Students Stranded At McDowell

By Frank Clark,
Staff Writer

Over 750 students and teachers were stranded in McDowell schools Tuesday morning when water breached the banks of Frasure Creek above Left Beaver, pouring a torrent of water into the town and sending over two feet of water into several classrooms.

Between 8 and 8:15 a.m. Tuesday morning, after a night of extremely heavy rainfall, Frasure Creek ran over its banks and funneled into McDowell, flooding McDowell High School and elementary school with up to two feet of water. Bob Hall, principal of McDowell High, and Frank Pack, principal of the elementary school, estimate that approximately 760 students were in the school when flooding began. The rising waters quickly cut students and teachers off from leaving the school campus.

Brenda Tackett, secretary at the school, said that the water surprised everyone.

"We saw water running outside and I went down the road to move my car. I only had time to get one out. I've never seen the water get this big this fast."

Willie Elliott, journalism teacher at the high school, agreed.

"The water came so fast, I couldn't believe it. Ten minutes after home-room, water was over the bank and coming under our trailer."

Teachers received word from school administrators at approximately 8:05 a.m. to get the children out of the elementary and junior high school building, moving them to the higher ground of the school gymnasium. High school students were sent to the second floor library, while others helped to organize grade school children in the gym. According to Pack, children were brought through the water in the parking lot and into the gym, which was on higher ground and less likely to flood. The decision to keep the children in the school was made by school administrators, after receiving a call at roughly 7:45 a.m. from Earl Ousley, transportation director for the Floyd County School System, who was instructed by Superintendent of Floyd County Schools Ron L. Hager to keep the children in the school until water in the area went down, and it would be safe to move them.

Meade was lifted by flood waters after he had deposited children at the school. Meade attempted to leave the school area after dropping off students, but was blocked by water. When he turned to return to school grounds, the bus was lifted by rushing waters and pushed into a ditch.

"That water was up to the top step in this bus. That's about 30 inches. I could feel the bus lift up and I lost all control over it."

Meade decided to stay with the

Alone in the Flood

Flood waters from Frasure Creek hit McDowell Elementary and High Schools between 8 and 8:15 a.m. Tuesday morning, trapping an estimated 760 students, grades kindergarten through 12, on the school campus. Water depths reached over two and a half feet in some classrooms. Parents and area rescue workers rushed to the school and sought to remove the stranded children by rope line walks and four wheel drive vehicles. All children were rescued by approximately 11:15 a.m.

Flood Update ...

The Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad expected a busy night to follow their rescue efforts of Tuesday.

According to Brian Sexton of the Floyd County Rescue Squad, the 12-person force that was in operation all day Tuesday was to be maintained overnight into Wednesday to deal with the county's flood emergencies. Four crews of emergency workers are on call.

In a 24 hour period beginning Monday night, the David area received 3.24 inches of rain. Left Beaver received 3.44 inches, Stanville received 2.32 inches, Mud Creek received 2.44 inches, and Right Beaver received 3.76 inches, according to reports from the weather center in Jackson.

According to local Kentucky Disaster and Emergency Service personnel, water in the Big Sandy River at Martin was rising nine inches an hour at 10 p.m. Tuesday night. Capt. Omdalov Hunt of the rescue squad said Tuesday evening that water remained over the roadways in some areas of Left and Right Beaver Creek, as well as Mud Creek. Water in the Beaver creeks was moving slower, he said, while the Levisa was moving somewhat faster. Water crested in Pikeville at 8 p.m. Tuesday night and is expected to crest below night stage in Prestonsburg by 8 a.m. Today.

Floyd County residents experiencing an emergency as a result of flooding should call the Emergency and Rescue Squad at 886-8114, or call local police or fire departments.

Schools Opened, Then Closed

Heavy rains throughout Floyd County prompted school closings Tuesday, but the cancellation came a bit too late for more than 700 students temporarily stranded at the McDowell campus.

Most students were out of the school's gym and cafeteria complex by 11:30 a.m.

According to Superintendent Ronald L. Hager, the district's transportation director, Earl Ousley, called him at home about 6:30. Ousley said state Highway Department reports noted that only two roads in the county had surface water, and that both were passable.

Based on that information, said Hager, he decided to proceed with school opening.

"Buses started picking up students in most places about 6:50 (a.m.)," said Hager.

Ousley called Hager before 8 a.m., reporting that water was over roads in several sections of the county where rainfall had been heavier. By 8 a.m., said the superintendent, school was called off and personnel were instructed to return students to their homes.

"We wanted to insure the proper safety of students. If there was high water and they couldn't get home, the staff was told to return them to the schools."

At McDowell, where water rose between 2 and 3 feet in a short period of time, several hundred students were temporarily stranded.

"The principals evacuated students to the gym and cafeteria area, which had never flooded," said Hager. "It was safe, students were supervised, and they could wait on the water to recede and then take the kids home."

Hager, who said he knew many parents were apprehensive, said the principals and school personnel reacted in the best interests and safety of the children.

Several parents have criticized school officials because classes weren't canceled earlier.

"We decided to have school based on the facts known at that time," said Hager. "Some parents decided to procure their own children. The students were perfectly safe in that facility; it was the parents' decision."

Hager noted Tuesday's flooding marked the third time since February the McDowell buildings have received water.

Other schools in the county had received minimal or no damage as of Tuesday. Some equipment at Garrett Elementary School was moved as a precautionary measure, said Hager.

$5 Million Restored On US 23

The Committee on Conference has restored the $5 million for the construction of new US 23 cut earlier this year by the Senate, according to Congressman Chris Perkins.

"After the Senate cut the $5 million I had fought so hard to get in the House, many thought the expansion of US 23 was dead. But in these last few weeks, I have been working hard to convince my colleagues on the conference of the desperate need for this project to go through," said Perkins. "I was pointing out to them that just two weeks ago three people were killed just south of Paintsville. Luckily, my efforts paid off and I'm extremely pleased that the $5 million has been restored. In fact, this year's funding is nearly 20 percent more than last year's $4.1 million."

The four-laning of US 23 is an absolutely crucial project for the Big Sandy Valley in the area's efforts to improve infrastructure and the economy, said Perkins.

"This route plays a major role in connecting over 250,000 people. Our safety, our economy and our future depend on it. Ratification by the full House and Senate is expected shortly," he added.

Judges Decide 2-1 For Lottery Injunction

A temporary injunction against the start up of the Kentucky Lottery's new football betting game was issued last night (Tuesday) by the Kentucky Court of Appeals.

A three-judge appellate panel meeting in Prestonsburg rendered the 2-1 ruling. However, the injunction doesn't mean the game can't begin, according to Kentucky Lottery Corp. attorney James Milliman.

Milliman said the game could begin under a bond to cover damages, but added that issue won't be decided until the ruling can be studied further.

The three judges, who had not issued a written order as of early Tuesday evening, sent word to reporters that the injunction had been granted. Judges Charles B. Lester of Fort Thomas, John P. Hayes of Louisville and Michael McDonald of Louisville heard the case, filed by the state's horse racing industry.

The temporary injunction can halt the opening of KLC's SuperSports, which involves betting on National Football League games. On Monday, a Louisville judge refused to issue a temporary or permanent injunction against the game. Jefferson Circuit Judge Earl O'Bannon noted that the lottery game "is of the type run by bookmakers." He said he did not believe statutes creating the lottery were intended to make legal a betting activity that is otherwise illegal.

SuperSports was to have begun today (Wednesday, Oct. 18). The game calls for players to guess winners in professional football games based on a determined point spread. Players choose winners in at least four games to be played in any week and can wager between $1 and $100 per game area.

Sleep Inn To Be Built

Prestonsburg's newest announced business interest is designed to meet the requirements of the modern traveler, and will be the first of its kind in Kentucky.

Construction of an 80-room Sleep Inn motel (a subsidiary of Quality Inns) was announced Tuesday; construction is expected to begin next spring.

The new facility will be located next to the Holiday Inn on US 23, and may employ as many as 40 people.

The joint announcement was made Tuesday by Mayor Ann Latta and two of the inn's developers and owners, H.D. "Buddy" Fitzpatrick Jr. and Dr. James D. (Doug) Adams.

Latta said Prestonsburg and the area will benefit in terms of both tourism and jobs, adding that the Sleep Inn, when combined with the planned convention center at Jenny Wiley State Park, will make Prestonsburg a more desirable convention location. Latta said tourism has increased 64 percent in the area since 1985, with visitors spending an estimated $17.5 million locally last year.

A Floating Bus

Rush Meade, a McDowell school bus driver, waits for lower water after his bus was lifted and moved into a ditch during Tuesday's flooding. Meade, who was the only person on the bus, said he was trapped when flood waters rose extremely quickly.

Rain Causes Several Accidents

A number of weather-related accidents took place Monday and Tuesday throughout Floyd County, according to state police.

A rock slide Tuesday morning resulted in injuries to Debbie Compton, 34, of Hueysville, said Trooper Stacy Trees. Compton was traveling on Rt. 1428 near the entrance to Allen Park when she saw rocks coming down off the cliff and swerved. Compton missed most of the slide, but a number of rocks hit the older model truck she was driving, which was totaled, said Trees. Compton was taken to Our Lady of the Way Hospital for treatment of injuries.

In a separate accident, Nathan Salyers, 23, of Salyersville, was not seriously injured when he lost control of his vehicle and struck a concrete bridge wall and guardrail four miles south of Prestonsburg. The accident was caused by wet road conditions, said Trees.

A one-car accident at David Monday eventually contributed to a five-car pileup, the state trooper reported. Stephanie Reynolds, 18, of David, was traveling Rt. 404 when she rounded a curve, the car hydroplaned and she lost control of the vehicle. The auto went into the eastbound lane and down an embankment, striking a telephone pole on the way. The car landed in a field. Reynolds was not injured. However, a passing motorist saw Reynolds and the car in the field and stopped to offer assistance.

Irvin Slone, 64, of Blue River, had exited his car when another vehicle, driven by Ruby Stone, 44, of Manton, rounded a curve and struck Slone's car in the rear. A third car, driven by Brenda P. Howard, 40, of Salyersville, rounded the curve and struck Stone's car.

Moments later, a fourth car driven by Jonathan C. Hale, 22, of Blue River, rounded the curve going westbound. Hale, who saw Slone's car, applied his brakes and hydroplaned, crossed over into the eastbound lane and also struck Slone's car. James R. Spradlin, 25, of Blue River was likewise westbound in a pickup truck and saw Hale's car strike Slone's. He applied his brakes, slid sideways and also struck the car.

According to Trees, Stone and Howard were injured. Howard received facial injuries, while Stone received abdominal injuries. Both were taken to hospitals, where they were treated and released.

According to Trooper Bob Heupel, Robin Sparkman, 32, of Wheelwright, was seriously injured Tuesday morning when the Buick Regal she was driving was involved in a head-on collision with a Chevy Blazer driven by Ron Gullett, 53, of Bypro. The accident took place on KY. 122 at Price. Gullett was traveling west on Ky. 122 and Sparkman east when Gullett lost control of his vehicle due to water in the roadway, slid across the road and struck Sparkman's car.

Gullett received chest injuries and Sparkman multiple injuries; both were taken to McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital.

Monday at 2:20 p.m., Heupel investigated an accident involving Kathy R. Kincheloe, 34, of Paintsville. Kincheloe was driving a Chevy Van north on KY 1428 at Abbott Mountain when she came upon a separate one-vehicle accident. She hit her brakes to avoid striking the other car. Her auto slid on the wet road, went into a culvert and came to rest on its side.

The driver of the other vehicle, Deborah Hall, 37, was driving south on Ky. 1428 when she lost control of her car, which hit the hillside and flipped on its top.

Trooper Lynn Cross investigated an accident Monday morning in which an 18-wheeler driver by Matthew Arnett, 23, of Carver, went over a 30-foot embankment after meeting another coal truck in a curve. The incident took place just above Branham's Creek on Mud Creek. Arnett, who was seriously injured, was taken to Pikeville Methodist Hospital for treatment.

In a separate accident Tuesday, Rosemary Hopkins, 42, of Wayland, was injured when her car hydroplaned and ran off the road on Rt. 7 between Garrett and Wayland. Hopkins was taken to Our Lady of the Way Hospital in Martin for treatment.

Young people at Dry Creek waded through the water in the yard of Hobert and Margaret Bakes to see if their help was needed, and to take food to houses lying on the far side of the newly-formed river.

Rope and Ride

School children stranded Tuesday morning by flood waters in McDowell were walked out by emergency workers using a rope support line and shuttled out by four wheel drive vehicles. Many parents waded through high water to take their children out of the school before rescue workers arrived.

Swim, Row or Wade

You don't have to be a Baptist to live in Baptist Bottom, but Tuesday being an aquatic bird would have been helpful. Residents of that area who did not leave before about 10 a.m. found themselves wondering just how they would depart if needed — except those residents owning boats.

Rain Stopped, But Danger Remained For Area Residents

By Tess A. Whitmer, Staff Writer

By 10 a.m. Tuesday the heavy rains of Monday night had nearly ceased, but the waterways in Floyd County continued to rise, causing residents to vacate their homes and stand by helplessly watching their possessions become covered with water.

Although no reports have been received of any injuries due to flooding, the Floyd County Rescue Squad has evacuated several people from their homes. According to Captain Ondalow Hunt, 12 people from Estill and one from Wayland were helped out of their homes and across creeks to dryer land. One woman had to be assisted across the water after her car stalled and left her in the middle of the stream.

Earlier Tuesday, a number of county residents began leaving their homes as water continued to rise.

Many residents of Glo who live at the edge of the Right Beaver Creek had already vacated their homes. Those who didn't make it across the rising water were stranded at 10:45 a.m. Tuesday as the level of the creek rose above the plank bridge. Several houses were flooded; many residents faulted an old railroad bridge downstream for the early rise of the water. The bridge, used by a company to haul coal from a nearby mine, acts as a dam when it rains, trapping debris and blocking the river's flow, according to Bill and Phyllis Honchell, high-water victims.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgel Moore, whose house at Glo was flooded, said they had lived there for 19 years and "every time it rains heavy, this bridge backs the water up through the whole community of Wayland."

In Maytown early Tuesday, a few houses were surrounded by water and heavy run off was present in the streets. According to firefighter Keith Hays, the water was rising at eight inches per hour at 5 p.m. This, he said, was a slower rate than that recorded earlier in the day.

In Garrett at mid-morning Tuesday, flooding was moderate and many people were walking around the town. Further down the road at Baptist Bottom, Right Beaver Creek was rising fast but access was still possible into that community. One resident said he was phoning nursing homes to see if any would take his bed-ridden wife so she would not be stranded there should the rising creek continue. By 1 p.m., those who did not vacate Baptist Bottom had to use a boat to leave the area and the streets of Garrett had begun to submerge in water.

The CSX Railroad bridge which was being repaired further upstream was practically covered by water. Several of the ties being used in the repair were afloat, but the neighboring houses were still not completely surrounded by water as of 10:30 a.m. That changed by noon.

The folks in Martin Branch saw their street turned into a river early yesterday morning as water rushed down to Right Beaver Creek.

At 11 a.m. the main street in Wayland was still fordable, but that changed quickly as water from Dry Creek rushed towards the town. Residents expected high water to reach them around 1 p.m. — and it did, causing the level to rise some four feet in the town itself.

Thomas and Georgia Amburgey, who own the house at the junction of Caney Creek and Right Beaver Creek, were stranded in their home as the water surrounded it. Their niece sat nearby in a pickup truck, keeping an eye on them should they need her assistance.

Residents of the Dry Creek area were concerned for their homes and furniture as that small creek was transformed into a torrent of fast-moving water. About noon, the water stood at two feet and continued to rise quickly. This water moved toward Wayland and the main street there was impassable by afternoon as locals busied themselves moving household items out of their residences.

Thoughts From The Road

By Frank Clark

I do my best — and often only — thinking as I'm driving down the highway, with my mind relaxed and open. While plowing through floods on Ky. 122 yesterday between McDowell and Martin, the idea for this column formed.)

trailing crossed the water covered ground and hoisted a boy on to his back. They headed off, holding the children high and dry until they reached safe, dry ground.

Much of the day was like that: ordinary people doing what they could to help other ordinary people. Teenagers leading younger kids across fast-moving water. Children helping teachers get class supplies above high water before being ruined. People stopping their pickups in bumper-deep water to give me a lift through bad sections of the flood. It wasn't spectacular, but it was consistent. It brought hope to a day that wasn't happy or hopeful.

I've always believed, since I was a youngster reading books on Martin Luther King Jr. and John F. Kennedy, that making a difference in this world required that a person take on the great problems of the day; national civil rights problems or maybe international policy issues. I thought that, if the issues weren't dramatic or well publicized, they weren't really worthy of effort.

My ideas on this have changed over the past few years, as I've seen people in Floyd County, on a very ordinary level, act heroically and make a difference through their daily lives. It can be seen in the teachers who really care about "their" kids. It can be seen in the townspeople who work to make their communities a good place to live. It can be seen in the people that may not have a lot when compared to their neighbors, but make do, and do the best they can.

And you can see it in the father, the teenagers, the children, and the ordinary people of McDowell, who pulled together and will continue to pull together to get their schools back in operation and their children learning again.

Wading through thigh-deep water, following a father who had already rescued his three children from the flooded McDowell School, I was struck, as I often am at unusual times, by the inherent decency of so many people. This guy had trudged through a mess of slick mud and strong running water to get his kids out, and now he was going back in to help others who were stranded. Another man, surrounded by three young boys, stood on an island of grass ahead of us, stymied with the problem of transporting them all across to safety. Without thinking, the father I was

"MY LAWYER SAYS THAT YOU HAVE TO DELIVER MY BABY HEALTHY... OR WE WILL SUE YOU!"

"YOU HAD BETTER BE EXTRA CAREFUL BUDDY, BECAUSE MY LAWYER CAN DO JUST ABOUT ANYTHING!"

"MY LAWYER SAYS THAT YOU HAD BETTER NOT MAKE ANY MISTAKES OR CHARGE TOO MUCH OR WE'LL SUE!!!"

"GOOD!... HAVE YOUR LAWYER DELIVER YOUR BABY!"

Report To Kentucky

Sen. Wendell Ford

A BIPARTISAN AGREEMENT ADVANCES OUR WAR ON DRUGS

I am pleased to report that our war on drugs will be greatly strengthened by an agreement that has been reached between the Congress and the White House and recently passed by the Senate.

This agreement — a compromise between the plan recently presented by the President and the Democratic alternative — will allow us at last to make a real beginning in the fight against the drug abuse threatening the future of so many of our young people.

I believe that the President's original proposal has been significantly improved in the give-and-take with Congress. And I am looking forward to final Congressional approval of this plan, complete with the necessary funding, before the end of October.

The war on drugs has become our highest national priority — a priority rising above partisan politics. This fact has been illustrated by the speed with which Senate Democrats, Republicans and the White House have come together on our new plan.

This plan will bring next year's total anti-drug funding to $9.4 billion — $3 billion more than previously anticipated and $1.1 billion more than the President proposed in his recent national address. We have finally agreed on a fair-minded way to achieve full funding of this vital effort, with the money coming from relatively small cuts in expenditures for a number of other domestic and defense programs.

Under this plan, we will be paying increased attention to the need to attack the demand as well as the supply side of our national drug-abuse problem. The President would have devoted only 27 percent of our anti-drug resources to the effort to reduce demand. The new plan allocates 47 percent for this purpose.

As part of our drive to reduce the demand for drugs, our new plan authorizes $1.14 billion for drug-treatment programs. I believe that the President's earlier proposal was remiss in failing to make any increase in these highly important programs.

I am especially pleased by the new plan's recognition of the crucial role played by state and local law enforcement officers in fighting the drug problem where it is actually found — on the streets of major cities and countless other communities across this nation.

The president would have cut one crucial part of this state and local effort — our juvenile justice program — by $40 million in order to pay for other parts of the war on drugs. Our new plan very wisely includes $12.5 million in increased funding for this program. And it adds $100 million to local law-enforcement grants.

We agreed on a much needed national policy in last year's drug bill. Our challenge then was to fund this policy in a way that puts more resources into the hands of local authorities on the front lines of a battle that must be won. We have taken a major step in the right direction. Our challenge now is to keep going.

Letters to the Editor

Opposes Grain Treaty With GATT

Dear Editor,

I would like to draw peoples' attention to a very important but little discussed issue. With President Bush's approval, the multi-billion dollar grain corporations are proposing a treaty to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) that, if accepted by the other countries, would end all farm programs and open our borders to unlimited imports. Farmers in Floyd County depend upon tobacco, dairy, beef, grain and other products. If we were flooded with cheap imports, and if we had no programs to support our farmers, we might as well board up the small towns and leave. Consumers would also suffer from unlimited imports because much imported food is treated with pesticides outlawed in this country.

The Community Farm Alliance was recently joined by the Kentucky Farm Bureau in sponsoring a resolution before the Interim Subcommittee on Agriculture of the Kentucky General Assembly. The chairperson of the committee, Rep. Clay Crupper, said that, "We've got to keep these imports from ruining our dairy program."

Not just dairy imports are at stake. There is just no way cattle farmers can compete with Latin American corporations tearing up the Amazon rain forest for a few years of cattle production. The tobacco program is the mainstay of Kentucky's rural economy. Protectionism is not the answer, but neither is indiscriminate dismantling of programs that have been developed over the past 50 years. People need to find out how GATT will effect Floyd County. The Community Farm Alliance wants to let all our politicians know how we feel.

Sincerely,
Tom and Dorothy Robertson

Music Can Often Divide Families

Dear Editor,

For centuries music unified families, but today music too often divides families.

How can we deal with this problem in the family?

First parents and children need to discuss music, and then rotate the types of music played in the home and during family travel, to play some music to everyone's taste.

Music was designed to express our emotions. Times change, but music endures. Tune up musical tastes, and unify the family!

Sincerely,
Joe Damron Jr.

Does US Still Trust In God?

Dear Editor,

When God looks at this United States of America, He must cry! This was a country He had set up with the pilgrims whom He had brought here. It was a good country. They made an agreement with God (a covenant). The pilgrims taught the Indians and the Indians taught the pilgrims.

God placed good, God-fearing men to lead this country of ours. They prayed before every decision they made before all branches of government and congress convened. This government of the United States of America was rooted firmly in the Bible and in God. Now, you can't even find God in our textbooks. Do we really believe "In God We Trust?"

Then came evolution... the Big Bang that said we all descended from apes! No God? It just happened? That's not the way my Bible reads!

Then came the breaking down of the families. Satan worked hard at this. Divorce after divorce took place. Mothers were taken out of the home and the kids were left to themselves.

Then prayer was removed from the schools! What next?! No prayer, no discipline! Now rebellion, drugs, alcohol and sex! Isn't that great?!

Then came a law from the Supreme Court of the United States of America legalizing the killing of unborn babies... right here in the good old United States of America! More unborn babies were killed since 1973 than men died in our last three wars! Could God be crying? Yes!

How can this happen here in the United States of America where it is said "In God We Trust?!" You'd think this was enough to make God cry, but no! There is still more!

Young kids are taken from their homes, and are being raped, molested and photographed, and the pictures sold to dirty old men, so they can have perverted sex with helpless, innocent children.

Why, God, Why?!

Now, AIDS is running rampant! Now, there are satanic sacrifices, rapes, murders, bondage and subliminal suggestions in some rock music. The devil is eating away at our kids' minds and destroying them. Look at the suicides in the young people today. Satan is stealing our young people!

Doesn't God cry when He sees this happening in the good old United States of America? It makes me cry to see God's people (who have been called by His name), fall and destroy themselves by the lust of the flesh, that take advantage of people that God created for His pleasure, not ours.

O people! Let's get down on our knees and ask God to have mercy on us here in our United States of America.

Help us, Dear Lord, in the name of Your Son Jesus Christ, to ask forgiveness for our sins against you and this country of ours!

Forgive, Lord, forgive us, I pray.
Jerry B. Herrmann

TOBACCO EXPORTS PUT MONEY IN GROWERS' POCKETS

The good news for Kentucky tobacco growers has been the surge in exports of tobacco and tobacco products. This dramatic increase will lead to an escalation in the tobacco quota this year which means that Kentucky tobacco farmers will be putting an additional $120-$140 million in their pockets this winter.

I believe that for the foreseeable future stronger exports will provide stability to our tobacco markets. A recent study shows that US tobacco producers sold more than 108 million pounds of tobacco leaf than would have been sold had the US government not forced countries like Japan, Korea, and Taiwan to knock down their unfair trade barriers. This accounts for an additional $175 million on the auction floor.

Although we were successful in opening these Asian markets more challenges remain. Thailand is a country that is closing the door on tobacco producers' ability to sell in that country. The United States Trade Representative (USTR) is currently pursuing an action that will force Thailand to remove the barriers that block entry of our tobacco. If these barriers were removed, burley sales alone would reach $20 million.

On Sept. 19, I testified before the USTR trade committee on behalf of our tobacco farmers to encourage this committee to do everything it can — as fast as it can — to increase exports of tobacco and tobacco products to foreign countries. It is obvious that there is a demand for our high quality tobacco overseas. Over the past five years I have used my position on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to help force these markets open.

Also in attendance at the meeting were people who testified that the US should not be exporting tobacco because of a perceived health threat. This is ridiculous. I believe a foreign citizen has every right to purchase an American cigarette that uses US tobacco in its blend. If the United States never exported another leaf of tobacco or pack of cigarettes it would not stop the consumption of tobacco in one single country.

PCC Bomb Scares Reported

Two bomb threats in as many school days have disrupted morning classes at Prestonsburg Community College. According to Major Mike Wells of the Prestonsburg Fire Department, bomb threats were called in both Friday and Monday to PCC offices at about 8:30 a.m. by a woman presumed to be in her 20s.

Unknown Assailant Fires On School Bus

Royce Mayo, assistant coach of the Belfry High School football team, thought it was roughhousing players celebrating a win when he heard breaking glass on an early Saturday morning bus ride back from Lexington. He wasn't prepared to find the team's school bus under fire at 2:30 a.m. near the intersection of Kentucky 80 and U.S. 23 in Floyd County.

As the bus was turning back onto Rt. 80 from Bull Creek, the drivers saw the pickup coming east. The truck slowed down, pulled up on the median and stopped. The truck apparently then followed the bus and, near the intersection of the two four-lane roads, an occupant opened fire with what riders believe was a high powered air gun.

Fire Reported

A brick home in Bypro owned by father and son Terry and Roy Branham burned to the ground at 12:20 a.m. Tuesday, according to Shelby Johnson, wife of Southeast Fire Chief Bobby Johnson. Apparently the Lifeline Ambulance Service, located two buildings away from the fire, called in the report.

Highlands To Conduct Cardiac Catheterization Seminar Oct. 26

Physicians in a 12-county area of Eastern Kentucky have been invited to attend a seminar on diagnostic indications for cardiac catheterization. The seminar will help physicians better identify evidence in a patient's condition that might suggest the use of cardiac cath to help in the diagnosis, according to Kathy Rubado, hospital spokeswoman.

"After we saw the windows, the driver started to pull over," said Mayo. "The pickup slowed down, did a U-turn, and took off." Head Coach Phillip Haywood, who was riding in the lead bus that continued to Pike County, believes that the shooting had nothing to do with athletics or the Belfry football team.

television and shower, but no restaurant, lounge or other options which "boost prices," said developers. Sleep Inns are intended to attract travelers and business persons at a lower cost per room, they said.

The local franchise was signed last Wednesday by officials of the chain and owners of FADA Service Center in Prestonsburg. Adams said the site adjacent to the Holiday Inn was chosen primarily because of earlier work that allows access to the community's water and sewage system.

Fitzpatrick and Adams said excavation will be extensive before construction will begin to guarantee that any potential water drainage problems from the fill area are eliminated. "We expect (construction) to run in the neighborhood of $2.5 million," said Fitzpatrick. He added that the facility should be complete within six months after groundbreaking.

In addition to Fitzpatrick and Adams, other partners in FADA are Jack Absher Sr. and Tom G. Dingus, both of Prestonsburg.

Stranded

vehicle until it could be moved. "I just got over a bad flu and don't want to get wet. Anyhow, a captain always stays with his ship," he added.

Initial attempts to move the bus with a backhoe only sank the vehicle into deeper waters, according to Meade.

Many parents decided to take matters into their own hands, wading to the school through often waist-deep waters to bring their children out. Children rode out on the backs of adults or walked carefully through the swirling waters, clinging to parents. According to Onda Hunt, captain of the Floyd County Rescue Squad, this action by parents and others increased the danger of the situation.

"Our main concern was with individuals coming out into the water and falling and hurting themselves or maybe drowning. It's more dangerous to bring children out into the water than to wait until it goes down and bring them out by bus. But the parents wanted them out, so they came and got them."

As water lowered towards mid-morning, pickups and four wheel drive vehicles drove through from Ky. 122 to reach the school.

Disaster Emergency Service personnel and members of the Floyd County Rescue Squad directed a rope crossing of the swiftly running waters in front of the school, allowing children to be brought across by parents, teachers, and high school students. The students who remained were removed by school bus before noon.

Fear for their children's safety and frustration over how the situation was handled was clearly evident among parents during and after the initial flooding. Alberta Brown of McDowell had three children marooned at the school.

"I came out in my nightgown and rollers to get my kids 'cause I was scared for them. I waded through that water and waded back out with them about 8:30. I carried my 10-year-old."

Sharon Patton also had a youngster in the school.

"I brought my little girl in this morning and when I tried to pick her up after I heard of the flooding, I couldn't get her or my little niece."

Patton was angry at the handling of the evacuation.

"When you see water up to the top of the creek and it's still raining, someone should know the water's going over. No one should have been brought to school. I know, because I used to drive a school bus."

Clinton Williams of Drift, who was helping to carry smaller children through the flooded area, was equally upset.

"I've got two kids in high school. I went in and waded out, with them hanging on to me against the current. I want to know why everyone was sitting around doing nothing, waiting until the water got too high to get the kids out. It's the school board's fault that it happened this way."

As waters subsided in the school, teachers and administrators began wading through flooded classrooms, evaluating damages.

"A lot of my supplies and things my class has made have been ruined," said Iruth Hamilton, second grade teacher at McDowell Elementary.

"The kids were wonderful when the water began seeping in, helping to put materials up away from the flood. They helped keep the damage from being too bad."

Bob Hall, principal of McDowell High, knows that putting the school back in operating order will require a great deal of effort.

"We've had serious damage, with two and a half feet of water running through some of the classrooms. The whole elementary school was flooded and it also got into the high school. We'll have to clean up with hoses. There's a lot of mud."

When asked how soon the school would recover from the disaster, Hall stated, "With volunteer help, teachers, and other people in the community, we'll get it done. We're in a sinkhole here at the school and always have flooding trouble. With some help, we'll get it cleaned up."

Clarification

Due to incorrect information submitted to the Times, some information in the obituary of Tora Slone published Oct. 13 was incorrect.

Zettie Marie Hall, Nettie Marie Slone and Alberta Brown were listed as daughters.

They are granddaughters who were raised by Slone. In addition to these three, she has 13 other grandchildren and 10 grandchildren. Also, she was born Feb. 10, 1914.

For My Mother

When I must leave you for a little while
Please do not grieve and shed wild tears
And hug your sorrow to you through the years,
But start out bravely with a gallant smile
And for my sake, and in my name
Live on and do, all things the same
Fear not your loneliness, on empty days,
But fill each waking hour, in useful ways
Reach out your hand in comfort and in cheer
And I in turn will comfort you and hold you near,
And never, never be, afraid to die
For I am waiting for you in the sky.

Your loving daughter, Helen

Warming Up For The Race

These terrapins seem a might over-anxious to get on with the race as they climb about trying to escape their confinement. Turtles were purchased by local businesses and individuals at a cost of $25 prior to the race, sponsored by Our Lady of the Mountain School in Paintsville.

See Anything You Like?

For the arts and crafts collector, the choices were many at the Jenny Wiley Festival. Over 20 local artists displayed their wares for the browser or the buyer of Appalachian art.

No Hares To Contend With Today

The proud, if temporary, owners of these turtles display their winning toddlers and the trophies they received for their placement in the Terrapin Trot held Saturday at the Jenny Wiley Festival. Taking first place was Doc's Delight with a winning time of 37 seconds (a new record); pictured center is Roger G. Jurich with the little guy. On the left are Jack, John and Robert Absher, who represent Sam and Tonio's restaurant with their second place winner Hot Tamale. Representatives of the first grade class of Prestonsburg Elementary display third place winner Speedy. Another heated competition taking place Saturday was the rubber duck race on the Big Sandy River. The business winner, Baptist Day Care, was presented a plaque and will award a $500 savings bond to an eighth grade student; Helen Neeley was the adult winner, receiving $50 cash; Shawn Hatfield took the student prize of a $50 savings bond.

Chowing Down

Among the many succulent treats available at the Jenny Wiley Festival was a variety of barbecued specialties cooked with tender loving care by the Prestonsburg Fire Department. No danger of a fire at this stand.

RE-ELECT JACKIE EDFORD OWENS MAGISTRATE-DIST. 2

THE ONLY DEMOCRAT ON THE DEMOCRAT TICKET FOR MAGISTRATE

In the last 4 years Dist. 2 has come a long way, but we still have a lot more to do. When I'm re-elected your magistrate on November 7, I will continue to fight for District 2 and ALL of Floyd County. I know there's a lot of things we haven't gotten done yet, but we have had 3 floods this year and 2 hard wash outs. People, we are still working on things caused by these floods right now. It is a major job just trying to keep the school bus roads fixed so our kids can travel them.

P.S.—I HAVE NEVER made a difference when we're fixing roads or building bridges due to your politics—"DEMOCRAT" or "REPUBLICAN". I HAVE SERVED YOU ALL. I am the "DEMOCRAT" candidate for Magistrate. I do not have a "REPUBLICAN" candidate against me. I would like to ask ALL "DEMOCRATS" as well as ALL "REPUBLICANS" to come out on Nov. 7 and VOTE FOR ME and let the "INDEPENDENTS" vote for the "INDEPENDENT" candidate.

WHS Falls To Rams For Ninth Loss, 46-14

by Ed Taylor,
Sports Editor

It was parent night at Bracket Field in Wheelwright as Coach Roger Johnson's Trojans hosted perhaps the winningest high school football team in the past decade — the Raceland Rams.

In their final home game of the '89 season, Wheelwright took time out to recognize the parents of the seniors on the football team as they paraded onto the field to the music of Wheelwright's band.

On the field the music wasn't as sweet, as the Rams ran their way to a 46-14 victory over the Trojans. Raceland was led by major college prospect Buck McCloud, who scored three touchdowns and carried the ball 14 times for 145 yards while the Trojan defense was unable to stop the speedster.

Wheelwright played the Rams tough in the first quarter, causing Raceland to fumble the ball twice in the first stanza. On a pitch out from quarterback Jesse Justice to McCloud, the pitch was wide and McCloud couldn't get it. Robbie Wright recovered the fumble for the Trojans on their own 20 yard line. Wheelwright's Steven Jackson took the ball for 25 yards to the 45, but the Trojan offense stalled and was forced to punt.

Raceland took over on their own 25. A 7 yard run by McCloud moved the ball to the Rams 32. However, a 10 yard penalty put the ball back on Raceland's 22. On second and long yardage, Justice scampered and was caught at the Raceland 3, where he fumbled the ball and Wheelwright recovered with 6:44 remaining in the first period.

A poor snap from center to quarterback Steven Johnson was fumbled on the 3 yard line and recovered by Raceland. The Trojans missed a golden opportunity to score.

"The snap was bad from center," Coach Johnson explained. "The timing was off and with Marty out it was just a bad snap. Timing is very important in something like that."

"If we could have pushed across the score, it might have gotten their heads down and been a different story," the Trojan mentor went on to explain.

Raceland took the ball on their 3 and march 97 yards for a touchdown on 14 plays, picking up six first downs enroute to a 6-0 lead.

Wheelwright had good field position after an ensuing off side kick was accidentally touched by a Rams player on the Raceland 48 before it went out of bounds. The snafu gave the Trojans excellent field position. On a third and seven situation, Johnson's pass was picked off by safety Ken Salyers and returned for 45 yards before Wright brought him down.

"We have been a running team all season," coach Johnson stated, "and we thought we could get away with passing on first down. Unfortunately, it didn't work that way."

McCloud's 22 yard run with 9:39 to go in the second quarter made it 12-0.

Wheelwright had its third chance to score in the second when the Trojans moved the football to the Rams 18 by route of the ground game. Johnson tried to hit Bobby Hood with a pass in the end zone which was again intercepted by Salyers to thwart a Trojan drive. The half ended with the Rams up 20-0.

Wheelwright, trailing 40-0 late in the fourth, scored its first touchdown when freshman Ryan Johnson broke tackle on the Trojan 23 and romped 77 yards to pay dirt. Chad Hall ran the conversion to make the score 40-8.

Wheelwright recovered the off side kick, and on second down senior running back Bobby Hood took the ball 60 yards for a touchdown to bring the Trojans to 40-14.

The Rams scored again on 18-yard touchdown run by Jason Oney to give the final margin of 46-14.

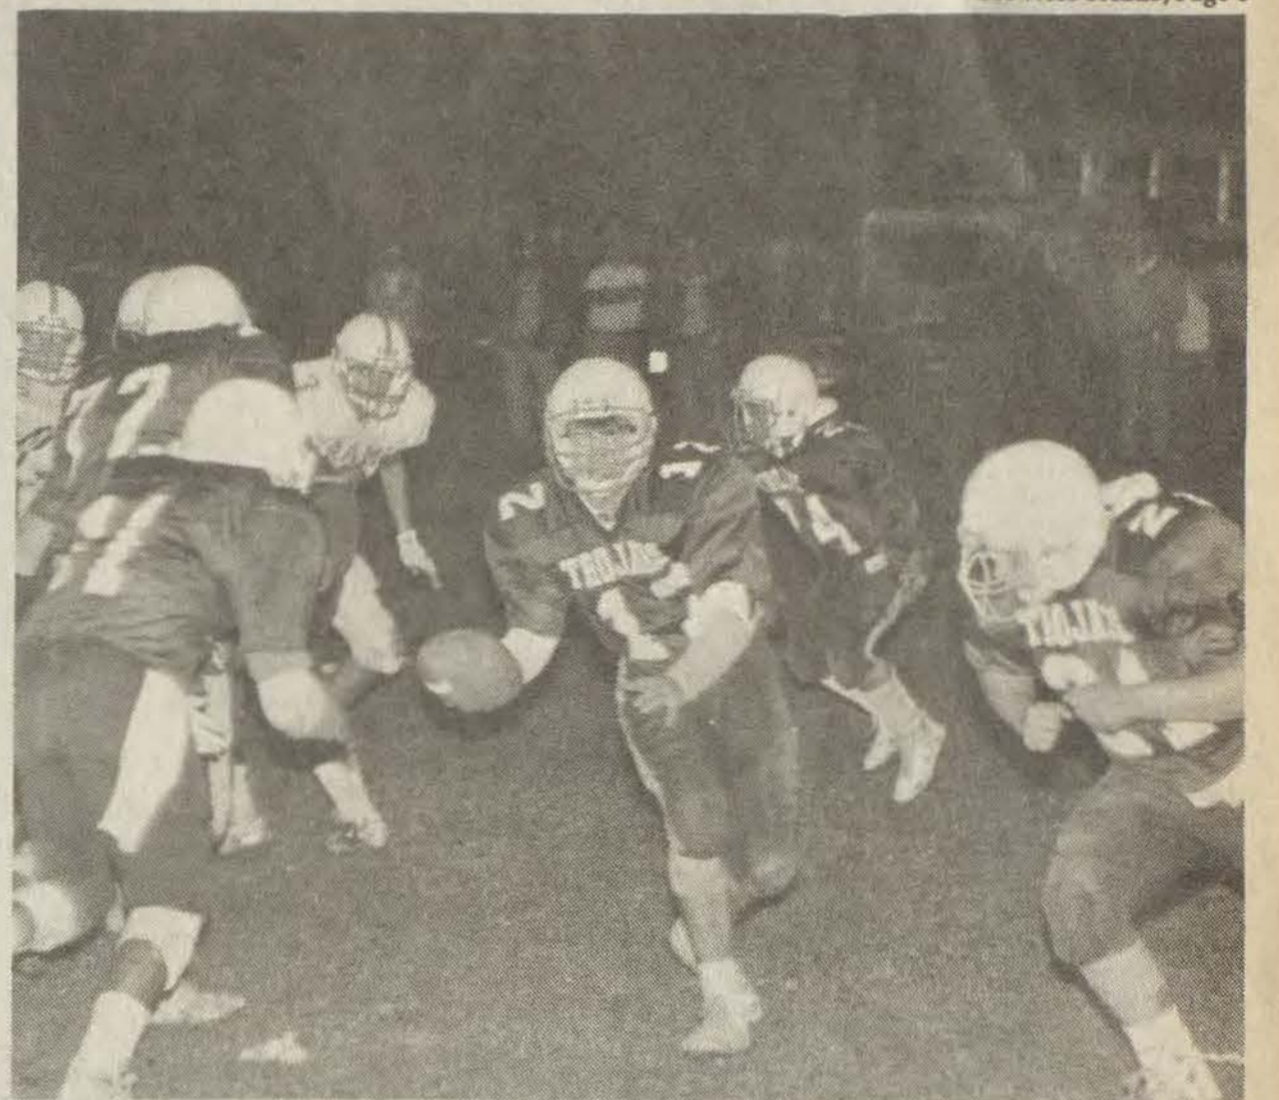

"Our kids didn't quit," said

Bobcats Fall To Morgan County

by Ed Taylor,
Sports Editor

With the high school football season winding down to the final two games, the Betsy Layne Bobcats had a rough time of it at Morgan County Thursday night, dropping a 34-6 District 2 game which they were favored to win.

The loss dropped the Bobcats to 3-5 overall and 1-3 in District 2 play. Morgan County improved to 3-5 and will be pushing Prestonsburg and Leslie County for the top spot with a 3-1 District 2 record.

"Our defense was down in the game," Coach Gerald Newsome said. "We were trying to wrap our arms around them and not tackling them low. Morgan County got the big plays and that did us in."

In the opening minutes of the game, the Bobcats put together a good drive of 65 yards, only to have half-back Larry Hall fumble the ball in the end zone.

Morgan County took the ball on their 20 yard line and on second down scored on an 80-yard run to take an early 6-0 lead.

"Our defense just let them get some sweeps down the sidelines on us and couldn't stop them," the Betsy Layne mentor stated.

Morgan County used the air attack to subdue the 'Cats. "Our scouting report showed that they would pass against us," Newsome remarked. "We had good line blocks but on the pass play we didn't cover well."

"Morris Adkins played a good game for us. Larry Hall played with a bruised hip."

"I told the players we are going to get back to basics in practice this week," continued Newsome. "We did a lot of things right in the game but the big play hurt us. Morgan County's receivers got behind our safeties and they had several receptions. Another thing Morgan County did was they capitalized on our mistakes."

"When we fumbled the football in the first period that sort of got our heads down whereas if we had scored it might have been different."

Newsome was quick to express his dissatisfaction over the officiating and dressing room facilities furnished to the team.

"The officiating was pitiful." Newsome remarked. "Craig Hunter (Bobcat quarterback) intercepted a pass and was tackled. He flipped the ball to the official, who called unsportsmanlike conduct and set us back 15 yards and that broke our momentum."

"We just weren't looking for the pass and we were weak on our tackles. Inexperience at safety didn't help. I don't think that Morgan County was as tough as Leslie County."

The Bobcats defeated Leslie County 24-14 two weeks ago. Morgan County could never really mount any kind of inside game against the Bobcats and passed the ball instead. Betsy Layne had several good drives on the host team but was unable to turn them into points.

Newsome's chargers will travel to M.C. Napier Friday evening, where Newsome says that his team will play the spoiler's role. Game time is 8 p.m.

The Bobcats actually controlled the football 10 minutes longer in the game than Morgan County.

Betsy Layne, trailing 34-0, scored in the first quarter on an 8-yard run by Chris Bias. The conversion attempt failed and the Bobcats fell by a final score of 34-6.

Around Right End

Senior Bobby Hood of the Wheelwright Trojans carries the ball for yardage against Raceland at Bracket Field Thursday night. Hood carried the ball for 141 yards rushing in his team's 46-14 loss to the Rams.

WHS Cheerleaders

Three senior cheerleaders were recognized at parent's night at Bracket Field in the last home game of the football season for the Wheelwright Trojans. Members of the cheerleading squad are, front row from left, seniors Kisha Cotton, Janice Wright and Haley Caudill; back row, from left, Jill Little, Angie Hutton, Devondra Watts, Jessica Holbrook, Samantha Osborne, Faye Owens, Gina Johnson Johnson and Kelly McKay.

Fairview Downs Rebels In 41-14 Offensive Attack

by Ed Taylor,
Sports Editor

Coach Donnie Daniels' Allen Central Rebels, playing their final road game of the football season at Fairview Thursday night, played the Eagles tough in the first half but fell hard in the second half, losing to Fairview 41-14.

The Rebels trailed 7-6 at the end of the first period of play. Some missed assignments on defense allowed the Eagles to score two TDs to take a 21-6 half time lead.

"The score should have been 13-6 at the half," said Rebel mentor Donnie Daniels. "We just got complacent on defense."

Allen Central scored a touchdown in the first quarter on a 7-yard pass from quarterback B. J. Aldrich to Bret Meadows. The conversion attempt failed for the Rebels.

"We had a couple good drives in the game," said Daniels, "but we just couldn't do anything for most of the game."

Allen Central made it 41-14 in the fourth period after the Rebels moved the ball to the Eagles 1 yard line. From there, halfback Tommy Gibson took the ball across for a touchdown. Terry Spurlock scored the two point conversion on a pass from Aldrich.

Allen Central fell to 2-7 on the season and will face inter-county rival Wheelwright this Saturday afternoon at the Don Daniels Athletic Complex in a 3:30 p.m. start. It will be homecoming for the Rebels. Both Wheelwright and Allen Central will be looking for their first District 2 win, and the Trojans will be looking for their first win of the season.

Wheelwright plays at Magoffin County in its final game of the season while the Rebels will host Millersburg Military Institute in their final encounter.

Mayor Ann Latta,

Tell us, the citizens of Prestonsburg, why we should re-elect you for another 4-year term. You said to keep Prestonsburg moving in the right direction. I hope you are not talking about yesterday's dream, mayor. I am concerned about the present and our future.

It seems that we have already hit a bottomless pit with all the businesses moving out of our downtown area, closing or being boarded up.

Tell us what direction that we must take to keep Prestonsburg moving in the right direction.

If this is the kind of leadership the citizens want, on Nov. 7, they ought to go out and vote for you. If they want a change, then they have a choice to vote for Paul Joseph for Mayor.

Lady Black Devils Win Over Auxier By Score of 33-13

by Ed Taylor, Sports Editor

She was elected homecoming queen of 1989 by the student body at Garrett Elementary School. She won the title over four other candidates.

She scored 10 points in leading her team to a 33-13 victory over the Auxier Lady Hornets. Her name? Meggan Manns — basketball player and homecoming queen. Manns shed her homecoming gown for the basketball uniform and led her team to victory.

The Lady Black Devils blitzed the Lady Hornets 12-2 in the first quarter and never looked back. With Greta Heintzelman controlling the boards and getting the outlet pass, Garret picked up several fast break baskets against the smaller Lady Hornets. Auxier trailed at half time by 19 points, 22-3.

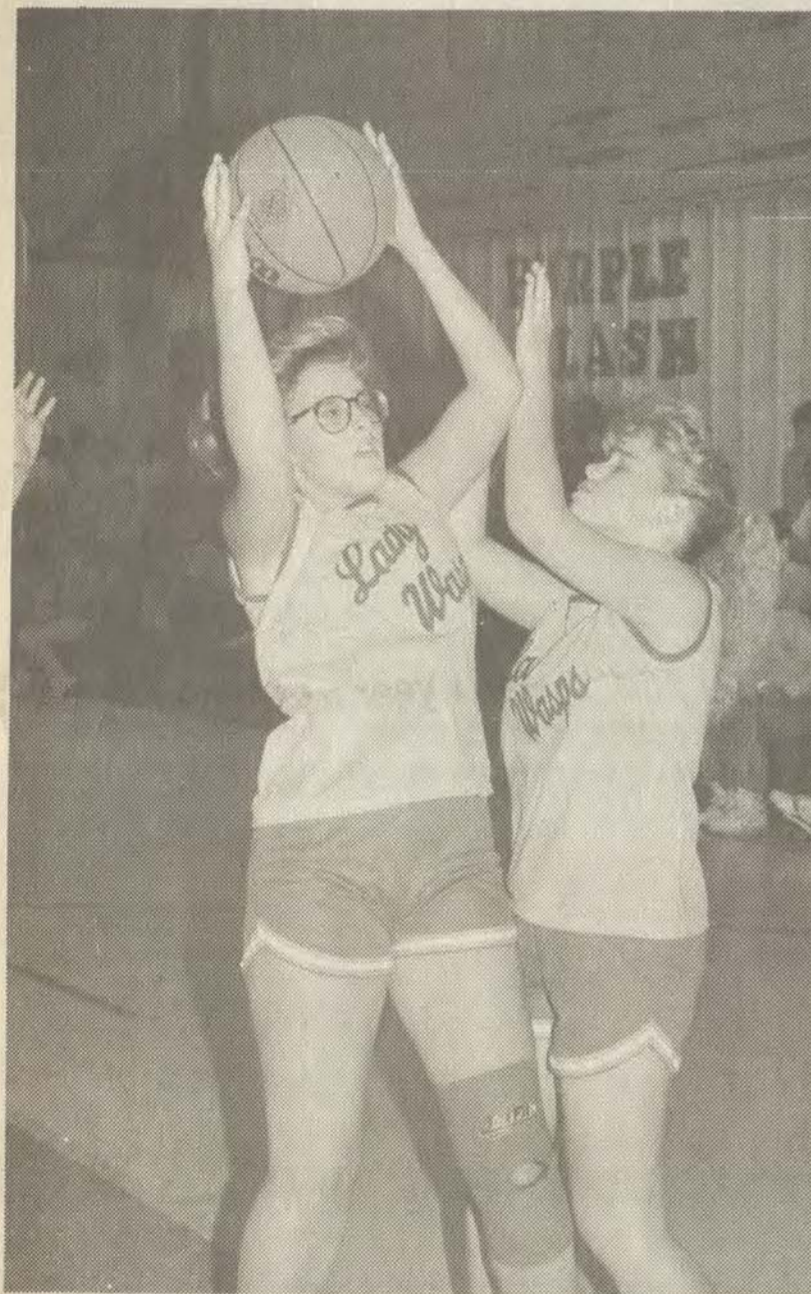

Garrett outscored Auxier 11-0 in the third period. However, a 10-0 fourth period run by the Lady Hornets made the final score 33-13.

Manns led the Black Devils with 10 points. Chrystal Mullins added six points and Heintzelman netted five. LeAnn Francis tossed in four while Nancy Duff and Brook Allen scored two each.

Experts predict there will be 6.1 billion people in the world by the year 2000.

DOES YOUR TAX DOLLARS HAVE ENOUGH CENTS?

Are you satisfied with the return on your tax dollars in community service? Does your tax dollar have a tendency to flow down stream on a one way trip, taking the course of our milk jugs (known down state as "Mountain Ducks"), never to be seen by US and not having enough CENTS to return home? Have you ever noticed that with each mile we travel away from the courthouse, we seem to have a little less in community service?

Do you believe our public roads and bridges are maintained on a timely schedule? Do you believe our parks and recreation facilities are sufficient for our children? Do you have access to an adequate supply of sanitary water in your community? Do you have an adequate fire department with fire hydrants to protect your most prized possessions—your home and loved ones? (Also, your insurance premiums would be reduced substantially.) Do you believe we should make an effort to clean up our streams and highways? Do you want to STOP taking out-of-county and out-of-state garbage?

Do you want to give Floyd County a new image? Do you want to break the "Political Bonds" that have gripped Floyd County for decades? Do you want Policy instead of Politics.

These are only some of the things controlled by the Fiscal Court. I know I cannot cure all of the problems that exist in Floyd County, but I would like the opportunity to be working on them for the next four years. Somewhere we must draw a line on Partisan Politics and work together for a better Floyd County. Don't let your vote be counted before the polls close. On November 7th make your vote county!

The Morgan County and Prestonsburg showdown is looking bigger and bigger. However, the Blackcats have to contend with M.C. Napier before they get to play Morgan County. Pikeville waits for the Blackcats Friday night at Pikeville. Whitesburg's win over a powerful Cumberland team shows the Yellowjackets are a good football team, but with two losses playoff hopes are doubtful. Leslie County has won its last two games and is playing some good football now. Napier is still looking for that first district win.

Roberts Places Second In Pumpkin Festival Run

By Ed Taylor,
Sports Editor

In what was a down year for the Fourth Annual Pumpkin Festival Two Mile Race at Inez Saturday, Rick Roberts finished second with a time of 10:24. The race, which normally draws the attention of runners, had only 20 entrants this time around. Roberts finished first in the 30-34 age group.

Martin Vess from Morehead took first place with a time of 10:05 — one second short of the course record, also set by Vess. Vess was a two-time defending champion in the Pumpkin Fest run.

Paintsville's Gary McKenzie took third place with 12:25 time. McKenzie was tops in his age group of 40-44.

The winner in the women's division was Tiny Muncy of Inez with a time of 21:05. Muncy experienced some sickness while running but was able to finish.

"After I had finished my race, I went back over the course and found Tiny bent over and sick. I helped her to get started back and she was able to finish," Roberts stated.

Roberts, who has been experiencing some stomach problems of his own, held a three second lead over Vess, 5:03 to 5:06, at the half mark. Vess forced the pace and went on to victory.

The Red, White and Blue 5K run will be this weekend and Roberts and Vess both will be participants.

Man And Machine: The Vital Match

But computers are only machines, helpless without trained operators and programmers. These two job functions, operator and programmer, are essential to a useful, smooth-running system. And current and projected demands cut across all job levels, through all sizes of computer installation, and over all geographic areas.

Computer Professionals: Sure Shot For Success

Planning your career in such a fast-changing world? Ask yourself these three important questions:

- What jobs will be in most demand in this decade?
- What will be the better paying jobs?
- What jobs will offer salary advancements that outpace inflation?

•Computer occupations will nearly double to more than 2.1 million jobs by 1990—a growth potential surpassing all other occupational groups.

It is truly amazing to think that just 120 years ago, there were no carp in America.

In 1871, President Ulysses S. Grant appointed the U.S. Fish Commission to study the declining fish populations across the country. The problem was that fish were an inexpensive food source, and commercial anglers shipped their catches in railroad cars. Needless to say, it didn't take long to notice a decline in the availability of our freshwater gamefish. To solve the problem, the U.S. Fish Commission decided to import carp. After all, they were the most popular gamefish in both Europe and Asia. Too, they reproduce rapidly, are extremely hardy, and grow quite large. Twenty years later, carp had spread throughout the eastern half of the United States.

By the early 1900s, Americans were already beginning to develop a dislike of the carp. Much of that, I'm sorry to say, probably stemmed from the prejudices which were so widespread in that day. The carp were a favorite foodstuff of the Asian and European immigrants. Americans of the day, themselves descendants of European immigrants, looked down at these people, and their favorite foods as well. Too, in larger cities, street vendors would obtain surplus carp from the fish markets and sell

Spoon-Jigging Season Is Here

If it's autumn, then it's spoon-jigging time for bass.

That's the opinion of Johnson Outboards Pro Staff member and former Lake Sam Rayburn guide David Wharton. October is among the best months of the year to fish the little metal lures.

"Bass are feeding heavily and moving toward creek and river channels," says Wharton, "and spoons look and act like injured baitfish. They're the perfect lure under these conditions."

To find moving bass, Wharton suggests cruising river and creek channels while studying a depthfinder. Channel bends and long points are prime places to find fish. On bright, calm days, the fish will be easier to find because they tend to suspend, while on windy, overcast days they'll be closer to the bottom.

"Bass are simply following shad this time of year," Wharton explains. The more cover on the bottom, the longer the bass will stay in an area. A primary depth zone to begin looking is from about 15 to 25 feet."

Wharton's spoon choice is a 3/4-ounce model that he prefers to fish vertically right over the side of the boat.

"You can actually watch your spoon on your depthfinder," says the Johnson pro. "You need to watch so you know when the lure is at the same depth as the fish."

Wharton likes to jig a spoon rapidly, but he cautions about jerking the rod tip in wide arcs. It's much better, he says, to use short but faster wrist movement.

"The reason for this," Wharton explains, "is because the spoon actually jumps upward much more than you may think it does. It can leap six feet when you really snap your rod tip upward. You're taking the spoon away from the bass, rather than keeping it right in front of them."

When letting the spoon fall again, Wharton recommends dropping your rod tip rapidly so the lure falls back naturally with a side to side motion. Keeping a tight line on the lure so you can feel it fall actually prevents the spoon from having any action.

"There are two types of strikes you may get when you're fishing a spoon," says Wharton. "One is a definite thump you'll feel as the lure falls. The other is simply a vague sensation the lure has stopped falling. In either case, you need to set the hook, even if you're not sure what you felt."

Wharton's rod choice for spoon fishing is a relatively light action six-footer with a limber tip that flexes easily each time he jigs the spoon. He uses line testing between 14 and 20-pounds, depending on the amount of cover present.

"Historically, the jigging spoon is not a big bass lure," concludes Wharton, "but it will catch a lot of bass. This time of year, the fish are often concentrated in large schools, and it's really fun to catch them almost as fast as you can get your lure down to them, no matter what size they are."

them to the poor at next-to-nothing prices, and this then led to the carp becoming known as "the poor man's fish." And 19th century Americans accustomed to eating such fish as trout and bass objected to the carp's often muddy or weedy taste, as well the numerous small bones found in its flesh.

As carp became the most abundant fish in America, their reputation declined even further. Anglers were convinced that the carp, who normally feed by rooting in the mud, often destroyed the nests of our popular gamefish. The carp destroyed weedbeds, which fishermen believed were vital to the successful spawn of gamefish, and hunters believed that carp ate baby ducks. Some became so convinced that carp would destroy our populations of native gamefish that a bounty of $1 was proposed for every carp killed.

Whether we like it or not, carp are here to stay. In all actuality, there is no way that we could ever get rid of the carp in America. So, as the old adage goes, if you can't beat 'em, join 'em!

I've been catching carp since I started second grade, and even though my primary pursuits in more recent years have been black bass, strippers, catfish, etc., I still thoroughly enjoy catching carp. Back in June, while fishing at West Point Lake in Georgia, I noticed a bunch of carp mulling around a dock. That night, my brother-in-law, Rich Schoff, and I rigged a few doughballs on light spinning tackle with 6-pound line and had a field day with the bugle mouths. My largest carp that night, an 18-pounder, gave me the best fight that I've had in the past year or so. On light tackle, they really are tons of fun.

When I was a kid fishing the Big Sandy, I caught a 28-pound bugle mouth before school one morning on a live crawdad. Even though I was late for school, it was the fight of a lifetime for a little boy. Shortly thereafter, again while using a live crawdad, I hooked a giant carp which stripped the gears from my little Zebco 202. I tried to pull the fish in by hand, and even though I lost the fish at the bank because I couldn't get it up the steep slope by myself, I still have the scars from the line cuts on my hands and a wonderful memory of a fish that was very nearly as large as I was then at 10 years of age.

So if you're bored and just want to feel something stretch your line and tug on your pole, mosey on down to the riverbank and cast to the carp. It is certainly far removed from bass fishing, but it is loads of fun nevertheless. Since it is just for fun, use very light tackle and really have a good time.

Next week, I'll discuss a few proven doughball recipes as well as some carp fishing techniques. Until then, good carp fishing!

'Midnight Madness' Draws Large Crowd

by Ed Taylor,
Sports Editor

Well, it is official. High school basketball practice has opened. To help usher in the time when schools can start practicing, Coach Gordon Parido's Prestonsburg Blackcats took to the floor at 12:01 a.m. to the cheers of a huge crowd that came at 9 p.m. and enjoyed all the special events held throughout the evening.

All high school basketball teams can now begin getting the summer kinks out and get on the long road to the opening of the basketball season on Nov. 24.

At 9 p.m., WYMT-TV defeated the Prestonsburg Youth Board in the first game of the evening. The Red, White Alumni Game, a game between former Prestonsburg cagers, followed, intermixed with contests between quarters.

Barkley Sturgill (Class of '45) was the coach for the Red team and Phillip Tucker (Class of '63) led the White team.

Danny Hamilton (Class of '88) scored 13 points in leading the Red team to a 45-44 come-from-behind victory over the White. The White led all through the game, holding a eight point half time lead of 25-17.

Tommy Hale (Class of '69) had an opportunity to put the Red team on top with four seconds remaining in the game. Hale was fouled while shooting and was awarded two charity (we use that term loosely) tosses. Hale missed the first free throw attempt and also the second attempt. However, a lane violation on the Red team gave Hale one more chance to tie the game. The shot hit the front of the rim and bounced off, giving the Red team the victory and spoiling the coaching debut of one Phillip Tucker. David Layne (Class of '88) added seven points for the winners while Rex Williams (Class of '80) and Thomas Nairn (Class of '88) tossed in five each.

Former Blackcat standout and current Alice Lloyd Eagle David Martin (Class of '87) led the White in scoring with nine points. Jon Hale (Class of '85) and Gorman Collins (Class of '75) each tossed in eight points. Robert Allen (Class of '81) scored six points. Coach Tucker made a nice steal on a pass and, after getting the direction of the basket straightened out, laid the ball off the backboard into the basket like a pro.

Everyone enjoyed the events that took place Saturday night. According to Blackcat Booster president Freddie James (Class of '68) the "midnight madness" was a great success. James shared his time between being on the floor and doing the P.A. work. Ben Gay and Absorbine Jr. were the biggest sellers at the concession stand.

Jackie Day Crisp, Wendall Wallen and Dickie Hall were the officials for the game, along with guest referee Harry Burke.

David Cline won the three point contest. The slam dunk event was won by David Martin in a close one over Jason Storey. Charles Burke hit four free throws in a row and won the free throw contest. Speed dribbling was taken by the Allen blaze Seth Crisp. Toby Robinson won the "hot spot" event. Edith Risner was the lucky winner of the two tickets to this year's state tournament. Two season tickets for all Prestonsburg High School basketball games went to Rocky Rowe. Ann Callahan won 10 lottery tickets from Floppy Mart and a 36-quart cooler donated by Eastern Kentucky Auto Parts was won by Betty Roberts.

"You don't know what to expect when you put something like this on," Blackcat coach Gordon Parido stated. "You could be here sitting with no one showing up, so you just don't know."

Letton said he was sitting in the coaches office talking, and commented that the school should have a midnight madness practice. So, he adds, it did.

The Blackcats, like other schools, will be in practice every day now until the season begins. The Prestonsburg football players will not join the team until after the final pigskin game.

Coach Parido expressed his appreciation for all those who helped in making the first Blackcat midnight madness practice a success.

"All the parents that helped work the concession stand really helped us out. The booster club has been a tremendous help. The referees donated their time... some of the high school players helped with the various contests we had," the basketball mentor stated.

Will the event become an annual practice? "Probably not annual, but maybe semi-annual," said Parido.

At 12:01 the cheerleaders introduced the 1989-90 Blackcats to the anxiously waiting crowd. As the team ran some drills, Parido was on the side line describing what the team was doing. The short practice lasted for about 20 minutes.

Midnight Madness Squad

Members of the Prestonsburg High School basketball team were introduced to fans who awaited the midnight hour for the appearance of the team. The Blackcats, like other area schools, have begun their practices in preparation for the coming season.

Coach Parido Says He Likes It At PHS

by Ed Taylor,
Sports Editor

After a time out from the "midnight madness" program at the Prestonsburg gym Saturday night, Coach Gordon Parido took time to reflect on last year and took a look to the season ahead.

All summer, rumors have persisted that Parido was moving on to greener fields and that he was being courted by other programs around the state. Rumors abounded that he was headed for Bell County or Knott County Central and other points beyond. Parido took the time to tell how he feels about coaching at PHS, where he took the Blackcats to their first state tournament appearance.

"When you have a successful season or program you always get other job contacts. Other schools want to hire you to come and work for them. I had other offers, and they were good offers, too," Parido explained. "I like it at Prestonsburg High School. I feel that Prestonsburg High School is the right place for me to be. The people in Prestonsburg and at the high school have been great towards me. I have no desire to go other places. I want to be known as a person that builds programs."

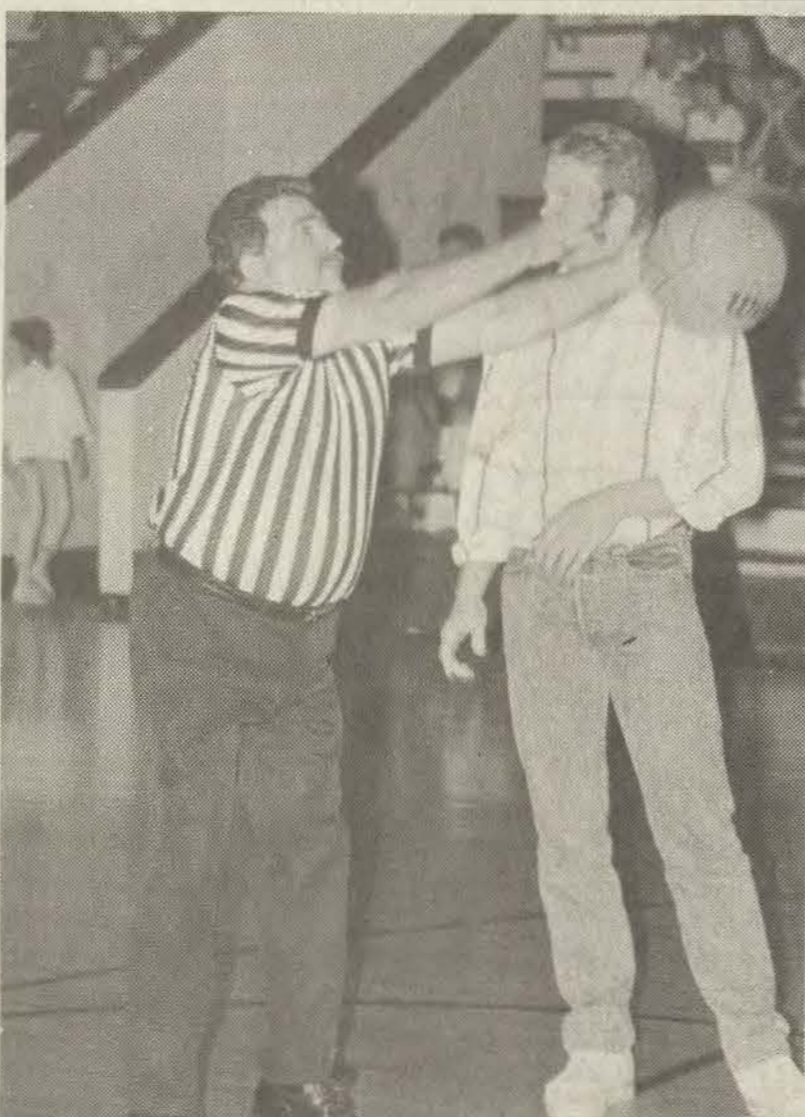

"I want to establish a winning program at Prestonsburg High School," Parido continued. "We have a lot of people still living last year (when the Blackcats won the 15th Region tournament for the first time)," he said. There is a lot of enthusiasm about this year's team."

Is the coach excited about this year's edition of the Blackcats?

"I'm always excited, always ready," he said laughing. "Right now, I don't see any fire in the team's eyes like last year's team. It will take time to do — it's not that it can't be done."

Parido said the fans can look for pretty much the same from this year's team as they had last year. "We'll have a better balanced attack on this year's squad. When I was coaching at Mullins, in the five years that I was there I never believed I couldn't win the 15th Region tournament."

Old Fashion Way

Dickie Hall shoots free throws the old fashioned way, underhanded, as he takes part in the free throw competition that was part of the "Midnight Madness" events held Saturday night to help usher in the official opening of high school basketball practice.

Catching Bass In Cold, Muddy Water

Sometime this fall or winter anglers are going to encounter what most bass fishermen consider the worst of all possible conditions: cold, muddy water.

If a time when even the best pros in the business think about other things they'd rather do than be fishing.

"Cold, muddy water can really be tough," laughs Johnson Outboards Pro Staff angler Randy Dearman, a Lake Livingston, Texas, fishing guide and tournament angler who has seen his share of bad conditions.

"The first thing I recommend fishermen do is try to find some different conditions, either clear water or warmer water. Look for natural springs where the water will be warmer, or fish around a power plant discharge area, because the water will be warmer there, too.

"Even rain may actually warm the water a little. If it is raining, look for runoff areas."

Just a few degrees of temperature change can help make bass more active, says Dearman.

"The colder the water, the more channel-oriented bass become," adds the Johnson pro. "Bass may suspend, but they may be near the bottom if the water has been cold for a long time.

"One of the key areas to look for bass is where different channels, such as a tributary creek and a larger river channel intersect. Even two creek channels can be a good spot, especially if the channels are well-defined and offer a good breakline." "Strikes will usually be light, and if you feel the blade stop turning, you need to set the hook."

Nephew Supports James D. Fitzpatrick

I am writing in support of my great-uncle, James Doug Fitzpatrick in his candidacy for Magistrate of Floyd County.

As I was growing up he always was onto all of his nieces and nephews to educate ourselves, to work hard. Later, when I was struggling through college and medical school, he was always there with his support and a little money to help out.

He also put this energy and concern to work for the people of Floyd County for many years. He wore out car after car driving throughout the area to help find jobs and places in trade schools for the young people in his job at EKCEP.

His age and his heart attack 6 years ago have been raised as an issue in the campaign. As many other Floyd countians who have suffered heart attacks and who are still hard at work could tell you, a heart attack does not make you an invalid. I know him to be active and in good health. He is honest, concerned, and interested in the people of Floyd County. I have no doubt he could do the work of magistrate, and do it well.

DEER HUNTERS HAVE MORE RESPONSIBILITY IN CHOOSING FIREARMS

When it comes to firearms, Kentucky deer hunters have more responsibility in selecting a hunting weapon this season.

According to 1989 deer regulations, any center fire rifle cartridge can be used to hunt deer. In the past, center fire cartridges were required to be a minimum caliber of .240 and have a cartridge case length of at least 1-1/2 inches.

The change in legal deer hunting weapons places the responsibility of choosing an appropriate firearm back in the hands of sportsmen. Further, the change simplifies determining which weapons are legal and provides more firearm options for deer hunters.

With the passage of the new law, Kentucky joins a number of other states in permitting all center fire cartridges for deer hunting. However, in selecting an effective weapon to harvest deer, hunters must consider their specific hunting scenario. They should be aware of their personal shooting abilities and the limitations of their weapon.

"In the past, bullet speed and size were all important, but the real emphasis should be on how well you shoot," says Lauren Schaaf, director of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources' wildlife division.

A well-placed shot from small caliber center fire rifles (ones often used for "varmint" hunting) can take deer. On the other hand, an attempted shot from a .22 caliber center fire rifle at 500 yards probably won't pay off.

"In the hands of a responsible sportsman and good marksman, center fire cartridges, in all their varieties, are effective for taking deer," Schaaf added.

The bottom line is matching one's shooting ability with a weapon that appropriately serves the hunting situation. Choosing the right weapon for the best chance of success has been and always will be the hunter's responsibility.

National Register of Historic Places

City's Post Office Building 'Classically Inspired'

(Ninth in a Series)
By Pam Shingler,
Correspondent

Those people who consider the traffic around the US Post Office in Prestonsburg to be a nightmare might take heart to know that the building is one of 12 local sites added this year to the National Register of Historic Places.

Built in 1931-32, the structure is described by the Kentucky Heritage Council, which evaluates the nominated buildings, as "unique in Prestonsburg as the city's only public or institutional building of architectural distinction, notable for its stylish design, monumentality and high-quality materials and workmanship."

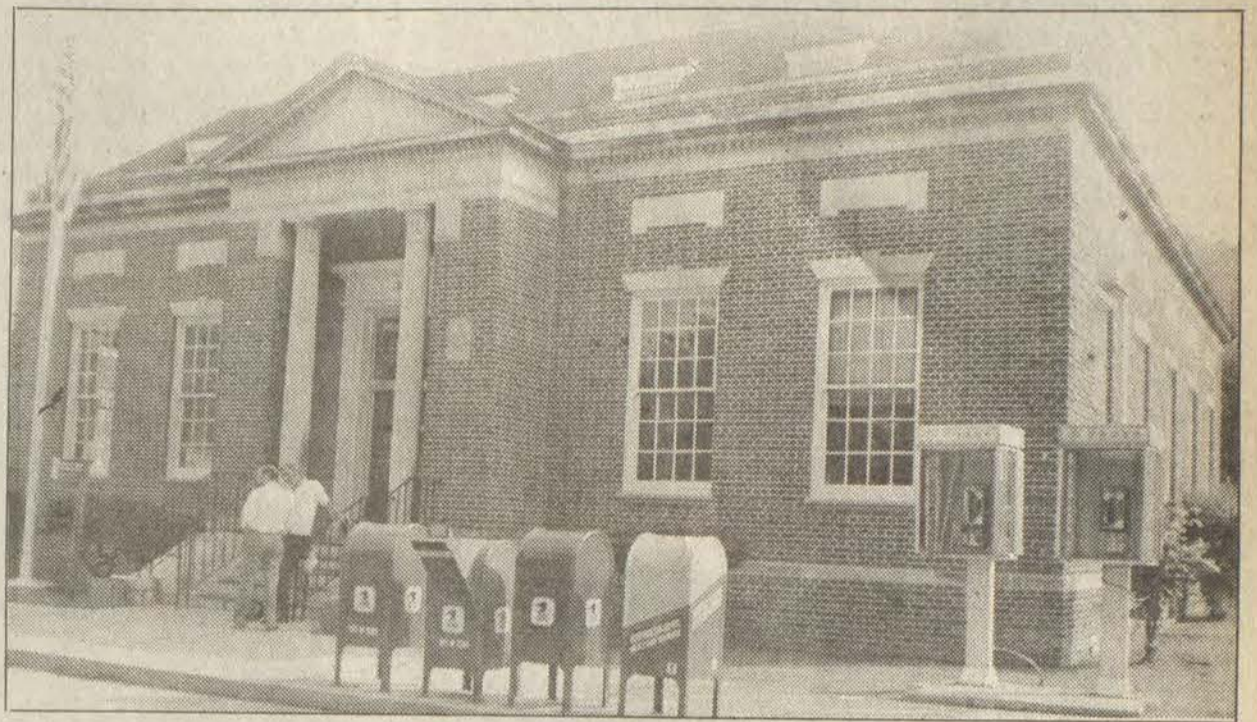

The building, said to be of Neo-Classical style, was constructed during the Depression with reddish-brown brick. It sports a mansard roof with a series of dormers that light the upper one-half story. Entryway columns are of limestone with acanthus in low relief, according to the council's description.

"Despite its relatively small size, the one-and-a-half story... building seems monumental in aspect, an effect created by its formal composition, grandly-scaled entranceway and Neo-Classical detailing," states the Heritage Council report.

"The restrained yet eclectic design of the Post Office building borrows from a variety of sources. It is clearly Neo-Classical in inspiration, and this is expressed most clearly in its monumental, columned entryway and denticulated cornice," the report continues.

The building's architect is unknown, but the report notes that a Treasury Department architect, James D. Wetmore, oversaw the design of many federal buildings of that time and was the supervising architect. The construction was supervised by contractor James C. Miller of Campbellville.

The building is considered "a fine and intact example of a mid-twentieth century governmental building," according to the council.

Spotlight On:

Daughters Of The American Revolution

The John Graham chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution was organized June 12, 1925, by state regent Mrs. Eugene R. Ray of Louisville, assisted by Mrs. John Graham Johns of Winchester.

The organizational meeting took place at the home of Mrs. Joseph M. Davidson on Court Street.

Named for Revolutionary soldier John Graham of Augusta County, Va., who settled at Emma in 1805, the chapter had 35 lineage granddaughters as members at one time. In 1928, the chapter placed a stone marker and plaque on First Avenue honoring Graham.

Officers in 1925 were organizing regent Mrs. Davidson; vice regent Mrs. Emma J. Archer; secretary Mrs. Ada F. Harlowe; registrar Mrs. Osa F. Callihan, and historian Mrs. Grace Dingus Ford.

The 1925-26 chapter yearbook disclosed that on Sept. 8, 1925, at 7 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Archer, Mrs. Harlowe spoke on "Causes of the American Revolution," dues were $2.50, DAR magazine subscriptions were $1.80 and the three standing committees were by-laws, veterans and program. The first recorded minutes, dated Dec. 9, 1930, by recording secretary Sallye C. Ligon Clark, showed two bills: Modern Drug Shop, $1.80 for a record book, and Floyd County Times, $2.25 for notices.

The national society, organized Oct. 11, 1890, and located at 1776 Street in Washington, DC, perpetuates historic, educational and patriotic services. The headquarters building covers a city block and is open for tours and genealogical research. Kentucky State Society headquarters dedicated on March 14, 1941, is located at Duncan Tavern Historic Center in Paris, where "homecoming" is held annually in October. The center, a 20-room, native limestone inn listed on the National Register of Historic Places, is supported by the state's 89 DAR chapters.

Some local projects over the chapter's 64 years have been to locate and mark graves of Revolutionary soldiers, to preserve their records and to maintain a list of their wives and children. The chapter has supported memorial and dedication services in surrounding counties for all American soldiers and for deceased DAR members. In 1930, the chapter raised money to buy an American flag and flagpole for Prestonsburg high and elementary schools. At one time, it supported and gave gifts to Carr Creek and Glen Eden community centers, and monies are now donated to Hindman Settlement School projects and to other DAR-sponsored schools in other states.

During World War II, the chapter raised a blood plasma fund of $5,300, largest of any Kentucky chapter, and traveled 86 miles over the 1940s winding road to Ashland to donate blood. During this time, 400 "buddy bags" were sent to overseas Floyd County servicemen. (A buddy bag contained a Bible, pencil, soap box and soap, shoe rag and polish, envelopes and tablet, shoe laces, razor blades and shaving cream, comb, toothbrush and toothpaste, Lifesavers or chewing gum, playing cards and a wash cloth.)

Nationally, the chapter participated in the restoration of the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island and the renovation of Constitution Hall, along with numerous other projects.

The chapter supported the efforts of the late Edith F. James to present her group of "chanters" in New York City and Washington, DC, and in 1941 sponsored her efforts to preserve authentic mountain music, which has since grown into the Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival and Old Christmas, both annual events at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park.

The Emma Wells May Cultural Center was named for a DAR member, and the Winnie F. Johns Memorial Dogwood Trail at Archer Park was dedicated to Johns' efforts to plant trees on South Mayo Trail in honor of Floyd County's war dead. The chapter has also donated a number of Eastern Kentucky history and genealogical books to libraries and has advertised nationwide, through the DAR magazine, epochs depicting Jenny Wiley, John C.C. Mayo mansion, Ashland Museum, Hindman Settlement School and Harmon Station at Blockhouse Bottom.

John Graham Chapter has received NSDAR Gold Honor Roll and KSDAR Gold Honor Roll certificates numerous times, won the 1983 Kentucky yearbook award (with blue ribbons for all yearbooks to 1989), won the national magazine advertising award in 1967 for its support of Prestonsburg Community College and the 1986 national certificate for the chapter with most members over 80 years of age. The chapter's representative Leann Bottoms was named Kentucky State DAR Good Citizen in 1986, and members have served or are serving as state officers and on state and national committees.

Current officers are Eleanor Spurlock Horn, regent; Pamela Vicars

Wohlford, first vice regent; Mae Spears Kendrick, second vice regent; Norma Spears Stepp, chaplain; Frances Preston Brackett, recording secretary; Margaret Mayo Spradlin, corresponding secretary; Alice Harris, assistant corresponding secretary; Olga Auxier Preston, treasurer; Virginia Spears Goble, registrar; Dorothy Osborne, assistant registrar; Opal Spears May, historian; Pauline Archer Burchett, assistant historian; Fannie Harris Runnels, librarian, and Maurine Mayo, assistant librarian.

Charter members are Anna Mayo Allen, Leona Gott Cooley, Ethel Salisbury Cross, Maurine Mayo and Anna Harmon Stumbo. Other members are Laura Frances Brackett-Thrasher, Dr. Michelle Preston Burchett, Sarah Ann Burchett, Charlene Preston Burgess, Margaret Dingus Collins, Sallye Clark Ferguson, Rhondetta Goble, Martha May Hager, Vivian Hamilton Hale, Elizabeth Spurlock Lambert, Elizabeth Graham Dingus Roberts, Betty Jo Goble, Martin Savilla, Norma Spears Simpson and Melba Hughes Travis.

Any woman is eligible for membership who is 18 years old and is descended from a man or woman who served in the cause of the American Revolution, provided the applicant is sponsored by two chapter members.

County Kettle

County Kettle

Is a feature offered by the Floyd County Times. Send all recipes, kitchen tips and suggestions to "County Kettle," The Floyd County Times, P.O. Box 391, Prestonsburg, KY 41653

Fall is here, Halloween is just around the corner, and one of the season's favorite foods—the pumpkin—is tantalizing taste buds nationwide.

These first two cookie recipes are wonderful colorful treats, perfect for serving at a festive Halloween party or, if one doesn't have many treat or treaters coming to their door, can be given out as wholesome snacks.

The County Kettle would delight in receiving any recipes from its readers on the theme of Halloween, or any other for that matter. Send any submissions to: County Kettle, The Floyd County Times, Box 391, Prestonsburg, KY 41653.

- 1 cup softened butter
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 egg yolk

- 3 cups flour
- 1 tsp. pumpkin pie spice
- 2 Tsp. ground ginger
- 1/2 tsp. salt

SCARY SPIDER COOKIE (Makes about 2 dozen cookies)

- 3 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
- 2 Tbsps. pumpkin pie spice
- 1/2 tsp. baking soda
- 1 cup butter, softened
- 1 cup packed dark brown sugar
- 1/4 cup granulated sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 cup Libby's Solid Pack Pumpkin Frosting
- 24 large gum drops
- 24 pieces thin licorice whip

candy, 12 inches long
In medium bowl, combine flour, pumpkin pie spice and baking soda; set aside. In large mixing bowl, cream butter and sugars until fluffy. Add egg and pumpkin; beat until light and creamy. Gradually add dry ingredients; blend well.

We would like to take this opportunity to ask you to re-elect Gerald DeRossett as magistrate of District #1. We can not say all of the good things this honest man has done for us. Gerald is always there for the people of District #1 regardless of the hour, day, or night. This is proven by the many times Gerald has worked after 1 a.m. Gerald has worked on holidays such as Christmas Eve and Thanksgiving Day. Gerald, along with his two main volunteers Gerald Douglas, James Alex and John Bryant DeRossett have cleared many roads on Saturday night to allow church services to be held the next day. We know that Gerald DeRossett is the most experienced, and the best qualified person to serve in the magistrate's office. Gerald DeRossett gets things done by working for us all of the time. If Gerald should have some spare time, you will find him with his wife Katie watching his as well as your children in various school activities.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

AVOIDING OVERDOSING OF THE ELDERLY

Because the elderly are likely to have more than one health problem, members of this age group are the most likely to overdose on medication. In fact, about 80 percent of older people have chronic illness, and half have two or concurrent conditions. According to various surveys, the average elderly patient takes three to four drugs for his ailments. These drugs can interact with each other, or with certain foods, to pose a hazard to health. An elderly person also may forget his medication schedule and accelerate his dosage rate by mistake. For these reasons, the help of the pharmacist should be enlisted to draw up a medication schedule that is easy to follow. Overdosing or mixed dosing carries a fatal potential that is largely preventable.

COOLEY APOTHECARY wants you to know that if your physician prescribes medication for you or a member of your family that we maintain the highest standards of the pharmaceutical profession. Learn for yourself why your friends and neighbors already rely on us. We are located at #2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-5.

HINT: When a patient misses taking a pill at the slated time, he should never double up at the next scheduled time.

Paths To Information Available At PCC Library

By Trisha Morris,
PCC Librarian

A library is a repository of access paths to information. Much of that access is still through the hard bound book. The following books from the PCC library are about that particular path to information — books that changed a life, books about a region, old books that have a monetary value, and books that show the history of a nation.

Columbia Literary History of the United States, edited by Emory Elliott. This comprehensive volume is an authoritative and up-to-date survey of the literature of the United States. It extends from prehistoric cave narratives to the radical movement of the 1960s and the experimentation of the 1980s.

Containing essays by foremost scholars and critics, Literary History reveals the diversity of American life and allows the reader to appreciate the distinction of writings produced in certain regions, by members of certain movements, and by particular writers. It extensively treats long-cherished writers along with lesser known authors.

Taken as a whole, the work set forth a generation's interpretation of the rise of American civilization and culture.

The Literary History of Kentucky, by William Ward. Kentucky's literary history is impressive — so is this book. The author has produced an important reference work and at the same time a treasure for lovers of the literature of this region.

Reviewed This Week

- Columbia Literary History of the US*
- The Literary History of Kentucky*
- Nonsense Literature for Children*
- The Old Book Value Guide*
- The Southern Mountaineer in Literature*
- Books That Made the Difference*

The first comprehensive critical treatment of both the major and minor figures in the state's literature, The Literary History of Kentucky looks at the romances of John Fox Jr., the historical tragedies of Robert Penn Warren, the plowboy poetry of Jesse Stuart, the epic novels of Harriette Arnow and many, many others.

From Ward's concise but very readable survey of the lives and work of the state's authors emerges an understanding of the significance of Kentucky's contribution to the literature of the nation.

Nonsense Literature for Children, by Celia Anderson. Nonsense is alive and well today in the works of Dr. Seuss, Shel Silverstein, and many modern masters. This is the first book to jump right into the middle of it all to analyze what makes it work, why we like it and what good it does.

Playing with language and pictures to create nonsense has a long and honorable tradition that goes back well before Lewis Carroll and Edward Lear to the ancient Greeks. The author explores the expression of nonsense vision, probes the appeal of nonsense verse, and discusses creatures and situations of the nonsensical imagination.

A wonderful resource for teachers, librarians, parents or anyone who chooses reading material for children.

The Old Book Value Guide. The Guide was compiled to help owners of old books evaluate their worth — not for the rare first edition finds but for the common book. The majority of the 25,000 listings are in the $5 to $20 range.

Designed to be an easy reference, the listings are arranged alphabetically by author with scores of buyers listed along with the type of material they purchase.

This book is ideal for book collectors or anyone with a stack of old books they're afraid to discard.

The Southern Mountaineer in Literature, by Lorise C. Boger. Following the Civil War, a vigorously new and many-faceted character strode onto the American literary scene — the southern mountaineer. Since that time, thanks to authors such as Wilma Dykeman, James Still and Harriette Arnow, he has maintained a definite niche in regional literature.

This selective, annotated bibliography is an attempt to collect and report on the prose works which have as characters the mountaineer of Alabama, the Carolinas, Georgia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia.

Books That Made the Difference, by Gordon and Patricia Sabine. This book is the result of the authors encouraging 1,400 Americans to respond to the questions: "What book made the greatest difference in your life?" and "What was that difference?"

The intent was to demonstrate reading's tremendous influence. Their results proved that supposition. Among many answers, it was found that books recalled milestones of change and learning, were the start of careers, became the impetus for courage, and taught the acceptance of tragedy.

Trimmed to 200 of the actual responses, this book includes testimony from diverse personalities in 24 major cities and another 24 smaller ones across the country. Besides being fun to read, it helpfully gives an overview of the findings by listing the named books by author and title and the naming respondents by geography and profession. What if they had asked you?

Below, Carol Prater, expectant mother from Hueysville, practices relaxation techniques with the aid of her support person, Connie Prater McKinney.

Vote For
James D. (Doug)
Fitzpatrick
Magistrate, District No. 2
Nov. 7, 1989

The present magistrate and my opponent has been attacking me on my age and health. I admit I am 71 years old and the only way I could keep from being 71 yrs. old was to have died when I was 70 years old. He has hopped on me for having a heart attack and I will advise him that I didn't choose to have the heart attack. There are thousands of people living a normal life that have had a heart problem. I will admit that I can't operate a bull dozer and I don't think that is a requirement to be a magistrate.

I think the magistrate is being very generous to the taxpayers when he said that he hasn't asked for a cost of living expense in the last four years. There aren't too many that would ask for a cost of living expense when they are costing the taxpayers $25,000.00 per year for a part-time position as magistrate. According to the Legislative Research Commission Information Bulletin No. 114, a magistrate who works part-time is supposed to be paid part-time wages.

I can never remember, in my long life, ever seeing a county truck that the taxpayers money has paid for operating with a magistrate's political advertising on the front bumper and the tailgate. I think that is a conflict of interest and should be stopped.

In Magisterial District No. 2, the education dept. is closing grade schools in the community of Wayland, Garrett, Allen and Maytown. When they close these schools, I think, the property should go back to the communities for a playground and a mini-park for the citizens of each area.

In the primary election there were eight candidates running for the position of magistrate. The present magistrate received 39% of the vote and 61% did not choose to vote for him as the magistrate the next four years. In the final election, the candidate that gets 50% plus will be your magistrate for the next four years.

I am the only candidate that has ever run for public office that has ever offered to return 50% of the salary back to a scholarship fund at Allen Central High School to help children that are having financial problems to attend college. A vote for me is a vote for the youth of our county.

Retired Postmaster Also Patriot, Community Servant

by Tess A. Whitmer, Staff Writer

The post office at Hippos has lost its postmaster of 45-plus years to retirement, but is fortunate enough to still have him close enough for consultation.

Monroe Vanderpool, who runs the general store in which the post office is housed, retired Saturday, Sept. 30, leaving Richard Fahrson of Ashland to run that post office.

"Richard is an intelligent person and has a great personality," Vanderpool said. "He will continue to give good and efficient service for the postal service at Hippos." Of course, since Vanderpool will be running the store surrounding the post office, he will be around should Fahrson or customers need him.

Friends and relatives held a retirement dinner on Friday, Sept. 29, at the lunch room of the Philadelphia Regular Baptist Church at which time Vanderpool said, "I want to thank all the people of the community, county, state and U.S. that have placed their confidence and trust in me over the years. It's been a pleasure to work with postmasters, carriers and USPS employees. I have tried to be dedicated to my position as postmaster and to all others that I have been associated with."

Vanderpool has had quite a life during his 66 years—and not a very prosperous beginning. He grew up on a hillside farm in Gunlock, the son of Jim Buck and Millie Vanderpool. He was only able to attend the rural one-room school house there for seven months out of each year and worked the farm the rest of the year.

"The roads were wagon roads with plenty of mud and I had a poor chance of attending any higher school," Vanderpool explained. "But a teacher encouraged me to attend Magoffin Baptist Institute at Salyersville, which was a boarding school. I was the first in my area to graduate from high school and received a $25 scholarship yearly and the remainder of the money I got working for the school's board of education."

Vanderpool graduated in three and a half years as class valedictorian and began his education at Campbellsville College, where he received a teaching certificate two years later, making him eligible to teach for the next six years.

He began teaching school at the Head of Licking School in 1942, but in the early part of 1943 he was called to service. He was sent overseas to join the 3rd Infantry Division, an elite division specializing in beach landings, where he was a 30 caliber machine gun operator.

According to Vanderpool, during his time in service he went from Africa, through Italy to Rome, then to southern France. He later traveled to the vicinity of Strassburg, Germany, where he had to be hospitalized for trench foot; it marked the second winter in which he was afflicted with the illness.

Vanderpool commented that he could tell of many true war stories and related one time which his unit was cut off from the rest of the forces at the Anzio Beach Head in Italy "and had to fight for their lives for four months." He was given a medical discharge in April of 1945 due to trench foot, or frozen feet, which left him with a 50 percent disability.

After the war Vanderpool was highly decorated, receiving the Combat Infantry Badge, the Silver Star, Bronze Star, French Decoration, five Battle Campaign Stars and many other medals.

"The war interrupted my life and I had no desire to teach or to continue school—the war had taken its effect," he exclaimed. "I soon realized I must do something, so I went to Ohio and obtained a time keeper job with the railroad company and worked until the strike, when I was laid off and came back to Kentucky."

Upon his return to this area Vanderpool married his childhood sweetheart, Mary Smith of Magoffin County, and together they had six children: Fred, Lowell, James, Clyde, Carl and Jewell (now Jewell Cook). Five years ago he lost his son James in an accident below David.

It was in 1946 that Vanderpool began his career with the US Postal Service under postmaster E.C. Moore. He was soon commissioned as postmaster at Hippos and later bought the general store which is still his business.

"I plan to start phasing out the store slowly so I can devote more time to my other commitments, but I don't see it being completely shut down for at least another year," he said.

Among Vanderpool's other community services are his membership on the board of the Big Sandy RECC, EXCEP, McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital and others. In 1981 Vanderpool was appointed a water commissioner for Beaver-Elkhorn Water District and he is a life member of the Disabled American Veteran's Chapter #128 at Garrett, of which he has been the adjutant-treasurer for 21 years, the American Legion and AMVETS. Being a DAV member, Vanderpool has donated his time and expense as a DAV State Service Officer for 17 years and has received more than a dozen plaques and trophies for his efforts.

"I will continue to be a servant of the people, working for veterans, their dependents and other people as long as I am in the position and health to do so," Vanderpool commented. "I also must thank my wife and family for their patience in contending with all the duties that have caused me to be away from them during all these years."

Among his titles are those of notary public, Kentucky Colonel and Kentucky Admiral.

"Greatest of all in my life is God, which for many years I have been serving. The greatest honor of all is what I am able to obtain from God," Vanderpool noted. "Another great honor to me is the American Flag and the patriotism that I have for it. I know by experience what a great price it has cost to preserve and protect our flag."

Postmaster Given His Day

Since Monroe Vanderpool (right) "has been with the postal service for many years and has handled not only the mail but was also a community leader who was always there in time of need to help the ill and assist the family in time of death," Judge Executive John M. Stumbo declared Sunday, Sept. 29, 1989, as Monroe Vanderpool Day in Floyd County.

Where The Bottom Line Is Less!

Poet's Corner

Inside the Heart

With mist in the air
The dawn breaks through
To light up the day
For me and for you.

Yet it seems that today
When I finally awoke,
The dark was still there
My heart seemed to choke.

Like a hand, grasped tightly
My heart, in its hold,
Was squeezing the life
From my immortal soul.

For inside the heart
A love must live
It must live for a love,
And a love, it must give.
— John M. Jarrell
Mays Branch, Prestonsburg

The Beautiful Hills

When I look out my door
And see the high hills a short distance away,
All the tall, beautiful trees
That grow so straight and high;
When I lift up my eyes to try to see
The tree tops
It seems they almost reach the sky.
It seems they give me renewed strength
To face another day,
The Bible tells us, "Lift up your eyes
Into the hills."

Thus it makes all the troubles of the world
Around us seem to fade away,
Into the distance, as we gaze
Above the tree tops,
To the clear blue sky above,
With the white clouds,
Like the soft wings of angels,
Floating away,
And as you watch them,
They never seem to stop.
Then our troubles seem to drift away
On the soft white clouds,
And a sweet peace
Enters our hearts and souls.
Then and only then
Can we begin to know
The things of life,
That really count,
We then understand
That peace comes only from God,
As we see the beautiful sky and trees
Made by God — not by man.

— Myrtle Berry,
Martin

Mamaw Ruth

A maternal mother
Never to be known
I will never meet
Her until I am gone.

Mom, you have memories of
All her tears and every time she laughed
It makes me sad because
All I have is an old photograph.

Never knowing her, never feeling the love in her touch
Even though I've never met her, I still love her very much.

Only in my dreams I saw
A wonderful lady I will never be able to call Mamaw.

— Carolee Hobson,
McDowell

Sunset At the Beach

The birds fly away;
Nobody's here.
It's nice to be at a place
Where you have nothing to fear.
A cool breeze passes you by,
The sun slowly goes down,
At least leaving a pretty site
With a smile instead of a frown.
Thoughts come in my mind
As I quietly leave the beach
Of how this place never seems out of reach;
I'll never forget this place as quickly
as a blink
It's nice to know that there is a beautiful place
That gives me a chance to think.

— Michelle Castle,
Allen

The Majestic Mountain

The majestic mountain
That is blanketed with
So much beauty there

The flowers and the berries
And the hummingbirds
Humming their happy
Hums

Makes you want to stay
On the mountains,
Bask in the beauty that

Is give us and let Us thank God for the Beauty and vow to keep
It beautiful in His grace.

— Thelma Hall,
Pocatello, Idaho

My Special Place

Beyond the mountains
That rise so high;
Beyond a flight
Of birds in the sky;

I feel a magic
— A place so still
That only one heart
Its beauty may fill.

Time to think
It gives to me.
Sorting my thoughts
In dreamy fantasy.

As does a painter
Use his paint,
I feel the warmth
That is so faint.

A silent hush;
It seems to be
Beyond the rustle
Of the trees.

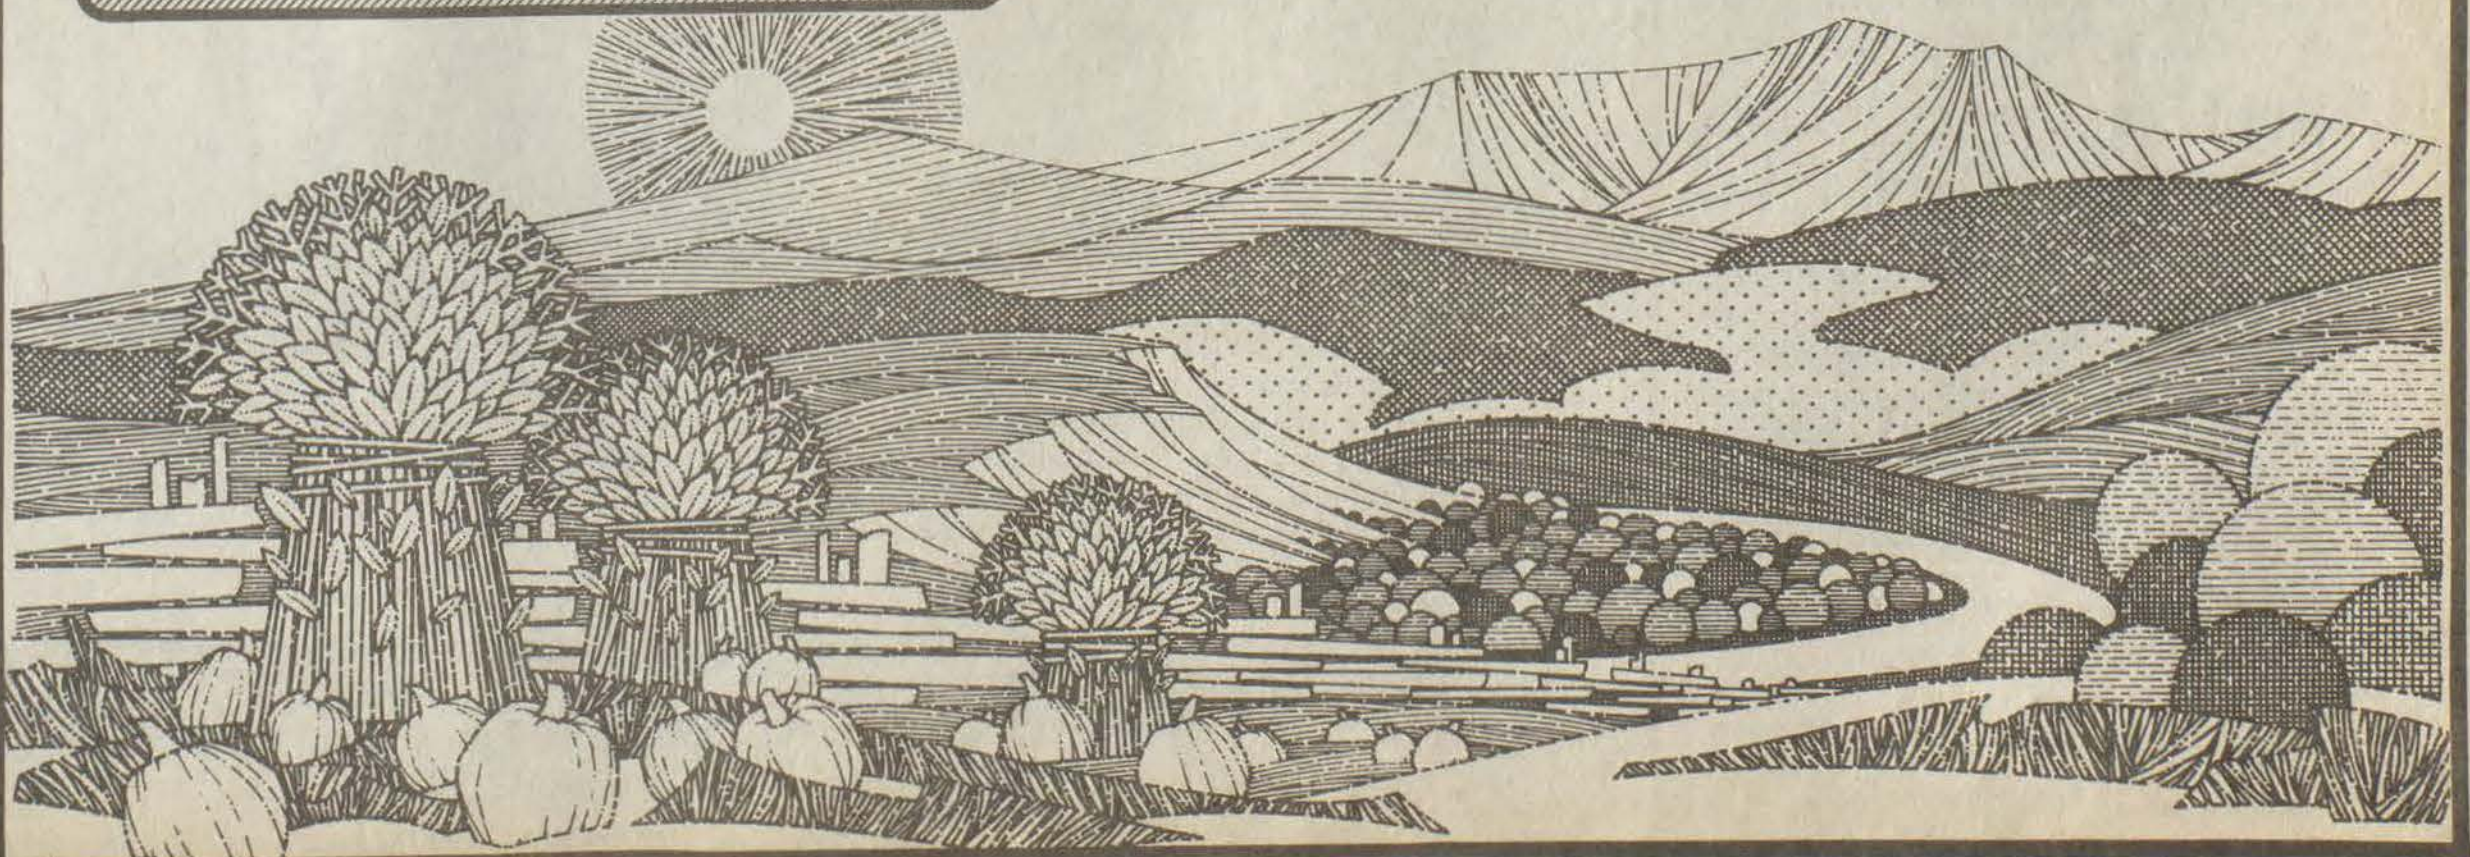

A subtle sense
Of security —
Is forever to linger
Here with me.

— Mary S. Meadows,
Prestonsburg High School

Letter From Heaven

Angels knock upon my door, I feel the breeze from their wings
I look upon the earth once more, as the midnight bell slowly rings
My journey toward my eternal place is near, my body still lays in my bed
I wonder if I'm really here, or is it all in my head.
I experience a feeling of warmth, a feeling of great relief,
My spirit begins to freely roam, but it's extraordinarily beyond belief.
As I enter the quiet, peaceful land, and I will live my life no more,
I remember the footprints in the sand, God lead me to my shore.
My family cries of my loss, they see me one more time.
They don't think nothing of the cast, just a memory or two of mine.
I await the gates every day, to see who shall come in.
I miss you all in every way, my prayer, God, I shall send.
For one last line of memories, I wish for you to share.
When the angels knock upon your door, I will be waiting there.
I keep you all in my heart, I feel your presence with me.
I know that we will never part, I will keep you in my dreams.

Weingarten Commended To Merit Program

by Amy Allen and Haley Caudill

Toby Weingarten, a student at Wheelwright High School, was recently selected as one of several students nationwide to be named a "commended student" in the 1990 National Merit Scholarship Program.

The son of Glenda Hall, Weingarten was the only student from Wheelwright High School to receive this honor.

He was one of 35,000 students chosen nationwide for their outstanding performance on the 1988 PSAT/NMSQT. His performance on the test placed him in the top 5 percent of more than one million students who entered the 1990 Merit Program.

Through donations from businesses, the merit program offers several scholarships to the top students in the nation. Although the commended student does not necessarily receive a National Merit Scholarship, his outstanding test scores are sent to

Rep. Stumbo Denies Allegations

by Haley Caudill and Brad Compton

Representative Greg Stumbo came to Wheelwright High School on Sept. 28 to answer allegations that he had made derogatory remarks about Wheelwright during a presentation at Prestonsburg Community College.

Stumbo visited and spoke to four classes at Wheelwright High School and then addressed a general assembly of students in an attempt to explain remarks he had reportedly made to the Eastern Kentucky Council of Teachers of Mathematics on Sept. 26.

Rumors were circulating throughout the community that Stumbo had made remarks about the quality of the teachers and students at Wheelwright, referring to Wheelwright students as "hoodlums." Stumbo brought a video tape of the address with him that he shared with students.

"If you find that statement on this tape, I'll resign from public office," Rep. Stumbo stated to a group of students.

Stumbo went on to explain that his remarks about the teachers were misinterpreted.

"What happens in rural Kentucky is that it is a catch-22 situation. The problem areas don't get the good teachers as a rule. The good teachers go to where . . . they go to good systems, right? Because they get paid more there and because it's easier to teach in a good system than it is a poor system. It's easier to go to Fayette County and teach at Bates Creek High School than it is to go to Wheelwright High School," stated Stumbo.

Stumbo explained that he meant that most teachers, given a choice, would prefer to work in a large school where they have better pay and facilities. According to Stumbo, Wheelwright was used as an example because it is the most remote school in his district.

After watching the video tape and listening to Stumbo speak, some students changed their attitudes about him. The anger has turned to understanding. However, there are still students and teachers who feel that a public apology is in order and who are not totally convinced.

Stumbo Denies Allegations

Rep. Greg Stumbo, above, explains remarks he made during a Sept. 26 Eastern Kentucky Council of Teachers of Mathematics meeting. Stumbo addressed students at Wheelwright High School Sept. 28 to clarify his earlier comments about the school.

Leslie Cast In EKV Production

A Floyd County student has been cast for Eastern Kentucky University's production of "Les Liaisons Dangereuse."

The play, set in 18th century France, tells a tale of aggression and narcissism.

Cast as "Julie" is Laura Leslie of Trimble Branch, Prestonsburg.

In the play, the Marquise de Merteuil and the Vicompt de Valmont play a vicious game of sexual chess using a naive convent-bred girl and a virtuous, happily married woman as pawns.

"Les Liaisons Dangereuse" will run from Wednesday Nov. 15 to Saturday, Nov. 18, in EKV's Gifford Theatre. Curtain time is 8 o'clock each night.

Admission is $4 for students and senior citizens and $5 for others.

For more information, please contact the EKV Department of Speech Communication and Theatre Arts at (606) 622-1315.

One moment of clarity changed his life. Tom, 31, started in junior high, mixing vodka with his fruit punch. But as an adult, mainly drank beer. A case a day. Watched his dad die from cirrhosis. Frightened, switched to cocaine. After a $3,000 "White Christmas", returned to alcohol. Immediately went out of control. Soon needed a pint of bourbon to stop the morning shakes. Finally, on a binge, raised his fist to hit his wife. Suddenly flashed back to his childhood. Realized like father, like son. Broke down, asked for help. "I went into the CareUnit dead inside, beaten. They gave me unconditional love. They gave me my life." Tom's been sober 2 years, has kept his family together, and says his life has completely turned around.

'World Of Technology Days' Oct. 25-26 At Morehead State

More than 2,000 high school students from eastern and northern Kentucky and southern Ohio are expected to visit the Morehead State University campus for World of Technology Days on Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 25-26.

Students from the Wheelwright High School Future Homemakers of America and Future Business Leaders of America chapters are expected to participate.

Sponsored by MSU's College of Applied Sciences and Technology, the program offers students the opportunity to learn about various aspects of technology, according to Scott Gillock, assistant professor of industrial technology and coordinator of WOT activities. "We want the students to become familiar with the wide variety of programs MSU offers in the 'world of work,'" he said.

Campus visitors will tour exhibits and see demonstrations in Lloyd Cassity Building and Reed Hall beginning at 8:30 a.m. each day. A fashion show is scheduled in Button Auditorium with lunch to follow, concluding the day's activities.

MSU students will serve as guides for the displays, which include horticulture, horsemanship, interior design, electronics, robotics, home economics, graphic arts, nursing, radiology and much more.

For more information, contact Gillock at (606) 783-2421.

PHS FBLA Seeking Sponsors For Stock Market Competition

The Prestonsburg High School Future Business Leaders of America is seeking individuals or businesses to sponsor students in the AT&T Scholastic Challenge. This competition allows individual students to compete for scholarships by "playing the stock market."

According to Judy Combs, FBLA sponsor, the competition will work as follows: Each student with an account is given a hypothetical $500,000 brokerage account to use in buying and selling stocks. Students will be able to call their "brokers" during the business day to get current quotes on stock values and to buy and sell stocks. The competition runs from Wednesday, Nov. 1, through Feb. 28, 1990, and at the end of the competition several of the top competitors will be awarded cash scholarships based on their performance.

Any individual or business who is interested in sponsoring an account should contact Combs at 886-2252 by Monday, Oct. 23. Each account costs $42.95 and the club will publicly express thanks to those who help individuals compete for scholarships, Combs added.

Engineering Scholarship Applications Now Available

High school seniors looking for ways to help finance their college engineering education can apply to the National Society of Professional Engineers' (NSPE) Education Foundation for one of 150 scholarships or grants.

In addition, says Wayne Carmony of East Kentucky Power Cooperative, students transferring to, or already enrolled in certain engineering colleges are eligible.

Applications are available now until mid December from Kentucky Society of Professional Engineers, Route 3, Box 96-F, Democrat Drive, Frankfort, KY 40601, (502) 695-5680. Applicants are judged from national test scores, essays, transcripts and extracurricular activities. All finalists will be nominated for "Who's Who Among American High School Students."

In 1990, NSPE will award scholarships and grants ranging from $500 for one year to full-tuition, four-year scholarships.

NSPE's scholarship program is the largest of its kind sponsored and administered by an engineering society; annual disbursements exceed $1 million.

Campbell Begins Studies In Osteopathic Medicine

JAMES CAMPBELL

James A. Campbell of Prestonsburg has begun studies this fall in the West Virginia School of Osteopathic Medicine's newest class of medical students.

One of 69 members of the WVSOM Class of 1933, Campbell was chosen from an applicant pool of 852 candidates to begin his four-year osteopathic medical education at WVSOM in Lewisburg, W. Va.

Campbell is one of approximately 1,700 new osteopathic medical students enrolled at the country's 15 osteopathic medical colleges this fall. With some 6,661 osteopathic medical students nationwide, osteopathic medicine is one of the country's fastest growing health care professions.

Studies at WVSOM will take four years to complete. During his years he will receive classroom and laboratory study in the basic sciences, and introductory education including biochemistry, microbiology, physical diagnosis, emergency medicine, osteopathic principles and practices, gross anatomy, histology, embryology, medical humanities, and preventive medicine. During his last two years of training he will rotate at different American Osteopathic Association (AOA) hospitals, private offices, clinics, and nursing homes to insure that he receives a full range of clinical experience.

Four years of education at WVSOM is followed by a one-year rotating internship at an AOA approved hospital before the start of private practice or specialty training in a residency program.

The West Virginia School of Osteopathic Medicine is a fully accredited four-year osteopathic medical college dedicated to training family physicians for West Virginia and rural Appalachia. Nearly 95 percent of WVSOM's graduates now in West Virginia are practicing in primary care medical fields, providing care in general practice, pediatrics, emergency medicine, obstetrics/gynecology and internal medicine.

In 1993, Campbell will be awarded the Doctor of Osteopathy (D.O.) degree upon successful completion of the WVSOM educational program.

Campbell received a bachelor of science degree from the University of Kentucky. He is the son of Linda Wright of Prestonsburg.

Real Estate

'Like-Kind' Exchanges Should Be Preserved

The National Association of Realtors supports efforts to encourage real estate investment activity, and for that reason believes a proposal to limit the use of "like-kind" exchanges of investment or income-producing real estate is ill founded. "These provisions have been respected for 65 years as a fair and equitable means of treating property exchanges in which little or no cash is actually produced. Now, in an attempt to raise revenue, the Ways and Means Committee wants to severely restrict the 'like-kind' exchanges tax provisions only to those properties that are 'similar or related in service or use,'" said NAR President Ira Gribin. "The mistaken assumption here is that owners will go ahead with 'like-kind' exchanges anyway, even though the tax burden that results from the exchange would exceed any cash proceeds," said Gribin, a realtor from Encino, Calif. Gribin noted investment real estate bore a disproportionate share of the tax increase to pay for the substantial reductions in tax rates for individuals and corporations in 1986. It is unfair to look to investment real estate again to pay for a tax increase, he said. Gribin asked NAR members to contact their congressional representative, urging them to retain the current rules for "like-kind" exchanges of income-producing or investment real estate. The Ways and Means Committee proposal would deny "like-kind" treatment for such exchanges as unimproved land for an office building. Current law permits taxpayers to defer gain on certain exchanges of property held in a trade, business or investment. Special rules specify conditions the exchange must satisfy. The absence of a lower capital gains tax rate has made the use of the "like-kind" exchange essential — a technique that keeps real estate from being "locked in." "Lock-in" occurs when taxes resulting from a transaction are higher than any cash proceeds, and therefore, the sale is discouraged—if not altogether prohibited. Norm Flynn, NAR's president-elect, said instead of raising new revenues from "like-kind" exchanges, the proposal would effectively end them. "Owners would be locked in to their investments, and overall economic activity would slow, ultimately decreasing tax revenues," he said. Gribin said current "like-kind" exchange provisions have never been a means of avoiding taxes.
