

Michael D. Vance Announces Candidacy For Council

Michael D. Vance, of Prestonsburg, has announced his candidacy for the city council of Prestonsburg.

Vance is a Floyd county native who has lived on Highland Avenue in Prestonsburg for twelve years. There he resides with his wife, Leah Dane, and their seven year old son, Wesley.

The candidate is a 1970 graduate of Eastern Kentucky University with an AB Degree, majoring in Political Science. In 1982, he earned the Master of Business Administration Degree from Morehead State University.

Vance is employed by Mountain Comprehensive Care of Prestonsburg where he has worked for sixteen years. Presently he holds the position of Program Director for Administration/Human Resources. He also serves as a part-time faculty member, teaching Economics, at Prestonsburg Community College.

As an active member of Fitzpatrick Baptist Church, West Prestonsburg, Vance serves as a Deacon, Sunday School Teacher and choir member.

"I have always had a desire to serve my community and my neighbors," says Vance. "The years in which I have worked directly with people and listened to their problems have prepared me well to understand situations and to seek reasonable solutions. This quality along with my on-going community involvement, church work and my education should qualify me to serve as a reliable, honest and fair council member."

Vance's civic involvement includes a current term as Chairperson of the Big Sandy ADD Health Planning Council. He has been an active member of that group since 1979. The Governor recently appointed Vance to Kentucky's Champions Against Drugs where he serves as co-chairperson to this area's Regional Action Group. Vance represents Floyd county to the District 35 Selective Service Board. He is a member of the recently chartered Floyd County Adult Literacy Council and also serves as a Vice-chairman for that program.

Vance states "I am not aligned with any other candidates or factions. It would be my hope to assume a position on the Council which would provide fair, intelligent and enthusiastic representation for the citizens of Prestonsburg."

Over 55? Join Governor's Pacesetters At Archer Center, April 28

Get out your walking shoes Kentucky, it's time to lace up and get moving. That message will be delivered when the Governor's Pacesetters holds the first of 15 walking clinics in Lexington, April 16.

The walking clinic will be held here at 2 p.m., Tuesday, April 28, at the Geo. P. Archer Senior Citizens' Center at Archer Park.

Perry county will hold its clinic at 10 the same day at the Perry County Park, Hazard.

Gov. Martha Layne Collins unveiled the Governor's Pacesetters, March 31, as one of four new festival events for this year's Bluegrass State Games.

"This new program is yet another way we can offer to all Kentuckians a year-round physical fitness program that is fun and healthy," Collins said.

Lexington's Turfand Mall has been chosen as the site for the first clinic since the city will be hosting the 1987 Bluegrass State Games, July 31-Aug. 2.

The 15 walking clinics will be held in the state's Area Development Districts leading up to the Games finals in July. They are for persons over the age of 55.

Participants in the clinic will receive a walking kit to help them along the way. The kit includes a registration form, information about Pacesetters and a walking log to be used for keeping track of progress.

Homemakers' Camp

The 15th Annual Homemakers' Camp is scheduled for June 3-4-5 at the Area 4-H Center.

Cost of the three day camp for food, lodging and registration will be $30. Class cost will be extra.

Hear From Students

We, the students of Wheelwright High School, would like to add our comments to the growing controversy over the location of the new school. We have heard from parents, grandparents, concerned citizens in our school district, and concerned citizens outside our school district. We feel it is time to hear from those who will attend the new school—the students.

If, at the beginning of the search for a site, someone had said, "Let's get together and find a central location that will be fair to both McDowell and Wheelwright," our student body and our parents would have been happy. However, the first inkling we had of the site location was the statement in the Floyd County Times that the new school would be at Minnie. That's like buying a house and not letting the future inhabitants see it first. We began to see the problems that could exist for us. The board has stated that 67 percent of the students to be served by the school live from Hi Hat to the southern end of the county, which is Weeksbury, Abner Mt., etc. We have one student who lives in the head of Weeksbury and who travels approximately ten miles to get to Wheelwright High School. Add that travel time to the time to reach Minnie and determine the time pickup in Weeksbury would have to be made. Could this student participate in extracurricular activities? It would be extremely hard to return for ball practice, academic team practice, or any thing else after the school day was over.

One point we keep reading is the matter of the fence to keep the students from falling over the cliff. Fences are for security also. If you don't believe this, go to Allen Central. They have a fence and no cliff. Besides that, we will be at the school for an education, not to fall off a cliff. We are not saying it could not happen, but we don't feel that is very likely to happen.

Together, we can have a beautiful school. We can excel in academics, sports, you name it. We, the students, can get along. We think it's time to see the adults get along also.

We're taught to use facts. Instead of repeating what you're told, and adding to it—get the facts. Come to the site. Look at the plans. Think of the students who will use this school, not the individual who has something to gain financially by molding your ideas to his.

Finally and most importantly, please ponder this question. If this school is to serve McDowell and Wheelwright, why should it be built between McDowell and Martin?

Takes Issue

I would like to respond to Louise Houghton's article written 03/18/87. She printed or caused to be printed false information given to her by an ombudsman from the Big Sandy ADD office.

The facility at Hager Hill, Ky. called TRC of Jenny Wiley was listed in the "box" as an Intermediate or ICF facility when in fact it is a Personal Care home. Also listed in this "box" for TRC of Paintsville was a "conditional" rating and this rating should have read "unrated" facility.

The public is welcome to visit our home at anytime. The Triad Medical Group, Inc. located in Yadkinville, N.C. bought these homes 16 months ago and has spent thousands of dollars in improvements to both physical plants. They have doubled staffing to provide for each resident excellent care. This care is given with love and concern by a very dedicated staff.

New Activity Directors were hired for each facility. New equipment has been bought to add a new and exciting dimension of fun for our residents.

Mrs. Jo Ladaga (multi-degreed) is our dietary consultant. She spent many hours planning new menus, holding in-services for training the dietary staff, offering encouragement to them, but most importantly the meals are well-balanced and nutritious. Physicians may order special diets for any medical problem their resident might have, i.e. diabetes, hypertension, gallbladder/renal disease, many others.

Both facilities have licensed staff for the first time in their history. This has improved the quality of care to our residents and offered teaching and training through in-service programs. Protocols have been initiated for new admissions, transfers, visits to doctors offices and the list is long for all the good things that have been accomplished in these past 16 months.

New beds, mattresses have been added, painting inside and out, flood control, storage buildings, again the list is too long. But it has happened and we are very proud of these accomplishments with one purpose only in mind and that is to give each resident who is placed by a family or personally choose to live with us, the very highest standard of care.

This ombudsman in her one article did not mention any of the good things all of us here at TRC of Paintsville/Jenny Wiley are trying to do. She doesn't need to "raid" us and I quote from her information or be the "ultimate snoop", she is welcomed any time to come and look, talk with and see for herself that what I am saying at least are truthful and positive facts. We are doing a good job. "Old things have passed away, behold all things are new!" We are excited about our future!

Help for Parents

As April is Child Abuse Prevention month, I thought your readers would be interested in the resource available to them from Parents Anonymous. These self-help groups are not only for parents with an abuse problem, but also for those who fear they have the potential for abuse and want to improve their parenting skills. Parents Anonymous recognizes six forms of abuse: verbal abuse, physical abuse, physical neglect, emotional abuse, emotional neglect, and sexual abuse. Independent studies have shown that Parents Anonymous is very effective in the prevention and treatment of abusive behavior, and that physically harmful behavior stops almost immediately when a parent becomes a member of a Parents Anonymous chapter. The longer a parent attends Parents Anonymous the more decrease there is in verbal abuse.

Most parents feel they are the only ones having parenting problems. When they come to a Parents Anonymous chapter meeting they find they are not alone and that other parents have the same fears and frustrations that they have. They share their problems and learn from each other new and more appropriate ways to deal with their anger. They work at changing their attitudes and learning to handle their problems in more constructive ways. The parents learn to identify situations that will trigger an abuse episode and how to stop the abuse before it occurs. They share positive parenting methods and support each other in the implementation of them. By exchanging phone numbers, the parents have continued support available to them during the week. In case of a crisis, they can call someone for help. By helping each other conquer their problems, they also help themselves to become better parents.

For information on the Wayland-Garrett area chapter call 358-9190. For information on the Prestonsburg chapter call 886-2265. The toll-free Helpline at 1-800-432-9251 is also available for help or information 24 hours a day.

Site "Unsafe"

When you approach the proposed location of the new school at Hi Hat, stop and take a good look at the rock cliff that the school board members want to build the new school on. Listen to what the school board's own expert is telling everyone about this site. The board hired this expert to do this job on the school site for them—and still the people and the board members won't listen.

I would rather for my grandchildren to be bused 30 miles to a safe school than next door to an unsafe school—and site.

Summer Camp For All

Summer camp is a big event in any kid's life. But in the past, children who suffered from asthma or cystic fibrosis were denied summer camp fun because of all the precautions that had to be taken to watch over and continue their medications and treatments.

No more! The American Lung Association of Kentucky, in cooperation with Lung Associations in Southwest Indiana and Southwestern Ohio, is offering these children an opportunity to attend Camp SUPERKIDS—a special camp for those with asthma and cystic fibrosis.

Around-the-clock medical and health care is provided to assure a safe, healthy and happy camping experience for the children. Doctors, nurses and respiratory therapists see that medication and treatment are followed as prescribed by each child's physician. A medical committee screens all camp applications.

Camp SUPERKIDS offers an active camping program on beautiful wooded grounds and provides classes in arts and crafts, outdoor activities, swimming and asthma education. Camp counselors guide the SUPERKIDS through fun-filled days and evenings to make this a great week to remember.

The ALA of Kentucky has a limited number of scholarships for families in financial need who want to send their child to camp SUPERKIDS. For additional information, call or write Mike Stauffer, American Lung Association of Kentucky, P.O. Box 969, Louisville, Ky. 40201, (502) 363-2652.

Thanks Abuse Workers

April has been proclaimed Child Abuse Prevention Month by Governor Collins and the Congress of the United States. There were 38,904 cases of child abuse and neglect reported to Kentucky's Department for Social Services during fiscal year 1985. The number of unreported cases is estimated at three to four times that figure.

The Kentucky Council on Child Abuse would like to recognize several local volunteers who have given of their time and energy so that the families in your community may be strengthened. Being a parent is a difficult job, and likewise, being a child is not always easy either. The volunteers have provided many of your local families with the support and nurturance needed to ensure that the children of today have a healthy tomorrow.

Thank you to: Hugh and Alice Adams, Carolyn Buckley, Lois Chaffins, Laura Cornett, Janie Hall, Patricia and Charles Stone, Pam Ward and all of the other local volunteers for all you have given to the Kentucky Council on Child Abuse, Parents Anonymous and your local community.

PCC Panel Members Discuss Poverty, Social Problems

By Joe Porter

A "poverty panel" met Thursday at Prestonsburg Community College to discuss poverty and related social problems. Professor Leo Weddle, who chaired the group, called poverty, "the mother of social problems."
PCC Professor Hailu Bugale criticized the welfare system for encouraging people to remain dependent on it, and Martin Countian editor Homer Marcum talked about the shortcomings of President Lyndon B. Johnson's War on Poverty as it pertained to eastern Kentucky. He said the money would have been better spent on education and road building because, "economic opportunity comes with better roads."

Eula Hall, founder of the Mud Creek Clinic, defined the poor as people who are homeless, uneducated, unemployed, hungry, abused, lonely, and people with no way out. Hall blamed government for wasting money and creating programs that don't reach the people. She pointed out from her own experience that the poorest kids always have the hardest time in school. She hopes that the government will create jobs in eastern Kentucky and suggested road building and beautification projects as two ways to put people to work.

Grady Stumbo's campaign coordinator for eastern Kentucky, Robin Webb, called for reform in the education system, reinvestment to stop the loss of industry, and a concentrated effort to solve the problems of teenage pregnancy, school dropouts, and adult illiteracy, as specific ways to combat poverty. Alice Lloyd professor Christine Stumbo said that poor people are more likely to be afflicted with mental illness, be arrested, suffer from drug addiction, alcoholism, and health problems. They are also more likely to be divorced, suffer from spouse and child abuse, and die at an earlier age.

Charles Hackworth, a food stamp supervisor in Floyd county, was also a panelist. The event was held during Professor Weddle's class on Contemporary Social Problems and organized by Brenda Mullins, a sophomore from Hi Hat.

Fifty Percent Of Dropouts "Gifted"

"Research by a leading expert on gifted education shows that 50 percent of the dropouts are gifted," according to Rebecca Davidson, teacher at Clay County High School, who delivered the keynote address at the fourth annual Dropout Prevention Conference banquet.

"A gifted child may know the answer to every question, but the teacher does not need the same child to answer every question, so he is overlooked," Davidson focused on the importance of reaching out to the children and the responsibility of educators to never lose the student. "A child is today-oriented; he needs success today," she emphasized.

More than 300 teachers, parents, students, counselors, administrators and coordinators attended the conference held in Louisville April 2-3.

"Kentucky still has a dropout problem, but our dropout rate is steadily declining," said Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald, who kicked off the fourth annual statewide conference with a review of Kentucky's progress in dropout prevention.

City Proposes Measure To Clean Up, Beautify

By Joe Porter

Ideas on how to clean up and beautify Prestonsburg this spring were discussed at Monday night's City Council meeting, and City Administrator Fred A. James proposed a range of measures to brighten the city.

James called for a concerted effort with the state and county governments, as well as clubs and organizations and businesses, to clean up litter and trash. The administrator would like to organize clean-up blitzes, post anti-litter signs, and put into use new trash containers. He also briefed the council on a rate schedule worked out with Fire Chief Thomas Blackburn for the fire department to wash parking lots for city businesses.

Chief of Police Elmo Allen had his own idea on how to prevent the problem. "If you would talk with the judges about enforcing the litter laws our people could do something about it," Allen said. Councilman William R. Callihan agreed with Allen's suggestion. "If they would fine a few people—word would get around—and you wouldn't see too much more of it."

"I would like to see all of us go out one day with garbage bags and clean up around town," Mayor Ann R. Latta said. She also mentioned that flowers will soon be purchased and displayed and added, "Dogwoods throw off seedlings, and if people want to donate theirs to us, we will plant them in the city."

Councilor Margie N. Osborne said something should be done about the number of vacant lots with abandoned cars and junk strewn in them. Mayor Latta said that she believed there were ordinances on the books to deal with that problem and suggested one remedy might be to try the adopt-a-lot program that is being used in other cities, whereby citizens plant flowers or grow vegetables on the land.

Mayor Latta announced that the Kentucky Municipal League will hold a meeting at the Prestonsburg Holiday Inn, April 29, at 1:00 p.m. to explain and offer insurance coverage to the city under the new KML liability self-insurance Pool Program. The program provides a long-term solution to the fluctuating insurance cycles that have left over 40 Kentucky cities without coverage and others with unexpected major price increases.

In conjunction with Project Second Chance, Mayor Latta proposed and the council passed a one percent salary increase to any city employee who successfully completes their GED. "We're not talking about a lot of money," Mayor Latta said, "and I think a salary incentive might be enough to encourage more people to obtain their high school diplomas."

Mayor Latta has nominated Paul Nunn for another term on the Prestonsburg Housing Commission. Doug Wells, who has served as an auxiliary police officer for 11 years, took over as dispatcher, April 1, and Captain Dickie Campbell was appointed assistant chief of police. Campbell has been on the force for 16 years and has served before as acting police chief on an interim basis. "He's a good man. He does a fine job," Chief Allen said of Campbell.

To squash rumors, Mayor Latta announced that Wal-Mart Department Store will not be leaving Prestonsburg. The Mayor contacted Wal-Mart headquarters in Arkansas and was told that the store was doing good business, and they had no intention of moving it.

The city will soon be advertising a surplus property sale. Up for sale will be two automobiles, two trucks, two Dodge Ram Chargers, fire department equipment, and two bicycles.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served to those present, including, Mabel Jean LeMaster, Beverly Hackworth, Pauline Crisp, Burieta Gearhart, Theckley Short, Lois Ann May, Myrtle Allen, Winifred Blackburn, Jane Wallace, Maman Leslie, Venelia Rinehart, Ortha Meece, Hope Whitten, Virginia Goble, Mollie Hyden, Dorothy Osborne, Sue Moore, Jean Hickman, Paulina Owens, Doty Lafferty, and Jewel Bayes.

English Teachers Will Meet At PCC, April 25

The first spring conference of the newly-formed Eastern Kentucky Council of Teachers of English will be held Saturday, April 25, at Prestonsburg Community College, free of charge to all teachers in the area. More than 300 teachers have been invited.

"We have 10 speakers lined up from local high schools and colleges, and from Eastern Kentucky University and Kentucky State University," said Monnette Sturgill, president. "This conference will be free, but in the future we will have to start charging a fee to attend."

Topics will include "Write More—Grade Less," "Creative Discipline," "Dyslexia, What It Is and Is Not," and "Language Awareness in the Classroom." A roundtable discussion also will be held.

The conference will begin at 9:30 a.m. with coffee and donuts, and will conclude at 4 p.m. All sessions will be held in the Pike Building at PCC.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to thank everyone who helped in anyway during the passing of our brother, Everette Meade. Those who sent flowers, food, or just said a kind word. A special thanks to the Little Rock Old Regular Baptist Church, ministers and members for the love they showed us. And especially to the Nelson-Frazier Funeral Home for their kind and efficient service. May God bless you all.

EUTHANASIA

COPYRIGHT 1987 KVMA
Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association.
The dictionary describes euthanasia as "the act of taking life to relieve suffering."
For many persons today, the word itself has come to be emotionally charged because of the association with the taking of human life, and had come to raise ethical and moral questions of considerable significance.
Yet owners of pets and other animals have used the same word for years in conjunction with treatment of aging and/or injured pets. Still, the idea raises difficult questions for everyone involved.

Some few animal owners, perhaps, are fortunate in the sense that all their animals live healthy lives right into old age, then die in their sleep. Most folks are not so lucky.

Some animals receive injuries so severe that continuation of life means disability and pain. Other animals reach stages of terminal illness where there is constant pain that cannot be neutralized. Still other animals reach an old age in which their body functions fail and their senses degenerate and they simply cannot function.

The animals do not speak our language, they must depend on their owners to understand and act in their best interest. Obviously, there is a question of emotional loss for the owner and his family. There is also a question of guilt, perhaps, when pain and suffering are needlessly prolonged and there is no hope of cure.

Your veterinarian may be able to help you figure out your answers, though he won't decide for you.

Trained as he is in the psychology of animals as companions and the bonding that takes place, he is also aware of the further heartbreak that may be down the road as an animal's condition worsens and there's nothing to be done.

He is bound morally and ethically to answer your questions about your animal's condition honestly and completely, to the best of his ability. He is bound by your decision. It is the service he least likes to perform, he is no more eager to make such a decision as you are but he may be able to be more objective.

The actual means used by veterinarians today is painless. The animal is given an overdose of an anesthetic and he simply never awakens. It is rapid, it is painless. The veterinarian may dispose of the body or you may do it yourself.

Euthanasia is one of the more unpleasant ideas which must be occasionally faced by owners and veterinarians alike. But if you, as an owner, are someday faced with that choice, be aware that your veterinarian understands and is willing to listen as you work your way through the decision.

Bunky Boger, also known as Silver Eagle, was raised near the Wind River Indian Reservation in Wyoming.

Although early day Indians have never been known to have a trained buffalo, the buffalo was the staff of life for the Plains Indians.

Through much time, patience, and understanding, Silver Eagle has turned Cody from a wild beast into a gentle, kind friend. He enjoys traveling around the country so that many Americans who have never seen a buffalo can get acquainted first hand with this remarkable animal.

It's Time To Think About Mower Safety

An estimated 128 Kentucky children under age five were injured in mower-related accidents in 1986—the comparable 1985 figure was 17, according to the state Department for Health Services. The total number of mower-related injuries in 1986 climbed to an estimated 1,349 from 1,130 in 1985. These numbers are based on emergency room data from a random sampling of several Kentucky hospitals. The figures do not include injuries treated by private physicians or clinics. "For the past few years the number of injuries among small children had decreased every year," said E.P. Conyers of the Department for Health Services. "We can't say why the number increased last year, but based on that rise, we strongly urge parents to be aware of how dangerous lawn mowers are.

"A power mower is designed to cut, and it will cut whatever happens to get in its path, whether that be grass, sticks, fingers or toes," said Conyers, manager of the consumer product safety branch. Other injuries that can occur during mowing include bruises or cuts from thrown pebbles or sticks, and burns from hot mufflers, motors and gasoline explosions.

Small children should always be kept away from a power mower and out of the area being mowed, said Conyers. Older model power mowers can throw a small pebble with enough force to bruise, cut or put out an eye. Models manufactured since 1982 are designed to throw loose objects toward the ground rather than outward. Children should never ride with adults on riding lawn mowers, he said. "These machines are made for only one person at a time," he said. "It's dangerous to put two on them even if the second person is a small child. And never let a child operate a power mower, including a riding mower."

"While we saw an increase in the number of injured children, the majority of injuries continues to be among adults," said Conyers. "So everyone needs to be careful, even if there are no children present." There were an estimated 806 mower-related injuries in Kentuckians age 25 and older.

One safety feature on newer model mowers is the "dead-man switch," he said. This device stops the rotating blades within three seconds if the operator lets go of the handle. The object is to prevent the operator from getting hands or fingers cut off while trying to clean out the discharge chute.

"If you have a newer model with safety features," said Conyers, "by all means do not modify it to bypass these devices."

Conyers offers these additional safety tips. "The most frequent accident with riding mowers is tipping over on slopes. When mowing a slope with a riding mower, go up and down the hill. Walking mowers should go across slopes.

"Many cuts and severed fingers and toes are the result of trying to unclog the discharge chute while the blades revolve. "Never get your hands or feet under the mower deck while the blades are running—that's one of the easiest ways to lose a finger or whole hand," he said. "If yours is an older model mower, turn it off and wait until the blades are completely still."

"The mower's muffler and motor get very hot during mowing—be careful not to touch them.

"Gasoline should be added to mowers only when the motor is cool to avoid explosions. And cigarettes should be put out before adding fuel.

"Keep yourself and others clear of the blade housing edge and the discharge chute.

"Pick up stones, wire, toys, dog bones, anything the mower might throw.

"Turn off the mower if you leave it even for a moment.

"Mow forward so that you can see where you're going.

"Wear close-fitting clothes and sturdy, non-slip shoes.

"Do not mow wet grass.

EXPERIENCE

Senate Bill 100 requires all candidates for Clerk to take an examination to prove that they can handle the duties of that office.

I took that examination and passed it. My opponent had his son and daughter-in-law take the test, FOR WHAT REASON? Maybe he had plans for one of them to take over his office. Maybe he thought 24 years was long enough. MAYBE HE REALLY DOESN'T WANT 30 YEARS.

I really think 24 years is long enough, don't you? Twenty-four years is almost half my life. That's long enough!

I'm not asking for 30 years, but I am asking for a chance. Give me that chance and I'll be a full-time Clerk and not just another Hall Flower.

Joins PCC Faculty

Dr. Henry A. Campbell, Jr., director of Prestonsburg Community College, has announced the appointment of Kim DeRossett Stewart to the PCC nursing faculty. The daughter of Lila Prater DeRossett, of Allen, she attended J. H. Allen Central High School and started taking classes at PCC while still a high school junior. Mrs. Stewart received her Associates of Arts degree from PCC and her BSN from Eastern Kentucky University. She has spent several years working in the coronary and ICU unit at Hazard Appalachian Regional Hospital and is now teaching nursing fundamentals at PCC.

She and her husband, Benjie Stewart, reside at Water Gap.

New Equipment Aids Diagnostic Stills

Our Lady of the Way Hospital has increased its diagnostic capabilities through the addition of echocardiogram and ultrasound units.

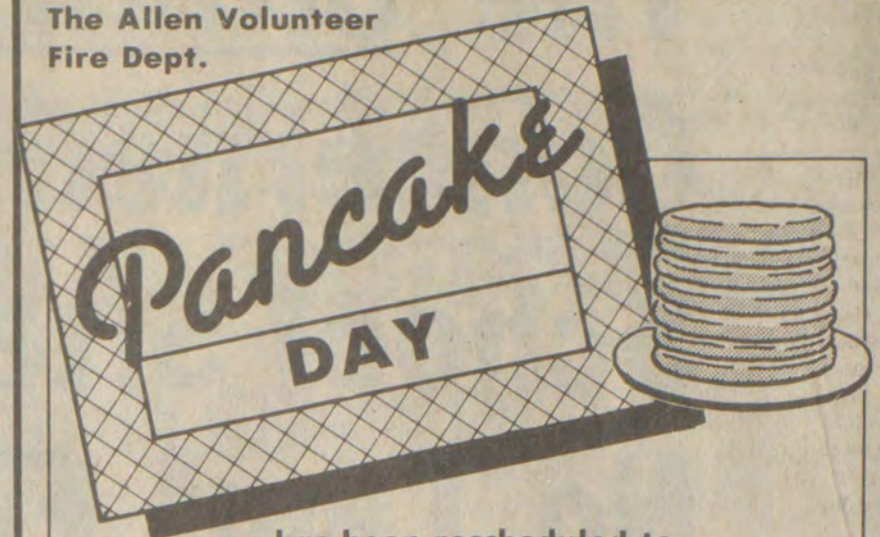

The echocardiogram test is painless and does not take much time. Yet it gives the doctor better information on heart function and damage from heart attack than an electrocardiogram. This test shows how the blood is flowing and how the valves inside the heart are working. From it, the doctor can learn about the patient's congenital heart problems or damages caused by infections like rheumatic fever. Besides giving information regarding blood clots inside the heart, it also indicates whether there is a fluid around the heart.

The ultrasound unit produces images called sonograms through the use of sound waves. Sonograms complement some radiographic procedures (x-rays) by providing more information. While the machine is probably best known for its role in determining the size and health of unborn babies, it is also important in diagnosing the conditions of internal organs such as the spleen, kidneys, and gall bladder.

Both new services are available on inpatient and outpatient bases.

OBSERVES HIDDEN EVENTS WITHIN FORGOTTEN GARDEN

When a finely maintained garden is left alone, plants, moss and ivy, as well as wolf spiders, legless lizards, and bats move in to occupy their former home. "Nature" investigates the natural invasion of a forgotten world when it presents "The Forgotten Garden" Saturday, May 2, at 7 p.m. on KET. "Nature" repeats Sundays at 7 p.m.

Gardening is a popular pastime and one that requires a great deal of work and attention. It is an effort to bring order to nature. A neglected garden, however, looks as if it has been engulfed in chaos. Plants and animals pursue their destinies according to the laws of nature.

Using special camera techniques, the program looks at the garden as a world for the predator and prey, hunter and hunted: a predator spider captures a sepsid fly and injects a deadly poison, and then the spider itself serves as food for a common lizard.

"Nature" is produced by WNET/New York in association with The Nature Conservancy.

Jerry Patton knows that the only way your Commonwealth Attorney can do a good job is to force criminals to trial. Dismissing cases turns criminals loose and plea bargaining lets criminals off with lighter sentences than juries could give them at trial.

The present Commonwealth Attorney's record shows that he is not willing to force criminals to trial where you, the people, as jurors could decide their fate. Instead, it has been his policy to dispose of nearly all criminal charges by plea bargaining and dismissals.

For example, out of 176 indictments issued by the Floyd County Grand Jury in 1985, 27 are still pending, 142 were disposed of by dismissals or plea bargains by the Commonwealth Attorney and only 7 of those 176 cases went to jury trial* and most of those were prosecuted by the Assistant Commonwealth Attorney.

It took very little effort to dismiss and plea bargain those 142 cases in 1985. And that must have made it easy to be Commonwealth Attorney but taking the easy way out doesn't get the job done. As Commonwealth Attorney, Jerry Patton will get the job done by being a working trial lawyer who will prosecute all cases himself. Let's elect him and put a stop to these dismissals and plea bargains.

Two New Businesses Locate At Water Gap Intersection

By Louise Houghton

New construction is springing up at the Water Gap intersection of KY 80 and U.S. 23, including a nightclub that is scheduled to open this month and a refrigerated beer warehouse. One landowner also confirmed that he has been negotiating to bring in a motel chain, but said he has no firm plans at this time.

The Center Stage nightclub, located on the northern corner of the intersection near the office of accountants Burchett and Bottoms, will hold its grand opening April 24-25, said co-worker Kenny Bentley. Beer and wine will be served and live entertainment will be featured, provided initially by the Full House Band. Bentley is drummer for the band and another co-owner, Mark Stephens, plays guitar and keyboard instruments.

"Gee, it feels funny to be on this side of the bar," joked Bentley last week as workers bustled through the nearly complete 5,800-square-foot building. The nightclub is his and Stephens' first venture into running a nightspot, although the band has played at many locations throughout the region, he said. The other owners are Clyde Woods and Earl Mulkey, a local contractor.

Inside the club, the dance floor is a focal point, with moving lights, a bubble machine, and a smoke and fog machine. An eight-foot screen will be used to show music videos. The type of live music offered will vary, Bentley said, but dance music will be emphasized.

Catercorner from the nightclub, on the southern corner of the intersection, Perry Distributors, Inc., of Hazard, is putting up a 15,000-square-foot refrigerated warehouse. Completion date is expected to be August 1, according to manager Evan Campbell.

No new staff will be hired, Campbell added, because the facility will replace the company's existing warehouse at Allen, which is not refrigerated.

James B. Burchett, former owner of the land on which Center Stage now is located, also said that he and a nearby landowner have been negotiating to place a motel near the Burchett and Bottoms office. That plan has not been successful so far, he said.

County Still Has Long Way To Go In Smoothing Path For Wheelchair-Bound

By Louise Houghton

For Prestonsburg attorney John Howard, steps and heavy doors pose the biggest problem.

For Floyd tax commissioner Lovell Hall, the worst obstacle is distance—the number of steps from the nearest parking space to the place he needs to go.

For both men, public telephones and water fountains are almost always placed too high to be used. For them and other handicapped people, the problem of inaccessibility may be encountered almost any day as they go about the activities of ordinary life—voting, shopping, attending church or sports events, or visiting the local post office.

The problem is not limited to people using crutches or wheelchairs, however. Prestonsburg Mayor Ann R. Latta said she first gained "barrier awareness" when her son was an infant and she tried to take him downtown in a stroller. Children often cannot reach public telephones, and they as well as elderly people may have trouble opening heavy doors or climbing steep staircases.

Nationally, about 15 percent of the population is considered "disabled," according to Mike Crowe, Louisville resident who has muscular dystrophy and is touring the state to call attention to the barriers faced by handicapped people. But that percentage does not include people temporarily disabled by an accident or illness, nor does it include elderly people. Old age, which may sap a person's strength and reduce the ability to balance, may be the most common "disability," since eventually it affects almost everyone.

"If you do not die, you're going to become disabled," Crowe pointed out.

Accessibility has improved a great deal in the last 10 years, both here and elsewhere. Curb cuts now allow wheelchairs and strollers to cross streets more easily, and most public buildings now have ramps that bypass their front steps. Many stores have reserved parking spaces for handicapped people near the entrance, to shorten the distance those people have to cover.

But barriers still exist, for a variety of reasons. In some cases, attorney Howard pointed out, the curb cuts or ramps may be constructed so poorly that they cannot be used safely. One such cut at the courthouse annex, he said, is so steep that he feared his wheelchair would flip over backward if he used it.

HANDICAPPED PARKING spot in front of the county courthouse makes the going a little easier for Buddy Adkins, 19, of Hueysville, when he comes to town on business—as long as no able-bodied driver is parked there! While access to public buildings and sidewalks has improved for the wheelchair-bound in recent years, many places are still closed to them—and some non-handicapped drivers are still apt to take their precious parking places.

In other cases, the selfishness of able people is the problem. Tax commissioner Hall, who uses crutches, said that the creation of handicapped parking spaces has greatly improved his ability to get around. But, he added, "there's a lot of times those places are filled—and the car doesn't have any handicapped emblem." Before handicapped spaces were added at Rupp Arena in Lexington, Hall said, he had to take a taxicab to get there for sports events.

Hueysville resident Sally Adkins, whose 19-year-old son uses a wheelchair, said she often tries to talk with non-disabled people who park in handicapped spaces. "Usually they get angry, like I insulted them," she said. "Sometimes it feels like you could get slapped." In a recent poll, she added, 43 percent of able people said they would park in a handicapped spot because they didn't think disabled people deserved special treatment.

Still another reason for some remaining barriers is the adaptability of handicapped people themselves. They may become so accustomed to not using a certain facility that they forget about the barriers that kept them away in the first place. When Howard was asked to name some existing barriers in Prestonsburg, he did not mention the post office because he hasn't been inside it in years. "My father or my secretary has to get my mail," he said when asked about that building specifically.

Postmaster Donald Osborne said he has received only one complaint, several years ago, about the inaccessibility of the building. The front steps are too narrow and too near the street to put in a ramp, he explained, and wheelchair customers are welcome to use the loading ramp at the back. If the ramp is too steep to be safely used, he said, postal clerks will come out to the sidewalk to serve handicapped customers.

The problem may be solved in about five years, Osborne added, because the post office has outgrown its building and he expects to get a new one. The new post office will be accessible, as required by federal law. State policy requires that all state offices be accessible to handicapped people, according to vocational rehabilitation counselor Carl D. Hall, and his office has a list of specifications such as the proper width of doors, steepness of curb cuts and ramps, and space needed in restroom facilities. But the goal is sometimes hard to achieve because many state offices are housed in older buildings that don't easily adapt to the new requirements.

"Our ramp is not exactly what it ought to be," Hall admitted, because his office, like the post office, is very close to the street. But wheelchair clients can and do use it, he added, and the main point is that the effort was made. "You have to do the best you can with what you have," he said.

Making buildings completely accessible is difficult because disabilities vary widely and need different kinds of modifications, added Patricia Reynolds, also a vocational rehabilitation counselor. In addition, she said, the standards for accessibility have changed many times and well-meaning officials have a hard time keeping up with the changes. Local officials tend to be responsive, though, if they are made aware of barrier problems, Reynolds said.

Mayor Latta said she was concerned about the poor curb cuts and other barriers cited recently by handicapped residents, and intends to look into the problem. Adkins, while praising officials for the improvements that have been made, had a further suggestion.

"I'd like to see the county officials spend one day in a wheelchair," she said. That would show them, more effectively than any other way, the barriers that still exist, she believes.

"Twenty years ago, people with disabilities just didn't get out," Adkins added. "Now they get out, but where can they go?"

Pike College Cuts Its Debt By Half

Pikeville College reduced its long term indebtedness by over $1 million last week by buying back federally funded loans at a discount rate, according to an announcement from college President William H. Owens.

The opportunity for immediate liquidation of 50 percent of the college's indebtedness came through a U.S. Office of Education plan to sell a large portion of its College and Academic Facilities Loan Program portfolios to satisfy federal budget resolutions for fiscal 1987.

Pikeville College incurred the loans in 1960 and in 1971 to finance dormitory construction, the renovation of the dining hall, and a portion of the cost of the Armington Science Center.

The 40 percent discount offered by the Department reduced the college's original obligation from $1,410,000 to $853,045. Funds the college was required to hold in reserve covered $536,610 of the buy-back. The remaining $316,430 will be refinanced by local banks. After restructuring, the total indebtedness will be $1,120,390.

Since fiscal year 1985, the College's debt has been reduced over $2,450,000. Payment of more than $1 million came from the earlier sale of the James Francis farm, the training school building, and several residential properties, none of which were essential to the operation of the college.

All remaining indebtedness will be defrayed through regular annual payments over a five-year period, according to financial projections in a long range plan recently adopted by college trustees.

The major debt reduction greatly strengthens the overall financial position of the college. President Owens said. However, he added, it will not reduce the institution's need for gift income from individuals, foundations and corporations; a need which will, in fact, increase by 25 percent in the next five years.

"We are elated by this turn of events," Owens commented on the federal buy-back plan. "It will enable us to complete a shift our trustees have already begun from crisis management to strategic planning."

In addition to the elimination of current indebtedness, the five-year plan calls for a $3,000,000 increase in endowment, significant increases in funding for student financial assistance, and the enhancement of faculty and staff benefits.

ALLEN CIRCLE MEETS

The Annie Allen Circle, W.M.U., of the First Baptist Church, met April 6 at the home of Mrs. Ora Bussey. Mrs. Patsy Evans, president, reported that Mrs. Linda Spradlin and Mrs. Pat Hites had accepted the leadership of the church's G.A.'s. Mrs. Rebecca Rasnick reported that Mrs. Dolly Pettrey, sunshine chairman, sent musical Valentines, and would send Easter greetings to the church's shut-ins. Mrs. Evans discussed the shower for the Rev. Alonzo Dixon and family scheduled to be given at the First Baptist Church, following evening services there, on April 12. This family, of Topmost, lost their belongings in a recent fire.

Mrs. Evans reported that Mrs. Eva Collins, a member of this W.M.U. group, had been appointed as chairman of the W.M.U. nominating committee, representing northeastern Kentucky. The president reminded members of the state W.M.U. annual Convention to be held at Elizabethtown, April 24-25, and urged them to attend.

Mrs. Sarah Laven was in charge of the program, entitled "60 Minutes of Mission Support." It was decided that flowers in memory of Miss Annie Allen would be placed in the church, and would be taken to her grave on the Richmond cemetery on Memorial Day. Mrs. Eva Collins read the list of Baptist missionaries who are observing birthdays this month, and prayer was offered for them. Prayer was also offered for these members, families, and friends who had been ill: Zella Archer, David Evans, Dixie Webb, Grace Conley, Dorothy Sturgill, Leo Music, and a niece of Mrs. Ora Bussey's who lived in Connecticut.

The hostess, Mrs. Bussey, served refreshments to Patsy Evans, Vivian Fraley, Rebecca Rasnick, Eva Collins, Maman Leslie, Myrtle Allen, Faye Patton, Sarah Laven, Lucy Regan, and Roberta Sloan. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Goldia Williams on May 4 at 7 p.m.

STACY ROSETTE JOHNSON was named Miss Floyd County at competition held here, Saturday evening. A student at Morehead State University, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Johnson, of Hindman. She was sponsored by Dr. Larry Leslie, and is recipient of a $1,000 scholarship, a wardrobe valued at $1,600, and will compete in the Miss Kentucky Scholarship Pageant in Louisville. The Miss Floyd County Scholarship Pageant is sponsored annually by the Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club, assisted by the Prestonsburg Woman's Club.

Carve State's First Counties From Virginia

In 1792, Virginia changed the District of Kentucky to the Sovereign State of Kentucky and the nine counties of Virginia in the district became the Commonwealth of Kentucky. Kentucky's population in the 10-year period after 1790 grew from 73,677 to 220,955. The problems of governing this vast wilderness required strong, resolute leadership. The first Governor, Isaac Shelby, appointed a fellow Lincoln countian, John Logan, as the state's first treasurer. A later article will discuss the many problems with the diversity of "money" used in that early period, and how to fund this new government using furs and foreign currency.

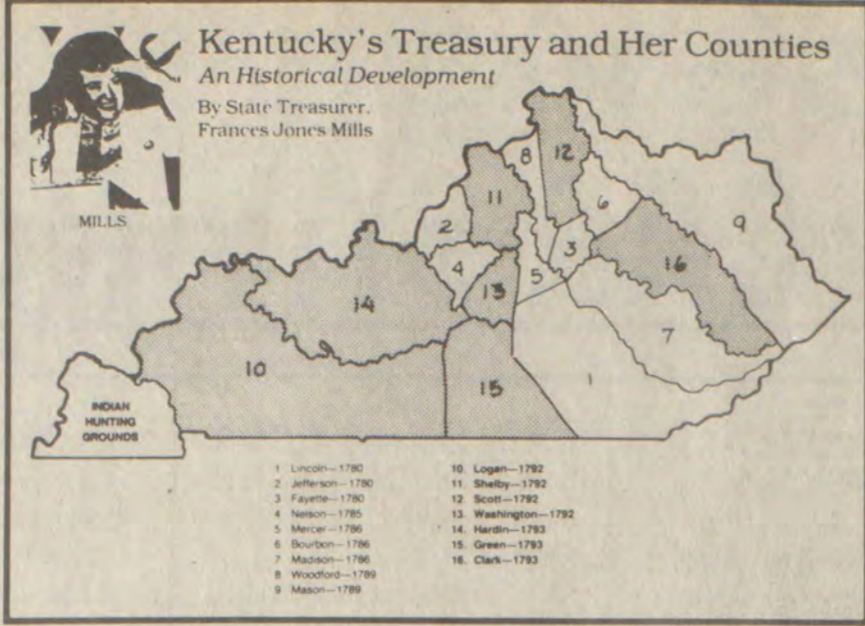

Washington county, the new Commonwealth's first county, and one of seven additional counties formed in 1792, was named after then President George Washington. The county was formed from Nelson county and the following wording comes from the enacting statute of the legislature:

"From and after the first day of September next, the County of Nelson shall be divided into two district counties...thence along the line between Nelson and Mercer to the beginning, shall be one distinct county, and called and known by the name of Washington. And all the residue of the said county retain the name of Nelson."

Scott county, formed from Woodford county, received its name from General Charles Scott, of Woodford. He was a distinguished soldier in the Revolutionary War, commanding a regiment in the continental line. He was active in Indian campaigns in 1791 and 1794. Scott was elected Governor of Kentucky in 1808.

Shelby county, taken from Jefferson county, was named for our first governor, Isaac Shelby, of Lincoln county. Isaac Shelby was born a few miles from Hagerstown, Maryland. In 1778, he was elected a member of the Virginia Legislature, and was commissioned a Major by Governor Thomas Jefferson.

Logan county was made from that portion of Lincoln county embracing nearly all of the state south of the Green River. One of the first settlers of Kentucky, Logan had built a fort in Lincoln county where Stanford now stands, and was noted for his fierce fighting of the Indians. He also served in the Constitutional Conventions of Kentucky in 1792 and 1799, and served several terms in the Legislature.

Clark county was formed from portions of Fayette and Bourbon counties, and was named for George Rogers Clark. Clark, a resident of Kentucky in 1776, was principally responsible for Virginia accepting Kentucky as one of her counties and supplying gun powder for its defense. In 1781, he was made a brigadier general, and in 1782 led an army against the Indian towns on the Miami and Scioto, reducing them to ashes. No formidable party of Indians ever invaded Kentucky after that. He died in 1818 and was buried at Locust Grove near Louisville.

Hardin county, the 15th county, was formed from Nelson county and was named for Colonel John Hardin. At the age of twelve, Hardin could use a rifle and was fighting Indians with Captain Zack Morgan at the age of 21. In 1786, he moved his wife and family to Nelson county and volunteered under George Rogers Clark for the Wabash expedition. In 1792 he was killed by Indians in Shelby county, Ohio, and a town there was named Hardin in his memory. Abraham Lincoln was born in Hardin county in 1809, in the section later to become Larue.

Green county was formed from Lincoln and Nelson counties and was named for Major General Nathaniel Greene. General Greene was a native of Rhode Island and in 1770 was elected to that state's Legislature. After the Battle of Lexington, Rhode Island formed an "army of observation" and Greene was chosen to command it with the rank of Major General. When Washington encountered the English at Trenton, the left wing of the American force was commanded by Greene. He has been ranked by many as second only to General Washington in Revolutionary generals.

This week, April 13-19, is "Jenny Wiley State Park Week" for Prestonsburg citizens, proclaimed Mayor Ann R. Latta, Friday, during ceremonies at the park. The park has been a "major force" in the community for the last 25 years, Latta said, and has helped put Prestonsburg on the map for tourists and vacationers from many parts of the country. To celebrate the park's 25 years in operation, a "birthday party" is planned for Saturday May 30, according to park officials. It will include both afternoon and evening entertainment and will be held at the picnic area below Dewey Dam.

A Lot of Bull—

Highest Prices Ever, Paid At Central Bull Test Sale

The highest prices ever paid for a class of yearling bulls from the Central Bull Test were received at this year's auction April 4.

The bulls, "graduates" of the University of Kentucky/Kentucky Beef Cattle Association Central Bull Test Station, brought an average sales price of $1,606, with the top yearling, a Polled Hereford consigned by Longbranch Farm in Brandenburg, bringing in a record $4,000 bid by Furrow Farms of Adolphus.

"The snow storm that struck last Saturday had us worried. It was the worst day for a sale in the 11-year history of the event, but it turned out to be the most successful sale we've ever had," said Carla Nichols, Extension beef breeding specialist in the UK College of Agriculture, and consultant to the testing program.

"All bulls sold had an average daily gain of more than 3.0 pounds per day during the 140-day performance test. Their frame scores averaged 5.3 or better. And only one had a 365-day yearling weight of less than 1,100 pounds," Nichols said.

Bulls offered at the sale have passed a breeding soundness evaluation program. The proven soundness and top physical condition of the young bulls attracted buyers from Louisa in the eastern reaches of the state to Gracey in the far west.

"Commercial bull buyers cannot choose from this many top-quality bulls at any other auction in the state," Nichols said.

Average prices offered, by breed, were:

Breed	Number Sold	Avg. Price
Angus	20	$1,569
Charolais	8	$1,694
Chiangus	2	$1,443
Limousin	1	$1,900
Polled Hereford	9	$1,537
Gelbvieh	3	$1,642
Shorthorn	3	$1,350
Simmental	3	$2,050

Wins Achievement Award

Carolee Hobson, student at McDowell Elementary School, has been named a national award winner in leadership service by the United States Achievement Academy. She is the daughter of Bob and Jewel Hobson, of McDowell, and the granddaughter of Leonard and Ruby Hobson, of Orkney, and Mose and the late Ruth Frasure, of McDowell. She was nominated for the award by science teacher Joan Caldwell.

The highest price paid for an Angus was for one from Meng Farms, of Bowling Green. It went for $3,650 to Hughes Flippin Farm, Inc., of Tompkinsville.

The top Simmental, consigned by Boyd Broyles, of Somerset, went for $3,000 to Porter Brothers, of Gracey.

Two Charolais by Fred Trammel, of Bagdad, brought $2,550 and $2,500 from Doug Parrish, of Paris, and Martin Henson, of Frankfort, respectively.

The top indexing bulls and their prices were:

Breed	Consignor	Price
Angus	Sunset Valley	$2,050
Charolais	Fred Trammel	$2,550
Chiangus	James Bradshaw	$1,485
Limousin	Liberty View Farm	$1,900
P. Hereford	Big T Ranch	$1,550
Gelbvieh	Darrell Bailey	$1,700
Shorthorn	Jack & David Ragsdale	$1,400
Simmental	Boyd Broyles	$3,000

Bruce Davis, of Midway, was consignor of top Angus sire group (three bulls or more by same sire). Pine Drive Big Sky sired the winning group.

Nichols attributed the record figures to the fact that this year's class was the best ever offered by the Central Bull Test Station, and that commercial cattle producers in Kentucky are beginning to realize the importance genetic superiority in their herds.

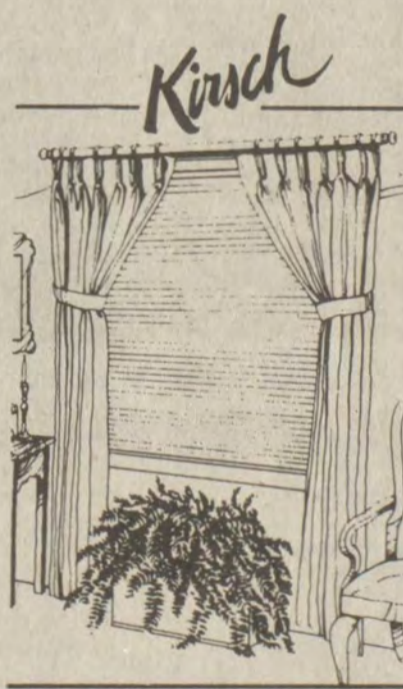

"Commercial buyers can't go anywhere and buy bulls with the kinds of guarantees on them that we offer, and of the quality we offer," Nichols said.

All but one of the bulls sold went to buyers in the state.

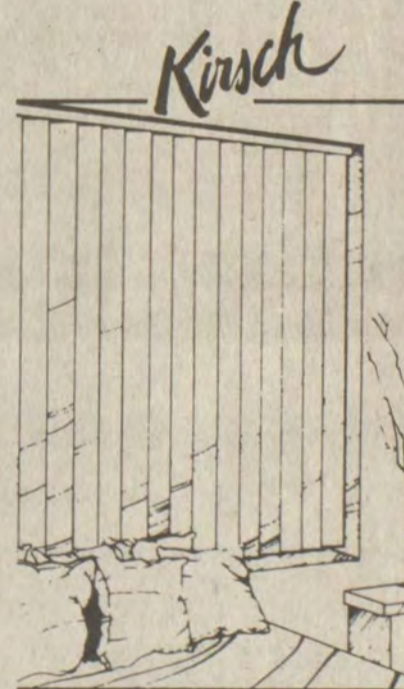

"That's good. We're glad to have sellers from out of state, but I like to see these good genetics stay here in Kentucky," Nichols said.

Child Abuse and Neglect Stats See Record Increase Last Year

Incidents of child abuse and neglect in Kentucky rose in 1986 by the largest increase in five years, both in terms of the number of children involved and of cases confirmed by the state Department for Social Services, police and other law enforcement organizations.

Social Services Commissioner Anna Grace Day said that nearly 18,000 Kentucky children were found to have been victims of abuse and/or neglect last year compared to 15,386 in 1985.

"The figures represent the greatest annual rise in confirmed cases in Kentucky since tougher federal laws on the reporting of suspected child abuse and neglect were passed in 1980," Day said. In that year, confirmed cases of child abuse and neglect totaled barely 7,000.

President Ronald Reagan and Gov. Martha Layne Collins have proclaimed the month of April as national and state Child Abuse Prevention Month in an effort to continue the campaign for increased public awareness of the problem.

According to Day, the 1986 child abuse figures make a couple of points. "Kentucky experienced an increase of 3,000 additional reports of child abuse and neglect last year (23,914) above and beyond the count for 1985 (20,908)," she said. "At the same time, the rate of substantiation for these allegations remained extremely constant from 1980 (44.8 percent) to 1986 (45.5 percent)."

"This would seem to support the theory that our rising figures are more due to an aware and concerned public than to any sudden mounting in the numbers of abused and neglected children."

In fact, the 1986 report suggests that more public reporting may be giving Kentucky's child protection workers a clearer view of the scope of the problem.

In Kentucky, child neglect remains a far greater threat in terms of sheer numbers of children involved than either physical assault or sexual abuse. Last year more than 12,500 Kentucky children were found to have been without the necessary parental guidance and protection, up from 4,800 in 1980.

Cases of confirmed physical abuse have tripled in those six years, while substantiated sexual attacks on children in this state have risen from just over 400 in 1980 to more than 2,000 last year.

"We still believe that the actual numbers are much higher," Day said, "but we also feel that every year the cases reported begin to represent more and more of the iceberg that we know is there but are unable to see."

Today Kentucky's major anti-child abuse and neglect effort is centered around a shift toward involving the entire family whenever possible in the treatment of problems between spouses or parents and their children.

"Family-based services isn't simply some catch phrase for the 1980s," Day said. "We know that a stronger family can overcome some weaknesses of any one member of the family. We want to avoid the future abuse or the reoccurrence of past problems by getting as many people in the family as possible involved in the solution."

"It means greater support for the adult or child with a behavior problem as well as more likelihood that, should future threats of abuse or neglect arise, other members of the family know who and where to turn to for help."

Child protection specialists and family counselors are available in all 120 Kentucky counties through the local offices of the Department for Social Services. Kentucky also has a toll-free hotline to get help for children and families in cases of abuse or neglect by calling 1-800-752-6200.

Elderhostel To Provide Summer Programs At Eku

Two programs of Elderhostel, a non-profit, educational organization designed for persons aged 60 and older, will be offered at Eastern Kentucky University this summer.

According to Lisa Warner, assistant professor in the Department of Home Economics at Eku, Elderhostel provides a "unique experience for people who want to further their education." Hostellers will get the opportunity to live in Eku dormitories, eat in the Eku cafeteria, and use the University's academic, cultural, and recreational facilities.

Eku will sponsor two separate Elderhostel weeks, each with three courses. The first will be from July 19 to July 25 and offers the following:

"The Clays and a 'Radical' Preacher Named Fee; Contributions and Controversies" will survey the achievements, failures, and issues raised by Henry Clay, Cassius Clay, and John Fee; "The Church Finds a Place in the Bluegrass" explores pioneer revivalism and the relation of the early church to Kentucky's other social institutions, and "Celestial Sphere...Then and Now" examines and contrasts ideas of the universe 200 years ago and our galaxy today.

The second section, from Aug. 2 to Aug. 8, offers "Nutrition: Fact or Fiction," which discusses and analyzes current diet and wellness information; "Working With Kentucky Woods," surveys materials used in woodcraft native to Kentucky Hills, and "Cigarettes, Whiskey, and Wild, Wild Women and Other Assorted Delicacies" takes a light-hearted look at the history of advertising in America.

To join, one must be aged 60 or older or be the spouse or companion of someone who is.

Eastern was the first university in Kentucky to sponsor Elderhostel, which was founded 10 years ago by Marty Knowlton, who believed older adults need intellectual stimulation of the arts and sciences as much as younger people do.

For more information, call Lisa Warner at (606) 622-1166.

Landmark Documentary About The Holocaust

"Shoah," the 1985 landmark documentary about the Holocaust, will premiere on KETV April 27, at 8 p.m. The series will air over four nights during the observance of National Holocaust Week.

This television broadcast of "Shoah" will include a series of newly filmed interviews with director Claude Lanzmann. The interviews are conducted by Time magazine writer and "MacNeil/Lehrer NewsHour" essayist Roger Rosenblatt.

"Shoah," which means "annihilation" in Hebrew, is unlike any other documentary about the Holocaust. Without a single frame of archival footage, the film evokes the horror of the concentration camps—in particular Treblinka, Auschwitz and Chelmno—and the terror of both those who died and those who survived by weaving a fascinating fabric of interviews of participants and witnesses, images of the sites as they appear today, and discussions with Holocaust scholar Raul Hilberg.

Over a period of 11 years, director Lanzmann filmed some 350 hours of interviews in 14 countries. The film opens with memories of Simon Srebnik, one of two survivors of the camp at Chelmno, Poland, where 400,000 Jews were exterminated over a period of four years. In the interviews that follow—with the few Jewish survivors of the death camps; the Polish farmers and villagers who lived next door to the death camps; former SS officers and Nazi bureaucrats who oversaw the mass murders, and former freedom fighters who participated in the Warsaw ghetto uprising—the step-by-step machinery of destruction is chronicled in painstaking, unrelenting detail. "Shoah" is a release of New Yorker Films. It is presented by WNET/New York.

Bluegrass Bike Ride To Help MS Society

Experienced cyclists and casual riders alike will participate in the Kentucky Chapter of the Multiple Sclerosis Society's Bluegrass Bike Tour, to be held May 16 and 17, in and around Shelbyville. The event will benefit over one quarter of a million people throughout the nation who suffer from MS, the most common neurological disease of young adults.

Participants will have the opportunity to enjoy a weekend of cycling the backroads of Kentucky while taking advantage of the historical and recreational features of the Shelbyville area. In addition, prizes will be awarded to all participants, and teams representing organizations will compete for the MS Corporate Cup.

Cost to the participant will be a $25 registration fee. Participants are asked to help raise money by collecting pledges from friends. MS most commonly strikes young adults between the ages of 20 and 40. It is difficult to diagnose and unpredictable in its severity, symptoms and progression. The cause is unknown and presently no cure exists, but researchers believe they may be close to developing an understanding of MS.

Registration information and bike tour brochures are available at local Convenient Food Marts. Registration is limited to 150 riders.

Athletics Scheduled For Senior Citizens

Governor Martha Layne Collins has created the Governor's Pacesetters program which will develop year round activities targeted at Senior Citizens 55 and over. The Pacesetters will be an official "Festival Event" of the Bluegrass State Games. Governor Collins, who had the idea to establish a year round non-competitive walking program for seniors, also created the Bluegrass State Games in 1985. "The Pacesetters is a natural expansion of the Bluegrass State Games and will fit nicely into our plans for expanded programming for citizens of all ages and skill levels," said Collins. The Bluegrass State Games is the largest amateur athletic event in Kentucky and is second in the nation in participation with '86 entries soaring to 25,000.

"People are finding walking to be a perfect blend of fitness and fellowship. Walking is easy, inexpensive and fun," said Collins, "and is quickly becoming the preferred exercise in individual weight and health maintenance endeavors."

"The Governor's Pacesetters program is just the beginning in our effort to enhance the lives of our citizens by promoting year-round plans for health and fitness," said Collins.

At the local level county walking clubs will be established by the aging networks. County Centers will highlight walking activities during the month of April. Regional Fun and Fitness furlongs will take place in May in each of the 15 Area Development Districts. The Governor's Pacesetters activities will culminate at the Bluegrass State Games Torch Lighting Ceremonies at the State Capitol in Frankfort, July 31. The Floyd "county center" is scheduled for Tuesday, April 21 at the Allen Park, beginning at 10:30 a.m. The regional "fun and fitness furlongs" is scheduled for May 15, 10 a.m., at the Dewey Dam recreational area.

In addition to the Bluegrass State Games and the Area Agencies on Aging, other co-sponsors include the Cabinet for Human Resources Division of Aging Services, the Health Promotion Branch, and the Institute for Aging. For further information contact Phyllis Stanley, Big Sandy ADD, Municipal Building, Prestonsburg, 886-2374.

Fund Assists Crime Victims

By Attorney General David L. Armstrong
Since 1976, the Kentucky Crime Victims Compensation Board has assisted people who have been injured by crime. The Board, after reviewing claims by needy, innocent crime victims, can reimburse them for medical expenses arising from physical or psychological injury, for lost wages, and, in the case of death, for funeral expenses.

In order to be eligible for assistance the applicant must meet several requirements. First, the crime must have been reported to the police within 48 hours of its occurrence and the victim or other person making the claim must cooperate with authorities. Second, the claim must be filed within one year from the date of the crime, though under unusual circumstances the filing deadline may be extended by the Board. Third, the claimant cannot be related to the defendant or living in the same household, although some exceptions may be made. Fourth, a victim confined to jail or an institution run by the Cabinet for Human Resources is ineligible for an award. Fifth, injuries that are the ordinary and foreseeable results of criminal actions cannot be covered. Sixth, the victim must qualify as suffering financial hardship.

The victim may be reimbursed for out-of-pocket expenses for medical treatment, up to $150 per week for lost wages and up to $2,500 for funeral expenses. The total award cannot exceed $25,000.

When the crime results in the victim's death, a spouse, parent, child or anyone dependent on the victim for a substantial part of this or her support may file a claim. Of course, the amount will be reduced by money received from other sources such as insurance or restitution provided by the defendant. Compensation cannot be provided for lost or stolen property.

In 1872 English scientist Robert Angus Smith coined the term "acid rain" in a book called Air and Rain: The Beginnings of a Chemical Climatology. Smith was the first to note acid rain damage to plants and materials.

To apply for compensation, contact your local law enforcement agency, the state police, or contact the Crime Victims Compensation Board, 113 E. Third St., Frankfort, Ky. 40601, (502) 564-2290, for an application form.
When your completed application is returned to the Board, your claim will be investigated and it will be determined if you are eligible and, if so, what amount of money should be awarded.

Educators' Group Head April Health Tip...

Housekeeping Is A Good Health Habit

By FAYE SHEPHERD, Executive Housekeeper, and GWEN HALL, PR consultant, Our Lady of the Way Hospital

Good housekeeping is more than appearances. How you clean your home is important to your health. Most people clean their living rooms first so visitors will be given a positive impression. From a health perspective, however, the kitchen and bathroom should be at the top of the cleaning list because they are the places where bacteria and viruses are most easily grown and transmitted.

Dishes should be washed promptly in warm, soapy water and rinsed with scalding water. Unwashed dishes grow germs, are harder to clean, and attract (or feed) insects and rodents.

Roaches may come in with the potatoes or grocery bags but they need not stay. A clean kitchen floor will discourage roaches from settling in. Food should not be left out or uncovered in your kitchen. Leftover foods should be covered and refrigerated or stored immediately after eating. This preserves freshness, prevents spoilage, and deprives unwanted insects and rodents from feasting in your kitchen.

If roaches, mice or other pests continue to be a problem, you will probably need to call an exterminator or use an insecticide or rodenticide. Know your options and choose carefully. Poisons must be used and stored in areas which are out of the reach of your children and pets. Some products can be harmful to the user if there is not adequate ventilation or if the chemical spills on your hands. Many will contaminate foods and clothing. So follow all directions carefully and properly dispose of the container when you are finished.

Directions on all household cleaning agents should be read carefully. Use the product exactly as directed. More is not necessarily better and may actually reverse rather than improve results. Most cleaning solutions can not be mixed. For example, never mix chlorine bleach with a commode cleaner because the combination produces a toxic gas. Many cleaners have fumes of their own. Take seriously directions to use them with ventilation. Open the door and windows or switch on an exhaust fan to clear away any fumes which irritate you, a family member or a pet.

Some "heavy duty" cleaners, especially germicides are harsh on human skin. Protect your hands by wearing rubber gloves. Bathtubs are best cleaned immediately after each use. Most commodes need more than a weekly cleaning. Keep a sponge near the basin for quick cleanup of the bathroom sink.

Mold, mildew and fungi are allergens which can grow easily and quickly in bathroom moisture, especially during warm weather. Frequent cleaning and cool house temperatures will keep them under control. Dust is another allergen. Furniture cleaning alone won't eliminate it. Persons with severe allergies to dust may need to mop or vacuum daily and wash curtains once a week. Accumulated laundry encourages mildew and fungi growth. Sheets should be washed regularly, daily perhaps for a person with a contagious disease or open wound.

How you clean is important too. Many people tend to clean in circular motions which leave several spots untouched. When cleaning a surface, move methodically straight across from left to right and from top to bottom so the entire area will benefit from your efforts. Corners and crevices won't get clean without extra effort. Dirt buildup at baseboards, corners and facings should be scrubbed monthly with a brush or pad and good cleanser.

Good housekeeping will impress your visitors. But more importantly, it will enhance your health and prevent unnecessary sickness. If you have questions about housekeeping or would like a free copy of this article, please contact Faye Shepherd, Executive Housekeeper, at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Box 910, Martin, Ky. 41649, or 285-5181.

Fraley in Annual Exercise Held in South Korea

Army Spec. 4 David D. Fraley has participated in "Team Spirit '87," a Republic of Korea/United States Combined Forces Command sponsored exercise held in South Korea.

"Team Spirit '87" was the 12th in an annual series of combined/joint field training exercises, staged to increase the defensive posture of The Republic of Korea and U.S. combat and support forces.

The exercise involved forces stationed in South Korea, as well as U.S. forces from other locations within the Pacific Command and the continental United States.

Fraley is the son of Don E. and Donna D. Fraley, of Prestonsburg. He is an artillery repairer with the 725th Maintenance Battalion at Schofield Barracks, Hawaii.

Wins Trophies

Brandie Nichole Lawson, 7-year-old daughter of Rhoda and the late Mickey Lawson, of Prestonsburg, received a four-foot trophy and crown for having the prettiest dress at the U.S.A. Royal Prince and Princess Pageant held March 28 at Prestonsburg Community College. She also received trophies, sashes and crowns for being photogenic and for modeling sportswear. She attends Allen Grade School and is the granddaughter of Phyllis and Arnold Herald, Jr., and Readie Lawson, all of Prestonsburg.

KET Will Air Series On U.S. Constitution

Journalist Bill Moyers will take the pulse of the nation as we celebrate the 200th year of the United States Constitution. His 10-part series, "Moyers: In Search of the Constitution," premieres Tuesday, April 21, at 7 p.m. on KET. The series will present Moyers with Supreme Court justices, historians, educators, legal scholars and citizens who have taken their petition of constitutional rights all the way to the Supreme Court.

"For the People," the premiere episode, examines the impact of the Constitution on the lives of American citizens, as seen in four landmark cases: Mapp vs. Ohio (search and seizure), Engel vs. Vitale (school prayer), Keyishian vs. Board of Regents (academic freedom), and Bowers vs. Hardwick (sodomy).

"Looking Back," which airs April 28, was taped in Philadelphia's Independence Hall. The broadcast features Michael Kammen, Pulitzer Prize winner, Professor of History at Cornell University, and author of "A Machine That Would Go of Itself" (Knopf), about the Constitution's place and role in the public consciousness and its role as a symbol in American life.

Forrest McDonald, Jefferson lecturer for 1987 and Professor of History at the University of Alabama and the University of William and Mary, provides insight into the intellectual origins of the Constitution; and Dr. Olive Taylor, Professor of History at Howard University, discusses black Americans and others who were not part of the Constitution.

AIDS Victims May Get Medicaid Program Help

Two Cabinet for Human Resources agencies are working together to extend health care to Kentucky's AIDS victims through the cabinet's home and community-based services program.

The Department for Medicaid Services works with local home health agencies to offer low-income elderly and disabled Kentuckians this alternative to nursing home care.

"If they are qualified for long-term care but have the right kinds of care and support from family and friends, they may be eligible for this special program," said state Medicaid Commissioner Hughes Walker. "This includes patients who are disabled as a result of AIDS."

Health Services Commissioner Carlos Hernandez, M.D., said that his agency's staff is available to work with home health agencies in training staff in the care of AIDS patients.

Since 1982, when Kentucky's first AIDS case was reported, the number of reported cases has risen slowly but steadily. During those five years, 78 people have been identified as having the virus. Of these, 25 are still alive.

"While some AIDS patients may require hospital care, many may not," Walker said. He noted that state nursing home regulations were changed last July to allow long-term care facilities to admit AIDS patients. "But like many other patients who need long-term nursing care, they may prefer to remain at home," he added.

Kentucky has offered home and community-based services under Medicaid for nearly four years in Bluegrass Area Development District counties. In January, the department began working with home health agencies to expand the program into Buffalo Trace, Gateway, Kentucky River and Cumberland Valley ADDS.

In March, extension of the program began in Barren River, Lincoln Trail, Lake Cumberland and Northern Kentucky ADDS. It is expected to be offered statewide by July 1.

The program offers homemaker services, personal care, respite care, adult day health care and minor home adaptations. These are in addition to the traditional home health services that have been covered by Medicaid for many years.

"We want our clients to be comfortable and satisfied with the services they receive. We want to offer them as many choices as possible," Walker said.

Anyone interested in participating in home and community-based services should contact a local home health agency. Even if a particular agency is not participating yet, it may be planning to do so and can begin some preliminary work with the patient, Walker said.

Paintsville Hospital Schedules Open House

The physical therapy and respiratory therapy departments of Paul B. Hall Regional Medical Center will conduct an open house for physicians, staff and the general public tomorrow, April 16, according to hospital administrator Sam P. Fowler. The public may tour the two departments between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Among the new equipment to be demonstrated are the pulmonary function test in respiratory therapy and hyperbaric oxygen treatment for open wounds in physical therapy.

As with other departments of the medical center, the respiratory and physical therapy departments' services are available to the public on an outpatient basis through physician referral.

Local Artist Will Speak To PCC Calligraphy Class

Russell May, artist and owner of a local art gallery, will speak to members of the Prestonsburg Community College class on calligraphy tomorrow, April 16, at 7 p.m. at the Floyd county library. His talk, which is free and open to the public, will focus on May's development as an artist, beginning as a sign painter.

Anyone wanting more information may contact Sandra F. Chandler, instructor, at 886-6108.

Floyd Teachers Meet In Louisville

Floyd teachers Doris Robinson, Roberta Luxmore and Constance Gearheart joined State Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald at a teachers forum held recently in Louisville.

May 1 Deadline Set On Byrd Scholarship

Superintendents of Public Instruction Alice McDonald announced recently a new scholarship program that will award $1,500 grants to 78 new graduates of Kentucky public or private high schools or 1987 GED recipients.

The Robert C. Byrd Honors Scholarships will be given to 11 students in each of Kentucky's seven congressional districts. An at-large scholarship will go to the applicant with the highest point score on the criteria: academic/vocational achievement, academic potential, and leadership/community involvement. To be eligible, students must verify full-time enrollment in an accredited college or post-secondary vocational school for the 1987-88 academic year.

The application deadline is May 1. "I regret that late federal funding allows so limited a time frame for so important a project," McDonald said.

The Byrd scholarship program was created by the federal Higher Education Act of 1985, but was not funded until this spring; states had to develop their criteria and procedures under the act's general guidelines immediately for 1987 seniors, McDonald said. The states share $2 million a year for four years under the program.

Scholarship guidelines, selection criteria and application forms developed by the Kentucky Department of Education have been sent to all public high school principals, and regional vocational school principals and counselors. The Lincoln Foundation, NAACP chapters, and the Urban League have also been mailed information, in an effort to encourage minority applicants.

New recipients of a high school equivalency diploma (GED), and students successfully completing secondary vocational programs or planning to attend accredited vocational schools are urged to apply.

"This scholarship program is designed to include all the students who might have felt left out of traditional honors scholarships," McDonald stressed, including good students whose jobs might have made top grades difficult to obtain but who have shown outstanding leadership qualities and academic or vocational potential at work and in their communities.

A scholarship committee appointed by Superintendent McDonald will select recipients based on numerically weighted academic, vocational, and leadership qualities. The committee will include a school board member and a parent as well as an administrator or counselor from a high school, a vocational school, and a post-secondary institution.

Scholarship recipients will be notified May 11, and a presentation ceremony is scheduled for May 21.

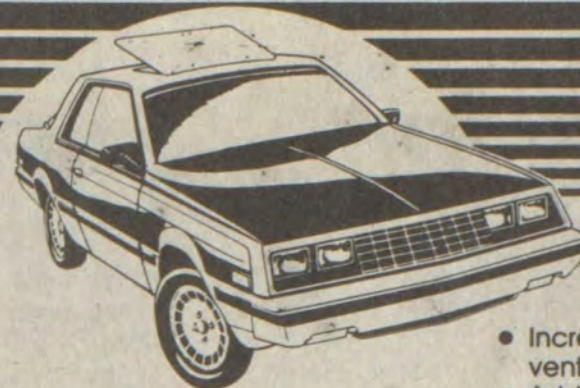

Applications may be received at the state education department by May 1. Applications should be sent to May Ann Copas, Division of Curriculum Services, Kentucky Department of Education, 17th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Attend Fabric Expo

Eight Floyd county homemakers attended the fabric and fiber expo, held recently at the Greenbo State Park. They were Judy Kittle, Mary Sue Moore, Eula Ferguson, Katie Newsome, Otelia Smiley, Dorothy Harris, Arnita Snavely and Frances Pitts.

Participating in the style show was Katie Newsome of the Wheelwright (Night) Club. Mary Sue Moore also presented a demonstration showing various ways to decorate your bathroom.

UK Posts New Tuition Fees

Undergraduate students at the University of Kentucky will pay tuition and fees of $706 a semester beginning this fall.

The UK Board of Trustees recently confirmed the raise in tuition rates set by the Kentucky Council on Higher Education. Student fees of $38.75 and the $25 health fee remain the same—both are included in the per-semester tuition of $706.

Tuition and fees for undergraduate students at UK for the current school year are $666 per semester.

By state law, the Council on Higher Education sets tuition for the state universities. The new tuition rates are designed to bring UK's fees closer to its benchmark institutions—schools outside the state similar to UK in size and scope.

Tuition and fees for undergraduate students from outside the state were raised from $1,906 per semester this year to $2,026 per semester effective next fall.

Semester fees for resident graduate students will be $776 compared to $726 for the current school year. Non-resident graduate students will pay $2,236. Non-residents this year paid $2,086.

Increased tuition rates were also confirmed for law, medical, dental and pharmacy students.

Students at the Lexington Community College, one of UK's 14 community colleges, will pay the same per-semester fees as students on the Lexington campus.

Tuition and fees charged to students at UK's other community colleges will be $280—up from the current rate of $270. Non-resident students at the community colleges will pay $840 per semester—up from the current year's $810.

In addition, this workshop "Making a Difference," will help citizens understand their role in relation to school boards and superintendents, and will emphasize working cooperatively.

Registrations ($15 includes dinner) should be sent to the Prichard Committee, P.O. Box 1658, Lexington, 40592, by April 23. For more information, call Robert F. Sexton at (606) 233-9849.

FINANCIAL PLANNING SMALL COMPANY FRAUD

The owners and operators of small companies are sometimes too complacent about employee fraud.

Many businesses have too few employees to provide for proper segregation of the duties. If one employee is allowed to handle too many functions, such as paying bills, collecting receivables, preparing payroll reports, handling petty cash, and making bank deposits, the company is wide open to fraud.

If you're a small business owner, you should stay close enough to the business transactions to be able to spot unusual problems with the receivables, payables, refunds, etc. Ask questions about accounts receivable balances from time to time. Insist on being the first one to open the bank statement. This provides you the opportunity to spot unusual checks, odd vendor names, etc.

Open all incoming mail from customers and vendors. This allows you to see customer complaints and adjustments to account balances.

If you pay your vendors by invoice, always pay on the same color of vendor's invoice. This should eliminate the possibility of paying the same invoice twice, once on the pink copy and once on the yellow copy. Indicate the date of payment on paid invoices.

If your employees prepare the payroll reports, have them reviewed by your independent accountant.

Have your accountant review your business and set up internal controls. This is the process of segregating duties to help minimize the possibility of fraud and creating safeguards to help prevent unintentional mistakes.

If you don't have a full year-end audit, at least engage an independent accountant to hold a cash-flow review. This will not necessarily establish the existence or non-existence of fraud, but it's one more step to help protect your assets.

KET Airs Knitting, Quilting Techniques

Viewers can learn new handicraft techniques, Sundays, by tuning in to KET's "Knitting Workshop" and "Lap Quilting with Georgia Bonesteel."

Elizabeth Zimmerman will demonstrate how to knit a sweater on "Knitting Workshop," premiering Sunday, April 26, at 4 p.m.

Zimmerman, author of three books and a regular knitting newsletter, will teach how to knit a seamless yoke sweater. She is an advocate of circular knitting and the use of unusual yarns.

Following "Knitting Workshop," at 4:30 p.m. creative advice for the novice expert quilter is available when "Lap Quilting with Georgia Bonesteel" premieres.

Bonesteel offers step-by-step instructions for creating decorative and practical quilted pieces guaranteed to warm any decor. From fabric selection to pattern design to patchwork construction, Bonesteel shows viewers how to craft the perfect quilt.

In one of 13 episodes, "Lap Quilting" goes "from field to fabric" to tell the story of cotton—beginning in a cotton field, continuing to a spinning and weaving mill, and concluding in a finishing plant that yields calico for quilt making. The Statue of Liberty celebration throughout the country led to a patriotic quilting craze demonstrated in the episode "Red, White, and Blue."

Story Of The First Team To Sail Around Earth

The new "Adventure" series continues on KET with another story that appeals to the armchair explorer in each of us. In "To The Ends of the Earth," the series travels from the North Pole to the South Pole for one of the most ambitious documentaries ever attempted. The late Richard Burton narrates the one-hour program Sunday, May 3, at 8 p.m. on KET.

"To The Ends of the Earth" is the story of the three-year transglobal expedition led by Sir Ranulph Fiennes, who circumnavigated the earth along its polar axis—a trip covering five continents and 52,000 miles.

The program reveals the adventurers' bravery, endurance and desire to achieve the seemingly impossible. Publicly sponsored by Prince Charles, the Transglobers had the support of hundreds of volunteers and dozens of companies offering free supplies. Nonetheless, they were beset by several near fatal misfortunes before finally completing their epic longitudinal journey by boat, snowmobile, canoe and on foot.

According to Prince Charles, "It is an extraordinary adventure—and, in my opinion, gloriously and refreshingly mad."

"Adventure" repeats Saturdays at 11:30 a.m. on KET.

Breast Center Needs Volunteers To Assist

Breast cancer—the most common form of cancer among women. Many have had a personal experience with breast cancer—a friend, family member—even ourselves. Maybe you've asked the question, "How can I help?"

If you're interested in becoming a valuable part of a service that deals with this health concern, the Breast Center is looking for you. It is in need of female volunteers to assist in the reception area. Activities will include greeting patients, answering phone calls about the Breast Center and making information available to the public.

The Breast Center is a comprehensive care center offering a total range of services. In a time when breast cancer will strike one out of every 10 women, early detection and education are vital. Community support helped to make the Breast Center a reality and now volunteers from the community are needed to become part of the effort to defeat the "lady killer," breast cancer.

Pete Grigsby Talks Of The Past, Present, And The Future

Memories. They are ours for the keeping, an opportunity to relive those golden moments of sports history.

The greatest plays and the greatest players are given an immortal spot in our memory, to remain there forever alive. It makes for good conversation, but more importantly those men and

SHORT SPORTS

When his seniors are off enjoying the sand and the sun on their senior trip, a coach looks to underclassmen for major contributions. Both McDowell and Betsy Layne were forced to play without their seniors Friday evening and, from the outcome, the Bobcats appear to have a stronger group of younger players.

The Daredevils did get off to a promising beginning, taking a one-run lead after the first inning, but from then on the game and evening belonged to Betsy Layne.

The Bobcats, behind the heavy hitting of Duran Newsome, scored six runs in the second inning, and came back with six more in the fourth to cruise to an 18-4 thumping of McDowell.

Dwight Jarrell collected his first victory of the season for the Bobcats while Scott Tackett suffered the McDowell loss. Duran Newsome led the Betsy Layne offensive attack with two homeruns and five RBIs, a week for most players.

With the seniors gone from a senior oriented team, the Daredevils struggled with their total game. All four of their runs came after walks as McDowell suffered at the plate against the hard-throwing Jarrell.

The Bobcats, on the other side of the diamond, have only two seniors on their roster. Betsy Layne High School was also on their senior trip, but Junior Newsome wasn't missing as many troops as was David Hall.

Watch what you say. People are listening, and they may not take kindly to some of the things you might have to say.

Just ask Al Campanis. As the Los Angeles Dodgers general manager he said in his opinion blacks didn't have what it took to hold down high executive offices in baseball.

Dodger owner Peter O'Malley didn't think these comments were reasonable so he fired Campanis, or, to put it kindly and officially, he asked Campanis to resign.

The comments Campanis made were on ABC's Nightline program last Monday night, and two days later the general manager was being referred as the ex-general manager.

Much has been written, and more has been said, about the fate of Oklahoma linebacker Brian Bosworth. The highly-publicized Bosworth has brought much criticism to himself with his flamboyant personality and off-the-field actions.

One thing forgotten during this is that Brian Bosworth is the best defensive player in college football. Fans and media people have forgotten this but a slip of the memory is also a problem for the player himself.

For one reason or another Bosworth failed to complete the necessary paper work needed to make him eligible for this year's NFL draft.

Now the talented Sooner has two options; return to Oklahoma for more education or enter the supplement draft. Barry Switzer has already made it clear that Bosworth is an unwanted commodity in Soonerland, but some minds might change.

Long will the 1987 Masters Golf Tournament be remembered. During the final 18 holes of play eight different golfers held the lead, which made for one of the best finishes in the history of this tournament.

Three players shared the lead when the final round concluded Sunday, necessitating a sudden death round. The first one came and went but still a tie remained.

On the second hole of sudden death Larry Mize sank a 40-yard chip shot to earn his first ever Masters title.

Recently Wrestle Mania III set a new record for attendance for any indoor sporting event. Some fans may challenge this because they say professional wrestling is not a legitimate sport.

However, like it or not, it is here to stay, and this past week the NWA held another classic event. They didn't set any attendance records but they did give away $1 million.

The Jim Crockett Senior Memorial Tag Team Tournament was held to determine just who was the top combination in the NWA. Dusty Rhodes and his USSR partner took top honors and the top purse. Rhodes is referred to as the American Dream, but now along with his Russian partner has taken on a new identity. They call themselves the super powers.

Call it what you want but remember, professional wrestling is one of the top five most watched sports in the United States.

women who did so much to enrich our lives will always be given second thanks.

Fans love to think back. Sometimes they say those were the good ole days. Oh yes, we all love to reflect the past. It seems as though we played a major role in forming those plays and players.

Fan support did provide a much-needed boost, but the people who did it, who gave us these wonderful memories, were the athletes themselves.

This county has provided athletics with many such people. From Kelly Coleman to Pat Talent, the list could go on for days. They were a special breed, the pioneer type you might say.

Magical sports names are remembered, even more easily than our past presidents, but one name comes to mind more often than all the others, probably, because he never took his talents elsewhere.

As a player at Martin High School, he averaged over 22 points a game his senior year. He was the first player from Martin ever to be named to the all-state team.

He played for Adolph Rupp and the University of Kentucky for two years before transferring to Kentucky

Wesleyan. At both schools he played basketball and baseball.

After graduation, he coached three years at M.C. Napier, then brought his talents back home where he coached McDowell to three state tournament appearances.

They still remember him at McDowell, and they remember him throughout the state of Kentucky. Pete Grigsby is close to a living legend in this area. He has given all of himself to the people of Floyd county, and while doing so created many of those eternal sports memories.

Recently, we had an opportunity to chat with Pete Grigsby, and following is that conversation as it actually was.

Alton: You've probably been asked this question a million times, but I have to ask it again. What was it really like playing basketball for Adolph Rupp?

Pete: Under Adolph Rupp you learned discipline, you learned control of the situation, you learned organization of a team, of a unit, because all of us were put on the floor as a unit, five players as a unit, on offense and on defense, and even the substitutes, as I was, were organized. We knew when we would go in and who we would go in for. We knew the organization and the patterns already on offense and defense so we learned those skills of coaching from Coach Rupp, how to organize a unit and how to motivate a unit. Now he was a great motivator as well as a disciplinarian. He could motivate you to do almost anything. He would make fiery speeches at halftime. He could give you a chalk talk and get you pepped up afterwards. He was a great psychologist and knew how to handle young men, and I think of all his skills that was probably his greatest, was his ability to motivate people, and he could get right to the point of the issue, bring it out in the open and tell you how he wanted it done. That was why I think he was a great coach, and he could have been a great salesman. He could sell himself and sell his program, and he did that all his life.

Alton: From the picture the press gave of him he was pretty much, as you say, a disciplinarian. Was he as tough as this picture says, or was there a different side of Adolph Rupp that we didn't see?

Pete: Behind this front or coaching appearance a more mellow person, and reasonable person. Very few people got to see that side of Coach Rupp. He always kept his image out front for most people, and this was the image he portrayed to his players, but knowing him for the rest of his life, talking to him on many occasions, and being an associate of his on many things that happened later in his life I got to know a different Adolph Rupp.

Alton: I guess since you graduated from UK you've kept up with the program there. They've had a few problems, the lean year this past year, and they have signed two more players than they can carry. Do you think this will affect the program in a negative way?

Pete: I think what Coach Sutton is trying to do is to build up a real good stock of players for next year, and the next four years to supplement what he already has. I'm sure his evaluation of players has to be excellent. If it isn't, and he has a couple of players that don't come around then he could have a little bit of a problem. I think basically he has built for the next two or three years, but I think he missed a good one. I recommended Pelphrey to him. John Pelphrey, and I still think Pelphrey should be down there, over top his own son, and the boy from Mason county. What's his name...

Alton: Uh...Feldhaus.

Pete: I really think John Pelphrey is Mr. Basketball in the state of Kentucky. And I've expressed that opinion to them.

Alton: Back when you played in high school. Well, I guess it hasn't really been that long ago. But some changes have been so drastic. Has basketball changed a lot since you played?

Pete: Well, Alton it has changed, but I think the philosophy has changed more than anything. Teams that I played on scored a lot more points than teams do today, even with the clock running most of the time, and even without the bonus foulshot. The philosophy back then was man to man defense and more fast break like Coach Rupp taught at UK. I played under an excellent coach in Dennis Halbert who coached the fast break and fast basketball. Teams 30 years ago were scoring more points than teams are today, and you have all kinds of reasons, in my opinion, why you should score more points today. They don't and the reason why is that in the past 10 years the philosophy has changed to this slow down, patient method of basketball, and I think it's too slow. You check my high school teams. If we couldn't score 75 points a game, I had a poor basketball team when I coached. One team, the '68 team, averaged 90 points a game, 38 basketball games, and were runners-up in the 15th region. One of my best teams, I thought we should have gone to the state tournament, but we got upset in the finals of the region by Meade Memorial that year. That team scored over 100 points 10 times, and we did it though various different defenses, pressure defenses, full court, half court, traps, pressing defenses, and the games were faster paced. When you have a team like

Big Stick Bobcats Take Two From Allen Central, Monday

Sometime Monday afternoon the Betsy Layne Bobcats shook their bat rack and an incredible number of base hits fell out.

With ringing aluminum announcing a continuous offensive avalanche, Betsy Layne proceeded to sweep Allen Central in a double header played at Allen park. Led by Brad Hall and Mark Scroggins, both of whom collected four hits, the Bobcats mercied Allen Central 13-3 in the day's opening contest.

It didn't take Betsy Layne long to show their offensive power, either. After the Rebels jumped on top with one run in the top of the first inning, the Bobcats roared back to score two runs of their own in the bottom half of the initial frame.

Kelly Nickles reached safely on an error and later scored when Todd Duff singled, but Allen Central's advantage was rapidly washed away with a stream of Bobcat hitters. After Rebel starter Roger Horne retired the first two Bobcats he faced, Bud Newsome reached safely when his grounder up the middle was mishandled. Todd Sturgill followed with a ground ball that was also bobbled. Brad Hall and Mark Scroggins took advantage of the gift opportunity with back-to-back singles that scored Newsome and Sturgill.

The Rebels tied the game up in the top of the third inning when Kelly Nickles once again found himself on base due to an error. Nickles advanced to second on a wild pitch and, following consecutive fly balls to right field, rode home on a Kevin Webb single.

Rady Martin kept the Allen Central rally alive with an infield single, but Brad Hall, as he did all game, toughened when he had to. The Betsy Layne right-hander induced Mickey Parsons to ground into a force play, and Hall and the Bobcats were out of trouble. Hall's teammates rewarded him in the bottom of the third with four runs, which gave the hard throwing sophomore room to breathe.

First baseman Bud Newsome doubled to kick off Betsy Layne's successful half of the third. Sturgill, Brad Hall, and Mark Scroggins all followed in order with base hits to drive in two Bobcat runs. Keith Hall, Betsy Layne's number eight hitter, also got into the act with a double and, before Horne could record three outs, his Rebels trailed 6-2.

Betsy Layne increased their lead with two runs in the fourth, and four more in the fifth inning before Dwight Jarrell plated Barry Hamilton to end the contest in the sixth inning.

Hamilton led the sixth off with a triple and, when Jarrell turned a 3-0 John Hancock pitch into a double, Betsy Layne found themselves up by 10 runs, which brought the mercy rule into effect.

The Bobcats banged out a total of 21 hits in the six-inning affair, but could have saved some for another game because Brad Hall shut Allen Central down at the plate.

In collecting the complete game win, Hall limited the Rebels to only four hits while striking out three and walking five. All three runs Hall gave up were of the unearned variety.

Roger Horne, however, didn't enjoy the same type of success. Betsy Layne consistently made contact off the senior right hander. Most found holes, and some that didn't were mishandled by the Allen Central defense. Although the Rebels weren't tagged with many errors, several plays could have been made but weren't.

Donnie Daniels expressed his displeasure with his team's performance and, after the second game, may have second thoughts as to who should make up his starting lineup.

And so may Junior Newsome. Monday's second game, set as a junior varsity contest, was one of the best played games of this young season.

With only one senior, Allen Central's Roger Horne, in the lineup for either team, the contest wasn't expected to be much more than a learning process for anyone concerned, but what fans saw was a better played game than the initial one.

Although Betsy Layne did commit four errors, only one came back to haunt them. That one came in the top of the fifth when Darrin Conn reached first on an error, and later came around to score.

Conn scored both Rebel runs. One in the third after he had doubled, and the other coming in the fifth inning. His runs, however, were the only ones Allen Central could score.

Sam Stewart provided Betsy Layne with that many in the first inning when the lanky freshman singled home Stacy

Hall and Chad Hamilton. The Bobcats failed to get any more run production as John Hancock and Rady Martin combined to shut Betsy Layne down; thus came extra innings.

The game was scheduled for five but they needed more. In the bottom of the sixth inning Rebel pitcher Rady Martin worked himself into trouble with a leadoff walk to Stacy Hall. He took second when Chad Hamilton grounded out then walked on home following two intentional free passes and one that wasn't so intentional.

Larry Hall picked up the easiest game-winning RBI he will ever get when Martin walked him with the bases loaded.

Todd Sturgill gained the victory, working three innings in relief of lefty Chad Hamilton. Rady Martin was the tough-luck loser, but did turn in two and one-third innings of impressive pitching.

With the two victories, Betsy Layne improves to 6-2 while Allen Central falls to 1-3. All four Rebel games have been played against the Bobcats.

Former Daredevil Finding Baseball Success At Berea

Berea College is a small school with their main recruiting tool being an outstanding educational reputation.

The school relies heavily on walk-ons to make up their athletic teams. In fact, baseball coach Tom Fisher says his recruiting budget is all but non-existent, but still Berea attracts many talented athletes.

Former McDowell Daredevil baseball player, Danny Tuttle, is one of those athletes who chose Berea College for an education rather than to be an athlete.

Tuttle, a freshman with the Mountaineers, didn't settle with just being a student though. The McDowell graduate wasn't even recruited by Tom Fisher, but now he is one of the coach's top relief pitchers.

"He's had three or four relief stints for us, and he's looked pretty good," Fisher commented. "We think Danny will be one of our top relievers, if not this year then in the years to come."

In his final year as a Daredevil, Tuttle won six games while losing only two. Although he did see some work in relief, mostly Tuttle's time on the mound came as a starter.

According to Tom Fisher, his freshman pitcher came to him with many polished assets, but also needs some additional work to make him more effective.

"We're trying to work on his curve and teach him a change," Fisher explained. "He has a good fastball, and some other things that he came in with which is good, but I think a better curve and a changeup would make him a much more effective pitcher."

"Danny can come in and throw two or three good innings, and that's how we're looking at him right now," the Berea coach continued. "We've got in a bunch of young pitchers this year so right now it depends on how they develop as to whether Danny becomes a starter or not. He could become a starter in the future, and if we get a lot of games backed up, he could start some this season, but I'd rather use him in relief."

Tom Fisher makes it obvious that he is happy to have a talented pitcher like Danny Tuttle, especially when it comes as a total surprise.

"We didn't recruit Danny, he's a walk on, but we rely on that. We count on everything we can," Fisher said. "We don't have a large recruiting budget, and we don't give athletes any more than we do a regular student so we rely heavily on walk-ons and our alumni and players getting new talent to come here."

Regardless of how Tuttle was influenced to attend Berea, Coach Fisher is happy he did, and says he is true Berea College material.

"Danny's a good talent and he is the type person we like to have at Berea. That's why I hope everything goes well for him, because he fits in so well."

"He's an excellent player to work with," Fisher continued. "I've got him in class and he seems to be an excellent student. He has good work habits, and he is the type of kid that does everything you ask of him."

Back home the compliments are just as fine. McDowell baseball coach David Hall well remembers the success Danny Tuttle brought to the Daredevil team, but more importantly Coach Hall will never forget Tuttle's quality as a person.

"Danny's a fine baseball player, and he's an equally good kid," Hall said of the McDowell graduate.

"He's one of the best human beings I've ever been around. I can't say anything bad about Danny, and nobody else can for that matter."

Not only is Danny Tuttle enjoying tremendous success at Berea College, he also brings an extra sense of pride to McDowell High School, as well as to the Mountaineer baseball program.

"That's good publicity for the school, and it gives the younger kids something to work for," David Hall mentioned. "It's really what you strive for all the time."

Tom Fisher is also hoping Tuttle can possibly open up additional avenues for Berea's Floyd county recruiting. Up to this point, Tuttle has received a fair shake from Berea College, especially their baseball program. The Mountaineers and Fisher gave Tuttle an opportunity to continue his baseball career while he completes his education.

Fisher is hoping other talented student athletes will realize Danny Tuttle's successful situation, and follow in his footsteps, the steps that lead him to the classrooms and basefield of Berea College.

HARD HITTING LEFTY: Bud Newsome collected three hits in Betsy Layne's 13-3 defeat of Allen Central. The Bobcats' first baseman also scored two runs.

THE SPORTING TIMES

(NOTE: Opinions expressed herein do not necessarily reflect those of this newspaper.)

Hold up! Time out! Stop the action! Freeze frame! Let's all pause just a second so we can realize the devastating effects our criticism will have.

From every faction that could claim to be sports related comes harsh criticism of recent actions from athletics at all levels.

The press always jumps all over unjust action of the sports world. Digging up dirt appears to be their sole means of putting together a story.

Evidently some editors think a little controversy automatically attracts attention, thus readers will buy the publication which adds up to more money for everyone involved.

Sports Illustrated paid a former player to spill his trashy guts about his experiences while winning a NCAA basketball championship. Boy, you just can't help but think how much of this was true. When a man is paid to say something, more times than not he will say what the person holding the money wants to hear.

SI can't be singled out, though. Even the little guys have joined the 'digging up dirt' band wagon. Recently the biggest project is to throw salt in the cocaine wounds of Dwight Gooden.

Sure. It was sports news, and even poor journalists would have recognized its importance, but we should draw the criticism line somewhere.

Drugs, especially cocaine, is a fact of society that includes police, the government, and everyday John and Jane Does.

Gooden broke the law by doing drugs, but from the attitude of most sports people of the mass media you would think Doctor K had done something personal to them.

On the Kentucky Network Doug Ormay was highly critical of Gooden's actions. Keith Hernandez said Gooden had made a mistake, but added that so many people looked up to him, or something to this effect. Ormay came back with, "He should have thought of that earlier."

Do you think Doug Ormay has a right to throw trash at Dwight Gooden?

Knowing Ormay personally, I had much rather have my child grow up wanting to be like Dwight Gooden. I can teach it better than to snort coke, but to not be arrogant and conceited, I might not be able to.

It all goes back to the notion that we don't know as much as we say. Kentucky is a long way from New York, and talking about baseball is a lot different than playing it. This is like county judge knocking Ronald Reagan.

One thing we have to remember, though, is that most sports writers and broadcasters had earlier visions of making athletics a way of life, but not in their present capacity. Maybe jealousy might be a reason to slice athletes futher

Virgie and Todd May, back in the early 80's, a team that scored 70-75 points a game got out of here and went to the state tournament, and Virgie did that. Really. I think the philosophy has been affected more than anything. The pace of the game has slowed down, but I think we're going to see the pendulum going the other way now. I hope they install the clock. Now, they're going to get the three-point play, but they ought to put the clock in. I've never been for the delay, stall, slow-down basketball so I'm just not a proponent of that kind of basketball. Like Dean Smith, or even our Craynor Stone, I'm just not a disciple of that kind of basketball, so I think the philosophy has changed more than anything. The fundamentals are the same. The jumpshot was in and the set shot. You don't see the set shot any more, but I think it would be a good three-point shot. About the only difference is that even teams back in the 50's ran more than they do today.

Alton: You mentioned the three-point shot. How will it change basketball on the high school level?

Pete: I think it will put the little man back into the game. I think in the 60's and 70's the pendulum swung toward the big man. Everything went toward height and jumping ability. The three-point shot is going to help the little guard who has the ability to hit the basket. I think it will put the emphasis on them. You know, today all the little guy has is, on occasion, to be a point guard for somebody. And now, those little guys who have the talent to hit the basket, the emphasis is going to be put on them. It's going to open the game up, and it's going to give these teams who have an inside-outside game an opportunity to really put it on these defenses, and I think it's going to be great for the game of basketball.

Alton: Is this something that's on a trial basis, or do you see more things dribbling down from the NCAA to high school basketball such as the shot clock?

Pete: I hope it does. I'm a proponent of the shot clock, only because the philosophy of North Carolina has infiltrated in college and the high school ranks. Even in Kentucky, to the point that everybody plays the four corner, and I don't think people pay their money to see that kind of basketball, but I think it will have an influence, and I think the three-point play is here to stay. They experimented with it in college, and the NCAA themselves loved it. On a percentage basis, not everybody, and the high schools like it even more. There are so many kids who can hit the basket from 20 feet and beyond. It's going to bring attention to these kids, and it's going to help them get scholarships, where before they didn't have a chance.

than the situation warrants.

What started in the media has swept through the fans, and now everyone wants to take advantage of every mistake. This is what confuses me.

These same people are the reason why an athlete is in the spotlight. We have made these athletes modern day heroes, society's role models, and without any desire from the person behind the basketball baseball, or football.

Dwight Gooden, John Lucas, and all other athletes get paid to perform a service for their employer. They do their job as we do ours, but we have made their occupations the most important in the U.S.

Most Americans pay big bucks to see them work, but employees of professional sports aren't allowed to make mistakes.

Folks, they are only human, and with that comes human mistakes. We expect these people to be above us. Why?

Sure. Drug use is illegal, but citizens are arrested every day because of illegal use. They aren't brought under the microscope of criticism by the press. Athletes are.

To have their private mistakes made public isn't enough either. We have to condemn them, make them outlaws, and castoffs.

Who are we to judge? If you have never made a mistake then go ahead, but with this being a criteria for complaint there would be very few complainers.

I can't understand why a professional athlete would do drugs. I can't understand why anyone would risk their lives for a fleeting high, but they do, and I'm not the one qualified to condemn them. Some people say athletes are heroes because it's all gone to height, 6'8", 6'10", 7', 7'1". Back when I played, it was rare for a guy like me to get a major scholarship to a big school like UK. You had to shoot the basketball, and that's how I got it. So it's going to help boys get scholarships, and I hope the shot clock trickles all the way down to high school, because it will determine who is the best team. It will force teams to play the full 32 minutes instead of stalling, holding the ball, and seeing who can handle the ball the best.

Alton: These two things have brought criticism, some pros and cons, but they aren't the only controversy we have in high school basketball. Consolidation has become a reality in eastern Kentucky. What is your feeling on this matter, and the effectiveness of the consolidation theory?

Pete: I'm glad you asked that question. As coach, principal, and superintendent, and in the position I hold now as administrative assistant, I am against the consolidation of high schools. I do not think it improves, first and mainly, academically as much as it reports to do. However, in athletics and other programs I don't see it improving things in those areas, and I think Allen Central, as I read in your article and I have to agree, hasn't produced basketball teams equivalent to the old Martin, Maytown, Wayland, and Garrett teams. I'm not a proponent of consolidation. I think small communities should be allowed to keep their schools. I think students do better in smaller schools where they can identify and participate. Just one crude example would take Allen Central under the four schools they had before consolidation. Those four schools, oh with just a rough guess, would have 120 to 150 boys participating in the basketball programs. All right, how many do you have participating at Allen Central? There is one comparison. Bands. How many do you have participating in the band at Allen Central? Compare that number with the number you had at the four schools. There's a lot of room for opportunity, growth, and development in the smaller schools, because it gives more students these opportunities. When you consolidate, in my opinion, you cut out 75 percent of these opportunities. In smaller schools you have smaller classrooms, and everybody will tell you the smaller the class size the more conducive to learning, than in the larger classrooms.

NOTE: Due to the length of this conversation we have opted to divide it in two parts. Catch the Pete Grigsby conversation next week and find out what Pete has to say about Martin High School, the NCAA, and a possible career in politics. Some of it will surprise you, but all of it will entertain you.

for our children. They look up to athletes. This is true, but it is our job to teach them right from wrong, not someone whom they have never met.

We have put the athlete on a pedestal, and for some reason we're always trying to knock them off. Everybody wants to test athletes for drug use. These people play games with leather-covered objects. If they fail, we don't lose anything but a game, but what happens if our political leaders fail?

Wouldn't you rather have the people who make the decisions that affect our very being tested for drugs? Athletes play with baseballs and other objects. Elected leaders play with our lives.

Still, we single out the sports figure. Maybe someone is trying to set the example, but I can't understand why it starts with the athlete.

Have we created a monster that we feel has to be brought under control? Are sports bigger than life itself? Do people look up to athletes more than they do the most powerful man in the world, the president of the United States?

Maybe we have. Maybe life revolves around athletics. If this is true then why does everyone try to tear it down?

Take a second glance. We always complain, and most of the time without good reason. Everyone is a critic, but do we really know enough to be criticizing? We have taken games intended for pleasure and turned them into mega-buck operations.

This is fine and dandy, but let's not forget that the people who play these games are as you and I. Mere mortals, with mere mortal tendencies.

Remember, we all come under criticism, and take it from me, it isn't any fun. Sometimes it's almost more than you can handle, even in this small market.

HEADED FOR ALC: David Martin signed Tuesday with Alice Lloyd College. The 6'6" forward could be just what the basketball doctor ordered to cure the Eagles' hardwood ailments.

Prestonsburg's Martin Signs With ALC

Prestonsburg High School's David Martin confirmed rumors of his intentions of attending Alice Lloyd College by signing with the Eagles yesterday afternoon.

With Blackcat coach Jeff Riley, principal Robert May, and Alice Lloyd coach Joe Stepp looking on Martin inked the papers that made him an Eagle.

"First of all I want to get a good education," Martin said of his college years. "Alice Lloyd is as good a place as any for that, and they have a good basketball program."

In his Prestonsburg career Martin scored a total of 833 points which breaks down into a 15 point per game average.

This past season the 6'6" forward scored at a 18.5 point per game clip. Martin also led the Blackcats in rebounding with a total of 255, good enough for a nine per game average.

At Alice Lloyd Martin will join eastern Kentucky talent such as Roger Fairchild from Johnson Central, and Robbie Russell formerly of Magoffin county.

The Eagles, under Joe Stepp, enjoyed one of their best seasons ever this past year, and with another addition to their front line ALC could even better their 86-87 record.

Alice Lloyd, known solely as an academic school in the past, has gained some respect for their basketball program, and David Martin could very well be the player to take Eagle round ball just a step higher.

"I think he is a multi-dimensional player," Stepp said of his latest signee. "By that I mean he is a three, four, five position player. From 16 feet in he has a nice jumpshot, and Jeff Riley did an excellent job of teaching him how to post up. He'll need some more strength to do that in college."

As is Martin, Stepp is concerned with the academic side of his basketball players but with the former Blackcats Stepp says there is no problem.

"The best thing about David is that he can be there for four years. I won't have to worry every three or four weeks where he is going to pass or not."

David Martin has obviously proven his basketball and academic ability, but the 17-year-old senior is worried about other areas of college life.

"Being able to stay away from home is the number one thing," Martin said. "As far as basketball is concerned I think I need some more strength."

Although Alice Lloyd has had players such as BB King, and Erving Stepp, Martin may very well represent the most talented player the Knott county school has ever signed.

"Coming out of high school David has as much raw talent, and maybe more than anyone we have signed," said Stepp who has recruited successfully several players from the 15th region.

Paintsville's John Pelphrey also announced where he will attend college this fall. The 6'7" Tiger forward will be a Kentucky Wildcat.

After being overlooked most of the season by the Kentucky program, Pelphrey was named Mr. Basketball, and then Eddie Sutton suddenly became interested.

Many area fans are concerned as to where Pelphrey will see any playing time, or relive the Todd May experience, but nevertheless, being a Wildcat is what John Pelphrey wanted, and a Wildcat he shall be.

MSU Spring Football Summary

After tying the school record with a seven-win season in 1986, the 1987 spring football season begins with much excitement and a determination to make last season a stepping stone to a bright future.

The coaching staff's main concern this spring season is to fill the losses on the MSU offensive line. The Eagles graduated right guard Billy Poe (AP All-American), center Howard Jacobs (Honorable-Mention All-OVC), right tackle Sam DuVall, left guard Mike Grim and left tackle Joe Wagner, all starters.

MSU also graduated All-OVC quarterback Adrian Breen on the offense. Breen led the OVC in passing completing 202 passes on 347 attempts (both new MSU single season records) for 2,301 yards and 16 touchdowns.

"Our biggest question mark going into this season is no doubt our offensive line," MSU head coach Bill Baldrige said. "We need to quickly rebuild our line to be successful and we think we can do that with the junior college help we recruited and the kids we red-shirted."

"I think we have a healthy situation at quarterback, since we red-shirted Chris Swartz and Lance Jansen last year. The competition between them and transfer Allen Stein for the starting job I think will make them all better."

The Eagles do return their leading rusher of 1986 in D.D. Harrison who ran for 619 yards on 146 attempts for a 4.2 ypa. The junior from Henderson, Ky., was also MSU's leading receiver with 35 catches for 242 yards.

Although MSU lost eight of its starters on offense, the defensive side returns seven part-time starters.

They include defensive ends Keith Ferrell (41 tackles, 25 assists) and Jeff Hester (17 tackles, 11 assists), tackles Tony Sergeant (40 tackles, 18 assists), linebacker Jay Koehler (36 tackles, 35 assists), cornerback John Mansfield (13 tackles, 10 assists), and free safety Mike Metcalf.

"The line is probably our strong point on defense," Baldrige said. "We are nearly three-deep at every position which is a big improvement from last year."

MSU also returns the OVC's leading punter in Greg Burke who averaged 44.07 yards per punt, which not only broke John Christopher's old single season record at MSU, but also established a new Ohio Valley Conference single season mark.

ALC Sweeps Clinch Valley

By OSCAR RICE
Saturday at Stumbo Park, Alice Lloyd College defeated Clinch Valley in the first game 4 to 3 behind the 3 hit pitching of Danny Rice formerly of Magoffin county High School. Rice, who no-hit Clinch Valley last year was again working on a no-hitter thru 6 innings but needed the save from Randy King to pick up the victory.

The second game was all Mark Cavins as he came on to pitch the last two innings in relief of Randy King, and got the win himself with a dramatic two run home-run in the bottom of the seventh inning.

First baseman Roger Irons had a great day in the field with several leaping grabs of errant throws, as well as a sweeping tag in the first game to save a run for Rice. Roger also had two tremendous home runs in the two games. Alice Lloyd improves to 4 and 8 and (a league leading 2 & 0) in the K.I.A.C. The next scheduled home game is April 21st against Campbellsville College at Stumbo Park.

Turkey Season Starts Today In Most Areas

The 1987 spring turkey season in Kentucky will open today, April 15, and run through April 21 or April 28, depending on the county.

Turkey season at Ft. Campbell is from April 11 through May 3 and is already in progress at Ft. Knox. The season at Land Between the Lakes opens April 15 and closes May 3. Hunters should be aware that special requirements apply at Ft. Campbell, Ft. Knox and at Land Between the Lakes, and should contact these areas before hunting.

Turkey populations throughout the state are doing well, thanks to a successful restoration program implemented by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. Hunter success ratios should increase from last year as a record number of gobblers are expected to be harvested.

Figures from last season show that 533 birds were bagged statewide, with over half of this total coming from Land Between the Lakes. Harvest estimates for the 1987 season are as high as 750 birds.

Turkey tags are available for $6.50 at outlets where hunting licenses are sold and from county clerk offices. Hunters not required to have a hunting license are not required to have a turkey permit. However, all hunters must check in a harvested turkey at a local check station or with a conservation officer before 5 p.m. on the day the bird is taken.

Shooting hours during the turkey season are from one-half hour before sunrise to 12 noon. The season limit per hunter is one turkey with a visible beard. Two turkeys may be taken only if the first is taken from Ft. Campbell, Ft. Knox or Land Between the Lakes. Hunting for a second turkey requires hunters to purchase a second tag.

Gun hunters are allowed to use shotguns only. Shotguns must be no larger than 10 gauge and no smaller than 20 gauge. Only Number 2 shot or smaller may be used.

Several new counties are open to turkey hunting this year. The complete list of open counties or portions of counties is as follows: April 15 through April 28 in Ballard, Bath, Pike, Letcher, Menifee north of US 460, Harlan, Butler east of the Green River Parkway, Boyle, Casey, Marion east of KY 55, McCreary north of KY 92 and Pulaski county.

Counties or portions of counties open from April 15 through April 21 are Adair north of the Cumberland Parkway, Bell south of US 119 and east of US 25E, Breckinridge south of US 60, Bullitt, Caldwell south of West Kentucky Parkway, Carter north of I-64, Christian, Franklin west of the Kentucky River, Greenup, Henry south of KY 22, Hopkins south of West Kentucky Parkway, Lewis east of Highway 59, Logan west of US 431, Marshall southwest of US 68, Nelson north of the Bluegrass Parkway, Taylor south of KY 70, Todd east of KY 181, Webster east of US 41A, Hancock east of KY 69 and Ohio east of US 231.

Counties which do not appear in this list are closed to turkey hunting. Wildlife management areas within open counties or open portions of counties are open. Exceptions to that are Ballard, which is closed except for that portion south of Terrell Landing Road and Swan Lake, which is closed to turkey hunting.

Poaching wild turkeys can cause open counties to be closed, or can keep newly stocked counties from being opened. Sportsmen who want to help protect the future of turkey hunting can report poachers or other game law violations by calling the 1-800-25 ALERT.

Armstrong Defends Law Banning Spotlighting

Attorney General Dave Armstrong has filed a brief with the Kentucky Supreme Court arguing that Kentucky's deer spotlighting statute is constitutional when considered along with regulations of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

The Court of Appeals, last December, held the statute was unconstitutionally broad and reversed a 1985 Casey county conviction for "spotlighting" deer. On November 9, 1984, Carroll Singleton was seen shining a spotlight across the fields and woods off Long Hollow Road in Casey county. Conservation officer Ray Floyd, who cited Singleton for "spotlighting with a gun in possession," said Singleton had a .30-06 rifle on the front seat of his vehicle, next to a cartridge, and a clip containing four cartridges in his pocket. The Court of Appeals said citizens have constitutional rights of free speech and privacy which entitle them to travel Kentucky roads without fear of being charged under the statute.

The Kentucky Supreme Court on March 4 granted Armstrong's request to review the constitutionality of the statute.

"Our brief argues that the statute is not overly broad and does not substantially infringe upon the constitutional rights of either Singleton or other citizens," Armstrong said. "The Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources have administration regulations interpreting the spotlighting law which were apparently ignored by the Court of Appeals. These regulations limit the application of the statute. The court failed to consider the limiting construction of these regulations."

"Kentucky's spotlighting law is a vital tool in the protection of our wildlife and must be upheld," he added.

The case is expected to be decided by fall.

HEADSTART STUDENTS from Paintsville helped state foresters Steve Kull, right, and Mark Hooks plant a Kentucky coffee tree near the amphitheater at Jenny Wiley State Park, last week, in state Arbor Day ceremonies. The species, which is Kentucky's state tree and can reach heights of 70 feet when mature, once was plentiful here but now is somewhat rare due to widespread clearing of the bottomlands where it grew. It makes a good shade tree, Kull said.

Common Questions Are Answered By VA Office

These are representative questions answered daily by Veterans Administration counselors. Full information is available at any VA Office.

Q.—My spouse and I are veterans of the armed forces and plan to use our GI Bill education benefits to attend school. May we claim each other as dependents?

A.—Yes. Any veteran may claim his/her spouse as a dependent for education benefits, provided a certified copy of the marriage certificate appears in both VA files.

Q.—I am a former prisoner of war, but have not been rated as service-connected disabled by the VA. Am I entitled to VA medical care?

A.—Yes, a former POW who is not service-connected disabled is eligible for VA hospital and nursing home care without regard to ability to pay. You are also eligible for outpatient care on a priority basis second only to service-connected disabled veterans. While you are receiving treatment in an approved outpatient program, you are eligible for needed medicine, glasses, hearing aids or prostheses. If your POW internment lasted 181 days or more, you are also eligible for all needed dental care.

Q.—I have been rated totally disabled and I have applied for a waiver of premium on my government life insurance. Should I continue to pay the premium?

A.—Yes. You should continue to pay premiums regularly, as they become due, until the VA notifies you of your right to waiver. Since the criterion of total disability for VA compensation and insurance purposes differ, payment of your premiums will prevent a lapse in your policy should your claim be denied.

Q.—I draw VA pension and get a questionnaire about my income each year. I just started drawing social security. Can I wait for the next questionnaire to report it?

A.—No. You should report any new income immediately. Failure to do so will probably cause you to be overpaid.

Q.—I have been contacted by a private collection agency regarding my education debt with the VA. Is this collection agency legitimate?

A.—The VA has contracted with two collection agencies to collect debts which are over one year old. Education debts have been referred to Data Com Systems Corporation and loan guaranty debts have been referred to Corliss Credit Services.

Dr. James R. Rooney, an internationally known veterinary scientist, has been named by the University of Kentucky Board of Trustees to be the first director of the Gluck Equine Research Center.

In announcing the appointment, Dean Charles E. Barnhart of the UK College of Agriculture said Rooney was selected after a worldwide search for an eminent equine researcher. He is now a professor in the UK Department Veterinary Science and considered an expert on the pathology and biomechanics of the horse.

In his new position he will direct the activities of the world's largest research facility dedicated entirely to equine health. Named after the late Maxwell Gluck, the $9 million center, on the Lexington campus, is scheduled to open this year.

As director of the center, Rooney also will be chairman of the UK Department of Veterinary Science.

MOVIE NOSTALGIA

By Evan Levine

A guy stomps through puddles, twirling an umbrella, singing loudly, with a goofy grin on his face. Occasionally he stands under a rainspout or jumps off the curb. The stuff that history is made of?

Only if the guy is Gene Kelly, and the scene is from "Singin' in the Rain," the splash-happy Betty Comden-Adolph Green creation that is everybody's favorite movie musical.

Starring the high priest of hoofers (Kelly), the princess of perky (Debbie Reynolds) and the potatote of pratfalls (Donald O'Connor), the movie tells a tale of Hollywood in flux — due to the advent of talking pictures. But it is meshed with a classic tale of boy meets girl, misplaces her, finds her in a cake, woos her, loses her, wins her and makes her a star.

Though Kelly claimed that "On the Town" was his favorite picture, to many fans "Singin' in the Rain" — one of the 10 top-grossing films of 1952 — represented the peak of his career.

Later, Kelly made films notable only for titles like "The Devil Makes Three." Unable to appear in the movie of "Guys and Dolls" because of a contract dispute, he appeared in TV specials and achieved some success as a director. But to many people, he never outdid his role as the tap-happy star in "Singin' in the Rain."

Question: What movie musical starring Barbra Streisand did Kelly direct in 1969?

Answer: "Hello, Dolly!"

Musical movies on cable: One winner and one loser

By Marianne Meyer

Although many critics dismissed "Absolute Beginners" as little more than a feature-length music video, director Julien Temple's attempt at a new form of movie musical was a noble — and occasionally brilliant — effort.

David Bowie

"Absolute Beginners" will be airing in an exclusive Cinemax presentation beginning Thursday, April 23, and it is an absolute must for those interested in film innovation, rock music or style as its own reward.

It's splashy and colorful, and features ingratiating performances by two talented newcomers (Eddie O'Connell and Patsy Kensit). But the highlights for many filmgoers were the brash pop-star cameos (David Bowie, Ray Davies and Sade). Although the climactic "West Side Story"-style race riot threatens to topple the film's delicate balance, Temple's daring, risky film deserves a second look.

The flip side of "Absolute Beginners" is a predictable, safely played musical film riddled with cliches: "Crossroads," airing Sunday, April 19, on Cinemax. Ralph Macchio stars as a young blues guitar player who comes of age while traveling through the Deep South with a crusty old black man (Joe Seneca).

It's basically "The Karate Kid Guitarist" and it's every bit as hackneyed as that sounds. Buy the soundtrack album for its tasty blues licks by Ry Cooder, and save yourself the wasted time in front of the tube.

But be sure to save Saturday, April 25, for "Will Rogers: Look Back in Laughter," an HBO special bringing together five of today's comedy superstars for a salute to America's beloved cowboy comedian. Dan Aykroyd, Chevy Chase, Rodney Dangerfield, Harold Ramis and the amazing Robin Williams lead the laugh brigade, aided by never-before-seen film footage and newsreels recalling the classic humorist's life.

April 25 is also your last chance to look into "The Many Faces of Fred Travalena," a one-hour CBN special featuring the flexible funnyman in a variety of impersonations, including Presidents Reagan, Carter, Ford and Nixon. This special spearheads the 10th anniversary celebration of CBN. So blow out the candles, all, and make a wish for more good laughs in the coming year.

SOAP BEAN

When 'OLTL' goes all out, the result is other worldly

By Marie Michaels

When the phrase "out-of-body experience" is used on a daytime drama it usually brings to mind another phrase — "Oh, no, not again." Several weeks ago, when ABC let it be known that "One Life to Live" heroine Viki Buchanan, who is played by Erika Slezak, would be having an out-of-body experience during surgery, the initial reaction was one of apprehension.

Erika Slezak

But as the storyline began to unfold (it was told over a two-week period), it became apparent that this wasn't going to be a flash-in-the-pan collection of standard one-dimensional soap-opera scenes. "OLTL" went all out and delivered a story that will doubtless be copied again and again.

One of the most notable aspects of the scenes was the quality of the production values, such as the elaborate space-vehicle set, aptly named Star Ascension, that was constructed to whisk Viki off to "heaven." The use of several rear-screen projectors provided a realistic illusion of space travel, and the lighting and costumes were excellent.

The scenes also enabled the show's producer, Paul Rauch, to resurrect several of the show's "deceased" characters and many of the original actors who portrayed them. Included among the returnees were Roscoe Born as Mitch Laurence; Les Tremayne as Viki's father, Victor Lord; Lori March as Viki's mother, Eugenie; Frank Converse as Harry O'Neill; Antony Ponzini as Vinnie Wolek; Lee Patterson as Viki's former husband, Joe Riley; Philip MacHale as Viki's brother, Tony Lord; and Lynn Benesch as Viki's sister, Meredith.

In the end, of course, Viki elected to return to her family, and her guardian angel, Virgil (played by John Fiedler), gave her that extra little push that saved her from death.

"I had a fabulous time doing the scenes, but at the same time I don't think I've ever worked so hard in my life," says Slezak. "I had over 300 pages of dialogue to memorize, and I think we must have taped the equivalent of two television movies."

"When I go to heaven," continues Slezak with a hearty laugh, "I want to go the same way that Viki did, in a white designer dress with John Fiedler leading me by the hand!"

OUR PLANET TONIGHT

John Houseman (l.) and Morgan Fairchild are the co-hosts of "Our Planet Tonight," a zany "docu-comedy" that pokes fun at TV-magazine shows. It airs WEDNESDAY, APRIL 22, on NBC.

HALL SPEAKS OUT AGAINST "GARBAGE DEAL"

In 1985 I was a candidate for Magistrate in District 3. One of the issues I confronted was our garbage system. I recommended then that the $5.00 dumping fee at our county landfill be removed to encourage people to take their garbage there to be disposed of properly.

I know for a fact that the $5.00 fee has contributed greatly to our unhealthy, unsightly, unlawful, unlimited garbage dumps within Floyd County. Yet, we seem to have a shortage of garbage in our great county—enough so that we "solicit" our neighboring counties to bring their garbage to us and use Floyd County as a "regional" garbage dump. Well, so far Knott County is the only one to accept our offer—for $35,000 annually, at a savings of $37,000. A real sweet deal! Why did other neighboring counties refuse such an offer? Could it be that most of them are downstream from us and know we will send it back to them with the first high tide?

Surely we can do something to change our image. If you remember, a short time ago there was a U.F.O. (unidentified falling object) found in a field not many miles from our county court house. It weighed 300 to 400 pounds and upon close inspection was identified as "sewage" in frozen form dropped from holding tanks of an airliner. Is it that obvious flying at ten or twelve thousand feet that it's okay to dump here?

Since our local paper touched so briefly on the "garbage deal", I'll quote a few lines from the Troublesome Creek Times, Hindman, Kentucky, dated April 1, 1987—headline on page 1:

COUNTY WILL DUMP TRASH IN FLOYD COUNTY CHEAPER

"Knott County can dump in the Floyd landfill for $35,000 annually under a five year contract. The Perry County Fiscal Court had just upped the annual price tag for Knott to $72,000...Under terms of the agreement, Knott County can negotiate another three year contract at the end of the five year term...Sawyer (County Judge Executive) said that Knott counties could take items to the landfill free of charge."

Did our Fiscal Court approve this? If so, why do we citizens and taxpayers of Floyd County have to pay a fee above our $8.00 monthly fee? How much will it cost to post signs directing our new customers to our "approved" site so that they don't mistake one of our roadside dumps for our Garth Hollow site? Let's pray we don't end up with Richmond's nerve gas or Maxie Flat's chemicals. But maybe all is not lost. Perhaps with modern technology we will be able to confine and retrieve the methane from all this garbage and replenish our financially embarrassed, county-owned gas company.

Now that we know what the news is, will someone please tell us the rest of the story???

P.S.—Do I stand alone, or are others willing to stand up and be heard?

Wheeler Takes Office As MSU Faculty Regent

Dr. Alban L. Wheeler, professor of sociology, at Morehead State University defeated three candidates to become the fifth MSU faculty member to serve on the board of regents since the General Assembly created the faculty representative position in 1968.

He succeeds Dr. John R. Duncan, professor of education, who served two consecutive terms and declined to seek a third one. The new regent will assume his seat for a three-year term at the board's next meeting.

"I sense that the faculty wants to play a very active role in the direction that this university takes over the next few years," said Dr. Wheeler, who came to MSU in 1972 and has served in various roles from faculty member to administrator.

"We have a strong and able president coming to assume the leadership of the university and an outstanding board of regents. I see this as an exciting challenge, working with people of that stature on behalf of the faculty—the key to this institution's future," Wheeler said.

Pledging accessibility to his colleagues, Dr. Wheeler said he viewed the faculty regent's role as "one of several voices from the faculty to the administration and board."

Noting that he intended to use his "knowledge, skills and energies" to represent the faculty interests, he urged faculty members to make their concerns known and said he would always be willing to listen. "One thing I learned in this campaign was that the faculty wants its regent to be accessible," he said.

"I sincerely believe Morehead State is entering an era of growth and increased faculty participation in University governance. I think this faculty will accept Dr. (C. Nelson) Grote's challenge when he said, 'Together we can.' In this kind of partnership we can move the university toward a much higher level of excellence and service to its region," Wheeler said.

His main objective at the moment, according to Dr. Wheeler, is to continue the "healing process" seen this past year under the leadership of MSU President A.D. Albright.

The new regent earned his bachelor's and master's degrees from Mississippi College and his Ph.D. degree from Mississippi State University. Prior to coming to MSU, he was a faculty member and acting dean of students at Wayland College, Plainview, Texas.

A former dean of social sciences at MSU, Dr. Wheeler currently is teaching and this past year headed up the university's new Office of Undergraduate Regional Programs. The author of several articles, he is a member of numerous professional organizations, including the Southern Sociological Society and the Kentucky Academy of Science. He also is president-elect of the MSU Chapter, Phi Kappa Phi national honor society.

MSU Student Honored For Army Service

A Morehead State University sophomore was awarded the United States Department of the Army's Achievement Medal in ceremonies on MSU's campus recently.

Anthony Dotson was recognized for his service in the recovery and identification of remains following the aircraft mishap in Gander, Newfoundland, which claimed the lives of 248 members of the 101st Airborne Division and eight crew members on Dec. 12, 1985.

At that time, Dotson, an Army sergeant, volunteered to go to Dover Air Force Base in Delaware to assist in the identification and processing. A computer operator, he spent 30 days, working 12 to 14 hours each day, updating data bases and generating reports.

Lt. Col. Alan Baldwin, MSU's Department of Military Science chair, presented Dotson with the commendation from the Secretary of the Army in recognition of his "exceptional contributions to Task Force at Ganer in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service, reflecting great credit on him and the Department of Defense."

The son of Ernie Glen Dotson of Cleveland, Va., he was released from active duty last August. During his four years in the military, he was stationed in South Carolina, Indiana, and his last assignment was Ft. Myers, Va., where he worked at the Pentagon.

Dotson, now attending MSU on an ROTC scholarship, first visited the campus on recommendation of an army friend, alumnus Rick Hudnall. Majoring in business administration with a data processing option, he hopes to receive an active duty commission upon graduation.

LITTLE PAINT FIRST CHURCH OF GOD
Pastor, Wayne Burch

If you have seen the famous and great painting, "Christ Before Pilate", you must have marveled at the skill with which the artist makes the figure of our Lord stand out against the howling mob behind Him and the imperious Roman governor before him. Everything else was bedlam; only Jesus was calm. HE was being tried, but THEY were on trial. It was always like that. Once THEY sent officers to arrest HIM, but HE arrested them. The officers answered, "Never a man spake like this man." Pilate was faced with a great decision.

- PILATE WAS FACED WITH CHRIST or CYNICISM. We live in the age of the Cynic who sees the PRICE of EVERYTHING and the VALUE of nothing. We will quickly barter our future for the fleeting present.
- PILATE WAS FACED WITH CHRIST or CRIMINALITY. Pilate released Barabbas instead of Christ; the world has had Barabbas ever since. If we do not choose the Christ, we choose the criminal. If you do not choose the BEST, you choose the BEAST!
- PILATE WAS FACED WITH CHRIST or CAESAR. By Caesar, I mean the political, social, educational, and religious set-up of this world today. Society has sold out to Caesar! The Romans wore purple robes, we wear dress suits! Whether or not we ride in Chariots, or Cadillacs, does not alter the facts!

If you're going to Africa, be prepared for something unusual in the party mix. The mopane worm, the four-inch larva of the emperor moth, is becoming a popular snack food there. In Africa, these caterpillars traditionally have been consumed fried, dried, stewed or raw. National Wildlife magazine reports that the mopane worm is now being marketed as a cheap, nutritious, fast-food item. But how do they taste? Some say they have a nutty flavor, others complain of a dry taste. Of course dryness can be avoided by eating them raw...Bon appetit!

Meritorious Achievement

Rodney Handshoe, M.D., cardiologist at Highlands Regional Medical Center, has been named a Fellow in the American College of Cardiology.

In order to qualify for this recognition, a physician must receive certification by an appropriate subspecialty board and make significant scientific contributions, as well as attain peer recognition as a consultant.

Dr. Handshoe has demonstrated his qualifications through certification by the National Board of Medical Examiners and the American Board of Internal Medicine with a Subspecialty in Cardiology.

In addition, his expertise in the areas of 2-Dimensional and Doppler Echocardiology is evidenced by publication in such prestigious journals as the Journal of American College of Cardiology, Circulation, and the Journal of Organometallic Chemistry.

To be distinguished as a Fellow is indicative of Dr. Handshoe's achievements.

Newly-hatched turtles, naturally attracted to the sea by the rising or setting sun, are easily disoriented by artificial lights from beachfront development. So, several Florida counties and towns have passed ordinances restricting beach lighting between May and October, the prime sea turtle nesting season. According to International Wildlife magazine, the protective ordinances require that beachfront lights be turned off after 11 p.m. or shielded so they don't shine directly on the beach. The penalty for not complying? A $500-a-day fine and possible jail sentence.

I am the resurrection and the life; he who believes in me, though he die, yet shall he live, and whoever lives and believes in me shall never die. (John 11:25)

These words of the Savior have more meaning than ever at Eastertime. On Easter Sunday we rejoice in Christ's victory over the grave and the promise of our own redemption. Berea Program Seeks Women In Transition

The New Opportunity School for Women, a career exploration and educational program, will begin this summer at Berea College.

Designed for women between the ages 35 and 50 who are in transitional periods in their lives, the three-week school will be in session from June 7-27 this year. There is no cost for attending.

Jane B. Stephenson, a former administrator of adult education programs at the University of Kentucky, is director of the new Berea College project. The program has been funded by The Educational Foundation of America and by Mr. and Mrs. Barry Bingham, Jr. of Louisville.

"Women living in the nine-state Appalachian territory served by Berea who have completed high school or have a GED certificate may attend the New Opportunity School for Women," Mrs. Stephenson said. "Applicants should demonstrate motivation and an eagerness to learn."

Rooms and meals will be provided at no cost to participants and grants for travel and child-care may be applied for. Children cannot be brought to the campus during the school, Mrs. Stephenson added.

The three weeks of extensive career exploration include placement in a suitable part-time job, either on the campus or in the community, with payment through the College's Student Labor Office. Through testing and individual counseling, job skills and interests will be identified. Participants also will learn to write a resume and practice job interview skills.

Educational and cultural opportunities will include classes in Appalachian literature, lectures and musical programs, and a field trip to the Cincinnati Art Museum. Author Gurney Norman will conduct two writing seminars. Other seminars will focus on building self-confidence and the management of human and financial resources. On June 25, participants will attend the Commissions on Women Conference in Lexington.

Since enrollment is limited to 12 women, qualified applicants will be invited to the Berea College campus for personal interviews, with the College paying transportation expenses.

To apply or request additional information, contact Jane Stephenson, project director, New Opportunity School for Women, CPO 2276, Berea College, Berea, Ky. 40404, or call 606-986-3919.

"WONDERWORKS" SET IN POST-NUCLEAR SOCIETY

A post-nuclear holocaust society is explored when "Wonderworks" presents "Quest Beyond Time" Saturday, May 9, at 8 p.m. on KET. The program repeats Sunday, May 10, at 11 a.m.

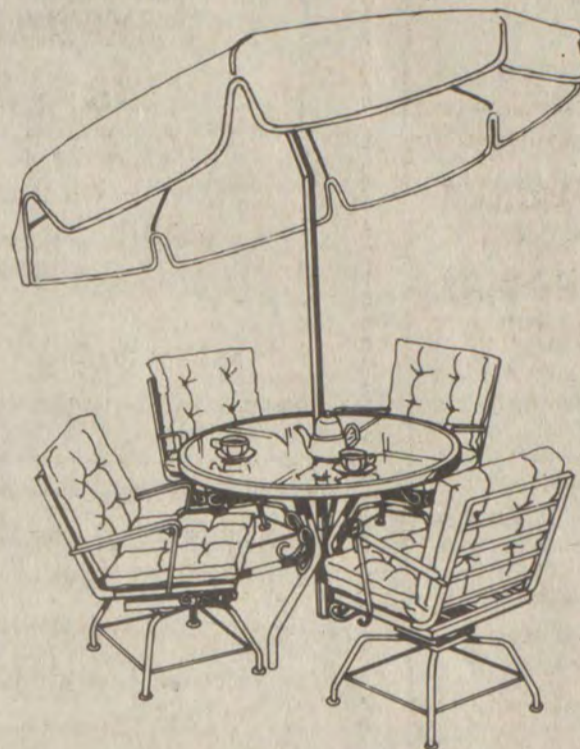

Daniel Cordeaux stars as Mike, a young hang-gliding enthusiast, who finds himself hurled 1,000 years into the future. There he finds a country grossly destroyed by nuclear war.

The inhabitants believe that his appearance with his flying machine is an answer to their prayers. Mike discovers that the country's population is slowly dying from a mysterious illness. He soon finds himself on an errand of mercy for these despairing people. The journey takes Mike through haunted lands where he has battles with strange and unusual creature-like people.

"Quest Beyond Time" is a production of the Australian Children's Television Foundation.

Mrs. G. L. Howard, who is visiting from Huntington, W. Va., with relatives here, had as her guests over the week-end Miss Ada Hambrecht, Messrs. Leo Brun and Mayo Calloway, all of Huntington.

William Thomas Dingus has returned from Davella, Ky., where he has been visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Buskirk. He will leave soon for Evansville, Indiana, where he will enter college.

Mr. and Mrs. Horton Hewlett returned Monday from Louisiana, where they were the guests of Mr. Hewlett's parents, the Rev. and Mrs. H. B. Hewlett. They are visiting here with Mrs. Hewlett's parents, Judge and Mrs. Ed Hill.

MORGAN'S MEN

The passions and bitterness of the Civil War have yielded to the touch of dispassionate time—the old hatreds are dead, the sad tragedies of that enteric strife well in the way of being forgotten. Today the memories of the Blue and the Gray intertwine, mingle, and out of them blossoms only the flowers of sacrifice and heroism, rich with the perfume of noblest purpose and achievement.

Some of these memories are recalled by a brief dispatch from Lexington, Ky., published in the Enquirer, wherein was related the story of Morgan's famous command in the twenty-fifth annual session.

John Morgan was a beau chevalier of the Old South, one of the most picturesque figures in the mighty conflict in which the destinies of the nation were decided, now so many years ago. He was a brave, dashing cavalryman. His Northern invasion was a splendid gesture, could have amounted to nothing, yet he put the fear of the Lord—or, rather, John Morgan and his mostroopers—into the hearts of Northern millions.

Morgan was a veritable military will-o'-the-wisp in the eyes of the North, a hard riding, hard fighting, merciless guerrilla. As a matter of fact, he was not a remorseless military bandit, but a Southern gentleman and a soldier, a strong man, fired with the faith of his people in the justice of their cause and ready to fight and die in its support. The events and incidents of the famous raid were replete with all the elements of romance and dream, athrob with the impulses and revelations of high adventure. His capture, imprisonment and escape constitute one of the most thrilling stories of the war. He died like a soldier, his raid is a figment of memory; but so long as men thrill to the narration of a great tale, he will live as an exemplar of high patriotism and soldierly virtue. His hard riders have vanished—all but a pathetic few. It was this remnant which gathered the other day at Lexington to fraternize and recount old tales of hardship and adventure. And it was here that a colorful incident was re-enacted. The widow of a Confederate General personally presented to each of Morgan's survivors—as she had done each year for many years—a red, red rose, the red rose of courage and glory. It was most appropriate, and most touching.

HILL LOSES BY SCANT 40 VOTES

Lauhon's Opponent Charges Padded Election Returns

In one of the closest political races ever staged in this senatorial district, E. D. Stephenson, of Pikeville, won, returns show, over Alex L. Hill, of this place, by a majority of 40 votes for the Democratic nomination for state senator from the Floyd-Pike-Knott district. The Pike county man polled 3,577 votes, while Mr. Hill received 3,537. F. Tom Hatcher, of Pikeville, ran third with a total vote of 2,134. Though official returns from all the counties are lacking, Miller Hughes, of Wickliffe, apparently has defeated Edward L. Allen, of Prestonsburg for the Republican nomination for Attorney General. With a few counties not reported, it was said early this week that Tom Lauhon, Big Sandy's candidate for Railroad Commissioner on the Republican ticket was leading by approximately 1,000 votes. Mr. Lauhon is believed to be the winner. CHARGES PADDED RETURNS Charges of padded election returns Saturday in the Republican primary for Railroad Commissioner in this district, embracing 48 counties in Eastern Kentucky, were made last week by A. B. Combs, of Hazard, one of seven candidates.

"I have discovered evidence which indicates fraud and I am taking precautions to have a close watch maintained with a view to filing a suit in event I am counted out," Mr. Combs said. "In Floyd county, I discovered that official returns showed 750 more votes cast than in the gubernatorial race, which of course drew the most interest.

"In Floyd county, Tom Lauhon, Catlettsburg, was credited with 2,489 votes, whereas only 1,919 votes were cast in the governor's race. Judge Fiem D. Sampson got 1,568 and Robert H. Lucas 251 in the race for governor.

"In this county I was credited with only 26 votes. Other Republican candidates for Railroad Commissioner and their returns in Floyd county were: "Lee Reed, Wolfe county, 10; E. O. Kash, Jackson, 5; B. F. Smith, Clay county, 15; and Colonel Ike Wilder, Booneville, 108.

Mr. Combs, who was in Prestonsburg Thursday, said that the race was close and that the ultimate result would not be known until the state election commission made its report. Expressing doubt that Mr. Lauhon was nominated, he said that he rolled up a majority of 9000 votes in Jackson, Harlan, Leslie, Clay, Bell and Whitley counties. To this he continued, was to be added his majority in the sixth district of 86 votes and his majorities in the Ninth district, where he carried six of nine counties, the other three being carried by H. C. Chappell, of Middlesboro.

A statement could not be secured from Mr. Lauhon this week, but when he was here early last week, he expressed confidence in his nomination. Though Mr. Combs made no statement as to his intention of contesting the election, he examined records in the county clerk's office while here.

No contest suits have been filed in this county to date, though preparations are being made in contemplation of one such action, it is said. Waits May, unopposed candidate for the Republican nomination for County surveyor, was awarded a certificate of nomination this week by County Clerk I. A. Smiley.

"I called my cousin, A. B. Combs, attorney at Prestonsburg, and asked him to investigate the vote in Floyd county. I have encountered difficulty in obtaining accurate information of the official returns in many counties. However, I have learned that my total vote was in excess of 16,000, and may be considerable more. Four years ago, when there were six candidates, a total of 10,455 votes won the nomination by approximately 3,000 majority."

Jones Annoyed

Expressing considerable annoyance at Mr. Stephens' refusal to accept the salary schedule for teachers submitted by the state department of education, O. J. Jones, assistant superintendent of public instruction, in turn refused last week to accept Mr. Stephens' schedule and submitted another of his own for approval here. This, Mr. Stephens said Tuesday, would also be rejected. He stated that he would submit practically the same schedule as that previously sent to the state department.

Placing the minimum salary at $90, the state department offers in its schedule to give $1.50 for high school credits above eight units and not exceeding 16; 25 cents for each college semester hour not in excess of 128 hours; $2.50 for each year of experience up to four years, and $1 per pupil above the general attendance average of 35.

"This schedule is accompanied by the note: "No teacher will be added to our present corps whose scholarship is below two years of high school." This provision was also unacceptable this would bar many of the county's veteran teachers whose ability is untold to the local board, since it held that questioned.

The schedule most recently submitted by Mr. Stephens and rejected by the state board follows: Minimum salary of $70 a month; 75 cents for each high school credit up to 16 units; 20 cents for each semester hour of college work up to 128 hours; $2 for each year of teaching experience up to four years; $1 for principalship; $2 per month for summer school attendance; and 50 cents for attendance averaging above 35.

The state department's salary schedule, the county board holds, is unsatisfactory for the reason that it will not afford a salary sufficient to justify veteran teachers who have had little high school and college work to continue in the profession. Experience with these teachers shows, Mr. Stephens says, that they cannot be supplanted by younger teachers who will render service as capable as that given by the veterans. Another objection to the schedule is that no teacher would receive additional pay for high school work unless he or she has completed more than eight units of work. Under the plan submitted by Mr. Stephens, the teacher would receive credit for each year of high school work.

...about your Social Security

DOING BUSINESS WITH SOCIAL SECURITY

By JIM KELLY, Social Security District Director, Big Sandy Area

If you need to get in touch with Social Security, Jim Kelly, Social Security District Director for the Big Sandy area, has some important tips for you. They will enable you to conduct your business as quickly and as easily as possible.

"One big suggestion I have is to use the phone more," Kelly said. "Most Social Security matters can be handled this way. For example, you can: request a Social Security number application for your child; apply for monthly benefits; or other event that may affect your benefits; get assistance in filling out a Medicare form; and get answers to questions."

"Of course, some people prefer to visit a Social Security office and talk directly with a representative, Kelly said. In this case, they can call and ask for an appointment so that the waiting time in the office will be shortened. Also, they can find out what information and documents to bring with them."

"Although you can call Social Security any time during regular business hours Monday through Friday, there are certain periods when you are less likely to get a busy signal," Kelly explained. "Unless the business is urgent or you want to apply for benefits, the best time to call is after the middle of the month. Also, afternoons and the last half of each week are generally less busy than mornings or early in the week."

HOW DISABILITY, KIDNEY FAILURE AFFECT MED. COVERAGE

A person who is under 65 and disabled is automatically covered under Medicare hospital insurance after he or she has been entitled to Social Security disability benefits for 24 months.

A widow or widower between 50 and 65 who has been disabled for at least two years but who has not applied for Social Security disability benefits, because he or she is receiving other Social Security benefits may be eligible for hospital insurance. Additional information about this coverage may be obtained at any Social Security office.

A government employee who is disabled before 65 may be eligible for Medicare on the basis of his or her government employment. In general, a 29-month waiting period is required before hospital insurance protection can start; however, the person should contact a Social Security office as soon as he or she becomes disabled.

A worker, his or her spouse, or dependent child who needs kidney dialysis or a kidney transplant should also apply for Medicare at any Social Security office. If the person is unable to visit an office, the application process can be started by phone.

If the person is eligible for Medicare, protection generally starts with the third month following the month in which maintenance dialysis treatments begin; however, under certain conditions, coverage could start earlier. The people in the Social Security office can provide information about the time Medicare protection will actually begin.

You can visit the Big Sandy Area Social Security office located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. The telephone number is listed in your local telephone directory under U.S. Government.

Collins Launches Drive To Clean Up Kentucky

"Business people tell us that the appearance of a community is a very important factor in attracting industry. People who take pride in their communities and keep them clean are people who work hard and take pride in their products."

Thus spoke Governor Martha L. Collins last month in launching a year-round cleanup drive throughout the state. The campaign, which will culminate next September with awards to citizens and groups for outstanding cleanup efforts, also will include: "Adopt-A-Spot, in which local groups choose a location such as a city block, a creek or a highway to clean up and to keep clean throughout the year."

"Colonel Kentucky, a comic-strip character to lead public school students in increasing their environmental awareness."

"Clean Line, a toll-free number which citizens can call to report illegal dump sites and people who litter highways. The number is 1-800-443-5733."

"Local coordinators, to lead "spring cleaning" efforts. Floyd county's coordinator is Robert McAninch, PCC professor of political science and director of the Floyd County Solid Waste program."

According to information provided by the governor's office, Kentuckians generate 4.6 million tons of trash each year, or about five pounds per person every day. Only two-thirds of Kentucky's population subscribe to a garbage service, and about 13 percent of Kentuckians dump or burn their trash illegally. Every day, 900 tons of waste are disposed of illegally in the state.

One cubic foot of garbage can generate 75,000 flies, and 22 known human diseases can be traced to improper waste management. One-third of all Kentucky forest fires start from burning trash.

Fruit Crops Unharmed By Recent Cold Weather

Kentucky peach and apple growers still have reasonable hopes of an above-average harvest this year, despite unseasonable snow squalls that covered most of the state early this month.

Gerald R. Brown, an Extension fruit crops specialist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, said growing conditions last winter and summer were favorable for bud development on fruit trees this spring, and that recent cold snaps across most of the state did not seriously reduce the potential for a better than usual harvest.

"I just got back from an inspection tour across the southern tier of counties, where most of our apples and peaches are grown, and almost everywhere I've been the apples look super good, and the peaches look almost as good," Brown said.

"There are still far more buds left on the apple trees than needed to produce a full crop. And most of the peach orchards I visited still have enough buds left for a full crop," he said.

There is still the chance, however, that another cold snap could damage both crops. Freezing temperatures which could destroy large portions of the crop have been recorded in the fruit growing regions of Kentucky well into April in past years, according to the Agricultural Weather Center at UK.

"We recorded a temperature of 26 F in Lexington in May of 1966, and had a low of 18 F in Lexington in April of 1982, said Tom Priddy, UK's chief meteorologist.

"Granted, Lexington is not apple-growing country, but if it's 18 degrees in Lexington, chances are it's going to be cold in Casey county too," Priddy said.

"Of course, I can't see into the future, but as this point, barring any disastrous weather, I'd say we're in for pretty good crop this year," Brown said.
