

Floyd Educators Dissatisfied With Insurance

by Anne Chaney Editor

Rumblings of dissent are echoing loudly among Floyd County educators on twin fronts - salary levels and the state's new self-insurance plan.

While some teachers are discussing a one-day walkout to protest the insurance plan, others are resigned to the change, and have little hope of seeing employment benefits improve. At issue is the state's new selfinsurance plan to provide health care coverage for state government employees, school teachers and some local government workers.

For educators in Floyd and 65 other Eastern Kentucky counties, the change will mean higher premiums - and lower benefits.

'A lot of things are not covered that were in the past," says Floyd County School Superintendent Ronald Hager Hager is urging local school personnel to attend the Interim Joint Banking and Insurance Committee's public hearing in Hazard Wednesay. Oct. 19, to voice their concerns. The meeting will be held in the City Hall Chambers at 7:30 p.m.

Eastern Kentucky educators will be more severely affected by the plan than their Central and Western Kentucky counterparts, because they do not have access to alternatives such as health-maintenance organizations. For example, Floyd County's 500 teachers can choose between Kentucky Kare and Kentucky Kare

Select, while educators in Fayette County can choose from those two plans, as well as five others.

Through Nov. 1, state employees are covered under Blue Cross/ Blue Shield. Last year, during the second year of its two-year contract, Blue Cross attempted to raise its premiums. The state refused to comply with the request and Blue Cross threatened to cancel the contract, but the company later accepted the state's decision.

With the change to the state selfinsured program, Kentucky ends a lengthy relationship with Blue Cross. which had administered health care coverage for over 65,000 workers.

The self-insurance plan will prompt three major changes for local educators:

Kentucky Kare deductibles will be $800 for the family plan and $400 for the individual plan: Kentucky Kare Select deductibles are $400 for the family plan and $200 for the in-

Deputies, KSP Seize Shine Still

Floyd County deputy sheriffs confiscated a moonshine still and its product, two marijuana plants and arrested a Drift Hollow man for possession of a still Tuesday evening.

Arrested was Edward Wright of Drift Hollow. He was charged with possession of an apparatus and unlawful manufacture of an alcoholic beverage, according to Deputy George Hale

The operation was reported to the Sheriff's office and when deputies arrived they found the steel drum and crock moonshine still, nine and onehalf gallons of moonshine and one-half gallon of mash, all of which was confiscated. They destroyed a barrel of moonshine and 55 gallons of mash on site, according to Deputy Ralph Howell

The Kentucky State Police assisted in the arrest and confiscation, Hale said.

"You don't see many moonshine stills," Howell said of the find.

County educators will hold a rally in Prestonsburg's Municipal Parking Lot today at 6 p.m., then attend a specially-called Board of Education meeting to discuss the issue. The meeting, which will be held at 7 p.m. in Prestonsburg High School's cafeteria, was granted by the board after more than 250 educators attended last week's BOE meeting and demanded the special session.

Educators filled the meeting room at Allen Central High School last Wednesday, applauding and giving standing ovations during an address to the board by Roberta Luxmore. Floyd County Education Association president

Luxmore, reading from a written statement, told the board that "teachers in Floyd County are the only board employees who must purchase many of the supplies and materials necessary to do (their) jobs." She added that teachers assist with fundraising, ball games, field trips, and many extra-curricular activities for no additional compensa-

Stumbo Proclaims October As 'Hire The Handicapped' Month In County

October was proclaimed National Employ the Handicapped Month in Floyd County by County Judge Executive John M. Stumbo Thursday.

During the month, there will be a display at the Floyd County Library, posters, radio spots and other publicity throughout the county, according to Glenda Hall, counseling supervisor for the Employment Services office in Prestonsburg.

'All persons have the right to employment at the highest levels of which they are capable, and this right is not to be abridged by reason of physical or mental disability," the proclamation said.

Observance of the month can be made by acknowledging the contributions disabled people make and by increasing the employment options available to them, the document proclaimed.

"Some think if they have something wrong, they won't find a job," Hall said. But they don't consider all the other jobs that they can do.'

At the Employment Services office, a disabled person is not treated different than anyone else, she said. That person is a qualified applicant looking for a job like anyone else.

Hall added that a disabled person should not think of "what I can't do," but "what I can do.

Caudill's attorney, Ned Pillersdorf of Prestonsburg, said Judge Steven Nick Frazier, special judge appointed to the case, is expected to rule in the near future on Caudill's request that his one-year sentence be suspended. Pillersdorf has represented Caudill throughout the legal windings of the case, which was first heard in Pike Circuit Court following a change of venue from Floyd County jurisdiction. The conviction was appealed to the Kentucky Court of Appeals, which upheld the lower court's ruling. The Kentucky Supreme Court declined to hear the subsequent appeal.

Pillersdorf then filed a petition in

In the Sixth Circuit Court in Cincinnati. Pillersdorf had argued that Caudill's right to a fair trial was denied when the change of venue was granted. Pillersdorf's defense hinged on the definition of "district" as contained in the Sixth Amendment. which guarantees the right to trial in the district wherein the crime allegedly occurred.

Pillersdorf contended that the change of venue should have been denied

Red, White & Blue Festivities Begin Friday

By L.J. Cooley

After 19 years, Red, White and Blue Day is still soaring, according to parade founder Marcella Bailey of Marcella Bailey's Red, White and Blue Day, Inc.

"I feel good about the whole thing," she said. "We are glad that so many get to participate in something that promotes freedom.

The Red, White and Blue Day activities this year will honor World War 1 veterans and will begin Friday with a street dance from 6 to 10 p.m., according to Rodney Hutchinson, Red, White and Blue Day committee chairman.

Saturday's events begin with the five kilometer run at 9 a.m., flag raising by the local Disabled Amerian Veterans chapter at 11 a.m., and the parade in downtown Martin at 2 p.m., he said. From all indications, it is going to be a big parade," Hutchinson said. Other events during the day include

The average decrease per customer is $12.41. The lower rates became effective Thursday, Sept. 1.

a horseshoe tournament, antique car show, food and craft booths (including a "purple flash" quilt giveaway), and at 5 p.m. a novelty contest, with events such as hog, wife and husband calling contests, and a pretty leg contest for men, he said. Prizes will be given at the contests

At dark, the fireworks show will begin, and it should be bigger and better this year, Hutchinson said.

The grand marshal for this year's parade is Brigadier General Edward Gill of the Kentucky National Guard.

Also featured in the parade will be the Red, White and Blue and Patriotic pageant winners. The first place winners are Little Miss Red, White and Blue Shandrea Jo Pack, Junior Miss Red, White and Blue Jessica Leigh Walters, Miss Red, White and Blue Paulette Mitchell, Little Miss Patriotic Keri Dingus, Tiny Miss Patriotic Brianne Nicole Daniels, Tiny Mr. Patriotic Ronald Johnson, Pretty Baby Boy Joshua Hicks and Pretty Baby Girl Brita Meade.

'All military are welcome to come out and enjoy (the day)" Hutchinson said. "That's what it's all about-God and country

Bailey began the annual parade in 1969, at a time when the country was in turmoil.

'The idea was to revive patriotism,' Bailey said. "In the 1960s it didn't look like we were going to have a country. She decided something could be done

In Special Meeting Martin Council Applies For Wastewater Grant

In a special meeting Friday night, the Martin City Council authorized application for a grant and loan to fund construction of a waste water treatment plant for the city

The city was in violation of state and federal environmental regulations, so the plant has to be built, according to Mayor Raymond Griffith

Martin is applying for a Kentucky Small Cities Community Development Block grant and Farmers Home Administration loans, according to the resolution.

The city has been waiting its turn to apply for the grant for a few years,' Griffith said

'We had to wait to get the funding, and when it comes our time and we don't accept it, we'll have to do it ta project) on our own," he said.

The special meeting was called because there was not quorum at the regulary-scheduled Wednesday night meeting.

In a special meeting Saturday night, City Council members voted to install two auxilary police officers, increasing the police force to 10, Griffith said.

The officers were added because concerns were raised by Red, White and Blue committee members about police protection for the food and craft booths on Friday night, and personnel to direct traffic the day of the parade.

Insurance Package Leaves State Employees Unhappy

but the reality of a budget stretched until there is no money left for anything but basic service

State officials have said that budget limitations and the refusal of insurance companies to provide adequate coverage forced the state to implement the self-insured plan.

ICH Corp., of Louisville, will administer the plan, and the state will pay claims ICH will receive $6.19 monthly per employee participating.

The General Assembly has budgeted money on the level of benefits offered tucky Kare Select, the cost will be $120 million over the next two years to pay for health insurance, and the contract with ICH will cover that twovear period

Stumbo also said that if Blue Cross' bid this year had been accepted by the state, the benefits package would have been "radically different" than the current policy. He added. however, that Blue Cross attempted to back out of its contract last fall because the company was "losing to state employees and teachers at that time.

Floyd County educators who plan to transfer their coverage to the selfinsured plan will have until Oct. 17 to do so, according to district officials. By transferring, any previouslyexisting medical conditions will be covered. Transfer requests must be postmarked no later than Oct. 17, or received by central office staff no later than noon the same day

$146.30 per family, and $9 per person (in addition to the state contribution) for an individual policy

The 1988 General Assembly created the state-employee benefit fund, easily passing the bill in both chambers: Gov. Wallace Wilkinson signed it into law in February.

In a recent open letter to Rep. Greg Stumbo of Prestonsburg, members of the Floyd County Education Association noted. "... the teachers and staff of Floyd County are more than a little upset about the inequities in the insurance program. We have signed and sent to the governor a petition stating our objection. The teachers and staff of this county are united in their objection to the coverage we are being offered, and do not intend to accept this latest degradation.

'Since you were elected to represent the people of this district, we expect your active participation in seeing that this will be changed. We

Board Addresses Routine Businesses

In addition to hearing comments from representatives of the Floyd County Education Association last Wednesday, the local Board of Education discussed construction of Right Beaver (Garrett-Wayland) Elementary School

Learning that the project bids were nearly $500,000 over budget, the board discussed removing eight classrooms from the second story of the building to meet financial constraints.

However, some board members opposed the cutback, asking instead what other specifications might be changed to meet available funding.

"We don't want to eliminate that many classrooms and not have enough space," pointed out board member James A. Duff.

Superintendent Ron Hager said the board could vote to have the building re-designed or rebuit, although the former process could take as many as five or six months

Board members took no action, but decided to continue discussion at tonight's board meeting (Wednesday, Oct. 12) at 7 p.m. at Prestonsburg High School's cafeteria.

The board also heard remarks from Jean Rosenberg of the Floyd County Education Forum, Rosenberg questioned the board's handling of the Sept. 19 visit by a state curriculum audit team, pointing out that the Forum had very little notice prior to meeting with the team.

She urged the board to use the team's report, expected in November. "to explain the process. and use their recommendations as part of a planning process for the community," encouraging public input

The Rev. Tim Jessen, local pastor. also addressed the board, expressing concern of the availability of art and music programs in the district.

NOTICE OF CORRIDOR/DESIGN PUBLIC NOTICE

The Transportation Cabinet, Department of Highways has scheduled a Corridor/Design Public Hearing, Thursday, October 20, 1988 at 7:00 P.M. Eastern Standard Time at the Martin Elementary School in Martin, Kentucky on the following proposed projects:

The proposed projects are for the reconstruction of the bridge over the Right Fork of Beaver Creek and the bridge over Beaver Creek at Martin. These are generally referred to as the Twin Bridges.

The purpose of the hearing is to afford all interested persons and those affected by the highway improvements an opportunity to become fully informed about the design, access and right of way features of the project.

The public is invited. Persons interested in and affected by the proposed improvements are encouraged to attend and express their views concerning the social. economical and environmental effects the project will have upon individuals and businesses in the area and community.

Detail plans of the project are on display from 9:00 A.M. to 4:00 P.M. Eastern Standard Time daily for public review at the Department of Highways District Office in Pikeville, Kentucky. Maps, drawings and detailed plans will be on display at the site of the hearing. Department personnel will be present to discuss the plans and respond to questions.

The Design Study Report for a Categorical Exclusion will be available for inspection at the hearing and will be available for review and copying at the Highway District Office in Pikeville, Kentucky. Approval from Federal Highway Administration for this project was received May 9th, 1988.

Written statements and other exhibits will be accepted at the public hearing and made a part of the hearing records. Additional statements may be submitted to the District Office of the Highway Department at the location listed below within 10 days after the public hearing. Recording facilities will be available to allow interested citizens to make statements concerning the project at any time during the hearing. This will be an Open House Format.

The public hearing is being conducted pursuant to the Federal Aid Highway Act 23 U.S.C.; its revisions and as required by the Federal Aid Highways Program Manual 7-7-5 dated December 30, 1974.

Water District Merger Sought

A proposed merger of Floyd County's Prater Creek Water District and Mountain Water District in Pike County was approved by the Pike Fiscal Court at its regular meeting Oct. 3.

A petition presented by Ernest Chaney, executive director of Mountain Water District, requested merging the operations of the two systems to distribute costs over a larger customer base, Chaney said.

The two districts agreed in April for Mountain Water to operate the Prater Creek district when the city of Prestonsburg discontinued operating the system for Prater Creek, he said.

Through mutual understanding and agreement, the two districts decided to merge, Chaney said.

"In order to merge the two, both (Pike and Floyd fiscal courts) have to approve it, then forward the proposal to the Public Service Commission, which has the final say," he said.

The Floyd Fiscal Court has not yet been approached about the proposed merger, according to County Judge Executive John M. Stumbo.

Chaney said the merger's benefits would be in supply and operation costs. It is very hard for a small water district to maintain itself, he said, but Mountain Water is a larger district.

The proposed merger may also have an effect on rates, he said.

"All will operate for a longer period before we would have an increase in rates," Chaney said. "With a bigger operation, it would delay significantly

US Chamber of Commerce Board Endorses Scott For 7th District Position

The board of directors of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce has endorsed Will Scott in his election bid in the 7th Congressional District of Kentucky.

"The Chamber is supporting Scott because of the excellent opportunity he represents to help elect another true believer in free enterprise to Congress," said Albert D. Bourland, Chamber vice president of congressional relations. "The business community must unite and continue to elect legislators committed to maintaining America's prosperous economic environment."

Scott, a native and lifelong resident of Eastern Kentucky, is a former Pike County assistant commonwealth's atcorney and circuit judge. While serving as judge, he reduced the caseload and waiting period for trial by nearly half. In 1986, Scott was elected second vice president of the Kentucky Circuit Judges Association.

Scott believes that Congress must balance the federal budget, but without increasing taxes. He wants greater reliance on private industry for job creation. Scott also is a strong supporter of measures to protect the needs of the elderly.

Incumbent two-term U.S. Rep. Chris Perkins has a 16 percent cumulative voting record with the Chamber on issues of importance to business. a water rate increase in Prater Creek." Chaney said he does not expect a problem with approval of the merger proposal by the Floyd Fiscal Court. Mountain Water merged about four small water districts in Pike County in 1986, Chaney said. When water district commissioners go and ask for assistance, normally there is no problem.

Strange Tomato Photo Is Identified By Reader

Dear Editor.

I am writing about a picture of that strange tomato published in the Times Aug. 31. My brother J.B. Ratcliff of South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, mailed the paper to me so I could see the photo.

About three years ago, I sent him some tomato seeds that came from England. He has raised them every year.

These tomatoes are called stuffing tomatoes and look like green peppers. They are great for stuffing.

The seeds are available through a seed book, " I'm sure the plants did not come from him

Reader Supports Nov. 8 'Yes' Vote

Dear Editor.

I, being from the coalfields of Eastern Kentucky and having lived around the coal industry all my life, feel that we should protect surface owners from coal companies' unlawful destruction of land and property.

There are broad form deeds on the minerals in my land and I will fight to protect my property. Please vote "yes" on Amendment No. 2 to help us all protect our land. EULA HALL Grethel

Stumbo Supports CA #2 Dear Editor.

For many reasons, your vote on Nov. 8 will be one of the most important of your life.

Amendment #2 on the ballot, the broadform deed amendment, is probably less understood than the lottery amendment, but equally deserving of your approval. If passed, it will allow landowners some protection when minerals are extracted from their property.

Land speculators and represen-meone say "Hey, you can't do this. Stop!" This is wrong! People are being thrown out of their graves. I have nightmares about it. I wonder if the man doing this does? These people can't stand up and fight for their rights. All they knew was that they had them when they were alive and breathing. They are at our money! We are at yours!

I cried for them once, and now have learned to accept their deaths, just to have my heart broken again; one day justice will be done—I hope today. MARY MASSENGILL Sidney, Ohio

Wheelwright Mayor's Residence Questioned

Dear Editor,

I was raised in Floyd County at Wheelwright I grew up there; happy, content, and feeling that no place else was as good as where I lived. When I was grown, I joined the USAF, making it my first career. I returned to Wheelwright though, as often as possible, touching base with my roots (those people I loved and that place from whence I came).

Tye seen the town boom and Tye seen it bust, and throughout it all, good, respectable people hung in there, bought their homes, raised their children and tried to continue to make it a good place to live.

I'm retired from the service now and live in Israel. While my profession is international law, it permits me to return frequently to visit my aging mother in Wheelwright. She lives in an apartment in the center of town. From her place, I can see the City Hall and all the other places on downtown Main Street. The change in climate, from the dry desert of the Middle East to the Kentucky mountains, always assure me of severe sinus infections when I return to visit my mother. As a result, I'm up about all night, every night, and I've grown to know everyone that works night shift, or comes in late, or doesn't come in at all.

I love this town and still see that many of the people are attempting to keep it a family-type town, that's a good place to raise a family. However, from my observations, Mayor Don Daniels is making no effort to improve the town. I know enough Kentucky municipal law to be aware that a mayor must reside in town throughout his term of office.

Daniels does not reside in this town. His wife lives in an apartment next to that of my mother, but he has not lived there since June 7. I've observed his brief visits; once on June 23 to attend a meeting, and once on July 15, staying the night to attend a meeting the next day.

I'll not be here much longer (this trip) but before I leave, I'd like to witness the City Commission appoint a mayor (who owns property here and loves the town) to fill the obvious vacancy that exists here. Is there any commissioner not willing to take this step? Then he's not doing what he was elected for, so—let him resign.

I believe the commission was elected because the people trusted them to govern fairly and according to law. Is it too much to ask that they do as they promised?

Appoint a mayor and begin to lift up your town and county. When any town in the county is in decline, so too, is Floyd County!

Vote 'Yes', Says Reader

Dear Editor,

I am taking this opportunity to explain the importance of voting "yes" on the broad form deed constitutional amendment (No. 2). We want to make it clear to all citizens of Kentucky that we are asking that the constitution be amended so that the landowner will have a voice in whether their property can be strip mined or not.

I am also asking that you talk to your neighbors, friends and, most importantly, your family. If you have family members employed by the coal industry or in a job that is coal-related, please urge them not to be afraid to vote "yes." This is the one freedom left to the people of Eastern Kentucky.

We, the people of Eastern Kentucky, bear the burden of destruction by strip mining first, but other areas of our state are beginning to feel the secondary effects of this destruction, such as water shortages, polluted water, air collution and doctmuttion of major

For Amendment 2

Dear Editor,

A strange thing happened to me this summer. I was acting as companion to an elderly lady in New York for two months. Completely by chance, I met a man who operates coal mines in Eastern Kentucky. Well, you know where my thoughts went and the topic of conversation that followed!

"A broad form deed amendment?" he asked and wanted to know more. He was amazed and pleased. "It is about time," he remarked. All coal companies aren't vandals, anymore than are all teen-agers!"

Properties should be protected! Coal should be mined! These can be done side by side, with "know-how" and effort. It can be done, and it should be done, legally and with satisfaction. Get that amendment through! It will help both sides to understand this.

Get your Kentucky friends, especially the miners, reading. This is where we lost in the first place. Don't let it happen again!

So make plans for November 8. Yes—vote for the next president.

tatives of large mineral holding corporations traveled through the Appalachian coal fields buying mineral rights. In many cases, they bought only the mineral rights with the landowner retaining ownership of the surface land.

It is estimated that 80 to 90 percent of the mineral rights in Eastern Kentucky are controlled by large energy and land holding companies that bought the minerals around the turn of the century or have since acquired them from the original purchasers.

Some coal companies interpret broadform deeds to allow them to extract the minerals any way that is convenient. But opponents of the broadform deeds agree that the deeds were signed before the surface mining technology to remove coal was initiated; therefore, the deeds should apply only to deep mining.

Kentuckians everywhere are paying for these displaced people who have been turned away from their land often without any visible means of support. We must put a stop to out-of-state mineral owners dictating a way of life in our Commonwealth where they don't even reside or pay taxes.

Until this amendment changes the Constitution to protect all our citizens, none of us in Northern Kentucky, Central Kentucky or West Kentucky can feel totally free of circumstances that occurred 100 years ago in East Kentucky. Kentucky is the only state in the union that still recognizes the validity of broadform deeds.

WORKING TOWARD A

MORE EFFICIENT STATE The Senate, while steeped in tradition, is hardly above change and improvement. Numerous internal and external studies have been done on the structure and operation of the Senate. The Committee on Rules and Administration. of which I am the chairman, has a co tinuing responsibility to study and report to the Senate on its operations.

Over the past several months a comprehensive analysis was conducted by Dr. Otis A Singletary, President Emeritus and professor of history at the University of Kentucky. He was charged with submitting a report on the Senate that would encompass earlier reports while analyzing current proposals for change as well.

Dr. Singletary's report was the basis for this report and was not intended to be a new study. Instead, we wanted to present a survey of recent attempts at reform to look at what has actually was been done and to identify some of the more significant issues that remain Se unresolved

If we are to continue to fulfill the needs of all our citizens, we must strive for a more streamlined and efficient process. Your time and money are wasted as well when unnecessary delays bog down the true work of the Senate.

The study revealed, with no surprise to any of us, that the number one priority is more efficient use of time on the Senate floor.

YES, BECAUSE IT IS NOT TRUE!!!

The official minutes of the Floyd County Board of Education meeting held on April 2, 1986 will show that I was not present when former Superintendent Ray Brackett recommended, in Board Order No. 5556, a request for a hearing to amend the board adopted cooperative facility survey plan for the Floyd County School District, and to move the new school for McDowell and Wheelwright High Schools from the No. 3 position to No. 5 position on the priority list. In addition, he recommended to rescind Board Order No. 5488 of the February 5, 1986 board meeting concerning the original facility survey plan. The hearing officer, Dr. Dan Branham, Deputy State Superintendent agreed to keep our new school among the top four priorities.

Site election for the new high school was not easy because of the flood zones. The Hi Hat area was chosen by the board and agreed upon by the Kentucky Department of Education, Division of Buildings and Grounds because the location was most centrally located between the two existing high schools, communities, and the center of the student population.

Now, my opponents have openly criticized that school site selection in favor of the Minnie site!!! When asked about the children who live in the head of Left Beaver (Melvin, Weeksbury, & Wheelwright), I was told, "That's their problem!"

I am concerned about the welfare of ALL OUR CHILDREN!!!

City's Main Street Program Elects Officers, Seeks Manager

Prestonsburg's Main Street Program has elected new officers to its Board of Directors for 1988-89, and is advertising for a new Main Street manager.

April Adams, owner of April's on the Avenue, was elected president, succeeding Henry L. Mayo of Rebel Lanes

Other officers, and their business affiliations, are: Donna Schenk, Laurel Farms Landscaping Service, vice president; William G. Francis, Francis. Kazee and Francis, attorneys at law, treasurer; and Rosemary McCoy, Ragg's Emporium. secretary Prestonsburg is the only Main Street city in Eastern Kentucky, and was recently awarded a $3,600 grant by the state Main Street Program.

This is the first time we've had financing to underwrite our program.

said Mayor Ann Latta. "We are eager to hire a manager, and really get moving on new downtown activities.

The program has been without a manager since the resignation of Valerie Chaffins early this year, Adams said. Chaffins was doing the work on a volunteer basis.

An ad for the Main Street position appears in this issue of the Floyd County Times, and calls for experience in advertising, marketing, public relations and administration.

'We hope to find a well-qualified person who can take charge and perform a variety of work, all aimed at revitalizing our downtown shopping area," Adams said

She said the Main Street program has four primary objectives: Organizing community and business leaders to name work on downtown development; promotion of downtown activities; providing design assistance to businesses when requested; and seeking new businesses that would enhance and supplement existing businesses in the downtown area.

A side effect of the Main Street program, Latta said, is its impact on tourism

American Heritage, a national magazine geared primarily toward history, is scheduling an issue next summer, she said, which will feature Kentucky's Main Street cities, including Prestonsburg.

Tentatively titled, "Traveling with a Sense of History," the article's local section will probably focus on Jenny Wiley and the state park, summer theater, and festival which bear her streets will be made to establish permit parking and security arrangements at the riverfront parking lot, according to a motion passed by the Prestonsburg City Council Monday night.

A petition signed by 108 downtown employees was brought to the meeting asking the city to review the parking situation because of increased daily ticketing and lack of unrestricted and safe permit parking.

The riverfront lot has permit park ing, but there is a problem with vandalism and security, said members of group who presented the petition.

"If we have to work here, we need to park and feel secure," said Anne Stephens, spokesperson for the group.

The council also heard first reading on annexing the Holiday Inn into the city limits, and first reading of the annexation ordinance. (Under state law, both can now be read at the same meeting.

The proposed annexation will start at the southern boundary of the city at Arby's Restaurant and extend along the right of way on U.S. 23 to the Holiday Inn property.

With passage of the annexation proposal, the Holiday Inn would be allowed to sell liquor by the drink and have a 5-year waiver of property taxes because Prestonsburg Inn, Inc., who owns the hotel, spent $78,000 to install water and utility systems.

The second and final reading of both of these will be at the Oct. 24 meeting.

City Council also passed an ordinance abolishing the non-partisan primary elections for the city, which will extend the filing deadline for mayor and city council candidates.

They also approved the closing of two streets in the Harkins and Sons subdivision because the streets have never been used and run through private property. The council voted to amend the ordinance by allowing right of way for city utilities on the property. In other business, the city:

High Speed Chase Results In Arrest

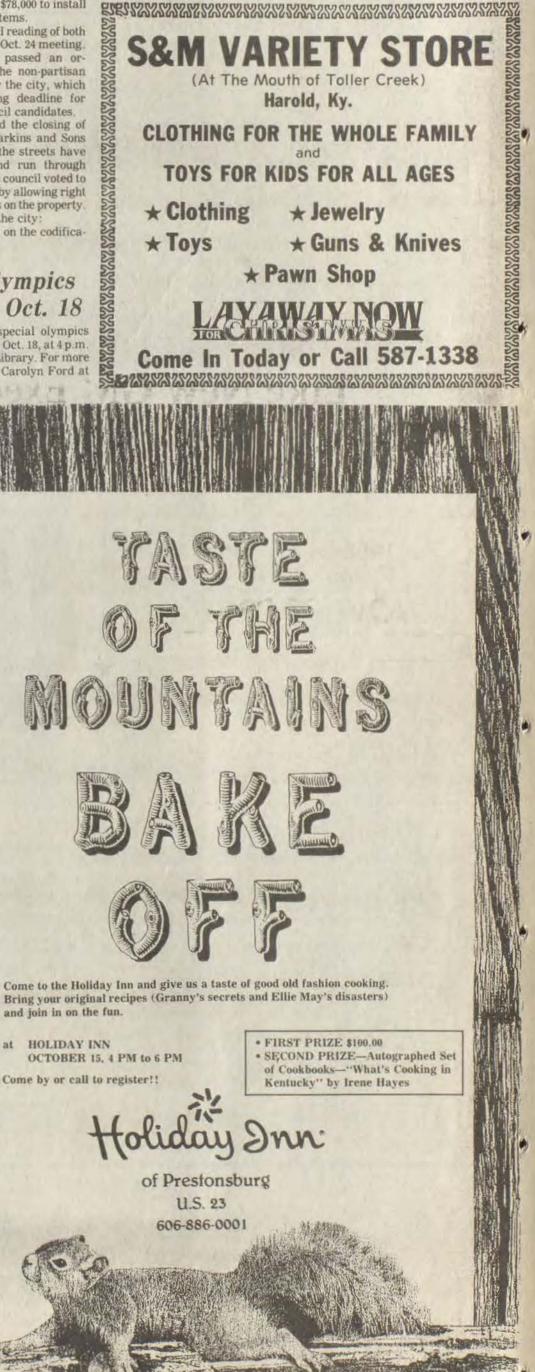

A high speed chase Monday, Oct. 10, led to the arrest of Stevie Blackburn of Middle Creek, according to Prestonsburg police authorities.

Sgt. Gerald Clark said he observed a white Chevrolet without a license plate traveling south on US 23. When Clark attempted to stop the vehicle, the driver turned on to Ky. 114 of the Mountain Parkway and increased speed.

Clark said the vehicle exceeded 100 mph speeds when it turned onto Spurlock Road. The driver pulled into a private driveway and took to his heels. Clark gave chase, but was unable to apprehend the fleeing suspect

The Chevrolet was impounded. A tracer revealed the car's owner as Stevie Blackburn, Blackburn later turned himself in at the police station. He was charged with speeding, reckless driving, no insurance, no registration plates and operating on a suspended license. Blackburn was lodged in the Floyd County Jail.

Trojan Mistakes Lead To Easy Virgie Victory

With 38 seconds remaining in the first half. Michael Roberts threw a short pass over the middle to Brad Johnson, who, after catching the football, turned upfield, capping off the 40-yard touchdown play with an impressive run

But back near the line of scrimmage a minor mishap had occurred between two burly linemen, and after some discussion, off-setting penalties were called, wiping the play and the score

Wheelwright, already down 14-0, had dodged a bullet, one that could have put them in a tough situation in terms of a second half comeback.

The only problem was over 20 seconds remained on the clock. After Roberts, a highly touted junior quarterback, connected with Ernie Burke, Virgie had the football on the Trojan 23.

The following play the same two connected on a pass that apparently had been stopped on the Wheelwright two, but Burke fumbled the football, and amidst two Trojan players, recovered his own fumble in the end zone.

Wheelwright now trailed 20-0. But no! Back up field lay a yellow hankie, which possessed an illegal procedure call, and again the Eagles had stopped themselves

Or had they? Six seconds remained. But Virgie was 28 yards out, and no kicker was in sight.

It was all or nothing, and when Burke, a junior end, went up amongst Wheelwright defenders and hauled down Roberts' pass, the Trojans did in fact trail 20-0, and even more after the PAT

"We had a lot of frustrations at halftime," Roger Johnson, Wheelwright's coach, said of the final first half play. "When you give up a touchdown with six seconds left in a half, it kind of takes the fight out of VOIL.

Roberts, who threw for over 150 yards and three touchdowns, floated the football into the corner of the end zone where Burke went up and took it away from the shorter Wheelwright defensive backs.

"I told Handy (Jackson) after that play that when the situation comes up again, if it ever does, to just go ahead and hit the receiver, not to let him catch the football. In that situation all it would be is 15 yards and another play," Johnson mentioned. "Mental mistakes," he added, "All it was was a mental mistake."

Jackson, though, wasn't the only Trojan defender close to the play, and he certainly wasn't the only Wheelwright defensive back to get burned.

Earlier in the first half Roberts, following a Wheelwright fumble, had stung the Trojan defense when two players took a big bite on a short fake which turned out to be a bomb to a wide open Burke.

The play, in which Burke faked to turn around as if running a shorter route, covered 64 yards. The score, which came with 3:56 remaining in the second quarter, put Virgie up 14-0.

The Eagles, 4-3, opened up a 42-0 lead before Wheelwright could eventually score, allowing Virgie to coast to the 42-14 victory.

'We weren't real sharp," Johnson said after the game. "They came oul in a different defensive set than we had anticipated

"It seems like they knew exactly when we were going to throw the football. They were sending six and seven guys at us and we couldn't get them all blocked."

Wheelwright did enjoy some offensive success, rolling up 225 yards of total offense for the game, but turnovers stopped three drives, and led to a couple of Virgie's three scores in the first half.

The Eagles, an explosive offensive team with Roberts in control, had but one sustained drive in the first half, moving the football from its own 29 in for a score.

The drive, coming on Virgie's second possession of the game, ate up over four minutes of the clock. The 12-play march was capped off when Kurt Gross powered in from one yard out with 2:33 left on the first quarter clock.

Wheelwright, on its next possession, mounted an offensive move, equipped with a nice diving catch by Todd Jackson and a fumble recovery by Handy Jackson that allowed the drive to continue.

Quarterback Bobby Hood, following the diving catch that put Wheelwright into Virgie territory on the 49, tossed a pass to burly tight end Chris Thornsberry, who caught the football on about the 30, and turned around toward the end zone

But Thornsberry, who was later forced from the game with a neck injury, lost control of the pigskin near the 19-But Handy Jackson fell on it there.

The Trojans, though, failed to get any closer. Hood was tackled for a four-yard loss, and after two incomplete passes, was again tackled behind the line of scrimmage.

Wheelwright, later in the first half, found itself on the move again, but after taking the football from their 41 to the Eagle 35, turned it over on a fumble. That was followed two plays later by the Roberts to Burke bomb.

'We weren't prepared for this one," Johnson said. "We didn't really have time to prepare for the game. We didn't get to work on our kicking, or anything like that. We came out and ran three or four offensive plays and then it was time to start the game.

Wheelwright had its parents' night, and handed out senior awards before the game, absorbing most of the pregame time normally used for player preparation.

The Trojans, 2-5, scored its first touchdown in the fourth quarter when Vic Cotton, who led the team in rushing with 64 yards on 12 carries, broke loose for an 84-yard kickoff return.

The final score came with 1:16 remaining in the game. Hood, who completed nine of 18 passes, lobbed a perfect pass over the defense and into the waiting arms of Handy Jackson, who ran the remaining 18 yards for a touchdown, completing the 37-yard play

Hood, who threw one touchdown pass and had two picked off, completed three passes to Handy Jackson for 57 yards. Chris Thornsberry caught two passes for 43 yards, and sophomore Robbie Wright had one reception for 16 yards. Todd Jackson hauled in a pass for 23. Chad Hall caught two passes, but they went for negative yardage.

Handy Jackson scored on a two-point conversion, and ran the football nine times for a total of 42 yards.

The Eagles, a team rapidly earning a reputation as one not above running up a score whenever the opportunity arises, scored its final time on a 15-yard pass from Roberts to Donald Thornsberry. It came with 4:59 left in the game. Virgie then went for, and got, the two-point conversation.

"It's something you have to re-group with," Johnson said of the big loss. 'You just have to come back out and work harder. We'll start again Monday working to get ready for Raceland.'

The Trojans, 2-2 in the district, is still alive for one of the two playoff spots, but would have to pull off a big upset over the Rams at Raceland Thursday night

OFF AND RUNNING: Runners of the First Annual Druthers/Joe McCauley Memorial 5K Fall Classic begin the race Saturday morning. Kenny Copley, of Huntington, West Virginia, won in a time of 16:19. Libby Ratliff, of Prestonsburg, was the top female finisher, running in a time of 25:13.

24, 27, 33 and 66 yards, and had a pass play of 44 yards in claiming the district victory

Jerry Gilley ran 27 yards for Hazard's first score, and Anthony Sharpey scored again in the first quarter for the Bulldogs when he broke loose on a 33-yard scoring run. Hazard led 15-0 after the first quarter.

Alvin Harris ran six yards for a second quarter touchdown, giving the Bulldogs a 22-0 half-time advantage. Daniels, though, thinks his team should have been much closer than 22 points to Hazard

Defensively we played a good first half," Daniels said. "They scored on two fourth down conversions. If we would've made those two plays, and without a turnover, we would've went in at halftime down only 6-0.

The Rebels, who played without leading rusher Mickey Parsons (out with throat problems), also missed a 25-yard field goal at the end of the first half which could have at least avoided the shutout.

But even though Allen Central suffered one of its worst defeats ever, Daniels found room to compliment his young Rebel team.

"We had a lot of people out, and a lot of the kids played hurt," he said. "They would get banged up on one play, and get right back up and get ready for the next one. That showed me that they've got the heart and the character to play

Daniels, who puts the Bulldogs in the same category as Paintsville and Raceland, the other two teams with the district's best records, says it was a matter of his team being out manned by a physical and talented Bulldog squad.

'I told the kids on the trip back that they had gotten Hazard out of the way. I told them that they wouldn't be over matched in athletic ability this week like they were against Hazard,' Daniels said, mentioning Saturday's game against Fairview.

"I told them that they couldn't let down. Our program isn't to the point that we can start looking past people. I told them that they had to fight and scratch for everything they got, and I think they understood our situation. I think we'll be all right the last three games.

The Sporting Times

By now the outer lobe of your baseball brain has been worn away with reasons explaining why the Cincinnati Reds didn't win a Western Division title, and how it wasn't Pete Rose's fault

True, Cincinnati probably does have a better regular eight than does the LA Dodgers, but attitude, injuries, and the pitching staff play a big part, and in this instance played the leading role.

It didn't help, that Cincinnati has quite possibly the worst management in all of Major League baseball, and an even worse attitude in its outfield.

Cincinnati was just about every prognosticator's choice to win the division, but when "Medling Marge" Schott hired Maury Cook as the man who would be in charge of hiring, firing, trading and other various business aspects, the Reds lost their chance at a title.

Rose, who said he had input on every trade Cincinnati made, might to be to blame after all. The Reds traded slugger Dave Parker to Oakland for Jose Rijo.

That might have been the best thing to do, except that the guy Rose expected to fill Parker's spot failed to produce. Not only did Paul O'Neill come way short of what Parker had been giving the Reds offensively, he finished a close third for the award handed out to the player most likely to whine

O'Neill, who once made his manager furious when he said he couldn't play due to a stiff neck, came in third in the complaining category, just behind Kal Daniels and Eric Davis.

His offensive numbers weren't bad. He hit close to .260 with 15 homeruns and over 70 RBIs. But on a team that finished near the bottom of the National League in hitting, it was painfully shy of what Parker, the Reds' top run producer over the past three years. had been doing.

O'Neill's hustle was also a question, as was the efforts and judgment of several Cincinnati players. Daniels, who finished second on the team to Eric Davis, is one of the league's top offensive players, but could very well be the worst defensive player.

tral in two games there.

Daniels finished with an on-base percentage of around .400, close to the top among Major League regulars, but he may have also led the majors in turning routine fly balls into triples.

It seems as if he is always complaining about either his knees, toes, hitting first, or hitting fourth. His buddy in centerfield also struggled with a variety of ailments, but hurt Cincinnati more when he apparently let his feelings be known that he would rather be playing for the Dodgers.

Davis turned out to be Cincinnati's best hitter after a terrible start. But he is another that hurts the Reds with his attitude, and unwillingness to be a Charlie Hustle type performer

All of this only brings us back to the Dave Parker for Jose Rijo deal. Parker spent much of his time suffering from injuries, and his age won't permit him to play for too many more years.

In Rijo the Reds got a young pitcher with the ability to be a 20-game winner for the next 12 or so years. But can he return from arm problems? And his attitude, blasting teammates for a lack of offensive help, didn't help any either.

This particular deal might have been a correct one, but with Parker gone so went the Reds' depth in the outfield. This brings us to the question as to why Cincinnati traded Tracy Jones to Montreal for two non-starters who will never be starters

Jones is a hustler with good speed. a potent bat, and solid defensive skills. At the time of the trade Jones, who has had a history of injury problems, was Cincinnati's top hitting outfielder. But that wasn't even as bad as giv-

Saturday morning, with 40-degree temperatures and heavy fog, wasn't exactly the perfect time for a stroll through the park, but 44 entrants to the first annual Druthers/Joe McCauley Memorial 5K Fall Classic braved the elements to participate in the inaugural event

Kenny Copley, a runner from Huntington, W. Va., won the race in a time of 16.19, finishing 26 seconds in front of second placed and teammate Tim Caudill, also of Huntington.

Copley and Caudill are teammates on the Nike/Athletic Attic Racing Team. They, along with local runner Rick Roberts, combined to take first place honors in overall team standings. Roberts, of Allen, finished third, running in 17:01, and completing the sweep for the Nike/Athletic Attic team.

The Old South Track Club of Paintsville finished with the second best team time. Paintsville High Cross Country. running as an official team, finished third, and Total Fitness Athletic Center came in fourth

Bill Hill, of Huntington, came in fourth in individual standings, running the course-which began and ended at the Jenny Wiley Amphitheater while making a circle around the park's swimming pool-in 17:11.

The race, named in honor of Joe McCauley, is to be an annual event to be held during the Jenny Wiley Festival. It was named in honor of McCauley, a former Big Sandy ADD director, who was well respected as an older runner.

Marvin McFaddin, a runner from Paintsville, received the Joe McCauley award as the oldest runner in the race. McFaddin, 56, finished the race in 18:47, good enough for fifth in the overall individual standings.

The best local finisher behind Roberts was Don Music of Auxier, who ran sixth with a time of 19:33.

Libby Ratcliff, of Prestonsburg, was the top overall female finisher, completing the course in 25:23.

James J. McKenzie, of Fuget, captured first in the 14-under division with a time of 21:48. In the 14-under female division Buffy Cline, a granddaughter of Joe McCauley, took top honors.

Melissa Cline and Mandy Cawood, all of Pineville, and also granddaughters of McCauley, finished second and third in the 14-under class.

McCauley, who was a former state champion in long distance running, had six relatives in the race. Daughter Mary Cawood won the 30-34 class, finishing in 28:01, and Jeanette Cawood took top honors in the 40-45 age category. McCauley's son-in-law, Green Cawood, finished third in the 35-39 age group. All of McCauley's family is from Pineville.

John D. Ratliff, of Paintsville, won the male 15-19 age group while Michelle Parington of Prestonsburg won the female division of the 15-19 age group

Debbie Hopkins, another runner from Prestonsburg, was the top finisher in the 35-39 age group, and Kay A. Gray, of Allen, won the 45-49 age

Eugene Sisco, of Pikeville, won the 25-29 male age group with a time of 21:43, and Roberts was the top finisher in the 30-34 bracket.

Jimmy D. Gray was the only other local runner to earn top honors in their age group. Gray, from Allen, won the 50-55 age group in 24:18.

Trophies, provided by the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club, were given to the top finishers in each age category. Druthers of Prestonsburg purchased tee-shirts, which were given to each entrant.

Continued from Page 1 ing Buddy Bell away to, and check this plays that weren't considered to be erout, the Houston Astros. Bell isn't getting any younger, but at 36 the man has but failed to tell anyone about it. He a couple golden gloves left, and some then went out and made the three erbig hits that will no doubt come back to hurt Cincinnati.

Bell was traded to make room for Chris Sabo, a 26-year-old rookie that all of a sudden proved he could play baseball

Sabo, when Bell went down with an injured knee, exploded on the scene. and hit over .320 in the first couple months of the season. But he faded, and struggled to keep his average above 270 Funny thing about Sabo is that at 26, he came from nowhere, a non-roster player, and the Reds thought he was a star, and would always be.

So now we've figured out that a bad attitude and some bad deals contributed to the Reds losing what should have been their playoff spot. But we can't leave this area before mentioning Dennis Rasmussen, and the fact that Cincinnati couldn't turn him around. He went to San Diego, and a change of mechanics turned him into an unhitable thrower.

Danny Jackson was brought over from Kansas City in exchange for shortstop Kurt Stillwell. Jackson won 23 games for the Reds, but the fact of the deal was that they sent the wrong shortstop to KC

Stillwell turned out to be an all-star shortstop in the AL Of course. Barry Larkin made the NL squad, but who will ever lorget his three errors in a big loss to LA early in the season.

Larkin, who tailed to make several rors officially, had an injured finger. rors, all throwing, and one cost Cincinnati the game.

Larkin is a quality shortstop, but consistency isn't on his side. He is as athletically talented as any shortstop in baseball, but fails to show it too often.

Injuries were also a thorn in Cincinnati's side. They played early in the season without Davis and Daniels. Larkin also missed several games, as did first baseman Nick Esasky.

Later in the year they lost catcher Bo Diaz and second baseman Jeff Treadway. But the big injury to Cincinnati happened last season when Ron Oester had his knee destroyed.

At the time of Oester's injury the Reds were leading the Western Division, but shortly after losing him, they fell behind San Francisco.

This year Cincinnati was floundering in fourth place, having trouble just to stay out of fifth and in front of San Diego. But when Oester returned this season, the team took off, and managed a second place finish.

It might be conicidence, but after making what was called an incredible comeback, Oester led all Cincinnati hitters with at least 100 at bats, hitting in the neighborhood of .300.

His hustle and baseball instincts were what the Cincinnati team lacked. This is, let's not forget, a player the Reds' organization had given up on HIGHLANDS PAVING after his injury. They had refused to sign Oester, but he didn't give up on himself, or the team.

10 YEARS EXPERIENCE

But that's just a simple example of baseball's, and professional sports' lack of character, and hunger for sound business transactions rather than consideration for the people who make their organizations multi-million dollar items.

The Reds are one of the worst to discard their injured and old. Look at what happened to Joe Morgan and Tony Perez after they were all used up. Sadder yet is the Dave Concepcion situation. The man has made this team a whole bunch of money, and gave them 19 years of dedicated service. All he wants in return is a contract, and to play one more season.

What does Cincinnati say? "Sorry, bum, you're used up. We can't let you hang around another year so you can fulfill your dream of playing 20 years of professional baseball.

So what's wrong with Cincinnati? Why didn't they win a Western Division title? Attitude is one. Bad trades is another. But when we criticize Daniels or Davis for not playing through injuries, just remember that if they further hurt themselves for the betterment of the team, the team isn't going to do much for the betterment of them.

The Reds management says it needs a power hitter and another starting pilcher for the 1989 season, but a new attitude from the bat boy to Cook wouldn't hurt.

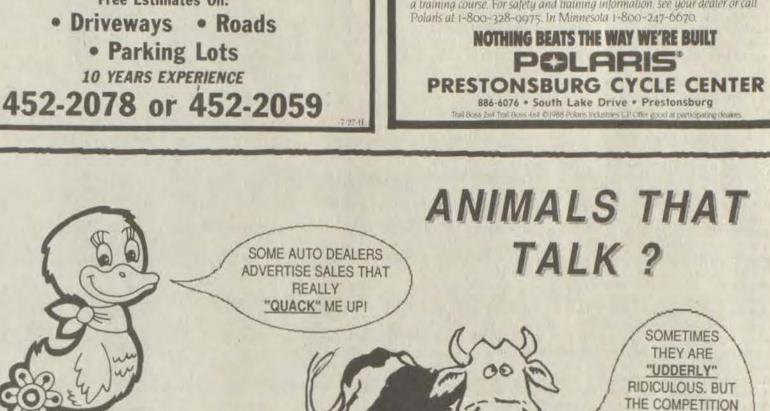

Rose is in the middle of it all, and he has to absorb some of the criticism. But he probably doesn't deserve to shoulder the burden of mistakes made by Cook.

Burruss Places Fourth

On Sept. 24, local body builder Randy Burruss traveled to Richmond, Va., to compete in the American Natural Body building Conference All-Southern Natural Physique Classic. The contest brought together male and female athletes from many states, as well as Canada.

Burruss, an employee of Total Fitness Center, won fourth place in the Men's Tall Division. "I was very happy with the result," Burruss said." This was a drug tested event and I had to pass a lie detector test to prove that I am a drug-free athlete. I plan to travel to Pittsburgh in 1989 to enter another A.N.B.C. contest." The contest was covered by the local media, as well as a national magazine, Natural Physique.

Losses Leave Whitesburg, LCHS To Battle For Crown

The Prestonsburg Blackcats and Betsy Layne Bobcats both suffered district losses on the road Friday night, and as a result the game between Whitesburg and Leslie County Oct. 21 will decide that AA district's champion.

"As far as we're concerned, we're out of it," Prestonsburg head coach Bill Letton said, assessing the Blackcats' chances at a playoff spot. "I guess mathematically we're not out of it, but about the only way I see us getting in As that one of the other two teams does something illegal and gets disqualified. Other than that, I don't see much hope.

Prestonsburg, with the 35-7 defeat Friday at Leslie County, fell to 1-2 in the district while Leslie County remained undefeated, as did Whitesburg.

The Yellow Jackets, with a 32-0 shutout of Betsy Layne Friday in Whitesburg, improved to 7-1 overall, and set the stage for the district showdown set for the Yellow Jackets' home field.

Whitesburg, a team that failed to make the playoffs one season ago, got two touchdowns each from their backfield duo of Charles Mathews and Joe Caudill in handing the Bobcats the big Nloss. Betsy Layne, still winless in the district, wasn't looking for any more than an upset. Their playoff hopes had already suffered a severe blow with earlier losses to Leslie County and Prestonsburg, but even their upset hopes were quickly bashed through some good Whitesburg play, and some poor efforts on their own part.

Yellow Jacket coach Tom Searcy says he was pleased with his team's effort, but Vince Tucker says that Betsy Layne did their part in making Whitesburg look good.

"We just played that bad," the Bobcat coach said when asked whether Whitesburg was that good, or if it was a poorer-than-usual Betsy Layne effort. "They've got a pretty good club. But we played that bad.

Whitesburg burned the Bobcat defense with a long scoring play on their first offensive drive when quarterback Dell Thomas threw 51 yards to Danny Adams for a touchdown.

The Bobcats, dropping to 3-5, managed only 49 yards of total offense in the first half. They enjoyed more success

But Tulsa was more than willing to help them, turning the football over four times in the 9-3 loss at Louisville. The Cardinals improved to 3-3 with the win.

Louisville remains at home this weekend when Virginia comes to town for a 4 p.m. kickoff. The Cavaliers are coming off a 10-7 loss at home to number 11 Clemson.

Morehead State, a team in the middle of a total collapse, travels to Middle Tennessee for a battle with their second OVC foe of the season.

The Eagles lost another close game Saturday, and to an OVC team, and to a winless team. Morehead played again without head coach Bill Baldridge, who is recovering from heart surgery.

Murray State quarterback Michael Proctor passed for 141 yards and ran for 66 more to lead the Blue Racers to a 29-22 victory over Morehead at Jayne Stadium. Chris Swartz completed 32 of 51 passing attempts for 286 yards, but it wasn't enough.

The Eagles fell to 1-5 while losing their first conference game. Murray won for the first time this season.

The University of Kentucky, trying to recover from its disappointing loss to Alabama in its last game, plays at LSU Saturday.

The Tigers, fresh off a big Southeastern Conference win at home over Auburn, are still in the running for a Sugar Bowl bid, normally given out to the SEC champion. Kickoff is at 8 p.m. Both Eastern Kentucky and Western Kentucky area on the road this weekend. The Colonels, who won their first OVC battle of the year Saturday over Austin Peay, travels to Tennessee Tech while Western, an independent, plays at Southwest Missouri Saturday.

The 1988 World Series begins Saturday night and the Oakland Athletics will be there, somewhere, depending on who wins the National League Championship Series.

The Athletics defeated Boston 4-1 Sunday in Oakland, capping off a sweep of the series. Dennis Eckersley was named the most valuable player of the series. The Oakland reliever saved all four of the wins.

The series will open at the site of the National League winner Saturday. The first pitch is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. The NL winner will serve as hosts again Sunday night in an 8:25 start before having the series switch to Oakland for games three, four, and five on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday nights.

In the NLCS, which has been hampered by bad weather in New York, the Mets split their two games in LA, before taking game three in New York in the second half, 135 yards, but that proved too little too late.

We came out and played a pretty good second half, but by then it was too late." Tucker said. The Bobcats also had trouble defensively. "We weren't tackling, and following through with our responsibilities.

Mathews, one of the state's leading rushers, came close to reaching his average on the ground by running for 127 yards and two touchdowns.

'We played pretty well," Searcy said. "We were pleased with our running game. Joe Caudill and Mathews both ran the ball well for us.'

Whitesburg also enjoyed success through the air, something they hadn't done during their past two games.

"We weren't real pleased with our passing game the past two games, but Dell threw the ball real well this game," Searcy said.

The Yellow Jackets, who gained 167 yards through the air, had completed only four of 22 passes the two games prior to Friday's contest. Mathews caught two of those passes Friday for 45 vards

Leslie County enjoyed much of the same success against Prestonsburg, utilizing both their passing and running game while operating behind their strong offensive line.

"They just beat up up front," Letton said, making reference to Leslie County's superior line strength. "They were kind of mustling us around, and when that's going on there isn't much you can do.

Leslie County scored in the first quarter when Greg Couch threw 25 yards to Greg Hunley, and padded their lead with touchdown runs of 22 and one yard in the second quarter.

The Blackcats, 1-7, fell behind 35-0 before they found their way to the end zone. That came in the form of a 77-yard Kevin Dotson kickoff return in the third quarter.

The Blackcats, which have struggled against what could very well be the state's toughest schedule, will take this week off before playing Morgan County at home October 23.

'We haven't really played well yet this season," Letton said. "It would be nice to play well a couple times and salvage something out of this season.' Prestonsburg, after playing the

HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO: Della Delorse Danny Dywane Love Dad and Cougars the 23rd, travels to M.C. Napier on the season's final regular week

Betsy Layne, meanwhile, will continue its efforts to claim its first district win when it battles Morgan County Friday in a Homecoming affair at Mile High Field.

'I always say put the loss behind you and start preparing for the next game," Tucker said. "This being Homecoming hopefully it will give them the extra incentive to win."

Morgan County, 4-4, is coming off a 39-6 loss to Breathitt County. They haven't enjoyed the success they had last season, going to the playoffs for the first time ever, but the Cougars do feature one of the state's top passing combinations.

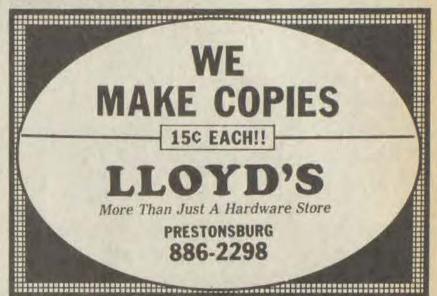

Jamie Easterling, a junior quarterback, is averaging one touchdown pass per game this season, and is rated as the state's eighth best passer. He has hit on just over 55 percent of his attempts.

Senior end, 6'5" Mark Holbrook, has caught 25 passes in six games, eighth best in Kentucky. He has also caught three touchdown passes, and averages 16 yards per reception.

But Tucker seems confident in his Betsy Layne team, and their chances Friday night. The coach is also holding out for a winning season. If the Bobcats win their remaining three games they would finish 6-5, and become only the second Betsy Layne team to ever record a winning season.

Betsy Layne, under the direction of Jack Hall, finished at 6-5 in 1986. That was a school record for most wins, and the Bobcats' first ever winning campaign.

Game time for the Morgan County contest has been changed to 7:00. Betsy Layne will also be going after their first home win of the season.

AN OPEN-SHUT CASE

Storing an over-the-counter remedy is often more involved than simply putting it on the shelf in an orderly fashion. If the container is airtight, or if refrigeration is required after opening, it can be left on the shelf until the first time it is opened. By all means, check the instructions carefully. Many products contain materials that are designed to protect the product from becoming damaged during shipment. A small ball of absorbent cotton is usually found upon opening the bottle. This should be removed and disposed of at once. If left in place, it can collect moisture and transfer it to the product. Other products contain a silica-gel compound in a breathable paper packet. It should be left in so it can extract moisture away from the product.

Crankbaiting For Bass perienced this many times over the

If you're having trouble catching largemouth bass this month, consider using a technique the pros call "contact crankbaiting." It isn't really a new method of fishing diving plugs, but it's an effective one

Contact crankbaiting is simply using the proper crankbait for the depth of water you're fishing," says Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff member Bo Dowden. "When you reel the lure down, it makes contact with the cover you're fishing, bumping and bouncing off it

"Basically, if your crankbait doesn't hit the cover, you're not using the proper lure for the depth of water you're

Commonly described as 'fishfinding' lures because they can be cast and reeled rapidly to cover a lot of water in a short period of time, Dowden feels crankbaits have a much wider range of uses

He uses them around structure like bridge pilings, over weeds, along points and even in extremely shallow water around fallen timber. He doesn't mind throwing the long-lipped treble hooked lures into thick cover, either, because he knows that's where he's most likley to find bass

There are a lot of tricks to fishing crankbaits," says the popular tournament pro. "For example, if you sand or shave the forward edge of a crankbait's lip to make it sharper, you can easily add a foot or more to the depth it will dive.

Dowden also likes to fish a crankbait over submerged grass. He reels the lure down until he feels it make contact with the vegetation, then he stops reeling so the lure begins to float upward. After a few seconds, he reels the lure back down to the grass again, slowly bouncing it along the vegetation.

Having the right propeller can make a world of difference in the performance of any bass boat, especially if you're running with a full tournament load. The OMC Shooters four-blade propeller, available from Johnson and Evinrude dealers, is unsurpassed in getting heavily loaded boats out of the hole and on plane quickly. The "overthrough" hub exhaust design permits part of the engine exhause to vent through the propeller hub and part to vent over the hub, providing superior acceleration at low and mid-range speeds

Kentucky Afield Call-In 'V Show Airs October 12

On October 12, a special edition of the Kentucky Afield television show will give viewers a free opportunity to callin questions concerning hunting.

A panel of Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources' personnel from the Division of Wildlife will join host Tom Michaels to address wildlife related topics. Scheduled to be on the panel are John Phillips, deer program coordinator, Jeff Sole, upland game program coordinator and Tom Edwards, furbearer program coordinator.

There will be no charge for calls during the special, half-hour show . The telephone number will appear on the television screen throughout the program for callers to dial and ask a

In addition to the Kentucky Afield program, there are also some other sources of departmental information now available on television. Recently, the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources has begun working in conjunction with three television stations to provide public hunting and fishing information.

Weekly segments on wildlife topics are now being featured by WLEX-TV (Channel 18) on Tuesday nights during the 5:30 newscast, WKYT-TV (Channel 27) in Lexington, and WYMT-TV (Channel 57) in Hazard, are also presenting a wildlife-related feature every Thursday during the 12 p.m. midday and 5:30 p.m. newscasts.

Steel Shot Required For Waterfowl Can Be As Effective As Lead Loads

waterfowl hunters have experienced since the introduction of steel shotshells in mid 1970 have lessened in proportion to the product developments and refinements made by manufacturers such as Federal Cartridge Co. and the information programs they have instituted.

Steel shot will be required for hunting ducks, geese, swans and coots everywhere in the United States by 1991. The reason, as most hunters know, is to protect waterfowl from poisoning as the result of ingesting lead shot. Studies indicate that lead poisoning was killing 2 to 3 million ducks, geese and swans annually.

In view of this mandate, hunters who learn to fully utilize the potential of steel shot will be comforted to know that it can be just as effective as lead shot loads, according to Federal Cartridge Co., a pioneer in steel shot development. Federal, which offers 45 steel loads in 10, 12, 16 and 20 gauges, introduced the new 3-12-inch 12-gauge steel load this year.

Extensive tests have shown that to-

The concern and confusion that day's commercial steel shot loads are safe to use in virtually any modern shotgun. Since there are exceptions, hunters should check with the manufacturers of their guns if in doubt. Barrel damage is minimized because steel pellets in Federal shotshells are protected from contact with the barrel by a tough plastic wad that surrounds the shot column as it passes through the bore.

Because they are harder than lead, steel pellets retain their roundness after firing and fly true. As a result, the density and uniformity of patterns often exceed those of lead shot.

It is important to realize that steel pellets lose energy faster than lead pellets. To compensate for this, when switching to steel, hunters should select steel shot two sizes larger than the lead shot they have been using. (If No. 4 lead is normally used, No. 2 steel shot should be considered.)

As a general rule, steel shot will provide excellent patterns with a more open choke than with lead. For example, a modified choke may be the most useful all-around choke for shooting steel shot at waterfowl. With steel shot larger than No. 2, modified chokes usually provide denser patterns than full chokes while minimizing possible choke expansion.

Patterning is recommended to determine how steel loads perform in various guns and chokes. All that is needed is a wood frame on which a 36-inch-square of plain paper can be attached. (There should be a safe zone behind the target, and steel backing should be avoided to prevent richocheting.)

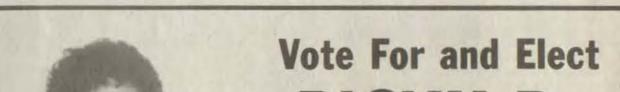

Standard pattern test procedure is to fire from a distance of 40 yards, draw a 30-inch circle around the densest part of the pattern, and count the holes within that circle. If 70% or more of the pellets landed in the circle, it would be a "full choke" pattern. A 60% pattern is called "modified" and 50% "improved cylinder.

The accompanying table-"Suggested Pattern Density"-can simplify interpretation of a pattern. To consistently bag large ducks, for instance. a minimum of 85 pellets should land in the 30-inch circle.

Prestonsburg Grade School Wins JWB

The Prestonsburg Grade School varsity team holds up the signal for number one, after defeating Allen Thursday in the Jenny Wiley Bowl. Both Prestonsburg and Allen entered the game undefeated, but the Blackcats came away with a 50-22 win. It also gave them a county championship.

In the balsa crankbaits, you can drill a hole in the wood, fill it with lead, then seal it, and you'll also get a deeper diving lure

"Probably the most important factor in depth control is using the proper line. Crankbaits dive deeper when used with lighter lines, and sometimes I use lines as light as eight-pound test.

"A crankbait will also dive deeper if you eliminate line drag on the surface of the water," continues Dowden, "Simply hold your rod tip underwater so all your line stays below the surface. and the lure will run deeper.

Dowden's favorite retrieve is a stopand-go technique in which he stops reeling when the crankbait richochets off the cover he's fishing. He pauses for just a second, then begins cranking again

"A stop-and-go doesn't always work," he admits, "so an angler needs to try several different retrieves. The important thing is to know what you're doing when a bass hits. There are about five or six different retrieves I try, usually in a specific order each time I start fishing.

At this time of year, one of Dowden's favorite crankbait techniques is to position himself in front of the bays and large coves where bass have spent much of the summer. As the water cools and both bait and bass move into slightly deeper depths. Dowden works a crankbait down the deeper channel drops that often mark the edges of the coves.

'Sometimes you may be catching bass regularly in one spot with a crankbait, and then the action stops suddenly," explains the Evinrude Outboards pro: "All that may be needed is for you to change positions so your retrieve brings the crankbait through the fish in a different direction. I've ex-

question

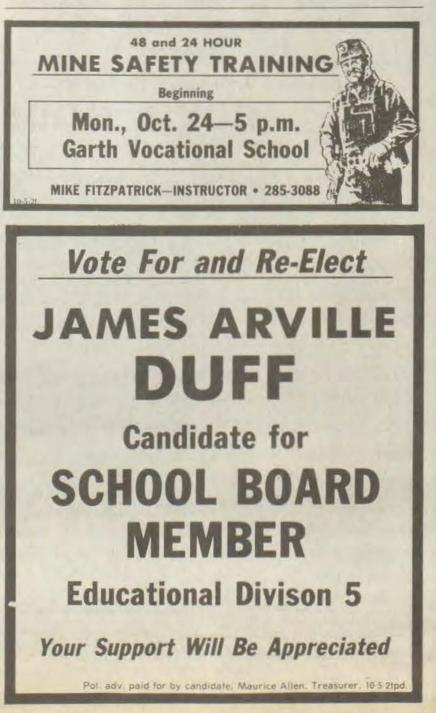

Co-produced by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources and the Kentucky Educational Television (KET) Network, the Kentucky Afield program airs every Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. (EST), 6:30 p.m. (CST).

According to Michaels, anglers will be given the opportunity to call in questions about fishing on an upcoming program this spring. Questions received on hunting for the October 12 program which may not be addressed on the air (due to time constraints) may be answered on subsequent programs as time permits.

Features are co-produced by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources and the station.

Each week, a different item of interest to outdoor enthusiasts will be presented, including hunting, fishing, departmental programs and a host of other sporting and non-sporting outdoor opportunities available in Kentucky

In 1987, over 1.1 million hunting and fishing licenses were sold in Kentucky, and according to the National Hunting and Fishing Survey, 33 percent of Kentucky's population hunts, fishes or enjoys both sports.

RICKY D. HAMILTON School Board Member (Dist. #4)

Why is it that the political powers in the Floyd County School System react with threats of jobs to the opposition, their families, friends, and supporters?

As a candidate for school board member in Dist. #4, I want to represent all the people by getting answers to their questions from their present school board member.

Mary Hall

(Questions 1 thru 4 asked in the Sept. 28th issue of The Floyd County Times)

- 1. As a board member for 16 years, what new facilities have been constructed in Dist. #4 besides the Pete Grigsby Fieldhouse?
- 2. What have you done in your capacity as board member to improve the test scores of the students in this district?
- 3. What have you done to increase teachers salaries from the bottom 15% in the state?
- 4. What actions have you taken to increase the salaries and benefits for secretaries, bus drivers, cooks, janitors, etc.
- 5. Did you vote along with the superintendent and board chairman from Prestonsburg to build a new high school for Prestonsburg over the needs of a new grade school for Melvin?
- 6. Have you or your superintendent received a letter from Michael Luscher, State Director, Division of Buildings and Grounds, regarding the status new Left Beaver High School? What is that status?

If Mary Hall doesn't answer these questions, I will answer them for her in the Nov. 2nd issue of The Floyd County Times.

Cardinals Face Virginia In First Meeting

Game 7-Louisville (3-3) meets Virginia in the first game ever between the schools. It is also the first time Howard Schnellenberger has ever faced Virginia. U of L beat Tulsa 9-3 last week in the Cards' Homecoming game as Deon Booker became the first running back since 1972 to have four consecutive 100-yard rushing games with his 108 yards vs. Tulsa, Virginia (2-3) lost to Clemson at home 10-7 as the Tigers scored a TD with 1:52 to play.

Records Fall for Jay Gruden-Jay Gruden became the all-time passing leader at U of L when he threw for 234 yards vs. So. Miss., surpassing the mark held by Ed Rubbert (5,496/1983-86). Gruden now has 5,859 passing yards...Gruden broke John Madeya's all-time touchdown record (34) vs. So. Miss. when he threw for three TDs. Gruden now has 36 career touchdown passes... Gruden also broke Rubbert's all-time offensive attempts record (966) when he had 36 offensive attempts vs. So. Miss. He now has 1,030 offensive attempts in his career...Gruden (5,490 total yards) moved into first place on the all-time total offense list when he had 287 total yards vs. North Carolina, passing Ed Rubbert (4,989)... He needs just 8 passing attempts... During the North Carolina game he also became the alltime leader in pass completions when he had 26 completions. He moved past Ed Rubbert who formerly held the record (430). Gruden now has 467 pass completions... In his three years at U of L he has completed 52.1 percent of his passes. The career mark at U of L is 50.6 set by Tom LaFrambiose (1962-64)

Deon Booker Continues Record Running-Booker's 108 rushing yards vs. Tulsa marks the first time a U of L back has rushed for over 100 yards in four consecutive games since Howard Stevens did it in 1972 (N. Texas St. 103: Wichita St. 178, Cincinnati 258, Tulsa 204). Stevens had six consecutive 100-yards or more rushing in the last four games of 1971 (Tampa 183, Tulsa 158, So. Ill. 260, Cincinnati 198) and the frist two games of 1972 (Kent State 115, Dayton 160). Booker needs just 173 rushing yards to move into fifth place on the all-time rushing list ahead of Calvin Prince (2,108/1976-77). Booker now has 1,936 rushing yards. Booker (102 points) also moved into sixth place on the all-time scoring list with his two TDs vs. North Carolina. He needs 39 points to move past Calvin Prince (140/1976-77). In U of L's first six games last season. Booker rushed for 393 yards (100 vs. Tulane, 2 vs. Cincinnati, O vs. Purdue, dnp vs. Murray State and 94 vs. So Miss., 196 vs. Marshall-393 total). This year he has gained 584 yards (49 vs. Maryland, 42 vs. Wyoming, 154 vs. Memphis State, 125 vs. N. Carolina and 106 vs. So. Miss.). Booker's 97.3 rushing average puts him on pace to break the 1,000-yard rushing mark. The last U of L back to gain over 1,000 vards in a season was Nathan Poole in 1978

Last Week-Louisville (3-3) beat Tulsa 9-3 in the Cards' Homecoming game. Tulsa, who went into the game ranked 11th nationally in total offense. failed to unwind against U of L's stubborn defense as the Cards held the Golden Hurricane to 331 total yards. Tulsa's three points marked the first time a Cardinal defense has held an opponent without a touchdown since 1982 when the Cards beat Richmond 35 -0. U of L's only touchdown of the day came in the second quarter when Jay Grude hit Fred Jones with a 20-yard pass. On the day, Gruden connected on 16 of 28 passes for 186 yards and two interceptions. Deon Booker also became the first back since 1972 (Howard Stevens) to rush for over 100 yards in four consecutive games when he had 108 yards vs. the Golden Hurricane. Both teams were plagued with penalties with U of L drawing nine for 93 yards and Tulsa getting 12 for 165 yards. U of L tight end Chad Fortune caught a team high five passes for 60 yards

Virginia (2-3) lost to Clemson 10-7 in the last two minutes of play. Clemson quarterback Rodney Williams threw a 14-yard touchdown pass to Chip Davis with 1:52 to play to give the Tigers the win. The scoring play capped on eightplay. 80-yard march by the Tigars after Virginia had taken a 7-3 lead on Herman Moore's juggling reception in the end zone with 5:27 left. Clemson, which ran for 403 yards against Virginia last year, collected 293 last Saturday. The Cavaliers were held to just 85 passing vards and 195 rushing vards.

Notes-Deon Booker's 108 rushing yards vs. Tulsa marks the fourth straight week he's rushed for over 100 yards. The last rusher at U of L to gain over 100 yards rushing in four consecutive games was Howard Stevens in 1972, a 16-year span. Stevens had six consecutive 100-yard rushing games in the last four games of 1971 and the first two of 1972. He ranks 21st in the nation with 97.3 rushing yards a game ... U of L's 3-3 record marks the first time in Schnellenberger's four years at Louisville that he has been .500 after six games played... It's the first time since 1983 that a U of L team has had a .500 record after six games. The last time the Cards had a better start after six games was in 1981 when they went 4-2. If U of L beats Virginia it will be the first time since 1981 the Cards have had a winning record after seven games...Tulsa's three points marks the first time a U of L defense has held an opponent without a TD since the Cards beat Richmond 35-0 on Oct. 16, 1982.. U of L's balance of attack has improved. After two games the Cards were getting 75 percent of its yardage from the passing game and 25 percent from the running gamem. After six games U of L is getting 61 percent from the passing game and 39 percent from the running game ... U of L's defense has also slowly improved this season. After two games the defense allowed 1,031 yards (515.5 avg.). In the last two vs. Tulsa... Last season the Cards registered just 10 interceptions all year. After six games the Cards already have nine interceptions, with Derek Hawthrone and Bob Bare leading the way with two each ... Klaus Wilmsmeyer's 27-yard field goal vs. Tulsa was the first of his career ... Wide receiver Fred Jones caught the first touchdown pass of his career vs. Tulsa... Keith Stephens ranks 11th nationally in all-purpose rushing with 11 punt returns for 110 yards, 19 kickoff returns for 434 yards, 55 rushes for 261 yards and 10 receptions for 128 yards. He had its longest punt return (37) of the season vs. North Carolina... Gruden ranks 22nd nationally in total offense with 224.8 yards per game. Gruden is

Tips For Fall Walking

The fall is a great time to start exercising. The weather is cool, the fall foliage is beautiful and the hazy days of summer have come to an end. One of the safest and easiest ways to begin exercising is through a walking program.

"People love to walk in the fall," says Viisha Sedlak, champion racewalker and member of the USA Olympic Track & Field Team. "They are walking the dog longer because it is cooler, taking foliage tours, or just walking around the neighborhood. What they don't realize is that they are getting great exercise at the same time. A good walk is an easy, low-stress method for getting Viisha has developed a list of dos and don'ts for new walkers. DO:

 See a doctor before you start an exercise program.

 Start gradually at a pace you can handle.

Walk every day.

Exercise with a friend for support and companionship.

Wear the proper shoes (women should make sure their walking shoes have been designed specifically for women, and aren't just men's shoes scaled down in size). DON'T:

Walk too fast-a good rule of thumb is this: if you can't carry on

He had his first interception of the year on pace to break the 2,000 yard passing mark like he did a year ago. Last season after six games he passed for 1,163 yards (Tulane 296, Cincinnati 119, Purdue 266, Murray State 219, So. Miss. 71, Marshall 192). This season he has thrown for 1,440 yards (Maryland 319, Wyoming 207, Memphis State 171, North Carolina 323, So. Miss. 234, Tulsa 186), 277 yards more. No quarterback in U of L history has ever passed for 2,000 yards in back-to-back seasons .. U of L's passing offense rank 17th nationally with 248.8 yards a game ... Game sponsor Citizen's Fidelity will give away free megaphones to the first 5,000 fans at the Virginia game.

Howard Schnellenberger Show-U of L's football team will be featured on the U of L Sports Page at noon on a conversation, you are walking too hard.

· Wear tennis, basketball or aerobic shoes-wear walking shoes. Undertake too strenuous a program—this is one of the leading causes of disillusionment and giving up. · Compare yourself with others in how far or how fast you walk.

Schnellenberger Quotes-(Tulsa) "Whatever the scenario is in winning a game like this, our football team took a great, great step forward because we haven't won a game like this since I've been here. It's one of those kind of games that calls on your strength and courage and everything you've been putting in the bank."

(On Virginia) "Well obviously this (Tulsa) is the kind of game that will add to the growth and development of our football team. I think it will help u. to continue to prepare and to grow for next week. This week will be an analyzation of our opponent. It will take a lot of hard work to get read y for a very good Virginia football team. They have a lot of weapons we will have to contend with.

FL News & Notes

This NFL season hasn't exactly been a good one for quarterbacks, unless it would be a third-or fourth-string passer who was desperate for action.

Quarterbacks have gone down like clay pidgeons at a shooting range. Big names such as Bernie Kosar, Warren Moon and Doug Williams have suffered injury and illness, forcing them from several games

It hasn't stopped there. Even secondand third-string signal callers have gone by the wayside due to hard hits and tough falls. Their teams have been victimized by this rash of quarterback injuries

Cleveland, the team expected to represent the AFC in the Super Bowl, has probably been hit the hardest, losing three quarterbacks and forcing them to sign veteran backup Don Strock.

Sunday, Strock, who proved invaluable at Miami, became the Browns' number one man behind center after Mike Pagel, third string at the beginning of the year, left the game with a separated shoulder

Strock, though, failed to perform his relief magic Dolphin fans had become accustomed to, and as a result the Browns lost their third game of the season, falling 16-10 at home to Seattle, another team without their starting quarterback.

The Seahawks intercepted two passes, recovered two fumbles, and blocked two field goal attempts in the victory. They went into the game with rookie Kelly Stouffer at the helm, replacing the injured David Kreig.

Pagel, who separated his shoulder making a tackle following one of the blocked kicks, will be out five to six weeks, and Kosar isn't expected back until late in October, leaving Strock as not only the number one man, but the only man.

The Indianapolis Colts rolled into Buffalo needing a win to stay alive in the hunt for a playoff spot, and were impressive early, opening up a 17-0 lead.

But they soon lost their starting quarterback, Chris Chandler, and the defense suffered several breakdowns as Jim Kelly threw for three touchdowns in bringing the Bills back.

Indianapolis, last year's winner in the AFC East, fell to 1-5. Eric Dickerson, who had never rushed for over 20 yards against Buffalo, ended the game with 66 yards on the ground.

The Bills improved to 5-1, and opened their lead even more over secondplace New York when the Jets were shot down in Cincinnati.

The Bengals, remaining undefeated with a 36-19 victory, haven't had any quarterback problems, and after a slow start, they didn't have any problems at all Sunday. New York, dropping to 3-2-1, opened up a 9-0 advantage early, thanks to a safety and a Cincinnati fumble, but Boomer Esiason and Ickey Woods quickly brought the Bengals back.

Esiason, the NFL's top rated passer, threw for three touchdowns, and Woods, a rookie, ran for 136 yards and

The Rams, behind the running of game under the direction of a third tailback Greg Bell, rolled up an impressive 33-0 victory over Atlanta. Bell. who finished the game with over 150 yards, had 112 in the first quarter.

In keeping with the injured quarterback report, both Detroit's Chuck Long (knee) and Chicago's Jim McMahon (concussion) were forced out of the Bears' 24-7 win.

In Phoenix, Pittsburgh had to start Todd Blackledge because Bubby Brister was nursing an injury. The Cardinals rolled up 388 total yards of offense, and recorded a 31-14 win. The victory put Phoenix in first place in the NFC East

Not Defying The Odds: Only a week after he earned Offensive Player of the Week honors, Doug Flutie may have his award taken back. Flutie threw for a touchdown and ran for another in leading New England to a victory in week five. But Sunday he threw three interceptions before giving way to veteran Steve Grogan, who threw two. All of this led to a 45-3 loss-to Green Bay.

The Packers, in winning their first game of the year, rushed for over 200 yards and allowed the Patriots only 86 on the ground

Repeat Outlook: Defending Super Bowl champion Washington lost Doug Williams three weeks ago, but they haven't lost their hopes to repeat in the NFL.

The Redskins, behind backup quarterback Mark Rypien, handed division foe Dallas a 35-17 defeat Sunday. Rypien, figured to return to the bench when Williams returns in a couple weeks, ran for one touchdown, and threw for two others. Washington kept pace with Phoenix in the NFC East. improving to 3-3.

Games To Watch: As the season sprints toward the midway point, division races are beginning to take shape and four intra-divisional matchups. along with heavyweight cross conference contests, highlight week seven of the NFL schedule

The Houston Oilers, who swept Pittsburgh last season for the first time ever, travel to the Steel City for a matchup with the Steelers.

Early indications would say that Houston, 4-2, would blow Pittsburgh, 1-5, away. But the Oilers will play the string quarterback. In their two wins last season, Warren Moon threw for four touchdowns. He won't play Sunday

However, the Oiler defense held Pittsburgh to only one touchdown in the two games, and the Steelers themselves are without their number one passer

The San Francisco 49ers travel to LA in hopes of catching the Rams. The 49ers have fallen one game off the pace in a division they're expected to win. The Rams, losers of only one, start the toughest part of their 1988 schedule, playing five straight teams with winning records

Washington will try to cool off the red-hot Phoenix Cardinals in a game in RFK stadium. The Cardinals beat Washington 30-21 earlier in the season, breaking a string of seven straight wins by the Redskins.

In New York, the Jets will try to rebound from the loss to Cincinnati while gaining some ground on Buffalo when the Bills come to town Monday night. The two teams split their games last year

The Philadelphia Eagles travel to Cleveland for a battle with the Browns. Kosar is still out, and a Cleveland loss, coupled with a Cincinnati win in New England would put them four games out. The Eagles are almost in a mustwin situation themselves.

In another important battle between the two conferences, New Orleans plays in Seattle. The Seahawks rarely ever lose at home. The Saints, like the Rams, are embarking on a tough stretch. Eight of their next nine opponents have winning records. Five of them were in the playoffs last season.

Monday Night Game: Randall Cunningham threw for 361 yards and three touchdowns, and New York missed two scoring opportunities as Philadelphia recorded a 24-13 victory.

With just over two minutes remaining in the game Mark Bavaro, who caught nine passes for 145 yards, dropped a fourth down and 10 pass that would have given the Giants a first down on the Eagle five.

Philadelphia took over, and instead of running down the clock, Cunningham threw an 80-yard touchdown pass to Chris Carter on third down.

Achieving Ideal Weight

Young athletes, their coaches and parents may want to take this quiz to see if they know how to reach and keep their ideal competitive weight. The same rules that apply to athletes also apply to coaches and parents.

1. The one thing an athlete should try to keep to a minimum in his or her diet is (a) fat (b) protein (c) carbohydrates?

2. To lose and/or maintain weight, you must only eat 3 meals a day. (a) True (b) False?

3. The only benefit of aerobic exercise is that it burns calories. (a) True (b) False?

ANSWERS

1. (a) Fat has over twice as many calories as the same amount of protein and carbohydrates. Skip the fried foods and limit the amount of butter, margarine, oils, and other fats. 2. (b) False. Gymnasts, figure skaters, wrestlers, dancers, and models keep their weight down by eating 5 to 7 times a day. Eating small meals and snacks can help ward off hunger and help you control how much you eat while at the same time providing the nutrients you need. 3. (b) False. Exercise not only burns calories but it also results in a decrease in body fat and an increase in lean body mass (muscle). Lean body mass is metabolically more active than fat tissue. Therefore, the more lean body mass that you have, the more calories that you will burn daily! There is also the added benefit of improvement in cardiovascular function.

two more scores as the Bengals kept their two-game lead in the Central.

Esiason has thrown 18 touchdown passes in six games, and has proven to be the glue that sticks the Cincinnati offense together. But he is about the only regular NFL quarterback that has had the opportunity to perform on a regular basis.

Houston, a team that continues to remain in the division hunt, kept on winning Sunday despite falling to their third-string passer. Cody Carlson, replacing the injured Warren Moon, suffered a broken thumb Sunday against Kansas City, but the aggressive Oiler defense kept them in it until Carlson's replacement, Brent Peace, ran four yards for a score in the third quarter

Houston, 4-2, made good on the extra point try which proved to be the winning point in a 7-6 victory.

In San Francisco, Joe Montana suffered bruised ribs, and his replacement, Steve Young, threw an interception in overtime that set up Denver's game-winning field goal.

The Broncos, with the 16-13 win, kept pace in the AFC West. John Elway, another QB who has avoided injury. threw two interceptions in the game. That brought his total this season to nine. He had 10 picked off all of last season.

With the loss the 49ers, 4-2, dropped one game behind New Orleans and Los Angeles in the NFC West. They play in LA this week, though, and Montana is expected to be back.

Newsome Wins Football Contest

Had it been a horse race, it would have been termed a photo finish, but a tie breaker system is used here, and as a result of his hitting it on the nose, Duran Newsome won this week's Floyd County Times Football Contest.

Newsome of Grethel, selected 10 of 12 winning teams, but so did Brad Hall and Eddie Sexton. But Newsome had the exact score of the tie breaker game, while Hall missed it by three points, and Sexton by slightly more,

The only thing between Newsome and a $250 grand prize was the Raiders' loss at home to Miami, and San Francisco's defeat, in overtime, at the hands of Denver.

The other winning teams this week were Virgie, L.S.U., Notre Dame, Indiana, Murray State, Michigan, Louisville, Buffalo, Cincinnati, Seattle, and Miami.

Speed Thrower

During a Cincinnati Reds season game Bridgette Clay, physical education teacher at Clark Elementary and women's basketball coach at PHS. qualified in the Kahns/Cincinnati Reds speed throw by throwing a baseball 61 miles per hour. Her qualification entitled her to a Reds jacket, four tickets to the Reds/Braves game and eligibility for the finals. On Oct. 1, Clay competed in the finals of the speed throw, winning the competition with a throw of 62 miles per hour. She received a plaque and four tickets to the Cincinnati Reds games next season.

Kentucky Poet Profiled On KET

He is not interested in being known as either a regional or an Appalachian writer, but he brings to life the people and events of the hills and valleys of Eastern Kentucky. Enjoy his life and works on James Still: Man On Troublesome Creek. This half-hour special airs on KET Thursday, Oct. 20 at 7:30 p.m.

Still refers to himself as a farmer who is interested in a great many things. He writes stories "that happen to be placed here (in Eastern Kentucky)" with a warm familiarity. Poet/author Jim Wayne Miller also is featured in this special. He observes that Still is a "minimalist" for whom everything is pared down to the essentials. According to Miller, Viking Press (Still's publisher) complained about the simplicity, but readers appreciate the purity and clarity expressed in another featured work from the Alabama-born writer.

Still reveals he was the oldest of 10 children and he moved to Eastern Kentucky during the 1930s. Still goes on to say that "as a passionate naturalist, it was the wild mountains-and plants and animals in them-that fascinated me about the area (Troublesome Creek and the Hindman Settlement School). Then I came to know and enjoy the people who live there."

Include Pork In A Low Fat Diet 362 calories and 13 grams of fat each.

The flavors of fall apples, cinnamon, and sweet potatoes cry out for a delicious pork entree to complete the menu. Happily, with careful selection and sensible portions, there is a place for pork in a lowfat diet to reduce cancer risk.

Because the American Institute for Cancer Research's "Dietary Guidelines to Lower Cancer Risk" call for reducing fat in the diet, people often assume that including pork in menu planning is impossible. Today's learn pork is a different product than the high-fat variety most of us grew up with.

America's pork producers have developed new feeding techniques and leaner breeds to produce pork that is 10 percent leaner than it was a generation ago. And meat packers and retailers are also heeding the trend by giving many pork cuts a close 1/8-inch trim.

Leaner pork is not a excuse to go hog wild, however. The recommended 3-oz. portion of cooked lean pork still provides 9 to 13 grams of fat per serving. Here's how to get the least fat and most flavor

Select lean pork cuts; tenderloin, leg (fresh ham) or loin chops are leanest.

Trim outside fat from meats before cooking and trim any separable fat before eating.

Bake, broil or roast pork on a rack so that fat will drip off during cooking. Overcooking lean pork can make it dry; lower temperatures and shorter cooking times are often recommended for lean meats.

The apples and cider sauce that accompany the pork in this dish add wonderful flavor

Eastern Kentucky Mothers Of Twins To Meet Oct. 13

On Thursday, Oct. 13, at 6:30 p.m. the Mothers of Twins will be having its monthly meeting at the County Extensive Office located on Cline Street in Pikeville.

Those attending will need to bring $4.50 and 1 yard of cotton/cotton blend material cut into 1-inch strips to make a rag basket, and a pair of scissors. For more information call Joann West, at 432-1998

1 cup apple cider (or apple juice) 1/2 tsp. sage 1/4 tsp. thyme

1/8 tsp. pepper

2 large tart apples (such as Granny Smith or Jonathan)

3/4 cup evaporated skim milk Trim off all fat surrounding the pork chops. Heat a large skillet, add the pork and cook over medium heat for 3-5 minutes on each side. Add the cider and seasonings, and allow to barely simmer for 7 minutes. Meanwhile, peel and core the apples and cut into 1/2-inch slices. Add these to the pan and cook for 3-4 minutes more.

Remove the pork chops and place them on a baking sheet, and arrange overlapping apple slices on top. (Lay any extra apple slices on the baking sheet.) Preheat the broiler. Boil the mixture remaining in the pan until it is reduced to a syrup, 2 to 3 minutes. Spoon some of the syrup over the apple slices. Place the pork chops and apple slices in the broiler, about 6" from the heat, and broil for 2 to 3 minutes.

Meanwhile, stir the evaporated milk into the syrup remaining in the skillet, and simmer gently until it reaches a sauce consistency, about 3 to 4 minutes. Remove the pork and apples from the broiler, transfer to a serving plate, and pour the sauce over the pork and apples to serve.

Advanced Kidney Cancer Treated In Research Trials

Question: My father has kidney cancer that has spread to his lung. His doctor says that surgery is not an option and the only thing that might help is a hormone treatment. I don't understand why they can't give him chemotherapy or one of those new drugs like interferon.

Answer: Once certain cancers have spread (metastasized), treatment options can become limited. In the case of advanced kidney cancer, chemotherapy has not been shown to be an effective treatment. Standard treatment

• Tacketts Announce Daughter's Birth

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Tackett of Eastern announce the birth of their second child, Lara Whitney, born Sept. 20 at Our Lady of The Way Hospital, Martin.

She has a sister, Amanda Elaine, who is 5-years-old.

The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Campbell; paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Tackett of Weeksbury. choices include surgical removal of the tumor (which is not possible in your father's case), hormone treatment, or palliative treatment.

Palliative means that, in cases where a cure is not expected, things can be done to make the patient more comfortable by relieving symptoms when and if they occur. These might include radiation therapy directly to the lung tumor, or removal of the cancerous kidney.

Another option is investigational treatment. Drugs like interferon and interleukin are not considered to be standard forms of treatment because their effectiveness in treating cancer is still being studied in clinical trials. Clinical trials are a form of research where selected patients are given experimental drugs and are then followed to see if these drugs have an effect on their cancers. In order to make sure that the patients enrolled in a study are alike enough so that the results can be compared, they must meet certain eligibility criteria such as the type and extent of their cancer and what treatments they've already had.

Since the results of a study cannot be known until all of the patients enrolled in it have completed the treatment protocol, no one can tell you if a particular investigational treatment is successful in treating a particular kind of cancer. Clinical trials offer patients whose cancers have not been shown to respond to standard treatments the opportunity to try something new that might make a difference in the course of their disease. In a broader sense, they may also become part of a research project that will improve the care of future cancer patients.

Youth Center Hires Director, Gets Closer To Grand Opening

The Prestonsburg Youth Center is closer to opening, with the hiring of a director and getting contractor estimates for the building renovation.

"It was time we did something," said Charlie Miller, treasurer of the Youth Center Advisory Board at last Tuesday's Youth Center Board meeting. Two weeks ago, the Advisory Board hired Johnny Ross as director of the center, and began getting contractor

Mental Illness Support Group To Meet Oct. 12

The Mountain Consumers Alliance Group, a self-help group for family members of individuals with long term mental illness, will meet Wednesday, Oct. 12 at 4:30 p.m. in the New Hope Club House at Dana.

Guest speaker will be Bill Stewart with the Protection and Advocacy Division in Frankfort.

The meeting is open to any individual who has a family member with long term mental illness. For more information, call Pam Ward at 478-2225.

bids to renovate the center building, located at the corner of Third Avenue and Graham Street, he said.

The center will have two levels. The first level will consist of a dance floor and gathering area and a snack bar, and the second level will have a game room, according to Councilman Mike Vance, chairman of the advisory board.

The estimated cost of the renovation is $25,000, and over $10,000 of that has to be raised by the Center's Teen and Advisory Boards, they said. The other $15,000 is part of the city budget this year.

Yearly upkeep of the center is now part of the city annual budget. The funds that were earmarked for Archer Park will now be used for the Youth Center, because park funds are now generated from the city's hospitality tax.

The Youth Center arose from a need to find something that the city could do for kids because there was no one particular place that they could go without spending money, Vance said in August. "Our goal is to open on New Year's CHICKEN & DUMPLING DINNER at Free Will Baptist Church 3rd. Ave. Friday Oct. 14, 11a.m.-3p.m. 3.00 plate Eve," he said. They hope to have most of the construction done on the first floor by then so that they can have a party for local teens that night.

The Teen Board is planning the programs at the center, including proposals of an after-school program for elementary school children, a graffiti wall and letting youth groups meet there, but plans have not been finalized

During the discussion at the meeting, Director Johnny Ross said that the kids are the leaders in the planning.

"We want it to be what you want it to be," Ross said.

The Center boards have had three fundraisers: a street dance, VCR giveaway and bake sale at the Jenny Wiley Festival. The boards have raised about $1,000 for the center's renovation costs, Vance said.

Educational District #5

It seems that the Board and all the parties involved have lost sight of what the primary duties of the Board of Education are—that is the growth and education of our children.

The purpose of the Board is to serve the educational needs of the people, not the people to serve the Board.

It seems that some place in time we, the people of Floyd County, have turned our voice over to a few and have become willing to follow like sheep regardless of the cost to our children's education.

Everyone seems to be worrying about who is working and at what salary, when we should be thinking about teaching our kids to read and write, and be able to take their place in Floyd County's future as leaders, teachers, businessmen and responsible citizens.

We can only teach our children right from wrong by example, not by blind devotion. Your vote will help me to be a part of that example.

The only lasting thing we can give our children is an education. They are the future. Stop and think over all the options Nov. 8 and Vote for Roger Jones

Speaker Encourages Students To Complete Secondary Education

By Malissa Hall Sherri LeMaster, the coordinator for the Wilderness Road Girl Scout Council in Midway spoke to the student body of Wheelwright High School on September 28th.

LeMaster was invited to Wheelwright High School by students of the Kentucky Foundation Youth Corps to speak about the topics of staying in school and going to college.

She involved students in her presentation by asking a series of questions. The first student to raise his or her hand came on stage with LeMaster and if the student answered her question correctly, LeMaster paid that student $1. The purpose of this demonstration was to show the students of WHS that people in the real world are willing to pay them for the knowledge they have.

LeMaster also talked about the high percentage of students who drop out of school, teenage pregnancy, and the fact that kids who leave Wheelwright after high school probably won't come back because they feel as if there is nothing to come back to because of economic conditions.

"I hope I've made a difference on your lives when I say 'You are important! When you say this after me, you should believe it," said LeMaster

Another activity that LeMaster involved the students in was having students repeat the phrase that they were important after her. She did this to let them experience the feelings of confidence and importance.

LeMaster's seminar lasted from 45-60 minutes. A reception was held for Lemaster after her presentation in the Wheelwright High School library. Members of the Kentucky Appalachian Youth Corps, along with members of the student body and the staff at Wheelwright High School, attended the reception.

"I really enjoyed my visit to Wheelwright. I hope that I have influenced students here to think about staying in school and going on to college. Hopefully, I'll come back to Wheelwright again soon," Lemaster told the students

To be eligible, students must have scored at the 97th percentile or better on an in-school achievement or ability

f educational programs. TIP, established in 1980, has provided thousands of students with information about their abilities and educational options. The purposes of the program are to help academically able students develop their special abilities,

Betsy Layne High FHA , Regional Meeting Held

The Betsy Layne High School and other FHA Clubs held their Fall Regional Meeting Saturday, Sept. 24.

The meeting was a training session for the officers and also to encourage member involvement. Each officer went into a separate group with other officers with the same position from different chapters. Each group was instructed on how to be a better officer and how to better assist their clubs.

National FHA Vice-President, Beth Campbell, conducted a member's session during the meeting for those members who attended.

The theme for the meeting was "Blast Off To New Horizons.

After the business part of the meeting, members and sponsors ate lunch. After lunch, they played the 'Astro-lympics, a series of games where chapters compete against one another.

School Board Members Attend KSBA Meeting

School board members and superintendents from the Eastern Kentucky South Region held their annual regional meeting Oct. 6 in Paintsville, and foremost on their minds was the health insurance crisis for school board employees

KSBA officers urged local districts to adopt a resolution asking the governor to bring this issue before the first special session of the General Assembly, and reminded them that health insurance is a responsibility of the state, not the local district.

Local board employees are under the same health insurance plan as state government employees which has been changed recently. Under the plan, employees will have to start paying part of their coverage under the single plan as well as the family plan.

The regional meeting was led by Reggie Smith a member of the Pikeville Board of Education and chairman of the Eastern Kentucky South Region. It was hosted by Pikeville Superintendent John Waddell and held at the Carriage House in Paintsville. James R. Carroll, board member from the Paintsville Board of Education, was elected to serve as regional chairman for the next two years. He will represent seven districts on the KSBA Board of Directors.

School board members and superintendents from Johnson, Martin and Pike counties and Paintsville and Pikeville independent districts were represented.

Kids' Day At Clark

September 27, was declared Kentucky Kid's Day throughout the Commonwealth by the Kentucky PTA. The association encouraged local PTA's or schools to sponsor a special activity for children. With the help of several parents, all students at Clark released helium-filled balloons with a piece of paper listing the students' name, school and address, and the message, "Kentucky Kids' Day." If any balloons are found, the finder is asked to contact the school either by phone or mail. The child having the balloon to travel the longest distance will be presented a certificate by the Clark PTA.

Clark Students At 'Outdoor Restaurant'

Clark AC Students

Clark Elementary will be represented in the Jenny Wiley Academic Conference by Jessica Allen, Christel Combs, Jill Goble, Rebecca Carter, Chris Balley, Nanna Allen, David Bates, Brian Delong, Christal Gilliam, David Baldridge, Chris McKinney, Kristi Robinson, Sandra Gray, Scott McGuire, Jenny Vanhoose, Jessica Ray and Bandie Ousley. Their academic coach is Alberta Slone.

Clark Students Use 'Outdoor Restaurant' Class

After reading a story about a Blue Moose who served gingerbread and coffee to customers in a restaurant deep in the woods, Mrs. Hunsucker's fourth grade claass at Clark Elementary trecked through the woods behind their classroom to a "restaurant" where they munched on gingerbread and sipped coffee.

Later, various students acted out different sketches from the story on a stage near the "restaurant."

The "restaurant" was, in reality, the outdoor classroom located behind Clark School. The stage is also a part of the facility.

The refreshments were prepared and delivered by parents

Math Students At Clark Have PEP

Math teacher Earl D. Ousley decided what his eighth grade students needed was PEP.

The Personal Economics Program, or PEP, is a volunteer effort by bankers working with educators to supplement educational programs. The goal of PEP is to promote financial skills and a better understanding of the US economic system.

Upon Ousley's request, Brian Ousley and Clydia Heintzelman of the First Commonwealth Bank of Prestonsburg presented the topic, Checking Account Management, only one of the several classroom topics available.

The math students learned how to open a checking account, write a check and balance a checkbook. Ousley said the students had fun learning a skill that would prove useful in the future.

P'burg Academic Teams Win

Prestonsburg High Schools' varsity and junior varsity quick recall team successfully opened match play in the Jenny Wiley Academic Conference with two wins each over McDowell High School on Thursday, Oct. 6.

The score of the first match was 33-15, Prestonsburg varsity. Following that win with another, Prestonsburg's varsity won 34-12. David Thompson was voted MVP of game one. Game two honors went to Dustin Haley. Also recognized for his steady play was team captain Bryon Crider. These three performers were assisted by Con-

Forum Education Board Of Directors To Meet Oct. 20

The Floyd County Education Forum Board of Directors meeting is scheduled Thursday, Oct. 20, at 6:30 p.m.

The meeting will be held at the First Presbyterian Church in Prestonsburg (next to Jerry's Restaurant). The public is welcome to attend.

The agenda will include a discussion of the recently-held Floyd County School District accreditations hearing and the Kentucky Department of Education's response to the Forum's concerns about that hearing.

Other topics of interest on the agenda will be the development of a Master Education Improvement Plan for Floyd county schools; the arrangements for meeting this year's school board candidates and an attendance promotion project.

The Floyd Co. Education Forum invites all interested persons to attend.

nie Spencer, Stacy Webb, Ernie Croot, Hayden Milligan, and Paul Horn.

Team captain Mike Partington led his junior varsity teammates Mark Blackburn, Jody Wallen, Mamata Majmundar, and Adam Recktenwald to a 19-11 victory over the well-prepared McDowell JV. At the half of the second game, the academic "Cats" found themselves trailing McDowell, but were able to claw their way back to a last minute 18-17 victory

Other JV's who contributed to the overall team effort were Matthew Goodwill, Carter Hamilton, Kevin Conley, and Ben Berdiel.

Assistant coaches Lafferty, Crider, and Patton would like to thank McDowell coach Bobby Allen for his cooperation and understanding concerning the exact time of the match. Special thanks extended to those who helped with the scoring, spotting, judging, timing, and moderating: Ernest Croot, Bobby Hamilton, Brenda Cain, Ron Hampton, and Diana Reed.

The first week in November all sixth, voting, the political system, the presidential candidates and several major issues.

Using a political survey made available by Junior Scholastic, students studied critical issues of the presidential election, from education to the U.S. role in Central America.

After completing the survey, the students were better able to choose the presidential candidate and political party closest to their views.

All of the classes are writing campaign slogans for bumper stickers, campaign buttons, and tee-shirts. A bulletin board is being designed and will exhibit political cartoons, newspaper and magazine articles and pictures collected by the students.

In conjunction with this unit of study, each student will be writing an essay dealing with the qualities a presidential candidate should possess. The county-wide contest, "Speak Out America," is sponsored by the local Holiday Inn and is open to all seventh and eighth graders.

Academy Students Learn Handwashing

Seventy-nine students of the Mountain Christian Academy learned handwashing techniques Sept. 26 and 27 in presentations given by Infection Control Coordinator Judy Hamm, RN, BS and Education Director Naewana Nickles, RN, BSN of Our Lady of the Way Hospital.

The students were members of Gail Brown's first and second grades, Kathryn Yeomans' kindergarten and preschool taught by Sally Reynolds, Alice Cole, Karen Rose and Nancy Sherman.

The nurses stressed the importance of handwashing as the primary way to control the spread of infection and disease. They used a flip chart and a video tape of the hospital's handwashing mascot, Scrubby Bear, correctly washing his hands; and the Scrubby Bear handwashing song to emphasize their theme.

The children received a handwashing brochure, a Scrubby Bear puppet, a fact sheet and coloring pages at the conclusion of the program.

Last year, Our Lady of the Way Hospital presented its handwashing program to approximately 900 first graders. Because proper handwashing is such an important factor in community health, the hospital hopes to reach all Floyd County first graders this year.

Teachers and principals who wish to schedule the program for their schools should contact Judy Hamm at 285-5181 or Naewana Nickles at 285-3909.

Hereford, Goble Vows Recited

Laura Katherine Hereford and Dr. Rondal Goble were united in marriage Aug. 6 at 6:30 p.m. in a candlelight ceremony at the First United Methodist Church in Prestonsburg. Rev. Adrian Roberts and Rev. Quentin Schultz officiated at the double-ring ceremony

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David R. Hereford of Prestonsburg. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Goble of Prestonsburg.

Nuptial music selected by the bride, and groom was provided by the organist, Kathryn Frazier, Elizabeth Frazier and Beth Hall performed the vocal selections.

Laura Cooley and Jeri Robin Sword presided at the guest register and Vanessa Howard greeted the wedding guests with a copy of the nuptial program

Escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents. the bride wore a blush pink french-silk gown with a cathedral length train. The bodice was of venetian lace, handbeaded with seed pearls and white sequins. The train was hand-appliqued with venetian lace, covered with seed pearls and white sequins. The bride's initials, LKH, were hand-embroidered in seed pearls at the bottom of her train. The gown was adorned with a large bow at the back, which was encrusted with hand-appliqued pearls.

The headpiece, a crown of miniature silk roses and pearls, displayed an array of seed pearls and extended to a cathedral length veil of illusion. She carried a cascading bouquet of pink and white roses, gardenias, stephanotis and seed pearls.

The bride wore a pearl necklace, given by her father to her mother on their wedding day. Her token was of the past handkerchief belonging to Lyda Spradlin, Pearl Stanley and her namesake, Anna Laura Richmond, her great-grandmother

Diana Johnson of Prestonsburg, was maid-of-honor. The bridesmaids were Pam Goble, sister of the groom, Sandy Horn, Doris Click and Donna DeRossett all of Prestonsburg; Sue Ellen Ferguson of Waverly, O.; Christy Horn of Erlanger; and Judy Collins of Boca Raton, Fla. They each carried pink and white nosegays consisting of carnations and baby's breath tied with satin ribbons. Their pink floor length gowns were tissue taffeta with off-the-shoulder fan sleeves and sweetheart necklines.

The flowergirl, Katheryn Ashley Wright, cousin of the bride, also wore a pink tissue taffeta gown. Her headpiece was fashioned with pearls and she carried a wicker basket trimmed with silk roses and lace.

Attending Dr. Goble as best man was his father, Donald Goble. The groomsmen were David R. Hereford, II, brother of the bride; Donnie Goble, brother of the groom: Gene Holland, Alvin Hall and Woody Jarrell all of Prestonsburg; Dr. Jim Holbrook, Nashville, Tenn. and Dr. Grady Stephens, Louisville.

Kalen Harris of Prestonsburg was ring bearer. He carried the wedding pillow used at the wedding of the bride's parents.

Mary Beth Compton acted as wedding director.

The reception was held immediately following the ceremony at the Green Meadows Country Club at Pikeville. The entrance staircase was decorated with illusion and white satin bows. The flowers used throughout were the pink wedding colors. Hors d' oeuvres were served in the walnut room.

The main dining room held a traditional four tiered wedding cake separated by crystal posts and decorated with fresh flowers. The top of the cake held a precious moments bride and groom, made of China. The bridegroom's chocolate cake was decorated with the medical caduceus. Music was provided by the Full-Tilt

Band from Portsmouth, Ohio and a memories video, photo album of the bride and groom's growing-up-years was shown to the guests.

Mrs. John Stephens, aunt of the bride, was reception hostess. Mrs. Ben Cassidy and Daryl Lyon acted as reception aides. They were assisted by Linda Sue Stephens, Mary Jo LaPoint, Mrs. Jerry Fannin, Mrs. James Allen, Linda Gearheart, Mary Joyce Gich, Mrs. John M. Stephens, Mrs. George Vaughn, Mrs. Woody Jarrell, Karen Vaughan, Laura Cooley and Sidney Parker, uncle of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School and Prestonsburg Community College, She attended the University of Kentucky where she was a member of the Delta Zeta Sorority. She is attending Marshall University.

The groom graduated from Prestonsburg High School, Eastern Kentucky University, and Marshall University School of Medicine. He is completing a residency in family practice at Marshall University

After a wedding trip to Hawaii, the couple is residing in Huntington, W. Va.

EXTRA VALUE DAYS OUR LADY OF THE WAY HOSPITAL

Numerous changes and advances have affected health care since Our Lady of the Way Hospital was founded in 1947. Through the years, Our Lady of the Way Hospital has been flexible enough to adapt to changing needs in order to better serve this community.

Our latest adaptation is the expansion of our outpatient surgery area. Same-day surgery is now available in an environment designed for patient comfort and well-being with special emphasis on family-centered care.

Minor surgeries (such as the removal of skin lesions, circumcision, breast biopsies, cystoscopies and diagnostic laparoscopies) and procedures like bronchoscopies, endoscopies and chemotherapy are available on an outpatient basis.

General surgery is still offered on an inpatient basis for persons needing gall bladder, appendix, gastro-intestinal, hemorrhoidal, obstetrical, gynecological, hernia, oncological (cancer) and other surgeries.

Six physicians regularly perform procedures and surgeries in our surgical department.

Dr. Gan Maddiwar is a surgeon certified by the American Board of Surgery. He is a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons, the Royal College of Surgeons and the International College of Surgeons. His special interest in the prevention and treatment of cancer led to the creation of the Big Sandy Tumor Board and an ongoing involvement with the McDowell Cancer Network as a guest speaker on cancer prevention. Dr. Maddiwar is also a Medical Corps Officer and Lieutenant Colonel in the U.S. Army Reserve.

Dr. Singayao is a Fellow of the American Society of Abdominal Surgeons. His training in general surgery included a sub-specialty in vascular surgery. Thus, circulation problems are a special focus of his practice.

Dr. Chandra and Dr. Potnis perform obstetrical and gynecological procedures and surgeries. Dr. Sundaram, who specializes in chest diseases, uses bronchoscopy to diagnose and treat various lung diseases (like Black Lung and other work-related lung disabilities) and lung cancer. Dr. Goli also uses the facilities of our surgical center.

The surgical nurses who assist these doctors average more than 13 years experience each. Most have pursued college studies beyond their nursing degrees.

Flexibility has allowed Our Lady of the Way Hospital to update and expand its services while maintaining its 41-year-old tradition of quality, personalized, family-centered care.

Our Lady of the Way Hospital has renovated and expanded its outpatient surgery area to meet current demands for outpatient surgery.

The new center has been designed for patient comfort and well-being with a distinguishing emphasis on family-centered care.

The availability of same-day surgery minimizes the disruption of a patient's employment and home life for surgical procedures such as bronchoscopies, colonoscopies and gastroscopies as well as minor surgeries like the removal of skin lesions and moles, circumcision, breast biopsies, cystoscopies and diagnostic laparoscopies.

Five active staff physicians—Dr. Maddiwar, Dr. Singayao, Dr. Chandra, Dr. Potnis and Dr. Sundaram and one courtesy staff urologist, Dr. Goli, regularly perform procedures and/or surgeries in Our Lady of Way's outpatient surgical center. Their expertise is supported and enhanced by the assistance of our qualified, experienced surgical nursing team whose care extends

The bank began business on February 2, 1981, in one room of the law office of Walter S. Harkins; about April 1, 1892, it moved to a small building owned by A. J. Davidson, on Main Street; on June 9, 1907, it purchased the site at the corner of Court Street and Main Street, and immediately thereafter constructed thereon a modern bank building. This building was destroyed by fire (communicated from an adjoining building) on May 24, 1916; on the following morning the bank re-opened for business in the law office building of Walter S. Harkins, on the corner of Second and Court Streets, and continued its business there until its present building was completed on December 26, 1917. The first officers of the bank were Walter S. Harkins, President; John Finlayson, Vice-President, and A. J. Davidson, Cashier.

HE BANK JOSEPHINE was incorporated by special Act of the Kentucky Legislature, Chapter 255, Acts 1890, which Act became a law February 25, 1890. The term of its charter was for a period of twenty-five years, which in due time was extended for a further period of twenty-five years, and has now been extended for a further term of fifty years.

It was provided in the Act that the first Board of Directors should consist of Walter S. Harkins, John G. Johns, Frank A. Hopkins, A. J. Davidson, Hiram H. Fitzpatrick and John Finlayson. An election was held on August 16, 1890, at which time the same gentlemen were elected to the Board. P. D. Harmison was also an incorporator and was elected as a Director at the first

Woman's Club Sponsors Pageant

The Drift Woman's Club recently sponsored its first "Miss Autumn Beauty" pageant, drawing 40 contestants from the surrounding area.

The pageant consisted of beauty and photogenic categories with five age divisions. The contestants modeled gowns to the sound of music while being judged on appearance, attire, personality, projection, and modeling. Appearance comprised 40 percent of the judging, emphasizing beauty.

Judges for the evening represented Vogue of Lexington Model Agency and NAPS pageant system. Serving as auditors were Belinda Branham and Catherine Conn from the First Guaranty National Bank of Martin.

Entertainment at intermission was provided by nine young women modeling pageant gowns available for sale at Turner's Jewelry.

Wee Miss Autumn Beauty: Megan LaShae Ousley, runner-up; Sheena Brook Adams, winner of beauty, photogenic and prettiest dress.

Tiny Miss Autumn Beauty: Alexis Maldonado, runner-up; Amber Michele Conley, winner of beauty and prettiest dress; Courtney Beth Tackett, photogenic.

Little Miss Autumn Beauty: Shandrea Jo Pack, runner-up; Lora Chaffins, winner of beauty, photogenic and prettiest dress.

Junior Miss Autumn Beauty: Shelby Howell, runner-up; Tiana Slone, winner of beauty and prettiest dress; Courtney Cieslak, photogenic.

Miss Autumn Beauty: Tara Suzzane Slone, runner-up; Alicia Adams, winner; April Kidd, prettiest dress; Jill Stumbo, photogenic.

Beauty winners were presented with a large trophy, tiara banner, flowers, scepter and a gift ceretificate to Vogue of Lexington Model Agency. Photogenic and prettiest dress winners received trophies. All non-winning contestants who entered the beauty category were presented with participation trophies.

The Drift Woman's Club thanks those who made the pageant possible.

Martin Passion Pageant Displayed In Store Window

Jewel Hardware Store in Martin will have a display of pictures from the 1952 Martin Passion Pageant as part of Red, White and Blue festivities. The pageant, which was held on what is now Pageant Hill, set three records: it had the most scenes (52), the most characters, and had a record attendance at the first performance.

Griffith-Isaac Plan Ceremony

Mr. and Mrs. Cletis Griffith of Risner, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Vickie, to Mark E. Isaac, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kennith Ray Isaac of Wayland.

The wedding will be held Saturday, Oct. 15 at 5 p.m. at the Martin Branch Freewill Baptist Church in Estill. The gracious custom of open church will be observed.

Coleman Posted To West Germany

Army Pvt. Linda S. Coleman, granddaughter of Ollie R. Nunnery of Endicott, has arrived for duty in West Germany.

Coleman is an administrative specialist with the 3rd Air Defense Artillery.

She is a 1987 graduate of Prestonsburg High School. comes to the subject of his book with the authority and credentials of an expert. In the language of the layman and with the illustrations of many case studies, he offers practical skills, strategies and support for discussing important issues such as failing health, housing, financial and legal matters and family relations with an aging parent.

People over the age of 75 are the fastest growing (in terms of percentages) group of the population and as a result of this extended life span, middle-aged persons are finding themselves responsible for at least one of their parents. Being a nation composed of people who have strong ties and feelings of responsibilities to their relatives, we are increasingly involved in providing many types of assistance to them.

This book is not a guide for finding services but is a guide for all family members in handling important yet frequently difficult discussions with older relatives. It focuses on how to begin to discuss the feelings, thoughts, and concerns we have for our parents as they age. It has chapters on the different aspects of communicating with aging parents and issues facing the older person and their families. It discusses housing, death and dying, nursing homes and many other issues. Talking With Your Aging Parents brings a message of hope to all who care about the elderly people in their lives and gives the adult child a chance to help their parents get what they need, straighten out the past and ensure a better future.

name is paper. The paper that has is Coping With School Age Fatherhood. come to rule our modern lives can be master or servant depending on the person who must deal with it dispatching-advertisements, bills, records, correspondence, certificates, receipts, the kids school work-the list could go on for ever and someone has to do something with it.

If we are to remain sane and find anything again once it's been laid down, a paper management system is essential

Barbara Hemphill is an organizing consultant who has designed and implemented paper management systems for individuals, small companies and large corporations across the country. In this book she takes us by the hand through our piles of paper and teaches us the art of "waste basketry," sorting, lists, files and computer storage. In her own words, "An effective paper management system will help you control what you do with your time and energy and create an environment that is supportive of your plans and dreams." Make time to read this book and then attack your stacks of paper

Exploring Careers In ... This is a series of books which deal exclusively and exhaustively with a single career per title. The library presently has issues on accounting, the computer field, animal care, diatetics and nutrition, nursing, drafting and robotics. A very thorough series, it discusses each career, so that by the end of the second chapter readers know what the career consists of, its different qualities and if they are suited for it. The rest of the book will tell what one can expect in that field in opportunities, salary and future growth. Lists are provided of professional associations and schools that offer training in that field.

Exploring Careers is a very informative series that answers a number of questions about that most central of issue of "what are you going to be when you grow up?" Good reading for individuals entering new careers or those seeking a career change.

Coping With ... Sometimes it's hard to cope, and we need some help. The series Coping With is designed to help with problems that can happen to ordinary people in ever / day life situations. The library has numberous titles in this series: Coping with miscarriages, anger, cancer, chronic disease, date rape, family change, loneliness, sexual harassment, stress and sudden infant death to name just a few.

The latest edition to the coping series

It de-emphasizes the disaster of the situation and attempts to give the young father or father-to-be the courage and the advise to deal with the situation he has created.

Wake Up And Write, by William Manners. Not everyone wants to write, but many do-and more have to. Students must write compositions, secretaries must write letters and a large group of individuals have a story that they must write. Wake Up and Write is an inspirational book for all writers and would be writers. It is a book designed to inspire the writer who hasn't touched pen to paper yet and the writer who has started but who has given up before the end.

Manners, the former editor of Alfred Hitchcock's Mystery Magazine, is a practicing professional writer who knows about the woes that befall writers whose metaphoric pens run dry in mid-sentense. The book is intended for all who want to write but don't, who need to write but can't, or who write but don't write prolifically. Included is a long listing of places to get help and places to market a finished manuscript. A practical handbook that can get results

The Passionate Investor, by Madelon Talley. The secret of success in investing is the same as success in love-passion. According to Talley, 'Investors ... who do well year in and year out share one common attribute: passion." The desire to compete and win the treasure perpetually flames, quietly fueled by memories of their past successes

Before all this passion and flaming begins to sound like an X-rated novel, let me assure you that the author was vice president of Dreyfus, director of investment for the State of New York and since 1986, and the managing director of Rothschild, Inc. With all this experience behind her, she brings firsthand knowledge to her detailing of what it takes to become a passionate investor

The book details what it takes and how it works. Talley explains sophisticated investment approaches such as options, arbitrage, international investing, junk bonds, venture capital and much, much more. Get passionate and succeed on Wall Street. The Artificial Heart, by Melvin

nent, mechanical artificial heart and a new frontier was opened in the medical world. Since then, research and experiments have improved the medical wonder of an artificial heart for the millions of Americans who suffer from some defect, disease or damage to that vital organ. But it has also seen in the rise of many ethical debates

Heavily illustrated, the history of artificial hearts and heart transplants is seen through the patients and their doctors. There is Barney Clark, Baby Fae, Dr. Christiaan Barnard, Mary Lund, William Schroeder and many diagrams and actual picture of the operation. Berger's book examines all the aspects of heart transplants and replacements. It presents the ethical quests arising from the operation and it offers suggestions for further reading on this important issue of our times.

Otherworld Journeys, by Carol Zaleski. On the televised 20/20 show audiences listened to Tom Sawyer tell of his near death experiences as he lay crushed under the weight of his truck. In the History of the Franks, there's a retelling of a sixth-century holy man who came back to life to serve the Church, in the epic of Gilgamesh, Enkidu dreams of being carried off by a dark being and it goes on and on. In nearly all cultures, people have told stories of travel to another world, in which a hero, shaman, prophet, king or ordinary mortal passes through the gates of death and returns with a message for the living. In the past decade there has been an explosion of interest in "near-death experiences." Dozens of books, articles and television shows have exploited the theme.

This book is the most comprehensive treatment to date of the evidence surrounding near death experiences. Zaleski looks at researcher's findings, first person accounts of survivors, and possible medical or psychological explanations. She considers current efforts to explain the experience and concludes by suggesting the "the otherworld vision is a key for understanding imaginative and religious experience..." A book for thought and wonder.

Presbyterians Look Back At Their Future

The First Presbyterian Church Prestonsburg celebrated its past, present and future recently with a Rally Day.

This annual Kick-off for the Sunday School year and youth groups was made unforgettable by a display of hundreds of photos and historical items contributed by church members and coordinated by Sue Martin.

The memorabilia depicted the church's early history, its recent programs (Sunday School, youth activities, Vacation Bible School and dinners, and a model of the new wing planned to expand the Sunday School and fellowship areas. Photos of the youngest members of the congregation, symbolizing the church's future, also highligted the exhibit.

The celebration began with an oldtime breakfast of biscuits and gravy, fried apples, hash browns and eggs, and was hosted by the deacons of the church. During the breakfast, Freddie Goble and his daughter, Robyn Conley, led the singing of old-time hymns and Sunday School songs.

After the breakfast, church members adjourned to the exhibit area where they shared stories about the early days of the church. Many direct descendants of the founders of the congregation are still active, and the photos they contributed allowed a glimpse of the first church building and some of its earliest members.

The First Presbyterian Church of Prestonsburg was organized in the home of John W. Layne in the Bonanza Hotel on Dec. 31, 1899. Earliest members included John W. and Angeline Layne and their sons and daughters in law, William Henry and Elizabeth Hopkins Layne and John E. and Emily Bolling Layne and their daughter, Annie (later Mrs. Joe M. Davidson.)

Other people associated with the early congregations were Mary Davidson Allen, Grace D. Ford, Myrtie Friend Weddington, the Mellons, Grace Marrs, Edith Fitzpatrick James, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Beavers, Byrd Beavers Goble, Minnie Blevins, O.P. Powers, George W. Gardner, R. H. Leete and Ruth Davidson Sowards.

The original church building still stands on South Central Avenue. It was not only used by the Presbyterian Church, but was also purchased by the Catholic church in 1964 until the Water Gap Freewill Baptist Church members bought the building. The building, constructed in 1902 from brick made on the site, is one of the older buildings still in use in Prestonsburg.

In 1962, the church was relocated to its present site on US 23 across from the Community College.

Ground for the present building was broken on May 23, 1965. Ruth Davidson Sowards, a granddaughter of one of the organizers of the church and the member with the longest continuous service, turned the first shovelful of dirt. Dedication services for the building took place June 5, 1966.

The First Presbyterian Church will celebrate its 90th year in 1989, coinciding with the Presbyterian Church USA's celebration of the 200th year of its general assembly. The Rally Day celebration highlighted the theme, "Celebrate the Journey," adopted by the national church for this bicentenmial

TIME OUT

Baseball dominates sports action on the networks

By Jerry Jorgensen

Tabernacle

Baseball dominates the televised sports world this week as the playoffs wind down and the World Series participants are decided.

ABC will continue to cover both the National League and American League championship series' as long as necessary this week. NBC will take over for the World Series when it begins Saturday, Oct. 15.

An interesting sidelight to NBC's coverage will be that for the first time ever, the fall classic will be broadcast in the People's Republic of China, which translates into anywhere from 60 to 80 million more viewers.

The Shanghai Television

Network and other major provincial stations will cover the series on a delayed basis. Play-by-play and analysis provided by NBC announcers Vin Scully and Joe Garagiola will be dubbed into Mandarin Chinese. Baseball has been popular in the Far East for many years, particularly in Taiwan and Japan, and was a demonstration sport at the 1988 Summer Olympics in Seoul, South Korea. The breakthrough into China is seen as just another step in the process that will someday have almost every country in the world booing umpires and doing the wave.

Alumni honor unique comedy club By Steven Alan McGaw

Thirteen is not always an unlucky number. Not for the producers of the Friday the 13th slasher movie series. Not if it's a record's place in the Top 40. And Thursday, Oct. 13, is definitely a lucky day for comedy fans; that's the day NBC steps up with The Comedy Store 15th Year Class Reunion.

Performers in the 90minute special include Robin Williams, David Letterman, Richard Prvor. Louie Anderson and Arsenio Hall. Garry Shandling will appear in taped segments detailing the history of the famed Los Angeles comedy venue. The show itself is culled from a four-hour affair (what are we missing?) staged recently at the Universal Amphitheatre in Hollywood.

Since 1973, The Comedy Store has been literally the "big break" for aspiring stand-up comics, and a warm, safe haven for established stars returning to hone new material and ideas. The Comedy Store has been instrumental in destroying the dictum that comics, usually Jewish, invariably hail from New York City.

Stand-up has gained new found respect, both within the business and with audiences. Women have assumed a dynamic place in both performing and widening the art's topical parameters, in large part, thanks to the Store. Most importantly, aspiring comics across the nation have known that there was a place to go, a nurturing place that offered an alternative to seedy venues and even seedier promoters and managers. It also provided a place to learn.

Such a place doesn't just happen, of course. One woman's vision is responsible, a vision that carried her past obstacles and prejudices to establish her dream. That

woman is Mitzi Shore

How did it all start? "I was married to a stand-up at the time and I loved the business (But) 1 felt that it didn't have the proper respectability in show business ... that's really what the Store is all about; respect for stand-up comics." says Shore,

She also evidently saw her favorite medium as something close to a dving art, a fact that was another stumbling block once the Store was a reality. "It wasn't happening those daysin *72, *73—for stand-ups, not at all," she said. "When we started, there just weren't that many (performers), Shore recalls that she could usually feature only five or six comics a night in the original 99-seat room. "Now," she says proudly, "we feature 45 performers a night, just in our Sunset Boulevard location." (There are three Stores in all.)

Clearly, it's the opportunity to develop young comedic talent that most excites Shore. "It's really a college," she says of the Store. "It takes a comedian as long as it takes a brain surgeon to learn his craft. And, of course, you never stop learning, creating new material, new ideas." Shore emphasized that a pre-requisite to perform at the Store is that comics must perform their own material It makes them honest, it keeps the art form pure.

NBC and CBS' roster this week will definitely counterbalance ABC's coverage of the American and National League baseball playoffs.

First up for NBC is its premiere of The Magical World of Disney series on Sunday. Then on Monday, Meredith Baxter-Birney plays a retarded girl who wants to live a normal life in Winnie. On Wednesday, celebrity women openly discuss their survival of breast cancer in Destined to Live: One Hundred Roads to Recovery. On Thursday, comedians return to home plate in The Comedy Store 15th Year Class Reunion.

Batting for CBS will be a depiction of the life of classical pianist Liberace on Sunday; The 22nd Annual Country Music Awards on Monday; Outback Bound on Tuesday: and a conflict between Indians and the White Man in Red Earth, White Earth on Thursday.
