Brock May Visit Feb. 1; Finance Work Begins

Speaking of and for Floyd County

by Anne Chaney Editor

PRESTONSBURG,

The Floyd County Board of Education meets Wednesday, Feb. 1, and state Superintendent of Public Instruction John Brock and other state officials may attend to explain how they will be involved in the day-today administration of the local

The state Board of Education voted earlier this month to take over the Floyd system because it did not meet minimum requirements for financial performance, attendance and test scores.

Gordon Nicholls, spokesman for Dr. Brock, said the state superintendent has tentatively scheduled Feb. 1 to come to Floyd County and explain the state's role to the public and local board.

at the Prestonsburg High School cafeteria

KENTUCKY 41653

Nicholls said the date of Brock's visit to the county is subject to change; many other details of the state's assistance also remain in

Nicholls said that while two members of the assistance team have been chosen, Brock has not decided who the others would be, nor if they would accompany him to meet with local officials.

Nicholls also said Brock "won't bring a dozen people with him" as he did in a recent visit to Whitley County, which was also moved from phase two to phase three of the state's academic bankruptcy law. In addition, while questions from the general public were allowed at the

> He said most questions the public would have would be answered during Brock's presentation.

> He added that the situation in Floyd County is "vastly different" from that in Whitley, noting that there are several organized public groups involved in Floyd education

Although state officials have not formally discussed the takeover with the local board at a public meeting, at least one assistance team member has already begun work in the district.

Bob Gover, who will be working with the Floyd system's finances, was in Prestonsburg Tuesday,

Hager

Gover will also continue working with the Pike County school district's finances, as he has done since the state took financial control of that district earlier this year.

Hager said Tuesday that he and Gover will study the district's current budget to try to find ways to reduce the system's projected $345,000 deficit. Earlier, Hager had questioned that amount after a $200,000 check was misdirected to the district instead of being issued to the district's bond paying agent.

Local officials deposited the check and issued another for the same amount to the paying agent. At issue was whether state auditors had both credited and debited the amount.

State officials said last week that and that the $345,000 amount was a correct reflection of the district's projected deficit

Hager said after studying a lineitem budget, he and Gover will look at overstaffing in the district. State estimates show that the system is overstaffed by 90 certified positions at various levels. Currently, the local board funds salaries for all of those jobs, resulting in more than $1 million in annual expenditures.

We will go school by school, in all offices, and analyze them in relation to our budget," said Hager, adding, No positions are sacred.

"Those could be administrative, guidance counselors, libraries, or asic classroom units," said Hager. "There is a strong possibility that

Scalf Files: Hopes Move Brings Challenge

by Anne Chaney Editor

Mare Creek resident Albert Devon scall threw his hat into the political ring Monday, filing to run for the Floyd County Judge-Executive's position in the May primary.

Now, it is up to other candidates to challenge his right to run - and Scalf is hoping they will.

Mare Creek, which sits smack on the Pike and Floyd county line. poses a problem for residents and county officials alike: those who live there often receive property tax bills from both counties, while the judgeexecutives from Pike and Floyd have to juggle equipment whenever road improvements are planned.

Scalf, who was a Pike County voter until Monday, used to receive property tax bills from both counties. He pays motor vehicle taxes in Floyd County, but renews his driver's license in Pike. His wife, Patricia, is registered to vote in Floyd County, although a state

For County Court Clerk Carla Bolton, registering Scalf for Floyd County's May primary proved to be a lengthy process.

Bolton called state officials Monday, and they told her to re-register Scalf as a Floyd voter and accept his filing papers. But technically, Scalf may be ineligible - candidates must reside in the county for at least one year prior to seeking office.

In 1821. Pike County was formed from what had been Floyd County. Scalf's great-great-grandfather, Tandy Richard Stratton, held a grant of about 1,000 acres on Mare Creek, which fell on the Pike County side, A staunch Floyd Countian, he got the state legislature, in 1845, to Scalf, however, says he will campaign seriously for the Floyd Judge-Executive's office, but his primary intent is to have someone determine where he lives.

Officials expect Floyd County to receive $794,724 in funding for the 1989-90 fiscal year, which begins July 1 of this year and ends June 30, 1990. oads Discussed By Fiscal Floyd County Fiscal Court members spent much of Friday's meeting discussing various road issues, ranging from prioritizing requests for improvements to rural secondary roads to hearing citizen's complaints.

Magistrates discussed priority road work on the county's portion of the Rural Secondary Road system with state highway officials (see separate story, this issue).

They also heard from Virgil Halbert Sr., who had complained about road work on Johns Branch Road. He said insufficient improvements were made, and that gravel sent to the area was put in the wrong place.

Jackie Edford Owens, magistrate of the district which includes the road, said that 70 tons of dense grade gravel had been put on the road.

'But right now, you can drive up through there and the potholes will beat you to death," said Halbert. He also said the ditches did not drain properly.

"I only get the equipment once every few months," said Owens. "The county's equipment is split between the four districts. We put dense grade gravel down there, and that's the best we can do. I think we've done a pretty good job over there for the last three years.'

In a separate matter, the court accepted deeds for the last 1,000 feet of the Doc Stumbo Hollow Branch at Printer, and took the road into the county system. Magistrates also voted to establish a county road across the Rosie Robinson property near Rudd Equipment. Formerly a public passway, the road area will be condemned, taken into the county system and maintained by the county. The action came at the request of residents Henry McKenzie and Danny McKenzie. Following a petition by residents, magistrates also voted to take three-tenths of a mile of roadway in the Music Manor Development into the county road system.

Glennis Ray Caudill, a county employee currently receiving workman's compensation for a work-related disability, attended the meeting to ask why the county was no longer paying for his insurance. Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo said the county stopped paying for Caudill's insurance, and that of another employee, at the direction of state officials

Officials notified Stumbo Jan. 7 that because Caudill was not working, the county could not continue benefits for services not rendered.

Caudill asked the court to vote to approve or disapprove of the state's

"Our vote on it wouldn't matter, if Frankfort says what to do on it.' Magistrate Betty Caudill told him. Glennis Caudill said he would pursue litigation against the county and state, if necessary. "If you've got any action, take it against the court and we'll defend it," Stumbo replied. In other business, the court approved a 5 percent pay increase for County Court Clerk employees. Funds for the increase will be taken from fees of the clerk's office. The court also accepted Electrical Inspector William Kendrick's report; Kendrick collected $2,150. and remitted 25 percent, or $537.50, to the county.

In February, the Floyd County Times will publish a special supplement to our regular news pages, and it's one we hope our readers will enjoy for many years to come.

'Love and Marriage' highlight Floyd County romances. courtships and marriages of lengthy duration, while also providing our readers an opportunity to send their valentines a special message.

In preparing for the issue, our staff is soliciting interesting stories from our readers: unique courtship experiences, the fun of falling in love, etc. There are numerous wonderful stories to tell: we know of one couple, married now some 50-odd years, who courted only six days before tying the knot. One we'd like to know about is the bright red sign between Martin and McDowell that wished "the most beautiful lady in Kentucky" a Merry Christmas. If you have a story to share, please give us a call (886-8506). We'll be more than happy to consider it for publication

For the bolder and more daring residents in the county, we're also sponsoring a "Perfect Pucker" contest. In the next few weeks, we'll be publishing an entry blank - get out the lipstick, pucker up, kiss the newsprint and mail it in - and you may be the winner of a "Perfect Pucker" certificate and $50 cash.

School District Mess Is Everyone's Fault

Dear Editor. ment for Floyd County. The state has come in and told you your entire school system, from top to bottom.

stinks. Well, the truth hurts and all of us must shoulder at least part of the First, as parents many of you sit by seen very few folks demanding better schools, academics (computers, gifted or remedial classes etc...) Most of you are satisfied for junior to get through eighth grade with passing scores, drop out and join you on the welfare rolls or in a dead-end menial job for low pay. Until we demand better schools, are willing to pay for them and are willing to make the kids stay in school and want to learn, we are partly to blame. Then come the teachers. If they are satisfied being mediocre and just getting by with the basics, then our kids won't go that step further either. They must instill a desire to learn as much as you can in our kids, not just baby-possible, not just a warm body, and we must be willing to pay them. Florida was once 44th in the nation in ranking for public schools now it's around 25th. The teacher salaries dur-I guess it is the ultimate embarass- ing that time have gone from $12,000 a year to start to around $21,000. You get what you pay for. In my home county of Palm Beach, six to seven new schools have been built in the past four years. We have remedial and advanced courses, computers, drafting and electronics and tech schools that teach something besides

> Last, but certainly not least, we must lay some blame on the school board and administrators. As long as good ole boy politics and political patronage are allowed to flourish, we are going to be cheated out of a great deal of money and efficiency. The same people get reelected no matter how poorly they've served in the past. the same contractors get all the contracts no matter what the cost is. It goes on and on. Where did the $2 million the kids raised last year go? Did it stay in their school to be used as earmarked, did it go into the general fund, or in someone's pocket?

Kentucky as a whole has poor sit. We must hire the best people schools, but to find this many serious flaws in Floyd schools must mean politician. that we are even worse and it's our innocent children who must suffer. That's the sad part.

Candidate Stumps On Blood Lines. Not Qualifications Sanitation Workers

Dear Editor:

By the political ads in The Floyd County Times, it looks like we are going to have another election. One of these ads is a 192-word report on the candidate's blood line, and not one word on his qualifications.

If he doesn't tell us about his qualifications, it must be because he doesn't have any. If he's asking for votes because of who he's kin to, he's probably in violation of three Kentucky laws against nepotism. And you know, if he's an outlaw before the election, he'll be an even worse outlaw if elected. Everybody should be v-e-r-y careful about who they vote for. We just might be contributing to the further delinquency of a

It sure was nice to be back in Floyd County in August for a couple weeks vacation. My friends haven't changed much-still good friends. Norman Allen was a great newspaperman. But you know, these young fellows aren't bad either.

Are Complimented

Dear Editor.

I want to compliment the gentlemen who work for the Floyd County Sanitation Department and remove our garbage each week.

Each year, they gladly remove my Christmas tree. They refuse any pay, so I hope they are well paid by their employer. They will accept any type of trash, including lawn mowers. They never grumble or complain.

Hats off to these gentlemen, some of the "big people" in Floyd County. Sincerely. Lorie Vanucci Martin

Report to Kentucky

SENATOR WENDELL FORD

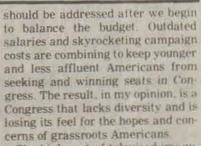

President Reagan has recommended a 50 percent pay raise for members of Congress, federal judges and top federal officials at a time when many Kentuckians and other Americans are making painful sacrifices to help balance the federal

I will vote against this badly timed pay raise, and I have an idea that Congress will reject it before the Feb. 7 deadline. In any event, I will fight to keep any increase from taking effect before the 102nd Congress convenes in 1991. The President himself could not accept a raise during his term of office, and I think it would be a conflict of interest for Congress to vote itself a raise with no delaying mechanism.

However, we should look for ways to offer competitive salaries for jobs in vital federal agencies. I see a special need in the National Institutes of Health, a group that has been frustrated in efforts to hire top researchers to fight cancer. AIDS and other tragic diseases. I definitely would want to exempt that agency from any move to delay government pay increases for two years.

I also want to make it clear that congressional pay is a serious national problem-a problem that

The high cost of televised imagemaking-and mud-slinging-is an issue of growing concern to me. With campaign costs often soaring to $3 million or more, senators face the prospect of raising $7,000 to $10,000 every week for six years for campaign war chests. We see senators running off in all directions to raise money when they should be dealir. with the problems of constituents We see a growing number of affluent members spending millions of dollars of their own money to win and keep their seats.

All of this tells me that we are going to need a package of reforms to deal with congressional pay. campaign-spending limits, negative advertising and other issues bearing on congressional ethics. We are going to have to deal, now or later, with the issue of speech-making honoraria to members of Congress These payments are increasingly viewed as an unfair way to supple ment congressional salaries

No Retrial For McNally, Gray

The US Solicitor General has ruled out the federal government's attempt to retry Prestonsburg businessman C.J. McNally and James Gray, whose mail-fraud convictions were overturned by the US Supreme Court

After the court acted in 1987, US Attorney Louis DeFalaise attempted to reactivate the charges, which stemmed from an alleged 1975 to insurance-commission kickback scheme.

DeFalaise's effort was rejected in October by US District Judge Henry R. Wilhoit Jr., but DeFalaise appealed that ruling to the Sixth US Circuit Court of Appeals.

Wilhoit ruled Oct. 19 that the prosecution, in reaction to the Supreme Court's ruling, was trying to base its case on arguments it had not pressed in the origin trial. He ruled that a retrial would violate the doublejeopardy clause of the US Constitution, which prohibits defendants from being tried twice on the same

Bible Answers To Your Questions

ARE YOU READY FOR THE BEGINNING OF THE END IN 1989?

The Bible tells us what is next in God's plan for man. Every born again Christian is looking for the Rapture, the catching away of believers to Heaven (I Thessalonians 4:13-18).

Next is the Tribulation, a period of seven years beginning with three and one half years of peace, and ending with the Battle of Armageddon and the Second Coming of Christ (Revelation 13:11-18; Mark 13:19-20; Revelation 19:11-21).

Following the binding of Satan in the bottomiess pit, will be the Millennium, the thousand year reign of Christ on earth. At the end of this reign, Satan is freed for a short time (Revelation 20:1-3, 7-10.

Then, all the unsaved dead will appear at the Great White Throne Judgment. There they will be judged according to what they have done about Christ. Their sentence-eternal separation from God and eternal torment in the lake of fire forever, and forever, and forever! (Revelation 20:11-15)

From the Bible, we do not know when these events will begin. The Rapture could occur at anytime, even in 1989. After the Rapture, there is NO chance for anyone to become a Christian because they will be deceived (II Thessalonians 2:8-12).

Friend, make your decision for Christ now so you will be ready when the Rapture occurs. Christ loved you so much, He died just for you. Ask Him to save you today.

County Magistrates: What Are Their Responsibilities?

by Pam Shingler Assistant Editor

Americans have been criticized lately for their poor turnout at the voting polls. Is the problem apathy? Is it a sense that votes don't count? Or is it sometimes a lack of information about the office and the candidates-despite a barrage of advertising?

Starting this week, the Floyd County Times will run a series of articles about the various offices that make up local government, the qualifications candidates must meet, the responsibilities of the jobs and the salaries of the office.

The office of magistrate, formerly called justice of the peace, probably has its origin in 15th century England and came to Kentucky via Virginia. of which the Bluegrass State was once

Formerly a powerful post, the magistrate now has fewer responsibilities and less authority and prestige than they once did. But that trimming of power doesn't stop a rush of contenders for the office, and it hasn't changed the public's perception of the office as a seat of power.

By the filing deadline, more than 30 people are expected to have filed to run for Floyd County's four magisterial openings in the May primary

They will have paid the $20 nonrefundable filing fee, produced two witnesses to swear that they are who they say they are, and attested that they meet the state's requirements for the office.

According to the Kentucky Constitution, to qualify for the job of magistrate the candidate must be at least 24-years-old by the time of the election; must be a resident of Kentucky for at least two years prior to election; and must have been a resident of the county and district for one year prior to election.

State statutes require no minimum educational level and offer no qualifying test. Theoretically, a magistrate could be illiterate or a convicted criminal.

What are the spoils of winning the elective race? Undoubtedly, the thrill of running for and winning an election is a reward in itself. It means the candidate has won the approval and support of his or her voting peers.

A more tangible benefit is the salary of more than $22,000 a year, plus an extra $300 a month for expenses. The pay is considerably higher than the average per capita income for Floyd Countians.

By Kentucky law, the only job requirement of the magistrate is that he or she attend two fiscal court meetings a year, during a four-year Theoretically, then, magistrates only have to work two days a year for their salary.

In Floyd County, however, fiscal court, made up of the four magistrates and the judge/executive, meets once a month, on every third Friday at 10 a.m.

The judge/executive presides over the fiscal court. He also prepares the county budget, which magistrates

By law, the fiscal court is the administrative and legislative body of county government. That is, it has the authority to create ordinances and regulations, levy taxes, issue bonds, appropriate funds and employ personnel to operate county government on a day-to-day basis.

The power to employ personnel is perceived by the public to be an important one, especially in this high unemployment area. In reality, the local fiscal court farms out many of the jobs the state authorizes it to perform.

For instance, the job of animal control officer, or dog catcher, as it is commonly known, has been done away with by the fiscal court, in favor of an annual contribution of $10,000 to the local animal shelter, according to the judge/executive's office.

The state also authorizes the fiscal court to oversee the provision of numerous services, ranging from health to libraries to recreation facilities. In Floyd County, the fiscal court has dealt with many of those functions by making appointments to governing boards and allocating contributions.

Thus, the magistrates are not directly involved in much of the hiring of personnel to run county service offices. In fact, out of a long list of jobs the fiscal court is authorized by the state to fill, only 69 are budgeted by the magisterial panel. About a third of those are road workers whose job is to try to maintain over 400 miles of roads in the county

Roads are probably the magistrates' biggest bugaboo. "Most people see the magistrate in terms of county roads," said Jackie Owens, District 2 magistrate, adding that the county budget is spread so thin that "very little is left for road work."

According to state law, the fiscal court has the power to "open, establish or alter" roads. However, a second and very critical party is involved-the state Department of Transportation.

Each April, the fiscal court members meet with DOT representatives to discuss construction and maintenance of roads covered under the state's Rural Highway Fund. Submitted in priority order, the court's list of road projects is nearly always longer than the state's funds will stretch, according to the judge/ executive's office.

For magistrates, even the budget approval step, perhaps their most important official responsibility, is relatively cut and dry. Nearly all of the money raised through taxes and other revenue sources-about $5 million this year-is committed well in advance.

Employee salaries and benefits take a large chunk. The operation of the county jail to adhere to everincreasing state standards must be funded. The juvenile detention center, senior citizens programs, public library, fire departments and many other organizations claim a share of the pie, as well.

At one time, magistrates had judicial duties with their own courts to try specified cases and settle minor disputes. The Judicial Amendment to the state Constitution in 1978 eliminated the magisterial, or justice of the peace, courts.

With their elimination went the need for another elective office, that of constable. At one time, the constable may have been the magistrate's righthand man. assisting with court duties, serving warrants and the like.

Today, the constable has no responsibilities whatsoever, according to a courthouse source. Yet the position remains on the ballot and the county pays its four constables a salary of $1,890 each year.

OLW Dedication Draws Crowd

OLWH Dedication

Seventy-five people crowded into the main lobby of Our Lady of the Way Hospital to formally dedicate its new mammography equipment and outpatient surgery center Sunday,

They were welcomed by the hospital's chief executive officer, Sister of Mercy Mary Fanning. Sister of Charity Ann Seton Gallagher, chairperson of the hospital's board of trustees, spoke about the hospital's new services. Sister Ann Seton also expressed appreciation for the Martin community's interest and support.

The Rev. Dan Heintzelman led the dedication's prayers. Operating Room Supervisor Sheilah Akers, R.N. read Ephesians 1:3-10. Radiology Supervisor Rex Music read seven prayer petitions requesting God's blessings on the hospital's patients, staff, and benefactors.

Hospital managers gave guided tours of the hospital. Guests lingered most at the outpatient surgical center, the mammography unit and the posters of proposed renovations. Several said it was their first opportunity to see the entire hospital, even though they had been to the hospital many times previously. Others were amazed by how much the facility had changed since their last visit.

Total participation in the open house and dedication was estimated at more than 150 people.

Wins National Title

Barron Allen, a local boy, has become well-known in the sport of motorcycle racing. His skill has gained him wide-spread recognition as one of the sport's best young riders. In 1988, he piloted his Honda CR 250 to five wins in a seven-race series, accumulating a 16-point lead, making him the youngest rider, at age 16, ever to win the title of AMA Grand National Cross Country Champion. The son of James L. and Gloria Allen of Langley, he is a junior at Allen Central High School.

Bobcats Defeat Trojans, 61-60 The Trojans once again came back,

The Wheelwright Trojans paid a visit to Betsy Layne for a big conference basketball contest with Junior Newsome's Bobcats. With memories of a heart-breaking loss, 61-60, at Wheelwright, the Trojans looked to turn things around.

Although the game resemblanced the past contest, the Trojans still came up short-this time by two points-as senior Keith Hall scored 16 points for the Bobcats to lead a balanced attack and help his team to its fourth conference victory, 67-65.

Betsy Layne opened the game with a hot hand, taking an early lead in the first quarter. Wheelwright, unable to score in the early going, trailed at the end of the first stanza, 19-12.

The Bobcats extended their lead in the second quarter to 15 points at the halfway mark.

The Trojans' "dynamic duo" of Bobby Hood and Craig Martin began to find their range, and helped the Trojans to cut the Bobcat lead down to four, 37-33,

"Our players need to put a full 32 minutes together," Newsome said. "We just look good in spots."

Keith Hall led Betsy Layne in scoring with 16 points. Earl Lawson scored 12 points and Barry Hamilton and Sam Stewart scored 11 and 10 points respectively.

The Bobcats improved their overall record to 13-5 and go to 4-1 in conference play.

Slone's work habits are not just limited to his work on the football field, Daniels said.

'Tim works hard on his classroom work as well as on the field," he said. "Tim wants to excel in the classroom and he wants to be the best at football also.

Daniels thinks this honor is a tribute to the dedication of Slone to his classroom work.

Bass fishing in the winter months is kind of like eating beef stew with a fork. A lot of soup is going to pass through your fork, but sooner or later you're going to get a good chunk of beef. During the winter, bass typically congregate in rather large, tightly-packed schools. In all likelihood, anglers who prefer to run-'n-gun will never find the fish even though they will cover a tremendous amount of water.

Winter bass fishing demands a knowledge of bass behavior, a good game plan, a depthfinder and a tremendous amount of patience. But that doesn't mean that it is difficult. In fact, all things considered, it is relatively simple. If you happen to locate the right school of fish, you will probably eatch the largest limit of bass of your lifetime!

Without question, a jigging spoon is the finest wintertime bait for bass of all species. Although grubs and jigs will catch fish, and are the best baits for anglers who insist on casting toward the shoreline, jigging spoons enable you to perform a deadly coldwater technique. For the technique discussed here, half-ounce to full ounce slab spoons like the Hopkin's Spoon or Cotton Cordell's CC Spoon in a chrome finish are the best lure. As a general rule, bass in the winter months will hold at a depth of 25 to 35 feet. They may be suspended at that depth in 100 feet of water, or they may move a bit shallower on a sunny day to warm themselves or to chase a school of shad, but generally, you will find the bass between 25 and 35 feet deep.

As previously stated, they tend to school in relatively large groups. Because bass are structure-oriented creatures, they will be found in the proximity of some type of structure. be it standing timber or a channel drop. If you can locate standing timber on the lip of a sunken creek or river channel, chances are extraordinarily good that you can find a school of bass there. (If you haven't already made the connection. Paintsville Lake offers this combination throughout its length and should prove a superb lake for vertical jigging in the winter months.)

I recently discussed vertical jigging techniques with such well known anglers as Roland Martin, Gary Klein. Fred McClintock (guide at Dale Hollow L and Ken Cook. Their tips are incorporated into this article.

We know that bass prefer a 25 to 35 foot depth, and that they are most comfortable in standing timber on the lip of a channel drop. Therefore, this is what we will try to locate. At Paintsville, the combination should not be difficult to find Simply select your favorite creek arm (clear water is best) and motor to the back of it. Because most of the timber in Paintsville is visible above the waterline, the creek channel is usually easy to spot. Next, choose one side of the channel (I like the sunny side for my own comfort!)

Using your trolling motor, begin easing down the side of the channel while keeping a close eye on your depthfinder. I would start jigging when the depth hits 15 feet as the fish will rarely be shallower than that. Move rather quickly at first until you find the first school on your depthfinder. Most schools found in open water will probably be shad or trout. though spotted bass will often school there. Your objective here is to locate specific trees on the channel break with a sufficient water depth around them and, hopefully, a school of bass in the limbs of that tree.

When you find that tirst perfect tree, start jigging around it. More often than not, the bass will hold tight to the trunk of the tree or to See KEEPERS, Page 2

You will, of course, snag your lure on occassion. However, you shouldn't lose many lures. These jigging spoons are heavy and act as their own plug knocker. A few shakes of the rod tip will usually free a snagged spoon. Because you are fishing in heavy cover, strong tackle is required. Generally, 17 to 20 pound test fluorescent line is suitable, and a 6 foot graphite medium-heavy to heavy action rod and baitcasting reel is ideal.

You need an easily-seen fluorescent line to visually detect subtle strikes. Strikes, which most often occur on the fall, are normally soft. Sometimes you'll feel a gentle bump, other times your lure just doesn't hit bottom, and sometimes you'll see the line jump just a bit.

One difficult aspect of the technique which many underestimate is putting your lure at the proper depth. If the bottom is 30 feet deep and the fish are holding at 25 feet. simply drop the lure over the side of the boat and free-spool the reel until the jig hits bottom. Then wind in about five feet of line. If the fish are suspended at 25 feet in 100 feet of water, proper lure placement is more difficult. Typically, the most accurate method is to peel out 25 feet of line in one foot increments by hand. It's slow, but it's accurate.

To jig the lure, simply hop it upwards about 2 feet and then follow the lure back down with the rod tip. The gravest mistake most anglers make is letting the lure drop on a slack line; strikes, then, are almost impossible to detect. Try to keep the line fairly tight as the lure falls, but not tight enough to hamper the lure's day, though they might be a bit deeper or a bit shallower. During the winter months, bass move primarily in a vertical plane and will vacate a good area only in the absence of bait-

If you're anxious to get out of the house and into your boat, try vertical jigging in the timber at Paintsville Lake. If you're lucky, you might find the school of a lifetime! Dress warmly, be careful, and be patient! Good luck, and good fishing

Cold Weather Techniques

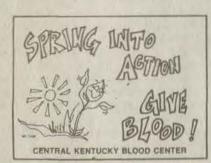

Vertical jigging is one of the deadliest wintertime techniques known to bass anglers. Limits of 5 pound bass, like the one in this photo, are not uncommon catches when using a jigging spoon correctly. Altman recommends trying the technique at Paintsville Lake.

nine attempts in the fourth quarter. Michelle Clemmons, the scrappy little guard for the Ladycats, hit some key free throws when the Lady Rebels had cut the Prestonsburg lead down to one point.

"Allen Central threw a zone press at us in the last quarter," Clay said. 'Michelle did a great job of handling the ball and the pressure defense."

The Lady Cats went on to hold on to its lead and win the game, 65-61, over a good Allen Central team.

"Allen Central really hit the outside shots," Clay said. "We started manto-man, but they were hitting under the basket, so we went to a zone, and they hit from the outside, so finally we changed our defense again. That seem to neutralize their offense, and helped us to regain a five point lead."

Allen Central played a box and one defense, putting a chaser on Frasure. "Kathy Slone hit a key basket for us in the fourth period to put us back up by five again," Clay said. Clay contributes the victory to the excellent defense that Slone played,

Clay also was quick to praise Amy Hicks for her defense on Allen Central's star forward, Jo Ann Conn. "Amy held Conn to four first-half points, and pulled down double figure rebounds, as well as scoring 15 points." Clay said.

Deer Harvest Lower Than Expected

Preliminary results from Kentucky's 1988 deer gun season indicate a significantly lower harvest in open counties than had been predicted.

Deer Program Coordinator John Phillips had estimated an opencounty harvest of 74,000 deer, while the actual harvest was approximate-

Phillips attributes the decline to lower-than-normal fawn production due to last summer's drought. Population models indicate deer numbers declined in all zone one, two and three counties in the state.

'Since these are counties where we wanted to reduce or stabilize the herd, the department's overall management strategies should not change, said Phillips. However, the biologist warns hunters that the 1989 season will also produce a lower-than-normal harvest, and that the wildlife division will very likely recommend less liberal seasons in some counties on a one-year basis until the herd recovers Junior forward Jo Ann Conn said. "We've juggled our lineup, scored 28 points as the Lady Rebels of Allen Central defeated Lawrence County, 76-41, in a non-conference basketball contest.

"We needed a win going into tonight's game with Wheelwright," Coach Bonita Compton said.

The Lady Rebels opened the first quarter with some hot shooting, and took command of the game early by opening up a quick 10 point lead and led by 16 points at the end of the first quarter, 24-8.

"Our trap zone really hurt Lawrence County," Compton said. "They couldn't handle the ball and turned the ball over several times."

The Lady Rebels didn't let up in the second stanza, as Jo Ann Conn "scored at will," the Lady Rebels blitzed Lawrence County and led by 22 points, 41-19, at the end of the second quarter.

"Jo Ann played a super game," Compton said. "She's usually got three players guarding her." she added, "but Lawrence County didn't defense her that way, and she scored

As Allen Central began to play its subs in the third quarter, the intensity of play did not stop for the Lady Rebels, as they still managed to extend their lead to 26 points, 53-27.

"We played three of our eighth graders," Compton said. The three eighth graders scored 14 points between them, which helped build the big lead.

The Lady Rebels have been a good shooting team all year, and shot at a 57 percent clip from the floor against Lawrence County

'We shot real well," Compton said. "We've been averaging 52 percent so far for the year.

Allen Central outscored the Lawrence County team by nine points in the fourth quarter to win the contest by 35 points, 76-41.

"We've had our problems this year trying to fill a forward spot with some consistency." Compton

Bearcats Get By BLHS, 56-55

The Betsy Layne Bobcats, coming off a big victory over Wheelwright Friday night, traveled to Johns Creek

Saturday for a non-conference game. John Hamilton scored 18 points-14 in the last quarter-to lead the Johns Creek Bearcats to a one point victory, Both teams started slow, and turnovers hurt each team in the first quarter, as Betsy Layne managed to hold a one-point lead, 13-12, at the end of the first stanza.

The Bobcats outscored the Bearcats by eight points in the second quarter and increased their lead to

In the third quarter Betsy Layne picked up the offense and defense, racing out to a 12 point lead at the end of the period, 47-35.

Hamilton, who only had four points going into the fourth quarter, found the basket and netted 14 fourth quarter points, including four three pointers, as the Bearcats outscored the Bobcats, 21-8 in the final stanza, to take a 56-55 upset victory over Betsy Layne. 'Once again it was a typical game for us," coach Junior Newsome said. "We had a 12 point lead again in the last quarter and we just relaxed and let them back in the game.

'They hit their three pointers even with our players' hands in their faces," he said. Execution on offense was a problem for the Bobcats. "We just didn't execute in critical situations," Newsome said. "We had a good lead but lost it. 'Our players know they have to get it all together," Newsome said "if they are going to be a better team.

This team hasn't peaked yet. Betsy Layne also has some injuries on the team.

"Duran is about 80 percent," Newsome said of the guard's previous injury. "Keith Hall hurt his ankle, and we will just have to wait and see how much he is able to play.

The loss dropped the Bobcats record to 13-6 overall, and they have a 4-1 conference record.

The Bobcats were led in scoring by Duran Newsome and Sam Stewart with 12 points each, and Keith Hall tossed in 10.

John Hamilton led Johns Creek with 18 points.

Betsy Layne will host Magoffin County on Saturday night, at the D.W. Howard Field House.

CITIZENS:

JUST A FEW KNOWN FACTS ABOUT OUR JAILING SYSTEM:

- 1. Lack of medical attention resulted in the death of one inmate who suffered a heart attack.
- 2. Weak System—jail escapes, suicidal attempts and, yes, even suicide committed in our Floyd County jail.
- 3. Brutality-you decide.
- 4. Weak management-a state takeover has threatened us.
- 5. Hunger strikes—inmates trying to starve themselves due to lack of decent meals to eat.

Citizens, we all know there have been problems in our current Floyd County jail system.

Citizens, inmates serve time for crimes committed to pay their debts to society but they also need protection. With a stronger security system we can prevent inmates from hurting one another or even themselves. Citizens, hasn't Floyd County had enough Hale for so many years? How much money has the county insurance had to pay out for our current iailer's irresponsibilities and negligence which our tax monies are used to provide? It has been thousands of dollars too much. The Floyd County iail should be a lodging facility for inmates that have committed crimes, big or small. Let's abolish this Hale Motel and turn it back into our Floyd County jail.

Elect Me,

JR. JOSEPH FLOYD COUNTY JAILER

I CAN AND WILL MAKE A DIFFERENCE IN OUR FLOYD COUNTY JAIL SYSTEM.

McDowell Women Win

Lady Daredevils of McDowell, put their first conference win in the record books with a 45-33 victory over Wheelwright and also visited the Lady Beareats of Johns Creek Monday night for another win.

"We haven't played much lately," Keathley said. "I don't know if the lay off will help us or hurt us.

Both teams struggled in the first quarter, as missed shots and turnovers dictated the action, with both teams scoring only eight first quarter points.

McDowell's offense picked up in the second quarter, as Mullins and Lori Bryant began to connect from the outside and gave the Lady Daredevils a 10 point half time lead 28-18.

"We need to improve on our free throw shooting," Keathley said. "We're just not hitting free throws like we should.

McDowell held their 10 point advantage, as both teams played evenly in the third quarter. McDowell led at the third stop, 38-28.

'We play good in spots," Keathley said, "but overall we are playing better. Our defense is coming around."

McDowell held on to its lead in the fourth quarter and went on to defeat Johns Creek, 60-49, for their second straight win.

'Priscilla Crawford hurt her ankle," Keathley said. "We're hoping it's not serious.

Crawford scored 10 points in the Lady Daredevils' victory.

McDowell's win brings their overall record to 8-9. They are 1-4 in conference play.

The Lady Daredevils placed four players in double figures, led by Mullins with 14 points. Lori Bryant tossed in 13 points and Tish Slone added 11, and Crawford netted 10.

PUBLIC NOTIFICATION NOTICE TO THE CUSTOMERS OF BEAVER ELKHORN WATER DISTRICT

In July 1987, federal regulations were adopted that require monitoring for eight volatile synthetic organic chemicals and 51 unregulated contaminants in public water systems. The first year of this monitoring is being conducted by the Kentucky Division of Water with the assistance of the Division of Environmental Services.

The volatile synthetic organic chemicals have maximum contaminant levels or standards over which action will be taken to protect your health. Currently, no maximum contaminant levels have been established for the unregulated contaminants because sufficient information is not yet available. Please be assured, however, that you will be notified if contamination is detected and determined to be a potential health threat. This monitoring will aid in setting standards by indicating how widespread these contaminants may be in public water systems and at what levels of concentration they may be occurring.

The Beaver Elkhorn Water District now has available for public review the analytical results for unregulated contaminants for four quarterly monitoring periods, October 1987 through September 1988. These results may be reviewed at our office at Wayland, Ky. during regular business hours of 8 a.m. 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Additional monitoring has been conducted during October through December 1988. Results of this monitoring are expected to be available for public re .w in February 1989.

Diana Osborne tried working in a store for her sister for a while, but she thought she'd go crazy

'I said 'Sister, I love you, but I've got to do things with my hands," the Salisbury woman recalls.

Family relations intact, Osborne went back home and began doing what she loves and has been doing all her life - working with her hands.

The self-taught craftswoman began drawing and oil painting in grade school. Having listened to her grandmother's descriptions for years, as an eighth grader Osborne painted a picture of the grandmother's homeplace which no longer existed. The painting, hanging in Margie Osborne's living room since it was done, is complete with silver maples, wooden fence, garden, and blue trim on the two-story white farmhouse, just as the young girl heard it

At McDowell High School, Osborne was encouraged and taught by Sally Miller and was offered an art scholarship. She opted for marriage instead of college and, in between raising her two sons, she embroiled herself in learning crafts and working with her hands,

Over the years, she filled family Last fall with husband Ralph's encouragement she opened her own shop, called Country Creations, in a section of the garage behind the extended family compound on KY 122, south of Martin.

The tiny shop, with a carpeted dirt floor, is filled with carved and painted animals, decorated hats. handmade toys, tole painted knickknacks and hundreds of other Osborne creations

The shop decor suits the owner's country tastes. One wall is paneled with a weathered piece of wood fencing. Quilts and pillows are displayed on a wooden bench from the old Methodist church in Martin, which her great-grandfather helped build

"I love to work with my hands," Osborne said, admitting that she can be hard to live with if she isn't creating. "At night if I can't sleep, I'll plan what to work on the next

Her favorite craft is working with wood. "I love to take an old piece of wood and make something out of it." she said. "I'd probably be a carpenter if I wasn't afraid people would laugh at me and call me a

Besides creating home decorations from wood, she has put her carpentry skills to use in her own house, building closets for her sons' rooms, as well as a wall cabinet. A variety of saws in her workshop illustrates her interest in carpentry.

Her latest woodworking project is to make wall outlet covers for the new home of a cousin in Indiana. Osborne has also been commissioned to create all of the wall decorations following a western theme. She's looking forward to the biggest challenge in the relative's house carving a stagecoach in the fireplace mantel.

Osborne's carpentry skills also came into play before Christmas when she made a life-size sleigh and reindeer for her sister's lawn at Jack's Creek

Although her grandmother taught her to sew and embroider, Osborne has taught herself carpentry and all the other crafts she practices. When she can't find a pattern she likes, she makes up her own design. Other times she reproduces objects she's seen in pictures.

"I also love to go to flea markets and find things I can make over."

Her current challenge is reproducing a small wood carousel that her father found at a flea market. "He brought it in and said 'You can do that,' so I'm doing it." She built the base, carved and painted the farm animals and attached them to strings leading to a central pole which will enable them to move around and up and down when the piece is finish-

She is also teaching herself the art of paper cutting, an increasingly popular craft in which decorations are deftly cut into complex shapes and sizes

Much of her work emphasizes folk art or "rugged country." as she describes it.

So far, Osborne is pleased with the retail venture. Although sales have been slow after Christmas, preholiday sales were surprisingly good, she said. The first day she opened in November, she sold $60 worth of her work to one customer.

When she isn't involved in craft making or waiting on customers or tending to her family. Osborne helps her mother Noma Crisp in her homebased cake decorating business. The two have been baking and decorating cakes for weddings, birthdays and other special occasions for several years.

Osborne appears to have taught herself the art of the full life, successfully combining homemaking and her creative talents.

A: Miliza Korjus, the legendary coloratura soprano from Poland, was born on Aug. 18, 1900. She starred with various European opera companies in the late '20s and early '30s before being signed by MGM to co-star in The Great Waltz in 1939. Despite an Academy Award nomination for best supporting actress, she never made another Hollywood movie. Her career had been jinxed by an automobile accident in 1940 which hospitalized her for almost a year. Except for rare appearances on the concert stage, she stayed out of the public eye. During this time she devoted her time primarily to recording for Venus Recordings of Beverly Hills. She retired in the early '50s and passed away

Public chooses favorites in five fields of music

Dick Clark driving force behind awards

By Mary Ann Townsend

ABC presents a current sampling of the public's taste in music when The 16th Annual American Music Awards air Monday, Jan.

Nominees, selected from record sales and a public poll, were chosen in the pop/rock. country, and rhythm & blues fields of music, as well as in two new music categories-rap and heavy metal. Also for the first time, newcomers in the established fields will be awarded.

"It just seemed appropriate," said Dick Clark, who is serving as executive producer of the awards for his 16th year. "There are a lot of interesting new people coming up in the business that don't get recognized early on."

Clark said 1988 was a good year for music, and one of the most interesting aspects of this year's awards will be the artists up for multiple honors, such as heavy metal's Def Leppard and Guns n' Roses, rock's George Michael and country's Randy Travis.

Two special awards, the Award of Merit and the Achievement Special Award, will be presented, respectively, to Willie Nelson and Michael Jackson. Posthumous tributes will be paid to Brook Benton, Andy Gibb and Roy Orbison.

Clark, who helped form the concept of the American Music Awards which first aired in 1974, said through the years the ceremonies have gained a reputation for being good solid entertainment featuring a variety of

"I think one of the reasons the American Music Awards has succeeded is it's a threehour, wall-to-wall entertainment show that just goes on a fast track-it's very rapid, very neat, very tidy," he said. "Along the way there will be some surprises, there's a room full of celebrities.

"I think (the awards) have an interesting respect for all kinds of music. It's the only music awards show, it was for years ... where you'll find artists from other fields asking for autographs of other people that are their peers, only in another field of music," he said.

"We iam 'em all together in one room, so you get giant stars in all fields of music. I mean like Guns n' Roses. one of the guys in that heavy metal group is a giant fan of Frankie Valli. Now on that night, they're liable to meet and hobnob. I see it every year, funny combinations, it's most interesting."

Finding a niche in today's diverse music market is essential for an artist to make it rather than break it, Clark observed.

"I think music is a part of everybody's life. It's a little more complicated these days because tastes are so definitive and divided," he said, claborating on what it might take for an artist to climb the charts.

"I guess it's find an audience and give 'em their money's worth," he said.

Jones Assists Students With School, Career Choices

by Penny Triplett and Gina Johnson

What can a high school senior do to help a group of eighth graders?

In Bobby Jones' view, quite a bit. Each spring for the past three years. Jones, the guidance counselor at Wheelwright High School, has been taking three or four seniors to the two elementary schools located near the high school, where they have talked to eighth graders about the adjustments that they will have to make when they begin high school.

So far, the program has been successful, said Jones. Students have had the opportunity to question the seniors about teachers and courses.

the fear that they have towards the change

Jones believed that it is important to assist students at both ends of the

The seniors are able to be honest with the students and to talk about both the good and bad aspects of high school. It seems to have helped," Jones said.

He is also equally concerned about preparing seniors for life after high

'Any student wishing to go to college and who wants to find about what is available will be told about college opportunities and receive assistance and it has helped eliminate some of in choosing a school." Jones said in explaining his role as a high school counselor

At the beginning of the 1988-89 school year. Jones met with the WHS senior class to discuss making plans for college, vocational school or any other post-secondary institution. The students have already participated in a career day at Prestonsburg Community College.

At the career day, students talked to representatives from colleges across the state, and received information dealing with entrance requirements, programs of study, financial assistance and possible scholarships

In addition to the earees day, every year WHS is visited by officials from various colleges and vocational schools, as well as by recruiters from the Armed Forces This year's seniors have already spoken with representatives from Eastern Kentucky University, Alice Lloyd College and Pikeville College Within the next few months, the students will be talking to spokespersons from Morehead State University, Berea College and RETS Technical School. Students interested in attending Pikeville College will be taken on a tour of the campus.

"I will try to help each student to get accepted to the college of his or students that have very high her choice," added Jones.

Many seniors go to Jones with their worries about meeting the costs of college. Jones has found many ways to solve their problems.

'All graduating seniors fill out financial aid forms to see if they qualify for Pell Grants, Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants. State Student Incentive Grants, Health Career Grants, Teacher Scholarships, and other types of financial aid. These grants or scholarships are based on financial need and academic success in high school. In addition to financial aid, every college has scholarships for academic marks (above a 3.5), or an ACT score in the mid- to upper-20s. said Jones

Alice Lloyd College gives scholarships for students with a 3.5 grade point average. Morehead State University offers Regional Honors I and II scholarships of $2,000 and $1,800 for the top two graduating seniors from each class who attend there. They also offer a Distinguished Scholar Award, a $2,000 Presidential Scholarship and a $1,000 Regents Scholarship. More information about requirements for these scholarships is available from area guidance counselors.

Visiting Ministers

Delores Woody of Wheelwright High School talks with two members of the Appalachian Ministries Program, More about the region and its people. than 20 participating ministers recently visited the school.

Ministers Visit Wheelwright As Part Of Appalachian Program

and Amy Payne

"What would I do if God told me to go to Kentucky and preach?'

This was the question that brought one of the 20-some ministers to Wheelwright High School and the Appalachia area on Jan. 10. Members of Wheelwright High School's magazine class Mantrip played host to seminary students from Georgia, Ohio, Tennessee, New Jersey, Maryland and Pennsylvania. The ministers came to Wheelwright as part of the Appalachian Ministries Program in Berea, taught by Helen M. Lewis. Lewis has worked with Appalshop in Whitesburg and also with the Highlander Center in New Market, Tenn. During January, the group of ministers will be traveling throughout Appalachian to learn

During their visit to Wheelwright

High School, they observed the Mantrip class and took notes. They also shared their own experiences with the students. One of the ministers was from South Africa, and he and Tonja Johnson and Amy Payne talked about the policy of apartheid and stereotyping of people from the Appalachian region.

Many of the visitors also congratulated the students on the success of their magazine, seeing in it a way to educate students while recording some history that may be lost

"I am an advocate of passing down oral history. You have found a perfect method to maintain that heritage," said Tim Kiser, one of the visitors.

Tom Evans, another member of the group, said, "You are a perfect example of what people can do for themselves. Your efforts are but a small seed which will bear much fruit for both the community and in your own lives.

The students in the class have just completed the sixth issue of their magazine, and have begun work of the seventh issue, which will feature interviews from Hall Hollow, the black community in Wheelwright, and will be published in the spring.

A reception was held for the visiting group at the school. Earlier in the day, members of the same group had visited with the classes of Willie Elliott at McDowell High School and Bud Reynolds at Martin. both of whom are members of the Eastern Kentucky Teachers Network, associated with Foxfire in Rabun Gap, Ga.

After leaving the school, the group took a tour of the town of Wheelwright before returning to the Hindman Settlement School in Knott County where they were staying

No one has even noticed my hearing aids, but they've sure noticed I'm hearing better.

These people had experienced the same frustrations you may be experiencing right this minute. Difficulty understanding in crowds, turning the T.V. and radios up so loud that family members were uncomfortable, and the fear of appearing older if they admitted their difficulty in hearing.

PUBLIC NOTIFICATION NOTICE TO THE CUSTOMERS OF BEAVER ELKHORN WATER DISTRICT

In July 1987, federal regulations were adopted that require monitoring for eight volatile synthetic organic chemicals and 51 unregulated contaminants in public water systems. The first year of this monitoring is being conducted by the Kentucky Division of Water with the assistance of the Division of Environmental Services.

The volatile synthetic organic chemicals have maximum contaminant levels or standards over which action will be taken to protect your health. Currently no maximum contaminant levels have been established for the unregulated contaminants because sufficient information is not yet available. Please be assured. however, that you will be notified if contamination is detected and determined to be a potential health threat. This monitoring will aid in setting standards by indicating how widespread these contaminants may be in public water systems and at what levels of concentration they may be occurring.

The Beaver Elkhorn Water District now has available for public review the analytical results for unregulated contaminants for four quarterly monitoring periods, October 1987 through September 1988. These results may be reviewed at our office at Wayland, Ky. during regular hours of 8 a.m.-4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Additional monitoring has been conducted during October through December 1988. Results of this monitoring are expected to be available for public review in February 1989.

For more information, please contact Beaver Elkhorn Water District at 358-3491, or the Drinking Water Branch, Kentucky Division of Water. 1-25-11.
