Looking good

After a day of gloom, this week will turn around for the better during the latter part, according to the Jackson Weather Service. Wednesday will be sunny and milder with a high around 60. That evening will remain clear and not so cold with a low at 35-40 degrees.

Thursday looks to be mostly sunny and even warmer with a high in the lower 70s. Thursday night clouds will develop and the low will be in the 50s.

As, nothing good ever lasts and thundershowers are expected to reappear this weekend, but it will be nice and warm in the 70s. Nice mildew weather.

Help clean up your lake

It's time to pick up what some of us laid down. This Saturday is "Trash Bash '90" at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park. Volunteers are needed to help pick up the trash thoughtless park users have deposited all around the lake since last summer, as well as the garbage that's emptied into the lake from streams that are used as dumps by too many Floyd Countians.

Register as a volunteer at noon at Jenny Wiley Marina. The reward is a 3 p.m. cookout at the Dewey Lake Downstream Recreation Area. The event is sponsored by the park and the US Army Corps of Engineers. For information, call Johnny Martin at 886-2711 or Bonnie Caples at 886-6709.

Oops

In an article appearing on the front page April 11, dealing with accident reports from the Prestonsburg Police Department, Fred Johnson was reported to have received two citations, for improper registration plates and no insurance. It was not Johnson, but rather the other driver involved who was cited for these offenses. The Times apologizes.

Wrong Rescue Squad

Recently The Times advised its readers of solicitors from the Left Beaver Rescue Squad who were telephoning county residents for donations to a fund raising country music concert. The Left Beaver Rescue Squad is putting on this concert although it is postponed until July 21, and solicitors will identify themselves as being with Associated Marketing. Confirmation can be made by phoning the Left Beaver Rescue Squad at 377-6773. Onda Hunt of the Prestonsburg Rescue Squad asks that people not call his group, since it is not involved with the concert.

Union meeting

Local Union presidents of #2453, #5899, #8288 and #8588 advise members that Roy Justice, international UMWA representative, will be here Friday for a Black Lung Congressional Hearing to begin at 9:30 a.m. at Prestonsburg Community College. The presidents feel that this is a very important hearing for retired miners as well as active miners. They noted that a large turnout is needed.

PTA Bookfair

Clark Elementary School PTA is sponsoring a book fair April 19-24 at the school library. A wide selection of high quality, high interest paperback books for children will be for sale. There are also items of interest for adults, including gift, craft and activity books. Profits from the book fair will be used to support school activities. The public is invited to attend the fair during the hours of 8:15 a.m. to 2:45 p.m. each day.

Educators to meet

A presentation on site-based management of local schools is set for Thursday at 5 p.m. at the Prestonsburg Grade School auditorium. Principals, teachers and interested citizens are invited.

Building closing fails to stem school rash

by Frank Clark
Staff Writer

A month-long rash outbreak continued this week among McDowell Elementary School students, despite the closing of the junior high building and the movement of sixth, seventh and eighth grade students to temporary classrooms in McDowell High School.

There were 29 reported cases of the rash Monday and about 15 on Tuesday, reportedly from all elementary grades except kindergarten, said elementary school Principal Frank Pack.

As in past weeks, the children apparently experienced a red, itchy rash, which faded quickly once the children were removed from their classrooms.

School and state health officials remained mystified as to the cause of the outbreak, which has seriously disrupted classes and forced closing of the McDowell schools for six days in the past four weeks.

"We had hoped that the closure of the junior high building would solve the problem," said Dr. Andrew Pelletier of the state Epidemic Intelligence Service. "Unfortunately, it appears the problem hasn't been solved. This is extremely frustrating for everyone. Investigations don't usually progress this way. We normally find the cause of a problem."

Pelletier noted that no causes for the rash have been pinpointed, despite weeks of cleaning and the testing of air, water, and paper in the school. The rash continues to affect all elementary grades, except for kindergarten. The decreased number of reported cases on Tuesday, however, did provide a ray of hope in the strange and aggravating situation.

"It's better than yesterday," said Pack Tuesday, after noting the previous afternoon that the outbreak continued to "totally destroy the education process" at the school. "Students are getting used to the new class arrangement and only three or four children went home today."

Pack said that junior high students were adjusting to the temporary class-

KSP, Sheriff address David residents' concerns

by Frank Clark
Staff Writer

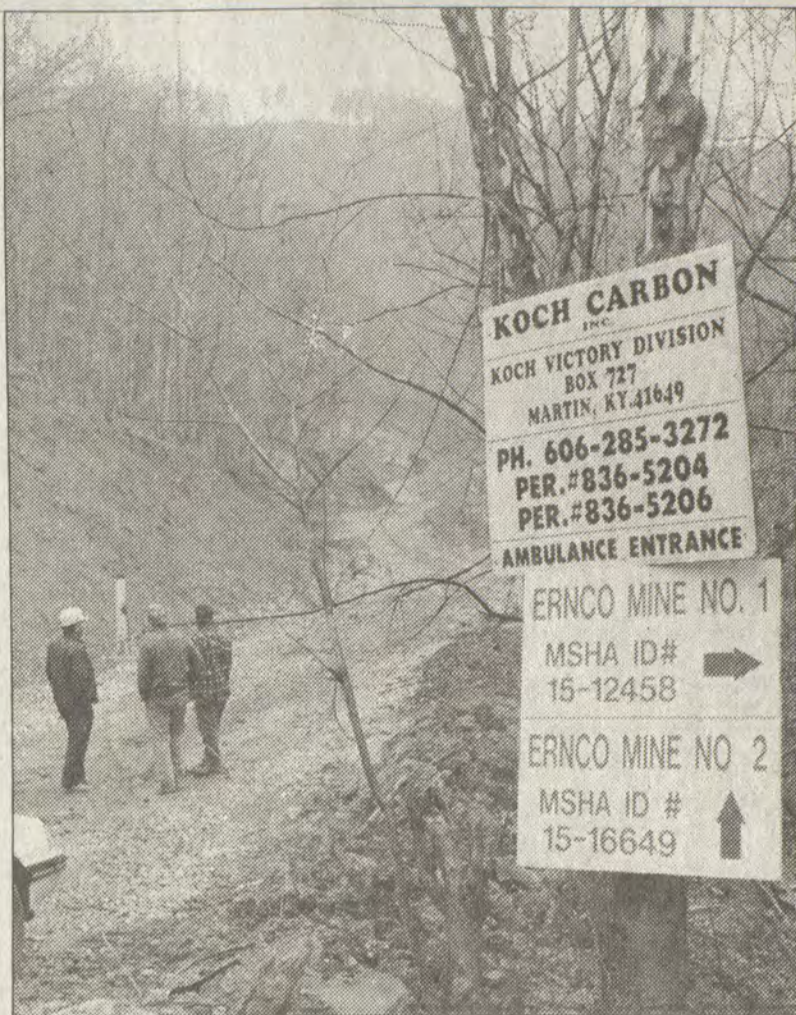

(Editor's note: This is the second of a two part story examining reports of disturbances and drug problems in School House Hollow in David. In last Friday's edition of the Times, residents of the David neighborhood described the ongoing disruptions, suspicious activity, and occasional threats which allegedly emanate from a particular house in the community. Today's followup story describes state and local law enforcement reaction to the situation.)

At a meeting held on Tuesday of last week, 12 members of the David Community Development Corporation met with Kentucky State Police Sgt. Larry Prater, KSP supervisor for Floyd County, to discuss law enforcement problems in the small Floyd County community.

Lonely wait for bad news

State mine inspectors and miners wait for news at the mouth of Harry Moore Hollow, following Tuesday morning's roof fall at Crystal Star Mine (Ernco Mine #2) located between McDowell and Price. Following three hours of excavation efforts, the body of Prestonsburg miner Burt Conley was removed from the collapsed mine. A state investigation of the accident will begin today. Water study may lead to funding

by Frank Clark
Staff Writer

The first official step to bring federal funding into southern portions of Floyd County, in an attempt to address the area's lack of clean water sources, was taken Thursday as a representative of the Kentucky Natural Resources and Environmental Cabinet's Division of Abandoned Lands met with 25 residents of Weeksbury, Melvin, and Jack's Creek.

DAL representative John Smiley addressed the gathering at Melvin Elementary School, informing them of a study which will be conducted this summer to determine the severity, extent, and causes of water contamination throughout the headwaters of the Left Fork of Beaver and Abner Fork.

Residents in these areas have long complained of wells ruined by mining and drilling activity and have repeatedly requested government assistance in bringing municipal water to the area. Many of those living in this area of the county are forced to carry in drinking water and rely on rainwater for their daily needs.

The results of the impending study, said Smiley, will be used to determine if this section of the county qualifies for a federal allocation from the Abandoned Mine Land (AML) Reclamation Fund, established by Congress to deal with environmental damages caused by mining activity occurring prior to August 1977.

If the study shows that groundwater contamination has occurred, said Smiley, and it was caused by pre-1977 mining, federal funding for a water project that would link the affected areas to the Beaver Elkhorn water plant in Allen could be forthcoming.

The testing will be conducted by Howard K. Bell Engineering Co. of Lexington. Half of the around 700 families in the area will be interviewed

Truck Tipover

A coal truck, driven by Carlos Crager of Hindman, overturned on the Mountain Parkway Monday afternoon, near Clark Elementary School. According to witnesses, the truck was not traveling at an excessive speed, but seemed to just topple over as it rounded a curve. Crager was transported to Highlands Regional Medical Center with minor injuries.

Analysis, Part 2

Education reform mandates changes

by Pam Shingler
Editor

"Cleansing" is the word State Sen. Joe Wright used last week in reference to the changes in school governance that will take place with Kentucky's new Education Reform Act.

Speaking at a press briefing on the Act in Frankfort, Wright said the Task Force on Education Reform "tried to examine the extent of politics in schools" and attempted "to remove the politics and nepotism."

As early as this summer, the reform will begin to take place and will range from Frankfort to the farthest school system in the state. Affected by the changes in how Kentucky schools are run will be everyone from the elected Superintendent of Public Instruction to board members in each school district to personnel at individual schools.

Sweeping changes are in store at the state level under a reorganization of the Department of Education; at the district level, under a reining in of school board powers, and at the school level, under a new system of management in which principals will share decision making with teachers and parents.

First, let's look at the Education Reform Act as it affects school governance at the state level.

At the top is the newly configured State Board for Elementary and Secondary Education. Members of this 11-member board will be appointed by the governor and confirmed by the state House and Senate. The board will include a representative of each of the state's seven Supreme Court districts and four at-large members.

The board's job will be to adopt policies for governing the state Department of Education and to hire the Commissioner of Education, a new position.

The Commissioner will be the top honcho — the education guru. He — or she — will implement educational policies and direct all persons in the Department of Education.

Wheels are already turning for the national search for the first Commissioner, who is to take office Jan. 1, 1991. An Education Management Selection Commission, made up of persons appointed by the governor and legislative leaders, is to conduct the search for the Commissioner.

Interestingly, the Act requires that the vote on the new Commissioner be unanimous.

David Hornbeck, a former Maryland education manager who served as consultant to the task force, is being mentioned as a possible candidate.

So, where does that leave the Superintendent of Public Instruction, the office presently held by Dr. John Brock? The answer has to be: Out in the cold.

The reform act strips the elected

Superintendent's duties on Dec. 31 of this year and reduces his salary to $3,000 annually — hardly worth mounting a campaign for.

At the top, this is probably the most striking example of the attempt to depoliticize the school structure. The assumption is that an appointed Commissioner will be similar to a chief executive officer of the business of education, who can concentrate on the job of running the department, rather than running for office.

County woman killed in wreck

A Floyd County woman was killed Saturday night when her car hit Emma Bridge on KY 1428.

Maudie Meade, 26, of Bevinville, was driving her 1988 Ford Mustang south on KY 1428 at about 8:30 p.m., according to Kentucky State Police reports, when she tried to turn right onto Emma Bridge and crashed into the structure.

She was pronounced dead at 9:35 p.m. Death was attributed to massive internal injuries, according to the Floyd County Coroner's office.

No explanation for the accident was provided by state police. An investigation into the accident is continuing.

Travel with The Times

The rules are simple: Take a snapshot of you prominently displaying The Floyd County Times at one of those exotic sights you visit (somewhere outside Floyd County). Send or bring the picture to the Floyd County Times office, 27 Central Ave., Prestonsburg 41653. Include an explanation of when and where the photo was taken and any other interesting information you'd like to share. We'll publish the photos we receive in upcoming issues of The Times. Prizes will be awarded to the most unusual and/or interesting entries. Grand prize will be a solid marble Monument world time clock (above). The clock lets you tell time anywhere in the world. Five other prizes will also be awarded. So go ahead and send in your entries. The Travel with The Times contest will continue through this year, with the deadline of Dec. 31, 1990. Photos become the property of The Times, and the judges' decision is final.

Regional Roundup

Belk to anchor new mall

PIKEVILLE — Parks-Belk has announced plans to build a 50,000-square foot fashion department store at the Big Sandy Regional Mall under development in Pike County. The store will be part of a chain of more than 300 stores in 14 southern states. Also planned for the mall are J.C. Penney's, Sears, Lowe's and Winn-Dixie. (The Appalachian News Express)

Spreading the jobs around

PAINTSVILLE — A number of Johnson Countians may lose their jobs at the Big Sandy Regional Detention Center as a court-ordered reorganization takes place to allow representation on the staff by residents of the other three counties involved in the center governance. Judge-executives of Lawrence, Martin, Magoffin and Johnson counties must review applications for the positions. The present staff includes 23 Johnson Countians and six from Lawrence. (The Paintsville Herald)

Pike schools on their own again

PIKEVILLE — The state Board of Education has withdrawn its supervision of the finances of the Pike County School System. The state took control of the district's finances in July 1988 after the system had run a budget deficit of $2.3 million. (Lexington Herald-Leader)

Man pleads guilty to fatal beating

PIKEVILLE — Steve Williamson, 21, of Kimper pleaded guilty Monday in Pike Circuit Court to the fatal beating last year of Roby Hensely Jr. Williamson was accused of beating the man to death with a baseball bat. He faces 20 years in prison for the charge. (Lexington Herald-Leader)

Groundwater tests slated

PAINTSVILLE — Johnson County is one of nine Kentucky counties chosen for a pilot program to test water from rural wells and springs for evidence of nitrate contamination. Billed as a first step in a broad assessment of groundwater quality, the testing program is being jointly conducted by Kentucky Farm Bureau, University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and Kentucky Association of Conservation Districts.

Two vacant structures up in flames this week

by Tess A. Whitmer
Assistant Editor

A two-story dwelling on Stamper's Branch, owned by Randy Hall, was totally destroyed by fire early Sunday morning and the flames damaged a neighboring house, as well.

The Hall structure was unoccupied, but the home of Terry Hill across the road was not and the flames jumped over, melting the tar on the roof, according to Assistant Fire Chief Mack Stewart.

Fifteen members of the Wayland Fire Department fought to save the Hill residence and other surrounding structures but were unable to do anything for the Hill place. Although the response time was about five minutes for the department and there was no trouble with a water source, the home was completely engulfed when they arrived, Stewart noted, and there was no chance of its surviv-

The fire is still under investigation.

The efforts of the David Fire Department were in vain Tuesday as another vacant building was destroyed by fire. The old Howard Hill Store at the intersection of 404 and 850 at Goodloe was fully involved upon the department's arrival around 3 a.m., according to Fire Chief Jackie Howard.

Howard noted that little could be done to put out the blaze and the firefighters successfully concentrated on protecting the neighboring structures.

The store owned by Jenny Hill had been vacant for several years, and the fire is being investigated for possible arson by the Kentucky State Police, Howard stated.

David residents

of complaints was the perceived problems in School House Hollow, where reports of disturbances, public drunkenness, and drug use are common, according to some residents.

Last week's meeting apparently resulted from the culmination of many months of frustration and fear which has left local residents angered at law enforcement reaction to the community's situation.

School House Hollow residents Carol Hall and Marty Green both say they've reported numerous incidents of public drunkenness, excessive noise, and suspicious activity, all of which center on a particular house in the neighborhood.

Repeated calls to the Floyd County Sheriff's Department and the Kentucky State Police have not significantly reduced the problem, residents say.

"When Henry Hale was Sheriff, he literally cussed me out when I reported the problem," said Hall. "Before the last election, (Sheriff Paul Hunt) Thompson was told about the situation and he promised he'd do something, but nothing's been done about it yet."

"The State Police are aware of a problem," said Green. "There's a constant stream of cars up here, with yelling and screaming, open alcohol, and disturbances. The problem is giving our neighborhood a bad name."

KSP Sgt. Prater said he was aware of reported problems in the neighborhood, but noted that troopers could only respond to reported problems as they occur.

"We haven't been receiving that many calls from the David area, maybe one or two a week," said Prater. "If they call with a complaint, we'll send a trooper. They need to call us when things are actually happening. Troopers respond on an as-needed basis, and sometimes a trooper may be following up on another complaint when a call comes in. He has to wrap up one before he can respond to another," Prater concluded.

Sheriff Thompson was reluctant to discuss the David situation.

"I have no comment except this," said Thompson. "I've been in office three and a half months and things take time to accomplish. To the best of my knowledge, I wasn't asked to this past meeting in David. One of my deputies did attend a meeting in David two months ago."

While state police have tentatively agreed to increase patrols in the area, neither Prater nor Thompson would discuss the existence of any ongoing investigations into drug trafficking problems which might exist in the David area.

Prater said that persons with information on problems in the area and who want their identities to remain confidential can call him at 437-7311. "If I'm not in, leave a number and I'll get back to you," Prater said.

School rash

rooms established in the high school gym, auditorium and band room of the high school, in spite of the close proximity of classes to each other, separated only by five foot partitions. He also expressed thanks to parents who have assisted in monitoring students during the difficult transition to temporary classrooms.

No action to remove children from other school buildings is currently planned, said Floyd County Assistant School Superintendent Russell Frazier, pending results of new air tests which were conducted in the elementary school Monday.

The tests will check for the presence of chemicals or pesticides in the school, as well as reexamine classrooms where previous tests revealed slightly elevated levels of bacteria in the air. Those results are expected in six to eight days.

"Every time we believe we've discovered some indication of the cause of the rash, it seems to be contradicted by some new information," said Dr. Pelletier Tuesday. "The situation is frustrating for everyone involved."

Water study

Bill McDonald, a representative of Bell Engineering, noted that 50 well samples will be taken randomly, to check for well water quality and contaminants. McDonald estimated that the tests should be completed by mid-August and both he and Smiley appealed to local citizens to cooperate and assist in the effort.

"We know that groundwater contamination is a serious problem in Floyd County, due to past mining activity," said Smiley. "What we'll have is people going door-to-door, conducting a survey on water quality. If your water's bad, and you can't cook your beans in it, tell them about it. If the water smells like rotten eggs, let them know. This is the information we need to have."

Following the survey and random well testing, a determination will be made as to the cause of water contamination in the area. If pre-1977 mining is found to be the culprit, the state Division of Abandoned Lands will apply for funding from the federal AML fund in January 1991. If successful, work to run a waterline connection to the mining-affected areas could begin next summer.

Floyd County Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo, who co-chaired the public meeting, noted that a key factor in the plan to bring municipal water to southernmost Floyd was the planned expansion of the Beaver Elkhorn water plant in Allen.

Stumbo said that an increase in pumping capacity at the plant was required in order to pump the water as far as Melvin and Weeksby. He also mentioned, in response to questions about tapping into nearby water sources, that all possibilities had been examined in the past, and the only viable option was to pump from the Allen plant.

During public discussion, following Smiley's and Stumbo's remarks, a Jack's Creek man asked, on a scale of one to ten, what were the chances the area had of receiving AML funding.

"I'd say eight for the Abner Creek and Weeksby areas," said Smiley. "They have an extremely good chance of getting funding. The chances are not so good for the Jack's Creek area, because it'll be difficult to prove that mining has dried the wells up."

Though several attending the meeting appeared skeptical of what the newly announced study would accomplish, others appeared heartened by Smiley's concluding comments.

"We know mining has caused your water to go bad," said Smiley to those assembled. "What we've got to do now to get this project underway is to convince the federal government of it."

The water study survey, involving 350 Floyd County families, is scheduled to begin in late May.

We Promised Changes. Now, Those Changes Are Being Made.

Steve Bow, President, Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kentucky

People tend to be kind of skeptical when you tell them you're going to change. So when Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kentucky announced we were making changes, some of you folded your arms across your chests and waited for the proof.

Since making those promises, we've taken positive, concrete steps toward fulfilling them. Toward making our company more customer-driven. Toward anticipating your needs — instead of reacting to them.

We're streamlining our entire organization as part of a concentrated effort to cut administrative costs.

We hired bright new people to stimulate fresh, proactive ways of thinking about health insurance.

Their input led to the creation of a consumer advocate position to champion positive, customer-centered changes within Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kentucky. A product development unit was also established to design unique new health plans that better meet your needs.

A renewed spirit of customer service is energizing the employees of Blue

Cross and Blue Shield of Kentucky. Now, we're returning to our roots of caring for the customer, of believing the customer is important. We're adding changes that will make Kentucky's most recognized healthcare card even more valuable.

We have not reached all our goals. But we hope everyone — including the skeptics — can see we're moving forward. Choose us again or for the first time.

Cracker Road citizens clean up

Litter along Cracker Road didn't last long Saturday after concerned citizens of the area got together and gave their community a thorough "spring cleaning." Group organizer Kitty Frazier said residents were tired of "outsiders" who don't live there throwing litter and garbage on the road. "Cracker Road is a beautiful community. The citizens are proud of the heritage the area holds, and most citizens are second, third and fourth generations to live in the area," she said. Between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., residents cleaned the road from its dead end to KY 80. Druther's Restaurant of Martin donated two cases of garbage bags. Also assisting were Cleveland Tackett of Floyd County Solid Waste who supplied a garbage truck; Magistrate Jackie Edford Owens who oversaw the road work, and Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo who provided a county crew for mowing. Frazier challenges other communities to follow suit.

Way To Go!!!

The Betsy Layne chapter of the Floyd County Cleanup Committee launched a successful cleanup effort in coordination with the Pike County Beautification Group on Saturday, April 14.

The volunteers from both groups worked on the Pike/Floyd Hollow and managed to pick up 52 bags on the Floyd side and 60 bags on the Pike side. Trash pickup was supplied by Pike County Solid Waste.

Volunteers from Floyd were George Hall, Katie Meade, Jamie Robinette, Charles Parsons, Jason Hall and Micky Blackburn. Keep up the good work, people.

The Betsy Layne chapter will meet again to cleanup this Saturday at 10 a.m. at the fire house. Volunteers are welcome.

Education

An impetus for this move may have been the situation of Supt. Brock, who had scarcely taken office before announcing his intention to run for the US Senate.

An equally startling move by the task force was the provision that all employees of the State Department of Education will lose their jobs as of June 30, 1991 — a move that has received applause in some camps and threats of lawsuits in others.

Theoretically, the new Commissioner will be able to structure a new management staff of his own choosing, literally from scratch. The new staff would not be tied to the old tradition of education management, which legislators contend is not working.

Realistically, many present Education Department employees will probably be rehired in the interest of effecting a smooth transition.

The new team will take over on July 1, 1991, reorganized under the auspices of the Commissioner who will have had six months to come up with an organizational plan.

Housing Authority to receive funds

Ginger Van Ness, acting manager of the Louisville office of the US Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), recently announced that the Housing Authority of Floyd County will receive $172,917 to assist its operations this fiscal year.

The federal funds will be used by the Housing Authority to help cover the difference between projected expense to operate the 107 apartments it manages and the rental income received from the families residing in the apartments.

The Floyd County Housing Authority is a local agency formed under state law to serve the low-income needs of Floyd County. The Housing Authority is assisted by HUD.

EMT workshop set

Morehead State University's continuing education program for nursing and allied health professionals will sponsor a workshop for emergency medical technicians on Saturday, April 28, at the Adron Doran University Center.

The one day session is entitled "Legal Aspects — EMT's and the Law." Jay Nolder, EMT instructor at the Rowan Vocational Technical School in Morehead, will serve as the faculty.

The program will run from 8 a.m. to 5:40 p.m. The cost is $10.

P'burg police report more fender benders

Four accidents this past week in Prestonsburg, fortunately, resulted in no injuries and no citations, according to the Prestonsburg Police Department.

The Bert Combs Bridge was the site of a three-car collision Monday, April 9 when the brakes on Alan Dennis' tractor-trailer failed while he was traveling north on US 23. Dennis, 29, of Sandy Hook ran into the back of a car driven by Jennifer Tackett, 28, of Circleville, Ohio, which caused her to consequently run into the rear of a vehicle operated by Woodrow Chaffins, 71, of Prestonsburg. No injuries were sustained, according to reporting officer J.P. Hunt.

The Combs Bridge was also the location of a one-car accident Wednesday, April 11. Kelly Elswick, 20, of Elkhorn City was traveling north on US 23 when she hit her brakes, which locked up and caused her to slide into the walkway on the bridge. Officer Hunt reported that road conditions were wet and slippery.

Two other accidents were reported on Tuesday, April 10. The first involved James Johnson, 52, of Ashland, driving a vehicle owned by CSX, and Carl Price, 55, of Harold. Price was traveling east on KY 3 and when he attempted to cross the railroad crossing at Lancer, he was struck by Johnson who was driving a pick-up truck equipped with a rail traveling device.

Johnson stated he saw Price in time to stop, but when he applied his brakes the dampness of the rails prevented him from doing so and he slid into him. Officer Mike Conn took the report.

The second accident on Tuesday took place at 4:45 p.m. at the intersection of East Branham Street and North Central Avenue. Andrew Goble, 75, of Prestonsburg, was attempting to make a right turn onto North Central when he pulled into the path of Juanita Ratliff, 32, of Prestonsburg. According to Officer Hunt, Goble's view was limited due to parked cars.

PBH Hospital has new food manager

Larry S. Walker has been named food service director at Paul B. Hall Regional Medical Center in Paintsville.

Walker, a Tennessee native, is a graduate of the University of Tennessee with a degree in hotel, motel and restaurant management. He worked at St. Mary's Medical Center in Knoxville, before joining Morrison's Management Service Inc., the hospital's food service contractor.

His most recent position was with Methodist Hospital of Middle Tennessee. He replaces Tim Pierce who was transferred to another Morrison's facility.

Hearing scheduled for local facility

The Commission for Health Economics Control in Kentucky has scheduled a public hearing on a Floyd County health care facility's proposal.

According to the proposal, Children Care Inc., Prestonsburg, would construct a 60-bed child/adolescent psychiatric facility consisting of 62,000 square-feet with a $9,565,000 capital expenditure.

The hearing is scheduled to begin at 9:30 a.m. Thursday, April 19, in the second floor conference room, Department for Health Services building, 275 E. Main St., Frankfort.

The commission will vote on the project at its May 16 meeting.

Editorial

Bouquets, a tip of the hat, a bow from the waist to the folks on Cracker Road.

Every household was reportedly represented in the community clean up last Saturday. One resident, who has been guilty, we're told, of having less than clean property, was even moved to join in.

That's the spirit.

Oh, if that spirit could take hold of every community in Floyd County and then in every county in Eastern Kentucky. What a difference there would be in the way our yards and hills and roadsides and waterways look. The beauty would truly be exquisite.

And what a difference there would be in our sense of self-esteem, in our confidence about what we are able to accomplish and to be. If we could all clean up our area and keep it clean, there's no telling what else we might be able to do.

While we're on the subject of the environment, we read the other day of a Lexington firm that recycles plastic for a new, sturdy construction material.

That just might be a boom industry for these parts. Goodness knows, we've got enough plastic milk jugs, pop bottles and bags in our creeks and in our roadside ditches to provide the raw materials for such an undertaking for decades to come.

Seriously, we applaud the ingenuity of the businessman who came up with this idea. We need more such innovative thinkers and doers if this planet is to survive in a livable fashion into the next century.

Monday's mail brought a news release announcing that the policeman-slapping, age-defying Zsa Zsa Gabor is the new spokesperson for Woody Owl, the US Department of Agriculture Forest Service's symbol of environmental improvement.

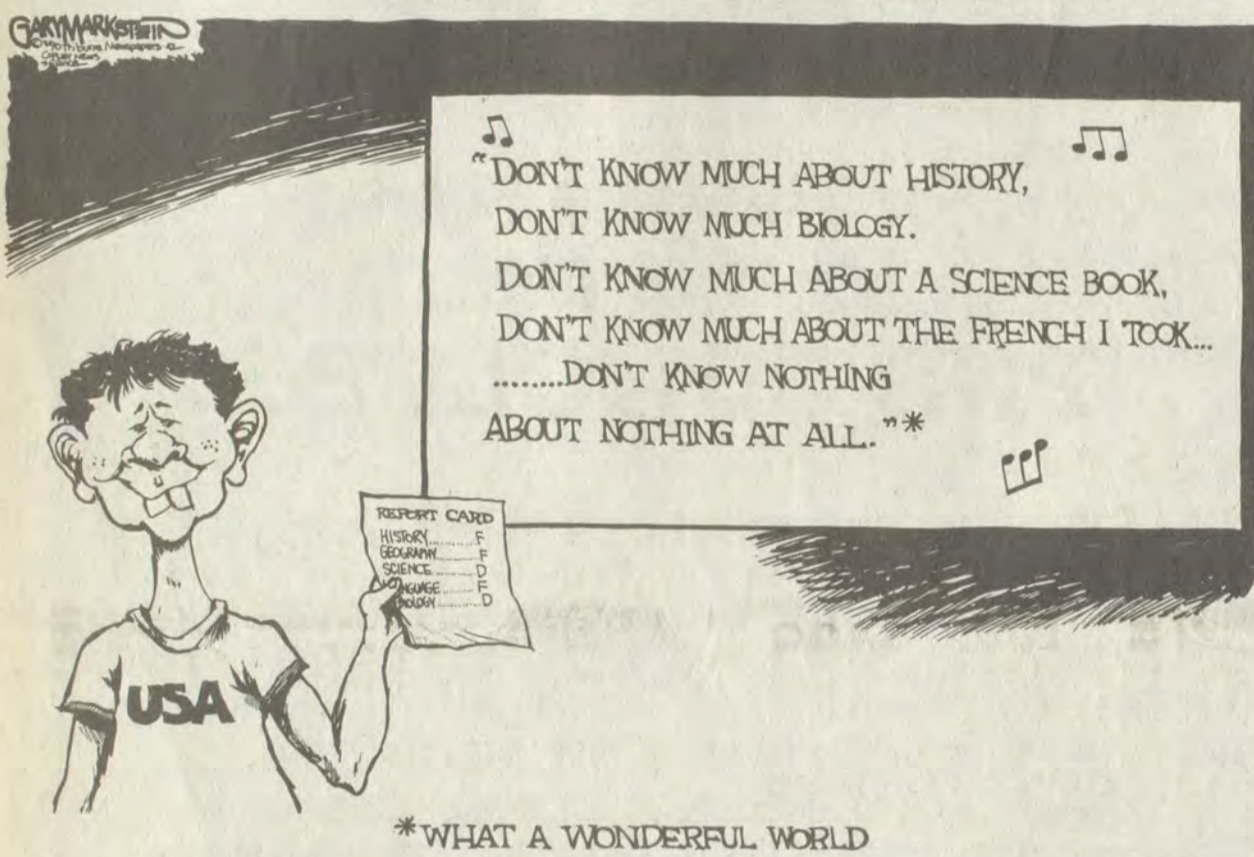

At first, we thought this was a belated April Fool's joke. But apparently it's on the level.

Somehow we just can't picture the venerable glamor queen as ever having been more than 10 feet from an air-conditioner or an automatic ice maker. Picturing her communing with owls and other forest creatures or walking through woods and cornfields is more than we can conjure.

Ah, well, maybe the USDA is trying to develop a sense of humor as the American farm as we know it goes down the tubes.

*WHAT A WONDERFUL WORLD

Legislative Prospective

By Rep. Greg Stumbo

At press time, the House of Representatives had overridden six of 21 bills the governor vetoed during the 10-day legislative recess. On this, the final day of the 1990 session, we will be considering action on vetoes overridden by the Senate before returning to our homes.

Most of you are aware of many of the measures we enacted this year. The Education Reform Bill with its ambitious revenue-generating plan, the Certificate-of-Need or "Humana" Bill as it was nicknamed, the $600 million Road Bond Bill and the Marital Rape Bill were among the most highly publicized—and successfully enacted—bills we debated during this session.

On Thursday, the first of two days set aside for consideration of vetoes and wrap-up of remaining legislative business, we bade farewell to one of our most distinguished and respected colleagues who has chosen to retire from his seat in the General Assembly. Rep. Bobby Richardson, the Gentleman from Barren, was honored for 18 years of devoted service to his constituents, the Commonwealth and to this body of lawmakers.

In his swan song address, Rep. Richardson reminded us all of the historic journey the legislature has made from its once-subservient role as a sort of puppet of the executive branch to its current role as an equal member of state government. He reminded us of the enormous responsibility that comes with wielding authority of any kind. He urged us never to forget that we serve at the pleasure of the voters and it is those voters to whom we owe our personal best as their voices in Frankfort.

Our friend, Rep. Richardson, provided us and all who observed the activities of the Kentucky General Assembly during his tenure, with some of the most daring and substantial remarks ever uttered on the House floor.

He challenged us to question all sides of an issue, to always choose the greater good and not to accept merely the lesser evil when making decisions that affect the people of Kentucky.

He provided a model of brilliant statesmanship, prudent thought, cooperative spirit and, at times, renegade tactics. But, regardless of his methods or our reactions to them, he had at the heart the best interests of his constituents and the best interests of the state he so proudly calls home. It was more than fitting that the final hours of the 1990 session included the opportunity for members of the House to pay their respects to one of the finest among us.

In a session fraught with tension and controversy, we each felt that even the most difficult situations had been well worth the effort in the final analysis. We were reminded that now is the time to accept the many challenges before us as a Commonwealth and to work together—from the Governor's Office to the working class taxpayer—to shape the future of Kentucky according to the mold we cast during this session.

I wish to extend to each of you my personal thanks for the many words of encouragement and the many gestures of support I received during the legislative session. It is my hope that the decisions I made on your behalf fairly reflect the consensus of my district on the many issues we considered. Your advice, the time you spared to contact me by phone and by letter, the many personal visits paid to me and the prayers sent up on my behalf are gratefully acknowledged and appreciated more than I can aptly express here.

It has been my honor, pleasure and privilege to serve as your representative in a session of such historic proportions. I look forward to returning home and to your ongoing support.

Thanks for help

Dear Editor,
On behalf of the Arthritis Foundation, Kentucky chapter, I would like to take this opportunity to thank a very special organization for their committed support of our organization. Knott County Health Care recently completed their Rock-N-Roll Jamboree on April 6, raising over $1,200. The Jamboree included a mock jail, a buffet and a cakewalk.

A special thanks goes to Margaret Noble and Maxine Sloan for their leadership with the Knott County Jamboree. Also, I would like to thank TV-12 and WKCB-FM for their involvement with the promotion. Finally, my appreciation to the community for their wonderful support of both Knott County Health Care and the Arthritis Foundation. Together, we are truly bringing help and hope to the 500,000 people in Kentucky with arthritis.

Puzzled by rash

Dear Editor,
The article on the closing of McDowell Junior High was read with much interest in our home. "Something" (?) has hit our daughter and hit hard. I'm wondering if many of your readers have experienced this, too?
Our daughter's entire back has broken out in a red rash. It caused intense itching. We have no idea as to the cause. Neither of her parents have it. Because of her mental condition, we have no way to explain why her back must not be scratched! There is no way that we can do this. Only alcohol dabbed on her back gives any relief. Her nights are a nightmare for her and for us.

A note of gratitude: My difficulty in finding size four shoes, as mentioned in The Times, paid off. A number of your readers proved to us that lots of folks in Floyd County have small feet, plus big hearts! I was given some 8-10 pairs of beautiful size four shoes. I will write each one as I can. Meanwhile, blessings on The Times and the generous folks who read it.

Citizens do it themselves

Dear Editor,
On Saturday, April 14, residents of the Cracker Road, near Martin, banded together in an effort to rid their community of garbage and litter. Their efforts were greatly enhanced through the concern and cooperation of Druther's Restaurant of Martin, which furnished two cases of garbage bags; County Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo, who provided a mower and crew; Magistrate Jackie Edford Owens, who provided supervision of the project; Cleveland Tackett of the Floyd County Solid Waste Department, who provided a garbage truck, and especially all the citizens of Cracker Road who provided eight hours of volunteer service to their community.

Looking for classmates

Dear Editor,
The Class of 1965 Reunion Committee of Prestonsburg High School is still trying to look for classmates who have not been contacted. We are appealing to the locals to be there to greet out of town friends. If you have not responded or been contacted, please write to Box 521, Prestonsburg, Ky. 46153.

Attend for the time of your life —
May 26-27.

Where's our pride?

Dear Editor,
This letter is concerning our county. I am asking our county government and each individual what Floyd County means to them. Is it having the county covered with garbage and litter, or do we want it clean.

I think each one of us has an obligation to do something about it. Let's make Floyd County a place to be proud of. It takes working together to make the system work. Each person who has an employee should tell that person to take pride in their county.

The ones who litter, throw cups, papers, bottles, etc., any place they empty them should be ashamed of themselves. Think what you are doing to our environment. If you are in your car, put it in a bag, take it home and send it to the landfill. The glass bottles that are thrown out could be recycled, made use of.

The mess doesn't concern a few; it should concern all in Floyd County. If everyone would attend the meetings we are having, show some support, we could get this clean up going. Our next meeting will be May 2 at 5 p.m. in the meeting room of the dining room at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Resort Park.

Clean up days for the county are May 14-25. We are asking everyone who is willing to pick up the trash near their home and needs to have anything hauled off to contact me.

Report to Kentucky

By Sen. Wendell Ford

TROUBLING MOVE BY TVA COULD TRIGGER URANIUM PURCHASES FROM SOVIETS

I have always worked in good faith with the Tennessee Valley Authority. But I have to report that I am deeply concerned about a recent TVA action—an action showing apparent disregard for the future of our nation's vital uranium-enrichment enterprise.

The TVA has made a thinly disguised offer to turn to the Soviet Union as a possible supplier of enriched uranium to fuel its nuclear reactors.

This very troubling move could be made only at the expense of the TVA's traditional supplier, the struggling uranium-enrichment enterprise of the US Department of Energy.

Our uranium-enrichment enterprise is crucial to the national security as well as to the energy security of this nation. It also is very important to the economy of this region, with plants employing thousands of workers in Paducah and Portsmouth, Ohio, near Ashland.

The TVA already has contributed to the problems of the DOE enterprise through heavy "demand charges" for electric power sold to DOE under outmoded contracts negotiated in the late 1960s and early 1970s.

Now the TVA may be abandoning its sister agency, the DOE, in time of trouble. It is jumping ship on the DOE enterprise and fishing for Russian enriched uranium.

Earlier this year, the TVA sent out a bid request for enriched uranium from foreign suppliers and uranium brokers. These brokers are in the business of buying dumped material and co-mingling supplies of enriched uranium.

The Soviet enrichment enterprise has lost military and other local customers as a result of Chernobyl and arms negotiations and now is looking to dump production outside the USSR. By the very nature of the world market, this is the low-priced supply that the TVA would be tapping into at the expense of the DOE.

Since becoming chairman of the Energy Research and Development Subcommittee of our Senate Committee on Energy and Natural Resources in 1987, I have worked to save the DOE enterprise from internal and external problems. One of my first jobs was to deal with TVA's demand charges, which were bankrupting the DOE program.

From 1985 to 1990, the DOE's enrichment enterprise has paid TVA almost $2.5 billion for power that DOE never received. These charges have siphoned off funds that could have been used to develop the next generation of enrichment technology, known as AVLIS. They also have driven up our enriched uranium prices, contributing to the DOE's severe problems in competing on world markets.

I helped to secure a demand-charge compromise, which was very favorable to the TVA in view of the problems it has created for the DOE. Since then, the Senate has approved a comprehensive plan that I introduced to restructure the DOE enterprise for the future.

I intend to keep pressing to put our enrichment enterprise on a solid foundation so that we are not getting fuel for our nuclear reactors and nuclear submarines from foreign sources. Right now, the TVA is part of the problem. I wish it could be part of the solution.

Candidates to meet

The Caucus Club of Prestonsburg Community College will hold a meeting to discuss issues related to the 7th Congressional District. Candidates for Congress from the district have been invited to attend this meeting.

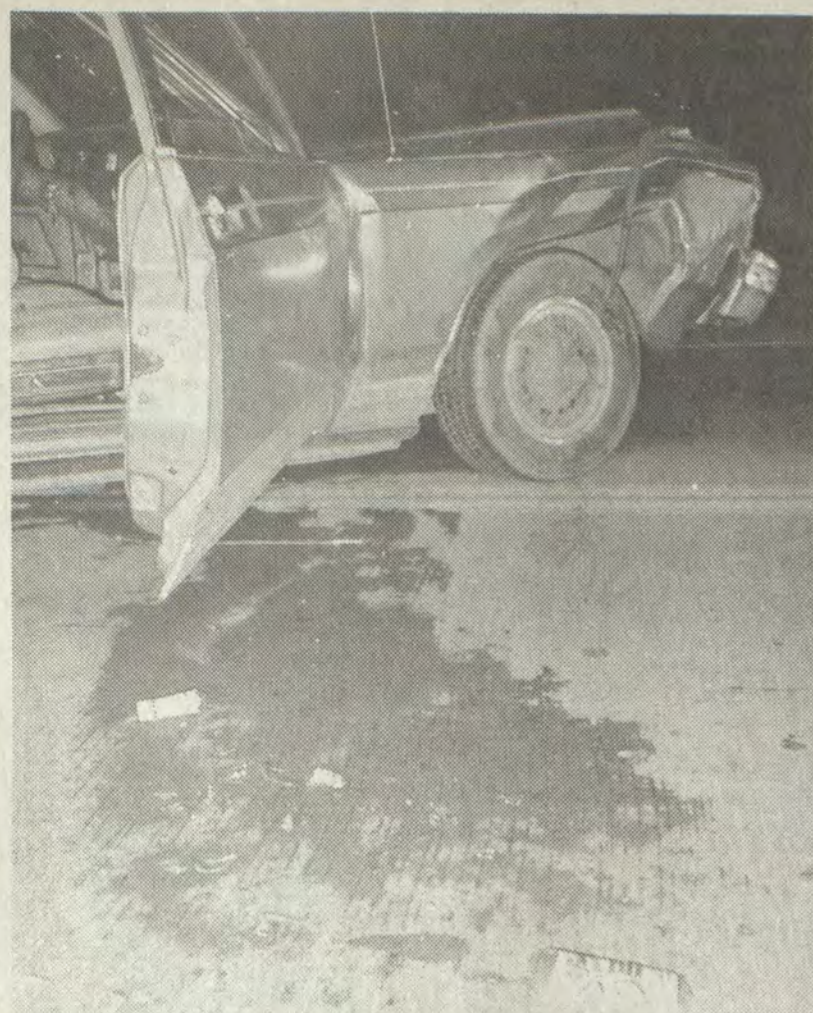

Jerry Cecil, Larry Leslie and Will Scott have all agreed to appear. Congress man Chris Perkins will send a representative to explain his views.

The meeting, free and open to the public, will be at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, April 25 in room 207 of the Magoffin Building at PCC.

Drinking and driving break more than bottles

A broken whiskey bottle and a wrecked vehicle tell a chilling story, following a two car accident in Martin last week. According to State Police reports, Charles Lively, 77, of Paintsville was traveling east on KY 80 at about 8:25 p.m. when he ran a red light at the intersection of KY 80 and KY 122 in Martin, striking a vehicle driven by Teresa Stumbo, 30. Stumbo and two other passengers in the car were taken to McDowell Appalachian Regional Medical Center and Stumbo was later transferred to St. Joseph's Hospital in Lexington, where she was released Tuesday. Lively was arrested for DUI following the accident and was lodged in the Floyd County Jail. (Photo by Frank Clark)

Hearing on Black Lung

Cong. Chris Perkins has announced that the House Committee on Education and Labor's Subcommittee on Labor Standards will hold a field hearing on the Black Lung Program Friday, April 20 at Prestonsburg Community College.

The hearing, to be chaired by Perkins, will last from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Cong. Nick J. Rahall of West Virginia, a member of the Subcommittee on Labor Standards, will also attend the hearing.

The hearing will focus on the various difficulties miners are encountering in applying for benefits and in the subsequent approval process. Perkins said he was particularly interested in the issues raised in the bills concerning the presumption of eligibility and the repayment of benefits.

Black Lung claimants, attorneys and advocates, as well as doctors and other health care professionals will testify at the hearing. The following is a tentative and incomplete witness list: Dr. Grady Stumbo, East Kentucky Health Clinic; Eula Hall, Mud Creek Clinic; John Rosenberg, Appalachian Defense Fund; Thomas Moak, attorney; representatives of the UMWA; representatives from the Virginia and Pike County Black Lung Associations; individual Black Lung Claimants.

"Many changes have occurred in this program since its creation in 1969, some for the best, and others for the worst," Perkins said. "We have seen working conditions improve in the mines and medical treatments and evidentiary procedures changed. These events and others have deeply affected the Black Lung Program. It is time that we in the Congress take another look to see what can be done to improve the program."

Alzheimer's group to meet at HRMC

Alzheimer's Disease is a brain disease. Although memory loss occurs to come extent in much of the aging population, Alzheimer's Disease is a memory loss that gets progressively worse.

Its effects are irreversible and cause permanent damage to the nerve cells of the brain. The disease eventually interferes with a patient's ability to perform daily routine tasks and causes a decline in intellectual functioning.

Anyone trying to cope with the effects of Alzheimer's Disease in a loved one — or just wishing to learn more about the disease — can get help through the Alzheimer's Support Group at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Getting together with others of similar circumstances will help those persons learn more about the disease and what to expect as it progresses. Contact Glenda Hughes, Regional Coordinator of the Alzheimer's Association, if interested in learning more about this illness. The phone number is (606) 886-1330.

The next support group meeting will be Thursday, April 19 at 7 p.m. in the Martin Room, Highlands Regional Medical Center. There is no charge.

EKU Alumni to meet

Many of the 971 Eastern Kentucky University graduates and other friends living in the Pikeville-Prestonsburg-Paintsville area will gather at 6 p.m. Monday, April 23, for the annual spring reception and dinner at the Carriage House in Paintsville.

The dinner is sponsored by the Triple P Chapter of the EKV National Alumni Association.

Special guest speaker will be EKV's head basketball coach, Mike Pollio. Other guests from campus will include EKV President and Mrs. Hanly Funderburk, and Tom Coffey, president of the EKV National Alumni Association. Larry Bailey, EKV director of alumni affairs, and Lally Jennings, assistant director of alumni affairs, will also be on hand.

More than 370 students from Floyd, Johnson and Pike counties are attending EKV this year, according to Bailey. Persons interested in more information should call the EKV Division of Alumni Affairs at 622-1260.

Pioneer in service

Local Bell employee honored as Telephone Pioneer

Tommy L. Mays may not be one in a million, but he is one in 800,000. In fact, he is the 800,000th telephone employee across the United States and Canada to be inducted in the Telephone Pioneers of America.

Mays works out of Prestonsburg delivering supplies for South Central Bell Telephone to Paintsville, Pikeville, Whitesburg and surrounding communities.

The Telephone Pioneers of America is the world's largest voluntary association of industrial employees. It is composed of men and women in the US and Canada who have served 15 or more years in the telephone industry.

In honor of Mays being the 800,000th Pioneer, South Central Bell President Carl Bailey presented him with an engraved mantel clock. The presentation took place at a banquet in Nashville, Tenn., in March.

Mays said both he and his wife, Anita, were honored by all the attention. "I wish I could share the clock with all 800,000 Pioneers. They do so much good work," Mays said.

Last year, the Big Sandy Council of Telephone Pioneers — 169 strong — devoted more than 5,600 volunteer hours to community service and donated more than $3,500 to support various projects. Many of their efforts were directed toward improving life for patients in local nursing homes, everything from building sidewalks to donating a portable stereo.

Other groups who have benefited from the Pioneers' work are the young, the abused, the handicapped and the needy. Pioneers also recycle aluminum cans and have adopted community areas to plant trees and flowers and keep clean.

Although Mays just officially became a Pioneer, he's been doing his share of pitching in for years, everything from visiting shut-ins to delivering homemade apple pies during a fundraiser. "When the Pioneers need help, I never liked to say no," Mays said.

Mays recently reached a milestone in blood donations when he became an eight-gallon blood donor.

Mays said now that he is officially a Pioneer, he plans to get even more involved, particularly with youth projects. "I have three sons, so I've got a little experience," he said. "Whatever I get involved with, I know I'll benefit. The more you give of yourself, the more you get back."

Some AFDC recipients eligible for aid

Former Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) recipients whose benefits are discontinued due to work-related income now may obtain temporary child day-care support under Kentucky's welfare reform plan.

The statewide Transitional Child Care Assistance Program, which became effective April 1, is a joint effort of the state departments for Social Insurance and Social Services.

Under the program, anyone who has been an AFDC recipient for three of the past six months and whose benefits were terminated due to increased earnings is eligible for child care financial aid.

"The expense of child care is significant," said Social Insurance Commissioner Mike Robinson. "By providing temporary assistance, the former AFDC recipient won't be so overwhelmed with a sudden financial responsibility that may not have been present before employment."

Social Services Commissioner Larry Michalzyk added, "As the program title states, it aids recipients during the transitional period between receiving AFDC assistance and earning enough income to become self-sufficient."

"Child care is a tremendous expense to parents trying to re-enter the workforce and this new program should give the needed support to remain employed," said Michalzyk.

The program is funded by both federal and state monies. Program recipients are required to contribute toward the child care expense according to a sliding-fee scale. Also, participants can receive assistance for only 12 consecutive months.

Robinson said there are no firm numbers on people who may benefit from the program change.

"Currently, between 90 and 100 Kentuckians' AFDC benefits are terminated each month due to an increase in earned income," he said.

"Not everyone leaving the AFDC program will need child care aid. However, some people may have been long term AFDC recipients and the sudden loss of that assistance may be monumental.

"This simply gives a person time to take full responsibility for their finances before completely shutting them off from any kind of financial aid."

"For some people the transitional child care will mean the difference between maintaining financial independence and falling back into the welfare trap," he said.

Those leaving the AFDC assistance program will have to request child care assistance; persons will not be automatically enrolled. However, as people leave the AFDC rolls they will be notified of the program's existence.

Current AFDC recipients who desire more information regarding transitional child care services or a list of child care providers should contact the office of the Department of Social Services in their home counties.

Stay in school!

In an effort to encourage local high school students to stay in school, Floyd County Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo signs a proclamation declaring the week of April 15-21 Dropout Prevention Focus Week. Real estate seminar slated

A real estate education seminar entitled "What Licensees Need to Know About Fair Housing" will be hosted by the Kentucky Real Estate Commission on the following dates:

Wednesday, April 25 in the Ramada Inn at London, from 7-9 p.m.; Thursday, April 26 at the Morehead Holiday Inn from 1:30-3:30 p.m.; also on Thursday at the Marriott Griffin Gate in Lexington from 7-9 p.m.

The speakers will be Michael M. Powers, director of Fair Housing and Equal Opportunity for the US Department of Housing and Urban Development, and Leonard W. Clark, executive director of the Kentucky Commission on Human Rights. There will be an opportunity for questions at the conclusion of each presentation.

The seminar will cover the amendments to the Federal Fair Housing Laws, procedures for the enforcement and investigation of complaints, and other aspects of fair housing as they relate to the sale or lease of real estate.

This seminar is free and open to all licensees. For further details and registration information, contact the Education Department of the Kentucky Real Estate Commission, 10200 Linn Station Rd., Suite 201, Louisville, KY 40223, (502) 425-4273.

Seeking Korean Vets

The Department of Veteran Affairs Hospital at Mountain Home is planning a Korean War Veterans Day Program for June. The program will coincide with Korean War Week and will honor the 40th anniversary of the Korean War.

Mountain Home staff are seeking to notify all Korean War veterans of this ceremony and are asking that any interested Korean War veteran submit his/her name and address to Harriet Pipkin, Program Clerk, at (615) 926-1171, ext. 7293. Letters will be mailed at a later date with more specific details about the program.

ENTERTAINMENT

Concert series to host Whitney Trio

The Eastern Kentucky Concert Series will present a performance by the Whitney Trio on Friday, April 20 at 7:30 p.m. at the Prestonsburg Community College auditorium.

The performance, free and open to the public, features music by Beethoven, Schubert and Brahms.

Founded in 1987, the Whitney Trio takes its name from the late founder and conductor of the Louisville Orchestra, Robert Whitney. Trio members are Michi Sugiura, violin; Dana Fish, cello, and Stephen Wogaman, piano.

They have performed together in Colorado, New York, Virginia, Pennsylvania, North Carolina, Indiana and Kentucky, as well as being in residence at the Baldwin Summer Music Festival in Brunswick, Maine.

Wogaman, a Jackson resident, is assistant professor of music at Lees College and director of the Lees Jackson Community Chorus. Sugiura is a resident of Tokyo, Japan, and comes to the US especially for the trio concerts. She is a graduate of the Curtis Institute of Music and has been a top prizewinner at international competitions, including the Queen Elizabeth competition in Brussels, Belgium.

Fish has appeared several times as a soloist with the Louisville Orchestra. She is a graduate of the Curtis Institute and is completing graduate work at the Indiana University School of Music. She has taught at the Interlochen Summer National Music Camp in Michigan.

For those who hold season tickets in the Eastern Kentucky Concert Series, there will be a meeting at 7 p.m., prior to the concert, to elect directors for the coming year.

Trio at MSU

Morehead State University's Department of Music will present the Aliante Chamber Players of Cincinnati in concert on Sunday, April 22 at 3 p.m. in the Duncan Recital Hall.

The program will feature works by women composers including a trio sonata for the flute, oboe and piano. The performance is free and open to the public.

Marshall presents 'Steel Magnolias'

The well-known play, "Steel Magnolias" by Robert Harling, will be presented by the Marshall University department of theatre/dance on April 25-28.

The play is scheduled for 8 p.m. each night, and tickets are available for $4, general admission, from the box office at the school, (304) 696-2787.

The play, which was recently released as a movie, is concerned with a group of gossipy southern ladies in a small beauty parlor. It is alternately hilarious and touching, and, in the end, deeply revealing of the strength and purposefulness which underlies the antic banter of its characters. Harling has given his women sharp, funny dialogue and the play builds to a conclusion that is deeply moving.

Politicos to stump at Hillbilly Days

Sen. Wendell Ford will be the featured speaker at the third annual Hillbilly Days Stump Speaking on the steps of the Pike County Courthouse at 11:30 a.m. on Saturday.

During the past three years the Stump Speaking has attracted most of the prominent political leaders of Kentucky and is rapidly becoming the "Fancy Farm" of the spring political season. The speakers will include candidates for US Senator and Congressman in the fall election and potential candidates for Governor and Lieutenant Governor in 1991.

Pikeville Mayor Walter May, will act as Master of Ceremonies for the Stump Speaking, and bluegrass music will be provided by Coal Town Grass.

Candidates who will participate and their scheduled time slots are: Bob Babbage, auditor of public accounts, 11:50 a.m.; State Rep. Bobby Richardson, 11:58; Paul Patton, Pike County Judge-Executive, 12:06 p.m.; Gatewood Galbraith, 12:14; State Rep. John Harper, 12:22; Attorney General Fred Cowan, 12:30; Dr. Floyd G. Poore, 12:38; Jerry Cecil, 12:46; Dr. Larry Leslie, 12:54; Will T. Scott, 1:02; Cong. Chris Perkins, 1:10; Dr. Harvey Sloane, 1:18; John Brock, Superintendent of Public Instruction, 1:26; and Sen. Ford, 1:34 p.m.

All times are approximate but every effort will be made to stay with this schedule and then each speaker will be featured in the parade.

Piano recital at MU

Guest pianist Ray Thorton will be in recital Tuesday, April 24 at 8 p.m. in Smith Recital Hall, Marshall University.

Thorton is a Point Pleasant native who studied piano at Marshall from 1982 to 1986. He is currently a student of Martin Canin at The Juilliard School in New York. This concert is free and open to the public. For more information, contact the department of music at (304) 696-3117.

Family Fest Day at Louisville

The fifth annual Family Festival Day will be held at the Kentucky Center for the Arts in Louisville on Saturday, April 21. All day between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., free activities and demonstrations, performances and hands-on workshops to challenge children and amuse parents are planned.

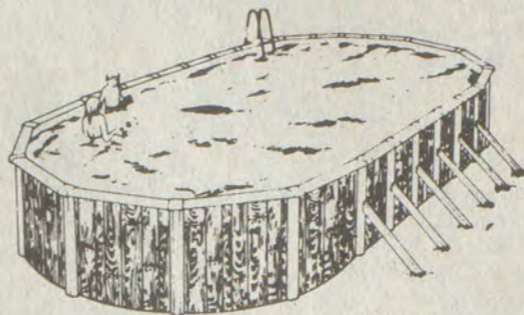

This festival is the public highlight of the Kentucky Center for the Arts' 10-day Imagination Celebration.

There will be hands-on activities in music and visual arts, feet-on activities in dance; watch-and-do activities throughout the building, involving demonstrations by members of the Louisville Ballet, Louisville Zoo, Museum of History and Science, Crane House, the public library and a wide range of Louisville area organizations related — loosely or directly — to the arts.

Outdoor plans are in the works for a family painting party and Louisville's longest line dance. No reservations or tickets needed.

Their pride is showing throughout the country

by Pam Shingler
 Editor

Judging from response to the Times' recent bumper sticker offer, car owners from Idaho to Florida are sporting their Eastern Kentucky colors.

The stickers, with the words "I'm from Eastern Kentucky and Proud of it," have proven popular not only with folks here in the county, but also with those in farflung regions who maintain Floyd County roots.

Although many have responded with simply an order, some have been moved to express their pride in what remains "home" by including a note with their orders.

For example, Irene Kopp of Continental, Ohio, writes: "If anyone is not proud of Kentucky, I cannot understand. I think Kentucky is the most beautiful state in the world with the nicest people in the world... I will be proud to wear the sticker on our car. It will make me so very proud to let those snobs know where I'm from and how proud I am."

"...I cannot wait to get my Eastern Kentucky Pride bumper stickers... Floyd County will always be home to me and my husband," said Donna Chafin of Virginia Beach, Va., formerly of Wheelwright.

Cheryl Bates, a Chicago, Ill., resident, said simply, "...can't wait to stick 'em up."

"I'm from Floyd County, Ky., and I am proud of it... it gives me inside a knowledge that city people don't even know about. We are people who care about people, but we don't like to be treated as if we are a stupid people," writes Thelma Hall of Pocatello, Idaho.

Sounding like a feisty soul, W. West of Orange City, Fla., advises: "Please send me three bumper stickers that say 'I'm from Eastern Kentucky and proud of it' — and I am, too."

"I love Eastern Kentucky and am proud of my heritage!" said Melanie Gevedon Kuntz of Clarksville, Tenn., when she ordered a bumper sticker.

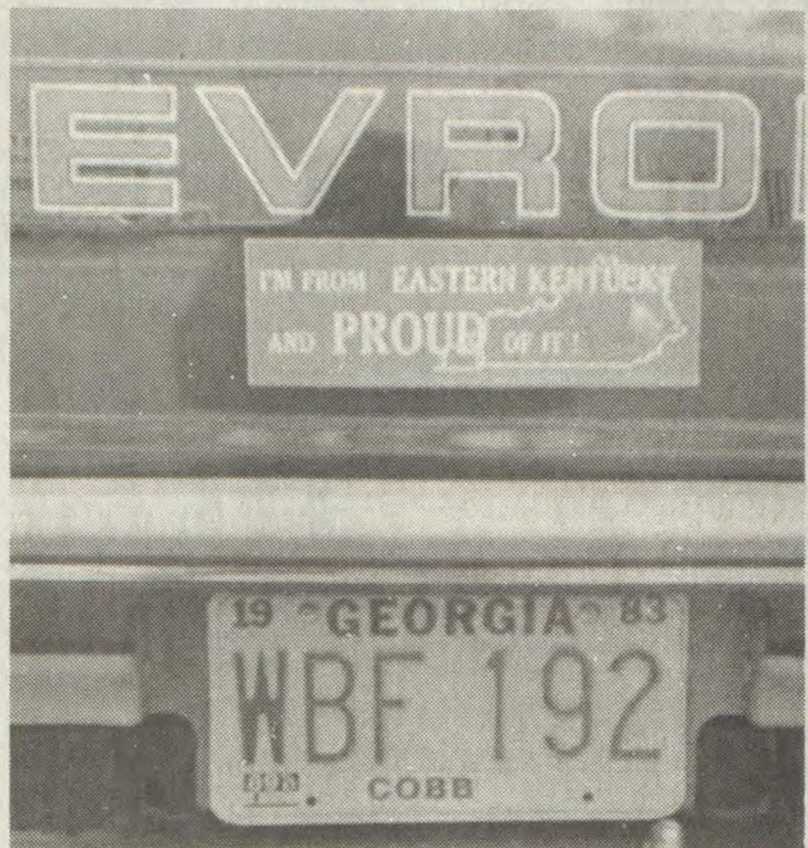

John W. Mullins of Claypool, Ind., asked for 10 stickers. "I have all kinds of friends up here from Floyd County and they all want one."

From Bluffton, Ohio, Nellie Leslie Webb boasts, "I am the daughter of a coal mine employee, the widow of one and a Floyd County retired teacher."

And at least one New Yorker is showing mountain pride. Ralph A. Garrison Jr. writes, "The better half of this family is from Eastern, and we'd be proud to have this sticker on our family car."

It's probably true that you can find a former Floyd County resident just about anywhere you go in this country. And it's good to see that Floyd County is home even when you're somewhere else.

(The Floyd County Times is proud to help its many subscribers who live in other parts of the country to maintain their ties with home.)

Proud Kentuckian

It's hard to be humble when you're from Kentucky — especially Eastern Kentucky. Lynn G. Schornak of Marietta, Ga., formerly of Prestonsburg, displays the "Proud" bumper sticker, offered by The Floyd County Times. Schornak, a contract administrator with the Department of Defense, is the daughter of James E. and Marie Goble of Prestonsburg.

Methodist Hosp. accredited

The laboratory at the Methodist Hospital of Kentucky, Pikeville, has been awarded a two-year accreditation of the College of American Pathologists.

After a recent on-site inspection by an accreditation team, Laboratory Director Dr. James A. Dennis, MD, was advised that the lab at the Methodist Hospital passed inspection and the lab will receive national recognition. The Methodist Hospital's laboratory is one of more than 4000 accredited by the College of American Pathologists nationwide.

The laboratory's director was congratulated for the "excellence of the services being promoted."

During the inspection, the survey team examines all records and quality control of the laboratory for the preceding two years as well as the education and qualifications of the total staff, adequacy of the facilities, equipment, laboratory safety and laboratory management to determine how well the laboratory is serving the patient.

The CAP Laboratory Accreditation Program is recognized by the federal government as being equal to or more stringent than the government's own inspection program.

In Loving Memory On His Birthday

22 SAD and lonely years have passed since the day you went away. The shock still lingers in our heart for we miss you more each day. Deep in our heart is a memory more precious than anyone will ever know. In memory of our son we lost 22 years ago. If all the world was ours to give we would give it—Yes, and more—to see the face of the one we loved to have him back once more. You are not forgotten J.B. or will you ever be as long as life and memory last we will remember thee. Your loving smile and gentle face none can ever fill your vacant place. I will remember you as time goes on, I will never forget you no matter how long. Sadly missed by the family of James B. Hamilton, your mother.
 CECILIA HAMILTON

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Walter Meade wish to thank all of those who were so kind and considerate during our time of grief. We want to thank those who sent flowers and gifts of love. We especially want to thank the Rev. Bobby Lawson and the Hall Funeral Home for being so kind. All your kindnesses were greatly appreciated.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Ron Fraley, would like to thank their family and friends for all the love, support and comfort, during our sorrow at the loss of our special loved one, Patricia Witten.
 May God Bless You All.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to thank the many friends who helped in any way during our time of sorrow. A special heartfelt thanks to Dr. Blake Burchett, the staff of Highland Regional Medical Center, Home Health Agency, especially Delores Caudill, L.P.N., the Rev. Tracy Patton, members of the Betsy Layne Freewill Baptist Church who brought food, flowers or spoke words of comfort. A special thanks to the Hall Funeral Home, and Johnny Hall for his kind and personal services that he gave to us. Johnny, will never be forgotten. We love you all! God Bless you!
 THE FAMILY OF
 RANDOLPH PARSONS,
 Harold, Ky.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Willie Lawson would like to extend their appreciation to all those friends, neighbors and loved ones who helped comfort them during their time of sorrow. Thanks to all who sent food, flowers, prayers or spoke comforting words. A special thanks to Evang. Junior Kidd and the Hall Funeral Home for their kind and professional services.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Nora Maynard wish to thank all those friends, neighbors, and family who helped them in any way upon the passing of their loved one. Thanks to those who sent food, flowers, prayers and words of comfort expressed. A special thanks to Revs. Bennie Blankenship, Hubert Harmon and Tommy Bush for their comforting words and to the Hall Funeral Home for their kind and efficient services.

A proud tradition

Our funeral home has been responding to the needs of the community for many years. To continue this proud tradition of helping families in their time of need, we now offer the Sunset SecuritySM Plan.
 Sunset SecuritySM offered by us as a member of the Kentucky Funeral Directors Burial Association, is a plan that lets you reduce the stress your loved ones will experience at the time of a funeral.
 Through Sunset SecuritySM, you can pre-arrange a funeral now. The plan offers an inflation-proof feature that lets you save money by freezing the cost of a funeral at today's prices. And it provides special tax-saving advantages. We'd like to give you a "Personal Record Guide" and tell you about the Sunset SecuritySM Plan. Just complete the coupon below and send it to us.

KBC sponsors convention for singles

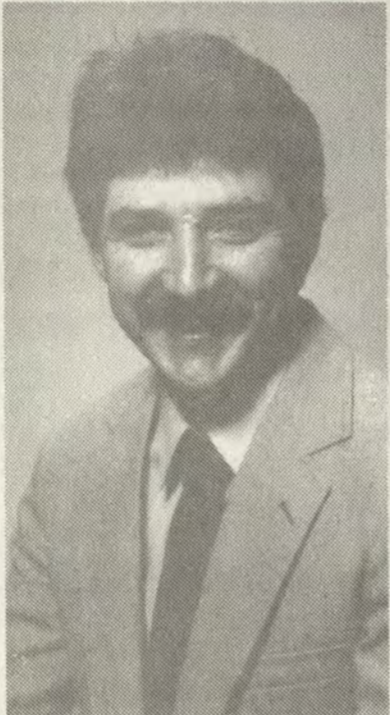

John Lepper, director, Family Ministry and Church Administration department, Kentucky Baptist Convention, has announced a statewide single adult convention, "Kentucky Single Challenge," on April 20-22 at Louisville's Holiday Inn South.

Principal speakers for the meeting are Jerry Hayner, pastor, Forest Hills Baptist Church, Raleigh, N.C., and Harold Ivan Smith, single adult speaker and author, Kansas City, Mo., a Louisville native. Also on the agenda is Silent Touch, a ministry of DOOR — Deaf Opportunity Out Reach — now nationally-based in Louisville.

Special interest conferences on a variety of topics are planned: Bible study, relationship readiness, divorce recovery, sexuality and intimacy, parenting by grace, healthy cooking for one, self-esteem, healthy lifestyles, reaching singles through Sunday School and single expectations in a married world.

The registration fee of $25 should be sent to: Family Ministry Department, KBC, Box 43433, Middletown, KY 40243. Registration is also open at the door. The fee covers conferences, refreshments, banquet and one continental breakfast.

Hotel reservations can be made by calling Holiday Inn, South, at (502) 964-3311. Request the group rate of $50 per night for a single or $56 per night for two, three or four per room.

Robinson ordained

Pastor Phillip Robinson was one of nine men ordained by the Assemblies of God Church at this year's Kentucky District Council. Robinson has been the pastor for the Praise Assembly of God in Prestonsburg for the past five years. He is the son of Claude and Eleanor Robinson of Little Paint. He resides with his wife Bonnie and their two children, Rachel and Jonathan, in Prestonsburg.

Altar Your Future.
 There's one place where millions have found the hope it takes to begin life all over again. The motivation to make a fresh start. And the faith that assured them—beyond all doubt—of God's enduring love. That place is the altar. And when you take the short walk that gets you there, God will be waiting to meet you. That's why we're inviting you to join us in worship. To experience firsthand the love of Christ and the reality of the new life he offers. Whatever your situation right now, there's hope for a new beginning. You can altar your future because Jesus cares for you.
Here's Hope.

One, two, three...

A member of the Floyd County Library's Story Hour class stops to count her Easter eggs during the hunt Thursday, April 12, in front of the Board of Education. The class consisted of children age 6-9. Gets the rabbit Ronnie Dotson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Dotson of Middle Creek Road, Prestonsburg, shows off the stuffed bunny he won in the Floyd County Times/Wal-Mart "Count the Eggs" contest last week. The Clark Elementary student correctly counted the number of eggs (13) hidden in Friday's newspaper and his name was drawn at Wal-Mart on Saturday.

Sharing goodwill

The second graders from Deborah Powell Walker's class at Prestonsburg Elementary School gave goodwill baskets to the seniors at the Mountain Manor Nursing Home Friday, April 13, in honor of the season. Chad Jervis gave Reva Sloan of Prestonsburg a hand-made basket with sugar free sweets inside. Walker said that the children were so excited about this act of goodwill they "never once asked why they weren't having a party." (Photo by Tess Whitmer)

MSU workshop for area nurses

A workshop for nurses who practice in community health settings in Kentucky will be held on the Morehead State University campus April 25-27.

The two and one-half day session is sponsored by MSU's continuing education program for nursing and allied health care professionals in cooperation with the Cabinet for Human Resources, Department for Health Services Maternal and Child Health Division.

The workshop, Pediatric Assessment III, is designed to update concepts and skills in the nursing care of infants and toddlers. Demonstration and clinical practice will be utilized and participants are expected to bring an otoscope/ophthalmoscope and stethoscope to the workshop.

Serving as faculty will be Joan Techman, nurse practitioner in the College of Nursing and Health at the University of Cincinnati.

Registration begins at 8:30 a.m. each morning and closes at noon on the last day. Cost is $90 and includes materials and refreshments.

Nurses attending the session will receive contact hours as approved by the Kentucky Board of Nursing.

For more information, call MSU's department of nursing and allied health sciences at 783-2632.

Counselors to meet in Morehead

More than 125 counselors from various agencies are expected to attend the spring Counseling Conference at Morehead State University on April 27.

Theme for the 1990 sessions is "Child Sexual Abuse."

Sponsored by MSU's department of leadership and secondary education, the conference begins at 8:30 a.m. with registration in the Adron Doran University Center.

Featured speaker will be author Robert H. Rencken of Tucson, Ariz., whose book, "Intervention Strategies for Sexual Abuse," was published last year by the American Association for Counseling Development.

A nationally recognized authority on sexual abuse, Rencken has written extensively on child sexual abuse. He is a psychologist with the Tucson school system and maintains a private practice, specializing in sexual abuse and therapy.

The conference is designed to provide professional development opportunities for counselors, psychologists, social workers, public school administrators, teachers, nurses, pre-school personnel, day care workers, health care personnel and anyone in positions with child care responsibilities.

Continuing education credits will be offered through MSU and the National Board for Certified Counselors. Approval for CEU credit also has been requested for State Education Leadership credits and for contact hours from the Kentucky Board of Nursing.

Advance registration is encouraged. For information call 783-2502 or 783-2261.

Registration fee is $35, and checks should be made payable to MSU. Members of the Kentucky Association for Counseling Development, Kentucky Psychological Association or Kentucky Association of Social Workers may register for $25.

Carter Funeral Home renews membership in Lofty Oaks

For the second year, Carter Funeral Home of Prestonsburg has renewed its affiliation with Lofty Oaks Association, a New Hampshire organization dedicated to reforestation and conservation efforts in Kentucky.

The support of the Carter Funeral Home has contributed to the planting of over 222 trees on Kentucky's public lands. Carter is one of two funeral homes in the state participating in this program.

The firm arranges to have a tree planted for each service that they perform to provide a living memorial in honor of the deceased and to renew the forest life of Kentucky. Last year, Lofty Oaks completed the planting of 4500 memorial trees throughout the nation.

"The Carter Funeral Home will continue to support this endeavor of providing our customers with living memorials," noted James Carter II, a member of the Floyd County Conservation Board. "I believe in the environment and its protection, and being a strong conservationist, I also feel there is a great need to renew Mother Earth."

The memorial trees are planted in the spring and fall. This program is part of a large endeavor, to restore the landscape with the eternal beauty of living trees.

After each service, close family members and friends are informed that the memorial tree has been arranged by James J. Carter II. When the Old Kentucky Home Boy Scout Council plants the tree, the designated people will receive a certificate of planting, suitable for framing and keeping in the family's history.

Not returning Census costs everyone

by Tess A. Whitmer
Assistant Editor

Nearly 63 percent of all the Census forms delivered to Floyd County have been returned, according to Nick Raybourn, Ashland District Office manager.

The county is running a slightly greater rate of return than some surrounding counties, Raybourn commented, noting that it was difficult to tell the total number of returns at this point since they are continually coming in.

As of Monday, March 26, both hand delivery of more than 183,000 questionnaires and mail out delivery of more than 14,000 questionnaires was completed in the region, Raybourn said.

Respondents were asked to fill out and mail back their questionnaires by April 1, "Census Day." Anyone who did not receive a questionnaire should call 1-800-999-1990 and one will be delivered.

Every household in the county should have recently received a "Mail Reminder Card" with the toll free number on it. If you received one and had already mailed your Census in, don't be concerned.

Preparations are now being made for a number of follow-up operations, according to Raybourn. Each questionnaire not received back in the district office will require a Census enumerator to make a personal visit to gather the information, Raybourn said. This is a costly and time consuming operation, he emphasized.

In early May, enumerators hired in each county will begin contacting "non-response" households to record the Census data. This follow-up operation could last until the middle of June. The exact length of this follow-up operation will be determined by the number of households which need to be contacted, Raybourn said.

In addition to the enumerator visits, a quality assurance operation will be conducted. Telephone calls and personal visits will be made to ensure that the information gathered has been accurately recorded. This will be done in June and July.

"The Census Bureau estimates that it will cost around $10 in salary and mileage to collect the Census information for each non-response household," Raybourn said.

"If we have 50,000 households not mailing their questionnaires back, it will cost one half million dollars to collect the information. If you have not answered and mailed back your census questionnaire, you will cost the government and your own county more than you think."

Evening hours offered by Breast Center

Highlands Regional Medical Center realizes that working women have a difficult time scheduling medical appointments during their daytime work hours.

But with one out of every three women experiencing a breast lump in her lifetime and one in 10 women developing breast cancer, a mammogram is very much needed because that one in 10 could be you. This is why the Breast Center at Highlands will now be open until 7 p.m. on Tuesdays — to accommodate more women's schedules.

New hours for the Breast Center are: Monday, Wednesday and Thursday, 8:30 a.m. - 5 p.m.; Tuesday, 11 a.m. - 7 p.m.; and Friday 8 a.m. - 4:30 p.m.

The Breast Center advocates increased education and awareness of breast cancer, especially the fact that early detection has proven to greatly increase the chance for full recovery. A mammogram can detect a lump in its earliest stages, even before such an abnormality can be felt.

Because of these facts, the National Cancer Institute recommends that all women should have a mammogram at least every other year beginning at age 40 and even earlier if breast cancer has been found in another family member. For women over 50, yearly mammograms and physician exams are recommended.

Breast self examinations should be performed monthly for peace of mind and to aid in early detection. Lumps can develop in a short period of time, sometimes just two months, between regular professional exams. Simply knowing the normal feel of her breasts makes it easier for a woman to notice changes which could signal cancer.

In the Breast Center, mammograms are still $49.95 with no initial referral required.

For further information about mammography or for an appointment, contact the Breast Center at Highlands, 1-800-533-HRMC, Ext. 160.

Downed in game two, 155-129

Hopkins tosses in 22 as 15th All-Stars win, 108-105

There was a good crowd on hand Friday night at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse as the second annual Kentucky Mountain Shootout All-Star Classic got underway between the 15th Region All-Stars and the 16th Region All-Stars.

With several college coaches on hand to watch the two all-star teams play, no one went away disappointed as both regions showcased some great talent.

Barry Hopkins of Millard tossed in 22 points in hitting 11 of 13 shots in the first game to lead the 15th to a 108-105 victory. Pikeville's Steve Bailey delighted the crowd with three slam dunks, and everybody just seemed to be having a good time watching some future college players play basketball.

The game went by high school rules except for playing two 20-minute halves. Three officials were used in the game.

The 15th All-Stars had trouble getting untracked at the start of the first game as they turned the ball over seven times in their first eight possessions, either by walking or throwing the ball away.

Allen Central's Rick Smith lit up the scoreboard first with a short jumper. Steve Schultz hit a three-pointer for a 3-2 lead. Bailey returned the favor by hitting a "trex" to give the 15th a 5-3 lead. After Kelly Wells, a Tulsa signee, hit a three-pointer, the 15th ran off six unanswered points to take an 11-6 lead.

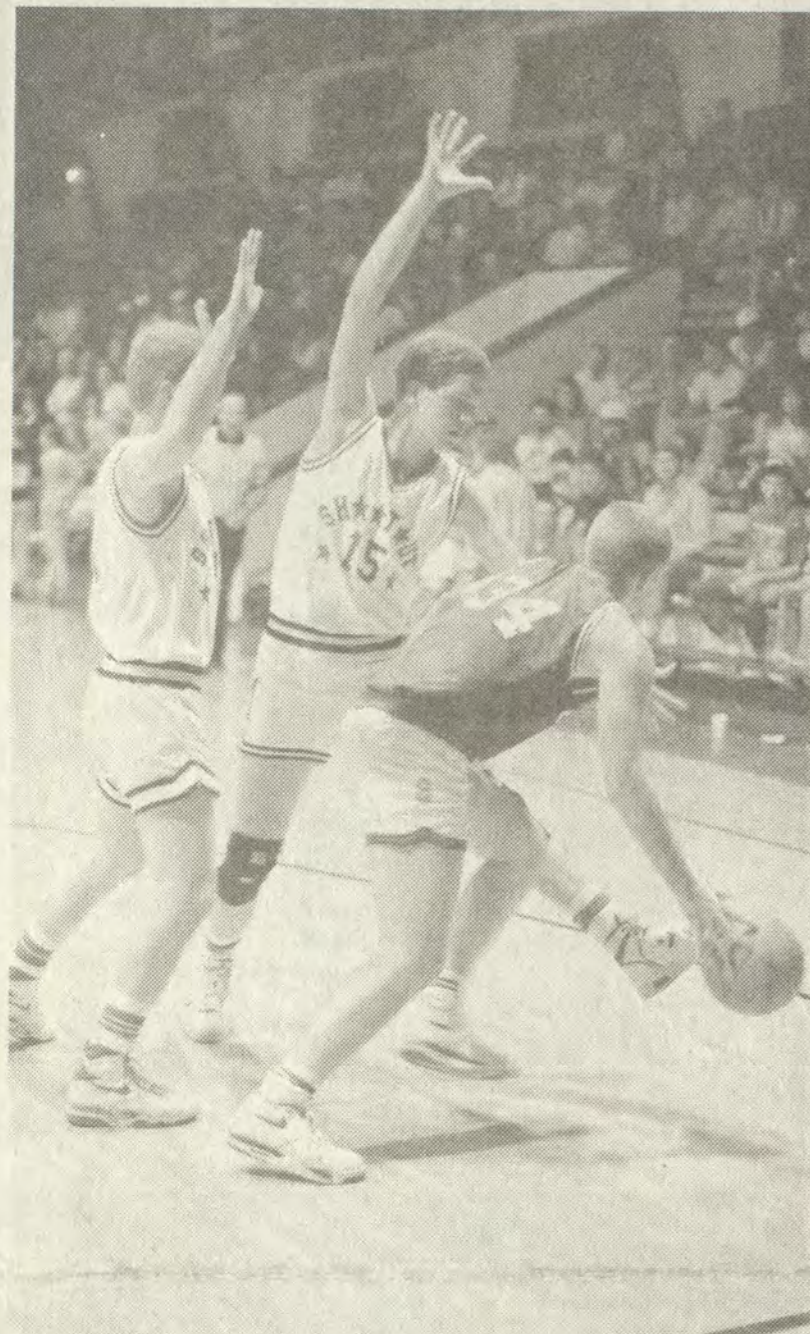

The 16th didn't take its first lead until the 8:08 mark of the first half. With the score 33-28 for the 15th, the 16th ran off nine straight points, on two three-pointers and two free throws, to take a four-point advantage, 37-33. Two baskets by Pikeville's Johnny Hale and a bucket from Hopkins helped the 15th reclaim the lead at 39-37.

The lead exchanged hands until the 4:23 mark when the 15th went up by seven points, 50-43. Prestonsburg's Chris Slone connected on two free throws, Hopkins canned two baskets followed by a three point play by Slone and Elkhorn City's Kermit Belcher made two charity tosses. The 10 points, 87-77, however, a 7-0 spurt made it 87-84 with 7:45 remaining. The 15th on the scoring of Wheelwright's Bobby Hood, went back out in front 103-90 with less than three minutes to go. Two "treys" by Steve Schultz completed a 13-2 run by the 16th to close the score to 105-103 at the 1:25 mark. With :55 remaining

Two baskets by Pikeville's Johnny Hale and a bucket from Hopkins helped the 15th reclaim the lead at 39-37.

15th held a 56-53 lead at the half.

Mark Stevens started the 16th off with a basket in the second half. Bailey then went solo for a dunk that brought the crowd alive. Stevens then hit another bucket. Bailey got the ball behind the 16th Region's press and slam dunked the ball again with the crowd responding again.

Bailey then stole the ball from the 16th and went coast to coast for his third straight slam dunk that just seemed to take the 16th out of the game. Bailey hit another basket for a 68-57 lead.

Trailing 83-71 with 11:00 to go in the game, the 16th began to mount a comeback on a 10-0 run to draw to within six points, 83-77. Two baskets by Hopkins extended the lead back to

P'burg men's tennis team goes to 4-2 with Morgan win

The Prestonsburg Blackcats' boy's tennis team kept up its winning way by defeating Morgan County 6-3 in tennis competition last week.

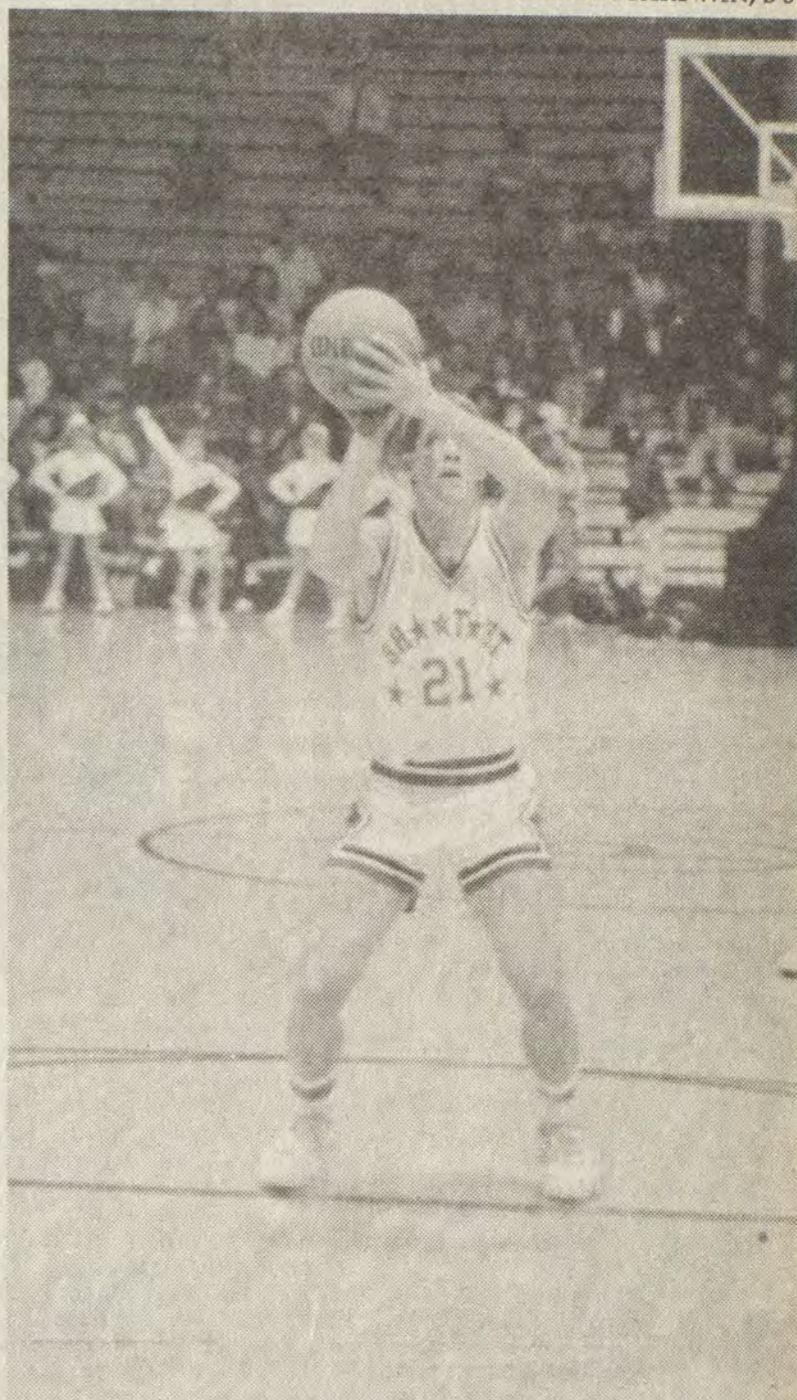

Coach Bobby Hamilton says that this year's tennis squad will be very competitive. The Blackcats return four experienced players in Joe Burchett, Tim Martin, David Thompson and Johnny Webb.

In boy's action against Morgan County, Joe Burchett, the number one seed, bested Shane Frederick, 6-2, in singles competition. Team captain and number two seed Tim Martin won over David Vest, 6-1.

David Thompson defeated Matt Laughter, 6-4. Brian Stewart of the Blackcat squad lost to John Pelphey, 2-6. Johnny Webb was an easy winner over Matthew Vest, 6-2. Chris Sturgill of Prestonsburg fell to Brian Wells, 4-6.

In doubles play, the team of Burchett and Martin lost to Frederick and Pelphey, 6-7. Webb and Thompson defeated the team of Vest and Wells, 7-6, while Stewart and Horn were losing to Vest and Laughter.

Hamilton's team made it two in a row. See MEN'S TENNIS, B 7

Conn, Hood, Belcher lead 15th to double victory in All-Star game

Revenge! Call it what you will, but that is what the 15th Region Girl's All-Stars got when they defeated the 16th Region Girl's All-Stars in both games over the past weekend. The double win avenged the double loss

In the first game played Friday night at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse before an estimated crowd of 1500, Allen Central's Jo Ann Conn and Elkhorn City's Kari Ann Belcher combined for 42 points in leading the 15th Regional girls to a lopsided 77-53 win in the first game.

Conn led all scorers with 22 points and Belcher tossed in 20. Stacey Spake, Elkhorn City, added 10 points. Shannon Callahan had 11 points to lead the 16th Regional Girls in scoring.

The game was tied at 8-8 early in the first period, when the 15th All-Stars went on a 10-2 run to take a 10-point lead at 20-10. Conn had six points in the first period on some good moves underneath the basket and timely passing by Terri Harmon of Sheldon Clark. Belcher also had six points in the first quarter on some good outside shooting as the 15th led at the first stop, 20-12.

"I told them to go out and do the thing that got them here and they did. We were a very unselfish team and I believe that was the difference in the game."

--Coach Bridget Clay

Brenda Hamilton, Betsy Layne, opened the second stanza with a short jumper and Conn followed with a lay up to put the 15th on top, 24-12. Conn picked up her third personal foul early in the second quarter and had to go to the bench. Jedon Hood, came in and hit four straight free throws as the 15th pulled out in front by 16 points, 32-16, and led at the half, 36-21.

The 16th Regional girls could never overcome the tight zone defense of the 15th and never really got into the game. The 15th had leads of 20 and 25 points midway of the third period and held the lead throughout the fourth period in winning 77-53.

Hamilton, playing her usual game, showed a lot of hustle and looked great on defense. An excellent scorer in her own right, Hamilton seemed content to play the 'playmakers' role in the game. The Betsy Layne stand-out pulled down several rebounds and had eight assists in the game.

Game two was played Saturday night at Summit High School in Ashland before a crowd of 800 fans. Jedon Hood tossed in 19 points to lead the 15th All-Stars to a second game victory of 66-55, as the Wheelwright stand-out was almost unstoppable under the basket.

Hood hit several of her turnaround jumpers in which she was fouled.

The 15th All-Stars built a first quarter lead of 14-9 as they seemed to struggle offensively in the first period. The girls did not look as sharp as they did in game one.

Leading 10-6 in the first quarter, the 15th girls missed six straight free throws, four by Terri Harmon and two by Jo Ann Conn, something that is uncharacteristic of Coach Bridget Clay's team.

The 15th had a hard time shaking the 16th, never really mounting any consistency on offense. In the third quarter, a basket by Hood gave the 15th a 35-29 lead, but the 16th got a three-pointer from Madonna Tackett and two free throws by Belinda Henry to cut the lead to one, 35-34. Stacey Spake and Brenda Hamilton hit a basket each to give the 15th girls a 39-34 third stanza lead.

Spake scored on a short jumper to open the fourth period, but Carole Barker hit a 'trex' and Fraley canned two free throws to cut it to two, 41-39. Melissa Butcher hit a basket to make it 43-39. Christy Hewlett hit a free throw to cut it to three, 43-40, when Conn picked up her fourth personal foul.

It was then that Hood took charge and scored eight straight points to give the 15th its biggest lead, 51-40. Melissa Butcher got into the act and hit six points as the 16th was not able to catch up in losing 66-53.

Besides Hood's 19 points, Conn finished with 13. Both Spake and Butcher had eight each.

"It was awesome being able to play with these all-stars," said Betsy Layne's Hamilton. "We played with a lot of confidence and we just passed the ball to the open man."

Hamilton said that it felt good to be able to play before the college coaches who were in the stands and that she felt it was a great opportunity to play basketball with the other girls.

Lady Cats fall to Morgan, Knott

Prestonsburg Lady Blackcat tennis coach Sandy Brookover is fielding a young tennis team this season. The inexperience showed up in two matches last week against Morgan County and Knott County Central.

Against Morgan County, the Lady Cats fell 0-9 to the host school. In singles action, Krystal Howell fell to Missy Henry, 0-6. Robyn Allen lost to Janice Honbuckle, 0-6. Laura Miller was defeated by Jodi Stacy, 1-6.

Rachel Ousley dropped a 2-6 decision to Jennifer Adkins, and Sandy Nelson fell to Lori Keeton, 2-6. Jessica Wright lost to Hollie Hill, 0-6.

In doubles play, Howell and Allen lost to Honbuckle and Hill, 1-6. Miller and Ousley fell, 2-6, to Stacy and Henry. Huffman and Wright fell to Keeton and Atkins, 2-6.

The Lady Cats lost to Knott County Central at Allen Park, 6-3, on Thursday afternoon. Robyn Allen lost a close one to R. Smith, 5-8. Krystal Howell defeated S. Pigman, 8-4. Laural Miller fell to R. Bentley, 1-8 and Rachel Ousley lost to M. Humphrey, 0-8.

Sandy Nelson was bested by A. Grigsby, 2-8. Racquel Cain defeated R. Gayheart, 8-5.

The team of Howell and Allen lost to Pigman and Bentley, 6-8. Ousley and Miller were toppled by Humphrey and Grigsby, 1-8; however, Cain and Nelson defeated Gayheart and Watts, 8-3.

The Lady Cats will entertain Bath County this Friday afternoon at Allen Park.

Bobcats hand Blackcats 13-5 loss in season opener

The Prestonsburg Blackcats baseball team finally got into action this past week as they took on Junior Newsome's Betsy Layne Bobcats in a game played at Archer Park.

The Bobcats spoiled the seasonal opener for the local school with a 13-5 victory. Chad Hamilton picked up the win for Betsy Layne while Mark Bentley suffered the setback.

Prestonsburg coach Russell Shepherd said that his ball club will lack experience at the pitching spot. And that is what happened as the Bobcats reached Blackcat pitchers for 12 hits, including two home runs, one each by Keith Hall and Adam Gearheart. Ray Collins, who went four for four in the game, hammered one out for Prestonsburg leading off the fourth inning.

The Blackcats picked up a first inning run to take a 1-0 lead, when Collins led off with a walk and later came around to score on a wild pitch by Hamilton.

Betsy Layne punched across four in its half of the second inning, getting four hits in the frame to take a 4-1 lead. Hamilton drew a lead off walk and went to second on a passed ball. After Gearheart popped out to short, Chris Newsome got an infield single to score Hamilton.

Hall then hit a squibbler down the third base line, that Stuart Robinson was unable to handle, for a hit. With runners on second and third, Todd Akers hit a rope to center field to bring home both Newsome and Hall.

Barry Collins got a free pass to first on a walk, and after Craig Hunter popped to short, Chris Bias hit a slow roller to third and legged it out for a hit, scoring Akers. Collins scored the fourth run of the inning on a grounder by Gearheart to short that Collins misplayed.

Prestonsburg scored a run in the bottom of the second on two hits. Kevin Hall led off the inning with a single. After Jason Crisp flied to deep center and Bentley struck out, Tim Lester reached on a third baseman's error.

Collins then laced a single to left, his second hit, scoring Hall.

The Bobcats took a 7-2 lead on a three-run home run by Hall in the top of the third. Darren Gearheart singled and Newsome reached on an error. Hall then parked a Bentley pitch over the right field fence for three RBIs.

Jason Storey picked up two RBIs for the Blackcats in the bottom of the inning. After John Clark and Tim Watkins had singled, Storey hit a rope to left center to score both Clark and Watkins to make it 7-4.

Aaron Tucker came on to pitch for Prestonsburg in the top of the fourth inning and was greeted by Bias with a double up against the left field fence. Gearheart singled, and with one out, Darren Gearheart was hit by the pitch to load the bases. Newsome then walked to force home Adam Gearheart.

Collins led off the Blackcats' fourth with his third hit of the game, a long home run to left center to make the score 10-5. Betsy Layne scored two runs in the top of the fifth to make it 12-5, on a base hit by Hunter, a RBI double by Bias.

Gearheart flied to right. Hamilton and Darren Gearheart walked to load the bases. Newsome then walked to force home Bias with a run.

Two runs in the bottom of the sixth for Prestonsburg pulled the Blackcats to within five runs at 12-7. Lester singled leading off the sixth. Collins followed with his third hit of the game. Howell struck out and Clark walked to load the bases.

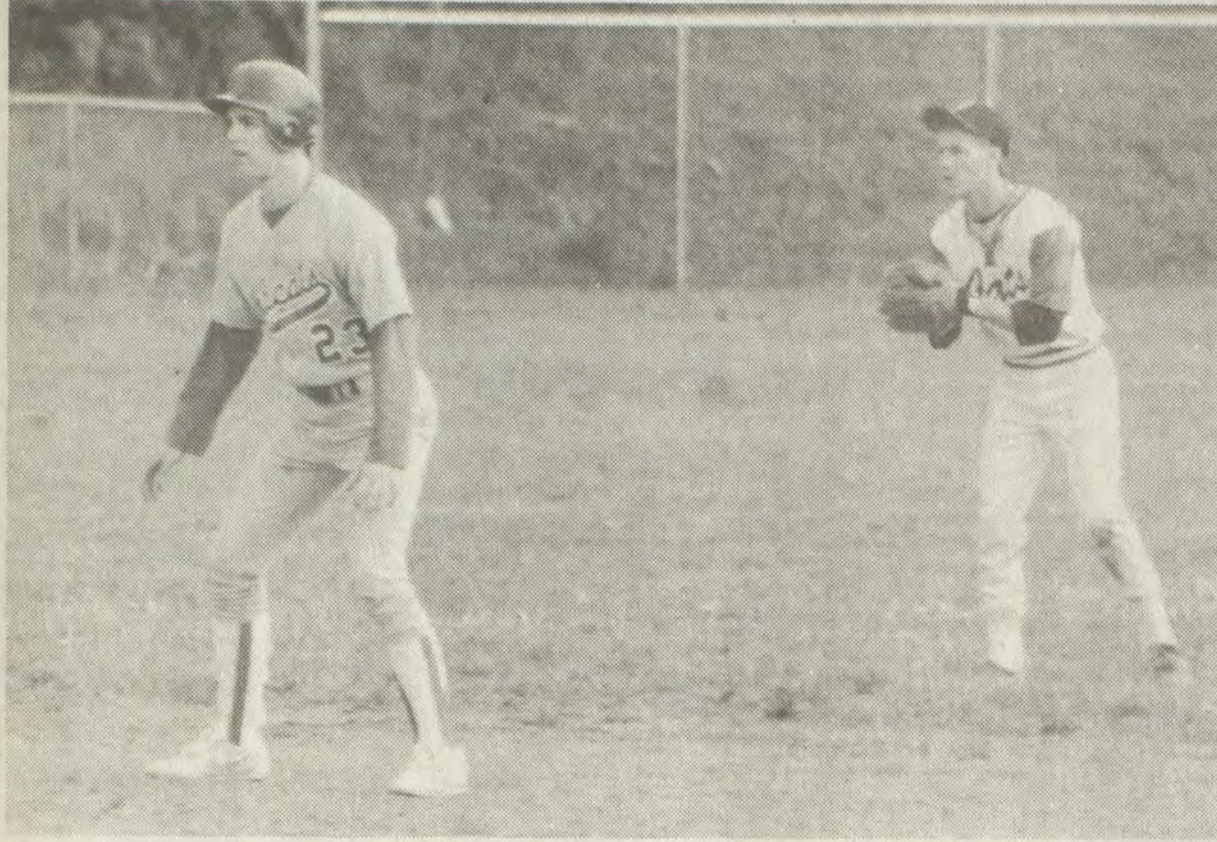

Watkins drew a walk off Akers, who had come on in the inning in relief of Hamilton, to force home Lester with a run. Clark then scored on a base hit by Hall.

Keith Hall singled in the top of the seventh to score Adam Gearheart and Newsome to give Betsy Layne a 13-7 lead. Prestonsburg went out quietly in the bottom of the seventh, with Collins getting his fourth hit of the game in the inning.

Betsy Layne improved its record to 4-3 on the season, and the Blackcats go 0-1.

Betsy Layne will be playing in the Pikeville Invitational this weekend, and Prestonsburg will be at Sheldon Clark tomorrow evening.

ALC's Martin named NAIA Scholar Athlete

David Martin

Each year, the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) singles out players across the country who have excelled not only on the athletic field, but also in the classroom. This recognition is equivalent to what has been previously referred to as "Academic All-American."

David Martin, a junior biology major at Alice Lloyd College, recently received this distinguished recognition by the NAIA.

Martin, 6' 7" center for the Eagles, finished the season with several admirable statistics to his credit. On the national level, Martin was sixth in individual field goal percentage. Out of 325 field goal attempts, Martin was successful in 210, giving him an overall 64.6 percent for the season.

On the district level, which includes small college teams in the state of Kentucky, Martin was first in individual rebounding, averaging 10.6 rebounds per game. He also earned first place in individual field goal percentage. In addition, Martin was eighth in the district in individual scoring, averaging 17.4 points per game.

Based on his statistics for the season, Martin was one of two Alice Lloyd College players to be named to the all conference team. This is the second year he has received this honor. Also named to the all conference team was 6' 5" senior Robbie Russell.

"David has proven he is very deserving of this honor," says Eagles head basketball coach Jim Stepp. "Receiving the scholar athlete award is a tremendous honor. David has proven he is very deserving of this honor. Here at Alice Lloyd, we teach our players that academics take priority over athletics. David Martin is a good example of a balance of the two."

Martin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Martin of Prestonsburg. He is married to Sabrina Martin of Prestonsburg and the couple has one son, Josh.

Watkins homers, doubles twice; Blackcats win over Dorton, 10-2

The Dorton Wildcats, in their last year as a school and fielding their last baseball team, felt the power of Tim Watkins and the consistency of Ray Collins as they fell to the host Blackcats 10-2 in hard ball play at Archer Park Friday afternoon.

Watkins hit two home runs and two doubles in picking up seven RBIs, and Collins went two for two with a walk as he kept his plate appearances perfect for the first two games of the season. Collins had four hits against Betsy Layne on Thursday and two in his first two times up against Dorton for a six for six two games.

Prestonsburg coach Russell Shepherd had a chance to play a lot of his younger players in the victory. The Blackcats are also without the services of power hitter, Stuart Robinson who cannot swing the bat because of shoulder problems. However, Robinson can play the infield as Shepherd uses the designated hitter in Robinson's position. Robinson may be able to swing the bat in two to three weeks.

Senior shortstop David Wright gave the Wildcats a brief 1-0 lead with a long drive over the left field fence in the first inning. Wright hit the homer with two out in the inning. Watkins responded with a shot of his own, a two-run round tripper in the bottom of the first as Prestonsburg scored three times to take a 3-1 lead. Collins had led off the inning with a double, and Jason Storey doubled him home when Watkins hit his home run.

Prestonsburg really opened things up in the bottom of the second with five runs on five hits. Freshman Aaron Tucker singled, leading off the second. After Tim Lester grounded back to the pitcher, Collins singled up the middle. Freshman Jason Crisp, who is going to be a good one, drove Tucker home with a solid hit to center. Watkins then unloaded his second home run of the game with a drive over the left center field fence picking up three RBIs and giving the Blackcats an 8-1 lead.

Prestonsburg made it 10-1 with two in the bottom of third. Lester lined a single to right. Collins walked. After Rodney Gardner, who came into the game for Crisp, struck out, Kevin Conley struck out; however, the catcher missed the ball and Conley was safe at first with Lester being tagged out at home, trying to score on the passed ball. Watkins then picked up his sixth and seventh RBIs with a double to left field.

Dorton scored its second and final run in the top of the sixth inning on a

John Clark (1-0) started on the mound for the Blackcats and went the distance in getting the win. Jeremy Johnson (0-1) was the loser in starting for Dorton. Clark had six strike outs in the game, fanning the side in the second. Clark issued four walks in the contest.

Watkins was four for four with his two home runs and two doubles. The big centerfielder had seven RBIs. The Blackcats left eight runners stranded on base and Dorton left 10.

'LET'S TALK BASKETBALL'
While sitting at my desk yesterday writing an article on camping, my phone rang with a caller from Lawrence County. "Let's talk basketball," he said. "I love basketball and I read your sports page and just wanted to call you and talk a little basketball."

The caller was Nolin Willard, a self-proclaimed "basketball nut." Willard wanted to know who I thought was the best basketball player to come out of the 15th Region. (Boy, they like to put you on the spot.)

Well before I had a chance to give my answer, he gave me his. Pat Talent, Maytown, and Todd May, Virgie, were his top two choices.

Of course, Mr. Willard confessed that, just being 30 years old, he wasn't around during the reign of "King" Kelly Coleman of Wayland. But who can argue his choices. Both were great players and worthy of his choices. (Coleman is my choice)

Willard also remarked that the guard duo of Henry Webb and Dickie Joe Shannon was his choice of the best guard combination out of the 15th Region.

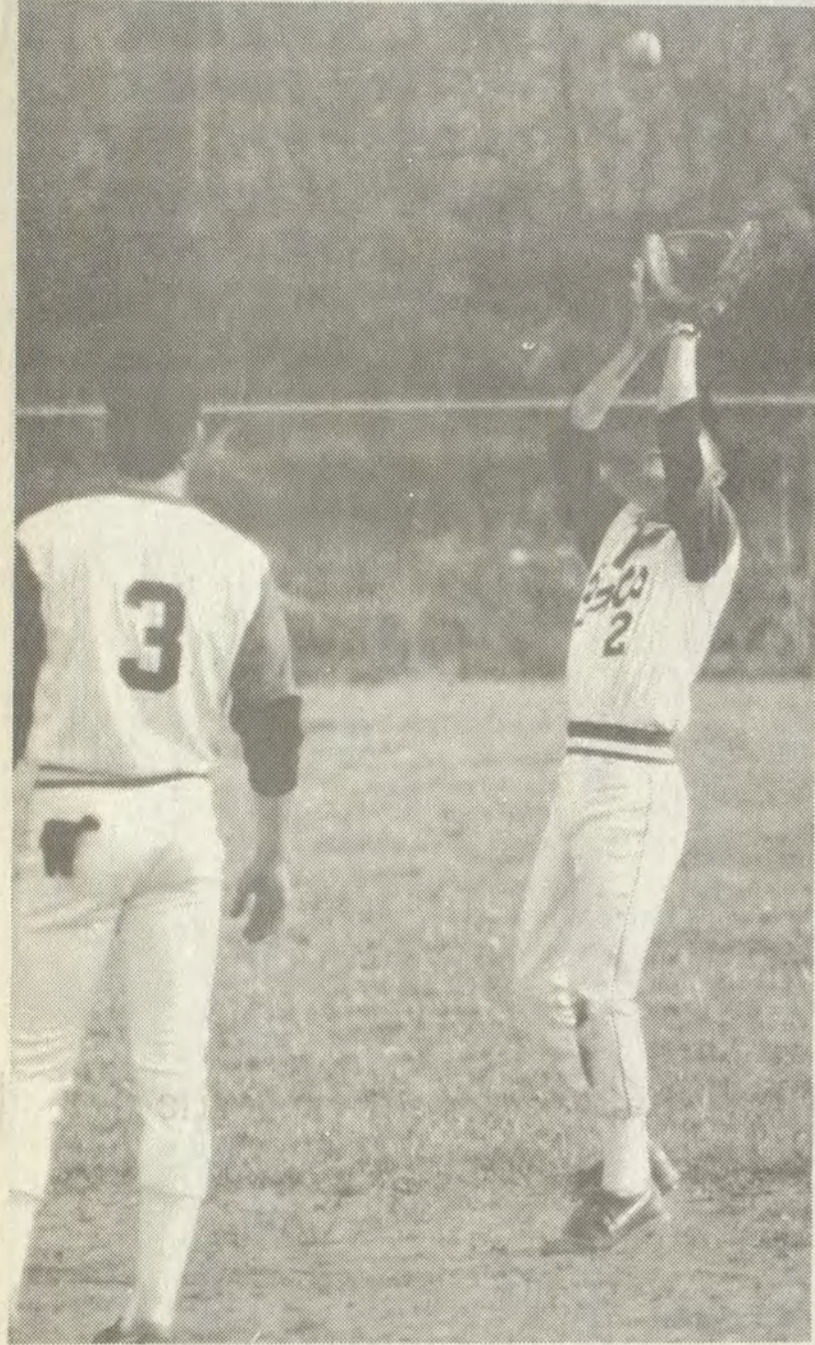

Coaches Bobby Osborne of Virgie and Junior Newsome were tabbed by Willard as the best coaches of the 15th Region. He doesn't remember Hoss Halbert, John Campbell, Don Wallen and Tommy Boyd.

Willard says that although he lives in the 16th Region, he is a fan of the 15th and wanted to know why Jody Thompson was not going to play in the all-star classic? The answer is that Thompson chose not to take part. The reason we don't know.

Willard even talked about the refer-rees in basketball and all the things that he said were positive. He sympathized with the baseball players not having an adequate number of fields to play on.

We enjoyed spending a half hour talking basketball with Nolin Willard of the 16th Region. We appreciate his call and look forward to hearing from him again before basketball season starts this fall to get his opinions on the season.

'Lights, camping, action'

When going camping what are the essentials you need to pack along?

Dependable lights are among the most important pieces of outdoor gear. Whether hunting, fishing or camping, lights are essential to function in the predawn and evening hours.

Three types of lights will fulfill most outdoorsmen's needs: hand held flashlights, Coleman lanterns and dual purpose lights.

Flashlights, which come in a wide range of sizes and styles, are simply indispensable. From tiny pocket size models that operate on one or two AA batteries, to large multi-battery models, sportsmen can choose many models to fit many general needs, as well as special needs.

Waterproof models, suitable for fishermen, boaters and waterfowlers, even models that float, should be considered standard equipment for most outings.

Lights are not the only important items needed for camping. According to camping enthusiast Frank Clark of Hueysville, you definitely need something to start a fire with.

"Beside matches, you will need some dry kindling to start your fire," he explained. "A hatchet is important for putting up your tent and cutting wood. It comes in handy when you want to poke (stir) your fire also."

Clark says that a good sleeping bag is an essential whether you stay inside the tent or not. The sleeping bag should be good for the temperature you will be sleeping in.

"There are different sleeping bags around and it depends on when you go camping as to what kind you would take. I have one that is supposed to be good for down to 20 degrees below 0," he stated.

Clark says that he likes to take a mat of some kind along to put under the bag. He says the mat acts as a cushion for your sleeping bag besides keeping the cold ground from reaching you.

Water is very important to take on a camping outing, explained Clark, as are cooking utensils and a first aid kit.

If you are camping in an isolated area and are not familiar with the surroundings, a compass could come in handy. A compass doesn't take up that much room so just throw one in — just in case.

If your stay will be for more than one day, carry a small bottle of liquid soap for cleaning those utensils.

"The food you take can be elaborate," Clark said. "But I find it easiest to just take a can of beef stew along and open it up. However, we have made it from scratch at the camp site."

"An extra pair of socks is important to take along because you are always getting your feet wet," he remarked. "In backpacking you don't want to take too much in the clothing line, but a change of socks is important."

When you head out to camp in the beautiful outdoors, think safety and be safe!

Millard gets 7 unearned runs in second; hand Rebels 17-11 loss

When you score 11 runs in a baseball game you expect to win it. But that wasn't the case with Anthony Moore's Allen Central Rebels at Millard Saturday afternoon as they faced the Mustangs.

The Mustangs pushed across seven unearned runs in the second inning to post a 17-11 victory over the Rebels. Terry Thompson picked up the win for Millard. Thompson struck out three in the route-going win. Terry Spurlock suffered the setback for Allen Central. Spurlock recorded three strike outs.

The Rebels took a 2-0 lead in the top of the first inning as the Mustangs were guilty of some miscues themselves. Stewart Hall led off the game with a base hit. Brett Meadows then reached on a fielder's error. With one out, Chuck Lafferty hit a grounder to shortstop and the ball was thrown wildly to first, allowing both Hall and Meadows to come home.

The Mustangs tied the game with two of their own in the bottom of the first inning on RBI singles by Thompson and David Little. Allen Central regained the lead by scoring a single run in the top of the second. However, the lead was shortlived as the Mustangs took advantage of the fielding mistakes of the Rebels in the bottom of the second.

Allen Central committed four errors in the frame, and Thompson drove home two runs with a base hit. All seven runs were unearned for the Mustangs.

Trailing 12-5 going into the top of the fourth, Allen Central plated three runs to make it 12-8. Mickey Parsons hit a double that drove home one run, and Lafferty followed Parsons with a run-producing double. Lafferty then came home on Stevie Robinson's run scoring single.

Allen Central struck off three more runs in the sixth inning, to make it 12-11, as Millard made some costly mistakes. John Martin had an RBI single in the inning.

Things really got bad for the Rebels in the bottom of the sixth when Millard scored five times to take the final lead, 17-11. Brian Meade had a two-run single in the inning.

Allen Central committed six errors in the game as did Millard. David Little went three for three, including a triple, in the contest and John Akers was three for four. Little had four RBIs in the game and Thompson had three.

Allen Central will entertain the Trojans of Wheelwright tomorrow (Thursday) afternoon at the Allen Park.

Bassin' with the Pros

Balloon Fishing Adds Excitement For Anglers
 Many different techniques are used to fool largemouth bass, but one of the most exciting involves the use of balloons.

They're blown up about the size of a lemon, then tied to your fishing line; they take the place of heavier plastic floats or corks.

"We use balloons a lot when shiner fishing for big bass on Lake Okeechobee," explains Johnson Outboards Pro Staff angler and guide Steve Daniel. "They're especially effective when we need casting accuracy when the fish are back in the potholes in the reeds."

"A big float weighs just enough to upset your casting, but a balloon doesn't weigh anything, and it floats just as well."

The reason for using any type of float is simply to monitor what the shiner is doing underwater. When the float disappears, it means a big bass has hit the bait.

"A balloon does the job just as well," says Daniel, "even though you'd think it would pop when it hits the grass."

"A big mistake many anglers make is to blow the balloons up too large. If you do, they will pop in the reeds, but if you keep them small you won't have any trouble."

The balloons are tied off so no air can escape, then tied to the fishing line several feet above the bait. With careful handling, a single balloon can last all day, according to the Johnson pro.

Daniel, who moved from Chattanooga to Clewiston, Fla., so he could guide full time on Lake Okeechobee, says he knows of other lakes where balloons are also used for bass fishing.

"Sometimes, balloons are used in fishing for striped bass," he explains. "The technique is basically the same, although the bait is usually fished much deeper. The balloon simply serves as a line marker to let the angler know what's happening down below."

Shotgun Patterning For Turkey

Turkey hunters, being keenly aware of the importance of shot patterns and the relation they play to clean kills, must pattern their gun before heading to the woods on opening day.

Your shotgun throws a shot pattern as unique as your own fingerprint. For example, while my full-choked shotgun may throw a perfectly uniform pattern with #5 shot, it might leave big holes with #6 shot. Another hunter, using a gun/barrel/choke combination identical to my own, might discover that his gun gets the opposite results, or that his gun throws its pattern density to the right or left of the point of aim.

Astute hunters should study their shotgun's pattern with different sized shot (4s, 5s and 6s) in order to maximize the chance for a good shot, and minimize the chance for a lost or wounded turkey.

Winchester is now producing a wonderful turkey patterning kit complete with instructions and targets. Some dealers who carry the kit are supplying it with a couple of rounds of each shot size in order to facilitate your testing.

If you cannot locate Winchester's turkey patterning kit, you can construct your own targets. A mature gobbler's head and neck, which is the kill zone, is roughly the size of your clinched fist and the first six inches of your wrist. You can create turkey targets by tracing your clinched fist and wrist on a large (30" x 30") piece of paper.

For proper testing, you will need at least six targets, 2 each #4, #5 and #6 turkey loads, and your full, super-full, or extra-full choked shotgun.

To start, tack a target to a large piece of cardboard or plywood so that the center of the turkey's neck is about 30-inches from the ground. Now, back off about 25 yards from the target and assume a sitting position similar to that which you will use when hunting. Using a #4 shell, aim at that point where the turkey's head and neck join and then fire. Mark that target "#4 shot — 25 yards".

Study the target. If the shot indicated that your point-of-impact is a little off-center, try compensating for it with the next shot.

Now repeat the procedure with a #5 and then a #6 shell.

Next, back up to 35 yards and repeat the procedure with a #4, a #5 and a #6 shotshell, being sure to mark each target with the distance and shot size used.

Now analyze the pattern density produced by each shot size. Compare the targets to determine which pattern produces the most even dispersal of pellets. For best results, the shell you use should be able to produce at least six hits to the vital head and neck area, and more than that is desirable.

If you discover that your shotgun is throwing the center of its pattern well off-center, you might want to take it to a gunsmith for possible correction. Another option is installing open sights, or even a low power scope, so that you can adjust for point of impact.

While most turkey hunting is done with 10-gauge or 3" 12-gauge shotshells, you need to remember that some 3" 12-gauge shotguns throw a more uniform pattern with two 3/4-inch shells.

Shotgun patterning is the first step to a successful turkey hunt. Don't even think about hitting the woods without doing it! Good Hunting!

ing, the 15th turned the ball over and the 16th had five shots at the basket when Hale pulled down the rebound and was fouled.

Hale cashed in both charity tosses for a 107-103 lead with 21 seconds to go. Wells hit two free throws for the 16th to make it 107-105. With nine seconds remaining, Bailey hit a free throw. The 16th had two three-point tries to tie the game but could not connect.

Schultz had 19 points to lead the 16th in scoring. Mark Stevens added 17 points in the loss. Keeton and Wells tossed in 14 points each.

Besides Hopkins' 22, Hood finished with 14 points and Bailey added 12. Smith and Slone each bucketed 10 points.

LUCKLESS IN ASHLAND

In the second game played at Summit High School in Ashland, the 16th Region set a new classic record by defeating the 15th, 155-129, in a high scoring affair. It was far from being a defensive gem. The old record was 133 points scored last year.

Tracy Bush tossed in 30 points, Mike Helton added 28 and Steve Schultz canned 24 in the second game rout.

The 15th All-Stars held a 16-14

lead early in the first half until the 16th went on an 11-0 run to claim a 27-16 advantage. The 16th full court pressure bothered the 15th and caused them to make several early half turnovers. Bailey got into early foul trouble for the 15th picking up his fourth personal with 12:00 to go in the half.

The 16th held a big 74-55 lead at the half.

Schultz hit two baskets and Wells scored two points as the lead went to 80-55. The closest the 15th could come in the game was when, with 14:00 remaining and trailing 83-63, the 15th put together a 9-0 run to close within 11, 83-72.

In that run Bailey missed two stiff shots that would have closed the lead to seven. The 16th opened the lead back up to 20 points.

Bailey led all 15th Region scorers with 20 points. Brian Wilson of Pikeville added 17. Barry Hopkins finished with 14 while Bobby Hood and Rick Conley each scored 12 points.

"I figured the games would be in the high 100s," said Betsy Layne's Sam Stewart.

"It was a privilege to play in such a game," said Allen Central's Rick Smith. "These are a bunch of good guys and we just clicked together."

"I loved it," Prestonsburg's Chris Slone remarked. "They just let us go and play our game. The press gave us some problems though."

"I consider it an honor to be chosen to play in this classic," said McDowell's Keith Shelton. "I was thinking last year that Dickie Joe (Shannon) and Henry (Webb) got to play in the all-star game. So I set a goal to be able to play this year and represent the McDowell team. I looked high on those two players and didn't want to let the school down."

"This is the first one I've worked," said Perry Jones, honorary manager. "I have really enjoyed it. It was just good to be here."

"The full court press hurt us in the classic," said McDowell coach Johnny Ray Turner, who was an assistant coach. "We didn't work on the press in practice and it hurt us."

"We've had a great week. The kids have enjoyed it."

—Coach Monroe Jones

"We've had a great week," assistant coach Monroe Jones, head coach at Wheelwright, said. "The kids have enjoyed it."

"We just wanted to let them play," said coach Gordon Parido. "We wanted them to have a good time. The kids took a lot of pride in the game and when it got down to the final minutes, the kids were hollering 'hold the ball.' I thought 'hey, they want to win this game', and I am just sitting there relaxed."

Brother and sister perform well in Mountain Classic

It is not unusual to see a girl who looks up to her brother in one thing or another. So it is with Jedon Hood, girl basketball player at Wheelwright High School. Her brother, Bobby, plays for the boys team at the same school.

Both players took part in the Kentucky Mountain Shootout All-Star Classic this past weekend in Prestonsburg and Ashland as they played for the 15th Region All-Stars in a two-game series against the 16th Region All-Stars.

Jedon took some time to reflect on her brother and basketball playing after the first game of the All-Star classic.

"I look up to my brother Bobby," she said. "He has taught me how to play basketball and I want only the best for him. I am very proud of him and I'm happy for him."

Jedon talks of the times they played basketball against one another in a friendly outside game while growing up.

"Many times we played against each other," she recalled. "That's where I learned to play, playing against him."

Jedon doesn't like to discuss her own accomplishments, and they are many. Rather, she prefers to talk about what Bobby has done.

Bobby scored 14 points in the opening game of the Classic, proving he is a bona fide player. He did not make the original team, but came on as a replacement of Jody Thompson, who chose not to play in the All-Star games. According to Prestonsburg coach Gordon Parido, "Bobby was the next player on the list in voting." Parido added he was pleased to have him on the team.

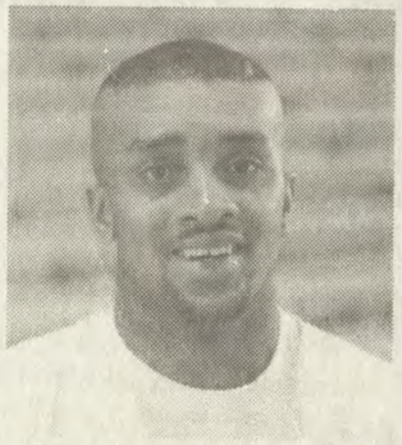

Hood showed his versatility by hitting the three-pointers, as well as in driving to the basket. He was quick on defense and was credited with making several steals. In game two, Hood tossed in 12 points in a good outing.

Jedon was the leading scorer for the Lady Trojans basketball team this past year and led the 15th Region All-

Star girls in scoring in the second game at Ashland. The slender center used her unusual shot to can 19 points in the second game. She tossed in only six points in game one, but was a big influence on the boards.

Both brother and sister have a right to be proud of each other.

Double Victory — (Continued from B 1)

"We operated good together tonight," she explained, "and I felt we played well considering we haven't really practiced that long together."

Hamilton says that she is interested in Campbellsville, Alice Lloyd and Morehead State as her choices of colleges.

"We played a very unselfish game," said Elkhorn City's standout player, Kari Ann Belcher. "It was good experience for all of us to be able to play in the all-star games. As a team at Elkhorn City we have played together for a long time, and we came together as a team."

Belcher said that she was surprised that the team won so big over the 16th in the first game. The Lady Cougar will be looking to attend Morehead State or Pikeville this fall.

"We just wanted it bad," said leading scorer Jo Ann Conn. "It was just great to be able to play in the classic. We have some great players and we played unselfish basketball."

Conn said she thought that she would probably be nervous and she was. Conn is being courted by Alice Lloyd and Pikeville colleges.

Jedon Hood, who led the team in scoring in the second game with 19 points, wanted to talk about her brother Bobby, who plays for the boys all-stars, more than her accomplishments.

"I'm proud of him," she said smiling. "I just love playing this game, and Bobby taught me all that I know. Everybody on this team is good and once they got the ball they knew what to do with it."

Hood said that she wasn't satisfied with the way she played and that she could have done better. Hood is interested in attending Kentucky State.

"This was a very talented group of girls," said Coach Clay. "We ran the fast break like we wanted to. I told them to go out and do the thing that got them there and they did. We played good team ball. We were a very unselfish team and I believe that was the difference in the game."

FISHIN' TIPS FROM THE TRACKER® PROS

Rhonda Wilson

Getting ready for a new fishing season? The rods and reels, lines and lures are all in order. Here's a few items every tackle box should contain.

First, don't go fishing without a pair of needle nose pliers. You won't believe how many times a day they're used.

Next, a set of finger nail clippers for clipping monofilament. Wear them on a lanyard around your neck. Saves the teeth.

A small first aid kit with band-aids, antiseptic, snake bite kit, etc., just in case.

A filet knife comes in handy too. Hopefully you will get lucky enough to need it. It's a good time to sharpen all your knives.

Fishin' Tips are presented by America's #1 fishin' boat.

GAME FARM AUCTION, MAY 7

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources will hold its annual auction of confiscated and surplus equipment on Monday, May 7, at the Game Farm, Frankfort.

Registration begins at 8 a.m. on the day of the sale. Bidding is slated to start at 9 a.m. All bidders must register, and payment must be made on the day of the sale. The only acceptable forms of payment are cash, cashiers check, travelers checks and personal checks accompanied by a letter of credit from your bank.

Auction items may be viewed only on the day of the sale. Only Kentucky residents are allowed to buy confiscated items; however, surplus materials may be purchased by any registered bidder.

The sale will be conducted by the Department of Finance. The Game Farm is located four miles west of Frankfort on US 60.

EARTH DAY 1990, GET INVOLVED

Collectively, humans are destroying the place we live — EARTH.

We've cut and burned vast virgin forests, robbed the soil of nutrients and ripped fossil fuels from the land, leaving scarred, unreclaimed wastelands to erode. We've dumped toxic wastes and continue to place an ever-increasing volume of garbage in unsafe landfills.

Sunday, April 22, marks the 20th anniversary of Earth Day, an international event to not only raise public awareness of environmental issues, but lead to positive actions that will make our world a safer, cleaner place to live.

Following Earth Day 1970, this nation passed significant legislation resulting in cleaner air and water, protection of endangered species, and creation of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). But our problems aren't solved — not by a long shot.

Did you know — it takes more than 500,000 trees to make the newspapers Americans read in one Sunday? — 18 billion diapers Americans throw away each year (clogging landfills) could, laid end-to-end, make seven round trips to the moon? — even though EPA banned the use of chemicals containing PCBs in 1976, PCBs continue to contaminate our environment?

Find out what you can do in your community, and get involved. (To find out more about recycling, call the Environment Defense Fund at this toll-free number, 1-800-225-5333.)

RECREATION AREAS OPEN

All developed public recreation areas on the Daniel Boone National Forest were to be open by Friday, April 13.

Some of the areas charge a user fee, but many are free.

For more information, contact Forest Supervisor, Daniel Boone National Forest, 100 Vaught Rd., Winchester 40391.

Reelfoot National Wildlife Refuge, whose northern portion extends into Fulton County, is open for fishing and wildlife observation during daylight hours.

Spring provides excellent opportunities to see blue-winged teal, shovellers and wood ducks, in addition to great blue herons, egrets, shorebirds and songbirds.

WALLEYE WAITING TO BE CAUGHT

"Kentucky's rapidly developing walleye population offers anglers an incredible, though often overlooked, fishing opportunity," according to an article in the May-June 1990 issue of Happy Hunting Ground magazine, official publication of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

Writer Russ Kennedy tells not only where to find walleye, but offers anglers various fishing tips that work, including one laid back method called "Ol' Sorry Jiggin'."

If you would like to subscribe to this bimonthly magazine, simply send a $5 check or money order (for six issues), along with your name and address to Happy Hunting Ground, Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Division of Public Relations, #1 Game Farm Rd., Frankfort 40601.

Carrying lunch was worth the effort

by Barbara P. Martin

It was always the job of the women to keep their houses as neat and clean as possible and care for their children tenderly.

They watched the animals on the place and ran cows, hogs, sheep or whatever escaped from their pens, out of their gardens before they crops were destroyed. Those with older children were lucky as they could help with these outside chores.

The whole family helped to raise their needs. Their barns were running over with livestock, and large families tended huge fields far away. They traveled in a wagon pulled by a team of mules or horses, which would take their place in the field, pulling the farm equipment needed to cultivate or harvest the crop. Along with them they took water and food enough to do them for the day.

Do you think they took a bologna sandwich to the field to eat at lunchtime? No, indeed! They carried a bushel basket or more of containers that held many good treats, prepared by the mother of the household. Nutrition of the family was her major goal. Baked goods such as cornbread or biscuits could be enjoyed with huge amounts of beans, cooked to a turn, slices of home cured ham, sweet potatoes, potato salad or baked potatoes, and sometimes both cake and pie.

Once I helped a cousin take dinner way back up on the hill, under the rocks, where they had dug in a new ground. We had to take extra so that we could feast with them.

The four or five family members were looking for us while a long distance away. They began calling to us as to how glad they were to see us coming. That delivery of lunch could be late or completely forgotten was the fear of the new ground crew. In cases like that they would have to waste worktime going home to eat.

A worker who was resting came to help us the last part of the way. It had been a long climb, almost up a vertical incline. They took the coveted load, spread it out on a huge rock that measured about 15' x 20' and was flat on top as a table.

Talk about a feast — we had it! When the lid was off the long, round aluminum dinner pail I carried, there was a pan of hot green beans, which lifted out to reveal a huge amount of chicken and dumplings. Cole slaw, sliced green onions and tomatoes and hot cornbread, with apple pie for dessert, were also included.

The cook had added a sandwich of blackberry jelly for my dessert, as she knew that was what I liked. It had good, white, home-churned butter slices on it.

It is amazing how much those experienced housewives could pack into a space. Eaten out in the woods like that, it was a feast few people will ever experience. My aunt could have worked for a modern day restaurant or jelly company, so good were her kitchen products.

Returning home we did not have to be in such a hurry, and the workers kept the utensils to bring home at supper time. Another big meal would be waiting for them then.

On our return trip home, we swung on grape vines, hunted small woods animals (snails, terrapins, etc.) and rested along in the cool shades, enjoying the beauty of the outdoors. Our next chore would be to wash the supper dishes, dry and put them away.

My aunt used every utensil in the kitchen when she prepared her banquet-sized meals three times a day. The dishes in the sink would be stacked three feet high with more on the stove and tables. They did not have running water, but my uncle had set up a pitcher pump for her, which brought water from the well without her having to leave the kitchen. Many kettles of water had to be heated to wash and scald each item being washed.

Auxier Homemakers

The Auxier Homemakers met Monday, April 2, at the home of Jeanie Wells. The meeting was presided over by vice president Wells, and the devotional was given by Debbie Porter. The minutes were read by Sue Wells and the roll call was answered by each member stating her favorite hobby or activity.

Frances Pitts told of upcoming homemakers events and also presented the lesson entitled "New Kitchen Gadgets." Officers for the upcoming year were elected as follows: Jeanie Wells, president; Helen Music, vice president; Sue Wells, secretary-treasurer; Debbie Porter, devotional; Henrietta Orsborn, telephone.

Refreshments were served by Jeanie Wells to Orsborn, Porter, Eula Ferguson, Sue Wells and Pitts. The next meeting will be Monday, May 7 at the home of Sue Wells.

Historic mansion opened for Hillbilly Days

by Dan Lyons
Feature Contributor

A new attraction will be open to the public for this year's Hillbilly Days in Pikeville. The Augusta Dills York mansion (known also as the Creekmore mansion), overlooking city hall and the Boulevard, will be open for guided tours.

Recent books and historical research by June Johnson, educator and owner of the property, reveals a superbly rich history of the Dills family. She is interesting in one day converting the house into a museum. At present, she operates Creekmore Counseling Services in a portion of the large house.

Since the turn of the century and the crumbling of a once-mighty family dynasty, Pike County people have imagined all types of things about the old house. The most common observation is that it's haunted.

"I just want to pull back the wraps that have shrouded this place for 54 years," said Johnson. "I'm sure the historical links will be of the highest interest to the people who visit this weekend."

In her historical inquiries, Johnson found family ties to the beginning of this country, with connections to political figures and intrigues.

Historians readily recognize the names of Aaron Burr, George Washington and maybe even Prince Blennerhassett.

Burr was a renegade politician and clearly a scoundrel because of his infamous duel with Alexander Hamilton. Removed as vice president, he went west and convinced Prince Blennerhassett, who had fled Ireland after marrying his niece, to finance his effort to conquer the West, particularly California and Mexico.

Burr is said to have been something of a con man who eventually got Blennerhassett tried, along with him, for treason. The government seized a vast amount of property on the famous Blennerhassett Island near Parkersburg, W. Va., and Marietta, Ohio.

"This island housed a cocoon of upper crust European lifestyle," Johnson said. "Blennerhassett made the best peach wine around, and he had hothouses on the island with his regal mansion that provided lemons and several other non-native fruits."

A militiaman who was sent with a small band to arrest Blennerhassett found the island abandoned. That militia officer was a good friend of Blennerhassett and was glad not to have to arrest him personally.

Later, as the government disposed of a lot of the wealth on that island, the friendly soldier, John Dils, bought up much of the property, including Ranson, the Blennerhassett family's royal tutor.

John Dils II, having been tutored by the best, was ready, willing and able to become successful. He visited relatives in the Pike County area and found he liked it.

Soon he and some noted business partners were flourishing as makers of peach wine from the peach orchards of what was then known as Piketon, Ky. No doubt, Blennerhassett's recipe was employed.

John Dils II grew increasingly wealthy as operator of a riverboat business.

Following the Civil War, a simple economic turn began to weaken the family's vast wealth as the railroad supplanted the riverboat.

A key defeat to the river business was when Dils and other East Kentucky lobbyists were never able to convince Frankfort officials to install locks and dams on the Big Sandy River.

Still, the family fortune was well intact, and Dils' daughter, Augusta, received a first class education as had her father. On one occasion at a ritzy school in New Jersey, she met Lady Astor of the English royal family.

At age 63, Augusta envisioned a house that was ultimately built at the present site. It took years of meticulous attention to details.

That house became known as the Augusta Dills York mansion, and when she was having it built, she had already spent many years with her beloved husband, a man who had been a riverboat gambler, but who had "straightened up" at her request.

Instead of gambling, to win her love he became an attorney and later Pike County Judge.

The next generation really was responsible for the current mystery surrounding the house. And that is only because of an unfortunate set of circumstances.

Daughter Tot Ruth and Tom Creekmore lived a normal life in the huge house until their 18-month-old daughter suffered a bad fever. The fever left her in a state of mental retardation.

Creekmore was a successful city official in Pikeville, but when the stroke of fate came to their home, the family drew inward and did not walk openly in the community again.

"Back then mental retardation was not something people openly discussed," Johnson said. "They were extremely ashamed about it."

Another factor was that Creekmore didn't prefer life in Eastern Kentucky, always envisioning himself to be a stockbroker like his brother in the Bluegrass. Tot Ruth would never leave her home, so Creekmore slipped into a lifestyle of drinking and gambling that greatly eroded the Dills' fortune that had been bequeathed to Tot Ruth York.

Johnson's children are descendants of John Dils.

"The history of this place is about as rich as you could ever imagine," said Johnson. The house has been placed on the Kentucky Heritage Council's historical site listing. It is also recognized as a US landmark.

"I dream of it becoming a major tourist attraction, as I feel it deserves to be," Johnson said.

The mansion will be open all three days of the Pike County Hillbilly Days from 10 a.m. until 7 p.m. Complete house tours are $4.50 for adults and $2.50 for children.

AUGUSTA DILLS YORK MANSION

60th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson Laferty of Prestonsburg were surprised with a 60th wedding anniversary celebration at their home on Saturday, March 24. They enjoyed a meal provided by their family and received several gifts, cards and phone calls from friends and relatives.

Those in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Laferty of Sidney; Mr. and Mrs. James L. Laferty, Leah and Chaddi, of Prestonsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Laferty, Rachel and Justin, of Canton, Mich.; Dr. and Mrs. Dennis Halbert, Jason and Joseph, of Pikeville; Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Chaffins, Aimee, Joel and Anna of Pippa Passes; Mr. and Mrs. Mike Taylor of Carey, N.C.; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Harrington, Mrs. Danny Harrington and children, Judy Arrowood, Arlene Grayson and Dimple Henry, all of Chillicothe, Ohio; and Mary Daniel of Drift.

Wheels For Life sponsors needed

Riders for the Saturday, April 21, St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Wheels for Life Bike-A-Thon to be held at Minnie, are asking area citizens to pledge a contribution for each mile they ride.

"Every Mile they ride will bring the ones who care closer to a cure for cancer. The life saving study of childhood cancer at St. Jude has become critical to children all over the world," said Bike-A-Thon coordinator Jerri

Turner and the members of the Drift Woman's Club. "Let us show we care. Help this cause. Your generous pledge helps encourage riders. After the event, help them get the money to us quickly."

The Old Beaver Association grounds is where this event will take place from noon until 4 p.m.

"If you haven't been asked to sponsor a rider, but are interested, call 377-6287 and a rider will contact you," Turner said. Anyone desiring to just make a flat contribution may send it to Jerri Turner, treasurer, Drift Woman's Club, Box 511, McDowell, KY 41647.

The riders will each possess a card which will be stamped at the end of each lap by the person at the check point. This card establishes the number of laps completed and therefore the amount to be collected per pledge. Riders can still get sponsor/registration forms at Park Place in Minnie.

County Kettle

Eggs are one of the most versatile foods around. Unleash your imagination and create an egg recipe that's better than any other in the state. What's the incentive? You could win the $200 top prize in the 1990 Kentucky Egg Cooking Contest.

To enter, send your original, main dish egg recipe to 1990 Kentucky Egg Cooking Contest, E.S. Good Barn, University of Kentucky, Lexington, 40546-0097 by June 15.

Your entry must contain at least one whole egg per serving. Be sure to include your name, address, phone number and the division in which you are entering — adult or junior/senior high school student. You must be a state resident. Food professionals are not eligible.

Your recipe will be judged equally on creativity, ease of preparation, taste, appearance and nutritional quality. If you're a finalist, you'll be notified by July 30. Then, you'll compete in the state cook-off on Aug. 23 at the Kentucky State Fair. Prizes are $200 for first place, $100 for second and $50 for third in each division.

Kentucky's blue-ribbon winners will be entered in the American Egg Board's 1990 National Egg Cooking Contest. The top national prize is $4000.

Frances Kovar, of Staten Island, N.Y., won the adult-division for this innovative egg dish. It scores high in ease of preparation — you fill and bake the omelet in one pan, then simply roll and cut to serve. With an elegant appearance and tasty flavor combination, it's easy to see why this dish came out on top.

BRUNCH ROLLED OMELET

4 servings
Non-stick cooking spray
4 eggs
1 cup low-fat milk
1/2 cup flour
2 Tbsps butter, melted
1/2 tsp salt
1/2 cup sliced green onions with tops
2 ozs. prosciutto or ham, thinly sliced and cut into strips
1/2 cup shredded carrots
1/4 cup chopped pine nuts, optional
1 cup (4 ozs.) shredded Monterey Jack cheese
2 Tbsps diced green chilies

Line bottom and sides of 15-1/2 x 10-1/2 x 1 inch jelly roll pan with aluminum foil. Generously spray bottom and sides of foil with cooking spray. Set aside.

Beat together eggs, milk, flour, butter and salt until well blended. Pour into prepared pan. Sprinkle with onions and prosciutto. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven until eggs are set and lightly browned, about 18 minutes. Immediately sprinkle with carrots, nuts, if desired, cheese and chilies. Starting for short edge, roll up, using foil to lift and roll omelet. To serve, cut omelet into 1-1/4 inch slices.

PER SERVING: 365 calories, 20 gm. protein; 23 gm. fat; 18 gm. carbohydrate.

Take a dash of "south-of-the-border," throw in a pinch of Italian flair, and you have the dish that made Janell Yanik, of Spencerport, N.Y., the junior-division $4000 victor. This quick-cooking, fun-to-eat entree is likely to become a favorite.

SAVORY EGGS ON TORTILLAS

4 servings
4 (7-inch) flour tortillas
2 Tbsps butter
1 cup sliced leek or sliced green onions with tops
1/2 cup (2 ozs.) chopped pepperoni
6 eggs
1/3 cup low-fat milk
2 Tbsps grated Parmesan cheese
Salsa
Additional grated Parmesan cheese, optional

Warm tortilla according to package directions.

Meanwhile, in large skillet over medium heat, cook leek and pepperoni in butter until leek is tender but not brown. Beat together eggs, milk and 2 Tbsp cheese until well blended. Pour into skillet over leek. As mixture begins to set, gently draw an inverted pancake turner completely across bottom and sides of pan, forming large soft curds. Continue until eggs are thickened but still moist. Do not stir constantly.

For each serving, top one warm tortilla with 1/4 of the cooked eggs. Top with salsa. Sprinkle with additional cheese, if desired.

PER SERVING: 340 calories; 16 gm. protein; 23 gm. fat; 18 gm. carbohydrate.

Linda Baker, of Clear Spring, Md., suggests serving "Very Important Pizza" in larger slices as a main dish, or smaller slices for a party-time appetizer. This cool, crunchy and colorful recipe earned her $1000 — the adult-division third prize.

V.I. PIZZA

4-5 main-dish servings
1 package (8 ozs.) refrigerated crescent rolls
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 carton (8 ozs.) refrigerated French onion dip
1/2 cup chopped fresh broccoli
1/2 cup chopped fresh cauliflower
1/2 cup chopped tomatoes
1/4 cup sliced green onions with tops
1/4 cup sliced ripe olives
4 hard-cooked eggs*, chopped
1/2 cup (2 ozs.) shredded mozzarella cheese
1/2 cup (2 ozs.) shredded sharp Cheddar cheese

Separate roll dough into triangles. Place on greased 12-inch pizza pan in circle. To form crust, firmly press perforations together to seal and pat into shape. Brush with beaten egg. Bake in preheated 375 degree oven until golden brown, about 8 to 10 minutes. Cool.

Spread dip onto cool crust. Sprinkle broccoli, cauliflower, tomatoes, green onions, olives and eggs over dip on crust. Top with cheeses. Cut into wedges to serve.

PER SERVING: 407 calories; 16 gm. protein; 28 gm. fat; 24 gm. carbohydrate

*To hard cook, place eggs in single layer in saucepan. Add enough tap water to come to at least 1 inch above eggs. Cover and quickly bring just to boiling. Turn off heat. If necessary, remove pan from burner to prevent further boiling. Let eggs stand, covered, in the hot water 15-17 minutes for large eggs. (Adjust time up or down by about 3 minutes for each size larger or smaller.)

Immediately run cold water over eggs or put them in ice water until completely cooled. To remove shell, crackle it by tapping gently all over. roll egg between hands to loosen shell, then peel, starting at large end. Hold egg under running cold water or dip in bowl of water to help ease off shell.

EASY CHEESE EGGS A LA KING

4 servings
2 Tbsps butter
1/4 cup chopped celery
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1/2 cup sliced green onions with tops
1 can (10 3/4 ozs.) condensed cream of celery soup
1 cup (4 ozs.) shredded American cheese
1/2 cup low-fat milk
6 hard-cooked eggs*, sliced
1 jar (2 ozs.) sliced pimentos, drained
4 English muffins, halved and toasted

In large saucepan over medium heat, cook celery, green pepper and onions in butter until tender but not brown. Stir in soup, cheese and milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until cheese melts. Gently stir in eggs and pimentos.

Continue cooking over low heat, stirring constantly, until warmed through. To serve, spoon over English muffin halves.

PER SERVING: 477 calories; 22 gm. protein; 27 gm. fat; 36 gm. carbohydrate.

Pasta is quite popular these days, and Shirley Zwegardt of St. Francis, Kansas, used it to her advantage to win the adult-division second prize of $2000. "Angel hair" noodles form the crust for a longtime-favorite quiche filling.

QUICHE LORRAINE IN A NOODLE SHELL

6 servings
4 ozs. fine noodles, cooked and drained
8 slices bacon, crisp-cooked, drained and crumbled
1/4 cup (3 ozs.) shredded Swiss cheese
6 eggs
1 cup low-fat milk
1/4 grated Parmesan cheese
1 Tbsp lemon juice
1 tsp onion salt
3/4 tsp basil leaves, crushed
1/4 tsp pepper

Line well-greased 9-inch pie plate with warm noodles. Sprinkle bacon and Swiss cheese over noodles. Set aside.

Beat together remaining ingredients until well blended. Pour over bacon and cheese. Bake in preheated 375 degree oven until knife inserted near center comes out clean, about 30 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes before serving.

PER SERVING: 287 calories; 18 gm. protein; 16 gm. fat; 17 gm. carbohydrate.

LESLIE BAPTIZED

David Banner Leslie IV, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Banner Leslie III of Prestonsburg, was christened Sunday, March 25, at the First United Methodist Church in Prestonsburg. Officiating at the ceremony was The Rev. Quentin Scholtz, church pastor, who was assisted by Cindy Arnett.

The child was born Dec. 26 at Central Baptist Hospital in Lexington. His grandparents are Blanche Justice of Prestonsburg, Donald Edward McNeely and Mary Pierce McNeely of Decatur, Ala., and Beatrice Sturgill Leslie and the late David Banner Leslie Jr. of Prestonsburg.

Among those attending the ceremony were Justice, Mr. and Mrs. McNeely, Gladys Allen, Beverly Goble, Amelia Conley, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Haywood and Mr. and Mrs. Chalmer Frazier, all of Prestonsburg. These family members and friends were present at the altar with the immediate family during the baptism.

As part of the service, the child's father offered a musical selection in honor of the baptism of his son, playing a piano arrangement of "Jesus Never Forgets."

The infant wore a traditional christening gown presented to him by his grandparents and was wrapped in a lace-trimmed shawl, a gift of his great aunts, Cleo Lepler and Wanda McNeely, both of Columbus, Ohio, who could not attend this event.

Placed on the altar was a small Bible, presented by the child's grandmother, along with flowers from his church family.

Following the ceremony, the Leslies held an open house. Assisting in serving refreshments was Beverly Goble. Amelia Conley presided at the guest register. Friends and family visited throughout the day.

WINGHAMS, SETSERS IN TOWN FOR EASTER

Mrs. Ed Wingham and son Matthew Thomas of Tipp City, Ohio, spent several days here during the Easter vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas LeMaster, her grandmother, Florence Reynolds, and other relatives.

Also spending some time with the LeMasters were another daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Setser of Millville, N.J. While here they also visited with Mrs. Reynolds, and with his family, Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Newberry of Auxier.

P'BURG DAY HOMEMAKERS MEET

The Prestonsburg Day Homemakers met Tuesday, April 10 at 1 p.m. in the parlor of the First United Methodist Church with Dorothy Stover, president, in charge of the meeting. Shirley Callihan gave the secretary-treasurer's reports and the roll call.

Fannie Runnels presented the devotionals. She gave a reading titled "The Power of Words," by members of the Butler County Homemakers' Clubs, read a poem about Easter, by Helen Steiner Rice, and led the group in the Lord's Prayer.

It was decided that officers for the year 1989-90 would remain in their same capacities for the club year, 1990-91.

The announcement was made that $25 had been donated by this club to each of the following: The First United Methodist Church; Hospice of the Big Sandy and the Floyd County Rescue Squad.

Frances Pitts, Floyd County Home Economist, called the attention of members to various workshops, and other activities to be found in their homemakers' bulletins.

It was announced that Beverly Hackworth, vice president, had recently undergone surgery, and that Billy Herald, husband of member Josephine Herald, had been ill, and concern for them was expressed.

Peg Hewlett and Maman Leslie were asked to attend the lesson on "Bugs and Varmints," to be given at the Kentucky Power Company on April 30 at 10 a.m.

The lesson on "New Kitchen Gadgets" was presented by Pitts.

Hostesses for this event were Roberta Sloan, Jane Wallace and Otela Smiley. They served refreshments to Pitts, Stover, Runnels, Callihan, Myrtle Allen, Mildred Branham, Leslie, Hewlett, Alice Harris, Mable Donahoe, Anna Belle Harris, Mary Sue Moore, Ann Alley, Ruby Lamping, Judy Kittle, Phyllis Stanley, Eleanor Horn, Phyllis Herrick, Mabel Donahoe.

The next meeting will be in the fellowship hall at this same location, Tuesday, May 8 at 1 p.m. with Docia Woods, Lamping and Rose Glenn as hostesses.

LITTLES TRAVEL AND VISIT

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Little from Patrick Air Force Base in Florida were houseguests of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J.G. Stepp, and her brother John this past week.

En route here, they spent some time with his grandmother in Chattanooga. While in Prestonsburg, they visited with other members of the family and friends. From here, they went to Philadelphia, Pa., to visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Doug Little, and family and have traveled on to New York City for a visit with one of their friends.

GLENN BIRTH ANNOUNCED

A rose on the altar of the First United Methodist Church during services there on Sunday, April 8, announced the birth of Mackenzie Lee Glenn at Pikeville Methodist Hospital on March 30. She is the daughter of Eddie and Sharlene Glenn, and the granddaughter of Rose and Bud Glenn of Prestonsburg.

ALLEN HOMEMAKERS HOLD MONTHLY MEETING

The Allen Homemakers met at the Allen First Baptist Church at 1 p.m. Thursday, April 12. The meeting was called to order by the president Bonita Porter. Sylvia Heintzelman gave the devotional, the theme of which was "Easter."

Frances Pitts made several announcements of county, regional and state homemakers' meetings. The following officers were elected for the coming year: Bonita Porter, president; Pearl Watts, vice president; Sarah Laven, secretary-treasurer; Sylvia Heintzelman, devotional chairperson; and Goldia Williams, telephone committee.

Attending were Porter, Goldia Williams, Opal Martin, Elinor Martin, Mildred Hall, Pitts, Laven, Elizabeth Bailey, Heintzelman and Pat DeRossett.

ADAH CHAPTER HOLDS REGULAR MEETING

Adah Chapter #24, Order of the Eastern Star, held the regular meeting on Monday, April 9 at 7 p.m. The business session was conducted by the worthy matron Mollie Hyden.

Present for this event were Hyden, Meg and Manis Gray, Shelby and Donald Willis, Tonya and Paul Marsillett, Belle Conn, Paulina Owens, Lorena Wallen, Janie Hicks, Thelma and Ronald Hebner, Burieta Gearhart, Patsy Evans, Maxine Bierman, Jewell Bays, Cathy and Williams Adams and Billie Murdock.

The next regular meeting will be Monday, April 23 at 7 p.m. at the lodge hall. The worthy matron urges all officers and others members to attend.

LAST NIGHT FOR REVIVAL

Revival services are in progress at the First Baptist Church of Prestonsburg and will continue through Wednesday, April 18. The guest minister is Orville Griffin and bringing special music is Karina L. Gross. The church's host pastor, the Rev. Steve Hopkins, and host musician, Tom Foy, as well as members there, extend to members of other churches, and to the public, an invitation to attend the last evening's service tonight beginning at 7.

RANIER HAS EASTER VISITORS

Phyllis Ranier had with her during the Easter holidays, her granddaughter, Mrs. Jesus Colmenares and her husband, and their three children, Joshua, Alexandra and Victoria, of Lexington. Following services on Easter Sunday at the First United Methodist Church, Ranier and her guests were joined for lunch at her home by her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Haywood, and a cousin, Betty Hale.

NOTICE OF AVAILABILITY OF UNCOMPENSATED (CHARITY) CARE

Highlands Regional Medical Center is required by law to give a reasonable amount of its services without (or at a reduced) charge to eligible persons who cannot afford to pay for care. Eligibility is based on poverty level income as established by the Federal Community Services Administration. This care will be provided for all MEDICALLY JUSTIFIED SERVICES except OUTPATIENT PHARMACY.

Highlands Regional Medical Center of Prestonsburg, Kentucky will make available from July 1, 1989 to June 30, 1990 $286,004.00 of Hill-Burton Charity Care. Charity care will be available on the first request basis to eligible persons needing care who are unable to pay for hospital services until the facility's annual compliance level is met. Eligibility for charity care will be limited to persons whose family income is no more than the current poverty income guidelines established by Community Services Administration (see guidelines below). This notice is published in accordance with 42 C.F.R. 124.504, notice of availability of uncompensated services.

To be eligible to receive charity care, your annual family income must be at or below the following levels: (D.S.A. guidelines, published February 16, 1990).

SIZE OF FAMILY	NO CHARGE	REDUCED CHARGE
1	$5,980.00	$11,960.00
2	8,020.00	16,040.00
3	10,060.00	20,120.00
4	12,100.00	24,200.00
5	14,140.00	28,280.00
6	16,180.00	32,360.00
7	18,220.00	36,440.00
8	20,260.00	40,520.00

For family units with more than 8 members, add $2040.00 for each additional member. This scale is in effect until further notice.

As a condition for providing charity care, this facility requires that applicants make a reasonable effort to obtain assistance for payment of their hospital bill from the various government programs that provide such assistance (e.g. MEDICARE, MEDICAID DISABILITY, PUBLIC ASSISTANCE SPEND-DOWN OR REHABILITATION). And, the charity applicant is required to furnish written documentation to this facility, indicating that application to the appropriate agency was made and, that application is (1) pending (2) approved or (3) denied.

If you think you may be eligible for uncompensated (charity) services, you may request an application from the Financial Counselor, located in the Credit & Collections Department of the Medical Center, or, after 4:30 p.m. and on weekends and holidays, applications can be obtained at the emergency room admissions area. This facility will make a written determination of whether you will receive uncompensated services within two (2) working days of the receipt of your request. If you have any questions concerning your eligibility, you may call (606) 886-8511 and ask for the Financial Counselor at Extension 511, or you may inquire at the Credit & Collections Department, Extension 513.

KENDRICKS HOST FAMILY REUNION

Attorney and Mrs. William S. Kendrick honored Mr. and Mrs. Dave Little of Florida, who are houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. J.G. Stepp of Prestonsburg, with a dinner at their home one day this past week. Attending this family reunion were the guests of honor and Mr. and Mrs. Little; Lucy Spears and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Spears and daughters, Misty and Machea, all of Pikeville; Mr. and Mrs. James B. Goble, Mae Kendrick, Opal May, Norma Stepp, and Leslie, Eliza and Lida Kendrick, all of Prestonsburg.

CORRECTION, OMISSION

The name of Ruby Lamping was unintentionally omitted from the list of members of the choir who participated in the presentation of the Easter Cantata at the First Baptist Church on Palm Sunday.

It was Mrs. Jody Spradlin, rather than Mr. Jody Spradlin, listed in last week's paper, who has been recovering from a recent illness.

KIWANIANNES REMINDER

Members of the Prestonsburg Kiwanians will hold their next luncheon-meeting Thursday, April 26 at 12:30 p.m. at the May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Resort Park. Jane Wallace, program chairperson, promises an interesting program presentation. Hope Whitten, president, urges all members to attend.

LOCAL CHURCH WOMEN TO MEET FRIDAY

Otela Smiley, president of the Local Church Women, announces that the next meeting of this group will be Friday, April 20 at 10:30 a.m. at the First United Methodist Church and she urges women throughout the area to attend.

LAMPLIGHTERS LEARN ABOUT ELDER ABUSE

The Lamplighters met in the fellowship hall of the First Baptist Church, Tuesday, April 10 at 3:45 p.m. with Patsy Evans in charge.

Evans introduced Billie Goble, Social Services director from the Highlands Regional Medical Center, who spoke on "elder abuse." She listed as the main phases of such abuse, physical neglect, and exploitation for money. She said such abuses could be reported to 886-8192, the local Department of Human Resources and also to the state.

Goble also discussed psychological degrading of the elderly, guardianship and the power of attorney.

Questions were posed by the group regarding such matters as why some people have different tones in their voices and others raise their voices to a high pitch when speaking to older persons. And it was suggested that, since this seems to be done mostly by middle-aged persons, the psychology of the matter may well be that those talking to older persons in such a manner may be making an attempt to point out one of the differences in older people and those nearing old age themselves.

Present were Patsy and John Evans, Dixie Webb, Myrtle Allen, Vivian Fraley, Ada Meade and Ruby Lamping, members, and Billie Goble, a guest.

Due to the revival at the church no meeting was planned for Tuesday, April 17, but meetings will continue next week, and a welcome is extended for all to attend.

HOLBROOK FAMILY VISITS AREA

After visiting with his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Holbrook in Columbus, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Dale W. Greene and son Jason and daughter Jill of West Palm Beach, Fla., arrived in Prestonsburg and visited with his grandmother, Zella Greene. They also visited with other relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Greely, Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell and Mr. and Mrs. Wilard Dotson.

They left Friday, April 13, for Cincinnati, where they visited with her uncle, Ted Shannon, and a friend, Mike McAvvy. From there, they went to Columbus and spent the night with Mr. and Mrs. Don Wells and then flew back to their home Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Phillipot and family of Dayton, Ohio, were also here last week to visit with his grandmother, Zella Greene, and her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. John McTosh. Her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Griffith of Beattyville, visited with them on Wednesday. Also here was his brother Donald McIntosh of Indiana.

RETIRED TEACHERS HOLD QUARTERLY MEETING

Members of the Big Sandy Retired Teachers' Association held their quarterly luncheon-meeting Wednesday, April 11 with registration at 9:30 a.m. Imogene Salyer, president, presided, read from the 20th chapter of Saint John and led the group in prayer. Opal Preece, first vice-president, led the Pledge of Allegiance. Georgia Muncy, president-elect, welcomed the members and guests in attendance.

Preece, chairperson of the program committee, introduced a gospel group consisting of Bobby Buskirk, Jim Howard and Less Meade from Inez. This group entertained by picking and singing several songs.

The secretary-treasury reports were given by Delphia Hicks. Salyer recognized past presidents of BSRT, including Charles Spears, Lenora Gullett McClellan, Norma S. Stepp and H.C. Dutton.

Presidents of the county retired teachers' associations presented reports of progress made by their groups.

Glenn McDowell presented Robert Kelly, who gave an update on the recent Kentucky Legislative program as it pertained to retired teachers. He said that membership in the KRTA is presently 12,175; discussed insurance, with emphasis on long-term policies, supplemental insurance and Medicare, and added that, in all probability Kentucky retired teachers would receive 5 percent raises in their checks, due about Aug. 1

Charles Spears then presented Obie Clark, who discussed the long-term care insurance program, showed a video tape entitled "Be Informed," and spoke briefly to the group.

President Salyer appointed this nominating committee from these counties: Charles Sparks, Pike, chairperson; Ruby Akers, Floyd; Opal Preece, Martin; Anna Ruth Arnett, Magoffin; Russell Boyd, Johnson; and Pansy Walker, Lawrence. This committee is to report its selection of officers for 1990-91 during the group's next meeting.

Virginia Goble, a member of the Executive Council, KRTA, and Russell Boyd, president-elect of this organization, presented reports on the recent KRTA Conference, which they, and several others of the BSRT attended recently in Louisville.

The president recognized Ample Calhoun, a 95-year-old retired teacher of Pike County who regularly attends retired teacher meetings. Ann Ruth Arnett presided at the guest register. The blessing was given by H.C. Dutton before lunch.

Present, and the counties they represent, were: Pike: Muncy, McDowell, Spears, Calhoun, Requa Spears, Edith Roberts, June Elswick, Goldie Benedict, Madonna Trimble, Patty Guzelchuk, Shelby Hill, Ruby Hinkle, May H. Green, Quentin Howard, Lola Doane, Stella Mullins, Lois Halstead, Marie Tackett, Commodore Griffith and Mae Irick;

Floyd: Stepp, Hicks, Akers, Goble, Alice O. Martin, Imogene Caldwell, Alma Lowe, Docia Woods, Danese Amburgey, Ray Brackett, Opal S. May, Dixie Webb, Lois Ball, Eileen Martin, Elmer Martin, Annis Clark, Kalman Franko, Bessie Conley, Anna Sue Stumbo and Mary Lou Lavender;

Johnson: Boyd, Dutton, Lenora G. McClellan, Ellen Dutton, Lillian Armstrong and Pauline Blair;

Martin: Preece, Icle Cornette, Willa Dean Robinson, Wanda Lee Chaffins, Lutie Williams and John C. Williams; and Magoffin: Salyers, Arnett, Daisy Holiday, Flora Rudd, Peggy Arnett and Maxine Arnett.

Guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kelly of Frankfort, Obie Clark of Richmond, Mrs. Cecil Lovely of Magoffin County the three musicians from Martin County.

Stepp, liaison person for BSRT, announced that the next luncheon-meeting of this group will be at this same location in June.

To wed Saturday

Mr. and Mrs. Everett F. Conley of Block House Bottom, Hager Hill, are pleased to announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Donna Lynn Conley, to George E. Roe Jr., son of Mrs. B.J. Ousley of Prestonsburg and George E. Roe Sr. of Stratton Branch. The bride-elect is employed by the Floyd County Clerk's office in Prestonsburg and the prospective-groom is employed by East Kentucky Water of Pikeville. The gracious custom of an open ceremony will be observed at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday, April 21, at the East Point Church. A reception will be held at the church immediately following the ceremony.

First birthday

Heather Renee Dean, daughter of Caleb and Karla Stumbo Dean of McDowell, celebrated her first birthday on Sunday, March 18. The Winnie the Pooh party was held at the home of her maternal grandparents, Clark and Carolyn Stumbo of Doty Creek, McDowell. Her party guests included her cousin Leigh Ann Tuttle and several other relatives and friends.

TRACING A FAMILY HISTORY

By Sandra Robertson

"Where did I come from?" has different meanings for the child, the parent hearing the question and persons working on their genealogies. Many persons get curious about their families and want to learn more about them.

Sometimes a marriage, a new baby, retirement or the death of a family member will trigger the desire of persons to find out where they came from.

Once bitten by the genealogy bug, you may have a lifetime hobby. One branch of the family tree will lead to another one. Here are some procedures anyone can use to get started digging for roots.

The best place to start is within the family. Often an older member of the family remembers many details about his or her growing up and what life was like for them and who their relatives were. Possibly there are pictures, family Bibles or other documents. Once a good negative has been made, copies can be generated as needed. There are special lenses for 35mm cameras that allow the amateur photographer to make these copies.

When talking with an elderly family member, keep a written record of the facts which you gain from these discussions. For accuracy, these facts many need to be verified later.

A trip to family graveyards is also in order. A written record of the information on the tombstones is helpful for obtaining birth and death dates. Also some marriage and familial relationships may sometimes be found from what is written on the stones. It is also a good idea to record where family members are buried and directions to the graveyards.

As families become more scattered, the younger generation may need these directions to help them find the cemeteries in the future. If graveyards are being eroded by weather, another step to take in preserving family history is to make a map of the cemetery showing locations of the specific graves.

Next, visit libraries in your community to discover what types of genealogical materials are available. Possible records include census records, books telling where specific information is kept for each state, books telling how to write a genealogy in an organized fashion, and materials relating to the history of the area in which the library is located.

Be prepared with paper, pencil and time when you go to the library. Allow at least two hours for an initial getting acquainted with the sources and a beginning search. This type of fact-finding mission will help to verify information gained from family members and from family records.

Check with any area historical societies for information they may have. For example, there is an active historical society in Auxier. There may be information locally about your family. I am interested in knowing about other historical societies. If anyone has information about them, let me know.

After checking local sources, a trip to Frankfort is in order for serious genealogists. The Kentucky Historical Society located in the Old Capitol Annex is open to the public, as is the Kentucky Department of Libraries and Archives located on Coffeetree Road. This department is the official custodian of state documents.

When planning a trip to these places, call and inquire about their open hours and any special regulations they may have for persons using their collections. Be prepared to spend several hours in each location because the type of records housed there is generally noncirculating and has to be used on the premises.

Happy searching. Genealogy is an exciting adventure once you have started. But beware — you may find a horse thief as well as someone who came over on the Mayflower.

Crisp is 95

Birthday greetings were extended to Felix Crisp of Allen when Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo signed a proclamation declaring Monday, April 16 as Felix Crisp Day in Floyd County.

Crisp, a long time barber in Allen and member of the Regular Baptist Church, turned 95 on that day. He was born April 16, 1895.

One of the few remaining World War I veterans in the county, he served with the 112th Ammunition Battalion, 37th Division of the US Army, in France during the war. Last year, he was given special recognition by the local post of Veterans of Foreign Wars.

In his proclamation, Judge Stumbo cited Crisp's longevity, military service and his professional and community work.

OLWH has program for pregnant teens

The Womancare program at Our Lady of the Way Hospital is sponsoring a childbirth and parenting preparation program for pregnant teens and their support persons. The "I Love My Baby" program will begin on Thursday, April 26.

The program is designed for expectant teens who feel that they want to understand the physical and emotional changes during their pregnancy. The program will provide teens the opportunity to meet with other young women and men who are faced with similar experiences, decisions and fears as they face being parents at a young age.

Included in the program will be various practical experiences which may lead to a more relaxed pregnancy, labor, birth and transition into parenthood.

The childbirth preparation classes will give valuable pre-birth experiences such as learning various relaxation and breathing patterns, seeing a film of a vaginal and of caesarean birth and learning ways to recognize the signs of labor. The program will cover post delivery care including breastfeeding, bottle feeding and the general care of newborns.

Karen Potnis, certified nurse midwife at the Potnis Clinic in Martin, will be the principal childbirth instructor. Various other professionals will offer practical suggestions on coping with the responsibility of being a parent in the teen years through sessions on self-esteem, prenatal nutrition, parenting, child care, educational and professional skills for the future and the various social programs available to give assistance to parents with babies.

Classes will be held on Thursdays at Seton Complex from 4:30 - 6 p.m. The cost is $1 per class. Teens who are interested in the "I Love My Baby" program may call 255-5181, ext. 358, for more information or may come to the Health Education Office (across from the hospital) to register in person.

THE HEARTBEATS

"Heartbeats" Hillbilly Days band

The all female old-time band, the "Heartbeats", will be the featured old-time band this year at Hillbilly Days in Pikeville, April 19-21.

In addition any and all local bluegrass or acoustic or traditional bands or musicians are invited to the open stage which will begin on Thursday of Hillbilly Days and last throughout. Bands need not register ahead of time but may simply show up and play, according to Larry Webster, music coordinator for the event.

Marlow Tackett and Music Company will perform at 5 p.m. Friday. An amateur music contest will follow. Bands, solo performers, and child and adult dancers may compete for prizes by registering at the stage at around 7 p.m. In addition to prizes for the top three finishers in each category, there will be ceramic trophies, handmade by Paula Thornberry, for the winners.

Throughout the weekend the Hillbilly Square Dancers, led by Hillbilly Days stalwart, Kelter Stiltner, will dance the square dance styles that have been made famous and admitted into the Square Dancers Hall of Fame. A dance floor will be on site for anyone wishing to participate.

United Federal Savings Bank
Plaintiff
VS: NOTICE OF SALE
Amos Dotson and Darlene Dotson, his wife and Floyd County,
Ky. Defendants

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered at the March 20 term, 1990, in the above styled cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Court-house door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 20 day of April, 1990, at 10:00 o'clock a.m., same being a day of the regular term of the Floyd Circuit Court, for cash or upon payment of 10% of the purchase price in cash and the balance thereof in thirty (30) days at the rate of 12% interest per annum, the following described property, to-wit:

A certain tract or parcel of land, lying and being in Floyd County, Kentucky, on right Middle Creek, and being the same land conveyed to Amos Dotson and Darlene Dotson, his wife, by Greeley Dotson and Eliza Dotson, his wife by deed dated March 30, 1982, recorded in Deed Book 264, page 493, Floyd County Clerk's Office, and described as follows:

Beginning at an iron stake at Rough and Tough road and traveling south to Rough and Tough Creek, a distance of approximately 250 feet; thence running with said Rough and Tough Creek in a westerly direction, a distance of approximately 500 feet to Rough and Tough Road; thence running with said road in an easterly direction, a distance of approximately 400 feet, back to the point of beginning.

The purchaser shall be required to pay all real estate taxes due Floyd County, Ky.

The amount of money to be raised by this sale shall be in the principal sum of $36,287.50 with interest thereon at 15.5% annually from the 15 day of September, 1989 until satisfied and the costs of this action, including costs of advertising of this sale and the fees and commissions for conducting this sale.

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms.

Given under my hand, this 2 day of April, 1990.

Tony Crum and Sheila Crum, his wife; Ballard Crum and Maudie Crum, Ricky Crum and Floyd County, Ky. Defendants

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered at the September 22 and October 19 and November 8 terms, 1989, in the above styled cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Court-house door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 20 day of April, 1990, at 10:30 o'clock a.m., same being a day of the regular term of the Floyd Circuit Court, for cash or upon a credit of three (3) months, the following described property, to-wit:

The following three tracts located on the waters of Goose Creek, a tributary of the Right Fork of Beaver Creek in Floyd County, Kentucky, described severally as follows:

1) Being the same property conveyed to Colonial Chevrolet-Oldsmobile, Inc. by deed dated the 9th day of February, 1988, from Village Chevrolet-Oldsmobile, Inc., which is duly recorded in Deed Book 318, page 233, in the office of the Floyd County Clerk, described more particularly as follows:

Beginning at a stake located at the northwest corner of the bridge which spans Goose Creek Branch; thence running northwest with Goose Creek Branch to the Kentucky Route 80 right-of-way line at the point where a second stake is located; thence running south with said Kentucky Route 80 right-of-way line to a third stake located at the point where said Kentucky Route 80 right-of-way line intersects with Gosling Fork Road; thence running east with said Gosling Fork Road to the point of beginning.

Consisting of a triangular-shaped tract of land containing two (2) acres, more or less.

2) Being the same property conveyed to Jackie Crum, single, by deed dated the 24th day of August, 1988, from Ballard Crum and Maudie Crum, his wife, which is recorded in Deed Book 321, page 343, in the Floyd County Clerk's Office, described more particularly as follows:

Beginning at a point at the intersection of new Kentucky Highway 80 and C.E. Allen's line; thence running along C.E. Allen's line to Arnold Hall's line; thence running along Arnold Hall's line to Gosling Fork; thence running along Gosling Fork to Goose Creek; thence running along Goose Creek to Kentucky Highway 80; thence running along Kentucky Highway 80 to the beginning.

3) Being the same property conveyed to Ricky Crum, single, by deed dated the 24th day of August, 1988 from Ballard Crum and Maudie Crum, which is recorded in Deed Book 321, page 349, in the Floyd County Clerk's Office, described more particularly as follows:

Beginning at the line of Ballard and Maudie Crum with Arnold Hall's line; thence running along Arnold Hall's line in a northerly direction to Gosling Fork, thence running along Gosling Fork in a westerly direction to Goose Creek Branch; thence running along Goose Creek Branch in a southerly direction to C.E. Allen's line; thence running in an easterly direction along C.E. Allen's line to the point of beginning.

There is to be excepted from this sale and not hereby conveyed a certain tract or parcel of land, lying in Floyd County, Ky., on Goose Creek of Right Beaver Creek and being the same property conveyed Tony Crum and Sheila Crum, his wife, by deed from Ricky Crum and Susan Crum, his wife, dated February 13, 1990, recorded in Deed Book 334, page 585, Floyd County Clerk's Office, being more particularly described as follows:

Beginning at an iron stake located at the intersection of Goose Creek Branch and Gosling Fork of Goose Creek which is in the northwest corner of this lot; thence south in a straight line a distance of 150 feet to an iron stake; thence east a distance of 150 feet to an iron stake; thence north 150 feet to an iron stake marking the point of beginning.

Parties of the second part, Tony Crum and Sheila Crum, are further granted a right-of-way for ingress and egress to the property herein conveyed through the exception from this conveyance for a roadway twelve (12) feet in width. Said right-of-way shall extend from the property of Tony Crum and Sheila Crum, as conveyed herein, along the existing road to Kentucky Highway Route 80.

Being a part of the same property conveyed to Ricky Crum from Ballard Crum and Maudie Crum, his wife, by deed dated the 24th day of August, 1988, and recorded in Deed Book 321, page 349, records of the Floyd County Clerk's Office.

These tracts are to be sold first separately and then together as a whole for an amount in excess of the amount of these aggregate bids.

The purchaser or purchasers shall be required to pay ad valorem taxes due Floyd County, Ky.

The amounts of money to be raised by this sale shall be in the principal sum of $330,000.07 with interest at prime, plus 2% per annum from October 22, 1988, until satisfied, and the principal sum of $117,440.70, with interest thereon at 12.5% annually from November 14, 1988 until satisfied, and the sum of $75,000.00 with interest of prime, plus 2% per annum from October 22, 1988 until satisfied, and the sum of $39,114.50 with interest at 14.25% per annum from July 7, 1988 until satisfied, and the costs of this action, including costs of advertising of this sale and the fees and commissions for conducting this sale.

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms.

Given under my hand, this 2 day of April, 1990.

NATIONAL SCIENCE & TECHNOLOGY WEEK '90
 APRIL 22-28

A good planet is hard to find. At some point in the next century, our earth's population will have doubled. Even now we are polluting and depleting its resources at an unprecedented rate. National Science & Technology Week encourages everyone to think about the individual decisions that must be made to save our planet.
