City Council Considers New Retirement System

Prestonsburg Mayor Ann R. Latta called a special City Council meeting June 29. The purpose of the meeting was to brief the Council about a new Kentucky law regarding its employee retirement system.

The Kentucky General Assembly this year passed a law that requires all 4th class cities like Prestonsburg to come under the state-wide County Employees Retirement System. The law, which takes effect August 1, will raise a city employee's pension as well as the city's contribution to the fund.

Tom Castle of the County Employees Retirement System in Frankfort explained to the Council how to implement the law and how CERS works. Apparently, in order to comply with the law, the Council must pass a ordinance to that effect,

The big question on Mayor Latta's mind is how much will the changeover in retirement systems cost the city. Presently, the city pays 3.9 percent of an employee's gross salary into its retirement plan with no employee contribution. Once it comes under CERS all newly hired employees will auto- retirement system will also lower the matically be brought in, and employees hired before August 1 will have the option of joining. At that time the city will have to contribute approximately seven percent, and the employee four percent of his gross salary. Also, if an employee hired prior to August 1 elects to transfer to CERS, then the city will have to assume all retroactive pension costs from the time that person was hired after its 1979 retirement system started. The new Castle estimates that it could cost the city as much as two million dollars. and while Latta doubts that it will be that much, she said, "an actuarial study will have to be done to determine exactly how much it will cost the city. The Council will now study the mandate and decide on it at its next meeting July 25.

Hall and Dr. Joyce Honored

The Mud Creek Community Health Corporation voted unanimously on June 6 to honor Eula Hall, the clinic founder, and Dr. Ellen Joyce, M.D., who has provided direction, service, and stability for the clinic for ten continuous years; by naming the multiple complex site, that houses the new clinic, a food and clothing pantry, with future plans for a day care center, as the Hall-Joyce Community Center.

The clinic name will continue as the Mud Creek Clinic, but as board chairman Don E. Laferty explained, in the presentation ceremony on June 29th at the clinic, that a center for medical and social services had developed from the clinic and the site identity should be separate and permanently recognize the immeasurable contributions by Mrs. Hall and Dr. Joyce. A bronze plaque bearing their names will soon greet all visitors and patrons who come by

Goble-Roberts Man Charged with Sodomy

The Prestonsburg Police Department doesn't employ a detective or an investigator. When one of its officers uncovers criminal activity, the officer makes the arrest, does the investigation, and follows the case through the court process.

It started as a routine domestic violence call to a Goble Roberts apartment building, but when Captain Chuck Akers arrived at the scene he was alerted to a more serious problem. Kenneth W. Caudill, 33, of Goble Roberts, was charged with first degree sodomy based on the evidence discovered along with the victim's statement. The victim, a twelve year old girl, also lives in Goble Roberts.

The police captain said he plans to present the case's evidence when the grand jury convenes again in September. Caudill was arrested June 18 and is presently being held in Floyd County Jail in lieu of $25,000 bond.

On June 27 the Liquor Locker in Hecks Plaza was broken into at about 11:30 p.m. The following morning proprietor Pat McClung discovered the burglary and notified police. Seven half-gallons of vodka along with 21/2 cases of beer and an AM/FM radio were stolen. Officers Roy Roberts and Gerald Clark investigated.

Two days later Roberts and Clark arrested Eddie Dmitruk, 20, of Corn Fork and charged him with wanton endangerment after a warrant was sworn out for his arrest because of a driving incident at Cliffside. Under questioning the officers learned that Dmitruk had been drinking vodka. The questioning continued until the suspect admitted to breaking into the liquor store, wrote out a statement to that effect, and sign-

"We advised him of his rights and then asked him if he wanted to waive them, and he said he did," Roberts said. Even if Dmitruk had not confessed, Roberts is confident they could have proved he committed the burglary "We had all kinds of finger

Archer Park Receives Much Needed Facelift

Archer Park is sporting a new look this summer, with improved softball fields, a new footbridge and a general facelift of the facilities.

According to Park Manager Ralph Little, the improvements will benefit both young and old. Senior citizens can look forward to utilizing their recently completed recreational area and small fry can have a chance to test their skills with "T" ball or on the new Senior Babe Ruth field.

The pool, which chances of opening looked dim this year, is now open as a result of borrowing against the projected revenue of the restaurant tax. Even though the tax revenue has not as yet become available, it has allowed the council to borrow money to initiate the renovation.

For those who remember the bouncing, swaying footbridge which led to the softball fields, there is quite a surprise, in its place is a new concrete and steel bridge designed by Bush and Burchett Architects and paid for with a of Land and Water and a Senior Citizens Grant.

Randy Polk, Chairman of the Prestonsburg Recreation and Tourism Commission says regarding the improvements, "We've been very for tunate to be able to make some improvements, such as the new Senior Babe Ruth Field and fixing the pool' and Polk added "The park is also being kept cleaner.'

Among the park's most important improvement in appearance was the demolition of the old skating rink which had been ravaged by flood. The park manager said that the land around the delapidated eyesore was cleaned up and now can be used for some other project. Another familiar sight in the park that will disappear in the winds of change is the old county fair pavilions. Plans are in the works to construct three or four new pavilions to replace the time-worn structures: Tennis enthusiasts will appreciate matching grant from the Department better lighting on the courts and also the parking. Little said that the new light bulbs alone will cost $115.00 each because they are mercury vapor bulbs. Senior citizens, besides having a new recreational area, will also have better parking because of the construction of a lot behind their center that was formerly a steep bank that would only grow norseweeds

Park Manager Little stresses that the park is not only for summer, but many of the facilities are utilized year round. He says that the park gym is always rented out and he belives that if there was another one, it would be rented out too. Little says that besides basketball, karate classes are also held

Ralph Little has served as park manager for two years and admits that the job is demanding, but that he likes the challenge. "If you don't pay attention to small details you don't do the job," he commented. Little, a former park board member and past sport's shop owner, says that besides himself he has two full-time employees to keep things running smoothly. He added that during the summer maintaining, the park requires six maintenance people and one security guard.

Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta, says that the park board is currently working on a five-year plan that she expects to be completed this month. She explains that the purpose of the plan is to set goals for future park improvements. Latta feels that a lot has been done over the last year to improve the look of the park. "I think the park looks wonderful this year" and the Mayor added that with the additional revenue more projects can be slated for the future.

The park manager was quick to praise the efforts of District One Magistrate Gerald DeRossett, the Recreation and Tourism Commission and the park staff for their contributions to the much needed facelift.

US 23 Moves Step Closer To Reality

By Tim Sizemore

Construction of a new four-lane link on U.S. 23 between Paintsville and Prestonsburg moved closer to realization last week with the U.S. House Committee on appropriations approving $8,100,000 for the project.

Seventh Congressional District Congressman Chris Perkins announced that the money had been approved and now waits for the nod from the Senate Appropriations committee Perkins says the project is one of only 21 such projects approved in the entire United propriated for the road that will cost the federal government $50,000,000. Perkins says that 20% of the federal dollars have been obtained and that the state is ready to go with the project.

Last fall a fight was made to kill the funding for the U.S. 23 project in the house but the effort was defeated. At that time Senator Mitch McConnell in a letter to First Commonwealth Bank President Burl Wells Spurlock was pessimistic about the project being funded. "I am not overly optimistic about the chances of survival. If it is not included then the possibility exists (See Story No. 3, Page 4)

Branham's Creek Road Ky. Bridge To Be Replaced

Gov. Wallace Wilkinson announced recently that the state will replace a bridge on Kentucky 3379, Branham's Creek Road in Floyd county.

'Kentucky's bridges are an integral part of our transportation system, and without safe, efficient structures to link the roads, you lack the continuity that is necessary for a strong transportation network," said Wilkinson.

According to state Transportation Secretary Milo D. Bryant, the project is estimated to cost $48,004 and is being financed with Rural Secondary Special Emergency funds. Bryant added that the work will be accomplished by contract and advertised for bids as soon as possible.

Milligan Charged With Armed Assault

Sue Milligan, 39, of Briarwood Addition Prestonsburg was charged with 1st degree assault, following a shooting incident at her home on June 26.

According to Captain Chuck Akers of the Prestonsburg Police, William Howell, 33, was found bleeding outside the Milligan residence at about 3:00 a.m. Howell had been shot once above the knee in the left leg by a .22 caliber revolver. The victim was inside the house when Milligan opened fire and was hit while fleeing. "He said she fired five times," Akers said, "but the revolver holds six, and it was unloaded; I figure she emptied it on him.'

Captain Greg Hall responded to the call with Akers; it was the third time that night that the police had been called to the house to quell domestic problems. The police department was called by one of the children in the house Hall and Akers ordered the woman out of the house, handcuffed her, and read her her rights. They then confiscated the weapon used.

Howell was rushed to Highlands Regional Medical Center where the bullet was removed from his leg. Milligan was taken to Floyd County Jail and booked; that same day she was released on $10,000 bond.

Fiscal Court Approves Hospital Revenue Bonds By Tim Sizemore

A special meeting of the Floyd county Fiscal court was held here Friday. to approve $1,100,000 in Facilities Revenue bonds for Our Lady of the Way Hospital at Martin and to deal with routine business.

Francis Godorf, of Taft Stettinus and Hollister, a Cincinnati law firm, came before the court members on behalf of Our Lady of the Way Hospital to request the Floyd Fiscal Court's approval on the issuance of facilities revenue bonds for the hospital. The bonds will be used for refinancing purposes. District Two Magistrate Jackie Edford Owens was quick to praise the hospital and said he saw no problems with the request. The court unanimously approved the bonding.

Another item that the magistrates considered important was the purchasing of a grade all, escalator and mower. The court agreed that these machines would do a much better job of keeping brush cut from roadways and cleaning up ditches. The Magistrates authorized the judge to advertise for bids on the equipment. The next regular meeting of the Fiscal Court is July 12th at 10 a.m.

Squashing that yellowjacket hovering over your fruit salad might make you feel better this summer, but it also might incite nearby yellowjackets into frenzied attack.

"So put down that sandal or rolled-up magazine," advises Peter J. Landolt, U.S. Department of Agriculture entomologist. Landolt and chemist Robert R. Heath found that the venom of southern yellowjacket wasps contains a chemical-called the alarm pheromone-that signals nesting wasps nearby that defense is needed.

"If you smash a wasp," Landolt said, "its venom sac breaks and the alarm pheromone goes into the air. This can provoke guard wasps to come out and sting whoever or whatever gets in their way.

The pheromone, which is release a stinging yellowjacket, signals fellow wasps on guard that an invader is being stung and that further defense is needed. "It's sort of like a policeman on patrol calling for back up," Landolt

They used the new synthetic pheromone to infuritate wasps at the agency's Insect Attractants, Behavior and Basic Biology Research Laboratory in Gainsville, Fla.

The pheromone certainly evoked a response. "Three, four, five hundred attacking wasps came out of the nest and started stinging-a dangerous situation even in a bee suit," Landolt said. That's because many people are hypersensitive to wasp venom.

The farthest Landolt put the pheromone from wasps in his tests was

Library To Exhibit Century Old Items

The Floyd County Public Library is currently showing an interesting, educational exhibit entitled "Your Father's Home." The exhibit features articles that were common in the homes of this area about 100 years ago.

The items are exhibited in the library display area, and people viewing the exhibit may guess what each item is, and what it was used for. A key to the exhibit is available so that people can judge their own scores.

The display is ideal for the youth who have never had a chance to be exposed to some of the articles that have shaped our past, as well as being a good experience for people new to the area. If enough interest is generated by this exhibit, further displays of this type are planned.

Breathalyzer Refusal Means Loss Of License

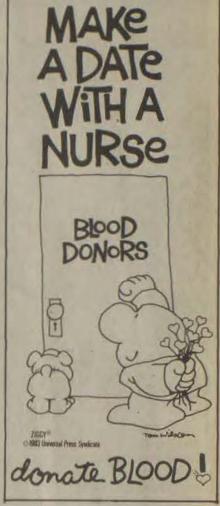

Saying we can't afford a "loophole in our drunk driving laws', Attorney General Fred Cowan has issued a formal opinion regarding people arrested for drunk driving who refuse to take a Breathalyzer test. "Kentucky law is clear on this," said Cowan. "If you refuse the test, you lose your license and I've been extremely concerned that the law hasn't been interpreted that way.

When he became Attorney General, Cowan contacted the state Transportation Cabinet expressing his concern with the way drunk driving laws were being interpreted. Cowan met at length with Secretary Milo Bryant. "I am delighted that, as a result of our meetings. Secretary Bryant and Governor Wilkinson support my interpretation of the law," Cowan said.

Cowan said he was surprised to learn that last year that some motorists arrested for drunk driving, were not having their licenses revoked. Following news reports of the "loophole," the number of DUI suspects refusing to take the Breathalyzer test, increased dramatically. In Jefferson county, corrections officials report that one in four drunk driving suspects are refusing the test. In 1987, there were nearly 2,000 such refusals and already this year there have been nearly 900. "This is a situation that is wreaking havoc with the effort to keep drunk drivers off our roads, and it simply cannot be tolerated," said Cowan.

IS THIS JUSTICE IN OUR COURTS?

My name is Paul Wade. I have three children, Jessica age 13, Charlie age 12, Jennifer age 11, and my wife Cathy. On May 7, 1986 I was severely burned as a result of a leak in the production line belonging to Floyd County Gas Company and East Kentucky Utilities. I spent about 3 months in the intensive care burn unit at UK Hospital in Lexington, Ky. I have been totally disabled to earn a living for my family since the accident two years ago.

A lawsuit was filed in September, 1986 against East Kentucky Utilities and others for medical bills in the amount of $100,000 and compensation for damages. The Floyd Circuit Court dismissed my lawsuit stating that I could not sue East Kentucky Utilities for my injuries.

An APPEAL WAS FILED IN THE KENTUCKY COURT OF APPEALS AND after one year Judge Dan Jack Combs ruled in my favor and against the Floyd Circuit Court and said that the Constitution of this country guaranteed me the right to a jury trial which I was refused in the Floyd Circuit Court. East Kentucky Utilities filed an Appeal to the Kentucky Supreme Court.

After 9 months Judge James Stephenson acting as judge on the Supreme Court reversed the decision of Judge Dan Jack Combs and threw my case out without a jury trial. This decision was made on May 19, 1988 5 days before the May 24, 1988 Primary in which Judge Stephenson was running against Judge Dan Jack Combs.

My lawyer has asked the Supreme Court of Kentucky to rehear this case. No decision has been made at this time. Meanwhile, I am still totally disabled. All I'm asking for is what the constitution entitles me to-A Trial By Jury!

Corns' Ed. Committee McConnell Republicans Sets London Hearing To Attend Conference In School Decision

Eastern and Southern Kentucky citizens will be given an opportunity to speak their minds on school finance and educational quality in Kentucky at a public hearing in London at Laurel County High School at 7 p.m. Monday, July 11.

The hearing will be conducted by the Select Committee appointed by Franklin Circuit Judge Ray Corns, who last month ruled Kentucky's system of financing public schools to be inequitable and unconstitutional.

Individual speakers will be given five minutes to speak, and representatives of organizations will have 10 minutes. Written testimony is encouraged but not required.

Select Committee chairman Kern Alexander Jr., president of Western Kentucky University, said Corns' ruling "may prove to be one of the most important events in the history of Kentucky education.

"This case presents to the people of Kentucky the unparalleled opportunity to examine our public school system and to fashion new and better funding alternatives.

Alexander said it was important for the committee to hear from all segments of the public. "Whether you are a parent of a school-age child, a business leader, a farmer, a doctor, a coal miner or an interested citizen, you should not forego the chance to express your views on the proper direction for our public schools," Alexander said.

Blood Center Offers Cholesterol Testing

During the summer campaign through September 9, Central Kentucky Blood Center and the Prestonsburg Donor Center will perform a cholesterol test on each unit of blood donated and the results will be sent to each donor. The mini-physical performed prior to a donation already includes a check of blood pressure, pulse, temperature, and hematocrit (iron level). However, scientific evidence clearly shows that reduction of blood cholesterol levels will reduce the risk of heart attack in the future.

that the project could be accepted when the House and Senate conferees meet to resolve differences in the two spending bills," McConnell said.

Another snag in the project's acceptance comes from Paintsville civic leaders and businessmen who are currently attempting to have the new four lane routed through Paintsville. If the Paintsville plan is adopted, it would add an additional $10,000,000 to the cost and a year more in construction time.

Floyd county Judge Executive John M. Stumbo was optimistic last week about the appropriation being approved. "The new four lane would help bring in business and tourism. It would virtually open up the area." The judge also explained that additional funding would improve the chances of the project's completion, because a budgetminded Congress would not fund something they did not intend to build.

Dave Whalen, of Chris Perkins's office, says that the passage in the house appropriations committee is a very positive step because it puts the house on record as approving the project.

Joseph and Shepherd are twin sisters. At the time of her arrest, Joseph had her three children with her, and Patrick had her two; the children ranged from one month to four years of age.

According to Conn, a sales clerk at Hecks alerted the store manager to the theft. The police were called, and the manager pursued the women in his car. While driving away the women threw the stolen clothing out the window of their car. Conn stopped them on University Drive and later recovered the discarded clothes near Hecks.

When confronted with the stolen merchandise, Conn said the women started talking. "If we pay for it will you not charge us?" Shepherd pleaded with the store manager, but the manager wouldn't make a deal. "Hecks has a real stiff policy on shoplifting," Conn said.

Conn found more stolen merchandise-cartons of cigarettes and clothing with Walmart's labelwhen he searched their car, but he got an odd reply when he called Walmart's. "I asked the manager to come down and identify the merchandise, but he wouldn't come. He said, 'we will not press charges.'

The quivering stem seemed ready to burst with excitement. An unusual event was about to occur.

Those witnessing this beauty of nature were not viewing time lapse photography but the actual daily rebirth of a flower.

The blooming process begins at dusk which occurs around 9 p.m. and does not stop until the plant is completely covered with yellow blossoms. Its beauty lasts only until dawn when the petals whither and die leaving behind a pod full of seed.

Pike Publication Is Literary Success

Meredith Sue Willis, a New York University writer who has twice won the PEN Syndicated Fiction Contest, is among the authors and poets whose work appears in the first issue of The Pikeville Review, a publication of Pikeville College.

'That we have several contributors whose talents are recognized in America's literary community indicates the quality we're striving for in The Pikeville Review," said Dr. James Alan Riley, who teaches creative writing at Pikeville College. He noted that Willis has three novels to her credit: A Space Apart, Higher Ground and Only Great Changes, all published by Scribners

"The Pikeville Review is not an Appalachian review in the narrow sense of the term," Riley said. "We want it to be a forum for writers inside and outside the region whatever they might be writing about-as our first issue demonstrates."

Among other contributors in the first issue are Karen McElmurray who teaches at the University of Virginia; R.T. Smith, alumni writer-in-residence at Auburn University; Michael C. White, editor of the American Fiction series; and Daniel J. Langton, whose poetry has appeared in such publications as The Atlantic, The American Scholar, The Nation and The Paris

Riley said The Pikeville Review is now accepting material for the next issue, which will be published early next year.

In addition to poetry and fiction, the first issue includes Gurney Norman's reflections on "Living With Language." Norman, writer-inresidence at the University of Kentucky and one of Appalachia's bestknown writers, was intereviewed by Dr. Laurie Lindberg, an assistant professor of English at Pikeville College. Her commentary accompanies Norman's observations.

Willis's short story, "Evenings With Porter." earned The Pikeville Review's Fiction Award for 1988.

The story moves from the Appalachian town of High Gap to New York, from an adolescent romance and personal conflict over race to an adult tryst and personal conflict over Vietnam. It was in High Gap that the narrator met Porter, a teenage boy two years older than herself. Porter's passions were football and flying. Years later she and Porter meet for the last time in New York, Porter about to leave for combat in Southeast Asia.

The Sylvia Trent Auxier Award for the best poem by a Pikeville College student went to Kelly Slone of Hazard for "Lunker.

The Pikeville Review Essay Award went to Darin Cozzens of Oklahoma State University for "Something Like a Magic Touch," a celebration of the virtues of auto mechanics and a criticism of the snobbery of those who look down their noses at them.

"Versie Sweeney's Black Lung Washing Machine," by Gayle Compton, is a look at the Sweeneys changed when they begin to receive black lung money and then electricity. They began putting on airs so "You'd never knowed they lived in a Greyhound bus, the way they was acting." Compton is a 1970 graduate of Pikeville College and is now a data processor at Whayne.

The Spring 1988 issue may be obtained at the Pikeville College bookstore or by writing: The Pikeville Review. Humanities Department, Pikeville College, Pikeville, Ky. 41501.

Beiting Leads Annual Street Preaching Tour

Rev. Ralph Beiting, a Catholic priest from Martin, just completed his annual two-week open-air preaching tour of eastern Kentucky to help kindle a spirit of ecumenism. Beiting traveled through the hills of Floyd, Martin, Powell, and Magoffin counties, by car and foot, bringing his message of brotherhood and faith to those who live in these isolated regions

Rev. Joe Muench, pastor of St. Martha's Church, also took part in the "outdoor postulate" as did Rev. Frank Osburg from Paintsville and Boyd Atherton, an Evangelist from Tulsa, Oklahoma. Muench said the tour, sponsored in conjunction with the Christian Appalachian Project, used two or three speakers at each stop that lasted about 45 minutes. The group traveled in a team of eight to ten people, singing songs and encouraging faith and hope.

Beiting, 64, is founder of the Christian Appalachian Project, a nonsectarian self-help organization dedicated to restoring the independence and pride of the chronically impoverished people of Appalachia through education, economic opportunity, employment, and a sense of community. Aided by volunteers, the Project has grown from holding summer camps for poor children in the late 1950s to a multi-faceted organization serving people of all generations in 12 eastern Kentucky counties.

The CAP founder was introduced to open-air preaching in 1946 when he spent the summer as a seminarian with a priest in Johnson county. Later he continued the practice when assigned in 1950 by the Covington Diocese to establish parishes in Garrard. Jackson, Rockcastle, and Madison

With his present work as the Project's chairman, pastor of Mt. Tabor Monastery in Martin, and missionary for the Mission Office of the Lexington Diocese, Beiting has never forsaken his love of the mountain tradition of openair preaching.

A .- Veterans may receive compensation for a pre-existing condition if the condition was aggravated during service beyond the normal progression of the disability. You should apply for compensation for any disability that might fit this category so that a determination of eligibility can be made.

Q.-Does the recent increase in maximum guarantee of VA home loans qualify me for a higher mortgage?

A.-The increase in the maximum entitlement increases the amount you can borrow without a down payment. The loan must not exceed your ability to repay and must not exceed the reasonable value of the property as determined by the appraisal.

Q.-I am a Vietram era veteran and used by VA education benefits to attend college. While attending school, I was injured in an automobile accident and under a doctor's care for almost two years, unable to continue my education. I am now able and ready to go back to school, but I cannot without financial assistance. Am I still eligible for VA education benefits?

A.-Normally a veteran must use education benefits within ten years from the date of discharge. However, the delimiting date for educational benefits may be extended if it is determined that the veteran was prevented from initiating or completing a chosen program of education because of a physical or mental disability. Physical or mental disabilities which result from the applicant's own misconduct do not qualify the person for an extension of the delimiting date. Any extension granted will be equal to the length of time that the eligible person was prevented from initiating or completing a program of education within the basic 10-year period of eligibility.

Life After Retirement:

Managing A Fixed Income

If you are like most people, you sometimes fantasize that life after retirement will be a time when you will worry only about whether you should spend the day on the golf course or take a stroll on the beach. In reality, retirement often means adjusting to a fixed income and altering one's lifestyle in ways never anticipated, says the Kentucky Society of CPAs.

To understand the ways in which retirement can radically change financial priorities, take a clear look at what retiring on a fixed income means. You may no longer have to pay commuter costs or maintain a business wardrobe, but your credit card debts, mortgage or rent payments, and utility bills are likely to continue unchanged. At the same time, your entertainment, travel, and medical bills may very well increase.

In the past, you may have counted on promotions, salary raises, or bonuses to help you beat the race with inflation or credit card balances. But once you retire, your income may grow only by occasional Social Security cost-ofliving increases. Moreover, the amount of risk you can afford to take in personal investments, such as mutual funds, generally decreases, along with the opportunity for dramatic appreciation of capital.

For the most part, living on a fixed income means accepting the limits and possibilities of the funds you have accumulated or earned during your working years. Judging by statistics of recent years, Social Security will probably be the primary source of your retirement income. The remaining funds usually come from an employer pension plan and such savings options as IRAs, Keoghs, or 401K plans.

Ultimately, retiring with financial security means handling your fixed income with intelligence and care. Start by examining your income and expenses and formulating a realistic budget. Add up what you (and your spouse, if applicable) receive from such sources as Social Security, employer pensions, IRA or Keogh benefits, dividends, and annuities. Next, total your fixed and variable expenses, such as mortgage payments, utilities, medical expenses, credit card bills, and recreation. Try to gauge which expenses may be affected by inflation and make adjustments to your budget accordingly. If you have duplicate credit cards, eliminate at

When you have an accurate picture of your financial capabilities, consider how your lifestyle works with or against your budget. Some retirees live life to the fullest and spend lavishly on travel and entertainment, without realizing that they may outlive their capital. Other retirees are exceedingly cautious, scrimping and saving whenever possible. These people face another, equally serious risk-they may never have the chance to enjoy their hard-earned savings. Try to avoid either extreme.

If, after careful consideration, you decide that your income remains insufficient for your needs, don't despair. You still have options available. Take a part-time job. You can generally earn several thousand dollars a year without affecting your Social Security payments. If you have a vacation home, consider renting it to others for at least a portion of the year. Alternatively, you can convert a garage into a rental apartment. If you are living in a home or apartment originally designed for a growing family, investigate housing alternatives, a onebedroom apartment or a condominium in a retirement community.

Although moving may seem a frightening prospect, weigh all the pros and cons before dismissing the idea. After all, moving to another city or state where the cost of living is less expensive can dramatically improve the quality of your retirement life. When contemplating the possibility of relocation, review all the financial implications of such factors as state income tax rates, utility costs, property tax, and even climate. In addition, find out if the community offers retired individuals discounts on transportation, heating oil, property taxes, or entertainment.

Another way to stretch your fixed income is by being aware of, and planning to minimize, your tax liability. Retiring usually results in a substantially lower income and, thus, lower tax rates. But don't forget that pension inome and IRA withdrawals are taxible. Take out too much money in one rear, and you may end up paying more axes than you anticipated.

If you are a middle or lower income etiree who does not itemize, you may ind some relief in tax reform. The new aw has replaced the extra personal exemption for individuals who are 65 or older, or blind, with an extra standard deduction of $750 for single individuals

Drunk Driving A National Crisis

Senator Mitch McConnell has joined the citizens of Radcliff, Kentucky, in the battle against drunk driving. McConnell sent a letter accompanying a petition from Radcliff residents that urged the President to declare drunk driving a National Crisis. The Senator also called fellow Kentuckian Gary Bauer, White House Domestic Policy Advisor to urge the White House to consider immediate action on this declaration. The petitions were presented by Sandy Golden an anti-drunk driving activist during a White House meeting

One week before the Carrollton crash, 99 Senators signed a letter to the Surgeon General requesting that drunk driving be declared a "National Crisis." Following the crash the entire Kentucky delegation signed a letter drafted by Senator Ford urging the President to "assist in resolving the national epidemic of drunk driving.

As a follow up to the previous letters. McConnell said in his letter to the President, "today you are being presented with a petition from the citizens of Radcliff to have drunk driving declared a National Crisis. I urge you to act immediately in giving the Surgeon General the authority and added responsibility so that he may take all actions necessary to bring the problem under control.

McConnell finished his letter by praising the President's efforts to control drunk driving and stated that "by banding together, under your leadership and a Surgeon General's initiative. we will win the war against drunk driving and prevent countless thousands of needless deaths and injuries due to people driving under the influence of alcohol or illegal drugs.

Jim Morton wants to help you go to college this fall

When Jim Morton was growing up in these beautiful Eastern Kentucky hills, he dreamed of going to college. He followed that dream from Montgomery County Senior High School to Morehead State University. His parents helped as much as they could, but Jim found that he needed financial assistance, a situation faced by many college students then and now.

With the encouragement and advice of MSU's student financial aid staff, Jim received the help that enabled him to stay in school and become a first generation college graduate. Today, Jim Morton is helping other young people follow in those footsteps. As MSU's director of student financial aid, he and his staff administer 10 state, federal and institutional financial assistance programs. And, just as any good neighbor would do in Eastern Kentucky, he goes that extra mile by suggesting at least 10 other ways that students can find help from

If you want to go to college this fall and are concerned that you can't afford it, Jim wants you to pick up a financial aid form from your school counselor and then call him at 783-2011. He enjoys helping students and he is good at his job,

But most of all, he remembers a young man with a dream.

HRMC's Breast Center Receives Accreditation

Highlands Regional Medical Center learned last September of a new nationwide accreditation program for mammography facilities through the American College of Radiology. An extensive process to qualify the Breast Center for accreditation began. Following efforts of several HRMC staff, including Ken Addington, Technical Director of Radiology and Susan V. Martin, Administrative Assistant, the Breast Center at HRMC was awarded certification from the American College of Radiology Mammography Accreditation Program, June 8.

The Breast Center is the first hospital-based facility in Kentucky to be accredited. Susan V. Martin, said "We feel confident in our quality of work and always strive to maintain excellence. Receiving certification from the American College Radiology Program demonstrates HRMC's desire to be the best and stay one step ahead."

The program is voluntary and primarily designed to ensure women receive optimum quality mammographic examinations. The program requirements include peer review evaluations of a facility's staff qualifications, equipment, quality control and quality assurance programs, image quality, and breast dosage. The qualification process is divided into two phases. The first is an in-depth questionnaire concerning the operational aspects of the Breast Center. Once the questionnaire is evaluated and approved phase two is begun. This phase consists of measuring the radiation dosage emitted from the mammography unit and reviewing mammograms for positioning and development technique. The results are reviewed for final approval. Once the two phases are completed and approved, a certification of accreditation is issued for a three year

Anyone needing additional information concerning Highland's Breast Center may call 886-8511 or 789-6548.

First Baptist Church Sets Cornerstone, Time Capsules

An important milestone was reached Sunday, June 19, by the First Baptist Church (Irene Cole Memorial), in Prestonsburg.

The dedication was held of the new 14,000 square foot educational annex, which allows 300 people to study God's word in Sunday School and adds a new library, kitchen and a Fellowship Hall

This was the fourth such dedication for this church. The first building, dedicated in 1910, stood on the corner of Court Street and North Lake Drive. When that building burned, a new one was erected at the present site on First Avenue. The Rev. Everett Branham. grandfather of the church's present pastor, Rev. Steve Hopkins, was the church's minister when that building was dedicated in 1947. The current sanctuary was dedicated under the leadership of the Rev. Bill Jaggers in 1972 at which time the two time capsules were placed in the cornerstone.

One capsule contained the contents of a 1947 capsule. Contents of this capsule included information about the church and Prestonsburg newspapers and magazines from January, 1947.

· The second capsule contained information from 1988 including the building program, a church directory, histories of the church, and information about Prestonsburg and Floyd County Cassette tapes of the 80th anniversary celebration, in 1987, and the morning worship, on June 19 were also included. A copy of the Bible and tracts explaining the plan of salvation were also included. "We wanted to make sure anyone finding the capsule would know how to be saved," said a committee representative.

Oneida Student Named Who's Who In Music

Emily Frances DeRossett, daughter of Mrs. Lila DeRossett, and student at Oneida Baptist Institute has been selected as one of the country's most outstanding music students by the Who's Who In Music editorial staff.

She will be included in the 1988 edition of Who's Who In Music, an annual directory of outstanding music students first published in the school year of 1974-75.

The music leader and editors of this publication have included the name of this student based on outstanding musical ability and contribution to the school's overall music program, personal growth and development through participation in musical activities, citizenship and service to the school and community.

Just the idea of suing a tobacco company because some loved one died from the dreadful cigarette habit is ridiculous, in my estimation. This is not to defend the habit or the tobacco industry, but no person forces any mortal to smoke.

agrees with some voter about a controversial issue, walks farther in the crowd, encounters a citizen who is on the other side, and agrees wholeheartedly with him! "Yes" men or women! Even worse are candidates who boast about integrity and honesty, but

The sight of children being pushed into adulthood by their parents wins the prize as an injustice. Please, Mommie, don't be guilty. The Reader's Digest had a remarkable article on this practice three or four years ago. Sadly, some failed to see it. Congratulations to parents with courage not to go with the crowd, to those who are trying hard to keep their youth in colleges near home as long as possible, because they see the dangers of sending them into the chaotic world we now have.

Favorite Loves

The good Lord comes first, with precious family next in line, toddlers included. My late father often said grandchildren are so called because the name fits perfectly. Friends rank third, some of six-seven-year standing. it's super to have them, especially those who overlook my faults. Good books and magazines are marvelous companions, superior to most TV programs I think, and flowers follow.

A special is BITS and PIECES, the unique TIMES column by former editor, Barbara Allen Heinze. She is a natural "chip" off the old block, her beloved dad, the late Norman Allen, who founded the publication in the twenties. Barbara transported those of us who are now octogenarians, back to pioneer days and slower ways by means of her entrancing word pictures.

How much water does a Kentuckian use in a day? 60 gallons according to estimates. A shower uses 5 to 10 gallons per minute. To wash dishes, 8 to 20 gallons, more if you use a dishwasher. Washing clothes uses 40 to 60 gallons. 1,500 when you water the lawn for four

There are some easy ways to conserve. Here are some suggestions from the Governor's Office:

Pay close heed to requests from your local, or from state officials, about when and how to conserve water. It will take many people following the same guidelines to have a really significant effect on water usage statewide.

Sprinkling lawns and washing vehicles may have to wait, or at least be done only under strictly controlled situations. Please follow the rules set out in your community for these water

Check the house or workplace for water leaks. Fix the leaks now. Any dripping faucet can waste up to 100 gallons of water every day. Look at faucets, shower heads, water tanks and

Take shorter showers, or run less water in the tub.

Place a waste basket near the commode, and toss trash in the basket. Every time you flush it uses about seven gallons of good water, so don't flush any trash down the drain that could go in the trash.

Fill up a plastic bottle with sand or water, fasten the top tightly and set inside the flush box of the commode. Use something that takes space, but won't fall apart in the toilet, if it is to be left for a considerable time.

If you have a habit of running water for drinking until it becomes cool, keep a jug of water in the refrigerator. Refill and return the jug to the refrigerator and you'll have cold water to drink without any waste.

Wash clothing or dishes in your appliances only when you can run a full load. Select a shorter wash cycle, or set the water level at the lowest workable

Cleaning the driveway or walks? Just use the broom and omit the water spray technique.

If you must water lawns or gardens, then follow these guidelines: Water less often, only when really needed, do it before 10 a.m., but never on windy days. Set the sprinkler more like gentle rain. Lighter sprays are apt to lose much water to evaporation. Soaker hoses are more effective than sprinklers, especially now when water is in short supply.

WIC Eligibility Income Maximums Are Raised

Beginning July 1, more low-income Kentuckians may qualify for the Special Supplemental Food Program or Women, Infants and Children (WIC), the Cabinet for Human Resources announced.

The federal government annually revises the income levels that define poverty. Because WIC eligibility is based on these figures, families with incomes near the current maximums may become eligible.

For example, the annual maximum income for a family of four increased from $20,720 to $21,553. The average increase per family size is between four and five percent.

WIC provides nutrition education and specific foods high in protein, iron and vitamins A and C to low-income pregnant women, new mothers, infants and children up to five years of age who have health problems that can be improved through better nutrition. The goal of WIC, which is funded by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, is to improve the health of children through proper nutrition.

Almost 73,000 Kentuckians now receive WIC benefits monthly, according to the state Department for Health Services. In June 1987, approximately 69,000 Kentuckians received monthly WIC benefits.

Two Kentucky Authors Exhibited At Capitol

An exhibition about two of Kentucky's finest authors is opening in the Cloakroom Gallery of the Old Capitol July 8. In conjunction with the exhibit, the Kentucky Historical Society has received a grant from the Kentucky Humanities Council to sponsor a one-day workshop on the authors. Saturday, August 27, Dr. Wade Hall, Bellarmine College, will lead a discussion and how films about Robert Penn Warren; Dr. Jim Wayne Miller, Western Kentucky University, will show the film The Dollmaker and talk about Harriette Arnow. ### Report to Kentucky

SENATOR WENDELL FORD

U.S. Senate, Washington, D.C. 20510

DROUGHT RELIEF IS FALLING SHORT

Many Kentuckians still are recovering from the devastating drought of 1983, and a repetition of that experience could prove disastrous for farm families and rural communities across our state.

As of this writing, precious little time remains for the onset of rains hat could save this year's major cash crops in Kentucky and across much of the nation. Livestock producers already are suffering severe economic loss as withering pastures become incapable of sustaining cattle, and other drought related problems worsen by the day.

If our hopes and prayers are realized, this drought will be broken before it is too late for Kentucky and many other states across the nation. Whatever happens, we will have to judge our responses to this threat against the lessons of the past. And we will have failed that test if we haven't moved as quickly as possible to mobilize a drought-relief program to avoid the bureaucratic delays and frustrations that contributed to so many of our problems in 1983.

With that in mind, I have been encouraged by the formation of the Congressional Drought Task Force that began hearings last week on a wide range of possible reactions to a continuing or recurrent drought. The task force must lose no time in evaluating the programs and resources currently available to our farming communities and determining whether emergency legislation might be needed.

I believe that some steps already taken on behalf of livestock farmers are helpful -- as far as they go. The U.S. Department of Agriculture has designated at least 90 Kentucky counties in which livestock farmers can sign up to make emergency use of hundreds of thousands of acres that normally would be off-limits under various farm

Farmers in all of the listed counties are eligible to hay and graze land that had been set aside under federal wheat and feed-grain programs. More than 70 of those counties have farmers with land in a 10-year Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) -- and, as of this writing, that land has been temporarily opened to having but not grazing.

I am a very strong supporter of our much needed conservation programs. Yet I am disturbed by the Administration's reluctance to allow emergency grazing of cattle on CRP pastures that have been withering rapidly and might not yield enough hay to justify the expense of harvesting.

Many farmers have viewed this CRP issue as an initial test of the Administration's willingness to do what is necessary on behalf of drought-ravaged farm communities. I agree with them that the Administration has fallen short. There could be no excuse for a continued ban on grazing of our CRP acreage.

With a series of weather disasters and a severe farm recession, the 1980s already have delivered far too many blows to our farmers. It is time for Kentuckians to add their voices to those being raised in an effort to make sure that our government fully understands the need for strong and timely action to ease the additional suffering that could result from prolonged drought in farm states across this nation.

Appalachian Writers Honor Denise Giardini

The Appalachian Writers Association's 1988 "Book of the Year" is Denise Giardini's Storming Heaven, and the Association's 1988 award for continuing contributions to Appalachian literature honors Tennessee author Wilma Dykeman.

Giardini's novel, set in Kentucky's coal country, previously was the cowinner of Berea College's Weatherford-Hammond Award. Dykeman is the author of Tall Woman, The Far Family, Return To The Innocent Earth, Explorations, and much more material about the Appalachian region, and is a much respected lecturer and teacher. Previous winners of the author award are Harriette Arnow, 1985; James Still, 1986; and Don West,

First place winners of the 1988 AWA writing competition were Lois Kleffman, McKee, poetry; Laurie Lindberg. Pikeville, essay; and Betty Stuart Baird, Wodestown, West Virginia, short story.

Among the speakers and readers at the AWA conference June 24-26 at Berea College were Denise Giardini, Gurney Norman, Rodger Cunningham, Sidney Farr, Sharyn McCrumb, M. Ray Allen, and John Ferguson. Almost 100 writers and students participated in the sessions.

Bill Best of Berea was elected 1988-89 President of AWA, and Bettie Sellers of Young Harris, Georgia, is the new First Vice President and 1989 Program Chair. The 1989 conference will be at Young Harris College in North Georgia.

Membership in the Appalachian Writers Association is open to anyone interested in this region's literature.

Pullium Wins Scholarship

Elaine Gearheart (from left), Julia Pullium, and Paul Gearheart, owner of Tel-Com, WPRG, and Harold Telephone Companies. Pullium is the recipient of the Elaine Ward Gearheart Scholarship.

The Harold Telephone Company recently celebrated it's Thirty-Fifth Anniversary, and, as part of that celebration, the company established the Elaine Ward Gearheart Scholarship ($2,000.00) to be awarded to the best writer or public speaker graduating from Betsy Layne High School and to be used at the college of the recipient's choice.

This year's award was presented to Julia Pullium for her excellence in writing. She had participated for three consecutive years in the production of the literary magazine Mountain Magic. This participation included writing poetry and essays, editing, evaluating others' writing and planning lay-out and design. In addition, her poetry and essays won top honors not only on the local school level but also in county-wide competition. Her poem "Sisters" received first place award in the county, and "Ocean Beauty" and "You Reap What You Sow," won fourth and fifth places. Also, her essay "The True Colors of Christmas" won second place.

Julia was among the "top ten" in her senior class, and during the Awards Day ceremony at the high school, she was presented with the 1988 English and biology awards and the Elaine Ward Gearheart Scholarship. She plans to attend the Prestonsburg Community College. Julia is the daughter of Janice Pulliam of Dana.

Sometimes, in order to show your love, you have to show restraint.

Safety seats and seatbelts save lives. They also save suffering, anguish and pain. Each year, hundreds of children not wearing seatbelts, or who are improperly restrained in safety seats are injured or killed. You should always closely follow the manufacturer's instructions for the proper use and installation of safety seats. Failure to do so can result in unnecessary injuries to your child.

BOOKS AND THINGS By: TRISHA MORRIS, Librarian Prestonsburg Community College

Home remedies and self-medication often meant life or death to people living in sparsely settled communities or in isolated cabins far from assistance or medical help. The kitchen, garden and woods were often the sole sources of medicine for emergencies as well as lingering illnesses. The following books on folk medicine are from the Hutchins Library on the Berea College campus where your author is studying Appalachian history and literature

Potions, Remedies and Old Wives Tales

By: William Bauer

If your grandmother was comparable to most rural grannies, you got camomile tea as a physic, mustard on your chest for a cough, sulphur and molasses as a tonic and a linseed poultice to draw a boil. This book traces the history of those home remedies back five thousand years. It chronicals our debt to medical folklore and lists 250 popular beliefs which are "old wives tales" -- an apple a day, carrots for 20/20 vision etc. It also has a chapter on superstitions and their origins-nail a horseshoe over your door for luck because witches are afraid of horses, but nail it so the open side is up or the luck will run out. Four leaf clovers are good luck but five leaf ones are not. An interesting book that distinguishes between tales and truths.

Folk Medicine

By: D. C. Jarvis Nature opened the first drugstore and man has been drawing from its shelves ever since. This book indexes nature's store and links animals to the picture of man's gathering of its herbs. It theorizes that our pioneer ancestors discovered the rudiments of their folk medicines in the "healing plants sought out by animals suffering from malimentary disturbances, fever and wounds." It gives equal space to the discussion of potassium, honey, iodine and kelp. In a simple, lucid style, Dr. Jarvis has set forth the beliefs and lore of folk medicine, described its practices and given his personal theories about them.

Nature's Healing Arts By: Lonelle Aikman

Pharmacognosists are those scientists who derive drugs from natural sources. Such natural wonders interest not just scientists but also growing numbers of lay people across the nation. In the city as well as the country people are looking back to traditional healing plants as sources of drugs. The author surveys the world of medicinal plants-from Sqill, a tubor-like plant found in the Mediterranean region to the foxglove plants and ginseng roots found in our country. The first chapter spotlights herbalists Kathy Cranor whose shop "Pipsissewa Potions" in Blacksburg, Virginia overflows with over 175 herbs and spices. A National Geographic publication the book overflows with colored photographs and is enhanced with a well detailed index. The pictures from around the world are as interesting as the text.

Cracklin Bread and Asfidity

By: Jack and Olivia Solomon From a book that touts itself to be a cookbook, it is hiding an entire section of folk remedies. If one can persevere past the blackberry wine, the scrapple and the pokeberry pickles one can find a collection of folk remedies for curing colic, hiccups, headaches and any other ailment one might think up.

Drugs from Plants

By: Trevor Williams Published in 1947 as part of the "Sigma Introduction to Science" series this little book is a delightful historical peek into the study of the use of plants for medicinal reasons. Beginning with the history of the recognition of these plants it goes on to discussions of quinine, penicillin, cocaine and opium and ends with a consideration of possible future developments.

American Folk Medicine

By: Clarence Meyer As every book on this subject, it is a collection of home remedies made from herbs, vegetables, fruits and roots to cure every kind of condition from bad breath to rheumatism. What makes this book different is the chapter on early American practitioners. Joe Pye was an Indian healer who promoted curing typhus fever in the colonies by copious perspiration with a brew made of the roots of a common weed still known as Joe Pye weed. Margaret Jones cured people with roots and herbs-she was hanged as a witch in Massachusetts in 1648. Aunt Prudie escaped that fate by being born later and living in Mississippi. Samuel Thompson is one of the most famous personalities in American folk medicine. And the list goes on. A good book for research into the lives of the people who practiced folk medicine.

Common and Uncommon Uses of Herbs for Healthful Living By: Richard Lucas

This book presents recorded herbal folk remedies which have been employed for centuries by the American Indians, the gypsies, the ancients, the early herbalist and countless countryfolk. Much of what we know of the Indian herbal knowledge has come to us through the remembrances of white captives. John Hunter, one of the most famous captives, wrote a book depicting many Indian remedies. With chapters on herbs used for coping with emotional stress, botanicals being investigated for anti-

Magic, Myth and Medicine

By: John Camp With chapters on "fertility and birth," "contraception and abortion" and "quacks and their cures" this book covers areas of folkslore not common to other histories. The chapter on survival of superstition puts folklore in our own backyards by pointing out that our interest in horoscopes, astrology and the occult is simply the old beliefs in a new image. American Indian Medicine

There are many recorded incidents in early history where the Indian saved the white pioneer with their knowledge of herbal medication. In 1535 Jacques Cartier and his shipmates were saved from the ravages of scurvy by the Indians and the Plymouth Pilgrims were dependent on them for knowledge of the local fauna. It is ironic that the white civilization they helped to save repaid the Indians by introducing a malady for which they had no resistance or remedy, smallpox.

Fireworks Cause Fires

This year's drought adds another potential danger in using Fourth of July fireworks-grass fires, according to Kentucky Department for Health Services safety officials.

"Anytime fireworks are used, injuries are possible," said E.P. Conyers, consumer product safety branch manager. "But with the dry grass this year, there's a very real potential for a grass fire caused by burning fireworks." Conyers recommends trying to avoid dry areas when using fireworks and having a bucket of water nearby. "Water can be used to douse fireworks that are ignited but don't go off and can be used to cool used sparklers or other hot items," he said. "It's also important to have water handy in case a small grass fire does start.

Kentucky allows certain "Class C" fireworks, which generally are nonexplosive types such as sparklers, snakes and smoke devices. Fireworks not allowed under Kentucky law include bottle rockets, missile-type rockets, Roman candles, firecrackers or any fireworks that have a loud explosion or shoot into the air.

Convers points out that all legal fireworks will be labeled with the name of the item, instructions, cautions and the name of the manufacturer. Any firework that does not have a clearly printed manufacturer's name and address and cautionary labeling is most likely illegal and should be avoided.

In Kentucky in 1987, an estimated 117 fireworks-related injuries occurred. While the most serious injuries involve illegal fireworks, permissible fireworks can be dangerous, as well.

On the heels of announcements that ficant given the highly competitive Highlands Regional Medical Center, Prestonsburg, was named recipient of multiple awards for marketing and advertising, the hospital's Cincinnati advertising agency issued a statement in praise of the institution's overall quality and performance.

'Highlands consistently surpasses many larger, urban hospitals in a number of categories beyond just marketing. Eastern Kentucky is fortunate to be served by a medical center of this caliber and it's a privilege to be associated with Highlands," stated David D. Montondo, President of Montondo-McCollister Company. Highlands' advertising agency.

In May, the Kentucky Hospital Association bestowed two first place 'Thoroughbred' Awards and two second place merit awards on Highlands. Shortly afterward, a national Gold (1st place) Award was received from Healthcare Marketing Report, a prestigious industry business publication.

Among the people who deserve the credit for translating the master plans into awarding winning programs are Administrative Assistant Susan V. Martin, Marketing Coordinator Pat Willis and PR Coordinator Kathy Rubado, along with assistant Kathy Allen," Mr. Montondo continued.

The recent awards involved work that will be familiar to many Eastern Kentucky residents. Last spring's Breast Center advertising campaign theme, "Louise dodged a real lady killer," which appeared in newspapers, on billboards, T.V. and radio throughout the region, won 1st place in KHA's total campaign category

In the direct mail category, last fall's campaign for plastic surgery also garnered a first. Both campaigns featured faces and testimonials of local residents Louise King, of Knott Counand Laura Burchett, of Johnson County respectively.

2nd place KHA awards involved a full page advocacy ad run in the Lexington Herald Leader on Highlands' economic impact, and a brochure published by Highlands' Breast Center.

The Breast Center also received a national Gold Award for the design of its logo, or emblem, depicting the silhouette of a seated women above the Breast Center title. The judging process for this award was conducted by a nationwide panel of healthcare marketing practitioners, advertising executives, marketing educators and publishers.

With more than 3100 entries from healthcare providers across the nation, Highlands' accomplishment was signi-

FAT CHANCE

According to the National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute, approximately one American adult in four has high blood cholesterol. Because of its link to heart disease, Americans have been urged to lower their blood cholesterol levels. Studies show that every one-percent reduction in blood cholesterol brings with it a two-percent reduction in the risk of coronary heart disease. The first step in this healthier direction is a dietary switch to less saturated fat. A loss of extra weight is also known to help. For people with very high levels of blood cholesterol, drug therapy may be called for. In this respect, a new recruit in the cholesterol battle has been approved as of August, 1987. Lovastatin has an inhibiting effect on the liver's ability to produce cholesterol. This new drug requires administration under a physician's guidance.

COOLEY APOTHECARY carries what you would expect to find in a well-inventoried drug store. We are very proud to be able to provide families in this area with all their pharmaceutical needs. ### The Wonders of Watermelon

From the American Institute for Cancer Research

Mother Nature knows when we need the cool, crisp sweetness of watermelon the most-right now, when midsummer's heat is on full blast. No matter how you serve it, watermelon is a celebration of all that's great about summer

The largest variety of melon, watermelons can weigh from 10 to 40 pounds, depending on type. It's somewhat difficult to determine just when they're ripe, and thumping them isn't a very accurate test. A ripe watermelon will have a good deep green to grayishgreen color and should be firm. Immature melons are usually extremely

In addition to its succulent pink flesh and deliciously sweet juice, watermelon also provides vitamins A and C, two vitamins research sponsored by the American Institute for Cancer Research has associated with lower cancer risk. And, it's a dieter's delight with just 110 calories in a four-by-eightinch wedge.

While America's favorite recipe for watermelon is slice and serve, this fruit makes an exceptional ingredient in salads, combined with fruits, vegetables, legumes, poultry and fish. Watermelon juice is a colorful base for fruit beverages, ices and sherbets.

The following recipe combines watermelon, or any other favorite melon, and additional summer fruits in a colorful, low-calorie, low-fat dish that is delicious as a dessert, a beforedinner salad, a snack, or even as part of breakfast.

P'burg All-Stars Prepare For District Tourney Play

The Prestonsburg Senior League All-Stars won't know until tonight who they play in the district tournament, but to hear Sam Huffman and Jim Sparks tell it, the opponent and not Prestonsburg is the one who should be concerned.

'We're looking pretty good," Huffman, who coaches the 14-15-year old squad, said Monday. "We should be a real good defensive team which is the key I think. If we can play good defense and our pitchers can keep us in the game we should be in good shape."

Last summer Huffman directed the 13-year-old all-stars into the final game of the district tournament before bowing out to Paintsville. Prestonsburg last year, fell twice to Paintsville in the double elimination event.

And come this weekend Prestonsburg will once again set their sights on Paintsville, one of the favorites to capture the older division.

"Paintsville is always tough," Huffman said, adding further comment to the rest of the district tournament field. 'Magoffin County always has a good team, and Martin County is always

But even with talented competition. Huffman is confident that the local squad has the ability needed for a strong tournament showing.

"We've got 14 real good players," he said. "We had 24 real good players to come out for the all-stars which made for some tough decisions.

"We saw everybody last year and I think we are in a good position to win. We should be a good defensive team and I think defense will be the key. Huffman said.

The coach also says that Prestonsburg should be a solid hitting team which will come in handy in carrying out his offensive game plan.

"We'll make contact," Huffman mentioned. "Most of the kids are good contact hitters. We'll play oldfashioned baseball. We'll move the runners along, and try to score one run an

The draw for the tournament will be held tonight and play begins Saturday afternoon, and continues next week Prestonsburg is expected to start either Brian Burke or Chris Cavins in their first game, the regular season, and according to his coach, is an effective pitcher who changes speeds and utilizes his breaking pitches well.

Cavins, a righthander, finished the regular year at 9-1. He throws hard and possesses an excellent curve ball. Both pitchers are 15.

We've got five pitchers that can start any game," Huffman said. "They can all come in and throw strikes which is the key, because at this age nobody is going to come in and blow people away. I think Brian Burke and Chris Cavins are our two best pitchers. Brian throws a natural type screw ball and Chris has a curve ball that breaks about two feet."

Huffman was quick to point out a particular game during the season when Mike Crace, a member of the allstar team went four for four with four bunt singles. He says that the bunt will be a major weapon in Prestonsburg's offensive attack.

The squad, which consists of 11 15-year olds and three 14-year olds, has five players back from last year's allstar squad that was eliminated by Martin County last year. The 14-year-old players include John Clark, who is expected to start at shortstop, probable starting catcher Kevin Hall, and Jody Wallen, who is currently battling for a spot in the outfield.

Other members of the squad are: Jason Story; Brian Center; Robbie Davis, Worthy McGuire; Timmy Lester; Tommy Poe. Dale Burchett:

and Mike Henson. Huffman, who's team won the regular season league championship. is confident in the ability of his all-star team, but no more so than is Jim Sparks in the 13-year-old squad.

"I think we'll have a good team," Sparks, coach of the 13-year-olds, said. The boys hit the ball real well. I think we'll have a good defense, and I think we'll be tough

"We've got basicly the same team they had last year so they're veteran all-star players. This is nothing new to them," Sparks said, mentioning the group that made up Prestonsburg's Little League all-stars last summer.

The 13-year-old team will play in the district tournament at Paintsville against Paintsville, Magoffin County, Morgan County, and Martin County The tournament will begin Saturday and continue next week

"I think our offense will be our strong point. Sparks said. "The boys but the ball real well. If we use them right we've got two good pitchers so we should be alright there

The biggest thing I think is for the community to get behind this team. The kids play hard and they practice hard and they deserve the support from the community

Phillip Tucker, who coached the Prestonsburg Little League All-Stars last summer, also is a coach for the 13-year-old team. Steve Stevens and Kenny Stewart are coaches on the

Floyd County Earns Split With Second Game Victory

Mark Tipton, a righthander, and Nathan Shelton, a lefthander, enjoyed success in setting down hitters, but Tipton get support and Shelton didn't as Floyd County split a double header at Chapmanville, Sunday

Tipton, a graduate of Betsy Layne, gave up eight hits in six and two thirds innings as Floyd County earned the split, defeating Chapmanville 7-4 in the second game of the twin bill

The hard throwing righthander struck out two and walked four during his evening of work. Two of the four runs were earned.

Tipton gave up two hits and two runs in the seventh inning before getting relief help from Mason Slone with two out in the final inning.

Slone, a righthander from Knott Central, retired Chris Dingess on a grounder to second, earning a save and securing the three-run victory. Floyd County improved to 9-14 while Tipton lifted his record to 2-3

Chapmanville scored their other two runs in the fifth when the first three hitters reached Tipton for singles. The second run in the inning was unearned, crossing the plate on a Kevin Webb

Webb, playing third in the second game, had earlier given Floyd County two runs, allowing them to build their lead to 5-0.

With Jeff Lovely at second and two out, Webb, who had four hits on the day, lifted a pitch high over the left field wall as FC went up by five runs. loyd County, which had only three hits off Chapmanville starter Danny Ojeda, got an unearned run in the first when Steve Miller struck out but reached first as the pitch got through catcher

Miller went to second on a passed ball, and scored when Lovely smacked a single to right center. Floyd County added unearned runs in the second and fourth, jumping in front early.

Nathan Shelton, who reached base in six of his seven at bats, walked and scored on an error in the second, and Waylon Estep walked in the fourth, stole second, and reached home on a passed ball Chapmanville, committing three errors in the first four innings, didn't exactly help themselves, and it may have been a good thing for Floyd County that

FC, struggling against a talented Ojeda managed only two hits off the hard throwing righthander through the first four innings. Ojeda struck out 12, including four in the first inning.

A Jeff Lovely first inning single, and a Nathan Shelton bunt single were the only hits Floyd County had until Webb's fifth inning blast.

After Chapmanville trimmed the lead to 5-2, FC scored two more in the sixith to add some insurance. Sheltonwalked, stole second, and after reaching third on the throw, scored on a Mark Tipton infield hit.

Two outs later Steve Miller singled and scored on a Mike McQuate double to deep centerfield. Those two runs came off reliever Mike Carroll who had came on to pitch the sixth.

Carroll, a righthander, gave up four hits in the last two innings, one less than Steve Pritchard allowed in the first game.

Pritchard, an all-state performer for Chapmanville High School in 1987, limited Floyd County to only five hits in a 4-1 opening game loss while striking out 10 in a complete game perfor-

Pritchard, a righthander who pitches for West Virginia State, walked six and hit two, but pitched out of trouble several times.

Floyd County stranded 12 runners on base, and twice left the bases loaded They had five hits off Pritchard, three coming off the bat of Kevin Webb.

Webb, showing solid signs of heating up after a slow start, had two doubles and a single in four official trips to the plate. Mason Slone and Jeff Lovely also hit safely for Floyd County.

Pritchard has drawn praise throughout the American Legion ranks, but Sunday afternoon, although he was a 4-1 winner, the big flame thrower was forced to take a back seat to a smaller. but just as effective hurler.

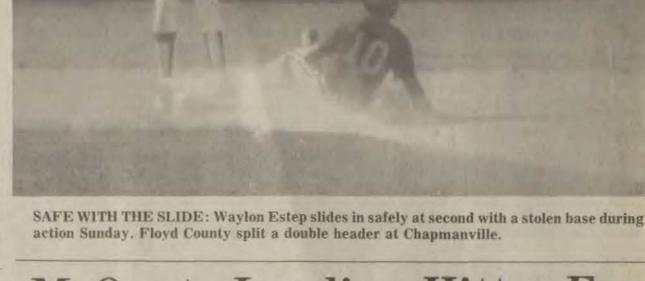

Nathan Shelton, Floyd County's starter, limited Chapmanville to only four hits and one earned run. Shelton, a graduate of Allen Central, retired the last 10 hitters he faced.

But defensive letdowns and a lack of a key hit forced the southpaw's record to 1-2. Chapmanville scored two runs. both unearned, in the first, and added another in the third to open up a 4-0 advantage.

Floyd County, which had runners on base in every inning except the first, did not score until the seventh when a Chapmanville error allowed Waylon Estep to cross the plate.

ANOTHER STRONG OUTING: Mark Tipton won his second game of the season Sunday, defeating Chapman 7-4. Tipton has not given up over three earned runs in any of his appearances this year.

McQuate Leading Hitter For Local American Legion Team They started out in two different County. Kidd, who hit over .300 last struck out five times in 43 at bats.

directions, but 23 games later Mike McQuate and Ray Collins find themselves in the same position—at the top of Floyd County's hit leader list.

McQuate, despite a sub-par showing over his last few games, leads the local American Legion squad in just about every offensive category while Collins is not far behind.

After 13 games McQuate was hitting close to 500, and despite getting only three hits in the last eight games, the speedy outfielder from McDowell maintains a 339 batting average, which leads the team.

McQuate, one of the fastest players in all of eastern Kentucky, has clubbed four homeruns, also a team high, while pacing Floyd County in runs batted in with 18. He also owns a .538 on base percentage and has scored 23 runs in 21 official games.

As a freshman McQuate hit over .400 for McDowell High School, his best year of high school baseball. McQuate. a senior to be, has been described as the best defensive out fielder in the district, and one of the top prospects in the 15th region.

Ray Collins, who will not be 16 until later this month, is second on Floyd County's offensive list, hitting 328.

Collins, a shortstop, struggled early but thanks to a seven for 18 performance in his last four games is now only 11 percentage points behind McQuate in the race for team batting

The slender infielder from Prestonsburg High School has moved up through the Floyd County lineup, and now hits second behind Mason Slone.

Collins owns a .506 on base percentage, has scored 12 runs, and his 19 hits ties him with Jeff Lovely for third in Lovely, a first baseman from Magoffin County, is hitting 306 on the summer. After a slow start Lovely, who hit over 360 for the Hornets this past year, is 16 for his last 46 plate appearances,

In addition to playing first, the versatile 16-year-old has played third, caught, and even pitched a complete game against Berea in a 5-4 losing

Lovely is third on the team with 11 runs batted in, trailing McQuate, and Tim Trusty, who has driven in 13 runs.

Floyd County, 9-14, is averaging just over six runs per game, but poor defense has led to many unearned runs, and several losses that could have been wins with solid defensive help. Although McQuate, Collins, and

Lovely are the only hitters over the .300 mark, Floyd County has enjoyed success at the plate, especially in their last six games. Despite facing some of the best pitchers in the state of Kentucky as well as West Virginia, FC has collected 38 hits in their last 32 innings. One of their hottest hitters during that stretch has been catcher Kevin Webb, a power hitter from Allen Central. Webb, who struggled early, had three hits off Steve Pritchard, a former all-state performer in West Virginia.

He also smashed his first homerun of the season in the second game Sunday, showing signs of the swing that brought him eight homeruns this past season at Allen Central Webb, one of the top catchers in the region, is hitting 261 with nine runs batted in. He has one homerun to his credit. Tony Kidd, an out fielder who has never played an inning of high school baseball, is hitting over 290 for Floyd season in Senior Babe Ruth competition, has driven in seven runs and scored nine in 41 plate appearances.

Brad Hall, another player who never had the benefit of high school baseball, has also enjoyed a productive first half of the season. Hall is hitting just over 200, but owns a .468 on base percentage. He has scored six runs, and Steve Miller, who played for Alice

Lloyd College this spring, has scored nine runs in eight games, and has a .500 on base percentage.

Mason Slone leads Floyd County in wins, posting a 3-2 mound record in six appearances. Mark Tipton is 2-3 in the pitching department. Complete pitching stats will be available next week

The Sporting Times

It is that time of the year, the time when summer league baseball takes center stage. From each and every corner of the county, teams will be battling for a chance to continue a spot on a bigger stage

From little league, to Babe Ruth, and on through American Legion baseball, tournaments will be held from now through July. But please excuse this baseball fan while he interrupts the boys of the summer in favor of a quick look at last week's NBA draft.

By now, you're familiar with who went where and why. But do you understand who were the winners, and what to look for next season.

It could be easy to go with the flow and scream about the great draft the Los Angeles Clippers enjoyed. Is that the facts, though? Can Danny Manning, Charles Smith, and Gary Grant turn that program around?

No way. Manning was good in college, but underline good and college. At Kansas, Manning did the impossible, but now with a team that has no help, he will be hard pressed to keep up.

The NBA is no place for a skinny inside player, or an outside player that shoots a jumpshot from his chest. Manning would be a valuable asset on any team, but he isn't a franchise player. Smith, a man in every sense of the word, could prove to be the better player of the two in a couple years. With him at power forward, and Manning at small forward, LA could develop a decent tandem there.

But any team is centered around their post player, maybe that's why it's called center and Rik Smits could be the best prospect in all of basketball.

At 7-4, Smits doesn't need a great deal of talent to be an effective player. He, like most rookies is two seasons away from full bloom but he will help Indiana next season.

Chicago took a center as well, nabbing 7-footer Will Perdue. The Bulls had earlier traded Charles Oakley to Washington for another 7-footer in Bill Cartwright. The two could play power forward and center, but either way, Chicago will be even tougher now that they have an inside game to go with Michael Jordan and Sam Vincent.

The Bulls stole Vincent from Boston last year to fill their hole at point guard. By trading Oakley, they also opened up the power forward spot for Horace Grant, a much quicker player who can give Chicago offensive punch at the position.

Chicago, with their trade and draft choices, could be the most improved team heading into fall camp. That's tough to say, though, when you remember how bad the Clippers were

The other LA team could actually win more games than they have in the past two years combined. But not much more can be expected from a young rookie oriented team Gary Grant will be a good point guard for them, and the Clippers also grabbed a capable shooting guard in

Tom Garrick. Rob Lock, now 6'9" instead of 6'11", will also serve as a solid inside role player. With all this talent Los Angeles looks good for the future, but even with the able bodies they gained in the draft, their efforts were overshadowed by the folks down San Antonio way. The one college player who proved to be ready to step into the professional ranks was Georgia's Willie Anderson. Anderson, at 6'7", will be bigger than forwards. He can shoot, penetrate, and rebound with the best of them. Anderson is an offensive machine, kind of like another Georgia alumni who now provides most guards, and quicker than most team highlights for Atlanta. San Antonio also got power forward Shelton Jones, who could start next year, and somehow managed to steal away guard Vernon Maxwell on the third round With Maxwell, who admitted to using drugs, and Anderson, both from the SEC, the Spurs have the brightest backcourt tandem in the NBA. They could also become the best veteran duo some day The Spurs also landed a 7-footer in Barry Sumptor, who could certainly give six quality fouls at the center position. Archie Marshall, injured the past two years at Kansas was also taken, but that was probably a personal pick by new coach Larry Brown.

Speed, quickness and size, that's what the Spurs got from last week's draft. It says here that they won the battle of draft day, but San Antonio is still far behind in the NBA war.

But the NBA is fantastic, and with Anderson and Maxwell in the game the Spurs will supply plenty of excitement for their fans. The draft provided little surprise, except that a team as good as Detroit can obtain a player as good as Fennis Dembe even though they didn't choose until the second round.

How To Analyze Bass Cover

It's a cool, beautiful late spring morning. The water's calm and the secluded cove behind the shoreline point looks like the fishiest spot on the

A half hour of untouched casts later, you're not only questioning your judgement at choosing fishing spots, but your decision to even spend the time bass fishing.

What's wrong? "Basically, there weren't any fish in the cove, afterall," explains Ken Cook, well-known member of the Evinrude Pro Staff. "Sometimes, the fishiestlooking places aren't really that fishy. An angler should learn to look at more than the water to really determine if bass are present. The ability to visually analyze bass cover before ever stopping to fish it is something Cook has learned to do well. As a former fisheries biologist for the state of Oklahoma, he spent years studying bass and the type of conditions they prefer, and he's used this knowledge to become one of the top moneywinnmers on the professional bass

The best part, however, is that visually analyzing productive bass water is easy to learn for any angler.

'The first thing is to look at more than the visible cover and casting targets, such as grass, trees, stumps or boathouses," explains Cook. "To really analyze bass cover an angler should study water clarity, baitfish activity, depth, and even the shoreline configuration.

Shorelines, for example, says Cook, can tell an angler far more than simply where the water ends. It tells the bottom composition, which is important to anglers since bass prefer hard sand or gravel rather than mud and decaying vegetation

Even the trees growing along the shoreline can help show the type of bottom. Pines grow in the sandy-type soil bass like, but oaks and other hardwoods frequently grow in moister, softer ground bass don't like.

"Irregular shorelines are nearly always more productive than straight, featureless ones," says Cook. "They provide more cover. If you see a shoreline with many little points, cuts and indentions, your chances of finding bass there are much better than if that shoreline were straight.'

Another thing a shoreline can do is provide an indication of depth and bottom configuration. A wide, flat shoreline often means the lake bottom will also be relatively flat and featureless, while a steep shoreline and bank means the water probably drops quickly into deeper depths.

Cover is always extremely important to bass, and the absence of it tends to concentrate fish around whatever cover is present. When cover is abundant, bass frequently locate around some unusual feature of that cover.

This can be an isolated patch of grass away from a larger grassbed, the point tree on a row of flooded timber, even one stump located a few feet from a field of stumps.

A basic rule concerning cover that Cook and many of the successful tournament pros use is: the thicker and more shallow the cover, the more shallow bass will be.

Water clarity and color can also tell an angler a lot about the possibility of finding bass in a spot, because it provides clues to the overall productivity of the area.

Bass anglers like water commonly described as stained, which is a mixture of greenish-brown. The green is produced by phytoplankton (microscopic plant life), and the brown comes from zooplankton (microscopic animal life). A lake must have both of these before it will ever support a healthy bass population, because they provide the basic starting point in the food

"You can actually see plankton in the water," says Cook. "They suspend in the water and look like particles of sediment or grains of sand."

Seeing baitfish activity in an area is another positive sign bass may be nearby, Cook points out, and anglers should watch for minnows whenever they ease into a new spot. Boat movement may scare minnows but keep an eye open for jumping bait trying to escape larger feeding fish.

Active baitfish, as well as bream and other species you may see, usually means you can use a faster-moving lure for bass, such as a crank bait or "Even if you don't actually see minnows, you can see signs of their presence," notes the Evinrude pro. "Egrets and herons walk the shorelines or perch on logs waiting for minnows to swim past, so whenever you see one of these birds you can guess baitfish and bass aren't far away. Inactive baitfish can tell you the bass aren't really active, either, so you should use a slower-moving lure, like a worm or

Analyzing bass cover like this is easy, notes Cook, and it becomes even easier with practice. Sometimes those fishy-looking coves do hold bass, and sometimes they don't, but by following Cook's advice, it's possible to know before ever making a cast.

SHORT SPORTS

After playing 10 consecutive games on the road, Floyd County's American Legion baseball team finally found a playing date at Allen Park, taking on Ceredo-Kenova in a double header Monday, but now it's back on the road

Floyd County, playing the first of eight straight road games, challenges Pikeville today before playing at Flatwoods Saturday and Williamson

Waylon Estep, if recovered from arm problems, is expected to start in the first game, which is scheduled to begin at 5:00. Either Nathan Shelton or Tim Trusty will start the second game. Floyd County defeated Pikeville earlier in the season, earning a 9-6 victory in a tournament at Morehead.

Saturday Floyd County plays Flatwoods in a double header that is set to begin at 1:00. Mark Tipton and Mason Slone are tentatively scheduled to go in those two games.

Sunday's double header, will begin at 2:00 and probably will feature Trusty and Shelton as Floyd County's starting FC, at home earlier in the season, split a double header with both Flatwoods and Williamson.

Diana Queen is willing to go out on a limb, but not too far in promoting the basketball camp which will be held July 11-22 at Prestonsburg High School. Obviously, with names such as Greg White, Donna Murphy, and Karen Pelphrey involved, Queen has a solid product to have confidence in.

This camp is going to continue through the years. It will continue to grow, and I don't think you'll be able to find anyone finer," she said.

'What we're doing is putting this together so the kids can afford this kind of camp," she continued. "It's a quality camp. It takes many months to put it together. It's not something we've just thrown together."

"For the money I don't think you can find any better camp. I don't want to go out on a limb and say it's the best, but you won't find any better east of Lexington.'

The camp exclusively for girls begins July 11 and the first five days are being conducted for players of grade school age. The period from July 18-22 is designed for high school

In addition to several local high school coaches, Greg White, head men's coach at Pikeville College, will take part in the camp, giving ball handling exhibitions and clinics.

Donna Murphy, Morehead State University's all-time leading scorer and rebounder, will make an appearance, as will Johnson Central and Marshall University graduate Karen

According to Queen, the camp will concentrate mainly on fundamentals, but will include combination drills and afternoon scrimmages.

She also says that improvement in girls' high school basketball is the main goal of the camp. "We want as much participation as possible in order to improve the level of girl's basketball throughout the area so it can stand on it's own."

It didn't start out exactly great for Steffe Graff, but things have a way of turning in a hurry, and they did for the young West German.

Graff, after falling 5-7 in the first set, rallied to win the final two, defeating Navratilova, Saturday in the women's finals at Wimbledon.

It was Graff's first ever Wimbledon title, and the win also enabled the 19-year-old West German to hold on to the number one ranking in the world. Graff was seeded number two in the tournament while Navratilova, winner of the last six Wimbledon women's singles, was seeded number one.

A double elimination softball tournament, sponsored by Special Olympics, will be held July 11-16. Trophies will be awarded and the entry fee is payable on the night of the draw, July 10.

For more information, or to enter the tournament team representatives may contact Mike Orem at 789-4749.

It was one of the longest matches in Wimbledon history, but Stefon Edberg didn't mind the long wait.

Edberg, in a match that was suspended Sunday due to rain, rallied from a first set loss to capture Wimbledon's men's singles championships, defeating Boris Becker 4-6, 7-6,

Reds Watch '88

Years Later Cincinnati Still Behind Dodgers In West Race

It was near the fourth of July but the Cincinnati Reds had little to celebrate. They had struggled all season, watching as Los Angeles relentlessly built a huge lead in the National League West.

The Reds were down to their last out. trailing 3-2 with two out in the bottom of the ninth. A loss would drop them 11 and one-half games behind LA.

But the fireworks starting going off, and when someone lit Hal King's fuse the seldom used catcher sent a rocket into the left field foul screen for a threerun homerun and a 5-3 victory.

Cincinnati went on to sweep the Dodgers in a double header and went on to win their division before falling to the New York Mets in the NL playoffs.

That was 15 years ago when King became an instant hero. The Big Red Machine had just started to roll, and jump started by King's blast, it rolled all the way to a division championship.

Fifteen years later the Cincinnati Reds find themselves again trailing Los Angeles by a bunch. New York is enjoying a fine year agin, and nothing has changed since 1973, at least not in the race for the NL West

Cincinnati eased into the Big Apple needing a big lift, something to the magnitude of a Hal King game winning homerun

But the only fireworks proved to be Jose Rijo's fastball, and the young righthander may have provided the Reds with exactly what they needed-a win over the Mets.

Rijo, acquired from Oakland before the season, went into the ninth inning with a shutout, but left when Dave Magaden's two-out single scored Howard Johnson.

Down went the call for John Franco, and the little lefthander came on to retire the side as Cincinnati earned a 5-1 victory, Monday night at Shea Stadium

Cincinnati, who trailed Los Angeles by 10 and one-half games before last weekend began, stayed within eight

Rijo, 9-3, limited New York to six hits on their way to handing David Cane his second loss of the season. Cane, 9-2, lost his first game since early May cinnati, an effort that may have been missing from the Reds' game plan.

All Star

But there went Kal Daniels diving for sixth as Kal Daniels scored on a balk came Eddie Milner with another diving catch to save a run. Cincinnati, it should be said, looked like they wanted

Milner, who replaced Eric Davis after he injured a leg early in the game, came off the bench to supply Cincinnati with a much needed pick-

Remember Hal King and 1973? His career has been nearly destroyed by repeated drug battles, but Monday night Eddie Milner was an all-star, doing everything in order for Cincinnati to win their fourth game in the last five.

With two out in the fourth Milner singled to score Chris Sabo, who had earlier doubled. Nick Esasky followed with a single that plated Milner, giving the Reds a 2-0 lead.

That was all Rijo needed as he worked eight and two-thirds innings of shutout baseball, allowing Cincinnati to beat the Mets for the first time in seven tries this season

The Reds, 38-43 heading into last night's game, added two runs in the

Amateur Athletes May Compete In State Games

'When Kentucky's amateur athletes arrive in Lexington next month for the Bluegrass State Games, they will be taking part in a new nationwide grassroots movement.

That movement is state games and Kentucky's fourth annual event is in the forefront of the national trend in number of participants and events.

This year about 300,000 athletes will compete in state games throughout the country, according to Douglas Arnot, president of the three-year-old Congress of State Games.

Kentucky is one of 26 states with annual state games. New York's Empire State Games, started in 1978, is the oldest and largest with about 75,000 participants. Massachusetts, Florida and Indiana rank next in number of entrants with Kentucky being in the top five in participation. About 13,000 athletes participated in last year's

This year's games, July 29-31, are expected to draw about the same number, according to Bluegrass State Games Executive Director Fred

In terms of quick growth, state games is a new phenomenon sweeping the country. In 1982 there were only three state games, New York, Florida and Massachusetts. Next year 34 states will hold games. In six to seven years virtually every state will have such games, Arnot predicts.

While the state games do serve as a feed for the Olympics, the focus of the competition is different. Arnot says. 'State games do not exist for the small number of Olympic athletes but rather the large number of local athletes," he

Most common events of the state games are track and field, volleyball, cycling, and tennis. There are some unusual competitions including tae kwon do (a form of martial arts), yachting, sailing, rugby, sail boarding and chess.

The Bluegrass State Games has 19 events including equestrian, horseshoes, croquet, and roller skating. The Bluegrass State Games also has Senior Games for persons 55 and older and games for the disabled.

Two of the popular team competitions in Kentucky are soccer and softball. About 75 teams have already signed up for soccer and 152 for softball. Entry forms can be picked up at any SuperAmerica store. Entry information is available at local sporting goods stores or by calling 1-800-722-BGSG.

Rijo's performance followed Danny Jackson's three-hit, complete game performance, Sunday as the Reds defeated Philadelphia on the road, 3-2.

Jackson, 9-4, has given up seven hits in three starts this season against the Phillies. The win equaled his total number of victories last season when he compiled a 9-18 record for the Kansas City Royals of the American

The Reds won two of the three games in Philadelphia, and captured the first of three in New York, but if they are to catch LA it will take a terrific effort from a team that hasn't proven it can put together a string of wins.

Cincinnati's longest winning streak this year has been four games. At the same time the Dodgers haven't shown signs that they are interested in giving up first place

The Reds have had seven of their eight regulars injured at one point or another this season, but other than a banged up knee on Eric Davis, they appear to be healthy. With three days off for the All-Star break, the injured could completely heal.

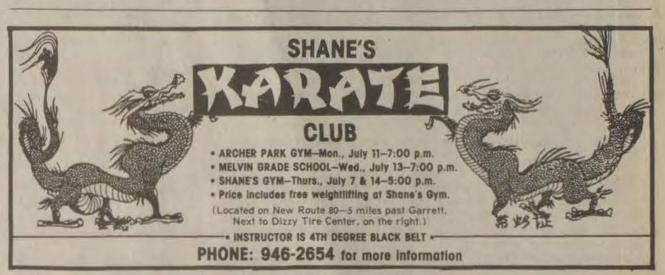

Cincinnati wraps up their series and road trip tonight in New York, playing the Mets in a 7:35 start before packing their bags for the trip home.

Philadelphia comes to town Thursday to open a four-game series. The two teams hook up in night games Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights before concluding the series with a day game Sunday

The All-Star break halts play Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. The All-Star game will be held Tuesday in Cincinnati, and regular season play will continue Thursday

TAKING A LEAD: Floyd County center fielder Mike McQuate takes a lead off second in the second game Sunday. McQuate is FC's leading hitter, and has scored 23 runs in 21 games. He has also played in every inning this summer.

12-year-old Michael Peters, of Auxier, Ky., finished his season at Paintsville Little League An All Star. For this season Mike batted 500 with 5 homeruns and 26 RBI's. He is the son of Robert and Judy Peters, of Auxier. His maternal grandparents are Claude and Phyllis McKenzie, of Auxier. His paternal grandparents are Cecilia Peters and the late Virgil C. ### Cereal, Bread Prices Should Remain Steady Grocery store prices for bread and breakfast cereals should remain steady, even in the face of the worst drought across the nation's grain belt since the Great Depression.

"The only thing that would cause a shortage at the grocery store right now is a self-fulfilling expectation of a shortage among consumers." said Lee Meyer, an economist with the University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service. "If people flock to the stores and strip the shelves of items they expect to be in short supply, they may create a shortage, and that may drive prices up in local areas, but the drought farmers are experiencing now is no basis for increased prices on grain-related foods."

The greatest risk, even with short-term exposure, is to young children and pregnant women. "Lead levels in your drinking water are likely to be highest:

-if your home or water system has lead pipes, or -if your home has copper pipes with lead solder, and

-if the home is less than five years old, or -if you have soft or acidic water, or

-if water sits in the pipes for several hours." The David Water District does not have lead service lines or other lead-containing materials in our distribution system. The water in David Water District water supply is not in violation of the current standards. The water in your own house piping may be. It is the responsibility of the customer to pay for testing for lead in their own house piping. You can reduce the possibility of consuming water with high lead concentrations by the following:

Flush cold water pipes before drinking-10-30 seconds. 2. Use only water from cold water pipes for drinking, cooking or preparing baby formula.

Lead pipes and service connections can be replaced. 4. Insist that only lead free materials be used in repairs or new plumbing. The only way to be sure of the amount of lead in your water is to have the water tested by a state certified testing laboratory. For additional information contact the Drinking Water Branch of the Kentucky Division of Water at (502) 564-3410 or David Water District at (606) 886-8508.

Lead content in Beaver Elkhorn Water, which supplies the David Water System, is less than 0.001.

Lead can occur at potentially harmful levels in tap water if the plumbing fixtures through which the water travels, including the solders and fluxes used to connect them, contain lead. The EPA has recently mandated that all newly installed plumbing materials be essentially lead-free. To find out which type of plumbing you have, look at it and perform the following simple tests: -Lead pipe is most often found in very old homes and buildings. Lead pipe is gray, relatively soft, and can be easily scratched to shine with a screwdriver, coin, or key. Some iron pipe may look like lead pipe; however, iron pipe is very hard and usually black -Copper pipe usually has a characteristic copper color. Until very recently, most copper pipe was installed using leadbased solder. Lead solder is also gray, soft, and can be scratched shiny. Copper pipe that has been soldered with lead usually contributes less lead to the water as time passes because the solder gets coated with minerals from the water. After bevery small amounts of lead to the water. -Iron, steel, and "plastic" pipe have not been associated with any health effects from lead since they contain very small amounts of lead or none, and are assembled without lead solder.

You can reduce the possibility of consuming water with high lead concentrations by following these simple precautions:

-If the water has not been used for several hours, flush the cold water pipes before using the water for human consumption. Turn on the faucet and let the water run until the water temperature cools and gets no cooler. If there has recently been major water use, such as showering, bathing, flushing toilets, or cold water laundry, flushing the pipes may take only 5-30 seconds. If there has been no recent major water use, flushing the pipes may take several minutes.

-Use only cold water for drinking, cooking, or preparing baby formula.

-If new plumbing is installed or repairs are made, insist that lead-free materials be used.

 Lead pipes and service connections can be replaced. The only way to be sure of the amount of lead in your water is to have the water tested by a state certified laboratory. Contact Beaver Elkhorn Water District or the Drinking Water Branch of the Kentucky Division of Water for information about testing.

RED HEAT (R - Tri-Star) Starring Arnold Schwarzeneg-

By J.T. YURKO

Arnold Schwarzenegger's physique brought him into the movies, but attitude, his accent and his humor have made him a screen star. He may be playing the role of the mute, muscled protagonist - the hero in "Conan the Barbar-ian," the robot killer in 'The Terminator" he does it well.

In "Red Heat" Schwarzenegger plays a differ-ent sort of robot — a nononsense soldier of the Soviet state. He plays Det Ivan Danko of the Moscow homicide squad and business is brisk nowadays. It seems that the drug problem has entered Soviet life, and Danko is doing his best to eliminate the drug dealers. One of them gets away, however, all the way to Chicago, and Schwarzenegger is sent to bring him back.

Enter Jim Belushi as Art Ridzik, Danko's counterpart in the Chicago Police Department. The key word here is "counter," as their dissimilarity the running gag in this otherwise violent police movie. Where Schwarzenegger is rigid and stern, Belushi is a wise-cracking womanizer, as if the carouser he played in "About Last Night ..." had joined the Chicago police force.

Director Walter Hill also makes the most of the contrast between the two countries, especially in police matters. Where Ridzik at least tries to hand the accused their rights, Danko is busy breaking their hands

In many ways Hill vir-tually remakes his 1982 film "48 HRS." Eddie Murphy and Nick Nolte are replaced by Schwar-zenegger and Belushi, and the pairing is similar And Hill, who staged bus chase sequences and crashes in "48 HRS.," repeats the effect here, adding a train for impact.

Schwarzenegger may set a personal record for most lines of spoken dia-logue, some of it in Russian no less. And Hill's action formula is skillful, if predictable, movie-making. At least "Red Heat" is more in tune with glasnost than the sadistic Russians seen in Rambo III.

'Sins of the Fathers' uses familiar settings, plots

By Denise Gorga

A miniseries always benefits from a dramatic historical plot, and, not surprisingly, World War II is frequently called upon. Nothing makes for chilling viewing as much as somber Nazis against a dark Berlin sky

Burt Lancaster

On Sunday, and Monday, July 11, Showtime airs "Sins of the Fathers." The twopart, four-hour miniseries focuses on the Deutzes, a family whose chemical business fueled the Nazi machine during World War II.

Burt Lancaster stars as Councillor Carl Julius Deutz, the founder of the business and the family patriarch. The hard-as-nails character is balanced by his daughter-inlaw Charlotte (Julie Christie), who, following Julius' example, heads the family empire. Also this week:

• The wonderful 1969 Western "True Grit" airs on Showtime on Sunday, July 10. Pirate-eyed John

Wayne is at his most endearing as he helps a . spunky young woman (Kim Darby) avenge her father's death. Wayne won an Oscar as Best Actor for his performance.

Every film has its flaw however, and this one has the overemotive crooning of Glen Camp-bell, But "True Grit" re-mains a humorous and touching testament to a dying genre.

· Another genre is also represented this week -animation - as The Disney Channel presents
"The Chipmunk Adven-ture" on Sunday, July 10, This month marks the first time the animated movie airs on TV.

With their female counterparts, the Chipettes, Alvin, Simon and Theodore meet spies, sheiks and sharks as they unwittingly masquerade as diamond smugglers. Cartoon settings include Bermuda, the Alps and the jungles of the Amazon.

 More kid vid: Get set for another type of fantasy as Nickelodeon premieres "Theresa at the Palace" on Sunday, July 10. The two-hour film tells the story of Princess isabella, an only child who is melancholy be-cause of the shortage of playmates at the palace Her governess soon intervenes, however, and pro-duces Theresa — a lively child from a large family who is the princess's op posite in background and personality. The lesson is that opposites comple-ment each other, making for real friendship.

Add 'Slap' to Coleman's list of former roles

By Toni Reinhold

Please settle an argument. Is the star of "The 'Slap' Maxwell Story" the same person who played opposite Jane Fonda in "On Golden Pond"? - D.B., Woodstock,

Dabney Coleman

Dabney Coleman, who played an acerbic sports-writer in "The 'Slap' Maxwell Story," also starred in the 1981 film. By the way, "Slap" was not renewed for next season by ABC

My husband and I watch Tour of Duty," and we'd like some information about Stephen Caffrey. What can you tell us? - C.D., Ossian, Ind.

Caffrey, who plays Lt. Myron Goldman on the Vietnam drama series, was born in Cleveland and raised in Chicago, and now lives in New York, where he remains a long-distance fan of the Chicago Cubs. He became involved in theater while in high school, and after graduation went into professional acting, working dinner theaters and with touring companies. He played a minor role in the TV movie "Hard Knox" (1984) and later worked for a year on "All My Children," playing Andrew Cortlandt, a role that earned him a Daytime Emmy nomination in 1986 as Best Juve nile Actor. He appeared in several off-Broadway plays in New York before traveling to Hawaii to film "Tour of Duty

In the credits for "Beryl Markham: A Shadow on the Sun," I noticed the name John Rubinstein. Was he recently in a TV series? - T.M., Athol, Mass.

Rubinstein, played writer Arthur Cane in "A Shadow on the Sun," was a regular on "Crazy Like a Fox" from 1984 to 1986. He also starred in the series 'Family' from 1976 to 1980. He is the son of Artur Rubinstein, the concert pianist.

Did Lee Meriwether play the Catwoman on "Batman"? Everyone I know says Julie Newmar played the charac-ter. - P.W., Montrose, Colo. At different times in the series, which aired from 1966 to 1968, the Catwoman was played by Meriwether, Newmar and Eartha Kitt. Meriwether played the role in the 1966 "Batman" feature film, which was made after the series debuted.

Wopat's 'Blue Skies' stresses family values

By Wendy Wallace

"I had made up my mind that I was not interested in pursuing another se-ries," says Tom Wopat. 'Just imagine returning to the same medium where I had acquired the stereotype of a good ol' boy, which I've been stuck with for some time. But when the script for 'Blue Skies' was presented to me, it seemed like a good way to escape reputation."

Tom Wopat

After a successful seven-year run as Luke Duke The Dukes of Hazzard," Wopat is now starring in his second series, "Blue Skies," which airs which airs Mondays on CBS. He plays Frank Cobb, a remarried widower who gave up a successful career in advertising to move with his children (Alyson Croft and Danny Gerard) to Eagle Falls, Ore., the small town where he grew up, to run an old sawmill founded by his father (Pat Hingle). His family now includes his new wife, Annie (Season Hubley) and her daughter, Zoe (Kim Hauser) himself back in this small town," Wopat says.

"There was something about the small town that Wopat he really enjoyed. It was important for him to bring his children back to it.

"'Blue Skies' stresses small-town and family values - the family stick ing together and being true to each other," he adds. "It's very topical, in the sense that a lot of people are reassessing the importance of family. treats the subject with a real reverence and deals with it realistically at the same time.

Wopat, who was born in Lodi, Wisc., began singing and acting in high-school musicals and enrolled at the University of Wisconsin to study music. He left college to play with a rock band, but returned after a year and a half on the road. A trek to New York in 1977 led to roles in off-Broadway productions of "A Bistro Car," "The Rob-Bridegroom" "Oklahoma." The character of Luke in "The Dukes "Oklahoma." of Hazzard," which made Wopat a star in 1979, was his first television role.

The 1987 TV movie
"Christmas Comes to Willow Creek," which reunited Wopat and "Dukes" co-John Schneider, marked Wopat's first role as a father. "Blue Skies" is his second try. "Although it seems a little strange to me, I can look around and see that it's not that far out of line," he says. "It's not anything that I've chosen to do - those are the parts that are being offered. I guess I'm looking like a dad these days.

In memory of Ann Ousley, who passed from this life into eternity, June 30,

Mommy,

When you raised your tiny little arm toward heaven, I knew then we had no time for goodbye. And when the last breath left you I knew you was no longer in pain but at rest. It was as if Jesus himself took hold of your out stretched hand and led you into that promise land.

know now that your small frail body no longer needs help because you stand by the Great Masters' side. It's been one year Mom, since you went away but I can remember as if it was yesterday. Your presence is felt in every room at home and even in the place that you worked at the hospital. Mom, our love for you lives on in our heart and as long as your memory is with us you are not gone far from us. But we know you are at rest with Jesus and suffer no more.

Sadly missed and never forgotten. Your daughter, Kay, sisters, brother and grandchildren.

Combined Disabilities Greater For Arthritics

Arthritis notably increases the level of physical disability when it is added to other chronic diseases a person may have. Also, people with arthritis have much higher levels of physical disability than people without arthritis, even though they show few signs of social limitations, according to new research presented this week in Houston at the National Scientific Meeting of the Arthritis Health Professions Association (AHPA), the health professional section of the Arthritis Foundation.

The research involved comparing levels of physical and social disability among people with arthritis to people without arthritis based on the National Health Interview Survey. Physical disability referred to items such as lack of strength or motion. Social disability referred to items such as dressing oneself, getting to the bathroom or using the phone.

Results of the study indicate that on virtually all items of personal care activities, household management and physical functioning, people with arthritis report more difficulty than people without arthritis. For example, 24 percent of the people with arthritis who were sampled have trouble walking while only 8 percent of the people without arthritis have trouble. Despite the physical limitation, people with arthritis still score well in completing social tasks.

"The two groups of people differed the most in their levels of basic museuloskeletal function rather than in problems doing social tasks," said Lois Verbrugge, Ph.D., associate research scientist at the University of Michigan and leader of the study

"The results indicate that arthritis has a distinctive impact on physical functioning, but it does not as adversely affect a person socially. People with arthritis find ways around joint pain and stiffness to get daily tasks done," Verbrugge said.

Also found in the study was that when a person with some form of chronic disease also had arthritis, the level of disability rose significantly beyond the level that would normally be expected if the conditions existed independently. This may indicate that a high disability for a person with arthritis is not solely due to the arthritis, but is a result of a combination with other chronic diseases often present in people arthritis most often affects.

Follow-up research will include how the level of disability among people with arthritis changes as the disease progresses.

The Arthritis Health Professions Association, the health professional section of the Arthritis Foundation, is composed of nurses, physical and occupational therapists, physicians and other health professionals interested in issues of arthritis care. The Arthritis Foundation is the only national volunteer health agency seeking the causes, cures, preventions and treatments for the more than 100 forms of arthritisrelated diseases.

Agencies To Share Alzheimer's Grants

Gov. Wallace G. Wilkinson recently said that the state will assist 32 senior citizens agencies in providing temporary care for victims of Alzheimer's Disease and other Kentuckians whose abilities to take care of themselves have been disrupted by age or poor health. The governor announced the grants totaling $814,521 in Somerset during his Capitol To The Counties tour through Kentucky's Fifth Congressional District.

The funding from the Cabinet for Human Resources will enable four existing Alzheimer's Respite Care programs to continue operation, while supporting the establishment of seven additional programs. The grants for adult day care and adult day health care will assist 21 existing agencies across the Commonwealth.

"We'll provide $302,008 so that the Alzheimer's respite centers can allow already overburdened family members or other caregivers a few hours a week to get out of the home and catch up on their personal matters," Wilkinson said. "Another $512,513 will open the doors to similar services for other frail elderly citizens who need supervision for short periods of time during the day in approved adult day care or licensed medical adult day health care programs.

'Maintaining the family and the lives of Kentucky's senior citizens is no less important than improving the educational standards for our children, and this funding shows our commitment to those ends," the governor said. The grants were awarded to successful agencies applying to the Division of Aging Services in the cabinet's Department for Social Services.

MANDATORY NOTICE BY ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY FOR ALL WATER SYSTEMS

PERTAINING TO LEAD IN DRINKING WATER "The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) sets drinking water standards and has determined that lead is a health concern at certain levels of exposure. There is currently a standard of 0.050 parts per million (ppm). Based on new health information, EPA is likely to lower this standard significantly.

"Part of the purpose of this notice is to inform you of the potential adverse health effects of lead. This is being done even though your water may not be in violation of the cur-

"EPA and others are concerned about lead in drinking water. Too much lead in the human body can cause serious damage to the brain, kidneys, nervous system, and red blood cells. The greatest risk, even with short-term exposure, is to young children and pregnant women. "Lead levels in your drinking water are likely to be highest:

-if your home or water system has lead pipes, or

-if your home has copper pipes with lead solder, and -if the home is less than five years old, or

-if you have soft or acidic water, or -if water sits in the pipes for several hours."

The Martin Water Works does not have lead service lines or other lead-containing materials in our distribution system. The water in Martin Water Works water supply is not in violation of the current standards. The water in your own house piping may be. It is the responsibility of the customer to pay for testing for lead in their own house piping. You can reduce the possibility of consuming water with high lead concentrations by the following: 1. Flush cold water pipes before drinking-10-30 seconds. 2. Use only water from cold water pipes for drinking, cooking or preparing baby formula.

4. Insist that only lead free materials be used in repairs or new plumbing. The only way to be sure of the amount of lead in your water is to have the water tested by a state certified testing laboratory. For additional information contact the Drink-

Revised GED Test Has Essay Question at PCC

A new version of the General Educational Development (GED) Test includes an essay question to evaluate examinee's ability to organize and present a written response to a topic of general interest to adults, the American Council on Education's GED Testing Service reported recently.

The GED Test qualifies those who pass the test to receive a high school equivalency credential. In 1987, more than 700,000 people took the GED Tests; more than 480,000 examinees passed and qualified for an equivalency credential. Since 1971, the GED Testing Program has enabled more than six million adults to obtain formal recognition of their educational development

The essay question tests the ability of examinees to organize a written response to a topic of general interest. Examinees receive a score that combines results from the essay and multiple choice portion of the writing skills test. Two readers will score each essay; if their scores differ by more than one point, a third reader will score the essay as well

An essay question was added to the test in response to educators' belief that the GED Tests should demand more high-level thinking and problemsolving skills, to reflect skills needed in the world of work.

Beginning August 1 the revised GED Test will be administered at Prestonsburg Community College the second Monday and the last Saturday of each month. Since seating is limited, applicants are to register in advance by calling Prestonsburg Community College prior to the test date.

For more information regarding the GED Exam, please contact Brenda C. Music, Counselor/Financial Aid Coordinator, at 886-3863.

This handsome foursome have a very strong need for nurturance and firm limits in an adoptive home. When they visit, each child brings a gift for every sibling-usually something they made or one of their own toys. However, they will compete with each other-both positively and negatively-for adult attention and attention from each other.

The potential for these children is great. Are you the family with the key to their future? If so please call the Special Needs Adoption Program at 1-800-432-9346 or the Department for Social Services office.

myriad of past problems that have yielded the current one," said Jerry Skees, University of Kentucky agricultural economist whose specialty is rural economic systems.

Although labor is abundant in most rural communities, skilled labor is scarce. Manufacturers look at the supply of skilled labor, as well as other factors, when they decide to site a plant, he said.

Other considerations include the quality of life in the area. And although rural communities score strongly on a number of dimensions, one of the more limiting factors is the education system, he said. needs attention if rural Southern communities are to enjoy a higher standard of living," said Louis Swanson, University of Kentucky rural sociologist who studies rural communities. Education, he said, is responsible for a number of other variables that have implications for rural communities. It enables workers to become skilled; it allows the community to develop leaders who can "get things going"; and it opens up the community to new ideas and new ways of adapting to the larger context, Swanson said. Rural Southern communities generally are deficient in education; the region has a 15 percent higher illiteracy rate than the rest of the

Estimates are that 80 percent of the unemployed in some Southern states can not be retrained for jobs because of their low educational attainment, he

"Clearly, education must become a priority if rural economies are to survive." Skees said.

The reason that rural Southern communities are deficient in education, Swanson said, is perhaps the same as why education is necessary for rural development: education makes change happen more quickly.

"Education promotes new ideas that can disrupt the established social order. Local leaders who are not in step with the new ideas soon become displaced," Swanson said.

Some of the most rancorous conflicts within small, rural communities have been fought over issues of education, including who is to be educated, who will educate and what will be taught, Swanson said.

Improvements in education must precede any other development plans if they are to succeed. Those improvements must link elementary. secondary and higher education with adult educational opportunities as well, Skees said.

"Unless leaders of Southern rural communities take steps soon to improve their educational system, they will continue to lose their best and brightest young people to the cities of the South," said Swanson.

Governor And Officials Will Discuss Drought

Gov. Wallace G. Wilkinson, state officials, mayors, judges and water company representatives will meet in Frankfort Monday, July 11, to discuss actions to lessen the impact of the drought on Kentuckians. The meeting will be held at the Farnham Dudgeon

'We are taking meaningful steps to inform local officials and bring them up to date on what we are doing to protect the quality and quantity of the water we have," says Gov. Wilkinson.

The Governor declared a statewide water warning on June 17. Following a meeting of the Governor's Drought Awareness Team on Tuesday, it was announced that five communities have adopted mandatory conservation measures and fifteen others are under voluntary cutbacks. At the July 11 meeting in Frankfort, officials will discuss how to manage water demand during periods of shortage and how to locate and utilize safe alternate water

Mayors, county judge-executives and water system managers are in possession of a State Water Shortage Response Plan developed by the Kentucky Division of Water. The plan was devised to help communities avoid water shortage emergencies and the social and economic costs associated

"This drought is affecting every community in Kentucky in some way, and I feel it is extremely important for state and local officials to plan together the best use of the water we have,' Gov. Wilkinson added. "The July 11 meeting will provide the latest information about supplies around the Commonwealth and will update local officials on appropriate management techniques and assistance.

State officials will also be available following the meeting for specific information and assistance.

The Governor has also directed state agencies to strictly adhere to local water conservation directives and, in Frankfort, lawn and landscaping irrigation at the Capitol and washing state vehicles have been substantially
