Auto Goes Over Embankment; Accident Leaves Two Injured

Tommy Helton, 24, of Salyersville, has been charged with driving under the influence of alcohol in connection with a Thursday accident that left him and his passenger injured.

According to Prestonsburg police officials, Helton said he went to sleep while traveling about 55 to 60 miles per hour through the intersection of US 23 and the Mountain Parkway near Prestonsburg.

The car hit a sidewalk, went airborne, went over an embankment and landed on its side, pinning Helton and his passenger, Louie Patrick, in the vehicle. Members of the Floyd County Rescue Squad, using the Jaws of Life, spent 30 minutes removing the two from the wreckage.

Both Helton and Patrick were taken to Highlands Regional Medical Center. Helton was treated for a fracture and released; Patrick was treated for head injuries, lacerations and a dislocated shoulder, and was released.

Sgt. Mike Omerod of the Prestonsburg Police Department witnessed the accident; Sgt. Jeff Stumbo was the investigating officer. Officer Ricky Conn assisted.

Amendment No. 2 Garners High Support

Kentucky voters overwhelmingly approved a constitutional amendment last week that will stop strip mining without landowners' permission.

Approximately 870,000 voters went to the polls and voted in favor of the measure, passing it with 82 percent of the total vote, according to statistics released by the Kentuckians for the Commonwealth, the primary organization behind the amendment's passage.

All of the state's 120 counties approved the amendment, despite coal companies' heavy advertising against the measure just prior to the election.

More than 280 local and state organizations, churches, newspapers and public officials endorsed amendment number 2 and many actively campaigned for its passage.

Less than a week before the election, four KFTC members who had been personally affected by coal companies utilizing, or attempting to utilize broad form deeds, traveled the state in a "Victims' Van," stopping briefly at the Floyd County Courthouse.

The number of "yes" votes for the amendment were more than the total votes received by any other candidate or issue on the Kentucky ballot. Only two other times in Kentucky history has a constitutional amendment carried all 120 counties.

Amendment No. 2 becomes a part of the Kentucky Constitution immediately upon final certification of the election results by the State Board of Elections.

Plans For Spring Festival Continue

Plans are underway for a new Floyd County spring festival, tentatively scheduled May 13, 1989, according to James O. Vanhose, chairman of the board of festival directors.

The festival will be based in Prestonsburg, Vanhose said but events will be county-wide, with various activities planned at different locations on different days.

"This is a county-wide effort to tap more resources—not just a designated area," Vanhose said.

The festival will promote tourism in Floyd County, Vanhose said. "Prestonsburg has more resources to offer in Eastern Kentucky. The county has a tourism cabinet; the school system is cooperative; and city and county officials are actively involved in promoting tourism," he explained.

"Before the state had a tourism department, festivals were used to promote tourism," he added.

Vanhose was chairman of the State Festival Association in 1979.

Vanhose hopes the festival will be a time of homecoming and reunions for families with relatives living out of the area. He encourages Floyd county residents to plan reunions and other events at that time.

Vanhose said the festival will also promote non-profit organizations, and he invites them to participate in the project. "Concessions will be open to non-profit organizations only," Vanhose added.

The festival will also feature a parade, festival queens, athletic events, academic competitions, concerts, square dances, Bluegrass music, street bands, and lots of arts and crafts. "There'll be something for everybody," Vanhose said.

According to Vanhose, no flea market booths will be allowed. "Booths will feature handmade crafts only," Vanhose said. "We want to make Floyd County the arts and crafts capitol of the state. There are a lot of arts and crafts in this area that people don't know about," he added.

The festival, as yet unnamed, will feature a contest in December to name it. A $100 prize donated by the Floyd County Times, will be awarded to the winning entry. "Contest details will be released after the board of directors meet Thursday, Dec. 1," Vanhose said. The meeting will be held at 5 p.m. at the Floyd County Library.

Vanhose, who was past chairman of the Apple Festival for four years, said he plans to promote the festival with lots of publicity through various newspapers and radio stations in the state. He also plans to have the state distribute brochures.

"We will need lots of volunteers," Vanhose said. "Committee members are as valuable as board members," he continued. "Local merchants are excited about the festival. Everybody will benefit. When you get everybody involved, you can't keep from growing," he concluded.

Officers elected to the steering committee were: James O. Vanhose, chairman; Boots Adams, vice-chairman; Janet Tackett, secretary; and Thomas Hereford, III, treasurer.

Appointed to the board of directors were Fred A. James, Russell H. Chandler, Russell May, Homer L. Hall, Dani Smith, Ann Latta, Bill H. Howard, Anne Chaney, Bill R. Collins, Dr. Blake R. Burchett, Rebecca H. Burchett, Julie Johnson, Rosemary McCoy, Sharon Burchett, Laura Weddle, Lee Collins, the Rev. Tim Jensen, John M. Stumbo, Eileen Burchett, Johnny Martin, Carol Stumbo, Ron Hager, and Greg Crum.

P'burg Council Holds Brief Session

In one of its briefest meetings in recent months, the Prestonsburg City Council discussed a garbage truck needing repairs, heard the first reading of a new alcohol and beverage control ordinance, and authorized city representatives to buy used patrol cars.

City Administrator Freddie James told councilmen that one of the city's three garbage trucks has broken down, and repair or replacement of the packing unit. James said he had obtained "ball-park estimates" from several companies for the work, with prices ranging from $18,000 to $26,000 for a replacement bed. He noted that the city could save $4,000 to $5,000 by trading in the current packing unit.

Councilman Charles Hale moved that the council advertise for bids on the project. Seconded by Paul Joseph, the motion passed unanimously. (Council members William Goebel III and Adrain Blackburn were absent.)

In a separate matter, the council authorized city representatives to spend up to $5,000 already allocated in the current budget to purchase used police cars at an upcoming auction.

Mayor Ann Latta also expressed thanks to Gov. Wallace Wilkinson and state Transportation Secretary

Milo Bryant for their recently-announced decision to proceed with work on new US 23 in Prestonsburg.

She noted that other work in the Prestonsburg High School area requested by a group of city officials is already underway.

"They've been here doing quite a big of work, and we appreciate it," she said.

In other business, the council heard the first reading of a new ABC ordinance that combines two previous ordinances already on the books.

According to Latta, the two current ordinances contain some conflicts, primarily in enforcement. City Attorney Larry Brown, who is also the city's ABC administrator, said the new ordinance is clearer, and "has more teeth" in terms of enforcement, and more closely mirrors state law.

A change from the previous two ordinances will provide that the mayor appoint the ABC administrator, subject to approval by

Floyd Residents Join Others To Provide Humanitarian Aid

A group of Eastern Kentuckians, including several from Floyd and Pike counties, drove to Charleston, W. Va., Saturday with four truck loads of humanitarian aid for the war-torn country of Nicaragua.

In Charleston, they joined people from across West Virginia to load boxes of clothing, school supplies and medical equipment onto a shipping container bound for Nicaragua. When they were through, the container held about 15 tons of aid, gathered from churches, community groups, schools and concerned individuals throughout the two states.

Among the supplies were nine sewing machines and boxes of fabric and thread, an EKG machine, a wheelchair and five bicycles.

"This is a people-to-people effort," said Kristin Layng Szakos of Banner, who helped coordinate the Eastern Kentucky effort. "The aid will be distributed in Nicaragua through church groups, directly to the people who need it."

The container will be driven to a port in New Orleans, and then shipped unopened to Honduras and driven to Nicaragua, Szakos added.

Nicaragua recently was hit by a hurricane, which left hundreds of thousands homeless. The hurricane came on top of the war which has raged in that country for six years, in which U.S.-backed contras have fought to overthrow the Nicaraguan government.

Primary targets of the contras have been public school and medical facilities, said Szakos.

"To date, nearly 100 health facilities have been destroyed by contra attacks," said Ric McDowell of Lincoln County, W. Va., who helped coordinate the West Virginia effort.

"School children in Nicaragua are having to do their homework in the margins of old newspapers because there is such a shortage of school supplies," said Sister Mary Ellen Koenn of Drift, who visited Nicaragua for two weeks in January and coordinated much of the Kentucky collection. "These are the real victims of the war, and (they are) the people we are trying to help."

Koenn said that many of the people who participated in the collection effort had been to Nicaragua. "We are reacting to what we have seen, not just what we've been told," she said. "We have seen the effects of our government's policy on the people there, and we want to do something to help those who have been hurt by it."

The collection effort was coordinated by the Kentucky Central America Information Network and the West Virginia Central America Network, groups working to stop U.S. military aggression in Central America, and was sponsored by Quest for Peace.

TUESDAY IS DOUBLE STAMP DAY!

Teen Hit By Car; Injuries Minor

Randi L. Polk, 15-year-old daughter of Randy and Carolyn Polk of Mays Branch, was injured Friday, Nov. 11, when she was struck by an automobile near the Strand Theatre in Prestonsburg, according to the Prestonsburg Police Department.

Polk left the theatre, ran out into the street, and was struck by a car driven by Hayden W. Milligan, 17, of Prestonsburg, police said. Polk was transported to the Highlands Regional Medical Center where she was treated for a fracture and released, a hospital spokesperson said.

The investigating officer, Sgt. Mike Ormerod, said no citations were issued.

In a separate accident Wednesday, Nov. 9, Tammie Byrd, 23, of Prestonsburg received minor injuries when the 1987 Pontiac she was driving overturned, landing on its top. The investigating officer, Roy Roberts, said Byrd's car dropped off the shoulder of 1428 on Knotly Hollow curve near Prestonsburg. Byrd turned the wheel to get back on the roadway, but lost control of the vehicle, Roberts reported.

Don Hall with Rescue Squad 8 rendered first aid to Byrd, who was complaining of neck and back injuries. Byrd was transported to Highlands Regional Medical Center, where she was treated and released, Roberts said. "The fog was really thick," Roberts said, "but Mrs. Byrd had her seat belt on."

In an unrelated accident on Wednesday, Gwendolyn B. Vance, 22, of McDowell, was traveling north on U.S. 23, near the First Commonwealth Bank, and struck the rear of a vehicle driven by Jayne A. Holbrook, 17, of Auxier, who had stopped in traffic. Mark Holbrook was a passenger in the auto.

The investigating officer, Roy Roberts, reported no injuries were received and no citations issued.

A separate accident occurred near the First Commonwealth Bank, at the intersection of Arnold Avenue and U.S. 23, Thursday, Nov. 10, Roberts said.

Jeretta F. Walters, 25, of Boones Camp, Ky., was making a left-hand turn off Arnold Avenue onto U.S. 23, when she was struck in the left front fender by a vehicle driven by Paul D. Stanley, 37, of Goble Roberts Road. Stanley was travelling north on U.S. 23, Roberts said.

Citations were issued to both drivers for having no proof of insurance, Roberts said. No injuries were reported.

Roberts said several accidents occur at the intersection. Prestonsburg Police Chief Dickie Campbell explained his department responds to about two per week. "From January through May, there were 177 accidents there," Campbell said. North Lake Drive seems to be another trouble spot, according to Campbell, with 146 accidents reported during that time period.

The couple will wed Saturday, Nov. 26, at 6 p.m. at the Maytown United Methodist Church at Langley. All friends and relatives are invited. A reception will follow at the Floyd County Fish and Game Club on Johns Branch at Langley.

primarily concerned with the current rewrite of state regulations by the Department for Surface Mining.

"All the primary regulations," Gooch explained, "have been challenged (in court) either by one side or another. Due to all the various court decisions at different levels, the regs have had to be rewritten. We don't need new regulations, but the federal government says we do. Kentucky's have been rewritten twice. Supposedly this rewrite is the clean-up of all the loose ends, but I don't believe in that or Santa Claus, either."

Gooch said he is excited about taking on the COA job "because the industry is under such a great amount of force from many varied and opposite directions. I feel if the industry is to survive it has to take a strong and positive stance."

He feels that the major issues facing eastern Kentucky coal today include what type of acid rain legislation the federal government may adopt and the continuing struggle between the state and federal regulatory agencies which deal with surface mining. "The industry is caught in the middle of the state and federal differences and caught in between the environmental community and the regulatory agencies."

One of the things that regulators have not taken seriously, Gooch said, is the repercussions of taking coal money out of the economy of Kentucky. "If they run us out of business, what are they going to do to replace the tax dollars the coal industry generates? It seems that every time the state comes up short, the first place the legislature wants to look for money is to the coal industry."

Gooch said that independent companies are in a poor position to tackle, all these concerns themselves, which is one reason why an organization such as Coal Operators and Associates is important. Formed 32 years ago, the non-profit corporation's purpose is to "do all things necessary, proper, beneficial, and desirable to promote the welfare, efficiency, prosperity, and general good of the coal mining industry."

Charles Baird, president of the association, said that Gooch's appointment was effective Tuesday, Nov. 15. "David brings to the association the experience which is necessary for us to continue our work on the issues and problems which face us today. He has been on both sides of the fence, so to speak, having worked for the state Department of Surface Mining in a supervisory capacity for many years and also as head of reclamation for Coal-Mac. We look forward to David's continuing participation in activities that benefit our coal industry through his work as executive director of Coal Operators and Associates."

Kiwanis Club Sets Pancake Day

If stacks of flapjacks sound good for a hearty Saturday breakfast, the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club will be serving some up just for you.

The Kiwanis Club will be having its annual Pancake Day this Saturday, Nov. 19, from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m., at the Prestonsburg High School cafeteria, according to Len Grant, Kiwanis member.

The cost for the all-you-can-eat breakfast is $3 for adults and $2 for children under 12.

UK President Roselle To Address Area Alumni

University of Kentucky President David Roselle will be the featured speaker for the Nov. 22 meeting of the Big Sandy UK Alumni Club at 7 p.m. at the Holiday Inn of Prestonsburg.

A 6 p.m. reception will precede dinner. Tickets for the dinner meeting are $13.50 per person, and are available from Tom Smith at 886-8004.

Roselle, the ninth president of the university, has traveled widely throughout the state since being named to the post just a little over a year ago.

He has been one of the main participants in the university's efforts to attract adequate public funding for the university, and his leadership has been recognized with a top national award.

A native of Pennsylvania, Roselle is a mathematician with a doctorate from Duke University. He came to UK from Virginia Tech, where he held the number-two administrative position of provost.

the council. Council approval is currently not required.

The second and final reading of the ordinance will be held at the council's Dec. 12 meeting.

In a separate matter, the council decided to meet Dec. 12, as regularly scheduled, but cancel the Dec. 26 meeting due to the Christmas holidays.

In other business, Latta told the council she had re-appointed C.J. McNally to the city's utility commission. McNally, who has been on the council for a number of years and serves as chairman, has agreed to serve another six-year term.

CITY APPROVES INSURANCE BID

In a specially-called meeting Friday morning, council members approved a bid by Hatton-Allen Insurance Co. of Prestonsburg for the city's liability and property insurance.

According to Latta, councilman Joseph moved that the city accept the bid, which was approximately $10,800 higher than another bid. The council voted, 6-1, to approve the Hatton-Allen bid, with Adrian Blackburn casting the sole dissenting vote. Councilman Danny Hamilton was absent.

OSM Lets Wilhite Refuse Bid

Burning refuse at a slate dump in Ligon will be doused under a contract let by the federal Office of Surface Mining, Abandoned Mine Lands division.

A low bid of $248,650 has been tentatively approved by OSM, submitted by Jimmy Branham of McDowell.

The contract stipulates that work must begin within 10 days of bid verification.

Officials estimate that the dump encompasses 3.5 acres, and may be burning as much as 16 feet below the surface.

Approximately 50 residents live near the dump, which has been burning since last fall.

Teachers Clarify Reasons For Recent 'Sick Out' In Schools

At a meeting of Floyd County Education Association on Oct. 17, a letter was written to explain the teachers' position on indexing salaries, as well as the reasons behind the "sick out." The letter was lost, but many of us believe that it is important that the public be aware of our reasons.

The "sick out" was the direct result of the board and the administrators not only refusing to consider our request, but also treating us as if we were unimportant.

Any professional likes to be appreciated, and from the reaction of the board on Oct. 12, we realized that we were not. Therefore, the "sick out" was necessary in order to demonstrate to the board and the public that teachers are the necessary ingredient in running a school—the meat and potatoes of the system. The "sick out" was not a surprise to the administration, and if they had had our children's interest truly at heart, school would have been cancelled that day.

However, as a show of stubbornness and power, classes were held "as usual—if 'as usual' is sitting in a gymnasium all day. As teachers, our first concern is our students—who wholeheartedly supported our efforts, as did their parents. Our one-day "sick out" was to make the point that teachers are the backbone of any school system—a fact which was proven indeed.

The following Monday, the board sent office personnel to intimidate the teaching force by making each teacher sign a memorandum from the board, and to pick up absentee cards for that day only. This behavior only served to reinforce that the administration regards teachers not as professionals, but as individuals who must be threatened and prodded in order to stay in line. It is sad that their view of education is so distorted.

We sincerely hope that this letter will clarify any misconceptions by the public to our "sick day" and we offer our continual efforts in providing your children the best education possible.

Resident Questions Merit Of Pay Increase

Dear Editor:

I am self employed, my work is good enough, apparently, to ensure me against unemployment. Were it of lower calibre — say 47th or 48th on a scale of 1 to 50 — I would be without clients, and rightfully so.

I am without health insurance benefits; I am covered by my husband's plan. Recently, his employer announced a three-fold increase in rates to be paid by employees for a slightly less comprehensive plan than provided in the past. We were not delighted by this, but our privilege is to accept or reject.

No one wants to pay more for less, and I can understand the teachers of Kentucky resenting that. What I cannot understand, however, is the audacity of a group which has consistently under-educated our children for years and years, leaving Kentucky trailing in national rankings, demanding more for doing less. At taxpayers' expense, no less. My expense. Your expense.

There are many excellent teachers in the public school systems, and I suppose there are, therefore, many underpaid teachers. Those teachers would benefit greatly, both financially and psychologically, from a cash benefit which would compensate them for excellence in teaching and allow them to purchase quality health care. However, competence ought to be a factor for any compensation.

When teachers in Kentucky can perform to a high standard and achieve something better than marginal results with their students, then their concerns ought to be addressed, and fully. Until that time, I see nothing but absurdity in their demands for the taxpayers to cough up more money for health care, more money for salaries, more money for anything.

My child attends a private school, at great cost, because in my opinion, the cost of sending her to public schools in this area is too high. I am not inclined to spend any more of my money to line the pockets of the teachers I will not entrust her to.

Very truly yours,
Sheila Mann

Reader Questions Knott Race Totals

Dear Editor:

How did you all at the Times come up with the results that Will T. Scott carried Knott County, receiving 11,195 votes, and Chris Perkins 4,238? There were only 6,327 for both candidates and Chris Perkins got 4,991, getting 78 percent of the total votes cast — for the Democrats, that is.

In Floyd County, if the figures are correct, Perkins got 67 percent of the Democratic vote, which was good. But Knott County won percentage-wise and, of course, Floyd County had more Democratic votes in the total amount.

Would you all at the Floyd County Times please correct the above figures for the record?

Thank you,
Lawrence Hall
Topmost

(Editor's Note: As noted in our election coverage, all figures reflected unofficial results. Because of time constraints — a Tuesday election and Tuesday night press run for Wednesday's edition — official results could not be included. Statistical information for counties other than Floyd in the Perkins-Scott race were provided by Associated Press members.)

Patton Was Only Doing His Job, Says Area Reader

Dear Editor:

While watching our Mountain News station reports twice yesterday, I heard again that (Floyd County Superintendent of Education) Ron Hager and the Floyd County School Board are considering the firing of Ed Patton from his position as transportation director for the Floyd County school system. In listening to this news item, I became very upset. It would seem that Mr. Patton is about to be fired for no other reason than doing his job properly, a job that he has held for the past five years, I understand, and apparently doing it well.

I do not even know Mr. Patton, but I do know injustice when I see it, and if Mr. Patton is fired for attempting to keep students from being dropped off at schools where there were no teachers (or very few) to receive them, then I consider his firing very unjust, as he was only doing his job.

He was not only doing his job, but was doing it under circumstances that took clear thinking and much consideration for the students' welfare, as well as the welfare of the school buildings and grounds, which might have been damaged without proper supervision of students.

I have always been very interested in what goes on in our schools and always tried to take an active part, but I have not been physically able to attend recent meetings on the above subject. However, as long as I can "pound" my trusty typewriter, I shall continue to speak out when I see injustice, and from all I can learn, the firing of Ed Patton would be a gross injustice. I sincerely hope that Mr. Hager and the school board will understand this and reconsider their stand.

Sincerely,
Libby Martin

Patton Supports Dad's Work, Questions Board

Dear Editor:

My name is Mark Patton. I graduated from McDowell High School in 1987, and I am currently a sophomore at Alice Lloyd College. I am writing this in regard to the Floyd County Board of Education's recommendation that my dad, Eddie Patton, be terminated from his current position as transportation director.

I have come to the conclusion that this was strictly politically motivated because Dad supported Ricky Hamilton over the incumbent Dr. Mary Hall, in the District #4 School Board race. To the best of my understanding, my dad has done his job for the past five years and he will continue to do a good job because he is an honest and hard-working person.

Anyone that knows my dad can say this. I urge the concerned people of Floyd County and all school personnel to stand behind my dad at the upcoming school board meeting on Wednesday, Nov. 23. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Mark Patton

Congressman Thanks Floyd Voters, Workers

Dear Editor:

A heartfelt thanks to the hundreds of people in Floyd County who worked and voted for the Bush/Quayle team on election day. It was indeed gratifying to see the thousands of volunteers who gave so selflessly of their time to make the Bush victory possible here in Kentucky.

The election is over now, and it is time to forget our differences and work together to continue to make this the greatest country in the world in which to live. Our election process may focus on differences there are among us, but when all is said and done, there is much more than we share in common than on which we differ.

So, to Democrats and Republicans alike, let us take special pride in having taken part in this great election process, and pray that the Lord shall bless George Bush with the wisdom and courage to lead this great country into the 1990s.

Sincerely,
Congressman Hal Rogers

KFTC Says Thanks To Voters, Readers

Dear Editor:

It is very gratifying to know that so many Kentuckians supported the rights of landowners to prevent strip mining without landowners' permission with a yes vote on constitutional amendment number two.

The 82 percent yes vote could not have occurred without the efforts of many people and organizations to inform voters of the issue, including the efforts of The Floyd County Times to inform your readers of this issue. The 2,300 members of Kentuckians For The Commonwealth express our appreciation to you and voters in Floyd County for your overwhelming support.

Thanks again,
Sincerely,

Appreciate Coverage

Dear Editor:

We gratefully appreciate the recognition the paper gave to the Community Service class at David for our work on Peppermint Park. In the past the school has received very little recognition and we are grateful for the time you have taken to publish such an article.

As we saw ourselves in the paper, we felt very good about what we're doing with the park. The article is in our homes and scrapbooks as a remembrance to show future generations the work we have accomplished at the David School.

First Baptist Plans Guest Speaker

James G. Clontz, associate director of the Church Training and Special Ministries Department for the Kentucky Baptist Convention, will speak for "M" Night at the First Baptist Church in Prestonsburg Nov. 29 at 7 p.m.

"M" Night, or "Mobilization Night," began in 1942 as a challenge to Southern Baptist Churches to continue training union (now church training) during World War II. The challenge for church training continues as leaders for "M" Night sessions strive for inspiration, fellowship and sharing information.

This year's theme, "A Call to Baptist Basics," comes from one of the Southern Baptist Bold Mission Thrust goals — developing believers. Bold Mission Thrust is a Southern Baptist effort to reach the entire world with the news of Jesus Christ by the year 2000.

Clontz, a native of Asheville, N.C., spent most of his life in South Carolina. A graduate of Furman University, he served actively in Summerville Baptist Church, where he was church training director, deacon and chairman of the music and public relations committees. He held several positions in Screven Baptist Association of South Carolina, including chairman of the nominating committee and public relations director.

In 1976, Clontz entered Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville. While a student, he served as part-time church training consultant for Long Run Baptist Association. He was licensed to the ministry by Eastern Parkway Baptist Church in Louisville.

Before joining the KBC staff in 1985, Clontz received a degree in religious education from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth, Texas.

Allen Will Receive Cable System Rebuild

Charter Cable, Inc. announced recently that it will rebuild the Allen cable television system to 65-channel capacity.

Plans are underway to begin construction in the near future, cable officials said. This system rebuild will significantly improve the quality of reception in the Allen area, according to the officials.

Charter Cable purchased the system from Aaron Derossett in May, and operates several other systems in Eastern Kentucky.

Parkway Wins Traveling Trophy

Parkway Independent Baptist Church won first place traveling trophy, Saturday, Nov. 5, in the Bible Quiz competition held at the church. Honored mothers were Peachie Pitts, Cassie Justice, church official said. The quiz was taken from the Book of Acts, Justice said.

According to Justice, churches competing were Bethana Baptist Church from Letcher County, Grethel Baptist Church, Bledsoe Baptist Church, and Parkway Independent Church. Members of the winning team were Crystal Gilliam, daughter of Noel and Creed Gilliam; David; Renea and Robby Tussey, children of Cora and Robert Tussey of Caney; and Steve Thompson, son of Glenda Thompson of David. Their coach was Greg Taylor.

The next competition will be held Saturday, Dec. 3, at the Bethana Baptist Church in Letcher County.

The Rev. Ed Taylor is pastor of the Parkway Independent Baptist Church.

Area DAV Gold Star Dinner Is Held

Big Sandy Chapter 18 of the Disabled American Veterans and Unit 18, Auxiliary held their annual Gold Star Mother's dinner, Sunday, Oct. 30, at Prestonsburg High School cafeteria. commander of Kentucky, Juanita Meece, auxiliary commander of Kentucky; Eugene Akers, state service officer, and Christine Akers, seventh district commander and auxiliary junior vice commander of Kentucky. The dinner was attended by approximately 115 members and their families and friends.

Blood Donor Battle Planned

The traditional blue and orange rivalry that will be played on the football field this Saturday when the Kentucky Wildcats battle the Tennessee Volunteers will also be a battle for blood—literally.

Central Kentucky Blood Center and MEDIC Regional Blood Center in Knoxville have issued a blood donor challenge, according to Gina Bryant Goode of Central Kentucky Blood Center.

In the spirit of friendly competition and concern for others, the two blood centers will see which can collect more "true blue" or "true orange" donors this week, Goode said.

The winner of the blood challenge will be announced at the game Saturday, she said.

"Remember, whichever blood center wins or loses this challenge, the patient is the real winner," Goode said.

For more information, call CKBC in Prestonsburg at 886-1557.

First Baptist Sets Attendance Record

First Baptist Church, Irene Cole Memorial set a new record attendance in Sunday School, Miracle Day Sunday, Oct. 30, with 265 people attending, according to the Rev. Steve Hopkins, pastor.

Previous high attendance at the Sunday School had been 201, which was reached when the church dedicated its new building this summer, Hopkins said. The offering for the day totaled almost $5,400.

Religious Viewpoints

By Elder Michael Butler
Throughout the ages God has spoken to his people through prophets. God chose these good men because of their faith and righteousness. These ancient prophets proclaimed the gospel to the people at that time and kept sacred records. These records were compiled into the Holy Bible for our benefit today. These records were of God's dealings with His people in Israel. Ezekiel wrote that the "stick of Juda and the stick of Joseph shall become one in thy hand." (Ezekiel 37:15-20) Where is this stick of Joseph? "We proclaim to the world that this stick of Joseph is The Book of Mormon. Joseph's seed left Jerusalem before that city's destruction. God told Lehi, a descendant of Joseph, who was sold into Egypt, that he should cross the ocean and establish a people unto the Lord. Since God is the same today, yesterday, and tomorrow, He called prophets for these people on the American continent. Their names were Nephi, Alma, Helaman, Mosiah and others. Their work consisted of proclaiming the gospel and preparing the people to come unto Christ and his resurrection and the blood he shed for the human race. Just as the Holy Bible prophets teaches of Christ, so does the Book of Mormon prophets. The only difference is the location of God's dealings with his people—Jerusalem and the new world.

The New Testament reports this in John 10:16 which reads: "Other sheep I have, which are not of this fold: them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice; and there shall be one fold, and one shepherd." After Christ's crucifixion and resurrection, he left his people in Israel and instructed, personally, his people in light, knowledge and truth in the new world. This event is recorded in Third Nephi of the Book of Mormon. After Christ left the New World, the people later fell away; just as they did in the old world with the apostasy from the gospel.

The Apostle John recorded his vision of the restored gospel returning to the earth after the great falling away. He writes in Revelation 14:6 "And I saw another angel fly in the midst of heaven, having the everlasting gospel to preach unto them that dwell on the earth, and to every nation, and kindred, and tongue, and people."

The falling away had to occur before this other angel could preach the everlasting gospel to the earth. Why should he preach at all if this was not the case? We proclaim that the angel spoken of by John was the angle, Moroni. He brought forth the Book of Mormon, which contains the fullness of the gospel, in our day. We would sincerely love to share the fullness of the gospel. Please call and ask for a free copy of The Book of Mormon, 1-800-553-5406, or write The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, P. O. Box 680, Martin, Ky. 41649.

Mayo Helps Prepare Students

The major objective of the industrial mechanics program at Mayo State Vocational Technical School is to prepare students for employment in this field, according to Lillian Wheeler, with the public relations department at the school.

In Industrial Mechanics, a wide variety of topics is discussed and put into practical job-type, hands-on-training. In order to do mechanical and maintenance type work, a person needs knowledge in many related areas.

Since electrical and electronic equipment are among the hallmarks of high technology, there must be trained people to install, repair, and maintain this equipment. Many of these deal with the highly complex communications and data transmission equipment that has brought computers into everyday use in factories, businesses and homes, Wheeler said.

Mechanical skills are necessary for the proper disassembly and reassembly of equipment. All parts and fasteners must be installed to specifications. The industrial mechanics classes describe these functions and students train on equipment used in industry, Wheeler added.

The field of fluid power can involve a pneumatic system opening a door to a steering control of a 747 jetliner. Fluid power deals with the controlled transmission of energy into mechanical action from pressurized fluid, and Wheeler added, the class includes training in hydraulics.

The industrial mechanics program includes training in oxyacetylene cutting and welding, electrical arc welding, and some instruction in mig and tig, according to Wheeler. Students are able to identify and use various types of welding equipment, and learn how they act on various types of metals.

The worldwide direction for industry today is robotics. Realizing that business and industry is turning to robots to perform a multitude of manufacturing activities in order to remain competitive, Mayo is implementing robotics into this program, Wheeler said.

Students enrolled in the industrial mechanics class also study math, consumer education, science and computer literacy, Wheeler added.

For more information about industrial mechanics or other programs, write Mayo State Vocational School, 513 Third Street, Paintsville, Ky. 41240 or call (606) 789-5321.

Hager, Elliott Applaud Efforts Of Local PEP, Education Participants

Ronald Hager, superintendent of the Floyd County School system, and Phillip Elliott, Group 9 Personal Economics Program (PEP) coordinator of the Kentucky Bankers Association (KBA), recently applauded the efforts of Floyd County teachers and bankers who have participated in this year's PEP program.

PEP is an ongoing program in which bankers help educators with presentations on banking, consumerism and economics.

Group 9, which includes 17 Eastern Kentucky counties, ranked first in the state for the first two months of the school year. Floyd County led the way with 17 presentations.

Results are based on the number of presentations given. In August, Floyd County made 17 presentations; Group 9, 34; and statewide, 47 presentations were made. In September, Floyd County made 16 presentations; Group 9, 25; and statewide, 79 presentations were made.

Elliott said the program is successful in Floyd County due to the enthusiasm from individual PEP bankers, and the progressive attitude among Floyd County educators.

First Commonwealth Bank and the Bank Josephine have devoted resources to make this program work, and the response from the teachers and students has been tremendous, he said.

A PEP presentation can be arranged by calling the First Commonwealth Bank or the Bank Josephine and asking for a PEP banker. Bank tours are also available to civic clubs and other community organizations, Elliott said.

HATTIE "COOLEY"
OWENS
THANKS THE VOTERS of
EDUCATIONAL DIST. 5

I want to thank ALL the voters in Dist. 5 that came out and voted for me in my race for school board member. I want to thank the 660 HONEST voters that voted for me and WASN'T AFRAID to STAND UP and FIGHT the "POLITICAL SYSTEM". I feel good about running second in 5 out of the 11 precincts without buying a single vote. As you know, Mr. Duff was re-elected to the school board seat. He received around 43% of the votes with approx. 57% of the votes cast for the other candidates AGAINST Mr. Duff. I especially want to thank ALL my challengers that sat in the polls on Election Day. You did a good job. I want to thank the Kentucky State Police and Kentucky State Police Detectives for their efforts in trying to stop the vote buying in Martin on Election Day although they had to spend most of their day in Martin. I want to thank everyone that campaigned for me—whether by phone or door to door. I thank anyone who did babysitting for me or helped in any way during my campaign.

JACKIE EDFORD
OWENS
MAGISTRATE, DIST. 2

I want to thank ALL the voters that came out and voted in the school board race in Dist. 5 regardless of how you voted. At least you voted—that's the main thing. I'd say that 3,321 votes is a record for a school board race in this district. I want to thank Paul Branham, Roger Jones, and my wife—Hattie "Cooley" Owens, for having the courage to fight the "POLITICAL SYSTEM" to try to make a change. It was evident that people wanted a change because between Mr. Jones, Mr. Branham, and my wife, there was approx. 57% of the votes cast AGAINST Mr. Duff with approx. 43% for Mr. Duff (1432 votes for Duff—1889 votes against Duff), IF our school system is straightened up in 4 years, maybe we won't have to fight like this. IF it ISN'T, I would suggest that Mr. Jones, Mr. Branham, and my wife work together as a team. They've got the votes to win this race, because every vote that Mr. Jones, Mr. Branham, and my wife—Hattie "Cooley" Owens got was a vote that the "BIG POLITICAL MACHINE" couldn't control or buy. The majority can't be controlled—They just need to be UNITED.

I want to thank the people of Floyd County and the voters of Left Beaver Creek for showing their confidence in me and concern for their children. Prestonsburg Homemakers Meet; Hear County Activities

The Prestonsburg Day Homemakers held their regular monthly meeting Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 8, at 1 p.m. at Friendship Hall of the First United Methodist Church, with Barbara Dawson, president, in charge. Mary Sue Moore gave the roll-call, read the minutes, and gave the financial report. The devotional was given by Lucy Regan, who based her discussion on Matthew. Frances Pitts gave a report on the various activities of the Floyd County homemakers. She said that the decoration of May Lodge for the Christmas holidays by Floyd County

Homemakers would take place Wednesday, Nov. 30, beginning at 9:30 a.m., and emphasized that all club members were welcome to come and help with the endeavor. Many of the members paid their 1988-89 club dues, and those not paying were urged to do so by the Dec. meeting; otherwise, Mrs. Pitts said, they are to be discontinued as members. Mrs. Pitts asked that members submit recipes to the Floyd County Times, for consideration of publication in this newspaper's recently added recipe section. The president announced the Pres-tonsburg High School's Honor Choir will be taking orders for poinsettias during the coming weeks. An interesting arrangement of Christmas gifts, made from fabric scraps, was displayed. Phyllis Herrick was assisted by Mildred Branham in the presentation of the lesson on this topic. Items on display were made by Mrs. Herrick, Mrs. Pitts and Mildred Branham. Happy Birthday was sung to Peg Hewlett, Lucy Regan, Julia Curtis, Fannie Rannels, and Hope Whitten. The hostesses, Fannie Rannels, Alice Harris, Lucy Regan, and Becky Short served gingerbread and spiced tea to Frances Pitts; and members: Barbara Dawson, Mary Sue Moore, Phyllis Herrick, Mildred Branham, Julia Curtis, Maman Leslie, Roberta Sloan, Jane Wallace, Myrtle Allen, Dorothy Osborne, Ann Alley, Peg Hewlett, Eleanor Horn, Aileen Fitch, Hope Whitten, Nancy Webb, Beverly Hackworth, Susanne Dawson, Judy Kittle, Shirley Callihan, Rose Glenn and Docia Woods. The next meeting will be the covered-dish Christmas luncheon, Tuesday, Dec. 13, at noon, at the First United Methodist Church.

Lagniappe

by Lorraine Beach
Pikeville's Lost in the Shuffle Bridge Club enjoyed playing Tuesday night in the conference room at Meyers Towers. The impromptu game consisted of eight members who vied for top positions. Higher rankings included Ruth Friend, first; Jonell Robinson, second; and Mrs. William B. Wells, third. The bridge students at Pikeville College finished the beginners' bridge course with much ado! Tom Bellamy opened the auction with five diamonds and was doubled by his opponents. He was unaffected by the double, and capriciously made the five D's in his own hand! Certificates of achievement were awarded to the graduating class, with 4-year-old Laura Bellamy getting the youngest kibitzer award. Graduate winners were Margaret Bellamy and Earl Bellamy, first; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bellamy, second; Marie Looney and Mrs. Kaminski Robinson, third. Congratulations and continued success! Early Mailing Ensures Holiday Arrival Plan Now To Mail Packages Overseas, Say Postal Officials

For those with relatives in the armed services stationed overseas, and those who wish to mail holiday greetings and packages to others living in foreign countries, now is the time to plan for holiday mailings, according to the U.S. Postal Service. Parcels sent to military personnel in the Far East, Europe and Southeast Asia have to be mailed in October if shipped by surface mail, the least expensive form of shipment. November is the month when most parcels shipped via Parcel Airlift Mail (PAL) should be sent. PAL packages are airlifted domestically to a gateway facility, then airlifted on a space available basis from the gateway to the APO (Army or Air Force Post Office). Packages up to 30 pounds and 60 inches in combined length and girth may be sent by PAL. Mailers pay the regular third- or fourth-class Parcel Post rate, based on weight, to the U.S. exit port or from the port of entry plus a fee for air service. The air service fee is 30 cents for parcels weighing two pounds or less, 60 cents for parcels weighing more than two pounds but not exceeding three pounds, 90 cents for parcels weighing more than three pounds but not exceeding four pounds, and $1.20 for parcels weighing more than four pounds but not exceeding thirty pounds. November mailers can also ship military parcels by Space Available Mail (SAM). Items shipped by SAM are transported by surface means in the contiguous 48 states and flown on a space available basis from the U.S. to the overseas destination or from the overseas destination to the U.S. Packages weighing 15 pounds or less and not exceeding 60 inches in combined length and girth may be sent by SAM for regular Parcel Post rates to the U.S. exit port or from the U.S. port of entry. When mailed from a military post office outside the 48 contiguous states, the weight of any piece not mailed as SAM or PAL cannot be more than 70 pounds and the size cannot exceed 108 inches in length and girth combined. The Postal Service said it also offers a new service for later mailing of holiday messages and parcels to military bases overseas. The new Express Mail Military Service is available to over 200 APO/FPO military addresses. The same rates as domestic Express Mail service apply for this two-day service: $8.75 for up to a half pound, $12 for up to two pounds and $15.25 for up to five pounds. The weight limit is 70 pounds. For mailings to non-military addresses, the Postal Service's quickest method of shipping items abroad, Express Mail International Service, is available to 69 countries. More information on international mailings is available from postmasters or post office window clerks.

CAP Spirit Nominations Sought

Nominations are being sought for the Christian Appalachian Project's second Mountain Spirit Award, which will be given in April 1989. The deadline for nominations is Nov. 30. Forms can be obtained by contacting Glen Taul at the Christian Appalachian Project, 322 Crab Orchard Road, Lancaster, Ky. 40446, or at 606-792-3051. The Mountain Spirit Award, created in 1987, will highlight the achievements of people who have been instrumental in improving the quality of life in Appalachia in the areas of the economy, education, health, spirituality, and the promotion of understanding of Appalachia and its people, said Taul. When the award was first given in Berea, in October 1987, the recipients included: David L. Lollis, executive director, Federation of Appalachian Housing Enterprises for the economy; Carol Stumbo, English teacher, Wheelwright High School, for education; Dr. Grady Stumbo, for health; Arnold Turner Jr., then an attorney in Prestonsburg, and now a Baptist minister, for spirituality; and Loyal Jones, director, Appalachian Center, Berea College, for the promotion of understanding of Appalachia and its people. "The award was created to recognize a person who is characterized by kindness and concern for others, who has helped improve the lives of Appalachians, and who has furthered a positive image (or self-image) of Appalachians," said Michael McLaughlin, president of the Christian Appalachian Project. Any person is eligible who has been active in any of the above fields, either as a professional or volunteer.

Scoliosis Week: Nov. 14-18

Floyd County School officials proclaimed Nov. 14-18 as Scoliosis Week in Floyd County.

Students in grades six to nine will be screened for possible spinal problems.

Scoliosis is a lateral (side-to-side) curvature of the back that may become worse as a child grows. Approximately 10 out of every 100 children between the ages of 10 and 15 have been found to have a spinal deformity. Two or three of these 10 children will require treatment. If the spinal curve is found early and appropriately treated, progressive spinal deformity can be prevented, officials said.

The procedure for screening is a simple one, in which a trained examiner inspects the child's posture as he or she stands and bends forward. Any abnormality noted needs a second screening or evaluation by a doctor.

Teachers throughout the county attended a training session Nov. 14, conducted by Jennifer Martin, Floyd County school nurse. These teachers are now able to screen county students for scoliosis.

During the training session students from Betsy Layne Elementary came and shared their stories or experiences about having scoliosis—most of which had been detected at school by trained screeners.

Ricky Roberts: A Local Runner Is Profiled

Marathon running can be a self-supporting, financially rewarding hobby, but for part-time participants such as Rick Roberts, it can prove to be an expensive venture.

However the Allen resident finds himself constantly challenging some of sport's bigger names, while also enjoying trips all across the United States.

Roberts had, through racing, found an inexpensive way to tour the country. Following is the second of a two-part conversation held recently with Roberts.

Huff: You've run races in California and Canada, and all across North America. Can the purses that you win come close to compensating you for your time and expenses... on the level that you're on?

Roberts: No. Sometimes in the past, my races (like Scotland, Boston, New York and major races I've run in) were taken care of by businesses who wanted to sponsor me, and even running shoe companies. But I've had very few races, the major races I've participated in, where I've had to pay out of my own pocket. It's kind of like a mini-vacation for me. My travel, my airplane tickets are picked up. I just run in the races, and have a good time. I run for Nike Athletic Attic. I'm on their racing team, which is kind of like Triple A if you're looking at a baseball system. I'm one step from the big leagues, Nike Athletic West.

If I make it to the big leagues everything's taken care of. I run in the big races for the money. But unfortunately, I'm not blessed with that speed, and I don't see the speed coming in the future. Right now all I'm getting is free running gear, and stuff... a few traveling expenses, not to any major races though. But if I had to start over, and I didn't have any sponsors—and sponsorship is hard to come by these days—I'd be spending money out of my own pocket for the races.

Huff: Really though, a free mini-vacation, as you say, is that payment enough for the training you have to do?

Roberts: That's true. When you get to have dinner with people who have participated in the Olympic trials, just to meet people you've probably seen on TV, and read about, and you get to meet them in real life, right there are some of the benefits you reap from the running—like meeting Frank Shorter, and people like that—Bill Rogers.

Huff: Of all the races that you've participated in, which one sticks in your mind more as the most memorable?

Roberts: That's pretty easy, Pike's Peak Marathon in Colorado. The entry form had a waiver. It was a $35 entry fee. Most races are $15, but part of the money went for your insurance in case you were killed in the race because the elevation started at 6,000 feet, and you went from 6,000 to 14,000 feet on a mountain trail wide enough for two people to run or walk on. You could fall to your death, as it stated on the entry form, be bitten by a rattlesnake. Temperatures could change from 80 to 30 degrees, and a blizzard, rain, or snowstorm could appear at any minute. So it was a marathon equivalent to white water rafting or riding a roller coaster. You didn't know whether you were going to make it or not, but it was very adventurous. It took me six hours and 15 minutes, twice as long as a normal marathon but the scenery was breathtaking, and I just wanted to do it to see if I could finish.

Huff: I guess you would have had a lot better time if a snake had gotten after you, or something like that.

Huff: In long distance running, it takes a different type training than it does for other sports, say in football, baseball, even some track and field events where you have to run short distances. Speed isn't a major requirement, is it?

Roberts: Well, you have to have a base of both. Basically you must have endurance; you go out and run the six to eight miles a day. But at some point in time, at least twice a week, you do have to hit the track. I'm kind of lazy. I don't like to do that, but you have to hit the track, and do some quarter mile workouts, as in a quarter mile in under a minute. Do about eight of those with jogs between. After that, you're ready to go home and hit the sack, you're so tired, but you must combine both of them to be a very good runner in this day and time because the competition out there is unreal. The high school kids in Kentucky have got my number. I am slowing down a little, I admit, but they're gaining on me now.

Huff: Do some of the big time runners that win the New York marathons and the Boston marathons, make a living at this, or do they have a job similar to the situation that you're in?

Roberts: Most of them don't have jobs. That's why they're so good at it. They're one of the low percentages of people who were blessed with the body build and lung capacity to run, like Bill Rogers and Frank Shorter. They just don't have jobs, they make six-figure incomes a year from shoe endorsements, wearing Nike and Brooks, or whatever running shoe, and the only work they would probably do would be endorsing the shoe. In a major race, they show up the night before and do a little one-hour expo, and give a speech on running. That's their major work, that and flying to the races, running, and wearing the sponsor's shoes. But that's where they get their money from. They don't work.

Huff: Actually, they work for the advertisers. Isn't that what it boils down to?

Roberts: Yeah, it's kind of funny. These people also compete in Olympic time trials, and they're making six-figure incomes. But to be able to compete, they just put their money in escrow and TAC. If they win $100,000 in a race, like New York or something, TAC gets 10 percent of that money, and they can do what they want with the $90,000. They can get it out in another month or two.

McDowell Stops Feds Creek, Thompson In Panorama Game

In the corridor leading to the Millard High School gymnasium, Feds Creek fans discussed the first half of a gridiron contest just completed between the Vikings and McDowell.

But their conversation didn't involve Feds Creek, as much as it centered on the school's best player, junior Jody Thompson.

"I wasn't worried when he wasn't hitting," one fan says to another. "He was jumping good, rebounding and passing. He'll probably get 50 tonight."

Thompson, the top-rated player in the 15th region, is not only the talk of the Feds Creek area, but a hot topic all across Eastern Kentucky. Last year he averaged 24 points per game, and over seven rebounds. His coach, Max Good, along with some others, tout him as a Mr. Basketball candidate for the 1990 season.

On this night, though, Thompson was going against another number one, the McDowell Daredevils, and his impressive personal show was no match for a balanced Daredevil attack as Feds Creek lost, 83-70.

Thompson, after missing his first seven shots from the floor, displayed his offensive abilities late in the first of two 15-minute halves, scoring 13 of Feds Creek's final 15 points, all in the last four and a half minutes. He finished with 25 points, including one three-pointer, and a two-handed dunk.

But McDowell, fueled by a relentless pressure defense, hit on all cylinders—or at least all five that started the contest.

The Daredevils, chosen by most as the 15th region's top pre-season team, had four of its five starters in double figures.

With just under five minutes remaining in the opening half, McDowell, which led 25-14 early, went to its bench, bringing in five new players, and saw a big lead dwindle to a mere three points. But again, in the second half, the Daredevils forced several turnovers and hit a few three-pointers to go with a couple easy fast break layups, and regained a huge advantage.

"These guys are working hard. That's about all I can say about them," McDowell coach Johnny Ray Turner said. "They just picked it up where they left off last year as far as working hard, and giving it the good effort."

McDowell, the surprise team in the region last season, finished the year with a 23-7 record and a trip to the regional tournament.

Friday night at Millard, they showed some of last year's spark, and a promise of better things to come in the season ahead. They ran, they bombed in three-pointers and displayed a balanced attack that few in the region can match.

"I feel like we can go down eight or nine deep, and use a lot of different combinations at any time without losing a lot," Turner said.

Senior guard Dickie Joe Shannon, who averaged 22 points a game last season, led the team with 17, while junior forward Mark Hall tossed in 15.

Rady Martin, a transfer from Allen Central, added 14 points, including four three-point shots, and Henry Webb finished with a total of 11 points. (Nine of those came in a span of less than three minutes).

The only McDowell starter that failed to reach double figures was forward Jesse Osborne. He scored nine while doing the job defensively on Thompson.

Until the 3:42 mark of the opening half, Thompson had scored only one point, held down partly by his own inability to hit a shot, and partly because of some tough defense.

"I'll tell you, Thompson's tough," Turner said of the Feds Creek product. "Osborne did a good job on him, and he got off to a slow start, but he's tough."

"Feds Creek's tough," the McDowell coach added. "They're going to beat a lot of people this year. You won't play a zone against them."

The Vikings, 20-8 a year ago, stayed in the game early on the strength of two Rodney Fuller three-point baskets, and hit a total of five for the game.

To begin the second half, McDowell went on a 9-3 spurt, opening up a 9-point advantage, but with 11:33 left Fuller, who finished with 14 points, drilled a three-pointer, cutting the lead to 41-35. About then, the Daredevils broke loose.

Hall got the roll going with a short jumper, and Martin helped it along with a three-point jumper. Then Osborne followed with a three-point play in the paint, and Shannon capped it off by popping in a long jumper.

When it was all over, McDowell had scored 10 points in a minute and 36 seconds, blowing out to a 51-37 lead with 9:24 left in the contest.

They went on to build a 22-point advantage with just under six minutes left, and cruised to an easy pre-season win over a young, but talented, Feds Creek squad.

McDowell had a total of 11 players scoring, and every player on the team saw action.

Keith Shelton, a 6'5" junior who is expected to see considerable playing time, led the reserves with six points, while senior forward Brent Rose added three. Mike McQuate, Shawn Little, Stacy Hall and Scott Shannon scored two each.

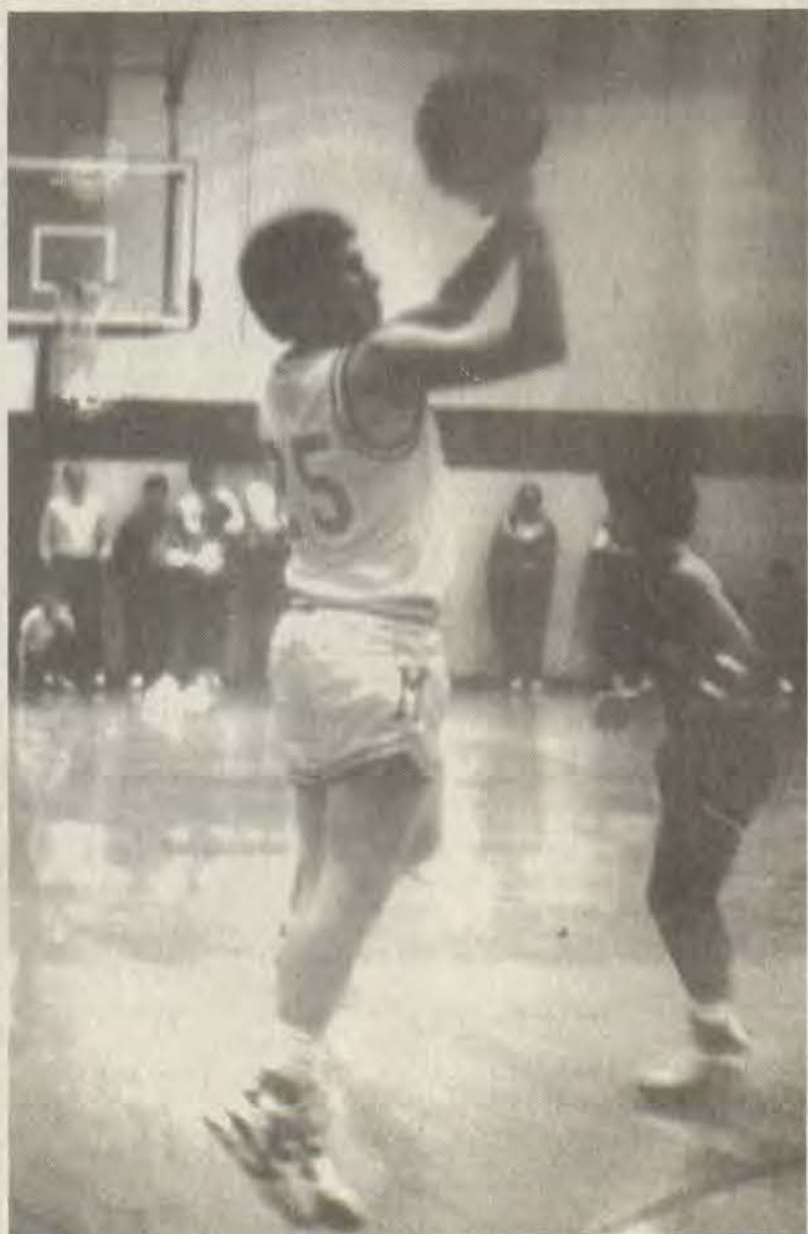

"These guys have been working together for two years now, and they compliment each other real well," Turner said after the game. "They're not a selfish group. They know who can score, and they try to get the ball to them."

Football Contest Ends In Tie

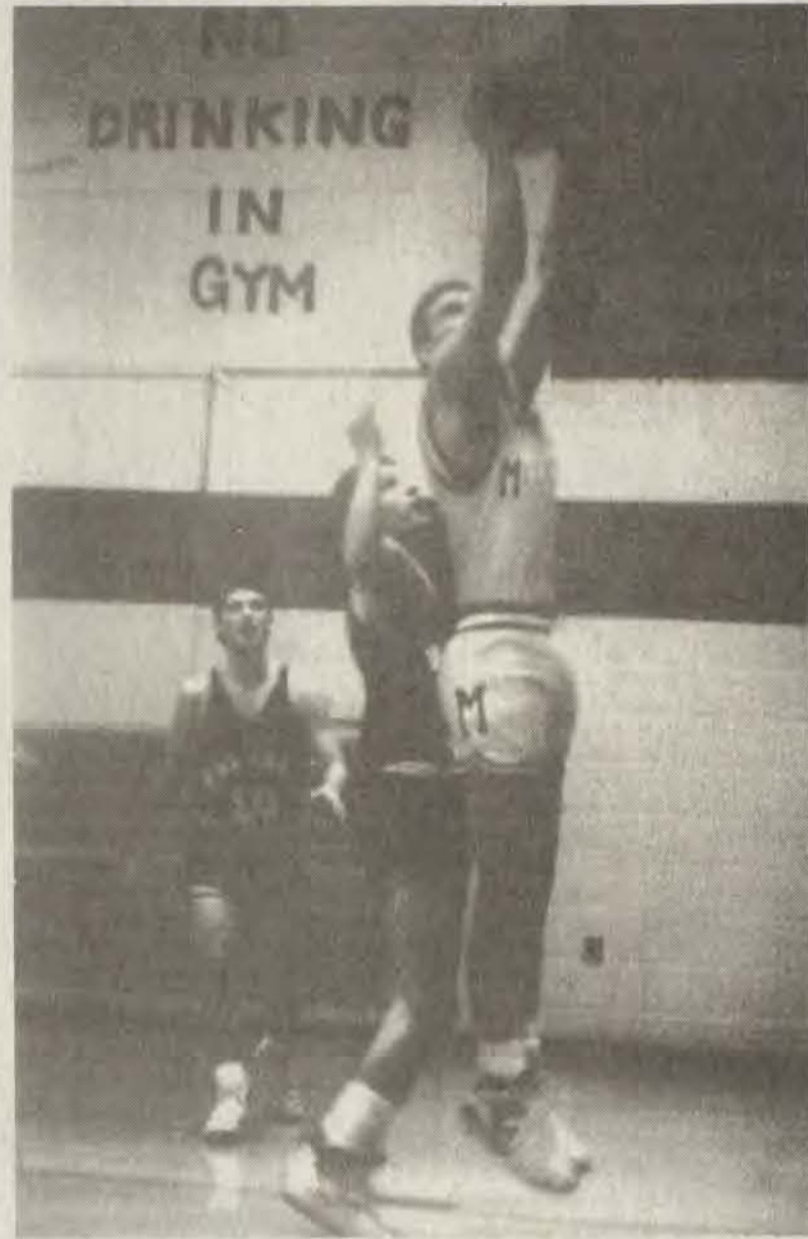

Keith Griffith, of David, and Larry Owens, of Martin, finished in a tie in this week's football contest. Each person selected eight correct teams, and missed the total points in the tie-breaker by one.

Griffith had 36 points in the Pikeville-Williamsburg tie breaker while Owens had 34. Pikeville won the game 35-0.

Winning teams this week included Auburn, Florida, Louisville, Michigan State, Tennessee, Eastern, Kansas City, Denver, Chicago, New Orleans, Seattle, and Phoenix.

THREE POINT LAUNCH: McDowell's Rady Martin throws in this three-pointer during panorama action Friday. Martin hit four three-point jumpers and finished with 14 points.

SNEAKING INSIDE: Jesse Osborne scores an easy basket after beating the Feds Creek defense. Osborne scored nine points in the McDowell win.

Roselle Not So Grand In The Eyes Of Ex-Wildcat Grigsby

University of Kentucky President David Roselle has been praised by some for his handling of the school's most recent basketball problem, but not everyone concerned agrees with the new president's methods.

The Lexington Herald-Leader, in an article by columnist Billy Reed, praised Roselle, and his efforts to put academics first at the basketball-dominated university.

Since the article, which ran last month, the UK program has faced additional problems which produced more public pressure, and brought forth verbal action from Roselle.

Some of that action, especially the talk of firing athletic director Cliff Hagan, has met resistance, and all of a sudden the president isn't so popular.

"A lot of people up here really like Cliff, and they don't understand why he's being treated this way," former University of Kentucky basketball player Pete Grigsby said of the current situation.

Roselle said earlier that he planned to replace Hagan because he was dissatisfied with his performance. According to published reports over the weekend, the president had selected Joe Burch to assume the job of interim athletics director, replacing Hagan.

Apparently, Roselle released Hagan because of the recent turmoil, and allegations levied by the NCAA toward the University of Kentucky.

"There's something very secretive going on that the public isn't aware of, or else he's (Roselle) doing a bad job of handling the situation," Grigsby said.

"I think the guilty parties should be fired, whether they are Casey, Sutton, or whomever," Grigsby continued. "But there's been no determination by the NCAA as to whom if anyone, is guilty. I just hate to see a man dismissed because of allegations by the NCAA."

Grigsby, who played at the University of Kentucky in the early 1950s, was a teammate of Hagan's when the 1953-54 Wildcats went undefeated. Grigsby was a reserve player, while Hagan went on to earn all-American honors following the season.

In Saturday's edition of the Herald-Leader, Grigsby was quoted as saying, "If Sutton is guilty of these alleged infractions, let him pay. Mr. Hagan shouldn't be the scapegoat.

He's done too good a job down there. He's a legend in his own time in the state of Kentucky."

Grigsby, along with former governor A.B. "Happy" Chandler, has begun a crusade of sorts to keep Hagan at the University of Kentucky. He says that petitions are being circulated, then sent to the school in a show of support for the popular athletic director.

"The people up here are disgusted, and I don't blame them," Grigsby said Monday. "It just doesn't make sense."

Hagan, after taking over as athletic director in 1975, has built the school's athletic program into one of the most successful in the nation. UK's non-revenue sports are reportedly in their best condition ever.

"You better believe it," Grigsby said in response to Hagan's doing a good job at UK. "He's a legend in his own time, an all-American, and he's done a lot good things down there."

"He's a good man, a good family man. It just doesn't seem fair. It isn't fair that they're treating him this way."

The decision by Roselle to release Hagan came in the midst of turmoil that has rocked the university's basketball program.

A total of 18 allegations, with an additional two pending, have been levied against UK. One of them stems from a package that reportedly contained $1,000. The package, according to reports, was sent from the university to Claud Mills, father of UK recruit Chris Mills.

Grigsby seems to think that Roselle let Hagan go to impress the NCAA, hoping it will influence the infractions committee to lighten its punishment toward UK.

"It's not going to influence them," Grigsby said. "They're probably sitting up there laughing at them right now."

Grigsby, a big supporter of UK athletics in Eastern Kentucky, not only disagrees with Roselle's actions, he thinks the UK president could have picked a better time to take action.

"I thought it was bad timing on his part," Grigsby said. "Things were bad enough already. It's hurting morale. Fans are despondent, and morale is low. It's taken a long time to build the program up, and I say let's keep it one of the best in the country."

The Wildcats have drawn nationwide attention because of the NCAA investigation, and apparently it has hurt recruiting, as well as fan attendance.

Several prep stars have turned away from the university because of the current investigation, and the blue-white scrimmages have attracted less than half the fans who normally attend the intra-squad contests.

UK, which played the Sweden national team Monday, opens its 1988-89 basketball season Saturday against Duke, a top-five selection in most of the national polls.

Kentucky will be without point guard Sean Sutton, who suffered a broken jaw in practice, and guard/forward Eric Manuel, a target of the investigation.

Manuel, one of the best freshmen in the Southeastern Conference last year, has been accused of cheating on his ACT test.

Grigsby also expressed dissatisfaction with that situation. Although nothing more than speculation surrounds Manuel's situation, he isn't on the roster.

"You should presume that people are innocent until proven guilty," Grigsby said. "Apparently they aren't doing that."

In a situation involving the NCAA, guilt beyond a shadow of a doubt doesn't play a role. If the infractions committee thinks UK is guilty, it will enforce penalties. Those can vary from a verbal criticism to the "death penalty" for the program.

Kansas was recently placed on probation for three years, meaning it cannot defend its 1988 NCAA title. UK is in a similar situation.

The Wildcats, though, will play out the current schedule. The NCAA made sure of that. UK has until the middle of December to respond to the alleged violations, but a final decision isn't expected until April.

The Cats have five games scheduled to be aired by ESPN, and seven more slated for SEC-TV. UK will appear five times on network television, and several other times on its own network.

The University of Kentucky consistently ranks as one of the biggest college basketball attractions, but if it receives suspension or probation, the television broadcasts will be eliminated.

Racing Self Supporting...

They can say "well, you know, I had a flat tire on my Volkswagon. I need to borrow $30,000 or $40,000 to buy one of those cars"—the sea gull cars, the Deloreans. "I need $40,000 to go out and buy a Delorean." They go "sure, go ahead," you know, and they give you your money back. It's kind of screwy. You're supposed to be an amateur athlete, but yet you're a professional, but yet you're an amateur when the Olympics roll around. Does it make sense? No. Look at Jim Thorpe. Fifty dollars for playing in a football game, and they took his medals away for years.

Huff: If a young person wanted to get into competitive running, maybe within the area, running all the local races, what would be your advice to them?

Roberts: My advice to them would be to stay away from the booze, cigarettes, and any of the above. Get a good format for rest, where they can sacrifice at least a minimum of an hour a day to run and train. Just do your endurance and speed workouts, keep your mileage up, and you'll be able to compete. But you have to make a few sacrifices on weekends. You have to sacrifice your weekend, and if you're going to have social life, probably find a girl that runs because that plagued me for a while.

Huff: What is the difference between the 5K and 10K races that are run around here, and the marathon races? Do you train differently, and how do you handle running the actual race?

Roberts: In 5K and 10K races, you can use a base mileage of 30 to 45 miles a week. To be able to be competitive in marathon races, you have to multiply that distance by three and you can go that distance. It's a rule of thumb. If you run nine miles times three, that's 27, almost a marathon. So if you run nine miles a day, or 60 or 70 a week, you can handle a marathon, no problem.

In the old days I was running 120 miles a week to 140. Now we've found out. From the 70s it was run all you could. Track coaches said that, and books said that. Now, it's let your body rest because all that mileage is tearing your body down. When you ran your race on the weekend, you weren't as effective, but if you run as high as 70 miles a week, which is half of what I told you I was running back in the early 80s, you can run without having injuries and your body is pretty much recuperated. On the average now, I run 35 to 40 miles per week.

Cards Open '88-89 Campaign in Dodge NIT

Season Opener Nov. 18

U of L faces Xavier in Cincinnati's Riverfront Coliseum on Nov. 18 in the first round of the 16-team Dodge Big Apple NIT. Other first-round matchups include: Arkansas State at Georgia, Illinois State at Indiana, LaSalle at Syracuse, Southern Methodist at Wyoming, SW Missouri State at Missouri, Stanford at Montana and Tenn.-Chattanooga at North Carolina. Advancing teams will play in quarterfinal action on campus sites Nov. 20, with the semi-finals and finals to be played Nov. 23 and 25, respectively, in New York's Madison Square Garden.

The Cards initial network television appearance will be Dec. 3 as U of L faces Indiana in the Bank One/Big Four Classic televised by ABC. Notre Dame and Kentucky are also featured in the doubleheader at the Hoosier Dome in Indianapolis, Ind.

Louisville in Openers

The Cardinals have posted a 47-27 record (.644 winning percentage) in all-time season openers (34-12 home, 8-11 away, 5-4 neutral). U of L Coach Denny Crum has a 9-8 record in openers while initiating the season at home only twice in his 17 seasons. In its opening contest last season, the Cardinals lost to Notre Dame 69-54 in the Big Four Classic in Indianapolis, Ind.

Houston Becomes First U of L Basketball Signee

Allan Houston, a 6-5 All-American guard from Ballard High School in Louisville, has signed a national letter-of-intent to continue his basketball playing career at the University of Louisville.

Houston averaged 21.7 points, 5.9 rebounds and four assists as a junior last season in leading Ballard to a 36-3 record and the Kentucky state championship. He shot 57 percent from the field and 89 percent at the free throw line.

The son of U of L Associate Head Coach Wade Houston, Allan has scored 1,713 points in three seasons at Ballard, just 103 points shy of the career scoring record for the Bruins.

"I've watched Allan grow up," said U of L Head Coach Denny Crum, "and it's been a lot of fun to see him develop into an outstanding collegiate prospect. Allan is an outstanding young man, an excellent shooter, a fine basketball player and a nice person to boot. Obviously we're pleased that he's elected to remain in the U of L family."

Houston has been honored on several high school All-American first teams including Street & Smith's, The Sporting News, USA Today, Bob Gibson's All-Star Sports, Dick Vitale's Basketball Yearbook and The Hoop

Scoop

He is a two-time all-state, all-region, all-district and all-state tournament selection. Ballard is a combined 87-14 over the past three seasons with Houston in the lineup. He averaged 15.4 points and 3.1 rebounds as a sophomore and 10.1 points and three rebounds his freshman year.

"Any program would be fortunate to get a player of Allan's stature," said Ballard High School Coach Scott Davenport. "He's a fine athlete, a very unselfish player and a tremendous shooter that's capable of getting shots off in any situation. His family deserves a lot of credit for the super support, leadership and direction they've given to Allan."

Series History

U of L holds a 23-14 lead in its series with Xavier. The two teams have not met since 1964, when the two teams split the two meetings—Xavier winning 80-79 in Cincinnati (Jan. 15, 1964) and U of L winning 97-91 in Louisville (Feb. 12, 1964). The two teams first met on Feb. 5, 1926 as the Musketeers claimed a 38-18 decision in Cincinnati. The Cardinals have won three of the last four meetings. All 14 of Xavier's wins in the series have come in Cincinnati, where the Musketeers own a 14-1 advantage over the Cards.

Cards Successful in Exhibition Center

Six players scored in double figures as the University of Louisville defeated Athletes in Action 105-82 in an exhibition contest Nov. 2 in Freedom Hall.

LaBradford Smith led the Cardinals with 19 points and seven assists. Felton Spencer totalled 18 points, a game-high 12 rebounds and four assists. Freshman Everick Sullivan tossed in 18 points and Tony Kimbro added 13 points and six rebounds.

Pervis Ellison and Kenny Payne scored 10 points apiece and each suffered minor injuries in the game. Ellison suffered a bruised nerve in his left knee late in the first half while Payne suffered a blow to the forehead and had a large hematoma aspirated before returning.

Freshman Cornelius Holden missed the game while attending the funeral of his mother Emily, who died Oct. 31. Keith Williams is sitting out the first semester while concentrating on his academic pursuits.

Case, Webb To Redshirt

Freshmen Mike Case and Derwin Webb will redshirt during the 1988-89 basketball season. Case, a 6-6 forward, averaged 17.7 points and 10.2 rebounds last season for Pendleton Heights (Ind.) High School. Webb, a 6-4 guard-forward who also excelled in football and track, averaged 14.3 points and 8.9 rebounds as a senior at Lawrence North High School in Indianapolis, Ind.

Tough Schedule

The Cardinals will once again face one of the nation's toughest schedules during the 1988-89 campaign. Fourteen opponents on the Cardinals' schedule participated in post-season tournament play last season, including 11 in the NCAA Tournament. Excluding the complete Big Apple NIT field, U of L's opponents posted a collective 422-247 record last season (.631 winning percentage). The list includes ten 20-game winners and only four teams with losing records a year ago. Last season, the Cards' schedule was ranked the toughest in the NCAA.

Last Meeting

Senior captain Ron Hawley—the father of U of L's current 6-5 guard Craig Hawley—scored a career-high 33 points to lead the Cardinals to a 97-91 victory over Xavier in Freedom Hall in the last meeting between the two teams. Xavier had defeated U of L 80-70 earlier that year. After trailing by 15-points at halftime, Xavier rallied to take a 75-73 lead. But Judd Rothman and John Reuther, who each grabbed a game-high 16 rebounds, took charge inside as the Cardinals pulled away for the victory. Steve Thomas tossed in 30 points to lead the Musketeers.

Record Book

Pervis Ellison enters the season ranked ninth on the U of L all-time scoring list with 1,597 points. He needs 18 points to pass Lancaster Gordon (1980-84) for eighth place. Ellison also ranks eighth among career rebounders at U of L with 879 rebounds in three seasons. He needs six rebounds to pass Derek Smith (1978-82) for seventh place on the career rebounding list.

Ellison is also listed among U of L career leaders in field goal percentage (third, .564), field goals made (10th, 630) and free throws made (10th, 336).

Prep Stars Sign With Western Kentucky

ATLANTA HIGH SCHOOL STAR BRYAN BROWN

Bryan Brown, a 6-7 frontliner on Atlanta Douglass High School's powerful team, has signed to play his college basketball at Western Kentucky University.

The 180-pounder plays his prep ball for veteran Coach Don Dollar at Douglass High. Brown helped his team reach the Georgia state Final Four his sophomore season, district and regional championships last season, and is a key factor in the Astros' pre-season number one ranking in the Atlanta area this year.

"We're excited to sign a player of Bryan's talent, size and capabilities," said WKU Head Coach Murray Arnold. "He is a good jumper. And, with his quickness and ability to run the floor, he has the tools to develop into a fine collegiate player."

"He has played for an outstanding coach (467 wins) in one of Georgia's best high school programs, which means he should be well prepared to play here at Western."

Brown is the sixth player from Georgia to ink with the Hilltoppers since Arnold came to the Hill in 1986.

"Bryan is a versatile forward-center who plays well inside and he also has the ability to play on the perimeter," Coach Dollar commented. "He has excellent practice habits and always plays hard. Bryan is a real recruiting steal and should do extremely well in Western's excellent program."

This season, Brown is one of three Douglass High players 6-7-or-taller who are expected to sign with Division I schools. Over the summer, Douglass was the AAU entry from Georgia in the 17-and-under national tournament in Yakima, Wash. Brown was an outstanding contributor in that tourney that saw the Astros finish eighth out of a field of 40 teams.

Last year, Brown helped pace DHS to a 21-9 record. He recorded career highs in points (17) and rebounds (11) versus Therrell High. That Douglass team advanced to the state tournament as district and regional champs.

As a junior, he averaged 10 points and six rebounds per contest, hitting 52 percent from the floor and 76 percent at the free throw line. He also recorded two assists, three steals and 1.5 blocked shots an outing.

During his sophomore year, he averaged 4.5 points and two rebounds a game after moving up to the varsity from the junior varsity midway through the season. His efforts that year helped the 20-12 Astros reach the semi-finals of the state tournament.

ALABAMA STANDOUT SIGNS

Will Gregory, a 6-8, 210-pounder from Auburn (Ala.) High School, has signed to play his college basketball at Western Kentucky University.

An All-Area selection for Coach Frank Tolbert's Tigers last season, he averaged 12 points and 10 rebounds a game as a junior, helping his team post a 17-14 record. He enters his senior year with career highs of 21 points (versus Columbus High in Georgia) and 16 rebounds.

"We're very pleased to have a student athlete of Will's calibre coming into our program," said Western Head Coach Murray Arnold. "He comes out of an outstanding high school program that has enjoyed a great winning tradition. He's been well-coached and he possesses the kind of versatility to develop into an excellent player for us."

He was listed among the top sophomores in the state two seasons ago when he averaged eight points and six rebounds an outing for the 34-4 Tigers. Last summer, he was selected on All-Star teams by both the BC Camp and McDonalds.

"Will is a good shooter with excellent court sense," said Tolbert. "He's a very smart, hard-working player who has the tools to be a fine college basketball player."

TENNESSEE PREP STAR SIGNS BASKETBALL LETTER WITH WESTERN KENTUCKY

Darnell Mee, a 6-4, 175-pound guard from Cleveland (Tenn.) High School, has signed to play his college basketball at Western Kentucky University.

An AAU All-American who was also a second-team All-Tri-State (Tennessee-Alabama-Georgia tri-state area) selection last season, he averaged 12 points and eight rebounds a game in leading Coach Carl Zimmerman's Blue Raiders to a 22-8 mark, a district title and a berth in the state championship playoffs. He recorded a career-high 22 points versus Meigs County as a sophomore and equalled that against Polk County last winter.

"Darnell is coming out of one of the best high school programs in Tennessee," said WKU Head Coach Murray Arnold. "He's received excellent coaching and he knows how to win."

"He is an explosive talent with the ability to play anywhere and everywhere on the court," he added. "His future is very bright and we're all looking forward to his continued growth and progress as a player here at Western."

As a sophomore, he averaged five points, three rebounds, 4.3 assists and 2.5 steals a game.

He has participated in the Nike, 5-Star and BC Camps and was ranked among the top 20 in the BC Camp in Georgia last summer.

It's been a pleasure to watch Darnell grow and develop as a point guard," commented Coach Zimmerman. "It will be exciting for me to follow his progress as a collegiate player."

He is one of five outstanding prep cagers to ink with the Hilltoppers in the November signing period. The others are: Bryan Brown, 6-7, 180, Douglass High School, Atlanta, Ga.; Karl Brown, 6-6, 230, Withrow High School, Cincinnati, Ohio; Rich Burns, 6-3, 150, Cleveland (Tenn.) High School—a prep teammate of Mee; and Will Gregory, 6-8, 210, Auburn (Ala.) High School.

CINCINNATI STAR SIGNS

Karl Brown, a 6-6, 230-pounder from Withrow High School in Cincinnati, has signed to play college basketball for Western Kentucky University.

He averaged 14 points and 10 rebounds per contest for Coach George Jackson's Tigers last season, hitting 57 percent from the field and 63 percent at the free throw line. He notched career-highs of 28 points (against Woodward High) and 18 rebounds (versus C.A.P.E. High) as a junior. He was named the Most Valuable Player of the Eastern Metro League and also earned second-team All-City honors.

He led his team in rebounding both his junior and sophomore years.

"We're very excited about Karl coming into our program here at Western," said WKU Head Coach Murray Arnold. "He comes from an excellent high school that has produced players like Ricky Calloway and LaSalle Thompson of the Sacramento Kings."

"Karl has been well-coached and he really understands the game," Arnold continued. "He is an exceptionally strong player whose size and leaping ability make him a unique type of player. He has a super future here at Western."

As a sophomore, he helped lead his team to a 16-6 mark, averaging 14.5 points and 11.5 rebounds, earning first-team All-League honors along the way. He notched season-highs of 24 points and 15 rebounds, both in action with C.A.P.E. High.

He was just the second freshman in Withrow High history to play varsity basketball, helping his Tigers to a 21-4 season.

"Karl is a very conscientious player who works on whatever the coach tells him to," said Coach Jackson. "As a freshman, shooting was a weakness for him. But, through hard work, he has improved that part of his game and now it is one of his strengths."

Brown has been honored on various District, Region, State and All-American teams. And, he has also gained AAU All-American laurels. He has participated in both the Nike (New Jersey) and 5-Star camps. And, last summer, he took part in the Las Vegas Classic where he claimed MVP honors in one contest.

CLEVELAND, TENNESSEE STANDOUT SIGNS

Rich Burns, a 6-3, 150-pound guard from Cleveland (Tenn.) High School, has signed to play college basketball with the Western Kentucky University Hilltoppers.

He averaged 19 points and four rebounds a game for Coach Carl Zimmerman's Blue Raiders, who went 22-8 last year, won their district and earned a berth in the state championship playoffs. He posted a career-high 30-point scoring effort and had 96 three-pointers as a junior, earning district, region, state and All-American honors along the way.

Burns was named the Most Valuable Player of his district tournament two straight years and he was named first-team All-Tri-State (Tennessee-Alabama-Georgia tri-state area) last season.

"Rich has worked very hard to make himself a good basketball player," said Western Head Coach Murray Arnold. "We think that his hard work and the excellent coaching that he received at Cleveland High School will make him a real asset to our program here at Western."

"He is an amazing shooter whose range and accuracy make him a particularly potent threat from three-point distance," Arnold added.

As a sophomore, he averaged 13.2 points, three rebounds and three assists per contest.

He has taken part in the Nike, 5-Star and BC Camps and was a BC All-Star last summer.

"I'm happy to see Rich's hard work and dedication being rewarded with an opportunity to play Division I basketball," commented Coach Zimmerman.

"We're all very happy that he will have a chance to play at Western with its strong tradition."

Burns, a strong student who is interested in pursuing a course of study in accounting and pre-law, is the son of Charles and Barbara Burns of Cleveland.

Betsy Layne Mighty Bobcat Marching Band display their abilities at the Kentucky Music Educators Association State Marching Band Championships in Bowling Green.

BLHS Band Attends State Championships

The Mighty Bobcat Marching Band of Betsy Layne performed for the first time in the Kentucky Music Educators Association State Marching Band Championships held in Bowling Green, Saturday, Nov. 5.

To obtain this opportunity, a band must receive a superior rating (score of 80-100) at one of the KMEA sanctioned contests held state wide during the football season. The Mighty Bobcat Band was awarded their superior rating at the annual Apple Day contest held in Paintsville. "We had received numerous first place awards this year," band director, Sandy Tackett, explained, "but, the greatest achievement was this superior rating. The competition was within ourselves to achieve a certain level of excellence, and we did!"

There are 86 Class A bands in Kentucky of which 23 received superior ratings. "When you compete at state, you're competing with the best, and for judges with high standards and expectations," Tackett explained. Betsy Layne received a superior rating and ranked eleventh at the state championships, Tackett said.

During the marching band's most successful season, they have received a Grand Champion runner-up award, three Class A first place awards and two second place awards, according to Tackett. The flags and majorettes received Best Auxiliary trophies at four competitions and the percussion was awarded a best in Class trophy at the Apple Day Contest, Tackett said.

Field commander, Stephanie Conn, received best in class awards at two competitions. When the band traveled to Murray State University, senior trumpet soloist, Marty Harris, received a beautiful trophy for being the Best Overall Soloist in a competition that hosted 23 bands from Kentucky, Tennessee, and Indiana, according to Tackett.

Tackett said she and members of the band express their thanks to all parents who cooperated and supported them throughout the season. "We are especially appreciative of Billie Jean Osborne who has given us constant support and encouragement. We would also like to thank Adrian Bentley (BLHS principal), James Mitchell (BLGS principal), and Tommy Boyd for their tremendous support, and thanks to all our friends and businesses who always support our program," Tackett said.

Thanks Voters

I would like to thank the good people who supported me. I think we ran a good, clean race. Now that the campaign is over, let us still keep in mind the importance of supporting our schools.

Sincerely,
DR. BRENT CLARK

NFL News & Notes

Cincinnati came into the game boasting one of the NFL's best records. The Kansas City Chiefs owned football's worst record, and the worst offense.

It was supposed to be another blowout, similar to the one, the Bengals enjoyed one week earlier against Pittsburgh.

Kansas City, 1-8-1 coming in, wasn't supposed to score points. They hadn't all year, and had just changed quarterbacks before the 8-2 Bengals came to town.

But when the final frantic minutes were over, the Chiefs found themselves on the positive end of a 31-28 score. Their defense held the top-rated passing team in check, and Steve DeBerg proved effective enough to move Kansas City up and down the field.

DeBerg replacing Bill Kenny as Kansas City's number one quarterback, threw 285 yards to lead the Chiefs in the come-from-behind victory.

Cincinnati led 28-16 in the fourth quarter, but the Chiefs scored the game's final 15 points to pull out the win. Kansas City recorded a safety on a blocked punt through the end zone, got a field goal and a touchdown to tie the score, and found themselves in a position to win after recovering a Bengal fumble.

With the score tied, Cincinnati's Mark Logan fumbled on a kickoff return with 1:11 remaining, allowing Kansas City to kick a 39-yard field goal with two seconds left.

The Kansas City victory sparked a clean sweep by the AFC West as all the division's teams proved successful Sunday.

The AFC West, one of the NFL's toughest divisions the past several seasons, had been struggling the past few weeks. But Sunday, it found room for revenge.

The Denver Broncos, at home, proved again which was the better team, thrashing Cleveland 30-7. The Broncos, 6-5, had defeated Cleveland twice in the last two AFC Championship games.

Sunday they exploded early, thanks to Cleveland mistakes, and rolled to their sixth victory of the year, good enough for a first placed tie.

John Elway threw for 207 yards and two touchdowns, and Denver converted four Cleveland turnovers into 20 points.

The Browns, 6-5, remained two games behind Cincinnati in the Central, and lost their second straight since beating the Bengals in week nine.

While Cincinnati and Cleveland were losing to AFC West teams, the Houston Oilers, second in the Central division, were doing the same in Seattle.

The Seahawks, struggling under the direction of rookie Kelly Stouffer, welcomed back regular quarterback David Kreig, celebrating his return by beating Houston 27-24.

Kreig completed 14 of 26 passes, one for a touchdown in his first action after recovering from a separated shoulder.

Norm Johnson kicked a 46-yard field goal with time running out to allow Seattle the opportunity to stay in the hunt for a West title. Houston fell to 7-4, and remained one game behind Cincinnati.

The West remained in a three-way tie for first when the Los Angeles Raiders went into Candlestick Park, and shut down the explosive San Francisco 49ers, earning a 9-3 victory.

The Raiders, relapsing to the glory days, limited San Francisco, the number one offensive team in the NFC, to 243 yards. They gave up only 83 rushing yards while running for 159 themselves.

The AFC West completed its perfect day when San Diego defeated Atlanta 10-7 in Atlanta. The Chargers improved to 3-8 while Atlanta fell to 3-8.

Returning The Favor: Two weeks earlier, New Orleans had been upset at home by the surprising Los Angeles Rams. Sunday the Saints traveled to LA, and returned the favor, pulling out a 14-10 victory.

The New Orleans defense held LA's potent rushing attack to under 100 yards, intercepted Jim Everett (the NFL's top rated quarterback) twice, and held him to under 200 yards passing.

With the win, New Orleans moved into sole possession of first place in the NFC West, one game up on LA, and two in front of San Francisco.

Chance Of Place: One year ago, the St. Louis Cardinals were struggling to win football games, and having trouble drawing fans.

But a year, and a different city later, the Phoenix Cardinals are enjoying a playoff-quality season. Sunday, quarterback Neil Lomax, threw for 353 yards and three touchdowns as the Cards defeated New York 24-17 in Tempe, Arizona.

The Cardinals opened up a 21-7 lead, and held off a late Giant rally to record their third consecutive victory, and moved into a tie with New York atop the NFC East. Both teams are 7-4.

Superbowl Repeat: The Washington Redskins suffered another blow Sunday to its attempts to repeat as Super Bowl champions.

Against the number one defense in the NFL, the Redskins struggled, turning the football over six times—five on interceptions in their 34-14 loss at home to Chicago.

Doug Williams, who completed but six of 19 attempts, threw one, and his replacement, Mark Rypien, threw four. Rypien threw for Washington's two touchdowns.

Chicago, 9-2 and two games in front of its nearest NFC Central challenger, opened up a 20-0 lead in the first half. The Bears had lost the past two years to Washington in the playoffs. The Redskins, 6-5, trail both New York and Phoenix in the NFC East.

Monday Night Game: The Buffalo Bills took off on an impressive season right from the start, and haven't slowed one bit since.

Buffalo, owning the league's best record, improved to 10-1 Monday night by thumping the Dolphins 31-6 in Miami.

Jim Kelly capped off the Bills' first possession with a 16-yard touchdown pass to Ronnie Harmon, giving Buf-

The Sporting Times

This time one year ago, high school basketball fans were weighing the pros and cons of the newly adopted three-point line, sharing opinions, and expressing expectations of the most recent addition to the sport they loved.

A year later, and some fantastic finishes older, the three-point line is joined by fans all across Kentucky in celebrating its one-year birthday.

When the Kentucky High School Athletic Association adopted the line last year, it was with the understanding—or at least expectation—of increasing the game's excitement while also enabling shorter, smaller players to find a place of importance in the game dominated by height and quickness.

Fans were cautious, coaches were skeptical, but players took to the three-pointer immediately. A line 19 feet and nine inches not only appeared in high school gymnasiums, but was also an immediate addition to backyard courts from Elkhorn City to Paducah.

Players could be seen, mostly behind a coach's back, stepping out beyond the stripe to test their ability to shoot the long jumper. Not only guards, but the big men were suddenly attracted to an outside shot.

The coaches loaded with three-point shooters loved the new rule. But those who couldn't stop it were its biggest foes.

But pro or con, everyone knew the impact that the three-point line would bring to high school basketball. Late game comebacks were evident, using the three-pointer as a friend late in a contest.

Some teams, though, utilized it to the fullest early, and by the time a game reached the late stages it took more than just a couple three-point shots to catch up.

The three-point line did just about everything it was intended to and much more. But one thing it, or any other rule, can't do, is make the short, slow player a factor in the game.

Basketball, in its development from the days of the peach basket beginning, has established itself as a big man's game.

From pee wee to the pros, it's always the big guys who dominate the game, and ultimately it is the big guys who reap the biggest benefits.

Magic Johnson, Larry Bird, Danny Manning and David Robinson, just to name a few, are among some of the NBA's highest paid players, and all are 6'8" or better.

The closest thing to a high-priced little man in the NBA would have to be Michael Jordan, but even as a guard Jordan is 6'5".

But at least on the high school level the three-point shot does give a shooter an advantage he did not have before. The one-dimensional outside shooter can find additional playing time with the three-point line, and can actually contribute enough on offense to make up for his liability on defense.

Some teams last season believed in this philosophy. Some teams took advantage of the three-point line, while others did not.

The McDowell Daredevils were possibly the most effective three-point shooting team in the 15th region, and they rode their guard play to the regional semi-finals.

The comparison between Betsy Layne and McDowell is as different as night and day, but both found constant success in their own way.

Buckhorn, a tiny school from the 14th region, may not have reached the state tournament had it not been for the three-point shot. Clay County, had they hit some three-pointers in the championship game, might have repeated as state champions.

The three-pointer changed the look of high school basketball, but one might have to look closely at times to see the differences.

As the 1988-89 campaign approaches, anticipation builds, and expectations fill the air. But pre-season scrimmages often tell the tale, and so far this year they are talking three-pointer.

In a recent panorama game between McDowell and Feds Creek, the three-point basket took precedence over all else.

Both the Daredevils and Vikings found success from 19'9". But in the end McDowell proved to be the more dominating offensive team.

One thing that Feds Creek reminded Johnny Ray Turner, and others of though, is that "you don't play a zone against them."

Setting back in a zone defense is a thing of the past, especially when the opposition has an effective three-point shooter. The new rule not only affected a team's offense, but it often-times dictated how defense would be played.

McDowell has been selected by most as the number one pre-season team in this region. Without the three-point line, they might not have received that consideration.

Although the Daredevils would be a solid team without the three-pointer, they would not be quite as explosive.

They play a superb pressure defense, but last season McDowell hit over 40 percent from the three-point line, and figure to be more effective with the addition of long range shooter Rady Martin.

All five of their starters can be effective from the three-point distance, and last year their guards took advantage of it to average 22 and 17 points each.

Colleges have also used the three-point stat as a recruiting tool. The distance is the same as in college, and a quick look at a shooter's three-point percentage tells a coach something about the player's range.

Happy birthday, three-point line, and may you have many returns.

NFL News And Notes

The Bills, leading 10-6 at halftime, picked off two Dan Marino passes in the third period and opened up a 24-6 advantage. Miami, with the loss, dropped to 5-6, and probably out of post-season action for the third consecutive season.

Games To Watch: Both Phoenix and Houston are teams in transition from division cellar dwellers to playoff probabilities, and one will continue in a positive way.

The last time the two met was in 1985, when the Oilers broke a three-game losing streak against the Cards. They are favored to make it two in a row when they meet in the Astro-dome.

The Indianapolis Colts won their last four games, and are making a strong run toward post season action, but have lost their last three against Minnesota, the team they play Sunday. Minnesota, after Wade Wilson returned at quarterback, is averaging nearly 40 points per outing.

The Colts, 6-5, hold a 12-5 advantage in their series against Minnesota. Indianapolis is averaging over 30 points in its last three games.

New Orleans has never beaten the Denver Broncos, but Sunday they will get their opportunity when the Broncos come calling. Both teams are in a battle for the lead in their respective West divisions.

First To Go: Detroit head coach Darryl Rogers became the first coach to be fired this season when he was let go Monday by the Lions.

Detroit, 2-9, lost Sunday to Tampa Bay, apparently the last reason needed to let Rogers go. The Lions are tied for the league's worst record.

Bassin' With the Pros...

How Bass Fishermen Beat A Cold Front

Guido Hibdon, recent winner of the 1988 BASS Masters Classic, remembers how he once spent an entire day casting a spinnerbait to a single fish he could see. The bass never moved until Hibdon finally touched it with his rod tip.

"That's what a severe cold front can do to bass," says the Johnson Outboards Pro Staff member. "The fish become extremely sluggish and very hard to catch."

"I think 'cold front' are the two words bass anglers dislike the most."

The worst cold fronts, says Hibdon, a former guide on Missouri's Lake of the Ozarks, are those in which the temperature plunges drastically overnight. It's as if the bass go into complete shock. Divers who have observed bass under such conditions often report the fish suspend motionless near the bottom, close to heavy cover. Other fish look as if they're trying to bury their heads in the bottom.

"Shallow water bass definitely move closer to cover," says Hibdon. "Any topwater fishing that existed prior to the cold front nearly always stops completely because the fish bury themselves in cover like bushes, weeds, or moss."

"That's why flipping is one of the very best techniques to use at this time. Flipping allows an angler to place a lure into heavy cover without causing any water disturbance. Once the lure is in the water, the angler can jig it slowly up and down in one spot as long as he wishes."

Another key to successful cold front fishing, says Hibdon, is fishing a little deeper.

"Cold fronts often move bass, especially those that might have been on points or flats," he explains. "If there is deep water nearby, an angler should systematically work his way out into that deeper water. Very often, bass will suspend just off the edge of a dropoff over deeper water."

The depth at which bass like this are holding generally determines lure choice, says the Johnson Outboards pro. Spinnerbaits and crankbaits are often successful, as long as they are fished slow.

"Smaller lures are also more attractive to bass," Hibdon notes. "I like to use 1/8-ounce marabou jigs and six pound test line, swimming the lure through the fish very slowly. Even with little lures like this, however, strikes are often very light and tentative."

Learning to fish slower is extremely important in beating cold fronts. Instead of making 10 casts to a target, Hibdon suggests making 30 or 40, covering the same water repeatedly until a fish finally hits.

Another place to find cold front bass, according to Hibdon, is in deep holes, such as those around bridge crossings, natural springs, and main channel drops. These bass can frequently be pinpointed with a depthfinder, so lures can be presented more accurately. Often, vertical jigging with a spoon is a productive technique.

"Cold front rules are really pretty simple," Hibdon concludes. "First, expect to catch fewer fish, simply because they are not as active. Next, if you work shallow water, concentrate on the heaviest cover you can find, and flip it carefully with a jig. "In deeper water, look for suspended bass near structure, and try to catch them with a small crankbait, spinnerbait or even a jigging spoon.

"It normally takes two to three days for the fish to become active again," Hibdon notes.

"After spending all day casting to that one bass that I finally moved with my rod, I went back the next day and finally caught it with a spinnerbait."

Johnson and Evinrude's outboard service experts recommend all boaters check their propeller for bent blades and "dings" regularly, since even minor prop damage can result in major damage to gearcase bearings. Small nicks and burrs can often be removed with a file, but bent blades should be taken to your marine dealer.

SHORT SPORTS

Pete Greene, Union College's highly-touted end, caught eight passes for 94 yards Saturday in the Bulldogs' 23-7 victory over Georgia Southwestern in Barbourville.

Greene, with the eight catches, brought his season total to 47. He has averaged close to 16 yards per reception, and has gone over the 700-yard mark for the year.

Union, in its initial season under head coach Matt Ballard, finished at 6-4. The Bulldogs fell behind 7-0 in the first quarter, and could manage only a field goal in the first half, but enjoyed a 14-point third quarter to blow the game open.

Greene, a former two-way player at Prestonsburg High School, has caught 125 passes in his Union career. The 6'2" 205 pound junior is being promoted as a possible all-American candidate by Ballard, and a few others involved in Division 11 football.

Danny Manning, the first player chosen in last summer's basketball draft, signed a deal over the weekend with the Los Angeles Clippers, worth over $10 million.

Manning, had held out after his agent, Ron Grinker, and Clipper officials failed to agree on contract terms. But an agreement, which will pay Manning $10.5 million over the next five years, was reached Friday, and Manning made it official by signing with the team Saturday.

The Clippers, the NBA's worst team over the past two seasons, picked Manning number one after he was named the NCAA's player of the year for the 1987-88 season.

At the time of the draft LA General Manager Elgin Baylor said Manning would be the future of the Clippers, and the team provided the 6'9" forward a financially secure personal future. The contract makes Manning one of the NBA's highest all-time paid rookies.

The Cincinnati Reds, in a move to secure another reliable starting pitcher, have been conducting talks with Rick Mahler, a right hander who has spent much of his career with Atlanta.

Mahler, 9-16 last season, who has consistently ranked among the league's best in earned run average, is a free agent. He is also talking with Atlanta and other teams.

If Mahler, 35, joins the Reds, he would be the oldest pitcher on their staff. Cincinnati's four top starters, Tom Browning, 28, Jose Rijo, 23, Danny Jackson, 26, and Ron Robinson, 26, average under 26 years of age. John Franco and Rob Murphy, the team's top two relievers, are but 28 years old.

Cincinnati, which finished as one of the poorest offensive teams in the National League, is also pursuing talks with former Philadelphia power hitter Mike Schmidt. If able to sign Schmidt, a free agent, the Reds would play him at first base.

They're talking bowl bid louder than ever in Louisville, but back up I-64 they are asking what if, instead of which bowl might be interested in their football team.

The Louisville Cardinals, possibly the surprise team in all of college football, defeated Western 35-17 Saturday to improve their season record to 8-3. The Cardinals ended one of their best seasons ever by handily defeating Western, one of the better teams in Division 1AA.

Western, ranked in the top 10 for most of the season, will need a win this week at home when it takes on North Carolina A&T at home if they expect to receive a playoff bid.

Louisville is expected to receive a minor bowl invitation after enjoying its first-winning season of this decade. But the University of Kentucky, which finds winning seasons few and far between, lost 24-19 to the University of Florida Saturday at Commonwealth Stadium, and saw their possibility of post season action go with it.

UK, 5-5, could possibly get an invitation from the All-American Bowl, but it would first have to beat Tennessee in Knoxville, something the Wildcats aren't accustomed to doing.

The Vols, after their worst start ever, have shown signs of becoming a solid team, and Saturday won their third game in a row, defeating Mississippi on the road.

One Kentucky school that isn't worried about not making post-season play is Eastern Kentucky University. The Colonels, losers of two games, improved to 8-2 with a 35-31 victory over Central Florida.

EKU, ranked eighth nationally, trailed 28-7 at halftime, but came back to earn its seventh consecutive victory, thanks to a potent running game.

Eastern passed for less than 100 yards, but did plenty of damage on the ground. Tailback Elroy Harris, one of college football's best backs, ran for 202 yards and three touchdowns to lead the comeback.

Harris became Eastern's all-time leading rusher, going over the 3,900 mark for his career. Quarterback Lorenzo Fields rushed for 98 yards, and freshman fullback Tim Lester added 81 on 13 carries.

The Colonels, winners of 19 straight at home, play this week against Morehead. The Eagles bring a 3-7 record into Hanger Field, including two wins in their last two OVC games.

The Kentucky Wildcats open their 1988-89 basketball season Saturday, taking on national power Duke in the Hall of Fame Tip-Off Classic.

UK is not considered to be one of the nation's better teams after losing four of its starters from last season.

The Wildcats will rely heavily on the talents of redshirt freshmen and new recruits while awaiting a final decision on the current NCAA investigation.

Duke, led by all-American Danny Ferry, is considered to be one of the top five teams in the nation, and is expected to battle for a national championship.

The tipoff is set for 3:30 p.m. The game will be televised by ESPN.

Hospital Staff, Employees Form Commitment Committee

Staff and employees of Paul B. Hall Regional Medical Center of Paintsville have formed an employee commitment committee, according to Debbie Trimble Meadows, hospital administrator.

The committee will allow employees help improve the hospital's services and community image. Since its formation in October, the committee has finished one project and begun another.

Members developed and endorsed an "Employee Statement of Commitment" which been printed and displayed in all departments. In November, the committee announced a new employee challenge called "Project Warmth." The project involves helping social service professionals in area counties to provide cold weather clothing for needy families, including gloves, hats, scarves, socks and blankets.

Hospital employees have been divided into three groups, each of which will be assigned a local county (Johnson, Martin or Magoffin). The groups will raise funds and accept articles through Dec. 15.

Garth Offers Course Variety

by Anne Chaney
Editor

A wealth of information awaits students at Garth Area Vocational Education Center in Martin, but many Floyd County teens — and their parents — may not be aware of the opportunities available.

Garth educators offer a wide range of programs, including auto mechanics, business and office skills, carpentry, electronics technology, machine shop skills, mine maintenance technology, welding, and a special/vocational liaison program.

Programs are open to junior and senior high school students throughout the county.

However, as both students and educators will point out, the school has been tagged with an image problem in the past few years.

"We give these kids the best basic foundation we can in particular trades with the facilities and resources we have available to us," notes Ronald A. Turner, Garth AVEC administrator.

"They get a good footing, a good grounding, so that they can go into industry or another school for advanced training. These are the kinds of things they will carry with them from now on," he explains.

Unfortunately, he adds, students often come to the school unable to read a ruler, tape measure, do simple math, or without mastery of basic reading and writing skills.

"We do have a problem with the overall caliber of student sent to Garth. There is a misconception of our program and what we have to offer here," says Turner. "The general public, counselors and principals have a feeling that if students can't do anything else, they'll send them to Garth — they can't see a board."

Turner is not alone in his views. Some teachers at the school say they are unhappy with the school's image, and add that they must spend much of their classtime doing remedial work with students.

Loretta Shelton, a second-year student in the business and office program, wrote earlier this year. "People have a stereotypical picture of Garth — being only for kids who have to have the credits to pass, or think it's easy credits. That's not the case! In our classrooms, there are many smart people who are eager to live successfully, or at least be happy with what they are skilled in. I'll add that the kids are also very talented, in more than one way."

The students are, indeed, talented. Wesley Hamilton, a McDowell High School student who attended Garth last year, won first place in the 1987-88 regional and state electronics competitions.

Dustin Conn, an Allen Central student, won first place in regional competition and third place in state competition for his carpentry skills. The pair competed against students from other vocational schools, including the post-secondary Mayo State Vocational School in Paintsville.

Turner, who says Floyd counselors are reluctant to steer students to Garth, feels that the school's negative image "is not true anymore — if it ever was."

With today's technological advances, many courses require complex math skills and strong language skills. "Our teachers have to go back and work with them. One-fourth of their time is spent doing remediation instead of actual teaching," he says.

Turner, whose faith in the students, educators and programs is evident, says he must often go directly to students at the county's five high schools to provide information about Garth AVEC.

"We tried counselors, principals and the general public, but we've found that we have to go directly to the students and sell our programs," Turner explains.

"Our students are having to make a choice in the ninth grade as to what they want to do, and that's a little bit ridiculous," he adds, explaining that Floyd students choose academic or vocational study programs when they are high school freshmen.

"Vocational education is right for some people: it has nothing to do with intelligence. It has to do with interest and where their skills and talents lay. We have the opportunities here," says Turner. "The school's image is simply a misconception."

The administrator of the 320-student facility notes that Garth offers some "very successful" programs. There are good careers in vocational trades, and students who graduate can make from $30,000 to $50,000 annually, especially in the mining industry, he adds.

"Things have gotten a little bit out of proportion," Turner says. "It's not that we don't want to serve students — we do. But it's gotten a little out of hand. Eleven percent of our student population is classified as special education."

Turner encourages parents and students to come tour the school — he says it is the most effective public relations tool the faculty has. "We've had people stop by, go through and look at it, and go away saying, 'Gosh, I didn't know you had this here,'" he notes.

Carpentry Fun, Useful

James Taylor's carpentry students are hard at work in Garth Area Vocational Education Center's carpentry class.

Despite the sanding, cutting and planing, it's hard to find a speck of sawdust or a wood shaving anywhere but in the trash bin.

In the tool room, a student stands behind the counter, checking instruments out, checking them in, and keeping things in an orderly fashion.

Garth's carpentry program teaches students the basics necessary to build houses and other structures, and covers safety, hand tools, power tools, portable power tools and blueprint reading.

It is not, as some would think, an easy class.

Students who have not mastered basic reading and writing skills are not allowed in the shop area, explains Taylor, primarily for safety reasons.

"The first thing I have to do is teach them the basics — but they should have been taught how to read a rule in elementary school," says the instructor.

First-year students begin the course studying the proper use of hand tools — a class segment that often takes them into the second quarter. Although using power tools follows, no students are allowed to use them until they have scored 100 percent on written safety tests for each tool.

In one area of the room, second-year students are getting ready to build a 12'x12' storage building, complete with hip roof, door, windows, electrical wiring and insulation.

"We're trying to get these students prepared to further their education at Mayo, or another vocational school," says Taylor. By covering house building "from the ground up," he says, students will have a basic idea of each step involved in construction.

Each student progresses at his or her own pace, finishing one project and beginning the next. They are taught to use a variety of hand tools, to take rough lumber and finish it, and even make some furniture.

Marvin Howard, a student from Betsy Layne, is among those who are just beginning the carpentry program.

"I figured it would be good to get into carpentry," he said as he worked to build a box to hold nails.

"I wasn't sure what it would be like, but it's a fun class. We do have to know a lot of math and geometry, though."

Howard, who said he has especially enjoyed learning to understand how things are built, has also learned another valuable lesson: "I used to be very impatient. When I got in here, I had to learn to be patient. He (instructor Taylor) taught me to get the job done, and do it right."

The high school senior wants to do carpentry work, and plans to also attend Mayo State Vocational School.

"If anyone would want to get into woodworking, this is the thing to do," he said of Garth's carpentry program. "It's interesting, fun, and helps you out a lot."

All Hands On Deck

Berea Students Visit Schools

By Marsha Johnson
A group of Berea College students visited schools in Floyd County last week to learn about some of the educational projects being conducted here.

Ten students from a Foundation of American Education class taught by Peggy Rivage-Suel spent two days in classrooms at Martin Elementary, McDowell High School, Wheelwright High School and the David School observing and talking with teachers and students. The students requested the visit after learning about the innovative approaches being used by some of the county's teachers. The visit was arranged by Debbie Bays, the coordinator of the Eastern Kentucky Teachers Network at the students' request. EKTN is composed of teachers who have attended the Foxfire seminar conducted each summer at Berea College by Eliot Wigginton, the author of Sometimes a Shining Moment. Teachers from 20 Eastern Kentucky counties have attended Wigginton's workshop and are currently engaged in projects using the philosophy of "hands-on" learning. Five teachers from Floyd County belong to the Eastern Kentucky

Teachers Network. The students stayed overnight and then formed groups for their visit. Some spent the two days at Martin Elementary with Bud Reynolds and his eighth grade class, which is conducting a study in global interdependence, while others visited with Willie Elliot at McDowell High School. A third group traveled to Wheelwright High School, where they observed traditional classes such as French and business classes and then talked to students enrolled in the Cultural Journalism class which produces Mantrip magazine. All of the students came together for a round-table discussion with teachers and students at Martin Elementary on the evening of November 2nd. "We had heard about Mantrip magazine through Eliot Wigginton," one of the students who visited Wheelwright told us. "I want to know how this method helps students, to find out if it is a better way of learning."

"Some of them went away anxious to start teaching," Delores Woody, one of the sponsors of Mantrip said. "That made us feel good."

Buchanan Honors Floyd Students

Four Floyd County students have been awarded honors at the June Buchanan School for academic achievement during the first six week period, according to school officials. Keith Webb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Webb of Langley, has been named to the director's list for achieving a 4.00 grade point average.

Named to the honor roll for achieving a grade point average between 3.5 and 3.99 were: Larry Leslie, son of Dr. and Mrs. Larry Leslie of Prestonsburg; Lisa Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Denzel Martin of Wayland and Nikki Ratliff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ratliff of Estill.

Med Schools Accept Tussey

Mark Tussey, a student at Transylvania University in Lexington, has been accepted to the University of Kentucky and University of Louisville medical schools for the coming academic year. Tussey, a senior, is the son of Marie R. Tussey of Prestonsburg, and is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School. He is majoring in biology and psychology.

Students Enjoy Crafts

As part of the annual Appalachian Heritage unit conducted by students in Sally Miller's American Literature classes at McDowell High School, Doreen Martin and Diana Price of Drift were invited to demonstrate crafts using corn shucks. Martin gave a brief history of using shucks in making dolls, flowers, wreaths and baskets. She also explained preparation, bleaching and dying the shucks. Each student was given the opportunity to select materials and create a flower using his or her imagination.

County Head Start Program:

Serving Floyd Youngsters

According to Sidney Jane Smith, director of the Floyd County Head Start program, Head Start is a federally funded child development program serving 4-year-old children from low income families.

Head Start programs operate under annual grants from the Department of Health and Human Services/Administration for children, youth and families, Smith said. The staff plan activities and services with the assistance of parents and area residents, she added. "They also work with other community agencies to ensure that children and families receive needed services," Smith said. The goal of Head Start is to break the cycle of poverty by working with children and strengthening the family unit, she explained. The program involves parents and the community in four component areas: education, health, social services and parent involvement.

An individualized approach is taken toward assessing a child's educational needs, Smith said. The parent is encouraged to be an integral part of the learning process, she said.

Head start services to pre-school children include medical and dental exams and screening, complete nutrition services, and mental health services. The child's family is provided with the necessary skills and insight to link the family to an on-going health care system, Smith explained.

Services for children identified as handicapped include: outreach and recruitment screening for possible handicaps, professional diagnosis of handicapping conditions, development and implementation of Individual Education Plan, and transition into the local school system, Smith said.

According to Smith, parents are an essential part of the program since they are active participants in classroom and parent group activities, in their child's growth, and in the program planning and decision making process.

Social services at Head Start involve serving as an advocate for families, counseling, referrals, and assisting families in becoming aware of community resources to improve the condition and quality of family life, Smith added.

"All of us can find a way to be a part of the Head Start program," Smith said. "Parents may volunteer time in the classroom, office, or assist in program administration. Senior citizens may volunteer time as storytellers. Service clubs may donate time, services or materials. Community leaders may serve as board or policy council members. Health workers may provide services or their expertise as health advisory council members," she concluded.

For more information concerning the program, call 886-1986.

Cocaine. The party's over.

It probably started with occasional use at parties, a line or two at concerts and other special events, perhaps a gram or so on weekends when some of your friends came over.

Now, you're using all the time.

And like thousands of others, you're suspecting that cocaine isn't the safe, non-addictive, recreational drug that everyone was saying it was a few years ago.

You're right. One in ten people who snort cocaine become addicted within four years. And half of all cocaine smokers end up totally unable to regulate their use, often in a much shorter time.

How can you tell when you've stopped being a social user? Well, if you find it difficult to refuse cocaine when it's available, or you use it even in inappropriate circumstances, then you've already started down the road of addiction.

What happens next is you completely lose control of your use. When you have coke, you do it until either you or the drug is exhausted.

If you continue, you get so you don't care what happens, as long as you have cocaine. You steal, lie, cheat, deal and risk prison to get it.

You'll likely put everything you once valued at risk. Your job, home, possessions, family, friends, and of course your health.

use will probably make you paranoid and may give you terrifyingly real hallucinations.

But most frightening of all, despite all this, you may still feel you're totally in control.

Don't believe that feeling. It's the drug talking. And cocaine lies.

At CareUnit, we help more people overcome their problems with drugs and alcohol than any other private treatment program. Over 55,000 came to us last year alone.

Our program includes careful medical supervision, education, group sessions and free lifetime aftercare.

And because cocaine addiction is a special problem, CareUnit doctors and therapists are experts in this field.

CareUnit's initial consultation is completely confidential, it costs nothing, and our treatment is covered by most insurance plans.

Call for yourself, or for someone you care about, but call.

Because when the party's over, you can be sure the nightmare is only just beginning.

College Costs Increase

"Many colleges across the nation are having to increase cost and they are seeing a reduction in loan dollars due to 'bad debts' assumed by many former financial aid recipients," according to Nancy Melton, director of financial aid at Alice Lloyd College. "Never before have we been better able to offer a sound financial package to a young person who has the desire to attend college."

Many colleges rely heavily on federal support for their financial programs. At Alice Lloyd, much of our financial support comes from foundations and individual donors who are interested in helping students who are willing to help themselves. This is a tradition Mrs. Lloyd started many years ago, and it is still very much a part of the philosophy at the college. The first objective of Alice Lloyd College is to provide a college education to qualified mountain students regardless of their financial ability. No qualified applicant is denied a chance to attend college because of their financial status. Alice Lloyd College guarantees to meet the financial need of every deserving student.

The Memorial Scholarship is the most prestigious scholarship the college offers. This scholarship ensures that costs for tuition, room and board at Alice Lloyd College will be met through a combination of grants and work/study opportunities.

Recipients of Memorial Scholarships are selected on the basis of academic achievement, citizenship, leadership and dedication to service to the Appalachian region. Nominees must be residents of the Appalachian region.

The Memorial Scholarship guarantees the student will have no out-of-pocket expenses for room, board, or tuition at Alice Lloyd College for the academic year, which is the equivalent of a $7,858 yearly grant. The scholarship is renewable each year the student is at Alice Lloyd College and as long as the student maintains a "B" or better average while completing a minimum of 15 hours each semester.

Books And Things:

Books On The 'Wild Side' Available At PCC

By Trisha Morris,
PCC Librarian

The heartstrings of the world were tugged recently by three gray whales imprisoned in an Arctic ice pack. Farley Mowat's books about wolves, deers, whales and dogs are read by thousands; and a recent movie, trremely valuable information in this, her second animal book. Packed with how-to illustrations, she provides essential tips on raising puppies, training your dog, grooming dogs, traveling with them and, even buying them clothes.

If there isn't time to read the book,

Feared, hated and reviled, he has often been regarded as the embodiment of evil. In this age of science and humanitarianism, many defend the wolf's role in nature and some have even come to romanticize him.

In Of Wolves and Men, Lopez, a noted author of animal lore, creates a compelling picture of the wolf of the Eskimo, the Indian, the Hollywood writer's imagination (werewolves and feral children), and the wolf of folklore and fable.

Canis Lupus has exerted a powerful influence on many people in many different cultures. Here, Lopez discusses wolf's vocal expressions, their social structure, their hunting and territory instincts, and their use as a spiritual symbol from early times to today. Using mythology and poetry, Lopez sorts truths from untruths to give us the best understanding possible that Homo Sapien can have of Canis Lupus.

The Chimpanzees of Gombe, by Jane Goodall. Twenty-eight years have passed since a young English woman named Jane Goodall first ventured to the shores of Lake Tanganyika to begin a scientific career that has become legendary.

In numerous research papers, in her 1968 Animal Behavior, in the breathtaking "National Geographic" television films, and in her best seller, In the Shadow of Man, the legend grew. Now Dr. Goodall crowns her first quarter-century with The Chimpanzees of Gombe by giving a comprehensive, up-to-date account of her work. This grand synthesis of animal behavior—the longest continuous field study of any living creature—presents a vast amount of information about chimpanzees in the wild.

Beautifully illustrated, documented, and written, this exciting and often touching story of many individual chimpanzees will appeal to scientific and non-scientific readers alike.

Whales, by E.J. Slijper. The study of whales (cetology) has grown and flourished since Melville introduced us to Moby Dick, and his descendants have been getting into our daily news bulletins. Fascinated by the species enormous size and the fact that they are mammals like ourselves, man has been exposed to stories about his brother in the sea from Biblical tales to cartoons that link him with wooden puppets.

Whales is a complete study of the streamlined animals. From the romanticized figure of the middle ages to the very real animal of our present time, the author describes how whales breath, move, reproduce and feed while existing in a world they have to surface from to survive.

Well illustrated and indexed, this is a thorough scientific study.

Your Pet Isn't Sick, by Herbert Tanzer. According to the author, a leading New York veterinarian, pets can and do deliberately get sick to get their owner's attention. In this wise and hilarious book, Dr. Tanzer talks about pets who manufacture coughs, rashes and limps to induce a human's sympathy. He covers such points as how marital problems can make a pet sick, how fat people create fat pets, why pets of nice people get sick more frequently than pets of nasty people, and how he solved the Case of the Twitching Beagle and the Coughing Cat.

This book might help avoid expensive visits to the vet and allow folks to enjoy their furry companions instead of letting him drive them crazy. It will most certainly provide a few belly laughs, whether one owns one of these fakers or not.

Care of the Wild, by W.J. Jordan. Written by an internationally known wildlife expert, this book shows how to immediately aid and nurture back to health wild creatures injured by autos, poisoning, trapping, hunting, flying accidents and other ills. The author takes goes step by step through initial handling, transporting, housing and alleviating the suffering of each species. With precautions for people's safety as well as that of the animals, the book includes how to care for orphaned babies, and gives a list of organizations that help and support wildlife across the United States.

Woman In the Mists, the story of Diane Fossey and the mountain gorillas of Africa, will keep the tissue companies in business. The following books from the PCC library are just a few of the titles from its shelves that contribute to our fascination with the living creatures who share our universe.

Songbirds In Your Garden, by John Terres. This charming book is a treasury of information of how to welcome and encourage songbirds to inhabit your area. Covering all the species of small birds, it is filled with anecdotes as well as practical advice about the feathered creatures. Terres, who has personally had a yard full of birds for many years, brings his knowledge, lore, and useful hints to the chapters of this book.

He not only discusses birdhouses and feeding stations, but explains how they should be made and what kind of food to put in them. From hummingbirds to cardinals, he tells you the right shrubs to plant, the flowering trees to include, and the correct time to put out supplemental feed to attract birds.

Raising Your Dog, by Rosanne Amberson. A complete volume on every aspect of nurturing a happy, healthy, and beautiful canine pet. From good food to good health, Amberson includes a wealth of exat least flip through the pictures—there are 183 wonderful black and white snaps of this cuddly creature from puppy to grown dog, at work and at play.

Mammals of Kentucky, by Roger Barbour. Because of its central situation in the eastern United States and the variety of habitats to be found within its borders, Kentucky has an interesting mixture of mammalian species. Sixty-three different species from the short-tailed shrew to the white-tailed deer are described and illustrated in this interesting book.

Designed to be used by professional zoologists as well as amateur observers, the book is conveniently arranged by order, families, and species, following the zoological scheme of classification. Identification is made easy by dramatic color photographs that show the distinctive characteristics of each animal. Different authors describe each species, giving an account of its distinguishing features, similar species with which it might be confused, its habitat, characteristic behavior, and life history.

This book is a good introduction to Kentucky readers of the unusually rich natural heritage of their state.

Of Wolves and Men, by Barry Lopez. No animal has gripped men's imagination as strongly as the wolf.

Paul B. Hall Hospital Asks Non-Smokers' Help

Paul B. Hall Regional Medical Center of Paintsville is urging its employees and staff to participate in the nationwide "Great American Smoke-Out" Thursday, Nov. 17, according to Anna Jane Beam, director of nursing and coordinator of the hospital's Great American Smoke-Out committee.

Non-smokers are encouraged to adopt smokers and assist them in not smoking, Beam said. "Goodie" baskets with non-smoking incentive packs will be provided, Beam said. "If each of our non-smoking staff can assist a smoker for just this one day, it just might make a big difference in the years ahead for someone," Beam noted. "If an adopted smoker reduces cigarette consumption by half for this and succeeding days, we will have made the day worthwhile," she concluded.

HRMC's Dr. Sieg Addresses Rotary

James W. Sieg, R.Ph., Ph.D., Highlands Regional Medical Center's director of pharmacy, was the guest speaker at the Prestonsburg Rotary Club luncheon on Thursday, Oct. 13 at the Holiday Inn. His topic was drug abuse.

Dr. Sieg discussed various aspects of the problem and highlighted the numerous classifications of abuse drugs, patterns of abuse, recognition of signs and symptoms of the drug abuser and the sources of the most common drugs of abuse. The presentation generated several questions from the audience.

"I feel it is very important that we, as a medical center, provide community leaders with as much information as possible concerning the widespread and multi-faceted drug abuse issue," stated Dr. Sieg. An interesting component of the program was a portable drug display recently purchased by HRMC. The folding briefcase display contains a wide variety of the drugs and chemical substances common to the current drug abuse problem.

The program is available through HRMC's Speakers Bureau and Public Relations Office.

Smokeout Enabled Nurse To Quit

Sheilah Akers says there are expected and unexpected benefits to life without cigarettes.

"It's nice not to be dependent on any substance whatever," she says. But that's not all. It was a real surprise to her than her senses of taste and smell, which were lost through cigarette smoking, came back.

Akers, a registered nurse and Our Lady of the Way Hospital's operating room supervisor, began smoking when she was 14 years old.

"I didn't see any harm in it," she explains. "Back then, nobody said it caused cancer and stuff like that." Akers' first attempts at quitting weren't successful.

"I quit for six months one time and a year for another time. My mother's coma and death were stressful. I thought I could smoke through the funeral and put them back down. Instead, I picked the habit right back up. I know now not to fool with them."

Akers' mother and father were smokers, and both died of cancer. "I kind of figured I was high-risk," concludes Akers.

Akers says that the 1986 Great American Smokeout brought to a head something she wanted to do, but had just been putting off.

"It was great," explains Akers. "Everybody was rooting for me. The first day is the worst, and they made it good. (Former nursing director) Susan Stewart adopted me... the (hospital) kitchen made special fruit plates and I could go down to munch when I had the urge to smoke."

Akers says the combination of being adopted by a non-smoker, seeing other people care to go out of their way to help her quit, and her family history (cancer deaths are not something she wants to go through again) were what helped her most to succeed in quitting. She also used Nicorettes, a nicotine gum, for two weeks.

"It wasn't as hard as I thought it would be," says Akers. "I think you have to really want it. You can't do it because other people want it, although that's a good incentive."

"I had to find new ways of dealing with stressful situations," she continues. "Breaking a life-long habit (Akers smoked for 26 years) is a big thing. I was used to eating and smoking a cigarette afterwards. When I got called out for a surgery, I smoked as I rushed to the hospital."

Akers, and her husband of 22 years, Kenneth Ray, live in McDowell and have a 17-year-old child, Melissa.

"I've always told Missy that had I known the harmful effects, I would have never started smoking. She can feel blessed to have the knowledge and to choose not to get hooked. She can make an informed decision. I couldn't."

Akers thinks highly of the Great American Smokeout, which will be observed Thursday, Nov. 17.

"I think it's great," says Akers. "It makes people more aware. You see people who used to smoke quit because they know now — how harmful it is. Medical knowledge tells us you can reverse the effects if you quit soon enough."

Our Lady of the Way Hospital will observe the Great American Smokeout this year, as it did in 1986 and 1987. Information on how to quit smoking is already available on posters and brochures. Healthy munchies will be available all day long as alternatives to a cigarette.

Non-smoking employees are being encouraged to "adopt" smokers and give up some other unhealthy habit "in sympathy" for the quitters. A "cold turkey" raffle for employees is also being held to accumulate data on employee smoking, and draw attention to the Great American Smokeout.

For free information on quitting smoking, contact the American Cancer Society at 437-8603, or call Judy Hamm at 285-5181, extension 339.

Thanksgiving was adapted from the seasonal "thanksgivings" that Native Americans celebrated in honor of planting and harvesting foods. They felt a solemn and religious obligation to express their appreciation for the gifts of the land, such as wheat and corn.

To capture the tradition of breaking bread with family and friends during the holidays, November has been designated as National Family Bread Baking Month. Fleischman's Yeast has developed several bread recipes from various regions of the country.

Indian Hearth Bread, a basic white bread topped with sesame seeds and baked as free-form loaves, honors our Indian heritage.

Soft pretzels, popular in the east- especially New York City, are based on a traditional Pennsylvania Dutch recipe. The recipe is so easy young children can participate in the holiday baking.

Pecan cornbread combines staples of the Southern pantry, cornmeal and pecans.

With inspiration from the heartland, Honey-Graham Bread combines whole wheat flour, wheat germ and graham cracker crumbs with all-purpose flour for a nutritious and delicious loaf of bread.

Toasted coconut Coffeecake is inspired by the cuisine of Hawaii. It can be wrapped in plastic and refrigerated for up to a week. Before serving, simply bake Toasted Coconut Coffeecake until browned.

Mexican Bubble Rolls complements the popular cuisine of the Southwest. These rolls, like tiny pinatas, contain a surprise inside. A delicious Monterey Jack cheese filling is tucked inside a chile-seasoned pocket of dough.

For more information about baking with yeast, call the Fleischman's Yeast toll-free Bakers' hotline, 1-800-227-6202, from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday through Friday.

your TELEPHONE CONNECTION

by Art Willett
Manager
South Central Bell

How often does one of your monthly bills go down?

Since October 1, South Central Bell customers in Pike County have noticed a reduction in the monthly charge for local telephone service. Basic residence rates in Pikeville, Elkhorn City, Virgie and Feds Creek have decreased from $12.28 to $12.02 a month, and basic business rate in these areas have dropped from $31.62 to $30.96 a month. Basic residence rates in South Williamson, McCarr, Stone and Freeburn have decreased from $11.41 to $11.17 a month, and basic business rates in these areas have dropped from $28.70 to $28.10 a month. These reductions are part of the incentive regulation plan recently approved by the Kentucky Public Service Commission that provides both immediate and long-term benefits for telephone customers. The new plan also guarantees that local telephone rates will not increase for at least two years. Incentive regulation is designed to give our Kentucky customers the chance to share in the gains we achieve through good management and cost control, and also help keep telephone rates stable into the 1990s. As you may know, South Central Bell will soon introduce a redesigned customer bill in Kentucky. Pike County customers should get their first look at the new bill in late December or early January. We've put a great deal of time and effort into the new bill. Why? Because you wanted us to. We've heard from a number of customers, including some in Pike County, that the current bill design is hard to read. That concerned us, because we think it's important that you, our customers, understand how to do business with South Central Bell. We decided that a new bill design was needed, and in putting it together we listened to many of your suggestions. Looking at the new bill, you'll see:

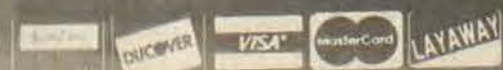

- Larger pages
- An all-new, easy-to-read type style.
- A summary of your charges on the front page.
- A tear-off return form at the bottom of the front page.
- Bold, distinctive color stripes across the top of each page.

When you receive the new new bill for the first time, you'll also receive a special insert explaining the new bill's various parts and what they mean. If you have questions about your bill, the new design will list the appropriate parts and what they mean. If you have questions about your bill, the new design will list the appropriate numbers to call for help. We hope you'll like the changes we're making in your telephone bill - the changes we're making because you asked for them. The new bill is just one more example of South Central Bell's "Customer first" commitment to you. From all of South Central Bell's Pike County employees, please accept our best wishes for a safe and happy holiday season.

HRMC, Fire Department Hold Firefighting In-Service

Over 200 Highlands Regional Medical Center personnel were taught practical firefighting principals in on-site fire extinguishing classes presented in conjunction with the Prestonsburg Fire Department. The hands-on training sessions were held October 20 and 26 and dealt with extinguishing flammable liquids. Employees were taught correct use of fire extinguishing equipment and gained practical experience by extinguishing blazes.

Robert Ford, director of safety and security stated, "We would like to thank the Prestonsburg Fire Department—especially Larry Adams and Mike Wells—for presenting another successful fire safety program this year. Larry and Mike demonstrated valuable lessons for employees not only at work, but also for dealing with home fires as well."

A prize was awarded to lucky participant Glenna Sexton, admissions interviewer. Selected through a random number drawing from participating personnel, she received a Home ABC (basic multi-purpose)

Fire Extinguisher.

The fire extinguisher in-service is one facet of HRMC's complete fire safety program. The overall program is designed to assure quick and appropriate responses in any emergency situation.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

INTO THE MOUTHS OF BABES

So-called "flavored" medications may be just as hard to feed to a child as the unflavored types. It is the recommendation of many physicians that a parent should not lie to a youngster, pretending that the medicine tastes good when it does not. By using such subterfuges, a parent may get the first dose into the child, but he certainly will not get another dose in, no matter what! Instead, a parent should explain that the stuff may not be the best tasting in the world, but it is medicine and it will make him feel better soon. Many parents find that offering a small treat after the dosing will take away the bad taste. Such honesty is usually rewarded by the child having more faith in his parent, and in the medication.

If your physician prescribes medication for you, or a member of your family, please keep in mind that COOLEY APOTHECARY maintains the highest standards of the pharmaceutical profession. Learn for yourself why your friends and neighbors already rely on us. Complete patient profiles are maintained to aid us in checking for possible drug interactions. It also allows us to quickly give you any information you need for income tax and insurance purposes. COOLEY APOTHECARY also wants you to know that we carry a full line of health care items. We are located at #2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-3.

HINT:

A child should be informed after the entire term of medical treatment that it was the medicine that made him better.

HOROSCOPE

November 20 through November 26

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)
Finances overshadow participation in new activities. A give-and-take attitude aids in attaining goals. Dramatic events transpire.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)
A shaky friendship is further polarized. Shuffle priorities to deal with an increase in activity. Vicious rumors lead to hard feelings.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)
Reconciliation is pending. Fringe benefits could be falsely presented. A fickle disposition garners resentment. Neighbors cause problems.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)
Carefully size up new acquaintances. Disillusions are probable. Serenity becomes your saving grace. Practiced methods become outmoded.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)
Despite physical pain, try to project an image of strength; helplessness does little good. Deceitfulness of others is imagined.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)
A small setback in the grand plan seems overwhelming. Stand back and look at the situation logically. A creative flair surfaces.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)
Maintain ethics despite personal sacrifices. Pinpoint needs and develop a plan to meet them. Misinformation causes confusion.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)
Circumstances at work put you in an ideal situation. Long-awaited events finally occur. Lay the groundwork for a domestic change.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)
Humane actions improve your impressions of others. Obvious solutions to problems come just in time. Cut through gibberish for the truth.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)
Delegate or postpone time-consuming chores to handle more important duties. A new skill takes precedence over established tasks.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)
Observe the importance family. Second chances are hard to come by; use careful thought in decision making. Hurt feelings heal with time.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)
Exhaustion causes a slowdown in productivity. Place priority on rest and other health matters. Blatant insubordination leads to turmoil.

TV Q&A

Maureen O'Hara living well after successful film career

By Polly Vonetes

Q: Could you tell me about Maureen O'Hara and where I could get a list of her movies? —Sonya Wallace, Deatsville, Ala.

A: Maureen O'Hara was born Maureen FitzSimons on Aug. 17, 1920 in Millwall, Ireland. The fiery redhead, best known for her feature-film work during the '40s and '50s, last acted in 1971. She starred with John Wayne in Big Jake. O'Hara was married three times. Her first marriage, to director George Brown, was annulled. Her second, to director Will Price, by whom she had her daughter, Bronwyn, ended in divorce. Her third, to Charles Blair, who ran an airline in the Caribbean, ended when he was killed in a 1978 plane crash. A widow of considerable wealth, she has homes in California, the Virgin Islands, New York and her native Ireland. A list of her movies can be found in The Film Encyclopedia by Ephraim Katz. Check your local library.

Q: We have been watching a new series on Maryland Public Television, Robin Hood. The leading man, Jason Connery, is really great! Is he the son of actor Sean Connery? How old is he, is he married? —Cheryl Bonifant, Burtonsville, Md.

A: Jason Connery, son of Sean Connery, was born Jan. 11, 1963, in London, where he continues to live. He is not married at this writing, but has many (girl) friends.

Q: I have a couple of questions I have been wondering about and since I just saw the movie To Hell and Back about Audie Murphy, I thought I would write to you. How did Murphy die, how old was he, was he married and did he have a family? Also, where was he born?

Maureen O'Hara.

—Shirley King, Newcastle, Wyo.

A: Audie Murphy, who was born in Kingston, Texas, on June 20, 1924, was killed in a private plane crash in 1971. He was 46 years old. His survivors included his wife, Pamela, and two sons, Terry and James.

Q: I would appreciate anything you can tell me about Treat Williams, real name, age, etc. He made a movie here and every one that met him talks about how nice and friendly he was. He made many friends here. —Anonymous in Oxford, Miss.

A: Treat Williams was born in 1948 in Rowayton, Conn. He was named after a maternal ancestor, Robert Treat Paine, who was a signer of the Declaration of Independence. Williams began his career on the Broadway stage in Grease. He has starred in the feature films Hair, Prince of the City, The Pursuit of D.B. Cooper and Once Upon a Time in America. His television roles include Dempsey, A Streetcar Named Desire and J. Edgar Hoover.

Networks cook up Thanksgiving treats

Football, parades on holiday menus

By Anne Wheeler
Larry, Darryl and Darryl, the three close-knit, tight-lipped brothers on CBS' Newhart, have been busy all season perfecting the Thanksgiving treat they plan to serve up at the Minute Man cafe.

But television viewers beware, the three networks will be dishing up holiday fare sure to top the brothers' culinary creativity.

As an appetizer, Linda Gray and Patrick Duffy serve as hosts for the CBS All-American Thanksgiving Day Parade, dishing up festivities from New York City's Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade, as well as highlights from other parades. Anchoring from the specially designed outdoor bubble, Gray and Duffy also take a peek at the Michigan Day Parade in Detroit, Hawaii's tropical Aloha Floral Parade and Toronto's Metro Santa Claus Parade. Stars from various CBS primetime programs will offer informative commentary on each of the four parades.

CBS has also prepared a special NFL stuffing for later that afternoon. The secret ingredient is a game between the Minnesota Vikings and the Detroit Lions. That night viewers can snack on a unique brand of brotherly love when Tom and Dick Smothers demonstrate just that on The Smothers Brothers Thanksgiving.

Meanwhile NBC is bringing in the main course with the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade in its entirety from 9 a.m. to noon Eastern. Willard Scott (Today Show) hosts this holiday classic along with Sandy Duncan (The Hogan Family). Among the participants will be NBC stars Harry Anderson, Mario Van Peebles and Susan Rutan. Other special guests will be Marilyn Horne, Tanya Tucker, Olympians Florence Griffith-Joyner, Jackie Sandy Duncan joins Willard Scott as host for the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade, Thursday on NBC.

Joyner Kersee and Carl Lewis, the Osmond Kids, Jill Schulz, the Boys Choir of Harlem, the Radio City Music Hall Rockettes and Santa Claus. This year's new balloons will be Big Bird from Sesame Street, Quik Bunny, the Pink Panther (with creator Friz Freleng accompanying it in a pink Cadillac) and a revised Snoopy and Woodstock. There will also be six returning favorite balloons and 22 floats.

The parade will depart from in front of the American Museum of Natural History on Central Park West at 77th Street in Manhattan and finish at the world famous Macy's department store on Herald Square at 34th Street.

After the parade, it's Thanksgiving Texas style when the Houston Oilers head "north" to Dallas to take on the Cowboys in an NFL football matchup.

Instead of the standard mince meat pie, ABC is dishing up a different kind of dessert for Thanksgiving night. Julie Andrews and Dick Van Dyke let viewers relive a Walt Disney fantasy when that network airs Mary Poppins, the musical comedy about everyone's favorite nanny.
