations approved by the Fish and Wildlife Resources Commission at its quarterly meeting in Frankfort Aug. 25.

The first phase of the split duck season will run through Nov. 30, with the second segment scheduled for Dec. 14-Jan. 18. After one year under a conventional limit, the commission voted to return to the point system, which had been used in Kentucky since 1974.

than it takes longer for your pellets to reach, say, 50 yards than it does for them to reach 35 yards. Now bear in mind that most hunters have enough difficulty estimating ranges over ground, let alone in against the sky where there is nothing near your target to give you an idea of how far away it is.

ly in two days of hunting. This year's point values are: 100 points—mallard hen and black duck. 70 points—wood duck, redhead and hooded merganser. 35 points—mallard drake, pintail and all ducks not listed in other categories. 20 points—all teal species, gadwall, widgeon, shoveler, scaup and all other mergansers.

flying toward you, let them keep coming. After all, they are simply moving closer to the muzzle of your shotgun. Secondly, always swing through your target smoothly, as if your gun's muzzle were a paint brush. When the barrel moves past the target the desired distance, squeeze the shot off as you continue to swing the shotgun.

ARMED AND DANGEROUS (PG-13-Columbia) Starring John Candy, Eugene Levy, Robert Loggia. ★★

By J.T. YURKO

It's good to see that "Second City" veterans are working. "SCTV," as the group's television series was known, was consistently one of the most funny and creative shows ever on the tube. As an independent release, it was always buried at some insomniac time slot — and when NBC picked it up, that network began the 90-minute show at 1 a.m. Even now, PBS is re-running the series (chopped to 20-minute segments), but this amounts to mere tidbits of comedy and only a sampling of the depth of the show. Many "SCTV" graduates have moved on to feature films. John Candy in "Splash," Eugene Levy in "Club Paradise," Rick Moranis in "Ghostbusters" and Catherine O'Hara in "Heartburn" are only a few examples of the prodigious talent that was Second City. A few of these films are worthy of their "SCTV" talent; many are better because of that talent; but some have a difficult time surviving even with that talent. "Armed and Dangerous" is a perfect example. John Candy and Eugene Levy were supporting players in "Splash." Here they move to the front as a couple of half-hearted security guards. Candy is a former policeman who is framed for corruption by corrupt cops, and Eugene Levy is a monumentally inept lawyer. They meet in security guard school, and their escapades begin. These escapades include guarding toxic waste sites and garbage dumps, battling voracious Dobermans and disguising themselves as sleazy oddities of dubious sexual practice, but little of it is funny. Robert Loggia hams it up as a corrupt union boss, but his role, like everyone else's, is one-dimensional, predictable and not particularly funny. "Armed and Dangerous" borrows a few "Police Academy" weirdos for its supporting players, but neither they nor some well-staged vehicular violence can raise this film above the mundane.

Ask Toni

Gene Wilder lives!

By Toni Reinhold

Is Gene Wilder alive? — M.S., Highland, Ind.
Is he ever! Wilder's recent comedy feature, "Haunted Honeymoon," is currently in theaters around the country. He is married to funny lady Gilda Radner.

Gene Wilder

I just love the "Perry Mason" show, and I was delighted to see Perry Mason's return on TV. Will there be more new "Perry Mason" movies? Where can I write to Raymond Burr? I want to ask him for a picture. — J.R., Greencastle, Ind.

The 1986-87 season on NBC will bring back Perry Mason in a new TV movie, "Perry Mason: The Case of the Shooting Star." Mason (played by Raymond Burr) returned to TV in December 1985 with the movie "Perry Mason Returns." Burr followed it up last May with "Perry Mason: The Case of the Notorious Nun." The upcoming TV movie will feature Burr, Barbara Hale, her son William Katt ("The Greatest American Hero"), Alan Thicke, Joe Penny, Ron Glass and Jennifer O'Neill.

Write to Burr and other cast members c/o NBC-TV, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, NY 10112.

How old is Jan-Michael Vincent of "Airwolf"? What movies has he been in? — J.O., Covington, Ohio
Vincent is 42. His movies include "Buster and Billie" (1974) "White Line Fever" (1975) and "Damnation Alley" (1977).

Where can I write to Johnny Mathis? I'm a devoted fan. — B.M., Goldsboro, N.C.

Send mail to the talented songster c/o Columbia/CBS Records, 51 W. 52nd St., New York, NY 10019.

Why don't they get rid of those old soap operas? All that sex and death is awful. Don't we have enough of that in real life? Why not give us some comedy? — V.B., Cincinnati, Ohio

Thanks to the overwhelming success of "The Cosby Show," word is that we will see a lot more comedy on TV. In fact, there are 11 new network sitcoms on the fall schedule.

(Send your letters to Ask Toni, United Feature Syndicate, 200 Park Ave., Room 602, New York, NY 10166.)

MAGNUM, P.I.

A tragic event that Magnum (Tom Selleck, r.) thought he had relegated to the far corners of his mind resurfaces when he sees a woman (guest star Marta DuBois) who looks exactly like Michelle, his reportedly dead wife. The special two-hour repeat episode of CBS's "Magnum, P.I." airs WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 10.

TV THIS WEEK

What's new this fall?

By Wendy Wallace

It was a long time in coming, but we can finally begin to bid goodbye to the summer reruns. The new fall season begins this week with sneak previews of NBC and CBS series. Here's a peek at what to expect:

NBC opens its doors to the heartwarming series OUR HOUSE (Sept. 11). Wilford Brimley is a sharp-witted retiree who opens his home to his recently widowed daughter-in-law (Deidre Hall) and her three children. With three generations living under one roof, the adjustments and conflicts loom large. This show may pull at a few heartstrings as it competes with CBS's "60 Minutes."

EASY STREET (NBC, Sept. 13) features Loni Anderson as former Las Vegas showgirl L.K. McGuire. Her life is altered when her elderly, scruffy uncle (Jack Elam) and his best friend (Lee Weaver) come to live in her Beverly Hills mansion.

David Rappaport plays a little man with mystical powers in the new CBS fantasy/adventure series THE WIZARD (Sept. 9). A little abracadabra won't hurt since this show is facing stiff competition from ABC's stronghold comedies "Who's the Boss?" and "Growing Pains."

Some upcoming NBC premieres include:

L.A. LAW (Fridays, NBC) — Created by Emmy-winner Steven Bochco, this series about the behind-the-scenes workings of a bustling law office in Los Angeles carries the Bochco trademark — an ensemble cast and a steady pace. With "Miami Vice" as its leader, it looks like a winner!

AMEN (Saturdays, NBC) marks the return of Sherman Hemsley as a Philadelphia deacon. Since it follows the successful "Golden Girls," it may have a prayer.

MATLOCK (Tuesdays, NBC) was a ratings winner when it aired as a TV movie last season. Andy Griffith is a Harvard-educated Southern lawyer with a sharp mind. "Matlock" might have a lock on his competition.

Upcoming CBS shows: DESIGNING WOMEN (Mondays, CBS) — Dixie Carter and Delta Burke headline the cast of four women running an interior decorating firm.

TOGETHER WE STAND (Wednesday, CBS) — Elliot Gould and Dee Wallace Stone adopt three children from different ethnic backgrounds. Competition from "Highway to Heaven" and "Perfect Strangers" will be rough.

Upcoming ABC shows: HEAD OF THE CLASS (Wednesday, ABC) — A former hippie, now a high school social studies teacher, tries to interest his gifted students in independent thinking.

LIFE WITH LUCY (Saturdays, ABC) — Can Lucille Ball work magic again as a businesswoman in a hardware store?

Air Force Graduate

Airman Ricky J. Kendrick, son of William J. and Margie S. Kendrick, of Prestonsburg, has graduated from Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

During the six weeks of training the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Ellen Terry would like to express their thanks to all who helped during the passing of their loved one. Thanks to all who sent food, flowers, prayers, and words of comfort during this time of sorrow. A special thanks to Regular Baptist ministers, and to the Hall Funeral Home for its kind and efficient service.

Are Texas high schoolers ready to take on the NFL?

By Marty Linehan

Texans have had more than their fair share of problems of late, what with the heat and falling oil prices. As if that isn't enough, they recently were hit with another problem that is almost as big. This one involves the Lone Star state's traditional love for Friday-night football.

Friday-night football (not to be confused with "ABC's Monday Night Football") is watched religiously in Texas. Some Texas-knockers will claim that's because there's nothing else to do in Texas on Friday nights, but whatever the reason, the televised scholastic games get high ratings and draw real crowds at the gate.

That's where the problem lies. In the football-crazed land of Texas, where they red-shirt junior high schoolers, the University Interscholastic League, the state's governing body for high school athletes, has ruled that high school teams that sell live telecasts of their games will not be able to play on Friday nights.

Why? The league felt that telecasts of important games will hurt the gates of other Texas games and, worse still, hurt the gate receipts. And even you non-Texans know that ain't right neighborly.

Knowing the importance of high school football to Texans, the state officials did not make this decision lightly. Tradition is tradition.

But when will these embryo Dallas Cowboys get to do their thing on television? Well, it looks like the parents of high school players will have to watch their Jim Bobs try to tear the heads off other folks' Bobby Jacks on Thursday nights, Saturday nights or Sunday afternoons.

But Thursday night is a school night; Saturday night is a fool-around night; and Sunday afternoon belongs to the Dallas Cowboys. There's not really a law that says Texans have to watch the Cowboys on TV (and there's no truth to the rumor that if you don't, you'll be forced to watch a tape of a Redskins-Giants game), but most Lone-Star Staters behave as if there were.

So if parents and friends want to see their boys earn the right to die for dear old Texas or fight for the opportunity to pick up a snappy extra $1,000 a month from a team supporter at Texas Christian, they'll have to go the stadium.

Although the National Football League has playing exhibition games since Aug. 15, they start crunching for real this weekend. It will be interesting to see how many high schoolers end up taking on the big kids on Sunday afternoons.

THE TEACHER-SALARY QUESTION

Mr. O. J. Jones, assistant superintendent of public instruction, has apparently lost his conception of practical school work for this county in the mist of educational idealism. His attitude toward the superintendent of Floyd county schools, relative to the matter of a salary schedule for teachers, bears out this statement.

In brief, Mr. Jones insists that the minimum monthly salary be placed at sixty dollars, with additional pay being made for high school, college and other work. He has no patience, evidently, with a proposal to place the basic monthly salary at seventy-five dollars and give less for college credits.

It is obvious, therefore, that he knows little of conditions in Floyd county. He should have more first-hand information.

Mr. Jones should know that this county cannot at this time depend upon college men to form its teaching corps.

Too, he should know that some of the finest teachers in this county—indeed, the greater number of the tried-and-true veterans of the profession—have had little or no college work. He should know that, were these veteran teachers to leave their school-rooms at this time, vacancies would appear in the ranks which, if filled at all, would necessitate the using of raw material or the importation of teachers from other counties at higher salaries.

And, moreover, Mr. Jones should give earnest consideration to the fact that few of these old teachers will continue the labor of years for only sixty-five or seventy dollars a month.

We hold no brief for antiquated standards of education; but, knowing Floyd county as we do, we are constrained to remind those not so familiar with this section that this county is not Jefferson county or Fayette. Our problems are different. We must make haste slowly in the matter of losing our old teachers—until at least young blood, trained and with the high aim of the true teacher, is found for the work.

To all those fine, young women and men who have studied in high school and college the better to fit themselves to serve as teachers, and who have emerged from those institutions of learning with the clean record of having worked hard and each with the strong support of a sterling character, fit to guide little children—to these we extend greetings and offer praise. They deserve remuneration for the years spent in preparation for their chosen work; they deserve more and more.

It will do no harm to hope for the day when such teachers will be available in Floyd county. Let us not, however, permit ourselves to forget those veterans who have worked faithfully and well so many years almost as a labor of love, so little have they received for what they have given.

DEATH THE INEXORABLE

James Oliver Curwood, the writer, died Saturday at the age of forty-nine. . . . Died less than a year after his article, "I Shall Live To Be One Hundred Years Old," was published in Cosmopolitan Magazine.

Curwood, virile man of the great north woods, in the prime of life, succumbed to an infection caused by an insect bite. He died when not yet abreast the half-way mark of the century-long life he firmly believed and declared would be his.

There are those who will sermonize upon the trick fate played Curwood, from the angle that man has not his life in his own hands alone—that death comes to all alike and often when least expected.

On the other hand, it may be observed that, reckoned as the average mortal lives, Curwood's life was easily a hundred years in length. This may be judged from his career as a novelist, indefatigable worker and ardent nature-worshipper. Though Curwood's literary work is not for the ages, but was ephemeral, his was no drab period of mere existence. He actually lived it all, alive for every moment, doing something.

Curwood failed of reaching the age of one hundred years as we reckon time by the calendar. But, if time were calculated by human achievement, many graybeards would die in infancy, while such as James Oliver Curwood and the workers of the world would be noted for longevity.

A HOUSECLEANING NEEDED

Judge J. G. Forester, of the Harlan circuit court, commands the attention and the respect of every Kentuckian who believes in justice and honesty by his instructions to the Harlan grand jury now in session to investigate election fraud in that county. Himself a defendant in a contest suit, Judge Forester urges the utmost scrutiny in ferreting out the persons, "high or low," who are guilty of buying, selling or stealing votes.

The Harlan jurist's instructions to the grand jury form a scathing editorial in themselves against dirty politics, and may be applied to conditions which existed in this county during the recent primary. The instructions follow in part:

"You will have plenty of proof of repeaters, of vote buying, vote selling and every violation known to the election laws. You have a right to call the secretary and treasurer of every coal company in this county to ascertain if they contributed money to any candidate. It is a violation for any corporation to contribute money to a candidate.

"There are no sore spots on me, but the time has come to call a halt. Let us turn over a new leaf and give the people of this county the opportunity to believe that money is not the measure of merit in seeking office.

"Conditions are getting worse, and if they are ever expected to get better, now is the time to start. Some men voted five or six times, were hauled from precinct to precinct. Indict them and the man who hauled them. It is the will of this court that you indict for election violations, without fear or favor high or low, to the end that a righteous institution shall not be dragged in the dirt by men who have winked and scoffed at the law."

Floyd county's political arena is a veritable Augean stable, and a Hercules of justice is needed to clean it. Vote-sellers in this county once were disfranchised. A repetition of this, with the buyers coming in for their share of punishment, would not be amiss.

No injustice should be wrought, no partiality shown. It should all be done for the betterment of the county, that the infamous traffic in human rights be eradicated and that the privilege of expressing their wishes through the ballot may be secured beyond theft to the voters of this county.

KENTUCKY PROVIDES FREE EDUCATION FOR SIGHTLESS

Miss Florence L. Lewis, of Louisville, was here Wednesday, making inquiries in order to ascertain the number and addresses of blind children living in this county.

In line with other progressive states, Kentucky is doing its part for the education and industrial improvement of its sightless children, and maintains at public expense the Kentucky School for the Blind, at Louisville, which ranks among the best of such institutions in this country and is recognized the world over for the high standard it has sustained for over three-quarters of a century of its existence, it being a pioneer in the work of educating the blind.

Strange as it may appear, that although the state has provided so liberally for their education without cost in an institution of such excellence, conducted by an efficient corps of teachers and equipped with every appliance for the work, a problem that has always been confronted has been the fact that only about half of the blind children in Kentucky are taking advantage of the great opportunity afforded them to receive a splendid education and become self-sustaining. It is to meet these conditions, that the press and public are urged to cooperate in a movement to bring into the school for the coming session the full quota of blind children.

The Kentucky School for the Blind is not to be confounded with an asylum or hospital for the treatment of defective eyes, it being in the strictest sense a public school for those denied attendance at the ordinary schools. From the kindergarten to the graduating class, the same high educational standard prevails, and in addition, the boys are taught several lines of industrial work and the girls, domestic science and needlework, in which amazing progress has been made by the pupils.

Every blind child in Kentucky, or any child whose sight is so weak as to prevent it from attending an ordinary school, can get a free education at the Kentucky School for the Blind. There is no charge for board, tuition or books.

The school session is from the second Wednesday of September to the second Wednesday of June, and the children all go to their homes for the summer vacation. There are separate schools for the white children and for the colored children, some distance apart, each with its own set of teachers. The state has endeavored to make these schools everything they should be for the education, health and comfort of the blind children of Kentucky. The buildings are large and beautifully situated and filled with every possible device for the training of the blind and the teachers are the best that can be had.

To get a child into the school it is only necessary to write to the superintendent of the school, the name of the child and its age, the name of its parents and their postoffice address, and to state whether the child has a sound mind and is free from disease. Upon receipt of such information, an application blank will be gladly furnished.

Address letters to Clifford B. Martin, Superintendent, Kentucky School for the Blind.

Better take along a Remington .22 calibre rifle when you're getting ready for an auto trip, a fishing or camping trip, or a day in the country. Unless you've already tried it you've no idea how much fun a snappy little Remington Autoloader, Repeater or Single-Shot will add.

Though small in calibre, these guns are just as fine in construction and as deadly accurate as the high-powered big-game rifles that have made the name Remington famous for more than a century.

INTERESTING LETTER ON TRIP TO TEXAS

Prestonsburg, Ky., August 16, 1927.
The Floyd County Times:

On July 12, my wife and I started on a visit and vacation to Henderson, Texas, leaving Prestonsburg on the evening train, arriving at Ashland the same evening; stayed overnight at Ashland, and boarded the C. and O. train early on the morning of July 13. We arrived at Louisville about noon of the same day and there bought our tickets via Memphis, Tenn., and Little Rock, Ark., to Fairview, Texas, and arrived at Fairview on July 14, and were met there by W. H. Powers and Nora Powers, our son-in-law and daughter, who glided us over the good roads at the rate of thirty-five miles an hour to their beautiful home in Henderson, Texas.

This is not only the great state of Texas in area, but is greater for its great and hospitable people, as good as the best in this great country of ours. Henderson, Texas, is a city of about 4,000 or more; has fine churches and fine school buildings and the best of business men. At the courthouse in Henderson you will find the court business carried on with dispatch and with courtesy to all. Not only the people having business in court, but the "strangers within the gates" at the courthouse and everywhere are met with a happy greeting, which makes you feel that you are almost one of them. The people are very much like our own Kentucky folks and make you feel at home with them.

Then there are the bountiful crops of almost every thing: cotton, corn, tomatoes, peas, sweet and Irish potatoes in great abundance. Texas is a great country for cattle, sheep, hogs and poultry of all kinds. If our Kentuckians were there and worked as they do here, they would get rich in a short time. Then they have the best roads you ever saw. The worst there is better than the best we have here. It is no trouble there to go out in the country forty and fifty miles and do business and return home for early supper. We were out in the country nearly every day; were also out in Smith, Shelby Cherokee, and other counties while there, but I believe Rush county, Texas, is the best county, taking all things into consideration, in that section of the state.

We were on our way back to old Kentucky on the morning of August 13, and arrived here on the morning of August 15. I had a great time and enjoyed the trip both going and coming, but being there from July 14 to August 13 with our folks, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Powers and meeting our grandson, John Graham Powers and his wife and their daughter, Rea, and Mrs. R. T. Blair and family was the most enjoyable part of our visit to Texas.

I write this in answer to many questions about the great state of Texas. I have much more that could be said, but space will not permit it now.

AGED WOMAN PASSES AWAY

Ms. Frankie Hall, widow of Henry Hall, died Monday at the home of her son on Bull Creek, about a mile above here, as the result of neuralgia of the heart. Death came suddenly, though after a protracted illness.

Mrs. Hall was about 80 years old, and was a member of a pioneer family of this section. She was born and reared on Beaver Creek, and before her marriage to Henry Hall, who died 24 years ago, she was Miss Frankie Caudill. She had lived with her son on Bull Creek for several years.

The deceased was a member of the Baptist Church for many years, and was highly venerated by all who knew her.

Surviving her are 11 children, five daughters and six sons. The following of her sons live near here: Nelson, Mingo, Reuben and Rev. Will Hall. Lee and Jarvey Hall, two others of her sons, live in the West. Names of her daughters were unavailable.

E. P. Arnold and Company, funeral directors, were in charge of the burial, which was made Tuesday on Bull Creek. Brief services were conducted from the home, and the funeral will be conducted later.

Dirty Politics Cause Of Childress' Resignation

Incensed at the manner in which the recent primary election was conducted in Pike county, Judge J. E. Childress, of the Pike-Letcher judicial district, offered his resignation to Gov. W. J. Fields in a letter written August 11.

Governor Fields in turn appointed Willis Staton, Pikeville attorney, to succeed Judge Childress. Mr. Staton will assume office August 22, and will continue to act in both Pike and Letcher counties before the judge to be elected from that district at the November election takes office.

Judge Childress, a Democrat, was elected six years ago by a large majority from a Republican stronghold. He is one of the most popular and capable jurists in the state.

In submitting his resignation, Judge Childress stated, "I feel there was a good deal of theft committed in the primary and that I would be handicapped in investigating it. Three hundred votes were stolen in one precinct and there was theft in other places."

EAST POINT

The United Baptist Church held its annual sacramental meeting Saturday and Sunday. A large crowd was in attendance. These meetings attract people from far and near each year.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. C. H. D. Osborn, of La Grange, Illinois, August 11, a son, Miss Osborn will be remembered here as Miss Lora E. Ramey. Dick Auxier is able to be out again after a severe attack of typhoid.

Graveside services were conducted at 10 a.m. at the Buckingham cemetery, with Glenn Hayes officiating. Burial was made under the direction of the Hall Funeral Home.

Tribute To A Friend

Carlos Blankenship was one of those rare individuals who only come through your life once or twice, and who combined the characteristics of honesty, integrity, leadership and humbleness together with an undying love for his native Eastern Kentucky.

I first met Carlos as a college student, and he immediately exhibited the qualities of honesty and intelligence. He was a good student who graduated with honors, while remaining a good, church-going boy, and became a respected teacher at Wheelwright High School. During these years together as teachers, we became the closest of friends and I came to admire him for the qualities of leadership, humbleness, and, at the same time, ambition. Carlos was a leader in the classroom, on the softball field, or in the bowling alley, and aspired to further his education and become a Doctor of Dentistry, which he accomplished.

Carlos had his own standards, I never saw him smoke; I never saw him drink; and he clung to his faith, but he never tried to push his own standards upon others, and he never thought any less of a person because the person had faults. These qualities set him apart and made him special.

I will certainly miss Carlos, and I know that East Kentucky has lost a great leader, but I like to think that I and many other people whom he touched, are better people from knowing him.

Mary Henson Elliott

Mary (Marie) L. Henson Elliott, 80, of Lexington, formerly of Allen, died August 20.

Born at Beaver, she was a daughter of the late Tomothy P. and Abby Hamilton Henson. She was a member of Rosemont Baptist Church and was preceded in death by her husband, McKinley (Mack) Elliott.

Survivors include a granddaughter, Lisa Elliott, of Prestonsburg.

Funeral services were held at 1 p.m. Saturday at the W.R. Milward Mortuary-Southland by Rev. Jerome F. Browne. Burial was made in the Lexington cemetery.

Pallbearers were Jeffrey Conn, Gene Campbell, Gervin Waddle, Orville Stephens, Jack Henson, and Chris Litton.

Paul Kendrick

Paul E. Kendrick, 44, of Rome City Indiana, died July 24, in Parkview Memorial Hospital in Fort Wayne Indiana. He had been in ill health since January.

He was born in Glo, Ky., August 23, 1941 and was a son of the late William and Goldie Harper Kendrick.

Surviving are two sisters, Ruth McCoy, of Feds Creek, Catherine Bachorski, of Canadigua, N.Y.; and two brothers, Frank Kendrick, of Benton Harbor Mich., John Kendrick, of Kendallville, Ind.

Funeral services were held July 26 in Kendallville Indiana, with Ellis Crum officiating. Burial was made at Glo.

Summer Job Seekers Boost Unemployment

The normal influx of people seeking summer employment plus a temporary loss of some permanent jobs combined to force a slight increase in unemployment in Kentucky between June and July, according to figures released last week by the Cabinet for Human Resources.

After falling for four consecutive months, Kentucky's jobless rate rose from a revised 8.9 percent in June to a preliminary 9.3 percent in July.

"A larger labor force is something we usually see at this time of year," said state labor market analyst Ed Blackwell. "Most of these new job applicants were looking for work during the summer."

Fresh flowers, a peacock or a rocking chair are said to cause bad luck if used as part of a stage set.

Free Shade Trees For Fall Planting

The National Arbor Day Foundation is giving ten free shade trees to people who join the non-profit Foundation during September, 1986.

A Pin Oak, Red Maple, Weeping Willow, Red Oak, Green Ash, Thornless Honeylocust, Silver Maple, Tuliptree, European Mountainash, and Sugar Maple will be given as part of the Foundation's campaign to encourage tree planting.

These trees were selected because they provide beautiful fall colors, flowers, and berries, in addition to cooling summer shade, according to John Rosenow, the Foundation's executive director.

The Foundation will give the ten free trees to members contributing $10 during September. The six-to-twelve inch trees will be shipped this fall between October 15 and December 10 when conditions are right for planting. They will be sent with enclosed planting instructions, and are guaranteed to grow or they will be replaced free by the Foundation.

To become a member of the Foundation and to receive the free trees, a $10 membership contribution should be sent to TEN SHADE TREES, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, NE 68410, by September 20, 1986.

Of all the 250,000 species of flowering plants, there are just two that don't need water from the soil. One is the pygmy cedar and the other is the caper plant of the Sahara. Both take all the moisture they need from the night air.

Nutritious and delicious: thicken soup by blending in a tablespoon of peanut butter per quart of liquid in place of flour. You'll have a creamy soup with hearty flavor.

FEEDING A SICK CHILD. When children are ill they often lose their appetite. But they still need nourishment, says Good Housekeeping in its September issue, and offers some guidelines on what to feed them. No matter what the illness, clear liquids—water, fruit juice, broth, plain gelatin and flat soft drinks—are best tolerated. If a child suffers from diarrhea, discontinue all milk and dairy products until symptoms disappear, then feed him binding foods—rice, cereals, bananas, applesauce, mashed potatoes. After vomiting, small amounts of flat soft drinks are good. Wait at least half a day before starting on bland solids—dry crackers, toast.

WHAT FINANCIAL HELP IS AVAILABLE?

It is often difficult to think about costs when a loved one dies. What matters most is helping the bereaved through their first days of grief.

But financial help is available to reduce the cost to the family of funeral services. For example, if you are covered by Social Security, you are eligible for specific payments at the time of your spouse's death. Veterans of the armed forces are eligible for substantial death benefits from the Veterans Administration.

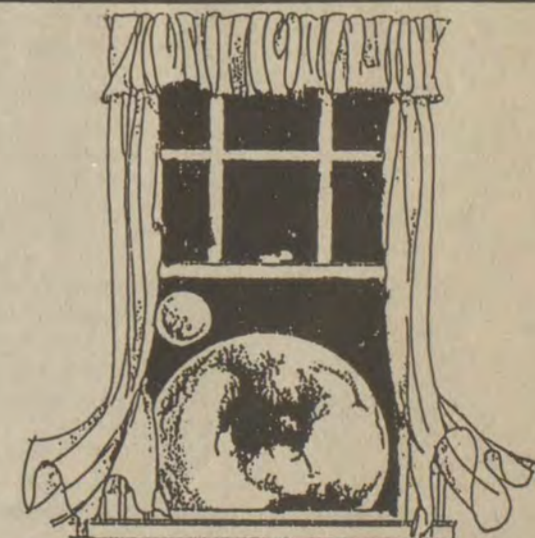

Life insurance policies have provisions for payment at the time of death. Loans may have life insurance policies incorporated in the contract. These should be kept in a safe place, readily accessible to one's family if they should be needed. (A safety deposit box is not a good storage place.) Be sure others know where you put them!

Finally, some trade associations may provide financial benefits for members who pass away. Check with the local organization.

Benefits at the time of death are subject to frequent change as laws are passed and the economy varies. We try to keep close track of these changes and can inform you of the latest rulings. If you would like more information, please call us or stop by.

ABBOTT HOMEMAKERS TO MEET

Mrs. Sharon Sparr, president of the Abbott Homemakers, announces that the first club meeting of the year will be held at the Church Annex Building, Tuesday evening, September 9, at 7 o'clock, with Mesdames Mary Creed and Christine Ross, co-hostesses. She urges all members and persons who may be interested in becoming members to attend.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant to Application Number 836-5122

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Lancer Leasing Corporation, c/o Cabin Coal Corp., Goble Roberts Addition, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653, has filed an application for a permit for a surface and underground mining operation. The proposed operation will affect a surface disturbance of 26.12 acres and will underlie an additional 557.20 acres located 1.0 mile southwest of Allen in Floyd county.

The proposed operation is approximately 0.5 miles northwest from Oklahoma Road's junction with Eel Branch Road and is located 0.25 miles west of Beaver Creek. The latitude is 37° 35' 52" N. The longitude is 82° 44' 53" W.

The proposed operation is located on the Harold and Martin USGS 7 1/2 minute quadrangle maps. The surface area to be disturbed is owned by the Tom Mann Estate and the Robert Ousley Heirs. The operation will underlie land owned by the Tom Mann Estate, the Robert Ousley Heirs, Paul Porter, Josephine Gray, Rebecca Martin, the Ed Leslie Estate, the William Palmer Leslie Heirs, Dennis Lafferty, Angie Lafferty, G.B. Lafferty, Johnny Shepard, the James Lafferty Estate, Curt Jarrell, Kentucky Coal, the S.S. Mayo Estate, Henry Crisp, the Mae Bentley Estate, the Alex Crisp Heirs and Danny Brown. The operation will use the contour strip and underground methods of mining.

The applicant has also made application to be covered by the KDPES General Permit for Coal Mining Operation.

The application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Prestonsburg Regional Office, 503 South Lake Dr., Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653. Written comments, objections, or requests for a formal administrative hearing must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, 6th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. 9-3-31.

Veterans Administration Questions and Answers

Q—Where may I obtain information about a relative buried in an American military cemetery overseas?

A—Information concerning American military buried overseas may be obtained by writing to: American Battle Monuments Commission, Room 5127, Pulaski Building, 20 Massachusetts Avenue, NW, Washington, D.C. 20314.

Q—My wife and I are both veterans and meet eligibility requirements for the VA Guaranteed Home Loan Program. May we acquire property jointly and increase the amount which may be guaranteed by VA?

A—Yes. The amount of the guaranty may be increased to an amount equal to the combined total of both your entitlements, however, the guaranty may not exceed 60 percent of the loan.

Q—I understand many veterans will now be subject to a means or income-based test when seeking care in a VA facility. Do I need to have proof of my income?

A—VA will assume the information you provide is given in good faith. No proof will be required.

Q—What if my income is now above the income requirements, but I expect it to fall below the limit for the year following my application for care?

A—To avoid hardship, VA may determine that a veteran is "unable to defray the expenses" of health care if the veteran's projected income for the year following application for care will be substantially below the income requirements of the means test.

Q—I filed a claim for compensation about three months ago and have had my exam. I have not heard anything from the VA. How can I find out the status of my claim?

A—Initial claims often take longer than 3 months to process. You should wait a little longer before checking on your claim. If you are concerned, however, you may call the local VA regional office to check the status of the claim.

Q—Do the VA's eligibility assessment procedures apply to veterans age 65 and older?

A—The means test applies to all nonservice-connected veterans regardless of age. Public Law 99-272 repealed a provision in The Veterans Omnibus Health Care Act of 1970 that had allowed veterans 65 years of age or older to receive care in VA facilities regardless of income.

Q—Does a widow whose VA benefits were restored after termination of a remarriage regain her veterans preference for civil service?

A—No. Civil service preference is not restored after the remarriage is terminated. Questions about this may be addressed to the Office of Personnel Management which is responsible for preference certifications.

Q—My husband receives compensation payments from the VA. He has recently been convicted of a felony. I have been advised that his compensation will be reduced to the 10% rate while he is incarcerated. Am I entitled to a portion of his benefits?

A—You have the right to apply for an apportionment while he is incarcerated. Any apportionment that you may be awarded will be discontinued and his full benefits will be restored to him upon his release.

Q—What does VA consider as a veteran's income for purposes of the eligibility assessment procedures?

A—Social security, including supplemental security income; U.S. Civil Service retirement; U.S. Railroad retirement; military retirement; unemployment insurance; any other retirement; total wages from all employers; interest and dividends; workers' compensation; black lung benefits; and many other annual income for the calendar year preceding the veteran's application for care including income of the spouse and dependents. Personal property is excluded.

Institute For Arts Established By Gov.

David Thurmond, former assistant principal at the Youth Performing Arts School, has been appointed director of The Governor's Institute for Arts, a program similar in concept to The Governor's Scholars Program, which will begin in the summer of 1987 as a three-week resident program for 100 to 120 talented high school juniors from around the state.

Instruction at the Governor's Institute will be provided in Visual Arts, Creative Writing, Dance, Drama, Vocal and Instrumental Music. In addition to technical training, students will also be offered coursework in the history, aesthetics, criticism and theory of the arts.

Founded in 1986 by Governor Martha Layne Collins and the Kentucky General Assembly, the Governor's Institute will be jointly administered by the Kentucky Department of the Arts and the Kentucky Center for the Arts. Participants will have the opportunity for intensive study in their major field and at least one alternative discipline. Auditions for the program will begin in December at various sites around the state. Applicants will be judged by a panel consisting of representatives from each of the Institute's disciplines.

Field trips to major cultural resources of the state, plus career and college counseling, will round out the students' three-week stay in Louisville.

CARD OF THANKS

CPSC Warns of Strangulation with Crib Toys

WARNING

Remove all crib toys which are strung across crib or playpen area when your child is beginning to push up on hands and knees or is 5 months of age, whichever occurs earliest. These toys can cause STRANGULATION!

Crib gyms, exercisers, kickers, and similar toys are attractive additions to a child's environment, but they are DANGEROUS as well. The risk of strangulation begins when children are just starting to push up on hands and knees, usually about 5 months old. These children can pull themselves up to a hanging crib toy and become entangled or fall forward over it; but they cannot disentangle themselves, support their own weight, or lift themselves off the toy. The results can be injury or death.

Completely remove such toys from the crib or playpen. Do not merely untie one end and allow the toy to dangle because strangulation is still a possibility.

CPR and First Aid Offered This Week

Big Sandy Vocational Education will begin offering CPR and First Aid training to the general public starting in September. Day and evening classes will be offered. The cost will include books and fees for CPR, for Multi-Media First Aid and for Standard First Aid. For more information, contact Robert P. Barringer, Big Sandy Vocational Education, Region Eleven, at 789-3115.

INSURANCE

For your hospitalization, major medical, life and universal life, disability income protection, also Medicare supplements, call KEN WATKINS Agent for Ohio State Life Ins. 886-9409 or 886-6036. 8-13-8f.

PHS Classes of '32, '33 Hold Reunion

The Prestonsburg High School classes of 1932 and 1933 met June 21 at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park for their 54th and 53rd reunion, respectively. James B. Goble, was master of ceremonies. Before dinner, Frank Branham, led the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag and the Rev. Jack Derossett gave the invocation.

Mrs. May K. Roberts and former superintendent Ishmael Triplett were special guests, having taught both classes. Mrs. Grace H. Sutherland sent a gift to the class members and a report on the early history of P.H.S. which was read by Carlos Haywood. Before the roll call by Mrs. Roberts, there was a time of silent prayer as a memorial for those teachers and class members who are deceased.

After roll call, guests were introduced and Mr. Triplett entertained the group with a short talk. Door prizes were presented by Susan C. Akers and Inez R. Hereford. The evening ended with a sing-a-song led by Carlos H. Haywood and Kathryn S. Frazier.

There were 63 class members and guests present and plans were made for another reunion in 1989.

Will Wed, Sept. 6th

Miss Sherry A. Mullins, daughter of Gloria Sue Mullins, of Wheelwright, and Michael T. Mays, son of Clara A. Martin, announce their engagement and forthcoming marriage.

The candlelight ceremony will be solemnized September 6 at 7:30 p.m. at the Christ United Methodist Church at Allen, with the Rev. Kenneth Lemaster officiating. The gracious custom of an open wedding will be observed and a reception will be held in the church fellowship hall.

Mr. Mays is the grandson of Jack and Georgia R. Allen, of Allen.

Boy Actors Needed For PC Production

Are you a young man (or do you know one) between the ages of 8 and 14, who would like to learn marching and gun twirling, and be a soldier in this year's production of Nutcracker at Pikeville College?

Peggy Davis, artistic director of the Pikeville College Dance Program, is looking for a dozen boys for this year's show. "Acting or dancing experience is a plus, but not necessary," she said. "What is necessary is a desire to be on stage and perform before an audience. These boys are very important in this production and I want boys who enjoy performing and who will take their parts seriously."

The young men appear in two different roles in the Nutcracker production. They first appear in Scene I as guests at a Christmas party where they receive guns and presents under the Christmas tree. They perform a march and gun-twirling routine and tease the girls as part of the activities at the party. Later in Scene II, they re-appear as tin soldiers and fight a fierce battle with giant mice (girls dressed in mouse costumes) in a battle known as the "Mouse Wars."

One of the older boys will be chosen to be the Nutcracker who comes to life and leads the soldiers into battle against the mice in Mouse Wars. The Nutcracker then is magically turned into a handsome prince-right on stage! Another young man will be chosen to be the mouseking who leads the army of mice.

Boys meet for instruction and rehearsal in the Pikeville College Administration Building, Room 212, every Tuesday from 5:00 to 6:00 p.m., beginning September 2nd. They may wear shorts or sweat pants to class and rehearsal. The only equipment they will need to buy for class or for the production will be their shoes. The cost of this 'boys-only' class is $16.00 per month. Please call Peggy Davis at 606-432-5013 for further information or to preregister. You may also register simply by coming to class.

Theatre Guild Meets

There will be an organizational meeting of the Theatre Guild for Adults sponsored by Prestonsburg Community College on Thursday evening, September 4, at 7 p.m. in the Faculty lounge in the Martin Student Center. For more information contact the Community Services/Continuing Education office or Vicky Horn at 886-3863.

BIG SANDY HISTORICAL SOCIETY TO MEET AT LODGE, SATURDAY

The Big Sandy Historical Society will hold a luncheon-meeting, at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, Saturday, September 13. A board meeting will be conducted at 11 a.m., and lunch is scheduled for 12 o'clock, noon. David G. Webb, Jr., will be the chairman for the meeting to follow at 1 p.m., and the speaker will be Robert E. McGinn, of Huntington, whose topic will be "Dunmore's War."

All members and persons interested in becoming members of this organization are urged to attend.

$8 Million Allotted To Weatherize Homes

The Cabinet for Human Resources plans to spend more than $8 million during the next fiscal year to make weatherization improvements to homes of low-income families, with priority given to residences of elderly and disabled Kentuckians.

The $8,025,276 will be distributed to the state's 23 community action agencies, which serve 119 counties, and the City of Ashland, which also serves Boyd county. "Allocations are based upon the need of the area each serves compared to statewide need," said Employment Services Commissioner James Daniels, whose department administers the programs.

"We expect to serve about 14,250 people in 5,700 homes," he said. Work that may be performed on a home includes caulking, weatherstripping windows and doors, reglazing windows, repairing walls, insulating ceilings, pipes, ducts, walls and under floors, wrapping water heaters and placing skirting around foundations.

"The type and amount of work performed is based on the condition of the home," Daniels said. "Improvements an agency makes to any home are limited to an average of $1,600, but at least we are able to make these homes more comfortable and reduce energy costs."

U.S. Department of Energy funds make up almost $3.2 million of this year's allocations, while Home Energy Assistance Program dollars account for almost $4.1 million.

WATERBEDS FACTS VS. MYTHS

MYTH: Waterbeds puncture easily leaving water everywhere.

FACT: Waterbed punctures are very rare and the water always stays in the mattress or the liners.

MYTH: Waterbeds can make you seasick.

FACT: The new waterbeds with baffles are very still, and the rest is so deep there is little body action to cause waves.

MYTH: Waterbeds are so heavy they'll damage my floor.

FACT: Waterbeds weigh less per square foot than your own two feet! They weigh much less than a refrigerator.

FACT: Sleeping on water will improve blood circulation and may help back and leg pains.

See the Specialists at H<sub>2</sub>O for more waterbed facts!

Rally Day At First Presbyterian Church

Rally Day will be observed at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday, September 7th. Beginning the festivities will be an all-church breakfast at 9:30 at the Church, sponsored by the Board of Deacons.

After the breakfast, Church school classes and teachers for the fall quarter will be introduced, along with other educational opportunities. The Youth group will present a clowning skit.

New audio-visual materials will be dedicated, including a video-cassette recorder and cabinet that has been constructed to house it. Emphasis on the Sunday Church School and the Christian Education program will continue though the morning worship hour at 11.

WILL CHAIR BIKE-A-THON

The Central Regional Office of St. Jude Children's Research Hospital announced recently that Mrs. Thomasine Whicker and Red, White and Blue Committee has agreed to chair the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Bike-a-Thon in Martin.

Hopkins To Attend Methodist Home Day

Congressman Larry Hopkins will be a featured guest for the Annual Day Celebration at The Methodist Home of Kentucky, Saturday, September 6. The child care agency, located on U.S. Highway 60 just east of Versailles, will dedicate an area of its campus which has been beautified and set aside for displaying the American flag. Congressman Hopkins, who earlier donated a flag which had flown over the Capitol in Washington, will take part in the dedication ceremonies.

The program will begin at 10:30 a.m. and will include musical presentations by the children of the home and a devotion by Bishop Paul A. Duffey, Resident Bishop of the Kentucky and Louisville Conferences of the United Methodist Church. Following the program a complimentary lunch will be served. In the afternoon there will be an open house for touring the campus.

There will also be a bazaar and auction sponsored by the Friends of the Children, an auxiliary organization. This will feature handmade items to be sold to fund projects selected by The Friends of the Children.

The public is invited to attend. Reservations may be made by writing The Methodist Home, P.O. Drawer B, Versailles, Kentucky 40383, or calling (606) 873-4481.

Girl Scouts Will Meet at Alien Park

The Girl Scouts will meet September 4, at 6:30 p.m. at the Alien Park. All girls interested in joining are urged to attend.

Receives First Place

Iris Caudill, local artist from Martin, received first place in the professional flower category at the Pine Grove Art Exhibit and Competition at Claypool Young Art Gallery in Morehead. She also received a third place in professional still life.

Iris's winning entry is entitled "Morning Light Flowers". Caudill, who has won numerous awards for her artwork, has exhibited work in Kentucky, Ohio and Michigan. She will also be exhibiting her work Saturday at the Highlands Folk Festival, here.

To Wed, September 6

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lewis, Jr., of Martin, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Miss Rebecca Lynn Lewis, to Mr. Terry Blanton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Blanton, of Paintsville.

The candlelight and rainbow wedding will be solemnized at the Cow Creek Free Will Baptist Church, September 6, at 4 p.m. with the Rev. Ellis Stevens officiating.

ASK CONTRIBUTIONS

There's a box in the back of the sanctuary of the First Baptist Church (Irene Cole Memorial) for the purpose of receiving "new or good used toys" for needy children, at Christmastime. It is hoped that the response to this endeavor will be a good one.

HERE FROM PHOENIX

Mr. and Mrs. Blocky Layne, of Phoenix, Arizona, are visiting relatives and friends in Prestonsburg and Garrett. Mr. Layne grew up in Garrett where his father, Ben Layne, was a policeman with the Elkhorn Coal Company.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY
ACACIA

Demulcents are a group of chemicals that are used to coat the skin and reduce irritation. They are particularly effective on tender surfaces such as the mucous membranes of the nose and throat. They also can be used to protect skin areas that may have been scraped open. They are found in many lozenges and gargles for sore throats since they can coat the throat and help reduce the irritation. They also are found in lotions, ointments and dressings for scrapes and scars. Perhaps the oldest known demulcent is acacia (gum arabic). It is used both as a powder and as a syrup. It generally is incorporated into lozenges and gargles. Tragacanth (gum tragacanth) has similar properties and uses.

COOLEY APOTHECARY takes great pride in our complete selection of over-the-counter remedies for skin and other conditions. If you are not yet familiar with us please accept today's column as your personal invitation to come and learn what we can do for you and your family. You'll find us located in No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106 and open Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4. Master Charge and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments.

HANDY HINT:

Glycerins and glycols can only be used on outside skin, not on mucous membranes.

PLANNING

1986 TAX ACT
(What to do now?)

Now that the 1986 Tax Act is out of the joint committee, it's possible to make some tax planning suggestions with the hope that the law doesn't get changed in the House or Senate before final approval.

Some planning suggestions:

- Go ahead with sales of long-term capital assets before the end of 1986 so gains on those assets will be taxed at the preferred capital gain rate. The maximum capital gains tax in 1986 is 20%; that rate will be 28% when the law is fully in effect.
- If you have losses from certain tax shelters, you might want to consider investing in good income-producing limited partnerships. The new law would allow such losses to offset income from other passive investments.
- Defer income into later years when possible. Professionals should consider delaying their December billings into the following January.
- Due to the drop in tax brackets, charitable deductions will be worth less to you after 1986. Consider increasing your 1986 charitable deductions.
- Even though the IRA deduction will be disallowed for certain taxpayers, the earnings in the IRA will still be non-taxable until withdrawn. Review the benefits of an IRA in your situation.
- 401(k) pension contribution deductions drop from $30,000 in 1986 to $7,000 in 1987. Contribute as much as you can to your 401(k) plan this year.
- Pay the balance of your state and local tax bills before December 31, 1986, to provide for deduction on your 1986 federal tax return.
- Consider borrowing against your home to reduce consumer debt on automobiles, credit cards, etc. Consumer interest deductions will be phased out, home mortgage interest remains deductible (with some limits).

We will be watching progress of the tax bill through the House and the Senate and keeping you posted on tax planning opportunities.

Robyn Conley found the friend she needed in the Emergency Room...

On May 1, 1985, a head on collision four miles outside of Prestonsburg put an end to 20-year old Robyn Lynn Conley's afternoon plans.

She was brought—barely conscious—to the Emergency Room at Highlands Regional Medical Center where a team of skilled physicians and nurses worked quickly to stabilize her condition and assess her injuries: multiple head contusions, multiple knee fractures, a dislocated ankle, and severe bruises over most of her body. Of course, Robyn doesn't remember much about the impressive new emergency facility or the professional attention she received at Highlands. But she does remember the help of a friend:

"I was close to home. I knew someone, and it really gave me support. I was in so much shock, I mean I was so far out of it, it helped just to have someone there that I knew. I can walk pretty normal now. I go down (to physical therapy) and it's just like one big happy family. I feel so comfortable with the people that are taking care of me now. I don't think I'd trade them for anybody."

"I was in so much shock, I mean I was so far out of it, it helped just to have someone there that I knew."

The expanded 10-bed Emergency Room at Highlands is staffed 24-hours a day, seven days a week by qualified physicians and nurses who bring their skills to bear on each patient's immediate medical needs. But those needs can be quite different. That's why Highlands has four specialty rooms for treating cardiac, trauma, fracture and prenatal emergencies.

It just makes sense to know where to turn in any emergency—before it happens. And at Highlands, you'll find one of the most sophisticated emergency care facilities in Eastern Kentucky, staffed with competent, caring medical professionals...who know how to be a friend when you need one.

Economics Teachers Attend Conference

Five vocational Home Economics teachers from Floyd county schools attended the Kentucky Home Economics Teachers conference August 4-7 in Lexington.

Janet Rowe and Ruth Hale, of Prestonsburg High School, Elizabeth Jones and Patricia Huffman, of Betsy Layne High School and Janet Bowling, of McDowell High School, attended meetings on the theme "Focus on the Future of Home Economics."

Dr. Peggy Meszaros, Dean of the University of Ky. College of Home Economics, gave the keynote address at the opening session.

Everett B. Hamilton, former national FHA/HERO officer challenged teachers to prepare students for the future. An awards luncheon, regional displays, and a reception at Spindletop Hall rounded out the schedule.

Dr. Eugene Moulin, chairman of the Department of Counselor Education at the University of Dayton closed the annual conference with a humorous, but timely topic "Master teacher plus Super Mom equals Mission Impossible."

State Launches Campaign To Curb Teen Pregnancies

On every day of 1985, 42 Kentucky teenagers became pregnant—more than 15,000 in one year. In 1983, Kentucky had the fourth highest percentage of teen births in the nation and the highest percentage of births to white teenagers. "A lot of people don't want to recognize adolescent pregnancy as a problem," said state Health Commissioner Carlos Hernandez, M.D., "but teenage births are producing devastating health, social and economic consequences not only for the individuals involved but also for the entire state. "As the state agency that is charged with protecting the public health, the Department for Health Services must make an effort to reduce the number of teenage pregnancies."

The department recently launched a statewide educational campaign aimed at Kentucky's teenagers and community leaders. It also has funded local pregnancy prevention projects throughout the state. A $700,000 appropriation from the 1986 General Assembly, the first state money ever set aside for family planning programs, funds the initiative and the series of community grants.

The department's "Get the Facts" campaign urges teenagers to make responsible choices regarding sexual behavior, to get reliable information and to seek advice from someone who is trusted. The publications are designed to help teenagers separate myths from truth by dispelling notions such as "everyone is doing it," "having sex proves maturity," and "pregnancy can't happen to me."

Thousands of packets containing brochures, posters and pamphlets are being mailed across the state to civic groups, ministers, school counselors and teachers, physicians and clinics, and teenage organizations.

"We want to inform Kentuckians of the magnitude of the problem because we realize that solutions must come from the community level," Hernandez said. Along those lines, the department has granted $300,000 to locally-initiated teenage pregnancy prevention projects in 10 area development districts, he said. "Communities vary greatly in Kentucky, and this problem is not confined to large urban areas," he said. "Each city, small town and rural area has to find its own solution."

"If we want to reduce the number of young girls who become pregnant every year, we must make Kentuckians realize that this is a problem everywhere in the state," Hernandez said. "We are talking about the future of our children, and I know of no other issue that is more important for us to consider."

Some facts that the campaign stresses are:

- *Babies born to teenagers are two or three times more likely to die in their first year of life than babies born to women in their twenties.
- *Unwanted teenage pregnancies are associated with serious health consequences, including a greater incidence of premature and low birth-weight babies, mental retardation, infant and maternal mortality, and physical or emotional neglect and abuse.
- *Half of all teen mothers are single parents, facing almost certain poverty.
- *Eighty percent of pregnant teens age 17 and under never finish high school, making it extremely hard to find a job. Those who become fathers before age 18 are about 40 percent less likely to graduate from high school.
- *Teen marriages are two to three times more likely to end in divorce.

Among the projects funded by the department is a Big Sandy district family planning program.

Woman's Health

IF YOU'RE PREGNANT, BUCKLE UP

Harry S. Jonas, M.D. President,
The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists

Sue B. is a well-informed young woman who is pregnant. She has read all the latest books and articles and is doing everything possible to insure a healthy pregnancy—eating right, getting enough sleep, exercising regularly, and seeing her doctor.

Yet Sue isn't completely informed, because she neglects one simple thing that could save the life of her unborn baby—buckling her seat belt.

People don't use seat belts for a number of reasons—they forget, the belt is uncomfortable, they're safe drivers, etc. But all these excuses mean nothing against the fact that when a woman is involved in a car accident, she is much less likely to be hurt or killed wearing a safety belt.

This is especially true for Sue and other pregnant women. Wearing a safety belt is much more likely to protect Sue in an accident, and the healthier Sue is, the healthier will be her baby. If Sue is killed in a auto accident, her baby is likely to die, too.

Many people believe that they don't need safety belts because it's safer to be thrown from the car or they can brace themselves in an accident. The facts are that in a 30-mile an hour accident, car passengers are thrown forward with the same force as a fall from a three-story building. As for being trapped in the car, people thrown from a car are 25 times more likely to die than those held in by safety belts.

Some pregnant women believe that a safety belt may hurt their unborn child. The fact is that the fetus is extremely well protected within the mother by amniotic fluid, the uterus and other organs, muscles, and bones.

There is the proper way to wear a safety belt during pregnancy. The seat portion of the belt should go under the abdomen, resting on the hip bones. Do not place the seat belt across the abdomen. The shoulder part of the belt should go between the breasts. Adjust both the shoulder and lap belts as snugly as is comfortably possible.

Now that she wears a safety belt every time she steps in a car, Sue is really doing everything for a healthy pregnancy. She also knows that starting with the ride home from the hospital with her new baby, she will make sure that her baby is always in a car seat. More than half of the 50 states have passed laws that make children's car seats mandatory. But law or not, car seats help keep healthy babies healthy.

Single, free copies of "Seat Belt Use During Pregnancy" (p-018) are available by sending a stamped, self-addressed, business size envelope along with the name of the booklet to: The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, Resource Center, 600 Maryland Ave., SW, Washington, DC 20024.

It appears as if the gap between man and ape is closing, says National Wildlife magazine. A five-year experiment at Central Washington University has shown that chimps can learn American Sign Language from each other. One young chimp, Loulis has learned over 50 signs from Washoe, the more famous female who acquired the language 20 years ago.

Teacher Grants May Aid Student Writers

Teachers of any subject in grades seven through 10 who have creative methods of getting students to write may be eligible for money from the Kentucky Department of Education to finance their ideas.

The maximum amount of funding ranges from $2,500 for a one-semester grant to a teacher to $45,000 for a 1½-year district grant. Grant information and applications have been mailed to superintendents, instructional supervisors and middle and high school principals. The application deadline is Sept. 26.

Funds will be available beginning in January for projects for one semester, the school year or three semesters.

"We are looking for proposals that will improve writing instruction and student writing performance, reflect an understanding of composition instruction and are new to the school or to educational thought," Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald said.

Proposals should discuss specific local problems, objectives for improving students' writing and the teaching of writing, activities and materials needed, procedures to evaluate the program and a budget.

U.S. Army Offers Education Aid

The G-I Bill Plus the Army College Fund, the U.S. Army's educational financial aid package, is one of the most generous benefits packages available anywhere, an Army recruiter said recently. It is especially rewarding, considering state, federal and private scholarship money has become increasingly difficult to obtain in recent years, he said.

The offer can be obtained with a two, three or four-year enlistment. The maximum benefit for a two-year enlistment is $17,000; for a three-year enlistment, $22,800 and for a four-year enlistment, $25,200.

"The G-I Bill Plus the Army College Fund is a tremendous opportunity for any young man and woman who wants to get higher education," said Staff Sergeant Robert Gordon, Station Commander of the Army Recruiting Station here. "We've found that one of the greatest concerns young people have today is how they are going to pay for their college or vocational education."

A man or woman participating in the G-I Bill Plus the Army College Fund begins receiving their educational funds after they have completed their enlistment. Monthly checks arrive in their mailbox shortly after they enter school.

History Of English Language Is Traced

"The Story of English," a major new nine-part series, premieres on Tuesday, September 16, at 9:00 p.m. on KET. Hosted by Robert MacNeil, the series traces the evolution of the English language from its earliest use by a small tribe to its development into day's most universal language.

It is estimated that over 320 million people—a tenth of the world's population—speak English as their first language; hundreds of millions more speak it as a second tongue. English is the language of more than half the world's ten thousand newspapers. Three quarters of the world's mail is in English and more than half of the world's technical and scientific periodicals are in English. Although Chinese with nearly a billion speakers surpasses it numerically, English, in terms of global range and influence, is by far the most important.

The production team of "The Story of English" traveled to 16 countries across five continents while trying to uncover where English got its momentum, what particular qualities let it thrive and grow and why it succeeded where other languages failed.

The series begins on September 16 with "An English Speaking World," exploring the spread and influence of English around the globe. On September 23, "The Mother Tongue" examines the first 1,000 years of the language's history, through the times of Chaucer. And on September 30, "A Muse of Fire" focuses on the influence of Shakespeare, the Bible and the spread of English to America.

"The Story of English" is presented by MacNeil-Lehrer-Gannett Productions/BBC.

Crops Progressing Despite Need For More Rainfall

Despite heavy rains in many parts of the Commonwealth recently, Kentucky soil moisture remains 82 percent short or very short, according to the Kentucky Agricultural Statistics Service.

"Three Kentucky weather reporting stations received two or more inches of rain," said Agriculture Commissioner David E. Boswell. "However, five stations reported a half inch or less rainfall. While the weather has been perfect for topping and cutting tobacco and harvesting hay, we do need a good, soaking rain in nearly every part of the Commonwealth."

As of Aug. 17, 69 percent of the burley crop had been topped. This compares with 86 percent topped at this time last year and 58 percent for the five-year average. About 16 percent of the burley had been cut by last Sunday. This compares with 10 percent cut last year at this time and the five-year average of 2 percent.

Approximately 75 percent of the dark tobacco crop has been topped. About 17 percent of the dark tobaccos have been cut.

There are no major problems yet with early-housed tobacco, according to the statistics service. The overall condition of tobacco in the Commonwealth is rated 4 percent very poor, 16 percent poor, 67 percent fair, 12 percent good and 1 percent excellent.

As of Aug. 1, burley yields were expected to average 2,050 pounds per acre.

Corn for grain yield per acre is expected to be down from last year. This year growers are expecting to get 88 bushels per acre, compared to 102 bushels yielded per acre last year.

The crop is rated 1 percent very poor, 16 percent poor, 41 percent fair, 40 percent good and 12 percent excellent by reporters for the statistics service.

Development of the corn crop continues ahead of normal with 90 percent of the acreage in the dough or beyond stage. Sixty-four percent of the acreage has reached the dent or beyond stage.

With 23 percent of the crop mature or harvested, harvest activity will be picking up. This compares with 9 percent of the crop at this stage a year ago and 1 percent at this stage for the five-year average.

Corn for grain harvest is 2 percent complete for the state, and silage harvest is also underway in many areas. Some fields originally intended for grain will be cut for silage because of dry conditions.

Soybeans continue to benefit from any rainfall. The condition of the crop was rated 1 percent very poor, 5 percent poor, 30 percent fair, 63 percent good and 1 percent excellent.

Beans are blooming or beyond on 83 percent of the acreage, and pods are setting on 41 percent of the acreage.

Soybeans yields are currently expected to average 28 bushels per acre, down from the 34 bushels per acre harvest last year.

Hay and pasture acreage is reported in mostly poor to fair condition. Some cattlemen are already feeding hay although hay yields will be reduced by the dry weather.

Sorghum continues to be rated in mostly fair condition by the statistics service.

British Comedy Series Begins

Life is beginning to turn brown around the edges for 46-year-old Reginald Perrin. His eccentric solutions to a mid-life crisis are told in "The Fall and Rise of Reginald Perrin." This 21-part comedy series encores Saturdays, beginning September 20 at 11:00 p.m. on KET.

When we meet Reginald he is a senior sales executive with Sunshine Desserts and lives in a select outer London suburb. His marriage to Elizabeth appears to be happy and the couple's somewhat unsatisfactory children have moved away from home.

However, life at Sunshine isn't. Reggie just doesn't have it in him anymore to bubble with excitement over the latest Sunshine craze—exotic ices. However, there are younger men willing to demonstrate enthusiasm for new products to Sunshine's pompous boss, C.J.

Life becomes too much for Reggie. Leaving a neat pile of his clothes on a lonely beach, he emerges after a fake suicide with a completely new personality. His wife Elizabeth becomes his new wife. As Martin Welbourne, Reggie lands a job at his old firm. However, Martin likes Sunshine even less than Reggie did. A series of misadventures leads Reggie to form his own company—selling the kinds of gifts you would love to give people you hate—and to establish a commune.

Vegetable Judges Win Fair Honors

The Floyd County 4-H vegetable judging team won state championships in both the 9-10-year-old division and the junior division at the Kentucky State Fair.

Ben Moore, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Budge Moore, of Garrett, was the champion of the 9-10 year old division. He is a member of the Garrett 4-H Club. John Martin, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Martin, of Langley, was state champion in the junior division. He is also a member of the Garrett 4-H Club.

Jeff Moore was the reserve champion in the junior division. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Moore, of Garrett. Other Floyd 4-H judges winning blue ribbon awards were Travis Martin and Frank Martin.

...about your Social Security

Social Security Overpayments Can Be Avoided

If you get Social Security checks, promptly report any changes that may affect your benefits. In this way, you can avoid an overpayment...and possibly a penalty.

The biggest cause of overpayments is not reporting or underreporting earnings from working. Keep in mind that some payments must be withheld if you are under 70 and your 1986 earnings exceed: $7,800 if you are 65 through 69; or $5,760 if you are under 65. If you earn over the annual limit, generally $1 in benefits should be withheld for each $2 of excess earnings.

Let's say you retired 2 years ago and now plan to take a part-time job. Or maybe you're already working and expect a pay increase. If you're under 70 and your 1986 earnings will go over the annual limit, let Social Security know.

There are special rules, which include medical considerations, if you work while getting disability checks. Any work you do must be reported. You must also report any medical improvement if you get these payments.

Following are additional events that must be reported to prevent an overpayment: Death of a beneficiary; marriage of a dependent or survivor; payee no longer has custody of a beneficiary; change of address.

For more information about reporting responsibilities, read the booklet you got with your benefit award letter. If you have any questions, contact any Social Security office. The Big Sandy area Social Security office is located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. The telephone number is listed in your local telephone directory under U.S. Government.

The average combination lock has from 100,000 to 1,000,000 possible combinations.

November 1781, The Continental Congress elected John Hanson as the first "President of the United States in Congress Assembled." George Washington, later to be the first President of the United States of America, wrote to congratulate Hanson on his "appointment to fill the most important seat in the United States." Cancer Hopeline

QUESTION: Two friends of mine have recently been diagnosed with cancer. I really don't know what to do or say. I want to visit them but I'm afraid of saying the wrong thing. What should I do—how should I act?

ANSWER: Lost or strained friendships are one of the real heartbreaks people with cancer face. Still, many people feel, as you do, that they don't know how to act around their friends who have cancer. Yet, there are really no right or wrong ways to act. The best you can offer is to be natural, to be yourself. Let your intuition be your guide.

One way to help ease communication is to not only ask—"How are you feeling?"—but also "what are you feeling?" Some people are very willing to talk about their illness and what they're feeling, and are simply waiting for a sign from their friends that they too are willing to talk. Still, you should respect the wishes of a friend who is not willing or not ready to talk. Others may want to talk one day and not the next.

What may be needed most is someone to listen, someone who doesn't necessarily have to "do" anything. You can listen to expressions of feelings or act as a sounding board for ideas about future plans. You can help focus anger or anxiety by helping your friend think about the different causes of these feelings—their job, money and so forth.

Patients sometimes "test" those closest to them, by asking leading questions. You should be open and honest, acknowledging what you don't know.

Your concern about saying the wrong thing is understandable. However, most people can appreciate and understand a friend willing to risk saying the wrong thing—than one who chooses to say nothing. The encouragement and support of friends often helps patients realize that they have not changed simply because they have cancer. Your support may give them the courage to resume their former activities and return to as normal a life as their illness permits.

For more information on communicating with the cancer patient call the Cancer Information Service at 1-800-4-CANCER and ask for Taking Time: Support for People With Cancer. Or write to the Cancer Information Service, McDowell Cancer Network, 800 Rose Street, Lexington, Ky. 40536. The Cancer Information Service is a program of the Kentucky Community Cancer Program.

SADDLE SORES

COPYRIGHT 1986 KVMA
Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association
Summer in Kentucky means, among other things, an increase in horseback riding either for recreation or show purposes.

Many of these riders may be new owners and not accomplished in care of the animal. Others may simply get careless or assume that the simple maladies have just gone away.

Whatever the reason, veterinarians still see an occasional old-fashioned saddle sore. Which is a shame, because it is so easily preventable.

Common sense is the best way to prevent saddle sores.

Check the shape of the saddle and how well it fits the horse. A saddle built for a round-backed horse, such as a quarter horse, will not usually be a correct fit on a high-withered horse such as a saddlebred. It may irritate and cause pressure sores.

Check from time to time to be sure the underside of the saddle is smooth, that no rails are protruding, that no debris has been caught under the saddle. A nail or a lump under the saddle will feel to the horse like a rock in your shoe feels to you.

Always brush the back of the horse to remove debris, and then lay the saddle on the animal a bit forward of where you want it, then slide it back. This smooths the hair and keeps it from bunching up under the saddle, which can also cause sores.

Be sure the saddle is snug on the back of the horse. A loose saddle sliding back and forth can cause sores, just as wearing a shoe that is too large can cause blisters.

Sometimes horses not accustomed to wearing saddles will get an irritation near the elbow, where the girth fits around the barrel. This compares to a blister caused by a new pair of shoes. The remedy is to gradually break a horse into wearing a saddle. Never let the skin of the horse's belly bunch up under the girth.

The prevention seems simple and it is, but if sores develop the remedy is inconvenient—rest from the saddle. The animal can probably be ridden bareback, but on the other hand the condition can become serious if aggravated.

Injuries can proceed from the skin area into the deeper soft and bony tissues, if aggravated.

If you notice saddle sores or harness gall (you'll recognize it), at least phone your veterinarian. He will advise you on the best way to treat it (usually simple, if noticed early) as well as how to prevent it.

PSEUDORABIES

With the increasing emphasis being placed on rabies prevention, it might be well to note that a disease called pseudorabies occurs occasionally in Kentucky.

Primarily a disease of swine, it is also known in cattle, sheep, dogs, cats, raccoons, opossums, skunks and some other wild animals.

It can be confusing to a lay person, because in both diseases there may be throat paralysis which results in drooling of saliva and general malaise, and in both diseases infected cattle may bellow constantly. Dogs are generally not aggressive, but cats, after a period of sluggishness, may mew with persistence and avoid being caught.

The causative agent is Herpesvirus suis, and it is generally spread by swine or virus-laden swine tissue used for food.

Its incidence in Kentucky is extremely low, yet control of the disease depends upon vigilance and isolation of infected animals.

Its primary effect is economic, with many midwestern swine producers suffering heavy losses due to the disease. Symptoms of psudorabies are variable.

Baby pigs may die suddenly without showing any symptoms. They may also live for several days and show such symptoms as vomiting, diarrhea, listlessness, weakness, loss of appetite and temperatures exceeding 105 degrees.

The central nervous system may also be involved, with such symptoms as incoordination, violent shaking, circling, paddling and convulsions. For animals under two weeks of age, the death rate may reach 100 percent. After weaning, pigs seem to acquire resistance with increasing age and while the same symptoms may be seen, the death rate comes down to between 5 and 10 percent at six months of age.

In mature swine, death may occur but clinical signs are usually more mild and may go undetected.

In addition to the symptoms seen in pigs, adult swine may cough or sneeze, may develop conjunctivitis orgo. blind, may develop middle ear infections and may develop reproductive problems.

Abortions, weak pigs, mummies, fetal reabsorption, birth of shaker pigs and early deaths of entire litters are common when a pregnant sow is infected.

No therapeutic drugs are useful against the virus, control depends entirely upon prevention. Both attenuated and killed virus vaccines are available. Swine herds should be protected from wild animals and from exposure to other swine not known to test negative for the disease.

Man is believed to be resistant to the disease, but because of incomplete research there is no definitive knowledge. Most health professionals treat the virus with respect, both from common sense and because several species of subhuman primates have been found to be susceptible.

If you suspect pseudorabies in your animals, consult your veterinarian. Simple and definitive tests are available, and he is quite knowledgeable about prevention.

Star Lore

By Fred Cooper Tichenor

Dream on, Sagittarius!

ARIES (Mar 21-Apr 21) Don't have any dealings with "the judge" this week, s/he will be stern. Expect to receive an important message while you are at work. You will get some bad news from a Libra over the weekend. A fight with the loved one could occur in public if you don't bite your tongue.

TAURUS (Apr 22-May 21) This can be the best time of your life if you'll do what's "right". A most exciting love affair is in the mill, is your stream racing? Don't be a loof or play hard-to-get, you'll spoil your chances. Big and exciting problems with the children can be expected this weekend.

GEMINI (May 23-Jun 21) You will be unusually concerned with your health this week - about time. You may be a holy-terror over the smallest trifle at home. Watch for a message that could mean a new fun beginning. Now is the time to strike it rich, from a new enterprise, something you've created, or maybe even the lottery.

CANCER (Jun 22-Jul 20) You will think you're very underprivileged this week - look around at your relatives and neighbors. Doing for your family should be your number one priority. A raise or bonus could make it possible to get married. Your mother may interfere with plans for the weekend.

LEO (Jul 21-Aug 20) A newspaper story could have exciting ramifications for you this week. No romance for you now, as a matter of fact, you'll be lucky if anyone of the opposite sex speaks to you. A neighbor could cause trouble this weekend. A good time for planning your future but not for making any moves.

VIRGO (Aug 21-Sep 22) You will be much more self-confident than usual this week. This can be the most creatively productive period in your life - don't falter. The invitation you've been waiting for will arrive this weekend. Do something very special with the children, you'll get as much out of it as they do.

LIBRA (Sep 23-Oct 25) You will be cold and dispassionate this week - what's going on? If the new moon doesn't bring you out of it, nothing will. You will be strongly drawn to a new plan of action, but it could be worse than what you already have. Don't be afraid to "march to a different drummer" this weekend.

SCORPIO (Oct 26-Nov 23) Moral or ethical problems will descend on you this week. You may not be in an optimistic mood, but you are very practical and down-to-earth. Great weekend for social activities nothing earth-shattering, just plain fun. A Libra of the opposite sex spells exciting and expensive trouble.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 24-Dec 21) Listen to your dreams, there is a message trying to get through. The new moon in Virgo indicates it probably has to do with the career. You want lots of freedom now and anyone or anything that stands in your way is introuble. A female acquaintance will cause you some heartburn over the weekend.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 17) With Neptune is your own sign for the next ten years, your ideals will assume greater importance. Pessimism is your worst enemy and is not easy to overcome. You will be working for a cause this weekend but you won't be very practical. One thing is for certain, people will notice you.

AQUARIUS (Jan 18-Feb 16) You will change from cold to warm to hot this week. If you want to establish a new image for yourself, now is the time to do it. You will be seeing some of your unusual friends this weekend and it could cause trouble. A new love affair will get started but it will be a difficult one.

PISCES (Feb 17-Mar 20) Hard work doesn't seem to be accomplishing anything now. Find someone to help you establish lifetime goals and things will turn around soon. A long range love affair could change your life. This would be a good weekend for meditation, especially on your most private dreams.

To Wed September 20

Mr. and Mrs. C.G. Mullins, of Lexington, Ky., announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Miss Paula Sue Mullins, to Mr. James Ellis Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Howard, of Pyramid, Kentucky.

Miss Mullins is a graduate of Bryan Station High School and Eastern Kentucky University. She is a member of Delta Zeta sorority and is employed by Columbia Gas.

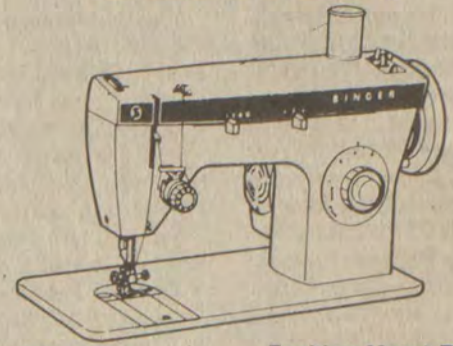

Mr. Howard is a graduate of Maytown High School and the University of Kentucky. He is also employed by Columbia Gas.

The gracious custom of an open wedding will be observed Saturday, September 20, at 2:30 p.m. at Parkway Baptist Church in Lexington, Kentucky. After a trip to the Virgin Islands, the couple will reside in Lexington.

Before King George IV of England ordered a set of boots made to fit each of his feet, shoes were designed to be worn on either foot.
