Maytown Grocery Burns

Maytown Volunteer Fire Department personnel, with assistance from Martin fire fighters, spent more than six hours at the scene of a grocery store fire in Maytown early Monday morning. The blaze, which was easily visible from Rt. 80, destroyed the building and caused minor damage to the post office, which is located next door. Maytown residents called the department after awakening to the sounds of breaking glass, caused by the extreme heat of the fire. The intensity of the blaze melted the windshield and lights on one fire truck, according to Keith Hays of the Maytown Volunteer Fire Department.

Maytown Business Burns

by Anne Chaney
Editor

One of the largest buildings in Maytown (Langley) burned early Monday morning, turning a town landmark to ashes in a matter of hours.

The building, originally constructed in the early 1930s, had undergone a number of renovations and additions, and currently housed a grocery store and unoccupied apartments.

According to Keith Hays of the Maytown Volunteer Fire Department, firefighters received calls from neighbors who were awakened by the sound of breaking glass, caused by extreme heat. Personnel arrived at the scene shortly after 2:15 a.m., and stayed until about 8:30 a.m., said Hays.

The blaze, fed by the oiled wood floors common in the era when the structure was built, generated heat so intense it melted the windshield and lights on one fire truck, said Hays.

The building, about 75 feet long and 30 feet wide, was two stories high; flames could be seen from Rt. 80.

The fire is under investigation by the Kentucky State Police, according to Hays.

Assisting Maytown's 17 fire fighters were about six members of the Martin Fire Department, which also provided a truck.

Hays said that when fire fighters arrived, the grocery was ablaze. Personnel concentrated their efforts on preserving the adjacent post office, and keeping a 500-gallon propane tank, which was full, from exploding.

The post office received some smoke damage, and paint was blistered on the exterior of the building, said Hays.

In separate calls, the Maytown fire fighters were called out to two auto fires within minutes of each other Monday night. Hays said a call was received at 10:45 p.m. concerning an auto on fire at John's Branch Mountain, and another call at 10:55 p.m. about a truck on fire at the head of Turkey Creek. Hays said both vehicles were total losses.

Prestonsburg Council Approves Resurfacing Project, Allocations

by Pam Shingler
Assistant Editor

After waiting more than 15 minutes for a quorum, members of Prestonsburg City Council got down to business Monday evening, authorizing projects, allocating money and scheduling budget meetings.

On a motion by Mike Vance, seconded by Danny Hamilton, council voted to advertise for bids to resurface Court Street from North Lake Drive to First Street. Mayor Ann Latta termed improvements to the sidewalks, curbs and surface of the street "desperately needed."

Latta told council members that the Kentucky Heritage Commission has suggested having an archaeological survey done on the Salisbury lot, which the city hopes to buy pending approval of a Community Development Block Grant proposal.

The site of a log house until a few years ago, the lot may have archaeological significance, Latta said. The commission advised the city to have University of Kentucky archaeologists "dig" the area in search of buried historical artifacts.

The mayor said local volunteers will be needed and asked those interested to contact her. "It's digging, but it won't be very hard," she said, adding that when UK personnel set a date, she will inform the public.

Vance said that Mountain Comprehensive Care, which is working with the city on the grant proposal to expand its downtown facility, "is in the process of getting options on the buildings and getting architectural work in place."

If the grant application is approved by the state, the city plans to purchase the former Hobbs Store complex of buildings for MCC expansion, along with the Salisbury lot, which will be used for parking and a mini park.

The council, on a motion by William O. Goebel III, seconded by William R. Callihan, agreed to release the $500 already budgeted for Prestonsburg Little League. They also advised Ned Pillarsdorf, appearing on behalf of the Little League, to ask for additional funding from the Recreation, Tourism and Convention Commission.

Local Ad Gets Response From 'USA Today' Readers

An advertisement in USA Today's March Travel Guide supplement has netted 722 initial requests for information about Floyd County and Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre from persons in the national newspaper's regional edition.

The small ad, appearing on a page of ads for tourist attractions in Kentucky and surrounding states, was sponsored by the Prestonsburg Recreation, Tourism and Convention Commission and Jenny Wiley Drama Association.

The cost of the ad, $3,000, was divided by the two organizations, Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta said.

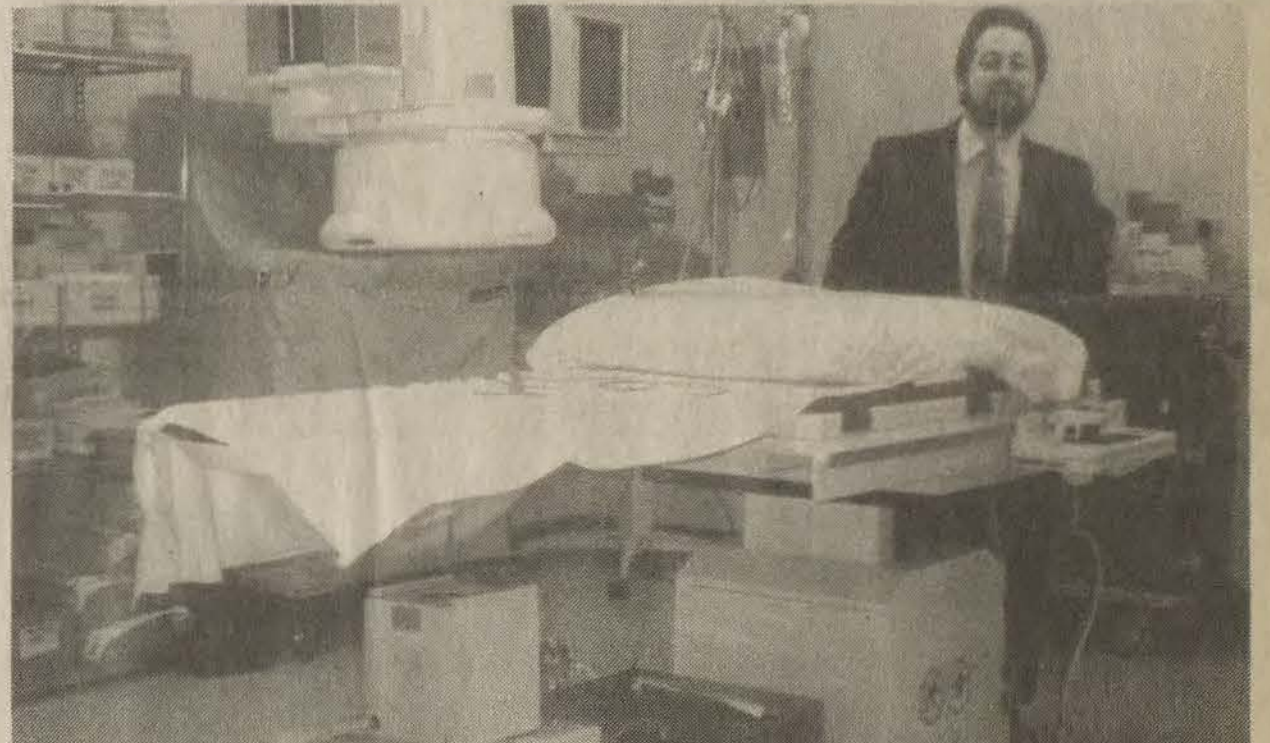

Requests from readers for information go to USA Today, which then furnishes mailing labels to the local commission. Latta said she expects more requests to come in as they are processed by the newspaper.

Latta said that mailings to the persons who inquire will include brochures on the city and Jenny Wiley State Resort Park, Prestonsburg Restaurant and Lodging Guide, and information on the 1989 summer theatre season.

Tourism, Latta said, is a growing part of the local economy. "We're somewhat surprised and very pleased with this initial response," the mayor said. "We hope that many of those who requested information will decide to vacation here."

An Eye To The Heart

Cardiac patients will not have to travel to Ashland or Lexington after next week to have doctors determine the extent of heart blockages. Sunday's open house from 2 to 5 p.m. marks the opening of Highlands Regional Medical Center's new cardiac catheterization laboratory. Lab technical director David Stalcup, here readying the complex diagnostic equipment for public showing, said the hospital has a backlog of about 10 patients for the service, with the first patient scheduled for heart catheterization on April 18. The hospital has invested two and a half years in planning the facility, which Stalcup estimates cost more than $1.5 million. The procedure, he said, is designed for low risk heart patients who do not require emergency surgery. The cardiac cath, as it is called, can pinpoint the presence and extent of fatty deposits along the inner lining of arteries which can block the passage of blood to the heart.

County Woman Wins $5,000 In State Lottery

Raddie Sue McQuate of McDowell said she has played every day since the Kentucky lottery opened on April 4. Tuesday, exactly one week from the day the first ticket was sold, McQuate won $5,000 in the DreamStakes game.

According to William O. Goebel

III, manager of the lottery's regional satellite office in Prestonsburg, McQuate purchased the winning ticket at McDowell Stop 'n Shop. The winner was reportedly among five tickets McQuate bought at the store.

Not only is the McDowell woman $5,000 richer, but she now also has the opportunity to compete for one of 25 free trips to the Kentucky Derby in May and a chance to win $1 million.

Each valid winning ticket in the $5,000 DreamStakes game will be eligible for a series of four drawings to pick the winners of the Derby weekend trips.

Prior to the running of the Derby, finalists are to participate in a random drawing to match up with a horse going to the post in that race. The results of the Derby race will determine who wins the grand prize of $1 million.

Finalists unmatched to a Derby horse, because of limited number of horses entered, will receive a $1,000 consolation prize.

The televised drawings for the 25 finalists are scheduled for about 7:28 p.m. on April 12, 19, 26 and May 3.

Goebel said several Floyd countians have won $1,000 in Beginners Luck, the other lottery game.

As of last Saturday, lottery ticket sales had reached more than $20 million across the state, with a sale per capita of $5.40, according to state lottery officials.

Goebel could not specify how much money has been spent in Floyd County on the two lottery games. He said he has not received county by county sales records from the state lottery office in Louisville.

Odds of winning between $2 and $5,000 in the DreamStakes game are 1 in 4.5, according to lottery officials. For the Beginners Luck game, odds are 1 in 5 of winning between $1 and $1,000.

Five Chances on a 'Dream'

Raddie Sue McQuate is Floyd County's first winner of the Kentucky lottery's $5,000 DreamStakes game. She purchased the winning ticket yesterday at McDowell Stop 'n Shop.

Panel Supports Seeking Voters' Approval For Tax

Voters in Floyd County may be asked to approve a utility tax to fund a revamped instructional program and classroom teachers' salary increases, if recommendations made by the Blue Ribbon Panel are adopted by the local board.

The panel submitted its 20-page report to the Floyd County Board of Education Wednesday, April 5. Members of the panel have requested a special meeting with the board on or before Wednesday, April 19, to discuss the recommendations.

If approved, the panel's suggestions would substantially alter the structure of instruction delivery in the county school system, which was moved into Phase III of academic bankruptcy by the state Board of Education in January.

The panel formulated a brief, but ambitious mission statement for the district: "To have the best school system in the state by the year 2000, involving all community components in the educational process."

Specifically, the panel is asking that the board make changes in finance, management and curriculum.

FINANCE

While members are recommending an extensive public education and awareness campaign to garner support for passage of a 3 percent utility tax, they have also recommended the local board seek other sources of new revenue, including monies generated from unmined minerals, revenue from the Corns decision, and increased Power Equalization Fund allocations. Specific expenditures for any new monies have also been recommended. According to the report, 60 percent of new monies should be used to provide increases in teachers' salaries, 15 percent for instructional materials and supplies for each classroom, 15 percent for renovation projects, and 10 percent to establish a contingency fund.

The panel also recommended that the board adopt a new salary schedule, to become effective in the 1990-91 academic year.

Other recommendations include centralizing control and supervision of all fundraising activities; use of uniform activity fund reports, including explanation of all receipts and expenditures; and centralizing bidding and distribution of all supplies.

MANAGEMENT/PERSONNEL

The panel is recommending the board adopt a new management structure that will allow the superintendent to directly oversee fewer administrative personnel; currently, the superintendent oversees 31 positions.

In addition, the recommendations call for utilizing instructional specialists at the central office level, and department heads and instructional leaders at the campus level.

The four instructional specialists, according to the report, would be responsible for overseeing the total curriculum in humanities, science, social studies and art, for students in kindergarten through 12th grade. They would be assisted by instructional leaders and department heads, who would coordinate instructional activities at the campus level. The leaders and department heads would be chosen from among classroom personnel, and be given more pay for their additional responsibilities.

The panel also cited the November 1988 Curriculum Audit, and asks that the board adopt the audit's recommendations to eliminate political patronage in the school system.

CURRICULUM

The panel's report calls for a uniform curriculum throughout the county, from classroom to classroom and campus to campus, to insure that course content is the same within all schools.

Other recommendations include developing continuums for each subject area, making acquisition of basic skills the first priority for students, using test information to adjust curriculum needs, and formation of a standing curriculum committee to advise the board on the county's curriculum.

The report also asks the board to assess student, teacher and staff attitudes, to deal with suggestions by district personnel and create better morale, that the budget reflect the cost of basic classroom instruction, and that minimum materials to carry out the curriculum are available to all teachers in the county.

Parade Entries Sought

A dozen entries have already preregistered for the May 10-14 Festival of FACES in Floyd County, according to parade committee chairwoman Rosemary McCoy.

The parade, which will be held at 3 p.m. Saturday, May 13, is continuing to accept registration. Floats should follow the festival theme, "Family, Arts, Culture and Entertainment in the Spring (FACES)."

The Prestonsburg Jaycees are sponsoring the parade, said McCoy.

Businesses, organizations and individuals who would like to participate should contact McCoy, care of Raggs Emporium, 12 West Court Street, Prestonsburg, or call 886-9854.

To register by mail, send the name of school, organization or other participant, address, number of persons expected to participate, the contact person, telephone, and best time to contact, to the above address.

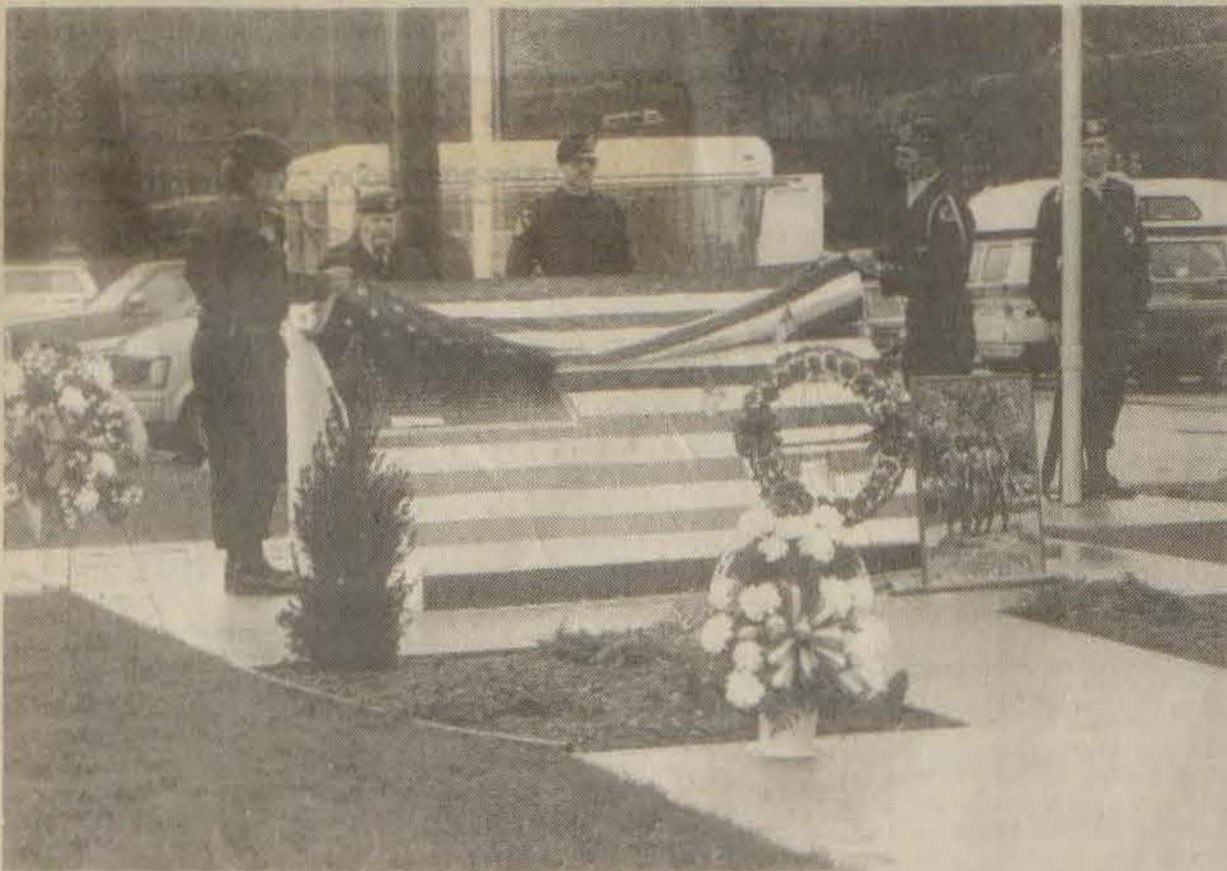

The deadline for parade entry is April 22, said McCoy.

In other festival-related news, the Lexington Philharmonic will provide a 65-piece orchestra as part of the Sunday, May 14 entertainment.

Added to festival plans is a Corvete show, to be held all day Friday and Saturday, May 12-13, and a 21-gun salute by the local Disabled American Veterans chapter as part of the opening ceremonies.

Additionally, a meeting will be held Monday, April 17, at 5 p.m. at City Hall in Prestonsburg for Floyd County vendors who would like to sell concessions during the festival. Concessions are open to Floyd Countians only, according to festival director James O. Vanhoose.

Memorial Dedicated

A memorial to Floyd Countians killed during the Vietnam conflict was dedicated at Allen Park Sunday afternoon, providing the culmination to an idea that began years ago. The project, sponsored by Vietnam Veterans of America Chapter 321 in Floyd County, used contributions from businesses and individuals; no state or federal funds were used.

A memorial to Floyd Countians killed during the Vietnam conflict was dedicated at Allen Park Sunday afternoon, providing the culmination to an idea that began years ago.

A number of state and local dignitaries were on hand, including Congressman Chris Perkins. Members of area Vietnam Veterans, Disabled American Veterans and Veterans of Foreign Wars chapters also attended.

Mitchell Shepherd, chaplain of the Garrett Vietnam Veterans chapter, gave the invocation, which was followed by remarks from Marcella Bailey, founder of Red, White & Blue Day, a festival honoring the county's veterans.

Also addressing the group was Perkins, who noted, "The representative democracy we have comes not without a price, and not without pain . . . by sacrifices by men and women on battlefields."

"They stepped forward for a cause that was not popular," said Perkins, "and in a time when many believed it was wrong."

John M. Stumbo, Floyd County judge-executive, also spoke in honor of those killed in action.

John A. Cook, a member of the Vietnam Veterans of America, a life member of the Disabled American Veterans and a combat veteran of Viet Nam, provided the keynote address.

Cook, who lives in Johnson County, is actively involved in veterans affairs, counseling and referrals.

Cook said the memorial unveiled Sunday represented a dream begun by VVA Chapter 321, adding, "it is exciting when any dream becomes a reality, and that is what we are seeing today."

Cook noted that the national monument to those killed in the Vietnam conflict, located in Washington, D.C., contains the names of 58,040 dead, including 17 women and 1217-year-olds.

The Floyd County memorial, he said, is a "powerful symbol of the loss of one county."

The memorial was built solely by individual and business contributions, with no state or federal funds.

Cancer Victim's Mother Sues

The mother of a 3-year-old Floyd County girl suffering from cancer has filed suit in Floyd Circuit Court against five persons and a bank, alleging that money raised to defray the child's medical expenses has been converted to personal use.

The suit was filed by Prestonsburg attorney Ned Pillersdorf on behalf of the child's mother, Lucy Samons of Garret. Her daughter, Misty Lee Samons, was diagnosed in mid-1987 as having acute lymphoblastic leukemia.

Named in the suit as persons who began a fund raising drive on the youngster's behalf are Gary Slone, Sheila Jackson, Rita Slone and Shirley Morgan, all of Garrett. The suit alleges that the four solicited money for a cancer fund, raising approximately $5,000, primarily in cash. Also named as defendants are John David Caudill of Martin and the First Guaranty Bank in Martin.

The money was deposited into First Guaranty Bank beginning in August 1987, placed in a trust account for benefit of the child, states the suit. It also alleges that the child's mother was told in September that no such trust fund existed, and she was denied access to the checking account.

Samons claims that the defendants may have converted some of the money to their own personal benefit.

Samons is asking for a judgment against Jackson, Morgan, Gary Slone and Rita Slone for any money they may have converted, or the fair market value of any vehicle they have purchased. She is also requesting a trial by jury, and that the bank deny the defendants access to the account established for her daughter. Samons is also asking that she be allowed access to the account.

Allen Hires Police Officer

At a special meeting Friday, members of Allen City Council employed a replacement for a town police officer who was dismissed last month after two weeks on the job.

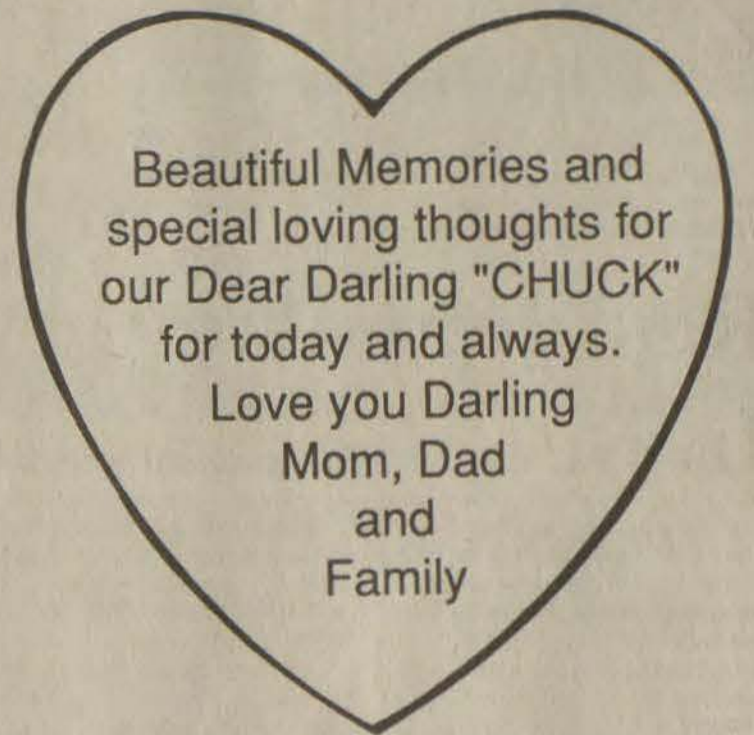

Eddie Robinson, 38, of Arkansas Creek, Martin, was hired to fill the vacancy left when the council fired Arthur Shepherd on March 20 after learning Shepherd had an arrest record.

Robinson, who holds a security diploma from Paintsville's Excel College, was found to have a clear police record after a check by council members. He was hired on a probationary basis through this month and, if his work is satisfactory, he will be retained permanently, according to City Clerk Bill Parsons.

The new policeman previously worked as a chef for the Kentucky Department of Parks and as a security guard for ATK Security and the Pinkerton Agency.

Parsons said that Robinson has agreed to move to Allen after his probation.

Youth Center Fundraiser Saturday

The Prestonsburg Youth Center Advisory Board is sponsoring a "FUNd FESTIVAL" Saturday, April 15, from 4 to 6:30 p.m. for the general public.

Activities will include a coin guess, dunking booth, free throw contest, ring toss, dart board and dancing contest. A dance for youths in grades sixth through 12 will be held at the center from 7:30 to 11 p.m.

According to Mike Vance, chair of the advisory board, Saturday's open house will include tours for the general public.

The Prestonsburg Youth Center Advisory Board was established to provide a teen center for Prestonsburg, and includes a 12-member teen board, said Vance.

A building on South Central Avenue has been leased, and renovation plans are being submitted to an architect for final drawings. The City of Prestonsburg has budgeted $15,000 for the center, but the total refurbishing cost is expected to amount to between $30,000 and $40,000, said Vance.

Members of the community are being asked to pledge their support financially, or volunteer time, materials, furnishings and equipment.

"Much of the discussion of the Youth Center Advisory Board has been around community support, both financial and other," said Vance.

"Any project such as this will succeed only if every segment of our community pulls together and pledges to support the program."

For more information, to make a pledge or volunteer, contact Vance at 886-8572 or 886-6051.

Left Beaver Community Service Club members pick up litter along Rt. 122 as part of their Community Beautification program. The next clean up day will be Saturday, April 15, at 9:00 a.m. starting at the intersection of Rts 122 and 80. Anyone may participate.

Residents Get Involved In Beautification Program

by Tess A. Whitmer
Staff Writer

It's "time to do something about the garbage in the ditch lines, creeks, and hollows," in Drift, according to Robert Stumbo, one of the founding members of the Left Beaver Creek Community Service Club. The LBCCSC has spent the last few weeks getting organized for a community clean up program.

"If nothing else works, we will shame the people into helping," said Curtis Salisbury, another original member. "When people from out of state come in and look at this place, it's a laughing stock. Milk jugs and diapers are all they see, and it's a disgrace. Industry and tourism will not come in if it looks like a dump."

This was the prevailing attitude of the 25 citizens who attended the open meeting on Saturday, April 8. Among those attending was Julie Paxton, a member of the county attorneys office, who said "We have a beautiful county here, and people come here to see beautiful mountains, not trash, and it's a shame."

Paxton also had a few tips for community members who wished to get the littering stopped, "Get behind your law enforcement and make them follow through and get the tickets to County Attorneys office. We have a new law, starting Monday, April 10, that allows non-violent offenders to work off their fines picking up trash."

The club members have managed to get some donations of garbage bags and gloves from the Martin IGA, Foodland, and Super America. They are still looking for 55 gallon drums that they can paint and use as litter barrels, and would like the county government to provide "do not litter" signs.

The club has made arrangements with the recycling center in McDowell, run by Travis Cook, and with Floyd County landfill officials, "We will be glad to help in any manner we can — we are against litter — any group who does a clean up project and wishes to use the landfill, we will accept it, free of charge, as long as they can verify that's what they're doing," said David Cooley, director of the solid waste system.

Other communities, such as Cow Creek, Daniels, Langley and Garrett, have already been utilizing the landfill according to Robert MacAnish, chairman Floyd County Solid Waste Commission, "We have a responsibility to do everything we can to help control litter; it's our public duty. These groups can, and do, call us and we will provide a truck to come out and pick up the garbage."

The LBCCSC is "hoping that the whole county will get involved and clean up their own areas. This is not a one week or one year thing; it's a lifetime project," said Stumbo. "We are willing to come to any community to help them start their own club, or even help pick up, as they are welcome to help us." Interested people in Bryant Branch can contact Margie Hall, and in Frazier Creek, Kathy or Ron Mullins.

The first organized "trash pick-up day" was Sunday, April 9. The next will be Saturday, April 15, starting at 9 a.m. at the intersection of Rts. 122 and 80 in Martin. Anyone needing transportation or having any other questions can contact Stumbo at 377-6144. The LBCCSC is not affiliated with any political or religious group, noted Stumbo.

ARE YOU TIRED OF LITTER IN FLOYD COUNTY

Well so am I. A recent Appeals Court decision held that counties do not have to provide Workers' Compensation to prisoners on a work program or for public service in working off fines.

Starting April 10, 1989, my office will coordinate a program picking up litter on roads and creek banks using non-violent inmates who qualify for the work program and traffic violators who want to work off their fine by public service. These workers will be supervised at all times by a law enforcement officer.

This is ACTION you can see before the election, not PROMISES that you will never see.

Letters To The Editor

City Shouldn't Go Backward, Notes Reader

Dear Editor,
Folks, we need to be truthful about the local option wet and dry election on April 22. Prestonsburg has been quick to respond to modernizing things. We are looking forward to the 21st Century.

We like to be modern, optimistic, happy people. Let's not be ignorant and have a negative attitude.

This is to speak loudly and clearly to Mr. Ron Masters, pastor of the United Methodist Church, and Mr. Steve Hopkins, pastor of the First Baptist Church. Just think of the employees who will be losing their jobs, who have hungry children to feed. You are trying to take food right out of their mouths. Yes, you really are. This will put some families on welfare and unemployment; some will starve.

I don't think God intended for the pastors of the church to interfere and cause trouble in the community. Not all pastors do this.

I listened to the regional tournament on the radio, when they played here in Prestonsburg. I was really proud of the church "Rock of Revelations" singing at the game! Intelligent people! They believe in progress.

We need to use incentives to entice people to work together. United we stand, divided we fall. Be like the Japanese — be motivated; have pride in Prestonsburg.

With the federal deficit so enormous, the money just isn't there for the government to keep up the people. Let them work — don't fight progress.

Prestonsburg is growing. It's more like New York every day. You should visit some of the other county seats. This would make you proud of Prestonsburg. The big road coming in, new bank, Holiday Inn, the lottery, new schools, enlarging the college and hospital, shopping centers, positive thinkers, more tourists, more red lights, recycling centers, more money, more everything.

We have been criticized enough for being Eastern Kentucky and being called rednecks, hillbillies, ignorant, bootleggers, lazy, backward people.

This year was the first time the Prestonsburg Blackcats ever went to the state tournament. It just comes natural to want to be No. 1. I think that's great!

People come in here from out of state, and the first thing they say is, "Well, how nice! I can't believe Prestonsburg is growing so fast," or "I can't believe my eyes!"

When you are on the road, notice the license plates on the cars. It's not local people, it's tourists from other counties and other states.

We cannot support churches who have a lack of concern for our people. They are against things that are in the best interest of our community. Prestonsburg is on the map! Let's keep it there.

We certainly don't want our kids to buy alcoholic drinks from a bootlegger and take it to school, and that will happen, if you vote no and it goes dry.

We want people to have a dignified way of life.

With controlled sales of alcoholic beverages, the seller will check the buyer's ID, and I am proud my sons can't buy it.

We need to reduce the hostility between the church pastors and the community. Never contribute to hostility.

People should have control over their own lives. We don't recruit people to drink; they have minds of their own.

Remember how it was last summer. Do we want it hot and wet, or hot and dry this summer?

Vote yes for controlled alcoholic sales. As long as everything is in control, everything will be OK.

Vote no, and everything will be out of control — remember how it used to be. I hate going backwards.

Vote yes to stay wet and legal and be proud of Prestonsburg. Be proud you are a cardiac, Blackcat fan.

These pastors have made it no secret — if they can stop the legal alcoholic sales, they will go after the lottery and video tapes next. So, you see, they are more interested in starving people to death than trying to help save them.

Election Choices:

Winning Out Of Habit?

Dear Editor,
How much is our vote worth? We, the eligible voters in Floyd County, seem to have a habit of electing various aspirants to various offices and, as their tenure expires, they are reelected time after time to the same office.

In some cases, they have served as many as 40 years in the same elective office.

Why not change the trend by electing some of the qualified new aspirants, inject some new blood, new ideas? For instance, our magistrates, who attend one meeting each month — consider their salary plus expenses. Shouldn't they be required to spend more time on the job for what they are paid, and shouldn't their qualifications be more than being able to operate a piece of equipment?

Tom Martin's Road Residents Protest

Dear Editor,
We, the undersigned, write this letter to voice our concern about the condition of the road known as the No. 6 Bottom Road, or Tom Martin's Road.

In surrounding areas, all of the county roads have been blacktopped. These roads include Baptist Bottom, West Garrett and the side roads of Garrett. The county has spent $63,000 to pave an elected official's driveway with five inches of blacktop. Surely, 10 families would be due for some consideration.

When we needed our road serviced during the winter, we were told to wait until the road dried up, and then we could expect our road to be fixed. Only with the help of County Judge John Stumbo did we get our road fixed. Without our road being blacktopped, we will continue to have broken springs and busted shocks.

Who pays? We, the voters, are the ones to pay. We also have to put up with the dust from the road, which can be a health hazard for people who have lung conditions or allergies.

Signed,
Jeff Scott, Anita Lewis, Norcie J. Scott, Alka Scott, Jeana Scott, Tim Bailey II, Sheila J. Bailey, Ellis Smith, David Burchfield, Mary S. Burchfield, Johnny Pack, Allee Pack, James W. Osborne, Gail Martin, Jerry Martin, Keith D. Lawson, Terena A. Lawson and Randy Osborne, all of Garrett, and Elder Clinton Jones (of Lackey, whose church bus uses the road).

Dear Editor,
The condition of Left Beaver Creek is a disgrace. The natural beauty of our hills and valleys is hidden by the polluting trash. This problem is ignored by most people other than to talk about it and agree that something should be done. The time for talking has ended. The time for action has begun.

Most young people comment that they cannot wait to leave this area. Why wouldn't they want to live in a clean place with good roads? Leaving is not the answer. If the young people continue to leave, then the next generation will be faced with this problem, as we are now. If the adults cannot or will not accept the responsibility for our surroundings, then it is up to us.

Our county officials must share the blame. Laws are not enforced. The officials do not carry out their sworn duty. These same laws are enforced in other parts of our state; why not here?

All that is asked is a fair share of our birthright. Let us start with your help. Make our tomorrows cleaner and brighter by joining in cleaning up now.

Sincerely,
Mary Beth Dudleson

Reader Enjoys Changes In Times

Dear Editor:
As natives of Floyd County (who) plan to spend much more time there after my husband retires in October 1989, we hate to miss a single copy (of the newspaper).

In February or March or April of 1924, several of Thomas Osborne's family had to move west for health reasons (TB). He had a sale of the home place that was bought by his brother John Milt at Eastern (where Allen Central High School now sits). I would appreciate any copies of news items or articles concerning this family.

Tom Osborne, Milt and Alex (my grandfather) were brothers. Uncle Tom had Gertrude, who married Jake Akers, both school teachers, and Cozetta, Gus, Mark Hanner, Ethel

Junior Pro's Hall Thanks Supporters

Dear Editor,
On behalf of the Prestonsburg Junior Pro basketball league, I would like to thank everyone who gave their time and effort to make our year a great success.

To Bob May, principal, and Coach Gordon Parido of PHS, many thanks for putting up with us.

To the area businesses that donated or discounted the food and drinks used in our concession stand, thank you.

How could we have had the great year we did without our coaches, who did a tremendous job in teaching, coaching and caring for our young men? Thank you.

To all the guys that had the nerve to help officiate our games, thanks. Our parents and grandparents who loved their children enough to bring them to games and practices, showed their true support of the child, team and league — many thanks.

To Pat Willis, our league secretary-treasurer, who did everything from paperwork to concession work — thanks for your dedication.

Most of all, thank you to my young men (approximately 140 of them) who gave many hours of practice and Saturdays to play in our league. Without you we have nothing!

I hope in some way that the league has helped these young men become better players, better friends with those they didn't know before, and grow in a positive way.

If we have helped just one child stay away from trouble with this time we have put into the program, it has been a great success.

Thanks again, to all who helped!

What Has Happened To Mountain Pride?

Dear Editor,
What has happened to the pride of the people of the Appalachian mountains? Many things have been written about the inhabitants of Eastern Kentucky, but the one point that was present was our pride. But this is no more. The landscape which we once held sacred is now the site of man-made disgust — litter.

Information Omitted, Says Garrett Squad

Dear Editor,
The academic section of the March 22 issue gave much-deserved recognition to members of Floyd County academic teams who advanced to the Governor's Cup state competition.

However, a serious oversight was made in failing to recognize the Garrett quick recall team's 29-23 victory over Carlisle County.

We, the members of the victorious team, hope this omission was an error on the Times' part and not intentional. We feel that we represented our area well and that Floyd Countians deserve to know of our victory.

Sincerely,

and a couple more. Ethel died in Silver Springs, New Mexico, on the way to Douglas, Ariz., where two of the girls, Gertrude and Zetta still live.

I like the change except for omitting the pages of the earlier times in the '20s, since I was born in '31. I still heard so much about a lot of these people and happenings, I am interested.

Sincerely,
Lois Hall Martin
Columbus, Ind.

We can no longer hold our heads high and say, "I am proud to be from the hills of Kentucky." If we do, with the condition it is in now, doesn't that verify all the negative things people use to describe us?

It is time for all the citizens of Left Beaver to bring back the dignity of the mountain folk. Let's clean up our area, and make it a place we can view with pride.

Suspected Gas Leak Claims Second Victim

The widow of a Spurlock Fork man who died from a suspected gas leak two weeks ago has died at a Lexington hospital, apparently as a result of the accident.

The comatose body of Dolly Faye Ousley, 53, was discovered by State Police Det. James Stephens on March 25, after neighbors reported they had not seen the woman and her husband Adis Ousley for several days. Her husband was dead when Stephens arrived.

Police believed the accident occurred because of a malfunctioning heating system in the Ousley home.

Mrs. Ousley was taken to the University of Kentucky Medical Center where she remained in critical condition until her death April 6.

Funeral services for the US Postal Service mail carrier were Sunday at the Spurlock Regular Baptist Church, with burial following in the Ousley Cemetery on Spurlock Creek, under the direction of Hall Funeral Home.

FLOYD COUNTY ATTORNEY

Leadership, Pride and Love For Floyd County

In order for Floyd County to attract industries and businesses that provide high paying quality jobs for all of the people, Floyd County must provide educational opportunities and recreational facilities and activities for all the people. As your Floyd County Attorney I will work with you in our partnership to accomplish the following objectives:

EDUCATION:

1. Revitalization and substantial funding of the power equalization program to give Floyd County and other coal-producing mountain counties the necessary education dollars to have the best school system in the South.
2. Change the means of financing secondary and elementary education so that the quality of education is no longer dependant upon real property taxes.
3. Increase the pay of teachers so that their pay is equal to or greater than the pay of teachers in similar positions, rank and tenure in the seven contiguous states to Kentucky and automatically adjust their pay to an index of at least the average pay of teachers in the seven bordering states. Outstanding teacher merit awards of financial bonuses and financial assistance in continuing education for them should be awarded annually.
4. Increased funding for classrooms and classroom facilities, free text books, educational aids and teacher aids, so that no classes, whether elementary or secondary, would exceed an enrollment of twenty-five students.
5. Provide increased vocational education training opportunities for high school and post high school students, including an increase in financial assistance to Mayo State Vocational School and vocational programs in high school.
6. Increase funding for and the continued development of adult educational programs, including adult literacy, GED classes and senior citizens educational opportunities.
7. Increase the funding and development of Prestonsburg Community College.
8. Assist in the development of Alice Lloyd College and Pikeville College.

RECREATION:

1. Develop major recreational parks on Left and Right Beaver Creeks, and the Emma-Cow Creek, Betsy Layne-Mud Creek, David-Middle Creek, Abbott and Auxler areas.
2. Establish a county recreation department to develop recreational programs throughout the county park system for all the people of every age group.

Local, State and Federal Revenue is now available—all we need is a reallocation of these funds from the "Golden Triangle" of Louisville, Lexington and Covington.

The following articles were taken from the Lexington Herald Leader, March 26, 1989 and Associated Press Release from April 1, 1989

Controlling Alcohol: Bootleggers Know How

Kentucky is accused of being near the bottom of the 50 states in so many areas of life that it's refreshing to see the commonwealth has been a pioneer in the current arguments over alcohol in Washington, D.C.

Take, for instance, the idea that alcohol is a drug that should be a much more tightly controlled substance.

Heck, Kentucky has already been doing that in more than 70 counties for most of the century.

If you grew up in one of those "dry" counties, you were used to alcohol being a tightly controlled substance.

It was controlled by the bootleggers.

When your ol' buddy Dewey's house was raided by the state cops, and they confiscated 1,227 cans of beer, 734 pints of vodka and 415 pints of bourbon, it was a pretty good sign that Dewey had gone beyond the needs of personal consumption.

It was a sign that he had gone into the tightly controlled substance business.

In fact, Kentucky bootleggers have always been avid citizen activists on the issue of keeping alcohol a tightly controlled substance.

During every "wet-dry" election, the bootleggers get out and work just as hard as the churchgoers to keep the county dry.

Another idea being kicked around in Washington these days is whether to raise the federal excise tax on beer and wine, something that hasn't been done since 1951.

Proponents of raising the tax argue that you should pay the same tax on the same amount of alcohol. As it stands, they say, you pay only 1 cent tax on a glass of wine, 3 cents tax on a bottle of beer and 11 cents tax on a shot of whiskey, but each contains the same amount of alcohol.

Once again, Kentucky leads the way.

Long before 1951, Kentuckians in dry counties had grown accustomed to paying equivalent prices, regardless of the particular alcoholic beverage being purchased.

In other words, no matter what you bought, the bootlegger always charged you twice the price you'd have paid in a wet county.

It wasn't exactly excise. It was more like excess.

Well, that's the way it goes in the tightly controlled substance business.

Even that idea of Congress to put warnings on alcoholic beverage containers isn't entirely new in Kentucky's dry counties.

As the bottle and the money change hands through the car window, conscientious bootleggers have always given their customers a verbal warning.

"Now watch out for the law, you hear?"

Associated Press Report On Alcohol Related Accidents (April 1, 1989)

Officials say there's been a decline in the number of Alcohol-related accidents in Kentucky. The University of Kentucky's Transportation Research Center says there were eleven percent fewer alcohol-related accidents in 1987 than the average for 1983 through '86.

Ilagan Pleased With Response To Clean-Up Drive

Dear Editor,
I am very pleased with the response we have received from various people in the county concerning the litter problem in the Left Beaver Creek area of our county.

Those concerned citizens include Stoney Newsome, Clinis Hall, Bobby Turner, Dale Hall and Betty Caudill. These people have given their pledge to support our cause and help eradicate the litter problem in this part of the county.

We truly appreciate their support, and hope to see every one else's support, also.

I believe that this problem is serious. Our once-beautiful hills are now littered with garbage, thrown out by unconcerned citizens. Our once life-filled creeks and streams have turned into dumping grounds for milk jugs and junk cars.

It is such a pity this has happened, when it could have been prevented by caring people. However, it is not too late to make a change. Help us clean up our area, and then help us to keep it clean. Please do not throw garbage into our creeks or in the ditches which border our roads.

Pick up litter around and near your homes. Show us your care by starting your clean-up program.

Make Left Beaver a showplace. Thank you,

Consider Qualities Before Committing Vote To Candidate

Dear Editor,
Well, folks, here we go again! The election is coming soon, and we are being asked to vote for numerous people. There are several things we need to consider before we commit to anyone.

Are they honest, trustworthy, competent, capable, a diligent worker, and a person of integrity (someone who tells you something and you know it is the whole truth)?

Will they work for the whole county's benefit? Such as trying to bring new industry into the county to help people go to work, to clean up the streams, hollows, creeks and highways? To fix the highway's pot holes, ditches, and general litter? To work toward better schools and more pay for teachers?

There is plenty of money for all these things; do not be deceived. We in Floyd County need to elect people who will help change the perception of Eastern Kentuckians, and especially Floyd County. The candidates list their ancestors back five generations, but don't tell how they are qualified for the job, or what good they will do if elected. Granted, all the jobs are paid excessively, so lots of people want them. Go to the Courthouse on any given day and see if you can find an elected officer in their office after noon. Some do not come in regularly, or not at all.

We are to assume they get paid for a 40-hour week. Now it is not even safe to be in the hallway or courtroom. According to eyewitnesses, it was a melee, and there were seven state police and sheriffs cars out back at the time. Pass city hall and see how many city police cars are there. Check it out!

Let's all get out to vote, and before you go, be sure to consider the person, the qualifications, and if they are what the county needs to move forward, instead of where we have been for years.

Those in the city vote to keep liquor in the city, not to help bootleggers, and I ask the reporters for the Floyd County Times to be unbiased when reporting the courthouse news.

Yours for a better Floyd County,
M.E. Osborn,
Auxier

School Appearance 'Same 10 Years Ago'

Dear Editor,
During a recent visit to Floyd County, I was invited to a gathering held at Martin Elementary School. It truly made me appreciative of our school system back home. The conditions and upkeep of the school were shocking.

It was the same as I remember 10 years ago. This brought many questions to mind. Why haven't there been any changes since the state takeover? Where do the schools' fund raising funds go, and why aren't the taxpayers asking these questions?

I think everyone whom this concerns should consult their principal with these questions and ask for a crackdown on maintenance. Your principal should have more respect and concern for the students and his reflection upon the school.

Colleague's Action Upsets Drift Teacher

Dear Editor,
I am writing this letter at the School Board of Education meeting of April 5. Something happened at this meeting which I must speak out about.

I am a teacher at Drift Elementary. My school's PTO came to the board meeting to voice its disagreement with the state's decision to close our school. This is our right and we feel strongly about this.

While our spokesperson was giving her presentation, a member of the audience was seen writing on a pad to the person sitting beside him, "Burn Drift." This upset our parents tremendously.

We later found out that this person is a teacher at an elementary school in this county. What is wrong with people? We have never bothered any other school in this system. We only want the same privilege as all other people in this county — to send our students to the school of our choice, and our choice is Drift.

I cannot believe that a teacher in Floyd County could be that callous about students and parents who love their school — someone who has nothing to do with our school.

Head Teacher, Drift

Reader Responds To Adoption Letter

Dear Editor,
I would like to respond to last week's letter that I read in the paper about adoption. I agree that something is wrong with the system.

First, I think the laws about child abuse need to be changed. Social Services takes children from their parents for abusing them, and then gives them back or puts them in foster homes until the parents receive counseling, or they give the children back without any counseling at all. In most cases, this happens over and over.

These children should be adopted out to a family that would love them and care for them. Why give these children back to their parents to be abused again?

Another thing that is wrong with the child adoption system is our welfare system. Women in our area are getting paid for having children. The more children they have, the bigger their welfare check is. Although the state pays for food stamps to feed these children, look at these children on welfare; most of them are dirty and do not receive the proper nourishment. Why don't we do like Japan and penalize these women for having babies and not taking care of them? We need to take these babies and see that they are placed in a proper home environment.

Also upset with the system,

Why Holiday For King? Why Not Nunn, Combs?

Dear Editor,
Why does Rep. Greg Stumbo want to make Martin Luther King's birthday a Kentucky holiday? What did he ever do for the Commonwealth of Kentucky?

Why not name a holiday after Bert T. Combs (builder of the Mountain Parkway, so we in the mountains would have a good road out, and the Prestonsburg Community College). Why not Louie B. Nunn, who finished the missing link between Paintsville and Louisa? Why not a holiday for Henry Clay, Albin Barkley, Fred M. Vinson and Kilroy (the best known GI in World War II), or James J. Carter (a Kentucky and US of A taxpayer and WWII Disabled Veteran), etc.?

I like and have supported and know he is a good representative — none better — but why is he for a King holiday?

Trailer Storage Rental Questioned

Dear Editor,
I was shocked to learn that the Floyd County Clerk is paying $620 a month of the taxpayer's money to rent a trailer for storage.

Many families in Floyd county don't have that much income each month to live on. We are taxed to death, then to find out that this is what $7,440 a year of our tax money is used for is disgusting!

Have Pride In Area, Left Beaver Litter Urge MHS Students Not To Be Tolerated

Dear Editor,
Sally Miller's third period English class wants people to realize that the garbage problem must stop.

We, the people of Left Beaver, and the rest of Floyd County, should take pride in our part of the state. Please, do not just read this letter and think it is a good cause, and that other people will do the work. It takes everyone working together.

If we do not clean up now, this part of the state will become a dumping ground for surrounding states. With everyone's help, we can clean up Floyd County.

Thank you,

Dear Editor,
The filthy condition of Left Beaver Creek and Highway 122 is not to be tolerated! There is no reason for this kind of blot on our beautiful mountainsides and along our roadways.

It doesn't take much effort to throw a piece of trash into a garbage can, and it takes no effort at all to keep trash in the car until it can be placed in the correct receptacle. The image that is projected by our poor house-keeping is one of uncaring people.

Let us show that we do care about the cleanliness of our area. We invite all citizens of Left Beaver Creek to join forces and clean up — now!

Protecting The Posies

Trying to ward off Jack Frost's frenzy, George and Mary Jane Brown of Prestonsburg worked Monday afternoon to protect their blooming flowers from the evening freeze. Throughout the county, gardeners covered their early flowers and fruit trees with boxes, bedspreads, paper and plastic to keep out the chilly night temperatures, which dipped into the low 20s. The same precautions were recommended for Tuesday night, with warmer temperatures expected for the rest of the week.

Energy Assistance Funds Available

The Big Sandy Area Development District, serving Floyd, Pike, Magoffin, Martin and Johnson counties, has received $548,335 in state and federal funds to cool down and warm up the homes of a number of low-income residents in the five-county area. The funds are part of the state's annual weatherization program, according to Human Resources Secretary Harry J. Cowherd, M.D. Beginning July 1, the money will be available for simple improvements to make homes more comfortable and energy efficient.

Cowherd said top priority will be given to the homes of elderly and disabled Kentuckians. "The types of work performed include caulking, weatherstripping around windows and doors, reglazing windows and adding insulation — just basic improvements to make the homes warmer in the winter and cooler in the summer," Cowherd said. "Making the homes more 'weather-tight' also should help reduce utility bills produced during both seasons," he added. A total of $8.3 million will be distributed to the state's 22 community action agencies, as well as Louisville, Jefferson County, and the City of Ashland. Each region's allocation is based upon the number of low-income families, according to Margaret Whitet, acting commissioner of the Department for Employment Services. "The type and amount of work performed depends on the condition of the home," she said. "Agencies can spend an average of $1,600 on each residence. That means we should be able to make improvements to 5,051 homes (statewide) with this budget."

Martin City Workers Get Benefits, Raises

Members of Martin city council voted last Wednesday to pay 50 percent of city employees' insurance policy premiums, up to a maximum of $100 per month. Council members had discussed the measure for several months, including checking with insurance companies on plans that would cover all employees. Under the plan adopted at the regular April meeting, the contributions will be made to employees' own existing policies. The council also determined pay increases for eight city employees during a two-hour executive session. The amount of the pay raises was not disclosed, but city clerk Johnnie Stephens said the raises were not across-the-board increases. Present were councilmen Denzil Halbert, Earrit Hayes, Joe Sampson and Mayor Raymond Griffith. The next regularly scheduled council meeting is May 3 at 7 p.m. at the Martin City Hall.

Appellate Court Upholds Decision

The Kentucky Court of Appeals Friday upheld a Floyd Circuit Court ruling in a 1988 drug case. The case involved the local court's conviction last spring of Donald Kimberly of Langley for trafficking in marijuana and his subsequent sentencing to two and a half years in prison. Kimberly appealed the conviction, contending that the court did not have probable cause for issuing the search warrant which turned up the marijuana, according to Commonwealth Attorney Jerry Patton. Sheriff's department officers allegedly discovered two pounds of marijuana, drug paraphernalia, several thousand dollars in cash and five automatic weapons when they searched Kimberly's residence. The warrant apparently was issued after Sheriff's Deputy Anthony Castle arrested a man who testified he had bought marijuana from Kimberly. Kimberly was convicted in April 1988, following his arrest on July 4, 1987. Appeals Court judges, in a two to one vote, declared that the trial commissioner's affidavit for a search warrant was "sufficient to establish probable cause."

Fact: Reprinted below is a copy of a February 27, 1989 letter from James D. Syers, Field Division General Manager, Postmaster to Congressman Chris Perkins.

FLOYD COUNTY CAN GET HIGH PAYING QUALITY JOBS NOW!!!

The United States Postal Service is committed to locate an Eastern Kentucky Regional Post Office, Collection and Distribution Center in the Big Sandy Valley Area. This would mean a minimum of 175 direct new jobs and 350 new indirect supporting jobs, giving a total of 525 new high paying quality jobs for Floyd County and Eastern Kentucky if the Center is located in Floyd County. We do not have to convince the Postal Service of the need for this Center. The commitment has been made. Please write our U.S. Senators and U. S. Congressman and encourage them to use their influence in having the Postal Service locate this Regional Center in Floyd County. Tell them that Floyd County is in the center of Eastern Kentucky and that all roads pass through Floyd County reaching all of the Big Sandy Valley, Kentucky River Valley and the Tug River Valley. Tell them that we have the work force and the ability to train the work force to staff the Center and support industries and that we desperately need the jobs.

Dear Congressman Perkins:

I just received a letter from the Chamber of Commerce in Pikeville with a proposal expressing the idea and hopeful location of a regional post office in that area.

(I am not aware of any proposed regional post office. However, we are trying to open a new post office in the vicinity or on the land that your Dad and I had talked about several years ago, the location being somewhere within the confines of the land that had been reclaimed by the rerouting of the river. That proposal and that effort are on-going.

We have run into some space problems as far as site is concerned, and some other challenges. Hopefully, these can be overcome. Certainly the enthusiasm and the ingenuity of the citizenry of Pikeville would dictate that they would be interested in locating jobs there. (However, there are no proposals at this time for any regional offices anywhere within the Eastern Region.) Should I hear otherwise I will notify you or Dave immediately.

Congressman, I want to thank you again for your continued support of the Postal Service and, in particular, your efforts to grant us the latitude to operate off-budget.

Sincerely,

James D. Syers

In Remembrance of My Father

Charles F. Curry Jr. (Chuck)

It has been two years since my father's death, and yet it seems like yesterday. When Dad died I felt like a part of me left with him. I remember everything that happened that day, and the whole week. I remember things were sort of different that week. Looking back now at the things that happened, seems like I was just being warned of Dad's death. Maybe that's why when it did happen, I felt like something had been finished. Of course it had, my father's life here on earth. Now I don't worry if he's alright because I know he's in heaven, and I will see him there someday. I know if I could talk to my Dad that he would tell me that he's ok, and that he doesn't want to come back to earth, but for us to come and live with him someday. He would tell us to be happy, and to remember the good times we all had together.

Sure I miss my Dad, because I can't see him, but I do see him everytime I turn around, in someone else. His smile, his way of doing or saying something, then I realize he is still with me, and always will be.

One thing I do know, I can hear my Dad's voice. I can sense his sweet smell, and the exact way he looked that final Sunday we spent together. There's no one like my Dad and I will remember and love him forever and forever. After all that's where love is, in your heart.

Written by his 14 year old daughter,

MOUNTAIN CHRONICLE

Vol. 1 No. 16 Thirty Pages Wednesday, April 20, 1989 (USPS 324-610) Painesville, Ky 25

$25,483 MISSING FROM COURT CLERK'S OFFICE

Floyd County's well-known County Court Clerk C. Ollie Robinson passed away on February 22nd and was replaced officially by Tommy Lafferty Junior on February 28th, after his appointment by County Judge Executive Jerry Lafferty.

The monies collected during the period from February 7th through February 22nd in Floyd County amounts to $25,483.55, collected during Robinson's hospital stay that preceded his death.

Money collected for vehicle registration in each county is routinely placed in an interim bank account, then transferred with a report, to the state every week.

The money from Floyd County for that period is missing, according to state officials. The state says that it has received the forms on how much was collected during the period...but has not received the money!

An official investigation is being conducted to determine the whereabouts of the missing money.

According to Cheryl Lane of the Floyd County Court Clerk's Office, Carla Boyd Robinson, niece of the late Clerk, took charge of the affairs of her uncle's office during the period from February 7th through February 22nd. No statement has been released by state officials regarding the status of the investigation or their beliefs as to the whereabouts of the missing money. At this time, nobody has been officially accused in any wrongdoing regarding the missing funds.

Can the County Clerk, Carla Bolton, (formerly Carla Boyd, who was in charge of the Clerk's Office during this period of time) tell us what happened to the taxpayer's missing $25,483?

Elect Roger Webb County Clerk

Big Sandy ADD Employment Up

Magoffin County continues to have one of the state's highest unemployment rates—21.6 percent—and for February recorded the third highest rate in the state.

On the flip side, overall unemployment in the Big Sandy Area Development District's five counties dropped from an average of 13.3 percent in January to a preliminary 12.6 percent in February. Floyd county recorded the lowest rate in the district, at 11 percent. All of the Big Sandy counties posted double-digit unemployment rates.

The percentage of jobless in the remaining counties for February, the latest month for which statistics are available, is Johnson, 13.9; Martin, 13.3; and Pike, 11.8.

Floyd Chamber Teleblitz Seeks 100 New Members

The Floyd County Chamber of Commerce will conduct a "Teleblitz" to encourage new and renewed membership in the organization on Thursday, April 27.

According to Tim Hites, vice-president, the Chamber currently posts a membership of 66; he is hoping that the teleblitz will increase membership to 150.

"That is a very ambitious goal," he noted, adding that the Chamber is involved in a number of activities to promote industry, tourism and the Jenny Wiley Summer Theatre.

Membership is open to all businesses and individuals in Floyd County, said Hites.

"Most people want to know what the Chamber does," he added. Goals for 1989 include increased membership; developing full-time tourism outreach jointly with the Jenny Wiley Theatre and Prestonsburg Recreation, Tourism and Convention Commission; creating an active publicity to promote Floyd County, recognizing new members and community leaders; and actively lobbying state and national legislative delegates for better roads, including the completion of US 23 and improvement of coal haul roads.

The teleblitz will utilize teams of workers staffing four telephone lines at the Holiday Inn of Prestonsburg, calling potential members from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Call responses will be entered directly into a computer, said Hites, so that by the end of the day, mailing labels can be generated and membership packets sent to those joining the Chamber.

Testimonials began airing earlier this week on local radio stations, and more than 5,000 flyers have been sent to businesses in the county via bank statements issued by First Commonwealth Bank, the Bank Josephine, and First Guaranty Bank.

Membership fees are $150 for firms with two to 20 employees, $300 for those with 21 to 50 employees, and $500 for those with 51 or more employees. Individuals may join for $100, and government agencies for $150.

Firefighters Practice Technique

Allen Fire Department sponsored a training opportunity for local firefighters from Allen, Garrett and Maytown, on Sunday, April 9. A house in D wale, donated by its owner, provided fire fighters with the opportunity to practice using breathing apparatuses, putting out fires set indoors, and clearing smoke, according to Terry Triplett, member of the Allen fire department.

Commission OKs Two Floyd County Utility Requests

The Public Service Commission recently ruled on two utility company requests affecting Floyd County consumers.

The commission granted Mike Little Gas a purchased gas adjustment to reflect an $18,459 decrease in wholesale costs from its supplier, Kentucky West Virginia Gas. The average annual decrease per residential customer is $37.87, retroactive to March 1.

The commission approved a surcharge for B&H Gas of 69 cents per thousand cubic feet, retroactive to April 1, until November or until undercollections resulting from purchases from Kentucky West Virginia Gas have been recovered.

Prayer Retreat Scheduled Friday

Area church women are scheduled to gather for the annual Women's Spring Prayer Retreat at Paintsville's Heart O' Highlands Motel Friday and Saturday.

The retreat, beginning at 10:30 a.m. Friday, includes services and Bible study led by Eunice Edwards, former executive secretary for the Women's National Auxiliary Convention of the Freewill Baptist Church nationwide, and Rudene Kennedy, a Freewill Baptist Bible teacher from North Carolina.

The fee for the retreat is $25 for those who stay overnight. For commuters who wish to attend all sessions but will not stay overnight, the fee is $10.

For more information, contact Dorothy Cox at 789-3817.

Religious Viewpoints

by Gary Shepherd
Pastor, Zebulon Baptist Church

"Peter...beginning to sink, he cried, saying, 'Lord save me' (Matthew 14:30)." The experience of Peter, as he began to sink in the boisterous seas, resulted not only in an urgent cry but also in an immediate response from Christ. It also provides an example for every sinking sinner who, in sincerity and urgency calls out to the Savior.

First, there is recognition. "Lord save me." There must be recognition of the Lordship and power of the Lord Jesus Christ. It is a recognition that all God's saving purpose and power is in the Christ. He is the savior; but in order for him to be savior, he must be Lord. He must be able to save. Salvation is of the Lord! It is all of him, all in him, and all by him alone. He is God in flesh, and has the right to save or damn. He must be recognized as the one with ability, but not obligation.

Secondly, there is a request. "Lord save me." Not a request to give a little aid or to make us savable, but to save! Not a request for help in reformation and religion, but for full salvation. It is "Lord save" us from our sins, from Satan, from this present evil world...from ourselves! There is no mention of health, wealth, or even heaven, but for Christ to save, not temporarily, but eternally! It is an urgent plea for a complete rescue to be performed by Christ himself by his grace and mercy. The prayers of the person stirred by religion are for a number of things, but the prayer of all who are stirred by the spirit of God is "Lord save us and keep on saving us."

Thirdly, there is a realization. "Lord save me." Helpless me! Sinful me! Hopeless me! Me, the chief of sinners! As Isaiah cried out, "woe is me, for I am undone; because I am a man of unclean lips, and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips." There is a sure knowledge of one's own inability to save himself that gives birth to this cry. A spirit-revealed realization of who and what "me" is strips "me" of all imagined righteousness and false refuges and causes me to call on "Him" for mercy and grace.

The only alternative to Christ's saving Peter and rescuing him from his plight was "or I perish." We all perish if God in sovereign does not save us, if Christ had not died to purchase our salvation, and if the spirit of God did not in power produce this salvation in us through the new birth. But he has done such for a people who will be brought to hear the gospel of Christ and cry out to him for mercy.

This cry from a sinking sinner always gets an immediate response, as it did for Peter. "And immediately Jesus stretched forth his hand and caught him." All who call out to Christ, with a sincere and believing heart, will receive mercy from his gracious hand. Christ "caught him" and He kept him. We are kept by the power of God through faith and no man can pluck us out of his hand. Our praise must be: "It was the mighty Christ alone who by his grace saved such a perishing sinner as I."

Let's Give Our Kids A Break

Regular marijuana use causes these symptoms sooner or later:

- Lack of Motivation
- Decreased performance in school work and sports
- Loss of timing
- Loss of short term memory
- Abrupt mood changes
- Impaired driving ability
- Irritability and increasing friction with friends and family

Marijuana use effects the body and how it functions:

- It interferes with the ability to concentrate, which is necessary for basic academic skills, and overall thinking ability.
- It interferes with motor skills by slowing down reaction time distorting visual perception and minimizing coordination.
- It interferes with psychological functioning, personality development and emotional growth.

Most important, using drugs gives a kid a way to avoid problems instead of learning to deal with them. We cannot let this happen!

Rumors Of Regional Post Office Unfounded, Federal Officials Say

The need to replace the city of Pikeville's inadequate post office has apparently fanned rumors in several counties, including Floyd and Pike, that the US Postal Service is looking for a site for a regional post office in Eastern Kentucky.

Officials with the federal post office's field division in Louisville and a spokesman for 7th District US Congressman Chris Perkins say the rumors are false.

"There is nothing in the works for a regional post office in that area," Sherry Cain, manager of communications for the Louisville field office, said Tuesday.

Dave Whalen of Congressman Perkins' office said that he and Perkins had also heard the rumors about a new regional facility and, upon checking with the postal service, had confirmed that rumors for such a facility were unfounded.

In response to Perkins' inquiry, James Syers, Louisville field division general manager, said, "I am not aware of any proposed regional post office." The response was contained in a letter to Perkins, dated Feb. 27, 1989.

Syers also stated in the letter that "...there are no proposals at this time for any regional offices anywhere within the Eastern Region."

Syers and Whalen both indicated that the source of the rumors may be connected to plans to construct a new Pikeville post office. The decision over a location of the proposed city post office has apparently generated some controversy in Pikeville.

Several towns in the area are reportedly scheduled to get new post office buildings, but none are to be regional postal centers.

Hospice Receives Grants, Says Conley

Hospice of Big Sandy has been awarded two separate grants totaling $4,500, according to executive director Chris Conley.

Under terms of a matching fund grant from the Christian Appalachian Project, any donations received by Hospice, up to $2,500, will be matched dollar for dollar by CAP.

The second grant, for $2,000, comes from the newly formed Diocese of Lexington's Mountain Mission Fund. These funds will be disbursed in quarterly increments, beginning July 1, Conley said.

The grants, said Conley, will help in the organization's planned expansion into Magoffin, Martin and Pike counties. "This expansion, if approved by the state, will require additional staff, logistical arrangements and additional expense for Hospice," Conley said. "The grant monies will help with these expenses."

Hospice of Big Sandy, now serving Floyd and Johnson counties, provides health and counseling assistance to terminally ill patients and their families.

Conley said individual donations to help with the matching fund challenge may be made to Hospice, Room 320, Johnson County Courthouse, Paintsville, KY 41240.

Wayland, Other Sites Approved For Reclamation Through OSM

Seven coal mine reclamation projects in Floyd County, including a large project at Wayland, were included in a more than $8 million award to Kentucky by the US Office of Surface Mining last week.

The local projects are among 37 projects funded across the state and represent close to half of those funded in this OSM region, which includes counties from Pike to the Ohio River.

The funds will go toward reclaiming land around mines that were abandoned before the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act was passed in 1977.

According to a press release from Sen. Mitch McConnell's office, local sites and work to be done include: Daniels Creek Highwall, near Ivel, stabilize eroding highwall; Gosling Branch Refuse Fire, near Eastern, extinguish refuse fire, close portals and reclaim two acres; Brandykeg Slide, stabilize landslide area near a county road.

Also Hays Branch Refuse Fire, near Hi Hat, extinguish refuse fire and close portals; Joel Crisp Branch, near Martin, reclaim landslides, close portals and eliminate abandoned pier, and Prater Creek Slides, near Ivel, reclaim four-acre landslide area.

The biggest project, according to local OSM official Gary Francis, involves former mines at Wayland. The project will encompass reclamation of refuse piles, closing of portals and removal of abandoned equipment and buildings.

Francis said the Wayland reclamation contract is expected to be awarded this summer. Contracts for the other projects are to be let later in the year. Contractors have three years to complete the projects, he said.

Prestonsburg's touch of Mexico

By Lee Mueller

Eastern Kentucky bureau

PRESTONSBURG — Not even in San Antonio, Texas, is there restaurant like Sam an Tonio's.

Certainly, there's not another restaurant like it in Kentucky.

About two miles north of Prestonsburg in a motel along U.S. 23, Sam an Tonio's bills itself as a Tex-Mex restaurant, but that's too modest—a quality that seems of place in this place. Whatever Sam an Tonio's is, it isn't modest.

Robust and aggressively hospitable, it is the creation and personification of its owners, Floyd County native Jack Absher Jr. and his wife, Nora, a Chicago woman of Mexican descent.

They met while they were attending a Florida hotel school. They returned to Prestonsburg and opened Sam an Tonio's in 1985, a time when the close thing to ethnic restaurant in Eastern Kentucky was a Pizza Hut.

More Mex than Tex, the restaurant's atmosphere contains just enough sombreros and Mexican woodcarvings on the walls to get the point across but not so many that you have to spend time thinking about it.

Decorated mostly with photographs of the Abshers with their arms draped around guests including Waylon Jennings; Ricky Skaggs; Moonie Lynn and his wife, Loretta; and her sister, Crystale Gayle; and another Floyd Countian, Dwight Yoakam.

There also is and inscribed photograph of Chubby Checker, praising the Abshers on "Sam's BBQ Baby Back Ribs ($9.95 and $12.95)," which, by the way, are superior in every way to anything in Lexington's rib houses.

The restaurant's menu, which doubles as a paper place mat, includes high-quality prime rib and a couple of Cajun dishes, and serves as a wry guide to some of the best, most authentic Mexican food in Kentucky.

Portions, by the way, are generous.

While food and service and generally excellent, the best thing about Sam an Tonio's is what it feels most of the time: a place made for eating and drinking and sitting around.

The success of Sam an Tonios proves that the serving of alcohol in a restaurant is not harmful to the community.

Plant Rhubarb, Asparagus Now For Later Harvests

Two garden specialists—rhubarb and asparagus—need to be planted now for harvest in two to three years. "Rhubarb and asparagus are cool season garden favorites, that produce year after year if they are well established in a permanent location," said Mary Witt, university of Kentucky Extension horticulturist.

Rhubarb crowns should be planted as soon as a ground can be worked easily. Usually, that is March 15 in Eastern Kentucky. Rhubarb crowns should be planted about two inches below the soil's surface and about three to four feet apart. Make sure the soil is well drained and the location is a permanent one, since the plants will bear for five to seven years, she said.

Asparagus also is planted from crowns. Plant each crown six to eight inches deep, in well drained soil, more shallow in heavy soil. Each crown should be at least 18 inches from any other crown. Once established, Witt said, asparagus plantings may last 15 to 20 years.

The asparagus plants should not be harvested until the second year, and that harvest should be restricted to three to four weeks. After the second year, harvest can last 8 to 10 weeks, she said. Witt said that information about how to grow both rhubarb and asparagus is available in HO-63, Home Vegetable Gardening in Kentucky, available free at county Extension offices.

Federal Retirees Plan Tax Protest

Retired federal employees in Kentucky are protesting the state's taxing of their pensions, saying they are entitled to refunds on the state income tax they have paid since 1984. Leaders of the state chapter of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees are urging members to file for refunds on taxes back to that year before the statute of limitations on refiling runs out this Saturday. According to Charlie Dixon of the association's central Kentucky chapter, retired state employees are exempt from state income taxes, but retired federal employees must pay taxes on pension income over $4,000. A recent US Supreme Court decision ruled that Michigan could not tax federal employee pensions while exempting state and local workers.

Local Man Pleads Guilty In Drug Possession Case

A Prestonsburg man pled guilty in Floyd Circuit Court last week to four counts of possession of controlled substances.

Ronald Gene George of the Lancer area was sentenced to six years on each of the counts, which involved possession with intent to sell LSD or cocaine. The sentences are to run concurrently, said Commonwealth Attorney Jerry Patton. George was arrested Oct. 22, 1988, following an investigation by the Floyd County Sheriff's Department. At a forfeiture hearing, Patton said George forfeited to the county a pickup truck, several weapons and about $3,000 in cash. The items fall under the Kentucky Forfeiture Statute and can be retained by the sheriff's department and sold at public auction.

What's In A Name?

Although there's no Paris, London, Moscow or Athens in Floyd County, you have to admit there are some pretty interesting place names. Where did they come from? Who decided that a certain place would be given a certain name and why that name? At the suggestion of Bill Meade of Wheelwright, The Floyd County Times begins this week a continuing puzzler for its readers. Each week we'll feature a couple of place names in the county and solicit reader response as to how the name came about. This week we feature the communities of Hi Hat in the southern part of the county and Bonanza in the north. If you know how one of these names came to be, drop us a line, including your name and phone number, or call 886-8506.

City Police Report Trio Of Accidents

Slippery roads were cited as the cause of two accidents Saturday, according to reports from the Prestonsburg police department. Three vehicles were involved in a chain reaction crash on US 23 North. A car driven by Robert Blanton of Dema apparently was unable to stop in time to avoid rear-ending a car driven by Ellian VanHoose of Wintonsville, who was stopped in traffic. VanHoose's vehicle then hit a car driven by Timothy Shumway of Catlettsburg.

Also on Saturday, at the intersection of Arnold Avenue and US 23, a car driven by Douglas Burke of West Prestonsburg struck the rear of one driven by Leslie Slone of Topmost. An accident on April 6 involved an attempt by Ann Fitch of Van Lear to turn her car from US 23 North onto West Branham Street. Fitch's car was struck by a vehicle driven by Trena Hensley of Langley, who was traveling south on US 23. Police reports state that Fitch failed to yield the right of way.

city's grant-funded fire tower project, the council authorized construction to begin on the tower at the city's Cliff property site. A motion by Adrian Blackburn, seconded by Callihan and unanimously approved by council, gave the go ahead for the three-story, 28'x28' structure.

Council members also okayed a proposal from James O. VanHoose, chairman of the Festival of FACES, for street closings for the May festival. With a motion by Goebel, seconded by Paul Joseph, council voted to let the festival keep business fees collected from street vendors during the two days.

The sale of a city fire truck to the Cow Creek Volunteer Fire Department was approved on a motion by Callihan, second by Goebel. Latta asked Attorney Larry Brown to draw up a contract for the $12,000 transaction.

In other business, the council instructed James to contact a Florence legal firm about updating the city's personnel policies and heard the first reading of an ordinance on the city as a drug-free workplace. Latta explained that any agency receiving federal funds or grants is required to pass such a policy ordinance.

ACHS Gets By Pikeville 12-9 During Extra Innings

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

It was nothing like baseball weather as the temperature dropped into the 30's Monday night as Coach Donnie Daniels and his Allen Central Rebels got set to play the Pikeville Panthers, ranked third in the 15 Region.

The Rebels scored three unearned runs in the top of the ninth inning to defeat the Panthers, 12-9, in nine innings. Allen Central earlier held a lead of 9-2, only to allow Pikeville to tie the score in the bottom of the seventh on a passed ball. Parson stole on an error by the Panther's second baseman, and Gray was safe on an error. Pikeville led 2-1.

Mickey Parson started on the mound for the Rebels and pitched six strong innings, giving up two unearned runs in the second inning. The right hander fanned nine Panther batters but needed relief in the bottom of the seventh as he ran into control problems. Kevin Webb picked up the victory with two innings of relief work.

Allen Central missed a golden opportunity to score in the top of the second when Webb singled and stole second. Meadows followed with a base hit to left, and later went to second on a passed ball. The Rebels had runners on second and third with no one out, but Jamie Hall, Joey Gray, and Chris Kidd all struck out to end the second inning threat.

Pikeville scored its two unearned runs in the second on base-on-balls by Scott Hall and Chris Lawson. After Johnny Ray flied deep to center, James Hale was safe at first on an error by the first baseman, Jim Blackburn singled to center to score both Lawson and Hale, and to give Pikeville an early two to nothing lead.

Allen Central scored a run in the top of the fourth after Webb walked, stole second, and went to third on a wild pitch. Webb scored when Gray's grounder was misplayed by the Panther's second baseman, and Gray was safe on an error. Pikeville led 2-1.

The Rebels struck for seven big runs in the top of the sixth inning when Kevin Spurlock and Webb both drew walks off Panther pitcher James Baird, in leading off the sixth. Brett Meadows hit a towering drive that fell short of the wall for a double to score both Spurlock and Webb. Hall walked and Gray singled to center to score Hall. Kidd walked on four pitches, putting runners on first and second. Pete Castle lined a triple to right to score both Hall and Kidd. After Todd Duff popped to second, Parson lined a rope to left for a hit and an RBI to score Castle. Parson stole second and scored on Spurlock's RBI single to center. The Rebels held what seemed like a safe 8-2 lead.

Parson retired the Panthers in the bottom of the sixth without any trouble, as the Rebels went to work again. Hall walked, stole second, and went to third on a passed ball. He scored when Kidd grounded hard to short for an out. The Rebels led, 9-2.

Parson, who was breezing alone and allowing Pikeville only three hits, needed only three outs to record his third win of the season. But everything fell apart for the Rebels in the seventh when Smith reached on a shortstop error, Blackburn singled to left and both runners moved on a passed ball. Lafferty struck out, McCoy walked, and Arnold followed with a hit to left, scoring both Smith and Blackburn. Parson lost control as he walked the next four batters, allowing the Panthers to score seven unearned runs to tie the score at 9-9. Webb then came on in relief and retired the Panthers.

Both teams could not mount any kind of threat until the top of the ninth, when Allen Central picked up three unearned runs without a hit in the inning. Gray led off with a base on balls and stole second. Kidd walked, and Castle followed by reaching first on an error by the pitcher, allowing Gray to score. Duff walked and Parson reached on an error on the second baseman, scoring Kidd. Webb then hit a fly ball to center and Castle tagged up and scored after the catch. Allen Central led, 12-9.

Webb had no trouble in the bottom of the inning as he struck out the side.

Allen Central is off to a good start with a 4-1 record. They will host Wheelwright Thursday at the Allen Park at 4:30 p.m.

Webb, Hall Sign Letters-Of-Intent To Play With Alice Lloyd College

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

"We're getting two quality players."

That's how Alice Lloyd College basketball coach Joe Stepp summed up the signing of Henry Webb of the McDowell Daredevils, and Brian Hall, former player for the Daredevils. Both signed letters-of-intent Tuesday morning at McDowell High School in the with parents, high school coaches, and principal Robert Hall looking on.

Webb, who averaged 20 points per game this season for Johnny Ray Turner's Daredevils, led the McDowell team to the championship of the 58th District tournament, and to the finals of the 15th Region tournament. Webb was named to the All-Star classic between the 15th Region All-Stars and the 16th Region All-Stars. He scored 17 points in helping to lead the 15th Region to a 133-126 victory in the all-star event. He was also the leading rebounder for the Daredevils.

"Henry has the ability to play either position, point guard or off guard," Assistant Coach Jim Stepp explained. "He is an excellent ball handler, and his outside scoring ability will help us at that position. Henry is stronger than he looks, and he knows how to box out well on the boards."

The Alice Lloyd coaches expect Webb to contribute early for them next season. He will be utilized at the point guard position.

"Webb does a lot of good things," Stepp remarks. "He will be ready to play. Henry will be a very good player for us at ALC, and we expect him to contribute his first year."

Alice Lloyd will be playing a tougher schedule this year than last, according to Stepp.

"We wanted to play Morehead on a neutral court, but they would not play us," Stepp said. "We will be playing Birmingham-South this coming season in the Rio Grande Invitational Tournament."

Stepp expects his squad to be stronger next year with its entire inside player lineup returning.

"We really like David Martin (Prestonsburg High School)," says Stepp. "He is a tremendous inside player. He's smart in the classroom, with a 3.7 grade average in premed. He's also smart on the basketball court."

With the addition of Webb and Hall, Alice Lloyd will have two Floyd Countians playing on its team next season.

"We will also be returning the best three-point shooter in our conference next year, Darryl Slone from Knott County," says Stepp.

"Henry's an all around player," says McDowell mentor Johnny Ray Turner. "He's a dedicated young man, he works hard and hates to lose. Webb's a winner. He does what he has to win, and he is just an outstanding person, we hate to lose him."

"I'm excited about going to Alice Lloyd to play basketball next season," Webb relates. "I want to go and do what I can to contribute to the team next season. I've made a four year commitment to play at ALC and I want to achieve a goal I have already set for myself, and that's to play in the NAIA championships in Kansas City. I can play the one or two guard position, but probably will be utilized at point guard."

Webb had high praise for his high school coach.

"I want to thank Coach Turner for all that he has done for me," Webb said. "He has made me a better basketball player, but more importantly, he has helped me to become a better person, and I just want to thank him for that. I look forward to playing basketball once again with Brian (Hall)."

McDowell principal Robert Hall is proud of both players and is glad to see them to be able to pursue their college education.

"Webb is the kind of a person that will give you 110 percent," Hall states. "He is not a selfish person or player. I had him in baseball and he worked hard because he is a team player, and of course he was like that on the basketball team. He is just a pleasure to be around; he kind of grows on you."

Hall is a sophomore at Morehead State University this year and is transferring to Alice Lloyd to pursue his love for the game of basketball again.

"We have always been interested in Brian," Coach Stepp said. "When he was still in high school we tried to recruit him then. Brian is a great shooter and has matured since been out of high school and he will be a welcome addition to our basketball program."

"We lost three seniors off of last year's squad and that motivated us to sign Brian. We use an eight-player rotation, and Brian will be playing a lot for us," Stepp said.

"I'm looking forward to playing basketball again," Hall said. "I thought when I got out high school I was burned out on basketball, but my love for the game has been rekindled and I have a love for the game like when I was a kid.

"This is a tremendous opportunity for me to get another chance to play again and I am excited about it. I'm looking forward to finishing my studies at Morehead this semester and I hope to do what I can to contribute to the success of the ALC basketball program next season," explains Hall.

Hall feels he can contribute with his outside scoring from the three-point line and using his passing ability to feed other open players. He also feels he can use his rebounding ability as a guard to help the team.

"I'm looking forward to playing on the same team with Webb again,"

Hall says. Hall and Webb both played on the McDowell squad in 1987.

Mr. and Mrs. David Hall, Brian's parents, were present when he signed his letter-of-intent. Mrs. Hall is proud of her son.

"I am very please with Brian's decision to attend Alice Lloyd," Mrs. Hall states. "He enjoys the game of basketball so much, it's good to see him get back in the game."

"Brian is an outstanding person as well as a basketball player," says Principal Hall. "I had him also in baseball and he is a hard worker, unselfish, and gives his best."

Hall and Webb plan to room together at Alice Lloyd. Both signed letters-of-intent for four years.

Headed for Alice Lloyd

Henry Webb, above, and Brian Hall, below, are shown signing letters-of-intent to attend Alice Lloyd College on basketball scholarships next season. Webb was part of the guard duo that carried McDowell to the district championship. Hall is currently a sophomore at Morehead State University, and will be transferring to Alice Lloyd this fall. Looking on as Webb signs is principal Robert Hall and basketball coach Johnny Ray Turner. Coach Joe Stepp is seated at the table with Webb. Hall signed in front of his parents and his former coach at McDowell. Pictured are principal Robert Hall, David Hall, former coach Rick Hall, and Mrs. Hall.

Dorton Uses Long Ball To Overcome McDowell

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Dorton Wildcats used the homerun ball to break up a pitching duel between McDowell's Jamie Martin and Dorton's Jesse Beverly, to go on and defeat first-year coach Cassandra Keathley and her Daredevils, 8-3.

Beverly helped his own cause by hitting two homeruns in the contest. Dickie Joe Shannon hit a solo shot in leading off the second inning for McDowell. Beverly struck out 12 McDowell batters in going the distance for the Wildcats.

Dorton picked up two runs in the first inning on five Daredevil errors, and a homerun by Beverly. Wright reached first on a third baseman error, and Beverly homered to give the Wildcats a quick 2-0 lead. Flimehem and Wright both reached on two errors by the shortstop. Flimehem was erased on a force out at second. Martin struck out Johnson to end the inning.

Shannon led off the McDowell second with a towering drive to left for a homerun, but Beverly set the next three Daredevils batters down in order, two on strikeouts.

From then it became a pitcher's battle with Dorton leading by a 2-1 score until the bottom of the fourth, when the Wildcats exploded for four runs. Rose doubled to left and scored on a base hit by C. Wright. After Beverly grounded out to short and Flimehem struck out, D. Wright got a base hit to left and scored on Caudill's home run to give the Wildcats a 6-1 lead.

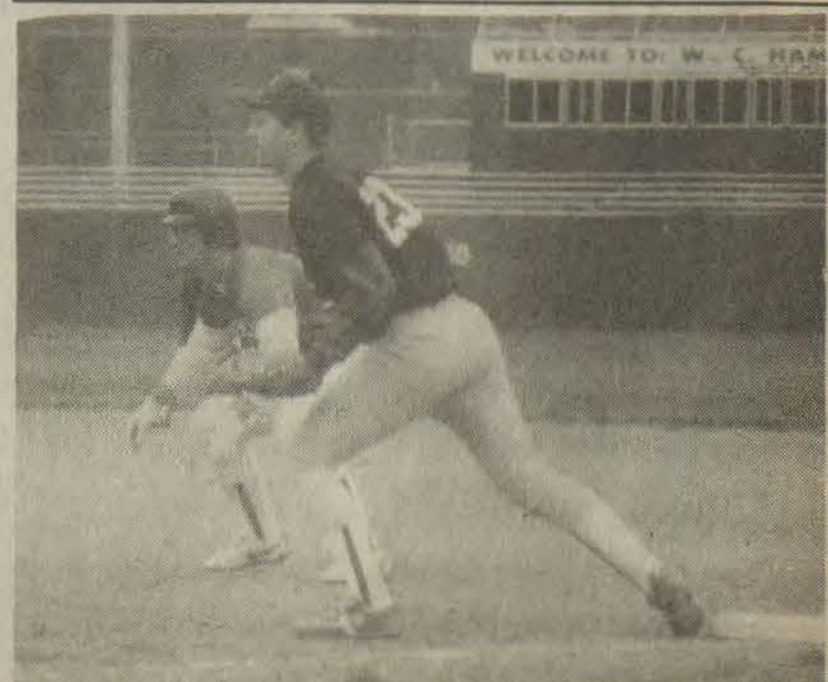

Dorton scored two other runs in the bottom of the fifth inning on a walk to Johnson, and a homerun by Beverly, his second of the game, to make it 8-1.

McDowell picked up its final two runs in the top of the sixth on base hits by McQuate and Crisp, and both scored on a double by Shannon, to pick up his second and third RBIs. Beverly retired the Daredevils in order in the top of the seventh to preserve the win for Dorton.

McDowell will play at Wheelwright this afternoon at 4:30.

TO MR. SAM SHEPHERD AND MR. ROGER WEBB:

- (1) Yes, I am interested in saving Floyd County and the taxpayers in all the counties that I do elections for. And, if you and Mr. Webb would have read my ad or came into the County Clerk's Office and looked at the bills in the Court Order Books you would see that before Kentuckiana Election Service Company started doing the elections in Floyd County that it cost the county much, much more than I or my company have received, or ever will receive, for an election.
- (2) Election Costs. If you or Mr. Webb, who is running for the office of County Clerk, wish to read the K.R.S., which is the Kentucky Revised Statutes on elections, you will find that the election does not have to be bidden upon in the state of Kentucky. You may find a copy of the Kentucky Revised Statutes in the County Clerk's office where you may see this in black & white print. Also, there are Attorney General Opinions concerning election bidding that you can read.
- (3) No, Carla does not sell to the County Clerk's office. I, and only I, own Kentuckiana Election Service Company and the County Judge/Executive's office pays my bill to the Clerk's office for books and election services and supplies. The County Clerk's office does not pay Kentuckiana Election Service Company a dime.
- (4) No, it is not a conflict of interest or unlawful. There are only two companies in the state of Kentucky that supplies the election services to Kentucky County Clerks. I, being one, and I worked fourteen years for the other company before going out on my own.
- (5) I was not in business in 1985 which you and Mr. Webb ran in your ad, but from May 1986 to date. Look at the Fiscal Court Orders Books Nos. 12 and 13 for your question. The book is in your Floyd County Clerk office.
- (6) I would like for you or Mr. Webb to find for me the $70,000.00 contract in the County Clerk's office or any other office in the courthouse. I will give you a 10% commission. I would certainly like to have that contract.
- (7) Carla and the State Auditor's office worked out how and who will do the County Clerk's audit. My auditor's are Jones, Madden and Pack of Martin, Kentucky.

Now, the reason I used your name in the ad Mr. Webb, is you yourself picked up the invoices from the County Judge/Executive's office in which Mr. Shepherd used in his ad. You also obtained Mr. Shepherd's signature on both ads trying to discredit me and my wife. You may fool some of the people some of the time but you can't fool the people all of the time and you certainly can't fool me.

April 6, 1989

This is to certify that I, Delores F. Dingus, Floyd County Finance Officer, gave documents pertaining to bills from Kentuckiana Election Services, to Roger Webb not to Sam Shepherd. All County claims and bills are public documents and are open to public inspection. The two bills that appeared in the Floyd County Times newspaper April 5, 1989 were copied for Roger Webb, not Sam Shepherd.

P.S. Mr. Shepherd and Mr. Webb, I will not answer any more questions in the newspaper. If you really want to know the answers, like I said in my first ad, call me or Carla 358-9183 (home) or 886-3816 (County Clerk's Office), or you may come into your County Clerk's office. # Archery: A Growing Sport Among County Enthusiasts

Sports Editor

Webster's Dictionary defines archery as "the practice, art, or sport of shooting with bow and arrow," and archery's popularity is growing in Floyd County and the surrounding area.

Archery clubs have been formed in Floyd County, and they hold archery meets periodically during the year for members. One such club is the Sandy Valley Archers Club that meets at Archer Park. Mike Wilson, who is the president, says although the group is not to active right now, it is only waiting for the weather to get warmer.

"We were allowed to build an archery range at Archer Park behind the Little League fields, and we don't want to go in too early to set the range up and have the water to get into it," Wilson says. The archery range is open to the public when it is in operation, according to Wilson.

The Sandy Valley archers have held benefit meets for charities including the Floyd County Rescue Squad, United Way and American Heart Association.

"We've gone to meets in Knott County, Martin County, Morgan County and Corbin," Wilson explained. "We're hoping to get more new members in that want to enjoy the sport of archery." The club currently has 15 to 20 active members, although other archers come and shoot at the meets.

"Other clubs have a membership that runs in the high 60's," Wilson says. "The Corbin club has around 200 members."

What are the requirements for membership in the Sandy Valley Archers Club?

"Have a bow and be interested in shooting," Wilson said. There is no age limit. The club has 8- and 9-year-olds who shoot in club meets.

"A young person that is 12 and under shoots in the cub division; from 12 to 17 shoot in the junior class, and 18 and up shoot in the senior class," he says.

Archery is fast becoming popular with women. "We have a lot of women that shoot in our club," Wilson relates. "Cheryl Cox, and my wife, Michelle, and others enjoy archery. We even have a man 80 years old that shoots with us."

"We encourage young people to become interested in archery. If we get enough new archers we will start a class, help set their bows, and teach them to shoot," Wilson explains. "A lot of people think all you have to do is pick a bow up and start to shoot. If you are just starting in archery, you have to get the equipment tuned to you. You have to get what is suited for you."

Wilson advises serious archers not to purchase equipment from discount firms.

"Discount houses get equipment that is hard to move," he says. "Usually they cannot fit the equipment to suit you; a person should go to a pro shop so they can get the basic equipment they will need to get started."

There are different classes in archery competition such as free style, free style limited, and free style unlimited. There are also classes in finger, scope, hunting bow, bare bow and long bow.

"We have 1 to 3 shooters per class," Wilson says. "At our scheduled meets we give trophies and ribbons for those who place."

Wilson has used his knowledge and ability in archery during the deer hunting season.

"When you use the bow and arrow for hunting you have to think like the animal you are hunting," he says. "You have to have more skill in bow hunting. It takes a lot more time and effort. But it gets in your blood, you just can't describe it." Wilson has bagged 20 deer since he has been hunting with a bow.

Unlike the Sandy Valley Archers Club, which uses the compound bow, the Eastern Kentucky Traditional Bow Hunters shoots with the long bow, or recurve bow. Dean Franklin, who is the Eastern Kentucky District of Traditional Bow Hunters representative, tells of his organization's activities in archery.

"We use traditional equipment, such as bows like four forefathers used," he says. "We enjoy our equipment, we have fun with it. The compound bow hunters take theirs seriously; we just have fun with ours. Where they want you to be still and quiet, we may be laughing and having a good time."

The Kentucky Traditional Bowhunters Association was formed in January 1988. Its purpose: to bring together bowhunters from all parts of the Bluegrass State who by preference hunt with traditional equipment, namely longbows and recurves. The KTBA has divided its statewide membership into three districts. These are based upon the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife zones and are as follows: Western District, Wildlife Zones 1 and 2; Central District, Wildlife Zones 3, 4, 5 and 6; Eastern District, Wildlife Zones 7, 8 and 9.

The local Traditional Bowhunters Association is only a year old. Franklin, who has been shooting bows since 1973, has a range, and longbow enthusiasts are welcome to come and shoot.

"I have 15 targets, two tree stands, and a running deer. I have never turned anyone away that wants to shoot," says Franklin.

What advice does Franklin offer to those who are interested in beginning archery?

"For kids, I recommend they learn on the longbow, or recurve bow, then go on to the compound," he says. "I won't tell anyone how to shoot. Get all the books at the library that show different stances, let them pick their own stance — one they will be comfortable with — and develop their own shot. I am willing to help all I can."

While the Traditional Bowhunters Association has some young people, Franklin's son Jeff was a two-time state champion for the Cadet Division for 12-year-olds and under.

Franklin and other club members have been to Henderson County for pheasant hunts with bows. "We brought out 40 to 45 pheasants back with us," he said. Franklin has also bagged 11 deer with a bow, nine with a longbow, and two with a recurve bow.

"I killed two black bears with a bow back in 1983 in Arizona," he recalls. "One of them placed seventh in the Arizona state record book."

The traditional bowhunters are getting a class together for beginners, with Philip Hicks from Hindman teaching the class.

What is the difference between the longbow and recurve?

"The recurve bow is faster," Franklin explained. For target shooting and distance shooting the recurve is the best, but for hunting the longbow is better."

The Kentucky Traditional Bowhunters have between 60 and 65 members statewide. They hold three shoots a year.

"We will have our next shoot May 13-14 at Louisa, at the Melody Mountain Campground," Franklin advises. "Members from out of state will also be there."

Archery equipment hasn't always been easy to find locally until about two years ago.

"Mert had to go to West Virginia when he bought his first bow," says Ada Depoy of Merts Gun Shop. "So we started selling archery equipment and it has kept us busy."

What does it cost for a young archery enthusiast to get outfitted for archery?

"To be outfitted completely for a beginner, around $150," Mert Depoy says, "usually a beginner will start with a used bow."

"It's important that a beginner be fitted right. It makes a difference in the bow a person uses. Your draw determines the length of the arrow you would use. That's why it is important to go where you can be fitted right."

The Prestonsburg Community College will be offering a course in archery starting June 8 through August 8. The classes will run from 1 to 3 p.m., Wednesday and Thursday. The cost for the course is $25.

Common Sense Rules For Launching A Boat

Launching a boat is a relatively simple part of boating. However, before backing the trailer down the ramp, a few common sense rules should be followed, say the boating experts at Mariner Outboards.

While in the lot and out of the way, stow all gear. All rods, tackle, coolers, bait, water skis, clothing, life jackets, etc., should be transferred into the boat before backing down.

Make sure the drain plug is in (then check it again), tilt the motor up and unplug the trailer lights. Then, check out the launching ramp. Make sure that the ramp extends smoothly into deeper water; look for obstacles, holes or a sharp drop-off which might "catch" trailer wheels.

When ready to proceed, pull into position and, using a partner's guidance and rearview mirrors, back carefully toward the ramp.

Remember, when backing, that the stern of the boat will move in the opposite direction of the tow vehicle's steering wheel. If the wheels turn right the stern will go left.

If driving a boat off the trailer, your partner should climb aboard while the rig is stopped on the ramp.

The safety straps and bow line should be disconnected, and the trailer should be eased into the water until the boat floats. Trim the engine down before starting. The operator should slowly back off the trailer.

If launching a smaller boat, attach a bow line and, when deep enough, push the boat off the trailer and guide it ashore or to the dock with the line.

Move as quickly as possible while on the ramp. Once launched, move away from the ramp area so others can utilize the facilities. Offer to assist other boaters whenever possible.

American Legion Tryouts Set April 15

Jim Sparks, one of the coaches of the Floyd County American Legion baseball team, announces that tryouts for all boys between the ages of 16-18 who wish to play American Legion baseball this summer will be April 15 at 1 p.m. at the new baseball field at Archer Park.

"We want them to be there rain or shine," Sparks says. "A player must not have turned 19 prior to Aug. 1, to be eligible to play."

Each player must bring a glove and dress out for tryouts.

"A player's attitude will go along way in deciding who makes the team," Sparks said. "We want players who want to play, who will give 110 percent. We prefer players who have played high school baseball."

The American Legion baseball season will begin May 31.

"We will have a good team this year," Sparks says.

Do Points Still Point Out Bass?

It may be a hard pill to swallow, but bass anglers are beginning to realize their favorite and most obvious lake structure points are not as effective as they were years ago.

In a word, points may not really point to bass anymore. That's the opinion of Denny Brauer, a member of the Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff, recognized as one of the most successful tournament bass anglers in America.

"The obvious points that form a lake's shoreline are simply getting over-fished," explains Brauer. "On many impoundments, the bass just aren't there anymore. The best points to work are the less obvious ones that may not be visible above the water. I like to fish points that are on the flatter side of a lake and have a creek or river channel nearby."

Brauer also suggests anglers look for underwater points at the mouths of tributary creeks, as well as secondary points within the creeks themselves.

"Points like these are especially good spots for spring fishing," he notes. "Because bass may spawn on or near them. Points also hold baitfish, and wherever bait is found, bass are not far away."

Brauer also likes those points formed on the inside bends of creek and river channels. These can be located first by map study, then pinpointed with depthfinders. They offer classic shallow water/deep water structure.

One problem in fishing the longer, flatter points, says the Evinrude Pro, is locating bass, simply because there is more area available to them.

"Many anglers are fishing too shallow," he explains. "Their boats are actually on top of the fish they're casting to. I suggest working slightly deeper water first, then moving shallow."

In the spring, Brauer likes to fish points with large, floating/diving stick baits. These lures seem to be particularly effective on those points where large rocks are present.

He also likes to use regular deep diving crank baits, banging the lure along the bottom with a stop-and-go retrieve that imitates a crayfish. In colder water, he uses a jug and frog, while in warm weather he may use a plastic grub and light line.

"Another lure worth trying, especially if the bass are deep," Brauer adds, "is a large 10 or 12 inch plastic worm crawled along the bottom. Work it just like a smaller worm, only with a little larger hook and a slightly heavier slip sinker."

"Points are still good places to look for bass on any lake, and probably always will be," the well known Evinrude pro explains, "but the best points are going to be those that aren't quite so obvious and don't get fished as hard. Work these points a little deeper and with some different lures, such as the larger worms, and you'll probably catch fish."

April Showers - Green Lawn - May Flowers

Landscaping with Laurel Farms

LAWN SEEDING

The drought combined with high temperatures spelled disaster for many lawns last summer. Damaged grass will be replaced with weeds this year. Problem sites can be improved with updated drought-resistant grass species. Start by evaluating your lawn. Was it what you wanted before the drought damage? If not, or if 50% or more of the lawn was damaged you will want to reseed/sod the entire lawn now. If the damage is only in spots those spots may be rejuvenated.

We recommend Triathalawn seed. This finer leafed, darker green, disease resistant fescue blend was specifically developed for home lawns. It is drought tolerant, does well in shade and sun, is green all year and does not creep. It is sowed at the rate of six to ten pounds per 1000 sq. feet.

To reseed in spots remove weeds, rake vigorously and broadcast the seed by hand. Then firm the soil lightly and keep moist until the seed germinates, usually 10 to 14 days.

(Next week we will talk about lawn weed control)

KEEPERS

By Chris Altman

Want to catch a few more bass through the year? Incorporate these tips into your fishing style, and I believe you'll find them productive.

GENERAL TIPS

— Use a sharp hook! Whether you sharpen your hooks with a stone or Hook-Hone-R, nothing else will more easily increase your percentage of boated fish than will a sharp hook.

— Learn to tie the palomar knot. Properly tied, it retains virtually 100 percent of the line's breaking strength. Here's how to tie the palomar knot: Make a six-inch loop by simply doubling the end of the line (fold it back on itself) and run the loop through the eye of the hook. Next, while holding the doubled line and hook with one hand, use your other hand to bring the loop back over the doubled line to form an overhand knot, but don't tighten it. Now, simply pull the loop of the line extending from the overhand knot over the hook or lure. To finish the knot, wet it and then tighten it by pulling the short end of the line. Cut off the short end 1/8 of an inch from the knot, and you're ready to fish. (This is probably the easiest fishing knot to tie, and it is definitely the strongest.)

— When you catch the first fish of the day, make a mental note of where it came from: the type of structure, depth, in shade or sun, etc. This will give you a starting point in your effort to put together a pattern. Chances are, you will be able to catch more fish from similar structures.

— Don't leave fish! Many anglers who prefer to cast to the bank will keep moving after they catch a fish. Because bass are a schooling fish, chances are good that there will be other fish in that same location. Work that area thoroughly before moving on.

— Finding fish is the key to catching fish. Rather than haphazardly working a few banks, think about the weather and water conditions, the season, etc., and try to determine where the fish should be. Then use a systematic approach to eliminate water until you find the fish.

— Don't change lures too quickly. Instead, stick with a lure in which you have confidence and vary the retrieve. Many times, simply working the lure in a different manner will make all of the difference.

PLASTIC WORM TIPS

— Learn to fish the plastic worm. Day in and day out, this lure is by far the most productive one in your tackle box.

— Pick the proper color. For all-around use, purple and black are your best colors—never leave home without them! In clear water, try reds and blues. In off-colored water, try motor oil, pumpkinseed, purple or green. In muddy water, stick with darker colors such as black or grape.

— Pick the proper worm size. In cold water, stick with a 4-inch worm (or try a 2- to 3-inch grub). In warmer water, use a 6-inch model. During the summer and early fall months, use an 8-inch worm (or larger). If a cold front passes through, switch to a smaller worm and look for fish in deeper water.

— Match the hook size to the size of the worm. Use a No. 1 hook with a 4-inch worm, a 2/0 with a 6-inch worm, a 3/0 with an 8-inch worm, and a 4/0 or 5/0 hook with giant worms.

— A sprayed on attractant will help your worm slide through vegetation a bit easier.

— Use the smallest weight it necessary. In shallow water, don't hesitate to use an unweighted plastic worm.

CRANKBAIT TIPS

— To catch more bass, match the size of your crankbait to the size of the baitfish on which the bass are feeding.

— Use a stop-and-go retrieve. Instead of casting the bait and retrieving it steadily back to the boat, pause it a few seconds after every five or six turns of the reel handle. If it put more fish in the boat for you.

— Use a bump-and-run retrieve. Whenever you feel the crankbait hit an object, stop it for a few seconds and then use a fast retrieve. When you pause the lure, it will actually float upwards and will also back up. If there is a fish lying near the object, this usually entices it to strike.

— Keep the crankbait in contact with some structure. Bounce it along the bottom, bump it off of stumps or timber, or bang it off rocks. Your number of strikes will definitely increase.

— Slow your retrieve. The most common mistake made by anglers is fishing a crankbait too quickly. Slow it down and you'll catch more fish. If you have trouble doing so, switch to a reel with a slow 3.8 to 1 retrieve like Daiwa's PT33C or Quantum's Crankin' Reel.

— To make your crankbait a bit more weedless, cut off the forward-facing hook on both treble hooks.

— Use a deep-diving crankbait in shallow water to crawl the lures slowly along the bottom. This imitates a crayfish, and is often a deadly technique. (My brother, Jim Altman, caught an 8-pounder at West Point a few weeks ago using this technique.)

SPINNERBAIT TIPS

— In the spring when bass are shallow, keep the bait near the surface so that the blade creates a wake. Also, keep the lure close to structures (bump the brush, timber or rock).

— For shallow water fish in the summer, use a fast "gurgling" retrieve which keeps the blade splashing on the surface. If that doesn't produce, switch to the "waking" retrieve.

— For deepwater structure fishing in summer or winter, use a short-armed spinnerbait and drop it down structure (over channel breaks, down a point, off the side of a hump, etc.). Keep your line tight! Too, this is a superb night fishing technique in the summer.

— Change blade colors. In muddy water, use a large copper-colored blade. In dingy water, try a gold-colored blade. In clear water, stick with a chromed blade.

— As a general rule, a spinnerbait with large blades will catch larger fish. One with smaller blades, however, will catch more fish, though most of them will be smaller.

— If the fish are hitting your spinnerbait but you aren't hooking them, try these tactics. First, remove the trailer (pork, plastic grub, etc.) Next, trim the skirt so that it does not extend past the hook. Now slow your retrieve just a bit and you should begin hooking the fish.

The K.P.O.A. is a non-profit organization which enjoys a diversified membership of over 800 city police, state police, sheriffs department personnel, detectives, and investigators, as well as other law enforcement agencies in the commonwealth. The Kentucky Peace Officers Association has been instrumental in publishing the "ON GUARD" newspaper, which is considered by most to be the finest and most informative law enforcement publication of its kind, containing articles on drunk driving, child abuse and automobile safety; along with a special section of the paper being devoted to missing children.

Through "ON GUARD" the K.P.O.A. has become very active in community projects such as contributing to the Century Shield Club, which provides aid to families of fallen police officers in the line of duty. Also, contributing to the Kentucky Child Crime Victims Trust Fund, along with awarding scholarships to students majoring in law enforcement in Kentucky, to mention a few. "ON GUARD" is provided to over 5,000 of Kentucky's finest law enforcement personnel at no charge. ## I Need Your Help GROVER SAMONS MAGISTRATE DISTRICT #3

I sincerely believe the good people of Dist. #3 wants a change in our Magistrate's office. We can and will win if you will unite behind my candidacy. Four years ago I received 1,300 votes. As you well know our present Magistrate would like for every candidate to receive a few votes in order to divide the opposition.

We simply can do better in providing services of better roads and cleaning up our district. The game they like to play is to hold up your tax money for 3 1/2 years and then start spreading black-top and gravel six months before the election. You have had enough tricks played on you in the past. I promise you will not suffer for lack of services for 3 1/2 years before the election when I am elected your Magistrate. I will stand up for you and will oppose wrong doings wherever they begin. I agree with many of your statements that it is time we start calling that which is Black—Black and White—White.

Would you please join with me in a solid front for victory in District Three? I am your friend and a man you can depend on to serve all sections of our district.

Your vote will be appreciated.

Highlands Regional Hospital Hosts Cardiology Seminar

DR. RODNEY HANDSHOE

Highlands Regional Medical Center presented a cardiology seminar entitled, "Cardiac Catheterization: An Overview," Tuesday, April 4, at Holiday Inn in Prestonsburg.

The seminar was held as a "kick off" for the grand opening of the cardiac catheterization lab at HRMC. The program was presented for area physicians and other health care professionals.

Rodney Handshoe, MD, FACC, medical director of cardiognostics at HRMC, joined his University of Kentucky colleagues in presenting the seminar. The group was headed by W. Randolph Chitwood, MD, professor and chief of the division of cardiovascular and thoracic surgery at the University of Kentucky.

Another guest speaker was David C. Booth, MD, FACC, medical director of the cardiac catheterization laboratories at UK.

John C. Gurley, MD, assistant professor of medicine at UK, was the third guest speaker of the evening.

Prior to the seminar, the UK physicians had the opportunity to tour the new HRMC cath lab. According to HRMC officials, they offered praise for the lab, its advanced technology, and its impact on cardiology services in Eastern Kentucky.

High Lands Cardiac Catheterization Lab will be open to the public on "Heart Day," Sunday, April 16, from 2 to 5 p.m.

Skills Upgrade Training Program To Begin Soon

The Bluegrass State Skills Corporation has announced the funding of a cooperative training program between Division of Adult Basic Education through the David School, Inc. and R&S Trucking, Allen.

The BSSC is making $2,535 available for the training of 30 workers in a Skills Upgrade Training Program, According to a recent news release from BSSC.

"Along with the BSSC, we are pleased to fund this training project," Secretary of Economic Development Gene C. Royalty said, "because job training, whether for entry level or skills upgrade, is essential to our economic development efforts. Fortunately, through the support of the General Assembly, we have training funds to serve many of the job training needs of our existing industries as well as new plants coming to Kentucky."

The BSSC, an independent public corporation attached to the Cabinet for Economic Development for administrative purposes, provides grants for skills training to meet the needs of both new and existing industries in Kentucky. BSSC's basic purpose is to support economic development in Kentucky by funding cooperative education and skills training programs. According to BSSC officials.

Awareness Program

Carrie Branham, LPN for the Floyd County Health Department, checks the cholesterol level of Dale Josey, publicist of Kentucky Educational Television, at "Stop the Hurt Days" held at Wayland Elementary School on April 7-8. Highlights of this event, and others in the area, will be broadcast on Monday, May 29 at 10 p.m. on KET. This was the second consecutive "Stop The Hurt Days," a program designed to provide public awareness of child abuse. Entertainment was provided throughout the weekend by local musician and dancers. Information booths were provided by CAP, Health Department, Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, Spouse Abuse Shelter and other agencies.

Kentucky To Have It's Own Encyclopedia

Dr. John E. Kleber, editor of the to-be-published encyclopedia of Kentucky, visited Prestonsburg Community College on Thursday, March 30, to commission a number of faculty members to write articles on the history of surrounding counties and towns and information on local authors.

Kleber is still seeking suggestions for entries for the encyclopedia (people, places, events, things) and the names of prospective writers with some expertise in such areas. Any suggestions can be turned into the local project coordinator, Dr. Thomas D. Matijasic, at PCC.

The encyclopedia will be part of the Bicentennial celebration of Kentucky, in 1992, and will be published the same year.

The purpose of this one-volume encyclopedia will be to make readily available an accurate and broadly comprehensive source of Kentucky information, said Kleber.

The initial funding has been provided by the Mary and Barry Bingham Foundation. Publishing will be done by the University of Kentucky.

Legislative Perspective

By Rep. Greg Stumbo

One very worthwhile issue the state Legislature has addressed during the past year is the approval of the long-awaited bonus program for the Vietnam Veterans.

Since the passage of the bonus program during last year's special session, the Department of Military Affairs has worked to prepare for the actual application process.

Application forms for the bonus are available at county clerks' offices, all Department of Employment Services field offices, and all National Guard Armories in Kentucky.

Applications may be received and submitted between March 1, 1989, and Feb. 28, 1990. According to the Department of Military Affairs, applications not postmarked by midnight Feb. 28, 1990, will not be processed.

To qualify, a veteran who served in Vietnam between July 1, 1958, and May 15, 1975, or the veteran's beneficiary, must obtain an application, which must be accompanied by a DD form 214. If the veteran does not have this form, he or she should contact, in writing, the Military Records and Research Branch, Boone Center, Frankfort, KY 40601. In the letter, the veteran or beneficiary must include the full name, date of birth, social security number, service number, the year he or she entered military service, and the year he or she left the service. Military Affairs has set up a toll-free number to deal strictly with DD form 214's; it is 1-800-752-6094.

Veterans qualifying under these terms are entitled to receive $25 per month of service up to a maximum of $500.

Those veterans who saw active duty with the military for at least 90 consecutive days, other than for training, outside Vietnam between Aug. 5, 1964, and May 15, 1975, are eligible for $15 per month up to a $300 maximum.

Bonuses can be paid to families of veterans who are no longer living. Military Affairs has established a precedent for paying the bonus to surviving family members, which falls in this order: surviving spouse, child or children (sharing equally), or mother and father (sharing equally).

A veteran may choose to request on the application form that the bonus be deposited into a trust fund administered by the Department of Military Affairs. The fund will be used to support veterans programs.

No bonus payment will be made until after April 1, 1990.

To date, Military Affairs has received approximately 7,000 applications for bonuses. The agency estimates that 108,000 Kentucky veterans are eligible.

VOTE #10 ON BALLOT

Selecting a candidate for magistrate is one of the most important acts in our democratic process. You see, the magistrate is the voice of the people in each district. It is the magistrate's job to communicate your wishes to the county government -- county to state government -- state to federal government. Your magistrate represents your interest in state and local funds that amount to millions of tax dollars. Your magistrate's decision should be fair and honest for each and every individual in his district (not just a few). It is my pledge, to the citizens of District #3, to exercise every ounce of power vested in me, as your magistrate, to see that each and every individual is represented fairly and equally in the local government process. In the upcoming weeks, I will be addressing issues that I feel are important to the people of District #3.

I will be asking every citizen that I can possibly talk to, "What changes are needed in District #3? How can I, as your magistrate, improve the quality of life in their communities? What are the most important issues that should be addressed by the Fiscal Court?"

You see, I want the citizens of District #3 telling me what is important, not me telling them. I will be your voice in the Fiscal Court. Your interests will be my interests.

Cool Season Vegetables Should Be Planted Soon

Although it's still just a bit too early to plant the stock-in-trade garden vegetables — such as tomatoes, beans and corn — it's just the right time to plant other favorites: the cool season ones.

Mid-April is the time to plant the cool season garden, which includes cabbage, Brussels sprouts, kohlrabi, turnips, broccoli, peas, carrots, collards and lettuce, among others, according to Mary Witt, University of Kentucky Extension horticulturist.

Each of these vegetables needs to be planted early in the growing season because they develop off-flavors, lose desirable texture, or stop producing when hot weather comes, she said.

Cabbage, kohlrabi, broccoli and Brussels sprouts should be set from transplants, rather than seed, at this time in the growing season, Witt said. Radishes, spinach, peas, carrots, collards and lettuce can be grown from seed in the garden.

If it is impossible to plant these cool season crops now, she said, a fall planting will produce well. Planting in late July to mid-August will usually yield a good fall crop.

Witt suggests those interested in planting these cool season crops ask their county Extension agent for a copy of HO-63, Home Vegetable Gardening.

Cool Season Flowers Perfect For Planting Now

Cool season flowers can brighten up a humdrum landscape, and home gardeners should be just about ready to start preparations for them.

What are cool season flowers? Snapdragons, pansies and ornamental cabbages are some. They should be transplanted outdoors right away. Others, such as petunias and pot marigolds, should be transplanted about this week, and chrysanthemums and French marigolds should be planted by April 20.

Cool season plants thrive in cooler temperatures, said Robert Anderson, Extension horticulturist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. Some will tolerate a light frost and others can even tolerate temperatures down to 24 degrees. Plants which have difficulty tolerating frosts should be planted around April 20, he said.

"Cool season plants can be used in a variety of ways," said Anderson. "They can be planted in patio containers or as bedding plants. Also they can be used as cut flowers."

Anderson said all plants need to be located in sunny spots for at least five hours each day. There are also some that thrive in shaded areas during the summer.

"Cool season plants will decline in late June," Anderson said. "Scheduling your alternate garden plantings is essential to maintaining landscape beauty."

Anderson said most growers use one of three basic techniques to enjoy a colorful garden throughout the summer and fall.

—They plant warm season annuals among cool season plants. This allows constant coverage of the area, with little replanting.

—Or they remove cool season plants in late June and replant with warm season annuals that will live until fall.

—Or they remove cool season plants in late June, replant with warm season annuals, and then replant cool season plants in late August.

The county Extension agent offers more suggestions for plants to include in a planting program.

BERRY VINES, BUSHES NEED PRUNING, TOO

Just like fruit trees, the vines and bushes that most Kentucky berries and grapes grow on, need to be pruned to provide maximum production.

Whether they are raspberries, blackberries, grapes, or gooseberries, pruning these vines helps put more fruit on the table at harvest time. The techniques of pruning, however, differ.

For example, black and purple raspberries require both dormant and summer pruning, said Jerry Brown, Extension fruits specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

During the dormant spring season, four to six, of last year's canes, should be left on each hill, and all lateral branches, from the previous year's growth, should be cut back to about 10 to 12 inches, he said. Then in the summer, growers should pinch off the growing tips of the new canes as they reach two feet for black, three feet for purple raspberries. This causes side branches to grow.

Spring bearing red raspberries commonly grow in a hedgerow system, Brown said. The row should be 14 to 18 inches wide. Tips are not pinched back for these berries since they do not branch in response to the practice. Weak and dead canes should be removed in the spring, leaving four or five vigorous ones for each foot of hedgerow.

"Thorny blackberries should be pruned similarly to black raspberries," said Brown. "Canes may be allowed to become slightly higher before summer pinching, however."

Semi-erect thornless blackberries should be trained on a trellis. Vigorous ones can be pinched when they get above the top trellis wire, to help them keep in bounds. Then in the early spring, before buds begin to swell, reduce the total cane number by about one-third, leaving the thickest, most vigorous ones.

Grapes should be pruned in early spring, after severe cold weather is past, Brown said. Research has shown that waiting to prune until three or four inches of new growth at the top shoot has occurred will delay swell in lower shoots, depending on the weather.

Don't prune them while the wood is frozen, because canes are brittle and the vines could be damaged," he said. "Pruning in late spring causes bleeding (sap flow) to occur, but there is no evidence such bleeding is harmful."

At planting, cut the vine back to two buds and train one truck up to the top of the trellis by pinching off the lateral growth during the growth season.

The top one-third of the blueberry plant should be removed at the initial planting. For the next two years little pruning is needed except to remove broken or damaged branches. After the third growing season, prune the bush to open up the center early spring.

Currants and gooseberries are pruned in late winter before growth begins. Both have similar growth patterns. After the first season, retain six to eight of the most vigorous shoots on a plant and cut the others off at ground level. After the second season leave four or five vigorous one-year-old shoots and three or four two-year-old canes. After the third year, retain three or four each from the one, two and three year canes. Since canes that are four-years-old or older produce very little fruit, those older canes can be removed.

COOL TEMPERATURES BANE TOO MANY A KY. GARDENER

For home gardeners, it seems that just when the weather is warm enough to start the buds of fruit trees swelling in preparation for the spring show of blooms, along comes a cold snap that halts the progression from bud to fruit.

"Unfortunately, the diversity of weather in spring can make life tough for Kentucky's fruit growers," said Jerry Brown, University of Kentucky Extension horticulturist.

Some fruit commonly grown in Kentucky, however, can withstand temperature below freezing and still produce a crop, Brown said.

Both the duration of the cold snap and the rate of temperature drop affect how a particular plant reacts to the weather. In addition, how far along in bud swell the plant is makes a difference in whether it will be able to continue to set fruit, Brown said.

Strawberries and blackberries in bloom may lose some blossoms at 30 degrees, and will show significant kill at temperatures below 30 degrees, he said.

Grape shoots and blooms are killed in the 25 to 32 degree range. However, Brown said, secondary buds may continue to set fruit, even at these low temperatures.

Blueberry blossoms are very hardy to cold temperatures, and can withstand a low temperature of 25 degrees, he said.

"Even though many blossoms will drop with cooler temperatures, only about 10 to 15 percent need to withstand the cold snap for a normal crop to develop," Brown said.

Brown provided these critical temperatures at which 90 percent of the fruit will be destroyed at the various stages of bud development:

Apples: 2 degrees when bud tips are silver; 10 degrees when buds are in green tip stage; and 15 degrees when the buds are in half-inch green stage. By the time fruit has set, a temperature of 25 degrees will kill 90 percent of the fruit.

Peaches: 2 degrees when the buds are swelling; 5 degrees when in the half-inch green stage; and 18 degrees when they are in the pink stage. By the time fruit has set, a temperature of 4 degrees will kill 90 percent of the fruit set.

Although there is little that home gardeners can do for fruit trees when the temperatures threaten to dip below critical temperatures, gardeners can mulch strawberries again to help keep the fruit from freezing, he said.

WHERE TO FIND ANSWERS TO GARDENING QUESTIONS

The tomato vines have just fallen over and died. Or something is chewing the leaves of the lettuce. Where does one find the answers to gardening problems such as these?

"County Extension agents can help you find out the causes and provide solutions for your gardening woes," said Mary Witt, University of Kentucky Extension horticulturist.

County Extension agents can help home gardeners with every facet of the home garden from planning, to planting, to production, according to Witts.

"Agents have training in home horticulture. They also have horticultural specialists backing them up at the University of Kentucky college of Agriculture. In addition, they can give you publications on every aspect of home gardening," she said.

For the basics, Witt suggests Extension publication, HO-63, Home Gardening in Kentucky, available from Extension offices throughout the state.

This publication provides information on variety selection, planting and care of most home grown vegetables," Witt said.

Cancer Hopeline

Question: I will be receiving radiation treatments to the neck area, so my doctor is concerned about the side effects of this treatment on my teeth. I will see my dentist next week, but I was wondering what side effects I might expect, and what I can do to help myself.

Answer: Side effects from treatment to this area most often involve the teeth, gums and other tissues of the mouth. Radiation treatments can increase your chances of getting cavities and cause other problems, such as dry mouth and mouth sores.

Your dentist will probably want to see you often over the course of your treatments. The preventive measures that your dentist suggests will not only reduce the risk of tooth decay, but will also help you deal with the other side effects.

Recommendations vary, but patients are commonly advised to:

- Have teeth professionally cleaned by a dentist or dental hygienist before radiation treatment begins.
- Clean teeth and gums thoroughly with a soft brush after meals and at least once more each day.
- Use a fluoride toothpaste that contains no abrasives.
- Floss between teeth daily.
- Use a disclosing solution or tablet after brushing to reveal plaque that has not been brushed away.
- Avoid spices and coarse foods such as raw vegetables, dry crackers and nuts.

- Stay away from sugary snacks that promote tooth decay.

- Do not use commercial mouthwash; the alcohol content has a drying effect on mouth tissues. Instead, rinse well with a salt and baking soda solution after brushing.

- Avoid tobacco and alcoholic drinks because they will dry mouth tissues.

A dentist will be able to give more detailed instructions on caring for mouth and teeth. It is very important for the patient's total well-being that they follow the dentist's advice during and after treatment.

For more information on radiation treatment, call the Cancer Information Service, 1-800-4-CANCER.

Magistrate District #1

#7 on the Ballot.

As your next magistrate, I pledge to work in harmony with all members of the Fiscal Court to help improve the quality of life of our citizens. County government can improve the way we live by improving roads, expansion of public utilities, and more support for community projects such as senior citizens' centers.

ROADS: I propose regularly-scheduled maintenance on all roads in District 1. By keeping roads properly graded and ditched, water is kept off the roadway to prevent the destruction of the road bed. Planned road maintenance would eliminate major road reconstruction every four years or putting gravel in mudholes that will only last a few months. Roads can be kept in good condition and the savings can be used for other projects.

PUBLIC UTILITIES: I helped organize and secure funding from Farmer's Home Administration for the Bullcreek/Watergap Water District. I also helped in obtaining grant funds from the state to complete the Spurlock, Middle Creek and Bucks Branch water projects. As your magistrate, I will work to secure funding for expansion of existing water and sewer lines throughout our district.

COMMUNITY PROJECTS: There are many community projects in our district which need and deserve consideration from our government. I propose budgeting funds annually to be set aside in a district account for projects that benefit our community. Senior citizen's centers, volunteer fire departments, recreational boards, and other community-oriented, non-profit organizations would then be able to request funds for specific projects or emergency situations. Government can be responsive to the community it serves.

As your magistrate, I will be concerned about how you live and what government can do for you.

Creativity Abounds Among Members Of Older Generation

by David M. Maxfield
 Smithsonian News Service
"You know, to be 80 is nothing to dread, because at 80 you can be the age of whoever you talk to. If I'm with my grandchildren, the little ones, I understand them because I've been there and I know."
 —Ethel Mohamed, Belzoni, Miss.

Today in the United States, about one in eight Americans — 12.1 percent of the population — is 65 years or older. By the year 2000, the percentage for this age group is expected to climb to 13 percent and by 2030 reach 21.2 percent.

The nation is graying, yet old age, often difficult enough, continues to be cast in a negative light by popular imagery not too distant from Shakespeare's cynical stereotype presented in "As You Like It": "Last scene of all/That ends this strange eventful history/Is second childishness and mere oblivion/Sans teeth, sans eyes, sans taste, sans everything."

Contrary to lingering attitudes, however, gerontologists in recent decades have been challenging the notion that creativity automatically declines with age. University of Southern California psychologist John Horn, for example, has observed that older people have the ability to "wax eloquently. They have a rich evocative fluency: they can say the same thing in five different ways. In our research, they're better in this sort of knowledge than the young people we see."

Ethel Mohamed's view of old age, as the culmination of all stages of life, runs counter to biased depictions of aging as a condition of steady decline, a Smithsonian team of folklorists has noted. Various studies at the National Institute on Aging in Bethesda, Md., point out that many manifestations once associated with aging per se, in fact, result instead from illness, personality variables and such social factors as loss of a spouse.

Many older Americans attribute their creativity to a continued interest in learning. "When the brain is green, it does no good, even if the hair is gray," one elder at the Jewish Senior Center in Venice, Calif., jokes. Testimony to the creative power of older people is an exhibition of photographs, selected by Modern Maturity magazine, on view this spring at the National Museum of American History in Washington, D.C.

When you think about it, in every community there are older people who are known and sought out as authorities on countless subjects — from researching local history to weaving a Hispanic or an Indian rug, from boat building to making "soggy coconut" cake, from carving to quilting. Recognizing this, the Smithsonian's Office of Folklife Programs and the Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service are the sponsors of a touring exhibition, "The Grand Generation: Memory, Mastery, Legacy." The show zeros in on the varied creative responses that the elderly have to their advancing years.

Folklorists have long turned to the elders in a community for information about the past, but they have come to realize that the elderly are people in their own right, active in the present and experts on what the last period in the life cycle is all about.

Marjorie Hunt's great grandmother, Martha Alice Hunt of Springfield, Mo., began writing her autobiography at age 96. It spans a century of Hunt family history. "The longest days I have now are when I can't find anything to work with to keep my hands busy," she said a few years ago, "but I can keep my mind busy going back over the past and recalling memories that give me food for thought when alone."

These projects seem to have an additional benefit for their initiators. As "The Grand Generation" team explains, the review project provides the artists with a new social current. The object that embodies the past becomes a source of contemporary power for the artist. It generates audiences, stimulating interaction with grandchildren, neighbors, craft connoisseurs, local historians — and folklorists themselves.

Basket weaver Ellen Jumbo draws the interest of a young admirer. The photograph appears in Indian Artists at Work.

"We wanted to combat the negative stereotypes," says Marjorie Hunt, a folklorist who organized the exhibit with Mary Hufford and Steven Zeitlin. "We dealt with everyday people, and we looked at the culture and esthetics of old age" rather than the medical and clinical aspects of aging.

In contrast to childhood expressions, the creativity of the elderly is characterized less by rehearsal than by review. Their art and stories are invested with memories from a long life and mastery of skills and knowledge drawn from years of experience. Their creations are made to endure beyond their lifetimes; their activities take an autobiographical bent.

According to the Smithsonian team, there is a close relationship between the earlier and later stages of creativity in that older people tend to recycle the skills they learned decades ago. These interests, be they anything from canning to welding, may be rekindled by a life crisis such as retirement or the death of a spouse or friend. William Richard, a retired logger from Phillips, Maine, whose wood figures are in the traveling exhibit, whittled a few things in his 30s, but only really began to carve in later life as a way to relieve loneliness after his wife went into a nursing home. Nearing 90, Richard enjoys the reputation of master whittler.

"At first it may seem that the revived skill is simply a way to pass the time that has suddenly expanded," Hufford explains. "On closer inspection, however, we find two other needs being met: the need to interpret and integrate one's life and the need to supply the youth with skills and materials they can unpack in their own elderly lives." Richard, for instance, carves with his son and grandson. Some older adults may even turn to projects that become their true life's work, spending 20 or 30 years to produce family histories, organize museums, build artful environments or contribute their time and energies in the service of others.

New research by gerontologists has shown that reminiscence by the elderly, generally discouraged as an unhealthy sign of dwelling in the past, is actually a key to healthy aging and a contributor to creative projects undertaken by older people. In preliterate societies, elders and their memories were held in high esteem as the storehouse of cultural values, but with today's fast-changing information bases, reminiscence, along with the elderly themselves, has taken a fall in esteem.

The late anthropologist Barbara Myerhoff pointed out in 1972 that "life review projects," whether in the form of memoirs, genealogies or crafts, are pursuits in which the elderly store their memories for posterity. They can be initiated at any time.

After years of practice and refinement, many older artists achieve mastery of their craft. Mrs. T.A. "Mamoo" Lewis Knoxville, Tenn., set the standard for "soggy coconut" cake in her family, and try as they might, no one could duplicate it. Like the master boat builder who shuns blueprints and builds all his boats by eye, Mamoo never used a recipe. She was "a taster and a tester," according to her children. "A recipe and a dress pattern, she lived above them!" But

Mamoo gave the family a scare not long ago, suffering what one member called "a little setback."

Knowing that a recipe could never replicate the cake, the family decided to capture on tape and film Mamoo's talk and gestures involved in making the dessert. Future Lewises should now be able to have a slice of Mamoo's creativity.

Unfortunately, there are many older people all over America eager to transmit their personal histories and accumulated knowledge to others, waiting to be asked about their stories and art. Yet they have no audience, Barbara Myerhoff once noted. "Their memories are stored in boxes in cellars, in trunks, in attics needing only a witness to bring them to light, a recipient to complete the interchange that is requisite to all cultural transmission."

INTERESTING FACTS
 — Americans 65 years or older numbered 29.2 million in 1986 — a population increase of 14 percent since 1980 compared to 5 percent for those under 65. This and other statistics prepared in 1987 by the American Association of Retired Persons and the Administration on Aging, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, presents a profile of an aging America.

— Since 1900, the percentage of Americans 65 and older has tripled, from 4.1 percent of the population to 12.1 percent in 1986.

— In 1986, there were 147 older women for every 100 men.

— The older population is itself getting older, the age group 85 and older is 22 times larger than it was in 1900.

— By the year 2030, older Americans are expected to represent 21.2 percent of the population. The only age group expected to grow in the next century, assuming current fertility and immigration levels, will be that over age 55.

— In 1986, older men were twice as likely to be married as older women, and there were over five times as many widows as widowers.

— About 90 percent of older Americans in 1986 were white, 8 percent were black and about 2 percent were other races including American Indian and Asian.

— Almost half of all persons 65 and older lived in eight states three years ago — over 2 million each in California, New York and Florida, and more than 1 million each in Pennsylvania, Texas, Illinois, Ohio and Michigan.

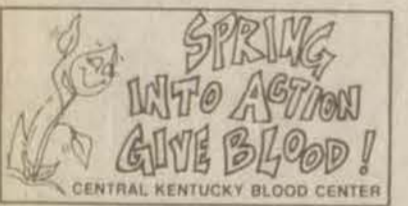

— The median income of older persons in 1986 was $11,544 for males and $6,425 for females. The major source of income for older Americans was Social Security (35 percent), followed by asset income (25 percent), earnings (23 percent), pensions (14 percent) and other income such as veterans benefits (2 percent).

— Older Americans made up 2.6 percent of the U.S. labor force in 1986.

— The most frequently occurring health conditions for the elderly were arthritis (48 percent), hypertension (39 percent), hearing impairments (29 percent) and heart disease (30 percent).

From the license plates and empty road to the two figures, "What's He Doing?" a photo by Bob Buchanan, born in 1921, provides a wealth of human interest.

STOP!!

PLEASE, DON'T READ THIS ARTICLE, IF YOU ARE A VOTER THAT IS NOT READY TO HAVE A PROGRESSIVE LEADER IN THE OFFICE OF THE FLOYD COUNTY JUDGE-EXECUTIVE!!

I, Dickie Hall, am not a politician, but, I am one Floyd countian who wants to restore the county's image back to being the "LEADER COUNTY" of East Kentucky. You and I can look at the surrounding counties of Perry, Pike, Johnson, etc. and see progress in motion! However, if you and I look at Floyd County, by and through the office of the Floyd County Judge-Executive, the most visible events are gravel trucks going to and from private driveways and/or roadways!! Does our present Floyd County Judge-Executive, namely John M. Stumbo, view the voter as being "so cheap that he/she can be bought with a possible load of gravel once every four years"?

During my campaign many of the voters have asked the following questions:

Why hasn't our Judge-Executive used the interest on the million dollars to develop water lines in the remote areas of the county, so that all residents can have safe and sanitary water; to develop roadways in remote areas of the county, in residential areas of the county and in cities of the county; and to prevent the migration of Floyd Countians, to other areas of the state and nation, by retaining or recruiting jobs, both related to and independent of coal mining?

Hopefully, it will not take tragic incidents; such as a house fire killing a family member due to lack of water or inadequate roads; or, loved ones being injured or killed in automobile accidents, who are visiting "back home" after relocation due to lack of jobs in our county.

Yes, the job of Floyd County Judge-Executive does require that one possess the capability of planning a daily, weekly, monthly, yearly, and multi-year approach to development in all areas, not just the ones mentioned above. Clearly, John M. Stumbo is failing Floyd Countians. Let's restore pride to Floyd County. Let's "get our get up and go, back", by getting up and going to vote on election day for Dickie Hall, candidate for Floyd County Judge-Executive.

ing Fruit at Home in Kentucky.

When a special problem arises, Witt suggests calling the county Extension agent for advice.

"County Extension agents usually can identify a problem almost immediately. But if the problem is an unusual one, they have the resources of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture to help them," she said.

FORMULA FOR SUCCESS IN PLANTING TREES

By taking a few precautions, a homeowner can ensure success of new landscape trees and shrubs.

"Choose healthy, high quality plant material, plant it properly and give it special care during the first year," said Bill Fountain, Extension horticulture specialist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

The best bet is to buy high quality plants at an established, reputable nursery or garden center. If the business persons are interested in satisfying their customers, who are also their neighbors.

WATCH OUT FOR INSECTS ON COLE CROPS

Cabbage, and other cole crops, such as broccoli, are popular garden crops that need some special care to prevent damage from insect pests.

"While cabbage worms are the most familiar unwanted diners, the first pests these plants face may be cutworms and root maggots," said Lee Townsend, University of Kentucky Extension entomologist.

Cutworms cut off the transplants shortly after they are set. Damage is most likely to occur in gardens that last year were in grass. The cutworms feeding on the grass are forced to turn else where when their original food is removed, Townsend said.

Paper collars wrapped around the plants' stems may protect them from cutworms, although the method may be too time consuming for gardeners with a large number of plants. Cutworm bait, available at most garden and seed stores, broadcast over the area a day or two before transplanting, also will control the insects, he said.

Root maggots, another pest of cabbage, are the larval stage of small flies. These white, legless, worm-like creatures tunnel into the stem of the plant and may cause wilting or death. Symptoms do not appear until several days after transplant. By that time, damage may be too severe to let the plant recover.

Diazinon wettable powder may be used as a broadcast treatment on the soil prior to setting the plants, or in the transplant water. Do not use the emulsifiable concentrate or liquid form in the setter water, Townsend said, since it may injure the plant.

Small, metallic blue flea beetles are often the next insect seen feeding on the foliage. Injury appears as tiny pits or holes on the surface of wrapper leaves. Sevin, diazinon or pyrethrin may be used if a treatment is necessary, Townsend said.

Cabbage worms are the most destructive pests of cabbage and broccoli and can cause significant damage. Four distinct types of caterpillars can be found, including the very green, velvet-appearing, imported cabbage worm; the distinctive cabbage looper that moves like an inchworm; the small, tapered diamond back moth larva and the yellow and black marked, cross-stripped cabbage worm.

All of these caterpillars can be controlled using BT (Bacillus Thuringiensis) products, which are biological insecticides that specifically kill caterpillars. They are harmless to humans and to beneficial insects.

If insects cause damage to the garden crops, and can not be controlled, Townsend suggests a call to the county Extension agent for advice.

INSPECT TRANSPLANTS BEFORE PUTTING THEM IN THE GARDEN

Kentucky gardeners should examine any cabbage, broccoli and cauliflower transplants for disease before they plant them in their garden.

"Although transplants may be certified by agencies in some states where they are produced as being disease free, there is no real way for those agencies to make sure each and every plant is free of disease. Gardeners need to check for themselves," said Dick Stuckey, University of Kentucky Extension plant pathologist.

If any transplants have symptoms of disease, don't plant them, Stuckey said, because once disease is in the garden, it may spread to other plants.

Stuckey offered this list of common diseases gardeners should be inspecting transplants for:

Clubroot: This disease usually shows up as galls or swelling on the side roots of the transplants.

Black leg: Symptoms include ash gray leaf spots or dark gray stem lesions with small black pimple-like fruiting bodies in the plant tissues.

Wire stem: Infected plants show dark colored diseased areas or cankers on the lower stem.

Even the most vigilant gardener may introduce one of these diseases into his garden. To help keep such diseases to a minimum, gardeners also should make sure that the garden is located where there is good drainage and air circulation.

In addition, Stuckey suggested rotating crops on a four-year rotation and removing and destroying weeds, in and around the garden, that may harbor disease.

Gardeners who find they have disease in their crops may want to ask their county Extension agent for help in identifying the cause of the disease and in controlling it.

TIPS FOR EARLY LANDSCAPE CARE

After winter, landscape plants need attention to help keep diseases at bay during the growing season ahead, according to Dick Stuckey, University of Kentucky Extension Plant pathologist.

"Pruning and spraying landscape plants can start the growing season right," Stuckey said.

Stuckey provides this list of chores that need to be completed in late March or early April before bud swell.

Oak and maple trees: a single application of ferbam or fixed copper spray before bud swell will help prevent leaf blight.

Elm: remove and destroy all dead elm trees to help prevent spread of Dutch elm disease.

Hawthorn and crabapple: if possible, remove any nearby common juniper and red cedar trees that may harbor cedar-apple, cedar-hawthorn, and cedar-quince rust.

Flowering pear and crabapple: prune out all twigs that were infected with fire blight. Spray copper sulfate on twigs and branches before bud break.

Pine: prune out all dead branches and cones infected with diplopedia tip blight. (Infected cones have tiny, black pimple dots on their exterior.)

Spruce, redbud, rhododendron: cut out all dead twig tips and branches.

Cedar: prune out any galls to prevent problems for nearby hawthorn and crabapple trees.

Flowering plum, cherry, and peach: spray twigs and branches with ferbam or fixed copper, before buds swell, to help prevent leaf curl disease.

For more information about spring care of landscape plants, contact local county Extension agent for agriculture.

Virginians Invade Hillbilly Days

The Hellbenders, described as an old time band, bring their special brand of mountain music from Arlington, Va., to Pikeville's Hillbilly Days this week. Beginning at noon on Thursday through late Saturday, continuous music from musicians throughout the area is planned at the city park. A talent contest at 7:30 p.m. on Friday will net cash prizes for the top three bands, solo performers, and dancers. The Hellbenders are slated to play at 4 p.m. on Friday, with additional performances later that night and on Saturday. According to Hillbilly Days music coordinator Larry Webster, the Virginia band is for "those who love the hard driving dance bands of the past." Among other featured performers will be Marlow Tackett and The Music Company.

PAUL HUNT THOMPSON For SHERIFF

Let's Understand Our Problems And Law Enforcement

Let's educate our children about drug and alcohol abuse. They won't understand the long-term problems associated with drug and alcohol abuse unless we tell them what they are. Teachers and parents can't do the job alone. The entire community MUST be involved. Future drug use by our young people is a real and present danger to our community. We must teach our children to say NO!

It's my intention as your sheriff to introduce the federally funded D.A.R.E. Program into Floyd County, not only a program for education, but the PURSUIT AND PROSECUTION of the pushers who sell or give them to our children.

Because of my strong stand on the issues in this election, some people who are against me tell that I'm a tough guy. I don't feel it's true but, if caring enough to have law and order in our communities is being a tough guy, then maybe I am.

I WILL TREAT PEOPLE WITH RESPECT AND DIGNITY, BUT I WILL ENFORCE THE LAW.

Mountain Christian Academy Takes Part In Library Activities

This is a special year for libraries, as 1989 is designated "Year of the Young Reader," and April is the special month for libraries.

April 2 was "International Children's Book Day," while April 9-15 is "National Library Week." April 23-29 will be "Reading is Fun" week.

Students at Mountain Christian Academy are celebrating the month with a variety of activities. Students began the month with Ronald McDonald at the school April 5, presenting a program, "Bookin' With Ronald McDonald." Ronald McDonald also awarded prizes to top readers who participated in a six-week read-a-thon sponsored by McDonald's. The read-a-thon ended March 31, and had 78 children in grades kindergarten through eighth at the academy involved in reading a total of 1,801 books. Students had to read books on their reading level to participate in the program, and kindergarten students participated by someone reading to them.

A book fair was hosted by the school April 6, with proceeds going toward the purchase of new materials for the library. The preschool students' parents were invited to participate as well.

This week, April 9-15, library classes at Mountain Christian Academy are focusing on introducing students to good fiction with the use of videos based on the award-winning books Homer Price, Ramona, Dr. DeSota and Encyclopedia Brown.

The third week of April, library activities will focus on developing room collections that will support reading levels of students. Mini-collections to augment the curriculum are regularly placed in classrooms to serve as back-ups for study units.

Carolyn Traum, the volunteer who manages the library program at MCA, said that the last week of April, students will have a special surprise for "Reading is Fun" week.

While April is a busy month for the library at MCA, the year-long program is also busy, said Traum. Students in kindergarten through eighth grade are scheduled for library instruction and literature awareness once weekly. The year-long program supports classroom instruction with computer software, videos, books, filmstrips, kits and models.

McDowell Students Attend Career Day Recently At EKU

A few McDowell High School students attended Eastern Kentucky University's home economics career day, held recently on the EKU campus.

Students arrived at Eastern at 9:40 a.m., and toured the campus while waiting for the first general assembly at 10:45 a.m. Students visited the arts and science building, the Walters Hall (a women's dorm).

At the general assembly, students listed to five speakers, who addressed child and family studies, interior design and housing, nutrition foods and food administration, textiles, clothing and fashion merchandising, and home economics education.

For entertainment, they saw the EKU version of "Family Feud," which included nutrition, exercise and fashion merchandising, and child development. After the general assembly, the students toured the home economics department, where they saw some interior designs, a day care center, and some fashion designs.

Students from McDowell going to EKU were Robin Robinette, Glenna Henson, Brian Lawson, Nora Stephens, Pam Dye, Denise Miller, David Gillespie and Janet Bowling, sponsor.

Students Attend Meeting With Stumbo, Discuss Litter

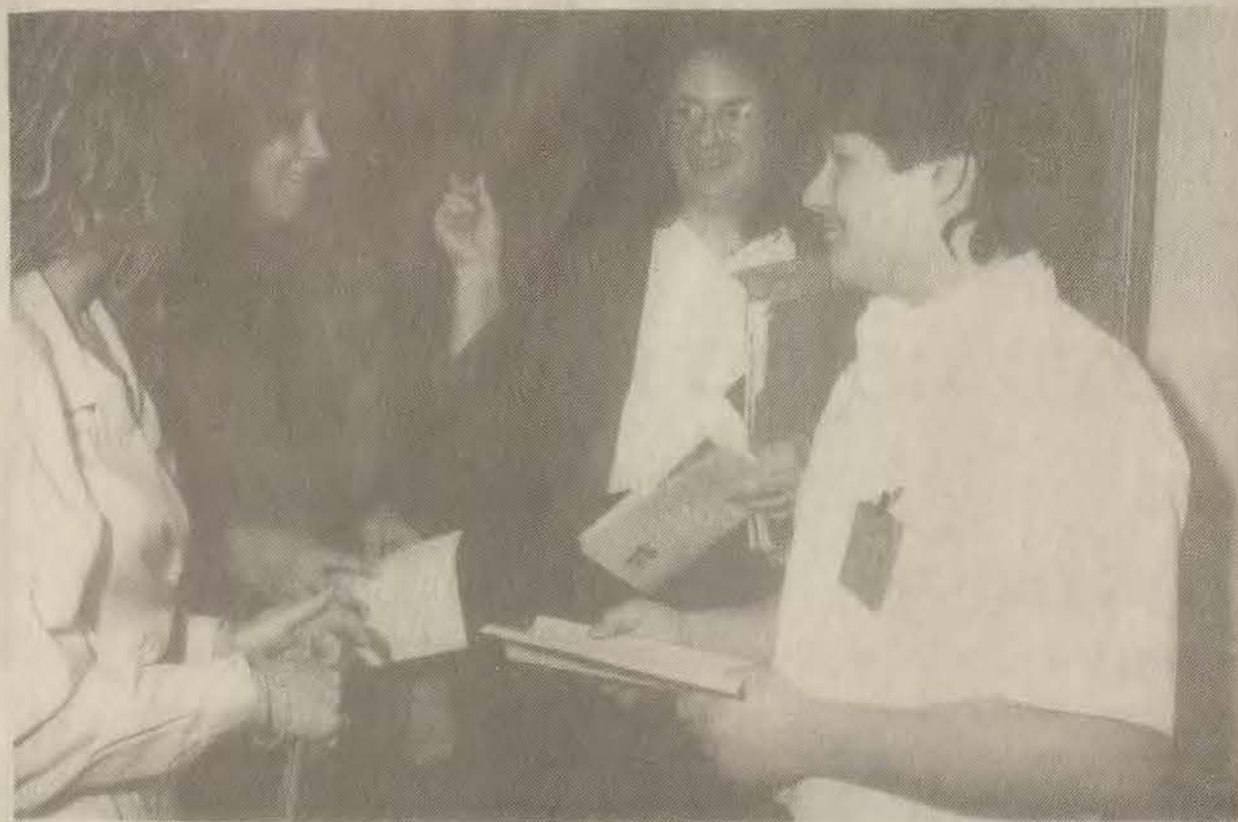

David Warren Hall and Gwen Sawning, juniors at McDowell High School, attended a meeting recently called by County Judge John M. Stumbo to discuss the litter problem in Floyd County.

Others attending were Gary Frazier, assistant superintendent of Floyd County schools; Freddie James, Prestonsburg City Manager; and concerned citizens Mary Rose Martin and Phyllis Grigsby.

The agenda consisted of steps that can be taken to clean up litter in the county.

Several suggestions were discussed, including the "adopt-a-road" program, whereby a club, church, school or business may adopt a section of any road in Floyd County and be responsible for keeping it litter-free; Floyd County officials citing offenders who litter; imposing stiff fines; using inmates to clean roadsides; and holding a county-wide clean-up week in June.

FBLA Day at MSU

Approximately 1,000 students and teachers from 37 Eastern Kentucky high schools recently participated in the annual Region 5 Conference of the Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) held at Morehead State University. The students competed for awards in business law, public speaking, economics, accounting and data processing, as well as for the titles of Mr. and Ms. FBLA. Pictured above are, from left, Terri Heinisch, adviser; Haley Caudill, junior; Madeline Gibson, adviser; and Brad Hall, freshman, all of Wheelwright High School. Pictured below, from left, are Betsy Layne High School students Micah Funk, Rick Keathley and Stephen Meade.

Spotlight On Vocational Ag At Betsy Layne High School

Vocational agriculture classes at Betsy Layne High School include Agribusiness I, Agribusiness II, and production agriculture.

Students interested in any agriculture-related field may take four years of ag classes, according to Suzanne Stumbo, instructor. Any career that involves animals or plants (management, planning, record keeping, services, supplies, support, etc.), processing or manufacturing, may be considered agriculture-related.

"This includes everything from traditional jobs such as farmer, veterinarian, ag teacher, greenhouse worker, etc., to more modern and sophisticated jobs such as genetic engineers, pesticide formulators, salespeople, marketing experts, and others," said Stumbo. "Agriculture offers many diverse occupations for any individual who is interested. Students interested in agriculture may find jobs requiring very little preparation, to those requiring many years of college and graduate school."

During four years of vocational agriculture, students will cover many related topics, including careers, Future Farmers of America, basic plant science, soils, fertilizers, seed identification, basic animal science, soils, fertilizers, seed identification, basic animal science, livestock identification, breeds of livestock,

Basic hand tool use, ecology, land judging, production of animals (beef, poultry, sheep, swine, etc.), crop production, basic horticulture, basic electricity, farm management, basic welding, livestock judging, forestry, basic masonry, power hand tools, job search skills, public speaking.

Parliamentary procedure, employability skills, natural resources, history of agriculture in the US, blueprint drawing and reading, fruit tree production and computers for management.

Clark Students Write Haiku

Students in Dianna Hunsucker's fourth grade class at Clark Elementary School recently learned how to write Haiku, a form of poetry from Japan.

Haiku is generally a three-line verse about an element of nature; the first line must have five syllables, the second, seven, and the last line, five.

The following poems were written by Hunsucker's students as a follow-up activity to a Kentucky Educational Television program on Haiku.

Three ACHS Students Earn Diplomas -- For Tutor Training

Vicki Clark, Sabrina Osborne and Gina Watts, members of the Beta Club at Allen Central High School, recently received diplomas — not for completing high school, but for completing the Laubach literacy tutor training program.

The three young women completed 10 one-hour sessions in which Sister Mary Gervase of Mountain Comprehensive Care taught tutoring basics. The program began earlier this year when Sister Gervase approached Rita Osborne, ACHS Beta Club sponsor, about illiteracy in Eastern Kentucky.

The state is ranked first in the nation in two areas: teenage pregnancy and adult illiteracy. Very few facilities in Eastern Kentucky offer tutorial sessions, resulting in Mountain Comprehensive Care's beginning the program in which Sister Gervase teaches high school students how to tutor in their schools.

The students tutor four days each week for an hour.

"We only tutor one student, because we don't have enough time to really help more than one person," said Watts. "I like it better this way, because we have a better opportunity to teach them, and we know they are learning."

According to Sister Gervase, it is better for beginning tutors to only teach one student, as it gives them the opportunity to learn the work, and also get to know the person with whom they are working and the person's needs.

"It is always better to teach only one person and know that they are learning than to teach a number of people and not know whether they have learned or not," says Clark. "It's better to teach one-on-one when possible."

After the young women graduate from high school, they will be able to work as tutors in other places because their certificates are valid anywhere — and all plan to continue tutoring after completing their high school educations.

"It's a good feeling to know that you've done some good for at least one person," said Osborne. "I've suddenly discovered why teachers put up with so much to teach. It feels wonderful."

Park Wins Regional Honors For Singing

Johnson Central High School senior Melanie Park won regional competition sponsored by the National Association of Teachers of Singers held recently at Southern Baptist Seminary in Louisville.

In the competition, which featured high school vocalists from Kentucky and Tennessee, Park received an overall evaluation of 92.5, out of a possible 95.

The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Don Park of Hager Hill advanced from winning state competition earlier this year. She competed in three preliminary rounds, semi-finals and finals by performing songs from the arts, opera and classical styles.

Park was entered in the regional competition by Joan Bowie, professor of music at Eastern Kentucky University. Judges for the Louisville meet were college professors.

Collins, Conn Compete At State

Two Allen Central High School students recently traveled to Lexington for state competition in the advertising and promotion category of the Sweet 16 Academic Showcase.

Michael Collins and Doris Conn presented an advertising portfolio to a panel of three judges, all of whom are experts in their field. Included in the presentation was a video commercial, a radio commercial, newspaper article, magazine article, bumper sticker and button design, billboard, and brochure.

According to Caralita O'Quinn, their art instructor, the students were asked to "sell" their ideas to the judges. The theme was "Be Smarter — Conserve Water" and was shown by the Collins and Conn Advertising Agency.

O'Quinn and the students spent several days in Lexington, and received a pass for the Sweet 16 Basketball Tournament, held in conjunction with the academic showcase. Several events were planned for the students in addition to their competition. They visited Transylvania University and Rupp Arena. Collins is the son of Lewis and Emma Collins of Langley; Conn is the daughter of Kay Conn of Martin.

Betsy Layne Students Tour Ashland Oil Refinery

Twenty-three students from Betsy Layne High School recently visited Ashland Oil Corp.'s refinery in Ashland.

Janet Akers took her Chemistry II class, and Russell Gilreath took his physics and advanced math students on the trip.

The two organized the outing so that students could see, first-hand, how a refinery works. They were shown how crude oil is processed into other products, as well as methods the refinery uses to protect the environment.

Earlier, Akers and Gilreath took their groups to McCoy and McCoy Engineering in Pikeville. There, they students toured the company's water analysis laboratory, and were shown how harmful elements are extracted from water.

PCC Collection Includes Books About Car History, Basic Repair

by Trisha Morris
PCC Librarian

Americans have had a love affair with the automobile since Henry Ford's first affordable model rolled off the assembly line. The following books from the Prestonsburg Community College library are about automobiles, old and new, the history of the industry, how to repair the one you own, and some basic tips on safety and driving.

Weekend Mechanic's Handbook, by Paul Weisser. As the cost of professional auto repair service rises, more and more people are saving money by doing the work themselves. This book was written to enable the weekend mechanic to diagnose and do the job that he or she can and to know what should be left to the professionals. From oil changes to tuneups and from carburetor setting to suspension maintenance, this book takes the readers step-by-step through each procedure with simple language text and very detailed pictures.

Almost as good as having a professional by one's side, the book is an encyclopedia manual on car repairs.

The Bosch Book of the Motor Car, by John Day. This is a history of the motor car — not by make of model but through its component parts. Since the engine is the heart of a car, it seems appropriate that the book begins with that part. It then goes on to the transmission, the chassis, the suspension and the electrical system, ending with servicing and safety features.

Reviewed This Week:

- Weekend Mechanic's Handbook*
- The Bosch Book of the Motor Car*
- Regulating the Automobile*
- Automotive Electrical Systems*
- The Book of Expert Driving*
- Small Wonder*
- Dead End*

A completely unique way to trace the evolution of the automobile, it will heighten the average person's awareness of the many challenges in design and engineering which had to be overcome in order to provide the comfort and performance of the modern auto.

Filled with pictures of cars and parts as they looked and worked, the book can be enlightening if readers only look at pictures and read captions.

Regulating the Automobile, by Robert Crandall. Automobiles are subject to three major types of federal regulations: safety and emissions standards, which both began in the mid-1960s, and fuel economy, which began after the oil shock of the early 1970s. This provocative volume examines the cost and effectiveness of all three. The author claims that the costs of these three programs have boosted the price of new cars by over $2,000 and are defeating the very purposes they were meant to cure. His argument is that the regulations have created problems of reliability in American cars, have added to the pressure for trade protectionism against Japanese competitors, and have forced the average person to put off replacing their old, less safe, less fuel efficient and more polluting cars.

With discussion of air bags for safety, emission controls for pollution problems and a look into the future of people and automobiles this is a very interesting book which can keep the readers interest from cover to cover.

Automotive Electrical Systems, by Walter Billiet. The electrical system is a vital part of the modern automobile. Its failure is one of the reasons a car won't start, the heater won't heat, the lights don't work, or the horn won't sound. The power of a single burnt fuse to shut down the operation of a vehicle that costs thousands of dollars is amazing. It also is a simple repair if one knows where the fuses are and the foresight to carry spares.

This book was written in clear, layperson's language to give readers that knowledge and foresight as it explains the workings of such things as the storage battery, the charging system, the ignition system, and the lights and accessories system. It also has an insightful chapter on instruments and gauges.

A plain language text accompanied by numerous illustration, this book would be a good introduction to anyone with no knowledge of a car's electrical system, or an excellent reference for anyone seeking an answer to a particular electrical problem.

The Book of Expert Driving, by Edward Fales. Detailing the fine points of driving, from the proper way to warm a cold engine, to problems with parking, this book was written for people who have been driving for years, as well as for the beginner.

The author, a professional test driver, presents techniques used by the experts to make driving safer and more pleasant.

With chapters on emergencies, driving fatigue, communicating with other drivers, and staying alive on the super highways, this book can turn ordinary driving into an art.

Small Wonder, by Walter Nelson. This is the "auto-biography" of the car nicknamed the beetle. It is the story of the birth, development, the growth, the problems, the fantastic success, the jokes, the cult, the appeal — in short, the whole story of the Volkswagen. It is equally the story of the General Motors-trained engineer Heinz Nordhoff who rebuilt the war-torn VW plant into Europe's largest auto company, producing 1.5 million vehicles a year.

This book carries a copyright date of 1965, but as far as it goes, the story of this strange little import that wore its engine in its trunk is well written and very, very interesting.

Dead End, by Ronald Buel. The author has been the St. Louis correspondent for the Wall Street Journal and later a political campaign manager operating out of our nation's capitol. He evidently has been in one too many traffic jams, for his book is a scorching blast at the present transportation system.

Buel thinks there are better ways to move people around than by way of the private automobile. His thesis is a criticism of the waste and pollution of our present urban transportation systems. Some of his suggestions — steam engines, automated electronic freeways, and railroad ferrying of passenger cars out of urban areas — are thoughts which might pass anyone's mind if they had to drive in cities like San Francisco or Washington, D.C.

MHS English Class Discusses Superstitions, Irrational Thinking

This past week, students in Willie Elliott's freshman English class at McDowell High School had to pass a ladder on the way to class.

Each member had the option of going around or under the ladder—17 went under, and six students and the teacher went around. The class decided to use the occurrence to discuss superstitions and irrational thinking.

Some students said ladders have no bearing on what happens in their lives.

"I walked under the ladder for two reasons. One is that I don't believe I'll have seven years of bad luck just because I walked under a ladder. The other is because it was the fastest way to the classroom," said student Wendi Cieslak.

Susan Sawning said she "really didn't see the ladder."

"I don't think God needs a ladder if he wants a person to have bad luck," she added. She said that she would have walked around the ladder if she had seen it, because she didn't want to take any chances before cheerleading tryouts.

Tim Frasure, who was involved in an automobile accident earlier this year, wryly noted, "After being run over by a car, walking under a ladder is no big deal."

Other students were very much aware of the superstition about ladders and acted accordingly.

"When I first saw the ladder, I didn't pay much attention to it," said Carla Shepherd. "I guess that is because I don't believe in superstitions. I just didn't want to take any chances."

Matt Johnson said he saw the ladder while walking to class, and that he supposed "it was instinct that made me walk around it."

Then there is always the student who can see it either way, as long as it pleases the teacher. Eric Vanderpool noted, "I never dreamed we would be writing about it in English, or I would have walked around the whole building so I could have written more and pleased Mr. Elliott."

OVER-THE COUNTER CURES

Many minor illnesses can be treated at home without consulting the doctor, provided that the family medicine chest has the appropriate drugs available. What over-the-counter medicines should be kept on hand? The most common illnesses include headaches, stomach upsets, and head colds. For all kinds of pain and to reduce fever, an analgesic such as aspirin or acetaminophen is needed. Antacids will help the mildly upset stomach, and an anti-diarrhea preparation can prevent a great deal of discomfort. A decongestant such as pseudoephedrine will not cure the common cold, but it can make the victim more comfortable. Cough medicines will help once the cold reaches the hacking stage. Of course, the family first-aid kit should include antiseptics and calomine lotion or cortisone ointment for scrapes, cuts, stings and rashes.

COOLEY APOTHECARY wants you to know that whether an over the counter remedy will help your problem, or if your physician feels it necessary to prescribe medication, we maintain the highest standards of the pharmaceutical profession. Learn for yourself why your friends and neighbors already rely on us. Complete patient profiles are maintained to aid us in checking for possible drug interactions. It also allows us to quickly give you any information you need for income tax and insurance purposes. We are located at #2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-3.

HINT: Keep all medicines out of the reach of children, and replace outdated products with fresh ones.

CONCERNED CITIZENS AND YOU SHOULD BE.

It is sad to say that, one female inmate committed suicide Nov. 1983;
 One male inmate committed suicide May 1985;
 One male inmate suffers death due to a heart attack—while begging and pleading to our current Floyd County Jailer for medical treatment Dec. 1986, but was denied. (Poor negligence & uncaring concern on our jailer's behalf);
 Inmates protested jail by going on starvation (hunger strike) due to indecent and cold meals to eat;

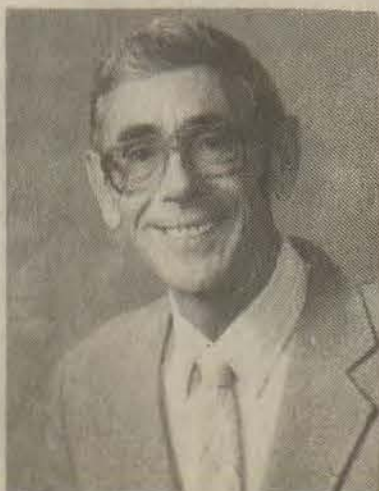

- One deputy jailer "fired" for assisting a police officer.
- Citizens, none of the above should have happened and we can't change that now, but we can prevent it from happening again in the future by electing me, (Junior Joseph), May 23, 1989.
- (1.) I will install remote cameras for security watch on all inmates.
- (2.) I will remove all belts and shoe strings from all inmates to prevent anymore suicidal deaths.
- (3.) I will offer professional counselors and choice of religious guidance to unstable and depressed inmates.
- (4.) I will be supportive to our police officers.
- (5.) I, Junior Joseph, will be committed to serving you well and I want to make you feel safe and secure with me first time, every time.

I want to thank you, the Concerned Citizens, for your current and continuous support to help elect me, Junior Joseph, as your next Floyd County Jailer.

Poet's Corner

Escape To Reality

There was no place like Grandma's house
For a small child like me,
A place where a child could be happy,
As a child should be.
A place where I could go and be myself,
Yes, it was Grandma
Who made me feel like no one else.

Grandma was a hardworking woman;
She worked hard in the fields,
She grew her own corn
Which she had ground
At the village mill.
Early to bed and always up by five,
I guess it must have been hard work that kept Grandma alive.

As I think back over the years,
And take a look at me,
It's Grandma in my life,
The grandest thing I see.
Grandma made good gingerbread,
And cooked the best dinners
I ever ate.
Yes, Grandma, when I was a little boy,
I thought you were great!

You had a smiling face
And wise I thought you were.
Easy it was for me
To have you to love.
I remember asking Mother
If I could go to your house,
And all the way I ran,
For you were what life was all about.
I love you, Grandma.

Just Thinking

When you're old and lonely
And so many things wrong with you,
You just sit in your home all alone
And don't know what to do.
All your children are far away.
No one around to talk to every day.
Wander through the house, look out the door,
Not able to work much anymore.
Can't move around, like in the past
Feel good sometimes, but it doesn't last;
First once place hurts, and then another —
Could call a doctor, but then, why bother?
So you try to just not notice,
And make it through another day.
You read a while and it hurts your eyes
To read too long is not very wise.
So you listen to the sad songs on the radio,
Or watch TV,
Then rest for a while and wonder,
What's going to happen to me?

The Old Lady With Two Stick Canes

Every day early she came Walking on two sticks she called canes.
She lived in an old run-down house
Under the guard rail at the top of the hill.
Dirty hands, hair that looked like it had never been combed.
She wore an old black dress,
And a bonnet tied in a bow under her chin.

It was to the garbage dump she came,
Searching through debris, looking for things,
Kicking over cans, tearing open every bag,
Collecting plastic jugs and old rags.
Three hound dogs by her side busy seeing what they could find to eat.

Her whole social life was centered around the garbage dump
As she talked to people who came to throw things away.
She knew nothing of state aid or Social Security checks.
and carried home in a sack tied around her neck.

Years have passed, the old lady and the dump are both gone;
But I can still picture her coming
On her two sticks she called canes,
With a great big smile on her face
And greeting everyone she saw.
Many times I think how much
I miss the old lady who came,
Every day to the garbage dump walking
On two sticks she called canes.
She was a most beautiful person.

Getting Old

When I woke up this morning,
Turned over in my bed,
I thought to myself,
"Could this be my head?"
I tried to get up,
To see if I could stand,
Failed the first time,
So I tried it once again.

Finally I got my feet on the floor
And tried to make it to my bedroom door;
With every step, a grunt and a groan,
When I tried to move too fast,
I'd let out a loud moan.

At last I made it to my bedroom door,
With a shuffle, got my feet
So they'd work once more.
So I walked through the house,
Thankful I could still move around,
Humming a song to myself
To be sure I could still hear the sound.

Although my humming was way off key,
Just to be able to hear,
Sure seemed good to me.

I opened my front door,
Just to look at the grass and trees,
And felt so thankful
I could still see.
Then I slowly made it
To my own old chair,
Sat there and was thankful
For I am still here.

Nanny Mom

There are moms and dads
There are sisters and brothers
But nobody's mom
Can compare to Nanny Mom.
She's caring and giving
And always there for me
Not a better mother could there be.
She often tells me what to do
Because she loves me so.
She has a heart of pure gold.
When she was put on this earth
God must have broken the mold.
Other mothers can be grannies,
But no other can be my Nanny Mom.
Nanny Mom, I love you very much.

— LeRoy Prater
age 8, Maytown

Granny's House

No one lives in Granny's house
The curtains are all drawn;
No one calls "Come on in,"
Because Granny isn't home.

Granny no longer lives there
No one fills her favorite spot,
She isn't at the window
When days are still and hot.

Her dresses are all still there,
The shoes she used to wear,
Her favorite gowns and perfumes,
The combs for her hair.

Yes, no one lives in Granny's house,
But the rooms aren't bare.
For death alone could not erase
All the memories living there.

Cochran, Souleyrette Exchange Vows March 4

Lisa Renee Cochran, daughter of Nancy Stephens Cochran and Terry Cochran, both of Austin, Texas, and Jeffrey Scott Souleyrette, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Roy Souleyrette, also of Austin, were married at 2:30 p.m. March 4 at Grace Community Church in Austin.

The groom is the grandson of Alma Souleyrette of Wheelwright.

The Rev. Gary Birt officiated the double-ring ceremony. Traditional wedding music was provided by Francis Doetsch, pianist, and Paul Cummings, vocalist.

Given in marriage by her mother, the bride wore a floor-length gown of ivory bridal satin and katz lace. It featured a fitted bodice with sweetheart neckline, long tapered sleeves, and a dropped waistline with a softly gathered skirt edged with lace along the hemline. A Juliet cap held her fingertip veil of illusion. She carried a colonial bouquet of sweetheart roses, baby's breath and carnations.

Amanda Cochran of Austin was her sister's maid of honor. Jennifer Cochran, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. They wore identical teal-length dresses of fuchsia satin with fitted bodice, scoop neckline and short bouffant sleeves. Each carried a single long-stemmed rose with baby's breath and satin streamers.

The reception was held at Martha's Vineyard Clubhouse. The guest book was attended by Cheryl Bedell.

The bride is a graduate of Reagan High School and attended Austin Community College. The groom is a graduate of Reagan High School, attended Southwest Texas State University, and has an associate degree in communications from Austin Community College. He is employed by IBM in Austin.

After a wedding trip to the Grand Bahamas, the couple is residing in Austin.

I would like to ask for everyone's support who wants a magistrate who will work full time to improve District #2.

It has been rumored that I am selling out. This is because some of the candidates are getting concerned because they see now how strong my support is getting.

I do not have a lot of money to spend. If elected, I will only be obligated to the people in this district. I will treat everyone as fairly as possible.

I cannot see all of you in person to ask for your support.

Thank you.

Cancer Hopeline

Question: I recently read about a type of cancer of the eye which mainly affects children. What is this cancer called?

Answer: The type of cancer you are referring to is called retinoblastoma. This type of cancer may involve one or both eyes and tends to remain localized for a long time before spreading to other parts of the body. It is relatively rare, but most often occurs in children under the age of four.

The treatment for this type of cancer depends on the size and position of the tumor and the extent of disease within the eye. Other factors which affect treatment decisions include whether or not the cancer has spread beyond the eye to surrounding tissues, the brain, or to other parts of the body. When retinoblastoma is confined within the eye itself, it is often treated with radiation therapy (freezing the tumor), photocoagulation (laser treatment) or surgical removal of the eye. When this cancer has spread to the tissues around the eye or to other parts of the body, it may be treated with radiation and anti-cancer drugs.

Research has shown that some forms of retinoblastoma are hereditary. The hereditary form may occur in only one eye (unilateral), or in both eyes (bilateral). Most unilateral retinoblastomas are not of the hereditary type. On the other hand, almost all bilateral retinoblastomas are considered hereditary.

Fortunately, most children who are affected with this form of cancer can be cured and go on to live a full life. However, these patients may be at risk of developing other types of cancers and should be followed closely. In addition, patients diagnosed with the hereditary form of retinoblastoma have a 50 percent risk of passing it on to their offspring. Therefore, children who are diagnosed with the hereditary form should be informed in their adult years to seek genetic counseling before having children of their own.

For more information on retinoblastoma, call the Cancer Information Service, 1-800-4-CANCER.

In response to the many letters about the garbage crisis, the following is a reprint that appeared in the Times on 10-9-85. My message has not changed. I was narrowly defeated in 1985, but these issues were not; they were only delayed four years. Very little has changed concerning these issues, except #6. I understand that there is now a voter education registration program at all high schools in Floyd County, courtesy of Kentuckians Election Service and your county clerk.

BRINGING BACK NOVEMBER ELECTIONS

Those who know me personally know that several years ago I was a registered Democrat. Many have asked why I changed my party affiliation. I will try to explain. All of my adult life Floyd County has been restricted to a one-party system, meaning that all of our county officials get elected in the May primary where you choose one candidate from a list of a dozen or more persons seeking the same office. Can you get a majority with the vote split between two people? I hardly think so. It is possible to elect a person with 50-25% of the vote. This means that 75-80% of the voters are unhappy and with good reason. In November the issues become an important factor. As in any election, we must compare the competence of the challenger with the record of the incumbent.

I make no promises I cannot keep. I believe you, the voters, have the right to know how I stand on some important issues that concern not only District 3, but Floyd County as a whole:

1. There should be no "least today, tamest tomorrow" road maintenance. Our roads are used the year around and should be maintained likewise.
2. Our garbage system stinks. The $2.00 dumping fee should be lifted to encourage more people to take their garbage to our county landfill, where it can be disposed of properly. Then the roadside garbage dumps can be replaced with picnic tables and rest areas.
3. Sanitary water should be made available to every household as soon as possible. Water is not a luxury; it is a life-sustaining necessity.
4. Our streams and creeks should be cleaned up not only to prevent flooding, but also because whatever is put into our streams will be pumped back to us in the form of drinking water.
5. More attention should be given to our senior citizens and handicapped.
6. A voter registration and education program for all high schools should be established. By doing so, our youth will understand the principles of the voting machine and may vote with pride. This will also narrow the chances of voting irregularities occurring.
7. All county equipment should be plainly marked, so that at a reasonable distance everyone may know it is being used on private property.

So, why do we need November elections? It is the only way to have "majority rule," then, only if the majority care enough to vote. Consider the issues; consider all candidates; and vote for a better Floyd County. Remember—ONLY YOU CAN CHANGE IT!

To the other 18 candidates, at this time we do not know which of you will be my opponent in November, but I assure each of you that I will not stoop to "mudslinging" or personal attacks on you or your families, and I have no intentions of responding to any directed toward me. However, the issues will be discussed openly and candidly.

Annual Bike-A-Thon For St. Jude's April 22

The annual Wheels of Life bike-athon to benefit St. Jude Children's Hospital is set for Saturday, April 22, at the parking lot of the old Maloney's store at Lancer.

Local coordinator Joyce Mitchell said the event will begin at 9 a.m. and is expected to continue into the afternoon. Riders, ranging from "tiny tots to the elderly" are invited to participate, said Mitchell, adding that tri-cycles and big wheels are also included.

Money for the Memphis, Tenn., hospital, which treats children with cancer, is raised by riders signing up sponsors who make a donation based on miles completed.

A bicycle, donated by the Perkins Job Corps Center, will be given to the person raising the most contributions, Mitchell said. Trophies and other prizes, including St. Jude tee shirts, will be given for winners in each age group.

Bike-a-thons are sponsored annually across the country to benefit the hospital, considered to be the largest childhood cancer research center in the world.

For information on participating in the bike-a-thon, contact Mitchell at 886-9658 or 886-6325.

HOROSCOPE

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)

Your positive outlook on life will help you find new job opportunities. Working in the yard or just being outside with friends and family will bring you closer together.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)

Watch that you are not too aggressive with the ones you love. A new friend could bring some good luck. Take a break from the ordinary and do something really crazy and fun.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)

Take a much-needed rest and have some fun. Spring fever will run rampant this week. Give into it and have a great time. You deserve a little fun.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)

Redecorating and buying furniture may set you back a few bucks, but it is worth it. A gift of flowers could bring a ray of sunshine to a loved one's weary day.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)

Find some time just to meditate and take it easy. You are stressing yourself out for no good reason. Be realistic when asking others for favors.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)

Why don't you let up? Quit being so hard on yourself. A new person in your life could take you on an interesting journey. Trust your instincts and have fun.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)

Some happy news will brighten your week. A family member's ill health will improve greatly this week. Take this as a sign of hope.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)

A special gift given to a loved one could bring the desired results. Be careful with your money; lending should not be on your agenda this week. You won't see the money again.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)

Keep that positive image up and smile. Others are looking at you for guidance. Family members need special attention this week.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)

Check out all the facts before making a decision on finances. Your instincts are not quite in sync. Loved ones will drive you crazy this week; be patient.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)

A letter from a friend will bring some happy moments to what seems a very dull week. Just think of how busy you were before and appreciate this time.

Brosnan stars as daring traveler

By Linda Sparkman
 The year is 1872. The place is London. A dapper, aristocratic gentleman named Phileas Fogg unexpectedly bets his fortune that he can circle the globe in 80 days.

Around the World in 80 Days, airing Sunday through Tuesday, April 16-18, on NBC, follows Fogg (Pierce Brosnan) and his valet Passpartout (Eric Idle) as they attempt to win the wager.

Pierce Brosnan and Julia Nickson star in Around the World in 80 Days, Sunday - Tuesday on NBC.

Fogg, who is suspected of robbing the Bank of England in a comic case of mistaken identity, is followed by a rather inept detective (Peter Ustinov), who is always one — or more — steps behind.

contemporary travel inspired people around the world. Would-be adventurers formed travel clubs to duplicate Fogg's wager and incredible voyage across the globe in equal time.

"Fogg may appear rigid, but he's really quite impulsive," Brosnan said. Of course, his first impulsive act is accepting the bet which sends him on his whirlwind world tour, but a later impulse causes him to rescue the exotic Princess Aouda (Julia Nickson), who then becomes a traveling com-

Over 100 years later, the producers of Around the World in 80 Days completed the same journey in 19 days as they scouted locations across Europe and the Far East. But according to Ustinov, who plays Detective Fix in the miniseries, such an efficient trip is unusual, even with today's modern transport.

"Princess Aouda is," said Nickson, "a very independent woman, ahead of her time. She's brave. She's resourceful. She finds a way to get what she wants, but without using any kind of manipulation."

"A recent flight from Rome to Granada took me 48 hours because of local strikes, cancellations, bad temper and all sorts of things," he said. "At the rate which I got from one to the other, I would have needed more than 100 days to go around the world."

"The interesting thing is that she goes from being a princess to more of a woman, so she maintains her dignity, but you see a real human being that emerges as she travels with him around the world."

Nickson, who traveled the globe with her six-week old daughter, China, had yet another experience. "We dragged bottle, baby food, toys, equipment and diapers from location to location," she said. "We were like our own little show—Around the World with 80 Boxes of Pampers!"

The cast features a rather impressive list of guest stars, including Henry Gibson, John Hillerman, Jack Klugman, Roddy McDowell, Lee Remick, Pernell Roberts, James B. Sicking, Jill St. John and Robert Wagner.

When Jules Verne's novel The Tour of the World in 80 Days was published in 1873, its whimsical look at thenchimp who has befriended him goes to a hospital to get help. Ron Harper, James Naughton. 1974. 'NR'

TV Q&A

Mary Frann's history includes America's Junior Miss crown

By Polly Vonetes

Q: I have always enjoyed Newhart and would like any information you may have on Mary Frann—her marital status, where she was born and where I can write her. —Nick Gaich, Cullman, Ala.

A: Mary Frann was born Mary Frann Luecke on Feb. 27, 1943, in St. Louis, Mo. She was the eldest of four children. In high school she did TV commercials for a local dance show and was crowned America's Junior Miss. A scholarship to Northwestern was awarded along with the crown. After two years she became a weathergirl at KSDK-TV in St. Louis and then moved on to become host of a morning talk show in Chicago. After a marriage that lasted 10 years, she is currently single. Q: I'm writing to ask if Peter Deluise and Dom Deluise are related in any way. And is Peter married? —Karen Gower, Oakland, Md.

A: Peter is the son of Dom Deluise and yes, he is married. He married Gina Nemo, who plays his on-screen girlfriend in 21 Jump Street. on Dec. 29, 1988.

Q: I am very interested in obtaining some information on a movie called The Astronaut. The two main stars were both Canadian and their names are Monty Markham and Susan Clark. The movie aired in late '60s or early '70s. I would like to see it again. What can I do? —Connie Sutherland, Bancroft, Ontario.

A: The movie you asked about aired for the first time on ABC, Jan. 8, 1972. Request one of your local channels to check their film library for this film—they just may have it.

Q: Please give me some information on Angela Lansbury. Is she married? Any children? Where and when was she born? —Jackie Patton, Nashville, Ill.

A: Angela Lansbury was born Oct. 16, 1925, in London, England. Her father was a lumber merchant, her mother an actress. She has twin brothers, both of whom are involved in production, and her great uncle was the famed classical actor, Robert Mantell. During World War II her mother evacuated the family to the United States. Angela enrolled in the Feagin School of Dramatic Arts in New York, but eventually joined her mother in Los Angeles. A screen test resulted in her first film role, the Cockney maid in Gaslight, which gave her the first of three Oscar nominations as Best Supporting Actress. She is married to former talent agency/studio executive Peter Shaw. They have three children.

Tire Care: Don't Take Tires For Granted

by Ed Taylor
Staff Writer

When we think of car care, we often think of washing, waxing, and vacuuming the inside to make the car "look great." The oil is changed, it's greased, filters, plus and points are all changed, to make it "run great."

But what about "riding great?" Just as the motor and exterior finish need attention, tires do as well. Proper tire care of a car or truck will determine the longevity of its tires.

There are certain areas of tire care that owners can do to prevent wear on tires. The most important requirement for maximum tire safety and tire mileage is proper inflation, according to Steve Ousley of East Kentucky Tire in Martin.

"An underinflated tire will cause the edges of a tire to wear," Ousley explained. "It seems that nobody checks the air pressure in their tires."

"I can take a gauge and check 10n cars, and most of them will be underinflated, simply because no one thinks about air pressure in tires," he says. Ousley states that 35 pounds pressure is normal for most tires.

When should a person check the air pressure in their tires?

"In the morning, or when a tire is cold," Ousley said. "When a car has been driven less than one mile at moderate speed." Never check tire pressure when a tire is hot, he says.

An underinflated tire is dangerous and can lead to failure and personal injury. Tires should be checked periodically, Ousley further explained. Once a month is a good rule of thumb. Each driver should keep a tire gauge in the glove compartment of their car. Be sure that the gauge is accurate. "There are different grades of tires for different purposes," Ousley relates. "A tire with a 180 wear rating will wear faster. They are made of a soft rubber compound to make the car stick to the road. A tire with a 300 plus wear rating will wear longer. The Mastercraft P-70 has the highest wear rating of 350 and carries a 55,000 written warranty." But no matter what rating a tire carries, tire pressure is important in all cases.

Tire Care

An underinflated tire will cause a reduction in fuel consumption. Estimates show that a tire underinflated by only 5 pounds of air increases fuel consumption by as much as 7 percent. Underinflation increases tire rolling resistance, which in turn requires more energy to move the car.

What about overinflation? An overinflated tire will cause the middle tread to wear, Ousley explained. An overinflated tire causes tires to ride hard and makes them more vulnerable to impact damage and weakening of the tire body.

"I strongly recommend that everyone keep their tire pressure checked often," Ousley says.

It is quick, it's easy, it's free and, best of all, even the home mechanic who's all thumbs can do it.

Air is still free at many service stations, and inexpensive tire gauges are even available in supermarkets.

Another big problem to tire wear is improper alignment of front and back ends, Ousley says.

"If you own a front wheel drive vehicle, not only must the front end be aligned, but also the rear end. The back tires need to follow the front tires down the road, but they cannot if the back is improperly aligned," Ousley said.

There is a close working relationship between tires and several mechanical systems in a vehicle. Tires, wheels, brakes, shock absorbers, suspension systems and the drive train must all be functioning together smoothly to give a safe, comfortable ride and good tire mileage.

Bad Shocks

Bad shocks on a car can cause tire wear as well as damage. Improper tire pressure, misaligned front ends, and bad shocks can cause wear on a tire. Keep the tire pressure checked and front end aligned to ensure long wear on your tires.

Barnette: Restoring Old Cars Becomes Part Of You

by Ed Taylor
Staff Writer

Some people are big "Green Hornet" fans. You know, that fierce crime fighter of the comic book era. In Floyd County back in the '50's there were a lot of "Auxier Hornet" basketball fans. But for George Barnette of Martin, he is a different Hornet fan — an avid Hudson Hornet fan.

What is a Hudson Hornet? It is an automobile that was popular back in the late '40s and early '50s. But the popularity of the car today excels that of the earlier years.

The Hudson Hornet is so popular and in such a great demand, that they have their own National Hornet club called The Hudson-Essex-Terraplane Club, an organization dedicated to preserving the products of the Hudson Motor Car Company of Detroit, which produced vehicles for 45 years from 1909 until May 1, 1954, and of American Motors Corporation, which produced Hudsons from 1955 until 1957.

Barnette began to restore old cars 25 years ago, back in 1964. "I bought an old 1917 Model T and restored it, and just kept going from there," Barnette says. He has nine cars restored and is currently working on the 10th — a 1951 Hudson Hornet.

Barnette has in his collection two 1931 Model A's with rumble seats; two 1917 Model T's; two 1949 Chevrolets; one 1952 Packard; one 1951 Ford; one 1952 Hudson Hornet; a 1966 Mustang convertible; and a 1971 Cadillac. He is currently restoring a 1953

Hudson Hornet.

What is Barnette's favorite out of all his collection?

"My favorite is the 1952 Hudson Hornet," he proudly says. "Mary Lou (Barnette's wife) and I just got back from the Smokey Mountains in the Hudson Hornet. The problem with traveling in a car like that, everybody wants to look at it, touch it. Lots of the older folks can remember having one and they will want to set in it," Barnette related.

Barnette has entered his cars in car shows and has driven them in parades such as the Apple Day parade and Hillbilly Days, as well as the Black Gold Festival in Hazard. He has been in car shows in Hazard, Jackson and Hindman.

Barnette restores his cars as close to their original appearance as possible. He puts back on what he takes off, although sometimes he may have to replace a part or piece that is worn out.

"I do most of the work myself," he says. "There are some things I can't do, such as painting. I have someone do that for me," he explained.

"Restoring old cars is very time consuming. I work on one in my extra time," he says. "I just piddle around with it.

"You have to completely tear one down if it needs to be. Sometimes if one is not in too bad shape, you only need restore that which needs to be," he said.

"I have a subscription to the Hemmings Motor News, and out of it you can get any part you need to restore an old car," Barnette stated. "You can buy cars out of from $50 to $1,850 if you want to."

What is the hottest car going on the market today?

"The 1959 Cadillac," he says. "It has really gone up in price. You can't hardly find one. They've gone out of sight."

Barnette is a member of the National Hudson Club, although he has never been to any of its shows. He enjoys meeting new people at local shows.

Barnette

"You meet a lot of good people at the car shows," Barnette says. "You make new friends and share views together." At the shows there is no competition, Barnette said; he shows are for just displaying cars only.

What about women in car restoration?

"There are women who are involved in car restoration," Barnette said. "They will be at the shows, rubbing down their car, talking about their cars. They know as much about cars as men."

Barnette has some advice and tips for the restoration enthusiast.

"Work on a particular kind of car. If you like Fords, then work on Fords; if you like older cars, work on those," he advises. "Be sure that you find the car you want in the best shape you can. That will cut down on the amount of time and money you have to put into it. Remember, if you have to tear it all the way down, the more time and money it will take.

"Visible inspection is very important. Look under the car. Be sure to check under the fenders to make sure they are not broken," Barnette said. "Before you start, consult someone that has been in the restoration business for a while. It can save you time and money. Get their advice. You can get books on restoring old cars, get you a book and read about it, familiarize yourself with the process of restoration."

car becomes part of a person.

"It becomes part of you," he says. "You take a lot of pride in your work. You drive down the road, you are pleased with what you have done. It's just like building a house — it's you.

"I would like to see families get involved. I recommend that they get their sons, daughters, and wives involved," he says. "To get started, just get you an old car and start. Work on it in your spare time."

Barnette will send off the bumpers and other parts that are chrome, and have them polished and buffed. Other parts he sand blasts, which saves him time and expense.

Barnette has always been interested in cars and trucks. He recalls his father as a trader, and the old International trucks that he had.

"I learned to spell International before I ever went to school," he recalls. "I would draw pictures of old trucks. A lot of people like old cars."

Car restoration for a lot of people is not just a hobby, but an investment.

"Some get into it for an investment instead of a hobby. They will restore a car then sell it. Others out in California restore them and rent them out to the studios out there," he said.

"In Ypsilanti, Mich., there is a fellow that still runs his dad's old Hudson dealership. He will buy old Hudsons, restore old Hudsons, and then sell them or trade them," Barnette says. "I buy some of my parts off of him."

As the popularity of car restoration has increased, so has the number of persons wanting to get in on the "bandwagon" and sell side items needed for restoration.

"There are dealers in parts, and books that take in all the old car shows. They will set up at one show, one week, and move on to another the next week," Barnette states.

If interested in entering the hobby of car restoration, just remember the advice of one who has been in it for 25 years: seek advice from someone who has been in it for a period of time; buy a good book on the subject and read about the do's and don't's of restoration; and just get an old car and start.

'The D': In Remembrance Of Great Cars

By Pam Shingler
Assistant Editor

Like a great love, many of us have had a great car, one we remember with excitement, drama, passion — the gamut of sensations.

Mine was a Datsun 1600, purchased before the company started making its popular Z series and before the corporate name change. I bought the spiffy, baby blue, two-seater ragtop in 1970 for $3,000, a pittance these days.

The D, as I called it, fit my image at the time: hip, young, gregarious, assured. Not many models like The D were on the road, and it invariably attracted attention and envious looks.

From Georgia where I bought it, The D zoomed across the southeast, with regular trips through the mountains to Eastern Kentucky.

When I moved to Arkansas, The D conquered the Ozarks, New Mexico, coastal Texas and northern Mexico. The two of us were made for each other.

By summer of 1977, the wonder car was sporting 99,000 miles and working like a Timex. With my mechanic's blessing, a friend and I decided to take The D on a two-week vacation to visit friends in Arizona and California.

We left on Saturday, spent the night in Oklahoma, and on Sunday afternoon, en route to Albuquerque, a peculiar, sickening smell wafted through the air vents.

Wildorado, Texas, has, or did have at that time, a filling station, a motel/restaurant, two or three grain silos, and a dozen or so people operating on Southwest time. We spent the night at the motel and waited most of the next day for the local mechanic to drive 20 miles to Amarillo for a radiator hose.

Determined to make Albuquerque before stopping again, we hit the interstate, and the interpretation of what happened next depends on whether you view the glass as half full or half empty.

Fortunately, when the evil odor came at us again, we were near the exit for Tucumcari, N.M. Look on the map. Tucumcari is 120 miles from Albuquerque and 180 miles from Amarillo — with nothing in between but sand and lunaesque mesas.

Fortunately, the only man in the small town who could work on foreign cars also owned a motel with a swimming pool. Fortunately, the bus that would bring the new head gasket came through every day.

Unfortunately, when the mechanic replaced the head gasket on Wednesday, he discovered the fuel pump was leaking and that, too, had to be brought in from Albuquerque by bus.

Unfortunately, the rain, which rarely hits that area, started on the Monday night we arrived, and through Friday when we left, northern New Mexico had more rain than it had had in years. No swimming or sunbathing that week.

Fortunately or unfortunately, the song "Wastin' Away in Margueritaville" seemed to be playing everywhere we went. I was not a pleasant companion.

In Albuquerque Friday evening, we called the California friends to say we wouldn't be there after all. We could still make Arizona though, we thought.

The next morning we were about 20 miles south of the city when the thermometer appeared to be heating up again. A roadside mechanic diagnosed a clogged radiator.

Back in Albuquerque we settled

'The D'

in to the same motel room we had just left to wait for Monday when repair stations would reopen. A call to Arizona: we're going back home.

Not to bore, I'll summarize the second week. On Tuesday, another blown head gasket near Pueblo, Colo. On Thursday, overheating again near Russell, Kan. On Friday with no one around to repair The D this time, we left him at a garage and boarded a bus for Arkansas.

The following weekend, a friend who had a car with a hitch drove me the 12 hours to Kansas, hitched up The D and brought it back.

Back in Arkansas, I implored my trusted mechanic to find a new engine for The D, but he insisted that another new head gasket would do fine.

The next year just before I moved The D to Pennsylvania in the back of a Ryder truck amid five rooms of furniture, the mechanic did $800 worth of overhaul work on the car. I embarked on a new life with a sense of confidence in The D.

Over the next two years, I coped with overheating in The D, driving only around the tiny town where I lived and searching vainly for a mechanic who could heal it.

Seldom did a week go by when someone did not knock on my door — generally a cocky, assured youth — inquiring about buying The D. But I could not envision life without it, despite the problems.

Finally, I did sell it to a young, fine-looking graduate student, who was graduating, was sure he knew a mechanic who could fix it, and who promised never to bring The D back into town. As with a great love, I was afraid I could not emotionally handle seeing The D again after our breakup.

When we parted company, The D had more than 111,000 miles on him, was on his third paint job and his fourth top — a little less for the wear, but then so was I.

The $1,000 he brought put a down payment on a much more practical car. I still have it. It now has more miles than The D did. It has cost me less money in nine years than The D did just during the last three years we were together. It fits my more subdued lifestyle now.

Ah, but sometimes when I'm in a nostalgic mood, I do miss the passion, the excitement, the drama of The D, wherever he is.

Prevent Cooling System Problems

When was the last time you checked your cooling system? If you can't remember, you're overdue. Prevention is the best plan to avoid cooling system problems.

Check Belts, Hoses

Just changing the anti-freeze/coolant once a year may not be enough to avoid overheating — or, worse, major engine damage. The Car Care Council suggests checking belts for adjustment and wear.

The normal life expectancy for a belt is three to four years. Heater hoses also deteriorate, so check for leaks, cracks, rotted rubber or faulty clamps. For even greater peace of mind, get a professional flushing of the system.

Awaiting Restoration

This 1917 Ford Roadster, belonging to George Barnette of Martin, is waiting to be restored. Barnette's hobby is buying old cars and restoring them "as close to the original as possible," he says.

Retreads: The Pros And Cons

The U.S. Government is a big user of retreaded tires on all types of aircraft, from the F14 fighter plane to the Blue Angels, the spectacular US Navy flying team.

Retreaded tires are also used on commercial aircraft, 4x4's, recreational vehicles, school and municipal buses, emergency vehicles, race cars, taxis, all kinds of trucks and millions of automobiles.

Here are some interesting facts from the Tire Retread Information Bureau: Retreads are as safe as comparable new tires and can be driven at the same speeds as new tires, and are available in high performance sizes in all tread designs. With proper maintenance and care, retreads can give about the same mileage as new tires, and look just like new tires.

It's a good idea to comparison shop for retreaded tires and to ask for a written warranty. The warranty may be for workmanship, mileage, or some combination of the two.

While there seems to be good points to retreads; there are also some draw backs to them, too.

"Hot weather affects recaps," Mike Ousley of East Kentucky Tire in Martin says. "Sometimes the caps will come off when they get hot."

According to Ousley, there is not that much difference in price between a recap and a new tire.

"You pay between $30 to $35 for a recap, and we can sell a new tire for $40," he says. Warranties on recaps are determined by the company that caps the tire.

"Heavier loads, also, especially on trucks, will determine the life of a retread. If the cap is not put on straight it can peel off," Ousley relates. "Retreads are smoothed over and a whole new cap put on. They will tie the cap on with string, and then bake the tire until the capping joins the casing of the tire. If any one of the wires is rusty, it will not cap right and is subject to come off.

"A recap is harder to balance," Ousley continues. "Buying a recap is like you saying 'that's all right until tomorrow'."

Once retreads have been installed on a car, make certain wheels are properly aligned, and check tire pressure regularly to add miles to the life of the tires.

For more assurance, look for a dealer who is a member in good standing of the American Retreaders' Association, National Tire dealers and Retreaders Association, or Tire Retread Information Bureau.

Tire Rotation

Incorrect wheel alignment, worn suspension parts or improper inflation can all cause uneven tire wear.

Attention to these, plus rotation of the tires, is the safest way to go.

Front-Wheel Drive Tire Rotation, Wear

Do you have a front-wheel drive vehicle? When was the last time the tires were rotated?

The Car Care Council reports front-wheel tires wear faster than the rear ones because most of the car's weight is in the front — and those tires also steer and drive the car. For optimum wear, tires should be rotated about every 6,000 to 8,000 miles.

Year-Old Blades Due For A Change

Good visibility during inclement weather requires fresh, flexible wiper blades. If the ones on your car are about to celebrate their first birthday, they are probably due for a change, according to the Car Care Council.

When you do replace the old wiper blades with new ones, regular cleaning with a mild detergent on the wiping edge can increase the blades' efficiency and life.

Fuses: Anticipating An Emergency

Some car emergencies cannot be anticipated; others, such as a flat tire or a blown fuse, can.

Knowing how to deal with either of these involves first reading one's owner's manual and then actually doing it.

The purpose of fuses and circuit breakers in a car, as in a house, is to prevent an overloaded circuit from overheating the system, which could lead to a fire. They also prevent damage to the components.

An electric windshield wiper, for example, generally will be protected by a circuit breaker as well as a fuse. When encrusted by ice and snow, the immobilized wiper motor could burn out if it were not protected.

Circuit breakers also may be found on the electric radio antenna, lights and other components. They will switch off during overload, then on again when the circuit cools.

Another part of the electrical protective system is the fusible link, a special segment in the vehicle's wiring that melts first in case of a short circuit. One of these can be found on the positive battery cable.

For safety, utilize these tips:

— Know the location of the fuse panel in the car. Generally, it will be under the instrument panel near the steering wheel. The owner's manual should show where it is located.

— Keep replacement fuses in the glove compartment. Check to be sure what type of fuses are used in the vehicle. Some use the glass tube type; others use a ceramic fuse (most cars today use a plug-in fuse).

— Learn how to replace them. This information may not be included in the owner's manual. If unfamiliar with the procedure, have a dealer or mechanic demonstrate it.

— If a fuse blows more than once, find out why. Do not replace a blown fuse with one of a heavier rating.

If a fuse link wire blows, the car has a major short circuit. Don't try to replace that wire until the faulty circuit is repaired, and then use a fusible link of the correct rating.

Never use a screwdriver or other metal tool to remove a fuse. It could cause a short circuit and damage to electrical components. If the car uses tubular glass fuses, keep a fuse puller in the glove compartment.

Not Mechanically Inclined? Local Dealer Provides Tips

Face it. Not everybody is mechanically inclined. Many women, as well as a good number of men, never developed the fascination that some folks have with what's under the hood of a car.

Don Bush, manager of Carter-Hughes Toyota's award-winning service department, recently developed a short car care workshop for women. Here are some of the tips the service personnel cover in the workshop. Some of them may be valuable to male car owners, as well.

— Keep a tire gauge in the glove compartment, and check tire pressure regularly.

— Watch for wear on the inside of tires and test for alignment.

— Learn how to change a tire. If you have a flat tire, look for a level place to pull over. You can usually drive up to a mile on a flat without hurting the rim. Always block the car when changing a tire, since some jacks are not safe. Turn on your four-way flasher lights, day or night.

— Check your oil regularly. Don't take for granted that oil is always in there.

— Also, keep a close check on the air filter to make sure it's clean and doing its job.

— Leave brake repair to a service person. If the brake light on the dashboard comes on, go directly to a service station. Listen to your brakes: a high pitched sound means the brakes are about to go out. A grinding sound means the brakes are gone!

— Make sure you have plenty of windshield washing solvent. Keep a bottle of it in your car, especially for those drizzly days when heavy trucks leave you with muddied windshields.

— Change the windshield wipers when they begin to skip spots.

— Regularly check your headlights, taillights and turn signal lights. Turn the lights on and get out of the car to check, since the inside indicators often work even when the lights don't.

— Before winter, clean and wax the car, and in spring, clean to remove winter salt and wax again.

— Even in winter, turn on the air conditioner for a few minutes to lubricate seals and prevent feron leak.

— Always carry in your car: first aid kit, flares, flashlight, and an extra quart of oil and funnel.

Wiper Blades

Streaking, smearing and chattering — words that best describe the results from worn windshield wiper blades.

The Car Care Council suggests replacing wiper blades at the first sign of wear for good visibility in all kinds of weather.
