Cleanup In Schools, County Continues

by Frank Clark,
Staff Writer

Mud and water continues to slosh out of McDowell's schools as cleanup crews of teachers and janitors work to minimize damage caused by Tuesday's flash flood.

The high water trapped approximately 760 students on the school campus for several hours.

For the past two and a half days, workers have used hoses, brooms and mops to move the thick layer of debris deposited by the flood waters of Frasure Creek, which rose two and a half feet in some elementary school classrooms. Cleanup began immediately after waters began to recede, as teachers and school workers scrambled to salvage classroom materials and other supplies.

According to Judge-Executive John Stumbo, an estimated 200 homes were effected by the flooding county-wide. No dollar estimate of damage to private property has yet been made. Damage costs to road and water lines in Floyd County are $450,000. Combined damage to Garrett, Drift, and the two McDowell schools are believed to be valued at approximately $126,000. McDowell is considered to be the worst hit.

According to Head Janitor David Turner, much of the cleanup in the buildings has been completed. However, the campus remains covered with sticky mud and, as temperatures dropped on Thursday, cleaning on the cold and wet day became more difficult.

Staff members of McDowell Elementary and High Schools work to clear the mess left by Tuesday morning's flash flood. Most school buildings have been cleared of mud and debris, and will likely be inspected by state health officials later in the week prior to reopening.

Red, White & Blue Day Still Tomorrow

By Tess A. Whitmer,
Staff Writer

If the weather clears up, Red, White & Blue Days will continue as planned, according to Eugene Hutchinson, festival representative.

Festival goers should listen to radio stations for any cancellation announcements, and parade participants will be notified should the inclement weather continue, Hutchinson explained.

Tonight, music lovers can enjoy the sounds of "Sudden Impact" as it performs for the street dance, which will be downtown Martin from 5 to 8 p.m.

Tomorrow morning activities start off bright and early at 8 a.m. with a 5K run. Racers can register at the mouth of Finance Hollow on Route 80 between Martin and Allen, the start of the race. The runners will remain on old Route 80 the entire way and end in the parking lot of the First Guaranty National Bank.

A first, second and third place winner will be awarded a trophy in each of six age groups, divided into males and females. Age categories are as follows: 10 and under, 11-15, 16-29, 30-39, 40-49 and 50 and over. The cost for each runner is $5 and anyone who completes the race will be given a T-shirt.

Car enthusiasts will not want to miss the Classic Car Show which will be in front of the First Guaranty National Bank. The following classes of cars will be judged for a first and second place winner in each:

Best production car for the years 1928-40, 1941-50, 1951-60 (convertible) and 1951-60 (hardtop); best utility vehicle 1928-69; best pickup truck 1929-57; best street rod 1928-49 and 1949-60; and best Corvette or T-bird 1953-70. There is also a judge's choice category and the longest distance traveled class. Car owners can register their cars the day of the festival.

Campbell, a Prestonsburg native, had been with the city's police force nearly 20 years. He had been chief since January 1988, and previously served in that capacity in both 1978-79 and 1983-84.

"Prestonsburg has suffered a great loss," said Mayor Ann Latta. "Dickie Campbell was a professional, and he was a true friend to his department. He was respected by his friends, colleagues and fellow police officers around the state."

Jenny Wiley Saga

(Editor's Note: As part of the observance of the 200th year since the capture of Jenny Wiley, the Times has been running segments of the Jenny Wiley Story, written by the late historian, author and playwright Henry Scalf of Mare Creek. This is the third part of the series, which picks up after Wiley's child was killed at the Indian camp at the head of Tug Creek. The story will conclude Wednesday.)

by Henry Scalf

To Mrs. Wiley, there remained only slavery for months. Her captors brought her to Little Mud Lick Creek in the present Johnson County, and here they set up a permanent camp. Visiting bands of Indians came and went all through the winter, although the bands were small. One day, with much yelling and a great camp commotion, a band came visiting. They had as a captive a young man about 21 years of age. Mrs. Wiley saw him from a distance, but she did not know him, nor did she ever learn his name. That night upon the plateau, the Indians burned him at the stake, and although she did not see the spectacle of torture, knew of it from the fiendish yells that came down to her. The yelling subsided, and for a while there was a lull. Black Wolf came down with the old Cherokee Chief. Her erstwhile guardian informed her that it was the decree of the Indians in See JENNY WILEY SAGA, Page 5

Detention Center Supervisor Jailed For Contempt Of Court

The supervisor of the Big Sandy Area Juvenile Detention Center in Prestonsburg is serving a 48-hour sentence after being found guilty of contempt of court in Pike District Court yesterday.

Pike County has a contract with the Floyd County facility for housing juvenile inmates. Supervisor Margie Osborne was taken to jail on orders from Pike District Judge Miller Kent Carter after he listened to Osborne's testimony and motions by her attorney, Julie Paxton of Prestonsburg.

On Wednesday, Carter ordered a female juvenile remanded to the center for security detention. According to a statement read into the record by the judge, Osborne refused to take the juvenile after a request by Pike County officials. Carter then contacted her directly and asked Osborne to accept the girl; she apparently refused.

He asked her if the facility was filled to capacity, and she reportedly refused to answer.

"I then asked her how many inmates she had and she told me 11," said Carter. He added that he afforded Osborne several opportunities to willingly accept the female juvenile and she repeatedly refused.

Osborne told him she might need the additional beds for boys should they be brought in later. The capacity for the center is 14 — nine beds for males and six for females. On the night in question, six boys were in the boys dorm and five boys were in the girl's dorm. According to Paxton, that was done in order to make the boys easier to supervise.

Carter issued a court order transferring the girl to the Prestonsburg facility and, at 10:30 that night, Osborne accepted the girl at the request of the Floyd County Social Services office.

Paxton read from a prepared statement saying that Osborne was trying to operate the facilities within the bounds of the juvenile code.

She pointed out that any violation of the juvenile code could be grounds to close the facility permanently. Osborne testified that she believed the center violated the girl's civil rights by accepting her due to the lack of privacy because of the number of boys in the center.

Carter said he found no just cause in either Paxton's statement or Osborne's testimony to justify the refusal of his order to admit the juvenile. See DETENTION CENTER, Page 2

Wearing Red Wednesday Denotes Drug-Free Choice

Sunday kicks off Kentucky's 1989 Red Ribbon Campaign.

This is the second year the state has recognized the week, which is sponsored in Kentucky by Champions Against Drugs. Floyd County Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo has declared Sunday, Oct. 22, through Sunday, Oct. 29, "Red Ribbon Week and Drug Free America Week" in Floyd County.

Last year thousands of people participated in displaying red ribbons and attending special events. A grand rally was hosted at the state Capitol by Governor and Mrs. Wallace Wilkinson.

This year Gov. Wilkinson invites the public — especially students — to attend the rally on the capital grounds Wednesday, Oct. 25, from 11 a.m. until noon.

According to Lola Brashear, Champions Against Drugs representative in Floyd County, the Red Ribbon Campaign originated when Federal Agent Enrique Camarena was murdered by drug traffickers in 1985. Displaying a red ribbon became the symbol of citizen intolerance to the devastation of drugs. The National Federation of Parents for Drug Free Youth initiated the celebration of a Red Ribbon week in communities across the country and since then it has been recognized formally by many states.

The purpose, Brashear said, is to present a unified and visible commitment toward the creation of a drug-free Kentucky, and to encourage ongoing family and community participation in drug abuse prevention activities.

"Those wearing a red ribbon on Wednesday (Oct. 25) show the public that they chose to be drug free," Brashear explained, "and it symbolizes that there are many people who choose to be that way rather than high."

The Champions Against Drugs group sponsored a booth at the Jenny Wiley Festival and will also have one at the Red, White & Blue Day celebration. The stand will have printed information available and will have ribbons, buttons, posters and T-shirts to publicize the event.

According to Brashear, area high school students are quite active in this campaign, wearing red and displaying posters and ribbons throughout the school. Also, the Rotary Club of Prestonsburg will sponsor a banner to be displayed downtown.

Anyone interested in more information about the campaign or literature about drug awareness can contact Brashear at Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, 886-8572.

Like a Giant's Hand

A rail bridge in Garrett was battered by the flood water which hit Floyd County earlier this week. The bridge, in Baptist Bottom, had been under repair when waters struck, washing rail ties down stream.

Winter Already?

Unusually cold weather will chill the area for the next several days. Friday should be cloudy and cool, with a 70 percent chance of light rain or snow, and an expected high of 40 degrees.

Friday night will be cool, with precipitation ending, and a low in the mid-30s.

Saturday should gradually clear and warm up, with an expected high of 45 to 50.

The long term outlook shows a slow warming trend. Highs on Sunday should be 60 to 65 degrees, with lows in the lower 30s and a small chance of rain. By Tuesday, the temperatures should rise to the lower 70's. Lows Tuesday night will fall to the lower to mid-40s.

School Damages...

Floyd County schools sustained $126,724 in preliminary damage due to flooding earlier this week, according to Frankie Francis, director of buildings and grounds.

McDowell High School recorded $18,000 in lost textbooks, seats and other equipment, while McDowell Elementary saw $76,724 lost in similar equipment and supplies.

The Head Start class at Drift Elementary — the only class at the school — incurred $24,000 in losses, while Garrett Elementary had $8,000 in damage.

Francis said none of the four schools sustained structural damage.

The figures do not include labor and supplies for cleaning up after the Tuesday flood.

School continues to be out today, but may be back in session Monday, he said.

Forum Meeting...

The Floyd County Education Forum will hold a special meeting Monday, Oct. 23, at the Presbyterian Church in Prestonsburg to discuss plans for participation in the Nov. 1 accreditation hearing by the Kentucky Department of Education.

The hearing will be held in Floyd County.

The Forum agenda will also include a review of ideas to be presented to the legislative task force on educational reform. The public is invited to attend and participate in Monday's meeting.

Recycling...

There will be two recycling days in Floyd County this week — Thursday and Saturday.

On Thursday, Prestonsburg sanitation workers will pick up newspapers bundled by city residents for recycling. The pick up will be free of charge. Officials ask that newspapers be tied, put in paper bags or in boxes, but not placed in plastic bags. Also, they ask that only newspapers be put out for pick up.

On Saturday, Kentuckians for the Commonwealth and Mountain Christian Academy will sponsor another recycling day. Items can be taken between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. to the corner of US 23 and Lake Drive in Prestonsburg, or to Mountain Christian Academy. People may bring clean glass, plastic milk jugs, two-liter bottles without lids, aluminum cans and newspaper to the sites. All profits will be used to help continue recycling efforts. For more information, call 886-0043.

Regional Roundup

Marijuana Growing In Nat'l Forest Up

WASHINGTON — Daniel Boone National Forest in Eastern Kentucky accounted for almost 25 percent of the marijuana crop destroyed throughout the national forest system in 1988, according to a report issued Friday.

Two-thirds of the marijuana sites found and half the plants eradicated in 1988 were in the national forests of the South, said the report by the US Forest Service.

The report said Daniel Boone Forest was popular because of its nearness to urban markets in the east and the depressed local economy. (The Lexington Herald Leader)

Founder Of Independent Dies

MAGOFFIN COUNTY — Albert K. Moore, 94, publisher of The Salyersville Independent for more than 40 years, died suddenly Sunday, Oct. 8, at the Veterans Hospital in Lexington.

Moore had continued to write for newspapers in Kentucky, as well as in Florida. A WWI Army veteran, Moore was active in Kiwanis and the Christian Church. (The Salyersville Independent)

Perjury Indictment Returned

ASHLAND — A Pike County man, Jerry Roberts of Belfry, has been indicted by a federal grand jury in Ashland on charges of perjury.

According to Thomas L. Self, assistant US attorney, Roberts allegedly lied under oath in a sworn deposition on Oct. 24, 1986, in a civil case in US District Court for the Eastern District of Kentucky. The case concerned a dispute about whether an insurance premium had been paid.

Roberts is scheduled to appear before US District Judge Karl S. Forster on Oct. 19 for arraignment. If convicted, Roberts could be sentenced to up to five years in prison and fined up to $250,000.

Rain Causes Damage In The Millions

EASTERN KENTUCKY — Governor Wallace Wilkinson issued an executive order directing Disaster and Emergency Services to deliver available assistance to communities requesting help after flood damages. Several counties were damaged by severe flooding Monday night and Tuesday when the remnants of Hurricane Jerry dumped from 4 to 6 inches of rain on parts of southeastern Kentucky. Don Armstrong, the state emergency information officer, estimated that the area had sustained millions of dollars in damage. In parts of Clay, Leslie, Letcher and Pike counties, damage appeared to be worse than that caused by flooding in June, he said. (The Lexington Herald Leader)

Eastern Kentucky To Get Three New Plants

GRAYSON — Gov. Wallace Wilkinson announced Tuesday that three new plants that eventually will provide more than 1000 jobs in Eastern Kentucky are planned. Cook Family Food, a 120,000-square-foot ham processing plant that will employ 300 full time workers and about that many more temporary laborers during the peak periods will be located in Carter County. Mountain Top Baking, a plant that will make cookies and crackers, will initially employ 300 people and be located in Pike County. Mountain Textiles will also be in Pike County, and intends to employ 450 people over the next four years in a new T-shirt and clothing factory. (The Lexington Herald Leader)

Bad Times For Store Hollow

The water lay heavily across Store Hollow in Betsy Lane, trapping approximately 60 residents for several hours on Tuesday. The water returned Thursday, forcing some residents to walk up on the hillsides to bring in groceries.

For most people in the hollow, it was a normal inconvenience which follows heavy rain. The culvert at the bottom of the hollow is known to back up regularly, they say.

For Noah Newsome and Alan Duncan and their families, the flooding waters meant something far more serious.

"I've got my furnace, gas lines and water heater under seven feet of water in my basement," said Duncan. "My air conditioning unit next to my house had a foot of water around it. There's no heat in the house. I guess we're just lucky it didn't get any higher."

According to Newsome and Duncan, the problem lies in the culvert at the bottom of the hollow road, which is supposed to drain water out of the area. They believe the drainage is inadequate and have been attempting to have action taken to improve the situation.

"For eight years, I've tried to get the judge (John M. Stumbo) to fix the problem," says Newsome. "The state even offered to bring in the equipment and do the job if the county would cover the cost, since it's a county road. But nothing ever gets done."

Duncan, who is in the process of remodeling his house, is equally frustrated.

"Just a month ago we were flooded, and now it's happened again. Three weeks ago, they put thousands of dollars into blacktopping the road and they've already lost a big chunk of it to the flooding. Four thousand dollars worth of that could have widened the drainage and solved the problem. It really is a joke that we have all this trouble just because we need a new drain."

In an attempt to make the road passable through the slick mud after waters had receded, Duncan used a fire hose to clear the hollow road. Hours after clearing on Thursday, the road was once again covered with returning water.

Newsome, 68, who had to have his wheelchair-bound sister-in-law carried out over neighbors' lawns to a friend's home as flood waters increased, was despondent over the situation.

"I wish I didn't have a house with this kind of problem. I don't have the wind anymore to clean up after something like this."

A petition in Store Hollow is currently being circulated to develop support for drainage work to be done on the road.

Both Duncan and Newsome's basements contained five or more feet of water as of Thursday afternoon.

Under Water

Noah Newsome's basement at Store Hollow at Betsy Lane wallows in over five feet of water. Flooding caused by poor drainage in the area is a common occurrence, according to Newsome, who has sought state and county assistance to improve the current drainage system.

nile. He cited Osborne for contempt of court and ordered her to serve 48 hours in jail, beginning immediately.

Paxton made a motion to stay the sentence until she could file an appeal. Judge Carter denied the motion and instructed the bailiff to take Osborne to jail immediately.

According to Floyd County Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo, who is chair of the center's board of directors, the facility will cancel its contract with the Pike County Fiscal Court because of Carter's action.

"I'm very disturbed because our contract with them — and with 40 other counties — is that we will take their inmates if we have room," said Stumbo. "There wasn't room available. We had 11 boys and nowhere we could put the girl that she would have privacy."

Stumbo said Osborne probably did not comply with Corrections Department regulations by eventually accepting the juvenile and placing her in a solitary cell.

Delores Dings, vice chair of the detention center's board, said the Pike judge insisted on sending the juvenile to the center even though the boy's dorm was overflowing.

"He insisted that his court order superseded any of these rules," Dings said. "We don't pay this woman enough money to be put in jail every time a district judge gets upset," Dings added.

Dings said the center has to follow a number of regulations concerning juveniles, as mandated by the Corrections Cabinet.

"We have to go by them, or they can close us down."

As of presstime, Pike and Floyd officials were attempting to have the case moved from district to circuit court.

'Drug-Proofing' Means More Than 'Just Say No'

Parents concerned about protecting their children from drugs may need to do more than tell them "just say no!"

Children may know they should say no to drugs, but be unable to resist the temptations and pressures.

According to the new book, How To Drug-Proof Kids: A Parents' Guide to Early Prevention, by Jodi Freeman, children need to be "drug-proofed" by developing attitudes that make drugs unattractive. Children get involved with drugs for variety of predictable reasons, and parents can "immunize" their children against drugs with early training.

Freeman suggests helping children to develop the following skills:

Happiness Skills — With today's pressures, it can be difficult for children to feel good about themselves and have healthy fun. Helping them to have a good self-image, and teaching them how to resolve problems in constructive ways, prevent needing drugs to escape bad feelings. Playing with kids and finding ways to have wholesome fun provides them with alternatives to using drugs for amusement.

Thinking skills — Making good decisions often isn't easy for children.

When a friend says, "this stuff won't hurt you," kids have to decide if the friend might be wrong, and whether taking the drug is worth the risk.

Good thinking skills require getting accurate information. Children also need experience in using information to make good choices. Without the facts and good thinking skills, a child may find it easier just to say "okay."

Social skills — Kids can get involved with drugs simply because their friends are. Peer pressure to use drugs can be very strong, especially in schools, where young children get their first exposure to drugs.

Knowing assertiveness skills gives kids the ability to "say no" to their friends and helps relieve the pressure from drug-using friends. If kids know they can make other friends, they are less likely to be controlled by kids who may reject them if they don't use drugs.

How to Drug-Proof Kids: A Parents' Guide to Early Prevention, by Jodi Freeman (180 pages, $9.95), is available by through The Think Shop, Inc., P.O. Box 3754-M, Albuquerque, N.M. 87190-3754, or call 1-800-678-2471.

McDowell Parents To Meet October 24

More than 300 signatures have been obtained on a McDowell petition, asking that principals be given the authority to close schools during inclement weather.

According to Gary Compton, spokesman for a group of parents, a meeting will be held Tuesday, Oct. 24, at 7 p.m. at the McDowell First Baptist Church to discuss the flood situation at the school Tuesday. More than 700 students were temporarily stranded at the schools.

There will be taped footage of the incident, said Compton.

"This meeting is very important and could make such a difference that our children will never be confronted with this danger again," said the spokesman.

All petitions and signatures should be turned in at the meeting, he said. The petitions will be presented to the local and state school boards.

Martin Misses Worst Of Water

The town was lucky, says Herschel Lester, chief of police, and other residents of Martin.

Moving furniture and files back into City Hall Wednesday morning, Lester and local volunteers made quick work of returning city offices to normal.

"We cleared out the place about 2 a.m. as the water in the river was coming up," said Lester. "We took it all up to the firehouse on the hill. I'm glad it turned out that we didn't have to do it."

Some flood water did spill into Main Street in Martin, but buildings on the street were relatively untouched.

Philharmonic To Play For PC Centennial Oct. 21

The Lexington Philharmonic will play a special Centennial Concert in Pikeville College's Faith Chapel on Saturday, Oct. 21, at 8 p.m.

The concert is part of the week-long celebration of Pikeville College's Centennial, and is free and open to the public.

The program, under the direction of George Zack, will include favorite "pops" compositions, including selections from Man of La Mancha, Music Man and Funny Girl, as well as popular pieces by Tchaikovsky, Dvorak and Brahms.

"I am excited about coming to Pikeville College again," said Zack. "It is a terrific little college, and I always enjoy visiting."

Parking for the concert is available in the lower parking lot below the campus, as well as on the upper campus. Faith chapel is the Record Memorial Building.

Across the bridge, in the residential area of Martin along Beaver Creek, homeowners were less lucky. Water seeped into some basements and at least one family rented a U-Haul in case a rapid move became necessary.

To Delmer Thompson, who has lived next to Beaver Creek since 1948, and whose yard and porch steps were covered by water, the flooding was mild in comparison to past disasters.

"In '77, I had six feet of water under my house and it was a real mess. In '84, there was probably about four feet in that basement. There's some water in there now, but it's not like it's been before."

Thompson's garden didn't fare as well as his house.

"It flooded in June and I had to replant. Now it's under again, and the mustard patch and turnips are gone. It's not easy gardening around here, sometimes."

The Real Record

Ann Latta took Prestonsburg from a $200,000 debt to a $2 million balanced budget in her term.

Ann Latta got the highway department to install a new traffic light for safety at the West Prestonsburg/U.S. 23 intersection.

Ann Latta got the highway dept. to widen U.S. 23 to 4 lanes at the high school to eliminate a dangerous bottleneck.

Ann Latta and Councilman Bill Callihan, William O. Goebel III, Charles Hale and Mike Vance went to Frankfort in Oct. 1988 to ask for a red light on U.S. 23 between the Parkway and the High School. The state has promised to act on our request.

Ann Latta got a grant to build a Senior Citizens Recreation Area at Archer Park, and to replace the dangerous old walking bridge with a safe new one.

More than 60 new businesses have opened in Prestonsburg during Ann Latta's term—including eight downtown in '89.

The city-wide wage-earners payroll has increased by 39 per cent during Ann Latta's term.

Tourism spending in the Prestonsburg area increased by 64 per cent during Ann Latta's term, and this week she announced a new $2.5 million motel to be built next spring.

Ann Latta got grants to purchase a new fire truck (replacing a 20-year-old one) and to build a new regional fire training center in Prestonsburg (under construction).

Ann Latta instituted a Home Fleet plan for the Police Department, with a controlled maintenance and replacement plan, saving thousands of dollars and providing better police protection.

Ann Latta put in the first, fully-trained 24-hour, police and fire emergency dispatch unit.

Ann Latta got the garbage trucks out of Archer Park—and built a new City garage at Cliff.

Ann Latta walked every street in Prestonsburg to find out where street repairs were most needed—and then put in a four-year planned schedule for blacktopping. Nearly 4,000 tons put down in her term.

During Ann Latta's term, Prestonsburg has been named a Kentucky Certified City each year—the only 5-time Gold Award Winner in the Big Sandy Valley.

By Pam Shingler

My high school civics teacher, a tiny, tough lady who did not confine her teaching to the subject area, admonished her freshman charges to put away our nicknames. In her class, Jimmie was James, Kate was Katherine, Johnny, John. We were becoming adults, she said, and we must put away the vestiges of childhood.

At the age of 14, we bought it. And most of us appeared to grow up that year, more because Miss McClafferty expected we would than because she changed our names. We were of that era of young people who grew serious early, feigning perhaps the actual growing up. Many of us who came of age during that time took ourselves maybe too seriously and went a little crazy as we began to look like adults.

When I first met Dickie Campbell, I wondered if Miss McClafferty would have successfully changed his name. Would she have insisted he be called Richard and would the rest of us have accepted the change? I'm not sure. I just know that Dickie was Dickie.

He had a serious position and he took it seriously, as befits a Richard. But he didn't seem to take himself too seriously. He had the boyish sense of humor and easy going manner of someone rightly called Dickie. Although he was a dedicated lawman, there seemed to be an irreverence about him, as if he'd seen just about everything and that's all it meant.

I really didn't know Dickie Campbell very well, but I liked him. For a time, I reported to his office every Tuesday afternoon to get the police reports for The Times. At first, he didn't say much, but as time went on, he opened slightly, giving me a glimpse of his insight. He always made sure that the appropriate officer or officers were credited. He could have captured the spotlight himself; after all, he was the chief. But he always deferred to his officers, letting them claim the news mention. They, in turn, seemed not only to respect him, but also to care about him. And that means a lot in my book.

The most talkative I ever saw him was before the Martin High School reunion in the summer. He and a group of musicians practiced for months to play for the event. His eyes sparkled as he talked about the years he spent as a member of a popular regional band, years of little sleep, a lot of driving and apparently much joy.

Wednesday evening when a friend told me Dickie had had a heart attack, it didn't hit me that the attack was fatal. After all, he wasn't an old man. My first thoughts were that he might have surgery and then he'd get into a cardiac rehabilitation program and slowly heal. I thought of stopping to visit him at the hospital when he was ready for visitors.

Then the friend realized I hadn't understood and jolted me with the reality that Dickie had died. There would be no recuperation, no visiting.

Though I didn't know him as well as I would have liked, I feel the loss. He was a public servant who did his job well and was respected for it. He leaves a void. Dickie Campbell was what he appeared to be and I liked that. I think Miss McClafferty would have approved, even if he didn't change his name.

Letters to the Editor

Payment For War Veterans?

Dear Editor,
The United States Senate and Congress passed a law to pay Japanese prisoners in the United States during World War II $20,000 each. Prisoners were held for security reasons only during World War II. Most prisoners were safe in California where they were well fed, well clothed, and adequately housed.

Shame, shame, shame to our congressmen.

What about paying U.S. soldiers who were prisoners of war during World War II and the Korean and Vietnamese wars?

The U.S. prisoners of war during World War II were treated inhumanely by the Japanese, especially the prisoners of Corregidor and the Bataan Death March.

Shame, shame, shame to our congressmen.

All veterans should vote against all congressmen who voted for this bill. Were the Japanese prisoners more important than the U.S. prisoners of war who saved our country so we could be free?

Shame, shame, shame to our congressmen.
I was not a prisoner of war.
Truly Francis,
Garrett,
World War II Veteran

choice in a free and open election. Unfortunately, in Kentucky, that freedom has too often been jeopardized by fraud and corruption. For nearly two years now, there has been a strong effort by my office and others to fight election fraud. Nov. 7 provides an opportunity to see how the battle is progressing.

The election reform laws adopted last year have made a difference. Vote buying and selling are now serious felony crimes, and since the May 23 primary, investigations by my office have resulted in the indictment of 33 persons by local grand juries. On Nov. 7, the Attorney General's Office will again monitor polling places throughout the state and the Election Fraud Hotline (1-800-328-8683) will be available for citizens to report suspected vote fraud.

Like better schools, honest elections are critical to a brighter future for all Kentuckians. I urge you to exercise your right to vote on Nov. 7.

Money More Important Than Students?

Dear Editor,
During the recent flooding at the McDowell School causing the evacuation of 700 or more students, the situation was totally uncalled for. (Earl Ousley, Floyd school director of transportation) was quoted as saying on the 57 WYMT News that the situation did not call for the cancellation of schools that morning! Our superintendent, Ron Hager, and Mr. Ousley knew at 6:30 that morning that the waters were rising and the small creeks were overflowing. School should have been canceled and the children who arrived at the school should have been sent back home. But Mr. Hager told the school to keep the children as long as possible. Was his reason for the money?

They placed our children in a dangerous position. How did the parents feel when we saw the water, and knew our children were in those buildings? How did the parents feel when we had to wade the water up to our waists to reach our children? How did our children feel when they saw the water and had to wade or be carried on the parents back to reach safety?

We thought of their safety, but Ron Hager and Mr. Ousley didn't! What will it be this winter? What will they do when it snows or the ice on the road? Place our children in more danger? If Ed Patton were still the director of transportation, school would have been called off and our children would have been safe at home. We, the parents of McDowell school children, need to attend the next board meeting and stand up for our children! If we don't stand up for them and protect them, you can bet that Mr. Hager and Mr. Ousley won't!
Charles and Vickie Kendrick,
McDowell

McConnell's Comments

Sen. Mitch McConnell

THE HOMELESS AND HOUSING NOW

The national "Housing Now" march on Washington, D.C. Oct. 7 focused much-needed attention on the plight of the homeless and problems affecting availability of low-cost housing. The attention and momentum generated by this march was welcomed.

We cannot afford to waste any effort given the dimensions of the problem. We need look no further than our own front door to see that we have a problem. The Kentucky Coalition for the Homeless estimates that there are, at a minimum, 35,887 homeless persons in the Commonwealth of Kentucky—10,694 of which are children. And, as the work of the Kentucky Advisory Council on the Homeless demonstrates, rural homelessness may cloud the true dimensions of the problem in Kentucky.

I recently cosponsored bipartisan housing legislation, the National Affordable Housing Act, and will work with the bill's chief sponsors, Sen. Alan Cranston (D-CA) and Sen. Alfonse D'Amato (R-NY), to ensure that rural as well as urban homelessness problems are equitably addressed. The National Affordable Housing Act will provide the necessary means to attack the homelessness problem in new and innovative ways. However, only with the continued support of government at every level, together with private sector and charitable efforts, will we be able to provide for our nation's homeless.

Kentucky Harvest—now U.S.A. Harvest—provides a perfect example of how existing resources in the private sector can be redirected to fulfill pressing needs. This all-volunteer food-for-the-hungry program has collected and distributed more than 1.8 million pounds of food—saving the missions and social services agencies it serves more than $300,000 in food costs.

Other community-based housing rehabilitation programs are preserving our heritage while providing needed housing. I am also an original cosponsor of S. 980, legislation to permanently extend the low-income housing tax credit. In addition, I sponsored an affordable housing conference in Louisville earlier this year to bring together federal and state officials as well as community rehabilitation leaders to discuss means by which obstacles to rehabilitation might be eased.

As a nation, we must never neglect our responsibility to care for the less fortunate among us.

Federal grant money will be available for new sewage lines at Allen, it was announced this week, regardless of whether a new sewage treatment plant is built there. . . . The race for county judge-executive, county wide, and the hot competition for city officers in three of the county's five incorporated towns may bring out more votes than Brown and Nunn together. . . . "School at Home Branch is out until further notice," was the decision made at the office of the superintendent of schools Tuesday after another unsuccessful attempt was made Monday to hold classes. . . . Improvement of one of the most polluted streams in Floyd County as well as the cleanup and beautification of a mountain side long marred by slag heaps and garbage dumps was promised this week as the US Soil Conservation Service's first contract in northeast Kentucky for the Rural Abandoned Mine Program was presented to the David Community Development Corporation. . . . Walter Heine, director of the Office of Surface Mining, announced Monday that up to $10,000 will be spent to correct a longstanding situation at Drift which stems from a fire that has been burning in an abandoned underground coal mine. . . . There died: Luther Compton, 64, of Banner, Wednesday, Oct. 24, at Our Lady of the Way Hospital; Joe (Hoss) Turner, 82, of McDowell, of an apparent heart attack while hunting last Saturday near Mt. Olivet; Henry C. Holbrook, 72, of Prestonsburg, at Highlands Regional Medical Center; Roena Cox Stone, 92, Thursday at her home in Paintsville; James R. Spurlock Jr., 20, of Prestonsburg, last Friday at Good Samaritan Hospital, Lexington from a bullet wound to the head; Alafair Setser Boyd, 84, of Wyandotte, Mich., formerly of this county, Tuesday, Oct. 23, at Wyandotte General Hospital; Myrtle Moore, 69, Wednesday, Oct. 24, at the McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital; Iley B. Differences existing between two clinics operating at the McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital have been settled, and effective today (Thursday), outpatient clinic facilities there will be staffed by doctors from both the Daniel Boone and the Regional Medical Clinics. Under the new agreement each clinic will have its own administrator. . . . Woodrow Branham, founder of Branham Village on new US 23 here, and his son, Paul Ray, Saturday became owners of the town of David. Acquired by the Branhams are 57 buildings, a complete water system, the sewage disposal system, community swimming pool, service station and 837 acres of land. . . . Student unrest is spreading from college to high school campuses, Kentucky School Board Assoc. President F.C. Bryan warned Eastern Kentucky school officials. . . . There died: Paul Salyers, 42, Dwale.

Coal production in the Big Sandy Field, on a steady decline since the 1947 peak year, continues on its downward trend. The steel strike isn't helping matters any, as a large percentage of the area's coal, being of metallurgical quality, is consumed by the steel industry. Big Sandy production last year at this time was 9,368,000 tons. . . . A new product made from a residue material of mining operations was recently put on the market by the Hall Concrete Block Company of Allen. A conventional size building block, it is revolutionary in that it combines its lesser weight with strength superior to cinder and comparable to concrete blocks. The block, upon which the Hall firm has been experimenting for 10 years, has been given the trade name of Lite-wate, will be much cheaper than cinder or concrete. . . . There died: Fanny Hall, 65, of Amba, at the home of a daughter; Lovealla Reed, 80, Auxier, at the home of a daughter; Velma Combs Young, 18, of Softshell, at Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn.; Robert Lee Conley, 36, Lackey, at Dexter, Mich.

Forty Years Ago

(November 3, 1949)

Hopes for a return to work in the nation's soft coal mines rose this week. The first break in the steel strike, the signing of a contract between the CIO and Bethlehem Steel Corp., has been viewed also as a chink in the armor of coal. . . . The passenger trains which began traveling the Beaver Creek section of this county 35 years ago made their last runs Monday, and two of the trains of the Big Sandy division which first ran past Prestonsburg in 1904 ceased operation at the same time. Regular mail bus service is planned, but full mobile service is a matter yet to materialize. . . . A preliminary agreement was reached Tuesday between the Floyd and Prestonsburg boards of education which may result in the construction of a school building here to accommodate not only the overflow of high school pupils but also take care of increased attendance for years to come. . . . An average of 300 a day received free lunches last month at the four school lunchrooms of this county, a survey shows. . . . The United Fuel Gas Company, serving 11 towns in Eastern Kentucky, including Laynesville in this county, has petitioned for a $262,000 rate increase. . . . There died: Troy Isaacs, 41, formerly of Bevinville, at the Boehue Hospital, Evansville, Ind.; Richard L. Hall, 45, Betsy Layne, at Pikeville Hospital; Marion J. Mayo, 79, former Floyd Countyman, at his home in St. Louis, Md. Dr. Mayo left this county in early manhood to join his brother, the late W.L. A call for additional nursing service to meet the emergency created by the infantile paralysis epidemic in Floyd County was made upon the State Board of Health this week by Dr. Marvin Ransdell, director of the Floyd County Health Department. . . . An estimated 7,000 persons during the last Friday and Saturday visited the Floyd County Fair and viewed livestock and exhibits representative of every phase of agriculture. . . . People, Public Opinion & Prestonsburg Healthcare A Concern For Floyd Countians

by T. Mark Miller
PCC Sociologist

A major concern in America today is health and medicine. Consistently, we rank good health as one of the most important factors in our quality of life. There is a general perception that medicine has made great advances in saving lives. Over the past century, life expectancy has increased from approximately 45 years to about 75 years. One might conclude that people are living much longer, but much of this increase seems to have come from reduced infant mortality, rather than increased lifelong health. Today, the primary killer is cardiovascular disease, followed by malignancies, accidents, pneumonia, diabetes and cirrhosis of the liver. Most of the big killers tend to be chronic diseases, rather than infectious ones; AIDS is the exception. This new infectious disease has no cure. Since health is so important, we polled Floyd Countians on their perceptions about health services in this area. We first asked those surveyed if they have ever been in a local hospital. Sixty-five percent had, 35 percent had not. Of those who had been in a local hospital, we asked how many thought they had received quality care. Eighty-nine percent said they had, while 11 percent said they did not.

We also asked how many past patients believed local hospitals were adequately equipped. Forty-three percent believed they did have adequate equipment while the majority (57 percent) did not.

Next, we asked Floyd Countians to rate medical providers and medical care in the area. On a grade scale of A to F, 21 percent rated area doctors with an A, 25 percent received a B, 27 percent received a C, and only 2 percent gave doctors a D. The average rating was slightly below C+.

29 percent of Floyd Countians rated local nurses with an A, 42 percent gave them a B, 27 percent rated them a C and 2 percent gave them a D. Nurses in the area were given a strong B average. Most citizens graded cost of service quite poorly: 4 percent gave costs an A, 12 percent a B, 33 percent a C, 27 percent a D, and 24 percent gave costs an F. The average grade for cost of service is a D.

Next, we asked about mental health concerns. In our survey, 42 percent of area residents have dealt with local mental health professionals in some way, while 58 percent had not. We then asked, "Do you think there are enough mental health facilities to meet the needs of this area?" Twenty-six percent said there were, 56 percent said there were not, and 18 percent did not know. When asked about facilities for helping with substance abuse, 12 percent thought there were enough facilities, 78 percent believed the county lacked adequate substance abuse facilities, and 10 percent did not know.

In Floyd County, as in all of America, people are concerned about health. Both physical as well as mental health are important factors in our quality of life. People are also very concerned about the cost of good health. The total health bill in America for this year will be close to $500 billion. Today, even with health insurance the cost of health care is a burden.

council that she die at the stake. He explained that he had protested, but that he was impotent to help her. She was not shocked, for death, even by fire, was preferable to her captivity; she went with them to the plateau without the exercise of force. Tied to a tree, she faced her coming ordeal with stoic calm, determined to give her tormentors no pleasure in her death. Preparations went ahead for her torture, and the Indians milled about. All this time the old Cherokee chief, who towered above his fellow savages anyway, watched her behavior intently. Coming forward, he began to talk to the others. Mrs. Wiley, who had learned the Indian language, heard of a new horror. She was listening to the old Cherokee chief ask for her life that he might purchase her from the Shawnee and take her to the Little Tennessee as one of his many wives.

Her undaunted composure in the face of a most horrible death had so impressed the savages that they soon consented to her release. Her thongs were untied and, escorted by the Cherokee chief and Black Wolf, they retired to the cave from which she had been taken. The Cherokee produced from cloth bags an infinite variety and number of trinkets, some valuable pieces of jewelry, others mere baubles that he had accumulated by years of border plundering. Slowly, they bargained, weighing the value of her possession against the pilfered brooches and rings. When Black Wolf assented that he was satisfied, they arose and left the cave, neither deigning to look at the captive woman.

Morning came, and she had not seen the Indians again, but a little while after daybreak the old Cherokee came to the cave, pulled her outside to a tree. The dried deer thongs with which he tied her caused great discomfort. He enjoined her, upon pain of death, not to attempt escape. They were going upon a hunt, he explained, and would return some time that day, after which when it was convenient for him, they would journey to the Cherokee towns on the Little Tennessee River. There she could teach his other wives the white woman's art of making shirts and other clothing.

Scowling, for he was ever fierce and irascible, he went away, followed by the little dog which belonged to her and which had followed her into captivity. The sun did not stay up long, and soon over Little Mud Lick hung dark clouds that heralded rain, and soon, it began to fall. It was such a day six months before in Ab's Valley that she had been captured.

Escape. This was her thought. But how? She knew not except in a general way her location in the vastness of the western forests, and here she was, tied to a tree by a savage captor that knew nothing of mercy and compassion. In her hopelessness, she leaned against the tree. The rain, now following heavily, had drenched her completely, and the late winter was yet cold. She attempted some sort of movement so as to restore the circulation to her limbs when she felt a thong loosen. Slowly she worked against the thongs and the dampened knots loosened. After awhile, she found herself free, and without thought of direction, she plunged into the woods. Wednesday: The conclusion.

Health, Water Precautions

Floyd Countians who have come into contact with flood water or mud should get a tetanus shot if they have not had one in the past five years, according to Earl Compton, administrator of the Floyd County Health Department.

Compton said about 130 tetanus shots were administered at Hi Hat and Hueysville earlier this week; shots will be available, free of charge, in McDowell and Garrett beginning at 10 a.m. today.

Shots will be given at the McDowell school campus, and in Garrett, at the Conley-Kentucky Food Store. Shots are also available at the health department in Prestonsburg.

Children under 18 should be accompanied by a parent or guardian.

Compton also said residents with well water should use chlorine bleach to disinfect the water before it is used. He said those with private wells should clean homes, sidewalks or other areas using as much water in the well as possible. After doing that, he said, they should take a half a gallon of chlorine bleach and mix it in a 10-quart container with water out of the faucet, and stir it well.

The mixture should be poured in the breather pipe of a drilled well and allowed to set overnight. For hand-dug wells, the mixture should be poured over the stone walls and into the well, and also allowed to set overnight.

Although the water will smell of chlorine bleach the next day, he said, it should be safe to drink. Anyone who has drunk water from a contaminated well should have a tetanus shot if they have not had one since 1984, he added.

Water from city systems should be safe, Compton said.

with a $10 entry fee. Owners have the option to display their vehicles in the parade.

Hutchinson assured a "special" flag raising ceremony this year. He said that the Vietnam Veterans and the DAV Chapter #128 will be in charge of the ceremony with a 21-gun salute and the playing of "Taps" to mark the event at 11 a.m. The theme of this year's festival is "20 Years of Patriotism" and honors the Vietnam veterans. Both of the parade marshals are veterans of that era — Paul Hunt Thompson and Troy Branham. A large Vietnam display sponsored by veterans will be on Main Street of Martine.

The parade, featuring bands, twirlers, floats and all sorts of beauty queens (including Miss Red, White & Blue) will begin at 2 p.m.

Throughout the day, arts and crafts booths and concession stands will be operated throughout the downtown area. The Wayland Senior Citizens Center is sponsoring a booth filled with homemade quilts, pillows, fans, Christmas logs and much more.

Games will include a shooting gallery.

A special event this year is a lumber jack contest and exhibition, beginning at 4:30 p.m. It features such events as chainsaw cutting, cross cuts, chopping, ax swinging and more. A hot saw exhibition will also be performed. There is no entrance fee and the contest is open to the public.

A fireworks display is scheduled to begin at dark, and the best place for viewing it is on new Route 80 at the end of the bridge, according to Johnnie Stephens, city clerk.

Blackcats Face Tough Road Game At Pikeville

by Ed Taylor,
Sports Editor

When you want to gain momentum, especially if you are involved in a District 2 playoff race, you want to play someone who doesn't offer the competition that some other team might—anybody, except the defending state champions, would do.

That will not be the case for Coach Bill Letton's Prestonsburg Blackcats, as the local squad will invade the "Panther's Lair" in Pikeville tonight.

Prestonsburg is coming off a week's layoff and is looking to get ready against Pikeville for their last two important district games. The Blackcats have yet to face district foes

M.C. Napier and Morgan County.

The outcome of the Pikeville game, except to the players, may mean little. But how they perform and the momentum they can muster means a lot.

The Blackcats have lost their last four games and need to turn that around tonight with a good performance against last year's Class A state champions.

Prestonsburg has played a tough schedule all year; things will not get any easier for them tonight or in the two remaining games. The Blackcats dropped a game to Leslie County, a game they were supposed to win, and fell into a three-way tie for the District 2 top spot. Morgan County is one of those teams with a 3-1 record, but is 4-5 overall. The Blackcats, along with Leslie County, have only one loss.

Tonight's game is a non-district match up. Everybody likes to beat a defending state champion — even Prestonsburg. Defense has been the problem for the Blackcats since the Danville game.

Pikeville, whose only loss was to Belfry, has had an easy time with other opponents, scoring big in each game. Last Thursday night the Panthers met stubborn Paintsville Tiger team, but won over Coach Walter Brugh's squad 12-0. However, Paintsville's defense was tough.

Prestonsburg played Paintsville tough on defense at home on Sept. 15, losing to the Tigers 14-6. Again, the second half did the Blackcats in they dropped a 6-0 intermission lead.

Coach Letton's chargers should be up for a good game. They've had a week to regroup, and they know what awaits them the next two weeks. Many people are predicting a Panther victory. Maybeso, but if the 'Cats can make a good showing tonight, it may be just what they need going into their last two District 2 games. Game time is 8 p.m.

Bobcats Look To Play Spoiler's Role Against M.C. Napier Tonight

by Ed Taylor,
Sports Editor

They won't have a shot at the District 2 title, but the Betsy Layne Bobcats are looking to play the spoiler's role for the remainder of the season. Tonight, Coach Gerald Newsome's squad will travel to M.C. Napier in its final district match of the '89 season.

Both teams are coming off defeats last week. Betsy Layne lost at Morgan County 36-6 and M.C. Napier fell to Leslie County 33-12. Fans looking to gauge tonight's game might remember that three weeks ago, Betsy Layne defeated Leslie County 24-14. Newsome says he doesn't know a lot about M.C. Napier's squad.

"We tried to get films on them, but were unable to," he said. "Seems like people are always asking us for films, but we can't get any."

"We do know they are a quick team and are cagey," the Bobcat coach stated.

Newsome says his team played well in all its games with the exception of Prestonsburg and Whitesburg. The Bobcat defense has been a pleasant surprise for the coaching staff this year. The 'Cats have speed and power in the backfield to move the ball, and quarterback Craig Hunter has shown he can throw the football for yardage. Chris Bias and Morris Adkins add to the power, while the speed of Larry Hall can get the Bobcats the long yardage they may need.

The Bobcats have a home game against Lawrence County remaining and will close out the season with a road game at Pikeville. Wins over Napier and Lawrence County could give the Bobcats a 5-6 record for the season if they fall at Pikeville.

Game time tonight at Napier is 8 p.m.

Trojan-Rebel Contest Set Saturday Afternoon At ACHS

by Ed Taylor,
Sports Editor

The Wheelwright Trojans and Allen Central Rebels match up should have been game number 11 for both teams instead of game number 10.

What better way to end the season than with a game like this, one as the two teams meet at the Don Daniels Athletic Complex tomorrow afternoon in what is scheduled as homecoming for the Rebels. This will be a big game for both, but from different points of view.

Wheelwright will be looking for its first win of the season, as well as a first district victory. The Rebels, having won two games, will want at least one district win. That will make this a big inter-county game.

Interestingly, this is only the second contest between two county schools this season. (Prestonsburg played Betsy Layne earlier in the year.)

The offensive and defensive lines have been a problem for the Trojans all season because of injuries to key personnel. There is not a coach in the region who isn't familiar with the explosive capability of the Wheelwright backfield. Senior Chad Hall and junior Mike Justice are the power runners for the Trojans. The speed of a Bobby Hood and a Steven Jackson is good for long yardage.

Allen Central, on the other hand, has the personnel on the front lines in Brian Wallen and Brian Meadows. The problem for the Rebels has been lack of depth in the backfield. Only junior Tommy Gibson has been consistent coming out of the Rebels backfield. Quarterback B. J. Aldrich is starting to find his receivers and is passing for some TDs of late, hitting Terry Spurlock and Bret Meadows. Turnovers have plagued the Rebels this season as well, especially when the Rebels are about to strike pay dirt. John Slone being out for the remainder of the season will be a minus for Allen Central.

Rebel coach Donnie Daniels is a former graduate of the Wheelwright High School and played football as well as basketball there. This may add a little luster to the game. Both coaches are close friends and are likely to remain that way, no matter who wins. No matter what the records of each team are, this will be a good one to watch.

The victory will go to the team that wants the game bad enough to play hard and take care of the football.

Game time is 3:30 p.m. at Allen Central.

It's Been A Rough Year For Archer Park

by Ed Taylor,
Sports Editor

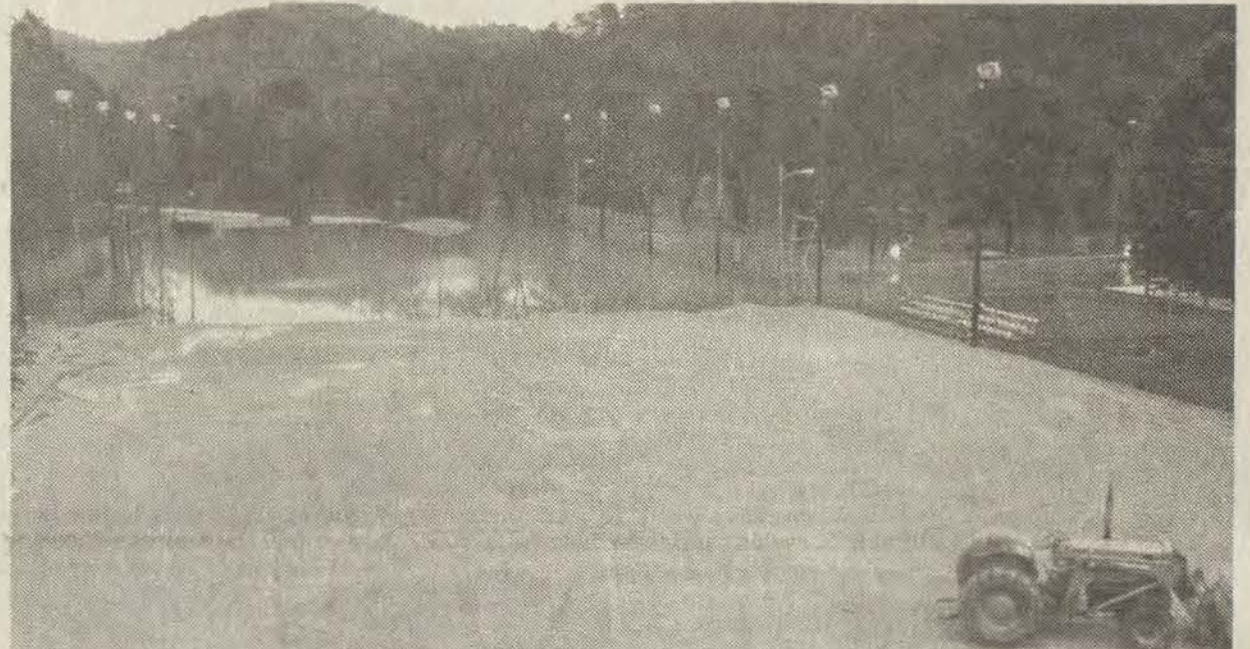

This has been a rough year for activities at Archer Park.

For the sixth time in 1989, flood waters have covered the city park. Work to rebuild tennis courts has been underway, but may not be the high water may mean it can't be completed this season, says Ralph Little, park director.

"Hopefully the water hasn't done a lot to it," Little commented. "If the weather turns bad, chances are we will not be able to finish the courts this year."

"Naturally we are going to have mud when the waters do go down, and I know we are going to have some fences down. The waters will go down and then come back up. We seem to be at a standstill as far as the water going down," Little added.

Not affected by the high waters were the swimming pool and skating rink located at the park, nor the senior citizens center, according to the director.

Receding Waters

Flood waters that once covered the spot where the new tennis courts are being built began to recede, as shown in the above photo. According to Archer Park director Ralph Little, the waters have been slow in going down. The water and a threat of cold weather could delay completion of the new courts this season.

Splash Dunk Contest, Anyone?

This basketball goal at Archer Park indicates how deep water at the city recreational complex was as of Thursday. Games at the park, much like the elementary school contests around the county, are canceled.

College Outlook

It's the eighth weekend of college football, and that means the season is already more than half over. Let's look at some of the upcoming games on tab for tomorrow afternoon.

Down South:

Tennessee at Alabama

The Volunteers and Crimson Tide are both undefeated in the SEC with a total of five league wins and no losses between them. Tennessee had big wins over Auburn and Georgia, leaving the Vols with LSU as the only real hurdle after Alabama. Whoops, don't forget Kentucky! The Tide must still face both LSU and Auburn.

In the East:

N.C. State at Clemson

A win for N.C. State over Clemson could make the Wolfpack-Virginia contest on Nov. 4 the Atlantic Coast title game. However, N.C. State still has to play pesky Duke in Durham. This will be a close one.

Out West:

Southern Cal at Notre Dame

Last year, Notre Dame beat Southern Cal 27-10. It was the sixth straight win for the Irish over the Trojans, who last won in 1982. This will be the 61st meeting between the two football powers. This game will be the first of four straight home appearances for the Irish.

Closer To Home:

LSU At Kentucky

Wildcat coach Jerry Claiborne says that his 'Cats are going to get serious inside the 10 yard line if they are to handle the Bayou Tigers of LSU. The Tigers will come into Commonwealth Stadium with a 1-4 record as losers of four straight games — most recently a 10-6 heartbreaker at Auburn.

Kentucky had a "not so impressive" win over Rutgers last Saturday, 33-26. A Wildcat win here could be a big confidence booster for the 'Cats going into next week's game with Georgia.

Around The Corner:

Tenn. Tech at Western Ky.

Western Kentucky will be looking. See COLLEGE OUTLOOK, Page 7

Elementary Cheerleaders Keep The Crowds Enthused

by Ed Taylor,
Sports Editor

Years ago a high school basketball team was fortunate to have three members on its cheerleading squad.

Then, along came as many as 12 members on one high school pep group.

Today the grade schools have as many as 10 members on a squad. The grade system is a good place for the cheerleaders to learn the gymnastics that allow them to compete when they reach high school. Each group is sponsored by a former cheerleader; the sponsors are dedicated to helping the young ladies become experts in the field.

These younger girls are not content with just doing the basic routines, but also do those high — and sometimes dangerous — mounts.

Summer camps are a big part of cheerleading. Camps at UK, Morehead, Western, Eastern and other colleges offer summer camps that help the girls learn new routines and gymnastics.

Hours of after-school practices are required of each sponsor in order to fine tune routines before the games.

The next time you are at the game, watch the cheerleaders perform their routines. Remember the hard work they have put into learning the art of being a cheerleader — the ones who keep the crowds enthused.

No longer is there a two-way tie for first place; it's a three-way tie, as Sports Editor Ed Taylor ties Editor Anne Chaney and Darkroom Tech Mike Burke for the number one position. It will be a battle to see who claims the top position. Publisher Marty Backus says "don't get over confident," his slump will end. Tess Whitmer has made it — out of the basement.

for a first this season — back-to-back wins. It's been a new season every week for Hilltopper's first year coach Jack Harbaugh and his squad. A win, then a loss, then a win, then a loss etc. This weekend the Hilltoppers hope to put together consecutive wins with a victory over Tennessee Tech. The Golden Eagles are 3-2 on the season after a disappointing 1-10 season last year. The Golden Eagles took powerful Eastern Kentucky to the wire last Saturday before losing on a fumble, 21-20. Western is 4-3 and looks to find some consistency. The Hilltoppers surprised fourth rank Southwest Missouri last Saturday, 42-33.

In The Backyard:

Marshall at Eastern Ky.

Surviving a 21-20 scare at Tennessee Tech last Saturday, Coach Roy Kidd's Eastern Kentucky University Colonels, 6-0, host 13th ranked Marshall University, 4-2, Saturday evening at Hanger Field at 7:30 p.m. Marshall comes into the game fresh from a very impressive 40-17 whipping of previously seventh-ranked Citadel team. Eastern Kentucky is currently ranked number one. This is the fifth straight week Eastern has been ranked number one in the nation.

Just For Fun:

Chicago at Cleveland

Ann R. Latta
 Mayor
 City of Prestonsburg

In each year of Ann Latta's term as Mayor, Prestonsburg has been named a Kentucky Certified City, meaning it has met standards of excellence in city planning and administration, housing, youth and senior citizen activities, economic development, parks, recreation, city services, beautification and cultural activities.

LET'S KEEP PRESTONSBURG MOVING IN THE

MAYOR ANN LATTA, TELL THE (TRUTH)

- (1) Certified City—each year of your administration, Latta, resulted in a city tax raise.
- (2) Housing—Mayor Latta, are you taking credit for the housing projects that were already here before you became mayor?
- (3) Youth Center—Not here yet—but wasn't there also 8 other Councilman involved in this project, one including your opponent (Paul Joseph)?
- (4) Senior Citizens Activities—we had them long before you became Mayor, and I recall back in 1973 (Paul Joseph), your opponent was our Councilman that fought hard for the Senior Citizens needs.
- (5) Economic Development—Where and why have over 30 businesses closed-out here.
- (6) Parks—Our city has one main park, which is the Archer Park that the late Mayor George P. Archer had built for our city, and two other mini parks built by past Mayors Harold Cooley & William Goble and which your opponent was part in one.
- (7) Revitalization—Where? In your dreams or on the street you live on?
- (8) City Services—We had police & firefighters, along with garbage trucks, long before you became Mayor, and wasn't it (Paul Joseph) who gave West Prestonsburg its first paved sidewalks and passed a vote to buy & build the Municiple building where your office is at now.
- (9) Culture—are you talking about the 4 to 4 tie vote that you broke to legalize Liquor by the drink?

WHAT YOU HAVE DONE TO AND FOR OUR CITY

I agree with you on one thing, we need to get Prestonsburg moving in the right direction. But Mayor Latta you couldn't do it in 4 years; what makes you think that you can in 4 more years?

We need Paul Joseph to be our next mayor. A man who cares about us.

Citizens, my name is Frankie Conn, and as you see I am a disabled Senior Citizen. But my mind is not disabled. Don't be fooled with what our current mayor says she has done. It was Paul Joseph back in 1973 that put handrails in for the elderly, and provided us programs and activities to have. Go out and vote for a man who cares.

Elect Paul Joseph

Water Hampers Floyd Countians

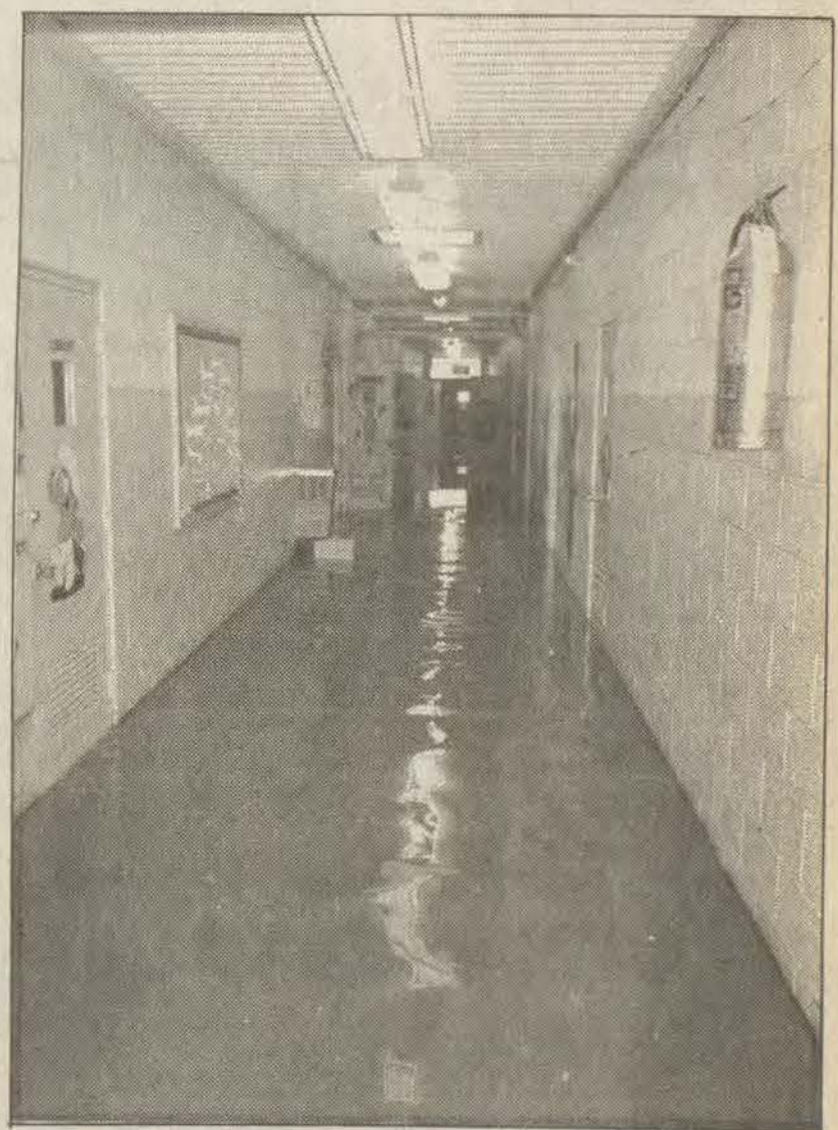

Damp Predicament

Either this horse (above) didn't have enough sense to get out of the rain or he had no where to go. The high water situation faced many people in the southern portion of Floyd County Tuesday, who likewise had no place to go. Bertha Click (right) seems to be fairly resigned to her lawn flooding every time it rains. "This happens all the time, the water just runs right off the road into my yard," she said. "But I don't get it as bad as other places in Maytown, so I guess I'm pretty lucky."

Uncharted Waters

This house at Glo, above, and the flooded hallway in McDowell Elementary, right, provide a sad example of the destructive power of Tuesday's flooding around the county. Current damage estimates to roads and water lines in the county stand at $450,000, according to Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo. The county has asked the governor's office to declare the county a disaster area. Pike, Clay, and Letcher counties have already received this status. Cleanup activities are continuing in McDowell, Garrett and Drift schools, where damages are estimated to be $126,724. Damage estimates to private homes and property have not yet been assessed.

Floyd County Families: Our Heritage

(Part 8)

Samuel Meade (3-#9), born 1776 in Bedford County, Va., died in Floyd County, ca. 1828. He married Catherine "Katy" Goodbread, born ca. 1767, daughter of Phillip and Catherine Goodbread, in Bedford County, ca. 1789.

There are several versions of Katy's last name: Goodbard, Goodbread, Goodbrodt and Goodbeard. I have obtained a book from Mrs. Rudelle M. Davis, PO Box 13388, El Paso, Texas, that she published in 1988 that is the history of the Goodbread family, confirmed back to Germany. Gutbrodt-Goodbread Family, origin southwest Germany.

First family in America: Ludwick Gutbrodt; wife Christina Barbara, and son George arrived on ship "Samuel" on Aug. 16, 1731, at Philadelphia.

Jan. 22, 1736: Ludwick Gutbrodt, 200 acres, Lancaster County, Pa., and on Feb. 3, 1738, 50 acres, Chester County, Pa.

On May 27, 1747, baptized at Augustus Lutheran Church, Trappe, Pa., by Rev. Henry Melchio Muhlenberg: Sarah, 3; Anna Eliz., 6; Maria Magdalend, 7, the daughters of Ludwick Gutbrodt and his wife, Christina Barbara.

On March 21, 1770, he filed his will at York Township, York County, Pa., and on March 27, 1776, a will in the name of Ludwick Goodbread is probated, naming only his wife and son Phillip. Known children of Ludwick and Barbara Gutbrodt (children go by Goodbread hereafter): Phillip Goodbread, a Revolutionary War soldier, served as Sgt. in Capt. Robert Porter's Co. "C", Tryon County, N.C. troops, lived in Rutherford County, N.C.

Phillip Goodbread's known children: John, Phillip Jr., Thomas, Jane, Mary, Sarah, Rachel, and Catherine Goodbread.

The book is very much in detail about the children and grandchildren of Ludwick, but unless there is someone who has reason or interest in this family, I will go no deeper into it. I will send a copy to anyone wanting it.

Known children of Samuel and Katy Meade: Samuel Meade Jr. (#14), born ca. 1794, married Fanny Akers on Aug. 5, 1813; Robert "Big Bob" Mead, born 1796, died 1869, married Susan Clark; Thomas Meade (#16), born 1803, married Mary Polly Hall in Pike County on March 28, 1822; Rhodes "Big Rhodes" Meade (#17), born 1800, married Sally Richardson;

Priscilla Meade (#18), born ca. 1810, married Eli (Sturgill) Sturgeon on May 4, 1826; Elizabeth Meade (#19), born 1802, died 1870, married John Baldrige on Sept. 24, 1818; Keziah Meade (#20), born 1805, married Thomas Blackburn Akers, son of Valentine and Francis Baskett Akers, on April 12, 1823 in Pike County; Isabell "Toby" Meade (#21), born 1806, married Joseph Sallings, March 11, 1832 in Scott County, Va.; Kate Meade (#22), born 1804, married Elijah Canada in Pike County on April 24, 1828.

It is believed that Samuel, who died in 1828, is buried on Mud Creek. There is no record of Katy, that I can find, that tells anything of her after she and heirs of Samuel sell the land referred to in the deed described below.

In a deed dated May 9, 1829, Robert Mead bought 40 acres located on the Main Fork of Mud Creek, Floyd County, signed by the following persons: Catey Mead Senr., Samuel Mead, Rhodes Mead, Catey Canady, John Baldrige, Ely Sturgeon, Blackburn Akers and Thomas Mead, of Floyd County, party of the one part, and Robert Mead of the county and state aforesaid, of the other part.

This is undoubtedly the estate of Samuel Mead Sr. (#9), because these are his children or spouses of his children, except Isabell "Toby", who married Joseph Sallings. I cannot find her in any records available to me. My reasoning for this is the fact that it refers to "Catey Mead Senr. (representing her share of the estate, Samuel Mead (no longer Samuel Jr.), Rhodes Mead, etc." All apparent heirs are represented. The Robert Mead that is the purchaser is Robert "Big Bob" Mead (#15) that married Susan Clark.

In the Pike County Historical Society Papers Number Five, Dated 1983, Page 21, I find the 1810 Floyd County census with the information that Samuel was the owner of 11 slaves.

In the 1810 and 1820 Floyd census he and Katy are shown. Also Samuel Jr. (#14) that married Fannie Acres "Akers" is shown as head of household, but in the 1830 Floyd census it shows Fannie Meade as head of household with two females as the occupants and no males. I have found a Fannie Meade that married a Garret Lowe of Lawrence County in 1838. Could this be the same Fannie Meade? I cannot find either of the Samuels in any census or any definite reference made about them in any manner after the 1820 census, except the following fiscal records taken from Charles C. Wells' book.

The first fiscal record of Samuel Meade Sr. that has any reference to his residence in Kentucky is the May term of Court, Floyd County, 1810. It states: On the motion of John Hunt, ordered that Cornelius Eastopp, Wm. Branham, Thomas Owne, and Daniel Owen, mark the road from Owen to the gap of Robinson through by Samuel Mead's.

Second reference is May 29, 1810: Ordered on the motion of James Brown, that the commission of Richard Damron be stricken and that Tandy Stratton be commissioned in Samuel Mead's Company.

Third reference: Tuesday, May 23, 1815, Samuel Meade Sr., Jacob McBrayer, Micah Collier and Sherard Osburn ordered to mark the best way for a road from William Newlands to Brooker Mullins prop.

Fourth reference: June 10, 1820, Indenture from Daniel Owens to Samuel Meade in the amount of $200 for a 20 acre tract on Mud Creek, Floyd County, Ky.

Fifth reference: Bond dated 27 Nov. 1820, by Levi Collier and Samuel

FINAL TRIBUTE TO MAY K. ROBERTS

Much has been said and written in praise of May K. Roberts, who recently made that great transition to a better world. I would like to add this final tribute:

It has often been said by persons who knew her best "As far as people were concerned, May K. 'saw no lines,' but treated them all the same." Intelligent person that she was, I think she saw lines drawn, but was aware that in God's sight people are equal and the Christian that she was, she treated all people accordingly. That, in my opinion, accounts in part for the multitudes of people who paid their final respects to her.

Among the relatives and friends from a distance who called at Carter Funeral Home and who attended services for May K. at the First United Methodist Church were her daughter, Kaye Roberts Baird with her husband Atty. William J. Baird III and their three daughters, Virginia Kirk, Elizabeth Anne and Sara Roberts Baird of Pikeville; her daughter, Judy Roberts Wade with her husband John Wade and their son Mark Wade of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Also from Pikeville: Naomi Ladson, Jack and Eloise May, Paul and Linda Jones, Nancy Jo Hays, Justice Hays, Patrick and Mark Justice, Brian and Emily Jones, Carl and Maude Hatcher, Harold and Jean Shockey, Sandy and Bill Ramsey, Ruth R. ADULT GROUP NAMED THE LAMPLIGHTERS

The newly organized group of adults of the First Baptist Church held its weekly meeting Tuesday, Oct. 17, at 3:45 p.m. in the fellowship hall there.

Prior to the meeting, pamphlets entitled "Miracle Day" were prepared by the group for mailing by the church.

(Miracle Day will be held on Sunday, Oct. 29, there. Goals for this day are: To have an all-time high attendance during church services and Sunday school with a projected offering of $6,500, and the understanding that all over and above the church's budget needs go toward starting new missions in this area. The goal also includes 15 new additions of members to this church. Breakfast will be served from 8:30 a.m. to 9:15 a.m. at the church. The Rev. Steve Hopkins, pastor, says to the members and to the public "Come and be a part of God's miracles.")

Back to Tuesday's meeting: Patsy Evans presided and, accompanied by Gay Herrin on the piano, led the singing of hymns.

A name for the group was discussed and the title "The Lamplighters," submitted by Frankie Best, was unanimously chosen. It was announced that the picture drawn by Best at a recent meeting had been placed in one of the Sunday school rooms.

A period of fellowship was enjoyed by Patsy Evans, Gay Herrin, Ora Bussey, Docia Woods, Maman Leslie, Vivian Fraley, Myrtle Allen, Edna Saunders, Delmas Saunders, Dolly Pettrey, Bill Pettrey, Ada Meade, Rebecca Rasnick, Lucy Regan, Dixie Webb, Ruby Lamping, Roberta Sloan, Judy Hooker and Jean Smith.

The next meeting will be Tuesday, Oct. 24, at 3:45 p.m. at the church and it is stressed that a welcome is extended to attend this and other meetings. Delmas Saunders dismissed the group with prayer.

TV PIPELINE

Cher made her movie debut with Sonny in late '60s

By Polly Vonetes
Q: I think Cher is a great actress. Could you tell me what movie she first starred in, and where I can write her? —Marnie Stitzer, Atascadero, Calif.
A: Back in 1967, when Sonny and Cher were a singing duo they made a happy little film called Good Times. Her next film was in 1982, Come Back to the Five and Dime, Jimmy Dean, Jimmy Dean. Write to her c/o International Creative Management, 40 N. 57th St., New York, N.Y. 10019.

Cher

Q: Please settle a dispute. I say that Gone With the Wind, the original in 1939, was in black and white he says it was in color. Please tell us who's right, me or him? —Jason Trivilino, Ortonville, Mich.

A: Looks like "him" is right. At the time of its release in 1939 Gone With the Wind was hailed as a great advancement in the development of Technicolor. The widescreen version produced in the late '60s ruined its composition and color, but fortunately in preparation for the film's 50th anniversary, the Turner Entertainment Company outdid itself in restoring the film to its original color.

Q: My question is about a WWF wrestler, his name is Paul O'Rendarf. What has happened to him? I have heard he was dead. —Helen Winecoff, Riverside, Calif.

A: Sorry Helen, I really haven't too much information about the wrestlers. It takes all my time to keep up with the actors and actresses, series and movies and obituaries. I can give you an address that may help. World Wrestling Federation, 1055 Summer St., P.O. Box 3857, Stamford, Conn. 06905. They also have a fan club you could join.

Q: Did they take Highway to Heaven off the air? I watched it every Friday at 7 p.m. I read somewhere that Michael was in a movie I Was a Teenage Werewolf. Is that true? What is he doing now, does he have any children, when was he born? —M.L.M., Anchorage, Alaska.

A: Highway to Heaven is no longer in production, however, it is in syndication. You may not be aware that Michael Landon's co-star, Victor French, died of cancer on June 15, 1989. At the age of 21 Michael starred in the film, I Was a Teenage Werewolf, released in 1957. He is the father of nine children. His first two marriages produced four children (he adopted another three). He and his 32-year-old wife have added two more. He was born on Oct. 31, 1936, and is currently writing, producing and directing for television.

BASIC CABLE HIGHLIGHTS

Music specials take viewers through four decades of tunes

By Justin Marshall

As the decade of the '80s nears an end, The Nashville Network looks back over the past four decades, from the '50s through stars of today, in a variety of specials in November.

Ronnie Milsap takes viewers on a sentimental journey through the '50s on Nov. 11 with Lost in the Fifties with Ronnie Milsap. The 60-minute special brings back all the memorable elements of a 1950s high school dance, complete with a typical setting for a dance in the '50s—a Nashville National Guard Armory.

Milsap performs a medley of classics from that decade such as "Blue Suede Shoes," "Johnny B. Goode," and "Whole Lot of Shakin' Going On." Also featured is an authentic teen idol of the period, Fabian, singing his signature song, "Turn Me Loose."

Moving on into the '60s and '70s, Wolfman Jack hosts Best of Classic Rock II, a concert special airing Nov. 6.

Paul Revere and the Raiders will entertain audiences with hits such as "Kicks" and "Good Thing." Little Anthony will perform "Cold As Ice," and Frankie Valli and the Four Seasons will sing "Big Girls Don't Cry" and "Sherry."

The '70s are represented when The Fifth Dimension does their hits "Aquarius" and "Up Up And Away." Rare Earth sings "Hey Big Brother" and Shadows of Night performs "G-L-O-R-I-A."

Ricky Van Shelton is living proof of the American Dream, and represents artists of today. Two years ago he was laying pipe and singing in clubs in and around his hometown of Grit, Va. Today he is one of the hottest names in country music, nominated in four categories for the Country Music Association Awards. TNN will document his success in a 60-minute special, Ricky Van Shelton: From Grit to Gold on Nov. 25.

The documentary follows Van Shelton on tour across the country with performance footage, fan interviews and a backstage look at his concerts. CBS recording artist Shelby Lynne joins Shelton's concert tour performing her new single, "The Hurtin' Side." The special also features visits with many of the people who encouraged Shelton to follow his dream of being a country music star.

Shelton's career has in two years produced a platinum album (Wild Eyed Dream), a gold album (Loving Proof) and five No. 1 hits. He has picked up awards as fast as he has No. 1 records. In 1988, he was presented newcomer awards from the TNN Viewer's Choice Awards, the Academy of Country Music, Music City News, and the Country Music Association. A year later, TNN viewers voted him "Favorite Male Vocalist," as well as awarded him for "Favorite Song" and "Favorite Video" at the 1989 TNN Viewers' Choice Awards.

Spotlight On:

Prestonsburg Miriam Rebekah Lodge

The Miriam Lodge of Rebekahs was instituted in 1906 in Prestonsburg. The Rebekahs is the sister order of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. Schuyler Colfax, who was a vice president of the United States under Ulysses S. Grant, was the author of the Rebekahs Degree, which was adopted in 1851.

On the first Sunday in May of each year, Odd Fellows and Rebekahs of the world take part in the Pilgrimage to the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington National Cemetery, where wreaths are placed by the lodge officials of each state.

The organization's purpose is to visit the sick, relieve the distressed, bury the dead, educate the orphan of deceased Odd Fellows and Rebekahs, and cultivate the social and fraternal relations of life.

The order supports World Eye Bank and Visual Research Program, Educational Loan Fund, Arthritis Foundation, and United Pilgrimage for Youth. These are promoted by the International Order, also. On a local level, the Miriam Lodge contributes to the Rescue Squad and furnishes baskets of food to needy families about four times a year.

Among its fundraising efforts have been publishing cookbooks and having bakeless bake sales, lemon squeezes, rummage sales and weigh ins.

One local sister was elevated to the position of president on the state level, and several members have served as appointed officers and committee members of the state. On the state level, the local lodge has won first place for best scrapbook for five consecutive years. In 1979, it won first place for having most members repeating the secret work of the order.

Current officers are Lorena Wallen of Prestonsburg, noble grand; Beverly Hackworth of Prestonsburg, vice grand; Debbie Johns of Langley, secretary, and Maman Leslie of Prestonsburg, treasurer.

There aren't many things that are free anymore, but news in your hometown paper is. We'll run weddings, engagements, church news, birthdays, anniversaries, announcements, obituaries and more AT ABSOLUTELY NO CHARGE!

There is never any charge for any news printed in the Floyd County Times!

Have a picture? Bring it in! There's no charge for pictures, either. (We ask that you try to bring in a black and white photo, or a studio-quality color photo, but if you've only got one, and it isn't either, bring it in anyway—we'll look at it and tell you if it can be used or not.)

You can bring it in, mail it in or call it in—whichever is most convenient for you.
