

PRESTONSBURG KENTUCKY 41653

NO ONE WAS HURT and damage was slight, but yes, this boulder, estimated at two to three tons in weight, did go through a back wall of a storage room at Wal-Mart early last Saturday morning.

According to a Wal-Mart spokesman who had talked with workers doing excavation work behind the building, an explosive charge had been detonated a short time before the rock slipped from the hill, bouncing over an earthen embankment which had been placed at the rear of the building to prevent such an accident occurring. Damage at the store was said negligible with no stock lost, and opening was delayed only two hours while engineers inspected to assure that there was no structural damage.

The store was not occupied at the time, and manager Jim Thayer said all night shift work has been discontinued since excavation work began. The work is done after midnight when there is no danger to the public or to cars in the parking lot.

James Arthur Hughes, who heads development of Prestonsburg Village, estimated damage at about $300, or 40 concrete blocks. He said the accident was not the fault of the present work being done at the site by Big D Excavating but explained that early excavation work done under previous owners of the shopping center had included a pre-line-a cut made and from which earth and rock is then removed from front to the pre-line cut. This had not been done, and, he said, the rock had been sitting there waiting to fall since that time.

Hughes estimates that work at the Prestonsburg Village site will be complete in eight more weeks, allowing six weeks for blasting and earth and rock removal, and two weeks for complete clean up. He said that at completion approximately $1.5 million will have been spent in the highwall removal.

Lawmakers, Small Coal Operators Seek Better Workman's Comp Plan

By Tim Sizemore

'We are small coal operators struggling for existence. We need you to support this bill," were the words of mine owner Joe Jacobs as he conducted a meeting last Saturday to drum up support for a new Workman's Compensation bill as an alternative to the O'Daniel plan.

Kentucky House Majority Leader Greg Stumbo, who drew up the bill, told the group of over 70 independent coal operators that he hopes that the small coal operator is not dead. He vowed to work hard to save the independent coal producer, but said he will need their help if his efforts are to be successful in Frankfort

A major part of Stumbo's plan involves the establishment of a coal workers fund. The fund would receive all assessments on premiums and tonnage from coal operators and would pay coal related claims.

Under the proposed plan, the employer would have the option of either paying two assessments of 23.3% and 40.0% of their compensation insurance premiums, or paying a tonnage rate of 50¢ per ton from deep mine production or 30¢ per ton from surface mine production. Under Stumbo's plan, small operators would pay a tonnage assessment and medium and large operators would continue to pay the 63% premium assessment. Stumbo said that the tonnage assessment would produce about 18 million dollars per year and premium payments would produce about 40 million.

Stumbo said that under his plan there would be an annual review of the amount of money in the Special Fund and Coal Workers Fund. In the first assessment, the fund would be adjusted to bring in 70 million dollars or 23.3% and 40 million in the second assessment (the additional 40% on coal). The per ton assessment would be limited to 50c per ton.

Under the current O'Daniel plan passed in October, all unbonded mine operators will be required to pay a 63.3% assessment

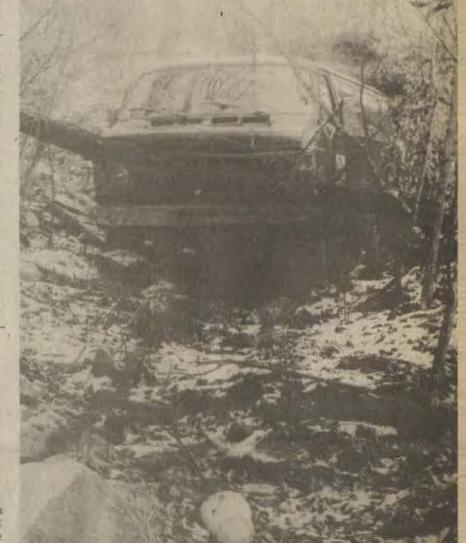

"I don't think we have a snowball's chance unless we unite the small operators," Stumbo told the gathering. We need the votes of the rest of the state." He encouraged the independent operators to write, call or visit Frankfort and let the rest of the state know of their concern

Other legislators who attended the meeting included Senators Benny Ray Bailey, David Lemaster and Representative Bill Strong.

Senator Lemaster said of the last regular session, "We were outvoted, and we look for leadership during this session from Greg Stumbo in the House." Senator Bailey speaking of the October debacle, said "I was never so disgusted. I got physically ill during the session," and added, "It was nothing good for the coal operator or coal miner and nothing good for Kentucky.

Bill Terry, a coal lobbyist, said that it was a struggle but he believed that the (See Story No. 3, Page 4)

Prestonsburg Elementary is only one of the schools in the county plagued by head lice, and apparently, there is little the school system can do about it. The problem is all over the county, according to Jennifer Martin, the school system's only nurse. And it is not confined to Floyd county. Lexington had the same problem earlier this year, and it is a continuing problem in three or four of its schools, an official said there, yesterday.

In addition to there being only one school nurse who cannot be in two schools at the same time, health department nurses no longer visit schools as they did some years ago. In Lexington, the school system has a contract with the health department whose nurses visit the schools, giving eye examinations, vaccinations, and among other things checking for head lice. If they are found, shampoo is either sent home, or the child is treated at the school.

Here, if lice are found a letter is sent informing the child's parents of the problem with instructions on treatment. All parents of other children in the classroom are also informed of the problem.

Treatment consists of a medicated shampoo, of which there are several, some over the counter, others by

The situation which is not new was brought to public notice by the Rev. Timothy Jessen at last Wednesday night's Board meeting, Jessen suggested that if the school system is unable to help those families who cannot afford the treatment, the ministerial association might be able to help them. Prior to this no public mention had been made of the problem.

During the same open comment period, Jean Rosenberg, Floyd County Education Forum chair, asked the Board to give adequate notice of its

New Prestonsburg City Council should be rescinded. members and incumbents found them-

The council had voted to do this on the assumption that federal DES funds would pay for it over a period of seven years.

Councilman Bill Callihan made the request that approval of the motion that new radio equipment to be purchased be withdrawn so that the council could look into other areas of funding.

Mayor Latta said the system needs to be bought, but the city should not obligate itself for seven years to pay for it with money that might not be available. Councilman Adrian Blackburn countered that if the city has to buy it, why not take advantage of the funds while they have it. City Administrator Fred James said that while the equipment could be turned back in if the funds were lost, that would leave the city with no radio equipment at all and that if the money is lost and the equipment is kept, then the money to pay for it would have to be pulled from other programs.

Mayor Latta pointed out that the question was not whether radios would be purchased but how they would be paid for. "What we did in the last meeting was to obligate the city to a $50,000 debt. and we have no guarantee that the money will be available tomorrow."

A motion to rescind the purchase order was defeated 7-1.

A beautification project by the local division of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet was accepted by the council. In a written proposal to Mayor Latta, Service Forester Mark Hooks set out a series of recommendations to create a more attractive and useful area on the lot located near the Bert Combs bridge.

Five Christian Appalachian Project volunteers who went down a steep hillside in the 15-passenger van shown above around 9 Monday night near the home of Father Ralph Beiting on Buck's Branch all escaped serious injury.

Tish Harmon, JoDee Kuhl, Cindy Monberg, Nancy Sherman and Marie Uschold had just left a dinner with other C.A.P. volunteers from around the state who were there to hear Bishop Kendrick Williams give a lecture at Beiting's home.

The driver, Marie Uschold, backed up to turn around in the small parking area. When she pulled out to head down the driveway, the van hit a patch of ice. "There was a feeling of total helplessness, and we went right over the side of the hill. It's a miracle we're all right, "Uschold said.

The van rolled about 50 feet down the steep descent, then was stopped midway by a dead tree in its path.

'If it weren't for that dead tree in our way, we would've headed straight for the huge rocks at the bottom of the hill, and that would've been the end of us!" said Cindy Monberg.

There were no injuries reported.

Campbell Named Chief As Allen Resigns Post

Dickie Campbell, veteran Prestonsburg police officer, has been named chief of the Prestonsburg Police Department, replacing Elmo Allen, who resigned last Tuesday after serving in the office since December 9, 1986

Allen's resignation will be effective January 31, with Campbell slated to assume duties of the office February 1.

Prestonsburg has had five police chiefs in as many years, and some close to Allen say that he felt he did not have the authority necessary to do the job. He is a 26-year veteran of the Kentucky State Police and took the job as police chief, here, after his retirement from that organization.

Supreme Court Candidate

Floyd county native Judge Dan Jack Combs filed today as a candidate for the Kentucky Supreme Court, Seventh Appellate District. Judge Combs is currently a Kentucky Court of Appeals Judge from the Seventh Appellate District. which includes Boyd, Breathitt, Carter, Elliott, Floyd, Greenup, Harlan, Johnson, Knott, Lawrence, Letcher, Magoffin, Martin, Menifee, Montgomery, Morgan, Perry, Pike, Powell and Rowan counties. Voters in the district will nominate a candidate during the May 24th primary election. Candidates of judicial positions in Kentucky run on a non-partisan basis.

Combs has served on the Court of Appeals since 1984, and prior to his election as judge, he was engaged in private law practice in Pikeville from 1951 through 1983. He served five years in the United States Naval Air Corps during World War II.

"The sole function of the judiciary." Judge Combs said is announcing his candidacy, "is to decide cases and controversies presented to it conformable to the law-the law as written by the people through their constitutions and their duly elected legislators, the General Assembly. Too often, judges ignore the plain and unambiguous wording and meaning of the constitution or valid statutes and substitute their own personal views and philosophies. This, in my opinion, is contrary to their sworn obligation, set forth in the constitution, to support the constitution of the Commonwealth.

If elected, Combs would unseat Judge Stephenson, who is also from Eastern Kentucky

Chairman of Combs campaign committee is Dana Combs Batten, his daughter, and treasurer is Pikeville CPA Caleb B. Cooley. Judge Combs has three other children. Connie Combs, of Pikeville, and Alfred Ghent and Dan Jack Combs, II, who live with Judge Combs and his wife, Teresa, at Betsy Layne.

Girl Scouting

The question I hear most from people in our community is "What is Girl Scouting today?" With the Cookie Sale just around the corner (Girls are taking orders now, to be exact.), I feel it's another good opportunity for me to answer this question publicly.

Girl Scouting is the largest organization in this country for women. Our Council alone has 12,000 girl members and 4,000 adult members.

Girl Scouting represents a world of opportunity and a vast array of experiences for each person involved. Obviously, it means different things to each individual. It's young women saying "no thanks" when someone offers them drugs. It's older girls matching wits with a computer. It's younger girls discovering nature's small wonders through a magnifying glass. It's little girls celebrating a holiday of another culture. And it's much, much more. Cookies help all of this happen.

Over the years, the Cookies Sale has come to be the financial mainstay of the Girl Scout organization. All proceeds from the Girl Scout Cookies sold in our area stay in our area. Our Council uses the money to purchase equipment, maintain campsites, and provide camperships and special opportunities for our girls.

Individual Girl Scouts troops keep a certain portion of the proceeds and decide themselves how to spend the money they've earned. In recent years the money has been spent on everything from community service projects and career exploration programs to ski trips.

For Girl Scouts the Cookie Sale is a very special learning experience. Participating in the sale teaches the girls about business and how to meet the public. It builds their self-confidence. It provides them with knowledge that will benefit them throughout their lives, as consumers and as career women.

None of this would be possible without the people who support Girl Scouting. Last year over 130 million boxes of cookies were purchased. That's approximately 15 cookies for every man. woman and child in America. In advance, I would like to personally thank the people of Floyd county for their continued support. You make Girl Scouting what it is today.

Appalachian Foundation Receives $50,000 Grant

Educational opportunities will soon be improved for residents of the Seventh Congressional District in eastern Kentucky as the result of a federal grant from the Appalachian Regional Commission.

A $50,000 grant from the Appalachian Regional Commission's Co-Chairman's Committee Fund has been awarded to the Kentucky Appalachian Foundation, Inc. to establish the Foundation's Educational Task force and to implement its programs.

The Task Force will concentrate its efforts upon specific components of educational improvement. Programs will be developed to: improve school attendance; reduce the dropout rate; increase student persuit of higher education; encourage adults to complete GED programs; and to provide special training for school counselors.

The future educational improvement of the Seventh Congressional District is a prime concern of the Kentucky Appalachian Foundation. The Kentucky Appalachian Foundation, Inc. is comprised of approximately 50 corporations and businesses and receives technical support from educational and government institutions. The Foundation is dedicated to enhancing the quality of life and economic development in the Kentucky Appalachian region.

Dr. Morris Norfleet, President Emeritus of Morehead State University, serves as president of the Foundation. "The Foundation sees education as a vital means to capitalize upon the potentials of this region," Dr. Norfleet said. "One of our goals is to coordinate a regional effort to link the expertise of leaders in eastern Kentucky to begin a grass-roots effort to attack regional problems.

The Appalachian Regional Commission is a federal program administered in Kentucky by the Department of Local Government. Kentucky's ARC program focuses its assistance upon improving conditions in the state's 49-county Appalachian region.

Local Students Receive Eastern U Scholarships

Two students from Floyd county, Lauren Marie Slone and Michele A. Stephens, are attending Eastern Kentucky University as recipients of EKU's Regents' and Presidential Scholarships.

Miss Slone, of Prestonsburg, who is majoring in accounting, received a Regents scholarship and Miss Stephens, of Hueysville, fashion merchandising, received a Presidential scholarship.

EKU has expanded its scholarship program to help make higher education more accessible for outstanding Kentucky high school students.

Students with high school grade point averages of 3.75 on a 4.0 scale and ACT (American College Test) scores of 25 or higher are eligible to apply for Regents Scholarships at EKU.

Regents Scholarships are full tuition and activity fee awards.

Kentucky high school valedictorians and salutatorians may be awarded EKU Presidential Scholarships. Other Presidential Scholarship awards may be made to students based in rank in their graduating class.

Presidential Scholarships at EKU have an annual value of $500 and may be renewed for up to four years.

Last year EKU awarded approximately 25 Regents Scholarship and 50 Presidential Scholarships, University officials said.

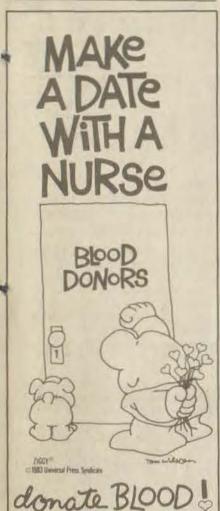

Under the new scholarship program, National Merit Finalists and Semifinalists will automatically receive the EKU Honor Award. This scholarship will provide its recipients with full tuition and activity support, plus an additional stipend to help defray other educational expenses. The expanded program will automatically provide Regents Scholarships to Governor's Scholars Program participants, members of the Academic All-State Team, and students with ACT composite scores of 29 or higher.

Many other scholarships and awards, administered through the EKU Foundation, are available to qualified students.

Information about EKU's scholarship program and application forms are available by writing the Scholarship Committee, Coates Box 35-A, EKU, Richmond, Ky. 40475-0931.

Boron, an element long used to soften water, may also help harden bones. A six-month study shows that boron may help prevent osteoporosis, according to nutritionist Forrest H. Nielsen and anatomist Curtiss D. Hunt of USDA's Agricultural Research Service in Grand Forks, N. Dak.

Osteoporosis, a disease that makes bones brittle, affects as many as 15 to 20 million older Americans, mainly women. Each year, it is responsible for well over a million fractured bones at an annual cost of $3.8 billion.

In the study, 12 postmenopausal women followed a very low boron diet for 17 weeks, then took supplements to bring their daily intake of boron to the levels they would get from a wellbalanced diet.

Within eight days after the women began taking the supplement, urine tests showed that calcium losses had declined by 40 percent and magnesium losses by one-third. In fact, their daily loss of these elements was even lower than prestudy levels, when the women were on normal diets. "These elements are important in maintaining the integrity of bone," said Nielsen.

Increasing the intake of boron also doubled blood levels of the steroid hormones estrogen and testosterone. "These steroid hormones are thought to be very important for maintaining bone and calcium status." said Neilsen. "In fact, estrogen replacement is currently the only proven therapy for osteoporosis."

PHS Academic Team Receives 3rd Place

Prestonsburg High School's Academic Team placed third in the EKAC Invitational Tournament at Pikeville Saturday, January 9.

Ten schools: Lafayette, Tates Creek, Johns Creek, Henry Clay, Sheldon Clark, Campbell County, Feds Creek, Dixie Heights, Pikeville and Prestonsburg participated in Round Robin and double elimination Quick Recall matches.

Mike Rosenberg and Captain David Spiggle faced opponents in eight contests of 100 questions each. Assistance was given by David Stanford, Dusty Weathers, Byron Crider, David Thompson, Ernie Croot, and Dustin Haley. Prestonsburg lost to Tates Creek in an overtime and to Lafayette, the champions for the day.

The team will participate in a conference tournament, Sweet 16 Academics, and Governor's Cup competitions during the next few weeks. Prestonsburg won a High-Q match which will be aired on WOWK, Channel 13, January 23 at noon.

situation was favorable to getting the Stumbo bill passed.

The legislators urge independent coal operators, miners and other concerned citizens, to contact legislators asking their support of the bill. PHS Quick Recall Team Ranks Third Prestonsburg High School's Quick Recall Team finished third in the EKAC Invitational Tournament held at Pikeville High School, last Saturday. The competition consisted of 10 teams including three of the Lexington area's finest, Lafayette, Tates Creek, and Henry Clay.

The Prestonsburg team won matches over Johns Creek, Henry Clay, and Campbell County in the double elimination competition, then lost to Tates Creek in overtime and to Lafavette. The overall winner was Lafayette with Tates Creek placing second.

The four senior members of Prestonsburg's team received trophies. They are Mike Rosenberg, David Spiggle, Dave Stanford, and Dusty Weathers. Also competing for Prestonsburg were Byron Crider, Ernest Croot, Dustin Haley, and David Thompson.

In the local conference standings, Pikeville High School is first and Prestonsburg is second. Pikeville's team was eliminated by Campbell County before the final round in Saturday's tournament

(Continued from Page One) The recommendation includes a picnic shelter and a footbridge across the drain running through the city property. Latta said the beautification of this area would make a more attractive entrance to the city and the white pine trees suggested for planting there would eventually rid the area of weeds. Latta says the project would be funded through donations, and the Job Corps has already committed themselves to build the picnic shelter. A second reading was given to two cleanup ordinances, one concerning junk cars and the other weed control and rubbish on private property.

Paul Joseph, new council member, asked that a building be found for a youth center. When Mayor Latta said that a Youth Advisory Board had been established and property had been offered to the city for such a center but that there was no money available to renovate the structure, Joseph suggested looking into some form of tax to support a youth center.

In other action, City Administrator James was asked to talk to the fiscal court members about cleaning up the illegal garbage dump on the old Middle Creek Road, which, Councilman Charles Hale said is visible from Archer Park and smells in the summer.

James, on behalf of the Boosters Club, asked that the street running in front of the high school be named Blackcat Boulevard and the street beside the school be named Blackcat Alley. Ten proposals were considered in the council's first meeting of the year.

A Legislative Perspective

By Representative Greg D. Stumbo, Majority Floor Leader

By Representative Gregory D. Stumbo, Majority Floor Leader

Admidst much backslapping, the introduction of House Bill 1-the lotterly bill-and dire predictions of a budget shortfall, the convening gavel for the 1988 session of the General Assembly fell.

Opening day of the General Assembly found newly elected Governor Wallace Wilkinson greeting us with an outstretched hand. He made brief remarks in both chambers in an unprecedented opening-day speech. It was an encouraging gesture to out-distance rumors of growing differences between legislators and the Governor. The next step, of course, will be compromises over these differences as the major issues appear throughout the agenda of the session.

In the earliest moments of this new session, House Bill 1 made its debut for public scrutiny. House Bill 1 joins two other bills that have been filed that would create a state lottery. But House Bill 1, sponsored by most democratic members of the leadership of the House of Representatives, including myself, is the most likely measure to meet with success.

It simply provides for a change in Kentucky's Constitution to allow the Commonwealth to establish a state lottery

It does not, however, direct the money to be spent on any specific programs. The first major objective is to put the measure on a statewide ballot to see if a majority of Kentuckians approve a lottery. Then, and only then, should a decision be made on how proceeds from a lottery should be spent.

To put a damper on the pleasant thought of bringing the state additional by the Legislative Research Commission staff. The study compared how much money the state expected to take in and how much actually was received over a 10-year period.

Over a four-day period, members of the House of Representatives filed 329 bills and 18 resolutions. The Senate has dropped in the hamper 102 measures and 10 resolutions.

I encourage all of my constituents who have concerns about issues scheduled to come before the General Assembly to contact me in Frankfort. You can reach me by either writing directly to me at: Legislative Offices, Capitol Annex, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, or utilize the message line by dialing 1-800-372-7181.

UK To Establish 1st Amend. Center

The Kentucky Post and a group known as the First Amendment Congress have given the University of Kentucky $3,000 to establish a First Amendment Center in UK's Journalism School.

The money will be used to buy books and other materials for the center, which will occupy a designated area in the school's reading room, says Roy Moore, a UK journalism professor and member of the Congress.

Half of the center funds were contributed by Kentucky Post Editor Judith Clabes, on behalf of the northern Kentucky daily newspaper. The remainder came from the Congress, which includes representatives of other Kentucky news organizations and businesses.

The First Amendment Congress is working to promote the amendment's importance, said Ed Staats, chief of bureau, Kentucky Associated Press. "It's an educational program," Clabes said. "It startles us when people read the Bill of Rights and don't identify with it. It's a fundamental part of our lives." The Congress is a "coalition of citizen and professional interests designed to encourage thoughtful dialogue about the importance of the First Amendment to everyone," Staats said.

The Prestonsburg team's HI-Q match against Boyd County High School will be televised Saturday, January 23, on WOWK-TV, Channel 13.

Jobless Rate Up Slightly In Seasonal Work Decline

An increase in nonfarm payroll jobs was offset by a sharp seasonal decline in agricultural employment, helping push up jobless rates in 70 Kentucky counties between October and Novem-

Local unemployment figures were down in 47 counties during the same period and remained the same in three counties, according to a report issued recently by the Cabinet for Human Resources.

'The loss of farm jobs, which we see at the end of the tobacco harvest season each year, had the biggest impact on Kentucky's employment picture in November," said Ed Blackwell, the state's chief labor market analyst.

Kentucky's jobless rate inched upward from a revised 7.1 percent in October to a preliminary 7.2 percent in November, but remained well below the November 1986 rate of 8.1 percent.

Nationally, unemployment was 5.6 percent in November, down from 5.7 percent in October. Comparable state and national rates are not seasonally adjusted.

Compared to November 1986, jobless rates were lower in 94 Kentucky counties, higher in 25 counties and the rate was the same in Fayette County.

Eight counties reported unemployment rates at 5.0 percent or below. They were Woodford (3.1 percent); Shelby (3.2 percent): Carroll (3.6 percent); Fayette (3.9 percent): Franklin (4.2 percent); Jessamine (4.4 percent); Madison (4.9 percent); and Calloway (5.0 percent).

McCreary County's 24.1 percent rate was the highest, followed by Edmonson's 22.2 percent, Elliott's 17.9 percent and Carter's 15.5 percent.

Thirty-seven counties reported November jobless rates of 10.0 percent or below, down from 38 in October and 57 in November 1986.

The estimated 1,326,800 nonfarm payroll jobs Kentucky recorded for November is 900 more than the previous high, reached in October. Late reports from employers are expected to push the November figures even higher, Blackwell said.

Most of Kentucky's October-to-November employment growth was in trade, where preliminary reports show 3,800 more jobs. "Most of this increase was the result of the beginning of tobacco sales," said Blackwell, "but holiday" gift buying prompted an increase in department and clothing store jobs.' Employment also increased in education (600) and transportation, com-agriculture and 700 in construction) were temporary, Blackwell said A strike idling 1,000 workers at Since these people have returned to

The number of Kentuckians who had jobs, as measured by the U.S. Department of Labor's household survey, was 1,556,600 in November, down from 1,573,700 in October and below the November 1986 report of 1,570,600.

The federal estimate that 120,600 Kentuckians were unemployed in November was up from October's report of 119,500, but below the November 1986 figure of 138,100

Kentucky's civilian labor force estimate for November was 1,677,200, down from 1,693,200 in October. In November 1986 the state's labor force estimate was 1,708,700. This figure includes non-military people with jobs and unemployed people who actively are seeking work. It does not include the unemployed who have not looked for a job in four weeks.

The jobless rate in the Big Sandy district dropped from a revised 12.0 percent in October to a preliminary 11.4 percent in November. Rates ranged from 8.4 percent in Martin county, the only single-digit rate in the district, to 14.8 percent in Magoffin county.

The monthly sample of claimants of unemployment insurance benefits showed 41.3 percent had worked in mining, 21.4 percent in trade, 14.3 percent in services and 11.1 percent in construction. son, 83, of Dock, Friday at his home; Laura Blanche Scott, 52, Dec. 18 at his home on Toler Creek; Farmer Mallie Howell, 87, native of this county, Dec. 21 near Pikeville; Mrs. Minta Martin, 91, of Mousie, Jan. 1 at the home of a son, Joel Martin.

revenue through a state lottery, chairmen of the House and Senate Appropriations and Revenue Committees made serious budget shortfall predictions for the approaching budget year to the tune of $75 million.

It will be up to this General Assembly to make major decisions on how to balance the state budget as our Constitution does not allow a year to end in the red. As increases in taxes are only considered as a last resort measure, either cuts or slowdowns in agency programs will probably be enacted.

The predicted shortfall for the upcoming year is based on a study conducted

Families Sought To Host Foreign Exchange Students

Local host families are now being sought for high school exchange students during the school year 1988-89 in a program sponsored by Open Door Student Exchange. The students come from 30 countries in Latin America, Europe, Asia and the Middle East.

Students, ages 15-18, arrive in the United States in late August for 10 months. They attend and enrich the local high school while living with their American host family. All students have been thoroughly screened in their home countries, speak English and have spending money and medical insurance.

Host families may deduct $50- a month for income tax purposes, and families with teenagers, young children or no children at all are welcome to participate. Those families with teenagers may earn scholarship assistance to help defray the costs of sending their own teenagers abroad for an exchange experience in Europe, Latin America, Asia or the Middle East.

The maximum awards of $500- per family may be added to other forms of Open Door scholarship assistance available for selected programs overseas.

Hosting a foreign exchange students is a fun and enriching experience, and usually provides worldwide friendships that last a lifetime,

Families interested in participating should call Open Door toll-free, 9-5 eastern standard time: 800/366-6736.

Open Door Student Exchange is a notfor-profit educational exchange organization which operates in 30 countries and works with more than 1,200 high schools across the United States. Open Door has administered more than 16,000 international high school exchanges since its founding in 1963.

On the basis of materials submitted and reviewed, the Council on Standards for International Educational Travel, an independent national education organization, has granted a listing to Open Door Student Exchange for 1987-88.

"We like to spread the word that the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution is not just for the press," he said. It's surely for everyone."

Staats said the goal is to establish a First Amendment and Constitution resource center that will attract the general public and students, as well as constitutional scholars.

"They thought the best way to do that would be to gather books and videos on the First Amendment in one room," said Douglas Boyd, dean of the College of Communications.

"There is no repository at the present time in the state of Kentucky for materials about the First Amendment," Moore said.

Clabes expects the center to develop into a "first-rate research center" for First Amendment issues.

The Congress will solicit funds for the center and hopes to establish an endowment with the interest going toward funding the center.

The First Amendment Center will be dedicated in connection with the School of Journalism's annual Creason Lecture in April.

Toy Flying Helicopter Recalled, Is Dangerous

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission warns consumers of the potential danger of the toy flying helicopter.

The blades may separate from the rotor in flight and could strike a user or bystander, causing an eye injury or facial laceration. Six firms which imported this toy have already recalled the helicopter but the toy is still being sold at flea markets across the country.

The helicopter is white with red and yellow markings on the tail and has red blades. It is approximately 7½ inches long and has a green launching handle. The reverse of the box is marked in the lower right hand corner "Made in Taiwan—WL322."

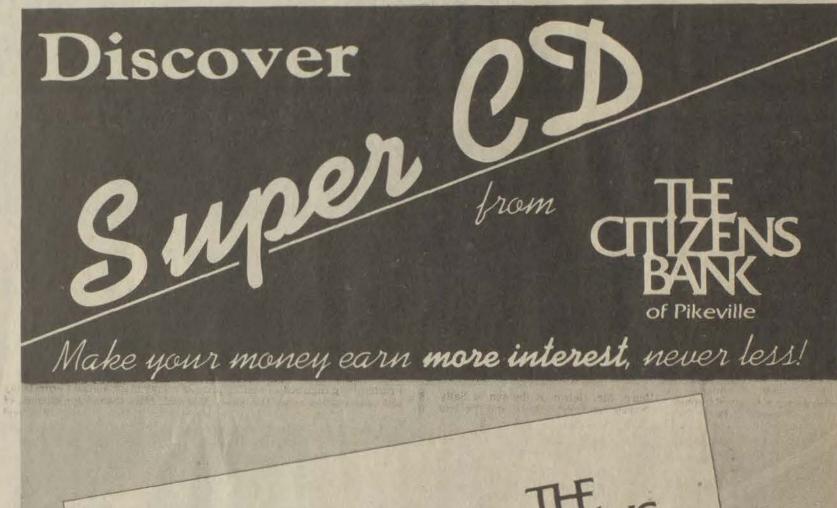

To prevent possible injury, consumers are advised to dispose of any of these toy helicopters that may be in their possession. In the interest of public safety, flea market merchants are asked to discontinue sale of the toy and either return the unsold stock to their supplier or destroy the toys.

To report an unsafe consumer product or receive safety information, consumers may call the Consumer Product Safety Commission toll-free hotline number at 800-638-CPSC. A teletypewriter number for the hearing impaired is 800-638-8270.

QUESTION: I have recently made an attempt to quit smoking. I know it is harmful to my health and to the health of those around me, but I can't seem to quit for longer than a few weeks. I'm eating everything in sight and fear the weight gain. Can you offer any tips on how to quit and not gain weight?

ANSWER: Weight gain is a major reason that quitters give for relapsing. It is true that some smokers will put on a few pounds when they quit because the metabolism will temporarily drop. However, giving up cigarettes is far healthier to you than adding on a few extra pounds. It would take the addition of more than 75 pounds to offset the health benefits which a normal smoker gains by quitting. Researchers believe that nicotine alters the preference for sweettasting foods. It's not just that the orallyfixated smoker trades in the gratification of cigarettes for the pleasures of eating, but that sugar is a particular problem for those trying to kick the habit. Research findings suggest that if you restrict the type, but not the quantity of food around the ex-smoker, you may be able to control body weight gain. Don't keep calorie-rich foods around the house. You can avoid weight gain when moking by pra B, C's: You must begin an. DROPPER IN THE BUCKET

Many children's medications and vitamins, as well as eye medications for people of all ages, come with droppers. These make easy work of administering liquid medications. However, droppers bring with them the increased risk of contamination. If, for instance, a child sucks on the dropper while taking liquid from it, he transfers bacteria from his saliva to the dropper. When the dropper is returned to the bottle, the medication becomes contaminated. By the same token, if eye droppers are allowed to touch the infected eye area during application, infectious bacteria can be transferred back to the bottle. Clearly, the idea is to keep the dropper free from bodily contact. Otherwide, the dropper must be boiled after each use or the medication discarded altogether.

Betsy Layne Senior Citizens Open Center

7, when 90 people gathered to obtain a center for the Betsy Layne Area Senior Citizens, became a reality, Saturday, when the center held its open house celebration.

The center is the former vocational school of the old Betsy Layne High School and is being leased from the Floyd County Board of Educatioon.

Senior Citizens of District No. 4 served refreshments to more than 100 people who attended, among whom were local and state dignitaries.

The group has added two bathrooms, a kitchen and a new roof to their center. Much of the labor and materials were donated. Probably the largest donation by an individual was $2,000 given to the center by Judge John M. Stumbo. The group expressed their appreciation to those individuals and businesses who helped. The center still needs sewing machines and pots and pans for their kitchen.

Twice this month KET presents classical music events based in Owensboro. On Tuesday, January 19, at 9 p.m., KET presents the Owensboro Symphony Orchestra's performance at the Kentucky Center in Louisville. The following week, KET looks at Owensboro's Helen Hart International Piano Competition in Musical Season Tuesday, January 26 at 9 p.m.

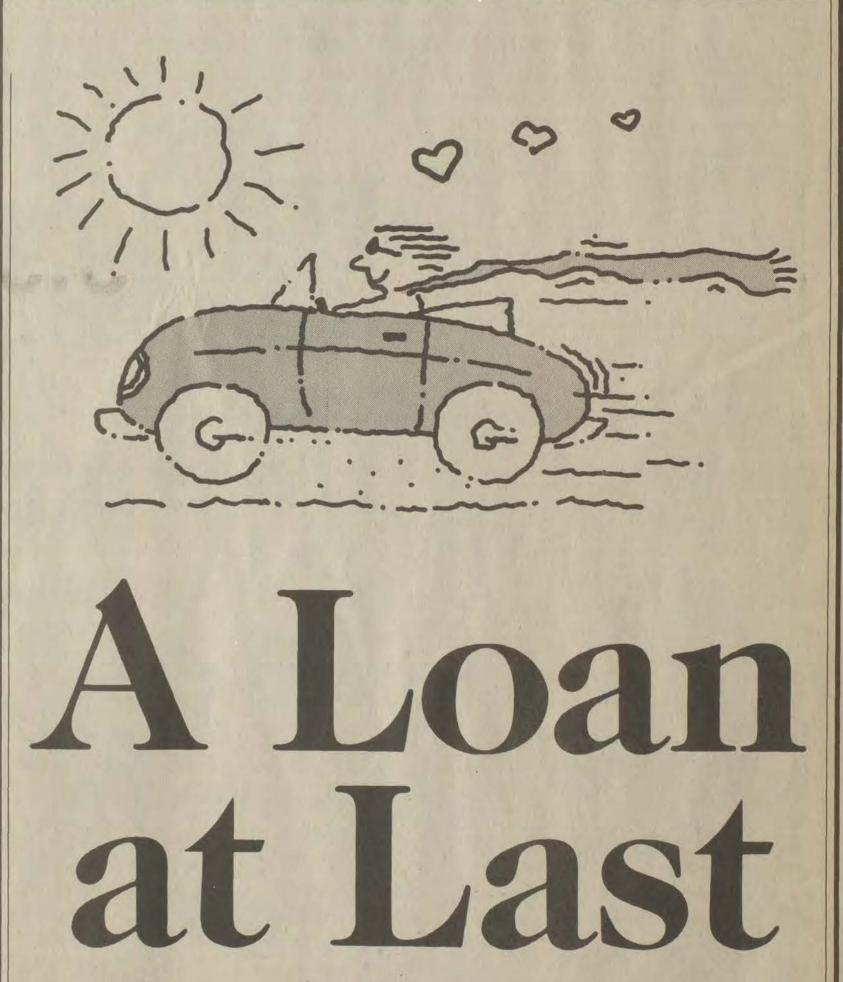

Kentucky Center Presents: The Owensboro Symphony in Concert includes Chadwick's Symphony No. 2 in B-Flat Major, Op. 21 and Brahms' Violin Concerto in D Major, Op. 77 with violin soloist Elmira Darvarova. The performance was videotaped last November at the Center in Louisville. Under the baton of Michael Luxner, the Owensboro Symphony Orchestra is a fully professional ensemble of 90 musicians drawn from a three-state area. Founded in 1965, the orchestra presents a series of eight subscription concerts in the Daviess County Auditorium.

When Thomas Tirino began the Helen Hart International Piano Competition in Owensboro last March, he had stiches in his hand after breaking a dish right before the event. He played throughout the competition with the stitches and then had them removed right before his triumphant final performance, Beethoven's "Emperor" Concerto, Op. 73.

Tirino was one of 18 pianists who competed for $4,000 in prize money and a return engagement with the Owensboro Symphony Orchestra in the internationally recognized weeklong event. While in Owensboro the contestants stay in people's homes and receive free room and board and access to a rehearsal piano.

Lula Mae Newsome, 15, of Pikeville, was reported missing Tuesday, Jan. 5, and the girl's mother, Mrs. Edna Newsome, said that her daughter's boy friend, has also been missing since that time.

Mrs. Newsome said that her daughter took some clothes with her in her school book bag.

Mrs. Newsome suspects that her daughter was picked up somewhere near Pikeville Elementary School early Tuesday morning. She said the bus goes to the elementary school to drop off the younger children.

The missing girl weighs around 160 pounds, has blond hair, brown eyes, and is about 5'6" tall.

HONORED WITH SHOWER

Miss Linda Wells, bride-elect of Mr. Dean Sellards, was honored with a miscellaneous shower in the music room of the First Baptist Church, here, Friday evening, January 8, at 7 p.m. The color scheme of peach and blue was carried out in the decorations. The serving table was covered with an imported lace cloth, and had for its centerpiece a bouquet of peach and blue carnations, and baby's breath, entertwined with greenery. On either side of this arrangement, silver candelbra held tall, lighted candles. Other tables held gifts of china, silver, crystal, linens, and other household items.

Many relatives and friends called throughout the evening, bringing gifts and best wishes, and several who could not attend, sent gifts.

Decorated cake, punch, and other refreshments were served. Hostesses were Mesdames Carlos Haywood, Phyllis Herald, Eunis Lafferty, Jewell Bayes, Grace Leslie, Bonnie Walters, Julia Stephens, Sue Wells, Pat Wells, Carolyn Walters, Wilma Leslie, Aneeva Wells, Arnita Snavley, Docia Woods, Cathy Osborn, Shirley Setser, and Betty Stephens.

The wedding of Miss Wells and Mr Sellards will be a February event.

Americans Urged To Observe National Day of Prayer

May 5, 1988 marks the thirty-sixth consecutive observance of the National Day of Prayer. The National Day of Prayer Task Force and its parent, the National Prayer Committee, have joined with President Reagan to urge all Americans to become personally involved in the observance

National days of prayer have been part of our country's heritage since the first one was declared by the Continen-tal Congress in 1775. With the encouragement of Benjamin Franklin for "prayers imploring the assistance of Heaven," our founding fathers sought the wisdom of God while framing our United States Constitution.

"As we reflect on the vital role of prayer in the foundation of our Constitution 200 years ago, it is important to realize that the need for Americans to pray is as great today as it was during the establishment of our nation, stated Vonette Bright, co-chairman with entertainer/author, Pat Boone, of the National Day of Prayer Task Force. The task force is responsible for coordinating and distributing information and materials to interested individuals around the country. Its goal is to help make citizens aware of their right, privilege and responsibility to pray for our nation, its leaders and its people on this historic day.

A network of state and city coordinators and sponsoring churches from many denominations are encouraging individual and group prayer as well as special services and gatherings. A national television special is also under consideration for May 5, 1988.

In his 1987 proclamation President Reagan stated, "On our National Day of Prayer, then, we join together as people of many faiths to petition God to show us His mercy and His love, to heal our weariness and uphold our hope, that we might live ever mindful of His justice and thankful for His blessing.

The President further urged "...the citizens of this great Nation to gather together on that day in homes and places of worship to pray, each after his or her own manner, for unity of the hearts of all mankind.

Ministries represented on the National Prayer Committee include The Salvation Army, World Vision, Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, Campus Crusade for Christ, Youth With a Mission

MDA Researchers Indentify Missing Protein In Muscle

Researchers supported by the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA) recently reported identification of the critical muscle protein whose absence, resulting from a gene defect, causes Duchenne muscular dystrophy, the most common and most deadly form of the crippling disease. The landmark achievement was made possible only because of the discovery by MDA investigators last year of the gene defective in the disorder, according to MDA Central Kentucky Chapter President, Bob Saunders.

MDA National Chairman Jerry Lewis was elated by the finding, commenting, "Through their generosity, the American people have made possible a terrific holiday gift of hope for 'my kids'." Lewis emphasized that the discovery does not mean a treatment has been found. He added, "Today we're a giant step closer to my dream of a cure. But I'm asking for America's continued, increased support to take the next, crucial steps to making that dream a reality."

The historic discovery was made by an MDA-supported investigative team led by Louis M. Kunkel, Ph.d., of the Howard Hughes Medical Institute at Children's Hospital in Boston. Dr. Kunkel also headed the research group that in October 1986 announced discovery of the Duchenne muscular dystrophy gene. The team reported the new finding in separate articles in recent issues of the scientific journals Cell and Nature.

Proteins, the building blocks of cells, are manufactured by the cells according to blueprints carried by the genes. When a gene is defective, its protein is made improperly or not at all. The Cell article describes the identification of the protein whose blueprints are normally carried by the Duchenne gene. The previously unknown protein, which the researchers have named "dystrophin," was found to be missing from muscle in individuals with Duchenne muscular dystrophy.

The Nature paper reports that in healthy muscle the protein is a key component of a complex network of protein structures within the muscle cell that triggers muscle contraction, producing force. The absence of this component, dystrophin, sets off a chain of events in the muscle cell that eventually leads too the destruction of the cell.

Dr. Kunkel, commenting on his team's discovery, said, "Knowing the identity of the critical 'missing piece' in Duchenne muscular dystrophy, we can begin to understand how the one protein's absence weakens and ultimately destroys muscle. We hope this advance will enable us to design treatments specifically aimed at replacing dystrophin or compensating for its absence.

WA Population Shifts

Duchenne muscular dystrophy, which strikes boys almost exclusively, causes progressive weakness and wasting in the voluntary muscles. The earliest signs of the disorder appear between ages 3 and 5. Patients are confined to wheelchairs by age 12, and few survive their early twenties. While measures have been developed to extend the survival and improve the quality of life of individuals with Duchenne muscular dystrophy, there is as yet no specific treatment for the disease.

Duchenne and other types of muscular dystrophy are among the 40 neuromuscular disorders, including amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (ALS) myasthenia gravis, and Charcot-Marie-Tooth disease, that the Muscular Dystrophy Association strives to defeat. MDA currently supports some 500 research projects worldwide aimed at understanding these diseases and finding cures and treatments. It also maintains a broadbased patient service program, including a nationwide network of 240 clinics, and far-reaching programs of public health and professional education.

Franklin O'Neil Reynolds celebrated his sixth birthday, Jan. 4, at his home with cake and ice cream. He received many gifts.

He is the son of Debbie Reynolds, and grandson of Arnold and Bernice Reynolds, of Hi Hat.

In Age And Location

America's veterans population continued its gradual decline during 1987 according to Veterans Administration projections based on U.S. Census data. Yet, Sunbelt states such as Arizona and Florida added to their number of veterans and the ranks of older veterans, 65 and older, rose significantly.

VA estimates the current number of U.S. veterans at just over 27.4 million, down from 27.8 million the previous year. There are 370,700 veterans living in Kentucky. Counties with the largest veterans populations are Jefferson with 82,530, Fayette with 25,320 and Kenton with 15,410.

World War II veterans—131,500 in Kentucky—remain the largest single group of veterans, though the number of Vietnam era veterans—109,900 in Kentucky—will surpass them by 1992.

The Louisville VA Regional Office Director, John W. Hagan, Jr., noted that the number of Kentucky veterans 65 and older will increase significantly during the next 10 years and, nationally, the number of veterans 75 and older will triple by the end of the century.

"Our veterans population projections predict a dramatic increase in the numbers of older veterans seeking assistance from VA," said Hagan. "Our work is cut for us. Our current veterans population, plus veterans dependents and survivors, represents some 79.3 million people—one-third of America's population—all potentially eligible for VA services or benefits."

Those seeking information or assistance in applying for VA benefits can visit the Louisville VA Regional Office at 600 Federal Place, Louisville, Ky. 40202, or call one of the office's benefits counselors toll free on the following numbers: Louisville 584-2231, Lexington 253-0566.

62nd Wedding Anniversary Safety Officials Offer Tips For Space Heater Safety Wood stoves, fireplaces and space heaters can make for a cozy evening at home but can also bring disaster if not treated with care, according to the Kentucky Department for Health Services. E.P. Conyers, consumer product safety branch manager, says that Kentuckians who use wood stoves and space heaters for primary and/or supplementary heat should be aware of the dangers and how to avoid them.

"Many people do not realize that burning paper, cardboard boxes or other light, fluffy material in wood stoves or fireplaces can cause chimney fires," said Conyers. "Furthermore, burning plastic, treated wood and foam materials can generate toxic gases."

Ashes from a fire should be collected in a metal bucket with a metal cover because some ashes may contain live coals. A fire should never be left unattended, said Conyers, unless a screen or glass front protects against coals popping out onto a combustible surface.

"Two things that are imperative in a home with a wood stove or fireplace are a fire extinguisher near the fire and smoke detectors," he said. "No matter how careful you are, one or both of these things might be needed to save your life.

Several kinds of space heaters are available to consumers, said Conyers, including gas, kerosene and electriceach with its own potential problems.

"With any kind of space heater, make sure you follow precisely the installation instructions on distance from walls, venting and so on," he said. "Heaters should be kept clean and inspected and serviced at least once a year.'

Two dangers connected with gas heaters are escaping gas and carbon monoxide. "If you smell gas from a space heater, air the room immediately," he said, "and call the gas company. Do not try to light the heater, and do not touch electrical switches if you smell gas

"Carbon monoxide is a little trickier," he said, "because it cannot be smelled or seen. Gas space heaters that are not properly vented can let carbon monoxide escape into the room, so owners must make sure that the heaters are correctly installed."

Symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning resemble those of the flu at first-headaches, dizziness and nausea. Continued exposure to high levels of the gas can cause unconsciousness or death. If a kerosene heater is producing fumes, he said, make sure the fuel level and wick adjustment are correct. When using electric space heaters, do not use frayed or light-weight extension cords, Conyers said.

The following recommendations,-he said, apply to all types of heating sources

Do not use a heater for a clothes

Do not stand close to a heater when wearing long robes, nightwear or other clothing that could come into contact with the heater. Position heaters so that they are not close to upholstered furniture, draperies or other combustible materials

Do not let children play near a heater

Make sure heaters are balanced properly so that they do not tip over.

Census Bureau To Collect Labor Force Data, Here

The Census Bureau will visit area residents January 19-23 to collect data on the labor force, according to William F. Hill, director of the bureau's Charlotte regional office.

This month the agency also is collecting data on displaced workers-those who have lost a job in the past five years because of a plant closing, elimination of a shift, or a job cutback for various reasons

The local data will contribute to January's national employment and unemployment picture to be released February 5 by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The Census Bureau collects labor force data monthly for the BLS from a national sample of 71,000 households. Information supplied by individuals is kept confidential by law. Only statistical totals are published.

The most recent data showed a national civilian unemployment rate of 5.9 percent in November 1987, meaning that 7.1 million workers out of a labor force of 120.6 million did not have jobs

TOXOPLASMOSIS COPYRIGHT 1987 KVMA

Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association Though it is rare in Kentucky, animal owners should be aware of the dangers of toxoplasmosis, a zoonotic (transmissable from animal to human) disease which poses a particular threat to pregnant women. Caused by Toxoplasma gondii, a microcopic one-cell parasitic creature of the protozoan family, it can affect most any warm-blooded animal including birds and man, and seems to be most common in cats.

In animals, it is best known for its ability to cause abortion, which may also happen in humans if infection occurs early in pregnancy

More commonly, it produces cysts in muscle tissue with no outward signs (the subclinical form) and most often this is how humans are affected. It can, however, produce nervous disorders, respiratory problems or general malaise. The more common mild lymphatic form in humans often resembles infectious mononucleosis, though it can occur in an acute form with high fever, chills and prostration, and in a chronic form which is difficult to diagnose.

It can be transmitted to developing human embryos, and may have drastic effects when the infection occurs during the first trimester of pregnancy.

Studies have shown toxoplasmosis to be widespread as a low grade infectioon in many food producing animals, and that eating raw or poorly cooked meat is the primary source of infection in people. This can be avoided by freezing, curing, drying, smoke-curing or thoroughly cooking meat before eating

A Healthful Taste Of India

(From the American Institute for Cancer Research)

From the American Institute for Cancer Research

The traditional dishes of many nations provide novel ideas for healthy eating here at home, and the cooking of India is no exception. While many equate Indian cuisine with the rich foods and hot curries that most Indians enjoy primarily on holidays and festive occasions, their day-to-day meals tend to be much lighter and simpler.

Many of India's dietary habits can be traced to origins in the Moslem and Hindum religions of the country. Vegetarianism is common, with legumes such as lentils and split peas forming an essential part of everyday meals. Rice and whole-grain bread, as well as yogurt, are also dietary staples. Where meat is eaten, the fat is trimmed and the skin is removed from chicken. All of these are dietary practices which can help meet the Dietary Guidelines for Lower Cancer Risk

India is known as the "land of spices," exporter of a wide variety of seasonings throughout the world. It is these spices that give Indian cooking its distinctive flavors and aromas. Not only curry powder, but also garlic, cumin, pepper, tumeric, ginger and kara leaves can all provide interesting taste additions to otherwise simple Indian dishes

If you fear that Indian food may be too spicy for you, this dish will dispel those fears. It's extremely mild in flavor, yet provides an interesting change of taste. (If you prefer a spicier version, simply add some hot pepper sauce or cayenne powder to taste.) Try serving the lentils over rice or whole wheat pita bread with a side dish of cucumbers.

INDIAN LENTIL DINNER 1 cup lentils

- 2 tbsp. vegetable oil
- 1 small onion, chopped fine 1 medium clove garlic, diced 1/2 tsp. tumeric
- 2 2/3 cups water
- 1/2 tsp. salt (optional)

1 medium onion, thinly sliced Rinse the lentils in cold water and soak them in a bowl of cool water for 30 minutes. Drain and set aside. In a large skillet, place a tablespoon of oil, the chopped onion and diced garlic. Cook over medium heat until the onions appear translucent and the garlic begins to color. Stir the tumeric into the drained lentils. Mix well, add the water and, if desired, the salt. Cover and cook over low heat for about 40 minutes or until the lentil mixture thickens and most of the liquid is absorbed.

CLEANED STABLES

Hercules was one of the great heroes of Greek mythology. Legend has it he was commanded to perform 12 labors during his life. One of these was to clean the stables of King Augeas, which hadn't been washed out for many years. Hercules did this by changing the courses of two rivers to flow through the stables.

About 5 minutes before this mixture is done, place the remaining tablespoon of oil in a skillet and add the sliced onion. Cover and cook over a very low heat until the onions are tender. Set aside.

Remove the lentils from the heat and mash them with a fork or potato masher. Spoon the lentil mixture into a serving dish and garnish with the additional onions. This will yield four halfcup servings, each with 252 calories and 8 grams of fat.

Drunk and Drugged Drivers Still Are Serious Problem

Drunk driving remains the number one killer on our roads, striking with a frequency and ferocity that would be national news if its victims were reported in total each day instead of individually in the obituaries in thousands of cities and towns where the tragedies occur. Its victims are a cross-section of America; the rich, the poor, the young, the old, the safety-conscious and the not-so-safetyconscious. But they share a common demise that is always unexpected, always needless and often grudgingly tolerated, because our social norms won't quite permit them to be characterized as other than accidental deaths.

For many years in this country, we talked about drunk driving in statistical terms only: lives lost and public expenditures. The higher the numbers, the more the public would pay attention, or so we thought. But the opposite was true, The numbers were largely ignored, because they were, after all, just numbers. There were no faces or shattered lives attached to tug at the heart strings.

But something changed all that in the early 1980's. Citizen activist groups, like Mothers Against Drunk Driving, moved drunk driving off the bar graphs and brought if up close and personal, laying its dire consequences squarely on the doorsteps of virtually every American community. Suddenly the blinders came off, the outrage swelled and things began to change-and change dramatically

Thanks to that awakening, the United States, to its credit, has made remarkable progress in just a handful of years. Forty-one percent of the total traffic deaths in 1986 involved at least one driver or pedestrian who was intoxicated, a shocking figure but one that represents a significant decline from the 46 percent that was tallied in 1982. The percentage of intoxicated teenage drivers involved in fatal crashes also dropped, from 28 percent in 1982 to 21 percent in 1986, the largest decrease among all age groups.

As promising as the improved statistics are, they are not much comfort too the families and friends of the 19,000 people who were killed last year in alcoholrelated crashes. We are holding our own-keeping things from getting worse-but we are still a long way from the point where we can drive our roads, reasonably assured that the approaching car or truck is not driven by someone who has had too much to drink. Alcohol has played-and probably will continue to play-a major role in how we socialize in this country. The challenge is to convince people to use alcohol in moderation and to avoid driving after drinking. This is especially true during the Christmas/New Year's holiday season when travel increases, office parties abound and it's common to get together with family, friends and a neighbors for "a little holiday cheer." her laws, more enforcement and increased public and media attention over the past few years helped reduce alcohol-related crashes by nearly 30 percent in some parts of the nation. Many responsible people have gotten the message and have modified their drinking habits for the better. But the problem is far from solved and complacency should not replace the concern and anger of the early 1980's that motivated government, the private sector and citizen groups to stop wringing hands over drunk driving and start fighting it. We continue to be too tolerant of a dangerous minority who leave parties, bars and restaurants with attitudes like "I drive better when I'm drunk," "I only had a few," and "Nobody drives my car but me to call a cab, offer a ride or provide a bed than to allow friends or co-workers to put themselves and everyone else at risk?

The old adage about an ounce of prevention being worth a pound of cure is particularly appropriate when developing strategies to curb drunk drivers. Remember, drunk driving is preventable and drinking too much and then getting behind the wheel and killing someone is not an accidental event. People know better today, and we should all be held accountable for our actions.

But the concept of accountability is dependent on public awareness. The news media has played a significant role in bringing about a greater awareness of the drunk driving problem. In fairness, an unprecedented amount of news and public service time has been devoted to the subject for a far longer period of time than most issues. But as media attention wanes, the public's awareness and heightened sensitivity wane with it. Drunk and Drugged Driving Awareness Week is the one special week during the year when we stop and take stock of something that deserves special emphasis.

Drunk driving is not only a national tragedy-it is a national disgrace. As we begin 1988, let each of us individually resolve to do our part to eliminate this disgrace and make it a resolution that is kept

KEEPING UP.

Keeping up with the Jones': On Mar tha's Vineyard off the coast of Massa chusetts, the latest thing in frontyard fixtures is osprey poles. More than 60 poles have sprouted up around the Island-98 percent of them In private yards. According to National Wildlife magazine, the craze got started after the director of the Felix Neck Wildlife Sanctuary began erecting poles with crossbars at the top to attract more ospreys to the island. They worked: the number of breeding pairs of ospreys increased from two in 1971 to 41 this past year.

SBA Loans Totalled $67.2 Million In 1987

A total of 338 Small Business Administration (SBA) loans amounting to $67.2 million were approved in Kentucky during fiscal year 1987 that ended September 30. According to William Federhofer, District Director of the Kentucky SBA office, "new start-up businesses received 70 loans while 229 loans were made to existing business for expansion, debt payment, working capital, acquisition of assets, and 39 loans were made to acquire existing businesses

A majority of the loans were made under the SBA bank guaranty program. This means that the bank provides the funds to their small business customers while the SBA guaranties the loan against loss to the bank. Ninety-seven Kentucky banks participated in this program.

SBA assists the Commonwealth's small business through several programs in addition to those involving financing such as: management assistance and training to small business owners or managers to enable them to prosper and overcome their problems; working with federal agencies to provide procurement contracts for small businesses; and assisting disadvantaged small business owners, en and vet

Holiday Depression And Stress 3-Bedroom House in Banner Should Not Be Ignored, Say Experts

Seasonal salutations of "Merry Christmas" and "Happy New Year" may fill the air these days, but for many Kentuckians, holiday reds and greens may be overshadowed by a case of the holiday "blues.

"During the Christmas season, excitement and happiness appear practically everywhere," said Vicki Hayes, a suicide prevention specialist and program coordinator in the Division of Mental Health in the Department for Mental Health and Mental Retardation Services.

"People should remember that everyone has their ups and downs, and the holiday season is a time when all types of feelings reach some of the highest peaks and lowest valleys. These feelings are just a fact of life,

'People have unrealistic expectations of the holidays because of the magical quality our childhood Christmases had," Haves said. "The reality of adulthood just can't recapture this quality. That

...about your Social Security

By JIM KELLY Social Security District Director For the Big Sandy Area

Social Security-More Than Just Retirement

If you work in Social Security covered employment, your employer deducts Social Security, or FICA taxes from your paycheck. You know that FICA is a Social Security tax, and you expect that one day when you retire, you'll be able to get a Social Security check. But Social Security is much more than a retirement program. It's a package of protection for you and your family when your earnings stop or are reduced because of your retirement, disability, or death.

Social Security provides four types of insurance. Two of those-retirement and Medicare-are familiar to most people. But did you know that Social Security also provides disability and survivors insurance?

If you were to become severely disabled, you could receive as much as $1,000 a month from Social Security? And if you have eligible family members, your family benefits could be as high as $1,500 a month. Of course, most disabled workers do not receive this much.

Hopefully, you won't die prematurely and leave behind a spouse and small children. But if that would happen, they could receive a total monthly Social Security benefit of as much as $1,800. Social Security pays monthly checks to about 3 million disabled workers and 8 million members of deceased and disabled worker's families, Family members receiving benefits include widows and widowers, who are at least 60 or disabled and 50-59, or any age and caring for children under 16 or disabled; a spouse 62 or older or under 62 and caring for a child under 16 or can really get you down, making existing depression even more intense Dr. David Atcher, a psychiatrist with Eastern State Hospital in Lexington, said that most holiday depression is just temporary and must be distinguished from clinical chronic depression, which continues after the season has ended.

"Several things can set off a case of the holiday doldrums," said Atcher. "Loss of a loved one through death or divorce is probably the most common reason," he said, "and the Christmas/New Year's Day period is often viewed as an 'anniversary' to reflect upon the loss.

"Financial problems or even exhaustion from seasonal social activities also can create a temporary feeling of lowness

Christmas can be especially trying for children of divorced parents, who must split the holiday between homes, Atcher said

"Images of intimate family gatherings are abundant and many children and adults dream of families getting back together," he noted. "Often, this is impossible.

Atcher said one problem that mental health treatment specialists have begun looking for over the past few years is known as seasonal affective disorder.

"Researchers have shown that some peoople begin to get depressed when winter sets in and the days start to get shorter," he explained. "This problem is though to be biological rather than psychological in nature, as it has been treated with artificial lights or a trip to a warmer climate with longer days." Hayes said the holiday season can be a time for making good memories.

"It is important to plan your time so you enjoy yourself," she explained. "But if the effort or expense outweighs the benefit, give yourself permission not to do it.

"During this holiday season, the average person's energy level is lower and the diet is erratic, which also can contribute to depression," said Hayes. "People should remain physically active, watch their diet and limit alcohol intake.

If the feelings of depression become more than a person can handle, both officials suggest seeking professional help. Kentucky's 14 regional Comprehensive Care Centers have 24-hour crisis lines available to assist in reaching trained professionals who can help people cope with the holiday blues.

Floyd County Board Of Education

Dear Parents

As educators and parents, it is our responsibility to help our children strive to reach their potential. Furthermore, it is our responsibility to take action when their future is jeopardized.

Unfortunately, we must face the fact that all across our country, the future of our children is being endangered. Drug and alcohol abuse is destroying the lives of children in both elementary and high schools. The national statistics are shocking:

60% of our nation's high school seniors use alcohol, pot, or other drugs two to three times a week; nearly 25% of all students are under the influence of a drug most of the time; 15%-20% of our children will be classified as serious abusers before they leave their teens.

We cannot afford to ignore this problem. The impact of dangerous drug abuse has become so widespread that even our children can be exposed to it. We must educate ourselves so that we can effectively help our children "Say No To Drugs."

That's why I urge you to watch the television film "Drug Free Kids: A Parent's Guide." In addition to discussing the current drug scene. It presents concrete examples of ways to approach your children about drug involvement. During this one-hour workshop, you'll learn more about recognizing drug abuse and getting help, taking preventative measures to keep your children drug free, and sharpening your communication skills so that you can stay in touch with your children and be involved in their lives

"Drug Free Kids: A Parent's Guide" will be aired on several networks and dates during January. The schedule includes:

Kentucky Beef/Dairy Farmers To Pay More Taxes This Year

Kentucky cattle producers and dairymen may end up paying an additional $28.5 million in taxes this year due to a wrinkle in the 1986 Federal Tax Reform Act that discourages them from deducting certain expenses.

"The federal tax law no longer allows farmers to deduct all of the yearly expenses associated with some yet-toproduce assets, such as replacement heifers, if they want to use accelerated depreciation schedules later, said Fred Benson, University of Kentucky Extension agricultural economist.

Farmers who choose how to deduct their preproduction expenses as current expenses-as most have done in the past-will lose tax advantages later, Benson said, because the depreciation schedule for doing so is at a much slower rate.

In addition, he said, farmers who elect to continue to deduct such preproduction expenses for their cattle must also use the longer and slower rate of depreciation for all assets-not just the cattle.

Under the new tax law, farmers who want to use the accelerated depreciation schedule will be allowed to deduct no expenses associated with raising a replacement heifer until she has calved, he said.

The new law provides that the animal can be depreciated over several years at an accelerated rate, but depreciation does not begin until the animal has dropped the first calf. Thus, farmers must hold their expenses back and not consider them to be business expenses until the animal can appear on a depreciation schedule, Benson said.

Benson calculated what the implications of the new law may have on dairy

Bobcats Win Second Straight PIT Title

The stage was set and the scene was perfect. Less than a minute remained. and the Betsy Layne Bobcats trailed by one point with the basketball out of bounds

The situation was all too familiar. Although they may not love it, the Bobcats have lived the same life repeatedly this season, and with repeated success

Jeff Riley, a former basketball coach at Prestonsburg and now an assistant at Morehead State, always said, "Keep Craynor Slone in the game, and he'll win "nine out of 10 times.

Riley, though his encounters at Lawrence County while Slone coached Ashland, and again last year when both coaches came to Floyd county, came to completely understand Craynor Slone and his final minute coaching ability.

Slone, since coming to Betsy Layne last season, has done little to raise any doubt in Riley's statement, and it was given new strength the most recent Pikeville Invitational Tournament.

Betsy Layne had trailed Pikeville all night, struggling just to stay in contention, but when it came time to decide the outcome Slone's Bobcats proved to be the more effective team

The Bobcats found themselves behind by as many as 10 points in the first half, and midway through the third quarter Pikeville still clung to a nine-point advantage

In the fourth quarter the Panthers built a five-point lead, but then came Betsy Layne's time, that time between losing and winning when the other team always seems to make a mistake and the Bobcats always seem to win.

Robbie Wright, with 5:06 remaining in the game, hit a jumpshot to give Pikeville their five-point advantage.

But when Todd Sturgill hit a shot with 1:22 left, Betsy Layne found themselves trailing by only one point.

Twenty-nine seconds later Tim Bailey drove into the paint but missed a short jumper. Todd Sturgill claimed the rebound, and the Bobcats were in last minute business again.

With 29 seconds remaining, Betsy Layne called a timeout to set their strategy but whatever Craynor Slone designed in the huddle never developed on the floor

Newsome. He was immediately fouled. and in the midst of a roaring, footstomping frenzy, Newsome calmly tossed in free throws. Those two points eventually proved to the game winners.

thers worked the basketball around until it found the capable hands of Doug Willett.

The talented sophomore had scored 15 points already, but 15 was all he would get on this night.

Willett put up a jumper from the baseline that brought iron but bounced harmlessly off the rim. Betsy Layne slapped the rebound back outside as time ran out

The Bobcats had survived again. This time, 56-55, over the Panthers in the Pikeville Invitational tournament's championship game.

Betsy Layne had won their second consecutive PIT title and their fourth in the past four years they have participated.

Duran Newsome, who hit the crucial free throws, led the way with 22 points. Todd Sturgill, who caused key Pikeville turnovers and hauled down important rebounds, added 12 points. Glen Hammond, off the bench, finished with 11 points

Betsy Layne had played their way through a sluggish night and into victory against a strong 6-3 Pikeville team. They improved their overall record to 8-3. And they did it in familiar Betsy

Layne fashion. The Bobcats appear fond of close games and they should be fond of playing in the Pikeville Invitational Tournament

They won three games by a total of six points on their way to the title. Craynor Slone quickly admitted that Monday night's performance against Pikeville wasn't one of Betsy Layne's finest, but he was also quick to admit that his Bobcats had just defeated some of the region's best teams.

You had the top teams in the region here," Slone said, sizing up the PIT field. "All the games were close and very competitive. Johnson Central wasn't here and Magoffin County wasn't either, but I think most of the region's best teams were in it.

And Betsy Layne proved to be the best of the lot, coming back in all three games to earn the title.

We played pitiful in that first half," Slone said. His Bobcats committed 12 turnovers in the first two quarters but trailed by only three at halftime.

"Pikeville missed some good shots The inbound pass came into Duran and we did a good job keeping them off each of Betsy Layne's three tournament games to spark the Bobcats to a PIT title.

Show respect for your elders. Don't forget to say yes sir and no sir, yes mam and no mam.

These are orders to live by, kind of an unwritten code of the mountains. We hear these words from early childhood through late adulthood, but it seems that gave the Vikings new life, and only a wide open fast break bucket could save Betsy Layne from losing again to Feds Creek

But it shouldn't surprise anyone. Thompson's 26 points proved to be only one above his season average, and the

Rebels Rally To Post Win Over Wheelwright,

Falling behind doesn't always spell defeat. The secret is staying close enough for a late rally

By Alton Huff

Three quarters of last Tuesday's basketball game saw the Allen Central Rebels fight and claw just to stay alive at home against the Wheelwright Trojans.

"We played in spurts. We would play for a while, then we would quit for a while," Allen Central coach Johnny Martin said, summing up his team's performance. "We didn't play that well, but we didn't let the game get away from

Allen Central, struggling early, trailed by six points in the first quarter and again by five points early in the second quarter, but the Rebels managed to stay close and by outscoring Wheelwright 21-13 in the fourth quarter, managed to pull out an 11-point victory.

The Rebels trailed by three points going into the second half, but sophomore center Joey Conn scored 11 of his gamehigh 17 points in the final two quarters as Allen Central managed a come-frombehind 69-58 victory

'They hit their free throws, and we didn't," Monroe Jones, Wheelwright's coach, said after the game. "We didn't get any breaks either," Jones continued. "It wasn't the officials fault or anything like that. We just couldn't get anything going and keep it going. We missed a couple of big shots late that would have helped too.

Allen Central, a team that had been struggling from the charity stripe, connected on 19 of 25 free throw attempts, including a 10 for 11 showing in the fourth quarter.

In comparison, Wheelwright shot 20 free throws and hit 14. But the Trojans missed five front ends of bonus opportunities.

The Rebels, now 3-5 overall and 1-0 in the Floyd County Conference, were forced to overcome several Wheelwright leads and on the strength of three-point plays finally put distance between them and the visiting Trojans

Allen Central had four different players in the scoring column after four minutes of the first quarter but found themselves trailing Wheelwright's twoman show of Bobby Hood and Craig Martin

Hood and Martin scored the Trojans' first 11 points, and when senior center Jason Cook dropped in two free throws with 4:10 showing on the first quarter clock. Wheelwright went up by six points three-point lead when Brad Compton, off the bench, hit two free throws late in the quarter

The Trojans could have led by a much bigger margin had they connected on their free throw opportunities with more regularity.

Compton, a 6'3" sophomore, who was spelling starting center Jason Cook, made good on all his trips to the charity stripe, but Tommy Jones and Craig Martin each missed two front ends of bonus free throw opportunities, keeping the Trojan halftime advantage at 33-30. "We're a physical team, but we're not a tall team. Wheelwright is a much taller team than we are, and they really killed us on the offensive boards. That's how they got most of their points in the third quarter," Johnny Martin said, mentioning one area that Allen Central struggled in.

Despite Wheelwright's superior height, even though 6'5" Jason Cook spent over 20 minutes of the game on the bench nursing foul trouble, the Trojans proved unable to protect their lead, allowing Allen Central's shorter front line to push the Rebels to victory.

Minus two Todd Duff jumpshots and a Darren Conn three-pointer, the Rebel starting front line of forwards Kevin Webb and Robbie Click and center Joey Conn scored every Allen Central field goal in the second half.

Taking the basketball inside, the Rebels found offensive success inside the paint with Conn and Webb's power moves and slashing drives and pullup jumpers from Click.

With 4:58 remaining in the third quarter, Craig Martin hit a short jumper to put Wheelwright up by four points. But then Allen Central went to war underneath.

First Kevin Webb found room to move inside, hit a short shot and drew a foul. The 6'1" junior cashed in on the free throw opportunity, cutting Wheelwright's lead to one

After Steve Cole put the Trojans back up by three, Joey Conn repeated Webb's recent effort, pulling Allen Central even with a layup and a free throw,

Although the Trojans reclaimed the lead when Brad Compton, who finished with eight points, scored with 3:22 remaining in the third, Wheelwright found the Allen Central's second half efforts too much to handle. The Rebels, in the final 1:38 of the third period, outscored Wheelwright, 7-2, and never allowed the Trojans a chance in the final frame, dropping them to 0-1 in conference play Joey Conn and Kevin Webb both hit. for six points in the final quarter as Allen Central pulled away from Wheelwright. Conn finished as the games' highest scorer, tossing in 17, and Webb ended the game with 13 points. Darren Conn, on the strength of a four three-point effort, finished with 14, and Robbie Click scored 11 points Craig Martin, before fouling out in the fourth quarter, led Wheelwright with 16 points while Tommy Jones, before being thrown out, scored 11. Sophomore guard Bobby Hood finished with 10.

After a Pikeville timeout, the Pan-the offensive boards in the second half. They got only one offensive rebound in the second half and that was very important to us," Slone said.

Lady Rebs, Lady Cats Post Conference Wins

The Allen Central Lady Rebs and Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats posted important wins in conference play last Tuesday night

The Lady Rebs, led by Joann Conn's 14 points, defeated Wheelwright, 54-49, at Allen Central. The win improved Allen Central to 1-0 in the Floyd County Conference and dropped the Lady Trojans to 0-1.

Conn, a sophomore, scored six of her team high points in the second quarter as the Lady Rebs opened up a 12-point advantage

Allen Central had led by only four points at halftime.

Wheelwright, led by Tephanie Green's 14 points, missed three front ends of bonus free throw opportunities in that pivotal third quarter, and while trying to come back in the final frame the Lady Trojans missed six free throws.

Wheelwright hit 13 of 22 attempts from the charity stripe but misfired on five bonus chances in the second half.

Allen Central hit 10 of 19 free throws in the second half

The Lady Rebs opened up a 14-point lead in the fourth quarter but were outscored 15-6 in the final seven minutes of the game as Wheelwright denied apparent death to make the final outcome interesting.

Sophomore April Bradford scored eight of her 13 points in the final 4:25 to put the Lady Trojans in a contending position

With 1:26 remaining Jedon Hood scored off an offensive rebound, trimming the deficit to six points, but when Wheelwright got the basketball back with a chance to cut it to four they suffered a turnover that helped their final chances disappear

Freshman guard Stacy Moore, who scored eight of her 10 points in the second half, hit a short jumper with 37 seconds remaining in the game to help bury Wheelwright

Michelle Floyd scored 10 points to assist in Allen Central's winning effort. Jedon Hood also reached double figures offensively, scoring 11 points for the Lady Trojans.

Both Allen Central and Wheelwright were pre-season picks to challenge Prestonsburg and Betsy Layne for a conference title, but with the loss, the Lady Trojans drop two and one-half games behind Betsy Layne.

Allen Central, with the win, moved to within one-half game of the conference leading Lady Bobcats

The Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats, last year's Floyd County Conference cochampions, took a positive step in their quest of overtaking Betsy Layne.

The Lady Blackcats lost their last conference game to Betsy Layne, but rebounded last Tuesday by defeating McDowell

Karen Frasure scored 13 points and two other Prestonsburg players scored in double figures to pace the Lady Blackcats to a 45-37 win

April Stephens scored 11 points and Amy Hicks added 10 to the winning effort.

McDowell, 0-3 in conference play, was led by Billie Hackworth's 14 points. Gwen Stegall, back from an injury, lossed in 11 points.

We hadn't played in two weeks and don't think they had either.' Prestonsburg Coach Bridgett Clay said, explaining the low scoring affair. "It looked like we hadn't played in two weeks.

"We got good shots. They just wouldn't fall.

Earlier in the season Prestonsburg had defeated McDowell by 17 points, but playing on their home floor and enjoyng the return of two players, the Lady Daredevils gave a better showing this time around.

'They had two players that they didn't have when they played us last," Clay said. "That helped them a lot. McDowell is now a better team than most people realize which should make the season even more interesting.

Both Stegall, the Lady Daredevils' leading scorer from a year ago, and Lori Bryant missed the early part of the season

Bryant, a part-time starter last season, scored four points last Tuesday. Gloria Mullins added eight points to McDowell's scoring efforts some youngsters of 15th region basketball have broken the code.

Carolyn Short scored seven points, Cathy Slone finished with six, and Michelle Clemmons added two points to round out Prestonsburg scoring.

They are doing their own thing on the hardwood and refuse to show much respect for their basketball elders while doing so

Keith Adkins is considered to be the 15th region's best player and one of the better ones in the state. Adkins is a legitimate candidate for Kentucky's Mr. Basketball award.

Brian Charles isn't far behind Adkins in the talent list of 15th region players and neither is Bart Williams, but all three of these veteran high school players may soon have to take a backseat to the sophomore class of 1987-88

Adkins' scoring average hovers around the 30-point mark and is the biggest in the region. The Paintsville guard possesses an open range jumper and can run a fast break as well as anyone in Kentucky

Charles, a 5'11" guard for Pheips, averages 23 points per game. He has scored over 20 points a game for the past three seasons and while doing so has attracted the attention of just about every small college in the tri-state area

Johnson Central's talented guard Bart Williams scores about 20 points per game. The 6'3" senior can drill the threepointer with remarkable consistency or drive to the basket for a slam dunk.

These three, along with Sheldon Clark forward Larry James, heads a talented list of 15th region seniors that could match up equally with just about anybody in the state, but the region's true talents may lie in its incredible crop of sensational sophomores.

Three players in the 1980s have represented the region as Mr. Basketball and Keith Adkins could become the fourth, but if he misses, then the region's next best shot will come in 1990.

That's when Jody Thompson graduates from Feds Creek

Little known and less respected, Feds Creek now has a common denominator that can divide them from the remainder of the region.

Yep, Jody Thompson.

At 6'5". Thompson is too big to be stopped by a guard, and with his smooth ball handling ability and quickness, he is too elusive to be stopped by a forward.

In a word, the sophomore secret of the 15th region is unstoppable. Unless, of course, a team does what Betsy Layne did in the Pikeville Invitational Tournament-double team him.

"He's something, isn't he? We had to double team him. At least then someone else would be shooting the ball." Bobcat coach Craynor Slone said after their Wednesday meeting.

Thompson had just scored 26 points and brought Feds Creek back from a big first half deficit. His shooting ability

Vikings were sporting an 8-2 record. Thompson is one of the main reasons why

As a freshman, he scored 20 points a game. And now being all grown up as a sophomore, Thompson has really exploded on the basketball scene.

His 25 points per game rank second behind Adkins in the region, but Jody Thompson is more than just a scorer.

It's true. His three-point shooting ability is a thing of beauty, and he can pull up off the dribble and shoot, with deadly accuracy, over anyone in the region, but he can also rebound and hand out some assists

His eight boards and four assists per outing proves that.

As good as Thompson is, he can only get better. The only thing that can force him to avoid stardom is either Thompson, himself, or an injury. The physical talents are as strong as any in the region, and probably the state.

But Thompson, who plays everything from power forward to point guard, isn't the only talented sophomore currently displaying their talents in the 15th region.

Sam Stewart, another 6'5" performer, is in the middle of a successful second season. Although not as glamourous as Thompson, Stewart gets the job done with the same type of effectiveness.

Even though Stewart plays in a conservative, team-oriented style at Betsy Layne, he still averages over 15 points a game

Hard work is his greatest asset, but size and ability certainly aren't lacking in his game plan. Stewart, too, should be headed for an impressive high school conclusion

Stewart plays in the 58th district where strong underclass performers are the rule rather than the exception.

Only seven seniors start at the five high schools, and four of the five have underclassmen as their leading scorers. And the same is true regionwide, some impressive sophomores are on hand to provide basketball thrills.

Marc Hall, who may be the most underrated player in the region, is averaging about seven points per game and may be leading the district in points per minute played.

Hall is a transfer from Lexington who just worked his way into the McDowell starting lineup, recently. The 6'1' guard/forward scored a season high 15 points against Prestonsburg last Tuesday and although youthful mistakes crop up from time to time, he is expected to be a fixture in Daredevil basketball happenings for the next two seasons.

And how about Hall's classmate, sixfoot-five Keith Shelton. His slender body reflects his young age, but as Shelton physically grows from a sophomore to

Then Darren Conn got hot from the outside, and by the end of the initial frame, the senior point guard had shot the Rebels to a four-point advantage. Conn, with Allen Central still trailing, drilled back to back three-pointers late in the quarter, and with only three ticks remaining in the opening period, Mike Collins canned a jumpshot to give the Rebels their 21-17 advantage

But Allen Central's lead didn't stand up long against a strong Trojan early attack. Craig Martin, who led Wheelwright with 16 points, cashed in on a three-point play with 7:32 left in the half and hit a layup with 6:05 remaining to send the Trojans on their way to a halftime lead.

Wheelwright outscored the Rebels. 16-9, in the second quarter and took a

Both Jones and Allen Central's Mike Collins were ejected from the game following a minor incident late in the fourth quarter.

TWO TOP YOUNGSTERS: Feds Creek's Jody Thompson and 🔥 Betsy Layne's Sam Stewart battle for position during last Wednesday's game. Both are regarded as being among the region's best players although they are only sophomores.

Playoffs Provide Fitting Finale For 1987 Campaign In a season where Indianapolis came from the bottom of the AFC East to capture a divisional title and the defending Super Bowl champs failed to get out of the cellar of their own division, it seems only fitting that the season be summed up with unpredictable playoff results. And it has been thus far.

As surprising as the Colts were in the regular season, Minnesota has been even more unpredictable during the second season.

The Vikings, a team that backed into the playoffs when St. Louis lost on the final Sunday to Dallas, first thumped New Orleans at home and kept the upset fires burning last Saturday by humbling the San Francisco 49ers, 36-24.

The 49ers boasted the best record in the NFL and were regarded as professional football's top group, but by the time Minnesota finished their job, the 49ers looked all too human.

With the score tied 3-5 the Vikings ripped off 17 unanswered points in less than five-minute span of the second quarter, crippling San Francisco to the point of a 20-3 halftime difference.

Minnesota rolled up a total of 216 yards in the first half and only turned up the offensive heat during the final two quarters

 When San Francisco cornerback Jeff Fuller intercepted a Wade Wilson pass and returned it 49 yards for a touchdown, the 49ers trailed by only 10 points early in the third quarter.

But they didn't stay close for long. On the Vikings next possession, they marched 68 yards in six plays, capped off by a Wilson five-yard touchdown pass to Hassan Jones. All of a sudden things looked gloomy again for the 49ers.

So gloomy that Joe Montana, the highest rated passer in football this season, was replaced by strong running Steve Young Young promptly moved San Francisco downfield for a touchdown, but the 49er defense failed to give the offense any support.

Chuck Nelson, after Minnesota moved into 49er territory with 4:01 left in the game, kicked a 40-yard field goal, giving the Vikings a 15-point lead and putting San Francisco out of striking distance.

Minnesota had been as much as an 11-point underdog, but now they find themselves in the NFC's championship same.

They play Sunday in Washington against the Redskins.

Minnesota and Washington met once before, playing during week 16. The Redskins, after trailing by 10 points late in the fourth quarter, rallied to tie the score and beat the Vikings in overtime.

Washington earned their place in Sunday's championship matchup by upsetting the Chicago Bears, 21-17, at Soldier Field, Sunday

In that game the Redskins trailed by 14 in the first half, but George Rogers ran two yards for Washington's first score, and Doug Williams threw to Clint Didier for a tying score with 51 seconds left in the second quarter. Then came the death blow, and it was dealt by defensive back Darrell Green. Green had spent most of the day chasing Willie Gault around, but his biggest play came on a punt return.

nesota sports a 10-7 record.

Sunday's NFC winner earns a trip to San Diego and a Super Bowl date with either Cleveland or Denver.

The Browns and Broncos meet in Denver for a rematch of last year's AFC championship game. In 1987 John Elway directed an incredible late drive to tie the game and another in overtime as the Broncos came from behind to deny Cleveland a spot in the Super Bowl.

Denver trailed by seven points with the ball on their own two-vard line.

Elway hit on six pass plays and ran twice more for 20 yards and capped off the 98-yard scoring drive by throwing a five-yard touchdown pass to Mark Jackson.

leading rusher to a broken ankle earlier in the season, Elway took sole control of the Bronco offense.

In the past four seasons he has won a touchdown as Denver defeated Houston, 34-10. Elway completed 14 of his 25 passes for 259 yards and two touchdowns.

Early in the game, the Oilers turned the football over on their own one-yard line which led to a Denver touchdown, and later in the first quarter Warren Moon, after Houston had driven deep into Bronco territory, threw an interception to Karl Mecklenberg. It denied Houston a score and eventually led to a Bronco touchdown.

Houston found themselves in scoring position three times but came up pointless. The Oilers were unable to run the football early, 25 yards in the first half, and after being forced to pass, they

The Broncos, 11-4-1, forced three Houston turnovers on their way to the championship game. Unlike last year, the Broncos play this one at home.

The Browns gave up less than 16 Against Indianapolis, Kosar threw for 229 yards and three touchdowns, and Earnest Byner ran for 122 yards as the Browns whipped the Colts, 38-21, in Cleveland, Saturday to only 50 yards rushing and picked off two passes while shutting the Colts out in the second half.

Tuscaloosa, Alabama is no place to get well. Especially if it includes playing the Crimson Tide in the process.

The University of Kentucky lost their first basketball game of the season, Saturday night, and tonight the try to recover against Alabama on the road. Kentucky split with Alabama last season with each team winning on the other's home court, but you might say that the Tide has turned from a year

The Crimson Tide is in a rebuilding season, and Kentucky is enjoying one of their best starts of the 1980s, but the Cats are coming off a not so impressive loss to Auburn

The Wildcats shot only 34 percent from the floor in Saturday's 53-52 loss to Auburn. Winston Bennett scored 20 points, and Rex Chapman added 15, but Kentucky still fell to 10-1 on the season. Auburn, without two starters, Jeff Moore, out with an injury and Mike

In his last game as a pro, Payton ran for 85 yards on 18 carries. Payton always said that playing football was fun for him, but for millions of fans, the most enjoyable thing about Walter Payton was watching him play football.

Spaniol Is Named MSU Ass't Baseball Coach

Former Eagle baseball player Frank Spaniol has been named assistant baseball coach at Morehead State. Spaniol came to MSU in 1982 from Mesa Community College in San Diego. He has served as head baseball coach at Plantation High School in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

Most recently, he has been working on a doctorate degree at Ole Miss and is nearing completion of that doctoral program.

Frank will be an outstanding addition to our staff," said Steve Hamilton, MSU's athletic director and baseball coach, "especially in light of my increased responsibilities in the athletic directors office. He is an extremely knowledgeable baseball coach and is a true student of the game. He also does an excellent job of coaching and directing young people."

McDowell Saves Best For Last In Win Over P'burg

For three quarters the Prestonsburg Blackcats flirted with an upset, but with a strong fourth quarter showing, McDowell spoiled the romance, and the Blackcats returned home a loser last Tuesday night.

Heading into that fatal final frame, Prestonsburg trailed by only three points, but behind junior guard Henry Webb, McDowell outscored the Blackcats, 34-21, in the fourth quarter to post a 75-79 victory

Webb, the Daredevils' leading scorer with 20 points, scored 14 points in the fourth quarter as McDowell took Prestonsburg completely out of the contest.

Another underclassman, sophomore Marc Hall, saved his best for last. Hall earned a starting position recently and made the most of his opportunity Tuesday night

The 6'1" forward scored 15 points, but nine of those came in the fourth quarter. Hall also enjoyed a perfect night from the charity stripe, hilting all three of his free throws.

As a team McDowell connected on 26 of 36 foul shots, 10 of 13 in the fourth quarter. Prestonsburg shot only 18 free throws but made 14 of those Prestonsburg, now 2-6 on the season, trailed by three points after the first quarter, six at halftime, and only three going into the fourth quarter, but that final frame brought out the best in McDowell.

The Daredevils' best was too good on this night for Prestonsburg to keep up with.

McDowell, with the win, stayed within striking distance in the conference while improving their overall record to 8-3.

Led by Webb and Hall, the Daredevils had nine different players to score. Dickie Joe Shannon, McDowell's leading scorer for the season, tossed in 12 points, and senior forward Lenny Hall also reached double figures offensively, scoring 11 points.

With the win, McDowell improved to 2-1 in the Floyd County Conference but continues to trail Betsy Layne. The Bobcats boast a 2-0 conference record.

Prestonsburg, with the loss, dropped to 0-3 in the conference, and are currently in last place.

The Blackcats were led offensively by Freddie McCoy. The 6'1" senior guard tossed in a game high 22 points. Two other Prestonsburg players hit for double figures. Tim Trusty scored 11 points, and Todd Justice added 10.

Prestonsburg and McDowell completed their regular season schedule and will not face each other again unless they meet in the district tournament. The Blackcats lost both of their meetings against McDowell

Due to the snow, last Tuesday's game was the only conference one for each team this past week

Two games were cancelled Friday, but one has already been rescheduled. The McDowell at Allen Central contest, scheduled for last Friday, was re-slated for tonight.

The Rebels, 1-0 in conference play, date for the game was announced.

Both Wheelwright and Prestonsburg are winless in the conference. The Troans are 0-1. The Blackcats next regularly scheduled conference matchup will come January 22 when they welcome in Allen Central. The Trojans play next Tuesday night at home against McDowell

One conference game is set for Friday night, sending Allen Central on the road to play the Betsy Layne Bobcats.

"John Blackburn did a good job on him, and we kept mixing our defenses up in that second half." Slone explained. Blackburn, regarded as the quickest Bobcat, entered the game late in the second quarter for the sole purpose of shutting down Slater.

With some help from his friends, Blackburn held the high scoring Panther guard to only three points in the final 17 and one-half minutes of the game.

The Hula Bowl, featuring the nation's best senior football players, will be aired at 4 p.m.

The all-star game pits the best players from the East against the best players from the West in their final football game as college players.

The contest features such greats as Heisman Trophy winner Tim Brown for the East and the all-time passing leader Todd Santos for the West. Santos is from San Diego State where he became the all-time yardage leader earlier this season.

Little did the St. Louis Cardinals know that when they played the Championship Series and World Series without Jack Clark that they would be experiencing a preview of things to come in 1988.

Clark, the Cardinal's leader in homeruns and RBIs, suffered an injury late in the season last year and was unable to play. St. Louis won the Eastern Division and the National League playoffs without him, and now will be forced to go the distance this season without the hard-hitting first baseman.

Clark was signed this past week as a free agent by the New York Yankees. New York will pay Clark over three million dollars for the next two seasons.

In 1987 Jack Clark hit 35 homeruns and drove in over 100 runs. He joins an offense in New York that features .300 hitters and power people but Clark is expected to see full-time action.

The former Giant and Cardinal is expected to be used as a designated hitter and part time outfielder and first baseman.

Shelton has seen a considerable amount of action on the varsity level and with every minute, he has shown progress.

Together, Hall and Shelton gives McDowell a solid nucleus for the next two seasons. The Daredevils could be tough to handle, but then again Allen Central could too.

The Rebels possess one of the strongest players in the region. No, check that. They possess two of the strongest players in the region, and both are sophomores.

Joey Conn, a 6'2" center, leads Allen Central in scoring, averaging just over 12 points per game, and is close to double figures in rebounds.

Rick Smith, another inside player with a linebacker's build, is currently providing Allen Central with an added punch off the bench, but should become an impact player before he leaves the Eastern school.

Pikeville boasts another of the region's talented sophomores, 6'4" guard Doug Willett. As a freshman Willett averaged 10.8 points per game, and this season is one of the reasons why Pikeville is one of the region's top 10 teams

Paintsville has two sophomores that could prove to be impact players next season. Forward Tucker Howard, although he's better in baseball and football, has been described as a miniature Joey Couch and Jeremy Holbrook, out with an injury, is probably Paintsville's top defensive player.

The best kept secret in the region is possibly Magoffin County's Donald Helton. The 6'1" sophomore is said to be the best shooter on a team of good shooters. Some even say that he is the position yet on the varsity level but most Hornet fans say that when the nerves settle down Helton will develop into the unstoppable scorer some had expected this season. Seniors, they are good this year. But 15th region followers stay tun-

ORDINANCE NO. 2-88 AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY RELATING TO PUBLIC NUISANCE OR HEALTH HAZARD ON LAND WITHIN THE CITY THROUGH THE ACCUMULATION OF RUBBISH OR THE EXCESSIVE GROWTH OF WEEDS OR GRASS.

SECTION ONE. PURPOSE.

The purpose of this Ordinance is to declare unsightly accumulations of rubbish and the existence of excessive growth of weeds or grass to be a public nuisance, to promote the public health, safety and welfare of the people of the City and further to protect the people against unsanitary and unsightly conditions.

SECTION TWO. DEFINITIONS As used in this ordinance unless the context clearly indicates otherwise, the following terms have the following meanings. All words used in the present tense include the future and past tense: all words in the plural number include the singular number, and all words in the singular number include the plural number. The word "shall" is mandatory and not merely directory

(A) "ACCUMULATION OF RUB-BISH" means an accumulation on any premises of filth, refuse, trash, garbage, or other waste material which endangers the public health, welfare, or safety, or materially interferes with the peaceful enjoyment by owners or occupants of adjacent property because of the danger of its catching or communicating fire, its attracting and propagating vermin, rodents, or insects, or its blowing of rubbish into any street, sidewalk or property of another.

Garrett Fire Dept. Rating Is Upgraded

Residents of the Garrett Fire District in Floyd county may be due for some saving in their fire insurance rates with the upgrading of the Garrett Volunteer Fire Department from Class 9 to Class 6.

The fire department was notified of the improved rating in a letter from ISO Commercial Risk Services, Inc., which made a recent evaluation of the department for fire insurance purposes.

Terry Triplett, secretary of the Garrett Volunteer Fire Department, said the acquisition of a new and larger pumper truck in addition to the one already in service was a prime asset to the group in attaining the higher rating.

The fire district includes, in addition to Garrett, residents of Stone Coal, Lackey, Hueysville, Salt Lick to the Magoffin county line.

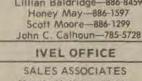

Bruce Scott is chief of the 21-member SECTION SIX. SUSPENSION OF Garrett Volunteer Fire Department.

There will be a meeting tomorrow (Thursday) at 6:30 p.m. at the Garrett gymnasium to answer any questions about the insurance code. Everyone is urged to attend.

veyance of persons or property. D. "Nuisance." Public nuisance.

E. "Unfit for Further Use." In a dangerous condition; having defective or missing parts; or in such a condition generally as to be unfit for further use as a conveyance.

SECTION 2. Motor vehicles which are in an inoperative condition or unfit for further use and parked or allowed to remain on any private or public property other than City streets, except on premises authorized by the City for such purposes, are hereby declared to be a public nuisance.

Further, a vehicle of any type shall not at any time undergo major overhaul, including body work, in any residential zone as defined by the zoning ordinance of the City of Prestonsburg, unless such work is performed inside a structure or similarly enclosed area designed and approved for such purpose and not in violation of the zoning ordinance and/or zoning rules and regulations of the City of Prestonsburg.

SECTION 3. No person, corporation, or other legal entity, in control of premises, whether as owner, lessee, tenant, occupant, or otherwise, shall allow any such nuisance to remain on such property longer than thirty days, and no person shall leave any such vehicle on any such property within the city for a period longer than thirty days, except that this section shall not apply with regard to any vehicle in an enclosed building or so located upon the premises as not to be readily visible from any public place or from any surrounding private property.

Further, this ordinance shall not apply with regard to any vehicle on the premises of a business enterprise operated in a lawful place and manner when the keeping and maintenance of such vehicle is necessary to the operation of such business enterprise; or with regard to a vehicle in an appropriate storage place or depository maintained in a lawful place and manner by the city or any public agency or entity.

SECTION 4. Persons who leave vehicles on a city street under circumstances indicating abandonment and any such vehicles shall be subject to the provisions of KRS 189.751.

SECTION 5. This ordinance shall be enforced by the building inspector, the fire inspector, members of the Prestonsburg Police Department, and any other city official or employee designated by the Mayor

SECTION 6. Should it be discovered that any such nuisance has remained on property in violation of the other provisions of this ordinance, the city building inspector, the city fire inspector, members of the Prestonsburg Police Department, and any other city official or employee designated by the Mayor.

(B) "CITY" means the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky.

(C) "PERSON" is any individual, industry, public or private corporation, copartnership, association, firm, or other entity, whatsoever

(D) "WEEDS" means the existence of thistles, burdock, jimson weeds, ragweeds, milkweeds, poison ivy, iron weeds, and all other noxious weeds and rank vegetation.

SECTION THREE. GENERAL PRO-VISIONS

A. The existence of weeds or accumulation of rubbish as defined in Section Three (A) and (B) is hereby declared a public nuisance, and it shall be unlawful for the owner, occupant or person having control or management of any land within the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to permit such public nuisance or health hazard to develop on said land.

B. No owner, occupant or person having control or management of any land within the City shall permit or maintain on any such premises or adjacent rightsof-way any growth of weeds, grass or other rank vegetation to a greater height than 12 inches on the average; nor any accumulation of dead weeds, grass or brush

SECTION FOUR. EXEMPTIONS. There shall be exempt from the provisions of this ordinance, the following:

A. Flower gardens, plots of shrubbery, vegetable gardens, and farm land under cultivation. Exemption under the terms of this paragraph cannot be claimed unless the land has been cultivated and cared for in a manner appropriate to such exempt categories.

B. Certain areas, as designated by the Mayor, with approval of the City Council, for the control of erosion, urban forestry, and preservation of any rare species of flora,

SECTION FIVE. ABATEMENT PROCEDURE

A. It shall be the duty of the City Administrator or his designee to serve or cause to be served a notice upon the owner or occupant of any premises on which there is kept or maintained a public nuisance in the form of any accumulation of rubbish or excessive weeds in violation of the provisions of this ordinance and to demand the abatement of said nuisance within five (5) days unless the nuisance constitutes an

Emergency Relief For The Homeless

The Big Sandy Area Community Action Program, Inc. has received a grant from the Kentucky Department of Social Services to provide emergency relief for the homeless in Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Pike counties. Through a recent survey of area social service agencies, ministerial associations, and county and city governments, the CAA estimates that 600 individuals in the area may fall within the definition of homeless. A homeless individual is described in the Stewart B. McKinney Homeless Assistance Act signed into law by President Reagan on July 22, 1987. A general definition of homelessness includes anyone whose primary nighttime residence is a public or private shelter, an emergency lodging house or commercial hotel/motel or any of the innumerable public spaces resorted to by those who remain on the streets, public parks, transportation terminals, cars, abandoned buildings and aqueducts are among the likely places for homeless people to live.

For additional information, contact the CAP office: Floyd county, 874-2965; Johnson county, 789-3641; Magoffin county, 349-2217; Martin county, 298-3217; Pike county, 432-2775.

Martin Luther King's dream of peace, freedom and brotherhood is remembered in Martin Luther King: The Dream and the Drum which airs Sunday, January 17 at 7 p.m. on KET.

This hour-long program of poetry, prose, and music explores his struggle for equality and his vision of a better society through the writings of distinguished poets, lecturers, politicians, and authors who shared Dr. King's version, as well as those who disagreed with his ideals. Among those whose works are read are poets Gwendolyn Brooks, Countee Cullen, Langston Hughes; authors James Baldwin and Alice Walker; J. Edgar Hoover; George Wallace; and Malcolm X.

The program interweaves readings of poetry, prose, and speeches with music and footage of Dr. King's speeches.

On Monday, January 18 at 7 p.m. KET airs A Day To Remember-August 28, 1963. This documentary commemorates the 1963 civil rights march on Washington. It condenses the events of the day and presents them through the eyes of participants Moe Tandler, 1963 C.O.R.E. (Congress On Racial Equality) lawyer; Congressman Walter Fauntroy, organizer of the 1963 march; and John Lewis, 1963 chairman of SNCC (Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee). Dr. King's famous "I have a dream ... speech is used as the text of an original cantata, written by C. Edward Thomas and performed by a 120-voice choir and orchestra.

A Day To Remember and The Dream and the Drum, an episode of the series Ossie & Ruby...In Other Words, were produced by Emmalyn II Productions.

Appalashop Exhibits Appalachian Artists

The Appalshop gallery will be exhibiting "Images from the Mountains," a traveling exhibit of Appalachian artists. The exhibit, which is organized by the Appalachian Center of the University of Kentucky and juried by Dr. William Hennessey of the Kentucky Art Museum, features the work of some of the finest artists in the region. The exhibit of work by both established and emerging artists from eastern Kentucky brings together images that reflect the richness and diversity of a region that is steeped in traditional values but that is also a part of the highly technical and constantly changing American society. 'Images from the Mountains'' will be on display from January 7 through February 5 and is free to the public. The Appalshop gallery is open daily from 10-6 and is located at 306 Madison Street, Whitesburg, Kentucky 41858. For more information, call Bob Henry or Jerri Frazier at (606) 633-0108.

MOONSTRUCK (PG - MGM) Starring Nicolas Cage Cher. ★★★½

By J.T. YURKO

The opening credits of Johnny leaves for Si "Moonstruck are backed by Dean Martin's version of "That's Amo-re." Remember it? "When the moon hits your eye like a big pizza pie ... The silliness of the song sets the perfect mood for "Moonstruck," and almost everything that follows is right on target.

Norman Jewison directs this love story. which centers on the Castorinis, an Italian-American family living in Brooklyn. These are folks who believe in bad luck and curses and even the influence of a full moon on the people below.

Cher stars as Loretta a delicious mixture Castorini, who has had farce and romance, her share of bad luck. Her seasoned it with deli husband died young. which she attributes to their failure to have a too young for his t formal wedding. So when Cammareri, Johnny played with charming gentleness by Danny Aiello, offers his hand, Loretta accepts - but only if they are married in a fancy church.

There is bad blood between Johnny and his vounger brother, Ronny (Nicolas Cage). So when reaching for the moon.

to see their sick mot Loretta visits her fut brother-in-law, seel reconciliation. And strikes her eye like a

The rest of the Cas ini famiglia is likev under the influence the moon. Mother I (Olympia Dukakis) ders why men cl women. Father Co (Vincent Gardenia) having an affair. Aunt Rita (Julie Bova and Uncle Raym (Louis Guss) find love under la luna.

Screenwriter John rick Shanley has created ful characters. The complaint is that Car the others, most of t New York stage act are superb, with Du kis's performance 3 standout. But the film belongs to Cher, who forgoes dese-dem-and-dose cliches for a restrained depiction of a woman with her feet on the ground but her heart

'48 Hours," which pre mieres Tuesday, Jan. 19, signals the news division's recommitment to hard news, always its forte. Its other prime-time pro-gram, the glitzy "West 57th," has been a ratings failure, while the no-nonhas been a ratings Top 10.

The new show will employ a format first seen in the well-received documentaries "48 Hours on Crack Street" (1986) and "Seven Days in May" (1987). First, producers research a topic - the problems faced by the city of Miami, say, or life in a typical high school. Then, a lot of mileage out of his status as the son of the old man some people call the Great Communicator. It's helped him to land stints as guest host of "Saturday Night Live," co-host of a PBS special about AIDS and special correspondent on "Good Morning America." And now it's the subject of the latest "Cinemax Comedy Experiment," "Ron Reagan IS the President's Son. Jan. 17, and Wednesday, Jan. 20.

Surprise: Ron Reagan's special is actually funny

This half-hour special casts Reagan, once a ballet dancer, in a bizarre dual role. In the first half, he plays himself, a reporter for the "Up and 'Em USA" morning 16 show who refuses to let his Secret Service guards drink coffee on the job and gets his boss audited by the IRS. Later on he plays an escaped convict and Ron Reagan lookalike who eventually kidnaps him and takes his place.

Doctors Counter Suit Charging Contract Breach

By Tim Sizemore

A suit filed by an area doctor against colleagues in a clinic partnership, has led to a counterclaim and answer being filed in Floyd Circuit Court, by the defendants in the suit.

Doctors J.W. Sutherland, Charles Hieronymous, Charles Arnett and Syed Badrudduja, have filed a counterclaim in answer to charges made in a suit by Dr. Peeter Jakobson claiming that the defendants had interferred with his right to transact business and had been guilty of breach of contract. Jakobson also claims that one or more of those named in the suit have made defamatory remarks about his character.

In the counterclaim, the defendants argue that Jakobson's accusations are baseless and that they are the wronged party in that the plaintiff, while acting as president of the corporation, used corporate funds and employees for selfserving purposes contrary to the best interests of the corporation. The defendants also state in their complaint that from August 1, to October 9, 1987 Jakobson had converted corporate funds of at least $20,474.20 to his personal use of claimed compensation he felt he was due by the defendants.

The defendants also state in their suit that Jakobson did not personally own a medical practice and therefore had no private patients to lose.

The counterclaim argues that the plaintiff owes the defendants in excess of $100,000 because of his breach of fidiciary duties while serving as corporate president. In one instance, the suit claims the plaintiff loaned himself $8,000 without authorization.

A suit filed in circuit court reflects only one side of the issue.

AIDS Tops 100 in State With Short Survival Rate

century mark in 1987 with at least 42 new cases reported during the year, bringing the total number of people with AIDS indentified in this state since 1982 to 110. the Department for Health Services reported today

Of these, one case has been confirmed in the Big Sandy Area.

Additional cases may yet be added to the 1987 total, but Kentucky is still expected to maintain its consistent national ranking of 31st in total number of identified victims of Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome or AIDS.

The five-year history of AIDS in Kentucky is now presenting state health officials with sufficient information to develop a statistical profile of Kentuckians who have contracted the disease, according to Reginald Finger, M.D., manager of the department's communicable disease branch.

Most Kentuckians diagnosed with AIDS have been white homosexual or bisexual males. Nearly half are in their thirties. Of the 110 cases diagnosed to date, 75 (68 percent) are dead, including 15 of the 42 diagnosed in 1987.

'Essentially AIDS patients in Kentucky parallel the national profile," Finger said. "The statistic that deviates most is the average survival of AIDS cases-it's shorter in Kentucky than in the nation as a whole.

Finger said apparent reasons for shorter survival in Kentucky are that patients seek medical care later and have fewer cases of Kaposi's sarcoma, a cancer that strikes AIDS patients. Those with Kaposi's sarcoma survive longer than patients with AIDS-related, or opportunistic, infections, he said.

Fourteen of the state's 15 area development districts have reported AIDS cases. Only the counties in northeastern Kentucky's Gatgeway ADD have yet to have a single case.

The KIPDA region has had the most cases-41-with all but one coming from Jefferson county. The 17-county Bluegrass ADD has reported 25 cases, 16 from Fayette and the remainder from six other counties. The Northern Kentucky ADD has a total of 13 diagnosed cases in three counties.

Past those three regions, the totals

AIDS cases in Kentucky passed the drop sharply to six each in Pennyrile and Purchase; four in Lincoln Trail; three each in Barren River, Buffalo Trace and FIVCO; two in Cumberland Valley; and one each in Big Sandy, Green River, Kentucky River and Lake Cumberland.

> Through 1987, 90 percent of the diagnosed cases were in males; and 79 percent were white.

> The bulk of diagnoses have come from the 30-39 year-old age group (45 percent). Twenty-eight percent of the patients have been in their twenties; and 16 percent, age 40-49. No cases in children under age 14 have been reported in Kentucky.

Seventy percent of the diagnosed cases have been in homosexual or bisexual males. Eleven percent of the cases have occurred in intravenous drug users.

The only known means of AIDS transmission are sexual contact, sharing contaminated injection needles, receiving tainted blood, mother-to-infant transmission and, rarely, blood exposure in the health care workplace.

diseases. In Kentucky, the most common first opportunistic infection has been Pneumocystic carinii pneumonia (57 percent).

For information about AIDS, Kentuckians can call the Department for Health Services' toll-free AIDS information line at 1-800-654-AIDS. In 1987 there were more than 5,000 calls to the AIDS information line.

Mrs. Barbara Crider Receives Silver Cup

Mrs. Barbara Crider recently received an engraved sterling silver cup from Charles E. Hackworth, supervisor of the Food Stamp Unit, for her outstanding 🤎 employment record.

Mrs. Crider began employment with the old Department of Economic Security in February 1958 as a clerkstenographer. She worked in the clerical field as secretary to Nell L. Howell, former supervisor of the Pike county office, until February 1969 when she moved to Floyd county, transferring to the Floyd county office where she worked as secretary to Ronald J. Wright, field service supervisor until August 1978 at which time she was promoted to an Eligibility Worker II position. She is currently a Pr. Casework Specialist working in the Food Stamp Unit here.

Mrs. Crider is married to Andrew J. Crider, a biology teacher at Prestonsburg High School, and they have one son, Byron, who is a student there. The Criders live at Bays Branch on Little Paint.

DON'T BE FOOLED

Some foods can fool a dieter; either they seem safe but really sabotage weight loss, or they're good choices that have a bad name. Good Housekeeping's January issue explains some of them: Bran muffins, though high in fiber, can be high-fat, too. Bagels: The big ones average 300 calories. Avocado: Eat sparingly-this fruit is full of fat (from 25 to 39 grams) and calories (about 150 to 195). Pizza: A slice of cheese pizza can make a low fat, high calcium meal. To boost vitamins and fiber, ask for vegetable toppings.

TO THE PEOPLE OF DISTRICT 2:

As you probably have noticed, this snow has stayed on our roads longer than most snows have stayed on in the past 2 years. That's because there has been less done to clear the snow. Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo told me that he did not want any nighttime grading. WHY? I don't know, because we have done it for the last 2 years. It takes 48 hours just to clear the blacktop roads in Dist. 2-(if you grade around the clock). The Judge, John M. Stumbo, wants to grade only during the daytime and let the machine set until the following day. You lose 16 hours of grading each day this way. I feel that this is a way to make the people of Dist. 2 think that I have got lazy on the job, but I HAVEN'T.

This last snow-the graderman was working under the command of the road foreman who was under the command of the Judge. Maybe he can tell you why the grader has only been worked 8 hours during the whole snow and explain to the people of Wilson Creek why the grader only graded half of their hollow (which is all blacktopped) and turned around and came back out. THIS IS NOT THE WAY I DO BUSINESS, people, I believe in going to the last house in the hollow when I'm grading snow. Maybe he can explain to the people of Allen why the grader never made it to Allen. Maybe he can explain to the people of Eastern why Eastern block was passed up-why one side of Eastern was cleared and the other was not. Maybe he can explain why Prater Fork, the road I live on and the only blacktopped county road on Brush Creek, was passed up also. Somehow or another they forgot these roads. After they finally made it to Garrett, they parked the grader right in the middle of Garrett and never cleaned one street in the town. I can imagine how the people of Garrett felt, not counting how the people of Wayland felt, driving by on Saturday and Sunday mornings and seeing the grader setting in Garrett with nothing done in either town with plenty of snow yet to be removed.

I normally work around the clock because in towns-such as Garrett, Wayland, and Allen-that have stores and businesses, you can do better work and faster work after dark because there is less traffic to work around and less people and kids on the streets. Cars are not parked up and down the streets like they are in the daytime. Normally, you don't have to worry about kids sleigh riding at 2 o'clock in the morning, which is another thing you have to watch for during the day. The people of Allen and Dwale were more or less stranded during this snow because we didn't have enough salt to salt the hills with. The Judge issued each district 20-50 pound bags of calcium to cover their whole district. I've got one blacktoppedhill in my district that it takes about 7 bags for, not to count all the approaches and other blacktopped hills in my district. We can pick the salt up by the truckload at the state garage if the ludge would only call and request it, but he never requested it. I asked him if he would request it and he said NO.

People, the reason I work and try to clear the snow as fast as I can is because a lot of the people in my District are sick and elderly people and they have got to get to the doctor or to the pharmacy to get their medicine or get to the store. The longer this snow lays on the ground the worse it is on everyone-the people trying to get to the doctors, pharmacies, or grocery stores and on the people who owns these stores. You lose days of school that shouldn't be lost.

I plan to buy a snowplow or two for my own personal truck and I'm going to try to help get your roads cleared faster regardless of WHO LIKES IT or WHO DON'T.

P.S.-The Judge Executive, John M. Stumbo, also said the state no longer wants us to grade state roads as we have in the past. While we were going to a county road we normally graded the state road that we were going on. This means roads like-Bucks Branch, Stephens Branch, 1st mile of Wilson Creek, Salt Lick (Rt. 7), and others-will no longer be graded by us. If they aren't graded by the state, people this means when you get to the mouth of the hollow that's as far as you are going.

I THOUGHT THE PEOPLE NEEDED TO KNOW THIS and HOW THINGS ARE. JACKIE E. OWENS

IN MEMORY

In loving memory of Arnell Kidd passed away Feb. 14, 1984.

It's been four years since God called you away. But we still think of you, as if it was yesterday. Your smiling face we still remember. Sometimes It seems we can still hear your voice saying we must go on. That life is too short. We keep your memory close at heart. We thank God for the time we had together. We miss you and we will always love you. Happy birthday honey.

Defending Fairness In The Media

Years ago, when TV was spreading rapidly, the Federal Communications Commission took steps to protect freedom of speech. Freedom of speech was guaranteed to American citizens by the First Amendment to the Bill of

In TV there was a natural monopoly. You can't jam what you don't agree channel from the government, and your

So the government, to maximize public discussion of public policy, required stations to provide for a diversity of responsible opinions. This was called "the Fairness Doctrine." No one, holding a public position of power by virtue of a public license, was to push just one line of propaganda and deny access to everyone else. We had just won a war against a regime that provided a monoply of journalism and suppressed all dissenting opinions and were reminded of the fair play America stands for at her best.

The purpose of protecting freedom of speech is to guarantee as full and free as possible a public discussion of matters of public policy. Before there was such protection, arbitrary regimes and despotic rulers simply punished or killed anyone who expressed ideas they

In most countries in the UN it is still dangerous for people to open their mouths. We must pity them as "subjects:" certainly they do not have the ignities and liberties we associate with 'citizens." But Americans have the Bill of Rights, and they should be alert to anyone who tries to cripple or take away those guarantees of the liberty, dignity and integrity as human persons. A few weeks ago, with public attention directed at the Iran/contra revelations, a little group of bureaucrats succeeded in killing the Fairness Doctine. The effect was immediately felt by the public. One church leader, who was reacting to a viciously unfair attack on his denomination in a national TV program. called the chain to request opportunity to respond. The response he got was typical: "We don't have to give you time to respond. The Fairness Doctrine has been ended ... Senator Ernest Hollings of South Carolina has now come forward as the champion of the American principle of freedom of speech. He is working for a return to the practice of fairness, this time under the protection of Congress and away from the dangers of subservience by the bureaucracy to special interests. Senator Hollins deserves the gratitude of all who respect the Constitution and its First Amendment.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Sherman Gooden, born April 19, 1916, passed away December 28, 1987, suddenly of a heart attack, enroute to the hospital. He was married to Hazel Blankenship Gooden and shared with her life's joys and sorrows for almost 53 years. He was born at Dayton, Tennessee, but had made his home in Weeksbury since he was about 18 years old.

He was a veteran of World War II. He entered the Army November 17, 1943, and was discharged December 3, 1945. He was a prisoner of war from December 18 to April 19, 1945, in the prison camp, "Bad Orbe Stallog-9-B." He had received many medals while serving his country as a soldier.

His life had been spent as a coal miner. He was a song leader, a teacher, and worker in the Weeksbury Church of Christ, where he was a member since 1952. He spent many hours visiting the sick people and will be greatly missed by his wife, relatives, community, and most of all the church at Weeksbury.

His funeral was conducted by nephews, Darrell Blankenship, Nashville, Tenn. and Michael Hall, of Pikeville, Ky. Singing was done by members of the Prestonsburg, and Jackhorn congregations and pallbearers were the nephews.

State Seeks Help In Child Support Collection/Tax Intercept Program in the same boat but unknown to the state.

"We automatically go after tax refunds of individuals who, because of their failure to pay child support, force their families to make ends meet with programs like Aid to Families with Dependent Children," Robinson said. Because this agency administers both programs, we've already got the information necessary to intercept tax refunds in those cases.

"Our problem is that, although we've identified 12,000 non-AFDC families legally owed child support, we know there are a significant number of additional families in the same situation but who to date haven't sought state help in collecting their back child support.

"We have the same authority to attach tax refunds and help those families," Robinson said, "but first they need to contact the agency and get us involved." For the 1987 tax year, the department's Division of Child Support Enforcement has certified more than $1.1 million in payments owed to non-AFDC families. Tax refunds sought by those delinquent parents will be intercepted.

That amount is just a small fraction of the almost $186 million known to have been owed to clients of the state's child support collection program at the end of 1987

But it doesn't take into account child support owed but unreported to the state, and that's one reason the Division of Child Support Enforcement is beginning so early seeking information for possible 1988 tax year intercepts.

"Any non-AFDC parent who wish to recover overdue support payments through the tax intercept program must first contact one of the state's 10 regional child support enforcement offices," said Kentucky's director of child support enforcement, Pam Mertens.

Regional centers are in Ashland, Covington, Danville, Elizabethtown, Frankfort, Hopkinsville, Lexington, Manchester, Paducah and Prestonsburg.

After parents contact a regional Child Support Enforcement office, they will be mailed an application and a request for an affidavit certifying the delinquent amount. There is no charge for the service involving state tax refunds, but a $25 fee is required for filing federal tax refund intercepts

Some restrictions apply to the non-AFDC tax intercept program:

Overdue child support eligible for the program doesn't include legal fees, court costs, spousal support or any other non-child support debts owed to the state or family

The child named in the certification must be a minor on December 31 of the year it is submitted.

The obligation must have been established by court order or through administrative process;

The arrearage must be at least $500 to be accepted for the non-AFDC tax intercept program.

Taut Times Ahead Says Cons. Leader

In December 1982, with the passage of the Surface Transportation Assistance Act and its five cents a gallon highway user fee increase-the first such federal increase since 1959-the Associated General Contractors of America (AGC) predicted a massive increase in construction markets.

Now, in December 1987, based on the most recent nationwide survey of its members, AGC believes that the declaration of construction growth may be cause for concern throughout the economy

AGC members, who build the majority of the nation's commercial and institutional structures, highways, bridges, wastewater treatment facilities, shopping centers and industrial plants, have forecast a 4.23 percent increase in their markets for 1988.

The bright side of the forecast, said AGC president Dana Huestis, a general contractor based in Great Falls, Montana, is survey results returned before and after the preciptious October decline in the stock market are remarkably consistent and substantially reflect construction contracts already signed; and a 4.23 percent increase in the construction industry, estimated to perform approximately $400 billion of construction in 1987, represents an increase of almost $17 billion.

"The less bright side of the forecast," said Huestis, "is that the substantial growth years of 1983, 1984 and 1985 are now history.

Asked about the disparity over the years in the figures reported by AGC members and those reported by the Department of Commerce, Huestis said, Whether you make the assumption that AGC members do better than the rest of the industry, or that either AGC figures or Commerce figures are accurate or inaccurate, the common denominator is a slowdown of construction growth." Asked about his own views, the construction industry leader, who is president of the 32,500 member firm Associated General Contractors of America, said, "It does not take a crystal ball to determine that there are some taut times ahead. Look at some cold facts. Federal tax policy has already devastated the municipal bond market, making it most difficult to raise funds through the bond market for capital investment. As this session of the 100th Congress wound down, it cut $925 million from sorely needed infrastructure projects such as highway and transit improvements, hazardous waste cleanup and clean water programs." "In addition, Congress, three months late, finally renewed the Airports program and immediately slashed airport improvements investment by $425 million. "The budget balancing exercise continues to take place in the context of sitting on approximately $15.6 billion in the Highway and Airport trust funds, monies collected for specific purposes that are not being invested in capital improvements

Photographs Portray National Recognition

Within the boundaries of Kentucky are sixteen National Historic Landmarks. To obtain this honor, a structure must have both historical significance and architectural merit. It must hold importance for all Americans to be worthy of a place on the Department of the Interior's Roll of Landmarks.

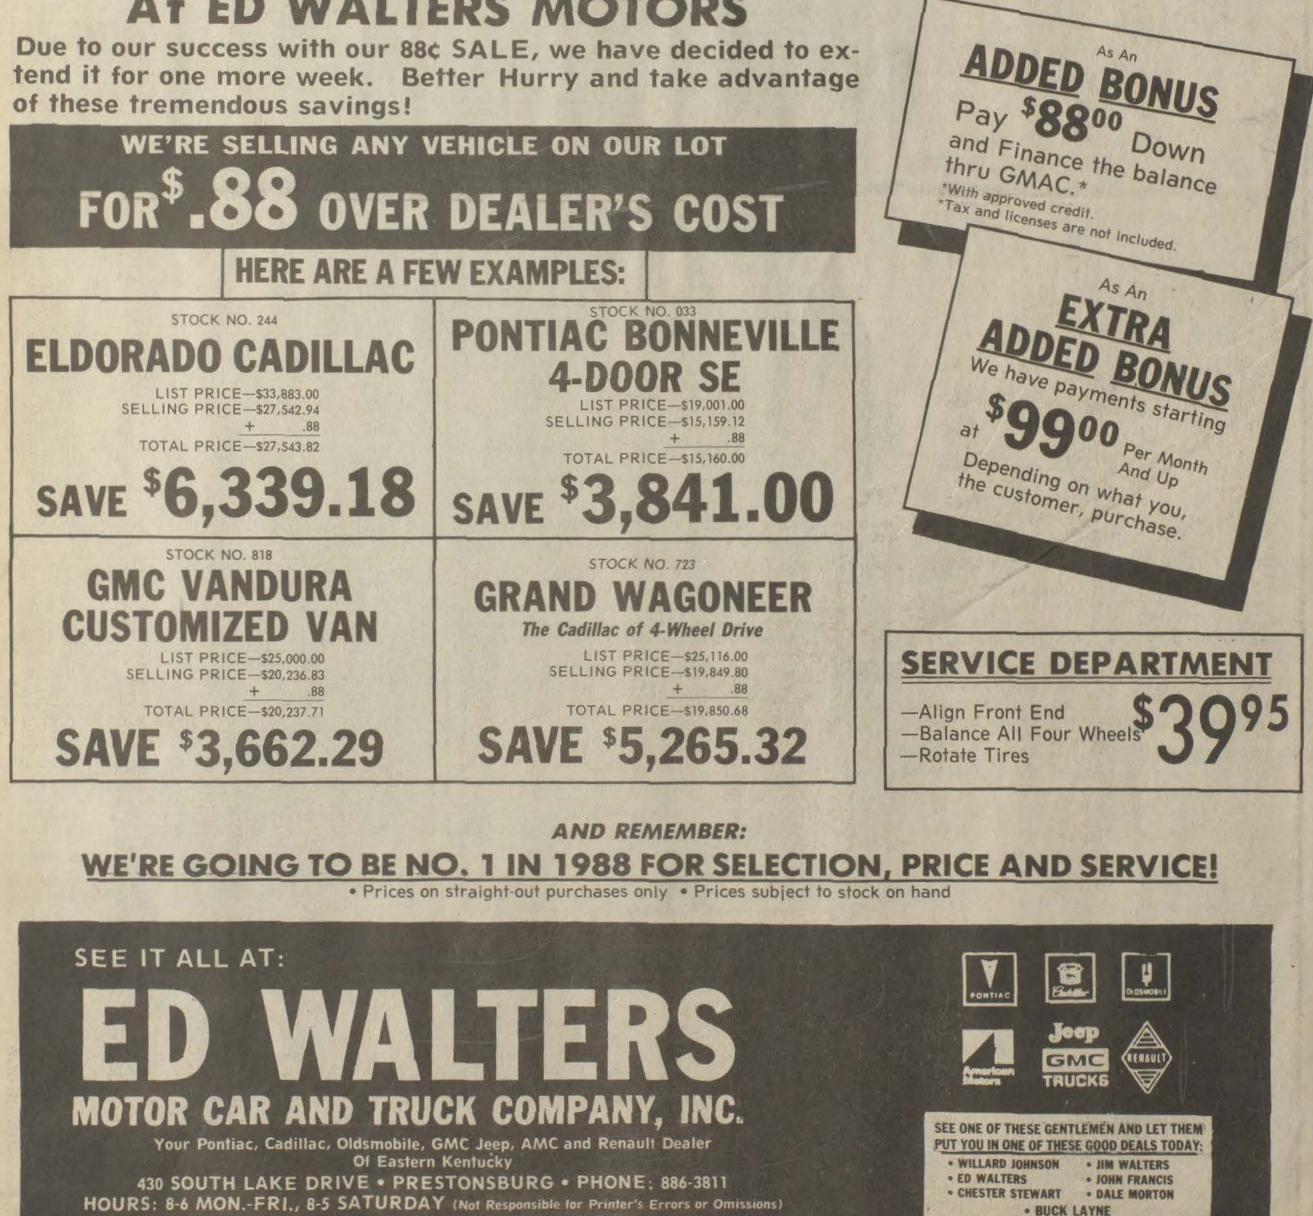

Photographs of these landmarks are on display in the Old Capitol until March 31. They range from breakthroughs in surgery (Dr. Ephraim McDowell House, Danville), to experiments in religion (Shakertown at Pleasant Hill), to the Covington and Cincinnati Suspension Bridge, once the longest in the world. The exhibit, produced by Gus Johnson of the Kentucky Heritage Council, promotes justifiable pride in our state's accomplishments

The Old Capitol is located on the Frankfort Public Square, at the corner of Lewis and Broadway streets. Hours are Monday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Sunday, 1 to 5 p.m. For further information, contact Holly Schaper Scott, Kentucky Historical Society, P.O.
