Board Selects Hager As New Superintendent

By Tim Sizemore

Pledging to make the Floyd county School District the best in Kentucky, David native Ronald Hager, was sworn in as Superintendent of the Floyd county school system last Wednesday.

"I appreciate the Board of Education and the public for placing confidence in me," Hager said of his elevation to the top position in the system. The new Superintendent said that the cooperation of the board, citizens, parents, teachers, and business leaders will be needed to obtain the goal of excellence. Hager said that his office will always be open to any suggestions and was quick to emphasize that the schools are "for the children."

Bids were accepted by the board to begin work repairing the roof at Allen Central High School. B&R Contractors of Lexington won the contract to do the work for $129,968.00, even though they were second in the bidding. The reason the firm was chosen was the completion date which the Board specified had to be finished in 30 days before the beginning of the 1988-89 school year. The lowest bidder said that it would take 75 days to complete the project.

Allen Central may also be getting lights for their football field, if the money is available. Superintendent Hager recommended that the lighting be advertised to accept bidders and that the prices submitted in the bids be good for at least 120 days.

Prestonsburg Architect Randy Burchett was chosen by the board to make a safety inspection of the schools to determine if they were safe for occupancy in the fall. The board also approved the installation of a diesel engine to pump water to Betsy Layne High school in order to supply the school's water needs and to operate the sprinkler system there.

In other routine matters, the new

Superintendent told the board that Floyd county had one of the best writer's programs in the state and he felt that along with the gifted education program it was one of the most vital programs in the school system. The board agreed to apply for the necessary funding for the school year 88-89.

Those transferred in the school system were, Gary Frazier from principal at McDowell High School to assistant Superintendent of Instruction; Gene Davis from principal at Betsy Layne High School to principal at Prater Elementary; Cosetta Newsome whose position as visiting teacher was eliminated from supervisor; Frankie Francis, from supervisor to director of buildings and grounds; Bobby Hall, from counselor at McDowell High School to principal; Ray Brackett, principal of Betsy Layne High School; Billie J. Hall, from teacher at Martin (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

MOMENT OF TRIUMPH, as the new Superintendent of Floyd County Schools, Ronald Hager, beams with gratitude at the board and general public as they applaud his swearing in by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley.

Fireworks In Floyd Start Forest Fires

By Joe Porter

The sweltering heat hasn't helped the state Division of Forestry, nor have 4th of July celebrations. This week forest fires—some blamed on fireworks—have raged in Floyd county.

District Forest Manager Steve Brackett reported that a fire started July 5 on Campbell's Branch, kept leaping fire control lines, and burned through the week, consuming a total of 200 acres. Five and six man teams, led by Mike Bevin and Mark Hooks, battled the blaze. "While that seems like a lot of land, it could have burned 2,500 acres if it hadn't been brought under control," Brackett said. The forest manager's investigation so far points to fireworks as the cause.

A two acre track of land at Drift was set ablaze on July 3 as a result of "botle rockets." And on July 5, a fire started behind Burton Church Hall at Bypro Junction and burned 50 acres. A fire that started Friday at Dick's Creek took a 16 man team, 10 with the Corps (See Story No. 2, Page 4)

Prestonsburg City Council Settles Hobert's Tax Suit

By Joe Porter

In a special meeting Thursday the Prestonsburg City Council voted 5-2 to reimburse occupational taxes to employees of Hobert's Pizzeria. The action was prompted by a judgement handed down by Circuit Court Judge Hollie Conley in favor of the employees who had filed suit against the city.

The suit stemmed from an attempt in 1983 by the city of Prestonsburg to incorporate Lancer up to the four-way stop at Ky. 1428 and Route 3. In 1984 Hazel Rorrer, owner of the building that Hobert's Pizzeria is located in, sued the city over the issue of incorporation. Conley made a ruling in that case that Rorrer's property is outside the city's limits, but no judgement was issued. Later Hobert Bowens and 27 of his employees initiated a suit to recoup taxes deducted from their pay in 1984 and 1985.

The plaintiffs alleged that the business is located outside the city, and therefore, they should not have been required to pay an occupational tax. As evidence, they introduced a map of the city showing the business to be outside the city's boundaries and presented a copy of the Circuit Court's finding in the suit by Rorrer that had challenged the annexation. Conley's judgment means the city owes the employees $4,615.22 plus court costs of $122.75.

City Attorney Larry D. Brown said that Judge Conley ruled on an issue of law and not on an issue of fact, which waived the city's right to a jury trial. "As opposed to going through a costly appeals process we're going to reimburse those employees," Brown said. "The city didn't really lose anything. We withheld those taxes and now we're just going to give them back."

Yet Brown had hoped to recover an offsetting amount for city services rendered to Hobert's business in that two year period. But the Judge concluded that, "insufficient evidence had been presented to allow the defendant an offset for the value of any city services performed outside the city limits." John David Preston of Paintsville represented Hobert's.

Councilors William B. Callihan and Danny H. Hamilton voted against accepting the judgement. "If they were not in the city then those employees shouldn't have to pay an occupational tax," Callihan said Monday. "But I think we should have a comeback legally against the proprietor, and I (See Story No. 4, Page 4)

Drought Summitt Draws Floyd County Leaders

Floyd County Executive John M. Stumbo and Prestonsburg Utilities superintendent Bill H. Howard attended the Frankfort Drought Management Meeting Monday. The statewide meeting of 500 local leaders and water officials was addressed by Governor Wallace Wilkinson.

The purpose of the meeting was to exchange information about the drought and discuss ways of managing the scarcity of water. "It was very informative and educational," said Howard. State experts spoke on water management, weather, and agricultural problems caused by the drought.

"You're here today to gain as much knowledge as possible about the drought," Governor Wilkinson told the gathering. "Your presence demonstrates a clear commitment to the best water management practices that you as local officials can bring to bear on this situation. You are the first line of defense in the battle to preserve an adequate healthy supply of drinking water."

Rainfall in the last two days has raised the level of the river .25 of a foot and provided some relief, but the drought is predicted to continue right into the spring 1989, according to Howard.

On Monday afternoon Judge Executive John M. Stumbo and Prestonsburg Mayor Ann R. Latta issued the following joint statement.

Floyd county and Prestonsburg are in the midst of a nationwide and statewide drought situation. Our local water supplies at this time are at an extremely serious level, but not yet at a critical level.

We are continuing to keep a very close watch on the river level and on water consumption through all of the water districts and commissions which serve Floyd county. We feel that at this point, we can avoid mandatory controls on water usage if everyone will voluntarily make every effort to conserve water while the drought situation continues.

The following measures are suggestions for saving water. We urge all Floyd countians to voluntarily adopt these and any other water saving practices that will help us avoid more serious curtailment of water usage. Please do your part to save water.

1. Don't wash cars or vehicles.
2. Don't use private swimming pools (use causes water loss which must be refilled).
3. Wash full loads of clothes or dishes in automatic machines.
4. Don't use water sprinklers (too much water is lost in the air) and never leave a sprinkler running overnight.
5. Do use buckets to water gardens, so you can apply a measureable amount.
6. Do use soaker hoses to water gardens, but don't leave them and forget them.
7. Recycle water—dishwater, laundry water, and other "waste waters" are good for gardens. Soap will not harm vegetables or flowers, and will keep bugs away. (Excessive chlorine may be harmful to plants.)

Chaney Named Editor

Anne Chaney, a former long time resident of Eastern Kentucky will assume duties as Editor of the Floyd County Times Monday, July 18th, according to Publisher Marty Backus.

Backus said he felt very fortunate to find someone qualified as Anne, and a native Eastern Kentuckian to boot. "Anne and I worked together in Pikeville, and I am very much aware of what she can do. That's why I went all the way to Arkansas to bring her back home."

Chaney, 26, will return to the area from Crossett, Arkansas where she has served for two years as editor of the Ashley News Observer. She has also been employed as editor of the Donaldsonville Chief in Donaldsonville Louisiana, and as Composing room manager of the Appalachian News Express in Pikeville. She attended Morehead State University, studying journalism, and is a graduate of Millard High School in Pike County. Prior to attending college, she worked in a variety of other capacities at the News Express.

Crowned Miss Kentucky

Miss Mikka Lynn Darby, daughter of Bill Jack Darby, of Prestonsburg, and Tamara Holbrook, of Salyersville, was crowned Miss Kentucky, Saturday night at the Miss Kentucky Pageant held at McCauley Theatre in Louisville. She represented Pike county as Miss East Kentucky.

Her unusual talent routine, a sword which stayed balanced on her head while she performed a mideastern belly dancing act, brought the audience to its feet. She has been receiving training in the art of belly dancing for the past five years in Lexington.

Miss Darby, 19, of Salyersville, competed in the Miss Kentucky contest last year as Miss Magoffin county but failed to place as a finalist.

The Prestonsburg Community College sophomore received as her prizes, a four year scholarship which she will use to continue her studies in special education, the use of a new car for one year and a $3,000 wardrobe allowance. She is a member of the Cow Creek Free Will Baptist Church, here, and a graduate of Prestonsburg High School. She hopes to later become a teacher in Floyd county, specializing in learning disabilities.

Miss Darby is now preparing for her competition in the Miss America pageant scheduled September 10 in Atlantic City, New Jersey.

New Science Building Foreseen at PC College

By Tim Sizemore

A new science building may soon be in the works for Prestonsburg Community College if the dreams of area educators and civic leaders come true.

Dr. Henry Campbell, President of Prestonsburg Community College, says that the overcrowding of students and faculty has become critical. Campbell feels confident that the people of the Big Sandy Valley will support efforts to raise the needed $194,800. "We hope to raise the money by August 4th" Campbell said and added that "after the 4th we want to be able to go to the architect."

Warrant Brought Against Howell

By Joe Porter

A warrant was brought against William D. Howell, of 103 Burning Fork, Pikeville. The warrant, charging him with assault in the 4th degree and criminal mischief in the 3rd degree, stemmed from a shooting incident June 26 at the home of Sue Milligan in Briarwood Addition, Prestonsburg.

The criminal complaint states that Howell intentionally beat Milligan unconscious with his fists causing her physical injury. It further states that Howell busted Milligan's door and destroyed her answering machine.

Milligan contends that the .22 caliber revolver fired at Howell was used in self-defense and that the bullet that accidentally struck him in the leg had ricocheted off the concrete driveway. Milligan said that she later had to be treated at Highlands Regional Medical Center for multiple bruises.

The warrant also contained a bond restriction, "the defendant shall have no contact with the affiant either at the affiant's home or any public place whatsoever."

Floyd County Deputy Sheriff George Hale served Howell, and a money bond of $4,000 was set by District Court Judge Harold Stumbo. Howell has been ordered to appear August 3 in District Court to answer the charges.

Civic activist Chalmer Frazier thinks there would be no trouble raising the necessary funding. "I have all the confidence in the world, because we must have the new building in order to meet the needs of the young people of our area." He further explained, "if we don't do this, we will have the traumatic experience of turning people away from the college in the next two years."

Academic Dean Robert E. Allen also stressed the jam packed conditions at the learning institute. "A new building would alleviate the overcrowding especially in the science labs that were opened in 1964. Also there is a need for faculty office space." Allen went on to say that although the new arts complex is nearly complete, it contains only five classrooms and no new faculty offices.

John Herald, Dean of Students at P.C.C., says that a new facility will lead to new programs. "The new building would make space available for a Dental Hygiene program, now because of lack of space we can't even start new programs."

According to Robert Allen, the college has an alumni of over 25,000 and students from a five county area attend the college.

Dr. Charles T. Wethington, Chancellor of the Community College system feels that a new science building will help bring industrial interest in the area. "It will considerably upgrade the facilities and make the college much more appealing to prospective industries because of a strong science and technology area."

President of the First Commonwealth Bank of Prestonsburg, Burl Wells Spurlock, feels confident the business community of the area will show a vigorous interest to see that the building becomes a reality. "I think that the business commitment will be strong because business people realize that education is a vital part of our community. It brings a lot of attention to our area and with that will be economic development."

Hospital Completes Development Program

Our Lady of the Way Hospital's management completed a nine-session development program Thursday, June 23, with a module on legal issues taught by Pam Robinette, a Pike county lawyer and legal counselor for Pikeville Methodist Hospital. The program began March 3 and has featured a variety of speakers and topics.

According to Our Lady of the Way Hospital's Education Director, Naewana Nickles, who developed the program in conjunction with the staff of Prestonsburg Community College's Continuing Education Department, the decision to sponsor such a program came from three perspectives.

"First of all," said Nickles, "last year's strategic planning process showed a need for enhancing communication, improving productivity and expressing our value system. Secondly, the Sisters of Charity Health Care Systems, Inc. had just hired Maureen Maxfield to develop a values-based leadership program and our first session, led by her, became the 'pilot project' for a system-wide program. Thirdly, we had a new administration... The program seemed an excellent way to give the hospital a united thrust."

"If we're committed to education and quality leadership, then our leaders need to be the best they can be," continued Nickles. "That entails continuous upgrading through education."

At the end of our strategic plan outline," she added, "are the words 'continuing improvement, again, again and again.' The modules were designed with continued improvement in mind."

Nickles said a combination of internal and external forces has brought turbulence to the healthcare industry.

"The healthcare field dictates that we need to continue to strive to be the very best managers to survive," she said.

The program's other modules were

Governor Approves DARE Continuation

Gov. Wallace G. Wilkinson has announced that Project DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) an anti-drug program for juveniles is being continued. The program has sworn police officers visiting public and private elementary schools educating children about the dangers of drugs. Grants totaling more than $630,000 have just been awarded to Lexington/Fayette Urban County Government, Department of Police and the Kentucky State Police.

Gov. Wilkinson said the state of Kentucky is making available $267,024 for the project. Lexington/Fayette county is contributing $79,055 and when combined with federal grants, the amount will come to $630,000.

The Lexington Program, which was a pilot program for Kentucky patterned after a California program, is in its third year. The Kentucky State Police DARE program is in its second year.

The message the officers take to the young people focuses on four major areas: it provides accurate information about alcohol and drugs; teaches students decision-making skills; shows how to resist peer pressure; and, gives them ideas for alternatives to drug uses.

Justice Cabinet Secretary W. Michael Troop said of the DARE program, "It is a good program in that it gets to the children early...so they can learn to cope with the problem as well as learn to say no."

The Kentucky State Police award will provide training for 108 local police officers with training classes to be held at facilities of the University of Louisville, also among other things, the grant will provide classroom materials for use in the elementary schools.

The grant to Lexington/Fayette County Government will enable the existing program to expand. It will provide two training classes for local police officers and will provide funds for developing a junior high pilot program.

"Drug education is one of the most important things we do," says Gov. Wilkinson. "I have always said that one way to improve education is to get the drugs out and discipline back in our schools."

Operation Green Sweep Cleans Out Marijuana

By Tim Sizemore

The weed war is on in Floyd county as Sheriff's Deputies have already netted a total of 218 marijuana plants this month and plan to try to eradicate the illegal crop with operation Green Sweep.

The Floyd County Sheriff's Department with assistance from the Kentucky State Police, have had a fairly successful year despite the drought conditions that have plagued the mountains. According to Deputy George Hale the growers have become more clever and have at times resorted to booby traps to protect their pot crops.

The plants have ranged in size from two feet high to six feet and Deputy Hale attributes the smallness of the plants to the fact that Marijuana needs a lot of water. Most of the illegal weed has been found in isolated areas and the search has proved a difficult and often frustrating job according to deputies.

The Sheriff says that he and his deputies have been trying to educate the public about what growing marijuana looks like and he says that it has led to several arrests.

Sheriff Hale points out that as of July 15th a second offense for marijuana constitutes a felony which is punishable by a fine; imprisonment or both.

Sheriff Henry C. Hale pledged last month to make an effort to stop drug growing and traffic in the county.

of Engineers, to bring under control, 150 acres were lost. "Someone evidently went in there and started three different fires; they were fairly close together," Brackett said. Also, two fires, one on Saturday and one on Sunday, at Melvin, destroyed 5¼ acres.

Once a forest fire has started the firefighters don't try to put it out, but rather, work to contain it. Using firebreaks, they cut—control lines—paths four to six feet wide around the fire so it doesn't spread farther. According to Brackett, they usually cut the lines above the fire so it can't hop the line when burning timber falls over.

Typically, the fire season is over by May 15, but drought conditions along with human carelessness has lengthened the season for the Division of Forestry. Unlike during the fire season, people are now permitted to burn before 4:30 p.m., but Brackett urges caution. He recommends three rules: pile and clear what you're burning, stay with the fire until it is completely out, and advise adjacent landowners of your intention to burn before doing so.

Students To Name New Space Shuttle In Nat'l Competition

Students in kindergarten through 12th grade across the United States are invited to participate in a national competition to name a new Space Shuttle orbiter for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

Interested parties can obtain an Announcement of Opportunity by contacting the Council of Chief State School Officers in Washington, D.C., which is administering the program for NASA. School faculty members may request Orbiter-Naming Program Entry Packets by calling (202) 783-5109 or (202) 783-5113, or by writing:

NASA Orbiter-Naming Program, Council of Chief State Officers, 400 North Capitol Street, N.W., Suite 379, Washington, D.C. 20001.

Faculty members must provide their name, the name of their school and the address to which they would like the packet sent.

To enter, elementary and secondary school students will form teams and research a name for the orbiter. Each team, under the guidance of a school faculty member who will serve as a classroom project to support and justify the name selected. The name proposed must be the name of a sea vessel used in research or exploration.

There will be two entry divisions: Division I will include kindergarten through 6th grade and Division II, 7th through 12th grades. Orbiter-naming projects must be completed during the fall semester, and entries must be postmarked by Dec. 31, 1988. Students in public and nonpublic schools are eligible.

Winners from each division will be named at the state level in March 1989. NASA will announce the national winners in each division and the orbiter's name in May 1989.

Representatives of the national winning teams will receive an expense-paid trip to a NASA-related event, and a School Involvement Program will be conducted at the two schools.

The new orbiter, currently designated OV 105, is being built to replace the Challenger and is scheduled to be completed in 1991.

DROUGHT HUMOR

Proof positive that the drought has been suffered long enough is the story now making the rounds through the staff here courtesy of Carl Hall and Jimmy Goble:

Seems that the drought is so bad that two trees were overheard fighting over a dog.

DOWN AND OUT, BUT NOT LICKED YET

The cause of the disagreement has been lost through the years, but the lesson learned from the battle has not been forgotten.

The combatants were young lads, brothers, with the oldest being the smallest physically. In the heat of the argument, mere words were not enough. Pushing and shoving became intense. The wrestling continued until both were exhausted and the older was knocked to the ground.

As he glared up at the younger, brawnier brother who had him pinned to the dirt, he heartily exclaimed, "Give up yet?"

NEW YORK, NEW YORK

July brings plenty of sunshine and lots of visitors to eastern Kentucky. The beauty that abounds amongst our hills, the warm hospitality offered through a handshake and the twinkling eyes of an offbeat character as he spouts his southern twang are lures attracting visitors from all areas. However, one New York visitor offered a rare sight to residents here this week.

The late model vehicle parked in front of a local restaurant here, bore not only New York license plates but also a shaggy Alf attached to the front grillwork.

Alf was complete with a beach-comber shirt, sunglasses and a pizza bread stick in his mouth. A silk carnation like those found in restaurant bud vases protruded above his head. A miniature pound puppy was also climbing the antenna. A California Raisin may even now be surfing the roads as a hood ornament.

Light and Right Meals at Highlands

Highlands Regional Medical Center, in response to a more health conscious society, recently introduced Light and Right meals to the area. Light and Right frozen dinners, products of Baxter Healthcare Corporation, were designed by health care experts for persons with diabetes, high blood pressure, high cholesterol, special dietary restrictions, and those concerned with good nutrition. The meals are healthy because they are low in cholesterol, sodium, fat and calories.

Cholesterol, fat and other substances are major contributors to Atherosclerosis (hardening of the arteries). These fatty deposits build up in the artery walls causing them to narrow, blocking blood flow, resulting in loss of oxygen to the heart. Without oxygen, the heart muscle weakens, bringing on chest pains, heart attacks or even death. Atherosclerosis is a slow progressive disease that can start very early in life. High blood cholesterol along with high blood pressure and cigarette smoking represent three main contributors to coronary heart disease, all of which can be self-controlled.

Eating properly is the greatest controlling factor effecting the blood cholesterol level. To eat nutritionally balanced meals one should avoid food containing large amounts of sugar, fat, saturated fat, cholesterol and sodium. Citizens of Eastern Kentucky should be concerned with cholesterol levels because many long-standing cooking traditions involve the use of lard, which is very high in cholesterol. Whenever possible, one should substitute safflower, corn or olive oil for lard. Also, a variety of foods with adequate supplies of starch and fiber should be eaten. All fifteen varieties of Light and Right meals are well balanced, quick meals, with 1 starch, 2 lean meats and 1 vegetable.

Today, time seems to be the most important controlling factor in our lives. Everyone seems to be constantly on the go and never able to accomplish all the things planned for a particular day. Due to this fact, many people have poor eating habits. When proper foods are not eaten the risk of obesity, hypertension, cancer and cardiovascular diseases increase. Therefore, if one wants to start a healthier eating pattern consume more fruits, vegetables, lowfat dairy products, whole grain breads and cereals while limiting red meats and avoiding foods with lots of sugar, fat, cholesterol and sodium.

Light and Right frozen meals were developed by health care experts and registered dietitians at leading hospitals across the U.S. for today's fast pace society requiring nutritionally balanced meals. The dinners are distributed only through healthcare facilities and can be purchased at Highlands Regional Medical Center's Dietary Department every day from 7:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. If you would like additional information on Light and Right meals call 886-8511 or 789-6548.

Fiscal Court Hears Woes, Accepts Bids

By Tim Sizemore

Residents of Emma appeared before the July meeting of the Floyd County Fiscal Court to air fears that the 10 ton weight limit placed on their road by the court may be lifted because of a projected coal processing plant.

Pat Arnett, a spokesperson for the group said a rumor had been circulating that Bill Steel and Associates would try to have the weight limit taken off the road in order to begin operation of their coal processing plant. Arnett said that although the court had agreed to the ten ton weight limit, no signs as yet have been posted.

Another problem to plague the court concerned health and life insurance for county employees. Central Benefits National of Columbus, Ohio, bid on the insurance but were told that they would have to wait until November, when bids were accepted. The Judge told Central Benefits representative Jerry Case, that presently Hall and Clark Insurance had the contract and that their agreement did not expire until November. The Judge told the Insurance Representative at that time, the court would be glad to accept their bid. Case took issue at the Judges statement saying the bids had been advertised in the paper, to which the judge replied that there must have been a mistake.

Another complaint to air before the court concerned Foster Porter, a Bucks Branch resident who wished to have a road taken out of the county road system. Porter said that the road which leads to the Porter Cemetery has recently been dug around by the Prestonsburg water system workers and he feels that his land has been damaged in the digging. Judge Stumbo told Porter that the water lines had been run on the state right of way and it was a long procedure to have a road taken out of the county system.

Bids were accepted by the court on materials and supplies for the county, but only three bids were accepted at the meeting with C&P Reclamation at Allen, receiving the bid on galvanized pipe and Mountain Enterprises and Adams Construction receiving the contract for stone and blacktop.

League Expresses Thanks

I would like to take this opportunity to express my appreciation to all those who helped make the Beaver Creek Little League Tournament a success this year. Don Daniels of Allen Central High School has showed us what can be done when you combine ideas and sweat and get a community involved in a project. The new Charles Martin Little League Park at Allen Central is probably the best Park in Eastern Kentucky. The Floyd County Fiscal Court did much of the work on this field and we certainly appreciate the efforts of Dude Hagens.

The host team for the tournament was the Maytown Mets. Their coach Jim Moore and assistants Tim Steffey, Bob Baldrige, and Lowell Martin were always there doing things that needed to be done in getting the field ready for play. Stanton Osborne and Ranaldo Frasure also put in many hours. These men and their wives showed us a spirit of giving that is needed in every community in Floyd county.

Patsy Gearheart supervised the concession stand for all twenty-two games. She sacrificed a lot of time and energy. We appreciate all that she did in making the tournament a financial success. Some others who helped in many ways were Steve Jenkins, Mary Jenkins, Barbara Bevins, Bill Gearheart, Dale Hall, Danny Hansford, and Edward Ray Moore.

The umpires for the tournament were James Collins, Steve Allen, Todd Duff, Rex Cecil, and Rady Martin. These young men were great and showed a lot of class in doing their first tournament.

I want to congratulate the Drift Giants and the Wayland Dodgers for finishing first and second in the tournament. The other ten teams also played great baseball and showed good sportsmanship throughout the tournament.

To the coaches who spent so many hours with these kids sacrificing your time and money, there is not enough good things to say about you. For all these kids and their parents... Thanks!

"A Good Deed Repayed"

Our news headlines, usually are about trouble and heartache.

But on C.B.S. evening news on Friday July 1, it reported something good for a change. It showed farmers in N. Carolina loading hay onto large trucks for the drought stricken midwest.

One farmer said it gave him a good feeling inside to be able to give of what he had, to those in need. He also had brought his small children along to help, so they could experience the joy of helping others.

It was just two years ago (1986) that the midwest and Ky. farmers had sent hay to N.C. during their drought.

This should be a lesson to us all, when we give, give as unto the Lord, for we never know when we might be on the other end of giving.

Parkinson's Help

I'm writing this on behalf of the millions of Americans, including myself, suffering from Parkinson's Disease. Few realize our frustrated and often alone feeling.

In the search for answers I see many developments, including recent news of brain surgery. But too often the media ignores other advances. I was thrilled and overjoyed to learn of support offered by Parkinson Research Institute, P.O. Box 409, Winona, Tx. 75792. They provide free help and hope I never knew existed.

All Americans should avail themselves of the opportunity to learn more about this widely known but little understood disease.

"Monorail"—A Space Age (Spaced Out), Idea

I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate Representative Gregory Stumbo, on such innovative ideas for mass transportation in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky.

Representative Stumbo, stated he was on vacation at Disney World, and conceived these ideas while riding the monorail train. His proposals were to take the unemployed from the mountains of Eastern Kentucky, and transport them to Lexington, via a "monorail," for employment.

Such creative plans could be used to carry the unemployed from the Right Beaver Section of Floyd County to the Left Beaver Section of Floyd County, (Garrett, Ky. to Minnie, Ky.).

Again, congratulations "Gregory" for this "spaced out," idea. But come on, really didn't you get a little help from "Goofey" down there at Disney World with these ideas of Monorails and roads from Right to Left Beaver in Floyd County.

Legislation Still Needed To Begin State Lottery

"Shall Section 226 of the Constitution be amended to provide that the General Assembly may establish a Kentucky state lottery; may establish a state lottery to be conducted in cooperation with other states; and that any lottery so established shall be operated by or on behalf of the Commonwealth of Kentucky?"

That is the full wording of a constitutional amendment Kentucky voters will either accept or reject at the polls this November.

As proponents of the amendment point out, many Kentuckians cross state lines, several bordering states have lotteries, to purchase their tickets. But that hasn't always been the case. The current constitution, written in 1891 and the fourth in Kentucky history, is the only one specifically prohibiting a lottery.

Indeed, for much of the 19th Century lotteries were an accepted method of raising money for various public and private projects throughout the state. The 1812 General Assembly authorized creation of a lottery to raise money to build a church in Frankfort. Other lottery-funded projects included a hospital in Fayette county, a medical college at Transylvania University, a seminary in Warren county and funds for the Louisville Free Public Library.

The practice was not unique to Kentucky. Lotteries flourished nationwide.

However, the demise of lotteries in the late 19th Century can be traced directly to abuses by many private lottery entrepreneurs, who consistently provided prizes of inferior quality—or, frequently, skipped town prior to the supposed drawing date.

Public outcries against these abuses resulted in state legislatures taking action to prohibit lotteries in their respective states. Kentuckians, in accepting the redrawn constitution of 1891, specifically outlawed lotteries in the state. One year later, the Louisiana Legislature voted to end that state's lottery, which was the last one operating in America.

Federal law also played an important role in ending lotteries prior to the turn of the century. Legislation prohibiting both the interstate sale of lottery tickets and the use of the U.S. Postal Service for mailing tickets was upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court in 1903.

Throughout the first half of the century, there were no state lotteries. In 1964, a state with no income tax—New Hampshire—became the first to approve a modern lottery. And recent years have seen a steady growth in the number of states conducting some form of lottery.

Currently 24 states and the District of Columbia operate lotteries to raise funds for a variety of government purposes. Florida is the most recent addition to the list, having started up lottery operations in January of this year.

A bill to allow a state lottery here has been introduced in every session of the General Assembly since 1970, with the sole exception of 1978. However, prior to the passage of the proposed amendment this year, only once did the proposal come up for a vote in both chambers.

In 1980, a lottery measure passed the Senate 23-13 but was defeated 55-36 in the House of Representatives. Constitutional amendments must pass by a three-fifths majority to be placed on the ballot, thereby requiring at least 60 votes in the 100-member House.

A constitutional amendment becomes effective upon voter approval unless an effective date is included in the proposal. All the current amendment does is remove the prohibition against lotteries; it does not require that the state have a lottery, nor does it spell out what form the lottery might take.

Should voters decide to proceed with the lottery, the Legislature would have to pass legislation specifying the organization, structure and procedures to be followed. Legislation to implement a constitutional amendment may be passed in either a regular or special session, and the governor has promised to call an immediate special session if the measure is approved in November.

Realistic estimates of just how much money Kentucky can expect to realize from a lottery are difficult to arrive at, because games and types of lotteries vary widely from state to state. This makes any interstate lottery-proceeds comparison marginally relevant, at best.

Scientific Games, a lottery-supply company that collects lottery data, has said that, in 1985, lottery states realized a per-capita net income of about $37.50. Multiplying this figure by the Kentucky population of 3.6 million yields a figure of a little over $137 million dollars.

However, Kentucky's per-capita income tends toward the bottom of the heap nationally, so it is considered unlikely by many experts that revenues would be that high. In comparing Kentucky with states of comparable per-capita incomes, the revenue picture is far bleaker. Two years ago, Maine netted only $3.67 per person from its lottery, while Vermont claimed $2.40. West Virginia, which may be the most comparable state demographically and culturally, netted $13.58. (All figures are from 1986, the latest totals available.)

Taking another tack—looking at states with populations about the same as Kentucky's—produces wildly varying figures. Colorado's per-capita net income was only $10, while Connecticut, Maryland and Washington report figures of $46.50, $58.14 and $12.07 per person, respectively.

The disparity of these figures shows how difficult it is to make any firm revenue projection for a Kentucky lottery. And, as Scientific Games has pointed out, there is no reliable formula for practicing revenues from a yet-to-be-established lottery.

Pizzano Honored At Picnic

Over 150 persons, including state government officials, representatives from the offices of Senator Wendell Ford, Senator Mitch McConnell and Congressman Harold Rogers, school superintendents, presidents of eastern Kentucky colleges, and others who have been involved in educational efforts in Kentucky's Fifth and Seventh Congressional Districts, attended a picnic event sponsored by Forward in the Fifth at Levi Jackson State Park, June 30, to honor Winnie Pizzano, federal co-chair of the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) from Washington, D.C. The event was held to thank Pizzano for her efforts in providing ARC support for educational endeavors in eastern Kentucky.

Al Smith of Lexington, a former ARC co-chairman, was master of ceremonies and introduced Pizzano to the crowd. Smith pointed out that in the past three years Pizzano has approved over $2.5 million for more than two dozen dropout prevention programs in the 5th and 7th congressional districts.

Speakers included Wayne Cornett of the alternative school at London; two of Cornett's students, Debbie Wagers and Don Pennington; and Eddie Jones, president of the Laurel County Educational Forum, the Forward in the Fifth Local Affiliate organization in London, who thanked Pizzano for her efforts and affirmed that many positive results have been realized from programs that have been funded by ARC.

JoAnne James, London, chairman of the Forward in the Fifth Executive Committee, said that Pizzano had allocated $100,000 to Forward in the Fifth programs over the past two years, making possible the appointment of an Executive Director, Rona Roberts, a native of Monticello in the Fifth Congressional District. James introduced Roberts, a former Peace Corps Volunteer, who has a doctorate in organizational communications. Roberts, a management consultant whose clients have included The Prichard Committee for Academic Excellence, said she is beginning a tour of the district to meet members of the 25 affiliates of Forward in the Fifth in the district's 27 counties. She will be based at Forward in the Fifth's office at the Mountain Association for Community Economic Development (MACED) at Berea.

Joyce Leaving Mud Creek Clinic After Ten Years

By Joe Porter

Selfless is a good word to describe Ellen Joyce, M.D. Though Eula Hall and the other staff at Mud Creek Clinic call her dedicated and professional and caring. But if you ask her patients they would probably just say loved.

Joyce—a Family Physician—is leaving Mud Creek Clinic after ten years of service. "It's a sad day," said Eula Hall, the clinic's founder, on Friday, Joyce's last day of work. "I can't tell you in words all this lady has done. She does things other doctors wouldn't do. She's always been involved in the needs of the people in the community."

It was the summer of 1978 when Joyce first came to Mud Creek; she had just then finished a three-year residency in Family Practice at Montefiore Hospital in Bronx, New York and was looking for a job. "I wanted a community with the same philosophy of health care as mine," said Joyce, "that included a structure in place, that was egalitarian, and where health care was one of many concerns of the staff." She joined the clinic as a volunteer, and for the first three years, was an employee of the National Health Service Corps. She has since served as the clinic's medical director from 1979-83 and from 1987-88.

Joyce is moving to Louisville because her husband, Ron Marstin, a former reporter and editor for the Floyd County Times and teacher at Prestonsburg Community College, will be starting law school at the University of Louisville in August. The Marstins live in Banner; they have three children: Daniel, Chris, and Beverly. Joyce will be working for Immediate Care in Louisville and be affiliated with Norton Hospital.

Now 46, Joyce was born in Watertown, Massachusetts, attended Siena College in Memphis, Tennessee and Tufts University Medical School in Boston. It was at Montefiore, with its emphasis on social medicine—treating patients in the context of their families and community—where Joyce became more aware of the need to deliver primary care to the culturally and economically disadvantaged. "I wanted to be well trained in state of the art medicine," said Joyce, "and it gave me a social consciousness in addition to the technical tools needed by a family physician."

Having trained in Pediatrics, Internal Medicine, and Obstetrics, Joyce came to Mud Creek Clinic well prepared and with a clear motive in mind. "I felt the people here probably weren't getting the best medical care and deserved it," said Joyce. "I wanted to put health care where the people were, rather than have them travel to it. When I first got here I met a lot of people who hadn't seen a doctor except in a crisis medical situation. Some were afraid of doctors because they associated them with trauma and tragedy."

Joyce, who treats her hospitalized patients at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, is a member of the Floyd County Medical Society, the Kentucky Academy of Family Physicians, the Kentucky Chapter of the American Medical Association, and Physician's Forum. Also, she worked on staff support for Alcoholics Anonymous, Al-anon, Parents for Disabled Children, and the Big Sandy Spouse Abuse Center.

Joyce knows how easy it is to create dependency and be patronizing in a physician/patient relationship. Instead, she considers the patient to be one of the planners for their own health problems. "I'm their medical consultant," said Joyce, "but they are the one in charge, and it is their responsibility to make their own decisions and be responsible for their own health."

On an average day Joyce sees about 18 or 20 patients plus psychiatric consults. She will spend anywhere from 15 minutes to 45 minutes with a patient, or an hour, depending on the difficulty of the diagnosis and needs of the patient. 20 percent of her patients she refers to specialists usually in Pike and Floyd counties. "I try to keep patients out of the hospital," said Joyce. "One, because of the cost, and two, because it's dangerous to be in a hospital. The benefits must outweigh the risks before I admit someone. And people do better at home, even if they need support services like a home nurse."

While a medical specialist is geared toward procedure, a Family Physician, Joyce believes, has more time to answer questions and do things like make house calls. Besides the normal physical problems, she also screens her patients for psychological and emotional problems; for example, she's alert to whether a patient may be suffering from depression. When she treats children she inquires about how they're doing in school and looks for learning disabilities, such as a speech defect; if the student needs to see a therapist or have specialized care, Joyce will see to it. She is also alert to hearing and vision impairment. Joyce is interested in the whole person. To Dr. Joyce, health is mind and body. Health is doing well in school; health is liking your job and contributing to society. Health is being a good parent, a good spouse.

Don Laferty, Board Chairman of Mud Creek Community Health Corporation, sums up the reason for her success. "The reason she's loved by patients and staff alike is because all her efforts go into making people feel better about themselves," Laferty said. He also credits her for her leadership and ability to generate enthusiasm among the staff and attract other service oriented people to the clinic from different areas of the county. "She's always searching and seeking new programs, better ways to serve the people," said Hall. "She's always recruited the best people."

Recently, the Mud Creek Complex was named the Hall-Joyce Community Center after its founder and to commemorate Joyce's contribution. "She has consistently provided medical services, and because of that consistency, the clinic has had stability; we've been able to plan and develop. It's gained momentum because of her," Laferty said.

"I have a lot of feelings about leaving," said Joyce. "I've enjoyed working with Eula and all the people here, but I hope my leaving will show them that they have a facility that they can continue to develop. If they settle for what's given them, it will dry up. There has to be continued input."

Joyce will be missed by the people she has worked with and everyone who knows her, especially her patients; for some are vowing to travel all the way to Louisville to be doctored by her. Two hundred miles just to see a doctor? Hard to believe? Not if you talk to these people; for they're her patients, and they're the ones who call her loved.

Atty. General Files Suit Against Two Health Spas

Responding to numerous complaints, Attorney General Fred Cowan's Consumer Protection Division has filed suit against Louisville's two Kelly Lyn Figure Spas, which were closed in December of last year, for violations of the state's Health Spa Act and Consumer Protection Act. The lawsuit, filed in Jefferson Circuit Court, charges the spas with continuing to sell long-term memberships after they knew or should have known that the spas would soon be closed. "My office has heard from more than 75 very-angry consumers who spent over $11,000 for memberships that are now essentially worthless," said Cowan.

According to the Attorney General, a new Kentucky law will protect consumers who have purchased long-term memberships in the event the spa goes out of business. Under the health spa law which takes effect July 15th, health spas must register and file a bond with the Attorney General's Office. Cowan noted that under the new law, each of the two Kelly Lyn spas in Louisville would have been required to have a $50,000 bond, guaranteeing immediate refunds for members with long-term contracts. Spas that allow monthly or "pay-as-you-go" memberships, are not required to have bonds.

The new law clearly defines a consumer's right to cancel a health spa membership and provides a formula for figuring refunds in the event of cancellation. Significantly, the consumer's cancellation rights are protected even when the health spa contract is assigned to a third party, such as a finance company. "This law provides badly needed protection for consumers pursuing improved health and fitness and my office will vigorously monitor and enforce these new requirements," said Cowan.

The Attorney General's lawsuit names Kelly Lyn Figure Spa of Topeka, Inc., the corporation that owned the two health spas, and Robert E. and Linda A. Boots, both residents of Tulsa, Oklahoma, who "actively participated" in the spas' operations. The spas, located at 463 Whittington Parkway and at Dixie Manor Shopping Center, were only open four months.

The lawsuit seeks refunds for the members, civil penalties in the amount of $2,000.00 per membership sold, and a permanent injunction prohibiting the defendants from opening a new spa in Kentucky until the refunds and penalties have been paid.

Martin Hospital Offers Neurotrauma Workshop

Our Lady of the Way Hospital will sponsor a workshop, Neurotrauma: Initial Management and Stabilization for nurses Friday, July 22, at May Lodge in Jenny Wiley State Park.

The course should be especially beneficial to licensed practical nurses and registered nurses who work in the emergency department of a hospital. It is approved by the Kentucky Board of Nursing for five contact hours.

Robert Wallace, RN, Trauma Nurse Coordinator for Cabell Huntington Hospital is the workshop instructor. He will focus on the initial assessment and management of patients with head and spinal injuries. He will help participants use nursing diagnosis to develop care plans and will present current treatments of head injuries and experimental therapies for spinal cord injuries. He will also define the role of the nurse when caring for a patient who has experienced trauma to the nervous system.

Participants must pre-register by July 19. To pre-register, contact Naewana Nickles at 285-3909 or write Education Department, Our Lady of the Way Hospital, P.O. Box 910, Martin, Ky. 41649.

Knott County Is Eligible For Aid

The United States Department of Agriculture has announced that its county ASC Committees are now authorized to declare their counties eligible for aid under the Emergency Feed Program and the Emergency Feed Assistance Program. The Knott County ASC Committee has declared Knott county eligible for these two programs.

The purpose of the Emergency Feed Program (EFP) is to provide assistance to eligible livestock owners by sharing the cost for feed for their livestock when this feed must be purchased in quantities above normal. The Emergency Feed Assistance Program will make available Government owned grain to livestock producers adversely affected by the drought. The CCC-owned grain will be sold to farmers at 75% of the county loan rate for the commodity.

Livestock producers are encouraged to contact their local ASCS Office for further information. The phone number in Hindman is 785-5402.

KFTC Advocating Protections For Small Landowners & Farmers

Kentuckians For The Commonwealth says it will closely monitor the state's implementation of a court ruling requiring the collection of property taxes on unmined coal to ensure that adequate protections are provided for small landowners and farmers.

Franklin Circuit Judge William Graham ruled July 5 that the law prohibiting the collection of taxes on unmined coal property was unconstitutional. He ordered the Revenue Cabinet to submit to him a plan on how it will implement the tax by July 15.

A March ruling by the Kentucky Supreme Court declared that state property taxes should also be collected on unmined coal property.

"We plan to evaluate the Revenue Cabinet's plan carefully to make sure that protections are included for small landowners and farmers who still own the minerals under their land but have no intention of mining them," said KFTC Executive Committee member Sidney Cornett.

KFTC advocates a classification system for valuing unmined mineral property that would keep assessments on minerals beneath land used for

"Our goal is that when you profit, you pay," said Cornett. "We don't feel that landowners who might own 50 or 100 acres and the minerals underneath, who are not in the mining business and who have no intention of profiting from the ownership of the minerals, should face the same taxes as a coal company actively leasing or mining its coal."

KFTC asked the 1988 General Assembly to approve legislation to provide such protections to small landowners and farmers, but lawmakers refused.

"We feel that the Revenue Cabinet has the authority to administratively adopt regulations which will provide these protections," Cornett added. "We believe that the state will cooperate with our request, but if not, we will pursue these protections with more court action and in the 1990 General Assembly if we have to."

Health Officials Warn Heat Stress Endangers Even Healthy Kentuckians

Officials of the Cabinet for Human Resources today called upon all Kentuckians to take special precautions against heat stress in the wake of several days of temperatures exceeding 100 degrees.

"It doesn't matter how healthy or how young you are, when the thermometer is reaching the high 90s and 100-plus-degrees, everyone must respect the potential danger and use common sense to avoid heat-related illnesses," said Human Resources Secretary Harry J. Cowherd, M.D.

Cowherd, himself a practicing physician for more than three decades, urged Kentuckians to react to the extreme ly hot weather with the same caution they would exercise during blizzard conditions.

"Some people feel, 'Well, a little sweat never hurt anyone,' or 'I'm in good health, so I can still stretch myself despite the heat,'" he said. "But air heated to around 100 degrees can have an effect on the seemingly healthy jogger just as it can to the senior citizen in or out of the house."

Cowherd especially recommends that Kentuckians who use electric fans to cool their homes take other steps in periods of extreme outside temperatures.

"Fans don't cool the air, they merely move it around," he said. "In fact, when a fan circulates 90 or 100-degree air, that can be even more deadly than no air movement because it simply speeds up the body's evaporative process."

"Anyone using fans in this heat should wrap wet sheets or towels around the head and shoulders and then let the fans blow over these cooled materials."

Michael Moser, M.D., of the cabinet's Department for Health Services, said that individuals can succumb to heat exhaustion or possibly heat stroke, especially when high temperatures combine with high humidity.

Those most at risk during Kentucky's current heat wave are the elderly who live alone and cannot afford to cool their homes, people with heart or lung problems and those who work or otherwise physically exert themselves outside.

Moser urges Kentuckians who know an elderly person who lives alone to look in on the individual daily to make sure the person is all right. Elderly people who cannot afford to cool their homes can be taken to places such as senior citizens centers, shopping malls, heat respite centers or other air conditioned places, he said.

People on medication for high blood pressure and heart trouble or other chronic conditions should check with their physicians to see if the prescriptions should be modified, Moser said. Some medications can increase the loss of body fluids, increasing the possibility of dehydration during periods of hot weather.

Those who work outside all day should use common sense precautions, he said. Wear loose, cool clothing—as far as individual jobs allow. Take frequent breaks in a cool place. Drink plenty of liquids, but not alcoholic beverages, which can increase urination and lead to dehydration.

Children, as well, should be cautious when outdoors in the midday sun.

"Never leave a child, or a pet, alone in a closed automobile—even for a short time," Moser said. "Outside play or sports activities should be curtailed and broken up with intermittent rest periods."

Health officials suggest that people who jog, play tennis, bicycle or engage in other types of strenuous outdoors exercise do so early in the morning before heat and humidity have climbed to dangerous levels.

"Everyone should remember to drink plenty of liquids and to use common sense both outdoors and indoors," Moser said. "A healthy respect of Mother Nature, either in the cold or hot, is important."

Air Lift Distributes Hay To Drought Areas

Jefferson County Judge/Executive Harvey I. Sloane Friday announced an emergency airlift of hay for drought-stricken farmers in Kentucky.

Three hundred tons of Oregon hay has been purchased by the state of Kentucky, according to Sloane, and will be flown to Louisville without charge by United Parcel Service.

"The situation for our state's farmers has reached a critical stage," said Sloane. "Without extraordinary help like this, we're looking at a major—if not fatal—setback for an important industry."

Kentucky Agriculture Commissioner Ward "Butch" Burnette joined Sloane and UPS officials in explaining the details of the "Hay Lift." Burnette said that the state will distribute the hay as soon as it arrives at Standiford Field.

"These same Kentucky farmers who are now getting help are the same ones who stepped in and helped other farmers when they were hit with a drought in 1986," said Burnette.

The hay will be brought by Oregon farmers to Portland International Airport. There it is being containerized and picked up by UPS 747s. Each plane will carry about 20 tons of hay.

Burnette said that the Kentucky National Guard will take the hay to distribution points throughout the state: Jefferson County, Murray, Glasgow, Owensboro, Elizabethtown, Maysville, Frankfort, and designated areas in Pulaski and Clark counties.

The hay will be sold to farmers for about $80 to $90 per ton.

Burnette added that more hay from Oregon and Pennsylvania will be trucked and shipped by rail, a slower process than the air lift. He said that more hay will be needed later this year if the drought worsens and to replace the winter hay being used now.

NATURAL JUICE AND FRUIT DRINKS... Compared with pure juices, how nutritious are those new fruit-juice drinks? Good Housekeeping's September issue reports that natural, 100% fruit juices like orange and grapefruit have no added sugar, flavorings, or preservatives. They're naturally high in vitamin C, folic acid, and potassium. Pure apple and pineapple juice provide few vitamins unless they're fortified. Fruit drinks—punches, citrus blends—containing 50 or as little as 10% real juices have added water, sweeteners, and sometimes vitamin C; they are equal in nutrient content.

Limited Emergency Cooling Help Available To Eligible Kentuckians

Low-income Kentuckians facing health hazards from this summer's scorching heat may receive some relief soon through a half-million dollars in support to the state's 23 community action agencies.

Gov. Wallace G. Wilkinson announced that the Emergency Summer Aid Program will provide $500,000 to the regional agencies to purchase fans, buy and/or repair air conditioners or pay utility bills for people whose health is affected or whose lives are endangered by the summer weather.

"Kentuckians who can't afford to cool their homes are in danger," Wilkinson said, "and the usually hottest weeks of the summer are yet to come."

"We're fortunate to have an usual opportunity to access some funds right at the start of the budget year, and I hope this grant will help avert some serious or perhaps fatal heat-related health situations," he said.

Wilkinson also called upon Kentucky businesses selling air conditioners or fans to join the state and act upon the needs of health-threatened Kentuckians.

"Fans or air conditioners, whether one or a dozen, donated to the community action agencies means helping more people and perhaps saving a life," the governor said.

Wilkinson said the Cabinet for Human Resources will use unobligated funds from last winter's heating aid program and a portion of the state's energy assistance trust fund to finance the summer cooling program.

Human Resources Secretary Harry J. Cowherd, M.D., said the eligibility standards will be similar to those used in considering applications for the annual winter heating assistance program, with one exception.

"A heat-related medical condition of some member of the household must be verified in writing by a doctor or a registered nurse," Cowherd said. "By limiting the program to health or life threatening situations, we hope to help those most in danger and stretch the assistance as far as it can go."

A total of $315,000 is being distributed to the community action agencies to provide immediate relief to eligible persons whose health is affected by the heat. The money will be allocated based upon the number of poverty-level households in each agency's service area.

Another $135,000 will be held by the Kentucky Association of Community Action as a contingency fund to assist households in life-threatening situations after the individual agency allocations are obligated. The grant also includes $50,000 to cover operating expenses by the various agencies.

The bulk of the emergency funding—$419,000—comes from the state's Low-Income Energy Assistance Trust Fund. "Since this is the first year Kentucky has budgeted state-funded HEAP benefits, it's the first time we've had new funds available for a summer emergency," Cowherd said. The remaining support for the program comes from unobligated funds from the 1987-88 HEAP program.

The type and amount of cooling aid needed will be determined locally by the CAAs. "Benefits will be the minimum amount necessary to alleviate the crisis and will vary depending on the type of assistance needed."

For households needing fans, a maximum of two may be purchased, while air conditioners will be repaired or purchased for people with more severe health problems. When a utility payment is necessary to provide relief, the household must have received a disconnection notice or be without service.

There will be no payments made directly to the eligible households.

Cowherd said predicting how many families will receive benefits is impossible. "Someone who needs an air conditioner or has a high utility bill will require more money than a household that needs only fans," he said.

Beware of Low-Calorie Foods That Are High In Saturated Fats

It's entirely possible, warns cholesterol-diet expert Dr. Ron Goor, to eat foods that are low in calories, but chockfull of saturated fat, the artery-clogger that causes 55% of Americans to suffer from life-threatening levels of cholesterol. "In fact, he elaborates, "some frozen meals created for dieters actually contain enormously high amounts of saturated fat."

When cooked properly, barbecued chicken is low in saturated fat, tasty and easy to prepare. The following recipe, along with 200 other delicious and heart-healthy dishes, is found in EATER'S CHOICE: A Food Lover's Guide to Low Cholesterol, by Dr. Ron and Nancy Goor.

- Grilled Peppery Chicken
 8 skinned chicken breast halves
 2 tablespoons olive oil
 2 tablespoons soy sauce
 2 tablespoons honey
 1/2 teaspoon thyme
 1/2 teaspoon paprika

- 1/4 teaspoon cayenne pepper
 1 tablespoon white vinegar
 1/2 teaspoon allspice
 1 teaspoon freshly ground pepper
 2 cups sliced mushrooms
 Place chicken in shallow casserole. Combine olive oil, soy sauce, honey, thyme, paprika, cayenne pepper, vinegar, allspice and pepper and pour over chicken. Marinate in refrigerator for about an hour.

Prepare grill. Remove chicken from marinade and grill until cooked through, basting periodically with marinade.

Pour remaining marinade in saucepan, add mushrooms, and simmer for a few minutes. Spoon over grilled chicken breasts.

Tobacco Not Hurt By Drought As Badly As Many Other Crops

Although tobacco has been affected by the dry conditions, it has weathered the drought better than many of Kentucky's other crops.

Early set tobacco retains a healthy green color although top growth has slowed or stopped, said Gary Palmer, Extension tobacco specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Roots should be developed enough for quick recovery when it finally rains, he said.

"Late set tobacco has not fared as well," Palmer said. "Stand losses occurred where the soil was excessively dry and temperatures high."

Tobacco has the capacity to withstand dry weather early in the season with little adverse effect if rainfall occurs in the last half of the growing season. Late season drought is much more damaging. An example is the 1983 crop which had sufficient moisture early but suffered under the drought that occurred late in the growing season.

Although most of the 1988 crop has not been damaged beyond recovery, management is essential. Available moisture should be maintained where possible. Cultivation should be limited or stopped to prevent loss of soil moisture.

"Many farmers think that deep cultivation is needed to bring moisture up to the plant during dry weather," Palmer said. "Deep cultivation does bring moisture to the surface, but evaporation takes the valuable moisture away from the plant. Cultivation also damages roots that could aid in water uptake. These roots have a much better capacity to reach available ground water without our attempts to bring moisture to the surface by cultivation."

Shallow cultivation (approximately 1 inch deep) is advised where cultivation is thought to be essential, he said. Shallow cultivation can also break up soil crusting to facilitate water penetration when rain is expected or when irrigating.

Irrigation water sources are also scarce and should be conserved to supplement rainfall during the more critical part of the season. Water that is in short supply should be conserved if tobacco is showing no other signs of drought damage than stunting.

As dry conditions continue, tobacco in many areas has begun to wilt during hotter hours of the day. Water applied to severely stressed tobacco can help hold the tobacco till weather conditions are more favorable, Palmer said. If irrigation is used, it should be sufficient to soak into the root zone and applied in the late evening to reduce evaporation.

Tobacco farmers should remember that irrigation sources may contain the black shank fungus. Although drought may reduce yields this year, black shank can reduce yields for years.

"Still," Palmer said, "with proper value and soil moisture management now, tobacco should withstand the drought and recover when late season rains come."

Pastures In Kentucky Are Deteriorating Fast

Cool-season grass pastures in Kentucky (tall fescue, bluegrass, orchardgrass, and, to a lesser extent timothy) are for all practical purposes dormant and unproductive.

Dormant stubble that remains is low quality, said Garry Lacefield, Extension forages specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

"With the 30-day outlook calling for above normal temperatures and below normal rain, we cannot expect much from these plants," Lacefield said. "Most of the limited amount of clover in pastures is also unproductive and burned-up."

Alfalfa and its massive root system has been able to produce some but has been limited by lack of moisture and high temperatures. That's also true for warm season plants such as sudex, millet, lespeceza, crabgrass and warm season weeds, he said.

"I've talked with a lot of people over the past few weeks about the current drought situation," Lacefield said. "I have yet to talk to anyone who can remember Kentucky being this dry in June."

He added, "We need to be realistic about what we can expect when we do get rain. It will be welcome and valuable. However with 90-degree temperatures we aren't likely to get enough rain to green up our cool-season grasses. They will stay dormant and unproductive until cooler temperatures come."

Hay production is rated at only 40-60% normal for the spring hay production period, Lacefield said. In addition, some producers have fed hay since late May. Others began to feed some hay in early June.

What this means to farmers is that good management is more critical than ever.

The first step is to take both feed and animal inventory, he said. Forage inventory should also contain some assessment of quality. Higher quality should be fed to animals with highest nutrient requirements while lower quality feed goes to those animals whose requirements are lower.

Lacefield recommends forage testing for a realistic assessment of forage quality. With cost of energy and protein supplements going up, farmers can't afford to over-feed expensive supplements.

Limited pastures can be used more efficiently by rotational or limited grazing. Any system that will reduce waste of pasture can stretch supplies, he said. If at all possible, avoid grazing below a three inch stubble.

Although quality of mature plants will be low, any field with enough growth (regardless of age) should be considered for cutting and baling hay. Round baling is a logical choice to minimize expense.

Farmers also should try to minimize hay losses during feeding, he said. Racks or panels on big round bales will minimize waste. Other considerations would be to feed only an amount that will be consumed in a short period of time.

Berea Craft Festival Set For July 15-17

The seventh annual Berea Craft Festival, with 110 exhibitors from 20 states, will run July 15-17 in Berea College's Indian Fort Outdoor Theater.

Woodworkers, weavers, potters, carvers, jewelers, quilters and artists gather from across the United States for the festival, which has grown into a major regional craft showcase since its beginning in 1982. The 1988 Festival will coincide with the official declaration of Berea as the "Folk Art and Crafts Capitol of the Commonwealth of Kentucky."

Showcased at the Berea Craft Festival will be a group of the nation's finest woodturners, who will do lathe demonstrations each day. Master woodworker Rude Osolnik, of Berea, will coordinate the work of Flo Bishop, Howard Lewin, Walter Hoskins, Charles Hutson, Tom Fortenberry and others who will demonstrate the turning of new shapes for new materials. Other working demonstrations include wheel-thrown pottery, chairmaking, cornshuck dolls, quilting, weaving, and tinsmithing. Of the 110 exhibitors at this year's festival 29 are new, including Toys From Times Past from Midland, Mich., whose wooden toys and costumes recall another era. Other newcomers include Wild Rabbit Pottery from Athens, Ga.; leatherworker Karen Nagle from Knoxville; Arkansas jeweler Pat and Larry Lehman; and, The Tin Man from Troy, Ohio.

Entertainers at the Festival will include the Berea group, Mandala, performing all three days, plus Duo Allegro, a flute/guitar duo from Asheville. Strolling magician Doug Doolin will be added Saturday and Sunday. The Castlewood Morris Dancers will join the festivities Sunday. Food booths will offer Kentucky barbecue, ice cream, Greek specialties, and cold drinks.

Festival hours are 10 a.m.-6 p.m. Friday-Sunday, July 15-17. Parking is free at Indian Fort Theater, two miles east of Berea. An admission fee is charged.

For complete travel information and dates of other Berea events, contact the Berea Tourism Commission, Berea, Ky. 40403, phone 606-986-2540.

Hasty House Farm Donates Trophies

Hasty House Farm, one of the most prominent Thoroughbred racing stables of the 1950s and 1960s, has recently donated a portion of its trophy collection to the International Museum of the Horse at the Kentucky Horse Park.

Mr. and Mrs. A.E. Reuben purchased the Toledo, Ohio farm in 1923, and for the next 23 years maintained one of the finest hunter/jumper stables in America. During this period, Mrs. Reuben collected literally hundreds of blue ribbons while campaigning such outstanding horses as Darlington and Hasty Lassie.

In 1946, the farm switched to Thoroughbreds and within an amazingly short nine years became the leading money-winning stable in America. Some of Hasty House's outstanding stakes winners were 1954 Preakness winner, Hasty Road; Inseparable; Stan; Oil Capitol; Seaward; and Queen Hopeful.

The trophies which include the Widener Stakes, the Washington D.C. International and Woodbine Canadian Championship Stakes, were donated to the park by Mrs. Reuben's sister, Mrs. Lucy D. Smith. The museum is currently working on a new exhibit featuring the trophies.

House Passes Report On ARC

Congressman Carl C. Perkins announced recently that the U.S. House of Representatives has approved the Energy and Water Appropriations Conference Report which earmarks $110.7 million for the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) for fiscal year 1989, $3.7 million more than in the original House bill. The ARC provides aid to economically distressed areas in 13 states in the Appalachian Mountains.

"I can't say enough about the good the ARC does in Eastern Kentucky," Perkins commented. "Our infrastructural base; roads, bridges, water and sewer systems, comes from the ARC. But ARC does more than that. They also provide education and training, and help to set people up with permanent jobs. Programs like the Appalachian Regional Commission are beginning to impact Eastern Kentucky and help us to see real hope in a brighter more prosperous future."

BOOKS AND THINGS

By: TRISHA MORRIS, Librarian
Prestonsburg Community College

Fifty years ago no one talked about Appalachian Literature. Today it is recognized as a body of writing that reflects a culture different from the rest of the country. It depicts the values, history and ways of perceiving the world that is original with mountain life. Courses in Appalachian Literature adorn college offerings and summer workshops, as the one that I'm attending, are becoming popular studies. The following books from the Hutchins Library of Berea College discuss Southern Literature—sometimes that includes Appalachian Literature and sometimes not.

The Southern Mountaineer in Fact and Fiction

By: Cratis Williams
Called the definitive work on Appalachian Literature, this three volume work is the author's doctoral dissertation presented to the Department of English at New York University in 1961.

This very thorough publication takes its reader from the question of who are Southern mountaineers to the treatment of fictional stereotypes of their character and finally to the works of modern Southern writers like James Still and Harriette Arnow. According to Dr. Williams, the Southern mountaineer was not distinguishable from the borderer or frontiersman until the Civil War. He then goes on for pages despairing over the lack of evidence to prove their lineage and ends by concluding that it was a mixture of Scots-Irish, German and English.

Discussing the Southern mountaineer in fiction the author first introduces Mary Murfree who wrote under the pen name of Charles Craddock, whose stories of the Tennessee mountaineers best exemplifies the "local color" writing of the South. He then introduces the mountaineer in magazine fiction, John Fox Jr.'s romantic novels set in Eastern Kentucky, Charles Buck's mountain thriller, James Still, Jesse Stuart, Harriette Arnow and many many others who have made the land and people of Appalachia familiar to the world.

Dr. Williams is recognized by many as Mr. Appalachia. He spent most of his life in the region as a public school and college teacher. His work weaves the roots of the Appalachian mountaineer and places his historical role in a regional context.

A Collection of Classic Southern Humor

Ed. George Koon
Mr. Koon explains Southern humor by looking at the agrarian economy that exemplifies the region. "Life close to the land," he states, "does not call for much abstraction." He finds that the literal land dramatic mix of the Southerner is reflected in his intense religion and acts of physical violence. This is reflected in his humor which depicts a general acceptance of the human situation. The editor presents the writers he has chosen by reproducing a section of their actual work—making this a sort of "Cliff Notes" of Southern humor authors.

Southern Fiction Today

Ed. George Core
In the Twentieth Century Southern Literature has finally earned a permanent place in the chronicals of American Literature. This book is a collection of essays emerging from the Reynolds Lecture series which speaks to this renaissance of a regional literature. It covers every literary field—poetry, drama, criticism, history and fiction and many notable writers—Faulkner, Wolf, Warren,

Caldwell and Welty. It concludes by saying that "The Southern writer tends to be a social critic, a portrayer of a region, a pointer out of social ills and a suggester of the means for their correction."

Southern Writers

Ed. R. C. Simonini
A collection of essays about Southern writing and Southern writers. The editor states the theme as being that, "Southern literature was born in a struggle of the creative artist for recognition in an indifferent society; it has flourished as its writers reacted with varied inspiration to their environment—its traditions, aspirations, achievements and failures." The experts find the lack of writing in the South after the epic event of the Civil War disappointing except for Mary Johnston's novels the Long Roll and Cease Firing which they compare to War and Peace. They cite the works of Ellen Glasgow, Poe, Wolfe and Faulkner but claim that even the critics placed them outside the Southern tradition. After readings on the historic imagination, southern literacy tradition and southern romanticism we are brought to the contemporary scene with a study of the youngest generation of Southern fiction writers. Five traditional characteristics of these writers are stated as: a sense of style, awareness of past, belief in man's innate depravity, pride in family and pride in region. Except for their failure to separate Appalachian writing from Southern writing and their sometimes heavy scholarly treatment, this is an illuminating collection of thoughts.

Contemporary Appalachian Writers

By: George Brosi
A private publication put out by the author to assist patrons tour his very unique book store, this pamphlet deals exclusively with Appalachian writers. There are original biographies for ten writers followed by an annotated bibliography of their work. With a publication date of 1988 the issue is very timely and very specific. It includes Lisa Alther, Harry Caudill, Fred Chappell, Wilma Dykeman, John Ehle, Jim Wayne Miller, Gurney Norman, Mary Settle, Lee Smith and James Still. A good reference source of authors who are often neglected in books on Southern writers.

Thomas Hall Named District Director

Thomas N. Hall, of Martin, was elected Eastern District Director of the Funeral Directors Association of Kentucky, Inc. Hall is the son of Johnny Hall, owner of the Hall Funeral Home at Martin.

The election was held at the 106th annual convention of the association held June 21-23 at the Hyatt Regency in Louisville. Funeral directors and suppliers numbered 1261 at the three day meeting.

In addition to the election of officers and directors, 50 and 75-year-old firms and 50 year licensees were honored at a formal banquet. A crowd of over 376 persons attended an exhibitor party just adjacent to a sold out, 80,000 square foot exhibit hall.

A service of remembrance was held for funeral directors who had died since last year's convention.

Multiemployer Savings Plan Offered To Miners

In the late 1940's the United Mine Workers of America in conjunction with the Federal government and the Coal Operators formed one of the first jointly sponsored employee benefits programs to provide pension and health care benefits to a nationwide industrial work force. Now, the United Mine Workers of America and the Bituminous Coal Operators' Association have joined together to pioneer the first multiemployer, 401(k) tax-deferred savings plan for the benefit of UMWA represented miners.

The Plan, known as the UMWA Cash Deferred Savings Plan of 1988, will allow eligible miners to defer up to 10% of their income on a pre-tax basis, thereby reducing their current Federal taxes. Under the Plan, no taxes are paid on either the employee's contributions or on the income earned through investment of the deferred wages until money is withdrawn.

Under Section 401(k) of the Internal Revenue Code, employees have been permitted for some time to defer up to $7,000 per year from their wages on a pre-tax basis, to be deposited in a savings plan. Until recently, however, technical, legal and administrative restrictions essentially precluded multiemployer plans from adopting 401(k) plans.

The Trustees of the UMWA Health and Retirement Funds announced recently that enrollment materials are currently being sent to eligible employees, and that contributions to the plan will be accepted beginning in August.

Participation is voluntary and contributions will be made as payroll deductions. Employees may change the amount of the contributions and the way their account balance is to be invested four times per year. They may also join the plan or stop contributing at any time.

Initially, contributions will be invested in a Reserve Deposit Account at Boston Safe Deposit and Trust Company. In the near future, as many as six investment options, presently under consideration by the Trustees, will be available to allow the participant to choose the approach which best meets his/her own savings objectives.

Citing the excellent long-term savings potential for persons who enroll, and the inability of many miners to contribute to Individual Retirement Accounts (IRA) under the present tax laws, officials are optimistic that a majority of those employees who are eligible to enroll will participate.

Nominations Sought For Kirkus Award

Nominations are now being accepted through August 1 for the Kirkus Award to combat illiteracy. The annual award is presented to the volunteer who best exemplifies the goals of the national campaign to fight illiteracy by their donation of time, effort and devotion in the teaching of reading and writing skills to the underprivileged in Appalachia. Nominations are open to anyone living in the tri-state area of Virginia, West Virginia and Kentucky.

Half of the $1,000 award is funded by John D. Kobak, Appalachian Education Foundation, which was created in honor of Kobak's son, who spent two years as a VISTA volunteer teaching in economically depressed mountain areas, before his death in 1970.

The first award was presented in 1985 to Nancy Perry of Louisa, Kentucky, a teacher in the Lawrence County Public School System. Last year's award was presented to a volunteer from Radford, Virginia.

Nomination forms for the award may be obtained from James A. Nelson, State Librarian and Commission, Kentucky Department for Libraries and Archives, Kirkus Award to Combat Illiteracy, P.O. Box 537, Frankfort, Ky. 40602.

Hope and Jim Kobak, co-owners of KIRKUS and founders of the John D. Kobak Appalachian Education Foundation will make the $1,000 presentation on September 16, 1988 in Louisville at a joint conference sponsored by the Literacy Commission, the Department of Education Office of Adult and Community Education and Kentucky Education and Television.

Hygiene Program Debuts At Shawnee

Naewana Nickles teaches hygiene to Camp Shawnee campers.

At the request of the Christian Appalachian Project, Our Lady of the Way Hospital is teaching a personal hygiene program to pre-teen campers this summer. The hospital's education director, Naewana Nickles, presented the program for the first time to four groups of male campers Monday, June 27 at Camp Shawnee.

"Growing up brings changes, privileges and responsibilities," Nickles told the group. "One of those responsibilities is taking proper care of your body."

The campers first watched an edited version of Procter & Gamble's Changing video. Then Nickles discussed personal hygiene details such as bathing, deodorants and antiperspirants, clothing, hair care, makeup, acne products and oral hygiene.

At the conclusion of the program, the campers worked puzzles on hand-washing and smoking and received toothbrushes and pencils for their efforts.

The campers were receptive to the presentation and contributed to the discussion. The boys' reactions to the flip chart's makeup page were strong, and, at first, negative. But they laughed as they admitted that cosmetics were part of Halloween drama, and clowning paints and the same principles for removal were involved.

The program was developed by Nickles, Our Lady of the Way Hospital (OLWH) Infection Control Coordinator Judy Hamm, RN, BS and OLWH Public Relations Consultant Gwen Hall. There are male and female versions of the presentation.

Other OLWH health professionals are scheduled to present the program to 12 more groups in three additional Camp Shawnee sessions. The hospital plans to offer the program to the school system this fall because hospital personnel who taught the Scrubby Bear program received many requests for a personal hygiene program in the schools.

For more information or to arrange a presentation, please call Naewana Nickles at 285-3909, Judy Hamm at 285-5181 or Gwen Hall at 886-9817.

Don't Get Burned:

Protect Property with Homeowner's Insurance

Driving home from work, you smell the unmistakable odor of a recent fire. Suddenly, you turn the corner and find yourself facing the charred remains of the house you've called home for 15 years. This is the nightmare no one wants to consider, much less plan for. But according to the Kentucky Society of CPAs, owning homeowner's insurance and maintaining an accurate record of your possessions can ease the burden of such a tragedy.

Homeowner's insurance provides protection for your most treasured assets: your home and personal belongings. Besides covering loss or physical damage to property, homeowner's policies protect against liability for another person's injury or for damage to another's property. In other words, if a limb from a tree on your property crashes onto the roof of a shed on your neighbor's back lawn, the insurance company will generally pay for the damages—up to the limits of the policy. The same fact holds true if your dog decides to bite a passerby during his daily work.

Not all homeowner's policies are equal, however. There are seven basic forms of homeowner's insurance, each varying in the number of perils covered: Basic (HO-1), Broad (HO-2), Special (HO-3), Renter's (HO-4), Comprehensive (HO-5), Condominium (HO-6), and Older Home (HO-8). A basic policy generally protects against physical damage to property resulting from fire or lightning, windstorm or hail, explosion, riot, aircraft and vehicles, smoke, vandalism and malicious mischief, theft, and glass breakage. If you own a home in a cold climate, consider broad coverage, which adds protection against damage caused by such events as an ice storm or frozen plumbing systems. Owners of property in areas prone to floods or earthquakes should explore policies offering protection against these specific perils, since they are not covered by homeowner's insurance.

Most insurers require that a home be covered for at least 80 percent of its replacement cost—that is, the amount you would have to spend in order to rebuild the house in the current marketplace. Remember that the 80 percent figure represents the minimum for standard coverage. If you are ever unfortunate enough to suffer a total loss of property, you may regret not insuring your home for full value. After all, if your house burns to the ground, you can only be reimbursed up to the face value of your policy. If you're insured for $100,000 and rebuilding your home costs $120,000, you will have to pay the difference.

As a general rule, the contents of your house are insured for no more than 50 percent of the coverage on your home. If your personal possessions are lost or damaged, actual-cash-value policies reimburse you for the current replacement cost minus depreciation. For example, suppose a fire destroys the rolltop desk you bought for $1,200 four years ago. Even if the desk was in perfect condition before the fire, its actual cash value may now be considerably less than its original purchase price. But if the insurance company only paid you the depreciated value, you certainly could not replace the desk at current market prices. As a remedy, many insurance companies now offer policies that allow for the replacement of lost or damaged property, within certain limits.

If you have expensive items such as silver or furs, note that these possessions are covered only to a limited extent. To insure a special item against accidental loss or theft, whether in your home or away, you need a "floater" policy. The insurance company will probably require proof of the item's value, such as a sales receipt or an independent appraisal.

Now close your eyes for a moment and imagine listing every single item in your home—every piece of clothing, every kitchen utensil, and every gardening tool. If this sounds like a monumental task, imagine trying to create such a list in the aftermath of a devastating fire or burglary. As a safeguard, prepare a detailed inventory of your personal possessions, from coffee mugs to furs. In case of loss or damage, this list can be invaluable in substantiating your claim.

In a notebook, list all of the contents of your home, room by room; include a brief description, the date of purchase, and the purchase price. Supplement your written inventory with a visual record of your home's interior and your possessions. If you have a video camera, by all means, use it. Videotape everything you own. If you cannot videotape your personal property, take photographs instead. Pay particular attention to jewelry, furs, and electronics. Be sure to keep your household list, the visual record, and all receipts for major purchases in a fireproof container or in a safe deposit box.

All standard homeowner's policies include liability insurance. The standard limit for liability coverage is usually $100,000. However, in today's world of escalating damage awards in personal injury suits, many homeowners opt for excess liability coverage in the form of an umbrella policy. An umbrella policy supplements your automobile and homeowner's insurance, covering any claim that exceeds the limits of your policies, or results from a charge of slander or libel. Since excess liability insurance picks up where your other policies end, insurers require you to first have a prescribed amount of homeowner's and automobile insurance. Umbrella policies generally have a face value of at least $1 million.

Review your homeowner's policy frequently. Today, many policies automatically adjust for inflation, but you should review your coverage periodically to be sure that you are adequately protected.

CPAs caution homeowners to note a provision in the Tax Reform Act of 1986 that affects personal casualty losses where an insurance policy provides reimbursement for loss. If you sustain a loss that is covered by your policy and, for some reason, you decide not to file a claim, you may not deduct the amount of the casualty loss that your insurance policy would have reimbursed. You may, however, deduct uninsured casualty or theft loss, but only to the extent that the loss exceeds 10 percent of your adjusted gross income. In addition, the first $100 of each casualty loss is not deductible.

Nurse Given Farewell

Clarissa Hall, pictured right, RN, of-fice nurse for Dr. Chandra Varia, of Martin, was given a farewell reception by her co-workers last month prior to her move to Okeechobee, Florida.

Hall, who loved her work and home here, said her family had not planned the move but suddenly found it impossible to refuse. After years of unsteady employment in Floyd county, her husband, Redgy, discovered better opportunities in Florida.

"Redgy arrived in Okeechobee Sunday, job-hunted Monday, was hired Tuesday and worked Wednesday," said Hall.

Because of her husband's experience, Hall was confident that she too would find employment easily. Her hopes were realized shortly after she, her daughters Shanna and Chrissy, and her mother joined her husband in Okeechobee.

Hall became a registered nurse in May of 1974. She went to work for Our Lady of the Way Hospital as OB Supervisor in 1976.

Hall began doing clinical nursing in January 1978 and worked with a succession of practioners who delivered babies at Our Lady of the Way until Dr. Chandra arrived in July 1979.

At the reception, Hall received many gifts, including an electric typewriter with a built-in dictionary.

TELL GRANDMA

Nearly all parents are well aware of their children's curiosity, and the proclivity of some to put most everything in their mouths. This has led to the adoption by most households of child-resistant bottles for medications. In addition, all medications are stored away from the reach of children. However, government statistics reveal that one in six cases in which children swallowed prescription medicine involved a grandparent's medication. These children were either visiting their grandparents or the grandparents were visiting the children. Regardless of the exact circumstance, most grandparents need to be made aware of the danger posed by easily accessible medication in the home. Because most do not live with the possibility, they have yet to childproof their homes. Parents should inform them of the facts.

COOLEY APOTHECARY can provide you and your family with your total prescription needs as well as any over-the-counter remedies you require. Our entire staff at COOLEY APOTHECARY keeps up to date on the latest developments in our industry. Complete patient profiles are maintained here at #2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. MasterCard and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-3.

HINT:

Since the federal legislation on child-resistant packaging in 1974, childhood poisonings from prescription drugs have dropped off dramatically.

How Well Do You Know Your National Landmarks?

By KEN LEVINE

(This article is reprinted, with permission, from the July issue of Reader's Digest.)

From Niagara Falls to the Everglades. From the Golden Gate Bridge to the Brooklyn Bridge. From sea to shining sea, our country is replete with places of breathtaking beauty and historic significance. Many of these landmarks are man-made and many are natural, but one thing they all share is that they are part of our national heritage.

Take this tour of America and test your knowledge of its famous places. You won't need a pencil for the quiz, and the plane tickets are free. Ready?

1. Let's start with the Golden Gate Bridge. If you allow for short access roads, which two California cities does this bridge connect?

San Francisco & Oakland Go to 10
San Francisco & Sausalito Go to 6
2. The Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941, triggered America's entry into World War II. Off which of the Hawaiian Islands are Pearl Harbor and the memorial to the USS Arizona?

Oahu Go to 7
Honolulu Go to 12
3. No, no. Even though Old Faithful is undoubtedly the best known of all American geysers, Steamboat Geyser can blow its stack almost 400 feet into the air—about twice the maximum height of Old Faithful. Go back to 8.

4. Nope. Thomas Jefferson, our third President, is there, second from the left. Back to 13 and another try.

5. On the western slopes of California's Sierra Nevada, giant sequoias grow to more than 30 feet in diameter and to over 300 feet in height. But another tree, protected in a national park, grows even taller. What tree is this?

Bristlecone pine Go to 14
Redwood Go to 20

6. Good. Did you also know that the Golden Gate has a neighbor commonly called the Bay Bridge? It's six months older (completed in 1936) and links San Francisco and Oakland. Now a trip to Yellowstone National Park. Go to 8.

7. That's correct. A white concrete memorial at Pearl Harbor marks the final resting place of the USS Arizona and her crew. Now to 5 and a return trip to sunny California.

8. Located mostly in Wyoming, Yellowstone National Park covers more than two million acres of wilderness and has some 250 active geysers. Which one has had the world's highest eruption?

Old Faithful Go to 3
Steamboat Geyser Go to 11

9. No. Theodore Roosevelt, our 26th President, is there, specs and all. Go back to 13 and take another try.

10. Whoops. Tough way to start. Oakland is to the east, not the north. Return to 1 and try again.

11. Yep. Steamboat Geyser, though not predictable as Old Faithful is, can spout off at nearly 400 feet compared with Faithful's 180. Try 13 now.

12. Never been to Hawaii, have you? Honolulu isn't an island at all; it's Hawaii's capital city on the island of Oahu. Back to 2.

13. Work on the carvings at Mount Rushmore, located in the Black Hills of South Dakota, was halted in 1941. The four busts—each about 60 feet high—include all but which of the following?

Thomas Jefferson Go to 4
Theodore Roosevelt Go to 9
Benjamin Franklin Go to 16

14. No, sorry. Bristlecone pines are among the world's oldest trees. But they're not the tallest. Try 5 again.

15. In August 1963, Martin Luther King Jr.'s march for racial equality culminated at which Washington, D.C., landmark?

Washington Monument Go to 19
Lincoln Memorial Go to 21
Arlington Nat'l Cemetery Go to 24

16. There you go. All four men whose likenesses are on Mount Rushmore—George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt—were Presidents, chosen for their contributions to freedom and democracy. For a trip to Hawaii, try 2.

17. Good show. Many people think the Statue of Liberty is on Ellis Island. Go directly to 27.

18. The Statue of Liberty, a gift from France, was dedicated in 1886. It is located on which of the following islands?

Liberty Island Go to 17
Ellis Island Go to 22
Coney Island Go to 26

19. No. Go to 15 for another try.

20. That's the one. Redwood National Park boasts giant redwoods over 350 feet tall. Bristlecone pines are over 4,000 years old—among the world's oldest, but not its tallest, trees. Now to 15 and Washington, D.C.

21. That's it. Fittingly, this monument to one of our great human-rights activists has been the site of many demonstrations for racial equality. Go to 18, please, and take a quick ride up to New York.

22. Tough break. Ellis Island was the point of entry for millions of America's immigrants, but it is not the home of the Statue of Liberty. Fly back to 18.

23. Oh, too bad. At 1,350 feet, the World Trade Center is in second place. Have another go at 27.

24. Nope. Try 15 again.

25. Once, but no longer. At 1,250 feet, the site of King Kong's last stand is now third on the list. Try 27 again.

26. Verrrry funny! A quick stroll in the amusement park, then get back to 18.

27. To the top. Which of America's skyscrapers is the world's tallest, inhabited, man-made structure? (We're not counting antennas or other roof objects.)

World Trade Center, N.Y. Go to 23
Empire State Building, N.Y. Go to 25
Sears Tower, Chicago Go to 29

28. The Devils Tower near Sundance, Wyo. By the way, this group of rock columns abuts the landing site of the aliens in "Close Encounters of the Third Kind." That's all, folks.

29. Bingo! The Sears Tower stands 1,454 feet high, the World Trade Center 1,350, and the Empire State Building only 1,250. Wrap up now with 30.

30. Congratulations. You're done. Here's the shortest route: 1, 6, 8, 11, 13, 16, 2, 7, 5, 20, 15, 21, 18, 17, 27, 29 and 30. How did you do? Pretty well, we hope. Before you go, can you name the country's first officially designated national monument? See 28 for the answer.

Hutchison Earns McDonald Award

Robert Hutchison, pictured on right, was recently presented the highest award for a McDonald's restaurant owner/operator, the Ronald Award. The award was presented by District Manager, Bill Hackett.

Robert Hutchison, owner of McDonald's here, has been recognized by McDonald's Corp. as one of the most exceptional restaurant operators in the nation because of the significant contributions he has made to the various communities in Kentucky where he operates restaurants in partnership with his brother, Tom.

In honor of his community support and dedication, Hutchison was one of 32 individuals around the country who was presented with the Ronald Award, one of the highest honors bestowed upon McDonald's restaurant owners. It was presented to him during a recent Regional Operators Advisory Board meeting held in Pittsburgh.

Some of the accomplishments which contributed to Hutchison receiving this special award include: spearheading a program that provided Christmas stockings and gifts to children staying in local hospitals during the holiday season; conducting a fund-raising carnival for the local Ronald McDonald House; having birthday parties and catering meals for senior citizens who were unable to leave their homes or hospitals; was an associate chairperson and sponsor for the Special Olympics regional tournament and he was a guest speaker at the Kiwanis Club, Lions Club, Decca Club and various senior citizens banquets throughout 1987.

Originally from Akron, Ohio, Hutchison's first McDonald's restaurant was a joint venture with his father and brother in Paintsville in 1979.

He is a member of the Lions Club, a board member of the Paintsville Chamber of Commerce, the Apple Festival Board and the Big Sandy Boy Scouts board.

The Hutchisons also operate McDonald's restaurants in Pikeville and South Williamson.

Unemployment Benefits Rise; New Claimants To Get Higher Payments

Higher unemployment insurance benefits are in effect for Kentucky workers who file new claims this week. Effective immediately, the ceiling on UI benefits is $166 a week, up $15 from last year's figure.

Cabinet for Human Resources officials estimate that during the 1988-89 fiscal year as many as 58,500 people will be eligible for the maximum amount. In order to qualify for the highest payment, these laid-off workers must have earned $13,967 during the 12 months on which their benefits are based.

Human Resources Secretary Harry J. Cowherd, M.D., said this is the second year in a row that Kentucky's benefits have increased, thanks in part to the continued financial stability of the state's Unemployment Insurance Trust Fund.

"In the early part of this decade, Kentucky's UI trust fund was on a roller coaster, resulting in the state being forced to borrow from the federal government," Cowherd said. "Now the careful management and better economic times have returned the trust fund to solvency, Kentucky no longer has to freeze the ceiling on benefits, and, in fact, is able to raise the cap as the trust fund grows."

State Unemployment Insurance Director Joe Anderson said the increase applies only to people who file new claims beginning the first week in July.

"There are currently 24,000 recipients who won't be affected by this change," he said. "However, more than 58,800 claimants were eligible for the maximum benefit level that was established last fiscal year."

Anderson pointed out that a worker's benefit rate is locked in once a claim is established. "If someone was laid off in May, returned to work in June, then gets laid off in July, that person's unemployment benefits were established in May when the initial claim was filed. The claim filed in July would be considered a continuing claim, so new benefit levels would not apply," he said.

Last fiscal year, laid-off Kentucky workers received benefits for an average of about 13 weeks. The maximum coverage runs for up to 26 weeks.

Under a state law enacted two years ago, maximum weekly unemployment benefits go up and employers' UI tax rates decrease when the year-old trust fund balance goes above $150 million, as it did in 1986; $250 million, which occurred in 1987; and $275 million, which it is expected to do this year.

"Even with this latest increase in benefits and reduced tax rates this year, we think the trust fund balance will exceed $300 million by the end of the year, unless we have a sharp recession during the next six months," Anderson said.

Cowherd said, "We're pleased that we can increase the support for our workers who are temporarily out of a job. We are able to accomplish this because of the cooperative efforts between estate lawmakers, labor and management to ensure that Kentucky's UI trust fund is solvent."

Floyd County Sweeps Flatwoods in Twin Bill Saturday

Mark Tipton's summer continued along its successful route Saturday as the Betsy Layne graduate won his third game, allowing Floyd County to earn a double header sweep over Flatwoods.

Tipton, a righthander, gave up only two hits in five innings as Floyd County captured a 6-1 win in Saturday's second game while completing the two-game sweep.

Tipton, evening his record at 3-3, struck out six and walked two in the five-inning, complete game performance. Flatwoods scored their one run, an unearned one, in the fifth.

Floyd County, 12-15, scored one run in the first, and added another in the second which proved to be all Tipton would need.

Mason Slone, leading off the game, struck out but reached base on a passed ball. He stole second went to third on a Ray Collins ground out, and scored on a wild pitch.

In the second inning Kevin Webb led off with a double, and later scored on a passed ball. That eventually proved to be the winning one.

Flatwoods, who had 13 hits in the first game, struggled offensively, getting only an unearned run off two hits. Tipton faced only four batters over the limit.

They threatened in the third, getting two runners on with two out, but Tipton and Floyd County got out of the inning when a bad pitch turned into an inning ending out.

With runners on second and third, Rusty Lewis tried to score from third on a low fastball that had bounced off catcher Tony Kidd, and back toward the mound.

Tipton, midway between the plate and the mound, picked up the baseball and threw on to Kidd for the out, the third one of the inning.

By then Floyd County had built a 4-0 lead. They scored twice in the top of the third as Webb and Tim Trusty had RBI singles. The other FC runs came in the fifth inning.

Flatwoods, 7-12, scored their run in the bottom of the fifth when, with two out, rightfielder Waylon Estep mishandled a short fly ball.

Rusty Lewis suffered the loss for Flatwoods. Lewis, a righthander, pitched all five innings, giving up six hits. He walked four and struck out two. Only two of Floyd County's runs were earned.

Floyd County, winners of three in a row, banged out 19 hits in the first game, but they needed every one of them in downing Flatwoods 19-12.

FC scored nine runs in the first inning, added four more in the third, and scored twice in the fourth, but by the end of the sixth inning they led by only three runs.

Flatwoods, who had only five hits off

Tim Trusty in an earlier game at Allen Park, scored seven runs off Trusty in two and two-thirds innings while getting off to a solid comeback start.

Jeff Lovely, who started at third base, relieved Trusty in the third. He gave up six runs in the next three innings of work as Flatwoods crept to within three runs.

But with runners on first and second, Mason Slone came in to slam the door, retiring Mick Adkins on a grounder to short.

Slone, who finished the game, recorded his second save of the year, and got some help from a base running mistake by Flatwoods.

In the bottom of the seventh, after Floyd County scored four insurance runs in the top half of the inning, Dave Whitt reached on an error leading off the inning.

Sam Salyers followed with a fly ball to deep right center, but Salyers, when the ball bounced out of the glove of Steve Miller, passed Whitt on his way to second.

Whitt, seeing the loose baseball, headed for second, but was tagged out there, turning what could have been a costly Floyd County play into two outs.

Slone ended the game by getting Chris Edwards to bounce out to second baseman Ray Collins. Lovely, who pitched three innings, was credited with the win. He is now 1-1 on the mound.

Floyd County had four players to get at least three hits. Mike McQuate enjoyed one of his biggest games offensively, banging out four hits while driving in five runs.

Jeff Lovely, Mason Slone, and Ray Collins had three hits. Lovely drove in two runs also. Tim Trusty and Steve Miller had two hits each for Floyd County.

Kevin Webb, who drilled his second homerun of the season in the first, drove in three runs. Collins and Slone scored four times each.

In the double header Mike McQuate went five for six with five runs batted in. He was on base a total of seven times before leaving the second game after getting hit with a pitch in the third inning.

Ray Collins also reached base seven times in the double header, as did Tim Trusty.

STEAL OF SECOND: All-star Jason Story steals second base during Prestonsburg's win Sunday against Martin County. Story scored three runs in the game as the 14-15-year-old squad remained undefeated.

Floyd County Falls Key Hit Short Of Sweep At Pikeville

Those hard shots that didn't fall in the first game must have made Floyd County mad. They brought out the big bats in the nightcap, defeating home-standing Pikeville 13-3, Wednesday evening.

Floyd County, after jumping out to a 2-0 lead in the opener of the double header, missed several opportunities to score in losing 4-3 to Pikeville.

Mike McQuate's single in the first, a high hopping grounder over third baseman Duran Newsome's head, scored Mason Slone and Ray Collins to put Floyd County up 2-0.

But Jeff Lovely, Kevin Webb, and Pup Miller struck out in order, stranding McQuate at third while giving Pikeville a shorter comeback trail.

After starting pitcher Jamie May set Floyd County down in order in the second and third innings, they missed scoring opportunities in each of the final four innings.

Slone, leading off the third, missed a bid for an extra base hit when his hard hit line drive was hauled down in right centerfield.

Floyd County mounted a threat in the fourth, getting their first two runners on when Lovely and Webb opened the inning with a single and a double respectively.

But a Tony Kidd sacrifice fly was all they could get from it as FC scored only one in the inning. They had hits in each of the remaining innings, but defense in the seventh proved valuable for Pikeville.

Brad Hall, leading off the inning, drilled a hard line drive that appeared headed for left field, but shortstop Sammy Hamilton speared the hot shot, making it nothing but the first out.

Mason Slone and Mike McQuate walked in the inning making Hamilton's play even more important, but Jeff Lovely grounded out to end the game.

Nathan Shelton, working with only two day's rest, suffered the Floyd County loss. Shelton, a lefthander from Allen Central, gave up eight hits in six innings of work, walking two and striking out four. All four Pikeville runs were earned.

Duran Newsome, an infielder-pitcher from Betsy Layne, had two hits for Pikeville, as did Hamilton. They were the only players with more than one hit.

Pikeville scored two runs in the first, and added two in the third for all their run production. Jamie May, despite finding himself in constant trouble, got credit for the win.

May gave up six hits in the complete game performance. The lefthander from Allen Central struck out nine while walking five. Floyd County stranded seven runners in the contest.

In the second game FC left 10 runners on base, but it wasn't because they had trouble scoring runs. The offense came fast and it came often as Floyd County defeated Pikeville 13-3 in six innings.

Seven of the nine starters had at least two hits, and everyone in the starting lineup had at least one as FC banged out a total of 17 hits in earning the mercy victory.

Floyd County scored four runs, all coming after two were out, in the first inning, jumping out to an early lead against Pikeville pitcher Mickey Vanhoose.

Vanhoose, a righthander from Johnson Central, managed to stay in the game for five innings, but Floyd County reached him for six runs on 12 hits to open up a 6-1 lead. They continued to pound the baseball in the sixth, scoring seven runs off Duran Newsome to evoke the 10-run mercy rule.

Mason Slone kept it intact too, retiring Hamilton on a bases loaded ground ball to hold Pikeville scoreless in the bottom of the sixth.

Slone's FC's winningest pitcher, gave up three runs, two earned, on six hits while running his record to 4-2, and winning his third consecutive game in as many starts.

The pitcher-infielder from Knott Central led Floyd County offensively as well, collecting three hits, driving in two runs, and scoring two. He was four for seven in the double header.

Steve Miller, Ray Collins, Jeff Lovely, Kevin Webb, and Brad Hall had two hits each for Floyd County. Webb, Tony Kidd, Slone, and Hall scored two runs each.

Brad Hall and Thomas Hall, Floyd County's number eight and nine hitters, were on base a combined eight times in a combined eight trips to the plate.

Floyd County had four runs on four hits in the first inning and all came after Vanhoose had retired the first two batters. Mike McQuate got it all started with a single, and Webb, Kidd, and Slone kept it going with RBI hits.

The four runs were all Slone needed as the little righthander kept his personal pitching streak clicking along in fine fashion. In his last three starts Slone has allowed only 11 hits and three earned runs.

He gave up only six to Pikeville, and three of those came off the potent bat of Greg Slone. The Pikeville leadoff hitter had a double, triple, and a single in his three for three performance.

Floyd County, 10-15, has now beaten Pikeville in two of the teams' three games. They will meet one more time during the regular season, playing a double header July 20 at Allen Park.

ACHS Football Meetings Set

Any person between the grades of nine and 12 who wish to play football at Allen Central High School are asked to attend meetings Wednesday and Thursday at the school at 6:30.

A BUNT ATTEMPT: Prestonsburg shortstop John Clark tries to bunt his way on base during Sunday's game at Paintsville.

Job Not Completed But Coach Pleased with P'burg Results

Sam Huffman says, in his opinion, the Prestonsburg Senior League All-stars have already gotten the job done, but he figures that the players want to keep getting it done, at least through the weekend.

"If we were to end it today we could be proud," Huffman, coach of the 14-15-year-old team, said after Sunday's game. "We could quit now and say we did a good job, but the kids want to go a little farther."

Farther may mean a District championship, and a trip to the semi-state tournament, because in getting the job done last weekend Prestonsburg advanced to the finals of the winner's bracket.

They defeated Fleming-Neon Saturday, and came back Sunday to hand Martin County a 7-3 defeat at Paintsville's Park and Playground where the District tournament is being held.

Prestonsburg, behind strong pitching and solid defense, came from behind in the seventh, scoring three runs to record a 3-2 win Saturday.

Fleming-Neon scored an unearned run in the first, and added one in the third to take an early 2-0 lead. They held the two-run advantage until the top of the seventh when Prestonsburg scored all three of their runs.

Worthy McGuire, Brian Carter, and Tim Lester all drove in a run each as Prestonsburg took the lead 3-2. Kevin Hall and Jody Wallen each singled and scored in the seventh. John Clark scored the other Prestonsburg run.

Brian Burke, who was lifted for a pinch hitter in the seventh, got credit for the win while Dale Burchett, who came on to pitch the seventh, recorded the save.

"Brian Burke pitched six real good innings for us before we hit for him. Then Dale Burchett came in and got three straight outs in the seventh," Huffman said, proudly mentioning his mound performers.

Burke, the starting pitcher, gave up only three hits while striking out eight and walking four. One of the runs was unearned, but after the first inning Prestonsburg played errorless baseball in back of their pitcher.

Burchett, who pitched in the bottom of the seventh, had one strikeout in his perfect inning of work.

Prestonsburg had only four hits going into the seventh, but they bunched together four in the final frame to pull out a victory. Brian Carter, Tommy Poe, Kevin Hall, and John Clark all hit safely for Prestonsburg before the seventh inning.

Sunday's win proved to be bit easier, both on the Prestonsburg players and their fans. P'burg scored three runs in the first and added another in the second on their way to the victory.

Jason Story proved to be the player of the moment in the 7-3 win, banging out three hits, two singles and a double, while scoring three runs to aid the Prestonsburg cause.

All total, Prestonsburg had 12 hits in the game with Tim Lester, Kevin Hall, and John Clark collecting two each.

Clark, a sure handed shortstop and the leadoff hitter, opened the game with a single, and scored three batters later when Martin County leftfielder Mark Stepp misplayed Lester's single.

Story, who followed Clark's single with a one-bagger of his own, went to third on the error. He, along with Lester, was brought home by Kevin Hall's two-run single.

Story had an infield single with two out in the second and scored on a Tommy Poe single. That proved to be all Chris Cavins needed to nail down the win.

Cavins, a stocky righthander, did not give up a hit after the third. He also got solid supporting help from the left side of the Prestonsburg defense. Of the 13 outs recorded in the field, all involved the left side of the defense.

Prestonsburg committed only two errors in the game, and Tim Lester and Worthy McGuire, in center and left field, combined for eight put outs in as many chances.

Cavins gave up only six hits in the complete game performance. He struck out eight and walked none, and retired the last eight Martin County hitters.

"We think they did a good job," Huffman said of his team's play. "It was a total team effort. We've come down here and played two games, and out of 14 players, 13 have played in each game, with the other player being our next pitcher."

Seven different players hit safely for Prestonsburg in Sunday's game. John Clark and Kevin Hall had two each as did Tim Lester. Brian Carter, Tommy Poe, and Robbie Davis all hit safely for P'burg.

The team, which is in a solid position to capture the District title, will play again Thursday evening at Paintsville, taking on either Magoffin County or Morgan County.

"We'll go out and play seven innings of hard nosed baseball, and look up at the scoreboard at the end of the game. Hopefully we'll be ahead," Huffman said.

So far Prestonsburg has done that, and so far they've been ahead. With their pitchers well rested, and their ability to play defense, they appear to be in the driver's seat, as long as they are willing to drive.

The Sporting Times

Thanks, Don, for telling them just how it is, or maybe how it should be. In your day the high and tight fastball had a place in baseball. Presently all it does is instigate brawls.

Don Drysdale, in his prime as a pitcher for the Dodgers, utilized the knock down pitch, more politely referred to as a high and tight fastball, as an effective weapon against hitters.

Now, though, if a pitcher even comes inside the pampered and petty hitter cries to the umpire, points to the mound, and sometimes even makes a trip out there.

Fights are common and harmless in baseball, but it takes some starch from the game when the pitcher is limited in what he can do, and how close he can come inside.

Drysdale, commenting recently on the topic, said if the situation with the hitters got any worse the baseball would have to be set on a tee for them. That is putting it in perspective.

Drysdale was an aggressive pitcher who never feared the idea of bringing the heater up and in. It made him a much more effective pitcher.

One thing Drysdale did constantly was to back hitters off the plate, not allowing them to lean out over the plate in an attempt to reach the outside pitch.

But these days hitters take offense to this. The inside fastball is a personal insult to them, an invitation for a quick trip to the mound.

And as the situation has continued to develop over the recent years, the pitcher has become the victim, not only of the batter but the umpire as well.

The men in blue seem to be on the side of the men packing the wood. It is the pitcher that gets warned and ejected from games for merely trying to keep hitters honest.

Guys such as Andre Dawson, Daryl Strawberry, and Mark McGuire make a habit of going after the pitcher every time they get hit with a pitch, or moved back off the plate.

It's kind of like a Sunday driver. They want to take their half out of the middle.

But this doesn't work, especially for the pitcher. Regardless of his throwing ability, no pitcher can be effective when the inside part of the plate is taken from him, and in the past couple years it has been.

Since the days of Abner Doubleday, the high and tight fastball has been commonplace in setting the tone for the following pitch. And since those early days it has worked.

At least until recently. At least until baseball has decided to take it away. More umpires are ejecting pitchers who are "accused" of throwing at batters.

McGuire, a young slugger for the Oakland Athletics, says they (the pitchers) are threatening his career by throwing at his head, and he will trip to the mound.

Pittsburgh Helps Cincinnati In Chase For Top West Spot

There is little help for those who refuse to help themselves, but this past week the Cincinnati Reds got support from outside and within to aid in their chase of Los Angeles.

While they rest during the all-star break, the Reds find themselves trailing LA by seven and one-half games. Cincinnati could certainly have been closer at this stage of the season, but without the Pittsburgh Pirates' help they would have been much further away.

Although Pittsburgh may not like the idea of boosting the Reds toward the top Western Division spot, it was a have to case for them.

The Pirates, in an all-out war with New York over supremacy in the East, swept Los Angeles in a three-game weekend series in LA, allowing Cincinnati to pull two and one-half games closer to the division leading Dodgers.

But the Reds didn't hurt their own chances either. They took three of four games from Philadelphia, putting themselves in a position to challenge after the break.

Cincinnati, winners of seven of their last 10, could have been even closer had they not failed to support Jose Rijo Friday night.

Rijo, one reason why Cincinnati is still in the race, limited the Phillies to one hit through seven innings, but lost his bid for a shutout and a victory on one pitch in the eighth.

Milt Thompson led the inning off with a solo homerun, the second hit off Rijo, which proved to be the winning run as Philadelphia squeezed out a 1-0 victory. Rijo, 9-4, lost the game despite yielding only three hits in seven and two-thirds innings of work.

Roberts Runs In July 4th Races

Salute the Flag:
This quaint Fourth of July race, ran for several years at the Oneida Baptist School at Lost Creek, Ky.; has a small turnout but a festive atmosphere. Vance Revenaugh, a teacher at the school took the lead after the first mile, pulling away from second place runner Tim Bailey, of Owingsville, to win in 16:29. Bailey was second in 16:46, followed by Rick Roberts, of Nike/Athletic Attic in 17:01. Roberts had to come from behind late in the race to catch Kevin Martin, of Hazard. Martin was fourth in 17:05.

In the women's division, Katrina Mosley won the title in 21:13.

Ashland Regatta 10,000; Tim Back, of Lexington, former Morehead State runner, won the 6.2 mile race in 32:33. Over 300 runners ran in the race. Julie Ispording, former Xavier University runner and a 1984 marathoner on the U.S. Olympic team, finished 13th overall winning the women's title in 34:30.

Locally Rick Roberts finished 21st in 36:52 placing in the top five in his 30-34 age group.

The 4th annual Moonlight Mile: This 9:00 p.m. event attracted some fast milers. The course record of 4:35 set three years ago by Mike Wilson, of Morehead, who ran for Colorado State, was broken by former Marshall runner Tim Caudill.

Caudill, running in second to Prestonsburg's Sri Sundaram, kicked by at the finish to win in 4:29, a new record. Sundaram was second in 4:32. The 1986 and 1987 defending champion Rick Roberts, of Allen, tried to stick with Nike/Athletic Attic teammate Tim Caudill but fell back to finish 5th in 4:49. Wife Mary Hudkins Roberts finished 39th overall to win the 35-39 women's age group in 8:59.

Top women's finisher, Debbie Bidle, of Cynthia, Ky., shattered the women's record with a 5:44 victory.

But Cincinnati woke their bats up Saturday, especially the ones belonging to Eric Davis and Nick Esasky.

With two out in the seventh, Chris Sabo standing on third, and the score tied at 3-3, Davis ripped a double off the wall, and Esasky followed with a two-run homerun, his seventh homerun of the season, to give the Reds a 6-3 advantage.

That lead held up as Cincinnati pulled out a three-run victory. All three seventh inning runs came after two were out.

The Reds had trailed 3-1 heading into the bottom of the fifth, but a two-out error allowed Kal Daniels to score, and allowed Esasky to continue the inning. The Cincy first baseman singled to score Sabo and tie the game at 3-3.

Rob Dibble, who was pitching in relief of starter Tom Browning, received the victory, his first in the Major Leagues.

Sunday afternoon Eric Davis continued to carry much of the offensive load, going three for four at the plate as Cincinnati hung on to defeat Philadelphia 5-4 at Riverfront.

Davis, who has been criticized by many for his quiet bat and nagging complaints, drove in three runs, two coming on his 14th homerun of the season.

The big hitting performance allowed another Cincinnati pitcher, this time Jack Armstrong, to win his first game of the season. Armstrong, 1-3, pitched five and one-third innings to earn the victory. He gave up four hits and three runs in his most successful outing in five previous starts.

Cincinnati gave their young pitcher plenty of support early, scoring twice in the first and three times in the fifth to stake Armstrong to a 5-0 advantage.

Shortstop Barry Larkin led the game off with a single, and was followed by a Kal Daniels single and a Chris Sabo walk as Cincinnati loaded the bases with nobody out. Davis banged out a single to score one and Tracy Jones was hit by a pitch to score another as the Reds went up 2-0 after one inning.

In the fifth Larkin doubled and scored when Sabo laced a double, his 32nd of the year. That leads the National League. Davis followed with a homerun to give Cincinnati the 5-0 lead.

Davis, in just over half a season, has hit 14 homeruns and driven in 45 runs. His batting average in near .250, but even with these credible numbers, he has drawn much criticism for his play.

Last season the Reds center fielder got off to an incredible start before fading in the later part of the season. He proved in the spring of 1987 that he could carry a team for an extended period of games. He proved in the spring of 1988 that he is only human.

But now Cincinnati manager Pete Rose is hoping for a return of Super Davis, the one that set the league on fire for the first three months of last season. "He's the type of guy who in the next two weeks could get up among the league leaders real quick," Rose was quoted as saying. "That's the kind of hitter he is."

It is true that Davis is lagging far behind his first half performance of a year ago, but so is Kal Daniels, and Bo Diaz; the whole Cincinnati team for that matter.

The Reds were picked by many to win the West, and in the past two weeks they have looked like the team that was supposed to. If Davis returns to offensive form it shouldn't take them long to catch LA.

They will begin what is considered as the second half of that quest Thursday when they travel to Montreal for the first of a four game series with the Expos. The Reds and Expos play three night games before wrapping the series up Sunday in a 1:35 start.

Cincinnati then returns to Riverfront to open a seven-game homestand against New York and Montreal. The Reds, who won two of three in New York recently, open a three-game series with the Mets Monday night.

The Sporting Times

Strawberry, who probably leads the Major Leagues in starting fights, has charged the mound on a pitch that was simply inside. To him it doesn't have to draw skin.

What is to save the pitchers? It should start with stiffer penalties for hitters who fail to hit the dirt on a close pitch, who take it on the chin then take it to the Astroturf in a show of fist power.

But it's even nicer to have a catcher like Gary Carter. In a recent game with the Chicago Cubs, Carter collared Andre Dawson after the Chicago outfielder headed toward the mound. Dawson, who was hit by a pitch after a Cubs' homerun, started after New York pitcher Bob Ojeda, but never made it to the infield grass. Carter held him in his tracks, and a possible brawl was avoided.

It's a terrible sight to see a fallen batter unconscious from taking a pitch to the head, or a career ended from a pitch that was too close, but that is a nasty fact of baseball.

No pitcher should have the freedom to throw at batters, but no batter should be given permission to control both sides of the plate.

It is what makes baseball great, the pitcher vs hitter confrontation, and how the pitcher works the hitter is what makes the confrontation great.

Baseball, the pitcher, and the fans are being cheated by the protection and prejudice shown toward the hitter. After all, what else does he need? He takes a 33 ounce piece of wood with him every time he goes into battle.

A homerun is nice...for a second or two, but a pitchers' duel lasts forever. Their actions can be closely monitored, but please Mr. Blue, let them do their jobs.

Come with that high heater. A man without quick reflexes won't stay long in the big leagues anyway.

GETTING A LEAD: Steve Miller takes his lead off second in a recent American Legion double header at Pikeville. Miller has scored over a run a game for Floyd County.

13-Year-Olds Lose Big Lead Fall Short To Martin County

It looked for the longest time that Prestonsburg had everything going their way. They had been hitting the baseball with ease, and at one point in the game they held a big lead.

Going into the fifth inning Prestonsburg still led 6-5, but it was about then that the wheels came off their offense, their defense suffered a major letdown, and their pitching took a quick exit and disappeared from the game.

The Prestonsburg All-Stars once led 4-0, scoring four times in the top of the first, but Martin County kept inching closer, and in the fifth they scored eight runs to blow the game wide open.

They added five more runs in the sixth to pull out an 18-11 victory Sunday in the Senior Little League tournament being held at Paintsville.

The loss, Prestonsburg's first in the tournament, dropped them to 1-1 in the double elimination event. They play today at 5:00, taking on host Paintsville who lost big to Morgan County in their first contest.

"Attitude," Jim Sparks, the team's coach, said. "We've got good hitters, we've got good defense, and we've got good pitching. All we need is attitude. The boys have got to have that winning attitude and today they just didn't have it."

Martin County banged out 15 hits in the game, and Prestonsburg committed seven errors to assist MC's offensive efforts. But Sparks figures his team is capable of much better play.

"If these boys get their attitudes right, and get into playing they can't be beat. I really believe that," he said. "We can win this tournament."

"Today we just waited too late," the coach continued. "We've got a good team, but we waited too late today to do any damage."

Prestonsburg scored four runs in the first inning on three hits and two walks. The big hit proved to be a three-run double from right fielder C.D. Poston. With two out and the bases loaded Poston drilled a double, scoring Richard Stewart, Aaron Tucker, and Ronnie Goodman.

Stewart and Tucker had earlier singled while Goodman reached base on a walk. Tucker's single scored Brandon Lowe who led the game off with a walk.

Prestonsburg, after Martin County had cut their lead in half with two runs in the bottom of the first, scored two more times in the third, going up 6-2. Tucker and James Derossett walked and scored on errors for the two third inning runs.

Prestonsburg, though failed to mount any offensive attack through the next two innings, and at the same time Martin County continued to eat away at the lead. They scored twice in the third, and added another in the fourth to pull to within one run.

And in the fifth everything went Martin County's way, and Prestonsburg could only watch as their game fell apart. Martin County had four hits in the inning, but Prestonsburg pitcher Scott McGuire walked two and his defense committed a costly error, allowing Martin County to build a seven-run lead.

Even though they trailed by a bunch, Prestonsburg managed one more rally, scoring one run in the sixth, and four in the seventh, but Martin County, 2-0 in the tournament, had padded their lead with five runs in the bottom of the sixth.

McGuire, who pitched four and one-third innings, was tagged with the loss. He gave up eight runs and eight hits during his pitching stint.

Poston relieved McGuire with one out in the fifth and finished the game. He gave up 10 runs on seven hits. He also walked four batters.

Robbie Fletcher went the distance for Martin County to receive the victory. Prestonsburg had eight hits off the righthander. Seven of the 11 runs they scored were earned.

Tucker, Poston, and McGuire all had two hits each for Prestonsburg. Lowe and Stewart also hit safely for the local squad.

Saturday afternoon Prestonsburg banged out 11 hits on their way to a 14-9 tournament opening victory over Fleming-Neon. James Derossett scored three runs, and Ben Johnson, Ronnie Goodman, and Aaron Tucker crossed the plate twice for Prestonsburg.

Leadoff Hitter Brandon Lowe was three for five in the game, leading Prestonsburg offensively. Ben Johnson added two hits to the winning cause.

Prestonsburg trailed in the game 5-0 before they could get their offense in gear. They plated four runs in the second and added two in the third to take a lead they never gave up.

Derossett, Johnson, Goodman, and Dickie Johnson all scored runs in the second when Prestonsburg plated four runs to move to within one run of Fleming-Neon. They took the lead in the third as Tucker and Derossett walked and scored.

Prestonsburg added another four spot in the fifth and scored four more times in the sixth to secure the win.

Aaron Tucker was the winning pitcher for Prestonsburg. The righthander pitched all seven innings, giving up eight hits and four earned runs. He struck out nine and walked only three.

Prestonsburg takes on Paintsville today at 5:00, and the loser will be eliminated from the tournament. The winner will advance to the finals of the loser's bracket.

Expos Win Regular Season Title

The Expos won the P-burg Senior Little League Season title with a 14-5 record. Season highlights included three come-from-behind, bottom-of-the-seventh wins. Trailing the Reds 8-7 with two out and one man on second, Kevin Hall hit a 3-2 pitch for a z-run, game winning home run. Against the Cubs trailing 9 to 8 with two outs on, runners on second and third, Keith Hopkins hit a 3-2 pitch for a game winning double. Just when things look their worst and at one point trailing 12-0 against the Brewers (season runner-up) the Expos rallied to within 12-10 going into seventh. Mike Crace led the inning off with an infield hit followed by another solid hit by Josh Hyden to score Crace. The two following batters both went down on strikes then. Jason Storey followed with a walk. Both runners, Hyden and Storey advanced to second and third on wild pitches. With the count 2-2, Chris Cavins drilled a single to left scoring the tying and winning runs.

Although the Expos led the league most of the season it took three season-ending consecutive wins to take the title in which the Expo's outscored their opponents 51 to 6.

Babe Ruth Tournaments Start Play Saturday

It is their last time as representatives of Floyd County's Babe Ruth League, and most observers seem to think that maybe this year could prove to be their best ever.

But that will take some doing. The past two years have brought two district championships back to the county, but this year the 15-year-old Floyd County All-Stars have set their sights much farther than the district.

Last year, and the year before, this group of talented diamond performers won the district, but failed to advance beyond the sectional tournament. This year, should be a different story.

"I think we've got a real good shot at going somewhere this year. We've got a lot of talent on this team, and if we can get the right chemistry going I think we've got a real good shot at it," P.D. Gearheart, coach of the team, said.

"I've had them for three years now,"

Gearheart said. "We've got one more shot at it, and hopefully we can make something out of it."

Ability should not be a problem for the team. Several of the players saw considerable action at the high school level this past season, some even in starting roles.

Mickey Parsons, Adam Gearheart, Brad Compton, Kevin Isaac, and Chad Hamilton, members of the 15-year-old team, all started games for their respective high schools during the spring season.

Parsons, a shortstop-pitcher from Allen Central, served as the Rebels' regular shortstop and finished as one of the team's leading hitters, batting close to .400. He also pitched in several games.

Gearheart, for Betsy Layne, saw starting duty at third base and shortstop while also enjoying a solid season at the plate.

Chad Hamilton, a southpaw was the Bobcats starting first baseman while the seniors were gone, and he pitched several innings for Betsy Layne.

Compton and Isaac both started for Wheelwright this past year. Compton pitched and played first while Isaac performed as a starter in the outfield.

Joey Gray and Stewart Robinson, from Allen Central and Prestonsburg, are two more Floyd County All-Stars that contributed nicely to their high school teams this spring.

With this type of talent, added to a strong supporting cast, the 15-year-old team is expected to enjoy a successful all-star summer, even more so than the past two.

"They've come a long way," Gearheart said. "You can tell a big difference this year talent wise over last year. My pitching should be a little stronger than what I had last year."

Gearheart holds high praise for the mound ability of Adam Gearheart, Hamilton, Parsons, and Compton, but adds that Keith Hall, a slender lefty, may be the best of the lot.

All five of his pitchers went to the hill during the high school season, and all are veterans of all-star tournament play.

The 15-year-olds will begin their tournament quest Saturday when they play Hazard at 3:30 in Paintsville. All all-star tournaments are double elimination.

The 14-year-old all-stars also play in Paintsville. The team coached by Charles Lafferty, is scheduled to begin tournament play Saturday as well.

The youngest of the Babe Ruth all-stars, the 13-year-old team, will have the luxury of playing at home. They open their tournament Saturday at 3:30, taking on Hazard.

The tournament, which will be held at Allen Park, is scheduled to begin at 1:00 Saturday with Carr Fork taking on Johnson County. The double elimination event will decide it's champion Tuesday evening.

Floyd County's entrant is considered to be one of the tournament's favorite.

"Everybody that sees us practice says that we have a good chance of winning the tournament," coach Jackie Crisp said. "They tell me that the team in it usually aren't that strong."

"I know we'll have a good hitting team, and we'll be a good defensive team, but we could use some pitching help. If our pitching holds up we'll be in good shape," he said.

NOTE: Due to the Babe Ruth tournament beginning Saturday, Floyd County's American Legion baseball team will play at Allen Park Friday night. Floyd County will take on Chapmanville, West Virginia in a double header that begins at 5:00. The American Legion regular season ends July 23, and tournament play will start the final week of July. The public is encouraged to come out and watch the county's best baseball players play their best baseball.

Morehead State University, in a decision last week, has announced they will allow Steve Hamilton to continue what he started one year ago.

Hamilton, a graduate of MSU and former baseball and basketball player, has served the past year as the school's acting athletic director, but was hired last week as the permanent AD.

Hamilton, who holds school records in basketball, has been Morehead State's baseball coach for the past 13 years. He plans to continue in that capacity for at least through next season.

The appointment came last week, and it is expected to be accepted by the Board of Regents when they meet next month.

It seems as if winning in both leagues is a fact of life for Sparky Anderson and Nolan Ryan, and by doing so Saturday night, both reached milestones.

Anderson, a former manager for Cincinnati, won his 800th American League game Saturday when his Detroit Tigers defeated Oakland 4-3. The win made Anderson the only manager in history to win at least 800 games in each league.

Anderson, who took Cincinnati to four World Series in the 1970's has his Tigers in first place now, and they own the best record in the Major Leagues.

Nolan Ryan defeated the New York Mets 6-3 Saturday for his 100th win in a Houston Astro's uniform.

Earlier in his career Ryan won 138 for the California Angels. He, along with Cy Young, are the only two pitchers who have ever won at least 100 games for two different teams, in different leagues.

Ryan, 41, is 6-7 this season despite having a 4.30 earned run average. The veteran pitcher has played in the Major Leagues for 20 years.

Young won over 100 games for Cleveland of the NL before moving to the AL and passing the 100-victory mark for Boston.

COMPLETE GAME WIN: Righthander Chris Cavins pitched a complete game as Prestonsburg defeated Martin County 7-3 Sunday in the Senior League district tournament.

Bassin' With the Pros...

Keys To Finding Bass Quick

One of the factors that continually separates America's top professional bass anglers from more casual fishermen is their ability to locate bass very quickly, even on lakes they may never have fished before.

Larry Nixon, a member of the Evinrude Pro Staff, is one of the best at this, as his tournament record shows. Nixon has the 1983 Bass Masters Classic® in his portfolio, along with eleven other national tournament wins, and total winnings of more than $650,000 in 11 years.

Nixon can boil his technique of locating fish down to four easy steps that can be followed by any bass angler on any lake in the nation. Best of all, they're easy to learn.

"The first thing I do," says Nixon, "is choose a particular part of a lake in which to concentrate. This can be a single creek or tributary, or a large bay. This area will have a lot of shallow water around it, because that is where bass spawn, and they won't be far away."

"I specifically like an area that has a lot of four to eight foot depths, which gives plenty of options to the bass."

"My area will also have deep water nearby, which gives me the chance for larger bass. Over the years, I have learned having a shallow water-deep water combination is one of the most important factors in bass fishing, and I always make certain I'm fishing near deeper water."

One way of fishing a large flat, according to Nixon, is to work out until it begins breaking up into deeper water, either with small dropoffs, channels, or ditches. Once it does this, an angler can begin looking for cover.

Choosing only a portion of a lake to fish offers several advantages. First, it allows an angler to completely eliminate the rest of the lake. He can concentrate harder, and because the area is smaller, he can cover it faster.

Nixon recommends anglers choose a wide body of water rather than a narrow area, because it will hold more fish. On many lakes, bass will tend to be more shallow in the upper end of the lake because that water is normally more dingy and murky.

The second part of Nixon's plan for locating bass is to begin fishing every type of cover he sees. He does not specifically eliminate one type, such as grass, before moving to something else. He fishes grass, stumps, timber or whatever happens to be in his path.

The key here is fishing efficiently. That means using lures designed for the type of cover being worked, and presenting those lures properly. It also means working fast, making short casts and keeping the lure in the water. Most often, Nixon recommends anglers use spinnerbaits or crank baits when first starting to search for bass because the lures can be fished quickly.

The third step is to concentrate on visible cover, but if there is a lot of it, to key on whatever appears different in that cover.

"Whenever you find one little area better than the rest," says the Evinrude pro, "something will invariably be different about it, even though everything might look alike at first glance."

"When you catch a fish or two from a spot, move on past it, then fish your way back very carefully, looking for that change. More often than not, that change will be on the bottom, such as a small ditch, a dropoff, a mound or hump."

Because being able to find these subtle differences in the bottom is so important, many anglers have a depth-finder mounted on the bow of their boats. They watch them carefully as they cast to the different targets.

To Nixon, a bass pattern is simply the cover and depth bass are using. He considers proper lure choice and lure presentation as refinements of a pattern. When similar conditions exist over a lake, bass will usually be acting the same way in those areas.

"I rarely fish for bass deeper than 10 or 12 feet, except during the hot summer. My favorite depth is between four and 10 feet, where it is easy to work lures and feel strikes," he notes.

Nixon's fourth and final piece of the puzzle is confidence, which he rates as the most important. Having a positive attitude, he feels, determines how efficiently an angler fishes, and how clearly he is able to analyze the different pieces of the puzzle he's trying to solve.

Nixon emphasizes that until an angler knows what the bass are doing it is not necessary to move more than a short distance from a launching area. In the beginning of your search for fish, study a lake map to choose your fishing area, then launch your boat as close to it as possible to save valuable fishing time.

Finding bass is a puzzle every angler faces each time he launches his boat to go fishing. The key to doing it the way the tournament pros do is concentrating on only a small part of the lake, and fishing it as thoroughly and efficiently as possible.

One look at Larry Nixon's professional tournament record of wins and prize money won proves it works.

Summer Sun And High Temperatures Can Cause Injury

Almost anyone can suffer some kind of problem when the temperatures register 95 to 100 degrees Fahrenheit, or more. In Kentucky, it happens every summer.

When it gets hot, people sweat. As sweat evaporates into the air, it helps to cool the body. But when the weather is both extremely hot and humidity is high, the body has trouble meeting the demands.

Disaster and Emergency Services officials want you to know these heat wave safety tips:

*Your health—Do what your physician recommends. If you are ill, extreme heat increases many risks. Be careful.

*Slow down—Strenuous activities should be done only in the coolest times of day.

*Dress for summer—Lightweight, light-colored clothing reflects heat and sunlight, and this helps your body maintain its normal temperature.

*Drink plenty of water—Your body needs water to keep cool. Drink plenty of fluids and avoid alcoholic beverages.

*Watch what you eat—A high protein diet increases the rate your body burns calories, and also steps up your loss of water. A good hot weather idea is just to eat less.

*Salt tablets—Persons on salt restricted diets anyway should consult a physician before taking extra salt.

*Find a cool spot—Air conditioning does much to reduce the dangers of heat waves. If you don't have air conditioning, find somewhere where you can go to cool down.

Brown sugar will keep soft if removed from the package and placed in a dry glass jar with a fresh peel of lemon.

SPORTS SHORTS

Nicknamed the "Bouncing Barrister," Willie Banks divides his time between perfecting his championship triple jump and putting his law degree to use. Banks estimates his 250 days a year of practicing, competing and traveling to meets cost him about $60,000 in lost working time. Banks and other athletes bound for the Summer Olympic Games in Seoul, South Korea, get no financial assistance from the U.S. government.

Fortunately for Banks and other American athletes, corporations have helped make up for the lack of government funding. For example, Visa U.S.A. has launched three separate fund-raising programs for the 1988 U.S. Olympic Team, in addition to its multi-million dollar commitment as a worldwide sponsor of the Games.

One program gives member banks the option to issue Visa cards or travelers cheques bearing a Visa/Olympic composite logo and to donate part of the customer fee to the U.S. Olympic Team. The goal of all three programs is to raise two million dollars for the 1988 team. In addition, individuals can contribute through a special toll-free number, 1-800-VISA-USA. That could add up to a lot of gold for American athletes this summer.

The tournament, now in its 14th year, was started to endow a scholarship in memory of Kenneth Huffman. "Kenny loved the game of tennis and his death touched this community," Williamson said.

Events will include Men's A and B Singles, Men's A and B Doubles, Mixed Doubles and Women's Singles. No telephone entries will be accepted. Entry fees include $7 for all A and B singles and $14 per team for doubles. Each entrant is expected to provide one unopened can of Championship Penn or Wilson tennis balls.

The trophies are provided by the First National Bank of Pikeville, and the gift certificates for winners and runners-up are courtesy of WYMT-TV. There will also be a drawing among all participants for gifts such as tickets to the Jenny Wiley Summer Theatre, two 48 qt. beverage coolers (donated by East Kentucky Beverage), and gift certificates from local merchants. Each participant will also receive a souvenir T-shirt from East Kentucky Beverage.

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY FOR ALL WATER SYSTEMS PERTAINING TO LEAD IN DRINKING WATER

"The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) sets drinking water standards and has determined that lead is a health concern at certain levels of exposure. There is currently a standard of 0.050 parts per million (ppm). Based on new health information, EPA is likely to lower this standard significantly.

"Part of the purpose of this notice is to inform you of the potential adverse health effects of lead. This is being done even though your water may not be in violation of the current standard.

"EPA and others are concerned about lead in drinking water. Too much lead in the human body can cause serious damage to the brain, kidneys, nervous system, and red blood cells. The greatest risk, even with short-term exposure, is to your young children and pregnant women. "Lead levels in your drinking water are likely to be highest:

- if your home or water system has lead pipes, or
- if your home has copper pipes with lead solder, and
- if the home is less than five years old, or
- if you have soft or acidic water, or
- if water sits in the pipes for several hours."

The following steps can reduce the possible consumption of water with high lead concentrations.

1. Flush cold water pipes before drinking—5-30 seconds
2. Use only water from cold water pipes for drinking, cooking or preparing baby formula.
3. Lead pipes and service connections can be replaced.
4. Insist that only lead free materials be used in repairs or new plumbing.

The Auxier Water Company purchases water for distribution from Prestonsburg City Utilities. The Managements of both water systems are working together to provide water that is non-corrosive and less likely to dissolve lead in plumbing.

LEAD PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE TO PERSONS SERVED BY MARTIN WATER WORKS

PERTAINING TO LEAD IN DRINKING WATER

Read and keep the following information on the potential hazards of lead in drinking water and what can be done to maintain any risk to you. The Martin Water Works, in cooperation with the Drinking Water Branch of the Kentucky Division of water and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is providing this information, as required by federal law.

Lead can occur at potentially harmful levels in tap water if the plumbing fixtures through which the water travels, including the solders and fluxes used to connect them, contain lead. The EPA has recently mandated that all newly installed plumbing materials be essentially lead-free.

"The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) sets drinking water standards and has determined that lead is a health concern at certain levels of exposure. There is currently a standard of 0.050 parts per million (ppm). Based on new health information, EPA is likely to lower this standard significantly.

"Part of the purpose of this notice is to inform you of the potential adverse health effects of lead. This is being done even though your water may not be in violation of the current standard.

"EPA and others are concerned about lead in drinking water. Too much lead in the human body can cause serious damage to the brain, kidneys, nervous system, and red blood cells. The greatest risk, even with short-term exposure, is to young children and pregnant women. "Lead levels in your drinking water are likely to be highest:

- if your home or water system has lead pipes, or
- if your home has copper pipes with lead solder, and
- if the home is less than five (5) years old, or
- if you have soft or acidic water, or
- if water sits in the pipes for several hours."

To find out which type of plumbing you have, look at it and perform the following simple tests:

-Lead pipe is most often found in very old homes and buildings. Lead pipe is gray, relatively soft, and can be easily scratched to shine with a screwdriver, coin, or key. Some iron pipe may look like lead pipe; however, iron pipe is very hard and usually black.

-Copper pipe usually has a characteristic copper color. Until very recently, most copper pipe was installed using lead-based solder. Lead solder is also gray, soft, and can be scratched shiny. Copper pipe that has been soldered with lead usually contributes less lead to the water as time passes because the solder gets coated with minerals from the water. After being installed about (5) years, lead solder usually contributes very small amounts of lead to the water.

-Iron, steel, and "plastic" pipes have not been associated with any health effects from lead since they contain very small amounts of lead or none, and are assembled without lead solder.

You can reduce the possibility of consuming water with high lead concentrations by following these simple precautions:

- If the water has not been used for several hours, flush the cold water pipes before using the water for human consumption. Turn on the faucet and let the water run until the water temperature cools and gets no cooler. If there has recently been major water use, such as showering, bathing, flushing toilets, or cold water laundry, flushing the pipes may take only 5-30 seconds. If there has been no recent major water use, flushing the pipes may take several minutes.
- Use only cold water for drinking, cooking, or preparing baby formula.
- If new plumbing is installed or repairs are made, insist that lead-free materials be used.
- Lead pipes and service connections can be replaced.

The only way to be sure of the amount of lead in your water is to have the water tested by a state certified laboratory. Contact the Martin Water Works or the Drinking Water Branch of the Kentucky Division of Water for information about testing.

The Martin Water Works purchases non-corrosive water that is less likely to dissolve lead from plumbing.

The test results of water samples collected from the Martin Water Works distribution system indicate a lead concentration average of 0.001 parts per million.

The Martin Water Works purchases and distributes water that is within the established maximum contaminant level for lead.

The Martin Water Works does not have lead service lines or other lead-containing materials in our distribution system.

Martin Water Works purchases water for distribution from the Prestonsburg City Utilities. The managements of both water systems are working together to provide water that is non-corrosive and less likely to dissolve lead in plumbing.

MOVIE NOSTALGIA

By Evan Levine

If "show, don't tell" is the creed of writers, "Tell, but don't show" seemed to be the principle behind many films of the '30s and '40s. Case in point: "Body Heat" (1981) took its premise from the slinky "Double Indemnity" (1944) — but its steamy scenes between William Hurt and Kathleen Turner were only hinted at in the earlier film.

Much of "Double Indemnity" relied on the use of implication rather than direct statements. Fred MacMurray played Walter Neff, a brooding insurance salesman who is lured into murdering the husband of bored socialite Phyllis Dietrichson (Barbara Stanwyck). From being an investigator of phony insurance claim scams, Neff (far removed from the sweated Steve Douglas of "My Three Sons") becomes embroiled in one, as he investigates the murder he committed.

Neff spends much of the movie staring hungrily at Dietrichson's legs and slit-up-to-there wardrobe. The romance between them involved implied liaisons, relying on meaningful looks and lingering camera angles. We thought there was something going on — but we never saw it.

The movie seemed almost to employ a kind of shorthand. Dietrichson's stiletto heels and tight sweaters said Femme Fatale; Neff's wide-eyed stare and bland suits said Ordinary Guy Caught Up Beyond His Control. Even Edward G. Robinson, playing Neff's boss, was the model of the Hard-nosed but Fair-minded Workaholic.

The dialogue, too, written by Raymond Chandler, used now-stereotypical clipped, melodramatic phrasing to telegraph the themes. "Straight down the line," said Neff and Dietrichson to each other, indicating their commitment to the murder, playing on the notion that it would occur on a train, signaling their cold-blooded dedication to their plan.

Despite what now appear to be prototypical elements of a particular genre, overall "Double Indemnity" showed that telling could be slicker than showing.

Question: What is the meaning of the title?

Answer: A "double indemnity" clause in the insurance policy paid double if the deceased was killed in a particular manner, such as on a train.

Convention, Rather says, will not be climactic

By Paul Elie

It is 7:30 p.m., the down time after "The CBS Evening News," and Dan Rather is relaxing in the "fishbowl," the round, glassed-in studio where the broadcast is produced. All year long Rather has been in the fishbowl, under scrutiny: as the press mulled over his confrontation with George Bush; as two books about CBS dramatized the network's petty office politics; as he and Charles Kuralt stood inside the Kremlin covering the Moscow summit - the only summit CBS has been on top of lately.

Dan Rather

Tonight, Rather is looking forward - to the Democratic National Convention, which will be covered by all three networks, PBS and cable's CNN and C-SPAN from Monday, July 18, through Thursday, July 21. Conventions can be a showcase for a news division's skills. But with the nomination already decided, it is likely that Rather and his network counterparts - Peter Jennings at ABC, Tom Brokaw at NBC - will often be forced to stall through the proceedings, like sportscasters waiting out a rain delay.

"I like to think that I'm known for straight talk," Rather says, "and straight talk this year dictates that the convention will not be the climactic event that it has been in past years. But that doesn't mean that what happens there isn't important."

CNN is covering the convention "gavel to gavel" - virtually round the clock - as the broadcast networks once did. The networks, understandably, are limiting their coverage to prime time. Yet Rather, still snarling from charges of superficiality and from highly publicized budget cuts at CBS, seems compelled to defend the network's decision.

"I'm a reporter, and as a reporter I wish we were going gavel to gavel," he says. "I wish we were doing what we've done in the past. But I recognize the realities. We've reduced time because the reality is, the major decisions have already been made."

"Without meaning to be unfavorable to CNN, just having cameras and microphones there is not enough," he adds. "At a convention, experience and contacts count."

Rather concedes that his celebrity keeps him from roaming the floor as he once did. "But I've found that for every way it impedes me," he says, "there's another way it opens doors for me." And then he smoothes over the defensiveness that has always dogged him: "Look, I don't complain - I've got a great job and I know it."

1988 CONVENTION

"CBS Evening News" anchor Dan Rather hosts the network's coverage of the 1988 Democratic National Convention, airing live from Atlanta on TUESDAY, JULY 19. Coverage continues through Thursday.

Tony O'Dell has learned from 'Head of the Class'

By Wendy Wallace

Tony O'Dell

"We want to get somewhere in life, so we're staying in school," he says. "It's good to see that change, instead of having students just sitting around in classrooms." Since "Head of the Class" premiered in 1986, its popularity with audiences has kept it in the top 20 of the Nielsen ratings. The last series of any similarity was "Welcome Back, Kotter," with Gabe Kaplan, which aired from 1975 to 1979. Although the students on "Kotter" were considered "outcasts" just as the prodigies on "Head of the Class" are, O'Dell is quick to point out that that is where comparisons between the two series end. "There are similarities, in that there is a teacher-classroom situation," he says. "But you find a certain amount of wit and charm to 'Head of the Class.' We are not a slapstick comedy. We've gotten into the students' social, personal and academic problems. "And I don't think any of the situations or the jokes are presented in a corny or unrealistic way," he adds. "It's very thought out and everything is presented right out there in front of you. We offer you a good time as 10 geniuses who are challenging our teacher, Mr. Moore (Howard Hesseman). He's so concerned about us that there's something that you can learn from his lessons in every episode." O'Dell, a native of Pasadena, Calif., attended the American Academy of Dramatic Arts. He has appeared in several films, including "The Karate Kid," "The Karate Kid II" and "Falling in Love Again." On television, he has guest-starred on the series "Airwolf," "Simon & Simon," "Dynasty" and "Otherworld." "Head of the Class" has taught me a lot," he says. "Now, as an adult, I know the importance of studies. I'm happy with a project that I can sink my teeth into. I have a chance to make it better. With this role, I have the challenge to do something great."

MARQUEE

COMING TO AMERICA (R - Paramount) Starring Eddie Murphy. ★½

By J.T. YURKO

The Eddie Murphy magic has enabled fair films such as "Golden Child" and terrible films such as "Beverly Hills Cop II" to make tons of money. "Coming to America" will make another ton, and make even more fans for Murphy — in this, his most subdued role, he is great. The movie, though, is dreadful.

Murphy plays Prince Akeem, a wealthy African royal who is about to be wed to a bride who was selected for him at birth. Although the princess-to-be is a beauty, she is nothing more than a glorified servant, and Prince Akeem wants to marry an independent, modern woman.

Where can one find such a woman? In America, of course. And where in America can one find the wife of a king? In Queens, of course. So it's off to Queens, N.Y., for Akeem and his friend Semmi (Arsenio Hall).

The two of them, of course, find the culture of Queens to be a little different from their own. Seeking to pose as simple people, they head for the

★ Cancer Hopeline

QUESTION: Ten years ago I had a radical mastectomy. There was only a slight swelling of my arm after the surgery. During the past year the swelling has increased, and I now wear an elastic sleeve. I would like to know if there are other things I could do to improve my arm. For example, do you recommend any type of exercise?

ANSWER: The swelling you describe is called lymphedema. When lymph nodes under the arm are removed during breast cancer surgery, excess lymph fluid can later drain into the arm causing it to swell. This is a common problem which occurs to some degree in 50 to 70 percent of the women who have this surgery. Fortunately, it is severe in only 10 percent of cases.

When lymphedema occurs, the treatment must be modified for each patient. We are happy to provide you with some general information on the treatment of lymphedema, but you should check with your doctor to determine what will be best for your situation.

Lymphedema may be relieved by frequent arm elevation. The arm should be elevated with the hand higher than the elbow and the elbow higher than the shoulder. This position should be maintained for at least 30 minutes and repeated several times each day. When lying down, the arm should be kept elevated on a pillow.

In addition to the use of an elastic sleeve such as the one you are using, some women benefit from the use of pneumomassage. Pneumomassage is a massaging of the arm using elastic cuffs that inflate and deflate in sequence. This equipment is often available from a pharmacy, but requires a prescription from your doctor.

Salt free diets are sometimes recommended. In severe cases surgery may be recommended, but it is often not helpful. Do not have shots, blood drawn or blood pressure taken on that arm.

It is also important to take special care of your arm and try to prevent infection in it. Though you should be cautious, it's also important to use your arm normally, don't favor it or keep it dependent.

If the swelling worsens, your doctor may wish to refer you to someone who specializes in treating lymphedema.

For a free booklet with more information on follow-up care after breast cancer surgery, call the Cancer Information Service at 1-800-4-CANCER. Or write to the CIS at the Markey Cancer Center, 800 Rose Street, Lexington, Ky. The CIS is a service of the Kentucky Community Cancer Program.

Bonanza Footwashing Is Unforgettable Experience

The following article was published in the Floyd County Times in 1970 and is being reprinted at the request of Mrs. Decia Woods, author of the article and society editor of the Times. Footwashing services will be held at the Bonanza United Baptist Church this weekend.

For the first time in several years, it was my privilege to be present for that gathering of all gatherings, that meeting of all meetings, that's been taking place each year as far back (and even farther back) than most of us can remember—the Footwashin' Meeting' at the United Baptist Church, back home in our beloved Bonanza.

As you already know, it has long been aptly said that, "Anybody who has ever lived in or near Bonanza, always tries to get back home for The Meetin'."

But, as I think many of us are beginning to realize, it isn't always possible for us to be there, and I guess that time and events make it difficult for some of us to attend at all.

So, let me tell you about the Bonanza Footwashin' Meetin' that I attended this year:

For months, I'd known that nothing but sickness or death was going to keep me from going home for this event, so, as soon as June turned into July, I started trying to remember the date on which that meeting would be held.

And then, I remembered something that Mommie and Pa (whom you will all remember as "Aunt" Lou and "Uncle" Henry Baldridge), had said on so many occasions during their blessed lifetimes: "The United Baptists rule by Saturdays; the footwashin' is always on the Sunday following the third Saturday in July."

(I knew full well that, although we seemed to be living in what's sometimes referred to as "a changing world," the United Baptist Church, back home in Bonanza, had not changed its basic beliefs—nor the date of that meeting.)

With this assurance, I called Sister Julia and her family in Prestonsburg, and told them that I would be home the third Saturday in July, so I could go to Th' Meetin'.

The very first things I looked for when Julia and I got there, were the lemonade stands—like some of the men and boys there used to have, you know—where'd they'd fence off little places in under shade trees along the "Big Road," and sell stuff like oranges, and bananas, and cones of ice cream, and "pop," and lemonade—and whenever a bunch of people would come into sight, they'd chant:

"Ice-cold lemonade.
"Made in the shade.
"And stirred with a spade...
"Come on girls.
"Get your money's worth...
"If the boys won't treat you.
"You treat them!"

But oh, there were no lemonade stands there this year, for there were no would-be buyers—like the girls who used to walk up and down the "Big Road," all dressed up in organdy, and voile, and dotted swiss dresses, and patent leather slippers, and silk stockings, with their hair tied with big bows of fancy ribbons;

Now were there any boys—like the ones who used to dress up in what they liked to call their "Sunday-go-to-meetin' clothes," and help the girls across the creek and over little mud-puddles, or would ride their mules, decorated with Cow-boy saddles, and starred blankets, and jeweled bridles, and would always have bunches of red roses (that all of us called "Seven-Sisters") stuck somewhere in their mules' bridles.

No, we didn't see a person as we walked from in front of our old homeplace, up to the United Baptist churchhouse.

That building looks pretty much as it did when Joel Henry Conley built it nigh onto 40 years ago. (Do you remember Joel Henry saying that all he charged for that work was "two hens apiece from each of the 'good sisters' of the church'")?

The same picture that hung above the pulpit when we were children, is still hanging there. It's the one, you know, with this inscription:
"I have fought a good fight; I have finished my course; now I'm going home."

A large picture of "The Lord's Supper" has been hung alongside the one bearing this inscription.

The home-made seats that used to be in this church house (and in the one before it), have been replaced by what we all used to call "brought-on" seats.

As in days of yore, the women sat on one side of the church, and the men sat on the other.

I think the regular minister there now is Elder J. R. Pelphrey, and that he lives up about Allen. He reminded me a little of the Rev. Hargie Conley, who pastored the church when we were growing up.

Just as it's always been, anybody who wanted to preach, preached; anybody who wanted to lead off with a song, led off with a song, and if people felt like shouting, they shouted!

It was when the preaching began that I thought of Pa, and it was when the singing started that I thought of Mommie, and I'd like to tell you why I thought of them especially at these times:

Pa dearly loved the United Baptist Church, and there was nothing in this world that he enjoyed more than preaching there, but he also liked to worship with other churches, every now and then, and it was on some of these occasions that he'd join right in with the members of those congregations, and sing such songs as: Bring-ing in the Sheaves, "or perhaps, "When the Roll is Called Up Yonder;" but, not once, in all the years of Mommie's life did I ever hear her sing, (or even hum), a tune unless it could be found within the covers of the United Baptists' one and only song book, "The Sweet Songster." Mommie sang songs like "We'll Lay Down the Bibles and Go Home," or "Amazing Grace," or she just didn't sing at all. And although I've always leaned a little toward Pa's belief in this matter, I'll cherish as long as I live, Mommie's loyalty to that "Sweet Songster."

It was from this song book that the congregation at this year's meeting sang so many long-familiar hymns. "A Twelfth Night More Hath Rolled Around" was sung in preparation for the partaking of the bread and wine by the United Baptist members. "All of our faith and order," and this song continued into the washing of one another's feet.

(I noticed that most of the people who partook in the washing of feet had towels wrapped around their waists. Sister Julia and I discussed this on our way home, and we thought we remembered a Biblical passage something like this:
"And then they girded themselves with towels, and washed one another's feet."

After the towels had been girded around the members' waists, the actual footwashing took place, and of this I am certain!
I have never, in all the days of my life, seen more genuine love and fellowship than was manifested during that time. No wonder that everyone who has ever lived in or near Bonanza tries to get back for the Footwashin' Meetin' each year, for, aside from all the precious memories that Great Day brings back to us, there are these blessed assurances to be gleaned from these meetings:

1. Regardless of the trials and tribulations encountered in this world, people still have love in their hearts toward one another;
2. Although many of our loved ones have gone on to a better world, it's just a matter of time, until we'll all be together again...forever.

Let's all try to get "back home" on the "Sunday following the third Saturday in July" as often as it's humanly possible.
