The Floyd County Times

Frozen Pipes, Bad Roads Chill Holiday Weekend

A period of freezing and sub-zero temperatures, extending over the past six days, has left Floyd County residents wondering if they're living in Eastern Kentucky or the North Pole.

Record low temperatures were set all around the state on Friday and Saturday, with local temperatures dipping well below zero.

The National Weather Service in Jackson reported a -13 degree reading Friday morning, the coldest temperature currently recorded in that area. Local police and firefighters, however, didn't require a thermometer to alert them to dangerously low temperatures.

"We had about 15 calls about busted pipes over the weekend," said Major Mike Wells of the Prestonsburg Fire Department. "Our primary concern was with cases of water threatening electric sources. If water gets into the electric, you have a real danger of fire."

The Holiday Inn in Prestonsburg reported frozen and broken fire sprinkler pipes, requiring the response of local firefighters. The situation was controlled after water was shut off to the sprinkler lines.

Elsewhere around the county, frozen pipes and icy roads headed the list of holiday hazards.

"We're seeing quite a few broken pipes," said Police Chief Mack Stewart of Wayland. "Most people are trying to take care of the pipes by themselves, but a lot of folks are still without water."

"Some of the older people haven't told anyone about their pipes, yet, so there's still problems to deal with before it's over. I had to thaw out my mother and grandmother's house this weekend."

Stewart also noted that side roads in the Wayland area remained snowcovered and dangerous.

"Some of these back roads are in really bad shape," said Stewart. "They haven't thawed out since the first snow a couple of weeks ago. Some of them are hard to walk on, let alone drive on."

In Wheelwright, Police Chief Terry Hill noted similar problems.

"We have had a couple of burst pipes, but it hasn't been too bad," said Hill. "We've been having problems with bad roads. Main Street is starting to freeze back and the back roads aren't in good shape. We just don't have the salt to put on them."

Hill described other problems caused by the arctic temperatures.

"I noticed some problems with pressure in the gas lines," said Hill.

"It may be caused because so much gas is being used. My pilot light has gone out a couple times from low pressure. It doesn't seem serious, yet.

In general, though, everything's going pretty well."

The weather man is currently calling for light snow Wednesday morning, giving way to clearing skies and warmer temperatures Thursday. A high of between 40 and 50 degrees is expected.

The coldest period recorded in Floyd County for many years looks like it's finally coming to an end, and not a moment too soon!

The Road Less Traveled

A light snow Tuesday morning draped its gentle blanket over the hills and highways of Floyd County. This road off of Spurlock has seen, as has much of the area over the past weeks, a surprising amount of the white stuff, so pleasant to the eye, so dangerous to the driver. Area police report that many back county roads remain snowcovered and slippery, and recommend that drivers exercise caution when leaving the main roads and byways.

Warmup Time

Relief from the freezing temperatures is on the way.

Wednesday looks to be cloudy with light snow in the morning hours and a high reaching into the mid-30s. Wednesday night will give us clearing skies and a low of 30.

Thursday will be comparatively balmy, with mostly sunny skies, and a high between 40 and 50, melting the white stuff that's been on the ground for so long.

KET To Televis General Assembly

Beginning Jan. 2, Kentuckians can keep daily tabs on the state legislature as Kentucky Educational Television (KET) takes viewers inside the capitol for "The 1990 Kentucky General Assembly."

Host Dick Brown will give updates on bills being introduced into the House and Senate, as well as work done in committee meetings. Highlights of legislative action will be featured Mondays through Thursdays at 10 p.m. and Fridays at 8:30 p.m.

A KET announcement advises, however, that periodic specials may slightly alter the schedule.

Gov. Wallace Wilkinson's "State of the Commonwealth" address will be broadcast live in its entirety, the announcement says.

Issues expected to come before the General Assembly during this session include education, taxes, succession, prison overcrowding and health/welfare.

Massey Donates In Local Man's Name

The Massey Foundation has donated $27,000 to mining and mineral law programs at the University of Kentucky on behalf of Raymond A. Bradbury, a Prestonsburg resident and president of Martin County Coal Corp.

"This is another way in which we show our interest and support for the University of Kentucky," said Bradbury, a 40-year veteran of the mining business. The corporation he heads is a subsidiary of the A.T. Massey Coal Co.

"We believe that through this donation we are providing encouragement to men and women who may be interested in this field," he said.

Give!

The ninth annual Donorama is going on now through Friday at the Holiday Inn, sponsored by the Central Kentucky Blood Center. You can give your portion of blood between noon and 8 p.m. The holiday season, unfortunately, is generally a crisis time for the blood center, so please give. Tee shirts and prizes are promised to donors.

'48 Hours' Still Troubles Many Residents Of Area

by Frank Clark
Staff Reporter

Since its Dec. 14 showing, the broadcast of "48 Hours" on CBS, which focused national attention on Floyd County's economic and social ills, has caused a statewide uproar, from Gov. Wallace Wilkinson's office to the average Floyd County citizen.

Within Floyd County's towns, places of business and homes, from Auxier to Wheelwright, discussion has tended to center on two questions.

First, why did CBS focus exclusively on the negative aspects of the area while filming? The educational, social, and economic success stories, such as the "Mantrip" program at Wheelwright High School, the rapid enrollment growth within literacy programs in the area, the new four county airport for the Big Sandy area and the convention center under construction at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park, were all ignored.

Second, why did Floyd Countians appear on the news program, if they knew the program was going to treat the area so unfairly?

So far, CBS hasn't provided a clear answer to the first question of why only negatives were portrayed in the program. Until a response to allegations of unfair coverage from Wilkinson and other political leaders is forthcoming, Floyd Countians will have to wait and wonder.

The second question, however, has received an answer—from residents of Muddy Gut Hollow.

"We were misled, plain and simple, by CBS," said Tilton Jr. Johnson, one Muddy Gut resident interviewed by the "48 Hours" film crew.

According to Tilton, CBS showed his area of southern Floyd County in a false light, filming garbage and wrecked cars, while telling residents during filming that they were being featured in order to show everyday life in the Kentucky mountains. Tilton also said that CBS made false claims in its program

"They showed buildings that nobody lives in, saying it was people's homes," said Johnson. "There's nothing wrong with this hollow. It's just like a lot of places around here. I've had my home appraised for close to $27,000, but CBS came in here and said we lived in shacks. They really did it to us with this show."

Many others in the area echo Johnson's sentiments.

"When they came to talk with us, we thought they'd show the good things as well as the bad, but they only showed the bad," said Othello Johnson, who was featured in a section involving the burial ground of her family. "The floods in October messed up the hollow, and they filmed that. They filmed the junk cars in a junk yard, too, but they didn't say that those are sold, as business. We thought they just wanted to show how close our family is. I didn't understand that it would hurt anybody."

"It's the children who'll be hurt by this program," said Edith Akers, a long-time resident of Muddy Gut Hollow. "They'll be made fun of because of the program, and that's wrong. Muddy Gut has been the name of this hollow for as long as anyone can remember and I'm proud of it. We don't have homeless people here and there's wonderful children, some of them who are 'A' students. I know there's freedom of the press, but I don't know how Phil Jones (a "48 Hours" reporter) can come in here and disgrace our state, our county, and our little hollow."

Since the broadcasting of the program, the lives of many of those interviewed by CBS have been changed for the worse. A number of persons

Fires Keep Local Departments Hopping

With temperatures dipping below zero for several days, Floyd County firefighters have seen a good bit of action.

Members of Garrett and Wayland volunteer fire departments responded Saturday morning to a trailer fire at Estill. According to Garrett fireman Terry Triplett, the mobile home was "a total loss."

He said 14 firefighters were unable to save the structure which had been occupied by Sandy Mitchell and her children. The mobile home was owned by Kert Slone, Triplett said.

No one was home when the fire started, Triplett said, adding that his department received the report of the fire at 11:45 a.m. and arrived at the scene at 11:47. There was no indication Saturday as to how the fire started.

A mobile home fire Friday at Auxier reportedly started because of a faulty heat pump, according to a representative of the Auxier volunteer fire department which responded to the call at about 10 a.m. Little information was available on the fire, except that minimum damage was sustained.

Maytown firefighters responded to a mobile home fire last Wednesday near Eastern on Old Rt. 80. A Maytown volunteer fire department spokesperson said the home, believed to belong to a Woods family, received smoke damage and some fire damage but was not destroyed.

On Christmas day, members of the Left Beaver volunteer fire department were called to a Price home where a garage, containing tools and a boat, was blazing. It was described as a "complete loss."

Up In Smoke

Left without a home Saturday was Sandy Mitchell of Estill, when the mobile home she rented from Kert Slone was destroyed by fire. Members of both Garrett and Wayland volunteer fire departments responded to the morning fire. The trailer was described as "a total loss." No one was home when the fire occurred.

Firefighting Improvements Lead To Reclassification

The Betsy Layne Volunteer Fire Department has received notice that on Jan. 1 its classification will be upgraded to 4/9, meaning its performance has resulted in lower insurance costs for district residents, according to department spokesperson Rhonda Blackburn.

"Apparently, this is the only volunteer fire department in Kentucky to be granted such a classification," Blackburn said.

Fire protection classification is determined by both manpower and equipment, she said. The Betsy Layne department has 21 active firefighters on call 24 hours a day, she said, adding that 15 members have received state certification which requires at least 150 hours of special training.

The department also has four state certified fire fighting instructors and two emergency medical technicians, and provides all the equipment insurance services require to be considered a fully equipped fire station, she said.

"This newest 4/9 classification is a very significant achievement," Blackburn said. "The split classification means that all buildings within 1000 feet of a fire hydrant have been declared a class 4 and others outside that area, a class 9." She said the district includes about a five-mile radius of the fire station.

According to Blackburn, the Betsy Layne department was established in 1946 with a protection classification of 10. This was upgraded in 1981 to 8/9, in 1985 to 7/9 and in 1988 to 6/9. She said that each time the classification was improved, insurance costs for the area were lowered.

The department, she said, is funded by local taxes and contributions. Its seven-member board of trustees includes Bob Branham, Tim McClanahan, Herman Morris, Mike Brooks, Joe David Taylor, Woodrow Conn and Emmitt Hamilton Jr.

Pike Man Dies In Road Crash

A snow-slickened road apparently led to the death of a Pike County man Tuesday morning, according to Kentucky State Police reports.

Larry Ray Cowger, 31, of Shelbiana was a passenger in a car driven by James Cowger, when the car went out of control on US 460 near Millard. The Cowger vehicle apparently crossed into the other lane and crashed into a car driven by Woodrow Parson of Pikeville.

Larry Cowger was pronounced dead at the scene, and James Cowger sustained serious injuries. Parson was reportedly not injured. No seat belts were in use, according to state police.

Regional Roundup

Strikers Skeptical About Settlement

Castlewood, Va.—Striking United Mine Workers said they were either oblivious to intensified contract talks with the Pittston Company or skeptical about rumors spreading around picket shacks that a settlement was imminent.

Some union officials said they thought representatives of super-mediator William User and Labor Secretary Elizabeth Dole were trying to raise the level of optimism to put pressure on the negotiators to meet the expectations and strike a bargain.

A handful of rank-and-file miners hanging around regional offices said they were not aware of the laborious negotiations and the talk in Washington about a settlement. (Appalachian News-Express)

Man Found Dead In Ditch

Inez — Martin Davis, 66, of Inez in Martin County was found dead in a ditch on Thursday, Dec. 21.

According to police reports, his body was found at 7 p.m. after he had apparently fallen four feet from an embankment and landed in a ditch.

He had suffered several lacerations to the head and was pronounced dead on the scene by Martin County Deputy Coroner Jerry Todd.

An autopsy is pending and the case is still under the investigation of Detective Jeff Blanton with assistance from Trooper Mike Goble. (Appalachian News-Express)

Coal, Wood Firms Discuss Potential Joint Ventures

Hazard — Officials of coal and wood-products companies met in Perry County recently to discuss the potential for joint ventures to help diversify Eastern Kentucky's economy.

Some experts contend that establishing a wood-processing industry, which would turn bountiful native hardwoods into flooring, paneling, furniture and other products, would be one way to expand Appalachian Kentucky's fading, coal-dominated economy.

And some regional leaders contend that assistance from coal and land-holding companies, because they control most of the resources, would be crucial to mounting a significant diversification effort. (The Courier Journal)

Misuse Of School Materials Probed

Ashland — State schools Superintendent John Brock has barred vocational schools from doing work for teachers and staff members while alleged misuse of materials and dual employment at Rowan State Vocational Technical School is investigated.

The state police investigation is focusing on whether Clifford Wells, the regional vocational administrator for the Buffalo Trace Gateway area, had farm equipment built at the school for his own use at state expense. Police are also looking into whether he was paid for work he didn't do.

Brock imposed the moratorium Dec. 11 and said it will be in effect at least until the state Board for Vocational Education addresses the issue. (The Courier-Journal)

House Fire Claims Two Lives

Jackson — Two women died Tuesday, Dec. 19, during a fire at a family dwelling about two miles north of Jackson, according to Kentucky State Police at the Hazard Post.

Jackson Mayor Frank Noble said the fire call was received at 2:55 p.m., and the Jackson Department was the first to arrive at 3:09. He added that Quicksand and Vanleve fire departments assisted.

Two Women, Helen Rose Cardwell Potter, 54, along with Sally Ann Linville, 24, a niece of Flemingsburg, died in the tragedy.

According to various on-site reports, the two women were looking for the fire they apparently suspected, probably after seeing the smoke. Reportedly, they went down the basement stairs where they discovered the blaze. Cause of the fire has been attributed to a heating stove malfunction, according to state arson inspector James C. Burnett. (The Jackson Times)

A Cold Cruncher

The vehicles of two Prestonsburg men collided Tuesday at the intersection of Route 23 and Main Street in West Prestonsburg. According to Sgt. Gerald Clark of the Prestonsburg Police Department, Jory Campbell, 24, crossed onto Rt. 23 against a red light at about 3:30 p.m. in his blue Ford Mustang. His car was struck by a Chevrolet Blazer driven by Frank Compton, 27, of Prestonsburg. The Prestonsburg Fire Department responded to clear antifreeze from the highway. No injuries were reported.

from Muddy Gut say they are laughed at in the store and post office. Children from the area have been ridiculed at school. Threatening phone calls have been received.

"I've got calls from people who say they're going to get me, because of the show," said Tilton Johnson. "It's gotten so that I've got to have a phone tap put on to find out who's making them."

Allegations of receiving payments for appearing on the show have also surfaced. All persons interviewed by the Floyd County Times denied these allegations, as did a CBS spokesperson, interviewed by phone from New York.

"CBS didn't give us anything," said Maxine Adams. "They sure did us wrong, though. They showed things in my home that they promised they wouldn't. Now my boys are being bothered at school. People laugh when they hear 'Muddy Gut'."

just laugh back at them because there's nothing else you can do."

KET Lists January 'Best Bets'

With winter blustering outside, Kentucky Educational Television (KET) has come up with some reasons to stay in.

January's television menu includes helpings of culture, politics, history and news. Station programmers have come up with what they describe as "best bets" for the month.

New Year's Day features a re-broadcast of a 1988 Lexington Philharmonic concert, directed by George Zack. The 8 p.m. show includes works by Cimarosa, Copland and Beethoven.

Also on New Year's Day, at 9:30 p.m., KET will present an encore broadcast of "The Louisville Ballet in Performance."

For political buffs, the network will air proceedings of the 1990 Kentucky General Assembly each weeknight, with commentary on bills being introduced and committee workings, beginning Jan. 2.

The ballet "Martin" will be carried at 10 p.m. on Jan. 16 in honor of the birthday of civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King. The five-movement classical ballet was composed by Gordon Parks.

In line with the King commemoration, KET will broadcast "Eyes On The Prize II," a follow up documentary to the award-winning history of the civil rights movement. The first segment of the new eight-part series is to be aired Jan. 16 at 8 p.m.

Television anchorman Dan Rather is the subject of a show set for Jan. 19 at 8:30 p.m. The production is titled "A Day With Dan Rather."

The award-winning series "Frontline" begins its eighth season on Jan. 24 with a look at "The Bombing of Pan Am Flight 103," the crash over Lockerbie, Scotland, that claimed 270 lives. The following week, Jan. 31, "Frontline" profiles Palestine Liberation Organization chairman Yasir Arafat. The shows air at 9 p.m.

'Good Old Golden Rule Days'

Taken around 1920 or '21, this picture was submitted by Vernie Messenger of Martin and includes the student body of the one-room school at "what used to be called the school house cut" just above the Hunter railroad station. Mrs. Messenger, now 83, says that six out of the 10 children of her parents, Casel and Judy Howell Collins, are in the photograph, including her. The schoolhouse, she says, was heated by a pot-bellied wood burning stove. She adds that her best memory of Christmas was "when us children and grandchildren used to meet at their (her parents) house for Christmas dinner and talk about the old days."

Flood Disaster Staff Closes Local Office

The federal flood disaster hotline is no longer operational locally, as state Disaster and Emergency Services staff have closed the Prestonsburg field services office.

Ronn Padgett, a state DES officer, said the toll-free hotline has been replaced by the regular business number, 502/564-8650, at the National Guard Center in Frankfort.

The local field office had been opened for the record breaking third major flood disaster in 1989.

Assistance to individuals and families has been provided for about 500 applicants, Padgett said. Payments from the state-administered individual and family grant program now total almost $1.1 million, he said. Public assistance for local and state government agencies has reached $1.4 million, said Padgett. The official added that the scope of approved damage from the October floodings could reach as much as $5.9 million, provided applicants properly complete their paperwork and adequate documentation of damage is provided.

Severely affected by the October flooding were the counties of Clay, Floyd, Jackson, Knott, Knox, Leslie, Letcher, Magoffin, Owsley, Perry and Pike.

Correction

An item in Wednesday, Dec. 20 Regional Roundup incorrectly identified Fonso Damron as the son of Charles Damron, 28, of Virgie. Both were victims of a fatal mobile home fire. Fonso was actually the son of Jimmy and Sheila Damron of Virgie, who were not involved in the fire. The Times regrets this mistake and any inconvenience it may have caused.

Guest Column

(Editor's Note: Following is the text of a letter Rep. Greg Stumbo wrote to CBS-TV President Laurence Tisch regarding the "48 Hours" broadcast focusing on Floyd County.)

Dear Mr. Tisch:

I would like to lodge a formal complaint with you about the unfair manner in which the recent newscast of "48 Hours" portrayed life in Floyd County. I am a lifelong resident of this County and for the past ten (10) years have held the position of State Representative for this area. My District includes the "Muddy Gut" section, which was portrayed in the broadcast. It is true that the people who live in that area exist at or below the poverty level and it is also true that we have a larger number of individuals in that same plight here in Appalachia; but, I would submit to you that these similar conditions exist almost, without exception, in all other areas of our nation.

My complaint is that the program did not contain any balance in the sense of fairness and justice, which would have portrayed the positive aspects of our county and the progress that has been made.

I also want to point out to you that many of the statistics that were used are obviously erroneous, presenting a complete lack of journalistic ethics on the part of those who reported the statistics and amount to nothing more than damn lies. I would challenge you to look into this matter and respond as to what the basis of the statistical reports were, specifically as follows:

1) It was reported that seventy percent (70%) of the marriages in Floyd County involved teenagers. We cannot verify this and our search reveals that this is untrue.

2) It was reported that a study conducted by someone indicated that persons living in this area cannot even afford the price of a gallon of gasoline to leave the area. I checked with the University of Kentucky and they know of no such study which would confirm this data.

The report, in my opinion, was an insult not only to the people of our region, but to Kentucky in general; because it leaves one with the impression that this is the only life that exists here. While it is true that we have problems associated with the economy and its failure to diversify and provide the much needed jobs for our region, we are combating these in a number of ways and on several fronts. If your reporters had done an analysis, they would have found that a new high school is designed and funded and the bonds for the construction of same will be sold on December the 20th of this year to replace the Wheelwright school facility. I had the privilege of sponsoring the Bill which created the funding for the construction of that school, along with three others that are currently underway at other locations in our County.

To combat the transportation problem, a new segment of road is being constructed to link the existing Route 122 with the new four lane on Route 80, near the vicinity of Minnie, Kentucky. This is approximately thirteen (13) miles from Wheelwright, but it is hoped that in the near future, we will be able to secure monies to upgrade and improve the approximate thirteen (13) miles of Kentucky 122, so as to provide better access.

There are three primary care facilities located in our County, including a regional hospital, which provides an exceptional level of care for the residents of this area and there are physicians' offices scattered throughout the County to supplement the health care needs for our residents. This is a tremendous upgrading of the medical community that has occurred within the past twelve to fifteen years; and, again, I believe it rivals or equals any rural health care system throughout most of this Country.

It is true that drinking water is a problem in that area and only approximately six (6) weeks ago, a contract was let to do a feasibility study by an engineering firm, working in conjunction with the Big Sandy Area Development District and state and local officials to put together a funding package to provide water lines. We hope to secure part of the money as a grant from the Abandoned Mine Lands Program. Because of the bureaucracy of the administration of the program, it is necessary to have the engineering study linking the water needs to mining which occurred prior to the 1977 Act. However, as I pointed out, this work is underway and it is contemplated that a remedy will be found in the near future.

As far as economic development goes, we are struggling to begin our efforts in that regard. On the Sunday prior to the broadcast, a group of county officials from our region met with concerned citizens and adopted the principle of creating the "Eastern Kentucky Job Creation Authority", in which all forty-nine counties identified as being eligible for funding, through the Appalachian Regional Commission, are invited to participate and we plan to ask for matching dollars from the state of Kentucky, to set up the authority which would give expert technical assistance in the area of economic development to those counties that participate; and, we are also planning a June conference whereby corporate executives from many of the large companies that own a great deal of the wealth in Eastern Kentucky will be asked to come and make grants unto the authority, to help stimulate the efforts in this regard. As recently as this fall, our neighboring county of Pike, announced that two (2) new factories would be open in the very near future, with the potential of establishing twelve hundred new, non-coal mine related jobs. We are working very hard in that regard to establish a more positive image for our region and it seems to me that your portrayal of life here is nothing more than a slap in the face as a reward for those efforts and sets us back a great deal.

While visiting our area of America, your journalists, crews and supporting personnel stayed at the Holiday Inn, near Prestonsburg, which rivals any facility of its kind in the nation. It is also widely reported that your personnel visited other community schools and chose not to portray them in the documentary, because "they are too good", which, again, bears evidence to my point that the show was unfair, unprofessional and something that you and the other members of CBS News should be ashamed of.

As a rebuttal to your program, local officials like myself and area leaders, were asked to sit on a panel and discuss the content and we were joined by Governor Wallace Wilkinson, who issued a personal invitation for you to come and view this area, as a whole. I hope that you will accept this challenge, because I think you will agree personally that no balance was shown in the report and that a retraction is in order.

We're not saying that we live in an area that doesn't need nor deserve help. The people of Eastern Kentucky don't want a handout, Mr. Tisch, they want a hand, a helping hand; because, as you correctly pointed out, they are a proud and noble people, who have a strong work ethic and whose social problems can only be cured by the availability of an adequate number of jobs.

During this Holiday Season, I hope that you will give some reflection to this matter and find it in your heart to devote time away from your busy schedule and accept our invitation. I strongly believe that if you will give us that time and attention, you will see that as Paul Harvey is often quoted as saying "the rest of the story" will reveal a more positive side to the situation that exists here in Appalachia and will serve as a more balanced view of the region.

In closing, I'm reminded of a much quoted phrase used by the late Senator Robert F. Kennedy, as follows: "God grant me the serenity to accept the things that I cannot change; the courage to change the things that I can; and the wisdom to know the difference."

I would ask you to search your soul for the courage and the wisdom that is contemplated in that remark. I would appreciate the courtesy of a response and I shall await same.

Sincerely yours,
GREGORY D. STUMBO

Governor Responds To CBS Depiction

Dear Editor,

Every Kentuckian has reason to be upset with CBS Television for the one-sided portrayal of Eastern Kentucky presented on the December 14 segment of 48 Hours.

48 Hours' biased and determined effort to ignore the positive story of Eastern Kentucky's growth and progress is an insult to all of us. Particularly disturbing is the apparent conscious effort to ignore anything positive about Eastern Kentucky. I have talked to countless people who were contacted by 48 Hours and told that their story was "too positive" or "not what we're looking for."

48 Hours ignored the progress we are making to bring jobs to Eastern Kentucky and diversify the economy. 48 Hours ignored the fact that the number of high school graduates attending and completing college is up in Eastern Kentucky. 48 Hours ignored the strong family values supportive communities and churches, and courage of Eastern Kentuckians.

Every day, in every way Eastern Kentucky is getting stronger and better. We're going to keep telling that story even if CBS won't.

I have enclosed the letter I sent to CBS President Laurence Tisch asking him to return to Eastern Kentucky for a more complete and accurate story.
GOV. WALLACE WILKINSON
Frankfort

(Editor's Note: Following is the governor's letter to CBS-TV President Laurence Tisch.)

Dear Mr. Tisch:
I am deeply disturbed at the one-sided view of eastern Kentucky portrayed in "48 Hours" on Thursday evening, December 15, 1989. Your news team obviously spent enough time in eastern Kentucky to see its many positive features. It is simply not fair to ignore the beauty and prosperity that exists in eastern Kentucky and focus solely on the negative. Each one of the segments—poverty, spouse abuse, teen pregnancy, mining and health care—could have been filmed in any state in America.

You would be as indignant as I if a Kentucky television news crew came to New York and focused solely on homelessness, drug dealers, overcrowded living conditions, crime and traffic congestion, without ever mentioning the Statue of Liberty, Carnegie Hall, the Metropolitan Museum and the like.

There is no question that conditions such as you covered in "48 Hours" exist, but there is a new pride and a new spirit in the mountains. Communities throughout eastern Kentucky are diversifying their economies, bringing much needed jobs to the area, as well as improved medical services and addressing the needs in education.

Your "48 Hours" story comes just as eastern Kentucky is breaking away from the stereotypical image of Appalachia. That CBS would air such a story is a travesty.

According to a recent survey by the Times Mirror Company, public confidence in the media as "an impartial observer of the political and social scene" is eroding. This "48 Hours" episode is precisely the kind of reporting that is causing Americans to lose that confidence.

I invite you to join me in Floyd County at your earliest convenience so that I can personally show you the other eastern Kentucky—the one you missed.
WALLACE G. WILKINSON

Dear Editor:

I saw the "48 Hours" on Floyd County and it was all true as far as I'm concerned. I liked it very much. I am not ashamed of anything. I was born and raised in Hueysville, Ky. My family was what they called poor, but we really weren't as far as I know. There's not much work or a way to better ourselves, but then again we have choice to make, and some of us do, some of us don't. But that doesn't make it bad.

It was a good and happy life down there. I can never erase all of the good memories, especially of my first grade teacher Evelyn Horne. I went and stayed a few days with her in Columbus, Ohio. We talked all night about the good times. She gets her Floyd County newspaper and I hope you print this, 'cause I know she would enjoy it.

I'm not very well educated, but I get by. My family still lives there. I go visit them, and not one time in my life have I ever been ashamed of my county or state because I think it has the best people on earth.

I'm proud of my dad, Elbert Scott. He was a good hard worker and my mother was a good woman who did the best she could with us young ones. So thanks for reading my letter.

W'Wright Resident Resents Coverage

Dear Editor,

The other side of Wheelwright, Ky.

First, I live here and am d—proud. Also I have had five children to graduate from Wheelwright High School with honors and all are progressing with their lives, and the state of Kentucky is not supporting them. I feel that you must first have a desire to move out of poverty before you can get out. Most people are born poor, but the majority do get out, and this is the side that was labeled wrongly with this broadcast.

Poor people of Floyd County, boycott CBS. Stop watching trash.

Tribute Recorded

Dear Editor,

Meeting Pam Shingler was not merely a casual meeting for me, it was a memorable experience. She is truly a remarkable woman and journalist. After meeting her, I realized that some dreams can come true through hard work and determination.

When I first met Pam, it was during an interview of the Writer's Review Club at Allen Central High School. It was an interesting experience for me and the other members. When this meeting was over, I stayed behind to get to know Pam. Through our brief talk, I knew that reaching my dream of being a journalist could be attained. I was then filled with determination and hope.

On Nov. 6, I attended an EKEA meeting where Pam was to speak. Her topic was called "Truth is Beautiful, But So Are Lies." Her speech was outstanding. In certain sections of the speech, I was moved to tears. Once again, I lingered afterwards to speak to her, I told Pam how much I enjoyed her speech and having the chance to meet her a second time.

I realized then that Pam was successful in what she did because she was ready to meet life head on. Each day was a challenge to her and she met it with an even greater force of determination. Pam knew what she wanted and worked hard to get it.

I want to thank Pam for giving me a small insight of the person she really is. Through her, I have realized that I can attain almost anything I desire if I work hard enough.

Report To Kentucky

Sen. Wendell Ford

A NEW DECADE, A RENEWAL OF HOPE

As Kentucky families gather once again for the holidays, we should look with hope not only to a new year but also to a new decade.

The 1980s have been a decade of change and challenge at home and abroad. They have brought economic gains to some Americans but harsh setbacks to others. They have challenged the family values that have always been at the heart of this nation's progress. Yet I believe that they are ending on a clear note of hope.

In this holiday season, we can take heart from dramatic changes in the Soviet Union and a renewal of the spirit of freedom and democracy across Eastern Europe. We also can demand that our government continue to support this spirit in China and wherever else it arises on this earth.

We know that we must move very cautiously toward any reductions in military spending. But I hope that we will have the opportunity to use a "peace dividend" to cut the dangerous federal budget deficits stemming from the borrow-and-spend attitudes of the 1980s. I hope that we can use some of that dividend also for improved education to ensure a better future for our young people.

I would like to see us move in many other ways toward the kinder and gentler nation promised by our President.

In my view, this means moving away from trickle-down economic policies that have contributed to homelessness and intolerable levels of poverty in this great nation.

It means a renewal of the timeless values of family, hard work, responsibility for the future and respect for the flag that symbolizes our unity as a strong and compassionate people. It means strong law enforcement. And it means increased help for young people and others jeopardized by economic problems, drug abuse and related criminal activity.

As we enter a new decade, I hope that we are ready to stop giving away valuable technology and start fighting harder against staggering trade deficits and job losses caused in part by unfair foreign trade practices.

I hope that we are ready to turn away from greedy or short-sighted practices, such as the use of worthless junk bonds to take over and sell off job-producing industries. And I hope that we are ready to end an era of incredibly costly fraud and waste in the executive branch of our federal government.

We will have to work harder than ever to reach these and other ambitious goals. But I believe that we are coming out of the 1980s with the will to move in the right direction.

I believe that we have gained a greater appreciation of the value of grassroots energy and innovation in our drive for progress in an increasingly competitive world. We are seeing a much needed resurgence of the volunteer spirit across Kentucky and the nation. And we are learning to make wise and prudent investments in our future through an honest partnership of federal, state and local government and Americans in all walks of life.

The challenges of a new decade must be faced in our next session of Congress. I plan to use my Report to Kentucky in the coming weeks to review some of the accomplishments of the past session and look ahead to what I hope and believe will be a new beginning for all Americans in 1990.

Program Provides Helping Hand

Nursing home residents may sometimes feel forgotten and alone when no family members visit them, but they still have a friend who will safeguard their rights and, most importantly, will be there for words of comfort and cheer. That friend is the Ombudsman.

The Ombudsman program was founded in the 1970s to receive and investigate complaints by nursing home residents.

The program encompasses all aspects of residential care, resident's rights, physician services, questions, or problems with Medicaid or Medicare.

Ombudsman is a Swedish term for a person who acts as a citizen's representative.

Mary Ann Hall, who represents Johnson, Maggoffin, Floyd, Pike and Martin Counties, said the program serves as an advocate for nursing home residents who otherwise might be neglected.

Hall said posters are displayed in the 12 nursing homes located in the five county area.

Any Kentucky nursing home resident who has a question or problem is eligible for the service. This means persons living in skilled nursing homes, intermediate care, personal care, or family care facilities.

Besides being solely for residents of nursing homes, the program can be utilized by family members or a friend of a resident of a long term care facility. A nursing home administrator or employee with a concern about a resident is also encouraged to take advantage of the ombudsman program, Hall said.

Those interested in the program, either as a volunteer or someone needing more information about the services, are encouraged to write the long term care ombudsman program, Cabinet for Human Resources, Division of Aging Services, 275 E. Main St., Frankfort, KY 40621, or call 1-800-372-2991, or 886-2374 and ask for Hall. All calls or inquiries are strictly confidential.

Martin Church Honors Pastor

The Faith Bible Church of Martin recently held its annual Christmas program at the church. The congregation presented the "Nativity Scene" during their Christmas program. A good crowd was in attendance and after the program, dinner was served in the church's fellowship hall. Yvette Depoy sang a solo while her sister Michelle played an instrumental number.

Also at the church's Christmas program, the Rev. Bob Martin was honored on his 80th birthday. Martin has been pastor of the local church since its beginning in 1954.

The church recently called Rev. Don Crisp as assistant pastor. Pastor Crisp will hold the Wednesday night prayer services and fill the pulpit when Martin is absent. Plans are being made for youth camps this summer.

Martin is known to most people around Floyd County as "Preacher Bob". He has been heard for the past 35 years on WDOC-AM on the "Back To The Bible" program on Sundays at 9:30 a.m.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of George Newman would like to extend their appreciation to all those friends, neighbors and loved ones who helped comfort them during their time of sorrow. Thanks to all who sent food, flowers, prayers or spoke comforting words. A special thanks to the Regular Baptist ministers and the Hall Funeral Home for their kind and professional services.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of James Edward Bailey wishes to thank all those friends, neighbors, and family who helped them in any way upon the passing of their loved one. Thanks to those who sent food, flowers, prayers and words of comfort expressed. A special thanks to Revs. Bobby Baldrige, and Jake Jarvis for their comforting words and to the Hall Funeral Home for their kind and efficient services.

Local Farm Bureau Cited

The Floyd County Farm Bureau was recognized for outstanding membership and program achievement during the recent 70th annual Kentucky Farm Bureau convention in Louisville. In addition to receiving a plaque, the local chapter, represented by Eddie Akers, was presented with a Louisville Slugger baseball bat for meeting its 1989 quota for signing up new farmer members. Presenting the bat to Akers, center, were 4th District Congressman and former star baseball pitcher Jim Bunning, left, and Kentucky Farm Bureau president Ray Mackey.

Floyd Extension Delegates Attend Meeting

Floyd County delegates attended the recent Area Extension Council meeting with representatives of nine other county council members and representatives of University of Kentucky Extension Administration. Attending, left to right, were Bob Walls, area extension director; Helen Boyd, vice president of Floyd County Homemakers Council and secretary of the Northeast Area Extension Council; Delphia Hicks, Floyd County 4-H Council; Don Hicks, vice chairman of the Floyd County Extension District Board, and Dr. Walter Walla, assistant director of UK Cooperative Extension Service.

Finance Chairman

US Sen. Mitch McConnell, left, met recently with John Triplett of Martin to discuss future campaigning. Triplett is Floyd County finance chairman for the senator.

Illness Tied To Supplement, Physician Reporting Sought

Public health officials are warning Kentuckians about the dangers of L-tryptophan, a dietary supplement, and asking physicians to help them track a disease brought about by taking the product.

According to the Cabinet for Human Resources spokesperson Janet Williams Hoover, L-tryptophan is an over-the-counter product used to treat insomnia and premenstrual syndrome and is sometimes prescribed by physicians. Its use has been linked to eosinophilia-myalgia syndrome (EMS), a disease characterized by severe muscle pain and flu-like illness. EMS can be fatal.

Kentucky public health officials know of five cases diagnosed so far in the state; 775 cases had been reported nationwide as of Dec. 8.

"We advise people who have been taking the supplement to stop using L-tryptophan immediately because of the serious health problems that can result," said Reginald Finger, MD, acting state epidemiologist.

"We're also requesting that Kentucky physicians who diagnose EMS to report cases to the state health department," said Finger. "This will be instrumental in the federal investigation of the problem."

Although L-tryptophan has been sold for several years, health problems linked to its use have been reported only recently. This has led federal scientists to believe that L-tryptophan has been contaminated during the manufacturing process.

"Research has not yet established why taking L-tryptophan results in EMS," said Finger. "This is why we're trying to locate Kentucky patients willing to give their medical histories and samples of the tablets they've been taking to the federal Centers for Disease Control to aid the inquiry."

Federal researchers want to know how long victims of the disease took L-tryptophan, how much they took and when symptoms of the disease first appeared.

They also need samples of tablets to determine what, if any, contaminant is present in the supplement.

Common symptoms of the disease include severe muscle and joint pain and a flu-like illness. A blood test will show an elevated white blood cell count. Other reported symptoms include swelling of the arms and legs, skin rash and possible fever.

"Anyone who has taken L-tryptophan and who has these symptoms should see a physician and tell the doctor about the use of the supplement," said Finger.

The product is marketed under various brand names, and the warning applies to any product whose sole or major ingredient is L-tryptophan. So far, none of the cases investigated by federal scientists appears to involve multi-ingredient.

Finger points out that other over-the-counter products and prescription medicines are available to treat problems for which people take L-tryptophan.

"Just because we're telling them to stop taking this particular product does not mean that people have to suffer — there are alternatives that physicians can suggest," he said.

L-tryptophan was recalled by the federal Food and Drug Administration but may still be on the market in health food and drug stores and supermarkets.

Dropping In For Dropouts

Stan Dickson, right, vice president for South Central Bell's Kentucky operations, recently presented a check for $225,000 to Michael Harrelld, chairman of the Council on Higher Education for the program, Destination Graduation. The dropout prevention program, run through the University of Kentucky Research Foundation, involves 13 public and private colleges and universities and 40 Appalachian area school systems. The telephone company, which serves much of Floyd County, also recently gave a check for $250 to the Floyd County Literacy Council.

Fruit Trees Available From 4-H Council

The Floyd County 4-H Council, assisted by the County Extension Office, will accept orders for fruit trees and root stock, Jan. 2-15.

Orders from Floyd County will be grouped with other counties to permit persons who want a small number of plants to take advantage of a reduced commercial rate, said extension agent Gene Ball.

Apple varieties that will be available include Rogers Red McIntosh, Redcoat Cortland, Red Chief, Red Delicious, Moothee Yellow Delicious, Lowspur Rome Beauty, Jonnee Jonathan, Staybright Winesap, Redmax McIntosh and Imperial Gala. The plants are two to three feet in height, Ball said.

Peach varieties are Harbelle,

Redhaven, Reliance, Madison and Belle of Georgia. The available plum is Stanley. Pear trees are D'Anjou and Moonglow. Ball adds that two different varieties of pears are necessary for cross pollination.

Cost of the apple, peach and pear trees is $6 each, and plum trees are $7.

Payment will be taken with the order. Apple grafting rootstock is M7A semi-dwarf rootstock and costs 75 cents each.

Order forms may be picked up at the extension office in the Floyd County Courthouse annex. For more information, call 886-2668.

MSU To Host Seminar On Opening A Business

The Small Business Development Center of Morehead State University's School of Business and Economics will continue its series of business-related seminars on Jan. 7 with a seminar titled "Pre-Business Orientation."

The session begins at 6:30 p.m. in the Butler Hall conference room at MSU.

The seminar is designed for persons who are considering going into business, according to instructor Ernest Begley II, general management consultant and center director.

Among topics to be covered are the definition of a business, analysis of business failures, legal considerations, break-even analysis and business loans.

Realtors Seminar On Tap At College

A real estate education seminar highlighting legal issues is planned for Jan. 3 at Prestonsburg Community College by the Kentucky Real Estate Commission.

Sessions are set for 7-9:30 p.m. in room 104 of the Pike building at PCC. Topics are "Legal Aspects for the Real Estate Professional" and "Appraisal Legislation Briefing."

Speaker for the legal portion of the program will be John L. Ackman Jr., general counsel for the KREC. The last part of the program will consist of an overview of the proposed appraisal licensure and certification legislation and will be conducted by the commission's Appraisal Task Force.

The seminar is free and open to all licensees. For more information, contact the KREC, 10200 Linn Station Rd., Suite 201, Louisville 40223, or call 502/425-4273.

A $5 pre-registration fee is due Jan. 3. Registrations may be mailed to MSU's Small Business Development Center, Butler Hall #24, Morehead, KY 40351-1689. For more information, call 783-2077.

Special arrangements for the handicapped will be made if requested in advance, Begley said.

The Morehead center is partially funded by the US Small Business Administration.

State Official Calls For Accountability

State Auditor Bob Babbage has recommended that special taxing districts be as accountable as county governments for the public funds they receive and spend.

Babbage made his remarks before the recent meeting of the legislature's Interim Joint Committee on Counties and Special Districts.

Babbage said that Kentucky has a total of 1,348 special districts of which 570 exercise their taxing authority.

According to Revenue Cabinet figures, Floyd Countians paid a total of $320,528 in special district levies in 1987, Babbage said.

The special districts include a wide range of service providing entities ranging from airport boards to water districts. Fire protection districts are the largest single group. Library and public health districts are the next largest group.

"Special districts collected a total of $40.6 million in 1987," Babbage told the committee. "That figure equals 49 percent of the funds collected for county services," he said, noting that this figure excludes school taxes.

Babbage told legislators that sheriffs collected a total of $83.5 million or county governments that same year.

Questions about special taxing districts' accountability had been brought to Babbage's attention by legislators, organization leaders and citizen calls to his KY-ALERT toll-free line.

The State Auditor told the committee that his review of special districts began with fire protection districts, which had been one of the major areas of citizen concern.

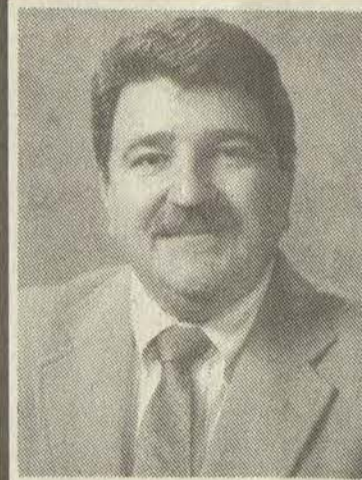

He said his review found one larger district with an annual budget of $1 million lacking audits for four years. State law requires an annual audit of special taxing districts with annual budgets of $500,000 and above.

Babbage also told the committee that he had met with representatives of 11 organizations which represent officials connected with special districts. The representatives also expressed their concern for improved accountability of local districts, Babbage said.

Babbage recommended one agency be designated to document special districts' compliance with laws pertaining to financial and operational information. He also suggested the legislature consider granting the Auditor of Public Accounts the authority to conduct audits of any special taxing districts.

The Auditor of Public Accounts is currently required to conduct or approve audits of county fiscal courts, sheriffs, clerks, and property valuation administrators.

Refund Checks May Await Some Residents

The names of Kentucky taxpayers to whom federal tax refund checks were issued in 1989 but returned to the IRS as "undeliverable" have been released by William E. Palzkill, district director of the Internal Revenue Service.

The list includes 427 individual tax refund checks totaling $162,519.79, and the average refund check is $380.60.

According to Palzkill, the taxpayers may have moved or changed their last names during the year and failed to notify the IRS. Sometimes the handwriting on the tax return may simply be illegible.

When a refund is returned by the Postal Service, the IRS attempts to find the taxpayer and deliver the checks, but there are always some who cannot be found, according to Palzkill.

Palzkill also noted that electronic filing will be available again to taxpayers in 1990. Taxpayers who file electronically can elect to have their refund deposited directly into their bank account thereby eliminating the possibility of a lost, stolen or undeliverable refund check.

Taxpayers who are expecting a refund and have moved or changed their name during the year are encouraged to contact the IRS. Kentucky taxpayers can telephone IRS toll free at 1-800-424-1040 to claim their refund.

Cold First Half Brings On Freeze For Prestonsburg

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The temperatures outside of the T.W. Oliver Memorial Gym at Pikeville High School weren't anything to brag about with the thermometer hovered close to the 0 degree mark, as the Lexington Lafayette Generals rolled past the Prestonsburg Blackcats, 80-50, in the first game of a triple header in the Pikeville Kiwanis Holiday Classic last week.

First half scoring for the Blackcats was about as cold as the outside temperatures. The Blackcats could only managed 14 points in the half, scoring seven points in each of the first and second quarters. Prestonsburg turned the ball over on the first four possessions and accumulated 10 turnovers in the first quarter. Prestonsburg took better care of the ball the rest of the way, committing only 14 turnovers for the game.

"The kids came out scared," Prestonsburg coach Gordon Parido explained. "We tried hard all week to get the team settled down and be ready for this one."

The Generals, who are now 7-0 on the year, employed a full court press that caused the Blackcats to turn the ball over. Prestonsburg took the opening tip off and immediately threw it away. George "General George" Gentry then hit a three-pointer and the Generals were off and running.

Gentry hit a 15 footer and All-State candidate James Crutcher scored on a put back. Then Gentry hit another three-pointer to put Lafayette up 10-0.

Prestonsburg got on the scoreboard at the 3:47 mark when Chris Slone hit a base line jumper from 11 feet out. After Crutcher's three pointer, Slone hit another soft jumper to make it 12-4.

The tight 2-3 zone defense of Lafayette began to pick off the Blackcats' passes as they closed down the passing lanes. When the Blackcats tried passing crosscourt the Generals got some easy lay ups to take a 20-7 first quarter lead.

"Our press took Prestonsburg out of their game," the Lafayette coach stated. "We took control, created turnovers and converted on the other end. We got the ball into Crutcher and he had a good night."

Lafayette scored the last 12 points of the second quarter to take a 45-14 lead at the half. Crutcher scored eight points in the second stanza. Clay Goode also had eight second period points.

"We didn't take the ball to the basket like we should have," Parido said. "We were not aggressive enough and Lafayette smelled that and took advantage of it."

The Blackcats were a five-point better team in the third period than Lafayette, as Prestonsburg began to handle the ball a little better. Ray Collins hit a three-pointer opening the third stanza. Prestonsburg had a hard time in trying to contain Crutcher as the 6' 6" senior began to hit from the three-point range with consistency. With 1:38 remaining in the third quarter, Prestonsburg outscored the Generals, 10-0, but trailed 61-35 at the end of the third.

"Our kids were just intimidated by Lafayette," explained the Prestonsburg coach. "Really I don't know what kind of team I've got yet."

"Our defense kept them out of sync," explained the Lafayette coach. "We made some early steals and we were fortunate to turn them into points."

"Crutcher is such a gifted athlete, and he has such a good relationship to the game of basketball."

Crutcher has scored 31, 31, 35, and 29 in his last four games. Against Prestonsburg he tossed in a game high 35 points that earned him Most Valuable Player honors. He hit four three-pointers in the contest.

Besides Crutcher's 35, "General" Gentry tossed in 16 points. Sophomore Clay Goode added 10 points.

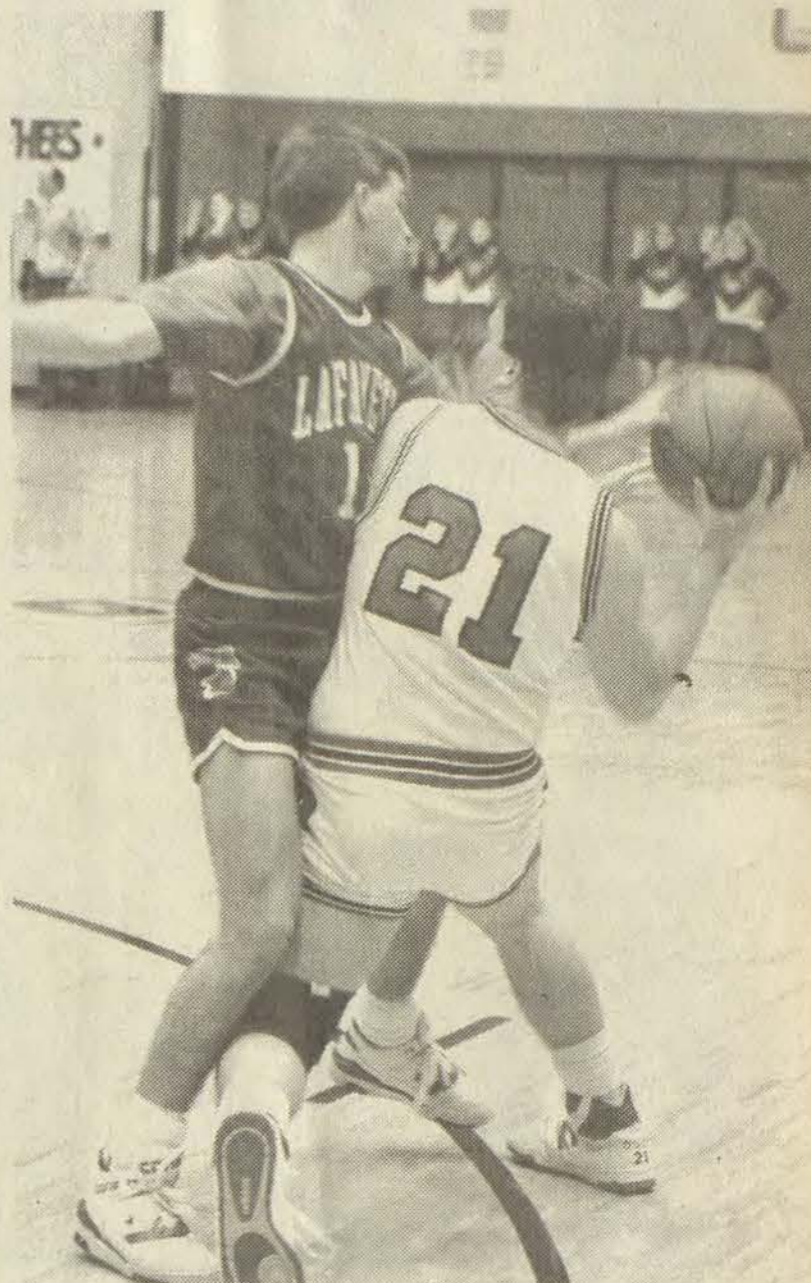

Leading scorer for Prestonsburg was Chris Slone with 15 points. Ray Collins added 13 for the Blackcats including three three-pointers. Kevin Adams and Joe Burchett had five rebounds in the game. Stuart Robinson, who played a good floor game, pulled down four boards. Adams also had three assists in the game.

Prestonsburg evens its record at 2-2 and will travel to Lyon County for the Lyon County Invitational this week.

Gearheart Leads Bobcats Past Wheelwright

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Betsy Layne center Sam Stewart got into the Bobcats' offense early and tossed in 24 points while on the receiving end of several Betsy Layne fast breaks, as the 6' 5" senior ran the court well to help his team to a 87-68 victory over county rival Wheelwright.

Game high honors went to guard Adam Gearheart with 28 points. Gearheart hit four three-pointers in the game.

Wheelwright held a 8-6 lead with 4:40 remaining in the first period when Betsy Layne went on a 16-2 run to build a 12-point advantage at 20-8. Stewart scored 10 points in the first quarter, scoring from outside and inside.

Wheelwright, led by Brad Compton and Harold Johnson, charged back in the second period to close to within four points at 35-31. Compton scored eight points in the period while Johnson was scoring 10. Both Compton and Johnson began to control the offensive boards by getting some key rebounds and put backs. The Trojans stayed close to Betsy Layne and trailed at the half, 40-35.

"Our defense did a good job for us tonight," Junior Newsome, Betsy Layne coach, said. "We got some easy baskets off our defense. Stewart got involved early and we are starting to look inside more. We established our game early."

"Adam (Gearheart) showed that he was capable of scoring," the Bobcats mentor went on to explain. "We took advantage of their turnovers, capitalized on them."

Newsome lauded his team for its unselfish play and for playing together as a team.

"We are farther along than I expected we would be this time of year," he stated. "I like the way we are playing defense."

"Betsy Layne's defensive press killed us," Wheelwright Trojans mentor Monroe Jones said. "We made a lot of mental mistakes. We are a lot better basketball team than we showed here tonight. Again we had a 10-day lay off."

Does this affect a team having to lay off for 10 days? "It should only affect a team at the start of a game," Jones said. "After that they should be able to play at a quicker pace."

Johnson led the Trojans with 21 points. Compton finished the game with 14, and senior Bobby Hood added 10.

Stewart had 15 rebounds in the game of the Bobcats — 10 offensive and five defensive. Phillip King, who scored 13 points, hauled down eight rebounds. Gearheart had five assists in the game to go with his 28 points.

Betsy Layne will host Johnson Central Tuesday night in regional match up. Wheelwright will travel to Allen Central for a conference game also on Tuesday evening.

Upset-Minded Rebels Fall To Clay County, 50-39

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

"I've been to Clay County before and I know what to expect when I go down there," is the way Allen Central coach Johnny Martin summed up his road trip to Clay County, 6-0, last Friday night.

The Rebels were upset-minded as they took to the hardwood at Clay County, nearly pulling off the upset. However, Clay County scored the last 10 points of the game in the last 2:24 seconds of the game to defeat Coach Martin's Rebels, 50-39.

The score was much closer than the final margin might indicate. Trailing 40-39 with 2:24 remaining, the host team ran off 10 unanswered points. The Rebels did not score in the last 4:30 of the game.

"We had some good shots at the basket," the Rebel mentor explained. "Spurlock, who is a 90 percent shooter at the foul line, missed a one-and-one that would have given us the lead. They rebounded the basketball and went down and scored a three-pointer and the man was fouled and that put us five points down."

Clay County had won 66 straight games at home before the Rebels came calling. According to Martin, his team did not hold the ball against Clay County.

"Clay County is a spurt team. They can get a run against you if you let them. We worked the ball and looked for the good shot. We just didn't shoot as quick as we normally do. Joey (Conn) picked up two fouls in the first two minutes of the game and I was worried about the foul situation. The last time we played down there, I had seven players foul out."

Melvin Gray led Clay County in scoring with 16 points. Smith and Blair tossed in 14 and 11 points, respectively.

"Overall we played a good ball game," Martin stated. "Our defense was good and we had a good offensive outing. With a break here and there we could have won the game. In the final two minutes of the game we were forced to foul. Our defense held Clay County to one three-point field goal. They usually get a lot of three-

Lady Trojans Drop 58-43 Conference Game To Cats

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Wheelwright Lady Trojans traveled to Betsy Layne for a Floyd County conference game with the Lady Bobcats Friday night. Wheelwright, the defending 58th District champions, fell to the home team, 58-43.

The score is not indicative of the closeness of this game. The Lady Trojans, playing their first conference game of the season, stayed with the taller Lady Cats until the middle of the final quarter.

Brenda Hamilton scored a game-high 18 points, and Jamie Smith tossed in 14 points to lead the Lady Bobcats.

The down fall for the Lady Trojans was on the offensive boards. Wheelwright allowed the Lady Cats several attempts at the basket while failing to block out underneath. Betsy Layne pulled down 34 offensive rebounds in the game and had a total of 54 boards in the game. Smith had 13 rebounds for Betsy Layne, seven being offensive rebounds. Smith scored off five of the seven rebounds.

Hamilton pulled down 15 rebounds for Betsy Layne while Shelia Hall had nine rebounds. Melissa Bailey had eight.

"We had some good help off the bench tonight," Betsy Layne coach Gary Hopkins said. "We scored off their turnovers and got some good weak side help on defense."

Betsy Layne led at the first stop, 8-6, and at the half, 21-19, as both teams scored 13 points each in the second stanza.

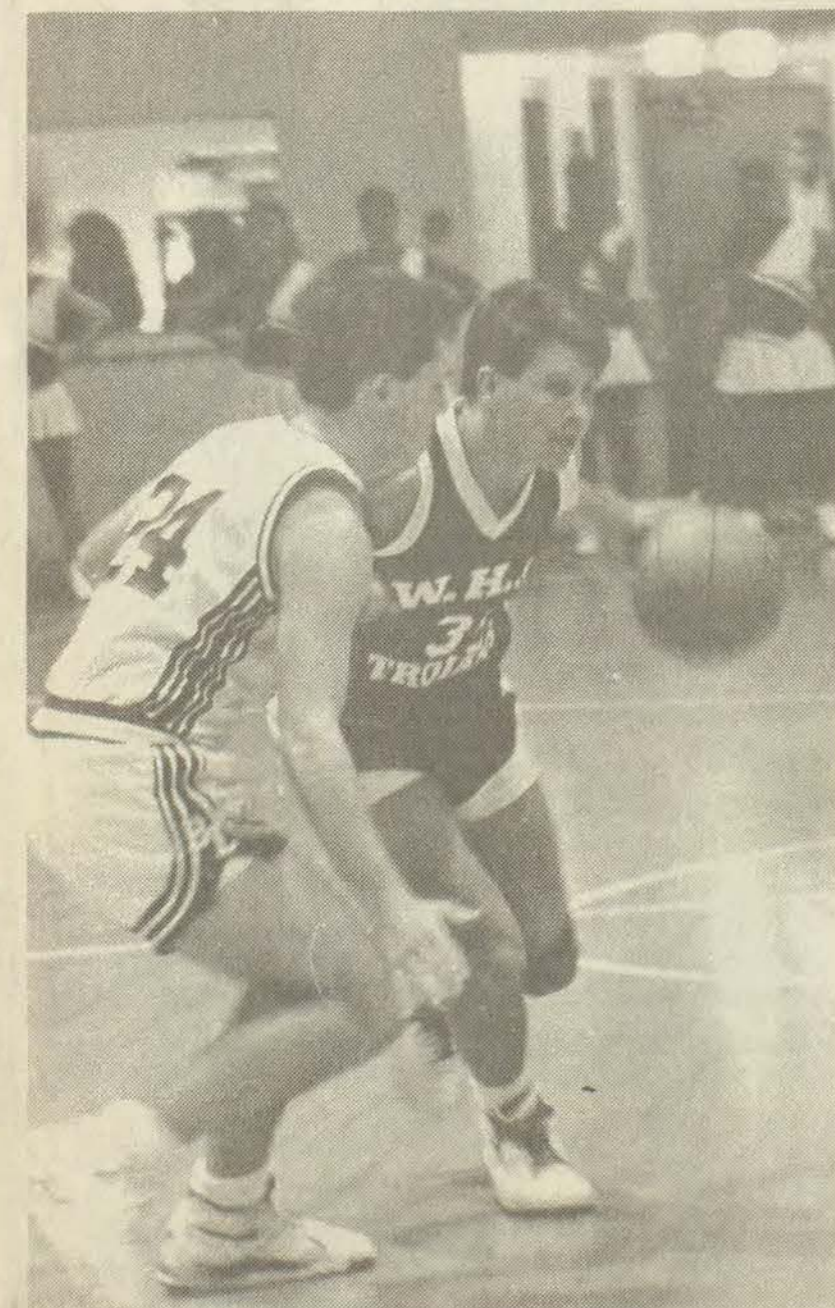

"I told my players at half time that the second and third chances at the basket were killing us," Wheelwright coach Donnie Daniels stated. "All you can do is teach them how to block out, you can't make them."

Missed free throws in the second quarter for Wheelwright did not help the offensive effort. The Lady Trojans missed three straight one-and-one bonuses while trailing 16-13. Becky Allen hit a three-pointer to close the lead to one, 17-16.

In the third period, the Lady Trojans went on top, 24-23, on another Allen three-pointer. Betsy Layne then ran off six unanswered points to take a 29-24 lead. Betsy Layne held a 38-32 lead at the end of the third stanza.

"Overall we played good basketball," Daniels said. "For three quarters we could have played with anybody in the county. Even until the middle of the fourth period we were still in the game. I told my girls that a lack of conditioning and a lack of concentration hurt them in the final quarter."

"We went to our trapping defense and that tired us out there in the fourth period. That's not our game, See LADY TROJANS, Page 5

Not This Way

Adam Gearheart (24) checks Steven Johnson (32) of Wheelwright in a conference game at Betsy Layne Friday night. The Trojans fell to the Bobcats, 87-68, with Gearheart getting 28 points.

Devils Fall To Henry Clay, 102-58, In Holiday Classic

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Pikeville Kiwanis Holiday Classic at the Pikeville High School gym last week was a great place to showcase basketball players. Three teams from the Lexington area were invited to the mountains to participate in the first Holiday Classic, and some of the state's top players demonstrated their basketball abilities. One of those players was Keith Gregor. Gregor, just a 6' 5" sophomore, tossed in 31 points in leading Henry Clay to a 102-58 victory over the McDowell Daredevils. Gregor thrilled the crowd with some slam dunks during the game.

McDowell played the Blue Devils close in the early part of the first quarter behind the scoring of Scott Shannon and Marc Hall. Senior Kip Kirkpatrick scored first for Henry Clay on a nice move underneath. Hall answered with a 8-footer to tie the score at 2-2. Gregor hit a three-pointer and a two-pointer to make it 7-2. Shannon's 12-footer from the corner made it 9-6 and Hall brought McDowell to within one, 9-8, with a basket underneath.

At the 4:18 mark, Henry Clay made a 19-4 run and went on top 28-12 as the Blue Devils were getting two and three shots at the basket. Kirkpatrick had 10 points during the spurt.

"We just made too many turnovers," McDowell coach Johnny Ray Turner explained. "We are inexperienced and in too big of a hurry on offense."

According to coach Turner, Henry Clay was out of its league. "We need to play some teams on the same level we are and win those games to build our players' confidence," the McDowell mentor said of his team, looking for a first win. "We've had four games postponed and when we reschedule them the schedule is going to be crowded."

Henry Clay controlled the boards in the second quarter as the Blue Devils began to tip in missed shots. The Blue Devils' defense was just too tight for the Daredevils as they began to force shots. McDowell had beaten Henry Clay's zone press on several occasions, as Shannon got behind the press; however, the passes were not sharp for McDowell.

"We'll just have to regroup and hope we learned something from this game," Turner said. "It is good to play teams the caliber of a Henry Clay. I believe it helps a team like ours. It may not show up now, but it will later in the year. I still believe we are going to be a decent team."

Gregor's 31 points led the Blue Devils in scoring. Kirkpatrick added 21 and Rodney James had nine points. Henry Clay goes to 4-2 on the season.

McDowell placed four players in double figures led by Marc Hall's 16 points. Stacy Hall added 13 while Keith Shelton and Shannon tossed in 10 each. Shannon also had nine rebounds in the game while Shelton pulled down six and had three block shots. Shannon had four steals in the game. McDowell was guilty of committing 30 turnovers. Henry Clay turned the ball over 14 times.

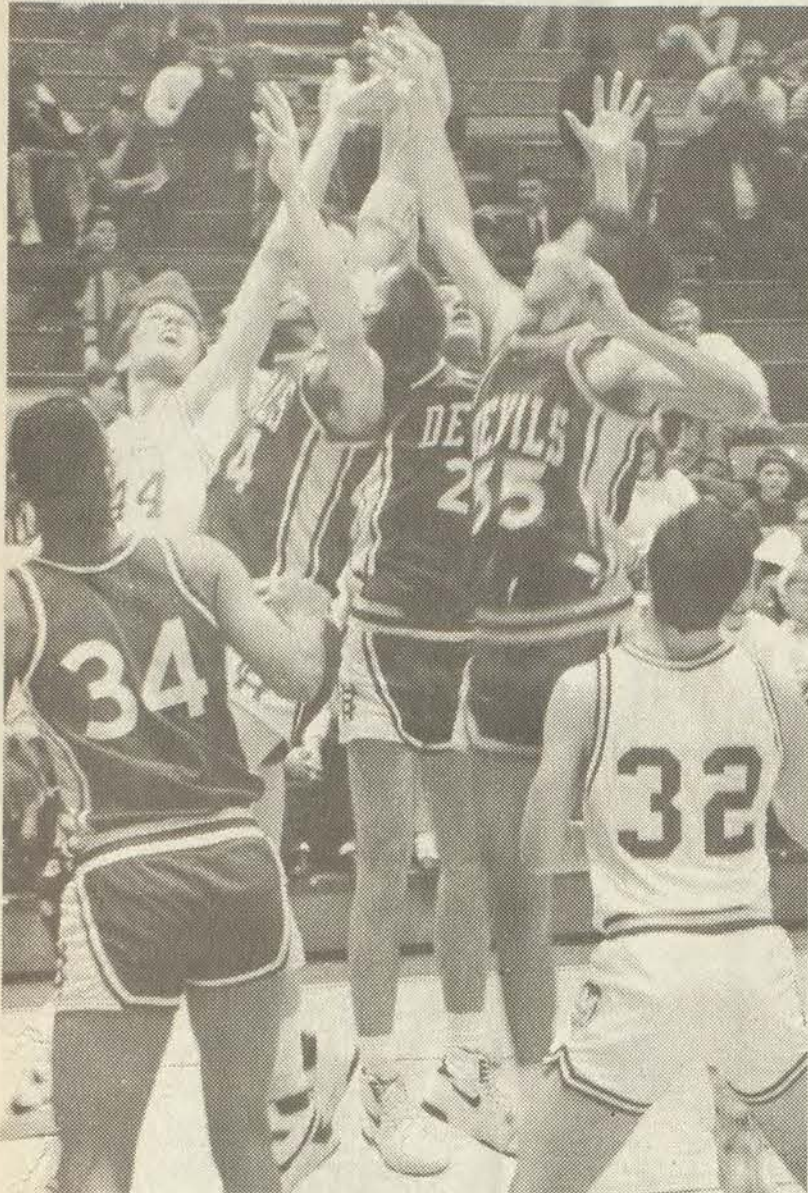

The Daredevils are 0-5 on the season and will host Betsy Layne tomorrow night at McDowell for a top conference game.

Incentive regulation reduces telephone charges

When many South Central Bell customers in Floyd County open their bills this month, they will notice a 30-cent reduction in their charge for Trouble Determination Service. The decrease is a result of an incentive regulation plan that automatically triggers rate adjustments when SCB's earnings exceed or fall below a certain level. The lowering of the monthly Trouble Determination Service charge amounts to a $1.8 million annual reduction in statewide revenues for SCB.

The incentives regulation plan, approved by the Kentucky Public Service Commission in September 1988, provided for an immediate 20 to 35 cent reduction in the monthly charge per customer for local residence telephone service. Under the plan, SCB guaranteed stable local rates for at least two years.

Through incentive regulation, Floyd County customers have the opportunity to share in SCB's good performance in the form of rate reductions and guaranteed stable local rates through at least August 31, 1990. By allowing SCB to keep a portion of its earnings above the authorized range, the plan gives the telephone company further incentive to operate efficiently. If company earnings fall below the authorized range, an upward adjustment in rates would occur.

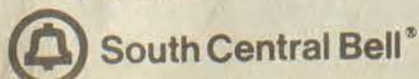

Incentive regulation is not deregulation. Both SCB and the Kentucky PSC remain committed to ensuring reasonable rates and quality telephone service.

The incentive regulation plan represents a more efficient and innovative way of regulating SCB's business. It allows our Floyd County customers and SCB both to come out winners.

Your Customer Guide has the answers.

The next time you have a question about your telephone service or about doing business with South Central Bell, check the Customer Guide in the front of your SCB telephone directory. The Customer Guide is packed with useful information on making long-distance calls, paying your bill, ordering any optional services available to you and a wealth of other topics. Keep your Customer Guide in mind when you need information about your telephone service - you'll probably find the answer there!

On behalf of South Central Bell and the Big Sandy Area Telephone Pioneers of America, I'd like to wish everyone the happiest and safest of holiday seasons.

Johnson Scores

Harold Johnson (42) of Wheelwright scores two of his 21 points against Sam Stewart (45) of Betsy Layne last Friday night in 58th District basketball. Wheelwright suffered a 87-68 loss to the Bobcats.

Hey, Put Me In, Coach!

Ahhhh, coaches! Everybody loves them. Everybody understands them. They are some of the easiest-going people you would ever want to meet. They know how to control their temper. Their players admire them for who they are as they grit their teeth and slam their fist against the locker. Coaching. More people ought to get into it. It's easy. Short hours. Good pay with no pressure. An understanding wife or husband (where applicable). Everything is rosy. Understanding fans. Understanding players. Understanding principals. Hey, even the referees love you!

The games are entertaining to a coach. He just sits on the bench. Never has to raise his voice. After all, coaching is supposed to be fun. A little voice from the far end of the bench in a quiet way says "Hey coach, put me in."

The school secretary doesn't mind taking all messages for the good old coach. After all she doesn't have to much to do anyway.

Coaches don't have personality clashes. After all he's a coach. When players don't attend practices or attend in body only, hey, the coach understands.

Maybe a player's girl friend found out there were other people in the world and now the star player has been set aside. The coach knows all the answers because, you see, he's "coach". He knows how to comfort his star player. He simply tells him, just in case the player doesn't know, there are other "fish in the sea."

When mom wants to know why little Roy isn't getting to play more, the coach doesn't worry. You see, he has the answers. He's coach. "Well, you see, Margaret, ol' Roy hasn't really shown he can play with the big boys yet. But he is improving. Why yesterday he learned what end of the bench he was to sit on." Now Margaret understands. Coach has the answers.

Coaching! A life of ease. Quietness. Fun. Road trips. Of course, we all have to wake from our dreams sometimes.

It is refreshing in this day and time to do a story on an individual who is as well thought of as Jeff Riley, a high school All-Stater at Wheelwright High School in the mid '70s.

In 1977 Riley led the state in scoring with a 28 points per game average.

"Jeff nosed out a player in Louisville for the scoring title," former Wheelwright mentor Frankie Francis explained. Riley played under the tutoring of Francis during his high school days at Wheelwright.

Riley says what he remembers most about his playing days at Wheelwright are his first and last games.

"My first game was at Hindman as a freshman. I was scared to death. I remember the first shot I took was an air ball," the All-Stater said, laughing. "I got nine points in my first game."

"The last game I played was in the semifinals of the regional tournament against Virgie. We were 24 and six that year and won the district tournament. That was the year that Virgie began its dynasty in basketball."

"Jeff was one of the top players I had ever coached," Francis said. "He is a super human being and is very knowledgeable of the game of basketball. He was an intelligent and dedicated player in high school. When Jeff was 10 years old, he would wake me up on Saturday mornings bouncing a basketball, going to the gym."

"I remember in my first game against Hindman, Herbie Stamper played for them. He was averaging something like 41 points a game at the time and my buddy Dewey Jamerison guarded him and held him to 19 points. We put a box and chaser on him," Riley remarked.

Riley then went on to play basketball at Georgia Tech on a basketball scholarship.

"Jeff was a much sought after player," explained Francis. "After suffering a severe eye injury, Jeff transferred to Morehead State."

"I remember the rivalry we had with McDowell," the former Wheelwright player remembered. "We were big rivalries, but players from both teams became good friends. Some of my best friends today are former McDowell players. I think we all became close because of the closeness of Pete Grigsby Jr., coach at McDowell, and Frankie."

Riley says that Grigsby is one of the toughest coaches that he had to play against.

"When we played Wheelwright we had to design our defense to stop

Where Are They Now?

By Ed Taylor, Sports Editor

Jeff. He was such a good outside shooter we had to play him tight on defense," Grigsby stated. "We would double team him and make him pass the ball and take our chances with whoever he passed to."

"Jeff was a very unselfish player," Francis said, "and he did a lot of our scoring, but he was a good passer also. If he made a good pass and the one on the receiving end couldn't handle it, he would say 'that was my fault' when it wasn't. He was very unselfish."

"The kids Jeff coaches now are the best behaved kids I have ever met."

Jeff relates well to them and he is a credit to the coaching profession," says his former coach.

Riley says that he picked up his coaching style from former and opposing coaches, such as Francis and Grigsby. However, Riley has memories of his grade school coach, as well.

"Buddy Couch was a big influence on my coaching style. He could coach the game of basketball. When he coached us at Osborne, we hardly ever lost a game." Couch became an assistant to Francis at Wheelwright. "Buddy was the John Wooden of grade school basketball," Riley explained.

Riley says he remembers other coaches such as Tommy Boyd at Betsy Layne; Howard Wallen at Allen Central, and Freddie Setser at Prestonsburg.

"Frankie helped me an awful lot in high school. He promoted me and help me earn All-State honors. I realize now that I am a coach how political things like these are. I appreciated all that Frankie did for me and I want to help my players the same way," Riley said.

What is Riley's philosophy in coaching? "I want to help these young men to be the best that they are capable of being. To see them improve every day in practices and games. If they will do that, they will be a success in life."

Jeff Riley, former All-Stater from Wheelwright. What is he doing now? He is head boys basketball coach at Elliott County.

Louisville's Doctors of Dunk Have Returned

U of L's renewed "Doctors of Dunk" have recorded 18 dunks in their last two games. The Cards are averaging over six crowd-pleasing slams a game, led by Jerome Harmon's 14 slams. The original Doctors of Dunk, the Cards' 1980 NCAA Championship team, slammed 84 dunks. This season's unit has recorded 55 dunks in just nine games. Darrell Griffith, nicknamed Dr. Dunkenstein, led the 1980 squad with 40 dunks.

Ky. All "A" Classic Looking For Angels

The Kentucky All "A" Classic will accept a limited number of sponsors from each of the 16 regions involved in the tournament. In return, those sponsors will be given name recognition and the prestige of being associated with the beginning of a new tradition in Kentucky high school sports.

Long John Silver's Seafood Shoppe, owned by Jerrico Inc., is sponsoring the tickets to the tournament, and Turfland Mall is sponsoring the cheerleader contest.

Regional sponsorships are still available, as are some other activities normally covered by sponsors, such as trophies.

The Kentucky All "A" Classic is a non-profit organization and contributions made to the tournament are tax-deductible. Any funds left over after tournament expenses are paid back to the schools as academic grants.

Further information may be obtained from Stan Steidel, c/o Dayton High School, 200 Jackson Street, Dayton, KY 41074, 606-261-4357.

Berea Big League Seeks Tourney Teams

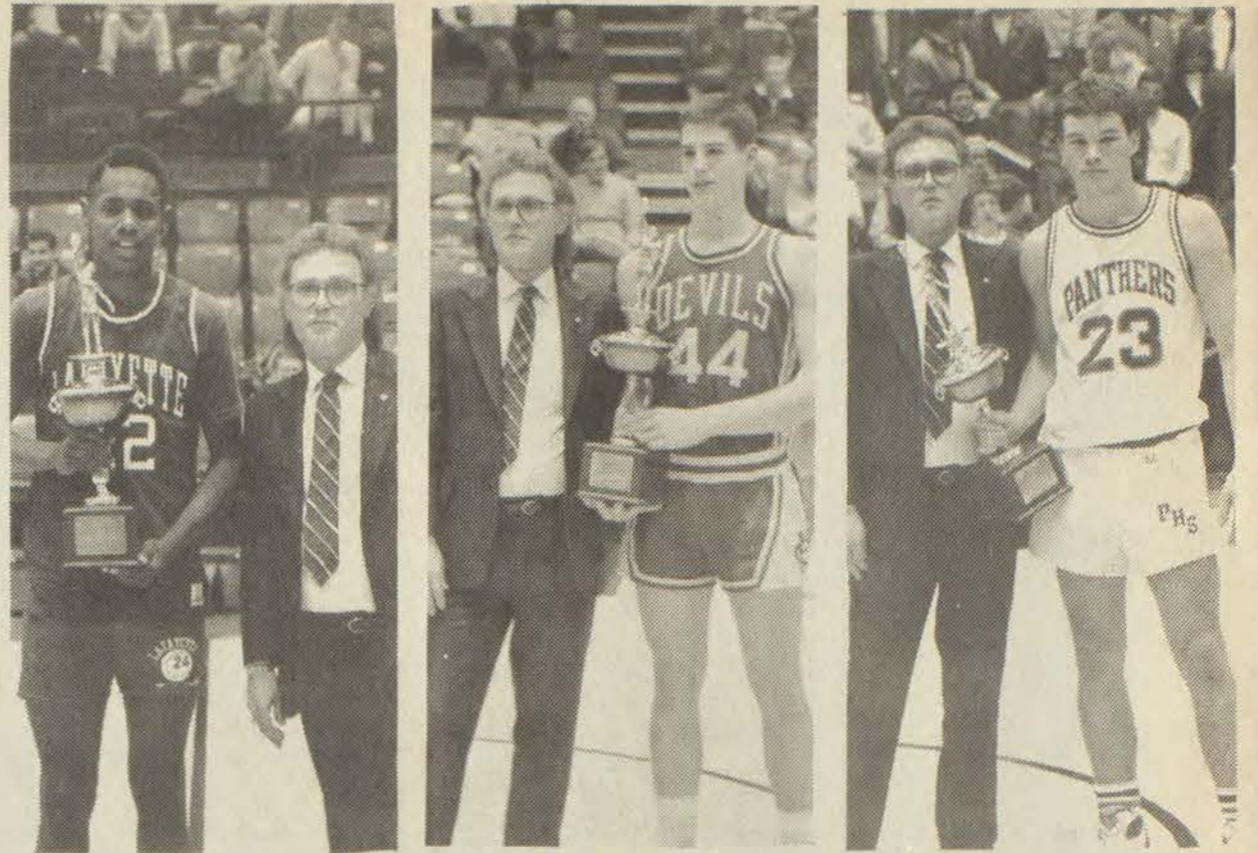

The Berea Big League (16-18) baseball team, formerly Berea American Legion Post 50, will host an invitational tournament June 16-18. The tournament will serve as a fund raiser for the team's uniforms and travel expense this summer.

Teams interested in entering should contact Jim McAlister, Box 25, Berea, KY, or call 606-986-7224 (nights) or 606-986-9326.

Teams will be assured of at least two or three games in the tournament. Entry fee will be $75. The first 12 teams will be taken.

Any team wishing to play Berea during the regular schedule should also contact McAlister at the above address/numbers.

Most Valuable Players

James Crutchers (left), Lafayette; Keith Gregor (center), Henry Clay, and Johnny Hale, Pikeville, were named the most valuable players in the Holiday Classic held at the Pikeville gym last week. Prestonsburg, McDowell and Pikeville played against three Lexington schools in the classic. Bryan Station also represented the city of Lexington.

Bassin' with the Pros

If you limit your cold water bass fishing strictly to deep water jigs, you're usually missing a lot of alternative opportunities that often yield some excellent action.

Spinnerbaits, crankbaits, even topwater chuggers and poppers can, at times, be used in cold water.

"The overall key is the weather itself," explains Johnson Outboards Pro Staff angler Fredda Lee, who fishes year-round, regardless of the weather conditions.

"Very often, winter weather is broken by several warm, sunny days between fronts," she says. "These types of days can cause bass to move into more shallow water and make them more active."

"You still have to retrieve your lures slowly and deliberately, but sometimes the activity level of bass on days like this can be a pleasant surprise."

For example, says the attractive Johnson Outboards pro, bass may be enticed to hit a topwater popper or chugger fished over shallow moss, even in the dead of winter. Likewise, spinnerbaits and crankbaits can often draw strikes around rocky riprap.

"Vegetation usually holds bass year-round," says Lee. "It provides cover, warmer water, and food, so the bass don't really need to leave. They're just not as active."

"Instead of really popping a plug across the top of a mossbed, work it very slowly with a lot of pauses. You may need to switch to a smaller lure and make repeated casts, but don't ever start thinking a bass isn't there."

Lee works crankbaits in the same deliberate manner. She likes to fish points, stumpy flats, and boathouses with a diving plug that gets quickly to the bottom and then chugs and digs its way back to the boat.

"Stump flats can really be surprising," she notes, "because they may hold winter bass even when the water depth is less than five feet. The most effective flats are those edged by a deeper channel the fish can use when the weather turns cold again."

"On a warm day, bass frequently move up onto a flat to feed, particularly in mid-afternoon after the sun has been out several hours."

"My lure choice here is a crankbait or spinnerbait worked carefully around the cover and bouncing off the stumps."

The spinnerbait term for this type of fishing is known as "slow-rolling," explains Lee, and does not mean rolling the lure over the cover. It refers to the spinnerbait blades, which rotate or "roll over" more slowly due to the slow retrieve.

Lee's winter spinnerbait choice is a single small willow leaf or Colorado blade model, either of which produces good vibration and flash.

Rock riprap, the stones placed along a shoreline to add support for roadways and bridges, are excellent winter fishing spots, according to the former-model-turned-angler. Bass move very shallow and close to the rocks to gain added warmth.

"Fish a crankbait or spinnerbait parallel to the riprap," Lee suggests, "and work very shallow depths. Pay particular attention to odd places in the rocks where logs or other cover may be present."

Former Pro

Former professional basketball player Bobby Washington now coaches at Lexington Bryan Station. Washington's squad recently took part in the Pikeville Holiday Classic. His team lost to Pikeville 71-66 in the classic.

trapping," Daniels went on to explain. "We just don't have the quickness that other teams have."

Wheelwright was also playing without one of its starters, Carrie Smith.

The Lady Bobcats continue to be impressive on the court as they roll out to a 6-1 record and 2-0 in the conference. Wheelwright falls to 1-3 and 0-1 in conference action.

Wheelwright was led in scoring by Jedon Hood with 17 points. Becky Allen tossed in 10 while teammate April Bradford added nine.

Betsy Layne takes a holiday break until Jan. 3 when the team will host the Nothing-But-The-Net Invitational

Sports Guest Column

(The following articles were submitted to the Floyd County Times Sports Department by Greg Johnson and Kevin Isaac, both journalism students at Wheelwright High School. We encourage other such students to submit sports stories to the Sports Department. If you are interested, contact Ed Taylor, sports editor, at 886-8506.)

Time To Hit The Hardwoods

The Wheelwright Trojans return three starters from last year's squad. The trio of returning players are Brad Compton, Bobby Hood and Chad Hall. Another returning senior on the Trojan team is Randy Boyd.

Trojan mentor Monroe Jones is looking to the seniors for team leadership. The Trojans are coming off a winning season at 14-13. Last year's record was the first winning season for the Trojans in five years. A successful season will depend on hard practices and the team's attitude for winning.

"I think the season will be based on how hard we work. We have set our goals to win the district. It won't be easy. Every team in the district has a talented squad with some key players. If we are not physical, we will get beaten very easily," stated Hood. Sports reporters have ranked teams in the district as follows: Allen Central, first; Betsy Layne, second; Prestonsburg, third; McDowell, fourth and Wheelwright, fifth.

"If we don't have a winning season this year, we should give up playing basketball," explained Randy Boyd.

"We can go up to 10 people deep on the bench this year," remarked Chad Hall.

Both Hall and Boyd see Allen Central as a tough opponent. Harmony on the court is a big plus for the Trojans, according to Boyd.

We hope that the basketball team will have a successful year, and all the fans will come out and yell for the Trojans. We wish the best of luck to Coach Jones and the Trojans.

Daniels Takes Over

"The girls needed a coach and I wanted to give them the opportunity to have a team," said Donnie Daniels, former football coach at Allen Central High School.

Daniels recently came to Wheelwright High School to coach the girl's basketball team. The position came open when Coach Judy Eversole took a brief leave of absence.

Practice had already begun and still the position had not been filled. That's when Coach Daniels came to the rescue and decided to take the job.

Not only did Coach Daniels have a new coaching job, he also had to change schools and become a physical education teacher for WHS. Eversole is now taking Daniels' place as physical education teacher at Allen Central.

"The talent, experience and potential are definitely there," Daniels said. Although Daniels doesn't think that he's as qualified as most coaches, he feels that he's got a team capable of repeating a district win.

"Coming in late has definitely been a disadvantage for both me and the girls though. Instead of everything going at a slow pace, everything had to go at a fast pace."

Being a first year basketball coach has also been a disadvantage to Daniels. The lack of experience, not knowing his team or his team not knowing him and not knowing how to work with one another constructively despite all of the disadvantages, Coach Daniels and his squad are expecting a banner season.

"Be patient and give us all of your support because we're going to need it," Coach Daniels says.

Plastic Worms: A Lure For All Seasons
Suppose just for a moment that for the next 12 months you could use only one lure for your bass fishing. What would you choose?

"A plastic worm," says top tournament angler Tom Mann Jr., a member of Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff and a former guide on Georgia's Lake Lanier. "The worm is a lure that is actually far more versatile than most anglers believe."

"You can rig it with a slip sinker and the hook embedded Texas-style and fish it on the bottom. You can put the weight far up the line (Carolina-style) so the worm floats above the bottom. You can swim it on the surface without a weight. You can bite it in half and fish it like a short grub. And, with a swivel and no extra weight, you can actually fish the worm like a crankbait."

By using one of these options, says Mann, a worm can be fished in shallow water of deep, around rocks, trees and grass, and at all seasons of the year.

Two of the more unusual methods of fishing plastic worms are as top-water lures and as subsurface diving lures. The topwater "swimming" worm is an excellent lure to use around spring and summer vegetation, such as grass, lily pads and milfoil. The diving worm is particularly effective in early spring over points and in coves where bass may be moving to spawn.

"To rig a floating worm," explains the Evinrude pro, "simply omit the slip sinker on your line. Impale your hook into the worm Texas-style so the barb is covered and the worm is weedless."

"When you retrieve, reel it back slowly so the worm looks like a small snake swimming on the surface. Bass will come up to hit this when they won't look at other lures."

To rig a diving worm, Mann suggests tying your line to a barrel swivel, then tying on a 12-inch leader. Leave off the sinker, and tie on a size 3/0 hook.

"Thread the hook into the worm but leave the hook exposed," he explains. "When you cast, the swivel will act like a weight and start to sink the worm. Let it sink about a foot or so, then jerk it with your rod tip.

"The worm will dart forward just like a crankbait. Keep retrieving it this way, and you'll pull bass out from cover, and be able to see them hit. It's really fun."

Mann's single color for a year of worm-only fishing would be a hue known as red-shad, because it appears as a very natural color under all water and light conditions. Mann would pick a six-inch model worm with a straight, rather than curved swimming tail, because he feels it offers more versatility.

"Most of the time I rig a plastic worm with a 3/16-ounce slip sinker," he notes, "along with a 3/0 hook. I like to use 12-pound test line because it's easy to cast."

"Hopefully, I won't ever find myself limited to just one lure for an entire year of bass fishing," laughs the Evinrude pro, "but if I were, I'd choose the worm without a doubt."

"I believe about 95 percent of the tournament pros I know would choose a worm, too."

This must be the year to ride the referees. Seems there is a lot more vocal abuse directed to the officials from the benches than last year. Some coaches act very hostile toward the referees. There's the screaming and little tantrums thrown. I think most coaches do it to intimidate the officials. Remember this is the season to be jolly, not ride the referees.

After the performance of coach Ken Trivette's Pikeville Panthers in the recently held Holiday Classic, a lot of people are going have to re-think who should be the 15th Regional favorite. I know some people did consider the Panthers, but not many. Trivette's Panthers were impressive against Bryan Station.

Speaking of Pikeville basketball, saw Howard Wallen at the game. Wallen is coaching elementary basketball at Pikeville and really enjoying it. He looked good and his team is currently 3-0 on the year. What else? Many local fans remember Wallen when he was at Allen Central. Wallen was head coach at Pikeville also.

We appreciate all the kind words we have received about our sports coverage here at the Floyd County Times. After all, it is Christmastime. We will continue to give the best coverage we can. Surprising to see many Pike County folks read our sports pages.

Our apologies to Dorton girl's basketball coach Bobby Spears for stating in an earlier article that he was "forced" to play a game against the Allen Central Lady Rebels. (That's the way it was reported to us.) Spears tells me that the commissioner said "Bobby you don't have to play, but since you are there, why not go ahead and play." The issue over the game was that one of the scheduled officials was late in showing up and a junior varsity official was used. We respect Bobby as a coach, and he does an excellent job at Dorton.

Larry Hall, senior guard on the Betsy Layne Bobcats basketball team, will be out indefinitely because of a severe knee injury suffered in practice last week. Hall was at the Wheelwright game on crutches and stated that he should be ready to play again around tournament time. Surgery will not be performed on the knee until after the season is over. Hall stated that he had problems with his knee when he was in grade school. Evidently, he was wiping the dust off his shoes in practice when the knee gave way.

TIPS ON RIVER FISHING

With all the emphasis on catching bass in large lakes and reservoirs, smaller rivers and streams are often overlooked. Throughout the year, these waters can also offer excellent fishing opportunities, according to bass pro Stanley Mitchell, who fishes the rivers near his south Georgia home whenever he can.

"Rivers have an atmosphere all their own," explains the Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff angler. "They can be quiet and uncrowded but still every bit as challenging as a lake."

Some lake and river fishing tactics are interchangeable, says Mitchell, because no matter where it lives, a bass is still a bass.

"River bass normally hold tighter to cover," notes Mitchell, "especially in current. In fact, a basic rule concerning river fishing is to fish near current but not in current."

"That means looking for eddies and slack water behind rocks and logs, cuts and sloughs off the main river, or practically anything that provides bass with a resting area out of the main flow of the water."

One type of structure the Evinrude pro especially likes to fish is where a small tributary creek may flow into the larger river. Often, such a spot will have a long underwater point extending into the deeper water that will attract bass at all seasons of the year.

"Stumps, rocks or other forms of cover on a point like this will make it even more appealing to fish," Mitchell explains. "When you fish it, just aim your casts up into the tributary and retrieve the lure back down over the point. Normally, crankbaits are your best lure choice, but jigs and plastic worms will also work."

As the water cools into winter, Mitchell suggests river anglers concentrate more on deeper channel drops, either along the main river or in tributaries.

"The main problem in fishing channel drops," explains the 1981 BASS Masters Classic* winner, "is that there may be miles of river channel available."

"In situations like this, the most productive water is frequently along channel bends or where the channel comes close to a shoreline that offers shallow cover. Study a map to find places where the channel and shore are close, and check the river bends with your depthfinder looking for debris that may have washed in and anchored.

"Again, one of the major considerations for any type of river bass fishing is to look for cover."

Kentucky Afield

STUDENTS PARTICIPATE IN TURKEY RELEASE

Ninety-four excited sixth graders witnessed the release of seven wild turkeys recently in Lewis County.

The Lewis County Central Elementary students eagerly sought souvenir feathers the three gobblers and four hens left behind before taking flight into nearby cover.

The happening brought broad smiles to the faces of Gayle Piatt and Steve Bonney who played key roles in getting youngsters and turkeys together.

Piatt, a conservation education program leader for the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, routinely works with fifth and sixth grade school children in several northeastern Kentucky counties. Bonney is fish and wildlife's district wildlife biologist for the area.

Other key players in pulling off the event were teacher Don Stafford and landowners Harry Kinney and Russell Newsome.

In an all-out effort to restore wild turkeys to Kentucky, the fish and wildlife department adds wild birds to suitable habitat areas during winter months. Wild turkeys live in 118 of Kentucky's 120 counties.

By March, more than 400 turkeys will be released on 26 sites in Kentucky. Most of the wild birds are obtained from Missouri and Iowa; some birds are live-trapped and relocated within the state.

Lewis County is slated to receive eight more turkey hens this season.

1989 SPORTS LICENSES VALID THROUGH FEBRUARY

1989 Kentucky hunting and fishing licenses and stamps are valid through Feb. 28, 1990.

This means with a 1989 sports license in hand, hunters and anglers won't have to purchase a new license come Jan. 1.

The unusual two-month extension is a bonus for sportsmen and allows the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources to switch from a calendar year license to one that better fits seasons and sportsmen's needs.

Beginning in 1990, Kentucky's hunting and fishing license year will run March 1 through the last day of February the following year.

CHRISTMAS TREES MAKE GOOD FISH ATTRACTORS

Consider getting more mileage from your discarded Christmas tree by turning the evergreen into a fish attractor.

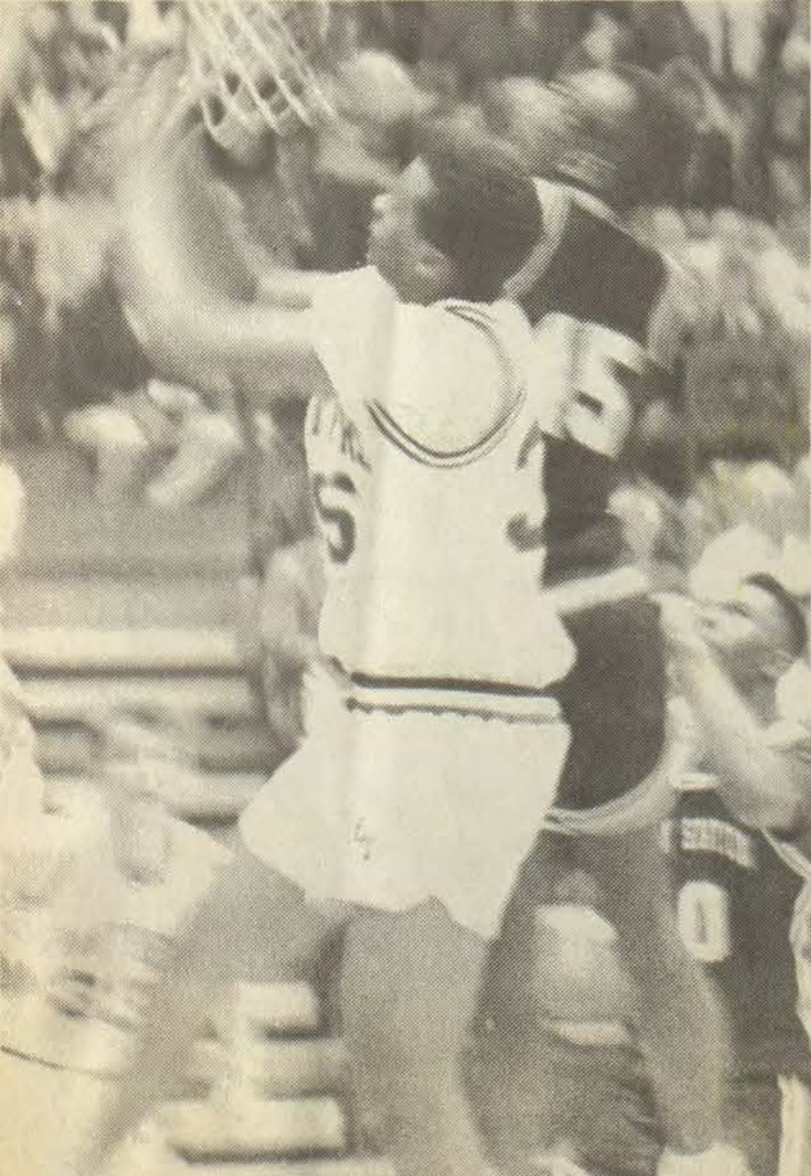

Select a spot along existing structure where fish normally travel; near the mouth of a creek channel and over humps are good choices.

Fish readily use the additional cover, which in turn, improves fishing conditions and provides more opportunity for anglers.

According to biologist Ted Crowell, "Some people seem to think fish attractors make more fish, but they don't. Attractors simply help close the gap between fish and anglers."

TWO HUNTING SEASONS CLOSE THIS MONTH

Dec. 31 is the last day for Kentucky deer bow hunting in zones 1-6. Squirrel hunting also ends the same day in 25 Eastern Kentucky counties that comprise the Eastern Zone.

Battle For The Boards

Brian Wilson (35) of Pikeville battles Robert Hammons (45) of Bryan Station in first quarter action of the Holiday Classic at Pikeville last week. Pikeville won over the Lexington based school, 71-66.

BOOKS AND THINGS:

Christmas Spirit Lives On In Books At the P^oburg Community College Library

by Trisha Morris
PCC Librarian

The trappings of Christmas are automatic with the season. The trees are enthroned in the house and decorated with jewels and lights, cards are posted, presents are wrapped, good things are baked, and we settle down with a comfortable glow. The following books from the Prestonsburg Community College's Library tell where our traditions came from and gives some hints on making the sought-after toys of old for gift giving.

The Christmas Tree Book, by Philip Snyder. Many children string popcorn and make paper chains as their parents unpack ornaments which have become family mementoes, lovingly saved from year to year—all to decorate the Christmas tree. Where did the tradition start to bring a fir tree into the living room and adorn it with glittering tidbits and twinkling lights? Illustrated with engravings and many full-color pages, The Christmas Tree Book celebrates the lovely tradition of the decorated tree. Here are the many stories, fables, legends and family remembrances of the magic emblem of the season—the Christmas tree.

The Glass Christmas Ornament, by Maggie Rogers. When their combined collection of glass Christmas tree ornaments grew to over 3,000 and it took three days to hang them all, Maggie Rodgers and her daughter were persuaded to write a book on their advocacy. Thinking it would be a "lark," they embarked on what they soon discovered was a subject so obscure they were forced to learn German and travel to Bavaria for reliable information. The result is an unique tool for collectors featuring color photographs of 250 ornaments and numerous appendices on their history, price range, production techniques and repairs.

American Folk Toys, by Dick Schnacke. Here are 85 classic toys with full instructions, diagrams and lists of materials for their construction. Most of these delightful, old time toys can be made from scraps found around the house—a doll from an old sock; a flying machine from a pencil and a shaped piece of white pine; a parachute from a handkerchief and a clothes pin and on and on.

This revival of folk toys will bring back memories of times before parents depended on stores to manufacture Christmas for their children.

The Complete Christmas Book, by Franklin Watts. It is rare that a book has the perfect title—this title says exactly what this book is—complete. A sampling of everything for the season is included between its covers. There is Christmas lore, Christmas presents and how to wrap them, Christmas decorations and how to hang them, Christmas recipes, Christmas music, Christmas stories and poems and Christmas yet to come. This is the "complete" book of Christmas traditions.

How to Make Whirligigs and Whimmy Diddles, by Florence H. Pettit. A whirligig is an 18th century "Sunday toy"—a Gee-Haw Whimmy Diddle is a favorite mountain toy made by rubbing a stick back and forth over the notches cut in another stick—a right whirl is a Gee and a left is a Haw.

If you don't cotton to "geeing" and "hawing," you can also learn from this book how to fashion a butterfly, which will stick to you, out of tissue paper and a cocklebur—make a 101 things from a pine cone or form lovely corn husk maidens. With these detailed instructions and expert advice on tools, even the novice craftsman will soon be creating treasures.

Christmas Traditions, by William Muir Auld. The emotional response to the Christmas garland, the tree, the colored lights, the special food and the necessary parents are all a part of the customs of this mid-winter feast which descends to us from the pagan childhood of our race. This book deals largely with old-time beliefs and customs concerning elements of pagan and Christian, gay and grave, mystical and ordinary, historical and legendary. Here is the story of the Christmas carol, the yule log and the rise of our Christian feast from a pagan festival.

Happy Christmas, by: William Seymour. Here is an anthology of Christmas stories, verses, plays and songs collected from authors new and old and from lands far and near. It is a treasury of holiday lore that will delight every member of the family.

It includes such diverse selections as Dicken's "A Christmas Tree," Beatrix Potter's "Simpkin's Christmas" and Edwin Morgan's "The Computer's First Christmas Card."

Radio City Music Hall in New York City opened this day in 1932.

Notable births: Johannes Kepler, "father of modern astronomy," 1571-1630; Louis Pasteur, noted chemist and bacteriologist, discoverer of rabies vaccination, namesake of pasteurization process, 1822-1895; Tovah Feldshuh, actress, 37; Bernard Lanvin, fashion designer, 54; Lee Salk, psychologist/author, 63.

Thursday, Dec. 28
362nd Day, 3 To Go

The first known advertisement for Poor Richard's Almanack, by Richard Saunders (aka Benjamin Franklin), appeared in the Pennsylvania Gazette on this day in 1732. The ad promised "many pleasant and witty verses, jests and sayings." It was published through 1758.

On this day in 1908, an earthquake struck the town of Messina, Sicily, resulting in the deaths of nearly 80,000 persons.

The 28th president of the United States, Woodrow Wilson, was born at Staunton, Va., Dec. 28, 1856. Twice elected (1912 and 1916), he convinced Congress to declare war on Germany in 1917, marking the US' entrance into World War I.

The state of Iowa was admitted into the union on this day in 1846, making it the 29th state.

Other notable births: John Molson, brewmaster, 1763-1836; Carlos Carson, pro football player, 31; Hubie Green, golfer, 43; Lou Jacobi, actor, 76; Manuel Puig, Argentine writer, 57; Maggie Smith, actress, 55; Edgar Winter, singer/musician, 43.

After The Holidays; Time For The Diet

The new year's resolution has become an American tradition for promises of improving lifestyles at the end of the holiday season. One of the most popular is the New Year's Diet. Unfortunately, many resolutions are broken in the first weeks of the new year. And people who try "crash dieting" are often discouraged when their efforts don't last or don't result in significant weight loss.

But don't give up hope. Excess weight can be lost and kept off by following a regular American Heart Association eating plan of reduced calories and by following an exercise plan that includes a 30-minute aerobic workout at least three times per week.

The American Heart Association says being overweight can lead to high blood pressure, a major risk factor in the development of diseases of the heart and blood vessels. In addition, overweight individuals ten to have increased levels of cholesterol in the blood, which is another risk factor for heart disease. So your new year's resolution to take off weight and keep it off will not only help you look great, it can help you live a healthier life.

Consult your physician before starting any weight reduction or exercise regime. He or she can help you determine the amount of weight you should lose and any special considerations you need to keep in mind.

Once you have established your best weight, how do you get there?

Determine what, other than hunger, makes you eat. Do you eat compulsively to relieve anxiety or depression? Try keeping a written record of what and when you eat, to identify your eating habits. Then avoid those situations when possible. Talk to your family. Let them know. See DIET Page 5

Happy Holidays Everyone!

The senior citizens centers in Floyd County have all been extremely busy this holiday season with many activities, including their annual Christmas Parties. Above seniors from the Martin area gathered for a covered dish lunch and fellowship.

County Kettle

County Kettle

Is a feature offered by the Floyd County Times. Send all recipes, kitchen tips and suggestions to "County Kettle," The Floyd County Times, P.O. Box 391, Prestonsburg, KY 41653

With this cold weather adults and little ones alike will need something to warm their bones. This week's County Kettle features a series of recipes that are designed to "help your heart" from the American Heart Association, a nutritional analysis per serving follows each recipe.

BEEF STEW

Prepare this hearty stew as a quick warm-up to cold winter weather. It's low in fat and high in great taste!

2 lbs. lean beef chuck, cut into cubes
1/4 cup flour
2 Tbsps oil
1 cup onion, chopped
2 cloves garlic, minced
2/3 cup celery, diced
1/4 cup parsley, chopped
1/2 tsp rosemary
1/4 tsp thyme
1/2 tsp freshly ground black pepper
1/4 tsp oregano
1/2 cup dry red wine
1 cup water
2 cups tomatoes, chopped
4 medium potatoes, quartered
4 cups carrots, diced

Coat beef with flour and brown in oil in a large Dutch oven. Add onion and garlic and cook until vegetables are softened. Pour off fat.

Add remaining ingredients (except tomatoes, potatoes and carrots); bring to a boil, cover and simmer for 1 hour. Add tomatoes, potatoes and carrots and simmer 45 minutes or until potatoes are tender. Makes 8 servings.

SLOPPY JOES

Score a touchdown with football lovers and serve these delicious

Sloppy Joes! Even the heartiest appetites will be satisfied with this low-fat, low-sodium and low-calorie version of one of America's favorites.

1 8-oz. can no-salt-added tomato sauce
1/2 ketchup
1 1/2 Tbsp Worcestershire sauce
1 tsp prepared yellow mustard
1/2 tsp dry mustard
1 tsp molasses
1 clove garlic, finely minced
1/4 tsp freshly grated orange peel
Pinch ground cloves
Hot pepper sauce to taste
1 lb. very lean ground sirloin
1/2 small onion, finely chopped
6 whole-wheat hamburger buns, toasted if desired

In a saucepan over low heat, combine first 10 ingredients. Mix well and simmer while preparing meat.

Next, heat a heavy, non-stick skillet at least 10 inches in diameter, over medium-high heat. Add ground beef and saute, stirring occasionally, 4 to 5 minutes, or until meat is no longer pink. Pour contents of pan into a strainer or colander lined with paper towels. Allow fat to drain out.

Add onion to pan and saute, stirring frequently, about 5 minutes, or until translucent. Return meat to pan and add sauce; heat 3 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add additional hot pepper sauce, if desired. Spoon 1/2 cup mixture over each bun. Serve immediately. The sauce and meat mixture freezes well.

BRAISED SIRLOIN TIPS

A meat lover's favorite! Be sure to trim all visible fat off the meat.

2 lbs. beef sirloin tip, cut into 1-inch cubes
1 (10 1/2 oz.) can beef consommé
1/3 cup red burgundy or cranberry cocktail
2 Tbsps soy sauce
1 clove garlic, minced
1/4 tsp onion powder
2 Tbsps cornstarch
1/4 cup water
4 cups hot cooked rice

Brown meat on all sides in a large heavy skillet. Add consommé, wine (or cranberry cocktail), soy sauce, garlic and onion powder.

Heat to boiling. Reduce heat, cover, and simmer one hour, or until meat is tender.

Blend cornstarch and water and stir gradually into the stew. Cook, stirring constantly, until gravy thickens and boils. Cook one minute more. Serve over rice. Makes 8 servings.

BAYOU RED BEANS AND RICE

Enjoy Mardi Gras, but go easy on the "fat." This Cajun specialty will add spice to any meal!

1 lb. dried red kidney beans (2 1/1 cups)
4 cups water
1 ham bone with 1 cup chopped ham

1 large onion, chopped
2 stalks celery with leaves, chopped
2 Tsp hot pepper sauce

Soak beans overnight in water. Pour into a large heavy pan or Dutch Oven. Add remaining ingredients. Simmer 3 hours or until beans are tender. Remove ham bone, cut off meat and add to beans.

Add water when necessary during cooking. Water should barely cover beans at end of cooking time. Remove 1 cup of beans at end of cooking time and mash to a paste (a blender may be used for this procedure). Add to remaining beans and stir until liquid is thickened. Serve hot over white rice. Makes 8 1-cup servings.

JOE'S LASAGNA
(with Just a Touch of Irish!)
Everybody's Irish on St. Patrick's Day! So give your family a new twist of Irish-Italian food. (This Irish is in the spinach!)

1 lb. lean ground beef or veal
1/4 cup minced onion
3 cups tomato sauce
1 tsp basil
1 tsp chopped parsley
1/2 tsp oregano
1/4 tsp garlic powder, or 1 clove garlic, minced
Freshly ground black pepper
1 4-oz. can chopped mushrooms, or 1/2 cup sliced fresh mushrooms
1 10-oz. package frozen spinach, chopped thawed and well-drained
8 oz. low-fat cottage cheese
4 oz. skim milk mozzarella grate cheese
1/2 lb. lasagna noodles (whole wheat, soy, or your favorite kind)

In a medium-size, non-stick skillet, saute ground meat and onion until onion is tender, and meat browned. Do not add fat or oil to skillet. Add tomato sauce, basil, parsley, oregano, garlic, pepper and mushrooms to ground-meat mixture. Combine well-drained spinach with cottage cheese.

Cook 1/2 pound noodles in boiling water until tender, and drain. Lightly oil and 8 x 13-inch baking dish. Arrange in layers, beginning with half of the noodles on the bottom. Spread a layer of the spinach mixture, then the meat mixture, then some grated mozzarella cheese. Repeat layers ending with cheese on top.

Bake in 375 degree oven for 15-20 minutes, or until hot and bubbly. Makes 6 servings.

POTATO SKINS

You don't have to say "no" to seconds or thirds on these potatoes. These low-fat, low-sodium and low-calorie treats have no cholesterol and make a great appetizer or party food.

4 tsp non-fat "butter" granules according to the directions on the package
6 medium baking potatoes scrubbed and baked
1/2 tsp garlic powder
Freshly ground black pepper to taste

Cut each potato in half. Scoop out the center, leaving about 1/4-inch of potato on the inside of each skin. Cut skins into quarters. Dab liquid butter substitute onto the white side of each potato skin. Sprinkle with garlic powder and pepper, if desired.

Place prepared skins, skin-side down, on a baking sheet. Bake 15 minutes, or until lightly browned. Turn skins over and bake another 5 minutes, or until crisp. Serve immediately. Serves 12; 4 per serving.

DAY CARE CENTER PRESENTS PROGRAM

On Sunday, Dec. 17 the Baptist Day Care Center presented its annual Christmas Program in the sanctuary of the First Baptist Church. Thomas Foy opened the program by singing "What Child Is This?" The Preschool class portrayed the nativity, while the nursery class and kindergarten presented finger plays and poems about Christmas. Denise Hopkins, chair person of the Baptist Day Care committee, presented each employee with a gift from the Day Care. Rev. Stephen Hopkins, director of the Baptist Day Care, closed with prayer and invited everyone to a reception in the fellowship hall.

WELLS FAMILY HAVE HOLIDAY VISITORS

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Wells had with them at various times during the Christmas holidays, members of their family, including: Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Leslie and sons Michael and Nathan, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Stephens and son Ray, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Wells and daughters Charlotte and Stephanie, and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Walters and daughters Jessica and Jennifer, all of Prestonsburg; Mr. and Mrs. James Wells and daughter Whitney, of Lafayette, Ind., and Linda Wells of Lexington. The James Wells family also visited with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moore and family.

METHODISTS WOMEN'S CIRCLE MEETS

The Community United Methodist Women's Circle met Wednesday evening, Dec. 13, at the church.

The meeting was called to order by Marian Masters, president, who also led the group in prayer. No business session was held.

Christmas carols, led by Sharon May, and accompanied by Kim Compton, were sung. Nancy Tackett presented the program entitled "The Name of Jesus."

Cards, to be sent to the following shut-ins were signed: Kathryn Bentley, Lula Wallen, Ethel Hall, Mike Fitzpatrick, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Arnett, Don Colvin Sr., Mrs. Tom Neeley, Josephine Goble and Marie Bingham.

Gifts for the local Job Corps boys and the Mini Homes were brought to the meeting.

Prayer partners for the year, 1989 were revealed, and the names of partners for 1990 were drawn. Ornaments from the Children's Bazaar were on sale.

Refreshments in keeping with the Christmas season were served by the hostesses, Ester Ward, Leota DeRossett, June Cooley, Ernestine Collins, Marian Masters and Bonnie Hale, to: Opal Fannin, Jean Burke, Josephine Herald, Pam Leslie, Marcella Slone, Sue Spradlin, Christine Simpson, Lynn May, Cheryl Sexton, Becky DeRossett, Leslie Burke, Goldie Music, Sharon May, Becky Bentley, Bonnie Hale, Carol DeRossett, Glenna Sexton, Debra Burke, Carolyn Stout, Nancy Tackett, Kim Compton and Rita Mounts.

The next meeting will be Tuesday, Jan. 9 at 7 p.m., at the church.

NSDAR HOLDS REGULAR MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of John Graham Chapter NSDAR was held Monday, Dec. 11, at 12 o'clock, noon, with a Christmas luncheon, at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park. The regent, Eleanor Horn, presided.

The DAR rituals were led by the chaplain, Norma S. Stepp; the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag, by Mae Kendrick, the American's Creed by the regent, the president general's message by Margaret Spradlin, and the National Defense Message, "The Government's Roll in Childcare," (bv U.S. President George Bush), by Dorothy Osborne.

The minutes were read and approved. The treasurer was absent.

In other business, Dorothy Osborne, reviewed the Americanism and DAR manual. Osborne presented Frances Brackett with a laminated copy done by the Hall Funeral Home, Martin, of a Floyd County Times' article written by Brackett, the title of which was "Spotlight on: Daughters of the American Revolution."

Virginia S. Goble reported on the DAR Good Citizen, a senior from Prestonsburg High School, sponsored by faculty member, Norma Neeley.

Frances Brackett announced that open-house would be held on Wednesday, Dec. 13, by Harman Station NSDAR, Paintsville, and said that ground-breaking for the dyslexia program building would be held Saturday, Dec. 16, at 1 p.m., at the Hindman Settlement School. She also reviewed KSDAR's proposed of changing the six districts of Kentucky into three.

The regent announced that Virginia S. Goble had been appointed by KSDAR State Regent, Mrs. L. Duncan Stokes, to be reservation chairman for breakfasts, luncheons and banquets for the state conference, to be held at the Marriott Resort in March, 1990. She also announced that Frances Brackett, KSDAR State Registrar, had been the Christmas luncheon guest of the Capt. John Waller Chapter, at Gratz Park, Lexington, on Wednesday, Dec. 6.

It was moved by Dorothy Osborne, seconded by Margaret Spradlin and carried that delegates and alternates to the state conference would be as follows: Delegates, Eleanor Horn and Virginia S. Goble; alternates, Opal S. May, Olga Preston, Vivian Hale and Mae S. Kendrick. Chosen as delegate for the National Convention was Eleanor Horn, and alternates selected were Frances Brackett, and Virginia Goble. Brackett also serves automatically as state officer delegate.

Members enjoying the Christmas luncheon and meeting were: Mae Kendrick, Virginia Goble, Frances Brackett, Pauline Burchett, Opal May, Norma Stepp, Margaret Spradlin and Eleanor Horn.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, Jan. 9, at noon, at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park. A business session, for the purpose of completing state and national reports, will be held during that time.

FORMER PRESTONSBURG RESIDENT PASSES AWAY

Word has been received here of the death, on Tuesday, Dec. 19, of Mrs. Edward P. (Maria) Hill, at King's Daughters Memorial Hospital, in Frankfort. A resident of Prestonsburg for many years, Mrs. Hill, with her husband and their family, moved to Frankfort several years ago, after her husband became a member of the Kentucky Court of Appeals. Services were scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 23, at 11 a.m., at the Immanuel Baptist Church, in Frankfort.

The Perfect Hostess

Lucille Nunnery was hostess at her home, on South Arnold Avenue, on Thursday evening, Dec. 7, to the annual Christmas party of the GFWC/KFWC Prestonsburg Woman's Club.

ADAH MEETING ANNOUNCED

Mollie Hyden, Worthy Matron of Adah Chapter #24, Order of the Eastern Star, announces that the next meeting of this lodge will be held Monday, Jan. 8, at 7 p.m., at the lodge hall, and she urges all members to attend.

CHILDREN GIVE HOLIDAY CONCERT AT CHURCH

On Wednesday evening, Dec. 20, the Pre-School Choir, (4 and 5-year-olds) under the direction of Charlene Nunn and Shirley Branham, and the Primary Choir (grades 1-3) directed by Missy and Lisa Carter, presented a program of Christmas music, at the First Baptist Church (Irene Cole Memorial). Following the program, Santa Claus, in all his splendor, arrived with candy and Christmas greetings for "one and all."

During Sunday morning's services at this church, the Adult Choir under the direction of Tom Foy, presented a Christmas cantata, in conjunction with the Rev. Steve Hopkins' message, entitled, "Christmas without the Nativity."

Both programs were well-attended, and well-received.

FIRST UNITED METHODIST WOMEN HAVE PARTY

The United Methodist Women of the First United Methodist Church held their annual Christmas party on Monday, Dec. 11, at 7 P.M., in the parlor, there.

A seasonal program was presented by Clara Bradbury, assisted by several of the women of the church. Special music was furnished by Elizabeth, Bill, and Lynon Frazier.

Since the decision was made by the Ashland Methodist District that the Betsy Layne Methodist Church and the First United Methodist Church, here, be "yoked" together, a group of ladies from the Betsy Layne Church attended Monday evening's meeting as special guests of the local church.

Delicious refreshments were enjoyed by approximately 40 in attendance.

PRESTONSBURG WOMAN'S CLUB MEMBERS REMINDER

Phyllis Herrick, president of the GFWC/KFWC Prestonsburg Woman's Club, reminds members of the regular meeting of this group, to be held Thursday, Jan. 4, at 7:30 p.m. at the Emma Wells May Cultural Center. She asks that members bring items for the "white elephant" sale to be held at that time. The Rev. Quentin Scholtz, pastor of the First United Methodist Church, enjoyed the role of auctioneer so much this past January that he volunteered to serve in this same capacity at this forthcoming meeting.

The president asks that members of the club's executive board meet there at 7 p.m. on that date.

BIRTHDAYS ANNOUNCED

Among the local persons who will observe their birthdays during January will be: Alice Harris, Kenneth D. Brown, II, Winston Ford, Jr., Eva Collins, Robert (Bob) Allen, Kelly Sue Moore, Jack Carter, Gordon Moore, Robert Wallace, James Douglas Adams, Garnett Fairchild, B.J. Sturgill, James R. Allen, Lee Boswell, Julia Stephens, Dr. Keith Leslie, Sharon Campbell, Newt May, Eula Whitaker, Maxine Bierman, Carolyn Traum, Julie Newberry, Clara Bradbury, Phyllis Herald, Boots Adams, John R. Hereford, and Lorena Horne.

FLOWERS ON THE ALTAR

Poinsettias were placed on the altar of the First Baptist Church, during services there this past Sunday, "In loving memory" of Lee Shannon, from Vivian and family, and for Jerry Lafferty Jr., from Adrian and Wanda Lafferty.

KRTA LISTS REASONS FOR MEMBERSHIP

According to the Kentucky Retired Teachers' Association (KRTA), the 10 main reasons why retired teachers should join this organization are: 1.

KRTA is the only organization in Kentucky that has as its sole purpose the improvement of the welfare of retired teachers in this state; 2. It develops a legislative program every two years which is designed to improve the financial benefits of retired teachers; 3. It has registered lobbyists in Frankfort during the legislative sessions to keep track of legislation, both good and bad, that is of concern to retired teachers; 4. Representatives of KRTA make contact with candidates for state offices for the purpose of getting commitments to the association's legislative program; 5. Experience has shown that the candidates listen with more interest when the organization has a high percentage of its potential enrolled as members; 6. In order to keep its members informed, KRTA holds workshops on matters of concern to retired teachers; 7. In order to keep abreast of what is going on in the state and nation, and to better serve its members, KRTA maintains a headquarters office with a staff, in Louisville; 8. Members of KRTA receive a newspaper on a quarterly basis, designed to keep them informed on happenings on the local, state, and national level, of interest to retired teachers; 9. Upon request, KRTA furnishes qualified speakers for district and local meetings; and 10. Upon joining this organization, retired teachers work with other volunteers who give time and effort to improve the living conditions of retired teachers throughout the state of Kentucky.

MORE FLOWERS ON THE ALTAR

Flowers have been on the altar of the First United Methodist Church recently for: Lindsey Brown, on her first birthday, from her family; Rachel Davis, from members of her family on her birthday, and a rose announced the birth of Barbara Lee Brown, born Thursday, Nov. 30, in Lexington, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Brown, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe A. Burchett, here.

KIWANIANN MEETING RESCHEDULED

Due to inclement weather, the Kiwanianne luncheon-meeting scheduled at May Lodge early in December was cancelled. The next luncheon-meeting will be Thursday, Jan. 25.

HAYWOOD HOME FOR THE HOLIDAYS

Rebecca Haywood, of Falmouth, spent the Christmas holidays here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Haywood, and other relatives and friends. Miss Haywood teaches music in the Falmouth schools.

LAPOINTE HOSTS CHILDHOOD FRIEND

Mary Jo Shivel LaPointe, who recently moved from Prestonsburg to Lexington will have as her Christmas guests at her home, a childhood friend, Linda Sue Stephens, formerly of Prestonsburg, now of Charlotte, N.C., and Linda Sue's brother, Stevie Stephens.

LAMPLIGHTERS BRAVE WEATHER TO MEET

Despite "almost impossible" weather, these members of the Lamplighters' group, at the First Baptist Church, met in Fellowship Hall there, Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 19: The Rev. Steve Hopkins, Tom Foy, John and Patsy Evans, Rebecca Rasnick, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Pettrey, Lucy Regan, Mr. and Mrs. Delmas Saunders and Myrtle Allen. Much of their time was spent in the wrapping of candy for Santa to deliver on his visit to the church later that week.

NO JANUARY HOMEMAKERS

Frances Pitts, Floyd County Home Economist, has announced that, due to weather conditions, there will be no Homemakers' meetings during January, but that lessons will be included in January's Homemakers' bulletin.

"And a child shall lead them"

Most Christmas traditions were designed for children. Faces that shine with happiness; eyes that dance and light up a room; laughter that lingers with echoes of joy ... A Child gave us Christmas and children help us perpetuate its meaning.

A hospital stay - even a brief one - can be a frightening experience for a child. Strange surroundings, strange people and strange procedures make it a difficult time, especially over the Holidays.

Yet, when a child absolutely has to be hospitalized isn't it comforting to know that gentle hands, warm hearts and concerned professionals are always in attendance? It is another reason why you can worry a little less because we care a lot more.

REBEKAH'S HOLD REGULAR MEETING

Miriam Rebekah Lodge #31 met in regular session Tuesday, Dec. 19, with the noble grand, Beverly Hackworth, presiding. Those who were ill and those in need of sympathy were recorded, with cards to be mailed to them.

It was reported that several members had gone caroling at both the local nursing homes, on Sunday, Dec. 17 and had visited with many of the residents while there.

The noble grand asked that members send Christmas cards to residents of the nursing homes who do not have families living nearby and also asked that they send cards to the lodge's own "shut-in" members.

Gifts were brought by members for the residents of the Mountain Manor Nursing Home. The group taking part in the nursing home activities will be known as "the Lamp Lighters of Miriam Lodge." This name was suggested by Donna Thomas. It was decided they would assist in distributing gifts at the Mountain Manor Nursing Home during the Christmas party on Wednesday, Dec. 22.

It was reported that there was a family in the Goble Roberts area in need of food. The noble grand stated that she would deliver food to this family, the lodge had collected. Several families have been served food during the past year.

Prior to the meeting, the members enjoyed refreshments in the dining room, and door prizes were awarded. This celebration was the lodge's Christmas party, and those in attendance enjoyed the food and an hour of fellowship.

Present were: Beverly Hackworth, Maman Leslie, Paulena Owens, Margaret Baldrige, Lorena Wallen, Cindy Hackworth and Mabel Jean LeMaster.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, Jan. 2.

BELL CHOIR GIVES CONCERT

At the First United Methodist Church here, Elizabeth Frazier and members of the Bell Choir gave a concert on Sunday, Dec. 17, with a "full-house" in attendance, Santa Claus making his appearance, and refreshments being served.

Morning services there included the singing of carols, readings, and the presentation of the Christmas Story.

From 6-8 p.m., on that same day, communion was held. The Rev. Quentin Scholtz is the pastor there.

At the First Baptist Church (Irene Cole Memorial), on Sunday, Dec. 24, at 9:30 a.m. "No Room Sunday" was observed with efforts made to see that there was no room in Sunday school, in the offering plates, nor in the sanctuary, there.

On Christmas Eve, at 9 a.m. services were held, with the church's pastor, the Rev. Steve Hopkins, bringing the message, Tom Foy, accompanied by Lisa and Missy Carter, leading the group in the singing of Christmas carols.

This church will join the Fitzpatrick Baptist church in "Fifth Sunday" services, at Fitzpatrick Church, on the Middle Creek Road, at 6 p.m., on Sunday, Dec. 31.

Ky. New Year's Revelries Can Be Celebrated Without Alcohol

Parties and family get-togethers are a natural part of the holiday season in Kentucky. Unfortunately, some people may measure how much seasonal fun they have by how much alcohol they consume.

As toast of "cheers" ring out the old year and in the new decade, state substance abuse experts in the Department for Mental Health and Mental Retardation Services urge caution about celebrating with alcohol.

"The New Year holiday is one which is notorious for alcohol consumption," said Mike Townsend, director of the Division of Substance Abuse. "Party givers and party goers alike need to be conscious about the amount of alcohol they use because alcohol is a drug."

"While it may be intended for celebration, alcohol can and does have the ability to exaggerate problems of tension and stress, which may be high at this time of the year because of any number of difficulties," he said.

Townsend added that the holiday season also is a tough time for people recovering from an alcohol or drug addiction. "Family and financial problems, loneliness and the social scene may be particularly hard to handle this time of year, making sobriety difficult to maintain."

"Recovering addicts need to take the holiday season one day at a time and avoid the temptation of alcohol. Before going to a party, make decisions regarding alcohol use. A decision of abstinence before a party begins may keep recovering addicts on the sober track," he said.

Party hosts can use the following tips for a successful and safe holiday celebration:

- Keep cocktail hours short; if a meal is included, serve it reasonably soon.
- Serve snacks so guests need not drink on an empty stomach.
- Avoid carbonated mixers in favor of non-carbonated one (fruit juice,) as carbonation speeds alcohol absorption.
- Serve special holiday non-alcoholic drinks for those who choose not to drink.
- Choose one trusted bartender who will measure drinks and won't "double up."

— Space alcoholic drinks. Wait a while between drinks, giving guests time to experience the effects of one drink before offering another.

— Promote activities and/or entertainment as diversions from just eating and drinking.

— Stop serving alcohol altogether about an hour or two before the end of a party in anticipation of the journey home.

The following tips are for guests to follow to reduce the risks of alcohol use:

- Know that you may choose not to drink and can say "no" to alcoholic beverages for any reason.
- Drink slowly and avoid gulping a drink. On the average, the body can only metabolize one drink in an hour's time.
- Don't drink and drive. Avoid riding with a driver who is under the influence of alcohol.
- If you are a woman, realize that alcohol will have a greater effect on you even if you weigh the same as most men. If you are pregnant or nursing, the only responsible choice for you is abstinence.

"Drinking responsibly insures your safety," said Townsend. "And a safe holiday season should be the intention of all Kentuckians."

The following is a compilation of non-alcoholic recipes:

VIRGIN MARY

- 1 cup chilled tomato juice
- 3/4 cup crushed ice
- 1 tsp lemon juice
- 2 drops Tabasco sauce
- 1 tsp Worcestershire sauce

you want to lose weight and that you need their support. Encourage them to eat the same foods you do. After all, you'll be eating healthful foods, but in small quantities. Your spouse and children, or parents, can benefit from your new eating habits as well.

Next, decide the number of calories you will need per day to lose on to two pounds per week. That's a safe number. Most women can accomplish that by consuming 1200-1500 calories a day. Men can usually lose at the same rate by consuming 1500-1800 calories a day.

For more information on healthful eating, contact your local American Heart Association or look for the American Heart Association's Low-Fat, Low-Cholesterol Cookbook in local bookstores.

Angels, One And All

Students in the Mountain Top Preschool and Kindergarten presented their annual Christmas program for family and friends Dec. 19 in David. In addition to a rendition of the Biblical Christmas story, the youngsters sang songs and presented skits about the holiday. Students participating were Brandon Blackburn, Jonathan Gayheart, Ina Holbrook, Miranda Lafferty, Tiffany Lafferty, John Brandon Little, Wesley Shepherd, Shannon Slone and Joshua Yates. Crystal Slone, third grader at Clark Elementary, pinch hit for Miranda Bradford as the Christmas Tree (right), as Yates prepares to turn on her lights. The school is sponsored by The David School.

House Plants Need Love (And Food), Too

Fixing dinner for your house plants is easy and important. Whether foliage or flowering, big or small, house plants need the appropriate type and amount of food to flourish. According to experts at the Hyponex Corp., there are two basic types of house plant food. One is used for flowering or fruiting plants, and the other is all-purpose for foliage plants. Both types are sold in preparations that can be used every time you water or at regular intervals. House plant food is easy to "serve." It is available in premixed liquid, liquid concentrate, water-soluble powder, and plant food sticks.

10-5 ratio. The higher level of phosphorus will promote root growth. For mature plants, use something like a 7-6-19 ratio. The higher amount of potassium increases vigor and disease resistance. EFFECTS OF NUTRIENT DEFICIENCIES Special plant food formulations can help relieve nutrient deficiencies. For example, a 30-10-10 acid formulation will help change alkaline soil conditions to favor vigorous growth for acid-loving plants. According to Hyponex, a shortage of nitrogen shows in stunted growth and yellow leaves. Too much nitrogen shows in an overabundance of foliage growth, but no flowers, and can leave plants weakened and susceptible to diseases. Symptoms of phosphorus shortage are stunted plants, foliage too dark green, and leaf stems with purple cast when they should be green. Shortages of potassium show as dwarfed plants and leaves that yellow and die at the tips and edges. For more information, check with garden centers or the garden department of area stores.

BLOOMING PLANTS Formulations for blooming plants generally include equal amounts of these nutrients. When fed this balanced mixture, blooming plants grow bigger, more brilliant flowers than underfed plants. Most plants need additional food during heavy growth periods, according to the handbook. During slow growth periods, feed every three to four weeks. For a flowering plant, change from all-purpose plant food to a flowering plant food when budding is due. If desired, organic or fish-based plant food can be alternated with chemical fertilizers.

FOLIAGE PLANTS All-purpose plant food for foliage plants uses the same nutrients, only in different ratios. For young plants entering their growth cycle, use a 5-

TREATING IMPETIGO

Impetigo is a common bacterial infection of the skin that children, in particular, often experience. It results when a bacteria normally found on the skin's surface (group A streptococci) gains entry to deeper tissue through a scratch or abrasion. Unfortunately, this relatively minor infection has given those who have had it a reputation for poor hygiene. However, no amount of extraordinary self-cleaning measures is likely to prevent the problem. Quite frequently, though, impetigo will spread to other children if it is not treated. In the past, treatment often consisted of soaking the sores, removing the crust, and applying a topical antibiotic ointment. More pediatricians are following a course of treatment with oral antibiotics these days, as they are effective and easy to administer.

COOLEY APOTHECARY meets the highest level of professionalism in our business and would be honored to become your family pharmacy. Our records are fully computerized for all drug warnings, drug interactions and personal drug allergies here at #2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. MasterCard and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-3.

May 1990 bring you and yours health and happiness, as well as peace around the world.

HINT: Children do not build up a resistance to impetigo by having had a prior infection.
