Parents Seek Answers To Problems At BLHS

by Tess A. Whitmer
Staff Writer

A discussion of reported problems at Betsy Layne High School turned into a heated exchange of accusations as parents, teachers, students and school officials met at the Betsy Layne Senior Citizen's Center Tuesday.

At least one parent asked that Adrian Bentley Sr., the school principal, be placed on probation.

The group of about 150 attending included School Superintendent Ronald Hager and Betsy Layne area board representative Tommy Boyd.

According to Boyd, the meeting was called to answer questions about security at the high school, and to establish whether an assistant principal is needed at the campus. Boyd said he "would be willing to go to the governor, if that's what it takes to get us a badly-needed assistant principal."

Hager told the group by meeting formally, it had made the "first important step for change."

"The problem at Betsy Layne is like a cancer, it just keeps growing," said the district superintendent. "Citizens must form a structured group such as a PTA or PTO and demand that the children get an education and have rules and structure."

He added that the school climate and how the students feel about school, are factors that make a safe school, which he said is created by staff and parents.

One parent suggested that Hager send one of the three assistant superintendents to the school to act as assistant principal if the district does not have sufficient funds to hire one. Hager said he would "have help at the school" the next morning and would continue to do so until the problem is solved.

"We are entitled to a safe school system," commented Joe Jacobs, parent. "Our children should have adequate protection while at that school. We're expecting you (the principal) to do your job and assure this. We lack the number one thing there and that's discipline."

Several in the crowd applauded Jacobs' statement and voiced agreement.

Another parent, Tina Hall, noted, "A lot has been taken away from the teachers and they are not able to exert discipline, so students are able to get away with more. But we can't keep blaming the teachers or the parents, the blame lies everywhere. We need some sort of security there, until the students get the message that they cannot get away with so much, and neither can the teachers."

Other parents said they were afraid to send their children to the school, saying their children might get hurt and "nothing would be done about it." They cited some examples of violence and fires in the parking lot, and chastised Bentley for reportedly not controlling fights and vandalism. Other parents said they had found it difficult to contact Bentley to speak to him and have questions answered.

A teacher at the school who did not give her name said, "Mr. Bentley has tried. This problem comes from home. Kids do not listen to him — if a teacher is not there to hold them back (at lunch) they roam the halls and disturb the rest of the kids. Mr. Bentley cannot be everywhere at one time, he needs help, so did Mr. Davis

Wayland Considers New Insurance Tax

by Frank Clark, Correspondent

Wayland Town Board members Tuesday night approved the first reading of an insurance tax ordinance to raise needed funds for the city.

The move came at the suggestion of Sam Campbell of the Big Sandy Area Development District, who submitted a proposal to the board for an ordinance that would allow the city to collect a tax on insurance premiums paid by Wayland residents.

The ordinance, Campbell said, would require insurance companies which provide property, vehicle, fire, health and life insurance to pay the city a tax of up to 8 percent of the cost of all premiums paid by local policy holders.

Campbell said several cities, including Prestonsburg, have similar ordinances, and he estimated that Wayland could raise $7,000 to $8,000 a year in extra revenue through the tax, amounting to a 33 percent increase in city revenues. He said the tax would be administered by the insurance companies and paid to the

Wondering What's Up

Parents of Betsy Layne High School students gathered at the Senior Citizens Center Tuesday to voice concerns about alleged problems at the school. Wondering whether the school is safe enough to send their children to, they asked Superintendent Ron Hager and Principal Adrian Bentley for some assurance.

Public Opinion & Prestonsburg

by T. Mark Miller
PCC Sociologist

As a sociology instructor at Prestonsburg Community College, I gave my students from last semester the challenge of doing a sociological study of Prestonsburg and the surrounding area.

The project, "The Mountain Town Study," used students' experiences from growing up in the area and information in the Floyd County Times, we were able to determine current local problems and issues.

This information, in a survey format, was given to the students who interviewed specific groups in the community.

This is known as a stratified sampling technique, and with the help of Dr. Bradley Hertel at Virginia Technical Institute, the surveys were entered into a computer this past summer and analyzed.

The results of this research have been interesting and quite revealing. The final report will be placed in the special holdings section of the PCC library for public inspection. However, the Floyd County Times has agreed to publish some of these results in this weekly column.

Issues that will be covered in the future include a average length of residence, employment, education, political affiliation, attitudes about the local school system, taxes, crime, social conditions, road conditions and more.

The sampling consisted of 50 complete interviews, which may seem small since the total population of Floyd County has been estimated at around 50,000. But it is really quite good considering the fact that many national samples are of a few hundred, in a nation of over 270 million. Using modern statistical techniques, we can have confidence in opinion surveys of smaller sample sizes.

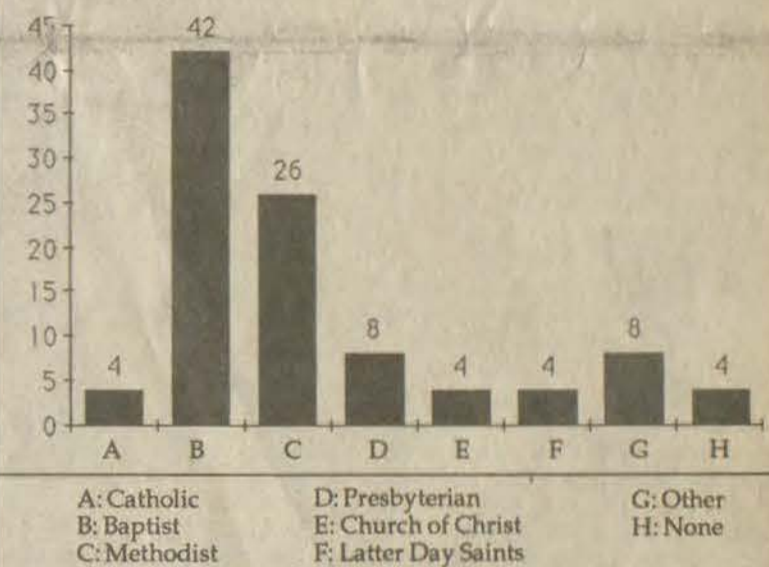

This first week we will discuss some standard variables which were used in our study. Each variable is presented as a percentage of 100. Looking at political affiliation, 78 percent of those surveyed considered themselves Democrats, 14 percent said they were Republicans and the remaining 8 percent considered themselves independent or had no opinion.

The religious breakdown of the respondents was as follows: 42 percent are Baptists, 26 percent Methodists, 8 percent Presbyterian, 4 percent Catholic, 4 percent Church of Christ, 4 percent Latter Day Saints (Mormons), 8 percent belonged to other religions and the remaining 4 percent expressed no religious affiliation.

The last variable that we will look at this week is length of residence. Ten percent of the people surveyed have lived in the Prestonsburg area for less than 10 years, 42 percent have lived in the area for more than 10 years, and 44 percent have lived here all their lives. Another 4 percent of the sample work in this area, but don't live here.

Floyd Woman Arrested In Pikeville For Leaving Two Children In Pickup

A Betsy Layne woman was arrested Tuesday in Pikeville on charges of first and second degree wanton endangerment and child abuse after her two young children were found locked inside a pickup truck in a city parking lot, according to Pikeville Police.

Arrested was Sandra Compton, 28, who was held in Pike County jail until Thursday morning when she was able to post a $10,000 property bond, a jail official said.

Police responded to a 9:20 a.m. call from a citizen who reportedly parked next to the truck in the river fill lot behind First National Bank and heard the two children screaming. Sgt. Larry Sanders, who responded to the call, reportedly found the power windows of the Ford pickup only slightly open, with the outside temperature already 80 degrees.

Sanders removed the two girls, ages 3 and 4, from the truck and turned them over to the Department of Social Services. Caseworker Debbie Stanley said Thursday she could not comment on the status of the children.

Police officers continued to watch the vehicle, according to a police spokesperson, and Patrolman Cal Runyon arrested Compton when she returned to the truck at 1:55 p.m., more than four hours after the children were found.

Prestonsburg Officials Attend Recent Kentucky League Of Cities Conference

Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta and other city officials recently attended the Kentucky League of Cities conference in Lexington. Latta was also reelected to the organization's board of directors.

Among topics covered at the annual meeting of city employees were various legislative proposals, changing council terms to four years instead of the current two years, alternative methods of recycling, and colleges and universities working more closely to create joint programs.

Latta said she supported changing Kentucky council members' terms to four years.

"I would like to see four-year staggered terms so you always have some continuity (on the council)," said Latta. "You could conceivably elect an entire new council and mayor in one year."

Latta said by changing terms to four years and staggering the terms, city councils would always have experienced representatives. Latta said city officials also studied alternative forms of recycling. Some municipalities require residents to divide refuse into various recycling areas such as paper, glass and aluminum.

"Most people don't want to fool with that," said Latta, "but there are some methods that would not be so difficult."

In addition to Latta, other Prestonsburg officials attending were Fred James, city administrator, and council members Adrian Blackburn and William O. Goebel III.

Illegal Transmitter Disrupting KSP Work

A radio hacker has apparently tapped into the frequencies of four Kentucky State Police posts, in some cases disrupting service, according to an Associated Press report.

Officer Homer Prater of the Pikeville post confirmed that on the morning of Aug. 31, the "post received three radio transmissions from an unknown individual." He said the person sending the transmissions spoke obscenities.

According to AP, state police posts in Morehead, Ashland and Frankfort have also received the broadcasts, which violate both federal and state laws.

Prater said that "anybody" can buy a radio and touch tone the frequency in, along with equipment to transmit.

Anyone with information on the illegal transmissions is asked to call the Pikeville post at 437-7311 or 437-7312.

Folk Festival Underway Today

Songwriter and folk singer Anne MacFie, left, and Kentucky State Parks mascot "Park Lark" are among the attractions featured in the Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival, which continues today through Sunday at Jeany Wiley State Park. MacFie will appear Friday, Sept. 8 (today), and will accompany her singing by playing the guitar a mountain dulcimer, making occasional use of novelty instruments such as the mouthbow, African "thumb piano" and bowed psaltery. The Park Lark will be out and about Saturday, with three scheduled appearances at the festival site.

Floyd County Technical High School:

New Approach Will Benefit Students

by Anne Chaney, Editor

The name has changed, but the basic philosophy remains the same: providing quality vocational education to Floyd County students.

Floyd County Technical High School, previously known as Garth Area Vocational-Technical School, began the new school year with an updated title and an improved instructional program, according to Ronald Turner, director.

The school is offering Applied Communications, Principals of Technology and Applied Math, in addition to its array of traditional vocational programs.

The move makes it possible for vocational students to attend FCTHS all day, earning math, science and English credits, rather than commuting from campus to campus and losing what Turner points out is valuable instructional time.

"We want to try to keep students here all day — seniors especially," says Libby Hall, special vocational liaison. "This way, if they need their English, or have to pick up a math course, they can pick it up here." The school's entire concept has changed, she explains with obvious enthusiasm, and core curriculum classes are geared to vocational training to provide additional practical skills for the school's students.

"Students need to be able to go through these courses, especially communications," said Hall. "They are so much more important to them than sitting out there bored to tears with 'Romeo and Juliet'. There will be literature, but their education here is going to be directly related to what they're going to do after graduation."

One of two students who attend college will drop out in their freshman year, points out Turner.

"It doesn't have to do with academics, it has to do with interest," he adds.

Statistically, adds Hall, 20 percent of today's first grade students will earn a college degree. The emphasis on college preparation in the mainstream high school curriculum, she notes, may be misplaced in terms of the remaining 80 percent.

"A lot of them won't go to college. If they can't communicate to whoever they work for, they won't stay on the job. You need certain basic skills, whether you're going to work at a fast food restaurant or in a technical field."

"With our new programs, these kids — even if they're going into a technical field — need to be here. We offer the basics of what they will need when they go to college. All students need good vocational training and employability skills, no matter what."

The high school's math, science and English classes, as well as its vocational courses, offer a step up for area students planning to attend Mayo Vocational School in Paintsville. Additionally, some class hours can be applied to Mayo's programs, allowing students to graduate earlier.

Computer training will be offered in every area taught at the technical high school, Hall adds.

"The day of kids thinking, 'I just want to work on cars' is gone. Students must have computer literacy in every area."

For students, the changes will mean less time spent traveling, and more time spent learning. And while Turner plans for FCTHS to adopt its own logo and school colors, students won't lose the camaraderie of their fellow classmates.

Pupils will continue to be enrolled at one of the five high schools in the county while they commute to FCTHS, and will be excused to attend pep rallies and other special programs at their base schools.

"We want them to be a part of their high school, including sports and special programs," says Hall. "We'll also have activities for them while they are here — guest speakers coming in from business and industry. We want them to know what to expect when they become employed."

Jaycees Earn State Recognition

The Prestonsburg Jaycees recently returned from the All-State Convention held in Frankfort, where the club was honored for its work with the Festival of FACES earlier this year.

Jaycees were recognized for having the project with the most impact on its population division and for having the project with the most impact in the state, according to Donna R. Roope, member. The FACES parade was the club's first project since it organized in January.

A third place award in the write-up competition was brought home by Cathy Prater, Roope added.

Prestonsburg Jaycees attending the convention were Tommie Sue Branham, Anita Hale, Prater and Roope.

Anyone interested in joining the Jaycees may call Brian Ousley at 886-2321 or Roope at 886-4009.

Blood Drive Continues Today

A blood drive sponsored by four area civic organizations continues today at the Central Kentucky Blood Center, located on the second floor of the Municipal Building in Prestonsburg.

The center will remain open from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Friday, Sept. 8 (today).

As of Thursday morning, 74 persons had stopped by, donating 52 units of blood.

Control Of CCs At Issue Again

A study committee of the Kentucky General Assembly has come up with a proposal to change the governance of the state's community colleges, but the president of the college in Prestonsburg says he's not ready to jump on the bandwagon.

"Nobody ever talks to the community colleges when they propose these things," said Dr. Henry Campbell, president of Prestonsburg Community College since its beginning 25 years ago.

He was referring to a recommendation by the Study Committee on Education and the Humanities to remove the 14 community colleges from the control of the University of Kentucky, where they've been since the system was begun by legislative act in 1962.

"I prefer not to be separated from the university," said Campbell. "I see no need to separate." He said the legislative committee's recommendation is not new, but has been banded about by other groups before.

Dr. Charles Wethington, chancellor of the UK Community College System, said in a phone interview earlier this week that a different form of control is not what the system needs. "The issue is catch-up funding for the community colleges, not community college governance," he said.

Reports indicate that, of all the higher education institutions in the state, the community colleges receive the least funding. "I'm going to spend my time trying to serve students and achieve equity in funding, and not in worrying about changes in governance," the chancellor said.

"The community colleges have done an excellent job of serving students and the region as a part of UK," Wethington said. "This year we expect enrollment (at the colleges) to exceed 36,000 students. We must be doing something right."

Wethington added that what is happening at PCC, which has been experiencing record enrollment for the past several years, is happening at the other community colleges, as well. "PCC has had years of steady growth and has an excellent story to tell, as do the others," he said.

Postscript

By Pam Shingler

In another life, long ago and far away, when I attempted to teach journalism and public relations to college students, I occasionally tried to spur debate on ethical and philosophical issues. One of my favorite toss-ups was: Do facts add up to the truth?

First reactions invariably amounted to "Yeah, sure." The students tended to see truth as a kind of jigsaw puzzle with facts as the pieces. You get enough facts, you make them fit and you have a beautiful picture of truth.

But what about, I ask, the way many of us approach a truth — taking a fact from puzzle box A and a fact from puzzle box G and a fact from another box and forcing them to fit a predetermined vision of truth?

My favorite, pedestrian-type example is a movie of a few years back, "Absence of Malice" starring hunk Paul Newman and charmer Sally Field. An unscrupulous police officer is out to tie Newman to an organized crime syndicate because some of the hero's family are involved in it. He makes it easy for reporter Field to be misled into writing a story that Newman is under investigation, even though there are no facts to warrant an investigation.

The upshot is that Newman's business and reputation are damaged, and he determines revenge. He concocts a series of "factual" incidents that appear to link him to the mob, and he makes sure Field is around to cover them. For instance, he is seen giving a package of what might be money to a known mob figure.

Of course, in the end, he exposes the fraud, proves the so-called facts do not amount to the truth, and exacts embarrassing revenge on the police department and the reporter.

Daily, we confront facts — all of us, not just reporters — and using our calculator brains we tote up the truth. Too often, our facts are garnered from newspaper headlines and 30-second-per-story television news. Even more often, we gather our facts from across the lunch table or from the street corner.

Maybe this penchant comes from the fast pace we all live at these days. We seldom take the time to delve. We accept the superficial because it's quick to eat, like microwave food.

We're afraid that if we ask questions, we'll have to stick around to listen to the answers.

Perhaps we're so used to having facts served up to us rapidfire, without explanation and clarification — by the media, by teachers, by politicians, by ministers, and so on — that we've forgotten how to sift through.

Facts are easy. Truths, on the other hand, are hard to come by. They take time to ferret out, to puzzle through. They take a willingness to clear the slate of the mind of prejudgments and unwieldy baggage. They take a commitment to ask questions and to think — something most of us do little of anymore.

And that, I think, is the truth.

Letters to the Editor

Are Schools Lacking In Child Supervision?

Dear Editor,
In my opinion, the schools in the area are lacking somewhat in child care supervision.

Let me explain myself. This past week, we had a child hurt on school grounds. He informed a teacher on duty that he was hurt and asked for an ice pack, but was denied. He rode the school bus home (crying and in pain). When he arrived home, we, his parents, rushed him to the emergency room. We learned that he had fractured his arm, which will take three to six weeks to heal. We are very upset and are concerned if other parents will have to deal with the same situation. (I hope not.)

There were no apologies or explanations from the teacher or principal when we took the child to school the next morning.

My main concern is, do the teachers of each school care more about sports than they do about the students and everything happening in the school system of late?

Enjoys Times

Dear Editor,
I sure do enjoy our local paper, especially all the local news and pictures of the local schools. I really did not see any need for the second paper (because) takes me quite a while to read the first edition. It is much longer and has such a good variety of news, more than we used to get. I look forward to the TV paper in it each week. Thanks for it.

I'll be in soon to renew by subscription, as I look forward to each issue. When I was in Cincinnati in 1945, a dear friend always saw that I got a copy each week. Now, 44 years later, I still enjoy my paper of my home town even though I'm only two blocks away. I really stay informed by reading the Times. Keep up the good work and God bless you all.

and faithful subscriber,

What Makes A Good Rescue Squad Member?

by Tess Whitmer,
Staff Writer
(Second in a Series)

What motivates a man or woman to have the desire to "do the job that no one else can, or wants, to do?"

For Onda Hunt, captain of the Floyd County Rescue Squad, it was being a young boy living just up the street from the station house, watching the squad go out on calls and knowing "it was something bad."

He said, as did squad members, that he didn't consider himself more civic-minded than others, adding that his service is "just something I wanted to do." Several of the members had relatives in the Floyd County bus tragedy of 1958, including Mike Terry, whose mother was one of the survivors. Still others were brought to the station by their fathers when they were young, and rescue work stayed with them.

Some of the members are college students who give their time in the summer months and return to school for the rest of the year. "We don't discourage this sort of activity," Hunt explained, "because, in the past, some of those who have returned after graduation have been our best members."

According to Hunt, the squad averages about 20 year-round active members, who he said are "mature, dedicated people who consistently go out on calls and attend fund raising functions."

What ever the individual reasons for joining, all agree that it is not for the glamour or glory — which there is little of — and few are seeking the excitement. The services which the Rescue Squad performs include ground searches for lost people, rough terrain rescue or recovery, extrication for vehicles or boating accidents and rescue or recovery of drowning victims.

"Dragging is a long, hard, boring and tedious business," said Terry. "And pulling a body from the lake is definitely not glamorous." He said the biggest chore with drownings is getting an accurate account of where the victim went in.

The members stressed that they do not do the job of the fire department, police department or the ambulance service. The squad, as stated in its bylaws, provides "volunteers trained and equipped for immediate temporary assistance to those in need of rescue, recovery and similar emergency services."

Hunt noted some situations call for them to deviate from the stated mission — for example, if a victim is trapped in a hollow which the ambulance cannot traverse, then members will bring them to the ambulance using their four wheel drive vehicle.

"One year, when it snowed really hard, we picked a little girl up for dialysis, since she was not able to get out of the hollow on her own," Hunt noted. "But we generally do just what our name says: 'rescue services'. And that means rescuing people, not livestock or furniture, as some people have requested during floods."

Job Corps Center Gets New Director

The Job Corps in Prestonsburg has hired a new center director, Neil Eskildson, who hails from Mineral County, W.Va.

Eskildson, who assumed his duties last Friday, said he is "happy to have been assigned to the Prestonsburg area, since this is the closest I've been to home in 40 years."

It also gives him the perfect area to enjoy his two favorite past times, hunting and fishing.

His promotion brought Eskildson from Clarksville, Tenn., where he was the project manager for Career Systems Development Corporation, which encompassed training centers in New Orleans, La., Madisonville and Atlanta, Ga., and three in Clarksville.

He previously worked for the Earle C. Clements Job Corps Center in Morganfield, where he was a resident advisor. He has also served in the Special Forces of the US Army, spending 19 years in the Orient, and another 11 in the US.

"This is a great experience and advancement in my career," Eskildson said. "I'm sure I'll be successful here, as I have been in previous places." Eskildson has a large project facing him in the near future as center director — the addition of a female dormitory to create a coed facility. He noted that this expansion will also require enlarging the staff and curriculum taught at the center.

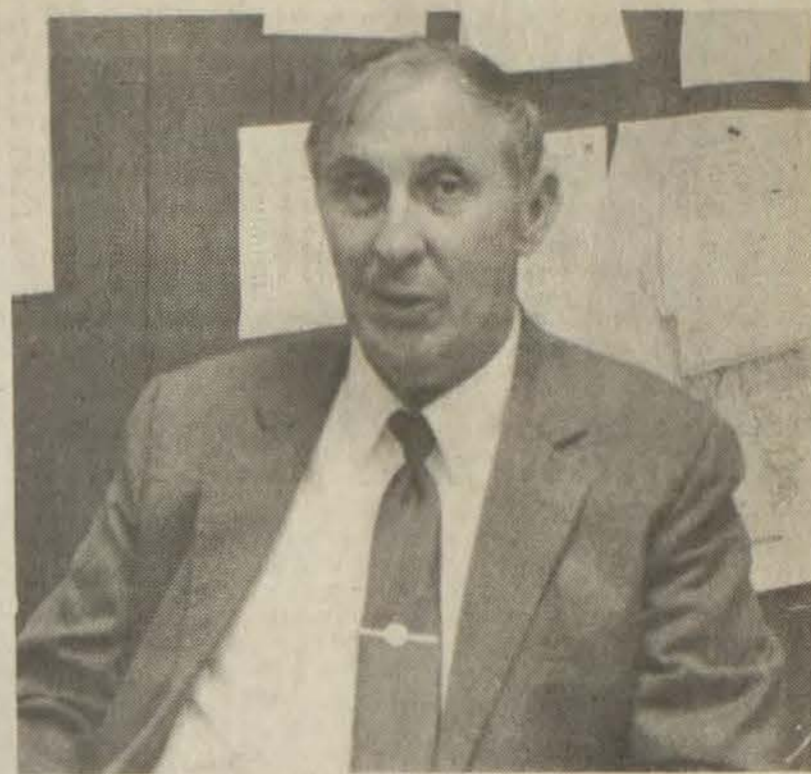

"This is a positive move, since in the history of Job Corp Centers, the retention rate is better for both males and females in coed centers," he explained.

Eskildson's wife, two daughters and two sons are still in Clarksville. "I didn't think it was right to move them since they are all settled at their respective schools," he said. "But I expect to have my wife, and possibly my youngest son, join me here next year."

Eskildson's daughters are both students at Austin Peay State University, Clarksville, his alma mater. One as a freshman and the other a senior who will be going on active duty in the Army upon graduation. His youngest son is a junior in high school, where he is on the football team and the other is working in Knoxville and plans to join the Air Force in December.

More Families Eligible For Housing Vouchers

The Floyd County Housing Authority will be able to assist 17 additional families with housing vouchers through a $395,545 allocation from the US Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The authority currently administers the HUD Section 8 Housing Voucher Program which serves 56 Floyd County families, according to authority executive director Julia May. The program gives low income families rental subsidies to live in private housing that is not part of a federally funded housing project. The new allocation covers a five-year period.

It offers families "freedom of choice to select the type of housing and neighborhood they would like to live in," according to a spokesperson for the Kentucky office of HUD.

With the housing voucher, a family receives a federal rental subsidy which represents the difference between an average monthly rent for a particular area and 30 percent of the family's monthly income.

The local housing authority has been recognized by HUD for "proper fund utilization" in that it has been able to house six more families than it was originally allocated to house. May said the original allocation was to cover 50 families, but because of "efficient usage" of the funds, more families were assisted.

"The Louisville HUD Office applauds... May and her staff for this excellent use of federal funding," said Ginger Van Ness, acting manager of the Kentucky office, in announcing the allocation.

School Law Workshop Tuesday

The Kentucky School Boards Association will hold a regional seminar on school law in Prestonsburg Tuesday, Sept. 12, from 6:30 until 9:30 p.m.

Although the workshops are normally attended only by school board members and other education personnel, they are open to the public.

Keller said the workshop will be divided into three sessions of approximately an hour each. Expected topics included in the first session are filling board vacancies in the event of resignations, responsibilities of board chairmen, dismissing classified employees, the open records law, Family Education Rights and Privacy Act, and court cases involving subject matter of library books.

The second session will highlight hypothetical problems and group discussion, while the third session will include a general summary of recent school-related court cases.

A $30 registration fee is required, and preregistration is requested, according to David Keller, executive director of KSBA. For more information, contact KSBA toll-free at 1-800-372-2962.

and Mr. Frasure (former principals)."

Several members of the crowd urged Bentley to speak out and say he needed help, but he would not. Other teachers said problems are caused by overcrowding and understaffing.

Hager confirmed the teachers' observations, and said similar problems exist at other schools in the district. He added that with state intervention, he is "required to cut 60 positions when we actually need to add some, especially in the form of custodial help."

"We've got plenty of administrative help though," retorted Ricky Roberts, a parent. Roberts continued to ask what measures will be taken to control fighting and a lack of discipline at the school.

Another parent, Carl Hall, told the crowd, "We need to put pride back in Betsy Layne High School, such as with band and basketball and other things." A teacher from the school replied, "When we take care of the safety, we'll take care of the pride."

Hager suggested that the group assign one or two representatives to bring their concerns to the district's board at its next meeting Wednesday, Sept. 13, and again stressed that he would have personnel at the school to help Bentley, and to observe for themselves whether a lack of security exists.

city in quarterly installments.

He said the companies would pass the tax along to residents through increased insurance premiums. Workman's compensation would not be included in the tax.

Mayor Patricia Murphy defended the need for the insurance premium tax by citing the city's financial situation. "A town needs revenue to survive," said Murphy, "and hard choices have to be made to get it."

Murphy pointed to the city's need for road work and dredging of streams and culverts as targets for new city revenues.

In further action to improve the city's financial position, Murphy appointed board member Tommy Robinson to examine the city street light system to determine if overlapping lights can be removed. The lighting system has been discussed at the past several meetings.

Concerning the city's continuing drainage problem, Murphy asked board members to petition Floyd County Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo to assign county dredging equipment to clear local culverts and streams of debris created by slate dump run off.

Murphy announced that she did not file for reelection and will be leaving the town board at the end of her current term.

All board members were present at Tuesday's meeting. The next regular meeting of the board is Oct. 3 at 7 p.m. at the town hall.

Length of residence may be the variable that could have the most impact on this area in the future. With the growth of local jobs, business and industry, we would normally expect to see more and more of the local population coming from outside this area. New jobs bring new job hunters. The Kentucky Cabinet of Economic Development in Frankfort has reported an increase of over 1,000 jobs in Floyd County in last 10 years. This is in spite of reduced employment in the commercial mining industry.

It is interesting to note that even though the unemployment rate in Floyd County has increased to over 12 percent in the 1980s, the total number of working employees in the civilian work force has still gone up. The Cabinet for Economic Development shows the total annual payroll of Floyd County steadily increasing, as well as the total income and sales taxes collected in the '80s going up.

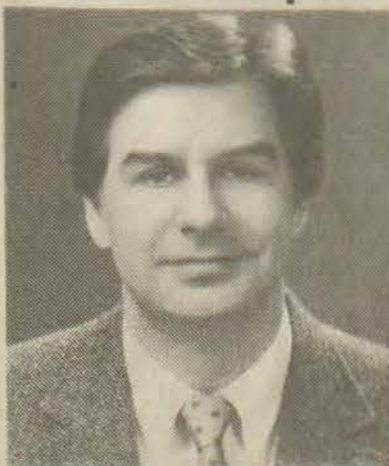

The University of Louisville Population Research Unit projects that the Floyd County population will grow about 30 percent over the next 30 years. Today, 44 percent of those surveyed have lived in this area all their lives. But if economic and social growth continues, we should see this percentage fall. The actual number of individuals who have lived here all their lives should stay the same. However, the percentage of this group in the population will shrink.

Hyden Leads Prestonsburg To 32-16 Victory Over Porter

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The grade school football season got under way this week as the Prestonsburg Elementary Blackcats opened their season against Porter.

Halfback Seth Hyden scored two touchdowns while rushing for 78 yards in leading the Blackcats to a 32-16 victory over Porter. Hyden carried the ball nine times.

In the first period of play, Porter's Stacy Collins broke a Blackcat tackle and ran 63 yards for a touchdown that was called back because of clipping. The Johnson County school was penalized 15 yards.

With just 56 remaining in the first quarter, Dwayne Garva took the football across the goal line for a Prestonsburg score and a 6-0 lead. Garva also scored two points on the conversion to make it 8-0.

With 3:33 to go in the second, Hyden ran for a 25-yard romp for a first down. Garva carried for a pick up of 11 yards. Porter was whistled for face masking and Prestonsburg had another first down. Hyden took the ball 15 yards for a TD. Hyden converted the two points to give Prestonsburg a 16-0 lead.

Hyden scored again early in the third quarter to make it 24-0, when Garva ran for a touchdown. Jason Keathley added the two point conversion for Prestonsburg.

Prestonsburg quarterback Thomas

Ratliff carried the ball 14 yards for a touchdown and a 32-0 lead. Ratliff also scored on the conversion.

Porter put its points on the board in the fourth stanza, when Stacy Collins got free and ran 55 yards for a touchdown. Chris Simpson scored the two extra points to make it 32-8.

Late in the final period, Rick Lemaster fumbled the football and Simpson scooped it up, running 48 yards for Porter's final score of 32-16. Garva carried the ball seven times in rushing for 70 yards. Ratliff carried three times for 31 yards.

The Blackcats are 1-0 on the season and will be in action Monday evening, Sept. 11, at home.

No Place To Go

Porter halfback Stacy Collins (10) finds no place to go on this carry. Collins was thrown for a loss against Prestonsburg Tuesday night at Prestonsburg. The visitors fell in the "A" team game 32-16. Chris Simpson (15) is the quarterback.

Prestonsburg Faces Central's Eagles Without Coach Letton

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Prestonsburg Blackcats, coming off an emotional win over defending Division 2 champions Whitesburg, have set their sights on a trip to Johnson County to play the Golden Eagles tonight in an 8 p.m. game.

The Golden Eagles defeated Betsy Layne last Friday night 20-12 at home.

Two key personnel will be missing for tonight's game. Coach Bill Letton, who is under a one-game suspension for being ejected in the Whitesburg game, will not be at the helm for the Blackcats game tonight.

Missing from the opposition's side of the field will be Eagle quarterback Mitchell Johnson, who suffered a broken leg against Betsy Layne. The injury is expected to cause the highly touted quarterback to miss the remainder of the season.

George Clifton will be at the running back position for the Golden Eagles. Clifton is a strong runner, able to make the good cuts and moves. Also in the backfield for Johnson Central will be Darren Gamble and Greg Hunter.

Derrick Preston will be at one end position for the host team. Preston has some impressive credentials from last year. He caught 22 passes for 550 yards. At 6'2", 210 pounds, he's strong and has been blessed with good speed.

Look for the Blackcats to be emotionally up for this one. A win over Johnson Central will set the momentum for the Paintsville game next week.

Tonight's game begins at 8 p.m. at Johnson Central.

Prestonsburg Elementary "B" Team Gets By Porter, 16-0

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Quarterback Bret James rushed for 101 yards and scored two touchdowns as he led the Prestonsburg Elementary "B" team to a 16-0 shutout of Porter Elementary "B" team.

The young Blackcats scored quick in the first stanza. On the first series of downs for the home team, James ran for a 13-yard gain and a first down. Mike Castle carried the ball for a 5-yard pick up. After Matt Trusty was stopped on the line of scrimmage, James took the snap and ran 50 yards for paydirt and a 6-0 score. Trusty scored on the two point conversion to give the Cats an 8-0 lead.

The 8-0 lead held up through the first half. With 4:00 showing on the clock in the third period, Trusty broke a tackle and picked up 30 yards on the first down. Castle ran for 8 yards to set up a third and five for the Black-cats. James took the snap, and on a busted play scampered in from the 22-yard line for the TD. Castle scored on the conversion to make it 16-0, the final score.

James carried the ball six times in gaining the 101 yards. Castle carried the football six times for 37 yards. Trusty picked up 36 yards on seven tries.

The Blackcats' record is 1-0. They are scheduled to play again Monday, Sept. 11.

Land Of The Giants

Prestonsburg "B" team quarterback Derek James is dwarfed in a game with Porter grade school Tuesday evening at the Prestonsburg Field. James may be small, but he played big in leading his team to a 16-0 victory.

Quarterback Sweep

Derek James, Prestonsburg quarterback, sweeps around left end for a 23-yard romp against Porter Elementary School Tuesday evening in grade school football action. The Prestonsburg team shut out Porter, 16-0.

Trojans To Host Bulldogs Tonight

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Wheelwright Trojans, injury riddled, look to get better against the Hazard Bulldogs tonight in home with an 8 p.m. start.

This will be the Trojans' first home game since they opened against Elkhorn City.

Missing tonight for the Trojans will be James Branham, out for the season; Adam Hall, out for the season; and Shane McCoy, out for another week. Coach Roger Johnson's concern for tonight's game is evident, shown in the shifting of some personnel on the offensive and defensive lines.

"The big loss for us is going to be Adam Hall, especially with Branham already out for the year," Johnson said. Wheelwright, with an already-shallow bench, will definitely feel the three players' loss.

Tonight's match up will be a Region 3, Division 2 game. Hazard lost to Breathitt County last Friday night, 27-0. Wheelwright fell to Paintsville, 48-16.

Dependable Chad Hall (6,175) will be leading the backfield for the Trojans, joined by senior Bobby Hood (5'9", 150), junior Mike Justice (5'7", 180) at fullback and sophomore Steven Jackson (5'6", 148).

Wheelwright, needing a victory, will host Hazard beginning at 8 p.m. at Bracket Field.

ACHS Looking For First Win At Magoffin County

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Coach Donnie Daniels' Allen Central Rebels will be looking for their first win of the football season as they travel to Magoffin County to take on first-year coach Chuke Williams' Hornets at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Magoffin County, in only its second football season and coming off a 1-8 record last year, has already handed highly regarded Fairview (48-7) and Betsy Layne (34-0) early season losses.

Ryan Mills and Bryan Osborne, along with quarterback Scotty Collins, lead Williams' team in the backfield. Mills, at fullback, is an explosive player up the middle. Osborne is a speedster at the tailback position.

One of the biggest question marks facing the Hornets this season is the amount of depth on the team. That, coupled with the lack of experience, could be another loophole for the Magoffin squad.

The Rebels will be looking to their backfield of Mickey Parsons (5'10", 180) and Tommy Gibson (6, 195) for offensive leadership. Brian Wallen (302, 6'3") and Brian Meadows (307, 6'6") will anchor down the offensive and defensive lines.

Allen Central needs this one in the win column to gain some momentum. With Raceland and Berea on the horizon, a win could be a confidence builder for the Rebels.

Special Olympic Bowling Tourney Planned Sept. 21

Rebel Lanes will be the place for the first Region 15 Special Olympic Bowling Tournament to be held October 21.

According to spokesman Mark Thornberg, the bowling outing will be to benefit the Special Olympics in this region.

"Once a year, they have a state-wide bowling tournament for Special Olympics. This will be our way of getting ready for that," Thornberg stated.

The regional bowl will involve teams from Floyd, Magoffin, Johnson, Pike and Martin counties.

Hughes Stars For UK

One of the bright spots in the UK Annual Spring Blue and White football game was the performance of Prestonsburg's Lowell Hughes, who led the Blues to a 25-20 victory.

The former Blackcat ace whipped three touchdown passes in completing five of six passes for 104 yards. He threw for 41, 33 and 11 yards each.

Wallace Rejects Pro Bid

Grady Wallace, sensational South Carolina basketball scoring ace from Mare Creek, will pass up a $7,500 contract in the National Basketball Association to play for an AAU team, possibly the Peoria Cats or the Philip Oilers.

OCTOBER 10, 1957

Prestonsburg Downs Pikeville, 33-0

The Prestonsburg Blackcats won on Pikeville's field for the first time in eight years, 33-0.

Joe Jack Harris scampered 65 yards to paydirt for a TD. Seven plays later, fullback James Allen went 45 yards off tackle for a six pointer.

Halfback Tommy Harmon and quarterback Paul Philip Hughes each scored on 22-yard jaunts each.

Harmon was selected as Player Of The Week.

Most Valuable Player

Layne Bailey, 15-year-old sophomore at Wheelwright High School, was named most valuable player at Rick Pitino's Wildcat basketball camp recently. Bailey was also on the three-on-three champion team. Prestonsburg Defeats Paintsville's JV, 12-8

by Ed Taylor
 Sports Editor

Junior varsity coach Wimpy Clark's Prestonsburg Blackcats won their first game of the season, 12-8, over the Paintsville Tigers JV at Paintsville Monday night.

"Our offensive line looked the best it has this year," says Clark, "and they did a great job for us tonight."

Blackcat quarterback Jason Crisp scored for Prestonsburg in the second quarter on a 60-yard run to give the Blackcats a 6-0 lead. The point after was no good.

"We had some holes opened for us by our line. David Thacker at center, James Derossett and Todd Clark at the guards position did a good job," the JV coach remarked.

The Blackcats made it 12-0 on a 40-yard romp by John Goble in the second period that gave them the half time lead.

"Robbie Watson at fullback made some good blocks for me in the game. He's tough up the middle," Clark said.

"We had boys that gave a good effort for us tonight — Kevin Porter at tight end, Charlie Thompson and Allen Derossett at tackle. Ronnie Goodman at halfback made some good blocks," explained Coach Clark.

The Tigers made the game a little more interesting with a touchdown in the third period on a pass play from quarterback Mike Boley to his tight end to make the score 12-8.

The Prestonsburg JV record is 1-2, and the team will play again Monday, Sept. 11 at home against Johns Creek.

MCA To Play Basketball; Needs Games

According to Coach Harold Tackett, Mountain Christian Academy will revive its elementary school basketball program this fall.

"We have one of the finest facilities for playing basketball in the county. Why not use it?" Tackett asked. "We had an organization meeting and 18 boys showed up wanting to play."

Tackett said that the school will field an "A" team, "B" team and possibly a "C" team. "We are in need of scheduling some games with the other county schools," Tackett said.

According to school officials, the school will not have a girl's team at the present. However, when enough girls become interested a team will be added.

Any county elementary school coach who would be interested in scheduling MCA this season may contact Harold Tackett at home in the evenings at 886-3444, or the school during the day at 285-5141.

Golf Tourney To Benefit Local Softball Team

Following last week's story in the Times about Ken's Sports Shop's win of the ASA Midwest Softball Tournament, and a questionable appearance at nationals due to the cost of traveling, several Floyd Countians have said they want to help the local squad.

A golf tournament will be held at the John M. Stumbo Beaver Valley Golf Course in Allen on Saturday, Sept. 16, to help raise money for the team to go to the national finals in Las Cruces, N.M. on Sept. 21-24.

According to Don Taylor, many people know Kenny Conley of Ken's Sports Shop and want to help the team be able to go. Conley had said earlier the cost of traveling to and staying for the New Mexico tournament might be prohibitive.

Tea off time for the benefit golf tournament is 8 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 16. For more information, call the pro shop at the John M. Stumbo Beaver Valley Golf Course, 874-2837.

Hospice Means Loving And Living

by Gwen Hall
Contributing Writer

To Betty Hall, Hospice of Big Sandy means "love and care."

Maggie Elkins says Hospice means "everything."

"I got it all," explains Elkins as her gesture takes in several family members and Hospice's patient care coordinator Sister of Divine Providence Margaret Jacobs, RN, BSN.

Betty Hall's mother, Virgie Layne, had bone cancer. Maggie Elkins has a hemangioma, a non-cancerous brain tumor.

Both had life expectancies of six months or less. Layne died in January; Elkins has outlived her anticipated life expectancy.

Hall's family was told that they couldn't care for Layne at home, so they put her in a highly recommended nursing home.

"I was devastated," said Hall tearfully. "It was the hardest thing I ever did... Mother was so unhappy. The medication made her hallucinate and the nurses had to restrain her by tying her to the bed and chair. Mom was so confused... She thought she was kidnapped!"

Hall consulted with her sister, Kathy Davis, who suggested they consider Hospice. With Hospice and family assistance, Layne was able to return to her home; the hallucinations stopped.

"Mom called Sister Margaret her 'Ms. Margaret,'" says Hall. "When Sister Margaret would appear, Mom would hold her arms up to greet her. She would hug her, kiss her and have prayer with her."

Hospice staff members monitored Layne's medical condition, helped bathe her and taught Hall and her family practicalities that included fixing draw sheets and making pain-relieving suppositories.

"They counseled the family," says Hall. "They'd tell us what was happening."

Not only did Hospice staff "simplify a lot of matters" for Hall's family, they have continued to be available since Layne's death as the family copes with their grief and other family illnesses.

"The family had someone 24 hours per day to help if there was an emergency," says Hall. "Unexpected things do arise. No matter when I called, I got results, practically immediately. They didn't tell me to take two aspirin and call in the morning."

Elkins' family also appreciates Hospice's 24-hour availability. They trusted Hospice because of its services to another relative, Lona Gibson. "If not for Hospice, she (Elkins) wouldn't be here," says Teresa Boyd, Elkins' daughter.

In addition to regular visits, Hospice intervened when Elkins had congestive heart failure and was slipping into a coma.

"Sister Margaret's been here when we couldn't bring her out of depression," continues Boyd. "Seems like within a few minutes life was worth living for."

Elkins' hemangioma caused her to become blind last October. In January, the family was told that three days would be a long life without brain surgery, but Elkins had only a 2 percent chance of surviving the surgery.

"It took seven days for her to come out from anesthesia (after surgery)," says Boyd. "She coded on the third day. She was in a semi-coma. She had a stroke. She was paralyzed and couldn't speak."

Elkins' family was told she would be a "vegetable" that there would be no hair on her head and that she wouldn't do anything. She came home from the hospital with a feeding tube in place. The only word she could speak was "Junior," her son-in-law's name.

But today through family and Hospice efforts, Elkins speaks her mind and heart, feeds herself ordinary foods and pulls herself up in bed. Contrary to predictions, she even has a lovely head of hair.

"It can't ever be told how much it means to me," says Elkins of Hospice and her family's help. "I thank God that all of us have done a good job. It's been great. I'm ready to go... I love the Lord; yes, I do. I want to say to each one — Charles, Clarence, Rita, Jim, Donnie (Jones), Teresa, Trina, Karen, Wendy, Donnie (Ellis) and Junior... thanks."

"Without Hospice we couldn't keep half her medications," says Boyd. (Hospice supplies medicine and equipment as needed.) "These Attends cost $64 a box. Hospice will do anything to help Mommy feel better, even if it's just a smile, a hand to hold or a soft word."

Boyd also credits Hospice with inspiring her to pursue nurse aide training. Watching Sister Margaret has made the correspondence course lessons easily understandable, she says.

"It's a privilege for me to share good times and bad times," says Sister Margaret. "I become a part of the family for a while."

"The whole Hospice philosophy today is holistic," says Chris Conley, executive director of Hospice. "It's not just the whole of the patient, it's the whole of all the people who are currently involved in the patient's life... everyone around the patient is deeply affected by what happens."

Conley stressed that an important, and often unrecognized, aspect of Hospice services is expertise in dealing with grief and loss.

"It's a given that each of us is going to deal with grief," says Conley. "Grief is painful, messy and has side-effects, but knowing something ahead of time makes it less scary."

In addition to the better-known nursing and social services offered, Hospice does a lot of grief and loss education.

"We agitate to get people to say 'good-byes,'" says Conley. "We encourage people to gather quickly while there is still time, instead of wasting time and energy berating themselves for all they didn't do. This is the time to learn a lot (family history, unspoken feelings, unresolved conflicts) that can't be captured elsewhere... This is really the time to live."

Hospice of Big Sandy has a staff of six employees and fifteen volunteers.

It is a licensed Kentucky health care provider and is Medicare and Medicaid-certified.

Donations meet needs not provided for by reimbursements. Services are presently provided in Floyd and Johnson Counties and are expected to expand into Martin and Magoffin Counties as soon as certificate of need approval is received.

To volunteer, donate, get information, schedule a presentation or receive services, call 789-3841 or 886-2721.

Care Giver Gives Piece Of Mind

Hospice workers give more than just health care, they give comfort, knowledge and love to those they tend as demonstrated by Sister Margaret Jacob (left) as she sees to Maggie Elkins of Tram.

Organizational Spotlight: Prestonsburg Woman's Club Stays Involved In Community

For 60 years, the Prestonsburg Woman's Club has served both its own members and the local community.

Since its organization in 1919 and its union with the Kentucky Federation of Woman's Clubs a year later, the club has worked to fulfill its stated purposes: to unite others with educational, philanthropic, literary, artistic and scientific culture and to express the need for individual development of useful lives.

Each year the club takes on special projects to benefit the community. For instance, members recently re-decorated the Arts and Crafts House at Archer Park and assisted last spring with the Festival of FACES, including playing a major role in the local appearance of the Lexington Philharmonic Orchestra.

The club is also active in a local literacy program by supporting the Touchdown Program at Prestonsburg High School, a pilot project aimed at building a community support system for counties with serious dropout problems. Members tutor students, a member serves on the county advisory committee, and the club provides financial support.

The club also funds scholarships for academically talented students who need financial assistance to further their education. In addition, this year it sponsored a contestant in the Miss Floyd County Scholarship Pageant.

Thanks to the club, a child is sponsored at Camp Indian Summer in Estill County, a camp for youngsters between 7 and 18 years old who have cancer.

Women of the club also provide support to Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre.

Club meetings are the first Thursday of each month at 7:30 p.m. at Archer Park's Arts and Crafts House, weather permitting, or at the Floyd County Library.

(Editor's Note: Space permitting, The Times will run articles about Floyd County organizations that offer valuable service to the community. To have your organization spotlighted, send information on the club's history, purpose, service projects, meeting times and membership to The Floyd County Times, P.O. Box 391, Prestonsburg KY 41653.)

Hospice Celebrates Five Years Sunday

The Hospice of Big Sandy will celebrate five years of service in Floyd and Johnson counties this Sunday, highlighted by an appearance by U.S. Sen. Wendell Ford.

The anniversary party will be held at the Prestonsburg Holiday Inn Sunday, Sept. 10, from 2 to 4 p.m. Sen. Ford will speak at 3 p.m.

The hospice has been caring for terminally ill patients and families in Floyd and Johnson counties since September 1984. During that time, according to Chris Conley, executive director of the hospice, the organization provided car and support for over 170 people.

The board of directors of Hospice feels that the community should be included in our celebration of these five years of service," said Conley. "Without the support and enthusiasm which our friends have shown over the years, Hospice would not be here to celebrate."

Conley said invitations have been sent to people who have helped the organization during the past five years, adding that the invitation is being extended to the public to "come to the Holiday Inn and help us celebrate."

Refreshments will be provided at Sunday's celebration, and the public is invited to attend.

Park Crowded During Holiday

Jenny Wiley State Park was full to the brim with local residents and tourists enjoying an Eastern Kentucky Labor Day holiday. According to park manager Leon Russell, the lodge was full, as was the campground. He

Floyd County Families: Our Heritage

by Billy D. Meade, Part 2

(#3) Robert Mead's brother, William (#4) (1727-1805) was first married in 1750 to Ann Haile (1732-1769), the daughter of Nicholas and Ruth Haile of Bucks County, Pa. His second marriage was to Martha Cowles Stith (born 1749), daughter of Col. Cowles of Charles City County, Va. Their known children were Cowles Mead (#74) and Stith Mead (#74-A). William Mead was the sheriff of Bedford County, Va., a deputy surveyor, justice of the county court and lieutenant of the county militia. He fought against the French at Fort Duquesne and in the militia during the revolution.

Oneson, Cowles (1776-1807), was a member of Congress from Georgia in 1805, and in December 1805 he was appointed the first territorial governor of Mississippi. Another son, Stith (1767-1807), was a prominent minister of the Methodist Church of Henrico County, Va. William Mead had 12 children who migrated south and west. Some died in Tennessee, Texas and Georgia.

Robert Mead's son Benjamin (3-5) emigrated in 1812 from Bedford County, Va., down the Big Sandy and on to what is now Wayne County, W.Va. Soon after, he moved to the present Greenup County, Ky., where he died in 1821 and is buried on Tygart River. He lived in a house rented from Samuel Powell. The house was torn down on land condemned for the Ashland Airport. His wife purchased a farm on which the city of Raceland is now situated. (This information was extracted from a letter to Henry "Buck" Scalf, from Elizabeth Powell, daughter of H.A. Mead Jr. and Emma J. Fisher Mead, dated June 28, 1951, Greenup, Ky.)

Benjamin married Elizabeth Brown (1773-1851), daughter of Daniel Brown, in Bedford County on Dec. 29, 1796. Their known children include: (#61) Sanford Mead, born Jan. 21, 1798; (#62) Cynthia Mead, born June 25, 1799, married Mitchell (Charles) Stewart in 1816; (#63) Lucy Wilt (Eliz.) Mead, born April 12, 1802, married Samuel L. Powell in 1830; (#64) Albert Gallatin Mead (February 1803-June 1872), married first Abenade Hornbuckle in 1831, second Elizabeth Hornbuckle in 1844, third Rhoda Phillips Puthuff, widow of Joseph B. Puthuff, before 1866; (#65)

Henry Armistead D. Mead (October 1805-June 7, 1897), married Elizabeth Powell, daughter of Vincent Powell, on Jan. 27, 1834. (Their son, Henry Jr., married Emma J. Fisher, and their grandson, Armistead David Mead, is a brigadier general of both wars and Korea.)

Other children of Benjamin and Elizabeth Brown Mead are: (#66) John Lemuel Mead, born June 20, 1807 (I find a John Mead married to Sally Earwood, Nov. 6, 1830, in Greenup, probably not this John); (#67) Matilda Dickinson Mead (July 1809-January 1895) married James E. Nicholls in 1830; (#68) Sophia B. Mead (Sept. 22, 1812-May 6, 1907), married John H. Chinn in 1834; (#69) William Rhoades Mead, born July 18, 1815, married Chloe Anna Dams on July 24, 1837; and (#69-A) Benjamin F. Mead, born July 2, 1818, married Mary Ann Pratt in 1841.

For Robert Mead Jr. (3-#6), son of Robert Mead and Hanna Rhodes Mead, there is no record as to marriage, nor any reference to him, except on page 245 of C.C. Wells' book "Annals of Floyd County, Ky., 1800-1826." It states: "21, Sept. 1822: indenture from Samuel Mead Jr. to Robert Mead Jr., in the amount of $250 for a 20-acre tract on Mud Creek, Floyd County." This is of record in Deed Book "B".

I also find in the Floyd County Tax List of Oct. 4, 1837, where Robert Meade Jr. is listed on the tax books. The reader must take into consideration that this tax list would also include the boundaries of the present

Floyd County as well as those of Johnson (formed 1843) and other counties which have been formed out of Johnson County.

I have checked the marriages of Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Letcher, Lawrence and many other counties from 1810 to 1896, and cannot find where he married in any of those counties. It is possible that he could have moved to another state and settled.

On page 62 of the Floyd County Vital Statistics, 1852-1904, there is a Robert Mead, listed under deaths for 1853, but there is no age, cause of death nor address given except, Resident of Big Sandy River.

Next week:
Robert and Hana Rhodes Mead's son Rhodes (3-#7).

RETIRED TEACHERS HOLD MEETING SEPT. 5

Members of the Floyd County Retired Teachers' Association met Tuesday, Sept. 5, at May Lodge, with president Ruby Akers presiding and welcoming those in attendance.

The devotions were given and special music was presented by the Rev. Wayne Burch, pastor of the Little Paint Church of God, and his group of singers. The Rev. Burch accompanied the group on his guitar as they sang several hymns, including "They Tell Me of an Uncloudy Day," "Time Has Made a Change," and, in memory of L.B. Fairchild, who performed with this group during the last FCRT meeting, they sang "Somebody Loves Me, and Answers My Prayers."

The Pledge of Allegiance was led by Elizabeth Bailey, the minutes were read by Imogene Caldwell. The treasurer's report was given by Nadine Hicks.

Alma Lowe reported that the FCRT presently has 81 paid members. She read a letter from Carter Funeral Home telling of its planting (with the help of local Boy Scouts) a tree in memory of Grace Harmon Conley, a charter member of this organization. She also read a "thank you" letter from Lexie Allen, who has been ill, expressing her appreciation for the program, signed by members, and sent to her following the last meeting.

The president asked that signed programs be sent to Lexie Allen, Angeline George, Billie Little, Ida Williams, Lewis and Irene Campbell, Mildred Hall, Frankie Best, Mildred and William Salisbury, Anne (England) Tackett, May K. Robert and Anna May Mellon.

Akers expressed her appreciation for the scrapbook containing retired teacher information which was recently donated to the group by Roberts, a charter member and former officer of FCRT.

The following chairpersons were called on the give reports: Melvina Thompson, membership; Alice Martin (in the absence of Delphia Hicks), public relations; and Docia Wood, publicity (Mike Auxier, chairman of the legislative committee, had given a report earlier).

Virginia S. Goble, first vice president, discussed the booklet of stories about happenings in rural schools, hopefully to be published by FCRT and Carmel Akers, who has recently published two volumes of genealogy entitled "The Halls of Muddy Creek." Other contributing authors will be Chessie Cornette, author of the poetry book, "He Brought Me a Rose," and Docia Woods, who works with the Floyd County Times contributing writings. In order to encourage other members to contribute to this endeavor, the deadline has been extended to the next meeting which will be on Thursday, Dec. 7.

Danese Amburgey discussed the trip taken by several members to the last KRTA Convention in Louisville and the possibility of more members making the trip to the next meeting.

Amburgey announced that the Senior Citizens Night will be observed

Thursday, Sept. 7, by the Highlands Folk Festival at Jenny Wiley State Park, with an admission of $1 per person.

Virginia Goble presented Blanche Dingus, a member of FCRT, who gave an informative discussion on "Genealogy," which she said had once been defined as "a cross between a crossword puzzle and a good detective book."

The speaker told several interesting stories concerning information she had learned during her research. On behalf of the group, the president gave the speaker a gift.

Norma S. Stepp, liaison person for the Big Sandy Retired Teachers, announced that the KRTA annual workshop will be held at May Lodge Thursday, Sept. 14, beginning at 8 a.m. with the BSRT to meet that same afternoon.

The blessing was said by Virginia Goble, and the group had lunch at the lodge, during which time door prizes were awarded to Myrtle Ratliff and Nadine Hicks.

Hicks, Alma Lowe and Bessie Conley registered the following members: Akers, Goble, Caldwell, Dingus, Amburgey, Bailey, Woods, Goldia Williams, Melvina Thompson, Dixie Webb, Lucy C. Regan, Anna Belle Harris, Mary Lou Lavender, Etta C. Scott, Velva Hall, Carmel L. Akers, Chessie Cornette, Nancy Webb, Arthur Haywood, Myrtle Ratliff, Bertha Ratliff, Anna Sue Stumbo, Helen C. Stumbo, Annis Clark, Rhoda Prater, Opal May and Alice Collins.

BEST HAS HOUSEGUESTS

Mrs. Frankie Sue Best has had several house guests with her recently. These included her niece and nephew, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Chism of Louisville, and Mr. and Mrs. David McMillen and their daughter, Emily. Mr. McMillen, who serves as assistant superintendent of Bourbon County Schools, is the son of the Rev. Ira McMillen, who was once pastor of the First Baptist Church, Prestonsburg.

David McMillen was a student of Best's, and she also received a telephone call this past weekend from a student of hers from the 1950s who was attending the homecoming festivities at Martin.

Phyllis George returns to 'Miss America' pageant

Former titlist to co-host event

By Anne Wheeler

Phyllis George, television personality, entrepreneur and Miss America of 1971, will return to the Miss America Pageant as co-host for the first time in a decade when she joins host Gary Collins on the new stage at Convention Hall in Atlantic City for the 1989 Miss America Pageant, to air Saturday, Sept. 16, on NBC.

After winning the coveted crown at the 1970 pageant, George returned each year from 1971 to 1979 as co-host. This will be her first appearance at the pageant with Collins, who is marking his eighth consecutive year as host.

George joined CBS-TV in 1975 and co-anchored the sports division's NFL Today for eight years. That program won a 1976 Emmy as the best "live" sports series.

She was an important part of the on-camera teams at five Super Bowls and eight broadcasts of the Tournament of Roses Parade. As co-anchor on the CBS Morning News in 1985, she interviewed such prominent people as then-First Lady Nancy Reagan, industrialists Lee Iacocca and Armand Hammer, and heart surgeon Dr. William DeVries.

Such career success is every Miss America's dream. The pageant, although featuring evening gown and swimsuit competitions, serves the primary purpose of providing scholarship money to the winning contestant, according to last year's winner, Miss America 1989, Gretchen Elizabeth Carlson.

"It's my belief that in order to become Miss America you really have to have other talents in your life and concentrate on those talents, concentrate on your education," she said. "Then when you reach the age of 18 to 21 or 22 you are mature enough to take on such an endeavor as this program."

Phyllis George, Miss America 1971, will co-host with Gary Collins the 1989 Miss America Pageant Saturday on NBC.

Phyllis George did not only go on to a great career, she also was able to find a happy home life.

In March 1979, she married John Y. Brown Jr., who was elected governor of Kentucky later that year. They are the parents of a son, Lincoln (9), and a daughter, Pamela (5).

George was the First Lady of the Bluegrass State from 1979 to 1983. In that capacity, she led the campaign to revitalize Kentucky's serious lagging crafts industry, raised money for family crisis centers for abused women and children, and raised millions of dollars to save and renovate the deteriorated governor's mansion. She is the founder (1986), chairman and spokesperson for Chicken by George, a company that markets specialty gourmet chicken products.

While George is returning to the pageant after a 10-year absence, Collins, her co-host for this year's pageant, is marking his eighth consecutive year in that capacity.

TV Q&A

'Gilligan's Island' cast sailed in different directions

By Polly Vonetes
Q: I have a question regarding the show Gilligan's Island. I would like to know what happened to the cast of the show. —Eddie Dulin, Nortonville, Ky.

A: Bob Denver, who starred as Gilligan, spends his time traveling and working in dinner theaters. Alan Hale, Jr., who played the Skipper, Jonas Grumby, retired to play golf. Jim Backus, who starred as Thurston Howell III, died on July 3, 1989. He died of pneumonia, having suffered from Parkinson's disease for many years. Natalie Schafer, Mrs. Lovey Howell III, still appears professionally. Tina Louise, the glamorous Ginger Grant, has been trying to forget she ever played on Gilligan's Island. She feels the series interrupted her dramatic career. Roy Hinkley, the Professor, started his career as a villain, but after Gilligan he says, "I couldn't get arrested as a heavy." He now devotes his time to a business that makes videotape resumes for actors. Dawn Wells, who played Mary Ann Summers, lives in Nashville. She frequently appears onstage with theater groups.

Q: What can you tell me about Franco Nero? I have been mesmerized by him since I saw Camelot years ago. Did he and Vanessa Redgrave have a child together? How old is he, etc.? —E.J. Scott, Anchorage, Alaska

A: Franco Nero was born in Italy in 1942. He is the handsome leading man of Italian and international films. Yes, he is the acknowledged father of Vanessa Redgrave's child. In his more than 60 major films, Nero has appeared as various nationalities, providing his own language capabilities in many of them. He's been Swedish, Yugoslavian,

Bob Denver

Russian, French, German, Polish, Czechoslovakian, Spanish, Mexican, Arabian, Dutch and, of course, Italian. He is best remembered by American audiences as Lancelot in Camelot, the Latin lover in The Legend of Valentino, and the terrorist, Issa, in 21 Hours in Munich. On television he starred in a four-hour CBS special movie, The Pirate.

Q: Do you have any information on Tom Berenger? Is he married, does he have any children, where does he live, how old is he, etc.? —Cindy Frank, Burlington, Iowa

A: Tom Berenger was born in Chicago, Ill. in 1951. He lives in Beaufort, S.C. with his second wife, Lisa Williams. They have been married three years and have two daughters, Chelsea, 3, and Chloe, 1. His other children, Allison, 12, and Patrick, 10, from his first marriage, visit during the summer. He much prefers living away from Hollywood and does not plan to move from South Carolina anytime soon.

Members Reenact History Of First Presbyterian Church

'Gay Nineties'

Scenes from "Generations of Help and Hope," the story of the First Presbyterian Church of Prestonsburg, describe the five generations since the church was founded. Above is a scene from the "Gay Nineties," when the church was organized—Dec. 31, 1899, in the old Bonanza Hotel. From left are Founding Trustee R. H. Leete, played by Wes Howard; Trustee G. W. Gardner, played by Freddie Goble; and barbershop quartet members the Rev. Tim Jessen, John Everly and Jon Goble.

'Roaring Twenties'

A Scene from the 1940s . . .

The First Presbyterian Church of Prestonsburg choir is depicted as it would have appeared in 1947. Jimmy Goble, as a member of Session, is shown speaking in front of a backdrop of the First Presbyterian Church building in Prestonsburg, now a Freewill Baptist Church.

A Scene from the 1960s . . .

The church's youth group played, in many cases, its parents, when the youngsters recently depicted members of the Prestonsburg High School Class of 1964.

A Scene from the Present . . .

Vikki and Jeff Franklin, left, interview the Rev. Timothy Jessen, pastor, and John Reed, chairman of the church's building expansion committee, on future plans.
