City Council May Reduce Weight On Road

Members of the Prestonsburg City Council heard the first reading of an ordinance Monday night that would restrict extended weight traffic on KY 1428 within the city limits.

The affected portion of the road would begin at the Jenny Wiley intersection and extend to the Bert Combs Bridge intersection (South Lake Drive), begin again at the high school and continue to Cliff Bridge.

According to Fred James, city administrator, the ordinance has no effect on trucks or vehicle traffic originating or making deliveries in the city, but is intended to limit through traffic.

It will restrict use of the roads to through traffic with a gross weight not to exceed 30,000 pounds.

James added that the road is not classified as an extended weight road by the state Department of Transportation, and said that the city police department will begin issuing citations for violations of the ordinance if it is approved at the council's next meeting.

In other business, the council discussed the city's building and electrical code permits and fees, but chose not to change them at this time.

"They're satisfied with the manner in which we collect the fees," said James.

Addressing a separate matter, Mayor Ann Latta told the council that state Department of Transportation officials, in recent meetings, have indicated that they plan to rebuild US 23 this summer. James said the Mayor told the council that the road will be rebuilt from the Mountain Parkway to the Lake Drive intersection and northward out of town.

In other business, the council accepted a bid from Archer Timber Bridge Co. of Kentucky for timber bridge materials. The bid was the only one received, said James.

The council also recognized firefighters who recently took part in training.

Members also heard a letter from local pastor Ron Masters, thanking the city for its assistance in installing aerial electrical wires.

Also, Charles Miller was appointed to the Prestonsburg Park Board.

Postal Service With A Heart

On the day that post office boxes were filled with Valentine cards, Prestonsburg post office personnel gave their patrons an added treat. Darla Click of Martin talked with Harold (Bud) Baldrige of Baldrige Engineering yesterday during Customer Appreciation Day at the local post office. Click and other postal employees served homemade sweets and coffee to customers in the post office lobby throughout the day. They also handed out balloons, coloring books and brochures about postal services and answered questions about stamp collecting.

Jenny Wiley Banquet Facility Comparable To Best In State

"Comparable to the meeting facilities at Kentucky Dam Village and Lake Barkley State Resort Parks" is how the new 1,500 square foot meeting/banquet facility at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park is being touted to the public.

The $2.54 million regional economic development project is located one quarter mile from the Jenny Wiley Lodge and will have the capacity to serve approximately 500 people.

Burl Wells Spurlock, of Prestonsburg, who heads the Floyd County group that is courting new economic development interests for the area, said if things fall into place as anticipated, the facility could become a well-known Kentucky landmark.

"Jenny Wiley State Resort Park has consistently maintained an outstanding reputation in the state and with the new convention center will provide a unique touch to the area," he said.

Kentucky Dam Village State Resort Park to which the convention center is compared hosted 187 convention or business conference groups of 10 or more in 1988. These groups utilized the state park's facilities for 1,100 days in 1988. "These statistics can serve as an excellent guideline for the future plans of the meeting center at Jenny Wiley," Rep. Gregory D. Stumbo said. Stumbo has worked closely with the Floyd County economic development group to secure the funding for the new facility.

"I anticipate the new meeting center creating an incentive for other hotel accommodations to move into the area," he added. "And, once the conventions schedule with Jenny Wiley and experience the mountain hospitality, I am confident we will have return engagements."

Stumbo said that the project is scheduled to begin in April of this year and will be completed by April 1999.

Spurlock said that the Floyd County economic development group is enthusiastic in its attempts to lure new economic projects into the area and the attempts can only enhance the financial picture for Floyd County.

'Subtle And Quiet' Campaign, Petition Begun By Dry Forces

by Pam Shingler
Assistant Editor

A group of local citizens is conducting what has been described as a "subtle and quiet" campaign to change the status of liquor sales in Prestonsburg.

Calling the action "very, very preliminary," the Rev. Steve Hopkins of Prestonsburg's First Baptist Church said that he and "a handful of concerned citizens" are circulating petitions to gauge residents' opinions on a proposed referendum to re-open the wet/dry issue.

Volunteers are going door-to-door in the city's six precincts to get voters' signatures on a petition asking Judge/Executive John M. Stumbo to order an election on the issue in each precinct.

The petition calls for precinct elections on the proposition, "Are you in favor of the sale of alcoholic beverages in Floyd County precinct no. _____, Floyd County, Kentucky?" The number of the individual precinct appears in the blank space.

The referendum in each precinct is contingent on securing signatures of 25 percent of the number of votes cast in that precinct in the last election, according to County Clerk Carla R. Bolton. If the required number of signatures is validated, the petitioning group can ask the judge to call a special election, Bolton said.

The proposed election could take place in all six precincts, or just in certain ones, Bolton said, depending on how many voters sign in each precinct.

According to Bolton, state law requires that the referendum be held within 30 days of the regular primary election. A source that asked not to be identified said the target date of the petitioning group is an April 22 election on the alcohol issue.

The procedure calls for the petitions to be presented to Bolton's office for verification of each signature. If the signatures are verified as belonging to registered voters in that particular precinct, the judge will decide on the date of the special election.

The petition campaign calls for another "wet/dry" election, this time for the city only. In the 1982 county-wide referendum to legalize alcohol sales, the "wets" carried the county, but lost in four of Prestonsburg's six precincts. Seven years ago, those opposed to the legal sale of alcoholic beverages outvoted those in favor by a margin of 111 votes, Bolton said.

The breakdown for the 1982 referendum was: Precinct 1 (Court-house area), 112 for, 104 opposed; Precinct 2 (Trimble Branch), 130 for, 179 opposed; Precinct 3 (Depot), 146 for, 160 opposed; Precinct 4 (Richmond), 106 for, 112 opposed; Precinct 5 (Cliff), 290 for, 426 opposed; and Precinct 6 (Porter), 293 for, 207 opposed.

The special election, if it occurs, will cost the county between $3,000 and $3,500, said Bolton, adding that it would be "an additional expense that wasn't budgeted for."

City May Be Chosen As Regional Location For Ky. Lottery Office

The Prestonsburg area has been recommended as the site for a regional office of the Kentucky lottery, according to State Rep. Greg Stumbo.

Don Frank, an independent consultant to the lottery, met with Stumbo, Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta and other local officials last Wednesday to discuss the possibility of locating the regional office in the city.

Friday, after he had talked with lottery president Frank Keener, Stumbo said, "I feel very confident that we're in a good position to get the office."

Stumbo, who is a member of the Governor's Lottery Commission, projects that the regional office will "probably cover all of southeast Kentucky."

The office will be a "coordinating point for salesmen and service," said Stumbo, and will probably employ up to five office staff and between six and eight salespersons, at first, he added. The number of staff members will increase as the lottery grows, he said.

Lottery officials announced last week that application packets for retailers who want to sell lottery tickets are being sent to the sheriff's office in each county, according to an Associated Press article.

The applications contain three forms to be filled out and a 13-page instruction book. Retailers must provide such information as number of parking spaces at their business, location, and a map showing the nearest intersection.

An application fee of $100 is required to cover bonding and background checks. The lottery law requires that all applicants must be current in their taxes and cannot have a conviction for felony or

Legislators Plan To Meet With Local State Employees

The district #9 Chapter of the Kentucky Association of State Employees is planning a legislative reception and meeting on Feb. 21 at 7 p.m. at Jenny Wiley State Park in Prestonsburg.

According to Bonnie Campbell, district #9 chairman, "we are proud to have a local organization in Eastern Kentucky that gives state employees a way to express problems that effect them on the job. This reception will give state employees an opportunity to talk directly with their local legislators and to let them know what kind of problems they are facing in the work place."

"The local district of KASE covers 12 Eastern Kentucky counties and is currently the fastest growing KASE district in the state" according to Charles B. Wells, Eastern Kentucky field director for the organization.

Legislators covering all 12 counties of the district have been invited to the meeting. Also planning to be in attendance at the meeting will be George Parsons, KASE state president, and Wells.

All state employees and vocational school teachers from the area are invited to attend. For more information, contact KASE at 502-695-6140.

Cow Creek Families Sue Over Nearby Mine

Fourteen Cow Creek residents filed a civil suit in Floyd Circuit Court recently against Coal-Mac Inc., a Pikeville-based coal company, and its parent company, Ashland Oil Coal Co.

The suit rises from complaints from the litigants over the installation and operation of a deep mine at Cow Creek.

Mike McAdams of Coal-Mac's Pikeville office told the Times he could not comment about the suit until "we have a chance to get with our attorneys."

According to one of the litigants, Bill Jack Darby, residents who signed waivers to allow the mining in a residential area were allegedly led to believe that the mining would be a "short-term operation."

"They were told it (the mining) would last three months at most," said Darby, "but it looks now like a 10- to 12-year operation."

The suit asks for "punitive damages, as well as damages for (residents') health problems and/or complications of health problems; medical bills resulting therefrom; physical, mental and emotional distress caused thereby."

It also cites "loss of peaceful use and enjoyment of their property," as well as damage to property and improvements, and "diminution of value."

In addition, Darby said the suit requests an injunction against the operation until the suit is settled.

The mine, which Darby said opened last September, also includes a coal loading facility.

Darby said the road entrance to the mining operation is about 30 feet from the house in which his parents, Bill and Eunice Darby, live, and about 100 feet from another house.

"The dust and noise is unbelievable," said Darby. "You can write your name on anyone's house." He said the health of both his father, who has a heart condition, and his mother, who has a rare lung fungus, has been aggravated by the proximity of the mine.

Also of concern to the residents, said Darby, is noise disturbance. "At 1 a.m. I'm lying in the bed listening to the in-loader run," he said.

Residents have met with representatives of Ashland, Darby said, and were promised "that a sprinkler head would be put up" to keep down coal dust "and that no work would be done after 9 p.m." Neither has occurred, he said.

Darby conceded that the company did stop coal trucks from arriving to pick up coal before 7 a.m.

Besides Darby, his wife Debbie, and his parents, the other litigants are Martin Keith and Sandra Kay Darby, Cleotis and Kathleen Setser, Chester and Faye Patton, Bill and Pauline Foley, and Paul and Jennifer Foley.

"The last thing we want to do is get in a court battle with Ashland," Darby said, "but we had no other choice."

Home With A View

From the front yard of his house at Cow Creek, Bill Darby can view the operations of a deep coal mine opened last year by Coal-Mac Co. Darby and other persons with homes in the area have filed suit against Coal-Mac, a subsidiary of Ashland Coal. Residents say they were led to believe the operation would be "short-term."

Window Sill Art

Bill Jack Darby says he can write on the window sill of his house because of the build up of coal dust from a nearby coal mine, owned by Coal Mac, whose parent company is Ashland Coal. Darby's house, he said, is about 400' from the mine, which sits in a residential area of Cow Creek.

The Power Puckerer

Kaye Allen, left, of Bull Creek, proved to have the best pucker in the Floyd County Times' recent Pucker Power Contest. Allen's lip print was judged tops among close to 50 entries. Advertising manager Brenda Crouch presented Allen with a dozen red roses and a $50 check yesterday, Valentine's Day. "I figured I'm just as good a puckerer as anyone else," said the contest winner. "I just thought I'd give it a chance."

Minor Accidents Reported; Bull Creek Residence Burns

On Monday, a one-vehicle accident resulted in no injuries, according to Prestonsburg Patrolman John Hunt.

Peggy Howell of Prestonsburg was traveling west on KY 1428. When she crossed the bridge at Cliff, her vehicle started sliding due to slippery road conditions.

In a separate accident on Thursday, minor damage was sustained by the vehicle of Walter Precourt, according to Officer Ralph Frasure.

Precourt's vehicle was parked in the Prestonsburg City Hall parking lot. The vehicle of William Ferguson was parked in front of Precourt's. Ferguson backed into Precourt's vehicle.

In a hit-and-run accident last Wednesday at the Prestonsburg Village parking lot, witnesses recorded the license plate number of the vehicle which led to the issuance of a warrant to Martin Meeks of Tram, according to Capt. G. Hall of the Prestonsburg Police Department.

Meeks allegedly hit the vehicle of Maxine Branham of Prestonsburg with his vehicle and left the scene.

In a recent fire report, the home of Gary Prater was totally destroyed by fire, according to Tom Blackburn, Prestonsburg fire chief.

The home, which was located at Big Branch of Bull Creek, was in flames when firefighters arrived. Neighboring family members tried unsuccessfully to extinguish the flames, and then contacted the Allen and Prestonsburg Fire Departments.

After firefighters were informed that no one was in the house, they sprayed the building house with water to slow down the heat buildup and to prevent the spread of fire to surrounding structures.

EKCEP Gets $10.9 Million In Training Funds For Region

East Kentucky Concentrated Employment Program, which serves Floyd and 22 other counties, is expected to receive $10.9 million in federal Job Training Partnership Act funds to support its regional employment and training programs in the coming fiscal year, which begins July 1.

According to state Cabinet for Human Resources Secretary Harry J. Cowherd, the funds will be used to boost the state's efforts to improve workers' skills.

EKCEP is slated to receive $7.2 million for job training, and an additional $3.6 million for its summer youth program.

More than half of Kentucky's allocation — $32.6 million — will be divided among the state's 11 service delivery areas, including EKCEP. The programs are for low-income youth and adults, and some unemployed people. The types and number of programs that are funded are at the discretion of each area's private industry council, said Cowherd.

"Kentucky's economy is rapidly changing and becoming more and more technologically advanced," said the cabinet secretary. "This means that our job training programs must help Kentuckians improve their education and skills to meet the demands required of a 21st Century labor force."

The summer programs will assist youths 16 to 21 years of age who are members of low-income families by supporting jobs with public or private non-profit agencies, and providing remedial education to young people with poor academic records.

In addition to Floyd, other counties served by EKCEP are Bell, Breathitt, Carter, Clay, Elliott, Harlan, Jackson, Johnson, Knott, Knox, Lawrence, Lee, Leslie, Letcher, Magoffin, Martin, Menifee, Morgan, Owsley, Perry, Pike and Wolfe.

Movin' Right Along

--Anne Choney

"Dear Sweetheart," wrote Snoopy (via Charles Schultz), "Last night I thought of you. At least I think it was you."

Ah, the fun and foibles of love. Valentine's Day was yesterday, and I suspect the florists are glad it's over. We marked Valentine's this year with a "Love and Marriage" special section, which I hope our readers enjoyed.

When we introduce a new special section, we do so with high hopes that it will become a looked-for tradition by our readers.

Even though Valentine's was yesterday, I thought I'd share some fun snippets from Robert Byrne's "The Third — And Possibly Best — 637 Best Things Anybody Ever Said."

Being slightly (and I do mean slightly) over five feet tall, one of my favorites is: "Better to have loved and lost a short person than never to have loved a tall," attributed to David Chambliss.

"The trouble with loving is that pets don't last long enough, and people last too long." — Unknown.

"Kissing is a means of getting two people so close together that they can't see anything wrong with each other." — René Ysenek.

"Whenever I'm caught between two evils, I take the one I've never tried." — Mae West (1892-1980).

"My wife has cut our lovemaking down to once a month, but I know two guys she's cut out entirely." —

Rodney Dangerfield.

"A relationship is what happens between two people who are waiting for something better to come along." — Unknown.

"It's relaxing to go out with my ex-wife because she already knows I'm an idiot." — Warren Thomas.

"Burt Reynolds once asked me out. I was in his room." — Phyllis Diller.

"Marriage is the only war in which you sleep with the enemy." — Unknown.

Charles "Buddy" Boston, responding to a brief observation made here last week about the Pepsi bottling company in Pikeville, and discussion of its closure, asked that we clarify a statement attributed to him.

He was quoted as saying the plant's customers wouldn't notice the difference if it closed. Boston said yesterday that in referring to customers, he was speaking of retailers and merchandisers, not actual consumers.

Boston had also said he felt Pikeville residents would keep on drinking Pepsi, whether it came from the local plant or another source. He clarified that Tuesday, noting that area consumers would still be able to purchase all Pepsi products they have in the past.

Boston said his comments, which we reprinted from the Herald-Leader, appeared out of context.

NEWSLETTER INFORMATIVE FOR ALL

It has been a few months now since I sent my end-of-the-session newsletter back to the state and it has taken us this long to sort through the responses that so many of you returned to my office.

I received more than 2,600 responses from the newsletter expressing your concerns about national, state and local issues that affect the lives of all of us. I appreciate that input, and thank everyone for responding.

I would like to share with Kentuckians the various topics their neighbors are concerned about. The number of responses calling for reduction of the federal deficit were overwhelming. And as we all recently heard President Bush's address to the Joint Session of Congress, it is a concern that all Americans — Republican and Democrat alike — will be working together to address in this session of Congress.

Next on the list of concerns was the future of the Social Security program and benefits. I assure you, I also am steadfast in my support for a hands-off posture when it comes to borrowing from that fund.

Along those same lines, several of you expressed concerns for the Social Security "notch babies," another issue that I think should be addressed.

A number of you called for a two-year federal budget cycle. As I reported in the newsletter, I have worked long and hard for that measure. I'm sure the president's ringing endorsement of the two-year concept as a management tool for Congress and the White House to control the deficit was heard loud and clear by all of America.

Long-term health care for the elderly and careful scrutiny of the Catastrophic Health bill are continuing concerns for all of us. You have expressed fears about the bill and we will closely monitor its progress.

Other issues listed several times included more housing for the homeless and hope for the success of the new welfare reform measure passed in the last Congress. Spending our tax dollars more wisely and cutting waste in military and domestic spending also drew a substantial response.

Continuing our fight against drug abuse, cutting the trade deficit, supporting education and protecting the environment through clean-coal technologies and other means were among your major concerns. You responded in such great numbers to so many issues that I could not possibly respond in detail to all of the letters.

Let me assure you that each and every response was acknowledged and tabulated and all of your concerns brought to my attention. The newsletter served well as an in-house means of getting Kentuckians' input and on that front it was a tremendous success.

As I mentioned in the newsletter, I don't use Senate mass-mailing privileges in this way often because I feel the privileges are widely abused. However, hundreds of you expressed an interest in having this type of correspondence continue at least on an occasional basis. I will keep those wishes in mind as I consider newsletters in the future.

In Memory Of Willie Martin, Sr.

Who Passed Away February 19, 1979

We shared a beautiful life together. His noble character and understanding has carried me through the low places and the high places of life these many years.

Willie was a remarkable person, bearing his burden with dignity and never complaining. He had compassion and love for his fellowman.

Willie laid down his earthly cares as was God's will. He was a Christian and is happy in his new home. I'm sure if he could tell me, he would say, "How beautiful and wonderful everything is here and I'm waiting for you."

Sadly missed by his widow
JENNIE MARTIN
and his children and grandchildren
WILLIE MARTIN JR., HAROLD DEAN MARTIN, PATSY ANN PATTON and three lovely Granddaughters

Card of Thanks

The family of William "Jug Head" Davis would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone for their help in the loss of our loved one: those who sent food and flowers, prepared the grave or just spoke comforting words. We deeply appreciate you all. A special thanks to the Philadelphia Regular Baptist Church, the Regular Baptist ministers, Henry Hale and the Floyd County Sheriff's Department and the Hall Funeral Home for being so kind.

THE DAVIS FAMILY

Card of Thanks

The family of Kirk Bolen would like to extend their appreciation to all those friends, neighbors and loved ones who helped comfort them during their time of sorrow. Thanks to all who sent food, flowers, prayers or spoke comforting words. A special thanks to the Regular Baptist Ministers, Jerry Manns and Raymond Lawson, Constable Jess Colter, the Floyd County Sheriff's Department and the Hall Funeral Home for their kind and professional services.

THE FAMILY OF KIRK BOLEN

Card of Thanks

The family of Curtis Stumbo wishes to thank all who sent food, flowers or said a prayer during our time of sorrow.

Thanks to the Old Regular Baptist ministers for their comforting words. We would like to give special thanks to Elder Jimmy Dye for his kindness and thoughtfulness during our beloved one's illness at the hospital in Lexington.

We would also like to thank Hall Funeral home for their kind and courteous service.

The Baker Mine Service sign, easy to spot from KY 80 in Martin, will come down when the local service and distribution center closes March 31.

Mine Service Falls To Merger Mania

The merger monster that's gulping down companies across the country has attacked a Martin mining service and distribution center. Baker Mine Service, whose imposing sign is familiar to motorists on KY 80, will close at the end of March.

The local company is a victim of the merger of its parent company, Baker Hughes, Inc. of Meadowlands, Penn., with EIMCO of Fairmont, W. Va.

About 25 employees at the Martin company will lose their jobs as a result of the closing, according to Richard Vesely, director of human resources for Baker Hughes. Vesely said he is "not sure if any employees will be relocated."

Vesely said the decision was made to close the Floyd County facility due to "a weak coal market and excess capacity in the coal machinery division" of the merged companies. Other facilities are also being closed in other parts of the coal region, he said.

The local warehouse and mine service center, which has been owned by Baker Hughes for about six years, has changed ownership about four times, according to an employee who asked not to be identified. Some employees have been with the company for about 20 years, according to the source.

Local employees are under orders not to discuss the closing with the media.

Ky. Power Customers Set All-Time Record

Due to extremely cold temperatures generated from an arctic air mass moving southward over the nation, Kentucky Power Company customers established a new all-time peak demand for electricity Feb. 9.

Customer demand reached 1,094,000 kilowatts at 9 a.m. exceeding the previous peak of 1,087,000 kilowatts set January 6, 1988. According to Kentucky Power officials, the company had no problem meeting this demand.

To Collect Employment Data In Area

The Census Bureau will collect labor force data for Floyd and the surrounding area the week of February 19-25, according to William F. Hill, director of the bureau's Charlotte regional office.

'Lodestone' Relationship Keeps Retiree Working In Our Lady of The Way Shop

Helen Bradley compares her relationship with Our Lady of the Way Hospital to that of a lodestone.

Though recently retired from her 38 years of employment at the Martin hospital, Bradley still does volunteer work in Our Lady of the Way Hospital's gift shop, The Cherry Tree. She managed the shop from its inception in May 1982 until shortly after her retirement October 21, 1988.

"I got glued to this hospital somewhere along the way," she jokes. Her older sister, Divine Providence Sister Mary Angelo Dusini, was undoubtedly an important component of the glue.

"I always loved Sister Angelo," says Helen of her sister, who was one of Our Lady of the Way Hospital's three co-founders. "I was just 2 years old when she joined the convent in 1925. I didn't see her until 1941, but we wrote letters."

Bradley was 27 and on a three-week vacation from her job in a Corbin dimestore when she, her mother, another sister and a nephew visited Sister Angelo at Our Lady of the Way Hospital on Aug. 16, 1950.

"In those days a woman didn't travel through the mountains by herself," says Bradley of the family trip.

Even though the journey took all day, the family only planned to stay overnight. Bradley stayed in the hospital's quarters for nurses; the rest of the group stayed with a family in town.

Sister Angelo was washing pots and pans in the hospital's kitchen when Bradley offered to help her with the dishes.

"They were short of help. Sister Angelo didn't have anyone to work with her," says Bradley. "Sister Mary Edgar said, 'We need you here. What are you doing for the Lord?'"

Her family returned to Corbin without her and shipped her clothes, since she hadn't packed any for the overnight trip. She stayed at the hospital figuring, she was on vacation and could return to her dimestore job, good friends and family in Corbin if she didn't like the hospital work.

Bradley continued to reside in the private bedroom in the nurses' quarters. Life was quite different, and a bit unhappy at first for a woman who prized her independence. As a resident of the nurses' quarters, she now had a curfew and was expected to sign out when she went somewhere besides work.

But Bradley liked the people she worked with. Waneta Newsome, RN, who is now the hospital's volunteer director, and Pauline Wallace, were the first people she met. Later she met Maureen Martin, who also still works at the Martin hospital.

"The girls and the Sisters (of Divine Providence) were real good," says Helen. "I helped in the kitchen. Sister Angelo taught me about the diets and how to set up trays. Whoever wasn't working didn't come back, so I stayed on."

Through a kitchen co-worker, she met her husband, Harlen, a coal miner. They were married in 1954.

Bradley continued working in the hospital's kitchen. When the mine was worked out, Harlen did construction work for a while. Eventually he received x-ray and laboratory training under Our Lady of the Way's Dr. Combs and Dr. Sherman. Harlen passed the required exams given in Louisville in the late 1950s and began working for the Martin hospital too.

When the Bradleys adopted their six-day-old daughter, Maria, in September 1957, Helen went to part-time status in the kitchen and worked 3 to 7 p.m. each day. Later, the Bradleys adopted another daughter. Bradley says the hospital was like a big family and her children could accompany her to work when necessary. It was also understood that sometimes employees had to stay home with their children.

"The child wouldn't be neglected, nor would my job," remembers Helen. "Sister Mary Edgar used to say, 'Charity begins at home.' There was always someone you could talk to. I liked having all the children here."

Bradley succeeded Sister Angelo as dietary supervisor in 1975 and became gift shop manager when the shop opened in May 1982.

In the gift shop, her love for children has made many visitors and patients feel like family. In addition to her regular duties, she often converses at length with the children waiting in the lobby the shop adjoins. From a "charity box" she's drawn gifts, candy and gum for the children or enabled them to "buy" presents for a sick family member with little or no money. Special "gift shop-sponsored" fund-raisers have aided the hospital's Scrubby Bear program for hospitalized children.

Although the transition from kitchen to gift shop had its difficulties, Bradley says she enjoyed getting to know her co-workers better.

"Down here gave me a chance to really know the nurses," she says.

Her kindnesses, bubble gum pool, gift wrapping and willingness to special-order items have endeared her to many hospital employees.

Some, however, tell her she's crazy to volunteer to work at a job she's retired from.

"I just say, 'If you feel that way, what are you here for?' I like working, but enjoy staying home too," says Helen. "Retiring was my own idea.... I'm ready to be off when I want to be off."

Surgery with the light touch.

There was a time when surgery was, to say the least, discomfoting. To say the most, traumatic.

Central Baptist Hospital just helped change that. Now, many gynecological, thoracic, vascular, urological, neurological, plastic and other surgical procedures can be performed with the use of a safe, precision surgical laser. Its use means less pain and blood loss. And, in many

Cancer Hopeline

Question: When I went to have my teeth checked recently, my dentist said I had leukoplakia. She recommended a biopsy and said I might want to have the leukoplakia removed even if it is not cancerous because it could become cancer. I don't understand. Is leukoplakia a kind of mouth cancer?

Answer: Leukoplakia is a whitish patch that may appear anywhere inside the mouth, most commonly in the cheek area, but also on the tongue, lips, palate (roof of the mouth) or gums. The appearance varies from a flat, filmy-looking blotch with no clear edges to a raised white area with cracks on its surface. It is fairly common in people who smoke and in men over 40, most of whom have been smokers. While no one knows exactly what causes leukoplakia, it is often associated with excessive use of tobacco, alcohol and spicy food. It can also occur because of poorly fitting dentures or the sharp edge of a tooth that constantly pokes the cheek or tongue. Poor oral hygiene is also thought to play a role.

Leukoplakia is not cancer, but it is considered to be a precancerous condition. The percentage of cases that progress to cancer is estimated to be between 5 to 10 percent over a 20-year period, so the risk is not immediate.

If the biopsy confirms leukoplakia, a doctor may recommend that you have it removed. This might be done as a preventive measure if there are many suspicious areas, or if you are at risk of oral cancer due to tobacco and alcohol use.

Leukoplakia can be removed using an electric needle under local anesthesia. This procedure can be done in your doctor's office, but may require several visits depending on how many areas you have. They can also be removed surgically or by cryosurgery (freezing the tissue) or laser surgery. These procedures may require local or general anesthesia, and an overnight stay in the hospital.

Not every white patch in the mouth is leukoplakia. Infections, drug reactions and mild dental irritations may cause similar symptoms. However, when the symptom persists or worsens over a period of two weeks, it is important to have it checked by a doctor or dentist.

Those who do have leukoplakia should be checked regularly for mouth cancer and if they are smokers, should consider quitting to reduce the risk of further leukoplakia or cancer.

For tips on quitting smoking, call the Cancer Information Service at 1-800-CANCER.

COMPASSION—NOT CONDEMNATION

by Hondel Adams, Evangelist

Jesus had just completed praying in the beautiful Garden of Gethsemane. The armed mob hurried out the city gate and across the Kidron valley to the olive grove, holding their torches high to light the way to the place of his arrest.

Judas falls upon his neck, embracing him, and betraying him with the sign of the kiss.

As the mob lunged forward, Peter drew his sword and swung wildly. Everyone dodged in time to escape the edge—everyone but Malchus, the high priest's servant. Malchus did not see the sword, and the blade cut off his right ear.

He put his hand to the side of his head, then looked at his bloody hand. With a scream, he slapped his hand over the spot where his ear had been and fell to the ground, groping for the lost ear. What would he have done with it had he found it?

Jesus' next move was unbelievable. Jesus stooped down, picked up the ear and miraculously replaced it. Jesus was innocent, and the servant was part of a hateful, destructive mob. As we see Malchus on his knees, whimpering and patting the dirt, hoping to find the ear, we say he had it coming. We manage a half-smile.

We are numbed by the shame. The compassion of Jesus was impossible to ignore. He had the chance to humiliate his enemies, but he didn't.

Before that experience, we wanted to press every advantage, to club those who hurt us. Oh, it's so hard to replace ears. Since that night we haven't been able to feel good about taking revenge. What we see in the torch light can change us, if we will allow it.

It's compassion, not condemnation, that we need.

In a church close to home, a young lady makes a serious mistake. She sinned greatly. She isn't allowed back. It's a condemning world out there.

In New York, Richard Todd was booed because he could not live up to Joe Namath. It's a condemning world, The University of Kentucky basketball staff is being asked to resign because of the 18 NCAA allegations, even before they are proven guilty. It's a condemning world!

Compassion—love, pity, sympathy—results in a genuinely loving response. Compassion was the consistent style of Jesus:

"When he saw the crowds, He had compassion on them, because they were scattered abroad as sheep having no shepherd" (Matt. 9:36).

"The Lord is full of compassion and mercy" (James 5:11).

WE LIKE TO JUDGE

We bought the ticket. We think we have the right to boo the bum out there on the football field or basketball court.

In judging, our motivations are so pure. "We've got to protect ourselves." "We need to keep sin out of the camp." "Our children must have the right kind of influence."

While Jesus included as many as he could in his circle, we try to whittle ours down.

I PROPOSE A SOLUTION

—When someone has had a tough background, have compassion. Their past has made their present difficult. Treat them well, with love.

—When one has had a setback, a financial reversal, a divorce, an illness, have compassion. Treat them well, with love.

—When someone is just rebellious, hateful, have compassion—love them, pray for them, do good unto them.

Sheriff's Duties Change Since Early Years Of Office

by Pam Shingler
Assistant Editor

A good many people who came to America from England came because of the sheriff, a public post that has changed considerably since those days of deportation, indentured servitude and refugees on the 1 a.m.

Known commonly as the high sheriff, the position was once the most powerful in an English county. The sheriff was appointed by the king and virtually ruled the territory on behalf of the crown.

The concept of sheriff came to the New World with our ancestors, but state laws have shortened the sheriff's reins (and reign). It has been an elected office in Kentucky since 1850, and rather than representing the king or, in our case, the governor, the sheriff is legally obligated to represent the people in his county, while carrying out county, state and federal laws.

Today's sheriff has four types of responsibilities, according to the Legislative Research Commission. These are law enforcement, tax collection, election duties and service to the courts. The majority of his time, says the LRC's book Duties of Elected County Officials, is spent on civil duties, rather than law enforcement.

Many state laws regulate the sheriff's law enforcement role, which is subordinate to the state police's role and augments municipal authority. His specific duties include patrolling all public roads, investigating accidents, taking affidavits from witnesses and issuing subpoenas in some circumstances.

State law also dictates that the sheriff or his staff must make monthly inspections of public places that permit "music or dancing, sell intoxicating beverages or furnish men and women rooms for lodging." He is also expected to make "weekly visits to places of entertainment," according to the LRC.

The sheriff also must file reports regularly with the Justice Cabinet. Interestingly, state law still gives the sheriff the right of "commanding a posse," which means he can deputize additional staff to help.

Perhaps the most important job of the sheriff in Kentucky is to collect taxes for the state, county, and school districts, and in some cases, for other taxing districts.

While the county clerk is responsible for preparing tax bills, the sheriff mails the notices and sees that the money comes in. He can then invest the money until it is distributed to the agencies that use it. Each month he has to pay the county treasurer and report his receipts to the judge/executive.

When individuals fail to pay their taxes, the sheriff is authorized to have a "sheriff's sale" of property in question.

The sheriff is one of the county's chief election officials. He is a member of the board of elections, except when he is a candidate himself. He is also responsible for advertising a number of special elections.

In the category of "service to the court," the sheriff must cooperate with the fiscal court, as well as the county's judicial courts. He or his deputies are process servers for the courts, and upon court orders, he is responsible for transporting prisoners.

The Floyd County sheriff earns the maximum salary allowed by the state, which is more than $34,800, with an increase due this month.

However, that is not a guaranteed amount, since the sheriff is considered a fee officer. That is, his salary and cost of the operation of his office come from the fees he collects, up to a maximum level. His collection in excess of what he needs to operate goes to the county treasury.

What special qualifications does it take to run for this office which requires financial skills, knowledge of the law and ideally, law enforcement training? Actually, the majority of Floyd Countians qualify. All it takes to be sheriff is to be 24 years old, a resident of Kentucky for two years, and a resident of Floyd County for one year.

Parking Permits Still Being Sold

The City of Prestonsburg is continuing to sell parking permits for the downtown area, and new meters will soon place the hourly parking rate at 25 cents per hour.

"We're hoping that this will help the downtown merchants, and those people who want to come here and shop, the downtown workers, and our visitors," said Mayor Ann Latta.

Yellow permits, which are $15 per month, allow holders to park in any city-owned lot or at meters with blue bands; riverfront lot permits are $10 each, and are good for that lot only, said Latta.

New parking meters have been ordered, and will reflect a rate of 25 cents per hour, she added. Free one-hour parking for customers and visitors in the downtown area will continue to be provided on Court Street and other marked locations.

Rockabye

A rock overhang on US 23 north of Prestonsburg looks as if it won't stay put for long. A fissure along the side of the portion that juts over the highway appears to be all the way around the rock. Kathy Holbrook of Auxier, among the hundreds of motorists who travel the road every day, said the rock "needs to come down before it kills somebody." Holbrook said she has called the highway department twice to report the growing looseness of the crag. The overhang is about one-half mile south of Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Active Life Insurance Policies To Pay Off For Veterans

The Veterans Administration will pay nearly $13 million in dividends to Kentucky veterans who hold active VA life insurance policies, according to officials at the VA Regional office. Nationwide, the total payout will exceed $1 billion—the largest amount in the 70-year history of the program.

The record payout will be sent automatically to 38,013 veterans in the state on the anniversary date of their policies. The payment will be in the form of dividend checks or one of five other payment options they selected. No application from individual policyholders is necessary.

John W. Hagan Jr., VA Regional office director in Louisville, said the dividend reflects both favorable claims experience and high yields of trust funds invested in U.S. Government securities.

Government life insurance policies were issued to veterans of World Wars I and II and the Korean Conflict from 1919 to 1966. Only those policies that have been kept in force receive annual dividend distributions.

Nationwide, nearly 3 million veterans will receive insurance dividends. In Kentucky, 32,227 World War II veterans with National Service Life Insurance (prefix "V") will each receive an average of $350.

World War I veterans holding U.S. Government Life Insurance (prefix "K") policies will receive an average of $257. There are currently 473 of these veterans in Kentucky.

Dividends will average $310 for about 3,800 Kentucky veterans who have Veterans Special Life Insurances (prefixes "RS" and "W").

Holders of "J", "JR" and "JS" policies—Veterans Reopened Insurance—will receive 1989 dividends averaging $284.

Individual payments under each of the seven programs paying dividends vary according to age, type of insurance and length of time a policy has been in force.

The VA also administers a special life insurance program for disabled veterans and another offering mortgage life insurance coverage, neither of which pays dividends. The VA supervises a contract with a private carrier who underwrites Servicemen's Group Life Insurance for active-duty service members and reservists.

If you have questions about your VA life insurance, call 584-2231 in Louisville or toll-free 1-800-292-4562 from anywhere else in Kentucky.

Card of Thanks

The family of Fred O'Bryan wishes to thank all those friends, neighbors, and family who helped them in any way upon the passing of their loved one. Thanks to those who sent food, flowers, prayers and words of comfort expressed. A special thanks to the minister, Rev. George Akers for his comforting words and to the Hall Funeral Home for their kind and efficient services.

THE FAMILY

In Memory Of Bob Bentley

Who would have celebrated his 80th birthday February 19. He passed away December 27, 1986.

There used to be something special about this time of year. We'd all get together and celebrate with one so dear. There'd be a big dinner with all the trimmings and a cake. No one ever realized the sacrifice we'd have to make. As Feb. 19th approaches there's no need to celebrate. Because we had to give you up, our friend so great. It's been two years since we had to say good-bye. It's so hard to go on and not to question why. We all loved him in our own special way. And not one will forget. It would have been his birthday. He was a special person, on him you could depend. We not only lost our Dad, we also lost a friend. This year there'll be no celebration and the tears will freely fall. As we remember you Dad, the one who stood so tall.

Sadly missed by HIS WIFE and FAMILY

February Is National Heart Month

And At

Paul B. Hall Regional Medical Center

we know how important it is to get to

The

HEART

Of The Matter!

We are pleased to join the AMERICAN HEART ASSOCIATION in offering the following advice on how to recognize a heart attack . . .

Delay spells danger. When someone suffers a heart attack, minutes - especially the first few minutes - count. Know the signals!

1. Chest discomfort is the most common sign of a heart attack. It usually has the following characteristics.

- What? Uncomfortable pressure, squeezing, fullness, tightness, or pain.
- Where? In the center of the chest behind the breastbone. It may spread to either shoulder, the neck, the lower jaw, or either arm.
- How Long? The discomfort of a heart attack will usually last longer than two minutes. It may come and go.

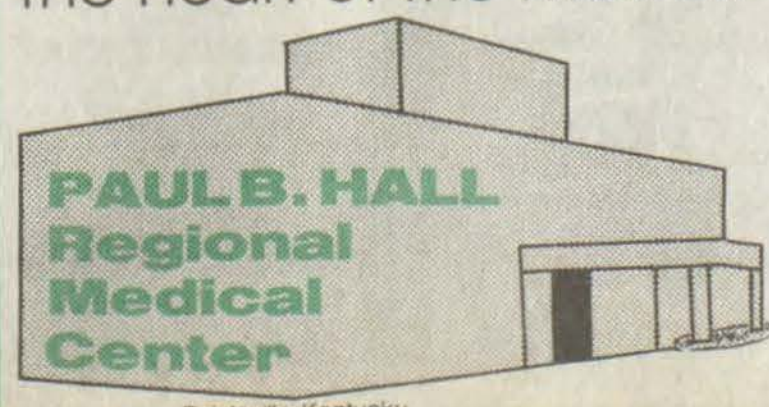

2. Other signs of a heart attack may include any or all of the following.

- * Sweating
- * Nausea
- * Shortness of breath
- * Weakness

3. However, many patients do not have any of the typical signs.

- * The pain may not be severe.
- * The person may not "look poorly" or have all the symptoms.
- * In general, sharp, stabbing short twinges of pain (less than 10 seconds) are usually not signals of a heart attack.

Prevention is still the best medicine! Consult your family physician regularly and follow his or her advice on diet, exercise and medication . . . that's the heart of the matter!

Up For Grabs

Bobcats Win By 3; Defeat ACHS Rebs

Coach Junior Newsome's Betsy Layne Bobcats, looking for a win to day in a tie with McDowell and Prestonsburg for the conference title, entertained Coach Johnny Martin's Allen Central Rebels Friday in the conference final for both teams.

Senior Keith Hall tossed in 20 points to lead the Bobcats to a 68-65 victory over the much-improved Rebels.

"Allen Central is a much better ball club," Newsome said. "They played extremely well."

A basket by Rick Smith and a three-pointer by Todd Duff put the Rebels out in front early in the first quarter, 5-0. Junior center Sam Stewart kept the Bobcats in the game, scoring 10 of his 17 points in the first stanza. Allen Central, behind three treys by Duff, led at the first stop by five, 22-17.

Betsy Layne took a 28-25 lead with 5:54 to go in the half, but another three-pointer by Duff (who had five in the game) tied the score at 28-all. The Rebels led at the half, on two baskets by Joey Conn and Duff, 36-34.

Six points by Hall put Betsy Layne ahead 44-43, with 2:36 to go in the third quarter. The score was tied at 48 each, 50 apiece and again at 52-all at the end of the third period.

Betsy Layne built a seven point lead with 2:52 to go in the game. A three-point play by Kevin Spurlock, and another three-pointer by Duff, brought the Rebels back to within one, 64-63. Barry Hamilton's basket with 1:35 to go gave the Bobcats a three-point advantage, 66-63, and after a Rebel miss, Betsy Layne went into a stall.

Hamilton hit a one-and-one, and put the Bobcats up by five. Spurlock hit a two-pointer with 22 seconds to go, making the score 68-65.

Betsy Layne turned the ball over with 16 seconds to go, and Duff missed a three-point attempt. The Bobcats rebounded, and were whistled for a walking violation.

Allen Central, with possession and four seconds to go, was underneath its own basket. Their three-point attempt fell short, and the Bobcats won, 68-65, to capture a share of the conference title.

"We have no preference who we play in the tournament," Betsy Layne junior Larry Hall said. "It's hard to beat any team three times, and Allen Central or Wheelwright will pose a problem for everyone."

"We just play one game at a time," Stewart said. "We'll wait and see who we draw."

"We just kept leaving Duff open for the three-pointer," Newsome said. "We weren't getting any help on him. We just had to come out closer on him in the second half."

"We had a three-way tie back in 1976, my first year at Betsy Layne," the coach continued. "We won the regional that year, and maybe we can do it again. A Floyd County team has an excellent chance of going to the state tournament."

Birchell Duff, a retired referee, believes it will be a tight district tournament. "This will be an exciting district this year," Duff said. "Anybody can take it."

Betsy Layne goes to 17-8 overall and finishes with a 6-2 conference record.

The Bobcats will play Belfry at Betsy Layne on Saturday night. Hall's 20 points led the Bobcats. Stewart added 17, and Steven Parsons scored 12.

Allen Central was led by Duff with 19 points, followed by Spurlock with 14. Smith and Conn tossed in 12 and 11 respectively.

The Runnin' Rebs are 11-11 overall, and went to 1-7 in the conference. They will host Whitesburg Friday night.

Leading Scorer

McDowell's Radly Martin was the high scorer for his team against Betsy Layne recently, canning 18 points — 12 of them in the first half. McDowell came away with a 72-70 win.

Virgie Slips Past McDowell, 78-76

Ray Hall scored 35 points on 13 field goals and nine free throws, to lead the Virgie Eagles to a 78-76 non-conference victory over the McDowell Daredevils Friday night at Virgie.

Virgie led at the end of the first period, 15-12, as the Eagles looked for revenge of an earlier 80-70 loss at McDowell.

"We played good basketball," McDowell coach Johnny Ray Turner said. "We just couldn't stop Hall."

Virgie led at the half, 35-28, on two three-pointers by Brian Johnson. McDowell fought back in the third quarter and outscored the Eagles, 25-20, to take a one point lead, but a basket by Virgie from the center line put the Eagles on top by two, 55-53, at the end of the third stanza.

McDowell had a bad night at the free throw line.

"We missed five front ends on one and ones," Turner explained.

Even though both teams played evenly in the fourth stanza, the center line shot and poor free throw shooting led to a Virgie victory over the Daredevils.

McDowell finished tied for the conference lead at 6-2 with both Prestonsburg and Betsy Layne.

The Daredevils are 12-8 overall. McDowell will host Dorton at home Saturday night.

Henry Webb topped the Daredevils in scoring with 28 points. Dickie Joe Shannon added 21 points, and Radly Martin netted 13.

Hall led the Eagles with 35 points.

Fishing is a game of choices. Make the correct ones, and you are going to catch fish—it really is that simple. If you can determine where the fish are (always the most important determination) and the forage on which they're feeding, you can catch fish. Tournament bass fishing is based on this, and the angler who can put the pieces together in the least amount of time will most often win the contest.

Without question, the variable which anglers most often overlook is pH. I, too, am guilty. I make my living fishing and writing about the sport, and I must confess that I've paid little heed to water chemistry. While compiling research for a magazine article, I've recently uncovered a great deal of information which leads me to believe that I've been overlooking one of the most important variables with which anglers are faced.

I thought that perhaps you, like myself, might be "in the dark" about pH and its effects on fish, so this week, I'll discuss pH and how it affects fish. Next week, I'll tell you how you can use a pH meter to improve your fishing. If you are interested in the subject, I suggest that you clip this column and refer to it again next week.

Basically, pH is nothing more than the measure of the acidity or alkalinity of a solution (water, in this case). It is measured on a scale of one to 14, with seven being a neutral point. Any measure below seven represents an acid, while a measure above seven tells you that the water is alkaline (or basic).

pH affects fish of all species in much the same way that temperature affects us. When we become too hot or too cold, we lose the ability to think clearly, we become agitated, and we don't function in a normal manner. A change in pH will affect a fish in the same manner. Being cold-blooded, fish are not drastically affected by extremes of temperature, except their metabolism decreases.

Fish prefer water which is slightly basic, generally thought to be in the range of 7.5 to 8.5. They are active and aggressive in water with a pH of seven to nine. In water which is more acidic (less than seven) or more basic (greater than nine), they become stressed, and catching them becomes much more difficult. All species of fish are affected by pH and seem to prefer this pH range. However, many bottom-dwelling species (catfish, drum, etc.) and young predatory fish seem to have a wider tolerance for pH. Adult predatory fish, like bass over 12- to 14-inches, are affected by pH in much the same way that a larger fish requires a higher level of dissolved oxygen in the water.

How does pH affect the fish, and why are people not affected by it? Both man and fish have a blood pH of 7.4. Because we obtain our oxygen from the air, which does not have a pH, it doesn't affect us. On the other

Parents, Kids Enjoy McDowell Jr. Program

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

In 1983, Donald "Duck" Shannon wanted a place where his kids could play basketball at an early age in McDowell. With his boys having taken part in the Martin Junior Pro program, and having to move his family to the McDowell area, Shannon (along with Carson Akers and Vernon Bailey) formed the McDowell Junior Pro basketball league.

The first year the group was organized, it was also sanctioned under the rules of the National Junior Pro program.

"We started with 120 kids," Shannon said. "We patterned our program after Martin's. We participated in the state tournament our first year."

Unlike the Martin league, McDowell did not have enough girls to have a separate varsity league.

"We just had to let those girls that wanted to play participate on the boy's team," Shannon said.

Brenda Cook, who is the league's spokeswoman, explains the structure of the Junior Pro league now.

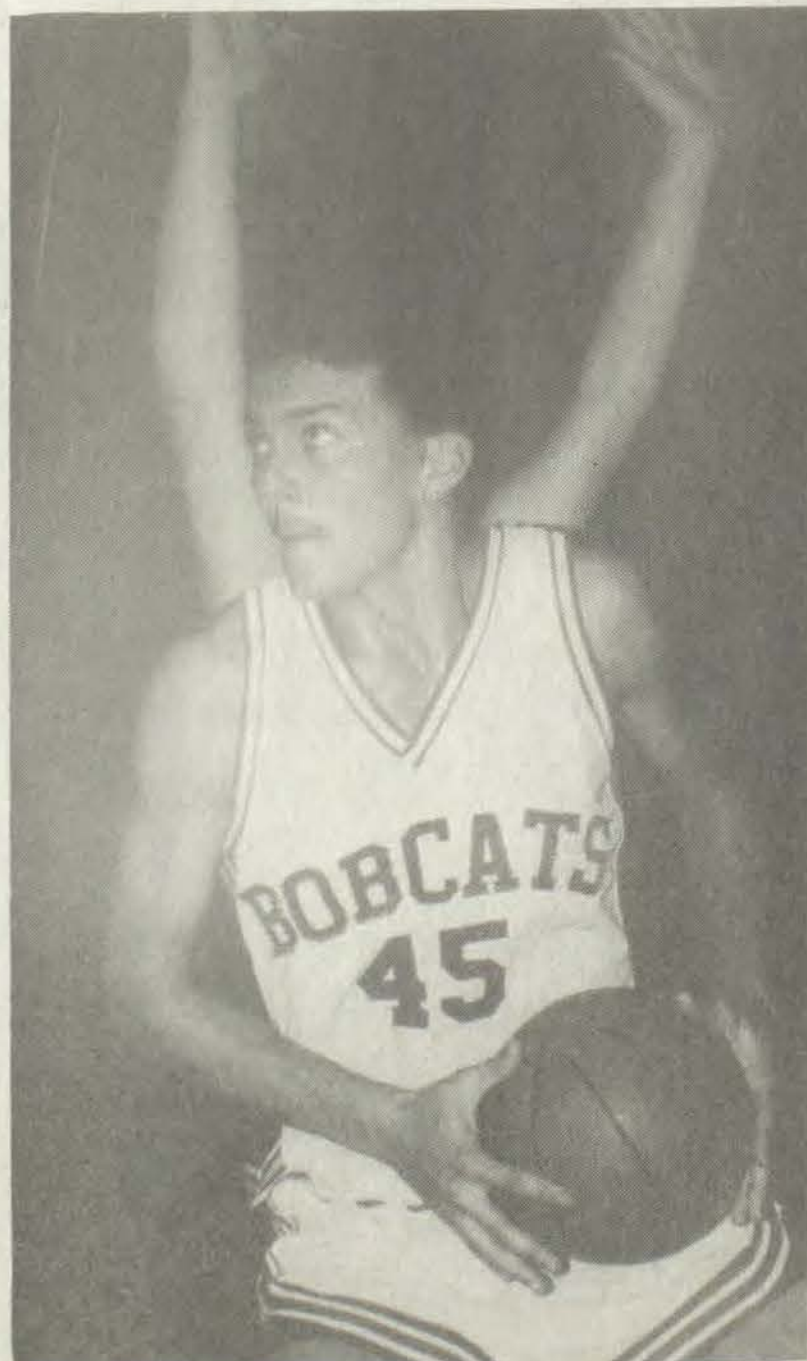

"Our league currently plays on Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.," she says. "We have six training leagues, and four junior varsity teams, and four varsity teams."

"We currently have 150 to 160 kids taking part," Cook explains. "I feel we have a great program here at McDowell."

The parents agree with Cook. Ricky Hamilton, who was one of the first coaches in the program, and whose 11-year-old son Ryan plays in the junior varsity league, tells of the advantage kids have by participating in Junior Pro.

"When I was 11 years old, I didn't know how to dribble a basketball," Hamilton says. "I didn't have the advantage to take part in a program such as this when I was a kid. Why, my boy Ryan made all-state when he Betsy Layne's Keith Hall had his and then some during the game against McDowell recently. McDowell won the contest, 72-70.

58th District Tournament

The tournament will be played at Prestonsburg High School, with PHS as the host team. Women's games begin at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday through Friday, with the men's contests beginning 25 minutes after the conclusion of the women's game. On Saturday, the women's game will begin at 6 p.m., and will be followed by trophy and award presentations. The men's game will begin 25 minutes after the women's game ends, and will also be followed by trophy and award presentations.

Up For Two

McDowell's Lori Bryant scores two of her team-leading 15 points against Letcher County Monday night. The Lady Daredevils won the outing, 62-52, to break even to date with an 11-11 record.

Double Trouble

McDowell's Jenny Slone (53) faced double trouble in the form of two Letcher County defenders during Monday night women's basketball action. McDowell ended the night with a 62-52 win over Letcher to take their season record to the .500 mark, at 11-11.

was 7 years old, and playing in the training league."

The McDowell program is not controlled by a "director", but by a board selected by the parents.

"We have six members on our league's board," says Cook. "Each year, the parents in the community elect a board to oversee the program for that year."

While competition against each other is evident, other values are stressed at McDowell.

"We want to instill in our kids sportsmanship and a right attitude," Cook said. "We teach them that winning is not everything. We make no difference in our kids that play here."

The league is supported by concession stands and donations at the door. Parents are supportive of the effort others are putting forth at McDowell.

"We have parents, grandparents, even parents whose kids don't even play come out to watch the games," Cook said.

"It's a learning program. We emphasize each player must play at least one quarter."

Children from John M. Stumbo Elementary School are permitted to participate in the games.

Team names are also different from those of other leagues. Where others use names such as "Red Team," McDowell has named theirs after professional teams such as the Lakers and Celtics.

hand, fish obtain their oxygen by extracting it from the water through their gills, and water does have a pH. The pH of the water plays a major role in the fish's ability to remove oxygen from that water. The following example graphically demonstrates the vital influence pH plays on the ability of a fish to obtain oxygen from the water.

If you place a few fish in a tank of water having a pH of 7.5 to 8.5 and a dissolved oxygen content of one part per million, they can survive more than six hours. But if you change the pH of that same water to less than seven or greater than nine, the fish will die in less than 15 minutes!

The pH of the water is not constant. In fact, it can fluctuate greatly from one hour to the next. Sunlight, the presence of living or decaying vegetation, and even rain can drastically affect the pH.

The presence of sunlight on a plant (both aquatic and drydocked ones) allows the plant to undertake a complicated chemical reaction known as photosynthesis. The acidity of water is usually caused by carbon dioxide, which is absorbed into the water. When aquatic plants undergo photosynthesis, they remove carbon dioxide from the water and put oxygen and calcium carbonate (a base) back into it, causing the pH to rise.

Therefore, sunlight on a submerged weedbed can cause the pH of the water to rise quite rapidly, thus driving the fish out of the weeds. This explains why fishing around a weedbed is usually more productive in the mornings and evenings or even at night. Smaller fish can and will remain in the weeds, but the larger fish can usually be forced to retreat.

This same situation occurs in waters having a high concentration of algae and phytoplankton. These are simply tiny aquatic vegetables which are suspended in the water. Due to the wind and wave action in a lake, much of the population of these plants become concentrated in coves and along the shoreline. When the sun rises, the pH around the shallow shoreline and in some coves will rise, thus driving the fish into deeper water. Again, this explains why fishing is often more productive in morning and evening.

Decaying vegetation produces a strong acid, dropping the pH of the water. What is more, it also consumes oxygen. This explains why brown, dead and decaying weedbeds are normally barren of fish. (Some aquatic plants are brown when living, so you cannot simply rule out all brown weedbeds.)

Rainfall plays a vital role in pH changes. Although carbon dioxide composes just .03 percent of our air, it is the most water-soluble gas in the air. In other words, it is easily absorbed by water. Rain falling through the air absorbs carbon dioxide and turns into a weak acid. Normal rainfall has a pH of 5.3 to 5.6. Polluted air contains sulfur dioxide, and when it is absorbed by the rainfall it turns into a stronger acid (known as acid rain). In its most extreme form, acid rain can have a pH as low as 1.5, a very strong acid.

Although rain falling directly into a lake does affect the pH, the run-off water flowing into the lake from creeks and off of the shoreline has a greater impact on the fish because it concentrates the acidic water in a more confined area.

To sum up, pH greatly influences the location of fish, probably more than most of us realize. Understanding pH, its influences on fish, and the factors varying the pH of our waters will enable us to better understand the behavior of our gamefish. And that, friends and neighbors, is the key to catching more fish.

Next week, I'll continue this article and tell you how you can use a pH meter to more accurately predict the location of fish, and ultimately improve your fishing.

Until then, good fishing!

Shelton's OT Freethrows Sink BLHS

The Grigsby Fieldhouse was packed as the Betsy Layne Bobcats and McDowell Daredevils hooked up in a big conference basketball game Tuesday night.

Betsy Layne came to town with the best conference record, 5-1, with McDowell and Prestonsburg close behind at 5-2 and 6-2 respectively.

Senior Rady Martin scored 18 points — 12 in the second half — to lead McDowell to a 72-70 overtime win over the Bobcats.

Betsy Layne established control early in the game as Sam Stewart scored 10 first quarter points to lead the Bobcats to a 16-14 first period lead.

Baskets by Henry Webb and Marc Hall put McDowell up by two, 18-16, in the second quarter. Steven Parsons tied the game with a 10-foot jumper, then the McDowell bench was whistled for a technical foul. Newsome hit one of the two free throws and Betsy Layne led 19-18. Three baskets by Dickie Joe Shannon and two by Stacy Hall, who came off the bench for McDowell, helped the Daredevils to a 37-30 halftime lead.

After a basket by Keith Shelton to start the third quarter with a nine point spread, baskets by Keith Hall, Duran Newsome and Barry Hamilton made it 39-36, McDowell.

McDowell, on the hustle and passing of Webb, raced out to a 10 point lead, 48-38, with 3:29 remaining. Baskets by Newsome and Stewart cut it to seven, 54-47, at the end of the third quarter.

With 6:57 to go in the fourth and McDowell ahead by four, a three-pointer by Newsome and a basket by Barry Hamilton brought the Bobcats to within one, 58-57.

Two McDowell turnovers with 5:15 to go gave Betsy Layne the go-ahead basket, 61-58. Shannon's three-pointer tied the score 61-61. A basket by Marc Hall and three free throws by Webb put the Daredevils up by five, 66-61. Hall's basket for Betsy Layne made it 66-63.

Shelton was fouled, and hit one of the two free throws to give McDowell what seemed a safe four point lead with 52 seconds showing on the clock. Hall's three-pointer made it 66-63.

Marc Hall was fouled with 33 seconds remaining. He missed the front end of the one and one, but McDowell rebounded the missed shot, then turned the ball over.

After a Betsy Layne turnover, McDowell again had possession with a one-point lead, but the Daredevils were guilty of another turnover with 19 seconds to go. With 13 seconds remaining, Newsome hit a 12-footer to give Betsy Layne the lead 68-67.

With eight seconds remaining McDowell called time out. Webb then hit Marc Hall with a pass underneath, and he was fouled with one second on the clock, and a chance to ice the game. Hall hit the first one to tie the game at 68-68 and missed the bonus shot to send the game into overtime with the score tied at 68-68.

In OT, Earl Lawson broke open for a layup, 70-68 Betsy Layne. Webb, on a steal, went the length of the court to tie the game 70-70. Betsy Layne turned the ball over with 49 seconds to go in the overtime. The Daredevils held the ball for a last shot, but Martin missed from the corner. Shelton rebounded and was fouled by Newsome with five seconds to go. Shelton hit both charity shots and McDowell was on top, 72-70. Keith Hall's desperation shot fell short and McDowell held on to win 72-70 and draw closer to the top spot.

Martin scored 18 points to lead McDowell and Shannon and Webb each tossed in 16 points.

Newsome led the Bobcats in scoring with 16 points followed by Stewart's 15. Keith Hall had 12 points.

"We played good for three and a half quarters," Johnny Ray Turner, McDowell coach said. "We allowed Betsy Layne to come back after going up by 10 points."

"We have some tough games coming up," Turner said. "We'll use them to establish ourselves in the region. We played a tough schedule early in the season and we had a rough start, but also playing teams like we have played, teams in the top 20, has helped us in playing games like this."

"Our fan support has been tremendous this season," Turner continued. "I think it was a great compliment when Mr. Singleton (Knott County Superintendent of Schools) said, after we had lost to Clay County in the Mountain Classic, and the fans gave us a standing ovation, how heart warming it was to see fans like that."

McDowell goes to 12-7 overall and improves to 6-2 in the conference standings. Betsy Layne will host Belfry Saturday night at Betsy Layne.

McDowell will host Dorton, Saturday night.

The Lady Daredevils defeated visiting Letcher County, 62-52, to go 11-11 on the season. According to McDowell Coach Cassandra Keathley, Pack "played good defense throughout the game," and also hit four of four attempts at the charity stripe.

Keith and Karen Henry:

Teaming Up For Teaching, Coaching -- And Marriage

By Ed Taylor Sports Editor

Frank Sinatra had a song out some years past that said love and marriage go together like the horse and carriage.

So is the ingredient that makes up the bonds of marriage for Keith and Karen Henry of Harold—the ingredient of love.

Keith and Karen hold unique positions in Floyd County—both teach and both are basketball coaches in the local school system.

Keith and Karen met in a rather strange way.

"A friend of mine introduced me to Keith on the first day of school at Morehead, while he was playing the pinball machine," Karen relates.

Keith comes from Morgan County, where he attended Ezel High School; Karen was raised in Floyd County, and attended Betsy Layne High School.

After a year's courtship they married at the Presbyterian Church in Prestonsburg, Aug. 11, 1979. They spent their honeymoon in Gatlinburg, Tenn.

"We had saved our money so we could get married," Karen said. "No one helped us; we did it on our own."

Karen became interested in coaching while in college, playing basketball in the intramural leagues. She was assistant to Paul David Tackett at Betsy Layne High School for five years.

Athletics has always been a love of Keith Henry's.

"I've been involved in athletics all my life," Keith says. "Karen had another year of college, so I taught in Menifee County at Frenchburg Elementary and coached the eighth grade basketball team."

"Basketball and coaching gets in your blood," Keith added. "My first year of coaching we were 12-3. If we had gone 3-12, I may not have loved it so much."

Keith is currently coaching freshman basketball at Betsy Layne, where he has been for the last six years, and is also an assistant coach on the boys varsity at Betsy Layne under Coach Junior Newsome.

"Coach Newsome gave me the opportunity to coach," Keith says. "I've learned a lot working under him—everybody knows his record."

Although Keith is now an assistant coach, he also has goals for the future in athletics.

"I would like to someday have my own high school team," he said. "I would enjoy the challenge of it."

Both Karen and Keith are supportive of each other's position.

"When I don't have a game, I go and watch his team play," Karen said. Does she offer advice to Keith in coaching?

"Yes, I give him advice," she says. "He's helped me a lot in my coaching. He offers constructive advice which helps."

"In coaching you have to keep an open mind," Keith says. "You have to be willing to change, because 10 years from now kids change."

Coaching basketball and teaching kids the fundamentals is serious business with Keith.

"I've dedicated myself to coaching basketball," Keith says. "If you are to relate to others you have to be dedicated, regardless of what field it is."

Karen spends two weeks working at basketball camps. She takes her team to camps at Transylvania and Morehead universities.

Besides coaching basketball, the two find time to enjoy other things together.

"We sometimes go fishing together; we enjoy that," Keith said. "We'll watch T.V. together or other sports."

Karen enjoys the trips to Rupp Arena to watch U.K. play.

One of their favorite vacation spots is Myrtle Beach, S.C., although occasionally they get to Daytona Beach, Fla.

Both enjoy pop and country music, and their favorite group is "Alabama."

"We sometimes just drive to Gatlinburg just to get away from it all and relax," Keith says. "We've gone to the Alabama June Jam to listen to country music."

The Henrys also enjoy going to visit family and exercising.

"I jog three and a half miles each day," Keith said. "One of my grandparents died of a stroke, and I felt I was overweight, and I was determined to lose some weight."

Keith says he has lost 44 pounds since he began jogging and watching his eating habits.

Both have been teaching at J.M. Stumbo School for the last six years. Although some couples prefer not to teach at the same school, Karen likes it.

"I prefer it this way," she says. "We can go to work together and go home together."

While Keith stresses basketball in drills, he also tries to relate to his team another important principal: "Know your weakness and work on it."

"I teach my kids that no matter how good or how bad you've played, you take credit for the good and the bad," he said. "I stress respect for one another. It takes teamwork to be successful, and there is no letter 'I' in 'team'."

Karen and Keith have goals for their home one day.

"We're saving our money to build a home," Karen said. "We would like to have a small family."

Summer is a busy time for the Henrys. Keith spends three or four weeks working at basketball camps at Transylvania, where he not only instructs, but learns himself.

"I want to learn all that I can, anything that will make me a better coach," he says.

Karen plays softball in the Prestonsburg league, sometimes on second base, and others on third. Her teams have gone to the state tournament the last two years.

where they have won the state title one year and were runners-up the other.

Karen and Keith enjoy fishing together, and a round of golf now and then.

What strength do they draw from one another?

"Keith really supports me in everything I do," Karen says.

"When I'm down, he pampers me and makes me feel better. He is very positive in his thinking."

"Karen is a very organized person," Keith explains. "She wants me to be organized. She knows it hurts when I lose and she'll say, 'You can't play the game for them.'"

Karen has memories of how she was raised, and tries to instill that in her students.

"I don't preach to them. I teach them morals about drugs and other values of life," she says.

Keith always tries to teach with a positive attitude.

"I teach them to be their best. God has given them two arms and two legs and a decent mind; use them and be your best."

What A Team!

Keith and Karen Henry hold a unique position in the county as the only husband and wife coaching basketball. Both are teachers at J.M. Stumbo.

Lady 'Cats Get Best Of McDowell

The McDowell Daredevils looked like a team with its eye on a district title in first quarter play Tuesday in McDowell.

However, that was not to be the case as Brenda Hamilton tossed in 23 points, 11 coming on free throws, to lead the Betsy Layne Lady Bobcats to a 54-43 victory.

McDowell took advantage of Betsy Layne's coldness early in the first quarter and got some fast break baskets, racing out to a 15-7 first quarter lead.

The Lady Bobcats scored the first six points of the second quarter to pull within two, 15-13. McDowell finally hit a basket after five minutes had elapsed in the period to regain the lead, 20-17, at the half.

Both teams struggled in the third stanza as Betsy Layne managed to score the first four points to take a 21-20 lead. McDowell did not score until the 1:12 mark, when Gloria Mullins hit two free throws to bring the Lady Daredevils to within three, 27-24. A Betsy Layne turnover gave the ball back to McDowell with 15 seconds to go, and Mullins hit a three-pointer to tie the score 27-27 as time elapsed at the end of the third quarter.

Betsy Layne opened the fourth quarter with a 7-0 run to lead 34-27, on two baskets and three free throws by Hamilton, as McDowell could not handle the Lady Bobcats' full court pressure.

Betsy Layne opened up a 10 point deficit with 5:17 remaining on a basket by Nikki Webb, 39-29.

McDowell cut the lead to five, 46-41, with 1:21 remaining, but two baskets each by Hamilton and Danita Johnson gave the Lady Bobcats a 54-43 victory.

The win gives Betsy Layne a 6-1 conference record and makes them 9-9 overall.

McDowell falls to 10-11, and they finish with a 2-6 conference record.

McDowell will host Letcher County Millard on Monday night at McDowell.

Lady Bobcats Capture Conference

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Betsy Layne Lady Cats had reason to celebrate Friday night as they captured the Floyd County Conference basketball title with a 57-48 victory over the Allen Central Lady Rebels.

The Lady Rebels were without their leading scorer, Jo Ann Conn, who is still nursing a sprained knee.

"We don't know when Jo Ann will be able to go at full strength," Rebel mentor Bonita Compton said. "This game doesn't really mean that much to us, but it means a conference title for Betsy Layne," she added. "We hope she's ready to play by the tournament time."

Had Lady Cat coach Karen Henry stressed the importance of this game to her players?

"Oh, yeah, they know how important this game is to me," Henry said. "We don't want to end up in a tie with Prestonsburg. We want to win it outright."

Betsy Layne established an early lead, and led by six at the end of the first quarter, 11-5.

Five points by Danita Johnson plus two Betsy Layne free throws extended the Lady Cats lead by 11 points, 18-7.

Stacy Moore took charge for the Lady Rebels, scoring nine unanswered points to bring Allen Central to within two, 18-16. Sonia Allen hit a free throw, and a basket by Conn (who played two minutes) completed a 12-0 run for the Lady Rebels, and gave them the lead, 19-18, with 2:26 to go in the second quarter.

Eight straight points by Betsy Layne helped the Lady Cats regain a seven point advantage, 26-19. A free throw by Lady Cat Nancy Shepherd, and a Rebel basket by Allen, ended the first half scoring as Betsy Layne led by six, 27-21.

In the third period the Lady Rebels made another run at Betsy Layne, outscoring the Lady Cats 8-2 to pull within one, 29-28. The game was tied with 3:32 remaining in the third period on a three-point play by Teresa Gibson, 33-33.

The Lady Cats ran off seven points and went up by six, 40-34, at the end of the third stanza.

With 5:32 to go in the fourth quarter, Betsy Layne went out in front by 11 points, 53-41. They held on to win the contest 57-48 and capture their second straight conference title.

Brenda Hamilton, Betsy Layne's leading scorer, credited the bench for the victory.

"Our bench won this game for us," Hamilton said. "I'm proud of them. Allen Central is a good team, but they are a better team when Jo Ann (Conn) is in there."

"It feels great to win another conference title," Hamilton said. "We didn't want to share the title with Prestonsburg."

What about having to play Wheelwright in the tournament?

"It's hard to beat a team three times in a season," Hamilton explained. "Judy (Eversole) is a good coach. She's a tournament coach," she added. "She'll have her team ready."

Senior Danita Johnson put it another way.

"We were determined to win this game. Others thought we could not do it, and we wanted to prove them wrong."

What about playing Wheelwright on a neutral floor?

"We play better on a big floor because of our speed," Johnson said. "We always played good on Prestonsburg's floor."

Sophomore Nancy Shepherd, who led the Lady Cats in scoring with 17 points, looks at this game as a confidence builder for herself and her team.

"I felt comfortable with myself and my shot selection," Shepherd said. "We had good teamwork while Danita and Brenda were on the bench," she added. "It's great to win."

Betsy Layne received notification of receiving two more victories as a result of Belfry's having to forfeit 11 games due to state athletic association rule violations. Belfry had defeated Betsy Layne twice. With that, the Lady Cats improve their overall record to 12-7 and finish 7-1 in the conference.

Jamie Smith and Shelia Hall scored eight points for the Lady Cats. Betsy Layne's next game is at Phelps Thursday night.

Allen Central falls to 8-7 overall and finishes 4-4 in the conference.

Moore led the Lady Rebels in scoring with 10 points and Teresa Gibson added nine.

Allen Central will play host to June Buchanan Monday night, Feb. 20.

Upward Bound

McDowell's Gloria Mullins is upward bound against a Letcher County player in Monday night sports action. Mullins scored 14 points, second only to teammate Lori Bryant, who sent 15 through the net.

February, March Time To Go Bassing

Across much of the United States, February and March mark the beginning of some of the best bass fishing of the year, for this is when large-mouths start moving into shallow water looking for spawning sites.

The best way to catch those fish?

"Use a crankbait and try to cover a lot of water near rocky shorelines and points, or work flats where vegetation may be present," suggests Evinrude Pro Staff member Larry Nixon.

"Practically any type of warming trend this time of year will start bass moving from deeper water. I like to work depths between four and about eight feet with a vibrating crankbait, just casting and reeling it back with a steady retrieve," said Nixon.

Bass are very aggressive at this time, Nixon points out, but the fish are likely to be fairly scattered. That's why a fast-retrieve lure like a crankbait can be effective.

"You can work a point or shoreline and catch several bass," continues Nixon, "but then turn around and fish it again and not catch anything. My advice is to simply try to cover as much water as possible at this time of year."

Nixon believes this is an excellent time to catch larger bass, too. He feels the larger bass always seem to move shallow first, and possibly be the earliest ones to spawn.

"Another thing to remember," says the 1983 BASS Masters Classic Champ, "is that this is the one time of year when bass do not use cover quite as much. They will be near it, or over it, but they won't be in it."

"As the water continues to warm, however, the fish will use it more and more," he adds.

Often, a brief warming trend in February or March will be followed by a sudden cold front that cools water temperatures again. When this happens, the bass quickly leave the shallow pre-spawn areas, but they may not travel as far as many anglers believe.

"I start looking for bass along the first depth break near the shallow water," says Nixon. "All you need to do is turn your boat around from where you've been catching fish and start looking for a channel bank, ledge or deep cut that makes a sharp depth change."

Big Bass

Wilson Morrison of Dayton, Ohio, formerly of Floyd County, caught this 21-inch largemouth bass on Feb. 1 at a lake at Lewisburg, Ohio.

Floyd County Basketball: Best There Is

Floyd County basketball. For some, it has been a long season, and for others it seems to have gone by quickly. With the district tournament just over two weeks away, it's time to stop and reflect on the conference race and look ahead to the 58th District tournament.

The players and coaches began in October to prepare the best team they could.

For the coaches, it meant extra hours after school. It required extra time to teach drills, not to mention the time spent away from their families. For the players, it meant practicing every day — going through offensive drills and defensive drills. It's running suicide sprints. It's sweat, and hearing the coach's whistle — as well as their local cords. All this, so they could be the best for their fans.

To those of us who have followed our favorite team, it has been an exciting year. We have been treated to exciting basketball. The conference race has been close all year, with no team a clear-cut favorite.

Coach Junior Newsome of the Betsy Layne Bobcats expressed his feelings about Floyd County basketball after his team had just defeated Prestonsburg in double overtime at Betsy Layne:

"This was a typical Floyd County basketball game," Newsome said. "Mountain basketball is the best there is; I've always said that."

Betsy Layne has an explosive offensive team led by four seniors in Keith Hall, Duran Newsome and Barry Hamilton, as well as Earl Lawson, who provides for a strong bench. Add to those four Sam Stewart, a 6'5" junior forward/center, and you have a very good nucleus to build around.

Besides the double-overtime thriller, there have been other great games, such as the last-second three-pointer by Marc Hall of McDowell, to beat Allen Central.

Coach Johnny Martin, mentor of the Allen Central Rebels, summed up his thoughts on the season earlier this year.

"The 58th District is so balanced," he said, "a team from Floyd County could easily go to the state tournament."

Allen Central, in spite of its current record in conference play, can boast of the guard play of senior Todd Duff, who is a legitimate three-point threat, and the inside play of senior Joey Conn. The addition of junior Kevin Spurlock and the play of Kevin Webb makes the Rebels a contender for the district title.

Coach Johnny Ray Turner, whose McDowell Daredevils just finished their conference schedule with a 72-70 overtime win over Betsy Layne, makes it clear that there could be a darkhorse in the district.

"We're really balanced this year," Turnersaid. "Wheelwright has a good ball club, and they are capable of beating anyone."

Wheelwright certainly has the talent to pull some upsets in the district this year. Senior Craig Martin, a 6'2" center, has the ability to score points for the Trojans, as well as pull down the rebounds. Junior Bobby Hood continues to provide the Trojans with outside scoring with the ability to hit from the 19'9" mark for three points.

Coach Monroe Jones, whose team has lost its share of close ones, takes it all in stride. "We can't get down on ourselves," he says. "We just have to try and improve."

Coach Gordon Parido, Prestonsburg Blackcat mentor, shared his thoughts recently about the upcoming tournament.

"The regional tournament is not the problem; getting out of the district is," Parido said. "Records don't mean anything when it comes tournament time."

Prestonsburg is a senior-laden team, and Scott Hall has been ranked statewide as one of the top percentage field goal shooters. Other seniors include Todd Justice, Thomas Nairn and Danny Hamilton who, along with junior Chris Slone, provide the Blackcats with height, quickness and outside scoring. That, coupled with their running game, makes them a bona fide contender for the district crown.

David Layne and Johnny Wright, also seniors, give the Blackcats strong bench help.

The Blackcats' recent showing in the Mountain Classic at Hindman gives them some strong tournament experience already; they finished third.

For McDowell, the consensus is that they sport the best two-guard tandem in the 15th region, in Dickie Joe Shannon and Henry Webb. Senior forward Rudy Martin, at 6'2", and junior center Keith Shelton, 6'5", give the Daredevils an inside game to open things up for Shannon and Webb. Junior Marc Hall has shown his ability to score by hitting for 25 against highly-regarded Pulaski County.

Newsome's Bobcats, Parido's Blackcats, or Turner's Daredevils would have to be labeled as tournament favorites. But Martin's Rebels, who are playing much better, could have something to say about who takes the coveted title, as could Jones' Trojans.

No matter which team you cheer for, the 58th District tournament promises to give us more exciting high school basketball to enjoy.

To all the players and coaches, thank you for the enjoyment you have provided for us this season.

Next Week: A look at women's high school basketball this season, as well as a sneak preview of the 58th District tournament.

Books And Things:

The Many Facets Of Crime

by Trisha Morris
PCC Librarian

Crime affects everyone — from senior citizens to young men on subways, women in their homes to kids on the streets. Crime even affects us invisibly — from inflated merchandise prices to cover shoplifting losses to soaring insurance costs. The following books from the Prestonsburg Community College Library are about the many faces of crime.

Crime and Criminals, edited by David Bender. Recent statistics seem to indicate that the problem of crime is reaching alarming proportions. The US Census Bureau's semi-annual survey of crime victims found that almost one in every three US households is hit by crime. The unanswerable question is what causes crime. With the debate ranging from poverty to excess and from heredity to environment, no book addresses all the opinions like Crime and Criminals. One title in the "Opposing Viewpoint" series, the book was designed to present current issues in the timeless debate on crime. The views of prominent criminologists are juxtaposed with personal first-hand views of prison inmates and victims to give a realistic view of the arguments, both pro and con.

Crime and Gerontology, by Alan Malinckak. Although we are all potential victims of crime, the elderly are more so than any other age group. With the total number of aged persons increasing each year, the study of our oldest and most vulnerable Americans has become a necessity. This book examines the elderly as victims, crime prevention programs for the elderly, the elderly within the criminal justice system, and the elderly as criminals. Complete with appendices on state and regional agencies on aging, organizations to contact for information regarding elderly concerns, and publications emphasizing elderly concerns, this book could be a priceless resource tool.

A Crime of Self Defense, by George Fletcher. In New York City on Dec. 22, 1984, Bernhard Hugo Goetz was confronted in an IRT express car by four boisterous youths. When repeatedly asked for $5, he produced a gun and shot at the boys. This act earned Goetz a notorious place in contemporary history and touched a primal nerve in millions — a common man who refused to be a victim. It also earned him an indictment in the New York courts on 13 counts.

In this first intensive examination of the history and theory of the plea of self-defense, internationally renowned authority on criminal law George Fletcher uses the celebrated case of Bernhard Goetz to probe the complex question of the plea and its legal and moral implications for contemporary urban life.

The Kids Next Door, by Gregory Morris. Readers will be shocked and perhaps offended by the stories in this book. They are about abused children who kill their parents. Stories about family violence are always ugly. These stories are also about the society which has turned its back on the abused child. The society which does not allow them an adequate defense, or a chance to heal and be whole again — a society that does not listen to a child until that child is forced to make it listen.

The Criminal Elite, by James Coleman. Television, radio and the newspapers are filled with shocking accounts of murder and mayhem. This book was written so that this bloated image will not block out the view of the often more vicious white collar crime which plagues society. Everyone is familiar with Charles Manson or Lee Harvey Oswald, but how about Eli Lilly or H.H. Robbins? Lilly knowingly marketed a product which has killed 26 people in foreign countries; Robbins sold the Dalkon Shield, not caring about its proven safety hazards until at least 17 women were killed and over 200,000 more were injured by complications. Despite the enormity of these crimes, very few companies have faced criminal charges, and the public is largely unaware of what has occurred.

Crime, edited by Virginia Adams. Crime seems to be increasing all over the world. The apprehension it stirs and the spell of fascination it casts has led behavioral scientists to study it in depth. As part of its "Human Behavior" series, Time Live Books has published this volume on crime.

It worries over causes, discusses the professional as well as the novice white collar "crooks", and examines the criminal justice system all over the world. Written in 1976, the statistics are dated, but the reports of the Lindburg kidnapping case, legendary rogues and the Swedish prison system are startling eye-openers.

Women and Crime, by Frances Heidensohn. Asked to list some noted female criminals, the average person would find it hard to get past Bonnie Parker from the noted Bonnie and Clyde duo — proving the author's thesis that "women's contribution to total criminality is modest." This book was written to give a comprehensive view of women and crime in the 1980s. The first part contains a full description of which women become officially defined as delinquent, how they feel about their stigmatization, and what happens to them with the police, in the court, and in prison. The second section concentrates on presenting both conventional and feminist perspectives.

How to Protect Yourself from Crime, by Ira Lipman. To make your home seem occupied when you are away, you're advised to stop the paper and letter delivery and have lights that go on automatically in the evening, but have you ever thought to ask an obliging neighbor to put out some trash on your normal pick-up day?

Efficient Funding? Courts Asked To Rule

by Tom Parrish
(Third in a Series)

Section 183 of the Kentucky Constitution reads: "The General Assembly shall, by appropriate legislation, provide for an efficient system of common schools throughout the state."

The 66 poor school districts who have sued the state claim that the General Assembly's past efforts to provide more funds for the schools fall short of the mark set by the Constitution.

Circuit Judge Ray Corns of Franklin Circuit Court has ruled on their side.

The judge reviewed House Bill 1 of 1965 and House Bill 44 of 1979, two laws which have the effect of limiting the growth of property tax revenues. Although he didn't find them unconstitutional per se, he said they contribute to inadequate schools — an unconstitutional result.

In 1966, appearing in an attempt to temper its 1965 limits on school revenues with a touch of fiscal mercy, the Legislature authorized any district to levy one of three possible taxes — an occupational tax, a tax on the gross receipts of utilities, or an excise tax on income.

But 20 years later, the 66 poor districts saw this move as offering no help at all, because such taxes favored districts with dense populations, flourishing businesses and high payrolls. Besides, these "permissive" taxes were subject to recall by the voters, which meant that in the poorest counties they had scant chance of adoption.

In 1976 another legislative action caused local tax rates to undergo a further fall.

This came about because the General Assembly transferred the collection of the local tax effort required for participation in the Minimum Foundation Program from the district to the state. Some districts were left with no local property tax at all. Although the move made it appear that the state had substantially increased its contribution to the funding of education, what the legislature had produced was not windfall, but merely an illusion. No additional revenue was involved.

In the same session, the legislature created the Power Equalization Fund, a device explicitly intended to help poor districts. The idea of the PEF is that the state provides funds to a poor district in order to enable one cent of the tax rate to yield as much per pupil as one cent in a high-capacity district like Fayette County. But at present, the state makes available only enough support to supplement the first 10 or 11 cents of tax.

Then, in 1979, came a legislative action with a wallop like that packed by House Bill No. 1 in 1965. This time, a special session of the General Assembly enacted House Bill No. 44, requiring districts to reduce their tax rates every year so that current receipts would not be more than 4 percent higher than those of the previous year. Thus the bill put a cap on revenue and retained the cap on the tax rate. Any increase that would bring in more than 4 percent must be submitted to the voters for their approval — a formula almost guaranteed to yield no results.

When HB 44 was enacted, the tax rate stood at 31.5 cents; within two years it had declined to 22.9 cents, and in the succeeding years this act, together with the rollback law, has continued to cast a long shadow over school funding.

Since 1983, education has indeed been the dominant public issue in Kentucky, as in many other states, with various tax forces and committees producing plans for improvement in the schools. In 1985 the Kentucky Legislature adopted the Education Improvement Program proposed by Gov. Martha Layne Collins.

This program called for increasing teachers' salaries, reducing class sizes, providing for remedial programs, increasing the size of the Power Equalization Fund, and funding a commission on school facilities. Most observers, however, regarded the program as a modest attack on a massive problem, and the governor herself called it "a first step in the right direction." Unfortunately, it has proved to be anything but a giant step, since a number of the programs have not been funded.

Altogether, it seemed to the leaders of the 66 property poor school districts that if the Legislature was ever going to move substantially in the desired direction, this would come about only after pushing and prodding. Therefore, they went to court.

Although the 66 districts and their legal advisers invoked the Fourteenth Amendment to the US Constitution (which declares that every person is entitled to due process and to the equal protection of the laws), the main weight of their case rested on the Constitution of Kentucky — its mandate "for an efficient system of common schools throughout the state."

Efficient? Clearly that simple word carries a heavy burden here. To the members of the Council for Better Education — the leaders of the 66 aggrieved districts — the term "efficient" could hardly be applied to the school situation in Elliott County, with its trailers salvaged from flood waters, or in Morgan County, with its classes crowded in an under heated gymnasium — or to all the districts in which students had no opportunity to take such courses as calculus and advanced computer training, or even college-prep English. "Efficient," the plaintiffs believed, could not describe the Kentucky educational system of 1983-84, in which the combination of state and local revenues provided $4,109 for each pupil in the wealthiest school district.

If the quality of a child's education — from excellent to woefully inadequate — depended purely on where he or she happened to live, then the system providing that education could not be considered efficient.

In the view of the attorneys for the defendants in the case, there was "nothing constitutionally repugnant about unequal funding of school districts where the overall system is 'efficient,' and especially where the poorer districts are receiving more state monies than the wealthier districts." But in view of the obvious and widespread disparities among the districts, could the "overall system" be regarded as efficient?

Testifying in the trial of the case, two expert witnesses defined an "efficient" school system. Such a system, said Dr. Richard Salmon of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, must meet three standards: it must have comparable tax efforts among its districts, must provide the necessary resources throughout the state for all districts, and must not waste its "fiscal or human capital."

Dr. Kern Alexander, former president of Western Kentucky University, presented four criteria for an "efficient" system: it must be unitary, uniform, adequate and utilized in such a way as to avoid the waste of human resources.

In a legal context, "efficient" is regarded as a term of art, one having special force beyond its meaning in ordinary speech. This is suggested by the extended definitions of an efficient system offered by Salmon and Alexander and confirmed by decisions of courts in other states, such as Arkansas, where a court declared that "for some districts to supply the barest necessities and others to have programs generously endowed does not meet the requirements of the constitution" — which requires the state to provide a "general, suitable and efficient" system of public education.

Teachers Help Prevent Dropout

Teachers have a challenging responsibility to students today, according to Betsy Layne Dropout Prevention tutor and advisor James A. Brooks, and two educators — Vicky Ratliff and Patricia Huffman — have been especially helpful at BLHS.

According to Brooks, the two teachers have helped identify students at risk of dropping out. Brooks cited the teachers for their work at the school.

Local Student On Dean's List

Lee Bottoms of Prestonsburg was named to the Dean's List for the fall semester, according to a recent report from the vice-president for academic affairs, Dr. Joe O. Lewis. Students named to the Dean's List must have a grade point average of 3.5 out of a possible 4.0.

Georgetown College is a private, liberal arts college affiliated with the Kentucky Baptist Convention. The school is located near Lexington.

Science Building Almost A Reality

Prestonsburg Community College is nearing its goal for a new science building, and officials are asking all alumni and friends to contribute to help the school meet its final goal.

A goal of March 30 has been set to obtain needed donations, according to Dr. Henry A. Campbell Jr.

Contributions may be sent to Prestonsburg Community College, One Bert T. Combs Drive, Prestonsburg, KY 41653.

Academic Competition Winners

Several students placed recently at the district Governor's Cup academic competition hosted by McDowell Elementary School. In the quick recall category, McDowell placed first, followed by the teams from John M. Stumbo Elementary and Osborne Elementary. Regional competition will be held soon in Prestonsburg.

Gearheart Attends Workshop

Tommy Gearheart, a student at Allen Central High School, recently competed for a place in the Visual Arts section of the Governor's School for the Arts, according to school officials.

Three to five students will be selected from each region, and 18 to 20 will be chosen to attend a three-week course at Bellarmine College this summer.

The 30 competitors at the regional level attended an assembly at Morehead State University, and took part in workshops on monoprints. Each student was given hands-on experience and brought home a finished print.

Gearheart is a junior enrolled in the ACHS special art program. He is the son of Quentin and Lucy Gearheart of Martin.

He was referred for competition by Caralita O'Quinn, art instructor at ACHS.

Those who advance to the final level of competition will be notified by mail, and will travel to Louisville for final auditions.

Melvin Honor Roll Listed

Officials at Melvin Elementary School recently announced the names of those students earning academic honor roll status for the first semester grading period.

The students are:
FOURTH GRADE
Chad Johnson, Terry Miller, Heather Music, Jamie Nemore, Matthew Tackett, Donnie Williamson, Heather Woods, Jason Woods, Bobby Akers, Michael Akers, Kammy Blackburn, Andy Branham, Jaclyn Bryant, Jeremy Burke, Alicia Hall, Kristi Hall, Michael Hall, Nicholas Humphrey, Eliza Louise Johnson, Jennifer McKinney, Leigh Ann Slone, Mark Smallwood and Brent Tackett.

FIFTH GRADE

"B" honor roll: Jessica Belcher, Selina Castle, Cindy Caudill, Jessica Holbrook, Marsha Johnson, Ricky Little, Lora Smallwood and Angela Tackett.

McDowell Elementary Hosts District Academic Competition

McDowell Elementary staff and students recently hosted the district competition of the Kentucky Governor's Cup Academic Team Competition between McDowell, Osborne and John M. Stumbo elementary schools.

District competition is held prior to regional competition, which will begin soon in Prestonsburg.

Winners at the district level were:
Future Problem Solving: McDowell, first place, Curtis Hall, Brad Moore, Tiana Slone and Olivia Coleman.

Language Arts: Lisa Hobson, McDowell, first place; Jimmie Rainey, Osborne, second; Dena Johnson, Osborne, third; and Kristi Mullins, McDowell, fourth.

Science: Ryan Newman, John M. Stumbo Elementary School, first place; Darrell Newsome, Stumbo Elementary, second place; Timothy Yates, Stumbo, third; Brad Moore, McDowell, fourth.

Social Studies: Lisa Hobson, McDowell, first; Melinda Spradlin, Stumbo, second; Mark Parsons, Stumbo, third; and Ryan Jones, McDowell, fourth.

Mathematics: Ryan Newman, Stumbo, first place; Michael Bakay, McDowell, second; Timothy Yates, Stumbo, third; and Amanda Hamilton, Stumbo, fourth.

English Composition: Doug Hall, McDowell, first place; Stephanie Tackett, Stumbo, second; Courtney Cieslak, McDowell, third; and Nikki Reid, McDowell, fourth.

Quick Recall: McDowell, first place; Stumbo, second; and Osborne, third.

The McDowell academic team coaches expressed thanks to the participating schools, as well as to Sue McQuate and the McDowell Stop and Shop for sponsoring the hospitality table.

Justin Ray, son of Ricky and Debbie Ray of Melvin, is the Melvin Elementary spelling bee winner. He is in the sixth grade, and is a member of the academic team, the boys basketball team, and band. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Bill Newman of Melvin, and Mandy Ray of Wheelwright.

Williams Earns Dean's List Honors

Robert D. Williams of Prestonsburg has been named to the Dean's List at Morehead State University for the fall semester, which he completed with a 4.0 grade average.

He also carried a 4.0 average at the Prestonsburg Community College previously.

Williams is enrolled in the radiological school at MSU, and is in training at the Pattie A. Clay Hospital in Richmond. He will return to MSU in the summer.

He is the son of Sherm and Jean Williams of Prestonsburg. His grandparents are Bev and Cassie Williams of Royalton, and Zelma Partick of Plainwell, Mich.

Clogging Course Will Begin Feb. 15

Prestonsburg Community College will offer a clogging class beginning Wednesday, Feb. 15.

According to officials at PCC, the folk-dance type step has become popular in Appalachia among all ages.

The class will meet Wednesdays from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m., through April 5, with Judy Hensley instructing.

For more information, call PCC's Continuing Education and Community Services office at 886-3863, ext. 215 or 289.

David School Subject Of TV Spots

The David School and its director, Dan Greene, are the subjects of 30-and 60-second spots being aired on ABC television throughout February.

Part of ABC's Project Literacy in the United States (PLUS), the spots can be seen two to three times a day on ABC affiliate stations, including WOWK, Channel 13 in Huntington.

The ABC project, which focuses on a different individual, school or organization each month, is aimed at promoting literacy efforts and preventing school dropouts.

As part of the network's efforts, Greene has been invited to attend a press conference in Washington, D.C., on Feb. 16. He is to meet with network executives and persons involved in literacy and dropout prevention nationwide.

Correction

Mary Lou Horne, a freshman at Prestonsburg High School, was inadvertently listed as a "B" honor roll student recently in the Floyd County Times.

Horne was among those students earning "A" honor roll status.

Applying Early Is Key For Obtaining Financial Aid

by Vickie Gibson
Staff Reporter

The key to receiving maximum college financial aid benefits is applying early, according to Brenda Music, financial aid coordinator at Prestonsburg Community College. Grants, loans and college work-studies are distributed on a "first come, first serve" basis, said Music. PCC is encouraging students and future students to apply early, regardless of institution, by offering a trial financial aid form in which students are shown types and amounts of aid for which they may qualify. Types of aid range from outright grants and scholarships, which do not have to be paid back, to loans, which carry interest and a limited time for repayment. Some types of aid available are Pell Grants, College Work Study, Perkins Loans, Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants (SEOG) and Stafford Loans

(formerly Guaranteed Student Loans). Financial aid is based on need, income and number of family members. The forms must be filed once a year, as soon after Jan. 1 as possible. Officials consider mortgage payments, medical bills, books, transportation and living expenses when assessing eligibility, said Music. If a student qualifies for financial aid, a check is sent to the institution of his or her choice. After tuition is paid, the student receives the remaining portion to be used for books, transportation and living expenses. If a student withdraws from school before midterm, a portion of the financial aid must be paid back. According to Music, a standard of satisfactory progress is enforced at PCC. A student's grade point average is checked once a year, and a student may be disqualified from financial aid benefits for unsatisfactory progress. Music adds that if a student is applying for aid and is considering a private institution, the student should always list private institutions as first choice on financial aid forms. The amount of aid for a private institution is higher, she says, and if the student decides to go to a private institution, the amount of aid cannot be increased after a student has filed.

The cost of tuition varies widely depending on the institution a student wishes to attend. For instance, tuition at PCC for one semester is $290, while tuition at the private Pikeville College is $1,850. There is no absolute deadline for filing, said Music, although May 1 for summer sessions and April 1 for the fall semester is advised. For more information on financial aid, contact Music at 886-3863.

ACHS Students Advance To State

Michael Collins and Doris Conn, art students at Allen Central High School, will be attending the state high school basketball tournament this year as competitors in the Sweet 16 Academic Showcase, according to school officials.

The two students presented their portfolio in advertising and promotion competition, placing second in the 13th through 16th regions, which are judged jointly. Their work was one of 16 chosen state-wide.

Judging at the state level will be based on the creativity of the idea, the ability of the eight-ad execution to reinforce the theme idea, and the team's ability to "sell" it to a panel of judges. Collins and Conn will spend four days in Lexington at the Holiday Inn as guests of the Sweet 16 Academic Showcase. They will present their advertising theme at that time for final judging.

Conn is the daughter of Kay Conn of Martin; Collins is the son of Lewis and Emma Collins of Langley. Both are enrolled in the special art course at Allen Central High School.

The promotion was submitted for competition by Caralita O'Quinn, art instructor at the school.

Reddy Honored

Stuart Hall College Preparatory School for Girls in Staunton, Va., announced recently that Prerana Seelam Reddy was on the first semester "A" honor roll.

She is the daughter of Dr. Ashok S. and Sujatha Reddy of Prestonsburg.

Adult Ed Hearing Feb. 27

The Kentucky Department of Education will hold a series of public hearings around the state Feb. 21 through March 1 to receive suggestions and proposals for the state plan for adult education for the next four years.

A hearing will be held at Pikeville College in Chrisman Auditorium on Feb. 27 at 9 a.m.

The plan, will specify how the state will spend the federal funds provided for adult basic education and high school equivalency programs from 1989-90 through 1992-93.

The hearings will give representatives of business, labor, social service agencies, churches, civic organizations, community education programs and the general public an opportunity to suggest goals and content for the four-year plan, said Brenda Rollins, director of the Division of Adult Basic Education.

Woman's Club Meeting Held Mon., Jan. 16

The GFWC/KFWC Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club met Monday, Jan. 16, in the home of Mrs. Don Hughes in Garrett. The speaker was clubmember Mrs. Dee Burchett of Langley.

Burchett outlined the offerings of the travel company for which she works, explaining that the people who operate it are area people who work closely with the school systems to make certain that each student dollar receives full value on any trips scheduled with the agency. She also pointed out that it is the only tour agency in this area which offers "LAGs", custom-built touring coaches equipped with climate control systems, extra wide reclining seats, public address/music systems, 19" TV screen, VCR, lavatory facilities, plus refrigerators and many other extras. These coaches were featured on "PM Magazine" on WSAZ Channel 3 three times in 1988. Insurance of up to $100,000 is also provided.

At the beginning of the program, devotions were conducted by Marie Mullins was the Club Collect and read by Vera Allen. Elizabeth Duff led the pledge to the Flag.

During a business meeting, the upcoming scholarship contributions for the local colleges and the local volunteer fire departments were discussed, and Ina Cooley of Allen was accepted as a member of the club.

Refreshments were served by the hostess to Marie Mullins, Blanche Bamer, Alma Souleyrette, Vera Allen, Betty Mullins, Elizabeth Duff, Joyce Stevens, Louise West, Ina Cooley, Dee Burchett, Loretta Martin, and Mary Jo Halbert, a guest.

The next club meeting will be Feb. 20, at the home of Elizabeth Duff in Hueysville. The program will be on "Arts and Crafts," and the speaker will be Carolita O'Quinn, art instructor at Allen Central High School.

Panel, Students Discuss Aspects Of Death & Dying

by Pam Shingler
Assistant Editor

"Nothing touches the death of a child. It's totally unnatural, there's no way to prepare," a panelist told a Prestonsburg Community College sociology class last week.

Jarrett Wood, whose son was killed in an accident in his early 20s, was one of four panelists who shared their experiences and views on death and dying with the college students, many of whom have never experienced the death of a loved one.

Also speaking to Professor Leo Weddle's class in Modern Social Problems were Kris Conley, director of the Big Sandy Hospice; Fr. Joe Muench, pastor of St. Martha's Catholic Church; Jerry Bee, an area funeral director; and John Paul Francis, a retired electrician.

"We accept the older generation dying," said Wood, mining and industry specialist at PCC, "but it's just not natural for a father to outlive his son." Wood said he's never really accepted his son's death, which occurred over three years ago, and never expects to accept it.

Wood said he was never able to go through the grieving process, which includes acceptance of the death.

because he had to "help other members of the family through it."

Conley, whose organization works with terminally ill patients and their families, cautioned that ways of dealing with death and dying vary. "We each deal with loss in a different way. There is no right way or wrong way, just different ways."

Conley cited her own experiences surrounding the deaths of her mother and a brother. "I lost my mother to cancer, and I had time to prepare, but my brother died in an accident and there was no preparation time," she said, illustrating that she had to deal differently with each incident.

In working with hospice patients, Conley said she and the hospice staff try to help patients and families "erase a lot of guilt and negative processes."

Muench said that in his eight years as a priest, he has "buried hundreds of people," and has worked with a terminal care facility. "We don't just do the ritual of a funeral and then move on to the next activity," he said. "There's a certain amount of grief you have to deal with."

The priest said one among his saddest responsibilities is to officiate following the death of a child.

Funeral director Bee said that professionals in his business try to "make it (the funeral) as easy on the family as possible." He acknowledged that he never realized how difficult death is until his own mother died. "I then realized the numbness the family feels," he said, citing the pressures that are put on families in regard to funeral arrangements.

Francis presented another aspect of the death and dying topic. Francis said he died more than 30 years ago. "In 1957 I was electrocuted," said the former electrical worker. "I watched from the ceiling as someone tried to resuscitate my body."

"I wasn't dead, but that body was," said Francis who remembers the feeling of "squeezing through a tunnel, as if reentering the womb." Francis, who came back to life shortly after the accident, said he does not fear death as a result of his experience. He said that about eight million people claim to have had similar experiences.

The Friday class ended a section on death and dying in the sociology course. Students previously visited a funeral home to learn what happens when the body is prepared for burial and how funeral arrangements are made.

Panel Discusses Death

SQUASH CASSEROLE

(By Margaret Spillman, submitted by Claris Hicks, Attica, Ohio)

2 pounds squash
1/4 cup chopped onion
1 can cream of chicken soup
1 cup sour cream
1 cup carrots, shredded
1 stick margarine, melted
1 8-ounce package seasoned stuffing mix

Cook sliced squash and onion in boiling water, slightly salted, for approximately 3 minutes. Squash must still be a little crisp. Drain.

Combine chicken soup and sour cream. Stir in shredded carrots, squash and onion. Add salt to taste. Combine stuffing mix and margarine.

Spread half the stuffing mix in the bottom of baking dish. Spoon vegetable mix on top of stuffing mix.

Sprinkle the other half of stuffing mix on top of the vegetable mix. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes or until hot and bubbly. Serves six.

BANANA LAYER CAKE

(Country Desserts)

2 cups sifted cake flour (not self-rising)

2 1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. baking soda
Pinch of ground cloves
1 1/4 tsp. ground cinnamon
1/2 tsp. grated nutmeg
1/2 tsp. salt
1 1/4 cups sugar
1/2 cup (1 stick) unsalted butter, softened

2 large eggs
1 tsp. vanilla extract
1 1/2 cups mashed ripe bananas
Several bananas for filling, sliced lengthwise

Boiled Frosting

1 1/2 cups sugar
1/2 cup water
3 large eggs whites, at room temperature
Pinch of salt
1 tsp. vanilla extract

Preheat the oven to 375 degrees. Grease and lightly flour two 9-inch round cake pans. Set aside.

Sift together the flour, baking powder, soda, cloves, cinnamon, nutmeg and salt. Set aside.

Cream the sugar and butter until fluffy, about 3 minutes. Beat in eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Stir in vanilla. Mix in the flour mixture, alternating with the mashed bananas.

Pour the batter into the prepared cake pans and bake for 25 minutes or until a cake tester come out clean. Allow to cool.

To make the icing, combine the sugar and water in a heavy saucepan over high heat and boil until the syrup reaches the soft-ball stage (238 degrees).

Beat the egg whites with salt until they form soft peaks. Pour hot syrup, very slowly, into the beaten egg whites, then beat constantly with an electric mixer until frosting stands in stiff peaks and is of spreading consistency. Stir in vanilla.

To assemble the cake, place one layer on a flat cake plate, and cover the top with thin slices of ripe bananas. Sprinkle generously with granulated sugar. Put the other layer on top and hold in place with toothpicks.

Cover the top and sides with frosting. Serves 12.

HALF-LIFE

The half-life of a drug is the time it takes for one-half of a standard dose to be eliminated from the body. The half-life of a particular drug varies from person to person, depending on their unique metabolic characteristics. A general range is known, however, for most drugs. Valium, a popular tranquilizer, has a half-life of about 24 hours. This means that if a normal dose of 5 milligrams (mg) is taken, about 2.5 mg. are still in the body 24 hours later. When a patient takes 5 mg. each day, the drug continues to build up in the body for about two weeks. At that point, the body's ability to clear the drug from the system balances the daily intake, and the drug reaches a steady state. If the patient then stops taking the drug, the level falls fairly quickly. Withdrawal symptoms such as restlessness, anxiety and insomnia may then be experienced.

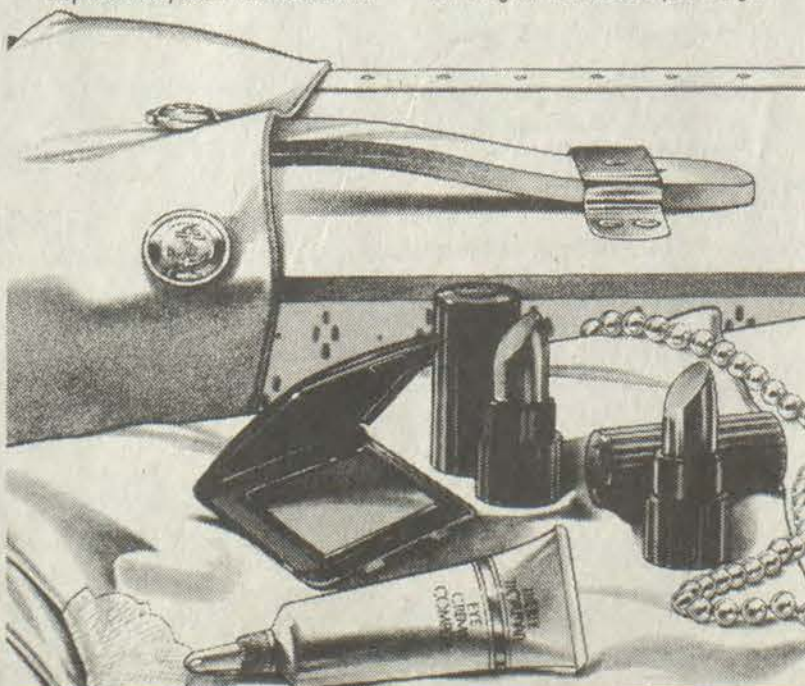

At COOLEY APOTHECARY you are not just another number...we have built our reputation and our pharmacy on serving the individual needs of our customers. Everyone of you is important to us so it is our sincere desire to serve your needs with the utmost professionalism and understanding. Learn firsthand about our reliable service and hometown friendliness. Complete patient profiles are maintained so we can further safeguard your health. We are located at #2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. MasterCard and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments. Open: Mon.-Fri., 9-5:30, Sat. 9-3.

Woman's Club Sponsors Variety Of Activities

The G.F.W.C./K.F.W.C. Prestonsburg Woman's Club was organized in 1919, with Zula Spradlin as president. Other community leaders who have served in this capacity have been: Mesdames Irene Burke, J.C. Midyett, N.M. White, W.S. Wells (two terms), W.R. Callihan, L.S. Moles, S.C. Ferguson, A.C. Harlow, M.J. Leete, Reba Mayo.

Regina Mayo, E.P. Hill, E.P. Arnold, J.D. Thomas, C.H. Frazier, Palmer L. Hall, Cecil Kendrick, Wayne Bradley, F.S. Collins, W.W. Cooley.

J.H. Keenon, Lon C. Hill, Harold W. Dorsey, R.V. May, Walter S. Harkins, Burl Spurlock, Virgil Goble, Clyde Burchett, Joe Buchanan, Helen Wells.

L.B. Fairchild (two terms), Stanley Combs, Byron Nunnery, James P. Allen, James D. Adams (presently serving her second term), W.W. Wallen, Douglas L. Brown, John F. Brown, Rex W. Ankrom, E.L. Bierman.

Leonard Grant, Clarence Traum, Elizabeth Ramey, John W. Sparr, and Thomas A. Poe and Misses Ella Noel White and Alice Harris (two terms).

The organization uses as its guidelines the "Collect for Club Women" by Mary Stewart.

Under the present leadership of Boots Adams, president, and other members of the executive board Phyllis Herrick, Linda McGuire, Judy Kittle, Dorothy Stover, Joyce Allen, Maxine Bierman, Elizabeth Ramey, Nan Arnett and Docia B. Woods, the club continues to grow, with the membership now at 88, and many are the accomplishments made for the improvement of this community.

Among the club's activities for the year 1988 were a "white elephant" sale; a rummage sale; a food booth during the Jenny Wiley Festival with Mrs. E.L. Bierman, a club member and past president, as festival director; participation in the Highlands Folk Festival, which is under the direction of club members Edith James, Kathryn Frazier, past president, and Kathy Lowe;

sponsoring the publication of a Birthday Calendar;

chairing of the Cancer Drive by Burieta Gearhart, a club member;

taking part in the organization of the Appalachian Spring Festival of the Arts, with the club's president, Boots Adams, who was recently chosen by one of the local restaurants as "Volunteer of the Prestonsburg community," selected as vice president; sponsoring renovation of the club's Arts and Crafts House at Archer Park; holding a kitchen shower for the A. and C. House, and holding ceramics classes there;

furnishing a representative for the Floyd County Scholarship Pageant; sponsoring a scholarship for a deserving local student at Prestonsburg Community College;

the attendance by our president and other club members at the annual convention of the Federated Woman's Club;

a Seventh District workshop, and Kentucky Legislative Day in Frankfort; entertaining with a tea for prospective members;

a Christmas party; an installation dinner;

the addition of two new committees, Sunshine Corner, for the purpose of keeping in contact with members who are unable to attend meetings, with Sandy Burchett as chairperson, and Call-a-Ride, furnishing transportation for those in need of rides to the club's meetings with Lyda M. Howard serving as chairperson; and the compilation of a press book depicting the club's many activities and achievements for 1988, for display at the forthcoming K.F.W.C. annual convention.

Social Events

Installation Dinner

Holiday Party

Powell And Walker Wed Oct. 22

Deborah Kay Powell and George Scott Walker were united in marriage on Saturday, Oct. 22 at 1:30 p.m. in a double ring candlelight ceremony at the First United Methodist Church in Paintsville.

Dr. Quentin Scholtz and the Rev. James Powell performed the ceremony. Selected scripture was read by the Rev. Gene Strange.

The bride is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. James Powell of Paintsville. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Denzil Walker of Prestonsburg.

Music was provided by Michael Conley, organist, and Mary Grace Garland, pianist. Vocal selections were performed by Deanna Hill. The congregation was led in song by Dr. Scholtz.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a chapel-length gown of ivory satin. The Victorian style gown was highlighted by puffed sleeves, dropped waist and pearl pendants. The mid-length veil was a crown accented with flowers and hand applied pearls. The bridal bouquet consisted of Sonia roses, stephanotis, calla lilies and baby's breath, accented with teal and peach streamers.

Lisa Wallingford of Maysville, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. Serving as bridesmaids were Angie Hedges of Crestwood, cousin of the bride, Charlene Darrell of Prestonsburg, Patricia Vance of Lexington and Melody Edmonds of Ashland.

Each wore a teal colored, tea-length dress of satin and matching shoes of teal satin. Their bouquets of Sonia roses and baby's breath were accented with peach streamers.

The flower girl, Andrea Ratliff, wore a tea-length dress of ivory satin with ruffles and lace, and ivory satin shoes.

Tara Miller and Jamie Brown served as greeters. Each wore a tea-length dress of peach satin, accented with ivory lace and matching shoes.

Wendy Conn registered guests at the wedding and reception.

Serving as best man was Martin L. Osborne of Prestonsburg. The groomsmen were Richard Cheveuront of Lexington, Brian Conn of Springfield, Ohio, cousin of the groom, Dale Powell of Paintsville, brother of the bride, and Dennis Biddle of Lexington.

The groom and his attendants wore black tuxedo jackets with gray accented pants and ascots.

Justin Wallingford, nephew of the bride, served as ringbearer. He wore a gray Eton suit with a black bow tie.

The reception was held at the church fellowship hall following the ceremony. Serving as hostesses were Phyllis Barnes, Jane Bailey, Mary Avonne Preston and Lynn Mullins, all of Paintsville.

A light buffet was catered by Clara Martin of Prestonsburg.

The bride is a graduate of Morehead State University. She currently teaches at Prestonsburg Elementary.

The groom is a graduate of the University of Kentucky. He is a coordinator for the Affirm Program at Mountain Comprehensive Care Center.

The couple is residing in Prestonsburg.

HOROSCOPE

February 19 through February 25

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)

Your lover will surprise you. Try something new with your hair and good things will happen. Be wary of strangers with gifts of gratitude.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)

Romance abounds this week for you. It's time to take a vacation with a trusted friend. Be careful with your money. Spending it is easy.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)

Belittling others will only do you harm. Dinner with a friend could help your attitude. An opportunity to meet a new mate will happen soon.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)

Keep your cool in business matters. A wonderful new friend will make you laugh. Finances will be troubling this week but will clear up soon.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)

Domestic abilities are strong. Creative endeavor will prove favorable. Make a decision on a health matter now or face uncertain future.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)

A friend will put others before you. Do something nice for yourself. Keep quiet on personal matters. Don't give advice this week on love.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)

A stranger will bring romance into your life. A new hobby could be a great outlet for pent up feelings. Don't let people's comments bug you.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)

A weighty issue will be resolved. Save your money for a rainy day. Be nice to everyone because an unwarranted comment could cause trouble.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)

Free yourself from a long-standing debt. A child will bring happiness. Believe in your abilities of communication; they could serve you well.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)

New job opportunities are just ahead. Your love life will improve greatly soon. Don't let a common health problem get you down.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)

Your mate will drive you crazy this week. Take him/her out for some fun and improve your chances for a saner life. Be careful with your health.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)

Be sensitive to others' needs and good deeds will be rewarded. Buying a gift for someone close seems trying at first. Go with your instincts.

TV Q&A

Shirley MacLaine special may have been A&E re-run

By Polly Vonetes

Q: In the fall of last year I saw a Shirley MacLaine song and dance show. It ran about an hour with just her and a chorus line in a typical Las Vegas type show. I didn't get the title of the show or what channel it was on. However, I am sure it wasn't a recent one. I would love to buy the tape, so any information you can give me would be a help. —Evelyn Saull, Franklin, Texas

A: In 1984 Showtime aired a special, Shirley MacLaine. It is quite possible you viewed a re-run of this special on The Arts & Entertainment Network.

Q: I am writing you concerning an answer you published on Nov. 6 about Joe Penny. Some of your information was incorrect. Joe was born June 24, not September 14. I am a member of his fan club and have personal records on him. But the real reason I have written you is, in your article you claim Joe lives in Toluca Lake, Calif. Well, I have written The Chamber of Commerce, Dept. of Tourism and two places in Santa Monica. Toluca Lake is nowhere to be found. Where is it? —Johnnie Egerton, Patrick, S.C.

A: My, my, you are an ardent fan of Joe Penny's. Since you wish to set the record straight I wish you would write CBS and NBC, who publish two different dates in their biographical releases. CBS maintains he was born May 29, NBC releases a Sept. 14 birthdate as does Tim Brooks in his book The Complete Directory to Primetime TV Stars. As for Toluca Lake—yes, Johnnie, there really is a Toluca Lake. In fact, Bob Hope and John Ratzenberger, of Cheers, are among those who also live in the property is located in

Shirley MacLaine

Burbank, Calif.

Q: Can you give me the name of a movie starring Don Knotts and Tim Conway? They were in a prison and Tim was pretending to be a dentist; he accidentally gives himself a shot of novocaine in his leg and can't stand up. The movie was hilarious and I'd love to see it again, but I can't remember its name. Hope you can help. —Darlene Geyer, Markleton, Penn.

A: I have searched for your movie and find that Conway and Knotts were in jail in the Apple Dumpling Gang movies, but there is no mention of a dentist. However, such a sketch as you describe did appear on The Carol Burnett Show. Sorry I couldn't be of more help.

Q: Would you please settle a bet for me? My friend says that the woman on the Tic Tac breath mint commercial is Cheryl Tiegs. I say it's not. Which one is right? —Sheila S., Sherman, Texas.

A: You have won your bet! The lady in question is Kelly Harmon, actress-model sister of actor Mark Harmon. Please send your questions about television past and present to: Polly Vonetes, TV Q&A, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, Texas 76102-0748.

'People's Court' features real-life courtroom drama

By Shelia Gillilan

"Order in the court!" You would think people would want to avoid these ominous words at all costs, but every day, all over America, people intentionally put aside their daily schedule to spend 30 minutes in court. The People's Court that is.

The People's Court is as close as you can get to a real courtroom and a real trial without actually having to participate. The show deals with actual cases filed in the Small Claims Court system of Los Angeles and its environs.

A team of researchers go through the cases pending in Small Claims Court and choose interesting ones. Then they approach the plaintiff and the defendant, and if the parties agree to sign papers stating they will abide by the decision ren-

VS: NOTICE OF SALE
Edna Owens, James Berry, Thelma Berry, Elmer Berry, Blaine Hall, Marie Osborne, Lillian Ratliff, Burns Hall, Estill Hall, Bonnie Hall, Cuba Hall, Virgie Ramsey, Charles Ramsey, Gertrude Clevinger, Virginia Wright .....Defendants

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered at the January 25 term, 1989, in the above styled cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Court-house door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 24 day of February, 1989, at 10:00 o'clock a.m., same being a day of the regular term of the Floyd Circuit Court, for cash or upon a credit of three (3) months, the following described property, to-wit:

That certain tract or parcel of land, lying and being in Floyd County, Kentucky, on Frasures Creek, a tributary of Left Beaver Creek, and being the same property conveyed Wilse Newsom and Etta Newsom, his wife, from Phillip Newsome by deed dated January 12, 1939, recorded in Deed Book 115, page 35, Floyd County Clerk's Office, and being more particularly described as follows:

BEGINNING on the Joe Stumbo line where it intersects with the A. J. Hall line, thence with the Hall line to a Sassafras bush marked 3 hacks, thence up the hill with the Hall line to the foot of a bluff, thence around the hill with the foot of the bluff towards Day Hall's line to the Day Hall line, thence down the hill with said Hall line to Joe Stumbo's back line, thence with Joe Stumbo's line a south course to the beginning, containing 2 acres, more or less.

It is understood and agreed by and between the parties hereto, that all the mineral and mineral rights are hereby reserved and not conveyed, nor intended to be conveyed hereby.

It is the intention of this deed and it does not hereby convey all the oil and gas on and under the above described land to the second party hereto, together with the necessary rights and privileges that are commonly known to oil and gas privileges.

This property is being sold to settle the estate of Phillip Newsom.

The amount of money to be raised by this sale shall include the costs of this action, including costs of advertising of this sale and the fees and commissions for conducting this sale.

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms.

Given under my hand, this 3 day of February, 1989.

CORRECTIONAL NOTICE OF INTENT FOR BOND RELEASE

This is the first and final ad of correction. In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350, notice is hereby given that Renegade Mining, Inc., P.O. Box 2885, Pikeville, Kentucky 41501, intends to apply for bond release on Permit Number 836-0085 which was last issued on February 27, 1987.

The permit area is approximately 1.0 miles northeast from State Route 1426's junction with Bush Branch Road and located 0.25 miles northeast of Bush Branch. The latitude is 37-28-22. The longitude is 82-35-41.

The total bond now in effect for the permit is $42,900.00 of which 85% is to be included in this application for release.

Reclamation work thus far performed includes: grading, seeding, and mulching. This work was completed on February 10, 1988. Results thus far achieved include initial growth of vegetation per the revegetation plan.

Written comments, objections, or requests for a conference must be filed with the Director of Field Services, No. 2 Hudson Hollow Complex, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40601.

This is the final advertisement of the application. All comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be received within 30 days of today's date. 2-15-11.

Real Estate

Policy Must Address The Needs Of Renters And First-Time Home Buyers

To be effective, a national housing policy must address the needs of renters and first-time buyers, and it must contain flexible solutions for vastly different local residential markets.

Ira Gribin, NAR president, and NAR chief economist John A. Tuccillo were among several panelists who discussed the nation's housing affordability problems during a seminar sponsored by the Federal National Mortgage Association here this week.

restoring the federal commitment to housing is cooperation between all housing interest groups, including low-income housing advocates and real estate industry professionals.

The provision of "safe, decent, affordable" housing does not start with assistance for first-time buyers, he said. "If you perceive housing as a ladder of opportunity, on the bottom rung are low-income renters.

Unless programs can be established to enable renters to become buyers, "no one is going to move up the ladder," Gribin said.

NAR supports the creation of down payment assistance program, such as those involving the use of savings in Individual Retirement Accounts and 401(k) plans to help purchase homes.

Other measures NAR supports include raising the Federal Housing Administration mortgage insurance limits to 95 percent of the median price in a market.

Gribin pointed to shrinking federal assistance over the past decade as the major obstacle to affordable units, either to rent or buy.

Despite federal budget deficit concerns, housing interest groups "don't need to be defensive about housing program costs. We've paid our dues," Gribin said.

A sound housing policy makes good sense economically as well as socially, Gribin added.

The provision of safe, decent shelter is "the real national defense of this country," Gribin said.

Tuccillo said although federal ties to housing must be renewed, it is crucial that housing proponents realize that affordability problems are primarily local in nature.

Compounding the local element is the declining federal role in affordable housing, Tuccillo said.

The National Association of Realtors, the nation's largest trade association, represents nearly 800,000 members involved in all aspects of the real estate industry.
