Chamber Joins Expo: Showcase '88

Floyd County's Chamber of Commerce will join with similar organizations from four other counties to represent the region at Showcase '88, an economic development exhibition Sept. 22-23 at the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center in Louisville.

Floyd, Pike, Martin, Magoffin and Johnson counties will set up booths and provide information to prospective developers and executives.

Floyd County's booth will offer brochures, pamphlets, and a video spotlighting development, education and attractions in the county.

Domestic and foreign corporate executives, as well as real estate planners, will attend the Expo to tour the various exhibits and visit with exhibitors.

"They can learn about the desirable qualities and resources available in the different communities. It is an excellent marketing opportunity," said William Lomicka, state secretary of economic development.

This is the third year for a Community Development Expo to be held in Kentucky. Approximately 100 communities participated last year.

"Showcase '88 is the premier economic development event sponsored by the Cabinet for Economic Development," Lomicka said.

Parkway Accident Claims Life Of Martin Resident

A 61-year-old Martin woman was killed and her husband injured Saturday night in a two-vehicle accident on the Daniel Boone Parkway approximately four miles west of Hazard.

According to Kentucky State Police, Charlene Maddox was pronounced dead at the scene by Perry County Coroner's Office officials.

The accident took place at 10:16 p.m. David L. Turner, 20, of Indianapolis, Ind., was traveling west on the parkway, crossed into the east-bound lane, and struck the Maddox vehicle head-on.

Johnny Maddox, 61, the victim's husband, was taken to Hazard Appalachian Regional Hospital for treatment for head and chest injuries; he has since been released.

Turner was also taken to Hazard ARH, where he remains in stable condition and is being treated for head injuries.

No seatbelts were in use. Turner was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, second degree manslaughter, no liability insurance, and failure to transfer motor vehicle registration.

The accident was investigated by Dale Richardson of the Hazard KSP post.

Funeral services were held Tuesday, Sept. 20, at 2 p.m. at Hall Funeral Home Chapel, with Garfield Potter and Mabry Holbrook officiating. Burial followed in Davidson Memorial Gardens at Ivel.

Roundup

Industry Appreciation...

Sept. 19-23 is "Industry Appreciation Week" in Kentucky, marking the 24th year a special week has been set aside to recognize the state's industries.

As part of the observance, the Floyd County Times is spotlighting R&S Truck Body Co., Inc. of Allen and Dick's Sign Co. in Prestonsburg — the only two manufacturing firms reporting expansions in the past year.

The articles and accompanying pictures are included on this week's Prospectus page.

Jobless Rate Up

Unemployment in Floyd County recorded a moderate increase of 2 percent from June to July, according to Tom Hereford, field service officer for the Employment Services Office in Prestonsburg.

A total of 2,402 persons were unemployed in July, the latest month for which statistics were available.

In Johnson County, unemployment fell markedly, from June's 13.1 percent to 11.9 percent in July. Likewise, Martin County recorded a major drop, from 18.5 to 14.6 percent. The jobless rate in Magoffin County rose somewhat, from 19.4 percent to 19.7 percent.

Despite Rain, Kiwanis Fundraiser For PCC Building Earns $17,000

By L.J. Cooley

In spite of Saturday's rain, the Prestonsburg Community College Walk-a-thon and Radiothon sponsored by the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club raised about $17,000 for PCC's science building project.

"I was very pleased, but I wish it hadn't rained," said Dr. Henry Campbell, president of the college.

At the walk-a-thon Saturday morning, there were 38 walkers "slushing through the water" along the 5-mile course, only getting a breather at Druther's and the Playhouse Restaurant (both provided refreshments), according to Dr. Blake Burchett, chairman of the event. About $10,000 was raised from the walk-a-thon.

The radiothon, which was heard on WQHY-WDOC for 12 hours Saturday, raised over $6,000. The radio station provided a volunteer staff and free air time for the event, and a large amount of the money pledged came from three area engineering firms, Burchett said.

"I was really thrilled, especially with the walk-a-thon," he said. "If the weather was better, we conceivably could have doubled the money we raised."

The success of the day showed that people are behind the project, he said. The college is having a fundraising drive for a new science building for the campus. The school has to raise $194,000 locally in pledges by Jan. 1, 1989, and have the money in hand by June 30, 1989, Campbell said.

That amount is equal to half of the debt service for the first year, and construction on the $3.1 million building will begin after that money is raised.

About $153,000 had been raised, Campbell said. After Saturday's activities, the total will be about $170,000.

"We are going to meet our target dates because we've had lots of support from the five (area) counties," Campbell said.

Rosenberg Among 11 Considered For Post

The field of candidates for the judicial vacancy in the Pikeville District of US District Court has been narrowed to 11, and at least one of the candidates is a Floyd County attorney.

John Rosenberg, director of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund, said he was notified Thursday that he was selected for an interview Sept. 24. The Federal Judiciary Selection Commission of Kentucky announced that 11 of the 40 applicants had been selected for interviews, the Lexington Herald-Leader reported Friday.

"It's an honor to be in the group of 11," Rosenberg said.

Concerns have surrounded the selection of the judge to serve the US District Court in Pikeville. A coalition of state women's groups called for "serious consideration" to be given for the selection of a woman for the position, and the Floyd County Bar Association has called for the nominee to hold court full-time in Pikeville.

According to Robert J. Turley, chair of the selection commission, the narrowed field includes residents of Lexington, Eastern Kentucky, and at least one woman, the Herald-Leader reported.

"People in this region deserve to have a full-time court in Pikeville, and I don't think there is much dispute about that," Rosenberg said.

People would like the judge to be here so he or she can be available, he said, but added, "everyone wants the judge to be the most qualified."

Rosenberg has been in the public interest sector practicing law for 25 years. He said he applied for the vacancy because it was timely, and he felt he could offer services to the region in the capacity of judge.

"Lawyers who appreciate lawyering and appreciate the law in this country might aspire to be judges at the right point in their careers," Rosenberg said.

Rosenberg has been director of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund since 1970, and from 1962 to 1970 served in the civil rights division of the Department of Justice. He is also actively involved with various community groups, including the Floyd County Bar Association, the Job Corps and the David School.

The selection commission will recommend three to five applicants to US Sens. Wendell Ford, D-Ky., and Mitch McConnell, R-Ky. They will give the names to President Ronald Reagan, who will nominate one for congressional approval.

Allen City Council Discusses Proposed Blacktopping Of 2,600 Feet Of Streets

The proposed street paving project in Allen was discussed at the Allen City Council meeting Monday night.

(The date of the meeting was mistakenly reported as Sept. 26 in last week's edition of The Floyd County Times.)

About 2,600 feet of blacktop is planned to be laid, and the city council will make final decisions on the project at the next meeting, according to Allen City Clerk Bill Parsons.

Part of Depot Street running parallel to the railroad track, a section of street from the corner of Main Street down beside Allen Elementary and Martin Street, part of Stone Street and Back Street in front of the school will be paved, according to a map distributed at the meeting.

The meeting was continued from last week for Dwayne residents to find out whether it was legal for Allen police to patrol Dwayne, but the discussion turned from the protection to possible annexation because Allen officials did not believe the police were permitted to leave city corporate lines.

Dwayne residents talked to county officials last week about the police protection issue, and they said the City of Allen could not legally allow it, Dwayne resident Doug Webb said.

Residents are looking into forming a community action committee, Webb said. They are planning to hold a meeting soon to explore possible options, but really haven't decided anything definite, he said.

Council members were expecting to hear from Dwayne residents at Monday night's meeting.

The next council meeting will be held Monday, Oct. 3, at 7 p.m. at the Water Commission building.

Curriculum Audit Begins

By Anne Chaney
Editor

The first curriculum audit in Kentucky is currently being performed by a team of education officials, who are reviewing the Floyd County School District.

Dr. Betty E. Steffy, Kentucky Department of Education deputy superintendent, is supervising a team of five; the audit began Monday, and will continue through Thursday.

"We are not evaluating schools or individual persons, but the overall management system the district has in place to monitor and adjust its curriculum so that students achieve better," said Dr. Raymond G. Melton, a team member and director of the American Association of School Administrators' National Academy of Executives in Arlington, Va.

The team will thoroughly review course content, monitoring, test results and a wide variety of additional documentation to determine how the district's priorities are communicated to administrators and educators, said Steffy. The team will meet with school administrators and teachers while visiting schools throughout the county; it met Tuesday night with members of the Floyd County Education Forum.

A slate of recommendations to improve Floyd County's curriculum will be sent in November to the local school board; compliance with recommendations is not mandatory.

Wheelwright Residents Oppose Legion Hall Site

Discussion of a proposed American Legion Club in Wheelwright drew citizens to the Wheelwright City Council meeting Saturday.

The people were concerned about the proposed location of the club, which they felt would be too close to residences and the city pool, according to Wheelwright City Clerk Mary Ann Johnson.

In other business, the council passed an ordinance to correct sewage problems and be in compliance with state and federal regulations, Johnson said. The ordinance prohibits Wheelwright residents from using the sewage system for downspout drainage.

The council approved an audit made of 1987-88 finances, she said, and had the first reading of the city tax rate, which will be the same rate of 40 cents on every $100 valuation.

They also reapplied for a water extension project through Farmers

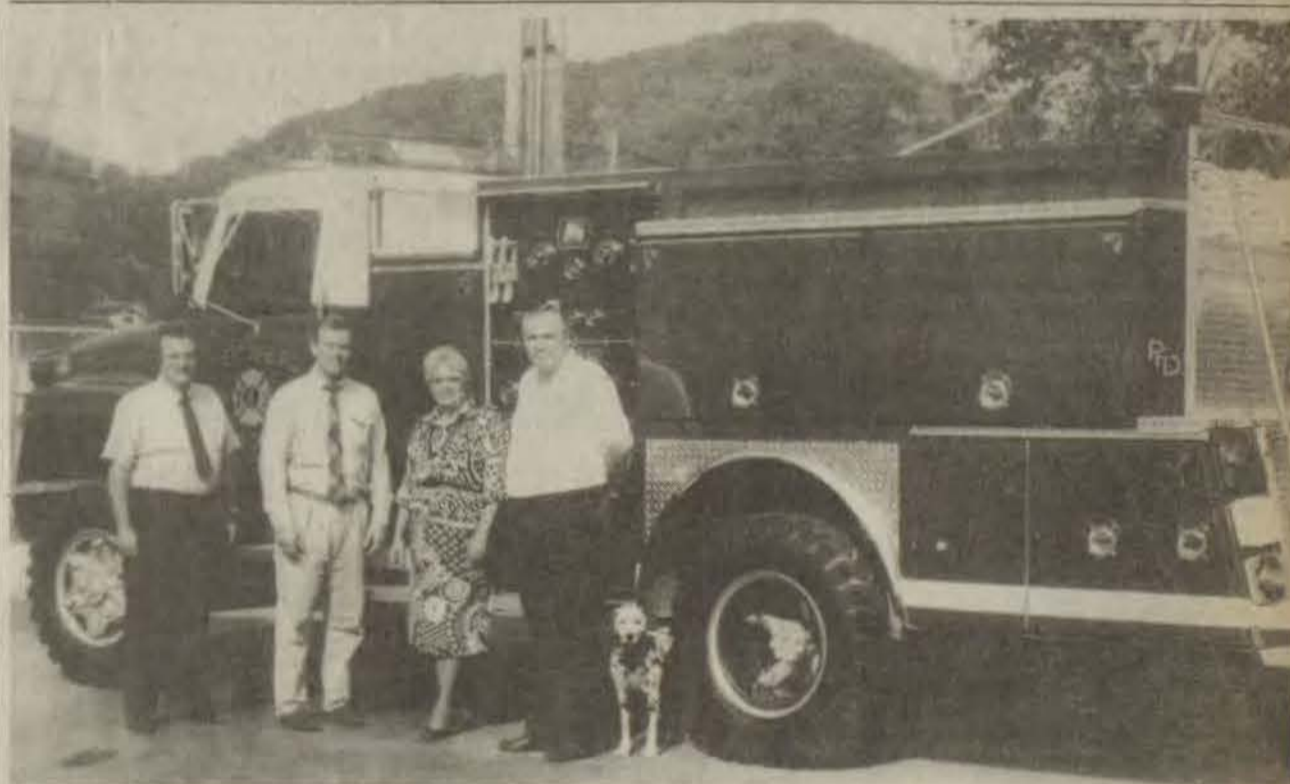

Home Administration, she said. City officials plan to extend the system to run water to Weeksburg, Jacks Creek and surrounding areas.

The city announced that it would accept bids for blacktopping and building up concrete sidewalks in the city now until Sept. 30.

In a related area, the Kentucky Department of Local Government will be having two public meetings in Wheelwright this month to get input on community development needs, and to review past and present activities under the Community Development Block Grant program.

The first hearing will be held today (Wednesday) at 1 p.m. at City Hall, and a second hearing to review the matters discussed will be held Wednesday, Sept. 28, at 1 p.m. at City Hall.

The next city council meeting will be held Saturday, Oct. 15, at 10 a.m. at City Hall.

Rescue 8 Arrives

The Prestonsburg Fire Department has a new fire truck, which was funded through area development funds. Pictured with the new truck, named Rescue 8, are Roger Recktenwald, director of Big Sandy ADD, City Manager Fred James, Mayor Ann Latta and Fire Chief Tom Blackburn.

Named Rescue 8

City Receives New Fire Truck

A four-wheel, fire-eatin' truck by the name of Rescue 8 rolled into Prestonsburg Friday to help Prestonsburg firefighters get to fires and put them out easier.

"This is what we're looking at for the future," Prestonsburg Fire Chief Tom Blackburn said about the type of truck.

Called a Rescue Pumper, the truck is a four-wheel drive diesel fire truck that can pump 1,000 gallons of water per minute, and can carry 500 gallons in the truck itself, Blackburn said. It also holds over 1,500 feet of hose, as well as fire and emergency equipment.

It's a unique truck because of its height, because it can be used in bad weather, floods and on streets that are inaccessible with the larger trucks, he said.

The truck has everything needed for the first attack of a fire, said Blackburn. "We can use it for any fire or rescue," he explained.

Blackburn said it is comparable to the larger trucks, except for one thing: the price. Funding for the truck came from area development funds through Big Sandy Area Development District, according to Mayor Ann Latta. The cost of the truck was $89,000, in comparison with the larger trucks that normally cost between $150,000 and $200,000.

"It's an all-weather truck at half the cost," City Manager Fred James said.

Fiscal Court Approves Hiring Deputy Coroners, 2 Deputy Jailers

By Janice Shepherd

In a brief session Friday, Sept. 16, the Floyd County Fiscal Court hired two deputy coroners and two part-time deputy jailers.

The court also hired a replacement truck driver in District 2, and appointed a water commissioner at Prater Creek.

According to David Barber, county attorney, under new state law, Floyd County is eligible for two deputy coroners. Glen D. Frazier and John C. Frazier were hired as deputy coroners at salaries of $200 per month each, retroactive to July 15.

Darvin D. Jarrell and Brian K. Click were also hired as part-time deputy jailers.

Jackie Edford Owens, magistrate for District 2, asked that Freddie Daniels be hired as a truck driver to replace Norman P. Bentley, who is relocating.

Lowell Sammons, former Floyd County magistrate, was appointed water commissioner of the Prater Creek Water District. Sammons replaces Ron Marstin, who has moved to Louisville. Sammons will complete Marstin's unexpired term of two months, and an additional full 4-year term.

In other business, Tamara Bolling Shepherd of Open Fork at David requested right of way be granted to South Central Bell so residents there could receive telephone service. The court unanimously agreed.

Judge John M. Stumbo opened two bids for voting machine storage and removal. The court agreed to accept the lower bid by Arnold Prater of Hueysville, for $4,499, pending an in-

Kentucky Writer To Speak At Conference

Gurney Norman, Kentucky author and educator, will speak on "Appalachian Culture in the Classroom" at the Oct. 1 conference of the Eastern Kentucky Council of Teachers of English at Prestonsburg Community College.

Norman, also an associate professor at the University of Kentucky, is scheduled to speak at 11:30 a.m. He is author of Kinfolk. All area teachers are invited to attend the conference for a $1 coffee donation.

"We expect a larger crowd this year than before," said Monnette Sturgill, President of EKCTE, "because we have asked the area superintendents to award flexible in-service credit to teachers who attend. We also expect many of our student teachers to be in the audience." Last year, 102 persons participated.

The conference is scheduled to begin at 8:30 a.m. in Pike 216 and close at 3:20 p.m. Sessions of interest to all grades are scheduled from pre-school through college. The theme for this year is "Blueprint for Literacy '88."

"Some of the presenters will be college professors, and some will be area teachers," said Alice Adams, chair of the conference committee. From Morehead, Dr. Gene Young and Drs. Mark and Edna Shack are expected.

Dr. Young will speak on "New Directions in Teaching Composition: An update on the Morehead Writing Project." The Shacks will present ideas for computer-aided writing. From Kentucky State University, Nedra Lundberg will speak on some techniques to promote better reading and writing. From PCC, presenters include Dr. Dorothy Carlson, Dr. Theresa Milon, Dr. Alice Adams, Monnette Sturgill, Gay Herrin, Mark Miller, Robert Lonney and Etta Cantrell.

Area teachers taking part in the program include Patricia Watson of Allen Central, Betty Jo Lykins of Salyersville, Anne Joseph, Salyersville, and Patsy Rainey of Conner High School of Hebron.

During lunch, a roundtable discussion is scheduled to address concerns of area teachers regarding literacy. Attendees must provide their own lunch, but drinks, coffee and doughnuts will be provided. The EKCTE also plans displays of books by publishers, doorprizes to be awarded, and a free idea exchange.

Learning To Read Can Open New World

By L.J. Cooley

(Editor's Note: Following is the second story of a two-part series concerning literacy tutor training.)

For an adult, learning to read for the first time can open up a whole new world.

Sister Mary Gervase of the Christian Appalachian Project Adult Education Advancement Program, and Charles Wilson, a literacy volunteer tutor, explained optimistically the triumphs and tribulations of the adult literacy student.

Just as tutors have fears about teaching someone how to read, the student has fears about their ability to handle learning to read, Wilson said.

One of the hardest parts of a learning program for the adult is beginning.

"What people don't realize is that (a nonreader) lives in fear that someone is going to ask them to read something they can't," Sister Mary Gervase said.

"One of the biggest fears is that everyone is going to know about (starting the literacy program)," she added, "but it is confidential. We respect the confidentiality of the person because many are afraid their employees will find out or their employer will find out and fire them."

Literacy students are over the age of 16, and most left school at an early age.

They may have left school because they were needed at home, needed to get a job to support the family, or were just frustrated because they were falling behind in school, Sister Mary Gervase said.

But the student joins the literacy program because he or she really wants to learn to read, she said.

"An education is also wanted for the possibility of getting a better job," Wilson said.

When a student first starts learning with the tutor, the progress is self-paced. They start with the basics of reading and writing and build upon that.

"The process starts at the very beginning, so the adult doesn't get frustrated," Sister Mary Gervase said. "It is a regulated system set up so the adult can learn as quickly as possible, but can move at his or her own pace."

Wilson described the learning sessions with his student. Students usually meet with their tutor one or two times a week for about an hour.

The sessions begin with the two of them working with phonetic word and letter combinations and then reading a story, Wilson said. Then they review words, answer questions about the story read and then have a writing exercise. Generally, by the end of the basic reading program, the student is reading and writing paragraphs.

The success of the student is apparent to all.

There is a spark in the students' eyes when they know they can really do it, Sister Mary Gervase said.

"The proudest moment for some of the students is that they can read to their children or grandchildren," she said. "They are also excited about the fact that they can read billboards and signs when they travel."

When the student is learning to read, many of the family members are very supportive.

Learning to read, she said, "is comparable to any new step in life."

A literacy program "is not a band-aid project," said Sheila Patton, secretary for the Adult Education Advancement Program. "Knowledge is something that lasts a lifetime and cannot be taken away from you."

Girdler Returns Home For Studies

Renee Vannucci Girdler has returned to her birthplace for part of her medical studies.

Girdler, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Lorie Vannucci of Finance Hollow near Martin, was born at Our Lady of the Way Hospital. Now as a fourth-year University of Kentucky (UK) medical student, she's doing a four-week family practice rotation here.

Every UK medical student must do a rotation in at least one of many area health education centers like Our Lady of the Way Hospital. Girdler said the Martin hospital was her first choice.

"I chose Our Lady of the Way because my family lives here, I know many people in the area, and Dr. Martin is an excellent physician," she said. "A lot of patients have told me, 'If you can be a doctor like Dr. Martin, you'll be a great physician.' I think that's definitely true."

Dr. Lowell D. Martin is a board certified family practitioner whose Martin Clinic is located across the street from Our Lady of the Way Hospital. As an assistant clinical professor of family practice for the University of Kentucky, he has guided several medical students through family practice rotations. Family practitioners Dr. Allan D. Halbert of Martin and Dr. Blake Burchett of Prestonsburg are two of his former students. As Girdler's preceptor, he is but one of two Floyd Countians named Lowell Martin who have influenced Girdler's pursuit of medicine.

The "other" Lowell Martin teaches biology at Allen Central High School. Girdler said her interest in becoming a doctor stems from him.

"I really liked the sciences," explained Girdler, who majored in biology at Transylvania University where she did her undergraduate work. "My parents have always encouraged and supported me in those areas I chose to pursue. I have always wanted to help people."

Girdler said you don't know what you're getting into until you are actually in medical school.

"I would do it again, but there are a lot of things you sacrifice...If you're married, you have to have a very supportive husband. Fortunately, I do...he's wonderful," she said with sparkling eyes and a smile.

Girdler's husband, Joseph (Joe) Girdler, is Associate Pastor of Kingsway Assembly of God Church in Versailles. One of the sacrifices of his support is seeing his wife only on weekends while she does her rotation in Martin.

Girdler plans to become a family practitioner and possibly a medical missionary. She'll get her first taste of medical missionary work when she and her husband go to Argentina in March.

"On the mission field and at a smaller facility, CAT scans and MRIs (magnetic resonance imaging) are less available," Girdler said. "So I have to be a better clinician. The history and physical are very important. You rely on fewer tests and you must listen carefully to your patients."

Girdler said her rotation at Our Lady of the Way Hospital is much like an internship. She arrives at the hospital at seven o'clock each morning and makes rounds with Dr. Martin. He co-signs the orders she writes. At the Martin Clinic, both see patients, but Dr. Martin checks all her work. Girdler also sees patients in the hospital's emergency room, but Dr. Martin reviews her histories, physicals and admission orders.

Girdler said she appreciated the efficiency of Our Lady of the Way's staff in carrying out orders. She also said the Martin hospital is a lot quieter than the University of Kentucky Medical Center where there are more students, staff and patients.

Girdler is a 1977 graduate of Martin Grade School, a 1981 graduate of Allen Central High School and a 1985 graduate of Transylvania University. She hopes to do her residency at the University of Kentucky because Lexington is where she and her husband presently make their home.

Weddington Named Designated Worker

According to Judicial Department officials, Charlotte Weddington has been hired as a court designated worker (CDW) for Floyd County.

She will assist District Judge Harold Stumbo in processing juvenile court cases. Her office is located at 26 South Central, Suite 3, Prestonsburg.

The Court Designated Worker program is a three-stage intake process for children under the age of 18 who have public or status offense actions brought against them. The first stage involves the court designated worker's availability to receive complaints against children from citizens and police officers. In the second stage, the CDW assists the court in making placement decisions for children who have been detained by police officers. In the third stage, the CDW conducts preliminary intake inquiries to recommend which cases are to be referred to a judge for a formal court hearing and which cases can be handled informally by the CDW through such options as diversion agreements. Diversion agreements may include conditions such as restitution, community service work programs, or counseling.

Kentucky's Court Designated Worker program is a major provision of the state's Unified Juvenile Code.

Letters To The Editor

Seeks Family

Dear Editor,
I am a descendant of the Hopson and Vaughan's of Floyd County. I have been researching the genealogy of my families.

My grandparents were William Lewis and Mahala Susan (Vaughan) Hopson. They were married there in 1889 and moved to Oklahoma in 1910.

I visited in that area with my parents when I was 12 years old in 1935. I remember we visited my grandmother's brother and family in Prestonsburg. I believe his name was Willie Vaughan. I do not know if he was the only member of her family living in that area. She had a brother (Patrick) and sister (Alma) living in Oklahoma.

My aunt told me several years ago I had a grandfather back a few generations that was an indian chief by the name of Grantyer Vaughan.

In my research I do not find him but a few generations farther back I do find an indian princess who was the mother of Ayres T. He is buried in Vaughan Cemetery near Patrick Swirl. I would appreciate knowing any information on Grantyer Vaughan or whether any Vaughans are still living there could be distant relatives of mine.

My grandfather Hopson was of a family of about 10 children. I remember we visited one of his brothers in a town near there. We had to have our car on the highway and walk to the town down the railroad track. We later walked through a mountain (which was a mine) to visit someone else on the other side of the mountain. I believe she was a cousin and had a grocery store. We also saw my grandparents old home near the Big Sandy.

Since this was 53 years ago I'm not too sure about the facts. I'd also like to know if there are any Hopsons living there now.

I would appreciate it if you could put me in touch with any relatives of mine.

I am trying to trace relatives in Floyd County. I would like to contact relatives of Pres and Louisa Meade, Henry and Rhoda Mead, Alice or Juda Poe, and also relatives of Boyds, Moores and James.

The Meads are my great-uncles and the Poes are my great-aunts and uncles.

Thanks for any help given me.

Guest Column

By Ken McAskil

The recent hoopla concerning Republican vice-presidential candidate Dan Quayle's membership in the National Guard has served to cloud another issue concerning him—that of his voting record concerning veterans benefits. Republicans and conservatives are trying to cast this as a battle between the press, which is widely considered to be liberal and conservative Republicans.

After looking carefully at Quayle's voting record, you come to the logical conclusion that since Quayle is for a strong defense—unlimited billions of dollars for military budgets—then he must believe that veterans are expendable and disposable. It is impossible to believe otherwise. Here are the most important issues for veterans to come to the senate since he was first elected:

Judicial Review. The Veterans Administration is one of the largest agencies in our government and recent congressional investigations have reported that the VA frequently makes wrong decisions and then covers up its mistakes. Also, the major appeals arm—the court of last resort of the VA—is presently being sued for acts of malfeasance in its conduct of the appeals process. Judicial review would give the veteran the right to challenge the VA decisions from this appeal board in court. Quayle voted no!

Cabinet Status for the Veterans Administration. The reasoning behind this bill is that the VA has no reporting responsibility to anyone or supervision by anyone. The president appoints its administrator, and if he chooses to ignore his administrator's deeds or misdeeds, there is no one who can slap the VA's hands. As a Cabinet-status agency, the Secretary of Veterans Affairs must be confirmed by the Senate, and his activity will reflect on the senators who voted for him.

This will keep the senators interested in what's happening at the VA, for they have to run for election again; and as we know, there aren't too many senators who want to be known as opponents of veterans issues. Quayle voted no on this issue!

Other Issues of Primary Importance To Veterans: Quayle has repeatedly and continuously opposed all issues concerning benefits to be offered to veterans. Here is a listing of other veteran-related bills which Quayle has opposed:

—He opposed a bill designed to continue funding to preserve the storefront Vet Center providing counseling and assistance to Vietnam veterans.

—He opposed appropriating $20 million dollars to provide veteran job training and retraining.

—He opposed three appropriation bills for veterans programs in the previous congress, one of which simply called for maintaining disability payments to veterans in the face of the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings budget reduction bill.

—He opposed compensating Vietnam veterans for cancers caused by Agent Orange, a toxic defoliant. (This bill is still pending).

—He opposed granting disability to U.S. soldiers disabled by radioactive fallout from atomic bombs dropped on Japan in 1945.

If you logically extend his voting record on veterans issues; and combine it with his voting record on Defense appropriations, then you must come to the inescapable conclusion that Dan Quayle is strongly in support of disposable veterans. That is to say, he supports a strong military, but when the soldiers, sailors, marines, airmen, and all other human beings have gone, and have given their best for the best interests of their country, when they have sacrificed home, family, frequently health, often their life, then that's it! Forget 'em—we've got the good out of them—let 'em shift for themselves.

We can't afford to use up the money, we need to train their disposable replacements. The problem certainly has not been with the legislation we have outlined; for every bill that he has opposed has been passed and made into law. All that seems to leave is lack of empathy for veterans. Shame on Dan Quayle!

Court Street, First Avenue Site Of Two Separate Auto Accidents

Two separate accidents occurred Tuesday, Sept. 13, on Court Street and First Avenue in Prestonsburg. According to Capt. G. Hall, Prestonsburg Police officer, when Charles Deaton of Hazard was unable to complete a left turn from Court Street onto First Avenue, he backed his tractor-trailer for a second attempt. The semi struck a parked vehicle on Court Street owned by Tom O. McGuire, a general contractor from Prestonsburg. Hall said no citations were issued and no one was injured. New London Freight System at London is the owner of the tractor-trailer. The second accident at that location occurred when a Royal Crown Bottling truck ran into the side of a vehicle driven by Myrtle Potter of Prestonsburg. Jim Mullins, investigating police officer, said no citations were issued to the driver of the truck, Thomas E. Cook of Sitka. No injuries were received.

Woman Seriously Injured During Hit-And-Run Accident On Friday

Donna K. Castle, 37, was seriously injured Friday, Sept. 16, in a hit-and-run automobile accident at the intersection of US 23 and Plaza Road in Prestonsburg. Castle was traveling south on US 23 when a dark brown or burgundy van pulled from Plaza Road into the path of her vehicle, according to Prestonsburg police. Castle struck the rear of the van. After impact, the van drove through the grass in the median and continued south, leaving the scene of the accident. Castle was treated at the scene by Rescue Squad 8 of the Prestonsburg Fire Department, and was transferred to Highlands Regional Medical Center for head and respiratory problems. According to Officer Ricky Conn, the incident is still under investigation. In an unrelated accident Sept. 16, Jenny Wiley Village Liquors received structural damage when a car driven by Roger C. Amburgey of Prestonsburg crashed through the store.

Amburgey said his brakes failed. He went over a barrier in front of the store and into the building near a liquor display. The vehicle hit a table display and bounced back outside, coming to rest on the front porch. The store is owned by Paul Thompson of Prestonsburg. Damage estimates were unavailable as of presstime. Monday, Sept. 12, a 1986 Chevrolet Blazer owned by Raymond Sumpten of Inez rolled down a hill in the Prestonsburg Community College parking lot, and struck a parked car owned by Emily Brown of Elsmere. Darrell J. Conley, investigating officer, said damage was slight. An 18-wheel coal truck driven by Gerald Frasure of Prestonsburg struck a delivery van in the rear end Thursday; the truck was driven by Russell Walter of Huntington, W. Va. Walter was attempting to turn in at the Market Place on Ky. 1428 in Prestonsburg around 9:40 a.m. when the accident occurred. Sgt. Gerald Clark said no citations were issued.

By Susanne Walkeman

As each of us face the struggles of a hectic society, we wonder exactly what our purpose is here on earth. When we stop to contemplate these things, often our thoughts are drawn to a greater being than ourselves—a Supreme Being full of love and compassion for all mankind.

We all seek to understand the truths about God, and so, as a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, let me share with you some of those truths about how each of us individually can know about God and the purpose of our lives here on earth.

We know that God lives. We worship God as the Almighty Ruler of heaven and earth. We are children of our Father in Heaven created in His image, and, because He is the Father of all people, we are all brothers and sisters. He loves us and wants each of us to achieve true, eternal happiness.

He has promised that we can grow spiritually and become more like Him, eventually to return to live with Him and enjoy eternal happiness. To achieve this exaltation, He has prepared a plan to enable us to achieve this purpose. If we follow this plan of salvation we will find joy in this life and eternal life with Him.

God knew that without His help we could not return to live with Him; therefore, He provided us a way through His Son, Jesus Christ. The sin we all commit in this life could make us worthy to dwell in the presence of God but, because He loves us, our Heavenly Father sent His Son, Jesus Christ, to redeem us. Through Christ's resurrection, he overcame physical death so that we can live again after this life. Thus, by his perfect example and his teachings, Jesus Christ showed us how to fulfill the plan of our Heavenly Father. Our duty is then to accept Christ and follow his teaching, which have been revealed to the prophets and recorded in the scriptures.

Our Heavenly Father wants us all to understand the plan of salvation and the mission of Jesus Christ in that plan; therefore, He has established a simple pattern in revealing this plan to His children. We are told in the scriptures that "Surely the Lord God will do nothing, but He revealeth His secret unto His servants the prophets." (Amos 3:7)

He chooses righteous men and reveals truth to them. He then commands these prophets to teach others about God's plan, and He gives them authority to act in His name.

When people hear the teaching of these men, or read the scriptures they write, i.e., the Holy Bible Our Heavenly Father has provided a way for all to know of their truthfulness. The Holy Ghost has been promised to bring peace and comfort to one's soul when the truths of God are read or heard. Finally, when people know the truth by the power of the Holy Ghost, the servants of the Lord invite them to act upon this knowledge.

God has followed this pattern in our day by choosing a latter-day prophets—Joseph Smith. In 1820, young Smith prayed to know which church he should join. In answer to his humble plea for direction, God the Father, and Jesus Christ, His son, appeared to him. Through him they restored the truth about God's plan for us. Smith was a prophet and powerful witness of Christ.

As a witness of Christ, Smith received authority to teach the gospel of Jesus Christ. He also brought forth additional scripture. He was commanded to translate the writings of ancient prophets who lived on the American continent. These writings are found in the Book of Mormon: Another Testament of Christ.

These ancient American prophets, along with those who wrote the Holy Bible, testify of Jesus Christ and his mission. For centuries the truth about the plan of salvation was available primarily in the Bible. God has now given us the Book of Mormon. It stands as another witness of Jesus Christ alongside the Bible to bring all people to a greater understanding of our purpose here on earth and to help us understand what we must do so that we may live forever with our Heavenly Father.

R&S Truck Body: Building Quality Into Products

By Anne Chaney
Editor

When production began in February 1969, R&S Truck Body Co., Inc., of Allen manufactured about eight truck bodies weekly.

In peak periods this year, the firm will complete about 60 each week.

R&S Truck has grown by leaps and bounds since its founding, acquiring Reynolds Body Co. in 1974, and Page Manufacturing in November 1987. The firm has expanded its operations to include an installation plant in Richmond, opened in November 1982, and a manufacturing and installation center in Mulberry, Fla., opened in September 1985.

For a company whose major advertisement is its name and logo on truck mud flaps, that's quite an achievement.

"This company was founded on the principle of quality, and we've always believed that, and built our reputation on building a quality product," says Dolores Smith. She and her husband, Bill, own the privately-held company.

"We have very few warranty problems — we go out of our way to make things stronger than they need to be," she adds.

R&S manufactures truck bodies for both on- and off-highway use. By scheduling a minimum lead time of six weeks, the company can produce truck bodies, from start to finish, in about three days. It is not unusual for a customer to order a body in advance, then drive in and have it mounted and leave the same day.

The company manufactures about 2,000 truck bodies annually, and installs 1,200. Last year, R&S had sales in excess of $17 million.

According to Charles Collins, general manager, R&S hits its "busy season" in the spring. In peak periods, the company will manufacture 60 bodies weekly, installing about 40 and shipping the others to distributors and customers.

R&S has about 200 employees, making it one of the county's larger employers. With a policy of hiring and training its workers, says Collins, someone may begin as a janitor, and train during the day as a welder.

"We have a good group of people around here," he says. "They're willing to work hard."

The R&S employees are quality-conscious and hard-working, says Smith, the turn-over rates are low.

Wages are in line with industry standards, and R&S offers an excellent benefit package that includes incentive bonuses and generous vacations.

"This company is successful because of the people we have working here — both in management and in the plant," Smith notes.

"Most of our business is in the northeast (United States)," adds Collins. "So why are we here? How are we successful? It has to be the people and the quality of the product we're putting out. Otherwise, why would people drive to Eastern Kentucky to have a truck body put on?"

With the fluctuation of the coal industry in the late 1970s, R&S expanded its product line substantially. Today, most truck bodies manufactured on the 10-acre complex are for construction vehicles; only five to 10 percent are for coal trucks.

Although R&S is one of several truck body manufacturers in its market area, it is highly regarded among distributors east of the Mississippi River. The company also does some exporting; it has shipped 30 units to Puerto Rico, and in 1981, manufactured 56 units for Iraq.

"We primarily sell to distributors, who in turn may sell them overseas," explains Collins. "We really don't know where they are going when we sell them."

R&S produces both aluminum and steel truck bodies and trailers, and has begun computerization in some areas of the manufacturing process. In one facet of the operation, a computer is used to cut and punch 148 regularly-used small parts. From start to finish, it requires about 40 minutes. The same job, said Collins, would have taken an employee at least two days, with lower quality control and higher waste.

With its December 1987 purchase of Page Manufacturing, R&S added a line of suspension systems for trucks and trailers.

"We were buying them from other people, and once we bought Page, we could manufacture our own," explains Collins.

"They are the best trailer suspensions in the business — bar none," adds Smith.

The acquisition proved to be a cost-saving measure for R&S, and also added eight people to its payroll.

R&S Truck Body was founded in 1969, owned by the Smiths, Marcum Reynolds and Gilva Reynolds. The Smiths purchased the Reynolds' stock in 1976, when Mr. Reynolds retired.

Dick's Sign Co. Marks Expansion In Product Line

"Keeping up with the times" is Charles Diskey's response to Dick's Signs recently expansion.

Dick's Signs was named one of the manufacturing corporations in Floyd County that had industrial expansion in the past year, according to the Kentucky Cabinet for Economic Development.

The outdoor advertising company, headquartered in Prestonsburg, has expanded office space, work load, number of employees and has recently had to computerize to keep up with everything, according to Diskey, who is manager and vice president of the corporation.

The company has expanded to manufacturing any type of sign a customer needs, and all the structures are built and installed by the company, he said.

Less than five years ago the company had fewer than 50 billboards, but has expanded to over 350 in its 20 county service area in Kentucky and West Virginia, Diskey said.

With this expansion, Dick's Signs has been able to keep some costs down. Electric signs are sold at the same price as 10 years ago, and are better quality signs, Diskey said.

Wheelwright Program Earns Recognition

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development has chosen four Kentucky development projects in its Urban Development Excellence recognition program, U.S. Senator Wendell Ford, D-Ky., said Tuesday.

Three development projects in the state were among the 155 applicants out of a field of 400 to receive recognition.

The city of Wheelwright received recognition for overall impact for its efforts to revitalize housing, economic development and employment in the coal mining town.

"These projects reflect one of the greatest partnerships around, and that is the cooperation of private and public entities working together to solve Kentucky's tough economic needs," Ford said.

All four projects represent strong grass roots efforts bolstered by state and federal support to make the quality of life in the state the best it can be.

Two other projects in the same field as Wheelwright were the Festival Square Market Commercial Project in Lexington, and the city of Bellevue Center School Elderly Housing Project.

The city of Jamestown Union Underwear Expansion project was chosen as one of 20 in the nation for National Excellence.

Manufacturing Truck Bodies

R&S Truck Body Co., Inc., of Allen, was one of two Floyd County manufacturing firms reporting expansions within the last 12 months. The company makes and installs truck bodies for on- and off-highway use. Founded in the late 1960s, the firm had sales in excess of $17 million last year.

Audit Of District Is Underway

The team will address the district's financial status only as it pertains to the curriculum, said Steffy.

The audit is the first in Kentucky, and the first nationally by a state Department of Education performed in cooperation with a local school district.

The audit team includes Steffy; Professors Fenwick W. English and John Hill from the University of Cincinnati; Melton; and Dr. Steve Henderson and Kay Freeland of the Kentucky Department of Education.

In a written statement issued earlier this week, Floyd School Superintendent Ronald Hager noted that the local district requested that it be allowed to participate in a curriculum audit.

The findings of the curriculum audit team will be used to develop specific recommendations to improve and upgrade curriculum management in Floyd County, said Hager. He said additional assistance from other officials of the Department of Education (focusing on instruction, certified and non-certified staffing, finances and budget and other accreditation standards) will be sought.

"Even with the improvements and progress made in the Floyd County School District since 1983, the recent accreditation report still cited 91 instances of non-compliance with accreditation standards," the statement read. "Many of these non-compliances will be addressed immediately, and others requiring alterations of facilities will be corrected with new and renovated facilities."

"My goals are to initiate programs which will bring about higher student achievement, better student attendance, lower student dropout rates, safe facilities for our students, better teacher morale, and a financially sound school district," said Hager.

In her Sept. 13 memo to the Kentucky State Board of Education concerning the curriculum audit and Floyd County schools, Steffy noted that the concept was first employed in 1979 in Columbus, Ohio, a system of over 80,000 students. Since that time, it has been used in over two dozen school districts in seven states. Five of the audits have been part of state or federal litigation concerning school finance or desegregation issues.

Most curriculum audits contain approximately a dozen to two dozen findings, and are developed with a dozen or so specific recommendations to improve and upgrade the curriculum management of a school district, Steffy wrote.

First Immunization

Sureka Scott, above, is getting her first immunizations at the Floyd County Health Department. She is 2 months old which is the time infants should begin their immunizations. Immunizations are required before entry to school and babies should be immunized against polio, tetanus, diphtheria, pertussis at age two months, four months, six months and 18 months. They should also be immunized against rubella, measles, and mumps at fifteen months of age. Babies who receive their immunizations at these ages will need a booster before starting school. These immunizations are available at the Floyd County Health Department in Prestonsburg from 8:30 until 3:30 Monday through Friday. Call 886-2788 for an appointment. There is a charge for the immunizations.

Court Approves Storage Bid

investigation of the storage facility by the county court clerk.

Arthur Jeffery Shepherd submitted the second bid, $5,850, for the November and May elections.

A written report from Henry A. Vick, director of the Division of Local Valuation, assessed county property tax at $22,059. The court agreed to pay the first quarterly installment of $10,996 to the property valuation administration.

The court also agreed to pay members of the Board of Assessment Appeals and the County Clerk: Wesley Howard, Joe Yates, Stephens Jenkins and Caria R. Bolton, $125 each for their services in hearing appeals and reviewing tax assessments.

David D. Allen, president of East Kentucky Utilities, explained to Fiscal Court members that $50,000 is needed to continue construction of the gas system in the Estill through Shop Fork area. Allen said 1,300 customers will benefit from the renovations.

Allen was authorized to secure a loan through First Commonwealth Bank, pending FmHA loan approval.

Hamlet Lovely was appointed to the Board of the Housing Authority to replace Paul Hunt Thompson, who resigned.

Further businesses included:

- John's Branch county road, off Buffalo Road, previously used by Addington, Inc., was accepted back to the county road maintenance system.
- A public passway leading to the old Church of Christ at Harold was closed due to the church being destroyed by fire.

- A $30 check to Hollie Barnett issued in the presidential primary election was voided and reissued.
- William Joe Kendrick, electrical inspector, returned to the county $1,096 in fees collected.

The meeting concluded with unanimous approval to pay all bills and claims submitted.

All members were present at the meeting except Ed Caudill, magistrate for District 3.

SWEEP LEFT: Wheelwright had success on sweeps such as this as Chad Hall (19) leads Handy Jackson up field. But costly mistakes allowed Johns Creek to earn a victory over the Trojans Friday night.

Trojans Barely Miss Victory Despite Lopsided Final Score

Shawn McKenzie, who wasn't even supposed to play, caught two Bobby Hood touchdown passes. The Wheelwright defense held Johns Creek four times after the Bearcats had gotten deep into their territory.

The Trojans gained 116 yards in the first half, while allowing Johns Creek only 38, and Hood enjoyed one of his best passing efforts ever.

It sounds good for Wheelwright, as if they put their total game together against the Bearcats. It was good too, except for three plays, which turned what could have been a Trojan victory into a 29-6 loss at home Friday night.

Although Johns Creek could manage only 38 yards of total offense in the first 24 minutes, they were not without points. The Bearcats sacked Hood in the end zone for their first two points, then recovered a fumble for another six.

One of the two McKenzie touchdown receptions was nullified by a penalty, and the Trojans allowed Johns Creek, which led 15-6 at the time, to score on a 45-yard run.

The punt attempt that went afoul, the ineligible man down field penalty, and the quick hitter for a touchdown did it. Wheelwright fans along the sideline mentioned, "We should be behind by one point," they said.

"We stopped it pretty well in the first half," Wheelwright coach Roger Johnson said of Johns Creek's running game. "But they came out in the second half and kept it for six or seven minutes."

"It kind of takes the fire out of the kids when they have to play defense that long and then come right back and play offense," the coach added.

Johns Creek, coming off its best season ever in 1987, took the opening kickoff the second half, and drove it 67

Slone Led Tigers Get Revenge In Shutout Over Prestonsburg

What a difference a year makes. What a difference a little experience makes. What a difference a little Slone makes.

Just over a year ago, the Prestonsburg Blackcats were whooping it up in celebration of a 41-6 thrashing of a young Paintsville team.

The Blackcats in a rebuilding stage themselves, had not only handed Paintsville one of their worst defeats ever, they had embarrassed the proud Tigers, and rubbed their noses in the shame.

But what comes around goes around, and Paintsville, 3-8, survived the defeat and the 1987 season. They may even be a better team because of their pitiful year last season.

They certainly showed it Friday night, shutting out Prestonsburg 27-0 in their first home game, and gaining a bit of revenge over basically the same team that had beaten them on that impressive Blackcat night last September.

Paintsville is one of the state's most improved teams, and one reason is their defense. Another reason is transfer tailback Greg Slone.

The Tigers, in five games, have given up a total of eight points, and earned their fourth shutout of the season Friday night. They are averaging just above 30 points per game on offense.

"The best part of their defense is their defensive backfield, and that kind of surprises me," Prestonsburg coach Bill Letton said. "They played bump and run and I've never seen a high school team play bump and run as well as they do."

Prestonsburg was held to 71 yards passing, well below their average, and Tim Trusty, normally an effective passer, completed only six of 21 passing attempts. The Blackcats, as a team, were six of 25 throwing the football.

Prestonsburg, 1-4, didn't enjoy much more success running the football, although senior fullback Kevin Dotson found consistent running room. Of the Blackcats' 117 running yards, Dotson had 75 of those on 17 carries.

Junior tailback Aaron Flannery ran 13 times for 38 yards before leaving the game with an injury. Trusty and wide receiver Jamie Howell were also hurt, and may miss Prestonsburg's game Friday against C.A.P.E.

"We moved the ball well," Letton said. "It's just the same old story. We moved the ball well between the 20s but when it comes time to score, we can't get the job done."

A prime example of Prestonsburg's scoring problems came late in the game when they received a fumble on the Tiger 31, and failed to score after a pass interference call gave them a first and goal from the five.

Although the points wouldn't have affected the outcome, it effectively described Prestonsburg's problems of taking advantage of scoring opportunities.

"Again we didn't show up ready to play. How many times has it happened? We got out and spot a team two or three touchdowns," Letton said.

"They ran five offensive plays and scored on three of them," the coach added. "And it wasn't anything we didn't expect. We just weren't ready."

Paintsville scored 21 points in the first quarter, two on long runs by Trojans Barely Miss Victory...

yards on 16 plays for a score.

Fullback Stacy Hunt, who led the Bearcats with 103 yards rushing, found the end zone from nine yards away, giving Johns Creek a 15-0 lead when he capped off the drive which ate up 6:58 of the third period.

But that wasn't the one that caused Wheelwright all the pain. The Trojans, on their next drive, marched from their own 14 to the Bearcat 45, and on a fourth and eight play Hood hooked up with McKenzie on a touchdown bomb. But the bomb was dropped on Wheelwright instead, coming in the form of an illegal man downfield, bringing the football back to the 49 and forcing the Trojans to punt.

One thing Johnson has praised his players most for this season is the desire to come back, and thanks to uncontrollable Bearcat tempers, Wheelwright was given that opportunity to get back into the contest.

After the punt, which Johns Creek would have taken at their 39 yard line, Johns Creek was flagged with a dead ball personal foul followed by an unsportsmanlike conduct call, pushing them all the way back to the nine yard line.

From there the Trojan defense took control, driving Johns Creek backward, and recorded a sack on third down, forcing the Bearcats to punt from their own seven.

Wheelwright, after taking the short kick on the enemy 22, scored on its first play when Hood hooked up with McKenzie on a touchdown pass. This one, which McKenzie took away from a Johns Creek defender, held up, and the Trojans trailed by only nine with 11:32 remaining on the fourth quarter clock.

Later in the quarter the Trojans had the football in Johns Creek territory when Vic Cotton picked up a six-yard ground gain, moving Wheelwright to the Bearcat 46.

But on the next play Cotton, who led the Trojans with 42 yards rushing, was caught for a nine-yard loss. Wheelwright, though faced with a fourth and 13 play, went for the first down, but Hood's pass came up incomplete.

That's when the Bearcats really inflicted true pain upon Wheelwright's winning chances. On their initial play after taking possession, Hunt broke loose straight up the middle and raced 45 yards for the score.

The touchdown, which came with 5:07 left, allowed Johns Creek to go up 22-6, and Johnson said the score did severe damage to the Trojan effort.

"I felt we were in the ballgame until their next to last score," Johnson said. "We were in an all-out blitz, and they just popped it up the middle."

Wheelwright, after the score, was forced to pass, which Hood did effectively, throwing for over 100 yards, but the Trojans turned the football over on an interception with 3:08 remaining. Hood, who completed eight of his 15 attempts for 102 yards, apparently thought his receiver was going deep, but McKenzie ran a shorter route, leaving the pass downfield easy pickings for Johns Creek defensive back Lawrence Branham.

The Bearcats turned the interception into points when Derrick Scott ran five consecutive times for 36 yards and the eventual score with 1:10 remaining in the game.

Johns Creek, 3-1, scored eight points in the first quarter before its offense even touched the football, putting the Trojans in a tough position early.

"They never earned a point in the first half," Johnson said, mentioning Wheelwright's breakdowns which led to the Bearcat points.

"I couldn't tell from where I was whether it was a bad snap or what, but I told Adam (punter Hall), who's still inexperienced back there, in that situation to just cover it up and take the safety."

But this time it was Johns Creek who recovered the loose pigskin in the Wheelwright end zone, increasing their lead to 8-0.

The Bearcats, on their first defensive series, sacked Hood on the one yard line, then caught the Trojan passer again, this time in the end zone, to take a 2-0 advantage with just under 11 minutes left in the first quarter.

On its next possession Wheelwright again found little success against the Bearcat defense, and sent in its punting team with 2:12 left in the initial period.

But the football, slippery from a light but constant rain, slipped through Hall's hands, and ended up as six points when Johns Creek fell on it.

It was plays such as this, although not numerous, that allowed Johns Creek to earn its third win of the season and drop Wheelwright to 1-4 on the year.

The Trojans, which had 195 yards of total offense, was led in rushing by Cotton's 42 yards. He carried 11 times.

Handy Jackson, a senior tailback, rushed the football six times, gaining 31 yards and turning it over on a fumble. Chris Thornberry ran for 12 yards on three attempts. Hood had two yards and one fumble on four carries.

Hood completed passes to five different receivers, with Todd Jackson as his main target. The wide receiver hauled down three balls for 40 yards. Chad Hall caught two passes for seven yards, and Handy Jackson, Thornberry, and McKenzie had one reception each.

Wheelwright, after taking this week off (a rest Johnson says his team desperately needs), will take on district foe and county counterpart Allen Central at home next Friday.

The game will be Homecoming for the Trojans, but it will also be a coming home for the Allen Central coaching staff. Rebel head coach Donnie Daniels played for Wheelwright in the late '70s while his assistant coach and father Don coached Wheelwright to several successful seasons earlier in his coaching career.

quarterback Jeremy Holbrook and Slone. Tucker Howard scored their other first quarter touchdown on a five-yard run.

Holbrook, who grew up in neighboring Magoffin County, broke loose for a 66-yard scamper to put the Tigers on the scoreboard early. After Howard's run, Slone tacked on a 43-yard score to the list of big Paintsville plays.

Slone, a transfer from Johnson Central, led all runners with 121 yards on 12 carries. He scored two touchdowns for the Tigers.

"He adds a little bit of speed to their team," Letton said of the tiny tailback. "They've got good size, and he gives them some more quickness."

Holbrook added 82 yards to Paintsville's running efforts, and threw for 65 yards. The Tigers had 288 yards of total offense, most of them coming in the first half.

Prestonsburg, which will probably be without four starters (including tight end Danny Hamilton who underwent knee surgery Monday) plays C.A.P.E., a highly regarded football school from Cincinnati, Ohio.

"I know they're strong and I know they're fast," Letton said of Friday's opponent. I had a friend go down and watch them Friday night, and they jumped out to a 28-0 first quarter lead."

C.A.P.E., 3-0, has received national recognition for their football prowess in the past, and all indications say that this year will be no different.

But even if Prestonsburg, which has already played two top five teams in the state in different classes, survives this week, the following one certainly won't be any easier.

"Then we have to turn right around and go to Belfry," the Blackcat coach said of his next two games. "So we've got a tough couple of weeks in head of us."

Football Contest Winner Named

Gary Newsome of Grethel claimed the $25 first prize for week two of The Floyd County Times Football Contest, but it took a tie-breaker for him to do so.

Newsome selected 10 of the 12 winning teams involved in the contest, but so did Justin Hopkins of Minnie. Newsome, however, picked Morehead State and Kentucky State (used to break ties) to score 47 points. Hopkins listed 50, giving the money to Newsome.

The only games Newsome missed were the Florida State-Michigan matchup and the Minnesota at Chicago game. Hopkins took Sheldon Clark and Eastern as his incorrect choices.

Entries for this week more than doubled those received during week one of the contest. The Times would like to thank all those taking part in the Football Contest, remind those participating to doublecheck their entry blanks.

The games listed in the advertisers boxes are the games being used, and must appear in their correct positions, as numbered, on the entry blank.

Last week's winners were: Betsy Layne, Paintsville, Marshall, LSU, Florida State, Miami, Notre Dame, Indiana, Minnesota, Cincinnati, Washington and the New York Jets.

Bobcats Find Position Changes A Positive Move

Kevin Spurlock came to Betsy Layne from Allen Grade School regarded as one of the best quarterback prospects the Bobcats had ever had. His grade school success was near remarkable, 32 for 44 with 12 touchdown passes, but high school football had not been quite as successful for Spurlock.

At least not until this past Friday when the junior quarterback directed his Betsy Layne team to a 20-9 win over the Sheldon Clark Cardinals in Inez.

Spurlock, who sat out his sophomore season after serving as a starting linebacker as a freshman, connected on several key passes, keeping Bobcat drives alive and allowing Betsy Layne to win its second game of the season.

"We just wanted to try a different look at quarterback," Vince Tucker, Betsy Layne's head coach, said about playing Spurlock at quarterback.

"We had been going with just one quarterback without a backup, but now we've got somebody else with some experience there."

Craig Hunter had been the regular Betsy Layne quarterback, but Friday he saw action at a different position while Spurlock, a junior, started his first ever high school game at QB.

Although Tucker, in his second year as the Bobcat mentor, says the move isn't necessarily a permanent one, he liked the way the offense moved with Spurlock directing the action.

"He did a lot of good things for us," Tucker said. "The line was doing a good job, and everything just sort of started clicking at the same time," Tucker said.

Spurlock threw for 107 yards and rushed for over 50 while the Bobcat defense completely shut down the Sheldon Clark offensive attack. The Cardinals, 0-4, had only three first downs, all coming in the first half.

Betsy Layne, behind Spurlock's passing and balanced running from a trio of backs, managed 18 first downs in one of their better offensive showings of the season.

Chris Bias, Chris Kidd, and Keith Hall all scored touchdowns for Betsy Layne. Kidd, a senior tailback, crossed the goal line with 11:07 remaining in the second quarter, putting the Bobcats up 6-0.

The drive, which was helped along by two Sheldon Clark penalties, featured two third down completions that allowed the Bobcats to retain possession.

A face mask penalty added 15 yards to the drive, and on a fourth and one try inside the five the Cardinals jumped offside, giving Betsy Layne a first down.

During the drive Spurlock, on a third and 10 from the Cardinal 26, connected with tight end Dave Reznick for a 15-yard gain. Later the two, again on third down, hooked up for a 13-yard pass play.

After the offside penalty Bias took the football to the one, and from there Kidd carried it over for the score. But after a penalty nullified a successful PAT kick, the extra point try fell short on the second try.

In the first half, Betsy Layne held the Cardinals to 36 yards of offense and three first downs while rolling up over 100 themselves.

But even though the Bobcats held a decisive edge in total yards and time of possession, just seconds into the third quarter they found themselves trailing 8-6.

Sheldon Clark took the lead when Mike Cain returned the opening second half kickoff 82 yards for a touchdown. Fullback Mike McCormick ran for the two-point conversion, and all of a sudden the Bobcats weren't dominating the game anymore.

"We kind of let down when they ran that kick back and that's something we didn't need to do at that time, to give the momentum back to them," Tucker said.

Betsy Layne, though, recovered from the Cardinals' lone big play of the game, scoring with 2:30 remaining in the game as Hall capped off a 53-yard drive with a 14-yard run.

Hall, who also sat last season out and rejoined the squad after this season began, ran four times during the six-play drive. He picked up 36 of the 53 yards.

The drive was also helped along by an 11-yard Jody Cecil reception, and a fumble that netted the Bobcats five yards.

Betsy Layne, which takes on district foe Leslie County Friday in Hyden, scored their final touchdown in the fourth quarter when Bias broke loose for a 20-yard run.

The Bobcats, 2-3, held Sheldon Clark without a first down in the second half, and have allowed an average of 13 points in their last four games.

Betsy Layne, which lost big to Leslie County at home last season, may need their best defensive effort of the year to hold off a physical LCHS team.

"They're a good-sized club," Tucker said. "If they have anything like they had last year, it will be a physical battle because they beat up on us last year," Tucker said.

But the coach is hoping that the win at Sheldon Clark will give the Bobcat players confidence to do the job Friday.

"Hopefully with this win, the kids will realize what they can do, and hopefully we can keep it going and put another one in the win column."

Reds Watch '88

Players Going For Glory While Rose Goes For Fourth Second

Danny Jackson has said repeatedly that winning a Western Division title was much higher on his list of accomplishments than earning a Cy Young award for himself.

Tom Browning would probably agree that team success should come before personal goals, but now that the Cincinnati Reds are all but mathematically eliminated from any post season play, their talented duo of lefthanded pitchers are going about establishing impressive personal stats.

Jackson, one of the leading candidates for the National League's Cy Young award, won his 22nd game Monday night, pitching seven and one-third innings, and giving up two runs in his latest outing.

Jackson, 22-7, is in a close battle with Los Angeles righthander Orel Hershiser for the league's top award given to the most effective pitcher.

But Hershiser, who won his 22nd game Monday in a 1-0 blanking of Houston, has thrown four consecutive shutouts, and lowered his earned run average to under 2.50 while improving his record to 22-8.

Hershiser, though, with two starts remaining, is the current odds on favorite to win the award, but Jackson, with some rotation shifting, could get three more starts.

The Reds' ace has a 2.64 ERA, and is near the top in the Major Leagues in complete games, shutouts, and wins. He will, though, need a strong finish to hold off Hershiser for the Cy Young award.

Tom Browning won't get any consideration for that honor, but the Cincinnati southpaw threw his name into the Reds' record books Friday night, and also got some measure of revenge against division leading Los Angeles.

Browning, who has retired the last 38 batters he has faced, pitched a perfect game, the first ever for a Cincinnati pitcher, Friday night, recording a 1-0 victory over LA.

Earlier in the season Browning had lost a bid for a no-hitter in the ninth inning against San Diego, and with two out in the ninth against Montreal Ron Robinson gave up a single that broke up what had been a perfect game.

Although Browning might trade his performance Friday for a Western Division title, he will be remembered longer for the perfect game than for the number of league championship series he never pitched in.

Browning, 16-5, won't get his second 20-win season, nor will he perform in post-season play, but 1988, and especially Friday, Sept. 16, will be the highlight of his career.

Jose Rijo will probably remember 1988, but more so out of spite than anything else. Rijo leads the team in earned run average, 2.36, and is close to the top in that category among major league starters, but is only 13-8.

He spent an extended period of time on the disabled list, and again Saturday, after throwing five scoreless innings, had to leave a game due to a sore elbow. In games Rijo has started, the Reds are averaging less than two runs.

Cincinnati, despite the perfect Tom Browning performance, fell a game further back of the Dodgers by losing the final two games of the three-game set. They fell 4-3 Saturday, and 2-0 Sunday.

Although the Reds, after the series with LA, trailed the front-running Dodgers by 9 and one-half games, manager Pete Rose feels the final few games could prove satisfying to Cincinnati fans.

The Reds are currently waging a war with San Francisco and Houston for second place. Rose says that the fans may be tired of finishing second, but adds that second is certainly better than fourth.

Cincinnati assured themselves of at least maintaining their half game lead over the Giants and Astros by beating San Diego 7-2 Tuesday afternoon.

The Reds, 79-71, scored two times in the third inning off San Diego star Jimmy Jones, and went on to post the five-run victory behind rookie Norm Charlton.

Charlton, who went into the ninth inning before giving way to Randy St. Claire, improved to 3-4 while Jones fell to 7-14.

Cincinnati, which has 11 games remaining on its schedule, opens a two-game series with San Francisco tonight when Rick Reuschel takes to the mound against Reds left Tom Browning.

Reuschel, 19-8, will try to become the National League's third 20-game winner, but Browning has a much bigger objective awaiting him. If he retires the first four SF batters Browning will break a 16-year-old record of most consecutive hitters retired.

The record, currently held by Jim Barr, was established in 1972 when he pitched for the Giants. Barr retired 41 straight batters.

Tips For Fishing Autumn Creeks

This month is a good time to be up a creek, especially if you're after largemouth bass.

"In September and October bass are becoming more active, and if I want to find them in a hurry, I head to the creeks," explains Johnson Outboards Pro Staff member Charlie Reed. "Fish tend to bunch in large schools this time of year as they feed on shad, and it's possible to catch a lot of fish in a short period of time."

"The advantage of fishing a creek," Reed continues, "is that you're concentrating your efforts in a relatively small area. You can fish quickly and cover a lot of water."

Before he heads to any new lake he hasn't been on before, Reed carefully studies a map to find a tributary creek he wants to fish. This saves him precious time and effort, for once he launches he can go directly to his chosen spot.

"My first requirements for a tributary creek is that it have a well-defined channel," says Reed. "I do not like to fish silted channels or shallow water that has no current. A good map will show channel banks and water depths, so I can eliminate a lot of creeks without actually seeing them."

Reed's next basic requirements for a late summer/early autumn creek is that it have vegetation in it. Some maps will show this, but more often, Reed has to find it by on-the-water exploration.

"Bass will hold in vegetation anytime," he says. "In fact, I believe bass will by-pass other forms of cover, such as boat houses, treetops or brush just to utilize vegetation. The fish like the oxygen, the protection and the shade vegetation provides."

When there is no vegetation, Reed looks for stumps along the bends of the creek channel. Sometimes the stumps will be visible from the surface, but more often, the Johnson Outboards pro finds them with a depthfinder. Bass may be in the stumps but frequently Reed locates them along the outside edge of the cover in slightly deeper water.

Water clarity and temperature are two more factors Reed studies before he finally decides on a creek. If he has to fish cooler water, he wants it also to be clear. If the water is warm, he wants it to be stained or colored.

"Normally, I ease into a creek and just look and study the water, structure and cover," explains Reed, "especially if I haven't fished it before. Basically, I'm trying to 'read' the water, looking at a lot of different things that help tell me where bass might be under the existing conditions."

"I'll continue up the creek until I reach really shallow water, then turn and fish my way back out."

At this time of year, Reed's favorite lure choices include topwater plugs and buzz baits, and shallow-running crankbaits. In most instances, he will begin by casting a surface lure.

"You can learn a lot about the mood of bass when they strike a topwater lure," says Reed, "and they'll certainly hit one this time of year. If you catch fish with the topwater lure, you're on target, but if you keep missing fish, it's probably because the bass don't really want that lure just then."

When this happens, Reed quickly changes to one of the shallow running minnow-imitation crankbaits, which he twitches just under the surface. He works the lure in quick, erratic darts around the grass or stumps, making the lure look like an injured baitfish.

"The shallow, minnow-imitation crankbaits, which we usually call 'jerk baits,' are probably among the most effective lures this time of year," says Reed. "The bass are beginning to feed more and more on minnows and these lures really do immitate them well, both in appearance and action."

McDOWELL-WHEELWRIGHT Get The Short End of the Stick

The children from McDowell, Price, Hi Hat, Wheelright, Melvin, Abner and Weeksbury are a part of the Floyd County School System, yet year after year Mary Hall has let them wade the same mudholes, sit in leaking classrooms, ride the oldest buses and use the oldest textbooks. Now, we are expected to give up our heritage. If the board has its way, there will be no proud Wheelwright Trojans or fighting McDowell Daredevils, no longer will our children be able to say they attended the same school as their parents. This is not Russia, and we don't have to be pushed around.

This November, let's forget the political bosses, mine operators, mine inspectors and even the sheriff, and join together and vote for our children's education at the school of their choice.

Let a mother who cares kick the political football out of our system.

Rebels 1-4 But Daniels Sees Better Days Ahead

It isn't that Donnie Daniels is the most positive man in the world. It isn't even because he has more patience than other normal football coaches.

But Daniels is understanding, and what he understands is that it takes time to build success, especially when you start from the bottom and try to build up. He also realizes that youth breeds youthful mistakes, but youth also gives time for improvement.

Improvement, maybe even more so than winning, is what Daniels is looking for from his young Allen Central football team.

If you don't believe that, just take a look at what the third year coach said after this team lost on the road to Raceland 33-8 Friday night.

"I was pleased with the kids, the way they played," Daniels said Monday afternoon. "I was more pleased with their effort against Raceland than the way they played against Magoffin County."

But coach, you guys beat Magoffin County. You won your first-ever football game on the school's new field—and in front of a big homecoming crowd, to boot.

"That may sound stupid because we won the Magoffin County game, but I thought we played a lot harder against Raceland," Daniels added.

The Rams, one of the top teams in Class A, burned Allen Central early, scoring on their first two drives, and the Rebels fumbled on different occasions to prevent themselves from coming back.

Although Allen Central was a heavy underdog against the powerful, veteran Raceland squad, Daniels says he enters every game with the intention of winning. But in one form or another, win or lose, he usually finds good in what the Rebels do on the field.

"I thought we played well in spots," the optimistic coach said. "We're not making the same type mistakes we were early in the season, like in the Jenkins game. We're still making some mental mistakes, but that's due to us being a young team. It'll come though. We'll be alright."

The Rebels drove inside the Raceland 20 three times but came away scoreless each time; once on a missed field goal, and two other times on fumbles. They fell behind 26-0 before they finally found the end zone.

"The kids really decided to play some football midway through the first quarter," Daniels added. "Mickey had a real good game. He had 86 yards at halftime, and that was against their first string."

Mickey Parsons, who Daniels referred to, went over 150 yards for the game, following up on his 200-plus yard performance a week earlier in Allen Central's win over the Hornets.

The Rebels' lone score came in the second quarter when junior quarterback B.J. Aldrich hooked up with Jamie Hall, a senior tight end, with a 50-yard touchdown throw and run.

That cut the Raceland lead to 26-8, but the Rams scored again in the first half, opening up a 33-8 halftime advantage.

Daniels said, earlier in the season, that Raceland was probably the best team in the local 1A district. That was fresh off a shutout loss to Paintsville, and it was a comment many would disagree with.

But last week the Rams went a long way in proving the coach's thoughts, and this week they will have the opportunity to solidify his comment when they travel to Paintsville to take on the third-ranked Tigers in a district battle.

Daniels, though, could care less where Raceland can beat Paintsville. He is thinking only of the Rebel's second home game of the season, and hoping for his second victory of the season.

It will be another battle between two youngsters when McCreary Central rolls into Eastern Saturday afternoon for a 5 p.m. battle with the Rebels.

McCreary Central is in only its second year of competition on the varsity level, but in their initial season they handed the Rebels a decisive loss at McCreary County.

They won four games in their opening varsity campaign in 1987, but fell behind 28-0 this past weekend to Wayne County, and eventually fell 28-20 for their fifth loss of the season.

"From what I've seen from the films we're not going to get blown out," Daniels said of McCreary, who comes into the game at 0-5.

"In the Raceland game they just blew us off the line of scrimmage, but I think we're in the same league as McCreary Central. I really feel good about this one. I think we can come out and win it."

The Rebels, after playing host to McCreary Central Saturday, will travel to Wheelwright for a district battle with the Trojans. The game, set for 8 p.m. Sept. 30, will serve as Homecoming for Wheelwright.

Course Offered For Hunters

A free hunter education course will be held Sept. 24 from 4 to 9 p.m. and Sept. 25, at 10 a.m. at John M. Stumbo Elementary School in Grethel.

The course, sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources and Zadis D. Tackett, will include classroom instruction in firearm safety, sportsmanship, hunter ethics, first aid and outdoor survival.

The last session will feature actual range firing and practice with both firearms and archery equipment.

Those successfully completing the course will receive safe hunter certificates valid in any of the 36 states where such certification is required. Completion of this or a similar hunter education course is also a requirement for those youngsters under 16 participating in a youth deer hunt at West Kentucky Management Area; all hunters between ages of 12-18 hunting at Ft. Campbell; all deer hunters under age 21 who hunt at Ft. Knox; deer hunters born after Jan. 1, 1970, who hunt at Bluegrass Army Ordnance; and all hunters born after Jan. 1, 1969 who hunt at Land Between The Lakes.

Attendance at all three sessions is required for certification. Any person 10 years of age or older who is interested in the shooting sports or wants to become a safe hunter is welcome to attend. For additional information, contact Tackett at 606-587-1249.

SHORT SPORTS

It is rapidly becoming a repetitive story. Union College enjoys a good passing day, and their tight end posts impressive, if not incredible, numbers.

The Bulldogs, in their first season under head coach Matt Ballard, improved to 2-1 Saturday with a 31-0 victory over Campbellsville.

Union's highly touted senior quarterback Greg Duncan threw for close to 200 yards. Of Duncan's 184 yards, 133 were by junior tight end Pete Greene. Greene, a graduate of Prestonsburg and a Division 11 all-American candidate, caught four passes in the game, including one for 85 yards and a touchdown.

In his last two games the 6'1" 205 pounder has hauled down 12 passes for close to 250 yards. He led the Bulldogs in receptions and total yards last season.

The Blackcats, Greene's former high school team, also has Darrin Flannery, a wide receiver, on the Union College squad. Flannery, a sophomore, was signed last year by the Bulldogs but elected to sit the season out. He re-joined the team this fall.

Jay Edwards, part of the talented guard tandem Indiana recruited for the 1987-88 season, has left IU, and entered a chemical dependency program.

Edwards, who came to Indiana with high school teammate and co-Mr. Basketball Lyndon Jones, was named the conference's Freshman of the Year last season, averaging 19.2 points per game in conference contests.

The 6'4" guard had earlier been suspended because of poor academic showings, and had experienced various other problems while at IU.

It is unknown if or when Edwards will return to school, or if he will play basketball again for the Hoosiers.

The comeback effort of center Bill Walton took another tough blow this past week when the Boston Celtic backup learned he would not be able to return for the 1988-89 professional basketball season.

Walton, who has attempted a comeback after suffering a foot injury while a member of the Portland Trailblazers, underwent surgery Tuesday that will prevent him from participating this basketball year.

Neither doctors nor Boston Celtic officials could say if Walton, 36, would ever play basketball again.

Marshall University came to within two points of claiming a Division 1AA national championship last season, falling 43-42 in the finals to Northeast Louisiana.

With leading rusher Ron Darby returning, along with top receivers Mike Barber and Sean Doctor, the Thundering Herd was expected to again be among the nation's top 1AA teams.

The Sporting Times

Should we pat the NFL on the back, or laugh them off as the joke they show themselves to be? Does the NBA deserve an A-plus for its "just say no" support, or are they simply in bad need of some good publicity?
Oh, and how about our national pastime—that grand ole institution referred to as baseball. It suspends drug substance abusers but like all other professional sports, benefits from the efforts to distribute the interest to consumer our most devastating drug.
Right there it is for young and old, and everyone in between to see. If your children enjoy a good pitching duel between Roger Clemmons and Frank Viola, the chances are more than good that while the other is taking the mound your child is watching ex-sports heroes selling them on the idea of just how good this "not so soda" beverage is.

backed away from sponsorship of sporting events.
With this in mind, one would think that professional athletics cares only for that which can make it money. Illegal drugs is one of the United States' toughest problems, and the NFL, the NBA and MLB have made a token attempt to curtail such use within its ranks.

The leagues will suspend athletes (Continued on next page)

But it isn't only the young people who are being victimized. Anyone who enjoys a televised sporting event will see no less than six beer commercials, and sometimes many more.

They teach in advertising classes that brand recall sells, that is the consumer sees the product enough he or she will eventually go out and buy it.

They also teach, in that same class, that the best advertising is not necessarily when the most people will see the ad, but the best time is when the biggest number of those likely to use the product can be reached.

This is one of the major reasons why alcoholic beverages have increasingly dominated the major sports advertising spots.

Another important factor is that professional sports such as baseball, basketball, hockey and football couldn't survive without it.

According to Sports Inc., a magazine dedicated to the business end of athletics, beer is the single most important contributor to the sports economy.

The publication went on to say that without the revenue generated from this advertising, professional sports would be forced into a contraction that some in the brewing industry say would inevitably lead to government control.

It also mentioned that without the brewing industry, several smaller sports which aren't shown on television would be impossible to promote, and even charity events would become extinct.

The beer-making people sponsor events such as rodeos, strong man competitions, and many other sporting activities that they say would fold without their support.

Beer companies make up between 10 and 12 percent of all television revenue, and the three major professional sports generate their biggest assets from network television, along with cable. The NFL alone gets between 60 and 65 percent of its finances from such advertising.

Executives in both television and the professional sporting events agree that neither could sustain the losses if, for some reason, the brewing industry top 10, claimed an easy win in its season opener, and remained in the top five in the national poll.

Everyone concerned expected a great game when the two teams hooked up Saturday night in Huntington, and all those wanting to see an exciting affair were not turned away disappointed.

Marshall, averaging over 30 points per game in its first two contests, scored on three consecutive possessions in the second half, and by the beginning of the final period held a 31-19 lead.

But Eastern, explosive in its own offensive right, came back to take a one-point lead with just over four minutes remaining.

The Thundering Herd, improving to 3-0, kicked a field goal with nine seconds left to pull out the victory though, dropping the Colonel's record to 1-1.

Eastern, which trails the Herd 8-6-1 in its history series, takes on Western Kentucky Saturday at 7 p.m. in Bowling Green.

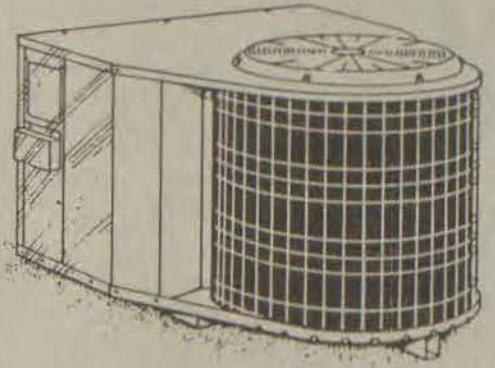

The Colonels defeated Western twice in their two meetings last season, once in the post season playoffs.

In other college action involving Kentucky schools, the Morehead State University Eagles defeated Kentucky (Continued

VOTE FOR HATTIE (COOLEY) OWENS

SCHOOL BOARD MEMBER

Dist. #5

To The Voters of District 5 School Board:

We all know that the state is on the verge of taking over the Floyd County School system because of poor management. After reading an article that made front page news in another state's newspaper—not even in Kentucky—I thought I should pass this article on to the voters of Dist. 5. It reads:

"State May Assume Full Control Of Troubled Floyd County Schools"

PRESTONSBURG, Ky.—The Kentucky Board of Education will test the 1984 academic bankruptcy law for the first time if it goes through with a takeover of the Floyd County school system.

The board is considering such a move less than two months after it ordered the possibility of invoking the Pike County school system.

But Superintendent of Public Instruction John Brock said the Floyd County situation is different from that in Pike County.

"Floyd County is more serious because they (the state board) are looking at the possibility of invoking the academic bankruptcy law," Brock said.

The statute permits the state board to seize control of districts that repeatedly fail to correct problems within certain timetables. As a last resort, the law also authorizes the state to remove local board members, the superintendent or other school employees.

Under the law, school districts with problems such as low achievement-test scores, poor attendance records and high dropout rates are required to come up with a plan to correct those deficiencies.

Thus far, the statute has not been tested in Kentucky, where any sweeping changes in school boards normally are the result of elections.

In July, however, some frustrated state school board members unexpectedly proposed declaring the Floyd County system academically bankrupt because they were fed up with what they viewed as continued mismanagement.

They cited the county's failure to follow the board's recommendation to eliminate 23 unnecessary jobs.

Officials in the district, which has 23 schools, 9,500 students and a $23.5 million budget, say they are mostly puzzled by what they hear from the state school board.

In May, a state consultant praised the Floyd board for improvements and eliminating a 1986 deficit of $600,000, said Dr. James D. Adams, chairman of the Floyd board.

"Then, the first thing I know, bam, they're jumping on Pike County and bam, they're jumping on Floyd County," he said. "Well, I don't know what they're talking about. I don't understand."

Adams said the board was working on problems with test scores and average daily attendance. He also defended the jobs of seven administrators the state wants to cut.

"We finished the year in the black," Adams said. "If we're in the black, you tell me what problem we might have?"

Floyd Superintendent Ronald Hager said he doubts that the law would allow the state school board to remove elected officials without a court battle.

"Even if they filed the process, I presume our board would fight it," Hager said.

State board member Robert Robert Ruberg wanted to take over the Floyd County system in July, but he said Brock had to recommend any such action.

The Floyd board is making "a mockery of what we're trying to do," Ruberg said.

Floyd officials give "lip service" to improving its system when state officials are around, then return to old practices after state representatives go away, he said.

"They talk a good show, but when push comes to shove, they do what they want to do," Ruberg said.

"They don't really want you to interfere with what they're doing," Ruberg conceded he was frustrated with the Floyd board, but said he would base any decision on evidence produced at the state board meeting.

Brock said Floyd County would be discussed "in great detail" during committee meetings before the Sept. 13-14 board meeting.

Dr. Clay Parks, the state board chairman, said the Floyd system was not getting management assistance this year, except on a follow-up basis.

That's where Floyd County's latest difficulties began.

Although a state consultant, Tom Vinson of Cadiz, praised the Floyd board in a May report, his committee report before July's state board meeting angered some members.

Vinson said he had recommended that Floyd County eliminate seven unnecessary jobs. The board voted to cut four jobs and, after a lawsuit, just one position was eliminated.

P.S.—If you live in these 10 voting precincts—Wayland, Lackey, Garrett, Rock Fork, Bosco, Beech Grove, John Possum (Bucks Branch, Stephens Branch, and Cracker Bottom), Jack Allen of Middle Creek, Middle Creek, Jim Banks (Bull Creek)—A vote for me is a vote for better education, better management of money, and a much closer look at construction being done by the Floyd County Board of Education.

TOGETHER WE CAN MAKE A CHANGE!

Deer Bow Season Opens October 1

Warm as a cucumber: The inside of a cucumber holds heat so well it is sometimes 20 degrees warmer than the outside temperature.

Kentucky's deer bow season will open October 1 and run through December 31. The season limit is two deer per hunter, regardless of what legal weapon is used.

Deer permits in addition to a valid annual hunting license are required for deer hunting. Hunters not required to purchase a hunting license do not need deer permits, but like all hunters must check their deer through an official check station or a state conservation officer.

This year, deer permits contain two deer tags and cost $17.50. Hunters under the age of 16 have the option of purchasing a one-tag juvenile deer permit for $11.50, or they may purchase the two-tag permit.

There have been several changes in deer season regulations for the 1988 season that all deer hunters should be familiar with before hunting. The most significant change concerns how the two-tag system works.

When hunters buy a deer permit, it will contain one white tag and one yellow tag. In each of the eight zones open to deer hunting (Zone 9 is closed to all deer hunting), there are specific regulations governing the use of each tag.

Zone regulations dictate which tag may be used to take bucks or does on any given day of the season. During the bow season, both tags are valid for either sex deer during the entire season. In Zone 6, both tags are valid for either sex deer Oct. 1-30, but from Oct. 31-Dec. 31, both tags are valid only for antlered deer. In zones 7-8, both tags may be used only for bucks during the entire archery season.

A complete guide of deer hunting regulations accompanies each deer permit. Hunters should read this guide carefully, since there have been several major changes in this year's regulations.

Bows and crossbows may be used during the gun and muzzle-loading seasons, but archers must obey all applicable gun-hunting rules. Crossbows may also be used from Nov. 22 through Dec. 1.

Hunters who are not required to purchase a deer permit may obtain a copy of the 1988 Deer Guide by writing: Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Division of Public Relations, #1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, or calling (502) 564-4336.

INCORRECT DATE FOR DOVE SEASON STATED IN EARLIER RELEASE

In the Kentucky Afield column dated August 29, 1988, from the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, a portion of the dates for the 1988 dove season was stated incorrectly.

The dates for dove season are September 1-30, October 8-31 and December 1-6. The earlier release incorrectly stated that the October segment of dove season was November 8-31.

The Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources apologizes for the mistake and regrets any inconvenience it may have caused.

State 29-12 on the road as Chris Swartz, a sophomore quarterback, threw three touchdown passes.

The Eagles led only 9-6 at halftime, but got hot behind Swartz in the second half, outscoring K-State 20-6 to record their first win. The Thoroughbreds are 0-3.

Morehead travels to Liberty this week for a 1:30 p.m. contest.

The University of Kentucky, which is in the midst of what most consider the nation's toughest schedule, will get something of a breather when they take on Kent State in Commonwealth Stadium Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

The Cats, 1-2, was defeated at Indiana 36-15 Saturday as the Hoosiers completely shut down the Wildcat offense. They forced starting quarterback Glen Fohr to the bench after holding him to only three of 14 passing attempts completed.

The leading rusher for Kentucky gained only 31 yards as Indiana recorded the blowout they had talked about all week.

The Louisville Cardinals picked up their first win of the season last week, defeating Memphis State 29-18 as running back Deon Booker ran for over 150 yards and two touchdowns.

The Cardinals, 1-2, will play at North Carolina Saturday. Kickoff is set for 4 p.m.

The Boston Red Sox, if there was a race left any way, may have eliminated the only remaining close divisional battle in Major League Baseball.

The Red Sox, which have been on an incredible streak since Joe Morgan took over as manager in late July completed a three-game winning streak against second placed New York Sunday, defeating the Yankees 9-4, pushing them six and one-half games off the pace.

Detroit, only five and a half back beginning the day Sunday, was shutout 2-0 by Baltimore, keeping them six and one-half back as well.

Bass Tournery Set For Oct. 9

The Louisa Bass Club will be conducting a Buddy Bass Tournament at Paintsville Lake on October 9 from the hours of 6:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

A $25.00 per fisherman entry fee will be required with a 75% payback of the entry money paid to the top 5 teams. This event is open to the entire public.

A registration booth will be open on the morning of the tournament at the main launching ramp from the hours of 5:00 a.m. to 6:00 a.m. for those who desire to register on the day of the tournament.

Pre-registration may be acquired by calling 606-638-4555 after 6:00 p.m., Monday thru Friday.

The tournament field has been limited to the first 100 boats.

The first fire fighting organization in America was started in Philadelphia.

The Sporting Times

caught using an illegal substance, broadcast it to the world, and humiliate the user. But where money is concerned, neither will make an attempt to eliminate our biggest drug problem... alcohol.

Some groups though, have taken a concrete stand on this issue, and the further they go the more support they gain.

Public interest groups such as the PTA have made noise, enough so to be heard. These interested groups have pointed out such facts as alcohol being the most devastating drug to the American society. (They teach that in Modern Social Problems class.)

Alcohol is the single highest killer of young people between the ages of 15 to 24, it has destroyed more families than any other drug, and it is the instigator of many crimes.

A group of over 70 public interest groups have joined together in an attempt to force beverage companies to place warning labels on their products, and it is also attempting to ban beer and wine advertising from radio and TV, or to get at least equal time for public interest messages.

Those who oppose alcoholic beverages being involved with sporting events also point out that of drunk drivers take to the roads during the trip home, and involve themselves in unacceptable behavior before leaving the fields or arenas.

But the people in control, the television executives, say it will never happen—probably because of the big bucks involved.

Professional sports will do its part in attempting to curb society's drug problem as long as it doesn't cost them money.

Banning of beer commercials certainly will not take a huge bite out of alcohol consumption. But professional sports, if they are truly interested in assisting society, could prove it in a big way.

If the athletes aren't doing "just say no" spots for public relations reasons they could agree to take a million less and really help our young people.

No, we're not asking for that, and certainly not expecting it. But be serious, NBA, MLB, and NFL. Stop this bogus effort to impress someone. We know that money sells, and professional sports has sold its heart and soul to drugs, be they liquid or otherwise.

NFL News And Notes

It wasn't long ago when football fans in Cincinnati were encouraging Bengal team officials to send head coach Sam Wiche on his way, and most wanted him to take Boomer Esiason along for the ride.

But a season later, even though stupid coaching decisions and controversial Esiason strike actions still linger, the Queen City has apparently fallen back in love with its coach and its quarterback.

Wiche, who last season saw his team lose several games in the fourth quarter (most contests they were in control of), has the Bengals on top of the AFC Central, and one of only three undefeated teams in the National Football League.

Esiason, a former Pro-Bowl performer, drew heated criticism for the way he handled his duties as team representative during last fall's strike.

Winning, as they saw, is a way to cure all ills, and now, with Esiason leading the NFL in touchdowns thrown, and the Bengals one full game in front in the Central division, not many fans remember last year.

Cincinnati, 4-11 in 1987, went into Pittsburgh Sunday tied with Houston for the Central lead, and when the day ended had returned home as numero uno.

The Bengals, fresh off a victory over the Eagles in Philadelphia when Esiason threw four touchdown passes, took advantage of a stout defensive effort Sunday to defeat Pittsburgh 17-12.

Esiason, who completed 15 of 27 passes, threw for two touchdowns, lifting his season total to nine. The Bengal defense, the team's major question mark before the season began, intercepted two Bobby Brister passes as Cincinnati improved to 3-0 for the first time since 1975.

The Buffalo Bills also kept their record perfect when Scott Norwood kicked a field goal with 11 seconds remaining to give them a 16-14 victory over New England.

New England, 1-2, had taken a 14-3 lead in the first half, but Jim Kelly threw a touchdown pass, the Bills' first touchdown of the season, which enabled Buffalo to win with the field goal. The Bills are alone atop the AFC East, one game in front of the surprising New York Jets.

New York, who many figured would bring up the rear in the East, recorded its biggest margin of victory ever Sunday by thumping the Houston Oilers, 45-3.

Ken O'Brien, a former all-pro quarterback, passed to Wesley Walker for three touchdowns, and the Jet defense held the Warren Moon-less Oilers to 108 yards passing, and 258 total.

The Houston loss, their first of the season, enabled the Bengals to take sole possession of first place in the Central.

Another surprise team, the Los Angeles Rams, defeated the Los Angeles Raiders 22-17 to improve to 3-0, and move ahead of San Francisco and New Orleans in the NFC West.

Greg Bell, for the second consecutive game, rushed for over 100 yards and one touchdown and the Rams' defense sacked Raider quarterback Steve Beuerlein nine times to help record the victory.

The Rams, though, are just entering the toughest portion of their 1988 schedule, taking on the New York Giants this Sunday. They then play Phoenix and Atlanta (not part of the tough portion) before taking on San Francisco, Seattle, New Orleans twice, and Philadelphia in five consecutive games.

Upset Sunday: Week three of the NFL season may well be remembered as upset Sunday. No less than five upsets were recorded, three of which could be described as shocking.

The Atlanta Falcons, one of the NFL's youngest teams, rolled over the 49ers in San Francisco, thanks to a 21-point outburst in the second quarter.

The 49ers, coming off two tough contests against New Orleans and the New York Giants, saw Joe Montana throw three interceptions, allowing the Falcons to record their first win of the season.

Gerald Riggs ran for 115 yards, the 25th career 100-yard day for the Atlanta running back. The Falcon win also allowed the New Orleans Saints, 22-14 winners over Detroit, to move into a second placed tie with the 49ers.

The San Diego Chargers recorded a shocker themselves, defeating Seattle 17-6 at San Diego. Gary Anderson ran for 120 yards, and the Chargers got an interception returned for a touchdown in breaking an eight-game losing streak.

But the Seahawks, known as an inconsistent squad, weren't damaged greatly by the loss. Kansas City made sure of that.

Seattle was supposed to wage a two-team war with Denver for supremacy in the AFC West, and thus far the Broncos are fighting without much of an arsenal. They were handed their second defeat Sunday; this time a former teammate did most of the damage.

Steve DeBerg, former Bronco QB, threw for two touchdowns, and the Kansas City defense picked off two John Elway passes as both teams ended the game 1-2.

The Minnesota Vikings, in a game which wouldn't be termed an upset except that Chicago lost big at home, completely dominated Chicago, earning a 31-7 victory, and drawing even in the NFC Central race.

The Bears turned the football over five times, and Tommy Kramer threw for three touchdowns to give Chicago one of their worst whippings ever in Chicago.

Super Bowl Repeat: The Washington Redskins are trying to do what no team in quite some time has been able to do—repeat as Super Bowl champions.

But Sunday afternoon, they took a positive step toward that monumental goal by turning back Philadelphia, one of the teams expected to challenge the Redskins in the NFC East. Washington scored on its first two possessions, and recorded six quarterback sacks in keeping pace with the Giants in the East.

Timmy Smith, a hero in last season's Super Bowl, ran for 107 yards and a touchdown, and Washington relied on its defense to contain Randall Cunningham and the explosive Eagle offense.

Philadelphia had one last opportunity, getting a punt on their own 40 with 1:40 remaining in the game, but they were offside on the punt, allowing the Redskins to retain possession.

Monday Night Affair: The Cleveland Browns may give their team MVP award to third string quarterback Mike Pagel, who threw two touchdown passes in their 23-17 must win over Indianapolis.

The Cleveland defense may also deserve game notice for their second half efforts. They shut down the Colts in the second half, and all of Indianapolis' points came on a punt return.

Games To Watch: The 49ers are coming off a loss. So is Seattle. Both will need a win Sunday when they hook up in Seattle. The Seahawks were 6-2 at home last season, one loss came during the strike.

That doesn't matter to the 49ers, they were 7-1 on the road last season, and are 2-0 this year. San Francisco has won two of their three meetings.

The Philadelphia Eagles are 1-2, and if they are to challenge the Giants and Redskins for a division title they might have to go into Minnesota and defeat the Vikings. The last time the two teams met the Eagles won 37-35. This is expected to be a high scoring affair as well.

The Cleveland Browns are still without Bernie Kosar and the Cincinnati Bengals have the hottest passer in the NFL. But Cleveland still has their defensive talent in check. Last year the Browns won both meetings, but this game is in Cincinnati. The Bengals are favored by the experts.

Injury Report: Seattle quarterback Dave Kreig suffered a separated shoulder; Bears' William Perry broken arm; Jim McMahon, Bears' quarterback injured a knee; Jack Trudeau, Colts quarterback, injured a leg. All are doubtful for week four.

Telecasts Say Cards Now Qualify As National Power

Not so long ago, NBC college basketball analyst Al McGuire was enthusiastically examining his recently-completed list of schools he thought qualified as "National Powers."

McGuire, being quizzed by broadcast partner Dick Emberg, was asked where the University of Louisville was, and why were they not included on the list.

The coach, who led Marquette to an NCAA title in his last year as the Wisconsin school's head basketball coach, answered, "in order to qualify as a national power, you must first be the best team in your state, and I'm not sure Louisville is because they share their state with a school called the University of Kentucky."

Well, Al, maybe when your next "National Power" list rolls off the ole computer, the Cardinals may just appear on it.

Not only because they have become the Bluegrass state's most successful and most respected basketball program (more so because of Kentucky mistakes this summer), but because of their incredible winning record, a clear one to boot, and a wealth of national exposure on the tube.

When the Louisville schedule was released recently, it contained eight network television games to be broadcast nationwide. That doesn't include the four ESPN telecasts, and others which will appear on the Raycom network and USA.

Two seasons ago, Denny Crum created quite a stir because his Cards

Since Crum came to Louisville as head coach, the Cardinals have won over 24 games per season, and in 17 years they have compiled a 412-139 record.

They have reached the NCAA tournament 12 of those 17 years, and claimed national titles in 1980 and 1986. Their NCAA tournament record is 27-12.

Last year the Cardinals went 24-11, and reached the Southeast Region semi-finals before bowing out to Oklahoma in one of the tournament's more exciting contests.

With four starters returning, and hot

Louisville opens its 1988-89 basketball season Nov. 18 in the 16-team Big Apple NIT. The Cards will play Xavier, not necessarily a national title contender, in its tourney opener.

The Cardinals do have some games which could be termed "patsies," as Crum likes to refer to some teams other bigger schools like to schedule. But Louisville, even though they play Dayton, Murray State, and Eastern Kentucky University, has one of the nation's toughest schedules.

They travel to Georgia Tech, always a tough place to play, for a battle with the Yellow Jackets. U of L also plays Kentucky at home and De Paul also comes to Freedom Hall, as does UNLV and Ohio State. Throw these in with an always competitive Metro slate and the Cards have a tough row to hoe.

But the Cardinals can put together a nice blend of veteran leaders with youthful energy capable of handling this type challenge. They also have strength inside and talent on the outside.

Senior forward-center Pervis Ellison returns to head a powerful returning crop of Louisville players that came close to reaching the final four last season.

weren't invited to the NCAA tournament due to a poor record, but as Crum pointed out, the university could have scheduled several "patsies" and finished with over 20 wins, but still would have been no better for it.

The difficulty of their schedule (teams such as UNLV, Indiana, DePaul, and UCLA) was one reason U of L failed to make an NCAA tournament appearance in 1987, but it is also why they find themselves on national television as often as the University of Kentucky finds itself answering questions pertaining to wrongdoings.

But the biggest reason for all this national exposure is the Cardinals' incredible win-loss ratio since Denny Crum took over the school in the early 1970s.

guard prospect Jerome Harmon returning from a 1-year bout with Proposition 48, the Cardinals could be looking at their third National Championship of the 1980s. This makes them a hot-selling product, along with their up-tempo tyle of play, and another tough schedule.

"Once again, I'm very pleased with the blend of quality regional and national opponents we have maintained on our schedule," U of L Athletics Director Bill Olsen said in a release from the school's sports information office.

"We have been fortunate to continue to attract considerable national television exposure, which reflects the quality of both our team and our schedule," he added.

SAR, DAR Hold Meeting

The fall meeting of the Ashland Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution was held jointly with the John Graham Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park on Sept. 10.

President James Goble opened the meeting with the Pledge of Allegiance followed by greetings from Eleanor Horne, regent of John Graham Chapter DAR. The invocation was given by Mrs. James B. Goble.

The speaker on this occasion was Robert Lee Marsh, a noted student of local history and an authority on the United States Constitution. His subject was concerning the individuals involved and their impact on the development of the United States Constitution. He observed the accomplishments of such men as George Washington, Benjamin Franklin and James Madison but at the same time stressed the importance of lesser known men such as Robert Morris and James Wilson who were considered to be most influential. During this presidential election year, the observations and comments by Marsh regarding the formative years of the country are timely and appropriate.

The Ashland Chapter, NSSAR Meets twice a year. The spring meeting is held in Ashland, and the fall meeting is held in Prestonsburg, at Jenny Wiley State park.

MR. & MRS. KENNETH MURRAY

Relatives and friends gathered at the First Baptist Church in Prestonsburg June 11 to share in the wedding celebration of Mary Elizabeth Burchett and Kenneth Allen Murray.

The bride is the daughter of Ella Elizabeth Burchett of Prestonsburg, and Curtis Reed Burchett of Emma. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Eugene Murray of Paintsville.

The double-ring candlelight ceremony was read at 6:30 p.m. by the Rev. Ron Masters.

A program of nuptial selections was presented by Debbie Craft, organist and Martha Womack, pianist, and vocalist, including "I Pledge My Love," "We've Only Just Begun," "Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The church altar and aisle were covered in light pink linen, with long flowing silk chiffon cascading the front amid greenery, baby's breath and centered with the unity candle. Surrounding the altar was a graceful brass arch and two heart shaped candelabra with greenery, baby's breath and tall lighted tapers.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Jeffrey Hobert Burchett, wore a detailed candlelight satin gown with sabrina neckline of ribbon incrustated lattice inlets etched with tiny seed pearls. The basque bodice was trimmed with venise lace appliques enhanced with graceful Elizabethan sleeves tapered to the wrist. It was adorned with fleurs of seed pearls and translucent sequins. A full skirt featured applique motifs and fluting to a cathedral train with ribbon encrusted lattice inlets matching the neckline. The bridal veil featured a headband worn on the forehead with cascading pearls and beads decorating the V'd shape. The candlelight illusion was walking length and was topped with a small pouf with scattered sequins. The veil also had a detachable blusher.

The bride carried an Irish Linen handkerchief and a victorian broach given to her by her great-grandmother. The bridal bouquet of calla-lilys, gardenia, stephanotis, cream roses and cream bovardia completed the ensemble.

Kim Taylor was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Juanita Burchett, sister of the bride; Elizabeth Music, cousin of the bride; and Pam Inmon. Their matching gowns were light pink taffeta with scoop neckline, fitted bodice leading to a basque waist and short puffed sleeves accented with lace and miniature bows. They carried pink rubin lilys, stephanotis, pink bovardia, cream roses entwined with pearls and lace.

The groom's brother, Michael Murray, served as best man; groomsmen were Jim Meek, the groom's brother-in-law, Van Younger and Danny Cooley.

The wedding party also included Lida Kendrick and Jamie Lynn McGuire, both cousins of the bride, as flower girls, and Bryan Trenton Fraley, ring bearer.

The bridegroom's mother wore a magenta linen dress with a corsage of white orchid.

The ceremony was followed by a reception in the church reception hall. The bride's mother received guests in a silk emerald green dress with a corsage of white orchids.

The four-tiered cake was of baroque design, centering a lace covered table flanked by two large white vases with arrangements of filamentosa, pink roses, cream bovardee, calla-lilys, palmetto palm, agapathus and gerber daisy.

The cake was served by Pam Fraley; punch was served by Vickie McGuire, cousin of the bride. Marla Burchett, sister of the bride, attended the register table.

The bride is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School and Mayo Vocational school, and is employed by The Aloha Beauty and Tanning Salon.

The groom is a graduate of Johnson Central High School and attended Prestonsburg Community College. He is employed by East Kentucky Beaverage Co.

Branham, Mrs. Brian Fraley, Mrs. Johnny Burke, Mrs. Maurice Minix IV, Mrs. Harry Wallace, Mrs. Jody Fannin, Mrs. Hubert Puckett, Mrs. Estil Branham, Mrs. James Goble, Mrs. Julie Curtis, Donna Horn, Mrs. Mary Allene Riffe, Mrs. Don Chaffin, Mrs. Ray Collins, Mrs. Glen Allen and Mrs. Clayton Holland.

OUR LADY OF THE WAY HOSPITAL

...SMALL ENOUGH TO BE PERSONAL

Dr. Chandra

Dr. Potnis

Our Lady of the Way Hospital's Obstetrics Department offers the personalized care every birth deserves.

Our doctors and nurses work with each family to provide the type of birth experience which is best for the mother and child.

Our physicians—Dr. Chandra and Dr. Potnis—are highly skilled. Their many qualifications include certification by the American Board of Obstetrics and Gynecology. Both are Fellows of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists.

The members of our obstetrical nursing staff average almost 12 years of experience each. Their nursing care includes coaching labor and giving personalized instruction about breastfeeding and post-natal care.

Modern equipment, like our portable ultrasound, is used to monitor patients' progress during labor and delivery.

Family-centered care is a tradition at Our Lady of the Way Hospital. We encourage fathers (or some significant other chosen by the mother) to be present for labor and delivery. We provide ample time for parent-child bonding at birth. Visitation policies allow grandparents, fathers, brothers and sisters to bond with the newborn before going home.

"Rooming-in" is standard procedure in our obstetrical department because it allows parents to bond and learn by participating in the care of their child in an environment where they can receive assistance and guidance. A nursery is available for those who need or prefer it.

We encourage prospective parents to tour our facility as they consider birthing options. We will explain our routines and answer any questions you may have.

If you're looking for a personalized birth experience, you're looking for Our Lady of the Way Hospital!

DO YOU KNOW 20 MILLION AMERICANS NEED HEARING AIDS—AND DON'T KNOW IT?

Robert D. Manning, Clinical Audiologist at Eastern Kentucky Speech and Hearing Clinic says if you hear conversations but don't understand all that's being said, you may need help.

He works in conjunction with family physicians whenever a hearing problem develops. In many cases a hearing aid will correct the problem.

Dr. Manning, who has 11 years experience in this field, is a Master Clinical Audiologist. His background includes 7½ years training in college and residence.

Hearing aids are very much smaller than the ones of recent years. But most important, with today's technology and computers they are better.

In keeping up with improvements in the field—Eastern Ky. Speech and Hearing—now has one of the first computers ever in Kentucky that allows for finer tuning of the patient's hearing aid. This computer, (pictured on the right) can determine what tones and sounds are needed for an individual.

A big step in hearing everything again.

Dr. Robert Manning, Clinical Audiologist, demonstrates the very latest in computer probe mike measurement. This brand new system allows for the finest tuning on hearing aids ever.

Near perfect fitting and tuning of hearing is a specialty at Eastern Ky. Speech and Hearing Clinic.

HEAD LICE

Millions of children of school age get head lice (pediculosis), a condition signaled by intense itching of the scalp, behind the ears, and along the hairline on the back of the neck. Head lice are nondisease-carrying insects, about one-eighth inch long, that are transmitted directly from body to body or indirectly via personal items, clothing, or household surfaces. Although lice are not dangerous and have nothing to do with cleanliness, they present an annoying problem. The itching results from irritation produced by the bites. Adult lice can live on a human for about a month, with female lice laying nits (eggs) on the hair shaft. To rid the hair of lice, use an over-the-counter treatment to kill the lice and a specially designed comb to remove the nits.

COOLEY APOTHECARY carries what you would expect to find in a well inventoried drug store including whatever medications or over the counter remedies your physician may prescribe. Our patient profile system allows us to check for drug allergies and interactions. We are very proud to be able to provide families in this area with all their over the counter needs as well. You'll find us located at #2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106 and open Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-3. Master Charge and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments.

HINT:

Linens and towels exposed to lice should be drycleaned.

Fourth Annual Cornette Reunion Was Held Aug. 13

The fourth annual Cornette family reunion was held Saturday, Aug. 13, at Spradlin Branch.

Among those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Otto Cornette, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cornette, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Haywood, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Tussey, Mr. and Mrs. John Cornette, Mr. and Mrs. Doug Cornette, Mike, Tim, Missy, Amanda, Dwayne, and Chris, Jody Cornette, Paige and Samantha Tussey and Jackie Hale, all of Prestonsburg.

Also attending were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dyson, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Dyson and sons, Jeremy and Jeffery, of Augusta, Ga., Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bales and daughter, Roanna, of Fayetteville, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cornette of South Point, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Astor Cornette and children, Pam, Michelle, and Mike, of Belleville, Mich.; the Rev. and Mrs. Dan Heintzelman of Martin; and Jewell Tussey of David.

English husbands used to give their wives money on New Year's Day to buy enough pins for the whole year. The custom disappeared after the invention of pin-making machines.

Cocaine. The party's over.

It probably started with occasional use at parties, a line or two at concerts and other special events, perhaps a gram or so on weekends when some of your friends came over.

Now, you're using all the time.

And like thousands of others, you're suspecting that cocaine isn't the safe, non-addictive, recreational drug that everyone was saying it was a few years ago.

You're right. One in ten people who snort cocaine become addicted within four years. And half of all cocaine smokers end up totally unable to regulate their use, often in a much shorter time.

How can you tell when you've stopped being a social user? Well, if you find it difficult to refuse cocaine when it's available, or you use it even in inappropriate circumstances, then you've already started down the road of addiction.

What happens next is you completely lose control of your use. When you have coke, you do it until either you or the drug is exhausted.

If you continue, you get so you don't care what happens, as long as you have cocaine. You steal, lie, cheat, deal and risk prison to get it.

You'll likely put everything you once valued at risk. Your job, home, possessions, family, friends, and of course your health.

Even if you're mentally stable, continued use will probably make you paranoid and may give you terrifyingly real hallucinations.

But most frightening of all, despite all this, you may still feel you're totally in control.

Don't believe that feeling. It's the drug talking. And cocaine lies.

At CareUnit, we help more people overcome their problems with drugs and alcohol than any other private treatment program. Over 55,000 came to us last year alone.

Our program includes careful medical supervision, education, group sessions and free lifetime aftercare. And because cocaine addiction is a special problem, CareUnit doctors and therapists are experts in this field.

CareUnit's initial consultation is completely confidential, it costs nothing, and our treatment is covered by most insurance plans.

Call for yourself, or for someone you care about, but call.

Because when the party's over, you can be sure the nightmare is only just beginning.

KRTA Workshop, Luncheon Held At May Lodge Sept. 15

The combined annual K.R.T.A. luncheon-workshop, and the quarterly luncheon-meeting of the Big Sandy Retired Teachers was held Thursday, Sept. 15, at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park.

Registration, which was conducted by wives of the representatives of K.R.T.A., began at 8:30 a.m. Coffee and donuts were served during this time.

H.C. Dutton, president of the B.S.R.T., gave the welcome address, and the invocation, and led the salute to the American flag.

Silent prayer was held for three late members: Mrs. Minnie Grace Harris Sutherland, Mrs. Zella Archer, and Verne Horn.

The devotional was given by Mrs. Lenore Gullett, who stressed the frequency the word "teacher" is found in the Bible, gave a reading entitled, "Miss Matilda's Lily," and led the group in prayer.

The roll-call was given by counties, with Floyd County having the most members in attendance.

Mrs. Mildred Tupman, K.R.T.A., president, expressed her appreciation for being an officer of this organization, and her interest in working with the group during her tenure as president. Mrs. Tupman ended her discussion with a reading, entitled, "It's Not My Job."

M.L. Archer, chairman of the membership and pre-retirement committee, used a chart along with his discussion on "Getting the District Energized." Archer said Kentucky has one of the best Teacher Retirement systems in the nation, and Floyd County has one of the most effective pre-retirement programs. He stressed the importance of membership throughout his discussion.

Charles DeWeese, A.A.R.P., state coordinator, and Vernie Nickell, assistant director, spoke on the importance of membership in this organization, whose motto is: "To Serve, Not to be Served." The group was reminded that the A.A.R.P. magazine, "Modern Maturity," is the largest circulating magazine in the world.

Assisted by Eva and Harmon Hale, some of the programs offered by this organization, including: "55 Alive," and the Tax Aid program were discussed.

Following the break, Millie Metu, a representative of K.R.T.A., told of changes in various phases of the Teacher Retirement System, including options and beneficiaries.

Robert Kelly from the K.R.T.A. office gave an in-depth report of the changes in Medicare, Medicaid, AETNA, Home Health Care and other matters.

Jack Gardner, chairman of Health and Insurance, recommended that one program each year be devoted to health care.

Ted Crosthwait, a member of the Kentucky Legislative Committee, asked members to make selections of matters to be brought before the next state legislature.

Lunch was served in the lodge dining room.

Following lunch, a meeting of the B.S.R.T. was held, with H.C. Dutton, president, presiding. The minutes were read, and the financial report was given by Mrs. Delphia Hicks, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Emogene Salyer, president-elect, and Mrs. Georgia Muncy, vice president were presented. The agenda for this meeting consisted mainly of the completion of the appointment of committee chairmen.

Appointed by President Dutton during the June meeting were: Mrs. May K. Roberts and Mrs. Norma S. Stepp, contact persons, and Mrs. Docia B. Woods, publicity chairman.

Committees were selected from the following counties: nominating: Charles Spears, Pike; Luther Wright, Johnson; Ethel Fetterly, Magoffin; and Opal Preece, Martin.

Membership: Requa Spears, Pike; Lenore Gullett, Johnson; Virginia Goble, Floyd; Emogene Salyer, Magoffin; and Edith Clark, Martin.

GFWC/KFWC Members Attend Directors' Meeting

Members of the 7th District Woman's Club were among hundreds of women across Kentucky who attended the three-day Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs Fall Board of Directors Meeting and Fall Orientation Conference in Paducah Sept. 13-15.

KFWC Conservation of Natural Resources Division Chairman, Ruby Akers, explained the goals in a workshop: To join in a cooperative program with SCS to help clubs become aware of and active in local, community-based, natural resource and cultural resource management programs.

The nation is faced with a continuing crisis in natural resource conservation, with erosion of soil by wind and water remaining a major national environmental issue, said Akers. Water quality is seriously impaired by the effects of soil erosion, including flooding, and loss of the best farm land continues, she said, adding, continued destruction or misuse of resource indicates a continuing lack of knowledge of the human environmental relationship.

Together with SCS, GFWC/KFWC club women can provide community leadership in identifying and solving some of those environmental issues.

The goal of the meeting was to help club members prepare for a successful year of community service projects and other activities. The theme of the conference at the Executive Inn Rivermont was "Successful Beginnings".

The recently installed president of the organization is Pat (Mrs. Charles) Geveden of Wickliffe. Her special project for her two-year term is "Kentucky First With Caring Literacy Volunteers in Action." The project is aimed at helping 400,000 Kentuckians who are functionally illiterate.

Members of the GFWC/KFWC Seventh District Woman's Clubs who attended the convention were Mrs. Governor Lorene Salyer of Elkhorn City; Vice Governor, Marilyn Thomas of Pikeville; KFWC Conservation of Natural Resources Division Chairman, Ruby Akers; and Anna Sue Stumbo, Drift Woman's Club.

Students Participate In Folk Festival

The Appalfolk's of America held its 23rd annual Appalachian Writer's Workshop, Sept. 9-11, at Jenny Wiley Resort Park.

The workshop was for writers who have the desire to increase their writing skills. A variety of sessions were offered to let the writer share helpful hints in the categories of poetry, screenplay, short stories, and novels.

The students who participated from Wheelwright High School were Beth Tackett, Mantrip student, daughter of Virgil and Patty Tackett; and Amy Payne, Mantrip editor 2, daughter of Joan Payne of Bypro.

Both students attended the screenplay workshop conducted by Ray Allen, the founder and president of Appalfolks of America.

Mantrip magazine, developed by the Wheelwright High School Oral History class, was displayed at the workshop. Three students worked many long hours to present Mantrip to the public. Those students were Brian Boyd, Mantrip editor one, son of Jeff and Shelve Boyd of Wheelwright; Missy Thornsberry, W.M.A.N. manager, daughter of Clark and Sylvia Thornsberry of Wheelwright; and Shawn McKenzie, Mantrip photographer, son of Sandra Kay McKenzie of Bypro.

All of the students said that they enjoyed the workshop a great deal. They would like to give special thanks to Delores Woody and Carol Stumbo for making it possible for them to attend.

Training Meeting

To help the coaches, principals, and citizens be better prepared for the new Academic Conference, Gene Touth, a Kentucky Academic Association official, came to Floyd County to train anyone who was interested in becoming an academic official. The training held at Allen Central High School was attended by many of the coaches, principals and citizens who are interested in becoming an official. More training sessions will be held in the next couple of months, since a minimum of five officials must be at each competition, according to the Kentucky Academic Associations regulations.

Prestonsburg High School Honor Choir Members Chosen

Members of the 1988 Prestonsburg High School Honor Choir were recently chosen through school-wide auditions.

The Honor Choir was conceived in 1980 to offer students further opportunities for musical performance.

The choir shares its time and talents throughout Eastern Kentucky and makes appearances before civic clubs, conventions and nursing homes.

Individually, members are majorettes, cheerleaders, band members, representatives of all sports, academic team members, leaders in school and church activities and academic achievers including Governor's Scholars.

The Honor Choir will open its ninth season Oct. 6 at May Lodge for the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club.

Members of the choir are:

Betsy Layne High School Clubs, Organizations Holding Meetings

Betsy Layne High School has had a full week of meetings and events that have kept both students and faculty busy.

The Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) had its organizational meeting Monday, Sept. 12. The group plans to go to Morehead to compete against other FBLA teams in business skills. The group is also participating in a financial game to train the students in stock investments and financial planning.

The Beta Club also had its first meeting Thursday, Sept. 15, to welcome back last year's members and to distribute applications to prospective new members. Requirements qualifying a student for new membership are recommendations from teachers on character, leadership and scholarship.

The student should also have a 3.5 grade point standing, but this may be waived under strong teacher recommendation. This year the Beta Club has two new sponsors. Vicki Ratliff will be head sponsor and Freda Campbell will be assisting her.

Last week was a real week for spirit. The SADD chapter held a spirit week so that the students could show their support for the club and their work.

Betsy Layne High School's students and staff would like to welcome Lisa Gooch back to school after undergoing major surgery.

WMAN Goes On The Air

By Amy Payne and Beth Tackett

This year at Wheelwright High School, Carol Stumbo and Delores Woody, along with the second year students of Mantrip decided that they needed to do something different — something unusual.

They chose to do a radio broadcast program which airs through the school's intercom system the last 15 minutes of class. The program consists of one manager, Missy Thornsberry, and two disc jockeys, Pilot and Lady. The DJs were chosen because of their interest in the position.

The broadcast contains information about sports, social events, plays, music, features advertisements and interviews, and has a request line. The interviews air only on Monday and Friday because the students feel that the listeners needed a better variety of entertainment, if they were going to make WMAN a success.

The students worked with the program about two weeks before it actually started. Two major steps had to be taken to get the program underway: getting permission from Mr. Slone and setting up the DJ's schedules at least a week in advance.

Each DJ has to have his or her program ready before he or she goes on the air. If he does not, then someone else will take their place for that day. This is one of the rules a DJ must follow along with three others: no obscene language, no jokes about anyone, and no arguments. Each student must also learn to operate the intercommunications system.

The broadcast has aired for three weeks. A poll was taken from the rest of the Mantrip students to learn what they thought about the program. There were many positive replies and a few helpful hints, such as some of the DJs needed to talk louder and play a better variety of music. But, overall, the first broadcast went very well for the inexperienced students.

Although the class is instructed by two teachers, the students have planned the work entirely on their own. The students plan for the broadcast to continue throughout the school year.

A special thanks goes to Mr. Slone for his co-operation, and also to the local businesses for their support.

Break for Books

By Carlotta Jones

Carlotta Jones' Special Reading Class from W. D. Osborne Elementary received money from the Mini-Grant of Floyd County for the '87-'88 school year.

The project, "Break for Books," was a reading contest in which 64 students turn off the television and read for recreation for one month. They kept a reading log.

The students won books, money, buttons, bookmarkers, book bags, and certificates. Winners got medals and chains. At the end of the contest the class had a balloon launch. Balloons were sent up with cards attached to them, with each student's name and address.

The week of Aug. 20, the school received a letter from a coal miner from Logan, W. Va. He had been in the mountains in back of his house hunting ginseng, when he found Lisa Moore's card. He wrote a very nice letter, sending a picture of his little girl. He wants the class and Lisa to write.

The Osborne Academic Team

Osborne Elementary has a new student activity this year — an academic team. The team will compete other schools in the county at different locations. The team is looking forward to a successful season. The captain of the team is Linda Tackett. The members of the team are Kelly Bates, Kristy Dailey, Michael Damron, Shirley Henson, Candice Holbrook, Krystal Isaac, Dena Johnson, Fonda Martin, Alena Meade, Doug Osborne and John Preston.

Student Participates In Summer Program

By Tina Johnson,
Malissa Hall,
Brent Huff
and Don Burke

Malissa Mae Hall, a senior at Wheelwright High School, was the only student from Floyd County to participate in a special program, "Challenge '88," at Berea College from June 12 to July 8. Hall attended the summer program to obtain a college credit and to experience aspects of college life such as living in the dorms and using the college facilities such as the gym, library, and the theater.

Sixty students from Kentucky, Virginia, Tennessee and many other states, had to complete a college application form in order to be considered for the program.

Students were allowed to take one of four classes: college writing, Spanish, wildlife biology and computer mathematics. Four college hours were offered for each course. Room, board, meals, and Class tuition cost $258. Some students such as Hall received a $150 grant to help pay for the cost of the program.

The students were required to work on a work study program of 10 hours a week. Working allowed the students to experience earning and managing their own money.

"I learned that I can be very independent. I did have the chance to budget my own money and to manage my free time," said Hall.

She took the wildlife biology class, receiving the grade of a B-plus. The class lasted six hours daily with field trips to Cave Run, U. S. Forestry Service, State Game Farm, and the Cincinnati Zoo.

When asked what was learned on the field trips, she said the students had an in-depth study of the animals, plants, air, and water of the Appalachian area.

"I believe that every student should have this experience because it will teach them about themselves and the world we live in and the goals they can achieve if they try hard enough," said Hall.

Her future plans are to attend Berea College and major in either pre-veterinary medicine or journalism.

Students From Two Schools Are Participating In Close Up

Students from McDowell and Wheelwright High Schools will again have the opportunity to observe the workings of federal government first hand when they travel to Washington, D.C., next spring. The trip is conducted by the Close Up Foundation, a non-partisan, non-profit educational foundation.

These students, as well as teachers Bobbie Moore of McDowell and Ernie Johnson of Wheelwright, will spend a week questioning various Washington officials, including their congressmen, representatives, journalists and foreign and domestic issue experts.

"Any high school student, sophomore through senior, may participate," Moore said.

According to Moore, the students may get a chance to see the Supreme Court in session. They will travel to Colonial Williamsburg to see the beginnings of democracy in action, and get a hands-on experience when they participate in various government workshops.

Sophomores through seniors may participate, Moore said.

Close-up provides fellowship funds for teachers and low- to moderate-income students. These funds are provided by a Congressional appropriation and matching grants from Bell Atlantic, Martha Holden Jennings Foundation, MAPCO Inc. and RJR Nabisco, Inc.

Moore added, "A considerable sum of money is involved and contributions would greatly be appreciated." Contributors may contact her at the school at 377-6202 or Ernie Johnson at Wheelwright High School at 452-2110.

Melvin Students Study Indians

The fourth graders at Melvin Elementary have just finished study of the Indians who lived in the United States, with most emphasis placed on those who lived in areas bordering Kentucky.

The students were surprised to learn that four tribes of Indians claimed Kentucky, yet none of them made their homes here. The Iroquois, Chickasaw, Creeks and Shawnees all used Kentucky for their hunting grounds, and as a battleground for wars between the tribes. This explained why Kentucky was called the "dark and bloody ground."

The children began the study by learning when the Indians came from and why they left their homeland of Asia. Then they traced the Indians' migration down from Alaska to the southeastern United States.

Soon, the classroom walls were covered with drawings, depicting Indian homes, tools, clothing, cave drawings and other things of interest about the Eastern Woodland Indians.

The students displayed artifacts such as a real Indian cradleboard, a wooden canoe made by a parent, bow and arrow made by a student, arrowheads found in nearby hillside, a peace pipe made from a corn cob, an Indian headpiece with beautiful colored feathers.

Everyone enjoyed making necklaces and bracelets from brightly colored corn.

Other things they made were headbands, and fringed vests.

The students became so excited and eager to extend their study about Indian life in Kentucky that they wrote reports on various tribes and showed on maps the location of each. They made booklets and created their own designs for decorating them.

Melvin School is fortunate in having in its midst a teacher, Margie Wilson, who once taught school on an Indian reservation in Magdalena, N.M.

She visited the fourth grade class and gave an interesting account of life on the reservation. She explained about how the cradleboard was used for carrying the babies. She showed some dresses worn by the Indian women and shared pamphlets and pictures of real Indians, whom she knew by name. She related incidents about the family and this was more interesting because it happened to someone they knew.

The class became so enthused that it even dressed in Indian style. Students wore feathered headdresses and fringed jackets. The girls braided their hair like the Indian maids and some wore Indian dresses.

One student's grandmother made her a dress of burlap, fringed at the yoke and bottom. Another had an Indian-dress complete with moccasins.

On the final day of this project, the children's parents were invited to see and hear what the class had accomplished.

The program was concluded with an Indian war dance by the boys.

Invitation To Adventure

"This is the crew of the FG 0103, coming to you from McDowell Elementary. We would like to invite you to come on an adventure with us. For the most part, our trip will be fun and exciting. We'll be learning things such as reading, mathematics, manuscript writing, spelling, art, music, and much, much more. But, be forewarned, there are dangers. Every year on this journey we are always attacked by measles, chicken pox, colds, and bad weather. So, if you are brave (which we are) and willing to work (which we will be) and you want to become a second grader (which we do) then come with us. Oh, we almost forgot to tell you, there is a treasure at the end of our journey. All who finish this trip can share in the wonderful treasure. The treasure is knowledge. The commander for this voyage will be Linda Elliott and the crew members include Brandi Allen, Ricky Caudill, Martha Crawford, Rachel Hamilton, Julie Newsome, Mark Newsome, James Noble, Bennie Paige, Joseph Platkus, Misty Sizemore, Jimmy Stumbo, Amanda Tackett, Kyle Tackett, Melissa Thacker, Angel Harrington, Wendi Moore, William Schlick, and Daniel Hunt." —Linda Elliott

Bobcats Excel At Pikeville Meet

The Betsy Layne High School Marching Band

Harris Works As DJ During Summer

PAM HARRIS

By Pam Harris,
Tammy Johnson,
Robin Moore

Pam Harris, 16-year-old daughter of James and Francis Harris of Melvin, was the only high school student on a college intern work program, at Whitesburg, from June 22 to Aug. 6. She worked for a program called Overseas Development Network, which is composed of college students from around the world that are sent to different communities to learn their cultures. Within Harris' 5 days at Whitesburg, she was a live disc-jockey. The name of the radio station was WMMT 88.7 FM, a non-commercial radio station.

The Betsy Layne Bobcat Marching Band got its competitive season off to a good start Saturday at the Pikeville Marching Band festival.

The band opened the show with "Mack the Knife," with the auxiliary flashing five silver moon flags designed from the "Mack the Knife" commercial for McDonald's Restaurants.

The production number began with vivid colors all over the field. Included were Dixie-land features played by the seniors, Roger Morgan on tuba, and Marty Harris on trumpet, juniors Michelle DePoy on clarinet and Shawn Presnell on trombone. To end the production, the entire auxiliary came to the forefront of the field and formed a kicking line.

The next number featured the percussion instruments, with a piece called "Time Zone." It was followed by "When the Saints Go Marching In," played by Roger Morgan on tuba and Kevin Stewart, baritone.

The close the show, the band played "Sweet, Sweet Lord", including a trumpet solo by Marty Harris.

In Class 1A, Stephanie Conn was named best field commander, while BLHS received first place for the best color guard and best band.

They also received first runner-up. There were 13 bands from schools throughout the state competing.

Fall Poetry

Sandra Slone's sixth grade creative writing class at Osborne Elementary School is taking advantage of nature to become better poets.

Some examples follow:

Fall, the prettiest time of year.
I'm so glad it's almost here.
When the leaves are nice and red
When the trick or treat is often said.
I'm so glad it's almost here.
Fall, the prettiest time of year.

NATURE
I live in nature, a wonderful place
Filled with pure, everlasting grace.
Flowers and trees and bumble bees.
A frog jumping dawn 'til noon.
A bird singing a beautiful tune.
Nature is filled with beauty and peace.
With love and care, it will never cease.

Students Study Creative Writing

Carolyn Martin's second grade students at McDowell Elementary School are involved in creative writing.

Tremendous improvements have already been made in their writing, said Martin.

"The purpose for having creative writing is for students to improve writing skills through creation of their own stories and to improve reading ability of students," she explained.

The entire class, with Martin's help, discussed the first step in writing - "pre-writing". Pre-writing is discovering an idea that the student wants to write about. So far, the topics the class has written about include their families, bicycles, favorite shows, and going back to school.

"All of the students have done a good job," said Martin. "We are now giving the second grade young authors a chance to see some of their stories in print via the newspaper. These stories are original stories that second grade students did about starting back to school."

Some excerpts follow:

BACK TO SCHOOL,
by Ryan Elliott

Back to school! Already! But where did vacation go? Where did those mornings of sleeping late and those long days of playing go to so quickly? What will second grade be like? Will any of my old buddies be in my room? These are some of the questions that ran through my mind when August came this year. I knew school would be starting Aug. 15, and I didn't know what it would be like.

Well, August has come and gone and I have found answers to many of my questions. School is not so bad, and I do have many friends this year. Mrs. Martin is very nice, and I think I am going to like second grade.

BACK TO SCHOOL,
by Kyle Caudill

I was very sad because I was going to school, I didn't know what Mrs. Martin would look like. I didn't like it when they took all my friends to a different classroom. I didn't know what all the children would look like. I was afraid that they would not like me and would not play with me. I missed my vacation play time. And now school is very fun. I am not sad anymore. The End. By Kyle Caudill.

BACK TO SCHOOL,
by Jessica Kiser

When I went back to school, I was very nervous. I wanted to know what my room looked like and to meet Mrs. Martin. I also wanted to see my friends. I got to see old friends and meet new friends too.

BACK TO SCHOOL,
by Kristy Moore

My first day back to school was great. I missed my friends when we were on school vacation. I have a good teacher this year Mrs. Martin. I like her a lot. The End. By Kristy Moore.

BACK TO SCHOOL,
by Daniel Lafferty

I was nervous the first day of school. But some of my old friends were there. My teachers name is Mrs. Martin and she is nice. My vacation was over but I liked it. It was fun. 2nd grade is hard. It's hard getting up. My classroom looks nice. The End.

BACK TO SCHOOL,
by Priscilla Collins

My school is great. Mrs. Martin is great. I love my friends. Some people don't know me. But I am happy because school has started.

BACK TO SCHOOL,
by Billy Hall

I was happy before school. School is easy in a way and sometimes it's hard.

BACK TO SCHOOL,
by Clint Hall

I like school and I like my teacher. We work all the time. But it is good to be back to school. The End.

MARQUEE

ROCKET GIBRALTAR (PG-Columbia Pictures). Starring Burt Lancaster, Macaulay Culkin. ★★

By J.T. YURKO

In "Rocket Gibraltar," the arrival of an aging patriarch's family for his birthday signals the start of a nouveau-Chekhovian interplay of two generations of siblings. Unfortunately, the film bears a greater resemblance to a Saturday-morning children's TV version of "On Golden Pond" than a Chekhov play.

Burt Lancaster plays Levi Rockwell, a former writer in Hollywood who was blacklisted in the '50s, although judging by the size of his present Long Island home, he still managed to put a few pennies aside. These days, he spends most of his time in a hammock near the pool or in his room reminiscing with Billie Holiday records or Fred Astaire movies.

Rockwell's first-generation offspring seem to have adopted many of his personality traits. His son is a Hollywood producer, constantly on the phone. One daughter is now a writer for movies. Another is married to a stand-up comic, whose profession brings to mind Rockwell's penchant for delivering comic monologues. A third is married to a baseball pitcher with a badly hanging fastball.

If their careers were meant as a comment on Rockwell and his career or the life of any man on the brink of death, however, it's lost somewhere in the coy, yuppie interchanges.

Rockwell leaves his hammock for one brief walk along the beach with his grandchildren and regales them with tales of a Viking burial at sea, in which the deceased is cast upon the waters in a flaming boat at sunset.

The children take this idea to heart, and that's where the film's title comes in. The precocious cousins find an abandoned boat on the beach called Rock of Gibraltar. They recondition it and add an "et" to the name, hoping the boat will carry grandfather to the great beyond. After several false starts, grandfather does finally pass on, and the kids ... well, you can guess the rest.

But you'd be better off avoiding it.

ASK TONI

Big-city cop later became a TV and movie actor

By Toni Reinhold

I know that Dennis Farina was a cop in Chicago before he became an actor and appeared in the series "Crime Story." I vaguely remember a story of another big-city cop who became an actor and had his own TV series. Who am I thinking of? - N.E., Meadow Lands, Pa.

Dennis Farina

So many actors have had other careers before acting that it is difficult to know exactly who you are thinking of. But it might be Eddie Egan, who was a New York City cop for 20 years before becoming an actor. Egan was a narcotics detective who made the arrests that provided the basis for the film "The French Connection." He had a small role in that movie (it starred Gene Hackman), but achieved status as a TV actor. Born in The Bronx, N.Y. in 1930, Egan starred as Sgt. Bernie Vincent in "Joe Forrester," a police series that aired from 1975-76; as Chief Inspector Ed Parks in "Eischied," another police drama that aired from 1979-80; and as Hennessey in "Mickey Spillane's Mike Hammer" (1984-86).

Wasn't "Deathtrap" a play before it was a movie? - D.O.S., Ashland, N.H.

Yes. Written by Ira Levin, "Deathtrap" played on Broadway for 1,793 performances. In 1982 it was released as a film starring Christopher Reeve, Dyan Cannon, Michael Caine, Irene Worth, Henry Jones and Joe Silver.

Wasn't Michelle Phillips married to John Phillips, her "Mamas and Papas" partner? - W.L., Goldsboro, N.C.

Yes. They married in 1961 and divorced 8 years later. MacKenzie Phillips, who starred in the TV series "One Day at a Time," is her stepdaughter.

Are Jayne and Audrey Meadows related? Names aren't always a sure sign of a blood line. - A.P., Augusta, Ga.

In this case the names are telling. These actresses are sisters. Jayne is married to Steve Allen and Audrey portrayed Alice Kramden opposite Jackie Gleason in the series "The Honeymooners."

(Send your letters to Ask Toni, United Feature Syndicate, 200 Park Ave., Room 602, New York, N.Y. 10166. Due to the large volume of mail, personal replies cannot be given.)

SURPRISINGLY, SOME OF THE NEWEST THINGS IN THE WORLD ARE REALLY VERY OLD. A MINNESOTA GRANITE GNEISS ROCK MEASURED FOR AGE ONLY TWO YEARS AGO WAS FOUND TO BE APPROXIMATELY 3.8 BILLION YEARS OLD!

HBO's 'Encyclopedia' uses humor to educate kids

By Denise Gorga

Almost every grade-schooler worth his or her pencil case has at one time or another contemplated reading the entire encyclopedia. Most, however, wind up abandoning the notion before venturing beyond "aardvark."
 Earlier this month, HBO, in conjunction with Children's Television Workshop (the people who brought you "Sesame Street"), premiered the aptly named "Encyclopedia."

Fyfe and Sterry

Comprised of 23 half-hour segments themed after the letters of the alphabet, "Encyclopedia" offers offbeat humor, original songs and fast-paced images. It camouflages a nasty spoonful of educational medicine in the guise of a pop-culture choo-choo train. Most "Encyclopedia" performers, like Jim Fyfe (from HBO's own "Tanner '88" series) and David Sterry ("Disconnected") are professional actors; the series even boasts its own three-woman rock 'n' roll band, the Washington, D.C.-based Betty.

 On Monday, Sept. 26, HBO premieres the "Volume B" episode of "Encyclopedia." Other air dates include Tuesday, Sept. 27 and Thursday, Sept. 29.
 "Volume B" opens with "Brontosaurus," which is followed by the non-sequitur "Brain" segment. In the latter, Dr. Frankenstein and his erstwhile Igor are about to implant a you-know-what into the monster's unzipped head. After the doctor mistakes the brain for a cauliflower ("This one goes in a skull. This one usually goes in a salad," Igor advises), the hunchback goes on to stress the importance of connecting the brain correctly, giving a mini-anatomy lesson in the process.
 Arguably, watching a half-hour of TV a week is not the same as reading a volume of the World Book. But even adults can glean some facts that, at the least, will come in handy in a Trivial Pursuit game. In "Volume B," for example, we learn that bees have five eyes, humans have 206 bones, and Bach had 20 kids. And, for your information, the bat is the only mammal that can fly.
 "Encyclopedia" should give kids the impetus to want to read and learn more. Indeed, the show's closing theme contains the refrain, "Look It Up!" Hopefully, that doesn't just refer to the TV listings.

Jane Seymour, Laraine Stephens, Bert Convy. 1979.

Who Can Prevent Teen Suicide? YOU CAN.

When a friend talks of suicide:

LISTEN

Let your friend tell you of his situation and his feelings. Don't give advice or feel obliged to find simple solutions. LISTEN and try to imagine how you'd feel in his place.

BE HONEST

If your friend's words or actions scare you, tell him or her. If you're worried or don't know what to do, say so. Don't be a cheerful phony.

SHARE FEELINGS

At times everyone feels sad, hurt or hopeless. You know what that's like—share your feelings. Let your friend know he's not alone.

GET HELP

If you keep this secret you may lose your friend. Perhaps you and your friend can think of a helpful adult he or she could talk to. If not, talk to someone yourself—a parent, teacher, counselor of the Crisis Line—and find out what to do next.

Your friend turned to you because you could be trusted to help. You CAN help, but not alone.

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE. This Ordinance shall be known and may be cited as the "Economic Development Special Alcoholic Beverages Ordinance" of the City of Prestonsburg.

SECTION 3. SCOPE. Irrespective of title or headings, the sections of this ordinance shall be construed to apply to the sale of alcoholic beverages by the drink for consumption on premises lying within the boundaries of the City and shall apply to malt beverages, distilled spirits and wine where the context permits such application.

Nothing in this Ordinance shall excuse or relieve a licensee or the agent or employee of any licensee in the City, from the restrictions, requirements and penalties of any other Ordinance or Ordinances of the City or of any Statutes of the Commonwealth of Kentucky relating to violations pertaining to alcoholic beverage.

SECTION 4. ADOPTION OF STATE ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGE CONTROL LAW. The provisions of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Law of the Commonwealth of Kentucky (Chapter 241, 242, 243 and 244, Kentucky Revised Statutes) and all amendments and supplements thereto, are adopted so far as applicable to this Ordinance, except as otherwise lawfully provided herein.

SECTION 5. CITY ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGE CONTROL ADMINISTRATOR-APPOINTMENT; SALARY

(a) The City Administrator shall, consistent with the provisions of KRS 83A.150 (7)(b) and KRS 241.170, appoint a City Alcoholic Beverage Control Administrator (hereinafter City ABC Administrator) subject to approval of the City Council of the City of Prestonsburg, hereinafter referred to as the City Council.

(b) The salary for said office shall be fixed from time to time by the City Council.

(c) The functions of the City ABC Administrator shall be the same with respect to city licenses and regulations, as the functions of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board of the Commonwealth of Kentucky (hereinafter ABC Board) with respect to state licenses and regulations, except that no amendment to these regulations proposed by the City ABC Administrator may be less stringent than the Statutes relating to alcoholic beverage control, or than regulations of the ABC Board. No regulation of the City ABC Administrator shall become effective until it has first been approved by the City Council.

SECTION 6. OATH; BOND

(a) The City ABC Administrator before entering upon his duties as such, shall take the oath as prescribed in Section 228 of the Constitution and shall execute a bond with a good corporate surety in the penal sum of not less than Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00), faithfully to perform the duties of his office pursuant to the provisions of Section 62.060 of Kentucky Revised Statutes, et seq.

(b) The cost of bonds given under this section shall be borne by the City of Prestonsburg (hereinafter the City).

A supplemental bar license may be issued to a hotel/motel/inn retail drink licensee upon a showing to the City Administrator of good cause and need for the supplemental license, and the license may only be issued for the use on the premises directly associated with the applicant's existing retail drink license as part of the entire business of said license facility.
