Council Decides Cruiser Policy, Okays Festival Traffic Pattern

By Kurt Pickering

Prestonsburg City Council voted to make a donation to the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre, decided to advertise for bids on a motor fuel contract and set Trick or Treat night for 1987 in its Monday evening session.

Bill Francis, a past president of the Jenny Wiley Theatre Board and recent appointee to the Kentucky Arts Council, and theatre General Manager Jim Deaton appeared before the council to ask for the donation. The theater is trying to raise $50,000 in its 28-day fund drive, much of which would be matched by the state.

Francis said Paintsville had donated $3,000 and that the theater was looking for similar contributions from other area cities.

Although enthusiastic about the theater, council members resisted a cash outlay. At one point, Mayor Ann Latta said, "The question that was just asked up here (apparently by a council member) is 'Do we have any money?'" Latta then asked for input from City Manager Fred James, who suggested in-kind contributions. "I think we could give $3,000 and exceed that with in-kind services," he said.

Deaton pointed out that in-kind contributions do not qualify for matching state funds, and Francis asked that a meeting be set up between James and Deaton to try to work out a donation. A motion to this effect was passed unanimously.

James said he had not advertised for fuel bids on an official basis but did have two unofficial price quotes.

James alluded to past problems with one, an out-of-town supplier, and Fire Chief Tom Blackburn elaborated citing an instance of gasoline being put in the city's diesel fuel holding tank and vice versa about 18 months ago. Blackburn said the result was "every truck I have went down."

Blackburn also said the local firm provides more reliable service.

At the suggestion of both Mayor Latta and Manager James, Council voted to advertise for bids from all suppliers and take the matter up again after bids are reviewed.

In another matter involving the fire department, council followed Blackburn's recommendation to table repair bids on a fire truck. Instead Blackburn said the oldest truck should be declared surplus and sold after the city buys a new truck with a Big Sandy Area Development District grant. Repairs can then be made on the second-oldest truck now in use. "We can stretch that one out until next summer, anyway," Blackburn said.

Despite opposition from Councilman Thomas J. Tackett, it was voted to designate Saturday, October 31, Trick or Treat night in Prestonsburg. Hours will be 6 to 8 p.m.

Tackett felt any weeknight was a safer night to allow youngsters to roam the neighborhoods than any Saturday. Mayor Latta and the rest of the council felt there was no choice other than Saturday, however, since the preceding Friday's Prestonsburg football game is not only at home but is Homecoming. Council assumes there will be Homecoming-related activities Thurs- (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

Rock Truck Drivers Injured In Early Morning Collision

By B.A. Heinze

Two rock truck drivers are counting themselves lucky to be alive. Stanley Dean Young, 31, of Sitka, and Alvin Taylor, 30, of Prestonsburg, survived a head-on collision early Monday morning.

It was foggy on the steep side road leading to the Branham and Baker Coal Company's work site atop Brush Creek hill on Rt. 850 when Young started the return trip back up the hill, his truck empty. At the same time, Taylor was bringing a load of rock down the road. It is thought the heavy fog may have prevented the drivers' seeing each other.

The Floyd County Emergency Rescue Squad's 'jaws of life' were necessary to extricate Young from his truck.

He was taken to Highlands Regional Medical Center where he was said, yesterday morning (Tuesday) to be suffering multiple fractures but to be in stable condition.

The other driver, Taylor, was also taken to Highlands Regional where he was examined.

The accident is still under investigation by the Department of Mines and Minerals, and the cause has not yet been determined.

Quick and efficient rescue efforts by other workers on the scene were praised by Chuck Akers, captain of the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad, who said, "The men had already pulled the steering column off him when we got there. They were doing a great job working with what they had. Actually, we just helped them with our equipment."

Akers added, "Any time we are called to an accident where coal employees are involved, their cooperation is just great. They work as a team."

TWO ROCK TRUCK DRIVERS, though injured, escaped with their lives when their trucks collided head-on, early Monday morning.

Officers Block Two Jail Break Attempts

By Tim Sizemore

The Floyd county jail was the scene last week of two unrelated escape attempts.

Glenda Sue Pennington, 36, of Melvin, was arrested last Monday after attempting to smuggle in a gun to her husband, Wiley Keith Pennington, who is being held on a variety of charges including parole violation and armed robbery.

State police received an anonymous tip that an attempt was to be made by Pennington's wife to help him escape. The informant said she would have a concealed handgun and either attempt to give her husband the weapon or force the jailer to free him.

Police were informed that Mrs. Pennington had purchased a gun that morning and had concealed it in her purse.

Three plainclothes State Police officers, Les Stapleton, Jim Stevens, and Danny Stumbo, waited for the arrival of the suspect at the county jail. Uniformed officers were kept in the background to allay any suspicions that Mrs. Pennington might have.

When the suspect arrived, she left her purse in the jailer's office and went back downstairs to purchase a pack of chewing tobacco. In a short time, she returned and made a grab for her bag at which time the officers took her into custody. A search revealed that Mrs. Pennington, besides having a two-shot 32 caliber deringer, was carrying six extra 32 shells, three 12-gauge shotgun shells and a one-bladed knife.

Charged with having a concealed deadly weapon and promoting contraband, she is now lodged along with her husband in the Floyd county jail.

In an unrelated escape attempt last Wednesday, Dennis Horn, 18, of Allen, tried to overpower turnkey David Blackburn while he was putting up mop buckets in the lockup. Sheriff Henry C. (See Story No. 3, Page 4)

Brerton Jones Here On Swing thru Area

By Tim Sizemore

Brerton Jones, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, was in Prestonsburg, yesterday, to explain his views concerning the region's future development.

Jones advocates more industries such as furniture making and tourism being encouraged. He says that there is too much red tape involved in mining regulations and that the state should work harder to promote the industry.

Other concerns of the Woodford county native include indigent health care and black lung benefits. Jones believes that fraudulent black lung claims should be weeded out and people deserving the benefits should receive larger compensation.

Jones is president of The Kentucky Health Care Access Foundation that helps provide care to indigent Kentuckians. He said that over 2,300 doctors around the state are participating in the program which has helped more than 20,000 people.

Jones who has been campaigning for two years has visited all 120 counties.

Rosenberg Is Named Merit Semifinalist

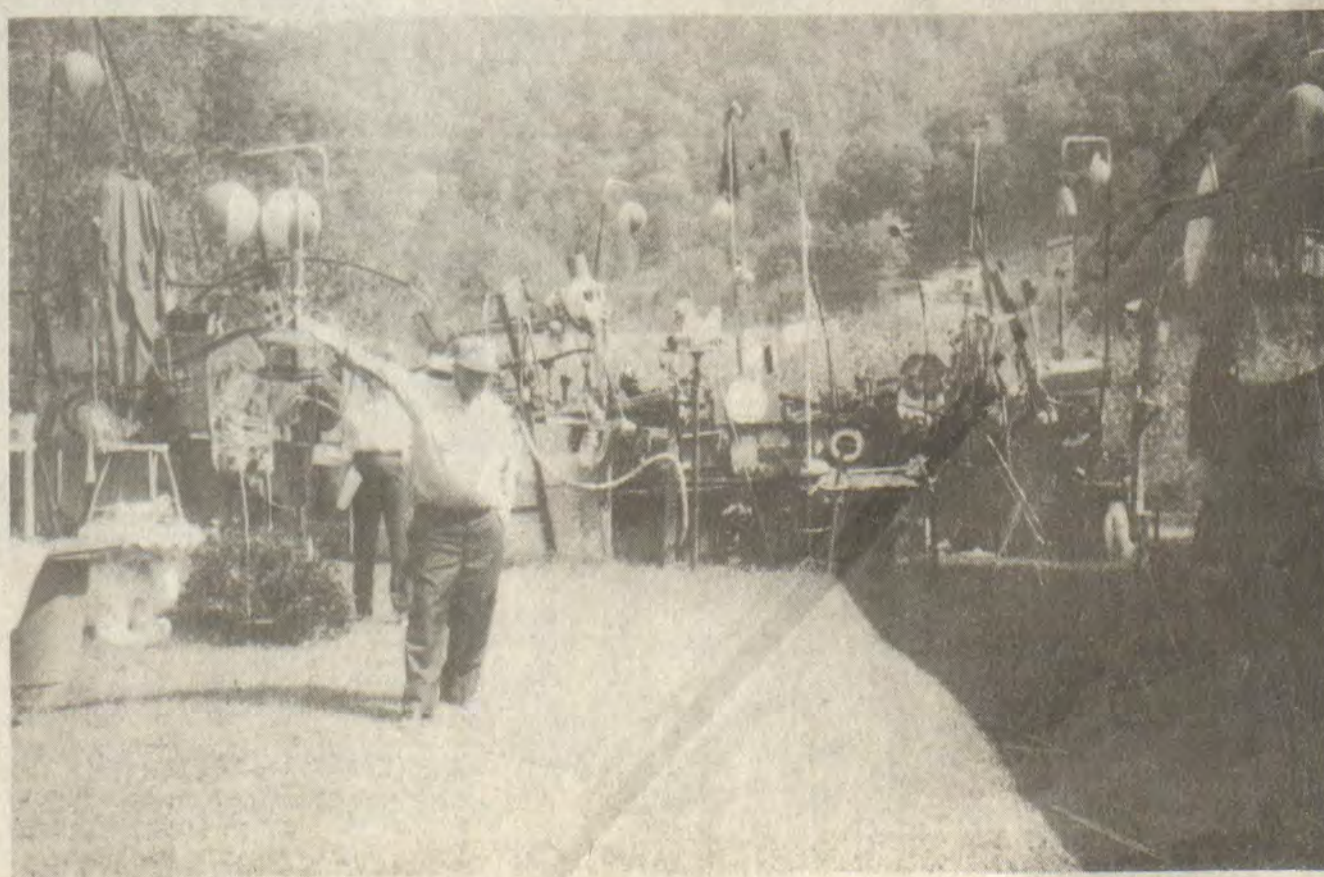

By B.A. Heinze

Competing with more than a million other students in approximately 19,000 secondary schools across the nation, Michael J. Rosenberg, senior at Prestonsburg High School, has been named a National Merit Scholarship semifinalist.

Rosenberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Rosenberg, of Prestonsburg, is one of 230 Kentucky students to be so honored.

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation honors students for academic excellence. The 15,000 who were chosen semifinalists, nationwide, are competing for around 6,000 college scholarships valued at more than $23 million. These will be awarded by the end of the school year, and 90 percent of the semifinalists are expected to advance to finalist standing. Of these, about 44 percent will receive Merit Scholarships.

The only neighboring school with students ranked as National Merit Scholarship semifinalists is Pikeville High School with two, Jessamyn I. Bagley and Eliot F. Ward.

A REAL COLLECTOR, Epp Gibson, of Salt Lick, stands among the treasures he has acquired in a lifetime.

Country Collector Makes His Own World of Wonder

By Tim Sizemore

Up on Salt Lick there is a man who is a collector. What does he collect you ask? Anything you can think of—including the kitchen sink.

His name is Epp Gibson and he's been an institution on the creek for many years.

Gibson, who lives beside the road, dazzles people from far and near with his display of odds and ends that completely surrounds his house like a stockade fence.

When you enter the yard, you pass under a metal arch that is decorated with strips of blue cloth, old tools and appliances. This wall of memorabilia stands 10 feet or more high and every conceivable spot to place an item has been filled. Old tubs with flowers stand near the fences and give his arrangement a touch of elegance. Visiting Gibson can only be compared to a miniature county fair.

If you are in the market for a stove, iron, old doll, plowshare, or whatever, chances are you will find it displayed on his fence. Anything in Gibsons' yard is for sale, but don't be fooled by his country manners for he is a shrewd trader who would just as soon keep an item as sell it for less than it is worth.

Old pants, stretched on two by fours, fly in the wind like pennants at a medieval joust and old toys beckon the mind back to the simpler days of childhood. Some people may think that the yard is cluttered, but that is not the case. Mr. Gibson has worked carefully to place each object on his fences and his house. The fact of the matter is that his whole place could be considered folk art.

Mr. Gibson, who was born and raised on Salt Lick, has collected for years and has no intention of stopping. He says that his first inspiration to collect came from his mother and his late wife. For years, he has visited flea markets and yard sales to add items to his ever-expanding inventory.

Epp Gibson is a gentle man who has lived alone for six years since the death of his wife. He sits on his front porch admiring his collection and watching walnuts fall off the huge tree in his yard. This is a world he has created, and you know he is master of it.

Senator McGovern Accepts Drinko Chair at Marshall

Former U.S. Senator George McGovern has accepted an appointment as the first occupant of Marshall University's new John Deaver Drinko and Elizabeth G. Drinko Distinguished Chair in Liberal Arts, MU President Dale F. Nitzschke announced recently.

McGovern, the 1972 Democratic nominee for the presidency of the United States, was at Marshall, Wednesday, Sept. 23, through Monday, Sept. 28, and will return Monday, Oct. 19, through Friday, Oct. 23, Nitzschke said.

In addition to lecturing at Marshall, McGovern will speak at a series of events in Huntington, Charleston and Ashland, Nitzschke said.

"We're delighted that an individual of Senator McGovern's stature has accepted our offer to become the first occupant of the Drinko Chair," Nitzschke said. "His lectures and his off-campus appearances will bring true meaning to the word 'distinguished' in connection with the Drinko Chair."

Nitzschke said negotiations currently are under way with another nationally-prominent individual to occupy the distinguished chair later in the year.

The Drinko Chair is being funded with a $1 million contribution from MU alumnus John D. Drinko, of Lyndhurst, Ohio, senior managing partner of one of the nation's largest law firms, and his wife, Elizabeth. The gift is being invested and annual proceeds will be used to bring outstanding figures to campus as distinguished lecturers.

The son of a Methodist minister, McGovern was born and reared in South Dakota. He received his B.A. degree from Dakota Wesleyan University and his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Northwestern University, majoring in history.

He served as a B-24 bomber pilot in World War II and was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Elected to the U.S. House of Representatives in 1956 and 1958, McGovern was appointed director of the Food for Peace program by President John F. Kennedy.

He was elected to the U.S. Senate in 1962 and re-elected in 1968 and 1974. During his 18-year Senate career, he became a leader in the movement to end the war in Vietnam and led the effort to forge a national nutrition policy for the United States.

McGovern won the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972 and was defeated in the general election by Richard M. Nixon. He was appointed a delegate to the United Nations by both President Gerald Ford and President Jimmy Carter.

McGovern and his wife, Eleanor, have four daughters and one son. They now reside in Washington, D.C.

Since leaving the U.S. Senate in 1981, McGovern has served as a guest speaker at Northwestern University, the University of New Orleans, Duke University, American University, The University of Pennsylvania and The University of Munich.

JACKIE EDFORD OWENS MAGISTRATE, DIST. 2

During the last Fiscal Court Meeting, I made the motion that would have kept the surrounding counties' garbage out of Floyd County. The Fiscal Court has the power to pass a resolution barring any other county from dumping garbage in Floyd County. The reason I was so concerned about this was because I had been notified by a friend that we possibly might be getting Pike County's garbage in the near future. People, Pike County is one of the biggest counties in Eastern Kentucky and is also one of the biggest counties in the Eastern United States. It won't take long to fill up our landfill if we take in garbage from five or six counties like Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo wants us to.

I don't think we need to be taking in who knows what from these surrounding counties. It could be hazardous waste or it could be chemicals that shouldn't be mixed together that companies and factories are trying to get rid of or it could be anything. I'm sure all these surrounding hospitals in these other counties will be using this dump, too. You know and I know that if you've got something that you want to get rid of, you're going to send it to the dump. People, this dump is right at the town of Martin's backdoor. If it ever pollutes the water or the air—WHICH IS POSSIBLE—Martin is going to be the first one to get it. It don't make sense to have your garbage dump at Martin upstream from your waterplant which is at Allen and Prestonsburg—water which pulls from Prestonsburg. If it ever pollutes the creeks and steams—we will all get a drink of it up and down Left and Right Beavers as well as the Prestonsburg area. Luckily, the water supply in the Harold area shouldn't be affected because it is upstream towards Pike County.

People I VOTED TO STOP IT; Gerald DeRossett, Dist. 1 Magistrate, voted to stop it; Dist. 3 Magistrate and Board Member of Floyd County Solid Waste Ed Caudill voted to take other people's garbage; Dist. 4 Magistrate Ermal Tackett voted to take the garbage with Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo breaking the tie, making it 3-2 to accept the garbage. People, if you have got 3 votes in a 5-member Fiscal Court you can shove anything you want to down the poor people's throat.

I wouldn't say Floyd County is like that—would you?

P.S.—People of Dist. 2—we have only received the dozer 3 days in nearly 2 years in office. The county owns 3 dozers, so I want you to know that it's not because I have not been trying to get the dozer. The dozer work that I have got promised on the cemeteries in Dist. 2 will be done if I have to call on my friends with their own private equipment who have helped me out before. I can assure the people of Dist. 2 that I am going to keep voting the right votes no matter what I have to work with or without.

"Parental Leave" Proposal Worries Business Owners

An overwhelming majority of small-business owners in Kentucky oppose legislation that would make them hold jobs open for workers on extended leave, according to results of a survey by the National Federation of Independent Business/Kentucky.

Edward Bowman, director of the state's largest small-business group, recently criticized a key element of proposed federal legislation as a "well-intended policy that would, in reality, relegate women to part-time, non-benefitted jobs."

Of those small-business owners responding to a nationwide NFIB poll, 81 percent oppose a proposal similar to the two bills now before the U.S. Congress. The latest proposal, introduced by Rep. Patricia Schroeder (D-CO), would require businesses to grant job protection and paid health benefits for up to four-and-a-half months to workers on leave to care for new-born children or sick relatives.

Only 10 percent favor the proposal, while the remaining nine percent are undecided.

In Kentucky, a parental leave bill had been pre-filed for the 1988 legislative session, but recently was withdrawn from consideration.

"What parents need in the workforce is flexibility," Bowman said. "Both employers and employees need to be flexible. And the current proposed federal legislation doesn't meet the needs of employers or employees," he added.

But supporters of parental leave argue that, unless such benefits are made mandatory, workers are forced to make a cruel choice—to give up their jobs to spend a few months of 'critical' time with an infant or a seriously ill relative. They note that, among all developed nations, the U.S. is the only country without mandatory parental leave policies.

Most employers "oppose the concept for a host of reasons, ranging from philosophical to the practical," Bowman said. At the philosophic end "business owners believe that leave policies and other benefits should be negotiated between individual employers and their workers, not dictated from the capitol," he said.

"Practically speaking, most small businesses are too small to absorb the costs of paying the salaries of two employees for one job," Bowman added. "Employers already are paying unemployment insurance, workers' compensation and social security taxes. Adding another mandated benefit increases the cost of hiring employees," he said. "I'm concerned this will deter job creation in the small-business sector—the leading industry creating jobs in the U.S. and Kentucky," Bowman said.

"If in fact government is going to get involved, it should share the cost with employers," he added.

The Question of Waste Disposal—And Where

We have no political axes to grind and the following is not said to take sides for or against any group or individual. That said, we must also say that it seems to us that if Floyd County's Solid Waste management plan is to make our county a regional waste/garbage dump, then the people of this county should be consulted.

This is not a temporary arrangement that can be remedied at the next election. This is long term and may well be one of the most important issues facing ours and future generations. Waste disposal is not just garbage. It is batteries, generators, plastic which does not degenerate. It's a big problem, nationwide, and it's going to get bigger, nastier, and probably more toxic.

We are said to have a waste disposal site that will last for many years, and in that regard, we are fortunate. But do we need the junk, waste, garbage of adjoining counties? Oh, yes, they will pay us needed income we're told. If this is such a wonderful scheme, why don't some of these counties want to take our waste for a price?

The fiscal court should handle fiscal matters. This, however, goes beyond that. It could, and we believe will, affect the health, the environment of our county for generations to come.

I have only one grandchild, but I hope and trust I may leave her a better legacy than a waste/garbage dump—regional or otherwise.

It's high time to speak up!

day as well, leaving Saturday the only possible night.

Mayor Latta reported on a Kentucky Municipal League convention, including some pre-filed legislation of interest to local governments. One would eliminate city primary elections; another would set up staggered four-year terms for councils, rather than the current two-year terms with all council members up for re-election at the same time; a third would eliminate the current system of classifying cities solely according to population in favor of a system that would take into account factors such as area population density and geography.

Council formally adopted a two-page list of regulations concerning the use of police cruisers by officers under the one officer, one cruiser "home fleet" policy. This is the policy currently in use by the city of Mt. Sterling and similar to that of Prestonsburg. Both cities allow the take-home use of cruisers by officers who live within a specified radius of city limits—four miles from Prestonsburg, two miles from Mt. Sterling.

James did mention that he hoped the home fleet policy would serve to slow drivers using Prestonsburg's back streets. "Our back streets are becoming through highways because of our traffic problems," James said, citing several complaints from residents about cars going too fast on such streets, and several council members said they had received similar complaints.

Council approved a one-day closing of Court Street and a same-day reversal of two one-way routes on October 10, the Saturday of the Jenny Wiley Festival. Court will be closed to traffic from Lake Drive to First Avenue, although cross traffic on Arnold Avenue will continue. Also, that day only, Goble Street from Arnold to First and First from Goble to Court will be one-way in the opposite direction.

Latta also said she has been told the new Jenny Wiley Memorial will be ready and in place in time to be unveiled in ceremonies planned for 10 a.m. that day.

One other announcement by Latta indicated that CCG Cable, beginning tomorrow, October 1, will substitute four new channels for four existing ones on the cable system. Gone from the lineup during October will be the Nashville Network, the USA Network, Nickleodeon and Lifetime. Replacing these four will be MTV, Arts and Entertainment, C-SPAN and Discovery. According to information from CCG quoted by Latta, a vote will be conducted in late October, and the four channels receiving the most votes will be permanently placed on the system.

Present for Monday's meeting were Latta and council members Adrian Blackburn, Dr. Gary Brown, William Callihan, William Goebel, Margie Osborne and Tackett. Frank Adams and Harry Ray Porter were absent.

Council's next scheduled meeting is October 12.

Jobless Rate Lowest In Almost Six Years

New jobs in a half dozen fields—with particular strength shown in agriculture, education and trade—helped to push Kentucky's unemployment rate in August to the lowest point in nearly six years.

Gains also were recorded across Kentucky in construction, manufacturing and transportation, communications and utilities, according to figures released recently by the Cabinet for Human Resources.

The preliminary August figure of 7.4 percent declined by a significant 1.5 percent from a revised 8.9 percent in July. The August rate is the lowest recorded in Kentucky since October 1981, when unemployment stood at 7.0 percent.

"An expected jump in agricultural jobs, coupled with increases in trade and education, boosted overall employment, leading to 15,700 additional Kentuckians working between July and August," said state labor market analyst Ed Blackwell.

"This growth in the number of people holding jobs, combined with students dropping out of the labor force to return to school, pushed the rate down."

Nationally, unemployment fell from 6.1 percent in July to 5.8 percent in August. The comparable state and national rates are not seasonally adjusted.

Blackwell said that more than half of the new jobs opened between July and August were in farm employment, which increased by 9,200, largely as a result of the tobacco harvest season.

"Substantial gains also were recorded in trade, as preliminary August figures showed 2,600 more people working in this sector than in July," he said.

"Most of this growth was in department stores and apparel and accessory stores.

"We gained 2,000 jobs in education, as some schools opened early and hourly workers were back on the job after the summer hiatus," Blackwell said.

Additional increases were posted in construction (1,000), manufacturing (900), and transportation, communications and utilities (800). The category that includes self-employed persons, domestic workers and unpaid workers in family businesses grew by 1,700.

State and local governments recorded 2,800 fewer jobs, which Blackwell attributed to students with summer jobs leaving work to return to school. Service jobs were down by 1,100 and finance, insurance and real estate employment declined by 200.

The federal estimate of Kentuckians working in August was 1,546,900, up from 1,531,200 in July but 2,200 below the August 1986 figure of 1,549,100.

An estimated 124,500 Kentuckians were unemployed in August, down 24,200 from July's 148,700 and 20,800 below the August 1986 estimate of 145,300, when the jobless rate was 8.6 percent.

Kentucky's civilian labor force estimate for August was 1,671,400, down 8,500 from the July figure of 1,679,900 and 23,000 below the August 1986 report of 1,694,400. The civilian labor force includes non-military people who are working and unemployed people who actively are seeking jobs. It does not include anyone who is unemployed but has not looked for a job for four weeks.

Unemployment statistics are based on estimates and are compiled to measure employment trends rather than to actually count people working.

Young, Old To Look At Internat'l Policy

The Close Up Foundation's Program for Older Americans has announced a unique intergenerational program that will give mature adults and high school students the opportunity to exchange ideas while learning more about the arena of international relations.

"Washington and the World" is being offered by Close Up in cooperation with the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP). During the one-week-only program from November 1-November 7, participants will be able to question U.S. foreign policy experts in order to gain new perspectives and understanding about international diplomacy.

"This intergenerational program is the first of its kind," says Caron Zalesnick, manager of Close Up's Program for Older Americans. "Every participant—whether young or old—will learn how the key players in Washington go about building bridges of understanding among nations. At the same time, through interaction with the rest of the group, they will build bridges between the generations."

Since its inception in 1984, the nonprofit, nonpartisan Program for Older Americans has brought more than 1,300 persons 50 and older to the nation's capitol for educational vacations. With "Washington & the World," it is expanding its format to encourage an exchange of ideas with members of the younger generation.

"From the start, AARP has been very enthusiastic about the Close Up Foundation's program for mid-life and older citizens," says Cyril F. Brickfield, Executive Director of AARP. "With this latest program, it has demonstrated that goodwill between the generations has never been better—and that's something AARP has been saying all along."

Further information and/or applications for "Washington & the World" can be obtained by contacting the Close Up Foundation, 1235 Jefferson Davis Highway, Suite 1505, Arlington, Va. 22202 (800) 232-2000.

With more than 26 million members, AARP is the nation's largest organization of Americans age 50 and older. Headquartered in Washington, D.C., the nonprofit, nonpartisan organization offers a wide range of membership benefits, legislative representation at the federal and state levels, and educational and community service programs carried out through a national network of volunteers and local chapters. The association also offers a variety of educational and advocacy programs for older workers who make up one-fourth of AARP's total membership.

CENTRAL KENTUCKY BLOOD CENTER

HRMC Hosts A.A.R.P. Health Fair

AMONG THOSE ATTENDING THE A.A.R.P. HEALTH FAIR was Mrs. Bradis Goble, standing, shown here talking with Dr. John Furcolow.

Highlands Regional Medical Center hosted the third annual A.A.R.P. (American Association of Retired Persons) Health Fair, Saturday, September 19. Over 125 people from Martin, Johnson, Floyd, Pike, and Magoffin counties attended the Health Fair, making this the annual event's largest attendance ever.

The Health Fair was offered free to all adults in the area as part of a community service program, designed to encourage the practice of preventive medicine. Services made available to the participating senior citizens included EKG's, blood sugar tests, complete blood counts, blood oxygen level tests, blood pressure checks, breathing tests, eye exams, dental exams, hearing exams, foot care exams, and a basic physician's exam. The value of these free services was approximately $600 per patient.

Fourteen Highlands Regional personnel representing various departments volunteered their time and services. Area physicians and other healthcare professionals donating their services were John Furcolow, M.D., Internal Medicine; Blake Burchett, M.D., Family Practice; John G. Boswell, M.D., Pathologist; Anthony Mounts, M.D., Internal Medicine; Beth Laine, M.D., General Practice; Steve Vogelsang, M.D., Family Practice; Jess Songer, D.P.M., Podiatry; Jerald Combs, O.D., Optometry; Lee Majakey, O.D., Optometry; Fred Meece, D.M.D., Dentistry; Bill Francis, D.M.D., Dentistry; Stanley Stanper, Audiology; and H.W. Mattingly, Audiology.

Information on the A.T. & T. Medical Alert System and American Cancer Society material on cancer awareness was also available for those attending the Health Fair.

Don Hicks, technical director of the laboratory at Highlands stated, "This was the biggest and best Health Fair we've ever had. It's gratifying to us who volunteered our time, to have had such a tremendous turn out."

HRMC Has Computerized Pulmonary Lab Analyzer

The Respiratory Therapy Department at Highlands Regional Medical Center has added a new computerized pulmonary lab analyzer, increasing the department's patient service capabilities. The main purpose of this new analyzer is to diagnose airway diseases which may include asthma, pneumonia, bronchitis, emphysema, or black lung.

The pulmonary analyzer provides high technology results using non-invasive procedures, meaning fluid samples are not required. The patient is attached to a mask-like apparatus. He then inhales and exhales deeply and the computerized analyzer processes this activity into useful information. Assisted by this data the patients' physician will then be able to better determine the nature and extent of existing lung diseases.

Eastern Kentucky, and in particular the Big Sandy area, has long been associated with a high incidence of bronchitis, asthma, and allergy related lung disorders, with children comprising a substantial proportion of these cases.

Many people relate HRMC's Respiratory Therapy Department to the treatment of black lung and emphysema. This is true in that they are able to diagnose and treat these problems with better success than ever before, however the public tends to overlook the other capabilities of this department. HRMC's expanded services in the Respiratory Therapy Department offer a wide range of diagnostic and treatment procedures to the area's infants, children, and adults, whatever their particular lung problem.

These services are available to the public on an outpatient as well as in-patient basis.

Physician referrals and more information about these services may be obtained by contacting Rick Roberts, director of Respiratory Therapy Department at Highlands Regional Medical Center 886-8511 or 789-6548, ext. 276.

Morehead Faculty Receives Certification In Robotics

Two Morehead State University faculty members Bob Hayes, assistant professor of industrial education, and Scott Gillock, an instructor of industrial technology, have received special certification in robotics.

Hayes and Gillock received certification in manufacturing engineering and robotics from the Society of Manufacturing Engineering (SME) in Dearborn, Mich.

Hayes earned his bachelor's and master's degrees in industrial education from Eastern Kentucky University and taught industrial education at Ashland's Paul Blazer High School prior to coming to MSU in 1974. He helped start up MSU's robotics classes and serves as secretary of the Lexington Chapter of Robotics International, a professional organization for robotics engineers.

Gillock, a Shelbyville native, received his bachelor's degree in industrial technology and his master's degree in vocational education from Morehead State University. He is currently pursuing his doctorate at the University of Kentucky. He is a member of Robotics International and the Society of Plastic Engineering of Lexington.

Educated Will Find New Jobs Plentiful

The number of new jobs will be greater than the number of new workers. Three out of four new jobs will require education beyond the high school level. More women will be working outside the home. The work force will be older.

Those are some of the changes expected to occur in this country between 1987 and 2000, the vice president of the National Alliance of Business told leaders of Kentucky's employment and training system this week.

"Between now and the year 2000 will be a period of great economic opportunity but also one of grave economic danger for the United States," William Walker told 175 participants at Kentucky's Job Training Partnership Conference in Louisville.

"From the standpoint of numbers alone, there could be a place at the table for all—for the generation coming along and for those now involuntarily jobless. We have the opportunity to cut employment in this country to five percent or less and to usher in a period of virtually continuous economic growth," he said.

He challenged Kentucky's private industry council members, local government officials, educators and Department for Employment Services staff to "produce a timely and adequate response to the issues...or they won't be addressed."

Noting that this year's first graders will graduate from high school in the year 2000, Walker said that a large segment of these young people will lack the education and training required to fill new jobs and will need additional help.

Walker cautioned that failure to ensure training and education for workers and potential workers could lead to a larger and permanent underclass. "Our high-tech economy is creating jobs that could go begging because 23 million Americans cannot read or write, and because millions more don't function at more than an eighth or ninth grade level.

"We can't stand by and watch as millions of young people surrender the opportunity for productive lives in return for permanent idleness. We can't afford it and our economy can't tolerate it," he said.

Citing a National Alliance of Business report that predicts an increased percentage of working women, Walker said, "If employers are to get the workers they need, quality child care programs will have to be made easily available."

Most of the 2000 labor force already is working. Many of these workers will have to learn new skills to remain employed as the U.S. economy continues to shift from manufacturing to service and information industries, leading to job dislocation for millions of workers over the next 15 years, he said.

In addition to meeting workers' education and training needs, a federal official said the productivity of America's work force will be a major factor in this country's ability to remain competitive in the international economy. U.S. Department of Labor Regional Administrator Lawrence Weatherford said, "We must think about the efficiency of American management. Labor and management must work together. One of the keys to our success will be communication between those two groups."

Kentucky Employment Services Commissioner James Daniels said, "We have laid the foundation and built the framework for meeting the challenges in the decade ahead. Under JTPA we have forged a good working partnership between the public and private sectors. Each of us has a better understanding of the other's needs, which also helps us meet the needs of our workers."

G.N. Little Miss America

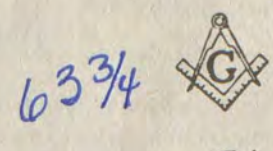

Kelly Hicks, representing Kentucky, daughter of Tim and Donna Hicks, of Morehead, recently won the title of Grand National Little Miss America. In addition, she was also the National Talent and Portfolio winner. She was presented a $1000 cash scholarship, a two weeks cruise through the Bahamas, luggage, jewelry, and other prizes. The National finals were held in Madisonville, Tennessee with competitors from fifty states. Judging was structured along the lines of The Miss America Beauty Pageant with girls being judged in the talent, modeling (sportswear and evening gown) and interview categories. She will represent the pageant system for one year making personal and television appearances. Miss Hicks is the daughter of Clyde and Margie Hogsed, of Martin.

Gatekeepers Open Gates Of Assistance For Elderly

Field employees of Kentucky Power have been recently trained as "Gatekeepers" and are watching out for elderly customers who might have special needs. Gatekeepers are a link between the older person and local social services offices. According to Jim Mosley, Kentucky state program coordinator, Division of Aging Services: "The Gatekeepers Program is designed to increase public awareness of the needs characteristic of the vulnerable elderly before a crisis occurs. The program identifies and trains Gatekeepers, who are in contact with the public during the course of their work activities. They are called Gatekeepers because they open the gates between isolated older people and sources of assistance." Field employees simply watch for older customers, usually living alone, who may have special needs; such as an elderly woman who has let her mail pile up for several weeks or an elderly man who has always kept his yard neat and trimmed, but hasn't mowed the grass in several weeks. In these and other cases, Gatekeeper volunteers will make the referrals to the company coordinator, who in turn pass the information on to the local social services agency. "Nearly 25% of our customers, who are heads of households, are 65 or older," said Don Thornsbury, Kentucky Power customer accounts manager and program coordinator. "Generally, they are a proud group of people who value their independence and may be reluctant to ask for help. In many cases, they may not even know that help is available. Our role as Kentucky Power employees, in these situations, is to help make the connection between the older person and the social services people." Thornsbury concluded by saying: "We are very pleased to be a part of Gatekeepers and to be able to help our 'Old Friends'." To date, Kentucky Power has trained most of its field employees to be Gatekeepers in the 20 eastern Kentucky counties it serves.

SAYING MY PIECE

Discrimination in our schools, and I, James C. Daniels, do not like it.

To recognize it, you only have to go watch Betsy Layne football. It is run, and played, only by those who are from well-to-do families. I am a welder for Thacker Welding. I don't have lots of money put back, but I make a living for my family. Yes, I have a son, trying to play for Betsy Layne, he has played throughout grade school, but he is not allowed to play on big Blue's J.V. club. He plays his heart out, but that's not what they're looking for. I am sure I am not the only one who does not like this kind of discrimination.

Scrip Collectors To Be At Holiday Inn Here

The National Convention of the National Scrip Collectors Association (NSCA) will be held at the Holiday Inn, Prestonsburg, Saturday and Sunday, October 3 and 4.

Scrip tokens, miner's artifacts (lamps, tools, etc.), stickers, bonds, stocks and other collectibles from mining and manufacturing will be exhibited, traded, bought and sold. The public is invited to visit the show Saturday 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Sunday, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Admission is free.

Several hundred guests are expected along with exhibitors from several states.

A special feature of the meeting will be an appraisal and identification service for those who have scrip that they want more information about. There is no charge for this service. Those having scrip are urged to bring it with them.

NSCA is an organization dedicated to preserving a segment of the history associated with workers and their families in coal mining and lumbering operations. Formed in 1972, it has approximately 400 members in forty-two states. More than 15,000 different pieces of coal scrip and 5,000 pieces from the lumbering industry have been cataloged.

Scrip was used as a medium of wages due to the isolated location of the mines and lumber camps in the early days. It saved the mine owners from keeping large amounts of cash on hand, and was used by some owners to restrict employees to buying the necessities of life from the company store. With the improvement in roads and transportation, employees began to shop at nearby larger towns, and the use of scrip gradually died out. Since tokens no longer are in use, they have become highly collectible.

H.S. Speech Students Use WKU Prof's Book

Nearly every high school student in the United States who is taking a speech class is becoming familiar with the name of a Western Kentucky University professor.

That's because Dr. Regis O'Connor, a professor of speech communication, wrote their textbook.

O'Connor's book, Speech: Exploring Communication, is in its third edition this fall, and nearly ever state in the country has adopted it for use in their schools.

Once a high school teacher himself, O'Connor now supervises student teachers of speech, drama and broadcasting at WKU, and says he enjoys the contact with the students.

O'Connor has previously authored numerous professional publications, and the latest edition of his book is accompanied by a teachers' resource manual and a cassette tape containing famous speeches and listening exercises.

Dwight Yoakam At the Ohio State Fair

By BILLIE JEAN OSBORNE
On August 15, I was privileged to attend the Ohio State Fair in Columbus. Dwight Yoakam was the feature attraction there on a Saturday night, and I'm sure you can imagine the crowd of people in the stadium and the excitement in the air. Being there as one of his 25 guests added even more excitement for me. Oh, what a night! His family has a way of making you feel that you are just like one of them. I feel fortunate to have grown up in Betsy Layne with Dwight's family. Ruth Ann has much to be proud of in her son, Dwight, and equally so with her daughter, Kim.

I was a neighbor to Dwight's family for many years and have always had deep respect for Dwight's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Tibbs. Each summer they always shared a portion of their rhubarb and blueberries with my mother. Mr. Tibbs was always so proud to deliver these items to our door. These folks, being good Christian people, were considered the best of neighbors. Just typical mountain folks, living in the hills of Pike-Floyd Hollow, of which Dwight Yoakam claims deep roots.

Before Dwight's performance at the fair, his manager R.C. Bradley from Los Angeles, came on stage to view the crowd. He wanted to ask two questions: First, was there anyone in the audience from the state of Ohio? Naturally there were thousands cheering. But when he asked was there anyone from Eastern Kentucky? I couldn't believe it! Folks stood and cheered from all corners of the stadium. It seemed as though most of our folks that had left home and gone north for work had gotten word about Dwight's performance that night. We were certainly well-represented and also had a good reunion with these former friends and classmates.

Well, excitement was really mounting by now. It was time for Dwight to take the stage. I wish that I could paint a clear picture for you as he entered, picked up his guitar and started to sing. Young ladies stood, reached to him saying, "Oh, just let me touch him." I saw old men and women wipe tears from their eyes as he sang "Readin', 'Ritin', Rt. 23". But the sweetest scene I could ever witness was when he started an introduction to another song as a little girl of three or four yelled out, "He's my Honky Tonk Man"—I will never forget this.

I sat through the concert and thought to myself, "Now could you ever describe Dwight Yoakam to a country music fan that had somehow never seen or heard of him?" By the end of the concert, I felt I could truly describe him as being able to reach people of all ages with his music; he represents country music in its truest form and he is bringing back what country music fans have been looking for the last ten years.

Charles Grover Cleveland Conn celebrated his first birthday Sunday, September 13, with a party given by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grover Conn, of Banner, at Druther's Restaurant in Prestonsburg.

Also attending were Jennifer Music, Jessica Kinzer, Sandy Dawn Newsome, Mrs. Janet Conn and Patsy and Pam Lewis.

He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Smith, of Banner, and Mrs. Fanny Conn, of Allen, and the late Grover Cleveland Conn. He is the great-grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Gomer Conn, of Martin.

Zachary P.E. Stanfield Celebrates 1st Birthday

A large Mickey Mouse cake and a small one, just for Zachary, was brought in as the group sang Happy Birthday.

Cake and ice cream were served to Mr. and Mrs. John Evans, his maternal grandparents, Mrs. Mary Stanfield, paternal grandmother, Mrs. Trudy Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. David Evans, Bethany and Emily, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Seithers and Laura, Melody and Brandon Stanfield, Emma Parsonage, the Stanfields' exchange student from England, Mr. and Mrs. Stanfield.

Mental Illness Myth:

People Never Recover From Mental Illness

In reality, as many as 8 in 10 people suffering from mental illnesses can effectively return to normal, productive lives if they receive appropriate treatment. While learning about various mental illnesses, scientists have discovered effective, specific medication and psychotherapies that restore patients to normal, happy lives.

Scientists think some people say inherit a predisposition to certain mental disorders which could be triggered by a stressful life event. A traumatic experience, a childhood of abuse or neglect, loss of a parent or other event may make a person more sensitive to psychiatric problems. Some people suffer only one episode of depression, while others may have repeated episodes. Both the single and chronic forms of the disorder can be successfully treated.

In addition, researchers have discovered an association between some mental illnesses and an overabundance or lack of chemical messages in the brain. For example, some people suffering from depression have a malfunction in their adrenal system, which produces the hormone cortisol. Their adrenal systems don't respond normally to the body's regulatory mechanisms. Other people suffering from depression have abnormalities in their thyroid or growth hormone systems.

However, antidepressant medications help bring these abnormalities into line and reverse the symptoms of depression in 80 to 90% of those receiving treatment. When psychotherapy is added to the treatment, these people can better cope with the social, emotional and vocational complications brought on by their illness.

Likewise, psychiatric care can bring much needed relief to people suffering from anxiety disorders. Medications reduce the acute symptoms of anxiety disorders. In treating phobic disorders, medications often are combined with behavior therapy, which exposes a patient to the source of his fear under controlled circumstances. In fact, scientists have found that appropriate treatment often alleviates phobic disorders without relapse for at least seven years.

Schizophrenia, the most mysterious of the mental illnesses, also responds well to treatment. Scientists have found that the brains of some people suffering from schizophrenia have abnormalities in the biochemistry or physical structure. Research continues into whether these abnormalities actually cause the symptoms of schizophrenia.

Psychiatrists know that medications alleviate the severe symptoms of schizophrenia such as hallucinations and delusions, which are the hallmarks of this disorder. Only 20% of those who take medications for schizophrenia will suffer a relapse within two years of being discharged from a psychiatric hospital. Once the psychoses are under control, psychotherapy helps these patients understand their illness and learn to distinguish reality from distorted perceptions.

Though no single cure for schizophrenia has been found, the disorder can be effectively treated. Given treatment tailored to their needs, many people suffering from schizophrenia can return to the community. In fact, one long-term study found that of almost 2,000 patients, 25% fully recovered and half partially recovered.

Despite impressive gains in treating mental illnesses, only 1 in 5 people suffering a diagnosable psychiatric disorder seeks treatment. Instead, they suffer in silence, reproaching themselves for not "pulling themselves up by their bootstraps." They don't understand that the illness itself destroys those "bootstraps." Most people who take this approach will, in fact, never get well. Only by receiving appropriate psychiatric assessment and referral to treatment can those suffering from mental illness recover.

Republican Women To Convene In Florida

Mrs. Gene Snyder, president of the Kentucky Federation of Republican Women and 33 Kentucky delegates will attend the 24th Biennial convention of the National Federation of Republican Women in Orlando, Florida, September 18-20. This will be the largest convention of women political activists and the largest national gathering of Republicans in 1987.

The NFRW is the largest women's political organization in the United States. "We have more than 140,000 members in the 2500 clubs in the 50 states," said Mrs. Snyder, and added, "This includes the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and Guam."

For 50 years the NFRW, an affiliate of the Republican National Committee, has provided women with support, information and training on how to become candidates and how to run political campaigns. An estimated 3000 delegates, alternates and guests from across the United States will hear all 1988 Republican presidential candidates as well as speakers from the Administration, Congress and the Republican Party at two general sessions. Speakers in 19 workshops will train participants in the essentials of lobbying, public speaking, fund raising, press relations and party politics.

An invitation has been extended to President Reagan. Traditionally, the President has attended the convention of Republican women.

Highlights of the convention include an opening extravaganza at Sea World with a private show at Shamu Station, a reception and special seating for the fireworks show.

A seminar entitled Leadership '87, Woman to Woman will share effective leadership tips. Five special luncheons will focus on democracy, trade, defense, education and state governments in the next 50 years. There also will be an NFRW 50th anniversary kick-off.

ASK TONI

Cary Grant starred in films in four decades

By Toni Reinhold

Please list every movie Cary Grant was in. I adore him and want to make sure I see all his films. - S.D.J., Newport News, Va.

Cary Grant

Grant's films are far too numerous to list here. After appearing on Broadway in the plays "Golden Dawn," "Polly" and "Boom-Boom," he made his film debut in "This Is the Night" (1932). Among his greatest films: "Blonde Venus" (1933), "The Eagle and the Hawk" (1933), "Topper" (1937), "Bringing Up Baby" (1938), "Gunga Din" (1939), "His Girl Friday" (1940), "Suspicion" (1941), "Arsenic and Old Lace" (1944), "Night and Day" (1945), "To Catch a Thief" (1955), "North by Northwest" (1959) and "Charade" (1963). His last films were "Father Goose" (1964) and "Walk, Don't Run" (1966).

Please settle a disagreement between my husband and me. Is the Jameson Parker of "The Hardy Boys" the Jameson Parker of "Simon & Simon"? - C.L.P., Troy, Ala.

You have your Parkers confused. Parker Stevenson portrayed Frank Hardy on "The Hardy Boys Mysteries," which aired from 1977 to 1979 on ABC. Jameson Parker plays A.J. Simon on "Simon & Simon," now airing in late-night on CBS.

Will an all-new version of "Battlestar Galactica" ever come to television? - T.D., Tacoma, Wash.

An all-new version of "Star Trek" called "Star Trek: The Next Generation" began airing in syndication this month, so anything is possible for "Battlestar Galactica." However, during its run from 1978 to 1980 on ABC the science-fiction series wasn't nearly as popular as "Star Trek" reruns, so the chances of it being produced again are slim.

A friend of mine says that Loretta Young was married to Joel McCrea. I say, "Never!" Who is right? - M.F.S., Peoria, Ill.

Young married Grant Withers in 1930, and the couple separated in 1931. She married Thomas H.A. Lewis in 1940, and they divorced in 1969. She was never married to McCrea.

John James will rekindle the flame on 'Dynasty'

By Wendy Wallace

"When I read the script, I found it interesting because it used a combination of different elements," says "Dynasty" star John James of his latest project, "Haunted by Her Past," an NBC movie airing Monday, Oct. 5. "It involves the supernatural, romance, adventure, fate and family lives."

John James

James plays Eric Beckett, a lawyer whose life changes after his wife Karen (Susan Lucci) becomes possessed by the centuries-old spirit of a seductive murderer.

"Although Eric is an easygoing guy, there's a certain strength to him," says James. "While he's thrown into a difficult situation of having to save his marriage, he also wants to rekindle the flame."

Eric's love is put to the test when the spirit bids his wife to repeat history - by killing him.

"It seems his wife's great - great - great - great grandmother was passionately in love with a lieutenant that she ended up killing," James explains.

"And she was hanged for it. So every generation after her ends up killing their husband or lover. This was their curse or secret, you can say."

James made his TV debut on "Search for Tomorrow" in 1977, and continued on the soap for three years. In 1981, a meeting with the late casting executive Joyce Selznick led to his signing a one-year "holding contract" with ABC. Three weeks later he joined "Dynasty" as Jeff Colby.

"When Jeff started he only had six lines to work with," James recalls. "Now he's grown into his own man. I've established a being, a person - which is really strange to think about. People now know Jeff."

Two seasons ago, James and co-star Emma Samms, who plays Jeff's wife Fallon, left "Dynasty" to star in the spinoff "The Colbys." Its cancellation brings them back to the original series this season.

"People forget that it takes time for an ensemble cast to work together," James says. "Although 'The Colbys' was on on a tough night (Thursday, opposite 'Cheers' and 'Knots Landing'), it was entertaining. It was a great experience for me."

Last season's "Colbys" cliffhanger, which involved Fallon's kidnapping by a UFO, will carry over to "Dynasty." James will join Fallon as she returns to California to see her father, Blake (John Forsythe) and back his newly announced candidacy for governor of Colorado.

Some yeas, some nays as story lines wrap up

By Marie Michaels

It's October, and just as prime-time audiences are welcoming new series, daytime viewers are greeting a new batch of story lines.

Martha Byrne

On "All My Children," it has been revealed that Julie and Elizabeth are related, and Mark Dalton has confessed that he has AIDS. And "Another World" will unveil its much-ballyhood AIDS story line later this fall. So as new plots replace old ones, it's a good time to take a last look at the stories that dominated daytime during the past few months.

THUMBS UP TO:
 • "As the World Turns," for the touching yet volatile scenes in which teenager Lily Walsh (played by Martha Byrne) learned that she had been adopted by her wealthy, devious mother, Lucinda (Elizabeth Hubbard). The scenes between Byrne and Hubbard made it worth the two years we had to wait for this confrontation.

• "Days of Our Lives," which used the romance between Jennifer Horton (Melissa Brennan) and Frankie Donner (Billy Warlock) to show teenagers that boyfriends and girlfriends don't have to become intimate to prove their love for each other.

• "The Young and the Restless," for its handling of the story line that follows Philip Chancellor (Thom Bierdz) in his struggle with alcoholism. The story is realistically demonstrating to teens - and adults - that they can win the battle of the bottle.

THUMBS DOWN TO:
 • "Santa Barbara," which has devoted far too much time to vengeful Elena (a.k.a. Eleanor) Nikolas (Sherilyn Wolter) and her plot to murder the entire Capwell clan. True, Elena feels that her father, C.C. Capwell (Jed Allan) abandoned her and her mother - but that isn't reason enough for her to become a killer.

• "The Young and the Restless," which showed a flagrant disregard for both mental illness and women's rights by having the pregnant, unmarried Ashley Abbott (Eileen Davidson) go insane after she had an abortion.

• "General Hospital," for once again providing a summer espionage story in which the bad guys (the DVX agents) kill the good guys (the WSB agents). Does anyone know, or care, what this story is about?

This 'Davy Crockett' story blends tall tales and facts

By Frank Lovece

So far, Showtime's "Shelley Duvall's Tall Tales & Legends" series hasn't risen to the heights of its predecessor, Duvall's magical "Faerie Tale Theatre." While "Faerie Tale Theatre" took as its subjects European tales such as the Brothers Grimm and Mother Goose, "Tall Tales & Legends" is based on oral traditions that have grown up closer to home - and thus are more open to interpretation. And it's in the interpretation that the series stumbles, especially when trying to depict wondrous feats best left to the mind's eye - or to better production values.

Mac Davis

What a nice surprise, then, that the latest "Tall Tale," "Davy Crockett," avoids this pitfall to tell an absolutely enchanting story. It airs Tuesday, Oct. 6 and Wednesday, Oct. 7.

The frame that introduces this tale depicts a smart-mouthed eighth-grader (Adam Carl) who can't see the relevancy of learning to add, much less of learning history. In a touch that recalls "The Twilight Zone," a substitute teacher (Michael McKean) gives the recalcitrant kid a magical book that allows him to trip back and forth between his own world and that of legendary pioneer Davy Crockett.

As played by Mac Davis, Crockett is neither a naive backwoodsman nor a noble savage. He seems almost like an American Crocodile Dundee. Unlike Paul Hogan's movie character, though, Crockett puts forth common-sense morals that even the most head-banging teen can appreciate: "Make sure you're right, then go ahead," and "If there's one thing that can push a man against stacked odds, it's knowing he's got a friend counting on him to come through."

The production makes clear the difference between truth and legend, an important distinction. Crockett didn't wear his buckskins or take his pet bear to state dinners after he was elected to Congress in 1827 - this is a legend, and a charming one. But the facts of his birth and general circumstances, and of his opposition to anti-Indian and anti-homesteader plans by President Jackson (McLean Stevenson) check out historically.

All told, this Davy Crockett is both more enchanting and more accurate than Fess Parker's venerable Disney hero.

FORCED TO RUN: Prestonsburg quarterback Tim Trusty escapes a Wheelwright rusher Friday night. The Trojan defense made living tough for Trusty on offense, but as a defensive back, Trusty returned the favor.

Coach Remains Confident In Building Strong ACHS Squad

This year hasn't been exactly what Donnie Daniels expected it to be. The second-year Allen Central head coach had figured on his Rebels being competitive in 1987. Maybe even producing a winning season.

Daniels is in only his second year of high school football coaching, but those two years of experience equal the length of time Allen Central High School has had football during their most recent efforts at establishing football.

Young and inexperienced but eager, Daniels took on the challenge of establishing that football program. You might say, it was a 'let's grow together' proposition.

The first season didn't produce much except headaches for the rookie coach, and his rookie varsity team.

1987 followed with renewed enthusiasm, and reestablished goals. The Rebels were fired up, and their coach was talking winning.

Dateline August 21—The Allen Central Rebels won their first varsity game ever under the direction of Donnie Daniels. The Rebels were flying high over Right Beaver after defeating Jenkins that first Friday of the high school season.

But they were soon shot down.

First came Paintsville, then Virgie, Johns Creek, and so on. Daniels' winning season was rapidly disappearing, and last weekend the Rebels were dealt two losses.

McCreary County Central defeated the Rebels, 32-13, while also knocking out talented tailback Mickey Parsons.

Parsons, who ran for over 60 yards and one touchdown in the first two quarters, was forced from the game, just before halftime after suffering a pulled muscle.

The sophomore runner accounted for Allen Central's first score, running six yards for a touchdown but will miss most of the remaining games.

Coach Daniels said Parsons could possibly return for the two final contests, but also added that Parsons would not be rushed into action.

Without Parsons, Allen Central continued to enjoy success offensively, especially with runningback Jeff Hughes. Hughes, a senior, rushed the football 30 times, rolling up 126 yards, and this was just what Allen Central had stats for. The final eight minutes of the game was unaccounted for statistically.

"Offensively we did some good things, but we had some mental mistakes that stopped us," Daniels said of the game. "We marched the ball real well all night. Our game plan was effective, but we stopped ourselves. Anytime, you have between 300 and 350 yards you should put more than 13 points on the board."

Three times in the game Allen Central had the football inside the McCreary County 20-yard line, but twice turned the football over, and again were forced to give the football up after being stopped on fourth down. All three times the Rebels came away scoreless.

With Parsons' first quarter touchdown run, Allen Central took a 7-6 advantage, but surrendered another touchdown in the opening quarter, and one each in the final three to fall 32-13.

The Rebels' other touchdown came in the third quarter when Darren Conn connected with his most popular target of the season, Nathan Shelton, for a seven-yard scoring toss.

With the loss Allen Central drops to 1-5 on the season, not exactly equal to the task Daniels set in pre-season.

But all is not lost.

"We're still growing," Daniels said of his Rebels. "We're playing better than we did last year. I can see an improvement, but we're still making some mistakes that we shouldn't make."

Daniels said the score against McCreary County was a bit misleading, something similar to Allen Central's season record.

"There have been three games that we should have won this year," Daniels said. "The football just didn't bounce our way, or we just didn't take advantage of that big break. I guess that will all come when we get more experience."

Experience may be the final factor in determining just when the youthful Allen Central program grows up, and Daniels says that might come in a couple of years.

"Just give us a couple more years, and we'll turn this thing around," Daniels promises. "Then we'll be able to challenge for a district title and beat the people on our schedule that we're supposed to beat."

"You really can't have a strong program until you beat the people you're supposed to beat, and win the games you should win."

Although they aren't winning with regularity, Daniels is confident in the program's advancement, and in Allen Central's young people.

"I just hope every coach has the type of kids that I've got," Daniels praised. "They play with their hearts, and they never cause any trouble."

"You really have to respect them," the coach continued. "Just look at what they have to practice with. And they don't have a field to play on. We have to play our home games all over the county. Not many students would even play under these conditions. I'm real proud of the kids I've got."

Allen Central practices on a field not long enough to run long pass plays on, and their equipment isn't exactly overflowing in either quality or quantity.

Daniels isn't making excuses. He is stating fact, just mentioning a few of the problems a newly-established program is faced with in their struggles to obtain respectability.

This Saturday night Allen Central could take a giant step toward that respectability if, of course, they can win.

The Rebels will be taking on intra-county and district rival Wheelwright, no easy pickings for Allen Central.

"They are going to come out and hit you hard," Daniels, a graduate of Wheelwright, said. "A lot of coaches have told me that they were surprised at how hard Wheelwright hits."

"We'll have to control the football, keep it away from their offense. I know they haven't scored much lately, but when you have speed in the backfield, you're always a threat. They've got real good speed in the backfield. They've got one of the best backfields in the area."

Kickoff has been scheduled for 8 Saturday night at Prestonsburg.

Trusty's Interception Gives Blackcats Much Needed Boost

Not many bright spots can be showcased when your team is 1-5, but Roger Johnson, Wheelwright head football coach, has had continued words of praise this season for his defensive unit.

"If we can ever get our offense going, we're going to beat some people, because our defense is playing excellent football," Johnson said before his Trojans took on Prestonsburg, Friday night.

For two quarters and four minutes of another, Johnson's defense lived up to its coaches pre-game billing, shutting out an explosive Blackcat offensive attack. Until the 7:54 mark of the third quarter, Prestonsburg had compiled only 56 total yards, and turned the football over three times.

Defensively, Wheelwright was on top of their game, possibly playing their best football of the season.

But their offense dealt their defense a severe blow. Leading 3-0, Wheelwright intercepted a Prestonsburg pass on the Trojan 31-yard line, but two plays after Handy Jackson had given the football to Wheelwright's offense, the Blackcat defense, which had been equally impressive, put Prestonsburg on the scoreboard.

On Wheelwright's third play from scrimmage, quarterback Bobby Hood went looking for a receiver, but instead found a Prestonsburg defender, in the form of Tim Trusty, who returned an interception 45 yards for a touchdown, the only such score of the game.

Trusty, from his defensive back position, stepped in front of an intended Trojan receiver, and seeing daylight, raced 45 yards for a score, boosting Prestonsburg to a 7-3 victory at Brackett Field in Wheelwright.

"They had run the same play a couple of times, and on that particular play our defense was in a man-to-man," Trusty said, explaining the pivotal defensive play.

"My man was turning back for the football, and about the third time they ran it, I just anticipated it. I picked it off almost in the backfield, and nobody was in front of me so I just ran it on in."

Trusty's interception return proved to be the biggest play for either side, and after the extra point, proved to be the final scoring play.

Prestonsburg, struggling offensively after scoring 70 points in their previous two contests, could manage only 95 yards in the final two quarters, and three turnovers also figured in their lack of scoring punch.

Turnovers, six of them total, assisted Wheelwright in shutting down the Blackcat offense, which had three scoring opportunities in the fourth quarter.

The Blackcats and Trusty created their own good field position early in the fourth quarter when Trusty intercepted another Bobby Hood pass, his second of the game.

On a third and eight pass play from the Prestonsburg 37, Trusty again stepped in front of the Trojan intended receiver, picking off the pass on the Blackcat 22-yard line.

Prestonsburg, on one of the few prolonged drives of the game, marched to the Wheelwright six-yard line, but a fumble denied them any points.

The Blackcats, after Wheelwright failed to move the football following the fumble recovery on the seven-yard line, again set up offensive shop on the Trojan 32-yard line. This time a Wheelwright quarterback sack of Tim Trusty put a stop to Prestonsburg's offensive efforts.

Wheelwright, 83, net yards in the game and a negative eight in the fourth quarter, failed to move the football at all against the Blackcat defense, which is making a bid to be one of the toughest units in the area.

In the last three games, Prestonsburg has given up a total of 11 points.

Against Wheelwright, they sacked Bobby Hood, sophomore quarterback, six times and picked off two Trojan passes.

The Trojans had repeated opportunities to score in the final frame, also, but three sacks and the Trusty interception denied Wheelwright any points.

Vic Cotton, a junior running back, gave the Trojans solid field position early in the fourth quarter, but Trusty stopped the drive for points before it could do any damage.

Cotton, on a Wheelwright punt, drilled a Blackcat return man as the football arrived. With the hit the ball popped up in the air, and Cotton hauled it down to give the Trojans possession on the Prestonsburg 39-yard line.

Cotton then took a running play up the middle for four yards, but then is when the wheels fell off, and Wheelwright's drive was thrown in reverse and brought to an abrupt halt.

After Handy Jackson lost two yards on the next play, Hood dropped back to pass but had the toss picked off by Trusty.

Again, with 1:17 left in the game, the Trojans created a major break, but again failed to do anything with it.

By blocking a Prestonsburg punt, the Trojans were given possession on the Blackcat 41-yard line, but following an incomplete pass, and two quarterback sacks, the Trojans were faced with a fourth down and 28 play.

Hood did connect with end Steve Cole, but on the 50-yard line, 19 yards short of a first down. Prestonsburg, following the short completion, assumed possession as the game clock ran out.

Wheelwright, struggling offensively all season, scored their only points of the game in the second quarter when Chris Thornsberry hit on a 27-yard field goal with 20 seconds remaining in the first half.

The field goal came following a Wheelwright 17-yard drive. Chad Hall, Wheelwright linebacker, had recovered a Prestonsburg fumble, setting up Thornsberry's kick.

The Trojans held that three-point lead, thanks to a hard-hitting defense, until Trusty's interception in the third quarter.

"We weren't ready to play tonight, I don't think," Trusty, who also serves as Prestonsburg's quarterback, said after the game. "We were kind of looking past them, and looking forward to Belfry."

"They came out in the first quarter and really hit us," Trusty, a junior, continued. "We didn't really expect them to be that good."

Wheelwright hit the Blackcats hard enough to force two turnovers in the first quarter and recovered both.

But with a tough defense playing well across from them, Trojan offensive people failed to perform well enough to score any points.

The Trojans had only 50 yards in the first half, and struggled even more in the second half, finishing with a net total of 83.

Doug Little, Trojan fullback, led Wheelwright offensively, rushing for 41 while catching two Bobby Hood passes.

Prestonsburg had 151 yards total, 83 coming from the rushing efforts of Johnny Ray Harris. The Blackcat tailback had only 12 yards rushing in the first half on one run, but found success behind the left side of the Prestonsburg offensive line, rolling up 71 yards on 10 carries in the second half.

The Blackcats, 4-1, won their third game in a row while Wheelwright dropped its fifth consecutive contest. The Trojans, with the loss, fell to 1-5 on the season.

IN A CROWD: Craig Martin goes high to haul down this Bobby Hood pass, but was knocked loose from the football, and was forced from the game.

SHORT SPORTS

Eastern Kentucky University and the University of Louisville enjoyed success this past weekend, but UK and Morehead State were losers on the road as college football entered its fourth week of play.

Tailbacks Elroy Harris and James Crawford combined for 262 yards rushing, and Harris added a touchdown on the ground as Eastern whipped Central Florida, 23-16.

The Louisville Cardinals scored 17 points in the third quarter, blowing open a three-point half-time lead, to down Murray State, 34-10, last weekend.

Senior quarterback Jay Gruden threw for over 200 yards and three touchdowns as the Cardinals improved to 2-1-1. With the loss Murray State dropped to 2-2.

Louisville will be in action this coming weekend, playing in Cardinal Stadium against Southern Mississippi. The Racers have Saturday off but return to the field October 10, taking on Eastern in an Ohio Valley Conference game.

The University of Kentucky was handed its first loss of the season, 19-18, Saturday night, to Rutgers. The Cats led, 15-12, in the third quarter, but a long kickoff return set up a Rutgers touchdown, as the Scarlet Knights dealt UK the one-point loss.

Kentucky, 2-1 on the season, will meet Ohio University in a home contest as their season continues this Saturday.

Morehead State, after tying a school record for wins last season, dropped their third contest of the season, Saturday, losing to Southern Arkansas, 38-23.

In small college action, Cumberland defeated Kentucky Wesleyan, 33-14; Georgetown crunched Hanover, and Centre fell, 17-10, to Washington & Lee.

Union College, expected to be a national power in Division, remained winless last weekend when they were dominated by Evansville, 43-0. Union is currently 0-4.

The coming of October means two things: colder weather and the nearing of post-season baseball action. This past weekend explained several items concerning baseball pennant races, but the issues in two divisions won't be settled until this weekend.

Playing in Toronto, the Detroit Tigers lost three of four games, and the lead in the American League East. After Detroit came and went, the Blue Jays led by two and one half games.

The two teams have a return date set for this weekend, playing a three-game series to close out the season.

Minnesota won't have to worry about who or where they play this weekend. With their win over Kansas City, Sunday, the Twins clinched at least a share of the divisional title, and are now celebrating their first West title in 17 years.

The San Francisco Giants are doing the same, because they did the same. The Giants drilled Atlanta 15-6, Sunday, to earn a place atop the National League West.

The Giants are merely waiting to see who they will play in the League Championship Series, and this weekend will probably be critical in deciding the East champions.

New York, second in the East, will play leader St. Louis in a three-game weekend series starting Friday night.

Strike talks between owners and

The Sporting Times

The ties that bind us have been broken away. For the first fall Sunday since 1982 professional football fans were forced to spend their day alone.

The emptiness of it was felt all across a nation as football players from the New England area to the Bay area, from South Florida to North Washington elected to sit last Sunday out.

Although a national emergency is yet to be declared, for millions of fans Sunday was the first day toward the end of their football lives.

Some turned to college football, Saturday afternoon, in search of football fulfillment. Others watched baseball, Sunday, instead of the more traditional fall football viewing action.

But for the diehard gridiron faithful, there is no substitute for NFL football. They are the ones who are suffering. They are the ones losing more than owners, players, and chief negotiators.

While both the players and owners have changed their stories more than March weather in Kentucky switches from snow to rain to sun, the fans sat powerless.

The players say the owners are using the issue of free agency to destroy the union. Owners say the players are trying to tear down the system that has worked so well for so many years.

Gene Upshaw says Jack Donlan is lying. Jack Donlan says Gene Upshaw is saying things that aren't exactly true.

But the truth of the matter is that neither side has considered the real issue here the fans.

Without fans, there would be no professional football. Without fans there would be no heroes making heroes' wages. There would be no multi-million dollar men in sports. There would be no sports.

Where does the fan fit into the discussions between the two sides? Beside them and completely out of consideration.

Without consideration of the people who pay their salary, the NFL players walked out last Tuesday and continue to neglect their obliged duty to give the fans the best football available.

It isn't all the players' fault either. Although they average $230,000 per year, and at least $90,000 whether they work or not, doesn't figure in the final factor.

Whether they make more money, or millions more, the players will always want more money. The owners are in the business to make money. When players list their main priority as making money, the quality of football will fall below poverty viewing level.

Hey folks, meet Ross Browner.

The owners do exactly that, they own. The publisher will always make more than the writer, and the storeowner will make more than the stock boy. NFL ownership will make more than the players. This is what football's highest paid employees should realize.

A strike has been designed to give workers a bargaining weapon against ownership, but as well as workers have a right to strike, owners have a right to continue their work.

Hey folks, meet the National Football League owners.

Several years ago, Air Traffic Controllers went on strike. President Reagan released them of their jobs and proved they were replaceable.

The players of professional football have now been proved the same, and this Sunday will sit and watch while someone else mans their position, earns their paycheck, and steals their glory.

Well, strike glory. These guys may not be glorious football players. They will certainly not be household names, except maybe in their own households.

At least, next Sunday will bring about football again, and even though it may not be the same fast-paced action fans are accustomed to seeing, it will be professional football.

How long the owners can survive with second rate players will be determined by the fans, and how many of them choose to attend games, and watch on television will figure in this survival.

CBS television has already taken a step toward helping out the owners, but it hasn't exactly been a gut check by the network.

The three major networks are under contract to air NFL games, but of course these games won't be what the contract called for.

As long as viewer ratings are high, advertisers will stay, and as long as advertisers stay, money will be made, and as long as money will be made everyone will be happy. Except, of

NFL News and Notes

The New York Giants, defending Super Bowl champions, had already lost to Chicago, but week two had all the indications of providing the Giants an opportunity to turn their early season problems around.

New York, playing at home against a team supposedly on a downward slide was favored to win their first game of the season, even their record, and put themselves in the thick of their divisional race.

That didn't happen. The Giants lost Joe Morris, their talented tailback, early in the contest, and quarterback Phil Simms threw for interceptions as New York lost to the Dallas Cowboys.

All of a sudden the best team in football one year ago was winless, and swimming in the bottom pool of their division, barely keeping their heads above water there.

Good breaks hadn't exactly been the order of the season for New York, but the Giants sudden fall has not been a personal story but a description of the National Football League's direction of 1987.

After setting new standards for attendance last season, the fans of the NFL were treated with a players' strike, and week three of the professional football season was cancelled this past weekend.

The strike has been as no big surprise since neither side has been willing to compromise, and an end to it is as unpredictable as the first two weeks action itself.

Many upsets highlighted the 28 games already played, and balance proved to be the rule rather than the exception.

Regardless of what teams have signed the best non-union players, it would appear as if the days of domination are gone forever.

Only five teams remain undefeated in the NFL, and five squads are winless. From the upper deck of NFL wins to the basement of the standings, the unsuccessful crew may possess the more surprising of the teams.

Not many people expected the New York Giants to be 0-2 after two games, and about the same amount figured the Los Angeles Rams to lose their first two games.

Of the winless teams, four are in the AFC, while the AFC is home to three of the five undefeated squads.

The Los Angeles Raiders hold the upper hand in the AFC West, and the NY Jets, 2-0, top the Eastern division, defeating New England easily in week two.

The AFC Central, known as a balanced division, owns four teams with identical 1-1 records.

Not so surprising are the Chicago Bears, and their domination. The Bears, Super Bowl winners two seasons ago, are 2-0, and winning without Jim McMahon.

With Mike Tomczak calling the signals, Chicago is 9-0. McMahon is currently on injured reserve but should return for week seven.

But as strong as the Bears have been, Minnesota has kept pace, winning its first two games. The Vikings are for real, outscoring Detroit and the Rams; 55-35, in the two wins.

The New York Jets started off with tremendous success last season, and the Giants began 1986 with a loss. The first part of the NFL season may be compared to the first couple rounds of a heavyweight boxing match—just a feeling out of the opposition.

But this year is different. The strike has already made its effects felt, and with the owners planning to play with different players, the first two weeks may be a true example of what is to come.

Teams such as Tampa Bay, New Orleans, Atlanta, Buffalo, and St. Louis, all 1-1, have as good a Super Bowl chance as does Cleveland, New England, and San Francisco.

The regular stars aren't around anymore, and the new look will bring drastic changes to all NFL teams.

At this stage no one knows which team has the most talent, and the end of the season may be as much a surprise as the beginning has been.

Several intra-divisional contests are scheduled for week four, which is now week three, but week three wasn't played.

If all the confusion is ever finally understood, the St. Louis Cardinals and Washington Redskins will hook up in a NFC East battle scheduled to be played in Washington.

Both teams are 1-1 on the season, and as of now, both could be equally considered as playoff contenders.

The Los Angeles Rams, a pre-season team targeted for post-season action, play New Orleans Sunday in a NFC Western Division matchup. The Rams, 0-2, are bringing up the rear in the West while New Orleans is 1-1.

In the NFC Central, front running Minnesota will be at home against Green Bay, 0-1. The Packers, not considered as a playoff contender in pre-season, are now, as is any other team in the NFL.

Over in the AFC, the LA Raiders and Kansas City Chiefs will play a Western division game that should be a key early matchup. The Raiders, 2-0, are on top of the West while Kansas plans to challenge for a title.

Neither the Buffalo Bills nor the Indianapolis Colts had teams talented enough to challenge in the Eastern Division, but the Bills are 1-1, and play Indianapolis this weekend.

The intra-divisional battles will feature key games with early playoff implications, but little is known about the people and the talent in the games.

It will be an introduction for fans and players as both try to get familiar with each other. The players may not be around long, but they have an opportunity for their moment in the sun. The players simply want to see good football.

Harris Wins Isom Race

The Isom Speedway is rapidly becoming the hotbed for area dirt track auto racing, and it was there that Paul David Harris continued to build his reputation as one of the sport's more effective competitors.

Harris, a local dirt track driver, overcame a early crash, weaved his way back through the pack, and claimed first place honors in the Mountain Heritage race Saturday night.

Harris, suffering a spinout early, was sent to the back of the pack, but by lap 90 had regained the lead, and held off all challengers to claim the 100 lap race, and the 10 thousand dollar first place award.

"Probably the best cars in the country were there, but we thought we had a chance of winning because we had been running there a lot," Tony Halbert, a partner in the Twin Bridges racing team, said.

The 10 thousand dollar top prize had attracted racers from all across eastern Kentucky, as well as drivers from Tennessee, Ohio, and West Virginia.

For Harris and crew, it was their sixth win of the season in feature competition, and their third such win in as many tries. This particular race, however, may have been just a bit more important because of the extra money involved. Normally, a feature win means a couple grand, but according to Halbert, it's all for fun, and the winnings usually go back into the automobile.

The Twin Bridges crew, one of the more effective in the area, has concentrated mainly in local races, but Halbert says the team may soon try the major circuit.

"Mostly we've been racing locally, but we may try a big race soon. The Dirt Track World Championships will be held in Pensboro, West Virginia, and we may get in that one."

The Pensboro race carries a 60 thousand dollar first prize, and on October 18, the local team may bring home one of their biggest wins in their seven years of racing.

Bassin' With the Pros...

Cookin' With Topwater Lures

Along with the doldrums of summer comes some fine fishing as the hot month of August passes into a cooler September. This is one time of year that you can cook with topwater lures. According to the book Jackpot Bassin', a topwater plug is defined as follows: "Floating lures that can be made to gurgle, swim, bubble, or dart on the surface during retrieve." But like most definitions, it doesn't steer us toward any specific lures.

"Topwater baits are normally what I refer to as hard baits—as opposed to buzz baits—to fish across the water surface," states Ken Cook, Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff member. "In that category I put the Minnetok Minnow or a Rapala. I use the Minnetok twitch baits under a set of conditions with quite quiet water. You can work that sort of bait like a Ripplin' Minnow with little twitches on top of the water or with a bill (lip) on it, and it can go down two to five feet. You can work it down by jerking it intermittently."

Cook prefers using a 5-inch lure, but on occasion goes to a 7-inch size if he's trying to catch larger bass. As far as coloration of the artificial bait, he tends to favor chrome with a black back or gold with a black back and orange belly. "Those two colors I use about 90 percent of the time and under most conditions," Cook relates. "In slightly stained water,

I usually use the gold with orange belly, and in real clear water I usually use a chrome with a black or blue back."

Now that we know what kind of lures the pros favor, what retrieval technique can best be employed with them to provide greater success in catching bass?

"You usually end up with one of two retrieves," instructs Cook. "One is very, very slow—that is, you cast the lure near cover, let it sit for a while, and fish it real slow. The other retrieve that tends to work is very fast, say with a Zara Spook or Pop'R. You cast beyond the cover and get the bait to working in a zig-zagging pattern where it's flashing and go about the cover at a fairly rapid rate. That tends to trigger the bass."

As Cook emphasized, one of these two retrieves is normally the best; there's hardly a medium retrieve. The key in the presentation of the lure is to make its action erratic.

SHORT SPORTS

(Continued from Previous Page) players are expected to resume tomorrow or Friday, and if a settlement, which isn't expected, isn't reached then some familiar football names will once again be available to area fans.

For former players of state universities will be members of the 'new' Cincinnati Bengals. Billy Poe, all-American offensive lineman, and Adrian Breen, quarterback, from Morehead State University were announced recently as members of the squad.

Mark Logan, of Kentucky fame, a fifth round draft choice, is also a member of the Bengals as is former UK offensive lineman Tom Ritchie.

Tony Mays, native of Paintsville, has another shot at the NFL, as does former Wildcat receiver Cornell Burbage, who is now a Cowboy.

The Prestonsburg Blackcats will continue along the road toward a winning season this Friday night when they take on the Belfry Pirates.

Prestonsburg, 4-1, is coming off a 7-3 victory over Wheelwright while Belfry, one of the state's top 3A teams, suffered a thumping at the hands of Pikeville last Friday night.

Wheelwright, Prestonsburg's latest victim, will be playing in Prestonsburg this Saturday night, taking on the Allen Central Rebels.

'87-88 Hilltopper Cage Schedule Set

Bowling Green, Ky.—Western Kentucky University's 1987-88 men's basketball schedule has been set and the Hilltoppers of second-year Head Coach Murray Arnold will face a 27-game regular season slate that features a strong regional lineup, a sprinkling of traditional national powers and the always tough Sun Belt Conference schools.

The schedule includes dates with such well-known basketball names as Louisville, Dayton, Southern California and perennial Division II powerhouse (and defending national champion) Kentucky Wesleyan. Add to that list the rugged Sun Belt lineup and local rivalries such as Murray State, Eastern Kentucky, Austin Peay and Tennessee Tech and you have all the ingredients of another exciting season.

"We've got a challenging schedule for our young team," said Arnold, who saw his first Hilltopper team win the SBC regular season title and gain a berth in the NCAA Championship Tournament, where it lost out in the second round to eventual runner-up Syracuse on its home court. "The coaches and I know that we have a real chore ahead of us. We're very pleased with the fruits of our recruiting efforts, but we realize that we have to mold a lot of new people with a core of veteran athletes to put together a team that can be competitive in the Sun Belt Conference."

The regular season card features 15 home games plus a pre-season exhibition match-up with the U.S. Army's Ft. Hood Tankers. That contest has been set for 7:30 p.m. (CST), Nov. 14, in the home of the Hilltoppers, 12,370-seat E.A. Diddle Arena.

The Toppers will be out hoping to post their third 20-victory season in a row. The '85-86 WKU five went 23-8 and then last year's unit recorded one of the finest campaigns in the 68-year history of the sport on the Hill, going 29-9. But, that will not be easy as the Hilltoppers lost eight of 11 lettermen and four of five starters from last year's squad.

Western opens the '87-88 season officially, Friday, Nov. 27, when Kentucky State visits Diddle Arena for a 7:30 p.m. (CST) date with the Hilltoppers.

That contest is the first of four straight home games. Butler comes to town for a Dec. 2 meeting with the Hilltoppers and then WKU hosts the eighth annual Wendy's Classic, Friday and Saturday, Dec. 4-5.

That tournament will feature one of the most attractive regional fields in the history of the event—and-coming Austin Peay, Kentucky Wesleyan and Centre College. All three visiting schools are within two hours driving distance of Bowling Green and all four teams in the tourney posted 20-win seasons in '86-87. Austin Peay (20-12), like Western, reached the second round of NCAA Division I tournament play and Kentucky Wesleyan went all the way in the Division II tournament, finishing 28-5. Centre took top honors in the College Athletic Conference with its 20-8 mark.

The '87-88 schedule features 21 different teams, including five that took part in post-season tournament action last spring—Alabama at Birmingham, Austin Peay, Central Michigan and Kentucky Wesleyan in the NCAA; and Jacksonville in the NIT.

And, five schools racked up 20-or-more victories last winter—Kentucky Wesleyan, Central Michigan (22-8), UAB (21-11), Centre and Austin Peay. Four others narrowly missed a place in the 20-victory club—Jacksonville (19-11), Eastern Kentucky (19-11), Louisville (18-14) and UNC Charlotte (18-14). Ten of the schools on the Topper slate posted winning records in '86-87 and two others played .500 ball.

A total of 16 of the schools on the WKU schedule were in action with the Hilltoppers last year. Western won 21 of 26 games (.808) with those teams last season.

The 1987-88 basketball season will be the 69th in the history of the sport at Western. Through those years, the Hilltoppers have consistently ranked as one of the most successful teams in the college game, winning 1,185 games while losing only 531, a victory percentage of .691!

In action with the 16 teams on this year's schedule who have challenged the Toppers on previous occasions, Western holds an edge of 457 wins against only 215 losses, a .680 winning margin.

For ticket information on the Hilltoppers' 1986-87 home games, contact the WKU Ticket Office, E.A. Diddle Arena, Western Kentucky University, Bowling Green, Ky. 42101 (Telephone: 502-745-5222).

Bobcats Fall To Leslie County In District Game Friday Night

The Betsy Layne Bobcats lost their first game of the season played at Mile High Field, falling 43-14 to powerful Leslie County, Friday night.

Leslie County, 3-0 in the district, and holding firm onto first place, scored almost at will in the first half, taking a 33-0 halftime lead against an outmatched Betsy Layne squad.

"They are a good, strong, fast football team," Betsy Layne coach Vince Tucker said of Leslie County. "They just beat us on the line of scrimmage, and when you get beat on the line there isn't much you can do."

"They were a lot bigger than us. They kind of manhandled us, and did pretty much what ever they wanted to." The Bobcats failed to score until the third quarter when Todd Sturgill, normally a tailback, hit Dwight Jarrell, normally a quarterback, with a 40 yard touchdown pass and run.

Tucker, in an effort to bring some life to his dead offense, moved Sturgill to quarterback, but what might help in one area hurts in another.

"Both Todd and Dwight have about the same amount of ability, but we thought we needed to do something. Both are pretty good quarterbacks, and have about the same stats, but with Todd at quarterback, it takes away from our running game," Tucker said.

Betsy Layne has scored only 24 points in four games this season, and Tucker is looking for the possible combination that might work.

For at least one of the Bobcats' biggest plays of the season, the quarterback switch worked Friday night, and Betsy Layne added another touchdown in the fourth quarter, but their defense failed, once again, to hold the opposition.

In their last three games, the Bobcats have given up over 100 points while scoring only 16. "Our offense is down right now, and our defense is giving up way too many points," Tucker said.

The Bobcats haven't been helping their own offensive ineffectiveness either. In the past two games Betsy Layne has been flagged for over 100 yards in penalties per game.

Betsy Layne, 1-3, and 0-2 in the district, will take on Elkhorn City this Friday night at Mile High Field, and Elkhorn City appears to be exactly what the football doctor ordered for the Bobcats.

Betsy Layne hasn't won since the opening week of the high school session, and playing the Cougars may be the answer to solving a three game losing streak.

"We hope so," Tucker said. "They are kind of down like we are. They have been beaten by a lot of people, and by a lot of points. It may be the easiest game we've got left on our schedule."

The Bobcats will play at home this week, remain home next week when Whitesburg comes calling, then go on the road to play district games against Morgan County and M.C. Napier.

"The kids are kind of down, so we need this one," Tucker said, looking forward to Friday's game. "We play Whitesburg next week, so we definitely need to get this one to get the kids ready to play next week."

"If we're not ready to play Whitesburg then they'll probably do the same thing to us that Leslie County did, because they're a good ball club too."

Before Whitesburg comes to Betsy Layne, the Bobcats will try to take care of winning business against Elkhorn City, a team without a win this season.

The Cougars have been dominated in most of their outings this season, losing 32-0 to Wheelwright, and this past weekend falling to previously winless Jenkins 12-3.

The Bobcats, after having one home contest cancelled, will be playing before the home folks for the second consecutive night.

"Hopefully that will help us," Coach Tucker said. "The kids are down, and we really need a win to help us get prepared for the rest of our season."

The Smurfs recently won the Mud Creek Pee-Wee baseball tournament for the third year in a row. They also tied for first in the league with the Cubs. Parents of the team rewarded them by sponsoring a trip to see the Cincinnati Reds. Players are 1st row: Trenton Tackett, Kristal Newsome, Russell Hall, Nick Tackett, Adam Tackett, Penny Tackett, Jonathan Tackett. 2nd row: Brent Tackett, Mark Tackett, Rocky Newsome, Joe Bryant, Ashley Tackett, Keesha Newsome, Tera Tackett and coach Paul David Tackett. Reds Watch '87

Cincinnati Denied First Place But Continues Fight For Second

A first place finish is out of the question. It officially disappeared Monday night when the San Francisco Giants clinched a Western Division title with a victory over San Diego.

But the Cincinnati Reds aren't completely out of the race. It isn't the race Reds' fans expected their team to be in come October.

Cincinnati had been picked by many baseball experts as the team most likely to win the NL West crown, but as the season winds down, the Reds are waging a war for second rather than first place.

Buddy Bell, in a radio interview Sunday, said, "a win is a win regardless of when it comes. If it's for first place or whatever, we try to do our best every time we hit the field."

Bell had just led the Reds to a 4-2 victory over the Houston Astros, keeping Cincinnati in a comfortable position for second place winners.

Dennis Rasmussen, Cincinnati starter, gave up two solo homeruns in the second inning, and Houston held that lead until the bottom of the eighth inning.

Dave Collins, leading off the inning with a pinch hit single, scored Cincinnati's first run on Tracy Jones' single. Jones had followed Collins and Concepcion, who both singled.

After Dave Parker grounded into a fielder's choice, forcing Jones, Buddy Bell tripped into centerfield, scoring both Concepcion and Leo Garcia, who was running for Parker.

Bo Diaz, the sixth man to hit in the inning, scored Bell with a fly ball, giving Cincinnati their final run.

Rob Murphy, in relief of Rasmussen, picked up the win after working a scoreless eighth inning. John Franco pitched the ninth inning to record his 29th save.

With the win the Reds moved five games in front of third place Houston, and capped off a successful series against the Astros. The Reds won two of the three games this past weekend.

Cincinnati, going for their third consecutive second place finish, defeated the Atlanta Braves 6-5 Monday night, coming from five runs down to record the win.

Atlanta, after scoring five runs off starter Ted Power, saw their lead disappear when the Reds rallied for a six spot in the fourth inning.

Powered by homeruns off the bats of Buddy Bell, and Barry Larkin, Cincinnati scored all their runs in the fourth inning, allowing Jeff Montgomery to even his record.

Bell, with Dave Parker on first, cranked his 17th homerun of the season, and was later followed by a Larkin three-run homerun. Tracy Jones had earlier scored on a wild pitch for Cincinnati's first run.

Montgomery, 2-2, pitched in the fourth inning to record the victory, while John Franco, working a scoreless ninth, picked up his 30th save.

The Reds, having a firm lack on second place, won their fifth game in the seven tries, and their eighth in the last 12.

Cincinnati, playing in their last homestead of the season, treated their fans with some late season victories by winning two out of three against San Diego, then repeated the feat against Houston in the recent weekend series.

The Reds, two games above .500, defeated Houston 4-1 Friday night, before dropping the middle game of the three game series, 5-3.

Terry Puhl slammed a three-run homerun in the game, as the Astros broke a four game losing streak. Before Saturday's win, Houston was 1-8 in their previous nine outings.

The Astros, last season's Western Division champions, is apparently headed for a third place finish, ending the season behind San Francisco, and Cincinnati.

The Reds, trying to hold off Houston, will conclude their season this weekend in San Diego, playing the Padres in a final road trip of the season.

Finishing second may be little compensation for Reds' fans, especially after high pre-season expectations, but in the words of veteran broadcaster Joe Nuxall, "we're not going to say, 'wait 'till next year.' We're saying, we'll get 'em next year."

In the past three seasons Cincinnati has ended their season in second place, finishing behind Los Angeles, Houston, and San Francisco.

Following the first two seasons as being brides maids, the Reds elected not to enter the trade scene, but may expect several off season moves this winter.

Age Discrimination
By Attorney General DAVID ARMSTRONG
It is now against the law for most employers to enforce mandatory requirements for older workers. As of January 1, 1987, a federal law took effect amending the federal Age Discrimination in Employment Act by removing the age 70 cap which permitted mandatory retirement at that age.
Under this new law, any employer that has 20 or more employees may not discriminate or otherwise have any employment practice affecting employees in the protected age range (40 years-old or over) that is motivated by or the result of age. While the new federal law protects employees against mandatory retirement after age 40, it should be remembered that local school boards, state government, and other employers as to whom the new law applies may terminate an employee based upon the individual assessment of the employee's ability, capabilities, etc.
This new federal law is important to many Kentuckians, as it recognizes that older Kentuckians who are still able to work and want to work should not be made to retire merely because they have reached a certain age.
If you would like more information concerning the Age Discrimination in Employment Act write the Office of Attorney General, Capitol Building, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601 or call (502) 564-7600.

Water Watch Program Tests Stream Purity
How clean is the creek or river in your town? In 49 Kentucky communities, local Water Watch volunteers are finding out how clean their streams are by doing their own testing.
The Kentucky Department for Environmental Protection's Division of Water, which sponsors the Water Watch program, provided water quality test kits and trained the Water Watchers to monitor streams. The volunteers are testing for dissolved oxygen, temperature, pH level, nitrates, iron, sulfates and chlorides—the main established tests for measuring a stream's ability to support aquatic life.
"The benefits of this testing are twofold," said Division Director Don Harker. "It gives the division more background data on the water quality of Kentucky streams, and being able to do basic testing increases citizens' sense of ownership and responsibility for their local streams."
The Water Watchers will send their test results to the division, and will also share information about the condition of streams with people in their communities. If the tests show a problem, the site will be further investigated by Division of Water staff.
Those who would like to form a Water Watch group and sponsor water quality monitoring sites in the state, may contact Ken Cooke, Water Watch program coordinator, 18 Reilly Road, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. Telephone (502) 564-3410.

CARD OF THANKS
The Bill Francis, Sr. family wish to thank the Hall Funeral Home, Rev. Ken LeMaster, the Garrett Baptist Choir, Frank Coburn and all friends who expressed words of comfort, sent flowers, food and cards at the passing of our beloved dad.

Riverview Manor Rates Superior in Care Level

A long-term care facility in Floyd county has been rated superior for individual levels of care under Kentucky's nursing home reform law. The superior ratings were made for the skilled nursing and the intermediate levels of care provided by the Riverview Manor Nursing Home, of Prestonsburg. The designation is made by the Cabinet for Human Resources Division of Licensing and Regulations and is prepared for each long-term care facility in the state following the facility's annual inspection.

Human Resources Secretary Al Austin said, "One section of Kentucky's nursing home reform law allowed for the designation by rating of the individual levels of care, in order for the consuming public to get some idea of the type of service being provided under state regulations."

Levels of resident care not attaining Superior status are designated either Unrated, which indicates that the service is in compliance with at least the minimum standards, or Conditional, which means that this particular level of care in that facility is in non-compliance with the standards.

Woodrow Dunn, director of the Division of Licensing and Regulations, said, "It's important for the public to understand that each separate level of care is rated individually. Many facilities today offer two and sometimes three levels of residential care and each has its own rating."

Levels of care at long-term care facilities include personal care, intermediate care, intermediate care/mental retardation-developmentally disabled, nursing home and skilled nursing care.

In order to achieve a Superior rating, a facility must meet two requirements for the level of care involved.

"First, it must be in compliance with the minimum standards for licensing in each of 11 areas," said Dunn. "Then the facility must exceed those minimum standards in at least six of the 11 areas of its operation." Those 11 areas are administration, nursing services, dietary and nutritional services, life safety code, physical environment, physical and restorative therapy, social services and activities, drugs and biologicals, medical services, patients' rights and record keeping.

Dunn said, "I believe this process provides a real incentive to the long-term care facilities in Kentucky to achieve the highest possible rating. Achievement of the Superior designation for an individual level of care should tell the public something about that facility, just as the other ratings will serve as an indication of the track record as well."

Supreme Court Upholds Truth-In-Sentencing Law

Attorney General David Armstrong has announced that the Kentucky Supreme Court upheld the Truth-In-Sentencing law in the case of Lightfoot v. Commonwealth. The Kentucky Supreme Court declined Lightfoot's request to hold the "violent offender" portion of the statute unconstitutional.

The court's decision stemmed from Bobby Leon Lightfoot's conviction of kidnapping, robbing and sodomizing two Jefferson county youths in 1986. Lightfoot argued that the violent offender statute is "vague and incomprehensible."

In an unpublished 6-1 opinion, the Supreme Court rejected Lightfoot's argument and added, "to the extent this statute may some years hence affect Lightfoot's eligibility for parole, such question is not properly presented in this direct appeal from his conviction."

Chlamydia Is Threat To Pregnant, Babes

Kentucky's most prevalent, and probably least heard of, venereal disease poses a significant health threat to pregnant women and their children, according to findings summoned recently by the state Department for Health Services.

The disease is chlamydia (cla-MID-ee-uh), and it can have devastating consequences for newborns, expectant mothers and others if left untreated. At the same time, treatment can mean improved health and lower health care costs.

In an on-going state study begun in May, nearly 10 percent of the 1,241 pregnant women screened in 59 counties tested positive for the disease, which can be transmitted during birth and can cause pneumonia and serious eye infections in babies. Screenings were made in local health department prenatal clinics, including that of Floyd county, with treatment provided to women testing positive.

"We wanted to find out if chlamydia is a significant problem among pregnant women in Kentucky," said Reginald Finger, M.D., communicable disease branch manager. "We also wanted to prevent chlamydial pneumonia in infants and at the same time prevent health problems for women and their sexual partners."

"Based on what we've found," he said, "we recommend that pregnant women younger than 25 be screened for chlamydia, particularly if they have more than one sexual partner or have had a new sexual partner within the last year."

Among women age 13-19, 17 percent tested positive; age 20-24, 10 percent; age 25-29, 4 percent; and 30 and over, 3 percent.

In addition to dangers to infants, Finger said, chlamydia causes genital infections that can lead to sterility in men and women if left untreated.

An estimated 60 to 80 percent of women and 10 percent of men with chlamydia have no symptoms.

Anyone with these symptoms should check with a physician. Once detected, chlamydia can be cured with antibiotics.

Since the Kentucky study to date has detected 123 cases of chlamydia in pregnant women, it is estimated that eight cases of chlamydial pneumonia in infants were prevented. The resulting savings in health care costs are $40,000, which doesn't take into account the health problems prevented in adults. The amount spent for the screening thus far is $23,000.

"We've already shown that the effort is cost effective," said Dr. Finger. "And will continue screening prenatal patients until approximately the end of the year when the study is completed."

The department has sought funding from the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta to provide screening on a continuing basis, he said.

Ligon-Clarke Wedding Solemnized Here Saturday at Home of Bride's Parents

MRS. JOHN RANDOLPH CLARKE

One of the most important events of the social season here took place Saturday, September 10, when Miss Sallye Gatewood Ligon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Y. Ligon, and Mr. John Randolph Clarke, of Lexington, Va., and Charleston, W. Va., were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents.

The brides popularity here and her family's prominence in Eastern Kentucky made of the marriage an event of unusual interest in this section.

The marriage, which was solemnized at five o'clock Saturday evening by Bishop W. L. Gravett, of the Diocese of West Virginia, Episcopal Church, was consummated impressively, the Episcopal ring ceremony being used.

Forming a beautiful setting for the marriage of this popular couple was the Ligon home, which was profusely decorated with early fall flowers, palms and ferns.

Mrs. Iley B. Browning, of Ashland, rendered a short piano program, and, preceding the ceremony Miss Nelle Allen sang "Until."

Entering the drawing room, escorted by her father, the bride was joined at the altar by the groom and his best man Mr. M. I. Dunn, of Huntington, W. Va. The bride was charmingly gowned in an imported model of gold metallic blouse, with brown skirt and accessories to

Wherever You Roam Autumn Is Gorgeous

"Honey, did you pack the ham sandwiches? John, stop pinching your sister. Do we have enough film? No, young lady, that dog is not going with us. Where's the map?"

O.K., fall sightseeing trips don't always start smoothly. But surely the effort is well worth it. The first hint of fall already is in the air and, before long, Kentucky's forests will be splashed with yellows, reds, golds and oranges. It's an ideal time for that weekend getaway.

Choosing a driving route can be just about as easy as closing your eyes and pointing your finger at any place on a Kentucky highway map; after all, each region of the state has its special charms and beautiful fall vistas.

But for those who prefer some guidance, the state Tourism Cabinet offers some ideas. Here are four Routes to Scenic Beauty, chosen for their diverse scenery, good roads, and fall activities. A route has been singled out for each of four major regions of the state.

EASTERN KENTUCKY—The dramatic mountains of southeastern Kentucky provide an ideal setting for enjoying the fall leaves. A starting point might be Jenny Wiley State Resort Park near Prestonsburg, whose 7.2 miles of hiking trails give visitors a chance to walk through dense forests ablaze with fall color. For Prestonsburg residents, the emergence of fall color coincides with the Jenny Wiley Festival, which this year runs Oct. 5 through 10. The festival arts and crafts displays, a square dance, a parade and other activities. The event is named for a woman whose escape from Indian capture was a testament to pioneer bravery.

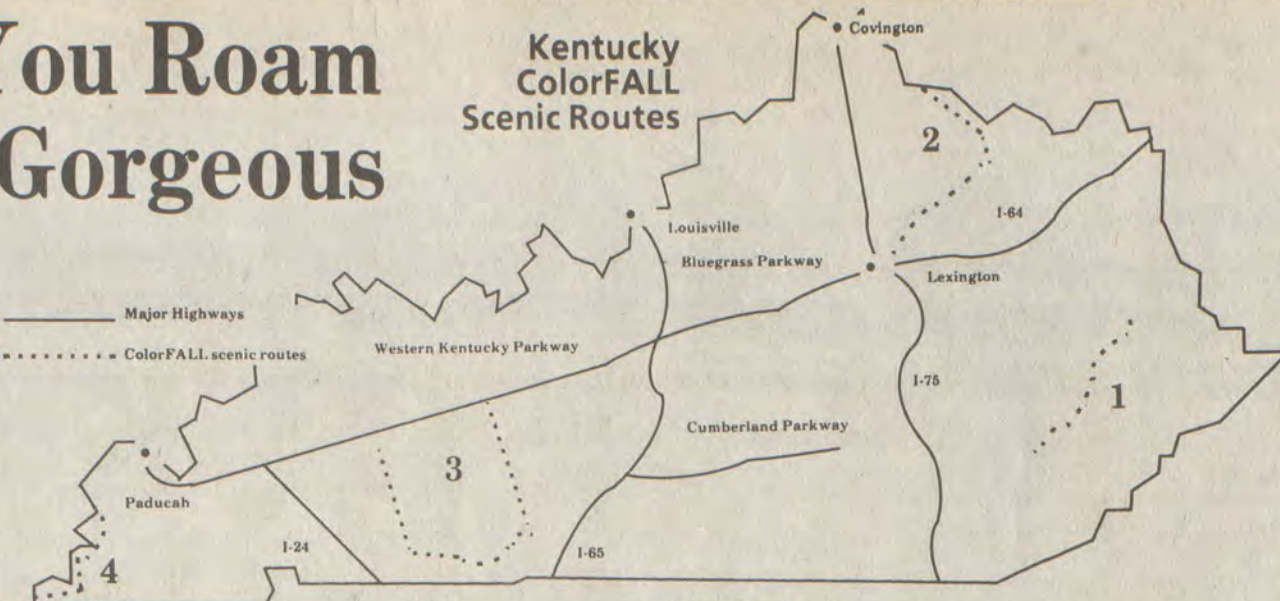

From Prestonsburg, travelers can take KY 80 southwest to Hazard. This four-lane, well-maintained road cuts through forested mountains that show off a profusion of yellows and reds in autumn. The bright-yellow poplars and hickories offer contrast to the deep reds and maroons of sumacs and sourwoods. For those who want to get off the beaten track, a side trip along the banks of Carr Fork Lake is a possibility. From KY 80 at Hindman, take KY 160 south to KY 15, which winds alongside the narrow fingers of the lake through hills covered with bright-red sweetgums and yellow sassafras trees. KY 15 leads to Hazard, an energetic city that hosts one of the region's biggest fall events, the Black Gold Festival, which honors coal. A huge parade, a 10K run, and a variety of entertainment are in store for the event, which is Sept. 17-20.

West of Hazard is Buckhorn Lake State Resort Park. In this quiet forest setting, sightseers can enjoy a breathtaking view of the lake enclosed by wooded hills. The park maintains two miles of scenic hiking trails. From Hazard, take KY 15 north to KY 28 West.

NORTH CENTRAL KENTUCKY—This route starts on the outskirts of Lexington on Paris Pike (US 68), a tree-lined, two-lane road flanked by Thoroughbred horse farms. Passing by the stately mansions and stone fences of the horse farms, motorists are treated to the bright yellow of catalpas and golds of chestnut oaks. The historic town of Paris is a short drive from Lexington. Here, on courthouse square, is Duncan Tavern, an imposing limestone inn that dates from 1788. Tours of the inn and the adjoining Anne Duncan House (built around 1803) are offered daily except Mondays. Also of interest is Cane Ridge Shrine a few miles outside of town. This log church was the birthplace of the Disciples of Christ denomination in the early 1800s.

On Oct. 24, Paris is the site for the third annual Pumpkin Festival. Arts and crafts displays, food booths, and children's games are among attractions of the all-day festival, which will be held downtown.

About 45 miles north of Paris on US 68 is the restored pioneer settlement Washington, just outside Maysville. Settled by explorer Simon Kenton and once the home of Daniel Boone, Washington was founded in 1785 and fortunately for us, a number of its historic buildings remain intact today. Along maple-lined Main Street are graceful BREATH-TAKING FOLIAGE AWAITS FALL VISITORS—Kentucky provides endless opportunities for viewing the beautiful leaves of autumn. In each region, outstanding vistas await. Here are four routes to consider. Route No. 1 takes travelers over rugged, scenic Eastern Kentucky mountains. From Prestonsburg, take KY 80 southwest to Hazard. Route No. 2 winds through Bluegrass horse country to historic Ohio River communities. From Lexington, take US 68 northeast to Maysville, then KY 8 west to Augusta. Route No. 3 takes in the Pennyrile region, known for its pastoral farmland dotted with dense woodlands. From Pennyrile Forest State Resort Park, take KY 109 southeast to Hopkinsville, then drive east on US 68 to Russellville; from there, drive north on US 431 to the Western Kentucky Parkway. Route No. 4 is the Great River Road, which hugs the wide Mississippi River and includes a historic Civil War site. From Wickliffe, follow the Great River Road signs south to the Cayce community. A detour there takes drivers south to KY 166, then west to Hickman. For fall-foliage information, call 1-800-225-8747.

buildings such as The Paxton Inn (1819). Tours are offered of six historic buildings, and the entire downtown area is on the National Register of Historic Places. In addition to touring the area, shopping in charming antiques shops is popular.

Washington's Simon Kenton Harvest Festival, Sept. 19-20, will offer entertainment, a street fair, and a farmer's market, in addition to tours.

From Washington, motorists descend a long hill to downtown Maysville, on the banks of the Ohio River. A major river port in the late 1700s, Maysville enjoyed prosperity into the mid-1800s, as seen in the beautiful Georgian and Greek Revival buildings. Like Washington, downtown Maysville is on the National Register. Oct. 4-5 is Mason County Court Days, featuring sidewalk sales, entertainment, and trading contests. The popular event is more than 20 years old.

Eighteen miles west of Maysville off KY 8 is Augusta, a quaint river town whose waterfront has been the location for TV filming of historical dramas. A stroll down maple-lined Riverside Drive, with its elegant townhouses dating from the early 1800s, makes clear why Augusta was chosen as a filming location. Across the street from the brick townhomes is a shallow, grassy bank that leads to the river's edge.

A ferry churns across the river, its American flag fluttering. It is one of only a handful of ferries that still ply the waters of the Ohio River.

The Piedmont Art Gallery, housed in one of the row houses and open Thursdays through Sundays from noon to 5 p.m., features fine works by regional artists.

SOUTH CENTRAL KENTUCKY—Pennyrile Forest State Resort Park near Dawson Springs is an undiscovered gem of the state park system. The park lodge overlooks a small lake where water lilies line the shore line and a blue heron might take flight as you walk along the bank. A trail circles the lake, which is ringed with maples, sumacs, and sweetgums. Leaving the park, you might chance upon deer quietly grazing along the road. Take KY 109 southeast to Hopkinsville, about 20 miles away. The city's Little River Park is the location for the Little River Arts and Crafts Fair, Sept. 26. It is a juried show that will showcase some 40 booths exhibiting stained glass, woodwork, and other crafts.

About 20 miles east of Hopkinsville on US 68 is the Jefferson Davis Monument State Historic Site, dominated by a 351-foot-tall monument. Visitors can take an elevator to the top, for sweeping views of the countryside. The monument marks the birthplace of the only President of the Confederacy, who was born less than 100 miles from the birthplace of Abraham Lincoln, President of the Union during the Civil War. Continuing east on US 68, motorists soon come to Russellville, home of the 31-year-old Logan County Tobacco Festival, Oct. 3-10, which includes the reenactment of a bank robbery by Jesse James, and tours of historic homes. From Russellville, drive north on US 431 over wooded countryside to Lake Malone State Park.

A small lake, only 826 acres, Lake Malone is nonetheless picturesque, with sandstone bluffs rising high above the cool, green water. US 431 intersects with the Western Kentucky Parkway about 20 miles north of Lake Malone.

WESTERN KENTUCKY—The Great River Road is a designated route that follows the entire length of the Mississippi River. In Kentucky, southbound motorists start at Wickliffe, whose riverfront park boasts great views of the wide Mississippi only a few miles south of its confluence with the Ohio River. Along the banks, poplars and hickories provide bright yellow hues in the fall, along with an occasional maroon sumac. The town is the site of an excavated prehistoric Indian village, Wickliffe Mounds, which is marked by green-and-white road signs. The signs make it convenient to follow the leisurely, 50-mile route south along the river.

Perhaps the most commanding view of the river is at Columbus-Belmont Battlefield State Park, the location of a pivotal Civil War battle. On a high cliff above the river, the park marks the site of a bloody struggle to control this vital transportation corridor. The battle for control of the Confederate stronghold was the first Civil War engagement of U.S. Grant. The Confederates had stopped Union boat traffic by stretching a massive chain across the river. A remnant of the chain, and its six-ton anchor, is on display in the wooded park.

Continuing south through farmland and woods, travelers come to a detour from the Great River Road in the Fulton County community Cayce. Instead of driving west on KY 94, which is closed for construction, continue south to KY 166, then drive west to Hickman. Arresting views of the river are afforded from Magnolia Street, located near the police station.

If these routes don't fit the bill, state travel operators can suggest six other driving routes around Kentucky. Simply call the toll-free Kentucky Color Connection, 1-800-225-8747. Through a program called ColorFALL Kentucky, the operators also provide an updated report on the spread of fall colors throughout the state. The program will operate through the foliage season.

Miller Accepted As West Point Cadet
Clifford R. Miller, son of Charles W. and Drema H. Miller, of Lancer, has been officially accepted into the U.S. Military Academy's Corps of Cadets as a new member of the class of 1991 during the annual acceptance parade.

The parade followed six weeks of rigorous basic cadet training at the West Point academy. Training in military customs and courtesies, drill and physical conditioning, tactical exercises and the firing of weapons introduced the basic cadets to military life with special emphasis on leadership, duty, honor and country.
The academy is a four-year educational institution graduating men and women to serve as career Army officers. In addition to military training, the academy offers athletics and an academic curriculum which includes basic and engineering sciences and social sciences and the humanities.
Miller is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School.

Attend Annual Workshop at Lodge

ATTENDING THE KENTUCKY RETIRED TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION annual workshop at May Lodge, Thursday, September 17, were, from left, above, Mrs. Mildred Tupman, president-elect, K.R.T.A.; Mrs. Norma S. Stepp, president, Big Sandy Retired Teachers; Mrs. Danese Amburgey, Mrs. Edith Roberts, Mrs. Pansy Walker, and Mrs. Opal Preece, presidents of Floyd, Pike, Lawrence, and Martin counties' Retired Teachers, respectively; Mrs. Imogene Salyer, secretary-treasurer, of B.S.R.T.; Russell Boyd, president of Johnson County's Retired Teachers; M. L. Archer, chairman of the Pre-retirement and Membership committees of K.R.T.A., and Frank Hatfield, newly-elected executive director of the Kentucky Retired Teachers' Association.

The annual workshop was conducted Thursday, September 17, at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, beginning with registration and a coffee, at 8:30 a.m. Mrs. Norma S. Stepp, president of the Big Sandy Retired Teachers' Association, gave the welcome address and introduced Mrs. Billie Jean Osborne, who presented an impressive musical invocation. Charles Spears, former president of B.S.R.T., read the Preamble to the Constitution, and Mrs. Norma S. Stepp asked each person present to ring a bell at 4 p.m., that day, in observance of this historic event. The Pledge of Allegiance was led by H.C. Dutton, president-elect of B.S.R.T.

The president introduced Mrs. Mildred Tupman, president-elect of K.R.T.A., who expressed her pleasure in working with retired teachers. Mrs. Tupman then presented Frank R. Hatfield, the newly-elected executive director of K.R.T.A., who addressed the group. Following roll call of the six counties represented at this meeting, M.L. Archer, chairman of the State Membership and Pre-retirement committees, discussed the importance of membership and told of plans for the annual pre-retirement meeting to be held at Prestonsburg Community College, October 24.

Charles DeWeese, past president of K.R.T.A., and presently state coordinator of A.A.R.P./N.R.T.A., gave a report on the progress made since the merging of these two organizations. Jack Gardener, chairman of health and insurance, gave advice on these two matters and assured the group that their coverage was "as good as any in this country."
State Representative Ray Preston, of Paintsville, explained procedures taken in the State Legislature for the benefit of retired teachers.
Ninety-two-year-old Mrs. Ample Calhoun, of Pike county, was introduced by another Pike countian, Charles Spears. When Mrs. Calhoun, one of this area's oldest retired teachers, was asked to explain her longevity, she replied, "This is because I'm active—and because I attend all the retired teachers' meetings in my area."

Regulations Change Testing Requirements For Livestock

The Kentucky Board of Agriculture recently approved regulations concerning brucellosis in cattle and pseudorabies in swine which should better control the diseases in the Commonwealth and protect the marketability of Kentucky livestock in surrounding states.

"The board has made changes in existing regulations and approved a new regulation for swine which will make the most significant changes in the Kentucky livestock industry in many years," said Agriculture Commissioner David Boswell.

Brucellosis has been the target of a nationwide eradication effort for many years. During the past year, Kentucky has spent more than $300,000 in depopulating herds infected with the disease which causes reproductive problems and abortions in cattle.

Including federal money, $1 million has been spent on depopulation in Kentucky since October 1986, eradicating 6,900 animals in 173 infected herds.

The changes in existing regulations concerning brucellosis, which were approved by the Board of Agriculture on Sept. 18, will tighten entry requirements for cattle coming into Kentucky from states which have a high incidence of the disease.

It will become easier to ship cattle into the Commonwealth from states ranked with a low incidence of brucellosis or completely free of the disease. These cattle will be quarantined upon arrival in Kentucky and given a second test for brucellosis.

The regulations will also lower the age of brucellosis testing from 20 months and 24 months in dairy and beef cattle to 18 months for all cattle.

The board also adopted a regulation which allow cattle remaining in Kentucky for feeding purposes only to be "F" branded and moved to farms approved by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture to accept these non-breeding cattle. The department will periodically monitor conditions on the farm to make certain the producers are complying with the regulations.

Changes were also made in regulations pertaining to sanitary requirements and operational procedures for stockyards to follow in regard to brucellosis and the sanitary and health requirements for cattle which are to be sold and exhibited in Kentucky.

Pseudorabies is a highly contagious, transmissible virus which attacks swine. It can cause death in young pigs and reproductive problems and abortions in older swine.

"Right now, Kentucky is not bothered by a high incidence rate for pseudorabies," said Commissioner Boswell. "We have only 13 herds in the Commonwealth quarantined with the disease. However, we must keep close surveillance of the disease because some surrounding states are tightening their requirements for swine coming into their markets."

The new pseudorabies regulation requires that beginning Jan. 1, 1988, all feeder pigs sold in Kentucky must originate from herds that are being monitored for the disease.

Under the regulation farmers have two options to meet the requirements. A farmer can arrange with his veterinarian to have a percentage of his breeding herd tested for pseudorabies. The farmer must pay the cost of all testing.

The second option allows the farmer to have his veterinarian test all his breeding swine for both pseudorabies and brucellosis. Because of available federal and state money for swine testing, the expenses for this testing will be paid for by the Department of Agriculture.

Farmers whose herds test negative for will be given a pseudorabies surveillance card verifying the herd as pseudorabies or pseudorabies/brucellosis free.

Other changes in existing swine regulations, provide that:

Swine entering Kentucky for feeding and/or breeding purposes from other states must have an entry permit.

Swine coming into Kentucky must have a negative 30-day test for pseudorabies and brucellosis or originate from a herd verified free of the diseases.

Swine coming into Kentucky must be quarantined for 30 days on the farm and receive a post movement retest 30 days to 60 days after arriving at the farm.

All breeding swine sold at stockyards which are going back to a farm must have had a negative test for pseudorabies and brucellosis within 30 days of arriving at the stockyard.

APPLE TEMPTATION

It's widely held that apples have been around since the days of Adam and Eve. September is the time of year when temptation reaches its peak for this widely enjoyed fruit. But this is one temptation it's safe to indulge. Apples are a fine source of dietary fiber. A large apple contains only about 80 calories, a single gram of fat and less than 2 grams of sodium.

The selection of apples is at its best now too, so make sure you are picking the right apple for your needs. If you're baking, choose firm varieties: Rome Beauty, Northern Spy, Greening, Winesap, Granny Smith or York Imperial. Preparing a snack or packing a lunch? Try crisp Cortland, Red and Golden Delicious, Empire, McIntosh, Newtown Pippin or Winesap. For the best flavor in your homemade applesauce, use Beacon, Empire, Newtown Pippin, Fenton or Granny Smith.

Apples need a cool storage place (best at around 32 degrees F) with good air circulation to maintain crispness. Your refrigerator is a good place, but try to keep apples in a separate storage area since they give off a "ripening hormone" that can cause other fruits and vegetables around them to overripen. Here are some delicious ways to enjoy the apple harvest:

APPLE SPICE MUFFINS

A special ingredient makes these muffins deliciously sweet and spicy: Oriental Five Spice Powder, a blend of such spices as star anise, fennel and cinnamon. (You can find it in the Oriental food section of most grocery stores, or you can substitute cinnamon or a blend of cinnamon and other sweet spices if you prefer.) For good nutrition, these muffins feature whole wheat and a limited amount of fat. They're moist enough that you don't need to add butter or margarine when serving.

- 1/2 cup packed dark brown sugar
 - 1/4 cup oil
 - 1 egg, lightly beaten
 - 1 tsp. vanilla
 - 3/4 cup skim milk
 - 1 1/2 cups whole wheat flour
 - 1/2 tsp. baking soda
 - 1 tsp. Oriental Five Spice Powder
 - 1 cup apple, peeled and chopped
- Preheat the oven to 375 degrees. Lightly oil muffin pans (enough for a dozen muffins), or line with paper cupcake liners.

In a medium bowl blend the sugar, oil, egg, vanilla and milk. Sift the flour, baking soda and spice powder into a large bowl, and stir in any bran particles left remaining in the sifter.

Add the liquid ingredients and stir just until blended. The batter does not have to be free of lumps. Stir in the apple pieces. Spoon into the pans, filling each just slightly more than halfway. Sprinkle the top of each with a bit more spice powder or cinnamon. Bake at 375 degrees until done, about 20 to 25 minutes.

This recipe will yield 12 muffins, each containing 5 grams of fat and about 145 calories.

POACHED APPLES WITH CRANBERRY-CINNAMON SAUCE

Another tasty way to make use of fall apples. The cranberry-cinnamon sauce adds beautiful color, as well as a complex tart-sweet-spicy flavor.

- 4 medium baking apples
- 1/2 cup plus 1/3 cup sugar
- 2 1/2 cups water
- 1 cup fresh cranberries (about 4 ozs.)
- 1/4 tsp. cinnamon

Wash and core the apples (peeling is optional). In a large saucepan mix the sugar and water and add the apples. Over high heat, bring to a boil, then reduce the heat to low, cover and simmer for 10 minutes, or until the apples are just tender. Baste with syrup in pan occasionally while cooking.

Meanwhile, in a medium saucepan heat the cranberries, cinnamon, 2/3 cup of water and 1/2 cup of sugar. Heat over medium heat to a boil, and boil gently for 10 minutes. Cool slightly, then place mixture in a food processor or blender and puree until smooth.

To serve, pour the sauce over the apples and into the cored centers. This will yield 4 servings, each with zero grams of fat and about 200 calories.

Learning Disabilities Conference Oct. 2, 3

The fall conference of the Kentucky Association for Children and Adults with Learning Disabilities will have more than usual sense of urgency this year, says the association's president, Catherine N. Senn, of Louisville.

"Adult literacy programs across the country are discovering that their teachers and tutors need to be able to cope with the learning needs of learning disabled adults," she said, "since about a quarter of literacy-program enrollees are found to be learning disabled."

"All of us have had to recognize that learning disabilities aren't limited to children in school; learning disabilities are lifelong, and 24 hours a day," she explained.

Learning disabilities require teaching styles that are different from standard teaching techniques, and individualized to fit the student, she said.

She defined a learning disabled individual as a person with average or above average intelligence who exhibits difficulty in one or more of the basic psychological processes involved in spoken or written language. This may be manifested in disorders of listening, thinking, talking, reading, writing, spelling, or mathematics. Emotional disturbances and behavior difficulties are often secondary results.

The state organization is affiliated with the thirty-year-old national ACLD, a non-profit volunteer organization which furnishes information and support to parents, professionals, and learning disabled individuals.

Kentucky ACLD will hold its conference October 2 and 3 at the Holiday Inn at Second and Broadway in Louisville. Speakers will include national authorities Dr. Barbara Cordoni, director of a program for learning disabled college students at the University of Southern Illinois at Carbondale, and Dr. James McLoughlin, associate dean of the University of Louisville College of Education. About 300 parents, teachers, social workers and other professionals are expected to attend.

There will be seminars on helping learning disabled children by identifying learning disabilities, the usefulness of independent evaluations of children, what to do for the young child who has been identified, structure for the learning disabled, occupational therapy, and Vocational Rehabilitation services.

The staff of a specialized non-profit school in Louisville will discuss "Innovations and Observations."

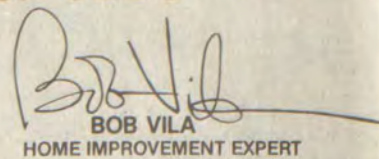

Other workshops will center on helping parents: Current issues and future trends in learning disabilities, by Dr. McLoughlin; a presentation by the Kentucky Public Advocacy staff; and advocacy training by ACLD-trained volunteers from Bowling Green.

Team teaching, "The New Frontier in Exceptional Child Education," will be discussed, and there will be an update on activities in the LD field at the State education level.

Learning disabled youth seem to have more trouble with the law than others. Juvenile Court Judge Robert E. Delahanty will discuss what to do about these children's problems, and workshops on learning disabled adolescents will be offered by a psychotherapist, a foster-care supervisor, and the manager of the education programs in State youth facilities.

"Here's why the heat pump can be called the comfort pump."

In the winter, the flameless electric heat pump keeps you warm and comfortable.

In the summer, it keeps your whole house cool and comfortable.

That's why the heat pump could be called the comfort pump.

But whatever you call it, you can't beat the heat pump for reliability, efficiency and affordable year-round comfort.

Cancer Hopeline

QUESTION: In three weeks my sister will begin having x-ray treatments for cancer. Her doctor has scheduled her for a visit next week for a consult and the week after for something he called simulation.

ANSWER: During this visit the doctor will take a careful medical history and review any tests or x-rays that have already been done. The doctor may also examine your sister, and if needed, order more tests.

Simulation is the process by which the radiation therapist determines the exact area on the patient's body to aim the x-ray beam. Simulation can take from 30 minutes to an hour or more. During the simulation visit, your sister will be asked to lie very still on the table while a technologist uses a special machine to x-ray the cancer. If more tests are needed to pinpoint the location and size of the tumor, they will be done during this session.

After the exact area to be radiated, called the "treatment part," is located, the skin in that area will be marked with tiny tattoo dots or indelible ink to outline the treatment area. The ink marks are not to be removed until the full course of treatment is over.

Once this process is completed, the radiation therapist will discuss the findings and test results with the rest of the radiation team. Together they will prepare a plan for how much radiation is needed and how it should be given. Special lead blocks may be ordered to protect normal body tissues and organs and to make sure that the radiation reaches only the area where it is needed. Plastic or foam forms may be ordered to protect normal body tissues and organs and to make sure that the radiation reaches only the area where it is needed. Plastic or foam forms may be made to keep the patient in place so that the same area is treated each time.

For more information about Radiation Therapy, call the Cancer Information Service at 1-800-4-CANCER or write McDowell Cancer Network, 800 Rose Street, Lexington, Ky. 40536. The Cancer Information Service is a program of the Kentucky Cancer Information Service.

Real Estate Roundtable

By JOHN C. WOLFF, JR., Ed.D.

Executive Director
Kentucky Real Estate Center
University of Kentucky

Help the Children

Q. I want to help my children buy their first homes. I could give them the money. I could lend them the money. I could go into partnership with them.

A. Giving them the money is up to you. It really is not a real estate question. The choice between lending them the money and setting up a partnership with them is the sort of topic which can be discussed.

Q. What do you think would be best?
A. If you lend them the money, they will probably pay it back to you. You might set an interest rate that would be fair to them and still give you a decent return. There are many ways of setting the interest rate, but one that has worked well is the average between mortgage interest and one-year certificate of deposit (CD) interest. The mortgage rate is the rate your children would have to pay if they borrowed from the bank, and the CD rate is the rate the bank would pay you if you kept your money with them. Mortgage rates are higher than CD rates. Using this simple arrangement, your children get a rate lower than the mortgage rate, and you get a rate higher than the CD rate. You will have to pay taxes, however, on the interest you receive. Setting up a partnership with your children is usually referred to as "home equity sharing." In this arrangement, the parent makes the downpayment. The parent now owns whatever percent of the total price of the home this amount represents. If a home costs $40,000 and the downpayment is $10,000, you, the parent, own 25% of the home. A fair market rent is established for the home, and you receive 25% of the amount each month from your child.

You can depreciate your interest in the home (not including the land) and take this as a tax deduction. You still have to pay taxes on the rent you receive from your child.

You and your child still have to make a good buy in a home in order to get the big advantage of real estate: appreciation. If you have paid the right price for a home in the right location, there is a good possibility it will increase in value each year.

For example, the $40,000 home of which you own 25% might go up 4% the first year. That means it would increase in value $1,600 ($40,000 x 4%). Your 25% would be $400 ($1,600 x 25%). Your income from your investment will be $400 plus 25% of the rent. Of course, you do not get your share of the appreciation until the house is sold.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

EYE CONTACT

Pressing gently on the bridge of the nose and next to the inner corners of the eyes will help prevent eye drops from being quickly drained away from the eye. Tears are constantly drained from the eye through the small openings (puncta) in the lower lids, into the ducts, and then swallowed. Eye drops are drained from the eye in the same manner. This is the reason that eye drops can sometimes be tasted after they are administered. To slow down the drainage of the eye drops, apply gentle pressure on the bridge of the nose for a minute to help block the nasolacrimal duct and keep the medicine in contact with the eye a little longer.

COOLEY APOTHECARY meets the highest level of professionalism in our business and would be honored to become your pharmacy. Our records are fully maintained for all drug warnings, drug interactions and personal drug interactions and personal drug allergies here at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. MasterCard and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4.

HANDY HINT: Blinking helps remove eye drops from the eye. Therefore, try not to blink when self-administering eye drops.

DEAR BETTY CROCKER

Q. How do I tell when pancakes are ready to turn?

A. The secret is to turn pancakes as soon as they are puffed and just as the bubbles break.

Q. What's the best way to freeze baked pie shells?

A. Freeze them in the pie plate and they will keep for four months. When it's time to thaw them, unwrap and let stand at room temperature or heat in a 350 degree F oven for about six minutes. Unbaked shells can be frozen, too. They keep up to two months; bake immediately after removing from freezer.

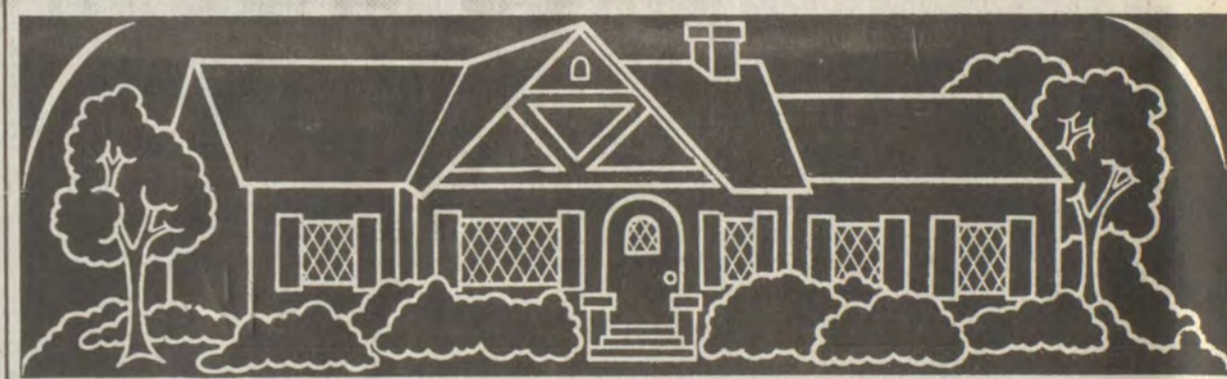

Q. Are all desserts high in cholesterol?

A. No. Desserts that have no animal fat nor egg yolks are low in cholesterol. Angel food cake is a good example.

Q. Why do my bar cookies crumble when I cut them?

A. It's best to cool them completely in the pan before cutting. If you still have a problem, the amount of shortening in the recipe may be wrong. With too much shortening, bars are too rich to hold together; with too little, the bars are dry.

Do you have a question? Write Dear Betty Crocker, Box 1113, Dept. Betty, Minneapolis, MN 55440.

Scholarship Program Awards Open to High School Students

Kentucky Power Company has invited high school students to participate in the Eighth Annual International Thomas Edison/Max McGraw Scholarship Program.

The program, sponsored by the Thomas Alva Edison Foundation and the Max McGraw Foundation, is open to all high school students, and from these, 12 scholars will be named. The two grand award scholars will receive $5,000 each plus an all-expense paid trip to an international program of the Thomas Alva Edison Foundation as guest of the General Electric Company.

A panel of educators under the supervision of the scholarship program coordinators, the National Science Supervisors Association and the Council of State Science Supervisors, will screen the applicants and submit a list of 25 finalists to the national panel of judges. The prestigious national panel comprised of five distinguished educators and industrialists will meet to interview the finalists and select the winning scholars.

The five finalists for the 1986-1987 school year enjoyed an all-expense paid trip to the University of Colorado in Boulder, Colorado for their interviews and two days of specially selected visits in Colorado, including the Air Force Academy.

The scholarship program is open to all high school students in public, private and parochial schools throughout the world. Its purpose is to give encouragement and recognition to outstanding students who are interested in pursuing science or engineering careers, or otherwise demonstrate the creativity and perseverance of Thomas Edison and Max McGraw. The students will receive their awards upon graduation.

Entries shall consist of a proposal which may be an abstract of an already completed project or an idea which deals with a practical application in the fields of science or engineering. The cover sheet of the proposal, typed in standard English on 8 1/2" x 11" paper, and not to exceed 1,000 words, must contain the title of the entry, the student's name, home address, home telephone number; also, the teacher's name, name of school, school address and school telephone number. The second and last item to complete the entry is a letter of recommendation from the student's teacher/sponsor which explains how the student best exemplifies the creativity and ingenuity demonstrated by inventors Thomas Alva Edison and Max McGraw. There is no formal entry form.

Entries must be postmarked no later than December 1, 1987 to: Thomas Edison/Max McGraw Scholarship Program, c/o Dr. Robert Dean, P.O. Box 2800, LaJolla, CA 92038-2800.

For more information concerning the scholarship program contact Lenore Savage, Kentucky Power Company, 606-327-1231 or 1-800-562-8989.
