Water Crisis Hits Floyd County; National Guard Activated

by Frank Clark
Staff Writer

Sub-freezing temperatures over the past week have created a water system crisis throughout Floyd County and much of the surrounding region.

In response to water cutoffs, members of the local National Guard were activated Thursday to bring water to residents of Mud Creek and Little Mud Creek areas.

Thousands of county residents are experiencing low water pressure, frozen and broken pipes or complete water shut-offs, according to Floyd Daniels of Beaver-Elkhorn Water District, Bill Harvey Howard of Prestonsburg Utilities and Joe Jacobs of Sandy Valley Water District.

Water plants in the area were running at full capacity Thursday but are unable to gain ground on water demands because of broken and leaking pipes and meters, according to the utility representatives.

Water has been shut off to the communities of David, Betsy Layne, Stanville and Harold. Mining companies in the area, including Branham and Baker Coal near David and Continental Coal at Ivel Creek, have been required to stop using water, according to Howard, superintendent of Prestonsburg Utilities. All county residents are requested to restrict water use, except for basic needs.

"We have a water crisis in Floyd County," said Jacobs, commissioner for the Sandy Valley Water District. "We're supplied by the Pikeville and Prestonsburg systems, and they're unable to get water to us."

According to David Chaffins, coordinator of Disaster Emergency Services (DES) for Floyd County, calls from area residents to Gov. Wallace Wilkinson's office and the state office of DES prompted the activation of four members of the National Guard to supply water to the Mud Creek and Little Mud Creek areas. Concern centers on those who are housebound and cannot go out for water.

Chaffins was informed by Jim Spurlock of the Pikeville water system that a 16-inch main line had ruptured in the Pike County system, requiring that a collar be placed on the damaged pipe. The system, which serves the Stanville, Betsy Layne and Harold areas, in conjunction with Prestonsburg Utilities, was reportedly shut down for part of the day Thursday, to complete repairs.

Chaffins also said that Pikeville authorities estimated that complete repairs to their water system would require "...between eight hours to two weeks to complete."

Chaffins noted that water distribution points will be set up by the National Guard at the Spruce Pine School at Little Mud Creek and at the head of Mud Creek. Currently, this distribution is scheduled to run for at least three days.

"We're working our water plant to capacity and we're not gaining on the problem," said Howard, at

'Well, I Swear...'

Swearing in ceremonies for the mayor and council members of the City of Prestonsburg are set for Monday, Jan. 1, at 6 p.m. in the council room of the Prestonsburg Municipal Building.

To be officially sworn in to their offices will be incumbent mayor, Ann Latta, and incumbent city council members William O. Goebel III, Danny H. Hamilton, William R. Callihan, Charles G. Hale and Michael D. Vance. New members of the 1990 council are Dr. Gary D. Brown, Bill R. Collins and Jerry S. Fannin.

The oath of office will be administered by Hon. Harris Howard, judge of the Kentucky Court of Appeals. Rev. Stephen Hopkins, pastor of First Baptist Church of Prestonsburg, will give the invocation. A reception will follow the proceedings.

The swearing in of county officials who were elected in November is tentatively set for 10 a.m., Tuesday, Jan. 2 at the Floyd County Courthouse.

Water Bound For Mud Creek

National Guardsmen prepare to deliver 800 gallons of water to Mud Creek and Little Mud Thursday, in response to widespread water outages and freeze-ups which have left thousands in Floyd County without water. The water 'buffaloes', pulled by trucks, each hold 400 gallons of fresh water. The Guardsmen will supply water to the Mud Creek area for at least three days, according to David Chaffins, Director of Disaster and Emergency Services in Floyd County.

Umbrella Days

Wet, wet, wet is the forecast, according to the Jackson Weather Service!

Look for rain to begin around noon Friday, with highs to run in the mid-40s. Chance of rain is 80 percent. Rain will continue into Friday night, with lows in the upper 30s. Chance of rain increases to 90 percent.

Saturday will continue the wet stuff, with cloudy skies and a 60 percent likelihood of rain. Highs will reach the mid-40s.

Sunday shows us a dip in temperatures and a chance of snow, and a high only reaching the upper 30s.

Monday will remain cold and partly cloudy, with a high near 30. Tuesday will continue cloudy, but temperatures should rise to near 40.

It sounds like a good holiday weekend to stay in by the fire with a good book or a football game!

Happy New Year!

To celebrate the beginning of 1990, government offices, including post offices, as well as banks and many retail operations will be closed Monday, Jan. 1. So just stay in and relax.

The Floyd County Times staff will likewise take New Year's Day off. Thus, advertising deadlines for the first edition of the newspaper for 1990 (next Wednesday) are today. The deadline for display advertising is 10 a.m. today and the deadline for classified and legal notices is 5 this afternoon.

The Times will, however, be open Saturday morning from 9 until noon to accept news items. The regular schedule will be resumed on Tuesday at 8 a.m.

How Cold Was It?

Record low tri-state temperatures helped Kentucky Power Company customers set a new all-time internal peak demand of 1,202,000 kilowatts at 10 a.m. last Friday.

Big deal, you say? It is, considering the former record was set only four days earlier on Dec. 18.

Despite the fact that temperatures have heated up somewhat, meteorologists are already proclaiming December 1989 as the coldest on record, according to Tom Owen of KPC's Ashland office. Hurry 1990!

Have Fun, But Don't Die

US Sen. Mitch McConnell is urging Americans to speak out against drunk driving by turning on their automobile headlights from noon until 3 p.m. on Sun., Dec. 31, New Year's Eve.

"This procession of headlights will be a reminder to other drivers not to drink and drive as we ring in the New Year," said McConnell. "It will be a memorial to all those victims of drunk driving who will not be with us to celebrate the dawn of the new decade, and their loved ones."

So, light up!

What's The Pledge and Where's The Party On New Year's Eve?

by Frank Clark
Staff Writer

New Year's Eve is traditionally a time of celebration and parties, a time to enjoy the memories of the past year and look ahead to the challenges of the next.

Many, also, are the resolutions that people make and break for the upcoming year. How many of us have sworn to eat less, exercise more, work harder, go to church more often, take more time with the kids, or strive to reach a new goal? It's a common ritual to make a New Year's pledge, and, for many, it's just as much a ritual to break the resolution within hours of making it.

We at the Floyd County Times decided to make a few random phone calls around the county and see what pledges people were hoping to keep in the coming year. And since we were being nosy, we also asked what plans people had for their New Year's Eve celebrations.

Here are a few responses:

Marie Childer of Allen had one clear and simple pledge she would make to herself. She resolved to lose weight. As for her celebrations on the big night, she hadn't any plans, as of press time.

Carolyn Hale of Maytown showed the cynical understanding of a long time resolution maker. She resolved not to make a resolution to lose weight, because, she says, it's never kept. She plans to stay home and spend New Year's Eve with her family.

Gheard Martin of David is pledging to live each day to the fullest. In keeping with that resolution, Martin intends to stay up and watch the ball on TV come down at midnight, New Year's Eve.

Christy Bryant of Wheelwright, clearly a follower of the Mario Andretti and Bobby Unser Schools of Driving, plans to stop driving so fast in 1990.

Christine Taylor of Ivel is pledging to attend church regularly. She is also going to be good on New Year's Eve by eating pizza at home with the kids.

Goldie Mae DeRossett of Grethel has resolved to help the needy in her neighborhood. To start the year off right, she will be going to a party for the handicapped at the Grethel School, where she's a teacher.

Finally, Dolores Carpenter of Prestonsburg has made a resolution to try and help people. For herself, she hopes to get closer to God. To ring in the New Year, she'll be having a cooking party with friends, which has been a tradition with her for the last four years. Carpenter says that everyone will sit around the fire and talk about old times, as 1990 leaps into being.

Arson Suspected In Stanville Fire

Kentucky State Police investigators reportedly suspect arson in a Stanville fire that started Christmas Eve.

The fire occurred in a house owned by Rubie Stratton. According to Betsy Lane Fire Department reports, authorities have not been able to contact the persons who were renting the house from Stratton.

No one was reported in the house at the time of the blaze, but witnesses say that persons were seen entering and leaving the house before the fire broke out. Evidence of diesel fuel was also found within the residence.

The house was damaged but remained standing. The case is currently under investigation by the Kentucky State Police.

Top Cops For Prestonsburg

Captain Greg Hall, right, and Patrolman Roy Roberts were named Thursday by Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta as the new Chief and Assistant Chief of the Prestonsburg Police Department. Hall, 30, hopes to improve his department's investigative techniques and develop a closer relationship between the police department and the Prestonsburg community.

Prestonsburg Gets New Police Officials

Captain Greg Hall, 30, was named Chief of Police for the city of Prestonsburg Thursday. He steps into the vacancy left by Chief Dickie Campbell, who died of a heart attack Oct. 18.

At the morning announcement in the Prestonsburg City Council room, Patrolman Roy D. Roberts, 45, was also named Assistant Police Chief.

Hall is a 1980 graduate of the police academy at Richmond and has served with the Prestonsburg Police force for nine years.

Roberts, a 1987 graduate of the Richmond police academy, has been with the police force for two years. He takes over a position that has been unfilled since Campbell held the position before being named Chief.

"We're very pleased with the officers we've selected," said Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta. "They work well together and they'll be very beneficial for the city. I'm pleased that we had qualified people to draw from within our own department. Because of this, we didn't need to advertise for these positions outside of the department."

Hall noted that he has several items on his agenda as Chief of Police.

"I don't see any drastic changes, but I do plan on some restructuring," said Hall. "I plan to improve the investigative techniques of the police force. I'll also look to improve community relations. I'd like to have open meetings with community members."

Latta noted that improvement in the investigative abilities of the police was a recognized need and that an officer would soon be selected to serve as a full-time investigator.

Roberts' responsibilities will include working with dispatchers, directing the 13-member auxiliary police force and handling administrative tasks.

Said Roberts, when asked if the promotion to Assistant Chief of Police came as a surprise, "It was a bit of a surprise, but I'm tickled to death about it."

Hall is married and has one child. He lives in Ivel, but plans a move to Prestonsburg in the near future.

Roberts is a life-time resident of Prestonsburg, is married and has two daughters.

A Bundle Of Busted Pipes

Shawn Combs works to repair a broken water pipe at the home of his parents, T.A. and Dana Combs of Maytown. According to Shawn, the water pipe burst six inches from the water meter, on the Combs' property Christmas morning. About 92,000 gallons of water poured out before they were able to shut off the flow. Water problems like these extend throughout the county.

Regional Roundup

Fire Kills Letcher County Woman

DUNHAM—Betty Toth, 61, of Dunham was trapped and killed in a fire at her home last week. According to eyewitness reports, Toth had tried to escape the fire, which apparently started in the kitchen, through her bedroom window. Her husband, former Jenkins mayor William Toth, and passers-by tried to free the woman but were unable to remove her.

Neon and Jenkins firefighters responded to the the 5 p.m. fire in the two story "camp house", but were also unable to free Mrs. Toth from the blaze. She was pronounced dead at the scene.

Foul play is not suspected. The fire is under investigation by a Kentucky State Police arson investigator and the state fire marshal's office. (Mountain Eagle)

1989 Record Coal Year

HUNTINGTON, W. Va.—The National Coal Association estimates that 973 million tons of coal will be mined by the end of 1989, up 23 million tons from 1988 production levels.

This increase comes despite the six-week wildcat strike which idled 46,000 workers in 10 states during June and July of this year.

Employment in the coal industry continued to drop steadily in West Virginia. In 1984, 39,900 miners worked the coal fields. As of August, 1989, 22,800 miners were working in the state. (Mountain Eagle)

Johnson County Soldier Wounded In Panama

JOHNSON COUNTY—A soldier from Tutor Key is reportedly among one of 303 US servicemen wounded during last week's invasion of Panama.

David Ward, 19, was wounded in the leg Thursday, Dec. 21, when a mortar round exploded near him. He is reported to be recovering at a Texas hospital. His parents, Earl and Connie Ward of Tutor Key, were in Texas Tuesday and were not available for comment. (Earl Ward teaches at the Carl D. Perkins Job Corps Center in Prestonsburg.) (Paintsville Herald)

Louisa GI In Panama

LOUISA—Lawrence County native David S. Lassiter Jr. is one of the United States soldiers who spent the holidays in tense Panama. A 1986 graduate of Lawrence County High School, Lassiter, 21, is a Specialist E-4 with Charlie Company, a paratrooper infantry regiment out of Fort Bragg, N.C. (Big Sandy News)

City Worker Found Dead In Car

WHITESBURG—A city sanitation worker was found dead in his car last week in front of a stop sign at a Whitesburg intersection.

Steve Stidham, 27, was discovered about 5 a.m. Tuesday morning by Whitesburg Police patrolman James Pelfry, who found Stidham sitting in his car with the engine off. It appeared that Stidham had pulled up to the three-way stop at Solomon Road, Jenkins Road, and Fifth Street, turned off his engine and died.

The body was sent to Frankfort for an autopsy, which is considered standard procedure in this type of case. Results are expected in three to four weeks. (Mountain Eagle)

Water Crisis

Prestonsburg Utilities. "We serve the Left and Right Fork of Middle Creek, all of Martin and Bull Creek, new Allen, the Prater Creek Water District and a number of other water districts. It's not that we just serve Prestonsburg. Seventy-five percent of our water goes out into county, and right now we just can't supply all the water that's needed in the direction of Pike County. We don't have the water to pump."

Howard added that the water problem developed primarily from a combination of "...broken water mains, service lines and meters, as well as broken pipes in people's homes and water running in houses to prevent freeze-ups."

Howard also noted that the problem was not found only in Floyd County.

"All across Kentucky, they're having these problems. Lexington is reporting many of the same things. It's beyond man's control, at this point. Until we get a break in the weather, we'll continue to have problems."

The break in weather came Thursday, as temperatures rose into the 40s, but the damaged caused by the icy weather is still being evaluated.

"We had a main line bust at Warco, off of Route 80, below Maytown, on Wednesday and a pump station flooded in the Hi Hat area Tuesday," said Daniels, water plant manager for Beaver-Elkhorn in Allen. "We've also got numerous reports of freeze-ups."

"Luckily, we've had no problems at the plant and have been pumping at full capacity. That's 860,000 gallons a day serving 1800 customers. We serve Allen and all up Left Beaver and Right Beaver to Wayland, and every nook and hollow in between," Daniels said.

He reported that the company's four-man crew has been working long hours since the Friday before Christmas to keep up with customer calls of frozen pipes and meters. He estimated that more than 100 frozen meters had been replaced, as of Wednesday.

"We had 45 reported frozen meters on Tuesday," said Daniels. "It's a real mess."

Daniels said that some people have had no water for four or five days and that most problems stem from shallowly buried or exposed water lines which have frozen solid. Beaver-Elkhorn, which sells water to the town of David on a wholesale basis, shut water off to the town David Wednesday morning.

"David is considered a secondary customer," said Daniels. "We reserved the right to turn off David in these types of emergencies. It's only fair that we first supply our primary customers, which we're able to do. There's no way, right now, to say when we can return to David. We just can't say."

In order to cope with fire dangers in the Betsy Layne area, the Prestonsburg Fire Department has agreed to provide fire pump trucks, if necessary, to backup the Betsy Layne Volunteer Fire Department.

"We really appreciated Mayor Latta's offer to help us out," said Jacobs, of the Sandy Valley Water District. "We keep our own truck filled up from the creeks, but we can use the backup."

Water officials have made several recommendations to customers still receiving water. Water users are asked to conserve water, using it only for essential needs. It is also recommended that exposed pipes be insulated to prevent future freeze-ups. It is not advisable to put heat on frozen meters, as this could damage the devices.

Finally, if serious leaks are found, water should be shut off until repairs can be made. However, until all serious leaks are identified in the various water systems around the county, full water capacity and service will remain questionable.

"I got one call from a man whose son was handicapped and needed frequent baths to treat him," said Jacobs. "His water's been out and the boy can't be treated. Pikeville and Prestonsburg haven't told us when water will be pumped into the area, and until we get it, we're going to face these kinds of serious problems."

Individuals who have no water and are house-bound are advised to call Disaster Emergency Services 886-9157 for assistance.

Want To Take The Census

The US Census Bureau is looking for area residents to help with the 1990 census. The temporary jobs will last from five to eight weeks and require the census taker to have access to a car.

The Employment Services in Prestonsburg has more details on the jobs, but the bureau has scheduled testing dates. Testing will take place today at the Floyd County Courthouse Annex; Jan. 2 at the Allen Fire Department; Jan. 3 at the Prestonsburg Armory; Jan. 4 at the Cow Creek Fire Department and Jan. 5 at the Courthouse. The tests will be given at each location at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Pledge

talk to us on the phone. Some said they didn't make resolutions. Others were lacking in plans for the grandest party night of the year. We suspect that many didn't want to give away where the best party in the county would be. Nonetheless, we're grateful to all those who bared their souls and took a little ribbing from us for these New Year's resolutions.

As for me, I resolve to work fewer hours, while writing Pulitzer Prize winning news stories every week.

Somehow, I've got the feeling that this is another one of my New Year's pledges that's made to be broken.

Post Office Offers Tips On Suspicious Mail

According to US Postal Inspectors, a package that looks different from the type of mail an organization usually receives should arouse suspicion.

Package receivers who are suspicious of a mailing and are unable to verify its contents with the addressee or sender, or who are unfamiliar with the sender, are advised to take several precautions.

*Do not open the article.
*Isolate the mailing and evacuate the immediate area.

*Do not put the envelope or package in water or a confined area.

*Contact the local police department or postal inspector for professional assistance. Do not worry about possible embarrassment if the item turns out to be harmless.

The advisory comes after some reported deaths from mail bombs in the South.

Dogs Just Want To Have Fun!

These Floyd County dogs don't seem to mind the snow and cold temperatures, but area veterinarians say that cold and ice can pose real hazards to pets. Proper shelter and adequate nutrition are two factors which improve the ability of your dog or cat to enjoy, rather than suffer, through the winter.

Safe Pets For Winter Days

by Frank Clark
Staff Reporter

Cold winter temperatures make everyone uncomfortable, but it is frequently the family pet that suffers the most, when left outside in below-freezing weather.

Local veterinarians in Floyd County noticed that the recent cold snap, which produced wind-chills of well below zero, did have an adverse effect on some area animals.

"I saw four or five cases of dogs that were frozen to death," said Prestonsburg veterinarian Rudolph Ousley. "Even if a dog was protected by some sort of shelter, with the wind-chills that we experienced, it sometimes wasn't enough. To protect the animal, the doghouse should be out of the wind and have dry bedding material in it."

According to Ousley, the age of the animal, its nutritional level and the animal's body fat all play a role in determining how well it can handle cold temperatures. Ousley also noted that putting an animal out from a warm home, into below freezing temperatures is not good for the animal's system.

"I've seen two cases of indoor dogs, which have gone out into freezing temperatures, and developed pneumonia," says Mahendra Varia, a veterinarian in Martin. "Indoor animals should not be exposed for long periods of time to the cold, and outdoor animals need to have an adequate, covered shelter. Dogs can also cut themselves on ice, so pet-owners should watch for injured feet."

Veterinarian Carol Howard of Beaver Creek didn't report any cold weather injuries among her patients, but did warn against the dangers of poisoning caused by car anti-freeze.

"Animals get into anti-freeze in the fall and winter because it tastes sweet, but it's very poisonous," said

Howard. "People need to be very careful about how they dispose of old anti-freeze. I've had two or three cases of it this past fall, and it's often too late to do anything about it."

Howard also noted that chemicals and salts used to de-ice roads can irritate the feet of pets. Owners should keep an eye out for limping or licking after an animal is outside, near salted roads or walkways.

Cats, who are usually good at taking care of themselves, require special consideration around cars. Cats like to crawl up under car hoods to get close to warm engine blocks. It's recommended, before turning on a car engine, that the owner bang on the hood or beep the horn to scare the cat out and give it time to get to a safe distance.

Keeping these points in mind, Floyd County pet owners can ensure that their animals are kept healthy and safe, until warm days return in the Spring.

Proper Addressing Speeds Mail

By Ann M. Robinson
Consumer Advocate
US Postal Service

No one likes to have a letter returned or misdelivered. While the Postal Service makes mistakes, there are often problems with insufficient or improper addressing which cause mail to be delayed, misdirected or returned.

Studies indicate that 33 percent of addresses entering the system for processing contain one or more deficiencies which can have a negative effect on the processing or delivery of mail. Here are some tips that will help you ensure that your letters are properly addressed.

The destination address should appear in the middle of the envelope with the recipient's name on the top line. The line directly beneath should contain the recipient's street address, post office box number or rural route number and box number. If mail is for a multi-unit complex or apartment building, place the room or apartment number to the right of the street address or on the line directly above the street address. The bottom line must show the recipient's city and state and should include the zip code.

An example of a "letter perfect" address would be:
Charles Brown
ABC Moving Company
2102 Elm St., Apt. 303
Miami, FL 33152-1234

A return address should be included on every envelope. This will ensure that if there is a problem with the delivery, it will be returned to you. Once again, be sure to include any apartment number on the front upper left corner of the envelope. The return address format should be in the same format as the destination address.

US Postal Service does not encourage the use of dual addresses because it could cause confusion as to the intended delivery place. However, if both a post office box number and a street address are used, make sure the place where you want the mail delivered appears on the line immediately above the city, state and zip code line. If you wish a letter to be delivered to a post office box when using the dual address concept, it should appear this way:

Charles Brown
2102 Elm St., Apt. 303
PO Box 219
Miami, FL 33152-1219

Use of the zip code, as well as the expanded zip code called ZIP + 4 code, is recommended. Using the zip code helps the Postal Service direct mail efficiently and accurately. The ZIP + 4 code is composed of the original 5-digit code plus a 4-digit add-on which identifies a geographic segment within a delivery area such as a city block or an office building. Even if you do not use your 4-digit add-on number, use of the regular 5-digit zip code helps prevent delays. If you need zip code information, call your local post office.

Keep these guidelines in mind and you will get the best service:

- *Capitalize everything in the address and type of print clearly.
- *Use common abbreviations such as ST, RD, CIR, and BLVD. No punctuation is necessary on the address.
- *Use the 2-letter state abbreviations, found in the Consumer's Directory of Postal Services and Products, available free in post office lobbies.
- *Use zip codes.

Finance Assistance For Homebuyers

The challenge for most homebuyers in 1989, as well as in the next decade, is overcoming the initial financial barriers to the housing market.

"Finding sources for a down payment, qualifying for a mortgage, and meeting closing costs — the basic mechanics of home ownership — remain the major obstacles," says William Cahill Jr., an author in a recent issue of "Real Estate Today," the official publication of the National Association of Realtors.

Cahill addresses the state and local government assistance programs available for first-time buyers. Specifically, he discusses down payment assistance programs, mortgage revenue bonds (MRB), mortgage credit certificates, and innovative new programs designed to offer exceptionally low interest rates to potential homebuyers.

"States have been able to develop some innovative programs by combining their own resources with MRB proceeds," writes Cahill. Current MRBs, the primary vehicle for assisting first-time homebuyers, are set to expire in December.

"The ultimate goal," Cahill states, "is to make more mortgage finance programs accessible to, and affordable for first-time buyers."

Editorial

(This editorial appeared originally in The Floyd County Times on Dec. 21, 1988. It bears repeating.)

If we were to compile a list of all the individuals and organizations that have collected and distributed gifts for the needy this holiday season, the list would go on for several pages. Even then, we would probably miss some.

This newspaper has carried story after story in the past several weeks of acts of generosity and kindnesses relating to the season. Even so, we have likely missed the majority. Floyd Countians, you can be proud of the outpouring that exemplifies the seasonal spirit.

But come Dec. 26, the same families who needed food before Christmas will need it again. The same children who needed shoes before the holiday will need a warm coat and new underwear. The same father will need a job. The same mother will need an education. The same grandmother will need a touch, a hug and a thoughtful word.

Let's play "what if" for a minute. What if when we go to the grocery store next week, we buy an extra bag of oranges or a jug of milk for the family in the ramshackle house down the road? What if when we buy a pair of socks for Billie, we pick up just one extra pair for that child in Billie's class whose bare heels show through the raggedy ones he wears? What if when we're out riding around, we stop in to see great-uncle George for just five minutes?

We have a friend who resolved years ago to do at least one act every day to help someone else. To carry the resolution a step further, he never lets that person know what he's done. Alas, in his lifetime he won't make a tremendous difference in the condition of the world. But he does make small, active differences every day that amount to more than a fruit basket at Christmas.

Consider what a difference could be made if each of us would grab hold of the Christmas spirit — the spirit of giving and hope — and give it away all year. Whew! The thought is so overwhelming it's frightening. But,

Should I dare take this space and once again speak of the now well known Muddy Gut, Ky.? Or better yet, Wheelwright High School?

Why not? This seems to be an extremely hot subject, especially over the holidays.

Yes, "48 Hours" has put Muddy Gut on the map, on t-shirts, caps, and I'll bet coffee cups aren't far behind.

And "48 Hours" did not attempt to show any of the beautiful homes they had to pass in order to reach Muddy Gut, nor did they skim the parking lot of Wheelwright High School. If they had, they would have had to show America the Z-28s, Mercedes, Corvettes, Thunderbirds — just to name a few I've seen in passing. Instead, those of us sitting at home watching our TV's were expected to preview these Wheelwright High School students going into a dilapidated school barefoot!

Well, excuse me, Mr. Rather and "48 Hours." Yes, there are people in Eastern Kentucky (just like elsewhere in America) like those you chose to show on television. And, yes, Wheelwright needs a new school — and is getting one, I might add. Where was that in your show?

I, like many of my fellow graduates of Wheelwright High School, am extremely proud to have represented Wheelwright in scholastics, sports, debates and, also, we may have invented the cliché, "You can't get there from here." But many have made professionals and are college graduates or are attending college now.

I spoke with a gentleman from Indiana who called the paper, furious over the ridicule he's gotten from fellow workers since "48 Hours" aired. It's for people such as him I feel sorry.

But we live here, and we know what it's really like. So, stand tall.

5th Grader Reviews '48 Hours'

Dear Editor,

I did not like the show "48 Hours." It was discouraging and depressing. I do not see why you couldn't have showed a more positive view. Such as Jenny Wiley Lodge or some of the finer homes in Eastern Kentucky. And the new schools being built. Plus some nice hospitals, Highlands Regional in Prestonsburg and Pikeville Methodist. There's a lot of obstacles to overcome in Eastern Kentucky, and you have to be able to sacrifice to live here. But the families in Eastern Kentucky have more unity and love for one another. And the moral and spiritual values are greater than anyone else. And at least the drugs aren't sold openly on the streets as they are in New York.

Remembers Lula Vires

Dear Editor,

I read the story about Lula Vires in your paper. I have the entire story in my scrap book and I suppose I am the only person now living who attended her funeral as she was laid to rest in my grandfather Allen Wells' cemetery on Johns Creek.

The funeral took place just at the close the day just across Johns Creek from my grandfather's house. My father Winfield Wells and my mother and I were visiting there and they allowed me to go with the funeral procession which consisted only of her mother Charlotte, myself and the men who carried the casket. I was only eight years old but I still remember the deep sorrow I felt for the grieving mother. My mother was up the entire night consoling me.

All my life as I grew up I listened and remembered all the details of her murder. It was a cruel dastardly murder. At that time it was talked by almost everyone how this brutal man followed this girl to school and way-laid her everywhere she went. Lula already had a crippled boy by the forced attentions of this man and it was said she was pregnant at the time she was murdered by the same scoundrel. Her father was old and sick.

They all feared this man, but he was ordered to stay away from their daughter. He entered their home on Sunday before Lula disappeared and was ordered to leave but refused. He ate at their dinner table and insisted on serving the coffee. Lula's father died from that coffee he drank. It was well known and talked that he told Lula he had decided to marry her and asked her to go to Elkhorn City with him where they would be married. Some time that week they went to Elkhorn City. Lula was murdered there and thrown in the river. I have no proof of this except what everyone talked around the entire community. I have heard all the talk and I have the first ballad, the correct one, that was written about her tragic death. It's a dirty shame that the murderer was never caught and hanged by the neck until he was dead. I also heard it talked that his sister was in Elkhorn City that night and connected with the murder. Why friends and neighbors never helped this poor girl will never be known. Perhaps they were afraid. I will write here the true ballad of the song. I do not know the name of the writer.

Ballad of Lula Vires
Come all you people
From all over the world
And listen to a story
About a little girl.

Her name was Lula Vires
In Auxier she did dwell
A town in old Kentucky
A place you all know well.
She loved young John Coyer
Was engaged to be his wife.
He ruined her reputation
And stole her sweet young life.
They went to Elkhorn City
Some sixty-six miles away
And registered at a hotel
Just at the close of day.
And as the darkness fell
They walked out for a stroll.

It was in December
The wind was blowing cold.
As they stood by the river
Cold waters running deep
Johnny said to Lula
In the bottom you must sleep.
Oh, do you mean it, Johnny.
It surely cannot be.
How could you bear to murder
A helpless girl like me.
She threw her arms around him
Before him she did kneel.
Around her waist he tied
A piece of railroad steel.
He threw her in the river.
The bubbles rose around.
There burst upon the water
A sad and mournful sound.
He hurried to the depot
And boarded a train for home
Believing that his crime
Would never be known

Poor Lula soon was missing.
No where could she be found.
They vainly searched the country
For many miles around.

John Coyer joined the Army,
Some months had come and passed

And in the Ohio River
Her body was found at last.
They took her from the river
And carried her to the town.
The steel that was tied around her
Weighed even thirty pounds.

They sent for a reporter.
His name was Ira Dent.
He printed it in a paper
Around the world it went.
Her mother read the news
While sitting in her home.
She quickly left her chair,
Ran to the telephone,

To send a message to Ironton
Saying I will come and see
If the body is my daughter
It surely cannot be.
She arrived at the place.
Described the clothes she wore

But when she saw the corpse
Fell fainting to the floor.
John Coyer must be arrested
Confined in the county jail
Being charged with this dreadful murder.

No one will go his bail.
They must put him in a prison,
Lock him in a cell,
Then to the electric chair
And forward to Hell.

It was talked that the man who composed this song had no idea that this murderer had forced his attentions on this pretty young girl since she was a mere child. It was also talked that Coyer joined the Army under an assumed name. His young son walked the streets doing odd jobs to survive with one arm as he was born badly crippled. He filed for his father's Social Security to find John Coyer was not listed in any branch of the US Army. We know God will surely reward this cruel murderer.

I am now 80 years of age and I will never forget this terrible crime or the fact that the murderer was unpunished.

Headlights Convey Drinking Message

Dec. 11 was a special day for the people who have labored long and hard to get drunk drivers off the road. President George Bush, seeking to raise the awareness level of the public to the dangers of alcohol-impaired drivers on the road, declared drunk driving a national crisis. This recognition was a milestone in the battle against drunk and drugged driving.

Following the Bush announcement, a group of individuals representing many organizations gathered on Capitol Hill. They discussed their victory and what must be done if we are going to get impaired drivers off the road. We cannot wait any longer to take decisive action if we are going to stop needless, preventable deaths that take place each day on our nation's highways. The statistics tell a gruesome story:

Each year more than 25,000 people lose their lives in alcohol-related crashes.

About 40 percent of all fatal crashes involve an intoxicated driver or pedestrian. In 1988, about 38 percent of all fatally-injured drivers were considered legally intoxicated as defined in most states.

Between 7 p.m. and 3 a.m. on weekends, 10 percent of all drivers on the road are legally impaired or drunk.

There is something each and every one of us can do to keep the roads safe. If you are going out and plan to have a few drinks, don't drive. Plan ahead to travel with someone who will not be drinking. This one simple thought could mean the difference between a happy holiday season or a tragedy.

I am also making a personal appeal to people throughout Kentucky and the nation to turn on their headlights from noon to 3 p.m. on Dec. 31 when they drive. The procession of headlights will be a bright reminder to other drivers not to drink and drive as we ring in the New Year. It will also be a memorial to those victims of drunk driving who will not be with us to celebrate the dawn of a new decade.

The only way we can make our roads safe and do our part is by making sure impaired drivers never get behind the wheel of a car. This pledge is something we should all make for the new year.

Let User Pay

Dear Editor,

Many good people of high status claim to have answers to our illegal drug problem but nothing is working and nothing will until the profit motive is taken away from the producer and the seller — not by legalization as some now advocate. Instead go after the user by depriving him of the ability to pay, by making the possession cost prohibitive. For example: First conviction: 50 percent of his assets; second conviction: 100 percent of his assets. In addition, any adult convicted of a gift or sale to a minor to receive the death penalty.

This will let the user pay most of the cost of eradicating this scourge on our nation. This radical step might require amending or ignoring our Constitution for a short time which would be deplorable. The alternative of losing this war would be catastrophic for all time.

Maybe It's Not Too Late To Winterize Your Car

Snow, sleet, freezing temperatures, salt — your car really takes a beating in the winter.

The average driver does realize that a car needs extra care in the winter, but usually only after the car has broken down on a slushy expressway in the biggest snowstorm of the year.

Fortunately you can minimize the chances of a breakdown this winter if you take some time to prep your car for harsh weather.

One common cause of a car not starting in the winter is a frozen gas line. When the water that's a result of condensation in the gas tank finds its way into the gas line and freezes, it not only stops the flow of fuel, but in many cases it will ruin the fuel pump, too.

For easier starts on cold mornings and better motor performance year round, many experts recommend adding gas line anti-freeze to the tank every time you fill it up.

Also, remember that condensation occurs in your gas station's large gas tank just as it does in your car's small one. Buy gas from a busy gas station in order to ensure that the gas going into your tank has a low water content.

Corrosion on the battery connections can mean a slow start or even no start under wintry conditions. At the same time you check the connections, check the electrolyte (fluid) level in the battery. If your battery is four years old, have it replaced.

Check the tension on the fan belts and replace them if they are four years old. Doling out $10 to replace the belt before it goes will save you money in the long run. When a belt breaks, it often damages the engine, costing $200 or so.

Finally, have a mechanic check the radiator anti-freeze. A 50/50 mix of anti-freeze and water will give your car -35 degree freezing protection in winter. Because anti-freeze raises the boiling point as well as lowers the freezing point, it protects your car all year.

Recycling Meeting Set

The Kentucky Beverage Industry Recycling Program will hold its 9th annual meeting at the Capital Plaza Hotel in Frankfort on Tuesday, Jan. 23, from 2:30 p.m. until 9 p.m.

Planned features this year include a mini trade show, a reception for Kentucky's State General Assembly, and program presentations by Carl Bradley, Secretary of the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet, and R. Steven Brown, Director of the Center for Environment and Natural Resources of the Council of State Governments. Opportunities will be provided for questions and answers in the program segment of the annual meeting.

Cost of registration for the meeting is $25, which includes refreshments and the reception. Contact Kentucky BIRP, P.O. Box 1143, Frankfort, Ky 40602 for information.

FEMA Closes Area Hotline

The Prestonsburg field office of the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) will close its hotline operations within the next week, according to Ron Padgett, of the state Division of Disaster and Emergency Services (DES). FEMA has been in the area since late October, in response to flooding which hit 11 Eastern Kentucky counties between Oct. 16 through Oct. 18.

The state DES staff which have been working at the field office has returned to Frankfort and the disaster hotline number has been replaced with an ordinary business number, (502) 564-8650, at the National Guard Center.

Assistance to individuals and families was provided to about 500 applicants. Payments from the individual and family grant program now totals almost $1.1 million.

According to Padgett, public assistance for local and state government agencies has reached $1.4 million. If prescribed work is completed by the local and state agencies, and needed documentation is provided, as much as $5.9 million could be approved.

Counties included in this federal and state recovery program were Floyd, Clay, Jackson, Knott, Knox, Leslie, Letcher, Magoffin, Owsley, Perry and Pike Counties.

Board Meeting Set For Jan. 10

The Floyd County Board of Education has scheduled its next regular meeting for Jan. 10 at 6 p.m. at Betsy Layne High School.

Among items on the agenda are the superintendent's recommendations on employment and contracts and reports on per pupil expenditures, emergency procedures, two-way radio communication and family life planning skills.

Columbus Jervis

Columbus Jervis, 77, of Cow Creek, died Wednesday, Dec. 27, at his residence following an extended illness.

Born Jan. 14, 1912, at Endicott, he was the son of the late Thomas Jervis and Caroline Setser Jervis. He was a retired Kentucky/West Virginia gas company employee and a member of the Endicott Freewill Baptist Church.

He was preceded in death by one daughter, Marcella Jervis; two brothers, Virgil Jervis, Thomas Jefferson Jervis; three sisters, Mary Jervis, Hazel Jervis, Ocie Jervis.

Survivors include his wife, Charlene Stepp Jervis; one daughter, Florence Click of Leander; three brothers, Henry Jervis of Prestonsburg, John Hardy Jervis, Endicott, and Wayne C. Jervis, Auxier; two sisters, Irene Jervis, Endicott, and Hattie Bell Strickland, Prestonsburg; four grandchildren, Gwen Endicott, Dwayne Burchett, Deborah Hall and Chester Ray Burchett; and six great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be Dec. 30 at 1 p.m. at his residence with the Revs. Sterlin Bowlen and Bethel Bowlen officiating.

Burial will follow in the Jervis Cemetery at Woods Branch on Cow Creek under the direction of the Nelson/Frazier Funeral Home.

Annie Mae Ramey

Annie Mae Ramey, 73, of Prestonsburg died Wednesday, Dec. 27, at her home following a sudden illness.

The daughter of the late Will and Susan Calhoun Campbell, she was born Oct. 11, 1916, at Water Gap. She was a member of the Town Branch Community Methodist Church.

She was preceded in death by a brother, Arthur Campbell, and a sister, Martha Hatfield, and her husband Albert Ramey.

She is survived by two sons, Alvin

Ramey of Worthington, Ohio, and Kermit Ramey of Columbus, Ohio; five brothers, Rev. Bill Campbell, Lee Campbell, Earl Campbell and Elsie Campbell, all of Prestonsburg, and Wess Campbell of Myrtle; two sisters, Mary Ramey of Wabash, Ind., and Allie Hall of Prestonsburg, and four grandchildren.

Funeral services will be Dec. 30 at 10 a.m. at the Floyd Funeral Home with Revs. Jack DeRossett and James Orbin Dickerson Sr. officiating. Burial will follow in the Ramey Family Cemetery at Volga.

Will Ward

Will Ward, 80, of Buckingham died Dec. 27 at his residence following an extended illness.

Born March 6, 1909, in Knott County, he was the son of Joe Ward and Martha Thornsburg Ward. He was a retired coal miner.

He was preceded in death by a brother, Andy Ward.

Survivors include his mother, 102, of Ohio; his wife Sarah Johnson Ward; three sons, Will Ward Jr., Melvin, Joe Harrison Ward, Wabash, Ind., and Arthur Ward, Eaton, Ind.; six daughters, Dorothy Manns and Cornette Slone of Buckingham, Annette Farmer and Bethel Thornsburg of Wheelwright, Lily May Ward, Martin, and Millie Dye, Orney; three brothers, Brownloe Ward, Knott County, Hasroe Ward, St. Mary's, Ohio, and Perry Ward, Buckingham; four sisters, Lily Little, Burton, Lizzie Thompson, Jacks Creek, Ocie Robashaw of Alabama and Virginia Bates of Ohio; 21 grandchildren and several great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be Dec. 29 (today) at 10 a.m. at the Nelson/Frazier Funeral Home with Old Regular Baptist ministers officiating.

Burial will follow in the Buckingham Cemetery at Buckingham under the direction of the Nelson/Frazier Funeral Home.

Pinnipeds At Center Of Scientist's Tug Of War

By John Barrat
Smithsonian News Service

During mating season in the pack of ice of the remote Bering Sea off Alaska, the air and water are filled with the knocking, ringing and whistling challenges of walrus bulls competing for space near receptive cows on the ice. Dominant males square off with rivals, crashing their formidable tusks down on them with bone-crushing force.

Increasingly, however, new rumblings and challenges are coming as well from scientists defending carefully constructed theories on the ancestral origin of walruses, sea lions and seals.

These creatures, clearly evolved from land-dwelling mammals, are known as pinnipeds, Latin for "fin-footed." Pinnipeds have developed remarkably similar adaptations to life in the ocean during their million of years of existence. Scientists have long debated whether they descended from two distinct ancestors and independently developed similar characteristics, or whether they evolved from a common ancestor. Strong evidence exists for both cases.

Researchers' theories are centered upon a 24- to 25-million-year-old fossil, one of the most important of thousands of pinniped fossils available for study in museums, including the Smithsonian's National Museum of Natural History. Using such fossils along with their living relatives to unravel ancestral links among all animals and plants is the ultimate goal of taxonomists—scientists who classify organisms according to shared features such as physical structure and genetic traits.

"Part of the beauty and strength of science is that it is self-correcting," says Dr. Clayton Ray, a Smithsonian paleobiologist studying the pinniped fossil record. "Old theories are constantly subject to testing by new evidence. With pinnipeds, we are now in a stage of stimulating disagreement. Although the last word isn't yet in, this is an excellent example of the nature of scientific investigation."

Since the late 1800s, most scientists have classified seals separately from sea lions and walruses because of underlying differences in their form, structure and locomotion. On land, seals move by wriggling on their bellies. Their specialized rear flippers, which propel them through water, are useless on shore. Sea lions and walruses prop themselves up on the soles of their front and rear flippers and waddle on land. A circus sea lion balancing a ball on its nose is a familiar example.

"Because walruses and sea lions share long necks, bony canals at the base of their skulls and other similarities with bears, they are widely considered to have evolved millions of years ago from a land-dwelling, bearlike creature," Dr. Andy Wyss, assistant professor of geology at the University of California in Santa Barbara, says. "Seals somewhat resemble otters and weasels and have been thought to have descended from an otterlike creature."

According to Wyss, scientists have traditionally dismissed obvious similarities among seals, sea lions and walruses as evidence of "parallel evolution," rather than evidence of close ancestry. Seals resemble sea lions and walruses, some scientists argue, because any mammal adapting to life in the ocean must inevitably acquire a streamlined body, flipper appendages and a thick layer of blubber.

In 1975, a Smithsonian field collector prospecting 24- to 25-million-year-old sandstone deposits near Bakersfield, Calif., found what may be a "missing link" for all pinnipeds, a nearly complete skeleton of a fin-footed, bearlike animal—Enaliarctos meali. Well preserved skulls of Enaliarctos had earlier been discovered and described by scientists who concluded that the animal was clearly an ancestor of the bear.

About the size of a small male harbor seal, Enaliarctos represents one stage in the transition of pinnipeds from land-dwelling carnivores to a marine carnivore. Because the skeleton strongly resembles a "cross" between a bear and a sea lion, most scientists consider it as further evidence that sea lions and walruses, but not seals, evolved from bearlike ancestors.

But in studying the Enaliarctos skeleton, some scientists observed it possessed a curious number of traits also common to seals. It has an enlarged thumb, for example. In addition, Enaliarctos apparently used all four flippers to swim. Today, sea lions swim mainly with their front flippers, and seals and walruses swim with their hind flippers.

"On the basis of morphological evidence," Wyss explains, "many aspects of Enaliarctos do not necessarily reflect the double-origin theory. It simply isn't feasible to assume that Enaliarctos is closely related only to sea lions and walruses."

"It seems equally logical," he concludes, "that after entering the sea, early pinnipeds branched out in different directions, evolving into sea lions and walruses as well as seals. Over time, these animals individually developed unique specializations such as the peculiar configuration of the ear region and foot in seals."

Additional evidence was found linking seals to the other pinnipeds. For example, a shortened middle bone in the little finger of the foreflipper occurs in all three groups of living pinnipeds, as well as a distinctive arrangement of bones in the front and hind feet and bones of the inner ear. Wyss and others argue that these similarities are very likely the product of common inheritance. Parallel evolution would demand an unlikely coincidence to explain the similarity of such detailed structures.

According to Dr. Lawrence G. Barnes of the the Natural History Museum of Los Angeles County, however, pinniped flippers and other easily modified skeletal parts may change through time, making them an unreliable basis for classification. "Over millions of years, fingers and flippers change," Barnes says. "I put more stock in the structure of the brain case and outer ear structure of these animals because they are deeper in the body and less subject to change from the environment."

He adds, "the ankle bones of seals are vastly different from those of any other mammal. They seem to have evolved way, way back in the group's history when seals were just evolving from land-dwelling animals. Judging from their ankle structure alone, there is no question that seals represent a very different lineage of carnivores than do sea lions and walruses."

Geographic segregation of the fossil record of seals supports Barnes' views and the traditional two-ancestor theory of pinniped evolution. Walrus and sea lion fossils dating back some 25 million years, are found exclusively in deposits in the Pacific Basin—where Enaliarctos was found. Seal fossils extending back nearly as far appear only in Atlantic Basin deposits. Only in the more recent layers of rock do fossils of the three pinniped groups appear together.

Recent biochemical analysis of the genes and proteins in seals, however, has turned up few significant differences between the genetic material of sea lions and walruses. Although this evidence strongly implies a close relationship between all three families, it is not conclusive.

"Taxonomic debates essentially involve two or more different approaches to looking at the same animal," says Dr. Annalisa Berta, another pinniped expert, at San Diego State University. "Different 'philosophies' [about taxonomy] can mean evaluating characteristics differently."

"Looking at a primitive character in an animal doesn't really tell you anything about the group to which it belongs," Berta continues. "Rather it is the derived characteristics that an animal shares with other closely related animals that provide evidence for its unique evolutionary history."

"The only way seals could have obtained characteristics so similar to sea lions and walruses is through inheritance," Berta insists. "The burden is now on those who still think pinnipeds evolved from two lineages to defend their position."

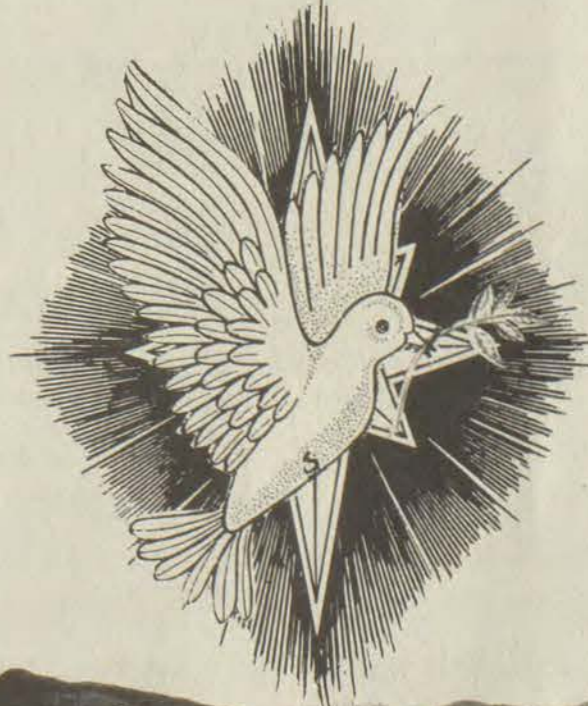

"Resolving the debate over pinniped origins may take years," the Smithsonian's Ray says. "And then again, it may never be resolved to everyone's satisfaction. Very seldom do you find an ultimate truth in taxonomy, or science in general, but instead move closer and closer toward an approximation. For the first time, we have an abundance of fossil evidence and plenty of competent people to study the fossil and living pinnipeds. Unquestionably the past five years and the next five will have produced greater advances in understanding this group than any previous decade."

Rise In Child Abuse, Neglect Cases Recorded in State

For the third year in a row, Kentucky child protection workers have investigated allegations of abuse or neglect of more than 40,000 children. And for the third straight year the inquiries have found evidence of improper treatment of more than 19,000 of those children.

Child abuse and neglect reports were up by 620, total children reported rose by 819 and the number of substantiated child victims increased by 301.

"Having more than 19,000 abused or neglected children enter Kentucky's child protection system for three consecutive years has been a tremendous challenge for our family workers, our placement specialists and our foster parents," said Social Services Commissioner Larry Michalczyk. "If you consider that, in the first third of this decade, we became responsible for about 40,000 new children, but in the final third of the 1980s, we've opened protective services cases on nearly 58,000 more children, I think you get a clearer picture of what we're dealing with."

Kentucky's steadily rising abuse and neglect numbers further compound the stress on the child protection system because of the complexity of the cases which often require years of worker services to the family and the child.

The latest child abuse and neglect statistics are record highs for Kentucky, which may be due to heightened public awareness.

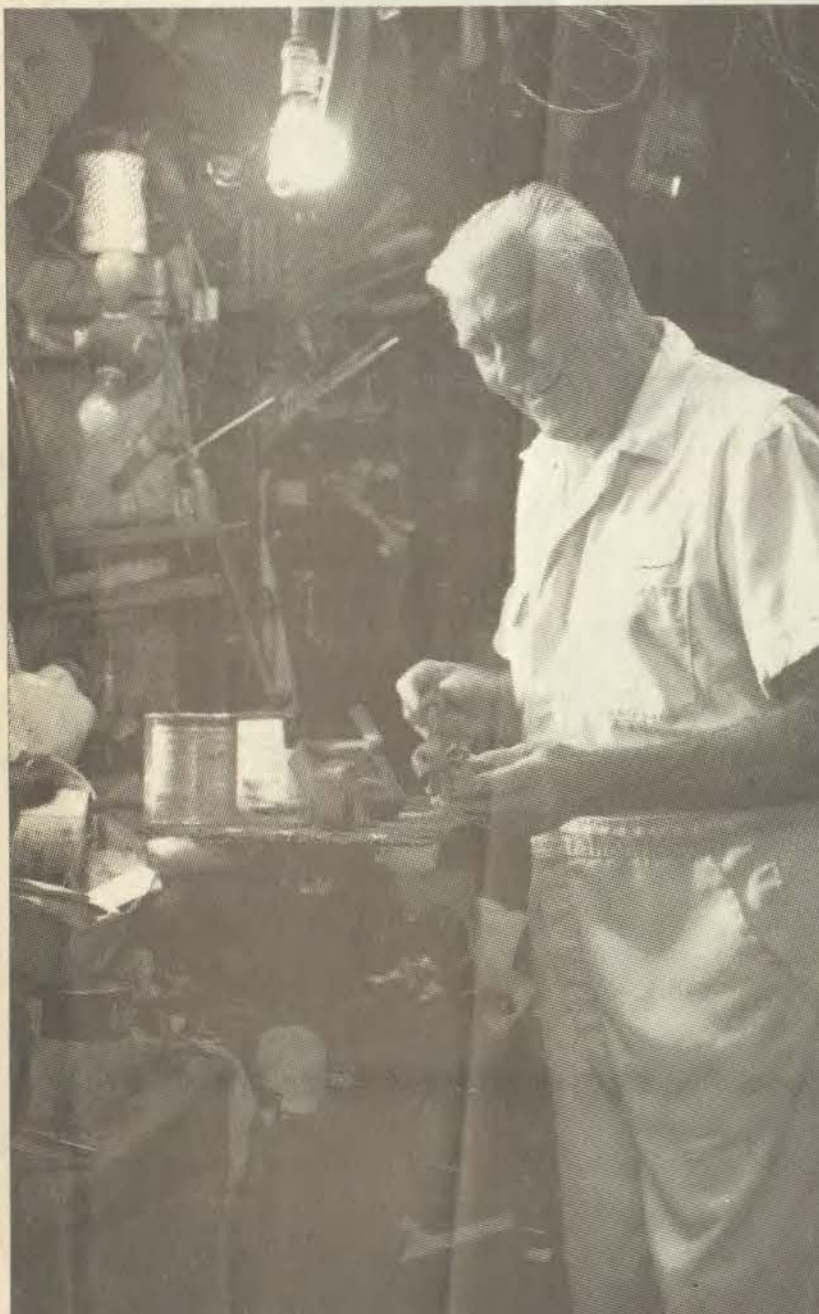

"There is no recent social or economic factor that we can say contributed to the rising numbers," he said. "We do know that more people now consider child abuse a matter to be reported for investigation by the proper authorities."

Wise In Years. Young At Heart. Great American Investor.

If you stop for gas at Wally Bonfield's service station, be prepared to fill up on a few good stories, as well. Wally's seen a lot of things change since he opened Bonfield's back in 1927. Thankfully, there's always been one thing he could count on—U.S. Savings Bonds, the Great American Investment. "Like it or not, I might have to retire some day," he says. "I'm just glad I found a way to do it comfortably." Bonds pay competitive rates, and they're one of the safest investments around. Which leaves a lot of folks thinking that Wally is wise beyond his years.

Auto Club Defends Use Of New Air Bags

Auto safety reached a new milestone in 1989, according to Chuck Kuebler of the United States Auto Club.

Federal law that took effect Sept. 1 requires all domestic and imported cars sold in the US to have front-seat, driver-side air bags or automatic seat belts.

While seat belt use hit a record 43.4 percent last year, questions regarding air bags are a great concern to many motorists. Many consumers are finding that even their dealers often do not have a lot of information about these devices, Kuebler said.

Hidden in the steering wheel hub and on the right side of the dashboard, air bags have been proven to provide effective protection in frontal crashes. In one study conducted by General Motors, occupants in cars with air bags had a death and injury rate 50 percent lower than for non-air bag cars.

Air bags are designed to inflate only in frontal impacts equivalent to hitting a solid wall at 12 mph or higher. In the unlikely event of an inadvertent air bag release, you would not lose control of the car, Kuebler said. General Motors tested driver reaction by inflating air bags without warning at speeds up to 45 mph. The company reported that "without exception, the drivers retained control of the automobile."

Although air bags are best used in conjunction with seat belts, they are designed to protect unbelted occupants in the front seat. Equipping cars with air bags reduced the average injury severity in serious frontal crashes by 64 percent, even though more than 80 percent of the occupants were unbelted, according to industry sources.

Air bags require no maintenance. They are designed to work for the life of the car in which they are installed, Kuebler said.

After a crash severe enough to deploy air bags, most cars are damaged beyond repair. For cars that can be repaired, the bags should be repaired or replaced, just like the brakes, the lights or other parts of the car.

Finally, air bags work in multiple crashes. That is, in a crash in which a vehicle hits another, bounces off, and then is involved in a second impact, air bags are designed to protect front-seat occupants throughout the crash sequence.

Next year, consumers can expect 25 to 30 percent of new cars to contain air bags. The Highway Loss Data Institute estimates about 2.9 million 1990-model cars will have them, up from 700,000 in 1989.

Veterans Advisor To Be At Armory

Counselor Betty Blair of the Kentucky Division of Veterans Affairs will be at the National Guard Armory, north of Prestonsburg, on Jan. 3 from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Blair is to provide counseling and assistance to veterans and their families in filing claims for state and federal benefits. The service is free.

Have You Been Naughty Or Nice?

From the look on this child's face, who could doubt that she's been nice? The 'Toy For Tots' program sponsored by the First Commonwealth Bank, Bank Josephine, First Guarantee National Bank and Messers brought toys, new shoes, fruit and candy to hundreds of area children last week. According to Dale McKinney, of WMDJ, over $4000 in new toys were donated to children whose families expressed a "legitimate need." An estimated 500-600 children participated in the program.

Recycling Used Motor Oil Saves In Many Ways

Nearly 19 million gallons of used automotive and industrial oil are generated each year in Kentucky. While much of this oil is recycled, millions of gallons are carelessly dumped onto the land, set out with the garbage or poured into sanitary sewers.

Used oil contains such harmful chemical wastes as lead, cadmium, and barium. These chemicals, which can contaminate soil and drinking water supplies, are hazardous to human health.

Most of the motor oil is thrown away by people who change their own oil themselves. But do-it-yourself oil changers have an alternative—recycling.

Here are three good reasons to recycle used motor oil.

It protects your water. Used oil dumped on the ground or in storm sewers can eventually find its way into water supplies. Heavy rains can transport oil from saturated soils into our waterways.

One quart of used oil can spoil two million gallons of drinking water and can form an oil slick nearly two acres in size.

It conserves your energy resources. Used oil can be reprocessed into heating oil or lubricating oil or used in the manufacture of other products. The four million gallons of oil thrown away each year in Kentucky could be turned into heating oil for more than 5,000 homes. Used oil can be re-refined for lubricating oil with one-fourth the energy required to produce new oil. Re-refined oil is as good as new oil.

It's easy. Many local service stations and other collection centers throughout Kentucky will accept used oil collected from your autos, lawn mowers, tractors, and boats.

To recycle oil, simply drain it into a clean container, transfer it into an unbreakable, sealable container and take it to a collection center displaying a blue sign that says "Return Your Used Oil Here".

It is illegal to dump used oil and to use it to control dust or weeds. A person may be fined up to $1,000 per day for each violation. Local laws may also provide severe penalties for dumping oil.

Check with the service station near you and make recycling a part of your daily routine. When we protect our environment, we protect our health.

Hornets To Invade Devils' Den Tomorrow

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The McDowell Daredevils will be looking to snap a seven-game losing streak and pick up their first win of the season when the Magoffin Hornets come to the "Devils Den" tomorrow night in high school basketball action.

McDowell enters the contest having lost all seven of its games in 1989. Johnny Ray Turner's troops would like nothing better than to end 1989 with a big win over Danny Adams' Hornets.

The Daredevils have looked good in most of their games this year. But they seem to have a period in each game when they let down and allow their opponents the opportunity to pull out in front.

The talent is there for this McDowell team. A desire to win seems present at the start of each contest, but that desire seems to fade when the Daredevils fall behind.

Keith Shelton has shown signs of being more aggressive in the middle and on the boards. Shelton must be the leader for the Daredevils. His senior experience is very valuable to a team that is looking for its first win.

Stacy Hall and Marc Hall will have to display more offensive prowess for the Daredevils against Magoffin County. Marc Hall has shown he can score some points but hasn't had the really big game that he had against Millard on opening night when he totaled 32 points. McDowell is a young team and must get its offense from the veterans.

Defense hasn't been a question mark, except for the two holiday games against Henry Clay and Lafayette. The Daredevils played a solid first half, both offensively and defensively, against Allen Central on Dec.

14. Coach Turner vows that this is a good basketball team and will get better during the season.

Magoffin County likes to run the court. The team likes to spread its offense and is not bashful about putting up the three-pointers. Although not big, the Hornets make up for that disadvantage with quickness. Stamina, or the lack of it, is one of the shortcomings of the Hornets. They seem to wear down easier than you would expect. However, once they get their second wind, they are hard to contain. McDowell will definitely have the height advantage in this one. The Daredevils can also play the up tempo game, as has been a trademark of a Turner coached team.

Keys to a Daredevil win: Contain the inside game of Ronald Traylor and Don Helton. Pressure the outside shooting of Jeff Castle. Control the defensive boards, not allowing the Hornets second and third opportunities at the basket.

Game time is 8 p.m. with the game being carried live on WMDJ-FM.

Rough Game

Jedon Hood (24) recovers a ball on this play against the Lady Bobcats of Betsy Layne. Hood scored 17 points as the Lady Trojans fell to the Lady Cats, 58-43.

Prestonsburg Falls To Lyon County, 76-66

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Prestonsburg Blackcats lost to Lyon County, 76-66, in the first round game of the Lyon County Invitational Basketball Tournament Tuesday night. With the weather like it was, doubts were evident that the team would even make the trip.

The Blackcats placed only one player in double figures, and that was Chris Slone who scored a game high 33 points for Prestonsburg. Joe Burchett added nine points for the Cats. The loss was Prestonsburg's fourth in a row after opening the season with two wins.

C. Matchen led Lyon County in scoring with 24 points while teammate D. Crady added 20 points. The win gave Lyon County a 6-2 record on the season.

Prestonsburg trailed by only two points, 18-16, at the end of the first period. Lyon County outscored the Blackcats in the second quarter, 24-17, to take a nine point, 42-33, lead. There was a one point difference in scoring between the two teams as Lyon County went on to register win number six.

The loss leaves the Blackcats with a 2-4 record as they continue to search for their third win. Prestonsburg will travel to Dilce Combs in the 14th Region on Saturday night.

NBTN Girl's Invitational Makes Debut At BLHS

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

When you talk about a tournament that features quality teams, you've only to look at the upcoming Nothing-But-The-Net (NBTN) Girl's Invitational basketball tournament next week at the Betsy Layne gym.

"We want to expose some of the women's basketball teams, and hopefully get some basketball fans to come out and see some good basketball," Diana Queen, NBTN director, stated.

Four of the 15th Regional top teams will be featured in the NBTN tournament including the undefeated Sheldon Clark Lady Cards. Last year's regional champions, the Phelps Lady Hornets, also will be in action. Perennial power Elkhorn City will make its presence known in the contests. Floyd County conference leader Betsy Layne will also see action.

Two out-of-the-county opponents will play in the inaugural tournament. Bath County and Rowan County, both competitors in their regions, will bring their talented teams to the D.W. Howard Fieldhouse.

Each team is guaranteed at least two games in the tournament. The tournament will begin on Jan. 4 with the finals scheduled for Jan. 6 at 8 p.m.

According to Queen, other activities are being planned for the tournament. The WYMT-TV team will play a preliminary game against a yet to be named opponent. Three-point shooting contest and other special events are being planned for entertainment.

Rebels, Hornets In Rematch Tonight At Magoffin County

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Coach Johnny Martin and his Allen Central Rebels will head up the Mountain Parkway to Salyersville for a visit to the nest of the Magoffin County Hornets.

The Rebels have already felt the sting of the Hornets this season in dropping a 71-63 opening season game to Magoffin County. The Hornets have won over some good competition this season in going 7-1. After the defeat of Allen Central, Lexington Tates Creek visited the home of the Hornets only to return north with a defeat. Other impressive wins were over Betsy Layne, Paintsville and Johnson Central. The Hornets' only loss was to East Carter, 94-92, in the Hardee's Classic at Morgan County.

"We have to play with a lot of heart," Hornets mentor Danny Adams said earlier, "simply because we do not have a lot of height advantage over anyone."

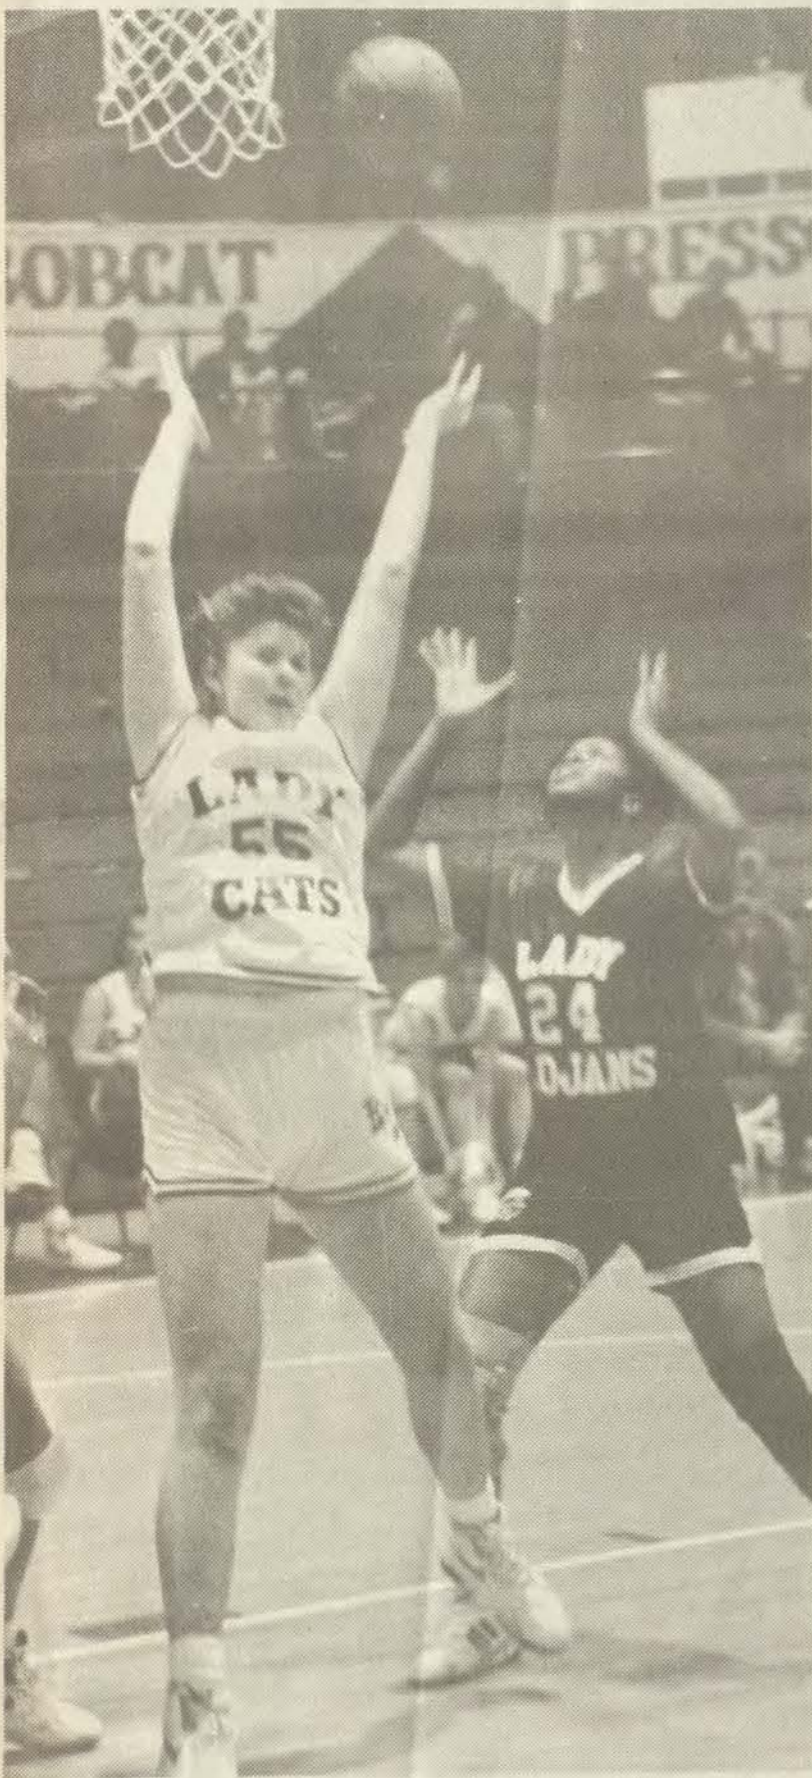

The Hornets will be led by players including Jeff Castle, who hit five three-pointers for 30 points against Allen Central earlier. Don Helton, Ronald Traylor and Scott Castle will be a good supporting cast.

The Rebels have a few more games under their belts since opening night against Magoffin County. Allen Central can boast of two of the best inside players in the region in Joey Conn and Rick Smith. Smith scored 24 points in the earlier meeting of the two schools and has been a steady performer all season for Allen Central.

The Rebels are not without their own three-point threat, as Cotton Parsons can light up the basket from the three-point range.

The Rebels are coming off a good showing at Clay County, which is a tough place to play. Although the

Sports Year In Review 1989

Compiled by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

It has been a great year, sports wise, for Floyd County. Of course the big news in 1989 was the basketball championships in the earlier part of the year. Baseball received a lot of news during the summer months and Prestonsburg won the Division 2 football title. Let's take a closer look at what happened in the world of sports in Floyd County in 1989.

WHEELWRIGHT CAPTURES THIRD PLACE IN GREENUP TOURNEY

The Wheelwright Trojans captured third place in the Greenup County Invitational basketball tournament in January. Senior Craig Martin was the tournament's leading scorer and most valuable player.

THIRD PLACE IN WYMT-TV CLASSIC GOES TO BLACKCATS

The Prestonsburg Blackcats finished third in the WYMT-TV Invitational Classic at Knott County Central with a 59-57 victory over the Hazard Bulldogs. Prestonsburg lost to Knott County Central in the semifinal round, 73-69.

BETSY LAYNE LADY CATS WIN THIRD CONFERENCE TITLE

Karen Henry's Betsy Layne Lady Cats won their third consecutive Floyd County basketball conference title in high school basketball. Betsy Layne received the bye in the district tournament.

MCDOWELL HOLDS OFF BLACKCATS TO WIN DISTRICT TITLE

Coach Johnny Ray Turner's McDowell Blackcats held off a charging Prestonsburg squad to capture their second consecutive district championship with a 88-87 win. Henry Webb tossed in 30 points to lead the Daredevils.

EVERSOLE'S LADY TROJANS PULL OFF THE UNBELIEVABLE

Judy Eversole's Wheelwright Lady Trojans pulled off a big upset in defeating the McDowell Lady Devils, 47-41, in the championship game of the 58th District tournament. Eversole's team struggled all season and began to jell behind the play of April Bradford, Jedon Hood and freshman Becky Allen.

HENRY NAMED GIRL'S COACH-OF-THE-YEAR; THREE SHARE MEN'S HONOR

Karen Henry, whose Lady Cats won their third straight conference title, was named Coach-Of-The-Year in girl's basketball in Floyd County. Johnny Ray Turner, McDowell, Gordon Parido, Prestonsburg and Junior Newsome of Betsy Layne shared the honor jointly as Coach-Of-The-Year in boy's basketball.

BLACKCATS GET REVENGE IN REGIONAL TOURNEY

Coach Gordon Parido and his Prestonsburg Blackcats received some satisfaction of revenge against the McDowell Blackcats, as they defeated the Daredevils, 81-70, in the finals of the 15th Regional basketball tournament. The Blackcats overcame a 12 point half time deficit to win the title.

BASKETBALL BEHAVIOR BRINGS WRATH OF FANS IN COUNTY

Perhaps the one sports-related event not soon forgotten in Floyd County and by 15th Regional fans was the heated rivalry between Prestonsburg and McDowell fans (not the teams). Letters poured into the Floyd County Times over the actions of the fans from the two schools. The players and coaches were never questioned, just the fans' reactions toward one another. Protests of obscene name calling and signs highlighted the district tournament as each school pointed fingers at each other.

Late March saw the ushering in of another sport, America's favorite past time — baseball. Just as the basketball programs at several of county schools were strong, so were the baseball teams. Perhaps Floyd County fielded the best high school teams in 1989 than they did the rest of the decade.

KEATHLEY, STEGALL NEW COACHES IN HIGH SCHOOL BASEBALL

A first took place in high school baseball as new coaches for two Floyd County high schools took over the boy's programs at Wheelwright and McDowell. Cassandra Keathley, girl's basketball coach at McDowell, and Billie Jo Stegall, art teacher at Wheelwright, became the first women's baseball coaches in Floyd County. Keathley took the program at McDowell, and Stegall inherited the Trojans at Wheelwright.

PRESTONSBURG DEFEATS ACHS IN DISTRICT FINALS

Prestonsburg won the 58th District baseball tournament with a 7-4 victory over the Rebels of Allen Central. Todd Justice and Stuart Robinson hit solo home runs for the Blackcats. Both teams advanced to the 15th Regional tournament at Pikeville.

ALLEN CENTRAL FINISHES 2nd IN REGIONAL TOURNAMENT

Coach Donnie Daniels' Allen Central Rebels lost to Paintsville in the finals of the 15th Regional baseball tournament, 21-6, to finish second. The Rebels were one of the top teams in the region and Paintsville was the number four team in the state.

Little League Baseball dominated the sports scene after the completion of high school baseball. More than 60 teams in Floyd County took to the fields to practice for a winning season. Each league crowned its own tournament champion and then established an all-star team to represent each league in the Little League Playoffs.

WAYLAND BESTS GARRETT CUBS FOR BEAVER CREEK TITLE

The Wayland Dodgers won the Beaver Creek Little League regular season North title and then won the league's playoffs over Jad Deaton's Garrett Cubs, champions of the South division during the regular season. (The two divisions had two all-star teams entered in the Little League playoffs. The Beaver Creek North and the Beaver Creek South teams.)

PRESTONSBURG METS CAPTURE LITTLE LEAGUE TITLE

Gordie Ratliff's Prestonsburg Mets won the regular season title in the Prestonsburg Youth League. The league formed an all-star team that went on to Paintsville to take part in the Little League Playoffs.

MARTIN PADRES WIN PEE WEE TOURNAMENT

The Martin Padres won the Martin Pee Wee Tournament after finishing third in the regular season standings.

MUD CREEK TIGERS TAKE 3-2 WIN OVER SMURFS

The Mud Creek Tigers won the Mud Creek Pee Wee League playoffs with a 3-2 victory over the Smurfs.

WHEELWRIGHT BRAVES TOP LEAGUE STANDINGS

The Wheelwright Braves were atop the league standings when the regular season ended. The Braves were crowned the league champions in the Wheelwright league.

BETSY LAYNE A'S FINISH WITH PERFECT 14-0 RECORD

Ellis Spurlock's Betsy Layne A's finished the regular season with a perfect 14-0 win and loss record. The A's won several regular season games over Paintsville teams.

In other sports during the summer of 1989.

WALLEN WINS REGIONAL MEET

Sophomore Brian Wallen of Allen Central won the discus throw at the 15th Regional meet at Bob Amos Park in Pikeville with a throw of 148 feet. Wallen advanced to state tournament with the win.

ACHS GOLFERS FINISH SECOND

Allen Central golf team finished second in the regional meet at the Green Meadows Golf Course in Pikeville.

SPECIAL OLYMPICS HELD AT PIKEVILLE

Many people enjoyed the special Olympics held at the Bob Amos Park in Pikeville. Several schools showed up for the special games. Prestonsburg and John M. Stumbo represented Floyd County in the meets.

FLOYD COUNTY ATHLETES SIGN LETTERS OF INTENT

Alice Lloyd College won the recruiting wars for several of the high school basketball and baseball players in Floyd County. Basketball signing were Henry Webb, McDowell, Alice Lloyd College; Dickie Joe Shannon, McDowell, Berea; Rady Martin, McDowell, Lees College; Brian Hall, McDowell, Alice Lloyd College; Karen Frasure, Prestonsburg, Union College.

In baseball: Todd Justice, Prestonsburg, Alice Lloyd College; Thomas Nairn, Prestonsburg, Alice Lloyd College; Darrell Sparks, Prestonsburg, Alice Lloyd College; Durant Newsome, Betsy Layne, Alice Lloyd College.

ALLEN PARK OPENS NEW GOLF COURSE

The summer months found the opening of the new Beaver Valley Golf Course at the John M. Stumbo park in May. The course affords local golfers the chance to play at two locations.

Football season found its way on the scene in late August.

NEWSOME NAMED NEW FOOTBALL MENTOR AT BETSY LAYNE

Gerald Newsome was named the new head football coach at Betsy Layne High School, replacing Vince Tucker who had resigned. Newsome said he wanted to bring pride back to the high school's football program.

REBELS TIE STATE RECORD WITH WIN IN SIX OVERTIMES

It took the Allen Central Rebels six overtimes to subdue Berea in a football contest in 1989. The six overtimes tied a state record for the most overtimes in a football game.

P'BURG DEFEATS MORGAN COUNTY TO WIN DISTRICT 2 TITLE

Coach Bill Letton's Prestonsburg Blackcats had to wait 'til the final regular season game with Morgan County to decide who would be the District 2 champions. The Blackcats won over Morgan County, 21-7, to take the title game and advance to the state playoffs.

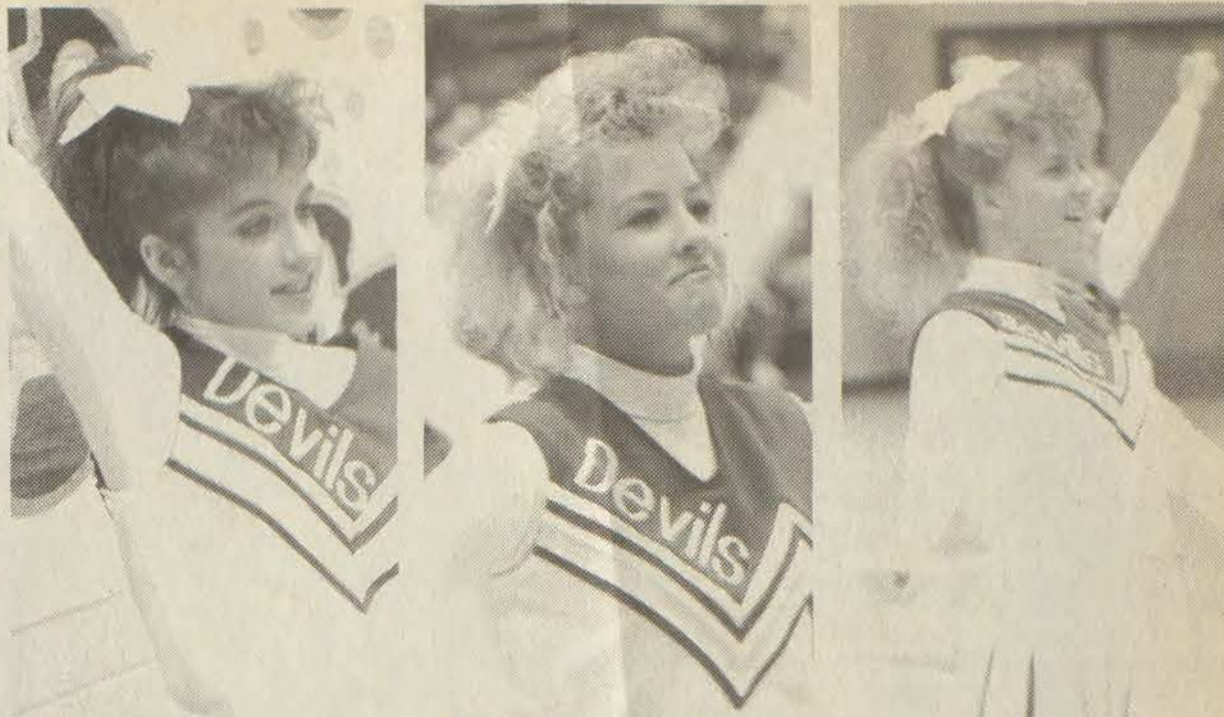

GRADE SCHOOL BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT PUT ON HOLD

The Floyd County Grade School basketball championship tournament had to be put on hold because of bad weather. The tournament will resume in January 1990.

ALLEN CENTRAL IS DISTRICT FAVORITE IN BASKETBALL

The Allen Central Rebels team of coach Johnny Martin is the consensus favorite to win the 58th District this season. The Rebels return four of last year's starters and newcomer Cotton Parson should add to the Rebel attack. Betsy Layne is a close second with Prestonsburg, McDowell and Wheelwright expected to finish third, fourth and fifth, respectively.

Space does not allow us to record all the sports stories for the past year. It has been a good one and it looks like 1990 will be another banner year here in Floyd County. Here's wishing all of you a Happy New Sports Year.

McDowell Cheerleaders

Cheerleading is a big part of sports. Cheerleaders work hard in practices and during games. Here three of the McDowell Daredevils cheerleaders are in picture form during the Pikeville Holiday Classic.

Grade School All-Star Tourney Is Good Idea

There has been some talk of perhaps starting a grade school All-Star tournament in elementary basketball some time in the future. Although the plan is just in the thinking stages and needs the approval of the Floyd County Athletic Director, I feel it is great idea. I would like to see this concept come around to being a reality, providing the county championships can be completed before the first of the year and the all-star event be held after school resumes from the holiday breaks. It's a great idea. Let's do it!

Phone Call Appreciated On Christmas Day

I appreciated the phone call on Christmas Day from Tony Keathley, who is teaching school in Texas. Tony called to tell me how much he likes the Floyd County Times sports section and, of course, to wish me a Merry Christmas. Tony reminded of the days we would get the broom out and sweep away the snow and play

NBTN Basketball Classic Coming Up

Some of the best teams in the state will converge on the Betsy Layne gym starting next Thursday for the Nothing But The Net girl's basketball tournament. It would be a big encouragement to the women's teams if a big crowd would turn out to support them. Other events are also planned. I, for one, am looking forward to the event.

Leave Muddy Gut Out Of Basketball

Much has been said in the news lately of the CBS special on Floyd County and particularly Muddy Gut. I think enough has been said about it, personally. But there is something else that is bothering me more and that is that the show is being taken to the basketball courts. No, not by the players, but by the fans.

At a recent basketball game between conference foes, Wheelwright and Betsy Layne, chants of "Muddy Gut" came ringing from some fans on the Betsy Layne side of the gym. I do not know if they were representative of the Betsy Layne school or not. But I think it is not necessary to be part of

Tackling Illegal Drug Use

It is a sad state of affairs when a sports column has to focus on the use of illegal drugs. But in a time when some of the National Football League's best players have been sidelined because of illegal drug use, the issue cannot be ignored.

The main cause of illegal drug use in the NFL is, as I have said time and time again, that many players think they can get away with everything. From the time they first became football stars in high school and college, someone has always been there to help them out of trouble. They get the felling they are above getting punished.

Which is not to say that illegal drug abuse is not discouraged. In college, the NCAA takes great care to educate college athletes on the dangers of illegal drugs. By the time players get to professional football, they have had four or five years of lessons on it. Then in the NFL, they get the same thing. The point is that players can't claim ignorance. They know they are not supposed to be using illegal drugs.

There comes a day when the players who think they can get away with everything must pay for their mistakes. And some pay with their football careers.

For example, Washington Redskins' defensive end Dexter Manley recently ended up with a lifetime suspension from football for use of illegal drugs.

It's a shame, because he's a guy who was really working to make some improvements in other areas of his life. If someone had stopped him a little earlier along the line and made him realize he could ruin his life, he might not be where he is today. He was never taught to look at the big picture of life. Now who is going to take a chance on Dexter Manley?

The use of steroids is another problem facing football. While I don't believe that the use of steroids is as widespread as some people claim, there's no question it has changed the face of the game. Players are getting bigger and bigger, and while most of it is due to better weight training and diet, some players go the steroid route. It's completely wrong, and I think steroids should be thrown in the same category as other illegal drugs.

While the NFL is not a harbor for abusers of illegal drugs — I'd say only three percent or four percent of the players use illegal drugs — it is a problem that won't go away until taken more seriously. My suggestion is to make the penalties more substantial. don't teach these guys that they can get caught a couple of times and get away with a short suspension like the NFL does now. A mandatory lifetime suspension for the first incident of illegal drug use should be the rule.

Teach the guys "one time and you're gone." With a penalty like that, I guarantee you'll see an end to illegal drug use in the NFL.

Gayle Sayers is considered one of the greatest running backs of all time. The former Chicago Bear is a member of the National Football League's Hall of Fame.

Rebels fell, 50-39, to Clay County, the game was close all the way. Assist leader Kevin Spurlock will be running the team from the point guard position with running mate Ronnie Collins at the number two guard position. Allen Central needs more point production from Collins and Spurlock to take off some of the scoring burden underneath.

If you like race horse basketball, this will be to your liking at the Magoffin County gym at 8 p.m. tonight.

Reds Beginning To Look A Lot Like Yankees (Too Bad)

First, we get the former general manager of the Yankees. Then we get deposed manager, Lou Pinella, as the Reds' new field boss, who couldn't make it as George Steinbrenner's manager. Then we trade our bullpen ace, John Franco, for two promising Yankee prospects (so they say). Lookout, Marge, you may be next!

Assassination Anniversary of Grigori Rasputin: Russian monk and mystic, Rasputin charmed and influenced the Russian emperor, Nicholas II, into instituting severe measures in dealing with the Russian peasants. Hated by many who fell victim to his powers, Rasputin was finally shot to death and his body was dropped through a hole in the frozen Neva River on this day in 1916. Not long after, the Russian Empire was overthrown in a revolution. Rasputin's name was derived from a Russian term meaning debauched, profligate, and licentious.

Wounded Knee Massacre: More than 200 American Indian men, women and children were massacred by the US Seventh Cavalry at Wounded Knee Creek, S.D., on this day in 1890. The US government had attempted to suppress a ceremonial religious practice, the Ghost Dance, which had resulted in the death of Sitting Bull a few weeks earlier. Tensions erupted, and the slaughter of Indians resulted.

Notable Births: William Gladstone, English statesman and four-time Prime Minister. Gladstone was intensely loved or hated by those who knew him. He was dedicated to the charitable rehabilitation of prostitutes, for which he was frequently misunderstood. 1809-1898; Andrew Johnson, 17th President of the US, 1808-1875; Mary Tyler Moore, actress, 53.

Plan Ahead When Driving After Drinking, AAA Says

The Blue Grass/Kentucky chapter of AAA urges drivers to "plan ahead" if they are going to drive after drinking alcoholic beverages over the New Year's weekend.

"It's important to decide beforehand how much and how often you're going to drink and stick to the plan," said Lilla Mason of AAA's Safety Foundation. "If you wait until you've had a few drinks to decide, your decision is muddled and you're likely to drink more than you can handle."

After just one drink, a person's judgment can be impaired enough to affect vision, hearing, reaction time and balance, Mason said, adding that after four drinks the chances of the drinker having an accident are multiplied 10 times.

Mason reminded that the amount of alcohol in the bloodstream does not start to decline the moment a person stops drinking. A good rule of thumb, she said, is to drink no more than one alcoholic beverage per hour. She urged that drivers who plan to drink should consult a Blood Alcohol Concentration table to determine how much they can safely drink over a period of time.

"Some people think it's possible for a drinker to get sober quickly by drinking coffee, taking a cold shower or exercising vigorously, but that's simply not true," Mason said. "The body burns up one-half ounce of alcohol per hour. And although food in the stomach slows the absorption of alcohol, one can still become intoxicated on a full stomach."

AAA offers the following tips for those planning to drive after attending a party where alcohol is served.

*Don't drink alcoholic beverages unless you really want to. If you feel awkward about refusing a drink, accept it and set it down after a while. Get a soft drink instead.

*If you decide to drink, set a limit of how many you'll have and stick to it. No one else is counting.

*Sip your drink slowly. Your glass will never become empty and you won't be tempted to fill it.

*Don't let others pressure you into drinking. Only you know what is best for you.

*Even if you've had only one or two drinks, wait an hour or two before driving.

*If you drink too heavily, plan to stay with a friend or have someone else drive you home. Or, rely on a "designated driver" in your group.

Presbyterians Host Service

Members of the First Presbyterian Church of Prestonsburg will celebrate the 90th birthday of their congregation at a watch night service on Dec. 31, from 9 p.m. until midnight.

Activities include games, refreshments and a worship service to welcome the new year.

The public is invited to attend.

Smiles And Gifts For Local Children

Janie Hall, center, director of the regional office of the Council on Child Abuse (CCA), helps to load donated gifts with Earl Wallen, left, and Robert Duncan of the Christian Appalachian Project (CAP). The toys were given to the Kentucky CCA by IBM Corporation. Hall then provided the gifts to CAP to be distributed in its annual Christmas Basket program. About 30 presents for area children were provided by CCA to the local Christian service organization.

Job Training Gets Boost From Feds

The US Department of Labor has given an added $380,972 to Kentucky to help fund the state's dislocated worker programs. The Prestonsburg office of state Employment Services will share a little more than 10 percent of the total for its programs in 23 counties.

Family Visits

Irene Crider of Endicott was visited by several of her children, grandchildren and one great-grandchild during the Christmas holidays.

Visitors included her son Jimmie and wife Jeanie and their three sons, Jonathan, Jason and J.J. of Clendenin, W. Va.; her son Palmer and wife Linda of West Van Lear; granddaughter Misty Crider of Endicott; her son Astor (Dickie) and wife Brenda and their son Verlin Ray of Endicott.

Also visiting were her son Bill Crider of Endicott and Wilma Haley of Prestonsburg; her granddaughter Melody and husband Willard Johnson and son Joshua of Prestonsburg; and her grandson Bill Crider and wife Diane and Crystal Blackburn of Allen.

On Dec. 23, her grandsons Jonathan, Jason and J.J. Crider and Bryan Blackburn spent the night with her. On Christmas Day, she received telephone calls from her two daughters, Peggy King of McHenry, Ill., and Mrs. Sidney Priselac of Merritt Island, Fla.

The extra funds are to help some who are on waiting lists for training programs and to continue to pay tuition for those already enrolled in such programs.

The Prestonsburg regional office's portion of the allocation amounts to $40,764. It brings the total funds earmarked for such programs in this region to $963,857.

"While this won't allow us to serve any additional applicants, it will mean that most of these people on the job training waiting list will be able to enter a program this fiscal year," said Kentucky Employment Services Commissioner Darvin Allen.

Under the dislocated worker program, persons who have lost their jobs because of economic conditions can pursue retraining at a professional, technical or postsecondary school with the state paying for tuition and books.

"If we had not received this money, some trainees might have had to postpone their second, third or fourth semester of work until July," Allen said.

The commissioner said the additional money resulted from the state's ability last year to use more than 70 percent of its original funding to enroll eligible applicants in training programs. The state's total allocation for dislocated worker programs this year is more than $9 million.

Floyd County Families: Our Heritage

(3-9-#17) Rhodes Meade (1806-1865). Married October 7th, 1828, Sally "Sarah" Richardson born 1808, D/O Dan Richardson.

Rhodes and Sally were married in Scott County, Virginia, by Robert Kilgore.

The 1850 Pike census lists Rhodes, as being a C.B. minister, his age as 44, and Sarah's age as 42.

The 1870 Floyd census shows Sarah (Richardson) Meade, age 56 living with Eli Sturgell (Sturgeon) a brother-in-law.

Rhodes and Sarah, are buried in the Meade cemetery located head of Branch Spurlock Creek, Left Beaver, off Rt. 122. Floyd County, Ky.

(Known) children:
#147 Lemuel Meade born 1839. Married Nancy Roberts, D/O James and Lydia.

#148 McDonald Meade born 1842. Married Elizabeth (Akers) Roten McCoy, Pike Co. 1865, later moved to Missouri.

#149 Robert Meade born 1844. Married Malinda (Akers) Roten born 1848.

#150 Rhodes W. Meade Jr. born 1846. Married 1st Polly Howell (1850, Oct. 2, 1874). Married 2nd Evalina Allen.

#151 John P. Meade born 1848. Married Sarah Roberts, September 16, 1870, Floyd Co.

#152 Thomas F. Meade born 1849. Married Syreca Davis, Johnson Co.

#153 Elizabeth "Isabell" Meade

born 1830. Married July 5, 1857 Samuel Ruly, born 1837. History of this family is not available to me.

#154 Kate Meade born 1836. Married William J. Lynch, on April 8, 1855, Floyd Co.

#155 Jane Meade born 1850. Married John Marshall.

The following story is from Alice Meade Miller, great granddaughter of Rhodes and Sarah, as written and sent to me by Nora Stewart Meade of Wallingford, Fleming County, Ky., wife of James "Bud" Lacey Meade (#1161). Whom I must recognize at this time as one of the valuable sources of information that makes this writing possible, "Thanks, Nora"!!!

QUOTE:
I'm trying to tell the story of the Meade's all the way back to my great grandparents, Rhodes Meade and his wife Sarah Richardson Meade, as told to me by my father, Alex (Alexander) Meade and grandfather, John Printer Meade.

The story starts back in Bedford County, Va. I guess I should start with Sally first.

I don't know anything about her parents except that they were Dutch. They came from Holland and settled in Virginia. They must have been quite wealthy because they had a large plantation.

Sally was an only daughter. She must have been a beautiful woman. I can remember my dad describing her as a tiny woman, not quite five feet tall, with blonde curly hair and blue eyes.

Rhodes was living in Bedford County at the time and must have been a well educated young man because Sally's father hired him to manage the plantation.

He hadn't been there very long until he and Sally fell in love. They wanted to get married but when Rhodes asked her father for permission, he was refused. Mr. Richardson thought his beautiful daughter could have her choice of all the gentlemen and he could not see her marry the plantation manager.

Of course they kept seeing each other in secret and were planning to elope. Rhodes made the preparations. He bought a wagon and the supplies they would need. He hid them. Sally slipped out the things she would need and wanted and Rhodes would hide them with the others.

At last they got everything ready. They slipped away and were quietly married.

She must have been of age for they had no trouble getting married. They went back for their supplies and headed for the Cumberland Gap and Kentucky. They never looked back.

They came to what is now Pike County, Ky. They settled on Shelby Creek in Pike County. They built a log cabin there and that was their home.

Sally never did go back to Virginia. She never saw any of her family again. Never knew what became of them or their plantation. Rhodes went back once and that was for some salt.

I've often wondered what a drastic difference her life must have been. She had been raised in wealth with slaves to tend her every need and then all of a sudden to be set down in the wilderness with every thing to do for herself. I wonder how she ever managed, how she learned how to cook on an open camp fire while their cabin was being built. Rhodes must have been very patient for he had to teach her all these things.

They built their cabin and then he had to build the furniture they needed. He then started clearing the fields and built a barn for their animals.

At last, they ran out of salt and he had to go back to Virginia to get some.

He left Sally in the cabin. She was pregnant at the time and was not able to make the trip with him. He brought in wood and water enough to do her while he was away. He couldn't have taken her anyway because he wanted to make the trip as fast as he could.

He killed enough game so she would have food while he was gone. She was cautioned to not open the door under any circumstances. So she stayed by herself.

She would cook and any scraps

she would have to throw out the she would open the window slightly and toss them hurriedly. At night the wolves would come and fight for the scraps just outside the cabin. I often think what an awful feeling that must have been. There by herself, miles and miles from any human that she knew of and nothing to protect herself but an axe which was kept inside the cabin door.

As Rhodes was going on his journey, he crossed a mountain. As he was going down the other side toward Virginia, he saw five Indians coming riding towards him. He led his horse into the Laurel thicket and stood there very still while holding the horse's nose so it would not make any noise. The Indians passed by, laughing and talking and didn't even notice. When they had gone a safe distance from him, Rhodes mounted his horse and rode away fast as he possibly could.

I'm sure it was a happy reunion upon his return. He brought seed and enough other supplies to start them a good crop.

This was their first home. I don't know how many children were born there, but they had six sons and two daughters.

The Ragged Princess

She began her life as she lived it,
a baby, cheated at birth.
Born into the home of a poor coal miner,
never knowing happiness or mirth.

One in a home of fourteen kids,
where you had to fight to survive.
Where you fought an unending battle
only to stay alive.

She went to school in old hand-me-downs,
children laughed and her spirit died,
as in shoes with paper covered holes,
she slipped into dark corners and cried.

She struggled through the eighth grade,
filled with shame and doubt.
Where pictures of food made her hungry,
she knew what suffering was all about.

Married at sixteen to escape the world
of hunger and cold,
and now with four little ones of her own,
poverty seems to follow her wherever she goes.

Now the doctor says she's dying,
in six months or seven,
but she goes with a smile knowing,
there is no "second hand" heaven!

Wouldn't give him away.

As The Eagle Flies

As the eagle flies free into the horizon
O'er mountains and seas, o'er valleys and plains
Need our souls fly free as the eagle,
Detained not by gloom nor mournful restraint,
Free to explore, to think, to be ourselves.
As the eagle flies, so should we be challenging, challenged.

Let life be lived to the fullest.
Disperse obstacles which oppose sanction.
Remove unmovable objects of substance unwanted.

Arouse curiosity and learn.
As the eagle flies into the unknown to learn,
to know,
to conquer,

Let life forget perplexing memories.
Let freedom overcome captivity
ruled by realistic desires and dreams, acceptable and needful.

As the eagle flies
so does the soul fly and man is his own pilot.

Imagination

A ghostly fog begins to creep
Upon the earth at night
While everyone is fast asleep
The ground is cloaked in white.

A transformation will occur
As objects change their features,
Instead of being what they were
These things will turn to creatures.

The things you saw in daylight
Will just seem to disappear,
As they glow beneath the moonlight
Your heart will fill with fear.

An old oak can appear to be
A monster there before you,
Instead of branches on a tree
They're arms that reach to grab you.

An owl perched on a fence post
Will have eyes that seem to glow,
And a hanging sheet becomes a ghost
When the wind begins to blow.

As the morning sun begins to rise
And it lights up God's creation,
The fog has gone and you realize
That it was just your imagination.

You.....

A smile in the hall,
As I walk by.
I feel as though,
my heart could fly.

A change of glances

Now we are dating,
I found out,
what love is all about.
It's not the things
you give me,
It's not what you do,
But the three words
you say to me,
I love you.

It's hard for me,

HOROSCOPE

December 31 through January 6

By C.C. Clark

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)

A crisis you experience this week could turn out to be a blessing in disguise. A certain friend helps you through this experience and your relationship is strengthened.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)

Rise above those who insist on arguing with you this week. Arguing will not help the situation at hand and it is important that one of you stays level headed.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)

A new love relationship could definitely be in the works. The person you have been seeking may be closer than you think. Keep your eyes and ears open on work projects.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)

You will discover something about yourself that was previously lacking. This is a good week for Aries to travel or make long distance travel plans.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)

It is important for you to understand where your money went over the past year so that you don't make the same mistakes again this year and wind up broke.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)

Be responsive to a loved one's needs. Don't make any final decisions concerning finances or love; your mind will not be clear in such matters. It's important to wait.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)

You will be a little more restless than usual this week. Use that energy to finish a project you may have forgotten about at home or in your work environment.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)

Your creative powers will be quite strong this week. An argument with a loved one will easily be resolved if you stop and listen to what the other person is really saying.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)

It is important that you be very diplomatic where authority figures are concerned. Be careful around mechanical things and check every detail before buying something new.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)

It is important for Libras to meet deadlines set in your work environment. This weekend is a great one for getting away from it all and having a good time with friends.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)

Someone close to you will disappoint you this week. Let them know that you are not happy with the situation, but that you still support them in what they choose to do.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)

Money matters will plague you, but with some careful planning, this time next year you will be rolling in the dough, so to speak. Someone close to you needs a helping hand.

TV PIPELINE

It's about time to settle husband, wife dispute

By Polly Vonetes
 Q: In the mid- to late-'60s I remember a television show about two astronauts who were in a time warp and found themselves living with cave men. The theme song went something like this: "It's about time. It's about space. It's about two men in a crazy place." What can you tell me about this show? My husband thinks I'm nuts and says there never was such a series. —Sandy Chavalia, Kingsley, Mich.

A: Sandy, you are not nuts! The series, It's About Time, aired on CBS from Sept. 11, 1966 to Aug. 27, 1967. The two astronauts were played by Jack Mullaney (Hector) and Frank Aletter (Mac). When their space capsule cracked the time barrier, they landed in a swamp smack in the middle of the Stone Age, not far from a tribe of cave dwellers. Among their new prehistoric neighbors were a friendly couple, Shad (Imogene Coca) and Gronk (Joe E. Ross). Eventually they repaired their ship and returned to the 20th century bringing Shad, Gronk and their two children back with them. Now who's nuts?

Q: I would like some information on Andrea Elson, and when she was born and where she lives. —E. Dulin, Nortonville, Ky.

A: Andrea was born in Manhattan on March 6, 1969. She and her older sister, Samantha, grew up in New York, Chicago, San Diego and Los Angeles as the family followed her father's career moves as an advertising executive. Elson began working at age 11, after her mother sent her picture to San Diego talent agents. She landed the first part she auditioned for, a commercial. Her first role in television was on the series Whiz Kids. The ALF star is currently enrolled at UCLA and enjoys horseback riding and playing tennis.

Q: I would like to write to Christopher Burke who plays Corky on the series Life Goes On. I love that show and I think Chris is a super actor and a great guy. Where could I write to him? —Diana Sloan, Lawson, Mo.

A: I am sure Chris would love to hear from you. Write him c/o Warner Bros. Television, 4000 Warner Blvd., Burbank, Calif. 91522.

Q: I am sitting here watching Till We Meet Again. The star that is playing the part of the mother of the two daughters—could it be possible that she is related to Donna Reed of The Donna Reed Show? —Vincennes, Ind.

A: The role of Eve Coudert was played by Lucy Gutteridge, an English actress. She is the daughter of poet Bernard Gutteridge and is not related to Donna Reed.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant to Application
Number 836-5118,
Major Revision

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Wheelwright Mining, Inc., HC 72, Box 195, Price, Kentucky 41654 has filed an application for a major revision to an existing underground coal mining and reclamation operation. This major revision does not propose any additional surface disturbance for a total proposed permit acreage of 359.49 acres located 0.5 mile south of Price in Floyd County.

The proposed major revision area is approximately 1.9 miles north from State Route 122's junction with State Route 979 and located 0.1 mile east of Left Beaver Creek. The latitude is 37-24' 21". The longitude is 82-44' 42".

The proposed major revision is located on the McDowell U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The surface area to be affected by this major revision is owned by Wheelwright Mining, Inc. The proposed major revision will underlie land owned by Flossie Moore, David Dawson, et. al., Roberta Luxmore, Glenda Jones, Clovis Moore, Andy Collins, Wheelwright Mining, Inc., Jack Martin, John C. Frazier, James McGuire, Carl Dudley and Melvin Mullins.

This major revision proposes to reclassify 0.12 acres of stockpile area, 0.14 acres of haul road B and 0.33 acres of Elkhorn No. 2 face up area as Elkhorn No. 1 face up area; and transfer 355 acres of Elkhorn No. 2 underground mining area to the Elkhorn No. 1 coal seam.

This major revision application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 503 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653. Written comments, objections or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, #2 Hudson Hollow, U.S. 127 South, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. 10-27-4F.

This is the final advertisement of this application; all comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be received within thirty (30) days of today's date.
