Educators Protest Pay Level

By Anne Chaney Editor

In an historic show of widespread solidarity among teachers in Floyd County, more than 70 percent of the district's classroom instructors failed to report for work Thursday, resulting in closure of some schools.

The Floyd County Board of Education, on the heels of Thursday's sickout, held a special meeting Friday and approved a policy to make all personnel in the district subject to disciplinary action for "any disruption of operation of the Floyd County Board of Education or unexcused absences.

Board members voted unanimously to approve the measure, which was recommended by Superintendent Ronald Hager.

Educators, under the umbrella of the Floyd County Education Association, agreed to the sick out after meeting with the board Wednesday night.

FCEA representatives had requested that educators' salaries be indexed at the same rate as administrative personnel.

(Currently, only principals) salaries are indexed. A committee to review all salaries in the district, including those of central office personnel, was created nearly two years ago, according to Hager. Although the committee has never officially met, Hager said, members have received 10 to 12 written proposals for their consideration. No official action has been taken.)

The board and FCEA representatives went into executive session shortly after Wednesday's meeting began. During the closed session, Ernie Johnson, FCEA spokesman, at Wednesday's meeting, read a statement to the 350 educators at the meeting. Johnson said his remarks mirrored those FCEA representatives were voicing in the meeting with the board.

Johnson pointed out that in some instances, children of Floyd County teachers qualify for reduced meal plans because of teachers' pay.

'In Floyd County, teachers should not have to aspire to be an administrator to make a decent living. Floyd County traditionally has had low salaries, and it is also difficult to encourage new teachers to stay in the area," he said.

After nearly two and a half hours in closed session, the board returned.

Hager told the standing audience that the board was "committed to indexing a salary schedule for teachers," and that a "blue-ribbon" panel would be appointed to review the issue

Hager said the committee would include representatives of the board, elected county officials, members of the Floyd County Education Association, Floyd County Education Forum, civic organizations, businesses and clergy

Hager said the committee would be appointed and meet within the next two weeks.

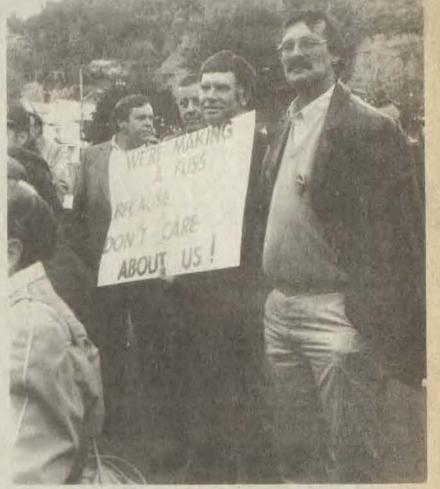

On a motion by James "Arville" Duff, seconded by Fred Newsome, the board voted unanimously to form the committee

Following the vote, Hager, reading from a typed statement, told the audience, "In recent years, this district has been torn apart. . . . The past few years have not been proud years for the teachers of Floyd County, for the students, and for the citizens.

Hager said he was not responsible for the past problems the district had encountered, and said he envisioned a time when the district would "no longer be in the headlines as academically bankrupt, but as a good district."

Hager also said that Dr. James D. Adams, board chairman, and an additional board member would meet

Educators Rally For Increased Pay

Far more than 100 educators gathered in Prestonsburg's Municipal Parking Lot Wednesday to hear representatives of the Floyd County Education Association and Kentucky Education Association address concerns about salaries in the district. From the parking lot, they marched to the school district's administrative offices to meet with the board.

Patton May Be Fired By Board Charging that Floyd County School

Superintendent of Transportation Ed Patton was insubordinate and in neglect of his duty, district superintendent Ronald Hager recommended Friday that Patton's contract be terminated.

In a letter to Patton, who has been transportation supervisor for the past five years, Hager ordered him to appear at Friday's meeting.

"The reason I am requesting your presence at this meeting is to discuss your actions regarding transportation of students on the morning of Oct. 13, 1988, and not complying with your adopted job description," read the letter

Patton and his attorney, Ned Pillersdorf of Prestonsburg, attended Friday's specially-called meeting.

Patton said he felt Hager's recommendation stemmed from his handling of student transportation during Thursday's "sick out" by teachers, and from his support of Ricky Hamilton, a candidate for the upcoming school board race.

Patton said that on Thursday morning, those in charge at Martin and Osborne elementary school called him and said not enough teachers would be available to conduct school.

Patton said that about 6 a.m. Thursday, he called local radio stations and asked that a school closure announcement be broadcast. He said he also obtained Hager's home telephone number and called him.

Patton said Hager told him it was illegal to close schools due to the sick out

Patton said he realized early Thursday that the sick out would be a county-wide problem, prompting his call.

maintains that in the past, he has had the authority to announce school closings - generally due to water or power outages or inclement weather.

five years, and no one has ever given me anything in writing that I should be doing anything different," said Patton. He added that he has also never received oral instructions to act otherwise.

In Pillersdorf's letter to Hager regarding Friday's meeting. Pillersdorf noted that Patton "is unaware of the grounds being asserted against him. He simply has no notice of what he supposedly did wrong, and has no notice of what penalty is proposed against him. . .

The only apparent explanation that Mr. Patton has found for the letter he received from you is that his outspoken support of a candidate for school board has drawn the wrath of a school board member. Please be advised that Mr. Patton will not allow himself to be falsely accused of any misconduct, in an attempt to intimidate him from speaking out on issues of public concern.'

Hager's recommendation to terminate Patton's employment was entered into board minutes, but was not acted upon. The board did vote to hold a due process hearing Wednesday, Oct. 26, at 7 p.m. in at the board offices in Prestonsburg.

Board member James "Arville" Duff made the motion, with Dr. Mary Hall seconding. The sole vote against holding the hearing was made by Ray "Shag" Campbell.

Precinct Officers' Appointments Late

The State Election Commission's deadline to have county precinct officers appointed was in September, but the Floyd County Board of Elections has yet to make its appointments.

At the last election board meeting Oct. 12, not all of the precinct officers were selected, according to County Court Clerk Carla Bolton.

The Democratic and Republican county party committees were supposed to have selected and notified the potential precinct officers and have them sign a form for the election board's approval and attend a training school, but that had not been completed

Attorney General Fred Cowan said that they could select the precinct officers and then have them sign the form when they attend the Election Officers Training School, she said.

Bolton said that at the meeting, the Democratic election commissioner, David Layne, introduced a motion say ing they did not want to select officers until they had signed the form; the Republican election commissioner, Curt Hall, seconded the motion.

Bolton, who opposed the motion, was the only other board member in attendance, so the motion was passed.

According to Bolton, all the precinct

The City of Wheelwright will apply for an Appalachian Regional Commission grant to help fund the construction of a waste water treatment plant, according to a resolution passed at the Wheelwright City Council meeting Saturday.

The city has applied to three sources to fund the $1,011,000 plant. They have applied for a Farmers Home Administration loan of $300,000, a Community Development Block Grant of $511,000 and the ARC grant of $200,000, according to Mary Ann Johnson, Wheelwright city clerk.

School Board Candidates Support Union Recognition

Four school board candidates said Saturday that, if elected, they would introduce a motion to the Floyd County Board of Education recognizing Local 783 of the Teamsters union.

The comments were made during a forum sponsored by the union.

About 50 Floyd school system noncertified personnel who are members of Local 783 met with the candidates Saturday at Archer Park.

The school personnel are affiliated with the union, but the union is not recognized by the Floyd County Board of Education, pending a court decision, according to Jerry Vincent, secretary/treasurer of Local 783.

The meeting was held so that the candidates "could speak to us and allow us to speak to them to clear up rumors," said Ron Abshire, business agent for Local 783. "The best way to do that is to ask questions face to face."

A similar meeting was recently held by Pike County school personnel who are Local 783 members, he said.

School board candidates Ricky Roberts, Brent Clark, Paul Branham and Roger Jones came to the meeting to speak, and each pledged support for the non-certified personnel and the union.

"The teachers-who are certifiedare underpaid, but non-certified people are grossly underpaid," said Dr. Brent Clark, District 3 school board candidate.

"This is a great opportunity to put new school board members in and for the school board members to get a new direction," Vincent said.

District 5 candidate Roger Jones told the group that his first concern was for the children, but his second concern first reading on two related ordinances. The first will amend an existing ordinace to provide for the issuance of $135,000 in revenue bonds to extend the community's water system.

The second ordinance will amend the water rates for the system to compensate for the new revenue bonds.

The council also briefly went into executive session, but no action was taken

A special meeting was called for tonight at 7 p.m, to have second reading on the water system ordinances.

was for the non-certified personnel. "I want to see you all get your union in." Jones said.

School Telephones 'Rang Off The Wall' Thursday

Telephones at virtually all Floyd County schools "rang off the wall" Thursday, as parents contacted school officials to find out whether school would be in session in light of a "sick out" staged by more than 355 educators.

At Auxier, with a staff of 12, 10 teachers reported for work and, according to school officials, the absence of the other two "didn't affect us in the least.

At Betsy Layne Elementary. however, students were sent home after only one of the school's 20-plus support or opposition to the classroom teachers reported for work

"We didn't have any plans for this type of emergency, and didn't have enough supervisors, we sent the children home," said principal Enoch Mitchell. The school has an enrollment of approximately 500 students. The children were sent home on buses, or picked up by their parents throughout the morning.

"The phone is worn out," added Mitchell, who said he could not offer 'even a ball park figure'' as to how many parents had called.

Mitchell said few parents voiced educators' sick out, and that he had received only one negative comment.

A spokesperson at Drift Elementary School said that while only two teachers reported for work. substitutes were available and the children were kept in classes all day.

At Martin Elementary, principal William Hughes said that only one of 28 teachers reported for work.

'We kept some of the children, and let parents come and get the rest," he said. He and his wife, as well as two substitute teachers and two aides, supervised the children. Students worked on math sheets and watched television during the course of the day, said Hughes.

Adrian Bentley, principal at Betsy Layne High School, said that students were in attendance there, and a full school day was held. He declined to comment further.

At Allen Elementary, three of 21 educators reported for work. Principal Daniel Branson said all students had been sent home by 9:30 a.m. - some on buses, while others were picked up by their parents.

"We closed school for safety reasons," said Branson. "All but two of the teachers had called me at home by midnight (Wednesday). You couldn't buy a substitute teacher last

A Floyd County Education Association representative attending the meeting told the group that FCEA supports the non-certified staff and their concerns

Everyone "needs to stick together and put aside little differences," F.C.E.A. Representative Eugene Blackburn said. He added that it was "the right time to make a change in Floyd County.

Vincent told the group how the Teamsters union works in a school system, using the example of the Jefferson County school system.

He also said that a no-strike clause night.

Branson said the school's telephones had been ringing "nonstop," and said some parents probably thought the phones were off the hook

Of those who were able to get through, Branson said, most expressed no opinion of the teachers' actions. "They just sort of shrugged their shoulders. Most of them are from mining backgrounds, and they view it as a strike." he said.

At Clark Elementary, three of 28 educators reported for work. School was in session all day, although parents were allowed to pick their children up if they chose. Principal Irene Goble said the school did not received many phone calls.

At Maytown Elementary, a spokesperson said that four of 15 regular classroom teachers reported for work. About 50 or 60 phone calls were received. The children were kept in school. As of mid-afternoon, 30 of 274 students remained at the school; the enrollment at the beginning of the morning was about 155.

At Prestonsburg High School, the majority of the teachers reported for work, and regular classes were held. The school received a number of telephone calls from parents checking to see if school was in session.

School was also held at Allen Central High School, according to principal Donnie Daniels, who said seven of 34 staff members reported for work. Parents were allowed to pick up their children throughout the day.

Other schools in the county could not be reached because telephone lines were busy, or were not answered.

Play Day Floyd County students got a little extra play time Thursday during the teacher "sick out."

Education Association States Position

The Floyd County Education Association has retained Prestonsburg attorney Ned Pillersdorf to represent its interests in discussions with the county's school board concerning salary increases for educators.

According to Roberta Luxmore, FCEA president, FCEA members are seeking higher salaries and better working conditions.

"We are not alone in this struggle." said Luxmore. "Support and encouragement have been received from our colleagues in other Eastern Kentucky school systems, as well as all over the state.

Additionally, she said, FCEA has the support of the Kentucky Education Association and the National Education Association.

Luxmore said FCEA members wanted to assure Floyd County residents that while the group pursues its goals, teachers will be in classrooms "delivering the best possible instructional program to our students."

Luxmore added that FCEA has not closed lines of communication with the local board, and representatives are available to meet with the board at any time.

A meeting open to the general membership of FCEA will be held to day (Wednesday); the date and location had not been announced as of presstime

"I realize that this has not put any money into your pocketbooks." Hager told the educators, "but I am not in favor of a higher property tax."

FCEA officials said that during the closed session, board members would not commit themselves to specific figures concerning possible pay increases for educators. A utility tax could be included in the union contract with school board so there would "be a door open for somebody to do something.

At the teacher's rally Wednesday, Abshire said that he saw a totem pole with the teacher lying on his back at the bottom, and he said he told the teachers "you're lying on your back and you feel that lump-that's noncer-tified people you feel."

New Police Partners

Prestonsburg Rotarians Carla Bolton and Ron LeMaster, Trooper Ken Frost and Rotary President Greg Crum are with the Prestonsburg and Kentucky State Police forces newest partners, teddy bears, which will comfort children involved in traumatic situations.

KSP, Prestonsburg Police Dept. Get New 'Partners' From Club

The Prestonsburg Police Department and Post 9 of the Kentucky State Police have new partners patrolling with them — teddy bears.

The teddy bears, will be used to comfort frightened cildren involved in traumatic situations, according to Rotary Club President Greg Crum.

"I think it's great," Trooper Ken Frost, public affairs officer for the Pikeville KSP, said of the program. Quite often when young people are involved in an accident or violent crime, it is hard for them to cope, Frost said. They can relate to a teddy bear because, unfortunately, they have been warned that the police are bad and they are afraid to talk to them.

A child will grab hold of the bear and start talking to it and by asking questions of the child through the teddy bear the officer can get answers he or she might not otherwise get, Crum said.

Each police cruiser will have two bears for situations where children are involved, he said. "The idea was originated by a Naples, Fla. Rotary Club, and we thought it was needed in the area," Crum said.

Parents Support Teachers' Action

Dear Editor,

As parents, we want to state our support for the teachers of Floyd County. These men and women have given our children the best they have to give under painfully unsupportive conditions such as low pay, over-crowded and under-supplied classrooms, lack of communication and support from administration, and little input into policies that shape their professional lives

At this time, we hope that everyone involved in the education of the children of Floyd County will focus on the real issues of equity and planning instead of getting sidetracked by accusations of disruption and discipline. We hope all segments of our community will work to make our school system the best in Eastern Kentucky. Sincerely

JEAN AND JOHN ROSENBERG. Middlecreek

Readers Support Solid Waste Effort

Dear Editor,

A tip of the hat to the Floyd County Solid Waste Program!

Our pride is picking up! It has taken a decade, but we can see a marked decrease in the amount of garbage and litter that used to cover our county like a plague.

One major area of neglect that needs to be specifically addressed is the elec-tion posters and campaign materials along our public roadways.

We hope that all our candidates will, as a part of their public pride, make arrangements to collect their posters and signs after the Nov. 8 election.

Go vote! Working together is the only way

Reader Wants To Continue Enjoying Property

Reader Likens Desk Removal To Deed Use Dear Editor,

Imagine owning an antique desk which had belonged to your grandfather. The desk is now located in the back room of the old homeplace where you live. A man arrives bearing a document with typed names (no signatures) of your grandparents and claims title to the desk. You question the absence of signatures and he tells you that the courts accept such documents as proof of ownership because they are on file at the county courthouse.

He tells you it is too much trouble to remove the desk through all those doorways from the back room to the front entrance, and directs the movers to rip out a wall of the back room. When you protest, he tells you the Kentucky Supreme Court has declared that if the desk was sold, he has the right to remove it any way he deems convenient. He drives off with the desk, leaving a large hole in your house. The next day you call him about repairing the damage, and he tells you the court has also held that he is not liable for any damages.

Does this sound fictional?

This is identical to what happened to my family when a coal company decided to remove coal from beneath our property. The company took the property it claimed it owned (using a deed with only typed names in the place of signatures) without even notifying us that it would be strip mining our land. Our timber and topsoil was ripped up and our land was left in ruin.

Many citizens have banded together to halt coal operators who strip mine using so-called broad form mineral deeds. We're just asking that our land not be destroyed against our wishes. People in Floyd County and across Kentucky can help by voting yes on constitutional amendment No. 2 on the Nov. 8 ballot.

Ky. Coalition For Homeless Endorses CA 2

Dear Editor,

The Kentucky Coalition for the Homeless endorses a "yes" vote on amendment No. 2 to protect the homes surface citizens, especially in the rural areas of eastern Kentucky Fifty to 100 years ago, many landowners in coal and mineral-rich areas of the country were offered a few cents or maybe even a $1 per acre to sign a deed for the coal and other minerals on their land. These broad form deeds of long ago were signed when the presumption was the landowners still had the right to build homes, plant their fields and raise livestock on the surface while the mining company got the right to take the minerals by deep-mining. In the 1950s, new technologies and machinery were developed which made strip mining cheaper and more profitable. Now, landowners whose ancestors who signed the broad form deed no longer have a legal right to their own surface property. Their homes and crops are no longer safe as the bulldozers move their surface land, destroying access roads, crops, pastures, streams and outbuildings, even mining up to 300 feet of their homes All mining states with broad form deeds have set limits on surface mining. It's time Kentucky should do the same. Vote yes on amendment No. 2 this November MICHELLE BUDZEK Co-Chair JOHN KREITLER Co-Chair without the permission of the surface owner, and with no obligation to pay for the damages. Coal companies now have control of land that, according to the contracts signed 75 to 100 years ago, clearly belongs to someone else. But the surface owner is still required to pay the property taxes on the land!

When businesses look at Kentucky as a possible location, what are they go-

By voting yes on amendment No. 2, the voters will assure that, in the future, coal companies will have to obtain the legal consent of the land owner to allow strip mining for minerals on one's property. Are you aware that presently this is not the case?

By voting yes, we can correct the abuses and cruel injustices of broad form deeds. These deeds are present-

Dear Editor

I'm really scared. After working more than 40 years for the U.S. Postal Service, I just retired. All my life, I looked forward to the day that I could sit back and enjoy my family and my neighbors. I dreamed about spending more time outdoors, walking in the hills above my home. I thought that nobody could take the wild flowers, trees, animals and other joys of nature from me-until I learned about what coal companies were doing with the broad form deed.

In short, a coal company could come on my land and on my neighbors' land without our permission, tear it up, take out the coal, and not have to pay us one cent. My dreams of a nice retirement would be shattered.

But there is one way that you can help me realize my dream. It's easy. Just go to the polling place on Nov. 8 and cast a yes vote on constitutional amendment No. 2. Amendment No. 2 would mean that the coal companies would have to ask my permission before they strip my land. Surely, you can understand that I don't want that to happen-the wild flowers, trees, animals and other joys of nature mean too much to me

Broad Form Deeds Shouldn't Be Honored Dear Editor,

There are some coal companies trying to convince us that the old-time broad form deeds should still be honored. These companies just want to rip up Kentucky and leave nothing behind after they take all the coal away

I have read one of these broad form deeds. They say the coal company can destroy your water. They say the coal company can tear up your land. They say the coal company can dig up the graves of your family members. And do all this and not pay you one penny. The coal companies will try to tell you that the broad form deed is good for Kentucky, but all it is good for is to pad the pocketbook of the big coal men while the people who live here get nothing

I'm going to help change that. I'm going to vote yes on amendment 2 on Nov. 8. We don't need our land tore up and not get anything out of it. The landowner ought to have some rights. Everybody should vote yes for amendment 2

MARY JANE BLEVINS Warfield

Courts Should Have Right To Change Contract Dear Editor,

Should the Kentucky courts have the right to change valid contracts signed between landowners and coal companies? I think they should not, and that's why I'm voting yes for constitutional amendment No. 2 on Nov. 8.

In 1956, in a ruling that still governs today, the courts decided to change the meaning of the broad form deed, a type of contract used around the turn of the century in Eastern Kentucky to separate the ownership of the surface land from the ownership of the minerals below. It is quite clear from reading these deeds that the landowner kept ownership of the surface while the mining interest got ownership of the coal. The surface owner kept paying taxes on the land while the mining company was supposed to pay taxes on the coal. But the 1956 ruling gave the mining companies effective ownership of both the surface land and the minerals. The courts gave coal companies the right to strip mine and destroy the land ing to think when they see the state's courts meddling with valid contract rights? If we vote YES on constitutional amendment No. 2, then we can restore the original intention of the parties that signed the broad form deeds-that the people own their land and the coal companies own the minerals Please join me in voting yes for amendment No. 2 on Nov. 8.

Reader Commends Floyd Teachers' Group

Dear Editor,

I wish to commend the Floyd County Education Association for its full page advertisement in the September 28th issue. Everything printed was true-I have a daughter-in-law who is a teacher in the Floyd County school system-and she has talked to me repeatedly about the things mentioned, but, like Rodney Dangerfield, teachers get no respect.

I also read the administrative salaries and believe me I was never so shocked and surprised in my life-is there any reason why the teachers are complaining? (As are the cooks, bus drivers and custodians).

I would like to see a better article in the future, therefore I'll overlook your misunderstanding in the SADD article. AMY PAYNE Wheelwright

Employer Seminar

About 170 employers attended seminars sponsored by the Department of Employment Services Thursday at the Holiday Inn. Speaker Everett Greer told the group how to prepare unemployment insurance financial reports.

State Unveils New Tourism Campaign

Governor Wallace G. Wilkinson and Tourism Secretary Mary Ray Oaken today gave the state its first look at the new $1.5 million advertising campaign developed by Doe-Anderson advertising, Louisville Citing tourism as "big business for Kentucky," the Governor unveiled the new theme, "The Uncommon Wealth of Kentucky," and an original piece of art which will be used to launch the new campaign. The illustration highlights elements of Kentucky's natural beauty and scenery including mountains, rivers and lakes, as well as attractions from all over the state. The illustration will be featured in ads, newspaper inserts, and as a poster.

"We're excited about this campaign," the Governor said. "We're on the right track with an increased budget, up $1 million from last year, and we've designed a campaign in which local communities and tourism regions can participate, making this truly a state-wide campaign.

Oaken said the campaign will focus on the unexpected and unique things that Kentucky has to offer. "Research shows that the image of Kentucky as a spot for horses and great fishing is already firmly in place in the minds of travelers," she said. "We want to build on that image and show the other things that make Kentucky different and unusual."

According to Oaken, the strength of the campaign is in the risks it takes. "The campaign has a very innovative look and is based on a new marketing strategy," she said. "Research tells us that tourism is changing and we have to change with it." Oaken said that today's two-income family travels differently, going on shorter, but more frequent, three or four day vacations rather than the traditional two week vacation. "We're responding to this and are aggressively going after this important new market," she said.

The campaign will also allow Kentucky communities to market themselves as part of regions that match traveling patterns, the Governor said. 'Tourists don't care about county lines," he said. "They want plenty of activities, and attractions and a good selection of accommodations and services. As regions, we can provide all they expect and this approach will be helpful for our smaller, more rural communities which haven't had the opportunity or budget to compete for these visitors."

Oaken said that the print ads and broadcast commercials will begin in late winter and will be geared to families with children, to younger couples without children, and older 'empty-nest' couples whose children are grown, and to special interest groups such as anglers and hikers. You'll see us use an exciting insert in newspapers that will also be complimented by an insert available to the nine tourism regions as well, "she said, adding that the regions can use the matching funds program to subsidize the insert with the state paying 80 percent of the insert piece costs, matched by 20 percent from the region.

Kentucky Affiliate Of American Heart Association Recognizes Nursing Home

The Kentucky Affiliate of the American Heart Association recently recognized Riverview Manor in Prestonsburg for its outstanding achievements as a fundraiser.

Coordinated by Theresia Harris, the facility's Rock 'N Roll Jamboree event raised $500 to benefit the AHA's research, community service, and educational programs.

Rock 'N Roll Jamboree began about 10 years ago as a fundraising event which had nursing home residents rocking in rocking chairs and rolling in wheel chairs to benefit AHA. The event has developed into a fun project for nursing home residents and staff which can include such activities as potluck dinners, kissing booths, and pie-in-theface contests.

'We appreciate the fundraising efforts of facilities like Riverview Manor more than they can know," said Marc Commack, Chairman of the Board, "It is thanks to programs like these that we can make real progress in the fight against America's number one killer.

Annual Community Mental Health Picnic Draws Crowd Of Over 500

The Annual Community Mental Health/Eastern State Hospital Picnic was held on Wednesday, Sept. 21, at the Picnic area near Dewey Dam, Jenny Wiley State Park.

Since 1987, the picnic has been held to honor the memory of Shirley Hughes, who was a long-time employee in the Community Mental Health field and was responsible for planning the picnic until her death in October 1986.

Over 500 people attended the picnic and were served a meal of fried chicken, hot dogs, potato salad, cole slaw, green beans, corn and various desserts. The food and beverage were provided by Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, Eastern State Hospital and tocal churches, including Highland

Floyd Chamber Seeks Beginning Of Construction

The Floyd County Chamber of Commerce is actively supporting a proposal asking the state to proceed with in-county construction of US 23 between Paintsville and Prestonsburg.

According to Thomas Hereford III. chamber president, the organization has had a limited number of bumper stickers reading "US 23 to 3 Now" printed, and is distributing them locally.

Hereford said the Chamber is asking that construction begin soon from Prestonsburg to East Point at the Johnson County line.

Construction delay apparently stems, at least in part, from disagreement among Johnson County officials as to whether or not the road should be routed through Paintsville.

Scott Attends FB Meeting

Republican Will Scott, left, took part in a Farm Bureau Measure the Candidates program last week in Paintsville. Above, he visits with Kentucky Farm Bureau Director Marshall Coyle, of Bath County, and David Beck, KFB governmental affairs director. Scott heard several Farm Bureau leaders from Eastern Kentucky discuss the organization's policies on key national issues. Scott's opponent, Rep. Carl C. As our faith in Christ grows, we will 🔎 feel the need to repent of our sins. To 🌢 repent, we must feel sincere sorrow that we have sinned and ask God to forgive us. Family Abuse Center Offers Help To Victims

(Editor's Note: Following is the second of a four-part series concerning spouse abuse and domestic violence in the Big Sandy area.)

The Big Sandy Family Abuse Center offers a number of services to its clients - often as soon as, or even before, clients arrive.

According to Gay Amburgey. center official, the center's staff begins determining a woman's immediate needs as soon as the shelter is contacted.

That can often mean something as simple as a roof over one's head or a meal.

"Our clients sometimes have nowhere to go - they can't simply walk out with nowhere to go for help,' said Amburgey. She believes that the most important things the staff can address, at first, are safety and shelter.

The center serves Pike, Floyd, Magoffin, Martin and Johnson counties. Its location is kept strictly conother contacts.

"We prove a safe and secure shelter," explains Amburgey. "We have a confidential location, security, an alarm in the building and constant surveillance by law enforcement individuals.

The center normally accommodates 18 to 25 people, with limited additional space available when necessary.

'Most of our clients are very happy to have these accommodations, but we' do need more space," Amburgey concedes

Children are allowed to stay with their mothers at the shelter, although boys 15 and older are referred to safe homes in the area

The center offers an around-theclock crisis line, available by calling 886-6025.

"When we receive a call, we immediately determine if it is a crisis situation. We will call the State Police to the home, or help the woman to get fidential, as are any calls, stays or to the shelter safely - at that moment," says Amburgey.

'We are there 24 hours a day... . A woman could be getting hit, battered or shot at - which we've had before. Children may also be getting hit. There is no set definition to a crisis, or what will be going on a a violent home when a woman calls," Amburgey relates.

She adds that the staff has had to call the State Police many times to get a woman safely out of the home and to the shelter.

lives - the woman's, as well as her

Among the services the center offers are medical and legal referrals for the woman and her children. As soon as the woman arrives, if she or her children have suffered physical abuse, they are taken to the appropriate local physician or hospital. Amburgey notes that the shelter will pay for the services if the woman has no medical insurance, and will also pay for medication.

Women are also referred to legal aid, depending their county of residence, for divorce proceedings or other types of on-going legal problems for her or her children.

'The legal aide people that we work with are wonderful." says Amburgey. "They always deal with our clients as fast as they possibly can."

Amburgey notes that many women experience problems with harassment or have visitation problems after divorce, or encounter difficulty in receiving child support payments.

"Legal aid can give advice to them on a continuing basis," explains Amburgey. "We also call them with legal problems that we have. They've proven very beneficial to us and our clients.

The shelter makes referrals to social services agencies for all women who are financially eligible. Amburgey says that while many women are employed, others may be able to obtain AFDC or food stamp benefits.

Individual counseling is also available for women and their children. A psychologist is on staff to work with children individually and in groups. In addition, staff members are trained to deal with crisis situations and trauma of victims of spouse abuse.

Family and marriage counseling referrals are also available, says Amburgey

"A lot of our clients - mothers and children - while in the shelter, will attend counseling sessions at Mountain Comprehensive Care on a continuing basis, often even after leaving the shelter," says Amburgey.

If requested by clients, marriage counseling can be arranged.

The center also offers a 24-hour-aday, seven-day-a-week crisis line, year-round. It's number is 886-6025. Amburgey also lists public education among the center's services. "All children of school age attend school while in the shelter," she explains. "All women who wish to continue their educations can. We have a teacher available to visit weekly providing information and teaching GED programs.

As a result, she adds, seven clients earned their GEDs this year - "which I think is wonderful." adds Amburgey

ROGER JONES SCHOOL BOARD MEMBER Dist. #5

The Three Main Problems That Need Immediately To Be Addressed Within The School System In Floyd County Are:

- 1) THE EDUCATION OF OUR CHILDREN. We need smaller classes with a better teacher-pupil relationship. The classroom needs to be returned to basic reading, writing, math, and spelling. Our teachers need more supplies and instructional tools to work with.
- 2) WE HAVE A DRUG PROBLEM IN OUR SCHOOLS whether we wish to admit it or not. For our children to learn, they need a drug free environment. Our schools need a drug education and awareness program at all levels and counseling service to help our kids deal with drugs and peer pressure.

3) THE ENTIRE SALARY STRUCTURE of the school system needs immediate change.

- A. Our Non-Certified Personnel are grossly underpaid. The Non-Certified Personnel chose and voted to be represented by a union which, to this day, the board has refused to bargain with. These people are only asking for what is fair which is a living wage and job security. Is that too much to ask for doing their jobs?
- B. Now is the time for the teachers of Floyd Co. to have their voices heard and tell the board that they refuse to become second class citizens. All through history and in almost every country in the world teachers are held in high esteem, but that has not been the case in Floyd County. Our Board of Education would have them be second class or political puppets. For the first time I can remember, the teachers of Floyd County have a chance to make a difference in the educational process. The teachers have studied hard and at great expense to become educators, only to find that their hands are tied. They are overworked, underpaid and gressly disrespected by the Board that was elected to support them. When a doctor, lawyer, or a politician goes to school they expect to be paid for their knowledge and work, but these are the same people that tell you that your knowledge and work is not worth as much. Had any of the teachers in Floyd County chosen another profession they may have made more money, but they are rewarded for being dedicated to education by being underpaid.

I think that the unions and associations that represent these people should be recognized by the Board and I will work to see that they are.

Lucy Waddle of Abbott Road was the winner of a 41-inch television last week during B & L Furniture's grand opening celebration at Prestonsburg Village. Ironically, Waddle has given one of her two televisions to a needy person and shortly after her other television broke. "It's unbelievable-I never thought I would ever win anything." she said. Now she and her husband plan to watch part of the World Series with neighbors.

Elections Should Be Cleaner. Says Secretary Of State Ehrler

"In a lot of cases, we have saved children," says Amburgey.

Secretary of State Bremer Ehrler and virtually every form used in the says that he is confident that Kentucky's election officials across the state are committed to implementing new election law legislation in a professional manner.

Ehrler, chairman of the State Board of Elections, recently completed a series of seven regional training sessions for county clerks and local election officials.

We have traveled to Prestonsburg, Paducah, Owensboro, Somerset, Lexington, Fort Mitchell and Morehead and are more encouraged than ever that the 1988 General Election will be one of the most honest elections ever conducted in Kentucky," Ehrler said.

Ninety-four counties were represented at the training sessions. All 120 counties were represented at a statewide training workshop held earlier in Louisville, with a total attendance of 650.

Ehrler said 1988 election reform legislation has made wholesale changes in Kentucky's election laws. "Most procedures have been changed, conduct of elections has been revised. Precinct election officials are faced with learning their new responsibilities and it will be difficult at first," he said. "Kentucky voters are fed up with vote buying and selling," Ehrler contends. "If you buy or sell votes this November, you are committing a felony and you will be prosecuted," Ehrler promises.

Quick Striking Rams Score Big Home Win Over Trojans

turn for the better. But the bad came back, overwhelmed all the good, and resulted in a disappointing ending.

The Raceland Rams, following a long kickoff return, scored less than two minutes into Thursday's game against Wheelwright, but the Trojans looked as if they might return the favor, driving deep into Ram territory. However the drive, coming after an on-side kick attempt that Wheelwright recovered on its own 49, was thrown in reverse, and that's about when things got ugly.

Raceland, still in the running for a playoff position, scored on their first seven possessions, bolting out to a 45-0 lead, and held off the visiting Trojans to claim a 45-14 district victory Thursday night at Raceland.

On the game's opening kickoff, Mike Lacks returned the football to the Wheelwright 36 yard line, and four plays later Matt Bostick broke loose for a 22-yard touchdown run with 10:18 remaining in the first period.

Wheelwright, trailing 7-0 after the extra point kick proved successful, recovered an on-side kick when Chris Thornsberry fell on the football at the Trojan 49.

They drove the pigskin to the Ram 35 on back-to-back runs by Vic Cotton, but on second and seven quarterback Bobby Hood was sacked back on the 49, bringing about a third and 21 play.

Hood, who rarely had time to throw the whole game, again dropped back to pass, this time lobing one down the sideline intended for Todd Jackson. Jason, who had his man beaten, was held by the Raceland defender, and although the pass sailed out of bounds, a flag was thrown, giving the Trojans first and 10 on the 34. Cotton, who led Wheelwright on the ground with 92 yards, then ran to the Ram 28-yard line

But again Wheelwright threw its offense in reverse, with a whole lot of help from the Raceland defense.

Cotton was tackled for a seven-yard loss on second and four, and Hood, on the following play, was thrown for a 10-yard loss. Wheelwright was forced to punt from the 45.

On the kick, Todd Jackson, with no Ram receivers within 15 yards of the football, was called for interference when he attempted to catch the punt. That put Raceland out to its 36.

It looked bad early, then it took a the drive's first two plays. His second rushing attempt brought about a 15-yard personal foul when the Trojan tailback was hit late and out of bounds.

The penalty moved the football to the Raceland 45, and from there Handy Jackson and Cotton alternated carries, taking it to the one

But on a third and one from the one, it was freshman Steven Jackson who got the call, and he crossed the goal line for Wheelwright's first score.

"I felt like we played hard," Johnson said after the game. "They didn't quit. They could have rolled up and died, but they kept fighting back.

The Trojans, who wrapped up their district schedule with a 2-3 record, scored their last touchdown with 4:32 remaining in the final quarter when Mikie Justice picked up a Wheelwright fumble on the two-yard line, and ran it for the score.

Hood, who completed two passes for 22 yards during the 76-yard drive, passed to Todd Jackson for the two-point conversion, setting the final margin of difference.

Hood completed three of seven pass attempts for 29 yards. He had one picked off, and was under heavy pressure throughout the game.

"We had sort of a makeshift lineup in there along our offensive line. Mikie Justice was in for Brent Huff, and Nolan Newsome played a guard and he hasn't played guard since he's been with us," Johnson said.

The Trojans were without two starting linemen. Huff was out due to a sore shoulder, and Adam Hall is still serving a two-game suspension for his part in a punching and shoving contest during last week's contest against Virgie.

That, along with Raceland's near perfect execution and some fast Rams, led to Wheelwright's big loss.

"They ran a lot of technique," Johnson said of the Rams. "They weren't really that physical, but they were doing a lot of freeze blocking.

"They were good on technique. They would hold their blocks just long enough to get their backs free.

Raceland, 3-1 in the district, rolled up 237 yards of offense in the first half, and also enjoyed an advantage in field position all night. Of their first five half scores, only one came on a drive of over 50 yards.

The Rams also scored twice on first plays after assuming possession, once on a 41-yard run by Bostick, and again when quarterback Brett Mills threw 47 yards to Mike Lacks for a second quarter score

Wheelwright, which had only 27 yards of offense in the first half, turned the football over twice, and both, a fumble and an interception, wound up as Ram touchdowns.

The Trojans will remain on the road this week, traveling to Johnson Central to face the Golden Eagles.

The Sporting Times

Many people close to professional baseball will tell you that the best way to build a winning team is through good drafts and a solid minor league system. Others will argue that a trade or two is necessary to win on the Major League level, mainly to fill that one special need. Say a lefthanded pitcher, or a power hitting outfielder.

This year's version of the World Series presents arguments for both sides, but it would be safe to say that neither club would have made it as far as they have had it not been for key additions brought about by a number of trades

The New York Yankees, a few years ago, had what fans liked to refer to as the best team money could buy. They opened up the pocketbook and handed out big bucks in signing a number of free agents, but while they enjoyed success, the team Yankee ownership purchased failed to stand the test of time-and have the great dynasties of years gone by. The Big red Machine fell by the wayside, and the team once recognized as having the top farm system of any major league club has failed, since the 1970s, to field a role in the fact that each division in baseball crowns a new champion each year. A player goes down, and that team doesn't have enough ready talent to replace him in mid-season.

But better yet, St. Louis loses Jack Clark to New York. Detroit loses Kurt Gibson to LA. Minnesota trades one of its top homerun hitters to the Cardinals, and Chilly Davis decides he wants out of San Francisco.

Trades seem to be the answer to the question as to why no one ever remains a champion in major league baseball, and trades seem to be the major deciding factor in determining the winners and losers.

Two years ago, the Dodgers were preparing to defend their 1985 Western Division title. Their leaders that season were to be guys like Pedro Guerrero, Bill Madlock, Greg Brock and Mariano Duncan County territory on back-to-back five vard runs from tailback Chris Kidd, but on a second and seven from the 42 they fumbled, and the opportunistic Cougars were there to fall on it.

Easterling, who upped his touchdown total to 12 for the season, made the Bobcats pay again. After a pass interference call went against them, the Cougars got a 68-yard pass from Quarterback- Kevin Spurlock, who hooked up with Keith Hall for a 51-yard pass play, was picked off four times in the game. Spurlock, under constant pressure, also fumbled once after being hit from behind in the first half.

Spurlock, who didn't complete a pass until the fourth quarter, hooked up with his receivers four times in the final period for 74 yards.

"All we can do now is come back next week and try to do better," Tucker said. "We've got M.C. Napier and hopefully we can do better against them.

The Navajos are also winless in the district, and winners of only one game this season. Betsy Layne, after Friday's loss, enters the contest at Mile High Field with a 3-6 record. The game, scheduled to kickoff at 8 p.m., will be the Bobcats' final home contest of the season.

Morgan County, now going for a winning season after making the playoffs for the first time ever last year, plays at Prestonsburg in another district battle against the Blackcats.

The Rams (7-2 with the win), eight plays later, overcame 20 yards worth of penalties. They were helped along by a pass interference call on Wheelwright in the end zone.

Bostick, a five-foot-seven 160 pound sophomore, capped the drive off with a 14-yard scamper coming at the 2:30 mark of the first quarter

Bostick, who ran for over 100 yards in the first half, scored again on the Rams' next possession, running 41 yards for a score that put Raceland up 21-0 with 46 seconds to go in the opening period.

The person we were keying on was 25," Roger Johnson, Wheelwright's head coach, said in referring to Raceland fullback James Boggs. "We felt like we had to stop him. We didn't expect 37 (Bostick) to get the ball much, but he scored the first two times he had the ball.

But Boggs managed to do a large degree of damage as well. The senior runner scored on an eight-yard burst with 19 seconds left in the first half. He also, from his linebacking position, intercepted a Hood pass on the Wheelwright six, and returned it for a score early in the second half, putting the Rams up 39-0.

Wheelwright, 2-6, managed to get its offense in gear mid-way through the third quarter, mounting a scoring drive that covered 72 yards.

Handy Jackson, who ran for 48 yards for Wheelwright, gained 12 yards on

Copley Claims Title In Martin 5K Race

Kenny Copley, of Huntington, claimed his second top finishh in two weeks by winning the Red, White, and Blue 5K Race Saturday.

Copley, who last week won the Druthers/Joe McCauley Memorial 5K Fall Classic, finished in a time of 16.35 to edge out Rick Roberts and Bill Hill.

Roberts and Hill covered the 3.2 mile course in 16.43, ending in a tie. All three top runners make up the Nike Athletic Attic Race Team, which won team honors

Roberts, of Allen, also qualified for the 1989 Boston Marathon this past week by running the Detroit Free Press Marathon in a time of 2:58:57.

Craig Chapman, Dave McGuire, Rick Roberts, Dwight Thomas, and Jimmy D. Gray each won trophies in their male age groups.

Jessica Wade and Janie McGuire won top honors in their female age divisions. The race attracted a total of 62 entrants pennant-contending team. The Los Angeles Dodgers and Oakland A's were once dominant and consistent, but they, too, fell apart when the Joe Rudies, Reggie Jacksons, Steve Garveys, and Don Suttons grew old and ineffective.

It too, took these teams what seemed to be an eternity, especially Oakland, to return to power in their respective leagues

Yes, the A's made a token appearance in the strike year, and LA managed to show its collective faces in the World Series recently, but neither has been close to what they once were.

No one team has proven it can remain a quality baseball team from one year to the other. Injuries play a key

Los Angeles was also counting heavily on big seasons from starting pitchers such as Bob Welch, Jerry Reuss, and Tom Niedenfuer

In 1986, the Dodgers won 73 games, and struggled to stay out of last place. Matlock, Brock, and Duncan were gone before 1987 arrived, and Jerry Reuss was relieved early in the season. Welch, Guerrero and Niedenfuer are now playing elsewhere.

Again in 1987, the Dodgers failed to find their way back to the top, losing 89 games in yet another disappointing season.

At the start of the 1986 season, the Oakland A's were trying to figure out how to avoid finishing under .500. Their two top RBI men from the year before were Mike Davis and Dave Kingman, and their best pitchers would come from a corps that featured Joaquin Andujar, Jose Rijo, and Tim Birtsas.

Jamie Easterling, Morgan County's highly-touted junior quarterback. threw for 221 yards and four touchdowns, leading the Cougars, 2-2 in the district, to the win. He also had one pass picked off while completing 10 of 18 attempts.

Betsy Layne, on the game's opening kickoff, fumbled as Brian Osborne lost control of the pigskin on the 25, where the Cougars fell on it.

The Bobcat defense, which was put in a difficult position all night long, looked as if it might turn Morgan County away without a touchdown.

After Easterling connected with his favorite target, tight end Mark Holbrook, to put the football on the 15, defensive lineman Dave Recznik knocked down a pass at the line of scrimmage, bringing about a fourth and one situation.

But the Cougars, which own one of the area's best field goal kickers in senior Brian Goforth, went for the first down, which they got as John Standefer

With less than 11 minutes gone, Betsy Layne had lost two fumbles, been burned twice on big plays, but still weren't too far gone to make it all the way back-and late in the first half they came half way back, thanks to a turnover that came their way.

Morgan County, which had just recovered a fumble on the Betsy Layne 40, was flagged for an illegal procedure, then lost the handle on the pigskin. The Bobcats fell on it on the Cougar 48 with 3:44 left in the second quarter

With big runs from Keith Hall (their leading rusher with 80 yards) and Kidd, the Bobcats drove the football to the Morgan County 10 yard line. When the drive stalled, the Bobcats got some help from a pass interference call.

From the five, Kidd found paydirt, and with 36 seconds left in the game the not-so-good first half didn't look so bad for Betsy Layne. They trailed by only a touchdown.

The Cougars, who didn't exactly play the model game, took the opening kickoff in the third quarter and drove to the Betsy Layne 22 before that drive ended when Kevin Spurlock intercepted an Easterling pass

'It wasn't pretty. It wasn't one of our better games, but the kids hung in there, Morgan County coach John Herenden said. "They're (Betsy Layne) a strong, physical football team. They played a hard game.'

But those key turnovers proved to be the downfall of the Bobcats, overriding intensity and everything else they could muster.

With 6:07 remaining in the third quarter, Betsy Layne turned the football over again, this time on their 18. But they held off the Cougars that time, limiting them to only four yards in three plays, and completely dodged the bullet when Morgan County was slow in getting a field goal attempt off, having the kick blocked.

The Bobcats took possession on their own 29, but three plays later were forced to punt from their 22, gaining a minus seven yards in the drive.

Morgan County responded, on their third play after taking over on the Bobcat 48, with a 42-yard pass from Easterling to Payne. That proved to be all the Cougars would need to claim the win, their fifth against four losses.

Betsy Layne, which started most of its drives deep in its own territory, managed to compile 267 yards of total offense, but turned the football over twice in the second half on their first play, and another time on the second play of a drive.

SHORT SPORTS

After taking a week off the Prestonsburg Blackcats will return to action Friday night when they take on Morgan County in a district contest in Prestonsburg.

The Blackcats, 1-7 on the season, will be going after their second district win of the season, but they already have two losses which eliminated them from post-season play

Morgan County, 5-4 and 2-2 in the district, is coming off a district win. They defeated Betsy Layne 26-12 Friday at Betsy Layne as Jamie Easterling threw four touchdown passes.

Easterling, a junior, is rated in the top 10 among high school quarterbacks. Morgan County tight end Mark Holbrook has proven to be his main target. The 6'5" end is among the state's most effective receivers.

Prestonsburg, 1-2 in the district, also has an explosive passing game, led by senior quarterback Tim Trusty. They hold rights to a talented tight end in senior Danny Hamilton. In one game earlier this season, Hamilton caught nine passes Prestonsburg, next week, wraps up its season in a district game at M.C. Napier. Blackcat coach Bill Letton says his team needs to have good games in its final two of the season to salvage something from what hasn't exactly been a successful year.

The Pikeville Panthers scored 16 points in the second quarter of Thursday night's game with Paintsville, blowing open a close game on their way to a 22-0 victory over the third ranked Tigers

Pikeville, which hasn't lost a football game since the 1986 season, got two touchdown runs from tailback Greg Hackney of one and six yards to aid in the victory

But the Panthers scored all the points they would need in the first quarter when Bobby Deramus crossed the goal line on a four-yard run. Pikeville's defense shut the Tigers down the entire game, Pikeville, 9-0 on the year, held on to its number one ranking while Paintsville, 8-1, fell out of the state's top five in single A.

NFL News & Notes

Is it because Green Bay has finally secured a firm grasp on the Lindy Infante system, or have the Packers forgotten that they aren't supposed to defeat playoff contenders, especially in consecutive weeks?

Infante, the former brain thrust that powered the multi-diversified offensive attack in Cleveland, came to the state of Wisconsin because he longed for another challenge.

He could have gone elsewhere. Several NFL teams spoke to the former Browns' offensive coordinator, but Infante chose to take over a team with a cronic losing reputation.

Green Bay, which lost its head coach when Forest Greg left to accept the job at Southern Methodist, has failed to find its way to post-season action since the days when Greg was a player for Vince Lombarde.

Last season they finished at 5-9, and through the first five games of 1988 the Pack had yet to come back as the only winless team in professional football.

But all of a sudden Green Bay, which does possess explosive offensive threats, found themselves on the winning end, and apparently they liked it there

In week six the Packers drilled New England 45-3, and came back Sunday to win for a second week in a row, handing Minnesota an upset defeat in the Metrodome Sunday

The Vikings, which took the pressure off Chicago in the NFC Central, was flagged for 129 yards, and were held to only 69 yards rushing. The Green Bay defense forced five turnovers as well.

The Packers got four field goals from Max Zendejas to improve to 2-5. Their wins still haven't put them in any type contention in the Central, but for Green Bay fans, it might be as good, at this particular time, as a future Super Bowl possibility might be.

Minnesota, which went into Soldier

Field earlier in the season and thrashed the Bears, allowed themselves to slip two full games back in the division.

While the Vikings, 4-3, were losing at home, Chicago thumped the Dallas Cowboys 17-7 in the Windy City. The Bears, 6-1, intercepted two Danny White passes before knocking him out of the game.

The Cleveland defense also did its part, sacking Eagle quarterback Randall Cunningham, who had been close to perfect last Monday night, a total of nine times.

From Good To Bad To Good Again: Last season Cincinnati fans were howling for Boomer Esiason's bus ticket out of town. But the Bengal quarterback has silenced his critics. At least he had until week seven's contest in the land of Patriots.

Monday Night Game: The Buffalo Bills completely dominated the New York Jets in the first quarter of the football game, and the football game was played in the first quarter.

Oakland swapped shortstop Alfredo Griffen to LA in exchange for righty starter Bob Welch. They added Storm Davis to the staff in 1987 and got Matt Young from LA to bolster their once ineffective staff.

Some of the moves were questioned. Especially Griffen for Welch, but rookie Walt Weiss moved into the shortstop spot and played the position to near perfection.

Football Contest Winner Announced

Football may no longer be a sport of the men, by the men, and for the men. NBC has put women in the broadcast booth to call the action, and women in the studio to comment on the action.

And at least for this week, football prognostication goes to the ladies as Donna Adkins claimed top honors in the Times Football Contest.

Adkins, of Louisa, correctly chose 10 winners this week to edge out Jettie Shreve of Prestonsburg, who also selected 10 correct choices, but fell one point shorter in the tie breaker.

is constantly present in the sport.

Just take a look at both representatives in this year's World Series. Of the nine players Los Angeles started in game one Sunday, three were with the club in 1986. Another foreigner, outfielder Kurt Gibson, came off the bench to hit a twoout, ninth inning homerun to win the game. Gibson was acquired as a free agent during the off season. So was outfielder Mike Davis, who had walked and stole second to allow Gibson the time at bat. The homerun came off Dennis Eckersley. Two years ago he was struggling to earn a spot in the Chicago Cubs' starting rotation. He saved 45 games for Oakland this season Of Oakland's nine starters, three were with the parent club in 1986. Although the Athletics produced, through their farm system, Ganseco and McGwire, along with Weiss, they added the key ingredients through trades The guy they start at second, Glen Hubbard, is formerly of the Atlanta Braves, and Parker originally came up through the Pittsburgh organization. Every starter Oakland will use in the series will be pitchers they traded for. Los Angeles did grow Tim Belcher and Orel Hershiser themselves, but needed to trade for John Tudor during the season to assure themselves of a division title.

Buffalo, 6-1, opened up a two game lead over Miami, who moved ahead of the Jets in the AFC East standings. Games To Watch: The New Orleans Saints are one of the NFL's hottest teams. The Los Angeles Raiders now have Bo Jackson.

Even with all their early season problems, LA remained in contention for a playoff spot, and even an AFC West title. The Raiders will need a win in New Orleans to keep pace though. The Saints, though, have never beaten LA in four previous tries.

This contest is only one of two major matchups of West challengers. Seattle of the AFC travels to LA of the NFC for an important battle. The Rams, in three games, have outscored Seattle 104-30.

One of the injured returned Sunday and enjoyed a big day. Warren Moon, out for several weeks, came back against Pittsburgh to throw two touchdown passes.

The Bengals proved that they are still capable of blowing a game. If Moon continues his success and Boomer doesn't then the Oilers and Bengals could be tied after Sunday's game in Cincinnati.

Last year San Francisco embarrassed Chicago out west as Steve Young threw four touchdown passes in a 41-0 loss

Chicago, though is tied for the league's best record, and Monday night's matchup promises to be a football fan's dream.

Rebels Repay Fairview For Season Of Fumbles

The Fairview High School football team now knows the feeling they have allowed at least seven opponents to experience thus far this season.

The Eagles, a team plagued by turnovers, turned three of Allen Central's several turnovers into 20 points, helping in their 31-8 victory over the Rebels at Eastern Sunday.

Fairview forced five turnovers, two of which were returned for touchdowns, and another set up a 14-yard touchdown drive near the end of the first half. The Eagles, in winning their first district game of the season, took a 22-0 halftime lead, and despite gaining only 102 yards of offense in the second half, held on to claim the win.

Harris, who fumbled the football three times, ran for 158 yards on 30 carries, as Eastern improved to 4-2 on the season, and 3-0 in the OVC.

Eastern, ranked 16th in the nation in IAA, steps outside of the conference this week when it travels to Western Carolina for a battle with the Southern Conference power.

The Louisville Cardinals, traveling to Tulane this week, came from behind Saturday to hand Virginia a 30-28 upset defeat in Louisville.

The Cardinals kept their impressive start alive when they came from 14 points behind to beat the Cavaliers. With the win, they improved to 4-3. Beon Booker, the Cards' effective tailback, ran 26 times for 110 yards. It was his fourth game of at least 100 yards

Western Kentucky University, the surprise team in 1AA, got 138 yards rushing from Pedro Bacon, who also scored two touchdowns on runs of 16 and 90 yards, to help keep their high national ranking in order

Saturday again proved to be an impressive effort for the University of Kentucky, but again it was just a losing effort.

The Wildcats, which lost their last game in a heart-breaker to Alabama at home, played LSU tough till the end. But when the final points were added up the Tigers held a three-point advantage.

LSU, ranked 19th nationally, blocked a punt, and recovered two fumbles that led to their three scores.

Kentucky, which plays Georgia this week, fell to 2-4 and 0-3 in the SEC. LSU improved to 4-2, and 3-1 in the conference.

In other action Saturday, the Morehead State University Eagles suffered one of their worst losses ever, falling 49-0 to nationally ranked Middle Tennessee

The Eagles, winners of only one game this year, play at home this week, taking on Tennessee State.

The NCAA, already investigating severe allegations against the University of Kentucky's basketball program, announced 17 different charges against the school Saturday.

"I wasn't pleased with it," Allen Cen- Brian Meadows, and the Rebels dodgtral head coach Donnie Daniels said of his team's effort. "I thought we were a better ball club. I thought we had a better ball club than they did.

If total offense had anything to do with it, Allen Central did have the better team. If tough goal line stands determined anything, then the Rebels were probably the best of the two teams

The Rebels, in falling to 2-7 on the season, gained a total of 275 yards, with many others wiped out by penalties. In comparison, Fairview had 242. Allen Central twice stopped the Eagles after they had first and 10 situations deep in Rebel territory.

But that didn't figure greatly in the final score, due primarily to Fairview capitalizing on Rebel turnovers, and Allen Central doing themselves in with penalties and an inability to sustain possession

"I thought we had left that behind," Daniels said of the turnovers. "We had done a good job of keeping our turnover ratio down. I thought we had left it behind after last season, then this happens.

'Of course, they were stripping the ball, but my backs know better than that. They've been taught better than that," he added.

Fairview also had trouble holding onto the pigskin, giving it away twice on fumbles, and again when Jeff Fitch intercepted a pass in the second half .

The Eagles, on their first drive, marched from their 40 to the Allen Central three, but on a third and goal Jack Waugh coughed up the football. It ended up in the arms of defensive tackle ed an early bullitt.

They went on a march of their own. moving all the way to the Fairview 18 on the strength of successful runs from Mickey Parsons and Bear Halbert.

But on a second and six from the 18, Parsons was thrown for a five-yard loss, and the next two plays, both passing attempts, were unsuccessful, allowing the Eagles to void Allen Central scoring opportunity.

"Things kind of went our way," Fairview head coach Jerry Miller said. "They lost a couple there early that kind of hurt them.

"The first series they drove it down our throats, but we got that stopped, and played pretty good defense the rest of the way.

Fairview, which contributes some of its ineffectiveness to turnovers, took its second possession 82 yards in 13 plays, eating up almost six minutes of the clock while taking an 8-0 lead with 10:26 remaining in the second quarter.

Less than seven minutes later the Eagles struck again, this time getting a score from their defense when Ed Ritchie returned an interception 38 yards for a score.

Ritchie, after Rebel quarterback B.J. Aldrich was hit from behind, plucked the football out of the air, tucked it in, and out ran Allen Central's offense turned defense to the end zone.

The touchdown, coming with 3:59 left in the first half, gave Fairview a 14-0 advantage. They added another score just before halftime, marching 14 yards after a Mickey Parsons fumble, to up their advantage to 22 points.

Morehead Practice Began Saturday

The Morehead State University Eagle basketball team officially opened practice for the 1988-89 season on Saturday (Oct. 15) with a 1 p.m. EDT open practice in the Ellis T. Johnson Arena of MSU's Academic-Athletic Center.

In their second season under Coach Tommy Gaither, the Eagles return two starters and have a host of talented newcomers. Heading the list of returnees are center-forwards Darrin Hale and Mike Chaney and guard Tony Curry.

Newcomers who are expected to make immediate impacts include guard Tracy Armstrong and forwards Patrick Mosely and Elbert Boyd, all junior college transfers.

"We're excited and eager to get started," Gaither said. "We invite everyone out on Saturday for our first practice. We believe we will be an exciting and much improved ballclub this season.

begun the process of registering the league under the Junior Pro license.

The Junior Pro program, established in 1969-70 in Kentucky, is designed to familiarize youngsters with the fundamentals of basketball and promote sportsmanship, scholarship and physical fitness. More over, the program gives all youngsters an opportunity to participate. Junior Pro rules mandate that each team member must play at least one quarter and each member must "sit out" one quarter of play. By establishing these rules, each player is assured the opportunity to learn and play basketball.

Under the Junior Pro license, the Prestonsburg league will be nationally affiliated and be entitled to play postseason tournaments on regional, state and national levels. To be eligible, youngsters must be between the ages of 7-12.

On Tuesday, October 25 at 6:00 p.m., the Prestonsburg Basketball League will be holding an organizational meeting in the Council Room at the Prestonsburg Municipal Building. Agenda includes: election of officers; committee development; identification of coaches; and the establishment of player registration duties for both new and returning players.

Eagles, winless in the district and winners of only one game this season, didn't look a whole lot like a 1-7 football team.

"We've just fumbled our lives away," Miller said of the disappointing season. "Fumbles have killed us all year. We've been kind of like they were today.

Miller mentioned Fairview's efforts at Wheelwright, and this past week against Huntington-Vincent as prime examples of how the Eagles' season has went.

"We fumbled three times inside the 10 against Wheelwright, and we rushed for over 300 vards last week, but we had two fumbles returned for touchdowns against us," Miller said. The Eagles lost both of those contests

"We've played a tough schedule, but I think we're much better than a 1-6 team," the first year coach added. Allen Central, which plays at home again this week (taking on Sheldon Clark Saturday afternoon), scored its only points of the game when Tommy Gibson crossed the goal line from four yards out with 6:18 left in the game.

Bear Halbert, who enjoyed one of his best games of the season, ran for the two-point conversion. The senior fullback had 126 yards rushing on only 13 carries.

Parsons, the team's top ground gainer, rushed 18 times for 131 yards. He also fumbled twice. Halbert fumbled the football away once.

Fairview, which enjoyed an 83-yard scoring drive in the fourth quarter, picked up an Allen Central fumble when the Rebels tried a reverse on a kickoff return, and returned it for a touchdown. They got a 59-yard run from Terry Waugh, their leading runner with 154 yards, to help the five-play drive along.

Allen Central also lended its assistance by drawing two face mask penalties. One came after the Rebels had stopped Fairview's initial twopoint conversion try. The second at-

A clipping call early in the second half also did damage to the Rebels' effort. The penalty, thrown during Allen Central's first possession of the third period, wiped out a 50-yard Parsons run that would have put the Rebels inside the Fairview 20.

It was mistakes such as that, along with the turnovers, that put a damper on the Rebels' hopes, and brought about their first loss at their new field. "We drove the ball," Daniels said.

"We just made the turnovers. The turnovers were the difference in the game. They didn't start a drive that they scored on on their side of the 50. What they got we gave to them. They maybe earned two touchdowns. Nobody can win like that.

Allen Central will wrap up their home schedule this Saturday, and conclude their season Oct. 29 when they travel to Millersburg for a battle with M.M.1. That game was added after the original schedule was put together.

RUNNING WILD: Halfback Mickey Parsons ran for over 130 yards, but he fumbled twice as Allen Central lost Saturday to Fairview. Both Parsons and fullback Bear Halbert rushed for over 100 yards.

The average combination lock may hold as many as a million possible combinations.

The school was given until Dec. 12 to respond to the charges, but official action by the NCAA Committee on Infractions may not be brought about until April.

If UK is found guilty, then the school could receive anything from a verbal bashing to banning of a limited time.

All those involved in the wrongdoings could be terminated from their positions. But the current situation is not expected to have an effect on this season

Kentucky, which opened its practice Friday in its annual midnight madness affair, has already received a verbal committment from one of the nation's best prep guards, and is expected to land a highly touted center from the Houston, Texas area.

Weight Gain And Loss For Young Athletes

By Ann C. Grandjean, Ed.D. Director of The International Center For Sports Nutrition

Here's how your athletes can gain muscle mass, not fat, from a weight gain program, along with some thoughts on a healthy weight loss program.

Keep in mind that muscle mass increases only after a sufficient period of progressive weight training and can't be increased by simply eating more food or more protein. Although excess body fat increases the weight of the individual, it doesn't contribute directly to energy production or performance. Whether eating to gain or lose weight, athletes need to consume a diet that meets their nutritional needs as well as calorie requirements.

Those trying to gain weight may want to add two to four snacks a day rather than eating larger meals. To lose weight and still get all the nutrients needed, athletes should decrease intake of high calorie foods. Increase those foods with low calories, and eat a variety of foods which include proteins. Among them are dairy products, eggs, dark green or deep yellow vegetables, citrus fruits, breads, cereals and potatoes. Watch out for fat in the diet. It has twice as many calories as an equal amount of protein or carbohydrates

The Eagles have lost the services of guard-forward Roddy Peters, who has left the team and withdrawn from school.

"Roddy is a top-notch person and athlete, and we will miss him," Gaither said. "I think many things contributed to his decision to leave. His recurring problem with his foot injury has kept him from being 100 percent since he has been here. He also has a wife and child who are living in the Washington D.C. area, and he wanted to live with his family there. We certainly wish them well.

The Eagles open the season on Nov. 30 at home against Campbellsville.

The league urges all interested parents, coaches and others to attend this important meeting. This basketball season should be an exciting one with tournament play, trophys, and the selection of All-Star Team members for post-season tournament play.

People believe if you use the same pillow your dog uses, you will dream what he dreams.

Cards Seek Third Straight Win Against Tulane

Game 8-Louisville (4-3) beat Virginia at home last week 30-28 as the Cards rallied from one down with 1:10 remaining in the game and beat the Cavaliers when Ron Bell hit a 39-yard field goal. It was the Cardinals second straight win and fourth in five games. The game also marked the fifth consecutive time Deon Booker rushed for over 100 yards. Tulane (3-3) plays its fifth straight game at home. It will mark just the third meeting ever between the teams. Tulane is 0-2 vs. U of L in the last two meetings.

Records Fall for Jay Gruden-Jay Gruden became the all-time passing leader at U of L when he threw for 234 yards vs. So. Miss., surpassing the mark held by Ed Rubbert (5.496/1983-86). Gruden now has 6,127 passing yards. He holds 10 school records, including the all-time touchdown record of U of L with 39 career touchdowns (formerly held by John Madeya), the all-time offensive attempts (formerly held by Ed Rubbert), the all-time total yards record with 5,753 total yards (formerly held by Ed Rubbert), the all-time passing attempts record with 911 passing attempts (formerly held by Ed Rubbert 873) and the all-time pass completions record with 493 pass completions ... Going into the season he also held the record for most pass attempts in a season (397, '87), the most pass completions in a season (209, '87), the best completion percentage in a season (.569, '85) and the most passing yards in a season (2,481, '87)... In his four years at U of L he has completed 54.1 percent of his passes. The career mark at U of L is 50.6 set by Tom LaFrambiose (1962-64).

Gruden ranks 17th nationally in total offense with 230.2 yards per game. Gruden is on pace to break the 2,000 yard passing mark like he did a year ago. Last season after seven games he passed for 1,502 yards (Tulane 296, Cincinnati 119, Purdue 266, Murray State 219, So. Miss. 71, Marshall 192, Florida State 339). This season he has thrown for 1,708 yards (Maryland 319, Wyoming 207, Memphis State 171, North Carolina 323, So. Miss. 234, Tulsa 186, Virginia 268), 206 yards more. No quarterback in U of L history has ever passed for 2,000 yards in back-to-back seasons... Gruden's three TD passes vs. Virginia marks the second time in three weeks he's had thrown for three touchdowns (S. Miss.-3). It was the sixth time in his career he has thrown for more than three TD's (1987-Tulane 4, Purdue 3, Murray State 3, Tulsa 3; '88-So. Miss 3, Virginia 3). Louisville is 3-2-1 when Gruden throws for three TDs or more

Deon Booker Continues to Roll-Against Virginia, Booker had his fifth consecutive game of 100 yards rushing or more when he carried for 101 yards. The last back to achieve that feat in one season was Tom Lucla in the last five games of 1949. Howard Stevens holds the record for most consecutive 100-yard cus hing idines with six, but he did it in two for firmul seasons. In 1971 he rushed for 103 yards vs. N. Texas

31-23)... In the last five games Deon Booker has rushed for over 100 yards. and the Cardinals have won four of those games ... U of L's win over Virginia marks the first time since 1979 the Cards have been 4-3 after seven games... U of L's four victories marks the most wins in a season by Schnellenberger since he came to Louisville in 1985... Beating Virginia marks the first time a Schnellenberger-coached Louisville team has been above .500 after seven games... If the Cards beat Tulane on the road it will be the first time the Cards have had two road wins in a season since 1980 when the Cards beat Kansas (17-9) and So. Miss. (6-3) ... If the Cards win two more games they will be assured of their first winning season since 1978, 10 years ago ... After seven games last year the Cards had given up a total of 2,994 yards. This season the defense has allowed 2,934 yards... Virginia's 317 total yards were the fewest allowed by the Cards all season ... U of L's balance of attack has" improved. After two games the Cards were getting 75 percent of its yardage from the passing game and 25 percent from the running game. After seven games U of L is getting 61 percent from the passing game and 39 percent from the running game ... U of L's 13 rushing first downs vs. Virginia were the most all season ... U of L's 14 passing first down vs. Virginia tied the highest output of the season (14 vs. N. Carolina) ... Deon Booker's six receptions vs. Virginia were the most receptions he's had since catching six vs. Maryland.. Linebacker Mark Sander leads U of L's defense with 122 tackles. Last season he registered just 71 total. Chris Sellars led the team last year with 134 total tackles... Last season the Cards registered just 10 interceptions all year. After seven games the Cards already have 11 interceptions, with John Galney leading the way with three. His two interceptions vs. Virginia are the most by a player inone game since Terry Laniz had two vs. Marshall last season... Wide receiver Anthony Cummings has 21

receptions for 284 yards (team high) years, the Cardinals didn't play Tulane and three TDs. He needs just three more receptions to tie last season's output (24 passes for 359 yards) ... Deon Booker has caught a pass in every game this year. He leads the team with 27 receptions... Keith Stephens rank 15th nationally in all-purpose rushing with 12 punt returns for 113 yards, 23 kickoff returns for 531 yards, 58 rushes for 255 yards and 11 receptions for 133 yards. He had his longest kickoff return (43) of the season vs. Virginia ... U of L's passing offense rank 15th nationally with 251.5 yards a game ... U of L and Tulane have common opponents in Memphis State and So. Miss. Both teams beat Memphis State and lost to So. Miss.

Howard Schnellenberger Show-U of L's football team will be featured on the U of L Sports Page at noon on Saturdays and also on the Howard Schnellenberger show at 12:30 p.m., both on WHAS-TV (Channel 11).

Schnellenberger Quotes-(On Virginia) "(it) was one of the greatest games of all-time (in U of L history). My hat is off to both teams. I don't think there was a loser today; one team was just ahead when the clock ran out and, thank God, it was us. I was proud of the way these kids stuck together and didn't let adversity get the best of them when Virginia was ahead by two touchdowns.

(On Tulane) "We will have to continue to play solid football to compete with Tulane because they are a very. very solid football team. We will have to concentrate on doing things the right way and not make many mistakes in order to come out of there with a victory,

Next Week-Louisville will play at Cincinnati Oct. 29 at 4:00 p.m. (EDT). Tulane at UNLV at 7:00 p.m. (PDT). Series History-Tulane and Louisville have had a brief but exciting history. This year's meeting marks only the third time the Cardinals and Green Wave have banged heads on the gridiron. Although both were members of the Metro Conference for several until 1986 U of L has never lost to the Green Wave, having beaten Tulane 23-12 in 1986 and 42-40 last year. In 1986, Head Coach Howard Schnellenberger's Cardinals were 2-6 going into the Tulane game, and Louisville was coming off a 41-0 loss at the hands of Rutgers. Tulane, on the other hand, was trying to reach its third consecutive victory.

Although Tulane kicker Don Guirl hit two field goals from 25 and 34 yards, respectively, the Cardinals' Deon Booker gave U of L a 7-6 halftime lead when he scored on a four-yard run in the second quarter.

All Tulane could manage in the second half were two more field goals from Guirl, from 47 and 21 yards, respectively. U of L's Ed Rubbert, though, found Booker open in the end zone from seven yards out in the third quarter

In the fourth quarter Louisville put the game out of reach with a 46-yard field goal from Danny Cerione. To top off the scoring in a big way, Rubbert connected with Eric Vaughn for a 51-yard scoring strike to give the Cards 23-12 win.

Ed Rubbert passed for 221 yards. Last Meeting-(Sept. 5, 1987) Tulane visited Cardinal Stadium for the first time ever in last year's game.

Although Louisville's Keith Stephens returned the opening kickoff 95 yards for a touchdown (marking the first time since 1985 a U of L player had done that), Tulane answered with 17 points of their own in the first quarter off a seven-yard run by Marvin Allen, a five-yard pass from Terrence Jones to Marc Zeno and Todd Wiggins' 45-yard field goal.

In the second quarter the Cardinals' George Williams scored on a four-yard pass from Jay Gruden, but the Green Wave came up with 14 points of their own. Tulane's Allen scored on a 40-yard run and Zeno again hauled in a Jones ass from nine-yards out. At halftime Tulane led U of L 31-14.

U of L's defense started to come around in the third quarter, however. Louisville held the Green Wave to one TD on a five-yard run by Michael Pierce, and then answered with a touchdown of their own on a six-yard run by Deon Booker.

With the Cardinals' stingy defense giving up only a 36-yard field goal by Wiggins, the Cards offense took over the game. The Cards' Rodney Knighton hauled in two Jay Gruden passes for TDs, from 47-yards and sevenyards out, respectively. U of L was still down 40-35 when Gruden called a timeout with just over a minute remaining. After talking it over with his coaches, Gruden tosses a one-yard pass to George Williams to pull out a 42-40 win. Jay Gruden racked up 296 yards passing, hitting on 25 of 42 throws. Williams' nine receptions were the most by any U of L player in one game last year. Keith Stephens had the most kickoff returns (6) and most kickoff return yardage in one game last season (171) against Tulane. The 42 points the Cardinals scored were also the most in one game last season.

Bassin' Using Jigs To Fool Fall Bass'

Ask the top tournament pros to name their favorite bass lures, and they'll probably answer spinnerbaits, but ask them about the lures they use when big money is on the line, and most will answer jigs.

Jigs-those funny-looking little lures with leadheads, spider leg skirts and toothbrush bristle weedguards-have been around in one form or another for decades, but only in recent years have they truly gained favor among bass anglers

"That's because jigs catch a lot of fish," says Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff member Stanley Mitchell. "Not only that, jigs catch big bass, they catch bass when no other lure will, and they can be fished year-round in all types of water."

The fall and winter months are among the best times to use jigs, says Mitchell, winner of the 1981 BASS Masters Classic*. His favorite times to fish the lure are whenever the water temperature dips below 75 degrees.

"I believe a jig imitates a crayfish," he explains, "so I always work a jig around heavy cover where crayfish live, and I work it very slow, the way crayfish often move. I've caught bass with a jig as shallow as one foot and as deep as 20 feet, but primarily I like to fish it between three and about 10 feet."

Water depth is a key in choosing which jig to use, says the well-known Evinrude pro. In shallow water he perfers 1/4 or 3/16-ounce jigs, but for deeper depths below about 10 feet his jigs range from 1/4 to 5/8-ounce. In clear water his favorite skirt color is black and blue, while in dingy he uses a brown and orange combination. 'I always add a pork trailer, too,' adds Mitchell. "It adds bulk to the lure and makes it more attractive to larger bass, and it also feels more realistic when a bass bites it.' It's important to fish jigs around heavy cover, particularly in and near treetops, logs, ledges and rocks. Around treetops, Mitchell suggests fishermen try to crawl the jig slowly over tree limbs and let it dangle and shake in the water, moving it only four to five inches at a time.

Around rock piles, where the jig is especially effective, Mitchell likes to hop the lure slowly down and around the cover by raising and lowering his rod tip. He suggests working the cover not only from top to bottom, but also from side to side

'Most hits are soft," he explains, "so it's important to concentrate when you're fishing a jig. I think a bass just eases over and sips in the lure. It's very seldom that you really get a rod-jarring strike.'

Because he always fishes jigs in and around thick cover, Mitchell choose lures that have weedguards. His personal preference is a bristle-type guard that protects the hook against snagging but which doesn't interfere with hook-setting, as some guards do. Mitchell also suggests anglers not be too concerned with all the various jig head designs on the market, but concentrate more on lure weight and color.

Mitchell's favorite jig rod is a six-foot medium-heavy action rod with a pistol grip. Many anglers use longer rods, and the Evinrude pro recommends anglers try several different models until they find one they like. A stiff action is important, however, in order to make a good hook-set

'A lot of anglers have trouble fishing jigs," says Mitchell, "but I believe the main problem is simply a lack of confidence. The best way to gain confidence is by going fishing for a day and not using any other lure.

'Just remember to fish the lure slowly and keep it in and around heavy cover, and the bass will take care of the rest.'

The service experts at Outboard Marine Corporation recommend a frequent check of the gearcase lubricant in your Evinrude* or Johnson* outboard. At a minimum, the fluid should be checked in the spring and again in the fall. Always drain and refill the gearcase with the specified lubricant in the fall. When you drain the old fluid, check for water, metal filings, or a burned odor, each of which could signal trouble.

Entering the 1988 season Booker had just three games of more than 100 yards rushing, this year he has done it five times...Last season Booker carried for a team-high 671 yards, he already has rushed for 694 in seven games. The last back at U of L to rush for over 687 yards was Donald Craft in 1980.. Booker needs just 63 rushing yards to move into fifth place on the all-time rushing list ahead of Calvin Prince (2,108/1976-77). Booker now has 2,046 rushing yards... Booker (108 points) needs 33 points to move past Calvin Prince (140/1976-77) ... In U of L's first seven games last season Booker rushed for 413 yards (100 vs. Tulane, 3 vs. Cincinnati, 0 vs. Purdue, dnp vs. Murray State and 94 vs. So. Miss., 196 vs. Marshall, 20 vs. FSU). Booker's 99.1 rushing average (22nd nationally) puts him on pace to break the 1,000-yard rushing mark. The last U of L back to gain over 1,000 yards in a season was Nathan Poole in 1978 (1,394) ... Booker's also been potent this season as a receiver catching 27 passes for 257 yards and two TDs. Last year he caught 16 passes for 153 yards.

Louisville's final drive came after Virginia muffed a field-goal with 1:10 left in the fourth quarter. Louisville received the ball on their own 36-yard line and quarterback Jay Gruden went to work when he completed four of six passes to set up Bell's kick. It was Bell's first attempt on the day. Howard Schnellenberger described the game as "one of the greatest of all-time" in U of L history. It was the Cardinals fourth win in five games and second in a row. Cocaine. The party's over.

It probably started with occasional use at parties, a line or two at concerts and other special events, perhaps a gram or so on weekends when some of your friends came over.

use will probably make you paranoid and may give you terrifyingly real hallucinations. But most frightening of all, despite all this,

Now, you're using all the time. And like thousands of others, you're suspecting that cocaine isn't the safe, nonaddictive, recreational drug that everyone was saying it was a few years ago. You're right.

One in ten people who snort cocaine become addicted within four years. And half of all cocaine smokers end up totally unable to regulate their use, often in a much shorter time.

How can you tell when you've stopped being a social user? Well, if you find it difficult to refuse cocaine when it's available, or you use it even in inappropriate circumstances, then you've already started down the road of addiction.

What happens next is you completely lose control of your use. When you have coke, you do it until either you or the drug is exhausted.

If you continue, you get so you don't care what happens, as long as you have cocaine. You steal, lie, cheat, deal and risk prison to get it.

You'll likely put everything you once valued at risk. Your job, home, possessions, family, friends, and of course your health.

Tracy Nelson And Band Encore On KET Lonesome Pine Special

'I'm just a rhythm and blues singer who lives up a bunch of narrow country roads outside Nashville," is how Tracy Nelson describes herself. Tracy Nelson and Her Band take the stage as Kentucky Center Presents: The Lonesome Pine Specials on KET Saturday, Nov. 12 at 10:00 p.m.

The Lonesone Pine Specials, a popular KET music series, enters its fall season with two encore productions and 10 new shows composing this year's Lonesome Pine Summer Festival held at the Kentucky Center for the Arts and taped by KET. The series also includes a "Best of Lonesome Pines" 1988 special.

As "just a rhythm and blues singer," Nelson has shared the stage with artists the caliber of Jefferson Airplane, the Grateful Dead, and Jimi Hendrix. She toured the country in the late '60s and early '70s with her band Mother Earth. In the mid 70s she was nominated for a Grammy Award for a duet with Willie Nelson, "Nothing Cold as Ashes" (After the Fire is Gone).

Series Producer and Artistic Director Richard Van Kleeck says, "The best news of all about Tracy Nelson is that she is singing better than ever, performing rhythm and blues and country music with that incredible voice, and joined by a super band including three back-up singers." Tracy Nelson's band includes Larry Chaney, guitar; Dwight Scott, keyboards; Toni Schulster, bass; Pebble Daniel and Diane Davidson, back-up vocals; and Bob Mater, drums.

Funding for The Lonesome Pine Specials, and other programs in the Kentucky Center Presents series, is made possible by the Fund for the Arts, a special program in the KET Fund for Excellence. Members of the Fund for the Arts are The Humana Foundation Inc. The Mary & Barry Bingham Sr. Foundation: Citizens Fidelity Foundation; Brown-Forman Corporation; First National Bank of Louisville; Liberty National Bank and Trust Co. of Louisville; and Commonwealth Insurance, a member of the Capitol Holding Family.

Kentucky Center Presents: The Lonesome Pine Specials is a coproduction of KET and Kentucky Center for the Arts. The series airs in more than 110 markets throughout the United States. The series is distributed nationally by the Southern Education Communications Association (SECA)

The KET production of Kentucky Center Presents: The Lonesome Pine Specials is an effort to bring concerts, plays and other Kentucky Center for the Arts events to the entire state via the KET network. Other televised productions planned for this year include Plumbline and performances by Stage One Children's Theatre and the Lexington Philharmonic Orchestra.

TO THE VOTERS OF DISTRICT 5:

I know a lot of the teachers and voters of District 5 are very upset about how high the administrative salaries are. Some of these salaries are: Superintendent Ronald Hager §54,369; Assistant Superintendent Russell Frazier §52,238; Assistant Superintendent Gary Frazier §52,342. These make a total of $158,949 that WE THE TAXPAYERS are spending on just the Superintendent's office alone for 1 year and over a 4-year period this would total $635,796 (not including any raises). Recently, I saw in the Floyd County Times where Pete Grigsby, Jr. was appointed as another administrative assistant to the Superintendent with a salary of $51,238 a year totalling $204,952 over a 4-year period (not including any raises that may occur). This makes a total of $840,748 over a 4-year period for just the Superintendent's office to be run. This is GETTING CLOSE to a million dollars.

The administrative salaries go on and on ranging from $35,000-$44,000 a year not including the alleged indexed salary increases that, if approved by the board, could boost nearly all the Administrative Salaries $4,000-$6,000 higher per year. If you think the administrators' salaries are extremely high, wait until you hear some of the expenses on the proposed schools.

'All Creatures' To Air On KET

When James Herriot decided to write a book about his experiences during the 1930's as a veterinarian in backcountry Britain, he was turned down by two publishers before being accepted by a third. Several years and 12 million books later, Herriot still tops American book lists.

Demand for All Creatures Great and Small, the television series based on Herriot's books, has been almost as great, says KET Director of Public Programming Services Donna Moore. That's one of the reasons KET will air 51 episodes—including 10 new programs—beginning Thursday, Nov.

10 at 8:00 p.m. "When the series became available recently, we looked at our program surveys and found tremendous interest in our repeating the series," says Moore. "That research, plus the fact the series is wonderful family viewing, made the decision easy."

All Creatures Great and Small is the story of a young, newly qualified veterinary surgeon arriving for his first job in an established practice in the Yorkshire Dales in 1937.

Running alongside the main narrative is the story of James Herriot's courtship and eventual marriage, his attainment of a partnership in his firm and—perhaps most important of all his acceptance by the local farmers and country folk in an area where a stranger was always regarded with suspicion.

The new episodes, says Moore, find the Herriots in the early 1950s, living in Skeldale House, where the practice is based. It is a period of transition and some new characters emerge to join the old favorites in this portrayal of rural life in postwar Britain.

Viewers will be happy to know, says Moore, that the main actors have returned for the new episodes. Christopher Timothy once again portrays James Herriot. Robert Hardy is Seigfried Farnon, colorful master of Skeldale House, and Peter Davison returns as younger brother Tristan Farnon, whose mischievous eye for the ladies is intact.

Vhole-Grain Pancakes: A Hearty, Healthy Meal

From the American Institute for Cancer Research

The benefits of a hearty breakfast are well-known: this is the meal that provides the energy and nutrition to get your day off to a good start. And for many people, a hearty breakfast means a steaming stack of pancakes They provide the complex carbohydrates that are far more healthful than a high-fat bacon and eggs breakfast

But if you usually make just regular pancakes, using refined flour or a packaged mix, and top them with butter and maple syrup, then you're missing much of the nutritional value and versatility this dish has to offer. The American Institute for Cancer Research recommends increasing fiber in your dist through the use of whole grain products, and pancakes can be a good starting place. Here are some healthful pancake ideas to try:

-For additional fiber and nutrients, substitute whole wheat or buckwheat for your usual flour. Or, stir a tablespoon of toasted wheat germ into your regular batter.

-Include fruit in your pancakes for delicious flavors and added vitamins. Try blueberries, cranberries or mashed bananas.

-For a change of pace, try using fruit juice-apple, orange, pineapple or cranberry-in place of some of the milk in your recipe.

-Experiment with added vegetables -pumpkin puree and grated carrots provide lots of beta-carotene, a form of vitamin A that is believed to lower cancer risk.

-Top your pancakes with your favorite fresh fruit-cubed, mashed or sliced. Or, try lowfat yogurt or applesauce for tasty toppings that add extra flavor without the extra fat.

You don't have to limit pancakes to the breakfast table. They're great for any meal, as the following recipe shows. Whether for breakfast, lunch or supper, these pancakes are a nutritious, lowfat delight.

COUNTRY LUNCHEON PANCAKES I 1/4 cup whole wheat flour

2 tbsp. sugar 2 1/2 tsp. baking powder 1/4 tsp. baking soda 2/3 cup skim milk 1/3 cup lowfat yogurt 2/3 cup lowfat cottage cheese 2 eggs, slightly beaten 1 tbsp. lemon juice

Into a large bowl, sift all the dry ingredients. Stir in any bran remaining in the sifter. Add the remaining ingredients and stir until the flour is moistened. Cook the same as for regular pancakes, using a non-stick griddle or frying pan if possible, to avoid having to use oil.

These pancakes will take a bit longer to cook than regular pancakes. Wrap the cooked pancakes in foil to keep them warm until all are cooked. Serve topped with applesauce or other fruit, jam, syrup or powdered sugar.

This recipie yields about 12 4-inch pancakes, each with 82 calories and 1 gram of fat.

Hall Wins Songwriting Contest

Prestonsburg native William W. (Bill) Hall recently won the regional competition of the 12th annual amateur songwriting contest sponsored by Kentucky Fried Chicken with his song. 'Street People.

The first stanza of the song: "Take

Hall said the song was written in the style of country music artist, Michael

Church Stresses Youth Involvement

The First Assembly of God Church certificates and badges they had earnat Martin has recently had nine conver- ed based on a point system. Missionette sions and a baptisms, among whom coordinator, Trilby Akers presented

Martin Murphy, a naturalist and humanitarian. Murphy will record the winning entry in the national competition

Hall also won third and sixth places in the regionals with two additional songs. His winning prize was an electronic keyboard, which he said he is learning to play

Last year, Hall had two songs finish in the top 10 of the competition. When asked if he will try again next year, he replied, "I hope next year I won't be able to compete as an amateur."

Hall said his agent, Bill Holmes with Holmes Publishing, Inc., is currently negotiating with country music star, George Strait, in Nashville to record Hall's song, "Keeper of my heart", a Texas swing-style song. One of Hall's songs has also been submitted to singer, Lacy J. Dalton.

Hall has been writing songs for three years. "It began", he said, "when I wrote a poem for my wife for our anniversary." His wife, Nancy, asked him to put the poems to music. Friends heard Hall's recording and asked him to write a song for their daughter's wedding. Local singer, Bob Wiley, Hall said he enjoys writing songs. 'It's a lot of fun, whether anything commercial comes out of it," he concluded.

The Missionette's program Sunday, Sept. 25 displayed work accomplished during the year. First, second, and third place trophies were awarded in each class. All girls were presented plaques to the sponsors and to the Rev. Vannucci for his support of the youth programs

In May, the Missionettes received a first place trophy from the Kentucky District Missionettes with 11 churches participating.

The First Assembly of God Church was one of four churches presented with a first place grand prize church award in the Kentucky District in June.

Furnace Checking Tips Listed

Many times each fall and winter there are reports of persons who have become extremely ill from a type of poisoning due to faulty furnaces and

The cause is an odorless, colorless gas called carbon monoxide. Common symptoms are headaches, or a sluggish feeling that seems to improve when the person gets outdoors, to work, or

Our Lady of the Way Medical Records Makes Improvements

The staff or Our Lady of the Way Hospital's Medical Records Department felt it had much to celebrate durng Medical Records Week recently.

The improvements which renovated and expanded their space in the hospital were incomplete this time last year. Now they are enjoying the physical and functional benefits of their space-saver filing system, modular furniture, new carpeting and adjoining microfilm room, according to Pat Bentley, OLWH spokesperson. The hospital's participation in the Summer Youth Employment Program and institution of a cross-training program brought welcome assistance and some familiar, but different, faces into the department this year. Summer Youth Employment Program worker Debbie Wilhite worked in the department this summer. Cross-trained ward clerks Lisa Conn, Judy Moore and Pearl Waddles regularly assisted the program throughout the year.

someplace away from where the gas is being produced.

There are good ways to prevent carbon monoxide buildup, and the best time to do it is before the heat is turned on each fall. The rule is, "don't put it off." State Disaster and Emergency Services officials have these suggestions:

-Clean and replace furnace filters regularly, and check them monthly throughout the heating season.

-Inspect the chimney or vent for rust, and make sure it stays clear. If holes appear from rust or wear, replace it.

-If the plate or covering must be removed to service a furnace or stove, replace it as soon as checks or repairs are made

-If there is a fan belt on the blower motor, check for wear, and replace worn belts.

-If the stove or furnace must be replaced, be sure the new model carries a seal of approval for furnace safety.

-Follow the manufacturer's instructions carefully in lighting or reigniting a furnace or stove

-If gas is smelled, call the gas company immediately. That's the kind of problem with which risks should not be taken

The McDowell class of 1990 will be about $9,000, but if fell to somewhere in the $7,000 range.

Each member of the club will be given a check at the end of the senior year during commencement exercises. The money can be used for any purpose, but it is hoped that many of the students will use this to help in some way with education.

Other than making money, Derrick Akers said that this club has been a learning experience. He feels that he has some knowledge of investing money. He realizes that there is risk in this, but he said that the smart investor, for the most part, can avoid having a total loss.

What kind of stock does a beginning investment club buy? For the most part a club will stay with the "safe" investments. For example, the McDowell Club has investments in Pepsi and Walt Disney. The club makes the decision on what to buy in group meetings. At first they used the advice and guidance of bankers and stock brokers, but now they do all this on their own.

EDUCATIONAL DIVISON NUMBER 4:

I am very proud that you, the citizens of Left Beaver Creek, have consistently demonstrated your faith in my ability to serve you as your School Board member for the past sixteen years. During my tenure as your School Board Member, I have been faced with many issues, and I have worked diligently to solve them in the best interest of the students, staff, and citizens of Left Beaver Creek and Floyd County.

One of the most recent school issues I was involved in, was the location of the New High School for the students of Left Beaver Creek. Two of my opponents, Ricky Hamilton and Klein Dean Stumbo, were very out-spoken and wanted the new school to be located at Minnie. They wanted the school moved to a site completely out of our educational division and into another School Board Member's Division. I believe students should be able to attend school in their own educational division. I fought not only to keep the new school in our educational division, but to locate the school at a site which would be more fair to all students.

The school site has now been selected, approved by the Kentucky Department of Education, and purchased by the local board. $4,440,000 has been allocated for the project. In the near future, new bids for the school's plans and specifications will be completed for the excavation and construction of the total project. When finished, the school complex will provide the most modern educational facilities for our students, second to none in Eastern Kentucky.

Young Authors Teachers Hold Planning Meeting

One of the most successful projects that has evolved in Floyd County school system in the past few years has been that of the Young Authors Program.

The program is open to all teachers and students from grades kindergarten through eight. On Oct. 10, representatives from the elementary schools met to plan this year's program at the board office in Prestonsburg.

The representatives that met to discuss the program were Dennye Layne from Harold Elementary; Kathy Dingus from Osborne Elementary; Kitty Frazier from McDowell Elementary; Janice Mitchell from John M. Stumbo; Emma Gaye Barker tin Elementary; James Bevins, Auxier; Saudra Branham, Wayland; Charlene Nunn, Clark; Janice Allen, Prestonsburg; and Ruby Miller from Maytown Elementary.

Over 4,000 books were written by students in the Young Authors Program last year. The purpose of the program is to encourage students to do writing, share that with other students at their school, and then edit the writing for publication. Each student prepares a format for his or her book and then binds it. The program reinforces writing skills and grammar knowledge by putting those into action. The Young Authors Program was from Betsy Layne; Sheila Mayo, Mar- adopted as an official part of the cur riculum in 1986 and has continued to grow. Any teacher needing information about the program should contact one of the teacher representatives at the school level, or the coordinator, Carol Stumbo, at Wheelwright High School. The books created by students will be judged at each school and sent on to the county for further competition. Winners will be decided in six different categories: illustrated books, nonillustrated books, poetry, books without words, skill books, and cover design. Winners in these categories will receive saving bonds provided by the School-Community Partnership Committee.

The German Oktoberfest is celebrated in Munich, West Germany, and around the world at this time of year. It is the largest and most famous folk festival in Europe.

In honor of the event, the Betsy Layne High School German Club held its own version of Oktoberfest.

The Mountain Passion Pageant: An Outdoor Drama

By Wilma

Thirty-five years ago, Martin presented an original outdoor drama on the life of Christ on the beautiful Dingus property now known as Pageant Hill, then owned by the late Amanda Dingus, whose devout life was long an inspiration to acquaintances.

The event started in the Martin School, to be an Easter service, but expanded so rapidly the entire town become involved. Most passion pageants offer only the closing days of Jesus' life, but since he was confronted with adversaries almost from birth— King Herod was one—the Mountain pageant contains fifty scenes, with over 200 characters.

Numbers of young people who were not born in 1953 have enjoyed seeing numerous pictures of the pageant in the storeroom window of Jewel Hardware in Martin during the Red, White and Blue annual parade, thanks to owners Clyde and Tina Allen. Many of the characters and personnel are deceased or have moved far away, but the widely-publicized event attracted thousands that memorable day.

Police estimated the crowd at 10,000, counting four persons per car. Cars were bumper to bumper from Martin back to Allen. People came from all across the state. The Courier Journal sent Gerald Griffith, who gave the story several pages, with pictures, in the succeeding Sunday edition. In addition to a booklet of the pageant, postcards of several scenes were available. Loudspeakers were attached to some of the stages provided by the men under the direction of Dr. Wade Mahood, whose energetic services belied his age. Men and boys were out each afternoon preparing for the presentation. Women spent long hours making palm trees, life-size camels, accessories and colorful costumes authentic of the Roman era. Cooperation was unsurpassed, showing what a small town can do.

The morning of the performance, many observed Martin Homecoming, with school principal James Salisbury, Demra Taylor and Mayor E.P. Grigsby Sr. in charge of countless committees for the day.

Lack of space precludes listing all personnel and entire cast of characters. A partial list follows:

Director, Blanche Dingus; reader, Dortha Allen; assistant, Iola Crisp; song director, Franklin Moore; pianist,

The booklet includes personnel for ticket office, but funds raised were adequate so no fee was charged. Donations and advertising were sufficient.

A new Conservation Reserve Program is available to help control sediment and chemical pollution to streams near Floyd County farmland, according to Sharon Conley, with the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Many Floyd County farms have cropland next to a stream, where water runoff may contain soil, crop nutrients, pesticides, animal wastes, and other organic matter, Conley said. The loss of nutrients and pesticides can lower crop productivity, reduce pest control, losses may eventually lower the productive capacity of the land. Water quality may be affected, altering the habitat for fish and other wildlife. Spawning grounds for fish are often damaged or destroyed as soil settles to the bottom of streams, rivers, and lakes. Water-holding capacity of reservoirs is reduced, increasing the risk of flooding, Conley explained.

Through the conservation program. land can now be set aside on a bid basis and increase production costs. Soil for vegetative filter strips to help reduce sediment and chemical pollution.

Land must meet the following requirements to be eligible: The land must have been planted to agricultural commodities in at least two of the crop years from 1981 through 1985. The land must be in physical condition for continued crop production.

The land must be located adjacent and parallel to a continually flowing stream, creek, or river: a seasonal stream that flows only during a portion of the year (excluding gullies and grass waterways); or a lake or other permanent body of water, including wetlands, with a surface area of at least five acres

The land, with the aid of a filter strip, must be capable of reducing the delivery of sediment to a stream or water body

To enroll in the program, applications must be submitted to the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service stating per acre payment acceptable for converting cropland.

Energy Assistance Available To Families

Energy assistance is once again available to low-income families in Floyd County through the federal Home Energy Assistance Program (HEAP), according to Social Insurance officials.

There are a few changes in the 1988-89 program, Mike Robinson, commissioner of the Department for Social Insurance, said. "There will be two phases this year instead of three. Last year, late congressional action reduced the appropriation, forcing cancellation of the application period," Robinson said. "This year, Kentucky's share of HEAP funding simply isn't enough,' Robinson added.

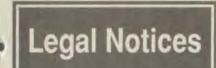

A major change affecting this year's program is the large infusion of state funding to supplement reduced a federal support, he explained. The HEAP budget also includes $3.2 million from Kentucky's Low-Income Energy Assistant Trust Fund, which was established from several nationwide crude oil and petroleum overcharge settlements.

Kentucky will have $15.6 million available for heating assistance this winter, compared to $15.5 million, which aided 135,556 families, last year. Application for the elderly and disabled will be accepted Monday, Oct. 17, and Tuesday, Oct. 18, 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m. at the National Guard Armory on Auxier Road. Applicants must bring a recent heating bill, social security

Floyd County has been chosen to mending agencies to receive these receive $37,650 to supplement emergency food and shelter programs in the area, according to Taunya Shelton, Big Sandy Area Development District ombudsman

The selection was made by a National Board made up of afffiliates of national voluntary organizations chaired by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA). United Way of America will provide the administrative staff and function as fiscal agent. The board was charged to distribute funds appropriated by Congress to help expand the capacity of food and shelter programs in high-need areas around the country.

A local board made up of the county judge-executive and representatives from various voluntary organizations (United Way, Ministerial Association, Red Cross, etc.) will determine how the funds awarded to Floyd County are to be distributed among the emergency food and shelter programs run by local service organizations in the area. The local board is responsible for recomfunds and any additional funds available under this phase of the program, said Shelton.

Under the terms of the grant from the national board, local governmental or private voluntary organizations chosen to receive funds must be nonprofit, have an accounting system and conduct an annual audit, practice nondiscrimination, have demonstrated the capability to deliver emergency food and/or shelter programs, and if they are a private voluntary organization, they should have a voluntary board. Qualifying organizations are urged to apply.

Floyd County has distributed Emergency Food and Shelter funds previously with the Floyd County Ministerial Association, which has done an outstanding job in providing many needy individuals food, shelter and assistance with utilities.

Further information on the program may be obtained by contacting Greg Hamlin, Big Sandy ADD, (606) 886-9402.

Trick-Or-Treat Tips For A Safe Halloween

It's time for the ghosts and goblins to come out for trick or treating, but before they do, be sure to heed com- wolder are allowed to wear masks in munity and county rules so it will be a safe Halloween.

The bewitching time for all trick or treaters varies around the county. In Prestonsburg, Allen. Martin and other areas of the county, trick or treat time is Monday, Oct. 31, from 6 to 8 p.m., according to county and community officials. In Wayland, it is from 5 to 7 p.m. Monday, Oct 31, and in the Wheelwright area, Melvin and Osborne Elementaries will be setting the time.

The Prestonsburg Police Department and the Floyd County Sheriff's Department have some tips for trick or treaters to follow, and will be providing extra patrols and assistance Halloween night.

Don't go to a stranger's house trick or treating

Trick or treat in local communities, and be very careful in rural areas

The sheriff's department asks people to immediately report any irregularities (such as strangers asking children into their homes or finding tainted treats), according to Deputy Sheriff George Hale.

The Prestonsburg Police Department will help youngsters cross the highway at North Arnold Avenue, at the red light downtown, and at Graham Street during trick or treat hours, according to Police Chief Dickie Campbell

The Prestonsburg force will also be giving away trick or treat bags donated by Music-Carter-Hughes and Prestonsburg Honda at Prestonsburg Elementary School Oct. 31.

Law enforcement officials also have tips for drivers Halloween night. Drive with extreme caution on all roads In Prestonsburg, watch for children at the red lights and the Mountain Parkway entrance

- Be sure to obey the speed limit

It's also a good idea for drivers to use the weekend before Halloween to check headlight adjustment, inspect wiper blades and replace worn ones. Halloween morning, take time to wash the windshield, headlights and mirrors, and check mirror adjustments.

Homeowners should inspect vards in advance and fill holes, repair steps and tighten any loose railings. Before dark Halloween night, they should clear yards of lawn and garden equipment, toys or other objects a child might trip over. At dusk, yardlights and porchlights should be turned on to light the way for trick-or-treaters.

Parents should decorate children's costumes with retro-reflective tape, and use nonallergic makeup instead of masks so that the child's view is not blocked. Younger children should carry their phone number and address with them.

Children should walk on sidewalks or in yards (not in the street): look carefully before crossing a street; cross at a corner with a street light, if possible; and carry a batteryoperated light or lantern so they can see more safely and so that others can see them easily

MUST BE HALLOWEEN NIGHT No one was in the house but me, A scary show was on the TV Loud screams came from outside, Lord, sure must be Halloween night!

I took a peek out the door window There at the gate was a white glow, Couldn't see much in the shallow light;

Lord, sure must be Halloween night!

Went to the phone to call next door, That old phone was dead for sure. On and off went the hallway light: Lord, sure must be Halloween night!

That doorbell just rang and rang. Them old shutters went bang, slap bang.

Outside, October wind blew just a might;

Lord, sure must be Halloween night!

I keep hearing someone say "wake up'

Soaked collars, wet chins and sparged noses

Were not a prize guarantee. The apples continued to bob about.

I, gingerly, dipped my chin, then my nose,

And I missed the apples too, until One apple whorled away and shot across the water.

It clumped against the side of the tub;

Precisely at that moment my teeth sank in.

I pulled it vigorously from the water in the tub.

Halloween: Then And Now

Halloween has been celebrated longer than many people realize.

Oct. 31 has been the official day of Halloween, or the Eve of All Saints' Day, since 834. One favorite Halloween tradition, the Jack O'Lantern, originated in Ireland.

Legend has it a stingy man named Jack was barred from heaven because of his miserly qualities, and forbidden to enter the underworld because he played practical jokes on the devil. Jack was condemned to walk the Earth with his lantern until Judgement Day

The pumpkin face Jack O'Lantern which we know today combines many Halloween traditions. It is a symbol of the harvest, as well as a friendly or scary mask and a reminder of the Irish legend.

There's witches and clowns and stars and such,

I sure do enjoy them very much.

And next year they will be back By Frances Jarrell

Vote For and Elect RICKY D. HAMILTON School Board Member (Dist. #4)

Mary Hall said in last week's paper "UNBELIEVABLE because it's not true." Mary, let's tell the public the real truth, by answering these questions.

(Questions 1 thru 6 asked in previous issues of The Floyd County Times.)

- 1. As a board member for 16 years, what new facilities have been constructed in Dist. #4 besides the Pete Grigsby Fieldhouse?
- 2. What have you done in your capacity as board member to improve the test scores of the students in this district?
- 3. What have you done to increase teachers salaries from the bottom 15% in the state?
- 4. What actions have you taken to increase the salaries and benefits for secretaries, bus drivers, cooks, janitor, etc.
- 5. Did you vote along with the superintendent and board chairman from Prestonsburg to build a new high school for Prestonsburg over the needs of a new grade school for Melvin?
- 6. Have you or your superintendent received a letter from Michael Luscher, State Director, Division of Buildings and Grounds, regarding the status of the new Left Beaver High School? What is that status?
- 7. Since you have voted to put a superintendent and board chairman from Prestonsburg into the Floyd County School System, do you think Left Beaver will get their fair share of money from the board.
- 8. Why was the Mitchell Hill site chosen for the new high school? Is there enough room for the high school, gymnasium, football & baseball field, track and parking to accomodate fans and visitors? Isn't there a track of bottomland within 1/2 mile of this site that could accomodate all these facilities with room for expanding in the future? Did Paul Bailey have anything to do with selecting this site?

(In last week's paper Mary Hall stated that she was "not present" at the April 2, 1986 Board meeting when Board Order No. 5556 was discussed.)

- 9. Do we need a Board Member that is not concerned enough about the needs of our children to be present at a Board Meeting when an important issue such as the new Left Beaver High School is being discussed? Mary, were you at the next meeting when the minutes of the April meeting were read and approved?
- 10. Mary, did you agree with Superintendent Ronald Hager's actions on Oct. 13, 1988, when he insisted on having school when he should have known that our children would not have adequate supervision? Do you feel that trying to "bully" the Floyd County school teachers around is more important than the health and safety of our children?

"Switch to year round heat pump comfort."

If you're tired of the uncomfortable hot blasts and cold drafts you get with your old furnace, switch to a modern electric heat pump.

In the winter, it fills your home with steady, even, comfortable heat. And in the summer, the heat pump keeps you cool because it air conditions your entire home.

If comfort is important to you and your family, it makes sense to look at the energy-efficient, flameless electric heat pump.

Books And Things Reviewing Appalachian Literature

By Trisha Morris, PCC Librarian The well-known children's writer and poet George Ella Lyon has said that a story "gives us an illumination of pattern in the material of our lives, a flash of something mysterious and comprehensible in our own thicket.

Appalachia has its own stories, but many Appalachians don't know about them. Appalachian literature does not make the New York Times' top list, nor is it sold in local variety stores. But if you're curious, it sits invitingly on the shelves of "The Bookworm" and the local libraries. This genre distinguishes itself in the field of historical fiction and poetry. It depicts mountain folks as they were-with warm humor, tender empathy and stark realism. Many of its stories are set in recognizable locales because the writers live here-they're from our own thicket.

Wilma Dykeman

The author of many books and collections of essays, Dykeman is wellknown for her insight into mountain life and for the vitality of her writing. A popular public speaker, columinist, historian and novelist, her works have appeared in the Reader's Digest, The New York Times, the Encyclopedia Brittanica and a great number of regional journals.

She describes her first novel, The French Broad as, "a chronicle of a river and a watershed of a way of life where yesterday and tomorrow meet in odd and fascinating harmony." The book is a history of the French Broad River which flows through Ashville, N.C., and Newport, Tenn. (the former where the author was born and raised, and the later where she has lived most of her adult life). Best known for her history trilogy, The Tall Woman, The Far Family and Innocent Earth, Dykeman illuminates the strength of mountain people against generations of adversity. Wilma Dykeman is an Appalachian concern with her heritage. She continues to tell the stories of the mountain people-of their "quiet courage which helped pioneer and hold and build this region for those of us who was named the Phi Beta Kappa poet at Columbia University and his first novel, River of Earth shared first place in the Southern Author's Award with Thomas Wolfe's You Can't Go Home Again.

He's been awarded several Gug-genheim Writing Fellowships, won both the American Academy of Arts and Letters Awards-the list could go on and on. He's been honored by Lincoln Memorial University, Berea College, the University of Kentucky and lately Morehead State.

Pretentious-not still. In 1939, he moved into the county-back eight miles of dirt road and two miles of creek bed to a log home on Wolfpen and LittCarr Creek-and he's still there. A paved highway has replaced the creek bad, but the most honored of Appalachian writers still lives in that cabin, tends a luxurient vegetable garden and continues to write: On Troublesome Creek, a collection of short stories; Sporty Creek, a novel about an Appalachian boyhood; The Run for the Elbertas, another collection of short stories; Jack and the Wonder Beans, a re-telling of the Jackand-the-Beanstalk story in mountain dialect; The Wolfpen Poems, and many more.

James Still, keep writing-please!

Harriette Arnow

She stood not quite 5 feet tall, but her stature as an Appalachian writer is legendary. Born and raised in the Kentucky mountains by decendants of pioneers, she was attracted throughout her life to both rural simplicity and urban intellectual stimulation. Her highly regarded regional trilogy, Mountain Path, Hunter's Horn and The Dollmaker took a mountain family through generations of living-on a path, a dirt road and a paved highway of State and Local History. Arnow's enthralling mastery of words, her humor, her unflinching treatment of social issues and human tragedy and her ability to draw readers into her characters consciousness gave her a reputation of excellence by both readers and fellow writers.

Harriette Simpson Arnow died in 1986 at the age of 77, but her stories are her legacy, and she'll live as long as her writings are alive.

Jesse Stuart

Born the son of an illiterate sharecropper in northeastern Kentucky, Stuart became a well-known writer and educator and owner of all the land his father ever worked for shares. Called a "man of strong and unique talent" by America's Poet Laureate, Robert Renn Warren, the world of Appalachian literature lost a true son of the genre when Jesse Stuart died in 1984. He had published 63 books. 450 short stories and 2,000 poems.

Jesse Stuart viewed himself as an universal writer and resented being treated as merely a regionalist, but his roots in the Kentucky hills ran deep and they are all in his work. Stuart's Appalachia is not of coal camps or mountain peaks, but of hills and farms.

Educated at Lincoln Memorial University in the same class as James Still, Stuart's first career was in education. The Thread That Runs So True is his autobiography of a rural school teacher. Words flowed from Stuart's pen like a river and his every experience was time to unstop the dam. Man With a Bull Tongue Plow is a collection of poems; Head O'W Hollow a collection of short stories; Beyond Dark Hills an autobiography; Tapps For Private Tussie a regional satire; Daughter of the Legend, a fictional history of the capture of Jennie Wiley: and Cradle of Cooperheads, a novel dealing with school politics-the list could go on and on.

them. The richness of his poor Appalachian background transcended his poverty and enriched not just Jesse Stuart, but all who have touched his life and work. His life is over, but his work will live on for every generation who cares to touch it.

Gurney Norman

Born in Grundy, Va., but raised by kinfolks all over Eastern Kentucky and southwest Virginia, he is one of the most powerful and compelling personalities ever to come out of the Appalachian mountains-and one of the regions best writers.

A graduate of the University of Kentucky, Gurney went to California on a Stegner Creative Writing Fellowship. Returning there in the late 1960s, he became the editor of the Whole Earth Catalog and had his first novel, Divine Rights Trip published in its margins. The novel is the saga of California hippies traveling east to the land of their roots. Gurney lived his story by coming home to a reporter's job on the Hazard Herald.

Since then he has published a book, Kinfolks, a collection of short stories stitched together by a character called Wilgus Collier; collaborated with Appalshop on a recording of a Jacktale, Ancient Creek; lead numerous workshops and spoken to any gathering he can get to about Appalachian literature and is presently working with Kentucky's Educational Television (KET) on a documentary of the writers in the Big Sandy Area.

In between all this he is a full-time English professor and teacher of creative writing at the University of Kentucky and he's recently co-edited an anthology, Contemporary Appalachian Poetry.

Gurney Norman has been refered to as a human whirlwind-but he always finds time to shake a hand, sign an autograph and talk-perferably about Appalachian literature. He is still writing. His new book will be called Crazy Quilt,

A resident of Knott County for the last half century, James Still was born the son of a veterinarian in the Alabama foothills. With a degree in library science from the University of Illinois, he secured the postion of librarian at the Hindman Settlement School. His ramblings throughout the country as a walking bookmobile (he carried books in a wooden box on his shoulder to people's homes) put him close to the Appalachian farmers, miners, merchants, politicians and preachers whose experiences and speech would come alive in the short stories and poems he began to publish in the '30s.

Every household with small children should have syrup of ipecac and activated charcoal in the medicine cabinet. These two antidotes to poison can be purchased without a prescription, but they should not be used without contacting a physician or poison control center. Each antidote performs a different task. Syrup of ipecac induces vomiting to rid the stomach of poison. However, it should not be used in cases where a caustic substance, such as a cleaning compound, has been swallowed. This will only cause the patient to burn his throat and mouth again with regurgitated material. Nor should syrup of ipecac be given to a convulsing or unconscious patient. As for activated charcoal, it has the ability to absorb poison. This effectively prevents its spread to other parts of the body from the stomach. It is often used after syrup of ipecac has done its work.

COOLEY APOTHECARY can provide you and your family with your total prescription and over-the-counter needs as well as any precautionary items you require. Returning series take spotlight in new season

New babies, relationships come to old shows By Mary Ann Townsend

As the new season begins to roll out, the premiering shows more often get the emphasis. But the returning favorite shows are also important. Here is a look at the new directions the old faithful series will be taking.

Babies play a big part in this season. On NBC's ALF, for instance, the Tanners will be gaining a new addition to their family since in real life Anne Shedeen, who plays Kate, is pregnant. That network's The Cosby Show and A Different World will be dealing with a real-life pregnancy a little differently, however. Look for Lisa Bonet to be hiding behind the antiques at the Huxtable household as she drops out of Hillman for a semester while awaiting her real-life baby.

ABC has its share of baby plots scheduled as well. Maggie (Joanna Kerns) will deliver her baby in the second episode of Growing Pains on Wednesday, Oct. 26. Two endings-one for a boy and one for a girl-have been taped. Hooperman is dealing with the darker side of pregnancy. Harry will have to branch out alone when his lady love, Susan, has a miscarriage and leaves his life.

Babies are not in store for CBS' returning series, but two of its more popular reinstated shows will be looking at love from two different angles. The Designing Women are planning weddings this year-on and off the screen. On screen Charlene (Jean Smart) and beau (Doug Barr) are hearing the wedding bells ring for Delta Burke and Gerald McRaney-off screen. Meanwhile, in Vermont, there's trouble in paradise for Michael and Stephanie. As they go their separate ways, the brothers Larry, Darryl and Darryl take more 5:30 2 (5) This Old House 5:35 D New Leave It To

Just as the plots twist, turn and intermingle on the primetime soaps, so will the actors who appear on them.

CBS' Dallas returns to the range this year with more emphasis on its western locale and a range war or two. With George Kennedy added to the cast, there is bound to be more action. Say goodbye to naughty Abby Ewing on CBS' Knots Landing. Donna Mills vows this is her last season as the scheming wench. Mean-while, Robert Desiderio (Heart of the City) joins the cast. Another schemer is leaving the television scene-Ana Alicia (Melissa) believes she has already filmed every "rotten thing" she could possibly do in the valleythere is nothing left ... except a worthy death scene (possibly in the third episode). Kristian Alfonso will take over as the new schemer on Falcon Crest.
